

CHINESE-ENGLISH DICTIONARY
OF THE VERNACULAR OR SPOKEN LANGUAGE OF AMOY,

WITH THE PRINCIPAL VARIATIONS OF THE CHANG-CHEW AND CHIN-CHEW DIALECTS.

BY
REV. CARSTAIRS DOUGLAS, M.A., LL.D. Glasg., MISSIONARY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN ENGLAND.

NEW EDITION,
WITH CORRECTIONS BY THE AUTHOR.

LONDON: PUBLISHING OFFICE OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF ENGLAND, 14 PATERNOSTER SQUARE.
1899.

All rights reserved.

TO

REV. JAMES LEGGE, D.D.,

AS AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT FOR MUCH KINDNESS,

AND A TRIBUTE

TO HIS UNWEARIED LABOURS

AS A CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY,

AND HIS PRE-EMINENT POSITION

AS A CHINESE SCHOLAR.

P R E F A C E.

---

THE vernacular or spoken language of Amoy, which this Dictionary attempts to make more accessible than formerly, has been also termed by some "The Amoy Dialect" or "The Amoy Colloquial;" and it partially coincides with the so-called "Hok-kien Dialect," illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Medhurst in his quarto Dictionary under that title. But such words as "Dialect" or "Colloquial" give an erroneous conception of its nature. It is not a mere colloquial dialect or patois; it is spoken by the highest ranks just as by the common people, by the most learned just as by the ignorant; learned men indeed add a few polite or pedantic phrases, but these are mere excrescences (and even they are pronounced according to the Amoy sounds), while the main body and staple of the spoken language of the most refined and learned classes is the same as that of coolies, labourers, and boatmen.

Nor does the term "dialect" convey anything like a correct idea of its distinctive character; it is no mere dialectic variety of some other language; it is a distinct language, one of the many and widely differing languages which divide among them the soil of China.

The so-called "written language" of China is indeed uniform throughout the whole country; but it is rather a notation than a language; for this universal written language is pronounced differently when read aloud in the different parts of China, so that while as written it is one, as soon as it is pronounced it splits into several languages. And still further, this written language, as it is read aloud from books, is not spoken in any place whatever under any form of pronunciation. The most learned men never employ it as a means of ordinary oral communication even among themselves. It is in fact a dead language, related to the various spoken languages of China somewhat as Latin is to the languages of South-western Europe.

A very considerable number of the spoken languages of China have been already more or less studied by European and American residents in the country, such as the Mandarin, the Hakka, the vernaculars of Canton and Amoy, and several others. These are not dialects of one language; they are cognate languages, bearing to each other a relation similar to that which subsists between the Arabic, the Hebrew, the Syriac, the Ethiopic, and the other members of the Semitic family; or again between English, German, Dutch, Danish, Swedish, &c.

There is another serious objection to the use of the term "dialect" as applied to these languages, namely, that within each of them there exist real dialects. For instance, the Mandarin, the greatest of all, contains within itself at least three very marked "dialects," the Northern, spoken at Peking; the Southern, spoken at Nanking and Soo-chow; and the Western, spoken in the provinces of Sze-chuen, Hoo-peh, &c.

In like manner the language which for want of a better name we may call the Amoy Vernacular or spoken language, contains within itself several real dialects, especially those of Chang-chew, Chin-chew, Tung-an, and of Amoy itself. In this Dictionary the form of the language spoken at Amoy itself is taken as the standard, and the principal variations of the Chang-chew and Chin-chew dialects are marked, as also a considerable number of the variations occurring in Tung-an, Chang-poo, and some other regions.

The language of Amoy, including these subordinate dialects, is believed to be spoken by about eight or ten millions. This is the first dictionary of the spoken language. There are numerous dictionaries of the universal written language of China. One of these, by the Rev. Dr. Medhurst, called "Dictionary of the Hok-kien Dialect," gives the Chang-chew sound (or more accurately the sound of Chang-poo, i.e. Chiu"-phé) of the written characters. Some colloquial words are also given in Dr. Medhurst's Dictionary, but they are few, and entirely in the Chang-chew or Chang-poo dialect, and unhappily the colloquial forms given are often far from accurate. The only other publications that have anything of the form of a dictionary are the very brief vocabularies in the Manuals of Doty and Macgowan.

The basis of this Dictionary is the manuscript vocabulary prepared by the late Rev. J. Lloyd, Missionary of the American Presbyterian Church. When I arrived at Amoy in 1855 I copied it for my own use, adding the additional words in Doty's Manual, and have been constantly enlarging and re-arranging the collection of words and phrases ever since. A few years after copying Lloyd's Vocabulary I collated the manuscript dictionary written by the Rev. Alexander Stronach of the London Missionary Society. I also at a later date went over all the words in the native dictionaries of the Chang-chew and Chin-chew dialects, and in a native vocabulary which attempts to give the Mandarin words and phrases for the Amoy ones. Of these native works the only really good one is the Chang-chew or rather Chang-poo Dictionary, named the Sip-ngé-im, which is the basis of Medhurst's Dictionary. Having thus the original source to refer to, I have made but little use of Medhurst's work; for such colloquial phrases in it as are not drawn from the Sip-ngé-im are very questionable, while its valuable book-phrases do not serve my purpose. Macgowan's Manual, though very useful for a beginner, was of course published too late for my use. In looking over it I found very few words which I had not already in my manuscript.

No one can be more sensible of the defects of the work than I am myself. It was at first prepared for my own use alone; as it grew larger I hoped that it might be used in manuscript by beginners, or copied, abridged, or expanded by successive missionaries; and it was only after repeated solicitations, culminating in a formal request by all the members of the three Protestant missions at Amoy, that I consented to prepare it for the press. This is my apology for all its faults and imperfections. It attempts to fill a real blank and to supply an urgent want; and I shall only be too glad when it shall be superseded and forgotten, or remembered only as the foundation on which a far more complete and accurate work shall have been reared.

When the Amoy missionaries asked me to prepare for the press the manuscript which I had compiled, the Rev. John Stronach of the London Missionary Society, and the Rev. John Van Nest Talmage, D.D., of the American Reformed Mission, were at the same time appointed to assist me in the revision of it. Mr. Stronach went over the whole from beginning to end, but Dr. Talmage was prevented by other duties from revising more than a few dozen pages. After their revision it was necessary for me to harmonize and recast the whole (with large additions and alterations which never came under their eyes), when writing out the copy for the printer. So that while a large share of what is good in the book should be put to the credit of my coadjutors, I must myself be held responsible for all its faults.

The most serious defect is the want of the Chinese character. This is due to two causes: (1) There are a very large number of the words for which we have not been able to find the corresponding character at all, perhaps a quarter or a third of the whole; and the time when it was necessary for me to take my furlough made it impossible to make the search for the missing characters, many of them rare, and many difficult to recognize from the great variations that take place between the written and spoken forms of the language. (2) Even if the characters had been found, it would have been very difficult or impossible for me to use the Chinese character in printing at home. But it was necessary to print it during my furlough at home, because we have not the means of printing such a work at Amoy; and on my return to China I could not have been spared from the mission long enough to go to some other port to carry it through the press. I cherish the hope of publishing a Key or

Sequel in two or three years, giving the characters so far as they can be found. Meantime, while I greatly regret that the Chinese character does not appear in the book, I am in one sense glad that it is absent. For it may serve to make manifest the fact that the Vernacular of Amoy is an independent language, which is able to stand alone without the help of the written character. And I should hope that many persons may thus be encouraged to study this language who would have been repelled by the sight of the complicated and fantastic characters. Of course every missionary, and every one who would be counted a scholar, must study the written character too, for the Vernacular or Colloquial cannot for a very long time to come possess any literature worthy of the name.

Another defect, which I greatly regret, is the very scanty identification of plants, animals, medicines, &c. Want of time is here also the excuse, which I trust my readers will count sufficient. Many such names have been put in with a query, being taken from such works as The Fuh-chau Recorder, Notes and Queries on China and Japan, The Phoenix, Dr. Porter Smith's Book on Medicines, the various dictionaries of the written language, &c., while I had not the means of verifying them.

To some it seems also a great want that there is no English-Chinese part. But that must really be a separate work. The whole style and character of Chinese thought and expression is so different from the nearest English equivalents, that the work of reversing a dictionary, which at first sight seems very easy, would really be enormous, falling not very far short of the original composition.

With all its imperfections I trust that this book shall prove helpful to those who study the language of Amoy. My chief object has been to assist those who are engaged in the work of Christian missions; but for this purpose I have endeavoured to give a full view of the language so far as I have been able to learn it; and the book is fitted to be equally useful to merchants, travellers, mariners, interpreters, and students. It is most desirable that foreigners residing among the Chinese should learn their language, so as to hold direct intercourse with them, instead of using the miserable jargon called Canton-English or "pigeon English," or being left at the mercy of interpreters. Few things would so much tend to remove causes of dispute or bad feeling, and to make the intercourse between these nations both pleasant and beneficial.

The explanations in the Introduction and Appendix have been much condensed from want of time at the last; I have therefore not been able to give the several subjects a scientific treatment, but have contented myself with such practical directions as will facilitate the use of the book and the acquisition of the language.

In conclusion I would express my thanks to HUGH M. MATHESON, Esq., Convener of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church in England; to ROBERT BARBOUR, Esq., of Bolesworth; and to C. E. LEWIS, Esq., M.P., for the kind liberality which has enabled me to publish the work.

AYR, 4th April, 1873.

NOTE.—The corrections and additions prepared by the author in the view of a second edition have been incorporated in this issue. They extend to more than two hundred items. The proofs of these alterations have been read by the Rev. WILLIAM MACGREGOR, M.A., of Amoy.

LONDON, May, 1873.

INTRODUCTION;

WITH

REMARKS ON PRONUNCIATION

AND

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE.

---

ORTHOGRAPHY AND PRONUNCIATION.

VOWELS.

The vowels a, e, i, o, u, are pronounced much as in Italian and German.

a as in far. It must never be pronounced with the peculiarly English sound of a in man.

e as in grey. But in the syllables ien, iet, it is nearly the same as in men, yet, and sometimes approaches to the English a in man.

i as in machine, not with the short English i in swift. Thus the Amoy word sin is almost the same as the English seen, but quite different from the English sin. Almost the only words which I have observed where it comes near the short English sound are chit, "this," and hit, "that," which often come very near the English words spelled alike.

o, when final, is pronounced as in no, go. It is also thus pronounced when followed by h; for, as is explained below, the final h is silent, and merely indicates that the vowel is short and abrupt, so that final oh is just short final o.

But when o is followed by m, ng, p, or k, it is pronounced as in the English hop, sock, long.

When followed by another vowel it has the first of the above sounds, as in go, no, but in some cases very short, almost like w, as is fully explained below under the head of the diphthongs.

u as in put, rude.

ø has the sound of aw in law, saw. This sound is really the same as the second sound of o, as explained above, so that strictly speaking this letter ø should have been used in place of o before m, ng, p, and k; but I have followed the spelling now universal at Amoy by using the letter o before these consonants for the sound more accurately written ø.

é is the French è, or like the English e in there. It scarcely ever occurs except in the Changechew dialect, so that persons who cannot catch the sound may use e as the nearest approximation.

In vowels with double dots, the double dot always indicates a change of the vowel sound, and is never used for the diæresis.

ö is the same as the German ö. It occurs only in the dialects of Chin-chew and Tung-an, where it is often used instead of the Amoy and Changechew e. Thus any one who cannot catch the sound of ö will be most safe to use e instead. It must by no means be confounded with o; only Cn. öe corresponds with A. oe.

ü is nearly the German ü or French u, but not quite the same, having often a slight variation from that sound in the direction of ö.

It occurs only in the dialects of Chin-chew and Tung-an, in which it frequently takes the place of the Amoy u. It almost invariably does so when the Amoy u corresponds to the Changechew i, but it often occurs also when the Amoy and Changechew agree in u. Persons who cannot get hold of the sound may therefore use u as an approximation.

i is a sound very rarely heard. It is exactly the short English i in sit, swift. I have used it in chih, chit, hih, hit, tih, where they occur as leading words in alphabetical order; but where they occur in the phrases and examples under other leading words, I have written such words chit, hit, and tih or teh, as their pronunciation is very indefinite. When slowly and carefully pronounced, chit, hit, are the sounds given. But tih, tih, or teh, is never pronounced slowly or carefully, it is always unaccented and rapid, so that its sound is much disputed. I refer in these remarks to one word only under each of these syllables, for the other words under each syllable always retain the clear sound of i.

DIPHTHONGS.

In all the diphthongs each vowel is heard distinctly with its own proper sound.

In ai, au, and oe, the first vowel is accented, the second unaccented. ai like the English ie in tie; au like the English ow in now; oe very nearly as in the English Noel.

In oa, on the other hand, the a is accented; the o is unaccented and generally extremely short, almost like w, indeed in many words it might be written w when pronounced at the usual rate; but when pronounced long, the sound of the o is clearly heard, e.g. sometimes in the "chiü"-piâ" and "ë-khi" tones; and in the nasal form oa", the o is distinctly heard; but in all cases great care must be taken not to exaggerate the o sound, but to make the a the principal vowel.

The same remarks apply to oai, where the accent is on the a, the whole coming very near the English Wye, but with rather more of the o sound.

In diphthongs beginning with i the accent is usually on the second vowel, while the i is sounded very nearly like y. Thus, in ia, iau, the accent is on a; in io it is on o.

But in the nasal form ia<sup>n</sup>, the accent falls nearly equally on the two vowels, and the vowel sound of i is distinctly heard, though a is still more prominent.

In iu the accent is nearly equal on the two vowels, and sometimes seems even to fall on the i, especially when the word is the last word of a clause.

When the two vowels of a diphthong are almost equally accented, it may often be observed that if the whole word lose the accent it is the first vowel which loses it most thoroughly; e.g. in the word “kiù” a considerable portion of accent falls on the i, but in the phrase kiù-sè, where the chief accent falls on sè, the unaccented kiù is pronounced almost like the English Kew.

NASA LS.

A small <sup>n</sup> suspended or written above the line at the end of a syllable indicates that the whole syllable becomes nasal. If the syllable contain a diphthong, the nasal mark, though placed at the end, qualifies the preceding vowel or vowels as well as the last.

In words beginning with m, n, and ng, I have not preserved absolute uniformity. It has been usual with many, especially in the American Reformed Mission, to write no nasal mark (small <sup>n</sup>) at such words, but to lay down the rule that all words beginning with m, n, and ng, are to be pronounced nasally. It seems to me that in some such words the vowel has not any distinctly nasal sound, and I have therefore endeavoured to write it where the sound is really nasal. But through the force of habit I have often omitted to write it where it should be. Initial j is also somewhat irregular.

CONSONANTS.

The great majority of the consonants are pronounced as in English, or very nearly so.

ch always as in church; only in the aspirated form chh it sometimes approaches to the aspirated sound of ts, as is explained below in the remarks on the aspirated consonants.

g is always hard.

h is always really pronounced, and must never be left silent as in many English words.

j always as in judge.

l is often pronounced in a very thick indistinct manner, approaching to the sound of d, so much so that as the language of Amoy has no proper d, the Amoy people usually employ a syllable beginning with l when trying to imitate a foreign word beginning with d.

ng as in sing, hang; so even at the beginning of a syllable. Care must be taken never to bring in the sound of g, as in anger, but to preserve the sound of ng simple and pure. To a beginner it is often difficult to pronounce ng as an initial; it is somewhat as if in the word singer or longing the si- or lo- were cut off.

s has always the sharp sound, as in so, sing; never sounded like z, as in lose.

Final consonants are pronounced much more gently and softly than in English. In English there is usually a slight emission of vocal breath at the end of a final consonant, but in Chinese there is not the slightest emission of breath at the end of the final consonant, which is thus final in the strictest sense, the organs of speech remaining at the end of the word in the position for pronouncing the final consonant; e.g. at the end of the Chinese word sam the lips are still shut, at the end of kat the tip of the tongue remains touching the palate near the teeth, and immediately afterwards the lips are opened or the tongue removed without the faintest sound. This is the cause of the great softness and gentleness of the final consonants in Chinese.

The finals, k, p, t, are pronounced so gently that it is sometimes very difficult to distinguish them from each other.

Final m, n, and ng, do not break off abruptly as in English, but are somewhat prolonged, being sounded with a sort of vowel or vocal murmur in the consonant itself. In some tones these finals are much prolonged; in the second tone (chiù<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>) they are briefer, but even in it not so short as in English. This prolonged murmur is specially remarkable in final eng, which sounds almost as if there were an indistinct half pronounced vowel between the e and the ng.

m and ng, having a half pronounced vowel within the liquid consonant, sometimes make words of themselves, standing quite alone without any vowel attached, e.g. ng, ng̃, m̃, m̃. They are also often found with a consonant prefixed, but without any vowel, e.g. sng, hng̃, hm̃. The nature of these syllables without a distinct vowel becomes at once unmistakable in singing, as at such a word all clear vocal sound at once ceases, and nothing is heard but a dull nasal murmur.

The ASPIRATED CONSONANTS are a very remarkable feature in all the languages of China, and require very special attention. They are kh, ph, th, and chh. The sounds are the same as those indicated by the same notation in the languages of India, being formed by a real distinct aspiration pronounced after the respective consonants. In the other languages of China it has been usual to indicate them by a small inverted or suspended comma, thus k‘, p‘, t‘, ch‘, ts‘, but h has been commonly used at Amoy, and is much more distinct. The sounds are almost the same as those often used by Irishmen when pronouncing with a strong brogue such words as come, pig, &c.; they are also often heard in the mouths of the Scottish Highlanders.

kh may be thus described:—Pronounce block-house with a clear distinct h; remove the letters blo- from the beginning and the -se from the end, and you have almost exactly the Chinese “khau.” Or pronounce look here! rapidly and clearly, cut off loo- and -re, and you have the Chinese “khi.”

ph must by no means be confounded with the English ph, which is just f; for the Chinese ph preserves the clear sound of p followed by an aspiration; e.g. say loop-hole very rapidly and sharply, cut off loo- and -le from the two ends, and there remains the Chinese “pho.” So, by removing ha- and -zard from haphazard, you get the Chinese “pha.”

th must not be confounded with the English th, which is really a simple sound. The Chinese th is a clear distinct t followed by the aspirate. Thus the Chinese “thau” may be carved out of out-house or hot-house.

chh is formed in a similar way from the ch of church. Take such a word as watch-house or coach-house, remove the wa- or coa- from the beginning and the -se from the end, and something very near the Chinese “chhau” remains.

Sometimes chh has a sound more nearly approaching to an aspirated ts. This occurs occasionally when chh is followed by a, o, ø, u, or ng. Generally even before these letters the sound remains the same, or very nearly the same, as the usual chh, but sometimes it might have been written tsh or ts'h, especially in the dialects of Chin-chew and Tung-an, and in other cases it seems about half-way between chh and ts'h. But as these sounds are not very common, and as they shade gradually into the normal chh, I have thought it best not to make any change in the spelling usual at Amoy.

ch itself is not one of these aspirated consonants, for, as explained above, it is just the English ch of church, which is really t-sh, not containing the real sound of h at all.

TONES.

The tones are commonly supposed to be a great obstacle in the way of learning Chinese, but they really present no very great difficulty if studied carefully from the first. They can be properly learned only by the ear, and it is much better to get them directly from the lips of a native. The following remarks are intended merely as a help to direct the student in catching the intonations of the natives, but they may also be of some slight use in giving a general idea of the nature of the tones to those who have no opportunity of hearing them spoken.

It is not the tones themselves, but the use made of the tones, which is the peculiar characteristic of the Chinese group of languages. Similar tones exist in all languages, only differently used. In English, for instance, we pronounce the word go very differently when we give a hasty and angry command, "Go!" and when we ask the question with a mixture of astonishment and horror, "Can you dare to go?" The difference of tone is as great in English as in Chinese, but in English it indicates merely the different feelings of the mind or the different grammatical or rhetorical relations of the same word, while in Chinese the same syllable with two different tones makes two thoroughly distinct words.

The Chinese divide the tones into four great classes, named at Amoy—1st, piâ<sup>n</sup> (C. pê<sup>n</sup>); 2d, chiū<sup>n</sup>; 3d, khì (Cn. khü); 4th, jip, or according to the Mandarin sounds, Ping (or more accurately p'ing), Shang, K'ü (or Ch'ü), and Juh.

Each of these four classes is or may be divided into two subdivisions, called the "upper" and "lower." Doubtless when these four classes with their subdivisions first received their names, all these names described with tolerable accuracy the inflexion and pitch of the several tones, but now there is no part of China where the names of the tones correctly describe their character. It is therefore best in speaking of the tones not to translate the Chinese words, but either to transfer the Chinese terms or to speak of them by their numbers.

In some parts of China all the eight tones are used; in one place they have even been increased to nine; in two of the great dialects of Mandarin there are four tones and five tones in use respectively. In Amoy, though nominally there are eight, yet really there are only seven, as the second tone class, the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>," is not divided into two. I shall describe these seven tones used at Amoy, not according to the Chinese order, but according to their actual nature.

The two jip tones, or the upper and lower fourth tone, stand quite by themselves. They are distinguished by being pronounced with an abrupt or clipped ending, almost with a jerk. Originally they all ended in k, p, or t, but now the final consonant has in many cases been dropped, leaving, however, its trace in a sharp abrupt ending which makes something like a hiatus; this abrupt vowel-ending is indicated by the final h, which is absolutely silent. The two jip tones therefore can always be recognized by the final letters h, k, p, and t. All words ending in these letters belong to the jip tones, and no others do.

Any such word, if it have no accent mark, belongs to the chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip or upper fourth tone. It begins moderately high, rises very slightly at first, and then comes down with a short, sharp, rapid movement, somewhat like the English not when spoken in a very emphatic or imperative manner, as in the sentence, "You shall not."

The ē-jip or lower fourth tone is indicated by a perpendicular accent, e.g. jip, hák, lôh. It begins rather lower than the other, and is pronounced with a curious upward jerk, which the form of the perpendicular accent is intended to suggest, somewhat like not in the sentence "Will you not?" pronounced simply as an interrogation with a mere upward movement, without the previous fall of the voice that would be given if it indicated strong surprise.

The other five tones are distributed among the words which do not end in h, k, p, or t.

Two of these five tones are perfectly level, just like musical notes, at an interval of about a musical fifth from each other. The exact distance of the interval is quite immaterial, and in fact it often varies from about a musical third to about an octave in the mouth of the same speaker, with the nature of the emphasis or emotion with which he speaks; all that is necessary for the distinction of the tones, and for being well understood, is that there be a marked difference of the pitch.

The higher level tone is called the chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup> (C. téng-pê<sup>n</sup>), or the upper first tone. It is indicated by the absence of any tonal mark, just as the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip" has no tonal mark; but these two tones can always be at once distinguished at a glance, as the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup>" never ends in h, k, p, or t, while the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip" always has one of these finals.

The tone with a low level intonation is called the ē-khì or lower third tone. It is indicated by a horizontal accent, e.g. ē, hū. It must not be confounded with the "ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>" tone, the name of which means "low level," but the intonation of which is very far from level, as will be seen from the explanation given three paragraphs lower down. But the lower third or "ē-khì" is really low and level in its tone, though the name does not indicate the fact.

The three tones which remain are more or less inflected, and cannot be represented by any musical notes.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì or upper third tone is a low, slow, downward slide; it begins low, about as low as the low level (ē-khì) tone, and from that low level it gradually slides lower till it quite dies away; great care must be taken at the end not to allow the voice to turn up again at all; it is represented by the downward slope of the grave accent, e.g. pü, khì. It is heard in English when one lets the voice fall into a low key, sinking down lower and lower till it quite dies away, as when sadly musing in simple grief and sorrow (without any anger or excitement) on some mournful and depressing news; e.g. saying "Gone!" or "Dead!"

The ē-piâ<sup>n</sup> (C. ē-pê<sup>n</sup>) or lower first tone first falls and then rises. It is the intonation used in English to express great astonishment or a strongly marked interrogation, e.g. "You?" "How?" Its mark is the circumflex, e.g. kî, sô.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> or second tone, called in Mandarin the "Shang" tone, begins somewhat high, rises slightly and rapidly, and then comes down with a rapid swing, much like a decided imperative in English; e.g. gone, in the phrase "Be gone!" This tone is indicated by an acute accent, e.g. lí, sú, kóng, &c.

The above explanations may be summarized as follows:

ABRUPT AND SHORT. All ending in h, k, p, t.	}	chiū <sup>n</sup> -jip, rising slightly and then falling rapidly; toh.
		ē-jip, rising abruptly; tóh.
NOT ABRUPT. Never ending in h, k, p, t.	}	LEVEL MUSICAL NOTES. { <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup>, high and level; tò.</li> <li>ē-khì, low and level; tô.</li> </ul>
		SINGLE INFLECTION. { <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì, low, slow, downward slide; tò.</li> </ul>
		DOUBLE INFLECTION. { <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>, slow circumflex, first falling and then rising, as in astonishment or interrogation; tô.</li> <li>chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, slightly upward and rapidly downwards, like a strong imperative; tó.</li> </ul>

The Chinese at Amoy, &c., usually arrange the tones in the following order:—

chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup>.
 chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>.
 chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì.
 chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip.
 ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>.
 chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>.
 ē-khì.
 ē-jip.

In this arrangement the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>" appears twice, because it is not divided into an upper and a lower subclass. This has caused great confusion in the nomenclature of the tones (by Europeans and Americans) according to numbers, for while it has been usual to number the first five—

1. chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup>.
2. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>.
3. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì.
4. chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip.
5. ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>.

from that point there has been a divergence, some numbering on according to the exact form of Chinese usage.

6. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>.
7. ē-khì.
8. ē-jip.

Others have counted them as follows:—

6. ē-khì.
7. ē-jip.

To avoid this ambiguity in naming the sixth and seventh tones, I have arranged them as follows:—

FIRST TONE. { chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup>, upper first; tò.
 piâ<sup>n</sup>. { ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>, lower first; tô.

SECOND TONE.—chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>; tó.

THIRD TONE. { chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì, upper third; tò
 ē-khì, lower third; tô.

FOURTH TONE. { chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip, upper fourth; toh.
 ē-jip, lower fourth; tóh.

In the alphabetical arrangement of the words in this Dictionary the order is therefore "tò, tò, tò, tò, tò." This does not include the two subdivisions of the fourth tone, as the difference of spelling places them in a different position in the alphabetical arrangement, namely "toh, tòh."

TONES IN COMBINATION.

The description of the tones given above applies strictly only to a word pronounced separately, or to a word ending a clause, and pronounced with the primary accent (as is usual at the end of a clause or group of two or more words); or to a word which, though not last, yet has the primary accent, being followed by an enclitic or unaccented word.

But in many cases a word loses the form of tonal inflection described above.

Sometimes a word becomes enclitic (see Appendix V.), in which case the tone dies away somewhat like the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" or the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip," or rather like something intermediate between them pronounced very short and gentle. No matter what the original tone of a word be, this is the one form assumed when enclitic; and so it happens that if an enclitic word be not common in its accented form, or if it be not recognized and identified, the learner is apt to be misled even by well-educated Chinese saying that the word belongs to the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" or to the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip" tone. The mark which I use to indicate an enclitic word is a double hyphen placed before the enclitic: this mark has at the same time the effect of catching the eye readily, so as to show that the word preceding the double hyphen has the strong primary accent; e.g. jít--sî, day-time; bô--khì, to disappear or vanish.

Sometimes in a group of three words two words follow the double hyphen. In that case the primary accent is on the first of the three, and the last two are enclitic; a slight trace of a secondary accent is sometimes heard on the last of the three, but yet it does not recover its own proper tonal inflection; e.g. sak--lôh-khì, to push down to a lower level; poáh--lôh-lâi, to fall down from a higher level.

When a word stands first in a group of two, of which the second has the strong accent, then the first word experiences a very marked change in its tonal inflection.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup> or upper first tone becomes somewhat lower in key, coming down about half-way towards the "ē-khì," but remaining quite level and equable.

The ē-piâ<sup>n</sup> or lower first loses its inflection, becoming very nearly or quite level. In some places it becomes extremely like the unaccented "chiū<sup>n</sup>-piā<sup>n</sup>," as described in the preceding paragraph; in other places, especially in Tāng-ōa, it becomes undistinguishable from the unaccented "ē-khì" tone.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> or second tone in such a position entirely loses its second half, namely, the falling inflection, and retains only its first half, namely, a slight upward motion. Great care must be taken not to give its usual downward intonation, because (as will be seen from the next paragraph) it would in that case be confounded with the altered or unaccented form of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" tone.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì or upper third tone is lifted up so as to become a high, rapid, falling tone, almost the same as the original inflection of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>." It is also pronounced with great energy, so that the two syllables sound more like a spondee than an iambus.

The ē-khì or lower third tone sinks a very little lower than its original form, with perhaps a very slight downward motion. In most cases the alteration of this tone is scarcely perceptible, but when the two words are both of the "ē-khì" tone, then the first is distinctly lower than the second; e.g. chīn-tsāi, chēng-chēng, siū-tsōe.

The two jip tones (the upper and lower fourth) simply change places with each other, the chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip being pronounced with the original intonation of the "ē-jip," and the ē-jip taking the original intonation of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip." It should also be observed that in this connection the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip" is pronounced with much more energy than the "ē-jip;" e.g. hok-khì being almost like a spondee, or the "hok" being given with a sort of staccato effect; while hók-sāi is an ordinary iambus, with the "hók" thoroughly unaccented.

ACCENT.

As all the words in the language are monosyllables, they are usually grouped together in groups of regular form and regular accentuation. These groups, of two, three, or four words (and sometimes of more), are often so absolutely fixed in the usage of the language as to become very similar to the polysyllabic words of other languages; and within such groups the laws of accent in relation to the several words are quite as strict as the accentual laws for the several syllables of the words in polysyllabic languages.

The general rule is that the primary accent falls on the last word of a group, whether it be a group of two, three, or more words. When the accent falls on the second last or penult, I have indicated the fact by placing a double hyphen after the accented word. This has also the effect (as explained in the previous section and in Appendix No. V.) of indicating that the word which follows the double hyphen is enclitic. When two words making a group have no hyphen between them, the meaning is that the first word has a sort of secondary accent, and retains its own tone unchanged or but slightly changed; e.g. hong chhe, the wind blows; but in hong-chhe, a paper-kite, the "hong" is quite unaccented, as is shown by the presence of the hyphen. Such are the more important rules for groups of two words.

GROUPS OF THREE.

In a group of three words the general rule is that the primary accent falls on the last word, a secondary accent on the first, and that the second word is quite unaccented; e.g. kóng<sup>2</sup>-bô<sup>0</sup>-iá<sup>1</sup> has the primary accent on "iá," the secondary on "kóng," and no accent on "bô."

But sometimes, while the primary accent is on the last word, the secondary accent is on the second word, and it is then the first word that becomes quite unaccented. Such cases may generally be reduced to one or other of the following rules, (1) when the second is a much more important word than the first, or (2) when the tone of the second is a much stronger tone than that of the first.

If the first be a mere auxiliary or a comparatively unimportant word, while the second is a word of much importance, then the first is apt to lose the tone. Among the words which often thus lose the tone at the beginning of a group of three, the following may be noted:—ū, to have; bô, not to have; ēng, "to use," when in the sense of "by" or "with;" lái, "to come," when used as a mere connective; khì, "to go," as a mere connective; teh, tióh, thang, as auxiliaries to verbs, &c.; beh, will; tī, kàu, kah, and such prepositions; ná<sup>n</sup>, nā<sup>n</sup>, kap, chiah, chiū, and some adverbs and conjunctions; tsáp, ten; chit, "one," often used somewhat like the indefinite article. Such words often do take the secondary accent; but it is very common for them to lose the accent, allowing it to pass on to the second word; e.g. bô<sup>0</sup>-kàu<sup>2</sup>-hùn<sup>1</sup>, "no instruction," has the secondary accent on "kàu," and none on "bô." So with tióh-koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét, to have fever and ague; teh-kóng-ōe, in the act of speaking; beh-poa<sup>n</sup>-chhū, will remove one's residence; tsáp-goā<sup>n</sup>-lāng, more than ten men; chit-si-lāng, one's whole life.

Another principle which sometimes may explain the secondary accent falling on the second word, is when it has a very strong tone, such as the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" or the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip," while the first word is not in either of these two tones; or as when the second word is of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>" tone, while the first is not in any of these three tones. But on the other hand, if the first word be specially important in meaning, it keeps the secondary accent, though the second word may have a tone that is naturally stronger; e.g. chīn-khūi-lát, "to exert one's strength to the utmost," where the secondary accent is on "chīn."

When the principal accent in a group of three falls on the second word, I place a double hyphen after it; in this case the first word has a secondary accent, or loses or changes its tone, and the last word becomes enclitic.

When the principal accent falls on the first, this is indicated by the double hyphen after it; then the second and third words become enclitic, the second being quite unaccented, and the third either unaccented or else having a faint secondary accent.

GROUPS OF FOUR.

The most usual arrangement is that a group of four words consists of two groups of two, each having an accent on its second word; the first of these subordinate groups is usually pronounced somewhat less strongly than the second; thus in bô<sup>2</sup>-lāng beh<sup>2</sup>-khì, "there is no one who will go," the primary accent is on "khì," the secondary on "lāng;" but this secondary accent is often almost as strong as the primary.

When the first two words in a group of four are such as kap-i, kap-lāng, kâ--i, hē--i, khit--i, chit--ē, that half is pronounced very much more gently than the second; e.g. <sup>2</sup>khít--<sup>1</sup>í <sup>2</sup>thâi--<sup>1</sup>sí, to be killed by him; <sup>3</sup>kap--<sup>2</sup>í <sup>1</sup>kóng--<sup>2</sup>ôe, to converse with him.

When <sup>3</sup>tsáp, "ten," stands in the second place, it is unaccented, and throws the secondary accent usually forward on the third word, while a still weaker or tertiary accent is heard on the first word; e.g. <sup>3</sup>jí--<sup>0</sup>tsáp--<sup>2</sup>sí--<sup>1</sup>lâng, twenty-four men; <sup>3</sup>sa<sup>n</sup>--<sup>0</sup>tsáp--<sup>2</sup>gē--<sup>1</sup>tē, the thirty-fifth division of a Hien district.

A similar effect is produced if any other word weak in tone or sense (see above on Groups of Three) stands in the second place; e.g. <sup>3</sup>kâu--<sup>0</sup>beh--<sup>2</sup>sít--<sup>1</sup>sín, "to the very point of going to faint."

Sometimes a specially important word in the first place draws the secondary accent to itself; e.g. <sup>2</sup>nng--<sup>3</sup>ki--<sup>1</sup>poà<sup>n</sup>--<sup>1</sup>úi (where a sort of tertiary accent is heard on "poà," but "nng" is the important word), two and a half masts, i.e. a barque. In the latter part of the Dictionary I have sometimes written such phrases thus, "<sup>2</sup>nng--<sup>3</sup>ki--<sup>1</sup>poà<sup>n</sup>--<sup>1</sup>úi."

Groups of five or more are compounded of shorter groups in a similar way.

USE OF HYPHENS.

I am painfully conscious that my system of using hyphens is not wholly consistent in the several parts of the Dictionary; this is especially the case in groups of three words, which I have sometimes joined all together, and sometimes left one and two, or two and one. But my apology is, that too sparing a use of hyphens, as it seems to me, has hitherto been made by others; and it has been necessary for me to write out the copy for the press at home without the opportunity of consulting others.

My leading idea in the use of hyphens has been to connect together those words which are pronounced together without pausing, like the syllables of a polysyllabic word, and where consequently the tone of one word is more or less affected by its being joined to another; but in some cases where I have not used the hyphen, the tone of one word is also somewhat affected by the relation to another; for the attempt to string together all the words that are mutually affected would have made combinations of an unwieldy length.

VARIOUS AMBIGUITIES AND ERRORS WHICH STILL REMAIN.

There are many ambiguities which, though occasionally noted, are in many or most places left without remark.

Such is very specially the case with the ambiguities produced by the want of moods, tenses, numbers, persons, cases, gender, articles, &c., in Chinese grammar. So also with the frequent interchange of the parts of speech, e.g. adjective with adverb, adjective with substantive, verb with preposition, substantive with post-position, conjunction with preposition, &c., or sometimes three or four parts of speech.

Names of relationships partake very largely of such ambiguity, e.g. <sup>2</sup>peh and <sup>2</sup>chek, meaning not only senior and junior uncle, but also senior and junior cousins (even any distant cousins) of father when of the same surname. Still more extensive is the use of <sup>2</sup>hia<sup>n</sup>--<sup>1</sup>tí and <sup>2</sup>chí--<sup>1</sup>bē, meaning not only brothers and sisters, but also male and female cousins in great variety.

Titles of office but rarely correspond to the English words, partly from the different number of steps in the various gradations, and partly because the number of troops supposed to be commanded by military and naval officers is often widely different from the reality. So also when we speak of the emperor Kang-hi or the emperor Kien-lung, we cannot always stop to explain that such a name as Kang-hi, Kien-lung, Hien-fung, is not a name or title of a person at all, but only the title of the period of the reign of the sovereign, whose personal name is far too sacred to be either spoken or written, and who is properly spoken of, e.g. as Hâm-hong-kun, i.e. the sovereign who reigned in the period or reign called in Amoy "Hâm-hong," and in Mandarin "Hien-fung."

The whole system of the so-called civil and military degrees is quite different from what we call degrees, and comes much nearer to our examinations for the civil and military services, though differing from them also in many important respects, especially in this—that the man who has passed his examination and gained his degree has by that very fact had his political position quite changed, having many special privileges denied to the common people in regard to the action of courts of justice and intercourse with the magistrates.

Of other words a very few examples must suffice; e.g. <sup>2</sup>chiú, often translated "wine," but which really means any spirituous liquor, and rarely if ever means "wine" in our sense; <sup>2</sup>béh, either wheat or barley; <sup>2</sup>bū, usually translated "military," but really including military and naval; <sup>2</sup>siáh, marble or soap-stone; <sup>2</sup>iū, used for "sheep," but properly "goat;" <sup>2</sup>thák, commonly rendered "to read," but really only to read aloud; <sup>2</sup>kong--<sup>1</sup>chhin, "an arbiter," but very far from our idea of arbitration, meaning simply a person or persons put forward by one or both of the parties to use their good offices, and endeavour to reconcile the parties (usually by a compromise), who are at perfect liberty either to accept the solution or not.

In many other cases too the meanings given are merely approximations. It must often have happened that, instead of grasping the full meaning of a phrase, I have only caught one of its particular applications, while at other times a particular use may have been too hastily generalized. It is in order to avoid these dangers that I have so largely used particular examples instead of attempting to combine them in a general expression.

The student need not be at all surprised if his Chinese teacher, or even several of them, object to certain phrases or meanings. In such a case let him use those words and phrases about which there is no question; but let him not too hastily conclude that the book is wrong. Many many times I have erased passages which I afterwards found quite correct and restored to their places. For there is no absolute standard of the spoken language; and the usage of various towns, villages, and regions varies so much, that phrases in constant use in one part are unknown in another.

At the same time the student must not lean too much on the Dictionary. The sounds, and especially the tones, must be carefully learned from the lips of a native; and when some words and phrases have been learned, it is only by constant intercourse with the people that one can master the art of combining them into sentences in a correct and natural manner.

The teachers themselves are the source of one sort of error which is doubtless still represented to some extent in these pages. They are accustomed to adorn their own language with a variety of polite and literary phrases, and they are very apt to teach us such phrases as if they were really colloquial, while to the great mass of the people they are as unintelligible as Latin or French to an average Englishman. I have inserted many such phrases with the note "(R.*)" to show that they belong to the Literary or Reading form of the language; but doubtless not a few have escaped my notice.

There are also a considerable number of phrases which have somehow come to be used by those Chinese who have much intercourse with foreigners, and which they continue to use because foreigners are supposed to understand them. Against such expressions the student must be very much on his guard.

I observe on looking over the pages some inconsistencies of spelling; e.g. má=mah, the interrogative particle; ah=á, the final indicative or vocative particle; chēh=chit-ē, &c. I fear also that some mistakes which I made in my early scrolls have not been fully eliminated, e.g. chin sometimes written where it should be "chin," in such phrases as chin-hó, very good.

In noting the variations of the dialects of Chang-chew, Chin-chew, &c., there is a peculiar sort of error which has sometimes crept in, viz. changing one part of a phrase into the dialect in question without making the corresponding change in the other part, as if in illustrating the change of mŭng into mŭi<sup>n</sup> in Chang-chew, one should write ē-mŭi<sup>n</sup>, as the Chang-chew name of Amoy, while it is really ē-mŭi<sup>n</sup>; or as if in a sentence of the Chin-chew dialect one had failed to change kóng into sóh, or kè into kō.

Some more remarks on these dialects will be found in the Appendix Nos. II. and III.; but neither there nor in the body of the Dictionary is there anything like a full treatment of their variations. The Chang-chew dialect is the one most copiously treated, so that it is believed that in the leading words most of its variations are noted. The next in copiousness is the Chin-chew dialect, but it is not nearly so fully treated. Of the other dialects very little is noted except those of Tung-an and Chang-poo. Therefore the student must not conclude that a given word or phrase remains unchanged in one of these dialects merely because no variation is noted.

EXPLANATION OF ABBREVIATIONS,

AND OF

PECULIAR MARKS, &c.

- A. Amoy dialect.
An. or Ank. Ankoï or An-khoe dialect.
Bud. Buddhist.
C. Chang-chew dialect.
cf. compare.
Cn. Chin-chew dialect.
col. colloquial or vernacular, as opposed to the literary or reading form.
dist. distinguish from.
E. dialect of Eng-chhun or Yung-chun.
esp. especially.
F. phrases especially used in Formosa.
f. foreign phrases, viz. names or phrases invented to describe foreign things or ideas, or phrases used only or chiefly by those Chinese who have intercourse with foreigners.
fig. figurative.
gen. generally.
H. dialect of Hui-an or Hui-oa.<sup>n</sup>.
K. or Kk. dialect of Kwan-kow or Koan-kháu.
L. dialect of Nan-an or Lâm-oa.<sup>n</sup>.
lit. literally.
Mand. Mandarin dialect, or Vernacular of Northern, Central, and Western China.
opp. opposed to.
P. dialect of Chang-poo or Chiu<sup>n</sup>-phé.
R. reading or literary style, as to sound or meaning.
When written in parentheses after a Chinese word or phrase, means that it is a literary or polite word or phrase, not used in the colloquial.
When written before a Chinese word, both being in brackets or parentheses, means that it is the reading sound of the character of which the colloquial form is given in the context.
When followed by an English word or phrase, means that the rendering given is used only in the reading or literary style, or transferred to the colloquial only in a few set phrases.
r. rare.
s. see; this abbreviation is used only when there are two phrases having exactly the same sound and tone, e.g. tsâi-tsú, either "a man of wealth" or "a talented man," where it occurs under "wealth" it has the note "(s. talent);" and where it occurs under "talent" it has the note "(s. wealth)." I refer merely to the English meaning, because the Chinese word referred to is, and must be always, the very same sound and tone with the leading word (in this case "tsâi"), under which the phrase occurs.

- T. dialect of Tung-an or Tâng-oa.<sup>n</sup>.
Tt. dialect of Chang-tai or Tiô-thoà.
v. see; referring to a Chinese word where more full information is given, or where additional examples are collected.
vulg. vulgar or coarse expression.
X. phrase used by the missionaries or native Christians; either not used at all by others, or used rarely or in a different sense.

I have not loaded this table with such well-known abbreviations as id., do., &c.

The abbreviations for the varieties of the dialects are used thus:—Within parentheses immediately after the leading word, and with nothing else in the parentheses, they mean that all the words and phrases under that leading word belong to the dialect referred to, unless otherwise noted; e.g. "boeh (C.), = A. beh," implies that any phrase given under that leading word "boeh" belongs to the Chang-chew dialect. So also "tā (Cn.)," implies that all the phrases under that leading word "tā" belong to the Chin-chew dialect; but in this latter example some of the phrases have the note "(A.," meaning that they are used in Amoy.

When the abbreviation for a dialect is used within parentheses followed by a Chinese word or phrase, it means that this is the form in the said dialect for the Amoy word or phrase that precedes the parenthesis.

When preceded by the word "also" it means that while the word in some other sense or usage belongs, for instance, to the Amoy dialect, yet in the cases specified it belongs to that one of the dialects which is specified; but in such case the examples of phrases given afterwards belong to the Amoy.

When "R." stands at the beginning of a sentence within brackets or parentheses, and before the end of the parenthetic part the abbreviation "= col." occurs, the "=" is used merely in an etymological sense, denoting that the subjoined colloquial words belong to the same reading form, or spring from the same root, and does not mean that they have the same meaning.

A double hyphen "--" is used to indicate that the succeeding word is enclitic.

A small cross "(+)" is used as the mark of addition, to indicate that other examples of the phrase, or another phrase of the same sound and tone, will be found in another part of the collection of phrases under the same leading word. Thus under the word thâu, "head," the phrase koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu occurs twice in very different senses, each time with this mark. In the earlier part of the Dictionary this mark is not used.

3.3, 1.15, and such like combinations, i.e. a numeral in large type followed by a dot at the bottom and a numeral in smaller type, are used for the Chinese month and day, e.g. 1.15 is the 15th day of the first month.

A full explanation of the orthography and tonal marks will be found in the Introduction. Some of the more important rules may be briefly stated as follows:—

The vowels are all pronounced according to the sounds usual in Germany, Italy, &c., and not according to the English usage when it differs from the continental.

ø expresses the sound of o in the English lord, long, lot; ö has sometimes this sound, sometimes the sound of o in the English no (see the rule in the Introduction).

ε is the sound of the French “è,” or of the English “e” in there.

Double dots are never used as marks of diacresis, but always indicate a vowel of a really different sound. The mark of diacresis is never required, because in all diphthongs each vowel retains its own original sound.

ö and ü as in German.

The consonants are for the most part used much as in English. g always hard; ch always as in church.

th and ph must not be sounded as in English. They are pronounced by appending a real aspirate sound to the usual sounds of t and p respectively.

kh and chh are in like manner formed from k and ch by adding a clearly-pronounced aspirate.

The accent marks have nothing to do with the sounds of the vowels or consonants: they indicate the modulations of tone, as is partially explained in the Introduction. In a diphthong they do not refer to one vowel only, but to the whole syllable.

ORDER OF ALPHABETIC ARRANGEMENT IN THIS DICTIONARY.

chh, kh, ng, ph, th, and ts are used in the alphabetic arrangement like single consonants; thus, for instance, all the words beginning with the unspirated k are given to the end, as far as kut and kwat, before kha and the others which have kh as their initial.

ε is mixed up with e, and ü with u, for convenience of reference, as they are respectively mere dialectic variations of these vowels.

ø and ö are placed just after the corresponding syllables which are formed with o; e.g. tø and töt follow to; töh follows toh; and töt follows tong. I am not sure whether this be the best plan to follow, but it is the arrangement which I at present use.

Words that have a nasal, indicated by a small suspended “<sup>n</sup>” at the end, follow immediately the same syllables without the nasal. But when the initial is m, n, ng, or j, the nasal and non-nasal forms are mixed up, as this makes reference easier, because many words are written both ways.

The tones of any one syllable are arranged thus:—chiū<sup>n</sup>-piā<sup>n</sup>, ē-piā<sup>n</sup>; chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>; chiū<sup>n</sup>-khi, ē-khi; e.g. “seng, sêng; séng; sèng, sēng.” This does not include the two jip tones, which, being differently spelled, i.e. always ending in h, k, p, or t, are found usually at a little distance off: their order is—chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip, ē-jip; e.g. “sek, sék.”

DICTIONARY

OF THE

AMOY COLLOQUIAL LANGUAGE.

a

a (R. id.), a prefix in some nouns and in names of Cantonese. a-pan, a sailor who climbs masts; obstinate (v. pan). a-gūi, asafoetida. a-ko, son of a first-class mandarin. a-hoat, name of a Cantonese, = A. hoat-á.

a — a-ka, medicine made from turtle-bones.

a (R. id.) a-phièn, opium (v. phièn).

a — a-put-tó, = áh-put-tó, a sort of doll.

a (R. id.) i-i a-a, sound of a flute. a-a-kiò, sound of a child just beginning to make the sound "a-a."

a — a-tsa, = am-tsam, dirty, unclean (lit. or fig.)

a — a-thâu (imit. of mand.), a female slave.

a — jiáu-a, a large sort of gong.

a [R. a crow]. ε-a, a crow. ε-a-lêng, an artificial feather, worn by some officers (v. lêng). ε-a kiò pái-sūi (the crow has called the lame man Sūi), said of a man who formerly had a good character, being suddenly led away into vice and ruin.

á, exclamation of surprise.

á (C.), = A. lá, —. á-sâm, = A. lá-sâm, dirty.

á [R. tsú, a son], (Cn. ngá, ngiá ká<sup>n</sup>), (T. sometimes á or áh enclitic), suffix of nouns, often diminutive. kù-á, a saw. kū-á, wife's younger brother. í-á, wife's younger sister. káu-á, a dog; a little dog. kha-á, inferior assistants.

á (R. tsú?), enclitic suffix in names of common people, acquaintances, or persons about same rank (Cn. only said of young boys, while it is a prefix for adults) —. hoat-á, the man named "hoat," more politely called "hoat-ló."

á (T.) á-î, = A. am-pê-chê, the cicada.

á (Cn.), prefix to names of persons. á-sóng = A. "soŋg-á" or "sóng-ló."

á = án, prefix to titles of relations superior to us. á-tia, papa. á-peh, uncle! sometimes papa!

á [R. pek, a hundred, = col. pah]. poeh-á-chi<sup>n</sup>, eight hundred cash. káu-á-lák, nine hundred and sixty.

á (sometimes ná), syllable used in forming some phrases: e.g. bîn-á-tsài, to-morrow; m̄-á, but indeed (v. m̄).

á = ka. phah-á-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze.

á (R. ek = col. iá), or. á-bô, or not. á-sī, or it is; or.

à

á = iáu. á-bē, not yet.

à = iáh (R. ék). à-ná<sup>n</sup>-beh, à-ná<sup>n</sup>-m̄, having half a mind to it.

à [R. secondary]. à-sèng, a sage of secondary rank, as Mencius or as Yen-hwuy (Gân-hôe). à-goân, a Keujin near the head of the list for the year à (R. àu). à-pà, very cross and bad-tempered, as a child.

à = iáh (R. ék), also.

a<sup>n</sup>, imitative sound. a<sup>n</sup>-a<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of children crying. a<sup>n</sup>-a<sup>n</sup>-jióng, incessant noise. i-i a<sup>n</sup>-a<sup>n</sup>, sound as of several men rowing a boat, or of many children. i<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup> a<sup>n</sup>-a<sup>n</sup>, sound as of musical instruments.

á<sup>n</sup> — pûn á<sup>n</sup>-m-chhē<sup>n</sup> (C.), sound of wind instruments.

á<sup>n</sup>, an exclamation of great surprise.

á<sup>n</sup> (R. lân = col. noá<sup>n</sup>), to guard or protect, as by arm or wing (e.g. a hen guarding her brood); to put the arm or arms round a person loosely, so as gently to keep from falling or going away, or to ward off a stroke, or screen from an enemy. á<sup>n</sup>-tsáh, to defend one party in a quarrel. kah-á<sup>n</sup> hit-pêng, throws his influence rather on that side. á<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, to keep things for oneself to eat, as by arm put round them. á<sup>n</sup> toá-hûn, to take the lion's share.

á<sup>n</sup>, to embrace tightly with one or both arms; to fold to one's breast; to hold or carry between arm and breast, but not so tightly as "ngòeh;" to shelter by arm tightly pressed. á<sup>n</sup>--teh, to cover or shelter below or behind one's arm, &c. á<sup>n</sup>--ê, an adopted child. á<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup> tsòe-chit-ê, to hold several things at once under the arm, or between the arm and the breast.

á<sup>n</sup>, to lean against. chhùi á<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, to put mouth to mouth.

á<sup>n</sup> — kong-á<sup>n</sup>-táu, a long dark red legume.

á<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), sometimes = A. ká<sup>n</sup> —. m̄-á<sup>n</sup>, = A. m̄-ká<sup>n</sup>, not dare.

à<sup>n</sup> (R. hiòng = col. ng, hiá<sup>n</sup>), to stoop or bend down; to face towards. à<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to bend down the head. à<sup>n</sup>-io, to bend forwards, bending the loins as in making a bow. à<sup>n</sup>-teh-chiáh, bending down to eat. à<sup>n</sup>-teh-khoà<sup>n</sup>, bending down to look. à<sup>n</sup>--lòh-lái thia<sup>n</sup>, bend down to hear, as superior. à<sup>n</sup>-teh-thia<sup>n</sup>, to bend the ear to listen. à<sup>n</sup>-à<sup>n</sup> teh-thia<sup>n</sup>, several persons listening thus. à<sup>n</sup> hī-khang, to bring the

阿
鴉
壓
了
鴉 子
子
阿
百
抑

亦
亞
亦
攔
攬
倚 仔
敢
向

ear near another's mouth. phí-phak-à<sup>n</sup>, appearance of falling forward with arms extended. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiáh-à<sup>n</sup>, fitting well together, as parts of a piece of furniture; friendly; of one mind. bin à<sup>n</sup>-lâm, facing south, as house. à<sup>n</sup>-hái, facing the sea.

ā<sup>n</sup> (R. hām), stuffing or contents of pies, tarts, cakes, &c. ā<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, cakes with stuffing of pease-meal, &c. bō-ā<sup>n</sup>, solid and uniform, as cake with no stuffing. ké-ā<sup>n</sup>, stuffing of steamed cakes. ti<sup>n</sup>-ā<sup>n</sup>, sweet stuffing. kiám-ā<sup>n</sup>, salt do. ti<sup>n</sup>-phê kiám-ā<sup>n</sup> (a sweet cake with salt stuffing), a man who seems friendly, but is really hostile. cheng-sîn-phê gōng-ā<sup>n</sup>, appearance of intelligence while really stupid.

ā<sup>n</sup>, sound of a cow bellowing.

ah (R. ek). ah-láh, to compel. ah-jih, to force an unwilling man to do something. ah-lóh, to repress or curb, as temper or desires, or as other man. ah iáu-bē-lóh, not yet subdued, as temper, &c.

ah (R. ap), to guard, escort, restrain; to write the regular words or dates with red ink on an official document; to make a stroke with the stern larboard oar, worked by the right hand, so as to turn the boat's head to the right.

ah-ün, to rhyme.

ah-kng, a ship's carpenter.

ah-tang, to pass the season (especially the winter) abroad, as vessel. tê ah-tang, the tea is stored up for next year's market.

ah-áu, to follow, as guard or escort. ah-hiòng, to send government money, under escort, to superior mandarins. ah-tsün, to convoy a ship. ah-sàng, to escort. ah-hoân, to guard or escort a criminal. ah-soah, to restrain. ah-hè, to take charge of cargo. ah-hu, overseer of numerous coolies carrying burdens, or of chair-coolies. khu-ah, to keep in ward, as a criminal, or as parties in a lawsuit. ah-koán, to be confined in the less miserable prison.

ah-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to row hard with the stern oar, so as to turn the boat's head round, almost like a helm. hē-lí-ah, you take the stern oar (position of honour in a boat). khah-sit-ah, strike very gently with the oar in your right hand. ah bé-chiú<sup>n</sup>, give a stroke with the larboard oar, so as to turn boat's head to right. ah thâu-chiú<sup>n</sup>, strike with port oar (held in left hand), so as to turn boat's head to left. ah thàu-tit (C.), id.

ah jit-chí, to mark the date with red ink on an official document. ah-jit, id. chhiam-ah, to write the date and make the regular marks in red ink on an official document; the official who writes them. chhiam-ah toā-iá, this official. hoe-ah, the mark on a document below the name, serving as signature.

ah, enclitic particle at end of exclamations and of indicative sentences. chhám-ah, alas!

ah (T.), = A. á, enclitic particle at end of names of things.

ah [R. ek, to benefit, = col. iah]. ah-bú-chháu, a medical plant used for the menses of females.

ah (R. ap), a duck. ah-hêng, a young drake (v. hêng, male). ah-hêng, embryo in duck's egg (v. hêng, form). ah-kak, a drake. ah-bú, a duck (female). ah-bú tsng-kim-sin, iá-si pí<sup>n</sup>-chhùi (a duck, though adorned with gold on its body, yet has a flat bill), said of a dandy appearing ludicrous with all his finery. ah-bú-chhùi, a duck's bill; a hook worn on one's dress for carrying small things. ah-bú-chhùi bōng-lu (duck's bill dabbling about at random), to make an attempt or ask a favour with very small hope of success, but may just as well make the attempt. ah-bú-tôe (having a sole like a duck), said of a man whose foot is very broad and flat at the instep instead of the usual hollow; also of a peculiar vulgar waddling gait, shaking from side to side.

ah-chiú<sup>n</sup>, duck's web-foot. ah-nūg, duck's eggs (v. nūg). ah-hièn, small feathers at duck's tail; two small balls near its tail. ah-pa, dried duck. ah-siú<sup>n</sup>, id. thái koe-ah, to kill fowls and ducks.

ah-kha-sóe, a grain like small millet. ah-kha-sek, id.

chhài-ah, a sort of duck much in use. thé-hoan-ah, the common duck. chiá<sup>n</sup>-hoan-ah, a similar sort. tsúi-ah, wild duck; also said of the "chiá<sup>n</sup>-hoan-ah." hái-ah, a sort of wild sea-bird.

chhit-géh-poá<sup>n</sup> ah-á m-tsai-sí (a duck in the middle of the seventh month, when ducks are usually offered to the spirits of the dead, and yet not fearing death!), said in scolding a man for bad conduct without fear in spite of impending calamity.

áh — áh-chhioh, a square-shaped ruler for drawing lines or cutting paper straight.

áh (R. áp), a casket or small case. áh-bá, id. siu<sup>n</sup>-áh, trunks and caskets. hoe-áh, a flowered casket; a case for flowers. gék-áh, a casket made of jade. siáh-áh, a marble casket. chhâ-áh, a wooden casket. in-sek-áh, box with red ink for stamping. bák-áh, a paper or wooden case for sticks of ink. kiá<sup>n</sup>-áh, a case for a mirror. hún-áh, a case for hair-powder. hun-áh, a tobacco-box. bō-áh, an hat-box. thiap-áh, case for invitation cards (v. thiap). téng-áh, case for small steelyard. chiam-áh, a small needle-case.

áh, to support, as a screen or partition in danger of being blown in, as by a cross-bar, or as by one's arm laid along it. áh-teh, id. áh hit-si, turn it in that direction. áh-kè-lái, áh-kè-khì, to turn a thing back and forwards. áh-tó, to bend or throw down. khít-hong ah-tó, to be blown down, as a screen; to be thrown on her beam-ends, as a ship. áh-pút-tó, a doll made with a heavy round base, so that when pushed over it always rights itself. hē-lâm ah-sai, to turn to the south and west, as fair-weather wind in spring.

ái [R. dust]. tín-ai (R.), dust floating in the air. lâm-hong-ai, mist caused by the south wind. ai-bū, id. thún-ai (C.), soot.

ái — tiō-chiu-ai, plays in the Swatow dialect.

ái (R. id.), exclamation of grief, pain, or distress. ai-chhám, id. ai-ai-kiò, to call mournfully. pi-ai (R.), very sad and sorrowful. ai-oân, to repine bitterly (v. oân). ai-éh, grieved, and murmuring inwardly. khít-ai kiú-lin, to beseech earnestly for some favour when in distress.

ai [R. to pass time, &c., = col. oe]. ū-lái-ai (T.), to have such connection with a man (as by relationship, friendship, or business), that we have some influence with him, or that we are involved in his troubles.

ái — ái-ia, exclamation on a sudden feeling of surprise, regret, or pain. ái-ò, id. ái-ioh, id. ái-ioh-thiá<sup>n</sup>, oh, how painful!

ái — ái-â, expression of wonder (somewhat deliberate).

ái [R. a pass, or gate at a pass]. ái-mûg, street gates. ái-kháu, a fortified gate or pass. koan-ai, a gate in a pass. hiám-ai, very important as a pass.

餡

抑
押

畫
盒

埃

哀

挨

愛

隘

益
鴨

ài (R. id.), to wish, to desire, to like; apt to; to have a tendency to. ài-beh, to wish; to desire. ài-chia, to wish to be here. m-ài, not to wish; indisposed (of mind or body); I don't want it. seng-khu m-ài, unwell. ài-thè, having a tendency to vomit. ài-thè, to desire a rabbit. ài-kè-lâng, infectious. ài kàu-pi<sup>n</sup>, unhealthy, as a place. hit-só-tsai, lâng ài-sí--khi, that place is very unhealthy and deadly. ài tek-tsòe lâng, apt to give offence.

l-ài, to desire very much; to desire and purpose. ài-sioh, to love; to compassionate. keng-ài, to reverence and love. thióng-ài (R.), to love, to favour, as a concubine. lèk-ài, to love too much, as son or nephew; to love blindly and with partiality, so as not to observe or punish his faults, and rather screen him. lèk-ài put-bêng, id. iú-ài (r.), very affectionate (as brothers). sit-ài, to be less loved than others, as child when parents are partial. leng-jin khò-ài, lovable. khó-ài (r.), id. siong-ài, mutually loving (as man and woman). un-ài, to love greatly, as man and woman. leng-ài (R.), your daughter.

sún-ài, a short wide-mouthed trumpet (counted difficult to play). ài-á, a sort of wind-instrument.

ài — un-ài, mumps (v. un).
ai<sup>n</sup> — ai<sup>n</sup>-ai<sup>n</sup>-chhan, to groan mournfully.
ai<sup>n</sup>, interjection expressing surprise and pleasure.
ai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. èng, leisure.
ai<sup>n</sup> (P.), = iāng, to carry on the back, as a man or child.

aih<sup>n</sup>, exclamation of regret at a loss or misfortune (cf. èh and út). ih<sup>n</sup>-aih<sup>n</sup>, discontented, grumbling state of mind, as at a misfortune, or as in a dilemma, when either choice is very inconvenient. m-sái ih<sup>n</sup>-aih<sup>n</sup>, don't distress and worry yourself about it. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup> aih<sup>n</sup>-aih<sup>n</sup>, grumbling at something that has happened and cannot now be put right, e.g. when it would not be polite to find fault, or when the man who has done it is too powerful.

ak (R. id.), to water; to drench. ak-tsúi, to water. ak-púi, to water with liquid manure. ak-hè, drenched with rain. ak-hoa-hé, to extinguish fire with water. ak-sit-hé, id. ak-tám, to drench. ak nng-sa<sup>n</sup> seng-khu, drenched to the skin several times. ak kàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-thàu-thàu, wet to the skin.

ak — ak-tsak, disorderly and inconveniently crowded with articles, as a lumber-room; sad or anxious.

ak (R. ok). mng-ak, sort of outer gateway or porch.

ák (R. ók), a reel or spool for winding thread. ák-á, id. se-ák, id. for cotton. si-soà<sup>n</sup>-ák, id. for silk.

am (R. id.), a Buddhist monastery, nunnery, or temple. am-i<sup>n</sup>, id. am-tng, id. hè-siú<sup>n</sup>-am, Bud. monastery. lí-kè-am, Bud. nunnery. bong-am (C.), a grave with a sort of shrine or pinnacle at the back. phé-am-hút, one of the Buddhas. tê-tng-am (temple of stomach and bowels), said of a literary man absorbing funds collected on the pretext of building a temple.

am — am-pê-chê, the cicada. am-kóng-tsún (C.), id. (v. tsún).

am [R. to understand]. put-am, not understanding matters. put-am sè-bū, does not know how to manage matters. put-am sè-sū (r.), ignorant of the rules of politeness.

am — am-am, foolish; stupid. am-gōng, do.

am-khám, do. am-khám-gōng, very very stupid. am-tham, foolishly greedy.

am — am-am, mixed together without distinction. am-lam, id. am--teh, id. hó-am-phái<sup>n</sup>, good and bad mixed. am-lái am-khi, taking a whole lot on an average, good and bad together. am-lái kah-khi, id. am-lam-báuh, count the price in one lot on an average.

am — am-koe, a long and slender kind of pumpkin, often used salted.

am — koe-am, a basket for fowls (C. ke-lam).

am — am-tsam (Cn.), filthy (v. tsam).

ám (R. hám), a small covered drain or run for water. tsúi-ám, id.; also tubular tiles used for them. táu-ám, a sluice. sò-ám, a sink. kau-ám, a covered drain. khiā-ám, a perpendicular water-pipe or drain. ám-thâu, a funnel-shaped tube of stoneware or metal placed where the gutter of a roof runs off. ám-khang, a small covered drain. ám-khang-ku (a tortoise in a drain), a man who seldom goes out.

ám (probably = ám). ám-péng-sui-khang, holes for running off water from deck; scupper-holes. ám-pái<sup>n</sup>-sui-khang (T.), id.

ám (R. hám). ám-tám-hiòh, a leaf used for adulterating tea. ám-lē (P.), a tree (v. lē).

ám — ám-pūi (Cn.), a stinking insect, = A. chhiū-gūi.

ám, rice-water. ám-ám, thin and watery, like thin rice-water; also (T.), flabby, as man's skin and flesh. ám-chiu<sup>n</sup>, rice-water. ám-bê, congee; rice boiled very soft and watery. ám-sng, soured rice-water (for bleaching). ám-tàng, coagulated rice-water. ám-phéh, scum of rice-water. ám-pūi, do. ám-phí (Cn.), do. chhin-ám, cold rice-water. ám-thng, warm rice-water. phun-ám, rice-water mixed with the water in which rice had been washed. chiu<sup>n</sup>-ám, to starch with rice-water.

ám (R. id.), dark; secret; surreptitious; dark and evil; late at night; to keep secret improperly—or make secret improper gains.

kòe-ám, getting soon dark, as short or cloudy day. beh-ám, almost dark. ám-hè tiâu-mí<sup>n</sup>, rain about dark lasts through the night. gèh-ám-mí<sup>n</sup>, a dark moonless night. hông-hun-ám, twilight of the evening; dusk. ám-iú (Cn.), very late at night. ám-hé, giving a bad flame (as damp wood). ám-hóe (C.), at dark. ám-thâu, the dark night. ám-hún, dark and cloudy, as night (v. hún). ám-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, dark as night.

ε-ám, dark (v. ε). ám khám-gōng, very foolish. ám--tè, a dark place; hades.

sa<sup>n</sup>-jit-ám, the third night after marriage, or after the ceremony of changing natal flowers (oá<sup>n</sup>-hoe), &c. tiám sa<sup>n</sup>-jit-ám, to keep a lamp burning three whole days without ceasing, after certain rites. chhoā bē-sa<sup>n</sup>-jit-ám, not yet three days after marriage; said of an early quarrel.

ám-tám, indistinct, as a colour, or as cloudy weather; dull-coloured. ám-sek, dark-coloured. sek-tsúi ám, the colour is dull. ám-lâm, dark-blue.

ám-so-so, very dark. ám-sô-sô, id. ám-sô-sô, id. ám-bók-bók, id. ám-bong-bong, id. ám-bong-sa, to grope. ε-ám-bong, id. ám-tsut-tsut, quite dark. ám-hông, very dark, as room; very dim, as lamp. ám-phóng, id.

ám-hóng, incognito, in people's dress, or sending messengers to make secret inquiry; to investigate secret-

愛

哀

沃

齋
屋
雙
庵

諳

腌
飯

茴

泔
泊

暗

ly, as mandarin. âm-kúi, a secret mark on the skin, as a wart. âm-kúi, a secret bolt, as of a door or drawer. âm-iok, to make a secret agreement. âm-chi<sup>n</sup>, secret. âm-chi<sup>n</sup>, a secret arrow (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). âm-si<sup>n</sup>, to meditate silently on some purpose. thau-lái âm-khi, to come and go secretly. âm-kè, a secret plot. âm-hūn, to hate secretly. âm-bê, to conspire. sái âm-tók, to conspire to injure a man. âm-sim tê-bê, id. chhái âm-tók, id. sái âm-pê, id. âm-tsóng, to secrete; to hide.

âm-sàm, dark and dirty, as room; improper and depraved (v. sàm). kiáh-teng, m-tsai kha-ê âm (carrying a lamp, does not know the dark place under his feet), said of a man not knowing his own faults. kiá<sup>n</sup>-âm-lê, to practise gambling, licentiousness, &c. âm-lê ká<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>; chi<sup>n</sup>-gūn bô-thiá<sup>n</sup>, wasting money lavishly in licentious pleasures.

âm-khi, to keep secret improperly. âm láng-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to make secret unfair gains out of a man's money. âm-nih<sup>n</sup> tām-pòh, id. âm-khâm, to get secret gains at employer's expense (v. khâm). su-âm, secretly appropriate part of public funds.

âm-kong-chiáu, the owl. âm-oá<sup>n</sup>-chiáu (T.), id. âm-koá<sup>n</sup>-chiáu (T.), id.

âm — âm-kiám siong-hông, = àn---, two persons watching each other (v. àn).

âm (R. hām, or hāng), the neck. âm-á, do. âm-kún, do. âm-kún-kut, vertebrae of neck. âm-kún-khū, the prominent part on back of neck, where the back-bone joins. âm-kún-kū, Adam's apple. âm-kún-tsu, id. âm-kún-kun, muscles of neck. kek âm-kún-kun teh-kóng, to talk in a very irritated way. âm-kún chhái-chhái, neck very short. âm-kún si<sup>n</sup>-liú tú--tiòh, it cannot be helped.

âm-kui, the front of the throat. kóng-ōe tiu<sup>n</sup> âm-kui, almost choking with rage in speaking. tiu<sup>n</sup> âm-kún-kui, id.

âm-á-kúg, the throat, the gullet. âm-ê, the throat below the chin. ê-âm, id. teúg-âm, the upper part of the neck.

âm-sê, dewlap of cow; babies' napkin or bib. âm-séh (C.), id. âm-koá<sup>n</sup>, a child's napkin; also (Cn.), a string of various things hung round a child's neck. péh-âm-tsoá, a very venomous serpent with white breast. péh-âm-koá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. péh-âm--ê, a worm with white breast, used in medicine.

niáu<sup>n</sup>-âm, neck having a scar from a sore. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-âm, id. chhàu-âm, neck having a large sore on it. toá-âm-liú, large tumour or goitre on neck. oai-âm, having a wry neck, and head bent down on one side. oai-âm-á, id. oan-âm, said of an affair difficult to manage, in which many blunders are made; also, of suddenly meeting a man whom we wish to avoid. tiàu-âm, to hang oneself. thi<sup>n</sup>-âm, to stretch out its neck and look up, as a beast (not said of man).

tsúí im-âm (water up to neck), said of very great and imminent danger. lun-thâu bih-âm, attitude of looking or listening intently with head drawn back. náu<sup>n</sup>-thâu tsūn-âm (C.), to shake about head and neck improperly.

âm (R. há). âm-bôe, a young frog. âm-múi<sup>n</sup>, id.; some say (esp. T.) a tadpole.

âm (R. iām), dense and luxuriant, as grass or shrubs, or foliage.

âm (T.), = hoan. an-tsū, = A. han-tsū, sweet potatoes.

an [R. peace; to set at rest, = col. oa<sup>n</sup>], to put on,

as gilding, turf, &c. (to make orderly arrangement); to consecrate, i.e. to perform rites when anything is first made or used, so that it may be fortunate. an-ún, safe. an-jiên, in quiet ease and comfort. an-jiên tsū-tsai, id. an-hân tsū-tsai, id. an-cheng, at peace and quiet without any trouble. an-lók (R.), happy, peaceful, and comfortable (v. lók). an-sek-jit, Sabbath. anhioh-jit, id. pêng-an, peace and quiet. pêng-an-bô-sū, id. pêng-an-chhi, the cactus. pêng-an-tai-kiet, peace and great prosperity. pêng-an-chiò, Taoist rites to procure blessings. pêng-an-soá<sup>n</sup>, a medicine for colic. chhéng-an, to salute, as by letter or by messenger.

an-sim, cheer up, keep your mind at rest; a peaceful mind. an-úi, to comfort. an-bin, to quiet the minds of the people. an-bin, may you sleep quietly, good-night. an-sin, to dwell in quietness. bô-tê thang an-sin, having no place to rest or live at peace. an-hūn, contented with our state or our business. anka, to put one's household matters pretty straight by some money given or advanced by employer (or borrowed), before going abroad. an-ka-gūn, money thus given or lent. an-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to bring up as an adopted child or slave. an-ti, to prepare, as place; or set in order, as room for guests. an-tùn, to put in order, as a room; to set an affair in a somewhat safer state. an-pái, to tidy up, to put in nice order, as furniture, &c. (v. pái). an-chhah, to arrange, as troops in garrisons or quarters (v. chhah). an-tah, id.; also, to make arrangements for an affair going on well, e.g. by getting a party to delay a little, or by talking over influential persons; to make arrangements for persons getting a livelihood. an-tah hó-sè, id. an-tsóng, to bury with all due rites. an-iá<sup>n</sup>, to encamp. an-chê, id. an iáh-tsām, to set regular relays of couriers or horses. an kī-chí, to set out the chess-men ready for a game.

an-chi<sup>n</sup>, to place the arrow on the string. an-keng tah-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. an chek-bāng, to attach the reed in making candles. an chháu-phia<sup>n</sup>, to lay turf. an-kim, to gild with gold-leaf. an-joán, to glue on the bright-coloured feathers called "chhùi-joán."

an-hū, to affix a charm. an-mūg, to consecrate a new door. an-úi, to consecrate an idol's seat; to invite a specially-honoured guest to take his seat at a feast, by special rites (v. ũi). an-chhiám, to lay the keel of a vessel with superstitious rites. an-thai, to perform Taoist rites to remove pain in the womb. an-thé, to set down a coffin for burial; to perform rites to ease the pain of a child or pregnant woman (v. thé). an-théh, consecrate a new house and its courtyard. an-chhng, to consecrate the marriage-bed. an-lêng, to begin the worship of a person recently deceased, done by the relatives and priests.

an-ki<sup>n</sup>, the first watch in the night. an-ki<sup>n</sup>-chhèng, the signal-gun fired at the beginning of it.

an-hui, Ngan-hwuy province. an-lām, Cochinchina. an-khoe, Ankoí. kang-an, the provinces of Kiang-su and Ngan-hwuy (v. tō).

an (R. àn: cf. col. hoá<sup>n</sup>, hoá), to lay the finger or hand gently on. an-khang, to put the fingers on the holes of a flute, &c. chhiú an-i, lay hand on, as on his head (esp. Cn.)

ân (R. êng), tight; hard-up for cash. pák-ân, to tie tight. kat-ân, to make a knot tight. pek-ân, to press urgently, as for debt. ân tong-tong, very firm, as a knot. ân-sò, hard-up for cash. ân-khang, do. chi<sup>n</sup> ân, do. chi<sup>n</sup>-chhà ân, id. ân-tan, tightly tied, as parcel; stiff and tight, as drawer; strongly

頤

蝦 艷

安

按

made, as furniture; tightly stretched, as the skin of a diseased swelling or of an over-fat man. sia<sup>n</sup> ân-tan, voice distinct, clear, and ringing, as in reciting books or giving orders, or as man who has got a little liquor. ân-thân (C.), tightly drawn, as rope or cloth; fitting too tight, as dress; tightly roped, as box; firm and fat, as healthy flesh. phê pi<sup>n</sup>-khi-ân, make your skin tight and ready for a beating.

ân (C.), - A. êng, leisure.

ân, = 4, ng (Cn. in), familiar prefix to titles of relations, &c. ân-né, mamma! ân-koa<sup>n</sup>, said by a female slave to her master's father. ân-niū<sup>n</sup>, said by female slave to master's mother. ân-gū, phrase used to babies.

ân [R. a table, = col. oà<sup>n</sup>], a lawsuit; a legal case. ân-toh, a long high narrow table set at the wall, generally at middle of room, for idols, &c. tióng-ân, id. tióng-ân-toh, id. tióng-ân pat-sien, a set of two tables, one long, the other square.

ân-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a lawsuit (classifier "khi"). ân-chêng, circumstances of a lawsuit. sió-ân, a small unimportant case. tióng-ân, a serious case. si-ân, a case fully settled or ended; a capital case. tsòe-ân, a case of a great crime. kiap-ân, case of robbery. bêng-ân, case of murder or homicide.

tsòe-ân, to make a false complaint in a legal case. teh-tsòe-ân, telling falsehoods.

hoân-ân, to be accused. tsai-ân, to have a suit pending. tó-ân, to lose one's case. kiet-ân, to wind up a case finally, as the parties do by signing an agreement. siau-ân, to give up or end a case, either by a regular settlement or by letting it drop. chhip-ân, letting a case sleep for a time. phoe-ân, to write the official answer to the complaint. phoe ân-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. chhâ-ân, to examine the case legally. mng-ân, to examine as judge. sim-ân, to judge in a case. phoà-ân, to come to a clear understanding of a case, so as to see through the lies and know the true state of it; said figuratively of dismissing a bad employé. phoà<sup>n</sup>-ân, to decide a case, as of disputed property. têng-ân, to give judgment. tsûn-ân, to lay up the papers of case. thê-ân, to call up a case from the lower court, as on appeal. tiâu-ân, id. hoan-ân, to reverse the decision of the lower court.

ân-tók-iâ, a prime minister of the Han dynasty, worshipped by the underlings in yamuns.

ân [R. an, peace]. ân-sek-liu<sup>n</sup>, gum-benzoin.

ân (R. ièn). ân-chhài, please eat! said to guests.

ân [R. to lay the hand on; according to; to examine, = col. an, hoà<sup>n</sup>, hoà], according to; to deposit an article as security for payment in a short time, only with an acquaintance, and on much better terms than a pawnshop gives.

ân-chhat-si, provincial judge (v. chhat). ân-si, id.

ân-sng, to make a rough estimate on fingers, or mentally. ân-chi<sup>n</sup>, to borrow money from an acquaintance at a very easy rate, giving some article as security. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-ân-hâ, just leave that matter over till more pressing matters have been attended to. ân-giáh, to lay by a sum for some special purpose, or for a man not present when his share falls due. ân-hê--teh (T.), id. ân-kiàm sióng-hông (each having his hand on his sword and on his guard), said of two men mutually watching each other.

ân-hoat (R.), according to law. ân-si, according to the time. ân-si ân-tsun, id. ân-jit, according to the day; reckoning days; day by day. ân-si ân-

jit, according to the proper day and hour. ân-chia, this way. ân-hia, that way. ân-ni<sup>n</sup>, thus, so. ân-ni<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, id. ân-hi (r.), id. ân-hí (T. C.), id. ân-hiū<sup>n</sup>-si (C. T.), in that way (v. hiū<sup>n</sup>). ân-ni<sup>n</sup>-ngá (Cn.), so. ân-tsái<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, how?

ân [R. hân, a limit, to limit, = col. hiên, hát], to promise to pay a debt at a fixed time, or to have some work finished at a certain date, later than it ought to have been. ân--chit-ê, id. ân-chê, to promise to pay a debt at a fixed time. hê-i-ân, to allow him the delay to the date he asks. khoan-ân, to extend the time; to act with forbearance as to the date. bôe-ân--tit, no delay can be allowed; must pay or finish the work at date first agreed upon. kê-ân, to pass the time fixed. thiap-kê-ân ê-gún, payment for lateness; demurrage. ân-kî, to appoint a date. ân si-khek, to fix the time to a moment. ân tî-sî, what time is appointed? ân sim-mih<sup>n</sup> sé-tsái, what place is fixed, as for payment.

bô-kài-ân, boundless, unlimited. iú-ân (C.), = iú-hiên, few; of limited number.

ang (R. ong), the surname Wang.

ang, a husband. ang-sài (r.), a husband. kê-ang, to marry a husband. ang-bé, man and wife; husband and wife. ang-pô, id. ang-chiá (C.), id. ang-á-chiá (P.), id. kiet tsòe ang-bé, to become man and wife. bô ang-bé-chêng, not according to the feelings that should exist between married persons, e.g. quarrelling or beating, or as widower marrying very soon after wife's death. lê-thâu-ang, man cohabiting with woman without marriage.

ang [R. ong, an old man], the surname Wung.

tiò-hi-ang, the kingfisher; also a picture of an old fisherman.

ang — hái-ang, the whale, = keng-hí.

ang [R. kong; a duke, a lord], an idol, an image (esp. C.)

ang-á, pictures of men; toy images. ang-á-jîn, the pupil of the eye. ang-á-thâu, a head (without a body), for children to play with; the reflection of the observer in another man's eye; a man's name written at the top corner of a page in ledger.

ang-î, a sorceress, a witch (not Cn.)

ang-sin, an idol. ang-hút (C.), = A. sin-pút, idols in general. ang-kong-tsó, an idol. ang-kong (C. T.), id. mûi<sup>n</sup>-ang-á (C.), = A. mng-sin, figures painted on doors. chiòh-ang (C.), stone images at graves or temples. ang hiên, tê-tsu lók-lién (C.), when the idol is powerful, his votaries lose their fortune (as they spend so much money on their idol).

âng (R. hông), red; red colour much used on joyful occasions, and by women, especially at marriages; also, a surname, but rarely, the usual surname being the following word. put-chí-âng, very red; said also of a man whose word is readily followed by mandarins, or by the head of a mercantile house.

tng-âng, to stamp with red ink, as a document. âng-téng, first-class mandarin. káu-sái-âng (colour of dog's excrement), opaque red button of lower rank. âng-ia<sup>n</sup>-bô, cap of mandarin servants and runners. âng-pái, a vessel's papers or register. âng-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a petition or complaint on red paper, used by gentry or literati or strangers.

âng-mng, red-haired; vulgar word for British. âng-mng-lâng, a British or English man. âng-mng-kok, Britain. âng-thâu, large Cantonese

限

汪公翁

翁公

紅

阿案

安宴按

junks. àng-liâu, bricks and tiles of all sorts. àng-hê, red clouds, as in evening. àng-hê, red shrimps.

àng-tsó, dried fruit of the jujube-tree (commonly called Chinese dates). àng-khi, the common persimmon. àng-hoe, a plant used in dyeing. àng-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = khô-koe, the bitter cucumber. àng-thê, Turkey opium. kim-hoe-àng, id.

oã<sup>n</sup>-àng, to put on ordinary dress at end of mourning. tûg-àng, id.; also, of colour, to change to red. àng-pau, a small cumshaw or reward to a literary man. àng-ó, red bridal dress. àng-ôe, bridal shoes. àng-kiô, bridal sedan. kã i koà-àng, to give him some red thing (especially a red scarf), or money wrapped in red paper, to a man who does some unlucky thing in our behalf, e.g. who assists at the funeral of our relative, or makes arrangements for the re-marriage of a widow.

àng-chiã<sup>n</sup>, a red-faced actor in a play. e-àng-pìn, face painted, as in plays or incense processions.

pàng-àng, bloody dysentery. phui-àng, to spit blood.

thih sio-àng, heat iron red-hot. hé kek kàu-chin-àng, make the furnace very hot. àng-thi<sup>n</sup> chhiah-jit-thâu, cloudless hot sky.

àng-tiu-tiu, very red. àng-phà-phà, do. àng hám-hám, do. àng-ki-ki, do. àng-kòng-kòng, do. toã-àng-sek, rich crimson. àng-kham-sek, dark brownish red. àng-hoá<sup>n</sup>, dull indistinct red. hún-àng, whitish red. àng-kháu, reddish. tsúi-àng, light red. chhiò-àng, light red. gún-àng, bright red, brighter than "tsúi-àng." thô-àng, rich red of peach blossoms and Chinese card-paper. tsu-àng, rich bright red; vermilion. iú<sup>n</sup>-àng, a bright foreign red. iú-àng, do.; also to paint red.

àng (R. hòng), a surname; mand. Hung, the surname of Tai-ping-wang.

àng (R. iam). àng-lèk-kôe, sort of salted shellfish from the north.

àng — àng-láng, obstinate; sour-tempered, and rather stupid, so as to be difficult to consort with. àng-láng-siú<sup>n</sup>, planning or thinking foolishly, e.g. to get improper things, or forming impracticable plans, or afraid when there is no cause for fear. àng-láng-phái<sup>n</sup>, stupidly overbearing, angry, or threatening in manner; angry without sufficient cause, and generally stupidly angry; said of any one, but especially of a raw foolish lad. àng-láng-ok, id.

àng (R. òng), a large narrow-mouthed earthen jar. àng-á, small do. tiong-àng, medium-sized do. kàu-phê-àng, a jar made very thick and strong; impudent. gū-phê-àng, large jars made of cow-hide (from Straits). bí-àng, a rice-jar. bit-àng, a honey-jar. ũ-bit-àng, said of a very sweet bit of sugar-cane, having a crack full of saccharine matter. chiáh-bit-àng, to suck the fingers (as children). suh bit-àng, id. chiú-àng, a wine-jar. chiú-àng-thê, a cement for closing up wine-jars. bôh--tit ló-kun-kong ê chiú-àng (T.), don't behave in that swaggering way like a drunk fellow (jocular allusion to "thien-thôh"). àng-tāng, larger and smaller earthen pots (v. tāng).

àng (R. òng). siã<sup>n</sup>-àng, the space between the outer and inner walls at a city gate. àng-siã<sup>n</sup>, the additional wall inclosing that space. thê-àng, a nest or hole in the ground. thê-sat-àng, hole of mud-fish. jip-àng-lái, to get into a cul-de-sac, or road that has no outlet; to keep in the house, not going out.

àng (R. òng). béh-àng, the leg of a stocking. hia-àng, the leg of a boot.

àng — hī-àng-á, the cavity of the ear. si<sup>n</sup> hī àng-á, the ear suppurating (v. hī). phi<sup>n</sup>-àng, inner cavity of the nose. phi<sup>n</sup>-àng-á, id.

àng — phi<sup>n</sup> àng, the nose stuffed. phi<sup>n</sup> àng-àng, id. àng-phi<sup>n</sup>, id. àng-phi<sup>n</sup>--ê, man who has the nostril naturally somewhat obstructed. hī-khang àng-àng, ear stuffed or obstructed internally, so that hearing is difficult. kóng-ôe àng-àng, to talk nasally and indistinctly. sia<sup>n</sup> àng, voice indistinct from obstruction of nose. sia<sup>n</sup> àng-àng, id. sia<sup>n</sup> àng--lái, sound re-echoed, as from a cave, &c.

áp (C.) = A. gap, to swallow water, as a fish.

áp (R. id.), to repress. áp-kiã<sup>n</sup>, to repress fear, as by liquor, or as in children by medicine. pân-chiú áp-kiã<sup>n</sup>, to keep down fear by liquor. tin-áp, to keep down, as people (by troops), or as evil influences of demons. tân-áp, to prevent disturbance or rebellion, as by a display of force. chê-áp, to repress, as evil spirits (v. ebê). áp-chê, id., or to oppress, as a powerful man (v. chê).

áp (R. id.) áp-siet, to treat with much rudeness and want of respect, as by rude talk.

áp (R. háp). thi<sup>n</sup> áp-áp, sky cloudy and overcast, as when about to rain.

áp = ah (R. id.), a casket. hoe-áp, a case for artificial flowers; a flowered casket. poã<sup>n</sup>-áp, a round wooden basket with several horizontal divisions. chiên-áp, a small wicker basket or paper parcel of a few sweetmeats offered to idols. chiên-áp-khoeh, small box for holding them. sa<sup>n</sup>-keh chiên-áp, do. with three compartments. lák-keh chiên-áp, do. with six. chiên-áp-kê, frame on which tám-chiën is put when offered. tám-chiën-áp, offerings of fruits preserved in honey stuck on the frame on bamboo slips.

at [R. àn, according to]. at liâu-phek, according to proper rules and time (v. phek). at-hê--teh (T. àn-hê--teh), to lay by a sum of money, e.g. the share of a man not present when the division is made, or as a sum to be ready for some special purpose or emergency (s. bend).

at (R. id.), to break; to bend; to hinder; to split the difference. at-khiau, to bend crooked. at-tit, to bend straight. at--lôh-lái, to bend down, as branch.

at-á, a small bit of wood nailed on to keep something in its place. at-lá, id. kè-at (Cn.), id.

at-chí, to restrain; to repress (v. chí). at hē-i-chí, to staunch. at-chê, to prevent a man (by power) from doing what he intended. at-chhih, to prevail on a man (by strong pressure or powerful influence) to do what he was very unwilling to do. at-jih, do.; said also of an arbiter or friend urging a party to submit in a hopeless case. at gé-mûg, to prevail on yamun subordinates (by powerful influence or bribes) to delay issuing a warrant, or let a case sleep. at-hê--teh, to get people to suspend further action in a quarrel or lawsuit, till means be taken for having it finally and fully settled (s. according).

at-chih, to break, as a limb, &c. at-tûg, to break off. at-hoe, to pluck a flower. at tsôe-nûg-tûg, to break (as a stick, &c.) into two pieces. at ko-á, to divide profits (lit. break cake). at chiã-không, to gamble by breaking sugar-cane. at moã<sup>n</sup>-liâu, to gamble by breaking a confection.

襪 鞋

壓

押合盒

按

過

洪

瓮

au (R. id.), a surname. au-iông, a double surname.

au (R. id.), a small cup. au-á, id. tê-au, a tea-cup. hip-au, a cup with a cover. khâm-au, id. kim-au, a golden cup. kim-au gék-tsoá, cups of gold and of jade. tâng-au, a small brass cup, as for lamp. chhâ-chek-au, id. on top of a wooden imitation candle. chiú-au, a wine-cup. mûi<sup>n</sup>-au (C.), small iron rings or ferules put on the "mûng-lún," which serve instead of hinges for a Chinese door, to keep them from wearing away by use.

au — au-tsau, ugly, as face; filthy (v. tsau). au-lâu, having an ugly fat face. au-au lâu-lâu, id.

au — au-sa<sup>n</sup>, to soak clothes in water before washing. au lóh chhi<sup>n</sup>-kng, to steep in the dye-vat, as cloth.

au, to crumple. au-lau, to crumple up. au tsòe-chit-tui, to put things carelessly together in a heap. chiá<sup>n</sup>-au tò-au, to lay things about in disorder; careless in managing a matter.

áu (R. hê), the throat; (a narrow pass). áu-lâi, within the throat. áu tî<sup>n</sup>, choking feeling, as if about to weep. áu tsát, id. áu ta, chih khoah, very very thirsty. só-áu, to seize by the throat, as dogs or men fighting. koah-áu, to cut the throat. kè-áu, to be swallowed. ũ áu-ün, pleasant feeling in mouth after good tea (v. ün). lòh-áu, to swallow. thun bõe-lòh-áu, difficult to swallow, as unpleasant food. ké-khek, chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bõe-lòh-áu, said of a man telling transparent lies that cannot be swallowed.

nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu, the throat. nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu-kúg, the gullet; the windpipe (v. kúg). ké<sup>n</sup>--tiòh nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu, choking in throat. toá nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu-khang, talking loud and angrily. nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu tih-á, the uvula. nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu-ngê, a deadly swelling of glands of throat (v. ngê).

nâ<sup>n</sup>-áu-tóe, lower part of throat. áu-tóe, id. chín áu-tóe ê-sia<sup>n</sup>, to sing or read as loud as possible. toá-áu-không, voice so strong that it can be heard at a great distance (v. không). tít-áu, monotony, or broken voice in singing, &c.; indistinct and almost inarticulate sound in throat of a man near death; a long inspiration, as in smoking tobacco through water. kiò kàu tít-áu, to shout out loud and long till hoarse, and losing the voice. chhiú<sup>n</sup> kàu tít-áu, to sing till quite hoarse. káu-sia<sup>n</sup>, khít-chiáh-áu, said of a man talking in a clamorous way, or singing very unpleasantly.

ien-áu (r.), the throat; an important pass.

áu (R. hê), to call out loud, as hawkers or pedlars, &c. áu-kiò, to shout very loud; to yell; to cry out loud. áu-kiú, to call out loud for help. toá-sia<sup>n</sup>-áu, to shout loud. không-không-áu, incessant loud calling. siông-siông-áu, constantly calling out loud, as pedlar.

áu (R. id.), to hend; to fold; to hem; to droop (as leaves); to oppress violently; (obstinate).

áu chít-thâu, to carry one load on a pole.

nng-áu, drooping, as leaves in drought. ê-áu, black and withered, as leaves or decaying fruit; black and blue, as when beaten.

áu-pê, to fold a hem; to hem. áu-phâng, the sail suddenly bulged out, and blown half over the side by a squall. khah-áu-pün, sail much too full, and bulging too much, as in tacking.

áu-khiau, to hend crooked. áu-tít, to bend straight. áu-tsoá, to fold paper, as for columns of writing. áu-jiáu, to wrinkle; to crease, as dress, or as dog's ears in books. áu-chhiú, to bend the arm. áu chhiú-bé, to try which of the two can pull the other's arm back (the arms being bent at right angle). áu-chih, to break by bending.

áu-ut, to insist violently and falsely that a man has done something bad, so as to oppress him. áu-peh-jin, unjustly and perversely refusing to pay what is due. áu-bân, obstinately and injuriously in the wrong, e.g. unjustly defrauding, &c. chip-áu, obstinate. áu-phiah, id. chip-sí-áu, extremely dogged. áu-hoái<sup>n</sup>, very unfair, violent, and overbearing, or oppressive, as in demanding too much, or refusing to pay. áu-hoái<sup>n</sup>-thêh, extremely rapacious. áu-khi--lâng, to scold a man very violently and unfairly because of something wrong, which is not his fault, though it may have some slight colour of reason. khít lêng áu-khi, to be thus scolded unjustly. áu-kiông, violently, or very urgently press another to do what he is unwilling to do; very determined to make others take his way. kiông-kiông-áu, violently press to confess, as a mandarin, by repeated beatings.

áu [R. é, to strike, to heat]. áu-jiók, to beat and insult. áu-tá<sup>n</sup> (R.), to beat. áu-chhe, to beat a constable on duty.

áu — gâm-áu-á, a sort of fish. lêng-áu, sort of fish.

áu (R. é), to vomit. áu-thê, to vomit. áu-hông, to vomit blood. áu-huih, id. áu-tsúi, to vomit water; unable to accomplish what one takes in hand. khang-áu, trying to vomit, but bringing up nothing. chhi<sup>n</sup>-áu, do., or only a little sour water. péh-áu, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-áu péh-áu, id. chí-áu, to cure the tendency to vomit. áu-làu (C.), cholera.

áu (=áu). chip-áu, obstinate. áu-chi<sup>n</sup>, doggedly dispute on wrong side.

áu, stinking, decaying. áu-chhàu, do., rotten and decaying. áu-pak, having a hollow decayed trunk, as tree. áu-chiet, tainted smell. áu-khi, rotten smell. áu--khi, spoiled and rotten. áu-miá<sup>n</sup>, of had reputation. áu-lông, very stinking, as a dead rat, &c., said also in scolding men or women.

áu (R. ò). áu-náu<sup>n</sup>, vexed; displeased; feeling of impatient discontent. áu-láu, id. áu-làu, id. áu-êh, grieved and discontented; murmuring inwardly (v. êh).

áu — bîn áu-áu, angry face. áu-bîn, do. áu-thâu áu-bîn, do. áu-tū-tū, morose and displeased; sulky. áu-pū-pū, id.

áu (R. hê), after; behind. áu-bîn, behind. áu-phiah, do. áu-bé, behind; the end. bé-áu, do. áu-thâu, do. áu-thâu (Cn.)=goá-ke, a wife's own relations. chêng-thâu boé, áu-thâu im, to lose heavily on goods by the price falling. áu-lâi, afterwards; generally some time after, when the work first spoken of has been completed. áu-sin, afterwards; farther back (as back premises). sin-áu, behind one's back; after death. sin-áu-sū, matters after death. tī-lí-sin-áu, behind your back. jiên-áu, afterwards, next, then. liên-áu, id. chít-sí í-áu, from this time onwards.

ka-chiah-áu, behind one's back. ôe-áu, the back part of a shoe. to-áu (T.), the corner of the edge of a square knife close to the handle. áu-tsō-bah, meat of hind-quarter. áu-thúi-bah, id.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-áu, to go to stool. thê-áu, to walk backwards (v. thê). sūi-áu, to follow after. sūi-áu

歐

濕

喉

敲

嘔

拗

臭

懊

餉

後

呼

拗

chiū-lâi, will come immediately. chhûn āu-pē, to have some plan or some money in reserve for emergencies.

ke-āu, wife; wife and children. kè-āu, already past. āu-pái, next time. āu-tso, id. āu-kè (C. āu-kòe, T. āu-kò), next time. āu-kè (C. āu-kè), to marry a second husband after the death of the first. āu-chhoā, to marry a second wife after death of first. āu-pē, step-father (none of these phrases are polite). āu-cheh, id. āu-bú, step-mother.

āu-chin, the back part of a house; posterity (v. chin). āu-sū, descendants. āu-tāi, posterity, after generations. āu-si, a future state of transmigration.

āu-sàng, elder brother accompanying the bride to her husband's house.

hù āu-chhiú, to assist a man, as in a quarrel, or by money. hù i āu-chhiú, id. tsān i āu-chhiú, id. siap āu-chhiú, to give a small bribe or douceur (v. siap).

chêng-āu, before and behind; before and after (of time or place). bô-chêng-bô-āu, neither head nor tail; neither before nor behind. chêng-si āu-jit, former and later times. chêng-khì āu-khang, advancing, but leaving rear unguarded; to lose more than is gained by some action.

āu-kài, the vacant ground at back of a house within the inclosing wall. tī-hí it-āu, at the very furthest back part of the suite of buildings. āu-lôh, back part of a house. āu-lâu, back part up-stairs. āu-iā<sup>n</sup>, rear division of army. āu-chim, the projecting part of the neck at the back; the nape of the neck.

āu-jit, a future day. āu-jit, the day after tomorrow. lôh-āu-jit, the second day after tomorrow. āu-géh, next month. āu-mi<sup>n</sup>, next night. āu-ni<sup>n</sup>, in a following year, either the next or any following year. āu--ni<sup>n</sup>, the year after next.

au<sup>n</sup>— au<sup>n</sup>-au<sup>n</sup>-háu, always crying as child, or barking as dog.

áu<sup>n</sup>, to stutter or lisp, or articulate indistinctly; often put before the name of a man who speaks so. ut-áu<sup>n</sup>, having a bad lisp or defect in articulation, as from a fault in palate or tongue. kóng-ôe ut-áu<sup>n</sup>, to speak with more or less of that fault in articulation.

āu<sup>n</sup>— pûn-āu<sup>n</sup>-u, to blow a sort of trumpet (v. u).

B

b, often pronounced like M, or interchanged with it. If a word be not found here, look under M.

ba— phah-ba-ba, to beat the mouth (as child) in sport. kap-lâng phah-ba-ba, to refuse to pay what is due. chhiô-ba-ba, to smile pleasantly or laugh slightly (with or without a sound), as on receiving a guest. ba-bún-chhiô, to smile.

bâ (a harlot). bâ-thâu, mistress of brothel. āu-bú-bâ, stepmother harlot (vile scolding). chhiong-bâ, a harlot (in vile scolding).

bâ (R. mâ), numb. kóng kàu-chhiú-bâ, to talk till lips are quite wearied. bâ-bin, shameless (s. pock-marked). bôe-bâ-bin, shameless (said to one's face). bâ-pi, feeling of weariness or satiety, as after hard work, long sleep, or sexual intercourse (v. pi).

bâ-hong, leprosy in its early stage.

bâ— bâ-iôh, anaesthetic medicine.

bâ [R. mâ, hemp, = col. môa<sup>n</sup>]. bâ-bin, pock-marked (s. numb). bâ-bin, boán-thien-seng, the pock-marked face became like the sky full of stars; said of a pock-marked man who became a Tsin-sze. seng-bâ, a medicine (Thalictrum?).

bâ-ji-tek, a fine sort of bamboo (v. tek).

bâ [R. biâu, an anchor]. thih-bâ-ji, a sort of iron anchor with three prongs.

bâ— bâ-bui, pleased and smiling (v. vui).

bâ-- bâ-bui (C.), a fruit used as soap.

bâ— bâ-lí, a sort of small cabin in a junk.

bâ (R. bâu). pan-bâ, the blistering fly, or Spanish fly. pi-bâ (Cn.), id.

bâ (R. biâu), a wild cat. soa<sup>n</sup>-bâ, id. iá-bâ, id.; also said in vile scolding (harlot). kè-chí-bâ, a large bat that eats fruit. siáu-bâ, restless and making a great noise, as cats in pairing time. bâ-chhú tông-biên (cat and rat sleep together), said of mandarins or servants, or watchmen, &c., becoming accomplices of wicked men. ke-lâi bô-bâ, niáu-chhú khiaukha, when the cat's away the mice do play. hó-bâ koán pah-ke (a good cat guarding a hundred houses), a man able to take care of others' affairs.

lâi-bâ (C.), a sort of fox. phah bâ-á (C.), to hunt small animals. chhiám-bâ (C.), id. bâ-káu (C.), sort of dog used for hunting. bâ-chhe-á (C.), three-pronged weapon used in hunting.

bâ, final particle (= á), sometimes heard, esp. after P. kap-bá, = kap-á, a frog. áp-bá, or áh-bá, a small casket.

bâ [R. bit, = col. bát], closely jointed, or joined so as hardly to show the joint. tah-bâ, very well joined; very intimate and friendly. ún-tàng tah-bâ, the affair will certainly succeed, esp. as the man who undertakes it is well able.

bâ— bâ-bâ, half-caste Chinese (from the Straits).

bâ (T. nãi<sup>n</sup>, lái), lâi. bâ-hiôh, the kite (v. hiôh).

bâ [R. bék, = col. bái] (T. báh), to search or make inquiries for what is not known (but "chhê" is to search for a known thing or person that is lost). bâ thâu-lê, to look out for a situation. bâ-chhù, to look out for a house, as in order to rent or live in it. bâ-tsún, to search if there be any vessel, as for taking a passage or sending something.

bâ (R. má), a yard.

bâ, having mildew or rust spots, as paper or tin-foil, &c. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bâ, to become thus spotted or mildewed. bâ-bū, dim or spotted, as mirror, gem, or sky (v. bū).

bah = ba. bah-bún-chhiô, to smile.

bah, flesh; pig's flesh; pork (if not otherwise specified); the pulp or edible part of fruit; the blade of a knife; glass of mirror; paper of fan, &c.

ū-bah, there is flesh; there is some sense or something good in it. kiá<sup>n</sup>-bah, a mirror as distinguished from its frame. chí<sup>n</sup>-bah, an arrow-head. to-bah, the blade of a sword or knife. si<sup>n</sup>-bah, the paper of a fan. thê-bah, the good opium in a ball of opium, as distinguished from the skin.

媯
痲 痲
錨
密
蚤
貓

仔
密
覓
碼

koa<sup>n</sup>-bah, dried dragon's eye (lung-yen), or li-chi, without stones or skin. hok-oân-bah, dried dragon's eye without stones or skin.

bah-soãi<sup>n</sup>, an inferior yellow sort of mango. bah-lê, a sort of shell-fish.

koah-bah, to cut a criminal in pieces alive (v. koah). bõe-bah-chi<sup>n</sup>, wages of a "tàng-chi," who cuts himself in idolatrous rites; wages of a substitute who hires himself to be beaten by mandarins. chiáh-púi, thang hē--lâng thài-bah, said of a man who only eats and sleeps, like a pig fattened for slaughter.

chhàu-bah, putrid flesh, as in a sore. si<sup>n</sup> iù-bah, clean new flesh forming when the scab falls off. phái<sup>n</sup>-phê-bah, having a bad constitution, so that a wound or sore heals ill. siau-bah, to grow lean. bah-liú, a fleshy tumour, as on neck or head. lân-san-bah, excrescences on body, as extra finger or thumb. chím-kóng-bah, the large prominent muscle between thumb and fore-finger, said to be wanting in men about to take leprosy. kha-chhiú-bah-chhoah, body all trembling with terror. hoãi<sup>n</sup>-bah-bîn, repulsive, ugly, ill-formed face.

kut-bah, bones and flesh; said also of near relations. kut-chih bah-lih, flesh and bones broken, as by a heavy blow. bah hē-lâng-chiáh, kut m-chiã<sup>n</sup> hē-lâng-khòe (let people eat the flesh but not gnaw the bones), to allow our friends to be somewhat injured or reviled, but will not let it go too far.

gũ-bah, beef. iũ<sup>n</sup>-bah, mutton. chia<sup>n</sup>-bah, the lean of meat, esp. of pork. chhiáh-bah, id. tím chhiáh-bah, to stew lean of meat, for medical preparation. péh-bah, the fat. bah-nng, the fat among the lean (v. nng). bah-iũ, pork fat. sam-tsân-bah, pork having fat and lean in alternate layers. kièn-chí-bah, meat from the loin, esp. pork. bah-phê, pork skin. bah-tàng, coagulated pork, soup, or jelly. bah-jiông, meat (pork) minced small. chhò-bah-si<sup>n</sup>, to mince meat. bah-mi<sup>n</sup>, vermicelli cooked with shrimps and some fat. bah-oân, pork balls. bah-thng, sort of confection containing pork fat. bah-hú, pork boiled, dried, and reduced to fine fibres.

báh (C.), = boáh. báh-á, the crocodile.

báh (T.), = bā; to look out for, as situation or house.

bai (R. pi). chi-bai, the female organ, the vulva (vulgar).

bái [R. id., = col. tái], to bury; (to hide or lay ambush). bái-tsông, to bury. siu-bái, id.

bái-hók, to lie in ambush. bái-tsông (R.), to hide a thing secretly. bái-thâu put-chhut, to keep out of the way when sought for. bái-béng tsà-sú, pretend to be dead (v. tsà). bái-bút, to conceal or make away with, to swindle. bái-bút sin-si, to make away with and conceal a corpse. bái-bút sèng-béng, to conceal one's own real name and surname.

bái-oân, to cherish envy or constant hatred. khioh-hùn bái-oân, to cherish and increase hatred in one's heart.

bái (R. bí). mng-bái, door-lintel, above the door-frame. thang-á-bái, lintel of window. kè-bái, cross-bar built into the wall above the top of the frame of door or window.

bái (R. bí). bák-bái, eyebrows. bák-bái oan, eyebrows arched. bák-bái phah tsòe-chit-kat, eyebrows drawn together from great sorrow or anxiety. bák-bái-mng sa-m-khi (you have not pulled up your eyelashes, and so don't see clearly), said in scolding a man who is raising a matter that must injure himself, or insulting a powerful man, or otherwise behaving very absurdly and only hurting himself. bák-bái-mng sa-bó-khi, id. bák-bái-mng bô-chiu<sup>n</sup>-ám, do. (lit. your eyebrows are not starched!) bák-bái-bé jiáu<sup>n</sup>-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, the outer corners of the eyebrows much wrinkled, as in an old man. bák-bái-bé ngh hē-sin, do. (wrinkles large enough to catch flies). bák-bái-thâu, the space between the eyebrows. bái-thâu, id. bák-bái-thâu jiáu<sup>n</sup>-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, slight wrinkling on brow between the eyebrows, as when distressed or anxious. bák-bái-thâu khioh-kéng, said of the wrinkled face of an old man.

bái-bák hun-béng, very correctly finished and all straight; said of any work or affair. hiáh-bái, the part of the forehead just above the eyebrows; an ornament worn there by women (v. hiáh). úi-bái, to paint the eyebrows, as women. it-ji-bái, eyebrows in a straight line (v. it).

gêh-bái, the crescent moon. chit-bái-á, the crescent moon very small.

bái, = phá<sup>n</sup>, bad. bái-ji, an ill-formed word. sí-bái, having lost colour; wanting in vivacity, and having no appearance of intelligence; almost going out, as a light. (or next word?)

bái, dim, as light of a lamp. teng-hé bái-bái, the lamp burns dimly. tiám--khi bái-bái, light a lamp giving but little light.

bái — bái-kúi, a large sort of spider with eight legs and thin body (while "lâ-giã" has seven legs and a large body); it is supposed to place itself right opposite the face of a man sleeping on his back, so as to produce a very oppressive feeling. hē bái-kúi teh, to have this oppressive feeling, as if the breast were pressed down by a dark demon; it is removed by shaking one's self or turning on the side. khít bái-kúi teh, id. ná<sup>n</sup> bái-kúi--nih (like that large spider), said as of a thief coming silently and secretly so that no one knows, or of a man stealthily enticing to bad courses. tú--tióh bái-kúi, to be unexpectedly deceived or swindled; to meet accidentally a man who seduces into wicked courses, or deludes into keeping up a feud that would otherwise have been settled. khít bái-kúi bái--teh, to be suddenly seduced into vicious courses. khít i bái--khi, id. bái--teh, suddenly to appear and vanish, like a thief or a spy.

bái [R. bék, to search, = col. bā], to visit, to make polite inquiries. sa<sup>n</sup>-bái, id. bái-béh, to feel the pulse. bái-pi<sup>n</sup>, to visit the sick, and ask about his health. bái-song, to visit a house containing an unburied corpse, and worship it. kiã-bái, to send salutations.

tam-bái (Cn.), = tam-khoã<sup>n</sup>, to examine by tasting. chhi-bái (Cn.), to examine and try. chhã-bái (Cn.), = chhã-khoã<sup>n</sup>, to make minute inquiries about a matter.

bak, to soil, to infect, to pollute (lit. or fig.) bak-lak, id. bak-kia<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to soil, to defile. bak-lã-sâm, id. bak-tâm, to wet, to moisten. bak-tang bak-sai, to soil many things, or in many ways. bak--tióh i-ê-sin (T.), he got involved (as in lawsuit) through no fault of his.

bak chit-ê-miã<sup>n</sup>, said of a man supposed to be doing work, but really idle or absent.

ài-bak-chhiú, to meddle, in order to make some money, where one has no business. mi<sup>n</sup>-bak, to make some money secretly on a transaction committed to him. it--tióh mi<sup>n</sup>-bak, wishing to have the man-

辰
埋

楣

眉

覓

agement of the matter for the sake of the underhand gain on it.

bák (R. bók), the eye; a knot in wood, the swelling at a joint; meshes of a net, holes of sieve, or of wicker-work of bamboo sail used as measure of breadth of a bamboo sail.

siàu-bák, an account. tôe-bák, a thesis or text. tiâu-bák, a list of articles or account. ji-bák chhim, very good at reading and writing. ji-bák chhién, not well educated.

thâu-bák, a leading man, &c. (v. thâu).

ka-tsui-bák, a staple. chhâ-bák, a knot in wood. tek-bák, a bamboo joint. ũ lâu-bák, have few knots far apart, as wood or bamboo. tsôe-bák, knots numerous, as in wood. kut-bák, the projection at a joint, especially small joint. kha-bák, the ankle. chhiú-bák, the protuberance at the wrist; also, the knuckles. tsúg-thâu-á-bák, the knuckles at middle of finger.

bák-kià<sup>n</sup>, spectacles (v. kià<sup>n</sup>). hê lêng-bák, to wash the eye of the dragon boat. bin-bák, countenance (v. bin).

khòa<sup>n</sup>-chiū<sup>n</sup>-bák, to think well of, to respect (v. chiū<sup>n</sup>). bák-lāi ũ-i, to think well of him. bák-tê ũ-i, id. bák-tê-bô, to despise (v. tê).

bák-péh, to miss stays in tacking.

pê-bák, the interstices between the threads in cloth (v. pê). khah-toā-bák, having large holes, as a sieve, &c.

bák-chiu, the eye. bák-chiu-jin, the eyeball. bák-chiu péh-jin, the white of the eye. bák-chiu ang-á-jin, the pupil. bák-chiu-chí, the eyeball. bák-chiu-oá<sup>n</sup>, the socket of the eye. bák-kháng-khū, id. bák-kháng, id. bák-khang, id. bák-chiu-phê, eyelid. bák-chiu-mŭg, eye-lashes. bák-chiu-khê toā-lúí, so proud as not to recognize or look at one. bák-thâu, inner corner of the eye. bák-chiu-thâu iu-iu, brows knitted between the eyebrows. bák-thâu koài<sup>n</sup>, proudly looking down on people, as on poor relatives. bák-bé, the outer corner of the eye. bák-bé jiáu<sup>n</sup>, wrinkles at outer side of eyes, as in old man. sái bák-bé, to give a side glance of displeasure or lasciviousness (v. sái). bák-thâu jiáu<sup>n</sup>-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, wrinkles between the eyes, as when distressed or anxious. bák-thâu khá, skilful at recognizing or calculating at a glance. bák-thâu tâng-tâng, heavy feeling and slight headache about eyes.

bák-bái, eyebrows (v. bái). bák-ki<sup>n</sup>, edges of eyelids (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). bák-sún, wrinkle on edge of upper eyelid (v. sún). bák-kun âng, eyes red with liquor. ũ bák-kun, to have good and rapid perception of the right course to be taken in any case. bák-sek, power of calculating or recognizing at a glance (v. sek, "to know").

bák-iú, tears drawn by cold or smoke, &c. bák-sái, tears; but (C.), = A. bák-sái-ko (v. sái). bák-tsái (C.), tears.

bák ham, swollen eyelids. hong-bák, inflamed eye. si<sup>n</sup> bák-chiam, to have a sty on the eyelid. bák hoe, eyes dim. kun-si-bák, near-sighted. thap-bák, sunken eyes. bák-sā-si, to doze.

hê-bák, to look askance angrily. péng péh-bák, to turn up the white of the eyes, as in pride or anger. khoeh-bák, to close the eyes (as in sleep), said to children (v. khoeh). sut-bák, to wink, as a signal (v. sut). nih<sup>n</sup>-bák, to wink (v. nih<sup>n</sup>). sái-bák-chi<sup>n</sup>, to cast an angry or amorous glance (v. sái). túg-bák, to glance sidewise, to turn the eye (v. túg). té-bák, to calculate roughly by sight. tā<sup>n</sup>-bák, to make a mistake in looking. hiá<sup>n</sup>-bák, to catch the eye, as gaudy goods. kê-bák (C. kòe-bák), to be looked at (v. kê, "to cross").

bák-kng ê-lâng, a man who can see (not blind). thi<sup>n</sup> bô-bák, Heaven observes not, as when great crimes pass unpunished. toā-sòe-bák, eyes of different size, partial. pàng-toā-sòe-bák, to wink at the faults of a favourite person. chhiú pá, bák m-pá, the mouth may be satisfied, but the eye is insatiable.

koe-bák (eye like a fowl's), fond of sleep, going soon to bed. iú<sup>n</sup>-bák (like a sheep's), eyes not fully closing in sleep. iú<sup>n</sup>-á-bák, id. chhát-bák, a covetous thievish eye. gōng-bák, a stupid eye. pút-bák, immovable eyes, like an idol's. péh-bák-pút, the idol called Keh-sèng-ông (v. pút).

bák-kim, at present (v. kim), at this time. bák-ê, id. (v. ê). bák-chêng, at present. tí-bák-chêng, before one's eyes.

si-bák sa<sup>n</sup>-tùi, two persons (esp. man and wife, or partners) looking helplessly at one another, as when without money and having no resource; or as when in great danger, calamity coming on; said also of the four needle-holes in good embroidery, forming a perfect square. chhài-ki, si-bák sa<sup>n</sup>-tùi, should be equitable in dealings (fig. from embroidery). ang-bé, si-bák sa<sup>n</sup>-tùi, man and wife without money or means of getting it, looking vacantly at each other. si-bák bô-chhin, having no relations.

bák (cf. bong, bók). ám-bák-bák, very dark.

bák [R. bit, close, = col. bít, bā], bák-sit, a great many, only of things, not of men or affairs.

bák [R. bók, wood, tree]. bák-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, a carpenter. tsòe-bák, to do carpenter work. toā-bák, carpenter who makes the wood-work of houses. sió-bák, carpenter who makes furniture.

bák-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a wood used as medicine for diarrhoea, &c., putchuk (Costus amarus?) bák-hiu<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, id. σ-bák, ebony (v. σ), (s. ink). so-bák, sapan-wood, a red dye. bák-tsát-chháu, a plant used like sand-paper.

chhiū-bák, trees in general. hoe-bák, flowering bushes and shrubs. lóng-si hoe-bák, it is full of flowers and shrubs.

bák-liäu, timber (materials), whether in rough form or cut and sawn up. bák-sa, a wooden railing. bák-kiáh, wooden clogs (v. kiáh). bák-pê, a weapon with three or more prongs (v. pê).

bák-sat, a bed-bug (v. sat).

bák (R. bók). bák-ni<sup>n</sup>, white jessamine. bák-ni<sup>n</sup>-hoe, id.

bák (R. bék), ink, solid or liquid. boâ-bák, to rub down ink. ùn-bák, to dip the pen in ink. σ-bák, black ink (s. wood). σ-bák-bák, very black bô-jī bô-bák, without written proof, as a marriage or agreement without documents.

bák-tiâu, a stick of ink. chit-tiâu-bák, one stick of ink. bák-thúí, a large round stick of ink. se-bák, ink from Soo-chow. kia<sup>n</sup>-bák, ink from Peking.

bák-hi<sup>n</sup>, ink and ink-stone. pit-bák-hi<sup>n</sup>, pen, ink, and ink-stone. bák-poah, sort of ink-stand like a bowl for writing large characters. bák-hái, a brass vessel filled with cotton saturated with ink, for examinations. bák-tsúi, liquid ink. bák-tsúi-sek, inky gray. bák-tsúi-sa<sup>n</sup>, clothes all spotted over with ink, worn in deep mourning. pak-té, bô poà<sup>n</sup>-tiám bák-tsúi (not half a drop of ink in his belly), said of a pretender to learning who is quite unable to compose,

漢
密
木

茉
墨

and has no real learning. bák-tsúi-koàn, an ink-bottle. bák-koàn, id.

bák-thâu-chin, an ink-line, used by stretching it tight over a plank and touching it with the nail so as to make a line. bák-chin, id. bák-táu, box in which the ink-line, and the black powder for it, are kept.

bák-tsát, the cuttle-fish. bák-hî, id. bák-hî-ien, paint from it. bák-koa, dried cuttle-fish. bák-tsát-koa, id. bák-tsát-tsûn, the bone of the cuttle-fish. bák-chiet (T.), a marine animal like thê-poc.

bân (R. id.) lâm-bân, the southern barbarians.

bân (R. id.), ancient name of Fuh-kien; the river Min, on which Fuh-chau stands. bân-chiet, the two provinces of Fuh-kien and Cheh-kiang, ruled by one governor-general. bân-koai, Min-hien, one of the districts of Fuh-chau city. bân-chhia, Min-ting Hien.

bân [R. boân, secret, = col. moá]. thau-bân (C.), secret, secretly. âm-bân (C.), crafty and designing.

bân, constantly delaying (through sheer idleness) to do the work or make the things promised. tiá<sup>n</sup> bân, the pan is slow in cooking. bân-bân ê-pi<sup>n</sup>, a chronic disease.

bân (R. goân), stubborn, obstinate, said of children only. áu-bân, perversely disobedient or unfair in dealings, e.g. refusing to pay what is due; to treat a man unjustly and injuriously in business, &c. bôe áu-bân--tit, no extra improper gains can be got out of him, &c. bân-phê, incorrigible. thiau-bân, refusing to do what is ordered, obstinate as in a quarrel or lawsuit, refusing or delaying to pay money, or causing much trouble in some such way. tiau-bân, id.

bân — bân-không, strongly made, or firmly fixed, as house, table, &c.

bân, to cover (as with cloth or leather), as a shoe or coverlet, or fire-screen; not so stiff as "pi<sup>n</sup>." bân-moá, to cover with sackcloth, as shoes in mourning. koh-bân chit-têng, put on another thickness of cloth, as on a shoe.

bân (R. bán, boán), to pull or draw out, as nail or tooth; to pluck, as fruit or flowers. bân-bán, impatient attitude, as of one unwilling to hear. keng-thâu bán-bán, shoulders naturally high. bân-mng, to pluck out hair or feathers from animals. bân-bín, to pluck out hair from woman's face. bân-hoe, to pluck a flower. bân-béh, to pluck up corn, instead of reaping. bân-sit, to pluck the wings of a fowl.

kiông-bán, obstinately to refuse to pay money due. i beh-bán--goá, he will not pay me the debt he is due me. bán-tò-tng, to get back by much exertion, as a thing stolen or as money due, &c. bán-tit-tiòh, can be pulled, as fruit not out of reach; to recover a debt from a debtor who will not pay, by getting it from a man who owes money to him, and pays it to us. bán-tit-tiòh, to recover a debt in that way. chí<sup>n</sup> khít-i-bán--khì, he owes me money and I cannot get it out of him. hê-i bôe-khan-bán--tit, to make it impossible for him longer to avoid paying the money. i kàu-lí-khan-bán, he is quite a match for you, as in a lawsuit. kàu-lí-khan-bán, id. kàu-i-khan-bán, quite a match for him, able to hold his own, and not afraid of him; able to get it out of him, proud and disobedient to superior, as young fellow. ôe-kham--tit khan-bán, able to hold his own, able to stand firm against temptation, as reformed opium-smoker, &c.

bán-koé chhiú-tin, to get a clue and follow it up step by step, so as to learn the truth of a matter. bân-hôe thi<sup>n</sup>-i, to influence Heaven to favour us, as by virtuous conduct (v. hòe).

bân [R. boán, full, = col. moá]. bân-thien-kong, = boán-thien-kong, a hanging lamp with several wicks.

bân — bân-jî, a character like a cross with each limb bent at a right angle, all in the same direction; like the Scandinavian Thor's hammer and Sanskrit Svastica; considered auspicious, and therefore embroidered at the middle of the neck of a child's dress, at the back. tiò bân-jî, to embroider it so. khûn bân-jî, to work it in braid. put-toân bân-jî, this character worked as a border all round the edge of a dress, &c. bân-jî-kha, do., worked at the foot of a dress or curtain, or wood-work, &c. bân-jî-hoe, this character worked in large quantities all over the surface. bân-jî-keh, open work, as of a screen in this form. bân-thien, the open-work frame forming the top of a bedstead. bân-thien-pang, a boarding sometimes put on the top of it.

bân (R. id.), ten thousand, a myriad, all (in many phrases), a surname.

bân-sòe (myriad years), title of emperor (v. sòe). bân-siú, the emperor's birth-day (v. siú).

bân-ké (R.), from remotest ages. bân-bân-ni<sup>n</sup>, innumerable years. bân-liên hù-kùi, prosperous for a myriad of years, said as a good wish. bân-liên-chhun, a sort of tree, Ficus Afzelii. thien-tsú bô-bân-liên (even an imperial family does not reign ten thousand years), said in exhorting a man not to be too anxious about the world's affairs. bô-thang thien-tsú bân-liên, id. bân-tái, all generations. bân-kok, all nations. bân-bút, all things. bân-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. bân-hâng-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. bân-sín-má (Cn.), the collective female ghosts that have no descendants (v. sín). bân-kim, vast quantities of gold. bân-gún bô-thang-bóe, cannot be got for money. bân-sú jû-i, everything just as one would wish. bân-jîn-soá<sup>n</sup>, honorary umbrella presented by the people to a popular mandarin when he leaves a place; it has the names of the donors on it. bân-jîn-i, a robe (with the names on it) given in like manner; much more honourable than the umbrella. bân-lê-chì<sup>n</sup> tsòe-hoat, many calamities coming all at once (lit. arrows from myriad cross-bows).

chhien-bân, I earnestly entreat you to — (v. chhien). chheng-bân, ten millions. tsáp-bân, a hundred thousand. pah-bân, a million. bân-jî, twelve thousand. bân-it, ten thousand to one; eleven thousand. bân-hûn ê-chit-hûn, one ten thousandth-part; ten thousand to one. bân bû it-sit, not one mistake; most certainly.

bân-lí tng-siá<sup>n</sup>, the great wall of China. bân-lí tiông-sa, the Prata shoals.

bân-si-má (Cn.), a female idol of surname Bân. bân-si niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

bân (C. pân). kap-bân, a strong money-chest.

bân, slow. bân-bân, id.; do it slowly, or slower. bân-bân-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk slowly; good-bye. bân--chiah, stop a little. bân-chiah-si, id. bân-chiah-kóng, wait a little before speaking; don't speak just now. bân-chiah-kiá<sup>n</sup>, don't walk for a little. kín-bân, quick and slow; rate of speed. kín-bân-chiam, regulator of watch. kín-bân-poá<sup>n</sup>, id.

ham-bân, awkward; wanting in ability; stupid. bân-tûn, stupid at learning; slow at work (v. tûn).

滿
兀

萬

蠻
閩

瞞

頑

挽

慢
縵

慢

bān (R. id.) tāi-bān, to slight; to treat disrespectfully. kheng-bān, id.; to treat lightly. bú-bān, to slight; to insult. bú-bān-bān, to treat very contemptuously. sióng put-chèng, chek hā-bān, when superiors are not correct in conduct, inferiors do not treat them with respect.

bān-pi-hong, a dangerous disease of children (v. hong).

bān — jip-bān, chhut-bān, certain throws in gambling with the "lién-pó."

bān, = pān (R. pān), a section or lobe of an orange, &c. kam-bān, a lobe of an orange. iū-bān, a lobe of pumelo. kiet-á-bān, a lobe of a lime. soàn-bān, sections of garlic root peeled off.

bān (R. id.) bān-thō-hoe, Datura alba (v. thō).

bang (R. bōng, = col. mng, m̄). bang-bang, very small, as rain, powder, &c. chhùi bang-bang, broken to shivers. iù-bang-bang, very fine, as silk or powder. hē bang-bang, small drizzling rain. hē-á bang-bang, id.

bang (R. bōng), mist. hái bang-bang, dim misty appearance, or the sea at a distance, as when wind is coming. tsúi bang-bang, id.; also, the water not clear.

bang (R. bōng). tsui bang-bang, so much intoxicated as to be quite confused in mind. bák-chiu bang-bang, unable to see clearly. khò<sup>n</sup>-bang-bang, seeing dimly, as through a mist. khò<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>-bang, id.

bang (C.), a surname.

bang (R. bōng), (C. bōng), mind confused, perplexed, and bewildered or bumbled, as with many matters. bang-bang, id. sim bang, id. sim-ko<sup>n</sup>-bang, id. bang-bū, id. bang-bang loān-loān, id. chhiú bang kha loān, very much so, or hurried, with no leisure. toā-bang, id. bang-soāh-soāh, id. bang-iah-iah, id. lí teh-bang, your mind is bewildered. kin-bang-bang, in a great hurry.

bang, a stalk of grass, or a reed with the flower or empty ear on it. sàu-chhiú-bang, a stalk of a reed, for a sort of broom or brush. sóe-á-bang, stalk of millet with empty ear on, for a brush. sóe-bang, id. hoan-sóe-bang, id.

bang (R. bōng). ko<sup>n</sup>-bang, a sort of reed, very common by streams. chek-bang, candle-stems made of it. bang-tang, sort of reed (v. tang).

bang — chhú-bang, having small eyes, as a near-sighted man. bāi-bang (T.), id.

bang (R. bōng). khi-bang, to treat a superior with disrespect or slight his orders.

bang — kòng-bang, to conspire together to fleece a man.

bang [R. bōng, a net, = col. bāng]. bang-kun, a head-band used (in the Ming dynasty) for the head-dress of females; now only used in plays.

bang [R. bōng, a sort of dragon]. toā-bang, a flowing robe used in plays (by kings and princes), having these dragons on it.

bang (R. bún), a mosquito. bang-tèng, mosquito's bite. bang-chhùi, do., or its proboscis. ē-tèng-bang, a black mosquito with large proboscis. ē-kha-bang, sort with black feet. ka-tsáu-bang, a small water-insect used for feeding birds.

bang-hia, small hand-net for catching mosquitoes. bang-sut, flapper for driving them away. bang-

萬
辦
曼
濛

茫

龐
忙

芒

觀
眼

網

蟒

蚊

sak (Cn.), id. bang-tà, mosquito-curtains. bang-keng, a semicircular mosquito-curtain on a folding frame. bang-tà-keng, id. bang-tiū<sup>n</sup>, hanging mosquito-curtains. bang-hiū<sup>n</sup>, sort of drug burned to drive away mosquitoes. bang-hun, a composition for this purpose made up in long rolls in paper. bang-á-hun, id. tiám-bang-hun thiá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>, to keep up our spirits, as by getting a companion, or by some slight and insufficient precaution. tiám-bang-hiū<sup>n</sup> thiá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>, id. tiám-bang-hun phoá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>, id. by a companion. bang-á-si, sentences of poetry pasted up on 5.5, to drive away mosquitoes (a jocular superstition).

hun-bang, to smoke mosquitoes (as above). iét-bang, to fan away mosquitoes. phah-bang, to drive them away by striking. poá<sup>n</sup>-bang, do. by shaking something. pi<sup>n</sup>-bang, to become a mosquito, as a larva; said also of a boy growing idle, ill-behaved, and fond of low pleasures, esp. a lad coming of age, and running into gambling or licentiousness; also of an employé acting somewhat dishonestly towards employers. teh-pi<sup>n</sup> sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-bang, why do you begin these bad courses?

bang — khin-bang-bang, very light (not heavy).

bang (R. bōng), to hope. ng-bang, do. tsng-bang, to place all one's hope on him. sit-bang, to lose hope. tsoat-bang, utter despair. bang kàu-bô-khì, to hope on till all hope is lost. liáu-bang, to watch and look earnestly for arrival (as of enemy or friend).

bang-táu, a square box near top of flagstaff.

bang-thâu (P.), = khò<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to watch against detection whilst some evil action is done (v. khò<sup>n</sup>).

bang (R. bōng), a dream. tsòe-bang, to dream. bang-ki<sup>n</sup>, to dream. bang-khoá<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to see in a dream. bin-bang, to dream.

jū-sù-bang, confused dreaming of all sorts of things (esp. in spring), often making one call out in sleep. phái<sup>n</sup>-bang, nightmare. phái<sup>n</sup>-bang chhut-bôe (nightmare to sell), phrase written up after having had an unlucky dream. khò<sup>n</sup>-sim-bang, a dream about what one has been anxiously thinking upon. chhoá<sup>n</sup>-jiō-bang (vulg.), an empty baseless dream.

oān-bang, to interpret a dream. oān-sien-bang, to dream in the temple of the Genii or on their incense, so as to get an augury. ūn-sien-bang, id. khùn sien-kong-bang, id. khùn-bang, to sleep at a grave or temple in order to get instruction from the spirits. thok-bang, to give instruction by a dream, as a spirit does (v. thok).

bang (R. bōng), a net; to catch in a net; to darn by cross-stitches.

bang-tang-á, the tailor-bird (v. tang). ti-tu-bang, a spider's web when round and entire.

bang-tsô, a fishing-boat. bang-tui, weights for a net. bang-so, a large wooden bodkin or pin for weaving nets. bang-ki<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. bang-hia, a small hand-net for scooping fish out of a large net. bang-se, material of old nets, used for caulking, &c. bang-se-kè, a frame covered with nets (in a junk) for protection in fighting.

bang-hi, to catch fish in nets. bang-chiáu, to catch birds in nets. bang chhek-chiáu-á, to catch sparrows in nets. bang-kha-chiáu (T.), sparrows caught in nets.

hē-bang, to set a net. koá-bang, id. khan-bang, to pull along a net, as by two boats, or by one boat and men on shore. sin-bāng, to take fish out of the mud and shallow water inclosed by a net at low water. khoà<sup>n</sup>-bāng, to guard nets (at sea), taking a large percentage, like blackmail. pha-bāng, to cast a net. phah-bāng, to make a net. chhiah-bāng, id. kiet-bāng, id., especially for dress.

望

夢

網

khiā-bāng, stake-nets. hé-bāng, a sort of net with a broad mouth, fastened between two boats. tn̄g hé-bāng, to set this sort of net and wait for the tide.

bāng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to darn a coat or shirt. giá-kang-bāng, to darn (as a tear) by cross-stitches. si-kak-bāng, to darn in both directions.

bat [R. pék, white, clear, = col. pèh], (T. pat), to know; to be acquainted with; to have done a thing, as opposed to having never done it at any time. m̄-bat-khì, I have never gone there. bat-chiáh, to have tasted it (at some time); fond of good eating. khah-bat-sek, knowing well how to act in any circumstances. bat-ê-lāng, a man well acquainted with a matter. bat-ji, able to read. bat-lō, to know the road. bat-gūn, able to distinguish good and bad dollars. bat-lāng, to have skill in knowing men. bat-kūn-thāu, good at boxing. bat-sóng, knowing how to have things neat and comfortable, or how to make one's self comfortable; e.g. keeping from hard work. bat sè-bin, to know how to act in special circumstances. bat chhin-soe, acting with propriety according to relative relationships. bat toā-sòe, knowing how to act properly, as to superiors and inferiors; e.g. to maintain one's dignity towards inferiors. bat koāi<sup>n</sup>-kē, id.

bat jin-chēng, to feel grateful.

sa<sup>n</sup>-bat, acquainted with each other. m̄-bat-i, I am not acquainted with him.

bat [R. bók, wood]. bat-sat, a bed-bug (v. sat).

bat [R. bék, ink]. bat-tsát, = bák-tsát, the cuttle-fish. bat-koa<sup>n</sup>, dried cuttle-fish.

bat (R. bít, = col. bā, bák), close; secret; to close up a corpse in the coffin. bat-pin, a close partition. bat-hūn, thick clouds. hūn tà-bat-bat, clouds all over the sky, and very low. tin-bat-bat, crowded. khoeh-bat bat, id.

bat-chiét, closely shut up, as house, &c.; securely closed against danger. iám-bat, to cover and conceal. pi-bat, to keep close, as a secret (v. pi). khng-bat, to hide a thing. siap-bat, carefully shut and closed, as against danger; filled up closely, as a crevice; well arranged (as affairs), without any flaw, and without letting out any secret. that-bat, to close up, as an opening. that-bat-bat, crowded (as things). chhùi that-bat, hold your tongue!

bat á-bē, is he confined yet?

bat-ê-lāng, a man who can keep a secret. tsòe-tāi-chì m̄-bat, to manage a matter ill so that the secret leaks out. chhùi bat, he speaks little and cautiously. chhùi kàu-chiáh-bat, why did you not speak of it? koe-nūg bat-bat, to ū-phāng (though an egg be very close yet it has holes), the closest secret may leak out. kau-chiam tēng, bat-liú thī<sup>n</sup>, very careful of money, and rather over-cautious. kau-chiam tēng, bat-liú poá<sup>n</sup>, id. kau-chiam tēng, koh bat-pāng, id.

bat-liú-liú, very close. bat-siám-siám, very dense, as foliage, or as a densely peopled district; safely stowed away or guarded. bat-tiu-tiu, closely crowded, as men; safely hid and guarded so that no one knows; all very tight and no chink left. bat-chiuh-chiuh, very crowded, as street at a play.

bat-sit, = bák-sit, very many, as things; very cheap and many for the money.

bau [R. pau, to inclose], to fold in a rounded edge or border. bau-lau, id. bau--lái, folded or curved inwards. bau-ki<sup>n</sup>, to fold the edge or border. bau-oá, fold it close. bau-sūn, to fold so as to make a border or rim (v. sūn). chhùi bau-bau, lips folded inwards and mouth shut; silent. chhùi-tún bau-bau, lips naturally rather turned inwards. bau-tún, to turn in the lips, as children; to cover an article with some other material (as pewter over stoneware) turning over the edges.

báu (esp. T.), = m̄au<sup>n</sup>. báu-báu, taking it easy; not particular; not standing on our right (v. m̄au<sup>n</sup>).

báu [R. id., sort of spear]. báu-tún (lit. sword and shield), opposite uses; contradiction. ka-ki báu-tún, to contradict one's self. tsū-siong báu-tún, id.

báu (T.), = A. m̄au<sup>n</sup>, a helmet.

báu (R. id.), the Pleiades, = k̄-chhi<sup>n</sup>, = báu-chhi<sup>n</sup>.

báu (R. id.), a cyclical character, also 5-7 A.M. báu-si, 5-7 A.M. in-tsōng báu-hoat, as soon as buried the good influence of the grave is manifested. tsáp-ji-géh báu, put-kièn-chháu, in winter, at the hour "báu," one cannot see (grass).

tiám-báu, to mark the roll, as of soldiers or of employes in yamun. ēng-báu, to answer to one's name on roll. báu-miá<sup>n</sup>, name on the books of a yamun as if employed, but really only for protection. phū chit-ê báu-miá<sup>n</sup>, to have one's name thus entered. im chit-ê báu-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. koà-báu, id. jip-báu, id. pai-báu, id. pai hú-báu, have one's name on the books of the Foo. hú-báu, name on books of the Foo. koāi<sup>n</sup>-báu, name on books of the Hien. tō-báu, on books of the Tau-tai.

báu (esp. T.), = mau<sup>n</sup> (q. v.), to embezzle; to cheat.

báu — bōe-báu--tit, cannot be frightened so as to be cheated or defrauded.

báu, to mix up, as food; in some special phrases. bāu-lau, id. bāu-mi<sup>n</sup>, to mix vermicelli with other eatables. bāu m̄-hó-chiáh, not well compounded, so as not to taste well.

báu (esp. T.), = m̄au<sup>n</sup>, face, &c. (q. v.)

báuh, to bargain or contract for in the lump, as work or goods. té-báuh, calculating roughly by sight. báuh-tui, bargain for in gross. am-teh-báuh, id. tsōan-báuh, contract for the whole at once. tsòe-chit-ê-báuh, id. báuh-bōe-liáu, cannot be all bargained for at once (too much). báuh thē-thāu, bargain for removing rubbish. báuh-kang, to contract for a work by the job, including all the various sorts of work. báuh siók-mih<sup>n</sup>, to buy things cheap in a lot.

báuh — báuh-soah, to dare a man to do his worst; to deride a man's attempts as contemptible, futile, and quite useless. báuh-siáh, id. báuh-soah-i bō-tsái-tiāu, to deride him as quite unable. goá-ká<sup>n</sup> báuh-soah-i, I am not afraid to say that his attempts are utterly futile.

bê (R. m̄ui<sup>n</sup>). lōh-hē-bê, gentle showers. lōh-hē-bê, long drizzling rains that make everything damp.

bê (R. bí), (T. bō, C. moái<sup>n</sup>, P. Cn. m̄ai<sup>n</sup>), rice cooked soft and moist; some vegetable soups. hantsú-bê, broth of rice and sweet potatoes, or of sweet potatoes alone. lék-tāu-bê, broth of rice and small green peas. bê-pūg, cooked rice of all sorts. bê-

包

矛
昂
卯木
墨
密

藐

霉
泥
糜

pāng bōe-chiáh, cannot eat rice cooked in any way. ám-bê, congee; rice hoiled soft and swimming in much rice-water. beh-ám m̄-tih-bê, can take nothing but rice-gruel, said of a sick man; said also of a man so poor that but little money can be extracted from him. hi-bê, very thin-boiled rice. khó-thâu-bê, rice boiled quite soft, but almost dry and adhesive like paste. khioh-liáp-bê, congee with the rice-grains still whole. poà<sup>n</sup>-m̄<sup>n</sup>-bê chiáh-kàu-iá, spending long wearisome hours at night learning boxing, sometimes said of other things. poà<sup>n</sup>-m̄<sup>n</sup>-bê chiáh-kàu-m̄, id.

bê — hé-thoà<sup>n</sup>-bê, broken-down charcoal (v. thoà<sup>n</sup>).

bê (R. ní). thê-bê, mud. thê-bê-chiu<sup>n</sup>, thin slushy mud. chhàu-kau-bê, dirty stinking mud of a drain.

bê (R. id.), to deceive; to seduce into evil or error. bê-lê, id. bê--khì, deluded; to vanish, as an apparition. bê-hék, to delude; to seduce into evil. hun-bê, deluded; bewildered; faint from sickness or wearied by long discussion, or by drink. bê-loān, deluded by vicious pleasure. sim-sin bê-loān, mind led astray, as by lustful desires. tham-bê, enslaved by vicious desire. tham-bê lú-sek, enslaved by lust. tham-bê chiú-sek, do. by liquor and lust. chiú put-tsui-jin, jin tsū-tsui; hoa put-bê-jin, jin tsū-bê, it is men who make themselves drunk and depraved; it is not the liquor and women that do it.

chip-bê, doggedly; set on a bad or wrong course. sit-bê (R.), to lose one's way. bê-lê, id. kiá<sup>n</sup> bê-lê, to go on in wicked ways, having been deluded into them. kiá<sup>n</sup>--liáu bê-lê, walking by a wrong road.

bê-hūn-ióh, anæsthetic medicine. bê-hūn-tin, a band of soldiers bewitching the enemy by spells; men deluding the simple and unwary and seducing them into vice and crime. bê-bák, to deceive the eyes.

chiáu-bê (better "bōe"), a decoy-bird. tsòe-bê, to be a decoy.

bê (R. má), (C. bé). bê-ka, mackerel (v. ka).

bê (C. bōe). bê-chi, a sort of root (v. chi).

bê (R. má), (C. bé). bê-chí, contracted characters for the numerals, used in calculations, and read exactly as the Arabic numerals, from left to right, according to the decimal notation; counters used in gambling (s. horse). bê-á, id., numerals (s. horse). bê-jī, id. (s. end). phah bê-chí, to calculate by these numeral characters; to use them.

phah bê-á, to farm the revenue of an article, as of opium. bê-thâu, a large busy trading port (s. horse).

chióh-bê, a pile of stones projecting into a stream; the town of Chioh-bey or Shimma below Chang-chew (s. horse).

bê (R. má), (C. bé). bê-ló, cornelian (v. ló).

bê (C. bōe). bê-iáh, a butterfly (v. iáh).

bê (C.), = A. bōe, to buy.

bê (R. má), (C. bé), a horse; a surname; a man who writes essays for others; used in many phrases for men.

bīn-bê, shape of the face. bīn-bê tâng, face long-shaped. bīn-bê si-pang, face well formed and well proportioned, rather round and full. bin-bê sū-thin, id.

bê-á, a colt; a very low, mean sort of servant or person of bad character (s. numerals). bê--ko, servant in a bad house. bê-chí, servant in a bad house; a very mean sort of servant (s. numerals). lāng-bê, persons in general (numerous). toa<sup>n</sup>-sin phit-bê, a solitary man, without relations. lāu-bê tién-tsang (the old horse erects his mane), said of an old man with youthful vigour. hó-bê, a good horse; a stout brave man; a good walker. hó-bê-chhát, a very bold robber. chhát-bê, thieves and robbers. hiáng-bê, highway-robbers (v. hiáng). peng-bê, soldiers. bê-khoài, underling of yamun, who has the oversight of thieves and stolen property. chhien-li-bê, a very fast horse or courier. pò-bê, an express messenger with despatches. thām-tsú-bê, a spy. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-bê, to have a man to write an essay for examination.

bê-chiū<sup>n</sup>, on horseback. bê-téng, id. téng-bê, boys on horseback in a procession with incense. téng-bê-koa<sup>n</sup>, a small mandarin on horseback before a high mandarin. chiū<sup>n</sup>-bê, to mount a horse. chiū<sup>n</sup>-bê-hong, a mortal venereal disease (v. hong). lóh-bê, to dismount. kā-i-lóh-bê, to give a feast (or make presents of food) on occasion of a man returning from abroad, or from a long journey. kā-i-khí-bê, to give a feast when a man is starting for a long journey. khí-bê-toh, a feast given by the parents just before the marriage ceremony. pē-bê, to harness a horse. sè-bê, to hire a horse. khiá-bê, to ride. pháu-bê, to ride fast.

sái kè-bê, to manage to pass a bad article or bad money (v. kè, to cross).

bê-peng, cavalry. chièn-bê, a war-horse. bê-tūi, a troop of cavalry. bê-chi<sup>n</sup>, archers on horseback (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). bê-hu, groom; a stable-boy. bê-lê, a slave who attends horses (said only in scolding or jesting).

bê-tōe, horse's hoof (v. tōe). bê-ia<sup>n</sup>, mane. bê-tsang, id. bê-oa<sup>n</sup>, saddle. bê-táh-thèng, stirrup. bê-táh-tèng, id. bê-kā-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the bit. bê-chhé-chhiú, reins; bridle. bê-soh, a halter for leading a horse. bê-pi<sup>n</sup>, a switch; a whip. bê-pāng, a stable. bê-tiáu, id. bê-noá<sup>n</sup>, a stall (v. noá<sup>n</sup>). bê-chhia, a cart or carriage drawn by horses. bê-long, horses' bells. bê-hām-lèng, id. bê-lān (T.), id.

bê-chhèng, a pistol. bê-nng, sort of confection.

bê-koá, a jacket or short outer Chinese coat (v. koá). bê-tháng, a close stool or chair for going to stool. bê-í, short narrow benches for supporting a tressel-bed or platform (gen. of bamboo). tek-bê, id. tek-bê (C.), id.; also, a sort of fixed hobby-horse.

thih-bê, a musical instrument made of bits of glass hung so as to rattle in the wind; three-cornered spikes, used against thieves. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-bê, three-cornered spikes thrown on a place where thieves or enemies are expected; three-legged socket for lamp-wick, set in cup of oil.

bê-kháu-thih, tin-plate, probably originally "iron from Macao."

hái-bê, the seal. tsui-bê, a sort of small water-insect.

bê-lê, a straight ditch in review ground for horse exercise; said also of foreign-made roads (s. end).

tsáu-bê-lâu, an upper verandah. tsáu-bê-teng, a revolving lantern with horses on it. tsáu-bê khoá<sup>n</sup>-chin-tsu, to fail to observe a thing from haste.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-bê, an unbroken horse; a very incautious, hasty, ungovernable man (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). sèk-bê, a trained horse.

bê-chiong-kun, a horse-headed idol, attendant of Giám-ló-óng. bê-sài-iá, an idol holding a horse, as at the tutelary temple of a city. bê-kong-iá, an idol of the surname Ma, esp. at C. hūn-bê, small square bits of paper with pictures and words on them, burned on 12. 24 and 1. 4. siá-bê, to unsaddle a horse; also,

泥
迷

魚 碼

瑪
馬

paper horses burned for the dead. chi<sup>n</sup> sià-bé, to stuff these paper horses before burning them.

kúi kap-bé háu, meddling when one has no business, and saying what has no connection with the matter. kúi kap-bé háu; liáh-ti, káu chham-teh-púi, do. (lit. ghosts and horses making a noise, on catching the pig, the dog too barks). bô-gũ sái-bé, take what you can get (v. gũ). chiòh-bé, a stone horse (s. numeral and port).

bé (R. bí), (C. bóe, T. Cn. bǒ), tail, end, point, top (as of tree or mast); mouth-end of trumpet or pipe; the last; classifier of fish, worms, serpents, &c.

bé-bé (C. bóe-bóe), the very last. bé-bé (C. bé-bóe), a horse's tail. soah-bé, the end; the last (v. soah). lê-bé, do.; end of the road. âu-bé, behind. bé-âu, do.; end; afterwards. bé-bîn, afterwards; end. bé-chhiú, id. kâu-bé-sin, at last. khah tè-bé (C. tõe-hóe), at a later time (v. tè).

boat-bé, degenerate or ruinous state, as near the end of family or dynasty. thi<sup>n</sup>-tõe-bé, end of heaven and earth, said of very great calamities. chhiú-bé, end of hand about the fingers; small articles of personal property left at death (v. chhiú). toā-pha-bé, a large tail (as of silver-fish); an affair becoming very serious; expenses heavy, so as to leave but small net gains. bô-bé, not to have numerous posterity or good fortune at the last, as a butcher. kau--lâng bô-bé, short and changeable in friendships. hó-bé, happy end, as of an affair (s. horse). chit-ê-lâng kúi-nà ê-bé, many ends are possible for one man, as great changes of fortune. bé-kéng, last years of a man's life (v. kéng). bé-ün, do., as in fortune-telling. bé-ün, the rhyming word in the last line of an ode.

khí chhú-bé, there is a waterspout. tng-bé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). bé-ku, a kite shaped like a turtle with a long tail.

mí<sup>n</sup>-bé, raw cotton (for spinning) in long rolls (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). hè-bé, remnant of a lot of goods. chí<sup>n</sup>-bé, balance of money (esp. cash) on hand. tsáu chí<sup>n</sup>-bé, to pay the balance. lòh chí<sup>n</sup>-bé, a rich man losing all.

tsúi-bé, the part of a stream below us. i<sup>n</sup>-bé, back part of woman's hair. thâu-mng-bé, end of a man's hair (v. mng). thâu-tsang-bé, tassel at end of a man's queue, or end of it. kha-bé, the part of the foot about the toes. tsün-bé, stern of boat or junk. oân-keng-bé, raised rounded stern of junk. khui-bé, having no hoards at stern, leaving it quite open. bák-bé, outer corner of eye. to-bé, the corner of the edge of a square knre near the handle. hun-chhe-bé, mouth-end of pipe. i<sup>n</sup>-bé, smaller end of beam. úi-bé, top of mast. chhiú-bé, top of tree.

chhiá<sup>n</sup>-bé, to complete, to finish well. chiá<sup>n</sup>-bé, an entire animal of sort classified by "hé." thoa-bé, to lengthen out and procrastinate (v. thoa). séh bé-lê, to put off paying money over and over. tò-bé-lun, to push straight back, as boat aground. tak-bé, slightly blunted, as a needle.

chit-bé ná<sup>n</sup>-hí<sup>n</sup>-nih<sup>n</sup> (as bare as a fish), very poor, or plundered by robbers.

bé-kháu, to dress gaudily, as a fast young fellow; walking with large turban, and with jacket half-open, in a swaggering or bullying manner, eating much betelnut, and ready to quarrel with any one.

bé-pà-thâu, the small of the back. bé-tsui-kut, the coccyx bone (v. tsui). bé-sàng, the mizzen-mast. bé-miá<sup>n</sup>, the last name on a list. bé-séng (the last province), said of Fuh-kien. bé-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the little finger.

bé-jí-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the second last finger, the ring-finger. bé-jí-tsoā, the second last line. bé-jí-iah, second last page. bé-jí-ê, the second last (of any thing). bé-jí, the last character (s. numeral).

thâu-bé, beginning and end; first and last; from first to last; head and tail. chhù-pi<sup>n</sup> thâu-bé, the neighbours on both sides. thâu-bé bô-sa<sup>n</sup>-kê, beginning and end not agreeing, as of essay or evidence (v. kê). lê-thâu lê-bé, beginning and end of journey. lê-thâu, ta<sup>n</sup> teng-sim; lê-bé, ta<sup>n</sup> thih-thúi, easy at first, but very difficult at last. hó-thâu hó-bé, beginning and end good and fortunate. hó-thâu put-jú hó-bé, a good end is more important than a good beginning. ũ-thâu bô-bé, begun indeed, but not well ended; not to the point, as talk. bô-thâu bô-bé, ill-composed, as document without order; worthless and bad, as a man; having no suitable clue, as a case, &c. bô khí-thâu, bô soah-bé, having neither beginning nor end. tàu-thâu tàu-bé, to give some assistance here and there, as in work. thi<sup>n</sup>-thâu thiap-bé, to give a little occasional help (in money) so that a man is just able to get on. kia<sup>n</sup>-thâu kia<sup>n</sup>-bé, irresolute through fear of possible consequences. hé-thâu niáu-chhú-bé (tiger's head, rat's tail), beginning very boldly, but ending in nothing. thâu kàu-bé, from first to last. thâu tióh, bé si, good fortune, or all right from beginning to end. si<sup>n</sup>-thâu hoat-bé, to have boils, pimples, or eruptions all over. kôe-thâu oā<sup>n</sup>-bé, to make a thorough repair, so as to make an old thing look new. koe-thâu chhi<sup>n</sup>-bé, all the market and busy streets. soa<sup>n</sup>-thâu niá<sup>n</sup>-bé, mountains and hills. phah-thâu, chiú-tsai tng-bé, on hearing a little about it he can tell it all, or can manage it all right. chiam-thâu soá<sup>n</sup>-bé, needle and thread.

bé — loân-bé-bé, confused in mind, so as to do things in an insufficient way. jú-bé-bé, id.

bê (R. bí), (C. bōe, Cn. bǒ), not yet. á-bê, do., or not yet. íá-bê, id. iáu-bê, id. bê-bat, never yet —. bê-thang, do not yet; not yet allowable. chiáh--bê, have you eaten? good morning. ũ--bê, have you or have you not yet (and so in such questions).

bê (R. mǐ<sup>n</sup>), (T. bǒ, C. moā<sup>n</sup>, mōe<sup>n</sup>, P. mǎi<sup>n</sup>). sió-bê, younger sister; younger female cousin. tông-sió-bê, younger female cousin of same surname. piáu-sió-bê, younger female cousin by mother's side. khòe-bê, daughter of a sort of adoptive mother (v. khòe).

chí-bê, sisters, elder and younger; female cousins. hia<sup>n</sup>-bê, a man and his younger sister; e.g. as in saying that they only remain of the family. bê-sài, husband of younger sister. bê-hu, do (r).

bê (C.), = A. bōe, unable.

bê (C.), = A. bōe, to sell. bê tng-kang, to bind one's self for a long time as labourer at fixed wages.

beh (C. boeh, Cn. bōh, boh), to wish, to will; auxiliary verb of future, will or shall; almost, just about to —. beh m̄, will you or will you not? teh-beh, about to —. tih-beh, id. ài-beh, to wish or desire. teh-ài teh-beh, just (at the time) wishing to have or to do something. ài-beh-sí, bōe-tit--thang khùi-tng, said of very great grief or pain. tit-thâu-beh, determined to have or to do at all risks and by whatever means.

beh-kàu, almost arrived; almost enough; almost up to. beh-kàu-tng, almost long enough. beh-àm, almost dark.

beh-goá loā-tng loā-toā, how much money do

尾

迷 未
妹

you wish from me? beh ē-mîng--mah, as you want to go to Amoy?

beh, = mih<sup>n</sup> (R. mih<sup>n</sup>). beh--tāi, what now? what is the matter? what do you want? (slightly finding fault). beh--lāi, id. beh-thài, how! beh-thái, how? (v. thái). beh-tsái<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. tsái<sup>n</sup>). beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>-kin, of what consequence is it? (v. kín). beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-tsai, how can any one know? who can tell? lí beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-tsai, how can you possibly know? beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-hoat--i, what possible resource can there be?

béh (R. biét), (C. béh), a stocking, a sock. kha-béh, warm leggings without feet worn by women. béh-tsū, cloth worn inside the stocking. béh-pê, id. béh-toá, a garter. béh-tûg, a sock. béh-tsún, the quilted part of a stocking-foot, not including the sole. béh-tóe, the sole of a stocking, sewed on. láp béh-tóe, to make the padded soles of stockings. kap-béh, to sew the soles on the stockings. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-béh, id. béh-tháng, the leg of a stocking. béh-àng, id. béh-phi<sup>n</sup>, the halves which are sewed together to make a stocking-leg.

chhêng-béh, to put on or wear stockings. thap-béh, to put on stockings as well as shoes. chhêng-ôe tloh-béh, to wear shoes and stockings.

pau-á-béh, soft stockings (for children) like bags, without the usual stiff soles. mê tãi-siáu-béh, elastic stockings (woollen). poan-chiét-béh, stockings with legs and feet of different stuffs. chhiu-béh, thin stockings, often short. chhiu-á-béh, id. toa<sup>n</sup>-têng-béh, stockings of one thickness of cloth. siang-têng-béh, stockings of double cloth.

béh (R. bék), = méh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse (esp. T. and Cn., and sometimes A., while méh<sup>n</sup> is A. and C.) khùi-béh (T.), = A. khi-méh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse. bái-béh (Cn.), = A. bong-méh<sup>n</sup>, to feel the pulse.

béh (R. bék), (C. béh), bearded grain; barley; bearded wheat; wheat; corn. béh-á, wheat (bearded). sió-béh, id. toā-béh, barley. toā-béh-bé, barley boiled soft. chiah toā-béh-bé, kóng hông-tè-ôe, a poor man boasting greatly. giá-kang-béh, a sort of grain. chhim-kun-béh, another sort.

kió-béh, buck-wheat; also used as medicine. hoan-béh-sūi, Indian corn.

béh-sūi, an ear of wheat or barley. béh-chhiu, its beard. béh-kó, a stalk of straw of wheat or barley (v. kó). béh-gê, dried sprouted barley. béh-lê, a sort of shell-fish. béh-lê-ko, a sort of glutinous inspissated syrup. béh-te, a fried cake made of meal. béh-hún, wheaten meal or coarse flour. béh-thâu, larger lumps riddled out of the flour. béh-phê, bran. béh-hu, parched grain pounded small.

béh-chhu, prickly heat (v. chhu). béh-tang, wheat and barley harvest. béh-ki<sup>n</sup>, a flail. béh-soe, an iron comb for separating the ear from the stalk. béh-tui, a heap of cut grain, or of grain. béh-pú (C.), a heap of cut wheat or barley. lún-béh, to send the wheel over wheat or barley.

béh [R. bit, close, = col. bát, bā, bák]. béh-béh-si, = bát-bát-si, very numerous.

béh (Cn. bǔh). béh-si, slowly.

bék [R. bearded grain, = col. béh]. tō liông siok, bék sú chek, the six grains. bék-bún, the seed of a tree (medicinal). bék-bún-tong, a medicinal plant.

bék [R. silent, secret], to write from memory. àm-bék, id. bék-ji, to write out characters from memory. bék-chheh, to write out part of a book from memory, as a scholar. bék-keng, write from memory a part of the classics.

bék-bék put-gú (R.), silent; without one word. bék-si (X.), to reveal or inspire; inspiration.

bék [R. the pulse, = col. béh, méh<sup>n</sup>]. hiet-bék--ê (of one's own blood and pulse), said of one's real son. chhin-hiet-bék, id.

bék [R. ink, = col. bák]. chí-bék, to sketch pictures or write characters with nail of finger or thumb dipped in ink; sometimes with slip of bamboo. chí-bék-úi, to sketch pictures in this way. hó-pit-bék, having a good hand (writing).

bún-bék, polite; learned; gentlemanly (as man or place).

bêng [R. to engrave]. bōng-chi-bêng, an engraved stone from which copies are printed for friends, and which is then buried with the coffin (only used by rich or learned men). bē-chi-bêng, id.

bêng [R. to make a solemn agreement]. bêng-iok, a solemn covenant (s. clear). hōe-bêng, to confederate, as allied princes. têng-bêng (R.), to fix the bargain for marriage of son or daughter. bêng-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, sworn covenanted brethren. goán-bêng--ê, one of our league; my sworn brother. chhap-hiet tōng-bêng, to make a league by mixing and drinking blood (a great crime), (v. chhap). bêng-pê-bú-hōe, a club the members of which assist each other at the burial of parents.

bêng (R. id.), clear, bright, plain, just (as mandarin); Ming dynasty; ripe, as pine-apple.

sín-bêng, objects of idolatrous worship.

bêng-tiáu, the Ming dynasty.

chheng-bêng = chhi<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, the "feast of tombs," on or about 5th April. chheng-bêng-hoe, a mountain shrub with white linear petals. chheng-chheng-bêng-bêng, correct and free from involved details, as affair; honest and straightforward, as man who does not meddle in improper matters.

bêng-pék, plain; to understand; finished (v. pék). bêng-láng, clear, perspicuous. phín-bêng, to specify distinctly in an agreement. thiah-bêng, to explain distinctly, in speaking. thia<sup>n</sup>-bêng, to repeat over (as instructions), that they may be fully understood. tsū-bêng, to explain by notes or commentary. kóe-bêng, to explain the meaning, as of a book. kóe-bêng, to correct and make clearer. hun-bêng, clear and distinct; clearly discriminated. hién-bêng, to manifest. piáu-bêng, to illustrate; to show forth. chí-bêng (R.), to point out clearly. bêng-iok, to make a distinct agreement (s. covenant). bêng-phín, id. (verbally). bêng-toán, id. bêng-hê, id. bêng-bóe bêng-bōe, fair open sale, with no fraud or mistake. bêng-moá<sup>n</sup> àm-phièn, to deceive and cheat openly. bêng-jin put-tsok àm-sū, an upright man does not practise secret wickedness. bêng-lí, clearly understanding the principles of a matter.

put-bêng, unjust, as a settlement or judgment, when the wrong is not redressed; having a flaw, as a sale, &c. bêng-keng, you are very just (mandarin), (v. keng, "a mirror"). bêng-khi, upright and honourable in dealings (s. name). sí, kha<sup>n</sup>-bêng-khi, better die than this.

bêng-bók, credentials; clearness of case (v. bók, "eye"). bêng-bún, credentials, certificate.

bêng-kim, good large first-class cash (s. sound).

oân-bêng, settled, as account or affair.

bêng-liāng, bright, as lamp; clear, as glass (v.

也

襪

脈

麥

麥

默

脈

墨

銘

盟

明

liàng); also (C.) clear, as voice. bêng-kak, thin transparent horn, as for lanterns. khé-bêng-chhi, the morning star. bêng-hé<sup>a</sup> kiap-liók, housebreaking with lighted torches.

chhong-bêng (P.), = chhang-miá<sup>a</sup>, intelligent, talented. chhong-bêng tsai-ni<sup>a</sup>-bók, talent is indicated by the appearance of the ears and eyes, in fortune-telling.

ông-lái ù-bêng, the pine-apple is yellow and ripe. ông-lái put-chí-bêng, id. bêng-kiu<sup>a</sup>, preserved ginger. bêng-thûg, a sweet half-transparent confection with hemp-seeds on top.

bêng-i<sup>a</sup>, sort of oil mixed with varnish, to make it dry quickly. bêng-i, id. koat-bêng, cooling medicine for eyes and boils; one kind from a shell, another from a plant (Cassia tora?); the shell itself (Halotis?). koat-bêng-hún, the medicine from the shell, in powder. chióh-koat-bêng, the shell itself.

khóng-bêng, a famous man of the "Three Kingdoms" (Sam-kok). khóng-bêng-teng, a fire-balloon.

bêng [R. sort of insect], to buy a child and adopt it. bêng--ê, a child thus bought and fully adopted (quite different from "khòe-kiá", which is a mere friendly alliance, not actual adoption). bêng-lêng--ê, id. bêng-lêng-ê-kiá<sup>a</sup>, id.

bêng (R. id.) bêng-kiap-chháu, a sensitive plant (fabulous).

bêng [R. to make a loud noise, as trumpet or clock]. bêng-kim siu-kun, to sound a retreat. tsü-bêng-cheng (Cn.), a clock that strikes.

bêng [R. name, famous, reputation, = col. miá<sup>a</sup>]. bêng-hún, rank, station, office and duty. bêng-bông, influential or honourable standing (v. bông). bêng-chiet, character of person (v. chiet). bêng-sek, fame, reputation. bêng-sek-chióng, very fine Sou-chong tea. bêng-chióng-tê, id. ü sim-mih<sup>a</sup> bêng-sek, whose name has he, as a proof, &c. chiá-lâng-bêng-sek, falsely using another man's name and reputation. bún-bêng, famous (v. bún, "hear"). bêng-lí, fame and wealth (v. lí). kong-bêng hién-tát (R.), rapidly getting high literary honours. sêng-bêng, to become famous (as man). it-kú sêng-bêng, thien-há ti, all the world knows his fame at once, said of a man becoming a Kujin. bêng iông sù-hái, everywhere famous. sù-hái iông-bêng, id. bêng-kong kù-kheng, illustrious mandarins, as in speaking of their native place.

bē-bêng, trying to get the acquaintance of a talented or important man. bē i-ê-bêng, id. bē-bêng chiáh-khé-koe, to follow the fashion, though it may be very expensive or inconvenient. mē<sup>a</sup>-bêng, to use another's name falsely; to pretend to rank, power, or reputation, to which one has no claim. ké-bêng-sü, to put on a proud look, like a great scholar (v. sü). iú-bêng bú-sit, having the name without the reality. bái-bêng tsà-sú, to conceal one's name, pretending to be dead. jín sú, liú-bêng; hé sú, liú-phí, as a tiger leaves only his skin, so with a man's reputation after death.

bêng-bêng, the private secretary in a yamun who attends to legal cases. tiâu-têng ê-bêng-khi, insignia of rank worn by high mandarins.

bú-bêng-tsái<sup>a</sup>, the ring-finger. bú-bêng siáu-tsut (lit. nameless soldier), one of the nameless, worthless common people. bêng-ka, a distinguished family. bêng-ka-üi, pictures by famous artists. bêng-ka-ji, large finely written characters on ancient scrolls. bêng-ji, id.

tái-bêng (polite, as all the following), what is your name, sir? ko-bêng, id. ko-sêng tsun-bêng, what are your surname and name? (v. sêng). chiên-bêng, my name is —. siáu-bêng, id.

bêng [R. bêng, the surname]. gê-bêng, the boy who allowed the mosquitoes to sting him that his parents might not be stung. lí beh-tsòe gê-bêng, are you going to sleep without mosquito-curtains?

bêng (R. id.), brave; fierce; powerful and influential, as having a powerful protector, or great prestige, or a numerous clan to back him. toá-liáp-bêng, exceedingly powerful (in that sense). bêng-lám, the strong and the weak, as families or clans; the principle of influence and prestige. khò-lí-bêng, you are trusting in the powerful backing that you have. it-bi bêng, only daring and nothing else (as if going to fight people). bêng bô-tóe, braggardly; vain boasting without real power. chhùi teh-bêng, brave and great only with the mouth. kan-ta bêng, trying to frighten people, and effect the purpose by mere threats or boasting. tàu-bêng, two men trying to overcome each other, as in fighting or gymnastics; or in simple threatening, or each saying "you must," while the other says "I won't." té-bêng, id.

ióng-bêng, brave. bêng-chióng, a brave military commander.

bêng-siù, wild beasts. bêng-hé, a fierce tiger (v. hó).

bêng [R. to command, fate, = col. miá<sup>a</sup>], fate, life. bêng-lêng, a command; to command. úi-bêng (R.), to disobey commands. úi-bêng (R.), last will and testament. hông-bêng, to receive a command. lêng-bêng, I have received your commands (polite phrase).

thien-bêng, the will of Heaven, especially as to kings and kingdoms. gék thien-bêng, to transgress the commands of Heaven. theng-thien iú-bêng, we can but submit to the decree of Heaven.

sú-seng iú-bêng, life and death are fated. sat-seng hái-bêng, to kill living creatures. m-sat-seng, m-hái-bêng, not to take life at all (Buddhist virtue).

si-ün-bêng, a man's fortune, as very good or bad (v. ün). san-i-bêng pok-sióng, the arts of medicine and divination, &c. (v. sióng). bêng-tê to-chhún, my fate is very bad. hông-gân to pók-bêng, beautiful women are usually unfortunate. bân-poan, te si-bêng: poàn-tiám, put-iú-jín, all is from fate, nothing from man's will.

tsái-bêng sióng-liên, wealth and life are most closely connected. bē-tsái hái-bêng, to take the life of another for gain. ôe-siông-bêng, deadly, as blow or poison. ôe-ti-bêng, deadly, as wound or disease. jín-bêng, a man's life, as to the legal consequences of death. jín-bêng-àn, a case of murder or homicide, &c. bêng-àn, id. tng-jín-bêng, to bear the responsibility for a death. chiáh-jín-bêng, to take money in compensation for a death. chhiú-jín-bêng, to plunder a house where a death has taken place. giá-jín-bêng, to accuse falsely, and lay the responsibility of the death on him. sat-jín sióng-bêng, life for life.

bêng (R. id.), a surname. bêng-tsü, Mencius. khóng-bêng, Confucius and Mencius. bêng-bú, the mother of Mencius.

bi = boe, to dodge or skulk about. thau-bi, id. bi-lái bi-khi, id. bi-kè-khi, to move stealthily

孟

猛

命

孟

螟

莫鳴名

past. bi tī-ka-chiah-āu, to dodge behind one's back.

bī = bī. hong bi-bi, wind very gentle. hong-á bi-bi, id. chhiò-bi-bi, to smile or laugh slightly. bi-bi-chhiò, id.

bī — bi-chhi, lock gone wrong, so that it cannot be opened; food or drink causing a slight unpleasant obstruction in throat at the root of the nose, less than ké<sup>n</sup>-tiòh.

bī [R. small]. hong bī-bī, wind very gentle. bī-bī-á-hong, a very gentle breeze. bī-bī ê-hō, very slight rain. bī-bī-á-chhiò, to smile.

hi-bī, few and scanty. jīn-teng hi-bī, population scanty. bī-chhek hi-bī, rice-crop scanty. soe-bī, to diminish; to lose prosperity; to decline in fortune. heng-ōng soe-bī, to prosper and decline. bī-boát, very small and unimportant, as trade or gains. pi-bī (R.), very low in rank or station. bi-hêng, to go iucognito (as mandarin).

bi-biáu, vague; without proof; undecided in purpose.

siū<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip-bī, to think very carefully or minutely. chī-bī-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a star near the Great Bear. chī-bī tī-tè, the god of that star.

bī, to doze, as under influence of opium, or of a long weary talk. bák-chiu bī-bī, eyes hardly able to keep open.

bī (R. bī). bī-lék-hút, name of an idol (v. lék).

bī (R. id.) bī-chiu, an island near Hing-hwa (called on charts Mei-chen, for Mei-chen), where Má-tse-pó was born.

bī [R. a lintel, &c., = col. bái]. tiū<sup>n</sup>-bī, fixed top of a pair of curtains, across top of bed at front, generally embroidered or having a picture on it. báng-tà-bī, fixed top of mosquito-curtains at front. bīn-chhūg-bī, wooden screen-work across top of Chinese bed in front. chhūg-bī, id. teng-bī, top of the frame of a Chinese lantern. bī-té-pang, panelling over top of a Chinese door. hién-iāu-būn-bī (R.), to be a mandarin (lit. have a magnificent door).

bī (R. id.) chhiū<sup>n</sup>-bī-hoe, a rose. tê-bī-hoe, a sort of rose.

bī [R. eyebrows, = col. bái]. chê-bī, a heavy club about a man's height. chê-bī-thūi, id. hoe-bī, a bird like a thrush, that can talk, and is fond of fighting. hoa-bī (C.), id. siū-bī, a sort of tea with long leaves from Lung-yen-chow.

bī — bī-bī-bī, sound used in calling ducks. niau<sup>n</sup>-bī, sound used in calling cats. khê niau<sup>n</sup>-bī, to call cats in this way.

bī [R. tail, end, = col. bé]. sú-bī, a flapper (like mosquito flapper) used by the genii. ùi-siú ùi-bī (afraid of beginning and end), afraid to meddle with a matter or see a man, for fear of the consequences.

bī (R. id.), rice in grain, already separated from the husk (in the husk it is "chhek"); said also of many small round things. péh-bī, rice beaten white in the mortar, and so cleaned from the bran. chhò-bī, rice separated from the husk, but not yet cleaned of the bran. chhùi-bī, rice broken in the process of cleaning. chhùi-bī-niau<sup>n</sup>, pock-marked with small sort of pocks. chhiah-bī, a reddish sort of rice. áng bī, id. chiam-á-bī, the best sort of rice. tsá-bī, rice of the summer crop. ún-bī, rice of the winter crop. tēng-bī, hard rice. tsút-bī, glutinous rice (v. tsút). chhng-bī, rice (inferior), from the public granaries.

tai-á-bī, a small grain like millet. siā-kê-bī, sago. sòe-á-bī, a small sort of millet for feeding birds.

hê-bī, dried shrimps. sòng-bī, do. very small, from Luzon. ê-bī (black rice), said of opium. tê-bī (Cn.), tea as sold. giá-lan-bī, cochineal. lân-hoe-bī, the picked flowers of the "lân" plant. soán-thâu-bī, roots of garlic. chhài-pé-bī, long turnips sliced and sun-dried. thê-bī-soa, fine gravel for mixing in mortar. tek-bī (C.), the flower of the bamboo.

chiam-bī-koà, to divine by rice grains. ū-bī-bú, to have some remnant of rice in the jar; to have something over for time of distress. lâu--koá tsòe-bī-bú, keep a little for emergencies.

bī-niū<sup>n</sup>, provisions. bī-chi<sup>n</sup>, money due for rice got on credit for daily use. khiam bī-chi<sup>n</sup>, to owe such an account. bī-táu, a small dark legume. bī-chiú, liquor distilled from rice. bī-chiu<sup>n</sup>, pulp made by grinding rice in water. bī-hún, rice flour; vermicelli (v. hún). bī-chhòe, rice dough ground from wet rice (v. chhòe). bī-khng, rice-bran, separated from the rice by the mortar. bī-phun, water in which rice has been washed (v. phun). bī-phang, a confection made from rice. bī-láu, another sort.

bī-tsūn, a large rice junk or ship. bī-tsò, a boat carrying rice. bī-kau, a wholesale rice store. bī-tiám, a retail rice-shop. bī-tù, a large mortar (gen. worked by foot) for cleaning rice. bī-lāu, a square box (with funnel) for cleaning rice. bī-thai, a rice-sieve. bī-lô, a large flat wicker tray for shaking rice, to separate the heavy from the light. bī-loā, a large flat tray for holding rice. bī-táu, a rice measure for one "táu." bī-kai, a small stick for smoothing the top of the rice in the measure. bī-chhiám, an instrument for taking samples from bags without opening them (v. chhiám).

niū<sup>n</sup>-bī, to buy rice; to measure rice. tiáh-bī, to buy rice. thiò-bī, to sell rice. toā-bī, to stir rice in water (to separate sand) before boiling. thoah-bī, to rub rice between the hands in water so as to make it clean.

iám-bī, salt and rice mixed, for superstitious use (v. iám). chhâ-bī, fire-wood and rice. chhâ khang, bī-niū<sup>n</sup> chin, wood and food exhausted. chit-iū<sup>n</sup>-bī chhi pah-iū<sup>n</sup>-lâng, men having the same food vary much in character. chheng-tsúi tsú-péh-bī (white rice cooked in clear water), candid, open, and truthful.

bī (R. id.) tsòe-bī-moá<sup>n</sup>, in vast abundance; very great quantity.

bī [R. beautiful, good]. bī-biáu, excellent. bī-jīn, a beautiful woman. ūi-bī-jīn, to paint a female figure. bī-jīn-chio, sort of red arum. soán bí-lú, to choose beautiful girls for imperial harem. kun-tsú sêng jīn-chi-bī, a good man assists others to be good.

bī (R. lúi). bī-lát, = lí-lát, a scrofulous sore on the neck.

bī (R. id.), taste, odour, flavour, smell. bī-sè, taste, flavour. bô-bī bô-sè, iuspid. tsu-bī, taste, flavour. khī-bī, odour, flavour; disposition of a man. khī-bī siong-tê, dispositions harmonize.

chhù-bī, agreeable; pleasant.

i-bī, deep meaning, as of a book.

it-bī, only; wholly. it-bī-béng, bold and nothing more. tan-hong tók-bī, medicine that produces its effect by itself without mixing other drugs.

微

微

寐彌湄楣

薇眉笋尾米

彌美療味

kam-bī, various sorts of eatables used as condiments; e.g. dried flesh (but not sweetmeats or cakes), sold at shops like grocers'. kan-bī, id. kam-bī-tiām, a grocery for such things. hái-bī, fish in general (as eatable). san-tin hái-bī, delicacies of land and sea.

iá-bī, a bad or coarse taste; also (R.), flesh of wild animals. khá-bī, a fine delicate flavour. sin-bī, fresh taste or flavour. ù-bī, rotten smell, as of something corrupting. sng-bī, having a sour smell. tái-bī, too strong smelling, though somewhat pleasant. chiá-bī, insipid taste. sit-bī, turned by keeping too long, as food; tainted. tsoá-h-bī, slightly tainted; just beginning to spoil. ũ-chiú-bī, to have the smell of liquor.

ngé-bī, the five tastes or flavours: pork, mutton, beef, fowl, duck; or "kiám sng khé loáh tí;" also, a medicine. ngé-bī-chí, that medicine. sam-chhoan ngé-bī, very good eating.

kè-si-láh-bī (taste of an old almanac); said of an old affair now out of date, that need not be again raised, or of a man coming far too late.

bī (Cn.), a particle used in beginning a sentence, prefixed to verbs and adjectives. bī-ũ, there are, &c.

bī — chhiò-bī-si, to smile, as on hearing something, but making no remark (v. chhiò). hó-bī-si, easy and good-natured; e.g. letting things pass that are not quite rightly made or done, or letting small insults pass unnoticed.

bī (R. id.), a cyclical character; the time from 1 to 3 P.M.; also [R. not yet]. bī-si, 1-3 P.M. sin sut, thiú bī; m toā-sòe-bák, iáh koái-kē-hī, a man born in one of these hours has either eyes of different size or ears of different height.

bī-pit, I think it is not (v. pit). bī-kièn kī-bièn (R.), I have never seen him.

bī, to dive; to dabble in mud, as duck with its bill. bī-tsúi, do. do. bī tsúi-tóe; to dive. tiám-bī, id. bóng-bī, to feel about, as duck's bill in mud.

bī (R. bē), a riddle; a puzzle; to solve or guess a riddle. chhai-bī, guesses and riddles, as for children; to solve a riddle. ioh-bī, to guess a riddle, as child.

biàn, biát (in the several tones), better; biên, biét, &c. (q.v.)

biâu [R. posterity]. biâu-hoan, the aborigines in centre of China; the Miao-tse.

biáu (R. id.) biáu-si (r.), to despise; to slight one whom we should respect. biáu-siáu, very small; to treat with indignity.

biáu (R. id.) bī-biáu, vague; without proof; undecided in purpose, neither helping nor opposing.

biáu (R. id.) bông-bông biáu-biáu, uncertain; fabulous; misty.

biáu (R. id.), a second. biáu-chiam, the second-hand of watch or clock.

biáu (R. id.), excellent; in good health. bí-biáu, excellent. bī-biáu (R.), abstruse; mysterious. ò-biáu, mysterious; profound. sin-biáu, wonderfully excellent and efficacious, as medicine. kék-biáu, most excellent. biáu-i, kind and friendly, as in receiving a guest or managing an affair. chiah-kú, biáu-mah (r.), have you been well of late? ũ-khiáu-biáu, attractive and interesting to look at (as an article); very clever; very skilfully made.

biâu [R. a Confucian or Taoist temple, = col. bió]. sèng-biâu (r.), Confucian temple. tsé-biâu, ancestral temple. sêng-hông-biâu, temple of tutelary god of city.

biên [R. to sleep, = col. bin]. bā-chhú tông-biên (cat and rat sleep together), said of officials becoming accomplices with those whom they should punish or keep away. cheng-chhe toát-tiên, kièn-sú jú-biên, look on death as a sleep when contending for wife or lands.

biên [R. biên, = lièn, connected]. biên-hiong, of the same villages; villages combined (v. hiong). biên-lók, united under a head-man, as the people of some towns (v. lók). biên-tiông (R.), lasting very long.

biên [R. cotton, = col. mi<sup>n</sup>]. biên-iông, a sheep; a dressed sheep-skin. biên-iâng, id. biên-iũ<sup>n</sup>, id. ko-tút-biên, a glossy foreign woollen stuff. bók-biên, the cotton-tree.

biên (R. id.) biên-hī, a sort of fish, good to eat. âng-koe ka-láh biên, three very good sorts of fish; said in joke, alluding to "biên," no need.

biên — biên-kī, birth-day, as kept after death.

biên (R. id.), (C. boán). hun-biên, to be delivered of a child.

biên (R. id.), to avoid; to forgive, as a debt; no need; you need not; don't. biên--tit, in order to avoid — siá-biên, to forgive. kiú-biên, to ask to be excused or forgiven. siá-chioh biên-giên, no use asking for credit; no credit given here. i-chioh biên-giên, id. m, biên (Cn.), no need of it; no, I thank you.

biên (R. id.) biên-kiông, to force; to compel. biên-lê (r.), to incite to zeal; to stir up to good actions.

biên (R. id.) biên-liú, a sort of crown (v. liú).

biên [R. the face, = col. bin], in many phrases has the idea of prestige, respectability, or influence.

chêng-biên, character, as having influence or power with another. toà--tióh i--ê chêng-biên, out of consideration for him, as doing a favour on his account to a third party. khòa<sup>n</sup> i--ê chêng-biên, id.

liám-biên, prestige; reputation. phái<sup>n</sup>-liám-biên, condition of having little or no influence, so as to be ashamed.

thé-biên, respectability; power or influence; prestige; influential position. kè-thé-biên, to take care of one's respectability or prestige. sioh-thé-biên, id. bô-sioh thé-biên, careless of one's own good name. sit thé-biên, to lose prestige, reputation, influence, or good name. siá-thé-biên, to make our superior lose respectability or good name through our misconduct. thé-biên-ôe, exaggerated boastful talk about one's self or one's connections.

hong-biên, acting in a liberal manner, as a wealthy man does; liberal in gifts or rewards. toá-hong-biên, do.; also, having considerable influence or importance through wealth, rank, power, &c. tái-hong-biên, do. do. ũ-hong-biên, to be thus influential or of consequence. sàng--khì hong-biên, making liberal presents.

kièn-tai-sék-biên, acquainted with men of influence or distinction. kl<sup>n</sup>-tái sék-biên, id.

it-biên, at the same time, and —, e.g. it-biên chiah-png, it-biên khoà<sup>n</sup>-chheh, eating and reading at once. it-biên chi-kau, having met but once or seldom; slightly acquainted.

hōe-biên, to meet face to face. biên-hōe, to settle an account or a matter face to face. biên-hē, id. biên-biên siong-koan, looking at each other

眠

聯

棉

鯁

愆

免

免

勉

冕

面

味

未

謎

苗

藐

渺

妙

妙

廟

in speechless astonishment, as unable to ward off some danger. hoán-biên bủ-chêng, inconstant, as in friendship (v. hoán). jìn-biên siủ-sim, having a human face but a brute's heart. boán-biên chhuh-hong, face looking fat and healthy, as if getting on well in the world. thiet-biên bủ-su, impartial (with an iron face).

biết (R. id.), to destroy utterly; to exterminate. biết-bô, id. tsáu-biết, id. biết-tsoát, id. biết-tsók, to exterminate a whole family. tsoân-ke biết-bông, may the whole family perish (cursing). thi<sup>n</sup> beh-biết, Heaven will utterly destroy (him or them).

biết-si, to destroy (or put out of the way) a corpse to avoid inquiry. biết-hái, to put old bones out of the way improperly (v. hái). chhat-biết (r.), to blot out, as account.

bih — kun-bih-bih, very near.

bih, to conceal one's self. thau-bih, id. bih-khi-tiám, to keep out of the way to avoid being seen. siám-bih, id. bih-chêng bih-âu, to hide in any corner. bih-chhih, to keep out of the way, as afraid to see people. liam-kha bih-chhiú, to advance secretly so as not to be observed. lun-thâu bih-âm, attitude of looking or listening attentively and secretly. bih-u, to hide in a hole, or behind a wall, &c., as in order to catch or kill men.

bih (R. biét), thin slips of bamboo or wood, esp. used for wicker-work. bih-ki-á, id. tek-bih, a thin slip of bamboo. tek-sàu-bih, slip of bamboo from broken brush. bih-phê, bamboo slip from outside of bamboo (best). bih-khak, do. from the extreme inside (too soft, useless). bih-nâng, do. from middle.

koa-bih-bih, too hard and fibrous, as vegetables.

bih-hê, wicker-work goods. bih-khi-tiám, shop for wicker-work. bih-hiú<sup>n</sup>, an incense-stick, having a bit of bamboo as its backbone. bih-khe, a bamboo hoop. bih-lâm, a large bamboo cable. bih-chhióh, bamboo mat. bih-siú<sup>n</sup>, wicker-work box. bih-pín, a stiff bamboo frame hung as screen at door. bih-lí, bamboo screen that rolls up. bih-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a wicker basket. chhng-bih, to make bamboo wicker-work. tsôe-bih sai-hũ, a man who makes baskets and other wicker articles of bamboo. phoá-bih sai-hũ, man who splits bamboos in large quantities for sale, but does not make the goods. phoá-bih--ê, id.

bìn [R. pêng, level, = col. pí<sup>n</sup>, píá<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. T.), sloping gently, as an inclined plane, or as a road not level but not steep. soa<sup>n</sup> bìn-bìn, the hill sloping gently. tôe bìn-bìn, ground sloping gently. bìn-tôe, parts of the sea-bottom that are nearly level.

bìn [R. bêng, clear, to-morrow], (C. mê<sup>n</sup>, bún). bìn-á-jit, to-morrow. bìn-ná-jit, id. bìn-á-tsái, id.

bìn [R. bêng, dark = col. ê]. bìn-hng (T. Cn.), = ê-hng, the evening; this evening. bìn-hoá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), after this time, esp. after a short time. bìn-toá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

bìn (R. bán), (C. bún). bìn-thâu, = bìn-thâu, soft steamed round cakes, used in worshipping the dead. bìn-thâu-kheh, you are awfully dull and stupid (as if you were eating cakes for deceased relatives). thê-bìn-thâu bôe-khi-ká<sup>n</sup> (leaven cannot raise earthen cakes), a man so dull that though you teach him ever so carefully (literary or manual work) he cannot learn. ùi sí-pê, beh-chiáh bìn-thâu (very desirous to eat the cakes, but afraid of father's death), very desirous to get money wrongfully, but afraid of the consequences.

bìn [R. bién, to sleep]. bìn-bìn, sleepy; drowsy. tsau-bìn, worn out by long want of sleep. an-bìn, good night; a pleasant sleep to you (s. people). koe-bìn, to talk in sleep (v. koe). hâm-bìn, to talk or walk in sleep; to tell lies (v. hâm). bìn-bâng, to dream. toá-bìn sió-sí, to sleep almost as if dead, said of a man not hearing thieves, &c. tham-bìn, to sleep very sound; hard to waken. tâng-bìn, deep sleep. tâng-bìn-khùn, id. khín-bìn, to sleep so as to be easily wakened. khùn-bôe-lóh-bìn, cannot sleep. khùn bē-kàu-bìn, not having got enough of sleep. khùn bō-kàu-bìn, id. bō-chiok-bìn, id. khùn bō-chiok-bìn, id. khùn--khi chiok-bìn, having had sufficient sleep.

tuh-bìn, to dose while sitting. kiáu-lâng-bìn, to startle a man out of his sleep (either intentional or unintentional). phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-bìn, unintentionally awake a man (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>).

bìn-chhng, a bed (v. chhng); (C. bún-chhng), (T. also mng-chhng), both only in this phrase.

bìn (R. id.), the people. gī-bìn, volunteers or militia. bìn-tsông, lictors of civil mandarin. liông-bìn, a good subject. liú-bìn, a vagabond (v. liú). thé-bìn, the vulgar; the rabble. bìn-hong thé-siok, manners and customs of a place. bìn-phê, a distance of ten li, according to the measure common among the people; about four miles. bìn-ka, the households of the people. bìn-sim, the affections of the people. tek-bìn-sim, to gain the hearts of people, as mandarin or master.

an-bìn, to quiet the minds of the people (s. sleep). kok-thài bìn-an, the nation prosperous and the people at peace. i--ê tsú-bìn, his people, looked on as his children. sù-bìn (C. si-bìn), the people in general. thien-tsú hoan-tsôe, ú sù-bìn tóng, if the emperor sin he is not different from the people. kun-bìn, sovereign and people. kun-bìn jín-téng, soldiers and people. koa<sup>n</sup>-toán put-jú bìn-goán, the willing obedience of the people is better than the exercise of authority by mandarins.

bìn (R. id.) lín-bìn, compassion; pity; to pity.

bìn (R. id.) bìn-chiét (R.), skilful and energetic.

bìn [R. be destroyed]. bìn-bút (R.), to be made away with (v. bút).

bìn (R. id), a brush; to brush. bìn-á, a small brush. ôe-bìn, a shoe-brush. khi-bìn, a tooth-brush. thâu-mng-bìn, a hair-brush. thâu-bìn, id. bìn-ôe, to brush shoes.

bìn (R. bién), the face; face, surface, side, or direction (esp. proper side); countenance; respectability. Classifier of shields, gongs, mirrors, verandahs, &c.

chiah-toá-bìn, so large, said of anything of which "bìn" is the classifier.

ũ-bìn, to have a wind that can be used for the course; to be able to appear without shame, or to speak to a man to advantage, or to take up a matter with good hope of success. bô-bìn, feeling ashamed to see one or to speak to him, because of some awkward, inconvenient, or shameful state of matters; having a wind that is of no use for our course. bô-bìn thang-ki<sup>n</sup>-tióh i, ashamed to go and see him. lak-bìn, to lose one's character, prestige, or respectability. bìn-bák, countenance. bô-bìn-bák, ashamed to look people in the face. toá--tióh i-bìn-chiú<sup>n</sup>, in consideration for him (e.g. doing a favour to a third party).

jī-bìn, a book phrase. sê-bìn, influence; suitable state or position (v. sê). sì-bìn (C.), id. ũ-kiók-

滅

匿

篾

平

明

饅

眠

民

憫
敏
泯
刮
面

bin, now getting on better, as business or lawsuit. sái ôe-kè-bin, can be passed, as bad money; can be used, as a plan more or less improper.

gùn-bin, silver-plated. kài-bin, to put on a surface finish, or a new surface, as on furniture or idol, &c. khioh-bin, to make a smooth polished surface; to take a miniature likeness. thi-bin, to make the surface smooth, as of a brass mirror. phê-bin, to put the best articles on the top (v. phê).

thia-bin, the central hall of a house. chhù-bin, the front of a house. toh-bin, the top of a table; presents of food made to bridegroom. tò-bin, the wrong or reversed side of anything. lí bin, the inside and outside of a dress. sa-bin, the outside of a dress. hiú-bin, the outside of a thick dress. ôe-bin, the uppers of shoes. i-bin, the seat of a chair, &c. kiá-bin, the face of a mirror. si-bin, the paper of a fan. chhiú-bin, the palm of the hand (v. chhiú). hái-bin, the surface of the sea; at sea. thê-bin, the surface soil. soa-bin, the surface of the ground, e.g. as let for cultivation.

kháu-bin, at the port or mouth of river; outside. tùi-bin, opposite; towards. bin-téng, on the top; above; upstairs. téng-bin, above. chiú-bin, id. (v. chiú). ê-bin, below. bé-bin (C. bé-bin), at the end; the last. âu-bin, behind. si-bin, the four sides; all round. bin-chiú, on the surface. bin-chêng, in front of. tang-bin, on the east. hong-bin, the direction of the wind. bô-hong-bin, not a favourable wind; can't make a fair wind of it. tang-pak, tang khah-toá-bin, wind between N.E. and E. phâng-bin, the starboard (right) side of a junk. lé-bin, the port (left) side of junk.

phí-bin, having no regard for one's own character and respectability; unblushingly doing shameful acts, esp. greed or dishonesty. phí-bin, ké kong-gán, of unblushing effrontery, e.g. caught in some shameful act, and just laughing at it. toá-bin-sín, wanting in modesty, as girl. hoán-bin, to change countenance, as in anger (v. hoán). pi-bin, to change countenance. chhi-bin, readily taking offence (v. chhi).

tng-bin, face to face. hõe-bin, to meet face to face. bán-bin, to pluck hairs out of woman's face. kê kàu-chit-bin-hún, to smear one's face all over with face paint. kâu-bin, having a face as ugly as a monkey's; a mask like a monkey's face. siáu-kúi-bin, sort of mask; frame of the lock of door or drawer; face painted like a demon. tí siáu-kúi-bin (to wear such a mask), said of a man doing something very bad, so that he is apprehended or becomes infamous.

bin-tüi (Cn.), threshold.

bin-sék, known by face only.

bin-sek, complexion (v. sek). bin-bé (C. bin-bé), shape of face. bin-bé tng, long-faced. bin-bé si-pang, face square and full; having a sedate look. bé-bin (C. bé-bin), having a long horse-like face. bin-bê toá, having a broad face (v. bô). bin-kheng, shape of the face. bin-mâu, countenance. bin-iông, id. bin-kháng, appearance of countenance (v. kháng). phái-bin-chhiú, appearance of face that repels or frightens people. bin-tê, appearance of face. hó-bin-tê, a pretty face. bô-bin-tê, ugly face (scolding). phái-bin-tê, id. bin-phê, skin of face (v. phê).

ng-sng-bin, pallid face. chhàu-bin, sour ill-natured look; face full of sores. hoái-bah-bin, ngly distorted face, as of thief or rowdy. bin-bah siáu-sán, face very lean.

bin-pê, a small cloth used for washing the face. bin-kun, do. bin-tháng, a bason (v. tháng), gen. wooden. bin-phún, do. metal or stoneware. bin-to, a razor for the face.

thâu-bin-téng-lâng, man of very good position. thâu-bin, head and face. khàm-thâu khàm-bin, behaving in a foolish reckless way. gông-thâu gông-bin, foolish or stupid. chiú-thâu chiú-bin, shameless and impudent (v. chiú). gù-thâu bé-bin, two images in the Gák temple, having heads of cow and horse. iu-thâu khé-bin, sad countenance. kâu-thâu chhú-bin, very ugly (like monkey and rat). chhàu-thâu chhàu-bin, sour and ill-natured. chhut-thâu lê-bin, to appear openly in public (as woman), at yamuns or at plays. kóe-thâu oá-bin, to make an old thing new (v. kóe).

bin [R. biên, meal, = col. mi]. bin-pau, bread; a loaf.

bin (R. bân). bin-thâu, round cakes used in worship of the dead; better "bin," q. v.

bin — bin-thâng (esp. C.), = bân-thâng, intestinal worms.

bió (R. biáu), to trace a copy on transparent or thin paper. bió ji-keh, to trace copy-lines, as scholars.

bió, tapering and lightly made, as bow of boat or bamboo-pole. bió-chhió, id.

bió (Cn.), = A. bé, to plan.

bió (Cn.), = A. bé (R.), mother —.

bió (Cn.), = A. bé, Mr. So-and-so, &c.

bió (Cn.), = A. bé. bió-tan, the tree peony, &c.

bió (Cn.), = A. bé, a Chinese acre.

bió (R. biâu), a temple of the dead (Confucian or Taoist). keng-biô, temples in general. am-biô, id. tsé-biô, ancestral temple. bún-biô, temple of Confucius. bú-biô, official temple of Kwanti. tióng-liét-biô, temple to distinguished mandarins who met their death in the service of the state.

bió (Cn.), (R.), = A. bê, to trade.

bió (Cn.), = A. bê (R.), luxuriant.

bit [R. secret, quiet, close, = col. bát, bā]. chhin-bit, closely united, as friends. jín-ien tiú-bit, population numerous. jín-ien chiu-bit, id. chiu-bit, well arranged so as to leave no flaw; careful, as not to leave a flaw, or not to let out a secret. pi-bit (R.), secret. ki-bit, kept secret, as affair; managing a matter carefully, so as to keep secrets. tsok-sū put-bit, to manage carelessly, so as to let out a secret. ki-sū put-bit, chek hâi-sêng (R.), a secret coming out may make the matter impracticable.

bit-jit, phrase which stands in the Chinese (heathen) almanacs of Amoy and Chin-chew on every day that is our Sunday; said to have come down from ancient times.

bit (R. id.), honey. phang-bit, id. bit-phang, a bee. bit-pê, honey-comb. bit-pâng, id. bit-àng, a honey-jar, &c. (v. àng). bit-tsúi, honey syrup. ti-bit-bit, very sweet. bit-ng, bright light yellow. péh-bit chhiú-m, white arbutus (myrica). bit-iú, a very sweet sort of pumelo. bit-chièn, fruits preserved in sugar, to be presented to idols. bit-kam, candied oranges. kam-á-bit, a substance chewed with areca and siri. tsoh-bit, to make honey. pàng-bit (v.), id.

bit-tô-cheng, litharge.

pho-lô-bit, the jack-fruit; this last word is sometimes written with bit, "secret."

bit (C.), = A. lit. bit-á-soh, the balyard rope.

麵麩
饅頭
麵
麵
麵
麵

廟廟

密蜜

bit (R. id.) bit-pô, a bat (the animal).

biū (R. id.) chha-biū (R.), a mistake; a fault. chha chi hô-lí, biū í chhien-lí (R.), an error of a hair's-breadth causes a difference of a thousand li. pôe-biū, to offend, as against doctrine.

bô (R. bú), there is not; there are not; not to have; no; not; denying existence or possession (but denial of will is "m," and denial of correctness or identity is "m-sí"). Often enclitic, in asking a question, e.g. ū-lâng-lái--bô, has any one come? Often repeated in a divided phrase, though it makes no sense with one of the halves. Often at beginning of an answer has almost no meaning, suggesting surprise at being asked.

ū-bô, to have or not to have, &c. (v. ū). goá-bô, I have not. iá-bô, no more; all done; and no more; is that all? iáh-bô, id. iáu-bô, id. éng-bô, never. lóng-bô, not at all; not one; by no means. tsóng-bô, though antecedently improbable, yet one is shut up to believe that — (v. tsóng).

ké-bô, to pretend not to have. the-bô, falsely deny having. bôe-bô, it cannot but be (there or here, &c.); certainly it is not lost, &c. bôe-bô, to fail in selling, because a high enough price is not offered. bôe-bô, to fail in buying, because there is none of the article, or it is too dear. tiáh-bô-bí, there is no rice to be got in the place. thák-bô-chheh, to study, but make no progress. hù-bô-tsún, to be too late for the boat. phah-bô-mûng, to knock at the door, but get no answer.

biét-bô, to destroy utterly. sí bô-lâng, to die off till no one is left. bô--khi, to vanish; to be lost; to perish, or waste away and disappear. bô-lô--khi, id. phah-bô, to let a thing be lost or spoiled in our hands. lóng-bô--lah, it is all gone; none of it remains.

bák-tê-bô, to despise (v. tē). bô-pêng-iú, has no friends; does not associate with friends as a friend ought. bô-pê bô-bú, an orphan; also (scolding), surely you have no parents to keep you in order. bô-poá--lâng, not a single person. bô-hoat--i, no resource (v. hoat). bô-tā-oá, id. (v. oá). bô-lâu bô-tsúi, not a good tide; black water; not a suitable tide for the purpose.

bô, leh, will not. bô-kàu, insufficient (v. kàu). bô-ng, family dead or gone wrong; no hope of a man's return, or reform, or good fortune. bô-siá--sū, no trouble; no reason. bô-ia', untrue; not a shadow of reality.

bó (C.) bó-kū, = A. bú-kū, mother's brother.

bô (R. id.), a hat; a cap not broad-brimmed (that is "lôeh"). âng-ia--bô, red tassel cap of mandarin's attendants; a mandarin's attendant. ε-âng-bô, the four liectors of a mandarin, two with red, and two with black caps. toá-bô, a ceremonial cap. sió-bô, an unceremonial cap, specially when a mandarin puts off his ceremonial cap, and puts on an unceremonial one. oá--bô, a skull-cap. chhiu-bô, a light cap worn in autumn. se-oá--bô, a light summer cap. se-bô, a cap of the Ming dynasty with two long ears. seng-bô, a cap worn in plays. seh-bô, a winter cap worn by children. sin-bô, cap worn by young children (v. sin). hé-bô, cap worn by children, made like a tiger's head. hē-bô, a rain-cap, of oiled cloth or paper, with flap for back. hong-bô, a hood worn by men. nng-bô, quilted cap, used in winter. mng-bô, sort of fur cap, for mandarins and wealthy men. téng-bô, a cap with an official button. tiáu-bô, a court-cap. koá--bô, a mandarin's warm cap, with button. joáh-bô, man-darin's summer-cap, with button. chhi--bô, a blue cap, half mourning. sê-bô, a cap of plain black cotton with no red. háp-chióng-bô, cap with a ridge in centre, worn by Bud. priests, also by children to keep off demons. hê-siū--bô, id. kun-ki-bô, a cap sometimes worn by mil. officers. khoe-chhèng-bô, sort of close-fitting cap for soldiers.

ti-bô, to wear a cap or hat. ài-ti koái--bô, fond of praise and flattery; vain and conceited. ài-ti toá-bô, id. ài-ti toá-téng se-bô, id. chhòng-chit-téng toá-bô hē-i-ti, to make him by flattery to take the lead, as in an expensive subscription or troublesome matter, so that he may have to bear the expense or responsibility. chhòng-chit-téng toá-téng-se-bô hē-i-ti, id.

bô-the, the inner frame of a cap (made first) made of stiff paper or thin bamboo. bô-khê, a skull-cap without the crown, specially worn by boys. bô-á-khê, id. bô-ia', tassel of cap. bô-á-toá, string for tying on a cap, esp. child's cap. bô-koá', string for keeping on a hat or cap. bô-á-kê, frame for hanging a cap. bô-áh, a hat-box.

bô (R. id.), a millstone; a mill (only for grinding); to grind. bô-á, a millstone. toá-chiòh-bô, a large millstone. chit-tún-bô, a pair of millstones. bô-pâng, a mill (building). bô-keng, id. gú-bô, a mill worked by a cow. tsúi-bô, a water-mill. sái tsúi-bô, to work a water-mill. oe-bô, to turn a mill, as by hand.

bô-kau, the hook by which a millstone is turned. bô-á-chhiú, the projection on the upper millstone, having the hole for that hook. bô-sim, the metal centre on which the millstone turns. bôh--tit liáh-goá tsòe bô-á-sim, do not set me to be used and abused by both parties in the dispute.

bô-hún, to grind flour. bô-chhòe, to grind rice and water into wet dough.

bê (Cn.), = A. bong, to touch.

bê (R. biên). phak-bê, the 40th radical, written at top.

bê (R. id.), (Cn. biô), to plan; to plot. kè-bê, id., a plot or plan. tê-bê, to plot (v. tē). ám-bê, to conspire secretly. éng-bê siet-kè, to plot deceitfully. tóng-bê, to plan or plot together (gen. bad). thong-bê, to conspire or plot together. thong-bê tsò-kè, id. thò-bê, secretly conspire to mislead or injure some one.

ké-bê, to start a joint trade or business.

chham-bê, an officer on general's staff, who assists in planning battles, &c.

bê-sū, to make a plan in any matter. bê-sū tsāi-jîn: séng-sū tsāi-thien, man proposes, but Heaven disposes. bê-hoán, to make a rebellion. bê-tsāi hāi-béng, to seek wealth at the expense of another's life. bê-ia', to plan a surprise (by night) on a camp. iú-lóng bú-bê, boastful and overbearing, but without wisdom or skill.

bô (R. bōng), (C. bōng), mist; thick haze. tàu-bê, mist or thick haze, as on the sea. tà-bê, id. káu-bê, thick haze. kauh-bê, id.

bô (R. id., = col. mûi', bôe). hā-bê, dried toads for medicine.

bô (R. id.), a mould; the swelling made by a blow or an insect's bite; a mass or lump, as of clay or dough.

bê-iū', a pattern; a model (v. iū'). phe-bê, a pattern. thê-kat-bê, a mould for making sun-dried bricks; also used for pressing tobacco. bin-bê, gene-

蜜
謬
無

磨

模
謨
謀

帽

霏
蟻 模

買候幕茂

ral shape of face. bīn-bê toā, having a large broad face. phah-chhiú-bê, to make the impression of one's hand (with ink) on a deed of sale, esp. selling a wife. pang-kok kui-bê (R.), the rules and laws of a kingdom (v. kui, a rule).

kui-bê, to become one mass, as dough or clotted blood, &c.; a whole mass of such things. ka-nŭg-bê, a whole mass of such sort. jiók tsòe-chit-bê, to work up into a lump, as clay or dough.

bó (R. id.), (Cn. bió), such a man or thing; Mr. So-and-so. bé-bé, such-and-such surname and name. bé-lāng, Mr. So-and-so; what you call him; often said when for some reason it is undesirable to mention his name. bé-mih-lāng, id. bé-siá-lāng, id. bé-sím-mih-lāng, id. bé-jit, on such a day. bé-sí, such-and-such an hour or time. bé-mih, such a thing (not naming it).

bó — oat-bé, the 28th radical; this word is often written as a contracted form of "bó," so-and-so.

bó [R. hū, a woman], a wife; observe that in Chang-poo the sound of "bú," mother, comes very near this sound.

ang-bé, husband and wife (v. ang). āu-bé, wife married after death of first wife. chhoā-bé, to marry a wife. khít-bé, to buy a wife. tsòe-bé, to get a bride betrothed for one's self (v. tsòe) bé-kiá, wife and children. lê-thâu-bé, woman who cohabits with a man without marriage. bé-thâu-chhin, wife's relations. bé-kim, wife of wife's brother. ù-bé, tai-tiōng-hu; phah-bé, tí káu gū; he who fears his wife is a bold fellow indeed; but he who beats her is a pig, dog, or cow; the last clause is also given "chin sí-gū," is really a cow.

bé-kat, a loosely tied knot. tsa-bé-kat, id.

tsa-bé, a woman; (somewhat a vulgar or at least not polite phrase); this name is sometimes given to a male child to deceive the demons. tsa-bé--ê, name often given by a mother to a young daughter. tsa-bé-lāng, a woman. tsa-bé gín-ná, a girl. siá tsa-bé-gín-ná-jī, to write a document for the sale of a girl, as slave or concubine; only done by low fellows who keep stalls in the streets. tsa-bé-kán, a female slave; a concubine. tsa-bé-sun, a granddaughter; a prostitute. tsa-bé-sun-keng, a brothel. tsa-bé-keng, id. thó-tsa-bé, to go after lewd women. chhi-tsa-bé, to keep a concubine.

bó [R. mother, = col. bú], (Cn. bió). hū-bé, father and mother. tōng-bé i-hū, having the same mother, but different fathers.

tí-bé, = tí-bú, a cooling medicine. pòe-bé, = pòe-bú, a medicine.

bó [R. male], (Cn. bió). bé-tan-hoe, the tree peony. bé-lê, a medicine (v. lê).

bó (R. id.), (Cn. bió), a Chinese acre; a mow; it is less than one-sixth part of an English acre. chhān-bé, fields in general.

bó (R. id.) kang-bé, = kang-bú, a tree from which potash is made, also good for soles or heels of shoes. kang-bé-chhā, its wood.

bó (R. id.), a cyclical character.

bé (R. id.) chio-bé, to enlist soldiers.

bé (Cn.), = A. bōng, a grave.

bé (Cn. boah), to smooth the point of a Chinese pen after it has been dipped in the ink, removing the superfluous ink. bé-pit, id.

bé (R. id.) him-bé, to desire greatly; to long after. loān-bé (R.), id. bé-bêng, to try to get acquainted with an influential man (v. bêng).

bé (R. id.) bé-ék (R.), to buy and sell.

bé [R. hē, time, = col. pē, hāu]. tsā-bé-jit, yesterday. tsā-bé ê-hng, yesterday evening. tsá-bé (C.), formerly; a long time ago.

bé [R. a curtain]. bé-pin (R.), = su-iá, a private secretary of a mandarin.

bé (R. id.), (Cn. bió). bé-sêng (R.), luxuriant, as the abundant vegetation of many trees. siù-bé, elegant, luxuriant, and beautiful, as a plant; beautifully formed and free from rough features, as a smooth conical hill; also (R.), elegant, polite, and of graceful form, as a gentleman.

bé (T.), = A. bê, soft cooked rice.

bé (T.), = A. bôe. chiáu-bé, a decoy-bird.

bé (T.), = A. mûi. koa-bé, a sort of female jailer for women.

bé (T. Cn.), = A. bé, end; tail.

bé (T. Cn.), = A. bê, not yet.

bé (T.), = A. bê, younger sister.

boá (R. mò or mē), to grind; to rub down, as ink; to polish smooth. boá-kim, to polish smooth. boá-bák, to rub down ink. boá-to, to sharpen a knife. boá-kiá, to polish a mirror. boá-chiòh, a whetstone.

boá, to toil; to labour hard. boá-lát, laborious. boá lāng-ê-lát, to make men toil hard. boá kàu-sí, to toil all one's life. boá kàu-beh-sí, to toil very very hard. tióh-boá, to toil hard. siū-boá, id. siū-boá-thoah, to have passed through many hard experiences (v. thoah). thoa-boá, to toil very hard; to be ill, long and painful. khang-boá, to labour and get no pay or thanks. ù-boá, unwilling to exert one's self. boá-chhùi boá-chih, to talk a great deal with no result, or not much. boá-sim-boá-koa, to exert one's self very much. thoa-sim-boá-miá, to exert one's self very very much.

boá (Cn. T.), = A. môá, hemp.

boá — boá-bui (P.), = (C.) bâ-bui, a fruit used as soap.

boah — it-jī-boah, all laid along quite level, as books on a table.

boah (R. boat), to besmear; to anoint; to plaster (as wall). boah-iú, to anoint. boah-hún, to smear with powder (as face). boah-kê, to spread paste (in pasting). boah-he, to plaster with lime. boah-piah, to plaster a (partition) wall. boah-pit (Cn.), = A. bê-pit, to smooth the point of a pen before writing.

boah — iù-boah-boah, very smooth, as the skin of a young person or of a melon; in fine powder.

boah [R. boat, end], articles powdered or broken down small. iù-boah-boah, finely powdered. hiu-boah, powdered incense. tê-boah, broken down tea leaves, cheaper than the whole leaves. tê-khe-boah, broken down refuse from the manufacture of camellia oil (used in washing). iú-khe-boah, id. gêng-boah, to grind to powder. sio-hu gêng-boah, to calcine and grind to powder. liáh lâi sio-hu gêng-boah, seize him, and deal with him severely, violently, or cruelly (sometimes said of a tremendous scolding).

boah — boah--kè-khi, to brush lightly over (as with one's sleeve) without hurting.

boah (cf. bā). boah-hiòh, the hawk.

磨

力

抹

末末

某

婦

母

牡

敵

牡

募

慕

boah, to seize with claws, as a hawk; to seduce (as by fair speeches) into evil, danger, or calamity.

boah (C. báh). boah-á, the crocodile (or alligator). boah-á-khí, crocodiles' teetb, used as ornaments.

boah — sù-lí-boah, Souribaya.

boah (perhaps different characters). kā-boah-ehhài, a vegetable (lettuce?). ka-boah-ehhài, id. kāu-boah-ehhài, id. kāu-boah-hông (C.), a medicinal plant (v. bông). boah-tin (C.), a shrub with white flowers that grows by water-courses.

boán [R. late, = col. múg]. boán-pòe, polite phrase for "I," when speaking to a teacher or an old man. boán-seng, id. especially said to a mandarin. boán-seng-tsái, said in scolding a man for assuming airs or authority above his position. boán-chhan (X), the Communion.

boán (C.), = A. bién. hun-boán, to be delivered of a child.

boán [R. full; Manchu = col. moá<sup>n</sup>]. oán-boán, finished, completed, as work or time fixed; fully paid, as money. tsòe-ok koán-boán, measure of guilt full. boán-khé eng-sêng, mouth full of fair promises. boán-biên chhun-hong, full ruddy face. boán-tsái, full cargo. boán-tsái eng-kui, to return prosperously with full cargo; said also of an emigrant coming home rich.

boán-thien-kong, a hanging lamp with several wicks. boán-tông-hông, hanging chandelier with many lamps.

boán-chiu, Manchuria. boán-lâng, a Manchu. boán-á, id. boán-peng, Manchu soldiers. boán-á-òe, shoes for large-footed woman, with narrow sole and up-turned point. boán-hàn, Manchu and Chinese. boán-hàn-toh, a feast of mixed Manchu and Chinese style. boán-hàn-sék, id. boán-hàn-kah, a vest edged with black velvet, and having many foreign buttons.

boán [R. koán, to roll up = col. kúg]. boán-chien-ké, a sort of long cake folded, twisted, and fried. boán-chien-ko, id.

boát [R. end]. bí-boát, small and unimportant, as trade, gains, or wages. lí-boát, id. boát-bé, in a decayed degenerate state, about to perish and come to ruin, as family. boát-kiap, Buddhist phrase for the (future) last age of the world. boát-jit (X), the last day.

boe = bi, to dodge about; to go along slyly, or peep secretly, as a spy or thief, or any one wishing to avoid observation. thau-boe, id. boe-lái boe-khì, id. toà-teh-boe, id. boe-jip-lái, to come in slyly or secretly. boe--chhut-khì, to go out slyly.

bõe [R. bí, soft-boiled rice, = col. bé]. tsú kàu bõe-bõe (= múi<sup>n</sup>), to cook very soft, as meat or rice, &c.

bõe [R. múi<sup>n</sup>? bõe?]. bõe-lâng (C.), = A. hũn-lâng, sort of go-between for marriages. koa<sup>n</sup>-bõe (esp. T.), = koa<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of female jailer.

bõe (T. bõ), a decoy, as in a trap. chiáu-bõe, a decoy bird. chiáu-á-bõe, id. kiáu-bõe, a man employed to entice men to gambling. chhát-bõe, a spy used by thieves for spying out things to be stolen, or for enticing a man into their gang. kheh-bõe, the passenger who first takes his seat in a small boat, and so leads others to take passage in it rather than in the other boats which are empty; he gets his passage rather cheaper.

bõe (T. C.), = A. múi<sup>n</sup>, name of a flower. bõe-hoa (C.), = A. múi<sup>n</sup>-hoe.

bõe (R. bõ), (T. múi<sup>n</sup>). ām-bõe, a young frog; some say "tadpole."

bõe — òe-bõe (T.), = A. òe-phàn, the loops at the side of a woman's shoe for pulling it on.

bõe (R. mái), (C. bé), to buy. chhái-bõe, to select and buy, as goods. bõe kui-hâng, to buy wholesale. bõe-m-tát, to buy too dear. bõe-bõ, to fail in buying, as because it is too dear, or none of it in market. tham-sia kui-bõe, buying on credit is expensive. bõe-tũg, to buy for ever, without right of redemption. bõe chin-kun, id.

bõe-pân, a steward in a vessel, or a servant who buys provisions (v. pân). bõe-chhài, to buy provisions. bõe-kheh, a customer.

bõe-tê-chí<sup>n</sup>, a small reward or cumshaw. bõe-tê, to buy tea. hẽ-lí bõe-tê, take that small reward. hẽ-lí bõe-hun, do. (tobacco). hẽ-lí bõe-chiú, id. (liquor).

bõe-lẽ-chí<sup>n</sup>, black-mail levied on a road by powerful villages. bõe-hó, to use means to get a judge, arbiter, or influential man to take our side, e.g. to get one of the owners of a property to use his influence (esp. in an underhand way) to let us have it cheap. bõe-soà<sup>n</sup>, to give money so as to find out stolen articles, or the thief, &c. (v. soà<sup>n</sup>). bõe-miã<sup>n</sup>, to buy long life by burning idolatrous paper; to ransom a capital criminal (?).

bõe-bõe, to buy and sell; to trade. bõe-bõe-chhùi, fast and loose tongue, as of trader; said of two bowls overlapping when laid mouth to mouth; said of folding-doors laid to, but not closely shut, the one leaf slightly overlapping the other. bõe-bõe chhát, traders are thieves. bõe-bõe sng-hun; sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiã<sup>n</sup> bõ-lũn, in trade people count to a fraction; in treatment of guests, don't count how much. bêng-bõe bêng-bõe, to buy and sell openly and fairly. bõe-chiã put-bêng, bõe--chiã tí-tng, if the buyer was not fully informed, the seller is responsible.

bõe (C.), = A. bé, end. chióh-bõe, a town near Chióh-bé; so pronounced also in A., to avoid confusion with Chióh-bé.

bõe (C.), = A. bé. bõe-iãh, a butterfly.

bõe (C.), = A. bé. bõe-chí, a sort of root.

bõe (T.), to add an extra rope or cord to strengthen one that is not strong enough, so as to serve instead of a thicker rope. ke-chit-tiâu lâi-bõe, id.

bõe (C.), = A. bẽ, not yet.

bõe (R. mái), (C. bẽ), to sell; to betray. bõe-bõe, to buy and sell; to trade (v. bõe). pièn-bõe, to sell. bõe-tũg (C. bẽ-tũi<sup>n</sup>), to sell without right of redemption. bõe-chin, id. bõe chin-kun, id. bõe-bõ, to fail to sell, as from asking too much (s. unable).

bõe-lâng, to sell men, as slaves or coolies (commonly said of the coolie emigration). bõe--lâng, to sell to people. bõe-sin, to sell one's self.

bõe-chí<sup>n</sup>, to sell for copper cash. bõe-hièn, to sell for ready money. bõe-hièn-gũn, do. paid in silver. bõe-gũn, to sell for silver. gũ bõe-gũn, to sell a cow for silver.

bõe-peng, to sell the position of a soldier. bõe-koa<sup>n</sup>, to sell official rank or place. bõe-kông, to sell the rank of "kông-seng."

bõe kui-hâng, to sell wholesale. lân-san-bõe, to sell by retail or piece-meal. chhùi-chhùi-bõe, id.

味

晚

滿

捲末

糜媒迷

梅 蝶
媒
買

尾

賣

hó-bōe, saleable. hoat-bōe, for sale. phái<sup>n</sup>-bāng chhut-bōe (a nightmare for sale), written after an ill-omened dream. bōe-bah-chí<sup>n</sup>, wages of a "tāng-chí," or of a man who sells himself to personate another, and be beaten by mandarins.

bōe chit-tiâu-lē, to throw away a good position or acquaintanceship for some improper gain or indulgence; e.g. by stealing from a kind patron, so that one dares not go back to him.

bōe (C. bē), unable; cannot; am not; is not (in some phrases); no, in answer to questions asked by "ōe." bōe-ōe, unable; cannot. ōe-bōe, able or unable; can you, or can you not? can it be so?

bōe-koā<sup>n</sup>, I am not cold. bōe-ià, I am not tired. bōe-iau, I am not hungry. bōe-joáh, the weather is not hot. bōe-hiáu--tit, I do not understand; not to understand.

bōe-tit, cannot —. bōe-tit--thang, id. —. bōe-sng--tit, cannot be numbered. bōe-ki--tit, to forget. bōe-tsòe--tit, it won't do. bōe-sái--tit, id.; this last phrase must not be said in Cn.

hêng-bōe-khí, unable to pay. hóng-bōe-khí, cannot manage to make the copy like. kóng-bōe-chhut, unable to speak it out. kóng-bōe-lái, unable to persuade or to accomplish by talking. óh-bōe-lái, unable to learn though making the attempt. óh-bōe, id.

bōe-ê-lāng, a man of no ability. bōe-bô, it cannot but be there, &c.; it cannot be gone (s. sell).

boeh (C.), = A. beh, to wish; will.

boeh (C.), = A. beh or mih, what? in some special phrases. boeh-ní<sup>n</sup>, what are you about? what do you want?

bóeh (C.), = A. bēh, stockings.

bóh, said in An-khoe and Lâm-oa<sup>n</sup> (some parts), = A. beh, to wish; will.

bóh (R. bók). bóh--tit, do not! bóh--tit, khah-hó, it is better not to do it, or not to meddle with him. bóh, khah-hó, id. kah-i-bóh, if he will have it so, let him please himself (I will not meddle; let him do it if he pleases, we don't care, and are not afraid of him). bóh-kioh (following such a word as "liên" or "siōng-chhiá<sup>n</sup>" in the previous clause), how then can —, e.g. liên i-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to m-ká<sup>n</sup>; bóh-kioh lí-ká<sup>n</sup>, even his own son dares not do it, how then could you dare!

bóh (Cn.), = A. beh, to wish, will.

bóh (Cn.), = A. bēh, stockings.

bók [R. the eye, = col. bák]. ní<sup>n</sup>-bók, ears and eyes. iám-jín ní<sup>n</sup>-bók, to delude people with false appearances while acting wickedly. chiau-iâu ní<sup>n</sup>-bók, to attract thieves, as a show of wealth (v. iâu).

bín-bók chhiú-lok, a cloth put over the face and mits on the hands of a corpse.

bók-liók, a list of contents.

bók-tóng, blind, said in scolding (s. tend). siáu-chiet-bók, unimportant, as a few cash or a small affair.

bók-liên, one of the eighteen Lohan, who delivered his mother from suffering in the other world.

bêng-bók, credentials, as of a small official. bô-bêng-bók, not clear, as a document or an affair about which there is not clear evidence. chheng-sim bêng-bók, heart comfortable and eyes clear, as after drinking good tea.

it-bók, having only one eye; blind of one eye. it-bók liáu-jien, to perceive at one glance. it-bók, koan thien-siōng, the one-eyed man became a great astronomer (said in joke of a man blind of one eye).

bók — bók-bû tsun-tióng, contemptuous towards persons in authority or superiors.

bók — jiók-bók, to insult; to treat with contempt; to abuse, as a person.

bók [R. do not, = col. bók]. bók-koài kí-jien, don't be offended because of that; it is quite natural; there is no cause of offence in it. iú-lē, bók teng-chiu, if there be a road, don't enter a boat.

bók (= bong, bák). ám-bók-bók, very dark, as night or room.

bók [R. to tend, as cattle]. bók-tóng, a shepherd boy (s. eye). bók-su (X.), a pastor, minister, or missionary. bók-chiá (R.), one who tends or feeds (lit. or fig.)

bók [R. to bathe by throwing water over one's self]. tsai-kài bók-iók, to fast and cleanse one's self ceremonially (v. tsai). bók-ék-têng, a paper figure of a bath-room, used in worshipping the recently deceased.

bók (R. id.) bān-lí sa-bók, the great desert of Shamo or Gobi.

bók [R. wood, = col. bák]. bók-pún, having a woody or shrubby stem, as a plant; said also of a thing having an origin. bók-pún sú-goān, a tree has its root, water has its spring (v. goān, a fountain-head).

bók-á, a small coffin, as for a child. si-siá koan-bók, to give away coffins gratuitously (v. siá). bók-tsú, ancestral tablets. bók-chí (C.), id. bók-kùn, a club. bók-gú, a wooden drum shaped like a fish. bók-hí (C.), id. bók-siá<sup>n</sup>, a temporary fort made for a review.

bók-seng, large-boned and awkward-looking in shape (as a man). bók-chhi<sup>n</sup> (R.), the star Jupiter.

chhó-bók, plants of all sorts; herbs and trees. chhó-bók-sin, an idol not regularly canonized, but which has recently become popular; an upstart, not likely to be permanent.

bók-koa, the quince. bók-pit, a flower like amaryllis (v. pit). bók-ní<sup>n</sup>, a fungus that grows on trees (v. ní<sup>n</sup>). bók-pih-thióng, an insect used medicinally.

bong (R. bē), (Cn. bō), to touch; to feel (actively); to feel about; to feel for; to catch, as shell-fish, by feeling in the sand; to handle; to set to work; to procrastinate; to put one's hand to this and that, making an appearance of diligence.

bong-bái, to try by touching. bong-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id. bong-jiâu, to crumple by touching.

chhun-chhiú, bong sim-koa<sup>n</sup> (touch your heart with your hand); let your own conscience speak.

gáu-bong, always procrastinating. put-sí teh-bong, doing work by small bits at a time.

bong sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hāng-tàng, what is your business or trade? tióh-khi-bong, you should set to work and not be idle. bong-tang bong-sai, always at work at various things, so as to have no leisure. ū-sū thang-bong; bô-chí<sup>n</sup> thang-thàn, unprofitable affair.

bong-so-tí<sup>n</sup>, to touch in a lascivious or indelicate manner, as man touching a woman. bong-leng, to touch a woman's breast (counted a pledge of illicit intercourse). loān-tsú-bong, to grope about; to touch the person improperly.

bong-bô-tsáng, to seek in vain for a clue. bong-bô-lē, unable to find the road; unable to find any way of doing it. bong-bōe-lái, tried and found it could not be done. bong bōe-tit-lái, id. hái-tóe bong-chiam, to feel for a needle at the bottom of the sea.

目
莫 漠
牧
沐
漠
木

摸

不

莫

目

bong chân-lê, to catch field-snails with the hand, for food.

àm-bong-sa, to grope. ε-àm-bong, id.

àm-bong-bong, very dark; thick weather.

bong (cf. bông). tsùi-bong-bong, dead-drunk.

bong — toā-bong, flower making a large head, said of the cockscorb.

bông (R. hong). pêng-jip-ko-bông, disease incurable.

bông [R. to receive]. bông-ké, Mongol, Mongolia.

bông (R. id.) bông-sék, a medicine.

bông (R. id.) bông-chéng, the term that falls about June 6th or 7th (v. chéng).

bông [R. to perish]. bông--lâng, a dead man. sin-bông, a man newly dead. kū-bông, a man long dead. tin-bông, to die in the ranks. tsōan-ke biét-bông, all the household dead; often said as a curse. siau-liên-bông, may you die young! said also of an unlucky grave.

bông-hûn, the soul of a corpse. khan-bông, to bring up the spirits of the dead by incantations. lí teh-khan-bông, you are telling a great lie, esp. said to women or children.

bông — bông-bông, very dim, as eyes. bông-bū, id. (s. mist).

bông — àm-bông-bông (C.), = A. àm-bong bong, very dark.

bông (C.), = A. bê, thick mist.

bông-bū (A.), misty.

chhiū<sup>n</sup>-bông (C.), thick mist coming on. hái bông-bông (C.), = A. hái bàng-bàng, dim misty appearance of sea, as at horizon. chhun-bông phak-sí kúi; hē-bông tsò-toā-tsúi (C.), a mist in spring dries up even the ghosts; a mist in summer causes great rain.

bông (R. id.) bông-bông, obscure, as sky. bông-bông biáu-biáu, uncertain; fabulous; obscure.

bông [R. quick]. hông-hông bông-bông, carelessly; hurriedly.

siông-hā-bông, the two stated yearly payments of house-tax or land-tax. siông-bông, the first of them. hā-bông, the second of them.

bông-bông (C.), = A. bàng-bàng, perplexed.

bông [R. lông, sort of insect]. tông-bông (Cn.), = chháu-káu, an insect like a large grasshopper.

bông — tsùi-bông-bông, dead-drunk.

bông [R. to forget]. bông-un pōe-gī, ungrateful. liām-liām put-bông (r.), to remember and not forget. kám-un put-bông, gratefully remembering favours.

bông (R. id.), tolerable; not very good; not very well; just will do; so-so; never mind.

sui-bông, although.

lé-bông, hurried, reckless, or careless in action; rude in manner. bông-tóng, id. bông-tóng-tóng, id. bông-chhóng (C.), id.

bông-khì, tolerable; not very good, but may do. bông-bông, id. tióh-bông, may let it pass; let it do. bông-kiá<sup>n</sup>, barely willing to go, but without much heart. bông kiá<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, merely taking a walk or stroll. bông-kóng, to talk at random; chit-chat; sometimes slight jesting, half-joke half-earnest; well now, just speak. bông-chhiáh, never mind, just eat it. bông-kè, can just get on; so-so; barely getting on. bông-oe bông-kè, id. bông-thoah bông-kè, just getting on, though with difficulty (v. thoah).

bông-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, just let —, please just —. bông-chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chē, please sit a little longer. hó-sim bông-bông, you benevolent man, just please give me anything you like (said by beggars).

bông (R. id.) khoah bông-bông, very vast.

bông (C.), = A. bú; only in the phrase, toā-bông, = A. toā-bú, large, abundant, e.g. bák-chiu tē<sup>n</sup> toā-bông-lú, to stare angrily. toā-bông si-keng-kè, everywhere.

bông [R. = col. bāng, a net]. lô-bông (R.), a net; net-work. thien-lô tē-bông, heaven and earth are a net, which wicked men cannot escape; their wickedness will surely be punished; a sort of net-work to protect a vessel from pirates; a sort of rat-trap. it-bông tá<sup>n</sup>-chín, to take the whole at one haul, e.g. one man taking the whole of what should have been shared with others. ti-tu kiet-bông (spider makes a net); ornamental net-work, esp. on top of a mandarin's sedau.

bông [R. not], (cf. báng). sè-sip bông-thè (R.), hereditary (of rank or office). khi-bông (R.), to treat a superior with disrespect or neglect his orders.

bông [R. = col. bāng, a large sort of snake or dragon]. bông-phàu, a long ceremonial robe with dragons on it, worn by some mandarins. bông-ó, dress of wives of high mandarins, embroidered with these dragons; worn also by rich lady at marriage. bông-kún, under-dress (or petticoat) thus embroidered. chhēng-bông, to wear such a robe, esp. at plays.

bông — bông-bông, careless, reckless; intentionally running a great risk (for a special purpose), as of pirates. sim bông-bông, reckless. bông-tá<sup>n</sup>, recklessly running into danger. hin-bông-bông, head swimming; feeling giddy.

bông — kim-koe-bông (T.), = A. kim-kông-tbúi, a sort of mace before idols, mandarins, &c.

bông (R. bō), (Cn. bō), a grave. hûn-bông, id. bông-tui, mound of grave. bông-ku, do. bông-toh, the flat stone or table in front of grave. bông-pái, tombstone. bông-chi-bēng, engraved stone put inside the grave (v. bēng). bông-chhiú, the long arms encircling a large grave. bông-tiá<sup>n</sup>, the level place in front of a grave. bông-tó, stone tablet at side of road directing to the adjoining grave of a distinguished person. bông-am (C.), grave with a sort of pinnacle. bông-moa<sup>n</sup>, the circular back of a grave. bông-không, the cavity or pit of a grave (v. kbông).

tsông-bông, to bury. pài-bông, to worship at grave. teh bông-tsoá, to scatter paper on graves. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-bông, to make offerings and worship solemnly at graves (on the "chhi<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>" term). chē-bông, id.

thē-bông, a grave with a mound of earth or turf. he-bông, a grave made with a mound of cement in shape of tortoise.

bông (cf. bông). bông-bông, giddy. bông-bông-hin, id.

bông [R. disorderly]. bông-tsông, careless, awkward, unmannerly (v. tsông). kông-bông (?) brag-gardly. bông tsū tsun-toā, self-conceited; making one's self of importance.

bông [R. = col. bāng, to look at]. bông-hiong-tái, an elevation in Hades, from which the dead see their old home and family.

育育
蒙
芒
亡

蒙

茫 忙

螂
忘

莽 莽

網

罔
蟒

槨
墓

妄
望

bēng-bōng, distinction, fame, reputation. ū-bēng-bōng, to be of some importance, distinction, or consideration, as a man whom others respect. bō-bēng-bōng, of no consequence or position, or of bad reputation.

sok-bōng, the first and fifteenth of the Chinese month; new and full moon.

it-bōng bū-chè, very vast, as a flood.

bōng [R. = col. bāng, to dream]. bōng-siet, involuntary emission of semen. bōng-ûi, id.

bu (cf. bú). tsòe-chit-bu, to meet together, as men; to make one lot, as things.

bu (cf. tu). chit-bu-thê, a small mound of earth.

bû (T.), = A. pû. tsòe-chit-bû, to meet together. chháu ka-nŋg-bû, a dense luxuriant clump of grass or other plants.

bû [R. = col. bô, no, not, there is not]. bók-bû tsun-tióng, contemptuous towards persons in authority. liók-bû, to have no near relatives, said in reviling. chéh-liók-bû, utterly exterminated. liók-bû-lâng, man with no relations (esp. Cn.), said in reviling an unfriendly unneighbourly fellow who will not lend a hand to help. bû-ték, superior to all others in power or excellence (v. ték). bû-sé put-ûi, addicted to every evil (v. sé). bû-bēng-tsái, the ring finger (v. bēng, "name"). bân bû it-sit, without a single mistake or failure.

bû-tô, unjust, unprincipled, and wicked, as a ruler. bû-lí, to scold violently and unjustly (v. lí).

sù-bû khī-tān, recklessly wicked; fearing neither gods nor men. sù-bû-lâng, to insult people by violent language, so as to put to shame before others; generally improperly and unjustly. khit--i sù-bû--khi, to be so insulted and put to shame by some one.

lâm-bû o-bī-tô-hút, a Buddhist phrase used in invoking Buddha (Sansk. "nama").

bû (R. id.) bû-loā, to accuse falsely. ka-bû, id. bû-kò, id. before mandarins.

bú — kang-bú, male and female, of animals. bú-ê, a female, of animals.

nú<sup>n</sup>-bú (C.), walking like a woman (said in scolding). thūn-bú, a sterile woman.

bú (R. id.), (C. often sounded like bó or bé), mother; capital of money; used as the final in a great many miscellaneous phrases.

pē-bú, parents (v. pē). chīn-bú-lát, to exert all one's bodily strength. î-bú, mother's sister. bú-î, id. (s. military). bú-kū, maternal uncle (v. kū). bú-kim, wife of maternal uncle.

lâu-bú, mother. bú-chhin (r.), id. sien-bú, your deceased mother (polite). si<sup>n</sup>-bú, real mother. kè-bú, step-mother. âu-bú, id. âu-bú-bīn, sour look, as of a step-mother. gák-bú, mother-in-law. khòe-bú, a woman taken as a sort of adoptive mother, but not actual adoption. ióng-bú, wife of adoptive father, who treats the child quite as a son. tek-bú, principal wife of father, said in relation to the son of a secondary wife. toā-bú, id. ché-bú, title of a large-footed concubine (said about her, not to her) in relation to her child. sù-bú, similar title of secondary wife, but more respectful, usually small feet. sòe-î bú, id.

tsé-bú (R.), paternal grandmother. lāi-tsé-bú (R.), id. goā-tsé-bú (R.), maternal grandmother.

kok-bú, empress-dowager lin-bú, a wet-nurse. jú-bú, id. io-kiá<sup>n</sup>-bú, id. bú--á, a nurse. khioh-chiá-bú, a midwife.

chhiú-bú-nŋg, the first egg that a fowl lays (v.

nŋg). koe-bú, a fowl that has laid eggs. ti-bú, a sow that has or had a litter. chhut-bú-thai, newly born, as child. bú-sin, body of woman about to have a child, or within a month after delivery. bú-sin-sí, to die within a month after having a child, supposed to go to the "huih-tí" in the Buddhist hell.

hái-koe-bú, a broker (with no warehouse of his own) who inquires about cargoes not yet landed, and either buys small quantities on his own account, or negotiates the sale for merchants. toā-keng hái-koe-bú-tiām, shop of a sort of broker who buys and sells all sorts of things wholesale.

lâng--ê hùi-bú, what a man is terribly ashamed to have talked of (v. hùi).

sat-bú, a louse (v. sat).

bú-chí<sup>n</sup>, principal of money; capital lent. bú-lāi, principal and interest (v. lái).

jī-bú, the radical of a word; a letter of alphabet.

kà<sup>n</sup>-bú, leaven. chiú-bú, materials for making liquor all mixed ready for fermenting. kiu<sup>n</sup>-bú, hard dry ginger root (v. kiu<sup>n</sup>). chhài-bú, a very salt sort of sauce. bí-bú, small reserve for future use (v. bí).

soa-bú, small gravel or coarse sand, about the size of small peas. soa<sup>n</sup>-bú, the peak from which auspicious influence takes its beginning.

liáu-bú, the large rope or sheet in which the small ropes of a sail meet. hoe-bú, the original plant from which smaller shoots or young plants are taken. chhiū-bú, main stem of a tree, as opposed to suckers and secondary stems. tin-bú, crown of the root of a trailing plant, as of a potato. kun-bú, crown of the root; origin of a thing.

hút-bú, the goddess with eighteen hands, Sansk. Maritchi. tsún-thê hút-bú, do. sèng-bú, the goddess Má-tsé-pô; also the Virgin Mary, as named by the Romanists. thien-siōng sèng-bú, Má-tsé-pô. chiá-bú, a spirit that guards an infant. chhŋg-bú, id. hàu théh-bú, to make offerings to the goddess of the court-yard. se-ōng-bú, the queen of the fairies, who reigns at "iáu-tí." tiēn-bú, the goddess of lightning (v. tiēn). pài táu-bú, to worship the Great Bear (v. táu).

pòe-bú, a medicinal plant (= pòe-bé), Uvularia and some similar roots (?). ti-bú, a medicinal plant (= ti-bé) that allays fever and inflammation; Celandine or Anemarhena (?). ti-bú ŋg-peh, two medicines often given in one dose. ek-bú-oān, a sort of pill (v. ek). chí-bú, a fish like trout. chí-bú-á, id.

bú (R. bé). kang-bú, = kang-bé, a small tree with light wood (v. kang), (s. female).

bú (R. id.) bú-bān, to insult; to slight. bú-lōng (R. ?), to make a fool of; to play practical jokes upon; to take undue liberties with a superior (s. brandish). bú-lōng tsun-tióng, to make game of a superior.

bú — bú-thán-chhoáh, diagonal (v. chhoáh).

bú [R. to brandish, to dance]. bú-kiām, to brandish a two-edged sword (so with other weapons). bú-lōng (R.), to brandish or gesticulate. bú-lōng pit-bák, to make pedantic display in composition. bú-lāng, to brandish, &c. bú-bú lāng-lāng, brandishing weapons or instruments. bú toā-ki koan-to (able to brandish the great sword of Kwanti), to have considerable influence or power, so as to be able to manage matters of importance. bú-pè, to manage a matter unfairly without the knowledge of superior, as subordinates in yamun or in a hong.

thiàu-bú, to gesticulate with hands and feet; leaping and dancing and moving arms.

夢

無

誣

母

牡

侮

舞

武

bú [R. id.], military (including naval), as opposed to civil (so all through)—bú--ê, a military one, e.g. a military mandarin. bú-biō, the official temple of Kwanti. bú-gōe, military affairs (v. gōe).

pí-bú, to practise military exercises. òh-bú, to learn them. khó-bú, to have examination of military candidates.

bú-óh, a military Sew-tsa. bú siù-tsái, id. bú-tông, military students or candidates. bú kú-jin, a military kudin. bú-kú, id. bú-khoe, id. bú-koa<sup>n</sup>, a military mandarin. bú-iâ<sup>n</sup>, id. bú-hu, said in disparagement of military mandarins on account of their want of learning. bú-jī bō-chit-phiet (the character "bú" has no down stroke), said with the meaning that military mandarins don't know the characters well. bú-toà<sup>n</sup>, a man (actor) representing a female warrior.

ién-bú-têng, pavilion for mandarins at the review ground. iâu-bú iông-ui, a man showing himself of importance (v. ui).

bún-bú, civil and military; Wen-wang and Wu-wang. bún-bú-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, an accusation lodged at same time before the civil and military authorities. bún-bú koa<sup>n</sup>-oân, civil and military mandarins. bún-bú tsoân-tsái, having both civil and military ability. kêng bún, pù bú, the poor study in order to get civil office, but military students are usually from the wealthier classes. bún-pan bú-pan, ranks of civil and military mandarins at imperial audience.

bú-ông, Wu-wang, the founder of the Chow dynasty. bú-i-soa<sup>n</sup>, the Bohea hills.

chín-bú tè-kun, = Hiên-thien Siōng-tè. bú-tong-san, his birthplace. bú-tong-tiên, his temple.

hiên-bú, the Taoist spirit presiding over one quarter of the sky. hiên-bú tái-tè, id. goân-bú, id.

bú — bú-thún-bú-thún, short and stout, as a man.

bú — chhi-bú chhi-chhū, to whisper. chī-bú chī-tsū, id. lí-bú lí-lê, talking on far too much.

bú (C. bóng), (Cn. sometimes m). toā-bú-liáp, very large man. toā-bú-hàn, id. toā-bú-lâng, id. toā-bú-sia<sup>n</sup>, loud noise or voice. toā-bú-kóng, large, long, and hollow, as a large bamboo, or as a crab's claw, or as a large suppurating sore. chē toā-bú-ūi, to sit so as to take up a great deal of room. tín toā-bú-ūi, to take up a great deal of room. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> toā-bú-ê, asking far too much.

toā-bú si-kòe, everywhere; very abundant. toā-bú si-kong-kòe, id. toā-bóng si-keng-kè (C.), id.

bú (R. id.) toā-pē-bú, the thumb; the big toe. kha toā-pē-bú, the big toe. tsng-thâu-bú, the thumb. kha tsng-thâu-bú, the big toe kún-thâu-bú, the closed fist.

bú (R. id.) eng-bú, a sort of parrot.

bú [R. hú, to stroke, to tranquillize]. bú-ī<sup>n</sup> (Cn. hú-ī<sup>n</sup>), the lieutenant-governor, i.e. the governor of one province. bú-tái, do. tok-bú, the governor-general and the lieutenant-governor.

bú-ióng, to nourish and carefully bring up, as a child.

bú [R. affairs]. sè-bū, the affairs of the world. put-am sè-bū, ignorant of the way of managing matters. put-sek si-bū, does not know how to regulate one's self by circumstances, e.g. making a quarrel with a very powerful adversary. sè-bū-si, commissioner of customs (foreigner in Chinese service). tsúi-bū (r.) marine matters. m-bat tsúi-bū, ignorant of navigation and seamanship.

噴

bū, to blow water from the mouth. bū-tsúi, id. bū, dim, as eyes. bák-chiu bū, eyes dim.

bū, mist, fog. hún-bū, id. bông-bū, id. ien-bū, id. ien-bū-hē, thick dark rain. ien-bū-sap, drizzling mist, or very small drizzle; Scotch mist. tà-bū, misty or foggy all over. tàu-bū, id. khí-bū, misty weather; mist spreading. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-bū, id. ai-bū, mist caused by the south wind. lâm-hong-bū, id.

bā-bū, dim and spotted; dim and indistinct, as mirror or window-glass not clear, or as water, or as sky. thi<sup>n</sup> bā-bū, the clouds just beginning to get bright with the light of the yet unrisen sun.

būh — sih-būh sih-sut, making secret signs, as with eyes.

bui — tsu-bui, pleased with one's self, as at getting good profits in trade or any good fortune; pleased, as with pleasant food. kek tsu-bui, to put on a pleased self-satisfied look. bā-bui, = tsu-bui, much pleased with one's self. bā-bui-chhiò, to laugh heartily, without sound. khùn kàu bā-bui, sleeping soundly and comfortably.

bui — bák-chiu bui-bui, eyes half closed, as in excessive laughter or weariness, or naturally so formed. chhiò kàu bák-chiu bui-bui, to laugh so that the eyes almost close. sa-bui, appearance of the eyes almost closed, as if ready to sleep, as from exhaustion or liquor. kek-kàu sa-bui, to put on this appearance; eyes small and almost closed, as man putting on a false appearance of being pleased, or as a bad woman trying to entice people. soa-bui (esp. C.), eyes almost closed, as from sleep, &c.

bui — bā-bui (C.), a fruit that is used as soap (s. pleased). boā-bui (P.), id.

būi (R. pūi, = col. gūi). chhiū-būi, a stinking insect.

bun — chhiū-bun-bun, mouth slightly opened in smiling. chhiò-bun-bun, to smile with mouth slightly opened.

bún (C.), = A. bín. bún-thâu, cakes used in worship of the dead.

bún (C.), = A. bín. bún-chhng, a bed.

bún (C.), = A. bín. bún-á-jit, to-morrow.

bún (C.), = A. hún (R. múi<sup>n</sup>). bún-lâng, a sort of go-between for making marriages.

bún (R. id.), literary; civil, as opposed to military; a writing, esp. an official document, or prayer; (polite). bún-lí, polite. bún-ngá, id.; elegantly accomplished; well composed, as essay or ode. su-bún, learned and accomplished. bún-bék, do. of man or place. bún-hong, character of a place, as to learning (s. hear). bún-hong sēng, very literary, as a place. bún-hong soe, not literary (as place). chhiú ũ-bún-pit, there is a line on his palm going straight to the interstice of the fingers; he will be a graduate. bún-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a literary essay. moá<sup>n</sup>-pak bún-chiu<sup>n</sup>, he is very learned and literary, good at writing essays. bún-keh-tsoá, ruled paper for essays.

bún-bú, civil and military (v. bú). bún-koa<sup>n</sup>, a civil mandarin. bún-biō, temple of Confucius. bún-óh, = bún siù-tsái, a literary graduate of the Sew-tsaé degree. bún-khoe, a literary Kujin.

pē-bún, a decree issued by one of the Six Supreme Boards by imperial order. bún-su, an official document; a despatch (v. şu). bún-tsu, id. kong-bún, id. hok-bún, to reply to an official communication. siōng-bún, to send a despatch to a superior officer.

目

微

費

文

武

鷓
撫
務

tâu-bùn, to give in an official letter, as the courier does. bêng-bùn, credentials. bûn-pîn, official proof of a mandarin's office, &c.

sê-bùn (R.), paper prayers, burned. chiok-bùn, written prayers recited and burned, as in worship of Confucius. chê-bùn, a paper informing the dead about the offerings; this also is burned.

thien-bùn, astronomy. teng-chhai-bùn, riddles on transparent paper, put on lamps at doors. im-chek-bùn, small tracts, pretended to be by Bùn-chhióng. khoàn-sê-bùn, do., sometimes larger, and of various reputed authors. pên-bùn, the text of a hook, as dist. from commentary. pún-bùn, the original text. png-bùn, the text of an imperial proclamation. ké-bùn, a hook consisting of a selection of ancient essays; elegant extracts. liên-bùn, ornamental written scrolls. chhien-ji-bùn, the thousand character classic (all different words), much used for naming a consecutive series.

bùn-chhióng, the god of literature, Wen-chang (v. chhióng). tsu-bùn-kong, the commentator Choo-hi, once magistrate of Changchew. bûn-kong-sú, his temple.

thien-bùn-tong, a medicinal plant. bék-bùn-tong, another sort. soat-bùn, soap. sap-bùn, do. siap-bùn, do.

hoán-bùn, the 66th or 67th radical written at the side. pái<sup>n</sup>-bùn (T.), id.

bùn [R. wavy lines]. bûn-gún, sycee silver. bûn-gún pí<sup>n</sup>-tsòe bé-kháu-thih, sycee changed to tinplate; a valuable thing changed to worthless.

ka-bùn-chhióh, a finely woven mat made of reeds. lô-bùn-tsoá, a sort of lined writing paper. chhiá-bùn-pê, cotton drill; drill or twilled cloth. chhiá-bùn, id. siá-bùn-pê, id.

bùn [R. = col. mng, a door]. oân-bùn, the side gates of the open space in front of main-gate of a yamun; often a street passes through them. ngé-bùn, do. in front of imperial palace. hiên-iâu bûn-lú, to become a great mandarin or very illustrious graduate. hiên-iâu bûn-bí, id.

kúi bûn-koan, the gate of Hades, Buddhist (v. koan). thien-bùn khai, heaven's gate open on 6.7: a mirror is put in water in a new wooden basin, and the splendours of heaven with the "thien-sin" are seen; this day "thi<sup>n</sup>-kong" is specially worshipped, and it is ten times more use to burn mock paper this day than on other days.

sin-bùn, the soft place on a child's head.

hút-bùn, the Buddhist sect or society (v. hùt). bûn-seng (R.), a pupil.

liông-bùn-soa, a sort of edible shark.

chhut-bùn kiên-hí, to see a good omen on leaving the door. ngé-hok lim-bùn, may the five blessings descend on this house.

bùn [R. to hear]. sin-bùn, news. sin-bùn-tsoá, a newspaper. thoân-bùn--lâi, learned only by report. bûn-hong (r.), to hear a rumour (s. literary). bûn-hong sòng-tám, lost courage at the news. bûn-bêng (polite phrase), famous, as man or thing; I have heard that name. bûn kí-bêng, bí-kiên kí-biên, I have heard of him but have never seen him.

bùn (R. id.) tsū-bùn, to cut one's own throat.

bùn [R. corner of mouth]. hó-kháu-bùn, good at talking in a winning pleasing manner. ba-bùn-chhió, to smile. bûn-bùn-á-chhió, id.

bùn (Ca.), = A. ún. tē-bùn, a worm.

bùn [R. sad]. iu-bùn, sad. bûn-iau-iau, id. ut-bùn, grieved; vexed; dull; having a feeling of eunui. ùn-bùn, do. sim bûn, mind sad. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> bûn-chiau-chiau, very sad. bûn-tsau-tsau, id. kóe-bùn, to remove sorrow, as by amusement. kóe sim-bùn, id. siau-chhiú kái-bùn, id. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-khek, kóe sim-bùn, to sing songs to put away sorrow.

bùn — bûn-bùn, dull throbbing pain. bûn-thiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

bùn — lién-bùn, the rose-apple, = hoan-ké-chí (foreign fruit): Sansk. Djamha.

bùn (T. lûn; C. chhêng). bûn-png, to boil rice dry with little water and moderate fire.

bùn (C. bin). bûn-thâng, worms in the abdomen.

bùn [R. = col. mng, to ask]. bûn-pok, to consult a diviner. bûn-song (R.), to make a visit of condolence to a house where a corpse is lying and worship it.

bûn-tsôe (R.), to condemn. bûn-tê (R.), to condemn to be transported. bûn-liú (R.), id. (different distance).

bùn [R. reputation, by change of tone from "hùn," to hear]. hák-bùn, learning; scholarship; literary knowledge. ù-hák-bùn, to be a learned man. hák-bùn chhim, id. thàm láng--ê hák-bùn chhim-khín, to try the depth of a man's scholarship.

bùn [R. hūn, a division, a part]. hê-lê-bùn, a paper with divisions and figures or characters on it, used in a sort of gambling. lin hê-lê-bùn, to throw the dice upon it.

bút — ti<sup>n</sup>-but-but, very sweet.

bút — iù-but-but, very small, as infant; said also in general. but-but-á, very small, as fish, &c. but-but-á-toá, id.

bút — seng-ta<sup>n</sup>-but, a small edible white seaworm, sharp at both ends.

bút (R. id.) but-á-hí, a small white fish. sék-but-á-hí, do. cooked ready, and so sold in streets.

bút (R. id.), to strike with a thin stick, switch, or whip; to switch. bút-sut, id.

bút (R. id.) bút-ióh, myrrh.

bút [R. to sink; to perish]. bút-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be confiscated. bái-bút, to hurry or hide so that it may never be found (v. bái). bín-bút (R.), to be destroyed; to disappear, leaving no trace, as merit unacknowledged, or as a thing put out of the way.

bút [R. do not!] chhiet-chhiet bút-gō, he careful to make no mistake (phrase much used in letters).

bút [R. = col. mih<sup>n</sup>, a thing]. put-sêng-bút, an ill-behaved worthless fellow. giét-bút, you vile thing; you wretch (said to children). koài-bút, a very malicious demon in shape of an animal (v. koài). hê-bút, goods.

sù-bút, four drugs counted of great use, viz. "kui, kiong, chiok, tē." sù-bút-thng, an infusion of these four drugs mixed.

bân-bút, all things in heaven and earth. thien-tê bân-bút, heaven, earth, and all things. jin úi bân-bút chi-lêng, man is the most excellent and intelligent of all beings.

jin-bút, distinguished men, in relation to their place of birth, &c. toá-jin-bút, a high mandarin or Tsinsze, said in relation to the grave or village or family from which he comes. chhut jin-bút, to produce dis-

悶

悶

蠅

問

聞

分

末

魴

物

沒

沒

勿

物

紋

門

聞

刺
吻
蚓

tinguished men. bô sim-mih jin-bút, no illustrious man belongs to the place. hó-jin-bút, a fine-looking man; a man above the common average. it-piáu ê jin-bút, a fine-looking and elegant man. úi jin-bút, to draw or paint pictures of men. jin-chêng bút-lí, the proper way of action; the principles of what is right and proper in any affair.

iông-bút, the male organs; the penis. im-bút (R.), the female organs.

bwá, better "boá" (q.v.)

bwah, and bwáh; better "boah, boáh" (q.v.)

bwán, better "boán" (q.v.)

bwát, better "boát" (q.v.)

CH.

ch always has the sound in "church." By others it is used both for that sound and for ts; but never in this Dictionary except sometimes in the aspirated form chh (q.v.).

cha, châ (in various tones); better tsa, tsá, &c. (q.v.)

chah, cháh; better tsah, tsáh (q.v.)

chai, chai<sup>n</sup>, chak, cham, chan, chang, chap, chat, chau, chauh (in various tones); better tsai, tsai<sup>n</sup>, tsak, tsam, tsan, tsang, tsap, tsat, tsau, tsauh, &c. (q.v.)

che (R. ché), this; those. che-lâng, this man, &c.

che (C.), = A. tsoe, dough.

che [R. tsai, to fast ceremonially], (C. chē). che-chhâm, Buddhist rites (generally for several days) for getting souls out of hell. kong-tek che-chhâm, id. tsòe-che-chhâm, to perform these rites shortly after death. tsò-che (C.), id. phoá<sup>n</sup>-che (C.), = tiâu-tsoá, to call and present offerings while these rites are going on.

che (R. tsa), (C. chē), dregs; sediment. che-tái, do. che-tsái (C.), id. káu-che-tái, full of dregs; said of a troublesome meddling man.

iòh-che, second infusion of drugs. táu-che, refuse from making bean-curd. han-tsú-che, refuse from making potato-starch. iú-che (C.), = A. iú-tái, sediment of oil.

che-liú, a soft tumour, white within (v. liú).

che (C.), = A. tsa. san-che, small crab-apple.

che (C.), = A. tsa, to investigate; a surname.

chê (R. siên), (C. chê, P. tê, Cn. also tsún). am-pê-chê, the cicada. am-pó-chê (C.), id. ka-chê (Cn.), id.

chê — lê-ién-chê (T.), = A. lô-ién-sê, a band of boys with music in idolatrous processions.

chê [R. together, even, regulate]; "ché" and "tsòe" are sometimes interchanged in some phrases, esp. chê (C.) often = A. tsòe.

chê-kok, the state of Tsi in the Chow dynasty.

chê-ka (R.), to rule one's household well.

chê-pí, complete in number. chê-chip, to assemble in full number (v. chip). ngé-lê chê-hoat, affairs or persons coming all at once from various quarters. ngé-koan put-chê, having some ugly blemish in the features. chê-tsù<sup>n</sup> (C.), complete; perfect.

chê-bí, a heavy club about the height to a man's eyebrows (v. bí).

ê-lé-bók-chê, Urumutsi, a Chinese province in Central Asia; said also in reference to travellers' tales, "all bosh."

ché — ché-á, a short, dark-grayish edible sea-slug, = koe-lun.

ché — pin-pin ché-ché, clean and neat in dress and person; elegant and polite.

ché (R. chiá), affix to names of some women. ché-bú, a large-footed concubine. said of her when spoken of as a mother. ché--á, a secondary wife; a concubine. ché-á-òe, shoes for large-footed women. ché--á, mother (large-footed concubine)! á-ché, do., said by her child; also, "elder sister!"

ché [R. to rule, to shape], to ward off evil influences. ché-soah, to ward off the evil influence of the demons called "soah-sín." sai-thâu ché-soah, lions' heads doing so. ché-iám, to ward off or expel demons.

at-chê, to keep down (by power) so as to prevent doing something. ché-ap, id. ap-chê, id.; to oppress, as a powerful man; to keep down or ward off danger. ap-chê siá-kúi, to ward off the evil influence of demons. ap-chê òe-tit-kè, able to keep off the danger or trouble. hiáp-chê, to use improper pressure or strong influence to force a man to do what he does not wish.

ché-tái, the governor-general. ché-tê, the rules (of a dynasty) as to dress, &c. (v. tê).

in-sí ché-gí, to accommodate one's actions to the circumstances. bô-chiet-chê, too free and lavish in the use of money. sí-toá ê-chiet-chê, rules and regulations of our superiors.

chê [R. pattern; to compound]. ché-iòh, to compound or prepare medicines. chién-chê, do. both by cutting and by the use of fire. ché-chhá, to prepare by roasting, as medicines.

ké-chê, old-fashioned, as dress or other articles. sí-chê, fashionable form of dress. khoán-chê, pattern or form; character or behaviour. pún-tiâu hòk-chê, the form of dress prescribed by the present dynasty.

ũ keng-chê, correct in style, as a composition (some assign this phrase to the next word): this word and the former are sometimes interchanged.

ché [R. to cross; to make successful; to assist]. chín-chê, to give alms to. si-chê, to give alms. ióng-chê-í<sup>n</sup>, a sort of public poor's-house.

put-chê-sū, it will not do; will not effect the purpose. bôe-chê, id. tòng-bôe-chê, all efforts to prevent it are unsuccessful. kóng-liáu put-chê, utterly useless to raise the subject.

kong-jiú sióng-chê, firmness and gentleness well united and balanced. un-jiú sióng-chê (Cn.), two parties settling a quarrel by each yielding a little.

chê (R. tí; cf. piau-tí). cheng-chê, beautiful, as person or thing.

chê (R. tsá). chê-khui (C.), to burst, as a gun.

chê (C.), = A. tsá, false.

濟

制

製

濟

緻

這
齊

渣

蟬

齊

際
歲
債

罪

坐 坐

祭

睡

chè [R. a limit]. it-bōng bū-chè, vast; illimitable, as a great flood.

chè — tē-chè, just one year from birth. mē<sup>n</sup>-chè (C.), id.

chè — oan-ke niū<sup>n</sup>-chè, to have a feud or violent quarrel. oan-ke niū<sup>n</sup>-chè, id.

chè (R. id.), (C. chè), a debt; a loan of money. chìoh-chè, to borrow. chìoh liū-hoan-chè, to borrow from northern exiles, the worst usurers in Amoy. moā<sup>n</sup>-teng-chè, debts to be paid when father dies. khiàm-chè, to owe a debt. khiàm-chè ê-lâng, a debtor; the borrower. khiàm-kha-chè, to have a walk to no purpose. khiàm-chè oàn-tsâi-tsú; put-hâu oàn-pē-bú, the debtor hates the creditor; the unfilial son hates his parents.

chè-tsú, the lender; the creditor. pàng-chè, to lend on interest (v. pàng). bô-kiá<sup>n</sup>-chè, usury so heavy that Heaven refuses posterity to the usurer. thó-chè, to demand payment. pek-chè, do. very urgently; to dun for payment.

chē-chè, to be responsible for payment of a debt. ân-chè, to promise to pay a debt at a fixed time. hoân-chè (C.), to pay a debt. hiau-chè, to refuse to pay a debt, or insist that it has been paid. tsáu-chè, to abscond in order to avoid paying a debt. tô-chè, id.

giáp-chè, very miserable condition because of wickedness in a former life, for which full satisfaction has not yet been made. phái<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>-chè, id. lô-lók-chè, id. lô-lók-chè bê-moá<sup>n</sup>, id.; lit. the debt of misery not yet fully paid.

chè, better "chē," or "chit-ê," an enclitic particle; v. chēh.

chè (R. id.), a sacrificial offering; to make a sacrificial offering to. chè-mih<sup>n</sup>, things offered. chè-sū, a sacrificial offering. chè-bún, a written or printed prayer, read and burned.

chè-sò, to make offerings and sweep the tombs. chè-hièn, to worship by offerings. hièn-chè, id. tsú-chè, to preside at a sacrifice. hióng-chè, to accept or receive an offering. pâi-chè, to make a visit to a family where a death has occurred, and worship the dead with a great quantity of offerings, much more than in the rite of "tiâu-tsoá."

chè-teng, to make offerings on those days that contain the cyclical character "teng," in the spring and autumn worship of Confucius. chè-tang, to make offerings to ancestors at the winter solstice. chè-ki, to sacrifice to the flag. chè-tók, do. to general's flag. chè-bōng, to make offerings at the tombs. chè-kang, to make offerings at an inlet or strait, as to call back the soul of a drowned person, or as to avert calamities when e.g. an army is about to cross. chè-ke, to make offerings to deceased persons who have no posterity; said also in scolding a man eating voraciously. chè-thien, to make offerings to Heaven. kâu-chè-thien, the monkey who sacrificed to Heaven, and became ancestor of the foreigners.

bōe-chè--tit, not pleasant to eat, as food ill cooked. tsâi-si<sup>n</sup>, m-chè nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu; si--liáu chiah-hâu koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-thâu; will not support parents while alive, but will make offerings to the coffin after death.

chē [R. sūi, to sleep], (C. tsōe, T. tsō). ka-chē, to nod in sleep; drowsy. tuh-ka-chē, id. tok-ka-tsō (T.), id.

chē [cf. chhē, to seek]. gâu-phī<sup>n</sup>-chē, very knowing (v. phī<sup>n</sup>).

chē [R. tsōe, guilt], (T. Cn. tsō), also in H. = A. tsōe, guilt.

chē-koà, guilt, crime as related to punishment. si-chē, guilt involving punishment of death. si-chē, bô gō-chē-tāng, the penalty of death is not so severe as that of starvation; a starving man does not fear to risk anything. siū-chē, to bear guilt, penalty, or responsibility for it. sóe-chē, to atone for guilt by burning paper, and making offerings, &c., esp. for killing cows. tháu-chē, do. as Taoist priests do.

chē (C.), = A. tsōe, many.

chē (C.), = A. chià. chē-ke, a partridge; some say "chē."

chē — tò-chē, = "lun," to push a boat straight backwards. chē-á, id.

chē (R. tsō), (Cn. tsō), to sit; to be responsible for (C. chhē, in this sense only); to settle, as sediment or foundation; to abate, as pain; to have its back to a direction, as house.

âu-chē, the hind part of a carcass, as of a pig or goat, about one-third part of it. bé-chē, the upper support of a Chinese helm.

chē-the, to conceive; to have in the womb.

tâi-ke pi<sup>n</sup>-chē-khiā, all about a similar position in life, e.g. all mandarins or graduates (v. khiā).

chē-soa<sup>n</sup>--ê, the charterer or owner of a vessel, who lives on shore, as opposed to the supercargo (chhut-hái); either may be called "tsún-tsú." khui-hāng chē-tiām, to have a hong or shop, as merchant. chē-tang hióng-sai, having its front to the west, as house, &c. siāng-chē, facing the same way, as two houses.

chē-chheng, to settle and become clear, as a fluid.

chē-tóe, to settle down, as sediment. khah-chē, abated, as pain. chē--lól-khì, to sink or settle down in one part, as a house on a soft foundation. chē-khū, a Chinese door become too low, by the gradual wearing away of the socket on which it turns like a hinge.

chē-kiō, to travel in a sedan. chē-tsún, to go by boat. chē-chhia, to travel in a carriage or cart. chē-lién, to use the imperial sedan or idol's sedan.

chē-thi<sup>n</sup>, to be emperor. chē-tiâu, to give audience, as emperor. chē-tièn, id. chē-ūi, to sit on a throne; to take a seat, as guest or scholar. chē-tng, to sit on the tribunal, as mandarin.

chē-sièn, to sit in profound abstraction or meditation, as Buddhist priest. chē-tsō, to sit performing certain rites, as Taoist or Buddhist priests. chē phé-tē, to sit performing special rites (called "phé-tē") for getting souls out of hell.

chē-bōe-tiâu, cannot sit still; I cannot sit idle. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chē, please sit down; don't go away. chē-chih, to break by sitting upon. chē-khi-chiá<sup>n</sup>, sit straight, looking straight forward, not sidewise. chē-khi-thēng, sit straight up.

chē-tâu, to accept the responsibility, as for a man's conduct, or for payment (C. chhē, in this and all the following phrases). chē-giáh, to be responsible for payment. chē-chí<sup>n</sup>, to be responsible for payment of money. chē-siàu, to accept the responsibility of payment of account. chē-chè, do. of a debt. chē-tū, to accept the responsibility for another person. chē-toa<sup>n</sup>, to accept a bill. m-chē (C. m-chhē), refuse to pay, as a bill; protest a bill; also (C. m-chē), will not sit. chē-tò-tng, to agree to take back a thing sold if the purchaser does not like it. chē-tsōe, to bear the responsibility of a fault or crime. thòe-láng chē tsōe, do. in place of another. goá-chē-lí, I am responsible to you for it, as for the sum. goá ká-lí-chē, id. hē-lí-chē, you must be responsible for the payment. chē-i<sup>n</sup>, bō-chē-pí<sup>n</sup>, taking the praise of success, but not willing to bear responsibility in case of failure (lit. round, not flat).

chē (C. chē), a fort, a camp, esp. small. chē-á, id. iá<sup>n</sup>-chē, a military encampment. soa<sup>n</sup>-chē, a hill fort. chhát-chē, a rokker's den or fort. an-chē, to encamp. an-iá<sup>n</sup> tsat-chē, id. jip-chē, bō-thái-lâng, even an enemy is not injured when he comes into our house.

chē (C.), in all the tones, = A. chí<sup>n</sup>, when it comes from the reading form "cheng."

chē (C.), = A. chēng, chí<sup>n</sup>. chē<sup>n</sup>-chē<sup>n</sup>, he quiet! (said to child). àm-chē<sup>n</sup>, secret.

chēh (Cn. tsöh). chēh-thoah, to use wastefully, as money or things.

chēh (R. chēk), (C. chēh), oblique, as any tone except the piá<sup>n</sup> (ping) tone. piá<sup>n</sup>-chēh, the ping tone and the other tones; the two great divisions of tones; the arrangements of rhymes and sequences according to the tones. bō-piá<sup>n</sup>-chēh, not properly composed as regards the tones. chēh-sia<sup>n</sup>, any tone except the ping.

chēh (=cht-ē), an enclitic particle after some verbs; originally "once," but the meaning is often very slight, e.g. once and again; now and then.

sih--chēh, sih--chēh, twinkling; glancing now and then. lun--chēh, kiu--chēh, unsettled state of mind, now afraid, now almost ready to do it.

chēh (T. Cn.), = A. chhék. chhiau-chēh, appearance of great delight.

chēh (R. chēk), (C. chēh), to separate fibres (as of flax) with the hand, joining them into one continuous thread by twisting the ends together. chēh-tōe, to pick thus the fibres of flax, making them into one thread, done by women. pháng-chēh, to make thread (in general) of cotton, flax, &c. chēh-kheng, the basket for holding the flax thread when made.

chēh (C.), = A. tsoeh, a feast day; a term in the year. tang-chēh, the winter solstice. tâng-chēh, at the same time. sí-chēh, a time; a period or point of time. chēh-khí, = A. tsoeh-khùi, the 24 terms of the solar year.

chēh (Cn. tsöh), to dry by pressing gently with a cloth, without wiping or rubbing; also to dry by a gentle touch with the tip of finger, &c. chēh-ta, id. chēh-khí-lái, id.

chēh — bák-kiáh-chēh, wooden heel taps of women's small shoes.

chēh (R. tsòe), (C. tsòe). chēh-á, a wart.

chēh [R. siok, = col. chēk, a younger uncle, &c.] á-chēh (Cn.), papa! father! sometimes said, but considered not respectful.

chēh (C.), = A. chiah. chiáu-chēh, birds, in general. chhù-thâu chēh-á, = chhek-chiáu-á, a house-sparrow.

chēh [R. tsóat, to cut off], (Cn. tsöh), all exterminated, as a family. sí-chēh, id. sí-chēh-chēh, id. chiù sí-chēh-tsoá, to imprecate death on one's self and one's whole family, if what is sworn be false. sí-kiá<sup>n</sup> chēh-sun, may all your posterity he cut off! chēh-chéng, having no descendants, or all extirpated. chēh-bō-lâng, id. chēh-áu-tái, id. chēh-sam-tái, the three generations cut off. chēh-liók-bū, relatives utterly exterminated.

chēh (C.), = A. tsòeh, to slice vertically. poá<sup>n</sup>-chēh-bòeh, stockings of two colours or stuffs at the foot and leg.

chēh (C.), sound of walking on a wet road.

chēk [R. form, traces, = col. jiah]. pit-chēk, handwriting. chhin-pit-chēk, one's own handwriting. tsong-chēk, traces, as of a thief, or of things lost or stolen (v. tsong). ké-chēk, ancient remains. sèng-chēk-mih<sup>n</sup>, things having some traditional connection with ancient sages. ũ-hēng-chēk, to have traces or clue, as to something stolen, &c. hēng-chēk khó-gí, ground for suspicion.

hoat-chēk, to rise to high station, wealth, or distinction from a low position, so as to "make one's mark."

chēk (R. siok), (P. chiok, chioh), younger brother of father; any man of same surname or clan who is one degree nearer the common ancestor than we are, but younger than our father; polite title to a moderately old man, not so old as "peh." án-chēk, do., esp. vocative; sometimes "father!" á-chēk, id. pau-chēk, father's younger brother. chhin-chēk, id. tông-chēk, a man of same clan who is one degree nearer common ancestor than we, and younger than our father, but not his brother; father's younger cousin of same surname, however distant the cousinship may be. chióng-tông-chēk, father's younger second cousin, or more distant cousin, of same surname. piáu-chēk, younger son of paternal grand-aunt, or of grandmother's brother, &c.

chēk-peh, paternal uncles in general; and all cousins of father having the same surname. chēk-peh hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, cousins of same surname; relatives of the same surname. chēk-kong, paternal grandfather's younger brother; any junior cousin of paternal grandfather (of same surname) however distant; also, polite address to old man. chēk-kong-tsé, younger brother of paternal great-grandfather, or any junior cousin of his, however far removed, only of the same surname. lāu-chēk-kong, venerable sir!

āu-chēk, step-father. chhin-ke-chēk, younger brother of man whose son or daughter is married to our daughter or son. tiū<sup>n</sup>-lâng-chēk, younger brother of wife's father. chēk-koa<sup>n</sup>, younger brother of husband's father. sió-chēk, husband's younger brother. sè-chēk (C.), id. sōe-chēk (An.), id.; (T.), youngest uncle.

chēk (R. chiok), (C. chēk, chiok), a candle. iū-chēk, a tallow candle. lāh-chēk, a wax candle. chhâ-chēk, a wooden imitation candle with a lamp at the top. chhâ-chēk-ké, id. chēk-ké (Cn.), id. chhâ-chēk-au, small cup on top of it, holding oil. chhâ-chēk-tih, candlestick for imitation candle. hoe-chēk, flowered candles for festive occasions. thong-siau-chēk, long red candles.

tsúi-chēk, a sort of reed with a head like a huluh, used for stanching blood. chiòh-chēk, two pillars (shaped like candles) at graves of high mandarins. tsún chhah-chēk, the hoat has sunk to the bottom, leaving only the mast visible.

chēk-sim, wick of candle. chēk-bâng, candle-stems, made of a sort of reed. an chēk-bâng, to attach the stem to the candle. chēk-kè, a frame used in making candles. chēk-tái, a candlestick, esp. large. hōh-á chēk-tái, a stork-shaped candlestick. chēk-tih, a small candlestick. chēk-chhang, socket of candlestick. chēk-lúi, candle-droppings. chēk-sái,

寨

仄

績

節

贅叔又絕

跡迹

叔

燭

candle-snuffings. chek-hoe, ornamental wax flowers stuck on large candles. liâm chek-hoe, to put them on. chek-chiën, snufflers.

chek — chek--tiòh, to sprain.

chek, to squeeze out, as blood or matter from a sore; to strain through a cloth by squeezing.

chek (R. id.), to punish; to reprove; (to count responsible). chek-pi, to reprove; to punish. chek-tok, to instruct and educate into good conduct, often including idea of reproof or chastisement. tok-chek, id. chek-hoát, to punish, as the gods. khien-chek, id.

lí--ê chek-jim, it is your affair; the responsibility is upon you. lí--ê chek-sêng, id. chek-tsôe, to lay the blame on.

chek [R. chit, nature; to confront]. tui-chek. the two parties stating their case face to face, as before a superior or arbiter.

chek (R. id.), to collect or gather together; to crowd together. chek-oá, to crowd close to, as to place or person. sa<sup>n</sup>-chek, crowded together. chek-lek--teh, id. chek-hê, to collect more and more. chek-tsū, to gather up; to amass; to collect. chek-thiok, id. gradually. thiok-chek, id. tūn-chek, to accumulate gradually quantities of goods. chek-chek tsòe-chit-tui, to gather into a heap. tui-chek, to gather in great abundance. tui-soa<sup>n</sup> chek-hái, to gather in vast quantities, like mountains and oceans. tui-kim chek-giòk, to gather heaps of gold and jade. liáp-chek, to hoard up little by little; to save and store up carefully, as money. sam-tái liáp-chek; it-tàn khèng-khong, to spend in one morning the accumulations of three generations. sam-liên &c., id. of three years.

chek-oàn, to harbour resentment or envy. chek-tek, to increase gradually in virtue or character (good or bad), (v. tek). chek-ok biêt-sin, accumulated guilt leading Heaven to punish by death. ok-chek, accumulated guilt calling down Heaven's judgments. tsòe-ok-chek, to act continually very wickedly, e.g. oppressing people, or causing feuds, or bringing false accusations. ok-chek só-ti, the result of accumulated guilt.

chhut-jit, tiòh-chek hê-lái-niù<sup>n</sup>, in sunny weather collect food for rainy seasons.

sit-chek, unwell (as child) from over-eating. sit-chek siong-pi, id. kam-chek, indigestion and illness (of children) from over-eating. chek-siong, illness from hard toil or over-exertion for many days. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu peh-peh chek-chek, feeling of heaviness from indigestion or dyspepsia.

chek (R. id.), (C. chit). im-chek, works of supererogation; meritorious virtue deserving reward from Heaven. sún im-chek, to commit sins that draw down Heaven's anger. bân-tái im-chek, very great meritorious virtue. im-chek-bûn, Buddhist tracts distributed to gain merit. im-chek-hûn, lines on the countenance showing benevolent acts, and portending prosperity. im-chek-hûn chiū<sup>n</sup>-bin, such lines appearing on the face.

chek [R. a rule; then]. chek-lê, a tariff.

chek [R. immediately; supposing]. chek-si, immediately. chek-koán-kóng (T. chiok, &c.), speak on if you like; don't be afraid to speak. chek-koán-lái, come if you like.

chek (R. sok). chek-phê-si (Cn.), = A. sok-pò-si, an attendant of Sêng-hóng-iá.

chek (R. id.) chek-lêng (R.), a sort of bird that is a model of fraternal affection.

chek [R. a sort of millet]. hê-chek, the author of agriculture; the god of agriculture. siâ-chek (R.), the place for the Imperial worship of the gods of the land and grain. siâ-chek-toâ<sup>n</sup>, the altar at that temple. siâ-chek-sin, the gods of grain and the guardian spirits of the mountains in the several regions; none but the emperor may worship them in person or by commission. san-chhoan siâ-chek (R.), mountains, rivers, and this altar; said of the emperor's possessions. tô-liông-siok, bék-sú-chek, the six grains.

chèk (R. id.) chèk-lê (Cn.), = A. chit-lê, a medicinal plant.

chèk (R. id.) chèk-tê (Cn.), = A. chit-tê, envy.

chèk [R. a thief, = col. chhât]. liók-chèk, idle scoundrels; rowdies or loafers. ka-chèk lân-hông, it is difficult to guard against a thief in the house. chhông-chèk, to destroy one's own health or life by wicked courses. chhiông-chèk, id.

chèk [R. chit, a disease]. lí-chèk, dysentery. kê-chèk, an old or inveterate disease that comes back after cure. ài-khi kê-chèk, tendency to take the old disease again. hòe-chèk (T.), = A. hòe-chit, useless (as man) because of some incurable disease or deformity. giok-chèk; 高沃 a o'c chèk (R. id.), (= chip), a census-roll according to the district to which our ancestors belong. bin-chèk, id. ê-mûng-chèk, belonging to Amoy by descent, &c.

cheng (R. chiong). chiú-cheng, a small wine-cup. khâm-cheng, a large bowl-shaped cup with cover (often of fine ware), often used for infusing tea. tê-cheng, a small tea-cup, but not the smallest size. chit-cheng-tê, a cup of tea.

cheng (R. chiong), a bell; a gong with a boss in the middle (those without a boss are called "lô"); (a clock; o'clock).

tê-cheng, a small hand-bell used by priests. tâng-cheng, a gong with a boss in the middle; a brass or copper bell. cheng-lui, knob or boss of a gong. cheng-lin, id. cheng-tsái, the hollow on the obverse of a gong. cheng-thúi, mallet for striking a gong or bell. cheng-lâu, a belfry or steeple.

khau-cheng, to strike a large bell, as in Buddhist temple. phah-cheng, to strike a bell. kòng-cheng, to strike a bell or gong.

si-cheng, a clock. têng-si-cheng (Cn.), id. kúi-tiám-cheng, what o'clock? (v. tiám). tsü-bêng-cheng (Cn.), a clock that strikes.

âu-cheng (C.), Adam's apple in the throat. nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu-cheng (C.), id.

cheng [R. id., = col. "tsan," a surname; also read "chéng," already; Cn. tsöng, chöng].

cheng-sun, great-grandson. cheng-tsé, great grandfather. cheng-tsé-bú, great-grandmother.

cheng-tsú, a famous disciple of Confucius.

cheng [R. = col. chi<sup>n</sup>, to dispute; Cn. tsöng, chöng]. cheng-chha, to be different for the worse (v. chha).

tsáu-cheng, id. cheng-tsoáh, difference. bô-cheng-tsoáh, no difference. cheng-tsoáh iú-hiën, differs but little.

cheng-chiën, to fight, as in battle. cheng-thien toát-kok, to aim at the throne, as in rebellion (v. toát). cheng-khi, put-cheng-tsái, the quarrel is for feeling or anger, and not for money.

cheng, = teng, to levy some sorts of taxes.

鶴
稷

賊

疾

籍
鍾

鐘

曾

爭

徵

責

質
積

薦

則
即
速

漳征

cheng (Cn.), = A. Chiang. cheng-chiu, Chang-chew city.

cheng (R. id.), to go out to battle, as against rebels, banditti, or pirates. chhut-cheng, to go out to battle against inferiors, as rebels, &c. gū-kà chhin-cheng, the emperor going out to war in person. cheng-chhát, to go to attack pirates or bandits, as mandarins. cheng-hoan, to invade a foreign country; to bring foreigners to submission. cheng-hoan (Cn.), to eat sweet potatoes (said in joke).

cheng-lâm tsáu-pak, kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tang khi-sai, to travel in all directions.

cheng (R. seng). lêng-cheng, a banner with name and titles of the dead (used at funerals of the rich or of persons of distinction).

cheng (R. id.) cheng-chiet, chaste and pure, as a virgin keeping single, or as a widow who will not marry a second time. cheng-chiet-hng, memorial archway erected by imperial permission in memory of such a widow. cheng-lú, a woman who remains a virgin all her life.

cheng [R. to increase; Cn. chông]. cheng-tâng, to adulterate with an inferior article so as to add to the weight; also, to make an article of fixed price (e.g. a cake) a little larger when the price of the said material falls, instead of changing the price of the article. ke-cheng-tâng, id. ke-cheng hō--i, give him a little more, e.g. when the amount is calculated in gross instead of reducing to net weight.

cheng (R. chiong), (P. chiong), to pound with a pestle or such instrument, not tritulating, but only striking or pounding; to strike or pound a man with the fist; to clean rice by pounding; to make a wall of clay and cement, or a mud wall; to beat hard (as mortar on a floor).

cheng-piàng, housebreaking (v. piàng).

cheng-khū, a mortar for pounding, not for tritulating (v. khū). cheng-chhú, a stick used for mixing mortar, &c. cheng-chhí (C.), a pestle for a pounding mortar.

cheng-tùi, to work the pestle of a rice-mortar with the foot. cheng-bí, to clean rice in such a mortar. cheng-péh, to beat (rice) till white.

cheng-chhòe, to beat and work soaked rice into dough. cheng-ku, to pound and work up rice for making the cakes called "ku;" and so with other cakes. cheng-i<sup>n</sup>, do. so as to make balls. cheng ióh-oân, to work up mixed medicines for pills.

cheng-he, to beat mortar hard, as on a floor or drain. cheng chháu-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to beat straw cut small so as to mix it in mortar. cheng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to beat the mud or clay mixed with lime (in a frame) in making a wall without stones or bricks at all; to build a mud-wall, &c., by pounding it in this way.

cheng — cheng--tióh, to run against, as person or thing. thâu-khak sa<sup>n</sup>-cheng, knocking against each other's heads. sio-cheng-thâu (C.), id.

cheng [R. minute, lively; also = col. chi<sup>n</sup>, chia<sup>n</sup>, evil spirits], intelligent; acute (as hearing); animal semen.

cheng-sín, animal spirits; animated, lively; skilful (v. sín). cheng-eng, lively; intelligent (v. eng). cheng-thong, skilful at some special sort of work or business. cheng-kong, very finely made; very fine and accurate, as workmanship; very skilful, as at any work or at managing affairs. cheng-chê, beautiful, as man or thing; very skilfully made. cheng-ti,

旌貞

增

春搥

衝精

made with very minute but distinct and beautiful workmanship; small and finely made.

gán cheng, chhiú khoài, eye and hand very quick, as of thief or juggler. khòa<sup>n</sup>-cheng-cheng, to see accurately. khòa<sup>n</sup>-m̄-cheng, to see indistinctly. hī-khang put-chí-cheng, hearing very acute. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup> cheng; é-káu lêng, blind people and dumb people are very skilful (said of people who cannot read, but who have a good memory for the money they pay out).

kut-cheng, animal semen. cheng-tsúi, id. tūi-cheng, spermatorrhea. pé-cheng, assisting men to act lasciviously without injury, as medicine. hū-cheng bó-hiet, male and female generative principles (v. hiet).

kok-cheng-chí, a medicine (v. kok).

cheng (R. id.), (C. chin). kut-cheng-hé toā, a severe form of seminal flux.

cheng [R. a Buddhist priest], (Cn. chông). ū-tsai-cheng, to have the rule of giving lodging and food for some days to travelling priests who have certificates, as some temples do.

bit-tô-cheng, litharge.

cheng [R. seng, a domestic or sacrificial animal]. cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, domestic animals. ná<sup>n</sup> ti-káu cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, as stupid as pigs, dogs, and cattle! (said in scolding.) ti-káu cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, id.

chêng (C.), = A. chông. chêng-tông, distant cousins (v. tông).

chêng [R. fair weather, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>]. hong chêng, ú lô, four states of the weather and sky, as in paintings.

chêng (R. iông), (Cn.), = A. chhêng, the banyan-tree. chêng-chhiú, id. (v. chhêng); sometimes said also in Amoy. kang-chêng, a sort of banyan supposed to be male.

chêng (R. siông), better "chhêng." chêng-peh, the fir-tree.

chêng (R. id.), circumstances; affairs; affections, feelings, desires, &c.

sín-chêng, one's appearance or manner, as indicating what he means to do. sim-chêng, the desires and feelings. sêng-chêng, character and disposition. chhit-chêng, the seven affections and desires. chin-chêng, one's real thoughts and feelings. thê-chhut chin-chêng, to manifest one's real thoughts and feelings; to speak the truth.

chêng-goân, heartily willing (v. goân). goân-chêng, to forgive; having a forgiving disposition (v. goân). liông-chêng, to forgive; to act with gentleness or forbearance. lêng-chêng chhiú-sī, no, I thank you (e.g. declining a present).

tsoát-chêng, quite alienated in feelings. pók-chêng, having grown cold or ungrateful towards a friend (v. pók). bū-chêng, unkind; ungrateful. put-chêng, id. hoán-bīn bū-chêng, suddenly ungrateful, or causelessly angry at a man who was our friend. hoán-biēn bū-chêng, id.

tsòe-chêng, to behave kindly; to do a favour. tsòe-chêng hō-lâng, id. bô-sún-chêng, impartial (v. sún). liām--tióh i-ê-chêng, in consideration for him, as doing a favour to a third party. hièn-chêng, to do a favour to a third person at a friend's request. kóng-chêng, to ask a favour for another. kiū-chêng, to beg for a favour. ti-chêng, grateful (v. ti). un-chêng, kindness; grace (v. un).

jin-chêng, favour; kindness. bô-jin-chêng, want

燕僧

牲

晴

松榕

松

情

ing in kindness; unkind. bat-jin-chêng, grateful. goá ù-jin-chêng ti-in-tau, he owes me a favour. kóng jin-chêng, to ask a favour for another. thó-jin-chêng, id. hē-jin-chêng, to claim the credit of having procured a favour to another (v. hē). hōe-jin-chêng (C.), id. hong-thé jin-chêng, character of people and customs of place.

chêng-biân, influence with others (v. biân). ū-chêng-gī, to be grateful, as to a friend (v. gī).

hó-kheh-chêng, polite and kind to visitors. ū-kheh-chêng, id. bô-kheh-chêng, wanting in politeness to visitors.

chêng-ì, temper; disposition. hó-chêng-ì, having a kind and friendly manner; kind and polite. bô-chêng-ì, cold, unpolite, or unfriendly. phái<sup>n</sup>-chêng-ì, id. ū-chêng-ì, habitually kind and friendly.

lê-chêng (Cu.), interjection finding fault for breaking a thing, or for utterly spoiling an affair by mismanagement, or by letting out a secret.

kiên-kéng siong-chêng, sympathy stirred by other's sorrows (v. kéng).

sū-chêng, a matter; an affair. sit-chêng, the real facts of the case. chêng-íú, causes; circumstances. chêng-hêng, state and circumstances of affair. chêng-chiet (r.), circumstances of affair. chêng-kéng, circumstances or condition, as of a place, person, or affair.

àn-chêng, the circumstances of a lawsuit. chhát-chêng bêng-àn, legal cases of robbery or murder. kang-chêng, work, as to its amount (v. kang). hâng-chêng, market price of goods (v. hâng). tsâi-chêng, talent; ability. kun-chêng, affairs of an army; state and circumstances of an army. thâm-kun-chêng, to make secret inquiries about state of army, as a spy; fig. of other matters. tá<sup>n</sup>-thâm kun-chêng, id.

chîn-chêng, to exert one's self to the utmost for another. chîn-chêng ti-i, id.

sè-chêng, the ways of the people of the world, esp. prevailing character and customs of the people of a place. sè-chêng-tâi, usual customs, e.g. as to polite intercourse among friends, or as to idolatrous celebrations. khoà<sup>n</sup>-phoá sè-chêng, to see through and despise the world's ways. sè-chêng, khàn léng-loán, the way of the world is to look whether a man is rich or poor, influential or not, and act accordingly. sè-chêng léng-loán, id.

chêng-lí, the correct principles for right action in a case (v. lí).

chêng (R. chên), (Cn. tsûi<sup>n</sup>, T. tsâi<sup>n</sup>, C. tsân, but P. chêng), before, in time or place; former; front. chêng-âu, before and after, of time or place (v. âu).

chhùi-chêng-ôe, conventional polite phrases used when people meet.

tsoeh-chêng, before the term or festival. sa<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>-chêng, three years ago. tsá-chêng, formerly; long ago. chêng-si, formerly. chêng-ê, on a former occasion. chêng-pái, id. chêng-jit, a previous day. chêng-ni<sup>n</sup>, a former year; the former year. chêng-si, in a former life. chêng-tâi, former generations. chêng-lâng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, wife's son by former husband; husband's son by former wife.

bák-chêng, before the eyes; at present. gién-chêng (C.), at present.

bin-chêng, in front of. pâi bin-chêng-khiá, to put on the appearance of great diligence or obedience in master's presence, or before some one whom we wish to please, e.g. by talking obsequiously, or working hard at that time. hiáh-chêng, the forehead. heng-chêng, the breast; the bosom.

chêng-thâu, the front load on a pole; also (C.), formerly. chêng-thâu bóe; âu-thâu im, first to buy a great quantity of goods, and then lose heavily by a fall of price. chêng-bin, front side; the front. chêng-lôh, front part of a house. chêng-iá<sup>n</sup>, vanguard. chêng-kun, do. in march or action.

chin-chêng, to advance; to go forward; also (C.), formerly. chi<sup>n</sup>-chêng, to strive hard to be first, as in a race. tsòe-chêng, please walk first. kiá<sup>n</sup> tsòe-chêng, to walk first. tsòe-chêng seng-lâi, to arrive first. tsòe-thâu-chêng, to walk first. kun-chêng, to approach. hiông-chêng, facing forwards.

chêng [R. a well, = col. chi<sup>n</sup>]. chêng-tí-oa (frog at bottom of well), an inexperienced fellow.

chêng (R. id), to put in order; to adorn; to fit out or set up, as boat or school; to invest, as capital.

tsòe-chêng, neatly arranged, as furniture or dress, &c.; in good regular order, as teeth. chê-chêng, id. chêng-tsòe, to put in order. chêng-chê, id. tûi-ngé chêng-tsòe, the ranks in good order.

siu-chêng, to repair; to set in order; to beautify. tá<sup>n</sup>-chêng, to adorn one's self. chêng-tùn, to put in good order. chêng-thek, do. as one's person or house. chêng-thit (C.), id. chêng-lí, to arrange neatly.

chêng-ké, to beat drums just before a play. chêng-hì, to engage a company of actors to play. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap-chêng, to do so together, &c. chêng-òh, to set up a school, as the patron (tong-ka) does. chêng tsu-pâng, id. chêng-tsûn, to fit out a vessel with all its fittings, goods, &c., as owner or charterer does. chêng chhát-tsûn, to fit out a pirate vessel. chêng-pún, to invest capital. bô-chi<sup>n</sup> thang-chêng, have no capital to invest. goá ká-lí chêng-chi<sup>n</sup>, I advance the money, paying expenses for you, as a favour, not expecting interest.

chêng (R. chióng), (P. chióng), to swell; a swelling. chêng-chêng, swollen; dropsical. hâm-chêng, very much swollen; dropsical. kha chêng, leg swollen. ni<sup>n</sup> chêng, the breast (of any one) swollen by disease. chêng-ni<sup>n</sup>, breasts of a girl grown to full size, when about come of age.

ng-chêng, jaundice.

chêng (C.), = A. tsúg. chêng-kah, finger nails.

chêng [R. thiên, to destroy], (= chin). pê-chêng thien-bút, to misuse things by a wasteful or lavish use.

chêng [R. chióng, embers]. hé-chêng, live embers or coals for kindling a fire; the spark of a conflagration.

chêng (R. chióng), (C. chióng, esp. P.), seed, of any sort; posterity.

han-tsú-chêng, potato slips. chhek-chêng, seed rice. chêng-chí, seed of plants. iá-chêng, to sow seed, esp. broadcast (v. iá). chim-chêng, to soak the seed before sowing.

tsu-chêng, scab of small-pox, for inoculation.

phah-chêng (vulg.), to copulate, as animals. tsáp-chêng, a bastard. tsáp-chêng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

chêng-lúi, descendants. i-ê chêng-tsák, his own real posterity (v. tsák). thoán-chêng, to leave posterity. chêh-chêng, posterity all exterminated.

bông-chêng, one of the 24 terms of the solar year, a fortnight before midsummer; June 6th or 7th. bông-chêng-hē, rain on that day, supposed to cause drought. bông-chêng, hē: lák-géh, hē-sio-pê, if it rain on that day, the grass will all be burned up in the sixth

井整

腫

殄
煙 種

前

moon. bông-chèng-iáh, thó-bô-chiáh, insects that come out about this term are too late to get food.

chèng (R. chiòng), (C. chiòng), to sow, esp. by carefully dropping the seeds; to set, as potatoes or as shell-fish; (to inoculate or vaccinate).

chèng-tsoh, to cultivate the ground; to farm. tsai-chèng, to sow and plant out; to plant in general. chèng-tâu, to sow leguminous plants. chèng-béh-tâu, to sow wheat, barley, pease, and beans.

chèng-tsu, to inoculate; to vaccinate. chèng thê-kúí, to set beds of the shell-fish called thê-kúí.

chèng (R. id.) kàn-chèng, to expostulate with a superior, and exhort him to reform, as son to father, or minister to sovereign.

chèng [R. testimony], (C. chìn). kan-chèng, testimony; evidence given by a witness. tsòe-kan-chèng, to give testimony. tsòe-chèng, id. tsòe-chèng-ki<sup>n</sup>, to give evidence of what we have seen. chèng-kù, evidence of what we have seen. tùi-chèng, to examine and compare the evidence on both sides (s. disease). sa<sup>n</sup>-tùi-chèng, id.

chèng (R. id., = col. chià<sup>n</sup>), correct; right. chèng-tsong, correct in conduct. chèng-keng, correct and right, as actions, person, or principles; honest, virtuous, moral. m-chèng-keng-hong, an unsteady troublesome wind. chèng-tit, upright; honest; straightforward; just. chèng-khi, virtuous; just. put-chèng, depraved. sù-chèng, correct, as in conduct. toan-hong sù-chèng, id. chèng-thò, safe to have to do with, as man or affair.

chèng-lí, correct doctrine or principles. chèng-kâu, do.; a moral and correct sect or school. chèng-hoat, to execute a criminal; right way or plan (v. hoat).

chèng-sín, any idol regularly canonized or very widely worshipped; esp. thé-tí-kong (v. sín), (s. all).

siá-chèng, depraved and correct; false and true (as doctrine); bad and good in character or conduct. siá-chèng put-lióng-lip, the good and the bad cannot live long together. khi-siá kui-chèng, to reform one's self. siá put-tàu-chèng, the evil or false cannot resist or overcome the true or good.

chèng (R. id.), a disease. pi<sup>n</sup>-chèng, id. chèng-thâu, do. toá-chèng-thâu, a severe and dangerous chronic disease. phái<sup>n</sup>-chèng-thâu, a very dangerous disease, almost certainly and speedily mortal. phái<sup>n</sup>-chèng, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>-chèng, venereal disease. kín-chèng, a sudden dangerous disease, as cholera, &c. kín-kip-chèng, id. sí-khi-chèng, an epidemic. phiah-chèng, a disease to which a man is constitutionally liable. sí-chèng, a mortal disease. lòe-chèng, a deep internal disease. jiét-chèng, fever. im-chèng, a deep-seated pain causing a swelling that often lasts several months and does not come to a head, gen. inside of thigh. si<sup>n</sup> im-chèng, to have such a swelling.

tùi-chèng, suited to the disease, as medicine (s. testimony). khoá<sup>n</sup>-chèng, to examine the disease; to visit a patient. tsáp-chèng tsòe-khi, taking many diseases at once.

chèng (R. chiòng), (C. chiòng), all, esp. said of persons. chèng-láng, all the people; everybody; very many people. chèng-peh-si<sup>n</sup>, all the people.

chèng-sín, all the spirits (s. correct). chèng-sín-bêng, id. chèng-kong-má, a shrine containing numerous tablets of persons who have no posterity.

chèng-háng, all sorts or kinds. chèng-háng-mih<sup>n</sup>, all sorts of things.

kong-chèng, public, common; possessed or shared in common. kong-chèng-lê, a public road. kéng-chèng, commou to a ward or division of a town, as idols or idolatrous ceremonies. toá-ke káu-chèng, family very large.

òe-ki<sup>n</sup>-chèng--tit, fit for the view of all men, as person or matter all correct, not afraid of publicity. òe-kién-chèng--tit, id. bòe-ki<sup>n</sup>-chèng--tit, not fit to be looked into, as a matter that is shameful or that has a serious flaw. bòe-kién-tit-chèng, id. bòe-ki<sup>n</sup>-tit-chèng, id. bòe-kham--tit ki<sup>n</sup>-chèng, id. liên-hòe sì-chèng, utterly disgraced for ever in the sight of all men, as for some vile action (v. hòe).

chèng [R. government]. chèng-sū, government; government matters. pán chèng-sū, to manage government matters. put-tsái ki-úi, put-bê ki-chèng, not being in office, I do not meddle with government matters; that is not my affair.

pêr-chèng-si, the provincial treasurer (v. pêr). tsún-chèng, superintendent of arsenal and naval docks, as at Fuh-chau. tsún-chèng-thia<sup>n</sup>, id.

chèng (R. chièn), (T. tsài<sup>n</sup>; Cn. tsüi<sup>n</sup>; C. tsàn; but P. chèng). ka-chèng, a sort of straw mat. chháu-chèng, a very coarse sort of mat put under hedging to make it warm and soft. tsang-chèng, a mat made of palm fibre. koa<sup>n</sup>-chèng, a coarse under-mat made of the reed called "koa<sup>n</sup>," esp. put under the marriage-bed.

chèng [R. cheng, to add]. chèng-tsúi, to mix water, as with wine or milk, for adulteration. chèng-tāng, to adulterate (s. cleanse). ke-chèng-tāng, to charge a little more than the real weight (?).

chèng (R. id.), quiet; silent; still. chèng-chèng, very quiet; he quiet! lí chèng-chê, sit still now! an-chèng, enjoying peace and quiet. pêng-chèng, at peace and all tranquil, as a region or as the sea. hong-pêng lóng-chèng, winds and waves quiet. pêng-hong cheng-lóng, id. hong-thiám lóng-chèng, id. thiám-chèng, quiet in taste and habits; not fond of gaiety or much talking or company. tiām-chèng, id. chèng-sim, quiet steady mind; not fond of meddling.

tóng-chèng, to raise a subject; to start a question.

sok-chèng, quiet; still, as a place. léng-chèng, lonely; desolate; too quiet and dull, as a neighbourhood. chèng-tsau, still, as a place. chip-chèng, (r.), id. chèng kàu-tng-sin-pe tng-báng-háu, so quiet that not even a fly or mosquito is heard.

chèng [R. pure; to cleanse]; net, as weight; to cleanse or purify ceremonially by passing over burning incense (called "chèng-hiu<sup>n</sup>"), &c., as hands after touching something defiling; or as clothes after a funeral, or before marriage or worship.

chheng-chèng, clean; pure. put-tek kan-chèng, can never get out of the trouble. chèng-tsúi-koah, white grass-cloth. chèng-pháng, finest white bleached grass-cloth.

chèng, joá-tsòe, how much net weight? chèng-sit, net, as calculated. chèng-tāng, net weight, as calculated; rather more is given (s. add).

sóe-chèng, to cleanse ceremonially, as after a burial, &c. chèng-hiu<sup>n</sup>, purifying incense used for this purpose. chèng-tsún, to perform rites for the good-luck of a hoat or junk. chèng-iú, to purify (as Taoist priests do) by oil and wood in a rice-boiler; also, lighting a lamp and cutting it off with a knife. chèng-iú tàh-hé, to do this and walk over a fire.

種

證
証

正

症

衆

政

薦荐

增

靜靖 淨

chi [R. ki, muscular flesh]. seng-chi-sán, a powder for sprinkling on sores, to assist in the formation of healthy flesh.

chi [only R.], it, him, them, &c.; also "of," only used in book phrases become colloquial or half so.

chi (R. id.) lêng-chi-chháu, a fabulous plant of good omen. liên-chi-chhó, id. tsu-chi, gunpowder tea.

chi (R. name of several plants, e.g. = col. ki<sup>n</sup>, Gardenia). chi-tsú, a cooling medicinal seed. pien-chi, the Bombax or cotton-tree, sometimes erroneously called a magnolia. pien-chi-hoe, id. pan-chi-hoa (C.), id.

chi [R. to separate; a clan; the 65th radical], some of the phrases are sometimes interchanged with the next word.

tē-chi, the twelve characters for the double hours of the day and night. thien-kan tē-chi, that cycle of twelve along with the cycle of ten, used in combination to make the cycle of sixty years.

chi-phài (R.), a division of a clan; a tribe.

chi-chhî, to help a little so as to keep matters from going wrong. chi-lí, to bear the responsibility, as for a debt or for the management of an affair (v. lí). chi-lí, troublesome to set right, as an affair; troublesome to deal with, as a man constantly insisting on trifles, or raising new objections. chi-chi lí-lí, id.

chi [R. = col. ki, a branch]. to-chi-chiet, troublesome to deal with, as a man or matter (v. chiet).

nai<sup>n</sup>-chi, the lichi or laichi fruit. lê-chi (C.), id. nūi<sup>n</sup>-chi (Cn.), id.

chi (R. id.) ien-chi, rouge, used for painting the lips. ien-chi-hoe, a flower of bright-red colour. kā ien-chi, to moisten the rouge with the lips before painting with it. tiám-ien-chi, to paint with rouge.

chi (vulg.), the female organ; the vulva. chi-bai, id.

chi [R. a limb]. sù-chi, the four limbs: arms and legs. sù-chi ngó-koan, the members of the body. sù-chi pek-hâi, id.

chi (R. tsú), small round soft cakes, esp. of glutinous rice. sóe-á-chi, do. made with millet. chhòe-hún-chi, do. with rice-flour. táu-chi, do. with pulse inside. tsút-bí-chi, such cakes of glutinous rice. moá<sup>n</sup>-chi, do. of hemp-seed, sugar, and rice. moá<sup>n</sup>-chi-ké, paste made of these cakes softened, used for shoes, &c.

khî-chi (Cn.), dried persimmons.

núg-chi-chi, soft and tenacious, as a cake; weak, as a delicate child (v. núg).

chi (C.), = A. tsú, potatoes, &c.

chi — bé-chi, a roundish black sweet root. bé-chi (C.), id. bé-chi-hún, a cooling flour like starch made from it. soa<sup>n</sup>-bé-chi, a trailing shrub with lance-shaped leaves: the root is used for poisoning dogs and birds; the juice is used for corroding brass.

chi (C.), = A. tsú. chiu<sup>n</sup>-chi, sort of toad.

chi (R. tsú), (T. jí). lê-chi, the cormorant.

chi (R. id.), an imperial decree. chi-i, id. sèng-chi, id. sèng-chi-pái, a tablet worshipped by mandarins. sèng-chi-chhùi, said of a man who will not change the price he has named. gèk-chi, treason. gèk-chi khi-kun, id. hok-chi, to report to the emperor having fulfilled his commands. kiáu-chi, id.

hoat-chi, the (Taufist) commands of Lau-tsze. hút-chi, the commands of Buddha. giók-chi, commands of Yuh-hwang Shang-ti.

chi (R. id.) chi-khak, a medicine.

chi (R. id.) péh-chi, a medicinal root good for headache (Iris or orris root?).

chi — chi-kiu<sup>n</sup>, = chi<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, young soft ginger-shoots with a purplish white tinge.

chi [R. tsú, purple]. chi-sek, dark purple colour. chi-hoe, nankeen cloth. chi-hoe-pè, id.

chi-keng, a tree with red flowers (v. keng). chi-jū, a yellow wood for furniture. chi-sè, a cooling medicine. chi-chhài, a broad sea-weed (tangle?) used for food. chi-kim-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a medicine made up in form of a gold ingot (v. tiá<sup>n</sup>).

chi-bí tai-tè, the god of a star (v. bí). chi-ióng, the temple of Choo-he, the commentator (and school), in E-múg-káng.

chi [R. tsú, a son, seed], a seed; fruit; a small ball or bullet; bars or rails in windows or stairs, &c.; affix in forming several names of trades and other nouns.

jít-chi, a day. kiên-chi-bah, meat of the ham. sió-liáp-chi, a very little man. kài-chi, a square bit of wood used by Buddhist priests for striking on the table between the prayers (s. finger; s. land-mark). hong-chi, a small square bit of wood with which mandarins strike the table of the tribunal when scolding the people before them. tng-hong-chi, to strike the table with it.

kah-chi, the cyclical characters (v. kah). bé-chi, the abbreviated numeral characters, used like the Arabic numerals; sort of counters used in gambling; very low sort of servants, especially in a bad house. chhiá<sup>n</sup> bé-chi (in Tió-thoà), to hire labourers.

tē-chi, a man who prepares feasts to order; a keeper of a cook-shop. kim-chi, a door-keeper in a prison (s. prevent). tang-chi, an idolatrous juggler, or sorcerer, or fakeer, who cuts himself, &c.

kí-chi, chess-men. è-péh-chi, chess-men having 32 of each colour. chhùn-chi, the "cat" or small stick struck in the game of tipegat (v. chhùn).

chéng-chi, seed. ké-chi, fruit. kóe-chi (C.), id. koe-chi, melon seeds.

koe sòe, chi sek, the melon is small, but has good seeds; said of a man who looks small, but is older or has more in him than appears. chhiū-chi, wild nuts and fruits of trees. chhêng-chi, the fruit of the hanyan. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chi, the nut of the indigo plant. chi-á-chhiū (P.), the wax-tree.

hî-chi, fish roe. hîm-chi, bits of stone that stand for hear's cubs in a game (v. hîm).

io-chi, the kidneys. bák-chiu-chi, the ball of the eye. siên-chi, the testes. sng-poá<sup>n</sup>-chi, the balls of an abacus. chhêng-chi, a bullet or ball of a gun or cannon. iên-chi, a lead bullet. toá<sup>n</sup>-chi, halls or pellets shot from toy bows. tó-chi, weights for scales, &c.

ká-chi, a rod used in twisting a rope tight (v. ká). soán-chi, the instrument for torturing women's fingers. lâu-thui-chi, the steps of a ladder. siá<sup>n</sup>-tó-chi, battlements. kè-á-chi, upright bars of a frame, as in shop's counter. bák-sa-chi, rails of a high wooden railing. than-kha-chi, rails of a railing cut almost in two by long longitudinal slits. thang-á-chi, upright bars in a window. soe-chi-thang, window with upright built bars. hoe-thang-chi, ornamental trellis tiles. gân-chi-tsng, small fire-bricks for such work. hang-lê-chi, perforated face of a hand-fur-nace.

chi (C.), = A. tsú, to cook.

枳
芷
紫 子

肌
之
芝
梔 枝
支

枝
脂
肢

糕

薺

鷄
日

主
只
魚
址
指

蕭
這

止

chí (C.), = A. tsú, a lord; only in some phrases, esp. those originally book phrases transferred to the colloquial, e.g. bók-chí, thien-chí-kàu, &c.

chí [R. only], a bundle of idolatrous paper. chit-chí, a small bundle of idolatrous paper fastened together; gen. about 20 sheets, counted as 50; but in the case of "khè-chí", each "chí" is counted as ten thousand!

chí-ū, there is only; there are only.

chí (R. id.) chí-hî-á, a small fish like trout. chí-á-hî, id. chí-bú (C.), id. chí-hū (Cn.), id.

chí (R. id.) kài-chí, a land-mark; a boundary stone (s. finger, s. son). tsō-chí, place of residence, as set down in a deed, or in an address given for a letter. khui tsō-chí, to put down one's address, as above.

chí [R. a finger], to point at; to point out; (a ring). chí-ū, to write characters or draw sketches with one's nail dipped in ink (v. bék).

chhiú-chí, a finger-ring. chhiú-chí-sok, rings worn as guards on each side of the principal ring. pan-chí, a thumb-ring, as for archery. kài-chí (R.), a finger-ring (s. landmark, s. son).

chhâ-chí, a very small bundle of firewood, costing about two cash.

tui-chí, the two parties making statements face to face. tng-bin chí, id.

chí-tiám, to instruct; to give information about some matter. chí-sī, to point out; to teach. chí-bêng (R.), to explain clearly, as a book or doctrine.

chí [R. embroidery]. chiam-chí, needlework; embroidery. hó-chiam-chí, good embroidery; a good sempstress; good needlework.

chí (R. che), this; these. chí-kúi-ê, these several (persons, &c.). chí-tso, this time or occasion. tí-chí-tau (T. Cn.), here. chí-pê (T.), now.

chí — pâi-chí, gaudy, as house or dress; proud self-satisfied bearing; wearing fine dress, and putting on proud airs, as being successful or powerful.

chí [R. to prevent, to stop], to allay; to stanch; (to terminate; to hinder).

put-chí, very. put-chí-hó, very good. ū-tí-chí, to have a limit, bound, or termination, as an affair of which we can say, this is the last of it. bó-tí-chí, without any limit, as inordinate covetousness or wickedness; or as a hopeless calamity, or endless borrowing of money, or any affair that never comes to an end. chiét-chí, to terminate, as a payment at stated times. ūi-chí, to be the limit; only so far as this. kàu-chia ūi-chí, it comes so far, and no farther (as a piece of ground, &c.)

hêng-chí, behaviour (v. hêng). hêng-tông kú-chí, id.

chí-pê, to stop in walking, as at a door or notice to stop (s. this). tsé-chí, to prevent; to hinder. noâ<sup>n</sup>-chí, id. kim-chí, (r.) to forbid, (s. son). at-chí, to repress; to keep from action; to restrain, as others, or as one's own feelings and desires. chí-tién hâu-siók, to close a pawn-shop, and wait a fixed time to let the goods be redeemed.

chí-ki, to alleviate hunger; to appease its cravings slightly. chí-khoah, to quench thirst. chí-khat, id. chí-chhùi-ta, id. chí-thiá<sup>n</sup>, to allay pain. chí-siá, to cure diarrhoea. chí-áu, to cure the tendency to vomit. chí-huih, to stanch blood. huih chí, the blood is stanching.

chí [R. the toes]. tàng-chí, a sort of frost-bite or chilblain; gen. on foot or ear. si<sup>n</sup> tàng-chí, to have this frost-bite. kha si<sup>n</sup> tàng-chí, foot frost-bitten, esp. on heel.

chí [R. stú, col. tsú, water.] ng-chí-kiô, a plant (v. kiô).

chí [R. elder sister], also (C.), = A. ché, suffix to names of women.

toā-chí, elder sister. tông-toā-chí, elder female cousin of the same surname. chí-bê, sisters, elder and younger; a sister, in general. chí-māi<sup>n</sup> (P.), id. chí-mōē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. piáu-chí-bê, female cousins by their mother's side, she being sister of our father or mother. i-piáu chí-bê, daughter of mother's sister. kē-piáu chí-bê, daughter of father's sister.

chí-hu, elder sister's husband. chí-pē (Cn.), id. chí-tiū<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. sàng-kè-chí (T.), an old woman who accompanies a bride to teach her what to do.

chì [R. purpose, will]. ū-chì, decided in purpose, to do what is right or noble, and avoid what is mean or shameful. bō-chì, idle and lazy; without proper spirit. chí-khì, purpose; will; intention. ū-chì-khì, having self-respect, or sense of honour, or proper spirit, so as not to do what is mean or dishonourable. sim-chì, purpose; intention; will. kien-sim lip-chì, with fixed determination. bō-sim-chì, undecided in purpose. tsoan-sim ti-chì, to apply one's mind earnestly.

lip-chì, with determination; steadfastly. hùn-chì, with energy and earnestness (v. hùn). lok-chì, faint-hearted; dispirited. lōe-chì, id. sui-thâu sòng-chì (R.), dispirited and hanging one's head.

chí-liông toā, aiming high, as a student who aims at high rank.

oán-chí, a medicinal plant (Polygala tenuifolia?). oán-chí-jiók, do. after its long fibres have been pulled out.

chí — tāi-chì, business; any affair or matter esp. troublesome. bō-tāi-chì, nothing wrong. pān tāi-chì, to manage an affair or dispute so as to arrange it, or try to do so.

chì [R. to record], historical and statistical works (in this sense interchanged with "purpose"). chiang-chiu-chì, statistical account of Chang-chew. ē-mng-chì, statistical account of Amoy.

bōng-chì-bêng, an engraved stone put inside a grave.

chì [R. to reach to, to arrive], extremely —; sign of superlative; a beat of the pulse.

chiu-chì, all the arrangements quite correct (v. chiu). bū-sé put-chì, addicted to all sorts of wickedness. hêng-hêng sù-chì, perversely wicked.

chí-u, with regard to (v. u). kip-chì kàu-hit-sī, when that (past) time came. sim-chì kàu àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, even to that extent (R.), (v. sim).

chí-tsun, most honourable. chí-toā, greatest. kàu-chì-kék, to the very utmost.

hē-chì, midsummer day, June 20th or 21st. tang-chì, the shortest day.

kúi-chì-mēh<sup>n</sup>, how many beats (of the pulse)? hē-kip kúi-chì, how many beats of the pulse for one expiration and inspiration? four or five counted healthy.

chì — ì-chì, dirty; filthy.

chì (R. id.) chì-kièn, a present given to a teacher on engaging him, additional to salary; a fee to a doctor when first called, repeated after two or three visits. chí-kièn-lé, id.

chì (C.), = A. chè. chí-tāi, governor-general.

chì (C.), = A. tsù. ka-chì, a straw bag.

水
姊

志

惹
事
誌

至

清
執 負

聚
舐
是
己

目 明

爭

氈

精

晴

前
檐

錢

chī (C.), = A. tsū (to assemble).
chī, to lick. tham-chiah ê-lâng, liên-ôá<sup>n</sup> iáh-chī, a greedy man licks even the bowl after eating.
káu chī chien-poá<sup>n</sup>; phī<sup>n</sup> ũ, chiah-bô, the dog licks the frying-pan, getting the flavour but no food.

chī [R. si, to be]. chī-tsui, who? chī-tsui-á, id. chī (R. id.), (Cn. sū), a cyclical character. chī-si, the double hour, 9-11 A.M. kí-chī, a year of the cycle, 1869 was one of them; these two characters are very similar.

chī — chī-bú-chī-tsū, to talk indistinctly; to whisper.

chī [R. cheng, rock-crystal]. tê-chī<sup>n</sup>, tea-coloured rock-crystal, used for dark spectacles. ê-chī<sup>n</sup>, a darker crystal. tsúi-chī<sup>n</sup>, clear rock-crystal. tsúi-chī<sup>n</sup>-ku, turtle-shaped cakes, made of rice, with white stuffing made of legumes. tsúi-chī<sup>n</sup>-ā<sup>n</sup>, this stuffing. tsúi-chī<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, another sort of cake, made from wheat.

chī<sup>n</sup> [R. cheng, = col. tí<sup>n</sup>, the heel]. êng-khachī<sup>n</sup> tò-that, to give a kick backward with the heel.
êng kha-áu-chī<sup>n</sup> tò-that, id.

chī<sup>n</sup>, a wedge; to wedge; to press out oil by use of wedges. chī<sup>n</sup>-khuí, to open by wedges. chī<sup>n</sup>-iú, to press out oil from seeds by a machine worked by wedges.

chī<sup>n</sup>, = chī<sup>n</sup>, to pull the ears. chī<sup>n</sup> hī-á, id.

chī<sup>n</sup> (R. cheng), (C. chē<sup>n</sup>), to quarrel; to dispute; to strive. chī<sup>n</sup>-chhân, to quarrel or dispute about land.
chī<sup>n</sup> ke-hé, to quarrel about dividing family property.
hē--i chī<sup>n</sup>--khì, to have the place we expected taken from us by him. sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, to quarrel, dispute, or strive.
sio-che<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, to strive for victory or superiority. sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup> tai-seng, to strive who shall be first. sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-thàn, great competition in trade, so that the profits are very small. sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup> pun-toá-hūn, to take the largest share.

chī<sup>n</sup> — mī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, very persevering, urgent, and unremitting or importunate, esp. in asking. mī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>- thák, very diligent at study. mī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup> siū<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, determined on gain. tiòh khah-mī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, should be more urgent and unremitting.

chī<sup>n</sup> (R. chien), felt and such stuffs. chī<sup>n</sup>-bô, a felt cap. chī<sup>n</sup>-tiáu, a rug or mat like a carpet. chhêchī<sup>n</sup>, coarse woollen stuff like serge. iú-chī<sup>n</sup>, a fine woollen stuff from the north. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, to get into a clotted mass, as uncombed hair, &c. kiet-chiá<sup>n</sup>- chī<sup>n</sup>, id.

chī<sup>n</sup> [R. cheng, minute, fine], (C. chia<sup>n</sup>), evil spirits that take any form; too sharp and cunning, as a man.
iau-chī<sup>n</sup>, malicious demons in Protean shapes. tiòh-chī<sup>n</sup>, bewitched. tsoá-chī<sup>n</sup>, a demon in form of snake.
chiáu-chī<sup>n</sup>, a demon in shape of a bird; said of a man who is too sharp. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, to become such a demon; to be quite too sharp in dealings. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-chī<sup>n</sup>, to be quite too sharp; fond of intrigue and deceit, most usually of a young fellow about twenty. put-chíchī<sup>n</sup>, id. chī<sup>n</sup>-kúi, do. as a young person.

chī<sup>n</sup> (R. chêng), (C. chē<sup>n</sup>), fair weather; fine weather.
thi<sup>n</sup> chī<sup>n</sup>, id. hē chī<sup>n</sup>, the rain has cleared off. poá<sup>n</sup>- im poá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, dark clouds and sunshine mixed, with perhaps sometimes a little rain.

chī<sup>n</sup> — nī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, the eaves of a house. nī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-
tsúi, water from the eaves. nī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-kêng, bamboo gutter at the eaves. nī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-khió, id. nī<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>- kháu, the space of ground covered by the eaves, and a little more. chī<sup>n</sup>-kháu, id. chī<sup>n</sup>-kháu-kong, the guardian spirit or god of the eaves. chī<sup>n</sup>-kháu hu- jín, the goddess of the eaves, worshipped at many temples.

chhut-chī<sup>n</sup>, to have wide projecting eaves (s. cash).
chī<sup>n</sup> — chiū<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, troublesome behaviour of children (esp. towards parents) pressing on people, wishing to be fondled or petted. kek-chiū<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, pretending to be ill, &c., so as to get fondled. ké-chiū<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, id.
chī<sup>n</sup>, = chī<sup>n</sup>, to pull the ears.

chī<sup>n</sup> (R. chiên), a round coin; a copper or brass cash;
a mace weight, = ten "hun," one-tenth of a tael; money in general; a surname. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, about one mace; a good deal of money. thàn--khi chiá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, to earn a good deal of money.

phū-chī<sup>n</sup>, the round flat socket for a lamp-wick, either floating or fixed. ham-khak-chī<sup>n</sup>, eockle-shells used by children in games of chance. gún-kng-chī<sup>n</sup>, silver medals worn as charms.

lién-chī<sup>n</sup>, a solid wheel without spokes, esp. for grinding in a long trough-shaped mortar. lién-chī<sup>n</sup>, to twirl a cash; to get money by intimidation or such means.

chī<sup>n</sup>-chhú, a sort of rat (v. chhú). chī<sup>n</sup>-ké, a tambourine (v. kó).

chit-chī<sup>n</sup>, one mace weight. chit-chī<sup>n</sup>-tāng, do.
chit-chī<sup>n</sup>-gún, one mace of silver; one-tenth of a tael of silver. sa<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-jī, three mace and two candarens.
chī<sup>n</sup>-hū (Cn.), a receipt for a mace or more of land-tax.

gún-chī<sup>n</sup>, a dollar. tēng-chī<sup>n</sup>, bad dollars (full of brass or copper). tióng-chī<sup>n</sup>, half a dollar. tióngchī<sup>n</sup>, brokerage commission for selling goods (v. tióng).
tāng-chī<sup>n</sup>, best copper or brass cash. āng-chī<sup>n</sup>, good copper cash, but not so good as the above. chī<sup>n</sup>-phí, small bad thin cash. chī<sup>n</sup>-phí-á, id. lák-jī-chī<sup>n</sup>, cash with six characters (current everywhere). kongtióng ê-chī<sup>n</sup>, cash with four characters (not current at Fuh-chau). gái-chī<sup>n</sup>, bad cash. iên-chī<sup>n</sup>, lead counterfeit cash; also, small cash fastened in dress of bride and bridegroom. iên-chī<sup>n</sup>, the cash collected by subscription. hé-sio-chī<sup>n</sup>, bad cash burned to make them look good. kim-pien-chī<sup>n</sup>, large good cash.

bú-chī<sup>n</sup>, principal, capital lent. pún-chī<sup>n</sup>, capital;
also, the member's ticket of the Small Knife Society or Triads. lái-chī<sup>n</sup>, interest. kang-chī<sup>n</sup>, wages. kèchī<sup>n</sup>, price. tsái-chī<sup>n</sup>, freight. chiú-chī<sup>n</sup>, money paid for bringing a letter or small parcel, &c.; a small cumshaw. bóe-tê-chī<sup>n</sup>, id. lē-chī<sup>n</sup>, black-mail levied on a road. bóe-lē-chī<sup>n</sup>, id. khioh-lē-chī<sup>n</sup>, to levy blackmail. chhiú-bé-chī<sup>n</sup>, a cash hung from the wrist by a white string; sign of mourning.

chī<sup>n</sup>-pó, a sort of gambling (v. pó). phak-chhiò-chī<sup>n</sup>, to toss odds and evens. chiú-chī<sup>n</sup>-lê, a slave to money; a miser. ki<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>-sí, very covetous. chī<sup>n</sup> si-kha; lāng nng-kha, money has four legs to your two, don't run after it.

chī<sup>n</sup>-bé, balance in hand. chī<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, land-tax; soldiers' pay (v. niú<sup>n</sup>). lē-chī<sup>n</sup>, rates levied by mandarins or underlings for allowing forbidden things (v. lē). chī<sup>n</sup>-kék, a government bank. chī<sup>n</sup>-phió, a bank note for cash. chī<sup>n</sup>-tiám, a money changer's shop. chī<sup>n</sup>-kúi, a long money-chest. chī<sup>n</sup>-tāng, a till, made of a bamboo. chī<sup>n</sup>-tsô, a frame for counting cash. chī<sup>n</sup>-kng, twine such as is used for stringing cash. chī<sup>n</sup>-chhēng, a long bag for cash. chī<sup>n</sup>- chhēng-kah, a vest with money pocket. chit-kat-chī<sup>n</sup>, a string of a few cash. chit-koá<sup>n</sup>-chī<sup>n</sup>, a string of several hundred cash. chit-tiáu-chī<sup>n</sup> (r. esp.
mand.), a string of a thousand cash. chit-tiáu-chī<sup>n</sup>, an item of money to be paid or collected.

chí<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, the denomination of copper cash (v. sia<sup>n</sup>). chí<sup>n</sup>-tsái, wealth. chí<sup>n</sup>-gún, money. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhà, do. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúí, do. as to quantity (v. tsúí). chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu, money in general, as to quantity; also, a sort of fish. chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu khah-ân, in want of funds. ũ-chí<sup>n</sup>-lâng, a wealthy man.

tát-chí<sup>n</sup>, valuable. tsù-chí<sup>n</sup>, to cast cash in the mint. nng-chí<sup>n</sup>-khang, too sharp at making money. thàn-chí<sup>n</sup>, to earn or make money. tsoán-chí<sup>n</sup>, do.; may also be said of beggars. khít-chí<sup>n</sup>, to ask or beg money. thó-chí<sup>n</sup>, to demand money due us. siu-chí<sup>n</sup>, to collect money, as debts or subscriptions. sa-chí<sup>n</sup>, to sweep up cash with the hand, as on a table; to borrow money from many places. siàu-chí<sup>n</sup>, to count cash. keng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to select good cash from bad. tù-chí<sup>n</sup>, to transfer money by a bill or draft, &c., either paying or receiving.

chhut-chí<sup>n</sup>, to spend money; to pay expenses; to offer a price (s. eaves). seng-chhut-chí<sup>n</sup>, to advance money. liáu-chí<sup>n</sup>, to spend money. phoà-chí<sup>n</sup>, to waste money lavishly, or spend it very freely. sái-chí<sup>n</sup>, to spend money. eng-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. eng-gōng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to spend fool's pence. gâu-iú<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, spendthrift. su-chí<sup>n</sup>, to lose money in gambling. chiáh-sí-chí<sup>n</sup>, to live on one's capital or property, so that it gradually wastes away. siú<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to give money as a reward. sioh-chí<sup>n</sup>, to use money carefully. thè-chí<sup>n</sup>, become less profitable than formerly, as a shop.

tsoá-chí<sup>n</sup>, idolatrous paper money (v. tsoá). kim-chí<sup>n</sup>, yellow do. for gold. pèh-chí<sup>n</sup>, white do. for worshipping "kúi." khè-chí<sup>n</sup>, paper money, in short slips, with long incisions, for worship of the dead (v. khè). kə-tai-chí<sup>n</sup>, bundles of long shreds of idolatrous paper (v. tai). tng-chí<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. chí<sup>n</sup>-lê, a furnace for burning idolatrous paper (v. lê).

chí<sup>n</sup> — chí<sup>n</sup>-á, a pigeon.

chí<sup>n</sup> — àn-chí<sup>n</sup> (T.), thus, = àn-chí<sup>n</sup>-sí.

chí<sup>n</sup> (R. chéng), (C. ché<sup>n</sup>), a well. tsúí-chí<sup>n</sup>, a well. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúí, well water. chí<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, a well curb. chí<sup>n</sup>-sín, presiding spirit of a well. tô-chí<sup>n</sup>, to clean out a well. khui-chí<sup>n</sup>, to sink a well. khui-chí<sup>n</sup> puih-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, to draw off a neighbour's custom by an opposition shop, &c. (v. tsoá<sup>n</sup>).

lit-chí<sup>n</sup>, the upper end of the halyard where it is tied to the sail.

sò-chí<sup>n</sup>, a cesspool for slops. hé-chí<sup>n</sup>, a vault for safety from fire.

thi<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, a skylight window. lâu-chí<sup>n</sup>, an opening for a trap-door in an upper story. lêng-hé-chí<sup>n</sup>, space at door of a temple. chhim-chí<sup>n</sup>, the open area in the centre of a house. chhim-chí<sup>n</sup>-tàu, framework of bamboo poles over this opening to guard against thieves. chhim-chí<sup>n</sup>-tà, id.

chí<sup>n</sup>, tender, young, delicate (of men, animals, shoots of plants, &c.) iù-chí<sup>n</sup>, young, as person. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhih, id. lâu chí<sup>n</sup>, old and young. sek chí<sup>n</sup>, stiff or hard, and soft, as branches, &c. thng chí<sup>n</sup>, the sugar is boiled soft, not hard or stiff.

chí<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, = chí<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, young esculent shoots of ginger.

chí<sup>n</sup> (C. chē<sup>n</sup>), to contradict or dispute doggedly. sa<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to wrangle. chí<sup>n</sup>-bô, doggedly deny what is really true. chí<sup>n</sup>-jī, to dispute about the sound or meaning of a word. àu-chí<sup>n</sup>, doggedly maintain the wrong side of a quarrel. kiōng-kiōng-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, long and animated disputing and contradicting. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhùi chí<sup>n</sup>-chih, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-sí, doggedly deny the truth. chí<sup>n</sup>-sí chí<sup>n</sup>-oáh, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-

iâ<sup>n</sup>, to win in the debate. chí<sup>n</sup>-su, to lose in the debate. chí<sup>n</sup>-chēng, to strive hard to be first, as in a race. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsòe-thâu, id.

chí<sup>n</sup> (R. chièn), an arrow. keng-chí<sup>n</sup>, bow and arrow. keng-chí<sup>n</sup>-koán, a school for archery. keng-chí<sup>n</sup>-túi, the company of archers in an army; military mandarins are usually selected from them. liam-keng tah-chí<sup>n</sup>, to take the bow and draw the arrow ready to shoot. tah-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. an-keng tah-chí<sup>n</sup>, id.

hī-chí<sup>n</sup>, arrows stuck in the ears of criminals, esp. soldiers. chhah hī-chí<sup>n</sup>, to put such arrows in their ears. chhēng-ki-chí<sup>n</sup>, a sky-rocket. chhiú-chí<sup>n</sup>, a dart; a javelin. hé-chí<sup>n</sup>, a fiery arrow. àm-chí<sup>n</sup>, a secret arrow; said of secretly injuring others. sái-àm-chí<sup>n</sup>, to injure a man secretly. bān-lê-chí<sup>n</sup>, a cloud of arrows from cross-bows (v. lē). hoān-tiōh lē-chí<sup>n</sup>, good luck (as of a house) injured by having a long straight road pointing directly at it. lēng-chí<sup>n</sup>, an arrow given by a high mandarin to a messenger, to show that his orders are urgent. sái-bák-chí<sup>n</sup>, to cast a piercing secret glance, as in half-dissembled displeasure, or as in making lewd advances.

pē-chí<sup>n</sup>, archers on foot. bé-pē-chí<sup>n</sup>, foot and cavalry archers. bé-chí<sup>n</sup>, cavalry archers. khó bé-chí<sup>n</sup>, trial of archery on horseback.

chí<sup>n</sup>-bah, arrow-head; arrow-shod. chí<sup>n</sup>-phi, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-pe (C.), id. chí<sup>n</sup>-bé, hinder end of arrow. chí<sup>n</sup>-khau, notch of arrow, for the string. chí<sup>n</sup>-lêng, feathers of arrow. chí<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, shaft of arrow. chí<sup>n</sup>-tē, quiver. chí<sup>n</sup>-pé, target or mark for archery. khó chí<sup>n</sup>-pé, to compete at archery. khó-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. tsòe chí<sup>n</sup>-pé (lit. to be a target), said of a soldier, made to be shot at, like "food for powder."

an-chí<sup>n</sup>, to put the arrow on the string. tsòh-chí<sup>n</sup>, to shoot an arrow. siā-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. tiōh-chí<sup>n</sup>, to be struck by an arrow. tiōng-chí<sup>n</sup>, id.

chí<sup>n</sup> — àn-chí<sup>n</sup>-sí (T.), this way.

chí<sup>n</sup> (R. chien), to fry swimming in a large quantity of melted fat. chí<sup>n</sup>-iú, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-soán, sort of cakes fried in fat. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsó, round fried balls of rice with stuffing of minced meat. chí<sup>n</sup>-te, sort of cake fried in fat. hē-chí<sup>n</sup>, shrimps covered with dough and fried. ô-te-chí<sup>n</sup>, oysters, rice, and pulse fried together.

chí<sup>n</sup> (R. chin), to stuff into. chí<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>-teh, stuffed full and tight. chí<sup>n</sup>-kui, to stuff a fowl's crop, to make it sell better. chí<sup>n</sup>-khui, to press open as with a wedge.

chí<sup>n</sup> [R. chēng, quiet, still], (C. chē<sup>n</sup>), calm, as weather. soah-chí<sup>n</sup>, fine, fair, calm weather. sah<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, sudden lull in the wind. hong chí<sup>n</sup>, wind fallen; calm. hong chí<sup>n</sup>, éng pí<sup>n</sup>, wind and waves quiet. sio-chí<sup>n</sup>, warm and calm, as in spring. chhun-hē koá<sup>n</sup>; tang-hē chí<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), rain in spring is cold, when there is rain in winter the wind falls.

chí<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chēng-chēng, be quiet! (said to children).

àm-chí<sup>n</sup>, secret; clandestine; secretly. àm-tsòe-chí<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

chia [R. = col. jia, to cover or screen]. moa<sup>n</sup>-chia, an open shed with roof of only one slope.

chia — hia-chia, very cumbersome; greatly in the way, as a large piece of furniture.

chia (R. ché), here. tī-chia, id. àn-chia, this way; by this road. tù-chia, id. ôe-kè-tit-chia, bōe-kè-tit-hia, able to attend to one place, but not to the other.

chiá [R. red coloured]. chiá-sék, a medicine.

箭

即煎炙

靜

遮

這

赭

井

姐

chiá [R. elder sister, mother, concubine, &c.] chiá-hu, = chí-hu, elder sister's husband. goán-chiá--ê, husband of my elder sister. goán-chiá (Cn.), my elder sister.

sió-chiá, daughter of a mandarin.

khioh-chiá, a midwife. khioh-chiá-bú, id. pô-chiá, inferior female spirits, supposed to have charge of infants (v. pô). chiá-bú, id. hau-chiá (C.), = A. hau pô-chiá, to make offerings to these spirits. sín-chiá (Cn.), a sorceress. siá'-chiá (Cn.), id.

ang-chiá (C.), husband and wife. ang-á-chiá (C.), id. toā-chiá (C.), principal wife. in-chiá (C.), = A. in-ché-bú, his father's concubine, who is his own real mother.

者

chiá [R. a final relative particle, nearly "who," "which," "that which," often used to form an adjective; slightly colloquial in C., but still R.] sūn-thien-chiá tsūn; gék-thien--chiá bông, they who obey Heaven are preserved; they who offend perish.

sū-chiá, a messenger sent by a sovereign. bók-chiá (X.), a pastor or (fig.) shepherd.

sū-chiá-kong, a large innocuous serpent that is worshipped. sī-chiá-kong (C.), id.

hóe--chiá tī, it is then too late to change one's mind. hék-chiá (R.), perhaps.

chiá (R. id.), sugar-cane. kam-chiá, soft succulent sugar-cane, cultivated to be sold for sucking. chhah-kam-chiá, to plant esculent sugar-cane. tek-chiá, a harder sort (sweeter), grown for making sugar. koa'-chiá, id. khoeh-chiá, to press sugar-cane in the mill.

chiá-chhiá, a sugar-mill. chiá-phò, the premises where there is a sugar-mill. chiá-phoh, the cane when the juice has all been pressed out. chiá-tsai, young plants of sugar-cane. chiá-ku, an edible insect found in the cane-roots. chiá-háh, the outer sheathing leaves of the cane. pak chiá-háh, to pull off these leaves. lân chiá-háh, id.

chiá [R. to borrow, to use as a pretext]. chiá láng--ê bêng-sek, to make improper use of a man's name or influence for private ends. chiá-chhùi-gú, pretending to have a verbal order, so as to get things and appropriate them. ká-chiá, to pretend to have authority from another.

tsu-chiá, to rely upon. tsu-chiá i--ê sè-thâu, to rely on his influence or power. tsu-chiá i--ê hák-būn, to get the benefit of his learning (as by friendly intercourse) for improving our own.

chiá [R. tsā, suddenly]. chiá-phé, the city Chappoo, near Ningpo, from which junks trade to Japan.

chiá [R. to roast or toast]. iū-chiá-ké, a sort of eake. mī'-chiá, a long lump of glutinous dough made of coarse wheat meal, sold uncooked. kiām-mī'-chiá, salted do. mī'-chiá chhá-bah, do. cooked with pork.

chiá-chhó, sliced, dried, and sugared liquorice. chiá-kí, a sort of medicine.

chiá (R. id.), (C. ché). chiá-kè, a partridge.

chiá [R. siā, to thank], = siā, a surname.

chia (C.), = A. chí, a malignant demon.

chia [R. chhek, red], the lean of meat. chia'-bah, id. poá'-chia'-péh, lean and fat mixed in one piece of meat.

chia [R. cheng, correct, = col. chiá']. chia'-géh, the first month. chia'-géh-chhoe, the first ten days of the year. chia'-géh chia'-thâu, the first few days of the year (sometimes including to about 15th), in which time debts are not collected and ill-omened language is avoided. sin-chia<sup>n</sup>, new-year's-day. tsòe-chia<sup>n</sup>, to keep the new year. hō-chia<sup>n</sup>, to pay new-year visits, esp. making presents. pài-chia<sup>n</sup>, to pay visits in the first few days of the year, esp. first five days. oàn-kúi pài-chia<sup>n</sup> (the ghost of the murdered man paid a new-year's visit to the murderer, got him in liquor so as to let out the secret of his guilt), said of a witness or proof of guilt suddenly coming to light. koa-chia<sup>n</sup> (T.), the new-year's holidays past. khah-koa-chia<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. koa-chia<sup>n</sup>, sióng-goán kè (T.), after the middle of the first month. chia<sup>n</sup> koa (Cn.), new-year's time past, about 15th or 20th of first month.

chiá<sup>n</sup> [R. cheng, desires, feelings; affairs]. chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, connections by marriage in any way; relatives of different surname. chhin-chiá--kan, among such relatives. tsòe-chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to betroth or espouse husband or wife (said either of self or son, &c.) kap-goán ũ-chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, connected (by marriage in any way) with some relative of ours. chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup> gē-géh, relatives, neighbours, and friends (v. géh).

ū-sim-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to have heart for doing a thing.

kè-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to coax; to entreat, as a superior to inferior, or of equals. kê-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

kan-chiá<sup>n</sup>, adulterous or lascivious conduct, as matter of an accusation in court.

chiá<sup>n</sup> (R. sêng = col. chiá'), to become; complete; almost or about; in round numbers or in rough quantity. pún-chiá<sup>n</sup>, originally. hiên-chiá<sup>n</sup>, just now; at this time; at present.

si'-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to produce and complete; natural; not artificial; naturally. chiá'-tsòe, to become. tsòe-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to complete; to be completed. tsòe-tit-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to accomplish. tsòe kàu oân-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to work at it till it is all right. oân-chiá<sup>n</sup>, completed; finished, as an affair. pi'-chiá<sup>n</sup>-hó, to become good. kè chhut-chiá<sup>n</sup>--lah, the price is quite fixed.

hūn-chiá<sup>n</sup>, extremely like; undistinguishable, as an imitation or a counterfeit; as a tear or hole, &c., mended so that it cannot be observed; or as lies so well told as to appear quite true.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, a clear sky; fine weather. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, determined to take a journey. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsoā, making or becoming a row or line. chiá<sup>n</sup>-khoán, of good behaviour or pattern, &c. chiá<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, good or good-looking, &c.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-hāng, in considerable quantities. chiá<sup>n</sup>-bé, an entire animal of any sort of which "bé" is the classifier. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsàu-hé, fuel enough for once using the cooking-place or fire-place. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhū-mih<sup>n</sup>, a houseful of things. chiá<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, a whole trunkful or so. chiá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, in great quantities; whole mountains of —. chiá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> chiá<sup>n</sup>-hái, in vast quantities; mountains and oceans of (as of crops, &c.) chiá<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, a whole night or so. chiá<sup>n</sup>-géh-jit, about one month. chiá<sup>n</sup>-bān-lāng, about ten thousand men. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pah, about a hundred.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng, to be married. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng sêng-khì, to get married and get on in business. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng-tsái, fine-looking man. iáu-bé chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng, not yet married. m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng, poor or unfortunate; deformed or useless, as a man.

m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup>, not very good; does not come to anything; of little or no use. m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-khoán, not of a good manner, model, or conduct. túg m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, weak and sickly about the time of coming of age. m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, uncertain weather, scarcely either rain or fair. m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-hō, very slight rain. m-

情

成

蔗

借藉

乍爇

鷓鴣謝赤正

chiá<sup>n</sup> iau-pá, neither hungry nor full. chhut-m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-kè, to offer too low a price. m-chiá<sup>n</sup> tóng-seng, m-chiá<sup>n</sup> chhèng-peng, not fit for any work, neither for literary work nor for labour (lit. soldier). m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhè m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-iù, id.

chiá<sup>n</sup> (R. id.), insipid; tasteless; fresh, not salt; wanting in saltness or sweetness pèh-chiá<sup>n</sup> bô-bī, quite tasteless. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pùh-pùh, very insipid. chiá<sup>n</sup>-káu-káu, id.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsú, fresh water. kiám-chiá<sup>n</sup>, salt and fresh. tú-hó kiám-chiá<sup>n</sup>, just sufficiently salt to be well tasted. poà<sup>n</sup>-kiám-chiá<sup>n</sup>, half salt. thau-khah-chiá<sup>n</sup>, dilute it that it may not be so salt or so sweet.

chiá<sup>n</sup> [R. jiók, C. jiák, weak]. nng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, weak; delicate (as in health); belonging to a weak clan or family, not having much influence or power; feeble. nú<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

chiá<sup>n</sup> (R. chêng), correct; real, true; right (hand); principal; (middle of Chinese hour).

chiá<sup>n</sup>-lê, well-behaved; of good conduct. chiá<sup>n</sup>-hoat, the fit way to accomplish an end. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pân, fair profit; goods of the right sort. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kī, anniversary of a person's death. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pé, one's real father. chiá<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, one's own proper name, as opp. to a nickname. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsu, real small-pox, opp. to "tsú-tsu."

chiá<sup>n</sup>-ji, the mandarin dialect. chiá<sup>n</sup>-im-hì, plays in the mandarin dialect.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, at first; at the very beginning of the matter. chiá<sup>n</sup>-thâu-lái, on first arrival. hē chiá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to lay in the proper direction, opp. "tò-thâu." chiá<sup>n</sup>-sèh, to revolve in the direction of the hands of a watch. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tng, id. chiá<sup>n</sup>-oe, to turn a hand-mill in that direction. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kóng tò-kóng, to say yea and nay at different times; to talk first on the one side and then on the other. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsòe tò-tsòe, to do a thing in an irregular and rather improper way. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhák tò-phut, piercing and cutting in all directions (v. phut). tò-oai<sup>n</sup> chiá<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>, to make overcharges right and left.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-hù, the principal and secondary, as the principal copy and the duplicate; officer and deputy; principal and assistant. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kà, the vessel carrying a very high mandarin. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tng, the principal mandarin of a place, as opposed to his assistant (v. tng). chiá<sup>n</sup>-it-phín, the very first rank of mandarins. chiá<sup>n</sup>-keng, the empress.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the right hand. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-pèng, the right-hand side; on the right hand. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pèng, the right face or side (as of a mirror or picture or other flat thing).

chiá<sup>n</sup>-sī, yes, it is so; quite true; that's so; yes. chin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, truly; true. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, exactly alike. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, quite square, even, or correct; certainly. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup> tī-hia, certainly is there. si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, square, even, or straight; all correct and right. toan-hong si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, set quite straight; correct in conduct (v. toan). toan-chiá<sup>n</sup>, correct in conduct. kóe-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to correct (as a document); to put right or make correct. siá-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to write out a fair clean copy (as from a scroll). têng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, ordinary middling quality; not very good (of men or things); fair; not partial. pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, a person who is just middling in appearance. tsòe-lâng pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, tolerably good man. m-pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, partial; unfair (as man or affair). m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, fair in dealings. pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>-

sim, impartial towards inferiors (as teacher, father, or master). pân-tiáu pī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, settled fairly (as by mandarin or arbiter).

chiá<sup>n</sup>-tng-sī, just at the best time; just in season. báu-chiá<sup>n</sup>, the middle of the double hour "báu," i.e. 6 A.M. báu-si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. sin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, = sin-si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, 8 A.M. chī-si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, 10 A.M.; and so with the other hours.

chiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. iáng, to carry (a person) on the back. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, standing back to back, as two houses near each other (= T. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiāng).

chiá<sup>n</sup>, a character in a play, esp. a bold fellow with a painted face. e-chiá<sup>n</sup>, do. with face painted black. āng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, do. with face red. tsng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to act such a character. tsòe-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

chiá<sup>n</sup> [R. kióng, strong]. ngī<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, stiff, as starched cloth, &c.; strong and ready for work; fond of work, as a man not afraid of weather, or as a woman who is fit for hard work.

chiáh — lín-chiáh-ê, you (plural). lín chiah-ê-lâng, id. lán chiah-ê-lâng, we.

chiáh [R. chek], thus —; so —; (these); then, as connective particle either of time or of immediate effect or consequence.

chiah-ê, these. chiah-hng, thus far; so far. chiah-sòe, so small. chiah-kú, so long; this long time. chiah-kú hó, have you been well of late? how do you do?

àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, chiah hó-sè, it will be all right if done so. khah-oà<sup>n</sup>, chiah-lái, come later. sa<sup>n</sup>-tiám, chiah-lái, come at three o'clock. ta<sup>n</sup> chiah-lái, now come at last. tú-chiáh, just now (past). tú-á-chiáh, id. tú-chiáh-lái, just arrived. chhím-chhím chiah-lái, has just this moment arrived. gèh chiah-chhut, the moon just risen.

chiáh — bān--chiáh, wait a little (v. bān).

chiáh — chiah-mí<sup>n</sup>, unable to see well at night.

chiáh [R. chek, the backbone]. ka-chiáh, the back. pa-chiáh (Cn.), id. ka-chiáh-á, behind one's back; in his absence. ka-chiáh-sim, middle of the back along the backbone. ka-chiáh-sien, dirt in the hollow along the spine. ka-chiáh-kut, the backbone. ka-chiáh-chit, id. tái<sup>n</sup>-ka-chiáh, to cut and hack a man's back, as a housebreaker when caught.

io-chiáh-kut, the lower end of the backbone.

chiáh (R. chiét). bák-chiáh-mng, the eyelashes.

chiáh (R. chek), classifier of beasts, birds, boats, ships, ingots of silver, &c.; also (C.) of tables and chairs; sometimes contemptuously of men.

tsún-chiáh, boats and ships in general. chiáu-chiáh, birds in general. hoan-chiáh-á, a small pretty cage-bird. chiah-ngá (Cn.), small birds.

chiáh [R. chek, a footstep, a trace], (cf. jiah).

ū-íá<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, real. bô-íá<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, without a shadow of truth. bô-íá<sup>n</sup> bô-chiáh, id. bô-íá<sup>n</sup>-chiáh ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, very unimportant things.

chiáh — thng-chiáh-kha, barefooted (cf. chhiáh).

chiáh — kha-chiáh-té (P.), = A. kha-chhióh-tóc, the sole of the foot. kha-chiáh-tóe (T.), id.

chiáh [R. chiá, to roast or toast]. iú-chiáh-ké, long twisted cakes fried in fat, = iú-chiá-ké.

chiáh (R. sít), to eat; to live on; to get money out of; (to entertain); to live (so long); to take (as snuff, tobacco, wine, &c.); to absorb (as oil); to fit or lean on

弱
正

諸
即

脊

睫
隻

迹 跡

赤
跡
爨
食

(as a beam); to play some games; to get the better of, &c. &c.

chiáh kúi-lâng, how many guests, &c., do you have at table?

chiáh pē-bú, to live on one's parents (v. pē). chiáh thâu-ke, to get our food from our employer, at his expense. chiáh ka-kī, to find one's own food, not getting it from employer. ka-kī-chiáh, to eat alone, cooking one's own food, or having it cooked separately from others. chiáh-kiá<sup>n</sup> chiáh-sun, to live on one's sons or grandsons. chiáh kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun, id.; also said of an old man who survives all his descendants.

bōe-chiáh--tit, not eatable; too powerful to let us get money out of him; nothing can be got out of him. chiáh--i bōe-tó, his work is too heavy or too difficult for me. chiáh--i m-ta, do.; also, I can't get the money out of him (v. ta). chiáh--i bōe-noā<sup>n</sup>, I have not ability or strength for his work. chiáh--i kè-kè, to have quite the upper hand of a man; to be able to overcome him with the utmost ease. chiáh--i sa<sup>n</sup>-tù-thàu, do. (figure from gambling). goá chiáh-tit-i-kàu, I can hold my own against him; I am not afraid of him. ná<sup>n</sup> chiáh-tit-i-kàu, chiú-thang, if you are quite able to hold your own against him, then you may venture. chiáh--i khah-kàu, well able to get the better of him; not at all afraid of him. khít--i pēh-pēh-chiáh, to be oppressed or fleeced by him without power of resistance.

chiáh kiáu-tàng, to live by gambling. chiáh-tàng chiáh-thih, to live on others by bold wicked means. chiáh chhim-tsúi, to screw money improperly out of people with whom he has no connection. chiáh-thi<sup>n</sup>-lē (live on dew), to have uncertain means of living; to live by one's wits, as poor literati who make people pay money by threatening with lawsuits. chiáh-thien-tông, to get one's money by improper means, as underlings of yamuns (v. thien). chiáh-tsoá, phè hé-huih (serpents with tiger's blood), said of a very wicked daring man. chiáh-chhàu-bí, to be an employé in a yamun (v. chhàu). chiáh-pit-bé, to live by writing documents for lawsuits, as meddling literati. chiáh jin-bêng, to take money for the settlement of a case about a death. chiáh hong-lók, to have official salary. chiáh-niú<sup>n</sup>, to be a soldier. chiáh-chhêng, to be a soldier who uses a gun. chiáh-pái, do using a shield. chiáh-keng, to be an archer, in army.

chiáh kúi-bí, to be suffering from dearth. chiáh-pún, to live on one's capital. siu-tse chiáh-soá<sup>n</sup>, to live on the rents of property. chiáh-kha chiáh-chhiú, to live by the labour of one's own limbs; said also of a mandarin severely punishing his own underlings. liu-chhiu chiáh-bák-chiu, a man must use his eyes sharply (v. chhiu).

chiáh-tsé, to eat the feast in the ancestral temple. chiáh-kī, to eat a feast on anniversary of birth or death of the deceased. chiáh-si<sup>n</sup>-jit, to eat a birth-day feast of a living friend. chiáh pút-si<sup>n</sup>-jit, to have a feast on an idol's birth-day. chiáh-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to have a feast when the money and presents are sent, after betrothal, but before the marriage. chiáh i-ê-si<sup>n</sup>, to take his surname and worship his ancestors, as a weak village does to a powerful one, to get their assistance. chiáh-kàu, phrase used by the heathen for "becoming a Christian," but not a good phrase. chiáh-chhài, to be a vegetarian. chiáh sa<sup>n</sup>-lák-káu, to abstain from animal food on the days ending in 3, 6, and 9.

chiáh-hun, to smoke (tobacco). chiáh-phi<sup>n</sup>-hun, to take snuff. chiáh-ngé-ien, to take snuff, tobacco, and opium. chiáh-ê-hun, to smoke opium. chiáh-tiáu, become an inveterate opium-smoker. chiáh-phah-phún, to smoke only a little opium, not yet inveterate. chiáh-chiú, to take wine, &c. (v. chiu). chiáh-té, to drink tea.

chiáh-tsúi, to drink water. tsún chiáh-tsúi, the vessel draws (so much) water. khui-khang hē--i chiáh-tsúi, to show him an opening for squeezing money out of some one.

chiáh-iú, to absorb oil, as a thing steeped in it, &c. chiáh-tsō, to be dyed with sulphate of iron. chiáh-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to be starched, as cloth or clothes.

chiáh-hong, to take in wind, as a sail well placed to catch the wind. chiáh-thih, to attract iron, as the load-stone. chiáh-soa<sup>n</sup>, to make gradual progress, gaining on the land, as a vessel in successive tacks.

chiáh-jī, to take the bait, as fish. chiáh-tiò, to bite the hook. chiáh-png, to eat rice; to take food (v. png). chiáh thit-thô, to eat something for mere amusement, or by the way. chiáh--bē, have you eaten? how do you do? chiáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to taste. toá-chiáh, eating much. sōe-chiáh, eating little. chiáh-beh-sí, very greedy at food (v. sí). chiáh-bōe-khi, unable to eat more, as when full, or when meat is very fat. pēh-pēh-chiáh, to eat rice without condiments (v. pēh). keng-chiáh, very nice (too particular) about one's food, always wishing the very best. mih<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, confections, sweetmeats, &c. ũ-chiáh-sit, to live well on good food (v. sit).

chiáh-pá, to have eaten enough, or till satiated; to be saturated, as with oil (v. pá). chiáh-liáu, to eat up the whole, leaving nothing. chiáh--liáu, after having eaten. chiáh--liáu sán, always lean, whatever he eats. chiáh--liáu thit-thô, doing nothing but eat and amuse himself. chiáh--liáu, bō-siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, id. chiáh óá-lái, kóng óá<sup>n</sup>-goá, eats his food, but speaks ill of him behind his back (v. óá<sup>n</sup>). chiáh-khó chiáh-ká, whether eating better or worse food (rice thicker or thinner). chiáh-khó chiáh-ká, tióh chit--ê pēng-chēng, whatever they have or have not to eat, the members of a family should be at peace among themselves.

thàn-chiáh, to earn one's food (v. chiáh). tsoán-chiáh, to get one's food any way, either by earning or by begging. khít-chiáh, to beg; a beggar (v. khít). pun-chiáh, id. pun--chiáh, to make arrangements for having meals separate from others. pun-khui-chiáh, id. thiah-chiáh, id. háp-teh-chiáh, taking meals regularly together. tsú-chiáh, to cook (v. tsú).

chiáh tng-hè-siú, to enjoy long life (v. hè). i beh-chiáh khah-kú, he hopes to live longer. chiáh á-bē kàu-láu, not old yet. ũ-png, chiáh kàu-láu; bō-png, chiáh kàu-sí, may you lose your riches, and be very poor in old age!

sa<sup>n</sup>-chiáh-á<sup>n</sup>, fitting well together, as parts of an article of furniture; friendly; of one mind. chiáh-chhêng, food and clothes (v. chhêng). sa<sup>n</sup>-chiáh-chhêng, fitting well together. bō-sa<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, not agreeing well together, as essay to text, or as evidence. chiáh-tōe, agreeing well with the text, as essay.

chiáh m-tióh tsúi-thé, to be injured in health by the climate.

tham-chiáh, gluttonous; small-pox very thick on the body (v. tham).

chiáh chit-ki ê-lát, leans on this beam for support, as a smaller beam does, or as a set of rafters on a great beam. chiáh koái"-á ê-lát, to lean one's weight (more or less) on a staff. chiáh té-kháu ê-lát, wind in such a direction that the oar held in the left hand must be rowed with more force.

chiáh-ngi", bô-chiáh-nŭg, determined to carry out our purpose in spite of any opposition. chiáh-phiah, having an obstinate temper; dogged and crochety. chiáh i-ê-phiah, id. chiáh-i chit-ê-phiah, id. chiáh-kiū", of set purpose taking the very opposite way to that which others wish or advise. chiáh-kiên, id. chiáh-thâu, harbouring revengeful feeling (v. thâu). kap-i chiáh-khi, id. chiáh-kôe (C.), insubordinate.

chiáh-tù, to win stakes in gambling (v. tù). goá ká--lí chiáh--khi, you win the stakes from me. chiáh-tit, to play a game called "tit," q.v. chiáh-jí-á, a game with bits of tile (v. jí).

chiáh gŭn-tsúi, to get so much less than the price would be counted in mixed (good and bad) cash, because it is paid in silver. chiáh pháí"-chi"-tsúi, id. kah-chiáh-kè, paying a little over the price willingly.

chiáh-ki", to lose money by acting as surety and having to pay; or as by doing a commission for another, and having the goods thrown on our hands.

thòe--lâng chiáh-tsòe, to bear the responsibility of another's crime or fault.

hê--i ká-chiáh, to be scolded by him very violently.

ôe-chiáh chhau-bah khi--lâi, able to remove putrefying flesh, as a medical application.

chiak (C.), = A. chiok. chiak-iák, a sort of flower.

chiak (C.), = A. chiok, a sort of cup; a rank of nobility.

chiak (C.), = A. chiok. chim-chiak, to consider carefully.

chiak — chiák-sit (C.), = A. tiók-sit, the real facts of a case.

chiam [R. to look up to]. sa"-chiam, to observe each other carefully, as two men on a road avoiding running against each other; or as two vessels sailing together, taking care not to part company; or as two men on an unknown or dangerous road.

chiam [R. to divine by lot], a cent; to prognosticate; to settle a balance. chit-chiam, one cent.

sa"-chiam-tsâu, to settle a small balance (either way) from a payment. sa"-chiam, id.; also, three cents. chiam joá-tsòe chi"-bé, what balance?

thâu-chiam, the bearer who occupies the first place in front in carrying an idol.

chiam i-ê-bāng, to interpret his dream. chiam-koà, a sort of divination (v. koà).

chiam [R. tsam], (Cn. tsam; C. tsom, in some phrases), a lady's hair-pin. chiam-á, id. sek-thŭng-chiam, a sort used (superstitiously) by elderly women. téng-ké-chiam, upper hair-pin in female head-dress. hê-lê-chiam, those worn at the sides, with heads of the "hê-lê" shape.

kim-chiam, a beautiful red flower somewhat like Amaryllis (Hemerocallis?); also used as a vegetable. kim-chiam-hoe, id. kim-chiam-chhài, do. as a vegetable. gék-chiam, the tuberose. giók-chiam, id.

chiam (R. id.), a surname.

chiam (R. id.), pointed; sharp-pointed; a point; an extremity, esp. pointed. chiam-chiam, sharp-pointed.

chiam-lâi, very sharp. chhùi chiam, chih lâi, a great talker; a chatterer.

si" bák-chiam, to have a sty on the eyelid. liú-chiam, shoes with only one rib in front. hia-chiam, the toe of a boot. pit-chiam, the point of a pen or hair-pencil. soa"-chiam, a mountain peak. jín-jí-chiam, a roof made with a ridge (not flat). tsúi-chiam, a fish with a pointed mouth. ngé-chiam, the head, feet, and wings of a bird. khi-ngé-chiam, to cut off head, legs, and wings of a fowl before cooking it (or head and feet of a beast); to cut off the head, hands, and feet of a criminal.

siu-chiam, to sharpen to a point. khioh-chiam, to pile up (in pyramidal shape) to a point, as stones, bricks, &c. put-chiam, to heap up earth, lime, &c., in a pointed mound of pyramidal shape. chiam-thâu, pointed at the end, as a pole (s. needle). chiam-chhùi--ê, a rat. chiam-chhùi (C.), = khoah-chhùi, a pickaxe. chiam-hí, a fish with a very sharp head. ŭg-chiam-lí, a sort of yellow plum. chiam-á-bí, the best sort of rice. chiam-tâu, a small round bean.

sa"-chiam lák-kak, all points, corners, and angles; very irregular in shape; very angular; quite opposed to our views and expectations, as language of a man to whom we apply for something. chiam-kha iù-chhiú, hands and feet delicate, as of woman or literary man, or son of rich man. thâu chiam, phī" tuh, face long and nose sharp; counted good-looking.

chiam (R. chiam, chim), (Cn. tsam), a needle; used in the names of instruments having a needle or a tube.

kan-chiam, a mariner's compass. kín-bān-chiam, regulator of watch or clock. hong-ú-chiam, a barometer. hân-sú-chiam, a thermometer. pió-á-chiam, hand of watch. si-chiam, hour-hand of watch or clock. khek-chiam, minute-hand. biáu-chiam, second-hand.

pín-chiam, a foreign pin. siù-chiam, the smallest sort of needle for embroidering and fine needle-work. hoe-chiam, id. toá-pê-chiam, a large needle. jí-pê-chiam, a smaller sort. sa"-pê-chiam, a sort still smaller.

chiam-tsái", a thimble. chiam-phī", the eye of a needle. chiam-khang, the hole made by a needle. chiam-bé, point of needle. chiam-chí, needle-work and embroidery (v. chí). chiam-kha iù, the needle-work is fine. chiam-áh, a small needle-case. chiam-khoeh, a small box for needles. chiam-tāng, a small cylindrical vessel for do. chiam-pau, a paper of needles. chit-pau-chiam, one paper of needles. chiam-soá", needle and thread. chiam-thâu soá"-bé, do. bô-chiam, put-in-soá", without a proper introduction it cannot be properly managed.

hái-tóe bong-chiam, to feel for a needle at the bottom of the sea. kau-chiam, to sew with very close stitches. kau-chiam tēng, bát-liú poá", very careful; over careful or minute in money matters (v. bát).

chiam [R. to go deep or secretly]. tím-chiam, self-collected; thinking deeply or carefully before speaking or acting. chiām-sim (R.), diligent and earnest in study.

chiam (R. chím). chiám-thâu, = chím-thâu, a pillow.

chiàm (R. id.), (cf. chiam, chhiàm), to take unjust possession of; to interfere to separate combatants.

chiàm-pan-gi, to compel a man to sell cheap. ka-kí chiàm-teh-kóng, to talk right on, maintaining

針

著
着
瞻
占

潛 枕
佔

詹
尖

that we are all right (as when found fault with), letting no one else get in a word. chiàm-tāi-seng, to take the first place for one's self somewhat rudely.

chiàm-tsòng, to take unjust possession of a grave. chiàm-tōe, to take unjust possession of land. chiàm-chhân, id. chiàm lāng-ê-bé, take unjust possession of another man's wife.

pà-chiàm, to usurp; to take unjust possession either of throne or of any possessions, e.g. house or land. kiông-chiàm, do. by violence. su-chiàm, to take illegal possession of public property for one's self. chhim-chiàm, to encroach upon; to take unjust possession of (as of land). chhim-chiàm koa<sup>n</sup>-tōe, to encroach on land that is government property.

chiàm--lāng, to interfere to separate combatants or men quarrelling; to try to stop a scrimmage. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiàm, id. chiàm-i, to interfere to keep him from being beaten, as in a quarrel, or as a child that parents are beating. sio-chiàm (C.), to assist one of two parties quarrelling.

chiàm — sio-chiàm (P.), = A. sa<sup>n</sup>-oá, leagued together, as two friends who make common cause in all cases.

chiām (R. id.) chiām-chiām, by degrees; gradually. chiām-chin, make gradual progress.

chiām (R. id.) chiām-sî, temporarily; in the meantime. chiām-si-á, only for a short time. chiām-toà, to stay for a short time. chiām-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, just for a short time let —. chiām-koán, to be a temporary substitute; to use as such, esp. in some work or office. chiām-koán teh-ēng, using it or him temporarily till a better can be got.

chian (in several tones), better, "chien" (q. v.)

chiang [R. tiang, to stretch out], (C. tiang). koái-chiang, very stubborn and obstinate; determined to have his own way or say, esp. as inferior.

chiang [R. chiang, Cn. chiong], (Cn. cheng). chiang-chiu, Chang-chew. chiang-se, thin mixed silk stuff made at Chang-chew. chiang-pán, blocks cut there. chiang--ê, made at Chang-chew.

chiang-tsoán, Changechew & Chinchew. chiang-tsoán-piá<sup>n</sup>, a feud between Chang-chew and Chinchew men. hok-kiên oán-oán, m-táh chiang-tsoán, in all Fuh-kien, Chang-chew and Chin-chew are the best places.

chiang [R. chiong, an essay], (C.), = A. chiong, a surname, &c. pió-chiang (C.), = A. pió-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a memorial to the emperor.

chiang (C.), = A. chiong, to use (as instrument); sign of future; often R.

chiáng [R. chióng, = col. chiú<sup>n</sup>, an oar]. pat-chiáng-tsūn, eight-oared boats used by custom-house officials. pat-chiáng-á, id.

chiáng [R. chióng, to praise]. po-chiáng, to praise an inferior so as to encourage him to more exertion.

chiáng [R. tióng, to grow, to increase; by change of tone from "tióng," long], to rise, as the price of anything. gūn-kè chiáng, the value of the dollar has risen. bí-kè chiáng, the price of rice has risen. chiáng-chìn (C.), = A. chióng-chìn, to grow rich (v. chìn).

chiáng [R. chióng, the palm of the hand; to rule]; (Cn. chióng). chiáng-koán, to rule; to have authority over. chip-chiáng, to have (power or authority). chiáng-kúi, the man in a hong who has charge of the silver.

chiáng-kiō, to hold the poles of the sedan of a high mandarin. chiáng-si<sup>n</sup>, a large fan carried before very high mandarins.

chiàng [R. chiòng, a military officer]. láu-chiàng, a soldier. hàn-chiàng, a tall fat man. hó-hàn-chiàng, id. chiàng-iá, low custom-house officials (not in the office) like tide-waiters.

Also (C.), = A. chiòng (military officers, idols, &c.)

chiàng — lái-chiàng (C.), = A. lúi-chiàng, an eye disease.

chiàng (R. tióng). hūn-chiàng, falsified, as a document; confused, or out of order, as the management or settlement of an affair. chòe-sū hūn-chiàng, to manage a matter in a confused or disorderly way. sa<sup>n</sup>-hūn-chiàng, confusedly mixed, as good or bad, or as things belonging to different owners.

chiàng (P.), = iāng, = chiá<sup>n</sup>, to carry on the back, as a man or child.

sa<sup>n</sup>-chiàng (T.), to stand back to back, as two houses or villages. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiàng kha-chhng (T.), id.

chiap (R. id.), to receive; to succeed to; to join; to set, as a broken bone; to splice or lengthen, as rope; to add a piece of paper, cloth, &c.; to make larger.

put-chiap-it, matters not going well; said euphemistically of death.

ēng-chiap, to receive, as guests. chiap-ēng, id.; also, to assist as with troops. chiap-láp, to receive, as persons. chiap-hong (R.), to give a feast to a friend on his coming home. pi-chiap (Cn.), to meet and try to arrange a quarrel.

chiap āu-siū, a widower marrying a virgin. chiap pāng-hūn, to keep up the succession, as an adopted son. chiap i-ê-kheh (C. khoeh), to fill the vacancy left by him; to succeed him. chiap-ūi, to succeed to the throne. chiap-jim, to succeed to a mandarin's office. chiap-in, id. (receiving the seals).

ū-chiap-chhah, to have proper connection, as a literary composition (v. chhah). sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap, connected, as in close succession; adjoining to. soà-chiap, to succeed to, as inheritance, &c. chiap-soà, closely connected, as following clause; to succeed. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-soà, closely connected in succession, as sentences or events. sēng-chiap, to inherit; to succeed to, as property, &c. chiap-siók, in close succession; connected without interruption or intermission. ū-chiap-siók, do. as clauses in context, or as train of reasoning. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-siók, id.; said also of money coming in constantly. chí<sup>n</sup>-gūn chiap-siók, money coming in from time to time in considerable quantities. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-siók-thàn, id.

kau-chiap, to associate, as friends. kau-chiap óng-lái, id. kau-thâu chiap-jí<sup>n</sup>, to talk in whispers, "tête-à-tête." chih-chiap, to associate or receive, as friend or visitor, or business connection. kap-i chih-chiap, do.; to have direct dealings with him in business.

chiap-chhiú, to settle a bargain. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-kha, to follow in succession, as in walking; to supply a man's place, as in gambling. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-kha lái, one coming in as another goes out.

chiap-ki, to graft. chiap-soh, to splice or lengthen a rope. chiap-ūi, to set up the parts of a foreign mast. chiap-thih, to weld iron. chiap-sún, to dovetail; to join by tenon and mortice. gâu chiap-sún-khak, skilful at saying what corroborates another's story (false or conjectural); talking as if we knew all about a matter which we do not know. chiap kàu ū-

將
瞭

接

漸
暫張
漳

章

槳
獎
長

掌

kí ũ-hiòh, one man adding a tissue of inventions to what another (truly or falsely) says, so as to give all the appearance of manifest truth.

chiap-hûn, the seam or joint, as where one piece of cloth, timber, &c., is joined to another. chiap-lék-bah, the meat of the soft loin (v. lèk).

chiap (R. id.), (Cn. tsap), juice, sap, gravy, &c. tsúi-chiap, watery juice. lin-chiap, milk flowing in small quantities from the teat. sái-chiap, watery excrement as in diarrhoea, esp. of young children.

kôe-chiap, brine of salt or pickled fish, &c. bah-chiap, gravy; sauce from the meat.

chiap (R. chiét). bák-chiap-mûng, better "bák-chiah-mûng," eye-lashes.

chiap (R. chiét), fast; quick. chiáp-chiáp, often; constantly; diligently. chiáp-chiáp-òh, constantly learning or practising. chiáp-chiáp-kóng, constantly talking. chhùi chiáp-chiáp-tân, too talkative.

kín-chiáp, rapidly. kín-chiáp-khoài, nimble; very quick, as at work. kín-thín chiáp-lim (pour and drink quickly), to manage a matter very rapidly. liám-chiáp, quick; prompt; active; energetic. liáp-chiáp, id. kha-chhiú liám-chiáp, hands and feet nimble. kóng-òe chiáp-lut-lut, to talk very fast.

chiap — chiáp chhùi-tún, to smack the lips. chhùi chiáp-chiáp-kiò, sound of smacking the lips. chhùi chiáp-chiáp-háu, id.

chiat, better chiet, chiét, q.v.

chiàu (R. tso). chiau-that (esp. T.), = tsau-that, to maltreat, &c.

chiàu [R. bright, manifest]. thien-lí chiau-chiau, Heaven's judgments very plain and manifest, as calamities on the wicked. thien-tò chiau-chiau, id.

chiàu [R. name of several plants, sometimes = col. chio]. liên-chiau, sort of red arum with large leaves. liên-chiau kiet-kó, may the arum have fruit, felicitous words at marriage, represented by two stalks of arum and a cake of dried limes. pa-chiau-si<sup>n</sup>, an ancient sort of fan (v. pa).

chiàu [R. certain parts of the body]. sam-chiau-hé, the hot principles of the upper, middle, and lower parts of the body. sam-chiau-hé toā, these hot principles very powerful, &c.

chiàu [R. scorched, grieved]. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> bûn-chiau-chiau, grieved, as at leaving relatives or friends. chiau-tsút, a sort of medicine treated with fire.

chiàu [R. to invite, a confession, = col. chio]. chiau-jîn, to confess guilt on trial. put-tá<sup>n</sup> put-chiau, unless beaten he will not confess. khut-tá<sup>n</sup> sêng-chiau, to beat violently and force to confess.

chiau-iâu, to circulate exciting tidings, as about rebellion or others faults (v. iâu). chiau-pái, a sign-board or trade mark. chiau-tsái-ông, the god of wealth.

chiàu (R. tsoàn, = col. tsùg), complete; regular; even; well mixed, as dough.

chiàu-tsùg, complete. chiàu-pī, id.; all ready. chiàu-lái, all have come. chiàu-kàu, all have arrived. chiàu-ún, regularly in good measure, as rain or work (v. ún). chiàu-hó, all right and ready, as something prepared. m-chiàu-liáu, not wholly finished. á-bê chiàu-liáu, id.

chiàu-chiàu, all alike. chiàu-chiàu beh, all of them desire. chiàu-chiàu-á-toā, all of the same size. chiàu-chiàu hiah-toā, id.

siá-khi-chiàu, write evenly. boah-khi-chiàu, spread it (as lime) evenly all over. liáp hē-i-chiàu, work it up (as clay or dough) with the hands, till it is well mixed and of uniform consistency.

chiàu [R. wood for fuel]. gū chiàu, keng thók (r.), fishermen, wood-cutters, farmers, and scholars.

chiàu [R. grieved], (cf. chiau, chhiau). chiàu-sim peh-pak, sorely grieved and distressed, as at things all going wrong. chiàu-tsō, grieved and vexed in mind. chiàu-tsúi, miserable and mournful looking.

chiàu (R. niáu<sup>n</sup>), a bird. chiàu-á, do. chiàu-chiah, birds in general. chiàu-cheh (C.), id. koe-chiàu, fowls and birds in general.

chiàu-chi<sup>n</sup>, a malicious demon in the form of a bird; a person who is too sharp and cunning. hé-chiàu, an ill-omened bird supposed to appear about a fire; a boy who is over sharp, cunning, forward, or impudent. gán-chiàu, a man who is more knowing or skilful, or better at talking than others, and so naturally takes the lead. thâu-bák-chiàu, do. but with more influence.

teh chiàu-á-koà, to divine by a bird picking out one lot from several. tiau-hoe kheh-chiàu, to carve wood in general. chiàu-lái, a wild pear. chiàu-táh-chhì, a thorn with a yellow leguminous flower. chiàu-á-hún, white pigment for the face, in small bits. chiàu-kha, legs without calves. khiàng-chiàu, appearance like squinting, when the skin of the eye is drawn up at the corner; cross-eyed. bák-chiu tsóh-chiàu, id. bák-chiu phah-chiàu, id. phah-chiàu, to shoot birds. bâng-chiàu, to catch birds by a net.

chiàu-kang, a male bird. chiàu-kak, id. chiàu-bú, a female bird that has laid eggs, or of that age. chiàu-bôe, a decoy bird. chiàu-chhèng, a small-bore fowling-piece. chiàu-tauh, a sort of snare for birds. chiàu-siū, a nest. chiàu-lâng, a cage. chiàu-lú, a bird's cup. chiàu-táh, a roost, as in a cage.

chiàu-tsún, a junk, with picture of bird on stern. chháu-chiàu, boats that carry grass and shrubs for fuel; boats like them in size and shape. chiàu-chhùi, a bird's beak or bill; the two projections at the bow of a junk, between which the windlass is placed. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chiàu-chhùi, a junk with blue bow (Cantonese). chiàu-chhùi, gū kha-chhng (bird's beak, but cow's posteriors), little coming in, but much going out.

chiàu (R. chiá). chiàu-hu, = chí-hu, husband of elder sister. goán-chiàu--ê, my elder sister's husband.

chiàu (R. tiáu). lân-chiàu, the penis.

chiàu (R. id.), an imperial decree. chiàu-tsu, id. chiàu-si (C.), id. pan-chiàu, to publish abroad an imperial decree. sià-chiàu, an imperial decree of pardon. chih-chiàu, to receive the imperial commands with ceremonies, as the mandarins do. tî-chiàu (R.), imperial last will and testament.

chiàu [R. to shine, = col. chiò; to protect], according to.

chiàu-kê, to protect; to take care of; to take charge of. chiàu-èng, to assist and befriend. chiàu-koán, to take charge of, as a house. chiàu-iâu, to assist (as by influence) and make prosperous (v. iâu).

chiàu-kū, as formerly; as before. chiàu-goán, id. chiàu-siông, according to the usual manner.

chiàu-sit, to tell the truth. chiàu-sit-kóng, to speak truthfully. lóng-bô chiàu-kóng, not according to the truth. chiàu-khí-kang, according to what is right, orderly, or proper. chiàu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. chiàu-tsòe, doing work diligently and well. chiàu-iū<sup>n</sup>, according to the pattern. chiàu-khoán, id.

汁
敏捷

遭
昭 焦

焦 招

齊全

樵
焦
鳥

姐
詔
照

chiaù-ûn, in regular turn, as in play. chiaù-pái, in one's proper turn. chiaù-lûn, by turns; in regular and proper succession. chiaù-lûn-liú, id. chiaù-oe, id. chiaù-pái, arranged in proper order. chiaù-kah, mixed in proper proportions, as good and bad cash. chiaù-phòe, in proper proportion. chiaù-puu, dividing equally among all; in equal parts. chiaù-khui, to divide into equal parts. chiaù-thoa", to divide expenses in fair proportions.

chiauh — chiauh-khok-jí, to toss up small rounded stones, as children in play. chiauh jí-á, id. chiauh-kun, id.

chiauh (C.), = A. chiauh. chiauh-chiauh-háu, incessant talking, &c.

chiauh (C. chiauh). chiauh-chiauh-háu, incessant talking; sound of mouth in eating. chhùi-chiauh-chiauh-háu, id.

chiên [R. thick rice-gruel]. tá"-chiên, to take a meal (as a mandarin) at a road-side stage; said politely by inn-keepers to travellers.

chiên [R. carpet; felt, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>]. mē"-chiên, a sort of coarse hairy stuff. tē-chieh, a carpet. tōe-chieh, id. jiōng-chieh, a hairy rug. téng-chieh ē-jiók, soft mattresses and coverlets, above and below, as in bed of a rich man.

chiên (R. id. = col. tsoa<sup>n</sup>, chí<sup>n</sup>), to fry with little fat; to melt (as silver) in purifying. chiên-iú, to fry in little fat. chiên-khì-se, fry till crisp. chiên-ké, to fry steamed cakes. chiên-chhâ, to fry crisp by stirring constantly. chiên-tsoán, to fry and then boil (v. tsoán).

chiên-poâ", a flat frying-pan. chiên-sí, a spoon for stirring things in frying. chiên-te, sort of fried cake. boán-chieh, sort of cake rolled up and fried. koán-chieh, id. koán-chieh-ko, id.

kheng-chieh, to fuse and cast large quantities of (sycee) silver in pieces (phòng-sim) of ten taels each; formerly done in Amoy; not done now. kheng-chieh-hâng, a sort of mint (licensed by the mandarins) for this work. khui-kheng-chieh, to have such a mint; said of the company or firm that holds such a license. lóh-chieh, to melt (as silver) in purifying.

chiên [R. unlucky]. tso-chieh, to meet with bad luck. tun-chieh (R.), unlucky, as a man.

chiên (R. id.), fine glossy paper in large sheets (of various colours), used for scrolls, &c. chiên-tsoá, id. chiang-chiu-chieh, do. from Chang-chew. se-chieh, do. from Soo-chow. lách-chieh, a very smooth waxed sort of paper.

chiên [R. = col. chêng, before]. chiông-chieh, formerly. gán-chieh, at present. hong-chieh-chiok (candle before the wind), said of an old man's life. ku-chieh-chháu, plantago (v. ku). ú-chieh (before the rain), a sort of tea (young Hyson?).

chiên-têng, persons who have a degree, civil or military. chiên-pòe, persons one generation (or more) above us in the genealogical tree, as parents, uncles, and their cousins, &c. chiên-hē (r.), before and after. chiên-iá", the van of the army (one of the five divisions); the commander of it. chiên-thia", his assistant.

chiên [R. a coin; money, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>]. chiên-kok su-iâ, the mandarin's private secretary and adviser who attends to the land-tax and grain (v. kok). iú-chieh--chiá seng, bū-chieh--chiá sú, money decides life or death, said of bribes.

chiên (R. id.) chiên-hêng, to give a man a parting feast, before he makes a long journey, or goes abroad. chiên-hêng ê chiú-toh, such a parting feast.

chiên (C.), = A. chit. chiên--ê, this; these. put-chí chiên--ê, very —, said as an elliptical expression, when the speaker does not just know how to end the sentence, or wishes to suggest "very bad" or "very improper" without exactly saying so.

chiên —. chiên-á, the book-worm, that eats books and clothes. chiên-á-thâng, id. chiên-tsoáh, id.

chiên (R. id.), to cut with shears or with a hinged knife; to buy, as cloth and medicines. chiên-jiōng, to buy stag's horn medicine; also, a sort of flower. chiên-ióh, to buy a dose of medicine; to cut down medicinal plants small with a hinged knife. chiên-som, to buy ginseng. chiên-pê, to buy cotton cloth. chiên-ní", to buy woollen cloth.

chiên-liú, a pickpocket. chiên-chè, to prepare medicinal plants by cutting and by fire.

ka-chieh, scissors. siú-chieh, small scissors used by dressmakers, sempstresses, &c. chek-chieh, candle-snuffers. gūn-chieh, strong shears for clipping silver. ióh-chieh, a knife on a hinge for slicing medicines.

chiên [R. an arrow, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>]. jit-goát jū-so: kong-im sū-chieh, days and months are like a shuttle; days and nights like an arrow.

chiên (R. id.), to recommend or introduce, as for a situation. kú-chieh, id. chiên--lâng, id. ín-chieh, id. ngí"-chieh, to recommend very urgently for a situation, generally engaging to be security for him. tit-thàu-chieh, id.

bit-chieh, fruits preserved with sugar, &c., for idolatrous worship. bit-chieh thâg-kó, id. ta-chieh, dry sorts, wrapped in paper or put on a tray. tâm-chieh, preserves, jellies, &c. (same use), put on a frame or basket. chiên-áp, a few sweet things offered to idols (v. áp).

chiên [R. to fight; to shake and tremble]. kau-chieh, to fight in battle. tá"-chieh, id. cheng-chieh, id. chhut-chieh, to go out to war or battle. toā-chieh, a great battle or series of battles. tsú-chieh, a naval battle. chiên-tsu, a challenge to battle. hā chiên-tsu, to send a challenge. thó-chieh, to challenge to battle. koat-sí-chieh, to fight for life or death. tsē-chieh, to help in battle. chiên-tin, to be engaged in battle, as armies.

chiên-kah, a coat of mail. chiên-tsún, a ship of war. hé-hun-chieh, a war steamer. chiên-ké, a war-drum. lūi chiên-ké, to beat the war-drum. chiên-bé, a war-horse. chiên-peng, soldiers for battle, better than those for garrison. chiên-hiōng, this better class of soldiers, drawing more pay.

chiên-kioh, good at fighting, as a soldier; good at any work, as workman. chiên-chiōng, good at warfare, as a military officer; bold and skilful at managing any affair.

sim kia", tá" chiên, very much terrified. chiú chiên (R.), hand shaking.

chiên (R. id.), (C. tsán). chiên-pâng, a storehouse; a godown. chiên-pâng-sè, rent or charges for use of storehouse or godown. thiap chiên-pâng-sè, to pay warehouse dues or charges. tē-chieh, a godown or storehouse for tea.

chiên (R. id. = col. tsoá<sup>n</sup>), mean; low and coarse; my (in some phrases) in polite expressions.

即
蟬
剪

箭 薦

戰

棧

賤

饅
糰

煎

遭
笈
前

錢

錢

iàm-chiên, to reject with disgust.

chiên-bêng, my name. chiên-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. pi-chiên, in a low or humble position. hã-chiên, mean, as employment or station. pin-chiên, very poor. chit-ê chiên-jin, what a low fellow! said in scolding an inferior for acting very improperly. phoat-chiên, fond of scolding and quarrelling, said only of a woman. chhàu-chiên, very mean and low, as character; very worthless, as a thing. chhàu-chiên-kut, having a mean manner or appearance, as a rich man wearing mean clothes, or associating with low characters; also said of an over-humble manner, as of a man who will not accept our hospitality in full, e.g. sleeping on floor when asked to take a bed, or sitting on a stool instead of a chair. chhàu-chiên-siòng, id. chiên-kut-siòng, id.; also said of oneself (when reproving an idle inferior), "I go through hard work."

chiên, to play as children, rather in a troublesome way. chiên-thâng (troublesome insect!), said in scolding a child. chiên-chhiú, over-playful and troublesome, restless and mischievous, as a child. chiên-kha chiên-chhiú, id. kha-chhiú chiên, id.

chhiú chiên, fond of pilfering small things, &c.

gâu-chiên (C.), joking; practical jokes; mischievous. bô-gâu-chiên (C.), this is a serious matter; this is no joke; dangerous or serious, as state of affairs.

chiêt [R. a joint, a term, circumstances or items, chastity, moderation, = col. tsoeh, tsat.]

sù-si pat-chiêt, the four seasons and eight principal terms of the year.

chiêt-tsàu, to memorialize or report to the emperor. phâu-chiêt, to carry an express despatch from a high mandarin to the emperor.

koan-chiêt, having secret underhand dealings with officials, so as to have one's matters settled. thong koan-chiêt, id. siáu-chiêt-bók, unimportant, as of matters, money, &c. chêng-chiêt, circumstances of a case. liók-chiêt, all the circumstances, particulars, or reasons of an affair, very minutely and plainly. to-chi-chiêt, troublesome or confused with many details, as an affair; troublesome to deal with, as a man who is changing his mind or plans, or raising some new troublesome item. kâu-chi-chiêt, id. toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup> chi-chiêt, id. chi-chiêt-chiêt, id.

chiêt-khiâm, careful and economical. bô-chiêt-chè, too free and lavish in the use of money (v. chè). ù khi-chiêt, to have such self-respect or conscience, as not to meddle with shameful or improper matters. liâm-chiêt, correct in behaviour, not covetous or improper. tiong-hàu liâm-chiêt, faithful, filial, pure, and not covetous. chiêt-chhò (R.), keeping one's character free from stain. bêng-chiêt, good character. pài-bêng sit-chiêt, to ruin one's own character for ever, as by adultery, or some very great and shameful wickedness. oân-bêng tsoân-chiêt, reputation perfectly good in life and death; esp. of a widow or a mandarin; said also of an affair managed well from first to last, and brought to a good termination.

cheng-chiêt, pure and chaste, as a virgin, or as a widow refusing to marry again. chiêt-hàu, do. and remarkably filial (v. hàu). chiêt-hng, an archway in memory of such a lady. chiêt-hū, a widow who never marries again. chiu-chiêt, to remain always so. chiêt-lú, a perpetual virgin, as on account of the death of her betrothed, or some other important reason. chiêt-hū liêt-lú, constant widows and suicidal virgins. chiêt-liêt, committing suicide for such a cause, as a virgin or widow. chin-chiêt, to commit suicide, as a widow; or as a mandarin in the hands of enemies, &c. kái-chiêt, to marry again, as a widow.

chiêt [R. to break, to deduct], to reduce (as money) from one denomination to another; to take off discount; to make a composition for a debt, by money or goods; to contradict to one's face.

iáu-chiêt, short-lived. chiêt-hok, to diminish the fated portion of one's own good fortune; said of a man taking his full swing of the power, honour, or pleasure within his reach; or of a too fastidious man, refusing good common food; or of a careless thoughtless fellow, living above his income.

chiêt--lâng, to contradict a man to his face. tng-bîn chiêt--lâng, id. kóng-òe chiêt--lâng, id. chiêt lêng-ê-òe, id.

chhut-bi-chiêt, to pay money in lieu of rations to soldiers. chiong-mih<sup>n</sup> chiêt-gûn, to compound for a debt by goods or articles valued at so much. chiong-mih<sup>n</sup> chiêt-chi<sup>n</sup>, id.

chiêt-khò-sia<sup>n</sup>, to reduce to dollars (v. sia<sup>n</sup>). chiêt-gûn, to reduce to dollars or taels. chiêt-chi<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, to reduce from taels or dollars to cash. chiêt-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. chiêt pháí<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to allow a due measure of discount when all the cash are good, because custom allows several bad cash in each hundred.

chhú-chiêt, to pay only a percentage or composition. chhi-chiêt (C.), id. chhú-chiêt hêng--i, to make a composition for the debt. kã--i chhú-chiêt, id. hō--i chhú-chiêt, to accept a percentage as payment of the debt. chhú-pat-chiêt, to pay 80 per cent.

thêh-chiêt, to accept a percentage as payment. liáh-chiêt, to take off discount, as on price of goods. pat-chiêt, taking off or allowing 20 per cent. discount, or reckoning a composition at 80 per cent. (s. joint). tsòe-pat-chiêt-sng, id. tsòe-poeh-chiêt-poã<sup>n</sup>, taking off 15 per cent. discount. chiêt-siàu, to take a composition on a debt.

phah-chiêt, to take off discount, as on price of goods, or as on a dollar that has some fault. phah-chiêt-thâu, id. bô-chiêt-thâu, an enormous discount taken off, e.g. about half the price on goods slightly damaged. bōe--liáu, bô-chiêt-thâu, to sell at a great loss. iáu-ū chiêt-thâu, the discount though large is not ruinous, causing little or no loss on the cost price.

thó-chiêt, to collect or demand a percentage on a debt that cannot be paid in full. thó kúi-chiêt, what percentage have you recovered? thó ũ-kúi-chiêt, id. thó-poàn-chiêt, to get 50 per cent. thó-chhit-chiêt, to get 70 per cent.

chiêt, rancid; having a tainted smell. bī chiêt-chiêt, the smell is tainted or rancid. chhàu-chiêt, having a tainted smell, as salted fish, &c. chiêt-bī, id. au-chiêt, id.

chiêt — bák-chiêt (T.), a shell-fish like the "tbé-poe," but larger.

chiêt (R. id.) chiêt-kang, Chekiang province. bân-chiêt, the two provinces of Fuh-kien and Cbekiang.

chiêt [R. quick]. liáu-chiêt, quick, as at seeing what course is best in the case; good at determining and acting with decision; ready at understanding when the case is hopeless, accepting the situation and making the best of it. kîn-chiêt, quick in general. bin-chiêt, clever, talented, skilful, or energetic.

liên-chiêt, passing rapidly up from one honour or office to another in succession. kán-chiêt, abridged, for clearness or brevity; in summary.

折

節

浙捷

截

chiét [R. to cut off, to obstruct, = col. tsáh, tsòeh]. chiét-tê chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kiap, highway robbery. chiét-tiông pé-toán (to cut the long to mend the short), to make up what is deficient in one by what is over in another, e.g. to excuse a man's faults for his other excellencies. chiét-chí, to terminate, as a stated payment at a fixed date. chiét lāng-ê-ôe, to interrupt a man when speaking (v. ôe). poân-chiét-béh, stockings of two colours or stuffs joined in middle. poân-chiét-i, a dress of which the body and skirt are of different stuffs. poân-chiét-té, half wood and half plastered (above and below), as a partition; half wood and half glass, as a door.

bát-chiét, securely closed; closely shut up, so that one cannot see in or steal.

chih (R. chiap), to receive, esp. with ceremony. chih-lāi, id. chih-chiap, to receive, as a friend or customer (v. chiap). ngiá-chih, to go out and receive, as a friend or visitor. tán-chih, to go out and wait for (v. tán). chih lāng-kheh, to receive visitors or guests. chih-sín, to receive the spirits when they come down again on 1. 4. chih-pút, to receive (with offerings, &c.) an idol carried in procession. chih-pán, to receive the coffin into the house. chih hoán-tsú, to receive the tablet after the burial. chih-chiáu, to kneel and receive the imperial commands.

chih-tsài-bōe-tiâu, too heavy to bear, as a load or a disease. chih-koa<sup>n</sup>-têng, sheds for mandarins resting on journeys.

chih — chih-tsub, mischievous, properly said only of children.

chih (R. chiap? liap?), to fold; to turn down, as a leaf. chih-kim, to fold idolatrous imitation gold paper. chih-tsoá, to fold paper. chih-sa<sup>n</sup>, to fold clothes. chih-hūn, a crease; a mark left by folding.

chhiú-chih, a small memorandum-book for the pocket, folded back and forwards. chhiú-chih-á, id. khioh-chih, made to fold in alternate folds, as a bamboo sail. chia chit-chih, take out one reef of such a folding-sail.

chih (Cn.), chih--gê, = chit-ê, this.

chih (R. siét), the tongue. chih-ê, the part of the mouth below the tongue. chih-thâu, the root of the tongue; the tongue. chih-thâu ngi<sup>n</sup>, thick indistinct speaking. chih-bé, the point of the tongue. tiòh chih-bé, to lisp and speak somewhat indistinctly. tiuh chih-bé, id. tiuh chih-kun, to speak very indistinctly, having great difficulty in getting out the words, the initial consonant being indistinct or wanting altogether. tiòh chih-kun, id. chih-kun té (string of tongue short), said of man about to die. kóng-ôe, té-chih-kun, stuttering or stammering. liáh lāng--ê chih-kun, to catch peoples' meaning from casual hints in their talk, as fortune-tellers, &c. oân-kúi thiu-chih-kun, said of a man unexpectedly manifesting his own guilt before a mandarin. têng-chih, stuttering or stammering. toā-chih-káu, speaking with difficulty and indistinctness, as from a large tongue, or in great sickness. toā-chih-kiet, id.

chih-á, the uvula. hé-chih, a tongue of flame. niau<sup>n</sup>-chih, a cat's tongue; a sort of edible fish. hé-chih-lôe, a coarse file (lit. tiger's tongue). hé-chih-tauh, the self-acting bolt of a latch or lock, such that a key is needed to open it. koe-chih-táu, projections below the ends of beams in roof of a Chinese house (lit. fowl's tongue). ke-chih-á (C.), a sort of spear with a straight flat blade.

thé-chih, to protrude the tongue. tsoá thé-chih, self-acting bolt of a lock; also, the end of a beam projecting through a wooden pillar; also, the sloping pavement at the gate of a yamun. nà<sup>n</sup>-chih, to put out the tongue for a moment, as in wonder or fear. koah-chih, to cut out the tongue in punishment; also, an enchanter's trick.

gâu-túg chih-koan, good at putting the best face on a story, or a new face on an argument, when pressed hard, without any regard to truth. goá ká--lí liám-chih, I will pull out your tongue (said to children, &c., when talking improperly). m-kia<sup>n</sup>--i liám-chih, I am not afraid of his finding fault with what I say. bô-lāng-tí<sup>n</sup> goá-ê-chih, there is no one who can keep me silent.

chhùi-chih, the mouth and tongue. ū-chhùi-chih, good at making polite talk, as with visitors, &c. in-chhùi in-chih, always taking the last word. ôh-chhùi ôh-chih, to repeat a man's words in his presence in a mocking way; to repeat to a man what has been said against him behind his back. boá-chhùi boá-chih, to talk a great deal to no purpose. chhùi chiam, chih lái, too fond of talking, often so as to give offence without meaning it. chhùi tí<sup>n</sup>, chih kút, words soft and deceitful. chhit-chhùi poeh-chih, equivocating and lying. lún-chhùi khiú<sup>n</sup>-chih, to restrain one's appetite or one's anger so as to keep silent. khang-chhùi pē-chih (chewing one's tongue in an empty mouth), to make false, deceitful promises. chit-chhùi thoân-chit-chih, to pass from mouth to mouth, as a report. chhùi kap-chih ū-si sa<sup>n</sup>-kháp (or "sa<sup>n</sup>-gū<sup>n</sup>"), even friends and relatives sometimes quarrel.

chih (R. chiet), to break. at-chih, to break, as a stick, &c. chih-li-lí, broken quite asunder. chih-hūn, mark of a fracture, esp. after it is mended. chih-thâu, broken at the head (s. tongue). chih-bé, broken at the point or tail (s. tongue). phī<sup>n</sup>-oa<sup>n</sup> chih, nose naturally too flat between the eyes (v. phī<sup>n</sup>). phah-chih lāng--ê ké-pi<sup>n</sup>, to cut short a man's talk so that he does not gain his end. kut chih, bah lih, flesh and bones broken. kha khê, chhiú chih, foot distorted and arm broken.

tsoān--chih, to break by twisting, e.g. a key in a lock. tsām--chih, to break by stamping on. tsām--chih, to sever by one blow of a chisel. tsām chih, the chisel is broken. knng--chih, to break (as a pole) by too heavy a weight in the middle. tàng--chih, to pinch off, as a flower. hiáp--chih, to break by bending back and forwards, as a nail. kháp--chih, to break by accidentally running against. khò--chih, to break by accidentally pressing upon. chē--chih, do. by sitting on. teh--chih, do. by falling on. ūn--chih, do. by coming against.

chim [R. to pour out gently, careful], to kiss. sa<sup>n</sup>-chim, to kiss. kha sa<sup>n</sup>-chim, toes turned inwards in walking. chim i-ê-kha, to kiss his feet. chim-chhùi, to kiss the lips. chim chhùi-tún, id. chim chhùi-phóe, to kiss the cheek.

chim chit-tiám-á, to taste a very little, as wine (cf. "lim" and "chip").

chim-chiok, to consider carefully; to be cautious, as in examining well before acting.

chim [R. moral maxims], (C. tsoin). chim-giēn (R.), moral maxims; (X.) the book of Proverbs. siú koan-chim (R.), following the proper rules of mandarin action. i--ê koan-chim hó, his conduct as a mandarin is good.

接

摺

舌

折

斟

箴

尋
蟬

chím [R. sìm, to search], C. = A. jím, to feel in one's pocket for a thing.

chím (R. sìm), a crab. sə-khak-chím, a good firm, full crab. chím-jín, eggs or roe in the crab. chím-ko, soft yellowish meat in male crab. chím-m̄, the round excrescence on belly of female crab. chím-kóng, crab's pincers. chím-kóng-bah, the large thick muscle between a man's thumb and finger, said to be wanting in men who have a tendency to leprosy. chím-kóng-ngéh, surrounding an enemy by two troops meeting.

pàng-chím, to put out wicker-work baskets to catch crabs. chím-hé, a sort of fish that feeds on crabs.

枕

chím [R. a pillow], (Cn. chiám).
âu-chím, the projecting part of the back of the head just where the neck joins. thâu-khak-chím, id. chím-thâu-kut, the bone at that place. chím-kut, id. thâu-âu-chím (Cn.), that part of the head. chím-tsu, a large boil or carbuncle on back of neck. chím-âu-eng (C.), id. ut-chím, neck stiff and sore from sleeping in a constrained position.

khò-chím, the cushioned back of a ceremonial couch (slightly raised) for resting the elbow. tín-chím, a rattan pillow. oan-iu<sup>n</sup>-chím, a pair of pillows given to a young couple, as symbol of love (v. iu<sup>n</sup>).

chím-thâu, a pillow. chím-thâu-siu<sup>n</sup>, a long narrow box made to be used as a pillow, and for holding valuables. chím-thâu-tê, a pillow-case (foreign). chím-thâu-thò, do. without ends. chím-thò, id.

chím (R. id.), (C. sìm), wife of father's younger brother; title of elderly women. á-chím, do. in addressing her. m̄ chím, aunts-in-law, in general.

sió-chím, wife of younger brother, when said of a man; wife of husband's younger brother, when said of a woman. chím-pò, wife of paternal grandfather's younger brother; form of addressing an old woman.

chím (R. id.), to soak, to steep, to soak in. chím-khi-thau, soak it thoroughly. chím-tsúi, to soak in water. chím-tsúi-chhá, wood that is water-logged or saturated with water. chím-chiú, to soak in liquor, as medicine. chím-mih<sup>n</sup> ê-chiú, liquor in which things have been steeped to improve the flavour. chím tê-á-iú, to steep fragrant things in camellia oil to make hair-oil. chím thng-sng, to dissolve sugar-candy in water.

chím-tsú, quite soaked, as a field with constant rains. chím-tâm, soaked by being steeped. chím--sí, to be drowned.

chím-lé (X.), baptism by immersion (lit. by soaking). chím-lé-kàu (X.) the Baptist church or system. chím-khī, the yellow persimmon.

chím--tsúi-chím (T.), name of a bird = "tsúi-khām-chhē<sup>n</sup>," or "hí-chhiok."

chím (T.), = A. jím, in the names of many places, e.g. "chiòh-chím."

chín [R. tin, precious]. chín-tsu, a pearl.

chín (R. id.), real; correct; really true; very —. chín-sit, true. chín-chià<sup>n</sup>, really, truly. chín bô-ióh, certainly there is no resource. chín-sim, a true heart. chín-ké, real and counterfeit (v. ké). chín-sí, really dead.

tàng-chín, certainly. téng-chín, of first-rate excellence (as things); very strict, as a master (or man with whom we have dealings) who will not let faults pass. têng-chín, to write out the fair copy from a scroll. kó-chín (r.), certainly. jín-chín, diligent in one's duty and proper work. ũ ki<sup>n</sup>-chín ê-sé-tsai, sufficient proof of the truth can be given. khêng-chín, to examine into the real facts, as of a rumour (v. khêng). thia<sup>n</sup>-bô-chín, to make a mistake in hearing. lí tiòh-thia<sup>n</sup>-khi-chín, take care that you hear exactly. chín-hó, very good.

goá chin-á m̄-tsai, really I do not know. goá chin-tiu<sup>n</sup> m̄-tsai, id. bô-chín-tiu<sup>n</sup>, not certainly. bô-chín-tiu<sup>n</sup> beh-khì, he does not seem to intend to go. ki<sup>n</sup>-chín-tiu<sup>n</sup>, when it comes to the reality (not mere talk). ki<sup>n</sup>-chín-tiu<sup>n</sup>, chiū m̄-ká<sup>n</sup>, when it comes to the reality, then he dares not. chín-kim put-phá<sup>n</sup>-hé, real gold does not fear the fire. hè chin, kè sit, the articles are good and the price fixed.

chín chhó, thoàn lê, four sorts of Chinese characters.

kàng-chín, incense used in the worship of "thi<sup>n</sup>-kong," kàng-chín-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id.

chín-bú tè-kun, name of an idol, = hiên-thien siōng-tê. sun-chín-jín, a Taoist priest of the surname "sun," deified as god of medicine. tiu<sup>n</sup>-chín-jín, another idol. tiu<sup>n</sup>-chín-kun, id. khé-chín-jín, another idol of surname "khé." gê-chín-jín, another (v. gê).

chín [R. seng, to ascend; a measure], a small measure,  $\frac{1}{10}$  of a "táu;" sometimes called a pint or a catty, but not exactly. bí-chín, a small rice-measure. chit-chín-bí, one "chín" of rice.

tsúi-chín, a dipper for a bath, for lading out water, made with one straight handle.

chín [R. a ferry; to moisten]. thien-chín, the city Tien-tsin (Cn. thien-tin). bô-chín-ék, wanting moisture in mouth and throat (v. ék).

chín — koa<sup>n</sup>-chín, a large reed used in making partitions, &c. (v. koa<sup>n</sup>).

chín — chhi<sup>n</sup>-chín, a sudden start or impulse, acting in a sudden impulsive way.

chín — tsúi chin, hí-hièn, when the water is clear the fish appear (better "chheng"); innocence will come clear at last.

chín (C.), = A. cheng. kut-chín-hóe, a sort of disease; v. cheng.

chín (R. séng); a line for use in building, &c., for making a straight line; a plummet or chalk-line, &c. chín-soh, id. chín-soà<sup>n</sup>, id. hún-chín, a chalk-line, used by tailors, &c. bák-thâu-chín, a line used with a black powder; an ink line.

khan-chín, to stretch a line, as a building-line or ink-line, &c. toá<sup>n</sup>-chín, to touch the stretched line with the finger, so as to make the mark. túi-chín, to apply the plumb-line, making it hang down. tùi-chín, made according to the prescribed rule or proper pattern. ôe-túi-chín, sure to succeed, as a request, &c.

tsún-chín, a pattern or rule (fig.) ũ-tsún-chín, accurate, as instrument or workman; truthful or correct, as conduct. bák-chiú ũ-tsún-chín, able to measure at a glance, or to touch any point one may wish.

chín (R. id.), the state of Tsin, at the N. W. of the empire, one of the greatest states of the Chow dynasty; the dynasty that overthrew the Chow; a surname; to be carefully distinguished from "chín."

chín-tiâu, the Tsin dynasty, between the Chow (chiú) and the Hàn. chín-sí-ông, the tyrant who overthrew the Chow dynasty, changed the feudal empire into a centralized empire, and built the great wall.

chín (R. thien). pô-chín thien-bút, to use things wastefully, = pê-chéng thien-bút.

chín (R. id.) chín-chè, to assist by alms.

孀

浸

進 尋
珍
真

升

津
棒
新
真
清

繩

秦

珍
真

chín (R. id.) chín-kiù (R.), to deliver. chín-khí (R.), to bring into prosperity (as a god); to become prosperous and flourishing.

chín (R. id.), a state of the Chow dynasty, not nearly so famous as "chín," from which it is to be carefully distinguished; a dynasty.

chín-tiâu, the Chin or Tsin dynasty, divided into the Eastern and Western Tsin, A.D. 265-419.

chín-kang, the district (Hien) in which Chin-chew city (tsóan-chiu-hú) stands. chín-kang-koái, id. chín-kang-lí, said of a very stingy miserly man.

chín (R. id.), one of the eight diagrams. chín-koá, id.

chín (C.), = A. chêng, witness.

chín [R. to enter]; to advance (lit. or fig.); to pay (as tribute); to offer (as ceremonial offerings); to become a graduate.

chín-chêng, to advance; formerly. sái-bōe-chín, to make no progress in sailing, as from contrary tide. chiám-chín, to make gradual progress. chín-pē, to make progress, as in learning or excellence. chín-tek, to make progress in learning. chín-iah, to advance in wealth, &c. chín-ek, to make progress in literary excellence. thiam-teng chín-tsái, get more sons and more wealth. chín-chí (Cn.), a bird like a small magpie (= tsúí-khām-chbē), supposed to be an omen of increasing wealth.

chióng-chín, to grow rich, from a state of poverty, by one's own exertions. put-chióng-chín, idle and ill-behaved, without sense of shame, so as to be of no use in the world; said especially of the unworthy descendants of diligent and honoured parents. put-chióng-chín-hàn, id.

áu-chín, the back part of a house; posterity, esp. good. phái<sup>n</sup>-áu-chín, bad descendants. hē-chín, posterity who are a credit to their parents or ancestors.

chín-tsòe, to marry a wife and stay for a time in her father's house. chín-pâng, to enter the bridal chamber, as the bride does about the beginning of the marriage rites at the husband's house.

chín-kòng, to pay tribute. chín-chiok, to obtain a higher grade of nobility; to present a cup in worshipping the spirits. chín-chíu, to bring forward wine in worship. chín-siēn, to bring forward offerings of rice, &c., for the spirits. chín-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to bring the incense-stick to the principal worshipper, that he may present it in worship; to bring incense from a more sacred temple. chín-tsú, to introduce an ancestral tablet into the ancestral hall. chín-tsóng, to place the coffin in the grave.

ín-chín, to introduce; to recommend, as a person or a friend, as for employment. ín-chín thâu-lē, to get a situation for another.

chín-sū, a graduate of the third degree; a Tsin-sze (v. sū). chín-tiòng, to get a degree, in general. chín-óh, to become a Sew-tsae (siu-tsái). chín-bún-óh, to become a literary Sew-tsai. chín-bú-óh, to become a military Sew-tsai. pī-chín (lit. ready for entering), candidates for the Sew-tsae degree whose essays are good enough, but who fail to get the degree because the legal number is made up; they are expected to graduate next year.

chín-thè, to advance and to retire. chín-chín thè-thè, hesitating in manner. chín-put-chín, thè-put-thè, in a very troublesome dilemma. chín-thè líóng-lân, id. chín-thòe líóng-lân, id. tsai-chín-thòe, knowing what should be done or not done in given circumstances. chín-chêng thè-áu, to go forward or draw back, as troops, or as a party in a quarrel. chín-m-chín, thè-m-thè, very irresolute in purpose; will not choose either way. lát-hí hó-chín, m-chín; bé-ka hó-thè, m-thè, the "lát" could easily push on through the net, as its head is large; the "bé-ka" could draw back, as its head is small: but each tries the opposite, and is caught; said of a man in trouble doing just the worst thing he could.

chín (R. id.), to complete; to exhaust; exceedingly; to the utmost.

tsū-chín, to commit suicide. chín-chiet, to commit suicide, as a widow; or as a mandarin fallen among enemies. siū-sè kai-chín, the fated time having come, one must die.

chín-thâu, to the very end; to the utmost. chín-bé, the very end. chín-tsái, exceedingly. chín-hó, exceedingly good. chín-chit, to fulfil all the duties of one's office. chín-tiòng, thoroughly faithful. chín-sim, with all the heart. chín-lát, with all the strength. hùi-chín sim-lát, to exert one's self very much, as in managing an affair. chín-chêng, to exert one's self to the utmost for another.

chín-hoat-pân, to examine into and punish a crime with the full rigour of law. siū-chín hong-song, much exposed to wind and frost, as travellers. chín-hong sái, to sail as near the wind as is possible with full sails. chín-phâng sái, id.; said also of exerting one's influence to the very utmost. m-thang chín-lióng, do not use your influence, &c., to the very utmost. chín-liáng-kú (C.), very very long time. chín-kun, leaving no power of redemption, as in sale of property.

liáu-chín, all expended. bô-liáu bô-chín, endless; inexhaustible. bōe-chín, boundless. kóng-bōe-chín, subject inexhaustible. kám-un put-chín, thanks boundless. bô-kióng-chín, without limit or end. bū-kióng-chín, id. bū-kióng bū-chín, id. tsái kióng, lék chín, strength and resources all spent.

chio [R. chiau, plantain, arum, &c.] gêng-chio, the plantain; the banana. keng-chio, id. gē-chio (C.), id. chit-ki gêng-chio, a whole stalk of plantains; the whole produce of one plant. chit-pí gêng-chio, one whole bunch making a complete circle round the stem, which is cut across. chit-ê gêng-chio, one single fruit of plantain. chit-tiâu gêng-chio, id. chit-tsâng gêng-chio, one plant of plantain.

pa-chio, a tree like plantain with a large leaf (v. pa). bí-jín-chio, a sort of red arum. ún-tsúi-chio, a medical plant (sort of arum?). ín-tsúi-chio, id. chio-hiòh, leaf of plantain or arum.

chio-koah, a very strong yellowish stuff (colour of plantain), made of cotton and coarse silk mixed; it is hard, rough, and absorbs perspiration, so as to be cool though thick. chio-á-pè, id. chio-á-sa<sup>n</sup>, dress made of it. chio-sa<sup>n</sup>, id. chio--ê, made of this stuff.

chio (R. chiau). hē-chio, pepper. hē-chio-kóng, a pepper-box. hē-chio-hoe, a pattern like small flowers, cut on wood-work, or printed on foreign calico. chio-liáu, spices for cooking. hoa-chio, a sort of white pepper. hoe-chio, id.

chio (R. chiau), to invite; to call; to beckon; to enlist, as soldiers; to call in, as confederates or converts; a written confession of guilt; a beacon set on a rock or bank; to get a son-in-law who adopts the surname of the family he marries into.

振

石

日

震

進

書

蕉

椒

招

chio-bē, to enlist (soldiers). chio gī-bīn, to enlist volunteers or militia. chio-ióng, id. chio-kun bóe-bé (enlist an army and buy horses), said in scolding children for making noisy play with companions.

chio-hē, to propose a sort of subscription club for mutual help. chio gâu-láng, to invite wise men to take office or employment.

chio kiá<sup>n</sup>-sài, to take a man into the family as son-in-law, so that he changes his surname. hē-láng-chio, to marry thus, taking the surname of the bride, and becoming a member of their family. chio-hu ióng-tsú, to get a second husband that he may take care of the children.

chio sió-tī, to invite a younger brother to be born, as the elder children are supposed to do. chio-hūn, to invite the soul of the dead (shortly after death), as is always done. chhit-jit chio-hūn, to do so on the seventh day after death.

chio-in, to invite, as to do something. chio-chip, to call together, as for some enterprise. sa<sup>n</sup>-chio-io, to lead one another to do anything (v. io). khah-kōe-chio, readily going along with others when asked (good or bad). chio-hē, to talk in a polite and hospitable manner to visitors or customers. chio-kheh, to invite customers by polite talk. chio-bóe chio-bōe, to invite to buy and sell. chio-pái, a sign-board with characters or emblems.

ūi-chio, to sign a confession, as of a capital crime.

chhah-chio, to set up a beacon, e.g. a branch stuck on a sand-bank.

chió (R. siáu), few; to diminish or take fewer. tsōe-chió, many or few; much or little, in quantity; number or quantity, in the abstract; more or less; how many, or how much. m̄-tsai tsōe-chió, don't know how many or how much. chió-láng-chiáh, few people eat it. chió-kheh, very abundant; very numerous; sometimes said somewhat ironically. chió-khoeh (C.), id. té-chió, deficient; not enough. chió-chhùi-chih, a man of few words.

kiám-chió, to diminish; to make fewer or less. chió joā-tsōe, how much less? how many fewer? how many are wanting? chió chit-ê, one fewer; there wants one. chió chit-ê, one blow fewer. beh-chió láng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, wishing to pay people less than was promised, or than ought to be paid. bóe-chió--tit, cannot be made less; no reduction can be made. kam-goān chió-théh, willing to take less, e.g. a composition on a debt.

chió (Cn.), in some phrases = tsáu, to walk: better tsíó, q.v.

chió (R. chiàu), to shine; to illuminate; to see or make a reflection, or image, or shadow; to be opposite (as wall, &c.); a passport, clearance, or diploma.

chió-bīn, to look in a mirror; to illuminate the face. chió-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to look in a mirror. chió chhien-lí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to look with a telescope. chió hām-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to look with a microscope. chió-ki<sup>n</sup>, to look carefully at a thing, as by the light of a lamp, or as in a mirror. chió-ki<sup>n</sup> láng-ia<sup>n</sup>, to see a man's shadow cast by a lamp. chió-láng-ia<sup>n</sup>, to reflect a man's figure in water; to cast a man's shadow, as a lamp. chió-láng-úg, id. chió-tsúi-ia<sup>n</sup>, to reflect (as one's self) in the water. jit chió-ia<sup>n</sup>, the sun casts a shadow, of anything. chió-ji-úg, to cast the shadow of a word (on a rock, &c.), so as to trace its outline for cutting. chió-hé-ia<sup>n</sup>, id.; also to use for our own use the light from a neighbour's lamp. chió-hé, to illuminate, as by lamp or candle. chió-hóe (C.), = A. chioh-hé, to warm one's self at a fire. chió-kng, to shine; to reflect light. jit chió, the sun shines on —. chió-jit, to be illuminated by the sun, as a mirror or the surface of water. sai-chió-jit, illuminated by the light of the western sun, as a room.

bák-bé chió--chit-ê, chiū-tsai, to understand by a single side glance.

chió-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, the "reflecting wall" placed right opposite the chief gate of a temple or yamun (v. chhiú<sup>n</sup>). tui-chió, to be right opposite as such a wall, or as one house opposite another, or as the spider called "bái-kúi," that causes a sort of nightmare(!). khit-i-chió, to be so affected by that spider. tò-chió, to reflect light; said of a house on opposite side of a court. ê-chió, to be right opposite, but on a lower level, as a building.

koan-chió, to have reference to, as one passage of a book to another, &c.

chip-chió, a passport; a license for trade; a diploma of purchased rank issued by local mandarins. pē-chió, a diploma of purchased rank issued by the Board of Office. kip-chió, a diploma of purchased rank; a certificate or deed for public ground sold by mandarins; and such like documents; to give a clearance to a ship or a license to a man. kiáu-chió, to give in the ship's papers on arrival. tsún-chió, a port clearance. niá<sup>n</sup> tsún-chió, to get the clearance, before leaving harbour. pái-chió, the papers of a vessel, the register and the clearance; smaller local junks need only the clearance (chió), without the "pái."

chió (R. chiàu), Taoist rites of thanksgiving to obtain good fortune or avert calamity. sam-tiau-chió, these rites celebrated for three days. tsōe-chió, to perform such rites. tsōe-chheng-chió, to fast and have these rites. tsōe-hē-chió, to have them as thanksgiving for rain. hé-chió, rites to keep away tigers, or in expiation for having killed a tiger, to appease the spirit of the tiger. tsōe-hé-chió, to do so. tsúi-chió, rites performed on the water to appease the spirits of drowned men. hé-chió, rites after a destructive fire, to ward off fires. pêng-an-chió, rites to ward off calamity and get prosperity. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-chió, such rites in honour of Yuh-hwang Shang-ti.

phah-chió, to have these rites (as sailors do) in a temple on shore specially engaged for the purpose, to which the idol from their junk is carried for the time.

chió-toá<sup>n</sup>, a room or gallery for a shrine made across a street (raised above a man's height) for these rites. kè-chió-toá<sup>n</sup>, to be consecrated in such a shrine, as an amulet. chió-púg, a bill put out by the Taoist priests stating when the rites are to be held; it is beautifully written like printing, contains the names and subscriptions of the principal subscribers, and is burned as an intimation to the spirits after men have seen it long enough.

chió (R. chiàu), (C.), to chew the cud. hoán-chió, id.

chioh<sup>n</sup>, in all the tones; (P.), = A. chiu<sup>n</sup>.

chioh (R. chià), to borrow; to lend; to take lodgings; (politely used in asking).

chioh-êng, to borrow for use; to use in a figurative or metaphorical sense.

chioh-kè, please let me pass. sa<sup>n</sup>-chioh-mūg, to ask polite questions, as on meeting.

chioh-khia, to take lodgings, or ask permission to stay a short time. chioh-toà, id.

chioh-toa<sup>n</sup>, a promissory note. thai-chioh-ji, a 少

醜

昭

噍

借

deed assigning a vessel or some property as security for a loan (v. thai).

hē-lâng-chiòh, to lend to people. chiòh--lâng, id. chiòh--i, lend to him. chiòh--khi, to lend.

kā-lâng-chiòh, to borrow from people. chiòh--lâi, id. la-chiòh, id. (v. la). chiòh--chè, id. (v. èbè). chiòh--pún, to borrow capital.

seng-chiòh, to get money in advance; to advance money. sai<sup>n</sup>-chiòh (T.), id. sia-chiòh, to buy on credit and to borrow money. sia-chiòh bién-giên, no credit given here. î-chiòh bién-giên, id. î-chiòh, to borrow. oai<sup>n</sup>-chiòh, to be constantly borrowing money before paying what is due, or asking help (under the name of borrowing) from friends who have money.

chiòh-to sat-jîn (to kill with a borrowed sword), to use a third party to do an injury.

chiòh, to cut down (as small trees).

chiòh (R. ehék). mí<sup>n</sup>-chiòh, a cotton quilted coverlet in a net-work of cross-threads. phah mí<sup>n</sup>-chiòh, to make such a coverlet.

chiòh — nā<sup>n</sup>-chiòh (T. Cn.), to stay over a night, or a shorter time.

chiòh (R. sek), (C. chiò). chiòh-sio, to warm one's self, as at a fire. chiòh--hé, to warm one's self at the fire; to warm a thing slightly at the fire. chiòh hé-thang, to warm one's self with a portable basket-stove. chiòh-jit, to warm one's self in the sun. lòh-sng, ù-jit-chiòh: ɛ-koã<sup>n</sup>, sí-bô-ióh, in frost one has the sun to warm himself, but cold wet weather is deadly without remedy.

chiòh — ng-chiòh (Cn.), a seed-bed for young rice.

chiòh (= chhiòh), (P. chiah). kha-chiòh-tóe, the sole of the foot. kha-chiòh-té (C.), id.

chiòh — tóe-chiòh, the foundation, as of an affair; the original history, as of a house, &c.; e.g. to whom it originally belonged, how bought, &c.; the good-luck of a house, others having had good health or prosperity in it; the good-luck of a shop, as to its position or good name, &c. û-tóe-chiòh, to have some property; to be in good health; safe and good, as title-deeds or a business or a property. hó-tóe-chiòh, id. phah--khi hó-tóe-chiòh, to make good arrangements or good rules from the beginning, so that all goes on well afterwards.

chiòh — lòe-chiòh, the lower horizontal part of a plough, on the end of which the share is fixed. lê-chiòh (C.), id. lê-âu-chiòh (C.), id. thoa-chiòh (C.), id.

chiòh (P.), = A. C. ehék, younger uncle. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiòh, third brother of father, younger than he; (but "sa<sup>n</sup>-chiòh" (A.), to lend or borrow, becomes "sio-chiòh").

chiòh (R. sèk), a stone; a rock; granite; a surname; a measure, = ten "táu."

chiòh-tsām, a chisel for cutting stone. khui-chiòh, to quarry rocks. phah-chiòh, to work stone in any way. chiòh-kang, stone-cutters. phah-chiòh sai-hū, a stone-cutter. phah-chiòh-sai, do. phah-chiòh-sai, to make a stone lion. chiòh-sai, a stone lion.

chiòh-khang, a hole in or among rocks. chiòh-tsoã<sup>n</sup>, a fountain among rocks. chiòh-tāng, stone ballast. chiòh-ki, a stone foundation. chiòh-pái, a small stone tablet, as at a grave. chiòh-pi, a large stone tablet, as with a long inscription. chiòh-kài, a boundary-stone. chiòh-tsu, stone base of pillar. chiòh-gîm, a long stone step round a house. chiòh-hák, a stone vault. chiòh-hák, a medicine (v. hák).

chiòh-iù, dust and very small chips from stone-cutting. chiòh-phè, chips of stone. chiòh-kak, large broken pieces of stone. chiòh-thâu, a stone; a rock of a massive or rounded form. chiòh-poã<sup>n</sup>, a large flat rock. chiòh-phê, a large low flat rock. chiòh-pê (C.), a large stone or piece of rock (v. pē). chiòh-sún, a tall pillar-shaped rock. chiòh-sún, a stone tenon. chiòh-nŋg, pebbles or stones worn round by water. toã-liáp chiòh-nŋg, large water-worn stones used in rough form for seats. chiòh-lan, a hard knot or nodule in a stone or rock. chiòh-tún, a short cylindrical stone (v. tún). chiòh-lún, a stone roller.

to-chiòh, a wet-stone or grindstone. boã-chiòh, id. pó-chiòh, a gem, a jewel, a precious stone. pó-chiòh-lâm, a very fine rich blue; ultramarine. chhi<sup>n</sup>-táu-chiòh, green granite. chiòh-chhi<sup>n</sup>-sek, dull-green, like the Amoy green granite. hé-chiòh, flint. he-chiòh, lime-stone. chiòh-he, lime made from lime-stone. hip-chiòh, the load-stone. gún-chiòh, a touch-stone for rubbing silver on. sín-chiòh, arsenic. siáh-chiòh, marble. hún-chiòh, a stone from which face-powder is made.

chiòh-liú, a yellow wood for furniture. chiòh-tek, a thin hard bamboo with short joints. chiòh-ko, a cooling-hoe. chiòh-hoe, a sea plant from which a cooling gelatinous drink is made. chiòh-kàng, a large sort of frog. chiòh-soeh, a small green crab that creeps into crevices.

chiok (R. id.), (C. chiak). chiok-iòk, a sort of peony. chhiah-chiok, the red peony (used medicinally). pêh-chiok, white peony. pêk-chiok, id. hâng-chiok, peony from Hang-chow, counted very good. kui-kiong chiok-tê, the four medicines called "sù-bút."

chiok [R. a candle, = col. chék], also (P.), = chék, a candle. hong-chièn-chiok, a candle before the wind, said of the uncertainty of an old man's life. hiong-hoa teng-chiok, incense, flowers, lamps, and candles, in honour of idols.

chiok (P.), = chék, a younger uncle, &c.

chiok [R. a foot, enough], enough; full measure, or a little more.

chiok-kièn, evidence enough that —.

chiok-giáh, enough. tsáp-chiok, quite sufficient; complete. chhióng-chiok, abundant; having abundance. hiet-khi chiok, having a full-blooded constitution.

tsū-chiok, self-sufficient; proud. chiok-goãn, having all one's desires fulfilled. moã<sup>n</sup>-chiok sim-i, id. (v. i). ti-chiok, contented. sim ti-chiok, id. put-ti-chiok, covetous, greedy, unsatisfied and discontented, &c. jîn-sim put-chiok, man's heart is never satisfied.

chiok-ēng, sufficient for use. í-sit chiok-ēng, food and clothing sufficient. chiok-tāng, full weight. chiok-chhìn, just correct in weight. chiok-siã<sup>n</sup>, of highest purity, as silver (v. siã<sup>n</sup>). khùn kàu chiok-bín, to have had a thoroughly good sleep (v. bín).

hù-chiok, having enough and to spare; wealthy. hù-chiok, to supply enough for use, as for one's family, or for persons in our employment. hù-chiok hē-i-ēng, id. hù-chiok i-ēng, id.

khah-chiok, rather more than full amount, as of 斫

績

燭

蹟
跡

叔

石

芍

燭

足

time, measure, weight, &c. (generally put at the end of a clause), e.g. chit-tūg khah-chiok, fully ten feet, a very little more. tsáp-táu chiok, fully ten of the measure "táu," or a little more.

heng-tê, jū siú-chiok, brothers are like our hands and feet. hū-kùi tsai-chhiú-chiok, wealth and honour are shown by the hands and feet, in fortunetelling.

祝

chiok (R. id.), to invoke a blessing; a surname. chiok-hok, to pray for a blessing on another; to invoke a blessing. chiok-hok-khi, id. chiok-siā, to give thanks to a god. chiok-būn, a written prayer, read aloud and then burned, as in worship of Sages. chiok-siū, to express good wishes for a man's long life on his birth-day, as by visit, letter, card, or presents.

爵

chiok [R. a ceremonial cup, a rank of nobility], (C. chiak). chìn-chiok, to get a higher grade of nobility; to bring in a cup of wine to present to the spirits in worship. chiú-chiok, a large wine-cup with three legs, used in sacrificial offerings. lé-pân-chiok, wine-jug and wine-cup, used at ancestral rites, &c.

kong-chiok, rank of duke. hê-chiok, rank of marquis. pek-chiok, rank of earl. tsú-chiok, rank of viscount. lām-chiok, rank of baron.

囑

chiok [R. to order]. chiok-thok, to intrust with, as a message or commission, or affair. chiok-hū (r.), to give special instructions for work or message. chhien teng-lêng, bān chiok-hū, very careful and repeated instructions. mái<sup>1</sup>-chiok, to bribe or suborn in any way; to hire for any bad purpose, e.g. villains to injure another by violence, or false witnesses, &c. mái<sup>1</sup>-chiok jîn-sim, to buy or steal the hearts of the people by improper means. úi-chiok-jī (R.), last will and testament.

酌

chiok [R. to pour out], (C. chiak). chim-chiok, to be careful to consider well before deciding or acting; to act deliberately and thoughtfully. chim-chim chiok-chiok, id.

即

chiok — chiok-koán (T.), = A. chek-koán, as you please.

終

chióng — hióng-chióng, hurried and careless; reckless from haste. hióng-hióng chióng-chióng, id. hióng-chióng-chióng, id.

chióng [R. end; to the end]. lim-chióng, to come to the end of life. siēn-chióng, an easy death by old age or by a disease that is not painful. kun-tsú oát-chióng; siáu-jin oát-sú, in the case of a good man it is called "end;" in the case of a bad man "death."

chióng-sin, all one's life long. chióng-jit, the whole day. chióng-si-lāng (T.), one's whole life long. siēn-ok, chióng iú-pò, the good and bad have their recompense at last. chióng-kui, in the long run; to the last; always said in scolding or finding fault, e.g. chióng-kui, si chit-hô ê-lāng, to the last he will be that sort of fellow, will never improve, but be as bad or worse.

si-chióng, beginning and end. si-chióng jū-it, constantly the same from first to last. tsū-si ch-chióng, from the first to the last. bū-si bū-chióng, without beginning or end.

chióng [R. a chapter, = col. chui], (C. chiang), a surname. tê-chióng, a seal.

章將

chióng [R. about to], (C. chiang), particle used for introducing a noun in the clause before that which contains its verb, almost like "cng," e.g. chióng-sim pí-sim, to judge of another's feelings by our own.

chióng chit--ê tã-chì, kã-i-kóng, tell him this matter.

chióng-kun, the Tartar general of province; title of some idols (v. kun).

chióng-kūn, nearly the same; almost synonymous; near in time, or meaning, or amount. chióng-chiū, to take what we can in default of better (v. chiū). kē-put-chióng, to do a thing we do not wish, because there is no other way possible; to take a plan that is unpleasant or bad, because it cannot be avoided, or to avoid a greater evil, = "put-tek-i." kē-put-kí-chióng, id. kē-put-jí-chióng, id.

chióng-lâi, afterwards. chióng-sìn chióng-gî, half believing, half doubting.

chióng [R. a bell? a cup?], a surname. chióng-kūi, a spirit that rules demons or ghosts (v. kūi).

chióng (P.), in several words in the several tones, = A. cheng.

chióng [R. to follow; from]. chióng-tiòng, from among them, among them. chióng-lâi (r.), hitherto. chióng-kim í-âu, henceforward.

chióng-koân, to act somewhat beyond one's authority, under the pressure of necessity or very urgent circumstances. chióng-koa, to be in the mandarin's hands, as a case.

chióng-tóng hia<sup>1</sup>-tī, second cousins (v. tóng). chióng-it-phín, the lower section of the first or red-button mandarins (v. phín).

chióng-siok, to follow usual customs (v. siok). i-o chióng-sū, to follow blindly the leading of another. khiok-i sióng-chióng, to follow another's will, putting a restraint on one's own desires. giēn thèng, kè chióng, his words are obeyed, and his plans followed. kai-ok chióng-siēn, to reform the evil and follow the good. tèk kí-siēn, jī chióng--chi, to choose the good and follow it. jim iú siēn-goân, thien pit-chióng--chi, Heaven certainly fulfils the good desires of men.

chióng [R. tióng, to increase; by change of tone from "tióng" long], (C. chiáng). chióng-chin, to grow rich out of poverty (v. chin).

chióng [R. seed, = col. chéng]; also (C.), = A. chéng, seed. hit-chióng-mâg ê-lāng, that sort of people (depreciatory).

sió-chióng, Souchong tea. chióng-pôe, a sort of Souchong. chióng-ki, a cheaper sort with small stalks in it. bêng-chióng-tê, very fine Souchong. bêng-sek-chióng, id. khé-koe-chióng, Souchong from the place called "khé-koe."

chióng (Cn.), = A. chiáng. po-chióng, to praise and encourage, as an inferior, &c. pē-chióng, id.

chióng (Cn.), = A. chit; this, these.

chióng [R. the palm of the hand, = col. chiú], to rule, = col. chiáng]. hiēt-chióng, the palm of the hand naturally red (v. hiēt). háp-chióng, to place the palms together as in worship. háp-chióng pài, to worship by putting the palms together and so bowing. háp-chióng-bô, a cap with a ridge in the centre, like hands so placed; worn by Buddhist priests, and by children for good luck.

chióng-koán (esp. Cn.), = A. chiáng-koán, to rule, to have the management of.

chióng (R. id.), (C. chiàng). lūi-chióng, blindness caused by the eye getting covered with white; sometimes also protruding.

chióng [R. tióng, to hit the mark; by change of tone from "tióng," middle], (C. tsóng). put-chióng-

鐘

從

長種

獎

掌

瞭中

ióng, very dull in intellect, so as to be useless, as a man.

chiòng [R. all, = col. chéng]; also (C.), = A. chéng, all. hō-chiòng, having the power of living harmoniously with all. tóng-chiòng, to collect a crowd of people for some bad purpose. tsó-tō hék-chiòng, deceiving the multitude by false teachings, as Taoist priests. iòng-chiòng (R.), crowded together, as persons. láng-bé iòng-chiòng (r.), people in great crowds. chiòng-kun sat-jín, tsōe kip tsú-sòe, if any one in the army kill a man, the responsibility is on the general; a superior is responsible for the evil that he allows his inferiors to do.

sī-chiòng, to warn all men by the terrible example. kē--teh si-chiòng, put in the cangue as a warning to others. kùi--teh sī-chiòng, hung up as a terrible warning, as the head of a criminal.

tāi-chiòng-iâ, a hideous paper figure, the chief of the "all souls" of the rites called "phó-tê;" some say the aggregate of these spirits (s. officer). tāi-chiòng-iâ (C.), = A. chéng-kong-má, temples containing tablets that have no descendants. hàu t'ai-chiòng-iâ, (C.), to worship all the spirits of these tablets at once.

chiòng (C.), = A. chéng, to sow seeds carefully.

chiòng [R. a high military officer], (C. chiàng), a word forming many titles of high military officers and of idols. tai-chiòng, a high military officer. béng-chiòng, a brave do. ló-chiòng, an old do. (v. ló). lú-chiòng, a female warrior; said also of a woman who is too bold and forward in speaking to men. chham-chiòng, = chham-hú, an officer about rank of colonel. hú-chiòng, the next rank (= hiáp) above that. chiòng-siòng, very high civil and military mandarins, as generals and ministers of state. chiòng-sòe, high military officers, as generals and commander-in-chief. chiòng-lêng, a general's orders. chiòng-tái, a raised platform at review-ground, where an officer stands to give orders.

chièn-chiòng, skilful in military matters, as military officer; skilful and bold in the management of any sort of matter. put-chí chièn-chiòng, very skilful and successful in managing matters.

chiòng-iâ (Cn.), = A. chiàng-iâ, underlings of the customs.

σ-chiòng, gambling cards with the word "chiòng" in black. âng-chiòng, such cards with "chiòng" in red. héc-chiòng, an image of a tiger that is worshipped (v. héc). chiòh-sin-chiòng, stone figures at graves.

sù-tai-chiòng, four idols (attendants on Tāi-tō-kong) worshipped together; gamblers trust much to their incense; one of them is specially powerful; so they say. "lám-siū-keng ê t'ai-chiòng; chit-sien chiáh, sa<sup>n</sup>-sien siòng" (v. siòng). tāi-chiòng-iâ, any one of these four idols; also (T.) a deified tiger (s. all). koan-chiòng-iâ, images made with a sword as body, and only a human head instead of the handle; placed as attendants on idols, esp. on "óng-iâ." koan-chiòng-thâu, do. esp. five such. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-lák koan-chiòng, the thirty-six attendants of "tāi-tō-kong." koan-chiòng, spirit soldiers sent by the gods to assist their votaries. kun-chiòng, id. pàng-kun-chiòng, to send these spirit soldiers to assist. khò-chiòng, to make offerings to them.

chiòng [R. tsóng]. chiòng-goân, the highest literary degree; the highest name on the list of new Han-lin members (hân-lim) on each occasion (v. goân).

chip, to sip with the lips. chip-chit-chhùi, to sip a little. chip--teh, chip--teh, sipping little by little (all with lips).

chip (Cn.), = A. jip, to ehase. chip-siang (P.), = A. jip-siong, to object to a house being built, &c., because of the injury to the "hong-súi." chip (P.), = (C.) jip, = A. tòng, to come forward with claims, &c., when a property is sold. cheng-chip (P.), id.

chip [R. to hold; to hold firm or obstinately]. chip-siú, to observe and keep, as a rule. chip-hoat, to adhere firmly to strict rules, as mandarin. chip-chiáng, to exercise, as power or authority.

chip-sū, the tablets and instruments carried before a mandarin; also (X.) a deacon (v. sū). chip-thiap--ê, the man in a yamun who has charge of calling cards.

chip-áu, very obstinate (v. áu). kê-chip, do. khu-chip, do. chip-i, do. chip-phiah, id. chip-it, id. chip-sí-pán, extremely obstinate (v. pán). chip-sí-soah, id. chip-sí-koat, do. chip-bê, obstinate in error or in some bad course of action. chip-bê put-ngō, do. without the least repentance. chip-m-tit (Cn.), obstinately refusing to have the quarrel settled.

chip (R. chék), a sort of census roll (= chék), according to which men are counted to belong to their ancestral districts, e.g. hok-chiu-chip, belonging by descent to Fuh-chau, so as to go there for examinations, &c.

chip (R. id.) tsū-chip, to assemble. chio-chip, to call together, as for some enterprise or special purpose. tsōe-chip, to assemble in full numbers for some special purpose, e.g. graduates for an examination; rowdies for a disturbance, or enemies for a feud. chê-chip, id.

chip (R. id. ? chék?). chip-chēng (R.), very lonely and quiet, as a place.

chit [R. natural constitution, simple, to cross-examine]. pún-chit, original constitution of mind or body, as to strength, elegance, activity, skill, or intelligence, but not as to morals. tsu-chit, natural talents, esp. as to literature. tsái-chit, natural talents or ability. khì-chit, mental or bodily character (original or acquired), as to talents, appearance, manner, temper, &c., but not as to morals. khì-chit put-chí-hó, of good talents or general ability. pièn-hoà khì-chit, whole manner and appearance gradually changed (as a country fellow come to town), so as to get a polite and cultivated look, even face, &c., changed.

chit-phak, quiet in taste, and indisposed to display. chit-sin (R.), to examine the parties face to face, as a mandarin.

chit (R. id.), official duty, station, or rank. chit-jīm, id. chit-hūn, id. koa<sup>n</sup>-chit, mandarin rank or office. bô-phín-chit, not having official rank. jīn-chit, to perform one's official duties diligently. chīn-chit, fully execute one's offic. siú-chit, attend to one's duties.

kek-chit, to depose from office, and degrade more or less in rank. sit-chit, to fail in duty. pi-chit (R.), I myself, said by a mandarin.

chit (R. ehék). chit-hi, a very common small fresh-water fish. chit-á-hi, id. chit-hi-á, do. esp. the small ones. hoan-chit-á, a salted sort from Siam, &c.

chit (R. chék), this; these. chit--ê, id. chit--

執

籍

集

寂質

職

鯽

即

將

狀

dê (or chid-ê), id. chit-pê, now. chit-tiáp, id. chit-sí, id.

chit [R. sek, a house]. tsâi-chit-lí (C.), = A. tsâi-sek-lú, a virgin.

chit — im-chit (C.), = A. im-chek, meritorious works.

chit (R. id.), to weave. chhái-chit, to weave coloured figures in cloth. chit-gim, to weave flowered silk. chit-pê, to weave cotton cloth. chit-tsoá, woven paper made at Éng-chhun. chit-chhióh, to weave mats of reeds.

chit-ko, a stuff like coarse white flannel, from the north. chit-kui, a loom.

chit-pê, to darn finely (without a patch), by stitches in both directions crossing each other.

chit-lú, the "weaving girl," a star (in Lyra) which is worshipped on 7·7 along with "gú-nng."

chit [R. the back-bone, = col. chia; the ridge of a hill or house].

soa<sup>n</sup>-chit, the very ridge of a mountain. lêng-chit, the long ridge of a hill gradually descending so as to end in a small eminence; counted very auspicious.

ka-chiah-chit, the back-bone; the seam down the back of a dress.

tiong-chit, the ridge of a roof. tiong-chit-i<sup>n</sup>, the ridge-pole. chhió-chit, the ridge of the roof turned up and pointed at the ends. chhü-chit, the ridge of a roof. chhü-chit-thâu, the points at the two ends of the ridge. chhü-chit-bé, on the raised ridge of a roof (any part of it), e.g. said of drying or sunning things on it.

chit (R. id.), (Cn. chék). chit-lê, a thorny shrub (Tribulus?) used medicinally for eruptions, &c.

chit [R. a disease, = chék]. tài-chit, any severe chronic or inveterate disease or malformation. seng-khu tài-chit, to have such a disease. li-chit, dysentery. hòe-chit (T. hòe-chék), incurable and useless, as a man who is lame, blind, maimed, a leper, or having some severe incurable disease, often venereal.

chit (R. id. = chék). chit-tê, envy; some say, chék-tê, esp. Cn.

chit (R. it), one; having only one (instead of a pair). chit-bák, having only one eye. chit, nng, sa<sup>n</sup>, one, two, three. thâu-chit-ê, the first (v. thâu). sam khi-lióng; líong khi-chit, three oppress two, and two oppress one. chit-ê, one. chit-lâng, one man. chit-poa<sup>n</sup>, alike. chit-poa<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. chit-iū<sup>n</sup>, id.

chit-tsôe, all at once. chit-tui, one heap or company (v. tui). tsôe--chit-ê kàu, to arrive or come all at once. chit-ê-khoà<sup>n</sup>, at one glance.

chit-pi<sup>n</sup>, on one side. chit-pi<sup>n</sup> . . . chit-pi<sup>n</sup>, both . . . and at the same time. chit-hī jip, chit-hī chhut, in at one ear, out at the other. chit-lâng chit-lê, not having any connection with each other's affairs, as two persons whom you would expect to keep together, e.g. two brothers, or as man and wife. chit-lâng siū<sup>n</sup>-chit-lê, wishes and aims quite different or opposite. chit-hó kah-chit-gái; bô-nng-hó sa<sup>n</sup>-pâi, a good or good-looking man has a bad or ugly wife, seldom are both good; sometimes (fig.) said of other things.

chiu (R. id.), an alluvial island in a river or at its mouth. chiu-chhân, flat fields in an alluvial island. jip-chiu, just where an alluvial delta meets the sea.

chiu (R. id.), a department; often used in the name of a Foo, e.g. "chiang-chiu-hú" (v. hú), or simply

"chiang-chiu," &c.; but by itself it means properly a department (chow) less honourable, and generally smaller and less ancient than a Foo, though not under the Foo, but equally governing districts (koā<sup>n</sup>), and immediately responsible to the Tau-tai, e.g. Lêng-ná-chiu, and Éng-chhun-chiu. ti-chiu, the mandarin of such a department. hun-chiu, assistant mandarin of do.

chiu [R. to give charity]. chiu-tsê, to assist with money. chiu-tsân (T.), id. chiu-chê (r.), id. chiu-kip (R.), to assist those who are in want.

chiu [R. all round, complete], a surname; the Chow dynasty; a segment, as of a cake.

chiu-ûi, all round about. chiu-bit, kept close, as a secret or private affair; very careful or well arranged, so that there is no flaw. jîn-jen chiu-bit, the smoke of men (of cooking fires) closely crowded; population numerous, as in a village or region. chiu-chi, all complete, none wanting, as the furnishings of a room, &c.; without a flaw or fault, as a deed, or document, or arrangement. chiu-tsoân, to arrange so as to be without flaw, as a quarrel, or as a sale of property, or other affair. chiu-soân, to arrange for another, as a quarrel or troublesome affair that had become dangerous.

chit-chiu, one segment or section, as of a cake. tsóeh tsôe-si-chiu, cut into four pieces by two cuts at right angles, as a flat cake. siu-chiu-á, a sort of persimmon, very good to eat, having four divisions, and few seeds.

chiu-tiâu, the Chow dynasty. chiu-kong, Duke Chow. chiu-ék, the Yih-king, or classic of changes. chiu-chhong-iá, the companion of Kwanti. chiu-chiong-kun, id.

chiu [R. a boat, a junk]. chiu-san, the island of Chusan. iú-lê, bók-teng-chiu, if there be a road by land, don't go into a boat. sün-tsúi hêng-chiu (sailing with the tide), all going on well.

chiu — bák-chiu, the eye (v. bák).

chiú (R. id.) sàu-chiú, a broom or besom for sweeping (v. sàu).

chiú [R. siú, to guard], to guard; to keep carefully. chiú-kê (r.), to guard. chiú-chhân, to watch the crops in irrigated fields. chiú-chi<sup>n</sup>-lê, a miser.

chiú-koá<sup>n</sup>, a widow (v. koá<sup>n</sup>). chiú-chiet, to remain a widow determinedly, refusing to be married again. chiú khang-pâng (to keep the empty bedroom), to be a widow. iú<sup>n</sup> chit-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> lâi-chiú, a widow adopting a son.

chiú-ki<sup>n</sup>, to keep watch, as watchman; a watchman. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chhát chiú-ki<sup>n</sup>, to have a thief as watchman (proverb). tsôe-chhát chit-ki<sup>n</sup>; chiú-chhát chit-mí<sup>n</sup>, the thief comes in one watch only, but we must keep guard the whole night. káu chiú-chhát, the dog guards against thieves.

chiú (R. id.), spirituous liquor in general; distilled or fermented liquor; generally from rice or potatoes.

iá-chiú, cocoa-nut milk. pêh-chiú, a fermented (undistilled) liquor, made from glutinous rice and sugar. pêh-chiú hé-hu, a white powder used for scouring. ti<sup>n</sup>-chiú, sweet wine or spirit, &c., in general. chiú-ti<sup>n</sup> (C.), liquor fermented, but not yet distilled. lô-chiú, a fermented (not distilled) liquor made from rice. tsúi-chiú, weak liquor. khi-chiú, a weak liquor (mixed with water) made in Amoy. sio-chiú, hot liquor; spirits; warmed liquor. hé-sio-chiú, strong spirits (from the north) that can burn. hé-chiú, id. siang-liâu-chiú, strong spirits made in Amoy. tiám-chiú, spirits in which glutinous rice has been

室

織

脊

疾

疾一

洲

州

週周

舟

帚帚

酒

steeped (v. thiām). phū-tō-chiú, wine; wine made from grapes. iōh-chiú, medicated alcoholic preparations. kok-kong-chiú, a medicated liquor invented by Sái Kok-kong. chiú-thâu, the liquor of the first distillation, very strong.

chiú-khut, dimples in the cheek near the corners of the mouth, when laughing. chiú-chí<sup>n</sup>, payment for the carriage of a letter or small parcel. chiú-tsu, id. hē--lí bōe-chiú (lit. buy some liquor with it), take this small reward, as above. chiú-lé, offerings of liquor made to the gods or spirits of the dead. chiú-liāu, things eaten along with liquor. chiú-iên, a feast with liquor. chit-sék-chiú, one feast with liquor. chiú-phoh, refuse from making liquor. chiú-bú, the whole mass of materials (as rice, potatoes, sugar, &c.), all ready for fermenting. chiú-pē, id. chiú-tsau, the refuse of spirit-making.

kek-chiú, to distil spirits; to invite and excite one another to take liquor. gō-chiú, to distil liquor (v. gō). un-chiú, to warm liquor. phē-chiú, to take some condiment or cakes, &c., along with liquor; to be so used. tiên-chiú, to make a libation of liquor. tah-chiú, to buy liquor. hoat-chiú, to make the loser in a game give liquor as a forfeit to the winner. keng-chiú, to call on guests to drink bumpers (as host, or as one guest to another), with bowing, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-pien-chiú, three cups of liquor drunk before eating. sam-sūn-chiú, id.

chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chiú, to invite guests to a feast with liquor. chhiá<sup>n</sup> chhun-chiú, to invite friends to a drinking feast in the new year's holidays. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chiú-hì, a play performed for the amusement of the guests at a feast. chiáh-chiú, to drink liquor; to be at a feast; to have a feast. chiáh-si<sup>n</sup>-jit-chiú, to partake of a birth-day feast. chiáh-hí-chiú, to be at a feast on some joyful occasion, e.g. when a friend gets married or obtains an office. chiáh-sán-chiú, to drink liquor without any sufficient condiment. chiáh-chiú-tsui, to get drunk (v. tsui). tsui-chiú, drunk; spoiled, as pine-apple.

tsau-chiú, enervated by drink; constitution broken down by drink. chiú-sek, wine and women; drink and lust (v. sek). chiú-sien, a drunkard; one of the genii fond of liquor. hoat-chiú-hōng, mad with drink. hoat-chiú-hong, to have red eruptions from liquor. chiú-bī, smell of liquor. ū-chiú-bī, under the influence of liquor. chiú-i, manner of a man who has been drinking a little, so as to be somewhat forward, excitable, or incautious. chiú-liōng, a man's capacity for liquor. chiú-liōng koái<sup>n</sup>, he can take a great quantity of liquor. chhiú-liōng chhién, has small capacity for liquor. chiú-tek, the manner in which a man is affected by liquor (v. tek).

chiú-lēng, a machine for heating liquor. chiú-thiu, a syphon for liquor. chiú-lāu, a sort of funnel for filling bottles. chiú-kàu, a measure for liquor. chiú-táu-á, a small measure for lading it out. chiú-tiām, a liquor shop. chiú-khê, a large liquor shop. chiú-lāu, an upper-room in a liquor shop where guests are served. chiú-lóng, a spirit shop (foreign).

chiú-thâm, a sort of jar for liquor (v. thâm). chiú-thóh, a small jar for liquor. chiú-àng, a large jar for liquor. chiú-pân, a sort of jug or decanter for do. chiú-tê-e, another sort (v. tê). chiú-kan, another sort like a bottle. chiú-kip-sio, a small thin earthen kettle for warming liquor. chiú-au, a small cup for liquor. chiú-chiok, a large cup used in idolatrous offerings. chiú-cheng, a very small cup for liquor.

chiú-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a larger sort. chiú-poe, a large cup for liquor.

chiú (R. tsü), worm-eaten; moth-eaten; holes made by insects; to decay; decayed, as wood, teeth, &c. chiú-thāng, the insect that eats bamboo; it is supposed that teeth also are eaten by an insect. chiú-iū<sup>n</sup>, a small insect that destroys grain in granaries. chiú-khang, holes eaten by insects; cavities in decayed teeth. chiú-khi, decayed teeth. chiú-hút, a sort of the liehi (nāi<sup>n</sup>-chi) fruit that has a small stone. pūt chiú, the idol is worm-eaten.

chiū — chiū-khāng, to make wearisome repeated demands for something refused, as children; to find fault with a man behind his back, as for niggardly or exacting conduct.

chiū (R. id.), to make spells, imprecations, &c. chiū-tsoā, to swear (v. tsoā). chiū-mē<sup>n</sup>, to curse and scold. chiū-mā<sup>n</sup> (T. Cn.), id. chiū-tsé (R.), to make imprecations against. chiū-liām, to make imprecations. chiū-lóe, id. liām-chiū, to mutter spells or make incantations, as sorcerers (tāng-chí) when trying to become possessed, or as priests in rites. chhui-chiū, to repeat the incantations when the spirits have not obeyed the former incantations.

chiū-chhām, heavy imprecations. hū-chiū, written and spoken Taoist charms and spells.

chiū (R. id.), to approach; according to (in a few phrases); (to accomplish); a connective particle, then, therefore, or immediately.

chiong-chiū, the best that can be got in the circumstances; to put up with the best of a bad case. bóng-chiong-chiū, put up with it, as it cannot be helped, at least in the meantime.

sēng-chiū, to complete and accomplish an affair. kong-bēng sēng-chiū, official rank attained. seng-lí tsòe-put-chiū, trade does not prosper.

chiū lāng-ê-ōe, to take up a man's words and answer or convict him out of his own mouth. chiū-phiò niá<sup>n</sup>-gūn, to draw money on presenting a bank-note, &c. chiū-i-thê tsoh-i-chhiū<sup>n</sup> (lit. build the wall according to the mortar); to make the things for him according to the money he allows.

chiū-hà chhoā (T.) = A. sūn-hà chhoā, to marry just after parents' death.

chiū-sī, that is; just so (v. sī). hó, chiū-hó, if you think it well, just let it be so (though I do not think so).

chiū-kūn, to approach, to draw near. sái-khi-chiū--i, sail right up to him. lak-kè lâi-chiū--i, let down the price to come nearer his offer. kàng-kè lâi-chiū--i, id.

chiū<sup>n</sup>, this syllable, in all the tones, becomes chio<sup>n</sup> in many parts of Chang-chew, esp. P.

chiū<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), a chapter. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsat, chapters and verses. téng-chiū<sup>n</sup>, the preceding chapter.

būn-chiū<sup>n</sup>, a literary essay (v. būn).

tsàu-chiū<sup>n</sup>, a memorial or report to the throne.

pió-chiū<sup>n</sup>, id. piáu-chiū<sup>n</sup>, id.

chiū<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), starch; to starch; fluid matter of small-pox or cow-pox; (said of various things like liquid starch).

thê-bê-chiū<sup>n</sup>, deep slushy mud. thê-chiū<sup>n</sup>, id. tāu-chiū<sup>n</sup>, soft bean-curd not yet pressed. koàn-chiū<sup>n</sup>, full of matter, as a pock. gú-lin-chiū<sup>n</sup> (C.), milk.

bí-chiū<sup>n</sup>, a sort of pulp made by grinding rice with water. ám-chiū<sup>n</sup>, liquid rice-starch, rice water. hún-

chiu<sup>n</sup>, wheat-starch. hún-chiu<sup>n</sup>-kê, wheat-starch made ready like paste. chiu<sup>n</sup>-ám, to starch with rice-water. chiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to starch a coat or long dress. chiu<sup>n</sup>-sôe, to wash and starch, as clothes; to scold violently; to speak to a man in a very disrespectful way. chiáh-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to be starched. khi-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to take out starch, as by soaking the dress in water.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong). chiu<sup>n</sup>-ló, camphor. chiu<sup>n</sup>-lé (Cn.), id. chiu<sup>n</sup>-ló-iú, sap of the camphor-tree. chiu<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the camphor-tree. chiu<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, camphor-wood.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong). chiu<sup>n</sup>-hí, a sort of cuttle-fish that has no bone in it.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong). chiu<sup>n</sup>-tsû, a sort of toad (used medicinally).

chiu<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, skirt, petticoat]. i-chiu<sup>n</sup>, clothes in general. in-chiu<sup>n</sup>, id. in-chiu<sup>n</sup>-thû, a wooden mallet (like a club) for washing clothes.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), a surname.

chiu<sup>n</sup>, an animal like a large tortoise; its feet are like fins or paddles instead of the claws of the turtle.

chiu<sup>n</sup>, the large red-deer of Formosa.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), the palm of the hand (or sole of foot); the paw of a bear, &c.; a webbed-foot.

chit-pa-chiu<sup>n</sup>, one hand held up with fingers expanded, meaning 5 or 50, or 500, &c. nng-pa-chiu<sup>n</sup>, both hands held up expanded, meaning 10 or 100, or 1000, &c. sien-pa-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a small prickly cactus, much cultivated on roofs to keep off evil influences.

hé-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a tiger's paw. hím-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a bear's paw, counted a delicacy. gô-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a goose's web-foot. gô-kha-chiu<sup>n</sup>, id. ah-kha-chiu<sup>n</sup>, duck's web-foot. ah-chiu<sup>n</sup>, id. (s. oar).

chhiú-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the palm of the hand. koat-chhiú-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to slap a child's palm with our own. kha-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the sole of the foot. kha-chêng-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the front part of the sole at and near the toes. chiú<sup>n</sup>-sim, the middle of the palm. chiú<sup>n</sup>-hún, lines on the palm. khoà<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to examine the palm, as a fortune-teller. tng-chiu<sup>n</sup>, having a line quite across the palm; lucky for men, but very unlucky for women.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), an oar. chiú<sup>n</sup>-bé, the blade of an oar. chiú<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the other half of the oar which contains the handle. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chhêng, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-pê, the band which splices these two parts into the one oar. chiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the oar-handle. chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiah, the small cross-piece of the oar-handle. chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiam, an oar-pin. chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiam-kek, the small cross-piece of wood that keeps the lower end of the oar-pin steady. chiú<sup>n</sup>-khaú, the loop by which the oar is hung on the oar-pin.

chit-hú-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a pair of oars. siang-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a two-oared boat. siang-chiu<sup>n</sup>-tâi, the boatman of a two-oared boat. poeh-chiu<sup>n</sup>, eight-oared boats (used by custom-house officers, &c.)

kô-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to row by pushing (done standing, but to pull sitting is "pien"). kah-chiu<sup>n</sup>, put on the oars (as when the wind falls) to begin rowing. phái<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>-lê, inconvenient arrangement for rowing. ji-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the oar on the left side of a two-oared boat held in the right hand. bé-chiu<sup>n</sup>, id., the stern oar. kah-bé-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to row hard with that oar, so as to turn the boat's head to the right. ah-bé-chiu<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. ah). kah-jiú-chiu<sup>n</sup> (C.), give a stroke with the oar very gently.

chiu<sup>n</sup> [R. chek, this]. chiú<sup>n</sup>-pêng, on this side; here. chiú<sup>n</sup>-tsá-khi (said in Quemoy), this morning.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-ê-hng (in Quemoy), this evening. àn-chiu<sup>n</sup>-sì (T. Cn.), thus.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. chiong), a sort of sauce or condiment.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, thick and miry, as roads. iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> chiú<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, all softened and spoiled by wet, as things; all miry, as roads. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup> siú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, softened and spoiled, as by damp.

tâu-chiu<sup>n</sup>, sauce made from beans and flour. ê-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a dark sort. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chheng, the thinner part of tâu-chiu<sup>n</sup>. iâm tsau, chiú<sup>n</sup> ehê, four condiments used in cookery. hoan-kiu<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, this sauce seasoned with cayenne pepper. ti<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a preparation from yellow plums and sugar. lê-hê-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a sauce made from pickled shrimps.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-liâu, various sorts of vegetables preserved in tâu-chiu<sup>n</sup>. chiú<sup>n</sup>-koe, pumpkins so preserved. chiú<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, ginger so preserved. chiú<sup>n</sup>-mí-chiá, wheaten dough balls in this sauce.

chiu<sup>n</sup> — chiú<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, troublesome behaviour of children wishing to be fondled and made of (v. chí<sup>n</sup>).

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. ióng), to itch. chiú<sup>n</sup>-iah-iah, very itchy; very eager for some bad gratification, as gambling or seeing plays, &c., so that he will not be kept from it. chiú<sup>n</sup>--tê m-pê; m-chiu<sup>n</sup>--tê, pê kàu-huih-lâu (won't scratch the itchy place; but where is no itch, scratches till the blood flows), to neglect important matters, while very busy about what does not concern him. chiú<sup>n</sup>--tê m-pê; m-chiu<sup>n</sup>, khòng-khòng-pê, do. pê-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to scratch an itchy spot. hí-khang chiú<sup>n</sup>; ká<sup>n</sup>-sī ū-lâng teh-liám goá, my ear itches, surely some one is speaking of me.

chiu<sup>n</sup> (R. sióng, = col. chhiú<sup>n</sup>, siú<sup>n</sup>), above, upon, upper, superior, former; to ascend, to go up, to come up to, or go above; to go to a place of superior rank; to raise; to place upon, or write down.

mng-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a mandarin's secretary. thâu-mng liám-chiu<sup>n</sup>--ê, the first wife (as to time) married by a man. thâu-chiu<sup>n</sup>--ê, first-born child. thâu-chiu<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-bín, upper side; overhead; to come out on the face, as emotion or disease. hoat-chiu<sup>n</sup>-bín, to break out on the face. chiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu chiú<sup>n</sup>-bín, devoid of shame and modesty, as a slave girl too impudent towards her mistress, or as a child demanding money from its parents, &c.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to land goods from a ship; to discharge cargo. chiú<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup>, the edge (as of a knife) becoming sharp (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). chiú<sup>n</sup>-tsng, to add to personal beauty by dress and ornaments, as young woman. chiú<sup>n</sup>-khaú, to put fetters on the limbs. chiú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to put the ridge-pole of a house in its place. chiú<sup>n</sup>-hé, to light the lamps, as in market streets, or in great idolatrous celebrations, at night. chiú<sup>n</sup>-pún, to present a memorial to the throne; also, the previous volume of a book, or the first of two volumes.

khoà<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>-bák, to think well of; to respect. m-chiu<sup>n</sup>-bák, to think unimportant; to despise. khoà<sup>n</sup>--lâng m-chiu<sup>n</sup>-bák, to despise people.

m-chiu<sup>n</sup> chit-gêh-jit, not quite a month. bê-chiu<sup>n</sup> chit-gêh-jit, id. bê-chiu<sup>n</sup>-kun, not up to a catty in weight. chiú<sup>n</sup>-kun-koe, a fowl over a catty in weight. chiú<sup>n</sup>-gún, to come up to an amount counted in silver, as price, or account run up to so much. m-tát chiú<sup>n</sup>-kúi-ê-í<sup>n</sup>, not worth more than a few cash. bê-tát chiú<sup>n</sup>-kúi-ê-í<sup>n</sup>, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-kè (C.), = A. tióng-kè, to rise in price.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-toh, to be placed on the table, as the articles

樟

樟 將
虫
裳
將

掌

將 水

即

將
酉

癢

上

in a feast (v. toh). liáh-chhát chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsng, in catching a chief get the stolen goods, as evidence of guilt.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to write out a fair clean copy. chiū<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to insert in a list; to write down in a book. chiū<sup>n</sup>-ke-kah, to be enrolled in a census, as present inhabitants. miá<sup>n</sup>-jī chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, to have one's name recorded formally or officially. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khòe, to set down (as additional items) in a deed of sale, &c. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sng, to insert in an account, as an item. bō-chiū<sup>n</sup>-sng, not counted in the number, e.g. as foreigners in a Chinese census; not fit to be counted, as a disabled or useless man or thing; need not put it down in the account, as a small thing given extra. òe-kham--tit chiū<sup>n</sup>-sng, fit to be counted, as being really fit for use. chiū<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to enter as an item in an account. ki-chiū<sup>n</sup>-siáu, id.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-kang, to begin work, as on each day. chiū<sup>n</sup>-jīm, to enter on office. chiū<sup>n</sup>-pan, to take one's turn of duty, as underlings of yamun, &c. chiū<sup>n</sup>-lê, to begin a journey. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kiō, to begin the journey (in sedan) from her parents' house to her new home, only on that one occasion, and only of the bride. chiū<sup>n</sup>-mng chhoá, bridegroom going in person to the bride's house to conduct her to his own house.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-lòh, to ascend and descend; to go and come. chiū<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, to get higher rank; to go northwards. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsún, to embark. chiū<sup>n</sup>-bé, to mount a horse (v. hé). chiū<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, to mount the stage. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsō, to go on the sacred seat (as in seventh moon) to perform certain rites. chiū<sup>n</sup>-hák (vulg.), to go to stool. chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhè, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-áu, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to ascend a mountain; to go ashore; to go to the fields from a village, as for field-work. khoá-chiū<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to be stranded.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-sin, to be possessed by a spirit. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tâng, do. in the case of the "tâng-chí," or sorcerers.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-pak, to go to the north. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sa, to set sail on voyage to North China. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, to go to the metropolis. chiū<sup>n</sup>-séng, to go to the provincial capital. chiū<sup>n</sup> gē-mng, to go to a mandarin's office. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tng, to appear before the triunal. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tiáu, to go to have an audience of the sovereign. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tién, do. of the emperor. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, to ascend to heaven. chiū<sup>n</sup> se-hong, to go to the (Buddhist) western heaven. pé-bōe-chiū<sup>n</sup>, unable to refund or repay enough.

kang-hu óh-chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the trade (work) thoroughly learned. kā lóng-bōe chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, though taught, he cannot do it well.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the title-deed by which the seller proves his right to sell. chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhun, early in spring. chiū<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, the former year. tsé-chiū<sup>n</sup>, distant ancestors.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-si, high officials. chiū<sup>n</sup>-ūi, upper place or seat, i.e. more honourable.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the roof of the mouth; the palate. ng-chiū<sup>n</sup>, upwards. toá--tióh i-bin-chiū<sup>n</sup>, in consideration for him (as doing a favour to a third party). bé-chiū<sup>n</sup>, on horse-back. lê-chiū<sup>n</sup>, on the road (v. lē). beh-kàng goá-sin-chiū<sup>n</sup>, about to come on my person, as calamity.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, the shang tone; the second of the four tones. chiū<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup> (C. téng-pé<sup>n</sup>), the upper first or upper ping tone. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khi (C. téng), the upper third tone. chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip (C. téng), the upper fourth tone.

chiuh — chiuh-chiuh-háu, to squeak, as a rat (cf. kiuh).

chiuh (cf. kiuh; kiuh). tâm-chiuh-chiuh, very wet, as house, &c. bát-chiuh-chiuh, very crowded, as a street when there is a play in it.

chiuh (cf. kiuh; kiuh). nng-chiuh-chiuh, very soft, as dough, &c.

chng, in several tones; better tsng, &c., q.v.

cho, chē, chō, in several tones; better, tso, tse, tsō, &c., q.v.

choa, choa<sup>n</sup>, choah, choái, choan, choat, in several tones; better, tsoa, tsoa<sup>n</sup>, tsoah, tsoái, tsoan, tsoat, &c., q.v.

choe, choeh, choh, chōh, chok, chom, chong, in several tones; better, tsoe, tsoeh, tsoh, tsōh, tsok, tsom, tsong, &c., q.v.

chöng (Cn.), = A. cheng, in some tones and words.

chu, chü, chut, in several tones; better, tsu, tsü, tsut, &c., q.v.; sometimes ju, jü, esp. T.

chuh, chui, chui<sup>n</sup>, chun, chut, in several tones; better, tsuh, tsui, tsui<sup>n</sup>, tsun, tsut, &c., q.v.

chwa, chwa<sup>n</sup>, chwah, chwāi, chwan, chwat, in several tones; better, tsoa, tsoa<sup>n</sup>, tsoah, tsoái, tsoan, tsoat, &c., q.v.

CHH.

Before a, ng, o, ē, ö, u, ü, the sound of this initial is often between chh and ts'h; and sometimes (esp. in T. and Cn.) the sound is almost or quite ts'h.

chha — toā-chhi-chha, great profusion of food at a feast, &c. (v. chhi).

chha [R. to differ, to send; cf. col. chhe, "to send"], (C. generally chhe), to differ; different; wrong.

cheng-chha, difference; gen. difference from what is right. ũ-cheng-chha, it is different; not correct. cheng-chha lâi cheng-chha khi, variations in this way and that way. chha-chhok, error; fault. chit-sī chha-chhok, sudden unpremeditated fault. chha-biū (R.), a mistake or fault (v. hiū). kiá<sup>n</sup>-chha-lê, to behave wickedly, as gambling, lasciviousness, and drink.

bō-chha, quite correct; the same. ũ-chha, different; wrong. toā-chha, very far wrong; very different, as from pattern. chha-tit-hng, id. chha-khi-hng, id. chha bō-hng, nearly alike; nearly correct. chha iú-hiē, id.

chha-put-to, nearly the same; nearly correct; tolerable; it will do (in this one phrase C. is also "chha").

chha (R. id.), (C. chhē), to overlap. chha-oá, to make (a dress) overlap, without buttoning. chha-chhiú, to put each hand into the sleeve of the other; to cross the hands on the breast. chhiú chha--leh, do.; the hands laid together. chhiú chha--lái, id.

chha — tiū<sup>n</sup>-chha, a piece of cloth (usually embroidered or ornamented) for holding a bed-curtain close to the bed-post when drawn open. chha-oá, to fasten the bed-curtain to the bed-post in this way.

chhá (R. tsa), (C. chhê), to search minutely; to 柔

叉

查

差

investigate; to examine into. chhâ-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id. tsa-chhâ, id. chhâ-bâi (Cn.), id. chhâ-mng, to inquire into a matter, as a superior. chhâ-khó, to investigate (v. khó).

chhâ-koe, a sort of policeman who examines the streets and markets; belongs to the office of the military mandarin. chhâ-koe koán-hú, id. bú-iá<sup>n</sup> chhâ-koe, id. chhâ-iá, to make search or investigation in the night, as police or soldiers. chhâ lái-hô, to search the harbour and adjoining creeks (as near Amoy) for pirates or smugglers.

chhâ [R. tea, = col. tē]. chhâ kái-bün (R.), tea dispels sadness.

chhâ (R. chhái). chhâ-ê, a medicine (v. ê).

chhâ (R. chhái), wood; firewood; a surname; stiff. chhâ-bák, a knot in wood. chhâ-miá<sup>n</sup>, resinous wood, as in fir roots. chhâ-thâu, a block of wood. long-á-chhâ, an unsplit billet of wood. chhâ-pêng, a split bit of fire-wood. chhâ-khe, a bundle of fire-wood. chhâ-chí, a very small bundle of fire-wood. chhâ-tsúi, fire-wood and water for cooking. chhâ-liâu, timber. tsáp-chhâ-á-tiám, a shop for wooden utensils, as oars, &c. chhâ-kiáh, wooden-soled shoes.

chhâ-chhâ, stiff and unmoved, as eyes, or limbs, or features; as man about to die, or in catalepsy; or as an idle lazy fellow; or as an idol. chhâ, id. chhâ-chhâ bōe-tín-tang, id. bák-chiu chhâ-chhâ, eyes fixed and motionless, as when about to die; or as naturally so; a look of unconcern or foolishness. bák-chiu chhâ-chhâ tiâu-tiâu, eyes fixed, glazed, and staring upwards, sign of death at hand.

chhâ-kang, tall and large-boned, ungainly and somewhat clumsy-looking, as a man. chhâ-kang-si<sup>n</sup>, id.

phái<sup>n</sup>-kha-chhâ, ill-formed, as girls' feet; esp. from having been ill bound. pák--khí phái<sup>n</sup>-kha-chhâ, feet (of girl) ill bound.

chhâ [R. tsái, materials]. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, a coffin (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). khí-chhâ-thâu, to worship the coffin outside the door, just before it is carried to the grave.

chhâ (R. chháu), to fry or parch on frying-pan, with little or no fat. kan-ta-chhâ, do. without any fat or water (s. annoy). chê-chhâ, to prepare medicines by parching thus. chien-chhâ, to fry and parch. chhâ-khí-se, fry till crisp. jiét-jiét-chhâ, to fry with little fat. jiét-chhâ, a small bowl of fried meat, at an eating-house. kúi-jiét-chhâ, how many of them. jiét-chhâ-óá<sup>n</sup>, a small bowl for holding this eatable. sió-chhâ, pork cut in very long, thin, narrow slices, and fried dry. sió-chhâ-bah, id. mī<sup>n</sup>-chiá chhâ-bah, wheat dough cooked with pork. póh-phi<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, fried slices of meat (pork) about an inch broad.

chhâ (R. chháu), to make a disturbance; to annoy by noise and clamour. chhâ-lá, id. ká-chhâ, id. ká-lá-chhâ, id. chhâ-jióng, id. chhâ kàu-loán, make a great confusion and disturbance, as by clamour. kiáu-chhâ, to annoy; to make a disturbance. chhâ-jiók, to make a noise, scolding and insulting.

chhâ (R. chháu, = col. chhâ). tá<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, to annoy; to disturb by noise and clamour.

chhâ (= chhâ). chhâ-chhâ-háu, sound of water.

chhâ [R. chháu, paper money, &c.] chí<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, money in general. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhâ ân, hard pressed for money.

chhâ — chhâ-chhâ-háu, sound, as of rain or waterfall, or constant talking. chhâ-chhâ-lâu, sound as of water dropping from a leak. tsúi kún chhâ-chhâ, water boiling violently. chhî-bú chhî-chhâ, confused indistinct sound of talking. loán-chhî-chhâ, confused or crowded, as mind with many matters; or as a busy market or crowd. toá-chhî-chhâ--chit-ê, a tremendous turmoil, as on occasion of fighting, or arrival of mandarins or robbers.

chhâ<sup>n</sup> — kap-i chhâ<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to throw out one's arms to fend off a blow.

chhâ<sup>n</sup> — chhâ<sup>n</sup>-chhâ<sup>n</sup>-háu, confused noise of gongs, drums, &c. lô-ké chhâ<sup>n</sup>-chhâ<sup>n</sup>-tân, gongs and drums making a loud confused noise. chhî-tih-chhâ<sup>n</sup>, sound of various instruments. phah-chhîm-tih-chhâ<sup>n</sup>, to strike things (to amuse a child) as if they were musical instruments.

chhah (R. chhap). thâu-chhah, ornaments worn in women's hair. chiam-á thâu-chhah, ornaments for women's head in general.

chhah (R. chhap). chhah-kak, to piece (esp. with a triangular bit of cloth), generally at the corner; done in making a garment, from want of material, or to save it; also, an operation in the mensuration of fields of very peculiar shape, so as to calculate the odd corners. chhah-koh, to put in a triangular piece of cloth in the arm-pit of a dress. chhah-úg, to put in triangular pieces in the inner side of the arm of a dress as it gets broader. toá-chhah, a large triangular piece, as in the seat of trousers. sió-chhah, a small triangular piece in a dress.

chhah (R. chhap), to insert; to set up, as in a socket; to plant slips, as of sugar-cane. chhah-jip, to insert.

kah-chhah, suiting well together, as the several parts of dress, &c. chhêng-chhah, manner of dress, as good or bad (v. chhêng). ū-chiap-chhah, to have proper connection, as the several parts of a literary composition. chiap-chhah láng-kheh, to receive and pay attentions to guests. gâu-chiap-chhah (Cn.), good at any work, esp. at assisting a superior.

chhah-teh-khiá, to live alone, or almost alone, in a place, among a people quite different from us, e.g. among a different surname. chhah-ti-hia khiá, id. chhah-ku (r.), id. chhah-ki (C.), id. an-chhah, to arrange, as troops in garrisons and stations; to distribute those who have been rebels or pirates, and have made submission, putting them in small numbers here and there. chhah kúi-ê, to place a few such men separate from their old comrades.

chhah-ké, to join a mercantile firm, taking a small share (v. ké).

chhah-chhêng, to stick up branches of banyan on 5. 5. chhah-chhêng, khah-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lêng: chhah-hiá<sup>n</sup>, ōe tng-miá<sup>n</sup>, sticking up banyan branches, we grow stronger than dragons; and the artemisia, we get long life. chhah-hiá<sup>n</sup>, ōe-khin-kiá<sup>n</sup>, &c., and we get strong and vigorous. chhah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to stick up green twigs (as on a field when the owner or farmer owes money) as a sign that the land or crop is claimed; or as on a house on occasion of rites for good luck, or in time of sickness (by sorcerer's instructions), to warn strangers away; or as on 5. 5. chhah kam-chiá, to plant out slips of sugar-cane.

chhah-io, to put the hands on the hip-joints. chhah-chhiú, id.; or, to put the hands in the pockets or into the folds of one's dress for warmth. chhah-kió, to assist in carrying a sedan, as a third bearer; to

茶柴

材炒

吵

吵

揮錘

插

揷

hold the poles of a mandarin's sedan. hū-chhah, to hold up by the arm-pits, as when helping to walk.

chhah-hoe, to put flowers in the hair, as women do; to put flowers in a glass, &c.; an additional side-sail (like a studding-sail) in a junk. chhah hoe-kan, to put flowers in a flower-jar. chhah-chek, to put a candle on the stick that serves instead of a socket. tsūn chhah-chek, vessel sunk to the bottom, leaving only the end of the mast visible.

chhah-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to stick an incense-stick in the old ashes in the censer that stands before an idol. chhah-hū, to stick written charms in the hair. chhah-to, to wear a knife or sword at one's side; the 18th radical when written at the side. chhah-kí, to stick up a small flag. chhah-pio, to stick up the prize that serves as a goal for the dragon-boat race. chhah-pit, to put a hair-pencil in its stand.

chhai (R. id.), a riddle; to guess one. chhai-bī, to guess a riddle. chhai-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try a guess. chhai-tióh, to guess rightly. si-chhai, a sort of gambling by lines of poetry. teng-chhai, puzzles put on transparent lanterns at the doors of scholars. teng-chhai-būn, do. chhai-gi (R.), to suspect a man or a matter; to have suspicions.

chhái [R. tsái, to cut, to regulate, to diminish], (C. tsái), to cut the edges of paper; to disband soldiers because too many; to diminish the number of officers to a command or division, not as punishment, but permanently for economy.

tsú-chhái, to determine definitely; to settle authoritatively.

toā-tsóng-chhái, the examiner for the Tsin-sze degree.

sèng-chhái, ground-rent levied by military mandarins on government ground, esp. on the sea-beach.

chhái-hông, a tailor. chhái-hông-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, a mandarin's tailor. chhái-chhioh, the foot-measure used by tailors, longer than that used by carpenters and masons (v. chhoh).

chhái khah-chió, to diminish the number, as of soldiers or officers.

chhái-to, a knife for cutting even the edges of paper. chhái-tsoá, to cut the edges of paper even. chhái-chheh, to cut even the edges of a book, as in binding.

chhái (R. id.) chhái-lông, a wolf.

chhái [R. tsái, materials], chhái-liáu, materials.

chhái [R. just at the time], chhái-chhái-chiah-lái, arrived just now.

chhái [R. coloured ornaments; ornamental bangings; an omen; a present, esp. with idea of good-luck].

sín-chhái, expression of face, esp. as to health or intelligence. ū-sín-chhái, to have a look of vigorous health, animation, or intelligence. sín-chhái chiok, id. bô-sín-chhái, having a spiritless, aimless look. bô-sín bô-chhái, id.

chheng-chhái, clear, bright, and fair, as weather; genteel and polite in appearance, as wealthy or literary man. khì-siōng chheng-chhái, bappy, cheerful look (of men or things). khah chheng-chhái, in better health now. pak-té-lái khah-chheng-chhái, feeling better.

chhái-tiâu, an omen. hó-chhái-tiâu, a good omen. chhái-thâu, an omen. thâu-chhái, id.; red cloth put on the bow of a junk at the new-year for good luck. hó-chhái-thâu, a good omen. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhái-thâu, a bad omen.

tsok-chhái, to make a present of money to a man that he may have good luck. sàng-chhái, to present a long piece of red stuff (silk or woollen), as to a mandarin on some joyful occasion; to perform rites on the occasion of burning the idol "ông-ia." kat-chhái, to hang up ornamental hangings, as at idolatrous celebrations. kat chhái-lâu, to make a temporary pagoda of bamboo and wood, ornamented with bright colours, and at night hung all over with lamps; a great idolatrous concourse is held for several days. chhái-lâu, this temporary pagoda; also (r.), an ornamental upper room, as for women. chhái-lē, street full of coloured hangings at an idolatrous display. iū-soa<sup>n</sup> chhái-lē, to have the idol carried in a procession through the country, and also to have these hangings in the streets. chhái-kiō, a red bridal sedan. chhái-pêh-tiàm, a shop for the clothes used in burial.

chhái-chit, to weave coloured figures. chhái-ūi, to paint in various colours. chhái-sek, vari-coloured. ngé-chhái, having five colours; variegated. ngé-chhái-hūn, a five-coloured variegated cloud. khíngé-chhái, to reflect bright colours, as a diamond, &c.

kong-chhái, bright as a mirror, or as the sky when the sun is about to come out; bright as a healthy red or ruddy face; also (R.), very richly decorated. hoachhái (R.), very richly decorated.

chhái (R. id.) ū-chhiū-chhái, paying attention, as to a visitor (v. chhiū).

chhái [R. chháu, to annoy, = col. chhái]. kái-chhái, to annoy, to tease; to torment by annoyances.

chhái (R. id.), to pluck, as flowers or tea-leaves; (to buy), (worth while), (perhaps), (a spindle). chhái-hoe, to pluck flowers; to sip honey from flowers, as bees. chhái-té, to gather tea-leaves.

chhái-pān, to select and buy, as goods. chhái-bóe, id. chhái-tiáh, to send out and buy grain from many places, as merchant or mandarin. phài-chhái-mái<sup>n</sup>, to levy forced contributions from rich men under the name of buying rice.

thih-chhái, a thin iron spindle on which the thread is rolled by the spinning-wheel. chhái-tsūn, the leather-guard on it separating the thread from the endless band.

chhái-liên-koa, a song sung at the procession of the idol "ông-ia." chhiū<sup>n</sup> chhái-liên, to sing this song at the procession. chhái-liên-thâu, the principal subscriber for a boat (ông-tsūn) for that idol. tsng-chhái-liên, to dress him up in great splendour on the occasion. chhái-liên-kha, the other contributors.

chhin-chhái, at random; no matter how; any way; carelessly (v. chhin). kiám-chhái, perhaps; if perhaps. khám-chhái, id. thiám-chhái, id. tiám-chhái, id. tú-chhái, id.

bô-chhái, alas! how unfortunate! said of the death of a person or of a thing being destroyed. chin bô-chhái, how very unfortunate! (as above). bô-chhái hit-ê-lâng, alas for that man, as when dead or having committed some very shameful action, making him infamous for ever. bô-chhái hit-ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, said of a thing quite lost or spoiled. bô-chhái-chhùi, talking is of no use. bô-chhái-kang, not worth the trouble; to lose one's pains. bô-chhái kha-kut, thó-kha khít-lē-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a long walk to no purpose. bô-chhái in-pē-bú si<sup>n</sup>-i, it was not worth while for his parents to get such a son.

chhài (R. id.), vegetables, esp. mustard plant and

猜

裁

睬 吵
採

豺
材
纜
彩

菜

cabbage; meat or any condiment to rice; vegetarian food as opposed to animal food.

chhài-thâu, a long sort of turnip; the head man of a vegetarian hall and society.

chhài-gèk, false jade-stone.

chhài-iū, ground-nut oil. sng-chhài, pickles.

chhài-kap, the common pigeon, not the carrier (v. kap). chhài-ièn, a native sea-weed (used to make a jelly like bird's-nest).

chhài-bú, a very salt kind of sauce. chhài-tsúi, juice of vegetables. chhài-tà<sup>n</sup>, a load of vegetables carried to market. chhài-koái<sup>n</sup>, a stalk of a vegetable, esp. of mustard. chhài-pau, minced long turnips mixed with various things (meat, &c.), rolled up in a thin cake and fried. chhài-pé, long turnips sliced and salted. kiâm-chhài, the leaves of the mustard plant salted for food. khong-chhài, long turnips salted and boiled soft. chhin-chhài, cold vegetables; to weigh vegetables. liàm-chhài, to pick off leaves and other refuse from vegetables before cooking. tôh-chhài (C.), id. (v. tóh).

chhài-chi<sup>n</sup>, money paid for various condiments, meat, vegetables, &c., and all except the rice. chhài-kheng, a basket for buying meat, &c., for household use. tsú-chhài, to cook meat, vegetables, &c., all except rice. bóe-chhài, to buy meat and all sorts of condiments, animal or vegetable; a comprador who provides provisions. pán-chhài--ê, a man who makes meals or feasts for sale. kā--lâng pán-chhài, to make ready such meals. pán-chhài, to procure and prepare food, as for guests. àn-chhài, please eat! piên-chhài, common ordinary fare; pot-luck; a plain common meal. chhê-chhài piên-png, id. lê-chhài, dried or salted meat and other condiments for use on a journey. sàng-lê-chhài, to present such meat or condiments to a friend or mandarin on his starting for a journey.

chho-chhài, animal food and vegetarian diet as contrasted. chheng-chhài, vegetarian diet. chiâh-chhài, to be a vegetarian. chiâh-tng-chhài, to be a strict vegetarian at every meal. chhài-kàu, the vegetarian sect. chhài-tng, a vegetarian hall or lodge. pán-chhài-toh, to prepare a vegetarian meal. chhài-pút, idols that have no animal food offered to them. chhài-png, cheap and poor offerings to the spirits (v. png). chhài-kong, a vegetarian keeper of temple, appointed by priests to cook for them, but not himself a priest.

chhài-soe, vegetables in general. chháu-chhài, vegetables and other small plants. chhài-koe, a long soft sort of cucumber. chhài-tâu, a bean with a very long pod; used in the pod. tâu-chhài, sprouted beans. chhài-hoe, cauliflower (v. hoe). koà-chhài, the mustard plant. pên-chhài, cabbage. ko-lê-chhài, foreign cabbage. chhài-ki, si-bák sa<sup>n</sup>-tùi, one should be equitable in dealings (fig. from embroidery).

chhài — bé-ka-chhài, young "bé-ka" fish, a few inches long.

chhài — bák-sin chhài-chhài, eyes looking firmly and intently.

chhài — âm-kún chhài-chhài, neck very stout and stiff.

chhài, to set; to place; to place firmly; to be placed, as an idol. chhài-pút, to set up an idol; to have an idol in the house. chhài sin-tsú, to set up ancestral tablets. chhài-i, to set a chair. chhài-toh, to set a table. chhài teng-hé, to set a small lamp.

ka-nng-jit chhài ti-chia, all day here, without ever going away! as an idle fellow; or as a petitioner urgently asking and refusing to go away. tiâ<sup>n</sup>-tiâ<sup>n</sup> chhài--teh-chê, id.; sitting (either as idle man, or person urgently pressing something).

chhài (T. sái, Cn. sài). chhài phoà-noã<sup>n</sup>, very urgent and quite devoid of shame or self-respect, in trying to get what one wants; as child taking no denial; or as a beggar that you may scold, insult, or beat, but he won't desist; or as poor relative or acquaintance who will have something from us whether we will or no, = siet-nai<sup>n</sup>.

chhài (= sái). chhài âm-tók, to conspire against a man; to cause evil or trouble to a man by secret plots.

chhài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chheng, a thousand.

chhài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chhâm. chheng, silk-worm, &c.

chhài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chheng, a sort of dusting brush; to dust or brush with it.

chhài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chheng, to waste lavishly.

chhài<sup>n</sup> (= chhái). chhài<sup>n</sup>-iui, to paint in colours.

chhài<sup>n</sup> — chhài<sup>n</sup>-sek, to work in colours, as in painting or embroidery, &c. chhài<sup>n</sup>-péh, some white put on a ground of another colour. chhài<sup>n</sup> koá-ang, put on a little red. beh-chhài<sup>n</sup> sim-mih-sek, what colour do you wish to put on?

chhak, a scroll (as a map or picture) for hanging up. chit-pak-chhak, one scroll. chhak-koái<sup>n</sup>, the rollers of scrolls. chhak-tsoá, thick paper used for scrolls. pè-chhak, thick paper used for scrolls.

chhak — chhak-khiã, stiff, as well-starched clothes, or as thick paste-board.

chhák (R. chhók), to cut with a chisel; to pierce or stab; (a chisel). chhák-á, a chisel. poe-chhák, a broad chisel, about two inches. chhùn-chhák, a chisel one inch broad. hun-chhák, a narrow chisel, from one-tenth to four-tenths of an inch. si-hun-chhák, a chisel four-tenths of an inch broad. kúg-chhák, a gouge. pi<sup>n</sup>-chhák, a broad chisel with thin edge.

chhi-chhák, to grieve, as if piercing the heart; pained and dazzled (eyes) by the sun. ka-lé-chhák, close fighting hand to hand. chiã<sup>n</sup>-chhák tò-phut, cutting, slashing, and piercing, as in close combat; cutting the material so as to spoil and waste it, as an unskilful workman.

ngi<sup>n</sup>-chhák, too hard, as fur or hair; too stiff and determined, as language.

chhák-he, to caulk. chhák he-tsoã, id. chhák pé-lâu, to caulk and stop leaks. chhák-hoe, to carve flowers; to carve. chhák-khang, to make a mortice. chhák-sún, to make a tenon.

chham (R. id.), to mix; to report an officer's misconduct, as his superior does, accusing him to a still higher superior.

chham-siong, to deliberate together.

chham-hú, a military or naval officer, below a "hiáp," sometimes called a colonel. chham-chiong, id. chham-bê, an officer who assists in planning battles, &c.

kah-chham--teh, mixed together. sa<sup>n</sup>-lâm-chham, mixed, as good and bad, of the same sort of article. chham-lam, mixed. chham-chhu, mixed in confusion. chham-chhi, id. chham-lâi chhap-khi, id. chham-chhüi, mixed in confusion, as several sorts or sizes, when all ought to be uniform; or as room all in disorder.

hó chham-phái<sup>n</sup>, good and bad mixed. hó-phái<sup>n</sup>

彩
襯

幅

鑿 金

參

在 在
祀左

孱

田

燦

葱

葱

chham-poàn, good and bad mixed in about equal proportions. chham-thng; to mix some sugar. thâu-mng chham-pêh, hair partly gray. chham khah-pòh, to dilute, as tea or liquor.

chhâm [R. the silkworm], (C. chhêng, T. chhâi<sup>n</sup>, Cn. chhî<sup>n</sup>). chhâm thê-si, the silkworm vomits silk. khiong-chhâm, a medicinal preparation of preserved silkworms.

chhâm (cf. khâm, chhiâm, chhâm). phah toâ-chhâm, to beat large cymbals. toâ-chhâm-ké, a pair of large cymbals along with drums. chit-hù toâ-chhâm, a pair of large cymbals.

chhâm (R. id.), wretched; miserable. chhâm-chhoeh, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhâm, do. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhâm-chhâm, very miserable and wretched. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhâm lók-phek, id. ai-oàn chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhâm, bewailing one's miserable fate. ai-chhâm, deeply grieved. chhâm--ah, alas!

chhâm-tâm, affairs all gone wrong; countenance or sky overcast. chhâm-sòng, wretchedly poor. tiòh-chhâm, to meet with calamity. tng-chhâm, just now become very miserable. chhâm-chhut, a tragedy.

chhâm (R. chham?). chhâm-pêh, gray, as beard or hair, white and black mixed.

chhâm (R. id.), to foretell; to prognosticate. chhâm-gú, a prophecy. chhâm i-ê-hó, to prognosticate good fortune for him. chhâm i ôe-hó, id. chiù-chhâm, imprecations and curses; incantations against others. liâm-chiù liâm-chhâm, to perform incantations against others.

chhâm [R. to repent, rites for the dead, &c.] keng-chhâm, Buddhist religious books. chin-keng chin-chhâm, true books of religion (Buddhist). che-chhâm, Buddhist rites for the dead (v. che). pài-chhâm, to perform such rites. pài-chhâm-tsòe, id. pài-tsng-chhâm, to perform very expensive rites for the dead for several days.

chhâm — chhâm-chhâm, long continued, as rain or tears. bák-sái chhâm-chhâm-lâu, tears flow in streams. hê chhâm-chhâm-lòh, rain for several days steadily.

chhan (R. id.), to murmur, as water running, or as kettle simmering. tsúi chhan, water murmuring.

chhan, to groan; to moan. ai<sup>n</sup>-ai<sup>n</sup>-chhan, to groan sadly. hâi<sup>n</sup>-hâi<sup>n</sup>-chhan, id. chiáp-chiáp-chhan, to groan incessantly, as a sick man. hi<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>-chhan, id. hê<sup>n</sup>-hê<sup>n</sup>-chhan, id.

iau chhan, pá chhan; chiáh-pá, kiò kan-lân, always grumbling and complaining, even when just having eaten enough. khàu-chhan, to complain without cause, or for insufficient cause. gâu khàu-chhan, always murmuring and complaining without cause; falsely complaining of poverty, &c., only said in scolding people for being dissatisfied. lí teh-khàu-chhan, you dissatisfied murmuring fellow!

chhan (C.), = A. chheng, a thousand.

chhan (R. id.) chhan-jiók, having no powerful influence to back one, and therefore weak in a quarrel or feud.

chhan [R. a feast, a meal]. it-jit sam-chhan, to have three meals a-day. boán-chhan (X.), the Communion; the Lord's Supper. hòe-chhím bông-chhan (R.), to forget to eat and sleep, as from grief.

chhân (C.), a silkworm.

chhân (T.), a large hank of yarn or hemp fibres.

chhân [R. chhan, feeble, weak]. chhân-chhoã<sup>n</sup>, a small sort of eel.

chhân (R. tsân), cruel. chhê-chhân, violent or cruel; fond of fighting, striking, or injuring people. sim chhê-chhân, cruel-hearted. sim put-chí-chhân, cruel, pitiless. chhiú put-chí-chhân, fond of fighting and striking. chhân-chhiú, id. chhân-thâu, rough and violent, as a coarse low fellow, ready for anything bad (s. field).

chhân — chhân-chháu (C.), = sin-chháu, a plant from which a cool jelly is made.

chhân — chhân-i<sup>n</sup>, a dragon-fly.

chhân (R. tiên), an irrigated field; a surname. chit-khu-chhân, one irrigated field. chhân-iú<sup>n</sup>, a flat plain of rice fields. chhân-khu, irrigated fields in general. chhân-bé, fields in general. chhân-hng, cultivated fields, either wet or dry. chhân-tí (Cn. T.), id.

chhân-hoã<sup>n</sup>, raised boundaries of irrigated fields (v. hoã<sup>n</sup>). chhân-keh, subsoil of a field (v. keh). chhân-giap, landed property. chhân-tsø, rent of fields. chhân-khòe, deed of sale of fields. chhim-chhân, deep miry rice fields.

tsòh-chhân, to cultivate fields, esp. irrigated fields. tsòh-chhân-lâng, a farmer. khui-chhân, to begin to cultivate waste land, laying it out for irrigation. èng-chhân, to manure fields. pè-chhân, to plant out the young rice from the seed-plot.

chhân-tsú, yams. chhân--ê, grown in wet fields, as potatoes. chhân-kap-á, a sort of frog.

chhân-thâu-má, title of the spirits of a shrine or small temple holding the tablets of persons who have no posterity. chhân siú<sup>n</sup>-kang, an idol of the surname "chhân."

sán-chhân gâu-sò-tsúi (barren dry fields absorb much water); debts eat up gains; lean men eat much (prov.)

chhán (C.), = A. chhêng, a duster chhán — phah-chhán (C.), = A. phah-chhêng, to use wastefully.

chhàn (R. id.) chhàn-lân, splendid, dazzlingly beautiful.

chhàn — ôe-chhàn, the inner sole of a shoe, close to the foot. chhàn-phê, leather inner sole of shoe.

chhang — lin-chhang, the teat, especially the orifices.

chhang (R. chhong), an onion or leek; a socket or ferule or such tube; colour of onion leaf, dull blue of common Chinese cotton cloth.

chhang-kng, a ferule; a funnel for a lamp; a cover for point of pen; or such sort of tube. chek-chhang, a candle-socket. khí-chhang, porous, as lava, or as leavened cakes.

chhang-chhài, onions, leeks, &c. hong-chhang, a sort of leek, good for colds. chhang-thâu, onions (root). chhang-tsu, onions (roots) cut down for eating. chhang-pêh, white part of onions near the root. jiét-iú-chhang, onions cooked in fat.

chhang, a sort of sweetmeat drawn out in long crisp porous sticks. thng-chhang, id. pèh-thng-chhang, white sort.

chhang (R. chhong). chhang-pê, the Acorus, hung up as a charm on 5. 6.

chhang (R. chhong). chhang-miã<sup>n</sup>, clever, intelligent, talented.

蚕

鏡

慘

參

識

懺

潺

孱

千

chháng — chháng-pèh, very white gray, almost white.

chháng (cf. chhiáng). jû chháng-chháng, entangled, involved, perplexed.

chhàng, to hide, as a tiger among reeds, or as a thief or other bad character among promiscuous company in his resort. chhàng-làng tī-hia, he usually resorts and hides there. chhàng-ke (T.), the head of a gang of robbers.

chhàng (R. id.) chhàng-chhàng, all in disorder, as hair. chhàng-mng, hair dishevelled; feathers ruffled, as a bird when ill; to erect the feathers of the tail, as a turkey-cock. chhàng-bé, to erect its tail, as cat or tiger. chhàng-chhiu, moustaches on end with rage.

hòng-hòng chhàng-chhàng (C.), incautious or reckless in doing a thing.

chhap, to meddle with, to have to do with, as with a person or affair; to shuffle, as cards.

chhap-lap, to meddle with, to associate with, as with promiscuous company, esp. with persons of suspicious character; to associate with, rather improperly or incautiously; to mix up, as cards in shuffling. chhap-lap-i, don't have anything to do with him.

kau-chhap, to be associated or connected, as in business, so as to be involved in his responsibilities or losses. bô-sa"-kau-chhap, not at all involved in his affairs.

chhap pài-á, to shuffle cards.

chhap-tsáp, mixed in confusion. chhap-jióng, all in confusion; great confusion and noise. chham-lâi chhap-khi, confusedly mixed.

chhap-chhùi, to talk when we have no business to talk. chhap-chhap chhùi-chhùi, in a disorderly state, as room, &c. chhap-chhùi-chhéng, all in disorder or confusion, as things or affairs. chhap-chhùi ê seng-lí, a miscellaneous small business.

m-chhap, will not meddle with the matter; will have nothing to do with it. m-chhap-i, will have nothing to do with him, one way or another. goá-m-chhap, it is no affair of mine; I will not meddle at all. m-chhap-lí-tng, m-chhap-lí-té, will not meddle with your affair in any way. bôh--tit chhap-i, have nothing to do with him, either for or against him. chhap-sū, to meddle with other people's matters. chhap tái-chì, id. ài-chhap-sū, fond of meddling in other people's affairs. chhap-êng-sū, to meddle with what is no concern of ours.

chhap (R. id.) chhap-hiet hōe-bêng, to make a league or confederacy by mixing each other's blood in liquor and drinking it (forbidden by law), esp. for rebellious ends. chhap-hiet tông-bêng, id. chhap-huìh kiet-bêng, id.

chhat [R. to investigate]. séng-chhat, to examine into. sióng-sè séng-chhat, do. very minutely and carefully. tsa-chhat, to investigate officially, as the messengers of a mandarin. hóng-chhat, to make official investigation (somewhat secretly), as mandarin.

àn-chhat-si, the provincial judge. àn-chhat-hâm, having the rank of provincial judge without the office.

sit-kak-chhat, to neglect one's duty (as mandarin, or as person in charge of something), so that much injury ensues.

chhat (R. id.), to blot out; to score out. chhat-siau, id. chhat-siâu, to mark an account settled; to score off an account. chhat chit-ji, to blot out a character.

chhat (R. chhek), varnish; lacquer; to varnish. sái-chhat, to varnish. chhit-chhat, id. tsú-chhat, to boil varnish, in preparing it. ká-chhat, to strain and press out the prepared varnish in making "sék-chhat."

iû-chhat, paint and varnish; to paint or varnish, in general. iû-chhat sai-hū, a painter and varnisher; a painter. chhat sai-hū, id. kéng-iû pù-chhat, paint must be put on thin; but varnish may be thick, several coats.

hé-chhat, a cement like wax, melted by a heated iron. he-chhat, varnish mixed with lime, as a cement for crevices. chhat-mī, a very strong cement made of flour and varnish. chhi"-chhat, unprepared varnish, duller colour. sék-chhat, prepared varnish. kan-chhat, unmixed varnish, without any colour.

chhat-chhiu, the varnish-tree, from the juice of which varnish is made; the leaves are beautifully red in winter. chhat-liâu, material for varnish, ready for use. chhat-seh, a brush for varnishing or painting; a paint-brush. chhat-khi, varnished or lacquered wares.

chhat-kim, to make idolatrous paper in imitation of gold. chhat-kim pè-pòh, id. chhat-lèk, to varnish light green. chhat-chhi, to varnish a bluish green. ü-ε chhat-pèh, to scribble and scrawl black and white; said also of a dirty face, esp. of a boy.

khít-chhat-kā, to get a sore from the effect of varnish; the exhalation from it is enough to affect some constitutions.

chhát [R. chék, a robber?]. pèh-chhát, a lie. pèh-chhát-ōe, id. pèh-pèh chhát-chhát, all lies together. kóng-pèh-chhát, to tell a lie.

chhát (R. chék), a robber, a thief; a bandit; a rebel. chhát-thâu, a head of thieves, robbers, pirates, or rebels. chhát-hé, one of a gang of thieves, pirates, &c. chhát-á, a young or raw thief or pirate. chhát-lá, id. chhát-bōe, a thief's spy.

chhát-bé, thieves, robbers, or pirates. hó-bé-chhát, a skilful thief, robber, &c. hiáng-bé-chhát, great highway-robbers. hái-chhát, a pirate. hoán-chhát, rebels. chhát-húi, banditti. chhát-khê, rebels, banditti, or great bands of robbers. cheng-piàng ê-chhát, a housebreaker; a burglar. kiap-chhát, a robber. kióng-kiap-chhát, a burglar; a highway-robber. kióng-kòng-chhát, a burglar. chhú-chhát-á, a pilferer; a thief who steals small articles, as clothes, &c. lióng-sim-chhát, a thief or robber who levèls a good deal not stolen. kun-tsú-chhát, a thief who looks like a respectable man (so that you would not suspect him), who steals small and valuable things; said also of a man who has an intrigue with another's wife.

chhát-chhi, a rascal or scoundrel who injures or cheats, or plunders others. chhát-phe, an abandoned lad on the way to become a robber. soa"-chhát (C.), a tiger.

chhát-bák, a covetous eye. chhát-sim, a covetous heart. chhát-sim chhát-héng, covetous heart and conduct. chhát-héng, coarse large uncultivated appearance. chhát-siòng, id. chhát-mih, stolen goods. chhát-hè, id. chhát-siü, a den of robbers or resort of thieves, pirates, &c. chhát-chéng bêng-àn, cases of robbery and murder.

chhát--ah, thief! thief! hiám-chhát, to call out "thief!" jióng-chhát, to make a loud outcry and

漆

插

賊

歎

察

擦

楚
草 口
草

shouting after a thief. thong-chhát, to be in league with rebels or robbers, &c. tsáu-chhát, to flee from robbers or bandits. tsáu-chhát gū-tiòh-hés, fleeing from robbers meets a tiger; out of the frying-pan into the fire. tng-chhát, to wait to catch a thief. chhiò-chhát, to search for thieves with a light. tiâu-chhát, to tie up a thief by his hands. tún-chhát, to fasten a thief to a large stoue (as punishment). phiáh-chhát, to crucify a robber. cheng-chhát, to go in force to attack piratical or robber villages. tsòe-chhát chit-ki<sup>n</sup>, chhiú-chhát chit-mí<sup>n</sup>, though the thief comes only in one watch, we must be on guard all night (v. chiú). chhát kiap-chhát, one robber robbing another of his booty (said of a cheat being cheated in his turn). chhát piá<sup>n</sup>-chhát, thieves or bad men quarrelling among themselves. chhát hoah-chhát, a thief shouting out "stop thief!" that he may himself escape detection (said of a had man condemning in others the very things that he does himself).

chhau [R. chho, to hold, to exercise], to drill; to exercise. sa<sup>n</sup>, chhau--khí-lái, to hold up one's clothes with the hand, as when crossing a stream, walking on wet road, or going down a steep path.

chhau-ién, to drill; to exercise. chhau-liên, do. chhau-peng, to exercise soldiers. khui-chhau, to commence the (half-yearly) drill or review. lòh-chhau, to go to drill or review, as troops. tsú-chhau, a naval drill or review. soa<sup>n</sup>-chhau, drill or review on land. toā-chhau, a large review. sió-chhau, small do. (s. copy).

chhau [R. chiau or chiâu, grieved, scorched, = col. chhiau]. chhau-sim peh-pak, heart sorely distressed, agitated, and ready to break with distress and anxiety. chhau-sim, id.

chhau (Cn.) chhe-chhe chhau-chhau, in great quantities, as food. chhe-chhau, id. jiét-chhau-chhau, in great numbers or crowds, as persons.

chhau (R. id.), to copy a writing. chhau-jī, id. chhau-siá, to write out a copy, e.g. as clerk in public office. ám-chhau, to write out a passage of a book from memory. chhau-pún, a manuscript copy. chhiú-chhau--ê, copied by hand, as a book. chhiú-chhau (C.), = chhiú-chih, a memorandum-book. chhau-siáu, to transcribe an account. chhau-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to write a fair copy. sió-chhau, manuscripts containing copies of official documents and news (esp. from the capital), sold in the provinces from the want of newspapers.

chhau (= chhâu, tsâu, chhiau), to exterminate.

chhâu (= ehau, &c.) chhâu-biét, to exterminate. chhâu sam-tsók, to kill an offender along with his family, and the families of his wife and mother.

chhau (Cn.), = A. chhiâu, to alter (slightly) the place or position of a thing.

chháu [R. chhiâu, slightly]. chháu-chháu, but small; of small extent; said (e.g.) politely in speaking of one's own business.

chháu (R. id., = col. chhá, chhá). chháu-lâu, to wrangle; loud clamour; to make an uproar in order to cause annoyance or trouble. chháu-nâu<sup>n</sup>, id. chháu-chháu-jióng, constant hawling or violent noisy disputing. chháu-táh, to cause trouble and disturbance, as at a house or shop (v. táh).

chháu [R. thê, head, = col. thâu]. lát-chháu, strength.

chháu [R. chhó, the state of Tsoo, under the Chow dynasty]. chháu-pà-ông, name of a famous king of that state; a usurper.

chháu — chháu-tsōng (esp. C.), to pretend that a thing exists that has no reality.

chháu [R. khé, the mouth, = kháu]. chiáh toā-chháu, determined to have a large fee, as doctor or mandarin's people. hó-chhí-chháu, a good trade at good price and many customers. hó-chháu-hâm (C. T. hó-kháu-hâm), able to eat anything with good appetite and good digestion; voracious. uih-koe-ko, phah chháu-lô, a child's game (v. uih).

chháu — niú<sup>n</sup>-chháu, provisions; provender.

chháu (R. chhó), grass; herbs; weeds, reeds, small shrubs or brush-wood, ferns, &c. (fur); said also of some coarse or inferior things. chit-phô-chháu, a large bunch of growing grass, weeds, or small shrubs. chit-ki-chháu, a stalk of grass, &c. chháu-ki, a stalk of grass; a straw. chháu-ki poáh-tó-lâng (a straw makes a man fall), great disasters come from small causes.

hoan-chháu, to chew the cud. thoá<sup>n</sup>-chháu, to cut up grass and small plants for fuel. khau-chháu, to root out grass, weeds, &c., for any purpose. tsat-chháu, to pack with straw (as furniture) by wrapping straw round it. liáh-chháu, to thatch. khâm-chháu, to cover loosely with straw.

chháu-chiáu, a boat that carries grass and brush-wood for fuel. chháu-á-liâu, a shop where they sell grass, &c., for fuel (v. liâu). chháu-tsáh, an instrument for chopping straw, as to mix with lime.

chháu-lâng, a figure of a man made of straw, &c., as for "tái-sin" in superstitious rites, or for use as a scare-crow. chháu-pau, a bag made of straw or grass-matting; a stupid fellow. chháu-in, a wisp of straw. chháu-chèng, a straw or reed mat. chháu-si<sup>n</sup>, id. chháu-sim, the best sort of reeds for mats. chháu-phí, a small sod of turf. chháu-phí-á, id. chháu-phíá<sup>n</sup>, a sod of turf; also, straw beaten small and made into round cakes for mixing in mortar. chháu-phíá<sup>n</sup>-he, mortar made with lime and these straw cakes (with little sand and little or no clay) for the surface of good walls. chhiáh chháu-phíá<sup>n</sup>, to dig up sods of turf for laying turf. thoá<sup>n</sup> chháu-phíá<sup>n</sup>, to tear up turf for fuel. chháu-he, mortar made of mud (only) mixed with coarse cut straw.

chháu-ióh, vegetable medicines. chháu-thâu, roots of grass and small plants.

chháu-pán, coarsely cut blocks for printing. chháu-ní<sup>n</sup>, an inferior (local) sort of the medicinal plant called "ní<sup>n</sup>."

chháu-pê, a grassy piece of ground; a meadow, a grassy plot. chháu-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), grassy ground. hó-chháu-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), fine grassy ground suitable for grazing cattle. chháu-tê (F.), = soa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the country, as opposed to the town.

chháu-á-sèng, quick-tempered; a quick temper (like grass that rapidly catches fire and as rapidly goes out).

hoái<sup>n</sup>-chháu bô-ní<sup>n</sup>, tit-chháu bô-liám, very gentle; very honest.

chháu-meh<sup>n</sup>, a grasshopper. chháu-kâu, an insect like a large grasshopper. chháu-hí, a fish that feeds on grass.

phê-chháu, fur of animals, as used for dress, &c. hê-li-chháu, foxes' fur. mng-chháu, fur; hair or wool or fur; feathers on the bird.

操

憔悴

抄抄

抄勦

稍吵

頭

湊

chhàu [R. chhò, to meet with]. chhàu-khám, unexpectedly and suddenly; accidentally, by chance. chhàu-tú-khám, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu-chhàu, accidentally and fortunately met. chhàu-khiáu, accidentally and fortunately. chhàu-chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, suddenly starting, as at a ghost.

臭

chhàu (R. hiù), bad-smelling; suppurating; rotten; vile; (deaf); much said in vile scolding. àu-chhàu, rotten and bad-smelling. phang-chhàu, sweet-smelling and had-smelling. m̄-bat phang-chhàu, not able to distinguish good and bad.

chhàu-lâng, deaf. chhàu-hi-lâng, id.

chhàu-thâu, scabbed head. chhàu-bin, face having sores; unpleasant countenance (v. bin). chhàu-bák, eyes sore and suppurating, or ulcerated (chronic). chhàu-kha, leg having a bad sore or ulcer. chhàu-chhùi-kak, corners of mouth suppurating.

chhàu-sim, having a very bad heart, always trying to injure people; having a rotten heart, as fruit or potatoes. chhàu-sim tók-hêng, heart and conduct very wicked and injurious. chhàu-hêng, very wicked-injurious conduct. chhàu-chiēn, very mean and low (v. chiēn). chhàu-miá<sup>n</sup>, having a vile reputation; notoriously bad. chhàu-chi<sup>n</sup>, money got by vile means. chiáh-chhàu-bí, said of the underlings of yamuns, esp. of customs.

chhàu-hōe, wild aloes.

chhàu-lâu, appearing much older than he really is.

sio chhàu-ta, to singe or scorch; hurned taste. chhàu-hé, having a smoky taste. chhàu-hé-hun, id. chhàu-hé-lo-bi, having a singed burned taste (v. lo). chhàu-thê, having an unpleasant earthy taste or smell, as tea or water. chhàu-iú, having an unpleasant oily smell or taste, as food ill-cooked. chhàu-chho, strong unpleasant smell, as of fish. chhàu-chhi<sup>n</sup>, bad tasted because too raw, as ground-nuts not fired enough. chhàu-sng, sour from being kept too long. kam-chiá chhàu-bák, sugar-cane bad tasted. chhàu-hiu<sup>n</sup> han-tsú, potatoes having faults in them. chhàu-hiēn, heavy smell, as of meat. chhàu-hiam-hiam, very stinking. chhàu-siōh, very abundant, and so cheap as to be of no account.

m̄-thang-lā; chit-lā chit-chhàu, don't raise the matter; if raised it will be very unpleasant.

chhauh [R. táp, constantly]. chhauh-chhauh, = tauh-tauh, constantly.

chhe (R. chhui), (C. chhoe, Cn. chhō), to cook by steaming. chhe-ké (C. chhoe-kóe), to cook cakes by steaming. chhe-tháng, a large wooden vessel used for steaming rice. chhe-pø, a bamboo frame used in cooking by steam. chhō-tsoah (Cn.), a bamboo frame for steaming and cooking (v. tsoah).

chhe (C.), = A. chhoe, beginning. tng-goán-chhe (C.), at the beginning (s. send).

chhe (C.), = che, chhê, = A. tsa, to investigate.

chhe [R. chha, a fork, to fork or branch out; crossed, as strokes or hands; to overlap], (C. chhe), a cross made in shape of St. Andrew's cross; one of the notes of Chinese music.

Also, chhe (C.), = A. chha, to overlap.

khui-chhe, to branch out, as a tree or branch, &c. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khiu-chhe, mind distracted by having to attend to two separate pieces of work or business, each being important and engrossing. hi-bé-chhe, shaped like a fish's forked tail. siang-chhe-lē, road dividing into two. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhe-lē, road dividing into three making four in all. si-chhe-lē, place where four roads meet.

phah-chhe, to make a mark in shape of St. Andrew's cross, as in a book or document, &c. phiet-chhe, to mark (as bad or blundered) by such a cross; to be at variance with; to have a slight quarrel. phoat-chhe, id.

chhe-chhiú, to put each hand into the sleeve of the other.

chhe-á, a forked pole. thih-chhe, a trident-shaped weapon. thê-lêng-chhe, a sort of trident-shaped weapon, for catching a sort of eel called "thê-lêng." bâ-chhe-á (C.), a three-pronged trident used in hunting. kong-chhe (C.), sort of three-pronged fork for spearing wild animals.

chiáh-liáu toā-chhe, taking too much of the meat and condiments at a meal (opening the chop-sticks too wide, and taking large lumps).

chhe [R. chha, divergent streams], (C. chhe). siang-chhe-hô, confluence of streams.

chhe — chhe-chhe chhau-chhau, in great quantities; abundant, as food at a feast. chhe-chhau, id.

chhe — jiét-chhe-chhe, very desirous of something. hê-chhe-chhe, = hê-chhê-chhê, managing matters very carelessly.

chhe [R. chha, to differ, to send], (C. chhe), to send (a person); (to employ, as messenger or servant); constables or police.

chhe-khién, to send (a person). chhe-ēng, to employ, as a servant; a servant. chhe-kah, to employ, as a servant. chhe-kiò, id. chhe-sái, to employ, or use (as person), or send messages. hōng-chhe, to be sent, as by a superior or person in authority. bōe-chhe--tit, not fit to be employed or sent on such business.

chhe-tsún, mandarin vessels used for action against pirates or smugglers. chhe-sū, the business on which any one is sent officially.

khim-chhe, imperial messenger, as any commissiour or ambassador. hù-chhe, an assistant messenger, great or small. kè-chhe, persons used to convey criminals to their place of punishment, &c. niú<sup>n</sup>-chhe, collector of land-tax.

goán-chhe, constables who are sent out with warrants. kai-chhe, the constables for a particular day. tō-chhe, constables employed by the Tau-tai. sēng-chhe, the "keng-sēng" and the constables. chhe-sēng, id. chhe-iáh, constables and police, &c. khoài-chhe, servants kept at yamun for going short distances with messages. chhe-kha, hangers-on who go along with constables to serve warrants. tsáp-chhe, servants in a yamun for going messages, and doing odds and ends of work; servants occasionally engaged at temples, &c. tsáp-chhe-pāng, room in yamun where these servants stay. thēng-chhe, messengers in a civil yamun, at the call of any of the principal employés, to be sent messages. tng-thēng-chhe, to have this employment. pang-chhe, unauthorized assistants of the constables. chhe-tsóng, head of the police, &c. chhe-lé, gratuity given to the constables when they serve a warrant.

kau-chhe, to hand over a man to the constables to keep in ward, as mandarin does. pí-chhe, to beat the constables for failure in duty, as mandarin does. áu-chhe, to beat constables, as unruly people when a warrant is served on them. thek-chhe, to order out constables on special duty. tng-chhe, to be employed in the service of mandarins. tng-kong-chhe, to be

汉

差

沓
炊

叉

employed on distant official business, e.g. carrying despatches, or arresting a criminal at a distance. tng-lâi-chhe, to have one's work within a yamun, as servant. tng-goā-chhe, to be employed in yamun for going messages (name not enrolled). teh-tng toā-chhe, said fig. of having some heavy expenses to bear, as of idolatrous feast.

pān-chhe, to make all the preparations for lodging, food, &c., of a high mandarin coming on a visit (and for his attendants), as the local mandarins do; to prepare the furniture and fittings of a yamun for a new mandarin, as smaller mandarins do for their superior; and as the constables do for a small mandarin.

ko-chhe, a man who watches the boys of a band of actors (for the man who hires them out), seeing that they do not run away.

chhe (C.), = A. chha, different, in most phrases, e.g. cheng-chhê, to differ, &c.

chhe (R. chhui), (C. chhoe, Cn. chhō), to blow, as the wind does; a wind-instrument, a pipe; a kite; distinguish from "pūn," to blow with the mouth or with instrument.

chhe-sit-hé, to blow out a light, as the wind does of itself. chhe-hong, blowing (as the wind); to be blown upon by the wind. hong chhe, the wind blows. hong-chhe (C. kong-chhê), a paper-kite. pàng-hong-chhe, to fly a kite. hong-chhe-teng, a lamp tied to tail of kite. hong-chhe-lién, a toy that turns with the wind.

hun-chhe, a tobacco-pipe. a-piên hun-chhe, an opium pipe. tsú-hun-chhe, a pipe for smoking tobacco through water. chhi<sup>n</sup>-hun-chhe, a tobacco-pipe with a mouth-piece and a brass bowl. kòng-káu hun-chhe, a short pipe with a very heavy head. phuh-hun-chhê, to blow the smoke from one's mouth. hun-chhe-tê, a bag for holding the pipe. hun-chhe-thâu, a probe for cleaning the stem of a pipe. hun-chhe-thâu, the bowl of a pipe; the end of a pipe at the bowl; it is a great insult to strike with it.

ké-chhe, drums and wind-instruments; one drum and two pipes. pūn ké-chhe, to play these instruments. chit-tin ké-chhe, a band of them. chit-tin-chhe, id. bé-chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhe, a band of music on horseback, as at idolatrous processions. pat-im-chhe, a band with eight sorts of instruments. chhe-pan, mandarin's band of musicians.

pūn-chhe, to play a sort of wind-instrument. toā-chhe, a sort of clarinet.

chhe [R. a wife; cf. chhoe]. hu-chhe (R.), husband and wife. chhe-kū, wife's brother. chhe-kim, wife of wife's brother. tek-chhe, the legal wife. hiên-chhe, my good wife! it-chhe it-chhiap, one wife and one concubine. chhe-tsú sū i-hók, wife and child are like one's clothes. cheng-chhe toát-tiên, kiên-sú jū-biên, in defence of wife and lands, look on death as a sleep. seng, tsok bān-jin-chhe; sú, tsok bū-hu-kúí, said of a bad woman, in life having connection with many men, after death belongs to no husband. hān-tan-chhe, sat kiú-hu, the wife of Hān-tan was betrothed to nine bridegrooms who all died. hān-tan-chhe, said of a woman whose horoscope is deadly to those betrothed or married to her, or to connections.

chhê (R. súi), (C. chhōe; Cn. chhō), a long thin rod of wood or bamboo. chhê-á, id. ko-chhê, a long thin bamboo pole. m<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>-chhê, cross bars of a frame for drying macaroni. hé-chhê, a poker. kiò-koa<sup>n</sup>-chhê, to call out for mercy while being beaten in court. gâu-kiò koa<sup>n</sup>-chhê, said of a child crying much when struck quite gently. iau-koe m<sup>n</sup>-ūi-chhê; iau-lâng, m-kè bīn-phê (or, "bô-sioh bīn-phê"), a hungry hen does not fear the stick; a starving man does not care for his character.

chhê (C.), = A. chhōe, to crawl on hands and feet. chhê — khám-chhê (T.), = A. khâm-chhê<sup>n</sup>, cymbals.

chhê (C.), = A. chhâ, to investigate.

chhê (R. id., perhaps two words), to fold together with a loose tie; to tie a loop, gen. loosely; a noose, a slip-knot; a small hank of thread; (to take at an average).

chhê-á, a small hank, as of thread or twine.

chhê-chhiú, chhiú; reins. bé-chhê-chhiú, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhê, intertwined, as the coils of two ropes. chhê tsòe-chit-tui, to fold together, as a pair of stockings. chhê tsòe-chit-ê, id. chhê-lé tsòe-chit-ê, tie all (loosely) together. chhê-khi-ân, make the knot tight.

chhê-chhiam, to bend one knee (as to a superior), but not so far as to touch the ground.

khan-chhê, to accuse of being art and part, as in our own fault or crime.

khien-chhê-ân-khi, to take things at an average, good and bad mixed (v. ân). chhê-lâi chhê-khi, to take at an average (as things or persons) what is better in one making up for defect in another.

chhê (R. chhiú); (C. chhōe; Cn. chhō), marrow; brains. thâu-khak-chhê, brains. kut-chhê, marrow. phái<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip kut-chhê, very wicked. thiá<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip kut-chhê, pain very severe. lêng-koa<sup>n</sup> hong-chhê, dragon's liver and phoenix brains; said of most expensive food.

chhê (R. id. by change of tone from "chhiat"). it-chhê, all at once, entirely, all.

chhê (= chhe). hê-chhê-chhê, managing matters very carelessly.

chhê (R. id.); (C. chhê), a necessary. chhê-ti, id. lòh-chhê, to go to stool. chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhê, id.

chhê (cf. chhê). lūi chhê, thunder rattling very loud. chhê-chhê-háu, sound of a rushing stream, or of rain running in torrents from the roof. hê-lòh kàu chhi-chhi chhê-chhê, rain in torrents, as on the roof. chhi-chhê-háu, id.

chhê (R. chhiú), brittle, crisp, as toasted food; crank, as a vessel. chhê-tauh-tauh, exceedingly brittle. tsūn chhê-chhê, the vessel is very crank, and ready to upset.

chhê (C.), = A. chhōe, to scrub.

chhê (cf. chhê); (C. chhê). chhê-chhê-tò, falling abundantly, as tears, rain, or water. tsú chhê-chhê-tò, water falling abundantly, as in a cataract, or heavy rain from roof. bák-sái chhê-chhê-tò, tears falling profusely. bák-sái chhê-chhê-láu, id. bák-sái chhê-chhê-tih, id. hê chhê-chhê-lái, heavy lashing rains.

chhê (= chhê<sup>n</sup>). tsúí-khâm-chhê, a small bird (the magpie robin?).

chhê (C. chhōe; Cn. chhō), to search; to look for, as for something lost; to demand payment, as from a security; to demand assistance in a matter, as from a surety.

chhiau-chhê, to search carefully, as for something lost. tsáu-chhê, id. chhê-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to search for. chhê-tiòh, to find by searching. chhê-ū, id. chhê-bô, to search but not find. chhê-m-kì<sup>n</sup>, id.

扯

髓

切差廁

脆

尋

吹

妻

筇

pé-chhē (C. p<sup>o</sup>e-chh<sup>o</sup>e), to search diligently for something. pé-chháu chhē-chhin (to search in the grass for relations), said of a man very good at finding out relations. moá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup> chhē-siá-hia<sup>n</sup> (to search the whole city for a fellow-villager), to look for what is hopeless to find (as "a needle in a hay-stack"). chhē thâu-sū, to try to find a clue to an affair.

chhē-khang chhē-phāng, to look for an opportunity, as of extorting money, or of slandering or injuring another. chhē sí-lē, to act so as to bring death and ruin on one's self, by any wicked courses. chhē-sin, to call the spirits of the dead. chhō-siá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to consult a sorcerer who calls up spirits.

chhē [R. tsō, to sit; cf. col. chē, chhāi]. ām-kún chhē-chhē (C. chhōe; Cn. chhō), = ām-kún chhāi-chhāi, neck very short and thick.

chhē-giáh (C.), = A. chē-giáh, to accept responsibility for payment, as of expenses which we had authorized. chhē (C.), = A. chē, to accept responsibility or stand security; but in other phrases chē is both C. and A.

chhē (= chhe, chhē<sup>n</sup>), one of the Chinese musical notes.

chhē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chhi<sup>n</sup>, when the final of the reading form is eng; e.g. green; indigo; raw; star.

chhē<sup>n</sup> (T. chhē). chhē<sup>n</sup>-á, small cymbals. khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>-ké, musical instruments used at funerals (cf. chhē<sup>n</sup>).

chhē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chhi<sup>n</sup>, to waken; feeling the sexual impulse, as a female animal; said, in vile obscene scolding, of women.

chhē<sup>n</sup> — chhin-chhē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chhin-chhi<sup>n</sup>, pretty.

chhē<sup>n</sup> (cf. chhe, chhē), one of the Chinese musical notes.

chhē<sup>n</sup> (T. chhē, in most phrases). chhē<sup>n</sup>-chhē<sup>n</sup>, sound of small gongs. khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>-chhē<sup>n</sup>, sound of gongs and cymbals. pún á<sup>n</sup>-m-chhē<sup>n</sup> (C.), sound of wind-instruments.

chhē<sup>n</sup>-lō, a small gong about eight inches across (v. lō). khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>, a pair of cymbals. khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>-ké, a pair of cymbals and a small drum, used for funereal music. phah khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>, to strike cymbals, only in funereal music; also, a vile scolding phrase among women with women.

chhē<sup>n</sup> (= chhē). tsúi-khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>, a small bird. sái-khám-chhē<sup>n</sup>, id. (khám?).

chheh (R. chhoat; (C. chhoeh; Cn. chhōh), to sip, as gruel, &c. chheh-thng, to sip soup. chheh-khùi, to take a great mouthful of air, as on suddenly meeting a strong wind.

chheh [R. chhek, thin tablets, a list]; (C. chheh), a book; a list; a record; (not used in Cn. except for "a list;" while "tsü" is always used for a book).

hau-peh-chheh, venetian blinds or shutters.

chiū<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to insert on a list or record; to be formally recorded or put in a list.

ôe-chheh, a book for holding threads of many colours for embroidery of all sorts.

keng-chheh, classical books. goā-chheh, other sorts of books. tsu-chheh, books. chit-pún-chheh, one book.

chheh-teh, a weight of metal or heavy wood, for keeping a book open. chheh-chhiam, title pasted on outside of book. chheh-gán, do., also title-page. chheh-chih, paste-board cover for several volumes. chheh-phê, book-cover. chheh-kun, cloth in which school-boys fold up their books. chheh-pau, bundle of books thus folded up. chheh-tū, a book-case, esp. with doors; a book-press. chheh-kè, book-shelves.

chheh-miá<sup>n</sup>, name given by teacher to the scholar. chheh-mng, themes for the third Kujin examination.

chheh-á, a book with superstitious receipts for diseases. khòa<sup>n</sup>-chheh-á, to consult it, in case of sickness. chheh-á-tsoá, various sorts of idolatrous paper, mixed up according to the prescriptions of that book, for certain diseases. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhia sin-chheh-á kú-láh-jit, raking up old stories (quite out of date) against people.

khòa<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to read a book silently. thák-chheh, to read a book aloud; to learn and study a book. thák-chheh ê-lâng, a scholar; a literary man. thák-sí-chheh, to read words, learning the sound without understanding the meaning. thák-bô-chheh, not making progress in study. thák chêng-si-chheh, to learn a book very quickly, as if having read it in a former life.

liām-chheh, to recite the lesson. siū-chheh, to give out a lesson. siū<sup>n</sup>-chheh, id. un-chheh, to revise a lesson. iáh-chheh, to turn over the leaves of a book. tū-chheh, to compose a book. kap-chheh, to bind a book. pun-chheh, to distribute books. khóa<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to select books, as in making up a set or selecting a number to take out. thōng-chheh, to pile up books in an even pile.

chheh [R. chhoat, to take up with the fingers], (C. chhoeh, Cn. chhōh). chit-chheh-á, a very small quantity, as of food.

chheh (C.), = A. chhoch, sad; exclamation of grief and surprise, as at some injustice, misfortune, or great wickedness.

chhéh (C. chhéh), to sink down, as a wall on a bad foundation; to come down, as a sail when the rope breaks, &c. &c. chhéh--lōh-lái, to come down, as a sail when rope breaks, or as a kite; to settle down, as house on bad foundation, or as a door settling down so that the hinges will not work well.

chhéh--lōh-khi, very far gone in sickness, as when constitution is broken. chhéh-tōe, to have the bottom leaky and ready to fall out, as a bucket.

chhéh<sup>n</sup> — phoá-chhéh<sup>n</sup>, sound of a broken hoarse voice.

chhéh<sup>n</sup>, noise, as of crockery dashed together, or such loud sound. chhéh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, sound of loud thunder. lūi chhéh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, thunder rolling loudly.

chhek [R. chhiok, to gore, to meet with, as misfortune, &c.; cf. "tak"], to meet with, as a bad omen. chhek-tiōh-kúi (lit. meet a demon), to meet with an unexpected difficulty (as by the opposition of some one not thought of) which quite upsets our plans. chhek-soe, to meet with a demon or sickness, or some bad omen or bad luck. chhek-è, to offend the majesty of a god by unclean conduct in his presence; to draw down calamity on another by impure conduct (v. è).

chhek, to tie a loose knot. chhek--teh, tied very loosely. chhek oáh-kat, to tie a very loose knot, that is easily opened. chhek khah-tng, tie a loose knot at greater length, as to keep a thing from being in the way; make the piece to be broken off longer than you were going to make it. chhek khah-té, tie the loose knot at a shorter length.

chhek [R. chhiok, to press close; this group perhaps belongs to two words], to make shorter. chhek-oá, to press very close to. chhek oá-oá, id.

坐

鏡

啜

冊

撮

chhui-chhek, to come gradually to each others' terms (s. fathom). chhek--lôh-lâi, to come down to a lower price. chhek-kê--lôh-lâi chiü--i, to come down near his price.

chhek-kha--lôh-lâi chiü--i, to come down towards his position, as a superior showing condescension to an inferior, as making explanations to him, or dispensing with ceremony; to come down to a lower price to meet his offer.

chhek-kê, to bend one's body (but keeping head straight up), as in order to pass through a low door. chhek-khah-kê, id.

chhek [R. chhiok, to hurry, urgent]. pek-chhek, too urgent and too hard on people.

chhek [R. chhiok, to cut]. chhek-thâu kôe-bé, to make an old article (of furniture) as good as new by a thorough repair; said figuratively of other things. chhek-thâu oâ<sup>n</sup>-bé (T.), id. of anything.

chhek [R. chhiok, a small bird]. chhek-chiáu-á, a small bird like a sparrow. kim-si ñg-chhek-chiáu-á, a small yellow bird.

chhek [R. a foot, = col. chhiok]. chhek-chhùn put-i, not needing to be changed at all (not a foot or an inch). chhek-tók, a book of models for letters and such documents (s. fathom).

chhek (R. id.) kê-chhek, a scheme; a plan or plot. sok-chhiú bú-chhek, arms folded on breast, and having no plan to get out of the difficulty.

chhek [R. connections by the female line and by marriage]. chhin-chhek, relations and connections in general. chhin-chhek ke-kū, id. chhin-chhek-kan, among relations and connections. chhin-chhek-kan bô-lün, accounts are not kept too strictly among connections. bô-chhin bô chhek, having no relations or connections alive. lâi-chhin goâ-chhek, relations and connections by blood and by affinity. goâ-chhek, relations by female line and connections by marriage.

chhek [R. the knee, C. chhip]. lâi-tsu chhek-hā, iú hông-kim (there is yellow gold below a man's knee), a man should not lightly or basely kneel.

chhek (R. id.) giú-chhek, = giú-chhip, a medicinal plant (v. giú).

chhek (R. siok), (P. chhiok), rice in ear; growing rice; paddy; rice in the husk.

bí-chhek, rice in general. bí-chhek hi-bí, rice-crop scanty. chhek-chéng, seed-rice. chhek-gê, dried sprouted rice. chhek-mí<sup>n</sup>, the awn of rice.

chhek-thâu, light empty refuse rice that does not separate from the husk in the mill called "thô-lâng;" it is used for feeding animals.

phâ<sup>n</sup>-chhek, empty rice. phâ<sup>n</sup>-chhek-hiü<sup>n</sup>, a plant used to give fragrance to liquor. hong chhek phâ<sup>n</sup>-chhek (wind blows away empty rice), said of ill-fated persons taking an epidemic. hong chhek phâ<sup>n</sup>-chhek, pók-hok--chiá siü, id.

chhek-siâ<sup>n</sup>, a large boarded receptacle for rice, as in a granary. chhek-chhng, a rice granary. chhng-chhek, rice from public granaries not good. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhek, id.

phi-chhek, to spread rice in the sun to dry. oe-chhek (P. e-chhiok), to separate the husk from the rice by the "thô-lâng." ké-chhek, to winnow rice.

chhek [R. to fathom]. chhui-chhek (r.), to consider carefully (s. shorten).

bôe chhek-tók--tit, cannot be searched and found out, as the heart. put-chhek, unexpectedly bad, evil, or dangerous. put-chhek ê-tâi, unexpected evil, calamity, or danger. sim put-chhek, his heart is very wicked. tsün-sim put-chhek, secretly plotting evil in his heart.

chhek [R. red, = col. chhiok]. chhek-sin lē-thé, naked or nearly so, e.g. perhaps short drawers on. kün-tsu--chiá, chhek; kün-bék--chiá, hek, he who comes near vermilion gets red, near ink gets black.

chhek (P.), = A. chhiok, in some words.

chhek (P. chhiok), to shake, as pencils or chopsticks, to make them even; to shake up and down, as a sedan, or as on horseback; to shake or jerk, as a hag of rice to make it hold more, or as a bundle to get it right on the shoulder; to compare evidence, or discuss each other's claims (as the two parties) face to face.

chhek-tsôe, to shake even, as pencils or books; to arrange a matter so that both sides are satisfied; all the parties arrived. chhek-khah-khi, to replace a bag or bundle that was falling from the shoulder, by a jerk of the body. chhek-gú-lin, to shake milk (in a bottle) to make butter.

tüi-chhek, the two parties in a dispute discussing their affair together, so as to settle it.

chhiau-chhek, in high spirits, exulting with delight, as a child boisterously happy; also, shaken about (as in a sedan or boat) so as to feel uncomfortable in the stomach.

thiô-kha-chhek (T.), to hop.

chhek (cf. jök), to work up in the hands, as dough, or as clay for an image.

chheng [R. blue, green, = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>]. chheng-i, a blue dress worn by Sew-tae graduates. lâi-chheng, id. chheng-liên, a purplish blue colour. üi tan-chheng, to paint in colours (lit. blue and red).

chheng-phí, a medicinal skin like orange or citron skins. chheng-tâi, a green medicinal salt. lèk-chheng (R.), bitumen.

chheng [R. chhin, self, one's own]. chheng-teng, the clerk who keeps the account of goods shipped and delivered; a sort of assistant supercargo. chheng-teng-thâu, id.

chheng (R. id.) chheng-hê, to address by an honourable designation; to style. chheng-tsân (R.), to praise. thong-chheng, general appellation politely added to another's name, e.g. ko, chek, peh, chin, tai-jin, &c. tsü-chheng, to style one's self in a boasting or egotistic way. tsun-chheng, to give an appellation which is indeed customary, but rather higher than is strictly correct. chheng-ông chheng-tê (lit. styling kings and sovereigns); to be one's own master, as man of independent means, or who has a business of his own; or of an employé when his master allows him to do as he pleases.

chheng (R. chhin), (T. chhai<sup>n</sup>, Cn. chhiü<sup>n</sup>, C. chhan, but P. chheng), a thousand. chheng-it, eleven hundred. chheng-bân, ten millions. kúi-nâ bân chheng-kun ê-lát, strength of several myriads of thousands of pounds.

chheng [R. chhoan, to perforate; cf. chhng]. chheng-soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, a sort of gingall.

chheng (P), = A. chhiong in some tones and words.

chheng (R. id.), clear, pure, clean; to clean; only; to pay off, as an account; clear and bright, as sky, or as red colour; (vegetarian); free from care or anxiety or need of toil; comfortable; fair and just; the Manchoo dynasty; cooling in its effect, as food or medicine.

sam-chheng, the Taoist trinity. tai-chheng,

赤

青

親

稱

千

穿

清

促感
斫
雀
尺

策
戚

膝 膝
粟

測

the Manchoo dynasty. chheng-tiâu, id. chheng-bêng, the "feast of tombs;" correct and clear (v. bêng).

koe-nng-chheng, white of (hen's) egg. thng-chheng, sugar melted in warm water. chiu<sup>n</sup>-chheng, a salt sauce (v. chiu<sup>n</sup>). thâu-chheng, opium refuse made up for smoking. ji-chheng, the refuse of the "thâu-chheng" made up again for smoking (very poor and bad).

chheng-tsá, very early in the morning. hiên-chheng (C.), at present.

jit-chheng, a journal or day-book in business. chhó-chheng, a rough scroll-book or sale-book in which sales are entered at the time, to be afterwards copied into the day-book.

chheng-chhó, settled, as account; clear, distinct, and accurate, as a statement. chheng-chhé, id. bô-thang-chheng, unable to pay off the score. chheng-siâu, to pay off, as account (v. siâu). chheng-hoân, id. khioh tsòe-chit-ê chheng, to settle a number of old scores at once, either of money or of grounds of offence and quarrel.

chheng-liâm, pure and uncorrupted by avarice, as mandarin. tsòe-koa<sup>n</sup> chheng, to be pure in his official duties. lâi chheng, khi bêng, all clear, open, and correct, as a ready-money transaction. chheng-pék, unspotted in character. it-sin chheng-pék, whole life blameless. ke-hong chheng-pék, family of blameless reputation for some generations. chheng-pék-ke, id. sam-tâi chheng-pék, do. for three generations. chheng-thien pék-jit, in broad daylight; weather fine, clear, and sunny; just and fair, as mandarin (said by himself).

chheng-khi, clean. chheng-khi-siù<sup>n</sup>, id. sóe-chheng, to wash clean. sam-kang-tsúí sóe-bôe-chheng, the water of the three great rivers could not wash it clean. pià<sup>n</sup>-chheng, to clear out thoroughly. chheng-tí, to clean out a pond. chheng kau-á, to clean out a ditch.

ke-sù chheng, very poor. ke-sù chheng-tâm, id. (v. tâm).

chheng-chheng, only, simply, merely. chheng-chheng-m, decidedly refusing; doggedly refusing; often without reason or without giving a reason. chheng-chheng-beh, decidedly or persistently desirous; often without good reason.

chê-chheng, to settle and become clear, as a liquid. têng-chheng, to settle, as muddy water (v. têng). chheng-chêng, very pure. tsúí chheng, hi-hiên (when the water becomes clear the fish are seen), the trick will out at last, and a man's character be cleared. chheng-tsúí, tsú péh-bí (white rice cooked in clear water), candid and truthful.

chheng-chhài, vegetarian diet. tsòe-chheng-chiò, to fast and perform the rites called "chiò." chiáh-chheng, to take food or medicine that has a cooling tendency (not as to warmth). chiáh-chheng khùn-keng, to eat vegetarian food and sleep in a temple; to have an easy life of it; said also of a man who lives on his parents or his property without any cares, or of a man who has no family cares.

chheng-êng, free from care, anxiety, or need of toiling; in easy circumstances (v. êng). chheng-hân (R.), id. it-jit chheng-hân, it-jit sien, such a man is as happy as one of the genii. chheng-khò, having a little money or property so as to be in no need of toiling to earn money. hê-siù<sup>n</sup> put-chí-chheng, Buddhist priests are very free from care (with perhaps an inuendo at their vegetarianism). chheng-sim, mind untroubled and free from cares, having no wants and no cause for anxiety. chheng-sim-toâ<sup>n</sup>, taking it easy and amusing one's self; rather jolly. li teh-chheng-sim, you are taking it far too easy, e.g. refusing to take responsibility that you ought to take, or amusing yourself and keeping jolly or easy when you ought to be sad. ké-chheng, pretending to be joyful when really sad or anxious; pretending to be very good, and finding fault with the very sins that he himself commits.

thi<sup>n</sup> chheng-chheng, sky serene. chheng-liâng, agreeably cool, as weather; cooling, as medicine. chheng-hong bêng-goât, wind pleasant and moon bright; fine cool moonlight night. chheng-chhái, bright and unclouded, as sky; in a state of comfort and prosperity (v. chhái). chheng-sóng, comfortable, clean, and neat; pleasant, as a place; at ease and leisure. chheng-hiu, neat and comfortable, as a house. chheng-kéng, comfortable and well got up, as house; comfortable in mind and circumstances. chheng-chhun-sí, period of blooming youth (v. chhun). chheng-hé, making great manifestations of delight; feeling quite comfortable and at ease; to remove the hot principle so as to bring down fever or inflammation. teh-chheng-hé, very much pleased, and showing it outwardly (said half in joke). chheng-siù, elegant and gentlemanly, as a man who is rather thin and of cultivated manners. chheng-phang, pleasantly fragrant, not too strong-smelling.

chheng-âng, bright red.

chhêng (R. iông), (C. chhiông), (sometimes, esp. T., chêng), the banyan-tree. chhêng-chhiu, id. chhêng-chhiu-chí, its fruit (useless). chhêng-chhiu-ông, the god of the banyan. chhah-chhêng, to stick banyan branches on the door on 5. 5 (v. chhah). ti-bú-chhêng, a tree somewhat like a banyan. thái-ko-chhêng, a tree like a banyan. chhêng-chhiu, abortive roots of banyan.

chhêng (R. siông), (C. chhiông; Cn. chêng; T. chêng, chhiu<sup>n</sup>). chhêng-peh, the common fir-tree. chhêng-peh-iên, resin from do. chhêng-peh-lái, fir-cones. thái-ko chhêng-peh, a diseased fir-tree. thái-ko chhêng-peh chhut-miá<sup>n</sup> (lit. it produces resinous matter), said of a notoriously bad man.

chhêng-hê, leaves of fir-tree. chhêng-hê-chhiu, id. chhêng-lin, resin, as taken from the tree.

chhêng — khút-chhêng, scraggy and ill-formed; of unpleasant and repelling temper (v. khút).

chhêng (cf. sòng, chhiáng). pùn-chhêng, corpulent or thick-set and awkward; thick and unwieldy; clumsy, coarse, and ugly, as man or thing.

chhêng — chiú<sup>n</sup>-chhêng, that half of a Chinese oar that has the handle.

chhêng, a sort of narrow spade or hoe; to dig up with it, as oysters. thih-chhêng, a sort of narrow spade. thê-chhêng, id. pùn-chhêng, a sort of spade or hoe for removing dirt. ô-chhêng, a narrow spade for gathering oysters. chhêng-ô, to gather oysters with it.

chhêng [R. chhâm; C. (R.) chhân, the silk-worm]; (also, chhêng (C.), = A. chhâm, the silk-worm).

soa-chhêng (T. soa-chhái<sup>n</sup>), an edible mollusc, found in sea-sand.

chiáh kim-chhêng, to be bewitched by a charm connected with golden silk-worms (that have wonderful magical power), so as to become their slave; done by secretly mixing poisonous charms with food. chiáh--

榕

松

螯

蠶 蚕

tiòh kim-chhêng, id. chhâi kim-chhêng, to set up an incense vessel for the worship of them, as the sorcerers do.

chhêng [T. chhái<sup>n</sup>; Cn. chhüi<sup>n</sup>; C. sometimes, chháu); to dust; to flap its wings as a bird throwing off dirt; a sort of brush. chhêng-á, a soft brush for dusting. tsang-chhêng, a brush made of palm fibre. koe-mûg-chhêng, a dust-brush made of feathers. tek-chhêng, a bamboo scrubbing-brush.

chhêng-he, to whitewash. chhêng-thûn, to sweep away the soot of a year in the twelfth moon. chhêng-sàu, to dust and sweep. chhêng-thô, to flap its wings so as to throw off dirt, as a fowl does. chhap-chhùi-chhêng, all in disorder, as things or affairs. thâu-mûg chhap-chhùi-chhêng, hair dishevelled or in disorder; e.g. when working very hard with no time to comb.

chhêng (T. chhái<sup>n</sup>; C. chhán). phah-chhêng, to use lavishly, as money; to waste and abuse (in use), as things.

chhêng (C. chhoán), to act in a bragging manner. siàu-liên teh-chhêng, a young fellow acting in a bragging manner. chhêng-pang, to act or speak in a proud or big way; to brag. chhêng-pang-tsúi, id.

chhêng — phók-phók-chhêng, to palpitate. phiák-phiák-chhêng, id. chhih-chhih chhêng-chhêng, playing about, as an idle boy.

chhêng [R. to invite, to request, = col. chhiá<sup>n</sup>]. chhêng-an, to salute. chhêng-kong, to request a reward for meritorious services to the state. chhêng-kàu (polite), I beg you to instruct me. chhêng-bêng, to ask the commands of a superior. chhêng-chí, to request to know the imperial will.

chhêng [R. id. (by change of tone from chheng, to name or style); to fit, to suit]. chhêng-i, to suit one's wishes. bêng chhêng-kí-sit, having a good reputation and deserving it. put-chhêng, not suiting well with another thing or things, e.g. articles of dress with each other, or as furniture with house. bô-chhêng, id. bô-chhêng-chit, not fit for the office. put-chhêng-chit, id.

chhêng (R. chhiòng), (P. chhiòng); a gun, a cannon, musket, pistol, &c. chit-mûg-chhêng, one gun or cannon, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-mûg-chhêng, three guns fired as a salute to a mandarin of considerable rank. an-ki<sup>n</sup>-chhêng, the one signal gun fired at the first watch (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). jī-mûg-chhêng, the two shots fired at second watch. khui-lê-chhêng, the gun in the early morning, signal for opening the city gates. liên-hoân-chhêng, many guns (muskets, &c.) fired in rapid succession.

pûg-si<sup>n</sup>-chhêng, a very poisonous serpent, probably a cobra. chhêng-ki-chi<sup>n</sup>, a rocket. chhiú-chhêng, solitary lasciviousness.

bé-chhêng, a pistol. sió-chhêng, do. sió-chhêng-á, id. hoan-á-chhêng, foreign fire-arms (often said of pistols). gē-pak-chhêng, a five-barrelled revolver. siang-pak-chhêng, a double-barrelled gun or pistol. toa<sup>n</sup>-pak-chhêng, a single-barrelled gun or pistol. toā-pak-chhêng, a gun of large bore. chiáu-chhêng, a gun, a musket. toā-chhêng, a large cañon; an opium pipe. giā-toā-chhêng (lit. carry large cannon on shoulder), to be an opium smoker; to meet with some very great calamity, or severe disease, esp. venereal. lêng-kòng-chhêng, a very large cannon. hé-chhêng, a sort of gingall with tiger's head. hē-goá khi-giā-hé-chhêng, you set me to a very difficult task. káu-tsai-chhêng, a sort of gingall with nine rings like joints. tek-chhêng, a bamboo gun, used by children.

chhêng-kè, frame of a cannon, instead of a gun-carriage. chhêng-chhûg, stock of a gun. chhêng-sin, barrel of gun. chhêng-koái<sup>n</sup>, id. chhêng-hī, touch-hole. chhêng-tauh, sort of lock that holds the match of a matchlock. chhêng-khang, a port-hole in fort or vessel. chhêng-ien, port-holes in a vessel (v. iên). chhêng-bé-to, a bayonet. chhêng-chí, a bullet, shot. chhêng-chí bat-lâng, the bullet knows the (fated) man; every bullet has its billet. chhêng-thok, a ramrod. chhêng-thuh, id. chhêng-ióh, gunpowder. chhêng-tháng, small barrel for carrying ammunition for the guns. chhêng-kék, an arsenal for fire-arms.

chhêng-túi, a company of musketeers or riflemen. chhêng-siú, an artillery-man, a gunner. chhêng-peng, a musketeer or rifleman. chiáh-chhêng, to be a soldier who uses a gun, to be a musketeer or rifleman. keng pài chhêng, the three sorts of soldiers, who use bows, shields, and guns respectively; the bow is the highest.

phah-chhêng-siá<sup>n</sup> (T.), rites to get a soul out of that part of hell where those who have been shot are confined.

chhêng-pé, a target for musket or rifle practice. khó chhêng-pé, to practise shooting with guns. khó-chhêng, to drill or review at shooting (gun-practice), as mandarins. khoe-chhêng-bô, sort of soldier's cap.

phah-chhêng, to shoot with a gun or fire-arms. siá-chhêng, to discharge a gun (just to let it off) without an aim. pàng-chhêng, to shoot with fire-arms, in general. khui-chhêng, id. tióh-chhêng, to be shot or hit by ball or bullet, or shot. tióh-chhêng--sí, to be shot dead. chhêng-siong, a gun-shot wound.

chhêng — chhêng-kám-pang, the (loose) boards that make the false deck of a Chinese junk, laid above the real water-tight deck.

chhêng — chhêng-éng, to manifest great delight by gesticulation, as a person in inferior position on getting power or influence.

chhêng (C. chhiòng); to spout or jet out from an opening, as steam or vapour, or a torrent; to emit steam, as lime in slaking; to ascend, as the vapour of a sacrifice; to affect or be affected by, as a vapour or malarious influence; to scent by placing some fragrant thing near; to build a little higher; to cook very dry with little water, as rice or potatoes.

chhêng--tióh, to affect as a vapour, steam, or odour; to come violently upon, as a torrent. chhêng-lêng--tióh, id.

chhêng-phi<sup>n</sup>, to blow the nose. chhêng-phoá láng-phi<sup>n</sup>-khang, said of a very strong odour (pleasant as of cooking, or very unpleasant, as of rotten things) coming strongly on the nostrils.

chhêng-téng, the head all covered with a disgusting soft eruption. si<sup>n</sup>-chhêng-téng, id.

chhêng-koán, to sing very high notes, as boys. chhêng-bōe-koái<sup>n</sup>, unable to sing very high notes; unable to build up high, or to spout up high. chhêng-khah-koái<sup>n</sup>, to build higher, as a house (as by adding a story to an old house); to spout up higher, &c. chhêng-koái<sup>n</sup>, to spout up, as steam or smoke in a jet. hé-hun chhêng-koái<sup>n</sup>, the smoke rising in a jet. ien chhêng--khi-lái, steam suddenly spouts up.

筊

逞

請

稱

銃

稱

凌

chhēng-té, to flavour tea with sweet herbs or flowers. chhēng-hún, to scent hair-powder with flowers. chhēng-hiu", to scent things by laying them beside incense.

chhēng-khì, to be affected by some vapour or exhalation, good or bad. chhēng-thê-khì, to be affected by exhalations from the earth; to be cooled by the damp air of the ground, as medicine set to cool on the ground that its effects may be less heating. chhàu-mih" chhēng--lâng, bad smells coming to one's nose or affecting one.

chhēng iū-pūg, to boil rice dry in a peculiar way (v. pūg). chhēng han-tsū, to boil potatoes dry with the skins on.

chhēng (P. chhiōng), to wear or put on, as clothes (but not hat or cap). chhēng-sa", to put on coat, shirt, or any dress of upper part of body. ke-chhēng-sa", to put on or wear more coats, &c. chhēng sa" á-khê, to put on coat and trousers. chhēng-ôe, to put on or wear shoes. chhēng ôe-béh, to wear or put on shoes and stockings.

chhēng-sún, to put a tenon and mortise together. chhēng-mūg, to hang a door on its hinges. giā-lâi-chhēng, bring (the door) and put it on its hinges. sa"-chiáh-chhēng, to fit well together. chiáh-pê chhēng-bú, fed and clothed by parents.

chhēng-sin, to wear new clothes. sin-chhēng, good dress (on one's body). ũ-sin-chhēng, to have on good dress. tsòe-sin-chhēng, to have clothes made for self or for family. sin-chhēng hóng-hóng, very finely dressed. chhê-chhēng, common every-day dress.

kah-ŭ-chhēng, has more wear (or a great deal of wear), as shoes or dress. kim-chhēng (C.), having very good wear, as clothes. khiām-chhēng tit-sin, take care of clothes and they are as good as new.

gún-chhēng-kah, a sort of waistcoat with pockets at the side. gún-chhēng, id.

chhēng-bôe-tiâu, unable to bear so many clothes because of heat.

chhēng-chhah, manner of dress, as fine or simple, good or bad. ũ-chhēng-chhah, well-dressed. hó-chhēng-chhah, id.

kiáu-kùn chhēng kí-koa"-ngòeh, a skilful gambler grown so poor that he has to crouch between the supports of a flag-staff for warmth. hám kàu-bôe-chhēng báng-tà, lies so big that even a mosquito-eurtain could not cover them. thoa-moá" chhēng-soh, to wear coarse ropes of raw hemp-bark round the waist, as son or daughter-in-law at funeral; those who have done so should never be put away though they were only adopted.

chhēng (C.) lē--nih"chhēng--tiòh, to meet on the road.

chhi — só-chhi, the spring and wards of a Chinese padlock. bí-chhi, lock gone wrong.

chhi — mûg-kíng-chhi kiā, hair standing on end, as from fear or cold.

chhi (R. su). hí-chhi, the gills of a fish. chit-hí chiáh-tsúi, chhi-ê kè, the fish called "chit" drinks water, but it goes out below the gills (said of a man forgetful who did him a kindness or favour).

chhi (R. su). gê-tsó-chhi, the part of the check at the roots of the molar teeth (v. tsó). bí-chhi, slight obstruction in the throat (v. bí), (s. wards of lock).

chhi (cf. chhu). chham-chhi, all in confusion; confusedly mixed. chham-chham chhi-chhi, id.

toā-chhi-chha, great profusion of food at a feast. lāu-jiét chhi-chha, very crowded and bustling.

chhi (R. id.) chhi-tsoat, stupid, awkward. chhi-gái, stupid, silly.

chhi (C.), = A. chhu (R.), female.

chhi (C.), = A. chhu, a larva or animalcule.

chhi, to make a hissing sound, as a frying-pan; to sail under press of sail, hissing through the water. chhi-chhi-háu, to make a hissing sound, as frying in a frying-pan. tsúi teh-chhi, water making a hissing sound in boiling. chhi-chhi lâ-lâ, the sound of meat frying in melted fat. chhi-chit-ê, to parch or fry on a frying-pan with little or no fat. chhi-chhi-kún, sound of water boiling (said also of a child restlessly impatient to see or get something); sound of frying.

tit-tit-chhi, to make way rapidly through the water with a hissing sound, as vessel under press of sail. ngi"-liáu-chhi, id. chhi-lâi, to come along at full speed, as vessel coming close up to us. chhi-oá, to run rapidly alongside so as to attack a vessel. chhi-oá, beh-lâi-phah--goá, he ran up rapidly close to me to beat me.

chhi, damp, as hair, cakes, floor, &c. chhiü"-chhi, to grow damp. iám chhiü"-chhi, the salt grows damp. chhi-kauh-kauh, very damp, as cakes or room. lāu-koā" chhi-chhi, slight perspiration on skin.

chhi [R. to hold with the hand]. hú-chhi, to aid, to assist, as gods. chi-chhi, to give some little help to keep a matter from going all wrong. tsú-chhi, to have the full management of an affair. pá-chhi, shrewd, difficult to get round. khim-chhi, very shrewd and skilful, as in managing affairs or giving advice about them, so that it is hard to get round him, and that what he does generally comes right.

chhiá"-chhi--teh, pausing a little to consider before deciding, e.g. before beginning a quarrel. í-chhi, to use temporarily in hope of improvement; to keep up or take care of, as an interim arrangement; to stay for a time in an unsuitable place till a better can be got, or waiting for repairs, &c. bōng-í-chhi, id. chhiá"-í-chhi, id. í-chhi kè-jit, to put up with temporarily (as with employment, place, or person) till something better can be got.

üt-pāng siōng-chhi, gú-jin tek-li (prov.), when people go to law the mandarins and their underlings get their money.

chhi (R. sú), (A. chhi, sú; Cn. sū), a surname.

chhi (R. id.) chhia-chhi, prodigal extravagance or luxury.

chhi [R. a tooth, = col. khí]. kā-gê chhiet-chhi, to gnash the teeth in rage or pain. chhi pék, tūn hōng, teeth white and lips red (said of a pretty face).

chhi (C.) khe-chhi, small flat boats of very small draught for shallow sandy streams.

chhi (C.), = A. ehú, rat, mouse, &c. lé-chhi, = A. niáu-chhú, a rat.

chhi (C.), = A. chhú, to select, &c.

chhi (C.), = A. ehú, to reside, to manage.

chhi (C.), = A. chhú, a piece of wood for mixing mortar. cheng-chhi, a sort of pestle.

chhi (R. id.) kí-chhi, flags and streamers of an army. kí-chhi sien-bêng, the flags all new and beautiful.

chhi (R. si), to try; to tempt; to make trial of. chhi-khoá", to try; to make an experiment; to see

癡疾

趨

持

徐侈齒

幟試

鑄

鯰

腮顯

差

how it will do. chhi-bāi (esp. T.), id. chhi-ēng, to use on trial. chhi-chiāh--chit-ē, to taste so as to try. chhi-chiāh-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id. chhi-siū<sup>n</sup>, to consider carefully.

chhi lāng--ê ôe-i, to try to find out a man's meaning. thâu-mŋg chhi-hé, to rush into evident danger (lit. try fire with our hair). chhi-liēn (r.), afflictions, trials, or persecutions (X.)

chhi — chhiō-chhi, to light a lamp near a corpse. chhi-iū, the oil burned in a lamp beside a corpse (used afterwards for incantations). boah-chhi-iū, to sprinkle (secretly) with this oil, supposed to cause a quarrel with husband. ki<sup>n</sup>-chhi, to come suddenly in sight of a corpse, coffin, or funeral.

chhi [R. a fin]. hi-chhi, fishes' fins for food, esp. sbarks' fins.

chhi [R. a sort of fish]. chhi-hi, a sort of fish very full of bones. chhi-liu, id.

chhi — chhi-chhè-háu, sound of heavy rain on the roof (v. chhè).

chhi [R. chbū, to pierce, to taunt; interchanged with the next word]. ki-chhi, to ridicule; to taunt; to make sarcastic remarks. chhi-khek, to assassinate or attempt to assassinate a sovereign or very high mandarin by a dagger.

chhi (R. ebbū), a thorn; a prickle; a thorny plant. chhi-chhi, very prickly. khí-chhi, rough and uneven, as a surface. giah-chhi, to extract a thorn.

chhi-chhák, to grieve and pierce the heart; to dazzle the eyes (v. cbbák).

chhi-á, a thorn. chhi-phè, id. chháu-chhi, thorny plants. chhi-tsāng, a thorny plant. chhi-loáh, a thorn-hedge. chhi-phè-loáh, id.

chhi-kiū, a ball with iron pricks (used by sorcerers to wound themselves). chhi-kiū-á, round thorny wild fruits. mê-thāng-chhi, a sort of prickly scaworm (v. tbāng). chhi-som, prickly biche-de-mer. chhi-koe, a cucumber. chhi-tek, a sort of bamboo full of thorns. tek-chhi, a long thin bamboo branch; a bamboo thorn. sut tek-chhi, to whip with a thin long bamboo branch.

chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi, causing annoyance or trouble by constantly raising objections or finding fault; very peevish. chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi-lē, do.; also said of an affair that involves many troublesome details difficult to set right. kāu-chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi, do. do. to a great extent. chhit-chhoa<sup>n</sup> poeh-chhi, id. bō-chhoa<sup>n</sup> bō-chhi, there is no flaw or danger of trouble about the affair; no fear (e.g.) of extra expenses or unforeseen difficulties. khí-chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi, to raise trouble when there is no need; to cause mischief by raising objections, &c.; to pick a quarrel. khí-chhoa<sup>n</sup> kí-chhi, id.

noā<sup>n</sup>-thê bō-chhi (soft mud with no thorns), a man who bears injuries without resisting or retaliating.

tsō-chhi, a medicine. hé-hāng-chhi, a sort of cactus. pēng-an-chhi, do., used much on 5. 5. úi-tō-chhi, another cactus (upright and tall). gú-kak-chhi, a sort of hard-wood. koe-kak-chhi, the thistle. koe-kang-chhi-thâu, the root of a sort of thistle (used as a cooling medicine). toā-chhi-thâu, a medicine. chhi-thâu-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a medicine, &c. &c.

chhi (R. id.), a market-street; a street with shops; forms the last word in the names of many market-towns or large trading towns.

chhi-thâu, street or streets of shops in a village. koe-chhi, a market-street; a street of shops. koe- thâu-chhi-bé, the whole market. siā<sup>n</sup>-chhi, a city with its suburbs (v. siā<sup>n</sup>). hi-á-chhi, a fish-market.

chhin-chhi, a sort of silk (v. chhin).

pā-chhi, united shutting of all the shops (of a town or ward) as a demonstration against the mandarins for some injustice. hū-chhi, to arrive at the market in good time. khui-chhi, to begin the sales of the day; to begin business, as a new shop, or as after the holidays.

hó-chhi-chháu, good trade, purchasers numerous and prices good. hó-chhi, id. (s. feed). li-chhi, good sale; good trade. ka-iáh li-chhi, id. tāi-kiet li-chhi, good-luck in trade (somewhat superstitious phrase). pāi-chhi, bad sale; trade not good. khah-phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi, id. (s. feed). kē-mŋg tók-chhi, the only house that has any special article.

chhi — loān-chhi-chhā, crowded or confused, as a crowd, or as the mind (v. chbā). chhi-chhi-kún, sound of men in great numbers swaying about.

chhi-bú chhi-chhū, whispering.

chhi — khùn-chhi-chhi, to sleep very sound.

chhi — chhiò-chhi, smiling pleasant appearance of countenance.

chhi — pè-chhi-á (C.), the young rice-plants that are planted out from the seed-beds.

chhi (R. sū), to feed (active), to nourish; to bring up; to rear; to supply food to; to become food for; to temper, as iron.

iū<sup>n</sup>-chhi, to feed; to support; to bring up. hó-io-chhi, good-tempered and healthy, as child easily fed and tended and growing well. hó-chhi, id. (s. market). phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi, difficult to rear and bring up, as delicate child (s. market).

chhi tsa-bé, to keep a concubine. chhi tsa-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to bring up a daughter. chhi-gín-á, a young boy who serves as a servant (almost like a slave) for food and clothing only. chhi-lí-toā, feeds (or has fed) you till grown up. chhi thit-thō, to keep (as birds) for amusement merely. chhi-lāng, to employ or support people.

chhi bát-sat, to let bugs breed abundantly. chhi-hī, may you be drowned and become food for fishes! also, to feed fish. chhi-chhēng, to be food for powder. chhi-toā-chhēng, id. chhi pán-tsō, id. gē-béng chhi-bāng, the boy named gē-béng got the mosquitoes to bite him so as to spare his parents. chhi-hé, be devoured by a tiger; said of a useless fellow, or of reckless running into danger; said also to frighten children. thâu-khak boah phi<sup>n</sup>-sng, khí-chhi-hé, to try to poison tigers by one's own head smeared with arsenic.

chhi-chiáu, he-hé liáu, the keeping of fancy birds for amusement wastes one's property. chhi cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, to keep or feed domestic animals. chhi-chhiū<sup>n</sup> (esp. T.), id. (v. chhiū<sup>n</sup>). chhi-káu, pui ka-ki, to keep a dog that barks at oneself. chhi-tsoā, kā koe-bú, to nourish a serpent that eats the hens; to have a secret enemy in our house. chhi niáu-chhú kā pè-tē, to nourish a rat that eats our bags (same meaning). chhi-kiá<sup>n</sup>, bō-lūn pŋg; chhi pē-bú, siáu-tŋg, sons get rice without stint, but what parents eat is counted up and grudged. chhi hāu-si<sup>n</sup>, iū<sup>n</sup> lāu-sē; chhi tsa-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, pát-lāng-ê, if you bring up a son he will nourish his old father, but the daughter whom you rear goes over to others. lāng chhi-lāng, sín chit-ki-kut; thi<sup>n</sup> chhi-lāng, pui lut-lut, with all man's feeding he is nothing but

熾

翅

刺

刺

食飼

市

bones; but, if Heaven feed him, he is very fat. thi<sup>n</sup> ná<sup>n</sup>-beh khít-lâng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, chhông thih-thúi kông-bôe-sí, if Heaven will have a man live, you cannot kill him even with a hammer.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-thih (C. chhi<sup>n</sup>), to temper iron in water. chhi<sup>n</sup>-súi, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, to temper the edge, as of a stone-chisel.

chhi<sup>n</sup> [R. chheng, pure]. chhi<sup>n</sup>-miâ<sup>n</sup> (C. chheng-bêng), the "feast of tombs," about April 5th. tâh-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to keep that day by going to the graves and worshipping; repairs are usually made about that time, gen. a day or two before.

chhi<sup>n</sup> [R. seng, to produce, living, raw, = col. si<sup>n</sup>], (C. chhe<sup>n</sup>), raw, uncooked, unacquainted; (wild, irascible); unbroken, as horse; in some phrases gives the idea of haste or touchiness or sickishness.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-sê, unacquainted with a thing, person, &c.; unskilled, inexperienced; ill-composed and unsuitable, as a literary composition. lê chhi<sup>n</sup>, ignorant of the road. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chheh, a book that we are not familiar with.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-kông, acting very impulsively and hastily. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chin, making a sudden start; do a thing very impulsively. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, to be startled. chhâu-chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, sudden start, as at a ghost. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, to startle; to scare away, as birds.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-hoan, savages. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bé, an unbroken horse; a wild, unreasonable, ungovernable man. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bé-khùi, irascible; always ready to quarrel; having violent temper; passionate.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, touchy; readily taking offence, e.g. taking offence at a joke, as if it were in earnest. kôe-chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, id. chit--ê chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, to take offence suddenly when not meant, as a touchy man. pi<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin-hé, a very touchy man (lit. tiger).

chhi<sup>n</sup>-gí, feeling a tendency to vomit, as from a bad taste; suddenly taken aback and feeling suspicious, as at what seems dangerous, or at apparent signs of improper conduct; harbouring suspicion or distrust. chhi<sup>n</sup>-áu, feeling of sickness, bringing up a little sour watery stuff. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iau, incessant craving for food of a diseased stomach. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-iau, to have this feeling.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhin, chilly cold feeling (v. chhin).

chhi<sup>n</sup>-lát-peng, fresh troops.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-khim oah-liáh, to take alive, as a prisoner; very urgent about a matter (v. liáh).

chhi<sup>n</sup>-thih, unwrought iron. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iôh, raw materials for medicine. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, unglazed paper. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iâm, a large-grained sort of salt (med.) chhi<sup>n</sup>-hoân, raw alum. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhat, varnish not fully prepared.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. seng). chhâu-chhi<sup>n</sup>, having a heavy raw or unpleasant odour, as fish, or bad smelling things, or as ground-nuts not toasted enough. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chho, animal diet, as opposed to vegetarian. hi-chhi<sup>n</sup>, edible marine animals, in general.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. chhe). chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhám, wretched, miserable.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. sien); fresh (not tainted), as fish; fresh and unfaded, as flowers; clean and stiffly starched, as clothes or new cloth.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, natural flowers. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, fresh and nice looking, as new cloth or fresh flowers. chiu<sup>n</sup>-khi-chhi<sup>n</sup>, starch it stiff. hi chhi<sup>n</sup>, the fish are fresh. chhi<sup>n</sup> gû-lin, milk curdled but not yet salted.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. chheng); (C. chhe<sup>n</sup>). chhi<sup>n</sup>-mi<sup>n</sup>, blind.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. chheng); (C. chhe<sup>n</sup>); the Chinese indigo plant. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, blue dye. hoan-chhi<sup>n</sup>, foreign indigo. soa<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a wild plant, not any sort of indigo.

phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to work up the indigo in the vat to extract the colour. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tháng, a large tub or vat for steeping indigo. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kng, an earthen vat for dyeing with indigo. khâ chhi<sup>n</sup>-kng, to have such a dye-vat in one's shop.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. chheng); (C. chhe<sup>n</sup>); green; said also of various shades of blue and purple.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-kun, veins as they appear blue on the skin (v. kun).

tâng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, verdegriis; a green paint made from verdegriis. tâng-chhi<sup>n</sup>-hi (having green ears), a sort of fowl supposed to drive away white ants.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-si, a thin silk stuff, of various colours. chhi<sup>n</sup>-si-á, a small yellow bird. chhi<sup>n</sup>-ioh, a small green frog. chhi<sup>n</sup>-thi, green moss.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-á (F.), the areca palm. chhi<sup>n</sup>-á-chí, betel-nut from Formosa, green and soft.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-liâng, the transparent blue button of third-class mandarins.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-kim, gold of greenish colour. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tâng, brass.

hoat-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to put out green leaves. tâu-chhi<sup>n</sup>, short sprouted (edible) peas. kâu tûg-chhi<sup>n</sup>, till no green thing remains, as in great drought. chhah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to put up green branches on a house or field (v. chhah). kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to prohibit cattle from the green crops, done by having a play.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-táu-chiôh, the common green granite of Amoy. chiôh-chhi<sup>n</sup>-sek, the dark dull bluish green of green granite. ah-nûg-chhi<sup>n</sup>, very light blue, colour of duck's egg. liú-chhi<sup>n</sup>-sek, nearly the same colour. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, verdant. chhi<sup>n</sup> lang-lang, bright green, as fields. phû-tô-chhi<sup>n</sup>, purplish blue, colour of grapes. thien-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a dull purple. hoan-á-chhi<sup>n</sup>, dark blue. hâu-huih-chhi<sup>n</sup>, light dull blue, colour of the blood of the king-crab. sam-kong-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of violet-coloured silk.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-ng, pale, as the face of a sick man. bin chhi<sup>n</sup>-ng, face of that pale greenish yellow colour. tai-chhi<sup>n</sup>-ng, id. bin chhi<sup>n</sup>-pêh, face greenish white, as of sickly constitution. bin chhi<sup>n</sup>-sún-sún, face pale with sickness or sudden fear. phah ê-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to beat black and blue.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhông pêh-chhông, not well made; to manage ill and spoil, as affair.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. seng); (C. chhe<sup>n</sup>), a star. chhi<sup>n</sup>-sîn, stars (many). chhi<sup>n</sup>-siù, the stars and constellations. pe-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a falling star.

ke-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the Pleiades. chhit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. chhit). khé-bêng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the morning star. pak-táu-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the Great Bear. sâu-chiú-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet. thoa-bé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id. chhoah-sái-chhi<sup>n</sup> (vulg.), a meteor or falling star. tûg-bé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet; also, a son who brings evil on his father. tûg-bé-chhi<sup>n</sup>-á, said in scolding a disobedient boy who is always causing trouble.

phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet; a very wicked injurious man, as a bad mandarin, or a robber or seducer. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup> jip-kéng, such a wicked hurtful man coming to a place. hoân--tiôh phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to come suddenly on some one whom we wish not to meet; to meet with something that unexpectedly thwarts our plans; to suffer injury from some wicked man or malignant spiritual power.

chhât-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a rascal who plunders or injures others.

清
生

腥
悽
鮮
晴

菁

青

星

親 淺
醒

刺 車

碑

奢

推

斜

hó-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a deliverer or benefactor. kiù-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a man who delivers us from a very pressing danger. ũ-kiù-chhi<sup>n</sup>, there is some one to deliver us from the danger. hó-kiù-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id.

hé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a spark. hé-kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a fire-fly. chhi<sup>n</sup> [R. chhin, related]; (C. chhē<sup>n</sup>). chhi<sup>n</sup>-m̄, the mothers of bride and bridegroom, as related to each other; the wives of the "chhin-ke."

chhi<sup>n</sup> [R. chhién, shallow]; light blue, the colour of common Chinese blue cotton cloth. tim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, somewhat darker blue, as that cotton when new and starched. chhiò-chhi<sup>n</sup>, somewhat lighter blue. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bō, a light blue cap, worn in secondary mourning.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (C. chhē<sup>n</sup>). chhin-chhi<sup>n</sup>, pretty. chhut chhin-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to have small-pox.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. séng), (C. chhē<sup>n</sup>), awake; having the sexual feeling, only said of the females of lower animals, esp. pigs and cats.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, to give an appetite, as a relish does.

lim-chit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to doze for a few moments, as with head on hand.

m̄-tsai-chhi<sup>n</sup>, very soundly asleep. kiò-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to awaken another. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to awaken a man unintentionally. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bin, to awake from sleep; also, to keep one's self awake, as by drinking tea. khùn-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to awake from sleep. poà<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup> poà<sup>n</sup>-khùn, half-asleep. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup> bō-khùn, wide awake. oà<sup>n</sup>-khùn tsá-chhi<sup>n</sup>, late to bed and rising early.

tiám-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to warn (by a hint) of a plot or other danger, as a friend; or as a god, by a dream or vision, &c. chhi<sup>n</sup>-gē (X.), to awaken as to the knowledge of a doctrine; to begin to understand it. chhi<sup>n</sup>-ngē, id.

chhi<sup>n</sup> (R. chhù), to pierce (= chhi), either literally or figuratively of grief at heart.

chhi<sup>n</sup>, an instrument used in making nets. bák-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a wedge-shaped piece of wood, used by carpenters for dipping in ink and drawing lines on wood. bih-chhi<sup>n</sup>, do. made of bamboo split small like a brush.

chhia (R. ku), a carriage; a windlass or capstan; instruments with a wheel, as a lathe, a spinning-wheel, &c.; to turn such a wheel; to turn in a lathe; a surname.

tiá<sup>n</sup>-chhia, windlass for anchor, on bow of junk. phāng-chhia, windlass for sail, at mast. tsúi-chhia, a chain water-wheel for irrigation. tsúi-chhia-iáp, the paddles of a chain water-wheel. chiá-chhia, a sugar-mill. iú-chhia, an oil-press. chhiú-chhia, a spinning-wheel. phāng-chhia, do. phāng-chhia-lún, the wheel of a spinning-wheel. sai phāng-chhia-lún, to make one's arms go round like a wheel.

gú-chhia, a cart drawn by oxen. bé-chhia, a cart or carriage drawn by a horse. hē-chhia, a cart. hé-hun-chhia, a railway train. lēng-chhia hōng-lién, imperial carriage and sedan. chē-chhia, to ride in a carriage or cart. koá<sup>n</sup>-chhia, to drive it. thoa-chhia, to draw a cart or carriage.

tsáp-lák-chhia, the smaller poles used in carrying a coffin; so called, though usually only eight bearers are employed. chhòng-chhia, to fit these poles for a coffin.

chhia-khoan, a capstan bar. chhia-hu, a charioteer; a driver. chhia-soh, a carriage rope; the endless band of a spinning-wheel. phāng-chhia-soh, the endless band. chhia-lún, a carriage-wheel. chhia-lún-ki<sup>n</sup>, a spoke. chhia-ki<sup>n</sup>, id. chhialún-sim, the boss of a wheel. chhia-lún-sng, the axle. chhia-sng, id.

chhia-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to raise the anchor. chhia-phāng, to spread the sail by raising it. chhia-tsan, to raise (by windlass) a square net set on a pivot on rocks by the sea. chhia-se, to transfer the thread from the iron spindle to the wooden spools, or what stand for bobbins. chhia-ké-pō, a man dressed as a woman, who beats the drum at an idol procession (v. ké).

chhia-kui, a turning-lathe. chhia-kang, the expense of turning; men employed as turners. chhia-gē, to turn in ivory. chhia-gē sai-hū, a turner in ivory. chhia-gék, to turn jade in a lathe. chhia-chhâ, to turn in wood.

chhia-poá<sup>n</sup>, to say the same thing wearisomely over and over in a discussion; endless weary repetition of the same arguments. ũ-hoan-chhia, able to accommodate one's self to the circumstances; versatile. pak-lai tiòh-ōe hoan-chhia, you should be willing to change your mind and plans, on being spoken to reasonably. tē-lái lóng-bōe hoan-chhia, too stiff and unable to accommodate one's self to circumstances. bō-hoan-chhia, id.

chhia — pēh-chhia-kū, a white material from a shell, used for opaque white official buttons (v. kū).

chhia, better chiáh. chhia-lát, to be very serious, as a matter of pressing importance.

chhia — lô-chhia, an idol in form of a little boy (= tióng-tân goán-sōe) holding a spear, attendant on Tái-tō-kong, and some other idols. lô-chhia thài-tsú, id.

chhia (R. id.) chhia-chhi<sup>n</sup>, lavish; prodigal in gaudy display and expenditure; wasteful and extravagant in vanities or pleasures. chhia-hoá, id.

chhia (C. chhu), to gnaw or eat up by making holes, as ants and such insects. pēh-hiá chhia, the white ants eat it. khít-thāng-chhia, to be eaten through by insects.

chhia (R. chhui), to push; falling in floods, as water. chhia-tó, to push over; to upset; to unsettle. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhia, to push each other, as in wrestling or struggling.

lái chhia-bú, bú chhia-lái, compound interest accumulating.

thap-tháu-chhia, to fall head-foremost. chhia pha-lín-táu, to make a somerset. hē chhia-teh-piá<sup>n</sup>, rain coming down in floods. hē chhia-teh-tò, id. chia, a waterfall; put after the name of the place, e.g. táng-á-chia, the waterfall near the village "táng-á," near Chang-poo.

chhia — poa<sup>n</sup>-chhia, to move things about, as in looking for something; to talk over and over the very same thing with wearisome iteration, as in arguing. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhia sin-chhēh-á kú-láh-jit (prov.), to rake up old out-of-date faults or reports against a man.

chhiá (R. siá), oblique; slanting; sloping. oai-chhiá, oblique. khi-chhiá, leaning over, as a vessel, or as a wall about to fall.

jit chhiá, the sun about to set. gēh chhiá, the moon about to set.

chhiá-bún, drills or twilled cloth (v. bún). chhiá-thong, the sloping beams of a roof which support the rafters.

chhiá-thé, the thirty-second radical, as written at the side. chhiá-giòk, the ninety-sixth radical, as written at the side. chhiá-ông, id.

斜 清
成

chhiá (R. siá), steep; steeper than "bin," but less steep than "kiá;" about half a right angle.

chhia — bé-chhia (C.), the thick hristles of a horse's tail.

chhia (R. chheng). hok-chhia, Fuh-ting Hien, near Fuh-chau. bân-chhia, Min-ting Hien, near do.

chhiá (R. séng), (dist. from chiá), to make complete; to repair thoroughly; to help a man to complete a thing; to give valuable assistance. chhiá-bé, to complete properly what had been unfinished. chhiá-mih, to make a thing all right that was imperfectly made. chhiá hē-i-hó, id., &c.

kóe-chhiá, to repair or correct thoroughly. chhiá-ke, to take care of a household so as to make it prosper, as a good wife does. chhiá-lâng, to assist a man to get on in life, as a friend does by setting him up in business, or lending him money; or as a benevolent spirit does to his votaries. chhiá-lâng-hó, to help a man to prosper yet more than before. chhiá-tí, to bring up children till they are married, or can take care of themselves. chhiá-i chiá-lâng, to rear and take care of him till he gets married. tng-chhiá, to become of marriageable age, as boy or girl.

chhiá — pùn-chhiá, a coarse shovel-shaped scoop for gathering up sweepings.

chhiá (R. id.), just let —; please just —; now just —; just for a short time —. bóng-chhiá, id. (v. bóng).

ké-chhiá, remissly; carelessly; inaccurately. kió-chhiá (Cn.), id. chiám-chhiá, just temporarily let —; just for a short time —. chhiá-bân, wait a little. chhiá-bân--chia, id. chhiá-lêng--teh, just wait a little before doing it. chhiá-kiá--lí, I intrust this thing to you to keep for me for a short time.

siōng-chhiá, yet notwithstanding; almost always followed by "hō-hōng," or such a phrase, giving the sense "even when . . . yet, . . . how much more" (v. siōng).

chhiá (R. ehéng), to invite; to engage, as a teacher; good-bye. chhiá-mng, to ask politely. chhiá-chē, please take a seat; please don't go away. chhiá-tē, to invite to take a cup of tea. chhiá-hun, to offer a smoke. chhiá-thiap, invitation cards. chit-chhiá chit-chhui, to invite, and afterwards urge more strongly.

chhiá sien-si, to engage a teacher. phèng-chhiá, to make a present to a wise man, and invite him to be a minister of state, &c. (v. phèng).

chhiá-lêng, to ask orders from a military superior, as for an expedition, or for beheading. chhiá-pái, to ask a license for a pawn-shop, &c. (v. pái). poa-chhiá, to get one's family to move, esp. a mandarin's family moving to his seat of office.

chhiá-pút, to invite an idol to come from one place to another; to call the spirit of an idol to come into the body of an enchanter. chhiá-lêng, to invite the spirit of the dead to come and stay in the "lêng-chhiú" during the rites for the dead. chhiá-sin, to invite the spirits to come to some ceremony. chhiá-ông, to invite the spirit "ông-iá" to come. chhiá-bók-tsú, to invite the ancestral tablets to change their place. thau-chhiá, to steal an idol or ancestral tablet. chhiá-hé, to bring sacred fire from a greater temple to an inferior one. chhiá-kng, to get an amulet from an idol.

箕
且

請

sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiá, to invite friends. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiá bó-lūn, when inviting friends we don't count how much they eat. chhiá-toh, to give a feast. chhiá chhun-chiú, to invite to a feast in the new-year's holidays (v. chiú).

chhiá (R. ehèng), to hire, as a boat or servant, or workman (but not said of a teacher). sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiá, id. kê-chhiá, id. chhin-chhiú kê-chhiá, like a hireling (said in blaming a relative for giving too little care to what we intrusted him). tiau-chhiá, to hire specially. tit-chhiá, id. chhiá-kang, to hire labourers; a hired labourer.

iang-chhiá, to intrust a message or commission to a man. chhiá-chhiu (to hire a spear), to engage a man to write an essay for us for the examination.

chhiah [R. ehhek, the side]. chhiah-bák-khoá, to look with a side-glance angrily, displeased, or enviously. sái-chhiah-bák, id.

chhiah [R. ehhek, =chhú, col. chhi, to pierce], to sew or embroider; to brand; to make, as a net; to pierce; to dazzle; to dig, as turf; to stir, as the fire.

chhiah-huih, to pierce so as to bring blood, as in killing a pig. chhiah-tióh chit-ki-chhoa, pierced by a small thorn or splinter. chhiah-tióh-chhi, pierced by a thorn. chhiah-ji, to stamp characters on criminals; to brand.

chhiah bák-chiu, to dazzle the eyes, as the sun; to excite desire, as things seen. chhiah-iáh, an uncomfortable feeling of body, as from dirty clothes, profuse perspiration, or prickly heat; uncomfortable disappointed feeling, as from some loss or cross. phah chhiah-sng-eh, to belch with a bad sour taste and smell.

chhiah-hoe, to emhroider finely with short stitches, the hand keeping on one side of the cloth. chhiah-siú, to emhroider by passing the needle right through and then back. thio-hoe chhiah-siú, to emhroider; emhroidering in general. chhiah-ôe, to sew shoes in making. chhiah-bāng, to make a net. chhiah tsang-sui, to make a rain-coat of palm fibre.

chhiah-hé, to stir the fire. chhiah-thê, to stir the earth, as with a spade (s. red). chhiah chháu-phí, to dig sods of turf. chhiah koá chháu-phí, to dig a few sods.

chhng-chhiah, looking out avariciously for every chance (right or wrong) for making money.

chhiah [R. ehhek, red], brownish-red; naked; very poor, as man or plae; rude, coarse, or wild, as persons. ê-âng, chhiah péh-lék, the five colours.

chhiah-bah, the lean of meat (v. bah). chhiah-li, the brown mucous discharge of dysentery.

âng-thi, chhiah jit-thâu, very hot cloudless sky. chhiah-bí, a red sort of rice. chhiah-khak-tsút, the best sort of glutinous rice.

chiok-chhiah-kim, pure unalloyed gold. chhiah kàu ná<sup>n</sup> lék-kim, shining as if inlaid with gold; said also of a man very poor.

chhiah-koái<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, very very poor. chhiah-khiú-khiú, id. chhiah kàu jip-jiōng (T.), most extremely poor (lit. to the quick). sōng-chhiah (Cn.), very poor. sàn-chhiah, very poor; sometimes has the idea of daring to do any bad action to get money. iá-chhiah, very wild and rude. chhiah-á, roughs, rowdies, and vagrants. phê-chhiah (Cn.), the rowdies of a ward. chhiah-tsa-bé, a forward, vulgar, and impudent woman, ready to dispute and quarrel shamelessly with men.

倩

側
刺

赤

chhiáh-kha, feet naked; bare foot. chhiáh-tiáu-tiáu, stark naked. chhiáh-sin lē-thé, naked body.

chhiáh-kháu-jit, certain days that are unlucky, so that matters begun on them will cause much trouble-some discussion.

chhiáh-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of brown ericket (v. kiu<sup>n</sup>). chhiáh-kiú, a small round fish. chhiáh kàu ná<sup>n</sup> chhiáh-kiú--nih<sup>n</sup>, said of a man who is very poor, or a woman very impudent, or child very troublesome.

chhiáh-tsang-á, a small fish two or three inches long. chhiáh-hái (F.), a fish of brilliant red colour. chhiáh-phê, a sort of hard wood (used for furniture). chhiáh-chhài, a sea-weed (used in making idolatrous paper). chhiáh-jin-thê, a sort of reddish clay. chhiáh-thê, id. (s. pierce).

chhiáh (C.), = A. siáh, a sort of spoon or ladle. chhiáh-á, id. chhâ-chhiáh, a sort of wooden ladle.

chhiak (C.), = A. chhiok. kim-chhiak-hoa, a beautiful yellow flower.

chhiak — chhiak-chhiak-chhiak, sound of dollars shaken. chhiak-chhiak-háu, do.; also said of a young person or inferior talking on loud and big when he should be quiet. chhiak-chhiak-kiò, id.

chhiak, to start suddenly. chhiak--chit-ê, id. chhiak-chhiak-tiò, to palpitate, as the heart; to jump up and down noisily and angrily. chhiak-chhiak-thiàu, to jump and frisk about incessantly.

ái-chhiak, fond of display and expense; making a great appearance of exultation, self-importance, or bravado. siu<sup>n</sup>-chhiak, making too much display, bravado, &c.

chhiam (R. id.), long narrow slips of wood (used as lots); potatoes or dough made into long thin slips. chhiam-á, a long thin wooden lot. iò-chhiam-á, to shake the cylinder holding the lots before drawing one. iò-chhiam-á thàn-chhiáh, to live by this style of fortune-telling (the lowest sort). hiám chhiam-á, to gamble by drawing lots—twenty-five in number—five lots for each of the five colours. thiú-chhiam, to draw lots, as in fortune-telling. chhiam-si, colloquial verses on slips of paper, drawn by lot in temples. tsoa-chhiam, to get by lot, as an office; appointed to office by lot.

chhiam-tâng, a cylinder for holding the lots. hé-chhiam, a tally given to a mandarin's messenger, as proof of the special urgency of the commands.

tâu-chhiam, a sort of dough cut up into long narrow thin slips. han-tsú-chhiam, potatoes cut into long narrow slips and dried.

chhiam — chhiam-ta<sup>n</sup>, a pole sharp at each end for carrying fuel; it often has iron points, but not always.

chhiam [R. chham, to mix]. chhé-chhiam, to bend one knee to a superior without touching the ground.

chhiam [R. all]. chhiam-kí (C.), to give a united recommendation, as several persons.

chhiam [R. to write, as one's name; a narrow slip of paper with writing]. chhiam-ah, to write the date (and some other marks) in red ink on an official document (v. ah). chhiam-miá<sup>n</sup>, to sign or put down one's name; to put down another man's name by his authority. chhiam-miá<sup>n</sup> ūi-hō, to write one's name (or have it written) and make the legal mark.

chheh-chhiam, the long narrow title pasted on the outside of a book.

chhiám (= ehâm). bák-sái chhiám-chhiám-lâu, tears flowing abundantly.

chhiám (esp. C., = ehhiàng), a close-skinned or coolie orange.

chhiám (= ehâm). toā-chhiám-ké, large cymbals and drums.

chhiám (R. id.), a fork; a fork-shaped instrument; to pierce; to sew (esp. the edge) by short longitudinal stitches; to hem; to thrust in, as a carrying-pole into a bundle of fuel.

chhiám-á, a fork; an instrument for twirling the ball of opium in the flame before smoking. to-chhiám, knife and fork. thih-chhiám, an iron fork (used in cooking). a-phien-hun-chhiám, a cleaner for the bowl of the opium-pipe.

phah-chhiám, to put a sharp instrument into things to examine them, as custom-house officers do. thng-chhiám, a hollow-pointed instrument for taking a sample of sugar without opening the bag. chhiám-thng, to take a sample of sugar out of a bag by inserting this instrument through the bag. bí-chhiám, a pointed hollow instrument for inserting in a rice-bag so as to take out a sample without opening it. chhiám-kóng, id.

chhiám-hoe, to stick flowers on thin bamboo slips, for wearing in the hair. chit-chhiám-hoe, a thin slip of bamboo with flowers stuck on it. hoe-chhiám, a hair-pin for flowers.

chhiám-oá, to fasten together (as the boards of a door) by long bamboo pins.

chhiám ôe-lí, to sew the edges of the lining of shoes, in sewing them on. chhiám-pi<sup>n</sup>, to hem a dress.

kha chhiám--tiòh, the foot hurt by coming against something sharp. chhiám-bâ (C.), to spear wild animals with a sort of spear or fork.

chhiám (R. id.), the keel of a vessel. thâu-chhiám, the fore-part of the keel. bé-chhiám, the after half of the keel. teh-chhiám, to lay down the keel with idolatrous ceremonies. an-chhiám, do.

chhiám — lék-chhiám-chhiám, very green, as fields after rain; having a green shade, as inferior black cloth.

chhiám (R. id.) chhiám-koân, to usurp authority. chhiám-chheng, to assume or use a high title without any right to it. chhiám-chhui, to inform against a man to his superior, though we have no direct duty in the matter.

chhiám — chhiám-to, a sort of knife or grav-ing-tool for cutting blocks for printing.

chhián, in all the tones; better chhien, q. v.

chhiang [R. ehhiang, a spear, = col. chhiu<sup>n</sup>]. niáu-chhiang, a gun; a musket. thai-chhiang, a sort of large gun worked by two men.

chhiang (C.), = A. chhiang. chhiang-kông, violent and hasty.

chhiang (C.), = A. ehhiang (a prostitute); to scold with vile impure epithets.

chhiang (C.), = A. chhiang. bün-chhiang, the god of literature.

chhiàng (r.), = chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to winnow.

chhiàng [R. tióng, bowels, = col. tâng]. ien-chhiàng, sausages.

chhiàng [R. sióng, constantly]. chhiàng-tsái, constantly present, as at his post.

chhiàng (R. sióng), (C.), to repay; to pay a debt.

chhiàng, to sweep away soil, as a torrent. kún-chhiàng-chhiàng, boiling violently, as water.

橙鏡
鑽鑽

筭籤

檢尖

參僉簽

潛

清
俛俛

鎗

颺腸常償

場場
橙

chhiang [R. tiông, an area, an arena, = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>]. pài-chhiang, gaudy. kóng-ôe, ài-pài-chhiang, talking very big.

chhiang (=chhiám), the close-skinned or coolie orange.

chhiang (=chheng). pùn-chhiang, too fat and awkward in gait; awkward-looking, from having on too many clothes, or clothes ill put on; vulgar in talk.

chhiang, to walk with much difficulty, as with a lame or sore leg; to get along by a sort of hopping with a stick or a crutch. ûn-á-chhiang, to walk along slowly, as with a painful leg. chhiang-kha, do.; sometimes with a sort of hop. chhiang-kê-le (Cn.), to hop, as a child.

冗冗

chhiang [R. jiông, confused, involved]. jû-chhiang-chhiang, very intricate, entangled, or involved. ji-chhiang-chhiang (C.), id. (cf. chhiang).

chhiang — chhiang-chhiang-tsáu, to run very fast.

chhiang (C.), = A. chhiông, (to be first).

唱

chhiang [R. chhiông, to sing, to call loud, cf. col. chhiú<sup>n</sup>], to call out with a loud voice in a formal manner; to make express stipulation verbally, as for price or wages. kap-lí-chhiang, make a distinct arrangement or agreement with you.

tsáu-chhiang, to go about, as itinerant ballad-singer for money; a street-singer. tsáu-chhiang ê-lâng, a street ballad-singer.

chhiang-miá<sup>n</sup>, to call out a name loud, as in calling a roll of names. chhiang-miá<sup>n</sup>-ê, the man in a yamun whose duty it is to call out loud for whatever subordinate is wanted. chhiang-lé, to call out the name of each offering and of each rite to be performed, as the master of ceremonies does at solemn offerings. chhiang-kê, to call out the price, as an auctioneer. chhiang-lí-lék, to state verbally (to superior officer) one's own birth and history (v. lék).

chhiang-khí-thâu, to be the first to propose a matter or to raise a subject (perhaps this phrase belongs to the previous word).

chhiang — chhiang-chhiang-kún, to make a noise, as a number of people, or as water boiling (cf. chhiang).

chhiang (cf. chhiang), (C.) chhiang-kha-ke, to hop.

妾

chhiap [R. a concubine]. it-chhe it-chhiap, one wife and one concubine. khi-chhe thiông-chhiap, to put away the legal wife, and take a former concubine as wife, punishable by transportation. bî-chhû-chhe, sien chhû-chhiap, to take a concubine before marrying a wife; against Chinese law, and counted highly improper by the people.

chhiat, chhiát; better chhiet, chhiét (q.v.)

搜

chhiu — chhiu-chhê, to search, as for a thing lost. chhiu-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to search, as a person or house for stolen articles. chhiu-ke, to search a mandarin's family residence (at home), to see if he has embezzled or squeezed seriously; it generally includes the idea of confiscation. chhiu-û, to find by searching. chhiu-bô, to look, but not find.

chhiu — chhiu-poá<sup>n</sup> (= chhia-poá<sup>n</sup>), to talk over the same thing with wearisome reiteration.

chhiu (= chhau). chhiu-sam-tsók, to put to death a criminal with his relatives, and those of his mother and of his wife.

chhiu, to mix by stirring, as a powder with a fluid or semi-fluid, as dough, mortar, &c. chhiu-thê, to mix mortar. chhiu-ká<sup>n</sup>, to mix leaven. chhiu-ké, to mix the materials for the cakes called "ké." chhiu mî<sup>n</sup>-hún, to work up wheaten dough. chhiu-chhòe, to make rice-dough. chhiu-ti<sup>n</sup>, to mix sugar in dough, for making sweet cakes or sweet-meats. chhiu-tsúi, to mix water with a powder, such as lime, flour, &c. chhiu-iá, to mix oil as above.

chhiu — bé-chiú<sup>n</sup> chhiu-leh, move the stern-oar like a helm, with a slight motion.

chhiu [R. to excel, to raise]. chhiu-seng, to save a soul out of punishment, so that it is again born into this world. pit-hâ chhiu-seng, the pen writes down that the criminal may live. chhiu-tê, to save a soul out of hades; to get again born into this world.

chhiu-poát, having an appearance of intelligence and talent; also (R.) to rescue a soul from hades to be again born into the world. chhiu-thoat, easy, off-hand, and unconstrained in manner; also (R.) to get a soul again born into the world. chhiu-chhék, exulting manner; in high spirits.

chhiu-soán, to choose the best, as goods or men. chhiu-kún (R.), to have surpassing talent or excellence of any sort, mental or physical, or in external appearance. chhut-chiông chhiu-kún (R.), id. chhiu-téng, the ten competitors who get the highest prizes at the (giók-pín) Amoy local examinations.

chhiu (= chiáu). chhiu-sim peh-pak, sorely grieved and distressed.

chhiáu, to move a thing slightly so as to get it into the right place or position; to alter slightly for the better; to set to the right time, as a watch; to give a slight twist to a statement or message for a purpose; to adjust by a small change; to adjust a dispute, esp. in money matters, by getting each party to abate something of his demands; to get a man put out of his situation by statements not strictly true.

bôe-chhiáu-tit, it is fixed or settled, so that it cannot be altered in the least, so that it cannot be mended, e.g. a demand that will be insisted on, or an incautious statement made in evidence, or an inconvenient promise or agreement, that we are held to. chhiáu-tám-pòh, to alter slightly, as the terms of a bargain, or agreement, or settlement, &c. hê-goá chhiáu-tám-pòh, allow me to have somewhat better terms, e.g. let me have a little more money than was promised; let me alter it slightly according to my views of what is better.

chhui-chhiáu, to adjust a difference in money matters; to discuss a bargain till the price is fixed; to haggle. chhiáu kê-chí<sup>n</sup>, to adjust the price by mutual concessions. kap-i-chhiáu, to come to an agreement with him, by each yielding a little. goá ká-lín-chhiáu, I will adjust and arrange your dispute so as to bring you to an agreement.

chhiáu-poah, to put a matter (that was in a bad state) into a better state. chhiáu khah-hó-thia<sup>n</sup>, to alter slightly our report of an affair, or a message given us, so as to make it sound better. chhiáu khah-hó, id. chhiáu khah-phái<sup>n</sup>, to alter the report slightly, so as to make the affair seem worse than the reality.

chhiáu chió-chí<sup>n</sup>, to get the price a little lowered. m-hê-lí chhiáu-chió-chí<sup>n</sup>, won't let down his price or monetary demands in the least for you.

chhiáu i-ê thâu-lê, to make him lose his situation by making misrepresentations against him to his superior. khít-i chhiáu--khi, to lose one's place through his misrepresentations.

超

chhiáu-kut, to set a bone that was displaced. chhiáu-í chhiáu-toh, to move furniture (chairs and tables) into proper positions by slight changes. chhiáu-khi-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, alter it a little so as to make it quite even or correct.

chhiáu — chhín-chhiáu, mischievous, behaving badly, as troublesome child. chhín-chhiáu-chhiáu, id.

chhiáu (C.) chhiáu-chhiáu khah-toā, just a little larger.

chhiáu [R. siáu, C. (R.) chhiáu, to laugh, = col. chhiò]. soat-chhiáu, to jest and joke, to talk laughable things. chhiáu-tām, jocular talk. kóng chhiáu-tām, to make or tell jests and jokes; to talk foolish talk.

chhiauh, a bamboo instrument used as an accompaniment in some songs. phah-chhiauh, to beat it at the set times while singing. teh-chhiauh, id.

chhiauh — chhih-chhiauh, mischievous, behaving in a disorderly manner, as children or women.

chhiauh — chhiauh-chhiauh-tiō, to jump up and down angrily; to dance about, as a Taoist sorcerer (táng-chi) in ecstasy. khi kàu chhiauh-chhiauh-tiō, dancing with rage.

chhiauh (cf. chhiá). chhiauh-chhiauh-háu, clattering sound, as of shoes worn loosely; said of a man (esp. an inferior) talking on long when he should stop. chhiú chhiauh-chhiauh-háu, talking on when he should stop. chhiauh-chhiauh-liām, to talk on in a low discontented tone, when he should be satisfied. chhiauh-chhiauh-nih<sup>n</sup>, to wink or blink constantly, as from custom or from state of eyes.

chhien (R. id.), to migrate; to change one's residence. chhien-í, id. chhien-khi pát-sé-tsai, id. chhien-soá (r.), id. chhien-ku (r.), id. chhien-ki (C.), id.

kái-kò chhien-siēn, to reform one's faults and return to virtue. piēn-chhien, to change for the worse, or passing away. sè-sū piēn-chhien, affairs all changing for the worse.

chhien (R. id.); (T. chhien, chhin). chhien-chhiu, a swing. hiù-chhien-chhiu, to swing a swing. hi<sup>n</sup>-chhien-chhiu, id.

chhien [R. a thousand, = col. chheng]. chhien-kim (polite), a daughter. chhien-kim-tūi, a medicinal plant. chhien-jit-hông, a sort of everlasting flower.

chhien-ke-lē, commodities that are in constant use by every one, so as to be very safe to trade in. chhien-tsóng, a mandarin who commands (nominally) a thousand men, but really few. chhien-lí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a telescope. chhien-lí-bé, a courier.

chhien-bān, most earnestly— (said in urging or entreating). chhien-bān m-thang, on no account do so. kóng-chhien kóng-bān, to entreat or exhort very earnestly. chhien-giēn bān-gú, a vast deal of talk. chhien-chin bān-chin, most certainly true. chhien-piēn bān-hoà, all sorts of changes and transformations (v. hòà). chhien-gūn bóe-chhù, bān-gūn bóe chhù-pi<sup>n</sup>, it is ten times easier to buy a good house than to get good neighbours.

chhiên [R. tiēn, a field, = col. chhân]. chhiên-kap-á, bits of paper which children play with (v. kap).

chhiên, to delay. iēn-chhiên, id. ke-chhiên- jit, to delay longer. chhiên i-ê-kang, to interrupt and delay his work.

chhiên-úi, to refuse to sit down till the other sits down, or urging the other to take a higher seat. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiên, id. or asking one another to take precedence in walking.

chhiên — khioh-chhiên, to pile up cakes, fruit, &c., very high on a flower-pot by means of a stick as a back-bone; done in the seventh moon for worship of the spirits. ka-nâng-chhiên, a whole pile of eatables so arranged.

chhiên (R. id.), shallow; simple and easy, as doctrine or instruction.

chhiên-á, a small bamboo wicker dish. chhiên-poah, a shallow earthen basin. chhiên-tsūn, a very shallow flat-bottomed boat for shallow streams. chhiên-tiá<sup>n</sup>, an anchor with only one fluke. chhiên-thoa, slippers without heels.

ke-chhiên, a small bamboo basket with offerings to the dead, in general; (poor men go and eat them). pah-jí-chhiên, a hundred and twenty of these small baskets with offerings; if more numerous they are in the same proportion.

chhiên-liōng, having but small capacity for drinking liquor (said by one's self); also, standing too rigorously on one's rights. chhiên-kiēn, of shallow understanding. chhiên-hák, of small scholarship. chhiên-hiēn, plain and easy, as a character, or as doctrines or purpose; open and exposed, as a house. chhiên-pòh, shallow and thin. iú-chhiên jip-chhim, to proceed from the easy to the difficult.

chhiên [R. to manifest, to explain]. chhiên-bēng (R.), to comment upon; to explain, as books or doctrine. sù-su chhiên-tsū, a commentary on the commentary on the Four Books.

chhiên [R. chhiēn, cash; said in imitation of the mandarin sounds and tones, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>]. it-tiàu-chhiên, one string of cash. ang hiēn, tē-tsú liáu-chhiên (C.), when the idol is powerful, his votaries have to spend money.

chhiét (R. id.), to cut, to slice in pieces; urgent. chhiét-chhiét, earnestly; urgently. chhiét-iàu, important. khún-chhiét, earnest, urgent. pek-chhiét, id. chhiét put-khó, certainly it will not do at all. sim kien, i chhiét, purpose of heart determined.

khak-chhiét, true and important, as proof. chhiét-sit, sincere, safe, very honest, as person or words; quite correct and as it should be, according to pattern or promise.

chhiét-mi<sup>n</sup>, to cut dough into long strings, to be cooked. kā-gē chhiét-chhií, to gnash the teeth.

ū-koan-chhiét, important in relation to some matter or thing; to count of importance so as to give diligence to it. put-chí koan-chhiét, very important. bō-koan-chhiét, not important to, or not concerning us. koan-chhiét ti-hit-hāng, specially important as having relation to that matter. tióh khah-koan-chhiét, you should count it of more importance.

chhiét, sound of going slipshod, with shoes that are too loose. chhiét-chhiét-háu, id.

chhih, to bend down; to stoop. bih-chhih, keeping out of the way, as afraid to meet people. sì-kòe-chhih, wherever he goes he falls asleep; said of a child. hé kiáh-khah-chhih, hold the torch more down, to make it burn better.

稍笑

淺

遷

闡

錢

鞦韆

切

千

田延

chhiih-thâu, having its head pressed down, as a boat with men sitting on the bow. chhiih-thâu chhiih-náu<sup>n</sup>, keeping one's head bent down. thâu-khak chhiih-chhiih, id.

chhiih — lāu-jiét chhiih-chhiih, very crowded (with persons). bô-êng chhiih-chhiih, very busy; having no leisure. chit-jit bô-êng chhiih-chhiih, no leisure all day. bô-êng chhiih-chhiih; chien-chim chhá-chhiih, ɛ-koe sáh-pih, so busy cooking that I have no leisure, said figuratively.

chhiih — ok chhiih-chhiih, very overbearing or tyrannical.

chhiih — chhiih-chhiauh, mischievous; behaving in a disorderly way, as children or women. chhiih-chhiih-kún, swaying back and forwards, as a crowd. chhiih-chhiih-kúg (T.), id. chhiih-chhiih chhéng-chhéng (C.), playing about, as an idle boy.

chhiih (= sih). chhiih-chhoah (esp. Cn.), lightning flashing.

chhiih (= chhiih<sup>n</sup>). chhiih-chhiih-thí, to sob. chhiih-chhiih-háu, to sob; to make a hissing sound, as a vessel sailing rapidly.

chhiih — chhiih-chhiih-háu, to talk on in a low displeased tone. chhiih-chhiih-kiò, to talk on in a low displeased tone.

chhiih — lok-chhiih-chhiih, very wet, as roads. tám-chhiih-chhiih, all wet, as with dew.

chhiih (R. chiét), the spotted crab or craw-fish. chhiih-jin, eggs or roe in it. chhiih-ko, soft meat in the male. chhiih-hoe, cluster of its spawn on outside. hoe-kha-chhiih, a large speckled sort. ti-bú-chhiih, a sort (= hái-ka-to) with two very large long claws, and the rest very small and short.

pun-chhiih-kha (lit. to divide a crab's leg); to insist on the division of a small thing that might well be left undivided; to make two bites of a cherry.

chhiih (= jih), to crush; to press with the hand. chhiih-pi<sup>n</sup>, to crush flat. kiông-kiông-chhiih, to force a man by strong pressure to do something against his will. at-chhiih, id.; also, to prevail on the underlings of a yaman (by strong influence) not to issue a warrant that has been ordered.

lāi chhiih--lòh-khì tsòe-bú, compound interest counted.

lòk-chhiih lòk-chhiih, having a terribly broken-down look, as an opium-smoker.

chhiih<sup>n</sup> (= chhiih). chhiih<sup>n</sup>-chhiih<sup>n</sup>-thí, weeping and sobbing bitterly. chhiih<sup>n</sup>-chhiih<sup>n</sup>-kiò, making a hissing sound, as vessel sailing fast.

chhím, deep. chhím-bô-tóe, bottomless. chhím long-long, very deep. chhím-é, deeply concave, as a bowl. chhím-khín, deep and shallow; depth in general (v. khín). iū-chhién jip-chhím, proceeding from the easy to the difficult.

chiah chhím-tsúi, to meddle with other people's matters so as to get money out of them, though he has really nothing to do with them. khiā chhím-tsúi, pleased to see our enemies quarrelling with each other, or doing something wicked that will bring trouble on themselves. lòh-chhím, to get into deep water, as vessel. chhím-tin, to venture into great danger, esp. run great risk in a venture in trade.

chhím-chí<sup>n</sup>, the open court in centre of a house (v. chí<sup>n</sup>). chhím-kui-lú, a virgin. chhím-soa<sup>n</sup>, far among the mountains. chhím-khi<sup>n</sup>, a deep abyss or chasm (v. khi<sup>n</sup>). chhím-chhân, deep wet miry fields. chhim-bák, deep-set eyes. chhim bák-u, id.

ki<sup>n</sup>-chhim, late in the night. ní<sup>n</sup> chhim, near the year's end. ní<sup>n</sup>-kú géh-chhim, for a very long time, e.g. ten or twenty years, or for one's lifetime.

chhim-tím, very profound; very cautious or scheming (v. tím). chhim-siū<sup>n</sup>, to think deeply. chhim-sin, to believe firmly. jī-bák put-chí-chhim, well acquainted with books; learned. chhim-ti kí-siông, intimately acquainted with the matter, e.g. some business, or a man's character and history.

chhim [R. chhim, to sleep]. chhim-i hok-kun, dress and hood for a corpse.

chhim (R. id.), to embezzle; to encroach upon or take unjust possession; to spend one's own reserved earnings; to get into debt; to retain too long a balance due to another; to use secretly or in advance the money of employer or partners, but not necessarily dishonestly.

chhim-chiàm, to take unjustly, as land (v. chiàm). chhim tōe-ki, to take another's ground unjustly, to build on. chhim-hoan--tiòh, to offend, as a person; to encroach on, as land or territory.

chhim-êng, to embezzle; expenses beyond income. chhim-tóeh, to embezzle. chhim-chhú, id. chhim-chhí (C.), id. chhim-khè, to embezzle from the national treasury. chhim-bô-tin, to have embezzled so much that he cannot give a plausible account of the whole. chhim--lòh-khì, to get deep in debt. chhim-khiàm, to be in debt by having got large advances, or having used employer's money or goods. chhim-khiàm tsòe-i-khì, absconded for debt. chhim-thām--khì, to spend all one's reserved money; to get deep in debt.

chhim [R. sim, to search]. chhim-chhiòh, to draw out information gradually (v. chhiòh).

chhim (cf. chhâm, khâm), sound of cymbals clashing. toā-chhím-ké, large cymbals and drums. chit-hù toā-chhím-ké, large cymbals and gongs with two sorts of drums. chhim-tih-chhā<sup>n</sup>, sound of several sorts of instruments (v. chhā<sup>n</sup>).

chhim (= chhiàm). bák-sái chhim-chhím-lâu, tears flowing abundantly.

chhim (R. id.) ûn-á-chhím, to walk slowly, as man unable to go quick. chhim-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to feel one's way slowly with the feet, as in the dark, or when fording a river. chhim-kha-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk slowly with short steps, as in descending a steep hill, or when lame.

chhim [R. to sleep]. hòe-chhím bōng-chhan (R.), to neglect food and sleep, as with great sorrow.

chhim, just having —. chhim-chhím, id. chhim-kàu, having just arrived. chhim-khì, having just gone. chhim-ní<sup>n</sup>, just about the end of the year. ní<sup>n</sup> chhim, id.

chhim-chiah-lái, just come. chhim-chiah-kóng, liām-pi<sup>n</sup> bōe-ki-tit, I have just told you, and you have forgotten. thi<sup>n</sup> chiah-chhím-kng, just at first dawn. jit chiah-chhím-àm, just getting dark. jit chhím-chhím-àm, id. chhim-chhím-á-kàu, just exactly enough; just arrived. chhim-chhím-á khì, has just left.

chhin (= sin), (C. chhân, T. sien). chhin-chháu, a plant from which a cooling coagulated jelly is made, called chhin-chháu-tàng.

chhin [R. jín, a man]. kong-chhin, a sort of arbiter who tries to get the parties to agree, but without authority.

閃

蟻

深

寢侵

尋鏡

潛蹠

人

chhin (T.), = A. ehkien. chhin-chhiu, a swing.
chhin — chhin-chhi<sup>n</sup>, pretty (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>).

chhin [R. sin, new]. chhin-chhi, a sort of cream-coloured silk, of medium thickness, but good and strong. chhin-chhi tâng-sa<sup>n</sup>, a long dress made of it.

chhin (R. id.), related; a relative; (near); affectionate or intimate; self; one's own; (used in many phrases about marriage).

chhin-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, alike, similar, same kind as if (v. chhiu<sup>n</sup>).

chhin-teng, confidential attendant of a mandarin, gen. from his own home. chhin-teng (C.), = A. ehheng-teng, a sort of supercargo or purser in a vessel. si-chhin, the near relative of a man found dead under suspicious circumstances, to whom explanation or reparation must be made.

chhin-kün, to approach (a person) in order to have intercourse. chhin-bit, closely united, as in friendship. chhin kàu-jip-kut, very affectionate, as friends. chhin-jièt, warm in friendship. chhin-hè, very friendly; associating very intimately. chhin-hè-hè, id. ki<sup>n</sup>-tiòh-lâng chhin-hè-hè, id. chhin-tauh-tauh, id.

chhin-pêng, relations and friends. chhin-pêng kè-iú, id. chhin-soe, relatives and strangers. pōe-chhin ng-sø, to leave relatives and go to strangers. pōe-chhin hiòng-sø, id. pé-chháu chhè-chhin, good at finding out relatives at a distance (as if in grass). toàn-lí, put-toàn-chhin, to judge justly, not according to the influence of relatives.

chhin-sin, one's self. chhin-bák-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to see with one's own eyes. chhin-chhiú, with one's own hand. chhin-pit-chek, own hand-writing. goá-chhin-khi, I myself will go. chhin-lim, to go in person, as a mandarin to arrest criminals. chhin-thiò, to choose in person, as things or men (v. thiò).

liòk-chhin, the six relationships: all the near relations, including sisters and the nearest connections by marriage of other surnames. chhin-phài, closely related, as ancestors for four or five generations and their descendants of the same surname only. kai-chhin, a relative; relations. tsók-chhin, a very distant relative of the same surname. chhin-chhek, relations (v. ehhek). chhin-lâng, relations by the male line. chhin-tóng, cousins and other relatives of same surname (v. tóng). chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, connections by marriage (v. chiá<sup>n</sup>). bé-thâu-chhin, wife's relations. ien-chhin, connections by marriage. piáu-chhin, relations by the mother's side. ü-chhin, to be related. bô-chhin, no relation. si-bák bô-chhin, having no relations.

koa<sup>n</sup>-chhin, mandarin's relations. chhin-koàn, wife and near connections of a mandarin. chhin-ông, a near relative of the emperor; a near prince of the blood, but not a son. kióng-chhin-ông, Prince Kung. hiòng-chhin, a fellow-villager.

chhin--ê, a real relative of same surname (not adoptive), and of the nearest form that the phrase alluded to will allow, e.g. a real brother, cousin-german, uncle, &c., and not any of the more distant relations called by the same name. chhin-hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, brothers by the same father. chhin-kø, father's sister. chhin-peh, father's elder brother. chhin-chek, father's younger brother. chhin-si<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, one's own real son. chhin-hiet-bék, one's own real sons or posterity. chhin-kut-hék, said of son or brother by birth, not by adoption. má-chhin, grandmother. bú-chhin, mother.

chhin-bú, id. hū-chhin, real father. chhin-pē, id. song-chhin, father and mother. thien-tē, kun chhin su, in the whole universe the most important relations are sovereign, parent, and teacher. thien-hā, kun chhin su, do. (in the whole world).

kiú-chhin, to be looking out for a wife for one's son, &c. tùi-chhin, to settle a contract of betrothal for one's daughter. phòe-chhin, to settle the contract of betrothal. têng-chhin, id. phèng-chhin, id. tsøe-chhin, do.; also, to have affinity, as the parents of the couple. kiet-chhin, to contract affinity, as the relations of the couple. sêng-chhin, to complete the nuptial relation by intercourse. høe-chhin, to break off a match after betrothal. thè-chhin (esp. C.), id. ji-hun-chhin, second marriage of a woman.

chhin-ke, the fathers of bride and bridegroom in relation to each other; said also of any near relations of the couple. tsøe-chhin-ke, to fix a contract of marriage between each other's children. chhin-ke-mng, near connections by marriage. chhin-ke-chek, younger brother of "chhin-ke." chhin-ke-peh, his elder brother. chhin-ke tùi-mng, lé-sø goàn-tsai, though next-door neighbours and having the closest affinity, yet proper ceremonies should be observed. tùi-thâu chhin-ke, the fathers of the couple, when there was previously a connection of affinity between the two families. chhin tháh-chhin, parties marrying from families already connected by affinity.

chhin-gèng, the bridegroom going to the bride's house to escort her to his house. sàng-chhin, the bride's elder brother accompanying her to the bridegroom's house. høe-chhin, son-in-law invited by mother-in-law soon after marriage.

chhin — chhin-chhiáu, mischievous, as a child.

chhin (R. ehng), a steelyard; to weigh by a steelyard; a sort of lever.

chhin-á, a steelyard. ø-chhin, the movable arm of a well-sweep (v. ø). tøe-chhin, a very strong lever for raising heavy weights. chhin-kun-chhin (lit. lever for a thousand catties) an arrangement of several levers for raising great weights.

chhin-miá<sup>n</sup>, to calculate the weight of a man's good or bad fortune, as fortune-tellers do. chhin-tàng, to weigh by steelyard. chhin--khi-lái, to prise up a heavy thing by a strong lever.

chhin-thui, the weight of a steelyard. chhin-liáu, the cord of a steelyard. chhin-kau, its hook. chhin-koái<sup>n</sup>, beam of steelyard. chhin-koá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. chhin-høe, the white dividing points on the beam.

kàu-chhin, a steelyard that makes things appear a little lighter than they are. tàng-chhin, a fraudulent steelyard making things seem much lighter than they really are. khin-chhin, a fraudulent steelyard making things much heavier than the reality. mng-kháu-chhin, sort of steelyard used by pedlars (also in houses), two ounces heavier than the usual steelyard. kun-ji-chhin, id.; according to the "pah-lák-tó." tàu-chhin kong-pi<sup>n</sup>, measures and weights just. chiok-chhin, just correct in weight.

tèng-chhin, to mark the divisions on the beam of a steelyard. kah-chhin, to test a steelyard by comparing it with another. sih-chhin-thâu, to lose in trade by customers always demanding rather over-weight. tah-chhin-thâu, to give good weight, so that the beam turns. chhin-khah-khi, id. chhin ü-khi-si, just having turned the beam.

chhin — chhin-chhái, anyhow; of no consequence; just as you please, all the same, carelessly; well,

親
親

秤稱

稱

that may do. chhìn-chhái-lâng, any person. chhìn-chhái sé-tsāi, any place.

chhìn, cold. koá<sup>n</sup>-chhìn, very cold; unpleasantly cold, as weather. chhìn-piang-piang, very cold, e.g. as cold tea. chhìn-sng-sng, ice-cold. chhìn-pi-pi, very cold. chhìn-thih-thih, id. chhìn-tih-tih, id. chhìn-tsúi, cold water.

chhìn-sim, having lost heart about a matter. chhìn-chhiò, a sarcastic smile (v. chhiò). chhìn-bīn, a sullen countenance. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhìn, feeling of shivering fear, as passing graves or a lonely mountain in a dark night; desolate, chill, and lonely feeling, as in a large house with almost no one in it. chhi<sup>n</sup>-thâu chhìn-bīn, putting on an angry look at first sight, as when going to scold. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhìn-hong, a raw, cold, piercing wind, making one shiver.

phah-chhìn, to get a cold or ague. chhìn-méh<sup>n</sup>-nah<sup>n</sup>, a slight red eruption (v. nah<sup>n</sup>).

chhiu-chhìn, pleasantly cool, as weather, wind, or place. sim-lāi chhiu-chhìn, highly pleased, as at good news or at constant good-fortune. tú-tiòh i teh-bô-chhiu-chhìn, to fall on a time when he is out of temper, and so at once gets angry with us. tú-tiòh-i bô-chhiu-chhìn ê-si, id.

chhiò, having a sharp edge for a point, as bow of Chinese boat, or pointed end of the up-turned ridge of a roof. biò-chhiò, tapering, as the bow of a light boat, or end of a bamboo pole. chhiò-chit, ridge of roof turned upwards and pointed.

chhùi chhiò, always quarrelling with one's mouth. chhiò-tiò, active and lively, as child; strong, and active, and lively (often to excess), as a young man; active and lively, as beasts or birds.

chhiò-giò (C.), (vulg.), impudent and swaggering (perhaps belongs to next word).

chhiò, having the sexual feeling (of the male); strong; lustful. koá<sup>n</sup>-chhiò, burning with lustful passion, as the male when excited. khí-chhiò, the male sexual feeling excited. chhiò-koe, a cock fowl (entire, as opposed to a capon); its flesh is supposed to excite lustful feelings.

chhiò [R. giâu, = col. giò, a cockle]. ka-chhiò, a small edible shell-fish.

chhiò (R. siàu), to laugh; to smile; to laugh at; light-coloured, esp. of blue; the lettered side of a cash, when turned up; turned with the concave side up, when that is the reverse of the usual position, as the palm turned up, or as an inverted lid.

chhiò-sek, light-coloured, esp. of blue. sek put-chí-chhiò, the colour is very light. chhiò-chhi<sup>n</sup>, light indigo blue, as blue cotton that has been worn long and often washed. chhiò-âng, light red.

chhiò-tā<sup>n</sup>, a pleased, cheerful, or smiling look, as the usual expression of countenance. chhiò-iông, id. chhiò-bīn, id. tí<sup>n</sup>-chhiò-bīn, falsely put on a pleased look. chhiò-bīn-hé (a smiling tiger), pretending friendship while plotting grievous injury. chhiò-thâu chhiò-bīn, usual pleased cheerful look. chhiò-sin, id. chhiò-chhi, pleasant smiling countenance, in holding intercourse with people.

hó-chhiò, laughable. khó-chhiò, id. pio-chhiò, to joke, laugh, or jest, or take undue liberties. kún-chhiò, to jest, to make fun. kóng-chhiò-oe, to jest. soat-chhiò, jesting. hē--lâng seh-chhiò, to be a laughing-stock, because of some disgraceful action. lâng-i-chhiò, to sport with him and make him laugh. thí-chhiò, to laugh at, to make ashamed. lêng-chhiò, scornful sarcastic smile. chhìn-chhiò, id. tí<sup>n</sup>-chhìn-chhiò, to smile sarcastically. khien-chhiò (Cn.), to put on a smiling look while really hating.

chhiò-ba-ba, to smile pleasantly. chhiò-bi-bi, id. bi-bi-chhiò, id. ba-bún-chhiò, to smile. chhiò-bun-bun, id. chhiò-bún-bún, id. bi-bi-á-chhiò, id. chhiò-hā-hā, loud laughing. chhiò-khah-khah, id. chhiò-lih-lih, to laugh with the mouth wide open. chhiò kàu-si--khi, to laugh constantly and immoderately. oe-chhiò, chhiò kàu-bōe-chhiò, to laugh (till one can laugh no more) immoderately. chhiò-bi-si, to smile, as on hearing something, esp. when we don't wish to give any opinion of what was said, or when we did not understand it. chit-jit chhiò-bi-si, said of a man who lets nothing trouble him. m-tsai-thâu m-tsai-bé, chhiò-bi-si, smiling, but not understanding the matter at all. bát-sat chhiò-chhiū-gūi, the bed-bug laughs at the tree-bug; pot laughing at kettle.

hō chhiò-tsau (Cn.), the fire blazing up very brightly in the cooking-place, an omen of guests coming.

thán-chhiò, lying with face up, or inverted with concave side up. tó-khiò-chhiò, to lie on one's back with face up. péng-chhiò, to invert so as to have the concave side up, when naturally it is down, as a cover or lid inverted. péng-khiò-chhiò, id., also to lie with one's face up when lying down or reclining. chhiò-chhiū, holding the hand with the palm upwards. sái-chhiò-chhiū, to turn the palm up. chhiò-tsō, the long furrows of a tiled roof.

sái-khui-chhiò, to sail a boat with two masts with the sails set on the opposite sides of the respective masts, as with wind right astern. khui-chhiò, the sails arranged so; also, to take off the hand (in odds and evens) and show the cash with its face up. lióng-phak khui-chhiò, to try to keep about half-way or neutral between two parties or opinions, as arbiter, or as in giving an opinion, or in action, or by keeping our purpose and opinion secret; an affair still unsettled, and uncertain how it may go. siang-phak khui-chhiò, id. phak-chhiò, odds and evens; tossing cash; sort of gambling. khap-chhiò, id. teh phak-chhiò, to cover a cash and let it be guessed odds or evens. lién-phak-chhiò, to twirl a cash and guess odds or evens. sang-chhiò, both evens, as in tossing cash (v. sang). chhiò-poe, the throw of the divining blocks, when each has the flat side up.

chhiò [R. chiàu, to shine, = col. chiò], to illuminate; to make light shine on some thing or place. chhiò-kng, id. chhiò-chhát, to take a light and look for a thief (v. chhát). chhiò-chhi, to light a lamp near a corpse. chhiò chhân-lê (T. Cn.), to catch snails by torch-light.

chhiò<sup>n</sup>, in all the tones (P.), = A. chhiu<sup>n</sup>.

chhioh (R. sek), to bite venomously, to sting, as insects. chhioh-pùi-á-thâng (C.), a sort of caterpillar.

chhioh, to damp slightly. chhioh-tám, id. chhioh-tsúi, id.

chhioh — chí<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, young, as person. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, fresh and nice-looking, as fresh flowers or new cloth.

chhioh (R. chhek), a Chinese foot, generally a very little shorter than the English foot; a measuring rule.

khut-chhioh, a carpenter's square (v. khut). ko-

笑 天

照

螫
虫

R

chhioh, a wooden measuring rod (gen. ten feet long) used by carpenters for houses or junks. pái-chhioh, a pendulum. keh-chhioh, a ruler (not round) for ruling lines. ah-chhioh, a straight edge for ruling lines or cutting paper even. thi<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, a quadrant or sextant.

lé-pan-chhioh, the common foot, used by masons and carpenters; ten feet want about two inches of ten English feet. chhâi-chhioh, the foot used by tailors, considerably longer than the lé-pan-chhioh.

û-chhioh-thâu, to have a little more than the strict measure. niú<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, to measure by a foot-rule. chhùn-chhioh, feet and inches (v. chhùn). chhioh-it, one foot and one-tenth, i.e. one foot one inch, Chinese. chhioh-jī, one foot two (Chinese), one foot and a fifth.

koh-chit-chhioh ê-jit, in a very short time (lit. the shadow cast by the sun travelling one foot).

chhioh (cf. chioh, chiah). kha-chhioh-tóe, the sole of the foot. kha-chhioh kah-tûg, (his) foot is very long.

chhioh (R. chhiok), the pancreas or sweet-bread of a pig; in other animals it is called "ih." ti-chhioh, id., only of pig.

chhioh, to peck, as duck or goose.

chhiòh — chhîm-chhiòh, to get information gradually out of people, especially avoiding anything that would raise suspicion of the object.

chhiòh (R sék), a mat. bih-chhiòh, a bamboo mat. tîn-chhiòh, a rattan mat. ka-bûn-chhiòh, a fine reed mat, imported from the Straits. kiâm-chháu-chhiòh, a mat made (local) from reeds that grow in salt or half-salt water, much inferior. teng-sim-chhiòh, mats (imported) made from fresh-water reeds. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsúi-chhiòh (C.), id. chhiòh-chháu, reeds for making mats. chháu-chhiòh-pau, a coarse grass mat bag.

phah-chhiòh, to make mats. chhu-chhiòh, to spread a mat. chhiòh-ló-tia, said contemptuously of a petty military officer, as hâu-iông, &c.

chhiòh (C.), = A. chhiók, slushy, as road.

chhiok (R. id.) hí-chhiok, the magpie, counted a bird of good omen.

chhiok [R. id., = col. chhek, a small bird], (C. chhiok, chhiak). khóng-chhiok, the peacock. khóng-chhiok-bé, peacock's tail. tsu-chhiok, one of the four spirits of the four quarters. kim-chhiok-hoe, a beautiful yellow flower (genista?)

chhiok [R. to lay hold of]. pē-hong chhiok-éng, to take up and spread baseless stories (lit. wind and shadows). chhiok-ná<sup>n</sup> (R.), to arrest, as a criminal.

chhiok [R. superabundant, leisurely]. chhiok-hō, a nickname or familiar name, given from personal appearance.

chhiok [R. to gore, to oppose, to come suddenly against, = col. chhek, chhok, tak].

chhiok-hoân, to come unintentionally on a person, in an ill-omened way, or so as to offend him. chhiok--tiòh, id. chhiok--tiòh i--ê siū-khì, unintentionally provoke a man's anger. chhiok lāng-ê-toán, to talk openly about a man's faults. chhiok lāng-ê-phái<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhiok-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to examine at random, or "ad aperuram," the other having no warning what is to be asked or examined. tiâu-ti beh-lâi chhiok--i, to go specially, in order to catch a man in the act of which we suspect him, e.g. opium-smoking. chhiok-kéng (Cn.), = A. chhok-kéng, to try one's luck, as at lots, &c. chhiok-kéng seng-chêng, some circumstance reminding us of a beloved friend or place, and calling up warm emotions.

chhiok [R. id., = col. chhek]. pek-chhiok (R.), very urgent.

chhiok (P.), = A. chhek, rice in the husk; rice in the ear.

chhiok — chhiok-kha-kōe (L.), to hop.

chhiók (T. jiók, C. chhiòh, jiók), slushy, as roads. lē chhiók, the road very wet and slushy.

chhiók (same as above?). chhiók--tiòh, to spatter by stepping in mud, &c. chhiók hái-thê, to dirty one's self by walking on the muddy sea-beach. chhiók-tsúi, to spatter up water unintentionally in walking.

chhiók (P.), = A. chhèk, to shake even, as pencils, &c.

chhiong (R. id.), (C. chhiang). chhiong-pê, the acorus or flag (v. pō).

chhiong [R. id. by change of tone from "chióng," to follow]. chhiong-iông, taking things calmly and easily; not agitated or bustled (v. iông).

chhiong [R. violent], (C. chhiang). chhiong-kông, behaving very violently, urgently, or absurdly, almost as if mad.

chhiong [R. to rush against]. chhiong-tūg, to run against unintentionally. chhiong-tông, do.: to come against violently, as a flood. chhiong-pông, careless hurried manner, so as to spoil things [or is this the former word?].

chhiong-soa<sup>n</sup>, to run a vessel aground. chhiong-oá, id. chhiong-hoân-tiòh-kúi, to meet with a demon.

chhiong--chhut-lâi, rushing out with great force [what word?].

chhiong--tiòh i--ê bé-thâu (lit. to come before his horse's head, i.e. of a mandarin, which causes a beating), said of provoking the anger of a powerful person.

chhiong [R. to ascend, as steam; to infuse]. chhiong-tê, to infuse tea.

sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiong, directly opposed, as purposes or wishes of two persons. chhiong-sim hūn, to hate a man so violently, as to feel enraged whenever he appears.

chhiong--tiòh, to injure the good fortune, as of a grave or house. tui-chhiong, directly opposite, so as to injure good fortune of house or grave; coming in collision with the horoscope (v. tui).

chhiong-thi<sup>n</sup>, to mount to sky or heaven, as vapour or rage. hé-kng chhiong-thi<sup>n</sup>, the bright flames mounting to heaven, as at a conflagration. khui chhiong-thi<sup>n</sup>, rage very great and strongly manifested. lē-khì chhiong-thi<sup>n</sup>, id. lē-khì chhiong-thien, id. chhiong-thien, to mount to heaven, as rage or guilt, &c. phâu-hūn chhiong-thien (R.), harbouring very deep enmity in the heart. chhiong-thien ê-chi-khì, purpose of distinguishing one's self greatly. chhiong-thien-koan, a royal crown with nine dragons looking up towards heaven.

chhiong [R. prostitute], (C. chhiang). chhiong-ki, a prostitute. chhiong-á, do., said in vile scolding. chhiong-bâ, id. chhiong-piáu, to scold a woman as one. chhiong-iu lē-tsut, four classes whose sons cannot become mandarins.

促粟

葛從猖衝

冲冲

娼

跡
觸

席

鶻
雀

捉

綽

觸

昌

chhióng (R. id.), (C. chhiang). bûn-chhióng, the god of literature; properly, a certain star or its spirit. bûn-chhióng tè-kun, id. bûn-chhióng-hôe, an assembly of the literati of a place.

充

chhióng [R. full, to transport, to confiscate or contribute funds]. chhióng-sêng, very abundant. chhióng-chhiok, id. chhióng-moá<sup>n</sup>, id. khok-chhióng (R.), to develop and increase knowledge.

chhióng iá<sup>n</sup>-ngé, to enlist in the army or navy. chhióng-kun, to transport to the military frontiers, in N. W.

chhióng-kong, to contribute funds or property to some public object, fund, or company. chhióng-koa<sup>n</sup>, to confiscate property; sometimes a disputed property is thus voluntarily given up to the imperial exchequer. chhióng-lôh-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. chhióng lôh giók-pin, to confiscate on behalf of the Amoy academy, called "giók-pin."

hoá-péng chhióng-ki, to paint a loaf in order to stay hunger.

從

chhióng [R. chhióng, to follow; cf. chhióng]. ióng-chhióng, to indulge (another); too indulgent, not punishing faults.

戕

chhióng [R. to wound, = col. chhóng]. chhióng-chék, to injure one's self by wicked courses.

chhióng (C.), = ehhéng, the banyan-tree

chhióng (C.), = A. chhéng. chhióng-pch, the fir-tree.

從

chhióng [R. chhióng, to begin]. chhióng-sū, to raise quarrels or feuds; to breed mischief. tsū-chhióng ki-hô, to draw calamities on himself.

縱

chhióng [R. to set loose, to indulge]. chhióng-hêng, wicked and violent conduct. hông-chhióng, to give loose to one's passions or lusts; unbridled licentiousness; to allow inferiors to behave wrong without check.

cho-chhióng tsū-jû, master of one's own actions, as person who manages his own business, not employed or ruled by another.

從

chhióng (R. chhióng). jiók-chhióng-ióng, a medicinal plant (v. ióng).

笑

chhióng (= chhiàu). soat-chhióng, foolish talking and joking.

唱

chhióng [R. to sing, = col. chhiàng, chhiù<sup>n</sup>], (C. chhiàng). chhióng-hô (R.), to sing and respond, as in making poetry extempore.

從

chhióng [R. to be first], (C. chhiàng). chhióng-sí (R.), to be the first to speak of a thing; to raise the subject. chhióng-siú, id. hu-chhióng hū-sūi (husband leading and wife following), said of husband and wife being harmonious and affectionate.

銃

chhióng (C.), = A. chhéng, a gun, a cannon. chhióng-á-chí (lit. gun-shot), a low shrub with small white flowers and edible berries; root good for inflammation.

chhióng (C.), = A. chhéng, to spout out, &c. chhióng-láu, to add an upper story to a house, or make it a little higher.

chhióng (C.), = A. chhéng, to wear or put on, as clothes.

chhip, barnacles. ε-chhip, id. tsûn-tóe si<sup>n</sup>-chhip, boat's bottom getting covered with barnacles.

chhip, incrustations forming in some sorts of vessels. tê-chhip, incrustations on inside of old tea-pots. jiô-tháng-chhip, incrustation in urine buckets.

chhip — chhip-chhip-á-tsúi, a very small quantity of water, as in a stream or in cooking.

chhip — thâu-chhip, a bow-sprit.

chhip (R. chek). chhip-chhip-kiá<sup>n</sup> (C.), to walk slowly with short steps.

chhip (R. ehhek), (= chhip). giú-chhip, a medicinal plant (v. giú).

chhip (C.), = A. chhek, [R. the knee]. hóh-chhip, = A. hók-sek, ornaments for the knees. hók-chhip, id.

chhip [R. chhím, (?) to sleep]. chhip-àn, to lay up the papers of a case; case at rest.

chhip [R. to join; to pursue; to apprehend]. chhip-ná<sup>n</sup> (R.), to apprehend secretly. chhip-húi (R.), secretly apprehend bad characters. chhip-hóng (R.), to send messengers secretly to search for and apprehend a criminal.

chhip, a net on a bamboo frame worked (with both hands) by a man up to the neck in the sea; to catch (as shrimps, &c.) with such a net. oe-chhip, to work this sort of net. lu-chhip, id. chhip-hê, to catch shrimps with it.

chhit [R. giet, to eat; cf. mandarin "chih<sup>n</sup>"]. mauh<sup>n</sup>-chhit, to embezzle money, as when intrusted with a commission.

chhit, seven. chhit-ji-pêng, dollars full weight, i. e. 7 mace 2 candareens according to the "khò-tô," = 7 mace 6 candareens of the "hā-tô."

chhit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the Pleiades. thiàu chhit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a child's game, making seven circles with a stone in each, and hopping about to kick the stones out. chhit-niú<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of the Pleiades and of young unmarried girls. chhit-niú<sup>n</sup>-má, id. chhit-siáh, the evening of 7. 7. chhit-géh, the seventh month, when the spirits of the dead in general are let out of Hades, and are specially worshipped. chhit-géh-poá<sup>n</sup>, the 7. 15, = tióng-goân, great day for the worship of ancestral tablets. chhit-géh-poá<sup>n</sup>-kúi, you hungry ghost! (said to a man too eager for eating). chhit-géh-poá<sup>n</sup> ah-á m-tsai-si, said of a man acting wickedly in spite of impending calamity. chhit-géh koai<sup>n</sup>-bô-liáu, you demon, whom they forgot to shut up at end of the seventh month! (said in scolding a child). chhit-jit chio-hûn, to call back the soul of the dead seven days after death.

chhit-lí-hiong, a sweet-scented flower (v. hiong). sam-chhit, a medicine stewed with food; specially given to young persons about coming of age. thé sam-chhit, = chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to-ióh, a thick-leaved medicinal plant.

chhit-pó-táng, very fine sort of copper or brass. phah chhit-hiáng, to play on a musical instrument made with five pieces of metal like saucers. chhit-khiáu, the seven openings in the heart causing intelligence (v. khiáu). jin-seng u-sè, chhit-sip ké-lái-hi, from of old, few people reach the age of seventy.

put-tap put-chhit, full of blunders and unfit for use, as a document. chhit-thé poeh-thé, very rude and vulgar. chhit-chiáh poeh-chiáh, eating voraciously. chhit-khai poeh-khai, lavish expense. chhit-oai poeh-tsoái, all wrong together. chhit-soah poeh-pái, everything going wrong (v. soah). chhit-chhiú poeh-kióh, touching persons or things in a too familiar way (v. kióh).

chhit (R. sek; C. (R.), sit), to wipe. chhit-ta, to wipe dry. chhit-chhat, to varnish.

楫
踏
藤 藤
緝

啣
七

拭

chhit (C.), = A. thit. chhit-thô, to play (often with a bad meaning).

chhiu [R. thiú, to draw out]. phah-chhiu-hong, to ask money, &c., from friends for one's self, separately from others.

chhiu (R. id.), autumn. chhiu-thi<sup>n</sup>, id. tióng-chhiu, the 8. 15 of lunar year (specially sacred to thê-ti-kong). jip-chhiu, the first day of autumn by solar year, August 7th or 8th. lip-chhiu, id. chhiu-hun, the autumnal equinox.

chhiu-chhin, cool (v. chhin). chhiu-liáng, cool autumn weather. chhiu-âu-joáh, warm weather in autumn after a break of cool weather.

chhun-chhiu, one of the five classics; history by Confucius of part of the Chow dynasty. chhun-chhiu tsó-toán, the commentary on it.

chhiu-bô, a light cap for autumn or summer. chhiu-á-béh, stockings of thin material, often short. chhiu-gân, a sea-bird that comes in autumn. chhiu-ûi (R.), the examination for the Kujin degree. chhiu-kiô (C.), great tides in autumn. it-jit put-kiên, jû sam-chhiu, one day without seeing (him) is like three years.

chhiu (R. id.) chhien-chhiu, a swing (v. ehkien).

chhiu — liu-chhiu, chiáh bák-chiu, a man ought to be able to understand at a glance what he should do, as to be firm or to yield, to escape or remain, to ask much or little, to be quick or slow; because it is to his eyes that he must trust to get on in life. ta-pê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, liu-chhiu, chiáh bák-chiu, id.

chhiu (T. liu), to rub or tickle another's cheek with the point of the finger, esp. done to children; if to a man, it is very contemptuous and insulting. ûi-lâng-chhiu, afraid to have his cheeks tickled, as child. kia<sup>n</sup>-lâng-chhiu, id.

chhiu (R. su), beard, moustaches, whiskers, antennae; tendrils, tassels, fringe, &c.; weeds on a boat's bottom.

lâu-chhiu, to grow a beard, &c. chhàng-chhiu, moustaches on end with rage.

chhiu-chhiu, beard and whiskers, or part of them. chhiu-thâu, stumps of beard. ê-táu-chhiu, beard, as distinguished from whiskers. lí-phiét-chhiu, moustaches. ní<sup>n</sup>-phiét-chhiu, id. nâng-phoat-chhiu, id. téng-tún-chhiu (C.), id. pín-chhiu, whiskers when hanging down long and straight separate from beard. hê-chhiu, beard and whiskers all thick and in one. ngé-pê-chhiu, whiskers, moustaches, and beard, all quite distinct, as on images of Kwanti.

ki-chhiu, hairs growing from a mole.

pêh-chhiu--ê, having a white beard. pêh-chhiu-pô, a storm on the birthday of thê-ti-kong (who has a white beard) in eighth moon. pêh-chhiu-kong, a sort of white shrimp.

jit-chhiu, rays from the sun.

si-chhiu, silk fringes or tassels. báng-tà-chhiu, fringes of mosquito-curtains. tiú<sup>n</sup>-chhiu, fringes of curtains. hau-pau-chhiu, tassels at the clasp of a sort of purse.

tsôá-chhiu, a snake's forked tongue. lêng-chhiu, a dragon's beard. lêng-chhiu-chháu, a medicinal plant. lâu-lêng-chhiu, to let one's beard, whiskers, &c., grow in a year of which the dragon is the presiding animal in the cycle of twelve. hê-chhiu, the beard of a shrimp or prawn. hê-chhiu-á-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of fine twine, good for very small parcels.

giá-kang-chhiu (centipede's whiskers), a defence put on junks to keep off pirates. iú<sup>n</sup>-káng-chhiu, a goat's beard. tióh iú<sup>n</sup>-káng-chhiu, to have a sort of eruption on the chin, as children; sometimes also on the upper lip. tióh iú<sup>n</sup>-kong-chhiu, id.

hê-chhiu, a tiger's whiskers. puih-hê-chhiu, a game of chance. liu-hê-chhiu, to draw lots to determine which man is to pay for some common expense, e.g. a feast.

chhêng-chhiu, abortive pendulous roots of the ban-yan. chhêng-hê-chhiu, the sharp leaves of the fire-tree (used as fuel). hoe-chhiu, stamens and pistils of flowers. chhài-koe-chhiu, tendrils of cucumbers. khiú, kah ná<sup>n</sup> chhài-koe-chhiu, as crooked as a cucumber tendril; very crooked in dealings. tit, kàu ná<sup>n</sup> chhài-koe-chhiu, do. (lit. as straight, &c.) ironically. tit, ná<sup>n</sup> chhài-koe-chhiu--nih<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhiu — tsúi-chhiu, spray. hê-á-chhiu, small rain.

chhiu, a troop or detachment of troops, esp. as sent off from the army in battle for some special service. chit-chhiu-peng, a troop of soldiers, gen. a few tens or hundreds. toá-chhiu, a large troop. sòe-chhiu, a small troop.

chhiú [R. sorrowful]. siau-chhiú kái-bün (R.), to dispel sadness and melancholy.

chhiú [R. chiú, to grasp firmly], to pull toward us, as a rope; to haul in, esp. with alternate hands; to unwind, as a thread; to use a clue to find out more.

chhiú-soá<sup>n</sup>, to haul in a rope. chhiú-soá<sup>n</sup>, to unwind a thread, pulling it towards us. chhiú-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to haul in the anchor. chhiú-tiò, to haul in a fishing line.

chhiú kun-goân, to investigate carefully (having got the clue) so as to find the real root and origin of the matter. bán-bán chhiú--chhut-lái, to draw out gradually, as a secret. bán-koe chhiú-tín, to get at the truth step by step, often by round-about way (v. tín).

chhiú [R. ehú, to take]; (T. chhiú<sup>n</sup>), to redeem from pawn or mortgage; esp. Cn., = A. thó.

chhiú khan-thâu, to redeem an article that is pawned. chhiú-sa<sup>n</sup>, to get a coat out of pawn. &c. chhiú-chhân, to redeem fields. chhiú-chhù, to redeem a house.

chhiú cheng-sîn (Cn.), = A. chhiú<sup>n</sup> cheng-sîn, idolatrous rites for bringing back good health.

chhiú [R. siú, the head]; classifier of odes or hymns. chit-chhiú-si, one hymn or ode. tê-it-chhiú, first hymn.

chhiú-bú-nūg, a fowl's first egg (v. nūg).

chhiú-sek, ornaments for women's hair and head.

chhiú (R. siú), the hand; the arm; (an assistant, &c.) chhé-chhiú, bridle reins. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, that half of a Chinese oar which has the handle. bóng-chhiú, the outer rim of a grave, like two arms. bô-á-chhiú, the projection on the rim of the upper mill-stone into which the driving-hook fits.

thâu-chhiú, a head-workman; the head man of several workmen at one work. ji-chhiú, an assistant. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, a man who composes essays for students. pang-chhiú, to assist; an assistant (v. pang). hù-chhiú, an assistant. tsân i--ê âu-chhiú, to help him to do what he could not well have done alone (v. âu). chhiú-ê, persons under our authority, as servants, dependants, assistants, children, &c., esp. assistants. ê-chhiú, id.

抽
秋

鞦

鬚

湫

愁
揪

取

首

手

bé-chhiú, the end, afterwards; at last. chiú<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the previous one, as a deed, &c. téng-chhiú, done by a former hand, begun by another person, said specially of the deed by which the seller shows his own right to the property which he sells. téng-chhiú ê-khòe, the title-deed by which the seller got the property. téng-chhiú ê-lâng, the former possessor of a property; the former holder of an office, &c.

túi-chhiú, able to be his match, as enemy; a fellow-labourer (v. tui). tsòe-chhiú, counterfeit. kang-hu óh-chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to have learned a trade well. hun chit-chhiú, slack the rope a little.

nng-chhiú, compliant, as in a dispute; inclined to come to terms. ngi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, will not yield at all; determined to keep up the quarrel. sat-chhiú, fond of fighting, as soldier; not afraid to act in a dangerous matter; venturing to treat a disease in a way that will kill or cure. sèk-chhiú, a skilful hand. tun-to chhut lái-chhiú, a blunt knife makes a skilful hand. soe-chhiú, unsuccessful at play. òng-chhiú, successful in gambling. hó-chhiú, having a good hand, at cards. kang-chhiú, nothing in the hand; having nothing. toā-chhiú-bîn, liberal; not niggardly; open-handed. khah-khoā<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, using money freely. hièn-chhiú, very liberal; very free in the use of money. tsáu-chhiú, hastily; without much care (v. tsáu). khah-khin-chhiú, not using much force with hand (v. khin). tâng-chhiú, using the hand heavily. tâng-chhiú, to begin fighting or quarrelling (v. tâng "to move"). seng chhut-chhiú, to be the first to use violence, as in striking or plundering, so as to begin a quarrel. khí-chhiú, to begin a work or quarrel (v. khí). lóh-chhiú, at the first putting hand to work. khah-lóh-chhiú, somewhat better able to do it now (v. lóh). hē-chhiú, to use violence, as in striking or fighting. hē-ták-chhiú, to deal heavy murderous blows, as in violent attack or murder; to make very violent false accusation before mandarins. hē-tók-chhiú; id. (v. tók). sit-chhiú, to make a slip with the hand so as to do injury (v. sit). chhò-chhiú, to kill by mistake when only meaning to beat. thêng-chhiú, to pause in working or writing. sūn-chhiú, taking the opportunity when doing something. thàn-chhiú, id.; also, all going well. tē-chhiú, immediately (v. tē "to follow"). toā-chhiú, to bring or take away in the hand (v. toā). sūi-chhiú, to take in one's hand at once (v. sūi "to follow"). sūi-chhiú, to let the hands hang down by the sides; to set down a sedan (v. sūi, "to hang down"). sok-chhiú, to fold the hands on the breast, in the sleeves or under the other arms (v. sok). tiâu-chhiú, to let the hand move easily, as in writing large characters. chhun-chhiú, to stretch out the hand. chhng-chhiú, id. chhun-tng-chhiú (to stretch out a long arm), said of a heggar, or man always asking money or things. iap-chhiú, to put the hands behind the back (v. iap). iét-chhiú, to wave the hand up and down, or rather inwards with the palm down and turned inwards, as in calling a person to come to us. iō-chhiú, to move the hand from side to side with fingers up and palm forwards, as in declining, refusing, or warning not to do. hē-chhiú, to toss the hand upwards, with palm up, in sign of displeasure (v. hē). pí-chhiú, to gesticulate with the hand (v. pí). kí-chhiú, to point with the hand.

chiap-chhiú, to make a bargain. khui-chhiú, to give some extra money at first (v. khui). oā<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to change hands, lit. or fig. kē-chhiú, to pass from one to another (v. kē). kàu-chhiú, to come to hand, as thing sent. chih-chhiú, to receive in the hand, as things. jip-chhiú, to be received, as money, gain, or income. Khan-chhiú, to hold each other's hands; to hold another's hand. tùn-chhiú, to shake hands (as foreigners). poah-chhiú, matters not going well (v. poah).

chhit-chhiú poeh-kioh, touching persons or things too familiarly (lit. seven hands and eight feet, v. kioh). kha-chhiú, hands and feet; assistants. tau-kha-chhiú, to assist; to lend a hand. hó-kha-chhiú, a useful helper. bō-kha-chhiú, a useless fellow; having no one to assist him. bō-kha bō-chhiú, id. chhē-kha-chhiú, coolies for coarse rough work, as at a hong. thi<sup>n</sup>-kha thi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to add lies to a story fundamentally true. si<sup>n</sup>-kha si<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, id. phē-kha sàng-chhiú, to flatter. tí<sup>n</sup>-kha poā<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to be in the way, as ropes or furniture; to be an encumbrance, keeping a man e.g. from leaving home, as family. ki<sup>n</sup>-kha ki<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, id. khiau-kha khē-chhiú, legs drawn up and arms rested on something; making one's self very much at ease. chhut-kha chhut-chhiú, very restless, as a child. kha sng, chhiú-nng, limbs weak with sickness or exhaustion (v. nng). kha tng, chhiú toā, limbs full sized, said in scolding a grown-up person for being idle and useless. chhiú bng, kha loān, in a great hustle or hurry.

chhiú-thau, power, authority (v. thau). hó-chhiú-sì, all going on well, as the management of pupils, or as the course of a disease. hó-chhiú-sè, in a suitable posture or position for doing something. hó-chhiú-sì (C.), id. chhiú-lō, workmanship, as good or bad (v. lō). chhiú-gōe, handiercraft. chhiú-toā<sup>n</sup>, ability in cooking (v. toā<sup>n</sup>). chhiú-phì<sup>n</sup> khah-ngi<sup>n</sup>, determined to have no compromise, hut carry on the feud to the bitter end; not afraid to cause people severe injury or even death. gán cheng, chhiú khoài, able to play tricks of legerdemain or to deceive people.

chhiú-bé (the end of the arm), clothes and small articles of personal property left at death. chhiú-bé-chí<sup>n</sup>, a cash tied to the wrist by a white string (superstitious). ũ chhiú-bé-lát, to have great strength in one's arms, e.g. able to hold a heavy weight with the arm stretched straight out. tu chhiú-bé, to try each other's strength, by pushing a bar against each other's wrists. thuh chhiú-bé, id. kek chhiú-bé, id. áu chhiú-bé, to try strength by pulling each other's arms bent at right angles. pien chhiú-bé, id.

chhiú-sng-chí<sup>n</sup>, a small gratuity given as a reward for some slight service. chiā<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the right hand. toā-chhiú-pēng, the left-hand side. tò-chhiú-pēng, id. chhiú-ìn, the mark of the inked hand on a document, &c. (v. in). chhiú-pit, hand-writing. chhiú-chhia, a spinning-wheel. chhiú-teng, a small lamp for carrying in the hand; a road-lamp. chhiú-phé, a small hand-hatchet. chhiú-kù, a small hand-saw. chhiú-pún, a folded blank book of red paper for writing petitions (v. pún). chhiú-chih, a small folding memorandum-book for pocket. chhiú-chhau (C.), id. (v. chhau). chhiú-kun, a napkin or handkerchief. chhiú-phē-á, a handkerchief for wrappingsmall things in. chhiú-lông, gloves. chhiú-lok, the gloves put on a corpse when hurried. chhiú-siū, sort of mits (without fingers) for the wrist. chhiú-khoān, armlets. chhiú-sòh, flat armlets. chhiú-chí, a finger-ring (v. chí).

chhiú-kut, the arm; the bone of the arm. chhiú-tsat, one of the two parts of the arm, esp. the lower

arm. chhiú-ē-tsat, the lower arm. chhiú-ti-á, the fleshy part of the upper arm. chhiú-té, the fleshy part of the lower arm; the calf of the arm. chhiú-ké (C.), id. chhiú-thng, the arm from elbow to wrist, only when mutilated, as by loss of hand, or as a fragment separated from the body (v. thng). chhiú-āu-ti<sup>n</sup>, the elbow. chhiú-āu-nng, id. sái chhiú-āu-nng tò-tng, to strike backwards with the elbow. chhiú-oan, the inner part of elbow (v. oan). chhiú-khiau, the elbow bent at an acute angle (v. khiau). chhiú-oá<sup>n</sup> (T.), the elbow-joint. chhiú-khū, the wrist; a sort of mortar (v. khū). chhiú-tôe, the inner side of the wrist, at the root of the palm; the carpus (v. tôe). chhiú-lân, the wrist-joint. chhiú-méh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse at the wrist. chhiú-bák, the protuberance at the wrist-joint; the knuckles. chhiú-poá<sup>n</sup>, the back of the hand. chhiú-pòe, id. chhiú-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, the palm. chhiú-sim, the middle of the palm. chhiú-tiong-sim, id. chhiú-bin, the palm. toā-chhiú-bin, liberal. chhiú-bin thàn-chiáh, earn one's living by one's own labour. kap-khit-chiáh pé-chhiú-bin, to quarrel with him will be troublesome and shameful (like with a heggar), and with no possible advantage (v. pé). chhiú-phang, the interstices between the fingers. chhiú-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a sort of thimble; also (r.) a finger. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, to pilfer (v. jiáu<sup>n</sup>). chhiú-to, the side of the hand at the little finger, when held flat like a knife. chhiú-hún, wrinkles on the hand; mark left by the hand when pressed down. chhiú-siòh, slight perspiration or moisture on the hand.

倣

chhiú (R. id.) m-chhiú--i, to show him no politeness or attention; will have nothing to do with him. bô-lâng beh-chhiú--i, no one will have anything to do with him. m-chhiú-chhái, will have nothing to do with him; showing we cannot be troubled with him; unwilling to meddle with the matter; will show him no attention; the cut direct. m-chhiú m-chhái, id. bô-chhiú-chhái, id. bô-chhiú-bô-chhái, id. ū-chhiú-chhái, receiving with politeness and kindly manner, as towards an inferior, or a person asking a favour.

楊樹

chhiú [R. iông, the willow], (C. chhiú<sup>n</sup>). chhiú-m, the fruit commonly called arbutus, really a myrica (v. m).

chhiú (R. sū), a tree. chhiú-tsâng, id. chit-tsâng-chhiú, one tree. chhiú-bák, trees in general. chhiú-ná, a wood; a forest. chhiú-sim, the heart of a tree. chhiú-phê, the bark; hollands and linen stuffs. chhiú-khak, the rough outer bark. chhiú-pak, a hollow in the trunk of a decayed tree. chhiú-ki, a branch; a twig. chhiú-oái<sup>n</sup>, a large branch of a tree, esp. one of the primary divisions of the trunk. chhiú-bé, the top of a tree. chhiú-sin, the stem. chhiú-sin khiá-tit-tiáu, m-kia<sup>n</sup> chhiú-bé iô-hong, if the trunk stand firm the top shaking in the wind is no matter; said of a fearless upright man. chhiú-thng, the trunk of a tree. chhiú-tūi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. chhiú-bú, the main stem, as opposed to suckers or secondary stems. chhiú-thâu, the stem near the root. ké-chhiú-thâu, an old stump; said also of a man very small for his age. chhiú-kha, near the tree; below the tree.

li-chhiú, to fall from the tree, as fruit. chhiú-íng, cool shade of tree. chhiú-iá<sup>n</sup>, shadow of tree; reflection of tree in water. chhiú-lin, the juice of a tree; india-rubber, gutta-percha, &c. chhiú-ni<sup>n</sup>, id.; said of a juice used for making varnish hold well.

chhiú-gūi, the tree-bug (v. gūi). chhiú-sièn, the cicada. chhiú-lân, a sweet flowering shrub. chhiú-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of fern. chhiú-bi-hoe (= chhiú<sup>n</sup>), a sort of rose.

toā-chhiú, phòā ū-chhâ, a large tree if cut up must yield wood; said of something large, which does not seem of much use, but out of which a good deal can be got. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhiú khui-hoe (the money-tree hlooms), said of getting much money, especially of a prostitute at the age when she brings in much money to her owner.

chhiu (in all the tones), becomes "chhió<sup>n</sup>" in Changpoo and many parts of Changchew.

chhiu (R. chhióng). chiòh-chhiu<sup>n</sup>-pé, a sort of acorus used medicinally (v. pé).

chhiu [R. sióng, form, appearance]. phái<sup>n</sup>-bin-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, sullen or sulky appearance of countenance, such as to repel or frighten people.

chhiu (R. chhióng). chhiu<sup>n</sup>-hî, a flat reddish fish of a roundish square shape (the pomfret fish?).

chhiu (R. chhióng), a spear. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, the shaft of a spear. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, butt end of spear. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-á-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-bah, iron point of spear. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-á-bé, point of spear. khau-liám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of halbert (v. liám). siá-mâu<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, a spear with a crooked blade.

chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, to hire a man to write an essay for the examinations, so as to deceive the examiner. tsòe-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, to be so employed. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-siú, the man who thus writes the essay for the candidate. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, id.

kiám-chhiu<sup>n</sup> (lit. sword and spear), a wooden railing made with the points of the rails projecting above the cross-bar. kiám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>-mng, a door made with this sort of railing; used for public buildings, offices, &c. kiám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>-goá, outside the railing, esp. of space in front of yamun.

chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to, spears and swords. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to-ióh, a medicinal plant (= thé-sam-chhit), with succulent leaves somewhat like the house-leek. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to bák-pé, warlike weapons. pái chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to-hâng, to arrange files of spears and swords, as at an execution. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to ê tsai-é, the calamities of war, rebellion, &c. to-chhiu<sup>n</sup> ê tsai-é, id.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> — kng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, bright, as lamp; chery and bright, as room.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. chhióng). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bi-hoe, a sort of rose, esp. double and sweet-scented.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> — chhiú<sup>n</sup>-peh (T.), = chhêng-peh, the fir-tree.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. iông), to winnow (as wheat), by pouring out from a height in the wind (or by fanners). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hong, id.; in the wind. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-béh, to winnow wheat by pouring out in the wind. chhiú<sup>n</sup> hong-ké, to winnow by fanners. chhiú<sup>n</sup> hong-kūi (C.), id.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. chhióng), a wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-lê, a line of wall (v. lê). chit-lê-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, one wall, in building. chit-phî<sup>n</sup>-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

tháng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, the staves forming the sides of a harrel, tub, bucket, &c.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-piah, walls in general (v. piah). siá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a city wall. chiò-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, the wall built opposite the main gate of a yamun or temple. chiò-chhiú<sup>n</sup>-lái, in the space between this wall and the main gate. úi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to surround with a wall; a

草象鰩鎗

普松颯

壻

surrounding wall. tsáu-úi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a surrounding wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-úi, a wall round a terrace (v. úi).

tsòh-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to build a wall. cheng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to make a wall of clay and mortar by a frame, beating it hard; to build a mud wall or cob-wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-khòeh, the frame used for building such mud or mortar walls. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hák, id. (v. hák).

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kha, at the foot of the wall; near the wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, top of wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu-téng, on the top of the wall, e.g. where flower-pots are often kept. sìn koá-chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, nothing remains but some ruined walls.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. chhióng, a shed, a public depôt or store]. gī-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, place where coffins are furnished gratis to the poor. kun-kong-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, government arsenal and dock for war vessels. tah-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to make a sort of shed for the rites (khiā-hà) for the worship of the spirit soon after death; to build a shed for work. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, a figure set as steersman in the mock ship of the idol "óng-iá."

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. chhióng), to snatch; to plunder. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kiap, to rob; to plunder. kióng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-téh, to snatch away. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thèh (C.), id. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-pak, to rob and strip. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-lâng pak--lâng, to rob and strip people. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hoán, forcibly rescue a prisoner. chhiú<sup>n</sup> jìn-béng, to plunder the house where a suspicious death has taken place. chhiú<sup>n</sup> hé-sio, to plunder at a fire. ná<sup>n</sup>-chhiú<sup>n</sup> hé-sio, said of eating very hastily and ravenously. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, to eat too hastily and voraciously.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chhoah, to do work too hurriedly and carelessly.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> bìn-chéng-kng, to try to put on a good face though making it worse at the last, e.g. telling many lies to hide one. niáu-chhiú<sup>n</sup> thau-chiáh-iú, chhiú<sup>n</sup> bák-tsái<sup>n</sup>-kng (T.), the rat drinks up the oil and has no more light, said of a man keeping up appearances by means that only make matters worse.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. ehú, to take]. chhiú<sup>n</sup> cheng-sin (= Cn. chhiú), idolatrous rites for bringing back good health.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. Cn. chhiú, to redeem, as from pawn, &c.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. chhióng), to sing, as a song. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-koa, to sing a song. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-khek, id. chhiú<sup>n</sup> lâm-koán, to sing colloquial songs. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-pak-koán, to sing mandarin songs. sió-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to sing, as young boys, with very high notes. tsáu-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, street ballad-singers. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-liâm-hó, to sing and recite well, as an actor, or as a man reciting bits of plays.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, to ask an exorbitant price. ké-khek, chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bòe-lòh-âu, to tell transparent lies that can't be swallowed.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. ip). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-jiā, to make a bow. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hiā, id.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> — àm-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, dark, as night.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> — phah-ka-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze. phah-kha-chhiú<sup>n</sup> (r.), id. hat-chhiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. hah-chhiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. hēh-chhiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> — chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, superstitious rites performed just before marriage, both on males and females; if neglected then must be performed afterwards, otherwise in the next world they would be boys and girls, and not adults.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. siōng, above, to ascend, which in a different sense becomes col. chiú<sup>n</sup>], (to cause to ascend, to bring up), to set up, as doors; to store up, as goods; to sew on, as soles of shoes; to raise, as water; to produce, as damp, mist, white ants, &c.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bōng, to make offerings and worship at graves. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bē, id. (esp. Cn.)

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-keng, to string a bow. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-múg, to set a Chinese door on its hinges. chhiú<sup>n</sup> tiám-thang, to set up the boards of a shop-window. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-òe, to sew together the soles and uppers of shoes. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bēh, to sew together the soles and legs of stockings.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> pēh-hiā, to become infested with white ants. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-è, a white film forming on the eye. chhiú<sup>n</sup> tâng-sien, to get covered with verdigris. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chhi, to grow damp, as salt, &c. chhiú<sup>n</sup> iâm-si<sup>n</sup>, to grow white with saline incrustations (v. si<sup>n</sup>). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-phú, to grow mouldy. chhiú<sup>n</sup> chhi<sup>n</sup>-thí, to get covered with green moss (v. thí). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-pan, to get spotted, as with the sun or with mould, as damp clothes or books. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-bū, mist gathering. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hún, clouds rising and thickening.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to draw water. chhiú<sup>n</sup> tiâu-σ, to raise water by a well-sweep.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-tsng, to buy goods cheap, and store them up waiting for a rise in price. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>--khí-lái, id. chhiú<sup>n</sup> gē-kak, to store up large quantity of grain for a rise in price. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-tiáh, to buy and store up grain for a rise in price.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> moá<sup>n</sup>-khí (C.), to catch small crabs in rivers by torch-light.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. siōng, an image, likeness]. chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, like; alike; similar; as if. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, exactly alike. chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup> kàu bō-ji, exceedingly like. i kap-lâng bō-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, he has a bad disposition, worse than other people.

kah-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, more like. iáh-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, rather like.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. siōng, a figure, an elephant], an elephant. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-gê, ivory. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-phī<sup>n</sup>, proboscis of elephant. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kán, elephant's keeper. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kí, a sort of chess having twelve pieces on each side; some of them are called "elephant." hé-pà sai-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, tigers, panthers, lions, and elephants.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. thiok, domestic animals]. chhi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to feed domestic animals, esp. pigs and poultry. ū-chhi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, having abundance of domestic animals all getting on well. bō-chhi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, domestic animals not getting on well. bō-chhi bō-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, not keeping any domestic animals. bō-chhi bō-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, ke-hé tsòe-bòe-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, without keeping domestic animals a family does not get rich. chhi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, ke-hé chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to keep domestic animals increases the wealth of a family.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [K. chhióng, a workman, an artificer]. bák-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a carpenter. thē-tsúi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a builder; a mason; a bricklayer. thih-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a worker in iron; a smith. gún-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a silver-smith. thī-thâu-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a mandarin's barber. chhài-hōng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a mandarin's tailor.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> (R. siōng), a large sort of tree.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> [R. iōng, the willow]. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-m̄ (C.), = A. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-m̄, the so-called arbutus (v. m̄).

chhng [R. chhun, a village], (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>). hui<sup>n</sup>-chhng, a village. chhng-lâng-thâu, you rustic! said in scolding. chhng-hàn (r.), a rustic; a clownish-looking fellow.

chhng (R. chhng), a granary. gī-chhng, a public granary. chhng-khê, granaries and treasuries. chhek-chhng, a granary for rice. chhng-chhek,

廠

搶

取

唱

揖

噴

上

上

像

象

畜

匠

橡楊村倉

paddy from public granaries, not good. chhng-bí, rice from do., not good.

niû<sup>h</sup>-chhng, cubical mensuration.

chhng (R. chhng), the hold of a vessel. tsûn-chhng, id. tsûi-chhng, the part of the hold for the bilge-water. chhng-tóe, the bottom of the hold; the last of the cargo from a vessel, inferior quality.

khui-chhng, to open the hold; to open the hatches. khui-chhng-ji, a document giving permission to open the hatches. chhng-kháu, the hatches. koán chhng-kháu, to watch the hatches and mark down what is taken in or out, as supercargo or clerk does. chhng-kháu-phō, book in which goods shipped and delivered are noted down. chhng-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a vessel's manifest. chhut-kháu ê chhng-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, export manifest. jiip-kháu ê chhng-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, import manifest.

chhng (R. chhoan), (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>), to pass through or press through a hole.

chhng-khang, to make a hole, as insect. chhng-chiam, to thread a needle. lâm-sám-chhng, to go improperly through private places, e.g. through the private apartments of a house. chhng--kè-khì, to go through, as through a house, using too much freedom.

chhng-tin, to make wicker-work with rattan. chhng-bih, to make bamboo wicker-work. chhng si<sup>n</sup>-hióh, to put on the paper on a fau in making it. chhng-soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, a sort of gingall.

leng-chhng, the orifice of a teat.

chhng (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>). kha-chhng, the posteriors; the buttocks; the anus; the hollow on which a eup (or bowl, incense vessel, &c.) stands; the obverse of a coin, opposed to "bin;" the wrong side, as of paper.

kha-chhng-táu, the hips, the posteriors. kha-chhng-chiam, the part of the hips that makes the corner when bent. kha-chhng-phóe, the hip. kha-chhng-thâu, the lower end of the back where the posteriors begin. kha-chhng-phâng, the depression between the hips. kha-chhng-khang, the anus. phah kha-chhng, to beat in punishment, as before the tribunal.

tsóá-kha-chhng, the wrong side of paper, rougher than the other side.

kha-chhng-áu, close behind a person. iô kha-chhng-hoe, to shake one's hips from side to side, as an awkward walker. khin-kha-chhng, ready to do acts of politeness and service, as a polite willing boy, or as a man forgetful of his dignity. chhui kiû<sup>n</sup>, kha-chhng núg, talking bold and big, but really much afraid and powerless. sa<sup>n</sup>-kêng kha-chhng, two persons combining (standing back to back) to resist or injure another. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiang kha-chhng (T.), placed back to back, as two houses or villages.

chhng (R. chhng), an ulcer, especially venereal.

tí-chhng, piles at the anus. pán-chhng, large blotches of itch on the posteriors.

kam-chhng, venereal ulcers. kam-chhng, id. tók-chhng, id. ok-chhng, id. si<sup>n</sup>-chhng, to have venereal ulcers. chhng-jiah, mark left by them. chhng-hûn, id. chhng-hong, syphilis in its later forms.

chhng — phî<sup>n</sup>-chhng (P.), = phî<sup>n</sup>-sg, arsenic.

chhng [R. sin, = eol. chhun], to stretch out, as the hand. chhng-chhiú, to stretch out the hand.

chhng (R. chhng), a bed; a couch.

chhng-chhng, the stock of a gun.

bin-chhng, a bedstead. mng-chhng, id. bun-

chhng (C.), id. bin-chhng-kong, guardian god of marriage-bed. bin-chhng-pô, guardian goddess of it. chhng-bú, female spirits that take care of infants (like nurses) shortly before and after birth. chhng-chiá-bú, id. bin-chhng-bi, wooden ornamental work across the top of the front of a bed. chhng-bi, id. bin-chhng-tô, the broad flat board which makes the front of a bed, for sitting on. chhng-tô, id. bin-chhng-hoã<sup>n</sup>, id. chhng-tóe, the body of a bedstead, including the feet. chhng-tch (C.), a bamboo frame for the bottom of a bed. chhng-kè, shelf in bedstead. chhng-ûi, the curtain below the bed. chhng-jiók, a mattress. bin-chhng tâh-táu, a bed and the long stool that stands at front below (v. tâh).

pó-chhng, a couch for use in gambling with the lién-pó. tiâu-chhng, a hanging bed or couch; a hammock. tin-chhng, a rattan couch or sofa. khong-chhng, a state-couch for guests (v. khong). siên-chhng, a couch with arms at each end. siên-chhng-í, an arm-chair. siên-chhng-toh, a table with a rim on three sides. chhng-kui, a long chest for storing things, used as a couch or bed. kui-chhng, id. tók-sui-chhng, a bedstead fit for one person (v. sui). toã-chhng, a large bedstead fit for two or three persons.

tó-chhng, to be so unwell as not to be able to rise; confined to bed; bed-ridden. tó-tsái-chhng, id.

chhng (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>), to suck a thing inside the mouth, as bones, kernels, &c. (but "tsng" is to suck as a teat); to get money by intimidation or other improper means. chhng-kut, to suck bones. chhng-hút, to suck kernels. chhng koe-chí, to suck melon-seeds.

chhng-sit, to dress its wings with its bill, as a bird.

chhng-khang, constantly looking out for any chance (right or wrong) to make money. chhng-phâng, id. gâu-chhng ôe-phâng, fond of picking holes in what people say. chhng-chhiah, avariciously taking every opportunity (right or wrong) of making money. chhng lãng-ê-chí<sup>n</sup>, to get money from people by threatening to accuse them before the mandarins, as is done by subordinates at yamuns and by many of the literati. hê--lãng chhng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to be done out of money thus.

chhng (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>). chhng-jiip, to rush in hurriedly. chhng-chhut, to rush out hurriedly. chhng--tsáu, to rush on with head bent down.

chhng (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>). chhng-khang, to put thread through a hole.

chhng (R. chhoan), (C. chhui<sup>n</sup>), to string together; a small string of beads, pearls, &c., strung together (a larger is "koã<sup>n</sup>"). kui-chhng, a complete string, as of beads. chhng-tsu-á, to string beads or pearls.

chhng, to snuffle with the nose, only outwards (but "sng" is inwards), as when the nose is stuffed, or as a child when dissatisfied or ill-pleased or half angry. chhng phî<sup>n</sup>-khang, id. chhng phî<sup>n</sup>-hong, id.

chho (R. id.), animal food, including also eggs, garlic, and onions (not eaten in fasts nor by vegetarians). chhi<sup>n</sup>-chho, flesh and fish in general. chho-chhài, animal food and vegetarian diet respectively. chiáh-chho, to eat animal food; not to be a vegetarian. khui-chho, to break off vegetarianism.

hî-chho, flesh and fish in general. chhàu-chho, strong-flavoured fish; strong, unpleasant smell, as of fish úi chhàu-chho, not liking to eat strong-smelling fish. hái-tsúi chhàu-chho, the waters of the sea having

船

穿

瘡

串

燥

伸
牀

an unpleasant smell; sign of bad weather. chhàu-chho siá<sup>n</sup>-sín (strong-smelling fish alluring flies), said of a bad woman much ornamented alluring lads.

chho [R. to hold firmly], (Cn. ehø). chho-chhiòng tsū-jū, master of one's own actions; not under the control or direction of another.

chhó — chit-chhó, ten thousand. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhó, about ten thousand.

chhó — chhó-jī-táu, a measure (about 1.2 of a common "táu" measure) used for measuring uncleaned rice. chhò-bí; (sound probably changed from "chhò").

chhó (R. chhó). chheng-chhó, = chheng-chhø, settled, as account; well and accurately done.

chhó [R. só, small, minute], (T. só). chhó-chhùi, miscellaneous; troublesome and difficult to set right, as an affair in a confused and involved state that will require much discussion; to wrangle; disputing over and over without coming to an agreement; troublesome to deal with, as a man fond of disputing and always making objections. kap-i teh-chhó-chhùi, having much violent disputing with him without coming to an understanding.

chhó [R. plants, the 140th radical], (Cn. ehø). sì-chhó, the essay that wins a degree, printed for private circulation among friends.

chhó [R. plants; coarse, rough draft; running hand; = col. chháu], (Cn. ehø), pith for fancy work.

chhó-bók, trees and plants (v. bók). chhó-pún, herbaceous (not shrubby), as a plant. pún-chhó, the Chinese book of botany and pharmacopeia. chhó-á-thâu, the 140th radical, written at the top.

chhó-hø, artificial flowers, made of pith. thong-chhó, the plant (aralia) from which it is made (v. thong). chhó-ø, aconite. chhó-siau, a plant used as a purgative medicine. kam-chhó, liquorice. chiá-chhó, liquorice sliced and dried, medicinal. liên-chi-chhó, a fabulous good-omened plant. chhó-kó, a medicine (Amomum medium?).

chhó-su, running hand. chhó-jī, id. chhó-kó, a rough draft or scroll. chhó-chheng, a scroll-book in which sales are entered as they are made. chhó-sut, carelessly; in an off-hand manner; without much care. ló-chhó, id. ló-chhó-siá, to write a scroll or rough copy.

phah hoe-chhó, to strike one's own arms, thighs, and body, as a beggar does.

chhò (R. id.), to cut in small pieces; to mince; to fell, as a tree.

chhò-chhiü, to fell a tree. chhò-üi, to cut away a mast. chhò-chhâ, to cut fire-wood.

chhò-bah, to mince meat, esp. pork. chhò-bah-si<sup>n</sup>, id. chhò-bah-oân, meat balls. chhò-hí-oân, minced fish balls.

chhò-bé-ê, having the head cut off, as sugar-cane. chhò-bé-káu ké-lòk (a dog with eropped tail pretending to be a stag), a man pretending to dignity when he has none.

ká<sup>n</sup> thài-phah-chhò, daring to beat and cut violently (said of a daring robber or ruffian). bán-to-chhò, may you be cut small by ten thousand knives!

chhò — chhò-khím, to strike the harp.

chhò [R. to sing loud, as birds]. chhò-hí, to din the ears; to stun the ears. chhò-jiáu, to cause trouble, anxiety, or expense to another. chiáu-á chhò-ná<sup>n</sup>-pê, a large flock of birds making a loud noise in the wood (said of a number of children or inferiors making a great noise by talking or otherwise).

chhò [R. id., by change of tone from "chho" to hold]. chiet-chhò (R.), very correct in conduct.

chhò (R. id.) chhò-bí, rice separated from the husk by the mill, but not yet beaten white in the mortar which separates the bran. bí chhò, the rice is still entire, not having the bran beaten off it. tsüi-tüi bô-chhò-bí, a pounding-mortar driven by water leaves none of the rice uncleaned (said of a man who is too knowing to be easily cheated).

chhò [R. chhok, mistake]. sit-chhò, a mistake; a fault. chhò-gø, a mistake. bô-chhò, certainly it is so; no mistake! yes indeed. tsai-chhò, to know one's fault. jin-chhò, to confess a fault or error. kóng-chhò, to say a wrong thing by mistake. siü<sup>n</sup>-chhò, to make a mistake in thinking or planning. thia<sup>n</sup>-chhò, to make a mistake in hearing. bóe-chhò, to buy a wrong article by mistake.

chhò-to, a mistake in anything (originally, with a knife). chhò-sü, faults in conduct, esp. gambling and licentiousness. kiá-chhò-sü, to commit gambling or lewdness. chhò-sí, to die from carelessness or neglect, e.g. from taking poison or wrong medicine accidentally, or from drowning when assistance might have been given, or of a disease which could have been easily cured. chhò-chhiü, to kill a man accidentally when it was intended only to beat him. chhò-kün, to kill or wound a man very severely in boxing, unintentionally.

chhò — thèh-khì chhò-chhùi, (T.) take it there and eat it (said in scolding a child).

chhø (R. id.), coarse, rough, common, vulgar, cruel, violent.

toà-chhø, to be in deepest mourning, for parents or grand-parents. chhø-pø-sa<sup>n</sup>, dress of common cotton stuff. chhø-hoaih<sup>n</sup> hoaih<sup>n</sup>, very coarse, as cloth.

chhø-siap, coarse and rough, as a surface. chhø-phê, a granulated rough surface of skin (like a small eruption), chronic.

chhø-kha, unbandaged feet, of women. chhø-siòk, vulgar in manner; very cheap and inferior. (v. siòk). chhø-lé, wanting in refinement; rather uncultivated in manner. chhø-pün, clumsy, ill-formed, awkward-looking. chhø-phoh, large and rough-looking, as man. chhø-tāng, rough hard work in which one must exert strength. chhø-lāng, a coarse or vulgar labourer, as a coolie or chair-bearer. chhø-teng, a man who works at rough hard work, as farmer or workman. chhø-kang, coolies, workmen, or labourers for rough work. chhø kha-chhiü, coolies for rough work (as in a hong). chhø-kioh, id. (v. kioh). chhø-khì, coarse, rough, or unpolite in manner or appearance.

chhø-chhēng, every-day clothes. chhø-chhài piēn-pūg, a common every-day dinner; pot-luck.

chhø-chhü, vulgar vile scolding with abominable phrases. chhø-øe, vile language. chhø-kün, wrestling, striking, or coarse play together, such as readily passes from play to a real quarrel; improper talk or liberties with women.

chhø-sim, cruel heart. chhø-chhān, eruel or violent in character; fond of fighting, striking, or injuring people. ēng-chhø-hoat, to act violently, as striking, &c.; said also of very high-handed violent proceedings. tāng chhø-hoat, id., as striking, &c.

chhø-khng, rice-chaff (v. khng). hø put-chí-chhø, the rain is very heavy.

標草

楚瑣

艸草

坐銜

標噪

操糙

錯

粗

chhø-ngī<sup>n</sup>, too hard and stiff, as a fur; too stiff in shape, as a written or printed character.

chhø-hī iù-tē, a coarse fish with a good inside; said of a man with rough exterior but good abilities.

chhø (R. id.), ordure; excrement; solid manure. chhø-pūi, id. chhø-jiō, excrement and urine; solid and liquid manure. chhø-tsūn, boat carrying manure. chhø-tháng, buckets for carrying manure. chhø-hia, ladle for lading out manure.

chhø [R. beginning, = col. chhoe, C. chhø]. chhø-chhø, at the first; just lately begun. chhø-chhø khi-khiā, very soon after beginning to live there. khi-chhø, the beginning. tng-goān-chhø, at the commencement or beginning. jīn-chi-chhø (lit. man's beginning), the Chinese trimetrical primer, = sam-ji-keng.

chhø (Cu.) = A. chho, (R.) to hold firm.

chhø (R. id.), the kingdom of Tsoo, in the Chow dynasty; about the present Hoo-nan. chhø-kok, id. chhø-pà-ōng, a famous usurper, king of Tsoo.

khø-chhø, to torment.

chheng-chhø, = chheng-chhó, completely paid; all clear and settled.

chhø (R. id.), vinegar. sng-chhø, id. bí-chhø, vinegar made from rice. ló-chiú-chhø, vinegar made from the fermented liquor called ló-chiú. chhø-lā, mother of vinegar. chhø-tsau, dregs of vinegar (v. tsau). chhø-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a condiment made of vinegar, ginger, and sugar.

chhø (Cn.) = A. chhò, in some cases.

chhø (Cn.), in several words of several tones, = A. chhe.

chhoá [R. tsū, to collect, to assemble]. khah-chhun-chhoá, making a little money now so as to accumulate.

chhoá — loá-chhoá, acting carelessly, remissly, or lazily; working in an untradesmanlike way; to procrastinate in managing an affair. noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá, id.

chhoá (C.) chhoá-chhoá, slim, not strong, as cloth.

chhoá [R. chhài, a surname, name of a kingdom], a surname.

chhoá [R. tō, to lead; cf. col. thoá], to lead; to conduct; to guide the way. ín-chhoá, to lead. chhoá-lē, to guide; to conduct in the way. chhoá-káng, a pilot; to pilot. io-chhoá--i, to lead him about and show him attention.

thau-chhoá, to run off with, as a child; to abduct; to kidnap (child). chhoá-tsáu, to abduct, esp. female child or slave. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhoá-tsáu, to run off together, esp. to elope.

chhoá-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to lead out (as fowl) her chickens to walk.

chhoá-jiō, to pass water involuntarily, as children (v. jiō).

chhoá [R. chhū, chhù, to marry], to marry a wife. chhoá sin-niú<sup>n</sup>, id. chhoá-chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. chhoá-bé, id. kā--i chhoá-bé, to get a wife for him, to get him (e.g. one's son or grandson) married. chhoá chit-ê-bé hē--i, id. chhoá--bē, are you married? kè-chhoá, to marry (man or woman) in general. jī-chhoá, to marry a second time, as after death of first wife. āu-chhoá, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-mng chhoá, bridegroom going in person to the bride's house to conduct her to his bouse.

chhoá [R. soan, a wooden pin, = col. sng], a splinter; a small thorn or prick; to prick, as a thorn or splinter; to take away some small thing against the owner's will; also (vulg.), to copulate. chhoá--tiòh, to be pierced by a splinter. chhoá-chhi, very troublesome; causing much trouble (v. chbi).

chhoá [R. tsân, to wound, cruel], to cut away, as some branches or other parts of plants.

chhoá — noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, lazy; careless; utterly without spirit or energy, as opium-smoker (v. noá<sup>n</sup>). noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhoá [R. sién, eruptions or dirt on skin]. káu-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, an eruption on the skin like ringworm or scrofulous eruptions. tiòh hong-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to have a sort of itching eruption.

chhoá [R. chhán, to smooth off], to smooth off a small bit of wood; to turn the boat's head in a slightly different direction. chhoá<sup>n</sup> chit-tè, to smooth off a bit of wood. chhoá<sup>n</sup> hē-i-pi<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhoá<sup>n</sup>, very ready to take offence and get up a quarrel; unwilling to take advice or warning; reckless of consequences.

chhoá (R. chhoán). chhoá<sup>n</sup>-tō, to cross the road just in front of a mandarin and his retinue. phah-hoái<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to attack an enemy by a flank movement.

chhoá<sup>n</sup> — chhoá<sup>n</sup>-tng láng-ê-ōe, to stop short a man's talk by interrupting him.

chhoá [R. soan, = col. sng], (P. chhoè<sup>n</sup>), a bolt; to bolt, as a door. mng-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, a door-bolt. chhoá<sup>n</sup>-mng, to bolt a door. chhoá<sup>n</sup> téng-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to bolt the upper bolt of the two usual bolts of a Chinese door. chhoá<sup>n</sup>-ē-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to bolt the lower bolt. chhoá<sup>n</sup>-lòh-kúí, to let down the small secret pin that keeps the bolt shut and fastened.

chhoá<sup>n</sup>-kun, a cross piece of wood sunk into two planks or pieces of wood to hold them together.

chhoá [R. sién, an eel], a small sort of eel. chhân-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, a very small fresh-water eel having soft eatable bones. ngi<sup>n</sup>-kut-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, a salt-water sort with numerous hard bones, not good to eat.

chhoah — bák-chiu chhoah, eyes twitching nervously.

chhoah, to tremble; to have spasms; to flash, as lightning. sih-chhoah, skin twitching slightly; glancing, as lightning. chhih-chhoah (esp. Cn.), id. lūi-tân chhih-chhoah, thunder pealing and lightning glancing.

bah-chhoah, flesh twitching or trembling. kha-chhiú bah-chhoah, limbs all trembling, as with fear, &c. lák-lák-chhoah, id. khèh-khèh-chhoah, id. gèh-gèh-chhoah, id. ngiàuh-ngiàuh-chhoah, id.

chhoah [R. chhiap, to steal]. lí ū-chhoah--goá, you have deceived me, and made me pay far too dear.

chhoah, to pluck out, as hair or feathers; to give a sudden jerk or sharp pull, esp. so as to break, as a rope; to snatch. chhoah--khi, to snatch and break away, as something from another. chhoah-hiet-kák, to pull out and throw away, as gray hair, or as ends of threads. chhoah-tng, to break by a sudden pull, as chain or rope. chhoah--khi-lái, to hoist up, as taking a boat on board; to take off, as a sculling oar, &c.

chhoah-chhiu, to pull another's beard, a very great insult; said in scolding an old man. chhoah chhiu-chhiu, id. chhoah-sit, to pluck the wings, as of a

廩

初

楚

醋

聚

蔡導

娶

檯

殘

癬

剗

闖

闖

檯

鱓

擦

竊

fowl. chhoah chit-tsâng, to pull up a small plant by the roots. chhoah jiù-hi, to catch the fish called "jiù," by giving a rapid pull as soon as it bites.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chhoah, to do work too hurriedly and carelessly.

chhoah, a grater, as for long turnips; to grate down, esp. into long strips. chhài-thâu-chhoah, a fine grater for long turnips. han-tsú-chhoah, a coarse grater for sweet potatoes. chhoah han-tsú, to grate down potatoes. chhoah chhài-thâu tsòe-si, to grate long turnips into long strips.

chhoah — chhoah-nng, to spawn or lay eggs in vast abundance, as fish or butterflies.

chhoah [R. siet, diarrhoea]. chhoah-sái, to have diarrhoea; to have a loose motion; to be purged. chhoah-sái-chhi<sup>n</sup> (vulg.), a falling star. chhoah--lòh-khi, to fall suddenly, as a meteor.

chhoah (Cn.), to lend money for a very short time. í-chhoah, to borrow for a very short time.

chhoah [R. siá, oblique, = col. chhiá], (C. tsoáh, in some cases), awry; off the straight; squinting.

moá<sup>n</sup>-phang-chhoah (C. tsoáh), diagonal lattice-work. oai-chhoah, awry (v. oai). chhoah-kak, diagonal; slanting; not at right angles. tiâu-kak-chhoah, slanting, as at a corner; esp. as to folding, drawing, &c. ka-chhoah, to cut (cloth) awry, as a bad tailor.

thán-chhoah, diagonal; awry. bú-thán-chhoah, id. chê bú-thán-chhoah, to sit awry. chê thán-chhoah, id. thán-chhoah-bák, squinting. chhoah-bák, id. bák-chiu chhoah-chhoah, id.

chhoan [R. tsoán, a sacrificial victim]. sam-chhoan ngé-bi, all sorts of very good eating.

chhoan (= soan), (Cn. chhun). chhoan-tin, to send out suckers.

chhoan [R. to press or put into a small opening, = col. chng].

chhoan-tng, the inner room in a yamun, just behind the public hall of judgment. chhoan-sim, the pin of the lock that runs up into the (foreign) key. chhoan-tiong-ti, fistula. chhoan-san-kah, the scales of the (lá-lí) pangolin (or manis?).

chhoan-chhók, unnecessarily involved, as the management of an affair (v. chhók).

chhoan [R. a river; in the names of things means "from Sze-chuen"]. san-chhoan (R.), mountains and rivers. poát-siáp san-chhoan (R.), travelling far over hills and rivers.

kòng-chhoan, very strong smooth good writing paper.

sù-chhoan, the province of Sze-chuen. chhoan-ni<sup>n</sup>, a cooling medicine from Sze-chuen. chhoan-hông, inferior bezoar from do. chhoan-lêng, best sort of China-root from it. chhoan-kióng, a medicine (v. kióng). chhoan-kién, a sort of silk from Sze-chuen. chhoan-pòe, a medicine (v. pòe).

chhoàn [R. toán, to deliver an order], to summon to court (as a graduate), in a less peremptory way than by the usual warrants.

chhoàn-kióng (C.), = A. thoán-keng, the interpreter in a mandarin's office.

chhoàn (R. id.), to select or choose, as persons or things, to be ready for some special purpose. chhoàn-pân, to select and make ready, as materials or other things, or as men. chhoàn-piën, id. chhoàn-tsòe, to select and make fully ready, and all in order for a purpose; all fully prepared. chhoàn-lâng, to get the persons all ready for something to be done. chhoàn-liâu, to select and get ready the materials. tiâu-chhoàn--ê, specially selected.

chhoàn, to plot against; to take secret action so as to injure a man. chhoàn-chhók, id.; also, to make preparations, or manage a matter (v. chhók). chhoàn--lâng, to plot against a man, and take secret action to his injury.

chhoàn (R. chhiún), to pant; to breathe, esp. to breathe hard. chhoàn-jip, to inhale breath. chhoàn-chhut, to breathe out breath. chhoàn-khùi, to breathe. chhoàn-toā-khùi, to draw a long breath; quite out of breath. toā-khùi-chhoàn (C.), asthma.

hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-chhoàn, to pant hard, as with running or with a heavy load. phih<sup>n</sup>-phih<sup>n</sup>-chhoàn, id. phi-phì-chhoàn, id. phì<sup>n</sup>-phì<sup>n</sup>-chhoàn, id. hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>-chhoàn, id.

chhit-khang bô-hù-chhoàn, said of a man who is very miserable, in great want of money.

chhoàn-kih<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup> (C.), panting very hard; making one's self very big and behaving improperly.

chhoàn (same word?). siâu-liên-chhoàn, a young fellow making himself very big by words or actions.

chhoàn (C.), = A. chhng, to behave in a big bragging way.

chhoàn [R. koàn, accustomed]. chhoàn-kóng bô-ji-òe, all he says is baseless talk. chhoàn-kóng bô-hó-òe, constantly talking bad language. chhoàn-kiâ<sup>n</sup> bô-hó-tái, all his actions are improper. chhoàn-kiâ<sup>n</sup> hiám-lê, he is always going in dangerous courses. chhoàn-kiâ<sup>n</sup> si-hiám-lê, id. chhoàn-tsòe si-phái<sup>n</sup>-tái, he does nothing but wicked actions. chhoàn-chhut si-chhát, it breeds robbers (or pirates) abundantly, as a place. chhoàn-kau sam-kê liók-pô, constantly consorting with nuns, female sorcerers, &c.

chhoàn [R. to string, as beads; connected; a receipt for house-tax].

koàn-chhoàn, mutually connected, as the parts of a composition or of reasoning.

chhoàn-thong, to conspire with enemies against our superior or employer (said of persons in employment or specially related). chhoàn-keng, to prompt a man under examination before a mandarin, suggesting to him what to say (very improper).

chhoàn-kun, the part of a document left in the book when it is torn off for use, e.g. of a receipt for land-tax, or pawn-ticket. tê-tse-chhoàn, a receipt for the Amoy ground-tax on houses. chhut-chhoàn, to issue these forms to the tēpó.

liók-chhoàn, a strong silk stuff, generally of a light bluish-white, but sometimes black or other colour.

chhoàn (R. id.), to usurp; to supplant. chhoàn-üi, to usurp the throne. chhoàn-koân, to usurp authority.

sa<sup>n</sup>-chhoàn, to get a business or situation by supplanting a rival; to undersell or supplant. chhoàn-lái chhoàn-khi, each trying to undersell or supplant the other. chhoàn-thâu-lê, to supplant a man in his employment. chhoàn-pái, forcibly take the turn before our turn has come.

chhoàn-tông, to come circling round from the back to the front of the grave, as an amphitheatre of hills (v. sa).

chhoàn [R. to rush away hurriedly]. chhoàn--chhut-khi, to rush out hurriedly. chhoàn--jip-khi, to rush in in great haste. tit-tit chhoàn-jip, to bolt

疰

斜

拴穿

川

傳

拴

喘

慣

串

篡

竄

right in. tit-chhoàn--jip-lâi, to come rushing in hurriedly. gâu-chhoàn, fond of running about very fast in sport, as horse, dog, or pig. phâu-thâu chhú-chhoàn, to cover one's face with hands and run away (in shame) like a rat.

chhoàn (R.), to compile, as a book. chhoàn-chheh, (R.), to compile a book.

chhoàn — chhoàn-gê, a tooth projecting far out of its proper place. tùi-pi<sup>n</sup>--thâu chhoàn-chhut, to project at the side, as a tooth.

chhoàn (R. id.) chhoàn-á, a lance like a sword with a long handle. tûg-chhoàn, a long lance on a bamboo shaft.

chhoàn [R. to cook]. hun-chhoàn, to have their meals separately regularly. tsû-chhoàn-tiàm (R.), an inn where each cooks for himself.

chhoàng, gaudy, richly ornamented, finely-dressed, showy, pretty (often with the idea of improper conduct). chhoàng-tiàm, beautiful, as dress; good-looking and finely-dressed, as person.

tsòe-koa<sup>n</sup>-chhoàng, very intimate with mandarins. hi-chhoàng, fond of going to plays; intimate and spending money with the actors who represent women (often includes the idea of lascivious intercourse).

chhoàng-hia<sup>n</sup>, a fast licentious young fellow. chhoàng-kùn, a fellow fond of low vicious pleasures, who leads others into vice and is fond of quarrels and rows.

chhoe [R. chhe, the beginning], (C. chhe). khí-chhoe, the beginning. tng-chhoe, at the beginning. tng-goân-chhoe, id. tng-chhoe-si, id.

chhoe--nih, in the first ten days of the month. gèh-chhoe, the first decade of the month. chhoe-it, the first of the month. chhoe-jī, the second. chhoe-tsáp, the tenth day of the month. chhoe-kúi, which of the first ten days is it?

chhoe [R. chhe, wife]. hu-chhoe, husband and wife.

chhoe (C.), = A. chhe, to cook by steam. tiông-chhoe-kóe, twice-steamed cakes.

chhoe (C.), = A. chhe, to blow a pipe, &c.

chhòe (C. chhè), to crawl on hands and feet, as a child, or as a lame man. chhòe-chhòe, id. thê-kha--nih<sup>n</sup> chhòe, id. gīm bák-kiáh-tsoe, toà-teh-chhòe, a cripple crawling on the ground with things like wooden clogs in his hands (often said in cursing, may you come to that plight!).

chhòe (C.), = A. chhè, a thin stick.

chhòe (C.), = A. chhè, marrow, brains.

chhòe, rice-dough; rice-flour. chhòe-hún, rice-flour. ta-bí-chhòe, id. bí-chhòe, rice-dough made from soaked rice. cheng-chhòe, to beat soaked rice into dough. chhiau-chhòe, to mix rice-dough. noá<sup>n</sup>-chhòe, to knead and work up rice-dough.

chhòe [R. soat, a brush; to scrub, = col. seh], (C. chhè), to scrub; to scour, as with a wet cloth or with a hard brush and water; to rub smooth, as with sand-paper or with rough leaves or fish-skin. tiá<sup>n</sup>-chhòe, a scrubbing-brush for cleaning rice-boilers.

chhòe (C.), = A. chhè, to search.

chhòe (C.), = A. chhè, thick and short, as the neck.

chhoeh [R. chhek, grieved], (C. chheh), sad, sorrowful; repining. chhám-chhoeh, id. khé-chhoeh, id. chhoeh-sim, repining. oàn-chhoeh, displeased at one's self or at one's fate (v. oàn). oáh-oáh chhoeh--sí, to die of vexation (lit. or fig.) bōe-chhoeh bōe-pi<sup>n</sup>, he will neither repent nor reform.

chhoeh-chhoeh-thi, to sob.

chhoh, to scold with obscene language. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhoh, id. chhoh-mē<sup>n</sup>, id. chhoh-chhoh-háu, id. chhoh-kàn-kiâu, id. chhoh--lâng, to scold people obscenely.

chhōh (Cn.), = A. chheh, to sip. tò-chhōh (T.), to take in a long breath after a great burst of sobbing.

chhōh (Cn.), = A. chheh. chit-chhōh-ngá, a very small quantity, as of tea, salt, vermicelli, &c., taken up in the hand.

chhok [R. chhoat, to take up in the fingers; a pinch], (= col. chbeh). chit-chhok-á, a small quantity of something, especially taken up with the fingers. chit-chhok-á-hé, a little fire for kindling. chit-chhok-á-mûg, a small tuft, as of feathers.

chhok (R. id.) ok-chhok, filthy, dirty.

chhok [R. chhiok, to meet with; to come upon accidentally, = col. chhek], (Cn. chhiok), to try a man's character by giving him an opportunity of stealing or deceiving us. chhok lâng--ê sim-sū, id.

chhok-kéng, to try one's luck by some superstitious rite. chhok chit-ê-kéng, id. chhok-jī-sè, to try one's luck by pulling out lots, each having a character on it.

chhok-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to examine at random (ad aperturam). chhok-tsong, to give (or take) what comes to hand without selection (v. tsong).

chhok [R. to mistake], chha-chhok, a mistake (v. chha). chhok-gō (R.), to mistake. chhok-jin, to mistake one thing (or person) for another. tng-bīn chhok-kè, to let slip an opportunity. chiong-chhok chiū-chhok, having made a mistake not try to alter it, but just make the best of it.

san-tin hái-chhok, the delicacies of land and sea.

chhok-gók (R.), to start suddenly.

chhok — sái-chhùi-chhok, to make a signal by a slight movement of the mouth.

chhók (R. id.), a large seal used by the tēpó of a ward; a seal used in yamun for stamping petitions and complaints. chhók-ki, id. tng-chhók, to stamp with this seal. pó-tiū<sup>n</sup>-chhók, the tēpó's seal. tē-ki-chhók, the stamp put on petitions in yamun.

chhók [R. to chisel, = col. chhák]. chhoan-chhók, to make much needless work in the management of a matter, making it no better, but rather injurious; ill-composed, as a sentence too elaborate or awkwardly involved, so as to be indistinct.

chhók — chhoân-chhók, to take secret action against a man; to intrigue or plot against a man. lâng beh chhoân-chhók--lí, people are secretly preparing to act against you (same as next word?)

chhók — chhoân-chhók, to get ready persons or things, making arrangements to be ready for some special matter, or to manage some affair. chhoân-chhók kha-chhiú, to get ready bearers of sedans and of luggage for the journey, or for such work. chhoân-chhók lâng-sek, to get ready the persons who are to act in a matter, as parties, witnesses, assistants, &c., for a trial.

chhong [R. a granary, = col. chng]. chhong-jí<sup>n</sup>, a thorny seed (Xanthium?) used in medicine. chhong-jí<sup>n</sup>-chí, id.

chhiu-chhong-iâ, the companion of Kwanti; worshipped along with him. koan put-lí chhong;

算
穿 錦
燹
闖

初

妻

糝

刷

感

撮

觸

錯

戳

鑿

倉

hân-sin put-lī koái-thong, said of a man always consulting an intimate friend about whatever he does.

chhong [R. green, flourishing]. chhong-tsùn, beautiful, well-formed, of a person (v. tsùn). súi-chhong, how very fine! how beautiful! (ironically for "how very ugly!") (v. súi).

chhong-tsút, a medicine (v. tsút).

chhong [R. a window, = col. thang]. tông-chhong, a fellow-student. tông-chhong pêng-iú, id. chhong-iú, id. tông-chhong hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, id. chhong-hā-kó, essays written in preparing for examinations, to be corrected by teacher. chhong-hā-khè, id. chhong-chièn, khūn-khó thók; má-siòng, gím-i hōe, study hard at the window, and you will come back (a graduate) on horseback with flowered dress.

chhong (R. id.). chhu-chhong, obsequious; fawning on a man of power or influence.

chhong [R. onions, = col. chhang]. lók-chhong-hoe, a sort of lily with small blue flowers (?)

chhong — chhong-pōng, rash, hurried, or careless, so as to run against and spoil or break things, or to spoil a good case. chhong-hōng, hurried and bustling (v. hōng).

chhong [R. intelligent]. chhong-bêng (P.), = A. chhang-miā<sup>n</sup>, intelligent. chhong-bêng tsāi-n<sup>n</sup>-bók, intelligence and talent are shown by the appearance of the ears and eyes, as in fortune-telling. chhong-bêng tsū-gē, his own genius spoils him, as a man who gives up regular study and trusts to his talents, or as a man who trusts too much to his own wisdom in managing matters, instead of consulting others.

chhông (R. id.), gluttonous, to eat gluttonously, said in scolding. gâu-chhông, you glutton! tham-chhông, gluttonous. tham-chhông chiá<sup>n</sup> ngē-kúi, a glutton becomes a hungry ghost. toā-chhông, very gluttonous. ài-chhông, do. said in scolding. lí kah-hiah sòe-chhông, why do you eat so little? said in scolding a child when it does not eat enough.

chhông [R. chhiòng, to wound]. chhông-chék, shortening one's life by vice.

chhông (R. a couch, = col. chhng). siā-chhông-tsu, a medicinal plant (Cnidium?). siā-chhông, id.

chhông (C.) bóng-chhông, rash and reckless. bóng-chhông-chhông, id.

chhông [R. to make], to repair, to mend; to make up, as false reports.

chhông-tsūn, to repair a boat. chhông-sin, to repair till it is as good as new. chhông-khi-sin, repair it and renew it. chhông-sin--ê, newly made. chhông-tsō, to make. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhông pēh-chhông, made or managed ill; done imperfectly; made in an untradesmanlike way. chhông-khau, to get ready the lots; the others draw them, and the last one remains with the man who got them ready.

chhông chit-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to buy or adopt a son. chhông--ê, an adopted son.

chhông-kéng, to deceive by false reports. chhông-tī (Cn. thong-ti), to play tricks upon; to molest slightly or annoy. chhông-sū, to cause trouble intentionally, often false. chhông-sū sa<sup>n</sup>-loā, to involve others (intentionally) in our own faults or troubles. chhông-gièn tsō-gú, to invent lies and false reports.

chhu — chhu-chhu, sloping, inclined, with considerable declivity, as steps off the level. thán-chhu, laid down sloping, a good deal off the level. kiā-á chhu-chhu, the steps (as of an old stone stair) sloping very much, so as to be difficult or dangerous to walk on.

chhu, to spread out as a mat or coverlet. chhu-chhiòh, to spread a mat. chhu-phē, to spread out a coverlet. chhu-pang, to lay down boards so as to make a level surface, as for a bed or for the floor or deck of a boat. chhu-lái chhu-khi, to lay such boards, moving them back and forwards till they fit and are level.

chhu [R. to run fast]; (C. chhi; Cn. chhü). chhu-chhong, obsequious, fawning, as a parasite or flatterer. chhu-sī, to follow the fashion. chhu-sī siáp-sè, to follow the fashion, and fawn upon the powerful. chhu-kiet pī-hiong, to choose the lucky and avoid the unlucky.

chhu (= chhi); (Cn. chhü). chham-chhu, confusedly mixed.

chhu (R. id.); (C. chhi; Cn. chhü); animalcules, larvæ or small insects of such shape in water. toā-thâu-chhu, a sort with a large head. chhu-thiòng, small worms in decaying things (v. thiòng). hún-chhü (Cn.), = tsúi-sau, a small fresh-water insect good for feeding fish.

chhu-hé, a figure like a lizard, carved on furniture.

hē-chhu, to catch larvæ and such water-insects with a small hand-net. hia-chhu, id. chhu-hia, a net on a pole for catching them. chhu-tē, the bag of such a net.

chhu — béh-chhu, prickly heat. toā-béh-chhu, id.

chhu [R. male], (C. chhi, Cn. chhü). chhu-hiòng (R.), male and female (v. hiòng).

chhu (C.), = chhia, to eat, as white ants.

chhú [R. a fault, as in a gem]. siáu-chhú, over strict and exact to the very last cash or the most minute particulars.

chhú (R. id.), (Cn. chhü; cf. C. chhi), a stick like a pestle for mixing mortar, &c.

chhú [R. to take, to select]; (C. chhi). khó-chhú, fit to be praised or chosen; commendable; having good qualities. bū-it-tiòng khó-chhú, having no good quality at all. bū-tiòng chhú-iú, to make the best of a bad lot.

tsū-chhú-jiók, to get one's self insulted or brought to disgrace by one's own folly. chhú-tsōe (R.), to contract guilt (s. adjust).

chhú-pó, to demand security or bail. chhú-siók, to redeem; to ransom. chhim-chhú, to embezzle. chhú-keng, to seek out and bring sacred books, as from a distant country. chhú-phien, to take a secondary wife.

chhü (Cn.) lêng-chhü, = lêng-khé, rather than that, better that —.

chhú (Cn.), = A. chhú. chhú-chhú, very small, as pimples, pearls, or beads.

chhú [R. this, these]. chhú-sī, now. chhú-jī-kim (R.), id. chhú-hièn-tsāi, id. (v. hièn). chhú-pē, id.

chhú-tiòng ê tō-lí, the principle of this affair. khí-iú chhú-lí, how can this be right? khíu-chhú-lí, id. khíu-chhú chêng-lí, id. tō-toā<sup>n</sup> tsāi-chhú, a Taoist priest lives here. hông-hông tò-chhú, may the phoenix come here (v. hông).

chhú [R. to dwell, to adjust an affair, by change of tone from "chhü," a place], (C. chhi, Cn. chhü), to adjust a quarrel, as arbiter, &c.

蒼

窓

踰

葱

倉

聰

餓

戕

牀

創

差

趨

差

蛆

雌

疵

杵

取

此

處

chhú-sú (C. chhi-sí), the term about the 23d of August.

jī-jī ũ-chhut-chhú, every word has good literary authority, as in a composition.

siong-chhú (C. siang-chhi), well acquainted and associating with a person. kó-siong-chhú, old friends. ōe-siong-chhú--tit, fit to be associated with; fit to be a friend. hó-siong-chhú, id. pháí<sup>n</sup>-siong-chhú, not fit to be made a compauion of.

chhú-chiet, to pay a composition on a debt (v. chiet). ũ-khui-chhú, there is a way open for an amicable settlement, by one or more of the parties being willing to make reasonable terms. chhú-sū, to adjust (or try to adjust) a quarrel, dispute, or feud, by a sort of informal arbitration. chhú-hô, to arbitrate (not like our arbitration) in a quarrel, so as to end it. tiāu-chhú, to adjust an affair, or try to do so, as third parties, appointed by the parties, but without power to bind by their decision. gī-chhú, id. chhú-tī (R.), to settle by a judgment, as mandarin. chhú-tsōe (R.), to punish crime (s. take).

chhú [R. a rat, mouse, squirrel, and some other animals], (C. chhi, Cn. chhū). niáu-chhú, a rat (v. niáu). bā-chhú (cats and rats), (v. bā). chhú-chhát-á, a thief who steals small things; a pilferer. phāu-thāu chhú-chhoàn, to run away terribly ashamed (v. chhoàn).

chhú-báng, eyes small and half-closed (as man), with eyebrows drawn down, and gen. near-sighted. bák-chiu chhú-chhú, id. káu-thāu chhú-hī (monkey's head and rat's ears), said of a man who is very ugly or ill-bred. káu-thāu chhú-bin (face), id.

chhú-bé (dragon's tail), a great whirlwind; a water-spout at sea. khí-chhú-bé, a whirlwind or water-spout occurring. chhú-bé-hong, a sudden great whirlwind, more violent than kúg-lê-hong.

chhih-chhú, a weasel; a clever thief who steals small things. tsuí-chhú, a water-rat. chhân-chhú, a field rat. gún-chhú, a white mouse. hui-chhú, an animal that yields a fine fur. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhú, a sort of rat that has such a strong smell that cats don't like to catch it. hé-chhú, a squirrel. pàng hé-chhú, to set off a sort of squib.

tek-chhú, a sort of firework that jumps about when lighted; a squib. pàng tek-chhú, to set off a squib. chhú-kōe (Cn.), = A. chhài-koe, a sort of cucumber.

chhú [R. tsū, to assemble]. chhú-tsōe, to assemble all together at a fixed place; all fully assembled, as for a procession.

chhú, a house. chhú-théh, house and yard; houses in general (v. théh). bô-ūi-chhú, having no place, e.g. no house.

chhú-lāi, wife. chhú-pi<sup>n</sup>, a neighbour. chhú-pi<sup>n</sup> thāu-bé, the neighbours on each side. chhú-pi<sup>n</sup> chêng-āu, id. chheng-gún bóe-chhú, bān-gún bóe-chhú-pi<sup>n</sup>, it is ten times harder to get good neighbours than a good house.

lêng-chhú, paper houses burned for the dead. tsé--chhú, an ancestral hall. sip-chhú, sort of shed or small house in which confined corpses are laid till a fortunate grave and day are found. hē--chhú, the two smaller houses built at the two ends of the principal house, separated from it by a narrow court, and facing it. chit-keng-chhú, one house. chit-tsō-chhú, one block of houses. piēn-chhú chhut-sè, a house to let.

khí-chhú, to build a house. kim-chhú, to forbid any one except the family (for superstitious reasons) to enter the house, for three, five, or seven days; as after the rites of consecrating a new house, or in sickness. tiig-chhú, the bride going to make a short call at her parents' house, on the fourth day after the marriage.

chhú-tsú, owner of house; landlord. chhú-tiēn, tenant of house. chhú-tat, plan of a house (v. tat). chhú-kè, scaffolding for building. chhú-tōe, a site where an old house had stood. chhú-tê (C.), id. (s. order). chhú-kak, the corner of a house. chhú-kak-thāu, id. chhú-chit, the ridge of a house (v. chit). chhú-koà, the roof. chhú-téng, on the roof; the roof, as a place. chhú-téng-bé, up on the roof.

chhú [R. second, order]. kah-chhú--ê, second class; of inferior quality. chhú-lê--ê, id. chhú-sū, order. chhú-sī (C.), id. chhú-tê, successive order.

chit-chhú, once. āu-chhú, next time. sè-chhú, several times. lúi-chhú, often.

chhú (R. id.) chhú-bī, agreeable; pleasant. iú-chhú, attractive; taking the fancy, as things. sek-chhú, taking the fancy; games of chance played for amusement, sometimes including the drinking some liquor together to pass the time. chin-sek-chhú, very taking to the fancy; very interesting to look at or to hear. kan--á sek-chhú, well, indeed it is interesting or pleasant. tãi-ke teh-sek-chhú, they are amusing themselves with games of chance, no money, or very little, being used. sek-chhú-á, games such as chess, or games of chance played for amusement; also said by euphemism of other improper amusements (esp. gambling or opium), when found at it, "it is only a little amusement, not our usual habit." lâi sek-chhú-á, come and have some amusement, said of gambling and opium.

chhú [R. to marry a wife, = col. chhoā]. siók-chhú, to marry a second wife, as a widower. bī chhú-chhe, sien chhú-chhiap, to take a concubine before marrying a wife, counted highly improper.

chhú — chhí-bú chhí-chhú, whispering.

chhú, to slide; to slip. chhú--lòh-khì, to slide down a slope. chhú-chhi<sup>n</sup> (T.), a falling star.

chhú (C.), = A. chhi, to temper metal in water.

chhuh — chhuh--chit-ê, to go off without much noise, as a bad cracker, or gun with insufficient charge. hóe chhuh--chit-ê (C.), make the smouldering match blaze by a puff. hóe-chhuh-kóng (C.), a small joint of bamboo for extinguishing and keeping a match.

chhuh — chhuh tī-thê--nih<sup>n</sup>, to ground on soft mud, as a boat. chhuh tī thê-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to ground on the muddy bank or shore.

chhui [R. lofty, mountainous], a surname.

chhui (R. id.), to urge; to hasten (active), to dun for payment.

chhui-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a second petition sent in to a mandarin, when the first has not been effectual; to send in such a second complaint or petition. chhui-chiú, to repeat the incantations when the spirits have not answered the first. chit-chhiá<sup>n</sup> chit-chhui, to invite and afterwards to urge strongly to accept.

chhui-chhiáu, to drive a bargain; to haggle. chhui-chhek, do; coming gradually to each other's terms (s. calculate).

chhui-thó, to demand urgently the payment of a debt. chhui-pek, to urge to do anything very quickly (v. pek). chhui-koá<sup>n</sup>, id. chhui-kín, id.

次

趣

娶

催

鼠

聚

推

chhui-ân, to press very urgently.
chhui-si<sup>n</sup>-iòh, medicine that assists in parturition.
chhui — chhui-ân, to tighten. chhui--sí, to strangle to death. chhui-oá, to gather, in sewing.

chhui (R. thui, chhui), to calculate, as a date; to rub smooth, as plaster.

chhui-úi (R.), to make excuses, as for not doing something; to put the blame on another.

chhui-sng, to calculate mentally. chhui-chhut, to draw an inference; to infer. chhui kah-chí, to calculate the cyclical characters, as for a day. chhui ni<sup>n</sup>-kô, to calculate the cyclical characters for a year. chhui-lái chhui-khi, to calculate minutely, as a lucky day. chhui-lái chhui-khi, bô hit-hô-jit, though calculating back and forwards cannot find a good day. chhui-chhek (R.), to consider carefully (s. urge).

chhui-tsun, to make a man (by common consent) the chief person in a company; to give the place of honour to a man.

chhui-piah, to rub plaster smooth with a smooth stone, but not so smooth as "gē."

chhui (Cn. chhú). chhui-chhui, very small, as pimples, beads, pearls, &c. hoat-liáp chhui-chhui, to have an eruption of numerous small boils or pimples.

chhui [R. to investigate; to feel about]. chhui-mê (R.), to investigate, as from many facts or books. chhui-bêng (R.), to think out clearly, as meaning of a book. chhui-tók (R.), to draw inferences from evidence.

chhui (R. id.) chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhui, green. chhui-lâm, bright light-blue. húi-chhui, a bird with brilliant blue feathers. húi-chhui-gék, a greenish-blue sort of jade. chhui-joán, the finest feathers of the húi-chhui (used for females' head-dress). chhui-chiáu-mng-hoe, artificial feather flowers.

chhui, the mouth; the edge, as of a knife; a mouthful.

chit-chhui-á, a small quantity, as of food. kúi-nà-chhui, several mouthfuls.

hong-chhui, the edges of paper where it is pasted up. hong-chhui, a pimple. báng-chhui, mark of mosquito bite. siu-chhui, the edges of a wound closed up. kap-chhui, joint of two boards; seam in dress.

chiáu-chhui, a bird's beak; the bow of a junk (v. chiáu). koe-chhui, a T-headed pin for fastening ropes. ah-bú-chhui, a duck's bill; a small hook worn on the dress for carrying small things (v. ah).

pâng-chhui, the rope that fastens the lower end of the sail to the mast. poh-chhui, the splice of an oar (s. scold). bôe-bôe-chhui, deceitful (traders) mouth; two bowls placed mouth to mouth, but not exactly meeting; the leaves of a two-leaved door laid to, but not shut. khoa-chhui, a pick-axe. kiá-chhui (C.), id. chiam-chhui (P.), id.

hun-chhe-chhui, the mouth-piece of a pipe. tê-koán-chhui, mouth of tea-pot. to-chhui, edge of sword or knife.

thâu-chhui, mouths in a family. kúi-ê thâu-chhui, how many mouths are there in the family? bôe-bé bôe-kiá, chió-thâu-chhui, sell wife and children so as to have fewer mouths to feed (said in joke). hó-thâu-chhui, good at using the regular conventional phrases on meeting people; making profitable voyages, as vessel sailing well without damage.

phī<sup>n</sup>-bák-chhui (nose, eyes, mouth), the features in general. chhui-chih, mouth and tongue; the mouth in general (v. chih). khiú-chhui, to pout the lips. chhui-khi, the teeth (v. khi). chhui-chhui, the beard, whiskers, &c. (v. chhui). chhui-phóe, the cheek. chhui-tún, the lips (v. tún). chhui-kak, the corners of the mouth. chhui-khang, the orifice of the mouth (v. "that," to shut up). chhui-kháu, the mouth (v. kháu).

phah chhui-ké, to talk idle talk (as if mouth like a "drum"). koat chhui-ké, to slap a child's cheek (said in scolding). sái chhui-chhok, to make a signal by a slight change of the mouth.

chhui-ê-táu, the chin. toā-chhui-táu, asking a very large sum, as for managing an affair. pháí<sup>n</sup>-chhui-táu, scolding or cursing with vile language; foul-mouthed. chhe-chhui iá-táu, id. pháí<sup>n</sup>-chhui-phī<sup>n</sup>, id. chhui-thâu, the mouth (figuratively). chhui-thâu khin, willing to take a low price. chhui-thâu giám-ngi<sup>n</sup>, doggedly refusing to make up a quarrel. sa<sup>n</sup>-tak-chhui, having a slight altercation (v. tak). poh-chhui, two persons beginning to scold; slight angry altercation. kiū<sup>n</sup>-chhui, very doggedly refusing to admit an undeniable mistake or fault. siá<sup>n</sup>-chhui, said of a man whose guesses as to the future come true. sí-chhui, unable to reply (v. sí). chhui tsôe, talkative. chhui bát, cautious in speaking. chhui li-hái, good at talking over and deceiving people. hó-chhui, speaking so as to please the hearer; speaking kindly so as to avoid irritating. hó-chhui-súi, good at polite or flattering talk (v. súi). ũ-chhui-hoe, good at speaking politely to those we meet. káu-chhui-hoe, full of flattering or pleasant ingratiating talk.

kió-chhui, a young servant (boy or girl) kept for messages and small bits of work (v. kió). sa<sup>n</sup>-túi-chhui, the parties themselves arranging a matter without using any go-between or middle-man. tui-chhui in-i, answering him at once. m-sī i-ê tui-chhui, unable to contend with him in arguing, disputing, bickering, or scolding. gâu-in-chhui, fond of answering again, as an impudent servant to master. chhap-chhui, to take part in a conversation with which we have no concern (s. broker). chhut-chhui, to be spoken out, as a proposal or order (v. chhut). thàn-chhui, to accept a price or condition offered (v. thàn). thia<sup>n</sup> i-ê-chhui, to follow what he says. tè-chhui-bé, to repeat a teacher's words in learning; to repeat a man's words, as in ridicule or pretending to obey.

khui-chhui, to begin to speak of a matter; to make the first proposal of a price. khui-chhui-thia<sup>n</sup>, an open central hall with no partition to separate it from the court in front.

chit-chhui siang-thâu-chhut, said of a tale-bearer or great talker of scandal. chit-chhui pèh-chhát, all he says is false. kē chit-ki-chhui, to have nothing to rely upon but one's own power of talk and strength of assertion, as a man who has neither truth nor influence on his side. tiu<sup>n</sup> chit-ki-chhui, id.; all mere talk.

chhui-ta, thirsty. chhui pèh, having a bad appetite, as child, or as man long unwell. chhui siap, having a bad taste in mouth and disinclined to eat, as man slightly unwell. chhui phê, do. slightly. lún-chhui, to refrain from eating a thing for fear of sickness. kìm-chhui, to forbid indiscriminate eating or certain sorts of food, as in sickness. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhui, to give an appetite, as a relish.

chhui (R. id.), broken to shivers; in small quantities; by retail. chhui-chhui, id.

lân-chhui, miscellaneous. lui-chhui, id. chhui-

揣

翠

嘴

碎

chhùi-bōe, to sell in small quantities by retail. bōe-chhùi-hō (Cn.), to sell miscellaneous goods, as general store or shop.

chhó-chhùi, miscellaneous; difficult to set right, as affair needing much disputing (v. chhó). só-chhùi (T.), troublesome to deal with, as affair; much wearisome discussion, = A. chhó-chhùi.

thiah-chhùi, to tear to pieces. chhùi-bí, broken rice (v. bí).

chhùi-bang-bang, broken very small. chhùi-sap-sap, id. chhùi-ióh-ióh, id. sa<sup>n</sup>, thiah kàu chhùi-ióh-ióh, clothes torn to tatters. chhùi-iâm-iâm, broken down small. chhùi-kê-kê, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> chhùi-iáp-iáp, the mind very anxious about many matters.

gún-chhùi, broken dollars. chhùi-gún, id. hún-chhùi, broken bits of face-powder. ièn-chhùi, broken bits of raw bird-nest. pē-chhùi, cuttings of cloth. chhun koá<sup>n</sup> pē-chhùi, a few cuttings of the cloth remain.

chham-chhùi, mixed in confusion or disorder. chhap-chhùi ê seng-lí, a miscellaneous small business (v. chhap). tsáp-chhùi ê-seng-lí, id.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chng, to press into a hole.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chng, a village.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (C.) kha-chhui<sup>n</sup>, = A. kha-chng, the posteriors; wrong side of paper, &c.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chng, a thousand.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) chhui<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, = A. chhi<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, the feast of tombs.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chng, the silk-worm.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chng, to suck in the mouth. chhui<sup>n</sup>-chhia<sup>n</sup>, too minute and particular about work, &c., done for us, so as to cause much trouble to people.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chng, to dust; a brush.

chhui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chng, to rush in hurriedly; to string things; (more than one word).

chhun (R. id.), spring; (sexual appetite). chhun-thi<sup>n</sup>, spring. chhun-hun, the vernal equinox. lip-chhun, the beginning of spring, about 4th of February. jip-chhun, id. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chhun, in the beginning of spring. sin-chhun, early days of spring. hō-sin-chhun, to make the New-year's congratulations. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-chhun-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to invite to a New-year's feast. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-chhun, rites on the festival of lip-chhun. chhun-gū, the earthen cow used at these rites (v. gū). ũ siang-chhun, having that festival twice in one year, as year with intercalary month. sió-ióng-chhun, a false spring in winter.

chhun-lēng, the general sort of weather in spring (v. lēng). chhun-hē, spring rains. chhun koá<sup>n</sup>, hē ná<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, when it is cold in spring, the rain comes in torrents. chhun-im (R.), the cold dark weather (more or less rainy), common in spring. chhun-hong, spring winds. kah-chhun-hong, looking better off; now at leisure and free from care, as a man when his work is done. moá<sup>n</sup>-bin chhun-hong, face having the look of good health and comfortable circumstances; pleasant appearance, as of man in prosperous condition. chhun-úi (R.), the examinations of the Tsín-sze degree.

úi-chhun-kióng, to draw lascivious pictures. chhun-hng, medicine used to give strength for lascivious pleasure. chhun-sim tang, person (male or female) longing for sexual gratification. su-chhun (R.), female desiring sexual intercourse.

chheng-chhun-sí, time of early youth, about 20. tsáp-poeh jih-jí, chheng-chhun siáu-liên-sí, about 18 years of age to 22, the bright spring season of life.

thâu-chhun ê-tê, tea of the first crop. thâu-tsúi-chhun, id.

chhun-chhiu, one of the five classics (v. chhiu). chhun-hē chhiu-tang, the four seasons. thien-sù pēng-an hok; jin-gēng hù-kùi-chhun, Heaven gives peace and happiness, men receive the spring time of wealth and honour.

chhun-tiú, a silk stuff (v. tiú). tiú-chhun, a beautiful red flower, like a rose. tiú-chhun-hoe, id. bān-liên-chhun, Ficus Afzelii. jit-jit-chhun, a flower that blossoms all the year round, has a red tubular corolla.

chhun (R. id.) ien-chhun, a quail. phah ien-chhun, to make quails fight; to gamble with quails. liáh ien-chhun, to hold fighting quails in the hand, in training and feeding them. ien-chhun-tē, a bag for keeping fighting quails. ien-chhun-khoan, a tub for them fighting in. ien-chhun-khoan, id.

chhun, surplus; remainder; to remain over, as a balance. chhun-chi<sup>n</sup>, cash over; balance remaining. kah-chhun-chhoá, accumulating a little money. chhun-tiōng, accumulating, as wealth, esp. as money at interest. chhun-tng, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-pun, chiáh ũ-chhun; sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, chiáh bō-hūn, in a dispute, each should yield a little to others, or none will have anything.

chhun (R. sin), (= chng), to stretch out; to stretch; to straighten. chhun-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to stretch out the hand (v. chhiú). chhun-tit, to stretch out straight. chhun-ūn, to stretch one's self, as when tired or slightly unwell (v. ũn). chhun-kha, the wings of a large house facing the court on each side, in the same line with the hē-chhù, but lower.

chhun--chē kiu--chē, almost doing the thing and then drawing back; very irresolute. chhun--chit--ē, kiu--chit--ē, id. bōe-chhun bōe-kiu, neither able to stretch out or draw in, as a palsied man.

chhun (Cn.) chhun-tín, = A. chhoan-tín, to send out suckers, as a plant.

chhùn, to inform a superior or a friend of what we mean to do. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhùn, to treat each other with politeness, esp. each declining what the other offers, or by consulting on an intended action. tsun-chhùn, to inform a superior or friend before doing some action. chhùn-kèng, to show respect to, as a superior or friend, as by making presents, or by respectfully consulting on what we mean to do. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhùn-kèng, id. toá, chhùn-toá; sòe, chhùn-sòe, to consult with others (higher or lower) instead of acting of our own sole purpose.

chhùn [R. tsùn, to remain over, to continuc]. chhùn liōng-sim, to obey conscience, as in the treatment of others. ũ-chhùn-ì, to have a long cherished desire or fixed purpose secretly in the heart only waiting for an opportunity, e.g. determined to have a great feud on any small occasion when a convenient time comes. ũ-chhùn-tsō-ì, id.

bō-chhùn beh-hó, you do not think of right conduct or amendment. bō-chhùn-pān, without any previous thought about it, as something coming unexpectedly. bō-chhùn-pān beh-khì, having had no idea of going, but suddenly having to go.

bō-chhùn tsú-kè, to treat a friend or customer

鷄

伸存

伸

穿

存

春

ill (as for some small temporary gain), so as to lose his custom or friendship. chhún àu-pē, to keep something in reserve for the future, as money, strength, power, or influence, not using them to the utmost, or keeping our purpose secret, so as to be able to change if desirable, or having another plan in reserve; not too much committed to one plan or party. chhún chit-ê àu-pē, id. bô-chhún àu-pē, not taking due care for the future, not making preparation for possible emergencies; taking an apparent present good and so losing what is far better; e.g. charging too dear and so losing a customer entirely. bô-chhún àu-lâi ê-tâi-chì, id. bô-chhún-âu, id. bô-chhún kàu-âu-lâi, id. bô-chhún àu-túg, id.

chhún [R. contrary]. bêng-tê to-chhún, my fate is very bad; I am fated to misfortune.

chhún (R. id.) gû-chhún, stupid. chhún-pûn, awkward and vulgar (v. pûn).

chhún [R. to consider]. chhún-tók (R.), to examine into the thoughts and purposes of one's self or of others.

chhùn (R. id.), an inch; the Chinese inch, one-tenth of a Chinese foot, therefore larger than the British inch.

chhùn-jī, one inch and two-tenths. chhek-chhùn put-î, quite correct; not needing to be changed at all. chhùn-chhiòh, inches and feet. bô-chhùn-chhiòh, making a thing carelessly, different from pattern or quite out of proportion, or wasting the material. bô-hun-chhùn (lit. not by inches and tenths), making no proper measurement or examination; careless or inaccurate in doing things.

chhùn-pê lân-hêng (can hardly go one inch more), walking very slowly and with difficulty.

sa<sup>n</sup>-chhùn-khùi-tng, to expire, in allusion to the length of the throat. chit-chhùn-á-jit, a very short time, allusion to the shadow cast by the sun on the ground. chit-chhùn-á ê jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, id. koh chit-chhùn-á-jit, after a very short time. khiàm chit-chhùn-á-jit, it wants a few moments. it-chhùn kong-im, it-chhùn-kim, a moment of time is an inch of gold.

lák-chhùn-á, thick tiles six inches (about seven English) broad. chhùn-kim-tsó, a confection.

phah-chhùn, a game (tipcat) played by striking a small shuttle-shaped bit of wood on the end, so that it leaps away. chhùn-chí, the cat, or small stick, thus struck. chhùn-ko, the longer stick by which it is struck; the bat.

chhūn, to pinch with the fingers.

chhut (R. id.), an act of a play; one of the successive acts of offering in the rites called "chhiò." chhut-thâu, id. (s. go out). hi-chhut, an act of a play. chit-chhut-hi, one act of a play. tiah-chhut, to select a play. khé-chhut, a tragedy. chhám-chhut, id. hoa-chhut, a lascivious play. siâ-chhut, id. poa<sup>n</sup>-siâ-chhut, to play a lascivious play.

chhut (R. id.), to go out; to issue; to come or go out from; to go out to; to come out to; to give out; to produce; to be produced; to have some diseases that make special marks on skin; to offer a price, as buyer; to be more than —.

chhut-jip, to go in and out (v. jip). chhut-lâi, to come out. chhut-khì, to go out. chhut-khì, to lose the auspicious influence, as a grave (v. khì). chhut-lâng, to supply labour, self or others. chhut-lâng, to suppurate. chhut-kè, to be married, as a virgin. chhut-kè, to offer a price, as the buyer (v. kè, price). chhut-kim, to produce gold. chhut-kim, the helm getting out of gear. chhut-chí<sup>n</sup>, to give out or offer money, esp. copper cash. chhut-chí<sup>n</sup>, to have projecting eaves, as a house.

chhut-tāng, rather more than the weight, e.g. one or two per cent. chhut-tsáp, days of moon from the 11th to about the 14th. chhut-jih, days of moon from 21st onwards.

chhut-ki, very strange. chhut-siu, to have a crop better than the average. chhut-chiòng chhiau-kûn (R.), to surpass others, as in talent, &c. khah-chhut-tioh, excelling other persons or things. chhut-miâ<sup>n</sup>, famous. chhut-thâu, to become distinguished; to get office; to undertake or assume responsibility. chhut-sin, to attain to rank, office, or wealth; to act as head in a dangerous matter (v. sin). chhut-sū, to become a mandarin. chhut-kòng, to become a graduate of the title "kòng-seng."

chhut-sin, to come forward to the trial, as a party in a case. chhut-sím, id. chhut-sê, to come forward and enter a formal answer to an accusation. chhut-siù, to give information against a man (v. siù). chhut-khó, to go to the examinations. chhut-kun, to go to war, as soldiers or mandarins. chhut-chièn, to go out to battle. chhut-sàu, to go out to attack pirates. chhut-tin, to go to battle; to go out in procession; to march in rank and file.

chhut-hái, a supercargo. chhut-tsúi, to take goods from the warehouse to the vessel; to repolish a stone with a dull surface; water coming out (v. tsúi). chhut-tsún, to start in a vessel for a long voyage. chhut-goā, to go from home, esp. to live a while. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhut-lê, to miss each other on the road. chhut-lê toà-ê, things we take with us when we go from home. chhut-koe, to go to market. chhut-iú<sup>n</sup>, to go to sea, as mandarins after pirates. chhut-soa<sup>n</sup>, to bury. chhut-tsōe, to be banished or transported.

chhut-si, to be born. tek-chhut-ê, born of the principal wife. sù-chhut-ê, born of an inferior wife. chhut-ūn, to get out of an unlucky period of life into a lucky one.

chhut-hièn, to become manifest; to appear plainly. hièn-chhut, to manifest. chhut-phoā, to become known, as a secret. chhut-hi, to begin a play.

hoat-chhut, to produce; to give forth; to grow, as buds. chhui-chhut, to draw an inference. siū<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to think out. khoā<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to discover or perceive by looking at. khoā<sup>n</sup>-m<sup>n</sup>-chhut, cannot make it out.

chhut-siàu, to lend or sell on credit. chhut-tse, advertised for lease, as a house to let. chhut-sè, id. chhut-tién, to be in the market for mortgage, as a property.

chhut-ke, to become a Buddhist priest, monk, or nun. chhut-kè, to be married, as a virgin. chhut-kui, id. jī-chhut-lâng, a woman married a second time. jī-chhut-ê, id. chhut-sú, to give a child to another man to be adopted.

chhut-chhùi, to be said by one's mouth, as an order or advice, or the first proposing of a matter. ōe kóng-chhut-chhùi, the word has been spoken and cannot now be recalled. chhut-chhùi ū-jī, to use a great many book-phrases in conversation.

chhut hī-khang, to be very attentive. seng-chhut-chhiú, to be the first to do a violent act with one's hand, as in plundering or in beginning a quarrel. chhut-kha chhut-chhiú, restless, as a child.

舛
春
蝨
寸
寸

齒
齣

出

chhut-lát, to exert strength (v. lát). chhut-kang, to furnish labour or labourers. chhut-sia<sup>n</sup>, to call out loud.

chhut-kióng, to go to stool. chhut-mâng, to go out of the house for a longer or shorter time (v. mâng). chhut-hêng, to go out of the house on a lucky day (v. hêng). chhut-chhù, to go out of a house. chhut-kiô, to alight from a sedan. chhut-kàu, to leave a religion; to apostatize. chhut-ôh, to go out of the school-room; to get out of the jurisdiction of the "lô-su," by becoming a high graduate.

chhut-kè, to offer a price, as buyer (v. kè). chhut-ji-tsáp, to offer twenty (e.g. cash), as the price or wages. chhut--i joá-tsôe, how much was he offered? chhut-tù, to lay stakes (v. tù).

chhut-ji, to give or issue a formal document, esp. deed of sale for land or slave. chhut pín-kù, to produce proof. chhut kò-si, to issue a proclamation. chhut-phiò, to issue a warrant.

chhut-pún, to invest capital (v. pún). chhut-hiông, to pay soldier's pay. chhut chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, id. chhut-gûn, to pay money; to produce silver. chhut-hè, to bring out goods, as from vessel or from warehouse (v. hè). tī-sī beh-lái-chhut, when will you take delivery of your goods? as from ship or hong.

chhut-jin-bút, to produce distinguished men. chhut-chhát, to produce robbers or pirates, as a place. chhut hó-kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun, to have good descendants.

chhut-sek, the good colour coming out beautifully, as in painting or dyeing. chhut-bi, giving a good taste, as meat well cooked. chhut-koá<sup>n</sup>, to perspire by a medical application; to become damp, as a rock or wall in the south wind.

chhut-khêng, a rainbow appearing. chhut-jit, sunrise; sun breaking out from among clouds. chhut-géh, moon rising or appearing from among clouds. géh chhut, id.

chhut-tsu, to take small-pox. chhut-hóng, id. chhut-chhin-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id. chhut-phiáh, to take measles. chhut-pan, to take a very severe fever like typhus. chhut-tan, another dangerous fever.

chhwá, chhwa<sup>n</sup>, chhwah, chhwan, chhwàng, in several tones; better, chhoá, chhoa<sup>n</sup>, chhoah, chhoan, chhoàng, &c. (q. v.)

D.

Some words with initial l are sometimes heard with an initial d, or a sound very like it, so that names beginning in English with d are often imitated by the Chinese by initial l.

dê, sometimes heard after final t, = ê, the sign of the genitive.

hit--dê, = hit--ê, that. hid--dê, id. chit--dê, = chit--ê, this. chid--dê, id. chit-dê, = chit-ê, one.

dz, sometimes heard (T. Cn.) in place of j in the lower series of tones, e.g. dzoáh (T.), = joáh, hot. dzü (Cn. T.), = jü, tsü, in some cases.

E.

e (C. oe), a small earthen or metal pot. e-á, id. hûi-e, a small earthen pot. tê-e, small earthen tea-kettle. chiú-tê-e, a sort of wine-jug. toá-e, a large earthen pot for boiling water. tim-e-á, a small earthen vessel for putting in an outer vessel of boiling water for stewing. e-koá, lid of a small earthen pot.

tâng-e, a small brass pot. si<sup>n</sup>-e, a small pot of pot-metal. loán-e, a brass or pewter vessel for keeping food warm by burning charcoal put inside. joán-e, id.

e (=o), (Cn. ö). tang-e-chhài, parsley.

e (C. oe). e-chhài, lettuce.

e (R. oe). e-hoan, Japanese. ok kàu ná<sup>n</sup>-e--ni<sup>n</sup>, as violent and cruel as a Japanese.

e, an interjection. e--lah, exclamation of men working together, as at a heavy pull or lift, answering to "o--lah," the call of the leader.

e (T. ö). e-lê, very troublesome, fretful, and fractious, as a young child, e-e lê-lê, id.

e (C.), = A. oe, to jostle; to turn a mill.

ê [R. ki, he, she, it], (Cn. gè), sign of the genitive; final particle, forming adjectives out of nouns, or binding several words into a single term; a general classifier, which may be applied very widely; most properly used as classifier of men and cash; sometimes, after final t, becomes lê, dê, or kè; often enclitic.

goá-ê, my, mine. i-ê, his. lêng-ê-kha, a man's foot.

kim--ê, golden. hó--ê, a good one; some good article. tsong--ê, of same surname, but not a relative.

hit--ê, that. chit--ê, this. chit-ê, one. chit-poá<sup>n</sup>-ê-á, scarcely any. bô-poá<sup>n</sup>-ê (not half a one), none at all.

ê [R. bêng, dark; night, = col. m<sup>n</sup>], (C. ê). ê-hng, evening. ê-hui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

ê (C.), = A. ôe, a shoe. ê-té, = A. ôe-tôe, the sole of a shoe. ê-té-hí, = thoah-se, the sole (fish).

é (R. á), (C. é, Cn. é, ek). é-káu, dumb (v. káu). é-sia<sup>n</sup>, indistinct, broken, or hoarse voice, as from sickness, or from weeping or long talking. khàu kàu é-sia<sup>n</sup>, hoarse with weeping and sobbing. gûn-sia<sup>n</sup> é-é, the dollar has a bad sound, as a cracked dollar or one of inferior silver.

é— é-é, sound used in ordering, as scolding children. é-é m-thang-háu, don't cry there!

é (C.), = A. óe, short in stature.

é (R. id.), (C. í), a white film that forms in the eye (amaurosis?). khí-è, to have this disease of the eye. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-è, id.

è [R. ôe, to defile, filthy], (Cn. ö). è--tióh-lâng, to infect. è-lá-sám, to make very dirty and trouble-

其

鍋

倭

苛

其

暝

症

眼疾

穢

some to clean, as by filth or water. è-sè, to make a litter, as by bits of paper, wood shavings, &c. (v. sè).

è-è, to be unclean, filthy; to defile (in a superstitious sense). è-è thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, to offend against the purity of heaven and earth, as by leaving a corpse unburied on the ground. è-è sin-bêng, to defile the sanctity of the gods, as by some impure act or exposure in their presence, or as a Buddhist priest taking a wife.

è (R. id.), (C. i). hē-è, posterity; descendants. hiō-è (Cn.), id.

è — siók tá-lòh chit--ê phài-è, to which branch of the family or clan do you (or does he) belong?

è (R. hā), (C. è), below; after; classifier of blows; (an occasion; a plan), one of the musical notes.

téng-è, above and below. téng-è-jit, on one or other of two or three successive days. thi<sup>n</sup>-téng tōe-è, heaven above and earth below. soa<sup>n</sup>-téng hái-è, on land or on sea (or river) (v. hái).

hái-è, on sea or on a river. thi<sup>n</sup>-è, under heaven; all under heaven; the Chinese empire. hui<sup>n</sup>-è, among the villages.

è-tóe, below. tóe-è, id. è-thâu, id. è-bīn, id.; the lower surface or side. è-kha, the lower part. è-sin, the lower part of one's body; lower down, as a place. è-si, on the southern side, on the lee side, &c. (v. si). lāu-è, the ground-floor. è-lóh, the front division of a house. è-chiò, a building right opposite the principal house, but lower down. è-kim, the lower support of the helm. bàk-è, at present. bàk-è ê-lāng, the men of this time.

è-si, inferior officials (v. si). è-chhiú, dependants, inferiors, assistants. chhiú-è, id.

è-pē, the afternoon. è-pái, next time. è-tang, the second rice harvest; latter part of year. è-nī, the year following; a following year. è-géh, next month. è-chit-géh, one month afterwards. è-jit, a day after; four or five days after. è-chit-jit, one day after. è-pún, the next volume.

chit-è, one blow. phah-chit-è, to strike once. chit-è-khoà<sup>n</sup>--kì<sup>n</sup>, at one glance. tsòe-chit-è, making one lot; all at once; all in one. pun tsòe-kúi-nà-è kià, send it in several successive lots or portions.

chêng-è, a former occasion. toā-è, exceedingly —; very abundantly. sa<sup>n</sup>-è-toā, thrice as large.

è-siàu, a plan; a contrivance, as regards its advantage or otherwise. è-sùi (C.), id. hó-è-siàu, it is a good plan or state of matters; it can be managed in this way. phái<sup>n</sup>-è-siàu, it cannot be so done or will go wrong; no way of managing it well. bô-è-siàu, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-è, very awkward and inconvenient, as a bad mistake, or as a man failing to pay what was counted upon; state of matters making one feel quite ashamed, e.g. some one coming on us in undress. chin phái<sup>n</sup>-è (esp. Cn.), matters in a very bad state.

è [R. hā, a mansion]. è-mûg, Amoy. è-mûi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. è-mûg-soa<sup>n</sup>, the island of Amoy.

è (R. hō). tsai-è, calamity (v. tsai). è-toan, a matter that breeds troubles. è-kàu, when calamity comes. è-lái, id. jiá-è, to bring calamity on one's self. khi<sup>n</sup>-è, id. gín-ná khi<sup>n</sup> toā-lāng-è, quarrels begun by boys involve old men.

è (= lē). háu-è-è, to chirp, as a cicada.

è (C.), = A. oe, able.

è<sup>n</sup> (R. eng), (T. i<sup>n</sup>). è<sup>n</sup>-á (Cn. sōe-ká<sup>n</sup>), an infant. ù-è<sup>n</sup>-á, to be pregnant. tsa-bé-è<sup>n</sup>, you little girl.

è<sup>n</sup> (R. eng), (T. i<sup>n</sup>). è<sup>n</sup>-è<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of an infant crying.

è<sup>n</sup> [R. hā, below], (= è<sup>n</sup>), one of the Chinese musical notes.

è<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. i<sup>n</sup>. chhân-è<sup>n</sup>, a dragon-fly.

è<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, a hero], (C.), = A. i<sup>n</sup>, colloquial form of the proper name "eng."

è<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. f<sup>n</sup>, a beam; a rafter.

è<sup>n</sup> [R. hā, below], (= è<sup>n</sup>, è), one of the Chinese musical notes.

eh [R. lek, C. (R.) ek, a narrow pass, calamity], (C. eh). tsai-eh, calamities (v. tsai). khó-eh, id. eh-ün, an unlucky period of one's life. ü-eh-ün, to be very unfortunate. tsoā-siong hé-eh, thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe-sè, injuries by snakes and tigers are decreed by heaven and earth.

eh (C. eh, T. Cn. öh), (cf. uh). phah-eh, to hiccup; to belch. kí<sup>n</sup>-kui phah-eh, to hiccup from eating too fast or too much. phah chhàu-sng-eh, to belch, leaving a sour taste, or bringing up a little sour bad-smelling stuff. phah chhih-sng-eh, id. eh-sng, to bring up a little sour or acid stuff. eh-tsúi, to bring up a little watery stuff.

khè-eh, to hiccup. khè-sái-eh, to hiccup; of a child only.

thé-eh, to belch; done politely, as an indication of having eaten enough. in-öh (Cn.), id. bô-chiáh, ké thé-öh; bô-chhêng, ké chhihau-cheh (T.), though not having eaten, yet belching as if full; though with almost no clothes, yet putting on a comfortable pleased appearance.

eh (T. eh<sup>n</sup>), exclamation of surprise at something curious.

éh (C. óeh, Cn. öh). khng-éh, small chaff or coarse bran of rice, coarser than "bí-khng".

tê-éh, small broken bits of tea-leaves. hí-pé-éh, refuse and small fragments of dried fish.

éh (cf. ah<sup>n</sup>, út). káu-éh, uncomfortable feeling, as from much dirt on the skin or dirty clothes; uncomfortable, murmuring, discontented feeling. ai-éh, grieved and murmuring internally. àu-éh, displeased or discontented unhappy state of mind; discontented or displeased look; full of superstitious fears from some bad omen.

éh (C.), = A. óeh, narrow. éh-téh, id.

éh (C.) phah-éh, = phah-eh (also C.), to belch or hiccup.

éh<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. eh, interjection of surprise.

éh<sup>n</sup>, to make a slight sound, as an infant on awaking.

ek [R. to force, grieved, = col. ah]. ut-ek, much vexed and grieved. ek-lék, to compel.

ek [R. to increase, to benefit, = col. iah]. lí-ek, benefit; profit; advantage; to benefit; to do good to. ù-lí-ek, beneficial; useful; advantageous. bô-lí-ek, of no use; useless. bù-ek, id. iú-ek, advantageous; beneficial. iú-sún bù-ek, both useless and positively injurious. chin-ek, to make progress in literary excellence. ek-bú-òan, pills used for women shortly after confinement.

ek (R. id.) ek--chhut-lái, to spill over, as water; too full; to make a sudden sally or sudden attack. ek-lái ek-khì, to spill (as water), by shaking back and forwards; to surge back and forwards, as a battle, or as a crowd, or as waves. ek-kè-lái ek-kè-khì, to surge

裔下

嬰下

下厄

噎

夏禍

抑益

嬰

溢

back and forwards, as crowd or battle. ek-lin, to let milk drop down, as child in sucking.

ek (Cn.) ek-káu, = A. é-káu, dumb.

ék (R. id.), (C. iáh, Cn. hék). un-ék, pestilence; epidemic. un-ék-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. un-ék-khi, miasma; pestilential influence. un-ék-kúi, demons that cause pestilence. un-ék-kúi chhut-lâi-iá, the demons come out scattering the seeds of pestilence. khu-siá tiók-ék, to expel the evil influence that causes pestilence.

ék [R. secretions]. bô-chin-ék, wanting moisture in throat and mouth, as when slightly feverish. û-chin-ék, having sufficient moisture in the mouth, so that the voice is good.

ék [R. a wing, = col. sit]. tsó-iû-ék (R.), the wings of an army. ék-tiú<sup>n</sup>, an assistant on the general's staff for consultation on plans.

ék (R. id.) hoan-ék, to interpret.

ék [R. to change]. i-ék, to alter. keng-ék, id. thiet-pán put-ék, fixed so as not to be changed (as if on iron plates), as purpose or orders. kau-ék (R.), to buy and sell.

chiu-ék, the Yih-king, = iáh-keng.

ék (R. id.) ék-jî-thâu, the 56th radical.

ék (R. iók), (Cn. hék, ék). sóe-ék, to bathe by throwing water over the body. tsáng-ék, id. ék-tí, a bath; a bath-room. bók-ék-têng, a paper imitation bath-room, used in the rites of "khiá-hà," for worshipping the recently deceased.

ék (P.), = A. iók in some words, e.g. lust.

eng [R. hero, excellent], a surname. eng-hiông, a hero. cheng-eng, lively; intelligent. bô-cheng-eng, dull; wearied; having a spiritless look.

tai-eng-kok, Britain. eng-kiet-li (r.), id. eng-lê (Cn.), id.

kim-eng, the large single white rose. kim-eng-ko, a black extract from its fruit, used as a medicuie, and for adulterating opium.

eng — sù-eng, the small white jessamine.

eng [R. a vase or jar]. eng-sek-hoe, the poppy (v. sek).

eng — eng-thô, a large red fruit (v. thô).

eng [R. an infant, = col. é<sup>n</sup>]. iók-eng-tông, a foundling hospital. eng-jî (R.), an infant.

eng (R. id.) eng-kai, ought, should (v. kai).

eng (R. iông), (C. iông), an abscess, carbuncle, or large boil in any place where there are large muscles or sinews; applied also to fistula, &c. eng-á, id. lin-eng, abscess or cancer in female breast. leng-eng, id. chê-bé-eng, a large boil or abscess about the division of the legs. khiá-bé-eng, id. phang-siū-eng, a large carbuncle or boil opening in many places, esp. on inside of arm or thigh. siên-eng, abscess in the scrotum. tê-tsai-eng, boil near the navel. té-eng, an abscess in a fleshy part. kun-eng, a boil where the muscles are strong, as on the neck or near a joint.

eng-lâu, fistula in the anus.

eng, flying dust; dust getting into the eyes, or on furniture, &c. eng-ia, id. eng-eng, all dusty. eng--khi-lâi, dust rising and flying about. eng kàu-àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, so very dusty. bák-chiu eng, dust got into the eye. eng--tióh bák-chiu, id. bák-chiu eng-tiôh-soa, sand getting into the eye. eng i-ê-bin, dust blowing in his face. soa eng--lâi, sand blown in clouds. phông-phông-eng, flying about in great quantities, as dust. eng-phông-phông, id. eng phông-phông, id. phû-phû-eng, id.

eng [R. parrot]. eng-bú, a parrot. eng-ko, id. (s. eagle). eng-ko-kè, a torturing machine, used in yamuns. chiú<sup>n</sup> eng-ko-kè, to be tortured on it.

eng (R. id.) eng-á, a sparrow.

eng [R. eagle, hawk]. eng-chiáu, an eagle; a hawk. kap-eng, a sort of hawk or falcon.

eng-ko, a figure of an eagle painted on the stern of a junk (s. parrot). eng-ko-pin, the boarding on stern of junk on which it is painted. têng eng-ko-pin, to nail that boarding on.

tsóá-eng, a paper kite in the shape of a hawk or eagle; a rough paper figure of a bird thrown or blown about by children. chih eng-á, to fold these coarse paper birds for children.

eng-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-hoe, a very strong-smelling flower of a green colour, shaped like an eagle's claw.

eng (P.), in several tones and words, = A. iông.

êng (R. hàn), (T. âi<sup>n</sup>, Cn. ùi<sup>n</sup>, C. ân; but P. êng), leisure; at leisure (idle); (what does not concern us). êng-êng, at leisure. êng-si, when at leisure. thàn-êng, taking the opportunity of having leisure. êng-jit, a holiday; a day on which no work is done. khah-êng sat-bú (more idle than a louse), I am doing nothing. bô-êng-kang, very busy; no leisure; no spare time. bô-êng, id.; also, have to go to ease myself. bô-êng chhieh-chhieh, having no leisure at all (v. chhieh).

chiáh êng-bí, to live on other people. êng-sin, well off, and not needing to do any sort of work. êng-êng chheng-chheng, at ease and comfort, with nothing to trouble him. chheng-êng, in comfortable circumstances, having a competency; quite free from care and anxiety, and not needing to work. chheng-chheng êng-êng, id. chheng-êng-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. êng-kha bóng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, strolling about at leisure. chin-êng-kha, id., esp. of going to talk over a matter that is finally settled, having the walk to no purpose. êng-kha-kut, id.

êng-lâng, a man who has no connection with the affair in hand; a by-stander. lê-kien put-pêng, khi-sí êng-jîn, injustice so flagrant that passers-by are indignant. êng-hoân-ló, unnecessary trouble or anxiety of mind, as in meddling in other people's affairs. êng-tâi, other people's matters, that we have nothing to do with. êng-sū, id. chhap-êng-sū, to meddle with what does not concern us. hê<sup>n</sup>-chhap êng-sū, a meddler. ài-chhap êng-sū, id.

êng-ôe, gossip, chat; idle or unimportant talk. kóng êng-á-kó, to tell idle stories, and talk empty useless talk. êng-á-mih<sup>n</sup>, superfluities; things of no real use, as curiosities and ornaments. êng-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. êng-chí<sup>n</sup>, unemployed money. êng-keng, an empty room, as for guests; a public room (in a village) where people come together idly for talk or play. êng-keng-á, such a public room in a village.

êng (C. esp. P.), = A. iông. êng-i<sup>n</sup>, = A. iông-i<sup>n</sup>, easy.

êng [R. to scheme; a camp, = col. iá<sup>n</sup>]. keng-êng, diligent; actively engaged, as in business for a livelihood. put-chí keng-êng, very diligent, as at work.

êng [R. full]. êng-móá<sup>n</sup> (r.), full, as the number of things or days. la-êng, too jolly; too fond of idleness, sport, and pleasure, often licentious pleasure (v.

瘧疫

液

翼

翼

易

浴

英

馨

嬰

應

癰

鸚

鷹

閒

容

營

盈

la). êng-hêng, behaving in an overbearing and unjust or proud and consequential manner; often said of a proud self-willed child; but (C.), only "rather idle."

êng (R. id.) êng-kng, glory, splendour. êng-hoâ hù-kùi, very prosperous. êng-hiân (R.), illustrious. hiân-tsé êng-tsong, to add glory to one's ancestors, as a high mandarin. êng-êng, tì koe-mûg-chhéng, boastful and bragging.

êng [R. a shadow, = col. iá<sup>n</sup>]. lâi bû-tsong, khi bû-êng, to come and go without any one knowing. pē-hong chhiok-êng (grasp wind and shadows), to take up and spread baseless rumours. ù-êng-hióng, to have some foundation in fact (but gen. not much), as a rumour. éng-hióng iá-bô, not having the shadow of a foundation, as an utterly baseless rumour or calumny.

siáu-êng, a miniature or small-sized portrait. khioh siáu-êng, to draw a small portrait. tãi-siú siáu-êng, large and small portraits.

thuh êng-á (T.), = A. thok kêng-á-hi, a play somewhat like a magic lantern.

êng [R. kêng, a landscape; circumstances]. chhèng-êng, manifesting great delight by gesticulation or outward manner, when getting power, influence, or great success (said of inferiors).

êng — êng-êng, tì koe-mûg-chhéng, said of a boastful bragging fellow; lit. wearing a feather dust-brush, as if it were a peacock's feather.

êng [R. to bubble up or dash about, as water], (P. ióng), a wave. hái-êng, id. éng-niá<sup>n</sup>, swell on the sea. toā-êng, a great wave. thê-pô-êng, the great waves in an estuary, esp. when wind and tide are contrary; the bore in a river's mouth. hong-êng, wind and waves. hong-êng thàu, wind and waves boisterous and stormy. hong-êng toā, id. hong chi<sup>n</sup>, éng pi<sup>n</sup>, wind and waves fallen. tam-hong tam-êng, exposed to wind and waves, as a traveller.

khioh-êng, to turn the boat's head to a coming wave. thim-êng, to dip into the waves, as the bow of a boat in rough weather.

êng (R. id.), perpetual; eternal; always. éng-êng, id. éng-oán, perpetual; eternal. éng-bô, never! éng-û, certainly there is or there are.

éng-sí, often or always (in the past). éng-sióng-sí, id. éng-ni<sup>n</sup>, every year (in the past). éng-kòe (C.), usually, over and over (in the past). éng-ké (Ch.), id.

êng (R. ióng), (C. ióng). êng-chhài, sort of convolvulus grown in water.

êng (R. ióng), to manure. êng-pùn, id. êng-púi, id. êng-chhân, to manure irrigated fields.

êng [R. to answer, to recompense, to fulfil, = col. in]. êng-báu, to answer to the roll, as soldiers, &c. êng-sin, to make appearance at a trial, as persons (though not parties) whose names are in the documents (v. sin). tah-êng, to promise verbally. êng-sêng, to promise verbally to grant, as a request (v. sêng). êng-ún, to promise. êng-in, id.

êng-siú, to hold friendly intercourse by visits or ceremonial presents. êng-sè, do., or by proper polite phrases. êng-chiap, to receive, as guests or visitors, treating them properly. chiap-êng, id.; also, to assist, as a body of fresh soldiers. ngé-kok hong-sêng, hē-tsúi chiap-êng, rain and grain abundant.

chiâu-êng, to take care of; to assist; to befriend. gōe-kong lōe-êng, treachery within helping the attack from without.

pō-êng, to recompense (as the gods do) by reward or punishment. lêng-êng, powerful and able to answer prayers. kám-êng, id. ù-kám-êng, id. iú-êng, id. iú-kiú pit-êng, prayer (as to some special divinity) will be answered. bân-êng-kong, the spirit of a shrine for tablets that have no posterity. bân-êng-ko, a sort of plaster, said to be good for a vast number of diseases.

êng-giām, to fulfil or be efficacious, as prayer or medicine. êng-hāu, to be efficacious, to be fulfilled, as a votive prayer.

súi-sí êng-pièn, to act according to the circumstances. súi-ki êng-pièn, id. ù-êng-pièn, good at adapting one's plans and procedure to the circumstances.

êng-hūn, the portion that belongs to a man on the division of an inheritance. êng-hūn ê-giap, id. êng-hūn ê-ke-giap, id. chit-keng sí i-ê êng-hūn, this house is his portion of the inheritance.

êng (R. ióng), (C. ióng), to use; to spend; with (with an instrument). êng-to koah, cut with a knife. êng-gûn bóe, to buy with silver. êng-pit siá, to write with a pen or pencil.

lê-êng, a use. ù-lê-êng, useful. bô-lê-êng, useless. toā-lê-êng, very useful. ù sim-mih<sup>n</sup> lê-êng, of what use is it? bōe-êng-tit, not fit for the purpose. m-êng, will not use it; there is no need of (esp. said in Ch. in place of "m-sái").

bô-êng, it is better not to —; stronger than "m-sái," but not so strong as "m-thang." bō êng —, not using —. bō-êng-lâng (T.), I am a good-for-nothing man; said politely to mean, I am a plain honest man, and cannot help in bad schemes.

khai-êng, to spend money; to use money. hùi-êng, id. sai-êng (not in Ch.), expenditure; to use; to spend (money). thām-êng, to use more than our income. chhim-êng--lâng, to embezzle. lām-êng, very lavish of money, as for bad purposes, or of other people's money. kam-êng, not afraid to spend money on proper occasion (v. kam). ká<sup>n</sup>-êng, rather too liberal or lavish. khiām-êng, economical. kiám-êng, to use somewhat less. sêng-êng, to use more sparingly; to manage to get on without using so many.

lân ke-êng--i kúi-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, we get a few cash better exchange from him, as by paying in silver instead of in copper cash.

chhe-êng, to employ as a servant, in general; a servant.

bóng-êng, only tolerable; middling; will just do, for want of better. hó-êng, good for use. thong-êng, universally current. iáu-êng, to require for use for some special purpose; specially needed; indispensable. kàu-êng, enough for use; having enough to use. chioh-êng, to borrow for use (v. chioh). hē-teh-êng, lay it down to be ready for use, as it is wanted.

êng-sim, to apply the mind. êng-kang, to work diligently; worked or made with care; carefully.

榮

影

景

水

壅 甕 應

用

G.

This initial is often interchanged with ng (q.v.); very frequently the reading form is in ng, while the colloquial is g.

gá [R. a tooth, ivory, = col. gô], (C. gǎ). gā-koan bōe-khui (the teeth will not open), as in a faint or near death.

gā (R. id.), (Cn.), to suspect; to feel suspicious. gī-gā, id.

gāi (R. id.), stupid, foolish. gāi-chī<sup>n</sup>, bad eash. khō-gāi, miserably poor. chhi-gāi, silly; very dull and stupid; foolish. gāi-gām-gōng, very stupid (said in scolding). gāi-káu (C.), said of a man who interrupts or browbeats another when speaking, or will not listen to reason.

gāi (R. id.), (T. ngāi<sup>n</sup>). ū-kan-gāi, there is some impediment. kan-gāi-tiōh lí, it may (slightly) involve you. gāi-tiōh, to tend to involve or compromise a man; to affect injuriously. bō-kan-gāi, there is no impediment, no danger or obstruction. bō-gāi, id. bō-sa<sup>n</sup>-gāi, not having any injurious or obstructive influence on each other. bō-siong-gāi, not having injurious influence (esp. on good luck); there is no impediment; not hurt, as in a fall.

gāi-giōh, feeling uncomfortable. gāi-bák, to offend the eye, as some wicked thing. chhui-kap-chih ū-sī sa<sup>n</sup>-gāi, the best friends (like mouth and tongue) sometimes fall out.

koà-gāi, to be anxious about, as a person or affair. khoà-gāi, id. bō-koà-gāi, there is no danger or impediment; need not be anxious.

gák (R. id.) gák-hū (R.), wife's father. gák-bú (R.), wife's mother. leng-gák (R.), your wife's father.

gák [R. music]. gák-khì, musical instruments. tāng ké-gák, to play joyful music. kim ké-gák, to forbid music, as during mourning for the emperor. hōng-kim ké-gák, to receive orders from a superior forbidding the use of music. lé-gák (R.), ceremonies and music. tsok-gák (R.), to make music with instruments. gák-koa<sup>n</sup>, minister of music in ancient times.

gák [R. a high mountain peak]. the great temple (esp. agricultural) outside the east gate of a city. tang-gák, id. gák--nih<sup>n</sup>, id.; in that temple. gák-kháu, the door or front of that temple. liáh kàu gák-kháu, to drag a departed soul to that temple, where giām-ló-ōng judges the dead.

gák-tè, the chief god of the tang-gák temple. tang-gák-tè, id. gák-ōng (C.), id.

gák (C.), = A. gæk (a prison), in some phrases. tē-gák, hell.

gām [R. a steep rock or cliff; cf. eol. giām]. tsām-gām, strong, firm, and well made. lin-gām, an abscess or cancer in the (female) breast. leng-gām, id.

gām — ng-gām-gām, very yellow, as ripe fruit, &c. ng-gām ng-gām, id.

gām, foolish, stupid, as a man. gām-gām, id. gām-si<sup>n</sup>, having a stupid manner. gām-bák, having a dull unintelligent eye. tām-gām, appearance of dullness and want of ability, e.g. head hanging down, &c.

gām, = ngām. gām-áu-á, a small sort of fish. gām-áu-hi, id.

gān [R. the face], a surname. gān-sek, complexion; countenance. gān-iōng, complexion. liōng-gān (R.), the face of the emperor; lit. of dragon. hōng-gān, to pók-bēng, beautiful women are often unfortunate.

gān [R. gēng, to congeal], chilly and cold, as weather; cold and benumbed, as hand held long in cold water. thi<sup>n</sup>-khì gān-gān, weather very cold and chilly. thāu-khak gān, head cold and chilled. chhui-khí gān, teeth chilled and sore, as with drinking very cold water. chhiú gān, kha gān, hands and feet benumbed with cold.

gān (C.), = A. gièn (to speak). gān-gí, = A. gièn-gú, language, talk.

gān [R. the eye; a joint]. si<sup>n</sup>-gān, the joint of a fan. sí-gān, a fixed rivet. oáh-gān, a joint made to allow free motion.

jī-gān, a book-phrase. chheh-gān, title-page of a book; title pasted on a book.

póng-gān, the second name on the list of new members of the (Hān-līm) Imperial Academy. siang-gān-lēng, a peacock's feather with two eyes. chhien-lí-gān (eye seeing a thousand li), an attendant of the idol Má-tsé-pō.

gān-chiáu, a man more acute, skilful, or daring than others, and fond of meddling in matters, so as to be naturally a leader though not appointed. kong-gān, very bright, too sharp for his years, as a lad about eighteen (v. kong "bright"). hó-gān-sin, eye having an appearance of intelligence (v. sin). ū-gān-lék, good at discerning good from bad at a glance. hó-gān-lék, id. hó-gān-sek, skilful at discerning by a glance. gān cheng, chhiú khoài, eye and hand very quick, as of a thief or juggler. kò-gān put-tsai, able to repeat after one reading. gān-khóng toā, so proud and haughty as not to salute or notice people; not deigning to speak, &c.

tsui-gān, eyes naturally having a soft and swimming look, as if drunk (v. tsui). gān-lūi (R.), to shed tears. sng-gān, injurious to the eyes, as late writing or sewing, or some sorts of food. jī-sun boán-gān, large posterity seen before death. khai-gān, to touch an idol's eyes with the red pigment called "sin-se," in consecrating it. khai-gān-tsoá, yellow paper with rude pictures of horses and chariots, burned to hasten the spirits to come to the sorcerer.

gān-chēng (C. gién-chēng), at present. gān-chiēn, id.

gān-kià<sup>n</sup>, spectacles (v. kià<sup>n</sup>). gān-khe, eye diseases (v. khe).

gān (C.), = A. gég, to grind in a sort of mortar.

gān, to cool, as in water, or as by applying a piece of cold iron; to temper. gān-tsui, to cool or temper in water. gān-khng, to temper steel. gān-bák, to cool the eyes, as by a piece of rock-crystal or a cold knife or bit of steel.

gān [R. a sea wall or dyke, = col. hoā<sup>n</sup>] pók-gān, a low broad wall or bank built at the foot of a wall or embankment to strengthen or protect its base; the parapet wall of a terrace, as on house-top.

gān (R. id.) hái-gān, a sea-goose. chhiu-gān,

顏

凝

言眼

牙
訝
呆
碍岳
樂

嶽

岩
巖岸
鴈

sort of goose that comes in autumn. hông-gān, a sort of sea-bird (said to be used for carrying letters).

kə-gān, a widow or widower (said because the wild-goose is supposed to remain so).

gān — gān-chi-tsung, small fine bricks for ornamental work.

gāng (cf. gōng). gāng-gāng, having a stupidified and bewildered look, as at sudden bad news, or as when unable to reply to a severe rebuke. gāng-gāng teh-khiā, standing with a bewildered look.

chiú gāng-gāng, out of work and having no money.

gap (C. ap), to swallow water, as a fish. gap-tsui, id. chi<sup>n</sup> khit--i gap--khi, to be swindled of money by him.

gāu [R. hiên], (T. gāu, ngāu<sup>n</sup>), clever; wise; skilful; good at —. gāu-tsá, you are early up. gāu-toā, growing fast, as hoy tall for his age. gāu-kún, playing practical jokes or tricks (v. kún). gāu-lāng, a wise man. gāu tsòe-lāng, polite and kind. ké-gāu, to pretend to be clever.

bòe-gāu--tit, the matter is so fixed by Heaven's decree that the most skilful man cannot change it.

gāu (Cn.), = ngāu, fond, as of pleasure.

gê [R. há, red clouds, = col. hê], (C. gê). bīn āng-gê, face ruddy and healthy-looking.

gê (R. gái), (T. gò), in great perplexity; mind confused, as with grief, madness, or liquor. gê soáh-soáh, in very great perplexity.

gê (Cn.) gê--lāng, to act so as to make another displeased. gê-sí-lāng, to irritate a man very much.

gê [R. gá, a tooth], (C. gê), a tusk, as of boar or elephant; ivory.

gê-tsò, the lower jaw (v. tsò). gê-kam, a very severe disease of the jaw. chhoàn-gê, a very protruding tooth. gê-khí (C.), the teeth. kā-gê chhiet-chhi, to gnash the teeth in pain or rage.

núg-gê, to come down in one's talk after being very violent. lí hêng peh-gê, you are very fond of opening your jaws (when talking of what should not be mentioned).

gê-lāng, a broker or middleman for small transactions (lit. one who uses his teeth and mouth), esp. for domestic animals. gê-hāng, a shop or firm that transacts brokerage. tsòe-gê--ê, to be a broker. ti-á-gê, a shop or broker's office where pigs are bought and sold. chhā-gê, do. for sale of fire-wood. gê-chi<sup>n</sup>, brokerage or small commission. thiu gê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to take a small percentage for brokerage, as broker or weigher. khioh gê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to levy a small rate on gambling, or opium-shops, &c., as underlings of yamuns do.

toā-gê, the tiller of a helm. lêng-gê (lit. dragon's teeth), several upright pins on the bow of a junk, between which the anchor cables run.

gê-jit, the 2d and 16th of each month. bé-gê, the 12.16, specially sacred to thé-ti-kong. toā-gê (C.), id. sió-gê (R.), the 2d and 16th of each month, except the last. thāu-gê, the 2.2, birth-day of thé-ti-kong. tsòe-gê, to keep the 2d and 16th of each month with worship of mùg-kháu-kong.

gê-sek, cream-colour or yellowish-white, like ivory long exposed to the air. gê-pái, dominoes for games of chance. gê-ti, ivory chop-sticks. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-gê, ivory; elephant's tusk. thng-gê, to shed the tusks, as elephant.

gê (C.), gê-chio, = gêng-chio, the plantain.

gê (R. gá), (C. gê), a young sprout. puh-gê, to sprout. hoat-gê, id. thun-gê, esculent sprouts of the "thun" tree. kiu<sup>n</sup>-gê, ginger sprouts. béh-gê, harley sprouted so that the sprouts and roots are all interlaced, and dried in slices for medicine. chhek-gê, dried sprouted rice (med.) tāu-gê (C.), = A. tāu-chhài, sprouted peas.

gê-siau, a white medicine.

gê (C.), = A. gòe, a surname.

gê [R. ki; he, she, it], numeral for one article when followed by a fraction; also (Cn.), = A. ê, sign of genitive; classifier of men and some things.

gê-poà<sup>n</sup>, one and a half. gê-poà<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, one copper cash and a half, as in calculating prices. gê-goā-chi<sup>n</sup>, worth a good deal more than one cash. gê-jí,  $\frac{1}{10}$  =  $\frac{1}{10}$ th of anything, esp. of a cash. gê-jí-chi<sup>n</sup>,  $\frac{1}{10}$ th of a cash.

gê-gê (Cn.), one by one; each and every one. chih--gê (Cn.), this. hīh--gê (Cn.), that.

gê (R. gá), (C. gê). gê-mng, a yamun; a mandarin's office, court, and official residence. koa<sup>n</sup>-gê, id. gê-mng-lāng, an attendant, assistant, or underling in a mandarin's court. gê-iah, messengers and lower assistants in do. gê-lāi, within the yamun. gê-kháu-tiā<sup>n</sup>, the paved court before the great gate of yamun. tō-ia-gê, the Tau-tai's yamun. thê-tok-gê, general's or admiral's yamun.

pái-gê, to arrange the assistants, &c., to receive the newly arrived mandarin. pe-gê, to guard the gate of yamun in the daytime; the door-keeper of yamun. khiā-gê-mng, to be on duty staying in yamun of naval mandarin (as some of the marines).

gê (C.) chhun-chhiú, bô hē-gê, having no money or property.

gê (R. id.) kang-gê, handicraft. chhiu-gê, a handicraft or art. tsòe gê-niu<sup>n</sup>, to do a bit of work half for amusement to pass the time. tsò-gê (C.), to idle about, as child at play, or as idle fellow pretending to work. sù-tsú chhien-kim, put-jú kàu-tsú it-gê, better teach your son one trade than give him a thousand pieces of silver.

gê (C. gê). ū-gê, the anchor taking hold of the ground; the anchor home; to be glad and pleased, as at getting some favour we had asked, or as looking at curious or interesting things (this last sense esp. C.) tāi-chi gê--lah, the parties are now willing and the object attained. pha-bô-gê, the anchor will not catch. bòe-gê, id. bô-gê, id.; also feeling ashamed and displeased, as at failing to get an expected favour, or losing hope of success, or at meeting one whom we wished to avoid; feeling of ennui in bad weather with no amusement (these last senses esp. C.) phah--lāng bô-gê, to make a man feel quite ashamed, as by disrespect or scolding, or taking no notice of him, or refusing what he confidently expected. thun bô-gê-oān (swallow a bitter pill), to feel very much ashamed at want of success. bô-gê-oān, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-gê (C.), unpleasant state of feeling, as when a man gets angry with us without cause, or insists on paying for a gift or favour.

tòng-bòe-gê, opposition utterly unsuccessful. kóng bòe-gê, utterly unsuccessful in a request.

gê, to rub very smooth the second time, so as to polish (as wood, horn, or ivory). ūn-á-gê, to rub and polish very carefully so as to polish. kè-gê, very well polished.

gê — lêng-gê, to speak sarcastically or ironically to a man.

哈

賢

霞

牙

牙

芽

倪其

衙

藝

gē (C.) toā-gē (= A. koh), a large frame with incense and boys dressed as girls, carried in idolatrous processions. gē-pē<sup>n</sup>, id. gē-toā<sup>n</sup>, the boys dressed as girls who sit on it. tsng-gē, to make up and ornament this frame. ngiā-gē, to carry it in procession.

ū chhut-chi<sup>n</sup>, bō kng-gē (A.), to subscribe money, but get no fame or advantage from it (lit. and not carry the ornamental frame).

geh (T.), = A. giēt (C. gēh), to joke roughly at a person.

gēh (= khéh). gēh-gēh-tiō, to shiver, as from cold or fear.

gēh (R. goat), (C. góeh, T. Cn. göh), the moon; a month. gēh-niū<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of the moon.

gēh-péh, white with a slight bluish tinge. gēh-sek, id.

âng-gēh, the bull's-eye of a target (red), often three of them perpendicularly. gēh-toh, a round table. gēh-thang, a round window. gēh-pó, an axe with a convex semicircular edge. gēh-khim, a sort of stringed musical instrument.

jít-gēh, sun and moon; days and months (v. jít). ní<sup>n</sup>-gēh, years and months (v. ní<sup>n</sup>). gēh-kè-gēh, from month to month.

si<sup>n</sup>-gēh, the month of one's birth. théh si<sup>n</sup>-gēh, to get the horoscope (poeh-ji) of the proposed bride or bridegroom. phoà-gēh, the cyclical name of natal month disagreeing seriously with the name of the year; if a girl, it has a deadly effect when married on her husband; if a boy, it will have a deadly effect on his wife's relations, therefore not so important! gēh-lêng, the cyclical name of a month (for divination), consisting of two characters, the first varying with the year, the second fixed for the same month in all years.

khia-gēh, the bride spending some days (or a month) with her parents soon after marriage. sùn-gēh, within a month before the time of child-birth. moà<sup>n</sup>-gēh, one month after confinement. gēh-lāi, within a month after confinement; also (in general), within the month. gēh-lāi-lâng, a woman within the month after confinement. gēh-lāi-pâng, the room where the child was born, so called during the first month only. gēh-lāi-hong, the woman's sickness in that season. tsai i--ê gēh-lāi, phah i--ê pâng-mûg (knowingly to knock at the door of that room in that month), to talk to a man's face of his secret faults or shame. gēh-keng, the menstrual discharge.

gēh-chhoe, the first ten days of a month. gēh-thâu, the beginning or first part of a month. gēh-bé, the last few days of month, about 26th to end. gēh-poà<sup>n</sup>, about 14th, 15th, or 16th. gēh-poà<sup>n</sup>-jít, a month and a half. chhit-gēh-poà<sup>n</sup>, the middle of the seventh month, 7.15, = tióng-goân (v. chhit). nûg-gēh-jít, a period of two months long. jī-gēh, the second month of the year. chia<sup>n</sup>-gēh, the first month. lûn-gēh, an intercalary month. lûn-gē-gēh, intercalary month just after the fifth month, usually called "intercalary fifth month." toā-gēh, a month in which a great deal of business is done. gēh toā, the month has thirty days. gēh sòe, the month has 29 days. chit-gēh si-toā á-sòe, has this month 30 or 29 days?

gēh chiū<sup>n</sup>, the moon ascending. gēh tng-kiā, moon at zenith. gēh tióng-kiā, id. gēh tui-tióng, id. gēh chhiá, moon about to set. sit-gēh, eclipse of moon. gēh tng-í<sup>n</sup>, the moon become round again after eclipse (it is counted lucky to see this).

gēh í<sup>n</sup>, the moon full. gēh-pêng, half-moon. gēh-bâi, crescent moon, at first or last. gēh-hoá, sort of lunar halo of five colours (a spirit is supposed to be in it bestowing blessings). gēh úi-khø, the moon has a halo of usual kind. gēh ti-lóeh, a small circle of clouds round the moon. gēh úi-khø, khít-hø ak; ti-lóeh, khít-jít phákh, the one get drenched with rain, the other get scorched by the sun. gēh hoá<sup>n</sup>, the moon giving little light, either small or clouded. gēh-hoá<sup>n</sup>-á, id. gēh-ám-mi<sup>n</sup>, a moonless night. gēh-ia<sup>n</sup>, shadow from moon; moonlight on water, &c. siū<sup>n</sup>-gēh, to gaze at the bright moon.

gēh (C. gòeh, T. göh). chhin-chiā<sup>n</sup> gē-gēh (C. chhin-chhek gē-gòeh), relations, connections, friends, and neighbours. bō-chhin-chiā<sup>n</sup> gē-gēh, having no relatives or friends. kóng tsáp-tsoh gē-gòh (T.), to talk in an involved way about a great many matters, esp. to avoid directly answering an inconvenient question.

gēh (C.), cf. A. giet, giòh (T. geh). giòh-gēh (C.), to taunt, or jest and jeer at.

gék (R. id. = col. kék), to rebel, disobey, or offend seriously. gék-hong, wind contrary. hêng-gék, perverse; very wicked. pōe-gék, to rebel against. ngé-gék, disobedient to parents. bē-hoán tái-gék, rebellion and treason.

gék-thien, to offend against Heaven. gék-lí, to transgress Heaven's laws. gék-chí, to disobey the imperial orders. lióng-iòh khé-khé; tióng-giēn gék-ní<sup>n</sup>, good medicine is bitter; faithful words offend the ear.

gék (R. giòk), (C. giòk), jade-stone. pó-gék, very precious jade. ké-gék, false jade. chhài-gék, id. sē-gék, fine white jade with a slightly yellowish tinge. âng-gék, red jade.

gék-áh, a casket made of jade-stone. gék-khi, articles made of jade.

gék-chiam-hoe, a sort of lily (v. chiam).

gék [R. giòk, a prison], (C. giòk, gák). lò-gék, a prison. ka<sup>n</sup>-gék, id. gék-koa<sup>n</sup>, a small mandarin who has charge of a high mandarin's prison. chē-gék, to lie in prison. küi<sup>n</sup>-gék (Cn.), to imprison. liēn-gék, purgatory.

tē-gék, hell. tē-gék-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. tōē-gék (Cn.), id. lòh tē-gék, to go to hell. kè tē-gék, to pass through hell (Buddhist). phah tē-gék, to deliver a soul from hell, as Buddhist priests do. khui tē-gék-mûg, to open its gates (on 7. 1) to let the ghosts out for a month. koai<sup>n</sup> tē-gék-mûg, to shut them in again on last day of seventh moon.

gék (Cn.), = A. jiòk, a cushion, &c.

gèng (R. id.), to coagulate; to lie heavy on the stomach. gèng chit-tè, coagulate into a mass. gèng chit-oân, feeling of indigestion like a ball on the stomach. chiáh-liáu, gèng--leh, id. after eating. gèng tī-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id. huih gèng--teh, blood coagulated, as when shed. hiet-khi gèng--leh, blood supposed to be internally coagulated, and not acting properly, as in tumours, &c. huih-khi gèng--teh, id.

gèng (C. gē). gèng-chio, the plantain; the banana (v. chio).

gèng [R. lióng, a dragon]. gèng-gèng, the dragon's eye, or lung-yen fruit (v. gèng). gèng-á-koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), dried lung-yen.

gèng [R. to receive ceremoniously]. gèng-sin,

月

逆

玉

獄

凝

牙龍迎

khi-kiù (R.), to take to the new and forsake the old, as a fickle-minded man. jîn géng hù-kùi chhun, man receives wealth and prosperity like spring (from heaven).

眼

géng [R. gán, the eye], (T. gáí<sup>n</sup>, Cn. gūi<sup>n</sup>, C. kán, kóng). géng-géng, the dragon's eye, or lung-yen fruit (Dimocarpus Longan?). hok-géng, a large sort. liú-á-géng, a small sort. géng-géng-koe, a beautiful insect somewhat like a butterfly. léng-kéng-ke (C.), id. (v. ke).

研

géng (R. gién), (T. ngái<sup>n</sup>, Cn. ngūi<sup>n</sup>, C. gán, gién), to grind with a wheel in a mortar; to roll out, as dough; to roll and polish smooth, as cloth; to press or mould with finger or palm, as a swelling to be reduced.

géng-poah, a long trough-shaped sort of mortar. géng-tsò, do. géng-lûn, the wheel worked in the trough. géng-thûi, a roller for dough; a sort of pestle. géng-chiòh, a large smooth stone for pressing and polishing cotton cloth. géng-pê-chiòh, id. géng-pê, to press and polish cloth, by two men standing on the two ends of the stone, by a see-saw motion. géng-iòh, to grind medicine in a trough. géng-boáh, to grind to powder. géng-iù, id. géng-mi<sup>n</sup>, to roll out dough into thin cakes. géng-piá<sup>n</sup>, id.

ûn-á géng-chhut, gradually get out facts more and more fully after the clue has been found.

toà-teh-géng, standing deriding or jesting at people.

géng-tûng, to sunder, by working the hand or some instrument back and forwards; to bite asunder, by moving the teeth or toothless gums back and forwards. bóng-géng, barely manage to bite it with toothless gums, as old man or child.

迎

géng [R. id. by change of tone from "gèng," to receive ceremoniously]. chhin-géng, to go to the bride's house in person to take away his bride, as bridegroom does if he wishes to show great respect for his relatives.

géng — géng-chio, better gèng-chio, the plantain (v. chio).

儀

gi [R. ceremony], a small ceremonial present or fee. chit-é-gi, do., especially at betrothal. chit-pau-gi, do. in silver. sàng lé-gi, to make the ceremonial presents, as at betrothal. phèng-gi, presents to bride's parents from bridegroom's parents.

tsoeh-gi, presents made to a teacher at some of the terms. kiò-gi, hire of sedan for teacher, paid by scholars; sometimes do. for friend. hò-gi, a congratulatory present. sin-gi, presents to Kujin on going to the capital, and such like.

sit-gi, to fail in ceremony proper to a superior. ui-gi (R.), dignified manner, causing reverence or awe.

琵琶

gi (R. pí, id.) gi-pê, the loquat or pipê fruit (v. pê).

gi (R. pí, id.) gi-pê, a four-stringed guitar, shaped like the loquat (v. pê).

gi (C.), = A. gû, a surname.

gi (C.), = A. gû, foolish.

gi — gi-pân (T.), = A. tók-pân, a bright green sort of beetle.

gi (C.), = A. gû, to catch fish (R.) gi — gi-gê, a thorny shrub (v. gê).

疑

gi (R. id.), to doubt; to suspect. gi-ngái, id. giâu-gi, id. gi-hék, id. ti-gi (R.), to have suspicions or doubts so as to delay; very uncertain in purpose, not knowing how to act. ti-gi, to have suspicions or distrust. gi-gā, to suspect; to be suspicious. chhai-gi (R.), id. to-gi, full of suspicions. gi-tang gi-sai, id. gi-

sin gi-kúi, id. hām-gi, to harbour suspicion. toà-gi, id. tài-gi, id. koà-gi, id. gi-sim, suspicious mind. gi-sim tâng, suspicions rising in the mind. gi seng-koài, suspicion makes one more and more suspicious (v. koài). poà<sup>n</sup>-sin poà<sup>n</sup>-gi, half believing, half doubting. chiong-sin chiong-gi, id. khò-gi, suspicious, as affair. hoān-gi, to be suspected. kièn-gi, id.

bô-gi-gō, unexpectedly; before one is aware or has any thought of it.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-gi, nauseated, as at bad taste; ready to vomit; suddenly taken aback and suspicious of danger.

gi [R. right, ought]. hâp-gi, proper, right, as it should be. lóng-tām tek-gi (R.), dress just proper, not shabby or gaudy.

kiā<sup>n</sup>-gi, behaviour. in-sí ché-gi, to fit one's actions to the circumstances.

pan-gi, cheap, a good bargain. pan-gi-lâng, to insult a man, or scold him violently when he dares not retort. chiàm--lâng pan-gi, to act in an overbearing way. chiàm-pan-gi ê-lâng, a man who acts so. tok-lâng pan-gi, to cheapen too much, to drive too hard a bargain. tau-pan-gi, to undersell.

lióng-gi, the Yin and Yang (im-ióng), especially as represented by a circle divided into two equal halves, of different colours, by a wavy line made by two semi-circles meeting at the centre.

gi-lí-sī (C.), certainly ought to be —; surely will —; should exert yourself to —. gi-lí-sī tiòh àn-ne<sup>n</sup> (C.), indeed you should do so.

gi (C.), = A. gú, talk, words. gân-gi, = A. gièn-gú, id.

gi [R. to give judgment, to sentence]. gi-tsòe, to pronounce sentence; to condemn to punishment. gi sí-tsòe, to condemn to death. gi-ká, to sentence to be strangled. gi-liú, condemn to banishment, &c. gi-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to give sentence. gi tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, id.

pi-gi (R.), to compare.

gi [R. gōe, handicraft]. tsòe-gi-niū<sup>n</sup>, to make things just to pass the time or for amusement.

gi [R. intimate friendship]. kiet-gi, to form sworn friendship and alliance, as persons. kiet-gi hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, sworn brothers. gi-heng-tê, id. sè-gi, allied for several generations, as families. ù-sè-gi, id.

gi [R. to discuss or consult]. gi-chhú, to discuss and arrange a dispute, as third party by his good offices. it-jîn tì, put-jû líong-jîn gi, one man's wisdom is not so good as two men's consultation. sióng-gi, to discuss or talk over a matter together. gi-lûn (r.), id. àm-gi (r.), to consult secretly, as conspirators.

pê-gi, the decision of any one of the Supreme Boards (liòk-pê) on a matter sent to them by the emperor for consideration and to be reported on.

gi — gi-gi, pleased and happy appearance, almost laughing. gi-gi-chhiò, to laugh in a grinning manner; to titter.

gi (= gih). gi-gi-chhoah, to tremble, to shake with fear.

gi (C.), = A. gū, to lodge. gi-sé, = A. gū-sé, a lodging, esp. of students come to examinations.

gi (C.), = A. gū, imperial.

gi (C.), = A. gū, to meet.

gi (R. id.), justice, gratefulness; (free, as school), (adopted, as relative), (meaning, as of book).

jîn-gi, benevolence and justice. jîn-gi lé-ti-sin, the five cardinal virtues. kong-gi, just. thien-hā

宜

擬

藝

誼

議

義

kong-gī, universally regarded right and proper. put-gī, unjust, unfair. tióng-gī, upright, just, and faithful, esp. of mandarin to sovereign. tióng-sin gī-sū, faithful ministers and literati who act rightly. cheng-gī (X.), to justify, to pronounce righteous. gī-lí, the principles of justice; the meaning, as of a book.

i-gī, the meaning, as of a book.

gī-thióng, a free burying-ground. gī-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, a place where coffins are given gratuitously. gī-óh, a free-school. gī-chhng, a public granary. gī-bín, volunteers. gī-ióng, id.

khi-gī, to propose and take the lead, as in a subscription, or in some enterprise. gī-khi, readiness to assist relatives or persons in distress, or to requite favours (dist. ngi<sup>n</sup>-khi).

ū-gī, grateful, as to friend or benefactor; showing thankfulness by trying to requite favours. ū-chêng-gī, id. ū-chêng ū-gī, id. káu ū-gī, the dog is grateful to his master. bô-gī, ungrateful, unthankful, and forgetful of favours. bô-chêng-gī, id. hé bô-gī, the tiger is utterly devoid of gratefulness. ka-tsui bô-gī, the turtle-dove is ungrateful (v. tsui). a iú hoán-pê chi-gī, the crow shows gratitude (to its parent) by carrying food. put-chí liâm-gī, manifesting much gratefulness for favours done to self or parents, &c. pôe-gī, to act ungratefully; not requiting kindness. bông-un pôe-gī, id. kê-un hū-gī, id.

gī-tsú, a sort of adopted son. gī-hū, a sort of adoptive father.

gī-hia<sup>n</sup>, the paramour of a bad woman, or a sodomite.

giá [R. gâ, a tooth], (C. há). giá-lan, crimson (v. lan).

giá — lâ-giá, a large spider, like tarantula. lâ-giá-si, its web. lâ-giá-môh<sup>n</sup>, the white woolly film that incloses the eggs of that spider, used as application to a sore skin.

giá (R. gô), = gô, a goose, in general. giá-kak, a gander.

giá (C. An.), = A. iâ, the cocoa-nut.

giá (R. ngô). giá-kang, the centipede (s. carry). hái-giá-kang, a marine insect like a centipede.

giá-kang-bāng, to mend a tear by cross-stitches. giá-kang-thui, a ladder made of one long piece of wood, with steps nailed on it and projecting on each side. giá-kang-chháu, a sort of fern. giá-kang-ông, an idol. giá-kang-kha, pointed poles at stern of junk, for keeping off pirates. giá-kang-khi (lit. teeth), a long wavy cavity in a door, made so as to allow the bolt to be fastened or opened from the outside. giá-kang-pi<sup>n</sup>, a long narrow jointed flexible platform that can wind through narrow crooked streets, used in incense processions.

khi-giá-kang, a severe disease of the gums (v. khi, "tooth").

giá (T. kiâ, Cn. kâ), to carry a large bulky thing (as a chair) with both hands (sometimes resting also on the shoulder); to raise up (as boat aground) by pushing backwards with one's back; to raise the lid of a pot or kettle, as the steam does when boiling violently; to wear, as the cangue; to get the help of an influential person to assist our cause.

giá-kang, coolies carrying heavy things with both hands, each separately (s. centipede). giá-khui, to lift out of the way, as a chair. giá--teh, carrying a heavy thing (as above). giá-teh, pressed down by the weight of the heavy thing carried so.

giá-kê, to wear the cangue. giá-i-kê, to carry a chair by putting one's head into it from below. giá-kiô, to carry an empty sedan, as one man.

khi ài-giá--khi-lâi, feeling in throat like a slight coughing or tendency to bring up phlegm. sêng-ti giá-tsáu, a pig allowed to have its own way burrows under the cooking place (v. tsàu).

giá-jin-bêng, falsely charge a man with responsibility for a death. giá sê-thâu, to get the help of an influential man, as in a yamun; or to use one's own power or influence. giá sê-kê, id.

giá (R. gêng), = ngiá<sup>n</sup> (q. v.), to go in an idolatrous procession, &c.

giáh (R. kek), (T. Cn. kiah), to extract, as a thorn or splinter; to pick out, as stitches; to take out, as the entrails of fish after cutting open.

giáh-khui, to open a small thing by leverage. giáh-phoá, to open, as a small boil by a lancet. giáh lāng-huih, to let out blood and matter from a small boil by puncturing. giáh-chhi, to extract a thorn. giáh bát-sat, to take out bugs from a crevice, as with knife. giáh mŭng-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to pick open a door-bolt. giáh mŭng-sui, to part the hair on a woman's forehead.

giáh-pan, to puncture the spots of the fever called "chhut-pan."

giáh (F.), = kiáh. giáh-thâu, to lift up the head.

giáh, the proper quantity, complement, or number of men or things. giáh-siáu, id. siáu-giáh, id. kàu-giáh, enough. chin kàu-giáh, well, that is quite enough!—said on meeting with something quite unexpected and unpleasant. chiok-giáh, enough. goân-giáh, the original quantity (as of money or things) or state (as of health). háp-giáh, just the thing; it just suits. hūn-giáh, the fit allotted portion, as of property or duty.

giáh-goá, a petty officer, like a sergeant, between "goá-úí" and "hâu-ióng," more than is necessary; out of one's proper business.

chê-giáh, to bear the responsibility for a payment. tsái-giáh, to be regularly engaged, as assistant.

hó-giáh, rich. ū hó-giáh-tóe, to be of a rich family. ū-giáh, rich. khoá<sup>n</sup>--liáu u-giáh, on looking at it there seems a great deal, as something loosely wrapped up, or larger than we expected. bô-giáh, poor; not enough; not sufficient. khui-bô-giáh, unable to account fully for the money intrusted to us. khui-không bô-giáh, to embezzle or spend funds improperly without entering it on the books, so that a deficit appears that cannot be accounted for. khai-khong bô-giáh, id.

lāng-giáh, the complement or number of men. tìn nŭng-lāng ê-giáh, to take up the space or place of two men. beh-phài kúi-lāng-giáh, for how many men will you make provision? ke-phài chit-lāng-giáh, make provision for one man more.

phài-giáh, to make provision for, as for a specified number. phài i-ê-giáh, to make provision for him.

joá-tsôe keng-giáh, how many rooms? khêng gūn-giáh, to count up carefully how to account for money intrusted to us, so as to balance right (v. khêng). sng-giáh, to count the number, as of things; to count how many; to include (as an item) in the calculation, esp. of something faulty or inferior that might have been left out of count.

that-giáh, to fill a place, as a substitute; to make up for loss or damage, as money or other article; to supply such a vacancy or deficiency. pé-giáh, id.

迎
截

額

牙

鵝
柳 蜈

tí-giáh, id. (v. tí). tú-giáh (C.), id. tào-oá"-giáh, to use some inferior bowls to make up a set; said also fig. of men or things in general.

giak — chhè-giak-giak, very coarse.

giak (cf. giòh, gèh), to make jokes at a man who has met with some misfortune or failed in some endeavour; to make game of. kóng-giák, to talk ironically or sarcastically.

giák (C.), = A. giòk (R.), cruel; tyrannical.

giám (R. id.), rigid, stern, strict; a surname. giám-hát, rigid, stern, strict. giám-kín, rigidly careful; very strict in a matter. úi-giám, majestic, stern, dignified. giám-lê (R.), too dignified and stern in manner.

ka-giám (R.), my father. giám-hū chhut hàu-tú, a strict father makes obedient children. giám koa"-hú chhut kàu-chhát, a severe mandarin makes robbers abound.

giám (R. iám), a surname. giám-lô-ông, the judge of the dead, or emperor of Hades. giám-lô, id. giám-lô-âng, id. giám-lô thien-tsú, id. giám-kun, id. (the Indian Yama).

giám (R. id.), a mountain temple, esp. at a cave. soa"-giám, id. giám-i, id.

giám, a cluster of fruit (as grapes or lung-yen) or of flowers. chit-giám-á, a small cluster of them.

giám (R. id.), giám-ngī, strong, brave, lusty, as a strong young man; stiff, as a bamboo or piece of wood. giám-jiên, like as; as if.

giám (R. id.), to make official examination, search, or inspection. giám-khoá, id. khàm-giám, id. tse-giám, id. kè-giám, to be officially examined, &c.; to have an official inspection.

èng-giám, to fulfil; to accomplish, as prayer, prophecy, or medicine. lêng-giám, able to answer prayers. hâu-giám, to be efficacious, as medicine, prayers, or superstitious rites.

giám-si, to hold an inquest on a corpse. giám-siong, officially examine a wound. giám chhi"-siong, to examine fresh wounds officially. giám siong-hūn, examine wounds more or less healed. giám-hè, to examine goods, as customs officers. giám-tsún, examine a vessel, as customs. giám-hiòng, id. giám-hong, to examine the seal of a package of government money on its way to see if it be sealed safe. giám-toa, a certificate given by customs officer stating the amount of goods found on board. sè-giám-toa, id.

gian (in several tones), better gien (q.v.)

giang (R. gien). súi giang-giang, very pretty.

giang (R. gien). giang-á, a small hand-bell used by priests, &c. sai-kong-giang, sort used by Taoist priests. gin-gong-giang, sound of such a bell. gin-giang, id.

giàng (C.), = A. gióng (R.), to look up.

giàng, projecting, as a tooth, or as a nail not driven home, or as rocks on a hill or out of the water. giàng-giàng, id.

giáp (R. id.), property; heritable or landed property. keng-giáp, diligent, industrious. sū-giáp, property enjoyed in turn by relations on condition of performing ancestral rites (from "sū," sacrificial offering). sū-giáp (R.), occupation, business, profession (from "sū," business). su-giáp, private property. kong-giáp, property held in common. ke-giáp, property. ki-giáp, heritable property (v. ki). úi-giáp, paternal or ancestral inheritance. tsé-giáp, ancestral property. chhân-giáp, landed property. sán-giáp, property, estate.

giáp-tsú, the owner of a property. pun-giáp, to divide a property, as among heirs. hak-giáp, to buy a property. bóe-giáp, id. hùi-giáp, to waste an inheritance. kièn-kong lip-giáp, to obtain wealth and estate by one's own exertions.

giáp — giáp-miá, toilsome, wretched, ill-fated life. giáp-chè, miserable life as recompense for great wickedness in a former life. hong giáp, the wind very unfavourable.

giat, giát, better, giet, giét (q.v.) giáu (R. id.), the ancient emperor Yau or Yaou. giáu-sùn, Yaou and Shun, the two great ancient emperors. giáu-sùn, id. giáu-thien sùn-jit, the golden age of Yau and Shun.

giáu — giáu-gi, to doubt, to suspect. hoân-giáu, suspected; raising suspicions. tâu-á giáu, one die lying on the top of another when thrown in gambling.

giauh (cf. ngiáu). giauh-giauh-háu, to say the same thing over and over, as a troublesome fellow.

gièn (T.), = A. gin, to give an angry look with the eyes.

gièn [R. language; to speak], (C. gân). tâm-gièn, to chat (v. tâm). iâu-gièn, idle talk and false rumours (v. iâu). loân-gièn, to talk at random. kék-gièn (R.), extremely strong form of expression, generally somewhat exaggerated. ké-lâng-gièn, a saying of the ancients.

ngé-gièn-si, odes in lines of five syllables or words. chhit-gièn-si, odes in lines of seven syllables.

bô-gièn-sú, not good at speaking (v. sú). gièn thèng, kè chiòng, words obeyed and plans followed. gièn tiòng, your advice is much valued; advice followed or attended to. gièn kheng, I fear my words are light and will not be attended to (often politely said in self-depreciation); our advice not followed. goá-è-gièn khin, id.

gièn-gú (C. gân-gí), language, talk, idle talk. gièn-gú put-tòng, language different. kâu-gièn-gú, fond of talking very much, as a tattler. chhien-gièn bân-gú, a vast deal of talk. si"-gièn tsō-gú, to invent false reports. chhòng-gièn tsō-gú (R.), id. iá-gièn tók-gú, vile abusive language. òe-gièn tók-gú (R.), id.

sia-chiòh bién-gièn, no credit given here (v. bién). khé-chhut tái-gièn (R.), speaking very proud boastful words. it-gièn hòng-chhut, sù-má lân-tui, four horses cannot catch a word once uttered. gièn-to pit-sit, among many words some mistake is sure to occur.

gién [R. gân, the eye]. gièn-chèng (C.), = A. bák-chèng, at present.

gién (C.), = A. gég, to grind in a sort of long mortar.

gién [R. lién, liám, the face]. siáu-phí-gièn, very mean, despicable, and niggardly, so as to insist on every cash.

gién, craving for indulgence of some low appetite; lean. gièn-gièn, id. sán-gièn, very lean; skin and bone. ài-gièn, feeling the terrible craving. kè-gièn, to get over the craving, as by indulgence or by medicine. sùh-gièn, broken down and low-spirited.

嚴

閻

巖 嚴 岩
嚴
巖妍
鏘

業

孽

堯

言

眼

臉 癮

a-phièn-gièn, terrible craving for opium; opium horrors, esp. of an emaciated smoker. hun-gièn, id. gièn a-phièn, feeling the opium horrors. gièn-hun, do.; having a strong craving for a smoke. gièn-chiù, having a strong craving for intoxicating liquor. gièn tsa-bé, feeling strong sexual impulse, as man. gièn-kiáu, feeling a strong craving for gambling.

gièn — tsui-gièn-gièn, quite drunk. sòng-gièn-gièn (esp. T.), extremely poor.

giét (R. iet). giét-á, a scorpion. giét-lá, id. giét-á-thâng, id.

giét [R. to eat up]. hē-lí bōe-giét--tit, will not let you swallow the money you expect to get out of him.

giét (esp. T.), = giét, to joke and jest at a man. giét-lâng, to joke ironically at a man's appearance, or at what he has done; to jibe at him. giét-lâng phiet-lâng, to speak contemptuously or insultingly to an inferior, so that he is put to shame; to scold severely. phiet-phiet giét-giét, to talk on in a scolding way. phiet kàu-giét, to scold violently.

giét (T. giet), to jest or jibe at a man. giét-siet, id. giét-siet ê-ōe, such talk (cf. next word).

giét (R. id.), very wicked or vicious. giét-ōe, talk about vile lascivious matters. giét-tiâu, a very bad omen. giét-bút, you vile wretch! giét-thiok, you vicious brute! said in scolding a very wicked boy or girl. iau-giét, how monstrously wicked! said in scolding a very bad boy, or at something very extraordinary, unexpected, and unaccountably bad. tsok-giét, to act very wickedly. tsū-tsok-giét, to bring death on one's self by great wickedness. tsōe-giét, great crime. giét-tsú, a wild wicked boy, precocious in lust or crime. giét-tsú thiàu-hàn, a wild, idle, ill-behaved boy. giét-tsú-kiá, you wicked mischievous boy! ok-chhe giét-tsú, bú-hoat khó-ti, wicked wife and sons, whom we cannot rule or restrain.

giét — giét-kièn, to play shuttle-cock.

gih (cf. khih, ngih<sup>n</sup>). gih-gih-chhoah, to tremble, as with fear. gih-gih-tsun, do., or with cold or sickness.

gih [R. kú, lean, = eol. khih, ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>]. sán-gih-gih, very lean. sòng-gih-gih, very poor.

gim (R. id.), to sing, esp. in a sort of chant, with a very long loud note at the end. gim-si, to chant odes.

gim — tím-gim, to think silently and deeply, as in planning something.

gim (R. id.) gim-ki<sup>n</sup>, the long broad stone step like a basement running along one or more sides of a house. gim-koe, id. gim-ke (C.), id. chióh-gim, id. gim-ē, in front of that stone step. gim-khâm-ē (C.), id. gim-chiòh, the stones of that long broad step.

gim, to talk over a man by specious talk, e.g. to buy too dear, or what he does not need, or so as to do something to his own injury. kap-lâng poá<sup>n</sup>-chhùi-gim, to have a good deal of discussion and dispute about a matter.

gim — tsui-gim, a beautiful flower (sort of mallow?) sàu-chiù-gim, a white flower.

gim (Cn. kím), flowered silk. chit-gim, to weave flowered silk. siók-gim, flowered silk from Sze-chuen. gim-tiú, flowered silk. gim-siù, flowered and embroidered silk. ná<sup>n</sup> gim-siù, like them (said of a fine essay). lin-lô gim-siù, splendid silks and satins. gim-sim siù-khé, fine mind and accomplished mouth.

tsō gim-lông, to make a shrewd guess of the future (v. lông, a bag). gim-tún, a rich silk cushion, used at court by privileged ministers. gim-siông thiam-hoa (flowers added to flowered silk), said of very great wealth or literary talent. má-siông gim-i hōe, to return on horseback wearing flowered silks, as a high literary graduate.

gim-ló, a savoury bowl of mixed meats. gim-ló-tiàm, an eating-house where it is sold. tsáp-gim, an inferior sort. tsáp-gim-thng, this sort with its soup. pièn-tê-gim, a small plant like clover, often round the roots of pot-flowers. gim-tsoá, a variegated harmless snake, used in medicine.

gim, to grasp; to take in the hand.

gim — ñg-gim-gim (T.), very yellow, as fruit.

gin — gin-gong-giang, sound of small bells or jingling ornaments. gin-giang, id.

gin (Cn. gún, T. gièn), to frown and look with the white of the eye. bák-chiu gin, id. gin--goá, to look so at me.

gin (C.), = A. gún, silver.

gin (C.) pē-gin-á, a plant used for making medicinal plasters.

gin (C. kín, Cn. kán). gin-á, a young boy; a male child; said for "I" by a man examined by a mandarin. gin-ná, id. (Cn. kán-ngá, kán-ngiá, kán-ká<sup>n</sup>). gin-ná-sek, behaviour of a child or boy (v. sek). gin-ná-thún, a lad about fifteen. gin-ná-úi, the caul or after-birth. tsa-bé gin-ná, a girl. chhī-gin-ná, a very young boy who serves for food and clothing without wages. gin-ná-lâng, a young lad; a lad unacquainted with the ways of the world.

gin (C.) tē-gin, = A. thē-ún, the earth-worm.

gin (Cn. gūn). gin--lâng, causing a feeling of disgust and displeasure in any one who sees it, &c. khoá<sup>n</sup>--liáu chiū-gin--lâng, the sight of it (or of him) causes disgust and aversion, and makes one look displeased; e.g. of a man somehow connected with us who will do wrong regardless of advice. khoá<sup>n</sup>--liáu chiū-gin, id. khoá<sup>n</sup> chiū-gin, id. khoá<sup>n</sup>--liáu chiū-gin--goá, the sight of him makes me utterly disgusted. goá hē--i khoá<sup>n</sup>--tióh chiū-gin--i, if I let him see me, it will excite his displeasure. khoá<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, chiū-gin-sin, disgusted at the very sight of him (or it). kap--i gin-sin, all the more determined to do it because he is opposed and displeased. kap--i lāng-gin, id. lāng-gin, to speak or act intentionally so as to displease, disgust, or spite a man; to ridicule a man so as to spite him. put-chí lāng-gin, quite out of humour; very much annoyed, as when teased or spited, or as at numerous mosquitoes or flies.

bák-chiu gin-gin, to give an angry displeased glance or frown.

gió — ò-gió, a sort of fig, from the seeds of which a cooling jelly is made. ò-gió-chí, its seeds. ò-gió-tàng, the jelly made from it.

gió (R. giáu), a cockle. gió-á, id.; also (vulg.), the female pudenda. gió--ê, a namesake (same name compared to the two similar shells).

gió (R. giáu). gió-poe, a paddle for a boat.

gió (C.), (cf. tió). chhio-gió (vulg.), very impudent and swaggering in manner.

gió (R. kiāu), (C. kiō). lē-gió, a sort of leek.

gióh, an enclitic word, sometimes used in terminating a statement (esp. T.)

gióh, id. (?)

蝦 蟹

孽

懼
吟

吟

錦

銀

玉

饒
橈

蕎

gióh [R. gèk (?), to offend]. gāi-gióh, uncomfortable, as in mind, or in any part of the body, often from some slight annoyance. ngāi<sup>n</sup>-gióh, id. thia<sup>n</sup>--liáu, put-chí ngāi<sup>n</sup>-gióh, feeling very uncomfortable after hearing it.

gióh (C. gèh, T. gióh, geh), to jeer, jest, or jibe; to mock, taunt, or jest ironically at a man, esp. for some old fault. gióh--lâng, id. gióh-siòh, id. kap-i-gióh, to jest or jeer at him. sa<sup>n</sup>-gióh, jest and jeer at one another. gióh-lái gióh-khì, id. gióh-géh (C.), to jeer or mock at.

giók (R. id.), (C. giák). pō-giók, to tyrannize; cruel and tyrannical (as sovereign or very high mandarin).

giók (C.), = A. gèk (prison, hell, &c.)

giók [R. jade-stone, = col. gèk], also (C.) colloquial = A. gèk, in all phrases.

giók-chiam-hoe, a sort of lily. giók-ièn, a beautiful small bird. giók-pín, a sort of academy in Amoy where literary prizes are competed for, but not for degrees. giók-hông, the idol Yuh-hwang (v. hông). giók-tè, id. giók-chí, his commands.

gióng (R. kióng). gióng-chhiú, = kióng-chhiú, to join one's own hands and shake them as a salutation.

gióng [R. to look upwards], (C. giáng), turned somewhat upwards, said of the lower support (ē-kim) of a Chinese helm. gióng-bông (R.), to look upwards.

gip (R. id.) gip-gip, in danger of falling, as over a precipice, or on a steep slope.

giú [R. a cow, = col. gù], a surname. giú-tsong, New-chwang. giú-hông, cow bezoar; biliary calculus of cow. giú-chhek, a medicinal plant (Pupalia geniculata, and other Amaranthaceae?). giú-chhek-chháu, id. giú-chhip, id.; the medicine made of it.

giú, to snatch suddenly. giú--lái, to take a thing suddenly, e.g. lay hold (in sport) of a man's money, as if going to appropriate it. khit-goá-giú--lái, got by me suddenly and unexpectedly, as money or things.

giúh (C.), = A. khiúh. sòng-giúh-giúh, very poor.

gô (R. gô, ngô), a goose, = giá. gô-kak, a gander. gô-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, goose's web-foot.

gô (R. id.) gô-á-chhài, a plant used for plastering up sores, and for feeding ducks.

gô, = gê. seng-gô (C.), = A. tē-seng, a sort of cedar or pine.

gô (R. id.), to distil. gô-chiú, to distil spirits. gô-chiú-tháng, a Chinese still, made like an alembic. gô-chiú-tsúi, the water used for condensing in distillation.

gô (T.), = A. ngô. âu-gô, cancer (?) in the throat.

gô [R. id., cf. kô, kô], to whirl round (neuter); to revolve on its axis, as a top or a globe. í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-gô, id. lin-lin-gô, id. hoang-gô (T.), = A. hong-chhe-lién, a toy that whirls round by the wind.

gô (R. id.), to starve (neuter). gô--sí, to die of starvation. iau-gô, hungry and starving. iau-koá<sup>n</sup>-gô, cold and starving. phièn-chhiá<sup>n</sup> hái-gô (deceitfully invite to eat so as to starve him), said of deceitfully breaking a promise. chit-jit, chiáh sa<sup>n</sup>-tng: chit-mi<sup>n</sup>, gô kàu-kng, eat three meals in the day and starve all night (said in joke).

gô (R. id.), = ngô. kiau-gô, proud.

gô (R. id.), = ngô (T. kô). péh-gê, a large white fish, very fond of leaping. gê-hi, id. (r.), said by landsmen. âng-gê, a fish like a shark; some say a large sort of shark.

gô (R. ngô, gô), a surname; the ancient kingdom of Woo, about Che-kiang and Shanghai. gê-chin-jîn, an idol of that surname, = tāi-tō-kong, a native of Pêh-ta, near Hái-chhng.

gô — gí-gê, a thorny shrub with white blossoms, somewhat like the sloe, used medicinally.

gô (C.) siong-gê, = seng-gô, = A. tē-seng, a sort of pine like a cedar.

gô (R. id.) gê-tông, a tree with large leaves, Dryandra or Sterculia platanifolia?

gô (R. id.) gê-khí, the leech.

gô, v. ngô (several words).

gô (R. ngô), five. chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup> gê-gêh, relatives and friends (v. gêh). gê-gêh, the fifth month, counted unlucky for beginning matters, because "gê" also means to mistake and to injure. gê-gêh-tsoeh, the 5. 5. gê-si-su, slips of paper pasted on doors on that day.

gê-kak, = ngô-kok, the five grains, now used to include potatoes, &c., also. gê-phâng, a large long river-boat covered with five mats. gê-tsáng-thâu, the principal part of an affair, &c. (v. tsáng).

gê-tsáp, fifty. it-gê it-tsáp, the series of 5, 10, 15, &c. it-gê it-tsáp ká-i-kóng, tell him minutely and particularly. chiong-sam kôe-gê, to deceive (lit. change 3 to 5, easily done in Chinese). samput-gê-si, occasionally; sometimes; from time to time.

gô (R. ngô). gê-si, from 11 A.M. to 1 P.M. gê-si-chiá<sup>n</sup> exactly at noon; 12 o'clock noon.

gô (R. id.), to lead into loss or disaster; to injure and delude, as by bad teaching. gê láng--ê tsú-tê, to spoil or ruin other people's children, as by neglecting their instruction, by incompetent or bad teaching, or by leading them into vice. gê--lâng liáu-chi<sup>n</sup>, to lead a man into a losing concern, either intentionally or by mistake. gê-sū, to spoil a case; to ruin an affair, as by mismanagement. tsú-gê, to injure one's self, as by neglecting and losing a rare opportunity. tam-gê, to disappoint the trust placed in us, as by forsaking a wife, or by dying shortly after marriage.

gô (R. id.) sit-gê, mistake. chhò-gê, id. tùi-thâu-gê, mistake and misunderstanding on both sides. lióng-gê, a misunderstanding either on one or both sides. sa<sup>n</sup>-gê, to fail in keeping an appointment or a promise; to disappoint, from mistake, or carelessness, or set purpose. sa<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup>-gê, mistake as from not hearing plainly, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-gê-tā<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. chhiet-chhiet bút-gê, be most careful to make no mistake. gê-thok, to put mistaken confidence in a man. gê-siong, to wound accidentally. gê-sat, to kill accidentally. gê-hoân, to offend unintentionally. gê-táh--tióh, to tread on by mistake, &c. &c.

gô [R. to meet with]. bô-gí-gê, quite unexpectedly.

gô [R. to awaken], = ngô. liáu-gê (R.), to awake to a sense of the vanity of the world (a Buddhist phrase). chhi<sup>n</sup>-gê (X.), to awake to the knowledge of a truth.

gô (R. ngô). gê-tsoh, a coroner.

gô (T.), = A. gè, mind confused and perplexed.

goá (R. ngô), I, mc. goá-ê, my; mine. lí-goá, you and I.

goā (R. gā), exclamation of astonishment. goā-piāng (T.), id. goā-pê (Cn.), id. goā-ká<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. goā-kiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

謔

虐獄玉

拱仰炭牛扭

鵝義

熬

激

餓

傲魚

吳

梧蜈五

午悞

誤

悞悞作我訝

goā (R. gōe), out; outside; besides; more than; excepting; by female side, of relations and connections.

goā-kang, the provinces where mandarin is spoken (v. kang, a river). goā-ti, a petty officer, like a sergeant-major, just below "pé-tsóng." giáh-goā, a sergeant (v. giáh).

goā-chheh, second-rate books, i.e. all books except the classics and their commentaries; some also except the great historical works. goā-tsái, external polite accomplishments, &c. (v. tsái). put-chí goā-khì, fond of outward display; dashing. khah-ū goā-khì, id. khah-ū goā-khùi, id. kek goā-khùi, to affect display or a dashing manner, when quite beyond his circumstances, e.g. a man of no consequence talking very big. goā-phê, external. goā-kháu, outside (v. kháu). goā-bîn, outside. goā-thâu, id. goā-sin, farther out, as compared with another place. goā-pêng, the outside. mûg-goā, outside the door or gate. chhut-goā, to go from home, esp. to emigrate. goā-kheh, a travelling merchant from a distance; visitors not nearly related, as at funeral ceremonies.

hûn-goā, beyond our sphere of duty. tsáp-goā, more than ten; generally nearly twenty. tsáp-goā-goā, a great deal more than ten, as about twenty. chheng-goā, above a thousand, &c. &c. chheng-goā-lâng, more than a thousand men. lêng-goā, besides this; in addition. í-goā, besides; except. goá í-goā, besides me; excepting me. tû-sí í-goā, excepting death. tùi-tû-goā, balance, on either side (v. tû).

goā-si<sup>n</sup>, of a different surname. goā-kong, maternal grandfather. goā-má, maternal grandmother. goā-tit, son of wife's brother. goā-tit-sun, son of wife's brother's son, or son of brother's daughter. goā-sun, daughter's child. goā-ke, a woman's own relatives, said after she is married. lí-ê goā-ke tī tá-lôh, where do your own relations live? (said to a married woman).

lái-goā, in and out. poá<sup>n</sup>-lái-goā, half in, half out; not plainly and definitely choosing one's line of action. chhut-jip lái-goā, said of an experienced person. ū-lái ū-goā, properly divided, as house with outer and inner rooms for men and women; attending to act with propriety towards various classes of persons. lái-chhin goā-chhek, connections by blood and by marriage (v. chhek).

goân [R. hiên, dark-coloured, profound]. goân-som, a very cheap sort of ginseng, not really a Panax. goân-sun, great-great-grandson. goân-bú, = hiên-bú, a spirit worshipped by Tauists.

goân [R. oân, round, an official]. úi-goân, = úi-oân, a smaller mandarin sent out by a superior with a commission for some special temporary purpose. goân-chhe, police runners or constables, who serve and execute warrants and seize criminals.

goân (R.), a large turtle or tortoise spoken of in the classics. goân-gô (R.), two such animals. goân-ngê (R.), id. sù-su, thák thàu-thàu: bôe-hiáu-siá goân-ngê ku-pih-tsàu, having read the four books all through, but unable to write these five characters (very like and complicated).

goân [R. commencement, principal]. khiau-kha goân, this character, so called to distinguish it from the following word.

goân-tiáu, the Yuen dynasty; the Mongol dynasty. goân-sòe, a commander-in-chief (v. sòe). goân-sí thien-tsun, the supreme God of the Tauists. goân-pó, a silver ingot; a sort of idolatrous paper. chiu-goân, the sort of cash specially used for divining by tortoise-shell.

chiông-goân, the senior wrangler of the Han-lin Imperial Academy, the highest literary rank. tsông-goân, id. chiông-goân pài-siông, said of his becoming prime minister, as sometimes happens. chiông-goân-tiú, a game of chance (v. tiú). chiông-goân-chhi<sup>n</sup>, = bûn-khiok-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a very auspicious star. chiông-goân-tôe, a grave-site good enough to produce an imperial senior wrangler. hōe-goân, the highest of the Tsin-sze (chin-sū) graduates. kài-goân, the highest of the Kujin graduates. à-goân, a Kujin graduate somewhat lower on the list. tiông sam-goân, to gain these three highest honours, kài-goân, hōe-goân, and chiông-goân, in succession. liên-tiông sam-goân, may you in rapid succession win the highest possible literary honours. poát-goân, title given to a "lím-seng" selected once in twelve years out of each Hien.

goân-tàn, New-year's morning. goân-siau, the feast of lanterns, on the evening of 1.15. siông-goân, the 1.15. siông-goân-í<sup>n</sup>, small sweet rice-balls, now used at any time. tiông-goân, the 7.15. hā-goân (R.), the 10.15.

goân-khì, one's fundamental constitution. goân-khì sit, constitution become feeble. goân-khì ông, very strong and healthy. kê-goân-khì, to take care of one's health and constitution. sún goân-khì, to injure one's constitution, as by lust or any excess. pé goân-khì, to restore the constitution, as by strengthening medicine. goân-sin, natural constitution, as strong or weak (v. sín). siú-goân, longevity, in some phrases (v. siú).

goân [R. origin, beginning, to forgive]. goân-chêng, to forgive or treat with forbearance one who has committed a fault; having a forgiving disposition. goân í-ê-chêng, to treat him with forbearance; to forgive him.

goân-kò, the plaintiff. goân-pi, plaintiff and defendant. goân-lâng, the principal party in a bargain or dispute. goân-ūi, original place. goân-lê, the same road by which we went. goân-kè, prime cost. goân-giáh, the original quantity or state. goân-mih<sup>n</sup>, the original articles unchanged. goân-tsng-hê, goods as originally made, not dressed up or flavoured for the market. goân-hong put-tông, goods in the original package unopened. goân-jim, holding the same office for a second term. chiâu goân-jit, according to the date originally fixed. goân-seng put-kái, bad nature not reformed. iú-goân, as formerly. chiâu-goân, id. goân-kū, id. goân-iú, origin, as of an affair. goân-thâu, id. (s. fountain). pún-goân, origin. goân-pún, id.; originally. goân-lái, originally. tng-goân-chhê, at the beginning. tng-goân-chhoe, id. chhiú kun-goân, to search for the origin of the matter (or next word?). goân, siu, chhut, tsún, balance in one's cash-book, &c. goân-phòe, the wife whom a man marries first of all.

khut-goân, the ancient worthy whose death is commemorated on 5. 5.

goân [R. a fountain-head]. tsúi-goân, a fountain-head. goân-thâu, id. (s. origin). tsúi-goân, bók-pún, a tree has a root, water has a fountain-head; so men should honour and reverence the fountain of their being, their parents. súi-goân bók-pún, id.

原

源

外

玄

員

龜

元

bók-pún súi-goán, id. kun-goán, root or origin (or last word).

goán, we; us (excluding the person or persons spoken to); I; our; my. goán-ê, our; ours; my; mine. goán-pê, my father. goán-tau, my home. goán-ê-lâng, one of my or our relatives or party (not yours).

goán [R. to amuse one's self with]. ké-goán, toys; playthings. goán-khì, id. koan-san goán-súi, to go about for amusement looking at scenery. goán-sióng (R.), to look at, as a view. sióng-goán (R.), id.

goán (R. id.), a vow. hê-goán, to make a vow in a formal way, as before an idol (v. hê). hoat-goán, to vow, esp. by mere language, as in sudden danger. hoat-phái<sup>n</sup>-goán, to vow to commit a crime. sê-goán (r.), to make a solemn vow. siâ-goán, to perform one's vow, esp. said when the vow was in the more formal way of "hê-goán." hêng-goán (r.), id. kóe-goán, to perform a vow, esp. of the less formal "hoat-goán."

goán [R. willing; desire; would that]. kam-goán, willing to make no opposition. sim-goán, the desire of the heart. chêng-goán, heartily willing. kam-sim chêng-goán, heartily willing. líong-goán, both parties quite willing, satisfied, and pleased. chiok-goán, having all one's desire gratified. jû-goán, one's wishes or desires accomplished. jû-goán jû-i, id. súi-lâng i-goán, to fulfil a man's wish. thàn-goá i-goán, it came out just as I wished. thien-chióng jin-goán, Heaven fulfils men's desires. jin iú siên-goán, thien pit-chióng--chi, Heaven certainly fulfils men's good desires. koa<sup>n</sup> toán, put-jû bin-goán, the voluntary obedience of the people is better than the judgment of mandarins.

goát [R. the moon, = col. gèh]. jit-goát, the two side-boards of a coffin; also (R.), the sun and moon. jit-goát jû-so, days and months are like a shuttle. chheng-hong bêng-goát, pleasant cool wind and bright moon. liók-goát-song, a sort of cooling medicine. goát-á-pêng, the 74th or 130th radical when written at the side, though properly the 130th is not "goát" but "jiók." goát-lí sióng-ngê, a beautiful lady (in the moon). sióng-goát (R.), to gaze at the moon.

goát (Cn.), = A. oát (R.), to say.

goe, to rub against, as a boat or rope, &c. goe-tiòh, id. goe-tng, to get broken by rubbing, as a rope.

gôe (R. gè), (Cn. gõe; C. gè), a surname.

gõe (Cn.) kap-gõe, a young frog. kap-gõe-kui, a tadpole.

gõe (R. id.) gõe-seng, a sister's son. gõe-seng-lú, a sister's daughter.

gõe [R. out, outside, = col. goā]. lõe-siong gõe-kám, internal predisposition to disease developed by a cold or chill. kek-gõe (R.), exceedingly, extraordinarily (only with verbs). i-gõe ê-tai-chì (r.), things quite beyond expectation.

gõe [R. gè, handicraft], = gè. kang-gõe, handicraft; workmanship. chhiú-gõe, id. ki-gõe, skill at handicraft. tsòe-gõe, to make small things at leisure time for amusement. bú-gõe, military arts and exercises. hó-bú-gõe, well-trained in military exercises. pí bú-gõe, to teach or exercise or make trial of skill in military exercises, as fencing, archery, &c.

gòeh (C.), = A. gèh, the moon, a month. gòeh têng, the moon at the zenith. gòeh thêng, id.

göh (Cn.), = A. gèh, the moon; a month.

gók (R. id.), the sea eagle. gók-chiáu, id.; also, a man well acquainted with the management of affairs and not afraid to act as a leader. siâ-gók, a man who is a leader in his village, not by appointment, but just because all fear him. lêng-gók, id. tsòe-lêng-gók, to act very imperiously, as such a man.

gók (R. id.) gók-hî, the crocodile or alligator.

gók (R. id.) chhok-gók (R.), to start suddenly. chhok-gók--chit-ê, id. (r.)

gong — gin-gong-giang, sound of jingling bells, as in Buddhist rites.

góng — góng-ngiáh, suddenly surprised; startled and afraid.

góng (R. id.), stupid; foolish and dull; slightly giddy; sometimes put before names of men in a familiar colloquial form. góng-tit, rather too blunt and simple. góng-tá<sup>n</sup>, rash. góng-thùh-thùh, wanting in ability; foolish-looking. góng-thóh (C.), id. khám-góng, foolish and somewhat rash in speaking or acting. am-khám-góng, id. gú-góng (r.), foolish. góng-thâu góng-bin, foolish; stupid-looking. tien-góng, idiotic (v. tien). siáu-góng, fond of gambling, low jokes, or foolish pleasures. tòng-góng, having a dull or foolish-like manner, as an old man. láu-tòng-góng, old man of dull appearance. góng-sin, stupid-looking; having the appearance of dull stupidity. góng-lâng, you foolish fellow! lí teh-góng, you are acting or going to act foolishly. li-góng, nonsense! you know nothing about it! i-chiáh lí-góng, he profits by your stupidity. góng-siū<sup>n</sup>, foolishly purposing or planning; said politely in giving our advice or opinion. góng-jip, bô góng-chhut, pretending not to understand (as in counting money) so as to gain, but taking good care not to lose. èng-góng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to waste money foolishly on self-indulgence; spend fool's pence. èng góng-á-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. poah-góng-kiáu, stupidly gambling away money, as a dupe. góng kàu ná<sup>n</sup> sí-lâng, as stupid as a corpse. góng khah-chhám-sí, your extreme stupidity is worse than death.

hìn-góng, giddy, dizzy. hìn-góng-góng, id. thâu-khak góng-góng, head slightly giddy, as with weakness or sickness.

khòng-góng, having a proud bearing, as ignorant man who thinks himself knowing.

hái-lâm-góng, a large bird (from Hai-nan) like a pelican; said of a big dull simple-looking fellow. góng-á-soa, the large shark.

gú (R. giú), a cow; an ox; anything put under a lever to serve as a fulcrum. toā-gú, the large beam from which a coffin hangs when carried, this great beam being supported by numerous ropes and poles, called "chhia." tín-gú (T.), a small instrument making a humming noise, attached to a kite.

chhun-gú, the earthen cow carried in procession and broken at the spring festival. chhun-gú-tê, the common Chinese sheet almanac. tõe-gú, the great cow under the earth that bears up the world. tõe-gú oā<sup>n</sup>-keng, that cow shifting its shoulders, so causing earthquakes.

ng-gú, the common cow. chhiah-gú, id. súi-gú, the water buffalo (s. fish). sai-gú, the rhinoceros. iá-gú, a wild ox. gú-káng, a bull. súi-gú-káng, also (T.), a thin variegated beetle, about an inch long,

阮

玩

愿

愿

月

倪

外

藝

月

鶚

鯉

愕

牛

with long antennæ. soa<sup>n</sup>-gū-káng (A.), id. gū iá<sup>n</sup> bé, cows, goats, and horses. bô-gū sái-bé, if you can't get a cow, use a horse. gū-iá bé-iá, two idols with heads of a cow and horse respectively, attending on Giâm-lô-ông, and sometimes on Sêng-hông-iá. gū-thâu bé-bîn, id. gū-chiong-kun, the cow-headed one.

gū-thâu liók-tsut, clownish fellow, said in scolding. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup>-gū (blind cow), an illiterate clown. lâng sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, gū pak-té (man's heart, cow's belly), very covetous or ambitious.

gū-tsau, a slaughter-house for cattle. gū-noá<sup>n</sup>, a fold for cattle. gū-tiâu, a stall for cattle. gū-bô, a mill turned by oxen. gū-chhia, a cart drawn by oxen. gū-liâu, a rope by which a cow is led or tied. gū-khng, a ring for nose of ox; a sort of worm. gū-kak, horn. gū-kak-kóng, a sort of horn blown by priests. gū-tê, tripe. gū-lin, milk; sometimes said of salted curdled milk. gū-leng, id. (v. leng). gū-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. gū-lin-chiu<sup>n</sup> (C.), milk. gū-lin-iú, butter.

ng-gū, to tend cattle, as herd-boy. koa<sup>n</sup>-gū, to yoke cattle for ploughing. kà-gū, to train a cow or ox yet untrained.

gū-nng, a star worshipped along with "chit-lú." gū-kak-chhi, a very hard wood. gū-bé-hi, a sort of fish, = tek-kah.

gū [R. a fish, = col. hi]. súi-gū (Cn. súi-hũ), a flat brass plate with a hole, that falls on the staple for the padlock of a door or drawer. ng súi-gū, to play at blindman's buff. bók-gū, a wooden drum, shaped like a fish.

gū [R. to fish], (C. gí; Cn. gũ). gū-ong (polite), a fisherman. út-pāng siong-chhi, gū-jin tek-lí, when the oyster and the bird catch each other, the fisherman gets gain (said of the expenses of lawsuits.)

gū [R. foolish], (C. gí). gū-tsoat, foolish, stupid (said politely of one's self). gū-chhún, stupid, foolish. gū-thún, id. gū-gōng (r. X.), id. gū-tú, stupidly dogged and rough (v. tú). gū-thú, id. gū-bîn, the ignorant people. phah-bé, chin si-gū, he who beats his wife is certainly a fool.

gū [R. to be on one's guard, to be prepared for], (C. gí), a surname. hong-súi put-gū, sudden, unexpected, unavoidable calamity, as by sudden and terrible wind, waves, floods, rains, storms, fire, robbers, &c. hong-súi put-gū, goá bô ká-lí-pó, I will not take the responsibility of insuring you against such sudden casualties.

gū [R. speech, a saying], (C. gí, Cn. gũ). giên-gū (C. gân-gí), language, conversation, talk (v. giên). im-gū, language. im-gú put-siong-tông, language different. siók-gú, a common phrase; a common proverb or saying. sêng-gú, a phrase originally literary which has become colloquial or nearly so. kháu-thâu-gú, usual phrases for commencing a sentence, as used commonly in special places or by particular persons. thò-gú, polite salutations and questions about health, weather, &c., used on meeting friends or in letters, &c. thò-thâu-gú, id. tiòng-hong put-gú, a very sudden and fatal disease which at once deprives of the power of speech.

phoe-gú (C. phe-gí), a mandarin's written answer to a petition. chhâm-gú, a prophecy. ún-gú, a phrase with a hidden meaning, as an inuendo or a play upon words, either a set phrase or made on the occasion. chiá chhùi-gú, to pretend to have a verbal order so as fraudulently to get possession of things for one's self.

gū [R. imperial], (C. gí, Cn. gũ). gū-sú, imperial censors at Peking, one for each province. gū-tsūng, an accusation before the supreme tribunal at the metropolis. gū-hùi, the personal names of emperor or princes, which must not be written or spoken. gū-lim-kun, the palace guards. gū-kà, the imperial equipage. gū-kà chhin-cheng, the emperor going to war in person.

gū [R. to lodge], (C. gí, Cn. gũ). gū-sé, a lodging-place; lodgings.

gū (R. id.), (C. gí), to meet with. gū--tiòh, to meet with. gū-bô-tiòh, not manage to meet with, though having tried. tú-gū-tiòh, to meet with by chance. tú-gū chit-jit, it chanced one day. tú-gū i-lái, when I thought of going to him, he came to me. tsáu-chhát gū-tiòh-hé, fleeing from robbers met a tiger (out of the frying-pan into the fire). ngé-gū-jiên, unexpectedly (v. ngé).

kéng-gū, circumstances good or bad, as of a man or of a family or place. tso-gū, fortune, luck, circumstances or opportunity, as good or bad. hó-tso-gū, a fortunate opportunity, favourable circumstances. phái<sup>n</sup>-tso-gū, unfavourable state of matters. bô-tso-gū, id. i-é tso-gū, his opportunity.

gū— án-gū, words said to a baby. á-gū, an insect like a small cicada, named from its shrill voice.

gūi (R. id.) gūi-hiám, dangerous; danger. gūi-kip, very urgent and pressing (and dangerous to delay), as an affair. lim-gūi, to come into great and imminent danger.

gūi [R. deceitful, false]. tsà-gūi, very cunning and deceitful.

gūi (R. id.), name of an ancient state, Wei; a surname.

gūi (R. id.) a-gūi, assafoetida.

gūi (cf. būi, pūi). chhiū-gūi, the tree-bug. bát-sat chhiò chhiū-gūi, the bed-bug laughing at the tree-bug (the pot calling the kettle black).

gūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. géng. géng-gūi<sup>n</sup>, = A. gêng-géng, the dragon's-eye or lung-yen fruit.

gūn (R. id.), (C. gín, Cn. gūn), silver, money. gūn-á, small silver coins, &c. gūn-khi, silver articles. gūn-hāng, silver; money. bún-gūn, sycee silver (v. bún). chiok-siá<sup>n</sup>-gūn, pure silver. gūn bô-sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, the silver is not very good. ké-gūn, impure silver, with much alloy. ké-gūn, spurious silver. kè-gūn (C. kè), value or price in silver. kè-gūn (C. kòe), to transmit silver to a superior mandarin (v. kè, to send under escort). kè-gūn (C. kòe), to hand over silver. tāng-gūn, silver heavily adulterated with brass or copper. tāng-gūn bóe tsoá-hia, bad silver buying paper boots; cheaters cheating each other. chhùi-gūn, broken dollars or silver. gūn-chhùi, id. gūn-iú, id. hoe-gūn, dollars much stamped. lân-san-gūn, a few loose dollars, not up to ten, or not put in a roll. toā-gūn (L.), good large dollars. hút-thâu-gūn, Spanish dollars. chiáu-á-gūn, Mexican dollars. koái<sup>n</sup>-á-gūn, Bolivian dollars.

núg-gūn, dollars counted a little lighter. hiên-gūn, ready money. iên-gūn, money subscribed. tsāi-gūn, freight. tiā<sup>n</sup>-gūn, earnest-money. teh-tōe-gūn, money advanced on a lease, to be repaid if the house be taken back. hiòng-gūn, money received

御

寓
遇

危

偽

魏

眼
銀

for customs dues; pay of soldiers, marines, &c. tiông-gûn (= C. háp-tek, = gê-chí<sup>n</sup>), commission or brokerage for selling goods. pêng-gûn, commission or brokerage paid by the buyer.

gûn-thâu, money in silver; a silver head. gûn-thâu ông, money abundant, as in village or hong. chí<sup>n</sup>-gûn, money in general. tsài-chí<sup>n</sup> tsài-gûn, to carry a very valuable cargo. chít--ê gûn-chí<sup>n</sup>, one silver coin; one dollar. gûn-tiã<sup>n</sup>, silver ingots shaped liked an hour-glass. gûn-khò, silver ingots of semi-circular shape (v. khò). gûn-khê, a treasury. khê-gûn, money of the state treasury. géh-gûn, monthly wages or salary.

kim-gûn, gold and silver; money; paper used for idolatrous burning (v. kim). gûn-pòh, tin-foil. gûn-bin, silver-plated or silvered. gûn-pái, a silver medal. gûn-tsúi, percentage of a few cash allowed to buyer when payment is made in silver (v. tsúi). gûn-hun, difference of light and heavy dollars (v. hun). gûn-kê, value of a dollar in cash according to varying exchange. gûn-chiòh, a touchstone for rubbing silver upon. gûn-soa, a very fine white sort of sand from Quemoy. gûn-chhêng-kah, a sort of vest with side pockets for money. gûn-siô, a strong box for carrying treasure (v. siô). gûn-kúi, a man in a hong who has charge of the money; a cashier; a large strong box for keeping money.

khoã<sup>n</sup>-gûn, to examine dollars to see if they be good. bat-gûn, skilled in examining dollars. tú-gûn, to deduct so much from a payment (v. tú). niã<sup>n</sup>-gûn, to receive money. jip-gûn, to get silver in change for cash; to pay money on account.

túi-gûn, to get silver in exchange for cash or for gold. tùi-gûn, to transfer money to or from a distance by a bill, draft, cheque, &c. bôe-gûn, to sell so much as that the payment is in silver (v. bôe). chiü<sup>n</sup>-gûn, to come up to a sum payable in silver, as a price or an account. kheng-gûn, to melt silver (v. kheng).

súi-gûn, quicksilver; mercury. gûn-tsu, vermilion; cinnabar; red ink. gûn-hêng, a white medicinal nut. gûn-hô, the milky way. gûn-hi, a small edible worm-shaped fish.

gûn [R. the gums]. khí-gûn (R.), the gums.

gûn (Cn.), = gín, to look angrily at one.

gûn, = goán, we, us (excluding the person or persons spoken to).

gûn (Cn.), = A. gín, to cause a feeling of disgust or aversion, &c.

gwá, gwá; better, goá, goã (q.v.)

gwán, gwán, gwán; better, goán, goán, goán (q.v.)

gwát; better, goát (q.v.)

齧

H.

h, in the reading form, often becomes k in colloquial, and in some words ph. Sometimes it is dropped.

h, in some colloquial words, comes from l in the reading form, especially when the preceding word ends in n, and in the Cn. dialect, e.g. hoãn-hó, sin-hô. Sometimes it comes from g.

ha, to breathe out gently. ha-sio, to warm by breathing on. êng-chhùi ha, to breath gently on, e.g. to moisten or warm a thing.

ha (cf. hah). ha-ha-chhiò, to laugh loud with mouth open. chhiò ha-ha, id. ha-ha toã-chhiò, do. very loud.

ha — ha-là-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of woollen cloth (v. là).

há (R. id.), (C. hê), a flaw, as in pottery or as in a gem. há-hún, id. há-hún, dim and cloudy, as night when the moon gives little light. bô-há, faultless, as a gem, &c. ũ-há, having a flaw, as gem.

hã, to bind round; to gird. hã-oá, to tie loosely together. hã chháu-á, to bind grass or small brush-wood loosely for fuel. hã thâu-pê, to put on a turban or head-band; to wear it. hã ê-kun, to put on a broad black ribbon on the head, as women. hã-niã<sup>n</sup>, to put on a collar. hã té-koã<sup>n</sup>, to tie on a pouch (like a sporran) on the belly. hã-io, to gird the loins. hã io-toã, id.

hã [R. gã, a tooth]. hã-lan (C.), = A. giã-lan, crimson.

hã [R. a shrimp, a toad], (C. hê). hã-bê, dried toads (medicinal).

hã (T., Cn. hãh). hã-sa = A. sau-hong, gaping in chinks, as wooden floor or bucket. hã-sau, id.

hã [R. hâu, filial duty], mourning worn for superiors. ũ-hã-teh, to wear mourning. ũ-hã, to wear mourning; also (esp. C.), to act in a filial manner towards parents. sng-hã, mourning dress. hã-sa<sup>n</sup>, id. hã-hók, id. ũ-hã-hók, to be in mourning. hã-hók bê-moã<sup>n</sup>, period of mourning not yet ended. hã-bé, short time before end of mourning. thng-hã, to put off mourning. toã-hã, to wear mourning. chhêng-moã<sup>n</sup> toã-hã, to be in very deepest mourning. koã-hã, to hang white sack-cloth at the door. khĩa-hã, to have offerings and rites (in the house) for a person recently deceased. sa<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>-hã, mourning for twenty-seven months. tũ-ni<sup>n</sup>-hã, one year's mourning, as for brother. sũn-hã-chhoã, to marry immediately after parent's death, so that the bride may join in the funeral rites. chiũ-hã-chhoã (T.), id. hã-thng, a stick with white paper on it carried by a son at funeral.

hã [R. id., leisure, = col. hê], (C. hê, T. hâu). hãn-hã, leisure; at leisure.

hã [R. summer, = col. hê; China], (C. hê), a surname; the Hea dynasty. hoa-hã (R.), China. hã-tiâu, the Hea dynasty. hã-pê (R.), summer-cloth; grass-cloth. poãn-hã, a medicine for cough.

hã [R. a mansion, Amoy], (C. hê). hã-bún (R.), Amoy, = col. "ê-mng." hã-tô, the Amoy steelyard rates, making one dollar weigh seven mace and six candareens (v. tô).

hã (= hoã, = kã). hã-hã-kún, to be noisy at play.

hã [R. low, to lower, to descend, = col. ê, kê], (C. hê). su-hã, secretly, private. hã-chiën, mean, low, as employment or station, e.g. of slaves, actors, &c. hã-tsoh, mean and shameful, as actions. goá bô-beh hiah-hã-tsoh, I will not demean myself so much, e.g.

暇
夏
厦

歎

哈 瑕
縵

牙
蝦

孝

to ask a favour from such a man. hā-liú put-siáu, mean, worthless (person). hā-téng, inferior quality (men or things). hā-pòe, persons lower in genealogical rank. hā-siòk ê-lâng, people of very mean condition (v. siòk, common, mean). i-ê hā-siòk, persons under his special control, e.g. inferior officers (v. siòk, to belong to).

siông-tiong-hā, top, middle, and bottom; three qualities—best, medium, and inferior; first, second, and third, when there are only three. kê-siông, put-kê-hā (looking above, but not below), leaving various parts of a matter not attended to, so that it goes wrong. siông put-chèng, chék hā-oai, when superiors are wicked, so are their inferiors. siông put-chèng, chék hā-bān, a wicked superior gets no respect. hā-goân (R.), the 10. 15.

chhiá<sup>n</sup> hòng-hā, just leave that over till other matters are first settled. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-àn-hā, id. hā chièn-tsu, to send a challenge to battle. pit hā chhiâu-seng, the pen writes down, "Let him live." hā-san-hé, a tight vest with many buttons (v. hé).

hā-hiet, to have dysentery. tāi-siáu-pièn ũ-hā, to have a motion and pass urine, as sick man under treatment. hā-siau, seminal diseases, esp. spermatorrhœa (v. siâu).

bôe-tit--thang hā-tāi, cannot manage to conclude the matter suitably (lit. to get down from the terrace); unable to get out of the matter with dignity, honour, or prestige. thien-sin hā-kàng, the 12. 25, when the celestial spirits come down (v. sin). hông-kiâu, su hā-má, one should dismount at a bridge. khi-hé chi-sè, put-tek-hā, one who rides on a tiger cannot come down (started a dangerous matter which he cannot stop or control).

hā<sup>n</sup>, what did you say? (when one has not heard plainly); when pronounced very long and drawn out, it indicates that what has been said is displeasing or disregarded, or shows unwillingness to hear; also, to talk loud in an overbearing, bullying manner, in order to intimidate. hā<sup>n</sup>--ah, what do you say? hā<sup>n</sup>, sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, id.

hā<sup>n</sup> [R. "háp," to join; or "hâm?"]. hā<sup>n</sup>-e, when it is nearly dark.

hā<sup>n</sup> [R. hām, together]. jit hā<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, the sun very near the horizon, so as almost to touch it.

hā<sup>n</sup> (cf. hām, hiên). hā<sup>n</sup>--teh, matter left unsettled, e.g. offer made, but neither accepted nor rejected. poà<sup>n</sup>-lâm-hā<sup>n</sup>, hung up unsettled, as affair. poà<sup>n</sup>-liâm-hā<sup>n</sup>, id. poà<sup>n</sup>-liâm poà<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. pàng-poà<sup>n</sup>-lâm-hā<sup>n</sup>, to leave a matter in an unsettled state, either temporarily or for ever.

hā<sup>n</sup> (= háng), to menace; to threaten; to intimidate by violent language.

hā<sup>n</sup>, to growl, as a dog. hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>-chhoán, to pant hard. hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>-háu, to growl or snarl, as dog; to hum, as bees or flies; to express approval of whatever is said, "Yes, yes." káu hā<sup>n</sup>-lái, the dog comes on growling.

hā<sup>n</sup>, to lift the foot or leg over another. sio-hā<sup>n</sup>, putting their legs over each other, as children. hā<sup>n</sup>--liáu, bôe toā-hàn, having put one's leg over (child) he will never grow tall! m-thang hā<sup>n</sup>--kè, don't step over it, as over printed or written paper.

hā<sup>n</sup> — khui hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>, become loose, as joints or seams in furniture, making the article useless or nearly so; open very wide, as mouth. chhùi khui-hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>, said of a man covetously asking for too much for land, or for winding up a case. toā-chhùi, khui hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>, demanding an extravagant price. chhoán kàu chhùi khui hā<sup>n</sup>-hā<sup>n</sup>, gasping for breath.

hah — hah-hì, to gape; to yawn. hah-hah-chhiò, to laugh out loud. chhiò hah-hah, id.

hah (C.) hah-chhiù<sup>n</sup>, = A. phah-ka-chhiù<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze.

hah — hah-kú-á (esp. Cn.), very soon, immediately (future).

hah, to affect, as vapour, exhalation, or heat; to warm, as by breath or vapour; to extend to and affect powerfully, as the influence of a powerful man. hah-tiòh-khì, injured by some vapour, miasma, or subtle influence. hah--tiòh tók-khì, injured by poisonous vapour, &c. hah-tiòh-jit, injured by the sun, as in a sun-stroke. hah--kàu, to reach and influence so far, e.g. influence of heat or of exhalation, or of powerful man.

háh — hàng-háh, boasting falsely or with exaggeration. kóng-oe chin hàng-háh, talk in a very boastful exaggerated style.

háh [R. hiáp, to agree]. háh-ün, to agree in rhyme or metrical harmony.

háh [R. háp, to join; to unite], to fit; to suit (lit. or fig.) háh-háh, closed tight, as door, &c. m-háh, not agreeing well, as men. oe-háh--tit, can fit well or act harmoniously, as men or things. háh-koán, in tune, as instruments agreeing with each other. háh-i, agreeing with one's inclination. háh-lê, pleasing to a person. háh-lê-êng, fit for the purpose; fit for use. háh-êng, id. ũ-háh-êng, id. bô-háh-êng, useless; unfit for the purpose. háh-pi, suiting one's stomach. háh-chhùi, pleasant to taste; suiting one's taste. háh-kha, to fit the foot. háh-su, fitting well, as dress. m-háh-su, not fitting well, as dress. m-háh-sin, id.

háh — thi<sup>n</sup> thiah-háh, morning dawn breaking. tang--si thiah-háh, id. [next word?].

háh — kah-háh, large sheathing-leaves at bamboo joints. tek-háh, smaller do. chiá-háh, outer leaves of sugar-cane (v. chiá). tsang-háh, the outer sheathing-leaves of the palm called "tsang." háh-lóeh, sun-hat made of bamboo leaves.

háh [R. hiáp, the sides of the chest]. heng-háh, the breast and sides at the ribs; the chest.

háh (C.), = há, to gird, as with a girdle.

hah<sup>n</sup> (= hah), to influence or affect, as a vapour or exhalation (gen. unpleasantly or injuriously). hah<sup>n</sup>-sio, to warm again (as cold food) near the fire. hah<sup>n</sup>-tiòh-hé, somewhat injured by being near the fire. lâng-khì hah<sup>n</sup>, the strong smell and heat of a crowd affecting one unpleasantly, as in hot weather.

háh<sup>n</sup> — háh<sup>n</sup>-háh<sup>n</sup>, wanting in substance, as ground-nuts.

háh<sup>n</sup> (cf. há<sup>n</sup>). háh<sup>n</sup>-háh<sup>n</sup>, yes, I hear what you say (but giving no opinion or promise). i háh<sup>n</sup>-háh<sup>n</sup>, he only said "háh<sup>n</sup>-háh<sup>n</sup>," giving no indication of his purpose.

háh<sup>n</sup>, to approach very close, as boat alongside a ship. háh<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to hug the shore.

hai, very large; immense.

hái [R. bones, limbs]. kut-hái, bare human bones. heng-hái, appearance and form of body. sù-chi pek-hái, the members of the body.

喝

叶協合

脇背

懸

哄

骸

biêt-hái, to make away with the bones of a grave when taking unjust possession. biêt-hái chiàm-tsóng, id. kap-goá beh-biêt-hái, he is determined to have a hot quarrel with me.

諧

hó-khe-hái (C. khoe), good at pacing back and forwards (as actor) on the stage. hó-khe-hái chhàu-pak-lái, putting on a very good and kind appearance, but really very wicked and injurious. hū-jîn-lâng ê khe-hái, feminine in manner (said of a man too minutely neat in dress, &c.) káu khe-hái, too minute, particular, and over-cautious in a matter, so as to be troublesome, e.g. constantly starting additional objections; changeable, inconstant, and unreliable.

類孩

hái (R. id.) ē-hái, the lower jaw.

hái [R. a boy, a child]. hái-jí-á, a clay child (used as a toy). hái-jí-á-sek, flesh-coloured. kah ná<sup>n</sup> hái-jí-á, as pretty as a doll (said of a pretty child). hái-jí-bin-tsoá, large sheets of paper of clay or flesh colour. hái-jí-tê, catch, catechu.

械

hái [R. hái, a weapon]. khi-hái, weapons of war; deadly weapons. hái-tê, to fight with deadly weapons.

諧海

hái (R. id.) hô-hái, harmonious, as music.

hái (R. id.), the sea; the ocean; a lake or large stream or large expanse of water. sù-hái, the four seas (v. sù). soa<sup>n</sup>-hái, land and water (v. soa<sup>n</sup>).

bák-hái, a small brass vessel holding cotton saturated with ink.

hái-hông, assistant mandarin of a Foo (the Hai-fang). hái-koan, chief-collector of customs (often incorrectly said for a consul). hái-lê, customs duties, port dues, &c. hái-iú<sup>n</sup>, a pirate. hái-chhát, id.

hái-sū, an island. hái-thê, sea-mud. hái-kha, the sea-shore. hái-kí<sup>n</sup>, id. hái-tê, ground reclaimed from the sea. iên-hái, along the shore, as a series of places. hái-phiá<sup>n</sup>, space between high and low water mark. hái-thoa<sup>n</sup> (R.), soft muddy sea-beach. hái-pê, high dry flat part of sea-beach, not overflowed, or only at highest tides. hái-bin, surface of sea. poá<sup>n</sup>-hái, half way on a voyage in the middle of the sea. hái-kháu, mouth of the bay or harbour. chhun, khoá<sup>n</sup> hái-kháu; tang, khoá<sup>n</sup> soa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, in spring look out to sea (for signs of weather), in winter look at the hills. hái-ê, on the sea or on a large river. soa<sup>n</sup>-téng hái-ê, on land or on water.

hái-liông (capacity like the sea), very generous; magnanimous. hái tiông, very high tides.

hái-lêng-ông, the god of the sea. hái-koe-bú, a sort of broker who deals with ships (v. bú); also, a sort of sea-bird. hái-bí, marine animals (in general), used for food (v. bí). hái-tang (Cn.), the take of fish, as in a year or season. bô-hái-lê, almost no fish to be caught (at a particular time). hái-chhài, agar-agar. hái-som, biche-de-mer. hái-hún, a green sea-weed (dried for food). hái-lông, a marine animal with fine fur (v. lông). hái-bé, the seal. hái-ang, the whale. chhiáh-hái (F.), a bright red fish. hái-á, an animal like a small crab (= phé-óá).

thó-hái, to fish. thó hái-á, to catch marine animals when the tide is out; if said of fishing from a boat, it is disrespectful. thó sió-hái, id. lóh-hái, to go into the water; to go and catch fish, &c., at low water; to go in a small boat peddling among vessels. chhut-hái, the supercargo, esp. in a junk going a shorter distance (for longest voyages it is "tsún-tsú"), opposed to "chê-soa<sup>n</sup>-ê," the owner or charterer. thiám-hái, may you be drowned! (v. thiám). kô-goá-hái (cross the outer sea), said of a candidate getting the Kujin degree by having an essay conveyed to his cell in the stream of water, a plan that needs great bribery.

蟹 hái hái-á ê small crab.

hái — hái-hái, easy and not exacting in dealings. tsòe-lâng hái-hái, id.

hái (= hái<sup>n</sup>), get out of the way! (said to dogs).

hài (= hai<sup>n</sup>), exclamation of grief.

hái (R. id.) hái-tsái, a fabulous animal (v. tsái).

hái — hái-tsái, firm and steady in character; not afraid in time of danger (v. tsái).

hái (R. id.), a cyclical character. hái-sí, from 9-11 P.M.

hái (R. id.), to hurt; to injure. sa<sup>n</sup>-hái, to injure one another. siông-hái, to wound. sún-hái, to act injuriously, as food, &c. siū-hái, to be severely injured by men. tsai-hái (R.), calamities sent by Heaven.

lî-hái, dangerous; much to be dreaded, as man, or animal, or weapon; very clever.

ta<sup>n</sup> hái-lah, now it is quite spoiled, as a thing; now it is all up, as affair quite ruined. hái-sí, to kill; to cause a man's death. hái-lán-chhám, makes us very miserable. hái-lâng tó-án, to be the cause of a man losing his case. hái-jin, chek hái-kí, who injures another injures himself. hái-lâng, chek hái-kí, id.

hái<sup>n</sup> — hai<sup>n</sup>-hai<sup>n</sup>-chhan, to groan sadly.

hái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. hêng, to give back; to restore or pay back.

hái<sup>n</sup> — hái<sup>n</sup>-lô-sô, doing work in a superficial way, without energy or care.

hái<sup>n</sup> (= hái<sup>n</sup>), noise made in driving away animals.

hài<sup>n</sup> (= hai<sup>n</sup>, hai<sup>n</sup>), exclamation of displeasure, distress, or grief for others, as at their actions.

hái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. hêng, to make a present.

hái<sup>n</sup> — hái<sup>n</sup>-lô-sô, cry of men working together, as in sculling a boat; to assent to, or follow whatever a man says or does, good or bad.

hái<sup>n</sup>, exclamation of great pain or weariness. hái<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of groaning. hái<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup>-chhan, id. hái<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup>-chhoán (T.), sound made in bearing a very heavy load. thé-khù pún-hái<sup>n</sup>, to sigh bitterly in distress of mind. tháu-khù hí<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

hái<sup>n</sup> — nng-hái<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup>, very wearied and sleepy; weak in body, as a man who has not much strength, though without any decided disease.

hái<sup>n</sup> (R. hat), an exclamation of displeasure at another's conduct, or of distress or grief for him.

hák, to buy, especially land or houses. hak-giap, to buy land or houses.

hak, to distil spirits. hak-chiú, id.

hak — pàng-hak-kák, = pàng-liet-kák, to throw away.

hák [R. a school, to learn, = col. "ôh"]. hák-sip, to learn thoroughly; accustomed to; practised in. hák-hoat, to learn Taoist arts. hák-bün, scholarship; learning (v. bün). chhién-hák, shallow in scholarship. tái-hák, one of the four books. hák-seng, a scholar; a student. hák-hū, father of scholars. lí-hák, title conferred on some very learned men, who are then worshipped by the literati. hák-tái, the literary examiner of a province. hák-í<sup>n</sup>, id. tái-hák-sū, four high chancellors at Peking, about the rank of prime ministers. hiáp-pán tái-hák-sū, one grade lower. hák-sū-í, a sort of easy arm-chair.

在亥害

學

皇石

hák [R. a vault], a necessary. sái-hák, id. khú-hák, to go to stool. lòh-hák, id. chiú<sup>h</sup>-hák, id. ta<sup>h</sup>-hák, to carry away the manure from it.

chiòh-hák, a stone vault for money (s. measure, medicine). tsáp-goā hák-gún, more than ten vaults full of silver.

hák (R. id.), a measure, = ten "chiòh," or one hundred "táu;" a frame for building walls of mud, or of earth and lime. chhiú<sup>h</sup>-hák, the frame for building mud walls, &c. cheng kúi-hák-chhiú<sup>h</sup>, of how many successive layers do you make the wall? (each layer being the height of the frame).

chiòh-hák, a shell like a limpet (medicinal), outside black, inside shining (s. vault). kim-chiòh-hák, a medicine like yellow dried straw or rushes. tsú-chiòh-hák, a plant like rushes (Dendrobium or Tricium?).

hák — hák-hí, a sort of fish, smaller than the "bé-ka."

ham (R. id.) ham-bān, stupid; unskilful; ignorant how to act; inefficient.

ham (R. id.) tsui ham-ham (esp. C.), drunk. chiú chhiá kàu-ham-ham, to drink liquor till drunk.

ham — bák-chiu ham-ham, eyelids red and swollen, as from weeping, sleeping, or inflammation, or naturally so. si<sup>h</sup> bák-ham, to have a red swelling on the eyelid (not on the edge, which is "bák-chiam").

ham — téng-ham, the upper bone inclosing the eye or the mouth. ē-ham, the lower bone inclosing the eye.

ham (R. id.), a cockle, especially a large cockle. ē-ham, a small black cockle. ham-khak, a cockle-shell. ham-khak-chháu, a creeper with leaves like cockle-shells. ham-khak-chí<sup>h</sup>, a cockle-shell, as used in games of chance by children, or as used for rubbing a sick man. ham-khak-á-chí<sup>h</sup>, id.

hām [R. all], a surname. hām-hong, the reign of Hien-fung.

hām (R. id.) hām-siáu, a sort of magnolia (fus-cata) with a very sweet smell. hām-siáu-hoe, id.

hām [R. to contain, to guide, rank]. koa<sup>h</sup>-hām, official rank and title. khang-hām, mere title of rank without office, like brevet rank. hōe-hām, to put their names and official titles side by side, as two mandarins issuing a joint proclamation.

pien-hām, the grooves in which a sliding lid, cover, or door works; groove or overlapping edge, by which two boards are fitted together to avoid the risk of chinks.

hām-toā<sup>h</sup>, the hole under the deck, where the foot of the mast is fixed. hām-thoā<sup>h</sup>, id. (this and following words have the characters often doubtful or interchanged).

hām [R. to inclose, to hold in the mouth], along with. pau-hām, to include; inclusive; general or indefinite, as language. hām-lām, all together; all counted in one. hām-gún, iáh thóeh-khi, and took away the silver also.

hām-hē, intentionally talk ambiguously or indistinctly. hām-hām hē-hē, id. kóng-ōe hām-hām, intentionally talk of a matter in general or indefinite terms.

hām--teh, put together, but not yet locked, as a Chinese padlock; still shut, but just about to open, as a bud just bursting; folded and put in the envelope, but not yet sealed, as a letter; laid over, and nothing being done in it, as a case. hoe hām-hām, bud just bursting, but not yet open. hām-lúi, a half-opened flower.

hām-kháu-sùg, to calculate mentally (as if holding the account in one's mouth).

hām-hūn, to harbour resentment or enmity. hām-jím, to conceal anger and bear with an offender, because it would be dangerous to deal with him now, but intending to have it out of him again.

siá lāi-hām, to write the inscription on the inside of an ancestral tablet.

hām-lêng, small rattles with balls inside, especially used on horses. hām-lān (Cn. T.), id.

hām-bín, to talk in one's sleep. hām-bín hām-tak, only half wakened and hardly knowing what he is doing; also said of doing a thing very carelessly. ké-hām-bín, pretending to be foolish, when really cunning or knowing. lí teh-hām-bín, you are telling a falsehood.

hām — hó-chháu-hām, able to eat anything. hó-kháu-hām, id. toā-kháu-hām, not content with small gains, as a mandarin or his underling.

hām (R. id.) hām-sau, slightly cracked, as crockery (v. sau). hām-hēh<sup>h</sup>, sound of coughing or of cracked crockery (v. hēh<sup>h</sup>), hām-he, id.

hām — hām-sek-hong (Cn.), a very dangerous venereal disease.

hām (R. kám), to eat in large mouthfuls without chewing.

hām (R. id.), (T. hán). hám-oan, to make a loud noise in order to call for redress from a mandarin, = hán-oan.

hām — âng-hám-hám, very red.

hām (C.), = A. hím, to strike downwards with a weapon or instrument.

hām (R. id.; cf. hàng), swollen, as in disease. hām-chéng, id. hām-phúh, id. hām-âng, swollen and yellow, as in jaundice. hām-tām, swollen and flabby, as face. kha hām, foot swollen (&c.)

hām-kiá<sup>h</sup>, a microscope.

hām (R. id.), vain and empty, as boasting; inflated, false, or exaggerated; untruthfully boastful. hām-ōe, exaggerated talk. hong-hām, exaggerated, as talking very big. hē-hām, id. kóng chiah-hām, how exaggerated and inflated (talk). hām-ké, false wonderful stories. hām-káu, reckless and careless in managing matters. káu-hām, id. hām-khoā-khoā, id. tsòe-sū hām, to manage a matter carelessly, so as to leave flaws. hām kàu bōe-chhēng--tit báng-tà, a lie so big that mosquito-curtains could not cover it.

hām — hām-lām, together; taken together.

hām — chhùi hām-hām, mouth kept quite shut, refusing to speak (= hím).

hām (P.), = A. ā<sup>h</sup>, contents of cakes, tarts, &c.

hām [R. a pit; to fall into; to injure], to fall into great calamity. hong-hām, very great calamity, as to persons or city. hiong-hām, id. teh-beh-hām, about to meet with a great calamity. hām-lòh, to fall into, as a fault or crime. hām--lòh-khi, to fall down, as a landslip, or as man falling down a precipice. táh-hām, to tread on a place that is undermined, and so falls down. pang-hām, to give way, as an embankment; to fall, as a landslip; to break down suddenly, as a man's health or wealth. hām--khi, to fall down, as a landslip.

頷
瑕 犯
噉 喊

噉

含

陷

斛

酣

蚶

咸
含 銜

含

啣

thê-hâm, a pitfall; a deep pit, made by a torrent or by digging. tôe-hâm, a covered pit for catching an enemy or wild beast. hâm-khi<sup>n</sup>, a pitfall for catching wild beasts or enemies; a deep pit worn away by a torrent, &c. bé-hâm-khi<sup>n</sup>, a pitfall for catching horse and rider together. khui-hâm khui-lang, to make deep pits, as for traps or for security (v. lang).

hâm-hâi, to injure very severely, often injure to death.

han [R. hoan, foreign]. han-tsû, sweet-potatoes, = hoan-tsû (v. tsû).

hân [R. leisure, = col. "êng"]. hân-hâ, leisure; at leisure. hân-hâu (T.), id. hân-hâu (C.), to wait for a person. an-hân tsû-tsai, mind and body quite easy and at rest; comfortable, without any need of toil or anxiety. siau-hân (R.), going about at leisure. chheng-hân (R.), in easy and comfortable circumstances (v. chheng). hân [R. to guard]. hông-hân (R.), to keep careful watch over (as younger relatives) so as to restrain them from bad courses. hông-hân tsû-tê, id.

hân (C.), = A. hiên. hân-thien siông-tê, one of the great gods.

hân (C.), = A. hêng, to give back (but P. hêng).

hân [R. cold, = col. "koá<sup>n</sup>," my, in some polite phrases]. hân-soan, very niggardly, over-cautious, mean, or shy (v. soan). pin-hân (R.), very poor. tám-hân, much afraid.

hân-ka, my surname (polite). hân-sià, my house (polite).

hân-lê, a term about October 8th. tâi-hân, term about Jan. 20, always a fortunate day for making or repairing graves, or for inspecting or removing bones. siau-hân, the term two weeks before "tâi-hân," i.e. about Jan. 5th.

hân-sú-chiam, a thermometer. hong-hân sú-síp, four classes of diseases (v. sú). hân-chêng (R.), colds and such like diseases. siông-hân, having become ill through a chill or a cold. túg-hân, to become suddenly very cold and dangerously ill, as in the course of an illness. úi-khi hân, having a tendency to vomit sourish water. pak-lâi hân, cold feeling in the belly, to be relieved by warm drinks. chiu<sup>n</sup>-bé-hân, a deadly venereal disease. má-siông-hân (Cn.), id.

hân (R. id.), an ancient kingdom; a surname. hân-kok, the kingdom of Han. hân-tan chhe, a woman whose bridegrooms died (v. "chhe," wife).

hân [R. bêng, bright, morrow]. hân-á-tsai (C.), = A. bin-á-tsai, to-morrow.

hân [R. seldom, rare]. hân--tit, rarely; seldom or never. hân--tit tî-sî, occasionally. hân-iú, rare. hi-hán, rare, few, costly. hi-hán-kiá<sup>n</sup>, an only son, much valued. hân-kiên, rarely to be seen; rarely met with. hân-hông, have you seldom met with it? it is quite common. hân-hông, sái kia<sup>n</sup>-bô, you may seldom have seen it, but it is quite common.

hân — sa<sup>n</sup>-thân sa<sup>n</sup>-hân, to follow other people's example; to follow each other's example. sa<sup>n</sup>-thân-hân, id.

hân [R. hám, to shout loud]. hân-hoã, loud noise or indistinct hum of a crowd, with noisy talk; to be in an excited state, as a community, when rebels or banditti are said to be near. hân-hoah, loud shouting and noisy disturbance; to make a loud shouting, e.g. in junks when a storm is rapidly coming on. hân- oan (T.), = háu-oan, = hám-oan, to call loudly and noisily on a mandarin for redress.

hàn [R. the Han dynasty; Chinese], (a person). hàn-tiâu, the Han dynasty. hàn-ko-tsé, its founder, worshipped by the heads of wards (tê-pó), as he was originally a T'epo.

hân-lâng, a Chinaman, as opposed to Tartars. hân-peng, Chinese (not Tartar) troops. hân-sék, a feast in Chinese style. hân-jî, Chinese characters. boán-hàn, Manchoo and Chinese (v. boán).

lô-hàn (Cn. lê-hàn), a Lohan; one of the eighteen great disciples of Buddha. lô-hàn-kha, a wandering man, generally idle or ill-behaved; a rowdy or loafer, a tramp. lô-hàn-tsá<sup>n</sup>, a dress made of two sorts of stuff, in the body and the skirt. lô-hàn-i, id.

lâm-tsú-hân, a man, not a woman, said only in a few phrases. tông-tông lâm-tsú-hân, you big fellow! said in scolding a grown-up fellow for fawning on people or begging from them. hân-chiàng, a tall fat man (v. chiàng). hó-hân, fat, stout (rarely said of animals). sòe-hân, young, as a child or boy; very short, as a man. toã-hàn, grown up, as an adult; tall, or full-grown. toã-bú-hàn, tall. toã-bóng-hân (C.), id. ài-toã-hàn, fond of flattery; fond of being counted of consequence. i toã-hàn ê sé-tsái, the place where he lived from youth till grown up. chhng-hân (r.), a rustic. iá-hàn, uncultivated clownish-like man. thé-hàn, id. tsùi-hàn, a drunkard. chiáh-chiu<sup>n</sup>-hàn, id. thiâu-hàn (T. hân), a troublesome, idle, unruly boy.

hân [R. perspiration, = col. "koá<sup>n</sup>,"]. hoat-hân, to perspire in disease, for recovery. hân-kun, a cloth for wiping off sweat.

hân [R. a pen]. hân-lim, the Imperial Han-lin Academy; a member of it (v. lim).

hân (R. id.), (cf. ân), a limit; to limit, as a time of grace for payment. kài-hân, a limit, of place. bô-kài-hân, unbounded. bô-hân-liông, immense; illimitable.

hân-tiã<sup>n</sup>, to limit; to set a limit or fixed time, esp. extended period for payment. hân tî-sî, set what time as the limit? hân sí-khek, to limit to the moment. kê-hân, to pass the proper time or quantity; rites for making a man pass from a bad fate to a good fate. tsáp-hân, káu bô-íá<sup>n</sup>, of ten promises to pay, nine are not kept. bôe-hân--tit (T.), = A. bôe-án--tit, cannot appoint a future time; you must pay now.

thiâu-hân (T.), = A. thiâu-hàn, an idle, unruly, troublesome boy.

hân [R. drought, = col. "oã<sup>n</sup>."]. hân-lê, road by land. không-hân, severe drought. hân-poát, the demon of drought; a paper image of him. tsoá-kê hân-poát, paper image of him. thâi-hân-poát, Taoist ceremony of beheading the image so as to get rain. hân-poát-chhùi, constantly saying unlucky words (unintentionally), as about sickness or death.

hang (R. hong), to dry or warm at the fire; to toast. hang-hé, id., either self or things. hang-ta, to dry at the fire. hang-sio, to warm at the fire. hang-chhiú, to warm one's hands. hang hé-thang, to warm one's self with a small portable stove in a wicker basket. hang bin-pau, to toast bread.

hang-lê, a small portable earthen stove, as for boiling water for tea.

hang (R. hong), the skate-fish. hang-hî, id. îg-hang, the yellowish sort, counted best. ê-hang, the dark-coloured sort, counted worse.

番

閑
玄 寒

韓
明
罕

喊

漢

汗
翰
限

旱

烘

魴

覺

hang-kiàm, the long spike of the skate. hang-chhi, the pair of spikes at its tail. it hang, ji hê, the "hang" and the "hê" are the fishes that make the worst wounds.

hàng (R. id. by change of tone from "kàng" to descend), to surrender on condition of impunity, generally taken into service; to make submission on terms. hàng-hók, to make submission; to subdue. tàu-hàng, to surrender on condition of impunity or reward, or being taken into the service of the government. tsà-hàng, to make feigned submission. hàng-mô-thú, a baton for quelling demons.

hàng (R. id., variation, with tonal mark, from "hêng," to go), a row; a column, as of words or of figures; to quilt, as a dress or a coverlet; a large mercantile firm or hong; properly only a great hong that issues securities (kiet) for junks belonging to other firms.

hàng-ngó, gaudy; splendid. sêk-hàng, skilful, experienced. sù-hàng, the four licitors, holding chains or bamboos, who stand or walk before a mandarin.

hàng-kau, a large trading firm; a wholesale mercantile house; a hong (v. kau). toà-hàng, a large trading firm. sió-hàng, a small one. hàng-ke, head or manager of a firm. hàng-hê, a wholesale merchant or head of the house. hàng-siong, id. hàng-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the hired manager of a hong. iú<sup>n</sup>-hàng, house trading in foreign goods. káu-poeh-hàng, a commission agent taking two per cent. commission. gê-hàng, sort of broker or commission agent. khui-hàng, to have a warehouse or hong, as merchant. khui-hàng chē-tiàm, to have hong or shops. hàng tó, bankrupt.

hàng-kiet, the security given to the mandarins by a registered hong (e.g. kim-êng-chhiong) for a junk of another firm (v. kiet). hàng-tiông, commission charged by commission agent, &c. hàng-chêng, market price. hoa<sup>n</sup> hàng-chêng, to fix the market price of goods, as a leading firm does, so that the other firms follow; also, to have the authoritative voice in a hong for buying or selling. i khah-tsai hàng-chêng, he is specially acquainted with the price of goods. i khah-ū hàng-chêng, he is very fair in the prices that he names (as broker or merchant), so that people apply to him to value goods.

hàng-thâu, a hong in relation to the sending of goods to it. kià sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hàng-thâu, to which hong is it to be sent, by ship? thêh hàng-thâu-gún, to borrow money from the hong with which our vessel does business.

hàng-hiú, to quilt a coat. hàng khah-khin-chhiú, quilt it more loosely.

hàng (R. id.) hàng-chiu, Hang-chow. hàng-chiok, a medicine from it. sê-hàng, Soo-chow and Hangchow.

hàng (R. hōng), to threaten; to frighten by talk; to intimidate. hàng-phiên, to frighten and cheat, as sorcerers or Taoist priests, or underlings of yamuns. hàng-phiên-sút, id. hàng lêng-ê-chí, to cheat and frighten people out of their money, as mandarins' underlings.

hàng-hoah, to scold and threaten; to intimidate by talking loud. hàng-hip, id. hàng-sau (C. háu-sau), to scold loudly; to wrangle in a loud overbearing way. hàng-sê, to boast or brag of one's power or influence. ũ hàng-thâu, using big words; talk in a bragging, boastful, or blustering way. hàng-thâu toà, id.

hàng (R. hêng, cf. phàng, phòng, hăm), to swell, as from a blow or a poisonous bite; swollen; (to brag). hàng-hàng, covered with itebing swellings, as from insects' bites; slightly swollen. hàng-chéng, a swelling. kha hàng-khí-lâi, foot swollen. hàng-lin, female breast swollen, as by disease; also (T.), naturally grown large, as of girl coming of age; also (T.), grown fat on milk, as infant.

hàng-lâu, tide broken by rocks, as in chow-chow water.

hàng-háh, very boastful (v. háh).

hàng — hàng-tàng, heavy and cumbrous; ponderous; severe, as sickness; heavy manner of walking, setting down foot heavily. kóng-ôe hàng-tàng, to talk in a loud voice so as to show that the matter is important, or pretending so.

hàng (R. id.), a lane. hàng-á, id. hàng-lô, a private lane; a passage in a house. thong-hàng, a public lane used as a thoroughfare. hàng-á hàng-sut, a very out-of-the-way corner of a lane. bô-bé-hàng, a cul-de-sac. hàng-thâu, the spaces at the corners of the central house in a Chinese large house. khut-chhiòh-hàng, a lane with a right angle bend. oan-koe phiah-hàng, crooked and unfrequented streets and lanes. hàng chhim, káu ok, very hard of access.

hàng (R. id.), a kind, a sort. bô-chit-hàng, not anything of any sort. bôe kui-hàng, to sell wholesale (v. kui). chiá<sup>n</sup>-hàng, in considerable quantities. ka-nng-hàng, id. goá bô ka-nng-hàng-chi<sup>n</sup>, I have not large quantities of money.

siàu-hàng, an account of a sum due. hiòng-hàng, money of customs duties. chi<sup>n</sup>-hàng, money. gún-hàng, silver; money; treasure in silver. chit-tiâu gún-hàng, one item in account, or considerable sum due, counted in silver.

tng sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hàng-tàng, what office (subordinate) have you? as in yamun. bong sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hàng-tàng, what is your business?

hàng — hé-hàng, the cactus, especially the common coarse cactus.

hàng (R. hiên). hàng-chhài (T.), = A. hêng-chhài, a sort of vegetable.

háp, to speak falsely; to give an uncertain statement as if it were certain truth; to go beyond the truth. gâu-háp, fond of talking so. chhui lām-sám-háp, id. lêng háp-háp, the man is not to be relied upon.

háp (R. id.), to join; united; fitting well; to shut; one round, as in a fight; one pair or set of some things. sa<sup>n</sup>-háp, joined together; fitting together. sa<sup>n</sup>-hó-háp, agreeing well, as persons. khè-háp (R.), joined in close friendship. háp-kiông, all united; sum total. hū-háp, agreeing well, as evidence or documents. háp-tàng, agreement about division of family property (v. tàng). khâm-háp, the words "khâm-háp" stamped or written on a document where it is to be torn or cut in two, or on the two parts of a tally, or on two documents, to be used in comparing them as evidence. tng-khâm-háp, to stamp these words. tui khâm-háp, to examine if they correspond on the two parts. háp-iok, a bond or agreement in duplicate, the character "háp" being stamped on both at once, to serve as proof.

háp-kai-tiòh, ought to —. háp-sit, fit; fitting; becoming. m-háp-lí, improper. háp-i, to suit one's mind. háp i-ê sé-êng, fit for his use.

重

巷

項

莧

合

降

行

杭

哄

háp-hé, to join stock in trade, with about equal shares. háp-sit, to take meals regularly together. háp-toh, the feast of the bride with her female friends. háp-hun, to consummate a marriage. phòe-háp, joined in marriage. kau-háp, to have sexual intercourse.

háp-thàn, to gain cent. per cent. thiu háp-tek (C.), to take off a small sum for brokerage (v. "tek," to get).

háp-á, a dollar made of base metal coated with silver. chít-háp, a pair, as of knives; a set, as a nest of small pots with covers inside each other. chít-háp-toh, a pair of tables.

ĩá-háp, the magnolia. pek-háp, a medicinal root (squills?) like garlic. pek-háp-hoe, a sort of lily (or Amaryllis?) with a great many petals (Lilium tigrinum, or = pòh-kok-piét, white Amaryllis?).

hat — hat-á, a long bag with dollars tied round the waist. hat-lá, id. hat-pò (T.), a cloth for strapping a child on the back.

hat (R. id. = col. "hoah"), to speak loud and angrily, as in finding fault with a man, or in saying, I will have nothing to do with it. hat-lat, id. hat--làng, id. hat-thâu, to scold or reprove violently.

hat — hat-chhiù<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to sneeze.

hat [R. to rule, to govern]. koán-hat, to rule; to manage authoritatively. hun-hat, to order to their several duties. hè-hat, to give orders to inferiors somewhat imperiously. thóng-hat, to govern, rule, or manage the whole, as a mandarin. tĩ-goá hat-è, under my authority, as an inferior.

hát [R. hân, to limit], to limit in quantity; amount very limited or barely enough. hát tiá<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, to limit a certain quantity. hát joá-tsòe-chí<sup>n</sup>, how much money has he fixed? chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu hát, money very scarce, or hardly enough. chí<sup>n</sup> khah-hát, id. hát-tsúi, to use water sparingly, either from scarcity, or for keeping the due proportion, as in cooking, or in mixing medicine. tsúi put-chí-hát, water very scarce.

giám-hát, very stern or strict, as teacher, master, or mandarin.

hát, a ganglion; a small swelling on the nerves or under the skin, which can be moved about, and does not suppurate. khán-hát, to have such a swelling.

hau — bĩn hau-hau, face having thick-skinned spots, as when affected by varnish, or as at commencement of leprosy, &c.

hau [R. hē? to call out, to lie; or hong? fabulous; or some of the phrases may be imitation of mandarin]. hau-lák, to tell lies; to exaggerate enormously; what a story! hau-siáu (vulg.), what a great lie! gáu-hau (T.), always telling lies. hau-tóng, bô-íá<sup>n</sup>-chiah sòng (T.), = A. hong-tóng, &c., fabulous stories, as of Tang and Sung dynasties.

hau (R. o). hau-pau, a sort of purse or small pouch. hau-pau-toà, the string for drawing it shut. hau-pau-sok, a bit of shell or pretty stone through which the cord runs. hau-pau-chhiu, two tassels where it is fastened.

háu [R. hē, a marquis, a surname, = col. "káu"], a surname, = káu.

háu [R. hiên, to hang up], (Cn.), = A. háu<sup>n</sup>, to procreate; to put off.

háu (R. hē), to cry; to chirp, sing, low, bellow, roar, &c., as almost any animal; to make a noise, of many sorts. pak-lái háu, sound of wind in the belly.

thi-háu, to sob bitterly (v. thí). háu-kiò, to cry or call out loud, as in pain (v. kiò). háu-iau, to cry for food, as a child. háu-oan, to make a loud noise in calling on a mandarin for redress. háu-hoah, to talk very loud, in scolding, reproving, or threatening. háu-sau, to scold with a loud voice; to wrangle in a loud overbearing way.

chiuh-chiuh-háu, to squeak, as a rat. hã<sup>n</sup>-hã<sup>n</sup>-háu, to snarl, as dog. hoã-hoã-háu, to make a loud noise, as waves or many persons. ki-ki-háu, constantly crying. ngauh-ngauh-háu, to grumble indistinctly, as a discontented man afraid to speak out. khiáuh-khiáuh-háu, to make a constant noise, as constant beating a stone, or constant talking, &c. (v. khiáuh).

hàu (R. id.), filial duty; filial piety; to worship by offerings; to act in a filial manner. hàu-kèng, id. hèng-hàu, to perform filial duty. hèng-hàu pē-bú, to act in a filial way to parents. hàu-pē-bú, id. hàu-hèng, filial conduct. hàu-sim, filial heart. hàu-sùn, filial and obedient. chĩn-tiong chĩn-hàu, dutiful and filial to the utmost. ũ-hàu, filial and dutiful to parents. put-hàu, unfilial, disobedient, undutiful or ungrateful to parents. tãi-put-hàu, extremely undutiful to parents. sèng-kiá<sup>n</sup> put-hàu, a spoiled child becomes disobedient (v. sèng). hàu-kèng, the classic of filial piety.

hàu-mih<sup>n</sup>, to worship with offerings. hàu-pñg, to make offerings (of rice, &c.) to the spirit of a person recently buried, in the rites called "khiã-hà," before the image called "hũn-sin," done on the 1st and 15th for a year; or for 40, 60, or 100 days; said also as a coarse joke to a man eating rice. hàu-chhài-pñg, to make offerings of food in the worship of the spirits called "mũg-kháu-kong."

hàu mĩg-kháu, to worship the wandering spirits at the door, as in the seventh moon; or on the 2d and 16th of each moon. hàu-pút, to worship idols by offerings. hàu thi<sup>n</sup>-kong, to worship Heaven by offerings on 1.9. hàu-kè, to make offerings to a spirit that has no descendants; said also in scolding (v. kè). hàu koa<sup>n</sup>-chhã-thâu, to make offerings at the coffin (said in a proverb).

hàu-lãm, a son in deepest mourning for a parent while acting as mourner at the funeral and some special rites; said also in scolding a man who looks very foolish, dull, and unintelligent: "You look as if in mourning for a parent." thũh-thũh ná<sup>n</sup>-hàu-lãm, looking terribly dull and stupid. hàu-lú, a daughter (&c.) in deepest mourning at funeral rites. hàu-sun, a grandson in mourning at funeral ceremonies. hàu-tsũ-hng, a memorial archway put up by imperial authority in memory of a very filial son. hàu-tsũ-tèng, a shed over a tablet for do. (less honourable). chiet-hàu-hng, memorial archway in honour of a lady distinguished for purity and filial piety.

hàu — lâu-hàu, a sort of nutmeg, larger and coarser than "tĩ-khẽ." lâu-hàu-chi, a nutmeg. lâu-hàu-khak, its husk. lâu-hàu-hoe, nutmeg flowers, medicinal.

háu [R. hẽ, after]. háu-si<sup>n</sup>, a son. háu-si<sup>n</sup>-ke, a young lad. khít hàu-si<sup>n</sup>, to buy a boy and adopt him as a son. goán-hàu--ê, my son.

hàu (R. hẽ), to wait for. hàu-goá, wait for me. hàu siáu-sit, waiting for news. hàu-sim, to wait for the trial coming on, as parties and witnesses. hàu-phoe, to wait for the mandarin's official answer to a

喝

轄

限

核

荷

候

懸

吼

孝

蔻

後

候

petition. chí-tiên hâu-siok, to close a pawn-shop, and wait a time to let the goods be redeemed.

hâu-pé, having got the rank (like brevet-rank) and orders from the supreme board to have the office as soon as a vacancy occurs. hâu-pé ti-hú, expectant or designate prefect.

hâu-béh, to feel the pulse the second time. hâu-méh<sup>n</sup>, id.

pài-hâu, to pay a ceremonial visit; to call upon, as a friend. thêng-hâu to wait, for a time. hân-hâu (C.), id. su-hâu, = su-hô, to wait upon or wait for, as attendants on a mandarin when he comes out (v. hô). sí-hâu (r. esp. C.), time.

hâu [R. hâ, leisure]. hân-hâu (T.), = A. hân-hâ, at leisure.

hâu [R. to exert one's self; interchanged with the next word]. hâu-iông, a small military official, who has a gilt button but no office. sió-sim hâu-lô, extremely attentive, as servants (v. lô). hâu-lék (r.), to be diligent in military service, as soldiers or petty officers giving assistance to superiors. eng-kai--tióh hâu-lék, it was my duty to assist you, said politely when thanked for a service.

hâu [R. to accomplish; to copy; efficacious]. hâu-giâm, effective in accomplishing its end, as medicine, predictions, prayers or superstitious rites. èng-hâu, id., especially of vows. kong-hâu, efficaciousness, as of medicine, or plan, or labour. ù-kong-hâu, to be efficacious, as medicine, &c. bô-kong bô-hâu, having no good result, as agricultural toil when weather delays or spoils the crop.

hâu-iú, to imitate bad example.

hâu [R. óá, a tile, = col. hiá, hoá]. hâu-hia<sup>n</sup>-phê, broken bits of tiles, as at a ruined house. hâu-phia<sup>n</sup>-phô (T.), id.

hâu (T.) khút-hâu, a small piece of a rainbow in mid sky.

hâu (R. id.), the king-crab. hâu-huih-chhi<sup>n</sup>, light dull blue, like its blood. hâu-peh-chheh (its overlapping scales), venetian shutters. hâu-bé-to, a bayonet. hâu-khak, the shell of the king-crab. hâu-phió, a skimmer made of the shell. hâu-siáh, a small scoop or ladle made of it. hâu-hia, a large ladle made of it. hâu-hiáh, having a large forehead (v. heng, "breast").

soa<sup>n</sup>-hâu (vulg.), a rough boorish fellow; a dull awkward fellow. tsòe-chhát tsòe-hâu, to be thieves and robbers. liáh hâu-á, to seize men and extort money. liáh-hâu, to seize in the act of vile lust. chit-ngauh-hâu, two persons in the act of impurity, esp. of unnatural lust.

tsúi-hâu, a fresh-water insect that lives long after being caught. tsúi-hâu-ang, a toy containing one of them that moves the arms and head of the figure. ah-bú chiáh tsúi-hâu (the duck gobbles up the insect, which lives long after), said in joke of a man feeling anxious and grieved.

hâu-kha-chhi, a low trailing thorny shrub, with glossy leaves and black edible berries. hâu-á-chhi, id. hâu-á-chí, its berry. hâu-á-thâu (P.), its root, used as medicine.

hau<sup>n</sup>, = hauh<sup>n</sup>, sound as of a dog growling. hau<sup>n</sup>-hau<sup>n</sup>-háu, id.

hâu<sup>n</sup> [R. hiên, to hang up], (Cn. hâu), to put off too long; to delay improperly.

hâu<sup>n</sup> — hâu<sup>n</sup>-hâu<sup>n</sup>-pui, sound of a dog barking long.

hâu<sup>n</sup> [R. hê<sup>n</sup>, "to desire," by change of tone from hê<sup>n</sup>, "good"], to take pleasure in, as improper pleasures.

hauh — hauh-khak, peeling off, as paint, skin, or scab. hauh--khi-lái, id.

hauh<sup>n</sup> (C. hóp; Cn. nauh<sup>n</sup>; T. nauh<sup>n</sup>, ngauh<sup>n</sup>), to catch suddenly in the mouth, as a dog; to snap up or bite suddenly. hauh<sup>n</sup>--tióh, id.

hauh<sup>n</sup> — pit-hauh<sup>n</sup>-hauh<sup>n</sup>, all splitting into cracks, as wood in drought.

hauh<sup>n</sup> (cf. khauh), under-cooked, as potatoes or vegetables (not flesh); bad, as potatoes that cannot be cooked well. ngi<sup>n</sup>-hauh<sup>n</sup>, too hard, as cakes, &c.

hauh<sup>n</sup>, = hau<sup>n</sup>. hauh<sup>n</sup>-hauh<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of dog growling. hauh<sup>n</sup>-hauh<sup>n</sup>-pui, id.

he (C. hê). he-ku, asthma. hám-he, sound of coughing.

he (= hí, = hit-ê), that, demonstrative pronoun, only in combination when unaccented.

he [R. hoa, a flower, = col. "hoe"]. khê-he-sek, = khê-hoe-sek, light grayish purple.

he (R. oe, hoe), (C. hoe; Cn. hō), lime; plaster (for wall); mortar; cement. he-hún, powdered lime. he-chióh, limestone. chióh-he, lime from limestone. ô-khak-he, lime from oyster-shells. he-thâu, refuse lime, riddled out. he-phí, thin scales of plaster peeling off walls. lak he-phí, these peeling and falling off. he-phiá<sup>n</sup>, large masses of plaster from walls.

he-sek, light gray colour. he-tsoá, a line of caulking. he-chhat, varnish and lime mixed, for filling crevices. he-iô, a lime-kiln. he-sí, sort of trowel for building, with the handle placed as on a shield. he-thui, an instrument for beating and mixing lime.

kan-he, mortar of pure lime with no mixture. lám-he, well mixed with lime, as good mortar. thang-iú-he, cement made of lime and the oil of the "thang" tree. tsoá-kun-he, fine plaster made with finely chopped paper. chháu-he, plaster made of clay or mud mixed with chopped straw, but no lime. chháu-phiá<sup>n</sup>-he, plaster made of lime and earth with finely beaten straw (v. chháu). soa-he, mortar of lime and sand. he-soa, lime and sand, ready to be mixed. he-soá, mortar of lime and very stiff clay. he-thê, mortar of lime and clay or earth.

oà-he, to pour water on quick-lime. hoat-he, to slack lime, whole process. cheng-he, to beat mortar hard and smooth, as on a floor, by a pestle. koat-he, to beat cement smooth with a sort of trowel. kuih-he, to rub cement into crevices. chhák-he, to caulk. boah-he, to plaster. chhêng-he, to white-wash. phiák-he, to dash the lime on.

hê, an interjection of sudden astonishment.

hê (R. há), (C. hê). âng-hê, red clouds (s. shrimp). hün-hê (T.), id. khi âng-hê, red clouds appearing, as at sunset. chhut âng-hê, id. hōng-koa<sup>n</sup> hê-pòe, head-dress and ornamental girdle of wealthy lady (v. koa<sup>n</sup>, koan, "a cap").

hê (C.), = A. hâ, a flaw, as in a gem.

hê (R. hê), (C. hê, sometimes hê; T. hê), to return a thing; to carry a message back or forwards; to accompany another on a musical instrument; to slack the tiller-ropes so as to sail nearer the wind.

âu-hê, afterwards; on another occasion.

hê-òe, to interpret between two persons. hê-lái hê-khi, to take messages back and forwards. jip-khi hê, to go in (as into the jamun) and give the mes-

好

彼花灰

霞

回

暇

効

瓦

蟹

懸

sage. hê hê-i-tsai, id. hê-hok, to make report to him who sent us. hê-phoe, to send a letter in answer. hê-bùn, to answer an official letter. hê-thiap, to send a card in return; a return card. hê-pài, to return a visit. hê-thâu-kiô; a return sedan. hoat-hê, to send back, as goods sent for inspection but not chosen, or as presents not accepted, as in general those from mandarins.

hê-sim tng-i, to change one's mind. hê-lâm àh-sai, north wind falling and veering round to south-west; after sudden anger, changing suddenly to friendly feeling. hê-lâm, to change to a south wind; anger suddenly changing. hê lâm-hong, id. id.

goá-chhiù<sup>n</sup> lí-hê, I sing, and you accompany on an instrument.

hê [R. hê, summer]. lòh-hê-bê, long-continued drizzling rains about the time of "jip-hê."

hê (R. hà), (C. hê), a shrimp; a prawn; grubs of some kinds. phang-hê, the grub of the bee.

lêng-hê, the lobster. káu-hê, a small sort of shrimp. gê-chhiu-hê, a small white shrimp. âng-hê, red shrimps (s. clouds). pêh-hê, white shrimps. pêh-hê-á, id. soa-hê, shrimps from sandy beaches. thê-hê, small shrimps from sea-mud. chhân-hê (C.), a sort from rice-fields. lê-hê-chhiù<sup>n</sup>, brine from them. hê-bí, very small shrimps. hê-kø, a very large sort (v. kø).

hê-chhiu, beard of shrimp (v. chhiu). hê-kô, a trap for shrimps. hê-lâng (C.), id.

tng-hê, to lay a trap for shrimps. khan-hê, to catch shrimps by pulling along a net (tsan), as by boat and raft. khan-káu-hê, id.

ngiauh-hê, quite dead (said of a man somewhat as a joke).

hiu<sup>n</sup>-hê, bags of cotton and incense on idol's forehead, shaped like shrimps.

hê [R. hô, harmonious, concord], (C. hê), not too hot, as tea or water. hê-siù<sup>n</sup>, a Buddhist priest; a sort of crab (v. siù<sup>n</sup>). hê-hoan, to go and make peace with (Tartar) foreigners (v. hoan). chhut-pún hê-hoan, to pay money in advance for a friend (v. hoan).

hê [R. hâ, below; to come down], to let down, as a sedan, or as one's temper; become gentle, as wind. hong hê-hê, wind blowing gently. hong khah-hê, wind become gentle. kê-sê khah-hê, the price has fallen somewhat. hê khah-hê, chiah-khi, wait till the rain has abated before you go. hê--lòh-khi, let it down, as sedan. sêng-tê pàng-khah-hê, let your temper down a little.

hê [R. to take up or lead by the hand]. thê-hê, to assist a man in straits, as by lending money or giving work, or helping to get a situation.

hê [R. hó, colleague, comrade, company], (C. hê; Cn. hō). hê-tiú<sup>n</sup>, captain of a large junk or ship. toā-hê, captain, as of a foreign ship. jī-hê, first mate. sa<sup>n</sup>-hê, second mate. sió-hê, private business of his own (done by a hired manager in a hong, with the funds of the hong, and on the premises). tsòe-siò-hê, to transact his own private business thus. háp-hê, to join stock and capital in about equal shares. chhát-hê, one of a company of thieves, robbers, or pirates.

hê-ki, a partner or assistant; a fellow-workman; often said to a man in addressing him (Cantonese "fokee"); sometimes, my wife. liên-tsai hê-ki, partners in a firm. thiah hê-ki, to dissolve partnership. tàu-

hê-ki, to be partners in a business. sa<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, chhut chiông-goân: sa<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, chhut bô-chit-ê hó-hê-ki, once in three years one man gets the highest literary degree, but a good partner is not found so often.

chit-hê ê-lâng, persons of one class, company, or faction. in-chit-hê ê-lâng, a man of their class, sort, &c. kap-i tsòe-chit-hê, to be of one class with him.

hê (C. hê; Cn. hō), often interchanged with the previous and following words.

hê-sit, food, as used or prepared (v. sit).

ke-hê, property of any sort. pun-ke-hê, to divide the property and goods, as after father's death.

pān kong-hê-á, children playing at an imitation feast with broken bits of bowls, &c.

hê (R. hê<sup>n</sup>), (C. hê; Cn. hō), fire; a lamp; the hot or inflammatory principle in the constitution.

hê-hang, the cactus. hê-kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the fire-fly. hê-iâ<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. hê-soān, a first-class diamond. hê-chiáu, a certain ill-omened bird; an over-cute boy (v. chiáu).

hê-sin-iâ (C. hê-ông), the god of fire. hiu<sup>n</sup>-hê, small bags of incense ashes with idols' names on them (used as charms).

hê-jī-kha, the 86th radical (fire) when written as four dots below the rest of the character.

hê-thâu, a cook. sio-hê, id.; sometimes said for "my wife." chhàu-hê-lo-bi, singed taste. bô-kàu chhâ-hê, not sufficiently fired in cooking. iú-hê-hun, expense of tobacco and of oil of lamp for it (v. iú). hê-chiú, strong spirits that can burn. hê-thúi, ham.

hê-khi, the hot principle in the human constitution; inflammatory or feverish tendency. hê-seng, having much of the hot principle in one's constitution; having a tendency to a red face, and not daring to eat heating things. hê-seng, a fiery temper. sim-hê, internal heat, as slight feverishness (v. sim). sim-hê tòh, rage stirred up. iók-hê, the fire of lustful passion. thâm-hê, tendency to (cancerous?) swelling of the throat. chheng-hê, to remove feverishness or inflammation; comfortable or delighted (v. chheng). thê-hê, to remove feverishness or inflammation. khi-hê, id. hu-hê (C. hi-hê), feeling slightly feverish, e.g. mouth dry and skin somewhat hot. ut-hê, feeling uncomfortable and unwell (v. ut). kan-hê, feverish state, supposed to come from the liver (v. kan). pak-lai ũ siâ-hê, much fevered. hong-hê, wind and fire (diseases of the nature of swellings, inflammations, and fevers). hong-hê kek, caused by these diseased tendencies. kín ná<sup>n</sup>-hong-hê, as quick as wind and fire.

kúi-hê, ignis fatuus. hê-thai, exceedingly sultry weather.

hê-sok, very quickly, as in executing orders. hê phiò, a warrant for the very speedy arrest of a man. hê-pái, id. (v. pái). hê-chhiam, slips of wood given to the messenger to show the urgency of the warrant.

hê-hu, ashes in powder (v. hu). hê-ien, colourless smoke or steam. hê-hun, smoke (v. hun). hê-úg, place in shade from a lamp or candle (v. úg). hê-iám, a flame. hê-chih, a tongue of fire. hê-chhi<sup>n</sup>, sparks. hê-hoe, sparks, as from a match (v. hoe). hê-sái, spots from a lamp-wick; snuffings. hê-sio-chhù, a conflagration; a house on fire. hê-sio--ah, fire! fire! thiah hê-lê, to tear down houses in order to subdue a fire. hê-chí<sup>n</sup>, a vault for keeping things secure from fire. hê-khê, a fire-proof store.

夏
蝦和
下攜
携
夥

伙

火

hé-chiòh, flint. hé-hiá<sup>n</sup>, tinder. hé-to, a steel for striking fire. hé-poe, a sort of iron like a poker with a crooked end (used red-hot for melting cement, &c.) hé-kúg, a hollow bamboo for blowing the fire. hé-khí<sup>n</sup>, tongs. hé-ngoeh, slim tongs with curved points. hé-tí, two iron rods used as tongs. hé-chhê, a poker. hé-iâm, a shovel.

teng-hé, a small lamp made with a small saucer. chit-pha-hé, oue lamp or light. hé-oá<sup>n</sup>, a metal dish with a very large wick, used at plays. hé-táu, a three-sided screen for a lamp, used at plays. hé-lê, a stove; a furnace; a fireplace. hé-thang (C. hóc-lang), a small charcoal stove in a basket, for warming the hands, or putting under one's clothes. hé-tiá<sup>n</sup>, the pan for cooking rice; a rice-boiler. kúi-ê hé-tiá<sup>n</sup>, how many families?

hé-koe, the part of the gun that holds the match. hé-lêng, match for matchlock. hé-pau, a ball full of powder throw in war. hé-koàn, a "stink-pot" used by pirates. tē-lúí hé-phâu, sort of mines in war. hé-ióh, gunpowder. hé-chhat, a sort of cement that is melted when used.

ien-hé, fireworks. pàng ien-hé, to let off fireworks. péh-hé, a sky-rocket. hé-bé, a firework like a horse, made of bamboo. pàng hé-bé, to set off this firework. hé-sai, firework like a lion. hé-ku, one like a turtle. tsū-lái-hé (r.), lucifer matches. hoan-á-hé, id. tsoá-lién-hé, a lighted match of twisted paper.

khiet-hé, to strike fire with a flint. phah-hé, to strike fire. phah-hoa-hé, to extinguish fire (v. hoa). phah-sit-hé (T.), id. sit-hé, to set on fire accidentally. khí-hé, to light a fire. hiá<sup>n</sup>-hé, to add more fuel (v. hiá<sup>n</sup>). ín-hé, to take a light from another light; to catch fire (v. ín). hoà-hé, to be completely burned; to burn, as paper. chiū<sup>n</sup>-hé, to light many lamps, as in markets at night, or as at idolatrous illuminations. pún-hé, to blow the fire; to blow out a lamp; to blow a match into flame. chiò-hé, to give light, as by a lamp hung up. chiòh-hé, to warm one's self, or a thing, at the fire. him-hé, to cover up and extinguish embers, to be kept for use. im-hé, id. tâu-hé, to fly into the flame, as a moth. thiàu-hé-phún, to leap through a large pile of burning wood, as on 1.15. sio-hé-phún, to have this ceremony. kè-hé, to go through a charcoal fire, as necromancers with an idol, at any time. tâh-hé, id. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hé, to bring sacred fire with incense ashes (and carrying idols) from a greater temple to a less important one. khat-hô (Cn.), id.

hé, an emphatic interjection used before a negative sentence. hé-m-si, no, indeed! it is not so at all! hé m-thang, you must on no account. hé, kám-m-si àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, well, is it not so!

hé (C.), = A. hóc (angry glance).

hè (R. sòe), (C. hòe, Cn. hō), a year (of age) counted from New Year, not from birthday (but "ni<sup>n</sup>" is a year of time). ni<sup>n</sup>-hè, years of age. hè-siū, length of life (v. siū). ke-chiáh chit-hè, to live one year more. tsáp-lák-hè-lái, under the 16th year; not above 14, by our reckoning. hè-thâu iáh-tsòe, yet he is of considerable age. kúi-hè, in what year of his age? sa<sup>n</sup>-hè, in his third year; two years old. sa<sup>n</sup>-hè gín-ná, a mere child; might sometimes be only a few days more than one year old. sa<sup>n</sup>-tâng-hè, of the same age. pí<sup>n</sup>-hè, id. lâu-hè, an old man. lín-lâu-hô (T.), your father. lín lâu-hô-ngá (Cn.), id.

hè (R. hò<sup>n</sup>), (C. hòe, Cn. hō), goods. siá<sup>n</sup>-hè, what thing? what is the matter?

hè-hè, very slim and inferior, e.g. too cheap furniture. lám-hè, inferior goods. hè-tóe, remnant of a lot of goods. hè-bé, id. tó-tòe-hè, worthless goods that no one wants. teh-tóe-hè, id. hè-bút, goods. hè-sek, sorts or qualities of goods. hè-pán, a sample. tsáp-hè, mixed goods (v. tsáp). iú<sup>n</sup>-hè, foreign goods (v. iú<sup>n</sup>). liáh su-hè, to seize smuggled goods.

hè-tsu, owner of goods or of cargo. hè-kheh, a travelling merchant or commercial traveller buying or selling. hè-toa<sup>n</sup>, an invoice, bill of lading, or bill of sale (v. toa<sup>n</sup>).

chhut-hè, to sell goods; to unlade goods; to discharge cargo, or deliver goods out of the warehouse, &c. chhut-hè-toa<sup>n</sup>, an order from the Hong to deliver goods at vessel or warehouse (v. toa<sup>n</sup>). chhut-jip-hè, to buy and sell goods. ti-hè, to buy goods. pán-hè, to buy goods for sale or on commission (v. pán). sia-hè, to buy goods on credit. khí-hè, to unlade. pok-hè, to trans-ship goods into smaller vessel or lighter (v. pok). tsài-hè, to transport goods. tah-hè, to send goods. kìà-hè, to send or consign or intrust goods. tsng-hè, to pack up goods. goân-tsng-hè, goods in the original state as made, not made up to look better for sale. tún-hè, to store up goods.

hè [R. hā, leisure], (C. hē). pàng-hè, to dismiss school, at each time of each day, usually three times a day (s. below).

hè (R. hòe), (C. hōe). lê-hè, aloes (v. lê).

hè [R. connected, succession], (C. hē). sè-hè, a genealogical table (C. si-hē).

hè [R. to be, connected], (C. hē). kó-hè, really so (v. kó). m-tsai tí-hè, to know nothing about the matter at all. m-tsai hit-ê tí-hè, id. koan-hè, relation to consequences, esp. as to responsibility or danger (v. koan). kan-hè (r.), id.

hè [R. hā, summer, China], (C. hē, in all cases = A. hā, hē), summer. hè-thi<sup>n</sup>, summer. hè-chì, midsummer day. jip-hè, beginning of summer; May 6th or 7th. lip-hè, id. hē-lêng, the usual sort of summer weather. chhun-hè chhiu-tang, the four seasons. chhun lâm, hē pak; bô-tsui thang boà-bák, south wind in spring and north wind in summer do not bring one drop of rain. hē-ke-chháu, a medicinal plant (v. ke).

hè (C.), = A. hōe. mé-hè, a crab. mng-hè (P.), id. hē-á, small crab found in fields.

hè (R. hā), (C. hē, in every case = A. hā, hē), to lower; to let down; to lay down; to mix, as manure, salt, or poison; to ship; to invest; to vow; often at the end of a clause almost untranslatable, indicating a downward motion.

ū-hè-lòh, well behaved; safe to meddle with (v. lòh). ū sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hē-lòh, what news of him?

hè-goân, to vow formally, as before a god. hí-hè (C.), id. kiú-hè, id. tâu-hè (r.), id. tâu-hè, to vow together. hè-pút, to make a vow to an idol. hè-sin thok-pút, to vow to spirits and idols. hè-tsoá, to make incantations and imprecations (for the injury of others) with burning paper; done for money by childless old hags, because persons with a family dare not, for fear of calamity coming on their family. hè-tsoá tsòe-khiò, id. khiet-lâng hè-tsoá, to be injured by such incantations. hē-lí-than, hē-lí-ò; kàu-si, mih<sup>n</sup> to-bô, said of promising to reward

貨

暇
蓄 系
係 夏

下

歲

a man if he gives help, but failing to keep the promise; said of the idol thé-tí-kong (v. tí).

ki-hē--teh, to write down. siu-hē, to lay up, or lay away, as goods. siu-hē--teh, id. chek-hē, to collect more and more, as things. tiu-hē (Cn.), to throw away. pàng-hē, to lay down (s. leisure). pàng-hē--teh, id. bák-chiu pàng-hē-hē (C. kē-kē), eyes looking down, as very sad, ashamed, or reverential. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hē--teh, just lay it down. hē--teh bin-á-tsái, lay it down for to-morrow's use.

hē-hē, to put goods on board, or into a godown, &c. hē-tsái, to put cargo on board. hē-iām, to ship salt; to sprinkle salt on meat, so as to preserve it. hē-pūi, to manure. hē-tók, to give poison secretly. ká<sup>n</sup>-hē táng-ióh, not afraid to prescribe very powerful medicine, that may kill or cure.

hē-pún, to invest money. hē-lē, to give a bribe. hē-soeh (T.), to give a bribe to one person.

hē-chhiú, to use violence in striking, or in a feud (v. chhiú). hē sí-thú, to strike with a murderous club. hē-bāng, to set a net. hē-phāng (C.), to lower sail. hē-khah-kē (C.), to take in sail.

hē [R. hōe, a society, to meet]; (C. hōe, which is also A. in some phrases), to consult together, to discuss or confess.

hē-thâu, the head manager of a club for mutual benefit. chio-hē, to propose subscriptions for such a club. iô-hē, to raffle for the loan of money in it.

hoe-hē (C. hoa-hōe), a sort of gambling, or rather two sorts, one by an octagonal teetotum with five to eight characters; the other, which is much worse, has thirty-seven characters, and is played by shaking dice without a teetotum. iô-hoe-hē, to shake the dice in the worse sort. hoe-hē-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a gambling place (in a village) for this worse sort. hoe-hē-tâu, the teetotum of the less hurtful sort. lién hoe-hē, to twirl it, as the keeper of the gambling-house does. teh-hoe-hē, to gamble with it, as the player. hoe-hē-pang, board used for this sort.

hē-ōe, to discuss or talk over a matter, with explanations. hun-hē-ōe, id. hun-hē, id. bô-hun bô-hē, without any explanations, e.g. doing a thing without stating before, or before allowing explanation. lí-hē, to discuss a matter with another. biên-hē, to meet together and discuss a disputed matter. hē-siáu, to meet and examine an account. sa<sup>n</sup>-pé-hē (C. siopé-hōe), to discuss a matter so as to come to an agreement, generally by each party yielding a little. kap--i pé-hē, to discuss the matter with him. hē-tsóe, to meet together in order to take common action, e.g. to go together for some purpose.

hē-m-tiôh, to go to a man and confess being wrong, so as to make it up. hē-m-sí, id. hē-put-sí, id. kā--lāng hē-m-tiôh, id. kā-i-hē, id. hē jîn-chêng, to claim credit or thanks for a favour done, either done by one's self or by another whom we say we have influenced to it. hē khang-jîn-chêng, to claim credit for it falsely, e.g. for what we would have done at any rate, or for what another did quite independently of us.

hē<sup>n</sup> (= heh<sup>n</sup>), interjection used in reproving. hē<sup>n</sup> m-thang an-ni<sup>n</sup>, you must not on any account act so.

hē<sup>n</sup> (= hng), yes! (I hear what you say); yes sir!
hē<sup>n</sup> (cf. hái<sup>n</sup>, hi<sup>n</sup>). hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-chhan, to groan incessantly, as a sick man.

heh (T.), = A. heh<sup>n</sup>. sa<sup>n</sup>-heh, to stir up one another to do something.

heh [R. hā, to lower], (C. hē). heh-phāng, to lower the sail (taking it in).

heh (C.), = hah. heh-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze.

heh (cf. heh<sup>n</sup>), interjection of wonder or surprise, sometimes with displeasure. heh tsái<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, how ever is this? heh m-thang, that will never do.

heh<sup>n</sup> (= hé<sup>n</sup>), interjection used in sudden reproving.

heh<sup>n</sup> [R. kek, to incite, to provoke], (T. heh). sa<sup>n</sup>-heh<sup>n</sup>, stirring up each other to do something dangerous, expensive, or difficult. heh<sup>n</sup>-lái heh<sup>n</sup>-khi, id. hông-heh<sup>n</sup>, several persons thus inciting each other to act together. tâu-hông-heh<sup>n</sup>, id. hông-hông heh<sup>n</sup>-heh<sup>n</sup>, acting hurriedly on the spur of the moment, without full consideration.

heh<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. hioh, to rest. toà-heh<sup>n</sup>, to stay, as a guest or visitor, for some time.

heh<sup>n</sup>, noise, as of things broken, or of crockery-ware struck that has a crack in it. oá<sup>n</sup> heh<sup>n</sup>-heh<sup>n</sup>, the bowl gives a bad ring, showing that it is cracked. hâm-heh<sup>n</sup>, sound of coughing or of cracked crockery. hâm-heh<sup>n</sup> ka-sàu, sound of severe coughing, as in consumption.

hek [R. black]. hek-kiu<sup>n</sup>, ginger root burned into charcoal for medicinal use. hek-pék put-hun (black and white not distinguished), innocent person unable to prove his innocence (v. pék). kün-tsu--chiá, chhek: kün-bék--chiá, hek, contact with vermilion makes one red, with ink makes one black; a man becomes like his companions.

hek (R. id.) hién-hek, glorious and illustrious, as a god or spirit that answers prayer.

hek (better "hiet"). pàng-hek-kák, to throw away.

hek (R. id.) hek-chiá, perhaps. hek-sí, perhaps it is —. hek-ká<sup>n</sup> sí an-ni<sup>n</sup> (T.), I should think it may be so.

hek [R. to doubt; to deceive]. gi-hek, to doubt; to suspect, as a person or affair. bê-hek, to lead astray. iú-hek, id. iâu-gièn sièn-hek, to deceive by false and crafty words. tsó-tô hek-chiông, to deceive the multitude by wicked arts, as the Taoist priests.

hek [R. jiòk, flesh]; also (Cn.), = A. bah, flesh, pork. hek-sin, the body. chhin-kut-hek, one's own relations, by blood (not adoptive), as son or brother. hia<sup>n</sup>-tí ná<sup>n</sup> kut-hek, brothers are like our own flesh. siah-kut lóh-hek, very very lean. ē-lâm-hek, meat of a sort of shell-fish. thê-kúi-hek (T.), id.

hek [R. a place]. siū-hek, a grave-site prepared before death.

hek [R. gék, to oppose, = kéh]. hoái<sup>n</sup>-hek, violent, overbearing, and unjust.

hek (Cn.), = A. ék. un-hek, pestilence, epidemic.

hek (Cn.), = A. ék. sōe-hek, to bathe by throwing water over one's self.

heng [R. elder brother, = col. hia<sup>n</sup>]. pau-heng, elder brother by same father. lêng-heng, your elder brother (polite). sê-heng, teacher's son (lit. small elder brother). heng-tê, elder and younger brothers (v. tê).

heng [R. to prosper; to rise], (C. hin). heng-ông, to prosper. teh tng-heng, in great repute for power, as idol. tiông-heng, coming to prosperity after a difficult beginning, as a dynasty. heng-khi, to raise up or make to flourish; to spring up, as a great

下
激
歌
黑
赫
或
惑 肉
域
逆 兄
興

會

激

man. heng-soe, to prosper and to decay. kōe-heng kōe-thè, rapidly prospering and as rapidly decaying. sin-pūt heng, tē-tsú keng, when the idol prospers, its votaries are poor.

siâu-heng, Shau-hing-Foo (v. siâu). heng-hoà, Hing-hwa-foo. heng-tsoân-éng-tō, the Amoy Tautai, ruling Hing-hwa, Chin-chew, and Yung-chun.

heng [R. successful]. heng-thong (R.), to be successful and prosperous, as a man.

heng [R. hiong, the breast]. heng-háh, the chest. heng-chêng, the breast or bosom. heng-keh, the chest; the parts inclosed by the ribs. heng-khám-keh, id. heng-khám, the breast. heng-khám-kut, the breast-bone. khiú heng-khám, to seize a man by the neck of his dress at the breast. khiú-heng-á, id.

hiên-heng, to expose the breast uncovered; to open the outer dress so as to let the inner one appear. tah-heng, to strike the breast with the palm, as in promising to be security. tng-heng, to strike one's breast violently with the palm, as sign of great displeasure, or determination to quarrel; also (C. siàng-heng), to beat the breast with a large stone, as beggars do. túi-heng, to beat the breast with the fist (v. tui).

koe-heng, breast projecting like a fowl's. koe-heng hâu-hiáh: m-sí, iáh-tsòe khít-chiáh, with a breast like a fowl's, and a large forehead like a king-crab, if he don't die, he will be at least a beggar.

phan-heng-thâu (T.), the upper corner of the flap of dress where it buttons at the neck.

heng (P.), = hiong. sòng-heng, = sòng-hiong, poor.

hèng [R. hiông, male]. ah-hèng, a young drake (s. form). ah-hèng-sia<sup>n</sup>, broken voice of a young lad just coming of age. sàu-liáu ah-hèng-sia<sup>n</sup>, deep consumptive sound of voice.

hèng [R. constant, continual]. hèng-hô, the Ganges. hèng-hô sa, sê-hút (Buddhist phrase), Buddhas are innumerable as the sands of the Ganges.

hèng [R. the ancient feudal state of Hing], a surname.

hèng [R. to walk, to go, to act; the elements, = col. kiá<sup>n</sup>]. hèng-tông kú-chí, behaviour. hèng-chí, id. bô-hèng-chí, devoid of good conduct. bô thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, kah bô hèng-chí, utterly devoid of good principles or conduct. hèng-kèng, behaviour. hèng-siân, to live morally. hèng-hiong, to commit crimes of violence (v. hiong). hèng-hèng sù-chí, wicked disorderly conduct. hèng-i, to practise medicine; to act as a doctor (s. return). hèng-hiet, purifying for the blood, as medicine. hèng-pông (R.), to have sexual intercourse with wife or concubine.

kú-hèng, to take action in a matter; to make a beginning of it. thong-hèng, universally prevalent or current; can be used anywhere. kong-hèng, publicly and openly. liú-hèng, to go on in regular course, as nature's operations; to act far and wide, as epidemic. sù-kui liú-hèng, the seasons roll on. un-ék liú-hèng, epidemic prevailing. thien-tê heng-tsai, Heaven and earth send calamities. thien-tsai heng-hô, calamities sent by Heaven.

ngé-hèng, the five elements. ngé-hèng phòe-tah, the five elements (metal, wood, water, fire, earth) duly proportioned in a man's horoscope or appearance, said in fortune-telling.

heng-lí, baggage. bi-hèng, to go incognito, as mandarin. chhùn-pê lân-hèng, cannot go one inch further. pan-hèng thien-hã, to publish all through the world, as a decree. hèng-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to go in procession to offer incense, as mandarins (v. hiu<sup>n</sup>). chhut-hèng, to begin to go from home on a lucky day, esp. at New-Year season. chhut-hèng-jit, a lucky day for that purpose, or for an idol visiting its native place. si-hèng, to leave a card when leaving home for a distance, esp. as mandarins and kulin do, in order to get presents of money in return (s. return). sàng-hèng, to see a man off on a journey. sòng-hèng, id. chiên-hèng, to give a parting feast to a man (v. chiên). sùn-tsú heng-chiu, sailing with the tide; all going well.

hó-hèng-tsé (Cn. chió), graceful gait and demeanor (v. tsé). hèng-thâu, fine clothes. bô-hèng-thâu, having no nice clothes to wear. kúi-niá<sup>n</sup> heng-thâu, how many fine dresses? û-hèng-thiô (Cn.), having fine clothes to wear (v. thiô).

heng-su, the more regular form of the current hand.

hèng (R. id.), form; shape; the embryo in an egg. hèng-tsông, outward form (v. tsông). hèng-siông, form (of man). hèng-hái, shape or appearance of person. hèng-iông, id. hèng-thé, external form. hèng-té, a likeness for detecting a criminal. hèng-sè, shape or form, especially of a hill, as regards its good or bad luck. soa<sup>n</sup>-hèng, shape of hills. lâng-hèng, form of a man. jī sū jīn-hèng, a man's writing is like his appearance. bin-hèng, form of the face.

chêng-hèng, condition and circumstances, as of a matter. hèng-cheh, traces (v. cheh). û-hèng-iá<sup>n</sup>, to have some reality or some foundation in fact (v. iá<sup>n</sup>), = û-éng-hióng.

bú-hèng, feminine look. bú-hèng-thé, id. tsa-bé-hèng, id. chhát-hèng, very coarse, large, and rough in appearance (like a robber). ok-hèng, unpleasant natural appearance of face, as if bad-tempered (v. ok). kúi-hèng, fiend-like. ui-hèng, stern awe-inspiring manner and bearing. bô sim-mih<sup>n</sup> ui-hèng, not very dignified or terrible in appearance. ui-hèng chin-tang, manner exceedingly stern.

piên-hèng, to change one's manner from friendly to unfriendly appearance; to change one's appearance, as when just about to die.

û-hèng, there is an embryo in the egg. ah-hèng, embryo in duck's egg (s. male).

hèng — sèng-hèng, spoiled, as a child; determined, as a beggar [last word or following word?]

hèng [R. cross, perverse, = col. hoái<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. hui<sup>n</sup>, hêng). hèng-gék (Cn. hui<sup>n</sup>-gék), very wicked, vicious, violent, or perverse; especially injurious to others. chhiông-hèng, id. hèng-hèng sù-chí, very wicked disorderly conduct.

hèng [R. to punish; punishment]. heng-hoát, to punish; punishment. tang-hèng, severe punishment. khok-hèng, cruel, unjust, and oppressive (punishment); severe (torture). heng-khú, instruments for punishment or torture, as in yamun.

heng-pê, the board of punishments, at capital; the minister of justice. heng-pang, the official in a yamun who attends to that department of business. heng-hèng, the secretary (su-iá) who attends to legal cases. heng-bèng su-iá, id. heng-bèng chiên-kok, the two principal secretaries in a yamun, managing respectively legal cases and revenue. tng-hèng-tiông, to have the office of beating criminals, &c. (v. tiông).

hèng (R. hoân), (T. hái<sup>n</sup>, Cn. hui<sup>n</sup>, tui<sup>n</sup>, C. hân,

亨
胸雄
恒
刑 行

形

横

刑

還

P. hêng), to return a thing; to pay back; to repay; to send back a thing. sî-hêng, to return, as a present or part of a present that one does not accept (s. walk). sî hêng--i, to decline a thing and return it to him (to the sender). thè-hêng, to send back, as part of goods not wanted. thoa"-hêng, to pay a percentage, as in general average. phi"-hêng, to pay by instalments. tui-hêng, to send and catch a thief so as to get hack stolen property, as mandarins do. hêng-bôe-khí, unable to raise enough to pay, as for another. hêng--i, return it to him. hêng-chè, to pay a debt. hêng-siàu, to pay an account.

hêng — hêng-hêng, with all one's heart; quite in the spirit of a thing; full of desire to do something at once. hêng-hêng sa"-kap-khì, went with him with all his heart. khí-thâu hêng-hêng, bé-chhiú léng-léng, at first very warm for it, afterwards very cool. hêng-hêng tì koe-mûg-chhéng (fond of wearing a dust-brush instead of a feather in his cap), said of a mean fellow making himself very consequential (cf. hêng).

hêng [R. id. by change of tone from "heng," to prosper], (C. hèn), to delight in; to have a fancy for; to desire strongly, often in a somewhat bad sense. hêng-oan-ke, quarrelsome. hêng-siá-jī, fond of writing characters. hêng-chiáh, fond of eating it, as some special sort of food.

kau-hêng, to desire very much; have a fancy for. û-hêng-thâu, having a strong desire to. sim-sek-hêng, have a fancy for something or some pleasure; to take a fancy to. tiòh-i sim-sek-hêng, chiah-beh, must wait till the fancy strikes him, and then he will do it. hoat-hêng, to get quite into the spirit of a thing. chit-tsúi-á hoat-hêng, quite warm in a matter for a short time.

hò-hêng, fond of, as some pleasure; in full spirits for —. hê-hêng (Cn.), id. hò-hêng-lim, fond of drinking. hò-hêng khi soa"-giâm, setting off in high spirits for a walk to hill temples. [All these phrases are used only of several persons together.] [about a matter.

sit-hêng, dispirited; dejected; having lost heart

hêng (T. hāi<sup>n</sup>, Cn. hūi<sup>n</sup>), to make a present. sa"-hêng, id. kap-i sa"-hêng, giving and receiving presents, as intimate friends. hêng-ké, to make presents of cakes and the other offerings after they have been offered to ancestors or spirits. hêng iá-png, to present rice to friends who call soon after hirth of a child (v. png).

hêng [R. to get by chance or had means]. hiau-hêng, by chance; by good-luck, often when not deserved; by had means; not keeping one's promise. hiau-hêng láng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to swindle people. hêng-gū siong-hông (R.), fortunately met.

hêng [R. fortunate]. hêng-tit, fortunately. put-hêng, unfortunately; by had-luck.

hêng — êng-hêng, behaving in an unjust or overbearing way (v. êng). siu"-hêng, lazy; idle. siu"-té-hêng, to neglect one's work or do it in a slipshod inefficient manner. kek-hêng, lazy; idle; unwilling to give any assistance. sng-hêng, lazy; unwilling to give any assistance beyond what our employment compels us to. kau-hêng, lazy and idle; always finding excuses for negligence or overreaching; refusing to do more than can be avoided, or to tell what one ought; cunning, as child good at making excuses for disobedience. óe-lâng kau-hêng, short people are lazy and selfish. óe-lâng bó-hêng, thi"-ê thàipêng, if short people were not lazy and selfish, the world would be peaceful and happy.

hêng [R. conduct; behaviour; by change of tone from "hêng" to walk]. phín-hêng, behaviour. tek-hêng, id. û tek-hêng, of good character. bô-tek-hêng, of had character. hó-tek-hêng, good character and conduct.

siu-hêng, to reform and live morally. hàu-hêng, filial piety. toán-hêng, wickedly and secretly injuring others. chhàu-hêng, wickedly injuring people.

sim-hêng, character of heart, as good or had. û sim-hêng, good at contriving how to do anything. toá-sim-hêng, avaricious, covetous, venturous. chhàu-sim-hêng, wickedly injuring others. phái"-sim tók-hêng, very wicked and injurious in heart and conduct. hó-sim hó-hêng, of good character and conduct. hó-sim hó-hêng, bô-sa<sup>n</sup> thang-chhêng, well-behaved people have no clothes to wear.

hêng [R. the almond]. hêng-jin, almonds. kam-hêng, do., as medicinal. hêng-hoe, the almond plant or flower. hêng-hoa (C.), id. khé-hêng, kernels of the hitter peach (medicinal). gún-hêng, a white medicinal nut (gingko? Salishuria adianthifolia?), = péh-ké-á.

hêng (R. hiên), (T. hāng, Cn. hūi<sup>n</sup>). hêng-chhài, a sort of vegetable (Chenopodium?).

hí [R. good fortune or happiness]. hó sin-hí, to make congratulations in the first days of the year.

hí [R. glory or prosperity]. khong-hí, the reign of Khang-hí. khong-hí-kun, the emperor Khang-hí. khong-hí jī-tián, the Imperial Chinese Dictionary.

hí (R. id.) hók-hí, Fuh-hí, one of the most ancient emperors.

hí [R. to heat; to roast]. tsu-hí, Choo-he (Chu-hí), or Choo-foo-tsze, the great commentator. tsu-hí-kong, id.

hí [R. a pleasing appearance]. chhiò hi-hí, smiling pleased look. hi-hí-chhiò, to laugh with pleased look and mouth open.

hí — hi-hí-háu, to make a constant talking.

hí — àn-hí, = àn-ní, thus (rare and local phrase).

hí (C.), = A. hu, empty.

hí (R. id.), few; scanty. hi-bí, id. hi-hán, rare (v. hán). hi-bê, very thin-boiled rice. bê hi-hí, the rice very thin hoiled. chhit-sip ké-lâi-hí, from ancient times few men reach seventy years.

hí (R. hu), = hu, a market held on fixed days; a market-village. sí-hí, a market-day. hi-tiú<sup>n</sup>, market-place. hi-tô, a passage-boat to or from a market. ti-á-hí, a pig-market.

koá<sup>n</sup>-hí, to come to market. lòh-hí, id. hù-hí, to reach the market in good time. hi soá<sup>n</sup>, the market broken up.

hí (R. gú), (T. hū, Cn. hū), a fish. kui-á-hí, a tadpole. bák-hí, the cuttle-fish. gún-hí, a long white worm-shaped fish (not silver fish). kim-hí, gold fish or silver fish. kim-hí-soe, floating weeds in jars of gold or silver fish.

péh-hí, a sort of edible fish. tiò-péh-hí, a sort of game; to play at it. khia-péh-hí, to stand on one's hands with head down. péh-hí-á (C.), the book-worm.

si<sup>n</sup> té-hí, to have a long sore on the calf of the leg. hi-jī, a fish-bait. hi-chhi<sup>n</sup>, edible marine animals in general. hi-kí, dorsal fins. hi-iét, pectoral fins. hi-sit, fins. hi-chhì, shark's fins (edible). hi-nng,

悻

興

倖

幸

行

杏

苜
禧
熙
義 熹
喜

稀
墟

魚

roe, spawn. hí-chí, dried and salted roe. hí-pa, dried fish. hí-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. kiâm-hí, salted fish. hí-siū<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. hí-pé, small dried fish, slightly salted and moist. hí-bé-chhe, a fish's forked-tail. ôe, chhêng kàu ná<sup>n</sup> hí-bé-chhe--nih<sup>n</sup>, shoes worn till like a fish-tail.

thó-hí, to fish. pha-hí, to fish with large nets. tsan-hí, to fish with the smaller net called "tsan."

chit-bé ná<sup>n</sup>-hí--nih<sup>n</sup>, having on no clothes whatever. tsúi chheng, hí hiên, said of a man's innocence getting justice at last. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsúi-hí jip kiâm-tsúi-káng, quite out of his element.

hí (R. pí), (= hit), that, those (pronoun). hí-tau, there. tí-hí-lāi, inside there. tí-hí toh-téng, on that table. án-hí (T. C.), thus.

hí [R. hú, to promise]. hí-hē (C.), to make a vow.

hí [R. to rejoice, joy]. hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to rejoice; to be pleased. hoa<sup>n</sup>-hoa<sup>n</sup> hí-hí, very much pleased, and manifesting it. hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí kàu tióh-poáh, so full of joy as to stumble. kiò-hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to call out and give orders solely for the pleasure of giving orders. hoah-hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, id., or as calling out on a hill for amusement in exuberant spirits.

kióng-hí to congratulate; I congratulate you, sir! hó-hí, to congratulate. tàu-hí, to make a call of congratulation. pò-hí, to announce specially good news, esp. as omen (v. pò). hí-chhiok, = kheh-chiáu, a sort of magpie; a good-omened bird. ngiá hí-sín, an idolatrous procession of military mandarins in spring. tsòe-hí-khêng, Taoist rites for good luck on joyful occasions (v. khêng). chiáh-hí-chiú, to be at a feast on some auspicious occasion, esp. a marriage. hí-sū, matter for much congratulation, e.g. birth of son. ū hí-sū, said of wife conceiving. song-hí-sū, births, deaths, marriages, &c., with their ceremonies. jip-mûng hí, to have a son as soon as possible in course of nature after the marriage. chhut-bún kièn-hí, to meet with a good omen or good news on going out of doors.

hí-siá, to give joyfully, as alms (v. siá).

hí (R. hui), (Cn. hui), the lungs; the lights of an animal. hí-kúg, the wind-pipe. hí-iong, a deep abscess near the lungs. hí-hú, the lungs and another great internal organ (v. hú). lūn-hí, to mollify the lungs, so as to cure coughing or want of voice.

tí-hí, pig's lights.

hí — hah-hí, to gape. hí-hí-chhiò, to smile and laugh (pleased) with mouth open.

hí [R. to sport, a play], a play. chit-pí<sup>n</sup>-hí, one play. chit-chhut-hí, an act of a play.

hí-hiok, to talk bad language and low jesting together, esp. of women or children. hí-hiauh, id. hí-lāng, to make improper jokes and gestures, &c., towards a woman, as a man with bad intention.

kun-tiong bú-hí-gièn (no jokes in the army), it is too serious a matter for joking. hui tông-jí-hí (R.), this is no child's play. khún iú-kong, hí bú-ek, diligence is useful, but amusement is useless.

poa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to act a play. poa<sup>n</sup>-káu-hí, to have a play with monkeys (as beggar), or a play in which a pig and a monkey are represented. chhut-hí, to begin a play. thò-hí, to rehearse a play. tsng-hí, to follow the business of an actor. pák-lāng tsng-hí, to apprentice and hire out (as one's son) for a long term of years to an actor. khòa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to look at a play. tiah-hí, to select the play for performance. chéng-hí, to engage a company to play for us. tè-hí, to be fond of seeing plays, esp. following one particular company; often includes the idea of lasciviousness. toà-hí, to keep a theatrical company at one's house, hiring them out for plays.

tng-hí-koà, to observe what sort of a play one chances to meet with, and take an omen from it for one's fortune. hoát hí-toh, to exact as a forfeit the expense of a play and a feast.

tsòe-pá-hí, jugglery; idle play (v. pá). tsok kéng-á-hí, transparencies like magic lantern. tsóá-íá<sup>n</sup>-hí, id. ka-lé-hí, puppet-shows (v. lé). pè-té-hí, another sort of puppet-shows. sèng-siū-hí, plays on birthday of emperor or empress. chiá<sup>n</sup>-im-hí, plays in mandarin dialect. toà-hí, colloquial plays by adults. lāu-hí, id. tàu-lāu-hí, actors clubbing together in a company without a head, and leaving when they choose; fig. of man and woman cohabiting without marriage, just so long as they like. hí-á, a play in the Chin-chew dialect by boys. hoe-hí, a play of a lascivious character.

hí-chí<sup>n</sup>, money subscribed for idolatrous plays. hí-phûn, plays for the dead (v. phûn). hí-toa<sup>n</sup>, a list of plays from which the idol selects one. hí-p<sup>n</sup>, a stage for temporary use. hí-pí<sup>n</sup>-kha, round about the stage, as among the spectators. hí-tái, a permanent stage, as before a temple. hí-koán, a house where actors lodge. hí-hók, theatrical dresses. hí-láng, sort of box for carrying them.

hí-pan, a company of actors. hí-á-pan, young actors. hí-kiòh, an actor, esp. of mandarin dialect and of lower class. chhit-kiòh-hí pò bân-peng, seven actors saying they are ten thousand soldiers; said of a little money or a few things going a great way. hí-seng, a male character. hí-toà<sup>n</sup>, a female character (always done by men). hí-khóeh, a sort of clown in a play; a man who talks or acts ludicrously to make people laugh. hí-siu<sup>n</sup>, a man who doats on a company of actors, esp. on those who represent females (v. siu<sup>n</sup>). hí-chhoàng, id. hí-tú (T.), id.

hiám-hí bóh-chhiá<sup>n</sup>; chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hí bóh-hiám, if you don't like them don't hire them, if you hire them don't find fault. sek-sek-hí poáh-lóh pí<sup>n</sup>-kha, the most skilful actor sometimes falls from the stage.

hí (C. hui<sup>n</sup>-hí, waste and uncultivated, as land.

hí (R. jí<sup>n</sup>, ní<sup>n</sup>), the ear; handles of a jar or hod, &c. chhèng-hí, touch-hole of a gun. àng-hí, handles of a large jar. lák-hí, the two supports of a mast at the side. thê-lāng-hí, projection on rim of mill for cleaning rice, having a hole for the hook by which it is turned. sa<sup>n</sup>-hí-á, a sort of basket used in building. kau-nái<sup>n</sup>-hí, the 163d or 170th radical, as written at the side (v. kau).

kau-hí, an ear-pick (v. kau). hí-kau, an ear-ring. hí-túi, id. hí-khoân (T.), id. hí-to, small knife for cleaning the inside of the ear. hí-chí<sup>n</sup>, arrows stuck in the ears of delinquent soldiers.

hí-á, the ear, as a whole. hí-á-kun, the veins at back of ear. hí-á-ki<sup>n</sup>, rim of the ear. hí-á-âu, the part of the head covered by the flap of the ear behind. hí-á-tún, large lobe of ear. hí-tún, id. hí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, tympanum of the ear. hí-khang-kúi, id. phah-phái<sup>n</sup> hí-khang-kúi, to injure the tympanum by too much picking. hí-khang-kúi ki-ki-háu, a ringing in the ears. hí-khang háu, id. hí-khang, the orifice of the ear; the ear, in relation to hearing. hí-àng-á, the cavity of the ear. hí-hiòh, the large flap of the ear. hí-tsu, the lower lobe of the ear. hí-tí, the small lobe that almost covers the orifice.

彼
許 喜

肺

氣

戲
戲

耳

chhàu-hi-lâng, deaf. iú<sup>n</sup>-hī, ear always moist and needing to be cleaned. si<sup>n</sup> hi-àng-á, ear suppurating. chhàu-hi-àng-á, id. si<sup>n</sup>-hī-that, to have a growth in the ear, stopping it. hī-that, flaps of coarse yellow mourning cap covering the ears, signifying that the mourner is to have no ear for worldly matters.

hī-khang khin, ready to believe or follow whatever one is told, however absurd. hī-khang tâng, dull of hearing. hī-khang lái, sharp at hearing. hī-khang-lái, within the ear.

poá<sup>n</sup>-hī, to shake the ears (v. poá<sup>n</sup>). chi<sup>n</sup> hī-á, to pull the ears. kng<sup>n</sup>-hī, to bore the ear (as of a pig) for a ring. tsng<sup>n</sup>-hī, to bore the human ear. lién<sup>n</sup>-hī, to brush the ear, as barber. chhò<sup>n</sup>-hī, to stun the ears. kóng kàu toá<sup>n</sup>-phoá láng-hi-khang, to talk so much about what a man wishes not to hear, as to split his ears. phah-chih láng hi-khang-mng, to speak to a man so unjustly or unreasonably as to make him very angry. kéh--chih láng hi-khang-mng, id. kéh-tú<sup>n</sup> láng hi-khang-mé<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. phah-kéh láng &c. (C.), id. kéh-hī, making people unwilling to listen, as unreasonable talk. thia<sup>n</sup>--liáu kéh-hī, unwilling to listen to what has been said. thia<sup>n</sup> kàu pá<sup>n</sup>-hī, having heard so much that we don't wish to hear more. bô-jip-hī ê-ôe, what one does not like to hear. chit-hī jip, hit-hī chhut, in at one ear and out at the other. thia<sup>n</sup>-lòh-hī, to hear and understand distinctly. thia<sup>n</sup> bô-lòh-hī, to hear indistinctly. thia<sup>n</sup>--liáu tá<sup>n</sup>-hī (Cn.), to hear indistinctly, so as to mistake. ui hi-khang, to pick the ears. ui hi-khang, chêng-chêng-thia<sup>n</sup>, clean your ears, and listen attentively (may include the idea of not speaking or meddling).

û-hī bô-chhùi, hear but must not report; said to a child. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-pia<sup>n</sup> û-hī, walls have ears, take care what you say. thia<sup>n</sup>-hī thia<sup>n</sup>-pia<sup>n</sup>, to listen secretly, as an eaves-dropper. goá-koá ti-hī-á bé-liu, I hang it at the corner of my ear; I don't care much for what you say. goá-kui &c., id. ti-thâu-chhùi pùn-ki-hī, mouth like a hoe and ears like a hod; I am not good at speaking nor able to understand what is said (humble language).

koái<sup>n</sup>-kê-hī, ears of different size. hī-á toá-tùi, ears large, sign of good luck in making money. thâu chiam, hī-tún pòh, face long and ears thin, supposed not to get rich. thâu chiam, hī pòh, id. kâu-thâu chhú-hī (monkey's head and rat's ears), very ugly. thâu phoá, hī úih, head severely wounded. chhàu-thâu noá<sup>n</sup>-hī, head all over boils, &c.

hé-hi-chháu, a small plant used in pots round the roots of other plants (the leaf is like a tiger's ear), used for diseases of the ear; said also of a daughter brought up, as just in order to look well, though she might very well be dispensed with.

hī<sup>n</sup> — hi<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>-chhan, to groan. chhan hi<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup>, id.; sound of sobbing, as of children. hī<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of child crying or constantly asking for things; sound of flies or mosquitoes. háu-hi<sup>n</sup> (vulg.), said in scolding children for crying or people for asking things.

hī<sup>n</sup> (C.), to sob, as a bride on leaving her mother.

hī<sup>n</sup> (T.) àn-hi<sup>n</sup>, = àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, thus.

hī<sup>n</sup> [R. hién, a string]. hī<sup>n</sup>-soe, the reed of a loom. hī<sup>n</sup> tsàng, the reed and the perpendicular threads (v. tsàng). hī<sup>n</sup>-soe khàu-tsàng, id. hī<sup>n</sup>-so, a shuttle. hī<sup>n</sup>-kui (C.), a loom.

khia<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>--ê, stake-nets, = khia<sup>n</sup>-bāng.

hī<sup>n</sup> [R. pí, = col. hit, &c.] àn-hi<sup>n</sup> àn-hiù<sup>n</sup> (C.), unsettled in purpose, varying back and forwards. àn-hi<sup>n</sup> (T.), thus, in this way, said in giving orders to do so and so.

hī<sup>n</sup> (T.) àn-hi<sup>n</sup>-sī, that way. àn-hi<sup>n</sup>, á-sī àn-chi<sup>n</sup>, shall it be this way or that way?

hī<sup>n</sup> (C.) mé<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>, a small cricket that makes this sound, = chhiu-sién.

hī<sup>n</sup>, to toss up or throw away. hī<sup>n</sup>-hiet-kák, to throw away. hī<sup>n</sup>--khi lái, to toss up. hī<sup>n</sup>-lòh-hái, to toss into the sea. hng-hng hi<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup>, all in disorder, as a room.

ió-kha hi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to swagger about, moving one's limbs excessively. lê-nih<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>, to swing or shake from side to side. hi<sup>n</sup> chhien-chhiu, to swing a swing.

pàng-hi<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to throw away. hi<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup> (An. L.), id. hi<sup>n</sup>-tàn-tā<sup>n</sup> (An. L.), id.

hī<sup>n</sup> (R. hién), an ink-stone, for rubbing down ink. siáh-hī<sup>n</sup>, a marble ink-stone. khui-hī<sup>n</sup>, to make an ink-stone. pit-bák-hī<sup>n</sup>, pen, ink, and ink-stone. pit-bák tsoá<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup>, do. and paper.

hī<sup>n</sup>-áh, case for ink-stone. hī<sup>n</sup>-tí, hollow for the water in it. hī<sup>n</sup>-ô, do. in large stone for writing large characters. hī<sup>n</sup>-tsô (C.), id.

hī<sup>n</sup> (cf. hī<sup>n</sup>). hī<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup>-chhoán, to pant and gasp. thó-khui hī<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup> (esp. C.), to groan, sob, and pant bitterly.

hia (R. id.), a boot. hia-tháng, the leg of a boot. hia-àng, id. phê-hia, leather boots. iú-hia, boots with soles soaked in "thàng" oil. chién-hia, boots for defending the leg in war. oân-thâu-hia, boots with round toes, used by civil mandarins. chiam-bé-hia, boots with sharp toes, used by military officers. phoá-hia-tóng, broken-down literati, who make a living by frightening people, and sharing money with underlings of yamuns.

hia, a ladle, a scoop, a very small hand-net; to catch with a small hand-net. tsúi-hia, a scoop for lading out water. chhe<sup>n</sup>-hia, one for lading out manure. pùn-hia, bucket on a pole for manure. hâu-hia, a ladle made of the king-crab shell. pú-hia, a ladle made of a gourd, or of wood. chhâ-hia, a wooden one. chhâ--ê pú-hia, id. hī-hia, a small hand-net shaped like a ladle. bāng-hia, one for scooping fish out of a large net. báng-hia, band-net for catching mosquitoes. chhu-hia, one for catching larvæ.

hia-chhu, to catch larvæ in a small hand-net. hia-báng, to catch mosquitoes thus.

hia [R. pí, that, those, there], there. tī-hia, id. hia-ê, those.

hia [R. hoa, a flower]. hia-pai, ostentatious, dashing, gaudy (v. pai). hia-pai<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

hia — hia-chia, very cumbersome, as large piece of furniture.

hia (T.) sek-hia pút-tsé, = sek-kia, Shakyamuni or Buddha.

hiá (= jiá). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hiá, to make a bow; to bow.

hiá (R. óá), (Cn. hoá), a tile, for roof. chhù-hiá, roof-tiles. hiá-iú<sup>n</sup>, outer and inner tiles for roof. tsng-phiah-hiá, tiles and bricks of all sorts. hoe-thâu-hiá, tiles with a point turned down, used at eaves. thi<sup>n</sup>-thang-hiá, tiles with bit of glass or oyster-shell in the middle, for light.

hiá-hoe, fragile partition with wide spaces made of tiles placed diagonally, as on the top of a wall. hiá-

彼
彼

棄

硯

靴

彼
花

迦

瓦

壽

絃

iô, a tile-work. hiā-tsô, a boat carrying tiles. hiā-tsô, alternate rows (raised and depressed) of tiles on a roof. hiā-tâng, semicycliclrical tiles for roofs. hiā-thâng, id. hiā-to, a bricklayer's trowel for breaking and laying bricks, &c. hiā-sien, small worms like centipedes. hiā-san (Cn.), id.

chhù-hiā-phê, broken bits of tiles. hiā-phia<sup>n</sup>-phòe (C.), id. (v. phia<sup>n</sup>).

khioh-hiā, to lay tiles on a roof, in the usual Chinese way. nî<sup>n</sup>-hiā, id.

hiā (R. gí), an ant. thâng-hiā, ants and other creeping things. âng-hiā, red ants. káu-hiā, the common small ant. káu-hiā-phang, a small but venomous wasp. káu-hiā pài thi<sup>n</sup>-tôe, ants worshipping Heaven and earth; a man of low condition, as quite unworthy to see a man of very high rank. âng-sng-hiā gâu-phi<sup>n</sup>-chê, good at finding what is for one's own interest (v. phi<sup>n</sup>). pèh-hiā, white ants. chhiū<sup>n</sup> pèh-hiā, to breed white ants. pèh-hiā-thê, the covered ways made by white ants. tiòh-hiā, to have white ants in it. toā-tsúi-hiā, winged ants that appear in or before wet weather. hong-hiā, id. lâm-hong-hiā, id. kan-hiā (C.), white ants breeding in roof without communication with the ground.

hiā (R. heng). hia<sup>n</sup>-hia<sup>n</sup>, very strong-smelling, as new paint, or as a very strong-smelling flower. phi<sup>n</sup>--liáu hia<sup>n</sup>-hia<sup>n</sup>, it smells very strong. hia<sup>n</sup>-loáh, strong-scented and pungent; having much wealth or influence. miá<sup>n</sup>-jī hia<sup>n</sup>-loáh, held in much reputation, as a rich, influential, or famous man. chhàu-hia<sup>n</sup>-lo (T.), having a smoked taste.

hiā (R. heng), an elder brother (used as a suffix to names of men); a cousin, or man of the same genealogical rank, older than we. toā-hia<sup>n</sup>, eldest brother. jī-hia<sup>n</sup>, second eldest brother. chhin-hia<sup>n</sup>, real elder brother by same father. tông-hia<sup>n</sup>, elder cousin or man of same genealogical rank, of same surname. piáu-hia<sup>n</sup>, cousin of different surname. siā-hia<sup>n</sup>, a fellow-villager (v. siā). hia<sup>n</sup>-só, elder brother's wife. hia<sup>n</sup>-bê, elder brother and his younger sister (e.g. speaking of only these two remaining of the family).

thâu-hia<sup>n</sup>, head of a gang of thieves. sai-hia<sup>n</sup>, an elder apprentice or elder Taoist priest, said by the younger. chhoàng-hia<sup>n</sup>, a dandy fast licentious young fellow. khê-hia<sup>n</sup>, paramour of a bad woman, khòe-hia<sup>n</sup>, id. gī-hia<sup>n</sup> (esp. C.), id. hia<sup>n</sup>-ko, id. hia<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id.

hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, brothers, in general; also said of cousins, esp. of same surname; members of the same society. pêng-iú tī-hia<sup>n</sup>, all you gentlemen and friends! bô-hia<sup>n</sup> bô-tī, having no brothers at all. chhin hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, brothers by the same father. phah-hé, tiòh chhin-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, in hunting tigers brothers should be used as assistants. phah-hé liáh-chhát, tiòh chhin-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, do., or in seizing robbers. siang-pak hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, brothers by the same parents. chek-peh hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, cousins (of same surname), or wider. chhin-tông hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, cousins of same surname; men of same surname and of equal genealogical rank. tông-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, id. chiông-tông hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, second cousins of same surname. keh-kai<sup>n</sup> hia<sup>n</sup>-tī (T.), first or second cousins of same surname. piáu-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, cousins of different surnames.

hòe-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, members of a society. oā<sup>n</sup>-thiap hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, men who have exchanged cards to make sworn brotherhood. bêng-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, sworn brothers and confederates. kiet-gī hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, id. kiet-pài hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, do. still more intimate, looking on each other's parents as their own. hó-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, title of spirits worshipped in the "phê-tê" ceremonies in 7th month.

toā-thâu-hia<sup>n</sup> (C.), sometimes said euphemistically for a tiger.

hia<sup>n</sup> (T. phia<sup>n</sup>). hâu-hia<sup>n</sup>-phê, broken fragments of tiles.

hiā (R. hóng). kia<sup>n</sup>-hiā<sup>n</sup>, to fear greatly; much frightened.

hiā<sup>n</sup>, to add more fuel; to warm up. hiā<sup>n</sup>-hé, to put on more fuel. hiā<sup>n</sup>-chhâ thi<sup>n</sup>-hé, id. hiā<sup>n</sup>-kún, to cause to boil. hiā<sup>n</sup>-sio, to warm up, but not so hot as "kún." koh hiā<sup>n</sup>-sio, to warm up again. hiā<sup>n</sup> sio-tsúi, to warm water.

hiā<sup>n</sup>, a bulk-head in a boat or junk. tiām-hiā<sup>n</sup>, timbers that are placed across the keel. it-á-hiā<sup>n</sup>, the front bulk-head. thâu-hiā<sup>n</sup>, id. lâi-kia<sup>n</sup>-hiā<sup>n</sup>, id. thâu-kap-á-hiā<sup>n</sup>, the second bulk-head. toā-té-hiā<sup>n</sup>, the bulk-head at the widest part. a-pan-hiā<sup>n</sup>, the middle bulk-head. bé-hiā<sup>n</sup>, the flat stern of the boat.

hiā<sup>n</sup> (cf. hiah<sup>n</sup>). hiā<sup>n</sup>-bák, to catch the eyes, as gaudy goods. hiā<sup>n</sup>-tiū<sup>n</sup>, flurried, losing presence of mind, as at examinations, or before a superior, or when meeting with several persons for business.

hiá<sup>n</sup>-hiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), too hurried and off-hand in doing things.

hiā<sup>n</sup> [R. hiòng, to lean towards; formerly; = col. òng, hiù<sup>n</sup>], to lean over; to lean, as a tottering wall. hiā<sup>n</sup>-hiā<sup>n</sup>, leaning to one side; off the perpendicular (of men or things). hiá<sup>n</sup>-sin, leaning backwards. khah-hiá<sup>n</sup>, id. hiá<sup>n</sup>-âu, leaning backwards; to fall behind the rest of the row, as one house in a street; said also of woman's hair all combed back. hiá<sup>n</sup>-chêng, leaning forwards, as wall. hiá<sup>n</sup>-khui, to lean backwards to avoid something, as child unwilling to be embraced; to draw back from what one has promised.

tsúi hiá<sup>n</sup>, the tide just beginning to ebb. hiá<sup>n</sup>-lâu, id.

hiá<sup>n</sup>-sī, at that time (past); formerly.

hiā<sup>n</sup> (R. ngái<sup>n</sup>), a plant (Artemisia) used for cauterizing and for tinder. chhi<sup>n</sup>-hiā<sup>n</sup>, id. hiā<sup>n</sup>-ho (C.), id. chhah-hiā<sup>n</sup>, to hang up Artemisia on 5.5 (v. chhah).

hé-hiā<sup>n</sup>, tinder. hé-hiā<sup>n</sup>-khoeh, a tinder-box.

hiā<sup>n</sup> (C.) nâ<sup>n</sup>-hiā<sup>n</sup>, = A. kiá<sup>n</sup>, the bent handle of a basket.

hiāh (Cn. hoah), so—; just so—. hiah-tîng, so long (linear). hiah-tsòe, so many. kàu-hiah-tsòe, so very many! kah-hiah-tsòe, id. m-sái hiah-tsòe, no need of so many. hiah-kú, so long (in time), (v. kú).

hiáh (R. gèk), the forehead. thâu-hiáh, id. hiáh-chêng, id. hiáh-hún, wrinkles on forehead. hiáh-kak, the projecting parts of the forehead above the outer corners of the eyes. hiáh-bái, the part of the forehead just above the eyebrows; an ornament worn on the forehead by women, children, and actors. pák hiáh-bái, to wear the ornament called "ê-kun-khe" on the forehead. pau hiáh-bái, to tie a black ribbon (ê-kun) on the brow, as women. hiáh-kha, the middle of the forehead just below the boundary of the hair. hiáh-kha tsòe, the dividing line of the hair nearly level across the brow, counted beautiful in women. hiáh-kha khâm-khâm, the hair growing far down on the forehead, making it seem low and small. thâu-hiáh khâm-khâm, id., sign of a toilsome miserable life. thâu-mûg khâm-khâm, id.

惶
燃
橫

向

艾

額

蟻

兄

hiáh<sup>n</sup> - cũ = formerly hiáh<sup>n</sup>

hiáp

khok-hiáh, having a very projecting forehead. liù-hiáh, bald on forehead and crown of head. hâu-hiáh, having a projecting forehead like a king-crab (v. heng, "breast"). tok-hiáh, to wound the forehead with a stone (as beggar) to excite compassion. phòà-hiáh, id. kiáh pè-put, ka-kī kòng-hiáh, to raise a matter that injures one's self.

tsàu-hiáh, the flat top of a cooking-place round the rice-boiler (v. tsàu).

hiáh<sup>n</sup>, to carry with the hands or arms, esp. with both (but not by placing them evenly below, which is "phâng"). hiáh<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to carry clothes; to go away with clothes. thau-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, to steal, as clothes. chit toà-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, a large quantity (as of clothes, &c.), such as must be carried between the arms.

hiáh<sup>n</sup> [R. hek, to threaten, frightened], (cf. hiá<sup>n</sup>), to start suddenly; to get a start. hiáh<sup>n</sup>--chit-ê, to start suddenly. tah-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, to start. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup> tah-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, id. hê--lâng tah-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, to make a man start.

hê-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, careless; hurried; acting thoughtlessly or flurried, so as to spoil or break things. hóng-hiáh<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. táng-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-hê-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, careful or thoughtful in action. hê-hê hiáh<sup>n</sup>-hiáh<sup>n</sup>, very careless, thoughtless, or flurried.

hiáh<sup>n</sup>— chhiú hiáh<sup>n</sup>-khui, to throw out one's arms rapidly, as in excited discourse.

hiáh<sup>n</sup>, = hiáh<sup>n</sup>, to start suddenly.

hiák (C.), = A. hiok. hì-hiák, to sport or joke in a low vile way.

hiám — chhàu-hiam-hiam, very stinking.

hiám (Cn. An.), = A. iam. hō-hiam, = hé-iam, a fire-shovel.

hiám (R. id.), to find fault with; to censure; to blame; to scold. sa<sup>n</sup>-hiám, to dislike each other. hoân-hiám, to excite suspicion; to be found fault with; to meet with censure. hiáp-hiám, to harbour quarrelsome feeling. hiám-kùi, to object to it as too dear. hiám-sòe, to find fault with it as too small. bô-hiám tiòh-boá, willing to take any trouble to get it done. hiám-hì bôh-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hì bôh-hiám, if you dislike the play, don't hire them; if you hire them, don't find fault.

hiám (R. id.), dangerous; in danger of; almost (of harm or danger). hiám-hiám, id. hiám-phòà, in imminent danger of being broken. hóng-hiám, dangerous; in great danger, as affair or disease. gûi-hiám, dangerous. hiám, chiah-si hiám, the danger was very great indeed. lāng-hiám, to risk. līm-hiám, to get into great and imminent danger.

hiám-iâu, important, as a pass. hiám-ài, id. kù-hiám, to guard an important pass.

kan-hiám, dishonest, roguish. hiau-hiám, id.; ungrateful, returning evil for good; very dangerous, as affair. kan-hiau-hiám, very dishonest, ungrateful, and scheming, as a rogue. tsún-sim kan-hiau-hiám, constantly and desperately wicked.

hiám (R. hám), to shout loud; to bawl out. hoah-hiám, id., as to a man at a distance. hiám-sia<sup>n</sup>, id. hiám-kiò, id. kiò-hiám, id. hiám-tò-túg, to shout and call back. hiám-oan, to make a loud shouting and noise in calling on a mandarin for redress.

hiám-chhát, to shout, "Thief!" hiám-kiù, to shout for help. hiám-kiù-lāng, id. hiám-kiù-hê (Cn.), id.

hiám chhiám-á, to gamble by drawing lots and calling out.

hián, hián, hián, hián, hián, hián; better hien, hiên, hién, hiên, hiên (q.v.)

hiang [R. hong, a village, = col. hui<sup>n</sup>]. hiang-tâm (Cn. hong-tâm), local dialect. li-hiang, put-lī khang, one may leave his native place, but can't get rid of his native dialect.

hiang (C.), = A. hong (village).

hiang [R. hong, incense, fragrant]. hiang-iú, fragrant oil, edible. hiang (C.), = A. hong, incense, fragrant.

hiang (C.) khau-to-hiang, shavings planed from wood.

hiáng (R. hóng), to resound; to sound loud and long, or echo. hiáng-liáng, clear and loud; far-sounding. hiáng-keng, a small humming instrument on a paper kite. hiáng-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a small gong used by Buddhist priests; a musical instrument made with five little bells like cups. phah chhit-hiáng, to play on these five musical cups. jin, put-soat put-ti; kó, put-tá<sup>n</sup> put-hiáng, said of a man not acknowledging a great favour done him.

hiáng — hiáng-bé, a highway-robber who levies black-mail. hiáng-bé-chhát, id.

hiáng (C.), = A. hóng, to enjoy.

hiàng (C.), = A. hiàng, towards. chē-hiàng, direction of house or grave.

hiàng (C.), = A. hiàng, customs' dues.

hiap, to refuse to return a thing lent or intrusted, or money due. hiap-lāng, id. kiông-hiap, do., because we are more powerful. kiông-kiông-hiap, id.

hiap (C.), = A. hip, to cover up.

hiap (P.), = hip. hiap-chiòh, the loadstone.

hiáp [R. the ribs; to intimidate]. hiáp-kut, the ribs. pek-hiáp, to compel a man, under great pressure, to do something wrong, e.g. to join an illegal society.

hiáp [R. to carry under the arm; to hide in the bosom; to extort; cf. col. ngòh].

hiáp-chè, to force a man, by intimidation or by improper pressure of influence, to do what he does not like. kiông-kiông hiáp--khì (= hiap), to refuse to pay a debt, &c., manifestly due, simply trusting to one's power.

hiáp-oàn, to harbour enmity. hiáp-hūn, id. hiáp-hiám, to cherish in one's mind the determination to have a quarrel with a man.

hiáp [R. to bend or break], to shake or bend back and forwards in order to loosen or break. hiáp-chih, to break by bending back and forwards. hiáp-khui, to unfasten by shaking so. hiáp--khí-lái, to loosen by shaking back and forwards so as to pull it out, as a nail or post. hiáp hê-i-lê, id., as a plant to be pulled up.

hiáp [R. united, harmonious], a colonel, or nearly so, one grade above "chham-hú," and just below "tín-tái." hiáp-tái, id. heng-hoà-hiáp, the "hiáp" in command at Hing-hwa. hiáp-toà, an officer who assists the officer (tsóng-toà) in command of a body of troops. hiáp-pân, an assistant mandarin for some special matter; assistant mandarin in custom-house or some other public offices. hiáp-pân tái-hák-sū, certain high officials at the court (v. hák).

hō-hiáp, of one mind and acting together (in lawful things). hiáp-hô (R.), id. tâng-sim hiáp-lék, with one heart and united strength.

嚇

歛 嫌

險

喊

鄉

香

響

响

挾

脇

挾

協

協

bô-hiáp, not executed melodiously, or not harmonious, as music.

hiat, hiát; better, hiet, hiét (q.v.) hiáu — hiáu-tó, to over-act by first slightly raising up (while "chhia" is a mere horizontal motion). hiáu-hiet-kák, to throw away, as out of a tray by tossing it upwards.

hiáu (R. id.) hiáu-hēng, got by chance or by bad means (v. hēng).

hiáu [R. a very wicked bird]. hiáu-hiōng, cunning, roguish, and wicked.

hiáu [R. id. ? perhaps more than one word; cf. also the two words above], wicked, perverse, crafty; deceitful, unfaithful; refuse to perform duty, as to pay a debt or fulfil a promise; (warped, as wood).

hiáu-hiōh, warped, as wood. hiáu-than, very much warped, as wood (more than "hiáu-hiōh"); faithless and deceitful; disappointing our trust. khah-hiáu than-khak, as little to be trusted as the shell of the "than" shell-fish, which cuts the hand that holds it. hiáu--khì, to swindle away, as money. hiáu-hoán, to break and disregard a promise or agreement. hoán-hiáu, id. hiáu-pōe, to break an agreement; to act very deceitfully (v. pōe). hiáu-chè, to refuse to pay just debts. hiáu láng-ê-chè, id. hiáu-thun, to swallow another's money or property wrongfully. hiáu-hū, to refuse to pay what is due; to keep back what belongs to another. hiáu-hū láng-ê-un, very ungrateful. hiáu-sim, faithless and ungrateful in money matters. hiáu-hiám, very ungrateful and injurious (v. hiám).

hōng-hiáu, dangerous or unlucky, as the state of matters.

hiáu, lewd, lascivious (only said of vile women). hiáu-kháng, id. hiáu-siáu, id. hiáu-lin-long, exceedingly lascivious (woman). lâu-hiáu, an old and lewd woman.

hiáu (R. id.) hiáu--tit, to understand. hiáu-ngē (R.), id. ū-hun-hiáu, understanding well one's duty or business. hiáu-lí, understanding the principles of a question, or the way of managing a matter. hiáu-lí ê-lâng, a man who understands matters well.

hiáu — hiáu-liàu-khì, to sell off at a great sacrifice. siók-siók-hiáu, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu-hiáu, underselling each other at ruinously low prices.

hiáu (C.) hiáu-khak, = A. hiauh-khak, to peel off, as paint or white-wash.

hiauh (= hauh), (C. hiáu), to scale or peel off, as skin or paint, or white-wash. hiauh--khì, id. hiauh-khak, id.

hiauh (R. hiok), to jibe or jest at misfortunes or peculiarities, esp. indirectly by innuendoes (often in low vile language). hi-hiauh, low bad joking, as by women or children.

hid (cf. hit). hid--ê, that (pronoun). hid-dê, id., = hit-ê.

hién (R. id.) tsu-hien (R.), a school, an academy. ko-hien (R.), your school.

hién (R. id.), to open, as a book, lid, or door-screen; to draw aside, as a veil. hién-khui, to open, as a book or lid. hién--khí-lâi, to open, as a lid. hién-koá, to take off a lid.

tâu-hien, to make a new roof.

hién ê-kun, to raise the veil of the bride, as the bridegroom does at marriage. hién chhiú-phê (C.), id.

hién [R. wise, = col. gáu]. hién-jin, a wise man, or sage of inferior class. sēng-hién, sages and wise men. kēng-ló tsun-hién, reverence the aged, and honour the wise. hióng-hién-sū, temple for the most distinguished literati of a district, at the side of the Confucian temple. jip-hióng-hién, to be canonized among these worthies by imperial command.

hién-hōe, gentle and affable in receiving guests, said only of a woman. hién-chhe, my good wife; my dear wife.

hién [R. a bow-string]. keng-hién, a bow-string.

hién [R. string for a musical instrument], a string for a guitar, &c.; a sort of guitar. chit-tiâu-hién, one string. chit-ki-hién, one guitar. hién-koán, stringed and wind instruments (v. koán). hō-hién, to tune the guitar. jī-hién, a guitar with two strings. jī-hién-keng, a bow for it. jī-hién-lák, a drill worked by a bow. sam-hién, a guitar with three strings. toá<sup>n</sup> sam-hién, to play it. pak-hién, a northern guitar, sometimes has copper wire instead of strings. kóng-á-hién, a guitar with few strings and a small bamboo cylinder. kiáh kóng-á-hién, to try to get money out of a man (said in allusion to the word "oi<sup>n</sup>," which means either to play on a guitar, or to get money out of people). hién-soá<sup>n</sup>, a guitar string. khim-hién, strings of harp.

siók-hién, a widower's second wife (lit. extra string for guitar!).

hién [R. to hang up, to suspend]. hién--teh, laid to sleep, as a case on which all action is suspended. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hién--teh, just let it alone for a time. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> hién--teh, purpose quite unsettled; halting between two opinions.

hién [R. dark-coloured; the private name of Kang-hi], (C. hân, in some cases). hién-thien siōng-tè, the god of the north star. hién-toá<sup>n</sup>-kong, the idol called also "Tiō goán-sòe." hién-bú, one of the four spirits (Taoist) of the four quarters; the four are "pêk-hé, chheng-liōng, tsu-chhiok, hién-bú."

hién-som, = goán-som, an inferior sort of ginseng.

hién (R. id.) si<sup>n</sup> hoái<sup>n</sup>-hién, to have a large venereal sore about the middle of the groin, below the navel. si<sup>n</sup> noá<sup>n</sup>-hién, id.

hién (C.), = hit. hién--ê, that, these.

hién [R. hám, to shake], to shake backwards and forwards (neuter), as a man; to roll, as a vessel (but to pitch is "thim"). lê-lê-hién, to shake, as a table or as a drunk man. khōng-khōng-hién, to shake about, as an unsteady chair or restless child; very restless. kōng-kōng-hién, id. ōe-hién, apt to shake about, as table, &c.; in danger of shaking about (s. manifest).

hién [R. to manifest, illustrious]. hién-chhut, to manifest. hién-bēng, id.; famous. hién-jien, openly; publicly.

hién-tát, to become a mandarin or very illustrious (v. tát). hién-iâu (R.), glorious (v. iâu). hién-iōng (r.), fine or grand in appearance, as house. ēng-hién (R.), illustrious (v. ēng). hién-pí, deceased mother. hién-khó, deceased father.

hién-hek, powerful and glorious, as a god. lêng-hién, able to answer prayers. hién-sēng, to appear in a visible form in answer to prayers for assistance. ōe-hién, powerful and efficacious, as an idol (s. shake). ang hién, tê-tsú lók-lién (C.), when the idol is powerful its votaries grow poor. ang hién, tê-tsú liáu-chhién, do. do. spend their money.

叶
曉 微 鳥
微
曉

曉

諱

彼
軒
掀

賢

弦
結

懸

玄 玄

瘡

撼

顯

ngé-hiên-tè, an idol of the surname Iú<sup>n</sup>, with three eyes. ngé-hiên-tái-tè, id. ngé-hiên-biô, his temple.

hiên — chhàu-hiên, heavy unpleasant smell, as of fish. ka-tsoáh-hiên, bad smell of cockroaches. chhàu-ka-tsoáh-hiên, id. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-hiên, strong bad smell of new sheep-skin. chhàu-iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-hiên, id. chhàu-iú<sup>n</sup>-bah-hiên, smelling strong of goat mutton, as butcher, or as man who has been eating it.

ah-hiên, small feathers at a duck's tail, used for ear-brushes; two small bad-smelling balls near the duck's tail. nng-liáp-hiên, these two balls.

hiên (R. id), to offer; to make an offering. hiên-chè, to make a sacrificial or ceremonial offering to a god or spirit. ché-hiên, id. hiên-tsoá, to offer burning paper, as at grave or to demons. hiên-kèng, to make offerings of many things (all together) at noon in the rites called "chiò."

hiên-chhut, to produce openly, as man or thing. hiên jín-chèng, to do a favour. hiên-chèng, id. hiên-kong, to put, as gains, into the common stock. hiên-lòh-kong, id. hiên sio-koah, to bring in slices of roast pig, the last dish of a feast.

hiên-siá<sup>n</sup>, to surrender a city. hiên-khang-siá<sup>n</sup> (to leave the city open to the enemy), said of leaving one's house open and unguarded.

hiên, to open out, as clothes on board; opening out wide, as the mouth of a trumpet; shallow, as a saucer; bevelled, as a door or window; (boastful, liberal).

chhui hiên-hiên, mouth opened very wide. kah-hiên, rather shallow and open, as a cup (opp. to "chhim-ê," deep), &c. hiên-heng, to open the clothes so as to show the breast, or the inner dress. hiên-kah, to show the side of the breast near the shoulder (skin or inner dress) by unbuttoning part of dress. hiên-khui, to open out, as the dress. hiên-khui-khui, dress opened quite wide.

hiên-chhiú, liberal; open-handed; very free in the use of money. toá-hiên, id. toá-hiên ê-ôe, boastful talk; big words. hiên-táu, boastful, in manner or in exaggerated or false talk (v. táu). hiên-tháu, id. gâu-hiên, id.

hiên tsòe kúi-nà-hiên, to cut up into several pieces, as meat for sale; to make a great display out of little; to boast of power or excellence far beyond the truth. sa<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>-bah tsòe si-hiên (cut three ounces of pork into four pieces), to make a great display or pretence with very little foundation.

âu-hiên (Cn.), the back half of the large central hall of a house, when it is divided by a transverse partition. âu-hiên-pín (Cn.), that partition.

hiên (R. id.) hiên-si, high civil mandarins, as Tantai and above. hiên-kiô, a large broad sedan without sides, having a lion for footstool, used by high mandarins at the spring festival, and on going to war.

hiên [R. hân, a limit], (C. ân). iú-hiên, few; small in quantity.

hiên [R. id. by change of tone from "kiên," to see], to appear; plain; manifest; (now, present). hoat-hiên, to appear; to become manifest. chhut-hiên, id. lē-hiên, id. tū-hiên, to manifest.

khoá<sup>n</sup>-hiên-hiên, to see a thing very plainly. thia<sup>n</sup>-bô-hiên, not to hear plainly, as what is spoken too low or indistinctly. chhiên-hiên, plain and easy, as a word, a purpose, or a doctrine; open and exposed, as a house on the road or main street.

hiên-kóng, talk of it at once. hiên-kim, now; at present. hiên-si, id. chhú-hiên-si, id. hiên-chheng (C.), id. hiên-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. hiên-tsai, now; present. chhú-hiên-tsai, now. chit-tiáp hiên-tsai, id. chhú-hiên-pē (C.), id.

hiên-gún, ready money. hiên-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. hiên-kau-koan, ready-money transaction. hiên-bóe hiên-bōe, id. chit-chheng sia, m-táh poeh-pah-hiên, a thousand (cash) for credit are not so good as eight hundred ready money.

hiên — hiên-si, descendants of prosperous ancestors become very poor, robbers, or wretched and miserable. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun hiên-si, id. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun teh hiên-si, id. hiên-si--tiòh tsé-kong, to bring disgrace on our ancestors in this way.

hiết (cf. hi<sup>n</sup>), to throw. hiết-kák, to throw away. pàng-hiết-kák, id. hiết-tiu (T.), id. hiết-lòh-khi, to throw down. hiết-liet--khi, to throw away; to leave off, as an affair. hiết khut-lá, game of throwing cash into a small hole.

hng-hng hiết-hiết (Cn.), all in disorder, as a bouse in a litter.

hiết — hoe-hiết, gaudy; showy; beautifully painted and ornamented, as bouse; beautifully laid out for sale, as showy goods; too specious and plausible, as words that sound well but mean little; when said of women it is too gaudily ornamented, as if for bad purposes.

sok-hiết (Cn.), = A. sok-kiet, neat and tidy.

hiết [R. blood, = col. huih]. hiết-liú, a bloody tumour. hiết-lī, bloody dysentery. hiết-lim, bloody urine. hiết-pheng, flow of blood from female organs. hiết-peng (C.), id.

hiết-chióng, palm of the hand red (counted a good omen).

hiết-kiet, dragon's blood.

hā-hiết, to have bloody dysentery. liàng-hiết, cooling for the blood, as food or medicine. hēng-hiết, making the blood more abundant, healthy, and active, as medicine. phò-hiết, to diminish the blood injuriously, as some condiments are supposed to do. chhit-khóng liú-hiết, blood flowing from mouth and nose, as in severe fever or from poison.

hiết-khi, the vital principle of flesh and blood; animal spirits. hiết-khi put-hēng, vital principle not acting well, as in some diseases. hiết-khi gēng--teh, blood supposed to be arrested in its action, as in tumours, &c. hiết gēng--teh, id. hiết-khi chiok, in good vigorous health; having a full-blooded constitution. hiết-khi ün-tōng, the vital principle moving about to the several organs in the successive hours of day and night, supposed to make one complete revolution in twenty-four hours, has no connection with the real circulation of the blood (v. tōng).

chhin hiết-bék, one's own real son, not adopted (v. bék). cheng-hiết chhióng-chiok, in strong vigorous health, as a man in the full vigour of his whole bodily powers. lâm cheng, lú hiết, generative principles of male and female. hū cheng, bé hiết, do. of father and mother.

hiết [R. a cave], classifier of graves. tsáu-hiết, a den of wild beasts or bad men. hiết-tōe, location for a grave. chit-hiết hong-sú, one site for a grave; one grave. tâng-hiết, buried in the same grave. siáng-hiết, id. tiám-hiết, to lay down the exact place and position of a grave after the site itself has been chosen. tiám hiết-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

獻

棄

血

憲

限

現見

穴

hīh — hih-hih-chhiò, to giggle. hih-hih hū-hū, sound of wind or of a mill, &c. (v. hū).

hīh (Cn.) hīh--gê, = hit-ê, that.

hīh<sup>n</sup> — hih<sup>n</sup>-hīh<sup>n</sup>-thī, to sob and cry. hih<sup>n</sup>-hīh<sup>n</sup>-háu, to cry, as a child or as a man with a heavy burden.

hīm, to talk in an overbearing or threatening manner. hīm-hoah, to bawl angrily; to scold a man so as to silence him. toā-sia<sup>n</sup>-hīm, id. toā-hīm, id. toā-hīm sái gâi-chī<sup>n</sup>, to talk loud and pass bad cash.

hīm [R. to like, to be pleased]. hīm-bê, to long for; to desire much. hīm-soān, id.; to delight in. hīm-siēn, id.

hīm (R. hiông), a bear; a baboon; a surname. lāng-hīm, a baboon. soa<sup>n</sup>-hīm, a bear. hīm-tá<sup>n</sup>, bear's gall (medicinal). hīm-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a bear's paw, counted very strengthening food. hoah-hīm hoah-hé, calling out in great terror at sudden danger.

that-hīm, a game in which one boy keeps seven bits of brick, trying to kick the other boy who must snatch them all away. hīm-chí, these bits of brick, representing bears' cubs.

hīm — hīm-hé, to smother embers in a jar, for future use.

hīm (= hām). chhùi hīm-hīm, mouth shut; unwilling to speak; sullenly silent.

hīm (= hit). hīn-pêng, = hit-pêng, that side.

hīm (C.), = A. heng, to prosper. khoài-hīm khoài-thê, rapidly prospering and rapidly declining.

hīm [R. sin, the body]. hīm-su (C.), the body. hīm-sin (C.), id.

hīm (R. hiên), giddy; dizzy; sick with giddy feeling. hīm-tsūn, sea-sick. hīm-kiō, sickened by using a sedan. hīm-șoa<sup>n</sup>, made sick by coming on shore. hīm-gōng, giddy; dizzy. hīm-gōng-gōng, id. ê-âm-hīm, blind with giddiness. thâu-khak-hīm, head giddy or swimming. hīm-bōng-bōng, head swimming and things seeming to turn round. bōng-bōng-hīm, id. khi-thâu-hīm, to cure giddiness.

hīm (R. hiên). iú<sup>n</sup>-hīm, epilepsy.

hīm [R. hiông, male]. hīm-hông, a drug used as a medicine and charm; realgar (v. hông).

hīm (C.), = A. hêng, to desire. kau-hīm, id.

hīm (C.), = A. hūn, to hate.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, a marquis; a feudal lord.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, frivolous; floating.

hiò (C.), a cry for driving away birds.

hiô (K.), = A. hê, rain.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, to wait.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, after. jiēn-hiô, afterwards. jit-hiô, id.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, queen.

hiô (Cn.), = A. hê, thick, grave, serious, &c.

hiô<sup>n</sup> (P.), in all the tones, = A. hiu<sup>n</sup>; and so in many parts of Changehow.

hioh [R. hiet, R. sek], (C. hēh<sup>n</sup>), to rest. hioh-kang, to rest from work. hioh-khùn, to rest from work or walking; to lie down. hioh-siēn, to rest because tired. hioh-chhoán, to rest to take breath. hioh-hê, to take shelter from rain. hioh-úg, to take shelter from heat in the shade. hioh-ki, to perch on a branch, as a bird. hioh-koai<sup>n</sup>, to roost, as in a cage. hioh-tiām, to lodge a night, as in an inn.

tâu-hioh, to stay a night at a place. an-hioh-jit (X.), the Sabbath-day.

hiòh (R. iáp), a leaf (not of a book); the paper of a fan; the blade of an oar. chhiū-hiòh, the leaves of trees; foliage. ké-hiòh, leaves used for wrapping cakes when steamed. phāng-á-hiòh, bamboo leaves used in making sails.

hiau-hiòh, to be warped, as wood.

kim-hiòh, a thin plate of gold used for inlaying; used also as a portable sort of treasure. hī-hiòh, the flap of the ear. mŭng-hiòh, the leaf of a door. chiú<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, an oar-blade. toā-hiòh, the blade of the helm. si<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, the paper of a fan ready to be pasted on the ribs of the fan. chit-ki-hiòh, one paper for a fan.

lì-hiòh, to strip off leaves. thui-hiòh, to shed leaves and grow new ones.

ki-hiòh, branches and leaves. kâu-ki-hiòh, making a great many words about a matter; too minute about objections or conditions. kim-ki gék-hiòh (branches and leaves of gold and jade), said of the children of mandarins or wealthy men, who do not need to do hard work. si<sup>n</sup>-ki hoat-hiòh, the foundation of the story true, but false in its details. kóng kàu ū-ki ū-hiòh, to describe details so minutely that a lie looks just like truth. tsò kàu ū-ki ū-hiòh, id. si<sup>n</sup> kàu &c., id. chiap kàu ū-ki ū-hiòh, one man adding a tissue of lies to the statement (true or false) of another so as to make it appear all true.

hiòh (R. hiau). bā-hiòh, the kite. boáh-hiòh, id. lāi-hiòh (C.), id. nāi<sup>n</sup>-hiòh (T.), id. lā-hiòh (Cn.), id.

lāi-hiòh-kha, waddling and awkward in walking; shaking from side to side. lāi-hiòh-chhi, the thistle. lāi-hiòh-chhi-thâu, thistle roots (medicinal). lāi-hiòh-chhi-kū, a thorny shrub with a yellow flower. m-koai<sup>n</sup> koe-bú, phah lāi-hiòh, said of a man not restraining his own dependants, but finding fault with others for trouble.

hiok (R. id.), (C. hiak). hì-hiok, to make vile low jokes. hì-hiok ê-ôe, jibes or calumnies evidently false and ridiculous.

hióng (R. id.), ill-omened; inauspicious; unlucky. kiet-hióng, lucky and unlucky. hióng-hām, very great and severe, as calamity. hióng-sin ok-soah, malicious demons. hióng-hók (R.), mourning dress.

hióng (R. id.), wicked; vicious. hióng-ok, do.; cruel. hióng-sin, a murderer who commits the act with his own hands (s. village). hióng-sin-phe, not afraid to risk one's life in some dangerous attempt. hióng-siú, a murderer. hióng-hoàn, id. hêng-hióng, to fight or strike or assault very violently, so as to wound or murder, &c. ká<sup>n</sup>-hêng-hióng, very violent; ready for fighting or murder. kióng-hióng kék-ok, very powerful, wicked, and dangerous. phêng-hióng, appearance as if about to fight. kap-goá phêng-hióng, he appears as if he would fight me (when I would get him to pay what he is due).

hióng (cf. hiông). hióng-kúi-kúi, extremely ugly in face. hióng-pa lí-láu, very ugly (v. láu).

hióng, hasty, hurried. hióng-hióng, id. hióng-chióng, hurried and careless (v. chióng). hióng-kóng, too hasty and urgent in manner; so impulsive as to be almost violent.

hióng (P. heng). sòng-hióng, very poor.

hióng [R. fragrant, incense, = col. hiu<sup>n</sup>], (C. hiang). hióng-káng, Hongkong. chhit-lí-hióng (fragrant at seven lí distant), a shrub with sweet white flowers

忻欣
熊

噤
身眩

痼
雄

息歇

葉

鷄

諱

凶

兇

香

and small fruit. lī-kun-hióng, = thó-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a small aromatic plant. hióng-hū, a medicine made from the root of the thó-hiú<sup>n</sup> (Cyperus?). hūi-hióng-hū, this medicine from Hūi-an. sióng-hióng (Cn.), = sióng-ka, resin. ut-kim-hióng-chiú, a fragrant wine (v. ut).

hoa-hióng-tê, tea flavoured with flowers to conceal its inferior quality (orange pekoe?). hoa-hióng, id. hióng-hoa teng-ké, incense, flowers, lamps, and drums, as in idolatrous procession, or sometimes in honour of a virtuous retiring mandarin. hióng-hoa teng-chiok, incense, flowers, lamps, and candles, used in honour of idols.

hióng [R. a village, = col. hiú<sup>n</sup>], (C. hiang). hióng-sin, graduates and gentry (s. wicked). hióng-chhin, fellow-villager (a courteous salutation). hióng-ióng, village braves. hióng-si, the examination for the Kujin degree. hióng-hièn-sū, temple for the canonized literati of a district (v. hièn). su-hióng (r.), to long for home. bóng-hióng-tâi, a place in Hades from which the dead can see their house and family.

biên-hióng, of the same village; villages combining, e.g. to oppose a powerful opponent in a clan feud, or against rebels, &c. liên-hióng, id. liên-hióng-kiet, an agreement made with the mandarins, in which several villages stand security for each other's good conduct.

hióng-tâm (Cn.), = A. hiang-tâm, local dialect.

hióng [R. the breast, = col. heng]. ū-sim-hióng, prudent and shrewd; having good common sense and tact; e.g. ready with an answer for anything, or well able to adapt action to the circumstances, or to guard against danger. toā-sim-hióng, desirous to get large gains; having one's mind set on much money, as merchant who runs great risks in the hope of large profits, or as a thief who steals valuable things but despises articles of small value.

hióng [R. a bear, = col. hím], a surname.

hióng [R. male, brave, = col. hêng, hín]. hióng-hióng, very violent or urgent in manner; ugly, large, and coarse-looking, as face. hióng-hióng-thóeh, to take away what the other is unwilling to give. hióng-hióng-tsáu, to run on, as in urgent haste.

eng-hióng, a hero. kan-hióng, cunning and roguish. hiau-hióng, very roguish, deceitful, and wicked.

chhu-hióng (R.), male and female, esp. of birds. chhi-hióng (C.), id. kièn-chhu-hióng, to try which is stronger, as in a feud. chhu-hióng-kiàm, two knives making a pair. chhu-hióng-gán, eyes of unequal size, said somewhat in joke.

hióng-kài-kài, very fierce-looking; large and coarse-looking, as man. hióng-kúi-kúi, as ugly as a demon (of face).

hióng [R. loud-sounding, = col. hiáng, hiú<sup>n</sup>]. ū-éng-hióng, having some foundation in truth, as a rumour.

hióng (Cn.), = hit. hióng-gé, = hit-ê, that, those.

hióng (C. hiáng), to enjoy. hióng-siū, id. hióng-hok, to enjoy good fortune. hióng-chè, to accept sacrificial offerings. phòeh-hióng, to share in receiving offerings or worship, as secondary spirits conjoined with the chief object of worship in the ceremony.

hióng [R. id., = col. hiú<sup>n</sup>, ng], (C. hiàng), towards; facing; formerly; a surname.

hióng-lâi, formerly; up to that time.

tùi-hióng, right opposite, as house or grave, &c.

tsō-hióng, direction, as of a grave, fixed by the geomancer. hun-kim tsō-hióng, id.

l-hióng--i, to have our mind towards a person.

hióng-ióng, in an airy healthy situation. hióng-tang, facing the east. hióng-chêng, facing forwards, as in advancing. hióng-thien, looking towards the sky. bin hióng-thien, face towards the sky. hióng-thien-sai, figure of a lion looking up (said of a man with his face looking up).

hióng-jit-kûi, the sun-flower.

hióng (R. id.), (C. hiàng), customs' dues; soldier's pay. kháu-hióng, customs' dues. hióng-hâng, money collected for customs. hióng-gûn, id., soldier's pay. hióng-koán, a custom-house, esp. a branch custom-house; the official in charge of it. hióng-koán toā-iá, an inspector at a branch custom-house, as for inspecting vessels entering the harbour.

hióng-tièn, a pawn-shop.

niá<sup>n</sup>-hióng, to receive pay, as a soldier; to draw his pay; to draw the money for the army from the provincial treasury. niá<sup>n</sup>-hióng-bé, to draw the balance of military pay. chhut-hióng, to pay soldier's pay. chièn-hióng, superior class of soldiers with more pay. siú-hióng, inferior soldiers with less pay. niá<sup>n</sup> siú-hióng, to draw that pay.

tâng-hióng, subject to heavy duty. phah-hióng, to levy dues, to collect customs. thiu-hióng, id. teng-hióng (C. tin-hiàng), id. ah-hióng, to convey government money to the superior city under escort. giám-hióng, to search (as a vessel) to see what is liable to duty. liáh-hióng, to seize goods for duty. láp-hióng, to pay duties or customs. oân-hióng, id. pò-hióng, to give in a statement of goods liable to duty (v. pò). tsáu-hióng, to smuggle. lâu-hióng, id.

hip (R. id.), (cf. him). háng-hip, to frighten by scolding; to threaten or intimidate. kióng-kióng-hip, to intimidate or terrify into doing something.

hip — tò-hip, to turn round on an assailant and overcome him; to shut up an opponent in argument by a sharp retort or counter-charge, either true or false [word above? or below?].

hip (R. id.), (C. hiap, hip), very close, with little or no air; to smother; to suffocate; to hatch by artificial heat. hip-au, a tea-cup with a cover. hip-tê, to infuse tea in a covered cup. hip-sióng, to take a photograph. hip ah-nng, to hatch duck eggs by artificial heat. hip--si, to smother to death.

hip [R. siap, to manage, to seize, = liap], (C. hiap). hip-chiòh, the loadstone.

hit [R. pí, = col. hí, hín, hiú<sup>n</sup>, &c.], (Cn. hióng, C. hién), that, those. hit-ê, that, that one. hit-dê, id. hit-lâng, that man. hit-pái, that time, that occasion. hit-hō, that sort. hit-ki, that one, of things classified under "ki" (and so with other classifiers). hit-tá, there, that place. hit-á, id. hit-lá, id.

hit (cf. hi), to oscillate; to shake about, as pendulum. lê-nih<sup>n</sup>-hit, to swing from side to side. lê-nih<sup>n</sup>-hit, id.

hiu [R. to cease; to divorce]. hiu-tsu, a written divorce. hiu-lí (R.), to divorce. bó-si-hiu, without any stop, as a continual feud. pàng--i kan-hiu, to let him off without punishment.

hiu [R. deep and dark, elegant]. chheng-hiu, neat and comfortable, pleasant and retired, as a house.

hiú (R. kiú), a warm coat or jacket. mí<sup>n</sup>-hiú, a warm dress quilted or wadded with cotton. kiap-hiú,

鄉

胸

熊
雄

響

享

向

餉

誦

彼

休

幽
裘

a warm dress lined but not wadded. koeh-hiú, id. köh-hiú (Cn.), id. chit-ko-hiú, warm dress lined with sort of flannel or woven wool. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-hiú, one lined with sheep-skin. phê-á-hiú, one lined with fur. phò-hiú-kong, a very old wadded coat (e.g. twenty years old or so), said in joke. chiáh-pê-png, chhêng bú-hiú, fed and clothed by one's parents.

hiú (R. id.) hiú-noā<sup>n</sup>, rotten. noā<sup>n</sup> hiú-hiú, very soft or rotten. hiú-bók put-khó-tiau, rotten wood cannot be carved (said of a fellow of whom nothing can be made).

hiú — hiú-hiú-háu, to whizz.

hiú (cf. hi<sup>n</sup>). hiú-chhien-chhiu, to swing a swing.

hiú, to sprinkle. hiú-tsúi, to sprinkle water. hiú-phâng, to throw water on a sail in order to keep it from being injured by the heat.

hiú [R. bad smelling, stinking, = col. chhàu]. û-hiú bân-liên, to leave a name of bad reputation for a myriad years.

hiú — hiú<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, weak and sickly, as a child.

hiú<sup>n</sup> (R. hong), a village. hiú<sup>n</sup>-lí, id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-siá, id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-chhng, id. toā-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a large village. pún-hiú<sup>n</sup>, native village. siang-hiú<sup>n</sup>-lí, of the same village. hiú<sup>n</sup>-kan, among the villages. hiú<sup>n</sup>-ê, id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tâm (Cn.), = hiang-tâm, local dialect. sû-hiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = su-hiong, home-sick.

hiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) péh-phî<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, an animal like a small stag with a white nose.

hiú<sup>n</sup> (R. hong), incense; perfume; (various drugs). chit-ki-hiú<sup>n</sup>, an incense-stick. sái sa<sup>n</sup>-ki-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to sail within the time that three incense-sticks burn. nng-tiau-hiú<sup>n</sup> (two incense-sticks), a fore-and-aft schooner. nng-ki-hiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

báng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a composition burned to keep off mosquitoes. phá<sup>n</sup>-chhek-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a drug used for flavouring liquor, &c. ut-kim-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a sort of drug (v. ut). pún-hiú<sup>n</sup>, native village. jú-hiú<sup>n</sup>, frankincense. tím-hiú<sup>n</sup>, aloes (v. tím). toā<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, sandal-wood. thiá<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>-sek, light grayish-purple. phî<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, snuff. teng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, cloves. tsúi-teng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a marsh plant, with bright blue flowers and arrow-shaped leaves, used for snake-bites. teng-hiú<sup>n</sup>-á, a small red bird. ân-sek-hiú<sup>n</sup>, gum benzoin. lô-liâm-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a sort of adhesive gum. bák-hiú<sup>n</sup>, putchuk (v. bák "wood"). péh-gin-hiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), an evergreen-tree with large bunches of scarlet berries. péh-jin-hiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. poh-kak-hiú<sup>n</sup>, anise seed. soa<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), a wild medicinal plant. thê-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a weed used for medicine (Cyperus esculentus?), = hiong-hū. tê-hiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. sū-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a beautiful flower (v. sū). chhì-thâu-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal root.

chêng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, powdered incense (used for ceremonial cleansing). kàng-chin-hiú<sup>n</sup>, incense used to bring down "thi<sup>n</sup>-kong" in worship (Laka?). phá<sup>n</sup>-sok-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a fine sort of incense. soá<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a long incense-stick with no bamboo in it. tek-á-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a long slip of bamboo covered with incense. bih-hiú<sup>n</sup>, id. tióng-siú-hiú<sup>n</sup>, long incense-sticks for birth-days.

hiú<sup>n</sup>-chháu, fragrant plants (used for scenting hair-oil). hiú<sup>n</sup>-chhá, sandal-wood. hiú<sup>n</sup>-kê, sort of mushroom. hiú<sup>n</sup>-í, the citron. hiú<sup>n</sup>-sim (Cn.), sort of tree.

hiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, bits of incense. hiú<sup>n</sup>-hé, incense-bag worn as amulet. hiú<sup>n</sup>-hê, incense-bags (like shrimps) hung on idols. hiú<sup>n</sup>-pau, bags of incense worn only for the smell. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tê, id. (esp. in 7th month). hiú<sup>n</sup>-

ôe, do., shaped like shoes. hiú<sup>n</sup>-thiap, do., worn on women's hair-pins. hiú<sup>n</sup>-seh (C.), do. in women's hair. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tsu, perfumed beads. hiú<sup>n</sup>-oân, perfume-balls. hiú<sup>n</sup>-khoân, long spiral roll of incense (lasting sometimes several weeks) burned in temple. hiú<sup>n</sup>-thah, id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-pâi, tablet made of several incense-sticks for marriage and other ceremonies. hiú<sup>n</sup>-sok, paper bundles of incense-sticks (v. sok). hiú<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>-lok, long paper bag for holding a number of incense-sticks. hiú<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, basket with burning incense. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tà<sup>n</sup>, two small frames carried at the ends of a pole with incense burning in one; also, a load of incense carried for sale by a pedlar. hiú<sup>n</sup>-oâ<sup>n</sup>, an incense-table (v. oâ<sup>n</sup>). hiú<sup>n</sup>-lê, a standing censer; a vessel full of incense-ashes in which burning incense-sticks are stuck. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tî, sticks for arranging the incense on the censer. hiú<sup>n</sup>-sí, spoon for pressing down the incense-ashes. hiú<sup>n</sup>-hu, incense-ashes. hiú<sup>n</sup>-ien, incense-smoke. hiú<sup>n</sup>-ien put-toân, incense always burning without ceasing, as in temple. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tîn, a procession carrying incense. chit-tîn-hiú<sup>n</sup>, id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, yellow bills announcing incense processions; long sticks of incense. hiú<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, cheap hollow sweet cakes.

sio-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to burn incense. sio hó-hiú<sup>n</sup>, chiáh hó-chhài, to be wealthy and get everything of the best. chhah-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to stick incense-sticks in the ashes. ngiá-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to carry idols and incense in procession. koah-hiú<sup>n</sup>, id. sûi-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to follow such a procession. hêng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to go in procession to the temples to worship, as mandarins do on taking office, and on 1st and 15th of each month. hêng-hiú<sup>n</sup> hong-kò, to go to worship in procession and give notice that the office is open for accusations, as newly-arrived mandarin. chîn-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to bring an incense-stick to the worshipper that he may use it in worship; to bring incense from a greater temple to a less. liam-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to worship by offering an incense-stick (v. liam). thia<sup>n</sup>-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to listen for the first word heard after offering incense, as an omen (v. thia<sup>n</sup>). tsòe-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to make incense-sticks.

han-tsú chhàu-hiú<sup>n</sup>, potatoes having faults and holes in them.

pún-tôe-hiú<sup>n</sup> bôe-phang, incense made in the neighbourhood is not sweet-scented; foreign things are most valued.

hiú<sup>n</sup> [R. hiong, loud-sounding, = col. hiáng]. hong pû-pû-hiú<sup>n</sup>, the wind howling loudly. khiang-khiang-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to sound loud, as a brass thing when struck.

hiú<sup>n</sup>, said in Tió-thoà for "háu," to make a noise.

hiú<sup>n</sup> (= hit). hiú<sup>n</sup>-pêng, on that side. ân-hiú<sup>n</sup>-sí (T. C.), in that way; thus. ân-hiú<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. ân-hí<sup>n</sup> ân-hiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), of very unsettled purpose.

hiú<sup>n</sup> [R. hong, towards, = col. ng, à<sup>n</sup>]. hng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, direction, as of a house or grave; quarter to which it looks. têng hng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to fix by compass the lucky direction for house or grave. tang-hiú<sup>n</sup>, towards east. chê hiú<sup>n</sup>-tang (T. old dialect), facing east. hun-kim chê-hiú<sup>n</sup>, geomantic direction of house or grave. tsô-hiú<sup>n</sup> (R.), id. chê-hiú<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. hiú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup> (T.), direction, as of house or grave, or of persons sitting at table. hó-hiú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup> (T.), good direction for it.

hiúh — póh-hiuh-hiuh, very thin.

hiúh (= khiúh). sòng-hiúh-hiúh, very poor.

hiú (R. mti<sup>n</sup>), (C. bûn). hiú-lâng, a go-between in making marriages. hiú-lâng-kong, id. hiú-lâng-pò, a woman who buys and sells female slaves,

朽

臭

鄉

香

響

彼向

媒

and makes irregular marriages by sale. hũn-lâng-lé, fee of the go-between in marriages.

hũn-lâng-soà<sup>n</sup>, a thread with which cloth is very loosely sewed at first (taken out when the firm sewing is completed).

hũn (R. bâu, mầu<sup>n</sup>). hũn-chháu, sort of grass used for thatch and for medicine. hũn-á-chháu, id. hũn-á-kun, its root. hũn-á-koa<sup>n</sup>, this grass dried.

hũn (= m̄). tih-tũh-hũn, a toy that makes a humming noise.

hũn, exclamation of surprise.

hũn (C. hám), (cf. hmh), to strike hard with an instrument or stone held in the hand; noise made to stop children's noisy play. hũn--sí, to strike dead, as with a club.

hũn — hũn-hũn-háu, to buzz; to growl, as a tiger. hũn-hũn-kiò, to growl, as a tiger.

hũh (= h̄m), to strike with some heavy thing held in the hand; a sound made to stop children's noise.

piah-hmh, a large beetle that comes flying against walls and people; said also of a useless dull awkward fellow.

hũh (cf. h̄m). hũh-hmh, keeping one's mouth shut and saying nothing.

hũg [R. hong, a region; means, plans, or prescriptive]. tōe-hũg, a region or tract of country. si-hũg, in every direction. pak-hũg, the north (&c.) hũg-hiù<sup>n</sup>, direction, as of grave or house (v. hiù<sup>n</sup>). thien-tek-hũg, an auspicious hill near the grave (v. tek).

hũg-thâu, a medical prescription, usually with directions for use. iòh-hũg, id. khui-iòh-hũg, to write out a prescription. pi-hũg, a secret medical prescription. chhun-hũg, medicine for lascivious purposes.

hũg [R. hong, waste, desert, famine], (C. hũg, hui<sup>n</sup>). ki-hũg, famine; dearth (C. id.) iau-hũg, voracious; only said in scolding a child that is always eating, esp. cakes and sweetmeats.

pha-hũg (C. pha-hui<sup>n</sup>), to lay waste. hũg-hòe (C. hui<sup>n</sup>-hùi), desolate; laid waste. hũg-hũg hi<sup>n</sup>-hì<sup>n</sup> (C. hui<sup>n</sup>), all in disorder, as room or house. hũg-hũg hiet-hiet (Cn.), id.

hũg (R. hong). chiòh-hũg, a stone memorial archway. chiet-hũg, one in honour of a lady of great purity and excellence. chiet-hàu-hũg, one to a lady of purity and filial piety. khia-hũg, to set up such an archway by imperial permission. hũg-kha, at the foot of the memorial arch.

hũg [R. hun, dark, dusk, twilight], (C. hui<sup>n</sup>). ê-hũg (C. ê-hui<sup>n</sup>), evening. bin-hũg (T. Cn.), id. tsâ-hũg, yesterday evening. ji-káu ê-hũg, the last night of the year (though really the 30th).

hũg — hũg-hũg-háu, sound of flies or mosquitoes; sound of a child repeating songs, &c. hũg-hũg-kiò, sound of mosquitoes, &c.

hũg, what? (said in answer to a question or instructions not distinctly heard).

hũg (R. hông), (C. hũ<sup>n</sup>). liú-hũg, sulphur. jiú-hũg, id.

hũg (R. oân), (C. hũ<sup>n</sup>), a dry field; a field not much irrigated; a garden; an orchard. chhân-hũg, fields of all sorts, wet and dry; fields and gardens; cultivated land in general. hoe-hũg, a flower-garden. ké-chi-hũg, an orchard. kam-chià-hũg, a field of sugarcane. bêh-hũg, a field of wheat or barley. soa-hũg, a plot of dry sandy ground. soa<sup>n</sup>-hũg, dry fields ou hills. hũg-phê, dry hilly fields (in general), as distinguished from irrigated fields. lòk-hũg (X.), paradise (lit. garden of pleasure).

khui-hũg, to make a garden or dry field. tsòh-hũg, to cultivate a dry field or garden. kùt-hũg, to dig it. koa<sup>n</sup>-hũg, to take up a whole field (as of potatoes) at once.

hũg-bêh, wheat or barley from dry fields. hũg-tsũ (C. hũ<sup>n</sup>-ehi), sweet-potatoes from dry fields. hũg--ê, id.

hũg [R. hó<sup>n</sup>, good, = col. hó]. hó-hũg (P.), = hó-hó, friendly. hũg (P.), a man's name.

hũg, interjection of displeasure or contempt.

hũg, interjection of anger, disappointment, or disdain (pronounced with more emphasis, and rather deeper than the next word).

hũg (cf. h̄<sup>n</sup>), yes! yes, sir!

hũg (R. oáu), (C. hũ<sup>n</sup>), far; distant. hũg lo-lo, very far. li-hũg, far separated; far distant. tsòah hũg, difference great. tsáp-pê chiah-hũg, ten times as far.

hũg (A. esp. T.), (cf. hũg), yes, I observe what you say.

hũg (Cn.), = A. háb<sup>n</sup>, heh<sup>n</sup>, — yes! I have heard what you say, and observe it.

hó, an interjection. hó-hó-hó, sound made by men (e.g. boatmen) working together. hó-lo, id. hoah-hó, to call out "hó," as to a man at a distance. hoah-hó--chit-ê, id.

hó [R. hok, = col. hoh], to scorch, as the sun; very sultry, as weather. chhùi hó, the mouth very dry and thirsty. jit hó--lâng, the sun scorching people.

hó [R. ko, tall herbs]. hiã<sup>n</sup>-hó (C.), a plant used as tinder (v. hiã<sup>n</sup>).

hó — hó-lin-tâu, green pease (probably originally "hó-lân," Dutch).

hó — ka-kí khai-hó, to boast of one's own talents, success, or prosperity.

hó [R. hó, a mark, a sign]. chhut-ki-hó, to make a secret sign by sound or gesture, which none but a confederate will recognize.

hó (R. id.), (Cn. hê, hò), a large river; a canal. lái-hó, the canals in a plain; harbour and creeks (near Amoy). chhâ lái-hó, to search these creeks and straits for pirates and smugglers. hó-á, a canal; a ditch. chheng hó-á, to clean out a canal, &c. keh-hó, separated by a large river.

gũn-hó, the Milky Way. thien-hó, id. thien-hó-pán, a ceiling (= thien-ló-pán). iũ thien-hó, to take his journey on the heavenly river, as the idol "ông-iá" when he is burned. iũ tê-hó, to be sent to float away on the sea, as ông-iá.

hó-lâm, Honan province; often said also for Hunan. hó-ti, a porcupine.

hó (R. id.), (Cn. hê). hó-kau, a moat.

hó (R. id.) pòk-hó, peppermint plant. pòk-hó-iú, oil of peppermint. pòh-hó-iú, id.

hó [R. hó, the water-lily]. hó-liên, a sort of water-lily. hó-lân, Holland (v. lân).

hó (R. id.), (Cn. hê). sien-hó (C. san-hê), coral. sien-hó-ki, a coral ornament for the hair.

hó [R. grain]. ka-hó-lí, a polite name for Amoy.

hó [R. what, who], (Cn. hê). hó-hòng, how much the more? hó-kê, why? in-hó, id.; how? hó-khê, why trouble yourself? hó-tek-khê, id. chiong-

茅

方

荒

坊

昏

何黃園

好

遠

燒萬荷

號河

壕何瑚禾何

和

hó jī-chhú, how can this matter be managed? bū-nāi<sup>n</sup>-hó, having no other resource; no alternative.

hó (R. id.), (Cn. hē), harmonious; to unite; to mix in due proportions. hó-hiēn, to tune a guitar. hó-iōh, to mix medicine with food, for strengthening. hó-lát, to unite strength in one effort.

hó-hó, at peace and harmony. sa<sup>n</sup>-hō, id. hó-khì, harmony. hó-hiáp, of one mind and acting together. hó-chiòng, good at living in harmony with all. hó-pêng (R.), peace and harmony. hó-sūn, harmonious and submissive, said of wife and husband. hó-tāng, harmonious, as persons of the same mind; agreeing, as evidence, or as things with the pattern. hó-tóng, id. hó-iok, to make an agreement; a treaty of peace. hó-sek-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a joint petition by the parties saying that the quarrel is settled (v. sek).

liáh-hó, a drawn game; to arbitrate by splitting the difference; to join in a plot in order to attack a third party, especially when the two were formerly at feud with each other. liáh tiòng-hó, to split the difference, as in bargaining or settling a quarrel. chhú-hó, to arbitrate a quarrel and so bring it to an end. khng-hó, to exhort men to peace. khoàn-hó, id. kóng-hó, to talk over conditions of settling a quarrel; to have agreed on a settlement; to combine, as two persons against a third. káng-hó, to discuss and arrange a peaceful settlement (esp. between nations).

un-hó, temperate and genial, as climate; gentle, as temper (v. un). hó-hāi, harmonious, as music. tiau-hó, mixed well, as medicine or food; harmoniously adjusted, as music, &c., mixed in proper proportions. im-ūn tiau-hó, music harmonious.

thài-hó-koe, a small fowl, like a bantam.

hó [R. hoá, flower, splendid]. hó-piáu, a memorial archway (v. piáu).

hó [R. valorous, heroic], (Cn. hē). hó-kiét, having great courage, talents, or wisdom, along with a kind disposition.

hó (Cn. hē). hó-hèng, fond of, as pleasures; in full spirit for (v. hèng); (said only of several persons together).

hó [R. fine hair, a small weight], a small weight one-tenth of a li; also one-tenth in value of a copper cash. hun-hó, very little, in negative phrases. hun-hó bô phah-sng, not a particle lost. hun-hó m-khéng, utterly unwilling. hun-lí hó-hut, in very minute quantities; niggardly. sng kàu hun-lí hó-hut, very niggardly and sharp in calculation. hó-lí m-thang, you must by no means. chit-sí-hó, to bôe-tsòe--tit, it will not do at all.

kúí-hó-chí<sup>n</sup>, how many tenths of a cash? chhit-hó-chí<sup>n</sup>, seven-tenths of a cash.

pék-hó, a sort of tea (Pekoe?).

hó [R. lò, to toil]. sin-hó, = sin-ló, wages for labour.

hó (Cn.) hoân-hó, = A. hoân-ló, sorrow; anxiety.

hó (R. hó<sup>n</sup>), (Cn. P. hē, hó), good; well; friendly; kind; completely made or finished; by good luck; prospering; (alive); as an answer it often means "yes;" but often only "well, I observe what you say," without being an affirmative answer.

hó-phái<sup>n</sup>, good and bad. bô-hó bô-phái<sup>n</sup>, of medium quality, tolerably good, as men or things; all about one and the same quality, as a lot of things. hó-lāng, a good man; a man in good health. khah-hó, better, in goodness or in health; rather more. bôe-hó, cannot recover. lāu-pē hó, while father is alive. m-hó, bad; dead. m-hó--khì, has died. m-hó

華
豪
和
毫

勞
好

chit-ê-sun--khì, lost a grand-son. kūn-lāi hó, have you been well of late? how do you do? chiah-kú hó--má, id.

tng-hó, just now prosperous; just while in good fortune, or on good terms with a man (v. tng). lí ná<sup>n</sup>-teh-hó, you are constantly prospering more and more. hó i--ê tsé-kong hiēn-sèng, fortunately his ancestor miraculously appeared and delivered him. hó-lāng koá<sup>n</sup>-kàu, by good luck some one suddenly came up, e.g. saving a man from robbers. hó kiù-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id. hó-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a deliverer or benefactor. hó-tāi-chì, auspicious matters, as birth, marriage, &c. (with no idea about morality). hó-jit, a lucky day. kóng hó-ōe, to speak auspicious words.

hó-chhiò, laughable; ridiculous. hó-kiā<sup>n</sup>, good for walking on; safe for travelling upon. hó-khoà<sup>n</sup>, beautiful; looking well; easily seen. tôe khah-hó-khoà<sup>n</sup>, make a subscription that will look better. hó-sè (C. sòe; Cn. sǒ), easy to rent. hó-sè (C. sì), proper; suitable (v. sè, power). hó-thák, easy to read; so composed as to read well aloud.

hó-bé (C. bé), a good walker. hó-bé (C. bóe; Cn. bǒ), good termination of an affair. hó-kha hó-chhiú, skilful, active; a good helper. hó-thâu hó-bīn, good-looking. hó-chhiú, talking politely, often mere empty fair words. hó-lé, politeness. hó-lé-á (C.), take care! hó-sé-kiā<sup>n</sup>, easy and friendly, not wishing much ceremony, but taking ordinary treatment in good part. kap-i-hó, on good terms with him; if said of man and woman, generally implies improper relations. hó-lāi hó-khì, mutually doing good offices. tsòe-lāng-hó, to treat kindly. hó-iú, close friends. siòng-hó, intimate, friendly. hó-hó, friendly, at peace. bóe-hó, to give money so as to get a judge or arbiter or influential person on our side, in settling a dispute or managing a matter. hó--gê (Cn.), "my good friend," said as on asking the road.

òh-hó, fully learned, as a task. iáu-bē-hó, not yet finished, as a work; not quite made, as a thing. tsòe-hó, to behave well; to have finished, as a work, or as a thing we were making. siá-hó, I have written it all.

pì<sup>n</sup>-hó, to change from bad to good. hó-sim, kind, benevolent (v. sim). khng-lāng-hó, to exhort men to good behaviour.

hó-tá<sup>n</sup>, bold. hó-thi<sup>n</sup>, good weather. hó-giáh, wealthy. hó-kheh (C.), id. hó-pān, wealthy; making a good profit; of a good form or pattern; easy to manage, as an affair. hó-siu, good harvest.

iā-hó, middling; will barely do; just tolerable; name often given to a daughter. chiah sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, to-hó, eat what comes to hand. hó chiú-hó, well, as you say it is well, let it be, but it is barely tolerable.

hō [R. id. by change of tone from "hó," harmonious]. hō-lō-sō, to assent, without consideration, to another's opinion. hū-hō, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-hū-hō, all saying yes! yes! and approving of the plan or of what was said.

hō-si (R.), to respond, in making extempore poetry. chhiòng-hō (R.), to sing and respond alternately in making extempore poetry.

hō [R. misery, calamity, = col. ē], (Cn. hō). hō-hok, bad and good fortune. hui-hō, sudden calamity (lit. flying). thien-tsai hui-hō, sudden calamity sent by heaven. thien-tsai hēng-hō, id. tsai-hō (C.), = A. tsai-ē, calamity. hō-toan, (C.), = A. ē-toan, source or cause of misfortune or calamity.

hō [R. great and wide, extensive], (Cn. hō). hō-

和

禍

浩

hō tōng-tōng (R.), great and majestic, only said of Heaven.

hō (R. id.), (Cn. hō), a mark, a signal, a kind or sort; name of a firm; (to set a mark or name); day of foreign month. hō-miâ<sup>n</sup>, to give a name, as to a child. tsóng-hō, a general name or term. tê-hō-miâ<sup>n</sup>, name of a place. tōe-hō-miâ<sup>n</sup>, id. thé-hō-miâ<sup>n</sup>, a name taken from personal appearance. thé-hō, id. thé-hō, a nickname; a colloquial name for a man. chhiok-hō, a nickname; to give a nickname.

ni<sup>n</sup>-hō, the name of a reign, commonly called name of emperor, e.g. tō-kong (Tau-kwang), tōng-ti (Tung-chih), &c.

sin-hō (C.), the soft place on a child's head.

hit-hō, that sort or kind. hit-téng-hō, id. hit-hō-lâng, that sort of man.

jī-hō, a mark (a word); a trade-mark (by words); a designation of a firm or "chop." hâng-hō, name of a firm or Hong. tiâm-hō, name of a shop or small firm. âm-hō, a secret mark or signal. ki-hō, a mark. ki-hō, a distinctive mark or signal (as of troop or nation) made by a flag (v. ki). hō-phâu, signal gun (mandarin). hō-lêng, an order to soldiers by signal. pàng hé-hō, to set off fire signals. hoat hé-hō, id. kê-hō, the inscription on the cangue (v. kê, the cangue).

hō-pâng, a lodge at a high mandarin's gate for cards and letters; also, the office in a military mandarin's yamun for receiving complaints and doing general business with the people. koa<sup>n</sup>-gûn-hō, the customs' banker. lâi-hō, a small private stamp used by a mandarin for documents of which he has personal cognizance. kê-lâi-hō, to be stamped with it. hō-siu, phrase used in the foreign customs for receipts (v. siu).

hō-thâu, a trumpet with a curved mouth; the number of a chapter or lesson, &c., either marked by numbers, or by the thousand-character-classic, or otherwise. pien hō-thâu, to mark things or volumes by the successive words of a book or of a sentence. hō-siú, a long trumpet with a narrow up-turned mouth. pûn-hō-siú, to blow these trumpets at the head of funerals and some other processions; the men who blow them.

hō-i-koà, a military coat or jacket.

jī-tsáp-hō, No. 20 (&c.); said also (especially at the Straits) for the day of the European month, to distinguish from the day of the Chinese moon.

phah-hō, to make a mark. phah-jī-hō, to make a mark by characters, as on goods. ûi-hō, to make one's mark at one's name, as a signature. khi-hō, to re-open a shop after holidays; sometimes to open a shop at the first.

hō (R. id.) hō-hí, to make a formal congratulation. kióng-hō (R.), to make presents and congratulations on joyful occasions. khèng-hō (R.), id. khiâ<sup>n</sup>-hō (Cn.), id. hō-siú, to make congratulations, with presents (or a play), to a man on his birth-day. hō-jīm, do, to mandarin on his taking office. hō-tsoeh, make visits and presents on festivals. hō-ni<sup>n</sup>, make visits, or send cards, on last day of year. hō-chia<sup>n</sup>, make visits in the first days of new-year. hō sin-chhun, id. hō sin-hun make congratulatory presents after a marriage. hō-lé, to make congratulatory presents, as after a marriage, or getting office, &c.

hō-gi, money given on such an occasion, as a congratulation.

hō [R. to breathe out; to call; to order], to make a verbal bargain or agreement. bêng-hō, to promise plainly; to make a verbal bargain. chheng-hō, to address by an honourable appellation. chio-hō, to talk politely, as to visitors or customers.

hō-khip, breathing, used in medical phrases (v. khip).

hō-im, to give the sounds, to pronounce the sounds clearly, as in learning to read.

hō-hat, to give orders to inferiors, somewhat imperiously. hō-hoàn, to order, as a servant. hō-lê hoàn-pi, to have menials and slaves at one's command.

σ-hō (R.), phrase used in mourning for the dead. σ-hō ai--tsài (R.), id. it-tàn σ-hō, one may die (and be mourned for) any morning; if I (or any one) should suddenly die some day.

hō — hō-soat, to tell lies. kóng-hō, id. lâm-sám-hō, id. gâu-hō, fond of telling lies. hō-hâm (= hong-hâm), exaggerated language, talking very big. hō-hoah, to tell falsehoods in a loud overbearing way. hō-thi<sup>n</sup> hō-tōe, to tell very great lies; e.g. accusing people falsely.

hō (R. id.), (Cn. hō), a marquis; the second of the five ranks of nobility; a feudal prince. hē-iâ, a marquis. tsu-hē, feudal princes. ông-hē, kings and feudal princes. kong-hē, dukes and marquises; lords. hong-hē, to create a marquis.

hō (R. id.), (Cn. phò). hē-lí, a fox. hē-li-chháu, fox fur. hē-kún káu-tóng, a set of vile abandoned men, leading each other into all wickedness. hē ká hē-úi (R.), mandarin's attendants making themselves very big (lit. fox using the tiger's majesty). hō-gi, suspicious, and therefore undecided.

hō (R. id.) hē-sin, house-flies (v. sin). hē-se-á (P.), a small stinging insect.

hē-tiáp, hinges (v. tiáp).

hō — hē-liu, a very small sort of fish (v. liu).

hō (R. id.) hē-chio, pepper.

hō (R. id.) hē-lê-pû, a gourd (v. lê).

hō, to lift a small thing out of the water with a dipper or strainer; to gather, as water-lily roots. hē--khi-lâi, id. hē-sau, to catch larvæ with a small net. hē-chhu, id. hē-png, to lift out boiled rice with a dipper that strains it. hē-phiô, to gather duck-weed with a strainer.

hō [R. floating], (Cn. hiô). hē-hoàn, unfounded, groundless, as rumour (v. hoàn). hē-sam put-lám (floating wood not tied), said of men or things (v. lám). hu-hē (R.), empty and false, as boastful talk.

hō [R. paste, = col. kè; confused]. hē-tê, careless, negligent; dishonest, equivocating (v. tê). hē-sâm, roughly made and ill-finished, as furniture, dress, &c. hē-hun, confused and somewhat untrue, as language; ill-mended or corrected (not sufficiently like the original); a lot having some articles mixed which are worse or not uniform. hē-sáp-sáp, in a disorderly state, as dishes spattered with food, or as a tangled dirty beard. hē-chhe-chhe, careless in managing or doing something. hē-chhè-chhè, id. hē-nà<sup>n</sup>-sah<sup>n</sup>, id.

hâm-hē, to talk indistinctly and ambiguously of set purpose, or manage things in a confused way so as to mislead.

hō [R. a lake, = col. ê]. hē-si, raw silk from Central China (Hoo-chow? or Hoo-pch?). hē-si-kheh, silk merchants from Central China. khah-kùi hē-si, dreadfully expensive, as goods. hē-lâm (R.), = ê-lâm, 11oo-nan province.

hō [R. beard, whiskers]. hē-hē-hē, having large

號

賀

呼

侯

狐

胡

塗
湖
葫
撈

浮

糊

湖

鬍

bushy whiskers. hē--ê, all hairy round below the chin. hē-chhiu, beard and whiskers. chhêng-hē-chhiu, pointed leaves of the fir-tree. chhêng-hē, id. hē-sai-káu, a shaggy little dog.

hō [R. a deep bowl, = col. ô]. jiō-hē (esp. Cn.), = jiō-ê, a chamber-pot. iā-hē (Cn. T.), id. hông-tê iā-hē (Cn.), said in coarse joke of a man who is too knowing, in allusion to "kok-pih."

hō (C.) san-hē, = A. sien-hô, coral.

hō (Cn.), = A. hô, a river.

hō (Cn.), = A. hô, harmonious.

hō (Cn.), = A. hô. hē-hêng, to desire very much.

hō (Cn.), = A. hô, what? who? why? and so with some other words.

hō (R. id.) hē-phék, amber.

hō [R. hú, the bank of a river]. hē-thí, a sort of edible sea-weed. hē-soe, sort of sea-weed fried in fat.

hō [R. hē<sup>n</sup>, fire, = col. hé]. hē-m̄, the wild raspberry (v. m̄).

hō — hē-kū, name of a bird (v. kū).

hō, to cheat out of money; to take money in an overbearing way or by force.

hō (Cn. P.), = hó, good.

hō (R. id.), a tiger. hē-khí, tiger's tooth hung up as an amulet. hē-kut, tiger's bones. hē-kut-ka, jelly from tiger's bones (very strengthening). hē-lô, a tiger-trap. hē-lê (P.), id. hē-tū (T.), id.

lín-hē, a deep abscess in the breast. leng-hē, id. chhut-mâg-hē, a large boil or carbuncle on the back of the neck where the hair ends.

hē-lók, outwardly good, but inwardly very bad (v. lók). puih hē-chhiu, a game of chance (v. chhiu). phak-tê-hē, a catamite. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-hē (vulg.), a man who limps (said in scolding).

tháng-hē, a hooked instrument for pulling on the hoops of barrels, &c. hā-san-hē, a thick strong vest with many buttons on the breast, made very tight. hā-san-hē-hiū, do. wadded.

hē-chhêng, a sort of gingall. hē-bō, a sort of child's cap. hē-á-ôe, sort of shoes for children. hē-chih-lòe, a coarse iron file (v. chih). hē-bāng, a sort of fish-net (v. bāng). hē-kháu, the space between the thumb and the fore-finger (v. kháu). hē-mâg, Bocca Tigris, on the Canton river. hē-úi, majesty of a mandarin (v. úi). hē-pan-tiám, marked with long large streaks like a tiger's skin. hē-chiò, Tauist rites for keeping away tigers, or for atoning for the killing of a tiger. hē-sa, the hills stretching from behind a grave round on the right hand (v. sa).

lêng-hē-púg, official list of successful candidates for the literary degrees of Kújín and Chìn-sū (lit. roll of the dragon and tiger). lêng-hē-chí, the front space at a temple, with figures of dragon and tiger. lêng-hē-kî, flags of very high mandarin, with figures of them. lêng-hē pé tsúí-kháu, the dragon and tiger guard the entrance of the harbour, as at Amoy by the "hō-thâu" and "lêng-thâu." pe-lêng pe-hē, flying dragon and tiger on flags carried before high mandarins. lêng-hē kau-chièn, ku-pih siū-tsai, when the great quarrel the small suffer. hē-lêng pà-piu, very violent and wicked men. thien lióng, tē hē (C.), the dragon in heaven and the tiger on earth are the great powers. pèk-hē, chheng-lióng, tsu-chhiok, hiên-bú, the (Tauist) spirits that preside over the four quarters. lióng seng lióng-tsú, hē seng pà-jí, children are like their parents in excellence.

péh-hē, a white tiger. hē-iá, the deified tiger; the god of gambling. hē-chiòng-iá, id. hē-sài-iá, id. hē-chiòng-kong (esp. T.), id. hē-sèng-kong, earthen image of a tiger carried on 1. 14 or 15 to collect wood for the fires called "hē-phún." thien-hē (C.), tigers sent by heaven (v. thien). sin-hē (C.), a tiger which is really a spirit in the shape of a tiger, from which it is impossible to escape.

hē-thâu, a very bad man, who is always acting as the head and patron of people who cause trouble. hē-thâu-pái, a shield with a tiger's head painted on it. hē-thâu-ka, a dungeon at Fuh-chau. hē-thâu, niáu-chhú bé, boastful at first, but a coward at the last.

chiòh-hē, a sort of wild cat. chím-hē, a fish that devours crabs. tsoá-hē, the book-worm. tâu-hē, a small winged beetle that wastes peas, beans, &c. hē-sin-hē, a small insect about the size of a pea. piah-hē, = sièn-làng, the common lizard. chhu-hē, a figure like a lizard carved on furniture. chhi-hē (C.), id.

hē-sai, tigers and lions (v. sai). hē-sai, a sort of crab. hē-se, a sort of sole. hē-soa, a large spotted dangerous shark. hē-hī, id. it hang, jī hē, this and the skate make bad wounds (v. hang). hē-hī-chháu, a small plant used for medicine (v. hī), (v. phoá<sup>n</sup>).

chhi-hē, to rush foolishly into danger; a worthless wretch (v. chhi). bêng-hē, a fierce tiger. bêng-hē bōe-túí--tit káu-kún, a tiger cannot beat a crowd of monkeys. pek-hē sióng-jín, to drive a tiger to bay will hurt men, said of driving a man too hard; said also of an unlucky grave (v. sa). pák-hē iông-í; chhiòng-hē lân, to bind a tiger is easy, the trouble is to let him loose. khí-hē chi-sè, put-tek-hā, he who rides a tiger cannot dismount (v. hā). chhiò-bîn-hē, a tiger with a smiling face; pretending friendship while plotting our ruin. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bîn-hē, absurdly touchy. ũ, tsòe-hē tsām: bô, tsòe-hē thi<sup>n</sup>-ām, having money he is voracious as a tiger; without money he stretches out his neck looking up like a tiger.

hò (R. id.) hē-tháng, a large bucket for irrigation, swung on two ropes between two men. hē-táu, a smaller bucket for water; also, having one's lower jaw projecting too much. ē-táu hē-hē, lower jaw very prominent. ē-táu kah-hē, id.

tò-hē--kè, to make a somersault forwards. hē-chiú<sup>n</sup> hē-lòh, to climb about up and down, as a restless boy.

hē-chhiú, to toss the hand out and upwards with the palm open upwards, as expression of displeasure. hē-chhiú hē-kioh, to toss one's arms upwards, and shake about one's legs in disputing.

hē-tsúi, to raise water by a bucket swung between two men. hē lêng-bák, to wash the eyes of the dragon-boats before the race.

hō (T. hō). sip-jī-hē, tied in the shape of a cross. sip-jī-hē pák--teh, to tie by strings at right angles, as a bundle. phah sip-jī-hē, id. si-liám-hē, id. tiâu-kak hē--teh, tied diagonally, as a bundle tied in a napkin by its four corners.

hō [R. hòng, to let loose, = col. pàng]. hē-hiah<sup>n</sup>, flurried; hurried (v. hiah<sup>n</sup>).

hō [R. hō, thick, = col. káu]. chhin-hē-hē, very intimate, as friends.

hō [R. to guard; to protect]. pó-hē, to protect. kiù-hē, to save or deliver from great danger, as man or idol. hiám-kiù-hē, to call out loud for help.

壺

琥珀火

虎

桶

互

放厚護

hō-sàng, to convoy. hō-sin-kià<sup>n</sup>, a breast-plate (v. kià<sup>n</sup>).

hō--chhù, the two houses at the ends of the principal house, facing towards it. hō-lêng (T.), id.

ùi-hō, name of an idol. hō-hoat, = khiá-lâm-iá, an idol. hō-hoat-iá, id. hō-kài-kong (Cn.), id., he has long hair.

kim-kng hō-sin (Cn.), several idols named and worshipped together, set in front of Shakya-muni (sek-khia).

hō [R. a door; a single-leaved door; a family; master of a family or of a business, &c.]

hō-têng, threshold. hō-tái<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. thong-hō-kūi, shop-counter at door of shop. hō-tiáp, hinges (gen. so written, but properly hō-tiáp). mng-hō, doors in general; a door. mng-hō sa<sup>n</sup>-túi, families of about equal rank. mng-pang hō-si<sup>n</sup>, all the doors and their fittings, as in stating whether they are in good order or not. mng-sin hō-ù, the guardian spirits of doors, civil and military respectively. phah toá-mng, khui toá-hō, to do wicked things openly, as keeping a public brothel openly.

hō-kháu, a household, in regard to a sort of census of families. tsō hō-kháu, to make such a list of families, done by mandarins and tepo. ka-ka hō-hō, every household. phài hù-hō, to levy contributions from rich houses.

tsún-hō, junks, as to their number; the owner of a junk (v. tsún). hâng-hō, owner or partner of a hong. kau-hō, do. of smaller firm. tiám-hō, a shop-keeper (s. rain). phē-hō, a shop; a shop-keeper (v. phē). tién-hō, the tenant of a farm. tūi<sup>n</sup>-hō (Cn.), id.

kah-hō, a group of about twelve houses, making a subdivision of a small ward (pó). kúi kah-hō, how many such groups are there in one "pó?" hō-thâu-miá<sup>n</sup>, the name under which a group of fields or houses is entered in the register-books of the tax-collectors; generally it is the name of some ancestor which remains unaltered for many generations. siáng-hō-thâu, having one's field or house in the same group in the books with some other man's. khiá sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hō-thâu-miá<sup>n</sup>, what is the name under which your property stands on the register?

hō-pē, the Board of Revenue at Peking; the president of it, like chancellor of exchequer. hō-páng, the revenue department in a yamun, esp. of the land-tax; the secretary who has the management of it.

hō [R. empress or queen; a ruler], (Cn. hiō). hōng-hō, empress by marriage. thài-hō, empress-mother; validi-sultana; empress-dowager. hōng-thài-hō, id. thài-hōng thài-hō, emperor's grandmother.

hō-chek, the god of agriculture. hō-thé, id., the spirit of the earth, viewed as consort of Imperial Heaven (v. thé). thien-hō niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of sailors, = má-tsó-pó.

hō [R. after, = col. āu], (Cn. hiō). hō-è, posterity. hō-i (C.), id. hō-sū, posterity; heirs. hō-chin, descendants who are a credit to their ancestors. hō-thé, descendants who are a disgrace to ancestors. hō-sè, after generations. hō-tái, id. hō-jit, on a future day. sū-hō, afterwards, at some future time, only from this time forward, never used when speaking of what was once future, but is now past. hō-sin, afterwards. hō-lái, id. sien-hō, before and after. chién-hō (r.), id.

hō (Cn.) hō-liám, very quickly, very speedily, esp. said in urging some one to be quick.

hō [R. to wait, = col. hāu, pē], (Cn. hiō, C. hāu). su-hō, to wait ready (as yamun people) to accompany the mandarin when he comes out. hoah su-hō, to call the underlings to get ready to wait on and accompany the mandarin. goá su-hō-lí, I am waiting till you are ready (said to a man who is too busy to attend to us, but for whom we are resolved to wait till he is ready).

hō (R. ú), rain. hong-hō, wind and rain. tsòe-hong lōh-hō, wind and rain come. hō-lái-thi<sup>n</sup>, rainy weather. thi<sup>n</sup>-khi hō-i, appearance of rain about to fall. tsòe-hō-i, id. kip-si-hō, seasonable rain. àm-hō tiâu-mi<sup>n</sup>, rain late in the day lasts through the night. hō chhia-teh-pià<sup>n</sup>, rain falling in torrents. hō si-lám-sui, rain overflowing everywhere. chim-tsù-hō, long-continued soaking rains. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kóng-hō, heavy squall of wind and rain. sai-pak-hō, north-west rain-storm, soon clears off.

ien-bū-hō, gloomy rainy weather. hūn-hō, a brief passing shower of very limited range. kè-soa<sup>n</sup>-hō, a heavy passing shower on the hills. sién-hō, long weary rains, not very heavy. lōh-sián-hō, to have such long rains.

bōng-chéng-hō, rain on the term called "bōng-chéng" (v. chéng). chhiū<sup>n</sup>-m-hō (C.), rain at the time the arbutus (Myrica) ripens.

hō-tsūn, a shower. hō-á-mng, drizzling rain. hō-á-chhiu, id. phùn--tióh hō-hoe, to get some drops of rain on one. hō-tsúi, rain-water; rain. káu hō-tsúi, rain abundant. hō-tsúi sūn-siók, rain in due season from time to time. sin hō-tsúi, to catch rain-water in a vessel.

lōh-hō, to rain. lōh-hō-bé, drizzling rain. pàng-hō, to rain in small quantity. tih-hō, to have rain dropping from the roof.

hō chí<sup>n</sup>, the rain cleared off.

thàu-hō, through the rain. chiá<sup>n</sup>-thàu-hō, rain enough to saturate the ground (v. thàu). khit-hō, to pray for rain. tsáu-hō, to take shelter from rain. tiám-hō, id. (s. door). hioh-hō, id. oán-hō, to spread a mat or sail, as cover from rain. sióng-hō-phāng, taking advantage of a break in the rain.

hō-soà<sup>n</sup>, an umbrella (v. soà<sup>n</sup>).

thi<sup>n</sup> bō-hō, lāng bō-lō, if Heaven give no rain man has no resource.

hō (R. ú), (Cn. thè), to give; to cause; also, = khit, sign of the passive in some phrases.

kau hō--i, hand it over to him. m-thang hō--i, don't give it him. soà tióh-chi<sup>n</sup> hō--i, and must also give him money.

hō-i-phah, to be struck by him. i hō--lí poáh-bōe-tó, you cannot beat him in argument.

hō-lí-chē, you must be responsible for the payment. hō-i-kóng, let him speak. hō-lí-kóng, you may speak; please say on. hō--lāng tah-hiah<sup>n</sup>, to make a man start.

ká<sup>n</sup>-sí hō--lāng, not afraid to kill one's self in order to make an enemy responsible for the death.

hō [R. thick, = col. káu], (Cn. hiō). tiong-hō, honest; faithful; upright. hō-tō, honest, fair, and safe to have dealings with. sūn-hō, honest, well-behaved, and pleasant to deal with. hong-siók sūn-hō, customs of a place excellent. phok-sit tun-hō (R.), honest, straightforward, and simple in tastes. hō-tiōng, grave, quiet, and sedate; large and fat in person.

chhin-hō, associating intimately (v. chhin).

hù-hō, very rich. hō-lí, very profitable, as trade.

候

雨

與

厚

戶

后

後

iông-iông to hē-hok, common ordinary people usually have much happiness.

hē-phak, a very thick sort of bark, used to cure a dyspeptic or bilious feeling.

滄

hō (R. id.), a word used in the names of many places. chhim-hē, Chimmoo, near Chinchew. hē-bé, the native name of the town at the settlement of Tam-suy, in Formosa.

互

hō [R. interlocking like two hooks, mutual]. sa<sup>n</sup>-kau-hē, hooking into each other in the form of the character "hē." se-hē, a frame shaped like that character, for making hanks of yarn. se-hē-toh, a table of which the feet come separate from the top, and fold up like a folding chair. se-hē-kha--ê, id. hē-se, to make hanks of yarn on the frame.

hō (T.) si-liām-hē, = A. si-liām-hè, tied crossing at right angles, as the string of a parcel.

hō (Cn.), = A. hō, a kind; a sort; a mark.

hō (Cn.), = A. hō, misery; calamity.

hō (Cn.), = A. he, lime.

hō (Cn.), = A. hē, to return.

hō (Cn.), = A. hé, fire. hō-m̄, = A. hē-m̄, the Chinese raspberry.

hō (Cn.), = A. hé, comrade, company, &c.

hō (Cn.), = A. hé. hō-sit, ke-hō, &c.

hō (Cn.), = A. hē, year of age.

hō (Cn.), = A. hē, goods.

hō<sup>n</sup>, to bray, as an ass. hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-háu, to buzz; to snore. hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-kiò, id. khùn-kàu hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-kiò, to sleep and snore.

hō<sup>n</sup>, an interjection used at the end of a statement, followed by a pause, to let what has said be fully considered, suggesting the idea "is not that so?" or "is not that a good reason?"

火

hō<sup>n</sup> [R. fire, = col. hé]. kim-bók-súi hē<sup>n</sup>-thé, metal, wood, water, fire, earth; the five elements. bēng-hē<sup>n</sup> kiap-liók, housebreaking and robbery with lighted torches. toān-súi-hē<sup>n</sup>--sí, to put to death by prohibiting the use of fire and water, i.e. by starvation.

hō<sup>n</sup> (cf. hē). hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup> hiá<sup>n</sup>-hiá<sup>n</sup>, much flurried.

好

hō<sup>n</sup> [R. to desire, to be fond of, by change of tone from "hō<sup>n</sup>," good]. hē<sup>n</sup>-sū, a meddler; a busybody; a tattler and talebearer. hē<sup>n</sup>-chhap éng-sū, id. hē<sup>n</sup>-im, lascivious. hē<sup>n</sup>-ko, ambitious. hē<sup>n</sup>-sèng, domineering; fond of being superior. hē<sup>n</sup>-siēn, to delight in virtue and goodness.

hō<sup>n</sup> — hē<sup>n</sup>-hē<sup>n</sup>-chhoán, to pant hard.

灰

hoa, to extinguish or go out, as fire. hé hoa, the fire is gone out. tè-hé-hoa, may life go out as a lamp (sometimes said as anoath for confirmation). tng teng-hé hoa, may my life go out like this lamp before me! phah-hoa, to extinguish. im-hoa, to extinguish by covering up. ak-hoa-hé, extinguish fire by water. pún-hoa, do. by blowing. kiù-hoa-hé, to put out a (dangerous) fire.

hoa--khi, to be fully cured and so disappear, as a cutaneous disease.

tih-beh-hoa, about to die, as a very sickly child.

譁 hoa (R. id.) soan-hoa (R.), noisy disturbance; noisy talk or clamour. kim-chí soan-hoa (R.), no noise allowed here; written up at offices, &c.

花 hoa [R. a flower, often has the idea of licentiousness, = col. hoc; but in C. both R. and col. are "hoa"].

hoa-phùn, dressing gaudily, boasting, and making one's self of importanee. hoa-hùi, to spend lavishly

(v. hùi). hu-hoa, lavish expense; dissolute. hi-hoa (C.), id. hong-hoa, dissolute. ien-hoa ê sé-tsāi, a house of ill-fame. ien-hoa ê-láng, a prostitute. hoa put-bê-jîn, jîn tsū-bê, it is not beauty that deludes men, men delude themselves.

gím-siōng thiam-hoa, an addition to great wealth or learning (flowers upon flowered silk). thien-hoa-hún, a seed used medicinally. thien-hoa-pán, = (better) thien-lô-pán, a ceiling. lók-hoa liú-súi (flowers fallen and floating away), extremely miserable. lók-hoa-seng (R.), = lók-kha-seng, ground-nuts. hoa-chio, white pepper. hoa-hiong-tê, tea flavoured with flowers (v. hiong).

hoa-ki-kok, the United States (v. kí).

hoa [R. hoá, splendid]. hoa-hā (R.), China. tiong-hoa, id. hoa-chhái (R.), richly ornamented.

hoā [R. splendid]. êng-hoā hù-kùi, very prosperous. chhia-hoā, lavish; gaudy.

gêh-hoā, vari-coloured halo of the moon, supposed to be an omen of great good.

hoā [R. àn, according to, to examine], (T. hoā<sup>n</sup>). hoā-khoā<sup>n</sup>, to calculate by a rough guess at sight, without measurement. hoā-sng, to make a rough calculation of quantity, but more careful than "hoā-khoā<sup>n</sup>." hoā-sng-khoā<sup>n</sup>, id.

hoā-soah (Cn.), = (T.), hoā<sup>n</sup>-soah, to get people to make up a quarrel, as neighbours do.

hoā [R. to change, to renovate, to beg, as priests; to digest; luck or fortune], (C. hòè), to change, as the transformations of nature; to rot away.

siau-hoà, to digest. hoà-hé, to be accidentally consumed, as paper or clothes. hoà-tsòe hé-hu, to be burned away to ashes.

hoà-hoà, naturally taking things quite easy; not much affected by good or bad news. thoat-hoà, easy-minded; not anxious about danger or trouble; not particular about ceremony; taking things as they come. sim bōe-hoà, grief hard and long to remove.

hūn-hoà, quite alike and undistinguishable, as a mend or a counterfeit. khah-hoà, having the edges shading gradually (a beauty in painting, but a fault in writing).

tiám-hoà, to instruct or warn, as a spirit does in a dream. kám-hoà, to renovate, as doctrine or spiritual influence. kàu-hoà, to instruct and lead to better conduct. hong-hoà, influence of superiors on character, esp. for good. hó-hong-hoà, good example and influence.

pièn-hoà, natural changes; to be transformed (v. pièn). hoà-si<sup>n</sup>, produced from a chrysalis, &c. bān-bút hoà-seng, all things are produced by natural changes. hoà-sin, to die and become a Buddha. hoà-sin-tōng, a cave where beggars die (v. tōng).

hoà-iên (C.), = A. hòe-iên, to beg, as Buddhist priests.

tsō-hoà (R.), to make and transform. hó-tsō-hoà (C. hó-tsū-hoè), good luck; good fortune. tsō-hoà sī, id. tsō-hoà m̄-sī, bad luck. phái<sup>n</sup>-tsō-hoà, id. phòng tsō-hoà, to make a trial or attempt with some hope (but not much) of success; to make a venture, e.g. at examination, or asking for a situation, &c. tú tsō-hoà, id. té tsō-hoà, id. tú lí-ê tsō-hoà, I will try my best for you, but with much doubt of success. phēng lí-ê tsō-hoà, id. = phòng &c. = tâu &c. tau tsō-hoà, to make a venture along with another, as partners in a trading speculation.

hoā [R. speak, words, = col. oē]. hoā put-tê-

華華按

化

話

ki, poàn-kù to, when what is said is not agreeable half a sentence is too much.

諱

hoā, noisy play; turmoil or disturbance. hoā-hoā, id. hoā-hoā-kún, id. hoā-hoā-háu, id. hoā-hoā-tiō, to move about in great excitement, as a crowd (v. tiō). hán-hoā, indistinct noise or hum of a crowd, with more or less noisy talk; to be in an excited state, as a community when there are rumours of rebellion. kóng-hoā kóng-chhiò, to joke and jest and talk loudly.

畫

hoā [R. to paint or draw, = oā]. hoā-phé, a book of drawing lessons. hoā-kong (C. oē-kong, oāi-kong), an ornamental painter, as of flowers, &c. hoā-péng chhióng-ki, to paint a loaf to appease hunger. hoā-hé put-sêng, hoán úi-ké, try to paint a tiger, but make it a dog (v. hoán).

歡
歛

hoā (Cn.) = A. hiā, a tile.
hoā (Cn.) hoā-lâng, Spaniards, said esp. by people who have been at Manila.

hoā (R. hoan). hoā-hí, to be glad or pleased (v. hí).

hoā<sup>n</sup>, to snore.
hoā<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. hoā, to make a rough guess or calculation.

hoā<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. hoai<sup>n</sup>, across.
hoā<sup>n</sup> (C.), = hoai<sup>n</sup>. ē-hoā<sup>n</sup>-si, a plant used in making cakes.

hoā<sup>n</sup> (cf. hoā<sup>n</sup>), careless; inattentive to business. hoā<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id.; without determination; colour indistinct. hoā<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup> kè--khi, negligently let matter pass without proper attention.

ε-hoā<sup>n</sup>, dull or grayish black; dim, as light. âng-hoā<sup>n</sup>, light red. hoā<sup>n</sup>-âng, id. ñg-hoā<sup>n</sup> ñg-hoā<sup>n</sup>, light yellow. gèh hoā<sup>n</sup>, moon not giving much light, as at beginning or end of month, or when the sky is clouded. gèh hoā<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id.

泛
旦

hoā<sup>n</sup> (R. hoàn). hoā<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup>, not caring much about a matter; not giving attention (cf. hoā<sup>n</sup>). tiú<sup>n</sup> hoā<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup>, to pretend indifference.

hoā<sup>n</sup> [R. tàn, the morning]. bin-hoā<sup>n</sup>, after this time; afterwards; on a future day. tiám-hoā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), just lately; a very short time ago.

岸

hoā<sup>n</sup> — kí-hoā<sup>n</sup>, the gums. chhùi-khí-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id.

hoā<sup>n</sup> (R. gān), an embankment; a dyke. tē-hoā<sup>n</sup>, a sea-dyke, inclosing reclaimed land. hái-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id.; a sea-wall. hô-hoā<sup>n</sup>, dyke on a great river. ùn-hoā<sup>n</sup>, embankment of a pool that is overflowed at high-tide. thún-hoā<sup>n</sup>, to make the dyke higher or stronger. oá-hoā<sup>n</sup>, to approach the embankment; to come near the mark (v. oá), (s. lean).

bin-chhng-hoā<sup>n</sup>, the broad board on front of a bed, for sitting on.

畔岸

hoā<sup>n</sup> — chhân-hoā<sup>n</sup>, the raised divisions between irrigated fields. chhân-hoā<sup>n</sup>-lê, a road on the narrow banks between rice-fields. chhân-hoā<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup> (P.), money paid, once for all, for the right of cultivating common fields so that they cannot be taken away.

hng-hoā<sup>n</sup>, raised divisions between dry fields.

按

hoā<sup>n</sup> [R. àn, to lay the hand on], to lay the hand heavily upon, so as to steady or to lean upon; to manage, as household or accounts.

hoā<sup>n</sup>-béh, to feel the pulse.
hoā<sup>n</sup>-toā, to steer a vessel.

sa<sup>n</sup>-hoā<sup>n</sup>, hands leaning on each other's shoulders.
hoā<sup>n</sup> keng-thâu, to lean on another's shoulder by the hand. hoā<sup>n</sup> hē-i-tiā<sup>n</sup>, steady it with the hand hoā<sup>n</sup>-khi-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. hoā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to keep one's mind at ease (v. tiā<sup>n</sup>). tah-hoā<sup>n</sup>, to lay one's hand on something to steady one's self; to depend upon another, as widow, orphan, &c. bō-tah bō-hoā<sup>n</sup>, having no one to look to for support. bō-té thang-oá-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id. bō-lâng thang-oá-hoā<sup>n</sup>, id.

hoā<sup>n</sup>-ke, to manage household affairs. hoā<sup>n</sup> ke-sū, id. hoā<sup>n</sup> hâng-chêng, to fix the market price (v. hâng). hoā<sup>n</sup>-poā<sup>n</sup>, to have the authoritative voice in a business, as manager (ke-tiú<sup>n</sup>) or shroff. hoā<sup>n</sup>-siàu, to keep the accounts.

hoā<sup>n</sup> sin-tē, to have a small military district.
hoā<sup>n</sup>-soah, to try to get people to make up a quarrel, as neighbours or friends.

hoā<sup>n</sup>-phek, the man in a band of music who beats the "phek." hoā<sup>n</sup> sù-koán, to play musical instruments of all sorts. hoā<sup>n</sup> hiên-koán, to play joyful music.

hoā<sup>n</sup>, to solder. hoā<sup>n</sup>-iòh, id. tâng-hoā<sup>n</sup>, soldering with hard solder. siah-hoā<sup>n</sup>, soldering with soft solder.

hoah (Cn.), = A. hiah, thus, this, these.

喝

hoah (R. hat), to shout loud; to bawl. hoah-loah, id. hoah-hiám, id. tau-hoah, to call out loud, encouraging each other to do something. hán-hoah, loud shouting or noise; noisy disturbance. him-hoah, to reprove so as to silence. háng-hoah, to frighten; to call loud in a threatening way; to bully. háu-hoah, to talk loud in reproving or threatening. hoah hoā<sup>n</sup>-hí, to shout out for amusement, as on the hills; to call out loud to inferiors just for the pleasure of ordering. hoah chia hoah-hia, calling out in great terror and perturbation, as at sudden danger. hoah-him hoah-hé, id. (as if at bears and tigers!)

hē-hoah, to tell lies and make a great noise. hē-thi<sup>n</sup> hoah-tōe, id. (often with the idea of slander).

hoah iú-o, man who calls out "iú-o" before a mandarin to clear the road. hoah-tō, id. hoah hé-ú, shouting loud as the mandarin ascends the tribunal. chhát-hoah-chhát, a thief calling out "stop thief!" (v. chhát).

hoah-soa<sup>n</sup>, to call the auspicious influence of the mountain to the grave, at burial (v. soa<sup>n</sup>). hoah-thé, to perform rites before beginning to build or repair a house or grave.

hoah-kún, to play at morra (v. kún). hoah lê-lang, an auction. hoah lê-long, id.

hoah-kè, to put an extra price on an article, as from change in supply or demand.

hoah thâu-sia<sup>n</sup>, to make the proposal which the rest of the company follow; to be in the habit of taking the lead in arranging what is to be done. hoah ôe-tâng, his words are usually followed. tái-ke hoah-thang, all at once gave their assent.

hoah-soah, to order inferiors and make them stop a quarrel, between themselves or with others.

hoah — soah-hoah, to determine and decide what is to be done, as the leader or principal party in an affair.

hoah [R. hân, a limit, = col. ân, hát]. tsat-hoah, to use an average moderate amount, as of strength, or of food, &c.

限

hoah [R. hoát, to subdue, to stride], a stride; one step; to take one good step. toā-hoah, a very long step. nng-hoah chit-pē, two steps make one pace. sa<sup>n</sup>-pē tsòe-nng-hoah, in a tremendous hurry (making two steps as long as three paces). chiá<sup>n</sup>-pah-hoah-kha, about a hundred steps = fifty paces. hoáh-kè-khì, to take a long step across.

hoai, or hoc (P.), = A. hoe, a flower. hoai-kì-kò, variegated, = A. hoe-li-lò.

hoái [R. id., = col. iù]. hoái-chhiū, a tree with yellow flowers (Sophora?). hoái-hoe, its flowers used as a dye for staining wood a greenish yellow.

hoái [R. to carry in the bosom, heart, or womb, = col. kúi], (P. hōe). hoái-hùn, to cherish enmity. hoái-liām (R.), to cherish a feeling in the heart. sim-hoái (R.), the breast (inside). khai-hoái thiòng-ím, jolly over the wine-cups. hoái-thai, to be pregnant. hoái-in (R.), id.

hoái [R. name of the river Hwai in the north of Ngan-hwui, and of a city, Hwai-ning foo, in Honan]. hoái-soa<sup>n</sup>, = soa<sup>n</sup>-iòh-tsú, a medicinal root from Hwai-ning and North China (Dioscorea?). hoái-san, id.

hoái [R. hái, the bones of the chin]. ē-hoái, the lower jaw-bone. ē-hoái-kut, id. bô-ē-hoái, having a very small lower jaw and almost no chin.

hoái (R. id.) pāi-hoái, to spoil. sún-hoái, id. húi-hoái, id. to destroy. phah-hoái, id. phah-hoái-sū, to ruin an affair or business by mismanagement. hoái-sū, id. hiú-hoái, to rot away. tó-hoái, to fall down, as a house. pang-hoái, to fall, as a landslip, or as an embankment giving way.

hoái<sup>n</sup> (R. hêng), (Cn. hūi<sup>n</sup>; C. hoá<sup>n</sup>), across, crosswise; (horizontal); wicked, unfair; especially, unfair and overbearing when having an influential protector.

hoái<sup>n</sup>-tsái, wealth got by mere good luck, or by unjust means. hoái<sup>n</sup>-tsá<sup>n</sup>, to get large gains suddenly. hoái<sup>n</sup>-kô, id. hoái<sup>n</sup>-kô ê seng-lí, making enormous gains in trade.

hoái<sup>n</sup>-kêh, opposed to right and justice; disobedient and unruly (v. kék). hoái<sup>n</sup>-hék, violent, overbearing, and unjust. áu-hoái<sup>n</sup>, unfair, oppressive, and injurious, as a man who has powerful influence at his back; to get people's money out of them by an overbearing and violent manner. hoái<sup>n</sup>-peh-peh, id.

thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, crosswise, transverse; horizontal as opposed to perpendicular. thá<sup>n</sup>-hoái<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. tó thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, lying across. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, heart perverse and wicked.

hoái<sup>n</sup>-tit, straight and cross-wise; in every direction. hoái<sup>n</sup>-khng tit-khng, to entreat and exhort by every means. hoái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup> tit-tng, not afraid to go anywhere. hoái<sup>n</sup>-chháu bô-ni<sup>n</sup>, tit-chháu bô-liám, very gentle, very honest.

hoái<sup>n</sup>-tê, a ferry-boat. kiá<sup>n</sup> hoái<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to cross to Formosa (v. iú<sup>n</sup>). phah-hoái<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to attack by a flank movement. hoái<sup>n</sup>-thâu-toh, a table at the side of a room. hoái<sup>n</sup>-phi, an inscription written horizontally, as over a door or at the top of a scroll. hoái<sup>n</sup>-bah-bîn, repulsive distorted face. hoái<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, giá jip-tsàu (to put wood crosswise in the fireplace), perverse and contrary in temper.

hoái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. hoân, to spread out, as a mat. hoái<sup>n</sup> [R. hêng, name of a plant] (C. hoá<sup>n</sup>). ē-hoái<sup>n</sup>-si, a fibrous plant used in making the soft steamed cakes called "kê."

hoaih<sup>n</sup>, sound of creaking or of breaking. tâng-hoaih<sup>n</sup>-hoaih<sup>n</sup>, very heavy. chhē-hoaih<sup>n</sup>-hoaih<sup>n</sup>, very coarse, as cloth. têng-hoaih<sup>n</sup>-hoaih<sup>n</sup>, very hard, as cakes.

hoan [R. soân, to go round; to twine]. hoan- hoe, a convolvulaceous creeping plant, with light purple flowers, that spreads very rapidly (Calystigia?).

hoan [R. foreign, a time], foreign; barbarian; rude and clownish and foolish.

kúi-hoan (R.), how often?

hoan-hoan, rude, ignorant, and unreasonable. gín-ná hoan-hoan, the child is very exacting, unreasonable, and hard to please. hoan-ti-tu (clownish spider), a man who is absurdly unreasonable. hoan-kong-thé, very rude and ignorant, while affecting knowledge (v. thé).

thé-hoan, aborigines, as in Formosa. sék-hoan, civilized aborigines or foreigners. pi<sup>n</sup>-pê-hoan, aborigines in Formosa (near the limit of the plains) who have submitted to the Chinese. chhi<sup>n</sup>-hoan, uncivilized savages. biâu-hoan, unsubdued aborigines (Miau-tsze) in some parts of China, esp. north of Kwang-tung and Kwang-si provinces. ē-tê-hoan, an ancient tribe of barbarians mentioned in the "sam-kok-chi."

hoan-lâng, a foreigner; a barbarian. hoan-á, do. (more disrespectful), (s. flag). hoan-ná, id. hoan-á-hoán, foreigners rebelling against China. kim hoan-á-thâu, a gold coin of considerable size. hoan-thâu, a Spanish dollar (s. turn). hoan-ah, a sort of duck (v. ah). hoan-thong-sū, an interpreter. hoan-pang, a foreign country. hoan-pêng, foreign parts. hoan-tsú, = han-tsú, sweet potatoes. hoan-béh-sūi, maize; Indian corn. hoan-koah, a plant with a root somewhat like a turnip (v. koah). hoan-ké-chí, = lién-būn, the rose-apple.

kê-hoan, to go abroad. kiá<sup>n</sup>-hoan, to travel abroad. hoàn-hoan, to go abroad trading. hê-hoan, to go and make peace with foreigners, as the Princess Chiau-kun, married to the king of the (kim) Kin Tartars. chhut-pún hê-hoan, to lay out money in advance for a friend, as on a commission for goods which he has asked us to execute for him, or as in paying expenses on his account.

hoan (R. id.), to turn over. hoan-loan, to turn over and over. koh hoan--lâi, to relapse, as in sickness. hoan-lâi hoan-khì, to toss restlessly, as sick man on bed. hoan-kiau, to roll on the ground, as a horse. hoan-soa, id. hoan-lin-tng, to turn upside down; immediately (v. lin).

hoan-sin, immediately; in a moment. hoan-thâu, to turn one's head round; immediately (in indicative sentences), in speaking of coming back (s. foreign). hoan-thâu chiah-lâi, will come back immediately. tsúi hoan-thâu, the flood-tide just beginning to flow.

hoan-tsoán, versatile (v. tsoán). ū-hoan-chhia, id. (v. chhia). kap-lâng-hoan, to draw back from a promise, agreement, or engagement. hoan-bôe-tit, will not be pleased, as a child that cries for something else as soon as it gets what it asked before.

hoan-àn, to bring up a case again; to reverse the former decision of the court or of a lower court. hoan-không, to raise again a case that had been settled. hoan-kài, to repair a house by taking down the roof and part (at least) of the walls (v. kài). hoan-pán, to cut new blocks for a book. hoan-chháu, to chew the cud. hoan-thé, the child moving in the womb just before birth. hoan-thien (T.), to come in by the roof, as a thief. hoan-thien hok-tê, to make great confusion, as in rebellion, &c. (v. hok). tsúi hoan-káu, water gathering a scum when kept too long. hoan chhân-thê, to turn up the soil in preparation for another crop. pah-poa<sup>n</sup> seng-lí-lê, m-táh

槐

懷

淮

頰

壞

橫

鞞

旋

番

翻

hoan chhân-thê, agriculture is the safest and best of all occupations.

hoan-kih-kā, so confused as to be unintelligible (v. kā).

hoan (R. id.) hoan-ék, to interpret, to translate.

hoan [R. a sort of flag or streamer]. hoan-á, streamers attached to a circular frame used at funerals. kiáh hoan-á, to carry it, as chief mourners at funeral. in-hún-hoan, white streamers for calling back the spirit of a man who has died abroad. tông-hoan, set of streamers on a triangular rim, used as an ornament of idols and at funerals of vegetarians. khiá-hoan, to set up streamers at the ceremonies of "kong-tek" for the dead. khiá-hoan pàng-siá, to set up these streamers and burn paper images.

hoan [R. hun, to command]. hoan-hù, to order; to command; to give a message (v. hù).

hoan [R. to return; to repay, = col. hêng; in some phrases "hoân" (q.v.); also C., = A. hêng].

chheng-hoan, to clear off, as an account. hoân-chè (esp. C.), to pay a debt. hoân-i (C.), pay him.

hoân-hún, to revive from a swoon, faint, or apparent death (v. hún). hoân-tiâu, to go and pay respects, sometimes with gifts (in return), to a man who has worshipped our parent (tiâu-tsoá) shortly after death.

chit-pē hoân-chit-pē, taking slow and careful steps in walking; to manage a matter very carefully, step by step, making sure of one step before taking another. chit-kù hoân-chit-kù, each clause spoken separately and distinctly.

hoân (cf. oân), (T. hoái"), to open out, as something rolled up; to spread out, as a mat. hoân-chhióh, to spread out a mat. hoân mûg-lí, to open out a hanging door-screen. hoân báng-tà, to put up mosquito-curtains.

hoân — hoân-phê, to prepare leather for use, as a tanner.

hoân [R. all; every, = col. hoân, the world]. kàng-hoân, to come from heaven to be born into the world, as a god. thoat-hoân, to die, as Buddhist priest; to have one's mind not set on the world's affairs, as any man.

hoân — liên-hoân-chhèng, many guns fired in rapid succession so as to make a running fire. túg-liên-hoân, to fire them thus.

hoân [R. thoân, a round mass; a company]. liên-hoân-kiet, an agreement made by all the households of a street or ward to keep away bad characters, all being responsible for each.

hoân (R. id.), alum. pēh-hoân, id. sék-hoân, prepared alum. chhi"-hoân, raw alum. chheng-hoân (R.), copperas (?) tám-hoân, sulphate of copper. tsò-hoân, sulphate of iron. hoân-tsúi, a solution of alum.

hoân-tsoá, paper sized with alum. chhi"-káu-hoân, a sort of thick paper treated with alum.

hoân [R. troubled; anxious]. hoan-ló, sorrow; grieved; anxious about the future. hoan-hó (Cn.), id. êng hoan-ló, unnecessary anxiety. hoan-sim, mind grieved and anxious. hoan-sim pēh-pak, sorely distressed and anxious. sim-hoân i-loân, mind disturbed and anxious about a multitude of matters.

hoân-sin, I beg to trouble you, sir; I have given you a vast deal of trouble (v. sin). lô-hoân--lí, I beg to trouble you. hoân--lí sàng chit-ê-mih", I will trouble you to hand this (to another) for me. hoân lí--ê tái-kà, I beg to trouble you, sir.

tam-hoân, to have great anxieties, as about troublesome matters (v. tam). put-tân-hoân, willing to take any pains to get it done. ùi-hoân, to dislike being troubled; to decline troublesome duty.

hoân (R. id.), a surname.

hoân, growing soft and bad, as tiles.

hoân (R. id., = col. péng), to turn back (or bring back); to change, as purpose; to rebel; rebellion; but; on the other hand. tui-hoân, opposite in meaning or purpose. hoân-túg, but; on the other hand. hoân-m̄, to change one's purpose and refuse or reject; but now he will not. lóng-kháu hoân-tsoat, to try to be knowing but act as a fool. hoā-hé put-sêng, hoân ùi-ké (try to paint a tiger but make it a dog), said of a most miserable failure, so utter that it would have been far better never to have tried it at all.

hoân-hóe, to repent; to change one's purpose. hoân-hòe (C.), id. hoân-koá, to break one's promise. hoân-hiau, to betray trust in money matters. hiau-hoân, to break an agreement; to betray trust. hoân-pān, to send goods inferior to the sample. hoân-keng, to retract the confession or evidence given in court (v. keng). hoân-kàn-kè, to use secret plots and calumnies against a man (v. kè, "a plan").

hoân-hok, changeable in purpose; fickle (v. hok). hoân-siông, to change rapidly from good to bad, or from friendship to enmity (v. siông). hoân-bîn, to change countenance, as in sudden anger. hoân-biēn bû-siông, fickle, inconstant in friendship; touchy (v. siông). hoân-biēn bû-chêng, inconstant in friendship; ungrateful; fickle.

hoân-sek, to change colour; to become rancid by heat, as meat. hoân-pak, to turn the stomach; vomiting. hoân-chiō (C.), to chew the cud.

hoân-loân, to rebel. hoan-poân, id. tsō-hoân, id. bê-hoân, id. kap-pán-hoân, the war between Britain and China in 1842. sio-to-hoân, the Triad insurrection. hoân-chhát, rebels. hoân-kut, a man determined to rebel as soon as possible. tsáu-hoân, to flee from insurrection. pi-hoân, id.

óng-hoân, going and returning, as on a journey. hoân-tsú, to bring back the tablet from the funeral. hoân-tiâu, to give a sort of mournful turn up at the end of a line in a tune. im-iông hoan-pōe, turning day into night and night into day. hoân-bûn (T. pái"-bûn), the 66th or 67th radical, written at the side on the right hand.

hoân (R. id.) hoan-lâm (R.), a vast flood or deluge.

hoân [R. floating, vague, negligent], (Cn. hòang). hoan-hoân, working without heart or decided purpose; not careful; not particular how a thing is done; vague and general; insincere. tsòe-láng hoan-hoân, to act so. khah-hoân, in a rather general way, not giving many particulars. kap-lán hoan-hoân, very easy in his dealings with us; not very particular.

hoân — hu-hu hoan-hoân, quite uncertain or utterly false, as a story. hoan-hoân-tái, not very clear how the matter stands, but not of much consequence. hē-hoân, groundless, unsubstantial, as a rumour. hē-hē hoan-hoân, id. [perhaps some phrases belong to the previous word].

幡

吩 還

凡

團

礬

煩

樊 反

泛

喚 販

hoàn (R. id.) hơ-hoàn, to order, as a servant (v. hơ).

hoàn [R. to sell goods; to be a pedlar, = col. phoà.] hoàn-á, a pedlar. hoàn-á-phê, secret dialect, or slang used by pedlars. tsòe-hoàn, to be a pedlar. chhài-hoàn, a pedlar who sells vegetables. ah-hoàn, pedlar who sells ducks.

hoàn--chhut-lâi, to trade in bringing produce from the interior. hoàn-hoan, to trade abroad, either in person or by sending agents. hoàn-tsó, a medium-sized junk, as about 800 or 1000 peculs.

hoàn-sau, a dealer in slaves and children. hoàn-sau-keng, shop of such a dealer.

hoàn [R. an official]. bêng-hoàn-sū, temple to canonized mandarins of district or department (stands beside the Confucian temple).

hoàn (R. id.), to transgress; to offend against; a criminal; to meet with, as calamity or bad omen.

hoàn-hoat, to break the law. hoàn-tsòe, to contract guilt; to commit a crime. hoàn-kim, contract; strictly forbidden by law or regulation; to break such a prohibition. hoàn-àn, to be accused of crime; to be involved in a lawsuit. hoàn-hùi, to offend against a sacred name, as of Sage or Emperor. hoàn-iá, to go about without a lamp, and at forbidden time of night.

hoàn-lâng, a criminal. tsòe-hoàn, id. tióng-hoàn, a great criminal. ka<sup>n</sup>-hoàn, an imprisoned criminal. siū-hoàn (R.), id. liū-hoàn, a transported convict. kê-hoàn, a criminal wearing the cangue. hiong-hoàn, a murderer. chhat-hoàn, an apprehended robber. khim-hoàn, a state prisoner arrested by imperial command. si-hoàn, you condemned criminal! (scolding); also, a prisoner who has died in prison. tsáu-hoàn, an escaped prisoner. láu-hoàn, a prisoner who has been in prison several years. sin-hoàn, a recent prisoner.

chhiú<sup>n</sup>-hoàn, to rescue a criminal by force. tiâu-hoàn, to order up a criminal to be tried. kê-hoàn, to send a prisoner to a higher court to be tried or punished. koat-hoàn, to behead a criminal.

chhim-hoàn, to offend against (a person) so as to displease him; to encroach upon, as grave, or land, or territory. chhiok-hoàn, to come unintentionally on a man in an unlucky, ill-omened, awkward, or troublesome manner. hoàn--tióh, to offend against; to meet with, generally (but not always), unpleasant or hurtful things.

hoàn-hong, to meet with a heavy gale. hoàn-hiám, liable to blame. hoàn-giâu, to excite suspicion; to be suspected. hoàn-gi, id. [some say that this paragraph belongs to the next word].

hoàn [R. calamity]. hoàn-lân (R.), calamity; to have suffering or calamity.

hoàn-soah, to be under the evil influence of the demons called "soah-sín," as a house or grave. hoàn-sam-soah, id.; sometimes said of a person.

hoàn-tiòh-pi<sup>n</sup>, become unwell. hoàn-tiòh-kúi, injured by meeting with a demon. chhióng-hoàn-tiòh-kúi, id. [some say this paragraph belongs to the previous word].

hoàn [R. a rule; a pattern]. keng-hoàn, to taunt; to jeer at, especially at personal appearance. tió-hoàn, kidney-shaped. tê-au-á-hoàn, shaped like a tea-cup. gûn-tiá<sup>n</sup>-hoàn, shaped like a silver ingot or hour-glass. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang-hoàn, lozenge-shaped; diamond-shaped. moá<sup>n</sup>-tê-hoàn (C.), id.

hoàn [R. hoàn, to return; to repay; some are also

宦 犯

患

軌

還

pronounced "hoàn"]. lí hoàn-lí, goá hoàn-goá, you and I have no connection in our affairs. lí-ê, hoàn lí-ê; goá-ê hoàn goá-ê, yours and mine are quite distinct. hoa-kí, hoàn hoa-kí; hō-lân, hoàn hō-lân, the Americans and the Dutch are quite distinct (people or nations). lâi, hoàn-tit si-lâi; goá, hoàn--tit si-goá, inside and outside (as of a house) must be kept quite distinct.

hoàn [R. hoàn, the world; all]. hoàn-kan, the world. hoàn-nā<sup>n</sup>, in every case that —. hoàn-sū, in all affairs; in any matter. hoàn-tsòe-sū, in all matters that we do, &c.

hoang (Cn. T.), = A. hong, "wind" (only in phrases strictly colloquial, while in reading phrases that have become colloquial it remains "hong," e.g. "hong-siòk.") hoang-gô (T.), = A. hong-chhe-lién, a toy made to turn with the wind.

hoang (Cn.), = A. hong, waste; fabulous.

hoàng, a Dutch coin.

hoàng (Cn.), = A. hoàn, without heart; without decided purpose.

hoat [R. the hair of the head]. kiet-hoat, the wife whom a man marries first of all; opp. to the one married after her death or divorce, who is "âu-bê" or "siòk-hiên."

lâu tsoân-hoat, to let the whole of one's hair grow long, as women. hoat-ji-á-thâu, the 190th radical, written at the top.

hoat (R. id.), a rule; a law; a means; black arts, esp. Tauist; to mauage; Freuch.

siá-hoat, Tauist magical arts. hoat-sút (v. sút), id. iau-hoat, id. hoat-lék, powerful influence of an idol. hoat-lék ko-kiông, the power of the idol is very great. iám-sin-hoat, the art of becoming invisible. hū-hoat, rites to secure the success of a charm. hoat-soh, a magical rope used by Tauists. hoat-chí, the commands of Lau-tsze. hoat-su, complimentary title of Tauist priest. hoat-koa<sup>n</sup>, sort of Tauist enchanter. hoat-tiú<sup>n</sup>, head of a company of boys at an idolatrous procession. hoat-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a place where magical rites are performed; also, an execution ground. hák-hoat, to learn black arts and Tauist rites. sái-hoat, to use magic. tsok-hoat, id. tàu-hoat, to try which is superior in magic.

hê-hoat-iâ (Cn.), an idol (v. hê).

hoat-tê, a rule; a law; a plan; a method. hoat-lút, a law, as of the state. lút-hoat, id. hoat-kài (R.), id. (v. kài, "prohibition"). hoat-kài (R.), the region where Buddha lives (v. kài, "boundary"). kok-hoat, the laws of the kingdom. hong-hoat, a plan; a method; means. chêng-hoat, to execute a criminal; a just and right plan. êng-chêng-hoat, to act in a perfectly fair and just way. chiá<sup>n</sup>-hoat, the fit way to accomplish an end. chêng-lí-hoat, the proper plan in the circumstances of the case (v. chêng). put-hoat, lawless.

tín-hoat, military manoeuvres. ka-hoat, regulations of a family (v. ka). i-hoat, rules of medicine. chiâu-kun-hoat, according to military rules. seng-lí-hoat, the rules and regular practices of trade. soàn-hoat, arithmetic. sêng-hoat, multiplication (v. sêng). hoat-thiap-jī, a sort of copy-book.

êng-kék-hoat, to use very strong or severe measures; going to extremities. êng-kék-hoat, to talk to a man so as to incite him to take up a matter quite willingly and heartily. êng-chhê-hoat, to act vio-

凡
凡

泛

法

lently (v. chhê). tiòh-hoat, to hit on the right way of doing a thing. tek-hoat, to hit on the right way; quite correct; to manage a matter successfully. siet-hoat, to put matters in right order or in a proper train. siú-hoat, to act properly; to be of good behaviour; to observe the laws. ti-hoat phà<sup>n</sup>-hoat, they who know the law should obey it (said in finding fault with literati or underlings of yamuns, who break the laws); also, "I know the law, and will certainly obey it."

hoat-lòh, to manage an affair; to arrange or determine what is to be done.

bô-hoat--i, cannot manage it; cannot do anything with (him); quite beyond (my) power. kék bô-hoat--i, cannot manage it at all. kék bô-hoat--tit, id. bô-hoat--i tâ-oâ, having no resource; quite helpless and unable to resist or to accomplish. bô-hoat--lâng tâ-oâ, unable to resist or overcome him. bô-hoat--lâng ê-tâ-oâ, id. beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-hoat--i, what resource is possible? nothing can be done. beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-hoat--goá tâ-oâ, what resource (has he) against me? lí ù-siá<sup>n</sup>-hoat--goá, what ever can you do to me? (as to compel me or to prevent me). goá bô-sim-mih<sup>n</sup> i-hoat, I have no way to make him submit. bô-hoat-pút, käng hê-siú<sup>n</sup>, unable to punish the principal offender, but taking revenge on his subordinates.

iâm-hoat-tô, the salt commissioner.

hoat-lân-se, France. hoat-lông-se, id., often pronounced "hó-lân-se." tâi-hoat-kok (R.), id. tâi-hoat (R.), id.

hoat (R. id., = col. pauh, puh), to produce; to sprout; to begin to grow; to come out, as eruptions, sweat, &c.; to ferment; to pay out, as money.

it-hoat, all the more.

hoat-si<sup>n</sup>, to produce; to grow or bear, as fruit, &c. hoat-chhut, to produce. hoat-hiên, to appear; to become manifest. hoat-pauh, to come out, as a secret or a plot. hoat-tsoh, to break out, as a disease showing itself on the body; to come to pass, as a plot; to come to light, as a secret; to begin to grow into a man, as a lad (v. tsoh). hoat-kak, to come to light, as a secret (v. kak, "to know"). hoat-kak, to grow horns (v. kak, "a horn"). hoat-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to put out green leaves. hoat-i<sup>n</sup>, to bud; to sprout. hoat-gê, to sprout and shoot out (longer than "i<sup>n</sup>"). hoat-chháu, to grow grass and small plants. hoat-mûg, to grow hair or feathers, as animals; to begin to grow hair, as a wound or scabbed place when healing. hoat-chhùi-chhiu, beard beginning to grow. hoat chhùi-khí, to get teeth; teething. hoat-khí, id.

hoat-jiét, to take fever; to have a feverish attack. hoat chiú-hong, to have small red eruptions, from drinking liquor. hoat-hông, to get swollen, as from a venomous bite (v. hông, "swollen"). hoat-hông, burning with rage or passion (v. hông, "heated"). hoat-hông, face flushed; to blush. hoat-liáp, to grow pimples or boils. si<sup>n</sup>-thâu hoat-bé, to have pimples, boils, or eruptions. hoat-chiú<sup>n</sup>-bin, to break out on the face, as eruption. hoat-koá<sup>n</sup>, to perspire by use of medicine, &c., in disease. hoat-hân, id. hé tng-hoat, frantic with rage; sudden severe fever or inflammation; conflagration raging with great violence. hoat-kông, mad; wild; extravagantly absurd, as man. hoat-sêng, to get suddenly angry (naturally). hoat-lát, to show anger by loud voice or gesticulation, e.g. striking the table.

hoat-sim, to show kindness. hoat-sè, to make a solemn oath. hoat-goân, to make a sudden vow by language without any formal rite.

hoat-hok, fat and good-looking; getting on well in business. tng hoat-hoe, making money at the time (v. hoe). hoat-tsái, to grow rich. hoat-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. hoat-tát, to prosper in wealth or office, &c., as person or family. hoat-chek, to rise from obscurity to high station. hoat--ah, may it prosper! said at the rites of "chêng-iú" by Taoist priests. in tsông, báu hoat, as soon as the body is buried the auspicious influence of the grave begins to operate.

hoat-he, to slake lime. hoat-kà<sup>n</sup>, to ferment. hoat-ké, a sort of cake made with a sort of yeast.

khai-hoat, to distribute money, as wages; to punish slightly on the spot, and set free at once. hun-hoat, to distribute money, as wages; to separate the items of some difficult piece of business, to be taken up in succession; to send out employes or members of family to different places to make their living. chi<sup>n</sup> hoat-hê--i, give him the money.

chhông ké--ê, lâi hoat--lâng, to cheat people by selling them bad articles. khít--i hoat--khí, to be taken in by him selling us bad articles.

hoat-thoat, to clear off the stock; to sell off at any price; to escape secretly, or help to escape (v. thoat). hoat-bôe, for sale. hoat-tôe, for sale, as goods. hoat-hê, to send back, as goods not liked, or as a rejected present.

hoat-tiâu, the main-spring of a watch or time-piece.

hoat-m-chiá<sup>n</sup> sai-pak, north-west wind suddenly rising and falling, with almost no rain. bân-lê-chi<sup>n</sup> tsôe-hoat, numerous calamities coming at once (v. lê, "a cross-bow"). ngé-lê chê-hoat, id. (v. lê, "a road").

hoát [R. to subdue rebels]. cheng-hoát (R.), to go to war, and chastise or subdue rebels.

hoát [R. to punish], to fine; to mulct; to punish, as by fine or forfeit; to break, as a horse.

hêng-hoát, to punish; punishment. gâu hêng-hoát--lâng, fond of punishing people; fond of causing people great trouble or expense. chek-hoát, to punish, as a god. hoát-hông, to mulct of official salary. hoát-gún, to fine. hoát-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. hoát-hi-toh, to make a man stand the expense of a play and a feast, as a forfeit. hoát-toh, make him forfeit a feast. hoát-chiú, make him forfeit some liquor.

kê-hoát, to be broken, as a horse. put-chí-pà, tiòh kê-hoát, he is very disobedient and ill-behaved (lad), and must be broken in like a horse.

hoát [R. to be deficient or in want]. khoat-hoát (R.), in want. khat-hoát (r.), id.

hoát [R. alive, active, = col. oâh]. hoát-phoat, active and lively (as man); graceful and flowing, as written characters. liên kàu hoát-hoát, to work up very thoroughly and carefully, as mixing material for pills or such medicine. liên-khi-hoát, work it up well. liên-hoát, thoroughly worked and mixed up. seng-hoát-kê, a means of livelihood.

tók-hoát, a medicinal root. khiong-hoát, a medicinal root from Se-kiông (Angelica?).

hoe (C.), = A. he, lime.

hoe (R. hoa), (C. hoa, P. hoai, hoe), a flower; a flowering plant; a blossom; variegated; dim, as eyesight; in many phrases means "licentious."

mí<sup>n</sup>-hoe, raw cotton. hoan-hoe, foreign cotton. khê-hoe, mace (v. khê). chhài-hoe, cauliflower or brocoli. kú-chhài-hoe, flower-stalks of celery.

kan-hoe, pig's liver. tâu-hoe, soft bean-curd, not

發

伐罰

乏活

花

yet shaped. chiòh-hoe, a pleasant cooling jelly made from a plant (like Ceylon moss or Irish moss). chiòh-hoe-pái, this gelatinous substance boiled into a sweet confection, somewhat stiff. chiòh-hoe-phí<sup>n</sup>, do. cut into thin slices.

lêng-hoe, the feathers of an arrow. khau-to-hoe, shavings of wood made by a plane. hiā-hoe, fragile work (on the tops of walls, &c.) made of thin tiles placed diagonally and leaving open spaces. hoe-thang-chí, ornamental tiles for use in open trellis-work. bān-jī-hoe, the figure called "bān," worked in large quantities, as in the open work of screens.

chhih-hoe, clusters of spawn of the craw-fish. hé-hoe, sparks as from a match. lak hé-hoe, to let sparks fall. teng-hé-hoe, large lumps on the wick of a lamp. teng-hé khui-hoe, the lamp gathers large spots on the wick; when very large they are auspicious.

chek-hoe, ornamental flowers on candles (v. chek). siù-teng-hoe, to embroider flowers on the gauze frame of a lamp.

chhìn-hoe, white dots on the beam of a steelyard for marking the weight.

tsúi-hoe, spray. phah tsúi-hoe, to splash spray. phùn--tiòh hē-hoe, to get some drops of rain on one's self. lâu koā<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to have perspiration in small drops on the skin.

jít-hoe, a ray through a chink; rays through clouds or through the leaves of trees. chhut jít-hoe-á, rays breaking through the clouds.

sim-hoe khui, delighted at something. ū chhùi-hoe, good at speaking in a polite or insinuating manner (v. chhùi). iò kha-chhng-hoe, to shake about one's hips in walking. lāng koái<sup>n</sup>-á-hoe, to brandish his stick with delight, as beggar (v. koái<sup>n</sup>).

khui-hoe, to bloom; to blossom. chí<sup>n</sup>-chhiū khui-hoe, making a great deal of money (often said of a prostitute). tng hoat-hoe, beginning to be prosperous. teh-hoat-hoe, making a great deal of money. lāng-hoe, to protrude the flower, as corn or grass. siú<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to admire flowers. chhái-hoe, to gather food from flowers, as butterflies or bees. bōe-hoe, to sell flowers; a flower-seller. chhah-hoe, to stick flowers in the hair; a studding-sail.

khék-hoe, to carve wood into any sort of figures. tiau-hoe khék-chiáu, id. chhák-hoe, id. siù-hoe, to embroider (v. siù). chhiah-hoe, to embroider finely (v. chhiah). thio-hoe, id. (v. thio).

oā<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to change the colour of the flowers on a woman's tree of fate (in the invisible world) from red to white, so that she may have male children instead of females; said also of a bride's younger brother visiting her three days after marriage. tsai-hoe oā<sup>n</sup>-táu, superstitious rites for curing female barrenness. khít-hoe, to pray for children. hoe-kong hoe-pô, two deities (male and female) that give out these flowers—red for females, white for males. hoe-kong-pô, id.

thām-hoe, the third in rank of the new Hanlin (hān-lín) graduates. kim-hoe, gilt flowers (tinsel) used by a new-made sew-tsae or higher graduate, and at some other ceremonies; Turkey opium. kim-hoe-âng, a sort of opium. chhó-hoe, artificial flowers.

hoe-âng, money wrapped in red paper, given in engaging an assistant, clerk, or manager for a shop.

hoe-hiet, prettily painted or coloured; gaudy, as goods, buildings, and such things; too gaudy, as women; specious and flattering, as words (v. hiet).

hoe-lêng, a peacock's feather with one eye. hoe-

thia<sup>n</sup>, reception room for visitors, as in a yamun. hoe-kiō, a red bridal chair.

hoe-tiám, spotted with small spots. hoe-pan, speckled; spotted; freckled. hoe-lók-lók, variegated; mottled (like a stag). hoe-lí-ló, variegated; mottled; indistinct in colour; all in confusion, as money matters; not managing properly; not treating persons of various rank as they should be treated relatively. hoe-ló-ló, id. hoe-káu, a spotted dog. hoe-bé, a piebald horse. hoe-teng, a flowered lantern. hoe-phê, a flowered or variegated cloth used for wrapping up clothes, &c. hoe-pê, flowered, spotted, or variegated cotton cloth. in-hoe-pê, printed cotton. toā-hoe-pê, large-flowered do. sió-hoe-pê, small-flowered do. in-iú<sup>n</sup>-hoe-pê, foreign printed cotton; chintz. chí-hoe-pê, nankeen.

hoe-gún, dollars all covered with stamps.

hoe-bák, flowers and shrubs (v. bák). hoe-lúi, a blossom. hoe-m̄, a flower-bud. hoe-tsāng, a flowering-plant. hoe-hún, flowers and paint for the face. hoe-chhiám, a pin for flowers in the hair (v. chhiám). hoe-thê, earth in a flower-pot. hoe-tái, a terrace built up for flower-pots. hoe-nā<sup>n</sup>, a flower-basket, as in a room. hoe-pân, a flower-jug for artificial flowers, or for water and cut flowers. hoe-kan, do. with cut flowers and water. hoe-kha<sup>n</sup>, a flower-pot. hoe-phún, do. of finer ware, as porcelain. hoe-thāng, insects that prey on flowers; caterpillars. hoe-sin, spirits of flowers (v. sin). hoe-hng, a garden.

hoe-chio, white pepper. hoe-bí, a bird that talks and fights. hoe-thiáu, the mud-fish. hoe-ki, a large spotted sort of cuttle-fish. chháu-hoe-tsoā, a variegated harmless snake.

bák-chiu hoe, eyes dim. bák-hoe, id.

hoe-hē (C. hoa-hôe), two sorts of gambling (v. hē). bóe-hoe-thg (Cn.), = A. teh-hoe-hē, to gamble in this way.

hoe-keng, a house of ill-fame; a brothel. ien-hoe-chhùi (harlot's mouth), you great liar! (vile scolding). hoe-théng, boats used as brothels (Cantonese). hoe-hi, a lascivious stage-play. hoe-chhut, id. hoe-toā<sup>n</sup>, a character in a mandarin play representing a beautiful and cheerful young woman.

hòe, to wipe the feet, as on a mat; to rub or scrape the feet. hòe-hòe, id. hòe-sí, to kill by rubbing with the foot, as a worm.

hòe (R. id.) tāi-hòe, = poeh-kak, anise-seed. toā-hòe, id. sió-hòe, a sweet-smelling seed like a grass, = phá<sup>n</sup>-chhek-hiu<sup>n</sup> (fennel? coriander?), used for its smell or flavour. siáu-hòe, id.

hòe [R. to turn back, to return, Mahomedan], (in some phrases interchanges with "hé"), a section of a book.

hòe-hòe-káu, Mahomedanism, so named from the Uigours. hòe-hòe, Mahomedan.

hòe-jiông, a sort of velveten (v. jiông).

óng-hòe, to go and return. hòe-tháu, to turn back; to come back. thiet-hòe, to disband, as volunteers or militia. hòe-lé, to make a visit or perform a ceremony in return for the other having first done so to us. hòe-pài (C.), = A. hê-pài, to return a ceremonial visit. hòe-hok (C.), = A. hê-hok, to make a report. hòe-oā (C.), = A. hê-òe, to interpret verbally between two persons.

goān-toa<sup>n</sup> pok-hòe, bill protested. hòe-lêng, the ridge of a hill conducting the auspicious influence and carrying it round till the grave directly faces the origin (soa<sup>n</sup>-bú) of the influence.

荷

回

hòe-hûn, to revive, as from a swoon, from death, or from despair. hòe-iông, to return to life. khí-sú hòe-seng, to restore the (almost) dead to life (said of a very skilful doctor).

siók-hòe, to ransom; to redeem. hòe-sim túg-i, to alter one's mind. bán-hòe sim-chi, to reform one's heart. bán-hòe thi<sup>n</sup>-i, to influence Heaven to favour, as by virtuous conduct. bòe bán-hòe-tit, the matter so bad or so far settled that it cannot now be altered or set right.

liên-hòe, miserable and destitute, as a man of utterly ruined reputation who cannot get into better circumstances. liên-liên hòe-hòe, id. ún-á liên-hòe, may you be constantly and irretrievably miserable and ruined! liên-hòe si-chèng, id., disgraced for ever by some vile act of himself or of some near relative.

hòe-pi (R.), to keep out of the way of a mandarin.

hòe (C.), = A. hoài, to hold in the bosom, &c.

hóe (C. hé). hóe-bák, to give an angry glance. bák-chiu hóe, id.

hóe (R. id.) hoán-hóe (C. hoán-hòe), to repent and amend; to change one's purpose and conduct. hóe-ngê, to repent. hóe--chiá tî, it is then too late to change one's mind. tsòe-chit-sî hóe, to change one's mind at once.

hóe-chhin, to break off a betrothal.

thè-hóe (C.), to find out our mistake, and be sorry or repent having done it.

hóe [R. bribery]. hóe-lê kong-hêng (R.), mandarins taking bribes openly.

hóe (C.), = A. hé, fire. ám-hóe, at dark. hóe-ông (C.), = A. hé-sín-iá, the god of fire.

hóe (C.) hóe-sit, = A. hé-sit, food, &c.

hóe (C.), = A. hé, a partner. tsò-hóe, to act or do anything together.

hòe (R. id.), (C. hùi), to destroy; to annul; to pass away. hòe-bô, to make void; to cause to cease. hòe--khi, to pass away, as a custom or rule become obsolete. hòe-tûi, fallen into decay. hòe-sí, to cease to be done, as a rite or course of action. poán-tê jí-hòe, to stop half-way and fail utterly.

hong-hòe, laid waste; dilapidated; desolate. hng-hòe, id. hòe-giáp, useless unclaimed ground, as ruined house or inundated land. hòe-hûn, deserted graves. hòe-siá, to destroy a village, as mandarins, or as enemies in a feud. hòe-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id., as mandarins. hiu<sup>n</sup>-siá hòe--khi, the village is ruined and deserted.

hòe-jin, a useless fellow, as a cripple, or maimed; a worthless fellow, idle or wicked. hòe-chit, incurable and useless, as a cripple, lame, leprous, or blind, &c. hòe-chék (T.), id.

hòe [R. hoà, to influence and renovate], (C. hòe, also = A. hoà, to renovate).

hòe-iên, to beg, as Buddhist priests.

tek-hòe, the city of Teh-hwa, in the prefecture of Yung-chun (éng-chhun).

hòe (C.), = A. hóe. hoán-hòe, to repent; to change one's purpose and conduct. thè-hòe, to be grieved and repent of what one has done, often of what cannot now be changed. siū<sup>n</sup>-thè-hòe, id.

hòe (C.), = A. hê, goods. hòe-mih<sup>n</sup>, = A. hê-bút, goods and things in general.

hòe (C.), = A. hê, a year of age.

hòe — hòe-koán, a sort of exchange rooms, where merchants meet to consult on prices, &c.

hòe (R. id.), (sometimes interchanges with "hê," sometimes "hòe" and "hê" interchange in C. and A., or vice-versa); an assembly; a society or association; to meet together; to combine together.

ki-hòe, an opportunity.

hòe-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of exchange.

hòe-goân, the highest of the new Tsin-sze (chín-sū) graduates. hòe-khoe, those of the new Tsin-sze who rank from second to tenth on the list. hòe-si, the examinations for the Tsin-sze degree (v. si).

ti-hòe, to notify. thè-hòe, to examine the meaning, or a man's purpose, till we thoroughly understand it. lí-hòe (esp. C.), = lí-hê, to talk over a matter so as to come to an understanding about its settlement. hòe-i (r.), to understand the meaning. hū-hòe, to express assent, often mere empty words. hun-hòe (C.), = A. hun-hê, to make one's statement or discuss a question making explanations.

hòe-siáu (= hê-siáu), to meet, examine, and settle accounts. biên-hòe, to settle a matter by discussing it face to face. hòe-bin, to meet face to face, for any purpose. hòe-bien, id. hòe-chhin, son-in-law visiting father-in-law soon after marriage. pai-hòe, to visit on equal terms, as mandarins. hiên-hòe, affable and polite to visitors (said of ladies). tsū-hòe, to meet together. chī-hòe (C.), id. tsòe-hòe, to meet together; to form a society. sióng-hòe, to meet one another. hù-hòe, to come in time to a meeting. hòe-tsòe, to assemble for taking united action. hòe-béng, to confederate. hòe-tóng, to combine together for bad purposes. hòe-tê, the villages of a region combining, as to put down feuds or plundering. hòe-lé, civil and military mandarins gathering soldiers and going together to seize criminals. hòe-hám, two or more mandarins jointly issuing a proclamation.

bún-bú-hòe, a meeting of civil and military graduates. siú-tsai-hòe, a meeting of sew-tsae graduates to consult on some matter. tsòe-bún-chiu<sup>n</sup>-hòe, a literary society for writing essays. liú-lí-hòe, a society that worships liú-lí-kong. béng-pê-bú-hòe, a club for the burial of parents. kong-hòe, a public society or association. sió-to-hòe, the Triad society (rebellious). siang-to-hòe (C.), id. thien-tê-hòe, id. pat-koà-hòe, a similar illegal society (some say, the same). tai-siáu-sèng-hòe, small clans or villages banded to oppose greater ones. sèng-hòe, the church (the society, not the building). kàu-hòe, id., a sect. hoa-hòe (C.), = A. hoe-hê, two sorts of gambling (v. hê).

jíp-hòe, to enter a society. hòe-iú, members of a society; friends engaged on the same literary work, &c. hòe-hia<sup>n</sup>-tî, id. hòe-tiú<sup>n</sup>, head man of a society or association, good or bad. hòe-thâu, head of a society; e.g. head of the Triad rebels, either of the whole society or of those at one place; also (C.), = A. hê-thâu, head of a mutual benefit club.

hòe (R. id.) chhàu-hòe, wild aloes. lê-hòe (C.), = A. lê-hê, aloes.

hòe (R. hâi), (C. hê; Cn. hōe), the hairy crab or craw-fish. mê-hòe, id. (C. mô-hê), (Cn. mng-hōe). kim-chí<sup>n</sup>-hòe, a smaller sort.

hòe [R. hō, a mark]. sin-hòe (Cn.), = sin, the soft place on a child's head.

hòe (C. P.), = some words in "hoài" and "hoài."

hoch (C.), = A. huìh, blood.

hoh (R. hok), = ho, to scorch, as the sun.

hoh, = huh, to cook on a dry frying-pan.

hóh (R. hók), a stork. pêh-hóh, a white stork.

悔

賄

廢

化

會滙

奮解號燬

sien-hóh, a stork said to live a hundred years. hóh-téng, the crest of the stork, used for rings and amulets. hóh-si', a large oval fan carried before idols and high mandarins. hóh-á chek-tái, candlestick shaped like a stork.

hóh (C.) hóh-lêng-ko, = A. hók-lêng-ko, a sweet cake, somewhat medicinal.

hóh [R. hō, to protect]. hóh-chhip (C.), = A. hók-sek, ornaments for the knees.

hóh<sup>n</sup> [R. hō<sup>n</sup>, good, well], (cf. hō<sup>n</sup>, hō<sup>n</sup>), interjection placed at a pause, directing attention to what has been said; "observe and take note of this;" also, in answer to what another has said, as if saying, "yes, I observe and understand," but without giving any opinion for or against; this use of it is only by superiors or equals; if said by an inferior, it is improper.

hóh (Cn.) hōh-chē, to sit and rest.

hok [R. a roll of paper or cloth, = eol. pak]. chhim-i hok-kun, dress and hood of a corpse, according to the Ming pattern.

hok [R. hok = hók; to repeat, to report; = eol. koh]. hē-hok, to report to him who sent us; to give an answer on inquiry, as a commissioner. hōe-hok (C.), id. pín-hok, to give in a report, as an inferior to a superior official. hok-bún, to answer an official letter. hok-chí, to report to the emperor the accomplishment of his commands.

hok-sim, to examine the case in court over again another time. hok-sin, id. koh hok-khoà<sup>n</sup>, look over it again carefully. hok-siáu, to look over an account again to see if there be any error; to check an account. sam-koan ngé-hok, to examine over and over again very carefully [some phrases interchanged with the next word].

hok [R. to overturn; to cover; to repeat], (some phrases interchanged with the previous word).

hoán-hok, indeterminate in purpose; fickle; changeable in intention; back and forwards. hoán-hoán hok-hok, id. hoán-hok bú-siōng, fickle, as to promises or friendship.

sam-hoan ngé-hok, very deliberate and careful (revolving the matter over and over) before making up one's mind.

hoan-thien hok-tē, to put things all in confusion, e.g. as boys or servants when their superior is absent; to behave in a very disorderly manner; to make disturbance or rebellion (lit. turn heaven and earth upside down). chhut-tsāi-lí; hoan-thien hok-tē, goá bō-chhap, whatever you may do, I will not meddle at all.

hok [R. hù, to cover, by change of tone from "hok," to overturn]. hok-im, to benefit descendants, as by wealth or official merit; to assist, as a powerful friend (v. im).

hok [R. two-fold, as a dress with lining]. tiōng-hok, tautology, as in an essay. hok-sèng, a surname consisting of two characters, as su-má, su-tē, au-iōng, &c.

hok [R. a bat]. pién-hok, a bat, = bit-pó. hūn-hok, wavy figures like bats or clouds on flowered silk stuffs, &c.

hok [R. speedy; a certain high mountain], a surname.

hok (R. id.), good fortune; happiness; Fuh-chau. hok-khi, good fortune; happiness. hok-hūn, one's whole allotted measure of good fortune. hó-hok-hūn, great good fortune. iú-hok put-khó chin-hióng, do not use good luck to the utmost. iú-hok, m-thang chin-hióng, id. hióng-hok, to enjoy good fortune. ū-hok, id. sioh-hok, to restrain one's self from taking the full swing of power or pleasure; to refrain from taking all the pleasure or dignity, or exercising all the power one could have had. m-sioh-hok, to take one's full swing of pleasure, &c.; to live fast or lavishly. chiet-hok, to cut down one's fated measure of good fortune by a too free use of what we have, as by proud overbearing conduct, by fast or lavish living, or by fastidiousness and waste of food or clothing, so as to provoke Heaven to eut short the measure of fortune.

pók-hok, ill-fated; having bad luck; also said politely of one's self, "I am not worthy of such good fortune;" having a hard life with little good fortune. thien-tē hêng-tsai, pók-hok--chiá siū, heaven-sent calamities fall on the ill-fated. hong chhe phá<sup>n</sup>--chhek, pók-hok--chiá siū, rice chaff is blown by the wind, and the ill-fated take epidemics. iōng-iōng, to hē-hok, common ordinary people usually have a good deal of good fortune.

hoat-hok, to grow fat. hok-siōng, plump, fat, and good-looking.

tsòe-sin-hok, to make abundant offerings on great festivals or idols' birth-days, as hong do. khai-sin-hok, to lay out the expenses for such feasts. pñg-sin tsok-hok, to have a good feast on the occasion of making offerings to an idol. tsok-ui tsok-hok, to have a proud haughty manner (v. ui).

chiok-hok, to pray for blessings on another. thok-hok, I enjoy good fortune by your favour or influence (a polite phrase).

hok-sin, the god of the ground; the guardian spirit of graves. hok-tek chēng-sin, id. hok-tek-iá, id. hok-tē, a good grave. hok-tē, hok-jin ku, fortunate persons get fortunate graves. hok-jin ku-hok-tē, id.

ngé-hok, the five blessings; all sorts of good fortune and happiness; variously enumerated, in Amoy generally, "hù-kùi<sup>n</sup> tsái-tsú-siū," wealth, honour, talent, posterity, and long life. ngé-hok lim-bún, may all prosperity come to this house. hok-lók, good fortune and official rank (salary). hok-lók-siū sa<sup>n</sup>-jī-tsng, good fortune, official salary, and long life, all complete. hok-lók-siū-tsoan, id.

hō-hok, calamities and good fortune. tāng-hō-hok, joined in fortune (good or bad), whatever may come. hok bú-song-chì, hō put-tan-hēng, happy events do not come in pairs, but calamities never go singly.

hok tsū-thien-lái, good fortune comes from Heaven's appointment. thien-sù pēng-an hok, Heaven bestows peace and good fortune. thien-koan sù-hok, the idol "thien-koan" gives good fortune, as on l. 15. iók-kiú thien-siōng-hok, su-tiám hùt-chiē teng, if you wish blessings from Heaven light lamps before Buddhas.

hok-kièn, Fuh-kien province. hok-chiu, Fuh-chau. hok-chiu-mñg, an outer-door close to the inner, made with bars in the upper half and close boards in the lower half. hok-géng, large dragon's-eye fruit. hok-oân, dried do. hok-oân-bah, do. dried without stones or skin. hok-lék, green cloth from Fuh-chau. hok-áng, very bright red cloth from Fuh-chau. hok-chhia<sup>n</sup>, Fuh-ting, between Fuh-chau and Hing-hwa. hok-lêng, Fuh-ning-foo.

護好

幅復

覆

覆

復

蝠

霍

福

伏 服

hók (R. id.) bâi-hók, to lie in ambush. hók-peng, soldiers in ambush.

hók-hi, Fuh-he or Fuh-hi, an ancient emperor before the historic period.

hók — téng-hók, the lintel of a door or window. ē-hók, the lower cross-timber of the frame of a door (or window), on which the threshold (hē-tēng) is laid down. māng-hók, upper or lower cross-timber of door-frame. thang-á-hók, do. of window-frame. chit-ki-hók, one of them ready to be fitted into the other timbers to make the frame.

hók (R. id.), dress; (relationship); mourning-dress; to submit or obey; (to subdue); to swallow, as a drug.

hók-sāi, to serve; to worship. kèng-hók, to reverence and obey. sin-hók (R.), to believe and submit or obey. sūn-hók, to submit; to make submission. kui-hók, to make submission, as a rebel or enemy. hāng-hók, to subdue; to make submission, as a rebel or enemy. hāng-hók tī-i, make submission to him. jīn-hók, to own one's self beaten or inferior. m-jīn-hók, will not own himself beaten. giā-kang kap-á-tsoā, sam put-hók, the centipede, the frog, and the snake, each not afraid of the other; said of three persons not agreeing well (frog said not to fear the centipede, nor the centipede the snake, and yet the snake eats the frog).

hók-tsōe (R.), to confess guilt.

put-hók tsui-thé, the climate not agreeing with one.

hók-ióh, to take medicine. hók-tók, to take poison. hók-tók--sí, to poison one's self.

i-hók, dress; clothes. hók-sek, id. (s. next word). hók-chè, form of dress prescribed by the dynasty (v. chè). tiâu-hók, court dress. kong-hók, official dress or uniform of mandarin, worn on ceremonial occasions. lé-hók, ceremonial dress. piên-hók, undress (not in uniform), as of an official. sê-hók, plain dress, as of man at end of mourning with no mourning on, but yet nothing gaudy or ornamental. kiet-hók, ordinary dress, as opposed to mourning. hì-hók, actor's dresses. ká-lé-hók, dress for puppets.

piên-hók, to put on mourning. ū-hók, to wear mourning, as for a relative sufficiently near. hióng-hók, mourning-dress. hà-hók, id. song-hók, deep mourning. moá-hók, sackcloth dress of deepest mourning, as of sons at funeral. tōe-á-hók, a sort of mourning for a near relative. ki-liên-hók, one year's mourning, as for a brother. tám-hók, mourning worn three months after the regular three years (v. tám). khí-hók, to begin the rites of "khí-hà" for the dead. séng-hók, to put on deep mourning either at first, or on occasion of these rites. khoat-hók, to fulfil the period of mourning.

ngé-hók, the five degrees of relationship for which mourning is worn (only of the same surname, and does not include sisters). ngé-hók-lāi, related in the direct line within five generations. ngé-hók-goā, only a distant relative, for whom mourning is not worn.

hók [R. hō, to protect]. hók-sek, ornaments for the knees (s. dress). hók-chhip (C.), = C. hōk-chhip, id.

hók (R. id.) pau-hók, a bundle of clothes or other small things tied up in a napkin or cloth. pau-hók-kun, a cloth folded round clothes, &c.

hók (R. id.) thé-hók, China root (Smilax China) used for scurvy, &c. hók-léng, id. (v. léng). hók- sin, China root having woody fibre in the middle of the tuber.

hók [R. to repeat; to give back; cf. hok], to obtain again, as an office. hók--khí-lāi, id. hók i-ê-koa, recovers his office. hók koa-chit, id. hók-tò, to recover what is lost (as in war) or taken away unjustly. hók-tò-túg, id. chit-si-lāng bōe-hók-tò-túg, can never recover it all his life, as good name ruined by some scandalous crime, or as fortune hopelessly ruined. khék-hók, to be recovered, as a city from rebels, or as lands or houses from those who had taken unjust possession.

hong (R. id.), (Cn. hoang, in strictly and originally colloquial phrases, but "hong" in those adopted from the literary style), wind; (rumour); usages; gay; dissipated.

hong-siók, customs; habits (v. siók). hong-lē, a custom. hong-thé jīn-chēng, customs of place and character of people. hong-khí, habits or present character of the people in a place (not of such long standing as "hong-siók"), e.g. custom of opium-smoking. im-hong, licentious customs, as of a place. khó-koan-hong, to examine the literati of a place not a Foo or Hien. būn-hong, literary character of a place (v. būn, "literary"). ui-hong, majestic appearance (v. ui). sit-hong, to lose prestige. ké-hong, virtuous and kind. māng-hong, reputation of a family. ke-hong, id. pē-bú ke-hong, reputation of parents.

hong-sia, rumour, report. thau-hong, to give secret information. lāu-hong, to let out a secret. būn-hong sòng-tám, courage failed at hearing it.

khia-hong, to keep watch so as to give timely warning, as a sentinel (e.g. on a hill or outside the door) set by conspirators or others doing some illegal or secret action, e.g. some work of cruelty, plunder, or lust. sūn-hong, a sort of military policeman (v. sūn).

hong-hoa, dissipation; vanity and low pleasure; wanton. hong-so, constantly rambling about, as for low pleasures. hong-liú, dissipated, as a fast young fellow (v. liú), (s. inflammation). liáh-hong jip-iá, to pursue empty shadows and vanities.

hong-chhe (C. kong-chhe), a paper kite. hong chhe (C. hong chhoe), the wind blows. hong-māng, the touch-hole of a gun (s. seal). hong-ké, fanners. hong-kūi, a sort of bellows (v. kūi); also (C.), fanners. hong-ú-chiam, a barometer. hong-chhang, a sort of leek, used for colds.

pīn-hong, a fixed wooden screen or partition (= tāg-tsáh) across the central hall of a house. khan-hong, a sort of boat a little larger than an ordinary rowing-boat, but not so large as a small junk; also, to work Chinese bellows.

hong-súi, a grave, esp. as regards good luck (v. súi). hong-sai, image of a lion and rider, put on roofs to ward off bad luck. hong-soah, deadly influence of inauspicious wind on a house or grave. hong-soá, an unhealthy influence (like palsy) caused by demons (v. soá). hong-chhùi, very small red eruption (s. seal). hong-hé, wind and fire; an inflammatory or feverish tendency (v. hé). àu-hong, a tainted smell.

sióng-hong, to have a cold. kám-hong, id. (v. kám). ùi-hong, feeling somewhat shivering and unwell; feeling afraid of a draught. ín-hong, to cause cold or rheumatism, as fat food; to cause a draught, as a wind-sail (v. ín). sah<sup>n</sup>-hong, to be slightly out of sorts (less than "kám-hong"), supposed to be caused by a draught. koàn-hong, to blow into (as into a bag), to inflate it; to make ill by the influence of wind. koài-

復

風

護
袂
蓆

hong, a strange sudden violent wind. khit-koài-hong phah, to have an incurable palsy, that appears on the face. kúi-á-hong, a sudden strange strong gust or squall. khit-kúi-á-hong phah--tiòh, may the demons strike you with a destructive wind! tiú<sup>n</sup>-hong, full of wind, as a sail, or as belly after eating beans. phòng-hong, the belly swollen. tiòng-hong put-gú, a disease that at once causes dumbness, and is very speedily fatal. hong-thâm pè-sim, a fit of dull madness (v. thâm).

hong-hē, wind and rain (v. hē). hong-jit, wind and sun. hó-hong-jit, fine weather. hong-jit chin-hó, weather very good. khit-hong-jit phák, weather-beaten and sun-burnt. hong-hân sú-sip, wind, cold, heat, and damp. hong-pêng lóng-cheng, wind and waves still. tūg-poà<sup>n</sup>-tih-hong, not the least wind or rain. tūg poà<sup>n</sup>-tiám-hong, id. hong chí<sup>n</sup>, wind died away; become calm. tiám-hong, no wind. chhèng-hong, sky clearing with wind, as after rain. tsòe-hong, there is wind. hong thàu, the wind very strong (v. thàu). hong-éng, winds and waves (v. éng). hong soà-soà, tsúi toa-toa (T.), said of a man on whom no reliance or confidence can be placed.

hong-sí, a squall. hong-tsūn, id. chit-tsūn-hong, id. chhú-bé-hong, a terrible squall or whirlwind. kóng-hong, a violent wind. pò-thâu-hong, a strong north-east wind. lòh-soa<sup>n</sup>-hong, a squall from the hills. hong-thai, a typhoon. chhun-hong, spring winds (v. chhun). chhiu-hong, autumn wind, esp. dry north-east wind without rain (s. abundant).

hong-bīn, direction of the wind; the direction from which the wind comes. bô-hong-bīn, a wind that cannot be used for the course. pi<sup>n</sup>-hong-bīn, to change from friendliness to anger or displeasure. tūg-hong-bīn, wind changing; to change from anger to friendliness. oát-hong-bīn, wind changing; veering about. hong-thâu, the part from which the wind comes. phi-hong-thâu, to hang up to dry in the wind, as washed clothes. khùn-hong-thâu, to sleep in a draught. hong-bé, the direction towards which the wind blows; the lee side of a vessel.

ka-chiah-áu-hong, wind aft. téng-sì-hong, id. ē-sì-hong, a head wind. gék-hong, against the wind; a head wind. tu-hong, to go against the wind. sūn-hong, favourable wind (v. sūn). chiap-hong, to give a feast to a friend on his return from a voyage. hoān-hong, to meet with a heavy gale. tsūn khit-hong phah, driven out of course by violent wind. khau-hong, to tack. sái-hong, to sail by wind. chin-hong-sái, to sail as near the wind as possible with sails full. tak-hong, to lay to. bôe-chiáh--tiòh hong, so near the wind as hardly to move.

pàng-hong, to pass wind; to make threats against a man to third parties, so that he may hear of it and be frightened (v. pàng). thong-hong, having free circulation of air. khê-hong, to make a whistling sound, as by flying or blowing. hong-hong-kiò, sound in the ears, as of wind, e.g. when covered by the hand. kien-hong, hardened by the wind, or by exposure to the air. sau-hong, cracked by drought, as wood. jia-hong, to keep off the wind; the boards at back and ends of a bed (v. jia). tsáh-hong, to ward off wind. siám-hong, to avoid the wind. tô-hong, do., as vessel running into harbour. iét-hong, to make wind by fanning. iá<sup>n</sup>-hong, waved or agitated by the wind.

chhiú-bé iò-hong, top of the tree shaken by the wind (v. iò).

hong [R. to roast or toast, = col. hang]. hong-lê (esp. T.), = hang-lê, a small portable earthen stove.

hong (R. id.), inflammatory, rheumatic, venereal, and some other affections. tiòh-hong, to have rheumatic or venereal pains; but (C.) only venereal. hong-tók, sores arising from venereal or rheumatic causes (v. tók).

bá-hong, leprosy. hong-tien, mad. hong-tsūn, convulsions, as in a child (s. wind). kin-keng-hong, sudden convulsions of children (v. keng). bān-pi-hong, a very dangerous disease of children—dull, weak, exhausted, and very sleepy, with belly somewhat distended. hong-bák, inflamed eye. hong-láu, a sort of swelling that does not suppurate, and readily goes away (s. wind). hoat-chiú-hong, to have a small red transient eruption, from the use of liquor. tiòh hong-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, to have a sort of itching eruption.

hong thiá<sup>n</sup>, rheumatic pains. hong-khi, a sort of rheumatic affection (s. wind). hong-khi thiá<sup>n</sup>, id. liòh-liòh-á hong-khi, having a slight rheumatic pain. thâu hong, rheumatic pains in head. chhiú hong, do. in hand or arm. kha hong, do. in leg. khi-hong, to remove rheumatic pains.

hông-hong, a medicine (Libanotis?) used for removing inflammation and feverishness. hông-hong siên-thòe, this drug along with the shells of cicadas.

gêh-lái-hong, a female's illness after delivery. hā-siau-hong, spermatorrhœa, gonorrhœa, and such diseases. sek-hong, a very severe venereal disease. tsa-bé-hong, id. chhng-hong, syphilis, in some forms. ún-hong, a sort of venereal disease. chiú<sup>n</sup>-bé-hong, a sort that comes on, and is often fatal in the very act. lòh-bé-hong, a sudden fatal sort just after the act.

hong [R. good-looking]. hong-tsu, appearance of the face, as to health (v. tsu). hong-sin, expression of countenance (s. seal). phah--lâng bô-hong-sin, to put a man to shame before others (v. sin).

hong [R. abundant]. hâm-hong, the reign of Hien-fung. hong-sêng, very abundant. ngé-kok hong-sêng, harvest very abundant; grain very plentiful. ngé-kok hong-teng, id.

phah-chhiu-hong, to ask money from friends for one's self.

hong [R. the point of a weapon]. sien-hong, a military officer sent on before a higher mandarin to make preparations for him.

hong [R. a mountain peak]. ngê-hong (R.), a sort of academy or college at Fuh-chau.

hong [R. square, a region, a plan, just then = col. hng, pang]. sù-hong, square; the four regions; everywhere. sù-hong pat-tát, in all places; everywhere. sù-hong khah-tūg, rectangular, but not quite square. sù-hong khah-lò, id. toan-hong sù-chèng, all correct and proper, as conduct. toan-hong si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id.; well arranged, as a thing set straight and even, not awry or uneven.

hong-chí, a square bit of wood with which mandarins strike the table on the tribunal (v. chí, "a son"). hong-khang (r.), port-holes. hong-thien-kek, a sort of halbert. ngé-hong-kí, small triangular flags of five colours.

hong-biēn, liberal in gifts, rewards, &c., and fond of appearing so (v. biēn). tái-hong, generous and liberal in money matters; large, fat, and well-formed,

烘
瘋

丰
豐

鋒
山
峰
方

as man or child. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe tãi-hong, naturally large, fat, and well-formed.

se-hong, the western paradise (Buddhist). tê-hong, = tõe-hng, a place; a region (v. tẽ). iũ-hong hê-siũ<sup>n</sup>, a travelling Buddhist priest (v. iũ).

hong-hoat, a plan; a method or means. pí-hong, a comparison; for example. tan-hong tók-bĩ, a medicine that is taken alone, without any mixture with other drugs.

hong-chhài-chiah-lâi (R.), just arrived.

hong (T.), = A. sièn, to slap on the face. (The following phrases are A.) goá hong--chit-ê hẽ--lí, I give you a slap on the face! (said to a child). chhùi goá-kā-lí-hong, I give you a slap on the face! chhùi goá-kā--lí hong--lòh-khì, id. chhùi-phóe siang-pêng-hong, I give you a slap on each cheek! [perhaps the next word, "to seal up"].

hong (R. id.), to seal or paste up, as a letter, box or small parcel; to seal by affixing papers, as the house of a criminal, or as boats temporarily impressed by the government for transports; classifier of letters and small parcels; to appoint to rank or office, as the emperor does; to confer a title on a god or spirit or deceased man, as emperor does; to invest a tributary sovereign or feudal inferior.

hong-khò, honorary titles conferred on the wife or ancestor of a high mandarin. khò-hong, id. thek-hong, specially appointed (by emperor) to posthumous honour. hong-sin-toãm, a book of ancient fabulous stories and myths, esp. of early part of the Chow dynasty; much used by the (kóng-kó) men who read stories publicly; (said of any groundless absurd story); one who talks at random; a fickle changeable man. kóng hong-sin, to tell lies and baseless stories.

phi-hong, a sort of cape worn by mandarin ladies. hong-phiau, a small paper with the name of the shop, or of the maker, pasted or wrapped round small articles sold (v. phiau).

pau-hong, to paste or seal up carefully, as a parcel, or as a letter inclosing others; or as articles sold in the package without being opened. goá-bô pau-hong, I sold it to you open, not sealed up; I am not answerable for its quality, and will not now take it back. pau-hong bóe-bõe, to buy in a package or by sample, without examination. goãn-hong put-tông, the goods in the original package unopened. chit-hong-gũn, a roll of dollars rolled up in paper. giãm-hong, to examine a package of government money (on the way) to see if the seal be unbroken.

hong-mng, to close a door by an official stamped red paper (s. wind). hong-tiâu (Cn. T. pang-tiâu), an official red paper pasted on a door or vessel when confiscated or temporarily taken possession of for government purposes. hong-in, to close the (seals of the) public offices in the holidays. hong-chhùi, edges of paper where pasted together (s. wind). hong-phoe, to paste up a letter; to close a letter.

hong [R. fragrant, = col. phang]. liũ-hong pek-sè, to leave a fragrant memory for a hundred generations. hong-ka<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a sort of bitter orange.

hong [R. id., = col. hng], (Cn. sometimes "hoang"), waste; fabulous. hong-hõe, laid waste; ruined; desolate; uncultivated, as fields. hong-soa<sup>n</sup> không-iá, a wilderness of lonely mountains.

hong-pông, to raise or spread groundless reports, as of the spread of rebellion, &c. hong-tông, fabulous stories; fabulous (v. tông, Tang dynasty).

hong [perhaps two words]. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> hong, heart dissipated and confused by pleasure, as a young person.

pi<sup>n</sup>-hong, become idle and fond of plays and low vile pleasures, as boy or lad about sixteen. pi<sup>n</sup>-khi-hong, id. kũn-lâi pi<sup>n</sup>-hong, lately grown idle, truant, or ill-behaved, as boy.

gũ teh-hong, a bull in an excited state for the cow.

hong [R. the bee, = col. phang]. hong-gí sek kun-sĩn (R.), bees and ants know the relation of kings and ministers.

hong — hong-hàm, exaggerated language.

hông — hông-hiau, dangerous and unlucky, as the state of matters.

hong [R. hong, ill-omened, unlucky]. hong-hãm, very great and severe, as a calamity to person or place. hong-sĩn ok-soah, malicious demons.

hong [cf. hong, "hurried"]. hong-kông, = hong-kông, very hasty and urgent in manner (v. hong).

hông [R. to fear, = col. hiá<sup>n</sup>]. chhong-hông, hurried, as with great press of business. chhong-hông-tsáu, to rush on in a great hurry. hông-hông bông-bông, carelessly; hurriedly.

hông-khióng (R.), lest; for fear that —

hông [R. the fosse or moat outside a wall]. sêng-hông-iá, the tutelary god of a city or fort; he has dominion in the spirit-world over all the spirits of the dead of the Foo or Hien, just equal to the mandarins over the living. tẽ-sêng-hông, the guardian spirit of the capital, having rank like that of the emperor over all the others. sêng-hông-biâu, temple of the tutelary god of the city. sêng-hông-biõ, id. kò-sêng-hông, to give in to the Tauist priests a written complaint against oppressors, to be read and burned before sêng-hông-iá. khũn-sêng-hông, to sleep in his temple so as to get dreams proving guilt, as mandarins sometimes make an accused man do, and judge him next morning in the temple. kúi bong sêng-hông-iá ê-thâu, will a weak man dare to meddle with a powerful man!

hông (R. id.), imperial. hông-siông, the emperor. hông-tè, id. kóng-thĩ<sup>n</sup>, seh hong-tè, to talk idly about all sorts of strange things. hông-hẽ, the empress (v. hẽ). hông-hui, imperial concubine. hông-chhin, imperial relatives. hông-tsú (R.), son of emperor. hông-thài-tsú, heir-apparent. hông-kióng, imperial palace (residence). hông-un, imperial favour.

sam-hông, the three ancient (mythical) emperors, hók-hi, sin-lông, and ãg-tè. giòk-hông, the idol Yuh-hwang Shang-ti. giòk-hông siông-tè, id., he was a man of the Hàn dynasty, of the surname Tiu<sup>n</sup>. hông-thien hẽ-thé, the sovereign powers Heaven and Earth.

hông [R. vast, great, and wide, as a flood]. hông-hók (R.), great happiness. hông-súi (R.), the Chinese flood in the time of the great Yu (ú).

hông [R. a wild goose, vast]. hông-gãn, a large sea-bird (v. gãn).

hông [R. vast; far-reaching, as sound]. khoan-hông tãi-liông, magnanimous; generous; liberal. khoan-hông tẽ-liông, id.

hông [R. the female phoenix]. hông-hông, the phoenix.

hông [R. a medicinal plant; luxuriant, as herbage]. hông-lâi-tó, the dwelling of the genii (sien), (v. lâi).

慌

蜂
說
逢
凶

惶

惶

皇

洪
鴻
宏
鳳
蓬

封

芳
荒

hông [last word?]. káu-kā-hông, a plant (like a dock) used for curing the bite of a dog. toā-teng-hông, plant used for reducing inflammation. koe-chih-hông, a plant with a leaf like a bird's tongue. chhú-bé-hông, a sort shaped like a rat's tail. kāu-boah-hông (C.), a medicinal plant.

hông [R. yellow, = col. ng], sulphur. liū-hông, sulphur. siau-hông, nitre and sulphur. tâng-hông, verdigris on the article. chhiū" tâng-hông, to get covered with verdigris. hîn-hông, a yellow drug used on 5.5, mixed with wine or water, for expelling demons from houses; realgar. hîn-hông-chiú, do. mixed in wine. tan-hông, a reddish-yellow paint (an oxide of lead?), (s. red).

tāi-hông, rhubarb (medicinal).

giū-hông, cow bezoar; biliary calculus of the cow. chhoan-hông, inferior bezoar from Sze-chuen, not from the cow.

hông-hun, twilight. hông-tsoân, the invisible world (v. tsoân). hông-kim, jars holding old bones collected from graves.

hông-hô, the Yellow River (the Hwang-ho). hông-hô têng-chheng, when the Yellow River grows clear (v. têng).

hông [R. red, = col. ng]. áu-hông, to vomit blood. hông-tan, red-lead. tan-hông, red paper, such as is used for making visiting cards (s. yellow). hông-piên-ko, a confection. boán-tông-hông, a hanging candelabrum with many lamps.

it-tiông-hông, the hollyhock (lit. ten feet long of red). it-tông-hông, id. chhien-jit-hông, a sort of everlasting flower.

chhi pèk, tún hông, teeth white and lips red (said of a beauty).

hông — hoat-hông, burning with rage (s. swollen). hoat-kiáu-hông, mad upon gambling; much excited in gambling (esp. to win what has been lost), so that he will not stop though urged to stop.

hông [R. swollen]. hoat-hông, swollen, as with a poisonous bite or bite of dog, or from inflammation (s. last word). hoat-tsúi-hông, to become inflamed, as a wound from the application of cold water. thê-hông, to reduce inflammation or swelling.

hông-thán, jaundice, as in children.

hông (R. id.) hông-thiông (R.), a locust.

hông [R. to sew, = col. pang, phang]. chhâi-hông, a tailor. tsâi-hông (Cn.), id.

hông [R. to meet with]. siông-hông (r.), to meet with, as a person (s. guard). hêng-gū siông-hông (R.), happily met.

hân-hông, rarely met with indeed! (ironical), (v. hân).

hông [R. to guard against]. tí-hông, to be on one's guard against; to guard against. thê-hông, id. hông-chhát, to be guarding against thieves, robbers, rebels, &c. hông-té, to guard an important place when war or rebellion is near. hông-hân (R.), to take great care of (as children or nephews), that they may not become had (v. hân). koan-hông, to be on one's watch, and guard a house against loss or thieves; to watch that no suspicious characters come in; also, the seal of an oblong form used by some mandarins, as the Tau-tai and Governor-general.

hái-hông, the Hai-fang, or assistant mandarin of a Foo, usually stationed at some important place, e.g. at Amoy. sin-hông, station of a small military officer. tsoan-hông, a petty officer who guards a city gate;

he also assists the Show-pei (siú-pi) in managing the whole division (iá") of the army. tsoan-hông-thia", id. tsoan-hông-sin, id.

hông-hông, a medicine (v. hong, rheumatism).

àn-kiám siông-hông, mutually on the watch against each other (lit. hands on swords). àm-kiám siông-hông, id. ka-chèk lân-hông, it is hard to guard against a thief within the household. chek-kok hông-ki, to gather up corn against time of famine.

hông — hông-hiám, dangerous, as disease, or as state of matters.

hông (contracted from hō-lâng). hông-phah, to be struck or beaten. hông-hiám, to be found fault with.

hông [R. hông, shining, splendid]. put-chí-hông, very gaudy.

hông [R. bông, dark, = col. phông]. àm-hông, too dark, as house or room; giving very little light, as lamp, &c.

hông (R. id.) hông-hut, similar (v. hut, "similar").

hông (R. id.) hông-hut, confused and frightened (v. hut).

hông (C.) hông-hiah", = A. hō-hiah", bustling; flurried.

hông (R. id.), to imitate or copy, as a map, picture, or style of writing; to draw or paint a likeness. hông-lâng--ê pit-chek, to imitate a man's writing, especially for an exercise in writing. hông-lâng--ê jī-thé, id. hông-lâng--ê chhiū-pit, id.

hông [R. hông, = hóng, to meet with, the more], what a man meets with; circumstances of a man or state of an affair. hó-kéng-hóng, good fortune; prosperous state of matters. phái"-kéng-hóng, bad fortune.

hông [R. shining, splendid], (esp. Cn. T.), gaudy, showy, or splendid, as dress, &c. chhêng khah-hóng, finely dressed. sin-chhêng hông-hóng, id. khoá"-hông, to gaze on beautiful things, as pictures, curiosities, or plants set out only to be looked at.

chhut-hông, to have small-pox.

hông [R. random, false]. tám-hóng, to take a thing or money, pretending that the owner has commissioned us to borrow or get it.

hông [R. to inquire, to investigate]. hông-chhat, to investigate officially and somewhat secretly. àm-hóng, to make secret official search, as incognito, or by confidential secret messengers. tsa-hóng, to investigate officially, as constables or tepo. chhip-hông (R.), to search secretly for a criminal, as men sent to seize him.

hông [R. hông, = hóng, to meet with, the more]. hō-hông, how much the more; so much the more; all the more. hông-kiam, do., when the original idea has something added to it.

hông [R. to let loose, to set free, = col. pang]. hông-hông, free from care; too careless and thoughtless; taking things too easy. pàng-hông-hông, id. khah-hông, id. sim tiōh-pàng khah-hông, don't be so anxious about the matter. hông-hông chhàng-chhàng (C.), incautious; careless. hông-sim, free from anxiety. sim hông, heart full of bad desires. sim-koa" hông, heart full of vanity; given to carelessness and pleasure. hông-tông, loose and irregular in conduct. hông-tá", utterly without fear of consequences; often foolhardy. hông-chhiông,

黃

紅

廣

蝗
縫
逢

防

與 是

仿
髣

倣

晃

况 况

放

giving loose to one's passions or desires; loose and irregular in behaviour; to allow inferiors to behave ill. hōng-sù, disrespectful; impertinent.

hōng-kò, to open the (mandarin's) office for receiving accusations (v. kò). hōng-seng, to save the life of an animal for Buddhist merit. hōng-seng-tí, a pond in temples, for keeping fish alive. it-giēn hōng-chhut, sù-má lân-tui, four horses cannot catch a word once spoken. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hōng-hā, just leave that matter alone for the present, till more pressing matters are first arranged.

hōng [R. official salary]. hōng-lók, salary of officials. hoát-hōng, to mulct of his salary.

hōng — hoat-hōng, face flushed, as with rapid walking or with illness; to blush. hōng-hōng-jiét, very hot, as from fever or inflammation, or from heat. jiét hōng-hōng, id. sio-hōng-hōng, id.

hōng [R. loud sound of voices]. hōng-hōng-kiò, buzzing sound, as of a crowd, or of a steamer, or as a ringing sound in the ears. hōng-hōng-háu, id.

hōng [R. kiōng, together, = col. kāng], to stir up or encourage another to do something he is not quite sure about. tàu-hōng, id. hōng-heh<sup>n</sup>, several men inciting each other to act (v. heh<sup>n</sup>). hōng-hōng heh<sup>n</sup>-heh<sup>n</sup>, to do on the spur of the moment. tāi-ke hōng--ê, done in common by several men, as a play thus subscribed for.

hōng (R. id.), the phoenix. hōng-hōng, do.; properly the male and female phoenixes. hōng-hōng tò-chhú, may the phoenix come here (words pasted up at marriages). loân-hōng, male and female phoenixes. loân-hōng siōng-súí, a pair of phoenixes going together (said of a married couple).

lêng-chhia hōng-lién, imperial carriage and sedan. hōng-koa<sup>n</sup>, ornamental head-dress worn by mandarin ladies and at marriages (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). hōng-koan hê-kòe (C.), sort of head-dress for females at marriages (v. koan). hōng-kè (C. kòe), id.

kim-hōng, the balsam (flower). kim-hōng-hoe, id. kim-hōng-chí, = kíp-seng-chí, its seed. hōng-bé-chháu, the fern. hōng-bé-ní<sup>n</sup>, fern roots, medicinal.

hōng [R. to receive or present respectfully with both hands, to reverence, = col. phōng, phāng]. keng-hōng, to worship; to reverence by making offerings to. hōng-seng, to treat with great respect and attention and politeness, as distinguished visitors or superiors; sometimes with flattery. hōng-chí, to receive imperial commands; sometimes said in joke, "I have got my orders." hōng-beng, to receive orders. hōng-chhe, to be sent by a superior. hōng-kim, to receive an interdict from a superior. hōng-kàu, Roman Catholic phrase for entering the church.

hop (C.), (= A. nauh, haub<sup>n</sup>), to catch in the mouth, as a dog; to take money very covetously. hop-lop chiáh-liáh--khi, to take a quantity of money avariciously and improperly.

hu [R. a man, a male, husband, = col. pō]. kang-hu, work. kang-hu-pi<sup>n</sup>, consumption. kang-hu-lāng, an artisan; a journeyman; a skilled workman. khah-kang-hu, of very fine or skilful workmanship. kang-hu-tê, Congou tea. siōng kang-hu, best Congou. tiōng-kang-hu, medium quality of Congou. ū-kang, chiū ū-hu, if there be work there will be wages. ū-kang, tát--lí ū-hu, I must have my wages for each day's work.

hu-jîn, the wife of a mandarin like the Tau-tai.

tsun-hu-jîn, your wife (polite phrase). tek-hu-jîn, a wicker-work frame like a large pillow, for sleeping cool with the arms stretched out on it. chí<sup>n</sup>-kháu hu-jîn, the goddess of the eaves. hu-jîn-má, the goddess of childbirth. lím-súí hu-jîn, do. in temple of Seng-hōng-iá. tí-thâu hu-jîn (T.), id.

bú-hu, phrase used in disparagement of a military mandarin. iōng-hu siók-tsú, a common rough-like illiterate man. kan-hu, an adulterer.

tiōng-hu, husband (v. tiōng). chí-hu, elder sister's husband. chiá-hu, id. chiáu-hu, id. bê-hu, younger sister's husband. mái<sup>n</sup>-hu (C.), id. hu-hū, husband and wife (v. hū). hu-chhe, id. (v. chhe). hu-chhoe, id. liét-lú put-kà jī-hu, a chaste widow does not marry a second husband. chio-hu iōng-tsú, to marry a second husband to take care of the children. chio-hu iōng-tsú, sè chhut bū-nāi<sup>n</sup>, do., because she has no other resource.

koán-hu, a man who keeps a cook-shop, and supplies feasts to order. tsúí-hu, water-carrier for a yamun or examination hall. chhia-hu, driver of a carriage. koa<sup>n</sup>-hu, mandarin's chair-hearers. kiō-hu, a chair-hearer; a chair-coolie (addressed as "kong-siā"). hu-kè, pay of mandarin's chair-coolies. sió-hu, common chair-coolies. sa<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup>-hu, three chair-coolies, as for one chair. hu-thâu, man who lets out sedan chairs; also, man who has charge of all the chair-coolies and porters when a mandarin's family is removing. ah-hu, overseer of many coolies carrying loads or sedans. kiō-hu, a coolie; a porter. thiau-hu, id. ki<sup>n</sup>-hu, a public watchman who watches the streets.

hu [R. hui, to remove, to divorce]. hu-jîn-lí, a sort of plum, very good to eat.

hu (R. id.), (C. hi; Cn. hū), empty; hollow; false; vain. hu-sit, empty or solid; false or true. hu-jī (R.), a particle, in grammar.

kiam-hu, humble, humble-minded. hu-sim (R.), id.

khang-hu, empty, vain, hollow. pak-lāi khang-hu, hungry; illiterate; internally weak, as a consumptive man, or sick man without appetite. tê-lāi khang-hu, illiterate; feeling weak or giddy with hunger, or as a convalescent; hungry.

lōe-hu, a dangerous disease, when the patient is very weak though he looks fat, and has large abdomen. hu-tóe, naturally of a weak constitution. hu-lám, weak and emaciated; in weak health. hu-hé, slightly feverish. hu-jiét, typhus or typhoid fevers. hu-sún, consumption. hu-lô ê-cheng, id. hu-lô ké-kek, three (or four) very dangerous chronic diseases. hu-lô ké-kek, id.

hu-hoa, vanity; foolish expenditure; dissipation. hu-hùi, to waste, as money; lavish expenditure.

hu-hu hoàn-hoàn, utterly false, as a story. hu-sū, false, as words. hu-hê (R.), false and empty, as the talk of a hoaster. hū-hiō (Cn.), id. it hu, pek hu, one part being proved false, it is evidently all false (lit. the hundred are false).

hu [R. hui, lime, ashes, dust, = col. he], ashes; things broken down to powder; decayed or worm-eaten and falling into powder; growing soft and bad, as meat kept too long. hu-hu, reduced to ashes, decayed and turning to powder. hu-hu-khi, burned to ashes, or wasted to powder, &c. sio-hu, to burn to ashes.

tsng-á-hu, powdered bricks or tiles, used for scouring metal. tsang-hu, small broken down fibre of the "tsang" palm.

hé-hu, ashes in fine powder. péh-chiú hé-hu,

俸

哄

鳳

奉

夫

休

虛

灰

府

the ashes of a plant, used for sharpening knives, and for making rice white in pounding it. hé-hu-sek, light purplish gray, not so much red as "khò-hoe-sek."

kim-hu, ashes of the idolatrous paper that represents gold and silver. chí<sup>n</sup>-lê-hu, id. bóe chí<sup>n</sup>-lê-hu, to buy these ashes; pedlars who pretend to buy it, but really buy stolen and broken articles. hiu<sup>n</sup>-hu, ashes of incense, used medicinally. tsoá-hu, ashes of paper. jī-tsoá-hu, ashes of written or printed paper.

hu (R. id.) béh-hu, wheat or barley parched and pounded small.

hu [R. skin]. phê-hu, skin and muscular flesh close under the skin; also, very shallow and scanty, said of information, instruction, essay, or other composition. hó-phê-hu, healthy condition of body, so that a wound heals well. phái<sup>n</sup>-phê-hu, unhealthy state of body, so that a wound is hard to heal.

hu, sound of a strong wind. hong hu-hu-háu, the wind howling. hu-tu, the sound of blowing a horn.

hu — hu-hu-hu, to rub gently, in a circular way, as a sore place on a child, in order to please him; sometimes also breathing on the place.

hu (R. id.), = hi, a market. hu-chhī, id. hu-tiū<sup>n</sup>, market-place.

hu [R. sufficient]. put-hu, not enough. chí<sup>n</sup>-giáh put-hu, money not sufficient. khai-khong put-hu, to embezzle and use up part of the money entrusted, so as to be unable to account for the whole.

hú [R. id. = col. phú]. hū-iông-hoe, the tree mallow; Hibiscus.

hú (T.), = A. hū, a fish (Cn. hū). sūi-hū (Cn.), = A. sūi-gū, the broad clasp that falls over the staple for a padlock.

hū [R. to help to rise; to assist, = col. phê], to lift up, as by supporting under the arms. hū-khī hū-tó, to assist in rising and lying down, as a sick or old man. hū-chhah, to support by holding up the arm-pits.

hū-tsê, to assist, as with funds. hū-chhī, to protect or assist, as the gods. hū-tī (C.), id. hū-tsò, to assist the sovereign, as a good mandarin.

hū-kiō, to hold the poles of a mandarin's sedan at the sides.

hū (R.), to fit together and correspond; a stamp or tally that fits to another; a written Taoist charm.

hū-háp, corresponding well, as evidence. liên-máu put-hū, his age and appearance do not correspond with the description.

tso-koa<sup>n</sup>-hū, to litigate; to be engaged in a lawsuit; to be at law.

hū-chiū, written and spoken charms and incantations. hū-hoat, rites for using a charm. hū-lêng, the word "hū" written on a bit of green bamboo with a piece of red cloth at the top, used as a charm. hū-tsúi, water charmed by the ashes of a burned charm, blown out from the mouth of the Taoist priest.

thô-hū, charms made of peach leaves or branches. pêng-an-hū, a charm to cause good fortune. sai-kong-hū, a Taoist charm. tek-hū, a short peg of bamboo with a charm written on it and a bit of red cloth tied at the top, used as a charm. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tek-hū, id. an chhi<sup>n</sup>-tek-hū, to pin down this charm.

ték-hū ê sū-chiá, spiritual messengers who carry the messages of priests to and from the gods and spirits.

ūi-hū, to write charms. kat-hū, to tie a charm in one's hair, on the queue. kê-hū, to paste up charms. tah-hū, id. an-hū, id.

hú [R. a department; the palace of an imperial prince], a department; a Foo; the prefect of a department; his office; the chief city of a department; (forms titles of several other officials).

sêng-hú, a clan. sêng-hú tân, my surname is Tâu. tāi-sêng-hú, a large clan.

im-hú, the spiritual world; Hades. tê-hú (Cn.), id. ông-hú, the palace of a prince of the blood.

ngó-hú liók-pê, the great offices of state at the metropolis.

koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, mandarins in general; a mandarin. chham-hú, an officer like colonel or major-general, below "iú-kek," and above "chhien-tsóng." iū-hú, the officer of that rank who commands the right wing. tióng-hú, commander of the centre; (&c.) tióng-kun-hú, = toā-thia<sup>n</sup>-iá, an idol (v. thia<sup>n</sup>).

ti-hú, the prefect of a department; the Foo mandarin. hú-thài-iá, id. hú-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. hú-tsun (R.), id. toā-hú, id. pún-hú, the prefect of this department. hú-tō, the prefect and the Tau-tai. hú-koāi<sup>n</sup>, the Foo and Hien mandarins; the prefect and sub-prefect. jī-hú, assistant mandarin of a department, = hai-fang (hái-hông). hun-hú, do. or the following (sam-hú); the region placed under his special supervision. sam-hú, second assistant of the prefect, of smaller importance, e.g. at Chióh-bé and at Bô-hâng.

ê-chiu-hú, phrase used in speaking of Java, as opposed to Singapore. chiang-chiu-hú, the city of Chang-chew; the department of Chang-chew; the prefect of Chang-chew. hú-hūn, the department. kê-hú, to pass from one department to another. hú-siá<sup>n</sup>, the Foo city. chiū<sup>n</sup>-hú, to go to the Foo city. hú-gé, the yamun of the prefect. hú-kháu, the large space in front of his yamun. hú-óh, the academy or college of the department; the literary mandarin who is its principal or president.

hú [R. great; a particle used in polite designations]. koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, experienced soldiers who wait as assistants at the military yamuns.

hú [R. the lower intestines]. liók-hú, the six lower intestines, the gall, the stomach, the bowels and the urinary organs, with the "chiao." ngé-tsóng liók-hú, the great internal organs. hì-hú, the lungs and the "hú." hùi-hú, id. hì-hú tng-tê, the intestines in general. kám-jip hùi-hú, thankful to the bottom of the heart. hì-hú ê-ôe, words spoken from the bottom of the heart. khoà<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup> lí--ê hùi-hú, to see your inmost feelings and desires.

hú [R. flesh prepared and dried, = col. pé]. bah-hú, meat (pork) boiled, dried, and reduced to fine fibres. lók-hú, stag's flesh prepared thus.

hú (R. id.), (Cn.), = A. bú. hú-ī<sup>n</sup>, = A. bú-ī<sup>n</sup>, the governor of one province. hú-tái, id.

hú [R. to promise; a surname, = khé], (Cn. hū, C. hí). êng-hū (Cn.), to promise; to engage.

hū [R. hū, a teacher, = col. phê]. thài-hū, a very high rank at court; one of the highest ministers of state. thài-tsú thài-hū, tutor of heir-apparent.

hū [R. rich, = col. pù]. pîn-hū, poor and rich. hū-kùi, rich and honourable; very comfortable and happy (v. kùi). hū-hê, rich. hū-jū, id. hū-ka, a wealthy family. hū-chiok, wealthy (s. hand over). kiap-hú tsê-pîn, to plunder the rich and help the poor (by selling their booty cheap), as robbers and pirates say. sip-hūi, kiú hú; put-hú, têng-sī siáu-phí-ku: of ten fat people, nine are wealthy; if not wealthy, certainly he has small hips!

麸
膚

墟
擊

笑
魚
扶

符

甫
腑

脯 撫 許 傳
富

訃 赴

hù [R. to announce a death]. hù-im-thiap (R.), a letter announcing a death to a near relative.

hù (R. id.), to arrive in good time; to be in good time for anything. i lâi hù-hù, he came in very good time. m-hù, too late. bōe-hù, id. (no use of trying). bōe-tit-hù, id. hù-bō-tsūn, arrived too late for the boat. hù-hi, to attend the market. hù-hōe, to be in time for the meeting. hù-lâu-tsúi, to catch the tide. hù-sí hù-khek, just in time. bō-hù-chhoán, said of a very poor man (v. chhoán).

hù — sio-hù-hù, very hot.

hù [R. a surname; = col. pè]. hù-iét, a builder who became prime minister of the founder of the Hàn dynasty, worshipped by builders.

hù (R. id.) hoan-hù, to command; to order; to give a message or deliver a commission. hun-hù, id. chhien teng-lêng, bân chiok-hù, giving very careful and repeated orders.

hù [R. to assist; a second], a second copy; a duplicate; a set of articles. chià<sup>n</sup>-hù, the principal document and the duplicate, &c. (v. chià<sup>n</sup>). hù-chhiú, an assistant. hù--lâng âu-chhiú, to help a man to do what he could not well have done alone (v. âu). hù-tià<sup>n</sup>, a spare anchor.

tsái-hù, a book-keeper in a vessel.

hù-iâ, a small military officer (under a "tsóng-iâ"), often stationed at a subdivision of a Hien district. hù-chiòng, = hiáp-tái, a military officer (like adjutant?) one grade above the "chham-hú." hù-chhe, assistant-messenger or commissioner, great or small. hù-tsú-khó, assistant-examiners for the Kújín degree. hù-png, the list of those candidates for the Kújín degree whose essays are good, but whose degree is put off till the next time.

kui-hù, a complete set of articles. chit-hù, one set; often ten articles. chit-hù-oá<sup>n</sup>, a set of bowls. chit-hù-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a pair of oars.

chit-hù cheng-sín, in quite good spirits.

hù [R. to hand over]. kau-hù, to hand over; to intrust to one's care; to deliver to one's charge. hù-thok, to intrust to one's care, as money, or things, or child. hù-chiok, to supply with what they need, as family or employers (v. chiok), (s. rich).

hù [R. hū, near]. hù-hō, to assent to another's opinion (v. hō).

hù [R. poetry; taxes; sometimes col. hū]. si-hù (R.), various sorts of poetry or hymns. si-sū ko-hù, four sorts of metrical composition. gim-si tsòe-hù, to make and chant several sorts of poetry.

iòh-sèng-hù, medical rhymes or rhythmical phrases for receipts, &c.

hù [R. hù, poetry; taxes], a receipt for land-tax. tē-tse-hù, receipt for house-tax in suburbs of some cities. tōe-tse-hù, id. chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>-hù, a receipt for land-tax. pun chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>-hù, to distribute these papers to the collectors, as the officials of the yamun do. chi<sup>n</sup>-hù (Cn.), a receipt for a mace or more of silver for land-tax. hun-hù (Cn.), do. for a candareen or more. tsòan-hù (Cn.), receipt in full for land-tax.

hù [R. near; in one phrase, "hù"]. hù-kūn, near; in place. kūn-hù, id. kui-hù, to join one's self to, as a weaker party to a stronger party. hù-hōe, to express assent, often without really meaning it.

hù-sín, to possess a man, as a demon does; to go and reside in an idol, as the spirit of another man (not the idol's own spirit) is supposed sometimes to do. hù- sín (C.), id. hù-ki, to possess a man, for the purpose of writing oracles, as a spirit does.

hù-òh, to attend school as an extra scholar, additional to those whom the patron (tong-ka) provides. hù-khò, the third class of candidates in competitions for literary rewards (v. khò).

hù (R. id.) hiòng-hù, a medicine made from thè-hiú<sup>n</sup> (v. hiòng).

hù (cf. pū). hù-hù-kiò, loud sound, as of thunder or of a steamer. hih-hih hù-hù, sound as of wind howling, or as of mill for cleaning rice; said also of a man in a great hurry and flurry.

hù (R. id.) hù-tsóng, to bury in the same grave side by side with a relation buried before.

hù [R. hù, crushed; rotten or pulpy]. tāu-hù, bean-curd shaped into squares (from the pulpy "tāu-hoe"), but not yet pressed (v. tāu).

hù (R. id.) hù-má, son-in-law of the emperor.

hù [R. a teacher; in one phrase "hù," = col. pè], (sometimes "sai-hù" is improperly written with "hù," a mound).

su-hù, respectful title given to Buddhist priests.

sai-hù, a mechanic; a skilled workman; a journeyman; a teacher of songs, some sorts of gymnastics, or boxing, &c. sai-hù-kiòh, a journeyman. sai-hù-thâu, a master tradesman; a head mechanic. khek-sai-hù, a teacher of songs. thui-á sai-hù, a man who teaches the use of the long club called "thui." thi-thâu sai-hù, a barber (&c.)

put-chí sai-hù, talking in a way of indirect hints, so as to avoid giving offence; not speaking straight out.

hù [R. father, = col. pè]. hù-chhin (r.), father. gi-hù, adoptive father. kè-hù, step-father. gák-hù (r.), wife's father. sien-hù, deceased father. tóng-pau i<sup>n</sup>-hù, of same mother, but different father. hák-hù, scholar's father. sín-hù, Roman Catholic title for priest; spiritual father.

hù-tsú, father and son. hù-bé, father and mother (v. bé). hù-bió (Cn.), id.

teng hù-iu, to be in mourning for father. sèng-hù koán-giáp, to succeed to one's father, and have control of the property.

hù [R. a woman; properly a married woman, = col. pū, bé]. hù-jin-lâng, a woman. hù-jin (R.), id. ta-pè hù-jin (r.), men and women. lâm-hù ló-iù, male and female, old and young. hu-hù, husband and wife. hu-chhiòng hù-súi, husband and wife very harmonious.

tē-hù, younger brother's wife. chiet-hù, a widow who refuses to marry again. im-hù, a lewd woman; an adulteress. hù-khe, diseases of women. sip-hù kiú-tè, of ten wives, nine dislike concubines.

hù [R. to carry on the back (= col. pè); to owe money; ungrateful]. hù-sim, ungrateful. kè-hù, to reject or requite ill, as kindness (v. kè). hiau-hù, to keep back what belongs to a man (v. hiau). khui-hù, to act ungratefully and injuriously; to betray trust, as in money matters.

khi-hù, to treat ill and oppress; to treat with injustice, as a more powerful man who quite despises the power of the man whom he wrongs. toā-siā khi-hù sió-siā, a large village constantly plundering or oppressing a smaller village that is quite unable to resist.

huh, to cook in a frying-pan (tiá<sup>n</sup>) without water or oil, over a slow fire.

hùh, exclamation used in driving away fowls.

傅 附
副

付
附 賦
賦

附

符

符
府
駙 傅
阜

父

婦

負

妃
飛
揮
飛

hui [R. a concubine]. hông-hui (R.), an imperial concubine. thien-hui, a title of the idol má-tsé-pô.

hui, to clean a medicinal powder by washing, as "tiú" is said of other powders.

hui [R. to move with the hand], to copy stone-cut characters by rubbing a sheet of paper over them. hui-ji, id. hui-kim jû-thé (R.), to spend gold like dirt.

hui [R. to fly, = col. pé]. hui-hô, sudden calamities (v. hô). hui-khîm tsó-siú, birds and beasts. tû-hui tiòh —, the only way is to —. phâ"-sí, gák-hui, a famous statesman and general (Yoh-fei) in the end of the Sung dynasty. gák-hui-biô, temple of Yoh-fei, with chained figure of Chin kôe, who falsely accused him and got him put to death.

hui [R. is not, no, it is not; wrong]. hui-siông, unusual; extraordinary. sî-hui (r.), right or wrong. tû-hui tiòh —, the only way is to —. phâ"-sí, hui tiong-sin, he who fears death is not a faithful statesman.

hui-ûi, to act very wickedly. hui-ûi tsok-tái, id. ûi-hui, id. ûi-hui tsok-tái, id. thong-tông ûi-hui, to work wickedness together. thong-bê ûi-hui, to plot together to work wickedness. hông-tông ûi-hui, to work all sorts of wickedness.

hûi (R. tsû), earthenware; pottery, stoneware; crockery. hûi-khî, id. hûi-iô, a pottery. sio-hûi, to bake earthenware; to make pottery. sio-hûi--ê, a potter. hûi-sai-hû, id. hûi-sio--ê, made of stoneware or pottery. sio-hûi chiáh-khîh, potters use the damaged ware (and sell the good).

hûi [R. fat, = col. pûi]. hûi-jî-oân, sort of pills for strengthening children (v. oân).

húi (R. id.) húi-chhûi, a bird with beautiful feathers (v. chhûi).

húi (R. id.), to destroy. húi-hoái, id.; ruined; destroyed. húi theh-theh (Cn.), utterly ruined, as a house.

húi [R. to revile]. húi-pông, to revile; to slander; to calumniate; to blaspheme. húi-mâ" (T.), to revile and scold violently.

húi [R. robbers, ruffians]. húi-lûi, ruffians; rowdies; thievish low fellows; thieves and vagabonds. chhât-húi, banditti; brigands; violent robbers. thé-húi, local rebels, bandits, or robbers not connected with any great rebellion. liám-húi, the Nienfei rebels.

hùi (R. id.), to spend; to expend; often with idea of spending much or lavishly. hùi-êng, id. phò-hùi, to waste one's property, as by needful expenditure on sickness, or lawsuits, &c., or by lavish prodigality. khai-hùi, to spend money; expenses. sé-hùi, expenses. sé-hùi-tâng, expenses heavy; expensive. sú-hùi (C.), expenses. peng-hùi, military expenses, viewed in relation to the expense to government. lê-hùi, expenses, as of a journey. poá"-hùi, id. poá"-tî" lê-hùi, id. poá"-chî" sé-hùi, id. hu-hùi, to spend lavishly. hoa-hùi, id. ke-hùi, household expenses. ke hùi joá-tsóe, spend how much more? hùi-oân-oân, all spent, as money. hùi-giáp, to waste or dissipate property. hùi-chhân hùi-giáp, id. hùi-chhûi hùi-chih, a great deal of talk without any good effect. hùi-chîn sim-lát, to put forth all one's energies, often to no purpose. ông-hùi sim-sin, to exert one's mind uselessly. hùi-sim-sin (to spend much thought), very troublesome, as affair. hùi-sim, many thanks! you have taken a great deal of trouble for me. hê--lí hùi-sim, id. hùi-sin, to put one's self to much trouble or expense; troublesome, as an affair needing much thought or exertion; I am much obliged to you for your trouble; I have given you a great deal of trouble, sir! m-thang hùi-sin, do not put yourself to trouble or expense for me (said by a guest, &c.)

hùi-khî, requiring much labour; very troublesome, as an affair that is involved and difficult; hardly worth the trouble. bô-siá"-hùi-khî, not needing much trouble to set it right.

hùi (R. id.), a name that must not be pronounced, sometimes must not even be written; a tabooed name, as the "small name" of a sage, emperor, deceased father, &c. hùi-miá", id. sêng-hùi, small name of a sage or emperor. gû-hùi, do. of emperor or of imperial prince. khî-hùi, to reverence such a name by avoiding the writing or pronouncing of it. pî-hùi, id. hoân-hùi, to offend by pronouncing such a name, or writing that of the emperor. tûh--tiòh lêng--ê hùi-bú, to speak openly of what makes another terribly ashamed, as a secret shameful act or flaw in genealogy.

hùi (Cn.), = A. hi, the lungs.

hùi (C.), = A. hòe, to abolish or make void. hui"-hùi, = A. hng-hòe, laid waste; become desolate.

hûi (R. id.), the warp of a web. ki"-hûi, warp and woof. keng-hûi (R.), id.

hûi (R. id.) tî-hûi, wisdom.

hûi (R. id.) un-hûi, favour; grace; gratuitous kindness. siú-hûi (R.), I feel obliged for your kindness, sir!

hûi-oa", the city and district of Hui-an. hûi-hiong-hû, the root of "thê-hiu", from that region.

hùi" (C.), = A. hng, waste, desolate. khui-hùi", laid waste and uncultivated, as fields. hùi"-hî, id. hùi"-chhân, fields fallen out of cultivation, as from feuds or failing population. hùi"-hî"-hî", all in disorder, as a room.

hùi" (C.) hùi"-hùi", very wicked. ê-hùi", a very poisonous black serpent.

hùi" (C.) ê-hùi", = A. ê-hng, evening. tsâ-hùi", yesterday.

hùi" (C.), = A. hng, a dry field; a garden.

hùi" (C.) liú-hùi", = A. jiú-ng, sulphur.

hùi" (Cn.), = A. hêng, to return a thing; to repay.

hùi" (Cn.), = A. hoái", transverse. hùi" phiah-phiah, very wicked. hùi"-gék, = A. hêng-gék, very wicked and injurious.

hùi" (C.), = A. hng, far.

hùi" (Cn.), = A. hêng, a sort of vegetable.

hùi" (Cn.), = A. hêng, to make a present.

huieh (R. hiet), (C. hoeh), blood. huieh-khî, principle of animal life. huieh-khî chiok, full-blooded; in vigorous health. huieh-khî gêng--teh, the blood supposed to be arrested in its action, as in a tumour and other diseases. huieh-liú, a bloody tumour. huieh-méh", the pulse. huieh-kun, veins or arteries.

huieh-tsúi, the serum of the blood. huieh-tsúi-á, a very little blood, as trickling from a wound. huieh-tái, blood in small quantities, as on the skin. huieh-tô, clotted blood in large quantity; soft clotted gore. huieh-táng, id. huieh-pa, hardened blood, as on the skin or on clothes from a sore.

huieh-tî, a pool in the Buddhist hell, for women who die within one month after childbirth.

phah--tiòh huieh-lê, to strike a man in a danger-

諱

緯
慧
惠

非

磁

肥
翠
毀
誹

匪

費

血

ous place, where it will at least be very painful, or make him unwell, if not kill him. tiám i--ê huìh-lê, do, with the point of the finger.

lâng-huìh, human blood. lâng-huìh, blood and matter. koah-lâng-huìh, to cut a large boil or abscess with a knife, so as to let out blood and matter. giah-lâng-huìh, to open a small boil with a pin or needle.

koah-huìh, to cut and let blood. chhut-huìh, to bleed (neuter), especially in small quantity, as a bruise or small cut. lâu-huìh, to bleed profusely. lèk-huìh, to press blood from a wound. chí-huìh, to staunch blood. phùi-huìh, to spit blood. siū<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh-phùi-huìh, so anxious as almost going to spit blood; looking very anxious. siū<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh thê-huìh, till almost going to vomit blood; or "áu-huìh," to vomit blood.

huìh phō-sim, the blood supposed to collect at the heart so as to cause death.

huìh<sup>n</sup> — huìh<sup>n</sup>-huìh<sup>n</sup>-thi, weeping and sobbing bitterly.

hun [R. sin, to stretch, to state a case]. hun-sè, to make a statement, defence, or explanation to superior or judge. hun-hê, do.; to discuss a matter making explanations (v. hê). hun-hōe (C.), id.

hun (R. id.) sin-hun, a marriage. hō sin-hun, to make congratulatory marriage presents. chiáh sin-hun-chiú, partake of a marriage feast. hun-in, a marriage. hun-ien, id. (s. tobacco). hun-iên (r.), a marriage feast. chiú-hun-toh, a repast spread in the nuptial chamber for bride and bridegroom. háp-hun-toh, id.

háp-hun, to consummate a marriage. kiet-hun, to settle a marriage. têng-hun, to betroth. têng-hun, marriage when either party has been married before. ji-hun-chhin, marriage when the bride has been married before. thê-hun, to break the betrothal. thê-thâu-hun, marriage when one of the parties had been espoused before, but that espousal had been broken by death; counted unlucky, as the spirit of the deceased betrothed still counts the betrothal binding, and the marriage existing.

hun-tsu, slips of red paper used as a marriage contract, given by the parents of the bride and bridegroom to each other. tsú-hun, the superiors (parents or guardians) of the bride and bridegroom, who arrange the marriage.

hun-phōe (C.), to give away in marriage, as one's daughter or concubine (s. divide). hun-phōe--lâng (C.), id.

hun [R. to divide; a small division, = col. pun], a small part, especially one-tenth;  $\frac{1}{10}$ th of an inch; a minute; a small weight, a candareen,  $\frac{1}{10}$ th of a mace (chí<sup>n</sup>),  $\frac{1}{10}$  of a tael (niú<sup>n</sup>); (commission or percentage); to allow a small change of position or quantity; to slacken a rope a little, e.g. to let a boat pass, or in order to sail a little further from the wind.

hun-bêng, plain, clear, distinct. ū-hun-hiáu, understanding well one's duty or business, as instructed. hun-piet, to distinguish. hun-piên, to make distinctions, as in argument or in vindicating one's self or another. hun-lūi, to sort. hun kui-lūi, id. kàu-bé, hek-pék tsū-hun, at last the right and wrong will come plain (v. pék).

hun-phōe, to apportion, as soldiers to stations, or as so much salt to be bought by each shop (s. marriage C.) hun-phài, to appoint to special duty, as each of several persons. hun-hat, id. hun-poah, to divide, as things to be sent to several persons; to send to different men who were formerly together.

hun-thiah, to dissolve partnership; to arrange to have meals separate; to explain minutely. hun-chhoàn, to cook and eat separately. hun-soà<sup>n</sup>, all dispersed or distributed in different directions, as men or things. tsō-tê hun-tsng, to be a receiver of stolen goods.

hun-bién, to be delivered of a child. hun-boán (C.), id.

chhun-hun, the vernal equinox. chhiu-hun, the autumnal equinox. chhiu-hun, mi<sup>n</sup>-jit pi<sup>n</sup>-pun, at the autumnal equinox day and night are equal.

hun-hú, a part of a Foo department placed under the special care of an assistant-mandarin; that assistant himself, as "bái-hông" or "sam-hú." hun-chiu, similar division or assistant-mandarin of a Chow department. hun-koāi<sup>n</sup>, similar division, or assistant-mandarin of a Hien district. hun-si, a still smaller assistant official.

hun-kim, small variation, as from pattern, or as from cardinal points in position of a grave or house (v. kim). hun-kim, alloyed gold.

khah-hun lí-lí-á, move it a very little further; rather a smaller quantity; slack the rope a very little. tióh-hun--lòh-lái, let it down a very little more (by slacking the rope), as in carrying some heavy thing. hun khah-lêng, slack the rope a little. hun chit-chhiú, slack the rope (of the sail) a little.

hun-hô, in the very smallest degree; used in negative phrases (v. hô). chit-hun ê jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, a very short time; a moment (as while the shadow moves one-tenth of an inch). bóe-bōe sng-hun, in buying and selling, men count small fractions.

kàu-hun, just up to the exactly proper quantity, e.g. in infusing medicines; just exactly ripe, as fruit; mellow; at the best. bê-kàu-hun, not yet fully ripe, as fruit. kê-hun, too ripe, as fruit; too much, as in making an infusion.

hun-thâu, a small commission or percentage on a transaction. thiu-hun, to take off a small percentage.

gún-hun, difference on light and heavy dollars. thap gún-hun, to pay the sum necessary to make up the value of a full-weight dollar. pé gún-hun, id. khék-liám gún-hun, to make an unfair profit by paying the full number of dollars, but too light.

hun-sia<sup>n</sup>, the denomination of candareens. hun-hū (Cn.), a receipt for one candareen or more of land-tax.

bô-hun-chhùn, very inaccurate, as in work (v. chhùn). hun-chhák, a chisel from one-tenth to four-tenths of an inch broad.

pat-hun, the sort of writing also called "lê-su," because it is eight-tenths like "khai" characters, and two-tenths like "thoàn" characters.

tsáp-hun-hó, most excellent. tsáp-ji-hun-hó, id.

chit-hun-lāi, interest at one per cent. each month, or 12 per cent. per annum (13 when there is an intercalary month). nng-hun-lāi, 24 per cent. sa<sup>n</sup>-hun-lāi, 36 per cent.

hun [R. entangled; confused], confused; in disorder. hun-hun, id. hun-loàn, id. hun-hun put-it, all in confusion and not agreeing, as opinions.

hun-bê, deceived and deluded. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> hun-hun, mind disturbed and confused. hun-sim, id. bêng-lí hun-sim, fame and wealth delude and confuse the mind.

伸
婚

分

紛

昏 昏
吩
烟

hun [R. confused and indistinct, as thoughts]. pī<sup>n</sup> kàu-hun-hun, so ill as to be about unconscious; often talking incoherently. pī<sup>n</sup> kàu hun-hun m̄-tsai, so ill as to be unconscious.

hun [R. dark, as evening, = col. lng]. hông-hun, dusk; evening twilight. hông-hun-âm, id.

hun [R. id., = col. hoan]. hun-hù, to command; to give orders or commissions.

hun (R. ien), smoke; tobacco; opium. hun-iū, tobacco oil. hun-hiōh, tobacco leaves; cigars. phī<sup>n</sup>-hun, snuff. chiáh phī<sup>n</sup>-hun, to take snuff. sék-hun, prepared tobacco. chhi<sup>n</sup>-hun, a yellowish sort of tobacco. káu-hun, strong-flavoured tobacco. pōh-hun, weak tobacco. tsúi-hun, tobacco mixed with arsenic, smoked through water.

ē-hun, black smoke; opium. a-phien-hun, opium. hun-thê, crude opium. ē-hun-thê, id.

báng-hun, a mixture burned to keep off mosquitoes (v. báng).

hé-hun, smoke. hé-hun-tsún, a steamer. hé-hun-chhia, a locomotive and train. kek hé-hun, to get up steam. chhàu-hé-hun, unpleasant smoky taste or smell. iū hé-hun, expenses of oil (of lamp) and tobacco for visitors.

hun-ien, tobacco smoke (s. marriage). hun-chhe, a tobacco-pipe (v. chhe). hun-pau, a tobacco-pouch. hun-tē, id. hun-kóng, a box furnished with the materials for smoking. hun-kui, a press for pressing tobacco very hard. hun-tà (r.), a cover for the top of a chimney.

hun-keng, an opium shop. hun-sái, refuse of smoked opium, made up again for smoking at a cheaper rate. hun-tóe, id. sio-hun-phā, to make the pellet of opium burn in the flame of the lamp.

kóe-hun, to reform from opium-smoking. kài-hun, to refrain from opium-smoking. tiâu-hun, enslaved to opium so as not to be able to do without it unless by medicine.

chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hun, to invite to smoke tobacco. pàng-hun, to sell a smoke of a pipe (for two or three cash). hē-lí bóe-hun, take this as a small reward or cumshaw (lit. to buy tobacco). chiáh-hun, to smoke tobacco or opium (v. chiáh). suh-hun, id. jip-hun, to fill the pipe, as with tobacco. tsng-hun, to pack tobacco; to put opium on the pipe. tsòe-hun sai-hū, a tobaccoist. chit-poáh-hun, one pipeful.

hun-ē, to blacken with smoke. hun-báng, to smoke out mosquitoes [do these two phrases belong to the next word?].

hun [R. smoke], to smoke, as meat or liquor. hun-bah, smoked meat (pork). hun tâu-iū, to smoke soy. kè-hun, to be smoked (as liquor) in a close cemented jar, by chaff piled round it and burned.

hun (R. id.) kong-hun (R.), merit, as deserving reward from the emperor for services done to the state. kong-hun tō-tek, great merit and virtue. khai-kok goân-hun, the merit of having helped the dynasty to the throne; title of Âng Sêng-tiú of Lâmoa<sup>n</sup>, who invited Shun-chih (sūn-ti-kun) to take the throne when he entered Peking.

hun (R. id.), animal food (= chho), including also onions, &c., as opposed to strict vegetarian diet.

hun [R. sin, the body]. hun-su (C.) = hin-su, the body.

hùn (R. id.) hùn-bōng, a grave. tsé-hùn, ancestral graves. hòe-hùn, deserted graves.

hùn (R. id.), a scar; a cicatrix; a wrinkle; a crease;

a mark left by an indentation, or scratch, or blow, or of a joint or joining; a flaw or crack in the form of a line; a mark left by water, &c.; a line drawn as a mark.

hâ-hùn, a crack or flaw, as in a gem or in a piece of crockery (s. clouds).

to-hùn, scar left by a cut when healed. sióng-hùn, scar of a wound; mark left by a blow or bruise. chiap-hùn, mark of a joining, as in carpenter's work. khieh-hùn, having a flaw or notch in the edge, as crockery. chih-hùn, a crease. chih-hùn, a crack made by a stroke, esp. after mending. pit-hùn, slightly cracked, as wood or crockery; a small crack in do. tiam-hùn, an indentation; to make an indentation. lòe-hùn, scratches made by rubbing.

ûi-hùn, to paint a line (as for a mark), as with ink or paint. uih-hùn, to score or draw a line, as with chalk, or bit of brick, or knife, or nail.

chhiú-hùn, wrinkles on the hand; mark left by the hand pressed down. chiú<sup>n</sup>-hùn, wrinkles on the palm of the hand. tsúg-thâu-á-hùn, lines on the fingers; impression made by the fingers. tsúg-kah-hùn, marks made by the finger-nails. chhùi-khi<sup>n</sup>-hùn, marks left by the teeth in a bite. hiáh-hùn, wrinkles on the forehead. phī<sup>n</sup>-p<sup>n</sup>-hùn, the hollows at the side of the nose and down towards the mouth. im-chek-hùn, lines on the face showing benevolence and portending good luck (v. chek).

tsúi-hùn, mark left by high water, or by water in a jar, &c., when it was at its highest. tsúi lek-hùn, tide just beginning to ebb. tsúi-pho-hùn, wavy lines, as at the foot of a mandarin's robe.

kau-hùn, hooked pattern made on the edge or corner of a dress, wall, floor, &c. ûi kau-hùn, to paint or draw this pattern on a floor or wall, or on cloth to be cut out for sewing on. khún kau-hùn, to lay on braid in this form, and then paste and sew it on firmly.

hùn [R. the soul]. sín-hùn, the soul. kiá<sup>n</sup> kàu sín-hùn si-soà<sup>n</sup>, suddenly terrified and taken aback, so as to be unable to do anything (lit. souls scattered). sín-hùn, khì chit-tiâu, having lost one of our (three) souls, as by sudden fear or grief; Taoist priests bring it back. lêng-hùn (R.), the soul. im-hùn, a soul in Hades. ke<sup>n</sup>-hùn, a disembodied spirit with no one to make offerings to it. bōng-hùn, a disembodied spirit. hùn-phek, the soul and the animal spirits, or spirit and soul (v. phek).

hoân-hùn, life returning after apparent death. hoân-hùn-chháu, a medicine used by the genii (sien) for bringing the dead to life; also, a medicine for curing a swoon or faint. hòe-hùn, to revive, as from a swoon, despair, or death. chio-hùn, to call the soul of a corpse soon after death (v. chio). in-hùn, to call back (by rites performed on the shore) the soul of a man who has died at a distance. bê-hùn-iōh, anæsthetic medicine (v. bê).

hùn-péh, a tablet covered with white cloth (used in rites while the body is unburied, and then changed for the permanent ancestral tablet). hùn-sin, a rude image made to represent the soul in certain rites (v. sin). hùn-têng, open chair with a canopy, like a sedan, for carrying the ancestral tablet. hùn-bé, papers burned to become horses for the spirits ascending and descending on 12. 24 and 1. 4 (s. cloud).

hùn (R. id.), a cloud; the clouds. hùn-hē, a passing shower. hùn-bū, mist. hùn khui, clouds breaking up. hùn soà<sup>n</sup>, the clouds dispersed. hùn tà-bát-bát, sky cloudy all over. làng-hùn, clouds opening and showing clear sky. phū-hùn, floating

魂

雲

煙
勳

葷
身
墳
痕

clouds. ngé-chhái-hún, five-coloured or variegated clouds. ngé-sek-hún, id. hâ-hún, dim and cloudy, as night when the moon gives little light (s. scar). âm-hún, cloudy and dark, as night when clouds quite hide the moon and stars. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-âm-hún, to be dark with clouds, as night; to grow dim, as the surface of a brass mirror needing to be polished again. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-hún, clouds gathering. chiū<sup>n</sup>-hún, to mount the clouds, as gods. thêng-hún kà-bū, id. pe-jip hún-siau (to fly up among the clouds), said of a man terribly afraid. poà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> hún-bé, very high up in the clouds.

hún-hok, wavy figures like clouds or bats on some sorts of cloth.

hún-thui, scaling ladders.

ū-hún ū-ia<sup>n</sup>, really it is so; that is true. bô-hún-bô-ia<sup>n</sup>, utterly false. bô-hún-ia<sup>n</sup>, id.; also said of finding no trace of a man at his house. ū-hún bô-ia<sup>n</sup> ê-ôe, false deceitful words.

hún-lâm (C. ín-lâm), the province of Yun-nan. koan-hún-tióng, = koan-tè, the "god of war."

hún (R. id.), powder; dust; flour; vermicelli; (some preparations like arrow-root); pigment or powder for the face; tender, as pig's liver well cooked.

hún-âng, reddish; florid (like red mixed with white). hún-tiú, sort of white silk. hún-chiáu, a good sort of dove or pigeon. hún-chhū (Cn.), a small freshwater insect.

hún-pái, a white-painted writing-tablet. hún-soà<sup>n</sup>, a chalk-line (used by tailors). hún-chìn, id. hún-piah, to plaster a wall smooth in Chinese way; a whitened wall.

thê-hún, dust. hún-thê, yellow clay (used for colouring playing-cards). hún-chiòh, chalk-stone, from which face-powder is made. he-hún, powdered lime. hoe-hún (C.), id. hoe-hún (C. hoa-hún), flowers and face-powder.

phòng-hún, face-powder in round balls. tsú-hún, do. in cylindrical form. chiáu-á-hún, do. in small balls. koē-nng-hún, do. like eggs. ū-hún-thâu, nice-looking, as woman well adorned. hó-hún-thâu, nice-looking and finely adorned, as woman; sometimes with bad idea. chhêng-hún, to scent face-powder with flowers. so-hún, to rub powder on the face or skin. boah-hún, do. with much care. phah-hún, do. rather thick. koat-hún, do. still thicker.

kòng-hún, fine powdered loaf-sugar. iòh-hún, powdered medicine. sù-sín-hún, a medicinal powder of four drugs mixed (v. sín). kheng-hún, a very powerful drug (v. kheng, light). thih-hún, iron rust or very small filings (medicinal). iên-hún, white lead.

hún-chiū<sup>n</sup>, starch. hún-ké, a white jelly in diamond-shaped pieces, made from small green peas.

mī<sup>n</sup>-hún, wheat flour (v. mī<sup>n</sup>). béh-hún, meal. chhòe-hún, rice-flour. ko-á-hún, rice-flour for making cakes called "ko-á."

bí-hún, rice-flour vermicelli. bí-hún-tiâu, id. bí-hún-koa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. dry. liâng-hún, vermicelli in a cool syrup. soa<sup>n</sup>-tang-hún, fine vermicelli from Shantung.

hái-hún, a green sea-weed dried for food, like vermicelli.

ngâu<sup>n</sup>-hún, flour from water-lily roots; said also of arrow-root. han-tsú-hún, potatoe-flour from the sweet potatoe. keh-hún, a powder like arrow-root, from the root of the "keh" plant. koah-hún, do. from root of the "koah" plant. pek-háp-hún, flour (like it) from root of "pek-háp-hoe," said to be good for coughs.

tang-hoa-hún, a plant (tapioca?) with large palmate leaves (are some of the above identical?).

hún [R. ardour, zeal]. hoat-hún (R.), to be very zealous at a work.

hún [R. to make an exertion]. hún-chi (R.), to act with energy and earnestness; to exert one's self much. jiét-sim hún-chi, id. hún-ióng (R.), to make a tremendous effort.

hún [R. to teach; to instruct]. kàu-hún, instruction. bô-kàu-hún, ill-behaved and rude. put-siū kàu-hún, incorrigible and refractory, as boy or lad.

hún (R. hoàn), to stretch on a last; to make a hole larger by driving in wedges. ôe-hún, a shoemaker's last. hún-thâu, id. hún-ôe, to stretch shoes on a last.

hún-pit--khi, to split by wedging too tight, as wood. hún-khah-chhut, to take in a little more than the original limits, e.g. a little more ground than is in the deed, perhaps enough to set the walls on. hún--chhut-lái, do.; also, to enlarge gradually, as a growing village.

hún — hún-lâng, to gather matter (pus); to suppurate.

hún — si<sup>n</sup>-hún, unacquainted or strange, as a man; shy, as child. se<sup>n</sup>-hún (C.), id. si<sup>n</sup>-hún-lâng, a stranger.

hún [R. hún = hún, undistinguishable]. hún-chiá<sup>n</sup>, just alike; undistinguishable, as a mend, or as a counterfeit or imitation. hún-hoà, id.

hún-hún, not readily distinguished. bôe-hún-tit, cannot pass off the bad as good. hún bôe-tit-kè, id.

hún [R. confusion; to confound; chaos]. hún-tūn, chaos. hún-loân, confusedly mixed; all in disorder. hún-tsáp, mixed, as persons (v. tsáp). sa<sup>n</sup>-hún, confusedly mixed, as good and bad, or as things belonging to different persons.

hê-hún, confused, indistinct, and somewhat untrue, as language; having some inferior articles mixed; mended or corrected, but not agreeing with the old.

hún-chiàng, confused, as the management of an affair; falsified, as a document (v. chiàng). [the previous word?]

hún — hún-khi, to faint or swoon away. lâng hún-hún, in a state of giddiness and almost fainting.

hún [R. id. by change of tone from "hun," to divide], a part; a portion. chit-hún, one part, one tenth. bân-hún ê chit-hún, ten thousand to one. tsáp-hún thiu-chit-hún, take off ten per cent. chhit-poeh-hún m-si, seven to three, or eight to two, it is not so. si-hún-chit, a quarter. tiu<sup>n</sup>-hún, to divide into equal parts and lay them out. pun-hún, to divide into shares, as men who have bought a lot of goods in common, or as underlings in a yamun, dividing their gains at the end of the year. sa<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, pun toā-hún, to take the lion's share.

kè-hún, to take more than belongs to us; to take too much upon us, e.g. scolding people who have no connection with us. kè-hún--lâng, to treat people unjustly or in an overbearing way; to meddle officiously with what does not concern us. bô-jin-hún, does not keep his place, as an uppish inferior.

hún-goā-kùi, exorbitantly dear. hún-goā ê-sū, matters that do not concern us, that do not belong to us.

pún-hún, duty; one's proper business. sioh pún-hún, to attend to one's duty, to keep one's place (v. sioh). siú pún-hún, id. siú-hún, id. an-hún

粉

憤
奮
訓
援

奮

渾

混

分份

忽

笏
颺
核

佛

siú-kí, to do one's duty and keep from meddling in improper things. siú-kí an-hūn, id.

iên-hūn, marriage viewed as fated (v. iên). hok-hūn, fated portion of good fortune.

êng-hūn, portion which a man should have at division of property. chiap-pâng-hūn, to succeed and keep up the succession, as adopted son. hūn-giáh, allotted portion, as of property or money; allotted duty.

chit-hūn, office, station, or rank, as of an official. bêng-hūn, station, rank; duties of station. tsūn-hūn, employment as boatman or sailor (engaged). thó-hūn, to ask for a situation, employment, or work. sin-hūn, rank, wealth, or position in life; size of body (v. sin). seng-khu-hūn, size of body.

séng-hūn, a province. hú-hūn, a department; a Foo. koái-hūn, a district; a lieu. phè-hūn, a ward or district of a town (v. phè).

hūn (R. id.), (C. hūn; Cn. hūn), to hate. oàn-hūn, to hate, to repine at or envy. oàn-hūn miá-phái, to repine at one's lot. hūn-miá-phái, id. hūn-lái hūn-khì, hūn-miá-phái, id. hūn-sim, heart full of hatred. hūn-lâng jip-kut, to hate violently or exceedingly. khó-hūn, odious; hateful; detestable. âm-hūn, to hate secretly, especially when one dares not show it.

hūn-khì, hatred; rage. tháu chit-tiám hūn-khì, to relieve one's anger, either in words or by getting vengeance or punishment inflicted. tháu chit-pak hūn-khì, do. by getting the offender punished. moá-pak hūn-khì, bô-tè thang-tháu, full of rage, but without means to vent or gratify it.

iám-hūn, to be disgusted at; to abhor; esp. one's own bad conduct. thòng-hūn, to hate exceedingly (v. thòng). thòng-hūn, id. tiòng-hūn (R.), id. to be deeply grieved for our own fault.

khioh-hūn, to harbour or cherish enmity and watch for an opportunity of revenge; to keep up a grudge. khioh-hūn bái-oàn, id. hoái-hūn, to harbour enmity. hām-hūn, id. phāu-hūn (R.), id.

hūt [R. confused]. hóng-hūt, absent in mind; quite inattentive to, or forgetful of what is said or done; almost out of one's mind (s. similar). hóng-hóng hūt-hūt, mind confused, frightened, or unsettled; mind changing frequently at very short intervals. sim-sin hóng-hūt, absent in mind; quite inattentive to what is going on; confused and almost out of one's mind, as from excessive grief or illness. cheng-sin hóng-hūt, id. thia-liáu hóng-hūt, quite inattentive to, and forgetful of what is said. khoa-liáu hóng-hūt, had only an indistinct glance of it.

hūt [R. similar]. hóng-hūt, similar; very difficult to distinguish; indistinctly known or remembered, as from looking hastily, or from lapse of time, or forgetfulness (see the previous word; some of the phrases perhaps interchanged).

i (R. id.), (C. ui, when a verb), to heal; to try to heal; to cure. i-ti, id. hêng-i, to practise healing. i-pī, id. pau-i, to treat a case to be paid only if successful. i-hó, to cure. i-bōe-hó, not cured; incurable. bō-i, cure not attempted; incurable. i-sí, to kill instead of curing. oáh-lâng i-kàu-sí, to hūt [R. a very small fraction; sudden; to slight], a very small weight, one-tenth of a "hò," one-thousandth of a "hun." hun-li hô-hūt, the very minutest quantities (v. hô).

hūt-jiên, suddenly. hūt-jiên-kan, do. in a moment.

hūt-liók, to slight, to treat with disrespect, to do a thing without much attention (v. liók). sê-hūt (R.), careless.

hūt (R. id.) hūt lêng--ê i-sù, to oppose or thwart a man's wishes, as by refusing to hear or to gratify him.

hūt (R. id.) gék-hūt (R.), = col. tsàu-pán, a flat tablet like a leaf held in the hand by some idols, formerly used by ministers of state at audience.

hūt (R. id.) hong hūt-hūt-háu, wind murmuring or howling.

hūt (R. hék), the stone, as of a fruit; a lump, as in paste. hūt-hūt, having hard lumps in it, as tumour or boil. kui-hūt kui-hūt, all full of lumps, as paste ill-mixed.

hūt-thô, the walnut. thô-á-hūt, a peach-stone. ka-ná-hūt, stone of the Chinese (false) olive, much used for carving ornaments. chiù-hūt, a sort of li-chi (lái-chi) having a small stone. chiù-hūt lái-chi, id. lán-hūt, the testes.

hūt [R. Buddha, = col. pút]. séng-hūt, to become a Buddha. tsòe-hūt-sū, to have Buddhist priests doing rites for the dead. hūt-būn, the Buddhist sect, priests and nuns. jip-hūt-būn, to become a Buddhist priest or nun. ang-hūt (C.), = A. pút, idols in general.

hūt-bú, an idol with eighteen hands. tsún-thê hūt-bú, id. o-mi-tô-hūt, Amida Buddha, often said as a prayer or charm. sek-kia-hūt, Shakyamuni, the historical Buddha. sóe-hūt, an idol carried about to give good luck to shops.

hūt-thâu-gún, Carolus dollars; Spanish dollars. hūt-siú-kam, the fingered citron.

sim kien, chek-si hūt, a man of firm purpose is just as powerful as a Buddha. iók-kiú thien-siông hok, su-tiám hūt-chiên teng, if you wish to ask good fortune from Heaven, light lamps before Buddha.

hwa, hwá, hwà, hwā; better hoa, hoá, hoà, hoã, q.v.

hwa<sup>n</sup>, hwá<sup>n</sup>, hwá<sup>n</sup>, hwà<sup>n</sup>, hwā<sup>n</sup>; better hoa<sup>n</sup>, hoá<sup>n</sup>, hoá<sup>n</sup>, hoà<sup>n</sup>, hoã<sup>n</sup>, q.v.

hwah, hwáh; better hoah, hoáh, q.v.

hwai, hwái, hwāi, hwāi<sup>n</sup>, hwai<sup>n</sup>; better hoai, hoái, hoái, hoái<sup>n</sup>, hoai<sup>n</sup>, q.v.

hwan, hwân, hwán, hwàn, hwân, hwang, hwáng, hwàng; better hoan, hoân, hoán, hoàn, hoân, hoang, hoáng, hoàng, q.v.

hwat, hwát; better, hoat, hoát, q.v.

I.

doctor a healthy man to death, as a quack. sòe-lih, i kàu toá-lih, to make bad worse.

i-seng, a doctor, a physician or surgeon. tiáp-tá<sup>n</sup> i-seng, a surgeon for falls and wounds. ká-mē<sup>n</sup> i-seng, a quack. iông-i (R.), an incompetent doctor. sín-i, a very skilful doctor. sí-i, a doctor in good

恨

物

佛

醫

practice. bêng-i, a celebrated physician. jû-i, a learned physician. sê-i, a doctor whose ancestors were doctors. thài-i, imperial physician. i-seng koài, the doctor is skilful.

i-koán (f.), a hospital. i-seng-koán, id. óh i-tô, to learn the rules of medicine. san i bêng, pok siông, arts of medicine and divination (v. siông). úi jin-tsu, put-khó put-ti i, every one should know something of medicine.

衣

í (R. id.), (cf. in, ui), dress; clothes. i-hók, id. i-chiú, id. hō-i, a soldier's jacket. hō-i-koá, id. soat-i, a sort of warm dress. âng-soat-i, a sort of red dress (or with red border) worn by mandarins on expeditions, and at executions. poán-chiét-i, a dress of which the upper and lower parts are of different stuffs. piên-i, common dress; every-day dress. sê-i, a plain dress; not full dress. siù-i, embroidered dress. hoe-i, flowered dress worn by women, children, and mandarins. tiâu-i, court dress. bân-jîn-i, a robe with the names of the people who subscribe on it, given to a retiring mandarin when much liked. i-koan khim-siù, dressed like a gentleman but acting like a brute (said of graduates or mandarins acting wickedly), (v. koan, "a cap").

siù-i, grave-clothes made before death, supposed to lengthen life. koan-kok i-khim, coffin and grave-clothes. keng-i-sé, a room for visitors changing clothes when they come to worship the dead. keng-i-tsoá, paper pictures of clothes, burned for the use of the spirits of the dead. tsu-i-kong, an idol attendant on Bún-chhiong (v. tsu, "red").

i-sit, clothes and food (v. sit). i-siu, a trunk or box for clothes. i-kè, a low clothes-stand.

伊

í (R. id.), he; she; they; him; them; rarely it; (often enclitic, when not emphatic). i-ê, his; her; hers; their; theirs; rarely its. phùi i-ê-noá, to spit contemptuously while speaking against him. bô-hoat-i, cannot manage it at all (v. hoat). kap--i phêng soe-ông, to make a venture with the goods. m-koán--i, no matter; don't mind.

i-lê, the province of Ili, in Turkestan.

依

í [R. to rely upon; according to]. i-kiú, as formerly; as before. i-o, to assent to or follow another without examination (v. o.)

i-oá, to rely upon, to depend upon (v. oá). lông-pôe siông-i, two persons helping each other in what each is deficient in.

咍

í [R. a sound such as "i"]. i-i o-o, sound of several men exerting their strength together, or of children playing together. i-i a-a, sound, as of playing a flute.

í (C.), = A. u (R.), in; at.

姨

í (R. id.), maternal aunt; mother's sister; polite affix to woman's name. goán-i, my maternal aunt; our maternal aunt. án-i, aunt! i-bú, maternal aunt. bú-i, id. (s. tea).

toá-i, wife's elder sister. sió-i, wife's younger sister. i-á, id. i-ah, said in addressing one's elder brother's wife. i-pô, grandmother's sister. i-bú-pô, id.

i-tiú, husband of maternal aunt, or of mother's cousin. i-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-tí chí-bē, sons and daughters of maternal aunts. ke-i kú-kim, all aunts and other relatives and connections of wife, mother, or grandmothers (v. ke).

姪妃

sôe-i, concubine or wife of secondary rank. i-niú<sup>n</sup>, secondary wife or concubine of a mandarin.

ang-i, a sorceress who pretends to hold intercourse with departed spirits. má-i (T.), id.

í [R. iên, to delay]. i-oán, to delay, so as to give more time (v. oán).

í [R. only], (C. úi). bân-poá<sup>n</sup>, kai hā-phín: i-íú thók-su ko, all sorts and conditions are of low rank, only the literati are high.

惟
維 移

í [R. to connect]. i-chhi, to use, stay, or manage temporarily, while waiting for something better (v. chhi).

í (R. id.), to remove; to change; to borrow. i-ék, to alter; to change; to make different. chhek-chhùn put-i, so well made that it cannot be improved. thiet-pán put-i, certainly fixed and determined.

i-chioh, to borrow (v. chioh). seng-i, to get payment in advance. i-chhoah (T.), to borrow money for a short time.

i-soá (r.), to remove; to change residence. chhien-i, to change residence, esp. of a number of persons. i-khui, to remove out of the way. i-oát, to move a thing; to change one's purpose (v. oát). i-si, to move a corpse to another man's house, so as to involve him in the responsibility. i-soa<sup>n</sup> tó-hái, to move mountains and seas. i-san tó-hái, id.

蟬
燕 夷

í (R. id.) á-i (T.), = am-pê-chê, the cicada.

í [R. constant rule of virtue]. bú-i-soa<sup>n</sup>, the Bohea hills. bú-i, Bohea tea.

í (R. id.), a barbarian (any one except a Chinaman); a savage (much worse than "hoan"). i-ték, id. goá-i, outer barbarians. sù-i, all the barbarians on all sides of China.

í (C.), = A. ú, a surname.

í (C.), = A. ú, surplus. khó í-teng, = A. khó í-teng, to examine candidates for the position of soldiers.

í (R. id.), a seat; a chair; a stool; a bench. poá<sup>n</sup>-chê-i, a low seat. i-thâu, a stool. i-á, a stool or small chair. kha-táh-i, a footstool. phoán-thú-i, a large broad stool. i-liáu, a bench. pán-i, a broad bench made of one board. khim-i, a shorter broad bench with a sort of frame round it. siên-chhûng-i, a long bench with back and arms, used at temples. bé-i, a small wooden bench, used as a tressel for a tressel-bed or sawyer's bench. teng-i, a tall square-topped stool, used as a step-ladder, or as a support for scaffolding. ké-i, a drum-shaped stoneware seat. i-ké-á, a round or octagonal stoneware seat.

椅

kau-i, a chair. tek-i, a bamboo chair. tín-i, a rattan-bottomed chair. tít-pòe-i, a square straight-backed chair. oan-pòe-i, a chair with a round back. pùn-táu-i, a square arm-chair. poá<sup>n</sup>-the-i, a sort of easy chair. phi-i, a chair that draws out for reclining on. tsui-ong-i, a sort of lounging chair (lit. for drunk man!). hák-sù-i, a large easy arm-chair. thài-kám-i, a small arm-chair with a low back. phê-i, a folding chair with leather seat. tsáh-i, id.

i-kiô, a chair closed in front for small children; gen. with wheels (v. kiô).

i-bîn, the seat of a chair or stool. i-koai<sup>n</sup>, the rounds of a chair. i-kha, leg of a chair. i-pê, back of chair. i-pòe (esp. C.), id. i-the, id. i-tsū, a cloth or skin spread on the back and seat of a chair (v. tsū). i-tiām, a chair-cushion, usually of leather. i-jiók, a cloth chair-cushion, usually partly on the back, and part hanging down in front. i-phi, cloth cover for back of chair.

i-toh, chairs and tables; furniture. giá-i, to carry a chair. giá-i-kê, to carry a chair over the head (head inside) like a cangue.

以

í [R. to cause, to use, by means of]. khó-í, it will do. í-tì-kàu, having the (unwished-for) effect that —. sé-í, therefore, so that —. sé-í--chiá (r.), on account of that circumstance. sé-í-jiên, reason why; cause of a matter; rationale of an event. i-ê sé-í-jiên, its reason, or cause, or rationale.

í-kip, also; together with; and also in addition. í-chiū<sup>n</sup>, above that limit (this and the following phrases after the limit). sa<sup>n</sup>-hè í-chiū<sup>n</sup>, from two years old and upward. í-siōng, above that limit. í-hā, below that limit. í-ē, id. í-chiên, before it. í-chêng, id. í-áu, from that time onwards. í-hē, id. í-lâi, from that time till now, only of time already past.

í [R. to finish]. í-keng, already. put-tek-í, could not help it; had no resource.

í [R. to lean upon, = col. óá]. í-tiōng, to commit the whole management of a matter to, as to a man in whom we have full confidence.

í (C.), = A. ú, rain.

í (C.) = A. ú, with; to give.

í (C.), = A. ú, the emperor Yu.

í (R. id.), purpose; meaning; intention. í-sù, id. (v. sù). bô-í, without desire or purpose; aimless (person). bô-í-tì, having no heart about it (v. tí). í-khì, purpose as manifested in one's manner. í-khì siōng-tâu, agreeing in opinion. í-sin, appearance or manner, as of acting or speaking, as showing one's purpose (not so strongly shown as "í-khì"), (v. sin). sin-ì (r.), id. chêng-í, disposition (v. chêng). sim-í, bent of mind or purpose. sa<sup>n</sup>-sim nng-í, vacillating. í-goân, settled will or desire. í-ài, to wish much; to desire. goá--ê í-tiōng, in my purpose. í-goá, beyond expectation.

í-gi, meaning; signification. í-bī (r.), deep meaning, as of a book or sentence. tāi-í, general meaning or purpose; speaking generally.

chí-í, imperial will; sovereign decree. tsú-í, determination; purpose; to determine (v. tsú, "lord"). tsù-í, with fixed purpose; fixed on one subject; attentive. tì-í, intent on something. lip-í, to determine; with fixed purpose. koat-í, decided in purpose; determined (mind). kè-í, purposely. tiâu-kè-í, id. tiâu-í-kè, id. chhiet-í, with very earnest purpose. sim-kien í-chhiet, id. khún-í, pressing earnestly (as asking a guest to stay when he is leaving). tsún-í, cherishing a purpose. chhún-í, id. tsō-í, id.; planning to gratify a secret desire. siá-í, idle and neglectful (v. siá). koà-í, anxious. khoà-í, id.

khòai-í, pleased; happy. khiap-í, manifestation of unfriendly feeling. biâu-í, kind and friendly manner or temper. ké-í, good, kindly, and gentle (like the ancients!). chiú-í, manner of one who has been drinking a little. tsui-í, manner of a drunk man.

thi<sup>n</sup>-í, Heaven's purpose or decree (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). tsòe hē-í, appearance as if about to rain. ū-thiap-í, said of characters written in the style of copy-lines.

khiock-í, to reject a man's kindness (v. khiock, "to refuse"). khiock-í, to bend one's will (v. khiock, to bend). jím-í, to follow one's own desires, gen. stubborn or bad. súi-í, to follow one's own desires (v. súi). sui-í, matters falling out just as we would desire. chiok-í, desires satisfied. sim-moá<sup>n</sup> í-chiock, all our wishes gratified. moá<sup>n</sup>-chiok sim-í, id. jū-í, everything as we would wish (v. jū). tek-í, to obtain one's wishes; much pleased. teng-í, just suiting one's wish; just to one's taste. háp-í, in accordance with one's wish. háh-í, id. kè-í, pleased with a thing or event. kòe-í (C.), id. seng-í, interesting; amusing; pleasing; taking the fancy.

已倚

意

í (R. id.) í-jín, grain from a plant (Coix?) very like pearl-barley; said for "pearl-barley."

í — í-chì, soiled; dirty.

í (C.), (R. ù), to soil; to dirty; to infect by coming in contact. sio-í, id. chhàu-kam sio-í, a rotten orange infects the rest (one black sheep infects the flock).

í (R. ùi). múi<sup>n</sup>-sin hē-í (C.), = A. múg-siu hē-ù, words or figures on doors (v. ùi).

í (C.), = A. è. hē-í, descendants.

í (C.), = A. è, a white film in the eye.

í [R. easy, by change of tone from "ék," to change]. iōng-í (better, iōng-í<sup>n</sup>), mediocre; easy. pêng-í, cheap; (some other phrases better "í<sup>n</sup>" q. v.) bêng-í, a sort of oil that is mixed with varnish to make it dry fast.

í [R. í<sup>n</sup>, different; strange], in most phrases, better "í<sup>n</sup>" (q. v.) tōng-pau í-hū, having the same mother, but different fathers. tōng-bé í-hū, id.

í<sup>n</sup> (R. cheng), (C. é<sup>n</sup>). chhân-í<sup>n</sup>, the dragon-fly. chhân-í<sup>n</sup>-bák (T.), eyes glazed and staring, as of a dying man.

í<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, a hero; British], colloquial form (C. é<sup>n</sup>) of "eng," as a man's name; also (Cn.), = A. ia<sup>n</sup>, name of a flower, a sort of rose.

sù-í<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. sù-eng, white jessamine.

í<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, a sound]. í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of a child crying. é<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>, sound used in lulling a child to sleep. é<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-khùn, id.

í<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, an infant]. í<sup>n</sup>-á (Cn. An.), = A. é<sup>n</sup>-á, an infant (only said in some places). goán í<sup>n</sup>-ká (An.), my little boy. a-í<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), said by father to boy, "my boy."

í<sup>n</sup> [R. êng, entangled]. í<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup>, entangled or involved and troublesome, as an affair; very troublesome to deal with, as a man.

í<sup>n</sup> (R. êng), (C. é<sup>n</sup>), a beam; a rafter. í<sup>n</sup>-á, id., especially a small one. toā-ki-í<sup>n</sup>, a large beam or rafter. í<sup>n</sup>-bé, the smaller end of a beam. í<sup>n</sup>-phè, bits of stone or brick laid on the wall to support the ends of the beams and keep the wall from cracking. í<sup>n</sup>-phák, pieces of wood nailed on a sloping beam to keep the rafters from sliding down. í<sup>n</sup>-tú, a wooden pillar supporting a beam or rafter. khoà-í<sup>n</sup>, to lay the beams or rafters in their places. í<sup>n</sup>-kak, rafters and lath for nailing the tiles on.

í<sup>n</sup> (R. ên). hiu<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>, the large round citron.

í<sup>n</sup> (R. oân), round; circular or globular. géh í<sup>n</sup>, the moon full. í<sup>n</sup>-lin-lin, globular. í<sup>n</sup>-lin-lin, id. í<sup>n</sup>-long-long, circling round, like a wall or line. í<sup>n</sup>-kùn-kùn, round, as a plump and fat limb, or as round leg of table (v. kùn). í<sup>n</sup>-oan-oan, circular or semi-circular. í<sup>n</sup>-ké í<sup>n</sup>-ké, round, as a rope, or pencil, or fleshy limb; said also of a round face. ké-á-í<sup>n</sup>, id., of the face. í<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup>, quite round and plump, as a very fat man; quite full and round, as a good grain of rice. í<sup>n</sup>-lauh<sup>n</sup> í<sup>n</sup>-lauh<sup>n</sup>, fat and plump, as the face.

í<sup>n</sup>-khē, a circle; a hoop. í<sup>n</sup>-khoân, a circle; a ring. í<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>-toh, a folding-table. í<sup>n</sup>-sí, sycee silver.

í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-túg, to turn round and round; to turn quite round. í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-séh, to go quite round, as in a circle. í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-gô, to revolve on the axis. í<sup>n</sup>-í<sup>n</sup>-kô, to roll along; rolling over and over, as a ball.

意

易 異

蜻 英

嬰
嬰

紫
楹

椽
圓

埃耶役

爺

toá<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, completed (said of the consummation of a marriage or the reunion of a scattered family, as in the finale of a play, or of an unbroken family). toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, id. so-i<sup>n</sup>, to rub, or roll, or knead till it becomes round; to set right a matter that has become troublesome (s. balls). so-i<sup>n</sup> ti<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, to adjust or inflame a quarrel just as we please. m-tsay si-i<sup>n</sup>, á-si pi<sup>n</sup>, not understanding a matter. chē-i<sup>n</sup>, bō-chē-pi<sup>n</sup>, to take praise for all that goes well, but refuse to be responsible for what goes wrong.

i<sup>n</sup> (R. oán), a small ball, globule, pellet, or pill. i<sup>n</sup>-á, a small ball, as of dough. ióh-i<sup>n</sup>, a pill. bi-i<sup>n</sup>, small balls made of rice. mī-i<sup>n</sup>, do. of flour.

so-i<sup>n</sup>, to make balls or pills; to make balls for eating on 6.15 and other festivals (s. round). i<sup>n</sup>-á-thng, soup made with these balls. chiáh-i<sup>n</sup>, to eat balls of rice or dough, as at some festivals. [perhaps two words.]

i<sup>n</sup> (R. chiên, = col. chí<sup>n</sup>), a copper cash (esp. Cn.), used only after numbers, or in asking how many. kúi-ê-i<sup>n</sup>, how many cash? kúi-i<sup>n</sup>, id. chit-ê-i<sup>n</sup>, one cash. chit-i<sup>n</sup>, id. bō-poà<sup>n</sup>-ê-i<sup>n</sup>, not even half a cash!

i<sup>n</sup> [R. iōng, a bud; a pattern, = col. iū<sup>n</sup>], a bud when it first appears (shorter than "gē"); a side bud or sprout of a plant. puh-i<sup>n</sup>, to sprout or bud. pauh-i<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. hoat-i<sup>n</sup>, id. thé-i<sup>n</sup>, just beginning to bud.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup> (middle of breast), endearing phrase used to young children. goá-ê sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, said by mother or nurse to small baby. thià<sup>n</sup> ná<sup>n</sup> sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, said of loving very dearly.

i<sup>n</sup> (R. ièn). i<sup>n</sup>-á, a swallow. kim-i<sup>n</sup>, a small sort of swallow with bright feathers. ɛ-i<sup>n</sup>, a dark-coloured swallow; the black skate-fish. ɛ-i<sup>n</sup>-hí, the black skate. i<sup>n</sup>-bé, the back part of a young woman's hair made sharp like the keel of a boat.

i<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, a sound, = col. i<sup>n</sup>]. i<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound as of a child crying or of a man groaning under a heavy load.

i<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>-è<sup>n</sup>, to speak indistinctly, as from an impediment; to haggle or wrangle (v. ɛ<sup>n</sup>).

i<sup>n</sup> [R. different; strange, = i]. i<sup>n</sup>-toan, false doctrine. i<sup>n</sup>-sèng, of a different surname. i<sup>n</sup>-pang (X.), Gentile nations. tai-tōng siáu-i<sup>n</sup>, mostly alike, but slightly different. tōng-hū i<sup>n</sup>-bú, by same father, but different mother. tōng-bú i<sup>n</sup>-hū, of same mother, but different father. tōng-pau i<sup>n</sup>-hū, id.

ki-i<sup>n</sup>, wonderful; strange. ki-tin i<sup>n</sup>-pó (R.), rare and precious things. koài-i<sup>n</sup> (R.), strange.

i<sup>n</sup> (better ih<sup>n</sup>). i<sup>n</sup>-áih<sup>n</sup>, discontented state of mind (v. áih<sup>n</sup>).

i<sup>n</sup> (R. ièn), temples and public buildings of several kinds. am-i<sup>n</sup>, a Buddhist monastery or nunnery. si-i<sup>n</sup>, large mountain-temples. giám-i<sup>n</sup>, id. tsu-i<sup>n</sup>, a college. kōng-i<sup>n</sup>, the examination-hall in provincial capital for the Ku-jin degree.

hān-lim-i<sup>n</sup>, the Imperial Han-lin Academy. ióng-chè-i<sup>n</sup>, sort of public poor's-house.

bú-i<sup>n</sup>, the governor of one province, sometimes called the lieutenant-governor. hák-i<sup>n</sup>, the literary examiner for the province.

i<sup>n</sup> [R. easy, by change of tone from "ék," to change, = i]. ióng-i<sup>n</sup>, easy. pēng-i<sup>n</sup>, mediocre; ordinary; easy. kè-chi<sup>n</sup> pēng-i<sup>n</sup>, cheap. kheng-i<sup>n</sup>, easy to manage, as an affair; somewhat hasty and incautious in action, either on one's own idea or at the suggestion of another. bō-hiah-kheng-i<sup>n</sup>, not so easy as you suppose, as managing a matter or inviting an influential man.

ia (R. ai). eng-ia, dust.

ia [R. a final particle]. ia-sɛ, Jesus (v. sɛ).

ia [R. ék, to serve; a servant, = col. iah]. toā-ia, an assistant in a yamun, as a secretary or head of one of the sub-offices (s. next word). mng-thau toā-ia, = mng-thau, the confidential secretary of the mandarin. khoá<sup>n</sup>-koán toā-ia, the jailor of the prison called "koán." toā-ia piah-long, form of cursing a "toā-ia" (v. long).

chiang-ia, custom-house officers (not in the office), like tide-waiters, who examine vessels, &c.

ia (R. id.), honourable title in the names of gods, sovereigns, mandarins, &c.; sometimes "father," said by sons of mandarins or rich men; also (C.), mother.

bān-sòe-ia, the emperor. chhien-sòe-ia, younger brother of emperor. ōng-ia, title of an imperial prince; also, name of a number of idols (v. ōng). kong-ia, a duke (v. kong). hē-ia, a marquis. siōng-ia, prime minister. thài-su-ia, id. su-ia, legal adviser and confidential secretary of a mandarin. tō-ia, Tautai. thài-ia, title of small mandarins (as hun-koá<sup>n</sup> or sùn-kiám), lower than "ló-ia." hú-thài-ia, the prefect of a department (not said in speaking to him). ló-ia, title used in addressing a kujin or a mandarin of medium rank (sometimes politely said to a much lower man). toā-ló-ia, your worship; your honour (said only in addressing a mandarin of medium rank, higher than "toā-ló," but lower than "tāi-jin"). koan toā-ló-ia, the god Kwanti. tsóng-ia, a military officer supposed to command a thousand soldiers. hū-ia, a small military officer (v. hū). pah-ia (Cn.), a petty officer, like drill-sergeant.

siōng-tè-ia, the god also called "hièn-thien siōng-tè." tè-ia (T.), the god Kwanti. hok-tek-ia, = thé-ti-kong, the god of graves and fields. hé-sin-ia, the god of fire. bé-sài-ia, images holding horses at temple gates. pēh-káu-ia (T.), a deified dog. hé-chiōng-ia, a deified tiger. hé-ia, id. tai-chiōng-ia, a hideous paper figure worshipped in the seventh month (v. chiōng, "all"). tai-sū-ia, paper image of the king of ghosts (v. sū). sēng-hōng-ia, the tutelary god of a city (v. hōng). poeh-ia káu-ia, two attendant images of his. goān-sòe-ia, four attendants of Má-tsé, &c. toā-thia<sup>n</sup>-ia, an idol that serves as an attendant on some great idols (v. thia<sup>n</sup>).

toā-ia-peh, eldest brother of a mandarin. jī-ia-peh, second do. ia-sia, title given to sons, grandsons, &c., of high mandarins. siáu-ia, son of a mandarin. kɛ-ia, title of mandarin's son-in-law. á-ia, title given to a mandarin by his child. án-ia, id. kū-ia, brother of mandarin's wife; also, nephew or younger brother of bride at marriage time (v. kū). piáu-ia, a cousin of different surname (somewhat polite).

in-ia (C.), his mother.

ia (R. id.), (C. An. giá), the cocoa-nut. ia-phé, cocoa-nut husk. ia-khak, cocoa-nut shell. ia-oá<sup>n</sup>, cup made of it. ia-phió, scoop or ladle made of it. ia-bah, meat of cocoa-nut. ia-chiú, cocoa-nut milk. ia-iú, cocoa-nut oil.

ia [R. to melt, bedizened, = col. iá<sup>n</sup>]. iām-ia (R.), gorgeous; splendid, as flowers, or as a finely-dressed person.

ia (R. id.), wild, violent, wicked, dishonest, greedy, ill-behaved, rude.

khòng-ia, a wilderness. hong-soa<sup>n</sup> khòng-ia, wild waste mountains. ia-siú, wild beasts. soa<sup>n</sup>-khim ia-siú, wild birds and beasts.

丸

錢

樣

肄

燕

嬰

異

異

院

易

椰

治

野

ia-bi, a bad taste; also (R.), venison; flesh of wild animals in general. ia-cheng, said of various plants of inferior quality, e.g. an inferior sort of lai-chi fruit.

chhe-chhui ia-tau, a vile scolding railing mouth. ia-gien tok-gu, vile abusive language. ia-chhiah, very rude and ill-behaved, especially of women. san-ia, very rude and uncultivated, almost like a rowdy. san-ia, id. ia-siok, rough, rude, and uncultivated. ia-han, a rough ignorant clownish fellow. khah-ia-chhat, more roguish than a thief. khah-ia hai-iu<sup>n</sup>, do. than a pirate.

ia (same as above?). the-su ia-ke, to decline for feigned reasons.

ia [R. an initial or final particle, = col. iau]. ia-be, not yet. ia-bo, no more; there is no more. ia-u, there is more yet.

ia [R. ck, or else, = col. a]. si an-ni, ia-m-si, is it so or not?

ia [R. iam, to loathe], surfeited; to loathe. chiah-liau, ia, disgusted at a bad taste; feeling nauseated and unwilling to eat it.

ia (R. i), wearied; fatigued; sickish; unwell. ia-sien, tired. ia-lai, id. ia-lan, id. ia-sin, spiritless, or slightly unwell from great exhaustion. seng-khu ia, very much exhausted; unwell. seng-khu teh-ia, id. kan-ta-ia, wearied with doing nothing; feeling ennuï. ia kau-beh-si, utterly worn out and exhausted. ia kau-beh sit-sin, so exhausted that we cannot think or listen.

lang koe-ia, very fickle or flighty; taking up things and soon letting them drop.

ia (= ioh). ai-ia, exclamation of sudden grief or surprise.

ia, to strew or scatter with the hand, as seed, sand, &c.; to throw or lay about without order. ia-soa<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to strew or scatter about. si-koe-ia, scattered about in all directions, as seed, &c. ia-khg, to strew chaff. ia-soa, to scatter sand with the hand. ia-cheng, to scatter seed; to sow seed. ia-ng, to sow rice in a wet seed-bed to raise young plants for transplanting. ia-ng chim-cheng, to soak rice and sow it thus.

un-ek-kui chhut-lai-ia, demons scattering the seeds of pestilence or epidemics.

soa<sup>n</sup>-ia, running about with no one to control him, as a spoiled child (v. soa<sup>n</sup>).

ia (cf. ia, iah), also. ia-ho, not very good; not bad; passable. ia-bo, there is no more.

ia [R. night]. tiu-ia (R.), day and night. chhâ-ia, to search about at night, as police, soldiers, or mandarins. sun-ia, id. hoan-ia, to go out at night without a lamp at forbidden hours.

ia-hap, the Magnolia fuscata. ia-hê (Cn. T.), a chamber-pot.

ia<sup>n</sup> (R. eng), a tassel; (a mane). bo-ia<sup>n</sup>, a tassel of a cap. ang-ia<sup>n</sup>-bo, mandarin's servants, and messengers, who wear a cap with a red tassel. le-loeh-ia<sup>n</sup>, a horse-tail tassel on a summer cap. be-am-ia<sup>n</sup>, tassels hanging below a horse's neck.

be-ia<sup>n</sup>, a horse's mane. sai-ia<sup>n</sup>, a lion's mane.

ia<sup>n</sup> — toa-ia<sup>n</sup>, a large instrument like a chisel used for housebreaking (s. rose).

ia<sup>n</sup> [R. iong, bright, = col. ia<sup>n</sup>]. kng ia<sup>n</sup>-ia<sup>n</sup>, = kng ia<sup>n</sup>-ia<sup>n</sup>, shining brightly, glittering.

ia<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, a hero, British, = col. i<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. i<sup>n</sup>). ia<sup>n</sup>- hoe, the rose. ia<sup>n</sup>-a-hoe, id. toa-ia<sup>n</sup>, the large white single rose (s. instrument).

ia<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, the fire-fly]. he-ia<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. hé-kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the fire-fly; the glow-worm.

ia<sup>n</sup> (R. eng), a camp; a division of an army; one-fifth part of an army.

bu-ia<sup>n</sup>, a military mandarin in general.

ge-ia<sup>n</sup>, the five divisions of an army. cheng-ia<sup>n</sup>, the van. au-ia<sup>n</sup>, the rear. tiong-ia<sup>n</sup>, the centre. iu-ia<sup>n</sup>, right wing. tsó-ia<sup>n</sup>, left wing. ia<sup>n</sup>-ngé, garrison of soldiers or marines at the station of a military mandarin. chhiong ia<sup>n</sup>-ngé, to enlist in army or navy. ia<sup>n</sup>-bé, army horses for mandarins or soldiers.

kun-ia<sup>n</sup>, camp of an army. ia<sup>n</sup>-poa<sup>n</sup>, a military station. ia<sup>n</sup>-lúí, a fortified camp. ia<sup>n</sup>-chê, an encampment. an-ia<sup>n</sup>, to encamp. an-ia<sup>n</sup> tsat-chê, id. tsat-ia<sup>n</sup>, id. tah-ia<sup>n</sup>, id. bê-ia<sup>n</sup>, to plan a secret attack on a camp.

thai-ko-ia<sup>n</sup>, a lazar-house. khít-chiah-ia<sup>n</sup>, a place where the beggars live together. pêh-tsui-ia<sup>n</sup>, the village of Pechuia (lit. market of the boat-women).

ia<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, surplus; to conquer], to win; to be victorious; to excel. khah-ia<sup>n</sup>, id. ia<sup>n</sup>-kê, to excel; to surpass. su-ia<sup>n</sup>, to lose or win (v. su). ia<sup>n</sup> chit-tin, to gain one victory.

ia<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, to win money, as in gambling or in a dispute. ia<sup>n</sup>-gün, id. ia<sup>n</sup>-kiaú, successful gambling (v. kiaú). thâi-ia<sup>n</sup>, to conquer in battle. chi<sup>n</sup>-ia<sup>n</sup>, to get the better in a dispute. pok-ia<sup>n</sup>, id.

ia<sup>n</sup> [R. eng, = col. úg], a small shadow, as of hand or of man; shadow, as of a lamp; a reflection in water or mirror, esp. of things or other persons; a reflection of bright light from water or mirror.

ia<sup>n</sup>-ia<sup>n</sup>, shadowy; indistinct, as something far away, or rapidly passing, or seen with dim eyes. e-ia<sup>n</sup>, dim, indistinct, shadowy appearance of a thing seen dimly when it is dark or nearly so.

jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, a shadow cast by the sun; sunlight reflected from water or mirror, &c. (either image of the sun or merely brightness). long-bo jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, the sun does not shine in at all, as in thick dense foliage. chit-chhün-á jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, a very short time; a very few moments. chit-hun-á ê jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, id., very short. geh-ia<sup>n</sup>, shadow from moon; moonlight on water, &c. tsui-ia<sup>n</sup>, image reflected in water; light reflected from water playing on a roof or wall. lang-ia<sup>n</sup>, a man's image, as in water; a man's shadow, as when moving, or as cast by a lamp. chio-hé-ia<sup>n</sup>, to use for one's self the light thrown by another man's lamp (v. chio). tsoa<sup>n</sup>-ia<sup>n</sup>-hi, shows of transparencies, like a dark magic-lantern.

tsai-ia<sup>n</sup>, to know how to do a thing; expert; skilful. khah-tsai-ia<sup>n</sup>, more skilful. m-tsai-ia<sup>n</sup>, inexperienced; not knowing how to do it. liáh-ia<sup>n</sup>, to pretend to know what we know nothing or very little about, and only make a guess of; to spread false stories either heard or invented. ta-ia<sup>n</sup>, to meddle in matters that do not concern us, so as to get money improperly. chhông chit-ê-ia<sup>n</sup> tia<sup>n</sup>-tia<sup>n</sup>, to make an unsubstantial, hollow appearance, that cannot last long.

u-ia<sup>n</sup>, that is true; quite true; quite correct (as report). bo-ia<sup>n</sup>, that is false; quite false and groundless. bo-ia<sup>n</sup>-chiah, id. (v. chiah). kau-si, khioh bo-ia<sup>n</sup>, when the time comes, it turns out to be false; to break one's word. khui-chhui, chhut bo-ia<sup>n</sup>, all he says is false. u-sia<sup>n</sup> bo-ia<sup>n</sup>, having sound but no shadow, as wind; report utterly false. lai, bo-sia<sup>n</sup>;

螢

贏

影

也抑厭

亦夜

纓

映英

khì, bô-iá<sup>n</sup>, coming and going stealthily and noiselessly. hong-sia<sup>n</sup> pông-iá<sup>n</sup>, false or exaggerated reports going about against people. ũ-hêng-iá<sup>n</sup>, = ũ-éng-hióng, having at least some foundation in fact. bô-hêng-iá<sup>n</sup>, utterly baseless. bô-sin-iá<sup>n</sup>, utterly false (v. sin). ũ-hún ũ-iá<sup>n</sup>, really it is so (v. hún).

iá<sup>n</sup> [R. kióng], said in Yung-chun (éng-chhun), for A. iang, to carry on the back.

iá<sup>n</sup> [R. íá, to melt, bedizened]. iám-iá<sup>n</sup>, beautiful, as shops or things (not said of persons), (v. iám).

iá<sup>n</sup> — ké-iá<sup>n</sup>, fictitious; to pretend or feign. ké-iá<sup>n</sup>-khùn, feigning to sleep.

iá<sup>n</sup> [R. iòng, cf. ía<sup>n</sup>], to sbine, as fire. kng-iá<sup>n</sup>-iá<sup>n</sup>, shining brightly; glittering.

iá<sup>n</sup> [R. ióng, to winnow or shake with wind, = chhiú<sup>n</sup>], to toss up in the wind; to clean grain by pouring it out or throwing it up in the wind. iá<sup>n</sup>-bí, to toss up rice in the wind to clean it.

iá<sup>n</sup>-hong, to be moved by the wind. iá<sup>n</sup>-tióh-hong, id. sa<sup>n</sup> teh-iá<sup>n</sup>, clothes shaken by the wind. iá<sup>n</sup>-iá<sup>n</sup>-pe, floating in the air, as dust.

iah [R. êk, to benefit]. chin-iah, to make progress in anything; to be prosperous. iah--lâng, to be advantageous to a man. phoà-chí<sup>n</sup> iah-miá<sup>n</sup>, to lose money but so get long life. iah goà-kéng, to attend to distant matters, while neglecting or injuring one's own. péh-bák-pút iah-goà-kéng, the idol Keh-sèng-óng assists other people but neglects his own relations, who are very poor.

iah [R. oat, = col. uih, ui], to scrape a hole; to scrape up or out, as with the finger or with a small trowel or stick; to rake up, as a man's old faults. iah--khí-lái, id., raising it up by slight leverage. iah bák-chiu, to scoop out an eye. iah hī-khang, to pick the ears. iah-khang, to scrape a hole, as in a wall. iah-piah, to scrape a hole in the wall of a house. ui-khang iah-piah, id. iah koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, to rifle a coffin, as for ornaments. iah-thê, to scrape a hole in the ground. iah-kê, to take up a quantity of paste with a spoon or broad stick. iah han-tsú, to take up potatoes with a trowel. han-tsú-iah, a trowel for lifting potatoes.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-iah-iah, very itchy; restlessly itching for some bad gratification.

pê-iah, to scrape up (as sand), as children do. toà--teh pê-khàng-iah, doing nothing but scratch holes in his skin (said of an idle fellow). beh tá-lóh khi-khàng-iah, where can I ever scrape it together? as a very poor man ordered to furnish a great amount of money, or as a man ordered to find a small thing that has been lost.

iah-khàng, to rake up a man's old faults, or things he would be ashamed to hear of. i iah--i, he raked up his old faults, &c. iah lêng-ê-phái<sup>n</sup>, to bring up a man's unknown or forgotten faults. iah lêng--ê kun-tóe, to rake up something bad or shameful about a man's early antecedents.

iah — bâng-iah-iah, mind in a state of great perplexity.

iah (R. êk). un-iah (C.), = A. un-ék, a pestilence; an epidemic.

iah [R. êk, some sorts of disease]. chhiah-iah, uncomfortable feeling of body, as from perspiration or dirty clothes or prickly heat; uncomfortable and unhappy state of mind, as from a loss or disappointment.

phi<sup>n</sup>-iah, nose diseased and decaying, usually venereal. si<sup>n</sup> phi<sup>n</sup>-iah, the nose decaying and falling in from venereal disease. phi<sup>n</sup> si<sup>n</sup>-iah, id. si<sup>n</sup>-iah, id. khi-iah, id. tióh-iah, id.

iah [R. iáp, a leaf; a surname, = col. hióh], the leaf of a book; to turn over the leaves. iah-chheh, to turn over the leaves of a book. iah-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id., either looking at the contents or searching for insects, &c. iah--kè-lái, to turn over the leaves forwards. iah-kè-lái, to turn over the leaves backwards.

bé-iah, the last leaf (s. butterfly). chheh-iah-kim, very thin plates of gold, almost like paper. siàu-iah, to count the leaves of a book. thiàu-iah, to pass over a leaf.

iah [R. êk, to change; to trade], a surname. iah-keng, the Yih-king, or book of changes.

iah [same word?]. ka-iah, to take well in the market; a good sale. ka-iah li-chhi, a good sale. ka-iah, bôe-bô-chí<sup>n</sup>, wares much in demand are all sold on credit (said of doing a service to a friend and getting nothing for it).

iah — iú-iah, having the look of prosperity, as person, family, or kingdom; in a prosperous state; looking sleek and healthy.

iah [R. êk, also; even, = col. iá], also; nevertheless. iah-hó, yet it will do; not bad; just tolerable; name often given to female children. chióh-sai, iah-kia<sup>n</sup> lêng-kò, even a stone lion is afraid of being accused before a mandarin.

iah [R. êk, to serve; a messenger, = col. iá]. chhe-iah, constables or police who serve warrants, apprehend criminals, &c. soá<sup>n</sup>-iah, assistants engaged by the constables but not recognized by the mandarins. goà-iah, messengers, lictors, &c., who carry insignia before the mandarin when he goes out. gē-iah, any or all of these regularly employed underlings, lictors, messengers, constables, &c. li-iah, writers, clerks or secretaries, and these lictors, messengers, and constables (both classes).

iah [R. êk, a stage for couriers, &c.] iah-tsām, a stage for couriers, &c., where horses are kept (v. tsām). koán-iah, (?) government stations for relays of couriers.

toà-iah-bé, fated to lead a licentious life; said by fortune-tellers.

iah [R. êk, a sort of insect]. iah-á, a small insect (winged white ant) that burns itself at lamps in summer, it devours grain; farmers kindle large fires to attract and destroy them.

iah [R. tiáp, a butterfly]. bé-iah, a butterfly or moth (s. page). bóe-iah (C. id.) bé-iah-hoe, = soa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>-lân, a wild flower like a butterfly. bé-iah-ien, down of butterflies' or moths' wings, supposed to be poisonous. bé-iah-siú<sup>n</sup>, do. when it dirties one's hands. e-bé-iah, name of a passage-boat carrying a black butterfly as its flag. péh-bé-iah, passage-boat with white butterfly (&c.)

niú<sup>n</sup>-á-iah, the moth of the silk-worm. tsúi-iah, the large butterfly or miller that hovers near water. toà-tsúi-iah, id.

bông-chéng-iah, thó bô-chiáh, the insects that come out after the term called "bông-chéng" come too late to get food.

iak (C.), = A. iok, to promise; an agreement.

iak (C.), = A. iók, to leap. thiàu-iak, lively and cheerful, as a healthy child.

iam [R. id., = iám, satiated]. bû-iam, inordinately covetous; never having enough. sim bû-iam, id. chin bû-iam, id.

治
映
颯

益

挖

疫
癘葉
頁
易

易

亦

役

馬
驛
馬 日

蛴

蝶

陰 iam [R. im, female; the Yin; chilly]. ka-iam, chilled and shivering with cold. ka-iam-koā<sup>n</sup>, id. poā<sup>n</sup>-iam-iū<sup>n</sup>, a hermaphrodite; an imperfectly developed male.

閻 iam (R. id.), to castrate. iam-ti, to castrate a pig; a castrated pig; a man whose occupation is to do it. iam-gū, a cut bull. gū-iam (C.), id. iam-iū<sup>n</sup>, a wether. iam-koe, a capon (v. koe).

欵 iam [R. hiam, a shovel]. hé-iam, a shovel. iam-chi<sup>n</sup>, to take out a quantity of cash from one's pocket in the hand. iam-gūn, do. with silver. iam té-koā<sup>n</sup>, to put one's hand into the pouch (sporrán), and take out loose money. iam té-tē, id.

iam — thâu-bé iam--teh, anchored stem and stern.

iam [R. iám, to cover]. ti-koā<sup>n</sup>-iám, the piece of fat beside a pig's liver.

iam (cf. iú<sup>n</sup>). chhùi-iam-iam, broken to shivers; broken into very small pieces.

鹽 iam (R. id.), salt. iam-si<sup>n</sup>, white deposit on walls or clothes (v. si<sup>n</sup>). iam-siau, salt kept till it is bad; a white incrustation on walls and floors (v. siau). iam-lē, moisture from salt in wet weather. lē-iam, slightly salted. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iam, salt prepared specially for medicinal purposes. iam-sng-chháu, a sort of oxalis.

iam-khu, salt pans. iam-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. iam-tiū<sup>n</sup>, id. iam-tiū<sup>n</sup>-koā<sup>n</sup>, a small mandarin who has charge of salt pans. iam-tō, the salt commissioner of a province. iam-hoat-tō, id. iam-toā-sài, deputy salt commissioner appointed by him. iam-sūn-noā<sup>n</sup>, men employed like excisemen to prevent salt smuggling. iam-sàu, id. iam-koán, a government salt store; the small official who has charge of it. pák iam-koán, to farm the salt trade of a (Hien) district. iam-tsun, a boat or junk carrying salt. iam-ūn, a large sea-going salt junk. iam-siong, a salt contractor who farms the salt revenue from government. phài-iam-siong, to assign the salt to them, bound to take so much annually. liáh iam-siong, id. tng iam-siong, to farm the salt revenue. phòe-iam, to compel the people to buy so much salt each year from a particular salt store. phòe iam-koán, id. liáh-iam, to seize smuggled salt. liáh su-iam, id. su-iam, smuggled salt. koā<sup>n</sup>-iam, salt legally made and sold under the government monopoly.

phah-iam, to manufacture salt. phák-iam, to make salt by evaporation. phoah-iam, to scoop up salt-water into the salt-pans. hē-iam, to load a vessel with salt; to put salt on meat, &c. lòh-iam, to put salt into anything. soah-iam, to sprinkle salt. tiám-iam, to pickle with much salt.

iam-bí, salt and rice mixed, used to counteract inauspicious influences met by chance. siak-iam-bí, to throw salt and rice with force. iā-iam-bí, to scatter it about.

iam (R. id.), a hard wood, used for helms, from Formosa. iam-tê (?), a sort of tree. pē-iam, a shrub with large pinnate leaves, and large loose panicle of white flowers.

iam [R. to cover up, to conceal, = col. iap]. jia-iam, to screen; to shelter; to hide (lit. or fig.) iam-bát, to cover up; to conceal. iam-hong, sheltered from the wind. ū-iam, to have shelter, as an anchorage.

iam-sek, to conceal under a false exterior, as a bad action (v. sek, "to adorn"). iam-jin ní<sup>n</sup>-bók, to delude people by plausible pretences while acting very wickedly. iam-kí sit-ké (flags hid and drums silent), said of a secret attack or underhand doings. iam-sin-hoat, a sort of legerdemain for making one's self invisible.

iam-chhàu, to cover up a bad-smelling thing, esp. to bury a body without the usual ceremonies. iam-thé, to cover up with earth. iam-soā<sup>n</sup>, to dip the state umbrella, as when mandarins or idols pass one another.

iam-mŭg, a trap-door; to close a door without quite shutting it; to lay a door to. poā<sup>n</sup>-iam-mŭg--ê, a married woman who privately receives men, as a bad house. iam chit-si<sup>n</sup>, to close one-half of a folding-door. thang-á-iam, an outer shutter for a window made of one piece, hanging by hinges above, and supported by a prop when opened.

iam-á, a small bit of cloth sewed on any article of dress, to strengthen it at that point, e.g. where a button is sewed on, and the cloth is too weak. iam-té (C. Cn.), = té-koā<sup>n</sup>, a broad pouch or sporran worn on the belly.

iam [R. hurtful demons causing nightmare, &c.] chê-iam, to expel hurtful demons.

iam [R. ap, to restrain]. iam-khì, able to ward off the hurtful influence of demons, as some charms, e.g. a stamp of a high mandarin's seal, esp. of the provincial criminal judge; or as a teacher's red brush hung up in a bedroom (s. loathe).

iam [R. to loathe]. iam-ê<sup>n</sup>, to hate or dislike with much disgust, as a bad man. iam-hūn, to hate and abhor; to be discontented at one's own fate; to feel disgusted, as at one's own conduct. iam-chiēn, to loathe; to reject with disgust and contempt. iam-khì, to loathe (s. previous word). chiáh kàu iam-khì, to eat to surfeit and loathing.

iam (R. id.), a flame; to blaze. hé-iam, a flame. jít iam, the sun scorching. iam-thi<sup>n</sup>, scorching weather. iam-thi<sup>n</sup> chhiah-jít-thâu, id. iam-joáh, very sultry weather. thi<sup>n</sup>-khì iam-jiét, id. ná<sup>n</sup>-tòh ná<sup>n</sup>-iam, blazing more and more fiercely. iam-phông-phông, pha-pha-tòh, blazing fiercely. hé-chih iam-phông-phông, id. kng-iam (r.), brilliant, as flame.

sè-iam, influence and prestige great, as through intimacy with powerful or influential people.

iam [R. beautiful, luxuriant, = col. am]. iam-sek (R.), splendidly beautiful, as colour, or woman decked out; gaudy. hoe-khui iam-iam, flowers very beautiful. iam-ia (R.), dazzlingly beautiful, as flowers, or as woman too gaudy. iam-ia<sup>n</sup>, gorgeous, as shops or things, not said of persons. hè-sek iam-ia<sup>n</sup>, goods in the shop very fine-looking.

kim iam-iam, brilliant, like gold.

iam [R. iám, to cover]. lê-iam, the bit of hard wood spliced on a sculling oar, where it works on the pin (v. lé).

iam, ián, ían, iàn, iān; better, ien, iên, ién, ièn, iĕn (g.v.)

iang [R. iong, middle, to intrust, = col. ng], to wind, as silk or yarn; also (esp. C.), to intrust with a commission.

se-iang, a wooden frame on which yarn is wound to be ready for weaving. se-iang (C.), id.; also, = noā<sup>n</sup>-sim, a sort of tree. iang-se, to wind yarn on the frame. iang-si, to wind silk thus.

iang-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to engage a man to go a message (this group is specially C.) iang-lâng-khì, id. lí hē-

魘

壓

厭

熾火

艷

掩

央

檻

揜

goá iang--teh, I cause you too much trouble by this.

iang (C.), = A. iong, calamity.

iàng [R. iông, a sheep or goat, = col. iù<sup>n</sup>]. biên-iàng, a sheep-skin with the wool on; a sheep. san-iàng, a goat-skin with the wool on. jú-iàng, a sort of fur with very fine curly wool. iàng (C.), also = A. iông.

iàng [R. iông, male, the Yang, = col. iù<sup>n</sup>]. hông-iàng, the city of Fung-yang. hông-iàng-pô, female jugglers, pedlars, or beggars from it. iàng (C.), = A. iông.

iàng (C.), = A. iông, to spread, as fame.

iàng (C.), = A. iông, a sort of disease.

iàng [R. iông, a willow, a surname, = col. iù<sup>n</sup>]. iàng-kong-khit, = hun-kim-khit, a stick or peg with "iông-kong" written on it (all these are only C.) têng-iàng-kong, to stick this peg in the ground when making a grave. chhài iàng-kong, to set such a peg in a measure full of rice, when going to build a house or temple. siá iàng-kong, to make offerings to him at the end of the rites.

iàng (C.), = A. iông, to nourish.

iàng [R. kiông], (Cn. chiā<sup>n</sup>, P. āi<sup>n</sup>, chiāng; Eng-chhun, iá<sup>n</sup>; as a verb), to carry on the back, as a person. iàng pau-hók, to go travelling with one's bundle on one's back.

phē-iàng, a cloth for carrying a child slung on the back. iàng-kun, id.

iap [R. iám, to cover, to conceal], to conceal about the person; to put behind the back, as one's hands; (to do a thing stealthily). ng-iap, to conceal behind the back or about the dress. thau-iap, to take stealthily, and put behind back or about dress. iap-siam-khi, to put a thing stealthily out of the way. iap-chí<sup>n</sup> hē-i, to give him some money without others seeing it. iap chit-pún hē-i-khoà<sup>n</sup>, secretly hand him a book.

iap-chhiú, to fold the hands behind the back. chhiú iap-áu, id. chhiú hē-lâng-pák iap-áu, to have one's hands tied behind the back, as a caught thief. iap-bé, to put the tail between the legs, as dog. ná<sup>n</sup> iap-bé-káu--nih<sup>n</sup> (like a dog with his tail so), said of a man very much afraid or ashamed.

iap-siap, retired and out of the way, as a house; clandestine; keeping out of sight, for concealment in some bad purpose, as a thief or spy; shrinking from view, as a modest person, or as man carrying such a thing as manure. khah-iap-thiap, keeping out of view, as something dirty, or of which we feel ashamed (v. thiap).

iap-sit, small additions to the side houses belonging to a large house (v. sit).

iáp [R. a leaf; a surname, = col. hiòh, iáh], the surname Yeh; the spoke of a wheel; petals of flowers. hoe-iáp, petals of flowers. pah-iáp, double, as a flower. toa<sup>n</sup>-iáp, single, as flower.

chhia-iáp, spokes of a wheel. tsúi-chhia-iáp, leaves of a water-wheel.

chheh-iáp-kim, very thin plates of gold.

iáp (same word?). sim-koa<sup>n</sup> chhui iáp-iáp, said of a man anxious about many things. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tsōe-tsōe-iáp, having a great many plans; rather too cunning and planning.

iáp (same word?). iáp-iáp-si, in great crowds; multitudes collected together.

iat, iát; better, iet, iét (γ. v.)

iau (R. hiau), hungry. iau-gō, starving. khat-

khé iau-gō, willingly bear hunger. iau-koá<sup>n</sup>, hunger and cold. iau-koá<sup>n</sup>-gō, cold and starvation. iau-loán, stomach disordered by hunger. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iau, morbid hunger of diseased stomach. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-iau, to have that morbid craving. chin-iau-hng, said in scolding a child always eating sweetmeats, &c. chiáh kōe-iau, hungry just after eating. iau-kúi, a hungry ghost; said also in scolding a fellow eating constantly or greedily. háu-iau, to cry for food, as a child. khàu-iau, id. tí-iau, to allay hunger (said in joke), (s. demons). iau-ki sit-tng, to let (one or more) meal-time pass without eating, from any cause; to be very hungry. iau--khì kè-ki, exhausted or sick from not getting food at the usual time. iau--khì siu<sup>n</sup>-kè-ki, very much so.

iau-pá, hungry or satisfied. m-chhiá<sup>n</sup> iau-pá, between hungry and full. iau chhan, pá chhan; chiáh-pá, kiò kan-lân, said of a lazy, complaining fellow. iau-lái pá-khì, he comes when hungry, and goes as soon as satisfied.

iau-koe m-ùi-chhê; iau-lâng m-kè bin-phê, a hungry fowl does not fear the stick; a starving man does not care for his reputation or honour. chhin-bê tng iau-lâng, cold rice catches a hungry man.

iau (R. id.) iau-kiau (R.), beautiful and richly adorned, as woman with bad purpose.

iau (R. id.), malignant demons or imps; magical. tiòh-iau, bewitched; to be bewitched. liáh-iau, to catch demons, as Tauists. tí-iau, to drive away demons (s. hunger).

iau-koài, spectres and demons. iau-hoat koài-sút, magical arts (v. koài). iau-sút, id. iau-chi<sup>n</sup>, a ghost or malignant imp. iau-chia<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. iau-chia<sup>n</sup> si-sóe (C.), said of a woman behaving indecently.

siáu-iau, you little imp! (said in scolding other people's children). iau-giét, most extraordinary! (said on meeting with something most unexpected and inexplicable); also, very wicked (said in scolding children). iau-tō, a crafty magic-working Taoist priest.

iâu [R. a precious gem]. iâu-tí, the dwelling-place of the genii (sien), ruled by Se-ông-bú.

iau (R. id.) iau-giên, idle talk; gossip; false reports. iau-giên húi-pòng, slanders and calumnies. iau-giên siên-hék (R.), deluding into wickedness by crafty malicious words.

iau [R. to shake; to agitate, = col. iô]. iau-tông, agitated, excited, and almost in commotion, as the people when hearing reports of rebellion, &c. tông-iau, id. iau-tông jin-sim, to disturb the minds of the people by such rumours. iau-tông bin-sim, id. siu<sup>n</sup>-iau-tông, making too great a display of one's wealth, so as to draw the notice of robbers or mandarins.

chiau-iau, spreading rumours of what should not be spoken about, as of rebellion coming near, or about money or valuable goods in a house, so as to incite to robbery. chiau-iau ní<sup>n</sup>-bók, to seduce people's ears and eyes, as great show of wealth attracting robbers, or as highly-adorned women alluring men.

iau [R. distant]. lê-tê iau-oán, very far distant; road very long. siau-iau, to wander about at will, as for pleasure or healthy amusement. siau-iau tsū-tsāi, going about amusing one's self, with nothing to trouble the mind. siau-iau-soá<sup>n</sup>, sort of medicine for removing uneasy feeling.

iau (R. id), a surname, = iô.

iau [R. giâu, a cockle, = col. giô]. kang-iau-tsū, preserved flesh of a certain marine animal.

羊

陽

襁

掩

葉

楊

妖

天

妖

天

妖

天

妖

天

妖

天

猶 歿

iáu (cf. iá), still; yet. iáu-kú, id. iáu-ū, there still remain. iáu-bô, no more. iáu--ê, the remainder; the rest. iáu-hó, tolerable; passable; (&c.)

iáu [R. short-lived]. iáu-chiet, short-lived; dying young. iáu-siū, id. iáu-siū-á (you short-lived wretch!) said in scolding a lad who cheats or injures people). kóng-ōe iáu-siū-khoán, talking so indefinitely that nothing can be got out of him. iáu-siū-khoán, beginning troublesome things (as feuds or legal cases) and leaving them unsettled, so as to cause great injury to others, while he gets out of the way and avoids responsibility. iáu-siū-á-pē, id.; said also of making furniture in a very unsubstantial way.

kē-pîn-iáu, having no relatives, poor, and short-lived. kē-pîn-iáu sa"-jī-tsng, all these three calamities at once! kē-pîn-iáu, sa"-jī tióh-chiám-chit-jī, must have one of these three as his fate, as a payment to Heaven and to the demons for being skilful at black arts. kē-pîn-iáu sa"-jī tióh niá"-chit-jī, id.

iàu [R. important]. iàu-kin, important. bô-iàu-kin, unimportant; not counting it of importance. pàng bô-iàu-kin, to treat as of no consequence. kin-iàu (r.), important. bô-koan kin-iàu (r.), of no consequence. chhiet-iàu, urgently important. iàu-ēng, specially required; important or indispensable for the purpose; to require for a special purpose. hiám-iàu, very important, as a pass.

iàu [R. to shine; illustrious]. hién-iàu tsé-kong, to reflect glory on one's ancestors. hién-iàu bûn-bi, to become illustrious, as a mandarin, or high graduate, or very wealthy man (lit. splendid gate). iàu-bú ióng-ui, a man's bearing showing himself of importance (v. ui). chiàu-iàu, to assist and make prosperous, as by influence. hok-seng chiàu-iàu (may the auspicious star favour you), said of assistance by influence.

iàu [R. iáu, iáu], (Ch.), a large fierce bird.

iàu<sup>n</sup>, to mew, as a cat.

ièn (R. iam). ièn-chhun, a quail (v. chhun).

ièn [R. an abyss]. ièn-hái, the deep ocean. chhim-ièn, id.

ièn [R. how?]. tsū-kí put-lêng-pó, ièn-lêng pó tha-jin, can't protect himself: how can he protect others?

ièn [R. in; marriage]. ièn-chhin, connections by marriage. hun-ièn, marriage (s. smoke).

ièn [R. smoke; steam; vapour; tobacco; opium; soot; sepia], steam; clear vapour.

hé-ièn, steam. phū-phū-ièn, steam rushing out in abundance. ièn-bū, mist (v. bū).

ièn-ng, dim, as eyes (v. ng).

chiáh ngé-ièn, to use opium, arseniated tobacco, raw and prepared tobacco, and snuff. kài-chiú toán-ièn, to abstain from liquor, opium, and tobacco. hun-ièn, smoke of tobacco or opium (s. marriage).

ièn-hé, fire-works. ièn-thúí, a ham. ièn-chhiang, sausages.

chhèng-ièn, smoke of a gun. hiu<sup>n</sup>-ièn, smoke of incense (v. hui<sup>n</sup>). jín-ièn chiu-bit, smoke of men (of cooking fires) crowded; population numerous. bô-jín-ièn, utterly desolate; without an inhabitant, as a wilderness or a deserted village. ièn-tâng, a chimney. ièn-tun, mandarin beacons. ièn-thún, soot. ē-ièn, id., lampblack. ē-ièn-iú, soot mixed with oil, as black paint. ē-ièn pèh-pāng, calamities suddenly coming on (v. pèh).

bák-hî-ièn, paint from the cuttle-fish; sepia. bát-tsát-ièn, id.

ièn-hoa ê sés-tsāi, a brothel (v. hoa). ièn-hoe-chhùi, a harlot's mouth (said in scolding).

ièn (same word?). ièn-thâu, the gloss, as of new cloth. sin-ièn, having the original gloss yet on, as new cloth or other new articles.

bé-iáh-ièn, the down on the wings of butterflies, said to be poisonous.

ièn (R. id.) ièn-chi, rouge (v. chi).

ièn [R. the throat]. ièn-âu (r.), the throat; an important pass.

ièn (R. id.) ièn-chhiên, to delay. ièn-tí, id. ièn-oán, id. oe-ièn (r.), to delay; to procrastinate. oe-ièn kè-jit, to procrastinate day after day. ièn-chhiên kè-jit, id.

ièn [saliva, = col. sién]. thām-ièn, phlegm and spittle. chhèng-peh-ièn, resin naturally flowing from fir-trees (but "sióng-ka" is manufactured). lióng-ièn-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a medicine (v. lióng, a dragon).

ièn [R. a feast]. ièn-siáh, a feast; an entertainment. ièn-toh, id. chiú-ièn, a feast with liquor. chē-ièn, to sit at a feast. siet-ièn, to make a feast. pán-ièn, id. thiet-ièn, to remove the remains of a feast.

ièn (R. oán). ièn-sui, coriander.

ièn [R. along, continuous]. ièn-hái, along the sea-shore. ièn-lē, along the road. ièn-lē chiáh, to eat while walking (counted vulgar).

ièn, a layer, as of stones or bricks in building; a range, as of beams; a pile, as of books; classifier of decks (cf. ùn; see also the following word).

chit-ièn chit-ièn, row after or upon row; in successive rows or piles, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-ièn-pūn, third deck. jī-ièn-pūn, second deck. jī-ièn-á (P.), a very young pig.

ièn [R. a cause, a reason; purpose of Heaven as to marriage; a subscription; the border of a dress].

ièn-kè, a reason, a motive, a purpose. ièn-iú, id.

ū-lāng-ièn, to have the faculty of taking people's hearts; to be much liked, so as to be readily followed, approved of, or employed; cunning or captivating in manner. ū-ièn, to be liked; to be captivating; to have a heaven-decreed marriage connection. bô-ièn, marriage unhappy. thien-ièn, happy, heaven-appointed, and unplanned arrangement of marriage (sometimes said of friendship). in-ièn, a marriage, as fated to be happy. in-ièn tsù-tiā<sup>n</sup>, marriage decreed by fate. in-ièn gē-pah-ní<sup>n</sup>-chēng tsù-tiā<sup>n</sup>, marriage fated five hundred years before. ièn-hūn, marriage viewed as a fated period. ièn-hūn kàu, the fated time of marriage come. ièn-hūn moá<sup>n</sup>, marriage ended by death; said also of illicit intercourse broken off. ièn-táu, a young dandy, esp. having illicit connections (v. tau).

tōe-ièn, to make a subscription. kau-ièn, to pay the subscription. siu-ièn, to collect the subscription-money. hoà-ièn, to beg money, as Buddhist priest. hōe-ièn, id.

ièn-phō, subscription-book, as for a temple or charitable object. ièn-gūn, money subscribed (s. lead). ièn-chī<sup>n</sup>, cash subscribed (s. lead).

ièn-pán, a perpendicular board under the eaves of a house (v. pán).

ièn (R. id.), lead. pèh-ièn, zinc; spelter. ièn-hún, white lead. ièn-pit, a black-lead pencil. ièn-chí, a bullet. ièn-tūi, a leaden weight, as for a clock, or for a sinker for net or sounding-line. ièn-chí<sup>n</sup>,

烟 烟 烟
延

涎

筵

苑
沿

緣

要

耀

鷓
鴒
淵
馬 姻
烟

鉛

counterfeit leaden cash; also, small cash fastened in the dress of bride and bridegroom, and put in their water-jar, supposed to make them love each other (play on the previous word), (s. subscription). iên-gún, dollars adulterated with lead (s. subscription). iên-tâu, loaded dice (s. previous word).

koàn-iên, to pour melted lead into anything to make it heavy, as pendulum, or to adulterate, as dollars. pé-iên, to fill up with lead, as a hole made in a dollar. so iên-sái, to fill up dollars with lead by means of quicksilver.

ién [R. íong, to nourish, = col. íú<sup>n</sup>]. iên-láu-sê (prov.), to nourish one's old father (v. sê).

ién — lô-iên-sê, a group of persons (usually twelve boys) in an idolatrous procession shaking rings with metal bells attached (v. sê).

ién [R. to exercise]. chhau-iên, to drill or exercise, as soldiers. iên ke-si, to exercise or fence with weapons. iên tín-pái, to exercise with the shield. iên-bú-têng, a stand from which mandarins look at reviews.

ién [R. to lie or throw down]. sa<sup>n</sup>-ién, to wrestle together. ién-tó, to throw down; to upset, as in wrestling.

ién [R. to overflow, abundant]. iû-iên (R.), to ramble at leisure. sán-iên, spending money foolishly; lavish expense; very poor, and daring to commit any crime. ká<sup>n</sup> lām-sám-iên, spending far too much money (beyond one's means), as in food, dress, or pleasures.

ién [R. a feast]. sam-jit tòi-iên; ngé-jit siáu-iên, great and small feasts every three and five days (said of a wealthy man constantly giving entertainments).

ién [R. iàm, to loathe]. iên-khi, mean or miserly.

ién [R. a swallow, = col. í<sup>n</sup>]. iên-o, edible bird's-nests. chhài-iên, a native sea-weed, making a jelly very similar. kóng-iên, bird's-nests sent to Peking for the emperor's table. pân kóng-iên, to send such bird's-nests, as the great Hongts at Amoy have to do. koa<sup>n</sup>-iên, a very good sort. mê-iên, an inferior sort, but genuine. iên-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, pieces of raw bird's-nest shaped like a cup or Chinese spoon. iên-si, thin strips of it. iên-chhùi, small broken bits of it.

hé-thâu iên-âm, head like a tiger's and neck like a swallow's (said of a noble-looking man). giók-iên, a beautiful small bird.

ién [R. iên, a cause], to work the border of a dress more ornamentally than "kún" (esp. T.). siu<sup>n</sup>-kún-iên, to put ornamental borders of various sorts on women's dress. iên-niá<sup>n</sup> (C. T.), to work an ornamental border near the neck of a woman's dress.

ién — chhèng-iên, a port-hole in a junk. ũi chhèng-iên, to paint false port-holes.

iet [R. a scorpion, = col. giet]. tsoân-iet, salted scorpions (used as a medicine for dyspepsia).

iet [R. to be pleased], (C. óat). hù-iet, the god of builders (v. hù, a surname).

iet [R. to look over; to examine], (C. óat). iét-lék, experienced; well skilled.

iet [R. amusement; easy; self-indulgence]. phiau-iet, lively, easy, self-confident, and unconstrained in manner.

iet, to dye (said only of old silk stuffs).

iet [R. sién, a fan; to fan; to wave], to fan; to wave; to beckon with the hand, palm downwards, moving the fingers towards us; to call a person to us.

iet-si<sup>n</sup>, to fan. iét-hong, id. iét-hé, to fan a flame. iét-sit-hé, to put out a flame by fanning. iét kún-tsúi, to fan a fire for boiling water. iét-báng, to fan away mosquitoes. iét hong-ké, to work fanners. iét-hong-kúi (C.), id. in shops. iét-ki, to wave a flag.

iet-phâng, to change the sail to the other side of the vessel. iét-lin-tng, id.

iet-chhiú, to beckon with the hand, palm downwards and fingers moved towards one's self, in calling a man to come, as if drawing him towards us. iét-tí-á, a small tail on the side of a little boy's head, supposed to beckon a new brother to come. kúi teh-iet-li, the demons are beckoning you; you are going in a wicked course that will end in ruin.

hi-iet, pectoral fins of fish.

ih — ih-oat, much involved, as an affair; also (C.), winding, as a road.

ih (= ih<sup>n</sup>). ih-út, grumbling and dissatisfied.

ih — péh-ih, sort of Chinese soap.

ih (R. í), the sweet-bread or pancreas of the cow or sheep (in the pig it is called "chhioh"). gú-ih, sweet-bread of cow. iú<sup>n</sup>-ih, sweet-bread of sheep or goat.

ih (next word?). lách-ih, honey-comb after the honey is removed. phang-ih, id.

ih — chiá<sup>n</sup>-ih, united in a mass, as a quantity of grass, or as hair long uncombed. kui-tsong kui-ih, in considerable quantities, as goods.

ih<sup>n</sup> (cf. nih<sup>n</sup>). ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>-tán, to wait anxiously, as for news, or for a person. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to look for very earnestly, as for some one who has delayed very long. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>-lâu, to flow abundantly, as tears. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>-siá, to write constantly.

ih<sup>n</sup> — tâng-ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>, very heavy.

ih<sup>n</sup> — ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup> oaih<sup>n</sup>-oaih<sup>n</sup>, sound of furniture creaking.

ih<sup>n</sup> — ih<sup>n</sup>-aih<sup>n</sup>, dissatisfied state of mind or expression; grumbling manner. ih<sup>n</sup>-út, = ih-út, id.

im (R. id.), the female or negative principle in nature; the Yin; often has the idea of bad luck, or illness, or darkness, or decay. im-khi, id.; said of a place that is damp and unhealthy. khiàm-im, having too little of the Yin in one's constitution, and too much of the hot Yang principle. lôh-im, in a low, dark, damp, unhealthy, or unlucky situation. im-chèng, a sort of painful swelling, as in the thigh (v. chèng).

im-iông, the positive and negative principles; the Yin and the Yang (v. iông).

thài-im (R.), the moon. thài-im-niú<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of the moon; the moon as a goddess.

tsu-im, causing a cool feeling, and removing feverishness (v. tsu). im-léng, shady; pleasantly cool (v. léng). thi<sup>n</sup> im, sky dark and cloudy. thi<sup>n</sup> e-im, id. e-im, id. e-im-koá<sup>n</sup>, dark, cloudy, cold weather. poá<sup>n</sup>-im poá<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, clouds, rain, and sunshine mixed in succession. chhun-im (R.), the cold, dark, cloudy, rainy weather of spring. im-sim, dense, as the foliage of trees.

im-thim, crafty; designing (v. thim). im-tim, id.

im-kan, Hades. im-si, Hades; the ruler of Hades.

im-hún, the soul or spirit in the spirit-world. kui-im, to die. hù-im-thiap, a notification of a relative's death. im-tôe, a place for a grave. im-tê, id.

im-tôe put-jú sim-tôe, a good heart is better than a

養 演
偃
衍
宴 厭 燕 緣
蝸
悅
閱
逸
煽扇

胰
陰

good grave-site. hàu im-kong, to worship the ghosts of Hades, as in 7th month, and on the 2d and 16th of any month (v. kong, "brightness").

im-kong, meritorious virtue deserving Heaven's favour (v. kong, "merit"). im-chek, id. (v. chek).

im-bút (r.), the female organs. im-mûg, id.

im-jī, characters cut in; also, white characters on a black ground, printed from blocks so cut. im-poe, both of the divining sticks falling with the convex sides up (unfavourable).

kong-im (R.), time (lit. light and darkness). sioh kong-im, to be careful in the use of time. jit-goat jū-so: kong-im sū-chièn, days and months are like a shuttle; light and darkness like an arrow. it-chhùn kong-im, it-chhùn-kim, one inch of time is an inch of gold.

im, to flood; to inundate; tide or flood rising high. im-chhân, to overflow the rice-fields. im-tsúi, to flood with water. im--sí, drowned by an inundation. im-lim--sí, id. tsúi im, the tide rising. tsúi im-phóng-phóng, the water rising very high. tsúi im-âm, the flood up to the neck (said of a very great and imminent danger).

kàng-kè lâi-im--i, to sell low so as to compel him to sell low, so as to injure him, or secretly further our own ends. pàng-kè lâi im--i, id. chêng-thâu bóe, âu-thâu im, to lose much money on a large lot of goods by the price falling.

im (R. id.), sound; a sound. sia<sup>n</sup>-im, a sound, voice, or tone. im-ün, cadence; rhythm; quality of voice (v. ün). sit-im, to lose voice, as in consumption, &c. he-im, to give the sounds, as in learning to read.

im-gú, language. thé-im, vernacular or colloquial language. koa<sup>n</sup>-im, sound of a word in the mandarin dialect. chiang-im, sound of a word in the Chang-chew dialect. tsáu-im, sound different (as in another dialect), or ill-pronounced. tsoáh-im, id. tûn-im, labials. sip-ngé-im, the native dictionary of the Chang-chew dialect.

pat-im, the eight tones; also, the eight kinds of music made by eight sorts of instruments.

im-sin, news by letter, as of a relative or friend. ti-im, to know the meaning fully; to know how to act. hok-im (X.), the gospel.

koan-im, the goddess Kwan-yin, = koan-im hüt-tsé, = koan-im tái-sū, = koan-sè-im phè-sat, = (Cn.) koan-im-má.

im (R. id.), lascivious; lewd; to debauch; lewdness. im-loân, lewd; lewdness, especially the worst forms. kan-im, adultery, properly with a married woman. im-hū, an adulteress. im-hong, lascivious customs of a place. im-lók, lust; lascivious passions. hè<sup>n</sup>-im, fond of lewdness. im láng bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to dehauch other people's wives and daughters. bân-ok, im úi-siú, of all sins lewdness is the chief.

im [R. to drink]. im-sit, food and drink (v. sit). thiòng-im, drinking much liquor. khai-hoái thiòng-im, making jolly over the cups. phiâu té im, whoredom, gambling, and drinking.

im [R. shade, to protect, to cover up, to extinguish by covering]. im-úg, the shade, as of a tree. chhiū-im-úg, the shade of a tree.

im-sī<sup>n</sup>, drysalted peas, prepared by covering up close. im-hé, to extinguish a fire by covering it up. im-hoa, id. hé im-sit, id. im hé-thoà<sup>n</sup>, to extinguish charcoal by covering it up. im-kúg, a joint of bamboo used as an extinguisher for extinguishing a match. hé-im-kúg, id. hé-im-kóng, id.

hong-súi im-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to bury the bones of a pig in a jar or small coffin, to try whether the soil of a grave-site is good; if after some years the bones remain hard and brown, the soil is suitable.

ti-im, to protect; to assist by power or influence. im chhin-chhek, to protect one's relations. siū-im, to receive such protection. im-seng, the son of a high mandarin who gets office readily because of his father. im-sin (C.), id. im chit--ê miá<sup>n</sup>-jī, to give protection to a person, as sub-officials in yamuns do. im chit--ê báu-miá<sup>n</sup>, do., by putting a man's name (as a nominal employé) on the books.

hok-im, to assist or protect, as an influential friend; sometimes by money; to benefit, as ancestors by their wealth or merit in government matters. hok-im kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun, to benefit descendants, as parents or ancestors, by accumulated wealth, or by the meritorious services they have rendered to the state, &c. siū-lí hok-im, I have to thank you for your powerful assistance. bāng-lí hok-im, I hope to have the shelter of your powerful influence. png lí--ê hok-im, I take the advantage of your influential assistance.

im [R. a cause, from a cause or occasion]. in-úi, because of. in-hô, why? in-sī chē-gi, to fit our actions to the state of the case.

khí-in, the cause or original commencement of an affair. in-iū, a cause. in-toa<sup>n</sup>, id. in-toa<sup>n</sup> khí-lí, sī tsái<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, under what circumstances did this matter originate. hē-i bô-in, give him no opportunity to meddle. kap-goá bô-in, I have nothing to do with it.

im [R. a thick mat]. in-tin, wormwood; Artemisia.

im, to wind; to twine; a wisp, as of straw; a ball or tightly rolled reel, as of yarn. in-soà<sup>n</sup>, to wind thread. in kè-á-lê, to wind one's tail in a knot behind the head. in khah-ân, wind it more tightly. in-in khah-siap-tiáp, id. in-in tâu-tin, said of a long story with intricate details and no clue (lit. of peastalks). in-in tâu-tin chit-toā-thoa, id.; also said of meddling with what is not our business.

chháu-in, a wisp of straw. chit-in-chháu, id. soà<sup>n</sup>-in, a ball or reel of thread. chit-in-soà<sup>n</sup>, id. chit-in soh-á, a ball of cord. kiám-chhài ũ chit-in, (salted vegetables are tied in a bundle), said in allusion to "in," a cause, the matter has some origin.

im [R. relationship; marriage]. hun-in, a marriage. in-iên, decrees of fate about marriage (v. iên).

im, they; them; their; his. in-ê, theirs; their; his. in-tau, their house (residence); his house or place. in-chhù, id. in-pê, his father; their father.

im (C.), = A. un, grace; favour.

im (C.) in-khîn, = A. un-khûn, kind to visitors.

im (C.) in-chiú<sup>n</sup>, = i-chiú<sup>n</sup>, clothes.

im [R. chhin; related]. sa<sup>n</sup>-in-chhiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = sa<sup>n</sup>-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, alike.

im (R. id.), a cyclical and horary character. in-sí, from 3 to 5 A.M. in tsong, báu hoat, as soon as the body is buried, the auspicious influence of the grave is exerted.

im (R. iên). in-oân, = iên-oân, to delay; to procrastinate.

im (C.), = A. hûn (R.), clouds. in-lâm, = A. hûn-lâm, the province of Yun-nan.

im (R. ún), to consent; to promise. in-beh, to 淹

音

淫

飲

蔭

因

茵

姻

伊們

寅

延

允

promise that (he) will. in-lâng, to promise to some one. in-lâng-kang, to promise to do work for some one. in-hè, to promise goods to the buyer. in-iú<sup>n</sup>-hè, to promise to sell goods for exportation.

in (C.) tō-in, = A. tō-ún, a worm.

in (C.), = A. ún, secret (only in some phrases).

in (Cn.), = A. án, úg; prefix to names of relationships. in-tia, = A. án-pē, papa! in-iâ, = A. án-né<sup>n</sup>, mamma!

in (R. id.), to lead; to quote. chio-in, to invite to go with one, to good or bad. in-iú, to allure, esp. to evil. in-lō, to guide in the way. in-chhoā, to lead; to guide (lit. or fig.). in-thoā, to lead a man to imitate us, esp. bad (v. thoā).

in-chìn, to introduce to favour, or for notice, or for employment, as a friend does. in-chièn, id. khan-in, id. in-kièn, a high mandarin having an audience of the emperor on getting higher rank or new office.

in-hé, to light one lamp from another; to catch fire, as from a spark; fire spreading. in-teng (T.), to light one lamp from another. in-hong, to cause a draught of wind; to cause a cold or rheumatism, as a draught of air, or as eating fat food. phoā-si<sup>n</sup> in chheng-hong, a broken fan can make a cool breeze.

in-hún, to bring back the spirit of a man who has died away from home. in-kúí jip-théh, to bring demons or ghosts into a house.

bō-chiam put in-soà<sup>n</sup> (without a needle one cannot draw a thread through), without an introduction or beginning made, the matter cannot be arranged.

in-khí, to introduce a subject; to quote. in chheh-kú, to quote a book-phrase. in kè-tièn, to quote ancient ceremonies, books, or antiquities.

in-kheh, to procure passengers for a vessel, as a broker does, for a commission—gen. about ten per cent. in-tsái, to ship goods for another in another man's vessel, taking them in and forwarding them, for a commission; to collect cargo for a vessel from various quarters, as broker or commission-agent; to do the business of a shipping-agent. thòe-goá in-tsái, to collect goods as cargo for my vessel, as a broker, &c. kā-goá in-tsái, id.

tsúi-in, a conduit for water. iòh-in, a medicine mixed with other things, especially one co-operating with other medicines. lō-in, a sort of passport. tsoá-in, a paper match. hé-in, id. hiu<sup>n</sup>-in, an incense-stick used as a match.

in-tsng, an awl. in-khèng, a sort of musical instrument (v. khèng). in-tsúi-chio, a medicinal plant (r. chio).

in [R. èng, to fit or correspond; to answer], to answer. in-tap (R.), id. in-sia<sup>n</sup>, to answer with the voice; to echo a word distinctly. in-òe, to give a verbal answer. gâu-in-chhùì, answering a superior insolently. in-chhùì in-chih, determined to have the last word. in-òh (Cn.), to give a slight belch politely to show we have eaten enough.

kiò-in, to call and to answer. kiò-bōe-in, to call, but get no answer; said also of a man near death. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiò-in, to rhyme; to correspond, as sentences, clauses, or words in prose; to echo; to answer one another, as in scolding, or when junks beat gongs. hó-kiò, m<sup>n</sup>-hó-in, though speaking kindly to him, he will not hear. soa<sup>n</sup>-téng bō-hó-kiò; soa<sup>n</sup>-ē bō-hó-in, said of mutual reviling. kiò-thi<sup>n</sup>, thi<sup>n</sup> m<sup>n</sup>-in; kiò-tōe, tōe bō-thia<sup>n</sup>, to call on heaven and earth, but get no answer.

in-thîn, well proportioned to each other, as two articles (v. thîn). in kha-pē, the step of each bearer agreeing with the step of the other, as of two men carrying a sedan or one load.

in (R. id.), a stamp; a seal; a mould (used by stamping); to stamp; to print; to mould, as bricks. in-sin, the stamp put on any document to make it trustworthy. in-siū (R.), seals of office and girdle. in-thek, yellow roll fastened to an idol's seal (v. thek). in-thit (C.), id. in-sek, the red ink used in stamping with a seal. in-sek-áh, the small box holding it. in-áh, case for a seal. in-kui, small frame in which a seal is firmly wedged while being cut.

koa<sup>n</sup>-in, official seal or stamp. chià<sup>n</sup>-in-koa<sup>n</sup>, a civil mandarin who uses a square seal, as the provincial judge, the treasurer, the foo, and the hien, who govern the old original divisions of the country. phien-in-é, mandarins who use oblong seals, holding offices of more recent institution, as governor-general, governor, tautai, fun-foo, and fun-hien. tiàm-hō-in, a stamp with the name of a shop or firm upon it. siáh-in, a seal made of marble. gék-in, a seal made of jade-stone.

kau-in, to hand over the official seal to the successor. chiap-in, to receive it, as the new mandarin does. tiah-in, to take away the seal from a degraded mandarin. khoà<sup>n</sup>-in, to have temporary charge of the seals of office, and do routine work for the mandarin when he is absent for a short time. pài-in, to bow to the official seal and worship it on receiving it. hong-in, to close the public offices for the holidays. khui-in, to open them at end of holidays.

phah-in, to stamp or seal in general. tsh-in (C.), id. tng-in, to seal or stamp, esp. as private persons. khàm-in, do. as officials. phah-chhiú-in, to stamp irrevocably with the impression of one's hand wet with ink. phah kha-in chhiú-in, do. of hand and foot, as in selling a wife.

in-chheh, to print books. in-pán, wooden blocks for printing. kek-in-pán ê-òe, words that will not be changed; a set phrase, as forms of salutation used by all. in-kim, to print idolatrous paper (v. kim). in-hoe-pē, printed cottons (v. hoe). in-si-toá, thin large semitransparent paper.

in thê-kat, to mould unburned bricks. ku-in, a mould for making turtle-shaped cakes. in-ku, to make such cakes. in pút-á, to mould small clay images, each side done separately and then joined together.

in (R. id.) hoài-in (R.), pregnant. ū-sin-in, to be pregnant. toà-sin-in (Cn.), id. toà-in (Cn.), id.

in [R. ūn, to move; to transport], to re-echo; to echo with reverberations. soa<sup>n</sup> in--khí-lái, long re-echoing among the hills.

io [R. hiau, to invite], to invite and lead another, especially to lasciviousness. io-chhoā--i, to lead him about, showing him attentions, as for pleasures. io-lâng thit-thô, to invite a man to go idly strolling about, esp. to bad things. sa<sup>n</sup>-io sa<sup>n</sup>-chio, leading one another about, as to amusement or idolatry. sa<sup>n</sup>-chio sa<sup>n</sup>-io, id. chio-io, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-chio-io, id.

io [R. iòk, to nourish], to cherish fondly or nourish up, as a child. io-lin, to give suck, as a nurse only. io-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to nourish children. io-kiá<sup>n</sup>-bú, a wet-nurse. io-i-khùn, to carry away a child and put it to sleep. hó-io-chhi, easily managed, as a healthy good-tempered infant.

io [R. iau, small], the throw of one in playing dice; an acc. io-khang, the dice giving only the ace; a bad

引

應

印

孕運

育

公

throw. io-jī-sa<sup>n</sup>, the throw of the dice, 1, 2, and 3 respectively. io-jī-sam, id.

腰

io (R. iau), the waist; the loins; kidneys (of meat). poà<sup>n</sup>-io, the waist. téng-poà<sup>n</sup>-io, the body above the waist or loins. ē-io, the part of the body just below the waist. lám ē-io, to seize one's opponent (in wrestling) by the waist so as to throw him down; thus a little man may get the better of a tall man. niū<sup>n</sup>--lí lám ē-io, I will even let you take me by the waist, and yet you cannot overcome me; I am not the least afraid of you. sin-io, the waist, in relation to its shape. sin-io tng, having a long waist. sin-io té, having a short waist; so also, sin-io khoah, sin-io toā, sin-io sòe. io-kut, the lower part of the back-bone.

io-chí, kidneys (said of pigs). gū-io, cows' kidneys. iū<sup>n</sup>-io, sheeps' kidneys. ti-io, pigs' kidneys.

à<sup>n</sup>-io, to bow. hâ-io, to gird one's self; to put on a girdle. hâ io-toà, id. sē-io, stooping in gait, as old man or yamun people. phak-io (T.), id. chhah-io, to put one's hands on the hip-joints. tūi-io, to shampoo the loins. tó-io, to throw back the head and make the belly project, as child throwing cymbals, or as a man about to stand on his hands. pán-io (C.), id.

hoài<sup>n</sup>-io, a strong cross-bar, such as runs along below the windows of a wooden verandah. soa<sup>n</sup>-io, a path along a ledge half-way up a mountain between steep parts above and below. phī<sup>n</sup>-io, the bridge of the nose between the eyes; it includes a little way down the nose. sng-io, narrowed at the middle, as an hour-glass or insect. nah<sup>n</sup>-io, id. ti-io-hoân, kidney-shaped.

io-pau, a purse worn at the side. io-té, a long broad leather girdle with pockets. io-pêng, a money-bag with a flap cover like a pocket, hung at side from girdle. io-phêng, id. io-to, a sword worn at the girdle (v. to). io-toà, a girdle or waist-band. io-tháng, a tub used for accouchement.

io, in several tones, used in Tiô-thoà and Koàn-kháu for A. ɛ; e.g. "black."

iô (R. iâu), a surname.

iô (R. iâu), a kiln; a pottery. he-iô, a lime-kiln. hoe-iô (C.), id. hûi-iô, a pottery. oá<sup>n</sup>-iô, a pottery for making bowls. hiã-iô, a brick-kiln. hoã-iô (Cn.), id.

iô (R. iâu), to shake about; to scull; to shake dice; to wag, as tail; to swagger or swing from side to side in walking; to ring, as a hand-bell. chhiü iô-hong, the tree is shaken by the wind. hong iô-chhiü, id.

iô-tsoah, excited, as the populace, by rumours of insurrection or incitements to tumult, &c.

iô tâu-á, to rattle the dice. iô chhiam-á, to shake the divining lots (v. chhiam). iô-hē, to raffle for help in a mutual assistance club.

iô giang-á, to ring a small hand-bell. iô tsáp-sè, to go along shaking a small hand-bell, as a pedlar. iô thih-pán, to make a similar signal by a bit of iron or brass, as people who go about mending metal articles. iô tâng-pán, id.

iô-tsün, to scull a boat. iô-lé, id.

iô-nã<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ê-nã<sup>n</sup>, a cradle.

iô-pái, to walk in a swaggering way, or swinging from side to side; to shake, as a boat by wind or waves. iô pái-pái, id. iô-thâu pái-bé, gestures of great delight, as at deliverance from danger. iô-thâu, to shake one's head. iô-bé, to wag the tail. iô-chhiü, to shake the hand (bent back with the palm outwards) on the axis of the wrist, or from side to side, as a sign of declining, refusing, forbidding, or warning. iô-chhiü nih<sup>n</sup>-bák, to shake the hand and wink, as giving a secret signal. iô-kha hi<sup>n</sup>-chhiü, to swagger about. iô kha-chhng-hoe, to make one's hips swing from side to side in walking. iô seng-khu, to swing one's self from side to side. kiã<sup>n</sup> iô-iô, to walk in a swaggering way. phū-phū iô-iô, id. sam-pán-iô, self-important strutting manner (lit. like a boat sculled). iô-lâng bô-tsâi, iô-ti khi-thâi, a swaggering fast sort of man can't get rich; a restless pig is soon killed. iô-sai, little children shaking their heads about (v. sai, "a lion"). khang-chhiü pēh-iô (T.), to come and go empty-handed, as on a fruitless errand when money was expected, or as an idle fellow who will not carry anything, or as a guest who should have left some gift.

iô [R. ɛ, to strike, = col. áu], to strike a side blow with a stick, as on the waist. iô--chih, to break by a side-blow, as a man's leg. kha-kut iô-chih, leg broken thus.

iô (R. iáu), Cn. = A. iú<sup>n</sup>, to bale or lade out, as water. iô-chhiü (Cn.), to buy wine.

iō<sup>n</sup> (P.), in all the tones, = A. iu<sup>n</sup>.

ioh [R. ek, a hundred thousand; to guess], to guess. ioh-jī, to guess a character. ioh-bī, to guess riddles, as children. ioh-chiã-không, to play a game of chance by guessing which end of a stalk of sugar-cane will be longer when broken. tsáp-ioh, káu m-tiôh, guesses are ten to one wrong.

ioh [R. iok, to make an agreement]. toàn-ioh, to make a definite agreement. sa<sup>n</sup>-toàn-ioh, id.

ioh — chhi<sup>n</sup>-ioh, a green frog, larger than "chhân-kap-á," but smaller than "súi-koe."

ioh (= ià). âi-ioh, exclamation of sudden pain (v. âi).

ioh — ioh-ioh, too thin, as jelly that will not coagulate; soft and flabby, as the flesh of a too fat man.

ioh (R. iok), (Cn.), a very small quantity; one-tenth of a "kap."

ioh (Cn.) phū-phū ioh-ioh (= A. iô), walking in a swaggering way.

iôh (R. iök), a lock; to lock. mng-iôh, a door lock. iôh-mng, to lock a door. iôh-kúi, the bolt of a lock.

iôh — chhiü iôh-iôh, broken down very small (v. chhiü). tsú kàu iôh-iôh (T.), to cook, as rice, till very soft. beh-iôh-liôh--khi (T.), to get broken down small, as cakes or such eatables kept too long, or as rice very much boiled. iôh--khi (C.), to grow bad, as coagulated food.

iôh (R. iök), medicine; a remedy; a drug. bô-iôh, no remedy; no resource, in general. bô-iôh thang-tī, id.

piã<sup>n</sup>-iôh, a sort of alkaline lye, like "ki<sup>n</sup>." oá<sup>n</sup>-iôh, a mineral used for glazing earthenware. kim-iôh, paint used for making idolatrous paper. chhêng-iôh, gunpowder. siau-iôh, id. hé-iôh, id. hé-iôh-kóng, a powder measure. niáu-chhiü-iôh, poison for rats; arsenic. káu-iôh, poison (esp. arsenic) for killing the "thê-kâu" insect. káu-iôh, medicine for a dog's bite; drugs given by thieves to dogs.

ko-iôh, sort of medical plaster. ke-iôh, id. ɛ-ko-iôh, black plaster, gen. blistering. phah-kún, bōe ke-iôh, to wound one's self, and put on a plaster, as quacks do. phah thih-pi<sup>n</sup>, bōe ke-iôh, do. with iron lash. ké-iôh, to put on a green medical preparation of herbs, like a poultice. soa-iôh, medicine for colic or cholera, taken like snuff. pé-iôh,

樞歐

旨

億

約

約

約

勻

鑰

葉

藥

姚
窰 搖

strengthening medicine. jiét-iòh, heating medicine. lêng-iòh, cooling medicine.

iòh-tsái, medicines in the original natural state. chhi<sup>n</sup>-iòh, medicines slightly prepared, but still in a rough raw state. sék-iòh, prepared medicine. chháu-iòh, plants used for medicine. chháu-iòh-thâu, medicinal roots. iòh-thâu, first infusion or decoction of medicine. iòh-che, second one. iòh-thng, a medical infusion or decoction in general. iòh-tê, a medicinal infusion; medicinal tea. iòh-chiú, medicated alcoholic liquors. iòh-phoh, solid refuse of medicine after infusion or decoction. iòh-tái, thick dregs of it. iòh-i<sup>n</sup>, a pill. iòh-oân, id. iòh-tan, very concentrated powerful medicine; very small strong pill. iòh-hún, medicinal powder. phah-piá<sup>n</sup>-iòh, medicine that will kill or cure. ká<sup>n</sup>-hē tāng-iòh, venture to prescribe very powerful medicine. hoā<sup>n</sup>-iòh, to solder.

chē-iòh, to prepare drugs, esp. in large quantities, changing them from "chhi<sup>n</sup>" to "sék." tsoa<sup>n</sup>-iòh, to boil medicine. phâu-iòh, to infuse medicine. chién-iòh, to cut down medicine, in preparing it; to buy a dose of medicine. kap-iòh, to buy medicine (to be mixed) according to a prescription. thiah-iòh (T.), id. hō-iòh, to prepare food along with a medical prescription. tīm-iòh, to stew medicine, either alone or with food. pūn-iòh, to blow in a medicine with a quill. hók-iòh, to swallow medicine. chiáh-iòh, id. phài-iòh, to prescribe medicine. kng-pút thó-iòh, to bring an idol and ask it what medicine to take. pút-iòh, medicine prescribed by an idol.

iòh-hng, a medical prescription. iòh-toa<sup>n</sup>, do. written out for the apothecary. iòh-ín, a medicine that is used for mixing with others. chit-thiap-iòh, a dose of medicine. iòh-sèng, the nature of a medicine. iòh-sèng-hù, a book of medical prescriptions, &c., in rhyme. iòh-chheh, medical books. iòh-téng, a small steelyard. iòh-chián, machine for cutting down medicines small. iòh-ông, Shin-nung, the god of medicine. iòh-tsái-ông, id.

iok [R. to bind; an agreement; about so much, = col. ioh], (C. iak), an agreement; a treaty; a bargain or lease; to make an agreement.

iok-sok, to restrain.

iok-liók, in general; about (so much); more or less, calculating roughly. iok-liông, id. liông-iok, id. tái-iok, id.

iok-jī, a written agreement. háp-iok, an agreement or bond in duplicate, the word "háp" being stamped on both so as to make them tally. hō-iok, a treaty of peace; to make an agreement. siông-iok, to make an agreement or contract. lip-iok, to make a contract. toán-iok, to make a definite agreement or arrangement. pōe-iok, to break a contract or agreement. iok-liáu bō-íá<sup>n</sup>, to promise but not fulfil. àm-iok, to make a secret arrangement. su-iok, a private agreement. kong-iok, a public agreement, as by mandarins or the head men of villages. kim-iok, a public agreement of all the people of a place to forbid some practice (sometimes originating with superiors).

sin-iok (X.), the New Testament (lit. new agreement or covenant). kū-iok (X.), the Old Testament.

iok [R. to nourish; to bring up, = col. io]. seng-iok, to get a child (said of either parent). iok-eng-tông, a foundling hospital.

iok [R. to bathe by throwing water over one's self]. tsai-kài bók-iok, to fast and bathe ceremonially (v. tsai).

iok (R. id.) chiok-iok, a flower like a peony.

iok [R. to wish; to desire]. iok-kiú thien-siông-hok, whoever wishes to ask happiness from Heaven (v. hok). iok-kan iok-sat, determined to be at feud. su-iok (R.), all sorts of evil passions and desires, including covetousness, anger, lust, &c. khi-su-iok (R.), these desires or passions excited.

iok [R. lustful desire]. ím-iok, lascivious desire or passion. sek-iok, id. iok-hé, the fire of lust. iok-hé teh-tòh, lustful desire arising. khi iok-hé, id.

iông [R. an abscess, carbuncle, or very bad boil, = col. eng], (also C., = A. eng, id.) lin-iông, an abscess or deep boil at the side of the teat. tē-iông, a large boil on the belly. hì-iông, a deep abscess near the lungs. iông-tsu hoat-pōe, sloughing carbuncle on the back.

iông [R. middle; to intrust with a commission, = col. iang, ng], (C. iang). iông-thok, to commission; to intrust with a matter.

iông [R. calamity], (C. iang). tsai-iông, calamities. siu-tso-iông (r.), to meet with terrible calamities, as rebellion, &c.

iông [R. liông, a beam]. tiông-iông, better "tiông-liông," important, as a person or matter.

iông [R. the face; to bear with; easy]. iông-ún, to bear with; to tolerate. khoan-iông, to bear long with; indulgent; long-suffering. pau-iông (R.), id. iông-chhiông, to indulge; not find fault with. thien put-iông, Heaven will not endure it (said of wicked plotting).

iông-i<sup>n</sup> (P. êng-i<sup>n</sup>), easy.

chhiông-iông, taking things calmly, quietly, easily, or leisurely; not bustling, frightened, or agitated; not too urgent; calm and easy in manner. chhiông-iông tsū-tsai, do.; calm and self-possessed.

bīn-iông (r.), countenance. iông-māu<sup>n</sup>, id. gān-iông, complexion. iu-iông, a sad expression of face. tài-iu-iông, having a morose or sulky look. chhió-iông, a happy look of face. hêng-iông, appearance of person.

iông [R. constant, common, = col. iú<sup>n</sup>]. tiông-iông, the due medium; the Chung-yung or doctrine of the Mean. iông-i, an incompetent doctor; a quack. iông-i sat-jīn, a quack kills people. iông-hu siók-tsú, common rough illiterate people. iông-iông to hē-hok, ordinary people commonly have much happiness. iông-siô (C.), = A. iú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, very useless, as a man.

iông (R. id.) phū-iông-hoe, the Hibiscus rosa sinensis. phū-iông, id. hū-iông-hoe, id. jiók-chhiông-iông, a strengthening medicine, esp. for venereal complaints.

iông [R. to display; to publish abroad], (C. iâng). hién-iông, grand or fine looking, as a house. ì-khì iông-iông, proud bearing of a successful or prosperous man. iâu-bú iông-úi, said of a man having a proud consequential manner (v. ui).

pò-iông, to publish abroad; to proclaim widely. lông-iông, to spread injurious reports, either true or false. m-thang lóng-iông, don't let this matter be known. bêng iông sù-hái, very famous and illustrious (v. bêng, "name").

iông [R. id., = col. iú<sup>n</sup>], (C. iâng), the masculine or positive principle or influence of nature; the Yang, having relation to warmth, light, life, and prosperity. iông-

藥欲

慾

靡

央

殃

樑

容

約

庸

蓉

楊

育浴

陽

khì, id. pé-iông, strengthening the positive influence in the human constitution (opposed to "tsu-im"). hiông-iông, iu a good airy healthy situation.

thài-iông, the sun. thài-iông-kong, the sun, as an object of worship. tiông-iông-tsoeh, the 9.9 (lit. double masculine, as 9 is a masculine number), when Khoe-seng is specially worshipped. tiông-iông, id. sió-iông-chhun, warm genial weather in winter. chí-iông, name of an academy in ē-mûg-káng.

au-iông, a surname.

iông-kan, the present life; the visible world. hòe-iông, to return to life. iông-ku, a dwelling-house, opposed to "im-tē," a grave.

iông-jī, large embossed characters, as on a sign-board (v. jī).

iông-bùt, the penis. hoat-iông, erection of it. tó-iông, loss of virility, as in an old man. tsòng-iông ē-ióh, medicine for aphrodisiac purposes.

im-iông, the Yin and Yang; the negative and positive, or feminine and masculine, influences or principles of nature. im-iông-si, an idol (in the temple of the tutelary god of a city) having the two sides of his face red and black respectively; he has authority in both worlds. im-iông hoan-pôe, turning day into night. im-iông-tsúi, warm and cold water mixed, just so warm as can be taken into the mouth. kiáu im-iông-tsúi, to mix hot and cold water thus.

iông [R. a sheep or goat, = col. iú<sup>n</sup>], (C. iàng). biên-iông, a dressed lamb-skin. lêng-iông, a sort of antelope. lêng-iông-kak, its horns, of a white colour (used medicinally). lêng-iông sai-kak, id.

kong-iông-toân, a book on the "chhun-chhiu" record of Confucius.

iông [R. an ulcer; a suppurating sore, = col. iú<sup>n</sup>], (C. iàng). iông-mûi, a bubo.

iông [R. to nourish, = col. iú<sup>n</sup>], (C. iàng). iông-liâm, salary of a mandarin (lit. nourishing administrative purity). iông-siâm, share kept by a father for himself when dividing his property among his sons (v. siâm).

tiâu-iông, to take care of, as one's own health. pó-iông, id.; also, to take care of a child for another person, as to bodily wants. pôe-iông, to foster, nourish up, train, and educate carefully, as children; to take care of, as one's own health.

iông-bú, adoptive-mother, who has brought up a child; foster-mother. phâu-iông--ê, son adopted from infancy. bú-iông, to nourish carefully and bring up, as a child. iông-seng-tûg, a foundling hospital. iông-jī thài-ló, to bring up a son, expecting his help in old age. chio-hu iông-tsú, to get a second husband to bring up the children.

iông (P.), = A. éng, a wave.

iông (R. id.), strong; strong and well; a brave; a militiaman or volunteer. iông-kiâ, strong, as a man. iông-sin-miâ, in good health. iông-tsòng, strong and vigorous, as a young grown-up man. iông-ông, lusty and vigorous. tng-iông, to be a brave or militiaman; to be just about come to one's full strength, as about eighteen or twenty. pé-iông, to eat strengthening medicine.

peng-iông, soldiers in general. gi-iông, militiamen, volunteers, or braves (v. gi). liên-iông, a sort of volunteers. hô-lâm-iông, soldiers from central China, especially Hu-nan. iông-kah, a soldier's jacket with the word "iông" on it.

iông-béng, brave. tiông-iông-sû, temple to distinguished military officers who have died for their country. iú-iông bū-bê, brave without wisdom. hê<sup>n</sup>-iông, a bully. té-iông, two men trying which is stronger, or each boasting of superior courage and strength. hùn-iông (R.), to make great efforts. pài-peng chi-chiông, put-kám giên-iông, the commander of defeated soldiers does not dare to speak of valour.

kī-iông, a stone used for trying the strength of candidates at the military examinations. phah kī-iông, to exercise with it. phō kī-iông, to lift it and lay it on one's breast. khó-kī-iông, to try candidates with this exercise.

iông (R. id.) iông-chiông (R.), to crowd together, as persons.

iông [R. to shine, to reflect], (C. iàng). iông-jit (R.), facing the sun.

iông (P.) iông-chhài, = A. èng-chhài, a vegetable grown in water.

iông [R. to use, = col. ēng], (also C., = A. ēng). bōe-iông-sin--tit, not fit to be employed (as man) for some purpose. tiông-iông, skilful; useful, as a man. put-tiông-iông, dull, stupid, awkward, and useless, as a man. put-chiông-iông, id. put-tsòng-iông (C.), id. ke-iông (C.), household expenses.

kong-iông, for public use ("kong," public). kong-iông, great usefulness and efficacy, as of a medicine or plan, but not of a person ("kong," merit, efficacy). ū-kong-iông, to be of great use, as a medicine or plan.

hâu-iông, a soldier who has got the lowest button, but no office yet; somewhat about a corporal.

ip (R. id.) tsok-ip, to make a low bow with folded hands. pài-ip, id., as to a superior, or to one whom we treat as a superior.

ip [R. id., a city]. siâ<sup>n</sup>-ip, a Hien district or county.

ip (R. id.) ip-á, a small hand-net on a long pole (smaller than "tsan") for rivers or ponds.

ip (R. id.), to catch with a small hand-net, as fish or shrimps. ip-hê, to catch shrimps thus.

ip (Cn.), = A. hip. ip iú-png, to cook rice with water and fat till dry. ip-png, id. ip bí-ko, to cook diamond-shaped cakes of rice with fat till dry.

it [R. ek, to increase]. it-hoat, all the more; so much the more; more and more.

it [R. ek, to recollect, to think upon]. it--tióh, to think upon with pleasure; to desire much. it--tit, to recollect.

it (R. id.), one of the cyclical characters, used to indicate a person not named. kah-it, Mr. A. and Mr. B.

it [R. one, first, entire, single, alike, = col. chit].

tē-it, the first. tōe-it, id. kài-tē-it, the very first, highest, or greatest. kài-it-toā, the very greatest. tē-it-toā, id. it-téng, first-class. thâu-it-téng-lâng, a man of first-rate rank, wealth, power, or influence. thâu-it-téng--ê, first-rate, first-class, as man or thing; of very great influence; of first-rate position or rank. it-phín, first-rank (of mandarins). it-póng, rank of Kújín. tī-hí it-âu, at the very furthest back part, as of premises. it-á-hiá, front bulkhead of a boat.

chhoe-it, first day of month. chhe-it (C.), id. tsáp-it, eleven. it-tsáp, ten. it-jī-tsáp-ê, between ten and twenty. it-jiáp, id. it-jiáp-goā, a little over twenty. ka-it-thân, to gain ten per cent.

chip-it, obstinate; determined; dogged. it-téng,

擁映

用

揖色筮挹

益憶乙

一壹

羊

瘍養

勇

certainly. it-tit, straightforward; determined on a course. tsoan-it, exclusively at one thing (v. tsoan). it-iü<sup>n</sup>, of one pattern; alike. sí-chiong jü-it, constant from first to last. put-it, not agreeing. hun-hun put-it, id. put-chiap-it, matter not going on well (v. chiap).

it-thé, all alike; equally (v. thé). it-khài, entirely; altogether. it-thóng, the whole, as of a dominion (v. thóng). it-seng, one's whole lifetime.

it-bók, a one-eyed man. it-kiok, a man lame of one foot. it-tiông-hông, the hollyhock (v. hông, "red"). bân bû it-sit, not one mistake in a myriad.

it-jí-pi<sup>n</sup>, made as level as the character "it" (a horizontal stroke). it-jí-boah, laid quite level and even, as several books. it-jí-bái, having one's eyebrows connected and all in one straight line (counted an omen of good luck, esp. of having many brothers); colloquial name of a man having such eyebrows.

iü [R. sad, displeased, mourning]. iü-bün, sad; grieved. iü-ut (K.), sad and disquieted; vexed. iü-lü, grieved and anxious. iü-liu tsòe-chit-pé, brow wrinkled with grief, anxiety, discomfort, or displeasure. iü-khé, very sorrowful. iü-thâu khé-bin, having a displeased look. bín-iü bín-jiâu, face wrinkled with vexation, or anger and grief. bín iü-iü, face looking sad. bák-chiu-thâu iü-iü, corners of the eyes having a sad or anxious expression. bák-bái iü-iü, knitting the brows. iü-iông (r.), a sad countenance.

teng-iü, mourning for parents or grand-parents, esp. by officials. pò teng-iü, to report the death of a parent or grand-parent to his superior, as a mandarin or graduate does. teng hū-iü, in mourning for father. teng bú-iü, in mourning for mother. teng kok-iü, mourning throughout the empire for emperor or empress. kok-iü, id.

sít jîn-chi-lók, tam jîn-chi-iü, if you eat a man's wages, you should bear his troubles.

iü [R. extra, to dally, an actor]. iü-jiú koá<sup>n</sup>-toán, undecided in purpose. iü-kông, one form of the degree of "kông-seng" (v. kông). chhiong-iü, lé-tsut, harlots, actors, and low underlings in yamuns, the most degraded classes.

iü [R. alike, doubtful]. iü-goân, as formerly; as before. iü-ü put-koat, undecided in purpose. iü-thài (X.), Judaea.

iü [R. ú, superfluous], (C. í). khó iü-teng, to examine candidates to be ready for the vacancies that may occur among the soldiers. thiáu-iü-teng, to choose new soldiers out of these men previously examined.

iü [R. to float or drift, satisfied]. iü-iah, having the look of health and prosperity (v. iah).

iü (R. id.), to ramble about for amusement. iü-goán, to ramble at pleasure. sì-kòe-iü, id. iü-siü<sup>n</sup>, to go about looking at things for amusement. iü-hák, a travelling scholar. iü-hong hê-siü<sup>n</sup>, a travelling Buddhist priest holding a certificate; said also in scolding a man who is always idly going about his friends' houses. iü-tsún, to make an excursion in a boat, esp. at the dragon-boat festival. iü-kang, spectators going about in boats to look at idolatrous festivals. iü hái-bin, to go about for pleasure in boats.

iü-hái, an idol carried in state in a boat. iü-soa<sup>n</sup> iü-hái, do., on land or on water. iü-soa<sup>n</sup>, to carry about an idol (esp. ông-iá) in procession on land. iü-soa<sup>n</sup> chhái-lê, to do so, and have coloured hangings in the streets. iü thien-hô, to choose to be burned, as "ông-iá." iü-tê-hô, to choose to be sent off to sea in his state-boat, as "ông-iá."

iü-kiông, imperial conjugal intercourse. iü-kek, a military officer about the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

iü [R. excessive; wickedness; to resent], a surname. hâu-iü, to follow bad example. oàn-thien iü-jîn, to murmur at Heaven and hate men.

iü [R. from; cause; origin; to permit; to pass through]. in-iü, antecedents of a matter; reason or cause. iên-iü, id. goân-iü, origin, beginning, as of a matter. chêng-iü, cause or circumstances of an affair. kê-iü, statement of the crime for which a man is made to wear the cangue, written on the cangue.

iü-chhién jip-chhim, to go on from the easy to the difficult. poàn-tiám put-iü-jîn, nothing comes from men (but all from fate), (v. bêng, "fate"). thêng-thien iü-bêng, to submit to the will of Heaven. iü-koái<sup>n</sup> chiah-koái<sup>n</sup>; iü-hú chiah-hú, said of a high mandarin (as viceroy or examiner) living on the districts he visits.

iü — tsá-iü, early rice of the summer crop, esp. from Formosa. iü-á-bí, id.

iü [R. hoái]. iü-hoe, a tree (sophora) that yields the yellow dye called "hoái-hoe."

iü (R. id.) iü-hí, a sort of fish, like trout.

iü [R. iông, the ocean, = col. iü<sup>n</sup>]. iü-âng, = iü<sup>n</sup>-âng, rich crimson (s. next word).

iü (R. id.), oil, fat, grease; oil-paint; to paint with oil-paint, or stain (as wood) with oil.

bák-iü, mucus from the eye. bín-iü, sweat and dirt mixed with sweat on the face. iü-káu, oily stain or dirt from the hair. chhàu-iü, unpleasant oily taste or smell. iü-khi, having fat, as meat.

iü-láng, an oil-jar made of wicker-work and oiled paper. iü-lâu, a funnel used for pouring oil. iü-siáh, sort of small measure or spoon for lading out oil. iü-kàu, a small oil measure. iü-ki, a long roll of paper dipped in oil, or bamboo rolled round with paper, used for a light. iü-chhia, an oil-press. iü-chi<sup>n</sup>-ôe, shoes soled with oiled felt. iü-hia, boots with such soles. iü-tsoá, oiled paper.

iü-phoh, the browned residue when a mass of fat is fried down. iü-khê, the refuse from making tea-oil (v. khê). iü-tái, dregs of oil. iü-che (C.), id. iü-chhang, onions fried in fat. iü-png, rice cooked dry with fat, &c. (v. ping).

iü-tiü, a glossy sort of cloth from Canton. iü-lék, rich glossy green cloth. iü-lê, a small glossy blackish gray snail.

iü-chhat, paint and varnish; to paint or varnish (v. chhat). iü-ê, to paint black. iü-âng, to paint red (s. previous word). kan-iü, oil, unmixed with paint, used for varnishing or staining wood. kim-iü, sort of paint made with comminuted gold or brass, so as to shine like gilding. ê-ien-iü, oily soot; black paint made of lamp-black.

chhi-iü, oil burned in lights beside a corpse (v. chhi). chêng-iü, idolatrous rites of purification (v. chêng).

gü-lin-iü, butter. gü-iü, tallow. ti-lá-iü, hog's lard (v. lá). koe-kè-iü, fat about pig's sweet-bread, &c. bâng-se-iü, fat near the mesentery of the pig. iü-jí, fat, as edible. khêng-iü, wax from the tallow tree.

tâu-iü, soy. ê-tâu-iü, dark-coloured soy. seng-

憂

優

猶

餘

游游

游

尤由

槐
鮑
洋 油

iú, the common oil from ground-nuts. tê-á-iú, oil of tea or camellia. tê-iú, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, oil from hempseed (v. moá<sup>n</sup>). hun-iú, tobacco oil. iá-iú, cocoa-nut oil. pôh-hô-iú, oil of peppermint. hiu<sup>n</sup>-iú, fragrant oil. hiang-iú, id. thâng-iú, oil made from the "thâng-chí" (v. thâng). tê-pi-iú, castor-oil. lê-hê-iú, oil of aloes.

tah-iú, to buy oil; to lade out oil. phah-iú (T.), to buy oil. bóe-iú (Cn.), id. thi<sup>n</sup>-iú, to replenish a lamp with oil. pheng-iú, to cook in fat or oil. chi<sup>n</sup>-iú, to fry in a large quantity of melted fat. chi<sup>n</sup>-iú, to press oil out of seeds by wedges. khoeh-iú, to press out oil in an oil-press. ngáu<sup>n</sup>-iú, to melt down fat slowly so as to purify it. siau-iú, to help to digest fat (as arsenic). bak-iú, to soil with oil or grease. tiám-iú, to light an oil lamp, as opposed to candles. goá ká-lí tiám-iú, I will remember this against you, = goá ká-lí tiám-iú, tsòe kî-hô. tiám-iú tsòe kî-hô, to remember a quarrel till it can be paid.

iú hé-hun, tobacco and oil for the lamp for visitors taking a smoke. phi<sup>n</sup>-thâm-noá<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup> iú-hé-hun, said of a fellow sorning on us and giving us no benefit (v. noá<sup>n</sup>).

iú (R. id.) pêng-iú, a friend. chhin-pêng kè-iú, relatives and old friends. hó-iú (r.), close friends. hòe-iú, fellow members of a literary society. siá-iú, id. ê-hun-iú, associates in opium-smoking. chhong-iú, fellow-students. thák-chhêh-iú, literary friends. iú-ài (r.), to love dearly, as brothers.

iú (R. id.), a cyclical character. iú-sî, from 5 to 7 p.m. tiám-teng-iú, that hour, namely, the time when people light lamps. tiám teng-hé iú, id.

iú (R. id.) ín-iú, to allure to evil. iú-hék (r.), to tempt and lead astray. koái-iú, to kidnap, as a child; to allure into evil.

iú [R. to have, = col. ũ]. iú-kong, having merit for services to the state. iú-tsòe, guilty. iú-khùi, ashamed of one's self. iú-chhù, attractive; taking the fancy. iú-sêng, to become a man of note or usefulness (said of a boy that he will be so). iú-êng, powerful in answering prayers or vows, as an idol.

iú-hièn, few; limited. iú-sè, not many. hán-iú, rare.

iú-bú, to have and not to have. iú-sún bú-ek, injurious without any benefit. iú-iông bú-bê, brave without wisdom. bú-tiong chhú-iú, to take what is inferior when the best cannot be had. bú-tiong seng-iú (R.), to raise groundless rumours.

iú (R. id.), small; fine; broken down small. iú-siau, small, slim, and delicate. iú-siú, delicate, refined, polite. iú-chí, young and tender, as child; fine, as cloth. iú-boáh-boáh, in fine powder. iú-boah-boah, id., also, very smooth, as skin of child or of melon. iú-seh-seh, broken down small, as eatables. iú-mng-mng, very fine, as powder. iú-bang-bang, id. iú-but-but, very small, as boy or domestic animal. iú-liáp-mih<sup>n</sup>, goods that have great value in small bulk.

kim-iú, powdered gold or brass, for making ornamental paper, &c. chióh-iú, dust and small chips from stone. chhâ-iú, small chips and shavings of wood. piá<sup>n</sup>-iú, crumbs of cakes or of bread.

iú-lê, fine workmanship. iú-kha, bandaged small feet of women. iú-kán, a beautiful and accomplished female slave. iú-pê, fine cotton or linen cloth. iú-tê, fine tea, in leaf. si<sup>n</sup> iú-bah, new good flesh forming in a wound or sore. tsòe tái-chí chin-iú, the deceit arranged very carefully, so that it is very long of being detected, if at all.

iú-tông, a very young candidate for a degree. iú-hák, rudiments of learning; a young scholar. iú-teng, a little lad, as under sixteen. lâm-hū ló-iú, male and female, old and young. lâm-toá lú-iú, id.

iú [R. right-hand side; secondary]. iú-pêng (r.), the right-hand side. iú-chhiú (r.), the right hand. iú-iá<sup>n</sup>, the right wing of an army. iú-hú, the officer (as chham-hú) who commands it.

iú-siông, the second prime minister (Chinese, not Tartar). iú-tng, the second (literary) mandarin of a city.

lín-iú, neighbours.

tsó-iú, left and right; more or less; about so much; on an average or rough calculation. tsó-iú-lín, the neighbours on each side. tsó-sí iú-sí, on either side is death. phien-tsó phien-iú, going to one side or the other of the road.

iú (R. id.) pì-iú, to protect, as a god does.

iú [R. hóe, wealth; to bribe]. siú-iú, to receive a bribe. siú láng-ê-iú, to receive a bribe from a man.

iú (R. id.), also; in addition; again. iú-koh, id. iú-kam, a small green fruit of which the taste changes from sour to sweet in the mouth.

iú [R. iú, the time from 5—7 p.m.] àm-iú (Cn.), very late at night, after that hour, e.g. 8, 9, or 10.

iú (R. id.) siá-iú (R.), to pardon.

iú (R. id.), the pumelo or shaddock, Citrus decumana. iú-á, id. (C. also "núi-á"). âng-iú, the red pumelo. pêh-iú, the white pumelo. bit-iú, a very sweet kind. bún-tàn-iú; phi<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>-iú, very good sorts, named from the places that produce them.

iú [R. iók, medicine, = col. ióh]. iú-á-chí (C.), a seed used for stupifying fish.

iú<sup>n</sup>— iú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, to keep a child in good temper; to be very kind, as to a stranger (v. siú<sup>n</sup>).

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, sort of insect]. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>, an insect like a wasp. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, its nest. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>-thê, the stuff of which its nest is made. oan-iú<sup>n</sup> thoa ka-tsoáh, the wasp dragging along a cockroach (said of a child with a heavy load). oan-iú<sup>n</sup> ká ka-tsoáh, id. (lit. bites).

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. a sort of bird]. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin-duck, a small variety, emblem of conjugal love. tsúi-oan-iú<sup>n</sup>, a sort of duck. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>-chím, a pair of pillows (often embroidered with figure of this duck) given to a young couple as an emblem of affection. oan-iú<sup>n</sup>-sia, têng-tháh-khiàm, to get goods on credit, and borrow money deeper and deeper from the same creditor.

iú<sup>n</sup> (R. iông), a sheep; a goat. iú<sup>n</sup>-káng, a ram. iú<sup>n</sup>-bú, a ewe or she-goat. soa<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, a goat. mí<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, a sheep. biên-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. iam-iú<sup>n</sup>, a wether (s. masculine).

iú<sup>n</sup>-hín, epilepsy. iú<sup>n</sup>-bák, eyes that do not close in sleep.

iú<sup>n</sup>-ko, a sheep; a sheep-skin with the wool on; a sheep-skin dress. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-thò, a dress worn over a sheep-skin dress. iú<sup>n</sup>-phê, sheep-skin; vellum. iú<sup>n</sup>-phê-kim, strong gilt-paper. iú<sup>n</sup>-mng, wool.

iú<sup>n</sup>-pí, the sweet-bread of a sheep or goat. iú<sup>n</sup>-ih, id. iú<sup>n</sup>-bah, mutton. thái-tí tó-iú<sup>n</sup>, to have pigs and goats killed in great numbers, as for sacrificial offerings or great entertainments. gú-iú<sup>n</sup>-bé, cows, sheep (or goats), and horses.

右

佑
賄 又
酉
肴
柚
藥

鶩

羊

友

酉
誘
有

幼

iú<sup>n</sup> mēh<sup>n</sup>-mēh<sup>n</sup>, words used in calling goats. iú<sup>n</sup>-tái-lái (Cn. C.), a plant with prickly seeds.

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, sheep? willow?], iú<sup>n</sup>-tô, the Carambola, an angular fruit (v. tô).

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, a willow; a surname], the surname Yang. iú<sup>n</sup>-liú, the willow. iú<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, hemp (v. moá<sup>n</sup>).

iú<sup>n</sup>-âng-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = khé-koe, the bitter cucumber.

iú<sup>n</sup>-chiú-iú<sup>n</sup>, a small insect that devours grain in granaries. iú<sup>n</sup>-meh<sup>n</sup> (C.), a sort of small grasshopper. iú<sup>n</sup>-kóng-sai (Cn.), = am-pō-ché, the cicada.

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, the Yang or masculine principle; the sun]. jia-iú<sup>n</sup>, a small additional roof over a shop-front to keep off the sun. poá<sup>n</sup>-iam-iú<sup>n</sup>, hermaphrodite.

iú<sup>n</sup> (R. iông), the ocean; foreign; (a plain). chhân-iú<sup>n</sup>, a flat plain of irrigated fields, larger or smaller. pi<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> khòng-thé, a vast level plain. hē-lóh kàu-pi<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, rain so heavy that the whole plain is under water. hé lóh pēng-iú<sup>n</sup>, pi<sup>n</sup>-khién khi, a tiger in the plain is molested by dogs.

hái-iú<sup>n</sup>, a pirate.

goá-iú<sup>n</sup>, the ocean; the open sea. toá-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. pàng-toá-iú<sup>n</sup>, to go out to sea out of sight of land.

pàng-iú<sup>n</sup>, to go to sea, as a trading junk. chhut-iú<sup>n</sup>, to go to sea, as mandarin against pirates. kiá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to travel abroad by sea. kiá<sup>n</sup> hoái<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to cross the sea, as to Formosa. hoái<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> ê-tsún, a junk trading to Formosa. chit-ki<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, average distance that a junk sails in three hours.

iú<sup>n</sup>-tsún, a junk trading abroad or to very distant ports. iú<sup>n</sup>-hâng, a hong engaged in foreign trade, &c. iú<sup>n</sup>-kheh, a Chinaman who goes abroad to trade. iú<sup>n</sup>-hè, foreign goods; goods for the foreign market. ín iú<sup>n</sup>-hè, to promise goods to a merchant to be sent abroad. pân iú<sup>n</sup>-hè, to prepare or deal in goods to be sent abroad. pân iú<sup>n</sup>-tsng, id. iú<sup>n</sup>-som, foreign ginseng. iú<sup>n</sup>-âng, a rich red colour from abroad. iú<sup>n</sup>-âng, a rich foreign yellow.

sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, the Western Ocean; Western regions; Europe and America; foreign cotton-stuffs. sai-iú<sup>n</sup>-pè, foreign cotton-stuffs. pēh-sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, white shirtings. pún-sek sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, gray shirtings. tang-iú<sup>n</sup>, Japan.

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, an ulcer or suppurating sore]. iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, all suppurating, as a sore or ulcer. iú<sup>n</sup>-hī, a suppurating ear; an ear constantly needing to be cleared of wax and moisture.

iú<sup>n</sup> (cf. iám). chhùi iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, broken down small, as dry things; broken to shivers (cf. next word).

iú<sup>n</sup> (R. iông), to melt. gâu iú<sup>n</sup>-chī, fond of squandering money. iú<sup>n</sup>-thih, to melt iron. iú<sup>n</sup>-thng, to melt sugar. lí m-sī tsoá-kê, kám-ōe iú<sup>n</sup>-khi, are you made of paper pasted! why are you afraid of rain as if you should melt!

iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, grown soft and melting; pulpy or broken down small. iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> chhiú<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>, spoiled by being soaked to a pulp; slushy, as roads. iú<sup>n</sup> kê-kê, grown soft and pulpy, as sweetmeats. phah kàu iú<sup>n</sup>-kê-kê, to beat very severely (lit. to a pulp); to break to shivers.

iú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> siú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, grown damp and soft, as eatables (v. siú<sup>n</sup>).

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, constant; common]. iú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, rather dull, slow, and mediocre in ability; without temper, vivacity, or energy.

iú<sup>n</sup> (R. iáu), (Cn. ió), to lade out (as water or oil) with a spoon, cup, ladle, &c.

iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn. ngiú<sup>n</sup>), thin flat tiles for roofs, laid between the boards and the outer tiles. iú<sup>n</sup>-á, id. phē-iú<sup>n</sup>, to put on these inner tiles. hiá-iú<sup>n</sup>, outer and inner roofing tiles.

iú<sup>n</sup> (R. ióng), to nourish; to feed; to bring up, as a child. iú<sup>n</sup>-chhi, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup> tōe-iú<sup>n</sup>, heaven gives life, earth nourishes. pōe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to foster and tend, as children. pō-iú<sup>n</sup> (C.), to take care of, as a child. chhi<sup>n</sup> hâu-si<sup>n</sup>, iú<sup>n</sup> lau-sé, to bring up a son to nourish his old father.

iú<sup>n</sup>-pē, a foster-father. iú<sup>n</sup>-ê, bought and brought up from childhood, as adopted son or slave. an-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to bring up, as bought child. tsng-sōe an-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. iú<sup>n</sup> chit-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> lâi-chiú, to adopt a son, as a widow sometimes does.

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. ióng, to feed, = col. iú<sup>n</sup>]. káng-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to worship by offerings. kúi<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

iú<sup>n</sup> [R. iông, = col. í<sup>n</sup>], a form; pattern; model; manner; example; a shoot from a tree; a prolongation of last year's growth. hoat-iú<sup>n</sup>, to bud at the end of a shoot; to begin to prosper. puh-iú<sup>n</sup>, to bud at end of shoot. ng-moá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, sprouts of hemp, used as a vegetable.

iú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, form; manner; appearance. bê-iú<sup>n</sup>, pattern; example; manner. tsng-bê tsòe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to make a false pretence. tsòe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to make an unsubstantial and brief show of good, &c. tiu<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to feign a false appearance (v. tiú<sup>n</sup>).

tsái<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, how (v. tsái<sup>n</sup>). tsoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tsú<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

thàn-iú<sup>n</sup>, to follow the pattern or example. khoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to look at the pattern; to follow the pattern; to copy. sa<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, to copy one another. tái-ke sa<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, all copying each other. chiàu-iú<sup>n</sup>, according to the pattern. ka-iú<sup>n</sup>, to cut out a pattern with scissors. ka-ōe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to cut the shoe-pattern, as the betrothed daughter-in-law does at betrothal, and gives to her future mother-in-law.

siàng-iú<sup>n</sup>, alike; of same form. tâng-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. tâng-chit-iú<sup>n</sup>, of same form; of same sort; alike. chit-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. it-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. chit-poa<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, all the same; in the same manner. pi<sup>n</sup>-poa<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, id.

koh-iú<sup>n</sup>, different; unlike; strange; unwell. nng-iú<sup>n</sup>, two sorts; different. kí-iú<sup>n</sup>, formed curiously or different from what is usual (generally better). khá-iú<sup>n</sup>, finely made. sin-iú<sup>n</sup>, of a new shape, as better because more fashionable, &c. chiá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, good or good-looking, as person or thing; correctly formed. hó-iú<sup>n</sup>, of good behaviour. pi<sup>n</sup> hó-iú<sup>n</sup>, to reform one's habits; to change for the better, as man. sió-iú<sup>n</sup>, rather mean in actions. kúi-iú<sup>n</sup>, how many sorts or kinds? kúi-iú<sup>n</sup>, very ugly or wicked (lit. like a demon). lāng-iú<sup>n</sup>, form of a man. m-chiá<sup>n</sup> lāng-iú<sup>n</sup>, not good-looking, as man.

楊

陽洋

瘍

鎔

庸

養

養樣

J.

In some words sounded very like l, or interchanged with it. Sometimes, especially when nasal, very like n. Sometimes, as in the syllables ji, jiau, the forms that are nasal and not nasal are interchanged, for which reason I have in such cases mixed them instead of separating them as usual.

In the tones of the lower series, j is sometimes heard like dz, especially in Cn. T. before o and u, e.g. dzoáh, dzü, for joáh, jü.

jê (C. jôe), to rub with the hand, as in washing; to crush by turning the foot, as a worm. jê-sí, to crush to death, as by turning the foot or by the hand. jê bák-chiu, to rub the eyes. jê-sa<sup>n</sup>, to rub clothes in washing. jê-tám, to wet by rubbing, as clothes in washing. jê-ta, to rub dry, as with hand or foot.

jek (P. in some places), = C. jioek, = A. jip, to pursue; to overtake.

jek (P.), = A. chek, to squeeze out, as matter from a wound.

jék (P.), = A. jiök, to work up, as clay.

jêng [R. formerly]. jêng-kiü (R.), as formerly.

jêng (P.), = A. jiông, the quick of the nail, &c.

ji — bâ-jí-tek, a fine sort of bamboo (v. tek).

ji [R. and, but]. sam put-ji-sí, occasionally. ke put-ji-chiong, no alternative; no other resource. put-ji-kò (esp. C. T., rare in A.), only. tsü-jiên ji-jiên (R.), self-existing.

ji-kim (r.), now; at present. ji-âu (C.), afterwards. ji-bóe (C.), at last.

ji [R. a child, a son; an affix to nouns, like col. á]. sia-ji-á, a very little quantity. thih-bâ-ji, a sort of iron anchor with three prongs.

hâi-ji-á, small toy figures of men (v. hái). hâi-ji-tê, cutch or catechu; terra japonica. ji-tê, id. tê-ji (C.), a drug like a bit of child's flesh (said to spring from the ground, and to be found when ploughing!).

kán-ji, a female slave. hui tông-ji-hi, this is no child's play; it is a serious matter. pó-ji, you whore-son! (said in vile scolding).

siáu-ji, my little boy. lâm-ji, a male person (v. lâm). lú-ji, a female child; a daughter. eng-ji (R.), an infant. hûi-ji-oân, pills for making children fat. ji-khe, doctor who gives himself to children's diseases.

ji-sun, posterity. ji-sun boán-gán, numerous posterity seen before death. kiá<sup>n</sup>-ji, children; sons; sons and daughters. kiá<sup>n</sup>-ji sim-pü, sons, daughters, and daughters-in-law. kiá<sup>n</sup>-ji chit-toá-koah, an immense family. hâi-kiá<sup>n</sup> hâi-ji, to injure one's children, as ill-behaved parent.

iông-ji thâi-ló: chek-kok hông-ki, bring up children to take care of us in old age; store up corn against famine. liông seng liông-tsü, hé chhut pà-ji, dragons and tigers produce their like; superior men have superior children.

ji (C.), = A. jü, a surname.

ji (C.), = A. jü, as.

ji (C.), = A. jü, tangled.

ji (C.), = A. jü, the class of literati.

ji (T.) lê-ji, = A. lê-chí, the cormorant.

ji (C.), = A. jú, milk.

ji [R. tsü, a lord]. bók-ji (C.), = bók-chí, = A. bók-tsü, ancestral tablets.

ji [R. tsü, a son; a piece in a game, = col. chí]. thê-ji, small, flat, rounded bits of tile (used by children in games). ji-á, id. thê-ji-á, id. tok ji-á, to make them. khó ji-á, to play by throwing them. chiáh ji-á, a game played with five bits of tile, one larger (bü, the mother), held in the hand, and the four others (kiá<sup>n</sup>), smaller, thrown up in the air.

é-pêh-ji (= chí), a sort of chess which has 32 men on each side. khók-ji, small globular bits of stone or tile like marbles (used in children's play) (v. khók).

ji<sup>n</sup> [R. tsü, a son, = col. chí, jí]. tô-ji<sup>n</sup>, = tô chí, weights for scales.

ji<sup>n</sup> [R. = ní<sup>n</sup>, thou; you, = col. lí]. kap-lí bô-ji<sup>n</sup>-ngé, I will be quite open, honest, and truthful with you (v. ngé).

ji<sup>n</sup> (R.), = ní<sup>n</sup>, the ear (v. ní<sup>n</sup>).

ji [R. two; second]. tê-ji, the second. tôe-ji, id. ki-ji (R.), id. bé-ji--ê, the second last (v. bé). ji-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the forefinger. ji-chhoá, widower marrying again. ji-chhut--ê, a woman married the second time. ji-hun-chhin, marriage when the bride has been married before, as widow or sold or divorced wife. tsòe ji-hun-chhin, to marry such a woman. chiáh ji-chheng, to smoke the refuse of opium made up a second time.

ji-pí, the two parties in a dispute. ji-kâu, that one of the dice that has two dots. ji-sim, double-minded. ü-ji-sim, id.

bô-ji, having no peer or equal (s. word). chi-toá bô-ji, the greatest of all; having none equal. chhin-chhiü<sup>n</sup>, kâu bô-ji, exceedingly like.

ji-kui, how many above twenty? which day of the last decade of the month? ji-tsáp, twenty; the 20th of the month. ji-tsáp-it, twenty-one. ji-it, id.; the 21st of the month. ji-káu, twenty-nine; the 29th of the month (v. káu). it-ji-tsáp-ê, near twenty. ji-pah, two hundred. tsáp-ji, twelve. jih-ji, twenty-two; the 22d. tsáp-poeh jih-ji, from 18th to 22d year (blooming period of youth). ji-poeh, twenty-eight. si-si, tsáp-lák: ji-poeh, iáh-si tsáp-lák, four times four make sixteen: so also twice eight; it is just the same any way you take it.

ka-ji-thàn, to gain twenty per cent. (v. ka). ji-pat-thiu, to take twenty per cent. commission (v. pat).

ji [R. id., = jü], a word; a character; a style of writing; a document; one point of the Chinese compass.

miá<sup>n</sup>-ji, a name. bô-miá<sup>n</sup>-ji, name not in the books or documents. ji-ün, the special characters used in families for indicating degrees of relationship (v. ün). ji-hô, a character or phrase used as a mark or sign.

chit-ji, one word or character; one point of the Chinese compass; one twenty-fourth of the circumference = 15 degrees. poá<sup>n</sup>-ji, half a point of the Chinese compass = 7½ degrees. bô-poá<sup>n</sup>-ji, not even half a word; not a bit of a word. teh sang-ji (T.), = A. sang-chhiò; both evens, in tossing cash.

ji-ün, one's fate or fortune, good or bad (v. ün). poeh-ji, the eight words of a man's horoscope: year, month, day, and hour of birth (v. poeh). ji-sè, mode of using words for fortune-telling (v. sè).

子

子
爾
你
耳 二
貳

字

摧

仍
而

兒

jī-péh, a placard or hand-bill pasted up as a notice or advertisement, &c. jī-thâu-á, an open note, chit, or memorandum. iok-jī, a written agreement or bond for any purpose. thai-jī, a document assigning a vessel or property as security for a loan (v. thai). bōe-jī, a deed of sale. liên-jī, ornamental scrolls with sentences.

ū-jī, to have a character, as a spoken word that can be written down; to have it on black and white, as a statement or evidence; to have a document. bō-jī, to have no document or documentary evidence; to have no equivalent character, as some colloquial words. bō-jī-ōe, empty talk that cannot be depended on. bō-jī-bō-bák, destitute of written proof (v. bák, "ink"). siū "kàu-lóng-bō-jī", cannot think out any plan; find it impracticable. siū--khì, ū-jī á-bō, have you thought out a plan.

jī-gán, a literary phrase. jī-bák chhim, good at reading and writing (v. hák, "the eye"). káu jī-sái, full of tautology and redundant words, as a composition. jī-bú, a radical of a character; a letter of the alphabet. jī-pêng, the phonetic or formative half of a character. khoà "jī-pêng chiū-íoh", to guess the sound from looking at the phonetic half. íoh jī-pêng, id. jī-thé, form of a word, as written ill or well. jī-kut, id. bō-jī-kut, not neatly written, as to the minute elegance of the strokes. pak jī-kut, to examine minutely the meaning of a difficult character. pok jī-kut, id. gâu-pok jī-kut, fond of examining things too minutely and always finding fault. bō-jī-hoat, ill-written, the parts quite ill-proportioned and worse than "bō-jī-kut." bō-jī-tin, words not written in proper line, or not of equal size. jī-tin m-hó, id. jī-úih, strokes in characters, as regards the form of writing. jī-úih nng, characters too slim in form. jī-úi, words and pictures, as on fans, scrolls, &c. jī sū jin-hêng, a man's writing is similar to his bodily form.

chiá-jī, the mandarin dialect; the reading sound of characters. péh-jī, words written in a colloquial style. tng-jī, Chinese characters. hán-jī, id. boán-jī, Manchoo characters. hoan-jī, foreign characters. khái-jī, the common square form of characters used in books. sòng-thé-jī, the form (nearly the same) used in the Sung dynasty. thoàn-jī, the seal character. chhó-jī, current hand. sōe-jī, small characters (s. careful). toā-jī, large characters. bé-jī, the last word (s. second). thiap-jī, characters written in the style of copy slips. tiáp-jī, to repeat a word, as in poetry; to write two words in a space where there should only be one.

siá-jī, to write characters; to write. liên-jī, to practise writing. chhiah-jī, to brand with characters. tsām-jī, to stamp characters, as on metal (v. tsām). lòh-jī, to omit a word by mistake in writing (v. lòh). khoà-jī, to read or look at characters silently; to examine writing. tiá-jī, to examine a scholar's writing, correcting what is bad. sūi-jī thák, to read aloud, pronouncing each word separately. chiàu-jī thák-jī, to conform strictly to the terms of a written agreement. bat-jī, to be able to read. m-bat-jī, unable to read. jī m-bat-goá, do., said in joke. pé-tsoá, siá e-jī: i bat-goá, goá-m-bat i, black words on white paper: they may know me, but I don't know them!

thap-jī, words cut sunk, as on a block or slah; if on a block, they print white on a black ground. im-jī, id. koah im-jī, to cut blocks with sunken characters. im-ióng-jī, black and white characters on the same block or page, as sometimes done in commentaries or dictionaries. ióng-jī, the usual style of characters cut in relief.

jī-tién, a dictionary. jī-lūi, a vocabulary. jī-phō, a copy-book. jī-keh, ruled paper for writing on, or copy to be traced. jī-tsoá, written or printed paper. jī-tsoá-láng, basket for collecting it. jī-tsoá-lê, furnace for burning it. sàng jī-tsoá, solemnly carry the ashes, and commit them to the water. kèng jī-tsoá, to reverence paper with characters on it. jī-tsoá-tèng, a large well-huilt furnace (with ornamental top) for burning it. kèng-jī-tèng, id.

sip-jī-kè, a cross (v. sip). it-jī-bái, eyebrows in a straight line (v. it). sòe-jī-kí, a general's flag with the word "sòe" on it. jin-jī-chiam, an ordinary roof, not flat (v. jin). bùn-jī-khak, the 169th radical (v. khak). kong-jī, bō chhut-thâu, the word "labourer" does not put out its head (v. kong).

sa-jī-tsng, all the three words in their full meaning; said in various phrases, e.g. si khè jī, sa-jī-tsng, good at poetry, essays, and writing. hok lók siū, sa-jī-tsng, having good fortune, rank, wealth, and longevity.

jī — giá-lan-jī, a wood like rose-wood, used for anchors. ka-lan-jī, id.

jī [R. hí, rice]. chhó-jī-táu, a rice measure about one-fifth larger than the usual measure.

jī [R. fat]. iū-jī, fat, as edible. jī-nng, the layer of fat between the skin and the flesh, as in a pig (v. nng).

jī — sòe-jī, careful; take care (s. word). sè-jī (C.), id.

jī (R. id.), a bait for fishing. hi-jī, id. chiáh-jī, to take the bait. péh-hí-jī, the long flat fish "péh-hí" cut up into bits for bait.

jī (C.), = A. jū (R.), to order; to explain. pí-jī, a comparison.

jī (C.), = A. jū (R.), abundant; affluent.

jia [R. chia, which is also col.], to cover or shelter from. jia-khám, to cover up; to conceal. jia-iám, to screen, shelter, or hide. jia-tsáh, to ward off; to intercept, as a view. jia-keh, to ward off blows, as shield. jia-moá, to deceive by concealing. jia-pè, to cover or overshadow hurtfully; to hecloud, as the mind.

jia-àm, to overshadow and darken, as clouds, buildings, &c. jia-jit, to shelter from the sun. jia-hē, to shelter from rain. jia-hong, to shelter from the wind; the panelling at the end of a hed. jia-hong-té, that panelling. jia-hong-pang, id.

moá-jia, the sloping roof of an open shed or verandah. jia-iú, the additional projecting roof at front of shop.

jiá (R. id.), to excite and draw upon one's self, as calamity or anger. jiá siū-khì, to draw another's anger upon oneself. jiá-sū, to bring trouble on one's self. jiá-ē, to bring calamity on one's self.

jiá — oát-jiá, still more; all the more (v. oát).

jiá — jin-jiá, affable, good-tempered, polite, gentle, and modest; amiable; said of women and young persons.

jiá (R. ip, = col. hiá). chhiú-jia, to make a bow; to bow.

jiah (R. chek, = col. chiah), a trace; a scar or mark left by a wound, tumour, &c. kha-jiah, a footstep. kha-jiah-tóe, sole of the foot. siá-jiah, manifesta-

積字贖

餌

遮

惹

揖

tions of power and efficacy by an idol. sin-jiah (X.), a miracle.

冉染

jiak (C.), = A. jiok, weak.

jiám (R. id.), a surname.

jiám [R. to dye, to taint, to pollute, to be infested, = col. ní<sup>n</sup>]. jiám-sek, to paint in colours, as above a black and white sketch, or on a white ground. tsong-jiám, id. gâu tsong-jiám, good at painting so; also (Cn.), fond of talking in a false or exaggerated way, or putting on a false appearance.

jiám-tióh-hân, have got a bad cold or fever from getting wet. jiám-tióh-pi<sup>n</sup>, to get unwell. jiám-tióh sí-khi-chèng, to take an infection or epidemic. m-thang jiám--tióh, don't get polluted, as by some wicked course of life.

jián, better, jièn (q.v.)

jiáng (C.), = A. jióng, to bawl or shout loud. jiáng-ké, = A. chéng-ké, to make a loud noise with gongs, &c., at the beginning of a play.

冗

jiáng [R. jióng, in confusion, = col. chháng, chhiáng]. jū-jiáng-jiáng, all in confusion (Cn. jióng). Also, jiáng (C.), = A. jióng, in confusion.

廿

jiáp (= jī-tsáp), twenty. it-jiáp, near twenty. jiáp-jī, twenty-two (&c.)

燒 jiat, jiát, better; jiet, jiét (q.v.) jiáu — jiáu-sa (r.), sal-ammoniac.

皺

jiáu (R. jiáu, = col. jiáu<sup>n</sup>, jiàu<sup>n</sup>), wrinkled; crumpled. phah-jiáu, to crumple. áu-jiáu, id. bong-jiáu, to crumple by touching. bín-jiáu, face wrinkled. jiáu-bín-phê, id. bín-iu bín-jiáu, face sad and wrinkled with sorrow or anxiety. khiau-khiau-jiáu-jiáu, crooked, as a piece of wood, &c.

jiáu-pièn, the cracked appearance of the surface of fine old china. jiáu-hûn, marks of crumpling.

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (= jiáu<sup>n</sup>), crumpled; wrinkled.

饒

jiáu [R. abundance; to pardon], to spare, as life. jiáu-miá<sup>n</sup>, to spare life. jiáu sí<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. jiáu-bêng, id. jiáu-sù (R.), to forgive, as a superior does.

jiáu-jū, have great abundance of wealth.

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (C. tsáu, T. lèk). jiáu<sup>n</sup>-súi, the ornamental brackets and rim below the edge of a Chinese table. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-súi-teng, small iron nails, such as are used for nailing it on; used also for other purposes.

爪

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (R. jiáu), (Cn. niáu<sup>n</sup>), claws. kha-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, claws. chhiú-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, finger-nails. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, to pilfer; a thief.

eng-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-hoe, a strong-scented green flower, like eagles' claws. kôe-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-chhiú (T.), fingers drawn together, as in severe illness, or near death (like hen's claws). kôe-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-kha (T.), toes drawn together in like manner.

jiáu (= jiáu<sup>n</sup>), claws.

擾

jiáu (R. id.), (Cn. niáu<sup>n</sup>). jiáu-loân, disturbance; turmoil; riot; confusion and uproar. teh-jiáu, to be in an excited and disturbed state, as the people of a place. kiáu-jiáu, to make disturbance; to annoy, as by noise or turmoil, or by constant coming. chhò-jiáu, to cause trouble, expense, or anxiety to another. jiáu-hái (r.), to cause confusion and injury, as unruly people.

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (= jiáu<sup>n</sup>), id.

jiáu — jiáu-a, a large gong, used before mandarins and idols.

jiáu<sup>n</sup> — jiáu<sup>n</sup>-a, id

遶

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (= niáu<sup>n</sup>). jiáu<sup>n</sup>-ām, having a scar on the neck, as from a sore or wound.

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (R. jiáu, jiàu), to scratch; a scratch. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-soa, to scratch up the sand, as a dog. siáu-káu-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-soa (excited dog scratching the sand), said of idle bad fellows looking about where there are women. sán-káu-jiáu<sup>n</sup>-soa, id. sán-káu-jiáu<sup>n</sup>, id.

jiáu (= jiáu<sup>n</sup>), to scratch.

jiáu [R. wrinkled; some read "chhiù"; = col. jiáu, jiáu<sup>n</sup>, jiàu<sup>n</sup>]. jiáu-se, crape. soà<sup>n</sup>-jiáu, silk camblet. jiáu-pê, a cotton stuff, wrinkled like crape, used for women's head-dresses. jiáu-kim, brass foil beaten thin and pasted on paper (so as to look crumpled) for idolatrous use. ε-jiáu-som, a rough sort of biche-dermer.

皺

jiáu<sup>n</sup> (= jiáu<sup>n</sup>). jiáu<sup>n</sup>-se, crape (&c.)

jièn [R. to light up; so; an adverbial particle]. pún-jièn, originally; naturally. tsū-jièn, naturally; certainly; self-existent (v. tsū). thien-jièn, naturally; certainly. kó-jièn, certainly; of course. ngó-gá-jièn - ngó-jiàn unexpectedly

然

kai-jièn, as it ought to be; according to what is right. liáu-jièn, understanding clearly; plainly understood. oán-jièn, alike; like as. tsám-jièn, exceedingly; very. tsūg-jièn, entirely. tsoán-jièn, id. hut-jièn, suddenly. tút-jièn, id. giám-jiàn - all as

sui-jièn, although. ki-jièn, already; inasmuch as. kèng-jièn, yet after all. kiu-ki-jièn, on examining into the real state of the case. bók-koài-ki-jièn, no wonder it is so, for it is quite natural; there is no cause for displeasure. sé-i-jièn, the rationale or cause of an event or affair.

jièn-áu, = lién-áu, next; then; in immediate succession after that.

jièn-teng-hút, a Buddha much earlier than Amida Buddha, o-mí-tó-hút.

jiét (C.) jiét-á, = chién-á, the bookworm.

jiét [R. hot, feverish, ardent, crowded, = col. joáh], hot and feverish; having a heating tendency, as food or medicine; fever. sio-jiét, hot and feverish; feeling heated when violently scolded. sò-jiét, having a heating tendency, as some sorts of food. jiét-mih<sup>n</sup>, food that has a heating effect. jiét-ióh, heating medicine, for diseases that are counted "cold." jiét-chhá, a small bowl of fried meat (v. chhá).

熱

jiét-khi, the hot principle or humour in the constitution; feverish heat; inflammation. léng-jiét, the cold and hot principles. léng-jiét put-hó, the cold and hot principles not duly tempered; a sort of disease; climate not good. hông-hông-jiét, very great heat, as of fire or of disease; violent fever or inflammation. jiét-hông-hông, very hot. iám-jiét, scorching hot, as sultry day. thi<sup>n</sup>-khi iám-jiét, weather dreadfully hot.

jiét-chèng, fever. jiét-chèng-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. jiét-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. hoat-jiét, to become fevered or feverish. thè-jiét, to remove fever or inflammation, as medicine. jiét thè, the fever abated or gone. jiét-kóng, delirium in fever. hu-jiét, typhus and typhoid fevers. koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét, fever and ague. phah-koá<sup>n</sup> phah-jiét, to have fever and ague fits. koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét-tsūn, the periodical fit of fever and ague. koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét-kúi, an irresolute fellow who will neither say yes nor no. koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét-ióh, medicine for fever and ague; esp. quinine. jiét-kat-á, small boils.

jiét-kún-kún, very numerous, as a crowd; very desirous of a thing, as pleasure or amusement, or as soldiers for battle; very hot and fevered in illness.

jiét-chhau-chhau (Cn.), very crowded, as men. lāu-jiét, crowded; a great gathering, large party, or assemblage. lāu-jiét chhi-chha, extremely so. lāu-jiét chhih-chhih, id.

jiét-sim, earnest; diligent; keen about it; hearty or zealous. jiét-chhe-chhe, very desirous of anything. chhin-jiét, intimate and warm in friendship. ta<sup>n</sup>-láng khah-jiét tsng-toà<sup>n</sup>, the bearers of the actors' baggage more keen about it than the actors (said of parties not concerned taking more interest in a matter than the principals).

jih [=ji-tsáp, =jiáp, twenty]. jih--nih<sup>n</sup>, in the last decade of the month, from the 20th onwards. chhut-jih--nih<sup>n</sup>, id. jih-it, the 21st of month. jih-jī, the 22d (v. jī), (&c.)

jih (cf. chhih), to crush; to squeeze down; to break by crushing; to squash. jih-pí<sup>n</sup>, to crush flat. jih-tiáu, to strangle one's self; to hang one's self. jih-tiám, to press down in water or brine (v. tiám). jih-lóh-khì, to crush or squeeze down. jih-khím, to play a piano, harmonium, concertina, &c. jih-hoa-hé, to crush out fire. beh-phah beh-jih, striking a man, and squeezing his neck, or going to do so; quarrelsome.

at-jih, to urge a party to come to an arrangement, as mutual friend trying to settle a quarrel; to get proceedings stopped or stayed by giving money to underlings. kióng-kióng-jih, to urge an unwilling man. ah-jih, id. khít-kúi-jih, to have a sort of nightmare. khít-kúi jih--lòh-khì, to have a sudden fainting feeling, so as to fall down, as a man in weak health (supposed to be done by a demon!); to do most unaccountably something which we well know to be very dangerous.

jim (R. id.), one of the cyclical characters; often used in men's names.

jim [R. id., by change of tone from "jim," office, to bear], a surname.

jim [R. sim, to search for, = col. chím, chím], (C. T. chím), to feel for things, as in pocket, pouch, or dark hole. chím-bô-chí<sup>n</sup>, to feel in one's pocket and find no money.

jim [R. to endure; to bear; cruel, = col. lún]. jim-siū, to endure patiently. jim-ki siū-ngê, to endure hunger patiently and willingly. jim-khì kiū-tsái, to control one's anger so as to get wealth. jim-khì thun-seng, to repress emotion and voice, as before superior (v. thun). jim-nāi<sup>n</sup> (R.), to bear patiently. put-jim, cannot bear to —; dislike to do —. bôe-jim--tit, cannot bear. hām-jim, to bear with an offender for a time, because it would be troublesome or dangerous to punish or quarrel with him now.

tsân-jim, cruel. jim-sim (r.), cruel heart. jim-sim hāi-lí (r.), cruelty outrages Heaven's rules.

jim (R. sim), (T. chím), a word entering into the names of many places, where navigation by junks ends, e.g. chióh-jim, the harbour of Táng-oa<sup>n</sup>. koa<sup>n</sup>-jim, one near Táng-oa<sup>n</sup>, and one above Pechuia.

jim [R. office; to entrust with]. sin-jim, to trust and employ confidentially, without minutely examining what he does. jim-i (r.), to do as one pleases. jim-m-khí, I have not the ability for such an office. jim-bôe-khí, id.

chek-jim, responsibility, as in care of an affair. chit-jim, office. chit-jim, one term of office, for three years. lién-jim, to continue in office after the first term has ended. goân-jim, id. liū-jim, to make petition to have the mandarin remain so (as people sometimes do). kek-chit liū-jim, to degrade from rank or office, yet leaving temporarily in the office. kek-jim, to put out of office. kái-jim, to remove an official from one office to another, because of some small fault making him unsuitable where he was. li-jim, to go out of office. sià-jim, to hand over one's office fully to successor. chiap-jim, to succeed to office. chiū<sup>n</sup>-jim, to enter on office. tò-jim, to arrive at seat of office, as new mandarin. sin-koa<sup>n</sup> tò-jim, id. sit-jim, really having the office, not merely titular or temporary. sūi-jim, wife and family (sometimes also mother) of mandarin following him to his seat of office. hō-jim, to make presents to a newly arrived mandarin.

jim-sé, official place or position, as regards emolument. hó jim-sé, a profitable office. phá<sup>n</sup> jim-sé, an office where there is not much money to be made. jim-lāi, during his term of office. hāu jim-khoeh (C.), waiting for a vacant office to take.

jin [R. a man; another man; a person (either male or female), = col. lāng]. jin-büt, distinguished men, as belonging to a place (v. büt). jin-phín, behaviour; conduct. jin-tsái, air; mien; dignified manner (v. tsái). ti jin-sū, come to the years of discretion (v. sū). jin-sū, a small present as a reward (v. sū).

jin-chêng, kindness; favour (v. chêng). ùi-jin lân, it is difficult to act kindly and pleasantly to every one. jin-tsú (R.), a man's son; (X. Son of man). ùi jin-tsú, to act as a son. ùi jin-tsú, put-khó put-ti-i, every one should know something of medicine.

jin-lún, the human relationships. jin-ke, a family. jin-ien chiu-bit, population thick. jin-teng, male members of a family; male inhabitants. jin-bêng, a human life (v. bêng). jin-tê líong-sé, place and people both strange to us. bān-jin-soà<sup>n</sup>, an honorary umbrella given to a good mandarin by the people on his leaving.

jin-tiong, the hollow in the middle of the upper lip just below the nose (v. tiong). jin-som, gin-seng. jin-sim (T.), id.

jin-sim put-chiok, the human heart never knows satiety. bôe jin-sim, craftily gain the hearts of people. tông jin-sim, to excite desire, as wealth, &c. (v. tông). thien ko, bí-si ko; jin-sim, tsat-tsai ko, Heaven, though high, yet is not high; it is man's heart that always aims higher.

thien-tê-jin, heaven, earth, and man. sun-chin-jin, a god of medicine, of surname Sun. ngê-chin-jin, = tai-tō-kong, a god of medicine, surname Ngê (Woo). kim-kah sin-jin, sort of angels sent by Yuh-hwang (v. sin).

jin-jī-chiam, an ordinary roof, not flat; a gable roof. jin-jī-kè, the couples of a gable roof. jin-jī-thong, the great horizontal beam of a couple. jin-jī-tú, the smaller horizontal beam of a couple.

tāi-jin, an image made to ward off evil (v. tai, "instead of"). tai-jin, a high mandarin (v. tai "great"). siōng-jin, superior mandarins (said by inferior mandarins). kú-jin, a graduate of the second degree, like M. A. sèng-jin, a canonized sage or saint. sien-jin, deceased ancestors; the ancients. jin-sin, a minister of state. jin-kun, a sovereign. sià-jin, a man whose father or elder relative is a mandarin or high graduate.

hū-jin-lāng, a woman (v. hū). hu-jin, wife of a high mandarin; title of some idols (v. hu). an-jin, wife of lower mandarins and wealthy men. bí-jin, a beautiful woman. ka-jin (R.), a beautiful woman

卅

壬任尋忍

得

任

(v. ka, "beautiful"). ka-jìn, a household slave (v. ka, "a household").

siáu-jìn, a worthless fellow (v. siáu, "small"). siáu-jìn, ashamed (v. siáu, "ashamed"). hòe-jìn, a useless fellow, e.g. maimed or crippled; a worthless man, e.g. lazy or wicked. kong-jìn, an arbiter (without power like our arbiters). un-jìn, a benefactor. siū-jìn, an enemy. tsòe-jìn (r.), a criminal (v. tsòe).

hài-jìn lī-kí, to injure others to benefit one's self (v. kí). tsòe kàu-khì-jìn, drawing down people's deserved hatred (v. khì).

jìn (R. id.), benevolence; love; a kernel; yolk of egg; ball of eye, &c.

jìn-ài, benevolence; love of kindness; affectionate; kind. jìn-tek, benevolence; kindness; affection. jìn-tsū, affection of parents or superiors. jìn-gī, lé tì-sin, the five cardinal virtues. put-jìn, unfeeling; cruel. jìn-jiá, polite; affable (said of young folks).

chím-jìn, roe of crab. chhìh-jìn, eggs or roe in a craw-fish.

koe-nng-jìn, yolk of hen's egg. nng-jìn, yolk of egg. ah-nng-jìn, yolk of duck's egg.

bák-chiu-jìn, the ball of the eye. bák-chiu pèh-jìn, white of the eye. pèh-jìn, id. bák-chiu ɛ-jìn, the iris. ɛ-jìn, id. ang-á-jìn, the pupil. bák-chiu ang-á-jìn, id.

hēng-jìn, almonds; almond kernels. sa-jìn, a medicinal fruit like almonds (v. sa). hút-thò-jìn, walnut kernels. moá-jìn, hemp-seed. hu-jìn-lí, a sort of plum.

bák-kiá-jìn, the glasses of spectacles. pó-jìn, dice used in gambling with the "pó-táu."

chhiah-jìn-thò, a reddish clay used for building. jìn--ê (T.), very good large, clear, bright cash.

jìn (R. id.) i-jìn, seeds of water-lily.

jìn [R. gún, C. gín, silver]. chhùi-khí-jìn, the gums. ká chhùi-khí-jìn, to gnash one's teeth in anger. chhun hit--ê khí-jìn, nothing left but his gums (said of old toothless man).

jìn [R. gún, C. gín, silver]. pèh-jìn-hiu (C.), = pèh-gín-ngiu, an evergreen shrub with red berries (v. hiu).

jìn (R. id.), to confess; to recognize; to acknowledge. séng-jìn, to confess or acknowledge. sa-jìn, to recognize one another. jìn-khoá, to recognize by looking at. kì-jìn, a mark for recognition, as a scar or other indelible mark on the body. jìn-chhìn, to recognize relations; to treat relations as such.

jìn-chin, diligent in one's duty; doing one's duty or work diligently. jìn-chit, id. jìn-lē, id. bô-jìn-hūn, not keeping his place, as inferior who tries to rule or obstruct, or who is too uppish.

tam-jìn, to take the responsibility for; to stand security for. pó-jìn, id. pó-jìn-lâng, man who stands security. sin-jìn, to give verbal security to some small extent for a man whom we recommend. jìn-tiēn, to go security for a man renting house or land. jìn-tūi (Cn.), id.

chhut-mâg, m-jìn hē, will not take back goods after they are out of the shop.

chiau-jìn, to make confession in court. láu-sit-jìn, to confess truly, as a fault. jìn-tsòe, to confess guilt. jìn-keng, to make a statement before a mandarin, as in answering his questions. jìn m-tiòh, to confess being in the wrong. jìn-hók, to confess being excelled or beaten (v. hók). jìn-chhò, to confess a fault or mistake.

jiō (R. jiāu), urine. khēng-jiō, slight rain after the appearance of a rainbow. chheng-jiō, pure urine. chhō-jiō, urine mixed with dung. jiō-tháng, a bucket for urine. jiō-ké, a chamber-pot. jiō-ê, id. jiō-pih, a finer sort of do.

pàng-jiō, to make water. tsòe-jìō, do. in a large stream. chhoā-jiō, to pass urine involuntarily, as children, &c. chhoā-jiō-bāng, an empty bascleless dream. siām-jiō, to make water in small quantities, with difficulty. si-jiō, to induce an infant to make water. tì-jìō, to make a great effort to pass urine. lún-jiō, to keep in urine too long.

jiòh (R. jiòk). jiòh-jiòh, weak and exhausted, as by work, walking, or wounds; soft and wanting in stiffness, as a dress that has lost its starch or was not starched sufficiently; all crumpled and breaking into shreds, as paper.

jiok (C.), = A. jip, to pursue.

jiok [R. to insult]. lêng-jiok, to insult; to abuse (generally including bad treatment). jiok-bók, to insult; to treat with contempt; to abuse a person. pê-jiok, to insult by abusive language. pō-jiok (T.), id. chhá-jiok, to make a disturbance, scolding and insulting. áu-jiok, to beat and insult. jiok-mē, to insult and scold violently. tsū-chhū-jiok, to bring insult or disgrace on one's self by one's own folly, as by meddling in other people's matters, or going where we are sure to be insulted.

jiok (R. id.), (Cn. gèk), a mattress; a pillow or cushion; a rug for sitting on. jiok-á, id. i-jiok, a light cushion for back and seat of a chair. i-jiok-tiām, thick cushion for seat, and thinner one for seat and back. kiō-jiok, sedan cushion. chhng-jiok, long cushion or mattress for couch or bed. phe-jiok, coverlet and mattress. hé-phe-jiok, tiger's skin used for a seat for idols and first-class mandarins.

jiok (cf. chhék), (P. jék), to work up and mould in the hands, as clay; to crumple up, as paper. jiok tsòe-chit-bê, to work up into a lump, as clay or dough. jiok tsòe-chit-tui, to crumple up, as paper.

jiok (T. Cn.), = A. chhiok, slushy, damp, as roads.

jiok [R. flesh, = col. hék]. jiok-sin, the body. kut-jiok chi-chhin, near relations by blood. chhin-kut-jiok, son or brother by birth, not by adoption.

liēn-jiok, white lobes of water-lily seed. oán-chi-jiok, the plant called "oán-chi" after the fibres have been pulled out.

jiok-kùi, cinnamon (v. kùi). jiok-khè, nutmeg (v. khè).

jiok [R. weak, = col. jiòh, chiá<sup>n</sup>]. loán-jiok, weak; feeble, as in body or in influence. soe-jiok, feeble; debilitated. nē-jìok, spiritless and lazy; without energy. ló-jiok-peng, the old and the feeble among the soldiers. jiū-jiok (R.), too weak, gentle, and yielding in disposition. jiok-pāng, a division of a large family or clan, that is smaller or has less power than another division. kiōng-jiok, the strong and the weak (= béng-lám), esp. as to power or influence. kiōng khi-jiok, the strong oppress the weak. kiōng-pāng khi-hū jiok-pāng, the more powerful branch of a clan oppressing the weaker branch.

jiōng [R. plants growing luxuriantly; sort of deer's horns], (P. jēng), the quick of a nail; sort of deer's horns. tsng-kah-jiōng, the quick of the nail. jip-jiōng, to hurt the quick. tsng-kah jip-jiōng, the nail broken or cracked so as to hurt the quick. chhiah kàu-jip-jiōng (T.), miserably poor.

溺尿

弱

辱

褥毯

肉

弱

茸

仁

仁
齷
銀
認

lók-jiông, young horns of stag covered with a soft down. lók-kak-jiông, id.; it is cut down small and used as an invigorating medicine. khi-jiông, a somewhat inferior sort. iú-jiông, do. from abroad. chién-jiông, to buy these stag horns, to use as medicine (s. velvet).

jiông (R. id.), silk velvet; floss silk; minced very small, as meat; stewed very soft. jiông-jiông-jiông, minced very small. phah kàu jiông-jiông, to heat (a man) to a jelly.

hái-jiông, a sponge. moá-jiông, sort of oakum made from old sacks and ropes.

kim-jiông, a native cotton stuff, fine, soft, and strong. kim-jiông-pè, id. hoe-jiông, flowered velvet. hòe-jiông, a thin velvety stuff; velvetten, or thin fustian.

jiông-soá<sup>n</sup>, velvet thread. jiông-niá<sup>n</sup>, a silk-velvet collar. jiông-chien, sort of hairy rug. jiông-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. jiông-thán, a rug or coverlet made with a long hairy nap.

tsóan-jiông, the mule-pink or sweet-william. chién-jiông, id. (s. previous word). chién-jiông-hoe, id.

jiông-koe, a small sort of fowl with fine white feathers, supposed to keep away white ants by its odour; a fowl stewed very soft. jiông-ah, a duck stewed very soft.

soán-jiông, pounded garlic. chhò-bah-jiông, to mince meat small.

jiông (R.), the tribes on the western frontier of China. se-jiông (R.), id.

jiông [R. confused, entangled, = col. chhiáng, jiáng], (C. jiáng). jû-jiông, perplexed in mind; all in confusion, as things.

jiông (R. id.), (C. jiáng), to bawl; to shout or cry loudly or riotously; to make a clamour. chhap-jiông, making a noise and confusion. chhá-jiông, to make a noise and disturbance. chháu-chháu-jiông, noisy hawling. hoá-hoá-jiông, id. kiù-kiù-jiông, id. kiauh-kiauh-jiông, make a row about a thing by loud and rude talk. jiông-náu<sup>n</sup>, to make a noise and disturbance. jiông-láu<sup>n</sup>, id.

jiông-chhát, to make a loud shouting after a thief. jiông kan-khé, to make loud noisy complaints about one's troubles.

jip (R. id.), (C. jiok, P. jek), to pursue; to chase. jip-tiòh, to overtake. jip-tsún, to chase a vessel. tui-jip, to pursue; to chase.

niáu-chhú-jip, sort of squib that jumps about. chhiá<sup>n</sup>, m-kiá<sup>n</sup>: tà phè-á-kun lâi-jip, would not accept when politely asked, but now runs after him with veiled head, eager to get it (fig. from bad woman); said of any sort of matter. âng-teng si-kiò, kng-m-kiá<sup>n</sup>: tà phè-á chiah-lâi-jip, id. (lit. with red lamps, and chair with four bearers, as at marriage).

jip (C.), (P. chip), to come forward and make claims on a property, as after some one has sold it.

jip (R. id.), to enter; to put in; to stuff in; to come in. òe-tit jip-thâu, able to make a favourable beginning. ũ jip-sit, truthful; honest (as man); correct and safe, as affair. kàu-jip-kiók, so as to be fit for the purpose intended, good or bad (v. kiók). jip-chêng jip-lí, according to correct principles. jip-tòe, answering well to the text or thesis. chhut-keng jip-tièn, according to classical style.

chhut-jip, to go out and in. chhut-chhut jip-jip, constantly going out and in. chhut-jip lâi-goá, said of an experienced man. chhut-si<sup>n</sup> jip-sí, exposing one's self to great danger. ũ-chhut bô-jip, having expenses, but no income. ũ-jip bô-chhut, miserly. chit-chhiú jip, chit-chhiú chhut, spending money just as we get it.

jip-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter an examination. jip-òh, to begin to go to school. jip-phoàn, to become a Sew-tsai. jip-hòe, to enter a society or association. jip-kàu, to enter the church. jip-ki, to become a Manchoo bannerman, as a Chinaman sometimes does. jip-báu, to get one's name put on the hooks of a mandarin's office, as if an employe, for protection (v. báu). jip-tsòe (R.), to marry, and go to live with the wife's parents for some time, yet keeping one's own surname (v. tsòe). jip-siông, to become prime minister.

jip-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be confiscated. jip-siáu, to receive part payment. jip-lái, to pay interest (v. lái, "interest"). jip-lái, to go inside (v. lái, "inside"). jip-gún, to get silver in exchange for cash; to pay money on account. chiong-chi<sup>n</sup> jip-gún, to get silver for cash. jip-chhiú, to be received, as money.

jip-iòh, to put in powder, as into a gun. jip-tsúi, to leak, as a boat; to put in water, as into a bottle or can. jip-hun, to fill a pipe, as with tobacco. jip-mí<sup>n</sup>, to put in a large quantity of cotton, as into a pillow.

jip-liáp, the grain well formed in the ear. jip-sún, to put a tenon into a mortice. jip si<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, to put the paper on the frame of a fan, as in making it.

jip-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter a formal written complaint or accusation in court.

jip-sim, to go to the heart. kám-siá jip-kut, exceedingly grateful (v. kut). jip-chhùi, to enter the mouth; to put in the mouth.

jip-sia<sup>n</sup>, the tone called "juh" or "jip;" the fourth tone, upper or lower, ending in p, t, k, or h. ê-jip, the lower jip tone. chiú-jip, the upper jip tone. téng-jip (C.), id.

jip-chhun, the beginning of spring, about 4th February. jip-hè, beginning of summer, about 5th or 6th of May. jip-chhiu, beginning of autumn, about 7th or 8th August. jip-tang, beginning of winter, about 7th November.

jit (R. id.), the sun; a day; daytime; (time), (weather). jit-chí, a day. phah-sng jit-chí, to waste one's days. jit-sin, a day as named by two cyclical characters, and in regard to good or had fortune (v. sin). toá-jit, a very auspicious day, when many persons get married, &c. toá-jit-sin, id.

jit-thâu, the sun; a day. jit-thâu-kong, the sun, as an object of worship. tng jit-thâu tî-teh, if what I say is false, may I die as this sun goes down! tè-jit-lòh, id. tng jit-thâu kóng-òe, to use that form of oath. jit-thâu té, the days are short, as in winter.

jit-khò, a card given by a fortune-teller telling the auspicious day for a marriage. jit-khòe (C.), id. sàng jit-thâu, to send that card by a go-between to the espoused bride. sàng-jit, id. thèh-jit, to go and get a lucky day from a fortune-teller. khòá-jit, to choose a lucky day (v. khòá). ték-jit-su, a man who chooses lucky days (v. su).

kóe-jit, to assign a different day from that first appointed. ân-jit, to appoint a fixed day, as in limiting an extension of time. ân-jit, day by day, as each day requires. kè-jit, to pass the day. jit-kè-jit, from day to day. oh kè-jit, hard to get a living. kòe kè-jit, easy to get a living. ke-chhiên-jit, to delay longer.

絨

戎
冗
讓

入

日

鯨

柔

疏若

執

轉

軟軟

餽

âng-thi<sup>n</sup> chhiah-jit-thâu, hot, rainless, cloudless sky. hó-hong-jit, fine weather (v. hong). chheng-thien pék-jit, bright sunny day; clear weather; in broad daylight, e.g. in speaking of a robbery; also, just and fair (said by a mandarin of himself in exhorting the people). pék-jit seng-thien, to ascend to heaven in clear daylight (said also of rapid and unexpected preference).

jit--sî, daytime. jit-tà<sup>n</sup>--sî, id. jit-mî<sup>n</sup>, day and night. mî<sup>n</sup>-jit, id. bô-khàng mî<sup>n</sup>-jit, day and night without any (long) intermission.

si<sup>n</sup>-jit, a birth-day (v. si<sup>n</sup>). lé-pài-jit, Sunday; Sabbath. bit-jit (R.), id. an-hioh-jit (X.), Sabbath. thien-siá-jit, four days (changed each year) which are counted very lucky. giâu-thien sùn-jit, the golden age of Yaou and Shun.

put-jit, not fixing what day; any day; soon. kún-jit, a near day, before or after. tsá-jit, formerly. tsá-jit, yesterday. tsá-bê-jit, id. tsóh--jit, day before yesterday. sùn--tsóh-jit (Cn.), the second day before yesterday. lóh--tsóh-jit (T.), id. chêng-jit, a former day. ê-jit, a later day, esp. four or five days after (v. ê). bîn-ná-jit, to-morrow. âu--jit, the day after to-morrow. lóh-âu--jit, the second day after to-morrow. âu-jit, a future day. jit-âu, on some future day; after to-day. jit-hiô (Cn.), id.

chiong-jit, the whole day. kui-jit, id. kúi-jit, how many days? jit-jit, day by day. jit-sit, daily food (v. sit). sí-jit, hours and days; time (v. sí). chit-chhùn-á-jit, a very few moments (v. chhùn). koh chit-chhioh ê-jit, after a very short time (v. chhioh). sa<sup>n</sup>-géh-jit, three months long. chit-géh-jit, one month's time. jit-géh, sun and moon; days and months. si<sup>n</sup>-sî jit-géh, the eight characters of a man's nativity. jit-géh chhui-pek, láng kôe-lâu, days and months press on, and man soon grows old. jit-goát, the two side-boards of a coffin; also (R.), sun and moon. jit-goát jû-so, kong-im sū-chièn, time is like a shuttle or an arrow. pàng jit-á-chî<sup>n</sup>, a very heavy sort of usury (v. pàng).

chhien-jit-hông, a sort of amaranth. jit-jit-chhun, a wild herbaceous plant with red tubular corolla (somewhat like periwinkle) that flowers all the year round.

jit-pún, Japan.

jit chhut, sunrise; the sun breaking out of clouds. chhut-jit, sun breaking out of clouds. jit khi<sup>n</sup>, the sun rising higher. jit chiū<sup>n</sup>, id. jit-chiū<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-ki tek-ko koái<sup>n</sup>, late in the morning when the sun is the height of three bamboo poles. jit tau, noon. jit tiong-tàu, id. jit tiong-kiá, sun at zenith. jit lóh, sunset. jit-lóh-sin, the double hour "sin" when the sun sets. jit-chhut-sin, the double hour "sin" when the sun rises. sit-jit, eclipse of the sun. jit-kng, sunlight. jit toá, the sun very hot. jit iám, the sun scorching hot. jit phû tî-hái-bin, sun just appearing on the sea, as in early morning.

jit-kui, a sun-dial. jit-ia<sup>n</sup>, shadow thrown by the sun; sun's image or brightness on water or in mirror, &c. (v. ia<sup>n</sup>). jit-hoe, a ray of sunlight through clouds, leaves, chink, &c. (v. hoe). jit si<sup>n</sup>-kha, rays streaming through clouds.

chiò-jit, to shine bright in the sunlight, as mirror or water (v. chiò). chioh-jit, to warm one's self at the fire. phá-k-jit, to dry in the sun. tsá<sup>n</sup>-jit, do. for a short time. thî<sup>n</sup>-jit, dazzled by sunlight.

jiú — koe-jiú, a tree like an elm, with small leaves and rough crooked branches. ke-jiú (C.), id.

jiú (R. id.) jiú-hí, a fish like the cuttle-fish, but boniless and better.

jiú (R. id.) un-jiú, gentle; meek; yielding; soft in disposition. un-jiú sióng-sè, gentle and cautious. un-jiú sióng-chè (Cn.), two parties each yielding a little so as to make up a quarrel. kong-jiú sióng-chè, firmness and gentleness well united; strictness and merciful consideration well tempered. poá<sup>n</sup>-kong-jiú, id. iu-jiú koá<sup>n</sup>-toàn, undecided in intentions or plans; purpose not fixed. jiú-jiók (R.), too yielding and gentle in disposition.

khah-jiú--chit-ê, omit one stroke in rowing. khah-jiú-chiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), give a stroke very gently in rowing. khah-jiú (C.), id.

jiú, to rub with a wet cloth (with more strength than "chhit"), as body, furniture, floor, &c. jiú thê-kha, to wipe the floor with a wet cloth.

jiú (R. liú). jiú-âng, sulphur.

joá [R. jiók, if, = col. loá, oá], how many? how much? (interrogative or interjection); so much! joá-tsôe, how many? ũ joá-tsôe, how many are there? there are a good many. bô-joá-tsôe, not very many. bô-joá, id. kàu-joá-tsôe, how many? sái joá-tsôe-tsūn, sail how far? joá-tsôe-lê, how far is the road? ke-kiá<sup>n</sup> joá-lê, walk so much or how much further. joá-lâng, how many men? khoa<sup>n</sup> joá-tsúí, look how much water there is.

beh-joá, how many or how much do you wish? beh-goá joá-túg joá-toá, how much money do you wish from me? joá-ia<sup>n</sup>, how much superior? kuoá<sup>n</sup>-lí joá-á-béng, we will see how brave (or powerful) you are. joá-kú, how long? so very long (time), &c.

joáh [R. jiét, but used in a somewhat different sense], hot, as weather; the hot season of summer; thin grass-cloth. pàng-joáh, to give holidays or vacation in the hottest part of summer. khah-joáh, further on in summer (said in beginning of summer); hotter, as weather.

sio-joáh, very hot, as weather. joáh-ták, sultry; oppressively hot. ut-joáh, sultry and oppressive (v. ut). thi<sup>n</sup>-khi iám-joáh, sun scorching hot. ôe-joáh--má, do you feel the weather hot? bôe-joáh, not hot. ùi-joáh, afraid of heat, as man who wears few clothes (v. ùi). tham-joáh, fond of heat, as man who wears many clothes even in hot weather (v. tham).

joáh-pê, thin grass-cloth. péh-joáh, white grass-cloth. σ-joáh, black grass-cloth. kang-sai-joáh, grass-cloth from Kiangsi province (first-class).

joáh-bô, a mandarin's summer cap with button. joáh-lóeh, a broad ceremonial cap with tassels (v. lóeh). joáh-sa<sup>n</sup>, a summer coat. joáh-khê, very thin trousers for summer.

joán [R. tsoán, to turn, = col. túg]; = tsoán, to turn round with the hand, as the handle of a door.

joán (R. id.) joán-joán, to rub with the fingers of one hand.

joán [R. soft, flexible]. níng-joán, soft, fine, and delicate, as fur or cakes, or as soft hand of a man who does not do hard work. chhui-joán, feathers of the bird called "húi-chhùi," used for women's head-dress. an-joán, to glue on these feathers. pho-joán, id.

joán (C.), = A. loán (R.), warm.

joán [R. loán; ceremonial present of food to a superior]. joán-pàng (C.), = A. thàm-pàng, younger brother or nephew of bride bringing presents to her on the day after marriage.

如

jôe (C.), = A. jê, to rub or scrape with the foot.

jû (R. id., = jû), (C. jî). jû-jû, tangled; intricate; involved. thâu-mûg jû-jû, hair dishevelled. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> jû-jû, mind perplexed and confused. jû-jû sù-sù, all in disorder (v. sù). jû-loân, perplexed; entangled; in disorder. jû-jû loân-loân, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> jû-loân, mind confused.

jû-bé-bé, confused in mind. jû-kà-kà, intricate and involved, as affair. jû-chháng-chháng, confused; tangled; all in confusion; intricate. jû-chhiáng-chhiáng, id., or perplexed in mind. jû-jióng, id. jû-kông-kông, mind confused and perplexed, as with a multitude of affairs; also (T. Cn.), very urgent for anything to have it done in a tremendous hurry.

如

jû [R. as, like as], (C. jî, T. dzû). put-jû, not equal to; there is no better way than to.

tsû-jû, fully recovered; quite well again. chho-chhióng tsû-jû, one's own master; not under the control of another. jû-jiên, quite well again. jû-goân, matters falling out just as one would wish. jû-i, according to our desire. bân-sû jû-i, everything just as we would desire.

jû-chhú (R.), thus. in-tap jû-liú, fluent at answering. kiên-sú jû-biên, to look on death as a sleep (v. biên). tâng-kiá<sup>n</sup> jû tâng-miá<sup>n</sup>, fellow-travellers ought to assist each other in the dangers of the road.

jû-lái, a name of Buddha (v. lái).

儒

jû [R. literary], (C. jî, T. dzû). jû-kàu, Confucianism. jû-i, a learned physician, who is a good scholar.

榆

jû [R. name of a tree]. chí-jû-chhâ, a hard yellowish brown wood, good for furniture. tê-jû, a wood used for medicine.

需

jû [R. name of a plant]. hiu<sup>n</sup>-jû, a medicinal plant. hiu<sup>n</sup>-jû-tê, an infusion of it.

萸

jû (R. id.) tsu-jû, a medicinal plant (v. tsu).

萸

jû (R. id.), (C. jî), a surname, said to be originally related to the surnames "thê" and "û," of which the characters are very similar.

俞

jû [R. decaying, as fish], (Cn. jû). jû-jû, separating into its fibres, as a cord worn away and about to break, or as the end of a cord.

愈

jû [R. id., = col. ná<sup>n</sup>]. jû-kú jû-hó, the longer (in time) the better.

茹乳

jú (R. jú, jû). tek-jú, the outside of green bamboo scraped off; infused as a cooling medicine.

jú [R. milk], (C. jî). jú-bú, a wet-nurse. tông-pau kiông-jú, of the same father and mother. iông iú kúi-jú chi-un, the lamb kneels for its milk, showing its sense of parental favour.

jú-miá<sup>n</sup>, the name originally given to a child by its parents.

jú-hiu<sup>n</sup>, frankincense. tâu-jú, a preparation of beans, made into curd and salted in small squares.

jú — jú-á, a fine curly sort of fur; a dress made of it. jú-iáng, id. e-jú-á, black do. péh-jú-á, white do.

jû [R. a written or printed word, = col. jî, tsû]. jû-miá<sup>n</sup>, = tsû-miá<sup>n</sup>, the name taken at marriage or when grown up.

jû [R. a statement], (C. jî). phì-jû, a comparison; for instance; supposing that. pí-jû, id.

jû [R. a command], (C. jî). sèng-jû, the "Sacred Edict" of the Emperor Kang-hi (khong-hi). siông-jû, an order or decree issued directly by the emperor. tâg-jû, an order issued by the mandarin on the judgment-seat, written by himself with red ink. chhut tsu-jû, to issue such an order in red ink, as mandarin.

jû [R. abundant], (C. jî). hù-jû, affluent; very rich. ko-jû, id. ke-jû (Cn.), id. jiâu-jû, having abundant wealth.

jün [R. jün, lün, soft]. nüg-jün, soft and delicate, as cakes.

jün [R. joán, loán], tough, as meat; elastic; not easily split or broken. jün-jün, id. kun-jün, tough; elastic; hard or narrow, as man unwilling to pay out money. jün-pé, shrivelled, as cucumber too long plucked. jün khiuh-khiuh, tough and elastic, as india-rubber or some cakes. jün-thüg, sugar worked up into a tenacious form, as a sweet-meat.

jün (R. id.), (T. lün, as also sometimes A.), moistened; damp, as with rain. sip-jün, very slightly softened by damp, as ground, or as some other things. jün-ték (R.), well watered; full of fresh vigorous health and pretty well off. jün-tiông (R.), to mollify the bowels and cure costiveness, as medicine or food.

hê-lí jün-pit (this is to moisten your pen), said to a friend who writes a document for us, on giving him a small sum.

jwá, jwáh, jwán, better joá, joáh, joán (q.v.)

字喻諭

裕孀

潤

K.

k in many words corresponds to h of the reading style.

膠

ka (R. kau), glue; isinglass; some sorts of jelly made from animals; resin. tsúi-ka, common glue. gú-phê-ka, glue made from cow-hide. hí-piô-ka, sort of isinglass (v. piô). a-ka, a medicinal jelly made from turtles' bones. ku-ka, jelly made from turtles. hé-kut-ka, strengthening jelly from tigers' boues. lók-kak-ka, do., from stags' horns.

siông-ka, resin from the fir-tree.

tiâu-ka, to glaze cloth with glue. tiâu ka-tsúi, id. liâm-ka, to glue. thê-ka, the glue parted, as in furniture. ngâu-ka, to manufacture glue for sale. tsú-ka, to melt glue (by heat) for use.

ka (T.) khîh-ka-thâu, = A. khîh-kau-thâu, the corners of the cheek-bones below the eyes.

ka (= kui). ka-nüg, entire; complete (v. nüg). ka-ní<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

ka — ka-iah, to take well in the market.

ka — ka-liô, words used in calling a dog.

ka — ka-lí-lô, not yet; not yet finished; yet distant; wide of the mark. ka-lí-lien-lô, id. ka-lí-lien, id. ka-lô--lah, id.

ka — ka-láu ka-lé, to talk indistinctly of a matter (v. láu).

ka [R. kúi, id.] ka-lé-hì, puppet-shows used in idolatry (v. lé).

ka — ka-lak, a windlass, as at a well; a block in a vessel.

歸交

傀轆

尻
鉸
咬 蓋 磕
膺 江
鮫
鷓
鳩 甘 鉤
吉
葭 艾
筴
家

ka (Cn. pa; C. kha). ka-chiah, the back (v. chiah).

ka (R. kau), to cut with scissors. ka-chiên, shears; scissors. ka-to, id. hái-ka-to, sort of crab with two very long claws. ka-tng, to cut separate by scissors (s. add). ka-iū<sup>n</sup>, to cut out a pattern (v. iū<sup>n</sup>). ka-sa<sup>n</sup>, to cut out a coat, shirt, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-thap-ka, to cut cloth so as to lose as little as possible (v. thap).

ka [R. id., the sound of a bird; by change of tone from "ngáu," to bite]. ka-lâ-pa, Batavia (v. pa).

ka [R. kài, to cover, = col. khàm, kò, khap]. péng ka-lán-phak, to lay on its face or mouth, as an inverted cup. péng ka-lién-phak, id.

ka [R. khap, kháp, to strike against]. ka-láuh, to fall, to drop, as an inanimate object (v. láuh). phah-ka-soa (C.), id., as of small things dropping from the table.

ka [R. khap, to shut the eyes, = col. kah, khoeh]. ka-chê, to nod in sleep; drowsy. tuh-ka-chê, id. ka-tsôe (C.), id.

ka — ka-iam, shivering; chilled (v. iam). ka-lún-sún, to shiver with cold or fear; shivering feeling from eating something sour.

ka — phah-ka-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze. tióh-ka-tsák, slight obstruction in throat or nostrils (v. tsák). tióh-ka-tsauh (C.), id. tióh-ka-sàu, slight obstruction caused by food half swallowed, making one cough it up. hâm-hêh<sup>n</sup> ka-sàu, sound of severe coughing, as in consumption or old age.

ka — ka-tsáu, a flea (v. tsáu). ka-chê (Cn.), a cicada.

ka — ka-tsoáh, a cockroach (v. tsoáh).

ka [R. kang, a large river]. ka-chhió, a small boneless marine animal. ka-tsúi-á (T.), a fish like the cuttle-fish (v. tsúi).

ka [R. kau, name of a fish]. bé-ka, a very good sort of fish. bé-ka-hí, id. ka-láh-hí, another good fish.

ka [R. kau, name of a bird]. ka-léng, a bird very like the magpie (v. léng).

ka (R. khiu). ka-tsui, the dove (v. tsui).

ka [R. kam, sweet]. ka-tang-chhiū, a large tree with useless wood.

ka — ka-tia<sup>n</sup>, the mangrove and similar water-shrubs (v. tia<sup>n</sup>).

ka (= giá). ka-lan-jī, a hard wood, used for anchors.

ka [R. kə, = col. kam]. ka-múg (esp. Cn. T.), = kam-múg, a very poisonous plant.

ka [R. kiet, fortunate]. ka-poà, cotton (v. poà). ka-pók-mi<sup>n</sup>, raw cotton with the seeds in it, used for quilting.

ka (ká?). ka-boáh-chhài (Cn. kün-toáh), a sort of vegetable.

ka [R. a reed]. ka-pék-sún, the edible shoots of a water vegetable (v. sún).

ka (R. kau). ka-bún-chhióh, a fine woven mat made from reeds. ka-tsù, a coarse straw bag (v. tsù). ka-chi (C.), id. ka-chèng, a very coarse mat of reeds or straw. ka-tsài<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. ka-tsüi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

ka — ka-liáh, a very large round bamboo wicker-work tray, used for drying things, or exposing them for sale. ka-lôe (esp. T.), id. ka-ló, a deep wicker-work bamboo vessel, almost half globular.

ka [R. a household, a family, one's self, or one's own, = col. ke], (C. ke, excepting "ka-kí").

ka-kí (C. ka-ti), self; one's self; alone. goá ka-kí, I myself. ka-kí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk alone. ka-kí ê-lâng, one of my own relations. ka-kí, tui ka-kí, feud between relatives or fellow-villagers.

hân-ka, my surname. ka-hū, my father. ka-bú, my mother. ka-bió (Cn.) id. lú-ka (R.), the bride's own relations.

bē-ū sek-ka, not yet married, said by another. tì-sek-ka, married. pék-siú sêng-ka, out of poverty become rich. sə-ka, to confiscate, especially the property of a mandarin. kheng-ka, to lose all one's property (v. kheng).

tong-ka, the owner or manager of a school who engages the teacher; said also by a teacher of the father of his pupils. ə-ka, a receiver of stolen goods. o-ka, id.

bín-ka, the households of the people. koan-ka ê tsú-tē, young brothers, sons, and nephews of mandarins. hù-ka, a rich family. bêng-ka, an illustrious and good family. sè-ka, family honourable for generations back. sè-ka-tóe, sprung from such a family of mandarins or graduates.

ka-siók, wife and family. ka-téng ê tai-chi, private domestic matters (v. téng). ka-phoe, a letter for or from home. ka-sin, id. ka-teng, a boy hired or indentured as household servant for a long period (v. teng). ka-jín (r.), a household slave (s. beautiful). ka-sán, family property or wealth (v. sán). ka-tsái, id. hó-ka-tàng, very wealthy.

ka-ka hē-hē, house by house.

ka-hoat, rules of a household, as good or bad. hó-ka-hoat, well taught, ruled, and regulated, as a family. hó-ka-kàu, id. siáu-ka-sé, family not flourishing. sió-ka-sè, id. tai-ka-sé, family flourishing and wealthy, having good rank and respectability. sêng-ka-sé, become wealthy and flourishing, as family.

háp-ka pêng-an, may the whole family enjoy peace and comfort. ka-chék lân-hông, it is hard to guard against a thief in the household.

ka [R. a sort of dress], (C. kia). ka-se, a gown without arms, used by Buddhist priests (v. se).

ka [R. beautiful], (C. ke). ka-jín (R.), a beautiful young woman (s. household).

ka [R. good, happy], (C. ke). ka-khèng, the reign of Kia-king, father of Tau-kiang. ka-hô-lí (R.), Amoy island.

ka [R. to add, to increase, = col. ke], (C. ke). ka-thiam, to increase (active). ka-kip, to raise a degree in rank (v. kip). ka-un, to forgive a crime or bestow a very great favour.

ka-tng, to wash and rinse (s. cut).

ka-pē (C. ke-pōe), double, as in quantity. ka-it-thàn, to gain ten per cent. (v. thàn). ka-ji-lái, twenty per cent. on one venture (e.g. on one voyage), not counted by time.

ka-bū, to accuse falsely. kau-ka, to have monetary dealings with a man. kapp-i kau-ka, to have transactions with him.

ngé-ka-phí, a yellow wine from the north flavoured with a drug (with Aralia palmata?). ngé-ka-pi, id.

ká (Cn.), = A. giá, to carry, as a heavy thing.

ká [R. false, pretended, to feign, = col. ké], (C. ké). ká-chiá, to make underhand or improper use of another's name or influence. ká-mē<sup>n</sup>, to assume falsely, as name or character (v. mē<sup>n</sup>). ká-sū, false stories. ká-jin ká-gī, feigned virtue. ká-kong hêng-su, pretending zeal for public ends to advance one's private

袈
佳
嘉
加

假

interests. lông-ká sêng-chin, sportive pretence become a sad reality.

ká [R. id., by change of tone from "ká," price], (C. kè), a surname.

ká [R. káu, a violent disease of the bowels]. kiau-ká, severe colic or spasms in the bowels, as if entangled. kiau-ká-thiá<sup>n</sup>, id. pak-té-túg kiau-ká, id. pak-té-lái kiau-ká, id.

ká (R. káu), to twist; to strangle, especially by twisting a rope tight. ká-lá, to twist much, as a rope. ká-ân, to twist or wring tight. kúi-ná-tsáp-tiâu ká-lá tsòe-chit-tui, many troublesome matters all coming on one at once to be set right.

ká-sí, to strangle by putting a rope round the neck and twisting it tight. gí-ká, to condemn to strangulation in this way. tsám-ká, beheading and strangulation (the second is less dishonourable).

ká-pang, to unite in one fleet, company, or convoy for mutual protection. ká-pái, to make a raft (v. pái). ká-soh, to make very thick ropes by twisting several together. ká ti-lá-si, to remove spiders' webs with a stick. ká hong-chhe, to entangle the strings of two kites, as a game. hong-chhe sa<sup>n</sup>-ká, id.

ká-chhat, to strain out prepared varnish in making it. ká-chiap, to press out juice, as from sugarcane.

lêng ká-tsúi, a great fall of rain from a waterspout. tò-ká-láu, tide broken and eddying at rocks. ká-lê-hong (C.), a whirlwind.

ká-chí, a rod used for twisting a noose tight; a man used by both parties, and on whom both throw the blame. liáh-goá tsòe ká-chí, you are making me take a vast deal of thankless trouble for you.

ká (cf. kái, kiáu). ká-chhá, to make noisy disturbance, as boys at play. ká-lá-chhá, id. gáu-ká-lâng, fond of annoying people, as a troublesome infant.

ká [R. to be married to husband, = col. kè], (C. kè). liét-lú put-ká jī-hu, a chaste widow will not marry a second husband.

ká (R. kàu), to teach; to instruct; to train. ká-sí, id., often including the use of correction. ká-koai, to tame, as by beating. ká-lâng tsòe-hó, to teach men to live well. ká kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun, to keep one's descendants in good order. ká sai-á, to teach apprentices. ká lóng-bòe chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsoā, quite unable to learn (fig. from a cow). ká-gū, to train an unbroken cow or ox for ploughing. ká-tiū<sup>n</sup>, the review-ground (v. tiū<sup>n</sup>).

ká-òh, to teach a school. ká-òh sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a schoolmaster. ká-òe-tó, well able to teach, as a teacher. ká-chheh, to teach the books. ká-khek, to teach songs.

ká, thin and watery, as gruel, soup, boiled rice, or paste. ká-ká, id. khó-ká, thick and thin, as such things. chiáh-ká, to eat very thin boiled rice; to be very ill off (v. chiáh).

tâm-ká-ká, all wet, as a leaky house or boat; slushy, as road. ká-lóng-lóng, thin, as rice paste, &c. ká-lok-lok, id. ká-kê-kê, id.

ká [R. káu (?), to twist; tangled, = col. ká]. jū-ká-ká, entangled and confused, as an affair. loán-ká-ká, id.

ká-lók-lók, all gone wrong, as an affair, so that it is past remedy [or is this the previous word?].

ká [R. an equipage; to ride in one], (C. kè). thêng-hún ká-bū, to ride on the mist and clouds, as spirits and genii.

tsun-kà (R.), sir! hoán-lí tai-kà, I beg to trouble you, sir!

chiá<sup>n</sup>-kà, the boat of a high mandarin. tai-jin ê-tso-kà, the admiral's vessel. loán-kà, the imperial equipage. gū-kà, id. chih-kà, ceremoniously receive the imperial equipage. kiù-kà, to save the life of the emperor. pó-kà, to take care of the emperor when he goes out, as a high military officer does.

kā (cf. hā, hoā). kā-kā-kún, to be noisy at play. kih-kih kā-kā, indistinct sound of talk, such that one cannot make it out. hoan-kih-kā, so confused that it cannot be understood or made anything of. khoā<sup>n</sup>-liáu hoan-kih-kā, having seen it, can make nothing of it.

kā [R. kiōng, along with; together, = col. kāng, kap], (Cn. kāng), a preposition, used with persons only, meaning to, from, for: it is often the converse of "hē," and must be used with great care according to fixed usage.

kā-i-kóng, tell him. goá kā-lí-kóng, I tell you. kā-lâng-khng, to exhort people.

kā-i-khui, to open it for him, as a door. kā--i kah-phē, give him a coverlet to sleep under. kā--lâng phah-phái<sup>n</sup>, to spoil another's property, or let it be spoiled in our hands.

goá kā-lí-chē, I am responsible to you for payment.

kā-i-chioh, borrow from him. kā-i-thó, demand from him. kā-i-bóe, buy from him. kā-i-thng, mortgage from him. kā-i-thòeh, take or receive from him.

kā (= ka, kâu). kā-boáh-chhài, a sort of vegetable.

kā (R. ngáu), to bite; to chew slightly, as a confection; to kill by biting, as dog or tiger does; to fight, as quails or crickets; to cause a sore, as varnish. kā tiâu-tiâu, to bite and hold fast; very dogged. kā niáu-chhú, to kill a rat, as cat. kā--sí, to bite to death. khít-hé-kā, to be killed by a tiger. kā--chih, to break by biting. kā-chih, to bite one's tongue. kā-chih--sí, to kill one's self by biting off the tongue.

bé-kā-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the bit of a bridle. káu-kā-hông, a plant good for a dog's bite.

niáu-chhú-kā, articles stolen by persons employed in the house. bóe niáu-chhú-kā, to buy such things, as men who pretend to be peddlars. chhī-niáu-chhú, kā pè-tē, to have a pilfering servant.

kā sek-sut, to set crickets to fight. kā ien-chhun, to set quails to fight. kā chhiên-kap-á, to blow bits of paper against each other, as children do (v. kap). sū-káu sa<sup>n</sup>-kā, to set dogs to fight; to set people a-quarrelling. hē--i kā-chiáh, to be scolded very violently by him, as on going to ask a favour.

khít-chhat-kā, to get a sore from poisonous varnish. òe kā-chhùi, leaving a harsh bad taste in the mouth, as unripe fruit.

kā chhùi-khí-kun, to clench one's teeth, as in pain or displeasure. kā chhùi-khí-kun ín-i, to give consent with clenched teeth when quite unwilling but consciously powerless to prevent it. kā-chhùi-khí-kun ún-i-soah, agreed to let the matter take end, but under compulsion. kā chhùi-khí-kun lún-thiá<sup>n</sup>, to clench the teeth in pain. chhùi-khí-kā-ân-ân, to clench the teeth firmly, as child in convulsions or man near death. kā-gê chhiet-chhí, to gnash the teeth, as in pain or rage.

kā-phang, to eat well-flavoured things (for the 賈

痠
絞

共

咬

嫁
教

駕

taste), as a child. thòeh tām-pòh, lâi kâ-phang, take a small sum (e.g. a few hundred cash) for your trouble, as a middleman for renting a house. kâ thng-á, to chew or taste confections.

hē sè-sū kâ-lâ-khì, to have all one's gains eaten up by the customary expenses of festivals, ceremonies, idolatrous rites, &c. ōe-kā, kâ-bōe-háu (or pūi), said of taking strong measures rapidly without talking about it, e.g. getting his enemy apprehended at once without warning.

ka<sup>n</sup> [R. kam, to inspect; a prison], a prison; a jail. ka<sup>n</sup>-lô, id. ka<sup>n</sup>-koán, prisons in general. ka<sup>n</sup>-hoán, a prisoner. ka<sup>n</sup>-siū, id. ka<sup>n</sup>-lé, fees paid to jailer.

kè-ka<sup>n</sup>, to guard a prison. khò<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. khò<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup> toā-iā, a jailer. koán-ka<sup>n</sup>, to have superintendence of prison, as small mandarin for great mandarin. koai<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup>, to imprison. koai<sup>n</sup>-jip-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. kim-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. kim). siu-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. chhut-ka<sup>n</sup>, to get out of prison. phoà<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup>, to break open a prison.

ka<sup>n</sup> (originally "ká<sup>n</sup>", = kiá<sup>n</sup>, a son). ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-sun, a great grandson.

ka<sup>n</sup> [R. kám, name of tree]. ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>, the Chinese olive (not a real olive), Canarium Pimela. ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-sí, salted olives. ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-hút, olive stones (used for carving into ornaments).

ka<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = kam, a loose-skinned orange. âng-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. hong-ka<sup>n</sup>, a sort of yellow bitter orange. sien-ka<sup>n</sup>, a very large sort of orange. hé-thâu-ka<sup>n</sup>, id.

ka<sup>n</sup> — ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. kau-ná<sup>n</sup>, a small simple round basket with semicircular handle.

ká<sup>n</sup> [R. hám, to hold in the mouth; together, = col. há<sup>n</sup>, khá<sup>n</sup>, kám], to hold in the mouth on one side; to inclose, as a ball in a rattle; to hold within the closed hand or under the arm; (to pilfer); to fasten by soldering, or by small metal pins soldered in; to join two pieces of cloth by making them overlap, or by a piece put under, on which both are sewed. ká<sup>n</sup>-oá, to join, as pieces of a broken cup by metal pins soldered in; to sew together, as overlapping pieces of cloth. ká<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, to keep from falling (as a weak partition) by double props on each side; to sew together firmly by overlapping.

thau-ká<sup>n</sup>, to pilfer; hiding under one's clothes. ká<sup>n</sup>-ká<sup>n</sup> kóeh-kóeh, carrying a number of things between the arms and the body.

sàu-ká<sup>n</sup>-huih, to cough and bring up a little blood.

ká<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. kiá<sup>n</sup>, a son; also sometimes = A. á, affix of nouns. tán chit-ká<sup>n</sup>, wait a little. liông khah-tng chit-ká<sup>n</sup>, a very little longer (as a thing). thái-ká<sup>n</sup>, a short time ago. to-ká<sup>n</sup>, a son. to-ká<sup>n</sup> (An.), a knife.

ká<sup>n</sup> (R. kám), to dare. ká<sup>n</sup>-sí, I rather think it is so; I suppose it is. ká<sup>n</sup>-m-sí, I think it is not so. ká<sup>n</sup>-bô, I think there is none. ká<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, I presume it is right. ká<sup>n</sup>-tiòh-khì, I think (you) should go. iáh-ká<sup>n</sup>, perhaps it is so (said at end of a statement); he will also dare.

m-ká<sup>n</sup>, I dare not; he dares not; well-behaved; not acting violently or wickedly. áu-pái ká<sup>n</sup>--má, will you dare to do it again? (said in beating a child). ká<sup>n</sup>--lah, yes, I dare!

ká<sup>n</sup>-êng, using money very freely or lavishly. ká<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, rather too lavish in spending money for food; to dare to eat a thing. ká<sup>n</sup>-tng, to dare to bear responsibility. ká<sup>n</sup>-sí, not afraid of death; very fearless. ká<sup>n</sup>-

sí ká<sup>n</sup>-oáh (lit. ready for death or life), said of a daring robber or ruffian. ká<sup>n</sup>-thái-phah-chhò, id. (lit. not afraid to wound in any way). ká<sup>n</sup>-thàn ká<sup>n</sup>-sih, clever and daring; willing to risk great loss for the sake of large gains.

ká<sup>n</sup> (=kah, kàu). iá ká<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-chhát, as greedy and unjust as a robber!

kà<sup>n</sup> — kà<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup>-kiò, to snore. kà<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup>-háu, to snore; to growl, as a tiger. chhoán-kih<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup> (C.), panting very hard (v. chhoán).

kà<sup>n</sup> (=kà). loán-kà<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup>, confused and involved.

kà<sup>n</sup> (R. kàu), leaven. kà<sup>n</sup>-bú, id. ké-kà<sup>n</sup>, leaven for cakes. chhiau-kà<sup>n</sup>, to mix the leaven. hoat-kà<sup>n</sup>, leaven rising.

kah [R. kàu, to teach; to order, = col. kà], to order; to tell to do; to cause a man to do, chhe-kah, to order and employ in general, as servants, messengers, employés, &c. khòai-kah, ready to do what one is asked or told, as friend or inferior. kiông-kah-i, force him to do, as by commands or threats. kah-i m-thang, tell him he must not. kah-i-tsòe, order or tell him to do or make. kah-i-lái, tell him to come.

kah-i-bòh, let him take his own course; it is no matter to me; I am not afraid about it.

kah (R. id.), the first of the cyclical characters; the first in a list of names, Mr. A.; a small division of a ward, consisting of (tsáp-hō) ten houses; (a census or list of names); a finger-nail; a vest; a coat of mail; (the region of the shoulder).

kah-it, the first and second in a list of names, Mr. A. and Mr. B. kah-chí, the first year of the cycle of sixty years; the mode of calculating by the cycle. koh chit-ê kah-chí, again another initial year of the cycle. lâng bô-chiàu thien-lí, thi<sup>n</sup> bô-chiàu kah-chí, if men follow not Heaven's laws, Heaven will not follow the usual course, as of the seasons.

ò-kah, the overseer of a harbour. kah-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head-man of a group of ten houses. kah-hō, a group of ten houses (v. hō). ke-kah, a census. tsō-ke-kah, to make a census. chiū<sup>n</sup> ke-kah, to be enrolled in a census.

kho-kah, having got a literary degree by merit. kho-kah chhut-sin, to advance by merit through the literary examinations. kho-kah put-toán, successive generations all taking degrees. kho-kah lién-teng, to become Kujin and Tsin-sze in rapid succession.

tsng-kah, finger-nails (v. tsng). tsái<sup>n</sup>-kah (T.), id. kha-kah, toe-nails. oā<sup>n</sup>-kah, to shed a nail. kah-pi<sup>n</sup>, the quick at the side of the nail. si<sup>n</sup> kah-pi<sup>n</sup>, to have a sore beginning at the side of the nail, often making the nail fall off.

kah-háh, strong outer sheathing-leaves of bamboo at joints. tek-kah-lóeh, a strong sort of hat used by boatmen.

keng-kah, the whole region about the shoulder. hièn-kah, to let the part of the breast near the shoulder appear (either the skin itself or an inner dress) by leaving coat or jacket unbuttoned. sià-poá<sup>n</sup>-kah, to take off one arm of a coat, shirt, or jacket, leaving that shoulder bare. phoáh-kah, crossed over the shoulder, as a scarf (v. phoáh).

chièn-kah, a coat of mail. khoe-kah, helmet and coat of mail. kah-á (T. kaih-á), a waistcoat; a vest. tek-kah, a vest made of small bits of bamboo on netting, worn next the skin in hot weather (s. fish). soe-thâu kah-á, a short coat worn by women at

監

園

橄

柑

交

含

園

敢

到

醇

教

甲

toilet. gún-chhēng-kah, a large waistcoat with pockets for money. boán-hàn-kah, a vest (with several rows of foreign buttons) broadly bordered with black velvet. ióng-kah, a soldier's jacket with the word "brave" (ióng) upon it. niá-kah, a Chinese article of dress like a narrow vest or cape. mī-béh, kóe kah-á (making a vest out of a pair of stockings), reduced to great straits.

phi-kah, Manchoo soldiers. phi-kah-peng, id. kim-kah-sim, spirit-messengers of Giók-hóng Sióng-tè (v. sín). chhoan-san-kah, the scaly otter or ant-eater (its scales?) = lá-lí.

kah (R. kap). kah-ko, the yards of a foreign vessel.

kah [R. kàu, to compare]. kah-khoá, to test, as a steelyard, by comparing it with others (s. fit). kah-khoá ũ-tsún, id. kah-chhin, to test a common steelyard. kah-téng, to test a small steelyard.

kah [R. khap, to shut the eyes, = col. ka, khoch]. tuh-kah-ché, to dose or nod in sleep.

kah — kám-kah, skilful at any sort of work.

kah [cf. kap, with; to fit together], to fit; to suit; to fit together; to add on; also; in addition; to mix in proper proportions; to put on splints on a limb; engaged, as boat hired for ship. kah-khoá, to put together, as the parts of a thing not fully finished, to see if it will suit and fit well together (s. compare).

kah-kha, to fit the foot, as a shoe. kah-chhùi, suiting one's taste, as food or drink. kah-i, just to one's mind. m-kah-i, unsatisfactory. bô-kah lí-i, does not suit or please you. kah-sim, just to one's mind; the front part of a carcass (as of goat or pig) for food, making about one-third of the whole.

phòe-kah, fitting each other well, as articles of dress (v. phòe). kah-chhah, corresponding well, as dress to one's station, or as one part of dress to another. kah-chiú, to put on the oars when going to row. ũ-kah-kan, the bottle goes along with the liquor. kah-tsún, small-boat engaged to wait on a ship or large junk. kah-tiá-tiòh, engaged regularly, as such a boat. ēng-chhâ kah--teh, spliced by tying on a piece of wood, as a broken limb.

kah-chham--teh, mixed together. am-lái kah-khí, taking good and bad on an average, as things or work. chiâu-kah, following the due allowed proportion in mixing, as good and bad cash, or as a few inferior articles in a lot. kah pháí-chí, to mix the allowed number of bad cash among good ones. goá bô-khah-ke kah--lí, I do not mix more bad cash for you than the fair usual rate. chit-hó, kah chit-gái, one good joined with one bad (v. chit).

súg-sín, kah bô-bin, to injure one's self and lose sleep by turning night into day (v. sín). bô thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, kah bô-héng-chí, without any regard to the laws of Heaven, or to the rules of good conduct. kau-chiam tēng, kah bát-liú (sew very close and full of buttons), said of a man painfully minute and accurate.

kah — kah-si<sup>n</sup>-khí, building by boards or lath and plaster work between wooden pillars (v. si<sup>n</sup>).

kah [R. kài, to cover, = col. kbám, kbp, ka], to put on, as a coverlet. kah-phē, to have a quilt or coverlet over one's self. kā-i kah-phē, give him a coverlet to sleep under. hē-i-kah, give him something to sleep under. bô-thang-kah, has nothing to sleep under.

kah —, the rim of a basket, &c. poà-ki ê-kah, the rim of a winnowing tray. poà-ki-kah, a very poisonous snake, so called from the markings on its body.

kah — tek-kah, a long thin sort of fish (s. vest).

kah (= kàu). kah-chiah —, so very —! kah-hiah —, id. kah-hiah-tsòe, so very many! too many! iá, kah-ná<sup>n</sup>-chhát, as greedy and wicked as a robber.

káh (Cn.), = A. kiáh, to bold in the hand, as a stick, umbrella, sword, &c.

kai [R. all]. bán-poa<sup>n</sup>, kai hā-phín, all sorts (of trades and professions except the literati) are of low rank.

kai [R. ought; proper; connected; aforesaid]. kai--tsài, fortunately! put-chí kai--tsài, how very fortunately!

eng-kai, ought. eng-kai-tit, id. eng-kai-tiòh, ought; ought to. kai tit--tiòh, ought to get. kai-jiên, according to what is right. háp-kai, according to what is right. kai-sí, you should die! (said in scolding). kai-sí ê-lâng, id. siū-sê kai-chín, the fated time having come, one must die. si<sup>n</sup>-thâu phah--lâng bôe-thiá<sup>n</sup>; i-sù put-kai, it will not do at all to strike with a fan, though it gives no pain; the action, though slight, has a very improper meaning and cannot be allowed.

kai-chhe, the constables of a civil mandarin for the particular day. kai-pan--ê, id. kai-pan, to come to one's turn for the day, as constable.

kai-chhin, relations.

kai-koat (r.), inclusive; what is contained (v. koat).

kái (cf. ká, kiáu), to tease; to annoy; to molest. kái-chhái, to annoy; to play tricks upon.

kái [R. to separate a thing into its parts; to untie; to loose; to deliver from calamity; to compose a quarrel; to explain, = col. kóe; and by change of tone, kài, kè]. tsù-kái, to explain by writing notes or comments on.

khai-kái, to explain, as a book or doctrine; to comfort a man who is very sad or anxious, by making explanations, &c.; to propose a way of settling a dispute, as a mutual friend or mediator. put-tek khai-kái, no way of making such explanations as to get the quarrel amicably settled. khui-kái (T.), to make a satisfactory settlement of a dispute, as a mediator or arbiter. khòan-kái, to exhort men to make up a quarrel. oan khó-kái, a quarrel ought to be settled amicably (v. oan). pâi-kái, to adjust or try to adjust (a quarrel) for another, as by speaking to the other party, or by interceding with his displeased superior. pâi-kái bôe-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to try to do so, but not succeed. pâi-kái bô-sū, to help to settle a quarrel, as a friend or mediator.

kái-úi, to compel the enemy to raise a siege (v. úi). kái-tók, to cure a diseased state of body caused by eating something unwholesome. kái-ut, to cure a dyspeptic or bilious feeling. siau-tsai kái-eh, to remove or ward off calamities (v. siau). kái-liên-keng, a yellow paper burned for removing calamity (v. liên, "calamity").

kái-chiet, a widow marrying again.

tek-kái (esp. C.), to be very glad and happy.

siáu-kái, to make water (polite phrase). kái-pi<sup>n</sup>, the hollow between the thigh and the belly.

kái [R. to correct; to alter, = col. kóe]. kái-jim, to change a mandarin's place of office because of some small fault, disagreement, or unsuitableness.

ti-kò pit-kái, when you know a fault you should certainly correct it. kái-ok chióng-siēn, to reform what is bad and follow the good. kái-kò chhien

舩
較
瞞
合

甲

比
皆
該

解

蓋

改

siên, to reform and turn to virtue. goân-sèng put-kái, the original bad character is not yet reformed.

kài [R. a boundary]. sè-kài (r.), the world. hoat-kài (R.), the dwelling-place of Buddha (s. command). hè-kài-kong (Cn.), an idol (v. hē).

sam-kài-kong, the three idols presiding over heaven, earth, and water. sam-kài-kong-si<sup>n</sup>, their birth-days, viz.; 1. 15, siōng-goân; 7. 15, tióng-goân; 10. 15, hā-goân. sam-kài-khien, cakes made in the form of a chain (v. khien). sam-kài-teng, a pair of lamps with a lamp called, "thien-teng" between them. sam-kài-lê, an incense vessel hung up in the house, and used on their birth-days. khah-siá<sup>n</sup> sam-kài, always efficacious or coming true, as good medicine, or as man whose warnings or guesses always come true; or as food that always disagrees with us, as we were warned. thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe khah-siá<sup>n</sup> sam-kài, the natural signs of weather and such laws of the seasons are much more sure than the most powerful idols.

kài-chí, a boundary stone or mark (s. warn). chiòh-kài, a stone boundary. kài-hān, a boundary (v. hān). pien-kài, frontiers. kéng-kài, boundary of province or territory (s. warn). tōe-kài, boundary of a country, region, or property. kau-kài, a boundary. sāng-kau-kài, having a common boundary; adjoining, as region. sa<sup>n</sup>-kau-kài, id. āu-kài, vacant ground at back of a large house, within the inclosing wall. āu-kài-thé, id.

kài [R. id., = khài], to smooth the top of a measure with a stick. táu-kài, a stick for making level what is in a measure. bí-kài, id., for rice. kài-bí, to smooth the rice in a measure. kài-béh, to smooth wheat or barley in a measure. kài-tāu, do. with pulse. kài-chhân, to roll a field smooth with a large wooden roller.

kài [R. kòai; strange, a demon]. hióng-kài-kài, very fierce or fierce-looking.

kài [R. to cover; a cover; to excel; to put on the last finish, = col. khàm, kòà, &c.]

kám-kài, to treat with kindness or leniency (v. kám).

khí-kài, to build a house. hoan-kài, to repair a house, at least new roof and a good part of the walls new. hoan-kài-khí, id.

phe-kài, mats, coverlets, &c., used as bedding in travelling.

kài-sè-kan, the best in the world; to surpass the whole world. kài-tiū<sup>n</sup>, to be the best in a contest or examination. kài-ē-mng--ê, the best in Amoy; superior to any in Amoy. kài-it-toā, the very largest or greatest. kài-it-hó, the very best. kài-tē-it, the very best or first or first-class. kài-tē-it-toā, the very largest or greatest. kài-tē-it-hó, the very best (&c.)

kài-bīn, to put on the last finish, or a new surface. kài-sek, to put on colour on another colour, or on a white ground. kài-chhái-sek, to paint with various colours. kài-ngó-sek, id. kài-láh, to wax, as paper; to rub smooth with wax, or put on a waxy surface.

kài [R. to hand over; by change of tone from "kái," to loose, = col. kè, kóe]. kài-goân, the highest of the Kujin (kú-jín) graduates.

kài [R. to beg]. kài-siú-thâu, the head of the beggars in a place.

kài (R. id.) kap-kài, an animal used in medicine.

kài [R. an assistant; an individual; to be anxious, = col. kòà]. kə-kài, unsociable; disobliging; un-neighbourly; of a solitary or misanthropic temper, e.g.

unwilling to assist, or to give a lodging, and difficult to agree with. kə-kài-khi, id. kə-kài-phiah, id.

kài [R. mustard, = col. kòà]. kài-loáh, powdered mustard. kài-boáh, id., used as a medicine. péh-kài-chí, mustard-seed.

keng-kài, a thorny plant (sort of Salvia?), used as a febrifuge. keng-kài-chháu, id. keng-kài-chí, its seed. keng-kài-sūi, its spike. hông-hong keng-kài, this and another medicine often combined.

kài [R. a residence for officials]. kong-kài, the whole inclosed extra grounds of a yamun.

kài [R. commandments, esp. prohibitions; sometimes interchanged with the next word]. kài-lút, fixed commandments. hoat-kài (R.), id. (s. boundary). tsáp-tiáu-kài, the ten commandments.

kài [R. to warn; to prohibit; to refrain from]. kéng-kài, to punish slightly; to chastise gently; to try to deter men from evil, e.g. warning them by the example of those who have been punished for it (s. boundary). kéng-kài-á, to give a few blows as a chastisement, as father or mandarin. kài-thek, to reprimand or chastise slightly, esp. as literary mandarin (v. thek).

kài-chiú, to abstain from alcoholic liquors. kài-hun, to abstain from opium. tsai-kài bók-iók, to fast, abstain, and perform ceremonial ablutions (v. tsai).

siu-kài, to enter formally the number of regular Buddhist priests by a sort of consecration, cauterizing part of the brow, &c. toā-kài-thâu, head of a great recognized community of Buddhist priests, who can consecrate priests. kài-tsú, id.

kài-chí, a square piece of wood with which Buddhist priests strike the table between and at end of some prayers; also (R.), a finger-ring (s. boundary).

kài<sup>n</sup> [R. kam, an orange]. chhàu-kài<sup>n</sup>-á (T.), = chhàu-kió<sup>á</sup>, a solanaceous plant.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. keng, a room; classifier of houses and buildings.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. keng (shoulder). kài<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the shoulder. keh-kài<sup>n</sup> hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, first or second cousins. keh-kài<sup>n</sup>--ê, id.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), (= Cn. káng, kú<sup>n</sup>). kài<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, to worship by offerings, as ancestors.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. keng, to choose.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. keng, an aqueduct or conduit; to lead water by such a conduit.

kài<sup>n</sup> [R. kàn, to intermit; by change of tone from "kan," between]. kài<sup>n</sup>-tūg, to intermit. kài<sup>n</sup>-jit, each alternate day; passing over one day. kài<sup>n</sup>-chit-jit, to omit one day.

kài<sup>n</sup>-sek, vari-coloured.

kài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. kēng, to assist; to push, as a boat with a bamboo pole.

kaih (T.), = A. kah, a vest; a waistcoat.

kak [R. kok, grain]. gē-kak, = ngó-kok, the five grains; corn, rice, and grain in general; originally "tō lióng siok bék sú," but now including all sorts, and even potatoes. gē-kak ū-siu, a good harvest.

kak [R. to know]. hoat-kak, to come out, as a secret (s. horn). sit kak-chhat, to fail in one's duty by negligence, so that evil results (v. chhat). put-kak (R.), unawares; suddenly and unexpectedly. sín put-ti, kúi put-kak, very secret, hidden even from the spirits.

kak (R. id.), lath or clap-boards on which tiles are laid. kak-á, id. kak-kí, id. f<sup>n</sup>-kak, beams and

界

既

怪
蓋解
与
介

芥

解 戒 戒

間

穀 穀

覺

桷

lath for a roof. tèng-kak, to nail on the lath on the beams to be ready for the tiles.

kak — kak-phang, a large sort of wasp.

kak, a male or cock bird. koe-kak, a cock. koe-kak-kong, a very large cock. koe-kak-á, a small cock chicken. ah-kak, a drake. gô-kak, a gander.

kak [R. kàu, = kak, to compare; to dispute]. ài kap-lâng ke-kak, fond of quarrelling. kap-lâng kak-khé, quarrelling with people. kap-lâng khé-kak, id.

角

kak (R. id.), a horn; a corner; a small bit; the tenth-part of a dollar; a trumpet; a part of a place; a division of a clan living together in one place, not necessarily genealogical. lêng-kak, dragon's horns. lêng-kak, a sort of Trapa with edible fruit. lêng-kak, China-root broken into bits (v. lêng). lêng-kak, horn made thin and transparent for lanterns. bêng-kak, id. bêng-kak-teng, a lamp of thin translucent horn. kak-toá, an ornamental girdle worn by ladies of rank (v. toá). kak-soe, a horn comb. kak-ti<sup>n</sup>, a shoe-horn. kak-thóeh (Cn.), id.

hoat-kak, to grow horns (s. know). kak-tsang, a little boy's tail. gû-kak, a cow's horn. gû-kak-chhi, a medicinal plant. gû-kak-kóng-chhi, id. gû-kak-ké-chhi, id. niáu-chhú jip gû-kak (rat in a horn), to get into a road that has no outlet, a cul de sac.

sàu-kak, a trumpet. pûn-kak, to blow a trumpet. chit-kak, ten cents. chit-kak-gûn, id. kak-jí, twelve cents.

chióh-kak, a large broken piece of stone.

kak-thûg, loaf-sugar. kak-tsúi, fine syrup from white loaf-sugar. kak-tsoá, a sort of strong paper that does not easily tear.

chhut-thâu chhut-kak, to meddle in other men's matters. chhut-thâu súg-kak, to take responsibility and so injure one's self.

kék-kak, to the utmost (v. kék). siám-kak, quiet and retired, as a place. tiâu-kak, slanting (esp. at a corner), as in folding or drawing (not said of placing things). tiâu-kak-chhoáh, id. tiâu-kak hê-neh, tied by the four corners, as a handkerchief inclosing things. chhoáh-kak, diagonal; slanting; not at right angles. chhah-kak, to piece in making a dress; a sort of mensuration (v. chhah). sê-kak, a corner out of proportion to the rest. mí<sup>n</sup>-kak, having sharp edges, as table, &c. (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). phah-khîh-kak, having a flaw in the edge. oat-kak, to turn a corner; a corner or turning of a road.

kak-thâu, a corner; a part of a village or region. pun kak-thâu, to allot the several parts of a village or region to different families, &c., as for monopoly of carrying loads, or sedans, &c. kióng-páng ngi<sup>n</sup>-kak, a most powerful portion of a powerful family. i teh-khiá ũ-kak, he is very powerful in that place, so that no one ventures to oppose him.

hiáh-kak, the projecting corners of the forehead above the eyes. pin-kak, the temples (said of women). bák-kak, the outer corners of the eyes. chhù-kak, the corner of a house (v. chhù). piáh-kak, corner between two inner walls. thi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup> hái-kak, the most distant parts of the world (of heaven and of the sea). thi<sup>n</sup> bô-pi<sup>n</sup> hái bô-kak, the extent of the world is vast and boundless.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kak, triangular; thirty cents. si-kak, four-cornered; square; forty cents. si-kak-kak, square; four-cornered. thài-si-kak, very straightforward and unbending as to principles of right, or too unbending (according to the idea of the speaker). si-kak-sin, very unbending as to the principles of justice and integrity, as mandarin, &c. lák-kak, hexagonal. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiam lák-kak (six corners and three points), very roughly and clumsily made; troublesome to deal with, as a crotchety man who likes to thwart other's wishes. poe<sup>n</sup>-kak, octagonal; anise-seed stars; a sort of paper kite with the 8 diagrams on it.

kak (Cn.), = A. kek, the chrysanthemum.

kák (T. sometimes "kók"), to throw. kák chióh-thâu, to throw a stone. hiet-kák, to throw away. páng-hiet-kák, id. tim-hiet-kák, id. tsóh-hiet-kák, id. phuh-hiet-kák, to puff away the smoke without swallowing it. soa-hiet-kák (C.), to drop and get lost, as small things from a table. khioh-kák, utterly useless, as man or thing; a loafer, thief, or ne'er-do-well. chit-si-lâng khioh-kák, utterly useless his whole lifetime. thek-kák (esp. C.), id.

kam [R. sweet, willing], a surname. kam-ti<sup>n</sup>, sweet. kam-kút, pleasant to eat and swallow; pleasant to hear, as sweet words (v. kút).

kam-siok, Kan-suh province. kam-chiu, Kan-chow in Kan-suh. siám-kam, Shensi and Kan-suh.

kam-goân, willing; make no further opposition. kam-sim chêng-goân, heartily willing; thoroughly pleased, as to do a work or give a gift. kam-sim, heartily willing. kam-sim siu-khé, happy to undergo the toil to get the object. m̄-kam-sim, unwilling; discontented, as at having to do or give something under pressure, or at having lost something. m̄-kam, unwilling; niggardly.

kam-kiet, a bond taken by mandarins, esp. stating that a case is finally settled. kam-êng, spending money freely. kam-êng, m̄-kam-chhêng, using money freely or lavishly for other purposes, but dressing too shabbily.

kam-chiá, esculent sugar-cane. kam-chhó, liquorice. kam-á-bit, a condiment chewed with betel-nut and siri leaf. kam-hêng, almonds, as medicinal. kam-kek, chamomile. kam-sék, a medicinal stone (v. sék). iū-kam, a small, round, hard, green fruit: its taste changes from sour to sweet in the mouth.

kam [R. sort of disease]. kam-chek, a disease of children caused by over-eating. tióh-kam, to have this disease. gê-kam, a severe disease of the jaws — some say, a bad gumboil; some say, like cancer — the gums wasting away and the roots of the teeth laid bare. tióh gê-kam, to have this disease.

kam [R. kan, lasciviousness]. kam-chhng, venereal ulcers.

kam (R. kə), (Cn. ka). kam-mng, a very poisonous plant. kam-mui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

kam (R. id.), (Cn. ka<sup>n</sup>), a mandarin orange; a loose-skinned orange. âng-kam, a red orange. hé-thâu-kam, a very large and fragrant sort of orange. hút-siú-kam, the fingered citron. kam-bân, a lobe of an orange. kam-phê, the skin of an orange; raw orange-peel.

kam [R. id., = col. ka<sup>n</sup>, a prison], to oversee so as to watch a man for faults and report him to his superior, as a man does who is appointed for that purpose, but without power himself to rule the other; also, to take a kindly care of a person in our employment committed to our care (e.g. son of a friend), helping him when his duties are difficult. kam-lái kam-khì, to watch one another, as two mandarins of nearly equal rank, or as

甘

疳

姦
鉤
柑

監

two men used together for some work set to keep an eye on each other. chiong-kun kam tsóng-tok, the Tartar general watches the Viceroy.

kam-tsám, to witness an execution, as mandarin (v. tsám). kam-kok, to act as regent. kam-kok tái-sin, regent.

kam-tok (r.), to oversee; (X.), a bishop.

kam [R. kan, dry, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. kam-bī-tiám, a sort of grocery shop (v. bi).

kam (C.), = A. ká<sup>n</sup>, to join cloth at a seam by overlapping. sio-kam, id.

kám [R. hám, to join; to hold in the mouth, = col. há<sup>n</sup>, ká<sup>n</sup>, khá<sup>n</sup>], to hold in the mouth; to hold shut, as the mouth. chhùi kám--teh, mouth held shut. kám-tún, to take the lips between the teeth, as infants. kám-lin, to hold the teat in the mouth, as child sucking. kám-png chhī-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to feed a child with rice from one's own mouth. chit-ê-chhùi kám chit-ê-chih (mouth contains nothing but a tongue), not able to speak a word when it is needed. ōe, kám tī-chhùi--nih<sup>n</sup>, speaking very indistinctly. kóng-ōe kám--teh, to talk indistinctly. kám-huih phùn-thi<sup>n</sup> (to spit blood at Heaven), to accuse falsely of enormous crimes.

kám-tsúi, swollen with damp, as wood. kim-kám, a sort of sugar confection.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kám, jointed together, as the overlapping boards of a partition, or as mortice and tenon.

kám, the fixed convex water-tight cover of the hold in a vessel below the movable boards of the false deck. kám-á-kau, the gutter between the side of a boat and the convex cover of the hold. kám-kak, at the corner of that convex cover of the hold. chhèng-kám-pang, the movable boards which make the (false) upper deck for treading upon [the groups of this and following words are doubtful].

kám — tiá<sup>n</sup>-kám, the lid of a Chinese frying-pan or rice-boiler. tiá<sup>n</sup>-kám-koá, id.

phāng-kám, a bamboo mat or hurdle, made like a bamboo sail, used as a cover for a boat or for a shed.

ōe-kám, the part of a shoe-sole that is next the foot and above the rest of the sole.

kám, to cover (as coffin) with clay or earth, not deep.

kám (R. id.) kám-thâu, a sort of mourning-hood worn by women at funerals. moá<sup>n</sup>-kám-thâu, id., made of coarse hempen cloth, in deepest mourning. moá<sup>n</sup>-kám, id. tōe-á kám-thâu, cover for head, one grade less deep mourning.

kám — kám-á, a shallow wicker basket (without handle), much used for holding eatables at shop doors, and for woman's work-basket. tín kám-á, do. made of rattan. bih-kám, do. made of bamboo wicker-work. bí-kám, shallow bamboo basket for holding rice for sale. kám-ê, a large and rather deep wicker vessel for holding rice, dough, &c.

kám [R. to dare, = col. ká<sup>n</sup>, kiám], an initial interrogative particle which asks a question meant to be answered in the negative, thus equal to a strong affirmation of the opposite.

kám-kah, skilful at work, manual or literary. kám-tong, daring to take the responsibility (v. tong). khí-kám, how can I dare! you honour or flatter me too much.

kám-chhái, = kiám-chhái, perhaps; it may be that—kám-ōe (= "kiám-ōe," and so in following phrases), how can —? how could —? surely it cannot be. kám-bōe —, how can — not? surely it is. kám-beh —, how can it be that (you) will —? surely will not. kám-ū àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, surely it is not so. kám-sī àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. kám-m-si, surely it is so; surely he is; how could it be otherwise!

kám [R. to influence, as by moral influence or by kindness]. kám-kài, to treat with kindness and leniency, as an inexperienced or favourite servant, not exacting much from him; to help kindly, as an inferior, by influence or money, or by assisting him in his work.

kám-hong, to have a cold; slightly feverish. kám-tiòh-hong, id. kám--tiòh, id. kám-léng, id. kám-mē<sup>n</sup>, id. kám-mūng (C.), id. téng-kám, relapse, in disease.

kám-siá, to thank. kám-un, grateful for favour; to give thanks for favour. kám láng--ê un-chèng, grateful to a man. kám jip hi-hú, grateful from the bottom of the heart.

kám-hoà, to influence or affect the heart with renovating or transforming energy, as a sage or a spirit. kám-tóng, to affect the heart with emotion or influence. kám-kek, id.

lèng-kám, powerful; efficacious, as idol that can answer prayers. kám-èng, to answer prayers and give protection. kám-èng-phien, the book of recompenses, a famous Taoist book.

kám [R. to oversee, by change of tone from "kam"]. kám-pún, the square regularly-formed characters, as commonly printed or written.

kám-chhat, to examine, as a superior. kám-láp, to accept with favour, as a sacrifice or oblation.

kám-seng, a purchased degree nearly equal to siù-tsái. koan-kám, to buy it. láp-kám, id. kok-tsú-kám, the ancient university of Peking, which sells the degree of "kám-seng." khim-thien-kám, imperial astronomer.

kióng-kám, an imperial eunuch. thài-kám, id. thài-kám-i, a sort of low arm-chair.

kám [R. a mirror, = col. kiá<sup>n</sup>]. kong-kám, the national history from first to last. i-ké úi-kám, to use ancient history as a mirror.

kám (cf. gām). ke-kám-á (C.), a fish like a nail, with large head and small body.

kan [R. kat, to cut, = col. koah]. iók-kan iók-sat, = iók-kat iók-sat, determined to have a feud.

kan [R. kien, firm]. kan-lók, = kien-lók, a spinning-top.

kan [R. the liver, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. kan-hoe, pig's liver. kan-hé, a feverish state of body, shown by slight inflammation of eyes, dryness of mouth or sleeplessness, supposed to come from the liver. kan-hé tōng, slight redness of eyes and sleeplessness, either from illness or simply from much thought and anxiety. kan-hé sèng, id.

kan [R. dry; only; harden, = khién, = col. kien, kién, koa<sup>n</sup>], a word used at the beginning of a sentence, introducing a new or different thought, but can hardly be translated; also (C.), not watered, as butcher-meat.

kan-ta, only; merely (v. ta). m-pàng-i kan-hiu, will not let him off; will not let the matter drop. kan-á, well indeed —, introducing a statement that seems antecedently improbable. kan--á hó, well it is really good; well then it will do well, though at first it seemed unsuitable. kan-ōe, well, after all, I suppose he is able; yet he can or it can be. kan-á-

乾

含

感

監

鑑

割

堅

肝

乾

贛

箬

敢

ōe, id. phah-sng-bōe, i kan-á-ōe, contrary to expectation he is able.

kan-kiét, over-strict, as master; bad for making money, as a place (v. kiét).

kan-ki<sup>n</sup>, a mariner's compass. kan-tsam, id. kan-chiam, id.

kan-σ, dark black, without any gloss of other colour. kan-chhat, varnish unmixed with colour. kan-iū, oil used for staining wood, &c., not mixed with paint. kan-he, mortar made of pure lime without earth.

kan-chēng, clean; dry and clean. put-tek kan-chēng, cannot get out of trouble.

kan-niū<sup>n</sup>, dry provisions, as for a journey. kan-bī, dried flesh, &c. (v. bī). kan-ké, dried eatables (v. ké). kan-kiu<sup>n</sup>, parched ginger used medicinally. kan-koah, a medicinal root (v. koah).

kan-hiá (C.), white ants that breed in roofs.

kan (Cn.) sek-kan-tsū, = A. sù-kun-tsú, a medicine used for worms.

kan [R. a shield; cyclical characters; witness; to have relation to; to offend]. tāng-khí kan-ko (to begin to move shield and spear), to begin a feud (v. ko).

kan-chēng, witness; proof; to give evidence. tsòe-kan-chēng, to give evidence.

ū-kan-kè, it has reference to (us, &c.); (we) are concerned or involved in it (s. difficult). ū-kan-kòe (C.), id. bō-kan-kè, it does not concern or involve. kap-lí bō-kan-kè, has nothing to do with you; none of your business. kan-siáp, to have connection with, as affair. bō-kan-siáp, having no relation or relevancy, as matter that does not concern us.

put-siong-kan, not setting a good example to inferiors, as ill-behaved parent or master. ū-siong-kan, of importance, as affair. bō-siong-kan, it does not concern; of no consequence; it does not matter; no matter. kap-lí bō-siong-kan, it does not concern you. bō-siong-kan ê-sū, an unimportant matter; a matter that does not concern us. bō-siong-kan ê-lāng, a worthless fellow; a man of no importance; man who has no connection with us or with the matter in hand.

bō-kan-gāi, there is no impediment or fear of trouble from it (v. gāi). kan-hoān (R.), to offend against, as a law.

thien-kan (R.), the smaller cycle of ten used in making the cycle of sixty. thien-kan tē-chi (R.), the cycles of ten and twelve; all the cyclical characters.

siā-kan-thâu, the root of the plant called soa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>-lân (Pardanthus or other iridaceous plant). siā-kan, medicine made from it.

kan-koah, a medicinal root (better, kan, "dry," but generally written "shield"), (v. koah).

kan [R. traitorous; unfaithful; intriguing; craftily; deceitful]. kan-tsà, deceitful; intriguing; crafty. kan-chê (C.), id. kan-khiáu, id.; dishonest (v. khiáu). kan-khiét (R.), id. kan-hiám, fraudulent; dishonest and intriguing. kan-hiau-hiám, id. kan-siá, id. kan-hiōng, crafty and roguish. kan-kúí, deceitful rascal, esp. deceiving both sides for one's own gain.

poà<sup>n</sup>-kan-tiong, of very doubtful fidelity. tāi-kan, a traitorous minister; a very cunning, crafty, intriguing man. kan-sin, a traitorous minister. kan-sin-tóng, a traitorous minister and his fellow-conspirators, esp. mandarins; said also of employes or servants banded together to cheat their employer or master. kan-tóng, id., id.

kan (R. id.) kan-ím, lasciviousness; impure in conduct; properly adultery. kan-hu, an adulterer. kan-chiá<sup>n</sup>, a legal case of adultery, as brought into court. thong-kan, to hold illicit intercourse. tè-kan, lewd fellows fighting for a woman. kiōng-kan, rape. ke-kan, sodomy. mái<sup>n</sup>-kan, to keep a brothel. kan láng-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to debauch the wives and daughters of others. kan-lāu, venereal ulcers. kan kün-sat, he who commits adultery is in danger of being killed.

kan [R. keng, classics, &c.] kan-kí, (T.), = A. keng-kí, a man's employment or means of livelihood.

kan [R. a post; a stake, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. lân-kan, a railing; a balustrade; a sort of lace or border.

kan (R. id.), a bottle; a tall jug or glass of stoneware or glass, especially with narrow neck. kan-á, id. po-lê-kan, a glass bottle. hoe-kan, a flower-glass; a tall fine flower-jar. tsúi-kan; a water-jug. kok-kong kan-á, a stoneware bottle for the liquor called "kok-kong-chiú," suitable for holding medicine. ū-kah-kan, the bottle is given or sold with its contents.

kan [R. between; among; in; a room; = col. keng], also (C.), = A. keng, classifier of houses, &c.

sè-kan, the world. sì-kan (C.), id. iōng-kan, the present world. hoān-kan, id. im-kan, the world of spirits; hades.

tiōng-kan, among; between; in the middle. soa<sup>n</sup>-kan (among the hills), the hilly country. hiu<sup>n</sup>-kan, in the country among the villages. chhin-chhek-kan, among one's relations. jit-kan, in the daytime. mi<sup>n</sup>--kan, night-time; at night. ū-kan-á ũ (C.), sometimes there are. ū-kan-á bó (C.), sometimes there are not.

kan [R. calamity; suffering; difficult]. kan-kè, difficult to accomplish; in want or poverty (v. kè, "plan"), (s. shield, related).

kan-lân, pain; suffering (v. lân). kan-khé, misery; suffering; grief; miserable; sore trouble; troublesome; difficult. kan-khé-kóng, troublesome or difficult to speak about. jín bū kan-khé-kè, lân-tek sè-kan-tsái, no gains without pains.

kán [R. kám, to dare, = col. ká<sup>n</sup>], (esp. T.) kán-ōe, how can that be! kán-ōe-àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, id.

kán (C.), = A. kién. kán-tiú, a sort of silk.

kán [R. gán, the eye]. lêng-kán (C.), = A. gêng-géng, the lung-yen fruit.

kán — toā-kán-tsan, a sort of war junk (v. tsan).

kán [R. concise; to choose, = col. kég], a surname; abbreviated; concise; simple in taste; without display; also (C.), = A. kéng, to choose.

kán-chiét, carefully abridged. ké-kán, remissly; carelessly. kán-séng, abridged; abbreviated; doing hurriedly or at less expense. kán-sé<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. kán-séng-siá, to write with contracted or abbreviated characters. kán-tòh (C.), to choose out.

kán [R. kién, a son], a female slave; a concubine. kán-jí, id. tsa-bé-kán, id. tsa-bé-kán-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a child born of a concubine. iū-kán, a beautiful and accomplished female slave. lāu-kán, an old female slave. sui-kè-kán, a female slave given to a daughter at her marriage.

chhiū<sup>n</sup>-kán, an elephant's keeper. chhun-gú-kán, the boy represented in the picture in almanacs as tending the cow; a figure of that cow-herd used at the spring festival.

kán-ngá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. gín-ná, a boy. kán-ngiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. kán-ká<sup>n</sup> (Cn., esp. An.), id.

經 杆
研

間

艱

敢 繭 眼
簡

困

干

奸

姦

幹

kàn [R. the trunk of a tree; business; skilful]. lêng-kàn, having a great capacity for business. kàn-pân, to manage an affair for another. kàn-pân--ê, got by money and management (not by merit), as a degree. kàn-soân, to put right, or try to arrange (as a troublesome matter) with considerable trouble.

干

kàn [R. kan, a shield, related to]. lí kàn-tng, why have you brought this trouble on yourself? (v. tng). beh kàn-tái-chi (Cn.), what would you be at? what ever do you want? bô-kàn (Cn.), of no consequence.

姦

kàn [R. kan, adultery, fornication], to commit fornication, adultery, &c.; a vulgar word, much used in vile scolding.

蜆

kàn (R. id. ?) kàn-á, = thê-kúi, a small bivalve shell-fish. kàn-á-kôe, do., pickled. kàn-á-kôe-bák, having (naturally) very small eyes that look almost shut.

諫

kàn [R. to reprove a superior]. kàn-chêng, to warn a superior (as sovereign or father) of his faults, and exhort him to reform. kàn-kun (R.), to exhort one's sovereign to reform his bad conduct.

間

kàn [R. id., by change of tone from "kan", between, = col. kài<sup>2</sup>]. kàn-tng, to break a constant succession (T. kài<sup>2</sup>-tng; Cn. kúi<sup>2</sup>-tng).

hoán-kàn-kè, to plot secretly against a man (v. kè, a plan).

鯨

kang [R. kong, name of a fish]. kang-hî, a small sort of fish.

杠

kang — kang-bé, a tree having soft light wood, palmate leaves, and berries in large corymbs: soles for shoes are made from it, and potash is made from its ashes. kang-bú, id.

公

kang [R. kong, public; duke; male; cf. ang, káng, kak], male (of animals). kang--ê, a male. kang-bú, male and female. ki<sup>n</sup>-kang-bú, determined to have out the quarrel, and see who wins. gû-kang, a bull. ti-kang, a male pig; a boar. kang-ti--ê, flesh of a male pig. chiâu-kang, a cock-bird.

siu<sup>n</sup>-kang, a mandarin's secretary or confidential assistant; polite appellation of a kujin, or of a gentleman or literary man. lái-kúi siu<sup>n</sup>-kang, clerks in custom-house (v. kúi). chhân-siu<sup>n</sup>-kang, an idol of the surname "chhân:" he was minister of music in the Tang dynasty, and is much worshipped by actors. siu<sup>n</sup>-kang-tia, id. siu<sup>n</sup>-kang-iá, id.

ng chhi<sup>n</sup>-mi<sup>n</sup>-kang, to play at blind-man's-buff [same word?].

江

kang (R. id.), a large river; the Yang-tse-kiang; a surname. [distinguish from "káng," a channel.]

kang-san sit, the empire lost (lit. rivers and mountains); a man losing all he possesses. put-chí kang-ê, very careful to avoid phrases that would give offence (v. ê).

iû-kang, spectators going about in boats looking at idolatrous festivals. chê-kang, to sacrifice at a river, e.g. to a man drowned there, or for a safe passage. kang-thâu, the upper end of an inlet, as far as boats go (s. work). kang--thâu, name of a place on Amoy island.

sam-kang, three great rivers near Soo-chow. sam-kang ngé-ê, the three rivers and the five lakes (v. ê). sam-kang-tsúi sóe-bôe-chheng, the waters of the three great rivers cannot wash it out.

goá-kang, the provinces in whose names the word "kang" occurs. goá-kang-lâng, a man from those parts, or beyond (where mandarin is spoken). kang-sè, Kiang-soo. kang-sai, Kiang-si. kang-lâm, Kiang-nan. tin-kang-hú, Chin-kiang, near Nan-kin. chin-kang, the Hien district of Chin-chew city. lê-kang (R.), Amoy island.

kang (R. kong). giá-kang, a centipede (v. giá), (s. work).

kang (R. kong), work; a day's work; a hired workman, in relation to his work; (leisure), (cf. khang).

giá-kang, coolies carrying loads on their shoulders, &c. (s. centipede). kng-kang, do. carrying between two on a pole. ta<sup>n</sup>-kang, do. carrying each separately on a pole (v. ta<sup>n</sup>). thê-kang, builders; masons. bák-kang, a carpenter. lú-kang, a female worker; a sempstress or embroiderer. úi-kang, painters of ornaments, pictures, &c., as hired.

lâng-kang, a labourer; a porter; a coolie. tng-kang, a labourer engaged for a long time, as a field labourer. pák tng-kang, to hire a man for a long time (v. pák). bê-tng-kang (C.), to bind one's self for a long term to a master. té-kang, a man engaged for a short period of work; work for a short period, not constant. chhiá<sup>n</sup> té-kang, to engage workmen for a short time. sió-kang, the very lowest class of labourers or assistants in coarse work. thó chit--ê sió-kang, to ask the post of the lowest sort of labourer. kang-kióh, coolies for carrying burdens and such coarse heavy work (v. kióh). kióh-á-kang, id. chhê-kang, id.

khiam-kang, in want of labourers. kê-kang, to hire labourers. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-kang, id. tok-kang, to oversee workmen.

bô-kang, no leisure. bô-êng-kang, id. êng-kang, leisure.

kang-hu, work; Congou tea (v. hu). sióng-kang, best Congou. kang-chêng, work, as regards its amount. kang-chêng toá, the work is very great. bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kang-chêng, does not require much work; quite easy. bô-khé-sái kang-chêng, id. kang-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a piece of (not coarse) work, esp. literary work. kang-bé, the end of a piece of work. kang-thâu, the beginning of a piece of work (s. river). kang-gôe, handicraft. kang-gê, id. kang-khòe (C., = A. khang-khè), work. kang-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), work.

chit-kang, one man's work for one day. nng-kang, one man's work for two days, or two men's work for one day. chit-tiám-kang, about one-third of a day's work (v. tiám).

êng-kang, carefully. tiâu-kang, of set purpose. chiâu-kang, according to the amount of work done, as in making a charge. chiâu-khi-kang, done according to proper rule; according to justice; performing one's duty fully and faithfully. khi-kang, to begin work, as work suspended for some time, or as work that is done at one season, e.g. shoe-making or dyeing. tâng-kang, to begin work at the very commencement of a whole piece of work. chiú<sup>n</sup>-kang, to begin work on each successive day. ke-kang, additional work; need more work. bô-ke-kang, without any more trouble, as doing a favour which is quite easy for us. chhut-kang, to give one's work, as in a partnership.

thoa-kang, to put off work; to procrastinate. poah-kang, to suspend work for a little, so as to attend to something else. thêng-kang, to stop work for a time. hióh-kang, id. pàng-kang, id. khàng-kang, to intermit work, as one-third of a day or more; at leisure (v. khàng).

piên-kang, easy work (not needing much thought) given to an inferior workman, all ready to be done, e.g. copying or sewing when the pattern is cut out. tsáp-

蚣 工

jī-géh-kang, the time at the eud of the 12th moon, when no one has leisure.

kang-chí<sup>n</sup>, wages. kang-tsu, id. kang-pâng, the department (in a yamun) for public works, corresponding to the "kong-pô" at the metropolis.

chhâ-kang-si<sup>n</sup>, coarse and awkward-looking, as a large-boned man.

káng (cf. kang). gû-káng, a bull (v. gû). iû<sup>n</sup>-káng, a ram.

káng [R. kiong, to serve or supply; cf. kûi<sup>n</sup>], (T. kái<sup>n</sup>). káng-iû<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to worship with offerings, as idols or ancestors.

káng — káng-bân, a myriad or more; hy myriads or several myriads. káng-chheng, by thousands. káng-chheng káng-bân, by thousands and tens of thousands. káng kûi-nà-bân, several myriads.

káng [R. to discourse; to explain by discoursing or lecturing, = col. kóng], also (Cn.), = A. kóng, to discuss or discuss, but not "to say" (v. kóng).

khai-káng, to explain to scholars, as a book or doctrine. káng-lûn, to discuss and explain, as a book or affair, &c. káng-chheh, to explain books orally. káng-kàu, to preach doctrine. káng-hô, to discuss matters till peace is made, esp. of nations. tui-káng, parties arranging a matter hy themselves without an intermediate party.

káng-kiù, to investigate or inquire into, as doctrine.

káng (R. id.), a channel; a strait; an arm of the sea or wide estuary; a harbour of that form. [dist. "kang," a great river.]

káng-kha, a port (said only of distant ports, e.g. Singapore). káng-kháu, a port (of considerable trade). káng-lô, the channel for navigation. phien-káng, smaller ports, e.g. any in Formosa excepting Tâi-oân, Lók-káng, and Tâm-súi; also, unusual dollars, e.g. Bolivian. hong-káng, Hong-kong.

chhoâ-káng, a pilot. pàng-káng, id. chhut-káng, to go to sea. kim-káng, to forbid vessels going out and in, or forbid trading in some article. jip-káng, sùi-oan, do in a place as others do (v. sùi).

kàng — chiòh-kàng, a sort of toad. khi<sup>n</sup>-kàng, id.

kàng [R. to descend; to send down; to degrade]. kàng-lim, to descend, as a god. kàng-lôh-lâi, id. kàng-lôh, to come down or send down, as a spirit. kàng-ki, to come down on the enchanter or medium that he may give written oracles, as the spirit is said to do. kàng-chin-hiu<sup>n</sup>, incense supposed to bring down the spirits. thien-sin hâ-kàng, the celestial spirits coming down on 12.25 (v. sîn). kàng-hoân, to come down from heaven to be horn into the world. kàng-sè, id.

sng-kàng, the term on or near Oct. 23d (v. sng, frost).

kàng-kip, to degrade in rank. kàng-kè, to sell at a very low rate (v. kè).

kàng [R. inundation]. káu-kàng-tsúi, the very high tides in the 8th and 9th months. káu-kàng-hong, the strong winds usual about that time, esp. about 9. 18.

kàng [R. khòng, a pit or hole, = col. khàng]. thê-kàng-phang, sort of bee that makes its nest in a hole in the ground.

kāng [R. kiōng, together, = col. kâ], (together); alike; to tease; to annoy, molest, persecute, or injure another; also (Cn.), = A. kâ, in relation to, &c.

bô-kāng, not alike; quite different. tau-sa<sup>n</sup>-kāng, to assist one another.

kāng--lâng, to annoy, molest, or injure people.

kāng-i-khui (Cn.), open it for him. kāng-i-sòh (Cn.), = A. kâ-i-kóng, say to him.

kap (R. id.), a pigeon (never "kap-á," s. next word). kap-eng, a sort of hawk. kap-tû, a pigeon-house (v. tû). kap-long, a horn whistle tied to a pigeon's tail. chhài-kap, a pigeon of the common sort used for food (not a carrier-pigeon). chhài-kap-bák, dull of apprehension, as a man (fig. from a pigeon not fit to be used as a carrier).

kap (R. id.) kap-á, a small land frog. chhân-kap-á, id. chhiên-kap-á, id.; also, bits of paper which children cut out and blow at each other's on a table: that one which turns over is beaten. pûn chhân-kap-á, to blow these bits of paper. kâ chhiên-kap-á, id. pûn kap-á, id.

kap-lûi, a small sort of shell-fish. kap-kài, an animal used in medicine.

kap-koē-á (C.), a tadpole. kap-gōe (Cn.), a young frog.

kap — kap-pán, a foreign square-rigged ship or vessel (v. pán).

kap (R. kiap). kap-bân, a strong chest for keeping money. kap-pán (C.), id.

kap — tsòe kap-tsoh, to be a carpenter who makes furniture (v. tsoh).

kap (cf. kāng, kah, háp), with; along with; to unite; to join together; to bind, as a hook; to buy medicine prescribed.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kap, together. kap-i sa<sup>n</sup>-kap-khi, to go along with him. kap-i-kóng, speak with him.

kap-oá, to sew together, as cloth; to put or fasten together, as the parts of a thing. kap-chhùi, a seam, as in a dress; a joint where two boards are united.

kap-chheh, to bind a book. kap-bèh, to sew together the soles and legs of stockings. kap-soá<sup>n</sup>, to make thread (of more than one strand) from yarn. kap-ké, to join several ropes or strands to make one rope; to join stock-in-trade. kap-pâng, to unite in the bridal chamber.

kap-ióh, to huy the medicines prescribed in a prescription. kap hé-ióh, to conspire against a man (lit. tiger's medicine) by false witness, &c. kap--lâng kap-khang, to conspire with bad men to prey on others.

kap [R. háp, to unite], (Cn.), a small measure, one-tenth of a "chin."

kat (R. kek). thê-kat, unburnt sun-dried bricks. in thê-kat, to mould unburnt bricks.

kat (R. kiet), to tie a knot; a knot; to fit up, as hangings. sí-kat, a hard knot. oáh-kat, a bow-knot. tsa-bé-kat, a loose knot. bé-kat, id. kat-thâu, a knot. chhê kat-thâu, to search for the clue (lit. or fig.) kat-á, a knot. jiét-kat-á, small painful boils. pui-kat (T.), pimples and eruptions, as on child's head.

tháu-kat, to loose a knot. kiù-kat, to get entangled. phah-kat, to tie a knot. phah-kat-kiú, all tangled. bák-bái phah-tsòe chit-kat, eyebrows drawn together, as in great sorrow or anxiety.

kat-sí-kè, regular unchanging rate of wages or price, e.g. of boat-hire. kat-ân, to tie tight and firm. kat-tiâu, to tie so that it does not hang loose. kat sa<sup>n</sup>-á-toà, to give certain presents to children (v. toà).

kat-chi<sup>n</sup>, to tie cash on a string. chit-kat-chi<sup>n</sup>,

講

港

降

降

共

鴿

蛤

篋

合

整結

a few cash thus tied together, e.g. a few tens or about a hundred; not so many as "koá".

kat-toá, to fit up a temporary shrine. kat-chhái-lâu, to fit up a temporary pagoda (v. chhái). kat-káu-tiâu, to put up hangings for rites soon after a death (v. tiâu). kat-lêng, to put up a paper and cloth house for the dead. kat-teng, to hang up lanterns in some rites (v. teng).

kat [R. name of a plant, = col. koah]. tsu-kat, name of the ancient hero Khóng-bêng. tsu-kat-teng, fire-balloons.

kat [R. to cut, = col. koah]. kat-tng, to break off or have no intercourse (v. tng). kat-toán, id. kat-tsoát, id. kau-kat, to dissolve partnership.

kat-lé (X.), circumcision.

iók-kat iók-sat, determined to have a feud.

kat-kék, illiberal; narrow; stingy; unwilling to do what one is asked.

kau (Cn.) put-tek khai-kau (= A. kiau), cannot be put right (as quarrel), so as to leave all on good terms.

kau (R. id.) hâng-kau, a firm, hong, or company, for wholesale trade. hâng-kau phê-hê, hong, warehouses, and shops. kau-hê, owner or partner of a small hong. káu-poeh-kau, a commission agent who takes 2 per cent. from the seller and the same from the buyer. bí-kau, a wholesale rice-store. hú-kau, a firm having trade with Tai-wan-foo. lók-káng-kau, one trading with Lók-káng.

tàu-kau, to join a large firm (s. associate).

kau (R. kə), a ditch; a small canal or channel for irrigation; a drain. kau-á, a drain. kau-âm, a covered drain or gutter. hiá-kau, the channels between the rows of tiles on a roof. kám-á-kau, the gutter between the side of a boat and the arched cover of the hold. tsúi-kau, a ditch; a water-channel. tsùn-kau, a channel for irrigation. han-tsú-kau, the hollow between two beds of potatoes. khi<sup>n</sup>-kau, the channel of the stream in a ravine. hó-kau, a city moat.

phi<sup>n</sup>-ê-kau, the Formosa channel.

kau-khut, ditches and pools (v. khut). khan-kau kè-khiáh (to help over ditches and ravines), to help over troubles, dangers, and difficulties, as the gods do.

téng-kau-tsún, junks from near Chin-chew, &c. (v. tsún).

kau (R. id.) kau-lêng, a dragon or sea-monster supposed to cause floods. khi<sup>n</sup> kau-lêng, to cause such an inundation.

kau (R. id.) kau-chiu-soán, felt caps from "kau-chiu," brought by junks from Shantung.

kau (R. kə), a hook; to hook; a down-stroke with a hook at the bottom; to mark a scroll or proof-sheet with a long curved stroke, to show that words or clauses are to be transposed. tò-kau, hooked; barbed. chit-kau, a down-stroke hooked at bottom.

chhín-kau, the hook of a steelyard. niú<sup>n</sup>-kau, hook of large steelyard. niá<sup>n</sup>-kau, the hook of a Chinese collar. thê-lâng-kau, the hook of a mill for separating rice from chaff (v. lêng). hái-lâng-kau, a sea-bird with a very long bill. tah-kau, a boat-hook. bah-kau, a hook for hanging meat on, as in a butcher's shop. hí-kau, an ear-ring.

kau-hí, an ear-pick; to pick the ears with it. kau-hí-oá<sup>n</sup>, spoon-shaped end of it. kau-hí-chiam, woman's hair-pin with ear-pick on it. tsó-kau-hí, the contracted form of the 170th radical. iú-kau-hí, do. of 163d radical. kau-hí-á, either of 163d or 170th radical. kau-nái<sup>n</sup>-hí, id.

kau-hún, a hooked pattern worked on the border of a dress (v. hún). kau-tiò, a good-sized fish-hook (v. tiò).

kau-oá, to pull by a hook, as a boat pulled to the jetty by a boat-hook. kau-sa<sup>n</sup>, to steal clothes by a hook, as from roof or through window. kau--tó, to make a man fall by hooking his leg, as by our foot. kau-poáh, id. kau-kê-lâi, to mark a passage to be transposed in reading or copying. kau-lâi kau-khi<sup>n</sup>, much unravelled or involved, as a thing or affair (s. associate).

kau [R. kə, to mark with a hook, &c., often interchanged with the previous word], to cancel an account by making a mark on it (esp. Cn.) kau-siau, id., as by writing the word "oán" over it and making a large circle. kau-phoá, a tonal mark written on the corner of a character.

kau-tàng, an affair, business, or matter.

kau-tín, a fabulous (Taoist) animal (s. associate).

kau [R. ko, fat, rich]. kau-liâng-sio, a strong sort of spirits (v. sio).

kau [R. ko, high]. kau-hèng, to be very fond of or desire eagerly, as pleasures. kau-hìn (C.), id.

kau (R. id.) kau-í, a chair. kau-í-bín, the seat of a chair. kau-í-pi<sup>n</sup>, the arms of an arm-chair. kau-í-the, the back of a chair. kau-í-pè (C. pòe, T. pò), id.

kau — khih-kau-thâu, the projecting corners of the cheeks below the eyes. koeh-kau-thâu (C.), id. hih-kau-thâu (Cn.), id. (hí?). bô-kè khih-kau-thâu, having no regard to one's own good name and character (v. kè).

kau (R. id.), to associate or have intercourse with; to hand over.

kau-kài, a boundary (v. kài).

kau-ná<sup>n</sup>, a basket (with no divisions) having a semi-circular handle. kau-tháng-á, a sort of bucket with a semicircular handle. kau-chiam têng, bát-liú poá<sup>n</sup> (lit. sewing done very close), over-cautious (v. bát).

kau-chièn, to join battle. kau-piá<sup>n</sup>, very hot and fierce combat, while victory is still in suspense.

kau-háp, to have sexual intercourse. sa<sup>n</sup>-kau, to copulate (said only of the lower animals).

tsóán-kau, to hand over to another according to instructions. kau--i, hand over to him. kau-lí-kè, I hand it (or him) over to you to take care of. kau-tái, to hand or deliver over. kau-hù, id. kau-kê, to intrust with, as business or article. kau-poá<sup>n</sup>, to transfer, as commercial business or office, to another. kau-oá<sup>n</sup>, to interchange. kau-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to give the earnest money. kau-iên, to pay a subscription. kau-lûn, to give over to another in his turn, as land held in common. kau-lín (T.), id. kiò-kau-thòe, a ghost calling a man to be drowned or to kill himself (v. thòe).

kau-koan, to have mercantile intercourse. kau-siong, id. (v. siong). ú-kau-siáp, to have close connection in business or friendship (v. siáp). kau-chhap, so connected as to be involved in his affairs (v. chhap). kau-ka (C. kə), to have monetary dealings with. kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, involved, as affair; avoiding to commit one's self to a decided opinion (v. khâ<sup>n</sup>). kau-khê (C. khê), not yet straight, as involved and troublesome affair. kau-tí<sup>n</sup>, troublesome and involved, causing much loss of time. kau-tín, said by the front

葛

割

溝

蛟
膠 鉤

勾

膏

高

交

chair-bearer to warn the hinder one of some obstacle in the way (s. mark). kau-thong, to have intercourse with improper or suspicious persons. kau-lái kau-khì, holding mutual intercourse together (s. hook). kau-chiap, to have familiar intercourse with. kiet-kau, to make friendship with. kau-kiet pêng-iú, id. kau-hoan, to have intercourse with foreigners. kau-koa<sup>n</sup>, kêng, they who have intercourse with mandarins grow poor. kau-pôe, to associate with. kau-poe, bride and bridegroom exchanging cups after tasting. kau-pài, bride and bridegroom saluting each other. it-biên chi-kau, having met only once, or very seldom. kau-lâng, to be intimate with people. kau-lâng bô-bé, short and changeable in one's friendships. sim-kau ê-lâng, a very intimate friend. khóng-kau, fond of entertaining people; hospitable. chhoân-kau, constantly consorting with (v. chhoân). lâm-kau, to have indiscriminate intercourse with all sorts of people. lâ-kau, unsafe to deal with, as a man who does not return or repay what he borrows. lâu-hi tau-kau, actors forming a company.

soà<sup>n</sup>-kau, to break up, as a company of actors. tsoát-kau, to break off an acquaintance. kau-koah, to separate one's affairs from another's (v. koah). kau-kat, id.

kau — kau-ké, to mark the divisions of an essay.

kâu — kâu-lái, to hold in a man (either by force or by strong influence), so as either to make him do what he is unwilling to do, or to restrain him from doing something dangerous which he wishes to do, or to keep him from leaving us.

kâu [R. tê, dice, = col. tâu]. tau-kâu, a set of three dice. thiâu-kâu, id. tiâu-kâu (T.), id. poáh-tâu-kâu, to gamble with a set of three dice. mê-tâu-kâu, id., especially of the first player. jī-kâu, the throw of the die with two dots. sê-gê-kâu, to get one 5, and the other two equal to each other (by the second player). lák-kâu, the throw when one has six dots, and the other two are equal to each other. poáh lák-kâu, to get that throw of the dice.

kâu [R. hê, a marquis, = col. hâu], a surname. kau-koa<sup>n</sup>, one of the Hien districts of Fuh-chau city.

kâu (R. hê), a monkey; a sort of insect; (said of a licentious man). kâu-kui, the projecting throat of the monkey.

teng-kâu, a bamboo frame for an oil-lamp (v. teng).

phah kau-kûn, to strike or wound one's self, as a beggar or quack (v. kûn). pi<sup>n</sup>-kâu-lâng, legerdemain; to play tricks. poa<sup>n</sup>-kâu-hi, to play a kind of play for the dead. ti-ko kau, figure of boar and monkey in the "hi-phûn" played for the dead. puih kau-bé (T.), children going in a row, each holding on by the coat of the one before. kâu-thâu (T.), the leader of the string of boys. thuh phô-kâu (T.), a game (v. thuh).

kâu-bin, a mask like a monkey's face; a face as ugly as a monkey. bin kau-kâu, face like a monkey's, chin and forehead projecting. kâu-thâu chhú-hi (monkey's head and rat's ears), very ugly (v. chhú). soa<sup>n</sup>-lái-kâu chiáh chhiū-chí (a rustic monkey feeding on seeds of trees), said of a raw rustic just come to town.

kâu chè-thien, the monkey which made offerings to Heaven; the monkey-king, ancestor of British, Americans, and other foreigners! siet-sien, poa<sup>n</sup> kau-chè-thien, to make a pretence.

liáh-kâu, to catch a monkey; to catch a man with a woman. khan-kâu, to lead a monkey; to lead a man to a bad house; also (T. C.), children running in a string, each holding by the coat of the one before, = puih-kâu-bé.

chháu-kâu, a large sort of grasshopper. tê-kâu, an insect like a wingless grasshopper, very destructive to crops. kâu, id. thê-kâu (Cn.), id. kâu-ióh, arsenic, much used for poisoning it. kâu-ún (L.), = A. tê-ún, the earth-worm.

káu [R. ké, dirt]. káu-koeh-sien, indurated dirt on the skin. káu-koeh-san (C.), id. iú-káu, greasy mark made by the hair of the head. chhâu-iú-káu, smelling bad, as the hair itself, or as pillow dirtied by the hair. tsúi-káu, the dirty film that gathers on water kept too long. tsúi hoan-káu, this film forming on water. káu-chhoá, sort of eruption supposed to be caused (from confusion of the word) by eating from a bowl that a dog has licked, or by food which we touched after touching a dog. káu-sien, id.

káu [R. ngáu, to bite]. má-káu, Macao. má-káu-lâng, a Portuguese. má-káu-tsún, a Portuguese lorchá.

káu — káu-hiã, an ant, but not a white ant (v. hiã).

káu — káu-hê, a small sort of shrimp (v. hê).

káu (R. ké), a dog. siáu-káu, a mad dog. sê-káu, a wild animal like a small wolf. láh-káu, a hunting-dog; a wandering man (v. láh). hoan-káu, you foreign dog! (abusive epithet applied to foreigners). hoan-á-káu, id. hâm-káu, careless and reckless in managing matters. káu-hâm, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-káu, a vile, disorderly, ill-behaved, low fellow; a rowdy or rough. hê-kún kau-tóng, a set of vile, wicked, low fellows. tsòe sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-káu pê-tsáu, to crawl away like a wounded dog on three legs (said of a man beaten severely, or dreadfully ashamed). thâu-káu, to poison a dog, as thieves do. káu-ióh, medicine for a dog's bite; also, drugs used by thieves for stupifying dogs. ti koe káu, pigs, fowls, and dogs. káu-siū, a kennel. káu-khang, a hole in a door for a dog; a small door in one leaf of a large door or gate, e.g. in a street-gate. káu-khang-mûg, small door for the hole in the large door.

káu-soh, a large rope or cable (fastened at both ends in the bottom of the sea) to which boats are tied in a row. tái kau-soh, to fasten it at both ends in the sea-bottom. káu-üi, the space occupied by that rope and the boats. siang-chiú<sup>n</sup> ê-káu, the rope to which small boats are tied in a row. mûg-káu (T.), = A. mûg-kúi, a secret bolt to keep a door-bolt shut.

pêng-káu-pêng, the contracted form of the 94th radical, at the side. pêng-káu, id. pêng-káu-á, id. tâng-tsoá thih-káu, the serpent and dog of Hades. pêh-káu-iá (Cn. T.), a deified dog.

bin koã<sup>n</sup>-káu-á (T.), the skin of a man's neck flabby and making large wrinkles just below the cheeks. bin koã<sup>n</sup>-káu koã<sup>n</sup>-káu, id.

káu-kang, a male dog. káu-bú, a female dog; a bitch that has had pups. káu-bú-tsoá, a sort of lizard. káu-bú-hi, sort of fish. káu-bú-soa, a large sort of shark (v. soa). káu-bú-tái (T.), an animal like a large lizard. káu-á-thâng, a hairy caterpillar, said to be poisonous (v. thâng). kim-káu-á, a plant with a quantity of hair at the crown of the root (Aspidium Baromez?). kim-káu-á-mûg, its hair, used for stanching blood.

取

候
猴

垢

咬

狗

hāng chhim, káu ok, said of a man very difficult of access. káu-kā niáu-chhú; lô, jī bū-kong, a dog killing a rat has toil but no thanks, because he overturns or breaks things (said of a meddler getting no thanks though the affair comes right). káu-kā niáu-chhú, bô-kong, id. beh-chiáh-káu, bôe-tit-thang káu-sí (wishing to eat a dog, but unable to get it killed), trying to get something, but unable. ū-chī<sup>n</sup>, táh kim-sai; bô-chī<sup>n</sup>, káu iā-lâi, a wealthy man gets a gilt lion as a footstool (becomes a high mandarin), but a poor man has only a dog to kick; a man without money must put up with what he can get.

káu (R. kiú), nine. jī-káu, twenty-nine; the 29th day of the month. jī-káu ê-hng, the last evening of the year, even though it be the 30th. káu-kàng-hong, heavy gales about the ninth month (v. kàng). chiáh sa<sup>n</sup>-lák-káu, to abstain from animal food on the nine days of the month ending in 3, 6, and 9.

káu-poeh-hāng, a commission agent or firm that takes two per cent. from seller and buyer (v. poeh). káu-ńg, a very low pawn-shop that levies enormous usury (v. ńg). káu-tiâu, part of a room screened off for the rites of "kong-tek" (v. tiâu). káu-tsat-chhèng, a sort of swivel-gun.

káu [R. khé, the mouth, = col. káu]. é-káu, dumb; ill-developed, as ears of corn almost empty, that will not open in cleaning; said also of a flower-bud that withers away without opening. é-káu (C.), id. é-káu (Cn.), id. ek-káu (Cn.), id. é-káu-seh, blundering translation of characters (v. seh).

toā-chih-káu, speaking with difficulty, as from an impediment, or in sickness or great fear. gâi-káu (C.), rude in answering or interrupting; refusing to listen to reason or good advice. kêh-káu, difficult to read off, as a sentence ill put together. káu-kêh (C), id.; also, said of persons discussing a matter together but not agreeing.

kā-káu (T.), a flat fish very good for eating, like the "pi<sup>n</sup>-hí" but larger.

káu — káu-khê, at variance with people (v. khê).

káu [R. crafty; deceitful]. káu-tsá, crafty; intriguing; deceitful. káu-kòe, id. káu-koài, id. (v. koài). káu-kut, id. káu-kút, id. káu-khiat (R.), id. káu-nāi<sup>n</sup>, very impudent and troublesome (v. nāi<sup>n</sup>).

káu [R. to teach; a sect, = col. kà], doctrine; instruction; a religious or philosophical sect. káu-hùn, instruction (v. hùn). káu-hoà, to renovate by instruction. káu-tok, to instruct and keep in good order, as our inferiors. káng-kàu, to preach or explain doctrine. ka-kàu, family instruction (as to its goodness). hó-ka-kàu, having good family instruction; well-ordered family. phái<sup>n</sup>-ke-kàu, having no rule or method in training one's family. lôh--lâng ke-kàu, to receive submissively the rule of the family she enters, as bride or affianced bride. chhèng-kàu (polite), I beg to be instructed. lêng-kàu (R.), I have received your instructions.

jip-kàu, to enter a sect or church. chhut-kàu, to leave it. chiáh-kàu, phrase used by the heathen in speaking of entering the church (not a good phrase).

siá-kàu, a false religion; a heretical sect. chèng-kàu, a correct doctrine or sect. sèng-kàu, the doctrine of the sages; sacred doctrine or religion. sam-kàu, Confucianism, Taoism, and Buddhism. jū-kàu, Confucianism. tô-kàu, Taoism. sek-kàu, Buddhism. pút-kàu, id. hōe-hōe-kàu, Mohammedanism. thien-tsú-kàu, Romanism. thien-chí-kàu (C.), id. iā-sê-kàu, Protestantism (v. sê).

kàu-mŭg, a school of fencing or boxing. kàu-mŭg-lâng, a Mohammedan. kàu-hōe, the church. káu-tsú, the founder of a religion or sect. káu-thâu, the head of a religious body; sometimes said of missionaries, chaplains, &c. kàu-su (T.), a teacher of boxing or gymnastics; also (R.), a religious teacher or missionary. káu-sip, a drill-sergeant. kàu-liên--ê, thoroughly instructed, as in boxing or other things.

kàu [R. to compare; to measure strength, &c.; to dispute; to contest]. khó-kàu, a literary examination. káu-khâm, to examine carefully into a matter; very minute and exacting. pi-kàu, to compare two things to see which is better; to make trial of one's skill, knowledge, ability, &c. (of any sort), with another.

kàu-nāu<sup>n</sup>, angry clamorous disputation; to make a row about a matter. kê-kàu, to dispute somewhat violently; to wrangle.

kàu — peh--kàu (C.), determined to get something that is difficult to be got.

kàu (R. tò), to arrive at; till; to a place, time, or quantity; enough; to win at cards.

bô-kàu, insufficient; has not arrived. ēng-bô-kàu, insufficient for use. bê-kàu, not yet arrived; not enough yet. bat-m-kàu, do not know it sufficiently. tī-kàu, having the (injurious) effect to —. beh-kàu, about to arrive; almost. tú-á-kàu, just arrived.

kàu-tsūn, when the boat arrives; the boat has arrived; to arrive at the boat. kàu-tê, arrived at the place (v. tê). kàu-chhiú, come to hand, as a thing sent.

kàu-tsúi, just in proper season (v. tsúi). kàu-si, when the time comes. kàu-i tò--lâi, when he returned. kàu-bé, at last; to the end. tâu kàu-bé, from first to last. siâu-liên kàu-lâu, from youth to age.

kàu-giáh, enough. kàu-tāng, heavy enough; up to weight. kàu-kè, up to the market price. siu<sup>n</sup>-kàu-kè, rather too high a price. kàu-lé, politeness quite up to the mark. kàu-ēng, enough for use. kàu-chiáh kàu-sái, having enough to eat and use.

kàu-chhin, a steel-yard that makes a thing a little lighter than it is.

chiáh-tit-i-kàu, able easily to overcome him, because we are much more powerful. chiáh--i khah-kàu, to be more powerful than he (v. chiáh). káu kúi-moá<sup>n</sup>, how many games of cards has he won? phah-chit-ki lâi-kàu, to lay down such a card that the other wins (said of a man telling another of a good opportunity for making money).

koá<sup>n</sup>-kàu, to arrive at with speed (v. koá<sup>n</sup>). tui-kàu, to overtake. bô-siū<sup>n</sup>--kàu, did not consider so far (v. siū<sup>n</sup>). hah--kàu, reaching to, as the heat of a fire or influence of exhalation, or influence of a powerful man. jit-chiò--kàu, the sun shines so far as to shine on it. bô-beh kiá<sup>n</sup>--kàu, will not go or walk to it, as to a house. bô-sin-kúi kiá<sup>n</sup>--kàu, no need of fear, no trouble will come; nothing will be lost. iok--kàu, kiá<sup>n</sup>--kàu, he keeps to his word. phah--kàu, liáh--kàu, whatever place they capture they also seize the people.

kàu (C. kauh), a funnel or measure, as for oil or spirits. iū-kàu, an oil measure; a funnel for filling in oil. chit-kàu-iū, one measure (kàu) of oil; about

九

口

狡

教

較

到够

seven or eight catties. chiú-kàu, a small measure for liquor, not of fixed size.

kāu [R. hō], thick; abundant; full of —; strong in flavour, as tea (infused) or liquor. kāu-pòh, thick and thin; strong and weak, as liquor or tea. kāu tut-tut, very thick. kāu-láu, very thick, as paper, cloth, &c. kāu-tāng, very fat, as man; thick and heavy, as a thing (v. tāng). kāu-bin-phê, brazen-faced.

kāu-hēng, lazy; doing as little as can be avoided (v. hēng). kāu-êh, uncomfortable from dirt on clothes or skin; discontented, murmuring, and uncomfortable in mind. kāu-ôe, too fond of talking or murmuring. kāu chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi, giving all manner of trouble; raising all sorts of difficulties. kāu-khōe, peevish and bad-tempered, as crying child that will not be pleased, whatever you try. kāu-khê (C.), id.

kāu khoán-thāi, to treat very kindly. kāu-lé, very polite. kāu khièn-súg, very superstitious. kāu-thàn, to make very good profits. it-hoat kāu-siàu, getting deeper and deeper into debt. kāu sū-lē, having very many affairs to attend to, or many successive illnesses. kāu-soh-lē, having many ropes or affairs (v. soh). kāh-kāu-kang, with much more (or too much) labour. kāu hē-tsúi, a great deal of rain. kāu-chhât, full of robbers or pirates. kāu-kut, full of bones, as a fish. kāu-báng, mosquitoes very numerous.

kāu-hun, a strong kind of tobacco. kāu-hoan-tsoá, a thick paper made with alum. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kāu-tsoá, sort of large and thick white paper. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kāu, id. tióng-kāu, a thinner sort.

kāu (cf. ká, ka). kāu-boáh-chhài, a vegetable like lettuce. kāu-boáh-hóng (C.), a medicinal plant (v. hóng).

kauh, thick cloudy mist. kauh-bê, id. thi<sup>n</sup> kauh-kauh, id. thê-kauh (T.), very thick mist.

kauh (= kauh). σ-kauh-kauh, very black.

kauh, to become soft, mouldy, and bad, as rice or other eatables lying too long; to rot away into manure, as grass.

tām-kauh-kauh, all quite damp or wet. chhi-kauh-kauh, quite damp, as house, or as cakes.

núg-kauh-kauh (= kauh), too soft, as eatables not good to eat.

kauh, to mix eatables, especially putting one inside another; classifier for cakes or pies wrapped up in thin cakes or paste. kauh pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>, to mix and roll up eatables in thin soft cakes. péh-thúg-chhang, kauh pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>, a white sugar confection wrapped in a soft cake. pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>-kauh, eatables so wrapped up. ké kauh-piá<sup>n</sup>, a thick cake wrapped in a thin one.

kúi-kauh, how many such pies? chit-kauh pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>, one of that sort of pie.

kāuh — chiá<sup>n</sup> kauh-kauh, very insipid, tasteless, or fresh (without salt). núg-kauh-kauh, very weak, as a mat; very feeble in body; also (= kauh), too soft, as eatables (opp. ngi<sup>n</sup>-khauh-khauh).

kāuh (= kauh). σ-kauh-kauh, very black.

kāuh, kauh-kauh-lin, to roll about constantly, as a ball.

kāuh (C.), = A. kàu, a measure for oil, &c.

ke (C. ke). ke-ôe, to wrangle; to dispute.

ke — ài kap-láng ke-kak, fond of quarrelling.

ke (C.) gim-ke, = A. gim-koe, the long stone step running along a house.

ke (C.), = A. koe, a street.

ke [R. a fowl; a hen, = col. koe]; also (C.), = A. koe, a fowl; a hen. ke-kan, sodomy.

kim-ke soá-kha (C.), the golden hen changes her leg, causing an earthquake. lêng-kéng-ke (C.), a beautiful insect somewhat like a butterfly or dragon-fly. kha ná<sup>n</sup> lêng-géng-ke, foot like it (said of a woman's very beautiful small feet).

ke (C.), = A. koe, to moor vessels close alongside.

ke (C.) âng-ke, = A. âng-koe, a sort of fish.

ke — phah-kók-ke, the cackling of a hen before laying an egg.

ke (C.), = A. ka (R.), good. ke-khèng, the reign of Kia-king.

ke (C.), = A. ka (R.), beautiful.

ke (R. ka), (C. ke, which also stands for A. ka), to increase; to add to the number or quantity. ke-thi<sup>n</sup>, id. ke-kiám, to increase or diminish; more or less (v. kiám). bô-ke, no more.

tiòh-ke chit-pah, must give a hundred more. kah-ke, still more. kah-ke chit-chheng, more than a thousand. beh kah-ke-chi<sup>n</sup>, he wishes more money. phah ke-ê, to beat still more strokes. ke-kang, more work or workmen; needing more work (v. kang). ke-lâng, more men. ke-gún, more money, &c.

ke-khui, asking too much money for expenses. ke-chih-hēng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to put on more clothes. ke-chiáh chit-hê, to grow one year older. ke-i chit-hê, one year older than he.

ke (R. ka), (C. ke, which also stands for A. ka), a household; a family; used in some phrases for "person." oan-ke, to quarrel; a feud (v. oan). kong-ke, public; common. tāi-ke, all (only of persons); all of you. ták-ke (C.), id.

ta-ke, husband's mother. toā-ke (C.), id. ta-ke ũ-chhùi, sim-pū bô-chhùi, the mother-in-law may order as she pleases, the daughter-in-law has nothing to say. ke-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's parents (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). chhin-ke, fathers of bride and bridegroom (v. chhin).

hâng-ke, the head or manager of a firm. thâu-ke, the head of a firm, business, or shop. thâu-ke-niú<sup>n</sup>, his wife. tsú-lâng-ke, an innkeeper; a man who calls a doctor for self or for one of his family. pó-ke, a security or surety; insurance office or agency (v. pó). siàu-liên-ke, a young man. hau-si<sup>n</sup>-ke, id. toā-lâng-ke, an old man.

tsó-ke, ancestral home (v. tsó). goā-ke, a woman's own blood-relations (said after she is married). lú-ke, the bride's relatives. lâm-ke, the bridegroom's relatives. jîn-ke, a family in general. ke-ke hē-hē, family by family; all the families. thong-ke, the whole family (v. thong). kui-ke-kháu, all the persons in a family (v. kháu). ke-sè<sup>n</sup> (C.), a clan.

ke-lāi, wife; wife and children. ke-āu, wife. ke-koan, wife; wife and children. ke-tiú<sup>n</sup>, head man of a village; manager or shroff in a hong (v. tiú<sup>n</sup>). ke-kah, a census (v. kah). ke-hùi, family expenses. ke-ióng (C.), id. ke-giáp, family property. ke-hé, family property of all sorts. ke-hóe (C.), id. ke-sū, family affairs, as to wealth, &c. (v. sū). ke-sin-pai, broad ancestral tablets with several names ke-si, instruments; implements; furniture; weapons (v. si). ke-kòe, tools; implements for work or fighting (v. kòe).

ke-ün, the fated period of a family getting on well or ill. ke-si, state of a family as to behaviour and

厚

雞

加

家

prosperity. ke-sì-bé, family declining and coming to utter ruin, as when all its members act improperly. hó-ke-si, family prospering by the good behaviour and wealth of its members. phái<sup>n</sup>-ke-si, family all disobedient, wasteful, and ill-behaved, so that all goes wrong. hó-ke-tàng, wealthy. hó-ke-kàu, having good order in the family (v. kàu). pè-bú ke-hong, parent's reputation.

hoã<sup>n</sup>-ke, to manage the affairs of the family. lí-ke, id., as wife docs. chhiã<sup>n</sup>-ke, to increase family property, as wife does by care of household. phoã-ke, to waste family property; to injure the good luck of the family, as a bride having a bad horoscope. phoã-ke-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a wasteful son. phoã-ke-tiâu, omen of house going to ruin, as had conduct of self or of family. chhiau-ke, to search a mandarin's house, as his ancestral home, so as to confiscate what he has embezzled.

chhut-ke, to become a Buddhist priest or nun. khiã-ke, to have one's family living at a place. tiù-ke (Cn.), id.

kê (cf. khê). kê--teh, somewhat obstructed, as a drawer or sliding-door; delayed, as an affair, because something else must first be arranged. kê--tiòh (T. tê-teh), involved in delays because of something that must be done before our affair. ũ sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kê--tiòh, what is it that hinders, e.g. hinders door from shutting. ki<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup> kê-kê, ill-arranged and obstructing the way, as furniture in a room, or as a load to be carried. ki-ki kê-kê, id.

tü-kê (T.), = A. ti-tsáh, a barrier for keeping pigs from getting out of a yard.

kê (R. ká), (C. kè), the cangue, a heavy square block fastened round a criminal's neck; to put the cangue on a man; to put a man's feet in a sort of stocks. kha-kê, sort of stocks for the feet (used by villagers). siang-liên-kê, a large cangue with holes for two criminals at once. kê-hoãn, a criminal wearing the cangue. kê-hô, inscription on the cangue giving name, crime, and length of punishment. kê-iũ, id. kê-tiâu, id.

giã-kê, to wear the cangue. giã-i-kê, to have a chair put on one's head in joke. pàng-kê, to take off the cangue. phah-kê, to beat and put on the cangue. kê-chhát, to put the cangue on a thief. kê hit-ê-lâng, put the cangue on that man's neck. kê i-ê-kha, put his feet in a sort of stocks.

kê (C.), = A. kôe, pickled-fish or shell-fish.

ké (C. kóe; Cn. kǒ), to put something under a piece of furniture so as to make it steady, or to raise it higher. ké-toh, to put something below the foot of a table so as to steady it. ké-kha, to use something (as a stool) so as to reach higher (s. false). ké-khi-tsái, make it steady by putting something under.

ké (C.), = A. kóe, to correct; to change. ké-hó, to change for the better; to reform (s. A. false).

ké (C.), = A. kóe, to explain, &c. ké-soeh, = A. kóe-seh, to interpret hook-language in colloquial.

ké (C.), = A. ká, a surname.

ké (R. ká), (C. kè; also = A. ká), to feign; to pretend; to forge; feigned; forged; counterfeit. chin-ké, real and counterfeit. ké-iã<sup>n</sup>, feigned; pretended. ké-i, deceitful purpose. ké-tsòe, feigned; feigning; pretending. ké-tsòe m-tsai, pretend not to know; feigning ignorance. ké-bô, to pretend not to be what one is. ké bô-khoã<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, pretend not to see; to wink at faults.

ké-kha, making women's large feet look like small feet by small shoes on the toes (s. support). ké-hó, hypocrisy (v. hó). ké lãng-ê-miã<sup>n</sup>, to pretend to be such a man, either by word or by forgery. ta-pê ké-tsa-bé, a man in woman's dress. hoan-ná ké-tng-lâng, a foreigner pretending to be a Chinaman, as by wearing the Chinese dress.

ké-khiên, sportive caressing by children. ké-kiên-koai, making a pretence of disobedience or resistance while knowing it to be quite useless. ké-khek, chhiũ<sup>n</sup>-bôe-lòh-âu, said of a man telling transparent lies.

ké (R. kó), (C. kóe, Cn. kǒ), a cake, especially a soft cake; pastry; various things offered to idols. chit-sng-ké, one large steam-cooked cake. chhiau-ké, to mix and work up dough for cakes. hêng-ké, to make presents of cakes and various other things that have been offered to the spirits.

kan-ké, dried catables of various kinds, as dried flesh, salted fish, and miscellaneous vegetable condiments, but not sweetmeats, except walnuts and some dried fruits. kan-ké-tiàm, a shop for such articles.

ké-koa<sup>n</sup>, dried cakes. ké-ká<sup>n</sup>, leaven for cakes. ké-ã<sup>n</sup>, stuffing of cakes. ké-thng, sort of soup made with sliced cakes. ké-kun, a cloth or bag used for wrapping cakes in steaming. ké-hiòh, leaves used for this purpose.

hún-ké, a white jelly, in diamond shape, made from the pea called "lêk-tâu." khi-ké, persimmons dried flat. hoat-ké, sort of leavened cake. ti<sup>n</sup>-ké, sweet cakes. ku-ké, turtle-shaped and other sorts of cakes.

ê-ké, cakes made of rice and taro. bí-so-ké, shuttle-shaped cakes (v. so). bí-ké, cakes made of rice dough. mí<sup>n</sup>-ké, cakes made of wheaten flour. mí<sup>n</sup>-pit-ké, sort of fermented cake that splits open. thng-ké-á, sweetmeats of sugar and rice-flour. káu-têng-ké, sweetmeats with wavy lines in nine layers or so. béh-te-ké, cakes fried in fat with meal, &c. boán-chien-ké, a sort of twisted fried cake. iũ-chiã-ké, another sort. oã<sup>n</sup>-ko-ké, cakes made in cups. sang-ko-ké, cakes made of sugar and parched rice. chhài-thâu-ké, sort of cake made with grated long turnips.

ké [R. kó, fruit], (C. kóe, Cn. kǒ). ké-chí, fruit. ké-chí-hng, an orchard. ké-chí-thêh, an inclosed orchard near a house. ké-chí-thâu, the first fruit of the season, said of the (pi-pé) loquat.

pêh-ké-á, a white medicinal nut (= gũn-hêng), about size of hazel (Salishuria?).

kè (R. kà), (C. kè), price. kè-sè, id. kè-sè kàu-tá-lòh, what is the price? kè-chí<sup>n</sup>, price. kè-gũn, id., as in silver (s. cross, s. send). ũ-kè, to have a good rate (of price). oã<sup>n</sup> ũ-kè, to change at a good profit or rate. bôe-ũ-kè, to sell at a good rate. bôe-bô-kè, to sell without much profit. bô-kè-pó, very costly; worth a vast amount. hè chin, kè sit, the articles are good and the price fixed.

gũn-kè, value of the dollar in cash according to the state of exchange; the value of silver. gũn-kè khah-lòh, the value of silver has fallen. chí<sup>n</sup>-kè khah-tióng, the value of copper cash has risen. hu-kè, the hire of a mandarin's chair-bearers. iũ-kè, the price of oil; (&c.) sí-kè, the current price. chiàu-sí-kè, according to the current price. kiet-sí-kè, to fix an unvarying price, as for something we are constantly buying from a man. kat-sí-kè, do., or as recognized unchanging rate of price or wages. put-téng-kè, at different prices, as articles of the same sort, but of various sizes or excellence. goãn-kè,

饅頭

枷

果

價

假

prime cost. siók-kè, a low price; cheap. pháip-kè, id., said by the seller. tó-tōe-kè, an extraordinarily low price that cannot be expected to get lower.

phah-kè, to propose a price to the seller; to state the proper price, as a third party. kè-kè, to estimate the price (v. kó), (s. frame). chhiang-kè (f.), to call out the price loud, as at auction. toàn-kè, to agree on the price after discussion. kóng-kè, to ask more than the price, gen. as preparation for being brought lower. liám-kè, id. hoah-kè, to put an extra price on an article, as from change in supply and demand. gâu-phan-kè, skilful at getting a high price for one's goods.

kàu-kè, up to the current market price (v. kàu). khah-chiáh-kè, to pay (willingly) rather more than the price. kō-kè (Cn.), too high a price offered. thi<sup>n</sup>-kè, to increase the sum one offers. kái-kè, to rise in price. tióng-kè, to rise in price; to charge a little more because articles are of picked quality. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kè (C.), to rise in price. phòng-kè, price charged more than was paid (v. phòng), (s. head-dress).

lak-kè, to lower the price; to fall in price. lóh-kè, to fall in price. siu<sup>n</sup>-lòh-kè, too cheap. siū<sup>n</sup>-lòh-kè (C.), to regret or repent of having done anything. kàng-kè lái-chiū<sup>n</sup>-i, let down the price, to come nearer his offer. kàng-kè lái-têng--i, to undersell him. kàng-kè lái-im--i, to sell cheap in order to compel him to lower his price too (v. im).

chhut-kè, to offer a price (as buyer), generally less than is asked, and less than he is really expecting to give (s. marry). bō-chhut-kè, does not haggle by offering a price lower than is asked, as a good customer; does not allow any haggling, as a shop with fixed prices which they will not lower. chhut-m-chiá<sup>n</sup>-kè, to offer a price too low to be accepted. kè chhut-chiá<sup>n</sup>-liáu, the bargain is fully made.

kè [R. kà, leave of absence; furlough], (C. kè). pàng-kè, to dismiss a school for the holidays. kò-kè, to request leave of absence on furlough, as a mandarin (s. connected). kè-kè (Cn.), id. kò-toā-kè, to ask to be relieved of office for a very long time, as a mandarin with a severe chronic disease.

kè (C.), = A. kòe, itch and similar cutaneous diseases.

kè [R. a thistle; name of a city], a surname.

kè [R. kò, a sort of fish], (Cn. kō; C. kè). kè-hi, a reddish fish. kè-á-hi, id. pak-kè-á, dried fish of this sort from the North.

kè (C.), = A. kà. tai-kè, you, sir! (polite).

kè (C.), = A. kòe. si-kè, in all directions. tsò-si-kè, to do field-work; to cultivate the fields. ũ-si-kè, to have fields. toā-bóng si-kè, very abundant (v. bóng).

kè (R. kà), (C. kè), to marry a husband; to give a daughter in marriage. kè-chhoā, to marry or be married, in general; marriage. kè-ang, to be married to a husband. chhut-kè, id., said only of a virgin. koe-kè, to marry a second husband, as a widow. tsài-kè, id. au-kè, id.

kè tsa-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to give one's daughter in marriage.

kè-tsng, marriage outfit given to a daughter. sūi-kè-kán, female slave given to a daughter at marriage. sūi-bú-kè--ê, a child that goes with its widowed mother when she is re-married. sàng-kè-m, a matron who accompanies the bride at marriage to instruct her in her duties. sàng-kè-chí (T.), id. toā-kū sàng-kè, bride's elder brother accompanying her to the husband's house (on horseback), (only occasionally done by wealthy persons).

kè-koe, tè-koe pe; kè-káu, tè-káu tsáu (if married to a fowl or a dog, you must fly or run), wife must share the toils and troubles of husband.

kè [R. to connect in succession]. kip-kè, very diligent.

kò-kè, to be adopted as son, generally from the same clan (s. furlough). kō-kè (Cn.), id. (s. price). kè-sú, to be adopted as a son, in order to continue the line of succession. hō--i kè-sú, give over (a son) to him to be adopted for that purpose.

kè-tsu, son of wife (who was a widow) by her former husband (said in relation to the second husband), (s. cross). kè-tsu-á, adopted son (said in scolding). kè-heng-tè, half-brother by either parent re-married after death of the other parent. kè-hū, step-father. kè-bú, step-mother.

kè [R. kài, to send, as money or criminal under escort; by change of tone from "kái," to loose], (C. kòe). kè-sàng, to send under guard, as a criminal, esp. to a superior mandarin. kè-hoán, id. kè-chhe, men who conduct the criminal to the office of the mandarin who is to try or punish him. kè-gún, to transmit silver to a superior mandarin (s. price; s. cross). kè-gún-siò, transmit boxes of silver to superior mandarin. kè-gún chiū<sup>n</sup>-séng, id., to provincial capital. kè-hiòng-gún, to transmit customs money thus. kè-chí<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, transmit land-tax thus.

phah-tè-kè, to send a criminal under guard from another Hien district to his own district mandarin to be punished. phah-tōe-kè, id.

kè [R. id., head-dress of woman; man's queue; cock's comb], (C. kòe; Cn. kō). kè-á, an ornament of artificial hair worn on a woman's head. thâu-kè, id. thâu-tsang-kè, id. kō-thuh, (Cn.) id. hōng-kè, a large ornamental head ornament worn by mandarin's ladies, and at marriages. kim-kè, a small sort worn at marriages. phòng-kè, a sort of female head-dress (s. price). moā<sup>n</sup>-kè, head-dress of coarse yellow hemp, worn at a funeral by widow or daughter-in-law. kut-kō (Cn.), all a female's head ornaments. kè-soh, a band for woman's hair ornaments, generally red. kè-tsam (T.), a hair-pin. kè-ké-tsam (T.), hair ornaments in general.

ti-kè, to put on or wear this sort of head-dress, as at marriage. thng-kè, to take it off, three days after marriage. pak-kè, to make this sort of ornament (s. cross). pak thâu-tsang-kè, id. pak-kō (Cn.), to fasten on the ornament on the top of a woman's hair. chiàu-pē soe-thâu, chiàu-bú pak-kè, imitate parents (lit. as to hair).

kè-á-bé, string at end of a man's queue. in kè-á-lê, to make the queue into a knot at the back of the head (said also of other things of same form). tí<sup>n</sup> kè-á-lê, id. tí<sup>n</sup> kè-á, id. kè-á-tsang, small queue at side of child's head. kō-liu (Cn.), a mau's queue.

koe-kè, a cock's comb. ke-kòe (C.), id. koe-kè-hoe, the cock's-comb flower. koe-kè-iú, the fat about the sweet-bread of a pig.

kè [R. a plan; to plan; to sum up; sum total; all]. kè-bé, to plan or scheme; a scheme or plot. thong-bê tsō-kè, to conspire against a man. siet-kè, to plan. kè-ti, a plan or scheme (v. tí). kè-chhek, id. àm-kè, a secret plot. tiòng-kè, to be ensnared by a scheme; to fall into a plot. kè-kióng, all his scheming come to nothing. gién thèng, kè chióng, his counsels are followed.

解

解

髻

假

鮎

界

嫁

計

seng-hoat-kè, means of livelihood.

put-kè kī-sè, innumerable. kè-sng joā-tsōe, count up the sum total. kè-kiōng, sum total. kiōng-kè, id. kè--ê tióh-pī<sup>n</sup>, all are ill. kè--ê thiā<sup>n</sup>, all are pained. kè--chit-ê hó, all are well. kè-si-àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, they are all so. kè-ōe-kóng--tit, either or any of them may be said.

kan-kè, taking a long time to get done; difficult to accomplish; in want (s. cross). kan-kè toā, growing with difficulty, as a child. ū sim-mih<sup>n</sup> kan-kè, what difficulty is there in that? jīn bū kan-khé-kè, lân-tek sè-kan-tsái, no gains without pains. hoán-kàn-kè, to use trickery to set men at enmity; to plot secretly against a man, as by insinuating false accusations; to lead into danger and then turn against him. ēng hoán-kàn-kè, id. sái hoán-kàn-kè, id.

kè-kàu, to wrangle; to dispute violently or scold one another. ēng-sim kè-kàu, to try every means to get what our heart is set upon.

過

kè (R. kò), (C. kòe; Cn. kǒ), to cross; to go through or over; past; gone; to infect by contagion; an occasion or time; classifier of so many times; to burn away to ashes, as wood or coals; to overpass or go beyond bounds; often sign of passive, or of work done on a thing.

āu-kè, next time. chit-kè, once. chit-kè, this time. chit-kè poā<sup>n</sup>-kè, scarcely if ever (lit. half a time). chit-poā<sup>n</sup>-kè, very rarely. tsáp-jī-kè, twelve times.

tsòe-kè, to have done. ki<sup>n</sup>-kè, to have seen. bat-kiā<sup>n</sup>-kè, to have had experience of it. kè-liáu, already past. kè-āu, id. kè-sin, past; dead. kè--khì, gone; dead; past. kè-óng, to die, as man; past, as affair. kè-si, to die. kè-khùi, id.

kè-tsú (C. kòe-chí), to be cooked. kè-tsú (C. kòe-tsú), to change owners, as property (s. connected). tsú siu<sup>n</sup>-kè-hé, cooked too much. kè-boā, to be sharpened. kè-mi<sup>n</sup>, to become sharp, as edge (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). kè-phiò, to have been bleached. kè-tiú, to be washed or filtered out, as powdered articles. kè-giām, to make search, as customs officers.

kè-tsúi, to be slightly washed; to cross the water in a boat; across the water; small roofs built at the two front corners of the large central house, connecting it with the side houses. kè-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to be cooked in a frying-pan or rice-boiler. kè-tē-gék, to endure the Buddhist hell, passing through it into another state.

kè sa<sup>n</sup>-sūn, to perform the third set of rites for the dead (done by a married daughter or son-in-law).

kè-āu, to be swallowed. kè-chhiú, to pass from one man to another, as money, &c. hāi--lāng bōe-kè-chhiú, unable to do some one the injury we wish.

kè-sit, a fault; a sin.

kè-tē, too much (v. tē). kè-tē, to cross by a ferry. kè-thāu, too much. kè-hūn, taking more than our share; acting in an overbearing or unjust manner (v. hūn). kè-hun, too ripe, as fruit; too strong, as medical infusion. kè-sék, too ripe. tióh-boā kè-koā, to labour far beyond one's strength, so as to hurt one's self. kè-tsoa, opportunity quite lost. kè-kóng, id. kè-hān, delay beyond set time. kè-ān, id. kè-ān bō-hēng, delay payment beyond set time. kè-sí, to pass the proper time. kè-si-lāh-bī, an old affair that need not be raised again (v. lāh, "almanac").

tui-m-kè, unable to overcome him. chiah--i kè-kè, easily able to overcome him, so that he has no chance. sài-kè, to be better than. khah-sài-kè, id. sái ōe-kè-bīn, can be used, as bad money, or as a plan somewhat improper, or a falsehood. sái ōe-kè-bé, it can be passed, as a bad article, or as bad money. sái ē-kòe-bé (C.), id. sái-kè-bé, to pass a bad article, &c. khít-i-liáh kè-bé, to be seized by an enemy in battle, and dragged over to his horse; to be so much inferior to a man (in strength, skill, wisdom, &c.), as to submit to him without resistance. phien-phia<sup>n</sup>-sí sái-tit-kè, to be able to pass without injury certain very unlucky days (v. phia<sup>n</sup>).

kap-goá bō-kan-kè, it does not concern me (v. kan, "a shield").

goá-bat kè-bák, I have looked at it. hē-goá kè-bák, let me have a look at it. hit-ê-mih<sup>n</sup> ū-kè goá-bák, I have seen it. m-kè lāng-bák, not pleasant to look at, as a thing or an action.

kè-ì, pleased; glad; to rejoice. m-kè-sim, cannot bear the thought of it, e.g. of leaving one's family to go abroad; to feel very much grieved and dissatisfied with one's self for what one has done, e.g. for injuring one's own children. kè bōe-tit-khì, id.

sio kàu-kè-kè, to burn quite away to ashes. se-sim iáu-bē-kè, the lamp wick is not yet burnt out. chek bō-joā-kú ōe-kè, the candle will not last long.

kè-jit, to pass the day (v. jit). kè-géh, next month; either calendar month, or from a fixed day. tan-teng kè-tē, each generation having only one son. bóng-kè, just getting on so and so (v. bóng).

kè-siáu, to pay by giving a bill on some one who owes us (v. siáu). kè-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to pay the earnest mouey. kè-gūn, to pay over silver, consummating a purchase, &c. (s. price; s. send).

kè-bái, a cross bar (wood or stone) over the lintel of a door or window.

kè-liáu, to change the rate of a tune. kè-liáu, to pass the sheet from one side of the vessel to the other in tacking; to get over a difficulty, as by borrowing a little money (v. liáu). kè-ki, to make a new plant by tying mud on a branch; adopted from another surname; to pass from branch to branch, as birds. kè-ki, to pass the usual meal time without eating (v. ki, "opportunity").

kè-pāng, to be adopted, generally by man of same clan. kè-pāng hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, adoptive brothers. kè-pāng toā-chí, elder sister in the family into which one is adopted.

ài-kè-lāng, infectious. kè-tióh, infected by contagion, as itch, &c.

chiah-kè, please let me pass. kiā<sup>n</sup>--kè-khì, to pass by or through. thau-kè, to pass through, as in boring a hole, or as liquid soaking through. phah-thau-kè, to make a door, passage, or access through and through. thiàu-kè, to leap over. keng-kè, to go through, as on a journey, or as an experience.

kè-lē, to pass along the road. kè-chhù kè-théh, to pass from house to house, as busybody. kè-hú, to go into another Foo department. kè-koāi<sup>n</sup>, to go into another Hien district. kè-hoan, to go abroad; to emigrate. thok--lāng kè-chhùi, to ask another to speak for us.

kè (R. kà), (C. kè), a frame; a stand; scaffolding or shelves. kè-á, a small frame or set of shelves, &c. sip-jī-kè, a cross. jīn-jī-kè, the couple for a gable-roof. phāng-kè, frame on which the sail rests when taken down. bāng-se-kè, frame on which nets are hung in a junk, as a guard against bullets. chhèng-kè, frame on which a cannon is mounted; a gun-carriage. phau-kè, id. to-kè, a stand for swords and spears, &c., at gate of city or of yamun. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-kè, a high clothes-stand. i-kè, a low clothes-stand. ui-kè

架

(C.), bride's clothes stand. chheh-kè, a set of bookshelves, an open book-case. chhài-kè, frame or shelves at shop door for eatables set out for sale.

pit-kè, a small rest for the ends of pens. kha-kè, a large footstool. chhù-kè, scaffolding for building. tah-kè, to put up scaffolding. eng-ko-kè, a torturing machine used in yamuns.

kè-pang, shelf in upper part of bed.

gū-kè-á (C.), a wooden muzzle with wooden spikes, for keeping calves from sucking.

kē [R. hā, below, low. = col. ē, hē], (C. kē), low; unskilful; impure, as metal much alloyed. koài<sup>n</sup>-kē, high and low (v. koài<sup>n</sup>). lōh-kē, to go lower. kē-kim, impure gold. kē-gūn, impure silver. kiáu kē, unskilful at gambling. bák-chiu pàng-kē-kē (C.), = A. ---hē-hē, eyes cast down.

kē (C.), = A. kōe, easy.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, a cyclical character.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, a watch of the night.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, the warp; to weave.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, soup.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>. kē<sup>n</sup>-tit, one of the terms.

kē<sup>n</sup> [R. kēng, to choke, as with a bone], (T. Cn. kēh). kē<sup>n</sup>--tiōh, to have something sticking in the throat. kē<sup>n</sup>--sí, to die of choking, as from a bone in the throat. kē<sup>n</sup>-kui, feeling of discomfort (causing hiccup, &c.) from eating too fast or too much.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. kī<sup>n</sup>, a flail.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, rods of abacus; spokes of wheel. lō-kē<sup>n</sup>, a small road; a path. tsáh i--ê lō-kē<sup>n</sup>, lie in wait for him.

kē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ki<sup>n</sup>, a row of rafters.

keh [R. kek, the diaphragm]. heng-khám-keh, the upper part of the trunk inclosed by the ribs; the chest. heng-keh, id. heng-keh thià<sup>n</sup>, the breast all pained.

keh-sit, a severe chronic disease (internal cancer?) in which one always vomits food when half swallowed.

thun bōe-lōh ē-keh, said of unlawful gains immediately lost, or slipping from one's grasp when apparently certain.

keh [R. kek, to investigate, to calculate, a pattern, a frame; a line, as a rule], (C. keh). keh-sek, pattern; model, as for a document; proper way of writing a man's title, as to the words and their position; proper rule or style for an accusation, petition, &c. háp-keh-sek, made according to geomantic rules, as a grave. jī-keh, ruled paper; a ruled copy-book. keh-chhioh, a ruler (not round) for ruling lines.

siú<sup>n</sup>-keh, a proclamation offering a reward, as for apprehending a man or killing a tiger.

keh-ki<sup>n</sup>, to apply the compass to determine the luck of a grave, &c. keh lô-ki<sup>n</sup>, id.

ē-keh, the lower part, as of a set of shelves, or as of the trunk, about the belly. téng-keh, the upper part of the trunk; the chest.

ū kùi-keh, face giving omen of wealth. phín-keh (r.), general bodily form of a man. kut-keh, general form of the body. hó-kut-keh, body well formed. kut-keh lóng-thià<sup>n</sup>, all one's bones pained. moá<sup>n</sup>-sin-keh, one's whole body, e.g. in pain. toá-keh-koe, fowl of large sort, as from Shanghai.

bān-jī-keh, open work, as of a screen, in the form of the figure called "bān."

ki<sup>n</sup> thi<sup>n</sup>-keh (lit. seeing the framework of the skies), said of a clear cloudless sky.

keh (C. keh). chhân-keh, the hard subsoil of a field. ki<sup>n</sup> chhân-keh, subsoil visible. chhèng kàu-ki<sup>n</sup>-keh, to lay bare the subsoil, as a flood. keh-thê, the subsoil, of a reddish-brown colour. thê-keh, id. ū thê-keh, to have such a subsoil, as a grave dug down to it, as is proper.

keh [R. khiet, = col. koeh], (C. keh, keh). keh-á (esp. C.), a reaping-hook.

keh [R. kek, a bamboo division], (C. keh). nâ<sup>n</sup>-keh, horizontal division of a basket. tek-keh (C.), a stiff bamboo screen hung outside of a door.

keh [R. kek, to partition, to separate], (C. keh), to separate, as a wall or river; to have an interval, as of days, or as passing a night.

keh-tūng, to separate, as a wall, &c. tsó-keh, to obstruct. keh-hô, separated by a canal or large river. keh-soa<sup>n</sup>, separated by a mountain. keh chit-ê-soa<sup>n</sup>, id.

keh-piah, next door neighbours.

keh-mi<sup>n</sup>, to pass the night. keh-chit-jit, after one free day has intervened; on alternate days; day after to-morrow; letting one day pass without doing something done each other day. keh-sa<sup>n</sup>-jit, after three clear days have intervened.

keng-keh, rooms made by partitions; separate rooms in a house. joá-tsōe keng-keh, how many rooms has the house.

keh-kai<sup>n</sup> hia<sup>n</sup>-tī (T.), first or second cousins. keh-pak hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, sons of same father by different mothers.

keh (R. kek), (C. keh), to parry; to ward off. keh-khui, id.; to separate with the hands, as parties quarrelling. jia-keh, to ward off, as blows with a shield.

keh (R. kok), (C. koeh; Cn. kōh), the surname Kwoh. keh-sèng-óng, an idol, = kóng-ték tsun-óng, born in the interior near Ankoï, to whose tomb there are great pilgrimages.

keh (C.) tāu-keh, = A. tāu-ngoeh, long legumes.

keh [R. khoat, an edible plant], (C. koeh). keh-hún, a flour like arrow-root made from the root of a plant. keh-hún-pau, a confection made from it.

keh [R. kek, a sort of vegetable], (C. keh). keh-nâ<sup>n</sup>-chhài, a vegetable like cabbage or greens. keh-mē<sup>n</sup>-chhài (C.), id.

kēh (= ke, onomatopoeic sound), (C. kēh<sup>n</sup>). kēh-kēh-háu, to cackle, as a hen; said also of a boy or woman disputing, and talking too loud or too much.

kēh (Cn. T.), = A. kē<sup>n</sup>, to stick in the throat, as a bone.

kēh — kēh--tó, to trip; to stumble.

kēh (R. gék), (C. kēh), to oppose, esp. oppose or resist a superior. ū-kēh, to oppose a superior. sa<sup>n</sup>-kēh, to oppose each other. tùi-kēh, in direct opposition to a man's wishes or plans. hoài<sup>n</sup>-kēh, opposed to what is right and just; disobedient, as conduct or language. hoài<sup>n</sup>-hoài<sup>n</sup> kēh-kēh, id.; all in confusion.

kēh-kiū<sup>n</sup>, refusing to obey; obstinately opposing. kēh-phiah, stubborn; obstinate in disposition. kēh-káu, difficult to read or recite, as a sentence ill put together. kēh-hī, making people unwilling to listen, as unreasonable talk (v. hī).

phah-kēh, to act diametrically opposite to the wish of a superior or partner (&c.) in order to show displeasure and make a quarrel; to spite him. phah-kēh m-chiáh, to refuse to eat just to spite him. phah-kēh m-khì, determined not to be put away, as wife or concu-

下

梗

膈

格

垆

契 隔
隔

郭

蕨
蔕
梗

逆

bine. phah-kéh beh-khì, determined to leave, and acting so as to make our superior (or partner) displeased with us, and willing to let us leave; or as wife or slave-girl acting so as to make her husband or master willing to divorce or sell her. phah-kéh beh-thiah, constantly acting contrary to partner's wishes in order that he may be willing to dissolve the partnership.

kèh<sup>n</sup> [R. gék, to oppose, = col. kèh]. kōng-kèh<sup>n</sup>, not on good terms; slightly at variance; not getting on well together, as in a family; always ready to find fault and make little quarrels; out of tune with each other, as two instruments.

kèh<sup>n</sup> (cf. khèh<sup>n</sup>, kèh). kih<sup>n</sup>-nih<sup>n</sup> kèh<sup>n</sup>-nèh<sup>n</sup>, sound of things breaking or rattling together, as if ready to break. kih<sup>n</sup>-kih<sup>n</sup> kèh<sup>n</sup>-kèh<sup>n</sup>, id. lûi kèh<sup>n</sup>-nèh<sup>n</sup>-nèh<sup>n</sup>, great sound of thunder lûi-tân kèh<sup>n</sup>-nèh<sup>n</sup>-nèh<sup>n</sup>, id.

kèh<sup>n</sup>-kèh<sup>n</sup>-háu (C.), = A. kèh-kèh-háu, cackling of a hen.

kek [R. the diaphragm, = col. keh]. kek-sit, a deadly internal disease that causes food to be vomited as soon as it is taken. hu-lô kék-kek, this and other deadly diseases.

siu<sup>n</sup>-pá-kek, feeling a surfeit.

kek (R. id.), a halbert; a halbert-shaped spear. hong-thien-kek, id. to-chhiu<sup>n</sup> kiám-kek, swords and spears.

kek — chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiam-kek, the lower piece of wood that keeps an oar-pin steady.

kek [R. to strike]. kong-kek, to attack; to fight against (s. expel). kek-ké, to strike the drum in a yamun in order to draw attention to some urgent case of violence, &c.

iú-kek, a military officer somewhat like a colonel or lieutenant-colonel.

kek (R. id.), (P. kiok), to expel; to drive away. kek-chhut, to expel, as from a village, family, or society. kek-tiók, id. kong-kek, to drive away unitedly and publicly (as a robber), so as not to allow him to harbour among them; done by all the people of a village (s. strike).

kek-niú<sup>n</sup>, to dismiss a soldier. kek-chit, to depose from office, and more or less degrade in rank. kek-chit liú-jim, to degrade in rank but leave in the office. kek-jim, to put out of office, not affecting his rank.

kek [R. id., = col. keh], to put up a partition; to partition off. kek bát-pin, to put up a close partition. kek-khám, to divide into small divisions; to be on bad terms with people (v. khám). kek-tsán, to partition into horizontal layers.

kek (R. kiok), (C. kiok, T. Cn. kak), the chrysanthemum and such flowers. kek-hoe, id. bân-siú-kek, the marigold. chháu-kek-á, a small flower like chrysanthemum.

kam-kek, camomile. péh-kek-hoe, white chrysanthemum; camomile.

kek (P.), = A. kiok, in the case of some words.

kek (R. id.), (P. sometimes "kiok"), to dam up, as water; (to suffocate); to raise steam or make great heat; to distil; to make a special effort; to put on airs or affect some manner; to stir up to emulation or anger; to provoke.

kek-tsúi, to dam up water. tò-kek, to dam up, as water, so as to make it flow in the opposite direction. kek-lim, great difficulty in passing urine, as in disease (v. lim).

kek--sí, to be drowned or suffocated, as by smoke; to cause a man's death by irritating or threatening him. êng-ôe kek--sí, to make a man die of rage or fear. hé-hun kek--sí, to be suffocated by smoke. khít-tsúi kek--sí, to be drowned.

hong-hé kek, caused (as a disease) by a hot or feverish state or tendency of body. kek âng-kun, veins red and inflamed. hé kek-kàu chin-âng, to make a furnace very hot.

kek hé-hun, to make steam, as in boiler of engine. kek-chiú, to distil spirits; to incite each other to drink liquor by mutual pledging, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-kek-chiú, to incite each other to drink liquor.

chhâu kàu kek--lâng, very bad-smelling. chhâu kàu kek-phí<sup>n</sup>, id.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kek, to stir up, provoke, or irritate one another. sa<sup>n</sup>-kek-khí, to stir up each other by emulation to do something. chhông-ôe sa<sup>n</sup>-kek, to excite or stir up by talking, e.g. to do a favour, or to a quarrel. êng kek-hoat, to use sarcasm, praise, or contemptuous inuendo, &c., so as to get a man to take up willingly what he had meant not to do. ôe-kham-tit kek, can bear much provocation, &c. kek siú-khì, to stir up rage. kek-liét, using very extreme or violent language, as in reproving. kek âm-kún-kun teh-kóng, to get into a sudden rage and speak incautiously.

kek-ngí<sup>n</sup>, to make as stiff as possible, as one's limb or neck. kek-lé, to exert one's self very much in sculling a boat. kek-lát, to clench the hand firmly, as child or as boxer. kek chhiú-bé, to try strength by pressing against one another's hands. kek-toá-sia<sup>n</sup>, to speak of set purpose in a specially loud and unnatural tone of voice. kek sòe-sia<sup>n</sup>, to speak intentionally in a very low (not natural) tone.

kek-kha, to press and hurt the foot, as tight shoes.

kám-kek, to influence by kindness, favour, grace, &c.

kek-tiám, to put on the feigned appearance of being very quiet and well-behaved. kek si-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to charge a high rate of fees (as doctor), &c., just in order to raise one's fame. kek-khang, to put on haughty airs without having any foundation for it. kek phài-thâu, to put on the airs and manner (and talk) of a man of consequence while having no position at all. kek goá-khùi, affecting grandeur or gaudiness in dress or house; an awful swell. kek-khùi, do., or in talk; to put on airs like a man of rank or wealth. kek kàu-bô-khùi, so full of smoke (as room) that one cannot breathe; almost drowned or suffocated.

kek-kut, doing or saying something just in order to be contrary to others, e.g. by ironical or sneering talk, or by walking in a different road from that used by others; or trying to show one's skill by doing a thing in a way different from the usual way, gen. making a mess of it. kek-kut ê-ôe, ironical or sarcastic language; language intentionally contradicting what another has said, e.g. "very cold;"... "not at all!" kóng-ôe kek-kut, to talk so.

kek [R. to investigate to the utmost; to calculate, = col. keh], to calculate roughly. kek-sng, id. kek-sng m-chhut, unable to conjecture; events coming out quite different from expectation. kek-lí, to think out or infer the state, origin, or real principle of a matter from various circumstances, as by circumstantial evidence or by induction; to think out the proper way of managing an affair. kek lí-khì, id. kek chit-ê lí-khì, id. kek lí-phè, id. chiáh-pá teh-kek-ké, to sit after eating, talking all sorts of queer stories, old or imaginary (s. strike).

逆

膈

戟
格 擊

草

隔

菊

激

格

kék-gōe (R.), exceedingly; extraordinarily (only used with verbs). kék-gōe si-un, to bestow extraordinary favour or grace.

kiám-kek, very minute, strict, and exacting in calculating prices or expenses.

kék-hêng, idle and lazy.

kék (R. id.), extremity; extremely. teng-kék, to begin a reign; to ascend the throne. thâi-kék, name of a star; also (R.), the original state of existence from which the universe was produced. bû-kék, boundless.

pok-kék, the north pole. pak-kék, id. lâm-kék, the south pole (v. lâm).

kék-ki, extremely —; exceedingly —. kàu-chi-kék, to the utmost extent; to the utmost. kàu-kék, id. kék-mûg, do., as of misery, or as of ultimatum in price, or in offer to settle a quarrel. kàu-kék-mûg, id. kóng kàu-hia kék-mûg, to speak very determinately or doggedly, so that no abatement or compromise can be made; to lay down the matter with great definiteness and distinctness. kék-thâu, to the utmost; to the last extremity, often meaning that no plan now remains. kék-kak, to the utmost; quite full of meat, as shell of crab. kàu-kék-kak, to the very utmost. kàu chia kék-kak, come to the utmost stage (as of misery or poverty), or as affair in so bad a state that no more can be done. kék-kak-hó, extremely good. kék-kak-têng, quite full of meat, as shell of crab. kék-pi ê sê-tsâi, most distant and out-of-the-way parts. kék-phín, highest rank of mandarins.

êng-kék-hoat, to use extreme measures. kék-kék bô-hoat-i, utterly unable to do anything with him or it (v. hoat). siû<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip-kék--khi, to think very carefully or minutely. lók-kék, pi-seng, sorrow comes at the time of greatest joy.

kék (C.), = A. kiák. kék-kék-háu, said of a young man talking too big.

kék [R. kiók], (C. kiók), general name for arsenals and some sorts of local government offices or boards; classifier of games of chess; very poor; mean.

kat-kék, illiberal; stingy; too hard and mean in money matters; unwilling to do a favour.

ki-kék, a chess-board with the men set on it in some special form (v. kí). pâi tit-kék, to set out a board for the gambling called "tit."

chi<sup>n</sup>-kék, a government bank. chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>-kék, office of land-tax collectors for a sub-district; that company of tax-collectors. sè-khòe-kék, office for stamping deeds of sale. li-kim-kék, a board or office for collecting the "li-kim" tax. thê-kék, do. for collecting the opium revenue.

kun-tsong-kék, an arsenal for warlike stores. hé-iòh-kék, a powder magazine or manufactory. chhèng-kék, arsenal for guns or cannon.

kék-oân, a mandarin at the head of some special local board or office, such as the "li-kim."

bô-kék (T.), = A. bô-kiók, feeling lonely, or full of ennui, or want of interest.

keng (R. id.) keng-hi, the whalc. keng-hi-kut, whalebone. keng-hi-iû, train-oil.

keng [R. bêng, dark; night; Hades, = col. m<sup>n</sup>]. keng-i-tsoá, paper pictures of clothes burned for the dead. sio keng-i, to burn them.

keng [R. to change; a watch of the night, = col. kí]. keng-ék, to alter; to change.

keng-i-sé, a room for visitors putting off their usual dress and putting on mourning, and vice versa, when they call to worship the dead.

keng [R. warp of web (= col. kí)]; to pass straight through; to manage; correct; finished; the menses], classical or sacred books. keng-chhèh, classical books. keng-tsu, id. keng-toân, id. keng-kù, a sentence from a classic. ngé-keng, the five classics. iáh-keng, the Book of Changes. su-keng, the historical classic. si-keng, the Book of Odes. sam-jikeng, the trimetrical classic. sèng-keng, sacred books; Scriptures. pút-keng, Buddhist classics. keng-chhâm, sacred books and charms of Buddhists (v. chhâm). liâm-keng, to recite sacred books; to read prayers, as priests. sióng-keng, id. cheng-sin-keng, a yellow paper, with characters, tied on the figure called "thòe-sin," and burned. kái-liên-keng, a larger paper, tied and burned along with it, to remove calamity.

keng-khoe, title of several kújín, from the second downwards.

û-keng-chè, correctly composed, as a literary composition in a good style. chhut-keng jip-tién, id. chèng-keng, honest; virtuous; correct as to morality (v. chêng).

i-keng, already.

keng-kè, to pass through, as a region, or as an experience. keng-chhiú ê-lâng, a man through whose hands money is paid or anything sent; a broker, go-between, or agent. kap-i keng-chhiú, act as go-between, &c., for him in managing a matter or transferring money or goods. si-i keng-chhiú, it is he who acted as go-between, &c.

hiet put-kui-keng, the blood does not go in its proper course (not said of the circulation), e.g. when one sits up too late. tá-lòh--chit-ê keng-lók, in what part of the body (is the disease)? cheng-sin tsâi-keng, having all one's wits about one; keeping one's presence of mind. goân-sin tsâi-keng, id.

keng-kí, business, occupation, or means of livelihood (T. kan-kí, C. kin-kí, = keng-kí). keng-êng, diligent; engaged in business for livelihood. keng-giáp, diligent; industrious.

keng-koán, subordinate officials (esp. "keng-sêng") in a yamun who have charge of some parts of the work. tng-keng-koán, to be a clerk or assistant-secretary in a yamun. si lí-ê keng-koán, it is your business to attend to it (originally of yamun business, but used in general). keng-sêng, the official in a yamun who receives accusations and defences (tiá<sup>n</sup>), and prepares warrants.

géh-keng, the menses of a woman. keng-kí, the period of the menses. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-keng, to have the menstrual flux.

keng [R. kiong, to provide; to offer; to give evidence], (C. kiong). tûg-keng, verbal evidence or confession given in court. kháu-keng, id. hó-kháu-keng, giving evidence in a good self-possessed way; knowing well what to say on examination; said also (half-joking, half-scolding) of a man who is too good at answering and disputing with us. hoán kháu-keng, to recant or withdraw one's confession or evidence. hoán-keng, id. jín-keng, to make a statement or give evidence in court when examined by a mandarin. thò-keng, to rehearse evidence beforehand. chhoân-keng, to suggest to the witness or party under examination what he should say (very improper). thoân-keng (C. chhoân-kiong), interpreter in a yamun. khít-lâng-keng, to be accused or

經

極

局

鯨

更

供

inculcated by a man under examination in his verbal evidence. khít--i keng--tiòh, id.

ũ-keng-sièn, to get his food as well as his salary, as a school-teacher sometimes has.

keng [R. kien, the shoulder], (Cn. küi<sup>n</sup>, T. kai<sup>n</sup>, sometimes koi<sup>n</sup>). keng-thâu, the upper part of the shoulder. keng-thâu tsún-lê, hê-lâng-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, one's shoulders like a road for others (said of chair-bearers). keng-thâu thòeh-thòeh, shoulders high and lean, whether naturally so, or from opium-smoking, &c. kek-thòeh-keng, to shrug one's shoulders.

khí-keng, to help another to raise a load or sedan on his shoulder (s. temple, s. cultivate). sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-keng, arms on each other's shoulders. tiúg-keng, to change the load from one shoulder to the other, as a coolie or porter. oã<sup>n</sup>-keng, id. (s. room). tôe-gũ oã<sup>n</sup>-keng, the cow that supports the earth changing her shoulder, and so making an earthquake.

keng-kah, the whole region of the shoulder (v. kah). keng-páng, the outer side of the arm, close to the shoulder-joint.

têng-keng, the border of the dress at the neck, made of double thickness, or corded, so as to be strong. ui têng-keng, to cut out the place for the neck in making a dress.

keng [R. to cultivate]. keng-tsoh, to cultivate land. khí-keng, to take away land from the tenant who has been cultivating it, either for one's own use or for letting to another (s. temple, s. shoulder).

keng — keng-thóe, to jeer at a man, or give him a nickname, from his personal appearance or conduct (v. thóe). keng-hoãn, id.

keng [R. kan, a room; a dwelling; between], (C. kan, P. keng, T. kai<sup>n</sup>, Cn. küi<sup>n</sup>), a room; classifier of houses, buildings, or rooms; the space in a house that would be sufficient for one room.

keng-keh, a room partitioned off (v. keh). sa<sup>n</sup>-keng-chhù, three houses. chhù ũ sa<sup>n</sup>-keng, the house has three rooms, or room for three. pâng-keng, a room. bô-keng, a house used as a mill. êng-keng, an empty room, as for guests; a public room in a village for talking or amusement (v. êng). kiáu-keng, a gambling-house. hoe-keng, a brothel. tsa-bé-sun-keng, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>-keng, id.

keng (R. kiong), (C. kiong), a temple. keng-biô, a temple; temples. keng-tièn, imperial residence and hall of audience. lêng-keng, prison of imperial harem. kim-lòh lêng-keng, to confine one of the inmates of the imperial harem there, and hold no intercourse with her.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-keng, the empress. phien-keng, an imperial concubine.

keng-kong, a temple-keeper. keng-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a paved court before a temple. chít-keng-keng, one temple. chít-kai<sup>n</sup>-keng (T.), id. chít-kan-kiong (C.), id. khí-keng, to build a temple (s. shoulder, s. cultivate).

báng-keng, a folding mosquito-curtain on a frame, making a semicircle over the bed when set up (v. báng). chhi<sup>n</sup> kè-keng, a star falling or shooting (from its place) across the sky.

keng [R. a thorn]. keng-kài, a medicinal plant (v. kài). chí-keng, a tree with a magnificent scarlet flower in large bunches. chí-keng-hoe, its flower.

keng [R. to fear, = col. kia<sup>n</sup>]. tái-keng siáu-koài, much terrified and in great perturbation, as at sudden danger, robbers, ghosts, &c. kín-keng-hong, sort of convulsions taken by children. keng-hong-soá<sup>n</sup>, medicine for preventing such starting or convulsions.

keng [R. a man's age; one of the cyclical characters, = col. ki<sup>n</sup>]. küi-keng (polite), what is your age, sir? liên-keng, the cyclical characters for the year of a man's birth. thêh seng-keng, to take the natal characters of a proposed pair to see if they suit for good fortune.

tiông-keng (R.), the evening-star. tiông-keng-chhi<sup>n</sup> (R.), id.

keng (R. kiong), (C. kiong), a bow. tek-keng, id. (made of bamboo). chít-tiu<sup>n</sup>-keng, one bow. keng-chi<sup>n</sup>, bow and arrows (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). keng-hièn, a bow-string. keng-tê, a bag for keeping a bow in.

chiáh-keng, to be one of the company of archers in an army (superior to the others). keng, pài, chhèng, the three classes of soldiers. bé-keng-siú, archers on horseback. pê-keng-siú, archers on foot.

khia-keng, to practise the attitude for archery. òh-keng, to learn archery. pan-keng, to draw a bow. khui-keng, to draw the bow in shooting. thoa-keng, to draw an empty bow (as if with arrow in it) for exercise. pien-keng, to practise pulling a strong bow without the arrow. tiau-keng sai-hũ, a man who makes bows. tiu<sup>n</sup>-keng, to string a bow. chhiũ<sup>n</sup>-keng, id. khia-bé chē, bán-keng chiáh, to sit with legs apart (as if on horseback) and eat with arm stretched out (as if in archery), (said of sitting and eating in a very awkward or too free-and-easy manner, esp. of a lad).

keng-ôe, very small shoes for women (v. ôe). oân-keng-bé, the raised round stern of a junk. phâng-kám-keng, a long split piece of bamboo bent into a semicircle to support the mat cover of a boat.

hiáng-keng, a small instrument, making a humming noise, attached to a kite.

keng (= gèng, gê). keng-chio, plantains, = gèng-chio.

keng, to stretch smooth and tight, as a rope or a cloth. keng hê-i-ân, id. keng-pa, to stretch out on a bamboo pin, so as to dry in the sun, as a duck.

thâu-bé-keng, moored stem and stern, as a vessel. siang-thâu-keng, id.

keng [R. a stalk, as of grain], a stalk or loose spike or panicle of flowers not very numerous; classifier of anchors. chít-keng-tiá<sup>n</sup>, = chít-múg-tiá<sup>n</sup>, one anchor.

keng [R. to compassionate; careful; proud]. kiau-keng, proud and bragging, in manner or talk.

keng (P.), in some words, = A. kiong.

kèng [R. kiông, limit; extremity; exhaust; poor; = col. khèng], extremely poor. kèng-sán, id. kèng-kúi, a poor devil; wretchedly poor fellow. kèng kàu-sí, most miserably poor. khah-kèng sí-lâng, id. kèng sí tsáu, bô-thang-thó, nothing can be got from the poorest, the dead, and the absconder. kau-koa<sup>n</sup> kèng, they who associate with mandarins become poor (v. kau).

soa<sup>n</sup> kèng, hái kiét, land and sea barren and poor; place very bad for making a living. kèng-chhù, bô-kèng-lê, though poor at home, one cannot do without money on a journey. kèng-iũ pù-chhat, paint must be thin, but varnish may have many coats. kèng bân, pù bú, literary graduates often come from poor families, military graduates usually from the rich. beh-pù, kèng chiũ-kàu, when just getting rich poverty suddenly comes. bê-pù, chhut pù-jí; bê-

肩

庚

弓

耕

間

宮

莖

矜

窮

荆 敬 馬

更徑

kèng [R. more, still more, by change of tone from "keng," to change, a watch]. kèng-khah, still more — kèng-koh-khah, id.

kèng [R. a road, a path, = col. ki<sup>n</sup>]. hèng-kèng, behaviour. hó-hèng-kèng, good behaviour. phái<sup>n</sup>-hèng-kèng, bad conduct.

lê-kèng (a path), a means or plan of doing something. û lê-kèng, to have a business, or means of livelihood. bô-siàng-lê-kèng, having different trades or professions from each other.

kēng (= khēng). kēng-tsoá, a sort of paper used for drawing paper, and in the rites called "chhò." toā-kēng, the largest and best sort, from Soo-chow. tiong-kēng, medium do. sió-kēng, inferior do. sék-kēng, a good sort. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kēng, an inferior sort.

kēng (T. kái<sup>n</sup>, Cn. kúi<sup>n</sup>), to put in a support to keep a thing from falling; to press against a thing, as to support it or to keep it from moving, sometimes so as to injure it slightly; to obstruct, as some small thing keeping a door from moving; to assist by giving a little money. kēng-tiòh, to press against.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kēng kha-chhng (standing back to back), two men combining to protect one another from a third party or others, or to injure him.

tàu-kēng, to assist a man by a small gift, so as to keep him from being ruined. kê-kēng, id. tài-ke kê-kēng, several doing so. kēng-koá-chi<sup>n</sup> hē--i, assist him by a little money.

kēng [R. kēng, name of a plant]. kiet-kēng, = kiet-kéng, a medicinal root.

ki [R. hunger; famine]. ki-hng, famine. ki-hân (R.), hunger and cold. iau-ki sit-tng, to lose a meal or more; hungry or starving. chí-ki, to appease slightly the cravings of hunger, but not satisfy. hoá-péng chhiong-ki, paint a loaf to satisfy hunger. chek-kok hông-ki, collect grain to guard against famine. jím-ki siú-ngē, endure hunger patiently and willingly.

ki [R. chi, the 65th radical; to branch; a tribe]. hun chit-ki, one part of a clan dividing off into a separate family division.

ki [R. few; somewhat; nearly]. sù-ki (R.), probably; very nearly; strongly expecting that — si-ki (C.), id.

bû-ki, not many. ke bû-ki, not much additional. ke iáh-bû-ki, id. chhun iáh-bû-ki, only very few remain. bû-ki-chi<sup>n</sup>, only a few cash. bû-ki ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, id.

ki [R. chi, a mere mark of sound]. pek-ki, a coarse woollen stuff like baize, generally red; long ells.

ki — âng-ki-ki, very red.

ki (R. id.) ki-chhi, to deride a man; to jeer at; to satirize.

ki [R. a wicker basket, hod, or tray]. pùn-ki, a basket or hod for mortar.

poà-ki, a flat wicker tray for winnowing grain by throwing it up in the wind. poà-ki-kiá<sup>n</sup>, the rim of such a tray.

poà-ki-kah, a very venomous variegated snake, marked like the rim of that tray.

ki — hoe-ki, a large sort of cuttle-fish (s. flower).

ki — ki-ki kê-kê, all in confusion and disorder, as furniture (v. kê).

ki [R. muscular flesh]. ki-hu, muscular flesh and skin. bô-ki-hu, very lean; has no flesh on his bones.

ki [R. the full revolution of a year]. ki-liên-song, mourning for one year, as for uncle or brother. ki-liên-hók, id.

ki (R. ki). chhiong-ki, a harlot. chhiang-ki (C.), id. ki-lú, id.

ki (C.), = A. ku, to dwell.

ki (C.), = A. ku, the corners of a dress.

ki (C.), = A. ku, a carriage, &c.

ki [R. a secret; a contrivance; a machine; a loom; an opportunity, = col. kui]. kè-ki, to pass meal-time without eating (s. branch). iau--khì kè-ki, to be hungry and exhausted from losing a meal (v. iau). sēng-ki, to take advantage of an opportunity. ki-hōe, an opportunity or suitable occasion.

ki-bit, secret, as affair; managing secretly, as a man. chhut ki-ho, to make a secret sign (by sound or gesture) that only our confederates understand. tiám-ki, to give intelligence by a few words which the hearer can supplement, often unintelligible to others.

ki-khiàu, intelligence; cleverness; quickness of mind (v. khiàu). ki-tauh-á, a trap, as for birds. ki-kúi-á (C.), instruments moved by secret springs or wheels, &c.

ki-koan, ability to adapt one's plans to new circumstances; curious contrivances with secret springs, wheels, &c., as in toys, watches, &c. ki-koan kièn-sek, intelligence and acuteness. û-ki-koan, skilful at adapting one's conduct or plans to new circumstances or emergencies; versatile; shifty (good or bad); crafty. toā-ki-koan ê-lâng, id. lâu-siet ki-koan, to let out a secret. lâu-siet thien-ki, to let out Heaven's plans or secrets. thien-ki put-khó lâu-siet, Heaven's secrets must not be let out (said by fortune-teller when he is asked to explain minutely what he has said vaguely; said in joke by a man who will not tell a secret). lâu-siet kun-ki, to let out military secrets (said also figuratively in general). kun-ki-bô, a cap sometimes worn by military mandarins.

û sim-ki, good at planning or thinking out. û-ki-pièn, able to act according to sudden emergencies or change of circumstances; versatile. súi-ki èng-pièn, to act according to the circumstances or emergency.

kóng thàu-ki, to tell fully, with all the circumstances, keeping back nothing. kóng--khì thàu-ki, id.

tâu-ki, to agree in opinion. kóng tâu-ki, to say what is pleasing to another, by agreeing with his opinion. kap-goá tâu-ki, of the same opinion or views with me. giên-gú tê-ki, agree in opinion and statements. oá put-tê-ki, poàn-kù to, when what one says is not pleasing, half a sentence is too much. hoá put-tê-ki, &c., id.

ki-pék, superfine white grass-cloth. ki-siōng-pék, id.

ki [R. foundation]. tōe-ki, a foundation carried generally some feet above the ground. ki-tóe, id. chiòh-ki, a stone foundation. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-ki, foundation of a wall, esp. of a mud or cement wall.

khí-ki, origin or commencement of an affair; to begin an affair or business. khai-ki, to originate, as a family, or as a firm or business (said in looking back after it has long existed). khai-ki-tsé, first ancestor or founder of a family or clan. khai-ki sí-tsé, id. khai-ki chhông-giáp, to lay the foundation of a family's wealth.

ki-giáp, an inheritance.

û kun-ki, will be strong and fortunate, as child

期青
妓

機

梗
饑支
幾吱
譏
箕蟻
枝
肌

基

with good horoscope. kun-ki tiâu-tsòng, having a very good horoscope. bô kun-ki, having a bad horoscope; will be sickly or unlucky, as child; often counteracted by giving the child to be son to another man, or even assigning it as son to a man already dead. kun-ki phû, id. kun-ki phû-phû, id.

枝

kî [R. chi], a branch; a twig; classifier of long straight things, as pencils, poles, masts, pine-apples, playing-cards, small rolls of the more valuable sorts of cloth. chit-ki-toân, a roll of satin. tiu<sup>n</sup> chit-ki-chhùi, all mere talk, without power or reason (v. chhùi).

ki-hiòh, branches and leaves (v. hiòh).

chháu-ki, a stalk of straw, grass, &c. hoe-ki, stalk of a flower (s. cuttle-fish). chhiū-ki, branch or twig of a tree or shrub. san chhiū-ki, to prune and thin out branches or twigs. sien-hô-ki, coral ornament for hair. bih-ki-á, splinter of bamboo. kak-ki, lath.

tê-ki, tea-leaves with the ends of the small twigs mixed. chióng-pôe-ki, sort of Sou-chong with small twigs mixed.

iū-ki, a long roll of paper dipped in oil; or oiled paper rolled round a thin piece of bamboo (used for a light). chhèng-ki-chi<sup>n</sup>, a sky-rocket. tek-á-ki, a tube of thin dried bean-curd (v. tek).

chiap-ki, to graft. kè-ki, to make a new plant by tying wet earth on a branch (T. tōh); also, adopted from another surname; to pass from branch to branch, as bird (s. opportunity). thèh kè-ki--khi, stolen and passed from one man to another, so that it cannot be found.

ki-kut, general shape of person. hó-ki-kut, well-formed in bodily shape, esp. woman. phái<sup>n</sup>-ki-kut, so ill-formed naturally that no fine dress or ornaments can make her good-looking. ki-kut hó-khoà<sup>n</sup>, limbs gracefully formed. ki-kut thiau-lāng, id. (v. lāng). ki-kut si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe-hó, naturally well-formed in body, though perhaps at present ugly from poverty or illness. chhè-ki toā-kut, large-boned and strongly made, but clumsy or ungainly in appearance, as man. phia<sup>n</sup>-ki-kut, rib of animal. pák ki-kut, to make a framework of thin split bamboo, as for a gauze lamp-frame, or for a paper image; to set in proper train or order at first, as in beginning to teach a boy, or as in making the plan of an essay, accusation, or petition; also (Cn.), to make the model of a house to be built.

si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe chit-ki-á, slender, pretty, and graceful in form.

sa<sup>n</sup>-ki-ûi, a full-rigged ship (v. ûi). ki-poà<sup>n</sup>-poà<sup>n</sup>, a three-masted schooner.

乱

kî [R. divination, esp. by writing]. ki-tông, a sorcerer who pretends to be possessed by a spirit. tāng-ki, id. (v. tāng). ki-kha (Cn.), id.

koan-ki, to mutter prayers and incantations so that the afflatus may come on the medium for writing oracles. koan-ki tiô-tāng, to make incantations and come into an ecstatic state by the afflatus, either for a sorcerer who cuts himself like a fakeer, or for writing oracles. kāng-ki, the spirit coming down to possess the medium for writing. chiū<sup>n</sup>-ki, the spirit taking possession of him. chhut-ki, to get the afflatus for writing oracles. hū-ki, the spirit coming on a man and possessing him, either on a sorcerer like a fakeer, or on the men who hold a branch to write under the afflatus. khan-ki, to hold a forked-branch (gen. peach), as two men do, while the third end traces words on bran. khan-ki chhut-jī, id. kiáh-ki, id. kiáh-chiá<sup>n</sup>-ki, to be the principal holder of that branch. kiáh-tò-ki, to be the assistant holder of it.

kî [R. a ghost or demon, = kî; also, a shrill sound; perhaps these are two different words].

á-ki, name given to foreigners (said to be from the shrillness of their voices, like ghosts).

ki-ki-háu, crying disagreeably; a ringing in the ears. chhit-géh-poà<sup>n</sup>-kúi ki-ki-háu, you are crying like a ghost on 7.15 (said to a child constantly crying for things). ki-ki-thiu, to cry, as a ghost, or as a child constantly asking for things. ki-ki-kiò, always crying and calling out. ki-ki-tân, to whizz, as a bullet; sound of whistling. chhùi ki-ki-tân, whistling with the mouth.

ki-ki kû-kû, twittering. hong thau ki-ki, wind howling. hī-khang ki-ki ê-sia<sup>n</sup>, a ringing in the ears.

kî (R. id.) kî-lín, the sacred animal called "kilin" (v. lín).

kî [R. spirit of the earth]. thien-sîn tē-ki, the spirits of heaven and earth.

kî [R. to pray]. kî-kiū, to beseech; to pray. kí-tó (R. and X.), to pray to a god. kí-jī-pèng, the 113th radical (R. sī), written at the side.

kî [R. chess]. ki-chí, chess-men. an kí-chí, to set out the chess-men ready for beginning the game. ki-phé, a book of chess lessons. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-kí, sort of chess having twelve pieces on each side. kí-poà<sup>n</sup>, a chess-board. kí-kék, a chess-board with the men set out ready for a problem. pái kí-kék, to set out chess-men on the board ready for gambling; to arrange a plan all ready that a man may fall into the snare. kí-kék chiú-liōng, there are many different degrees of ability, better and worse (lit. for chess and drink).

tiòh-kí, to play chess. kiá<sup>n</sup>-kí, to play the sort called "chhiū<sup>n</sup>-kí." ûi-kí, to play at the sort called "pèh-jí." kí koái<sup>n</sup>, skilful at chess.

kî (R. id.) kí-lám, a sort of wood (v. lám).

kî [R. name of an herb]. ng-kí, a medicinal herb in its raw state. chiá-kí, do. prepared. kiám-kí, do. salted.

kî [R. kiú, a hornless dragon]. kí-liōng, a dragon without horns. ki-liōng-toh, a long narrow table with these dragons carved on it; narrower than "oà<sup>n</sup>-toh." ki-liōng si-sien, this table along with a small square one.

kî [R. a fixed day]. jít-kí, a set day; a fixed date. sí-kí, a fixed day, as in a series, e.g. special days for special business at an office. chhit-jít chit-kí, once in seven days. sam-pat-kí, the days ending with 3 and 8, for entering complaints, accusations, and answers, at yamuns. ngé-sip-kí, the days ending in 5 or 0. keng-kí, the time of the menses of a woman.

ki-siàu, a debt or account payable at a fixed time or times. chheng-kí-siàu, to pay in full at the time fixed; to pay the last instalment. kí-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill fixing a time for payment. bô-tù-kí, not yet due, as a bill. bē-kàu-kí, not yet come to the time, in general. kàu-kí, the fixed time come; at the fixed time. thoa-kè-kí, to delay beyond the fixed time.

kî (R. id.), a flag; a banner; one of the Manchoo banners; an instrument used in making nets, used as a measure for making the meshes all of one size.

kí-chhi, flags and banners of army (v. chhi). kí-hō, distinctive mark, as of nation or troop, made by a flag. lí-khoà<sup>n</sup> i--ê kí-hō, you are fawning on him. kí-koái<sup>n</sup>, a common flag-staff. kí-koa<sup>n</sup>, official flag-staffs, in pairs (v. koa<sup>n</sup>).

kí-ê, under the flag. kí-ê-lāng, Manchoo Tartars;

麒麟

芪

虬

期

旗

bannermen. jíp-kí, a Chinaman becoming a Manchoo bannerman.

hông-kí, a flag used as a vane. lêng-kí, a flag used for giving commands by mandarin or idol. pó-tók-kí, sort of flag used by generals. sòe-jī-kí, a flag (of general or idol) with the character "sòe" (commander-in-chief) on it. ngé-sek-kí, triangular flags of various colours. ngé-hông-kí, five flags of five colours in a set.

hoa-kí-kok, the United States of America. hoe-kí-kok, id. hoa-kí, American (of U. S. A.) sip-jī-kí, the Danish flag.

seng-kí, to hoist a flag. chhah-kí, to stick up a flag, as in a socket or in one's hair, &c. khia-kí, to erect a flag with flag-staff. iét-kí, to wave a flag. chè-kí, to make offerings to a flag. iám-kí sit-ké, not using the flags and drums, as in ambush or on a secret march. kiáh-kí, to carry a flag in the hand. kàu-hit-sì, kiáh hit-kí, act according to the circumstances.

kí [R. the dorsal fin]. hī-kí, the dorsal fin of a fish.

kí (C.) ke-kí, = A. koe-kú, a street of shops.

kí (C.) péh-chhia-kí (= A. kú), white stone used for buttons of mandarin caps.

kí [R. strange; rare; clever]. kí-khá, ingenious; crafty; with great skill and beauty of work. kí-khiáu, skilful at work. kí-ī<sup>n</sup>, strange (v. ī<sup>n</sup>). kí-iū<sup>n</sup>, of different form from what is usual (generally better); strangely formed. kí-koài, strange; extraordinary. kí-hêng koài-tsóng, strange uncommon form. chin-kí-sū, a strange affair indeed!

kièn-kí, superior to others, as in skill or excellence. bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kièn-kí, not superior to others; quite mediocre, as things or workman, or as a doctor, &c. goá--ê tióng-kí, that in which I am specially skilled or proficient (v. tióng). chhut-kí, wonderful; very strange; much superior to others. jú-chhut jú-kí, each successive time the better or more successful, e.g. in disputes or lawsuits, or sons more and more talented; said also ironically of getting worse and worse.

kí [R. he, she, or it; sometimes very like the definite article]. kí-sit, in reality. kí-ū, surplus; remaining. kí-ī (C.), id. put-kè ki-sè, innumerable. kin-ti kí-it, put-ti kí-jī, knowing only a very little of the matter. tek-kí-tióng, to hit on the proper medium (v. tióng).

kék-kí, exceedingly —.

kiù-kí-jiên, on examining into the real state of the case (v. jiên).

ke-put-kí-chiong (esp. C.), = ke-put-chiong, having no other alternative. put-kí-sī (C.), = put-sī, at any time.

kí [R. chí, the finger; to point], to point; to point out, as with the finger. kí-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the fore-finger. sūi-jī kí, to point out word by word. kí-thi<sup>n</sup>, to point to Heaven, as witness in swearing; to call Heaven to witness. kí-thi<sup>n</sup> kí-tōe, to call Heaven and Earth to witness.

kí [R. name of a plant]. ké-kí, a small red or black berry used as a cooling medicine (Lycium sinense? Berberis Lycium?), brought from the north; there is also another sort native near Amoy. ké-kí-sim, the bud of a small erect shrub a few inches high, that grows near Amoy; used also as a vegetable for mixing with oysters, &c. ké-kí-thâu, its root (native), medicinal. ké-kí-kū (P.), id.

kí [R. a small table]. kí-toh, a small square table; a teapoy. tê-kí, id. khòng-chhâg-kí, the small stool-shaped table set on a state-couch between the two seats. kí-siông-kí (lit. a small table on a teapoy), said of a very mean and low menial, as the servant of a mandarin's attendant, or the slave of a female slave.

kí [R. to record; a history; a period of twelve years; to rule], a surname. nī<sup>n</sup>-kí, years, in regard to age. nī<sup>n</sup>-kí joá-tsòe, how many years old? chit-kí, a period of twelve years. chit-kí-nī<sup>n</sup>, id.

keng-kí, employment; business; means of livelihood. kan-kí (T.), id. kin-kí (C.), id.

kí [R. one's self, = col. ki]. tsū-kí (r.), one's self. ti-kí ê-lâng, a very intimate friend. siú-kí (r.), to restrain one's self from evil (v. siú).

khék-kí thāi-jin, to put one's self to inconvenience for others (v. khék). sún-jin li-kí, to injure another for one's own benefit. hāi-jin li-kí, id. hāi-jin, chek hāi-kí, to hurt another is to hurt one's self. hāi-lâng, chek hāi-kí, id.

kí — lé-kí, a Cantonese harlot. lé-kí-á, id.

kí (C.), = A. kú, to choose. chhiam-kí, to make a united recommendation of a man for some post or office.

kí (C.), = A. kú (R.), a carpenter's square.

kí — kí-kí kiáuh-kiáuh, noise of birds or of children.

kí [R. a record; to remember; a mark; often at the end of the name of a firm], to write down. kí-hô, a mark. kí-jin, a mark by which a thing may be recognized, esp. a scar or such indelible mark on the person. úi-kí, a note or mark by which a house (&c.) may be recognized; a memorial given by friends at parting, often after illicit connection. chhók-kí, official stamp put on petitions, &c. tê-kí, a mandarin's official seal (v. tê).

sú-kí, annals or history of a state. lé-kí, the Book of Rites. chhòng-sè-kí (X.), Genesis.

kí--teh, to write down. kí--lòh-khi, id. kí-hē--teh, id. kí-hē (C.), id. kí-tsài, to record; to write down. kí-miá<sup>n</sup>, to write down a name. kí-keng, to write down verbal evidence given in court. kí-siáu, to write accounts; to put down in an account. kí-chiū<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to put in the account, as item. teng-kí, to take notes at the time, as in an account or memorandum book; to note down. sūi-sī teng-kí, to take down a note of it at the very time. tsún-kí-phō, a book containing entries of business transactions, kept for future reference. kí-sū (R. and X.), the clerk of a meeting, or of presbytery, &c.

kí--tit, to remember. bōe-kí--tit, to forget. kí-tiâu-tiâu, to remember perfectly. kí-liām, to think of with pleasant and grateful remembrance (v. liām). kí-si<sup>n</sup>, memory, the mental power of memory. kí-tí, id. kí-sim, to treasure up in the heart; to remember carefully. kí tī-sim--nī<sup>n</sup>, id. kí-tsái-sim, id. kí-sim kí-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-kí-sim, forgetful.

tek-kí, Tait & Co. hō-kí, Boyd & Co. ī-kí, Ellis & Co.

kí [R. past; already]. kí-jiên, already; as it is already; inasmuch as.

kí (R. chí), a mole or natural spot on the skin. ē-kí, a black mole, counted unlucky. âng-kí, a red mole, lucky. tsu-se-kí, id. ám-kí, a mole on some place covered by the dress. kí-chhiu, the hair

几

紀

己

記

鱗

奇

其

指

杞

既

痣

on a mole. tiám-kì, to touch a mole with medicine in order to remove it.

kì [R. kè, a plan; to calculate]. hé-kì, an assistant or partner in trade; a fellow-workman (v. hé).

kì (C.) kì-lí-ài, = A. kù-lí-ài, just as you please.

kì (C.), = A. kù, proof.

kì (C.), = A. kù; a saw; to saw.

kì [R. kí, one's self], (C. tí). ka-kì, self; one's self (v. ka).

kì [R. skilful; ingenious]. kì-ióng, a stone used at military examinations (v. ióng). kì-gōe, skill in handiwork. kì-gē (C.), id.

kì (C.) hoai-kì-kō, variegated; mottled; indistinct in colour, &c.

kì (C.), = A. kù, to reject (in some phrases).

kì (C.), = A. kù. khi-kì, an instrument or implement, &c. &c.

kì (C.), = A. khī (R. khū), to fear.

kì [R. to dislike; to have a superstitious horror of, = col. khī], days for ancestral worship, esp. the anniversary of ancestor's death; also (C.), = A. khī, to dread and avoid.

tsòe-kì, to worship and feast on the anniversary of a man's death. tsòe-biên-kì, to worship and feast on the anniversary of birth. biên-kì, anniversary of birth, for ancestral worship. chià-kì, anniversary of death. kì-jit, id. kì-sin, id. tsé-kì, general worship of ancestors in ancestral hall.

sin-kì, the first ordinary celebration of the anniversary of parent's death: it is on the second anniversary, for the rites of the first anniversary are quite extraordinary.

kong-kì, common worship (and feast) of paternal grandfather or great-grandfather. kong-pô-kì, anniversaries of death of ancestors. chiáh kong-pô-kì, to partake of the feast at their worship. kong-pô si-kì, all the days for the worship of ancestors along with the (sí-tsoeh) other festivals. kong-pô si-kì, nì-tang gēh-tsoeh, id.

kì-khek (C.), = A. khī-khek, to stand in dread of, as of another man.

kì<sup>n</sup> [R. keng, a cyclical character], (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), one of the cyclical characters in the denary cycle.

kì<sup>n</sup> [R. keng, a metropolis, = col. kia<sup>n</sup>], (C. kē<sup>n</sup>). kì<sup>n</sup>-tit, the term when insects come out, about 5th or 6th of March.

kì<sup>n</sup>, to copulate (said only of the lower animals, especially of cats). sa<sup>n</sup>-kì<sup>n</sup>, id.

kì<sup>n</sup> — kì<sup>n</sup>-tióh, to have something (as a rope) come across us so as to dirty our trousers or cause some slight inconvenience. kì<sup>n</sup>-kha, to be in the way, so as to entangle or come against one's legs, as ropes on road, or as too much furniture in room. kì<sup>n</sup>-lâng-kha, id. kì<sup>n</sup>-kha kì<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to be in the way of one's limbs, as ropes or furniture; to be an incumbrance, as a family.

kì<sup>n</sup> ti-tu-si, to brush away spiders' webs, as with a stick (s. weave). kì<sup>n</sup> ti-lá-si, id.

kì<sup>n</sup> (R. keng), (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), soup. hī-kì<sup>n</sup>, fish-soup. gú-bah-kì<sup>n</sup>, beef-soup. tsáp-o-kì<sup>n</sup>, remnants of meat mixed and cooked as a condiment.

kì<sup>n</sup> (R. kiam), a sort of alkali or lye. piá<sup>n</sup>-iòh-kì<sup>n</sup>, id. kì<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, water in which this alkali is dissolved. kì<sup>n</sup>-tsàng, a sort of confection.

sio-kì<sup>n</sup>, to burn shrubs to make this alkali. chiáh-kì<sup>n</sup>, to injure one's self, as by becoming surety for a man and having to pay, or doing a commission for him and having the goods thrown on our hands.

kì<sup>n</sup> (R. chi). ng-kì<sup>n</sup>, the Gardenia, a low shrub with large white sweet-scented flowers; the fruit (becho?) is used as a yellow dye for cloth and for bean-curd. ng-kì<sup>n</sup>-hoe, id. ú<sup>n</sup>-kì<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

kì<sup>n</sup> [R. keng, to change; a watch], (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), a watch of the night (longer in winter than in summer); one fifth part of the night.

an-kì<sup>n</sup>, the first watch, about dark. jī-kì<sup>n</sup>, the second watch, about 9 o'clock. gē-kì<sup>n</sup>, the fifth watch, about dawn. kúi-kì<sup>n</sup> kúi-tiám, what watch and what part of it? kì<sup>n</sup>-chhim, far on in the night. chit-kì<sup>n</sup>-tsún, the distance that a junk will sail on an average in one watch; about eleven miles. chit-kì<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, id.

kì<sup>n</sup>-hu, a public watchman in the streets. chiú-kì<sup>n</sup>, to keep watch; a watchman (v. chiú). koe kiò-kì<sup>n</sup>, fowls crowing all through the night (not near morning).

kì<sup>n</sup>-teng, a watchman's lantern; a fixed lantern at watch stations. kì<sup>n</sup>-khòk, a watchman's rattle. kì<sup>n</sup>-ké, a large drum on which the watches are struck, at yamen or city gate. kì<sup>n</sup>-lò, a gong beaten by watchman. kì<sup>n</sup>-pâng, a sentry-box. kì<sup>n</sup>-liáu, watch-house in street or at city gate; small hut or shed for watching fields. kì<sup>n</sup>-lâu, a watch-tower for guarding against feuds, as at entrance of village, or at boundary of two hostile clans.

kì<sup>n</sup> [R. keng, the warp; to go through; classical books; a compass], (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), the warp of a web; to weave. kì<sup>n</sup>-hūi, warp and woof.

kì<sup>n</sup>-á-lóeh, a light broad ceremonial cap, with red tassel.

kan-kì<sup>n</sup>, the magnetic compass. lò-kì<sup>n</sup>, the compass used by geomancers. khan lò-kì<sup>n</sup>, to take bearings with compass for geomantic purposes. pái lò-kì<sup>n</sup>, id. keh-kì<sup>n</sup>, id.

kì<sup>n</sup>-pè, to weave cotton cloth. thé-kì<sup>n</sup>-pè, very coarse cotton cloth woven at home. kì<sup>n</sup>-si, to spin silk, as the silk-worm does; to weave mischievous plots in order to cause trouble; very much involved and difficult to settle, as an affair. kì<sup>n</sup> ti-tu-si, to weave spiders' webs (s. entangle).

kap-lâng-kì<sup>n</sup>, to cause unceasing trouble to a man; to be always dunning (as relative) for help, or constantly asking more than is just. kì<sup>n</sup>-bōe-tit, cannot be easily settled, as a quarrel or involved affair where both parties are deceiving or otherwise in fault (said also of a man always borrowing and not paying).

kì<sup>n</sup> — kì<sup>n</sup>-kì<sup>n</sup> kê-kê, very ill-arranged, as furniture that blocks the way, or as a load so ill-arranged that it can hardly be carried through the streets. kì<sup>n</sup>-tó, to trip or stumble, as on a rope.

kì<sup>n</sup> (R. khiên), edge, border, rim, &c., as of sea, table, dress, &c. kì<sup>n</sup>-á, edge or border, as of table, dress, &c.

lím-kì<sup>n</sup>, just at the edge; in a very dangerous position (v. lím).

gim-kì<sup>n</sup>, the long stone step or curb-stone along the side of a house, below the eaves. hái-kì<sup>n</sup>, the seashore. toh-kì<sup>n</sup>, the edge of a table.

bák-kì<sup>n</sup>, the edges of the eyelids. âng-bák-kì<sup>n</sup>, the edges of the eyelids watery and inflamed; bleary-eyed. tâm-bák-kì<sup>n</sup>, id.

kún-kì<sup>n</sup>, to sew on the border on a dress, of different colour from the dress (v. kún). kún-kì<sup>n</sup>, the border

計據已技

忌

庚京

美

鹵鹹

梔更

經

乾

ki<sup>n</sup> ki<sup>n</sup>-nā = hōan-nā ki<sup>n</sup>

kiā<sup>n</sup>

of a woman's petticoat. ôe-ki<sup>n</sup>, the raised border of a shoe. oá<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>, the edge of a bowl. lún-ki<sup>n</sup>, rim of wheel.

梗

ki<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) kiet-ki<sup>n</sup>, a medicine, = A. kiet-kéng.

ki<sup>n</sup> (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), a flail. kē<sup>n</sup>-á (C.), id. béh-ki<sup>n</sup>, a flail for wheat or barley. lién-ki<sup>n</sup>, a flail. ná<sup>n</sup> lién-ki<sup>n</sup>, said of beating very severely, as a slave. phah-ki<sup>n</sup>, to thresh with a flail. kòng-ké<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

ki<sup>n</sup> (cf. chhi<sup>n</sup>). ki<sup>n</sup>-á, a sort of pin or bodkin for weaving nets. bāng-ki<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

徑

ki<sup>n</sup> [R. kēng, a road; a path], (C. kē<sup>n</sup>). sng-poá<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>, the rods on which the balls of an abacus move (v. sng). chhia-lún-ki<sup>n</sup>, the spokes of a wheel.

ki<sup>n</sup> (C. kē<sup>n</sup>), a row of cross rafters between two great beams. lák-ki<sup>n</sup>, bed or mosquito curtains large enough for one person. poeh-ki<sup>n</sup>, do., barely large enough for two. tsáp-ki<sup>n</sup>, do., of good size for two.

見

ki<sup>n</sup> (R. kiēn), to perceive, especially by seeing; to have an audience or interview, as with a superior; to meet with; whenever met with.

bat-ki<sup>n</sup>-kè, have seen it; have met with it. ki<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-sí, very covetous. ki<sup>n</sup>--tióh chit-ê-chí<sup>n</sup>, ná<sup>n</sup> sí<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, looks on one cash as a matter of life and death.

tsòe-chèng-ki<sup>n</sup>, to witness to what one has seen. thi<sup>n</sup>-tsai tōe-ki<sup>n</sup>, Heaven and earth know that what I say is true.

ki<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, open to the sky; a small back court (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). ki<sup>n</sup>-kúi, you are telling a lie (lit. have seen a ghost). lí ki<sup>n</sup>-kúi, id. ki<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to perceive land from sea, esp. first sight of land.

sa<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>, to meet with one another. ki<sup>n</sup>-bīn, to meet with a man (lit. see face). ki<sup>n</sup>--tióh, to visit a superior or a man of whom we ask a favour. ki<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, to have an interview with a mandarin. pài-ki<sup>n</sup>, to pay a ceremonial visit. kháu-ki<sup>n</sup>, to have an audience of a very high mandarin. pín-ki<sup>n</sup>, a graduate or lower official visiting a higher official on business. tiâu-ki<sup>n</sup>, to have an audience of the sovereign. ùi-ki<sup>n</sup>-lāng, afraid to see people; shy, bashful, or ashamed (v. ùi). ôe-ki<sup>n</sup>-chèng--tit, fit to be looked at publicly, as man or affair all correct (v. chèng, "all").

khoá<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to see (lit. look and perceive), (v. khoá<sup>n</sup>). thia<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to hear (v. thia<sup>n</sup>). kia<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to fear; lest. bāng-ki<sup>n</sup>, to dream. chiò-ki<sup>n</sup>, to look at a mirror, or by lamplight (v. chiò). chhē-m-ki<sup>n</sup>, to search for but not find. phah--m-ki<sup>n</sup>, to lose; lost. m-ki<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

ki<sup>n</sup>-chin, to see which of the two is right. ki<sup>n</sup>-chín-tiu<sup>n</sup>, when it comes to be reality (v. chin). ki<sup>n</sup>-su-iá<sup>n</sup>, determined to lose or win. ki<sup>n</sup>-sí<sup>n</sup>-sí, determined to conquer or die. ki<sup>n</sup>-kang-bú, determined to have out the quarrel and see who wins (lit. male or female).

ki<sup>n</sup>-i ki<sup>n</sup>-hó, whenever he prescribes, the patient recovers. ki<sup>n</sup>-tsóh ki<sup>n</sup>-tióh, hits the mark every time. ki<sup>n</sup>-thák ki<sup>n</sup>-bat, whatever he reads he remembers and knows. ki<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup> ki<sup>n</sup>-bat, can understand anything at a glance; can read a book anywhere you choose to try him.

géh-ki<sup>n</sup>, the monthly rose. géh-ki<sup>n</sup>-hoe, id.

伽 伽

kiā (R. id.) sek-kiā, Shakya, a name of Buddha, = sek-khia (v. kia).

kiā (R. id.) kiā-lām, name of a Buddhist idol.

kiā (esp. T.), = giá, to carry with the hands or on shoulder without using a pole, as a heavy thing; also (T.), to push off a boat (that has grounded) with one's back.

kiā [R. kí, a promontory], a syllable used in the names of many places on promontories. ko-kiā, a village on Amoy island. áu-kiā-bé, a suburb of Amoy.

岐

kiā (R. kí), to send (a thing, never a person); to send, as goods by a man; to intrust, as with a thing to be kept carefully for us, or with a commission; (to remain for a time); to intermit, as rites for the dead.

寄

kiā-tah, to send, as goods or letter. kiā-phoe, to send a letter. kiā-bāi, to send a salutation. kiā-māi (C.), id. kiā-sia<sup>n</sup>, to spread a report that we had heard; to send a message by word of mouth.

kiā-hè, to intrust or consign goods to be kept, sold, or sent. thok-kiā pān-hè, to employ as agent to buy goods for us at another place (v. pān). chhiá<sup>n</sup>-kiā-lí, I intrust this to your care to keep for me for a short time. kiā-lok--teh, to deposit; to intrust to a man's care, as goods or valuables for safe keeping. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiā, to intrust a man with a commission. kiā-tek, put-kiā-sit, people intrust things to others to be kept safe, not to be lost. kiā-tit, put-kiā-sit, id.

kiā-òh, to hand over a graduate to the literary mandarin (òh-koa<sup>n</sup>) for custody or punishment.

kiā-téng, to take away a mandarin's button temporarily, suspending him from his rank till his case can be examined fully. kiā-png, to intermit the rites for the dead for a few days. kí kúi-jit, how many days of interval in the rites are there?

kiā-kha, to stay at a place for a short time. sè-chhù kiā-kha, to rent a house for a short temporary residence. pún sí kiā-kha, ta<sup>n</sup> sí tsāi-giáh, at first had temporary employment (e.g. getting only one's food), but now regularly engaged for wages. thó kiā-kha, to ask to be allowed to stay and have food (with no wages) for work. kiā-chiáh kiā-toá, to lend one's boy to another man to serve him for food and clothes till he be grown up.

kiā-si<sup>n</sup>, a parasitic plant, as mistletoe; a sort of marine animal (v. sí<sup>n</sup>).

kiā-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to anchor for a short time, as when waiting for wind or tide. kiā sa<sup>n</sup>-ké, to put out a small rope to fasten to another vessel or to the shore.

崎

kiā (R. kí), steep; perpendicular, or nearly so; a stone stair or flight of steps built up or cut in rock; at zenith, as sun, moon, or star; standing on end, as hair.

kiā-á, a stone or brick stair, or flight of steps. chiòh-kiā, a flight of stone steps; a stone stair. chit-kiā chit-kiā, one step after another of a flight of stone or brick steps. chiú<sup>n</sup>-kiā, to go up a flight of stone or brick steps. lóh-kiā, to go down it.

mng-kúg-chhi kiā, hair standing on end, as with fright or cold.

jít tióng-kiā, sun at zenith, at noon. jít tng-kiā, id. géh tióng-kiā, moon at zenith. géh tng-kiā, id.

áu-piah-soa<sup>n</sup> kiā (the hill behind is steep), said of a man who has powerful helpers; also of a man in business who has property, so that he is greatly independent of his business.

kiā — kiā-pē, a very small sort of crab.

kiā (C.) kiā-chhùi, = A. khoah-chhùi, a pick-axe.

kiā<sup>n</sup> (R. keng), to fear; to be afraid of —; to be afraid; lest; to terrify. kiā<sup>n</sup>-hiá<sup>n</sup>, to fear; to be much afraid. kiā<sup>n</sup>-kháuh-kháuh, shaking with fear. kiā<sup>n</sup>-sim, a fearful heart. sim kiā<sup>n</sup>, tá<sup>n</sup> chiēn,

敬
馬

very much terrified. kià<sup>n</sup>-thâu kià<sup>n</sup>-bé, irresolute through fear of possible consequences. hō-lâng-kià<sup>n</sup>, to frighten people. ùi-kià<sup>n</sup>, shy and easily frightened, as child. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kià<sup>n</sup>, to be suddenly startled (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). teh-kià<sup>n</sup>, fearing; being afraid. teh kià<sup>n</sup>, to keep down fear; to put in good spirits, as by medicine.

kià<sup>n</sup> i-seng, to make the doctor afraid, as some dangerous slow disease, that does not strike an unskilful observer; also, to be afraid of a doctor, as a child. khí-peng lâi-kià<sup>n</sup>--i, to raise soldiers to terrify them. ōe-kià<sup>n</sup>-tsoâ, having the power of frightening serpents, as some animals are said to have.

kià<sup>n</sup>--lâng, to terrify people; to be afraid of people. kià<sup>n</sup>-lâng, dirty. bak-kià<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to soil; to dirty. phah-kià<sup>n</sup>-lâng, id. kià<sup>n</sup>-sí-lâng, very very dirty. kià<sup>n</sup>-sí ti-lâng, id.

kià<sup>n</sup> i-seng, to die of fear. kià<sup>n</sup>-sí, to fear death; to be very much afraid. kià<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh-sí, terribly frightened.

kià<sup>n</sup>-ùi, lest. kià<sup>n</sup>--kì<sup>n</sup>, id. kià<sup>n</sup>--liáu, id.

kià<sup>n</sup> (R. keng), the metropolis. kià<sup>n</sup>-siâ<sup>n</sup>, id. pak-kià<sup>n</sup>, Pekin. lâm-kià<sup>n</sup>, Nankin. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kià<sup>n</sup>, to go to the metropolis. kià<sup>n</sup>-khòng, to appeal to one of the supreme boards at the capital. kià<sup>n</sup>-pò, the Pekin Gazette. kià<sup>n</sup>-bák, very fine ink, said to be from Pekin. kià<sup>n</sup>-liáu, articles from Pekin; first-rate goods of some sorts.

kià<sup>n</sup> (R. hêng), to walk; to travel; to begin to move, as a boat that had stuck fast; to act; to behave; to perform; to be efficacious. chiâu-kià<sup>n</sup>, doing one's work diligently and well. bōe-kià<sup>n</sup>, unable to walk; cannot succeed, as a plan. bōe-kià<sup>n</sup>--tit, ought not to be done. ōe-kià<sup>n</sup>, able to walk; will probably succeed, as plan, petition, &c. sái ōe-kià<sup>n</sup>--bōe, can it be used to advantage? as a challenged dollar, or as a man's influence.

kià<sup>n</sup>-lâi, to be at interest, as money (v. lâi). kiâ<sup>n</sup>-khì, to have good effect, as medicine, or as a lucky grave; the animal spirits acting well in the body; to succeed, as a request for a favour. hong-súi kiâ<sup>n</sup>-khì, the influence of the grave comes into action, causing good fortune to the descendants of the dead. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-keng, to have the menstrual flow. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tâng, to die; to go to stool.

si-kià<sup>n</sup>, fashionable; much sought after (v. sí). kiâ<sup>n</sup>-sí, making money in good practice, as physician.

kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tâh, behaviour; manner of walking, as to elegance, vigour, &c. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-pàng, behaviour. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-gì, id. só-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, behaviour. hó-sé-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, easy and unconstrained in manner of intercourse; not insisting on ceremony, but kindly accepting familiar treatment; very good-natured, letting small insults (or things not just right) pass easily.

kiâ<sup>n</sup>-hó, to act rightly or virtuously. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, to act wickedly or viciously; to commit impurity. kiâ<sup>n</sup> kan-ím, to commit adultery, &c. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-pàng, to have lawful conjugal intercourse.

kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lé, to salute ceremoniously; to perform ceremonies. kiâ<sup>n</sup> tē-lí, to practise geomancy. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-kûn, to practise boxing without an opponent. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-kí, to play a sort of chess. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tit, to play the game called "tit."

kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tsûn, to be employed on a vessel. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lê, to walk on a road. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-bô-lê, to lose one's road. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoâ, to walk back and forwards, as after a meal (v. tsoâ). kiâ<sup>n</sup>-soá, to take a walk. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-niâ<sup>n</sup>, id. bóng kiâ<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. khì kiâ<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lâi kiâ<sup>n</sup>-khì, to walk backwards and forwards. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-

khui, to get out of the way. bân-chiah-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, stop a little. tò-thê-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to walk backwards, with face backwards. kan-ta-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to have a walk in vain. thó-kha kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. khang-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to walk on foot, or not carrying anything, or getting no good result. kha-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to walk on foot. pō-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. khá-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, you seldom visit us; surely you have some business or some favour to ask, as you come. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, unsafe for travelling on, bad for walking on, as a road. hó-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, good or safe for travelling on. hó-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-tsáu, in good order for walking, as dress; good for walking on, as road.

kiâ<sup>n</sup>, the rim, as of a sieve, &c. thai-táu-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, the rim of a sieve. poà-ki-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, the rim of a shallow wicker tray used for winnowing.

kiâ<sup>n</sup> (R. kêng), the stiff curved handle (about semicircular) of a basket or lamp. nâ<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, semicircular handle of basket. nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. teng-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, semicircular handle of a Chinese hand-lantern. ū koà-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, having a handle of a semicircular form.

kiâ<sup>n</sup> [R. kiên, = col. kán, á, gín], (Cn. ká<sup>n</sup>), a son; a child. sai-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a lad to whom we have taught a trade; an apprentice; adopted son of a Buddhist priest. khít-ê-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a son bought and adopted. bêng-ê-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. kè-pàng ê-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, son adopted from another branch of the family.

gū-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a calf. chhoā-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to lead chickens to walk, as hen does. ō-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, young roots of taro that grow in a cluster round the old root.

kiâ<sup>n</sup>-jì, children; sons and daughters (v. jì). kiâ<sup>n</sup>-sun, descendants; posterity (v. sun). tsa-bé-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a daughter; a girl. tsáu-kiâ<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-sài, son-in-law (v. sài). kiâ<sup>n</sup> sim-pū, son and his wife.

pē-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, father and son. bé-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, wife and children. bú-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, mother and son. bú-kiâ<sup>n</sup> tui pē-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, marriage of two children by former marriage of widow and widower respectively, who themselves marry.

toā-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, eldest son. sòe-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, younger son; a young boy or child. soah-bé-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, youngest son. soah-bé-kiâ<sup>n</sup> chiah-ū-leng, the youngest son gets plenty of milk to drink, i. e. is a favourite (in allusion to the Chinese custom of giving milk for two or three years). múg-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, son got in old age, having had none before. tsá-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, child of very young parents. sim-thiâ<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a favourite child. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. sêng-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to spoil a child; a spoiled child. keh-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, in want of sons, e. g. none, or only one or very few. hi-hán-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, an only child. kē-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, an only son.

si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to get a son; to get a child born. toa<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, only son. chhin-si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, one's own son (not adopted). si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-bú, a midwife; a woman who has children. thé-si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a child born abroad of Chinese father and foreign mother. lí-kē si<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, lūi chêng-lâng, when a nun has a child it implicates many in suspicion; one wicked man involves many innocent. ōe-si<sup>n</sup> kiâ<sup>n</sup>-sin, bōe-si<sup>n</sup> kiâ<sup>n</sup>-sim, can get a son, but cannot make a filial heart.

bō-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-chè, usury so heavy that Heaven denies children to the usurer.

liù-tsú-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a wicked boy about 15-20 years old. sió-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a sodomite. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, a lascivious person; a robber or rowdy. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-keng, a brothel. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lê, lascivious conduct. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-chêng, venereal disease. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a man who bargains for giving immunity from robbers to those who pay him money and get a flag from him.

kiâ<sup>n</sup> [R. ki, to deposit; to remain, = col. kià]. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, = kiâ<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, a parasitical marine animal.

京

行

繁

園

寄

鏡

kià<sup>n</sup> (R. kêng), a mirror. hī-kià<sup>n</sup>, the tympanum of the ear. ūi-kià<sup>n</sup>, a framed picture. hē-sin-kià<sup>n</sup>, a breast-plate. hē-sim-kià<sup>n</sup>, a small ornament placed on the breast at burial. hām-kià<sup>n</sup>, a microscope. chhien-lí-kià<sup>n</sup>, a telescope. gán-kià<sup>n</sup>, spectacles. bák-kià<sup>n</sup>, id. koà-bák-kià<sup>n</sup>, to wear spectacles. bák-kià<sup>n</sup>-kheng, frame of spectacles. bák-kià<sup>n</sup>-jin, glasses of spectacles. kūn-sī-kià<sup>n</sup>, spectacles for near-sighted eyes.

bīn-kià<sup>n</sup>, a mirror. soe-tsung-kià<sup>n</sup>, a woman's mirror. chhiú-kià<sup>n</sup>, a small mirror with handle. tiâu-kià<sup>n</sup>, a mirror suspended on wall or stand. khia-kià<sup>n</sup>, a mirror or picture fixed on a stand without any joint.

chiò-kià<sup>n</sup>, to look in a mirror. chiò-sin-kià<sup>n</sup>, a full-length mirror. chiò-hām-kià<sup>n</sup>, to examine with a microscope. boā-kià<sup>n</sup>, to polish a brass mirror.

kià<sup>n</sup>-pin, a mirror fixed on a stand without any joint. kià<sup>n</sup>-tái, stand for a mirror. kià<sup>n</sup>-bīn, face of a mirror. kià<sup>n</sup>-bīn-nī<sup>n</sup>, woollen cloth with a very smooth surface. kià<sup>n</sup>-bah, the glass of a mirror, or of a framed picture, as distinguished from the frame. kià<sup>n</sup>-tót, the wooden back of it. kià<sup>n</sup>-áh, a small case containing a mirror.

ô-kià<sup>n</sup>-thang, window made of oyster shells (v. ô). lāi-kià<sup>n</sup>-hiá<sup>n</sup>, front bulkhead of a boat. thâu-lāi-kià<sup>n</sup>, id.

kiá<sup>n</sup> (R. kiēn), classifier of many sorts of articles, as clothes, &c. mih<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a thing; an article. án-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a lawsuit. tiâu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, particulars, as in an agreement.

sng-kiá<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, to count articles by the number of units. joā-tsōe kiá<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, how many articles are there? counting by units, e.g. not by hundreds nor by weight. kúí-kiá<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, how many articles of dress? ták-kiá<sup>n</sup>, each article. khoán-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to put in order a set of articles (v. khoán). ū-kiá<sup>n</sup> ū-chi<sup>n</sup>, so much money for each article.

kiá<sup>n</sup> [R. kiēn, strong], ióng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, strong and vigorous. ióng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, khah-khoài-sí, strong people die sooner than others. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sin, strong in body, in good health; having a good constitution, so as to recover readily from sickness or accident. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kông-kiá<sup>n</sup>, strong, vigorous, and lusty, as lad or young man. khah-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lêng, stronger than a dragon (v. lêng). khin-kiá<sup>n</sup>, strong and vigorous. kha-chhiú khin-kiá<sup>n</sup>, limbs nimble and strong. kha-chhiú kūn-kiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

kiá<sup>n</sup>- goā-kiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), exclamation of great astonishment.

kiáh (R. kek, = col. giah). kiáh-tsâi, the 64th radical (the hand) when written at the side. kiáh (Cn. T.), = A. giah, to extract, as a thorn, &c.

kiáh (T.) kiáh-chhui, to protrude the lips, as a secret sign (cf. khiâu).

kiáh — chhâ-kiáh, wooden-soled shoes or clogs, with uppers of cloth or leather like common shoes. chhâ-kiáh-ôe, id. bák-kiáh, wooden clogs with only a strap of leather or coir. tsang-bák-kiáh, clogs fastened with only a strap of coir from the "tsang" palm. tsang-kiáh, id. âng-bák-kiáh, wooden clogs with uppers or broad strap of red leather. bák-kiáh-cheh, wooden heels for women's small shoes. bák-kiáh-tsoe, an instrument like a wooden clog held in the hand by a cripple crawling on the ground (v. tsoe).

kiáh [R. kiók, = col. kiák]. kiau-kiáh, active, graceful, and cheerful in manner; having an intelligent look; fresh and blooming, as flowers after rain (v. kiau).

kiáh (Cn. káh), to carry in the hand, as umbrella, stick, sword, lamp, &c.; to hold, as a pen; to hold up, as head; to turn up, as eyes; to calculate by the abacus; a perpendicular handle, and some sorts of supports. kiáh-pé, sort of halbert held by some idols.

kiáh-koái<sup>n</sup>, to hold up high, as hand, or something in the hand, &c. chhiú kiáh-koái<sup>n</sup>, to lift one's hand high; to be gentle, easy, and lenient, as a superior, or as the successful party in a lawsuit. kiáh-khí, to hold up, as head; to raise up, as the eyes. toā-tim kiáh-khí; khin-khin pâng-lóh, lifting the rod, as for a severe blow, but striking very gently; as when bribed to beat gently, or as parent frightening the child. thâu kiáh-m-khí, will not lift up his head, as from sorrow, shame, or sickness.

kiáh-thâu, to carry the head high; two small additions (one on each side) in front of a house. kiáh-bák, to lift up the eye; to gaze or look attentively. kiáh-bák-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to look attentively or earnestly. kiáh-tsan, to raise up a square net linged on the bow of a boat by walking up the ladder attached. kiáh-teng, to carry a lantern. kiáh-pit, to take up or hold a pen. kiáh-koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to carry a stick. kiáh-tiú, to receive the tally along with the bale to be carried, as the cooly does. kiáh-ki, to hold up a flag (v. kí). kiáh-ki, to hold a stick for writing oracles (v. kí, divination).

kiáh sng-poá<sup>n</sup>, to take up the abacus and calculate by it. kiáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, calculate (with abacus) and see how much it is.

kiáh kóng-á-hiēn (to carry a small guitar), said of a man coming to get money out of another (play on the meaning of the word "oi<sup>n</sup>").

teng-kiáh, a pillar-shaped lamp-stand. tháng-kiáh, a straight handle of a bucket rising straight from the side. khut-chhioh-kiáh, wooden knees for supporting a boat's bulwarks (one limb nailed to the deck and the other to the bulwarks). pūn-kiáh, id.

kiak (C.), = A. kiok (R.), foot.

kiák (= khiák). ok-kiák-kiák, very fierce. kiák-kiák-háu (C. kók), talking in a forward or unbecoming way, as inferior or young fellow talking too much. kiák-kiák-kjó, id.

kiák [R. kiók, = col. kiáh]. kiák-siak, lively and active in manner.

kiam (R. id.), along with; to hold or exercise together, as two offices. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiam, id. bōe-kiam--tit, they cannot be held or done at once. kiam-koán, to manage several offices or duties at once. tsâi-ti líong-kiam, having both ability and skill. hó kiam-phái<sup>n</sup>, good mixed with bad.

hòng-kiam, so much the more (said when the original object compared is added to, but not changed).

kiam toā-tiú (Cn.), to be set at a small angle from one of the four points of the compass (v. tiú).

kiâm (R. hām), salted; salt-tasted; brackish; salted vegetables, &c., used as condiments; niggardly. kiâm-siap, bad-tasted; niggardly (v. siap). kiâm-tok-tok, very salt. kiâm-sí-sí, id.

kiâm-chiá<sup>n</sup>, salt and fresh (v. chiá<sup>n</sup>). ti<sup>n</sup>-kiâm, chiáh bô-hiām, will take whatever comes to hand, and find no fault. kiâm-sng-ti<sup>n</sup>, a confection combining several tastes. kiâm-sng-chháu, the oxalis plant.

tū-kiâm, to salt or pickle by plunging in brine.

件

健

驚
械

履

雙
兼雙
兼

鹹

si<sup>n</sup>-kiám, to pickle; to salt. soah-kiám, to put in a little soy or such salt condiment.

kiám-tsúi, salt-water; said also of black-looking dollars. kiám-tsúi-chháu, reeds from salt-marshes, not good for mats. kiám-chháu, id. kiám-chhài, salted vegetables, especially mustard-plant. kiám-lê, all sorts of salted meat, fish, &c., or brine from them. tâu-kiám (Cn.), = A. tâu-jú, salted bean-curd.

kiám [R. kám, to dare, = col. ká<sup>n</sup>]. kiám-chhái, perhaps; if perhaps. kiám-ôe, can it be possible that —, = kám-ôe (q.v.)

kiám (R. id.), to diminish in number or quantity. kiám-chió, id. kiám--koá, a few less. khah-kiám, fewer; less. kiám-séng, more sparing in expenses.

ke-kiám, more or less; to add or diminish. ka-kiám, id.

kiám-liáu, to have narrowly escaped losing money, e.g. by not having sent goods meant to be sent by a vessel that was wrecked. kiám-chhun joá-tsôe, how much less surplus is there than was expected? kiám-phah, to beat fewer blows than he said, or than was usual. kiám-êng, to use somewhat less. khah-kiám-chi<sup>n</sup>, cheaper than before, or than something else. khah-kiám-kè, offering to give it for less money. kiám-kháu, to diminish the population, as an epidemic (v. kháu). kiám hê-siū, to have one's life shortened by Heaven for wickedness. kiám-chiáh, to eat less. kiám toá-tng, to abstain from breakfast, as women often do on the 1st and 15th of the month (v. tng).

kiám [R. to arrange; a pattern; to examine]. kiám-tiám, to make a list or inventory; to examine the circumstances carefully; not hastily taking up a statement or report. ka-ki kiám-tiám, to examine carefully for one's self; not trusting to others. sit-kiám-tiám, to neglect something in the inventory; to take too little care of things intrusted to us, so that they are lost.

tse-kiám, to examine a list or inventory to see if all be there. sê-kiám, to search the candidates for examination, to see that they do not carry in anything on their persons. kiám-si, to investigate the cause of death (as coroner) when the body is decayed to the bones.

sún-kiám, an assistant to the Hien mandarin, lower than "hun-koá<sup>n</sup>," about = "hun-si." he is not appointed from among the graduates, but after a time can rise to higher office; a graduate does not kneel to him.

kiám-tsng, box containing ladies' shoes, trousers, feet-bandages, &c., for wedding (v. tsng).

kiám (R. id.), a double-edged sword or long dagger. hang-kiám, the long spike of the skate-fish. pó-kiám, a magical or miraculous sword. siang-ké-kiám, a double-bladed dagger. sang-ké-kiám, id.

kiám-sok, a scabbard. kiám-toá, a ribbon with a pointed end. kiám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, a railing with the heads of the rails projecting (v. chhiu<sup>n</sup>).

lái kiám-kiám, as sharp as a sword (for cutting), said of teeth.

bú-kiám, to brandish a sword. púih-kiám, to draw a sword. àn-kiám siong-hông (watching each other with hands on swords), meditating mutual injury. àn-kiám siong-hông, id. kiáh-to kiáh-kiám (holding drawn swords), said of a new-born babe whose horoscope will cause the death of some near relative; such children are sometimes killed to avert the calamity.

kiám — kiám-kek, very strict and exacting in calculations about money matters.

kian, kián, kián, kián, kián; better kien, kièn, kién, kièn, kièn (q.v.)

kiang — liu-kiang, to get out of the way, to escape some duty or danger which we ought to share (v. liu).

kiàng (C.), = A. kiông, violent.

kiàng (C.), = A. kióng (R.), to force; to compel.

kiàng — hong kiàng-kiàng-háu, the wind howling loudly.

kiàng — chhùi kiàng, obstinate in argument; will not submit to be scolded, or admit that he is beaten, or confess a fault. séng chin-kiàng, temper very obstinate and stubborn.

hong thau kiàng-kiàng, wind boisterous and howling.

kiap (R. id.), to plunder; to rob; also (R.), a fated time of great calamity; a Buddhist kulpa.

kiap-àn, a (legal) case of robbery. kiap-liáh, to plunder and seize people. bêng-hé<sup>n</sup> kiap-liók, to rob with lighted torches. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kiap, to rob. chiét-tê chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kiap, highway robbery. phah-kiap, to be in the habit of plundering, as a robber village. kiông-kiap, violent robbery. kiông-kiap-chhát, burglars or highway-robbers. kiap-chhát, robbers.

kiap-iá<sup>n</sup>, to plunder an enemy's camp and carry off the spoil.

kiap-sè, any fated time of terrible calamity. kiap-sè lân-tô, great fated calamities cannot be avoided. tso-kiap, to meet with some great calamity, as plunder or slaughter. kè-kiap, to pass through some terrible calamity, e.g. some long and dreadful disease or imprisonment. boat-kiap, the Buddhist last day.

kiap [R. warm lined coat], (Cn. köh, Cn. T. koeh). kiap-hiú, a lined warm coat, not wadded.

kiap [R. to take under the arm; to squeeze; to take on both sides, = col. ngoeh], to torture by the instrument for squeezing the feet. kiap-kùn, the instrument for squeezing and torturing the feet.

kiap-kong, to attack on both sides. líong-pêng kiap-kong, id., = líong-lê kiap-kong. lái-goá kiap-kong, to attack both from within and from without. lôe-gôe kiap-kong, id.

kiap-sim, the horizontal timbers with grooves for the boards of a partition, above and below.

kiap [R. a legume or pod, = col. ngoeh]. bêng-kiap-chháu, a fabulous sensitive plant.

kiat, kiát; better kiet, kiét (q.v.)

kiau — kiau-so, to instigate.

kiau [R. kə, a channel, = col. kau], (Cn. kau). put-tek khai-kiau, cannot find any way to set the quarrel right, so as to leave all on good terms.

kiau — hoan-kiau, to roll about on the ground, as a horse.

kiau [R. kiu]. kiau-ká, violent pains in the bowels (v. ká).

kiau [R. beautiful], bright and decided, as a colour; pretty (said in scolding or jesting to persons). kiau-lái, bright and distinct, as a colour. sek-tsúi kiau, id.

kiau-á, licentious pictures. iau-kiau (R.), beautiful and finely adorned, as woman fitted to seduce.

kiau (R. id.), proud; to treat proudly; unwilling to listen or obey. kiau-gô, proud. kiau-ngô, id.

敢
減

檢

劍

劍

劫

袷
夾

莢

溝

嬌

驕

kiáu-thâu, id. kiáu-keng, proud and bragging, as in manner or talk. kiáu pít-pái, the proud will be worsted. kiáu-peng pít-pái, id. (fig. from soldiers).

kiáu-kiáh, graceful, cheerful, and intelligent looking; not at all dull or depressed; active, lively, and neat; fresh and looking up, as flower vigorous, blooming, and healthy-looking after rain.

kiáu [R. a bridge, = col. kiô]. hông-kiáu, pít hā-má (R.), on coming to a bridge dismount (be cautious).

kiáu [R. name of a plant]. liên-kiáu, a sort of medicine.

kiáu [R. piáu, to paste]. kiáu-pè (Cn. T. piáu-pô), to paste paper together.

kiáu [R. to bend or straighten]. kiáu-kióng (R.), doing a thing in an unnatural, unreasonable, or absurd manner (v. kióng).

kiáu [R. to disturb; to annoy], to mix, as liquids; thank you, sir! as for things given.

kiáu-chí<sup>n</sup>, I thank you for these cash (s. gamble; s. report). kiáu--lí, thank you, sir, for these things (lit. I have annoyed you!).

kiáu-jiáu, to annoy; to tease; to make a disturbance. kiáu-lā, to make a disturbance, as at a man's house (v. lā). kiáu-chhá, to make a disturbance. loán-tsú kiáu, id. lām-sám kiáu, id. kiáu-lâng-bin, to startle a man so as to awaken him.

kiáu-tsúi, to mix with water. kiáu-iú, to mix with oil. kiáu-thúg, to mix sugar. tsúi-kiáu, a confection like a tart, made with meat, &c.

kiáu (R. tó), gambling. poáh-kiáu, to gamble. poáh-kiáu-chê, sitting cross-legged (unmannerly). poáh-kiáu-sien, a confirmed gambler. poáh-kiáu lóng-tóng, abandoned; dissolute; gambling. poáh-góng-kiáu, unskilled in gambling; to gamble foolishly, as a victim. poáh-toā-kiáu, to gamble for a large stake. poáh sió-kiáu, to gamble for a small stake. poáh iā<sup>n</sup>-kiáu, to win in gambling. poáh su-kiáu, to lose in gambling. su-kiáu, id. poáh-kiáu, lóng-kun: bôe-bôe, chhát, there is honour among gamblers, but traders are thieves. poáh-kiáu, ham-khak khi; tsòe-chhát, thau-mi<sup>n</sup>-bí, gambling begins with shells, and stealing with a little rice. iā<sup>n</sup>-kiáu su-kiáu-tiáu, to win in gambling is the sure prognostic of losing.

kiáu-ti, a foolish fellow (pig) always losing in gambling. kiáu-kúi, a confirmed gambler. kiáu-kùn, a very skilful gambler. kiáu-kha, a gambler, especially in regard to the gambling place he frequents. sī chia--ê kiáu-kha, he is a regular gambler at this place. kiáu-bôe, a decoy for luring men to gamble. kiáu-koa<sup>n</sup>, the keeper of a gambling-house or place (s. report). kiáu-thâu, id. kiáu-thâu-ke, id.

kiáu-keng, a gambling-house. kiáu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a gambling place, as out of doors. kiáu-kū, any sort of furniture or instruments used for gambling. kiáu-lê, money paid to the underlings or mandarins for tolerating gambling-houses. kiáu-chí<sup>n</sup>, money got by gambling; a gambling debt (s. thank, annoy; s. report). kiáu-chí<sup>n</sup> bôe-tsòe--tit ke-hé, gambling gains cannot make lasting wealth.

pái-kiáu, to keep a gambling place. tsòe-kiáu, to unite capital to set up a gambling place. gièn-kiáu, craving for gambling. hoat kiáu-hông, to get excited in the game, so as to gamble on madly without any restraint. chiáh-kiáu-tâng, to live by gambling. chin-gâu liáh kiáu-sat, fond of finding fault whenever fault can possibly be found.

kiáu (R. id.), to report or give in to a mandarin, as a document or funds. kiáu-bún, to give in a document to a mandarin. kiáu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to send in a petition or report to a superior. kiáu-lêng, to give in a report to a superior military officer. kiáu-chí, to make report to the emperor of having executed his commands. kiáu-chí<sup>n</sup>, to give in money to mandarin, as Tépó does (s. gamble; s. thank, annoy). kiáu kun-su, to pay in the squeeze called military contributions.

kiáu (cf. kiau, ngiau), to move by a lever. kiáu-khui, to open by leverage. kiáu--tó, to upset by leverage, &c. kiáu--khi-lái, to raise by leverage.

kiáu — kàn-kiáu, to scold with vile language, calling abominable names, &c. chhoh-kàn-kiáu, id. kiáu (C.), id.

kiauh (cf. kiāu, ngiau), an upstroke in writing. kiauh--khi-lái, to raise one's self up. kiauh-khi, to rise from one's seat.

kiauh (T.), = A. ngiau; to lift up some small thing, as with the finger-nail.

kiauh — kiauh-kiauh-jióng, speaking loud and rudely; to make a row by talking very loud. kiauh-kiauh-háu, to talk on rudely when one ought to be quiet.

kiauh — kiauh-kiauh-kiò, sound of voices, especially indistinctly objecting or murmuring at what is ordered. kí-kí kiauh-kiauh, sound, as of birds chirping; noisy, as children.

kiauh<sup>n</sup> — kóng-kiauh<sup>n</sup>, out of harmony; not getting on well together, as family or friends.

kiauh<sup>n</sup> — tâng-kiauh<sup>n</sup> (C.), a small sort of frog.

kien [R. the shoulder, = col. keng]. kien-thiau pòe-hū, to carry on the shoulder and on the back, as porters and pedlars. phi-kien, an ornament for the shoulders, worn by mandarins and Kujin.

kien (R. gien), pretty; too pretty; often said in joke of a person, with an innuendo of bad character. hê-sek put-chí-kien, the goods are very beautiful; said also of a woman who is too gaudy, as for bad purpose.

kien [R. kan, dry; to harden, = khiên, "heaven," = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. kien-hong, hardened and dried by the wind. kien-koa<sup>n</sup>, to dry articles of food till quite dry. kien-tāu-koa<sup>n</sup>, bean-curd dried quite hard. siu-kien, so far healed (as sore or ulcer), that the scab is about to form. kien-phi, the scab forming or formed. kien-pa, to dry, as meat. gō kàu-beh kien-pa--khi, terribly hungry (as if going to be dried).

kien-ta, = kan-ta, only (v. ta). kien ôe, = kan ôe, yet indeed he is able (v. kan). àn-ni<sup>n</sup> kien thong, it is indeed a good plan. kien hó (T.), = kan hó, though it seemed not good (or not well), yet after all it is so. kien-á (T.), = A. kan-á, well indeed —.

kien (R. id.), firm; steady. kien-kê, firm; steady; steadfast. kien-tsòng, strong; firmly made, as a thing, e.g. furniture, or as a city. kien-têng (C. kin-têng), strongly made, as thing. kien-sim, with fixed purpose. sim-kien ì-chhiet, id. sim kien, chek-si hùt, a man of firm purpose is as powerful as a Buddha.

kien-lín (r.), parsimonious; niggardly; stingy.

kien-lòk, = kan-lòk, a spinning-top.

kien (C.) kien-tê, = A. koan-tôe, to subscribe money. kien-kám, to buy the degree of kám-seng.

繳

橋

逆

肩

妍

乾

堅

悭

捐

橋
翹
裱 橋
攪

賭

凝

kiên (T. giên), to congeal or coagulate. kiên-sng, to congeal; to freeze. kiên-tàng, to coagulate.

乾

kiên [R. kan, khiên, = col. kan, kien, koa<sup>n</sup>], dry and parched, as tongue or throat in fever. bìn lóng-kiên--khi, face all become dark, as by sickness or opium-smoking.

繭

kiên [R. a cocoon; a chrysalis], (C. kán), a sort of silk from Sze-chuen province. chhoan-kiên, id. kiên-tiú, a yellowish white silk, which afterwards grows white. péh-kiên, a fine thin white silk stuff.

建

kiên [R. to establish; to make firm, or build up]. kiên-ti, to purchase for one's self. kiên-lip (R.), to set up; to establish. kiên-kong, to obtain merit, by some great service to the state.

hok-kiên, Fuh-kiên province. kiên-liên, water-lily seeds from Fuh-kiên. thien-hã pièn-pièn, m-táh hok-kiên, no place in the world is equal to Fuh-kiên.

kiên — kiên-chí-bah, meat cut from the ham.

見

kiên [R. to perceive; to meet with; on every occasion; sign of the passive, = col. ki<sup>n</sup>].

kiên-siàu, ashamed (v. siàu). kiên-koài, to be offended, as at small faults (v. koài). kiên-kòe, to be offended, esp. slightly. kiên-tiông, that in which one is specially skilful or excels others (v. tiông). kiên-kí, superior in quality (v. kí). kiên-gí, to be suspected.

kiên-sek, knowledge; wisdom (v. sek). ì-kiên, opinion. bô-têng-kiên, changeable in purpose. chhién-kiên, of shallow understanding; contracted in his views. toán-kiên, going to kill one's self (v. toán). siáu-sé-kiên, having but little experience; not acquainted with the world; having rarely met with influential people. siáu-sé-kiên, to kî-koài, he who has seen little is easily astonished. kiên-tái-sék-bièn, acquainted or having mixed with influential people.

hán-kiên, rarely seen or met with. chiok-kiên, evidence enough that —. lê-kiên put-pêng, to see a case of gross injustice on the road (v. pêng). put-kiên tsú-bêng, of course it is so; unmistakably true. tà put-kiên-thien, to put up awnings so as quite to hide the sky (fig. of a man declining to see us or to help), (v. tà).

ôe-kiên-chêng--tit, can safely appear in sight of all men, as an honest and clear transaction (v. chêng, "all"). kiên-tiâu, to attend the regular daily audience of the emperor. ín-kiên, to have an audience of the emperor, as high mandarin on getting higher rank. chì-kiên-lé, fee paid on first calling a doctor or engaging a teacher.

kiên-chhu-hiông, to try which will conquer (lit. male or female). kiên-ko-te, id. (lit. high or low).

kiên-tsóh kiên-tiông, hits the mark every time. kiên-liâu, kiên-tiòh, every guess comes true. kiên-ì kiên-hó, curing by every prescription. kiên-khùn, chiú bãng--kí<sup>n</sup>, every time I fall asleep I dream. kiên-phoà, wherever it is torn or broken.

燕

kiên [R. ièn, a swallow, = col. ì<sup>n</sup>]. giét-kiên, to play at shuttle-cock, done with the feet. hiet-kiên, id. that-kiên, id.

健

kiên [R. vigorous and healthy]. tsòng-kiên, robust, strong, and vigorous (of man). khong-kiên, robust in old age.

kiên-tiu, active, nice-looking, pleasant, and open in manner, as a child (v. tiu).

kiên (cf. ki<sup>n</sup>), stubbornly refusing to acknowledge being in the wrong or to take advice. kap-goá kiên, doggedly refusing to do what I wish. chiáh-kiên, of set purpose doing the very contrary to what is asked or desired. kiên-lê, you obstinate slave! (said in scolding a son or inferior who tries to be disobedient and obstructive). kiên-koai, very dogged and crotchety; fond of opposing and obstructing others' wishes or plans; of set purpose going against what others desire. ké-kiên-koai, making a show of disobedience and dogged resistance while quite aware that resistance is impossible. ké-kiên (C.), id.

bôe-siau-kiên--tit, unwilling to obey, but quite unable to make effectual resistance. bôe-siau-kiên, id. m-ká<sup>n</sup> siau-kiên, id.

kiên (R. id.), (C. kîn), the gizzard. ah-kiên, duck's gizzard. koe-kiên, hen's gizzard.

kiet (R. id.) chheng-kiet, (R.), clean.

kiet (R. id.), (C. kit), auspicious; of fortunate omen; lucky. kiet-hók, ordinary dress, as put on when mourning is put off. kiet-hiong, good and bad fortune; lucky and unlucky. hiông-kiet, id. hiông-kiet-sū, lucky and unlucky matters, as all sorts of festivals, anniversaries, &c. hiông-kiet sí-sū, id. kiet-hiong bí-lâi, sien íú-tiâu, omens come before good or bad fortune.

kiet-sióng jû-ì, may you have happiness according to your desires (this and the following phrases are often pasted up). tâi-kiet lí-chhí, may this shop have great prosperity. tâi-kiet tái-lí, id. khai-tiông tái-kiet, id. pêng-an tái-kiet (peace and great prosperity), small incense bags on which this is written. liên-chiau kiet-kó, may all be auspicious and happy (phrase used at marriages).

kiet (R. id.), (C. kit). kiet-á, a lime. kim-kiet, preserved limes. soa<sup>n</sup>-kiet-á, a small wild shrub, not a lime at all.

kiết [R. name of a plant], (C. kit). kiet-kêng, a medicinal plant. kiet-kéng, id. kiet-kí<sup>n</sup> (T. Cn.), id. (Platycodon?).

kiết — pí-kiet, costiveness.

kiết (R. id., = col. kat), to form into a knot, lump, or mass; to join, as relationship or league; to sum up and balance; to wind up an affair; a sort of bond or security, as for good behaviour, or for closing a dispute; a certificate given by a mandarin to a man under his jurisdiction when appointed to any office; hard and strong, as a good rope.

kiet-liet, to form into a knot, mass, or league; to balance up; to wind up an affair, &c. kiet-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to form into and become —, as in a relationship, &c. kiet-tsòe chit-tè, to form into one mass; to coagulate. kiet ka-nng-tè, id. kiet-bãng, to make a net-work, esp. for a dress.

kiet-hun, to settle a marriage definitely. kiet-chhin, to arrange a marriage contract; to contract affinity (said of the relatives of the couple, or of the couple themselves). kiet-tsòe ang-bó, to become man and wife. kiet-kau, to associate with; to form a friendship. kiet-kau pêng-íú, id. kau-kiet pêng-íú, id. kiet-pài, to form the connection of sworn brothers, who look on each others' parents as their own. kiet-pài hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, such sworn brothers. kiet-siã, to make a literary society for writing essays. kiet-tóng, to form a clique or conspiracy for bad purposes. kiet-oan, to be at open enmity and feud. kiet-oàn, to cherish deep enmity in the heart.

臆潔吉

橘桔

結

kiét-hoat, the wife whom a bachelor marries first of all.

kiét-sūi, the ear of grain forming, after the flower is past. kiét-ké-chí, the fruit forming; to bear fruit. kiét hoe-lú, to form flower buds or flowers.

kiét-sit, neatly and tightly tied or sewed up; real and certain, not empty pretence (said of words or an affair); also (R.), to bear fruit. kiét-sok, neat and tidy; neatly fastened up, as box, basket, parcel, &c.; not loose, as dress well fastened by girdle. sok-kiét, id.; said also of a house or room, small but neat and comfortable. kiét-tēng, strong; firm.

pa-kiét, skilful at managing matters; hard to get round; ingratiating one's self with influential persons (v. pa).

kiét-kó, final circumstances of a man, esp. as result of his life; to kill (v. kó). kiét-kiók, finished up, completed, as an affair. kiét-àn, to close up a case, by the parties signing a bond called "kiét." kiét-tsūg, the bond or deed that settles up a case. kam-kiét, a bond finally winding up a lawsuit; a bond signed by the people promising (to the government) to do or refrain from something. pó-kiét, a document giving security for a man, or promising to hold an arrangement final. liên-hoân-kiét, a bond of mutual security given by the people of a ward (v. hoân). hâng-kiét, a security given by a great privileged hong for the junk of another firm, which is required before the official papers are given to the junk. chhut hâng-kiét, to issue this bond. tng hâng-kiét, to stamp it with the seal of the hong. tng-kiét, id.

tsóng-kiét, the summing up and balancing of a whole account, as at the end of the year, or at the closing up of a business or affair or of whole set of accounts. nī<sup>n</sup>-kiét, the balancing up at end of year. géh-kiét, do., at end of month. kiét-siàu, to sum up and balance an account, as at the end of the month; to sum up and balance an entire account. kiét tsóng-siàu, to make up an account, as at the end of the year, or of a whole affair.

kiét-liú, the silk or cotton knob of a Chinese cap. hiét-kiét, the gum called dragon's blood. toā-chih-kiét, speaking with much difficulty or indistinctness, as from malformation of the tongue, or as in fever, &c.

kiét [R. to exhaust; to exert to the utmost], too severe and exacting, as a master; bad for getting a livelihood, as a place. ke-sū kan-kiét, very poor. soa<sup>n</sup> kēng, hái kiét (land and sea barren), very hard to make a living there.

chīn-sim kiét-lék (R.), to exert one's self to the utmost. kiét-chīn sim-lék (R.), id.

kiét (R. id.), the tyrant Kieh of the Hia dynasty, with whom it ended. hā-kiét, id. kiét-tiū, the two great tyrants, Kieh and Chow (v. tiū).

kiét [R. eminent in talents or virtue; a hero], pleasant and intelligent, as a child. hō-kiét, having great ability and magnanimity; clever, courageous, and disinterested. ké-kiét, very nice-looking and neat; well made and small, as man or article; useful and desirable (as thing), though not intrinsically precious; pleasant and intelligent, as child. ké-kiét ké-kiét, id.

kiét (cf. khiét, khiák). pah kàu kiét-kiét-háu, to make the blows ring on his skin, as in beating a boy.

kih, to pile up wood in a pile or stack, especially by laying down two pieces and then two above them at right angles, and so on; to pile up, as bricks, tiles, stones, &c., in a pile. kih-lih--khi-lái, id. kih chhâ-thah, to pile up a pile or stack of timber.

kih gīm-ki<sup>n</sup>, to build a long stone step along the wall of a house. kih-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to build up a wall with stone or brick.

kih [R. kek, a cackling sound]. kih-kih-háu, talking on so as to weary one. kih-kih-kiò, id. hoan-kih-kā, so indistinct that nothing can be made of it (v. kā).

kih — kih-kih kiùh-kiùh, to twitter, as a bird; to squeak, as a rat; to chatter, as children.

kih<sup>n</sup> — chhoán-kih<sup>n</sup>-kà<sup>n</sup> (C.), panting very hard (v. chhoán).

kih<sup>n</sup> — kih<sup>n</sup>-kih<sup>n</sup> koaih<sup>n</sup>-koaih<sup>n</sup>, sound, as of boards creaking. kih<sup>n</sup>-nih<sup>n</sup> kēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, sound of things breaking or rattling (v. kēh<sup>n</sup>).

kim [R. now, at present, = col. kīn]. kim-mī<sup>n</sup>, to-night. hiên-kim, at present. tong-kim, id. jī-kim (R.), id. chhū-jī-kim (R.), id.

bák-kim, at present. bák-kim, chī<sup>n</sup> tsòe-lâng, at present the only thing people count important about a man is wealth, not caring for justice or even relationship. chióng-kim í-áu, henceforward. kim-si tsòe, kim-si siu, recompense comes in this present life (v. si).

ké-kim, ancient and modern times. óng-ké lâi-kim (R.), from of old till now. kim put-tóng-ké, the present cannot compare with the past. tâm-kim soat-ké, to talk idly of things ancient and modern. soat-ké tâm-kim (r.), id.

kim — oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kē-léh, the broken bottom of a bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kē-le (T.), id.

kim — ē-kim, the lower support of a helm. kim-sng, the wooden bolts fixing it into the stern. chhut-kim, to get out of its groove, as helm striking the bottom (s. gold).

kim — kim-chhēng (esp. C.), lasting, as dress having much wear in it. kim-iōng (C.), do. of other things.

kim (R. id.), gold; idolatrous gilt paper; (some sorts of money); bright; shining; intently (as gazing); jars containing old bones; a surname (but many give "kim" as their surname, who are really of the "kim-tun" branch of the surname "ng"); also (esp. in Hái-tēng), to look angrily at a man.

sok-kim, a teacher's salary. sin-kim, wages (not salary). phèng-kim, money sent by bridegroom's parents to bride's parents. bēng-kim, good copper cash. kim-pien (Cn.), sort of large good cash (v. pien).

kiò-kim, to sound a gong to call the spirits to come, as when a junk goes out or in; or on the 1st and 15th of the month. bēng-kim siu-kun, to give the signal for retreat of army.

kim-tan, = sien-tan, the fabulous elixir of immortality. sù-tāi kim-kong, name of four great idols often at entrance of temples.

hông-kim, jars containing (or for containing) the bones of the dead. kim-tāng, id. kim-táu, id. tāi kim-táu, to bury bones in jars. tsòng-kim, id. khang-kim, empty jars for bones. tāi khang-kim, to bury these empty jars in a grave site (as if with bones) to prevent others getting the site.

lâm-jī chiok-hā, iú hông-kim, there is yellow gold beneath a man's leg (he does not like to be always kneeling). kim kha-thâu-u, seldom having to kneel

喘

今

金

竭

桀
傑

(v. u). chin-kim put-phà<sup>n</sup>-hé<sup>n</sup>, real gold does not fear the fire.

kim-téng, a brass button worn by small officials and by gentry. kim-póng, the rank of Tsin-sze (chin-sū). kim-png, id. kim-hoe, tinsel flowers worn by a new graduate; Turkey opium (v. hoe).

chhien-kim (polite), your daughter. sù-tsó chhien-kim, put-jû kàu-tsú it-gê, better teach your son a trade than give him a thousand dollars.

kim-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a very dear child, loved rather too much. bān-kim-kiá<sup>n</sup>, heir of a wealthy family. ná<sup>n</sup> kim-ang-á (like a golden image), said of son of rich parents, esp. if only child or much loved. kim-tiàu-tháng, said of a man who will not assist when asked. kám-siá lí-ê kim-giēn (polite), thanks for your excellent words (often said in joke). kim-liēn, small-bound feet of women. kim-liēn, a metal chain for suspending a pouch.

téng hun-kim, to fix the angle at which a house or grave stands from one of the cardinal points. hun-kim tsó-hiòng, the geomantic direction of it. hun-kim chē-hiù<sup>n</sup>, id. hun-kim-soá<sup>n</sup>, the string with a cash at the end of it, used (along with the compass) in geomancy. hun-kim-khit, the peg used in the same operation. hun-kim-á-tsoáh, a very small divergence, as from a pattern, or from even regularity in a piece of work.

hun-kim, alloyed gold. chiok-hun-kim, pure gold. chiok-hun kim-hiòh, very fine gold in thin plates. chiok-siá<sup>n</sup>-kim, pure gold. chiok-chhiah-kim, id. chhiah-kim, id. kê-kim, gold much alloyed; very impure gold. ké-kim, false gold; imitation gold. ng-kim, yellow gold. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kim, gold with a greenish hue, as Japanese gold.

ε-kim, dark, as the skin of a man much in the sun; getting on well in the world; making a good deal of money. ε-kim-chhat, fine black varnish.

kim-bīn, gilded or plated with gold. pau-kim, to plate thickly all over with gold by putting on a solid plate. tē-kim, to gild or plate another metal with gold very thinly (done by melting). tē kim-tsúi, do. still more thinly (not with real gold). an-kim, to gild with gold-leaf, as wood or earthenware. siu<sup>n</sup>-kim, to inlay with gold. lèk-kim, to plate with gold by melting, as on silver or other metal.

tái-kim-kok, the country of the Kin Tartars, who once ruled North China. kim-soa<sup>n</sup>, a gold-producing country (said of Australia, California, and Borneo). sóe-kim, to wash gold out of sand.

kim-gūn, gold and silver; idolatrous paper representing gold and silver. kim-gūn-tiām, a shop for selling idolatrous paper. kim-gūn-hoe, honeysuckle. kim-pau-gūn, the best sort of glutinous rice from Ankoï (said to take a whole year to ripen); infused as a medicine.

kim-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of censer or tripod for burning idolatrous paper. kim-lê, a furnace for burning it; a furnace for refining gold. kim-láng, a basket for holding that paper. kim-tsoá, idolatrous paper representing gold. kim-chí<sup>n</sup>, id., yellow. kim-khê, bundles of it. kim-tháh, a pile of it. kim-thah, id.; also, name of a country (v. thah). kim-ióh, paint used for making idolatrous paper. kim-iú, a gold-coloured paint used to give the appearance of gilding (not for idolatrous paper). kim-hiú<sup>n</sup>-chek, idolatrous paper, incense, and candles. toā-kim, large bundles of that paper burned at once. jiàu<sup>n</sup>-kim, brass foil pasted on paper so as to look crumpled (idolatrous). siu<sup>n</sup>-kim, idolatrous paper with the word "longevity" (siū) on it. in-siū-kim, to stamp that word on it. in-kim, to stamp idolatrous paper. chih-kim, to fold it. chhat-kim pè-pòh, to make it by painting and pasting. sio-kim, to burn it (v. sio).

kim-thâu, the gloss of new cloth, &c. kim-kim, bright; shining; smooth. boā-kim, to polish or furnish bright. kim siám-siám, shining, as a polished surface. kim siák-siák, id. kim-nà<sup>n</sup>-sà<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. nà<sup>n</sup>). kim-iām-iām, brilliant, like gold.

kim-kim-siòng, to look very intently or earnestly. kim-kim-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id. bák-chiu kim-kim, eyes glancing; eyes very bright or looking very intently. tiám-tiám kim, very knowing; careful in business; hard to cheat.

kim-iú, powdered gold for making ornamental paper. kim-soa, gold-dust; a sort of fine sand. kim-pòh, tin-foil coloured to look like gold-leaf. kim-mé<sup>n</sup>, gold-leaf, true or false. kim-hiòh, thin plates of gold, much used as a portable private treasure, esp. by mandarins. chhéh-iáh-kim, very thin plates of gold, much used for portable treasure. chhéh-iáp-kim, id. iú<sup>n</sup>-phê-kim, very strong well-gilt paper, used for making ornaments. pán-kim, strong stiff gilt-paper (for ornamental work) with the gilding very smooth.

kim-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a gold ingot about four ounces; a bundle of idolatrous paper. kim-tiâu, a bar of gold about ten ounces. kim-poát-á, a small gold coin about size of a sovereign. kim hoan-á-thâu, a larger sort.

kim-si-chiáu, a beautiful small yellow bird. kim-hi, gold or silver fish. hé-kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, fireflies. kim-sin, the large blue-bottle fly (v. sin). kim-ku, a very small beetle (v. ku).

kim-koe, the pumpkin. kim-chhiok-hoe, a beautiful yellow flower. kim-hōng, the balsam. kim-eng, the large, white, single rose (v. eng). kim-tsó, preserved limes. kim-kiet, id. kim-chiam, a flower and vegetable (v. chiam). ut-kim-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a fragrant medicinal plant (v. ut). pièn-tê-kim (Cn.), a small white water-lily. bé-tôe-kim, a medicinal compound. kim-kong-táu, sort of confection.

kím (Cn.), = A. gím, variegated or flowered silk.

kím (Cn.), to make game of.

kím [R. to forbid; to imprison], to forbid; to interdict; to prohibit. kim-chí, to prohibit. kim-chí, a jailer; door-keeper of a prison (from "chí," a son). kim-siá<sup>n</sup>, the innermost city in Peking. kim-tiâu, prohibitory proclamations on long narrow slips of paper. kim-iok, a mutual agreement among the people of a place to forbid some practice. kong-kim, id.

khu-kim, to restrain a man by force; to hold in duration. siú-kim (R.), to imprison. kim-ka<sup>n</sup>, to imprison; to keep in prison. kim-lòh-ka<sup>n</sup>, to imprison.

kim-khī, to avoid a thing from medical or superstitious reasons (v. khī). kim-chhùi, to forbid some sorts of food, in disease. kim-kháu-li, a severe disease of the bowels, which takes away appetite. kim-chhù, superstitious prohibition of strangers entering a house (v. chhù). kim-tê, to forbid the killing of animals, as in drought. kim ké-gák, to forbid music, as for imperial mourning. kim-káng, to forbid vessels sailing, or forbid export. kim-kê (r.), to disable from taking degrees or office (v. kè). kim phá<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to forbid the use of bad cash. kim-chhê<sup>n</sup> (C.), villagers agreeing to prohibit the pasturing of cattle in the fields when near harvest-time: the agreement is made knowu and ratified by a play.

林示

hoān-kīm, contraband; forbidden. lē-kīm, forbidden by the code of laws. hōng-kīm, to receive a prohibition or interdict from superior. ūi-kīm, to break a prohibition. khui-kīm, to take off a prohibition. put-kīm, jī tsū-kīm, to restrain one's self though not prohibited.

kīm (T.), to hold in the hand; to take in the hand. kīm-bēh, to feel the pulse.

kīm-thng, bō-sóe-chhiú (A.), extremely intimate with each other.

kīm (R. id.), wife of maternal uncle, or of wife's brother. á-kīm, id. kīm-á (of a man), wife of his wife's younger brother; (but of a woman), wife of her younger brother. kīm-pō, wife of maternal grandmother's brother; also said in scolding with a bad meaning. kē-i kū-kīm, aunts and their husbands; brothers of wife or mother, &c. (v. kē).

bú-kīm, mother's brother's wife. bó-kīm (C.), id. bé-kīm, wife's brother's wife. chhe-kīm, id. sòe-kīm, wife's younger brother's wife. toā-kīm, wife's elder brother's wife; wife of oldest maternal uncle. jī-kīm, wife of second oldest maternal uncle.

kīm-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-tī (T.), son of maternal uncle.

kīm [R. kīm, now; present]. kīm-á-jit, to-day. kīm-ná-jit, id. kīm-ni<sup>n</sup>, this year. kīm-toā<sup>n</sup> (r.), now (v. toā<sup>n</sup>).

kīm (C.) kin-tēng, = A. kien-tēng, strongly made, as things.

kīm (C.) kin-tu, = A. kun-tu, yet after all the same.

kīm (C.), = A. kun, a root. chhiōng-peh-kīm, a short red snake found in fir-roots.

kīm (C.), = A. kun, a napkin.

kīm (C.), = A. kun, a catty.

kīm (C.), = A. kun (R.), to follow.

kīm (C.), = A. kun, a sinew; a nerve. kin-ne<sup>n</sup>, the small fibrous parts of the sinews or nerves (v. ne<sup>n</sup>).

kīm (C.) kin-kí, = A. keng-kí, business, trade, or occupation.

kīm (F.) kin-chio, = gēng-chio, the plantain.

kīm (C.), = A. tín, to pour off, as pure water from sediment or muddy water, or as medicinal infusion, or as liquid from food.

kīm [R. tight; urgent], fast; quick; prompt; tight; firmly tied. put-chí-kīm, very quick; very tight. kīm-kín, id.

kīm-mé<sup>n</sup>, quick. koá<sup>n</sup>-kīm, quick! to hasten. pàng-kín-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk fast. thàn-kín, id. pek-kín, to urge on quickly, as a matter. chhui-kín, id. kím-khoài, easily done; quick. kím-sèng, quick-tempered. kím-sèng-tē, id. kím-bàng-bàng, in a tremendous hurry. kím suh-suh, very quick. kím-bān, quick and slow (v. bān). kím-oān, id. kím-lāi, come quick!

iàu-kím, important. kím-iàu (r.), id. (v. iàu). kím-kip, urgent and important; pressing, as want.

bō-tá<sup>n</sup>-kím, good-natured and pleasant to deal with; kind and considerate, not too exacting, as master; diligent, well-behaved, and pleasant to have in employment, as servant. beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>-kím, of what consequence is it? (said as in making light of a matter which we have asked and been refused).

chhùi ká kím-kím, teeth clenched very tight, as in a faint or near death. kím-sin-á, a close-fitting warm jacket.

kīm (C.), = A. ún (R.), a worm. tē-kím (Tt.), a worm.

kīm (C.) kím-ná, = A. gín-ná, a boy; a young lad.

kīm [R. careful; circumspect; cautious]. kím-sin, to be cautious, circumspect, or watchful against; to take great care against some danger. giām-kím, rigidly careful; very strict. khūn-kím, diligent, careful, and laborious. kím-kiu<sup>n</sup>, id.

kīm (R. koān), sort of very thin cheap silk stuff, almost like silk-gauze. péh-kím, white do. hoe-kím, flowered do. kím-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan made of paper pasted on it.

kīm [R. just barely]. kím-kím, just barely, but no more. kím-ū, just barely so much or so many, but almost falling short. kím-ti ki-it, put-ti ki-jī, knowing only a very small part, but not the important facts or principles of the matter.

kīm (C.), = A. kūn, near.

kīm (C.), = A. kiēn, the gizzard.

kiò [R. kiáu, name of a grain]. kiò-béh, buck-wheat.

kiò (R. kâ), the egg-plant; the brinjal. kiò-sek, a light-gray with a dash of lilac or of light-purple, darker than khè-hoe-sek. ũg-tsúi-kiò, a poisonous solanaceous plant with large white fruit, used in medicine externally, for boils, &c. ũg-chí-kiò, id. chhàu-kiò-á, a solanaceous plant with small berries.

kiò (R. kiáu), a bridge. kiò-so, the piers of a bridge. kiò-kha, at the foot of the bridge.

oa<sup>n</sup>-kiò, the wooden framework of a Chinese saddle. to-kiò, a bridge of knives used by sorcerers. kè to-kiò, to cross it. tiàu-kiò, a draw-bridge. phū-kiò, a floating-bridge; name of a stone-bridge at Chin-chew, where originally there was a floating-bridge. tah phū-kiò, to make a floating-bridge. chhâ-kiò, a wooden-bridge; a wooden jetty on piers. ún-ku-kiò, a bridge having the roadway steep, but not necessarily arched.

phē-kiò, to make a bridge, or a great repair of one. phē-kiò tsō-lē, to make bridges and roads. siu-kiò tsō-lē, to repair bridges and make roads. tsō-kiò, to make a bridge (v. tsō).

kiò [R. tiàu, the tide]. chhiu-kiò (C.), great tides and floods in autumn.

kió (Cn.), = A. ké (R.), remissly; carelessly; illicit.

kió (Cn.) kió-kí, = A. ké-kí, a medicinal plant (v. kí).

kió (Cn.), = A. ké (R.), a dog.

kiò (R. kiàu), to call; to name; to be named; to sound or make a noise. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiò, to rhyme. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiò-in, to call and answer; to rhyme (v. in).

kiú-kiò, to call upon, as in prayer. kiò-thi<sup>n</sup>, to call on Heaven. kiò-mŭng, to call out at a door to get it opened. kiò-bō-mŭng, to call out, but get no one to open the door.

kiò-kim, to beat gongs, as several junks do at once when a junk is entering or leaving the harbour; done also on the 1st and 15th of the month. kiò-kim kiò-ké, to beat drums and gongs inviting the spirits to offerings.

kiò kau-thòe, a ghost tempting a man to commit suicide, that it may get back to life (v. thòe). khít-kúi kiò--khi, said of a man formerly well-behaved, but now enticed to evil by bad men (v. kúi).

謹

絹

僅

蕎
茄

橋

潮

叫

姪

今

緊

kiò-*chhùi, a young boy or girl who is at our call, for work or messages. chhi chit-ê, thang kiò-*chhùi, to bring up or hire a young boy or girl for messages or small bits of work. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiò-*chhùi, so far reconciled as to speak to one another. chhe-kiò, to order about and use for work, as a servant. kiò-i-lâi, call him here. kiò-kang, call men to do the work. kiò-kiò, to call a sedan.

hiàm-kiò, to call out loud to a person. âu-kiò, to shout very loud; to yell. háu-kiò, to cry out, as under pain (as child), or under a strong sense of wrong. gâu háu-kiò, said of a man constantly talking and troubling people, or of a child crying when beaten, or of a pig or dog making a constant noise. kiò-hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to call out (e.g. giving orders) for the mere pleasure of it. kiò-koe--ê, blind beggars who call in the streets, especially at night. kiò m-ká<sup>n</sup>, to call out, "I'll not do it again," when beaten. kiò-loa (T.), = A. khə-toa, hen cackling before laying an egg. lêh-lêh-kiò, sound of thunder quick and loud. khiet-khiet-kiò, scraping sound of a dipper or ladle emptying a jar or rice-boiler nearly empty; (so with many such phrases of noise).

phien-kiò, to give too low a title, e.g. calling one's father "á-chek," as from superstitious motives. miâ<sup>n</sup>-kiò, his name is —. lí-kiò sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, what are you called? lí-kiò sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-miâ<sup>n</sup>, what is your name?

kiò (R. kiāu), a sedan-chair. chit-téng-kiò, one sedan. chit-pé-kiò, id. bé-kiò, horses and sedans.

í-kiò, a small chair for children, often made with wheels. tek-í-kiò, id. phah í-kiò, two men crossing hands and so carrying another. phah-chhiú-kiò, id. chê téng-kiò, to sit in a sedan full of nails, as sorecrer.

lién-kiò, an idol's sedan. sió-kiò, a sedan with two or three bearers. toā-kiò, sedan with four or more hearers, used by mandarins and high graduates. si-kiò, sedan with four bearers. âng-kiò, a bridal sedan. hoe-kiò, id. chhái-kiò, id. hièn-kiò, large sort of sedan used by high mandarins (v. hièn). thoa-tóe-kiò, a sedan so long that the feet can be comfortably rested inside. se-thang-kiò, sedan with gauze windows. hê-thâu-kiò, a sedan returning empty (can be hired cheaper). kè-soa<sup>n</sup>-kiò, a paper sedan set outside the door of a person newly died and not yet buried.

kng-kiò, to carry a sedan. giâ-kiò, to carry an empty sedan, as one man does. phah chit-téng-kiò, to get ready a sedan. pák chit-téng-kiò, to engage a sedan for a long journey, as for several days. kiò-kiò, to call a sedan. kè-kiò, to hire a sedan. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-kiò, id. chê-kiò, to sit in a sedan; to travel by sedan. jip-kiò, to enter a sedan. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kiò, the bride beginning the journey (in sedan) from her parent's house to the husband's house, on the marriage-day.

liáh-kiò, to take hold of the pole of a sedan to help the bearers to get it on their shoulders. tsah-kiò, to steady the poles of a sedan, as attendants. chiáng-kiò, to hold the poles of the sedan of a superior officer. khí<sup>n</sup>-kiò, to lay hold of a mandarin's chair in order to present a petition. noá<sup>n</sup>-kiò, id.

kiò-kha, sedan-bearers; chair-bearers. kiò-hu, do. for mandarins. kiò-pan, mandarin's company of bearers. kiò-gi, sedan hire, as for teacher. kiò-khng, poles of sedan. kiò-ta<sup>n</sup>, the cross-bars between the poles, which rest on the shoulder; hut (C.) the separate small poles used in a sedan, with four or eight bearers.

kiò-táu, the place below the seat, for holding small things. kiò-li, the blind or curtain of a sedan. kiò-tiū<sup>n</sup>, the curtains at front of mandarin's sedan. kiò-ûi, the screen hung up before the legs. kiò-jiók, sedan cushion. kiò-thâu, knob on top of sedan. kiò-liú, id. kiò-thang, window of sedan. kiò-pè, back of the chair in the sedan. kiò-pòe (C.), id.

kiò (C.) lê-kiò, = A. lê-giò, a sort of leek.

kiò<sup>n</sup>, in several tones; (C. esp. P.), = A. kiu<sup>n</sup>.

kiòh, a final enclitic particle. tsai--kiòh, to know; knowing that. m-tsai--kiòh, I don't know. kóng--kiòh, saying that —; an expletive phrase, sometimes gathering up the thread of what was said before, but often a meaningless expletive. bóh-kiòh, how then can —? a phrase following "liên," or "sióng-chhiá<sup>n</sup>" in the previous clause (v. bóh).

kiòh [R. kiok, the foot], an individual, especially said of coolies and actors.

lút-chhiú lút-kiòh, to bare one's arms and legs. hê-chhiú hê-kiòh, to toss about one's arms and legs, as in disputing, reproving, or showing displeasure. chhit-chhiú poeh-kiòh, touching other people's persons or things in a too familiar way. goá-m-si chhit-chhiú poeh-kiòh, I am not able for so much work as you put upon me.

koe-kiòh, a small shell-fish shaped like a turtle's foot.

chièn-kiòh, good at fighting, as soldier; skilful at work, as workman. kiòh-siàu, number of hands employed in some work; number of actors, esp. full number for a play. hó-kiòh-siàu, good at work, as workman. kú--ê kiòh-siàu, how many actors? tsng sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kiòh-siàu, what character does he act in the play?

kiòh-sek, a man's appearance, as indicating his trade, profession, &c. m-si kiòh-sek, unfit for the position, work, or business entrusted to him. sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kiòh-sek, what employment or position has he? in what way is he fit to be employed? tsng sím-mih<sup>n</sup> kiòh-sek, what character in the play does he act? tsng seng ê-kiòh-sek, acts the part of a man in the play. m-si seng-lí ê-kiòh-sek, he does not look like a man that is a merchant.

hi-kiòh, an actor (v. hi). thiú-kiòh, the clown in a play.

tsòe-kiòh, to be a coolie, porter, or rough labourer. tsúi-kiòh, a water-carrier. kiòh-hu, a coolie; a man who carries burdens, or coarse heavy work. kang-kiòh, id. kiòh-á-kha, id. kiòh-á-kang, id.; said also of the men who carry a coffin. chhe-kiòh, a coolie for rough work. tsng chhe-kiòh, to act the part in a play of a common soldier or coolie. tsng iú-kiòh, to act the part of a polite or wealthy man. sai-hū-kiòh, an apprentice just turning into a journeyman.

kiok [R. the foot, = col. kiok, kha], (C. kiak). lióng-kiok tiâu-thien, fallen on the back with feet to the sky. sam-kiok-phòng, a sort of gambling with cards. ít-kiok thiàu lióng-bún, the one-footed man enters the palace (said in joke of a lame man, in allusion to a lame native of Quemoy who became a high mandarin).

kiok (C.) kiok-hoa, = A. kek-hoe, the chrysanthemum.

kiok (P.), = kek, to drive away.

kiok (P.), = kek, to drown.

kiok [R. to bend the body]. kiok-kióng, to 轎

脚

脚

朝

make a bow, when the hands have been put together. siang-kha khiä-tsôe, siang-chhiú kiók-kiong, standing with feet even and making a respectful bow.

kiók [R. a game; an affair, especially in reference to its completion or suitability; an arsenal or public office; an association or company; mean or poor, = col. kék], very poor.

siáu-kiók, niggardly and mean, as man; made too small, as a thing. sió-kiók, scant in size, as a dress.

bô-kiók, dull and uninteresting; not at all pleasing; lonely, out of the way, and dull, as a residence; feeling dull, lonely, or troubled with ennui; feeling somewhat ashamed, as at failing to get a request, or at being found fault with. toa<sup>n</sup>-kiä<sup>n</sup> bô-kiók, walking alone, and so feeling dull and wearisome. ke-toa<sup>n</sup> chit-ê, bô-kiók, all alone, so as to feel ennui and dulness. û-kiók, having power to please and interest, as novel, beautiful, or curious things. û-kiók-sè, getting on better now, as business or lawsuit that formerly was not getting on well. û-kiók-bin, id.

oän-kiók, fully settled, as an affair. kiet-kiók, to finish up, as an affair or discussion. si<sup>n</sup>-miä<sup>n</sup> kiet-kiók, term of life ended. bôe-soah-kiók, cannot be wound up or settled, as a troublesome dispute or feud. bô-liäu-kiók, cannot be brought to an end, as quarrel which we wish settled.

jip-kiók, brought so far as to be suitable for the purpose (good or bad) intended. tsôe kàu-jip-kiók, to make it so as to fit for the purpose. in-i jip-kiók, to lead him into some bad company, gang, or conspiracy.

kióng [R. id., = col. keng], (also C., = A. keng, a palace; a temple), a palace.

hông-kióng, an imperial palace; the imperial residence. ông-kióng, a royal palace. kióng-tiën, imperial residence and audience hall. bêng-kióng (R.), the heavenly palace of the gods.

kióng-kàm, imperial eunuchs. kióng-ngê, female slaves of the empress, &c., in the harem. kióng-ngê bi-lú, imperial concubines and female slaves of the empress, &c. kióng-lú, women of the imperial harem (slaves of empress, &c.), excepting a few who are specially selected for favour.

kióng-teng, lanterns used at marriages (like those used at temples), given by bride's friends to bridegroom.

iü-kióng, imperial conjugal intercourse. üi-chhun-kióng, to draw lascivious pictures.

chhut-kióng, to go to stool.

báng-kióng (C.), = A. báng-keng, a portable folding mosquito curtain.

kióng (C.), = A. keng, soup. thiau-kióng, = A. thng-sí, a spoon for soup.

kióng [R. rigid like a corpse], (C. kiang). kióng-si, a corpse in a coffin left long in a shed or temple unburied; supposed to be covered with white hair; fond of chasing, catching, and killing passers-by.

kióng [R. frontier or boundary of country], (C. kiang). sin-kióng, the distant north-west frontiers of the empire, about Ili and Turkestan.

kióng [R. to respect; to venerate; respectful; courteous]. kióng-keng, to venerate; reverential. kióng-hí, to congratulate; congratulatory salutation. kióng-hô (R.), to make congratulations and send presents on special occasions.

kióng-chhin-ông, Prince Kung.

kióng [R. the body]. kiók-kióng, to make a bow (v. kiók).

kióng [R. to provide; to supply; to offer; to give evidence, = col. keng], (also C., = A. keng, verbal evidence in court).

kióng-kip, to supply with food, as a teacher or guest. û-kióng-kip, to have one's food as well as salary, as a teacher.

chhoän-kióng (C.), = A. thoän-keng, the interpreter at a mandarin's office. kháu-kióng (C.), = A. kháu-keng, verbal evidence or confession, &c., before a mandarin.

kióng [R. name of a plant], (C. khióng). chhoän-kióng, a medicine used for strengthening the blood; comes from Sze-chuen (Tormentilla?). kui-kióng chioik-tê, this drug, along with tong-kui, pèh-chioik, and siók-tê.

kióng [R. violent; overbearing; strong; superior], (C. kiäng). kióng-kióng, violent; fierce; overbearing. kióng-hiông (R.), fierce; violent. kióng-hiông kék-ok, very powerful, wicked, and dangerous. kióng-pô (R.), oppressive; tyrannical. sái-kióng, to act in a violent overbearing manner; to act oppressively and injuriously, as a man who has strong influence at his back. sái-kióng-liông, id.

kióng-jiók, the powerful and the weak; the strong and the defenceless (v. jiók). kióng-pâng, a powerful branch or family of a clan. kióng-pâng ngi<sup>n</sup>-kak, specially influential and powerful, as a man belonging to the most powerful part of the most powerful branch.

kióng-tô (r.), a robber; a highwayman (from "tô," a robber). kióng-tô beh, doggedly determined on it, so that no entreaties or reasonings will move him (from "tô," road; doctrine). kióng-tô m, doggedly refusing.

ko-kióng, very strong or skilful, especially of physical strength or skill. hoat-lék ko-kióng, the power of the idol's charm is very great. bú-gê ko-kióng, very skilful at military arts and exercises. pún-sü ko-kióng, very skilful, esp. at boxing and military exercises.

kióng-sü, doggedly refuse to admit fault or mistake. kióng-kiü, to beseech very urgently. kióng-khit, to beg money very importunately, as beggar. kióng-tsoán, id. kióng-oai--lâng, to extort money from a man, as by threatening a false accusation. kióng-pek, to urge a man violently (with great pressure) to do something, so as to compel him. kióng-kióng-kah, to compel, as by commands or threats. kióng-kah-i, id. kióng-tê, to plot and injure by overwhelming influence. kióng-chiäm, to usurp. kióng-pà, id.

kióng-pak, to strip and rob of clothes. kióng-kiap, to rob forcibly (v. kiap). kióng-chhiü, id. kióng-kòng, housebreaking. kióng-liäh, to take captive, as in a feud, or as robbers. kióng-kan, rape; to ravish.

kióng [R. limit; to exhaust; poor, = col. keng, khêng]. bô-kióng-chin, without limit or end (v. chin). kè kióng, all his plots come to nothing.

kióng-kip, very pressing, as poverty or danger. chin-kióng, very poor and miserable. pín-kióng, very poor and miserable. oät-kan, oät-khiäu, oät pin-kióng, the more crafty and cunning he becomes the more poor and wretched.

kióng [R. to join one's hands]. kióng-chhiü,

躬供

芎

强

局

宮

疆 疆
恭

窮

拱

to join one's own hands and shake them in making a Chinese bow.

kióng [R. to force; to compel; by change of tone from "kióng," violent], (C. kiáng). bién-kióng, to force; to compel. bién-kióng, sêng tsū-jiên, after having with great difficulty got one's self to do it, it becomes natural. áu-kióng, to urge another violently or very urgently to do as we wish. kiáu-kióng (R.), doing a thing of set purpose in an unreasonable, absurd, or unnatural way, knowing it to be quite different from what it ought to be.

kióng [R. kióng, kióng, = col. kóng], a surname.

kióng [together with, = col. käng, kã], taken together. háp-kióng, taken altogether; the whole amount or sum total is. lóng-kióng, id. thong-kióng, id. kè-kióng, id.; in total. kióng-kè, id. tóng-pau kióng-jú, having the same mother and fed by the same milk; generally means having the same father and mother.

kip [R. hasty; urgent; in extremity]. tióh-kip, in very great haste; not willing to wait a moment, as in some very urgent matter. tiók-kip, id. kióng-kip, very urgent and pressing, as poverty, or as imminent danger. gúi-kip, very dangerous, urgent, and pressing, as disease or danger. kin-kip, urgent, important, and pressing, as wants or business. kin-kip-sū, very urgent matters. kin-kip-chêng, a very sudden and dangerous disease, e.g. cholera. kip-kip, já lüt-lêng, very swift, like the demon of thunder; words written on Taoist charms, to show that they are speedily efficacious; said also figuratively of anything to be done in great haste, e.g. money to be paid to a poor man in great need of it.

kip-kè, diligent.

kiú-kip, to relieve urgent distress or severe sickness; to save from pressing danger. chiu-kip (R.), to give alms to a man in want. lim-kip, in very urgent want or danger, that must be speedily relieved or put right, if at all; come to a crisis, as a case just going to be heard by a mandarin.

kip-sio, a small thin flat-bottomed earthen kettle for warming things quickly. kip-sêng-chí, halsam seed.

kip [R. a degree in rank; a head, = col. khip]. siú-kip, a head cut off (said in speaking of the number beheaded).

phín-kip, rank of a mandarin. kàng-kip, to degrade in rank. ka-kip, to elevate in rank, with or without office. ka-hu-kip, to bestow mere titular or brevet rank. seng-kip, to rise in rank and office. liên-seng sa"-kip, raised three degrees of rank in very rapid succession, e.g. in a month or two. thiàu-kip-seng, promoted several degrees at once.

kip [R. to bestow]. kip-pâi, to give the papers, as to a ship. kip-chiò, id.; also certain official documents, as diplomas, licences, &c. (v. chiò). kip-sài, = bú-phòá", an assistant of the (sêng-hóng) tutelary god of a city.

kióng-kip, to supply with food, as teacher (v. kióng). chhut siú"-kip, to issue a proclamation offering a reward for the apprehension of a criminal. kip-siú", to give that reward.

kip [R. to arrive at; to reach to]. i-kip, and also in addition; and even — too. put-kip, not sufficient; to be inferior to; not up to the mark; faulty by defect. put-kip-í, inferior to him; not up to him. i-sióng put-kip, unexpectedly; beyond expectation.

kip-sí, coming at the fitting or needed time. kip-si-hē, rain at the due season when needed. kip-kàu hit-sí, when the time came (only of the past). kip-chí kàu-hit-sí, id.

sam-kip-tē, the highest three of the new Han-lin graduates (v. tē).

kip [R. name of a plant]. péh-kip, a very poisonous medicinal plant, said to preserve from moths; used also as a glue.

kit (C.), = A. kiet, auspicious; fortunate.

kit (C.), = A. kiet, a lime.

kit (=khit). kit-kit, boiled very thick, and nearly dry, as rice. khó-kit-kit, very thick, as rice, or as boiled preserves.

kiu [R. kiú, sort of dragon; to wriggle]. thē-kiu, = thē-sún, an edible worm found in the sea.

kiu (cf. kiú), to shrink, as man, or as cloth. kiu-kiu, shrinking up; drawing up one's arms and legs, as in cold weather; drawing one's self into a heap. kiu-liu, id. kiu--tsáu, to draw back from an affair, as when it becomes dangerous. kiu-kiu ngóeh-ngóeh, shrinking and frightened appearance. kiu-kóeh, very much afraid to meddle with a matter or to spend a cash; having a frightened, servile, cringing manner in the presence of a superior or of a powerful man. kiu-kiu kóeh-kóeh, id., especially cringing and frightened in manner. kiu-kóeh (Cu.), naturally high-shouldered or shrugged up, as shoulders (v. kóeh).

kiu-thâu-tiám, to keep out of the way so as to avoid meeting a man, or to avoid responsibility. kha kiu--khí-lái, legs drawn up. kiu-kha teh-chē, sitting with legs drawn up. kiu-kha, to draw back from what we had promised to do or were committed to. kiu-kha-tiám, to keep out of the way, as to avoid responsibility, &c. kiu-kha kiu-chhiú, legs and arms drawn up, as with cold or illness; not venturing to take responsibility; very quiet, with frightened appearance, in the presence of a superior. kiu-chhiú, to draw one's arm out of the wide sleeve below the dress, as in cold weather.

lun--cheh, kiu--cheh (lit. stretching and contracting), half-willing and half-unwilling; extremely cautious and unsettled in purpose; very much afraid to take either course decidedly. lun--chit-ē, kiu--chit-ē, id. kiu--cheh, lun--cheh, id. lun-lun kiu-kiu, id. chhun--cheh, kiu--cheh, id. (v. chhun).

kiú [R. to beseech; to seek for], to pray; to pray to; to beseech. kí-kiú, to pray; to beseech. kiú-khit, to beg for. khit-ai kiú-lín, to beg hard for a favour to one's self because of distressed condition. khún-kiú, to beseech earnestly. kióng-kiú, to beseech with great urgency. pín-kiú, to beseech by a written petition to a superior official. kiú-kió, to pray and cry to; to make very earnest request. kiú-hē, to vow and pray. kiú-poe, to ask direction by the divining blocks. kiú-thi" pài-tōe, to worship and pray to Heaven and Earth. iú-kiú pit-èng, if there he prayer, it will be answered (written on idol shrines, &c.).

kiú-chhin, to be looking out for a wife for one's son or junior relative. kiú miá"-sia", to seek for fame. lún-khì kiú-tsái, to restrain one's anger for the sake of gain.

kiú (R. id.), a ball (interchanged with the following word).

phah-kat-kiú, all tangled.

强

龍共

急

級

給

及

菱

虬蚰

求

球

phah-kiù, to play at ball with the hand. that-kiù, to play at ball with the foot.

chhì-kiù, a straw ball, stuck full of sharp points, with which sorcerers or fakeers (tàng-chí) lash themselves. chhì-kiù-á, round thorny wild fruits.

siù-kiù-teng, a round lantern with figures on it, made to roll along the ground when lighted. siù-kiù-hoe, a plant with white flowers tipped with red, much grown as a shade from the sun. phau siù-kiù, to throw the embroidered ball, said to have been a way in which a high mandarin's daughter (in ancient times) chose a husband.

kiù [R. a ball, especially of precious stone, which is the radical; often interchanged with the previous word], a bunch, as of grapes.

tê-kiù, a terrestrial globe; also a triangular mark, like a ball, at which mounted archers shoot while riding past.

liù-kiù, the Loo-choo islands.

kiù (R. id.) kiù-siù, an enemy.

kiù — chhiah-kiù, a small round fish (v. chhiah).

kiù [R. long, as to time, = col. kú]. tiông-kiù, lasting long, as a situation or office. bân-liên kiù-oân, lasting for ever. put-kiù, before long. sîn put-kiù-thêng (a spirit does not stop long), said of a man waiting a very short time.

kiù [R. nine, = col. káu]. it-kiù thàn, to gain one-ninth of profit. kiù-kui soàn-hoat, the rules of arithmetic by the abacus (v. kui). kiù-liù, all sorts of priests, nuns, sorcerers, &c. (v. liù). kiù-liên-khoân, the Chinese puzzle, made with rings and rods. kiù-tsoân tõe-ê, the world of spirits. kiù-bân thê-tok, the military governor of Peking. kiù-liông (R.), nine dragons (v. liông).

kiù (R. id.), to save; to deliver. kiù-hê, to assist out of great danger (v. hê). kiù--ah, help! help! chin-kiù (R.), to deliver.

kiù-kip, to save from very pressing danger. kiù-khé kiù-lân, to save from calamities (said especially of Kwan-yin). kiù-hé, to extinguish a conflagration. kiù-hoa-hé, id. oân-súi lân-kiù kùn-hé, help far off is of no use.

kiù-miá<sup>n</sup>, to save life. kiù si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. kiù-i-oân, to save his life. kiù-kà, to save the emperor's life. kiù-sè, to save the world. kiù-sè-tsú, Saviour of the world. kiù-tsú, saviour. kiù-chhi<sup>n</sup>, one who delivers us from pressing danger (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). phoà-ké kiù-géh, a broken drum may save the moon (from eclipse); don't despise a broken thing or a man who seems useless. tsô-si put-kiù, to sit and look without giving any help to one in danger.

kiù [R. to investigate to the bottom]. kiù-khâm, to make minute inquiry into a matter; to investigate thoroughly. káng-kiù (r.), id. kiù-pân, to take action, investigate, and settle judicially. kiù-tui, to take vigorous action to recover stolen property, as mandarin. kun-kiù, to compel a man to appear by legal action, especially by strong measures against his relatives, &c. (v. kun).

kiù-kèng, in fine; yet after all (v. kèng). kiù-kí-jiên, but according to the real state of matters, as found on examining into the facts of the case. kiù-kí-sit, id.

kiù (cf. kiu), having a wrinkled look; to shrink, as cloth; to shrink with fear, as a man. kiù-kiù, having a wrinkled surface, as face, either naturally or from age. kiù-liù, to shrink, as cloth, or as man through fear.

kiù--chit-ê kàu-kiù-kiù, limbs drawn up and shaking with fear.

kiù-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of velvet.

kiù (R. kiu). kiù-kat, to get entangled, as a string.

kiù — kiù-kiù-jiông, noisy brawling. kiù-kiù-háu, to talk on in a grumbling discontented way.

kiù [R. old; former, = col. kũ]. i-kiù, as formerly; as before. jêng-kiù (R.), id.

kiù [R. a maternal uncle, = col. kũ]. kok-kũ, a brother of the empress.

kiù (R. id.), a coffin containing a corpse. koan-kiù, id. chit-khu-kiù, one coffin containing a dead body.

kiù [R. a fault; to blame]. kui-kiù, to charge with a fault or crime, either truly or falsely.

kiu<sup>n</sup> (in all the tones and words, C. kie<sup>n</sup>, especially in P.)

kiu<sup>n</sup> (R. kiong), ginger; ginger-root. kiu<sup>n</sup>-bú, hard dry ginger-root (much used for medicine). kiu<sup>n</sup>-bú-tê, infusion of it. kiu<sup>n</sup>-bú-thng, a small square confection made of sugar and ginger. kiu<sup>n</sup>-si, ginger cut into thin strips. kiu<sup>n</sup>-ko, preserved ginger (large pieces in syrup). bêng-kiu<sup>n</sup>, very good preserved ginger. chiu<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, ginger in a sort of sauce (v. chiu<sup>n</sup>). chhê-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a mixture of vinegar, ginger, and sugar.

pû-kiu<sup>n</sup>, to roast ginger on burning charcoal so as to char the outside; ginger thus treated used in medicine. hek-kiu<sup>n</sup>, ginger-root burned into charcoal (medicinal). kan-kiu<sup>n</sup>, ginger-root dried very thoroughly (medicinal). chhi<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, raw ginger-root (not prepared any way, so called when prescribed as medicine. chí-kiu<sup>n</sup>, young esculent shoots of ginger. chí<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, id. tsú-kiu<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

kiu<sup>n</sup>-fig, turmeric (rad. curcuma), dark-yellow with a tinge of brown. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of parasitic fern. hoan-kiu<sup>n</sup>, red pepper. hoan-kiu<sup>n</sup>-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the sauce called "chiu<sup>n</sup>" seasoned with red pepper. pê-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal herb (much used for adulterating tea). pê-kiu<sup>n</sup>-tê, an infusion of its leaves just drank like ordinary tea. pê-kiu<sup>n</sup>-tháu, its roots (used medicinally). pê-kiu<sup>n</sup>-táu, a sort of pea (used for a medicinal infusion).

kiu<sup>n</sup> [R. chiong], a small animal like a stag, with tusks like a hog, found abundantly near Yung-chun (éng-chun); counted very good eating. kiu<sup>n</sup>-á, id. soa<sup>n</sup>--nih<sup>n</sup>, chià-kê kiu<sup>n</sup>; hái--nih<sup>n</sup>, bé-ka chhiu<sup>n</sup>, the best eating of land and sea animals are these —.

kiu<sup>n</sup> (R. kiong). chhiah-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a small brownish cricket, as distinguished from the black sort. chhiah-kiu<sup>n</sup>-á, id. chhiah-kiu<sup>n</sup>--ê, id.

kiu<sup>n</sup> — chiū<sup>n</sup>-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the roof of the mouth; the palate. ê-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the part of the mouth between the tongue and the lower teeth.

kiu<sup>n</sup> [R. kiong, a bridle]. bé-kā-kiu<sup>n</sup>, the bit of a bridle.

bé-kiu<sup>n</sup> (T.), a shuttle-shaped fish.

kiu<sup>n</sup> [R. keng, a thorn]. kiu<sup>n</sup>-á-chhâ, a sort of hard wood.

kiu<sup>n</sup> — kín-kiu<sup>n</sup>, active and diligent. kiu<sup>n</sup>-khí<sup>n</sup>, very diligent at work; not readily getting tired or stopping.

kiū<sup>n</sup> (R. kiōng), disobedient; obstinate; dogged; intentionally contrary to others; (rather).

球

仇
久

九

救

究

糾

舊
舅
極
咎

薑

鹿
章

螿

韉

荆

強

kiū<sup>n</sup>-peh-ni<sup>n</sup>, to force one's self to act. kiū<sup>n</sup>-nè<sup>n</sup>-kóng (C.), to talk very big; to brag. kiū<sup>n</sup>-kut, obstinately or stoically refusing to admit pain or weariness, e.g. forcing oneself to work at what is too hard work for us; wearing little dress in cold weather; or as a man who is poor, but puts on the appearance of better circumstances. kiū<sup>n</sup>-phiah, doggedly opposing others; fond of acting opposite to others' wishes. kiū<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, doggedly refusing to admit error even when it has brought us into trouble, or events have proved it. chhùi kiū<sup>n</sup>, id., or not admitting fear, though really very much afraid. chhùi kiū<sup>n</sup>, kha-chhng nng, talking boldly, but really much afraid and powerless. chiah-kiū<sup>n</sup>, intentionally taking the very opposite course from what others wish or advise. kèh-kiū<sup>n</sup>, obstinately refusing to obey lawful authority; disputing doggedly with a superior. kùn-kiū<sup>n</sup>, id., obstinate in wrong. kùn-kiū<sup>n</sup>, phah ke-ê, if you do not submit I will beat you still more.

kah-kiū<sup>n</sup> hit-hō, yet it is better than that sort, though barely tolerable. kah-kiū<sup>n</sup> kè-hit-hō, id. kah-kiū<sup>n</sup>-i, after all better than he (the only other alternative), though not so good as could be wished. kah-kiū<sup>n</sup> toa-teh-chē, it is better than sitting idle, though by no means a profitable employment. siók-siók-hiàu, kah-kiū<sup>n</sup> khiàm-siàu, better even to sell at a loss than to be in debt.

kiū<sup>n</sup> (T.) kiū<sup>n</sup>-soe, = sàu-soe, a coarse bamboo brush.

kiuh (cf. koeh). kiuh-siù-á, a small dagger, as for assassination (v. siù).

kiuh — sng-kiuh-kiuh, very sour. nng-kiuh-kiuh, soft, as dough (cf. kiuh).

kiuh (= kiù, cf. kiuh, chiu), kiuh-kiuh-háu, talking on when one should be quiet, as boy or inferior.

kiuh (cf. khiuh, kiu, chiu). nng-kiuh-kiuh, soft, as dough.

kiuh (cf. kiu, chiu). kiuh-kiuh-háu, chirping of a bird or squeaking of a rat; rumbling sound in one's belly. kih-kih kiuh-kiuh, squeaking or twittering (v. kih).

kug (R. kong), (C. kui<sup>n</sup>), light; brightness; shining; glossy; polished; smooth; bare; empty; naked. kng-kng, do., only as adjective.

êng-kng, glory. chhiú<sup>n</sup> bìn-chêng-kng, to try to put a good face on matters, though only making it worse at the last, e.g. borrowing when hopelessly in debt.

kng-liàng, lucidly transparent, as crystal. thang-kng, fully understanding a matter; bright and cheery, as a well-lighted house. kng-thang, do. do.; also, having the threads too far apart, as inferior cloth. bák-kng ê-lâng, a man who can see; not blind.

kng-iâm, brilliant, as a flame. kng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, shining brightly, as a lamp; bright and cheerful-looking, as a room or house. chiò-kng, to shine. nà<sup>n</sup>-kng, to glitter; dazzling. kng sih-sih, exceedingly bright and glittering. jit-kng, daylight. thi<sup>n</sup> kng, dawn (daylight in early morning). thi<sup>n</sup> beh-kng, early dawn. thi<sup>n</sup> chiah-chhim-kng, just at dawn. thi<sup>n</sup> phú-phú-kng, dawn (v. phú).

kng-si<sup>n</sup>, smooth and clean, as skin, or as other surfaces. kng-koeh, smooth, as a surface. kng-tsng, smooth and even, as a dress, or as the surface of a wall. kng-kút, very smoothly polished, as a surface (v. kút). kng khút-khút, quite smooth and bare, as tree, hill, head, &c.; without money or relatives (v. khút). chit-bé kng-thiàu-thiàu, very poor; quite naked. kngkhō-khō, naked, or having only on short drawers; having no relatives alive. kng lín-lín, having no near relatives alive. kng liu-liu, quite bare and naked. kng liù-liù, quite bare, as tree without leaves, or as forehead without hair; naked (without any clothes at all); having no relatives. kng-thâu, having no hat or cap on; bare-headed. liù-kng-thâu, id. siang-bìn-kng, smooth on both sides.

thng-kng, to glaze, as pottery. thng kng-kng, to strip (one's self) naked. pak kng-kng, to strip (another) naked, as in robbing a man even of his clothes. se kng-kng, all taken away, as by mandarins or by thieves, &c. so-kng, to rub smooth.

kng [R. kong, hard, firm, unyielding]. kim-kng (T.), = A. kim-kong-hút, name of an idol. kim-kng-iâ (T.), id. kim-kng hē-sín (Cn.), several idols usually named together (v. hē, "to guard"). kim-kng táh sió-kúi (Cn.), said in warning a man of little power or influence to avoid quarrelling with a powerful man.

kng [R. kong, work, labour, = col. kang]. ah-kng, a ship's carpenter (often written as the next word).

kng (R. kong), to carry on a pole between two men or more; to carry, as a sedan, by two or more bearers. kng-kiō, to carry a sedan. kng-lién, to carry an idol's sedan. kng-koh, to carry an idolatrous ornamental platform (v. koh). kng sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, who is in the sedan you are carrying? kng-khui, to move a little out of the way while carrying so. kng-khui-khi, to carry out of the way, as two or more men do. kng-kang, coolies engaged to carry things on poles between two men.

kng — kng-tâu, the two great longitudinal timbers in the middle of a boat (v. tâu).

kng (R. kong), a large-mouthed earthen jar. toā-kng, a large wide-mouthed jar. toā-kng sòe-àng, large and small jars. tsúi-kng, a large water-jar. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kng, a large earthen vessel for dyeing with indigo (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). phun-kng, a jar for refuse rice-water. jiò-kng, an earthen jar for urine.

kng [R. koán, a roll; a scroll], a roll, as of matting. chit-kng-chhiòh, a roll of matting. chit-kng-tsü (Cn.), = A. chit-pún-chheh, one book; one volume.

kng (R. koán), (C. kúi<sup>n</sup>), to roll up. kng-lê-hong, a whirlwind. tsúi teh-kng-lê, water eddying strongly. kng-tsng, eddying, as of water at a rock, or of wind whirling. kng-lien, to curl up, as leaves in drought (v. lien). kng-chhák, a curved chisel; a gouge.

kng (T.), = A. kún, to move about in an excited state. chhih-chhih-kng, many persons swaying back and forwards, or moving about rapidly, as a crowd.

kng [R. kóng, broad], (C. kúi<sup>n</sup>). kng-tang, Canton; Quang-tung; Kwang-tung. kng-sai, Kwang-si province. ê-kng, Hoo-kwang, comprehending Hoo-nan and Hoo-peh.

kng--ê, Cantonese, from Canton, as goods. kng-liên, water-lily seeds from Canton.

kng (Cn.), (r.), metallic ore. si<sup>n</sup>-kng, iron ore (v. si<sup>n</sup>). gún-kng, silver ore. kút-tiòh-kng, to meet with ore in digging (cf. C. koá<sup>n</sup>).

kng [R. koán, to rule; a tube], (C. kúi<sup>n</sup>), a tube; a measure, half a "chin." bí-kng, a small rice measure.

hé-kng, a tube for blowing the fire. im-kng, a small joint of bamboo for holding and extinguishing a match. chhang-kng, a small short tube or ferule,

剛

工 杠

甌

卷 捲

滾 廣

礦 管

光

as for mouth-piece of pipe, for end of a staff, or funnel for a lamp, &c.

bêh-kùg, the place at the wrist where the pulse is felt. mēh<sup>n</sup>-kùg, id. mûg-kùg (r.), the pores of the skin. mûg-kùg-chhi kiâ, hair standing on end, as with fear or cold. mûg-kùg-chhi lóng-kiâ, hair all on end, as with great cold or terror.

nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu-kùg, the windpipe; the gullet. âu-kùg, id. hì-kùg, the windpipe. ng<sup>n</sup>-kùg, id. nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu nûg-tiâu-kùg (the throat has two pipes), one should not be too stiff on his supposed rights. sái phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-kùg, to talk in a displeased nasal tone.

só-kùg, a sort of cuttle-fish. sió-kùg, id. sió-kùg-kôe, salted do.

kùg (R. kong), steel. kùg-thih, id. chiâ<sup>n</sup>-kùg, real genuine good steel. to-kùg, the steel edge and point of a knife or sword. to ù-kùg, the knife (or sword) has steel edge or point. to bô-kùg, it has no steel.

kùg (R. kông), a large round pole, used for carrying heavy things between two or more bearers; the poles of a sedan; classifier of large heavy packages carried by two bearers. kùg-á, a round carrying pole. kùg-á-thú, a short, thick, round carrying pole. kió-kùg, the poles of a sedan. lién-kùg, the poles of an idol's sedan. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-kùg, two thick bamboo poles tied by ropes to a coffin when it is carried.

láng-kùg, a large wicker-work frame, fitted with poles like a sedan, used especially for carrying mandarin's baggage or public money (one such frame often carries a number of separate packages). chit-kùg-láng-kùg, one such large heavy package. chit-kùg-siâ<sup>n</sup>, one large tray (like a basket) with presents, carried on a pole between two men.

kùg (R. koàn), (C. kùi<sup>n</sup>). gû-kùg, a ring for the nose of an ox or buffalo.

kùg [R. koàn, to make a hole or string together; connected], (C. kùi<sup>n</sup>), to bore a hole, as for a ring to hold; to string together on a string; to put in a ring, as in the nose of an ox.

kùg-chí<sup>n</sup>, to string cash together (s. amulet). kùg-hì, to bore a hole in the ear for a ring, as in a pig's ear. kùg-phi<sup>n</sup>, to make a hole in the nose (as of an ox), and put in a ring. lêng sìn-jī, gû kùg-phi<sup>n</sup>, as an ox has a ring put in its nose, so a man believes and is held by a written document.

chi<sup>n</sup>-kùg, the common sort of string or twine used for stringing cash.

kùg (R. koàn), (C. kùi<sup>n</sup>), a sort of amulet with names of gods or goddesses on it, especially worn by children on a string. kùg-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. (s. string). gûn-kùg-chí<sup>n</sup>, that amulet made of silver or imitation silver. gék-kùg-chí<sup>n</sup>, do. of jade-stone. koā<sup>n</sup> kùg-chí<sup>n</sup>, to wear the amulet by a string round the neck. koā<sup>n</sup>-kùg, id. koà-kùg (T.), id. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-kùg, to get the amulet from an idol. chhiá<sup>n</sup> i-ê-kùg, to get the amulet from that idol.

má-tsé-kùg, an amulet with the name of Má-tsé-pó on it. chhit-niú<sup>n</sup>-kùg, amulet having on it the name of chhit-niú<sup>n</sup>.

kùg [R. koàn, a volume], (C. kùi<sup>n</sup>), a folded paper prepared for writing an examination essay upon; the essay when written. chit-pún-kùg, id. chhiú-kùg, specimen of well-written characters to be copied, generally from some old fine writing. khó-kùg, collections of successful essays, printed and sold to be studied as models. tsu-kùg, an essay that has gained the degree of Kujin or Tsin-sze, printed for private circulation among friends (written with red ink).

kùg-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ticket of admission to the examination; on giving it in, a paper (kùg) is given for the essay to be written upon.

niá<sup>n</sup>-kùg, to receive the blank paper on giving in the ticket. kau-kùg, to give in the essay when written. khoà<sup>n</sup>-kùg, to read and examine the essay, as the examiner does.

ko [R. kho, a rule; a class; examination]. ko-chhioh, a wooden measuring rod or rule several feet long.

ko [R. a pole, especially of bamboo]. tek-ko, a bamboo pole. tek-ko-kúi, said of a very tall thin fellow. teng-ko, a pole with a lamp at the end, set up in superstitious rites. khiâ teng-ko, to set it up. pè-ko, tall poles for hanging cloth when dyed. tsún-ko, a boat-pole (said by landmen). chhùn-ko, the stick used for striking the cat in tip-cat (v. chhùn). kab-ko, a ship's yards.

ko-chhê, a thin bamboo stick.

ko — ko-chhe, the man who has charge of the boy actors in a company (v. chhe).

ko [R. a spear; the 62d radical]. tâng kan-ko, to have a determined feud or war (lit. move shield and spear), either by fighting or by accusation in court. tâng-khí kan-ko, to begin a feud or war. tó-ko, the 62d radical.

ko [R. a sheep]. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko, a sheep; a sheepskin (v. iú<sup>n</sup>). chit-ko, a coarse woven woollen stuff from the north, like very coarse blanketing. ko-tút-biên, a foreign smooth woollen stuff. ko-to-biên, id.

ko — chióh-ko, powdered gypsum, used as a cooling medicine.

ko [R. fat; ointment; extract of unctuous consistency, = col. kau, kə]. ko-ióh, medical plaster (v. ióh). ióh-ko, medical salve. siáu-ko, black medical plaster. bân-èng-ko, a sovereign plaster for many diseases. tan-ko oân-sán, four sorts of medicines (v. sán).

bák-ko, thickened ink on ink-stone. bák-sái-ko, thickened matter about the eye. so-bák-ko, water-colour paint made from sapan-wood. a-phièn-ko, extract of opium. thê-ko, opium in its coarse state in the ball when opened. kim-eng-ko, a black extract from the fruit of the wild rose (v. eng). chím-ko, soft yellowish substance in the male crab. chhih-ko, do. in the craw-fish. koe-ko, soft yellowish dung of fowls. uih koe-ko, a child's game (some say it is "song"), (v. uih).

pēng jip-ko-bông, the disease has reached the vital parts, and is incurable. [Perhaps add ko, jam, jelly, and the phrases under it.]

ko [R. an ode; a song, = col. koa]. si-sú ko-hù, four sorts of elegant metrical compositions.

ko — thái-ko, leprosy (v. tbái).

ko [R. o, a frying-pan]. ko-pa-phi, incrustation on a rice-boiler (as in a junk) after long use.

ko (P.) ko-chhê<sup>n</sup> = A. kə-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the Pleiades.

ko [R. high], (Cn. kə, except the surname, which remains "ko"); a surname.

ko-kùi, too high-priced, as goods; making one's goods or services too high-priced (v. kùi). ko-kiông, very strong or skilful, especially of physical strength (v. kiông). goá-beh ko-phan-lí, will you kindly come with me, sir?

tsū-ko, proud. hē<sup>n</sup>-ko, ambitious. ko-seng,

鋼

楨

卷

科
篙

戈

羔

膏

歌

鍋

孤

高

promoted to high office. kièn-ko-te, determined to try which conquers. kún-thâu, ko-ko tsài-siông, though very skilful there are others still more so (originally said of boxing). thien ko, bí si-ko; jîn-sim tsat-tsat-ko, Heaven, though high, is not very high; it is man's heart that always wishes higher.

ko-sèng (polite), what is your surname, sir? lí--ê ko-tê, your scholar. ko-hien (R.), your school.

ko-tsó, great great-grandfather. teng-ko-jit, the 9.9 day (v. teng). ko-san tsùn-léng (R.), lofty mountains.

ko-lê, Corea (v. lê). ko-phi (f.), coffee (v. phi).

ko [R. kong, grandfather; male; duke, = col. kang]. ti-ko, a boar, as an affix for covering. khan-ti-ko, to lead a boar for a sow. chhi-lâng, chiâ<sup>n</sup> ti-ko, said of a man being very lean.

ko (R. id.), an elder brother; also a respectful appellation, as an affix to a name (often enclitic), much like "hia<sup>n</sup>," but perhaps a little more respectful, e.g. iáp-ko.

toá-ko, elder brother (esp. T.); also, polite form of addressing a stranger. a-ko, son of first-class mandarin. a-ko-siá, sons and grandsons of mandarins, in general.

hia<sup>n</sup>-ko, paramour of a bad woman; but in Tiô-thoá, used for "elder brother." bé--ko, servant in a bad house.

ko — eng-ko, the figure of an eagle on the stern of a junk (s. parrot).

ko (R. id.) eng-ko, a parrot (v. ko), (s. previous word).

ko (R. id.), jam; jelly; preserves; thick syrup. ké-chí-ko, jam; jelly; preserves. sng-tsó-ko, a sort of Chinese preserve (v. tsó). lái-á-ko, preserved pears. lí-á-ko, preserved plums. tsú-ko, to boil preserves or extracts in making them. béh-lê-ko, a thick glutinous inspissated syrup, made from new sugar and other ingredients. [This group is generally written with the following word "cake," but probably should be the same as "fat, ointment, extract."]

ko [R. a cake, especially made by steaming]. ko-á, a small cake, made with rice-flour. ko-á-hún, rice-flour mixed with sugar for making cakes. at ko-á (lit. break a cake), to divide profits equally. ko-piá<sup>n</sup>, small cakes, in general. koe-nng-ko, sponge-cake. ke-núi<sup>n</sup>-ko (C.), id. lék-táu-ko, short white cakes made with a stuffing of meal of small green peas. bí-ko, a cake made of rice and sugar, generally sold in diamond shapes. chhèng bí-ko, to prepare them by steaming.

tèng-ko--ê, good mealy potatoes. m-tsai toá-phà<sup>n</sup> tèng-ko, cannot distinguish good and bad (lit. potatoes).

oá<sup>n</sup>-ko-ké, cakes made in small cups. oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, id. teh-kóng sim-mih<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, what are you talking about? tsòe sim-mih<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, what are you doing? á-si sim-mih<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, or whatever it be. beh-poáh sim-mih<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, how can I (or he) gamble, having no money? bô-chí<sup>n</sup>, beh-bóe chit--ê oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, having no money, how can I buy anything? lóng-bô oá<sup>n</sup>-ko bí-so, nothing can be had to eat. û sim-mih<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-ko bí-so, what eatables have you got? as for a lunch or hurried meal. thó chit--ê oá<sup>n</sup>-ko bí-so, got nothing for my pains; e.g. fruitless attempt to recover a debt.

kô [R. kô, a basket-work trap for fish], to put in a basket, as a pig. kô-ti, to catch a pig and put it in the basket. ti-kô, a large basket for carrying pigs. hi-kô (Cn.), a bamboo trap for catching fish, made like basket work, with a round mouth and a circle of converging sticks which allow entrance but not exit. hê-kô (C.), do., for catching shrimps, in fields.

kô [R. gô, to whirl; cf. kô], to stir, as with a spoon. kô-lái kô-khi, to stir about. kô chit-sin-thê, to get one's self all bemired by falling into mud.

oai-kô, avry. oai-oai kô-kô, id. oai-kô lah-chhoáh, id.

nng-kô-kô, very soft.

kó [R. a steamed cake, = col. ké]. bit-chièn thng-kó, a number of sweetmeats used in idolatrous offerings.

kó — chhó-kó, a medicine used as a diuretic (s. stalk; draft).

kó (R. id.), a stalk of grain or reed, including the ear; the rough draft of a composition. chhó-kó, a rough draft (s. medicine). phah chhó-kó, to write the roughly written copy, to be afterwards copied out neatly. phah-kó, id. khi-kó, id. tsú-kó, to manage this in a yanun. sàng-kó, to send in the draft of a document to be inspected by the mandarin; done by the "keng-séng" in a civil yanun. chhong-há-kó, essays made to be corrected by teacher (v. chhong, "window").

tiú-kó, rice stalks (v. tiú). chit-kó-tiú, a stalk of rice. lê-sóe-kó, a stalk of millet. moá<sup>n</sup>-kó, a stalk of hemp, dried and peeled. béh-kó, a stalk or straw of wheat or barley, without the ear. béh-kó-thâu, stubble of wheat or barley. béh-kó-lóeh, a straw hat for summer.

kó (T. kó). ló-kó-chiòh, a coarse sort of coral.

kó [R. to wrap up]. pau-kó (C.), = pau-hók, a bundle (as of clothes, &c.) wrapped in a cloth.

kó [R. the result; truly; interchanged with the next word], (Cn. kó). kó-jiên, truly; certainly; indeed. kó-chin, id. kó-hê, really; truly. kó-hê si an<sup>n</sup>, truly it is so.

kiet-kó, fully settled so that all is quiet, as a quarrel; final state of a man's circumstances just before death, often with the idea of a Nemesis, good or bad (s. fruit). éng-û kiet-kó, certainly there will be a just retribution, good or bad. hó-kiet-kó, comfortable circumstances at end of life, and an easy death, passing gently away. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiet-kó, great misery at or near death. si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup> kiet-kó, he is dead now. sèng-béng kiet-kó, id. kiet-kó i--ê si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to kill him in an unlawful manner. kā--i kiet-kó--sí, id.

kó [R. fruit, = col. ké; interchanged sometimes with the previous word], (Cn. kó). chheng-kó-si<sup>n</sup>, salted olives. sù-kó-thng, an infusion of four sorts of dried fruits. bû-hoa-kó, the fig. liên-chiau kiet-kó, may all be auspicious and fortunate (said at marriages and at the Tausit rites called "chì<sup>n</sup>").

kò [R. classifier of men]. tan-tan it-kò, only one person; all alone.

kò [R. to inform; to accuse], (Cn. kò), to sue at law; to enter an accusation. kò-sè, to enter an accusation or an answer to one. û-kò û-sé, the accusation and reply have both been entered. sa<sup>n</sup>-kò, to go to law. kò-tiá<sup>n</sup>, the accusation put in by the plaintiff. kò-tsng, to enter an accusation (v. tsng). khòng-kò, to lay an accusation before a mandarin. bû-kò, to accuse unjustly. mê-kò, id. hòng-kò, to open the courts for receiving accusations, as after a new mandarin has arrived, or after the holidays. hòng-kò-

公
哥

鵲
糕

筍

裸 菓
稿

裏 菓

菓

個
箇 告

pâi, a notice hung up telling that accusations may now be entered. kò koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, to enter an accusation before a mandarin. kò sêng-hông, to give in a written complaint to be burned before the tutelary god of the city (v. hông). tâu-kò thi<sup>n</sup>-tõe, to lay one's wrongs before Heaven and Earth.

goân-kò, the plaintiff. pī-kò, the defendant. phō-kò, a man who comes forward in a lawsuit as the representative of a person who may not lawfully be beaten in examination, e.g. of a woman, or of an old man or Kujin.

kò-sī, an official proclamation by a mandarin. kò-pék, a hand-bill or proclamation posted up. kò-péh, id.

kò-lò, to ask to be allowed to retire from office on the plea of age. kò-pī<sup>n</sup>, to ask a period of rest (as mandarin) on account of severe sickness. kò-kè, to ask leave of absence, as mandarin (s. pass).

過

kò [R. to pass; to go over; to exceed; a crime, = col. kè, koà], (Cn. kè). tsøe-kò (r.), a crime. kái-kò, to reform one's faults. kái-kò chhien-siēn, id. ti-kò pit-kái, on learning a fault, one should certainly correct it.

put-kò, only; no more than. put-jī-kò (esp. C.), id. thài-kò, far too much; excessively. kò-po (R.), to flatter highly. sim-su kò-tē, to think or scheme too deeply (v. tē).

kò-kè (Cn. kō-kè), to be adopted, as a son, generally from family of cousins or second cousins (s. inform). kò-gán put-tsài, able to repeat at one reading.

kò, to row (a boat) by standing and pushing the oars; (the European mode of rowing is "pien"). kò-chiú<sup>n</sup>, id. kò siang-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to row a two-oared boat. kò-tsún, to row a boat in that way. kiám-kò--chit-ē, to omit one stroke in rowing.

號

kò [R. hō, a mark]. ni<sup>n</sup>-kò, a year, as a date. kò—hoai-kī-kò (C.), variegated; indistinct. hoē-kī-kò (C.), id.

kò (cf. kō, gō), to roll along a round thing, as a ball. f<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>-kò, to roll along; rolling over and over, as a ball. kò-kò-lin, id. kò--lòh-khì, to roll down, as over a precipice. kò-lái kò-khì, to roll about, as in bed. kò-moã<sup>n</sup>, to cover a cake or sweetmeat with hemp-seed. tiám--tī thē-kha kò, to roll about on the floor, as a child.

hoài<sup>n</sup>-kò, getting great gains suddenly or improperly (v. hoài<sup>n</sup>).

kò thē-bê, to roll and wallow in mud. kò chit-sin-thê (= kò), to get all bemired in mud.

枯

kø [R. rotten wood; dried and shrivelled]. kø-tâ, dried and shrivelled; dried up for want of moisture. seng-khu kø-sò, skin dry and hot, and having small eruptions slightly itchy.

骷

kø (R. id.) kø-kut, old rotten human bones. sí--lâng kø-kut (T.), old bones of dead men. kø-lê, id. (v. lê).

骷

kø [R. an angular ceremonial vase; angular]. tek-á-kø, bamboo spikes, used for impeding the advance of an army. pàng-kø, to place these spikes where an attack is expected.

船

kø—toã-kø, a large cargo-boat; a large boat propelled by sculling (s. aunt). kø-á, a smaller sculling-boat. kø-á-tái, the boatman of a sculling-boat.

姑 kø (R. id.), paternal aunt; sister or female cousin of father, though a distant cousin, if of same surname (used in titles of nuns, &c.)

kø-put-chiong, having no resource but to do it;

no alternative (v. chiong). kø-chiã<sup>n</sup>, = kø-chiã<sup>n</sup>, to coax.

chhin-kø, father's sister. tông-kø, father's female cousin of same surname, near or distant. á-kø, paternal aunt, &c.; said also by a wife (when she has a son) to her husband's sister, naming her as her own son would do. án-kø, id. úg-kø, id. toã-kø, father's eldest sister (s. scull-boat). jī-kø, father's second oldest sister, &c. toã-niú<sup>n</sup>-kø, husband's elder sister. sió-kø, husband's younger sister. kø-pò, paternal grand-aunt; paternal grandfather's female cousin (near or distant) of same surname.

kø-tiú<sup>n</sup>, husband of paternal aunt. kø-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-tī chí-bê, consins whose relationship is by their paternal aunt. kø-piáu sa<sup>n</sup>-thīn, two families already connected by marriage forming another marriage connection. chhin-chhek kø-kū, relatives in general. kø-i kù-kim, near relations and connections of wife, mother, and graudmother, as aunts, &c. kø-i kù-kim, lái-chhin goã-chhek, relations and connections in general. kø thiã<sup>n</sup>-sun, siang-jī-si<sup>n</sup>, a paternal aunt is fond of a nephew or niece because of having the same surname.

tō-kø, a Taoist nun. sai-kø (esp. Cn.), a Buddhist nun. lí-kø, a Buddhist nun (not polite in speaking to one). kau lí-kø, tò táng-á bí, a woman who consorts with nuns must empty out her rice-jar. sam-kø liók-pò, nuns, female conjurers, witches, fortune-tellers, mediums, &c.

kø-niú<sup>n</sup>, a mandarin's daughter; an unmarried lady of a good family; some unmarried ladies of exemplary character are worshipped by this title. kø-iã, title of the husband of a mandarin's daughter.

sien-kø, a fairy (v. sien). kø-chhi<sup>n</sup> (P. ko-chhe<sup>n</sup>), the Pleiades. chhit-kø-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id.

kø—oá<sup>n</sup>-kø-lêh, the broken bottom of a bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-kø-le (T.), id. oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kø-le (T.), id. oá<sup>n</sup>-kø-lò (T.), id. oá<sup>n</sup>-kø-tsui (C.), id. oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kø-tsui (C.), id.

kø [R. a sort of fish]. kø-tai, a sort of fish (s. high). thap-bák-kø, a small flat fish with a sunken eye. thap-bák kø-hi, id. kø-kãm-á (C.), a sort of edible fish.

魚

hê-kø, a large sort of shrimp. hê-kø-chháu, a medicinal plant (Lophanthus?).

kø (R. id.) kø-lê, a sort of shell-fish.

kø [R. a sort of insect]. ka-lak-kø (T.), the fire-fly. kan-á-kø (T.), id., because it is often kept in a bottle.

kø [R. crooked; to make a mark, = col. kau]. kø-tín, = kau-tín, a fabulous animal like a winged dragon.

kø [R. name of a bird]. chiã-kø, the partridge. chē-kø, (C.), id.

kø—kø-úg-chiáu, the great owl. kø-úg, id. kø-úi<sup>n</sup>-chiáu (C.), id.

kø [R. solitary; an orphan]. kø-kø, solitary; alone. kø-toa<sup>n</sup>, id. kø-toa<sup>n</sup> chit-lâng, one person alone. kø-kø chit-lâng, id. kø-khia, one odd article of a pair. kø-kiã<sup>n</sup>, an only son. kø-teng, having no brother or son. kø-sin, a solitary person with no relations. kø-gān, said of a widow or widower. tsøe kø-pò, to be an old maid. kø-né<sup>n</sup>, a solitary old man having the privilege of begging (v. né<sup>n</sup>). kø-pin-iáu, a man who has no relatives, very poor, and short-lived (v. iáu). kø-sèng, having no one of the same surname in the place. kø-si<sup>n</sup>, id.

孤 姑 勾 鵠

孤

kø-khút, solitary without relatives; unsociable; un-neighbourly. kə-khút-siòng, unsociable and un-neighbourly. kə-kài, of unpleasant temper; unwilling to answer or assist (v. kài). kə-ták, selfishly unneighbourly, unsociable, and disobliging. kə-tók (R.), solitary, as an orphan, &c. kə-sng, unneighbourly and unfriendly, e.g. unwilling to lend or to do a favour; selfish and disobliging. kə-si-sng, exceedingly unneighbourly and disobliging.

kə-koá<sup>n</sup>, orphans and widows (v. koá<sup>n</sup>). thok-kə, to intrust our son to a guardian to be taken care of after our death.

kə-ə, the best throw in the sort of gambling called "lién-pó" (v. ə).

kə-hün, a ghost that has no relations to make offerings to it. häu-kə, to make offerings to such a ghost; said also in joke to a man eating. chè-kə, to make sacrificial offerings to such a ghost; said also in scolding a man eating. kə-chhién, a sort of basket used in the offerings made to the dead in general. kə-pi<sup>n</sup>, a shed or awning set up with the offerings to ghosts that have no posterity. tah kə-pi<sup>n</sup>, to set it up. chhiú<sup>n</sup> kə-pi<sup>n</sup>, to scramble for these offerings at the end of the rites; said also in scolding children for snatching food. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kə, id.

kə — kə-pô-ə, a wild plant like taro (v. pô).

kə (R. id.), mushrooms, fungus, mould, lichens, &c. hiu<sup>n</sup>-kə, edible mushrooms (esp. dried) of best-flavoured sorts. soa<sup>n</sup>-tsú-kə, a medicinal fungus that grows at tree-roots. siòng-kə, a fungus that grows on tree-roots, much eaten by vegetarians. sam-kə, useless and poisonous mushrooms growing on the "sam" tree, &c. chhâ-kə, id. ti-sái-kə, id., whether on dung or in other places.

hoat-kə, to grow mouldy. si<sup>n</sup>-kə, id. si<sup>n</sup>-kə chhiu<sup>n</sup>-phú, id. chih si<sup>n</sup>-kə, tongue furred, as when unwell.

kə — chhiang-kə-le (Cn.), to hop, as a child.

kə [R. ko, high], (also Cn., = A. ko). kə-tai-chi<sup>n</sup>, large bundles of idolatrous paper (representing money) torn into very long shreds.

kə [R. ko, fat; ointment; rich], (also Cn., = A. ko, id.) kə-iöh, = ko-iöh, medicinal plaster (v. iöh).

kə-jü (Cn.), wealthy. kə-dzü (Cn.), id.

kə (Cn.), = A. ko; in several other words.

kə [R. a crime; ungrateful]. kə-hü, to behave ungratefully; to requite ill, as kindness or favour. kə-hü un-tiën, to act ungratefully after receiving kindness, favour, or grace. kə-un, id. kə-un hü-gī, id.

bü-kə (R.), innocent. bü-kə siü-khut, oppressed or treated ill without cause. kò pó-kə, to enter an accusation against a man who has beaten another so as to endanger his life; if the man die within forty days the accusation is valid for compensation for his life.

kə [R. to buy]. kə-chiú (C.), to buy spirituous liquor.

kə [R. kə, aunt]. kə-chiá<sup>n</sup>, = kə-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to coax.

kə [R. hē, = col. khê], paste; to paste; to paste or plaster up, as a crevice; to put on a poultice; to put on (face-paint) too thick; a sort of stiffly-starched cloth.

kə-iöh, to put on a plaster of herbs like a poultice. kə-liang, to put on a cooling plaster, as on a boil. kə-he, to plaster up with lime or cement, as a crevice. kə-böe-tiâu, the paste does not hold. tsoá-kə--ê, made of paper pasted together kə-kəng, to assist a man with a little money (v. kəng).

kə-tsoá, to paste paper for idolatrous purposes. kə-teng, to make a lantern by pasting. kə-phoe, to seal up a letter with paste or rice. kə-liën, to paste up antithetical sentences. kə mng-sin, to paste up antithetical phrases on doors.

kə-töe, stiffly-starched grass-cloth. toá-chhân-kə, do. from Tai-tiën. éng-chhun-kə, do. from Yung-chun. kə-khit (Cn.), a peg covered with coarse starch, over which that stuff is drawn in starching it.

béh-kə, paste made from wheat; it is eaten. hün-chiu<sup>n</sup>-kə, starch or paste made (ready for use) from rice. tsút-bi-kə, paste made from glutinous rice. moá-chi-kə, paste made from the confection called "moá-chi," boiled down soft.

khien-kə, to stir paste in making it. khút-kə, id. boah-kə, to put on paste; to smear with paste. uih-kə, to take up a small quantity of paste, as on the finger or on small thin slip of wood, e.g. for closing a letter. iah-kə, to take up a large quantity of paste, as with a spoon or large broad piece of wood.

kə-kə, gelatinous; sticky. chhüi-kə-kə, broken down small. noá-kə-kə, very soft, as cooked food, or as something soaked and spoiled by rain. sáh siu<sup>n</sup>-kə, to boil too soft, as vermicelli or potatoes. iü<sup>n</sup>-kə-kə, all bruised, beaten, or melted to a pulp; broken to shivers (v. iü<sup>n</sup>). nng-kə-kə, very soft, as dough, &c. (v. nng). ká-kə-kə, thin and watery, as boiled rice.

kə — péh-kə (T.), = A. péh-gé, a large white fish.

kó (R. id.) tê-ké, an earthen tea-kettle, sometimes used as a coarse tea-pot. täng-tê-ké, a brass tea-kettle. chiú-tê-ké, a sort of wine-jug. chiú-ké (T.), an earthen vessel for boiling spirituous liquor. jió-ké (esp. Cn.), a chamber-pot with a strop.

kó [R. ancient, antiquity], stories about ancient times, read or delivered.

ké-tsá, long ago; ancient. bän-ké (R.), extremely ancient times. bän-ké liü-thoän, handed down from the remotest times. bän-ké chheng-ni<sup>n</sup>, extremely ancient times; thousands of years ago. chiá<sup>n</sup>-bän-ké, id. ké-kim, ancient and modern times (v. kim). i-ké üi-kàm (R.), to use ancient history as a mirror. ké-läng-giën, a saying of the ancients, esp. a proverb.

ké-koài, strange; eccentric (v. koài).

ké-i, of excellent character; good, kind, and upright. ké-hong, id. ké-kiët, neat, small, and well made (v. kiët). ké-tsui, pleasant and nice-looking, as a child. ké-ké-tsui, pretending to have far more knowledge or ability than one has. ké-pán-läng, a man of quiet, simple, honest, old-fashioned ways (v. pán).

ké-chè, old-fashioned, as things. ké-lê, ancient laws or customs. ké-chek, ancient relics, monuments, &c.; antiquities. ké-üi, old pictures. ké-goán, old curiosities. ké-tóng, id. (v. tóng).

ké-siong-chhú, old friends. ké-siang-chhi (C.), id. éng-ké (Cn.), always or very generally in the past.

ké-lauh-phauh, old, as man; ancient, as curio, old-fashioned, as dress, &c. ké-lé-chhiü, a sort of low straggling tree with large leaves and soft wood. ké-ló-chhiü, id. ké-chhiü-thâu, an old stump almost dead.

ké-ló-sien, = kok-ló, one of the genii.

kóng-ké, to tell or read ancient stories from books (generally historical novels), as men do to make money. kóng-ké-sien, a man who makes this his business.

菰

高膏

辜

沽姑糊

碣

古

kóng-hàm-ké, to tell incredible stories. kóng êng-á-ké, to talk idle useless stories and empty talk. phá<sup>n</sup>-ké, empty baseless stories. thia<sup>n</sup>-ké, to listen to these sort of stories. pien-ké, to tell stories invented at the time, as an improvisatore, &c.; to talk scandal, mainly fictitious. teh kek-ké, talking and inventing strange stories (v. kek), (s. drum). phah-chih lāng--ê ké-pi<sup>n</sup>, to cut short a man's talk so as to defeat his purpose (play on the word "ké," a drum). ké-chheh, books of old stories (used by men for reading aloud), somewhat like historical novels. ké-tiū<sup>n</sup>, a place where people meet (bringing out benches for the purpose) to hear these old stories.

kó (= kó). ló-ké-chiòh, = ló-kó-chiòh, a coarse sort of coral.

kó [R. name of a shrub], (Cn. kió). ké-ki, a medicinal shrub (v. kí).

kó [R. koán, a tube; a horn; to rule, = col. kúg, kóng]. gū-kak-ké-chhi, a thorny leguminous shrub and medicine. chhâ-chek-ké, an imitation candle with a lamp at the top. chek-ké (Cn.), id.

kó (C.) ké-lê-hong, = kúg-lê-hong, a whirlwind.

kó [R. carelessly; irregularly; illicitly; if], (Cn. kió). ké-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, remissly; carelessly; inaccurately. ké-kán, id. ké-háp, illicit sexual intercourse.

kó [R. a dog, = col. káu], (Cn. kió). hoán úi-ké, but after all he makes it only a dog; a miserable failure (v. hoán).

kó [R. dropsy]. ké-tiòng, dropsy in the abdomen, = té-tiòng. ké-cheng, id. hu-lô ké-kek, several very severe chronic diseases (v. hu).

tiòng-tsoá-ké, to be bewitched so as to have dropsy (v. tsoá).

kó (R. id.), to estimate or fix a price; to appraise or value. ké-kè, id. (s. drum). kong-ké, publicly fix the price, done by several men together. ké loá-tsōe-chi<sup>n</sup>, value at how many cash? ké-lé--khi, assign at estimated value, as goods to creditor, &c. ké hē--i, give it him at a valuation, as payment for a debt.

kó (Cn.) pi<sup>n</sup>-ké, = gū-ta<sup>n</sup>, a yoke for a cow or ox.

kó (Cn.), = A. kó, in several words.

kó (R. id.), a drum or similar instrument; to winnow with fanners; said of some round things; word used by coolies to mean 100 cash. ké-tŕng, said by coolies to mean 150 cash.

ng-ké-á, coarse paper painted yellow for making into mock-money for the worship of spirits (sín). péh-ké-á, do. left white for the worship of ghosts (kúi). ké-á-tsoá, either kind.

chiòh-ké, solid broad wheel-shaped stones on each side of the door of a temple or yamun. thŕng-ké, a large confection used at marriages. ké-phâu, a large drum-shaped frame full of crackers, used at marriages. óe-ké óe-ké, short and stout, as a man. ké-á-bin, face plump and round. ké-á-i<sup>n</sup>, id. i-ké-á, an octagonal or round, drum-shaped, hollow, earthenware seat. ké-á-i, id. ké-i, id. i<sup>n</sup>-ké-i, id. (s. limb). húi-ké-i, id.

ké-chhek, to winnow rice with fanners. ké-lé, to winnow with fanners. hong-ké, a machine like fanners, for winnowing. iét-hong-ké, to work the fanners; to winnow.

tsùn-ké, an ornament (in women's head-dress) that shakes on a spiral wire. chi<sup>n</sup>-ké, a tambourine. lāng chi<sup>n</sup>-ké, to play the tambourine. bák-ké, a wooden drum shaped like a fish. chièn-ké, a war-drum. ki<sup>n</sup>-ké, a large drum at a yamun or city gate for beating the watches. lin-long-ké, a pedlar's rattle; a rattle used by children. piak-ké, a sort of drum with skin on one end only. phiāng-ké, a long hollow bamboo with skin on one end, used by beggars and quacks (v. phiāng). tāng-ké, a pedlar's rattle with brass at the ends. iô-tāng-ké, to shake it. thè-tāng-ké, to draw back from an affair we had taken in hand (fig. from sorcerer), (v. thè). thong-ké, a sort of drum suspended from the neck. chhiú-ké, a small drum with a handle, used in processions. khâm-chhē<sup>n</sup>-ké, pair of cymbals and one hand drum (v. chhē<sup>n</sup>). toā-chhâm-ké, large cymbals and drums. toā-khâm-ké (Cn.), large cymbals, drum, and gong. lô-ké, gongs and drums. tāng-lô-ké, to beat gongs and drums in superstitious rites. ké-gák, drums and other music (v. gák). ké-chhe, a drum and two pipes (v. chhe).

lūi-ké, to beat a large drum quick, loud, and long (v. lūi). phah-ké, to beat a drum. phah chhùi-ké, to talk about unimportant matters; to have an idle talk; to gossip (s. limb). phah pi<sup>n</sup>-ké, to give a man a secret hint. kek-ké, to beat the drum in a yamun, to call for justice in a very urgent case. cheng-ké, to beat drums just before a play. tân-ké (C.), id. jiāng-ké (C.), id. khi-ké, to begin beating the drum at rites for the dead; also (Cn.), = A. cheng-ké, to beat drums before a play. pi<sup>n</sup>-ké, to make a drum by stretching the skin on the drum. tá<sup>n</sup>-hoa-ké, a man dressed as a woman, who beats a drum and sings at a play. chhia-ké-pô, do. at an incense procession. chhia-ké-kong, a man in male dress doing so.

ké-thūi, a drum-stick. ké-lâu, a tower for holding a drum. ké-teng, a shed for musicians, at the side of the gate of a high mandarin; a canopy containing a drum carried at idolatrous processions. ké-kè, a frame or stand for a drum (s. estimate).

kó [R. a limb, esp. the thigh], a strand of a rope; a share in business; a division of an essay; (said of a partner or companion).

sit-ké, wings (v. sit). méh<sup>n</sup>-ké, the place where the pulse is felt at wrist or temples, especially at the wrist. chhiú-ké (C.), the calf of the lower arm. chhiú-ké kièn-chi-bah, said of a man well off, with arm fat and strong. koat chhùi-ké, to beat the cheeks (said in scolding a child), (s. drum).

i<sup>n</sup>-ké i<sup>n</sup>-ké, round, as a rope, or as shaft of brush, or pencil, or leg of table, or fat fleshy well-formed limb (s. drum). i<sup>n</sup>-ké-pi<sup>n</sup>, round braid or narrow thick tape.

sang-ké-kiám, a double-bladed dagger. téng-ké-chiam, the upper hair-pin in a woman's head-dress.

sa<sup>n</sup>-ké, a rope made with three strands. kià sa<sup>n</sup>-ké, to put out this rope from a junk in order to fasten it. chit-ké-soh, one strand of a rope. thoá<sup>n</sup>-ké, the strands of a rope or queue opening out of themselves. tháu-ké, to open out a rope (intentionally) into its strands; said also of getting a dispute set right (v. tháu).

kap-ké, to join several ropes or strands to make one rope; to join capital in trade. khia-ké, to have a share in a business. tàu-ké, to have shares in a joint business. pun-ké, to divide profits according to shares. thiah-ké, to dissolve partnership. chhah-ké, to join a partnership, taking a small share. chhah-chit-ké, id. chit-ké seng-lí, one share in the business. hè, tsòe-nŕng-ké khi, to have two equal shares in

枸
管

苟
狗
盡

估

鼓

股

the trade. ké-bê, to take the lead in starting a joint business.

hó-kha-ké, a pleasant boon companion in low pleasures. tàu sī kha-ké, a good companion or partner for business or pleasure. bô hit-ê kha-ké, there are not enough of persons ready, either to assist in work, or to take parts in a game, &c.

poeh-ké, the eight divisions of an essay, according to the old plan. lâk-ké, the six divisions of a modern essay. kau-ké, to mark the divisions of an essay. tsáh-ké, id. tiám-kù tsáh-ké, to punctuate and mark the divisions of an essay.

kò (R. id.), to hire, as workman or boat. kè-chhiá, id. (v. chhiá). tiau-kè, to hire specially for the purpose. kè-lâng-oàn, to draw feelings of dislike on one's self, as by manner or appearance. thê kè-hê tsòe-bák (the medusa using the shrimp as an eye), one man idly or ignorantly making use of another's knowledge or skill in managing matters.

kò [R. firm, obstinate]. kien-kè, firm; steady. kè-siú, to guard and watch carefully, as house, &c.

kè-i, on purpose; intentionally. tiâu-kè-i, id. tiâu-i-kè, id. tsoan-i-kè, id. kè-chip, obstinate.

kò [R. to fuse; to keep from office]. kìm-kè (r.), to disable a man from getting a degree or office or rank. kìm-kè chiong-sin (r.), to disable a man for life from all rank, office, or degrees.

kò (Cn.), = A. kò (R.), to pass —. put-kè, not more than; only.

kò (Cn.), = A. kò, to accuse; to inform.

kò (R. id.), to guard; to take care of; a surname. chiâu-kè, to take care of. khân-kè (r.), id. koán-kè, to watch and take care of; to oversee; to manage for another in his absence. kau-lí-kè, I intrust it to you to take care of. kè-tiâu-tiâu, to keep and guard carefully.

tsú-kè, a customer, as of a shop. toā-tsú-kè, a large customer. hó-tsú-kè, a customer who does not drive hard bargains. bô-chhûn tsú-kè, to take improper or unwise advantage of a man, so as to lose his custom or friendship, e.g. cheating a good customer, or ill-using a friend.

òe-kè--tit, well enough to do what is wanted, though not strong; having time to attend to the matter, along with what we were doing before. bòe-kè--tit, very ill; very poor; much grieved or pained; very painful, so as to be intolerable; having no time to attend to the matter, because fully occupied with other things. kàu-bòe-kè--tit, to the utmost, exceedingly (said of some feelings and emotions). òe-kè--tit chêng, bòe-kè--tit âu, quite unable to attend to all the parts of a complicated affair, so that from one side or another disaster is sure to come. òe-kè--tit tang-gák, bòe-kè--tit sêng-hông, must let one of the two objects drop (as man not having time to worship at both temples). kè-siông, put-kè-hā, attending only to half one's duties, so that the other part goes all wrong. thâu-bé bòe-sa<sup>n</sup>-kè, cannot attend at once to both parts of the affair, so that the whole goes wrong, e.g. an army defeated because one part is lost. thâu-bé bòe-sa<sup>n</sup>-kè, the beginning and the end not agreeing together, as of evidence, of essay, or discourse.

kè-pún, careful of one's capital in trade, avoiding rash ventures, and keeping to safe investments; thrifty; avoiding dangerous matters; respectable and careful of one's character. khah-kè-pún, id. tiòh-kè-pún, you should avoid dangerous matters, not meddling in other people's disputes. kè-thé-bièn, to be careful of one's reputation, respectability, and prestige. kè-liâm-thí, modest and conscientious. kè-bin-phê, to take care of one's character. kè-si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to take care of one's own life; to spare one's self.

kè-lim-chiáh, caring for nothing but eating and drinking. kè chit-ê-chhùi, id. kè-sái-tsùn, attend to the working of the vessel. kè-iú<sup>n</sup>, to tend sheep or goats; a shepherd. kè-kha, take care of your feet! warning by the front chair-bearer that something on the road might hurt the feet.

kò [R. old; reason; cause; affairs; death]. iên-kè, a reason; a cause; a motive. thé-sú iá-kè, to decline for a feigned reason.

sū-kè, an affair or business to be attended to. thé sū-kè, to decline a request, or refuse to do something on fair but false pretexts or excuses (v. thé). thok-sū-kè, id. ū sū-kè, there are matters to be attended to, so that there is no time for other affairs. sè-kè, influence (v. sè, "power").

sin-kè, he has died (said only in announcing a death).

kè-kū, old; original; long acquainted. chhin-pêng kè-iú, relatives and old friends. kè-tsoá, old paper (medicinal). kè-tièn, the manner or style of the ancients, as to customs, &c. (v. tièn). tsng kè-sū, to dress up in the character of ancient personages (v. tsng). kè-chék, an old disease that has come back again and again.

kò [R. ké, remissly; carelessly]. bô-khoà-cheng, kè-lap (to tread the rice-pestle carelessly, not attending to clean the rice), said of doing anything in a great hurry without care.

kò [R. hē, kō, to trust in]. kau-kè, to intrust, as business or thing. beh-kè sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to whom will you intrust this matter? kè chit-ki-chhùi, to have nothing to trust to but one's own power of talking, strength of assertion, or tissue of plausible lies, e.g. when one has no real power or influence to back him, or not even the truth of the case. kè hit-ê-chhùi, id.

kò [R. hē, time; to wait, = col. hāu, pō]. chhún-āu-kè (C.), = chhún-āu-pō, to have something over (as surplus money) for emergencies.

kò [R. hō, a mark]. ni<sup>n</sup>-kè (Cn.), = A. ni<sup>n</sup>-kō, a year, as a date.

kò (Cn.), = A. ké, to support by something put under to make it higher.

kó (Cn.), = A. ké. kó-chí, fruit.

kó (Cn.), = A. ké, cakes.

kò (Cn.), = A. kè, a woman's head-dress. kut-kò, the whole set of a woman's hair-pins, &c.

kò (Cn.), = A. kè, to cross; to pass over. kò-kè, to be adopted from a related family. kò-kè, too high a price.

kò (Cn.), = A. kè, name of a fish.

koa (R. ko), a song having a regular number of words (usually five or seven) in each line. koa-khek, songs of various sorts, of regular and irregular structure. koa-koat, mnemonic rhymes. chit-tè-koa, one song. khít-chiáh-koa, sort of songs sung by beggars. chhiù<sup>n</sup>-koa, to sing a song. píen koa-á, to compose a song.

koa [R. kok, to pause; to delay, = col. koh], to pause or rest at a place in passing, especially going slightly out of the way to do so. koa-óa<sup>n</sup>, to lie for a

催催

固

錮

顧

苟怙

怙

候

歌

擱

short time at a port or anchorage, as a vessel. koa-khì-hia, to go slightly out of the way to stop at that place. koa-chia koa-hia, stopping here and there in passing. koa-khì pát-sé-tsāi, to go slightly out of the way to stop (for some purpose) at another place. koa-kha, to pause or rest at a place on the way or a little out of the way.

koa [R. ko, by change of tone from "kò," to cross; to pass, = col. kè, koà]. chia<sup>n</sup> koa (Cn.), the New-Year season over, as after the 16th of the first month, or about the 20th. koa-chia<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. (v. chia<sup>n</sup>).

koa, too hard and fibrous, as fruits, vegetables, ginger, or bamboo-shoots, that are too tough for good eating; having lost the freshness and bloom of youth.

koa-sò, dry and hard, as one's skin (v. sò). bin-phê khah-koa, the face having lost the fresh look of youth. koa-bih-bih, too old and hard, so as to be unpleasant to eat, as vegetables, &c.

koa [R. kho, a branch], a surname.

koa [R. a melon, cucumber, &c., = col. koe], (also C., = A. koe).

bók-koa, the quince. tê-koa (R.), potatoes.

koa (C.) âng-koa, = A. âng-koe, a sort of fish.

koà (R. hô), a large tree with very showy and beautiful white flowers. koà-chhiū, id. koà-hoe, a shrub with beautiful clustered white flowers, somewhat like laurustinus.

koá [R. koá<sup>n</sup>, solitary; few], (T. koá<sup>n</sup>), a small quantity; often enclitic. kiám--koá, a few less. pân--koá, make ready a little. pân-koá-liâu, have made ready a few things, e.g. for eating or for other purposes. tûg-koá-chî<sup>n</sup>, to have a small balance of cash over, as after executing a commission (v. tûg, "long"). koá lâi-jip-siâu, a little money given as part payment.

koà [R. khoà, to straddle]. khîa--koà, to stand or sit practising the proper attitude, as for archery or riding. khîa-bé-koà, to practise sitting in the proper attitude for riding. koà siang-thâu-bé, pretending to be on each side, and injuring each party by information got from the other.

koà [R. kài, the mustard-plant]. koà-chhài, the mustard-plant.

koà [R. kò, to cross; a crime, = col. kè]. chê-koà, a crime; a sin.

kè-koà, too hard, as work; very severe, as disease; too much, as exerting one's self. tiòh-boâ kè-koà, to work far beyond one's strength.

koà — hoán-koà, to break one's promise.

koà [R. kài, an assistant; to be anxious]. koà-i, to be anxious or grieved about matters.

koà [R. to hinder; an impediment, = col. khoà]. koà-gāi, to be anxious about a matter (v. gāi); this word and the previous word are often interchanged with the following.

koà (R. id.), to suspend; to wear suspended, as a chain; to wear, as various ornaments, e.g. in the cap or on the neck; to have attached, as leaves on end of stalk, or as handle on basket.

koà-sim, to be anxious. (this group, = khoà). koà-lū, id. koà-liām, id. koà-tiâu sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, deeply distressed and anxious, e.g. afraid of the death of an absent friend.

goá-koà tí hî-á bé-liu (I hang it at the tip of my ear), I don't care much for what you say.

koà-hà, to hang up white cloth at doors, &c., in mourning. kā-i koà-âng, to give some red thing as a present to a man who does some unlucky thing for us (v. âng).

koà-liên, to wear a chain; to chain. koà-thih-liên, id. koà-hiu<sup>n</sup>-hé, to wear amulets made with incense. koà-khng (T.), = A. koà<sup>n</sup>-khng, to wear an amulet of metal (v. khng). koà-bé-long, to wear a sort of bell, as a horse.

koà-bák-kià<sup>n</sup>, to wear spectacles. koà-chhiū-khoân, to wear bracelets. ài-koà-súi, fond of wearing ornaments (v. súi). koà-niá<sup>n</sup>, to put on or wear a collar. koà-lêng, to wear a peacock's feather in the cap, as high mandarin.

koà-gû, to yoke an ox or cow for ploughing. koà-oa<sup>n</sup>, to wear a saddle (v. oa<sup>n</sup>).

koà-bâng, to set a net.

koà-thng, glazed, as pottery. koà-khak ê-béh, wheat or barley with the rough outside not yet ground off. koà-bé--ê, having the bunch of leaves at the end still attached (not yet cut off), as a stick of sugar-cane, &c. koà-ia<sup>n</sup>, to have a tassel attached, as cap. û-koà-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, having a (curved) handle attached, as basket. koà-the-mng, still having on the hair that was on the fetus, as a child in the first month before it is shaved.

koà-kûi, to be pregnant, as one of the lower animals.

koà-báu, to have one's name on the books of a yamun for protection.

koà [R. kài, to cover; a cover, = col. khàm], (T. sometimes "koài"), a cover; a lid. hien-koà, to raise the lid.

chhù-koà, a roof. siâ<sup>n</sup>-koà, the hatches. tiá<sup>n</sup>-koà, the lid of a rice-boiler. tiá<sup>n</sup>-kám-koà, id.

û-tóe û-koà, done quite properly, as a document or an affair (v. tóe).

koà, and along with (over and above). kiám-koà-siap, very niggardly. hong koà-hê, wind and rain. tsûn koà-chiú<sup>n</sup>, oars along with the boat. koà-chham--teh, added in addition, e.g. adding another man's name in accusation.

koà [next word?]. má-lí-koà, name of a flower with a head of flowers like a ball.

koà [R. an outer jacket or short coat]. bé-koà, an outer jacket, with arms not very long, buttoning up the middle of the breast. ng-bé-koà, a yellow coat, sometimes bestowed by imperial special favour. kun-ki-koà, jacket buttoning at the side and faced with a different colour. thai-pêng-koà, jacket buttoning in middle of breast, with long narrow arms. tek-sêng-koà, jacket with many foreign buttons, fastened at side. pé-koà, outer jacket worn by a mandarin or kujin, bearing the insignia on a square on the breast. hō-i-koà, a sort of military coat.

phâu-koà, both the long robe and the jacket worn over it.

koà — tsam-koà, to invest a new-made Sewtsai with gilt flowers and red sash, as used to be done; now they go ready dressed out.

koà [R. the "diagrams" of Chinese divination], (C. kòè). pat-koà, the eight diagrams of Fuh-hi, often worked as an octagonal figure. pat-koà-lâu, an octagonal tower, for superstitious purposes. pat-koà-hōe, a rebellious society like the sió-to-hōe.

koà-sim hó, the answer by tortoise-shell divination is good. koà-sin pháí<sup>n</sup>, do. is bad. chhiam-siá<sup>n</sup> koà-tiá<sup>n</sup>, my instruments of divination are sure and certain.

過
枯

柯
瓜
椽

寡

跨

芥
過

卦
罍
掛

蓋

掛
褂

掛
卦

pok-koà, to divine by tortoise-shell. poáh-koà, id. khi poáh-koà, to go and inquire at a diviner. khi pok-koà, id. poáh-ku-koà, to divine by six trials with three cash, called "chiu-goàn," put in the shell of a turtle or tortoise. teh chiáu-á-koà, to divine by seeing which of the lots a bird pecks up.

chiam-koà, another sort of divination. chiam-bí-koà, to divine by rice grains. liam-bí-koà (T.), id. tng-hi-koà, to try one's luck by the part of a play that we first meet with. tng-chhùi-koà (Cn.), = thia<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to listen for the first word heard after offering incense, on l. 15. or 8. 15.

koà (T.) àm-koà-chiáu, = àm-kong-chiáu, a sort of owl.

koā (C.), to hate; to be much displeased at a man for not doing what he promised; to try to injure a man, as an idol does if a vow be not paid.

koa<sup>n</sup> (R. kan), the liver. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, the heart and liver; the heart as the seat of thought and affections. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-khut, the soft depression near the middle of the breast. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-ti, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the lower part of the breast at the pit of the stomach. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu khui, sorrow or anxiety somewhat allayed. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu peh-peh, feeling of heaviness and indigestion.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup> thiàu, palpitation of the heart in great terror or anxiety. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> chiá<sup>n</sup>-oân, heart choking in great grief.

bô-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, thoughtless; forgetful. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> sòe, satisfied with small gains. ū-chit-tiám sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, to have some settled purpose, as of affection or of sincerity; desiring something earnestly. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> bô-thân-chhùi, he does not think as he speaks. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a favourite child. goá--ê sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, an endearing phrase said by mother or nurse to baby (v. i<sup>n</sup>).

siū<sup>n</sup>-sim siū<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, to think out a selfish or improper plan (v. siū<sup>n</sup>). boá-sim boá-koa<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's mind very much.

ti-koa<sup>n</sup>, pig's liver. ti-koa<sup>n</sup>-sek, the red colour like pig's liver. ti-koa<sup>n</sup>-chhiū, a tree with bright red berries like holly berries.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. koan, a cap]. (C. koan). hông-koa<sup>n</sup>, an ornamental head-dress worn by mandarin ladies, and also at marriage by other ladies. hông-koa<sup>n</sup> hê-pòe, ornaments for head and girdle worn by mandarin ladies or wealthy ladies at marriage.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. kan, a flag-staff; a post]. ki-koa<sup>n</sup>, a fixed flag-staff. ki-koa<sup>n</sup>-táu, a projection, like a box, near the top of a Chinese flag-staff. ki-koa<sup>n</sup>-ngóeh, the two side supports for a flag-staff. ki-koa<sup>n</sup>-tâi, a square pediment about two feet high for supporting the flag-staff of a Tsin-sze or very high mandarin.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. kan, a rod or staff]. tiò-koa<sup>n</sup>, a fishing-rod. ε-koa<sup>n</sup>, the long thin bamboo of a well-sweep that supports the bucket. ε-koa<sup>n</sup>-chhìn, that thin bamboo and the movable beam of the machine.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. kan, dry; dried, = khiên, = col. kiên, kien], dried eatables. koa<sup>n</sup>-bah, the eatable part of dried fruit. kien-koa<sup>n</sup>, dried, as eatables. phák-koa<sup>n</sup>, to dry in the sun, as eatables.

tâu-koa<sup>n</sup>, bean-curd, boiled, salted, and pressed, in large squares. ké-koa<sup>n</sup>, steamed cakes dried hard. piá<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, biscuit. bîn-thâu-koa<sup>n</sup>, hard-dried biscuits. bák-koa<sup>n</sup>, dried cuttle-fish. bát-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. hî-koa<sup>n</sup>, dried fish. lê-koa<sup>n</sup>, sort of dried fish.

mî<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. mî<sup>n</sup>-soà<sup>n</sup>, vermicelli made from wheat. bí-hún-koa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. bí-hún, vermicelli made from rice-flour.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. koan, a coffin]. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, a coffin. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-kng, two bamboo poles tied by ropes to the coffin when carried. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-khut, the pit of an old grave from which the coffin has been removed. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-chiáu, a bird with a beautiful crest. oáh, m-chê nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu; sí, chiah-beh-hàu koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-thâu, will give him no food in life, but after death will make offerings at the head of the coffin. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ têng-teng, chiū kóe-pi<sup>n</sup>, will never return till his coffin is nailed up.

koa<sup>n</sup> [R. kan, name of an herb]. koa<sup>n</sup>-lân, a flower somewhat like an iris. koa<sup>n</sup>-lân-hoe, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>-lân, a wild sort of flower like the above, but coarser; it produces the medicine "siā-kan."

koa<sup>n</sup> (R. koan), a tall coarse sort of reed. koa<sup>n</sup>-chin, stalks of this reed. koa<sup>n</sup>-chin-piah, a partition made of these reeds interlaced and plastered. koa<sup>n</sup>-bâng, stalks of the reed, used for brooms. koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, stubble of this reed (s. mandarin). koa<sup>n</sup>-chêng, a coarse under mat made of this reed.

koa<sup>n</sup> — koa<sup>n</sup>-chiá, the common sugar-cane, grown to make sugar, as distinguished from the esculent "kam-chiá."

koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, a cross-bar in furniture. toh-koa<sup>n</sup>, the cross-bars between the feet of a table.

koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, to shut.

koa<sup>n</sup> (R. koan), a mandarin; mandarin rank or office; belonging to government; public; affix to some names of relationships and superiors; respectful affix to names of women.

koa<sup>n</sup>--lâng, mandarins in general. koa<sup>n</sup>-lâng, master of a female slave. koa<sup>n</sup>-lâng niú<sup>n</sup>-á, master and mistress of female slave. khiám-koa<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to be in arrears of land-tax. koa<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, affix to name of husband (used by a slave or beggar in naming a married woman), e.g. tsá-koa<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, the wife of the man whose name (not surname) is "tsá." gin-koa<sup>n</sup>, polite way of naming a woman whose name (not surname) is "gin" (said by an inferior or stranger).

án-koa<sup>n</sup>, master! (said by a slave). ta-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's father. toá-koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. ta-ke-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's father and mother. ke-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. ū-ke ū-koa<sup>n</sup>, to have them, as daughter-in-law has. keng-ke-koa<sup>n</sup>, to reverence them as she ought to do. goán-koa<sup>n</sup>, my husband's father. chek-koa<sup>n</sup>, younger brother of husband's father. peh-koa<sup>n</sup>, elder brother of husband's father.

kheh-koa<sup>n</sup>, said by inn-keeper to his guests. kiáu-koa<sup>n</sup>, the keeper of a gambling-house. pó-koa<sup>n</sup>, keeper of a place where the "lién-pó" gambling is carried on. hoat-koa<sup>n</sup>, a sort of Taoist enchanter. tiám-tsú-koa<sup>n</sup>, the man who dots an ancestral tablet with red, at the grave.

phoá<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, an idol attendant on the tutelary god "sêng-hông" (v. phoá<sup>n</sup>). siá-koa<sup>n</sup>, a paper image of a mandarin, burned in rites for the dead. ε-koa<sup>n</sup>-iá (Cn.), a deified dog.

koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, a mandarin. chit-thia<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, one mandarin, e.g. as managing some business alone (v. thia<sup>n</sup>). koa<sup>n</sup>-oân, mandarins in general (v. oân). bún-bú pah-koa<sup>n</sup>, all the mandarins, civil and military. bún-koa<sup>n</sup>, a civil mandarin. bú-koa<sup>n</sup>, a military or naval mandarin. túi-koa<sup>n</sup>, officer of some tens of soldiers. sòe-koa<sup>n</sup>, a small mandarin. toá-

肝

冠

杆

竿

乾

棺

藺
管

官

koa<sup>n</sup>, a great mandarin. toā-koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ta-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's father. koāi<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin of a Hien or district. pē-bú-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. gèk-koa<sup>n</sup>, small mandarin who has charge of the prison of a high mandarin. pē-koa<sup>n</sup>, a member of one of the supreme boards at the metropolis. òh-koa<sup>n</sup>, the literary mandarin of a department or district.

koa<sup>n</sup>-chhin, mandarin's relatives. koa<sup>n</sup>-gê, a mandarin's official residence; a yamun. koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a confidential assistant of a mandarin in his yamun (s. reed). koa<sup>n</sup>-mûi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of female jailer (v. mûi<sup>n</sup>). koa<sup>n</sup>-hu, mandarin's chair-bearers. koa<sup>n</sup>-peng, soldiers of the army of the government. koa<sup>n</sup>-bé, government horses; used by soldiers or mandarins. koa<sup>n</sup>-tsò, sort of mandarin barge. chiáh-koa<sup>n</sup>-pŋg, to be in mandarin's employment.

koa<sup>n</sup>-chit, official position; office. koa<sup>n</sup>-hâm, official title. koa<sup>n</sup>-chiok (r.), title of official rank. koa<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, name assumed by a mandarin when he takes office; said also of the name taken by a graduate when he gets his degree. koa<sup>n</sup>-thé, suitable behaviour and style of a mandarin, as in conduct, dress, &c. bô-koa<sup>n</sup>-tsái, wanting in the dignity of manner suitable to a mandarin. kek-koa<sup>n</sup>-phài, to affect the manner or style of mandarins or of mandarin families.

ũ-koa<sup>n</sup>-sin, to be a mandarin. ũ-koa<sup>n</sup> thang-tsòe, to have the office of mandarin. tsòe-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be a mandarin. seng-koa<sup>n</sup>, to rise in office (v. seng). koan-koa<sup>n</sup>, to purchase office or official title. koan hit-ê-koa<sup>n</sup>, he has purchased that title. sî-koa<sup>n</sup>, to resign office, retaining rank. liáu-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be deposed from office and rank. lut-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. hók i-ê-koa<sup>n</sup>, to recover his office. koa<sup>n</sup> iáu-kú tī--teh, his official rank is still left him.

chhióng-koa<sup>n</sup>, to confiscate (v. chhióng). büt-koa<sup>n</sup> (r.), to be confiscated. jip-koa<sup>n</sup> (r.), to be confiscated. chióng-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be in the mandarin's hands, as a case already begun. tso-koa<sup>n</sup>-hû, to litigate; to go to law. phah-koa<sup>n</sup>-si, id.

koa<sup>n</sup>-òe, the "mandarin" dialect, i.e. the vernacular of Northern and Western China. koa<sup>n</sup>-im, the sound of a word according to the mandarin dialect. koa<sup>n</sup>-lê, a great road. koa<sup>n</sup>-phê, a measure of ten lí (about three miles). koa<sup>n</sup>-tòe, government land. koa<sup>n</sup>-táu, the regulation bushel (táu) used in rice-shops. koa<sup>n</sup>-iâm, salt from government stores legally bought (not contrahand). koa<sup>n</sup>-chhek, rice from government granaries.

koa<sup>n</sup>-thia<sup>n</sup>, the cabin of a junk for richer passengers; a waiting-room in a yamun or temple (v. thia<sup>n</sup>). koa<sup>n</sup>-ièn, birds'-nest of fine quality. koa<sup>n</sup>-kùi, hest cinnamon.

ti-koa<sup>n</sup> káu-koa<sup>n</sup>, mandarins cruel and unjust like pigs and dogs. tham-koa<sup>n</sup> ù-lí, avaricious mandarins. koa<sup>n</sup>-toàn put-jû bîn-goân, better that the people be willing than that the mandarin force the matter by a judgment.

koā<sup>n</sup> (R. hân), cold (of weather or of feeling). toā-koā<sup>n</sup>, great cold. sng-koā<sup>n</sup> seh-tàng, extremely cold (lit. like frost and snow). koā<sup>n</sup>-kâu, the cold weather or the ague fit has come. òe-koā<sup>n</sup>, are you cold? bõe-koā<sup>n</sup>, I do not feel cold.

koā<sup>n</sup>-léng, very cold. koā<sup>n</sup>-chhin, very cold, as weather. koā<sup>n</sup>-joáh, cold or hot, as weather. koā<sup>n</sup>-jiét, fever and ague (v. jiét). ka-iam-koā<sup>n</sup>, chilled; shivering. ùi-koā<sup>n</sup>, chilled; shivering; afraid of a chill, so as to put on more clothes (v. ùi). iau-koā<sup>n</sup>, cold and hungry (v. iau).

koā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, cold weather. ɛ-koā<sup>n</sup>, dark cold weather, as in winter or spring. ɛ-im-koā<sup>n</sup>, id. ɛ-koā<sup>n</sup>-hê, cold, dark, rainy weather.

koā<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, clothes for cold weather. koā<sup>n</sup>-bô, a mandarin's warm cap with the button on.

koá<sup>n</sup> [R. solitary; few, = col. koá], a small quantity. koá<sup>n</sup>-á, id. iu-jiú koá<sup>n</sup>-toàn, undecided in purpose.

kɛ-koá<sup>n</sup>, orphans and widows. kɛ-koá<sup>n</sup> ê-lâng, id. kɛ-pîn-koá<sup>n</sup>, widows, orphans, and poor. koan-koá<sup>n</sup> kɛ-tòk, widows, bachelors, orphans, and others who have no relatives.

chiú-koá<sup>n</sup>, a widow. chiú-kóe<sup>n</sup> (P.), id. chiú-koá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, id. chiú-koá<sup>n</sup> ê hū-jin-lâng, id. koá<sup>n</sup>-hū, id. koá<sup>n</sup>-ku, to be a widow, especially a young widow remaining so. teh-koá<sup>n</sup>-ku, id. tsúg-siáu-liên koá<sup>n</sup>-ku kàu-ta<sup>n</sup>, has been a widow from youth till now, i.e. till old age.

koá<sup>n</sup>-jîn (r.), said by a sovereign in speaking of himself, "I, the solitary man."

koá<sup>n</sup> [R. koán, to rule; a tuhé]. tsóng-koá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of boatswain formerly employed on large sea-going junks; not now used. tse-koá<sup>n</sup>, a rich man's factor, who collects rents.

koá<sup>n</sup> (R. kán), to chase away; to drive; to hasten, esp. another; to assemble at market.

koá<sup>n</sup>-chhia, to drive a chariot or carriage. koá<sup>n</sup>-ah, to feed a flock of ducks.

koá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to drive away. koá<sup>n</sup>-soà<sup>n</sup>, to drive away and scatter. koá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to drive out. koá<sup>n</sup>-tiók, expel, as a had character from village, society, or employment. tui-koá<sup>n</sup>, to chase.

koá<sup>n</sup>-kín, to hasten. koá<sup>n</sup>-kàu, to arrive by making speed. hó-lâng koá<sup>n</sup>-kàu, by good fortune some one suddenly came up and saved from the danger. chhui-koá<sup>n</sup>, to hasten a man still more; to urge him to do something very quickly. goá--beh koá<sup>n</sup>--i, I will hasten him. koá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-si koá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-sí, koá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-chiáh bô-thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, don't hurry a man at his meals.

koá<sup>n</sup>-lê, to travel in great haste along the road. koá<sup>n</sup>-tsâm, id. koá<sup>n</sup>-hí, to assemble at the market at the market-time. koá<sup>n</sup>-lâu-tsúi, to travel in haste to catch the tide. koá<sup>n</sup>-phoe, to be very busy getting a letter ready for an opportunity, so that we have no time to spare. koá<sup>n</sup>-hng (Cn.), to clear a field thoroughly of its crop, esp. potatoes. koá<sup>n</sup>-chhió, excited with sexual passion, as the male.

koá<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. koái<sup>n</sup>. chi<sup>n</sup>-koá<sup>n</sup>, an arrow-shaft without feathers or shod.

koá<sup>n</sup> (C.) thih-koá<sup>n</sup>, iron ore (cf. Cn. kúg).

koà<sup>n</sup> (R. koàn), a large Taoist temple for the worship of Yuh-hwang Shang-ti. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-koà<sup>n</sup>, id. koà<sup>n</sup>-tsú, the chief idol of such a temple, said not to be "thi<sup>n</sup>-kong," who has no image.

koā<sup>n</sup> (R. hân), sweat, perspiration. lâu-koā<sup>n</sup>, to perspire; to sweat. lâu-koā<sup>n</sup>-hoe, perspiration coming out in small drops on the skin. koā<sup>n</sup>-lâu moá<sup>n</sup>-bîn, face covered with perspiration. chhin-koā<sup>n</sup>, a cold perspiration. lâu-chhin-koā<sup>n</sup>, to have a cold sweat. hoat-koā<sup>n</sup>, to perspire under medical treatment in illness. chhut-koā<sup>n</sup>, perspiration coming at last in a disease; to grow damp, as wall or rock in south wind; to perspire.

hip-koá<sup>n</sup>, to cover up warmly (as in illness) so as to cause perspiration. sò-koá<sup>n</sup>, to absorb perspiration, as a dress.

寡

管

赶

觀

汗

寒

koā<sup>n</sup>, to carry a thing banging down from the hand, as a basket; (to suspend round the neck); a large string of beads, pearls, cash, &c., strung together; a bundle (attached at two places), as of basket or bucket, for carrying it; (string for fastening a bat); [perhaps these make more than one word].

koā<sup>n</sup>-khí, to take up with the hand a thing that hangs down like a basket; to bring forward a subject. koā<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to lift up one's dress with the band, as in crossing a stream. koā<sup>n</sup>-sàng, to carry food, as to a man in prison (v. sàng). koā<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to carry water in a bucket or picher hanging down. koā<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to carry a basket of flowers.

koā<sup>n</sup> kha-ló, to have one's feet manacled (v. ló). koā<sup>n</sup>-kng, to wear a sort of amulet called "kng" suspended round the neck.

koā<sup>n</sup>-kui, having the crop very full and hanging down heavily, as a fowl; to have one's dress hang too loosely on the breast (v. kui). bin koā<sup>n</sup>-káu (T.), the cheek swollen, or very fat just below the eyes.

té-koā<sup>n</sup>, a pouch like a sporan, worn on the belly, suspended from the neck. gún-koā<sup>n</sup>, a chain worn round the neck for suspending the pouch, &c. ám-koā<sup>n</sup>, a child's bib; also (Cn.), a string of various things (esp. amulets) suspended from a child's neck.

chit-koā<sup>n</sup>, a large string of beads, pearls, cash, &c. (much larger than "cbhng"), strung on a string. chit-koā<sup>n</sup>-chí, a string of several hundred cash, (but a few cash tied together make "chit-kat.")

teng-koā<sup>n</sup>, a bundle fixed by its two ends on the top of a lantern. tháng-koā<sup>n</sup>, a handle (as of rope) of a bucket, by which it can be bung or carried. lòh-á-koā<sup>n</sup>, a string for tying on a sun-bat. bō-koā<sup>n</sup>, a string for fastening on a hat.

koā<sup>n</sup>-mng, fastenings of rattan, like ropes, by which the sail when spread is fastened to the mast. sái-oá-koā<sup>n</sup>, to sail on the tack that brings the sail close on the mast. sái-khui-koā<sup>n</sup>, to sail on the tack which makes the sail go as far as possible from the mast, held by these fastenings.

koah (R. kat), to cut, especially by drawing the knife along, or back and forwards; to wound, as by cutting; to reap; to slice, especially horizontally; to buy, as flesh meat; to undermine (a wall) or carry away (crops), as a flood; (to cut off, as intercourse).

koah tng-tê, to hurt the bowels, as poison; to wound the heart, as severe grief (v. tng). koah-bah tng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, to make one cut, and have it over (said of some very painful matter that has to be done but once), (v. thiá<sup>n</sup>). koah-bah, to cut a criminal in pieces; to cut the flesh surgically. koah chit-tê-bah, to buy a piece of pork. koah-áu, to cut one's throat. koah-koe, to kill a fowl, by cutting the neck. koah-huih, to cut, so as to bring blood, as a fowl; or as a sorcerer does (v. huih).

koah-siá, to break off intercourse, especially said of man and woman, or of near relations. kau-koah, to dissolve partnership or business connections. kap-i kau-koah, to have finished up our business with him, so as now to have no responsibility. kui-koah, the share of the business reverting to another.

koah-tng, to cut off; to cut separate. koah-chnáu, to cut grass, &c. koah-tiū, to reap rice (v. tiū). koah thâu-tsang, to cut off the queue. koah hí-á, to cut off the ears. koah kha-kun, to cut the tendons of the heel, sometimes done as a punishment. koah-chih, to cut off the tongue; to cut the tongue, as sorcerers. san-koah, to prune, as branches; to cut away some, as grass.

koah im-jí, to cut sunk characters, as on wooden blocks, &c.

koah chhiū<sup>n</sup>-kha, to undermine a wall, as a flood. kió khít-tsúi koah-tó, the bridge was broken down by the flood.

moá<sup>n</sup>-koah, a stick with a hooked iron blade at the end, used for catching eels. koah-moá<sup>n</sup>, to plunge this instrument in the mud, and draw it up for eels.

sio-koah, meat cut from a roast pig. hiên-sio-koah, to present this meat to the guests, the last course of a feast in Manchoo style.

kòng-koah, common Chinese letter-paper.

koah, a company, clique, crowd, or herd. oang-koah, a set, company, or clique of persons (generally for somewhat bad purposes). i--ê oang-koah, his set of intimate associates or friends. kui-oang kui-koah, making a company, league, or confederacy; in cliques or companies. kui-koah, in herds or companies; a whole company. kui-kún kui-koah, in herds or companies. chit-toá-koah, a great crowd or lot at once.

koah-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to carry incense in procession.

koah [R. kat, name of a plant; Dolichos?], the plant from which grass-cloth is made. koah-pè, grass-cloth. chêng-tsúi-koah, common white grass-cloth.

ông-lái-koah, coarse summer cloth made from pine-apple leaves. chio-koah, a coarse yellow stuff of silk and cotton (v. chio).

péh-koah-koah, white, as complexion.

hoan-koah, a plant with a white edible root, somewhat like a turnip; has a palmate leaf in seven divisions. teh-kóng sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hoan-koah, what ever are you talking about!

koah-hún, flour made from the root of the "koah" plant, somewhat like arrow-root. kan-koah, the same root sliced; it is infused to make a cooling mucilaginous drink.

koai, tame; gentle. kà-koai, to tame, as by beating or scolding. bē-bat kà-koai, not yet tamed, as a wild lad. gín-ná koai-koai, the child is very good. beh-oh-koai, pi<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>-gōng, trying to be very clever at something, but spoiling it, as a lad or boy. koai-lái, bright and intelligent, as a child. koai-khá, obedient and clever, as a child. lêng-lí koai-khá, id. koai-khá gín-ná, a boy crafty, impudent, and foul-mouthed beyond his years. koai-khá pi<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>-gōng (C.), trying to play a clever part, but showing himself a fool, as a boy [same as following word?]

koai [R. disobedient; cf. koái]. kiên-koai, very dogged and crotchety; fond of opposing the wishes of others (v. kiên).

koai (P.), = A. koe, a melon, cucumber, or pumpkin; better "koē."

koái (R. id.), to swindle; to kidnap; to seduce or decoy into evil. koái-khí, to kidnap or decoy away. koái-láng-khí, id. koái-tái, to allure a woman or child to elope and run away. koái-pièn, to swindle; to kidnap; to allure to run away. koái-iú, to seduce into evil; to kidnap.

koái láng-ê-chí<sup>n</sup>, to swindle people out of their money. pái-láng koái--láng, id.

koái-lōng, to poison a man's mind against another; to delude into a quarrel with another.

葛

割

乖

拐

koái-kùn, a swindler; a kidnapper; a great rogue. koái-ông, a swindler or man who leads lads into wicked courses.

koái [R. a staff, = col. koái<sup>n</sup>], (also C. Cn., = A. koái<sup>n</sup>). lí thok-koái (A.), one of the eight genii (sien) represented as a beggar; worshipped specially by beggar ballad-singers. lí thek-koái (Cn.), id. thok-koái-sien (C.), id. kiáh-koái (Cn.), = A. kiáh koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to carry a staff.

koái [R. a sort of rush or grass; a surname]. koái-thong, a man of the Han dynasty who was a great talker. koái-thong-chhùi, a great talker.

koái (T.), = A. koà, a cover. chit-koái-á-bí, a small cover full of rice.

koái [R. strange; singular; a sort of demon; to be displeased, = col. kōe].

kièn-koái, to be somewhat displeased or offended, as at a slight fault or want of politeness. bóh--tit kièn-koái, do not be offended; forgive this fault. goá bō-koái--lí, I am not offended at you. bōe-koái--tit, he cannot well be found fault with, as his failure was unavoidable, &c. bók-koái kī--jiên, there is no reason for being offended, or taking it ill, as it is quite natural and proper.

kī-koái, strange (v. kī). ku-koái, id. chhit-ku poeh-koái, very strange. ku-koái-phiah, having a very strange peculiar temper or disposition, perverse, or apt to take notions. koái-phiah, id. ké-koái, eccentric; very peculiar in temper, e.g. not willing to do a friendly turn; very different from what was expected, as a thing. khá-koái, very strange or singular, as a discovery or invention; strange and unexpected, as result of illness or of affair. káu-koái, crafty and intriguing; changing one's conduct, so as to injure people unexpectedly. koái-sū, a very strange affair. koái-i<sup>n</sup> (R.), strange.

tai-keng siáu-koái, suddenly much terrified (v. keng). gí seng-koái, suspicion makes a man more and more suspicious, = gí, chek seng-koái, = gí léng-seng-koái.

tsok-koái, to injure, as a demon causing trouble, or as a man making secret opposition; to behave in an idle and wicked way, as young man. poeh-jī koái-koái, the combinations of the horoscope very extraordinary, so that the ordinary rules do not apply. koái-hong, a strange sudden violent wind (v. hong). koái-sút, magical diabolical arts. koái-bút, a very wicked demon which once was an animal, and now works mischief in the shape of that animal.

kúi-koái, spectres, ghosts, demons, &c. tsòe-kúi tsòe-koái, very crafty and injurious, with pretence of honesty or friendship. kúi-kúi koái-koái, id. kī<sup>n</sup>-kúi kī<sup>n</sup>-koái, utterly false. iau-siá kúi-koái, diabolical or magical arts, spectres, &c. iau-koái, spectres, goblins, demons, elves, fairies, &c. liáh iau-koái, to catch them, as priests do.

koái [R. koai, stubborn; contrary in temper], (C. kōe, in some phrases), to sprain, as the foot, especially by unexpectedly stepping lower than we thought. koái--tióh, id. kha koái--tióh, the ankle sprained.

koái-koái, not agreeing well; not as we could wish. koái-phiah, of a somewhat perverse or contrary disposition. koái-tsūn, perversely disobedient; intentionally bad-tempered and disobliging (worse than "koái-phiah"). kap-goá koái-tsūn, disobedient or doggedly contrary to me. koái-chiang, obstinate in disputing; determined to have his own way; very stubborn; esp.

said of an inferior. koái-tiang (C.), id. koái-lién, changed to the opposite mind (from having been of our mind) so as to disobey, distrust, or thwart us.

koái<sup>n</sup> (C. koa<sup>n</sup>), a cross-bar, as in furniture; a roost. hioh-koái<sup>n</sup>, to roost.

i-koái<sup>n</sup>, the cross-bars or rounds connecting the feet of a chair or stool; small bits of wood or bamboo in the arms of an arm-chair. toh-koái<sup>n</sup>, cross-bars connecting the feet of a table. chhng-koái<sup>n</sup>, cross-bars at head or foot of a bedstead. jia-hong-koái<sup>n</sup>, id.

koái<sup>n</sup> [R. koan, a gateway; to shut a door], (C. koa<sup>n</sup>; Cn. kúi<sup>n</sup>), to shut, as a door; to imprison. koái<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup>, to imprison in the worse prison (v. ka<sup>n</sup>). koái<sup>n</sup>-koán, to confine in the less uncomfortable prison. koái<sup>n</sup> thang-á, to shut a window. koái<sup>n</sup>-mng, to shut the door. koái<sup>n</sup> tah-tah, to shut quite close, as door (v. tah).

koái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = kai<sup>n</sup>, = A. keng, the shoulder.

koái<sup>n</sup> (C. koán; Cn. kúi<sup>n</sup>), high; skilful, as doctor, or at games, &c.; good, as silver; powerful, as magic. koái<sup>n</sup>-kē, high and low; skilful and unskilful. koái<sup>n</sup>-lâu, a high building of more than one story.

koái<sup>n</sup>-tioh, skilful at anything; superior to others in skill. i-seng koái<sup>n</sup>, the doctor is skilful. kún-thâu koái<sup>n</sup>, skilful at boxing. kī koái<sup>n</sup>, good at chess. kiáu koái<sup>n</sup>, skilful at gambling. gún bō-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, the silver is not very good.

chit-tsoā koái<sup>n</sup>, one voyage in the year (is made by the junk) to the north (v. tsoā).

chhiú pàng-koái<sup>n</sup>, to act more gently or more mercifully towards a man than we had intended, or than he deserves. chhiú kiáh-koái<sup>n</sup>, to reach up high with the hand; to act gently or mercifully (v. kiáh).

koái<sup>n</sup> (R. kán), (C. koá<sup>n</sup>; Cn. kúi<sup>n</sup>), a stalk of grain or vegetables; (shaft of arrow or pen; beam of steelyard, &c.) chhài-koái<sup>n</sup>, stalk of vegetable. chhèng-koái<sup>n</sup>, the barrel of a gun. kī-koái<sup>n</sup>, a small flag-staff; a flag-staff of a simple kind without boxes, supports, &c. pit-koái<sup>n</sup>, shaft of a Chinese pen. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, shaft of a spear. chí<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, shaft of arrow, without shod or feathers. chhun chit-ki-koái<sup>n</sup>, having quite lost its point, as a Chinese pen.

chhín-koái<sup>n</sup>, the beam of a steelyard. téng-á-koái<sup>n</sup>, beam of small steelyard.

koái<sup>n</sup> (R. koái), (C. Cn. koái), a staff; a stick. koái<sup>n</sup>-á, a walking-stick. tuh koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to feel one's way with a stick in walking. thuh koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to lean on a stick. thok koái<sup>n</sup>-á, id.; also to feel one's way with it. lí-thok-koái<sup>n</sup>, one of the genii. kiáh koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to carry a stick.

lāng koái<sup>n</sup>-á-hoe, to flourish one's stick with joy, as a beggar (said in derision of a man making too much demonstration of joy, or of actors). khít-chiáh lāng koái<sup>n</sup>-á-hoe, id.

koái<sup>n</sup>-á-gún, Bolivian dollars. beh-siú<sup>n</sup> koái<sup>n</sup>-á-gún, said in joke of a man going to strike another with a staff.

chhiah koái<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, very poor. chhun chit-ki-koái<sup>n</sup>, very poor and having no relations at all (s. "stalk," to which perhaps this last group may belong).

koái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. koá, a small quantity (enclitic).

koái<sup>n</sup> (R. koàn), (C. koàn; Cn. kúi<sup>n</sup>), accustomed; habituated. ôe-koái<sup>n</sup>, he will get accustomed to it. ta<sup>n</sup> koái<sup>n</sup>--lah, now he has got accustomed to it. kóng-koái<sup>n</sup>, said constantly, as a phrase or word commonly used. m̄-koái<sup>n</sup>, not accustomed. m̄-koái<sup>n</sup>-si, id. koái<sup>n</sup>-si, accustomed; habituated; experienced

拐

前

怪

杆

關

高

桿桿

拐

乖

慣

and accustomed to. koài<sup>n</sup>-sì sêng tsū-jiên, habit become a second nature.

koài<sup>n</sup> (R. hiên), (C. koān; Cn. küi<sup>n</sup>), a Hien city, or district, or mandarin of it; a county or district. hái-têng-koài<sup>n</sup>, the city or district or mandarin of Hái-têng.

koài<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, the chief city of a county or district. koài<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, the district mandarin. koài<sup>n</sup>-tsú, id. koài<sup>n</sup>-ôh, the Confucian temple of a district; the literary mandarin of the district. hun-koài<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin of a subdivision of a district; the Fun-hien. koài<sup>n</sup>-sêng, id. hú-koài<sup>n</sup>, department and district; prefect and district mandarin.

koài<sup>n</sup> (C. kōe). oai<sup>n</sup>-koài<sup>n</sup>, to get a little money out of a man (without any idea of repayment) by constant asking or begging; to extort small sums, as underlings of yamuns. lán bō-oai<sup>n</sup> bō-koài<sup>n</sup>, we don't ask a cash of his money; we feel quite independent of him and his wealth. chhit-oai<sup>n</sup> poeh-koài<sup>n</sup>, to get money out of people in all sorts of ways.

koài<sup>n</sup>, noise, as of breaking wood. koài<sup>n</sup>--chit-ê, sudden sound, as of a piece of wood breaking. koài<sup>n</sup>-koài<sup>n</sup>-kiò, sound of a creaking lid or door, or of a chair creaking, when a man does not sit still. koài<sup>n</sup>-koài<sup>n</sup>-háu, id.

bōh-tit-koài<sup>n</sup>, don't talk in that way! esp. said to an inferior speaking of what should not be spoken of at all, or talking on when he should stop.

kōng-koài<sup>n</sup>, not agreeing well together, at variance, as persons; legs of unequal length.

koák, sound of drinking.

koan [R. an old bachelor or widower]. koan-koá<sup>n</sup> kē-tók, the four classes of solitary persons to be compassionated, viz.: an old man with no wife; a widow; an orphan; a childless old man, with no near relatives.

koan [R. name of a bird]. tē-koan, a sort of bird; a kind of red flower. tē-koan-hoe, that flower. âng-tē-koan, id.

koan [R. kun, an army]. koan-chiòng, spirit soldiers of the gods (v. chiòng).

koan [R. to look at carefully; to observe], to observe carefully with a view to certain actions, e.g. to watch the stroke-oar or the state of the waves; to watch against thieves or loss.

koan-im, the goddess Kwan-yin (v. im).

koan-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to look at attentively, as a view or a man's conduct. sam-koan ngé-hok, to examine over and over very carefully. koan lāng--ê ì-sù, to make out a man's intention by observing his conduct carefully. koan thâu-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to observe the stroke-oar (in China the bow-oar) so as to take the stroke correctly. koan éng-sè, to observe the state of the waves, as in rowing.

koan-san goán-súi, to go about looking at scenery for amusement. koan thien-siòng, to look at atmospheric phenomena or the heavenly bodies. biên-biên siòng-koan, looking speechlessly at one another, as when unable to ward off imminent danger.

khó-koan-hong, to examine the literati of a place, giving bursaries or scholarships (not examination for degrees).

koan [R. id., = col. "koi<sup>n</sup>," to shut], a gateway; a barrier or pass with a gate, as of a custom-house; relating to; a surname; to perform certain Taoist incantations for calling spirits; to talk over, seduce, or wheedle by plausible talk.

koan-ki, to perform Taoist incantations (burning paper, reciting prayers, &c.), to call the spirit of an idol to the mediums who write oracles by a peach branch (v. ki). koan-tāng, to make incantations to call the spirit to a (tāng-chí) sorcerer. koan-pūt, do, either for writing or for a sorcerer, in presence of an idol. koan-lién, to recite prayers and burn paper to bring the spirit of the idol to the image in its sedan.

gâu-koan--lāng, skilful at talking over people (formerly unwilling) to do what one wishes, as a plausible swindler, or as a seducer (fig. from the priest getting the spirit to consent by his incantations). khít--i koan--khì, to be persuaded at last by his plausible talk to go to do some bad or ruinous thing, though at first unwilling.

toā-láu-koan, a great swindler with very plausible ways.

kau-koan, to have intercourse with in trade. ki-koan, an intricate contrivance; versatility and ability to adapt one's plans to emergencies (v. ki).

thong-koan, to remove a feeling like dyspepsia by medicines taken like snuff (v. thong).

kè-koan, to pass the custom-house, as a document; to get safely through certain critical periods when the influence of malicious spirits is very dangerous to infants. chiáh bōe-kè-koan, unable to swallow.

koan-soah, demons very dangerous to infants at certain periods called "koan." pah-jit-koan, the crisis at one hundred days after birth, very dangerous to infants. hoān--tiòh pah-jit-koan, to be unwell at that crisis. hoān--tiòh lūi-koan, child in danger of being struck by lightning.

sú-būn-koan, the gates of the invisible world. kúi-būn-koan, id. jip kúi-būn-koan, to die; to be as good as dead, as a man in most imminent danger without any hope of life; or as a man who is quite gone to the bad in wicked courses.

lē-koan, a journey as regards its course or route; a bill pasted up telling the time and route of an idolatrous incense-procession. lē-koan-pái, a tablet of wicker-work and paper giving that information. tah lē-koan, to paste up such a bill. chhau lē-koan, to copy such a bill. lē-koan-ké, the drum that heads the procession and leads the way.

koan-sim, to count important; to have one's mind much set upon a thing; careful and attentive, as at work or study. ū-koan-sim, carefully remembering or considering and making exertion. ū-koan-chhiet, having importance in relation to a matter or thing (v. chhiet). koan-chiet, to have underhand dealings, as with mandarins (v. chiet). bō-koan kín-làu (r.), of no consequence.

koan-chiò, to have reference to, as one passage of a book to another, &c.

koan-siáp, related to; having connection with. bō-koan-siáp, having no connection with it (cf. kan-siáp). koan-hē, relation to consequences, esp. evil or dangerous; responsibility for an action. sī lí--ê koan-hē, the responsibility is yours. bō-koan-hē, not involving any responsibility or danger of bad consequences. ū-koan-hē, of grave importance, as a matter that has or may have serious consequences. koan-hē put-siáu, the consequences are or may be very serious. koan-hē siòng-tiòng, id.

hái-koan, a custom-house (only said of the more important custom-houses); chief commissioner or collector of customs at a port (often applied improperly to consuls). sin sè-koan, the new foreign custom-house.

縣

鰥

鵑
軍 觀

關

hoan-koan, id. koan-sè, customs duties. chē-koan, to be on duty at the custom-house at the hours of business, as a customs officer.

koan-ài, a pass having a gate. koan-mûng, the gate of a pass or harrier. koan-hông, to watch or guard carefully, as against thieves or robbers, or against loss; the oblong seal of some mandarins, as Tautai and others, of more recent institution than those having a square seal. pé-koan, to guard a pass or harrier-gate. siú-koan, id.

gâu-túg chih-koan, skilful at putting the best face on a story or argument, so as to suit the circumstances, with no regard to truth. gâ-koan bōe-khui, the teeth locked, as in a faint, or when near death.

koan-tè, Kwanti, the god of war (much worshipped by merchants and shopkeepers). koan-tè-iâ, id., = koan-tè-kun, = koan-seng-tè. koan-kong, id., = koan-ló-iâ, = koan-hún-tióng. koan-pêng, his adopted son, who attends him. koan-to, a peculiar hooked spear or halbert. bú toā-ki koan-to (to wield a large spear), said of having considerable influence or a good business. kiáh toā-ki koan-to, id. koan-to-teng, a lantern with a hook in front (much used by children at the feast of lanterns).

koan [R. a coffin, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. ün-koan, to convey home the coffined corpse of a man who has died far from home. thêng-koan, to keep a coffined body long unhurried waiting for a lucky time and place. khng-koan, id. hē-koan, to have such coffins lying in it, as a dead-house. tsóng-koan, to hurry a body in a coffin; opposed to "tsóng-kim," hurrying a jar of hones. kiap-koan, to plunder ornaments, &c., from graves.

koan-kok, a coffin (properly outer and inner coffin). koan-kok i-khim, coffin and shroud. koan-kiú, a coffin containing a body. si-siá koan-bók, to give coffins gratuitously. koan-tà, a pall. koan-khut, the cavity of an old grave from which the coffin has been removed.

koan-thâu, the head of a coffin. koan-thâu-tsoá, idolatrous paper presented to the relatives after a death. sàng koan-thâu-tsoá, to make presents of it, as friends do. koan-bé, the foot of a coffin.

koan [R. a cap, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. i-koan put-chéng, clothes and cap ragged or dirty. i-koan put-chê, id. i-koan khim-siú, said of a graduate acting wickedly and lasciviously like a beast. sien tióng-i-koan, hē tióng-jín, to value men according to their dress. koan-tài (R.), cap and felt of mandarin. ka-koan chin-lók (R.), may you rise to high rank (written on doors). kiú-lióng-koan, a royal crown with nine dragons. chhióng-thien-koan, id. hōng-koan hē-kòe (C.), female head-dress used at marriage. lêng-koan hōng-kòe (C.), id.

koan [R. to subscribe money; to purchase a degree or rank]. koan-tôe (C. kien-tè), to subscribe money. koan kun-su, to promise to pay so much of contributions for government purposes.

koan-pan, to purchase a degree or office. koan-koa<sup>n</sup>, to purchase official rank. koan-kóng, to purchase the title of kong-seng. koan-kám, to purchase the title of kám-seng.

koan [R. a mandarin; a ruler, = col. koa<sup>n</sup>]. ngé-koan, the features, namely, the ears, eyes, eyebrows, nose, and mouth. ngé-koan put-chê, having some ugly blemish, especially about the features. ngé-koan toan-chiá<sup>n</sup>, features regular and without any blemish. sù-chi ngé-koan, the members of the body, including the head. ngé-koan sù-chi, id.

thien-koan, the spirit that rules the sky or heaven; his birthday is 1. 15. thien-koan tái-tè, id. thien-koan sù-hok, may the ruler of heaven give happiness. tē-koan, the spirit that rules earth and hell. tē-koan-si<sup>n</sup>, his birthday on 7. 15. súi-koan, the spirit that rules the sea; birthday is 10. 15. sam-koan tái-tè, these three rulers, = sam-kài-kong.

koan-ka tsú-tē, younger brothers, sons, and nephews of mandarins, when young. tham-koan ù-li, avaricious mandarins. koan iú lióng-khé, a mandarin has two mouths (in allusion to the form of the character, which is like two mouths under one cap). koan-chim (R.), proper rules of official conduct (v. chim). it-sè koan, kiú-sè oan, nine generations at enmity because of the wicked conduct of their ancestor when in office.

koan (C.), = A. koái<sup>n</sup>, high.

koan (R. id.), authority; power; (to act according to circumstances or beyond instructions). ũ-koan, to have authority. bō-koan, having no power or authority. koan-lêng, authority. koan-pêng, id. koan-sè (C. si), id.

peng-koan tsái-chhiú, to have authority to manage matters for others, e.g. in a company. ũ peng-koan, do.; also, to have military authority. chiáng peng-koan, id. (both senses).

koan-pièn, going somewhat beyond one's authority in order to accommodate one's action to an urgent emergency. chióng-koan, id. hêng-koan (R.), id.

koan--ê, temporarily acting as a substitute or in a vacancy till a new man he appointed (said, e.g., of employé, or teacher, or official. chiám-koan, to be acting as a temporary substitute (v. chiám). chhiám-koan, to usurp authority. chhoàn-koan, id. tsoan-koan, having the sole management of an affair or business (v. tsoan). tong-koan, having the control or management at the time; having much influence just then.

lōng-koan, to make a bad use (as for his own ends) of authority committed to him, or of the influence he has with a powerful superior who has confidence in him, yet keeping within the letter of the law. lōng i-ê-koan, id.

koán (R. id.), a public hall or office; a school; a lodging; a prison for minor offences, or for simply confining without punishment.

tse-koán, to rent a lodging. kong-koán, a sort of hotel for mandarins and literati (said politely for "your inn"). kheh-koán, an inn; a lodging-house. lí-ê kù-koán, your school; your lodgings or hotel. koán-tē, school premises. koán-tē tá-lóh, where is your school? ũ koán-tē, to have a school or school premises. bō-koán-tē, to have no school or no premises for one. khek-koán, a place for teaching songs. kún-thâu-koán, a school for boxing. keng-chi<sup>n</sup>-koán, a school for archery. khiá-koán, to teach boxing, &c., at one's own gymnastic school.

hōe-koán, a sort of club-house or exchange; the meeting-house of a society called a "hōe." tē-koán, a refreshment-room for drinking tea. i-koán (f.), an hospital. hi-koán, an actor's lodging-house. ték-jit-koán, stall or shop of a man who chooses lucky days.

ka<sup>n</sup>-koán, prisons in general, the more and less uncomfortable. khoá<sup>n</sup>-koán, to have charge of the less uncomfortable prison. khoà<sup>n</sup>-koán toā-iâ, the

棺

冠

捐

官

權

館

keeper of it. siu-koán, to imprison in it (s. rule; manage). siu-lòh-koán, id. lòh-koán, id. koai<sup>n</sup>-koán, to keep imprisoned in it. ah-koán, id. tsò-khoài-koán, the rooms for the underlings on each side at the outermost part of a yamun.

hiòng-koán, a custom-house (v. hiòng). iâm-koán, government salt-store and custom-house for salt; the official in charge of it. pò-sè-koán, an office at the custom-house where vessels report themselves. pò-toa<sup>n</sup>-koán, id. bûn-su-koán, a sort of post-office, properly for official despatches.

koán-hu, a man who provides and cooks feasts to order; keeper of a cook-shop.

koán [R. koan, to subscribe money]. û-koán-kok, to have one's food as well as salary, as the teacher has in some schools.

koán [R. to roll up, = col. kúg, boán]. koán-chien, a sort of fried cake (v. chien).

koán [R. to rule; a tube, = col. kúg, kóng, kè, koá<sup>n</sup>], to rule; to manage; to control; wind instruments; some kinds of songs.

put-koán, no matter which. put-koán sim-mih-lâng, no matter who or whom. m-koán, no matter which. m-koán-i, no matter; don't mind (him or it). chek-koán, as it pleases you. chek-koán kóng, speak out fearlessly; say what you please. m-sái lí-koán, you need not meddle. thèng-koán-i, you may rule or punish him as you please.

chit-hâng koán chit-hâng, one part (as of a dose) corrects one part (as of the disease).

koán-lí, to have the management; to manage, as a business or affair. chiáng-koán, id. chióng-koán, id. koán-hat, to rule; to govern. koán-kè, to oversee and manage for another; to watch over and take charge of. tsóng-koán, to have the general management over a number of persons employed, as a wealthy man's steward. chiau-koán, to oversee or take charge of, as a house. siu-koán, to have authority over, as things (v. siu), (s. prison). sêng-koán, to succeed to and have control over, as property (v. sêng). kiam-koán, to manage two offices or duties at once.

keng-koán, subordinates in a yamun, at the head of the several departments of business (v. keng). koán-hú, a soldier of good standing; he often has three or four raw men under him. koán-ka<sup>n</sup>, to superintend a prison, as a very small mandarin does for a high mandarin.

koán-sū, a steward, as in a foreign house. koán-ke, head-servant or steward. koán-ke-pô, a house-keeper. koán-siàu, a steward who manages accounts. koán-gûn, a man who has charge of the money.

hiên-koán, stringed and wind instruments. oi<sup>n</sup> hiên-koán, to make joyful music on them. hoá<sup>n</sup> hiên-koán, id. thit-thô hiên-koán, to amuse one's self with them. phín-koán, an instrument like a flute along with three sorts of guitars, namely, pí-pé, sam-hièn, and jì-hièn. tông-koán, a clarinet along with these three guitars.

háh-koán, in tune, as instruments, with each other or with the voice. chhèng-koán, to sing very high notes. pak-koán, songs in the mandarin dialect. lâm-koán, songs in the local dialect. phah lâm-pak-koán, to play all sorts of musical instruments.

koàn [R. to string together; to connect, = col. kng]. koán-chhoàn, logically connected, as the context, or as the parts of a discourse or composition. lái-chi<sup>n</sup> koán bú-chi<sup>n</sup>, compound interest. tsōe-ok koán-boán (r.), measure of wickedness come to the full.

koàn [R. accustomed to; habituated, = col. koài<sup>n</sup>], (also C., = A. koài<sup>n</sup>). koàn-siòk, experienced and very skilful; thoroughly acquainted with a matter or business, &c. (s. family). koàn-lièn, id. koàn-sék (P.), id.

sip-koàn, sêng tsū-jièn, what is constantly practised till habitual becomes natural.

koàn [R. koàn, the cheek-bones], the projecting part of the cheek at the cheek-bone. koàn-kut, the cheek-bone. i-ê-koàn khah-toā, his cheek-bones project very much.

koàn [R. to pour; to make a libation], to pour into the throat or similar aperture; to stuff into the throat; to pour (melted lead) into a cavity; to come through a passage or hole, as wind.

koàn-kūi, filled with water, as the wall of an ill-built house. koàn-lâng, to gather matter, as a boil or abscess.

koàn-hong, to be blown upon by a draught of wind, as some diseases are said to be caused. hong tui-tá-lòh koàn--lái, from what place does that draught of wind come?

koàn-iên, to pour melted lead into a cavity; dollars thus adulterated. chhia-koàn--ê, a dollar hollowed out and filled with lead.

koàn-chiú, to pour liquor down the throat, as in large quantities, or down another's throat. koàn-ióh, to pour medicine down the throat, as of another. koàn-tsúi, to pour water into the bowels of an animal that has been killed, so that it is absorbed into the flesh and makes it heavier for sale. koàn-tsúi ê-bah, pork that has been made thus to absorb water, as adulteration. koàn-kui, to put heavy things into the crop of a fowl to make it weigh heavier for sale. koàn-soa, to put sand thus into a fowl's crop. koàn-thih-sái, to make a fowl swallow a sort of heavy stones for this purpose.

koàn-tièn (R.), to pour out a libation in worship. koàn-tōe, to pour a libation on the ground. êng-chiú koàn-tōe, to make a libation of spirituous liquor.

koàn [R. a jug, vase, or small jar]. tâng-koàn, a brass jug or jar. siah-koàn, a pewter jug.

hé-koàn, a jar full of inflammable matter (called a "stink-pot") thrown into vessels by pirates.

tím-koàn, an earthenware vessel used for stewing things, placed within an outer dish of boiling water. thâm-koàn, a spittoon. chhâ-khe koàn-á, a small earthen vessel that holds a little wood and rice presented to idols. lêng-koàn, an earthenware vessel for water, shaped like a kettle, with dragons on it. tsúi-koàn, a jug or small jar for water; a ewer. kún-tsúi-koàn, a jug for hot water. ióh-koàn, a small jar for medicine. iú-koàn, an oil-jug. thng-koàn, a sugar-dish. bák-tsúi-koàn, an ink-bottle.

tê-koàn, a tea-pot. tê-koàn-sui, the spout of a tea-pot. tê-koàn-chhùi, the very end of the spout. tê-sim-koàn, a tea-canister.

koàn [R. to take care of; to love; family]. ke-koàn, wife and children. û-ke û-koàn, to have a family. lâu-ke-koàn, my old wife. sió-ke-koàn, a concubine. chhin-koàn, mandarin's wife and connections by marriage.

koàn-siòk, wife and family (s. accustomed).

koàn [R. to cap; to be superior; by change of tone

捐
捲
管

慣

灌

確
罐

貫

眷

冠

from "koan," a cap]. koàn-tiū<sup>n</sup>, to be the best essay in the examination; to overcome in a contest, as a horse in a race, or as a game-cock or quail at a fight, &c.

koàn [R. koàn, koán, a roll; a volume, = col. kng, kng], a small volume or section of a volume. tē-jī-koàn, second volume or second division of large volume. koàn-jī, id.

koàn [R. koàn, khoàn]. khòe-koàn, deeds of sale or mortgage.

koàn (C.), = A. koān, a district or hien city, county, or mandarin.

koàn [R. wearied; exhausted]. koān-sin koān-sin, dull and wanting animation, as man when unwell or much exhausted, or depressed by some calamity. phī-koān (R.), exhausted; faint. khùn-koān (R.), id.

koat [R. to pare; to scrape]. koat-siét, a tongue-scraper.

koat — koat-tsoát, to cut off intercourse.

koat [R. to determine; to behead]. koat-toàn, determined. koat-i, id. iū-ū put-koat, undecided; wavering. koat-sí-chièn, to fight for life or death.

koat-hoàn, to behead a criminal.

koat — koat-bêng, a medicine used for inflamed eyes and for boils (v. bêng).

koat [R. a rule or receipt for doing some difficult or secret sort of work], mnemonic rhymes or antithetic sentences, as for medical prescriptions, or for teaching children the shapes of words. liām-koat, to repeat such mnemonic sentences. koa-koat, mnemonic rhymes for any purpose. pi-koat, secrets, esp. trade secrets, taught only to the initiated. sióng-thoân ê pi-koat, secrets of business or profession handed down from one generation to another, esp. medical or surgical.

tek-koat, to hit on the right plan; all right and just as we would wish it; suitable to effect the purpose. m̄-tek-koat, not arranged as it should have been, as an affair; not suitable for the work or business. êng-i, m̄-tek-koat, he is not the suitable man to use.

chip-sí-koat, obstinate. liáh-sí-koat, id. tsō-sí-koat, id. sí-koat ê siêng-lí, a steady moderate trade, that does not need much skill, and that has regular though small profits.

koat, to slap; to clap on, as mortar. koat-chhiú, to clap the hands. koat chhiú-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to slap a child's palm with our palm. koat chhiú-phóe, to slap the cheek. koat hi-á, to slap the ears.

koat-he, to clap cement (as on a floor) with a sort of trowel, so as to make it smooth and hard. koat-thê, to clap mortar on a wall. koat-hún, to paint one's face very thick.

péh-koat-koat, very white, as whitewash.

koat [R. to include]. pau-koat, to include; inclusive. kai-koat (r.), all that is contained in a thing; all that is included. kai-koat tsái-lái (r.), id.

koat (C.), = A. khiet. kúi-koat, deceitful.

koe — súi-koe, a large edible frog. súi-ke (C.), id. kap-koe-á (C.), a tadpole.

koe — koe-lun, an edible gray sea-slug.

koē (C.), in several tones and words, = A. koa.

koe [R. kui, a tortoise, = col. ku]. koe-kioh, a small marine animal shaped like a tortoise's foot.

koe — koe-bin (C.), = A. hām-bin, talking in sleep. lí teh-koe-bin (C.), you are telling what is not true.

koe — koe-liu, very mean and low in money matters.

koe (R. ke), (C. ke, Cn. kōe), a fowl; a hen or cock. sio-koe, roast fowl.

hé-koe, the lock of a gun; a turkey. khī-koe, a pheasant. thī-koe, id. tī-koe, id. chhān-koe-á, a small bird somewhat like a partridge or quail.

tsàu-koe, a small speckled cricket, found in cooking places.

koe-bú, a hen that has laid eggs. hái-koe-bú, a sort of ship-broker (v. bú). koe-kak, a cock. koe-kak-chhi, the thistle. chhio-koe, an entire cock. iam-koe, a capon. iam-koe-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk in a crouching attitude with slow steps; to walk on one's hands. iam-koe thàn-hōng-pe, a capon trying to fly like the phoenix! koe-á, a young chicken. chhut-si koe-á, a chick lately hatched. koe-noá<sup>n</sup>, a young fowl, as one that has not yet hatched chickens. koe-thô-á, chickens not yet weighing one Chinese pound. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kun-koe, a good-sized fowl, weighing above a Chinese pound.

toā-keh-koe, a large sort of fowl from Shanghai. tiâu-koe, id. thài-hô-koe, a small sort of fowl like a bantam. óe-kha-koe, id. (lit. short-legged). iū-mûg-koe, a sort of white fowl. jiōng-koe, id. (v. jiōng); also, to stew a fowl very soft.

koe-mûg, hen's feathers (v. mûg). koe-kū, a cock's spur. koe-kè (C. ke-kòe), a cock's crest or comb (v. kè). koe-kha-lân, a sweet flower shaped like a hen's foot (v. lân). koe-tà, a basket without bottom for covering fowls like a coop. koe-tàu, id. koe thí, the cock crows (v. thí). koe-tái, an insect that lives on fowls. koe-ko, soft yellowish fowl's dung (v. ko). koe-sái, dark-coloured fowl's dung, harder than the above. koe-sái-tin, a bad-smelling medicinal creeper.

koe-bák, fond of sleep, and going soon to bed. koe-heng, having a projecting breast (v. heng). koe-chhi-táu, projecting ends of beams below the roof, shaped like a fowl's tongue. koe-chhiú, a double-headed pin for making a rope fast. tiô-kha-koe, to hop, as children do. thiâu-kha-koe, id. chhiāng-kha-ke (C.), id.

koe (R. koa), (C. koa; P. kōe, koi), a melon, pumpkin, or cucumber. koe-pi<sup>n</sup>, a trellis for cucumbers, &c. koe-chí, melon seeds, sold salted. koe-liām, a cut of a melon. chit-liām-koe, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-koe, condiment made of the pumpkin called "am-koe" and the sauce called "tāu-chiū<sup>n</sup>".

si-koe, the water-melon (v. si). chhài-koe, the long soft cucumber, much used as a vegetable. chhiú-koe (Cn.), id. chhài-koe-chhiu, cucumber tendrils. kim-koe, the pumpkin. chhi-koe, the cucumber. khé-koe, the rough bitter cucumber. am-koe, a long sort of pumpkin, much used salted. siau-koe (Cn.), id. tang-koe, a very long pumpkin almost like a cucumber (Cucurbita Pepo); a preparation of it in sugar. tang-koe-liāu, this fruit prepared with sugar as a sweetmeat. âng-koe (F.), a small red edible fruit.

koe sòe, chí sek (melon small, but seeds ripe), said of a short man who looks younger or less knowing than he really is.

koe (R. ke), (C. ke, Cn. kōe), a street. koe-lē, id. koe-chhi, a street of shops; a market in a street. koe-kū, id. ke-ki (C.), id. goā-koe, streets in the suburbs. lāi-koe, streets within the walls of a city. sip-jī-koe, a place where two streets cross at right angles.

鷄

瓜

街

chhā-koe, a policeman. tsáu-koe-á, street fortune-tellers, quacks, &c. tsáu-koe-á-sien, id.

koe [R. kai, stone steps], (C. ke; Cn. kõe). gim-koe, the stone step at the foot of the wall of a house.

koe (C. ke; Cn. kõe), to moor vessels close side by side in one mass, by anchors at stem and stern and cables fastening the vessels together. koe-pang, id. koe chit-pang, id. koe-oá, to join a vessel in this way to another, or to the whole mass of vessels.

thâu-koe, the rope at a boat's head, used for tying the boat to the common rope called "káu-soh."

koe (C. koe). âng-koe-hi, a red edible fish, = (Cn.), kim-lêng-hí. ñg-koe-hí (T.), id.

âng-koe-hi khít-chhùi-gē, said of a man scolding or talking foolishly so as to injure himself, when silence would have left him safe; for this fish makes a sound which attracts the fisherman.

koe (C. ke). koe-jiú, a tree somewhat like the elm (v. jiú).

koe [R. hái, a sort of fish], (C. kè; Cn. kõe), salted or pickled fish or shell-fish (the name of the fish or shell-fish is prefixed). koe-chiap, brine of pickled fish or shell-fish. si<sup>n</sup>-kõe, to pickle, as fish or shell-fish. hi-kõe, pickled fish. hē-kõe, pickled shrimps. hē-kõe-phoá, do. broken down small.

koe [R. kái, to separate the parts of a thing; to untie; to loose; to deliver; to cure; to explain], (C. kè; Cn. kõe), to counteract, as incantations; to loose from a vow; to explain, as a word or clause.

koe-seh (C. kè-soeh), to explain, as the meaning of a book; to translate book phrases into colloquial. tióh-kõe chiah-ōe-hêng, it must be explained to be understood, e.g. an inuendo or a pun. koe-bêng, to explain, as a phrase. khui-kõe (Cn.), to explain plainly.

koe-khng (C. kè-khng), to exhort to reconciliation, or not to grieve too much.

koe-goân, to perform a vow of the form "hoat-goân" (v. goân). koe-tsoá, to take away the binding power of an oath by ceremonies. koe-khiò, to counteract incantations by other rites.

koe-úi, to compel the enemy to raise a siege; also, to deliver from trouble, as by frightening the opponent, &c. (v. úi). siau-tsai koe-eh, to remove or prevent calamities. koe-bün, to remove sadness, e.g. by amusement (v. bün). koe-tók, to remove eruptions, &c., supposed to be caused by some unhealthy food.

koe [R. kái, to correct], (C. kè; Cn. kõe), to correct; to repair; to alter; to change. koe-chhiá, to mend thoroughly; to repair and make all right. koe-pi<sup>n</sup>, to reform one's self (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). koe-oá, to change, esp. for the better. koe-miá<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, to change one's name and surname. koe-sim oá<sup>n</sup>-hêng, to reform one's heart and life. koe-thâu oá<sup>n</sup>-bin, to make an old thing look new, as furniture, house, or character; to change from wicked to good conduct. koe-thâu oá<sup>n</sup>-bé, to make an old thing look quite new by a thorough repair. chhek-thâu oá<sup>n</sup>-bé, id., e.g. as furniture. koe-sak (Cn.), to cast off, as bad habits.

koe-kè, to marry again, as a widow. koe-chiá, to correct and write out a fair copy of a document. koe-chheh, to correct or alter a book. koe-jit, to appoint a different day. chiong-sam koe-gē (to change 3 to 5), to deceive.

koe (C.) koe-chí, = A. ké-chí, fruit.

koe (C.), = A. ké, cakes.

koe (C.), = A. ké, to prop up slightly.

koe [R. koài, strange; to be displeased], (C. kõe), to be offended at. kièn-kõe, to be offended at, esp. slightly. koe--lâng, to be angry at a man; to bring trouble or evil on a man, as idols or demons when displeased. hē-lâng-kõe, to give offence to a man; to provoke his displeasure, either intentionally or unintentionally. m-thang sa<sup>n</sup>-kõe, do not be offended, as at him or at me. bóh-tit-kõe, do not be offended. goá put-chí-kõe--i, I am much offended at him. bōe-kõe--tit, do not be offended at him, for he was not to blame, and should not be found fault with. bōe-kõe--tit-i, id.

koe [R. crafty], káu-kõe, cunning and constantly intriguing.

koe (R. kài), (C. kè; Cn. kõe), the itch and similar cutaneous diseases (but never "itchy; to itch," which is "chiū"). koe-ióh, medicine for itch. si<sup>n</sup>-kõe, to have the itch. soa-kõe, itch in small patches all over the skin. noā<sup>n</sup>-kõe, large sores of itch. koe-thê (C. kè-thê), large spots of itch about size of a dollar. koe-thê-á, do. rather smaller.

koe—lâu-kõe, debris floating on the surface of the tide.

koe [R. kài, a boundary; a world], (C. kè; Cn. kõe). si-kõe, in the four quarters; everywhere; from every side; in every direction. toā-si-kõe, everywhere; very abundant. toā-bú si-kõe, id. (v. bú). toā-ri-siak-kõe (Cn.), id. si-kõe-kiá, to go about everywhere or in every direction. si-kõe-tsáu, run about everywhere.

koe [R. hái, instruments]. ke-kõe, instruments; tools; implements; weapons. ién ke-kõe, to fence; to exercise with weapons. ke-kõe-thâu, tools; implements.

koe [R. a sort of tree]. koe-peh, an evergreen shrub like juniper. koe-liú, a tree somewhat like an elm. koe-chhiú, a large tree from which planks are made. koe-chhâ, wood from it, very large and straight.

koe (C.), = A. kè, to cross over; an occasion. éng-kõe, usually (said of past time). siang-kõe, usually. koe-tsúi, = A. kè-tsúi, to cross the water, &c. &c.; also, = A. léng-lóng, the covered sides of the middle court of a house.

koe (C.), = A. kè, a female's head-dress; the queue, esp. of a woman; crest of a cock, &c.

koe (C.), = A. kè, to send under escort to a mandarin, as a criminal or money.

koe [R. í, i, easy; by change of tone from "ék," to change, = col. iáh], (C. kè; Cn. kõe), easy; quickly. koe-iau, getting soon hungry after eating. koe-àm, getting soon dark, as a cloudy or rainy day. khah-koe-chio, readily going with another when asked, either to good or bad. khah-koe-kóng, readily doing what one is asked, right or wrong. láng koe-lâu, man soon grows old. tán-lâng koe-lâu, when waiting for and expecting a man, a short time seems an age.

koe (C.) oai<sup>n</sup>-kõe, = A. oai<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, to defraud or get money out of people.

koe (C.), = A. koái, to sprain; perverse. chiah-kõe, insubordinate.

階

鮭

解

改

怪

瘡疥

界

械

檜

過

易

閣

茗閣
蘭谷

櫛穀

廓郭各國

kóe<sup>n</sup> (P.) chiú-kóe<sup>n</sup>, = A. chiú-koá<sup>n</sup>, a widow; but other phrases remain "koá<sup>n</sup>."

koeh — ε-koeh, a fish like the ka-láh, but shorter and darker. koeh-hî (C.), a sort of fish.

koeh [R. koat, to scrape], (C.) to strip off the bark, as from stalks of hemp; also, = A. kuih, to rub hard in curing a disease.

koeh [R. kiap, a pod or legume], (Cn. T.), = A. ngoeh. tâu-koeh (Cn. T.), a long-podded legume.

koeh (T.), = A. ngoeh, to take up with pincers, tongs, &c.

koeh (C.), = A. keh, a surname.

koeh [R. khiet, a sort of knife; cf. kiuh], (C. keh, keh). koeh-á, a reaping-hook; a pruning-hook. koeh-á-to, id. chháu-koeh, a knife for cutting grass and brushwood for fuel. chhâ-koeh (esp. Cn.), a cleaver for wood. koeh-siò-á (T.), a sheath for a grass-cutter's knife.

koeh [R. kiet, clean]. kng-koeh, smooth; not hairy; not rough. káu-koeh-sien, dirt hardened on the skin. káu-koeh-san (C.), id.

koeh (Cn. T.) koeh-hiú, = A. kiap-hiú, a lined warm coat.

koeh (C.), = A. kih. koeh-kau-thâu, the projecting corners of the cheeks below the eyes. koeh-kau-kut, the corner of the cheek-bone.

koeh (C.), = A. keh. koeh-hún, a sort of flour like arrow-root.

kóeh (C.) hàm-kóeh-kóeh, telling great lies.

kóeh — kiu-kóeh, very narrow about money matters, or afraid to meddle in an affair (v. kiu).

kóeh (Cn.), = A. thóeh. küi<sup>n</sup>-thâu kiu-kóeh, shoulders high, either naturally or shrugging. küi<sup>n</sup>-thâu kóeh-kóeh, id.

kóeh (Cn.), = A. ngóeh, to take under the arm. ká<sup>n</sup>-ká<sup>n</sup> kóeh-kóeh, carrying many things under the arms.

koh [R. kok, the part of a dress below the arm]. koh-ê, the part of a dress just below the arm (s. next word). tiâu-koh, arms of dress too tight at the armpits. chhah-koh, to put in triangular pieces of cloth in the armpits of a dress in making it.

koh [R. kok, the armpit]. koh-ê, the armpit (s. previous word). koh-ê-lang, id. koh-ê-khang, id.

koh (R. hok, = hók, = hù, to repeat), again; also, a second time; besides; (different).

koh-tsài, again; a second time; over again. tsài-koh, id. têng-koh, over again. iū-koh, also. koh-lái, to come again. koh-oáh, to live again. koh sa<sup>n</sup>-jit, on the third day (only two clear days intervening). beh-koh, going to do it again. beh-koh-tê, will you have some more tea? bô-koh, not a second time.

koh-khah-hó, still better, &c. kèng-koh-khah-hó, yet better still. kèng-koh-khah-thang, all the more ought.

koh-chit-ê, one more; another, in the sense of one additional (but another, in the sense of a different one, is "pát-ê").

koh-iū<sup>n</sup>, different; strange; unwell. siâng-bú koh-pê, having the same mother but different father. sâng-pê koh-bú, same father but different mother.

koh [R. kok, to wait; to delay, = col. koa]. tam-koh, to waste one's time (v. tam).

koh [R. kok], an ornamental platform, or small upper story of one room.

lōe-koh, the imperial council, like the cabinet or privy-council. jip-koh, to become a member of the cabinet. loán-koh, the tribunal where a mandarin sits.

lâu-koh, upper stories of several rooms or of one room. khí-lâu khí-koh, to build finely ornamented upper stories. khui-chhùi-koh, a small upper-room open on one side.

tsng-koh, an ornamental platform with finely-dressed young girls, or boys dressed as girls, carried in an idolatrous procession. koh-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. koh-toà<sup>n</sup>, girls, or boys representing them, carried on such a platform. kng-koh, to carry it in procession.

köh (Cn.) köh-hiú, = A. kiap-hiú, a warm-lined coat or jacket.

köh (Cn.), = A. keh, a surname.

kok [R. kok, kek, name of a plant]. kok-tát-pín, very coarse bamboo wicker-work like hurdles (v. tát).

kok [R. an ornamental platform, = col. koh]. kok-hā, your excellency; your honour (polite phrase used to a superior).

kok (R. id.) kok-tan, the red Amaryllis; the red lily. âng-kok-piét, id. kok-piét-hoe, the Amaryllis, esp. the white variety.

kok [R. a valley]. soa<sup>n</sup>-kok (R.), a valley. soa<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup> kok-lok-phāng, in a deep valley or glen far among the mountains.

kúi-kok-tsu, a famous diviner who lived in the time of Mencius, now worshipped by diviners. kúi-kok sien-si<sup>n</sup>, id., = kúi-kok sien-seng. kúi-kok sien-tsé, id.

kok [R. an outer coffin]. koan-kok, a double coffin (ancient form), outer and inner (v. koan).

kok [R. grain, = col. kak]. ngé-kok, the five grains; grain of all sorts in general; the crops. ngé-kok-ông, the god of agriculture (= hō-chek), made with a blue face. ngé-kok tai-tè, id. ngé-kok sien-tè (T.), id. ngé-kok hong-seng, crops abundant. chek-kok hông-ki, to collect grain against famine. chiên-kok su-iá, the private secretary (of a mandarin), who attends to land-tax and grain. hêng-bêng chiên-kok, the two private secretaries in yamun, who attend to legal cases and to the land-tax respectively.

kok-ú (rain for grain), the term that falls on or about April 20th. ū-koán-kok, to have food in addition to salary, as teachers in some schools who get their rice. kok-cheng, a medicine. kok-cheng-chí, id. kok-cheng-tsü (T.), id.

kok [R. wide, large]. ê-kok, the chin.

kok [R. the walled suburb of a city]. iú-hok, ku sêng-kok, the wealthy live in cities and suburbs (v. sêng).

kok (R. id.), each. kok-lâng, each man. kok-iū<sup>n</sup>, each kind. lêng-ku kok-sit, living separately, and each having his own meals.

kok (R. id.), a kingdom; a state; a country. pang-kok, id. kok-tê, id. kok-ka, a kingdom viewed as a family. goā-kok, foreign kingdoms or countries. hoan-kok, id. pún-kok, one's native country. pè-kok (R.), my native land. kúi-kok (R.), your honourable country. bân-kok, all nations. liét-kok, the several feudal kingdoms and states under the Chow

刮

契

潔

絡

絡

復

擱

dynasty. sam-kok, the three kingdoms; the time when China was split into three warring states. sam-kok-chì, the book giving an account of that time mixed with much romance.

kok-ün, the fortune of a kingdom or of a dynasty. kok-tiâu, the reigning dynasty. kok-ông, a king; a sovereign. kok-kun, id. kok-tsú (r.), id. kok-bú, the mother of the sovereign. kok-tióng, father-in-law of the sovereign. kok-hoat, the laws of the kingdom. kok-khò, government revenues. kok-thé, the dignity of the kingdom (v. thé).

sióng-kok, a prime minister. khai-kok goân-hun, the merit of having helped the dynasty to the throne, said of áng sêng-tiú, a native of Lâm-óa<sup>n</sup>. khai-kok kong-sin, a title given to him.

kok-pih, very knowing, or rather too knowing (v. pih). kok-ló, the chief of the genii (v. ló).

kok bú-jī-ông, a kingdom has not two kings. cheng-thien toát-kok, to aim at the throne. tióng-kun pò-kok, extremely loyal to his sovereign and grateful to the dynasty, e.g. meeting great danger or death. chín-tióng pò-kok, id., loyally faithful to the sovereign and dynasty. sún-hoái kok-pó, to injure or deface coins.

kok-jī-khak, the 31st radical, inclosing the phonetic part; called "úi" in the dictionaries.

kòk (T.), = A. kák, to throw away.

kòk [R. kok, lók], chuckling or cackling noise made by a fowl. phah-kòk-ke, hen cackling before laying an egg. kòk-kòk-kiò, cackling of a hen. kòk-kòk-háu, id., said also of a person talking on too much without ever stopping.

kong — oân-kong-mûg, a door with an arched top (v. oân).

kong [R. an important rope; a bond of society]. lám-kong, the rope which draws the top of the sail close to the top of the mast; it lies along the mast. lám-kong-soh, id.

sam-kong, the three great relations or headships of king, father, and husband. sam-kong ngé-sióng, the three headships and the five cardinal virtues.

kong-kàm, the national history (of China).

kong [R. name of a star]. thien-kong-sin, the thirty-six heavenly spirits used as messengers of the supreme Deity. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-lák thien-kong, id. thien-kong tē-soah, the good and bad spirits of heaven and earth, in all a hundred and eight. thien-kong-chhi<sup>n</sup>, stars where they reside, especially at or near the Great Bear.

kong [R. the bladder]. pông-kong (R.), id., politely used for the scrotum.

kong (C. keng). toā-bú sî-kong-kòe, in great abundance. toā-bú-kong-keng, very large, as a house.

kong [R. firm, strict]. kong-jit sióng-chè, firmness and gentleness well combined (v. jit). sèng-tê khah-kong, temper rather quick, rough, or stiff.

sù-tái kim-kong, the four giants that guard the entrance of a large Buddhist temple. kim-kong-hút (T. kim-kng), certain idols that have a very bold and brave look (different from the above).

kong [R. steel, = col. kng]. kim-kong-tsng, a good steel awl.

kong [R. kiong, a temple or palace, = col. keng]. kong-tsú, the daughter of a king (s. duke).

kong [R. to strike; to attack]. kong-kek, to attack (s. public). kong-tá<sup>n</sup>, to attack, as a city. kong-siá<sup>n</sup>, to attack a city (v. siá<sup>n</sup>). kong-phoà, to take, as a city. kiap-kong, to attack on both sides (v. kiap). gòe-kong lôe-èng, enemies without, and treacherous help within. huih kong-sim, much flurried or excited, as with running hard or press of business (v. sim).

kong [R. an earthen jar, = col. kng]. sam-kong-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of violet or deep purple-coloured silk.

kong — kong-tái, a sort of shell-fish, like the (than) spout-fish.

kong — tái-kong, a steersman; the captain of a small junk: sometimes said to the assistants in foreign Hongs, as the heads of the Hongs used to be captains of receiving ships.

kong [R. to carry on a pole between two men, = col. kng]. kong-siá, sedan-bearers.

kong [R. hong, wind]. kong-chhê (C.), = A. hong-chhe, a paper kite (s. next word).

kong — kong-chhê (C.), a sort of three-pronged fork, used in hunting (s. previous word).

kong [R. name of a tree]. kong-lông (F.), a plant like a palm or sago-palm (v. lông).

kong [R. efficacious work; merit]. kong-lò, merit. kong-hun (R.), merit for services to the state. kong-hun tō-tek, great merit and virtue. kong-tek, (meritorious conduct), rites for the dead (v. tek). kong-bêng, rank, civil or military (v. bêng).

kong-iông (r.), efficacy, as of medicine (v. iông), (s. public). kong-hâu, efficacy, as of a method or medicine (v. hâu).

im-kong, works of supererogation, deserving reward from Heaven; meritorious virtues (s. light). ū im-kong, to have such merit as to deserve rewards from Heaven. kun-kong, merit for military success or assistance in military operations. chiong-kong pé-tsòe, to make up for faults by one's merit. iú-kong, to have merit for services to the state. khûn iú-kong, diligence has useful results. lò jī-bú-kong, hard toil, and no thanks for it (said of a dog killing a rat).

sêng-kong, to carry out any work to a successful issue. chéng-kong, to request a reward for meritorious services to the state. hō-kong, to congratulate a man (with presents, &c.) for the reward by government of his meritorious services. kièn-kong, to get merit by some great service (esp. military) to the state; also, to make much money, as by going abroad. kièn-kong lip-giáp, to set up an estate, or grow wealthy by personal work or diligence. kièn-kong-giáp, id.

ték-jit ê-kong-tsò, special spirits for each day (v. tsò).

kong [R. work, = col. kang], one of the musical notes. kong-pê, the Board of Works at the metropolis; the president of it. kun-kong-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, an arsenal for marine stores, and place for building war-junks, &c.

oā-kong, a painter of pictures.

thé-kong, men who dig graves, put the corpse in the coffin, and carry it to the grave; rude and vulgar. hoan-kong-thé, very rude and ignorant, esp. affecting knowledge; unpolite or ill-bred (v. thé).

cheng-kong, of very good workmanship; fine and accurate, as work; very skilful, as at work, or at managing an affair.

jim-lék pé thien-kong, human strength improving upon nature's work, e.g. by levelling a field, or

扛

扛

桐

功

咯

弓光網

罡

胱

剛

鋼宮攻

工

making a road; or as a man not naturally talented becoming distinguished through hard study; or as a man lengthening his life beyond the usual period by great care.

kong-jī-tú, a short beam placed as a support cross-wise between two beams, as in a floor where there is an opening for a stair or trap-door; named from being in the form of the character "kong." kong--jī bō-chhut-thâu, the character "kong" (work) does not put out its head, which would change it into the character "thó" (earth or land); a labourer does not easily become a wealthy man.

kong [R. id., = col. kang, "male," ang], grandfather; duke; public; common; public funds or property; title of many gods, sages, officials, &c.; Patna opium.

kong-su, public and private; just and selfish (v. su). kong-tō, fair; just; equitable. kong-pí, id. (v. pí<sup>m</sup>). kong-pêng, id. kong-gī, do., as a judge or official.

kong-thoa, to divide fairly, as expenses. kong-toàn, to judge justly or publicly (v. toàn). kong-phoá, to decide to whom a thing belongs, as arbiter.

kong-àn, the table used as the tribunal of a mandarin. kong-tsō-toh, id. (v. tsō). kong-tŕng, judgment-hall (v. tŕng). kong-hók, official dress.

kong-ke, public; common to all the parties, esp. to relatives. kong-chèng (C. chòng), public; common; possessed in common. kong-hèng, public; publicly; openly. kong-jiên, id. kong-tóng, publicly; in the presence of all interested.

kong-phêng, to discuss openly a matter in dispute, as several persons met together. kong-kek, unitedly expel (v. kek), (s. attack). kong-ióng, for public use. kong-èng, id. kong-tōe, subscribed for a public purpose. kong-kú, to make a united recommendation of a man for an office.

kong-koán, a hotel; an inn (v. koán). kong-thia, the public central hall of a house, when used in common by several families. kong-si, a firm; a trading company. kong-hōe, a public society or association. kong-sài tãi-sin, a foreign ambassador. kong-sū, public business. kong-giáp, property in which several persons have a share.

kong-chhin, a sort of arbiter, having much less power than our arbiters; almost like a mediator, who endeavours to make the parties agree. kong-jin, id. tsòe kong-tō-láng, to act as a sort of arbiter, as about prices.

chhióng-kong, to put money into a public or common fund. hiên-kong, id., quite voluntarily.

kong-kī, anniversary of death of paternal grandfather or great grandfather. tiòh-kong, to have the turn of attending to the common ancestral worship. tiòh toā-kong, to have the turn for attending to the more important ancestral rites for ancestors.

kong-pó, ancestral tablets (v. pó). kong-má, grandfather and grandmother (v. má). khǒ-kong (Cn.), to worship ancestral tablets. án-kong, grandfather! á-kong, id. thài-kong (Cn.), = A. tsé, great grandfather. tsé-kong, ancestors. chek-kong, paternal grandfather's younger brother, or cousin of any degree; polite address to an old man (v. chek). peh-kong, paternal grandfather's elder brother or cousin (v. peh). lái-kong, paternal grandfather. goā-kong, maternal grandfather. kū-kong, grandmother's brother (v. kū). kū-kong, old Patna opium. lâu-kong-á, an old man (not said to himself).

goán lâu-kong-á, my husband (said by an old woman). sien-si<sup>n</sup>-kong, teacher's father.

sai-kong, a Taoist priest. su-kong, adoptive father of the adoptive father of a Buddhist priest (all priests). tsú-kong, a patron who assists and protects dependants, and whom they obey and aid. hŕn-láng-kong, a woman who arranges a marriage. pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>-kong, the tepo or head man of a ward. kó-kong, the secretary of a military mandarin. keng-kong, a temple-keeper appointed by the people (not a priest). chhài-kong, temple-keeper employed by priests, but not a priest. pŕng-tiám-kong, the keeper of an eating-house, esp. old man. sien-kong, a beggar. mē-kong, you vile lascivious wretch! (said in vile scolding).

koe-kak-kong, a large cock-fowl. tū-kong (Cn.), a large (male) hog. chháu-mē<sup>n</sup>-kong, a large grasshopper. báng-á-kong, a mosquito (said in joke). phoá-hiú-kong, an old wadded coat (said in joke). téng-kong-á (T.), a small dragon-fly.

kong-chiok, the rank of a duke. kong-iá, a duke. bé-kong-iá, an idol of the surname "má." kong-kheng (R.), very high mandarins, esp. ministers of state (v. kheng). kong-tsú, son of a very high mandarin or nobleman (s. palace). kong-tsū (Cn.), id. kong-hē, dukes and marquises; feudal princes. kong-hē pek-tsú-lâm, the five orders of nobility. ông-kong, kings and dukes.

chiu-kong, Duke Chow. khóng-tsú-kong, Confucius. tsu-bún-kong, Choo-he, the commentator (v. bún). kok-kong-chiú, a medicinal wine made in Amoy, originally by a man called "kok-kong." kok-kong kan-á, earthenware bottles for it; much used also for other medicines.

thi<sup>n</sup>-kong, the god of heaven, = Giók-hông Sióng-tè (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). tōe-kong, the earth, as a god (v. tōe). sióng-tè-kong, = hiên-thien sióng-tè, the god of the north star. sam-kài-kong, the gods of heaven, earth, and water (v. kài). tãitō-kong, = pó-seng tãitè, the god of medicine. tè-kun-kong, id. koan-kong, Kwanti, the god of war. lúi-kong, the god of thunder. thé-ti-kong, the god of agriculture. thé-tè-kong (C.), id. jít-thâu-kong, the sun, as an object of worship. thài-ióng-kong, id. tsàu-kun-kong, the god of the hearth or fire-place. chi<sup>n</sup>-kháu-kong, the god or guardian spirit of the eaves. sù-tãi kim-kong, the four large idols placed as gate-keepers at the gate of a great temple; they have great power over spirits. sèng-ông-kong, = Keh-sèng-ông. tsé-su-kong, name of several idols (v. su). iáng-kong (C.), an ancient builder, worshipped when making a grave or house.

kéng-tsú-kong, the guardian idol of a ward or region. sien-kong, any one of the genii, said esp. in regard to dreams. ang-kong (C. T.), an idol in general (v. ang). bân-èng-kong, collective title for the spirits of a shrine for persons who have no posterity. phé-tē-kong, = tãisū-iá, a large hideous paper image worshipped at the rites of phé-tē (v. phé). hàu mŕng-kháu-kong, to worship the spirits at the doors on 2d and 16th of each month. hàu lâu-toā-kong, id., and at some other times.

hè-sèng-kong, the deified tiger, the god of gamblers. hé-chiòng-kong, id. si-chiá-kong (C.), a large harmless sort of snake that is worshipped. chiòh-thâu-kong, a large shapeless stone worshipped at Chang-chew. ti-tiâu-kong, the guardian spirit of a pig-sty. gú-tiâu-kong, the guardian spirit of a cow-house.

光

kong [R. bright; light, = col. kng]. san-kong, the three lights, sun, moon, and stars. kong-im (R.), time (v. im). ám-kong-chiáu, the small owl.

kong-kéng, a landscape; state or circumstances (v. kéng).

kong-chhái (R.), very bright or shining; very richly decorated. boán-thien-kong, a hanging lamp with several wicks. bán-thien-kong, id.

khai-kong, to dot an idol's eye with blood or with a red composition, on consecrating it. kong-gán, intelligent, esp. of boys. kong-gán-lâng, a sharp or intelligent fellow. kong-kùn, a rogue; a swindler (v. kùn). put-sit ngi<sup>n</sup>-khién, kong-bêng put-hién, without eating cows or dogs, intelligence is not manifested (said in joke).

tō-kong, the reign Tau-kwang. kong-tiong ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, cash from Cochin-China, &c., current at Amoy (but not at Fuh-chau, &c.), having the characters "kong-tiong;" or cash like them.

tap-siá un-kong, to give thanks to a powerful spirit for help. tap-siá im-kong, thanks to all the ghosts (written on idolatrous lanterns, esp. in 7th moon). hau-im-kong, to worship the spirits in the 7th moon. keng-im-kong, id. têng-kong-hút, an idol with very long ears, originally Taoist, but became Buddhist. têng-kong-sien, id. tái-ni<sup>n</sup> têng-kong-sien, do. (said in joke of a man with long ears).

kóng (R. id.), violent; mad; acting hastily on the spur of the moment. kóng-kóng, id. hong-kóng, in a great hurry or too urgent, so as to be hasty or careless. hong-hong kóng-kóng, id. hióng-kóng, id. chhióng-kóng, acting violently, boisterously, imperiously, or too urgently. kóng-pō, violent and hasty in temper, esp. of a man in authority. kóng-ōe khah-kóng, to speak in a violent overbearing way.

kóng soáh-soáh, quite madly or violently. kóng phiá<sup>n</sup>-phiá<sup>n</sup>, in a tremendous hurry, greatly flurried.

jū kóng-kóng, mind confused and perplexed with a great deal of very troublesome business.

hoat-kóng, to go mad; mad. teh-siáu-kóng, mad. tien-kóng, id. khit-kúi phah-khì teh-kóng, you have been beaten by demons till you are mad! (said in scolding).

chhi<sup>n</sup>-kóng, very impulsive; hasty in action. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kóng-tsáu, to rush on hurriedly or thoughtlessly. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kóng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, very strong, lusty, and vigorous, as a lad or young man. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kóng-lát, working very vigorously, as a strong young man who does not economise his strength, sometimes too roughly or rashly.

kóng-hong, a sudden violent wind; a squall.

kóng (R. id.) jiét-kóng, delirium in fever.

kóng, to fasten a man's legs in the stocks, or in a similar way.

kóng — mûg-kóng, a strong upright bar, fastened inside of a door, for keeping out robbers. khiá-kóng, id. hoái<sup>n</sup>-kóng, a strong transverse bar for a door.

kóng (R. káng), to say; to talk; to discourse upon; to discuss; to explain by discoursing (Cn. "káng," to discourse or discuss; Cn. "söh," to say, to talk).

kóng-kè, to ask more than the proper price, gradually letting it down through haggling. kóng-hô, to discuss matters till agreed, as persons at feud, or as two men plotting against a third.

kóng-phoá, to tell the particulars. kóng-chheh (Cn. káng-tsü), to discourse on a book, explaining it. kóng tō-lí, to discourse on doctrine; to preach.

kóng-ké, to tell stories about ancient times (v. ké). kóng sèng-jū, to discourse or preach upon the "sacred edict," explaining it.

kóng-ōe, to speak (v. ōe). i-ê-ōe kóng, what he says is —. kā-i-kóng (Cn. káng-i-söh), say to him. kap-i-kóng, id. tùi-i-kóng, id. lí kap-i tùi-kóng, speak to him yourself, not through another. goá-kóng lí-thia<sup>n</sup>, I tell you that you may hear. kóng-chhò, to make a mistake in speaking. kóng-tā<sup>n</sup>, id. bóng-kóng, to talk at random; to say a thing without exactly meaning it, or without a definite purpose. kóng kàu-bō-pān, to talk recklessly and with great exaggeration; to ask far too high a price. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kóng tò-kóng, to talk at one time on one side, and soon after on the opposite side. lóng-bō chiáu-kóng, not accordiug to the truth.

kóng-khí, to raise a question. kóng-khí-lái, ōe-thâu tng, to talk of this matter would take a long time. kóng-bōe-liáu, cannot be fully told, as it is so great or long. kóng-bōe-lái, cannot express it properly; cannot speak so as to accomplish the purpose (v. lái). oh-tit-kóng, hard to tell. oh-kóng, hard to persuade. khah-kōe-kóng, easily talked over; ready to do whatever (good or bad) one is asked. khoai-kóng, id.

kóng [R. broad, = col. kúg]. kóng-khoah, broad and wide.

lióng-kóng tsóng-tok, the governor-general of Canton, i.e. of the two Kwang provinces, Kwang-tung and Kwang-si. kóng-chiu-hú (R.), the city or department of Canton.

kóng-tái bū-pien, illimitably great (said of the laws of Buddha). sín-thong kóng-tái, miraculous powers very great (said of a spirit or an idol). kóng-ték tsun-ông, = keh-sèng-ông, an idol much worshipped in Fuh-kien.

kóng — âng-kóng-á, the smallest sort of good cash. âng-kóng-á-chi<sup>n</sup>, id.

kóng — am-kóng-tsún (C.), the cicada, = A. am-pē-ché. ám-kóng-tsún (Cn.), id. iá<sup>n</sup>-kóng-sai (Cn.), id.

kóng — oá<sup>n</sup>-kóng-le (T.), the bottom of a broken bowl, = oá<sup>n</sup>-kē-léh.

kóng [R. koán, a tube; to rule, = col. kúg, ké, koá<sup>n</sup>], a short tube, or hollow horn, or tubular case, &c. toá-bú-kóng, thick and tubular, as a joint of a large bamboo or large claw of a crab. toá-kóng-chháu (Cn. T.), large coarse grass, as on sea-shore, &c.

phī<sup>n</sup>-kóng, the nose, esp. the part near the nostrils (v. phī<sup>n</sup>). chím-kóng, a crab's pincers (v. chím). gō-mûg-kóng, a goose-quill. gū-kak-kóng, a polished hollow horn used by priests (v. kak).

tek-kóng, a hollow piece of bamboo used for any purpose; either one joint, or two or three feet long. a-phién-kóng, an opium-pipe. chhiám-kóng, an instrument used for taking samples of rice out of unopened bags. hé-iòh-kóng, a powder-measure for one charge. pit-kóng, a cover for the point of a Chinese pen. tsoá-lién-kóng, a bamboo tube for extinguishing and keeping a paper match. pháng-kóng, a bamboo instrument for throwing water on a sail.

pat-sien-kóng, a long-shaped bamboo case for carrying some of a barber's instruments. hê-chio-kóng, a pepper-box.

kóng-á-hièn, a small guitar made with a bamboo cylinder.

狂

廣

症

講

管

phòng-kóng, full of air-bubbles, as ill-pasted paper, or as lime too loose on a wall. phok-kóng id. puh kóng-á, bubbles rising in water, as from crabs in wet sand or mud, or bubbles from something decaying or fermenting. puh tsúi-kóng, id.

chhàu-tsúi-kóng, very wet, hard, and bad-tasted, as potatoes left long in water, or that cannot be boiled dry and mealy; bad-tasted, as water out of a bamboo vessel that has lain long in water. chhàu-tsúi-kóng-bi, id.

kòng [R. kò, to pass; to cross, = col. kè, koà]. kè-kòng, the opportunity quite lost, e.g. affair gone so far wrong that it cannot now be set right, or as doctor coming when the patient is just dying; extremely hard, as work; very severe, as disease.

kòng — kim-kòng-thú, a sort of mace carried before idols and mandarins (T. kim-koe-bông).

kòng [R. kàng, red colour], (C. khòng). âng-kòng-kòng, very red.

kòng — toā-kòng, a large cannon. tâng-kòng, large brass cannon (s. tribute). lêng-kòng-chhèng, a large sort of cannon.

kòng, to strike or beat with an instrument or implement, &c. kòng-cheng, to strike a bell (or gong having a boss) with a stick.

kiông-kòng, housebreaking; burglary. kiông-kòng-chhát, a housebreaker. lim-thin kòng-phah, fond of drinking and fighting.

kòng-khók, to beat the rattle; to conspire to gamble a man out of his money, or to fleece him; to tell empty stories or jokes, often licentious. kòng-báng, to conspire together to fleece another. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap kòng-báng, id. kòng-báng-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan fit only for beating mosquitoes (said in joke of a coarse or worn-out fan). kòng-chi<sup>n</sup>, to squeeze money, allotting so much to each to pay. kòng chia kòng-hia, to strike about restlessly, as child at play; to squeeze money from various villages, &c., as mandarins.

kòng-kòng-háu, loud sound, as of rice-mortar worked by the foot, or as of the wind howling loud.

kòng (R. id.), tribute; used in the names of some things of special excellence; also in name of satin and of fine sugar; used in the names of some literary degrees.

chin-kòng, to pay tribute. láp-kòng, id. tiâu-kòng, to present tribute in person. pán-kòng, to prepare tribute to be sent. kòng-hông-tè (Cn.), to pay tribute to the emperor. kòng-ông (Cn. T.), to worship the idol "ông-iá" with offerings; also fig. of giving much food to an ungrateful man.

kòng-ièn, best bird's-nests, such as are sent as tribute from Amoy.

kòng-koah, common Chinese letter-paper. kòng-chhoan, superfine thick Chinese letter-paper.

kòng-thng, finest loaf-sugar. kòng-péh, id. chiá<sup>n</sup>-kòng-péh, id. kòng-hún, finest white sugar in powder.

kòng-toán, satin. ε-kòng-toán, black satin. hoe-kòng, flowered satin.

kòng-ī<sup>n</sup>, the examination-hall (in the provincial capital) for the Kujin degree. kòng-seng, literary degree or title just below Kujin, generally those who come nearest to getting the Kujin degree in the examination. hù-png-kòng, the highest class of Sew-tsai, just about to become Kujin. iu-kòng, the degree of "kòng-seng," when given partly for some merit in examination, and partly for money. un-kòng, that degree given on occasion of accession or of the birth of a prince, &c. poát-kòng, one "lim-seng" graduate, chosen once in twelve years out of each Hien district. sòe-kòng, title given after twelve years to those "lim-seng" graduates who do not become "poát-kòng." chhut-kòng, to become a "kòng-seng" as a lim-seng does. bóe-kòng, to buy the title of kòng-seng. koan-kòng, id. tâng-kòng (copper graduates), said of those who have bought the degree (s. cannon).

kòng [R. kiōng, together, = col. kāng, kâ, hōng]. kòng-kèh<sup>n</sup>, slightly at variance, and ready to quarrel or find fault; not getting on well together (v. kèh<sup>n</sup>). kòng-kiáuh<sup>n</sup>, id. kòng-koaih<sup>n</sup>, id.; also, one foot shorter than the other.

kòng (= khōng). kòng-kòng-hièn, to shake about, as an idol when carried.

kòng, prayers used by Siamese Buddhist priests. liām-kòng, to mutter such prayers, curses, or incantations.

ku [R. kú, ancient]. ku-koài, strange (v. koài).

ku [R. khu, the body]. sin-ku, the body; better sin-khu (v. sin).

ku — he-ku, asthma.

ku (R. ku, kú). ku-là (T.), a sort of child's cap.

ku (R. kui), a turtle or tortoise; a turtle-shaped cake; used in the names of some insects such as beetles. ku-pih, turtles and tortoises. ku-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a young tortoise. ku-á, id.; a sort of beetle. ku-sin, a small dark sort of aphid. chiá-ku, a small edible grub found in roots of sugar-cane. gú-sái-ku, a beetle that lives on cow-dung (said of a man who comes awkwardly knocking against people or things). kim-ku, a small insect like a beetle or lady-bird. kim-ku-séh, a toy in which these insects make a wheel turn. kim-ku-gô, id. it--tióh kim-ku, hái--liáu si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to injure one's self very much by covetousness. tsúi-ku, a small fresh-water insect. kak-phang, khoà<sup>n</sup>-tsòe tsúi-ku (to mistake a wasp for it), said of being injured by a familiar friend supposed to be harmless.

bé-ku, a paper kite made like a tortoise with a long tail. pàng-bé-ku, to fly such a kite. âm-khang-ku, said of a shy man who seldom stirs out of his door.

bóng-ku, the mound of a grave, whether made of turf or of cement. siu-ku, large turtle-shaped cakes made on birth-days. ku-á-piá<sup>n</sup>, small cakes of that shape. bí-ku, do. made of rice. mí<sup>n</sup>-ku, do. made of flour. tsúi-chi<sup>n</sup>-ku, do. with white stuffing of pulse. ku-ké, cakes of various forms. in-ku, to make turtle-shaped cakes. tsòe-ku, id. chhe-ku, to steam them. hang-ku, to toast them. pun-ku, to distribute them. cheng-ku, to beat rice for them.

ku-tsang, a woman's queue. ku-khak, the shell of a turtle or tortoise (entire); a small cabin built on a boat, e.g. on a passage-boat, or on those used by foreigners. poáh ku-koà, divining by three cash in the shell of a tortoise (v. koà). ku-ka, jelly made from turtles.

ku [R. a cart or chariot, = col. chhia], (C. ki, Cn. kú). ku-chièn-chháu, a medicinal plant; plantago. ku-chièn-chí, its seed, used as a cooling medicine.

chí-lâm-ku (R.), the mariner's compass.

ku [R. the flap of a dress], (C. ki, Cn. kú). sa<sup>n</sup>-á-ku, the corner of the flap of a dress at the bottom. toā-ku, the large flap, as on the breast of a coat. lái-ku, the inner flap. chêng-ku, the front flap of a long dress (generally said only of the lower corner). bîn-chêng-ku, the front flap of a dress. âu-ku, the lower corner of the hinder flap of a dress, at the side.

過

楨絳楨

貢

共

古躬哮帕龜

車

裾

sē-ku, having one flap too long. tiàu-ku, having one flap too short. khih-ku, the division of the flaps at the side. khih-ku lih, torn at the division of the flaps at the side.

ku [R. to dwell; to reside], (C. kī; Cn. kū). iông-ku, a dwelling-house; opposed to a grave. pè-ku (polite), the place where I reside.

koá"-ku, to be a widow, esp. young (v. koá"). ku-song, to be in mourning for a parent ku-ke-lâng, the general settled orderly part of the population living in their own homes. lêng-ku kok-sit, to live and have meals all separate. kī-ku, to live in a place for a short time. phū-ku, id. chhah-ku (r.), to live alone (or almost alone) among a large population of a different clan or race. chhien-ku, to migrate. si-kòe-ku, to go about as a vagrant, with no settled dwelling. ku sim-mih" tõe-pê, what is his present rank, as mandarin?

ún-ku san-lim, to dwell in retirement among mountains and woods, as a good statesman or sage who has retired from the world in disgust and hopelessness (s. humpbacked). ún-ku soa"-nâ", id.

hok-jin ku hok-tê, a fortunate man gets a good grave, so that his descendants profit by it.

ku (R. ku, kú). ún-ku, humpbacked; a hunchback (s. dwell); a bridge, of which the road-way is greatly arched, as in pleasure-grounds. ún-ku bõe si-chiá", a matter bad at the first cannot be mended. ún-ku sang-tiám-lê, even the deformed gets sustenance from Heaven (fig. as if "two drops of dew" lodge in the angles of the hump!).

khiau-ku, humpbacked; a hunchback. ku-pòe, id. ku-pòe tiâu-thien-tsú, the hunchback had an audience of the emperor, i.e. became a great mandarin.

tuh-ku, nodding, as a sleepy, old, or sick man. lêng ku-ku, going with a stooping gait. ku-sio, to sit crouching in some warm place, as in a sunny sheltered spot, or near a fire.

ku [R. kē, the leg; a limb]. siáu-phí-ku, having small hips (said in joke, in imitation of the mandarin).

kū [R. a street], (C. kī; Cn. kǔ). koe-kū, a street of shops; a market street (C. ke-kí).

kū (R. id.), (C. kǐ). péh-chhia-kū, the white opaque shell of the shell-fish called "ham," from which white official buttons are made. chhia-kū-téng, a white official button of the sixth rank. ti-chhia-kū, to wear that button. ti péh-chhia-kū, id.

kú (R. kiú), long (in time); yet; still. iáu-kú, yet; notwithstanding; still. m-kú, id.; but yet. kú-ū, there yet remains. siōng-kú, yet (v. "siōng," yet). siōng-kú, at the longest (from "siōng," above).

kú-kú, a long time; long ago. kú-tîng, for a long time; lasting. kú-kú tîng-tîng, lasting a very long time, or perpetual. tîng-tîng kú-kú, id. hiah-kú, for some time back; of late. ũ-hiah-kú, id. hiah-kú-á, quite lately. chiah-kú, of late. hah-kú-á, in a short time (future). khah-kú-á, in a very short time. chit-bák-nih"-kú, in a moment. ni"-kú géh-chhim, for many years long. kú-ni"--ê, belonging to a time many years ago. ná"-kú ná"-hó, the longer the better. tau-kú, to try which can longest do or bear something (v. tau).

kú [R. kiú, a leek]. kú-chhài, leeks. kú-chhài-hoe, flower-stalks of leeks; counted very good. kú-chhài-pê, the narrow hem on a man's dress.

kú [R. a carpenter's square], (C. kī; Cn. kū). kuikú, a rule; correct rules (lit. compass and square). chiàu-kui-kú, according to proper rules; to behave properly. siú kui-kú, to behave properly. kui-kú ê-lâng, a man who acts properly. sùn-kui tō-kú, correct and orderly in conduct.

kú [R. to elevate; to recommend; to select; to speak of, or raise a matter], (C. kī; Cn. kū). kú-khi, to make a first proposal or motion, as in a meeting; also (R.), to lift up on high, as a very heavy weapon or weight by a hero. kú-chièn, to recommend for a situation or office. pó-kú, to recommend and stand security for. kong-kú, to make a united recommendation of a man for some office or employment.

kú-jin, a Kujin, = M.A. kú-tsú (R.), id. bú-kú, a military Kujin. it-kú sêng-bêng, thien-hā ti, on becoming a Kujin all the empire knows of it.

kú-tōng, behaviour; conduct (v. tōng). kú-hêng, to commence action in a case, as mandarin. thai-kú, to assist a man, as by buying his goods, or giving custom. khai-kú, id.

kú-thê sam-chhek, iú sin-bêng, look up three feet, and the spirits are present (v. thê, "head").

kú (R. id.), a sentence; a clause. chit-kú-òe, one short sentence. kú-tāu, clauses and sub-clauses (v. tāu). kú-tê, id. tiám-kú, to punctuate, as a writing or book. tiám-kú tsáh-ké, to punctuate and mark the divisions of an essay.

keng-kú, a sentence from a classic. ín chheh-kú, to quote book phrases. êng tsu-kú, id. têng-kú, to repeat clauses in a stammering way.

kú [R. kiú; cf. col. ù], to cauterize. êng-hiu" kú, to cauterize with burning incense. kú-hún, to make lines with a red-hot iron.

kú [R. to hold firm; proof], (C. kī; Cn. kū). pín-kú, proof; evidence. chhut pín-kú, to give evidence; to give proof. bō-pín bō-kú, no evidence. chêng-kú, evidence of eye-witness. ũ-sin-kú, to have good, certain, and sure proof. sit-kú, evidence true, good, relevant, and sufficient for the purpose. khòe-kú, a deed of sale or mortgage adduced as evidence.

kú-hiám, to guard an important or narrow pass.

kú-lí-ài, just as you please; as you like. kú-tsái-lí, just as you please. kú-tsái-i, as he pleases. bōng-kú-tsái-i, just let him alone; let him have his own way.

kú (R. id.), (C. kī; Cn. kū), a saw; to saw. liáu-kú, to do sawyer's work.

kú-á, a saw. chhiú-kú, a short hand-saw. toā-kú, a long saw worked by two men. kú-to, a saw with a stiff fixed back. kú-sut, saw-dust.

kú [R. ill-mannered]. kú-ngē", rude, proud, and uncivil; e.g. taking no notice when spoken to, or when another comes in; or putting on the manner of a superior.

kū — lū-kū, uncivil in reply; answering gruffly and laconically (v. lū).

kú [R. to reject], (C. kī; Cn. kū). kú-tsoát, to reject; to cast away; to abandon. khòng-kū, to resist a superior disobediently or rebelliously; unruly and insubordinate.

kú [R. great; large]. tai-tsong kú-tsók, very large and numerous clan. bêng-kong kú-kheng, high and illustrious mandarins (said in relation to the place or clan from which they are sprung).

kū — âm-kún-kū, the prominent lump in the front of the throat.

kú [R. spur of a cock, &c.], (T. khū). koe-kū,

居

病

股
衝
碟

久

菲
矩

舉

句

灸
據

鋸

倨

拒

巨

距

the spur of a cock. koe-kha-kū, id. lāi-hiòh-chhī-kū (C.), a thorn (leguminous) with yellow flowers and strong thorns.

hē-kū (P.), tiger's claws (s. sound of birds).

kū — ké-kí-kū (P.), a small medicinal shrub (v. kí).

kū (R. kiū), brother of mother or of wife. á-kū, id. kū-piáu, son of maternal uncle. chhin-chhek kē-kū, relatives in general. kē-í kū-kim, aunts, maternal uncles, and their wives, &c. (v. kē).

bú-kū, maternal uncle. bó-kū (C.), id. kū-kong, grandmother's brother [also old Benares opium]. thi<sup>n</sup>-téng, thi<sup>n</sup>-kong; tōe-ē, bú-kū-kong, a mother's elder brother must be treated with great respect, (almost like a god!)

bé-kū, wife's brother. chhe-kū (r.), id. kū-á, wife's younger brother. sōe-kū (Cn.), id. toā-kū, wife's elder brother. bōe-bé, tsōe toā-kū, said in derision of a man selling his wife, as if she were a sister, so that he became brother-in-law of the new husband. kū-iá, brother of mandarin's wife. sa<sup>n</sup>-jit kú-iá thàm-pāng, bride's younger brother or nephew taking presents to her on the day after marriage. sa<sup>n</sup>-jit kú-á, &c., id.

kū, sound of birds. kū-kū-háu, to coo, as doves, &c. kí-kí kú-kū, twittering sound of birds.

hē-kū, a bird that calls "khū-khū," somewhat like the kē-ng-chiáu (sort of owl?), (s. spur). hē-kū-chiáu, sort of bird; id. (?).

hē-kū (C.), a long-legged insect, like a large grass-hopper.

kū (R. kiū), old; former; opposed to "new" (not as opposed to "young"). sin-kū, new and old. ngiā-sin khì-kū, to receive the new and reject the old, improperly. chiáu-kū, in the same way as before. goān-kū, id.

kū-ni<sup>n</sup>, last year. kū-siū<sup>n</sup>, looking faded, as an old dress. kū-lē, an old law or custom. kū-khoán, an old form or custom. kū-pán, old printing blocks; an old edition. kū-iok (X.), the Old Testament.

kū [R. prepared; to present; all together; an instrument, = col. khū], (C. kí). kū-miá<sup>n</sup>, to put down a name or names, as in a letter, or as parties in an official document [also, "old name"]. kū-thiap, to write a ceremonial card.

khì-kū, an instrument (s. old). kiáu-kū, any sort of furniture or instrument used for gambling.

kui [R. to return], to revert to; to fall to. chiong-kui, to the last; in the long run; said in scolding (v. chiong). koh-kui, to revert again to, as property.

kui-im, to die. kui-sien, id. kui-thé, to return to dust; to die.

khì-siá-kui-chèng, to reform one's self. kui-hók, to submit. kui-óá, to attach one's self to, as to a man; to revert, as property (v. óá). kui-hū, to lean upon a powerful man or party, joining one's fortunes to his.

kui-lē, to set one's self diligently to one's work. bō-kui-lē, not working with a will; trying to do many things and doing none of them well; not making a definite choice between two courses. kui-tiók, correctly settled or put in a good train for settlement, as an affair.

kui-ūi, to return to one's proper place (v. ūi). kui-lūi, to assort (v. lūi).

hong kui-sin, the wind settled and steady. thi<sup>n</sup>-sí kui-sin, weather settled and fine. kui-sin-thi<sup>n</sup>, settled weather.

kui-tiong, to be in the very middle; also, a medicine, = tong-kui. tong-kui, a soft medicinal root, said to be good for the blood (Aralia? Levisticum?). thé-tong-kui, another medicinal plant (Angelica?).

kiú-kui soàn-hoat, the rules of arithmetic. òh kiú-kui, to learn the elements of arithmetic on the abacus. kiú-kui-khak, the first elements of it. kui-tū, division. kui-tū séng-hoat, multiplication and division. séng-hoat kui-tū, id.

kui-tsōe, to lay the blame upon —. kui-tsōe-í, to blame him for it. kui êng-kng, to give glory to.

boán-tsai êng-kui, to return prosperously with full cargo, as a vessel; said also of emigrant coming home rich.

kui (cf. ka). kui-ê, complete, as a thing that wants none of its parts. kui-phō, a complete set, as a book having all the volumes; a large bunch or tuft, as of grass from one root or in one mass. bō-kui-phō, the set (of volumes) not complete. kui-hū, a complete set or suit. kui-siang, a pair. kui-chhng, a whole string, as of beads strung together. kui-kún, a large company; a whole crowd.

kui-tsong, all the goods of a particular sort (v. tsong). kui-tsú bōe, to buy all the goods of one owner on the premises of a commission agent. kui-hāng, in considerable quantities. bōe kui-hāng, to sell wholesale. bōe kui-hāng, to buy wholesale.

bō-kui-sim, not with one's whole heart; not with fixed attention. kui-seng-khu, the whole body. kui-jit, the whole day. kui-phien, a whole piece or slice. kui-liét, making a whole row (v. liét). sí kui-phiah, all in a place dead. siám kui-pêng, all go to one side of the road, so as to leave the other side quite clear for others to pass. kui-bê, become one mass (v. bê).

kui-nng (esp. T.), = ka-nng, complete; both forms are used both in A. and T.

kui [R. ki, a contrivance; a machine; a loom; a secret], a loom; a frame, as for embroidery, &c.; a press; to press in a press.

kui ôe-tōe, to press shoe-soles. kè-kui, pressed tight, as goods that have been through the press. pi<sup>n</sup>-kui, to stretch out on the frame, as embroidery.

chit-kui-pê, a web of cotton cloth, about a hundred feet long.

chhia-kui, a turning-lathe. hun-kui, a press for pressing tobacco very tight. mī<sup>n</sup>-soà<sup>n</sup>-kui, a frame for drying vermicelli, in making it. siū-kui, a frame for embroidery.

chit-kui, a loom. pê-kui, id. hī<sup>n</sup>-kui (C.), id. toā-kui, id. chit toā-kui, to weave broad cotton cloth, as women do at and near Amoy. toā-kui-pê, broad cotton cloth (native). kui-á-pê, narrow (native) cotton cloth.

kui [R. a pair of compasses; a rule]. kui-kú, a rule; a regulation or custom (v. kú). kui-kí (C.), id.; finished. tēng-kui, to settle a rule; a fixed rule (v. tēng). tiáu-kui, regulations or stipulations. kui-lē, a regular fee, as at government office (v. lē). pang-kok kui-bê (R.), laws and rules of the state.

in-kui, a frame in which a seal is tightly wedged while being cut.

kui — jit-kui, a sun-dial.

kui [R. ku, to dwell]. lēng-kui kok-sit (Cn.), = A. lēng-ku kok-sit, to live and have meals all separate.

kui [R. the women's part of a house]. kui-lú, a 白男

歸

大雀

具

歸

機

規

居閨

virgin. chhim-kui-lú, id. chhut-kui, to be married the first time, as a virgin.

kui — láng-khè-kui, the slits (like pockets) in boatmen's wide outer-trousers [next word?].

kui, the crop of a bird. ām-kui, the front part of the neck (v. ām). kâu-kui, the projecting neck of the monkey.

toā-pak-té-kui, enlarged spleen.

chhiú-úg-kui, the inside of a sleeve.

ké<sup>n</sup>-kui, unpleasant feeling from eating too fast or too much. koàn-kui, to stuff a fowl's crop to make it sell well. chì<sup>n</sup>-kui, id. tiù<sup>n</sup>-kui, crop very much distended, either from voracious eating or from fraudulent stuffing (v. tiù<sup>n</sup>).

koā<sup>n</sup>-kui, crop (of fowl) very full and hanging down; having one's dress hanging too loosely on the breast. bé-kiá<sup>n</sup> teh-koā<sup>n</sup>-kui, family being an encumbrance, so as to prevent a man leaving home. hē-goá put-chí koā<sup>n</sup>-kui, makes me extremely uncomfortable, as some very painful matter which cannot be set right or got rid of, e.g. great misconduct of a very near relative.

kui — kui-hî, a sort of fish good for food.

kui — kui-á-hî, a tadpole. kap-kui (Cn.), id. kap-gōe-kui (Cn.), id.

kui [R. a tortoise or turtle, = col. ku]. kui-lêng hók-soàn, may you live as long as the tortoise and stork.

ε-kui, a brothel-keeper; a cuckold; man whose wife or daughter is a prostitute.

kui (cf. puí). thút-kui, built with ridge of roof in the same line as that of another house, but lower; also, eaves carried out very wide at a lower level than the eaves close to the roof, with a perpendicular connection, as is often seen in temples.

kúi [R. the jaw-bone; place where roads meet]. chiong-kúi, the ruler of ghosts; a Tsin-sze graduate of the Tang dynasty. chiong-kúi tī siáu-kúi, said of a bold influential man guiding and ruling other men. chiong-kúi tī-kúi, id.

kúi (R. id.) kúi-koe, the sun-flower. hiòng-jit-kúi, id.

tsu-kúi, a famous grave-digger. khi-chhē niau<sup>n</sup>-tsu-kúi (gone to look for pock-marked Tsu-kúi), said of a man just dying; also, in scolding a lazy man who is always sleeping.

kúi [R. hoài, the bosom; to hold in the bosom, = col. kúi], to put, fold, or hold in the bosom within the dress. thau-kúi, to secrete in the bosom under one's dress. kúi-kúi tsah-tсах, to carry some things (or a child) in one's bosom, and other things about other parts of the dress (v. tsah). kúi gín-ná, to cover a child with the flap of our dress in the bosom, so as to keep it warm.

bák-chiu kúi-tsúi, eyes slightly swollen (kúi?).

kúi [R. khúi, deceitful, intriguing]. kan-kúi, very deceitful and rascally, esp. of a man who deceives both sides for his own gain.

kúi (R. id.), a ghost; the spirit of a dead man; a demon; a wretch; a secret spring or bolt; (used to express deceit, intrigue, and very strange things).

soa<sup>n</sup>-kúi, a mountain spirit; a man who acts as agent for buying sites for graves. tē-hong-kúi, a spirit supposed to rule a particular region (said in joke of a very tall man). tek-ko-kúi, a very tall thin fellow. hoan-kúi, foreign ghost or demon (rarely said except in imitation of Cantonese "fan-kwei"). ε-kúi, an assistant or servant in a shop (v. ε).

ε-kúi-kúi, very black, as a man. hiòng kúi-kúi, very ugly, as face.

chiú-kúi, a drunkard. kiáu-kúi, a confirmed gambler. a-piên-kúi, a confirmed opium-smoker. hong-so-kúi, a lascivious fellow. hong-liú-kúi, id. thiáu-kúi, a mischievous, troublesome boy. té-miá<sup>n</sup>-kúi, you shall not live long! (said in scolding).

kúi-kúi tsúi-tsúi, very deceitful and intriguing. kóng kúi-ōe, to talk deceitfully. pí-i koh-khah-kúi, even more crafty and cunning than he. siang-bin-to-kúi, a double-tongued man, who excites quarrels by speaking to each party against the other. ki<sup>n</sup>-kúi, to see a ghost; to tell lies. pièn-kúi, do you think you can deceive me thus? (v. pièn). tsòe-kúi, to be a ghost or demon; to cause trouble secretly. lóng-kúi, to be prime mover in a deceitful and injurious plot. ke nng-ê-kak, chiú-si-kúi (if he had two horns he would just be a demon), very knowing, so as not to be easily cheated, deceived, or over-reached. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-kúi i-pi<sup>n</sup>, to ask a man to assist in a matter, who puts it all wrong. phái<sup>n</sup>-kúi ui-pē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. ín-kúi jip-thèh, to call ghosts into the yard; also, to give a man his first introduction into a place where, afterwards, he proves very injurious. kap-kúi tsòe-chhū-pi<sup>n</sup>, said of keeping company with a very dangerous man. kah-goá khi lián-kúi, telling me to try to catch a man of whom no trace can be found. kap-kúi pé-chhiú-bin (warding off demons with the hand), said of a man whom it is very dangerous to oppose. kap-i ngó-kúi tui-chhiong, to be at irreconcilable feud with him. chhek-tiòh-kúi, to meet with an unexpected difficulty that upsets our plans. tú-tiòh-kúi, id. tú--tiòh phái<sup>n</sup>-kúi, unexpectedly come across some one who throws all our plans wrong. kúi-kap-bé háu (ghosts and horses making a noise), meddling where one has no business (v. bé). pak-té-lái theh-theh-kúi, very suspicious about everything.

kúi-thâu, a head or ruler of demons. tsòe-kúi-thâu, to be the leader of a plot to injure people, or to lead a man into vicious courses. kúi-ông, a prince or ruler of demons, e.g. giám-lò-ông, tái-sū, or chiong-kúi. kúi-á pièn kúi-ông, said of an inferior vainly trying to deceive his master.

kúi-sín, ghosts and spirits (v. sín). sín-kúi, id. kúi-á, a little ghost or demon; a common inferior ghost. kúi-koài, ghosts and goblins (v. koài). kúi-siá, id. siá-kúi, wicked demons. phái<sup>n</sup>-kúi, id. ok-kúi, malicious demons. mê-kúi, a devil. iau-kúi, a hungry ghost. un-ék-kúi, demons that cause pestilence. un-kúi, a spirit that requites favours by making a man a Kujin.

oan-kúi, ghost of an unavenged murdered man (v. oan). tiàu-kúi, ghost of man who hanged himself (v. tiàu). bô-thâu-kúi, ghost of beheaded man. tsúi-kúi, ghost of a drowned man. tsúi-kúi giá tâng-kê, do., wearing a heavy cangue. tsúi-kúi kiò-kau-thòe, ghost of drowned man tempting a man to kill himself (v. thòe).

khít-kúi kiò--khì, to be unexpectedly enticed into evil by wicked men, as a man formerly well-behaved. kúi kiò--lí, those whom you are following are wicked men luring you to ruin, or you yourself are going on a ruinous course. kúi teh-kiò--lí, id. kúi teh-iét--lí, id. kúi teh-thó-miá<sup>n</sup>, a demon is taking your life (said of a man dying whose death is supposed to be somehow connected with his own wickedness). jip kúi-bûn-koan, to die (a Buddhist phrase).

ũ-kúi, to be haunted. kúi-siū, a haunted place.

鯉

龜

道

葵

懷

詭

鬼

桂

jit-sí m̄-thang kóng-lāng, mī--sí m̄-thang kóng-kúi, don't talk of a man by day, or of a ghost by night, or he will come.

oáh-kúi, secret springs, bolts, or joints skilfully arranged in a machine. oáh-kúi-á, id. àm-kúi, id., e.g. secret holt in a door or drawer. m̄ng-kúi, secret bolt for keeping the holt of a door shut. m̄ng-kúi (P.), = A. mē-kúi, a devil. só-kúi, the spring in a Chinese padlock which catches the tongue of it when inserted. ióh-kúi, id. chhoà"-lòh-kúi, let down the secret bolt (of the door-bolt, &c.) hī-khang-kúi, the tympanum of the ear (v. hī).

kúi-hé, ignis fatuus. kúi-á-hé, id. kúi-á-hong, sudden, strange, and violent squall or gale (v. hong). kúi-á-phui, soap-bubbles blown by children. toà-kúi-thai, stomach distended so as to give the unreal appearance of pregnancy.

bái-kúi, a large spider, supposed to cause an oppressive feeling in sleep. thē-kúi (T.), = A. kàn-á, a sort of shell-fish. thē-kúi-hék, = A. ɛ-lám-hék, meat of a sort of shell-fish.

siáu-kúi-bin, lock of door or drawer; very ugly, as face. pè-tē-kúi, an image made with a sack over the head, and having a head on the breast or belly.

kúi-jī-kha, the long legs forming the lower part of the character "kúi."

kúi-kok sien-tsó, a famous diviner now worshipped (v. kok, "a valley").

kúi (R. kí), how many? a few (only used in combination).

kúi-é, how many? kúi-jit, how many days? kúi-lāng, how many men? kúi-kiā, how many articles? kúi-bé, how many animals, classified by "hé" (and so with the other classifiers and measures). kúi-khe, how many dollars? kúi-tiám-cheng, what o'clock? kúi-siá"-gún, what is the degree of purity of the silver?

tē-kúi, which in order? (answered by "first," "second," &c.) tōe-kúi, id. pài-kúi, which day of the week? chhoe-kúi, which day in the first nine days of the month? tsáp-kúi, what number between ten and twenty? which day of the second decade in the month? jī-kúi, which day of the last decade of the month? jī-chheng-kúi, how many hundreds above two thousand? khe-kúi, how many ten-cents above a dollar?

kúi-nā, several. kúi-nā"-lāng, several persons. kúi-liáp-á, a few grains, as of rice. bō-kúi-é, only a very few (so with other classifiers). bō-kúi-lāng, only a very few persons.

kúi (R. id.), a cyclical character, the 10th and last in the cycle of ten.

kúi [R. one of the four seasons; the youngest of a family, or last of a number; the noble house of Ki, in the kingdom of Loo in the time of Confucius].

ún-kúi, the second rice-harvest, towards the end of the year. chit-kúi-béh, one crop of wheat or harley. cheng sa"-kúi, to have three crops in a year.

sù-kúi (C. sù-khùi), the four seasons. sù-kúi liú-heng, bān-bút hoà-seng, the seasons revolve, and all things are produced. sè-chhù, tsòe-si-kúi thóeh, rent of a house to be taken each quarter. chiáh sì-kúi-tsúi, to grow through the four seasons before ripening (said of the rice called kim-pau-gún).

kúi— tsòe-kúi, wanton jesting or gestures between men and women. bin ū-kúi ū-kúi, face pretty (said of a woman who looks of doubtful character).

kúi [R. cinnamon; cassia]. kúi-hoe, cassia flowers (Olea fragrans?). kúi-ki, twigs of cinnamon. jiók-kúi, cinnamon. jiók-kúi-phê, id., in the form of bark. koa"-kúi, the best cinnamon.

kúi-lim, very fine, large, long sort of the lái-chi fruit. kúi-lim-koa", do. dried.

tan-kúi, a small red flower. chhiú-phan tan-kúi (R.), to grasp a twig of it, i.e. become a Tsin-sze graduate or higher. chhiú-phan tan-kúi tē-it-chi, to become the chōng-goān.

gê sam-kúi, Woo San-kwei, the Chinese general who invited the Manchos to enter China.

kúi (cf. koà), to suspend a thing, as on a wall, or from the roof. kúi-teng, to hang up a lamp. kúi-bō, to hang up a cap or hat on a pin. kúi-sa", to hang up a coat, &c., by the neck.

kúi [R. kòe, to cut off]. kúi-tsú-siú, an executioner.

kúi (R. id.), honourable; noble; costly; dear in price. tsun-kúi, of high rank; honourable; noble (in rank). kúi-khì, costly; highly valued; honourable. kúi-kúi khì-khì, very much so. hù-kúi, rich and honourable; very comfortable and happy. hù-kúi pîn-chiēn, rich and poor; honourable or plebeian. kúi-chien, id. bō-lùn kúi-chien, no matter whether rich or poor. tãi-kúi, pit-iú tãi-chiēn, a man who is very rich or high in rank must afterwards become very poor and low; a very dear commodity soon becomes very cheap by glutting the market. kúi-tsoā", dear and cheap.

àm-kúi, a secret mark (as a wart) on the skin (said by fortune-tellers). ū-kúi-keh, appearance of face giving omens of wealth.

ko-kúi, high-priced, as goods. mih" ko-kúi, goods are very dear (in that shop). teh-ko-kúi, asking too much, as for goods or for one's services. kàu-chiah-ko-kúi, said in finding fault with an inferior who is unwilling to help or to come when called.

kúi-sèng (polite phrases), your surname. kúi-kok, your native kingdom. kúi-hú, your native place.

teng-tsái-kúi, sa"-jī tsng, male posterity wealth and rank in full measure. tsái-teng-kúi, &c., id.

kúi (R. id.), a chest; a shop-counter; used in the names of various parties having the care of money or accounts.

siáu-kúi, a book-keeper (v. siáu). siáu-kúi-toh, a shop-counter. chiáng-kúi, man who has charge of the money in a hong, a large strong money-chest; a shroff, or man in a hong who has charge of the money. peng-kúi, a confidential agent of the Tartar general (not himself a mandarin), who is stationed in the office of the Chinese commissioner of customs (hái-koan) to watch and report what he does. lái-kúi siù"-kang, clerks or secretaries within the custom-house, who have charge of the money. goā-kúi siù"-kang, clerks in the outer part of the custom-house who stamp documents, &c. kúi-su, a collector of taxes for a division of a hien district who goes about the country as assistant of the hē-pāng.

chí"-kúi, a large long chest for money, esp. copper cash. chí"-kúi-á, a smaller sort. chí"-kúi-á-tiám, a money-changer's shop. chí"-kúi-á-toh, a money-changer's table. chí"-kúi-toh, id. liēn-kúi, a shop-counter. thong-hē-kúi, do. outside the door, or partly inside it. thong-lē-kúi, id. toh-kúi, a table with drawers in it. toh-kúi-á, do.

掛

割
賣

幾

癸
季

櫃

smaller. pâi toh-kūi-á, to have a table as a stall in the street, as fortune-tellers, street money-changers, or men who write documents for a small payment. toh-kūi-thoah, a drawer in a small table.

oā<sup>n</sup>-kūi, to change one's style of dress at beginning of summer or winter. kūi-á, a small chest, esp. for clothes. chhng-kūi, a long chest that serves as a bed or couch. kūi-chhng, id.

hong-kūi, the Chinese substitute for bellows, a cylinder with a piston; also (C.), fanners. khan hong-kūi, to work the piston of Chinese bellows. iét hong-kūi (C.), to winnow with fanners. chhiū<sup>n</sup> hong-kūi (C.), id. lê-kūi, bellows for a forge (cylindrical). tsúi-kūi, a water-tank for a vessel.

kūi (R. id.), to kneel; to kneel to. kūi hong-tè, to kneel to the emperor. kūi thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, to kneel and worship Heaven and Earth. kūi-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to kneel and present a petition to a mandarin, as on the road.

kūi-pài, to kneel and do reverence or worship. khiám-chit-kūi, to do everything but kneel (said of very urgent entreaty). poà<sup>n</sup>-kūi, bend low, almost kneeling. phah-poà<sup>n</sup>-kūi, id. siang-kha kūi tah-tah, kneeling on both knees very humbly. khók-khók-kūi, to kneel over and over. phak-tê kūi, to kneel and prostrate one's self, as to a very high official. kūi phak-tê, id. kūi-phak, id. sam-kūi kiú-khê, to kneel thrice, and knock the forehead nine times. kūi-jú (R.), to kneel in sucking, as a lamb.

kūi [R. hoái, the bosom; to contain, = col. kú]. koà-kūi, pregnant; not said of a woman, but only of animals, esp. pigs; swollen with the ear, as the blade of grain about to burst, just before "chhut-sūi."

kūi-tsúi, slightly dropsical and swollen, as limbs, or as diseased yellow face. koàn-kūi, full of water that leaks in, as ill-built wall.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. kng, bright; light.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. keng, a room; classifier of houses (distinguish from "keng," a temple, which remains unchanged in Cn.)

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. keng, the shoulder.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, to shut, as door or window.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, high.

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.), = A. kng, to roll up.

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.), = A. kng, a tube. ām-kú<sup>i</sup>, = A. ām-kún, the neck.

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.), = A. kng. kú<sup>i</sup>-tang, Canton. kú<sup>i</sup>-sai, Kwangsi.

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.) ki-kú<sup>i</sup>-á, snares, traps, or curious contrivances, worked by secret wheels, springs, &c. tiu<sup>n</sup> oáh-kú<sup>i</sup> (A. kú), to use such contrivances.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. keng, to choose.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. keng, a fold in a dress.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>. chhin-kūi<sup>n</sup>, the beam of a steelyard, &c.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) kūi<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, to worship ancestors by offerings (T. kái<sup>n</sup>).

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.), = A. kng, an essay, &c.

kú<sup>i</sup> (C.), = A. kng (several words); to make a hole; to string; a string, as of pearls; a ring for nose of ox, &c.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, accustomed.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. kàn, to break the regular succession, as of days, &c.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. koai<sup>n</sup>, a Hien district or city; its mandarin.

kūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. keng, to assist, &c.

kuih (C. koeh), to scratch with the hand or with an instrument; to rub hard, as in shampooing to relieve pain or sickness; to rub in, as cement; to clean, as a small-tooth comb. thui-kuih, to shampoo with long and short rubs ("kuih" is the shorter rub, and done with more force). kuih ham-khak-á-chi<sup>n</sup>, to rub hard with a shell, as in sickness; also (T. uih), to make a shell turn upside down by pressing it with the nail, as children do in play. kuih--khi-lâi (cf. uih), to take up with the finger, as paste. kuih-he, to rub lime or cement into a crevice. kuih tsng-phâng, do. into the crevices of a tiled floor or roof.

kuih po-lê, to break off a small bit of glass by scratching it with a diamond.

kuih (cf. kú). ε kuih-kuih, very black, as a person.

kun (Cn. kün). khat-kun, willing to do something difficult, troublesome, or expensive (v. khat).

kun — tsóá-kun, paper cut into long strips, as for making matches, or for mixing in mortar. tsóá-kun-he, fine plaster for walls or ceilings, having finely cut paper mixed in it.

kun [R. equally]. kun-tu (C. kin-tu), yet all the same after all. kun-nih<sup>n</sup>, id. kun--tit, id. kun--tit bōe-ōe, after all quite unable, however you may teach, or he may try. kun-tu si àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, no difference after all; "six and half-a-dozen;" though it may appear different, yet really it is much the same, e.g. salary more, but expenses greater. kun-tu hô-beh-thia<sup>n</sup>, yet after all one tries he will not hear.

kun-pêng, equal and undecided, as a drawn game.

kun [R. koan, a barrier]. thâu-kun-ta, the large rock (Cornwallis Rock) near ê-mng-káng.

kün (Cn.) kün-toáh-chhài, = ka-boáh-chhài, a vegetable.

kun (R. id.), a sovereign, king, emperor, reigning duke, &c. kun-ông, id. jín-kun, id. kok-kun, id. kun-sin, sovereign and minister (v. sin). tióng-kun pò-kok, loyal to his sovereign, and grateful to the dynasty (v. tióng). khi-kun, treason. gék-chí khi-kun, id. sèng-kun, an emperor who acts as a sage. sèng-kun hiên-siòng, emperor and prime minister very wise, good, and just.

tong-kun, the owner of a school, or man who supplies the funds, and engages the teacher. lông-kun, a polite phrase for a young man; sometimes said of a husband (v. lóng).

kun-tsú, a man of superior excellence; a good man. sien siáu-jín, hê kun-tsú, first bargain strictly, and afterwards you can be courteous. kun-tsú-só, a very small padlock. kun-tsú-siám, wrestling or embracing, as if wrestling for amusement. kun-tsú-chhát, a thief who looks respectable, and steals valuable things; said also of an adulterer (v. chhát).

sòe-kun, the name of a year expressed by cyclical characters, as used for divination.

sù-kun, four important medicines, viz. sim, lêng, tsút, chhó. sù-kun-tsú (R. sù-kun-tsú; Cn. sek-kan-tsü), a medicine much used for worms in children; fruit of Quisqualis sinensis.

tè-kun, title of Kwanti and of Wên-chang; said also in addressing Tâi-tô-kong. bûn-chhióng tè-kun, Wên-chang, the god of literature. tsú-tòng tè-kun, id. ná<sup>n</sup> tsú-tòng tè-kun, said of a very elegant good-looking man. chin-bú tè-kun, = Hiên-thien siòng-tè. tè-kun-kong, a title of Tâi-tô-kong.

跪

懷

均

關
君

giâm-kun, = giâm-lô-ông, the judge of the dead. tsáu-kun-kong, the god of the fire-place (v. tsàu). pak-táu seng-kun, the star-god of the Great Bear. tiu<sup>u</sup> chin-kun, an idol of the surname (tiu<sup>u</sup>) Chang. tiu<sup>u</sup> thien-kun, id.

kun (R. id.), an army (properly 12,500 men on paper); to banish to the frontiers. kun-liú-tê, three sorts of banishment; banishment or transportation in general. chhiong-kun, to banish to the military frontiers, or to a distance of from four to eight thousand li. chhiong-kun mng-liú, transportation and banishment. chhiong-goá-kun, to transport to the most distant frontiers.

chiong-kun, the Tartar general stationed at each provincial capital. chioh-chiong-kun, stone figures of men at graves. bé-chiong-kun, an idol with a horse's head, attendant on Giâm-lô-ông. gû-chiong-kun, cow-headed do. si<sup>u</sup>-mng chiong-kun, a shrub with bunches of rich purple flowers. chiong-kun-tiú<sup>u</sup>, a pair of curtains hung before a general or other high mandarin (civil or military) when administering justice. chiong-kun bô-ti--teh, sió-kun phah-láh, when the general is away, the soldiers go to hunt; cat away, mice play.

sió-kun, a common soldier. chiong-kun (R.), the whole army (v. chiong, "all"). kun-bin, soldiers and people. kun-bin jin-téng, id. kun-peng, soldiers. kun-sü (R.), soldiers and petty officers. kun-su, an officer on the staff skilful at planning battles (v. su, "teacher"). kun-su (C. kun-si), war taxes or contributions so called (v. su, "to need").

kun-chêng, circumstances or affairs of an army. lâu-siet kun-ki, to let out secrets. kun-ki-bô, a cap sometimes worn by military mandarins. kun-hoat, military rules and regulations. kun-lêng, military orders. kun-khi, weapons and ammunition; munitions of war. kun-tsong, id. kun-tsong-kék, an arsenal chiefly for warlike stores. kun-kong-chhiú<sup>u</sup>, arsenal and dock for building war-vessels.

gû-lim-kun, the imperial body-guard. sam-kun, the imperial army in three divisions.

chêng-kun, the van. âu-kun, the rear. tsó-kun iú-kun, the wings. tiong-kun, the centre. tiong-kun-hú, = toá-thia<sup>u</sup>-iá, name of an idol (v. thia<sup>u</sup>).

bé-kun-iá, two images, attendants of Kwantí or of Sêng-hông, holding horses. lék-bé-kun, id. pàng-kun-chiong, to send spirits to help their votaries, as powerful idols do. khò-kun, to make offerings of food to the spirit soldiers sent to guard a place.

chhut-kun, to go to war, as army. siu-kun, to make a retreat or call back the army. hōe-kun, id. tâu-kun, to enlist; to enter the army. chio-kun bóe-bé, said in scolding noisy children. loán-kun-tiong, in the turmoil of battle. kun-tiong bú-hi-giên, serious talk in serious matters.

kun (R. id.), (C. kin; Cn. kün), a napkin; a towel; a cloth; a band for the head. chhéh-kun, a cloth for wrapping round books. ké-kun, a hag for steaming some cakes, &c. lū-kun, a cloth for straining the materials in making bean-curd.

khâm-kun, the cross timber on the how of a boat or junk, on which the anchor rope or cable runs.

thâu-kun, a cloth worn on the head by women. thâu-kun-téng, the top-sail of a junk. thâu-mng-kun, the cloth that is tied on a man when he is being shaved. kha-kun, cloth tied round the loins, as substitute for short trousers; cloth for drying the feet (s.

sinew). chhiú-kun, a handkerchief; a napkin. bin-kun, a small handkerchief used for washing the face. e-bin-kun, a black cloth worn on the head by old women. e-kun, a small black scarf or handkerchief, tied round woman's head. e-kun-khø, ornament worn on woman's forehead. hien e-kun, to raise the bride's veil slightly, as bridegroom does on the marriage day. phè-á-kun, sort of cloth worn on the head, esp. by bad women. báng-kun, sort of head-band used by women in the Ming dynasty, now seen in plays. chhim-i hok-kun, dress and hood of the dead according to the Ming form. hoe-kun, a checked or variegated handkerchief, used for wrapping things; also a thin checked cloth sometimes worn on the head by women, esp. by Cantonese bad women (s. root). tà-hoe-kun, to wear it on the head; worn also in Táng-óa<sup>u</sup> by middle-aged women. jiàu<sup>u</sup>-se-kun, a long band of crape, or stuff like crape, used by men as a turban, or for tying round the waist; or worn by women on the head.

kun (R. id.), (C. kin; Cn. kün), a catty; a Chinese pound, = about 1½ pounds, = 16 taels (niú<sup>u</sup>). kun-niú<sup>u</sup>, catties and taels. kun-ji, one catty and two taels (&c.) bē-chiú<sup>u</sup>-kun (C. bōe-chiø<sup>u</sup>-kin), not up to one catty in weight.

chhien-kun-tui, = lám-kong, the rope that draws the top of the sail close to the mast. chhien-kun-chhin, an arrangement of several strong levers for raising a great weight (v. chhin). chit-pah-kun-lát, able to carry a hundred catties.

chiauh-kun, to throw up small round stones, as children do in play. phék-kun, id.

kun [R. the heel; to follow], (C. kin; Cn. kün), to get hold of a man by first getting hold of one of his relatives, &c. kun-chhut, to force a man to compear by laying hold of a relative or connection, and keeping him or punishing him till he gets the other to deliver himself up. kun-tiok, id. kun-kiú kàu hit-ê-lâng chhut--lái, id. khít--i kun--khi, to be forced to come forward by our relative being seized or getting into trouble.

kun-tè (C. kin-tòe), to follow; to wait upon, as attendant. kun-súi, id. kun-koa<sup>u</sup>, to follow a mandarin, as an attendant. kun-pan, a mandarin's attendant who goes on foot after his sedan kun [R. a sinew? the heel?], phah-kun-táu, to make a somerset.

kun (R. id.), (C. kin; Cn. kün), a root. hoe-kun, a flowering plant (s. napkin). kun-tin õng, having numerous posterity that live. ũ-kun-ki, said of a child whose luck is to grow well and to prosper (v. ki, "foundation").

kun-tsat, careful and cautious, as in managing matters (v. tsat). ũ-bák-kun, able to see quickly what should be done in any circumstances, esp. as to politeness (s. vein).

chhoá<sup>u</sup>-kun, a piece of wood sunk crosswise into two planks or timbers to hold them together.

chhoàn-kun, the part of a document (e.g. receipt for land-tax) left in the hook when the document is torn off and used.

tsáng-kun-thâu, the most important item, or principal manager, of a matter. tsóng-kun-thâu, a central place from which many roads diverge. tsòe tsóng-kun-thâu, to be the principal agent or manager in a matter.

kun-pún, origin. kun-tóe (C. kin-té), origin or beginning, as of an affair; antecedents of a man, or his original circumstances (v. tóe). kun-ti, id. kun-bú,

軍

斤

跟

根

巾

the crown of the root of a plant; the root principle, origin, or most important part of an affair. chhiú kun-goán, to follow the clue to search out the real root of the affair. tng-kun (C. tūi<sup>n</sup>-kin), to cut up by the root, as a disease or bad habit. bōe-chin-kun, to buy in perpetuity. bōe-chin-kun, to sell without power of redemption. chin-kun-bōe, id.

si<sup>n</sup>-kun, to send out roots. si<sup>n</sup>-kun têng-tiâu, apparently fixed permanently in a situation or residence (as if rooted or nailed firm); said also in scolding a man who does not rise politely when a visitor comes in.

kā chhiú-khi-kun, to clench the teeth, as in pain or impotent displeasure (v. kā).

chhia-kun-chhài (T.), = pe-lêng-chhài, a sort of vegetable.

手 肋

kun (R. id.), (C. kin; Cn. kün), a sinew or tendon; a muscle; a nerve; a vein or artery.

kun-jün, tough and elastic; narrow and unwilling to pay money. kha-chhiú kun kiā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), arms and legs strong.

huih-kun, veins or arteries. kun-méh<sup>n</sup>, the veins as appearing on the skin hī-á-kun, the veins at the back of the ear. bák-kun âng, eyes red, as with liquor (s. root). kek âng-kun, veins red and swollen, as with inflammation. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kun phû, veins appearing swollen on the skin. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kun hiên, id. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kun tiū<sup>n</sup>-âm, veins of the neck swollen (said of a man calling out loud and long).

kun-le, the small branching nerves or sinews in men or animals. kun-thâu, thick muscular parts of the limbs and breast. kun-thâu ân, rheumatic pains in the muscles. tui-kun-thâu leh, to twitch the thick muscular parts, in shampooing. kun-eng, a boil or abscess where the muscles are thick and strong. tsoáh-kun, a very severe sprain. siau-kun, cramp. kha siau-kun, cramp in the leg. kha-kun siau, id. kha-kun, the large tendon at the heel (tendon Achilles), or in the bend of the knee (s. napkin). pàng-kha-kun, to cut the tendon of the heel. koah kha-kun, id. kha-âu-kun, the great tendon or sinew in the bend of the knee. toá-pán-kun, id. chih-kun, the string of the tongue (v. chih).

lók-kun, stag's sinews, edible. soa<sup>n</sup>-bé-kun, sinews of horses (edible), generally counterfeit. gú-kun, cow's tendons, for bow-strings. têng-kun, stirrup-straps. gē-kun-chháu, = ku-chiên-chháu, the medicinal plantago; leaf has five veins.

焗

kún, to boil very thoroughly in water. kún-thng, to make a soup or decoction. kún-bah, to boil pork very soft. kún-noá<sup>n</sup>, to boil very soft; to boil to rags.

裙

kún (R. id.), a petticoat. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-kún, woman's gown and petticoat. tng-sa<sup>n</sup> sám-kún, long gown and flowing skirt, the full dress under the Ming dynasty (still said of full dress, though not now worn). bóng-kún, dragon-embroidered petticoat of mandarin's wife. siù-kún, embroidered petticoat.

kún-thâu, waist of petticoat (s. fist). kún-toà, band for tying on the petticoat at the waist. kún-kéng, folds of petticoat.

pháng-kún, extra sail below the main-sail. ē-kún, the cross timber below the main folding-doors of a central hall.

úi-su-kún, an apron. úi-sin-kún, id. tē-kún, a pouch tied over the bride's abdomen when she goes to be married.

拳

kún [R. koán, khoán, the fist; the closed hand]. kún-thâu, the fist; boxing with the fist (s. petticoat).

kún-thâu-bú, the fist. kún-thâu sai-hū, a teacher of boxing kún-thâu-pē, the arts or tricks of boxing (v. pē). kún-thâu koái<sup>n</sup>, good at boxing. kún-thâu kē, unskilful at boxing. liên kún-thâu, to practise boxing. liên-kún, id. pí-kún, to go through boxing exercise, either alone or with another. pí-kún-thâu, id. pí kún-thâu-bú, to shake one's fist at a man. kiā<sup>n</sup> kún-thâu, to gesticulate, showing how we can box; to beat the air in boxing exercise. kiā<sup>n</sup>-kún, id. liáh kún-thâu, id. liáh-kún, id.

phah-kún, to strike one's self hard with the fist, as men do in the streets for a show, or as quacks, &c. phah-kún, bōe kē-ióh, to wound one's self by beating and then apply a plaster, as quacks do to get a good sale. phah káu-kún, id. káu-kún, a peculiar sort of boxing. éng-chhun tát-tsun, thài-tsé káu-kún, said of Sòng thài-tsé, the founder of the Sung dynasty, who was a great boxer.

khi-kún, to raise the fist, as when going to strike. chhò-kún, to wound severely or kill unintentionally. tsân-kún, to assist in thrashing a man. túi-kún liáh-lêng (Cn.), to shampoo, &c., as barbers do.

kún-thò, the arts or tricks of boxing. kúi-ná<sup>n</sup> thò-kún, several boxing tricks.

hoah-kún, to play at morra, guessing the number of fingers the other holds up. chiáh-chiú hoah-kún, to drink and play at morra.

kún (R. id.), a flock; a herd; a large company of persons or animals, even of fish. iū<sup>n</sup>-kún, a flock of sheep or goats. chit-kún-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. láng-kún káu-tóng, "birds of a feather flock together," rather in bad sense. hē-kún káu-tóng, a set of vile wicked people.

羣

kui-kún, a whole flock or herd; a whole large company; in large numbers. kui-kún kui-koah, in large companies or flocks, as men or animals. tsòe-kún, to consort with, as companion. tàu-kún, to go in a company. chhiau-kún (R.), superior to others in something (v. chhiau). koá<sup>n</sup>-kún (r.), to run about in noisy troops, as boys. khi-kún (T.), to have a desire for the male, as female cattle.

kún (C. kú<sup>n</sup>). âm-kún, the neck (v. âm).

kún, to sew on an ornamental border (on the very edge of a dress) of different colour or stuff; to face or trim a dress with some stuff. siu<sup>n</sup>-kún, to ornament clothes by sewing on a border of a different stuff on the very edge, or a little way off the edge ("siu<sup>n</sup>" is a little off the edge, leaving a rim of the original stuff visible; "kún" is on the very edge), (s. boil). siu<sup>n</sup>-kún-iên, do. in various ways on women's dress.

袷

kún-sa<sup>n</sup>, to face or trim the edge of a dress. kún-niá<sup>n</sup>, to put on a double thickness of cloth at the collar. kún-ki<sup>n</sup>, to sew on a border or facing of different stuff. kún toán-ki<sup>n</sup>, to face with satin. kún-toán, id. kún-pē, to face or bind the edge with cotton cloth. kún-jiông, to face with velvet.

kún-liáu, a narrow band of some stuff to be used as a border or edging of dress, cap, &c. toán-kún, a satin border or edging. pē-kún, border or edging of cotton cloth.

kún (R. id.), to boil; to be boiling, as water (not said of the things that are boiled in the water); boiling; to bubble in boiling; to be noisy. hiá<sup>n</sup>-kún, to make to boil; to set a boiling, as water. hiá<sup>n</sup> kún-tsúi, to boil water. kún-tsúi, boiling water. iét kún-tsúi, to blow the fire (with a fan) so as to make the water boil. siu<sup>n</sup>-kún, too hot and boiling (s. border).

滾

sio kún-kún, very hot, as hot water, or as in the sun. jiét kún-kún, very hot and fevered, as in illness; very crowded and numerous, as a multitude; very desirous of something, e.g. of pleasure or of battle.

loân-loân-kún, very noisy and busy, as many persons. hoã-hoã-kún, bawling and making a great noise, as a crowd. chhiàng-chhiàng-kún, making a great noise, as a multitude, or as water boiling. kún chhiàng-chhiàng, boiling violently.

pak-té kún--chhut-lâi, having a tendency to vomit; unable to repress a smile or a laugh.

kún, to joke; to laugh and jest; to make sport or play tricks by word or actions. kún-chhiò, id. chhê-kún, coarse play (wrestling or fighting for fun), such as may easily grow to a real quarrel; improper liberties in talk or action, as with females. gâu-kún, making practical jokes or playing tricks. bô-gâu-kún, this is a serious affair, and no joke. m-thang gâu-kún, don't play tricks so; don't make such unseasonable sport or jesting. m-thang-kún, id.

kún (cf. kùn). kún-lún-tsùn, to struggle, as in escaping; to writhe or wriggle, as in pain, or as a snake; much twisted, as a rope, or as the root of a tree (v. tsùn).

kùn — kùn-kiū<sup>n</sup>, obstinate (v. kiū<sup>n</sup>). kùn-tsùn, to struggle to get free from one who holds us; to take means to avoid paying expenses (v. tsùn). kùn--tsáu, to escape by struggling violently. kùn-lùn--tsáu, id. kùn-lèng--tsáu, to struggle violently with body and limbs to get off (v. lèng). khít--i kùn--khi, to have let him escape by struggling.

kùn (R. id.), a club; the wooden stick by which punishment is inflicted in military yamens; to strike with a heavy stick; (used in many phrases describing rascals and rogues).

kong-kùn, a rogue; a swindler. láu-kong-kùn, a great rogue. toã-kong-kùn, id. kong-kùn-thûi, a man too sharp to be taken in by any rogue; sometimes himself too cunning for others. koái-kùn, a kidnapper. kiáu-kùn, a very cunning skilful gambler. siông-kùn, a pettifogging lawyer who constantly incites to lawsuits. khan--i siông-kùn, to accuse him of being such a pettifogger. tē-kùn, a man who takes a lead in evil, as in a village. thê-kùn, id. chhoàng-kùn, a man fond of low vicious pleasures and rows, and who leads others into them.

i<sup>n</sup> kùn-kùn, fat and plump, as the arm; round, as the leg of a table. i<sup>n</sup>-kùn i<sup>n</sup>-kùn, id. i<sup>n</sup>-kùn (C.), plump and fat, as a man. chhêng kàu i<sup>n</sup>-kùn-kùn, having on a great many clothes, so as to look quite fat.

chhâ-kùn, a large club or staff. bók-kùn, id. tin-kùn, a heavy rattan-stick for punishment in military yamen. kiap-kùn, an instrument for torturing the feet.

kùn kúi-ê, beat how many blows in military yamen. kùn jī-tsáp, beat twenty blows. phah jī-tsáp-ê kùn, id.

kùn (R. id.), (C. kìn, Cn. kün), near, in place or time. kùn bīh-bīh, very near, in place. kùn-hū (r.), id. hū-kùn (r.), id. pek-kùn, to press near; to press upon. óa-kùn, to approach. kùn-óa, id. kùn-chêng, to come forward and approach. chiū-kùn, to approach. chhin-kùn (r.), to come near and have intercourse with a person.

kùn-sī, near-sighted.

chiong-kùn, almost; nearly; very similar to.

kùn-jit, a day not far distant, before or after. kùn-lâi, lately; recently; not long ago. kùn-lâi hó--má, have you been well of late? how do you do?

oán-chhin put-jū kún-lin, a neighbour at hand is better than a relative far off (v. óan).

kún-ti--chiá, hiên, they who keep company with the wise grow wise. kún-tsu--chiá, chhek; kún-bêk--chiá, hek, near vermilion becomes red; near ink, black.

kut (R. id.), a bone; the ribs of a fan; the pieces of wood that make up a window ready for the glass or for the venetian slips. kut-thâu, a boue. kut-hái, fleshless bones of the dead. kē-kut, rotten old human bones (v. kē). kun-kut, sinews and bones.

kha-kut, the bone of the leg; the leg. chhiú-kut, the bone of the arm; the arm. nng-kut, gristle; also, impotent in the legs (without any definite disease or injury), so as to be quite unable to walk.

kāu-kut, full of bones, as a fish. chit-ê-bīn kut-kut, face naturally lank and lean, with bones prominent. kut-bīn kut-bīn, id. bīn lóng-sī kut-lō, id.

khah-ū kut-lō, solid, well-connected, and full of matter, as an essay. khah-ū kut-khi, id.

kut-keh, general form of body (v. keh). ki-kut, id.; framework, as of a lamp, &c. (v. ki). thih-kut-á-si<sup>n</sup>, short and firmly set, as man. tâng-sin thih-kut, not afraid of cold or of a beating (v. thih).

phái<sup>n</sup>-kut-tê, giving signs that he will be an idle and useless fellow if he grows up (said of a bad boy). pháit<sup>n</sup>-kut-phe, id. pháit<sup>n</sup>-kut-tsoe, id. pháit<sup>n</sup>-kut, id. pháit<sup>n</sup>-kut-thâu, id.

sek-kut, precocious and intelligent, as young child [perhaps this phrase belongs to the second following word, "kut,"=kút].

toã<sup>n</sup>-kut, lazy. pin-toã<sup>n</sup>-kut, id. lê-moã<sup>n</sup>-kut, an idle dissolute fellow (v. moã<sup>n</sup>). kiū<sup>n</sup>-kut, stoically indifferent to pain, toil, &c. (v. kiū<sup>n</sup>). poãn-kut, a man who sides with his employer's enemies. thiáp-kut-sit (T. Cn.), regular and proper in behaviour. khít-chiáh-kut, a mean or mean-looking fellow, like a beggar. chiên-kut-siòng, making one's self too low or humble in manner or appearance, e.g. wearing dress too mean for one's position, or not accepting comforts offered (v. chiên).

kek-kut, ironical, sarcastic, or jibing and contradictory (v. kek). pē-thâu bú-kut, said of vile scolding by applying abusive epithets to a man's parents.

jī-kut, the style or hand in which a word is written (v. kut).

kut-lún, a large joint, as of the limbs. kut-bák, the enlargement at a joint, as at ankle or knuckles; one of the smaller joints, as in feet or hands. kut-tsat, one bone (esp. a small bone) between two joints. kut-chhé, marrow.

bē túg-kut, not come to puberty, as a boy (the bones are supposed to supply the masculine principle). beh túg-kut, about to come to that age.

chhin-kut-jiók, one's own blood relations (not adoptive), as son or brother (v. jiók). chhin-kut-hék, id. tâng-kut-hék, near blood-relation. kut-bah, bones and flesh (v. bah). bah-kut, pig's bones. bah-siau, kut-hiên, flesh wasted away and bones appearing.

sán-kut lóh-hiòh, very very lean. chit-têng-phê, pi<sup>n</sup> chit-têng-kut, skin and bone.

hūn--lâng jip-kut, hating heartily. hūn--lâng kàu-jip-kut, id. thiá<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip-kut, to be extremely painful; to love very affectionately, as husband and wife, or as parent and child. chhin kàu-jip-kut, very affectionate, as friends.

骨

根

近

si<sup>n</sup>-kut, the ribs of a fan. ng-moâ<sup>n</sup>-kut, peeled and dried hemp-stalks. siên-hi-kut, work like a closely-jointed watch-chain (like eel's back-bone). lêng-kut, a sort of mineral (fossil bones? Belemnite?), (v. lêng). kut-kô (Cn.), the whole set of a woman's hair-pins, &c.

tê-kut-phî, a cooling medicine. hé-kut-ka, jelly from tigers' bones (medicinal). ngâu<sup>n</sup>-kut, to boil bones into jelly or glue.

png-si-kut, the shoulder-blade. gi-pê-kut, inner shoulder-bone. io-kut, lower end of back-bone. ka-chiah-kut, the back-bone. heng-khâm-kut, breast-bone.

kut [R. chhut, to go out; to put out]. kut-lát, to exert strength.

kut [R. kút, crafty; cf. kút]. káu-kut, crafty; deceitful; intriguing. kê-kut, over-sharp in dealings. ké-kut, pretending to be knowing and cunning. kut-kut (Cn.), precocious and intelligent, as child.

khiáu-kut, lively and open, as child. sek-kut, precocious and intelligent, as child [or does this phrase belong to "kut," a bone?]

kút (R. id.) káu-kút, = káu-kut, crafty; intriguing.

kút (R. id.), slippery; very smooth. kút-kút, id.; savoury, as food well-cooked with much fat. kút-lút-sút, slippery. kút liu-liu, id., as road. kút liù-liù, id.

kng-kút, polished very smooth, as a surface; very smooth, as a man's skin; specially polished more than once, or worn very smooth by use. kam-kút, very sweet and pleasing, as flattery, or words of praise, or politeness, either true or false; very pleasant to eat, as fruit just ripe, or food well-cooked. chhùi-ti<sup>n</sup> chih-kút, smooth, flattering, and deceitful in talk. chhùi kút-kút, too talkative.

kút--lòh-khì, to slide down a slippery incline. kút--tó, to slip or slide so as to fall. táh-kút--khì, to stumble by treading on a slippery or slushy place.

kút [R. high and eminent, like a solitary peak]. kút-khì, to begin to be prosperous, as a man whose ancestors and parents have not been any way distinguished.

kút (R. id.), to dig. kút-thô, to dig in the earth. kút-gûn, to dig up silver (said of trade extremely prosperous). thân-chi<sup>n</sup>, ná<sup>n</sup> kút-kim, making a vast deal of money, like digging up gold. khah-hó khì kút-kim, id. (lit. better than digging gold).

kút [R. name of a medicine]. kút-sék, a sort of medicine.

kwa, kwâ, kwá, kwà, kwâ; better koa, koà, koá, koà (q.v.)

kwa<sup>n</sup>, kwâ<sup>n</sup>, kwá<sup>n</sup>, kwà<sup>n</sup>, kwâ<sup>n</sup>; better koa<sup>n</sup>, koá<sup>n</sup>, koà<sup>n</sup>, koâ<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

kwah; better koah (q.v.) kwai, kwái, kwài, kwâi; better koai, koái, koài, koâi (q.v.)

kwai<sup>n</sup>, kwâi<sup>n</sup>, kwái<sup>n</sup>, kwâi<sup>n</sup>, kwâi<sup>n</sup>; better koai<sup>n</sup>, koâi<sup>n</sup>, koâi<sup>n</sup>, koâi<sup>n</sup>, koâi<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

kwâih<sup>n</sup>; better koâih<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

kwák; better koák (q.v.) kwan, kwân, kwán, kwàn, kwân; better koan, koân, koàn, koân (q.v.)

kwat; better koat (q.v.)

崖

掘

骨

出
猾

猾
滑

花

脚

kha [R. hoa, a flower]. lók-kha-seng, the ground-nut or pea-nut; arachis.

kha (C.) kha-chiah, = ka-chiah, the back.

kha (Cn.) = A. khia, one article, esp. one article of a pair without the other.

kha (Cn.) su-kha, = A. sai-khia, private.

kha [R. kiok, = col. kioh], the foot; the leg; at or near the foot of — (after the word); used in many phrases for an assistant, a worker, or a place.

kha-chhiú, hands and feet; arms and legs; assistants (v. chhiú). kha-á, an assistant, esp. for low or coarse work. chhát-kha-á, the assistants of a head thief or robber. koh chít-kha, one more hand (is wanted), as chair-bearer or gambler. phái<sup>n</sup>-kha, a bad customer, who pays ill; a cunning gambler, hard to be fleeced, or who pays ill. hó-kha, a good customer; a gambler who readily pays his debts; a pleasant boon companion. hó-kha-ké, a pleasant companion in low pleasures (v. ké). kiáu-kha, a gambler, esp. in relation to his usual gambling haunts (v. kiáu). tùi-kha poáh, two persons gambling together. kê-tùi-kha, id. thit-thô-kha, a young fellow fond of low vicious pleasures. kiô-kha, a chair-bearer. kong-siá-kha, do, esp. counting the number in a shop. siá<sup>n</sup>-lái-kha, chair-bearers from the city, e.g. from Chin-chew. lién-kha, bearers of an idol's chair. chhái-liên- kha, secondary subscribers to the "ông-iâ" procession, &c. tsúi-kha, a water-carrier. phôe-kha (Cn.), a courier. lô-hàn-kha, a tramp; a wandering man without friends or relatives, generally idle and vagabond. ki-kha (Cn.), a sorcerer who pretends to be inspired. tsàu-kha, a kitchen. thê-kha, an earthen or tiled floor; the ground viewed merely as a surface (v. thê). hái-kha, the sea-shore. kán-ç-kha, a sea-port (said only of distant ports). sòng-kha, Luzon (v. sòng).

ê-kha, the lower part, as of any place. pin-kha, the place near the temples, where the hair (of women) stops. hiáh-kha, the middle of the forehead just where the hair ends (v. hiáh). mng-kha, id. mng-kha, at the very door, just inside (v. mng, "door"). lâu-kha, the ground floor of a house. kiá-á-kha, the foot of a stair. pi<sup>n</sup>-kha, the foot of a stage; round or near the stage. chióh-hng-kha, near the foot of the memorial arch. siá<sup>n</sup>-kha--nih<sup>n</sup>, at the foot of the city wall. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kha, the foot of the wall. chhiú-kha, near the foot of the tree; below the tree. tí-hé-kha--nih<sup>n</sup>, just below the lamp. tí-siông-kha, almost up to the rank of prime minister. hiáp si tìn-kha, the officer called "hiáp" is the next below the "tín-tái." thi<sup>n</sup>-kha-ê, all under heaven.

pê-bú kha-tau, parent's house or home. hông-tè kha-tau, the metropolis: the imperial capital. tí-

KH.

lí--ê kha-tau, just at your feet; just where you stand.

toh-kha, the foot or leg of a table. khè-kha, legs of trousers. khi-kha, the roots of the teeth. khi-kha, to lift one's foot. bân-jī-kha, the character "bân" worked at the foot, as of a dress, or of a curtain, or of wood-work. hé-jī-kha, the 86th radical written at the foot of the character. khoà<sup>n</sup>-hé si<sup>n</sup>-kha, to see rays from a lamp or candle, as in a peculiar state of the eyes. jīt si<sup>n</sup>-kha, rays of the sun shining through the clouds.

σ-kha (C.), the tide just beginning to ebb.

chhun-kha, sort of small wings projecting in front of a house.

chiam-kha iù, the needlework is fine.

kha-pân, the measure of one's foot. che-m-sī kha-pàng, behaviour very bad, e.g. gambling, licentiousness, &c. kiâ<sup>n</sup>--khi, m-sī kha-pàng, id. kha-pē, a step, as to the manner of walking (v. pē). chit-pah-hoáh-kha, one hundred strides; fifty paces.

pái-kha, lame. luh-kha, to limp in walking. kiu-kha, to draw up the legs; to draw back from what we promised to do (v. kiu). liam-kha, to walk softly. soá-kha, to shift the position of the feet, as for a change (v. soá). khiau-kha, to put one leg over the other knee (v. khiau). khoà-kha, to rest the leg stretched out, as on a chair. khè-kha, to support the foot, as on a stool. ké-kha (C. kéc; Cn. kǒ), to use a stool or other support to get up higher; to support one leg of a table. ké-kha (C. ké), a woman's large foot made to look like a small foot. khiā-kha, to take temporary work for food, or very small wages (v. khiā). kiā-kha, to dwell in a place for a short time. hioh-kha, to rest for a short time. thēng-kha, to pause in walking. thng-chiah-kha, barefooted (v. thng). thg-kha, to stamp the foot. khioh-khi-kha chiū-kiā<sup>n</sup>, to get up (from sitting or lying), and get on one's legs ready to walk. kha-kiā<sup>n</sup>, to go on foot. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiap-kha, to follow in a line (v. chiap). êng-kha-kut, walking to no purpose. chin-êng-kha, id. khiàm-kha-chè, to have a journey in vain. thó-kha khít-lē-kiā<sup>n</sup>, id. kiā<sup>n</sup> bōe-khui-kha, unable to go far from home because of family matters. pe bōe-khui-kha, to hover (as hawk) over some animal that it is going to seize. thiàu-kha-koe, to hop. tió-kha-koe, id. chhiāng-kha-ke (C.), id.

iù-kha, small bandaged feet of women. chhe-kha, unbandaged feet of women. toā-kha, having large feet, either merely larger than the feet of others, or women's unbandaged feet. phái<sup>n</sup>-kha-chhā, feet of girl ill-formed, from not having been well bandaged at first. chiáu-kha, a bird's leg (said also of a person whose legs have no calves). chhau-kha, a leg with a bad sore or ulcer. kha hong, foot or leg having rheumatic pains.

lióng-kha-khiā, to keep neutral; to act or speak without making a decided choice. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-tiam, forming a triangle, as three villages. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-liáu, sailing with wind about a-beam. si-kha--ê, quadruped. chí<sup>n</sup> si-kha: lāng nng-kha, money has four feet, but man only two: hard to get it.

kha-bé, the foot. ni<sup>n</sup>-kha-bé, to stand on tiptoe. kha-bé-chek, candles burned at the foot of a corpse. kha-kut, the leg-bone; the leg. kha-kut ũ si-ki, chiū thang-khi, if you have four legs you may venture to go. kha-thúi, the thigh. kha-phāng, the opening between the legs, or in the bend of the knee. kha-chhng, the posteriors; the hollow bottom of a cup or bowl (v. chhng). kha-tāng, the leg from knee to ankle. kha-liām, the shins. kha-phi<sup>n</sup>-liām, id. kha-té, the calf of the leg. kha-áu-té, id. kha-thng, piece of the leg from knee to ankle, when the foot is gone (v. thng). kha-thāu-u, the knee (v. u). kha-oan, the hollow in the bend of the knee (v. oan). kha-bák, the ankle. kha-khū, the ankle in regard to cutting off (v. khū). kha-poā<sup>n</sup>, the upper surface of the foot; the instep. kha-áu-ti<sup>n</sup>, the heel. kha-áu-tsan (r.), id. kha-kun, the tendon of the heel (v. kun, a sinew). kha-kun, a long cloth for the loins, &c. (v. kun, a napkin). kha-tsng-thāu-á, a toe. kha-kah, nails of toes. kha-chiú<sup>n</sup>, the sole of the foot (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). kha-jiah, a footstep. kha-jiah-tóe, the sole of the foot. kha-chiah-tóe, id. kha-chioh-tóe, id. kha-chhioh-tóe, id. kha-tóe, the hoof of an animal. kha-sioh, soft dirty moisture of the sole.

kha-péh, a bandage for the feet (used by women). kha-béh, wadded leggings with no feet (used by women). kha-tháng, a foot-pail (v. tháng). kha-táh, a foot-stool, especially one belonging to its own couch. kha-kè, a large footstool. kha-khè, id. kha-ké, a sort of wooden stocks for the feet. kha-khóeh, id. kha-khau, iron fetters for the feet. kha-ló, id. kha-liáu, id. kha-ló chhiú-khau, manacles and fetters for hands and feet. kha-liáu chhiú-khau, id.

khá (Cn.), = A. khiā, to ride.

khá [R. khaú, = col. khiáu], ingenious; elegant; strange. kī-khá, ingenious; crafty; beautiful. khá-koài, wonderful; unexpected and strange (v. koài). chin-khá, a strange affair indeed! chin khá-sū, id. khá-khoán, of peculiarly beautiful or ingenious workmanship, esp. some new form or pattern; also, what a singular and improper way of acting! chin-khá-khoán, what extremely irregular and improper conduct! khá-bī, fine taste; delicate taste. bō sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-khá, just tolerably good; not at all above the common. kóng-khá-ōe, to talk in a humorous ludicrous way (often with low jesting or use of unusual phrases). khá-ê-ōe, such talk.

koai-khá, bright, intelligent, and obedient, as boy or child (v. koai). bák-thāu khá, able to see and learn at a glance.

khá-kiā<sup>n</sup>, you seldom visit us, surely you must have some business or some favour to ask.

khà [R. khè, to strike; to cut off, = col. khàu], to strike; to rap (more gently than "kóng"); to knock, e.g. as a pipe, to get something out of it; to cut off part of the length of a dress or of a sleeve.

khà-mng, to knock at the door. khà hun-chhe, to strike a pipe on the ground so as to knock out the tobacco and ashes. khà ham-khak-chí<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. tēng . . . , to throw one shell at another so as to turn it upside down, as in a boy's game.

khā [R. hā, leisure, = col. hē]. bō-khā (C.), no leisure.

khā (Cn.), = A. khiā, to stand.

khā<sup>n</sup> (R. kham), an earthen pot. toā-khā<sup>n</sup>, a large earthen pot. png-khā<sup>n</sup>, a coarse earthen dish for cooked rice. hoe-khā<sup>n</sup>, a flower-pot.

khá<sup>n</sup> [R. hām, to contain; joined, = col. há<sup>n</sup>, ká<sup>n</sup>]. khā<sup>n</sup>-tiáu, glued or cemented. khā<sup>n</sup>--teh, mended, as with glue; loosely attached, e.g. as loose papers sticking in the leaves of a book; stopped, as straws on a stream by slight obstacles over which a stronger current would carry them.

巧

扣

暇

含

kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, involved, as an affair; concealing one's purpose by avoiding a direct categorical answer. û-kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, involved, as a property on which there is a burden. lóng-bô kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, having no burden or disputed right on it. sa<sup>n</sup>-kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, much involved and hard to set right, as an affair; e.g. when both parties are somewhat wrong, or because every possible settlement injures men of influence, or with whom we wish to be friendly. kap-i û-sa<sup>n</sup>-kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, to be involved in his troubles because of having some relation or connection with him.

lóng-kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, double-minded and double-tongued; undecided and shuffling about, so as not to commit one's self on either side; one foot in and one foot out.

khah (R. khiok), (T. khih), a round small-mouthed wicker-basket used by fishermen. khah-á, id. tek-khah, id.

khah, more — (adverb, joined to verbs and adjectives), sign of the comparative; still more; rather —; too —; sometimes sign of superlative. khah-tûg, longer; too long. khah-ok-hé, more cruel than a tiger, &c. khah-kúi--ê, sa<sup>n</sup>-pah tiâ<sup>n</sup>-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, the dearest cost only 300.

koh-khah, still more —. kêng-koh-khah, yet still more.

khah-tit, a little better than before, though far from well; better than something else, but yet only tolerable. khah-si, rather it is —. khah-si, quicker. khah-si-lâi, come quicker. khah-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to conquer; to be superior or better. khah-su, to be beaten; to be inferior; can't help it (v. su). khah-thi<sup>n</sup>, add still more. khah-bô, rather not so. khah-û goâ-khì, rather fond of display. khah-thêng-á, after a little.

khah (= hah). chhiò-khah-khah, to laugh very loud.

kháh (cf. khák, ka). phah-kháh-chhiù<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze.

kháh (cf. khók, kháuh). kháh-kháh, incessantly; constantly. kháh-kháh-lâi, constantly coming. kháh-kháh-kóng, constantly speaking. kháh-kháh-tó (T.), constantly falling, as a child.

kháh — khê-kháh, to procrastinate idly, as a messenger. si-kòe-kháh, id.; to gad about idly; to get obstructed and settle down here and there, as bits of wood or straws on a stream.

kháh, to come near, as door or boat, &c.; to lose ground in tacking against wind and tide. kháh--lòh-lâi, to lose ground in tacking.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kháh, to come together, as two boats floating. kháh-oá, to bring near, as boat or door; to run a boat close to shore, or to another boat. kháh-mûg, to lay a door to. mûg kháh-oá, door shut, but not fastened. mûg kháh--teh, id.

kháh-pái, to come to the jetty and wait for passengers in regular turn, as boats do at night.

khan-kháh, to involve others somewhat in our quarrel, e.g. by an incidental remark when conversing on something else, or by putting their names in a legal document as witnesses to be called, or as having some connection with the matter.

khai [R. thai, to carry]. khai-kú, to help by giving custom. khai-kí (C.), id.

khai [R. to open; to begin; to explain, = col. khui], to spend. khai-hoat, to pay out, as money; to punish slightly and summarily and then set free. khai-un, to pardon a fault; to forgive a debt in whole or in part.

khai-kong, to dot the eyes of an idol with blood (or a red mixture) in consecrating it. pút khai-kong, id. khai-gán, id. (v. gán). khai-lê-sîn, a frightful paper image carried before funerals to terrify demons. thien-bún-khai, the day (6.7) when the door of heaven is open (v. bún).

khai-niú<sup>n</sup>, to expel a soldier from the army. khai lâu-peng, to discharge old soldiers at 60 years of age.

ka-kí khai-ho, to boast of one's own talents or success. khai-hoái thiòng-im, to make merry over wine.

khai-pit, the formation of the world out of Chaos (v. pit). khai-ki, to originate, as a family or firm (v. ki). khai-kok, to set up a dynasty (v. kok). khai-tiòng, to open a new shop (v. tiòng). khai-khún, to begin to cultivate, as waste land.

khai-kái, to explain, as a book or doctrine, to scholars; to propose a good way of settling a dispute, as third party (v. kái). khai-káng, to explain a book, as teacher does to scholars. khai-khiàu, to teach a pupil so as to develop his mind well. put-tek khai-kiau, affair so involved that no satisfactory amicable solution can be found.

khai-siàu (r.), to note down disbursements.

khai-siàu, to spend money (v. siàu). khai-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. khai hê--i, pay him, as wages or price. khai-goá joá-chí<sup>n</sup>, how much paid out on my account. khai-hùi, expenses; to spend money. khai-êng, to spend money. toá khai-êng, to spend lavishly; very heavy expenditure. chhit-khai poeh-khai, to spend lavishly and unnecessarily. khai-khong put-tin, to embezzle so as not to be able to account for the money (v. tin). khai-khong put-hu, id. khai-khong bô-giáh, id.

khái (R. id.) khái-jí, the common square printed character. khái-su, id. toan-khái, written or cut very square and nice-looking, as characters.

khài [R. to make even; altogether, = col. kài]. it-khài, altogether —. tái-khài, generally speaking; not exacting all that is due; gentle in punishing.

khài — khì-khài, a man's appearance and manner of conducting himself (as to outward matters, not as to good and evil). toá-khì-khài, having an open, liberal, and somewhat big manner. sió-khì-khài, having a rather mean or stingy manner. siàu-liên khì-khài, manner of a young fellow, fond of fine clothes and rather dashing in appearance.

khài (R. id.) khóng-khài, liberal; magnanimous; open-handed; having an easy confident air. khóng-khài jip--khì, to go in with an easy self-confident look, e.g. on going to visit a superior. khài-jiên, too boldly and fearlessly, e.g. wanting in the respect due to a superior, or fearlessly doing wicked things openly.

khai<sup>n</sup> (T.) thê-khai<sup>n</sup>, = thê-kha, an earthen or tiled floor.

khai<sup>n</sup>, the sound of a gong. khai<sup>n</sup>-khai<sup>n</sup>-háu, to sound loud, as a gong.

khái<sup>n</sup> (T.) sa<sup>n</sup>-khái<sup>n</sup>, to rub intentionally against each other in passing. khái<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, id. khái<sup>n</sup>-lâi khái<sup>n</sup>-khì, id.

khài<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. khàm, to cover.

khài<sup>n</sup> (T.) núg-khài<sup>n</sup>, = A. núg-khàm, the soft part of the side between the ribs and the thigh.

khaih (T.), = A. khah, a small-mouthed small wicker basket.

khak [R. certain; sure; firm]. tek-khak, cer-

籬 曲

楷
概

慨

擡
開

確

tainly. khak-khak sī àn-ni<sup>2</sup>, certainly it is so. khak-sit, true; truthful, as proof. khak-chhiet, true and important, as proof.

khak [R. kiok, khiok, sort of yeast or medicine]. sīn-khak, a medicine made at Chin-chew, counted good for many diseases. toā-khak, half-fermented grain, ready for distillation. péh-khak, a sort of yeast, made from grain (s. shell). âng-khak, a red preparation of grain, for giving a red colour to eatables. táu-bí táu-khak ê-chiú, a good sort of spirit made from a half-and-half mixture of fresh and fermented rice.

khak (R. id.), a shell; a husk; a case, as for watch or steelyard; (said of some of the radicals of words). than-khak, the shell of the spout-fish (v. than). hâu-khak-á, a ladle made from the shell of the king-crab.

ku-khak, the shell of a tortoise; sort of cabin on a passage-boat, or such small boat.

khang-khak, hollow; empty. hiah-khak, to shell or peel off (neuter), as paint, plaster, skin, or label. hauh-khak, id.

kiú-kui-khak, the first elements of arithmetic, by the abacus.

gâu-chiap sún-khak, skilful at saying what fits into and confirms another's story, generally false or conjectural.

bih-khak, the soft inside of the bamboo, useless for wicker work.

só-khak, the body of a Chinese padlock. joáh-lóeh-khak, a broad ceremonial cap without tassels (v. lóeh). pió-á-khak, the case of a watch. téng-á-khak, case for a small steelyard. teng-khak, frame of a lamp. to-khak (C.), a scabbard. tú siu-khak, to make a deduction, allowing for the weight of the box in which goods are packed.

chhiú-khak, rough outer bark of a tree. táu-khak, husks of pease or beans (v. tau). eng-sek-khak, poppy-pods.

kok-ji-khak, the 31st radical, containing the phonetic part. péng-ji-khak, the 104th radical. bún-ji-khak, the 169th radical. tham--ji, pín-ji-khak, the character "tham" (covetous) is very like the form of the character "pín" (poor).

sái-khak (Cn.), a very coarse sort of cotton, refuse of cotton after beating. sái-khak-m<sup>2</sup> (Cn.), id.

khak (= khák). khak-thâm, to expectorate; to bring up phlegm.

khák (cf. khâm, khê<sup>n</sup>, khak), to clear the throat; the noise of clearing the throat. khák-thâm, to expectorate; to clear the throat of phlegm. khák-hông (r.), to bring up blood.

kham [R. to sustain; worthy; fit for]. put-kham, cannot be endured (said in scolding). ôe-kham--tit, fit for; worthy; able to bear or to hold. ôe-kham-tit-kek, can bear much provocation. bôe-kham--tit, unworthy; unfit; unable to bear. bôe-kham-tit-phah, unable or afraid to endure beating (e.g. an old or sick man), so as to be willing to make a false confession. bôe-kham--tit lí-phah, it is not your place to beat me. bôe-kham--tit i-kiú, cannot long bear the urgency of his request, and so grants it.

kham-ú-sien (R.), a geomancer.

kham (R. id.), a shrine for an idol or tablet, &c. pút-kham, shrine for a Buddhist idol. kong-pô-kham, a shrine for keeping ancestral tablets.

sèng-jîn-kham, a binnacle.

phiah-kham, a niche in a wall, as for a cupboard or shelves, &c. phiah-kham-á, id.

khâm — tsúi-khâm-chhê, name of a bird.

khâm [R. kham, rough and uneven, as ground]. khâm-khiét, rough and bad for walking on, as road.

khâm [R. khài, to clear the throat; cf. col. khâh]. khâm-sàu, to clear the throat. toà-teh-khâm, in the act of clearing his throat.

khâm (C.) khâm-khê, tedious and difficult to heal, as a disease.

khâm — ê-khâm-khâm, all black, as with a crowd of people, or with smoke, or as a great swarm of bees. hun kàu ê-khâm-khâm, all black with smoke, as kitchen.

khâm (cf. chhâm; khám), (C. khôm). sió-khâm, small cymbals. tióng-khâm, cymbals of medium size. toā-khâm, large cymbals. toā-khâm-ké (Cn.), a drum, a gong, and a pair of large cymbals.

phah-khâm, to beat cymbals. khâm chhê<sup>n</sup>-chhê<sup>n</sup>, sound of gongs and cymbals.

khám (cf. khâm). khám-chhê<sup>n</sup>, a pair of cymbals, used in funeral music (v. chhê<sup>n</sup>). khám-chhê (T.), = A. khâm-chhê<sup>n</sup>.

khám [R. a pit; a hole]. khám-khó, troublesome to deal with, as affair; always miserable, sick, or in great trouble, as man.

khám, a notch [the groups of all these words "khám" are uncertain]. kek-khám, to cut notches. kap--i kek-khám, to be on bad terms with him (probably simply a variation of sound from "kek"). kap--i kek-khám, not getting on well with him; not agreeing with him.

kek chit-khám chit-khám, to divide or partition into several small divisions, e.g. the shelves of a cupboard.

khám, classifier of shops. chit-khám-tiám, one shop. thiâu-khám, to pass over one shop, when distributing things equally among all; e.g. presents of cakes on some occasions.

khám (R. id.), to fell, as a tree; to slash; to chop. khám-chhiú, to fell a tree. khám-chhâ, to fell trees for fuel or timber.

khám — chiâu-khám-tsâm, according to rule; properly (v. tsâm).

chhâu-khám, unexpectedly (v. chhâu).

khám (cf. khâm). chit-khám-á, a very low step up or down, with much less difference of height than the ordinary steps of a stair; a small sudden change of level, as on a road. chit-khám (C.), one step, as of a stair. khám-á (C.), id.

khám (C.) khám-mé<sup>n</sup>, = A. kím-mé<sup>n</sup>, quick; be quick!

khám — heng-khám, the breast (v. heng).

khám [R. ham; cf. col. kham], foolish, absurd, and almost like a madman, in saying or doing things (more active than "gōng," which has more of dull stupidity). am-khám, id. am-khám-gōng, foolish or stupid. khám-gōng, id. khám-sin, having a foolish or mad-like manner. poá<sup>n</sup>-khám, talking at random or acting foolishly. khong-khám, stupid; wanting in sense.

khàm (R. id.), to inspect or examine minutely, as a mandarin. khám-mŭng, id. khám-giám, to inspect officially the state of a place or person, esp. as to injuries. tsa-khám, to make careful investigation (personally or by deputy), as a mandarin, or head of a village or firm.

kàu-khàm, to examine minutely and carefully into

其

鏡

鏡

坎

坎

砍

坎

巧

坎

坎

憨

勘

曲

殼

堪

龕

the state of any matter (as any one); very strict, minute, and exacting. khèng-khàm, to examine minutely, as account or affair.

khàm-háp, the two words "khàm-háp" written or stamped where a document is torn in two, to be used as proof (v. háp).

khàm [R. kài, = col. kò, kah, khap], (C. khèng, only in sense of "cover"), to cover; to cover with; to conceal; to defraud or embezzle small sums; to stamp.

khàm-in, to stamp, as a seal or mark.

khàm-làm, to cover up. khàm-chhióh, to cover with a mat. khàm-chháu, to cover loosely with straw, &c. thâu-hiáh khàm-khàm, hair growing far down on forehead, omen of had luck (v. hiáh).

ja-khàm, to cover over, as a matter; to conceal.

àm-khàm, to get secret gains by concealing part of the business, esp. at expense of employer. bô-àm-bô-khàm, no secret or improper gains in the matter. khàm lêng-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to embezzle part of money entrusted, or of gains which the employer should have got. khít-i khàm-khì, to have some of our money fraudulently kept back by him. phi<sup>n</sup>-khàm, to defraud of small sums by charging too much ("phi<sup>n</sup>" is rather by an overbearing manner, "khàm" hy deceit). hoài<sup>n</sup>-kék phi<sup>n</sup>-khàm, id. phi<sup>n</sup>--lâng khàm--lâng, id.

khàm (cf. khám, foolish). khàm-khàm, having a dull foolish appearance. khàm-thâu khàm-bin, unable to distinguish when people are pleased or displeased, as a man who foolishly asks prices absurdly high, or who hears to be scolded violently without taking any notice.

khàm (R. id.), (cf. khám), a cliff or precipice; a change of level, as in terraced fields; (a step, as of a stair). chít-khàm, one step of a stair. gim-khàm, the long stone step along the wall of a house. gim-khàm-ê (C.), just before that stone step. khàm-á-kha (C.), id.

soa<sup>n</sup>-khàm, a precipitous bank or cliff. chióh-khàm, a rocky cliff. téng-khàm, an upper terrace, as in fields on a hill-side. ê-khàm, lower terrace, do. koài<sup>n</sup>-kê-khàm, sudden change of level, as on a road, or on terraced hill-side, or at a waterfall.

khàm (T. khài<sup>n</sup>). núg-khàm, the soft part of the side between the ribs and the thigh.

khàm [R. kàm, khàm, red colour]. âng-khàm-sek, dark brownish-red colour. âng-khàm-âng-khàm, id.

khàm (cf. kháp, kháh). khàm--tióh, to come striking or humping against, as man, or boat, or other things. khàm-oá, do. especially of hoat or door; to close a door, as hand or wind. sa<sup>n</sup>-khàm, to jostle one another, as men carrying burdens (usually unintentionally, hut not always so); to come knocking together, as boats, or as articles in a boat tossed by waves.

khàn (R. khien), to lead by the hand; to catch by the hand so as to raise up or assist; to drag along, as a net; to seize, as a vessel; to stretch out, as a line; to draw out long, as voice (or as an affair); to work Chinese hewells; to involve in another affair; classifier of disputes and affairs (also T. Cn. more general); to tighten the tiller-rope so as to sail nearer the wind.

khàn-thâu, an article pawned. tng-khàn-thâu, to pawn a thing. thó-khàn-thâu, to redeem a thing from pawn. chít-khàn-si, one dispute or affair. hit-khàn (Cn.), so-and-so (said of well-known person, thing, or affair, to avoid naming). hióng-khàn (Cn.), id.

jī-khàn-á, a long slip of paper (with name) hanging down to mark a lot of the same or related things, e.g. books in shop or accounts in office.

khàn-sia<sup>n</sup>, to draw out one's voice loud and long, as in reciting or singing. khàn si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to drag out a miserable life, as in great poverty or pain. bóng-khàn bóng-kè, to get on just barely tolerably. hē-i bōe-khàn-bán--tit, make him unable to refuse paying the money due (v. hán).

khàn-thoa, to accuse falsely of a fault (v. thoa). khàn-chhé, to accuse of being one's accomplice. khàn-kháh, to involve others in our quarrel (v. kháh). khàn-liên, name involved in a legal case (v. liên). khàn i-ê-miá<sup>n</sup>, to put his name in an accusation or defence, as involved in the case. khàn--i sióng-kùn, to accuse him of having incited to and conducted the lawsuit.

khàn-hát, to have a small swelling under the skin. khàn-tin, to throw out long trailing shoots or suckers.

khàn-ki<sup>n</sup>, to take compass-hearings (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). khàn-chin, to stretch a line, as a chalk-line. khàn-soá<sup>n</sup>, id. khàn-se, to cover a cotton quilt with the crossed threads. ti-tu khàn-si, the spider weaves its web.

khàn-thiu, a broad border sewed on (v. thiu).

khàn-hong, a hoat (with one sail) rather larger than a large sampan, between 30 and 40 feet long.

khàn-hong, to work the piston of the cylinder used as Chinese bellows. khàn hong-kūi, id. khàn-si<sup>n</sup>, to melt iron in a furnace (v. si<sup>n</sup>).

khàn-bóng, to bring up the spirits of the dead by rites, as a medium does. khàn-ki, to write oracles before an idol, as a medium does (v. ki). khàn-tsng, rites for the soul of a woman who dies within one month after delivery, done by a praying-wheel, &c. (v. tsng).

sa<sup>n</sup>-khàn, to stand or walk hand in hand. chhiú sa<sup>n</sup>-khàn, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-khàn-khì, to walk away hand in hand. khàn-chhiú, to take by the hand; to lead by the hand. goán khàn-chhiú--ê, my wife. khàn-i-khì, to lead him by the hand without force. khàn--i khí--lái, take his hand and raise him up, as child fallen or man kneeling. mng tióh-khàn--lái, draw the door nearly shut.

khàn-in, to introduce for some employment. khàn-khióh, to assist, as by money, or by getting work or a situation for him. khàn-seng, to assist, as in business, till he can get on well himself. khàn-kau kè-khiah (lit. help over ditches and ravines), to help over dangers and troubles, as idols do.

khàn-tsan, to drag along the smaller net called "tsan" (q.v.). khàn-báng, to drag along a large net, as many men together. khàn-hí, to draw together a large net on floats, inclosing the fish. khàn káu-hê, to catch shrimps by a net drawn by two men.

khàn-gú, to lead a cow. thau-khàn-gú, to steal a cow. thau-khàn-bé, to steal a horse. khàn-tsùn, to take a vessel, as pirates.

khàn-kâu, to lead a man (lit. monkey) to a hrothel. khàn-ti-ko, to lead about a boar for sows.

khàn (R. id.) khàn-pán (R.), to cut characters on wooden hlocks for printing. ū khàn-pán á-bé, has it been cut for printing yet?

khán (C., esp. P.), = A. khéng, willing.

khàn [R. to look, to watch, = col. kò<sup>n</sup>]. khàn-kè, to watch over. khàn-siú, to watch and guard. sè-chéng, khàn-léng-loán, the world's way is to look at warm or cold, i.e. at wealth or poverty. khàn-

蓋

砌

紺

牽

刊

看

siông, look up! (said by a chair-bearer when there is some obstacle above).

khàn (R. khàng), a Buddhist musical instrument like a bell with its mouth up. tâng-khàn, id. cheng-khàn, a bell and this sort of instrument.

khàn [R. khàm, to examine officially]. tâng-khàn, the mandarin on the tribunal deciding which side of the case agrees best with the verbal evidence.

khàng [R. kông, work, = col. kang]. khàng-khè, work (C. kang-khè). khàng-khè-tiú<sup>n</sup>, any place where work is going on, e.g. carpenter's work or house-building. khàng-khè-liâu, a workman's shed, esp. carpenter's or huilder's.

khàng [same as next word? or R. khóng?], a hole; an aperture; a mortice; an opportunity of making money, or of finding fault. khàng-sún, mortice and tenon (v. sún).

khàng-kháu, the mouth of a hole. khàng-kháu ok, fierce and bold at the mouth of his hole, as a dog; fig. of a man at his own home. khàng-khiah, holes and crevices; a place to find fault with; a slight blemish in character, &c. (v. khiah). khàng-phâng, chinks or crevices ("khàng," larger; "phâng," smaller), a flaw; an opportunity for finding fault or getting money out of people. ũ-khàng-phâng, there is a place for finding fault, &c. chhê khàng-phâng, to seek an opportunity for injuring another. siū<sup>n</sup>-khàng siū<sup>n</sup>-phâng, to watch for an opportunity, as of injuring another, or of getting money out of people.

ũ-khàng, to have a hole; to have an opportunity. chhák-khàng, to make a hole, as with a chisel. iah-khàng, to hore a hole, as in a wall. uih-khàng, id. khui-khàng, to make a hole; to give or point out an opportunity to another. khui-khàng hē--i chiah-tsúi, to show him an opportunity of squeezing money out of some one, esp. of yamen people. phah-khàng, to help a man to a way of getting money, e.g. by pointing out some flaw that will enable him to extort money, or by helping him to get a loan. phah-khàng hē--lâng thân-chiah, to make an opening for a man to make a living. tsòe-khàng, to conspire to deceive or injure. kap--lâng kap-khàng, to plot with bad men to prey upon others. gâu-lién-khàng, good at getting money out of people (v. lién). gâu-pi<sup>n</sup>-khàng, good at finding means of earning money, as at a trade; often with the idea of cunning or intrigue. hó-khàng, a good opportunity, as of getting money easily.

chêng-khì ãu-khàng (to go forward, but leave an undefended place in the rear), to gain less than we lose. chhit-khàng bô-hù-chhoán, very miserable or poor (v. chhoán).

hī-khàng, the hole of the ear; the ear (v. hī). phī<sup>n</sup>-khàng, the nostrils. that chhùi-khàng, to stop one's mouth. koh-ê-khàng, the arm-pit. po-pi<sup>n</sup>-khàng, scupper-holes for water from deck. chhêng-khàng, port-holes; mouth of a gun. soa<sup>n</sup>-khàng, a cave or cavity in a mountain. soa<sup>n</sup>-khàng-tóe, an out-of-the-way place among the mountains. chī<sup>n</sup>-khàng, the hole in a cash (v. chí<sup>n</sup>). káu-khàng, dog's hole; small door in a street-gate (v. káu). âm-khàng, a small covered drain for water.

khàng (R. khong), hollow; empty; vain; false. khàng-khàng, id. khàng-hu (r.), id. (v. hu). khàng-sê-sê, quite empty. khàng-lê-sê, id. khàng-khak, hollow. khàng-phà<sup>n</sup>, empty; hollow, as chaff, or an empty fellow.

io-khàng, the ace in dice; the worst throw of all.

ân-khàng, having no money. khàng-chhiú, empty-handed. khàng-chhiú pèh-theh, bringing no presents. khàng-sin, not carrying any valuables. khàng-sim, stomach empty. khàng-hâm, a mere official title without office. khàng-kim, empty jars for hones (v. kim).

khàng-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to walk on foot; to travel without baggage, or without carrying anything; to get no good results from going.

khàng [R. khong, the socket of the eye, = col. kháng]. bák-khàng, the socket of the eye. bák-khàng óeh, envious. bák-khàng toā, expecting much more than is offered, so as to refuse the reward, wages, or present that is offered.

kháng [R. khong, the socket of the eye, = col. khàng]. bák-kháng-khū, the socket of the eye. bák-kháng óeh, envious. bák-kháng toā, not content with the sum offered for favour or service done; will not look at such a sum. toā-bák-kháng, id.; also, having the eyes much sunken, either from illness, or from the sockets being naturally deep.

kháng [R. khong? a square frame, = col. kheng]. bīn-kháng, the appearance of the countenance. ũ-bīn-kháng, having a pretty face. hó-bīn-kháng, phái<sup>n</sup>-tê-tháng, having a pleasant friendly look, but cherishing wicked and injurious purposes. kâu-bīn-kháng, utterly shameless. bô-bīn-kháng, ugly; ashamed to see a person. bô-bīn-kháng thàng ki<sup>n</sup>-lâng, dares not look a person in the face. phái<sup>n</sup>-bīn-kháng, very ugly (said in scolding); displeased or unwilling look, somewhat sidewise. pi<sup>n</sup> kàu hit--ê bīn-kháng, looking so very much displeased!

kháng — hiâu-kháng, very lascivious (said only of a woman).

khàng [R. khòng, a pit, = col. kàng]. thê-khàng, a deep pit in the earth.

khàng [R. khòng, vacant ground; wilderness]. khàng-tóe, an open vacant piece of ground suitable for building upon, &c. khàng-pê, a large piece of ground quite unused; an open common.

khàng [R. khòng, to leave a space; by change of tone from "khong," empty, = col. khàng], to intermit; to intermit work for at least one-third of a day's work (a shorter time of rest or intermission is "hioh" or "thêng").

khàng-chit-khiah, to have a depression between two level or higher parts, as on a road, or a piece of ground, e.g. a site for a house.

bô-khàng-mi<sup>n</sup>-jit, day and night without any long intermission. khàng-kang, to intermit one's work for a considerable time; at leisure. m-thang khàng-kang, don't stop your work. lí-ũ thàng khàng-kang, when you can get some leisure. khàng-kang chiah-lâi, come when you are at leisure, or can stop work for a while. khàng chit-tiám-kang, to lose or intermit one-third of a day's work (v. tiám).

khàng — khàng-khū, fittings and utensils of a vessel.

khàng (R. khòng), a brick couch (with a fireplace in it) that can be heated, such as is used in North China. khùn-khàng, to sleep on that sort of bed.

khàng, to scratch or scrape away with one's nails. khàng-phí, to pick off scabs. toā--teh pē-khàng-iah, doing nothing but scratch himself! (said of an idle fellow).

iah-khàng, to rake up a man's faults, or old stories about things of which he will be ashamed.

磬
勤 工

空孔

睚

睚

壙 壙 壙

炕
炕

空

chiù-khàng, to make constant complaints (behind his back) of a man's narrowness or exacting ways; to make incessant wearisome crying for something refused, as child.

khap [R. to shut; all]. khap-hā pêng-an (R.), may all Amoy enjoy peace and quiet! khap-hā chiuti, all Amoy knows it.

khap [R. kài, a cover; to cover, = col. khàm, koà, kah, ka], inverted, as a bowl, &c.; the plain side of a cash lying up; a surname.

péng-khap, to invert (as a bowl, plate, cup, or dish, that naturally has its mouth up), turning its mouth down; to turn down the side of a cash which has the inscription (never said of men). péng-thán-khap, id. ki<sup>n</sup>-khap khioh, to win the cash each time the plain side turns up. khap-chhiò, the two sides of a cash (odds and evens), as in gambling. teh-khap-chhiò, to gamble, by covering a cash and guessing it. lién-khap-chhiò, to gamble by twirling a cash. poáh-khap-chhiò (C.), id.

kháp [R. to knock against; cf. khām]. kháp-tiòh, to come striking against, or jostling unintentionally; said also by chair-bearers as a warning. kháp-chih, to be broken by accidentally coming in contact. sa<sup>n</sup>-kháp, to knock against each other. chhùi-kap-chih ũ-si sa<sup>n</sup>-kháp, the best friends sometimes come in collision.

put-chí tak-kháp, very unfortunate; everything going wrong; constantly unlucky and miserable. lap-kháp, id. koe-nng kháp-chiòh, utterly unable to contend with him (as egg with stone).

kháp-thâu, to knock the forehead on the ground in reverence or supplication. thòe-lâng-kháp, to beg very earnestly on behalf of another. túi-i-kháp, to beg earnestly from him.

khat, to lade or bale out, as water; to take food out of a rice-boiler (tiá<sup>n</sup>) with a spoon; to take fish out of a larger net with a small hand-net. khat-tsúi, to bale out water; to lade out water with a dipper. khat-png, to take hard-boiled rice out of the rice-boiler khat-bê, to take out soft-boiled rice.

khat (Cn). khat-hō, = A. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-hé, to bring fire from a greater temple to a less important one; also (in some places), to strike fire with a flint.

khat [R. khek, to sustain; adequate; to conquer]. khat-kun, to consent to do or give something, or to spend money (though really unwilling or hardly willing) because it is very urgently asked, or because it cannot well be helped; to put a pressure or restraint on one's self to do or bear something. khat-kun chioh--i, to lend it to him (though unwilling) because it would be awkward to refuse, or for very urgent request. bōe-khat-tit-kun, cannot bring one's self to endure it any longer, or only under very great pressure and with much unwillingness and impatience; very highly displeased; cannot restrain one's self or bring one's self to it. bōe-khat--tit, id. bōe-khat-tit-khé, unable to endure the suffering, so as to do something weak or wrong which we would not otherwise have done, e.g. do what the torturer desires. khat-khé, to put a pressure on one's self so as to bear an injury, or to do unpleasant or distasteful work; to toil patiently, or quietly endure great hardships; either unwillingly through fear, or for gain, as a servant; or quite willingly, as a student or workman for his own benefit. khat-khé iau-gō, willingly endure hunger rather than submit or do anything shameful.

khat [R. khek, to subdue; to oppress or destroy].

sa<sup>n</sup>-khat, the horoscope disagreeing with that of a relative or connection, or one part of it with another part, so as to be unlucky. poeh-jī sa<sup>n</sup>-khat, horoscope at conflict with that of a relative. nī<sup>n</sup>-géh sa<sup>n</sup>-khat, the year of nativity disagreeing with the month in horoscope. sī-jit sa<sup>n</sup>-khat, natal day and hour so disagreeing. khat-sī, id.

khat [R. thirsty, = col. khoah]. chí-khat, to slake thirst.

khat [R. khoat, to want]. khat-hoát (r.), in want.

khau [R. to strike], to plane; to scrape, as tongue or as roots; to tack ship; to pull up, as plants; to strike, as a bell. khau-cheng, to ring a large bell, as Buddhist priests (only).

khau-siet, to jeer at; to make game of a man.

khau-khek gūn-hun, to deduct a small fraction from the value of silver (v. khek).

khau--khí-lâi, to erase a word; to lift a plant either in order to transplant it or as a weed; to pull up by the roots. khau-chháu, to pull up plants or weeds by the roots, as weeds, or for medicine, or for fuel, &c.

khau-tsūn, to tack in sailing. tsūn khau-hong, the vessel is tacking.

khau-to, a carpenter's plane. khau-to-hoe, wood shavings. khau-to-lien (C.), id. oan-khau, a curved knife for smoothing the inside of buckets, &c. (v. oan). khau-á, a sort of scraper for taking the skin off coarse cucumbers (s. hook). chih-khau-á, a tongue-scraper.

khau-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to scrape a rice-boiler. khau-chih, to scrape the tongue. khau-phê, to scrape off skin, as from roots. khau han-tsú, scrape potatoes (so with "chhài-thâu," &c.)

khau [R. kē, a hook, = col. kau]. khau-liám, a sort of halbert with a crooked blade like a sickle (v. liám). khau-á, a sort of hook for cleaning drains; also (C.), a sort of spear for hunting or fighting (s. plane).

khau [R. khē, a loop, cf. col. khàu], a hank of yarn or thread; a tie-stone placed crosswise to bind together two lines of stones.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-khau, the loop which fastens the oar to the oar-pin. chit-khau-soá<sup>n</sup>, one hank of thread.

khau-teng, ends of bricks left projecting on a wall, so as to bind on another wall if afterwards built. lâu khau-teng, to leave such projecting bricks.

khau (R. id.), a lot; lots. liam-khau, to draw lots. khioh-khau, id. thiu-khau, id. liu-khau, id. chhòng-khau, to make ready the lots; he who does so gets that one of the lots which is left when the rest have drawn.

lún-khau, to take turns by lot. khau-hūn, portion got by lot.

khau-su, a document fixing the division of family property (a copy is given to each party) made either before or after the father's death. khau-su háp-tâng, id.

kháu [R. khé, the mouth], a mouth or opening (only in certain phrases); a mouthful, as of betel-nut; (said of persons in numbering).

kháu-bín, at the outside, as of door or port, &c. kháu-sin, outside, as a place. goá-kháu, at the outside. goá-kháu-kháu, at the very outside. pak-kháu-goá, the country near Ili on the northern frontier.

mng-kháu, space about the outside of a door. tiám-kháu, do. of shop door. keng-kháu, do. of

闊

蓋

石蓋

克

剋

渴

缺

鉤

扣

闊

口

temple door. chí<sup>n</sup>-kháu, space about covered by the eaves (v. chí<sup>n</sup>). chhng-kháu, hatches (v. chhng). chhng-kháu, muzzle of a gun. ng-kháu, mouth of a sleeve; cuffs. hái-lông siū-kháu, do. made of a sort of a skin. hái-lông-kháu, id. khò<sup>n</sup>-kháu, wide-mouthed, as sleeves or pocket. khò<sup>n</sup>-kháu, to watch the mouth of a harbour, as at a branch custom-house. pùn-kháu, the anus. hê-kháu, the space between the thumb and fore-finger. hê-kháu-mng, id.

tsúi-kháu, place where water runs off from a grave; mouth of a drain, as when it runs into the sea. ài-kháu, a narrow pass. khang-kháu, mouth of a hole. káng-kháu, a trading-port. hái-kháu, mouth of the bay or estuary. toā-kháu, a busy port; the wider entrance to the harbour. sió-kháu, a small port; the smaller entrance to the harbour. jip-kháu, to enter harbour. jip-kháu-hiông, import duties. chhut-kháu, to leave the harbour. chhut-kháu-hiông, export duties. chhut-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a port clearance. tsûn pò-chhut-kháu, the vessel has notified that she is going out (no more cargo can then be taken on board). kháu-lê, port dues; tonnage dues.

khui<sup>n</sup>-kháu, a dialect. poā<sup>n</sup>-kháu, the price first asked by a hong for a new lot of goods (v. poā<sup>n</sup>).

khoa-kháu, to boast. hó-phûn-kháu, generally successful in gambling. hó-kháu-bún, good at talking in a very winning pleasing way. káu-kháu-siét, requiring or raising much dispute and discussion (v. siét). chhiah-kháu-jit, days that will cause much disputing about any matter begun on them. tak-kháu, to be somewhat at variance; having a slight altercation (v. tak). tê-kháu, to wrangle loud. tàu-kháu, id. hâm-kháu-sng, to calculate mentally. kháu-keng, verbal evidence in court (v. keng). kháu-thâu-gú, words used in commencing a conversation or sentence, differing with different places and persons. kháu-thâu-ôe, id.

chhùi-kháu, the mouth, at the lips. chhùi-kháu-teng, small hard boil on the lip. to-chhùi-kháu, the edge of a knife or sword. mih<sup>n</sup> kàu-chhùi-kháu, hê--i ka-lauh--khì, there's many a slip between the cup and the lip. chhùi-kháu-sê, small short round cakes (v. sê).

kháu--sê (Cn.), so and so, said of person, thing, or affair, which the hearers will understand, to avoid mentioning the name.

li-kháu, to please the taste, so as to excite appetite in a patient disinclined to eat. sóng-kháu, pleasing the palate (in general). hó-kháu-hâm (T. C.), = A. hó-chháu-hâm, having a voracious appetite and good digestion. kim-kháu-lī, severe chronic dysentery that takes away appetite. lok-kháu, to gargle. sóe-kháu, to wash the mouth. sek-kháu, id. (v. sek). soá-kháu (C.) id. sóe-kháu-thng, a confection used at marriages. kháu-khì, the odour of the breath; a man's purpose as shown in his manner of speaking (s. clever). chhi i--ê kháu-khì, to observe carefully how he speaks, so as to get at his idea. kháu-khì tâng, smell of breath very bad, as of a very sick man. chhàu-kháu-khì, breath smelling ill, as from eating bad-smelling things, or from not washing the mouth, or when slightly unwell.

hê-kháu, a household, in reference to a census (v. hê). kháu-tsàu, a household, as in counting the households of a village. kúi--ê jîn-kháu, how many persons (old and young, male and female) altogether are there in the family? chit-ke kúi-kháu, id. kui-ke- kháu, a whole family. chit-ke-kháu, id. kháu-ke-kháu, a widow weeping and lamenting for her husband. toā-ke kháu-chng, very large household. kiám-kháu, to diminish the number of the people, as Heaven does by epidemics, &c. kiám-kháu-ông, a leader of rebels, by whom Heaven destroys the people.

kháu-niū<sup>n</sup>, soldiers' daily pay.

bé-kháu-thih, tin-plate.

kháu [R. clever; skilful; = col. khá, khíu]. lông-kháu sêng-tsoat, to try to be very clever, but only show one's self stupid. lông-kháu hoán-tsoat, id.

bé-kháu, dressing gaudily and walking in a swaggering way; e.g. wearing a large turban, mouth full of betel-nut, jacket half-open, carrying a big pipe, and ready to quarrel. bóe-kháu (C.), id.

kháu-khì, very troublesome, inconvenient, and awkward, as an affair (s. mouth). kháu-khì<sup>n</sup> (T.), troublesome to deal with, as a man who is not straightforward.

kháu — âng-kháu, reddish. ng-kháu, yellowish.

kháu — té-kháu, the oar on the port or right-hand side of a boat, held in the left hand. kò-té-kháu, to row with this oar. khah té-kháu, to give a stroke, or row strongly with it. chiáh té-kháu ê-lát, wind in such a state that this oar must be rowed with more strength.

khàu [R. khò, to strike]. khàu-ki<sup>n</sup>, to have audience of a very high mandarin. khàu-siā, to give thanks by knocking the head on the ground, as by a subordinate to a very high mandarin; said also politely to a superior, "I thank you very much." khàu-thâu, to knock the forehead on the ground, in reverence or supplication. sam-kúi kiú-khàu, three kneelings and nine knockings of head, before the emperor or to Heaven; the kotow ceremony (Cn. khìò, in some phrases).

khàu (R. khò), (Cn. khìò), to subtract; to deduct, as from wages or price. khàu-tū, to deduct or cut down, as price or wages (v. tū). khàu-khí, id. khàu-sin-lô, to cut wages. khàu-kang-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. khàu-chí<sup>n</sup>, id., or price. khàu-tsai, to deduct from the freight, as for damage. khàu-tô-tôe, to deduct a very small discount from the price of goods, e.g. one mace on a hundred dollars (v. tô).

khàu [R. khò, cf. col. khau], (Cn. khìò). liú-khàu, the loop used instead of a button-hole.

chí<sup>n</sup>-khàu, the notch of an arrow for the string. chí<sup>n</sup> bô-jip-khàu, the arrow has not got the string in its notch.

khàu (R. khò). khàu-tsàng, the perpendicular threads of a loom, which work up and down (v. tsàng).

khàu — poe-khàu (T.), the divining blocks. sin-khàu (Cn.), id.

khàu (R. khok), to make loud lamentation; to cry and wail, especially for the dead. thi-khàu, to lament with sobs and cries. toā-thi sóe-khàu, children large and small crying and sobbing loud. khàu-iau, to cry for hunger, as a starving child. gâu-khàu-chhan, always complaining without reason (said only in scolding dissatisfied people) (v. chhan). sí kàu-bô-lâng-khàu, may all your relatives die till none remains to lament for your death!

khàu-pê, to make loud lamentation for father's death; said also in scolding; what are you making such a noise about? as if you were lamenting your father's death. khàu-pê khàu-bú (lit. for parents), said in

巧

叩

扣

筵

筵

哭

scolding, as above; or of a man groaning sorely in great pain. khàu-bú, to lament loudly for mother's death. khàu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, lament for son's death.

khàu (R. khok), (Cn. khìò), manacles; fetters; to manacle; to handcuff. kha-khàu, fetters for the feet. chhiú-khàu, manacles; handcuffs. kha-lô chhiú-khàu, fetters and manacles for feet and hands. kha-liâu chhiú-khàu, id. liâu-khàu, id.

khàu--khi-lái, to put on fetters or manacles. khàu-kha-khàu, to put fetters on the feet. chiú<sup>n</sup>-khàu, to put fetters on. só-khàu, id., to lock them on.

khàuh, to boil a liquid slowly till it becomes thicker. khàuh khah-thiám (T.), boil it down still thicker.

khàuh (cf. khòk, khiáuh). ngi<sup>n</sup> khàuh-khàuh, too hard and stiff, as a seat, or as eatables not enough cooked; stiff with cold, as limbs. tēng-khàuh-khàuh, too hard, as seat or eatables.

khìh-khìh khàuh-khàuh, constant slight noise, as of knocking in making repairs, or as rats.

khàuh [R. gòk, to fear; to tremble; cf. col. khèh]. kiá<sup>n</sup> khàuh-khàuh, shaking with fear. khàuh-khàuh-tsùn, to shudder or shiver; shaking with fear or cold.

khàuh (cf. kháh, khòk). khàuh-khàuh-lái, constantly coming. khàuh-khàuh-pui, constantly barking. khàuh-khàuh-háu, always crying. khàuh-khàuh-thí, sobbing bitterly. khàuh-khàuh-tó, constantly falling, as man in fits or in great pain, or as a child. khàuh-khàuh-kóng, constantly talking; loquacious.

khe [R. to examine into], (C. ke). khe-khó, to investigate, as history, or doctrine (v. khó). khe-tsa, to investigate, as a mandarin (C. ke-che).

khe [R. kbo, class; order; literary examinations; department in mandarin's office], (Cn. khö), (C. kho, in all but the first two phrases).

khe-chi<sup>n</sup>, to collect the usual contributions which the people impose on themselves for various purposes. khe-phài, to allot and collect the contributions required to be paid, as mandarin, or as head-men of a village for common purposes.

pāng-khe, the six offices in a yamun, for the duties of the six Supreme Boards; the officials in charge of them. lák-pāng-khe, id. tē-tse-khe, the office for house-tax in Amoy; the official who manages it, over the "tē-pó," and under the "hái-hóng."

khe-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the literary examinations. khe-ün, fated time of literary success. un-khe, gracious grant of extra examinations. khe-ni<sup>n</sup>, the year for the Kujin examinations. toā-khe-ni<sup>n</sup>, do., or for Tsin-sze. tá-lòh chit-khe, on which year did (you) graduate. téng-khe chin, got his degree (of Sew-tsai) at last year's examinations.

goā-khe, external diseases. goā-khe i-seng, a surgeon. lái-khe, internal diseases. lái-khe i-seng, a physician. hū-khe, female diseases. ji-khe, attending to children's diseases. gán-khe, eye diseases. tsoan-ti gán-khe, only attends to eye diseases.

khe (C. khoe). kau-khe-hái, over-cautious in a matter, and constantly changing one's mind, so as to be troublesome and unreliable (v. hái).

khe (C.), = A. kboe, a river; a stream. khe-chhi<sup>n</sup>, shallow boats for shallow streams.

sióng-khe, a sort of tea (Twan-key?).

lióng-khe (A. = C.), the Hien district of Lung-ki, in which Chang-chew city stands; also, a market-town and region in the district of Lâm-chēng (Nan-tsing).

khe [R. kho, name of a plant], (C. khoe; Cn. khö). khe-tin, a creeping plant (used medicinally).

khe (R. kúi), (C. khoe), a sort of palm-tree. khe-si<sup>n</sup>, a sort of fan made of a palm-leaf.

khê (cf. kè), (C. khê), entangled, so as to retard or prevent motion; involved, as affair; jammed, as anchor. khê--teh, involved and troublesome, as affair; choking with something in the throat. tiá<sup>n</sup> khê ti-chiòh--nih<sup>n</sup>, anchor jammed among rocks. tiá<sup>n</sup> khê--teh, id.

kau-khê, not yet straight, as a troublesome and involved affair. káu-khê, at variance. kap--lāng káu-khê, at variance with people. kap-i-khê, having a quarrel or feud (great or small) with him. khê-khang, at variance, as persons. khê-phūn, id.

khê-pê, to clog or retard the harrows, as weeds (C. khê, or khê). tiú-kó-thâu teh-khê-pê (stubble clogging the harrows), said of a man secretly putting obstructions in the way of some business (C.)

khê (R. ká), (C. khòe), deformed, as hands or feet; sprained and distorted. khê-kha, leg or foot distorted, or very different in length from the other. khê-chhiú, hand distorted, withered, or dwarfed. khê chit-chhiú, one hand so. kha khê, chhiú chhih, leg distorted and arm broken.

khê (C.) kāu-khê, = A. kāu-khòe, peevish; bad-tempered, as child.

khê (C. khòe; Cn. khö), to bow with hands near the body, as a woman does.

khê [R. to open]. khê-bēng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the morning-star.

khê [R. kà, a frame, = col. kè]. kha-khê, a footstool. khê-kha, to rest the foot, as on a footstool. khê-kha khê-chhiú, to rest one's limbs lazily or luxuriously, as an idle fellow. khiau-kha khê-chhiú, lazily drawing up the legs, and resting the arms.

khê [R. khò, an essay, exercise, or task-work], (C. khòe; Cn. khö), literary essays. chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-khê, one essay. tsòe-khê, to compose an essay. thák-khê, to read essays aloud in a loud rhythmical tone. chhong-hā-khê, essays composed by students for teacher's correction (v. chhong). si-khê-jī sa<sup>n</sup>-jī-tsūg, well able to write odes, essays, and characters.

khí-khê, a sort of divination; much less minute than "pok-koà."

khang-khê (C. kang-khòe), work of any kind (v. khang).

khê [R. khò, by change of tone from "kho," sort; examination], (Cn. khö), a crucible.

khê [R. united; a deed or document, = col. kbòe], (also C., = A. khòe, a deed).

khê-háp (R.), united in closest friendship; quite of the same mind.

khê-hia<sup>n</sup>, = khòe-hia<sup>n</sup>, the paramour of a bad woman.

khê (C.), = A. khòe, to gnaw.

khê<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. kbi<sup>n</sup>, a ravine. khê<sup>n</sup>-lang-á, a narrow valley.

khê<sup>n</sup>-khí<sup>n</sup>-khí<sup>n</sup> khê<sup>n</sup>-khê<sup>n</sup>, all in disorder, as things, or as an affair.

khêh [R. khoat, = col. khìh], (C. khoeh; Cn. khöh), to be wanting; to be deficient; a vacancy. khêh-khêh, deficient. khêh-goá joá-tsòe, how much of a balance is still due me? khiam-khêh, to be in

桔

愕

稽
科詼
溪科
葵痂
瘡稽
啟
架

課

科
契

缺

want; deficient. kheh-khiàm, id. té-kheh, deficient in quantity; not enough, esp. money; supply insufficient. kheh-kiá<sup>n</sup>, in want of sons, having none, or very few.

chió-kheh, very numerous; very abundant.

pé-kheh, to appoint a man to a vacant post. pé i-ê-kheh, to get the place left vacant by him; to succeed him. bô-kheh thang-pó, there is no vacancy to be filled up; no post ready for him. bô-kheh thang-khui, id. khui-kheh, to leave a vacancy, as mandarin on leaving a post. téng i-ê-kheh, to succeed to the vacancy left by him. téng-tòe i-ê-kheh, id. chiap i-ê-kheh, id. that-kheh, id. pàng-kheh, to send a mandarin to fill a vacant post. hâu-kheh, to wait for a vacancy to get office. hâu-jim-kheh (C.), id.

sit-kheh, real office; not mere titular rank.

kheh (C.), = A. khoeh, to jostle.

kheh (C.), = A. khoech, to press out, as oil, &c.

kheh (C.), = A. khoech, to shut, as the eyes. bák-kheh, the eyes shut.

kheh (C.) kheh-á, = A. khoech-á, a small box, &c.

kheh (T.), = khit, sign of the passive (in some cases).

客

kheh (R. khek), (C. kheh), a stranger; a visitor; a guest; a passenger; a customer; a Hakka.

tsòe-kheh, to go on a visit of some days at least to her own relatives, as a married woman does; to be married, as a virgin.

lâng-kheh, a guest; a visitor chhiá<sup>n</sup> lêng-kheh, to invite guests. kheh-thia<sup>n</sup>, reception room for guests; parlour or drawing-room. thâm-kheh, to go and visit friends, as a new graduate or mandarin. pài-kheh, do., generally expecting presents. bát-sat chhiáh-kheh (the bug eats up his guests), said of a man getting more from his guests than he gives them.

kheh-thâu, a coolie broker; a man who levies dues on passengers by passage-boats. hó-kheh-thâu (C.), pleasant to do business with.

sin-kheh, a new-comer. hân-soan-kheh, a man who is extremely shy, mean, or afraid to act (v. soan). toā-ti-kheh, a dull foolish-looking fellow (lit. like a pig). bin-thâu-kheh, you are as stupid as a man in deep mourning (v. bin).

kheh-lâng, a Hakka man. kheh-ōe, the Hakka language or dialect, nearly allied to the mandarin: spoken in Ting-chow (theng-chiu), Kia-ying-chow (ka-eng-chiu), and some other parts.

kheh-chiáu, the magpie. kheh-chiáu pò-hí, the magpie gives a good omen.

kheh-koán, an inn. kheh-tiám, id. kheh-koa<sup>n</sup>, phrase used by an inn-keeper to his guests.

kheh-tō, a passage-boat. tah-kheh, a passenger in a boat. kheh-bôe, the passenger who first takes his seat in a boat (v. bôe). lón-kheh, to be taking in passengers, as just before sailing. in-kheh, to get passengers for a boat, as broker.

tiám-kheh, the tenant of a shop. tūi<sup>n</sup>-kheh (Cn.), id. chhân-kheh (Cn.), tenant of fields. phiâu-kheh, a whoremonger.

goā-kheh, a travelling merchant from a distance; visitors (as at funeral ceremonies) who are not nearly related. tsú-kheh, a regular customer, either buyer or seller (v. tsú). hó-kheh, a customer very pleasant to deal with, e.g. who offers the price he means to give. hó-kheh (C.), a wealthy man. hó-kheh-chêng, polite and kind to guests or visitors (v. chêng). phái<sup>n</sup>- kheh, a bad customer, who tries to get things at very low prices, or to return things bought, or who is bad at paying. ok-kheh, a customer who drives a very hard bargain. bóe-kheh, a customer; a buyer. bóe-kheh, a travelling merchant selling goods in bulk or by sample. kheh-siong, a travelling merchant (v. siong). toā-siong-kheh, id., dealing in great quantities. iū<sup>n</sup>-kheh, a Chinaman who goes abroad to trade. pak-kheh, a Chinaman who travels, trading between Amoy and North China. hoan-kheh, a Chinaman who has returned from foreign parts. hè-kheh, a merchant travelling with goods either on his own account or for others; a large customer of a hong from distant parts. tê-kheh, a travelling tea-merchant from the tea-districts. tsúi-kheh, a man who carries small goods great distances for sale. phoe-kheh, a man who collects letters, and brings them from great distances. kheh-mâng put-chí-ông, great many people having dealings with the shop or hong, from distant places.

khêh [R. gòk, to fear; to start, = col. kháuh, khiauh], (T. khôh). khêh-khêh-chhoah, to quake and shake with fear or cold. khêh-khêh-tiô, id. khêh-khêh-tsùn, id.

khêh (= khêh<sup>n</sup>). khêh-lêh, loud noise, as of thunder.

khoech (= khêh<sup>n</sup>), (C. khêh), to press hard with the open hand between thumb and fingers, as on a man's throat.

khêh<sup>n</sup> [R. khek, cf. col. khêh<sup>n</sup>], sound of a harsh voice, or of coughing or hoarseness, or of things breaking. tit-tit-khêh<sup>n</sup>, constant coughing, as in consumption. khêh<sup>n</sup>-nêh<sup>n</sup>, loud noise, as of thunder. khêh<sup>n</sup>-khêh<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound as of severe coughing; also (C.) as of carpenter's work.

khêh<sup>n</sup> (= khêh), to press between thumb and finger with hand open, as throat.

khek (R. id.), to carve, as characters or ornaments in wood; a quarter of an hour. tiau-khek, to carve, as in wood. khek-tiám, to cut characters cutting into the wood. khek-phú, to cut in relief. khek-hoe, to carve ornaments in wood. tiau-hoe khek-chiáu, id. khek-in-pán, to cut blocks for printing. khek-to, a knife for such carving. khek-khám, to cut notches (v. khám).

khī-khek, to fear and dread, as a person, or as a calamity. kī-khek (C.), id.

khek-pak, to extort money oppressively. khek-pók, selfishly exacting; too hard or stingy in money matters.

chit-khek, a quarter of an hour. sì-khek, one hour's time. sī-khek, constantly. sī-sī khek-khek, id. bô-lī sī-khek, never stopping or abandoning. oân-sī oân-khek, to procrastinate.

lip-khek, immediately. bô-thêng-khek, id. khéng-khek-kan, in a moment; immediately.

khek-chiam, the minute-hand of a watch or clock.

khek [R. to subdue; to oppress; to destroy]. khek-khui, to treat unjustly and wrongfully. khek-liám, to embezzle, as pay, drawing all and paying only a part. khau-khek gún-hun, to take off a small percentage from the value of the silver received in payment, e.g. as pawnbrokers when articles are redeemed, or as officials when taxes, &c., are paid. khau-khek gún-tsúi, to give rather less than the regular amount of cash in change for silver in some payments.

愕

喀

刻

剋剋

sa<sup>n</sup>-khek, to be at variance so as to cause bad luck, as the horoscopes of two persons. poeh-jī sa<sup>n</sup>-khek, id. khek--sí, to cause the death of a relative by our horoscope being unlucky for him. khek-pē, horoscope of son injurious to his father. khek pē-bú, do. to parents. khek-pē khek-bú, id. khek ka-kī, to injure one's own fortune by having a bad horoscope.

khek [R. to sustain; adequate; to conquer]. khek-khūn khek-khó, very diligent, laborious, and economical. khek-khūn khek-khiām, id.

khek-hók, to be retaken, as a city, or recovered, as lands, houses, or such property.

khek-kí thāi-jin, to stint one's self or put one's self to inconvenience for the sake of others.

khek [R. khiok, crooked, = col. khiau], a song in irregular metre, made for changes of rate (liáu) and with pauses for beating the "phek." koa-khek, songs of both sorts. khek-phó, a song-book. khek-tiāu, a song-tune. khek-thò, a song-tune. chit-thò-khek, a set of songs such as are sung at a stretch. chit-tè-khek, one song. sòe-tè-khek, a short song. sió-khek, id.

thia<sup>n</sup>-khek, to listen to songs. pien-khek, to compose a song. chhiù<sup>n</sup>-khek, to sing songs. ké-khek, chhiù<sup>n</sup>-bōe-lòh-âu, said of telling manifest lies. phah-chih lāng-ê khek-pi<sup>n</sup>, to cut short a man's talk so as to frustrate his purpose.

khek-sai-hū, a teacher of songs.

khek [R. a guest; a stranger, = col. khek]. kùi-khek (polite), my honoured guest! ū-khek-thò, using a great deal of ceremony to visitors (v. thò).

chhi-khek, to assassinate a sovereign or high mandarin with dagger or sword.

khek (by change of sound from "kek," which is better). khek-khám, to be at variance.

kheng [R. to turn over; to pour out; cf. khēng], to melt, fuse, or purify metal. lòh-khi-kheng, put it (the metal) in the crucible to melt it. kheng-gún, to melt, fuse, or purify silver for any purpose. kheng-kim, to melt gold. kheng-siah, to work tin-mines.

kheng-chien, to melt sycee silver into pieces of ten taels.

kheng-ka, to lose all one's property in any way. kheng-ka tông-sán, do. esp. by luxury; excesses, &c., or by legal cases.

kheng [R. a great noble or officer of state]. kong-kheng (R.), very high mandarins, esp. ministers of state. kong-kheng t'ai-hu, high mandarins, esp. at court. kiú-kheng (R.), the nine nobles of the Chow dynasty. sam-kong kiú-kheng, the high officers of the Chow dynasty; now said of the highest mandarins, esp. at court. bēng-kong kú-kheng, great and illustrious first-class mandarins (said in relation to the places which produce them, or to the metropolis where they congregate).

kheng (R. khong), a small basket. kheng-á, id. kheng-thâu, id. cheh-kheng, basket for flax fibres. chhài-kheng, basket for carrying home meat, &c., bought in market for household use.

kheng (R. khiong), the back of an axe or knife at the eye, where the handle is inserted. to-kheng, id. of a knife. pé-thâu-kheng, id. of an axe.

kheng [R. khong, a square frame], a frame, as of door, spectacles, &c. bák-kiá<sup>n</sup>-kheng, frame of spectacles. mūg-kheng, a door-frame. toh-kheng, frame of a table at the top. pó-táu-kheng, a square brass vessel for gambling, made of two parts, upper and lower.

bīn-kheng, the shape of the face (cf. bīn-kháng).

khui-kheng, joints opening and gaping in the frame of a piece of furniture.

kheng (R. khéng). kheng-moá<sup>n</sup>, a weak sort of hemp (v. moá<sup>n</sup>).

kheng [R. light; unimportant, = col. khiu]. giên kheng, my words will not have weight. put-sek kheng-tiōng (R.), not understanding to distinguish important and unimportant things, or good and bad men.

kheng-bān, to slight; to treat lightly. kheng-pók, light and frivolous, or somewhat mean; to jest at (v. pók). kheng-thiau, light and frivolous in manner (v. thiau). kheng-ī<sup>n</sup>, easy, &c. (v. ī<sup>n</sup>).

kheng-hún, a very poisonous drug, used for stopping the putrefying of a sore.

khēng (R. keng). khēng-hî, the whale, = keng-hî (q. v.)

khēng [R. kheng, to pour out; to melt; cf. kheng], to purify by melting, as silver. khēng-siah, to melt down broken bits of pewter, or ashes of burned idolatrous paper gathered together, so as to get a mass of metal.

khēng [R. kiōng, limit; exhaust; extremely poor; investigate fully, = col. kēng], to investigate or calculate the state of a matter; to gather up carefully, as the grain after winnowing. khēng-lēng, to collect and gather up, as things scattered or mixed with others, or as money subscribed or due. chhut-khi-khēng, to go round and collect, as subscriptions, &c., not yet fully paid up.

khēng-giáh, to examine (for our own satisfaction) that our balance is correct. khēng gūn-giáh, id. khēng-siáu, to make a calculation of the state of our own accounts and balances, gen. for temporary purpose, or roughly, to see that all is going right.

khēng-khám, to examine minutely, as account or affair. khēng kàu-tóe, to investigate to the very bottom, as an affair. khēng-sit, to investigate carefully, so as to get at the real facts of the case. khēng-chin, id. khēng-chin-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id. khēng-chin-tiú<sup>n</sup>, bô-íá<sup>n</sup>, on full investigation it is found to be a baseless story.

khéng [R. a moment]. khéng-khek-kan, in a moment.

khéng (R. id.), (T. kún; C. kán), willing. m-khéng, unwilling. cheng-kan put-khéng-khi (R.), unwilling to go in fair weather.

khéng (P.), = A. khióng, to fear, &c.

khèng (R. id.) khèng-hó (R.), to congratulate, esp. by presents. tsòe-hí-khèng, Tauist rites for good luck on joyful occasions, as births, marriages, graduation, &c. tsòe-khèng-séng, such rites when the building or repairing of a temple is completed.

ka-khèng, the reign of Kea-king, the father of Tau-kiang.

khèng (R. id., = col. khàn), a triangular musical instrument. gék-khèng, one made of jade-stone. ín-khèng, a musical instrument, = hiáng-tsoá<sup>n</sup>. phah-in-khèng, to play it.

khèng-teng, sort of triangular lanterns.

khèng [R. spent; exhausted]. khèng-khong, all spent, as property (v. khong).

khèng (C.), = A. khàm, to cover, &c.

khēng (R. khiū), (P. khiōng), the tallow-tree.

曲

客

傾

卿

筐

斧 金
匡

輕

鯨 傾 窮

頃
肯

慶

磬

罄

柏

khêng-chhiū, id. khêng-á, id. khêng-chí, berry or fruit of it, from which the vegetable tallow or wax is made. khêng-á-chí, id. khêng-iū, the vegetable wax or tallow.

khêng (=kēng). khêng-tsoá, a sort of paper (v. kēng).

khêng (R. hōng), a rainbow. chhut-khêng, a rainbow appearing; there is a rainbow. chit-tsoá-khêng, one rainbow. chit-tiâu-khêng, id. khêng-jiō (lit. urine of the rainbow), a slight fall of rain on the appearance of a rainbow.

khí [R. to deceive or cheat; to oppress]. khi-phien, to deceive. khi-moá, do., by concealing faults.

khi-hū, to oppress; to treat unjustly (v. hū). kiōng khi-jiók, the strong oppress the weak. sam khi-liōng; liōng khi-chit, three oppress two; two oppress one.

khi-bóng (R.), to treat a superior with disrespect, or neglect his orders. khi-báng, id. khi-kun, treason (v. kun). lê khi-tsú, a slave insulting his master (v. lê). hé lón pêng-iū, pī-khién-khi (a tiger in the plain has to bear insults from dogs), said of a man powerful at home, but of small importance elsewhere. jin siēn, pī-jin-khi: má siēn, pī-jin-khi, as a good horse is ridden, so a good-hearted man is deceived and oppressed.

khí (R. id.), leaning over; inclined; head on one side. thán-khi, leaning over; slanting. thán-khi khùn, to sleep on one's side. tó-thán-khi, to lie on one's side. tó thán-khi-sin, id. khi-sin, body leaning to one side. khi-thâu, having one's head bent slightly downwards on one side. tsūn khi, boat leaning over, as in a gale.

khi-phín, leaning to one side, as man or wall; having one shoulder higher than the other. khi-chhiá, leaning over, as vessel or wall. khi-phóe, having one cheek or side sloping more than the other.

i teh-khi, he is smoking opium. nng-ê teh-khi, the two are smoking opium together.

khi-khiau, crafty; not straightforward; touchy; easily getting angry without cause [same word?].

khí — khiau-khi, capricious and peculiar in temper; readily taking offence, and misconstruing others' words or actions; not straightforward in business; rough and troublesome to travel, as a road. kóng-ōe ū-khiau-khi, to talk in a way not plain or straightforward, e.g. giving hints of threats; or as half scolding, half joking. [cf. previous word.]

khí (R. id.) khi-khu (r.), rough and difficult, as a mountain road.

khí [R. khù, to go, = col. khí], a particle used in imperative phrases, &c., e.g. kóng-khi-bēng, speak plainly!

khí (R. kí). gē-khi, a leech. ngē-khi, id. moá-khi (C.), a small sort of crab, like "kiá-pē." chhiū moá-khi (C.), to catch them by torchlight.

khí [R. to ride, = col. khiá]. khi-hé chi-sè, put-tek-hā, when riding a tiger it is hard to get off (said of an unpleasant or dangerous affair, which we cannot set right or get clear of). má siēn, pī-jin-khi (r.), a good horse is ridden upon (v. khi).

khí — si-khi, to have a peculiar sort of swelling or tumour on the forehead or temples. chit-liáp-khi, such a mark in the form of a round swelling. chit-jiah-khi, the mark left by it, on which hair will not grow.

khí [R. kí, to record; a period of twelve years; a surname]. koh chit-khi-ní (= kí), after twelve years to come. toá-goá chit-khi-ní, twelve years older than I.

khí [R. how? = col. tháí]. khi-kám, how can I dare (to accept so much honour)? you honour me too much. khi-iú chhú-lí, how can this be right?

khí [R. chhù, to dwell; by change of tone from "chhù," a place]. khiā-khi, to dwell; to reside.

khí (R. chhi), a tooth; barb of hook; fluke of anchor; projections of key for the wards of a lock.

tiá-khi, the fluke of an anchor. tiò-khi, the barb of a hook. tò-kau-khi, the barb, as of a hook or of a harpoon. giá-kang-khi, a sort of arrangement for the bolt of a door (v. giá).

chhùi-khi, a tooth. khi-phāng, the interstices between the teeth. chhùi-khi-phāng, id. khi-hoá, the gums. chhùi-khi-jin, id. chhùi-khi-thâu, the stump or root of a tooth. khi-kha, roots of teeth (s. raise). ká khi-kun, to clench the teeth, as in pain or impotent displeasure (v. ká). khi-siōng, the tartar of the teeth.

chhiu-khi, a decayed tooth. khi-pau, a gum-boil. se-khi-sau (C.), to have a gum-boil. khi-giá-kang, a very severe disease of the gums or jaw. chhùi-khi-thiá, toothache (v. thiá).

hoat-khi, to get teeth (s. rise). lak-khi, to lose one's teeth. oá-khi, to change the teeth, as children. bán chhùi-khi, to pull a tooth. pé chhùi-khi, to insert a tooth. thok-khi, to pick the teeth. thak-khi, id. soeh-khi, food sticking between the teeth. thng-khi, teeth sore from something hot. tàng-khi, teeth sore or chattering with cold, or with some cold thing (v. tàng). tak-khi, teeth rapidly shut, or chattering with cold. pauh-khi, the two upper incisors projecting too much.

áu-tsan-khi, the back-teeth. au-khi, id. tiōng-khi, the fore-teeth. chēng-khi, the front-teeth. thau-chēng-khi, id. thau-tsan-khi, id. gē-tsō-khi, the canine teeth.

thih-khi, obstinately refusing to admit a manifest fault, and telling lies to cover it. thih-chhùi-khi, id. tâng-gē-tsō, thih-chhùi-khi, id. gē-khi (C.), a tooth.

khi-thok, a tooth-pick. khi-bin, a tooth-brush. bé-khi-tāu, a sort of bean (v. tāu). bé-khi-soa, coarse sand; fine gravel (v. soa).

khí (R. id.), to rise; to raise; to begin; to build; to take away (only a few phrases); classifier of lawsuits, &c.; used as an auxiliary to express ability.

khí-keng, to build a temple. khi-kiōng (C.), id. khi-keng, to help another to lift a load or sedan on his shoulder. khi-kai (T.), id. khi-kui (Cn.), id. khi-keng, to take back land from a tenant who has been cultivating it.

khi-chhù, to build a house. khi-kài, id. hōng-kiōng-khi, built in style of a palace, as temples of some great canonized idols. tē-tiēn-khi, id. kah-si-khi, to build with wooden pillars, filling up the panels with weaker work (v. si).

khi-kè, to rise in price. tit-thau-khi, to rise rapidly, as price of an article (v. thau).

khi-hè, to unlade, as goods from vessel. khi-tsūn, to disembark. khi-soa, to step ashore. bōe-khi-chhng, confined to bed. khi-ūi, to rise from one's seat, as on visitor entering, &c. (v. ūi). khi-lāi, to rise up; to get up (often enclitic); to lose a

紀
豈
處
處

虹
欺

欹

崎 去 嶼
騎

situation, or have to give it up. khí--khì, to go up, as an ascent. khùn-khí, to rise from sleep. khùn khí, sleeping and waking. chhìn ù-khí-sì, just enough to turn the steelyard; good weight. khí-thâm (raising phlegm), gurgling in throat of man about to die. khí-tāng--lí, I beg to trouble you to—; thank you, sir! (v. tāng). kiáh-khí, to lift up, as eye or staff, &c. (v. kiáh).

khí-chhì, rough; uneven; troublesome, as affair (v. chhì). khí-chhang, porous. khí-pan, the spots appearing in the fever called "chhut-pan." khí-è, a white film growing on the eye.

khí-peng, to raise soldiers. khí-lāng, to hire men to help, as in a feud.

khí-sū, to raise trouble. gín-ná khí toā-lāng-ē, young persons make troubles that involve their seniors. khí-hō, to begin business, esp. after the New-Year's holidays. khí-hòk, to begin the rites (khí-hà) for the recently dead. khí-ké, to begin beating a drum at rites for the dead; also (Cn.) before a play. khí-lê, to light the oven. khí-hé, to kindle a fire; to take fire, as at beginning of a conflagration. khí-gī, to propose and take the lead, as in a subscription or enterprise. khí chhâ-thâu, to worship the coffin outside the door when about to be carried to the grave. khí-thêng, to begin a journey. khí-sin, to begin, esp. a journey. khí-kang, to begin work (v. kang). khí-ki, commencement, as of affair; to begin a business or affair. khí-tóe, first beginning or origin; originally; to make the first beginning, as of a custom or family. khí-in, cause; origin. in-toa<sup>n</sup> khí-lí, id. khí-chhoe, the beginning; at first. khí-chhê, id. khí-seng, id. khí-thâu, id. khí-chhiú, to begin a work or quarrel. khí-chhiú chiū-ia<sup>n</sup>, at the very beginning (of the game) he wins. khí-chhiú, chiú phah-phái<sup>n</sup>, as soon as he began (the work) he spoiled it.

khí-kha, to lift the foot (s. tooth). khí-kún, to lift the fist, as when about to box.

tsá-khí, early in the morning (v. tsá).

phah-khí, to make a beginning; to be the first to do something. kin-ná-jit phah-khí, begin to-day. túi chia phah-khí, begin at this point. têng-thâu phah-khí, do it all over from the beginning. kóng-khí, to raise a question. thê-khí, id. koā<sup>n</sup>-khí, id.; also to take up in the hand (as a basket) by a handle. sng-khí, to count such a time as the commencement of an engagement or calculation.

thâu-khí, prospering, as business. khah-thâu-khí, having special influence, esp. having the confidence of a powerful person, and easy access to him. thâu-khí ê-lāng, a man of special influence and importance, e.g. well acquainted with mandarins. lí m̄-sái teh-thâu-khí, there is no reason why you should take the lead in this matter.

kúi-khí, how many legal cases or disputes? tsòe-kúi-khí, how often are the soldiers changed? hit-khí ê-lāng, all the persons concerned in that legal case or dispute, e.g. parties, persons managing the affair, &c.

khí chhàu-bah, to remove the putrid flesh from a wound or sore, as medicinal application. ōe-chiáh chhàu-bah khí--lái, able to remove it. khí-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to take starch out of dress, &c., as by water.

khòa<sup>n</sup>-lāng m̄-khí, to treat a man with contempt (not looking at him). jim-m̄-khí, I have not the ability for such an office. tng-m̄-khí, unable to bear such honour; you are too polite or too kind to me. tng-bōe-tit-khí, id. bōe-tng-tit-khí, id. tōe-bōe- khí, unable to raise so much by subscription. hêng-bōe-khí, unable to repay, for another.

chiah-ōe-ēng-tit-khí, and by that means it becomes fit to be used; e.g. a bad cash mixed with the due proportion of good ones.

khì [R. id., = col. khùi], vapour; odour; flavour; breath; physical constitution; animal spirits; principles of life, health, or strength; character; anger; influence of malaria, or of good or bad luck.

khì-bi, odour; flavour, &c. (v. bi). iū-khì, having fat, as meat. khì-chiú, a weak spirit made in Amoy, mixed with water.

chheng-khì, clean; pure (v. chheng).

kháu-khì, smell of a man's breath; purpose as shown by manner of speaking, &c. (v. kháu). kháu-khì, very troublesome, awkward, and inconvenient, as a matter.

sip-khì, dampness (communicated). tsúi-khì, damp (natural). sú-khì, scorching heat of summer. tōe-khì, influence of ground or locality, as in relation to health, climate, or geomancy. thi<sup>n</sup>-khì, weather. lêng-khì, auspicious influence, as of hill or grave; appearance of cleverness, as in a boy (v. lêng). lāng-khì, odour or influence of many persons being together, e.g. as to warmth, or as to keeping away demons.

hé-khì, the hot principle in the constitution; tendency to fever or inflammation. jiét-khì, heat, as of fever or inflammation. lêng-khì, cold, the cold principle in the constitution. chhìn-khì, id.

hiet-khì, vital principle or animal spirits (v. hiet). huih-khì, id. (v. huih). seng-khì, principle of life (v. seng), [also, to grow angry]. goān-khì, constitution of a man (v. goān). péng-khì, natural constitution as to strength (v. péng). im-khì, the female or negative principle (v. im). iông-khì, the masculine or positive principle (v. iông). tông-khì (R.), brothers by the same father.

hùi-khì, very laborious or troublesome (v. hùi). kiā<sup>n</sup>-khì, to be successful, as a request, medicine, or grave (v. kiā<sup>n</sup>).

sàn-khì, feeling of warmth and comfort, caused by pepper, liquor, &c. (v. sà). thong-khì, making a through draught of air; causing a comfortable feeling, as medicine taken in the nose. teh-khì, to remove pain in the breast or stomach; to keep down a tendency to vomit, cough, or pant, as medicine. khì ài-giā--khí-lái, feeling like slight choking in the throat, with tendency to cough up phlegm. ut-khì, feeling of biliousness or dyspepsia.

tūi-khì, swollen legs.

hong-khì, rheumatic pains, &c. (v. "hong," sort of disease). hong-khì, present customs or character of a community or place (from "hong," wind). un-ék-khì, pestilence; epidemic. sì-khì-chèng, id. tók-khì, id., or influence of some hidden poison in the system.

khì-mêh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse (v. mêh<sup>n</sup>). sim-khì-thià<sup>n</sup>, pain about the pit of the stomach; dyspepsia.

khì-chit (r.), temper or character; habit of body (v. chit). khì-khài, outward mein or manner (v. khài). khì-sek, complexion, as indicating bodily constitution. khì-siông, one's manner or appearance, as indicating feeling or purpose, or as an omen; appearance of sky, as sign of weather (v. siông).

siū-khì, elegant in manner; finely formed, as man. soa<sup>n</sup>-tiū<sup>n</sup>-khì, rustic, as manners of men or style of dress, &c. sip-khì, customs and manners, as of a place (v. sip). khah-ū goā-khì, fond of outward display; dashing (v. goā).

氣

chì-khì, purpose of will; self-respect (v. chì). ù-khì-chiet, having such self-respect, honour, or conscience, as not to demean one's self by meddling in improper matters, &c. ì-khì, purpose as manifested outwardly. sêng-khì phái<sup>n</sup>, temper bad. phái<sup>n</sup> sin-khì, awkward state of matters, so as to make one feel ashamed. ù khì-phiah, to have a peculiar temper. khì-liông sòe, too particular about small matters (v. liông).

hō-khì, harmony, of persons. bêng-khì, very fair or generous in one's dealings (v. bêng); (s. instrument) gī-khì, honourable and generous in dealings; readiness to requite favours or assist relatives, &c. (v. gī). ngī<sup>n</sup>-khì, very honest, blunt, or outspoken; unwilling to accept assistance (v. ngī<sup>n</sup>) li-khì (r.), unwilling to accept favours. khah-li-khì, very distant, as place (v. li, "to leave"). siáu-khì, meanness, smallness of mind. ièn-khì, mean and miserly.

siū-khì, anger; angry. oàn-khì, hatred; revengeful feeling. hūn-khì, id. (v. hūn). té-khì, wrangling altercation (v. té). tē-khì, id. sat-khì, rage for slaughter in battle; very brave natural appearance of countenance. kap--i chiáh-khì, to harbour revengeful feeling against him. thâu-khì, harbouring displeasure or resentment. thâu-khì, very much involved, as affair (v. thâu). seng-khì, to grow angry. cheng-khì, put-cheng-tsâi, have dispute or feud for anger or feeling, not for money. toá-tím khì--sí, very deeply grieved or angry. goá chin-khì--sí, I am sorely grieved or displeased. hē--i khì--sí, to be deeply grieved and displeased at his conduct; generally without means of setting matters right. beh-hē--lí khì--sí, he does it of set purpose to grieve, annoy, and distress you. hē--i oáh-oáh khì--sí, to make him dreadfully and impotently grieved and angry. khì-sí-goá, he makes me almost die of grief or rage. khì-kàu-sí, deeply grieved all one's life for another's bad conduct, and unable to set it right; e.g. wife for husband, or parent for son. khì kàu-poá<sup>n</sup>-sí, half dead with grief or displeasure.

lún-khì, to restrain one's anger (v. lún). jím-khì (r.), id. (v. jím). chē-siēn ùn-khì, to sit cross-legged without eating, speaking, or feeling emotion, as Buddhist priest.

ùn-khì, fortune, good or bad, in relation to a fated period (v. ùn). khì-ùn, id. hok-khì, good fortune, prosperity, happiness. tsái-khì, success in making money (v. tsái).

ōng-khì, making money in great abundance; always winning at gambling; temperament strong and warm, as of a young or vigorous man (v. ōng). soe-khì, becoming very poor, from better circumstances; numbers in family or village rapidly diminishing; everything going wrong and failing (v. soe). chhut-khì, to lose flavour; to lose lucky influence, as grave. hong-súi chhut-khì, the grave has lost its auspicious influence on the posterity. sit-khì, to lose influence, power, or good luck; to fall from wealth to poverty; to lose health; to lose power or feeling, as finger or limb, for a longer or shorter time. thē-khì, to lose the auspicious influence, as a grave.

iàm-khì, able to ward off the malign influence of evil spirits, as a charm (v. iàm), (s. reject).

lí-khì, the rationale or real principle of some matter (v. lí).

chit-nī<sup>n</sup>, jī-tsáp-si-khì, a year has twenty-four terms, arranged according to the solar year. cheh-khì (C.), = A. tsoeh-khì, these terms.

khì [R. an instrument]. khì-kū, an instrument. khì-khū, id. khì-hái, weapons.

kùi-khì, precious; valuable; honourable. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng sêng-khì, to get set up in the world, as by getting into a good business or getting married.

húi-khì, pottery; earthenware. chhat-khì, lacquered ware. pó-khì, precious things; valuables. gún-khì, silver ornaments, esp. for female head-dress. goán-khì, toys; play-things. bih-khì-tiám, a shop for wicker-work. peng-khì; warlike weapons and stores. kun-khì, id. lái-khì, sharp instruments; edged tools. li-khì, id. (s. vapour). tiâu-têng ê-bêng-khì, mandarin insignia of rank and office.

khì [R. to reject; to abandon]. khì-tsoát, to reject; to abandon. khì-sak (Cn.), id. iàm-khì, to loathe (v. iàm), (s. vapour). tsòe kàu-khì-jin, to draw down people's disgust and hatred on one's self by bad conduct. tsòe chiá<sup>n</sup> khì-jin, id.

khì-siá kui-chêng, to forsake the evil and return to the good. ngiá-sin khì-kū, to leave the old for the new; fickle.

tsū-pō tsū-khì, to throw away invaluable opportunities to our own great injury.

khì [R. khù, to go; to leave; cf. col. khì], (Cn. khū; T. khū, khū), to go; to go to; to go away; to remove or cure (some diseases), as medicine; to lose (some things); one of the four tones, the "departing" tone, or third great tone-class, both upper and lower. khì is often enclitic, as also the phrase lái-khì.

khì-hong, to remove rheumatic pains, &c. khì-hé, to remove fever or inflammation. khì-thām, to remove phlegm. khì-thâu-hin, to remove giddiness.

khì-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to lose the anchor. khì-úi sit-toá, to lose mast and helm. sin-hūn, khì-chit-tiâu, having lost one of our three souls by sudden terror (v. hūn). khì-ngé-chiam, to cut off head, arms (or wings), and feet (v. chiam).

khì-ok kui-siēn, to leave the bad and return to the good (better "khù"), (s. "khì," to reject).

khì-sia<sup>n</sup>, the "khì" or departing tone-class, either upper or lower; the third great tone-class, including also the sixth or seventh, according to other modes of numbering. ē-khì, the lower third tone or lower khì, called also by some the sixth, by some the seventh. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì, the upper third tone or upper khì, called also the third tone when all the seven or eight are separately numbered. téng-khì (C.), id.

chit-khì, m-hôe-thâu, to go away and never return. kóng-ōe, khì-khì tò-tò, to talk indefinitely, saying both yes and no (v. tò).

lái-khì, to come and go; let us go; when enclitic, almost like "lái," to come. jip--lái-khì, come in. chiū<sup>n</sup>--lái-khì, come up. lái-khì-khoá<sup>n</sup>, let us go and look. lái-lái khì-khì, coming and going constantly. lái-khì, lóng-sī lí--ê m-tiòh, from first to last you are in the wrong; it is all your fault. chham-lái chhap-khì, confusedly mixed. lái chheng, khì bêng, all plain and open, as a ready-money transaction, &c. ù-khì bô-lái, all expenses and no receipts; all go, and none come back. ù khì-lē, bô lái-lē, a road to go, but no way back again.

chiū<sup>n</sup>--khì, to ascend. lóh--khì, to descend. tò--khì, to go back. túi<sup>n</sup>--khì (C.), id. kè--khì, to cross over. chhut--khì, to go out, &c. &c.

bô--khì, to perish; to cease to exist; to be lost. bô-lô--khì, id. hē--i chhoàn-khì, to be supplanted by him. chhoàn-bô--khì, situation lost through another supplanting us. chhoàn-bô-khì, supplanting attempted but not successful. chiáh-bōe-khi, cannot eat anything near the whole; great abundance to eat and much still over.

器

棄

去

khi [R. the persimmon or Chinese fig, not a true fig]. âng-khi, the red persimmon. teng-khi (Cn.), id. chim-khi, the yellow persimmon.

khi-ti, the dried calyx of the persimmon (v. ti). khi-ké, dried persimmons. khi-chi (Cn.), id. khi-song, dust or bloom which gathers on dried persimmons (used in medicine). khi-song-hún, id. khi-á-chiap, persimmon juice (used in making umbrellas). khi-á-tsoá, paper treated with it.

khi-jiông, inferior sort of medicinal stag's horn (said to be the interior part).

khi [R. ti, = col. thi]. khi-koe, the pheasant (v. thi).

khi [R. khū, to fear]. sù-bū-khi-tân, quite without any fear; recklessly wicked, without fear of superiors.

khi [R. kī, to dislike; to have a superstitious horror or fear of; days sacred in memory of relative's death, &c.], (C. kī), to fear, stand in awe of, or avoid, especially from medical or superstitious reasons. tê-khi, envious. khi-khek, to fear; to dread, as person or calamity. khi-hi, to refrain from pronouncing or writing a tabooed or sacred name. khi-chiáh, to avoid eating something on account of health. chhùi bōe-khi-tit, cannot restrain one's self from eating what is hurtful.

kim-khi, to fear or avoid for medical or superstitious reasons, or as nauseous food. bō-kim-khi, having no danger of causing bad luck, as an auspicious day. bō-kim-khi ê-lâng, a man above such superstitious fears. bō-kim bō-khi, id., e.g. not afraid though a man in mourning should come to a marriage. bō-kim bō-khi, chiáh pah-jī, living to 120 years of age though above superstitious fears. pek-bū-kim-khi, having no such fears at all; phrase written up when some work is begun which might have inauspicious effects; said also of a man who has no respect for superiors, or who does wicked things openly without fear.

khi<sup>n</sup> (R. kheng), (C. khē<sup>n</sup>), a ravine; a dell; a narrow valley. khi<sup>n</sup>-kau, the channel of a stream in a ravine or dell. hām-khi<sup>n</sup>, a pitfall (v. hām).

khi<sup>n</sup>-kàng, a sort of toad. chhim-khi<sup>n</sup>, a very deep ravine or chasm. chhim-khi<sup>n</sup> nâ<sup>n</sup>-tōe, deep ravines and dense forests. bō-tōe chhim-khi<sup>n</sup>, a tremendously deep (bottomless) chasm. chhùi sī bō-tōe chhim-khi<sup>n</sup>, his mouth is a bottomless abyss; insatiable, or spending large sums on food and drink. pak-té sī bō-tōe chhim-khi<sup>n</sup>, id. (his belly, &c.) poáh-lòh bân-tng chhim-khi<sup>n</sup> (to fall into an abyss a hundred thousand feet deep), to commit some great crime or dreadful mistake, or begin some terrible quarrel that can scarcely ever be set right again.

khi<sup>n</sup> (T.) kháu-khi<sup>n</sup>, not straightforward; troublesome to deal with, as a man.

khi<sup>n</sup> — khi<sup>n</sup>-khi<sup>n</sup> khê<sup>n</sup>-khê<sup>n</sup>, all in disorder, as things or affair.

khi<sup>n</sup> (R. khím), to seize; to grasp tightly. khi<sup>n</sup>--lâi, to catch and pull towards one. khi<sup>n</sup>-kiō, to lay hold of the poles of a mandarin's sedan, to present a petition irregularly. ū-khi<sup>n</sup>-khip, to have property or family on which a creditor can have a hold (v. khip). khi<sup>n</sup>-tit-tiâu, manage to keep from falling by grasping something; the price will stand in market; the house or firm will just manage to avoid bankruptcy; the family just managing to get on without a total loss. khi<sup>n</sup>-chhiū<sup>n</sup> peh-piah, to climb and clamber on walls, as thief or restless child.

khi<sup>n</sup> [R. khiâm, pincers, &c.], (C. khi<sup>n</sup>, khiâm). khi<sup>n</sup>-á, large pincers; tongs. hé-khi<sup>n</sup>, tongs. hé-thâu-khi<sup>n</sup>, pincers curved inwards at the point. tháng-khi<sup>n</sup>, instrument for knocking the hoops firmly on a barrel.

khi<sup>n</sup> [R. khiên, to venerate; devout; sincere]. kiu<sup>n</sup>-khi<sup>n</sup>, very diligent at work; not easily tired or led to stop.

khiā (= khiâu), to demand an extortionate price or wages because of a man's urgent need.

khiā (= khiã). khiā-lâm-iã, name of an idol.

khiā [R. ka, = col. kia]. sek-khiā, Buddha, Shakyamuni, said to be the same as Julai; also, the custard-apple. sek-khiā-hút, Buddha.

khiā (Cn. kha). sai-khiā, private, as property; one's own. su-khiā, id.

khiā (Cn. kha), odd (not even); one of a pair; classifier of boxes, baskets, and of odd articles from a pair. kê-khiā, an odd article (one of a pair). toa<sup>n</sup>-khiā, id. chit-khiā-siu<sup>n</sup>, one box.

tī-khiā, one single chop-stick.

khiã (R. khi), (Cn. khã), to ride. khiã-bé, to ride a horse. khiã-bé-long, to sit across, as on a bench or wall; or on a person, as in play, or when beating him.

lióng-kha khiã, keeping neutral; having two strings to his bow. khiã-lêng, placed on the sloping descent of a hill (as a house or grave), across the line of auspicious influence. sa<sup>n</sup>-khiã, to copulate, as quadrupeds.

khiã [R. khiok, crooked, = col. khiâu, khiãu, khiã], to refuse to pay money due. kã--lân khiã--leh, refusing to pay us our money.

khiã (cf. khiã). khiã-lâm, name of a Buddhist idol. khiã-lâm-iã, id. khiã-lâm-sin, id.

khiã (Cn. khã), (cf. kiã), to stand; to stand upright; to set upright; to erect, as a pole or tablet; perpendicular; a perpendicular stroke; (a door-post); to dwell; to reside; to hold an office, post, or share. (Cn. "to stand; perpendicular," &c., khã; but "to dwell," tiù, in many phrases.)

chit-khiã, a perpendicular stroke without any hook. chit-khiã chit-tiuh, one perpendicular stroke and one horizontal stroke, as in the character "sip," the figure of a perpendicular cross. mûg-khiã, a door-post. teng-khiã, an upright stand for an oil-lamp (v. teng).

chhak-khiã, very stiff, as starched clothes.

thán-khiã, perpendicular. khiã-tit, id.; to stand erect. khiã-khi-khi, stand up! tó-tó khiã-khiã, lounging about. khiã-khùn, to sleep while standing (v. khùn). khiã-sin, in a standing position (specially said of an idol). khiã-sin lô-tia, said of the interpreter, who, standing before the mandarin, acts as if he were mandarin. khiã-pan, to stand in attendance on a judge, as his retainers.

khiã-pîn, a standing screen at a door. khiã-kiã<sup>n</sup>, a mirror or picture fixed upright on a stand, without any joint. khiã-âm, a perpendicular water-pipe. lê-khiã-chiã<sup>n</sup> (C.), the upright timber of a plough.

khiã-úi, to set up a mast. khiã-thiâu, to set up a pillar. khiã-pi, to set up a stone tablet. khiã-kí, to set up a flag-staff. khiã teng-ko, to set up a

柿

雉
惟
忌

坑

鉗

虔 挾伽
迦

騎

挾

伽

bamboo with a lamp at the top, covered with a cap (superstitious). khia-hoan, to set up a frame with streamers after a death.

khia chhi<sup>n</sup>-kng, to have (in the shop) a vat for dyeing blue.

khia-hà, to have in the house offerings (of food, paper, houses, and furniture, &c.) for the dead for many days in succession. khia-lêng, id.

khia-tsai, to stand firmly. khia-tit-tiâu, I can stand my ground; am not afraid of him. oâ-thâu-khiâ, to lay to (as ship), so as not to move, or scarcely move. khia-siám, to stand out of the way. khia-khui, id. khia-n̄g, to wither, as a transplanted plant (v. ùg).

khia-tháng, to stand in a cage with head out till starved to death. khia-tû, id.; the cage so used.

khia-koà, to practise attitudes, as for archery or riding (v. koà). khia-keng, id. for archery. khia péh-hi, to stand on one's hands with head down. tò-khia-thêng (C.), id.

khia-hong, to keep watch, so as to give notice to confederates in a bad work, e.g. as sentry set by gamblers or conspirators. khia chhim-tsúi, to look on when others are quarrelling, or doing something bad, without checking them, or giving information to their superiors, but rather pleased that they thus get into trouble. pai-bin-chêng-khiâ, to put on an appearance of diligence, obedience, or very good behaviour in presence of master, or of some one whom we wish to please.

kap-i ù-pi<sup>n</sup>-khia, to be able to associate with him, as in similar station or position in society. kap-i ù-chê-khiâ, id. tai-ke pi<sup>n</sup>-chê-khiâ, all of similar class, circle, or position in society, e.g. all mandarins, or of mandarin families. kap-lâng bô-chê-khiâ, unfit to associate with respectable people, e.g. because of one's self or one's parents having done something very disreputable.

khia-khi, to dwell; to reside. chih-khiâ, to lodge; to take lodgings. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap-khiâ, to live together. siang-khiâ-lai, living in separate rooms of the same premises. sang-khiâ-lai, id. khia-ke, to have one's family living in a place. khia-chhù-á, to stay in a house four months free of rent after notice to quit. khia-òh, to keep a school, as a teacher. kap-i khia-kha, to stay with a man, working for him for food, and little or no wages, while waiting for a better situation. khia-sin, to occupy a military or police station. khia-pé, to have office in one of the Supreme Boards. khia-chân to have a business office

khia-ké, to have a share in business. khia chit-ké, to have one share. khia kúi-pah-khe, how many hundred dollars has he in the business as his share?

khia thi<sup>n</sup>-lê, to have no house to live in, as very poor man. khia sang-keng-chhù, to have one's feet put through a hole in the wall and fastened there, as in stocks, so as to die if not ransomed, e.g. as a captive in a clan feud. khia-géh, to spend some time (often a month) at her parent's house, as bride does soon after marriage.

khia<sup>n</sup> [R. kheng, light, = col. khin]. khia<sup>n</sup>-pòh, having hands, face, &c., small and insignificant looking (said to be a bad omen).

khia<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. khien, the handles of a box.

khia<sup>n</sup> [R. khèng, to congratulate]. khia<sup>n</sup>-hō (esp. Cn.), to make congratulatory presents.

khiah (R. khék), a crevice; a notch; an aperture; a flaw; a breach, as in a wall; a ravine.

khang-khiah, holes and crevices; a small blemish (or apparent blemish), as in character; a flaw or point for finding fault. ù-khang-khiah, there is a flaw or place to find fault with. bô-khang bô-khiah, no place to find fault. chhê-khang-khiah, to search for a flaw, or fault, or place to reprove, find fault with, accuse, or injure. chhê-khiah, id.

khui-khiah, to make a small opening, as in an embankment, so that water may flow out for irrigation. ù-khui-khiah, to have a way open for setting a matter right. khan-kau kè-khiah, said of idols helping people over difficulties. chit-khiah phá<sup>n</sup>, one step is bad, as in a set of stone or brick steps. siá<sup>n</sup>-khiah, the interstices in the battlements of a wall; breaches in a wall. sam-pan-khiah, the interstices in the battlements. sam-poan-khiah (C.), id. káu-kiá<sup>n</sup> sam-pan-khiah (a dog walking on the ledge of the battlements), said of a man taking a roundabout road when he might go straight, or spending far more labour than is needed.

khia<sup>k</sup> (cf. khia<sup>k</sup>), very strong, as paper; skilful and successful at managing matters.

khia<sup>k</sup> (= khiet). bák-chiu sek-khok sek-khia<sup>k</sup>, eyes glancing rapidly all about.

khia<sup>k</sup> (Cn.) khia<sup>k</sup>-hō, = A. khiet-hé, to strike fire with a flint.

khia<sup>k</sup> (C.), = A. khio<sup>k</sup>, indeed; to refuse, &c.

khia<sup>k</sup> (cf. kiá<sup>k</sup>, khiet<sup>k</sup>, khia<sup>k</sup>), strong, stiff, and good, as cloth or paper. pè-sin iáu-khia<sup>k</sup>, the cloth is pretty strong.

khia<sup>k</sup>-khia<sup>k</sup>-háu, sound of stiff paper or cloth when shaken, or of striking an empty water-jar, or of beating a boy.

ok-khia<sup>k</sup>-khia<sup>k</sup>, very fierce, bold, overbearing, or imperious.

khiam (R. id.) khiam-sùn, humble, as in manner. khiam-pi, id. khiam-hu, id. tsù-khiam, speaking humbly; politely using humble phrases.

khiam (C.) khiam-á, = A. khí<sup>n</sup>-á, tongs, pin-cers.

khiam (C.) tháng-khiam, = A. thán<sup>k</sup>-khí<sup>n</sup>, an instrument for knocking down the hoops on a barrel.

khiam [R. kám, to dare, = ká<sup>n</sup>, kiám]. khiam-chhái, = kiám-chhái, perhaps.

khiam [R. kín, quick, = col. kím]. khiam-mé<sup>n</sup> (C.), be quick!

khiam [R. name of a plant]. khiam-sit, a medicine used for indigestion (Euryale?). khiam-sin, id.

khiam (R. id.), to be deficient; to be wanting or in want of; to owe, as money. khiam-kheh, to be in want; deficient. kheh-khiam, id. thau-ni<sup>n</sup> thau-liám, chit-si-láng kheh-khiam, thieves are always in want. khiam-êng, to require or be in want of for use (whether obtained or not). khiam-chit-kúi, to try every means short of kneeling in making a very urgent request. bôe-khiam--tit, cannot allow the debt to be contracted or to remain unpaid. khiam-chit-hun, to be deficient in weight one candareen; to want one minute, &c.

kū-khiam, an old debt. thoa-khiam, to be very long of paying. sia-khiam, to be in debt for things bought on credit. chhim-khiam, to owe (esp. to employer) what one has got or taken (v. chhim). khòng-khiam, to refuse to pay what one owes.

謙

敢

欠

輕

慶隙

têng-tháh-khiám, to get deeper in debt to the same creditor. oan-iu<sup>n</sup>-sia, têng-tháh-khiám, to borrow money and get goods on credit from the same man so as to get deeper in debt. khiám-siáu, to owe an account. khiám-chê, to owe a debt (v. chê). khiám-chi<sup>n</sup>, to owe money. khiám--lâng gún-hâng, to owe dollars. hê-lâng-khiám, to have money owing to us. khiám-toa<sup>n</sup>, a note of hand, as proof of a debt. tui-tû-goã siông-khiám, balance showing a deficiency.

khah-khiám-sin, naturally having a dull unexcitable manner or unintelligent appearance, often having the appearance of not observing or attending to what is said or done, but not necessarily implying more than the external manner and appearance.

khiam (R. id.), economical, as person, to use sparingly or economically. khiám-liám, very sparing in what one uses. thài-khiám, miserly. gâu-khiám, economical, as person. gâu-khiám-ke, economical in household expenses, as wife. khiám-êng, temperate, economical, or careful in using or eating. bôe-khiám-tit, cannot be dispensed with; must be had, e.g. good food for sick man. bôe-hiáu-khiám, lavish; careless of expense.

khiu-khiám, rather niggardly. chiet-khiám, careful and economical. khun-khiám, id., and diligent. khek-khûn khek-khiám, extremely so. khiám-phak, economical, as person. khiám-séng, to use money very sparingly. khiám-sé<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. khiám-khoeh (T.), very economical; parsimonious. khiám-khóeh (T.), id.

khiám-chiáh, moderate in eating. khiám-chiáh lún-chhùi, very sparing in eating. khiám-chhùi, moderate in eating. khiám-chhêng tit-sin: khiám-chiáh tit-chhun, take care of clothes, and they are as good as new; be moderate in eating, and there is a surplus.

khian, khiân, khián, khiân; better khiên, khiên, khiên, khiên (q.v.)

khiang (R. khiên), sound as of crockery broken. khiang-liang, clear ringing sound, as of a good dollar. khiang-khiang, sound of bell or tambourine, or of metal struck. khiin-khin khiang-khiang, id. khiang-khiang-hiú<sup>n</sup>, ringing sound, as of brass when struck.

không-khiang, unsteady gait, as of a woman having small feet.

tsong-khiang (C.), making a false pretence or show by outward appearance or plausible talk.

khiang [R. a dialect, = col. khiu<sup>n</sup>]. khun-khiang, songs in the mandarin dialect (v. khun). lî-khiang, put-li-khiang, one can leave his home, but can't get rid of his local dialect.

khiang (C.), = A. khiong, a surname.

khiang (C.) khong-khiang-á, a small sort of fish.

khiang [R. kiông, strong; violent]. láu-khiang-táu, said in scolding a man who is too exacting in money matters (v. tau).

khiang [R. káng, to discuss; to talk, = col. kóng], to dispute. gâu-khiang, fond of disputing. khiáng-lái khiáng-khi, disputing violently and scolding each other; talking mandarin together, as Fuh-kien people.

khiáng-chiá<sup>n</sup>-jî, to talk the mandarin colloquial dialect.

khiàng — khiàng-chiáu, sort of squinting appearance from the skin of the eye being drawn up at the corner, as if in shooting.

khiàng, bold, in good or bad sense; strong and firmly made, as house, ship, or other article; skilful at managing an affair or work. béng-khiàng-khiàng, bold and quarrelsome or overbearing. khiàng-táu, extremely sharp as at business or law; too sharp to have to do with, or at least hard to be imposed upon.

khiap, spoiled, as a thing. phah-khiap, to spoil; to injure; to impair. khah-khiap chhiong-kun mng-liú, worse than transportation, esp. of having to emigrate far and long without getting home.

khiap-si, ugly.

khiap-ì, unfriendly in manner or behaviour; display of unfriendly or displeased feeling. khi-khiap-ì, to show such feeling by unfriendly treatment.

khiap [R. cowardly]. khiap-tá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), cowardly (r.)

khiap [R. khiám, economical]. khiap-sái, miserly; stingy.

khiáp [R. hiáp, to force, = col. ngòeh, khiáu], to take selfish advantage of the scarcity of supply, or of another's troubles or necessities, esp. by asking too high a price; to demand too much money, as underlings of mandarins; to be very troublesome, as a child insisting on getting much attention. beh-khiáp khah-tsôeh-chi<sup>n</sup>, insisting on getting far too much money, as we are in urgent need.

khiat, khiát; better khiet, khiét (q.v.)

khiâu — táh-khiâu, to walk on stilts. táh-khiâu kiá<sup>n</sup>-soh, to walk on stilts and on the tight-rope.

khiâu (= khiáu, khiáp), to demand too high a price from one who can't help giving it.

khiâu — khiâu-khi, rough, as a road; capricious and ready to take offence (v. khi).

khiâu [R. khiok, crooked, a song, = col. khek, khiàu], crooked. khiâu-ku, hump-backed. bin khiâu-khiâu, forehead bent down and chin turned up. oan-khiâu, crooked; deceitful (v. oan). bû-khiâu, put-sêng-sû (C. si), must go about the bush to accomplish this matter.

áu-khiâu, to bend and make crooked. khiâu-sí, long spoon-shaped appendages of the Ming cap called "se-bô."

khiâu-lái khiâu-khi, bent in different directions at different parts. khiâu-kè-lái, khiâu-kè-khi, having got twisted or bent in different directions at the two ends, as a thing originally straight. i khiâu-lái, lán khiâu-khi, if he act unfairly to us, we will do so to him. i khiâu--chit-ê kè-lái, lán khiâu--chit-ê kè-khi, id.

chhiú-khiâu, the arm bent to an acute angle at the elbow. khùn-chhiú-khiâu, to sleep with one's head on the elbow for a pillow. sái-chhiú-khiâu tò-tông, to strike back with the bent elbow.

khiâu-kha, to put up one leg across the other knee. khiâu-kha khè-chhiú, legs drawn up, and arms resting on them or on something else. khiâu-kha-goân, the character "goân," which has two level strokes and two long legs. ka-tiong bû-bâ niáu-chhú khiâu-kha, when there is no cat in the house the rats play.

tit-tit-chhâ, thâi kàu-khiâu, said of a good case mismanaged till it is spoiled, e.g. by telling transparent lies.

khiâu [R. hiáp, to force, = col. khiáp, khiá, khiá,

儉

法儉挾

挾

曲

腔

強強

講

挾

khiau], to refuse to do what one is ordered, as insolent man or spoiled child; to screw money out of people, as yamun underlings; to demand too high a price when we alone have the article wanted. khiau-tiâu, id. khiau-khò, to drive too hard a bargain. khiau-khé, to take advantage of a man's necessities, as by making enormous demands or refusing to do what we are well able. khiau--lâng, id.; said also of a superior always finding fault or demanding presents, or of a man too particular about having everything just to his mind, or of a child always crying for this or that. khiau-lâi khiau-khi, to give a vast deal of trouble, as by constantly changing one's mind (esp. after promising), or by being extremely particular about minute matters. khiau-tang khiau-sai, id. khiau-chit-hâng, khiau-hit-hâng, causing constant trouble, as yamun people extorting one thing after another endlessly; very exacting, as a man who is extremely particular, or as a troublesome child.

khiau [R. kháu, = col. khá], clever; crafty. ki-khiâu, skilful at work. ké-khiâu, trying to do something in a different way from others, but making a mess of it.

khiau-sin, pretty and pleasant-looking, as child or girl. khiau-kut, lively, open, and intelligent (not shy), as child. khiau-lō, skilful, as workman; clever and intelligent-looking, as child; well-formed, beautiful, as thing or man; when said of a woman it makes a bad inuendo.

chhâu-khiâu, suddenly; unexpectedly.

kan-khiâu, cunningly wicked; roguish and plotting. oát-kan oát-khiâu, oát pín-kiông, the more crafty the poorer. kan-kan khiâu-khiâu, thien put-iông, Heaven will not endure crafty plotters. kan-khiâu, tò-tí thien put-iông, id. at the last.

khiau [R. openings in the heart, supposed to cause intelligence]. chhit-khiâu, the seven openings in the heart of the most intelligent men.

û-khiâu-sin, healthy, strong, good and intelligent looking, as child; very interesting and pleasant to look at, as things beautiful, new, or strange. û-khiâu-biâu, very clever; skilfully made; attractive, interesting, or excellent, as a thing. chit-khoà, chit-û-khiâu, the more you look at it, the more it pleases.

it-khiâu put-thong, very stupid. bô-khiâu, dull of apprehension. bô-ki-khiâu, id. ki-khiâu, intelligence; quickness of apprehension, &c. sim-koa, û-ki-khiâu, very clever and intelligent, having mental powers well developed. û-khiâu, id. û-sim-khiâu, id. û-lêng-khiâu, id.

khui-khiâu, to develop a scholar's intellectual powers by education, so that he becomes intelligent and can think and study for himself; to become intelligent, as a scholar after several years of good education. khui-sim-khiâu, id. khui i--ê lêng-khiâu, id. khai-khiâu, id. hê--i ka-kî khui-khiâu, to bring him to the point that he can study and think for himself.

khiau [R. id., by change of tone from "hiau," fortunate, by chance], (Cn. khìò). khiau-tiâu, superstitious and magical arts.

khiau [R. khio, crooked, bent back, = col. khiau, khék]. phî<sup>n</sup>-khiau, the depressed part of the nose just between the eyes. khiau-chhùi, upper lip turned up (permanently). chhùi khiau-khiâu, lips protruded in scorn or displeasure. chhùi-tún khiau-khiâu, id. chhùi-tún khiau-tú-phî<sup>n</sup>, id., till the upper lip almost meets the nose! (either naturally or in bad temper or displeasure); how very bad-tempered you are!

siang-thâu khiau-khiâu, both ends turned up, as of a bamboo pole for carrying loads. káu-bé khiau-khiâu, dog's tail bent.

tó khiau-khiâu, to lie or fall down straight on bed or ground, as when wearied, or by tripping. si-khiâu-khiâu, quite dead. péng-khiâu-chhiò (C.), lying flat on the back.

khiau (cf. kiauh, ngiauh). khiau--khi-lâi, to turn over, as a chair; to turn up, as the beam of a balance or steelyard. khiau--lòh-khi, to turn very much down, as its beam. khiau-khi-khi, to be raised, as its beam. chhìn-kâu-khiâu-khiâu, to get the full turn of the steelyard.

khiauh (cf. khauh, khòk), the sound of striking a stone or bamboo, &c. khiauh-liâu, dull sound, as of bad silver, &c. téng-khiauh-khiauh, very hard, as stone or wood. khih-khih khiauh-khiauh, making noise and confusion, as boys. khiauh-khiauh-kiò, sound as of wood struck, or of wooden clogs, or shoes on wooden floor, or of children striking things in play. khiauh-khiauh-háu, id., or of a child constantly talking.

khiauh (cf. khauh, khèh). khiauh-khiauh-tsùn, to quake for fear; to shake and shiver with cold or illness.

khiauh — ta-khiauh-khiauh, very dry and parched.

khien (R. id.) chhoà-khien, a famous pirate of the surname Chhoà. khah-iá chhoà-khien, more wicked or violent than that pirate.

khien [R. to lead or draw along, = col. khan], a ring used as a handle for door or drawer, or for a knocker; a staple or ring for a hook or latch, &c.; sort of cakes made like rings; to put a hook in its staple; to latch a door.

khien-chhé, taking things at an average in the gross, good and bad mixed. khien-chhé ün--khi, id.

khien-mûg, fasten the door by putting the hook in its staple. khien--teh, shut as a door, in that way. khien-á, a staple or hook for it, &c. khien-ná, id. só-khien, the staple for a Chinese padlock. siu<sup>n</sup>-khien, do., for padlock of box; rings used as box-handles. mûg-khien, a ring on a door used as handle and knocker. khi<sup>n</sup>-mûg-khien ok, very brave and big when holding one's own door handle.

khu-khien, over-ceremonious, both in one's own conduct and requiring it from others.

sam-kài-khien, cakes made in the form of chains of rings (or round), esp. for worship of sam-kài-kong. sam-kài-kong-khien, id. tsòe-khien, to make these cakes.

khien, fretful, disobedient, and bad-tempered, as a child. khien-leh-leh, to fret, as a child. ké-khien, caressing, as a child to its parents when wishing a favour.

khien-chhiò (Cn.), smiling deceitfully while really hating.

khien [R. to venerate; devout; sincere, = col. khi<sup>n</sup>]. khien-kèng, devout; reverential. kèng-khien, id. khien-séng, id. khien-sim, id.

khien, a sort of net on small stakes, used in shallow water. chhi<sup>n</sup>-khien, id. khia-khien, to set it.

khien [R. heaven; a sovereign; firm; by change of tone from "kan," dry]. khien-liông, the reign of

巧

竅

徽

曲

愕

愆

虔

乾

the Emperor Kien-lung. khien-khun (R.), heaven and earth.

khien [R. a dog]. siáu-khien, my little pup, politely said of one's own son. siáu-khien-á, id. péng-khien, the contracted form of the 94th radical, written at the side. hé lóh péng-iū<sup>n</sup>, pī-khien-khi, a tiger in a plain is molested by dogs (v. khi). put-sit giú-khien, kong-béng put-hien: sit-liáu giú-khien, tē-gék lân-bien, without eating cows and dogs one does not become eminent, but then it is hard to escape hell.

khien (R. id.) chhe-khien, to send, as a man. siau-khien, to stroll about at leisure, as for health or amusement. si-kòe siau-khien, id.

khien (T.), = A. khin, willing. khien (R. id.) khien-chek, to punish, as the gods.

khien, to mix glutinous things by stirring, as paste or dough. khien-phang, a pleasant odour rising from the frying-pan, as when ginger, onions, &c., are put in. khien-lé, to mix in some brine from pickles, while eatables are being fried. khien-iū-chhang, to mix onions with fat, &c., on a hot frying-pan, so as to raise a fragrant smell.

khien-kê, to stir paste, in making it. khien-khi-thau, stir (the paste) till it is all of uniform thickness.

khien-hún (Cn. and Quemoy), = A. ô-á-tau, preparation of oysters in potato starch.

khien — khien-sng, superstitious rites or notions (not said in Cn., where "siá-sút," "khio-tiâu," or some such phrases are used). káu-khien-sng, very superstitious. tsòe-khien-sng, to perform superstitious rites. sióh-khien, superstitious.

khien-siù<sup>n</sup>, very narrow, niggardly, or exacting about money.

káu-khien, very particular about having everything according to the usual rites (more from habit than belief), and easily taking offence if all be not what he counts correct.

khiet (R. id.) chhong-khiet, the inventor of writing.

khiet [R. solitary]. khiet-jiên it-sin, left all alone, without relatives or friends.

khiet (T.) khiet-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, = khí-lái-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, to begin a journey.

khiet [R. to take up in the hand]. khiet-thiap, a placard vilifying a man, true or false.

khiet [R. to interrogate, as a superior does]. gâu-pok-khiet, fond of finding fault whenever the least opportunity can be found; examining very minutely; questioning and cross-questioning. pok-khiet ê-lâng, a man of that sort, whom it is hard to get round. chin-pok-khiet, very much so.

khiet [R. to speak of secrets or faults]. lih-khiet, very cunning, deceitful, and dangerous, as a man who secretly injures people while pretending friendship.

khiet (R. id.), (C. koat). káu-khiet, artful; intriguing; deceitful. khúi-khiet, id. kan-khiet (R.), id. poan-khiet (C.), id.

khiet (= khiak). bák-chiu sut-khok sut-khiet, eyes glancing about rapidly, seeing all that happens around.

khiet (Cn. khat, khiak, khök). khiet-hé, to strike fire with a flint.

khiet — σ-khiet, dark-coloured, as face, not from sickness.

khiet — khâm-khiet, rough and bad for walking on, as a road.

khiet (cf. kiét, kiák, kiák), strong and stiff, as cloth or paper. khiet-khiet-kiò, sound, as of a dipper in a water-jar or rice-boiler when nearly empty. khiet-khiet-háu, id.; also, sound of strong stiff paper or stiffly starched cloth when shaken. phah-kâu khiet-khiet-háu, to beat (a boy), making the blows ring on his skin.

khieh [R. kroat, having a flaw; deficient, = col. kheh], having a flaw in the edge, as pottery. khieh-hún, id. khieh-khieh lih-lih, having flaws and cracks, as pottery.

khieh-chhùi, hare-lipped. khieh-ku, the division of the flaps of a dress, at the side (v. ku).

phah-khieh, to break a small bit out of the edge, as of crockery or of a knife. phah-khieh-kak, id., a larger piece. sio-hûi chiáh-khieh, a potter uses for his own table those bowls that have flaws.

khieh [R. kiap, the cheek], (C. koeh; Cn. hih). khieh-kau-thâu, the projecting corners of the cheeks (v. kau). khieh-ka-thâu (T.), id.

khieh (cf. gih, ngih<sup>n</sup>). khieh-khieh khiáuh-khiáuh, making a noise, as boys. pak-té-lái, khieh-khieh khü-khü, sound, as of wind in the belly. khieh-khieh khök-khök, noise of stone-cutting, or of horses or chariots on a road. khiá-bé khieh-khök, to ride along making a clatter with hoofs.

khieh [R. kú, lean; cf. gih, ngiáuh]. khieh-khieh, very lean; emaciated. sán khieh-khieh, very very lean.

khim [R. imperial; to reverence]. khim-keng, to venerate; to reverence.

khim-chhe, imperial envoy, commissioner, or ambassador. khim-hoân, a prisoner arrested by imperial command. khim-sù, granted by the emperor, as degree. khim-tiám-ê, appointed by imperial command, as mandarin. khim-thien-kám, imperial astronomer.

khim [R. khim, keng, to compassionate; careful; proud]. khim-chhi, very shrewd and skilful at managing a matter (v. chhi).

khim [R. sort of coverlet or shroud]. koan-kok i-khim, coffin and shroud.

khim [R. the flap, collar, or cape of a dress]. sin-khim, the literati of a place, who have taken degrees.

khim-tit, son of wife's sister.

túi-khim, a coat opening in the middle of the breast.

khim (R. id.), a harp (said also of a piano, organ, harmonium, concertina, &c.) gèh-khim, a harp with a circular sounding-board. tâng-soá<sup>n</sup>-khim, harp made with brass wires. hong-khim, an organ, harmonium, or concertina. khim-sek (R.), harps; guitars, &c.

khim-soá<sup>n</sup>, string of a harp. khim-hien, id. khim-phé, tune-book for harp. khim-kí su-üi, harp, chess, scrolls with sentences, and pictures.

toá<sup>n</sup>-khim, to play the harp. chhò-khim, id. jih-khim, to play the piano, harmonium, &c.

khim-í, a sort of seat (v. í).

khim [R. a bird]. khim-siù, wild beasts and birds (v. siù).

khim [R. name of a plant]. ng-khim, a bitter medicinal plant, febrifuge and diuretic (Scutellaria?).

khim [R. to apprehend, as a criminal, = col. khi<sup>n</sup>].

犬

遣

遣

頡

頡

評

誦

詰

缺

頰

臞癯

衿袂

琴

禽

khim--lái, to apprehend or arrest. khim-liáh, id. (v. liáh). khim-chhát, seng khim-ông, first catch the ringleader.

khin (R. kheng), light; unimportant; frivolous; nimble; active. khin-tāng, light and heavy (v. tāng). khin-tsòe, light guilt or crime. khin-gún, light dollars.

khin-sang, feeling fresh and comfortable in body, e.g. after a good sleep. khin-kiā<sup>n</sup>, strong and vigorous (v. kiā<sup>n</sup>).

khin-súg, light and active, as man; small and light, as thing. khin-báng-báng, very light. khin-khó, light, as a load, or as work. khin-phió, light, as baggage, or as the build of a boat (v. phió). khin-pòh, frivolous and shallow in manner; small and light, as things (v. pòh).

khin-khoài, readily induced to help or to do a favour; willing to help. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khin, easily persuaded; ready to believe or follow what others say. hī-khang khin, id. chhùi-thâu khin, easily persuaded to promise or say things. khin-kha-chhng, ready to do acts of service or politeness, as a polite boy, or as a man forgetful of his dignity.

khoà<sup>n</sup>-khin, to despise. goá-ê-giēn khin, my words would not have weight.

khin-á-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to give a rapid glance. khin-không-khoà, in very great or too great haste. khin-khoà-khoà, id.

khin-chhìn, a steelyard that makes things seem heavier than they really are.

khin-chhiú, careful and gentle in doing fine work with the hands. kah-khin-chhiú, id. hāng kah-khin-chhiú, quilt it more loosely. kah-khin-lát, using less strength; done with too little strength, as cloth woven too loose. kah-khin-á-lát (C.), id. khin-kha-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to tread lightly. tióh kah-khin-kha, tread more lightly.

khin (R. khien). khin-khin khiang-khiang, sound of vibrating strings, &c.

khin (C.), = A. khún, diligent.

khin (C.), = A. khún, a sort of tree.

khin [R. chhién, = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>], shallow; shallows in sea or stream; light, as yellow. chhim-khín, deep and shallow. phah-chhim-khín, to take soundings. khoà-khín, aground on the shallows.

khin-thá<sup>n</sup>, shallow, as a dish, or as learning; easy. khin-pòh-lāng, man who boasts much of any small success. khin-bin, sleeping lightly, and easily wakened.

khin-ŋg, light-yellow.

khin (C.), = A. khéng, willing.

khin — khin-khín khòng-khòng, much noise, as of repairs, or of things moved about, or of children at noisy play, or of rats running about.

khin — khin-khòng, sound as of noisy children, or of moving heavy things.

khió (Cn.), = A. khó, káu, the mouth; (in some book phrases).

khió (R. khiàu), (Cn. khiò), magical or diabolical arts; black arts. tsòe-khió, to practise black arts. hē-tsoá tsòe-khió, id. khít--lāng tsòe-khió, to be injured by such incantations and imprecations. tsòe lāng-ê-khió, to practise black arts to injure others. tsòe bé-lāng ê-khió, do. to injure Mr. So-and-so.

kóe-khió, to remove the hurtful effect of such incantations by counter rites done by Taoist priests. tháu-khió, id.

khió-tiāu (Cn.), superstitious practices, magical charms, incantations, &c. khió-tiō (Cn.), id.

khió (Cn.), = A. khàu, to deduct, as wages.

khió (Cn.), = A. khàu, manacles, &c.

khió (Cn.), = A. khàu, khè, to knock the forehead on the ground.

khió (Cn.), = T. khàu, a loop for a button.

khió, a pipe for water; to lead water or have water flowing in such a pipe. tek-khió, a bamboo conduit for water, generally only half a pipe, but may be whole. tsúi-khió, do. of any material. nī-chi<sup>n</sup>-khió, such a gutter at the eaves.

khió-tsúi, to have water running in a pipe or conduit. tsúi khió--lòh-lái, id.

khió<sup>n</sup> (C. esp. P.), = A. khiu<sup>n</sup>, in all the tones.

khióh, to pick up; to gather; to collect; to draw a likeness; to get a child born; to sharpen, as saw or razor; (to smooth a surface); to treasure up, as dislike. khióh-lioh, to pick up or gather many things; to sharpen. sa<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>-khióh, to snatch, as many persons snatching things. khióh-seh, to gather fragments; to glean. khióh-sip, to gather up carefully; habitually careful that nothing be lost. khióh-lok--teh, to take up and store up. khióh-kut-thâu, to collect bones into jars. khióh-tsái, to be taking in cargo for voyage. khióh-chi<sup>n</sup>, to collect money. khióh sai-khia-chi<sup>n</sup>, to appropriate what should have been divided among others.

khiu-khióh, to apportion the sums levied from each, which he must pay for a common expense.

khióh-khau, to draw lots.

khan-khióh, to assist a man out of great want, as by giving or lending some money, or by getting employment for him.

khióh gin-ná, to have a child born. khióh-chiá, a midwife. khióh-chiá-bú, id.

khióh siáu-éng, to draw or paint a miniature likeness from life. khióh ang-á, id. khióh tai-siú, to draw a full-length likeness. khióh-sióng, to draw a likeness from life.

khióh-bin, to make the surface smooth, as of a stone, &c.; to take a miniature likeness. khióh-chiam, to pile up in a conical or pyramidal form, as stones or bricks. khióh-hiá, to lay a sloping roof with thin tiles, not cemented.

khióh-kéng, to make folds or plaits, as in a dress; to get wrinkled, as face of old person. khióh-chih, a bamboo sail made so as to fold down; to fold such a sail in taking it down, as in taking in sail.

khióh-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to raise the anchor.

khióh-khoán, to treasure up causes of displeasure till the whole comes to a point at once. khióh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id. khióh-oàn, to harbour deep resentment. khióh-hūn, to cherish enmity and watch for an opportunity of revenge (v. hūn).

khióh-kák, utterly useless, as person or thing (v. kák).

khióh-liáp-bê, rice boiled soft, but yet having the grains whole and separate.

péng-khióh-chhió, to lie, turn, or recline with the face upwards (v. chhió). khióh-éng, to turn the boat's head to the waves. khióh-tsái-phá<sup>n</sup>, to shift sail so as to have the wind well on the quarter. khióh-khi-kha chiú-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to get up, from sitting or lying, and begin to walk.

khióh [R. khiok, to refuse; an initial particle], an initial particle somewhat like "indeed," or "well then,"

輕

鏗

淺

徽

郤部

often conveying the idea that matters have taken an unexpected turn. khioh-ū —, well, there are —, or there is —.

ta<sup>n</sup> khioh-bô--khi, suddenly to lose what one had, or find we have not what we supposed we had. liâm-pi<sup>n</sup> khioh-bô--khi, id. âu-lâi, khioh-bô-khi, change one's mind and refuse to go. âu-lâi, khioh-m-khi, id. kàu-sî, khioh-bô-ia<sup>n</sup>, turns out false when the time comes. liâm-pi<sup>n</sup> khioh-chiâ<sup>n</sup>, is suddenly and unexpectedly accomplished, quite beyond hope. khioh-m-chiâ<sup>n</sup>, yet the matter could not be accomplished. khioh-phoà-pi<sup>n</sup>, unexpectedly got unwell. ta<sup>n</sup> khioh-léng-tâm, now his affection has changed into cold-heartedness.

却部

khiok [R. to refuse; an initial particle, = col. khioh], well then —; indeed —. khiok sî —, indeed it is —. khiok ôe-ân-ni<sup>n</sup>, well, then, it can or may be so. khiok-seh, well, it is said that —, phrase used for introducing a story from the "kê-chheh," or novels (v. seh).

khiok-î, to nullify a man's good intentions, e.g. by refusing a present (s. crooked). khiok lêng-ê-î, id.

曲

khiok [R. crooked, a song, = col. khiau, khiàu, kheh]. khut-khiok, very crooked, as a lane, or as a piece of wood.

úi-khiok, crooked, deceitful, as ways of working; too much cunning and roundabout planning; much involved, confused, or intricate, as an affair. ũ úi-khiok, much involved, as an affair that has several causes of trouble in it. úi-khiok--lâng, to injure people craftily.

khiok-î siông-chiông, to follow another's will against one's own desires. khiok-î chiông-siok, to follow the customs of a place against one's own feelings or opinions.

bùn-khiok-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a very auspicious star, incarnate in Pau Bùn-chín, of the Sung dynasty.

姜羌

khiông (C. khiang), a surname.

khiông (C. khiang). se-khiông, a part of Tangut, in Central Asia. khiông-chhâm, a medicine made of preserved silk-worms. khiông-hoát, a medicinal root (v. hoát), (cf. kiông).

khiông [R. to fear], (P. khéng). hông-khiông, for fear that —; lest. khiông-ùi, id., very much afraid. put-chí khiông-ùi, too much afraid to venture. pah-hâng khiông-ùi, afraid and suspicious of everything. chit-pah-hâng khiông-ùi, id.

khiông (C.) tsúi-khiông, = A. tsúi-kóng, a conduit for water.

khiông (P.), = A. khēng, the tallow-tree. khiông-á, id., = A. khēng-chhiu.

khip (R. kip), = kip, classifier of degrees of rank.

級汲吸

khip [R. to draw water], a surname.

khip [R. to breathe]. hē-khip, breathing (said in medical matters). hē-khip kúi-chi, how many beats of the pulse has he for one expiration or inspiration?

khip — khip--teh, catching firmly. ũ-khi<sup>n</sup>-khip, to have some one who stands security; to have family, or relatives, or property on which a creditor can have a hold as a security; some responsible party can be found in the case, so that the matter can be got hold of. ũ-khi<sup>n</sup> ũ-khip, id. ôe-khi<sup>n</sup>-khip--i, can have a hold on him, e.g. on relative or security of a debtor. tui-in-chhin-lâng khi<sup>n</sup>-khip, to get hold of the matter by acting on his relatives. ũ thang-khi<sup>n</sup>-khip, to have some hold on the man or affair, e.g. by having a receipt, or by being able to get hold of his relatives or property. bô-khi<sup>n</sup>-khip, to have no property, relatives, &c., on which a creditor could lay hold; also said of an affair in which no responsible party can be found who is of any use for the purpose. bô-khi<sup>n</sup> bô-khip, id.; said also of a large box or stone that cannot well be got hold of, as it has no handles or projections.

乞

khit (R. id.), to beg; to ask earnestly; to buy, as a son or wife; also (Cn.), to betroth. khit-ū, to have got a good deal by begging. kiū-khit, to beg or entreat earnestly (v. kiū). kiông-khit, to beg with great urgency, as a beggar. khit-hoe, to pray for children, as woman. khit-hō, to pray for rain in procession. khit-jiâu-miâ<sup>n</sup>, to beg for life.

khit-hâu-si<sup>n</sup>, to buy a boy to be a son. khit-bé, to buy a wife, a less regular way of getting married. khit sim-pū (Cn. and Quemoj), to get a daughter-in-law. khit-tiâ<sup>n</sup>-tióh (Cn.), betrothal settled.

khit-chiáh, a beggar; to beg, as beggar. khit-chiáh-pô, an old beggar woman. khit-chiáh-thâu, a man who has the charge of the beggars in a ward. khit-chiáh-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ticket given by him to shops that pay an annual rate, securing them against beggars troubling them. khit-chiáh-ia<sup>n</sup>, place where beggars live. khit-chiáh-kut, a mean-looking fellow.

給

khit [R. kip, to give; to cause], sign of the passive, with the agent expressed. khit-lâng-phah, to be struck by a man. khit-chhát-thau, to be stolen by a thief. khit--i tsáu--khi, to have your man escape when you thought he was in your power. khit--i bú-lí--khi, scolded or driven away by him in an unjust and improper manner. m-thang kàu-si khit--i bô-ia<sup>n</sup>, take care that he do not cheat you when the time comes.

bôe-khit-i-iau, not hungry though not satisfied, e.g. having staved off hunger by a lunch or by a light meal. thó-kha khit-lê-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, all the travelling is in vain.

théh--chit-ê khit--i, give him (a beggar) something. thi<sup>n</sup> nâ<sup>n</sup>-beh khit-lâng-chhi, if Heaven will nourish a man (v. chhi).

khit — e-khit, a black sort of bird, somewhat like a magpie.

khit (= kít). khot-khit-khit, very thick, as a liquid, or as boiled rice.

杙

khit (R. êk), a peg; a wooden pin; a small stake; to fasten with a peg. têng-khit, to drive in a peg or stake, as into the ground. chhâ-khit, a wooden peg. gū-khit, a stake for tethering a cow. hun-kim-khit, a peg used in laying down the auspicious direction of a house or grave. iâng-kong-khit (C.), id. kê-khit (Cn.), a peg over which cloth is drawn while starching it.

球

khiu [R. kiū, a ball or globe]. liū-khiu, = liū-kiū, the Loo-choo islands (s. curled).

khiu [R. kiū; cf. kiu, kiù], curled; curly; penurious; very economical and rather niggardly.

khiu-liu-liu, curly or entangled, as tendrils or long hair. khiu-khiu liu-liu, id. khiu-mûg, curly hair.

khiu kha-chhiu, to draw one's self up, in order to keep warm. khiu-khiu teh-khùn, to sleep with limbs drawn together for warmth. kia<sup>n</sup> kàu-khiu-kha khiu-chhiu, sitting with limbs drawn up, and shaking with terror, as at robbers.

khiu-khiâm, extremely economical; penurious.

liú-khiú, determined to keep up the dispute or feud, as a man who always finds some new demand or objections when it seemed almost settled; too urgent for getting things, as a child (s. Loo-choo). liú-khiú-ok, id. khiú-kàu-lán bát-sat-pé, as niggardly as a dried-up little bug!

khiú (cf. liú, giú), to grasp and pull towards one; to seize violently; to lay hold of roughly. sa<sup>n</sup>-khiú, to struggle or wrestle together. khiú-lák, to lay hold of violently, so as to injure. khiú heng-khám, to seize a man by his dress at the neck or the breast near the neck. khiú thâu-tsang-bé, to seize a man's queue.

khiú (= khí-iú). khiú-chhú chêng-lí, how can this be right!

khiú — khiú-chhú, to pout the lips.

khiú — khiú-khiú, tenacious; viscous, as a thick jelly.

khiú (cf. khiúh). chhiah khiú-khiú, extremely poor.

khiú<sup>n</sup> [R. khiong, khiang], a dialect; a cognate language. khiú<sup>n</sup>-kháu, id. hó-khiú<sup>n</sup>-kháu, talks the dialect well. tsáu-khiú<sup>n</sup>, a different dialect or language, but related; pronunciation different. goā-kang-khiú<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin dialect.

khah-khiú<sup>n</sup>, rather different from the dialect spoken here. khiú<sup>n</sup>-khiú<sup>n</sup>-khiú<sup>n</sup>, very different in dialect; very hard to understand.

khiú<sup>n</sup> [R. khiām, moderate; economical], to restrain our appetite from what does not agree with us. khiú<sup>n</sup>-chhú, id. chhú m̄-sái-khiú<sup>n</sup>, may eat anything. lún-chhú khiú<sup>n</sup>-chih, to restrain passion and keep silent; to refrain from eating, e.g. from economy, &c.

khiú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, very careful of one's clothes; taking care of them so that they wear well.

khiúh (cf. kiúh, chiúh, khiú). nng-khiúh-khiúh, very soft, as dough. jūn-khiúh-khiúh, tough, as cakes; tough and elastic, as india rubber.

sòng-khiúh-khiúh, very poor.

khng [R. khong, peace], a surname. khng goān-sòe, a red-faced idol, attendant on má-tsé, &c.

khng (R. khong), rice; chaff; bran from rice; small, like fine chaff. khng-khng-khng, very small, like chaff or bran.

bí-khng, bran from rice, worked off the grain by the mortar. chhø-khng, coarse rice husks, rice chaff, worked off in the "thò-làng." chhø-khng-høe, = chhien-jit-hông, a sort of everlasting flower. khng-éh, small chaff of rice; coarse rice bran. khng-òeh (C.), id.

khng [R. khoan? khoat? cf. col. khoa, khoa<sup>n</sup>, khoa<sup>n</sup>]. khoa-khng, wide, as a piece of ground. khoa<sup>n</sup>-khng, large, as a house.

khng, to store up; to conceal. khng-nng, id. siu-khng, to lay past; to conceal, as men or things. khng-bát, to hide away. lâu-khng--teh, to reserve and keep, as a part or remainder. khoán-khng--teh, stowed away carefully in order. chek-kek khioh-khng--teh, to store up large quantities of things.

khng-pè, to conceal part, as of our plans, or of the circumstances of a matter; to teach in a slovenly way.

khng-siu-khi, to harbour angry feeling. khng-iu-būn, to cherish feelings of deep sorrow.

khng (R. khoán), (C. khui<sup>n</sup>), to exhort. khng-nng (C. khui<sup>n</sup>-nui<sup>n</sup>), id., at some length. sa<sup>n</sup>-khng, to exhort another. kã-i-khng, exhort him. kióng-khng, to exhort very urgently. khó-khng, to exhort earnestly. kóe-khng, to exhort to reconciliation, or to desist from some bad purpose, &c.; to comfort and soothe by exhortation. khng-hò, to exhort to peace. khng-lâng-hó, to exhort men to virtue. hoài<sup>n</sup>-khng tit-khng, to exhort in every way.

khng (Cn.), [R. khòng, = col. khàng, kàng]. thø-khng, a vaulted opening at the end of a large grave made ready to have the coffin shoved in. bø-khng, id. chin-khng, to shove the coffin endwise into such a cavity. phò-bø-khng, the hole of a broken-down grave.

kho [R. class; order; literary examination, = col. khe], (also C. sometimes = A. khe). teng-kho, to get a degree. kho-kah, having got a degree by merit in examination, not bought (v. kah). kho-ün, the fated time for literary success.

kho — pèh-kho, a sort of white wood used for the blades of oars.

kho (Cn.), = A. o, to cook in a pan nearly dry.

khò — khò-khò, strutting along proudly, as a literary man. kiã<sup>n</sup>-lè khò-khò, id. khò-teh khò--teh, id. kek-khò, to put on this bearing.

khó (R. id.), (Cn. khó<sup>n</sup>), to examine, as students or candidates, especially for degrees.

chhã-khó, to investigate carefully, as any matter. bø-chhã-khó, without asking any questions or making any inquiry. khe-khó, to examine and investigate carefully, e.g. history, or old deeds, or the origin of an affair, or doctrines. bø-tè thang-khe-khó, cannot be found by investigation; said also of great numbers or wealth.

khó-si, examinations for degrees. khó-kàu, id. sòe-khó, the triennial examination of Sew-tsai graduates. khó-pi<sup>n</sup>, the examination-hall for the Sew-tsai degree.

chhut-khó, to go to the examinations, as a student. pã-khó, all the literati refusing to go to examination. khó--tiòh thâu-miã<sup>n</sup>, to be at the head of the list.

khó-būn, examine for literary rank. khó siú-tsái, to examine candidates for the degree of Sew-tsai (and so with other degrees). khó koan-hong, to examine the literati for prizes or bursaries, not for degrees. khó-bú, to examine for literary rank. khó iú-teng, to examine candidates for the situation of soldier, to be ready for any vacancy. khó-chhèng, competition in gun-practice. khó-chhèng-pé, id. khó chì<sup>n</sup>-pé, competition in archery. khó-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. khó-pé, competition either with archery or with guns.

toã-tsú-khó, chief examiner for the Kujin degree. chia<sup>n</sup>-tsú-khó, id. hù-tsú-khó, assistant-examiner for do.

khó — khó tsúi-phi (C. phe tsúi-phe), to throw stones along the water, making them skim along bounding several times. èng-gūn khó tsúi-phi, to spend money lavishly.

khó [may or can be], (Cn. khó), used in many phrases with verbs in the sense of "fit to be —." khó-í, it will do. put-khó (R.), must not.

khó-kièn, hence it may be seen that —. khó-chhú, fit to be commended (v. chhú). khó-è<sup>n</sup>, abominable; hateful. khó-è, id. khó-hūn, hateful; to be detested. khó-chhiò, laughable.

khó-lim, to pity; alas! khó-liên, id. khó-siong, to be lamented; alas! what a pity! khó-sioh, alas! what a pity! khó-sek (C.), id.

撰

有豈

腔

儉

康
糠

勸

墻

科

考

可

khó (Cn. khó). khó-oā<sup>n</sup>, great drought (C. không-hãn).

khó [R. hú, to permit; a quantity; a little; a surname, = col. khó, khó]. khin-khó, light, as a load; light and easy, as work. siáu-khó, small and unimportant, as an affair.

khó [R. rugged; uneven]. khám-khó, troublesome to deal with, as an affair; constantly unfortunate and miserable, as a man who is constantly getting sick or falling into troubles, or when whatever he undertakes goes wrong.

khó (R. id.), to ebb, as the tide; thick, as fluids. khó-khó, very thick, as a liquid almost like a paste or jelly, or as thick-boiled rice. khó-thâu-bê, rice boiled till thick and adhesive. khó-kà, thick and thin, as fluids or rice. khó táuh-táuh, very thick, as boiled rice. khó pih-pih, id. khó kit-kit, id. khó khít-khít, id.

khó-tut-tut, very crowded, as animals; very thick, as rice, paste, or mud. khó tsút-tsút, very numerous, as men or animals crowded together; very thick, as rice, &c.

tsúi khó, ebb-tide; tide beginning to ebb; tide ebbing. tsúi-khó, sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-sī, when does ebb-tide begin? lòh-khó, to go down with the ebb-tide.

khó-tī (T.), to empty out a pond, as in order to catch fish.

khò [R. khok, cruel; excessive], to hurt one's shoulder, as by a rough carrying-pole. khò-gâi, miserably poor. khiau-khò--lang, to drive too hard a bargain. khò--lâng pan-gí, id.

khò [R. id., = col. khó]. khò--tiòh, to ground accidentally, as a vessel on a bank or on the shore.

khò [R. id., = col. khó], (Cn. khò), to lean upon; to trust upon. oá-khò, id. sin-khò (r.), to believe and trust upon.

khò-chím, the pillow-shaped rim at the back of a state-couch for resting the elbow. khò-pán, the cross-bar for the arms to rest upon in a large (mandarin's) sedan. khò-chhiú-pán, id.

khò-siók, very free and easy, dispensing with polite conventional forms (v. siók).

tui-thâu ù-khò, there are powerful persons backing each side. âu-piah-soa<sup>n</sup> ù-khò, your adversary has powerful supporters.

khò--chih, to break accidentally, as by pressing upon. khò--tiòh, to injure by coming against, as by rubbing when carried past or coming down from above.

khò [R. to give a largess], (Cn. khò). khò-siú<sup>n</sup>, to give a largess to soldiers, as after a victory. khò-sióng, id. khò-sióng sam-kun, do. to the whole imperial army. khò-lò, to reward soldiers by largesses. khò-chiòng, to make offerings to the spirit-soldiers of the gods. khò-kun (esp. T.), id.

khò [R. an essay; exercise; work, = col. khè], the classes or divisions of a list of candidates. lái-khò, first division of the successful candidates for bursaries or prizes. goá-khò, second division, having smaller rewards. hū-khò, third class, who get no rewards, but have their names published.

jit-khò, a document given by a fortune-teller fixing the fortunate days for all the ceremonies connected with a marriage.

khò, an ingot shaped like a boat; classifier of small ingots; bundles of idolatrous paper. gún-khò, an ingot of silver shaped like a boat; a quantity of idolatrous paper. kim-khò, a boat-shaped ingot of gold.

kim-gún-khò, idolatrous paper made up in bundles. chit-khò oân-pó, one ingot of silver. chit-khò-gún, id., of various sizes, generally about forty or fifty taels; also said of idolatrous paper. chit-khò kim-tiá<sup>n</sup>, one ingot of gold.

kok-khò, government revenue, esp. money from taxes and customs. khiam-kok-khò, to be in arrears for customs or taxes.

khò [R. an order; a patent of rank]. khò-hong, titles of rank conferred by imperial authority on ancestors or wife of mandarin. hong-khò, id. chhiá<sup>n</sup> hong-khò, to make application for do. chih-hong-khò, to receive the patent of rank with great ceremony. khò-thek, the roll containing this document.

khò — cheng-khò, having a little property, so as to have no need of toiling to get a living.

khò — kng khò-khò, naked, as a man wearing only short trousers; quite solitary, as a man with no relatives; having nothing that can be laid hold of, as a large heavy stone or box.

khø (R. id.), a hoop; a circlet; a circle; a halo; a dollar; a billet of firewood; (a neighbourhood); to put on a hoop, as on a bucket.

ø-kun-khø, an ornament worn by women on the forehead. bô-á-khø, a sort of circlet worn by boys, like a skull-cap without the crown. pat-thoân-khø, a round pattern much used on flowered silk.

toá-khø-thâu, very large and corpulent, as a man. chhâ-khø, a billet of firewood.

thih-khø, an iron hoop. bih-khø, a bamboo hoop. tháng-khø, a hoop for a bucket or tub. khø-tháng, to put a hoop on a tub or bucket (not said in T.). khø-lòh, bamboo hoop and ropes for carrying loads; a coolie who carries loads (v. lòh).

han-tsú-khø, sweet potatoes sliced and dried. ien-táng-khø, tubular tiles for chimney.

i<sup>n</sup>-khø, a circle. lâu mng-khø, to have a circle of hair unshaven round the queue, to be afterwards braided into it. géh-khø, a lunar rainbow. géh ùi-khø, the moon has a halo. ùi-khø, to make a circle. phah-khø, to make a hoop, as of bamboo. phah-toá-khø ùi, to make a great circle, as in walking, running, or flying. séh chit-toá-khø ùi, id.

âng-bák-khø, eyes very red, as with weeping. bák-chiu-khø, edges of the eyes. bák-chiu-khø thiá<sup>n</sup>, edges of the eyes sore. bák-chiu-khø toá-ê, too proud to take notice of people, as man who was once poor himself. bák-chiu-khø toá-bóng-lúi, id.

chit-khø, one dollar. chit-khø-gún, id. khø-sia<sup>n</sup>, the denomination of dollars. khø-sa<sup>n</sup>, one dollar and thirty cents. kúi-khø, how many dollars? khø-kúi, how many tens of cents above one dollar?

chit-khø-á-ùí, this neighbourhood. chit-khø (Cn., but not T.), this neighbourhood; this place. chit-khø-ngá (Cn.), id.

khø [R. hu, bran; husk; refuse, = col. phø]. tê-khø, the refuse of camellia seeds after the oil has been pressed out (used as soap). iú-khø, id. iú-khø-boáh, do. broken small. tê-khø-boáh, id. tâu-khø, refuse of beans (from North China) after oil-making, made into round cakes of "bean-cake," used as manure, &c. moá<sup>n</sup>-khø, cakes of refuse from hemp-seeds after oil is pressed out. seng-khø, do. from ground-nuts.

khø [R. hø, to call or make a sound], to call, as 許

珂
考

酷 倚
靠

搞
課

錯

誥

可 裸
箍

麩

呼

animals; to call troops by trumpet. khè-káu, to call a dog. khè-koe, to call fowls. koe-bú khè koe-á (the hen calling the chickens), said of a powerful man inviting others to come under his protection.

khè-toa<sup>n</sup>, to cackle, as a hen about to lay an egg (T. kiò-loa).

khè-hong, to make a noise, as the kite does; to whistle for the wind, as sailors. khè-sút-á, to give a signal by a sort of whistling or hissing sound. khè-tūi, to make a trumpet-call to call troops together.

khè-eh, to hiccup (v. eh).

khò [R. ker, to copulate], (T.), = A. kàn, to commit lewdness (used in vile scolding; for which reason "khè-tháng" must not be said in T.)

khô [R. hò, paste; glutinous; confuscd, = col. kê], to adhere unpleasantly, as paste or glutinous things; to fasten loosely with paste; to dirty one's self, as with lime, paint, or paste; to procrastinate. khê-chhùi, to adhere unpleasantly to the mouth, as some sort of cakes, e.g. "kê."

khê-kháh, to procrastinate idly. khâm-khê (C.), slow and tedious to heal, as a disease.

khê-lâng (C.), to be forming matter, as boil not yet quite ripe.

khó [R. kó, fruit; really]. bô-khé beh-tsòe —, not caring to do —. bô-khé sái-kang, it does not require much work to do it. m-khé sái-kang, id. m-khé-ká<sup>n</sup>, scarcely venturing. goá m-khé-tsai, I do not know certainly. bôe-khé ôe-iá<sup>n</sup>, cannot well conquer.

khó [R. khó, able; can], (also Cn., = A. khó). lêng-khé, it is better that —; better — than —.

khó (Cn.) khé-oá<sup>n</sup>, = A. T. khó-oá<sup>n</sup>, a drought. khó (Cn.), in some words, = A. khó.

khó [R. hú, to permit; a small quantity, = col. khó, khoá], a surname. khé chin-jîn, name of an idol.

khó — khé-mûng, the small short hair all over one's body. khé-phê, the thin skin that peels off at the side of a wound or sore when it is healing. túg-khé-phê, wound healed to this state.

khó [R. the mouth, = col. kháu], (Cn. khó). boán-khé êng-sêng, mouth full of fair promises. koan iú líong-khé, a mandarin has two mouths (said in allusion to the shape of the character "koan").

khé-siét ê-sū, a matter causing much wrangling. káu-khé-siét, id. kap-lâng kak-khé, quarrelling in altercation. kap-lâng khé-kak, id. kun-tsú tâng-khé, put-tâng-chhiú, a superior man uses his mouth, not his hands, in a quarrel or dispute.

khé-á-pêng, the 30th radical (mouth) when placed at the side.

khó (R. id.), bitter; wretched; distressed; (very earnest); to grieve about; to murmur or fret at. ti<sup>n</sup>-khé, sweet and bitter (v. ti<sup>n</sup>). khé-ióh, bitter medicine.

khiau-khé, to take advantage of another's need to make exorbitant demands. khé-chhé, to torment; to oppress severely. khé-tók, to treat harshly or severely, e.g. woman beating a female slave (v. tók).

oáh-oáh khé-sí, to die of vexation; vexed to death, literal or figurative. goá-khé--i poáh-kiáu, I am grieved for his gambling. teh-khé bó-thang-chiáh, anxious about having nothing to eat.

khat-khé, to put a pressure or restraint on one's self, so as to do or endure patiently something toilsome, hard, or distasteful (v. khat).

khé-sim, very diligent, e.g. at study, or at teaching. khé-khng, to advise or exhort very earnestly. khùn-khé, very diligent and laborious. khék-khùn khék-khé, extremely diligent, laborious, and economical. chhong-chièn khùn-khé thók, to study very diligently at a window. khé-thák, to study under great difficulties, or to great exhaustion. lô-khé, severe or toilsome.

kan-khé, miserable; wretched; difficult (v. kan). tsai-khé, to experience misery, or feel calamity. khé-lân, calamity; misery (v. lân). khé-eh, calamities. khé-thàng, painful; miserable (v. thàng). khé-chhoeh, sad; deeply grieved. iu-khé, very sorrowful (v. iu). khùn-khé, miserable; wretched. sin-khé, painful (v. sin). seng-khé, id. khé-chhut, a tragedy. khé-toá<sup>n</sup>, a tragic female character in a play.

khé-koe, the bitter cucumber. khé-tê, wild uncultivated tea. khé-thô, the bitter peach. khé-chháu, a plant like a dock. khé-lêng, a tree with lilac flowers (v. lêng). khé-nâ<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, a shrub with white flowers that grows in ditches and streams.

khò (R. id.) tê-khê, nutmeg, in general (smaller and finer than lâu-hàn?). tâu-khê (C.), id. jiók-tê-khê, nutmeg kernels; nutmegs. jiók-khê, id. tê-khê-hoe, mace.

péh-tê-khê, cardamom.

khê-hoe-sek, light grayish purple, or light lilac colour. khê-he-sek, id.

khò (R. id.) chhát-khê, great robbers, banditti, or rebels.

khò (Cn), = A. khò, to trust. i-khê (r.), to trust or rely upon.

khò [R. a treasury; a magazine; a store], a treasury. gún-khê, id. khê-pâng, treasurer in a mandarin's office; treasury of a hong. khê-gún, national money. khai khê-gún, to spend money from the public purse. phoa<sup>n</sup>-khê, the provincial treasury.

chiú-khê, a wine or spirit store; a large liquor shop. hé-khê, a fire-proof vault.

khê-tô, said of the scale of weights making one dollar = 7 chí<sup>n</sup> 2 hun (v. tô). khê-pêng, id.

khê-koa<sup>n</sup>, image of a treasurer, burned in certain rites. khê-chí<sup>n</sup>, paper with long scooped incisions, burned for the dead; a small quantity is supposed to represent myriads of cash. khê-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, paper for making it.

khò (R. id.), trowsers; drawers, &c. (the classifier is "niá<sup>n</sup>;" but in C. Cn. "tiáu"). sa<sup>n</sup>-khê, coat and trowsers. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-khê, id. kún-khê, petticoat and trowsers.

sek-khê, women's short trowsers. tà-sek-khê, to put them on.

tsúi-khê, short trowsers like bathing drawers. khê-tng, id. khê-thúi, leggings. khê-thúi-khê, large warm leggings (double or padded and tied at the foot) worn by old men. mi<sup>n</sup>-khê, id. láng-khê, wide outside trowsers or overalls, worn by boatmen, &c. láng-khê-kui, the slits like pockets (not real pockets) in them for the hands. khui-kha-khê, children's wide trowsers, made with no seat, so that they never need be let down. khui-tóe-khê, id.

khê-thâu, the top or waistband of trowsers. khê-thâu-lêng, a long hollow band for tying round the waist to hold up the trowsers, and also serving as a purse. khê-toá, a simple string or tape for holding up trowsers. khê-tóe, seat of trowsers. khê-kha, legs of trowsers.

搆糊

果

可

許

口

苦

寇

寇

庫

褲

tsah-khê, to pull up trowsers at the waist, letting more hang down over the band, so as to shorten the legs.

teng-khê, cylindrical frame of a lantern.

khô<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. khó, to examine, as at the literary examinations.

khô (Cn.), = A. khe, to investigate, &c. khô-chhâ (T.), to collect wood from many families for idolatrous rites.

khô-goā ê-tâi-chì, things with which one has no business to meddle. kô-khô ê-tâi-chì, id.

khô (Cn.) khô-si<sup>n</sup>, = A. khê-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan made from a sort of leaf.

khô (T.) thiô-kha-khô, to hop.

khô (Cn.), = A. khó, to bow in a certain way; to worship, esp. ancestors. khô-kong, to worship ancestral tablets.

khoa (R. id.) khoa-kháu, to boast. tsû-khoa, to boast of one's self. khoa-toā, to boast of one's own greatness. khoa-pù tau-gâu (L.), to boast of one's wealth and wisdom.

khoá [R. hú, to permit; a small quantity; a surname, = col. khó, khê]. sió-khoá, small; unimportant; in small quantity; few in quantity. sió-khoá-kúí, a man who gets highly delighted at a very small gain or loan, &c.

khoà [R. khò, to run aground], to run aground. khoà-ta, to ground on shallows. khoà sió-tsúi, to get aground when the tides are growing smaller, so that it cannot get afloat till as long after neap tide. tsún khoà, boat or vessel run aground.

khoà [R. khò, to lean or trust upon], to lean; to rest on; to recline; to lay down a thing steadily. khoà-tiâu, resting steadily on something. khoà-thâu-khak, to rest the head, as on a pillow. khoà-kha, to rest the leg, stretched out, as on a chair.

khoà--chih, to break accidentally by pressing on a thing.

khoà-i<sup>n</sup>, to lay beams or rafters in their place. ôe-khoà-mih<sup>n</sup>, things can be laid on it, e.g. on a chair, though it be broken. chhiá<sup>n</sup> khoà--teh, please lay it down!

khoà (= koà), (C. khoè). khoà-sim, to be anxiously thoughtful. khoà-liâm, id. khoà-i, id. khoà-lū, id. (v. lū). khoà-gāi, anxious, as about a person or an affair (v. gāi).

bô-khoà-cheng, kē-lap, to be careless in doing something (v. cheng).

khoà — vô-khoà-chiáh, having no time even to eat, as man occupied with work or amusement. vô-khoà thang-khi, no leisure to go. vô-khoà (esp. C.), no leisure.

khoà (T.) sang-khoà-khoà, well-cooked and mealy.

khoā (cf. hoā). khoā-khoā-háu, the indistinct hum of a multitude, or of waves. khoā-khoā-kiò, id. khoā-lâi khoā-khi, surging back and forwards with an indistinct hum.

hâm-khoā-khoā, talking in an exaggerated or unreliable way; managing a matter in a careless or too easy way.

khoā-khoā-tán, to wait a long long time, as for news, &c.; generally with the idea of unwillingness or want of leisure.

khoā-khoā-lâi, to come in great numbers, as men or insects.

khin-khoā-khoā, in very great or too great haste khin-không-khoā, id.

khoā-khoā-lin, to roll about, as a ball, or as a child on the floor.

khoa<sup>n</sup> [R. khoan, broad; to delay; forbearing]. khoa<sup>n</sup>-khoa<sup>n</sup>, slowly; leisurely. khoa<sup>n</sup>-khoa<sup>n</sup>-sī, leisurely. khah-khoa<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, walk slower.

khoá<sup>n</sup> [R. khoán, a sort]. kúi-ná<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>, several times. khioh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to collect causes of displeasure till we have it out all at once.

khoá<sup>n</sup> — bin ê-khoá<sup>n</sup>, face covered with large dark spots, as old man. chhiū<sup>n</sup> ê-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id.

khoá<sup>n</sup> [R. khoài, easy; comfortable, = col. khoài<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. khui<sup>n</sup>). khoá<sup>n</sup>-oáh, comfortable.

khoá<sup>n</sup> [R. khoan, khot; cf. col. khoah, khoa<sup>n</sup>], wide; large and spacious; extensive, as a piece of ground, or as a roomy house. khoá<sup>n</sup>-khng, spacious, as a house. khui-khoá<sup>n</sup>, wide, open, and unobstructed, as a situation; broad; having plenty of spare room. khoá<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id.; also, rather loose, as clothes, or as something tied loosely. khoá<sup>n</sup>-lông-khoá<sup>n</sup>-lông, too large and loose, as clothes. khoá<sup>n</sup>-lông-lông, id.; also, large and spacious, as house that looks large and empty, or having abundance of room for guests. khoá<sup>n</sup>-kháu, wide-mouthed, as sleeves or pocket.

khah-khoá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, using money freely. khoá<sup>n</sup>-pak tê-liông, liberal; generous; magnanimous. tê-liông khoan-khoá<sup>n</sup>, kind and liberal in manner.

khoá<sup>n</sup> (R. khàn), to look; to look at; to regard; to watch; to guard; to read silently; to try; to examine, as a disease, or as fortune.

khoá<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to see. khoá<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>, to see very plainly. khoá<sup>n</sup>-m-ki<sup>n</sup>, to look but not see. khoá<sup>n</sup>-bô-ki<sup>n</sup>, id. khoá<sup>n</sup>--lâng bô-ki<sup>n</sup>, to disdain to look at people, not recognizing them. khoá<sup>n</sup>-bô, not able to see it. khoá<sup>n</sup>-bô-tiòh, did not manage to see it; e.g. from coming too late, or not being near enough, &c., though it really was there. khoá<sup>n</sup>-bôe-tiòh, unable to see it; e.g. from something obstructing the view.

khoá<sup>n</sup>-khin, to despise. khoá<sup>n</sup>-lâng m-khi, to treat a man with contempt. khoá<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>-bák, to count of importance.

khoá<sup>n</sup>--khi-lâi, to infer; to conclude from premises. khoá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to make out. khoá<sup>n</sup>-m-chhut, cannot make it out. khoá<sup>n</sup>-phoá, to see through, as an artifice or hollow appearance. khoá<sup>n</sup>-phoá sê-chêng, to see through the vanity of the world. khoá<sup>n</sup> thàu-thâu, to see clearly.

khoá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to keep watch, as sentry set by persons secretly engaged in some illegal, impure, or improper action; to protect from piracy, as pirates do for a yearly sum; to protect for a consideration, as a powerful patron does for a gambling-house, &c. khoá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to protect fields from being plundered, as a powerful man does for a consideration, like a sort of black-mail. khoá<sup>n</sup>-bàng, do. for nets at sea. khoá<sup>n</sup>-ka<sup>n</sup>, to guard a prison (v. ka<sup>n</sup>). khoá<sup>n</sup>-koán, to guard the outer prison. khoá<sup>n</sup>-mng, to watch a door. khoá<sup>n</sup>-tiám, to watch a shop. khoá<sup>n</sup>-in, to take temporary charge of a mandarin's seals, using them for him in his absence.

khoá<sup>n</sup>-sam-sek, to look neutral, waiting to see which side begins to win so as to join that side. tái-ke sa<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, following one another's example (v. iū<sup>n</sup>). tái-ke sa<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id.; also, each waiting for the other to act first.

稽誇

許

涉

靠

星掛

寬

快寬

看

khoà<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, to examine a patient's disease. khoà<sup>n</sup>-chêng, id. khoà<sup>n</sup>-lê, to pick out one's road in walking, as when wet or dark. tsáu-bé, khôa<sup>n</sup> chin-tsu (to seek for pearls while riding fast), to miss seeing things because of haste.

khoà<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, to tell fortunes. khoà<sup>n</sup>-jit, to choose a lucky day. khoà<sup>n</sup>-jit--ê, a fortune-teller who chooses lucky days.

khoà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> hàn-chi<sup>n</sup>, to do a fair business, not taking unjust gains. khoà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> chiãh-pûg, to live on honest gains. kiãh-thâu khôa<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, to act rightly; refusing to do wrong when it would seem advantageous. teh-khoà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, said of a man waiting idly, having no work to do. khoà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-si, to look at the state of the weather.

khoà<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to read a book silently. khoà<sup>n</sup> pút-jī, to examine and interpret the oracles written by a medium before an idol. khoà<sup>n</sup>-hì, to look at plays. khoà<sup>n</sup>-sin-niú<sup>n</sup>, visitors going to see the bride for a day or two after marriage.

hó-khoà<sup>n</sup>, beautiful; that looks well. phái<sup>n</sup>-khoà<sup>n</sup>, ugly; bad-looking.

thau-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to look stealthily; to peep. koan-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to look steadily or attentively. khoà<sup>n</sup>-kè, to watch over.

sûn-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to inspect; to go round and examine. chhím-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to feel one's way very carefully, as in an affair (v. chhím). liãh-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to measure by spans (v. liãh, "to seize"). liãh-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to make a rough calculation. sng-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try a calculation. phêng-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to compare two things so as to observe likeness or unlikeness. pi-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id. chiãh-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try the taste. siã-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try a pen or a man's skill in writing. chhi-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try; to make a trial; to try of what sort he or it is. khoà<sup>n</sup>-bãi, id. thâm-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to make inquiry or investigation, as a guide for action.

khoah [R. khoat, = col. khôa<sup>n</sup>], broad, wide. khoah-toã, great and wide; to make wide-spread. kóng-khoah, widely extended, as region. khoan-khoah, spacious, as a house (v. khoan). khui-khoah, wide-spread; wide. khoah bóng-bóng, immense, as a flood. khoah-khng, large and wide, as a piece of ground. khoah-lông, too large, as clothes. khoah-pak toã-liông, very liberal and easy to have business dealings with. khoah-chhùi--ê, having a broad mouth (s. pick).

khoah (C. kiã). khoah-chhùi, a pick-axe (s. broad). khoah-chhùi-á, id., smaller.

khoah [R. khat, thirsty]. chí-khoah, to slake thirst. iau-khoah, hungry and thirsty. chhùi-khoah, thirsty. âu tá, chhùi khoah, very very thirsty. âu ta, chih khoah, id.

khoái [R. khoat, to stumble]. kiã<sup>n</sup>-lê khôái-khoái, always shaking to one side in walking, as lame or awkward man. khoái--chit-ê, khôái--chit-ê, id. pái-khoái, gone all wrong, as an affair mismanaged and ruined; to take an attitude of opposition or disobedience after being friendly or submissive. kap-goá teh-pái-khoái, he now disobeys or opposes me, contrary to what he used to do.

khoài [R. easy, pleased, comfortable, = col. khôai<sup>n</sup>, khôa<sup>n</sup>, khui<sup>n</sup>], easy; quick; hasty in action, either on advice by another or on one's own idea. khoài-khoài, quick; be quick! mé<sup>n</sup>-khòai (C.), quickly; easily done. kín-khoài, easily done; can be easily done. kah-kín-khoài, be quick! kín-chiáp-khoài, nimble, active, vigorous, and ready in anything. khin-

khoài, ready to help, do a favour, go together, &c., when asked. khoài-kóng, easily talked over; easily led to do a thing by asking; readily promising or granting a favour. khoài kóng-ôe, readily granting a favour or promising. bé, khôai-tiôh-kia<sup>n</sup>, the horse readily starts. khoài-tsòe, easily done. khoài-piên, easy; convenient; speedy at work (v. piên).

khoài-sàu, a customs-boat; officer of such boat. khoài-théng, a swift mandarin loreha. khoài-chhe, servants kept at yamuns for short messages. bé-khoài, the head of the police (or of the thieves!) in a ward, who catches thieves or recovers stolen property. khoài-pan, the low underlings of a yamun who have rooms on the left hand as you enter. khoài-péng, that side of the yamun. tsô-khoài-pan, these underlings on both sides of the yamun. tsô-khoài-koán, all their rooms.

sóng-khoài, comfortable. thiông-khoài, pleased and happy, as at some amusement or success. khoài-oáh, comfortable (but in P. has a bad meaning). khoài-lók, glad and happy. khoài-i, pleased and joyful.

khoai<sup>n</sup> (cf. khôai<sup>n</sup>), sound of a gong. khoai<sup>n</sup>--chit-ê, shrill sound of a gong. khong-khoai<sup>n</sup>, noise of gongs in idolatrous rites.

khoài<sup>n</sup> [R. khôai, easy, = col. khôa<sup>n</sup>, khui<sup>n</sup>]. khoài<sup>n</sup>-oáh, comfortable.

khoài<sup>n</sup> (cf. khôai<sup>n</sup>), loud sound of a gong. khoài<sup>n</sup>--chit-ê, id., once. khoài<sup>n</sup>-khoài<sup>n</sup>-háu, loud sound of gongs.

khoan [R. broad; mild; indulgent; not severe, urgent, or exacting, = col. khôa<sup>n</sup>, khôai<sup>n</sup>]. khoan-khoan, deliberately; leisurely. chhiã<sup>n</sup>-khoan--leh, take it easily, don't be in a hurry; let the matter lie over for a little. chhiã<sup>n</sup>-khoan--chit-pê, id. chhiã<sup>n</sup>-pàng-khoan--teh, id. khoan-sim, mind quite easy; not anxious. chhiã<sup>n</sup>-khoan-sim, keep your mind quite easy! khoan-ãn, to allow further delay, as for work or payment. khoan-oãn, id. khoan-sù, to act leniently (v. sù). khoan-iông, to allow, as slight faults; to let alone, as offender; long-suffering. khoan-liông, to treat with indulgence or forbearance. khoan-hông tái-liông, id. (v. liông).

khoan-khoah, large and spacious, as house or ground. tê-liông khoan-khoah, liberal and kind; magnanimous. tê-liông khoan-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id.

khoan — chia-khoan, capstan bars. khoan (= khôán). ien-chhun-khoan, sort of tub for fighting quails.

khoân [R. poãn, a bason; coiled up; cross-legged; = col. phoãn, poã<sup>n</sup>, phũn], (T. khũn). thiáp-khoân teh-chê, sitting cross-legged (= thiáp-phoãn). kha thiáp-khoân, cross-legged.

khoân (R. id.), a circle; to mark with circular marks; to coil up, as a rope. f<sup>n</sup>-khoân, a circle or loop.

khoân--khí-lái, to coil up, as a rope. thiáp-khoân, to pile up, as several coils of rope one above another (s. cross-legged). khoân-lìn-túg, to make a round or circle, coming back by a different way.

to-khoân, a sword-hilt. hiu<sup>n</sup>-khoân, a spiral roll of incense which burns for several days. chháu-khoân, a small round straw cushion, used for kneeling on, or worn by beggars on the head. ien-chhun-khoân, a deep tub used as a pit for quails fighting. kiú-liên-khoân, a puzzle made with rings.

khoân-thò, a snare or trap. khoân-tiám, to mark a book with dots and small circles at side of characters.

快

寬

圈
盤
圈

闊

渴

蹶

快

khoân (R. hoân). chhiú-khoân, a large ring, worn as an armlet. kha-khoân, rings worn by children round the ankles. koà chhiú-khoân, to wear armlets. hî-khoân (esp. T.), sort of ear-ring.

歛

khoân (R. id.), appearance; manner; form; mode; pattern; sort; kind; to select or make up in sets; to get ready, as luggage.

khoân-thâi, to treat well or ill, esp. well (v. thâi).

khoân-sit, form; manner; pattern. khoân-sek (C.), id. khoân-chè, pattern; form; character or behaviour. siâng-khoân, alike. hó-khoân, of good behaviour. chiá<sup>n</sup>-khoân, id. m-si-khoân, all wrong; conduct or work very bad. si-khoân, customary fashion of the time. khá-khoân, beautifully or ingeniously made; very improper conduct (v. khá). lâng-khoân, a man's manner or conduct.

tiâu-khoân, stipulations or articles of an agreement.

pi<sup>n</sup>-khoân, to change one's character or conduct for the worse. tiu<sup>n</sup>-khoân, to put on a feigned appearance, e.g. of an emotion one does not feel. lôh-khoân, to write down (on an ornamental scroll of writing) one's own name, or the name of the friend to whom it is given. lôh toa<sup>n</sup>-khoân, to write on it only the name of the writer. lôh siang-khoân, to write one's own name and the name of the friend to whom they are given, respectively on a pair of scrolls.

khioh-khoân, to collect causes of displeasure or hatred, till all come out at once.

khoân-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to put in order a number of articles, either to be stowed away, or to be sent to some place. khoân-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to examine all the things, and see if the number be correct. khoân--khî chiâu-tiòh, get the things all ready in proper order. khoân-khng--teh, packed away carefully in order. khoân-lôh-siu<sup>n</sup>, put carefully into the box, article by article. khoân-chheh, to select books, e.g. making up a set, or arranging them when in confusion.

khoân [R. to exhort, = col. khng]. khoân-siên, to exhort to virtue. khoân-sè-bûn, Buddhist tracts. khoân-hô, to exhort to peace. khoân-kái, id.

khoat [R. to shut a door; to terminate]. khoat-hók, to fulfil the period of mourning.

khoat [R. to be wanting, = col. kheh, khih]. khoat-hoát (R.), in want.

khoe (R. id.), a helmet. chit-téng-khoe, one helmet. khoe-kah, helmet and coat of mail; defensive armour. khoe-chhèng-bô, a sort of soldier's cap.

thâu-khoe, a coarse yellow hemp cap, worn by sons at funeral of parent. moâ<sup>n</sup>-khoe, id.

khoe [R. the pole-star; the god of it; a chief or first of a class]. khoe-seng, the god of the north star, attendant on Wen-chang, the god of literature; also much worshipped by literary men. khoe-seng-kong, id. khoe-seng that-táu, do. represented as kicking the dipper (measure). khoe-seng-lâu, pagoda for his worship, close to Confucian temple. thiâu-khoe-seng, to hop about on one leg, as he is represented.

bûn-khoe, any literary Kujin. bú-khoe, any military Kujin. à-khoe, Kujin from the second to the tenth or twelfth on the list. keng-khoe, do. from second to about the fifth. hōe-khoe, Tsin-sze graduates from second to tenth on list. tâi-khoe thien-hā, to become "chiōng-goân," the very highest literary rank.

khoe-thâu, the head end of a coffin. khoe-bóe

(C.), foot end of do. khoe-thâu-bóe (C.), the two ends of it.

khoe, to scrape, as with a knife. khoe-mûg, to scrape the hair off an animal to be cooked (s. river). khoe-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to scrape a frying-pan.

khoe — khoe-sóe, to get small sums of money, or some food, tobacco, &c., from a man, by sorning on him against his will.

khoe (R. khe), (C. khe; Cn. khõe), a river; a stream. khoe-pê, uncultivated river banks liable to be flooded. khoe-mûg, the mouth of a valley (s. scrape). khoe-lâu, the current of the river.

khoe-phiáh, sort of flat-bottomed river-boat with a mast. khoe-pih (Cn.), very shallow boat for poling up rivers.

khoe (C.) khoe-si<sup>n</sup>, = A. khe-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan made of a sort of palm-leaf.

khoe (C.) kâu-khoe-hâi (= A. khe), inconstant and unreliable, &c. (v. hái).

khõe (C. khê). kâu-khõe, peevish; fretful; bad-tempered, esp. of child that will not be pleased whatever you do.

khõe (C.), = A. khê, deformed or shrivelled, as a limb.

khõe (C.), = A. khê, to bow as a woman, with the hands near the body.

khõe (C. khê; Cn. khõe), to gnaw. bah, hē-lâng-chiáh; kut, m-chiá<sup>n</sup> hē-lâng-khõe, said of allowing a friend to be slightly injured, but defending him against great violence or oppression.

khõe (C. khoà; P. khõe), luxuriant, as grass or herbage, or as green growing corn, or as hair.

khõe (R. khê), (C. khê; Cn. khõe), a deed of sale or of mortgage.

khõe-pê, a man taken as a sort of patron, somewhat like an adoptive father, but not so intimate a relation. khõe-bú, woman somewhat like adoptive mother. khõe-kiá<sup>n</sup>, young man taken under protection, somewhat like adopted son, but not so close. khõe-toā-chí, woman treated like adoptive elder sister. khõe-siò-bē, id., younger. khõe-bē, id. khõe-án-hia<sup>n</sup>, man taken as sort of elder brother. khõe-siò-tī, id., younger. kiet-khõe (r.), to make agreement to treat as brother or sister.

khõe-hia<sup>n</sup>, paramour of bad woman. khõe-tē (Cn.), a sodomite.

lip-khõe, to make a formal deed of sale, or mortgage, or bottomry bond. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khõe, to write additional particulars in a deed, e.g. about large trees on ground, or large articles in a room, or such pendicles. chin-khõe-bé, to sell without power of redemption.

khõe-koàn, deeds of sale or mortgage. khõe-kù, do. used as evidence. tsó-khõe, a deed inherited from ancestors. sin-khõe-jī, deed of sale of a slave girl. chhân-khõe, deed for fields. chhū-khõe, deed for house. tién-khõe, deed of mortgage. sè-khõe, deed of sale having the mandarin's stamp on it (v. sè). pêh-thâu-khõe, an unstamped deed. âng-khõe, document affixed as proof of registration.

khõe [R. khò, an essay, exercise, work, &c.] jit-khõe (C.), = A. jit-khò, a document given by a fortune-teller fixing the auspicious days for the rites connected with marriage.

kang-khõe (C.), = A. kang-khè, work of any sort.

khõe (C.), = A. khoà. khõe-hē, to lay down, as a thing.

溪

葵

喫

廠契

勸
閔
缺
盛

魁

課

快
瞋

夾

匣
篋

夾

斛

哭

khòe [R. khoài, easy]. khòe-pièn (Cn.), having an easy delivery, as a woman (to be distinguished from "khoaì-pièn," which has the same meanings as in A.)

khòeh [R. khap, id., = col. kah, ka], (C. kheh; Cn. khòeh), to shut, as the eyes. khòeh-bák, to shut the eyes. bák-chiu pàng-khòeh, id. bák-chiu khòeh-khòeh, eyes almost shut, as very sleepy or in some disease. sí-liáu, bák-m-khòeh (though dead, the eyes will not close), the affair, though now quiet, will come up again and cause trouble. sí, bák m-goân-khòeh, id.

khòeh [R. kiap, to squeeze; to take up with pin-cers, = col. ngoeh, ngh, hiah"], (C. kheh; Cn. khòeh), to press, as between two boards, or between the nails, or in a sugar-mill or oil-press; to split peas by putting them through a sort of loose-set mill; crowded, as men; to jostle.

oe-khòeh (C. e-kheh), to crowd and jostle. oe-oe khòeh-khòeh, id.; very crowded and pushing each other. òeh-khòeh, much crowded, so as to be scant of room.

khòeh-iû, to press oil out of seeds. khòeh-chià, to press sugar-cane in a mill. khòeh sat-bú, to kill a louse between the nails.

khòeh [R. kiap, a sort of box], (C. kheh; Cn. khòeh). khòeh-á, a small box, e.g. with a sliding lid. hé-hiá<sup>n</sup>-khòeh, a tinder-box. chiam-khòeh, a very small box for needles. chièn-áp-khòeh, a small box with compartments, for offerings of sweetmeats, fruits, &c.

khòeh (C.), = A. kheh, to want.

khòeh (= khòeh). (T.) khiâm-khòeh, very economical.

khòeh (cf. ngòeh), to be pinched or crushed, as by a door or by the boards of a bed. sa<sup>n</sup>-khòeh, to be crushed by each other, e.g. as fruits in a bag. khòeh-lái khòeh-khì, id. khìt-mûg khòeh--tiòh, to be pinched by a door.

khòeh ti-tiong-ng, to lie closely pressed between them, as a small house, district, or state between two larger ones.

khòeh (cf. ngòeh). kha-khòeh, sort of wooden stocks for the feet. khòeh kha-bák, to torture the ankles by squeezing [same as former word?].

khòeh (R. hák). chhiú<sup>n</sup>-khòeh, a frame used for building mud-walls.

khòeh — hi-khòeh, a sort of clown in a play, = thiú (said of a man who makes so much ceremony as to provoke laughter, or who talks ludicrously to amuse others).

khòeh (= khòeh). (T.) khiâm-khòeh, very parsimonious.

khòeh (C.), to boil down a fluid, making it thicker. khòeh-khòeh, well-boiled and soft, as rice neither too thick nor too thin.

khòh (T.) kia<sup>n</sup>-khòh-khòh, shaking with fear (cf. géh, khàuh, &c.)

khòk [R. to weep and lament, = col. khàu]. khòk-san-tiòng, mourning-staff carried by widower at wife's funeral (v. tiòng). khòk-lái seng-tsú, to beget a child in the hundred days of deepest mourning for a parent, considered criminal.

khòk [R. sound of a hard stone]. têng khòk-khòk, very hard, as strongly-made furniture, or as a hard cake, &c. khòk-khòk-tân, sound of a hard thing struck.

khòk (R. id.) bák-chiu sut-khòk sut-khiet, eyes glancing about rapidly. bák-chiu sek-khòk sek-khiak, id.

khòk — núg-sng-khòk, coming to the point very gradually, as in a bargain, &c. (v. núg).

khòk [R. to expand; to enlarge]. khòk-chhiong (R.), to expand, as knowledge.

khòk [R. wide, large; to enlarge]. khòk-thâu, having an unusually projecting forehead. khòk-hiáh, id. thâu-khòk khah-toá, forehead projecting very much.

khòk-á-là, sort of large cap worn by children.

khòk [R. khak, a shell]. péh-thâu-khòk, a small white-headed bird (= C. péh-thâu-á).

khòk [R. cruel; excessive, = col. hò]. khòk-hêng, severe, as torture; cruel or oppressive, as mandarin. khòk-tòk, very cruel towards an inferior, esp. to female slave or daughter-in-law.

khòk--lâng pan-gí, to drive too hard a bargain, cheapening down too much. khòk-lí-kùi, he is forcing you to pay too much because you urgently need what he only can furnish.

khòk (Cn.), = khòk. phah-khòk, to beat the watchman's rattle.

khòk (Cn.) khòk-hó, = A. khiet-hé, to strike a light with a flint.

khòk — khòk-jí, small rounded (spherical) bits of stone or tile, like marbles, used by children in play. chiòh-khòk-jí, id. chiauh khòk-jí, to throw them up in play.

khòk (cf. khàuh, kháh). khòk-khòk-kiú, to beg hard over and over for a thing. khòk-khòk-pài, to bow low over and over. khòk-khòk-kùi, to kneel over and over. khòk-khòk-hè, teeth chattering (v. hò).

khòk (Cn. khok, khòk), a hollow instrument of wood or bamboo, somewhat like a rattle, used by watchmen and priests. ki<sup>n</sup>-khòk, a watchman's rattle. chiú-ki<sup>n</sup>-khòk, id. phah kúi-ki<sup>n</sup>-khòk, how many strokes does the watchman strike? equal to the number of the watch. phah-khòk, to beat the rattle.

kòng-khòk (to beat the rattle), to conspire to gamble or otherwise swindle a man out of his money; to talk empty stories or jokes, often licentious.

cheng-khòk, bell and rattle used by priests; also those hung at a child's wrist to keep off evil influences. cheng-khòk-á, those used by children. khòk-thú, the clapper of a watchman's rattle.

khòk — sa<sup>n</sup>-khòk, to come knocking together with a sharp ring. thâu-khak sa<sup>n</sup>-khòk, heads knocking together, as in the dark. khòk-khòk-khòk, said of a hammer striking gently on a chisel, e.g. to break a tile, &c.

khih-khih khòk-khòk, sound of stone-cutting, or of horses and chariots, &c. khiá-bé khòk-khòk, to ride along, making a noise with the hoofs. khiá-bé khih-khòk, id.

khòk, to talk together idly, to gossip. toá-teh-khòk, engaged in such idle conversation.

lòk-khòk, abandoned to licentious ways; idle and pleasure-seeking. lòk-lòk khòk-khòk, id.; gadding about, often to improper places; very unsafe to deal with, as a man who does not keep his promises. lòk-khòk-bé, bó-koá-óa (horse sporting about with no saddle), said of a young idle fellow going about doing

殼
目
隻
告
擴
廓
殼
酷

析

what he pleases, with no one to keep him in order, generally fond of bad pleasures.

khók — khók-hî, the fish on which Khe-seng is represented standing as it saved him from drowning; a small figure of it worn by children. khók-á-hî, small figure of a fish, worn by children, of the same shape as the "bók-gú" of Buddhist temples. pûi ná<sup>n</sup>-khók-á-hî, as fat as that figure of a fish (said of man or pig). chiáh kah-ná<sup>n</sup> khók-á-hî, said of a man who is very fat and strong.

khom (P.), khom-siū, = A. thong-siū, to put the hands into the opposite sleeves.

khôm (C.), = A. khâm, large cymbals.

khong [R. peace; excellent; a surname, = col. khng], a surname, = khng. khong-goân-sòe, an idol, attendant on Tái-tō-kong.

khong-hi, the reign of the Emperor Kang-he (v. hi). khong-kiên, strong and healthy (said of an old man).

khong — khong-khiang-á (C.), a very small fish, like the "hoe-thiâu," but smaller.

khong (C.) khong-siū, = A. thong-siū, to put the hands into the sleeves of the other hands.

khong — khong-khoai<sup>n</sup>, sound of gongs in idolatrous ceremonies.

khong [R. ignorant; simple]. khong-khám, stupid; wanting in ability.

khong [R. hollow; empty, = col. khang], name applied by the vegetarians to the object of their worship, perhaps the empty expanse of heaven. thien khong, tē khong, jin iáh-khong, heaven, earth, and man are all emptiness, a vegetarian phrase. poân-khong-tiong, in mid-heaven, in the sky, as birds, or as spirits. thēng-khong, to ascend to the sky.

khai-khong bô-giáh, to embezzle or mis-spend employer's money, so as not to be able to give an account of it (v. khai). khèng-khong, quite spent and exhausted, as property. it-chîn khèng-khong, all one's money and property lost or spent. sam-tái liáp-cek, it-tàn khèng-khong, the accumulations of three generations spent in one morning.

khong, to put on a hoop or edging of metal; to paste paper round, as round a stick of fine incense. khong-táng, to put on a hoop or edging of brass. khong-kim, to put on a gold edging, as round a picture. khong-thih, to fasten with an iron hoop or band.

khóng [R. open; excellent; a surname], a surname. khóng-tsú, Confucius. khóng-hú-tsú, id. khóng-bēng, Confucius and Mencius. khóng-bēng, a famous man in the time of the three kingdoms (v. bēng). khóng-chhiok, the peacock (v. chhiok).

chhit-khóng, the seven orifices of the head: the mouth, eyes, ears, and nostrils. chhit-khóng liú-hiet, blood flowing from mouth and nose (v. hiet).

khóng [previous word? cf. khang, kháng]. gán-khóng toā, haughty (v. gán).

khóng — bân-khóng, firmly fixed; strongly made and lasting, as a piece of work; safe, as a mercantile house.

khóng (R. id.) khóng-khài, liberal in spending money; having an easy self-confident bearing. khóng-kau, hospitable; fond of giving or attending entertainments.

khòng — lóng-khòng, too large and wide, as clothes (v. lóng).

khòng [R. the sound of stones striking together; cf. col. khòng]. khín-khín khòng-khòng, noise, as of repairs, or of children, &c. (v. khín).

khòng (cf. khòng, khók). khòng-khòng-pûi, loud constant barking. khòng-khòng-pê, scratching one's self hard and constantly. khòng-khòng-lâi, always coming. khòng-khòng-pài, to be making a great many bows. gōng kiá<sup>n</sup>-sài, jip-mûg khòng-khòng-pài, said of a bridegroom making his first visit to his wife's relatives and bowing to everyone.

khòng (C.) âng-khòng-khòng, = A. âng-kòng-kòng, very red.

khòng [R. a pit; a mine, = col. kàng, khàng], the pit of a grave. bōng-khòng, id. bōng-khòng-khang, the cavity of an old grave. thē-khòng, pit of grave made with earth without lime. he-khòng, id., made with lime. khòng-khut, the rough opening of a grave, esp. of old grave (v. khut).

khui-khòng, to dig a grave. lôh-khòng, to lay (the coffin) in the grave. siàng-khòng, buried in the same grave.

kim-khòng, a gold mine.

khòng [R. waste; desert; unoccupied, = col. khàng]. khòng-iá, a wilderness (v. iá). pi<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup> khòng-thé, an extensive plain.

khòng [R. khong, empty, = col. khang], a cypher, used in speaking, as a cypher is in writing. si-pah khòng-sa<sup>n</sup>, four hundred and three. thiu khòng-ngé, to take off a commission of 5 per cent.

khui-khòng bô-giáh, to embezzle, so as to be unable to account for all the money.

khòng [R. to cook by roasting; a heated couch, = col. khàng], to boil or stew very soft. khòng-khi-noá<sup>n</sup>, boil it very thoroughly, till it is quite soft. khòng-tôe, pig's feet boiled soft. khòng-chhài, long turnips boiled and salted.

khòng-chhûg, a couch made for two persons to sit on, used as an honourable seat for guests; said also of a sofa. khòng-chhûg-kí, the small low broad table like a stool set on the couch between the guests.

khòng [R. khong, ignorant; simple]. khòng-gōng, having a proud bearing.

khòng (R. id.) khòng-hân, = khó-oā<sup>n</sup>, a great drought.

khòng [R. to oppose; to refuse; to resist], to deduct from rent or wages, &c.; to refuse to pay it. khòng-khiàm, to refuse to pay what one owes. khít-i khòng--khi, to lose money on a bad debt. khòng-niú<sup>n</sup>, to refuse payment of land-tax. khòng-chhù-tse, to deduct a sum from the rent, e.g. for repairs.

khòng-kū, to oppose a lawful authority rebelliously or disobediently.

khòng [R. to enter an accusation]. khòng-kò, to institute a legal process against another. hoan-khòng, to raise again a case that has been settled. sióng-khòng, to raise an action in a superior court (like an appeal). kia<sup>n</sup>-khòng, to enter an accusation in one of the supreme boards at the capital, as an appeal.

khòng [R. the throat]. toā-âu-khòng, having a voice that can be heard at a distance. ũ-âu-khòng, id. bô-âu-khòng, having but little voice and unable to sing high notes. kek-âu-khòng, to exert one's self so as to speak with an unnaturally loud voice, as an actor.

康

控空

孔

孔
眶
翠
慷

壙

壙曠
空

炕

控 亢
抗

控

吭

khōng — ioh chià-khōng, to guess the lengths of the pieces of a bit of sugar-cane broken as a game.

khōng (cf. khōng). khin-khōng, sound of heavy things moved about, or of noisy children. khin-khōng-háu, id. khin-khōng-khoā, in great haste, or too great haste.

khōng-táu, a sieve shaped like a basket which shakes about in a mill. khōng-khiang, unsteady gait, as of a woman with bound feet.

khōng-khōng-háu, sound, as of a rice-mortar, or of door or window shaking, or of beating moderately hard on a table. khōng-khōng-hién, to shake about, as an unsteady table or a restless child. khōng-khōng-pài, constantly making ceremonial bows (v. pài).

khu (R. khiu), a surname.

khu [R. the body]. sin-khu, the body (v. sin). seng-khu, id.

khu [R. to grasp; to restrain; to adhere obstinately]. khu-sok, to keep under strict discipline, as pupil, younger relative, or slave. khu-ah, to keep in ward, as a criminal, or as a party in a case. khu-kim, to hold in durance; to keep from doing something, either by actual force or by intimidation. tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup> khu--teh, kept under very strict discipline, as children, pupils, or apprentices, not allowed to go out, &c.

khu-chip, obstinate. u-khu, dogged and troublesome to deal with; unsociable, not caring to go about with friends; very cautious and afraid of taking action. khu-khién, too strict about ceremonies. bō-khu-lé, not standing on ceremony. put-khu-lé, id. put-khu, no matter which. put-khu-si, at any time. put-khu-tsúi, mix just as much water as you please, as in medicine.

khu (R. khiu), a small piece of ground; classifier of fields. chhân-khu, rice-fields in general. iâm-khu, salt-pans made on the sand for natural evaporation. sa<sup>n</sup>-khu-chhân, three irrigated fields; name of the garden jetty on Kolongsoo.

khu [R. to drive away]. khu-siá, to expel evil influences (v. siá).

khu [R. rough and hilly]. khi-khu (R.), rough to walk upon, as a mountain path. soa<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup> khi-khu, rough mountain paths.

khū, to sit on one's haunches; to squat or crouch; to go to stool. kia<sup>n</sup> kàu-khū-kha, so much afraid as to draw one's self together. khū-hák, to go to stool outside. khū-tháng, do. in the house.

khū (R. kú). koe-kha-khū (T.), = A. koe-kū, a cock's spur.

khū (T.), = A. khì, to go (said especially in the villages of Amoy island and the adjoining parts of the mainland, elsewhere shading into "khì" or "khū").

khū (Cn. T.), = A. khì, to go.

khū [R. to fear], (C. kī). ùi-khū (R.), to fear greatly. khū-phá<sup>n</sup>, id.

khū — khū-khū-tân, sound as of thunder. khū-khū-háu, id.; also, to purr, as a cat; sound of phlegm in the throat that cannot be brought up; sound of wind in the belly. pak-té-lái khih-khik khū-khū, rumbling sound of wind in the belly.

khū (R. kiū), classifier of coffins.

khū (R. kiū), a mortar only for cleaning rice by pounding or working up dough (not for trituration); the socket of a door, &c. tùi-khū, a large stone mortar for cleaning rice (worked by the foot). cheng-khū, a stone mortar for pounding, worked by the hand, for rice or dough. chiòh-cheng-khū, id. cheng-khū-á, a small do. cheng-khū-thūi, a pestle for such a mortar.

lut-khū, to dislocate. chhiú-khū, the wrist when used to press one's weight on something by the wrist (some say the elbow); also, a hand-mortar for pounding. chhiú-khū-á, a hand-mortar. kha-khū, the ankle in regard to cutting off. tái<sup>n</sup> kha-khū, to cut off the foot at the ankle, as of a robber. âm-kún-khū, the prominent lump at the back of the neck where the backbone joins. bák-kháng-khū, the socket of the eye.

mŭng-khū, the lower socket of a Chinese door (used instead of a hinge). mŭng-áu-khū, id. mŭng-téng-khū, the upper socket at the lintel. chē-khū, the lower socket worn away so much (or the pivot of the door worn away), so that the door settles down too much.

khū [R. kū, an instrument]. khi-khū, implements; instruments. khàng-khū, fittings and instruments of a vessel. hêng-khū, instruments of torture.

khúh — khúh-khúh-sàu, constant coughing.

khúh — ân-á-khúh, to let a thing boil slowly after it has been brought a-boil (by taking away some fuel), so as to boil it down to greater consistency. hēi-khúh, id. (cf. khóeh).

khui (R. khai), to open; open; to begin; to make out, as an account or a money-charge, or a prescription; to dig, as a well or grave; to set sail; to remove, as a prohibition; to prepare for use, as a fruit, by taking off the skin; to fire a gun.

khui-lē, to open a road. khui-tō, to clear the way before a mandarin going out. hūn khui, the clouds breaking up.

khui-hi<sup>n</sup>, to make an ink-stone. khui-khang, to make a hole or opportunity (v. khang). khui-hiét, to dig a grave. khui-không, id. khui-chí<sup>n</sup>, to dig a well.

khui-chhe, to branch into two (v. chhe). khui-kheng, joints (as of a table) opening out. khui-chhiò, the sails of two masts set on the opposite sides of the masts (v. chhiò). khui-bé, having an open stern (as boat) instead of having boards as bulwarks there. khui-kha-khê, wide trousers for children with no seat. khui-pē kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk with long strides (v. pē).

khui-sia<sup>n</sup>, to speak distinctly and clearly. khui-sia<sup>n</sup> thák, to read with a clear voice. khui-sia<sup>n</sup> khàu, to lament for the dead with a loud voice.

