khui-chhùi, to begin to speak of a matter; to make the first offer of a price (v. chhùi). khui-chhiú, to give something extra on engaging a man for some work, e.g. entrance-fee to teacher. khui-chhiú-lé, the extra sum thus given. khui-chhiú chiū-phah, he struck him at once without allowing him to make any explanation. khui-pit-lé, the first fee to a teacher when he begins to draw out the first accusation in a legal case (v. pit). khui-chhân, to begin cultivating the ground. khui-tsún, to set sail. khui-pi, whetting the appetite (v. pi). khui-pi<sup>n</sup>, to play a play without being paid, as a company of actors do on coming to a place to show what they can do. khui-chhau, to commence a military review. khui-òh, to open a school; to start a school. khui-chhi, to commence the sales of the day or of the year. khui-tiám, to set up a shop. khui-hâng, to open or have a warehouse (v. hâng).

khui-im, to take up business again in a court after the holidays. khui-kim, to remove a prohibition. khui-tê, to remove the prohibition of killing animals. khui-chho, to give up vegetarianism.

碗

印
軀
拘

坵

馬
疆
屈

屈

距

去

懼

櫃

臼

具

開

khui-chhèng, to fire a gun. khui-keng, to draw a bow in order to shoot.

khui-hoe, to flower. sim-hoe khui, pleased; delighted. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> m-khui, heart very anxious or sad. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khah-khui, grief or anxiety somewhat allayed.

khui-thiah, to explain. khui hē-i-thia<sup>n</sup>, explain to him the reasons for settling the dispute. ū-khui-chhú, a way is open for a reasonable and amicable settlement (v. chhú). khui-kōe (Cn.), to explain more minutely. khui-khiàu, to develop a pupil's mind well (v. khiàu).

khui-miā<sup>n</sup>, to report names, as to an official. khui iōh-hng, to write out a prescription. khui-toa<sup>n</sup>, to make out an account. khui-khiōh, to apportion the sums which each must pay for some common object. khui bō-giáh, unable to account fully for money or goods intrusted, as from forgetting, or from having given too good weight in selling; with no idea of dishonesty. khui bō-tin, do. do. khui-không bō-giáh, do. with idea of embezzlement. kong-khui, to share the expenses. kong-ēng kong-khui, to use in common and share expenses. bō-ke-khui, not charging more than the real price or sum spent. ū-siàu chiàu-khui, to put down all the items honestly, as of goods sold or of expenses paid. chiàu-khui, id.; also, to divide into equal parts.

khui-khoah, wide; wide-spread. khui-khoà<sup>n</sup>, wide open and unobstructed, as a place.

the-khui, to decline politely to meddle with an affair. pun-khui, to divide; to separate. li-khui, to leave; to go away; to be distant. li khui-khui, very far distant. chhoe-gē kē-khui, after the 5th of the month is past. khiā-khui, to stand out of the way. siām-khui, to get out of the way. tsáu-khui, to run out of the way. giā-khui, to carry out of the way, as a chair, &c. that-khui, to kick out of the way; to kick open. peh-khui, to break open with the hands. phoà-khui, to burst open (v. phoà).

khui [R. deficient; to injure]. kek-khui, to treat unjustly, especially as to money matters. kek-khui chit-poà<sup>n</sup>, each hearing half the loss, as of something broken or lost. siū-khui, to suffer injustice. khui-sún, to injure. khui-hū, to betray trust; to act injuriously and ungratefully (v. hū). khui-pún, to sell for less than cost price, so as to lose capital.

khui-sim, very unfair, wicked, and faithless, e.g. refusing to pay debts, or abandoning one's wife. khui-sim-sū, extremely injurious behaviour, e.g. great frauds, scattering of families, adultery, &c. khui-sim-tāi, id.

khúi (R. id.) khúi-khiēt (R.), deceitful; intriguing. khúi-tsà (R.), id.

khúi [R. ashamed]. iú-khùi, ashamed of one's self. péng-sim bū-khùi, of unimpeachable integrity, having no cause for shame. khúi-sú bū-tē (R.), very much put to shame before the world.

khùi (C.) sù-khùi, = A. sù-kùi, the four seasons.

khùi [R. khì, vapour; odour; flavour; breath; physical constitution, character, &c.], breath, &c. sng-khùi sng-khùi, having a sour smell or flavour.

khùi-thâu, ostentatious, as in dress or manner; appearance of a wealthy or influential man. ū-khùi-thâu, to have a strong pleasant odour, as tea; to have power or influence, or the appearance of it. kek-khùi, to put on too haughty an air, as a man of wealth, rank, or influence; or to make one's self appear of importance.

kek-goā-khùi, to make one's self seem important, as by fine clothes, &c. (v. goā).

tsoeh-khùi (C. cheh-khì), the 24 terms of the solar year at half-monthly intervals.

khùi-lát, strength (v. lát). khùi-bèh (T.), = A. khi-mèh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse. bō-khùi bō-mèh<sup>n</sup>, very weak, as old or sick man; quite exhausted, as with hard running.

chhoán-khùi, to breathe (v. chhoán). pún-khùi, to blow out one's breath. thé-khùi, to sigh. tháu-khùi (C.), id. hip kàu-bō-khùi-khì, covered up so as to have no air, as under a coverlet, or as in a close confined crowded room or cabin. tsáu kau-bō-khùi-khì, to run till very much exhausted and out of breath. tsáu kàu chēng-khùi chiap-m-tiōh āu-khùi (= chih-m-tiōh), to run till the one breath cannot overtake the other, till quite out of breath. chhiò kàu-bōe-tng-khùi, to laugh till quite out of breath. tit-khùi, a very long inspiration or expiration. ien tit-khùi, steam coming out in a strong steady jet. pún tit-khùi, to give a long expiration. tit-khùi--khì, panting with long expirations and short inspirations, as when about to die, &c. chiáh tit-khùi, to take a very long inspiration, as in smoking.

sah<sup>n</sup> sim-khùi, mind very much moved with desire for a thing, good or bad. phō sim-khùi, to have a sudden feeling of pain at heart, like stoppage of breath, or almost fainting, as in great and sudden fear or anxiety at a critical moment, or just after the excitement of the crisis has passed; often so as to perplex or confuse, and unfit one for the very thing that should be done.

lún-khùi, to repress the manifestation of anger. khùi chhiōng-thi<sup>n</sup>, very very angry, and showing it. chhi<sup>n</sup>-bé-khùi, having violent passions or irascible temper, so as to be ungovernable, or always quarrelling.

chit-khùi-á, a very short time. thēng-khùi, to pause for a short time.

kē-khùi, to die. tng-khùi, id. khùi-tng, just dead. khùi-tsoat, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhùn-khùi-tng, id. (lit. the three inches of breath). chit-tiáu-khùi iáu-bē-tng, just a breath between him and death, as very old or sick man.

khüi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) khüi<sup>n</sup>-oáh, = A. khòai<sup>n</sup>-oáh, comfortable.

khun [R. earth; the feminine or Yin principle]. khien-khun (R.), heaven and earth. leng-khun-tan, sort of pills used for diseases of females.

khun [R. to scrape off], to shave a second time, so as to make quite smooth; to go over a second time where wood has been cut, gleaming up all that is left.

khun [R. an elder brother]. khun-tiōng, brothers, elder and younger.

khun [R. name of a mountain; name of the city of Kwen-shan, near Shanghai, of great literary fame]. khun-lún-soa<sup>n</sup>, the Kwen-lun mountain, near the source of the Yellow River, the most sacred of mountains.

khun-khiang, songs in mandarin colloquial. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-khun, to sing them. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-khun-khiang, id.

khùn (R. id.), (C. khún), diligent; laborious. khùn-sim, id. khùn-kín, id. khùn-khiām, diligent and economical. khùn-khó, extremely diligent (v. khó). khùn-kang, diligent at work. khùn-ēng-kang, to study or read long and diligently. khùn-thák, to study hard. khùn-sim-thák, id. khùn iú-kong, diligence has benefit.

虧

詭愧

氣

坤 髮
昆
崑

勤

un-khùn, courteous and kindly, as in receiving guests.

khûu (C. khín), a tree with a bunch of large glossy pinnate leaves at the top.

khûn (R. id), (C. khín). khûn-chhài, celery. chhái-khûn (R.), to become a Sew-tsai.

khûn (T.) thiáp-khûn teh-chê (= A. khoân), to sit cross-legged.

khûn (R. id.), to coil, as a rope or snake; winding, as road; to work figures in braid; a stack, as of corn, hay, or wood.

tiû-khûn, a heap or stack of cut rice.

khûn-khûn--teh, coiled up, as a rope, &c. un-lun-khûn, coiled up, as a snake, or as a cat or dog lying with its tail turned round to its head.

khûn kau-hûn, to lay on braid in the form of hooked or looped figures (of different colour) on the border of a dress; it is then pasted on, and sewed down firmly; the sewing is properly "têng," but the whole operation is called "kbûn-kau-bûn." khûn bân-jî, to work figures of braid in the form called "bân-jî."

khún (R. id.), to bind with a cord, as a bundle; a bundle, sheaf, or bale. khún-pák, to bind with a cord, as bands or feet. pau-khún, to wrap and tie up. pau-khún-khi-hó, wrap and tie it up tight. khún-soh, to tie up with a rope, as a parcel or box; a sort of rope used for this. khún-chhióh, to tie up a number of mats (gen. about fifty) in one bundle.

khún-á, a small bundle tied up. béh-khún, a sheaf of wheat or barley. chit-khún-tsoá, several bundles of paper tied together.

khún [R. to cultivate new land]. khai-khún, to clear waste land, and bring it into cultivation.

khún [R. importunate, to beg earnestly]. khún-kiû, to request very earnestly. khún-chhiet, earnestly; urgently. khún-i, pressing a guest to stay when he is leaving.

khún [R. straitened; distressed; urgent]. khún-pek, to harass; to persecute. khún-tiók (R.), to expel; (X.), to persecute. khún--lâng, to force a man to pay too much for goods or labour, because we have the only supply of what he needs.

khún (R. thún). khún-khún (T.), = A. pûi-thún, short, stout, and corpulent. khún-tàu-khún-tàu (T.), id.

khùn [R. miserable; confined], to besiege. ûi-khùn, to surround or besiege, as an army or a city.

khùn-khé, very miserable. khùn-koân (R.), very tired and exhausted.

khùn, to sleep; to lie at rest; to sleep on or in. hioh-khùn, to rest or stop a little. hêh<sup>n</sup>-khùn (C.), id. khiä-khùn, to sleep standing. chiah-kú teh-khiä-khùn, a long time out of employment.

khùn khi, sleeping and waking; at all times. khùn-khi, to rise from sleep. khùn-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to wake from sleep (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). khùn-pá, having slept enough. tsá-khùn, to go to bed early. oá<sup>n</sup>-khùn, to go to bed late. ái-khùn, sleepy. mí<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup>-khùn, always falling asleep as soon as wakened. khùn-chhi-chhi, sleeping very sound. toä-khùn sió-sí, very very sleeping. tâng-bîn-khùn, to sleep soundly. khùn-bôe-lôh-bîn, lying, but unable to sleep. hó-khùn, to sleep well; good for sleeping in or on. phái<sup>n</sup>-khùn, restless in sleep; unpleasant to sleep in or on.

ôe-khùn kúi-lâng, for how many persons is there room to sleep? khùn-tsa-bé, to sleep with a bad woman.

khùn-băng, to sleep so as to get an oracle in a dream. khùn-sien-kong-băng, id., in the temple of the genii. khùn-sêng-hông, to sleep in the temple of the tutelary god of the city to get evidence about a crime (v. bông). khùn-bông, to sleep in the bollow of a grave in order to get a prophetic dream. chiah-chheng khùn-keng, to live at ease in temples; to have an easy life (v. chheng). khùn-chhiú-khiau, to sleep with one's own elbow for a pillow. khùn-thi<sup>n</sup>-lô, to sleep in the open air. khùn-hong-thâu, to sleep in a draught. khùn-tui, to pass the night at a police watch-house, as soldiers on duty. khi-chhê in-má khùn, he is dead (lit. gone to sleep with grandmother). kha-h-ún kap-in-má khùn, safer than a child in grandamma's lap.

khut (R. id.), a hole in the ground; a pool; a small pit. khut-á, a small pool, or puddle, or hole in ground. khut-lá, id. thâm-khut, ponds and pools, larger and smaller. hâi--lâng lôh-thâm-khut, to bring people into great trouble. kau-khut, ditches and pools. tsúi-khut, a small pool of water. soa<sup>n</sup>-khut, a small pool on a hill. chioh-khut, a pool or cavity in a rock.

thê-khut, a piece of ground lower than the surrounding ground, sometimes of considerable extent. koan-khut, cavity of an old grave from which the coffin has been removed. không-khut, the pit of a grave roughly dug (before the lime is put in), where the coffin is to be laid, or of an old grave from which the coffin is removed. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ-khut, cavity of deserted grave.

chiú-khut, the dimples of the cheek near corner of mouth when one laughs. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-khut, the soft depression near the middle of the breast. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> ti-á-khut, id.

lap-khut, sunk into depressions, as a floor or road that should be level. hiet-khut-á, game of throwing cash into small holes.

khut [R. to bend; to treat very unjustly]. khut--lôh-lái, to bend down one's body; to stoop down by bending forward. kha khut--lôh-khi, to bend one knee almost to the ground. khut-kha, to bend one or both legs, e.g. in preparing to shoot. khut-kha-jin, the tenth radical. khut-khiok, bent, crooked, as a piece of wood, or as a lane. khut-chhioh, a carpenter's square. khut-chhioh-kiáh, a timber "knee" in boat-building. khut-chhioh-hâng, a lane with a right angle in it.

khut-kí thâi-jin, to humble or deny one's self for the sake of others. siü-khut, to suffer severe injury or oppression. bú-kê siü-khut, do. without fault. bú-oan siü-khut, id. khut-tá<sup>n</sup> sêng-chiau, to beat violently so as to force a false confession. un-khut, to accuse unjustly of crime; to oppress grievously by an unjust judgment on a false charge. oan-khut (R. and C.), id. oai--lâng khut--lâng, to raise or spread slanderous accusations against people.

óng-khut, an expression of astonishment with grief or displeasure, often with the idea that one would never have expected anything so wicked or so foolish of him; sometimes to treat unjustly. ka-kí óng-khut, to throw away one's opportunities; to ruin one's own prospects. m-thang óng-khut--lâng, you should not treat people unjustly. óng-khut i-ê-kang, alas that bis labour is of no avail! óng-khut i-ê kong-lô, alas that bis merit fails of reward! óng-khut i-ê tsâi-chêng, alas! he throws away his talents, as by low pleasures. chin óng-khut, what a pity that

勤 蕙

捆

壑 懇 窘

困

窟 澹

屈

labour should be thus lost! either from his own fault or otherwise. óng-khut hē-lí chiah-toā-hàn, what a big useless fellow you are! óng-khut li-tsòe siù-tsāi, what a shame that you (who act so ill) are a graduate!

khut-goân, the man in memory of whom the feast of dragon-boats (5.5) is kept.

khút [R. short, as feathers of a bird], short, as a tail. khút-khút, stunted or scraggy, as an ill-formed tree; bare, as a rocky hill. bé khút-khút, the tail is very short. khút-bé, having lost its point, as a hair-pencil. té khút-khút, very short. khút-hâu (T.), a small bit of a rainbow seen up in the sky, less distinct than "phò-phâng."

khút-thâu-hâng, a road that ends abruptly, leading nowhere; a cul de sac.

khút — kē-khút, having no relations; unsociable; unneighbourly (v. kē). kng khút-khút, smooth and bare, as tree with few or no leaves or branches, or as bill without vegetation; without hair, as scabbed head; solitary, as man without relatives, without money or goods.

khút — khút-chhêng, of very unpleasant temper; unwilling to assist; fond of answering gruffly and laconically; unsocial and uncommunicative; scraggy and stunted, as a tree; too much clipped, as a sentence. kóng-ōe khút-chhêng, to speak in a too laconic, gruff, and repelling manner.

khút — khút-kê, to stir paste in making it. khút khah-kà, make it thinner, as paste. khút-thūi, a stick for stirring paste.

khwa, khwá, khwà, khwā; better khoa, khóa, khòa, khōa (q.v.)

khwa<sup>n</sup>, khwá<sup>n</sup>, khwà<sup>n</sup>; better khoa<sup>n</sup>, khóa<sup>n</sup>, khòa<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

khwah; better khoah (q.v.)

khwái, khwài; better khoái, khòai (q.v.)

khwai<sup>n</sup>, khwài<sup>n</sup>, khwái<sup>n</sup>; better khoai<sup>n</sup>, khòai<sup>n</sup>, khòai<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

khwan, khwân, khwán, khwàn; better khoan, khòan, khóan (q.v.)

khwat; better khoat (q.v.)

L.

l is often interchanged with n and j.

Many words beginning with l are mere reduplications of the previous word with the initial letter changed, e.g. kóng-lóng, kheng-leng.

la (cf. là), (T. la, le), too jolly or full of sport; amusing one's self too lightly, sometimes improperly or licentiously. teh-la, too jolly and full of fun; taking too great liberties with superiors, or too great licence in pleasures. phah-la, to amuse one's self idly, as by empty jokes, by laughing at passers-by, by throwing stones at mark, &c. sēng-khi-la, to spoil, as child or slave-girl, by allowing too great liberties.

la-êng, too jolly or fast; having too much of his own way, as a spoiled child or fast youth; too exuberant in spirits, or too fond of pleasures, often low or licentious. chiáh-liáu la-êng, full-fed and fond of pleasure or idleness, often in the way of insulting others or of wanton amusement. thàn--khi la-êng, having earned so much money as to get saucy, amusing himself, enjoying the "douce far niente," putting on airs, despising small gains and refusing to take a job, as a coolie. tsoán--khi la-êng, id., or as a beggar. khít--khi la-êng, id., only of a beggar who has got so much that he stops begging to get jolly.

la (cf. là). li-la, unsafe to have dealings with, as a deceitful man who looks fair at first, but becomes dangerous, or borrows from friends and does not pay. kóng-ōe li-la, to talk in a way not to be depended on.

la — li-li la-la (C. le), indistinct prattle of a child; also, to earn something more than one's wages or salary by miscellaneous bits of work. chhùi la-la-háu, said (in praise) of a child beginning to talk a good deal, or (in blame) of a man who talks too much.

la, to draw, as a bow or a boat. la-keng, to draw a bow (only in learning). la-tsùn, to draw or pull a boat. la-óá, to pull close (as a boat) by a rope. la-khui, to pull it away from something else.

la-chioh, to borrow money. si-kòe-la, si-kòe-chioh, to go about borrowing money everywhere.

là — soa-lá, a shell-fish somewhat like a cockle. là-á, id. kiám-lá, id., salted.

là (C.), = A. giò, a cockle.

là (R. lêng). là-lí, the scaly ant-eater; the pangolin.

là — là-giá, a very large spider (v. giá). ti-lá-si, spiders' webs.

là (C. á). là-sâm, dirty; filthy (v. sâm).

là (cf. la). là-kau, unsafe to have dealings with, as man who does not repay what he borrows. là-lá kau-kau, id.

là (cf. la, liá). kóng-lá-liáng, to joke and jest.

là — pá-lá, very corpulent; full-fed and too full of jollity, esp. making fun of other people. chiáh--khi pá-lá, having eaten to the full, and amusing one's self in a too loose or exuberant way [= the following word? or the former word?].

là (R. lò, liáu). iū-lá, animal fat; lard. ti-lá, hog's lard. ti-lá-iū, id. pán-lá-iū, the mass of fat at the animal's side; leaf fat.

là — chhè-lá, mother of vinegar.

là, Benares opium (imitation of the accented syllable "na" of Benares). kū-lá, old Benares opium.

là (R. liú), (C. lâu). ka-lá-pa, Java; Batavia.

là — là-lún-sio, lukewarm (v. lún).

là — là-sē, spiritless; hanging down (v. sē).

là — là-lē, the low cross-beams on which the boards of the upper deck rest.

là (T. C.) là-ták, sort of harrows used instead of a plough for wet fields.

là (Cn.) là-ták, = A. nà-pók, carrots. là-pák, id.

là, = á, affix to nouns; used after words ending in t; e.g. chhát-lá, giét-lá, khut-lá, &c.

là, reduplication of "thà," &c. (v. thà).

là — khok-á-lá, a large sort of cap worn by children. ku-lá (T.), a hood like a "hong-bō" worn by children.

拉柳

鮫

掠

背勝

啣

仔

là; better "lah," final enclitic particle in indicative sentences.

là — ha-là, a very fine sort of woollen cloth. ha-là-ni<sup>n</sup>, id.

là (T.) bô-là-oâ, = A. bô-tâ-oâ, no other resource; could not be avoided.

là (T.) chhi-chhi lâ-lâ, sound of meat frying in melted fat. tsú kàu lí-lí lâ-lâ, to have a vast deal of cooking going on, as for numerous guests.

là (Cn.) lâ-hiôh, = A. hâ-hiôh, the kite.

là, to stir, as paste or water; to poke about with a stick, or as a bird with its bill; to make trouble or disturbance; to search about, as for employment; to make a remark, to suggest an idea, or raise a subject.

sa<sup>n</sup>-lâ, fence with sticks, swords, &c. lâ niâu-chhú-khang, to feel a rat's hole with a stick. chhâ-lâ, to annoy; to cause disturbance. kiâu-lâ, id. kiâu-lâ--lí, I am giving you a great deal of trouble.

lâ hê-i-tsai, to give the first inkling or intelligence of an affair to him. lâ chit--ê ôe-thâu, to make a remark that may lead a man to speak of a matter which we wish to ask, but don't like to ask directly. m-thang-lâ; chit-lâ chit-chhâu, don't stir that matter, for it will be very unpleasant to hear. lâ kun-le, to make round-about inquiries to find out the secret origin of a matter, or, e.g. the facts about a theft. lâ thâu-lê, to search for employment. soá<sup>n</sup>-lâ, to look about in all directions for odds and ends of work, earning a little here and there. ah-bú-chhùi bóng-lâ (duck's bill feeling about in mud), to make a request with small hope of success, but may just as well try.

lah, enclitic particle at the end of a sentence, especially of an indicative sentence; sometimes marks the completion of an action.

lah (T.) lah-lún, too soft, as eatables insufficiently dried.

lah (T.), = A. láp, to sew the soles of stockings or shoes.

lah (An.), = A. tá, tah. chit-lah, here. hit-lah, there.

lah (R. láp, liáp), bees'-wax. ôg-lâh, yellow wax. pèh-lâh, white wax. lâh-chek, a wax candle.

kài-lâh, to rub with wax, so as to make smooth with a waxy surface. lâh-chien, sort of drawing paper, with waxed surface.

lah (wax ?). pèh-lâh-sáh, very white.

lah [R. láp, liáp, the 12th month]. lâh-mûi<sup>n</sup>, a sweet yellow flower, Chimonanthes fragrans, which blooms in the 12th month.

lah (R. lèk). lâh-jit, an almanac. kè-sí lâh-jit ê-tâi, an affair quite past and forgotten. kè-sí lâh-bi, id. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhia sin-chheh-á kû-lâh-jit (v. chheh).

lah [R. láp (?), mixed in confusion]. oai-kô lâh-chhoáh, awry; not even or square.

lah (R. láp, liáp). phah-lâh, to hunt. chiong-kun bô-ti--teh, sió-kun phah-lâh, when the general is away, the soldiers play. lâh-káu, a hunting dog; a man who is seldom to be found at his own house.

lah [R. lèk; to rein; to compel]. ah-lâh, to force; to compel, = ek-lèk.

lah — hong-lâh, a sort of disease in new-born infants. tiôh-lâh, to have that disease. lâh-chháu, herbs used for its cure.

lah (R. liáp), (C. lèh). ka-lâh, a fish that tastes slightly like salmon. ka-lâh-hi, id.

撈

蠟

臘

勒

鱈

lâh — lün-lâh, having a slight pleasant moistness or softness of surface, as face of man in good health and well off, or as skin of sleek horse, or as surface of a pill that is not too dry; gentle in manner, not readily angry but ready to settle a dispute; well-formed, easy and flowing, as written characters.

lâh (Cn. esp. An.) kúi-lâh, = A. kúi-nâ<sup>n</sup>, several.

lâi [R. weeds, thistles]. hong-lâi, the dwelling of the genii, the Taoist paradise. hong-lâi-tó, id.

lâi (R. id.), to come; at the end of a phrase it expresses motion towards the agent, or the accomplishment of the object; at the beginning of a clause following another, it is often a mere connective, carrying on the sense, answering to the connective particle "ji" in the literary style.

khi--lâi, to rise up (v. khi). lâi-khi, to come and go (v. khi). óng-lâi, to go and come; to have intercourse with (v. óng).

thó-lâi, to get back by asking for. pân-bôe-lâi, unable to arrange the matter, because it is so difficult. tsôe-bôe-tit-lâi, unable to accomplish it. tng-bôe-lâi, unable to undertake so difficult an office or business. kóng-bôe-lâi, cannot express it properly, as from want of ability or ignorance of the language; unable to speak to purpose so as to accomplish our object. kóng ôe-tit-lâi, to have such influence that our words are successful; to state a matter so clearly that it is well understood.

thêh-lâi, to bring in the hand, as a small thing. giâ-lâi, to bring, as a chair, &c. kng-lâi, to bring by carrying on a pole between two men (and so with the other ways of carrying).

lâi-lék, history of a person or affair from the beginning; account of the origin. lèk-lâi, always hitherto for a long time back. goân-lâi, originally; formerly. pún-lâi, id. chiông-lâi (r.), hitherto.

chiong-lâi, afterwards; after this. Chiang-lâi (C.), id. âu-lâi, afterwards. chit-sí lâi-sè, this life and that of the next birth by transmigration.

jû-lâi, a name of Buddha or Sek-khia. jû-lâi-hút, id.

lâi [R. lê, li, a pear]. lâi-á, a pear. lâi-á-chhiü, a pear-tree. tsúi-lâi, a sort of pear. hiang-tsúi-lâi, do., from North China. tsang-pau-lâi, a large sort. seh-lâi, white winter pear from Shan-tung. chiáu-lâi, a small wild yellowish (useless) pear.

óng-lâi, a pine-apple (v. óng). bân-jí-lâi, a rough-skinned fruit (not a pear) shaped like a finger, or like the character "bân," used medicinally.

pàng-toâ-lâi, to set off a firework (like pear-blossom), that spouts for a while with a bright light. lâi-á-hoe, id.

lâi (C.) lâi-bâ, a sort of wild animal like a fox (cf. lí).

lâi [R. lán, spiritless; lazy, = col. noá<sup>n</sup>]. iâ-lâi, wearied out; quite exhausted.

lâi — lí-lâi, spoiled, as things; in a bad state, as an involved affair hard to put right; troublesome or dangerous to have as an associate, as a man who cannot be depended on.

lâi — ô-lâi, dirty dark reddish coloured, as common coarse pottery or clotted blood.

lâi (R. lí). lâi-á-bah, boiled flesh of a very small sort of cockle.

lâi [R. lí, clever; intelligent]. lêng-lâi, ingenious; clever, esp. precocious and intelligent, as child.

萊來

梨梨

狸懶

俐

chhài bô-lêng, hī-khang bô-lāi, not good either at speaking or hearing. koai-lāi, bright and intelligent, as child.

lāi (enclitic; cf. t̄ai). beh--lāi, what is the matter? what do you want?

lāi (C.), = A. bā, = Cn. lā. lāi-hiòh, the kite.

lāi (R. lōe), within; inside; interior. lāi-goā, inside and outside (v. goā). bāk-lāi-ū, to esteem; to respect. bāk-lāi-bô, to despise. ôh-lāi, a Sew-tsai graduate. pak-lāi, within the belly or heart; entrails (v. pak). lāi-tsai, good mental powers and talents, as acquaintance with classics and literary ability. lāi-khe, internal diseases (v. khe). soa<sup>n</sup>-lāi, among the mountains (v. soa<sup>n</sup>), (s. interest).

lāi-sin, inside, as of a place. lāi-bīn, inside. goán-lāi-bīn, the inside of our house; my wife. lāi-thâu, inside; one's wife. chhù-lāi, wife. ke-lāi, wife; family. ke-lāi-lâng, id. sâng-khia-lāi, living in the same house (v. khiā).

lāi-kong, paternal grandfather. lāi-má, paternal grandmother. lāi-sun, son's son.

sit-lāi, exact measurement within, as within the walls of a house. tsāi-lāi, inclusive; included in it. pau-tsai-lāi, id. pau-koat tsai-lāi, id. put-tsai-lāi, not included in the sum or amount. bô-tsai-lāi, id.

lāi [R. li, sbarp; benefit; interest], sharp; strongly acrid, as alkaline solution; very cold, as water; interest of money; auspicious, as position of house.

lāi-khì, sharp instruments. chiam-lāi, sharp, as point and edge (v. chiam). lāi-to, a sharp knife or sword.

kiau-lāi, bright and distinct, as a colour. tun-to chhut lāi-chhiú, a blunt knife shows the skill of the workman.

lāi-ní, a lucky year for some particular position. bô-lāi, the direction is not auspicious. kin-ní<sup>n</sup> sī-lāi, this year the position referred to is auspicious for a house. ū sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-lāi, which is the auspicious direction for building? tang-sai lāi, the lucky direction (this year) is to face the west.

lāi-chī<sup>n</sup>, interest of money. lāi-sit (C.), id. ka-jī-lāi, interest at 20 per cent. on a whole voyage or single venture, not counted by time. chit-hun-lāi, interest at 1 per cent. a month, or 12 per cent. a year. nng-hun-lāi, 24 per cent. a year. si-hun-goā-lāi, more than 48 per cent. tâng-lāi, heavy interest; usury. pàng-tâng-lāi, to lend on heavy usury. soa<sup>n</sup>-lāi, ordinary interest on the security of property on shore; or to man living on shore (s. inside). pàng-soa<sup>n</sup>-lāi, to lend on such interest. tsúi-lāi, very high interest on goods shipped: if the vessel be lost both interest and principal are lost. si<sup>n</sup>-lāi, to be producing interest, as money. kiā<sup>n</sup>-lāi, id. chioh-chi<sup>n</sup> kiā<sup>n</sup>-lāi, to borrow money, and have to pay interest. jip-lāi, to receive interest for money.

bú-lāi, principal and interest. beh-lāi, liên-bú bô, to lose the principal by trying to get interest. lāi-chī<sup>n</sup> koan bú-chi<sup>n</sup>, compound interest. lāi chhia-bú, bú chhia-lāi, id. lāi chhih--lòh-khì tsòe-bú, id.

lāi<sup>n</sup>, lāi<sup>n</sup>, better, nāi<sup>n</sup>, nāi<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

lāi<sup>n</sup>, reduplication of pháí<sup>n</sup>. pháí<sup>n</sup>-lāi<sup>n</sup>, become very bad; quite spoiled.

lak [R. thok, a bag, = col. lok]. lak-tē, a pocket; a small cotton bag. lak-á, id.

lak (= lok). phi<sup>n</sup>-lak-kóng, the nose, esp. the middle part of the nose, excluding the tip and the bridge.

lak (T.) sún-lak, elegantly made, as a piece of furniture; elegantly formed, as a limb, or as the whole person.

lak (= lāk). lak-lak-háu, sound, as of silver shaken.

lak — e-lak, a long dark-gray sea-slug.

lak [R. ló, name of a fish], (C. láu). pa-lak-hí, a small edible fish (v. pa).

lak, reduplication of a previous word. bak-lak, to soil or dirty much. phak-lak, many things or persons lying on their faces; quantity of grain laid with rain.

lak, to drill a hole. lak-tsng, a drill worked by a string. jī-hièn-lak, a drill worked by a bow. lak-soh, the string of a drill. ti-lak-soh, a rope for cateching pigs.

lak [R. lók, a rut; a sort of wheel]. ka-lak, a block, as in a ship, or for a pulley. ka-lak-piá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of cake with a hole in the middle. ka-lak-kē (T.), = A. hé-kim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a fire-fly.

lak [R. lók, = col. lóh, lok, làu], to fall, as leaves, over-ripe fruit, or fetters; to shed, as hair; to fall, as price; to let fall or lose (only in some phrases); to let out the sheet (liáu-bú) of a sail much more than "hun."

lak-kè, to fall in price; to lower the price. lak-lién, to lose reputation, or influence, or prestige. lak-bīn, id. lak i--ê thé-bièn, to put him to shame before others.

lak-sún, joints of furniture opening out. sún lak, id. lak-jī, to omit a word or words by mistake in writing. lak chit-jī, to omit one word so. lak-khí, to lose one's teeth. lak hé-hoe, to let sparks fall, as from a match. lak hē-tiám, small rain falling. lak-tsúi, to put in water, as cloth or dress. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> siú<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh-lak, to think so hard as to be like to fall down.

lak chit-pi<sup>n</sup>, lay the matter aside for the present. lak-khui--khì, let the boat out further from shore.

lāk (= lak). lāk-lāk-háu, sound of silver shaken.

lāk [R. lek, to tremble]. lāk-lāk-chhoah, to shake and tremble with fear.

lāk (R. liók), six. lāk-pâng, the six sub-offices in a mandarin's office. lāk-kak, hexagonal (v. kak). lāk-káu, that throw of the dice when two have equal numbers, and the other is 6. chiáh sa<sup>n</sup>-lāk-káu, to abstain from animal food on the nine days of the month ending in 3, 6, and 9. lāk-jī, large good cash of Kien-lung, of a reddish brown metal.

toā-lāk-lē, a very large house, having the central hall divided by a partition, and having the full complement of side-houses. lāk-lē-khí, built in this style. sió-lāk-lē (esp. T.), somewhat smaller, but of similar style.

lāk-géh-péh, a whitish fruit with a fine bloom on it. lāk-géh-ē, a sort of fruit (v. ē). sòe-kiá<sup>n</sup> bô-lāk-géh (there is no bot month for a child), a child should wear plenty of clothes even in the hottest months.

lāk [R. liók, to seize, = col. liáh], to grasp or lay hold of violently, as man or wild animal. khíu-lāk, to grasp violently. sa<sup>n</sup>-khíu sa<sup>n</sup>-lāk, to seize and pull each other about violently, as in a quarrel. lāk-lāi lāk-khì, id.

lāk, to take up a small thing in the fingers pointing

内

利

輓

落

慄六

掠

拉

downwards; to catch with the fingers from above, as a falling ball (but from below is "sín"); a small quantity, as of meal taken up in the fingers from above.

chít-lák, a small quantity taken up in the fingers from above. chít-lák-á, id.

chhin-chhái-lák, to take up small things improperly, e.g. money; to talk in a random improper way, e.g. false, disrespectful, or impudent. lám-sám-lák, to tell lies or exaggerated stories. hau-lák, id.; not quite so bad as "péh-chhát."

lák-khí-lái, to catch from above and lift up, or pull up to keep from falling; to hold up, as legs of trousers or skirt; to pull up, as sleeve; to give some assistance to set right an affair that had become dangerous. lák bé-soh, to hold a bridle or halter. lák tâu-á, to take up the dice in the fingers, as gamblers. lák tām-poh, to take a small quantity of something in the fingers. lák chít-pé, id. thau-lák, to steal small things. thau-lák mi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to steal a little cotton; said also of improperly touching another's person with bad intentions. lák-sái lák-jiō, to remove excrement and urine with the hand from an infant, as mother or nurse does.

lák — lák-hi, the two long boards at the side of a mast, which support it.

lam (C.), = A. am, a sort of basket. ke-lam, = A. koe-am, a basket for fowls. ah-lam, a basket for ducks.

lam (reduplication). chham-lam, mixed together.

lám [R. male], a baron. kong hē, pek tsú lám, the five ranks of nobility. lám-chiok, the rank of a baron.

lám-lú, male and female (v. lú). lám-hū ló-iù, male and female, old and young. lám-teng, a male person. lám-tsú, id. lám-tsú-hàn, id. lám-ji, id., especially a young man or child.

hau-lám, a son mourning at his parent's funeral; said also in scolding a fellow who looks dull and stupid (you look as if you were mourning for your father). hē<sup>n</sup>-lám-hong (r.), sodomy. lám-sek, id. (s. blue).

lám (R. id.), a sort of tree with good hard wood, imported from Singapore. lám-á-chhā, this wood. lám-pang, a board of it.

kí-lám, a heavy costly wood (used for incense, and as a diuretic). kí-lám-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id.

lám (R. id.), south. lám-pak, north and south (v. pak). tang-lám, south-east. chhut-tang-lám, a south-east wind rising. sai-lám, south-west. tsòe sai-lám, a violent south-west storm or gale rising. toā-sai-lám, a very strong south-west monsoon. ē-kha sai-lám, a sudden black south-west storm with heavy rain and great floods.

hē-lám, to turn to a south wind (v. hē). tiâu-lám, to beat against the south wind in sailing south. tiâu-lám-lòh-lái, id. bin òg-lám (face looking south), said of a sovereign or mandarin.

lám-kia<sup>n</sup>, Nankin. an-lám, Cochin-China, Annam. hūn-lám, Yunnan. kang-lám, Kiangnan. ē-lám, Hoonan. hái-lám, Hainan. hái-lám-gōng, a large sea-bird (v. gōng), (and so in many local names). lám-táu, a southern constellation of six stars (v. táu). lám-kék sien-ōng, the guardian spirit of the south pole.

lám-koán, songs in Amoy colloquial. lám-tsún, junks from Chang-poo (chiu<sup>n</sup>-phó) and such places southward from Amoy. lám-á-tsún, id. lám-á-láng, men from Tong-san (tàng-soa<sup>n</sup>), Swatow, or Canton. ē-

lám-láng, people of Amoy, Chang-chew, Chin-chew, &c.

lám (R. id.) lám-lúi, tattered, ragged, slovenly.

lám (T. liám). poà<sup>n</sup>-lám-hā<sup>n</sup>, hung up unfinished, as an affair (v. hā<sup>n</sup>).

lám — ē-lám-hék, flesh of a sort of shell-fish.

lám — khiā-lám-iā, the name of an idol (v. khiā).

lám (R. id.), deep blue. mê<sup>n</sup>-lám, id. ám-lám, dark blue; the colour of the opaque blue button. sám-lám, a very deep dark blue. ji-lám, a shade not quite so deep. pó-chiòh-lám, a very rich blue (ultramarine). thien-lám, a dark brownish purple, much used for (bó-koà) jackets. it-phín-lám, a very bright blue with a purplish tinge. chhù-lám, bright light blue. lám-sek, blue colour (s. male). lám-chheng, the dress of a Sew-tsai. lám-téng, the opaque blue button of the fourth rank of mandarins. lám-lêng, an artificial feather worn by some mandarins.

lám [R. lám, to drench], to pour water upon, as on one's head, or as hot water into a hole of vermin; to pour melted metal over a thing, &c. lám--lòh-lái, to flow down abundantly on, as water on a water-wheel. si-lám-súi, flowing all over, as tears or a flood (v. sùi). lám-tsúi, to pour water on one's self in bathing. lám bát-sat, to pour hot water into a bug's nest to kill them.

lám-phí, to pour a pint of parched beans over a person just recovering from small-pox, when the scabs fall off, done on a lucky day before an idol, and the beans are divided to children to eat to keep away small-pox.

lám-thng, to put on the glazing on pottery. lám gūn-tsúi, to pour melted silver on some other metal to coat it. lám gūn-bin, to put a silver coating on a baser metal. lám siah-bin, to put a coating of tin or pewter.

lám (R. id.), to embrace; to take in the arms. pau-lám, to monopolize; to take the entire management of an affair. pau-lám-bé, to engage to make up the deficiency, as in a subscription. lám-bé, id. lám-tsái-ji, a bill of lading in foreign vessels. lám tah-tah, to embrace closely, as a child, or as in joke. lám ē-io, to seize a man by the waist, as in wrestling (v. io).

lám [R. lám, lām, a large rope; to fasten with a rope]. lám-kong, a rope which draws the head of the sail close to the mast (v. kong). toā-lám, = toā-lām, a cable for lashing wood or bamboos to the sides of a junk. toā-lám-soh, id.

hē-sam put-lám (floating wood not tied), said of a useless ill-behaved fellow of whom no one takes care, or of very ill-made useless articles. poà<sup>n</sup>-lám-phú, hanging up, as a matter without a definite settlement.

lám [R. lám, ragged; tattered]. lám-noā<sup>n</sup>, slovenly in person or dress.

lám (R. lién), weak; not strong, as man or thing; in bad health; having little or no power or influence; polite phrase (depreciatory) in speaking of what belongs to ourselves; inferior in quality.

lám-láng, a man who has no power or influence to back him. béng-lám, powerful and weak, as clans or families; influential or unimportant; having or not having prestige. phín-béng-lám, to boast of power and influence.

soe-lám, very weak, as old man, or as man with weak constitution and always ill. hu-lám, weak and emaciated. lám sin-miā<sup>n</sup>, in delicate health.

襪
連

藍 藍

淋
霖

鹿

男

楠

南

搵

覓

襪

lám-sai-hū, an inferior workman. lám-kang-hu, inferior ill-done work. lám-tê, tea of inferior quality. lám-hè, inferior goods. lám-mih<sup>n</sup>, id.; also, "my poor articles." lám sé-tsái, my poor house. goán--ê lám-chhù, id.

lám (cf. lóng, long, làng). lám-lám, hanging too loosely about one, as dress too loose or long, or as sleeves. siu<sup>n</sup>-lám, id. lám-sin, the body of the dress hanging too loosely about one.

lám (cf. lop), (C. lòm). lám-chhân, very wet fields.

lám [R. a flood; excessive; disorderly; to waste]. hông-súi hoán-lám (R.), a great deluge.

lám-kau, associating too freely with all sorts of people. lám-êng, to use too freely; lavish expense. khah-lám-êng, id. lám-sám, disorderly; at random; in any way whatever comes; without settled plan or arrangement; false; vicious; corrupt. lám-sú (C.), id. lám-sám-sám, very disorderly or improper. lám-sám-kóng, to talk at random; to speak falsely. lám-sám kan-chhêng, false witness. lám-sám chiù-tsoá, random or false swearing. lám-sám-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to behave in an improper or disorderly way; to walk about without any definite plan.

lám, to mix. sa<sup>n</sup>-lám, id. lám-lám, mixed together. lám-tsám, id., especially as good and bad of the same sort of article. chham-chham lám-lám, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-lám-chham, id. lám-he, to mix up lime in mortar. lám tsòe-chit-tui, to put together in a heap.

lám — bô-lám, having no companion. sió-lám (C.), to join and make one company, as two companies in a procession. phoá<sup>n</sup>-lám (C.), to keep company with; to go as companion.

lám [R. lám, lám, a large rope; to fasten with a rope]. bih-lám, a large bamboo cable. lám-soh, a cable such as is used for lashing wood on the sides of a junk. toá-lám, id.

lân — giá-lân, crimson; carmine. hâ-lân (C.), id. giá-lân-bí, cochineal. giá-lân-jí, a hard, heavy, red wood, like rosewood, much used for anchors. ka-lân-jí, id.

lân, induration of the skin on foot or hand; a corn. chiú-lân, a hardening on the hand caused by work. kha-lân, a corn. siu kha-lân, to extract corns. koe-kha-lân, hard places on a fowl's foot.

chióh-lân, a hard nodule or knot in a stone.

lân [R. name of several flowers]. lân-hoe, a tree with a small sweet flower, Olea fragrans. lân-hoe-bí, these flowers plucked, without the stalk. chhiū-lân-hoe, small yellow sort, specially fragrant in the morning. sê-sim-lân, a variety (or species) with the centre nearly the same colour as the petals. koe-kha-lân, very small sweet flower on stalks like a hen's foot (Chloranthus inconspicuus). koa<sup>n</sup>-lân, a flower like an iris (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). chhiáh-lân (C.), a beautiful evergreen shrub. chhiáh-lân-á (C.), id.

hò-lân, Holland. hò-lân-tsú, potatoes, not sweet potatoes. hò-lân-se, France. hoat-lân-se, id., generally confounded with Holland by the Amoy people.

lân [R. difficult; painful; sometimes used in the sense of "cannot"]. kan-lân, pain; suffering; painful. seng-khu kan-lân, sick or sorely pained in body. iau chhan, pá chhan: chiáh-pá, kiò-kan-lân, always complaining.

lân-úi, to maltreat, as by compelling to pay money unjustly, or to do too much work. thiau-lân, to cause trouble to another intentionally or maliciously, e.g. by unreasonably finding fault, making exorbitant demands, or refusing to give proper help, &c.

lân-tô, cannot escape (v. tò). oán-súi lân-kiù kün-hé, distant water cannot help a fire close at hand. ka-chék lân-hông, it is hard or impossible to guard against a thief in the household. it-gièn hông-chhut, sù-má lân-tui, four horses cannot catch back a word once spoken. lân-tek (R.), difficult to get.

úi-jin lân, it is hard to please every one. chhióng-hé lân, but it is the setting loose a tiger that is the trouble (v. hó). khì-tò líóng-lân, in a sad dilemma, feeling unable to go on or draw back. chìn-thè líóng-lân (= thòe), id. pah-poa<sup>n</sup>, khí-thâu lân, all things are difficult at the beginning. chhùn-pě lân-hêng, walking slowly and with difficulty.

lân (R. lêng). lân-kan, a railing; a balustrade. sa-lân, the railing outside the gate of a yamun. sa-lân-goá, outside the yamun railings.

lân (same as above?). lân-kan, a sort of lace, edging, or border.

lân [R. lám, south]. lân-thân, plays in the Swatow or Chau-chau dialect.

lân (R. lêng), a small remainder or excess; over and above; odd in number; a word used in speaking equivalent to a cypher in writing. lân-chhùi, miscellaneous; retail, not wholesale. lân-san, in small quantities. lân-san-bòe, to sell in small quantities; to sell by retail. lân-san-bah, an excrescence on the body, e.g. a superfluous finger. lân-san-gún, a few dollars (less than ten). ài-kóng láng lân-san-òe, fond of raking up old stories about people's bad actions.

chit-pah lân-káu, 109. sa<sup>n</sup>-phè-lân, above 30 lí. lák-tsáp-lân n<sup>i</sup>, rather more than 60 years.

lân [R. lêng, lêng, to cut], (esp. C.), to pull off the leaves of sugar-cane; also (C.), to take off superfluous leaves or twigs. lân chia-háh, to cut off the outer leaves of sugar-cane. lân-koá khi--lái, to remove a few, as leaves or twigs.

lân (R. lín), a scale, as of a fish. hí-lân, fish-scales. sáu-lân, to scrape off scales. phah-lân, id.

lân (T.) = A. lêng, a small bell, &c. bé-lân (A. T.), = bé-long, sort of bells worn by horses. hâm-lân (T.), id.

lân (= ná<sup>n</sup>), (Cn. lín), like; similar to. lân-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

lân [R. id., = col. láí, noá<sup>n</sup>, noá<sup>n</sup>]. lân-lân, spiritless; without purpose or energy. lân-tô, lazy. lân-thán, indisposed to take trouble. iá-lân, quite tired, wearied, and exhausted.

lân (= lién). péng ka-lân-phak, to invert, as a cup lân, you and I; you and we; we, including the person or persons spoken to; sometimes may refer to "you" alone, as a polite form of expression, but rarely, if ever, to the first person alone (in Cn. "lân" and "lín" change places). lân-lâng, you and I; you and we. lân-tau, our house.

lân (R. id.) chhàn-lân, brilliant; splendid; dazzlingly bright.

lân [R. id., by change of tone from "lân," pain; suffering]. tsai-lân, great calamity or affliction. khé-lân, great misery. kiù-khé kiù-lân, to save from misery and calamity. hoân-lân (r.), to meet with or suffer calamity; calamity. tso-lân, to meet

澗

纜

蘭

趺

蘭

難

南

鱗

懶

咱

爛

難

with calamity. pī-lān (r), to avoid calamity tō-lān, to flee from calamity.

lān (R. lín), the male organs, especially the penis. lān-chiáu, the penis (much used in vile scolding). lān-pha, the scrotum. lān-hút, the testes. iá-lān, said in coarse scolding of a man who wishes far too great gain in trade. hiēn-lān, so short as to show the secret parts, as a coat. thng-khè-lān, not wearing trowsers; naked below the waist, as child or fisherman.

lang — khui thê-lang, to make or have a deep pit with a narrow mouth, for catching animals or men, or for hiding goods. khui-lang, id. khui-hām khui-lang, id., for catching animals, &c.

lang — koh-ē-lang, = koh-ē-khang, the arm-pits.

lang (C.) lang-á, a narrow valley. soa<sup>n</sup>-lang, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-lang-á, id. khe<sup>n</sup>-lang-á, id.

lang (cf. long; to run away). lang--khì, to steal, as small things.

lang (more usually "long"). hoah-lê-lang, an auction.

lang — chhi<sup>n</sup>-lang-lang, brightly green, as verdant fields or foliage.

lang — pa-lang-hî, a small fish like trout.

lang (C.) hóe-lang, = A. hé-thang, a small hand-stove in a basket.

láng (R. jìn), a man; a person; people; other persons, as opposed to one's self; one's own body; often used indefinitely, like the German "man," French "on," or English "they," or untranslated in phrases which we would express by the passive, as láng-kóng, it is said. hē-lang-phah, to be struck. thâi-láng, to kill people; to kill. chioh--láng, to lend money. pāk--láng tsng-hi, to apprentice (one's boy) to actors for a number of years. cheng-láng, all people; every one. ok--láng, to behave in a proud overbearing way.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-láng, filthy.

tiū<sup>n</sup>-láng, wife's father. koa<sup>n</sup>-láng, master of female slave. koa<sup>n</sup>--láng, mandarins in general (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). toá-láng, a married man; a grown-up man; also (C.), a Kujin graduate. túg-toá-láng, to become a full-grown man. toá--láng ê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, son of the legal wife, opposed to sons of secondary wives. chiá<sup>n</sup>-láng, to get married (v. chiá<sup>n</sup>).

lâng-kheh, a guest; a visitor. kheh-láng, a Hakka. tng-láng, a Chinaman. êng-láng, a man who has no connection with the affair. sin-láng, a newly-arrived man (said in joke). thih-láng, a man not afraid of anything, who can stand all weathers, or daring and dangerous. lám-láng, a man who has no powerful relatives to back him. nú<sup>n</sup>-láng (C.), id. chng-láng-thâu, you clown!

láng-bé, persons in general. láng-kang, a coolie; a porter; a labourer.

chháu-láng, a scarecrow.

m-si-láng, a bad man; inhuman or vicious. i kap-láng bô-chhin-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, he has a bad disposition (not like others). i-ê-láng kiau-gē, his manner or bearing is proud. tsòe-láng, to behave; to behave kindly; behaviour. tsòe-láng-hó, to behave kindly or well. tsòe-láng-phái<sup>n</sup>, to behave wickedly or cruelly. gâu-tsòe-láng, kind and hospitable; treating others well. tsòe-láng-ŋg, to act imperiously or overbearingly. tsòe-láng-gók, id. (v. gók). bák-kim, chí<sup>n</sup> tsòe-láng, at present it is wealth that is valued in a man.

láng-khì, the strong odour or warmth of a crowd;

the influence of a number of persons in restraining demons. láng-huih, human blood (s. matter). láng-hêng, the form of a man.

láng m-ài, unwell; indisposed. láng m-tsai, insensible, as in a swoon, or from a fall, &c.; also, people do not know. hó-láng, in good health; also, a good man. láng lóng-iá, in very weak health; also, all the people are tired. láng tiòh-lòh-hái, get into the water yourself! (said to a boatman who is making ineffectual attempts to effect the object without going out of the boat); or, the people should go into the sea.

láng [R. thiông, a reptile, = col. thàng]. siēn-láng, a lizard, = C. sîn-thàng. sîn-láng (T.), id.

láng [R. lóng, deaf]. chhàu-hi-láng, deaf. chhàu-láng, id.

láng, to pierce or stab with a sort of indirect thrust, moving the point round after it is inserted.

láng [R. liông, sort of mill]. thê-láng, a machine like a mill worked by hand, for removing the husk from grain. oe thê-láng, to work it. oe-láng, id. thê-láng-khí, its teeth, of hard wood. thê-láng-ê, the lower half of it. thê-láng-hi, the projection on the edge of the upper half, with a hole for the hook. thê-láng-kau, the hook by which it is worked.

hái-láng-kau, a sea-bird with a long bill (like the hook) and a shrill cry.

láng [R. lóng, = col. lóng], a cage. koe-láng, a cage or coop for hens; Kelung, in Formosa. koe-láng-soa<sup>n</sup>, a hill shaped (conical) like a hen-coop, as at Kelung, and one near Anhái. chiáu-láng, a bird-cage. chiáu-táh-láng, a trap for birds, made to fall on them. táh-tùi-láng, do. for birds or beasts.

láng-sng, a frame for cooking by steam (v. sng). bé-láng-thâu, = lóng-thâu, a horse's head-stall. bé-láng-soh, the rope fastening it on the horse's head.

láng (R. lóng), matter from a sore; pus. láng-huih, matter and blood mixed (v. huih), (s. man). si<sup>n</sup>-láng, to suppurate. chhut-láng, to emit matter, as a boil. pū-láng, to come to a head, as a boil. hùn-láng, to begin to gather matter, before it comes to a head. koán-láng, matter forming and filling up. tiū<sup>n</sup>-láng, to be full of matter, as boil about ripe. ūn-láng, to suppurate again in a new place. khê-láng (C.), matter forming, not yet ripe.

láng [R. lóng, clear]. bêng-láng, distinct, clear, as a sound, or as meaning.

láng — áng-láng, stupid, sour-tempered, or obstinately dull (v. áng).

láng [R. lóng, a cage, a basket, = col. lóng], a basket; a wicker-work trunk. kim-láng, a tall cylindrical basket for holding idolatrous paper. jī-tsoá-láng, basket for collecting printed or written paper. hi-láng, trunks for actor's dresses. ka-lé-láng, trunks for carrying puppets. láng-tsú, the man who hires out a company of actors.

iū-láng, a wicker-work oil-jar, made tight by oiled paper. tê-láng, a water-proof tea-basket. pí<sup>n</sup>-láng, a flat wicker-work trunk. bih-láng, a wicker-work trunk. tsu-láng, a basket or wicker-work trunk for books. hé-sit-láng, a small basket used by travellers for carrying some provisions. thih-láng, an iron cage. siu<sup>n</sup>-láng, boxes and baskets.

láng-pe, a wicker frame used in cooking by steam. láng-kng, a large wicker frame-work on poles for carrying many things (v. kng).

òh poà<sup>n</sup>-láng-bí, to learn a thing only half (v. poà<sup>n</sup>).

屙打

空

籠人

虫籠耳

籠石

籠

膿

朗

籠

láng (cf. lóng), to put together loosely, as the staves of a bucket before fixing them; to hold up with the hand, as trowsers legs, to keep them out of the mud; to help in carrying a sedan, as a third bearer does. tàu-láng, to assist in lifting or carrying a sedan.

tsóng-láng, to sum up in a rough general way. láng-khoà, to make a rough calculation (esp. mentally) of the sum total.

láng chit-ê-phe, to make a beginning of a matter to be afterwards carried out. seng-láng, to put together loosely before fastening firmly together. láng tsòe-chit-tui, to put together loosely, either merely temporarily, or to be afterwards fastened firmly. láng tsòe-pú, id.

láng-khè, outer trowsers or overalls, worn especially by boatmen (v. khè).

láng khè-kha, to hold up the legs of trowsers with the hand.

tà-láng-sáng (T.), doing things very carelessly.

láng (cf. lóng, lang, lām), (T. lāng), to leave a space. láng-khui, to move out a little from the land, as a boat. bô-láng-chit-jit, without intermitting one single day. láng-khang, to leave an empty space. láng-phāng, to leave a space, as in writing; to take the opportunity to make off (v. phāng). soe-láng, of loose texture, as cloth; set well apart, as trees, houses, or characters. soe-láng-soe-láng, id. láng-hūn, clouds scattering and clear sky appearing. khah-làng-hong, having a good free circulation of air, or more free circulation, e.g. dressing loosely, or piling sheaves, &c., so as to let the air circulate, or as house with plenty of openings.

láng (C.), = A. lèng, to kick.

láng (cf. lāng). pê lāng-lāng, the threads of the cloth too far apart or irregular. pê lāng-li lāng-li, id. lāng-lô lāng-lô (T.), id. lāng-thang, loose in texture, as gauze, &c. (v. thang). thiau-lāng, airy, as a room; having plenty of space between, as houses, trees, characters, &c. ki-kut thiau-lāng, limbs well-formed and graceful. kha-chhiú thiau-lāng, id.; also, walking gracefully. bák-sin oah-tāng, ki-kut thiau-lāng, eyes full of fire and intelligence, and limbs graceful.

lāng-toā, to pull up the rudder, as in shallow water. chia khah-lāng, hoist the sail a little higher. lāng-hoe, to flower, as grain or grass.

lāng (T.), = A. lāng.

lāng (R. lōng), to brandish; to gesticulate, especially so as to make sport, as a fool.

lāng-hiám, to run a risk; to venture. lāng-hiám-tsòe, id.

lāng-gin, to speak or act so as to make a man feel displeased or disgusted (v. gin). lāng-gūn (Cn.), id. hi-lāng, to make improper gestures or lewd talk, as man with woman or depraved boys. lāng-i-chhiò, to sport so as to make him laugh. pi<sup>n</sup>-lāng, to annoy, cause trouble, or work mischief, as man; to amuse itself with toys, as child. hō-i pi<sup>n</sup>-lāng, give it some toys to amuse itself. pi<sup>n</sup>-káu-lāng, to work sleight of hand; legerdemain.

bú-lāng, to practise gymnastics or fencing; to gesticulate with arms and legs. bú-bú lāng-lāng, id. lāng-sit, to shake its wings, as a fowl. lāng-sai, to act the artificial lion, in an idolatrous procession. lāng-to lāng-kiám, to brandish swords. lāng chi<sup>n</sup>-kê, to play the tambourine. lāng nā<sup>n</sup>-poah, to play with cymbals. lāng-láu, do., as Buddhist priest.

lāng koái<sup>n</sup>-á-hoe, flourishing his stick in delight, as a beggar.

lāng — tī-lāng, a cylindrical vessel for holding chop-sticks.

lāng (C.) hê-lāng, a sort of basket-work trap for shrimps, set in fresh water.

lāng [R. hāng, the neck; a sort]. tāu-lāng, the lower part of a pig's neck (v. tāu).

lap (cf. chhap), to mix or shuffle, as cards. chhap-lap, to meddle; to associate promiscuously and rather improperly (v. chhap). lap-lai lap-khi, to carry on trade with little capital of our own, by constant borrowing and paying. lap pāi-á, to shuffle cards.

lap — lap-sap, dirty, as things or conduct.

lap [R. thap, depressed; to sink down, = col. nah<sup>n</sup>], concave; to sink, so as to make depressions or holes; to become concave; to step unintentionally into a hole; to fall into danger or a trap or evil, or to delude another into it; to trample or kick with the sole of the foot.

thap-thap lap-lap, sunk or fallen in, as a road that once was level, or a bad roof, or as an old hat. lap--lôh-lái, to become thus flattened, dented, or depressed. lap-tóe, having the bottom fallen out, as a basket. lap-phi<sup>n</sup>, having lost one's nose by disease. lap-u, concave, as a hole or a depression; situation (as of a house) too low, lower than the surrounding ground. lap-o, id. lap-khut, sunk into depressions, as floor, road, or ground.

lap-kháp, matters all going wrong. lap-pún, to lose money in trade. lap-lién (C.), to lose character, influence, or prestige.

lap-tsúi, to step unintentionally into water. lap-pê, to take a step down, as into a hole, or down a step. lām-sám-lap, to step about awkwardly or incautiously, as in the dark; to walk carelessly, so as to soil one's shoes, or dirty something with our shoes. lap--lôh-khi, to step unintentionally into a hole, or fall into a snare or plot. lap--lāng, to ensnare an unsuspecting man into danger or evil; also, to kick a man with the sole.

lap-tui, to work a rice-mortar with the foot. lap-bêh (T. C.), to pound barley in a mortar (worked by the foot) to remove the awn. lap kiám-chhài, to tread salted mustard-leaves till solid. lap--sí, to trample to death. lap-tiòh-lāng, to step unintentionally on a man's foot, as in the dark or in a crowd.

lap [R. to sew or stitch together; to patch], (T. lah). lap ôe-tóe, to sew the several parts of a shoe sole into one piece, ready for the uppers. lap bêh-tóe, to stitch the thick stiff sole of a Chinese stocking into one piece, ready to be sewed on the leg. lap-tóe, having such thick soles, as Chinese stockings.

lap [R. to receive; to pay]. chiap-lap, to receive, as a person. kám-lap, to receive and accept (an offering), as a god or spirit does. ôe-siau-lap, able to digest.

oân-lap, to pay in full any taxes, dues, &c. koan-lap, to pay for a title of rank. lap-kám, to buy the title of kám-seng. lap-kông, to pay tribute. lap-hiông, to pay customs' dues. lap chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to pay land-tax. lap-sè, to pay rent.

lap — lap-lap-háu, sound of eating (imitation of the sound?).

lap [R. mixed; confused, = col. lah]. lap-tsáp-tsáp (C.), mixed in confusion. lap-lap tsáp-tsáp (C.), id.

lát (R. lek). lát-chí, chestnuts. lát-chí-chhiú, the chestnut-tree.

項

塌

袖

納

栗

拈弄

lăt, a knife-shaped fish (about ten inches long) full of small bones (edible, but said to cause boils or itch!). lăt-á-lêng, fine nets for catching them.

lăt [R. lək, but the character is unauthorized], sit-lăt, Singapore. sit-lăt-pho, id.

lăt (C.) lăt-păt, = nà-á-poát, the guava.

lăt (R. lək). lí-lăt, scrofulous sores on the neck. bí-lăt, id.

lăt (R. lək), strength. lăt-thâu, id. lăt-chháu, id. khùi-lăt, id. súg-khùi tióh-lăt, causing or requiring a great deal of toil or trouble.

tióh-lăt, to have to exert one's self very much (v. tióh). ēng-lăt, to exert one's self. chin-lăt, to exert strength to the utmost. ti<sup>n</sup>-lăt, to collect one's strength for some great effort, as a lift or strain. hó-lăt, to unite strength in one effort. kek-lăt, to clench the hands, as a child, or as a boxer preparing to strike. ū-lăt, strong; powerful; when said of a medicine it refers to the nature of the substance, not to the strength of the dose or mixture. chhia-lăt (better, chiáh-lăt), requiring much exertion, as a matter in a critical or urgent state. hoat-lăt, to show anger, as by loud voice, by striking the table, or by gesticulation. lé-lăt, thank you! (v. lé). chhut-lăt, to exert one's self. chhut-sí-lăt-phah, to make a very violent attack, striking very violently. toá-lăt-púih, to pull out or up with great force.

chiáh hit-ki ê-lăt, to rest on that large beam, as the rafters, &c., do. pí<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup> chiáh-lăt, each equally bearing the strain, as two ropes or two supports.

pē-bú-lăt, one's natural strength of body. i-ê pē-bú-lăt khah-toá, he is naturally stronger in body. chin-bú-lăt, to exert all one's physical strength. chiáh-ní<sup>n</sup>-lăt soá-chhut, id.

lăt-siù<sup>n</sup>, energetic, active, diligent at work. chheng-kun-lăt, a thousand pounds of strength. chhi<sup>n</sup>-lăt-peng, fresh troops.

lau (cf. làu, láu), to get secret information out of a man by talking of a matter as if we knew all about it, or by taking him at unawares. lau--chhut-lái, id. lau-i-kóng, id. lau--làng, id.; also, to get a thing fraudulently by pretending to be commissioned by the owner.

lau (reduplication of pau). pau-lau, to wrap up. láu [R. liú, a tumour or wen], a swelling on the head such as is made by a blow. thâu-láu-á, small boils on child's head. hong-láu, a sort of swelling which subsides of itself without suppurating. phah chit-láu, to strike on the head so as to cause a swelling.

láu — au-láu, ugly and fat, as face (v. au). láu-sióng, slovenly, as person or room.

láu (R. liú), a surname.

láu (C.) ka-láu-pa, = ka-lá-pa, Java (said to be from a Javanese word).

láu [R. náu<sup>n</sup>, cymbals, = col. náu<sup>n</sup>]. làng-láu, to play with cymbals, as Buddhist priests. láu-poáh (C. T.), = A. náu<sup>n</sup>-poáh, cymbals.

láu (R. liú), to detain; to remain over; to keep; to detain forcibly, as in a feud, or for debt; to allow to grow, as beard or queue. láu-khng--teh, to keep over, as a part of anything. láu ti-thâu, to set apart a pig's head to be used as an offering.

láu-i-toá, get him to stay longer.

láu chhui-chhui, to grow a beard; to have a beard. láu thâu-tsang, to cultivate a queue, i.e. letting it grow while the rest of the head is shaved. láu tsoân-hoat, to let the whole of one's hair grow long, as women.

láu bin-phê, to keep one's respectability by avoiding shameful actions. bô-láu-liông, to go to too great an extreme (v. liông). láu tõe-pê, to leave one's self some plan or force yet unused, to be ready for an emergency (v. pê). bô-láu ũ-tõe, to put a man too much to shame, as by severe scolding before others (v. ũ).

láu (R. ló), a tower; a house with an upper story; an upper story, esp. with more than one room. láu-koh, upper stories in general (v. koh). poá<sup>n</sup>-láu, a small garret; a small low second story carried only half across the room. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsàn-láu, a third floor; a house of three stories, &c. soe-tsng-láu, upper room for women. chiú-láu, a drinking room in a tavern. bé-láu, sort of platform or cabin at stern of junk. tsáu-bé-láu, the space round the central opening in the upper floor of a large Chinese house; an upper verandah.

láu-thui, a ladder (v. thui). láu-chí<sup>n</sup>, an opening for a trap-door. láu-pang, the floor of an upper story. láu-ē, downstairs; the ground-floor. láu-kha, id. láu-téng, upstairs; the upper story. láu-bé-téng, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-láu, to go upstairs. khí-láu, to build a house or tower of more than one story. ū-láu, to have an upper story.

siá<sup>n</sup>-láu, tower at a city gate. siá<sup>n</sup>-mŋg-láu, id. ki<sup>n</sup>-láu, a watch-tower, as at entrance of village or at boundary of clans. ké-láu, a large tower within a city; a drum-tower. chhái-láu, an ornamented temporary pagoda (v. chhái). pat-koá-láu, octagonal tower, gen. connected with a temple. thê-láu, a very large house with many stories, built of earth mixed with lime (often made like a fort).

láu (R. liú), to flow; the tide; to carry away, as a stream or tide; the current of a stream or of the tide. khoe-láu, the current of the river. lâm-láu, the flood-tide from the south, as at Amoy. bô-láu, there is no tide. láu teh-kiá<sup>n</sup>, there is tide, either ebb or flood. khó-láu, ebb-tide. khó-láu-thâu, the first of ebb. láu-thâu, the first of the tide, esp. of ebb. tng-láu-thâu, the first of flood. láu-tsúi, the tide. hó-láu-tsúi, a favourable tide. toá-láu-tsúi, spring-tides. sió-láu-tsúi, neap-tides. hù-láu-tsúi, to be in time for the tide. koá<sup>n</sup> láu-tsúi, hastening to catch the tide. bô-láu bô-tsúi, unsuitable tide. tu-láu, to sail against the tide. lím-láu, close on the time of tide, so that no time should be lost. iú-hong, put-phá<sup>n</sup>-láu, having the wind we don't fear the tide (said figuratively).

m-sí láu-pái, not suitable time for doing something (v. pái).

pun-láu, the tide or current divided, as by an island, &c. tò-pūn-láu, tide broken by rocks and eddying. láu-pūn, id. tò-ká-láu, id. hàng-láu, id. hoan-láu, a back current of the tide, as in a side channel.

láu-kòe, debris floating on the tide.

tsúi-láu phoá-pê, said of a man negligent and dilatory about what has been intrusted to him (like floating rags). tsúi láu-làng, flood drowns and carries away people. láu-sí-làng, id.

láu-lóh, having no relative or friend on whom we can lean; to flow down.

tí<sup>n</sup> láu-láu, full and overflowing, as a liquid.

láu-koá<sup>n</sup>, to perspire (v. koá<sup>n</sup>). láu-huih, to bleed (neuter); to lose blood. láu-làng, to have matter flowing out. láu-phí<sup>n</sup>, the nose running. láu bák-sái, to weep (v. sái).

láu [R. ló, old, skilful, = col. láu, lauh, niáu], spoiled,

叻
瀝
力

樓

流

瘤

劉
响
田 鏡 印
田

老

or almost spoiled by keeping, as fruit or vegetables; to talk with fluency, as a different dialect or language; experienced, as at work. láu-pún, skilful from long experience. láu-liên, practised, experienced. sék láu-láu, id. chin-láu-chhiú, very skilful, as at fine workmanship, or at literary work. khah-láu-chhiú, id. láu chiá<sup>n</sup>-jī, to talk mandarin with fluency. láu khiú<sup>n</sup>-kháu, to be able to talk a dialect. láu-khi-sék, talk it (another language) till you get fluency.

láu-sit, honest, faithful.

láu-chiàng, a trained soldier. láu-hoân, a prisoner who has been some years in prison.

tsau-láu, worn out and spoiled.

láu (cf. lau, làu), to swindle; to get things by deceit, as by pretending to have an order from the owner; to cheat, as by false jewels or bad silver. láu-piên-siet, to deceive and defraud in all ways.

láu-á, a thief. láu-á-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the third finger. toā-láu-koan, a great plausible swindler. toā-láu kong-kùn, a great rogue and swindler. láu-kong-kùn, id.

láu — láu-tiòh, to sprain or overstrain one's self by too great or too rapid exertion. láu-tiòh-kun, id.

láu (= náu<sup>n</sup>). láu-thâu tsūn-ām, to shake about or bend one's neck, as an impudent or disobedient child.

hiong-pa lí-láu, very ugly, as a painted face, or as very bad writing.

láu — pa-lun pa-láu, to bolt one's food; to talk of a matter indistinctly (v. lun). ka-láu ka-lé, to talk of a matter indistinctly, either intentionally, or as a lad who does not know how to speak about matters.

láu (a mere reduplication). áu-láu, to crumple up. káu-láu, very thick.

láu [R. ló, name of a fish]. pa-láu-hí, a sort of fish (edible). poa-láu-hí (C.), id.

láu (R. ló). láu-hiòh, siri or betel leaf. láu-hiòh-chí, betel-nut. tsúi-láu (P.), a water-plant with a leaf very like betel-leaf.

láu [R. liáu, name of a plant]. láu-hoe, a brittle confection made of sugar, rice, &c. moá<sup>n</sup>-láu, a similar confection made with hemp-seed. bí-láu, a confection.

láu (= náu<sup>n</sup>, cf. láu<sup>n</sup>). àu-láu, displeased, vexed, or angry feeling.

láu [R. lók, to fall, = col. lóh, lok, lak, lauh], to shed or let fall off, as leaves or scabs; to open out of itself, as a knot or joint; to run before the wind; to have diarrhoea and such diseases.

láu-hiòh, to shed leaves in great abundance. láu-phí, scab (of small-pox) falling off.

sún-teng láu-tsái, to lose male children or nephews, &c., and also lose money.

láu-sún, joints opening out and getting loose, in furniture. khún--khi láu-láu, you have tied it far too loose, so that it opens out of itself. láu-hūn (Cn.), the clouds opening and dispersing.

láu-tsún, to run before the wind, as a vessel. láu-lám-hong, to run with a fair south wind.

láu-pak, diarrhoea. láu-siá, id. láu-thè, purging and vomiting; cholera. thè-láu, id. áu-láu (C.), id. láu toā-tng-thâu, internal piles protruding at time of stool. láu-the, to have a miscarriage (said only of quadrupeds). láu--khi, id.

láu — khah-láu-bák, having very long joints, as bamboo or sugar-cane. ū-láu-bák, not knotty, as wood; knots far apart.

láu [R. ló, old; skilful, = col. lāu, láu]. sék láu- láu, well skilled; well acquainted with, as with road or with work.

láu (cf. lau, láu), to inveigle; to get a secret out of a man in some way; to lead a man into danger by deceitful promises. chhòng chit-kù-ōe lái-láu-i, say something to him so as to draw out from him what he wished to keep secret. láu-i-kóng, id.

láu [R. noise or confusion, as of a crowd, = náu<sup>n</sup>]. láu-jiét, crowded; bustling (v. jiét). láu-joáh, id. láu-tōng, much noise and confusion, as of a crowd.

chháu-láu, to make an uproar of set purpose; to cause confusion and trouble. jióng-láu, id. láu-tāi, to make a great noise of music just before a play, esp. in mandarin colloquial play. láu kong-tng, to make a great noise or disturbance in a mandarin's court so as to get him to attend (in an irregular way) to some case of murder or violence.

láu-sū, to raise troubles by improper conduct.

láu [R. lō, ulcers or scrofulous sores]. eng-láu, fistula. kan-láu, venereal ulcers. kan-im-láu, id. si<sup>n</sup>-chng phah-láu, to have such venereal diseases.

láu (R. lō), to leak out; to filter, as sugar; to steal a small quantity out of a large quantity, so that it may not be observed; (to smuggle); a funnel or filter.

láu-á, a small funnel. chiú-láu, a funnel for pouring liquor. iú-láu, a funnel for pouring oil. tê-láu, a small strainer hung from the mouth of a tea-pot for straining the tea as it is poured out. bí-láu, a square box with a funnel, used in a machine for cleaning rice. thng-láu, a conical vessel for refining sugar.

láu-thng, to filter sugar in refining it.

láu-thng, to have juice oozing out, as crushed or rotten fruit. siám-láu, to leak a little or ooze out. tiám-láu, to leak seriously so as to cause much damage. ū-láu, it leaks. liáh-láu, to examine (e.g. a roof) to find and stop the leaks. that-láu, to stop a leak; to caulk.

láu-siet, to let out, as a secret (v. siet). láu-hong, id. úi-láu (R.), to omit, as an item in an account.

thau-láu, to steal things, either larger or as in very small quantities, so that they may not be missed, as an employé. bō-thau bō-láu, not stealing in either way. láu-hiòng, to smuggle. láu-sè, id.

láu [R. ló, = col. láu, làu, lauh], old; aged; also (P.), to die. láu-tsau, worn-out and useless, as old shoe. chháu-láu, appearing much older than he really is. láu ngiauh-ngiauh, old and worn out, as feeble old man. lâng kōe-láu, man soon grows old (v. kōe). láu-hì, plays in colloquial, played by grown-up men (v. hì).

láu-pún, dowager portion. tiu<sup>n</sup>-láu, to prepare (while alive) clothes, &c., to put on when buried (v. tiu<sup>n</sup>). láu--khi (P.), to die.

láu-toā, an elder or head-man in a place. thài-láu, title of the father of a graduate or mandarin. láu-tia (Cn. T.), = A. ló-tia, a mandarin.

láu-hè, aged (v. hè). ní<sup>n</sup> láu, id. láu-pē, father. láu-bú, mother. láu-sē (T.), father, in some phrases. láu-ūn, last part of an old man's life. láu-lâng, an old man. láu-lâng chiá<sup>n</sup> sòe-kiá<sup>n</sup>, old man in second childhood. láu-put-siu, you old wretch!

láu — láu-hàu, a sort of large nutmeg (v. hàu). láu (= láh). láu-múi<sup>n</sup>, the yellow sort of the flower múi<sup>n</sup>-hoc.

láu<sup>n</sup> [R. ló, angry; displeased, = col. náu<sup>n</sup>; cf. làu, náu<sup>n</sup>]. àu-láu<sup>n</sup>, vexed angry feeling.

鬧

痛

啍

鮫
老
葵

落

老

老流

豈
惱

老落

絡

雞

璃初

麗

芽螺

麗初

láu<sup>n</sup>, = ná<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)
lauh [R. ló, old, = col. lāu, láu]. ké-lauh-phauh, ancient; old-fashioned (v. ké).

lauh [R. lók, to fall, = col. lób, lok, lak, làu]. ka-lauh, to fall, as things. phah-ka-lauh, to let fall. sa<sup>n</sup> ka-lauh, si tiòh-poáh, all going wrong. ka-lauh-jí, to omit a word or more by mistake, in writing. ka-lauh chit-jí, do., one word. ka-lauh-the, to have an abortion. ka-lauh-sin, id.

lauh<sup>n</sup> — i<sup>n</sup>-lauh<sup>n</sup> i<sup>n</sup>-lauh<sup>n</sup>, fat and plump, as face.

le (C. nē<sup>n</sup>). kun-le (C. kin-ne<sup>n</sup>), small branching sinews or nerves. lā kun-le, to make roundabout inquiries to find the real truth of a matter.

le (C.) o-le, words used in beginning to say something.

le (Cn.) chhiáng-ke-le, to hop, as a child.

le (T.), = A. la, light amusement, &c. (cf. lé, là). le-le, having much leisure and full of fun. chit-jit le-le-le, having nothing to do all day but to amuse one's self. le kàu-phah-tsoah, much too jolly.

le (C.), = A. la. li-li le-le, prattle of children.

le (T.), = léh, lō. oá<sup>n</sup>-ke-le, the bottom of a broken bowl (v. kō).

lê — hoah-lê-long, an auction. hoah-lê-lang, id.

lê (C. lê), to talk long without stopping, especially in defending one's self, saying that all was quite right. lê-lê-háu, id. chin-gâu-lê, very fond of talking so. li-bú li-lê, talking on far too much.

lê (cf. la, le). phah lê-á, to chatter; to talk empty foolish stories and jokes; to talk idly instead of working. chhùi ná<sup>n</sup>-phah-lê-á, id.

lê — lê-á, the small rings in the front of a baby's chair. phah-lê-á, to make them turn by striking them to amuse the child. pa-lê, metal rings with small balls inside, shaken at idolatrous processions to make a jingling noise.

lê (R. lí). po-lê, glass.

lê (C.), = A. lôe, to bend down the head and rush on.

lê [R. a plough, = col. lôe]; also (C.), = A. lôe, a plough; to plough. lê-khiā-chiā<sup>n</sup> (C.), the upright stick of a plough.

i-lê, the province of Ili in Turkestan, on the N.W. borders of the Chinese empire.

lê, very thin; tearing easily, as cloth. sán lê-lê, id.

lê (T. lō). e-lê, troublesome and fractious, especially of a fretful child (v. e.)

lê [R. lê, elegant; excellent]. ko-lê, Corea, = tiâu-siēn. ko-lê-chhài, cabbage.

lê [R. name of a plant]. chit-lê, a thorny medicinal plant (Tribulus?). chék-lê (Cn.), id.

lê [R. têng, the dragon-fly]. pē-lê, the largest kind of dragon-fly. pók-lê (C.), id. toā-lê (C.), the cicada, = am-pē-ché.

lê [R. gā, a sprout, = col. gē]. béh-lê-ko, a sort of thick glutinous syrup.

lê (=lê), to prune off small twigs.

lê [R. lô, a snail or univalve, = col. lô], (Cn. lō), a snail; any spiral univalve shell-fish; a spiral. lê-á, a snail or univalve. lê-khak, its shell. lê-phí, white inner layer of the shell (v. phí). lê-tì, the cover of the mouth of the shell. lê-hék, dried flesh of such shell-fish. lê-phien, a slice of it.

kúg-lê-hong, a whirlwind (v. kúg). ká-lê-hong (C.), id. ké-lê-hong (C.), id. séh bé-lê, to put off settling a matter, &c. (v. séh). in kè-á-lê, to make the queue into a knot at the back of the head (v. kè). lê-si-teng (C.), = A. ló-si-teng, a screw-nail.

chhân-lê, field snails. lê-lê, snails. ka-tia<sup>n</sup>-lê, a yellow sort of univalve. tek-lê, a long tapering sort. hoe-lê, a variegated sort. iū-lê, a glossy blackish-gray sort. ōng-lê, a large good sort. béh-lê, a small sort. tsu-lê, bah-lê, chiòh-lê, ka-tsui-lê, &c., various other sorts.

lé [R. lúi, to injure, as in fight], (Cn. lō). ka-lé-hi, puppet-shows. ka-lé-láng, trunks for carrying them. ka-lé-koán, house where men live who exhibit puppet-shows. ka-lé-hók, dresses for puppets. ka-lé-chhák, hard fighting hand to hand, with cutting and slashing, &c. ka-lé-kha, having the feet much turned outwards; also, a double angle (both right angles) in opposite directions in a moulding, as where a higher house is joined to a lower, or where a door in a wall is higher than the rest of the wall. poa<sup>n</sup> ka-lé, to play or have a puppet-show. thiu ka-lé, to pull the strings of the puppets. tiâu-ka-lé, to commit suicide by hanging. tiâu-ka-lé--sí, id.

lé (T. lō). ka-láu ka-lé, to talk indistinctly about a matter (v. láu).

lé (C.) hó-lé-á, take care!

lé (C.), = A. lóe, né (mother). niū<sup>n</sup>-lé (C.), mother.

lé (C.), = A. lóe, to scold; to revile.

lé [R. ló, old, = col. lāu, láu]. lé-chhí (C.), = A. niáu-chhú, a rat.

lé (C.) lé-khang, to make a hole.

lé — pa-lé, a padre; imitation of the Spanish word. lū-sòng pa-lé (Cn.), said of an overbearing domineering man, who is always correcting others, but won't take correction himself (lit. a Manila padre). lū-sòng pa-lé, kong-ka-kī-tō (Cn.), id.

lé (R. id.), ceremony; propriety; politeness; a fee; a small present. ū-lé, polite. bō-lé, unpolite; unbecoming. bō-háp-lé, id. hó-lé, politeness. lé-lē, politeness; proper ceremonies; a ceremonial present on any occasion. chit--ê lé-lē, a suitable present for the occasion. kap--i kiā<sup>n</sup> lé-lē, to perform the proper ceremonies, or give the fitting present to him. sàng lé-gí, to make the customary presents at betrothal. lé-sò, ceremony; politeness (v. sò). lé-māu<sup>n</sup>, polite deportment; to treat with respect (v. māu<sup>n</sup>). lé-pài, ceremonial worship; a week (v. pài).

lé-pō, the Board of Rites; the President of it. lé-ki, the Book of Rites. chiu-lé, the book of the rites of the Chow dynasty. lé-seng, the master of ceremonies in solemn rites, e.g. funerals, great rites of ancestral worship, &c. chhiang-lé, to call out (as he does) what is to be done at each rite. lé-thiap, a document sent along with the presents at betrothal, stating the presents (v. thiap). lé-hók, ceremonial dress. lé-pân (Cn.), a wine-jug used at ancestral rites, &c.

chit-tsoā-lé, one ceremonial visit. chit-hong-lé, money wrapped in paper, and given to a teacher or doctor. chit-pau-lé, id. pau-lé hō--i, wrap up a fee and give it him.

seng-lé, offerings of flesh made to idols or spirits. chiū-lé, offerings of liquor thus made. sóe-lé (X.), baptism.

chhe-lé, fee given to constables when they serve a warrant. ka<sup>n</sup>-lé, fee to jailer. phèng-lé, money and other presents sent by bridegroom's parents to bride's parents. siā-lé, a small reward for trouble to a friend. sai-kong-lé, fee of a Taoist priest. tióng-lâng-lé, commission paid to the middleman, as in buying house or land. hūn-lâng-lé, fee paid to the go-between in a marriage. tê-lé, a small present given on getting a cup of tea, as to a priest, or as to new-married bride.

佃

禮

sit-lé, to make a mistake in regard to politeness; to fail in politeness; I beg your pardon for my rudeness. bô-khu-lé, not standing on ceremony. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lé, to salute; to perform a ceremony. hōe-lé, to return a ceremony or ceremonial call. tap-lé, to make a present, or do a ceremony in return for the like. tín-lé, to make ceremonial presents to the great. hō-lé, to make congratulatory presents, as at marriage, graduation, taking office, &c. tsœ-lé, very polite. kàu-lé, politeness up to the mark. kâu-lé, too polite and ceremonious. lé to, jin pit-tsà, a very polite man must be cunning. giên to, pit-sit: lé to, pit-tsà, in much talk there will be some mistake; in much politeness there is surely some cunning.

poàn-lé-pêng, the 113th radical when written at the side; said also of the 145th radical. poàn-lé, id. siáu-lé (C.), = A. siáu-lôe, ashamed.

lē [R. to exert; to incite]. bién-lē, to incite to good actions; to stir up zeal.

lē [R. sharp; to sharpen]. giâm-lē (R.), very stern; too dignified in manner.

lē (C.), = A. lôe, a file.

lē [R. li, to rule; an officer; a subordinate]. chhióng-iu lē-tsut, prostitutes, actors, and underlings of yamuns, whose sons cannot become graduates or mandarins.

lē [R. laws; regulations; tariff], (C. li), fees paid to officials. lüt-lē, a code of laws. tāi-chheng lüt-lē, the criminal code of the Manchoo dynasty. hong-lē, a custom. ké-lē, ancient rules and regulations. chek-lē, a tariff. hái-lē, customs and port dues. kháu-lē, port dues; tonnage dues. kui-lē, a regular fee, as at yamun or custom-house. kui-lē-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. lē-chi<sup>n</sup>, squeezes levied by government underlings for tolerating things forbidden by law. kóng lē-chi<sup>n</sup>, to promise to pay such moneys for illegal toleration. gūbah-lē, money levied for winking at the killing of cows. kiáu-lē, do. from gambling-houses. piáu-lē, do. from brothels. lē-kim, forbidden by the laws.

lē [R. subject; inferior]. lē-su, the common square form of the Chinese characters. chin-chhó thoàn-lē, four forms of writing.

tit-lē, the province of Chih-li.

lē, = lè (T. lǒ), to prune off small twigs; to cut off the tops and side shoots of sugar-cane.

lē [R. name of a fish, = col. lôe]. lē-hí (esp. C.), a round fish with black spots. lē-koa<sup>n</sup>, this fish dried.

lē [R. name of a shell-fish]. bé-lē, a medicine made from a shell. bé-lē-khak, the shell of a long-shaped bivalve. bé-lē-hún, do. powdered.

lē (cf. lè), (C. lē). háu lē-lē, to make a noise, as a cicada. lē-lē-háu (C.), id. toā-lē (C.), a large cicada.

lē (C.) lē-chi, = A. lāi-chi, nāi<sup>n</sup>-chi, the fruit called lichí.

lē (R. id.) pūi<sup>n</sup>-lē (C.), = A. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-lī, a strainer for lifting out boiled rice.

lē (P.) ám-lē, a useless soft-wooded tree, with glossy pinnate leaves, which grows abundantly by streams. tsúi-lē, id.

leh, an enclitic, often used at the end of a sentence.

leh (Ch. lōh), to pinch or twitch, especially for curing disease. leh-soa, to pinch one's neck to cure a colic. khít-kúi leh--khì, said of a thing suddenly stolen, or of a child dying very suddenly.

leh (T. lōh). khien leh-leh, to fret, as a child. lí-leh, very troublesome, as a young boy; fond of talking and joking with men, as woman.

lân-san lí-leh, in small quantities; not in full sets or large quantity. lí-lí leh-leh, id.

lêh [R. jiók, weak]. noā<sup>n</sup>-lêh, soft and flabby, as skin of fat man; too soft and doughy, as cakes; soft and easily broken, as a string.

lêh (T. lōh). liâm-liâm lêh-lêh, constant talking in a querulous way; e.g. a woman talking on about a matter quite ended. gâu-liâm-lêh, id.

lêh [R. lèk, noise of thunder, &c., = col. nêh<sup>n</sup>], (C. nêh<sup>n</sup>, nêh<sup>n</sup>). khêh-lêh, loud and quick sound of thunder. lêh-lêh-kiò, id. lêh-lêh-tân, id. ni<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup> lêh-lêh, sound of rattling or shaking things together carelessly. lêh-lêh-háu, id., or of thunder, or of beating metal. sai-lâm lêh-lêh-háu, the southwest monsoon roaring.

lêh [R. liêt, to tear; to crack, = col. lih]. lêh-sū, the island called Little Quemoy. oá<sup>n</sup>-kê-lêh, the broken bottom of a bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kê-lêh, id.

lêh (C. lèh), to rip up; to slit up or slit open, without cutting separate. lêh-khui, to slit open, as with a knife. lêh-tê, to rip the belly, so as to remove the entrails. lêh chit-khang, to slit up and make an opening. chit-lêh, one long cut with a knife. thâi chit-lêh, to give a long slash or cut.

lêh (C.), = A. lôeh, a broad sun-hat.

lêh [R. lèk, a sort of oak]. pêh-lêh-á (P.), a sort of oak; the acorn is sometimes eaten.

lêh (C.), = A. liêt, wide open, as door.

lêh (C.) ka-lêh, = A. ka-láh, name of a fish.

lêh (C. lèh), (mere reduplication). pêh-lêh-sêh, very white.

lek — lêng-lek, to insult, as by abusive words. khít-i-lek (T.), to be sorely insulted by him, with words.

lek [R. lèk, to bridle; to compel]. lek-sek, = lèk-sek, to extort money.

lek — lek-phī<sup>n</sup>, the nose wrinkled in displeasure. lek-phī<sup>n</sup> lek-bák, to wrinkle nose and eyes, by a frown, in anger.

lek, to make a line, as a mark; to make a fold, as in a dress where a plait is to be sewed. tsúi lek, the water just beginning to ebb, just making the tide-mark. tsúi lek-hún, id. lek-hún, to make a line or fold, as a mark, or as a disease does; to make a fold, as in a dress. lek chit-sún, to make a fold or plait, as on dress or cap (v. sùn).

phak-lek-soá<sup>n</sup>, sort of bead-moulding.

lek — lek-lêng, to slacken, as a rope (v. lêng).

lek — lek-chhiú, to stop striking or fighting, as on the intervention of others.

lek — lek--lòh-lâi, to sink down ill or fainting. lek--lòh-khì, id.

lek — bin lek-sek, face pale (losing colour), as from fear or shame.

lek (cf. nêh<sup>n</sup>). lek-tá<sup>n</sup>, to lose courage. lún-lek, to be afraid to do a thing.

lek — pêh lek-lek, very white, as cloth.

勵
厲
吏
例

隸

鱈
鱈

筥

弱

雷 歷

裂

櫟

勒

勒

lèk [R. to bridle; to restrain; to compel]. lèk-bé, to rein in a horse. lèk-bé-kun, images holding horses, as at temple of Sêng-hông, &c. lèk-tê, a certain rope in a vessel (v. tē). bé-lèk-tê, saddle-girth. bé-lèk-soh (C.), bridle reins. lèk-soh (C.), id.

ek-lèk, to oppress; to compel improperly. lèk-sek, to extort money; to squeeze money (s. green).

lèk--chhut-lâi, to press out, as blood or matter from a wound. lèk-huih, to press blood from a wound.

ni<sup>n</sup>-lèk-hút, the fat Buddha. bi-lèk, id. pai-lèk, id.

lèk (cf. lāk), to pull up, as one's sleeves, or the legs of trowsers. lèk-khah-khi, id.

lèk [R. the ribs]. chiap-lèk, the soft part of the loin on the hind quarter. chiap-lèk-bah, meat from that part.

lèk — âng-lèk-kôe, a sort of salted shell-fish from North China.

lèk [R. liók, a green plant; interchanged with the next word]. lèk-tâu, a small sort of pea (v. tâu). lèk-tek, a sort of bamboo; the shoots are much eaten.

lèk (R. liók), light green; yellowish green. lèk-sek, id. (s. oppress). lèk-chhiàm-chhiàm, bright green, as fields after rain, or ugly green tinge of what was meant to be black. kim-ku-lèk, a rich deep green (almost black), like a beetle. hoe-hiòh-lèk, rich green, like the leaves of plants. hoe-âng liú-lèk, gaudily adorned with red and green; too gaudy in dress. chhêng kàu hoe-âng liú-lèk, gaudily dressed, as woman.

tâng-lèk, verdeggris (verditer?). lèk-tê, green tea.

soa-lèk, green without any gloss. soa-lèk-pè, green cloth without gloss. iú-lèk, glossy green; glossy green cloth. hok-lèk, green cloth from Fuh-chau.

lèk [R. to drop or drip]. lèk-chheng (R.), a bituminous substance.

lèk [R. liók, dry land]. lèk-lê, road by land. lèk-lê-koa<sup>n</sup>, an officer in the army. lèk-lê thê-tok, a general. lèk-lê tsúi-su, military and naval.

bô-chi<sup>n</sup>, kiam lèk-lê (a long land journey and no pay), said of having a great deal of trouble and little benefit. bô-chi<sup>n</sup>, kah lèk-lê, id.

lèk [R. to sink; to love to excess]. lèk-ài, to love excessively, as son, &c. (v. ài).

lèk (next word?). tím-lèk, to hide and keep for one's self, as another's property; e.g. money sent to one's care from abroad and secretly embezzled.

lèk [R. to conceal; clandestine; to hide]. ún-lèk, to hide and keep secret, as a thing, affair, or person. lèk--khi-lâi, id. lèk-siâu, to keep a sale secret, not putting it in the books, so as to embezzle the price (s. copy).

lèk (R. liók), to copy out, as items from an account-book. lèk-siâu, to copy out the items in our books which refer to each customer, e.g. in order to collect debts (s. conceal). siâu tiòh-lèk--khi-lâi, copy out these items. tiòh-lèk-lèk--khi, id.

bók-lèk (Cn. P.), = A. bók-liók, a table of contents.

lèk — lèk-kim, to plate a metal (especially silver) with gold, by the use of molten gold.

lèk — lèk-tng lèk-tê, very much exhausted with any work, mental or bodily (v. tē).

lèk — lèk-súi (T.), = A. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-súi, the ornamental work between the legs of a table.

lèk [R. sound, as of thunder]. phek-lèk, great rattling sound of thunder. toā-phek-lèk, id.

lèk — ni<sup>n</sup>-lèk-to (T.), a small sort of reaping-hook.

lèk [R. strength, = col. lát]. hoat-lèk, powerful influence of an idol; magical arts of Taoists (v. hoat). hó-gán-lèk, able to distinguish good and bad at a glance. khah-hó tám-lèk, rather courageous. sè-lèk, influence and power. ū sè-lèk, to have influence to back him and also ability. tsai-sè-lèk sa<sup>n</sup>-jī tsûng, abundant wealth, influence, and ability. tsai kiông, lèk chin, money and strength all exhausted. tâng-sim hiáp-lèk, with united heart and strength. lèk-liông, the measure of one's strength or ability, esp. wealth and ability to pay. toā-lèk-liông, of considerable wealth or ability. sui-lâng ê-lèk-liông, according to a man's ability, as to subscribe. jim-lèk pé thien-kong, art improving on nature (v. kong).

lèk [R. to pass through; in succession; to experience]. lèk-tâi, in successive ages or generations. lèk-ni<sup>n</sup>, in each successive year. lèk-lâi, from a long time back always till now. lâi-lèk, the history of a person or affair from the first; the account of the origin and antecedents. lâi-lèk put-bêng, antecedents not clear, e.g. some flaw or doubt about the title-deeds of the seller, or as some blot or want of clearness about a man's genealogy or early history. lí-lèk, a document stating the particulars of one's birth, literary rank, official rank, &c., given in to a superior officer, as on taking office, on rise in rank, or on visiting a high superior. thien lí-lèk, to write such a statement. tâu lí-lèk, to give it in to the superior. chhiàng-lí-lèk, to make such a statement verbally on having an audience of a superior.

iét-lèk, experienced in affairs; having seen much of the world. kè-iét-lèk, id. oát-lèk (C.), id.

lêng [R. nái, mother, teat, milk, = col. né, lóe: lin, ni<sup>n</sup>], (T. lin), teat; udder; breasts of woman; nipple; a knob, as for a handle; milk; juice of trees, &c.

lêng-thâu, a teat. lêng-chng, the orifice of a teat. lêng-eng, abscess in the female breast. lêng-hé, id., somewhat different form. lêng-gâm, another variety of abscess. lêng-niau<sup>n</sup>, a smaller sort. bong-lêng, to touch a woman's breast; if allowed, is a sign of consent to illicit connection.

lêng-bú, a wet-nurse. chhi-lêng, to feed with one's milk, as mother or nurse; to suckle. chiáh-lêng, to live on milk. suh-lêng, to suck milk. lút-lêng, to milk. tng-lêng, to wean. gú-lêng, cow's milk; soft salted curd. kiám-gú-lêng, soft salted curd. chhi<sup>n</sup>-gú-lêng, cow's milk, generally curdled, but not yet salted. gú-lêng-chiu<sup>n</sup> (C.), cow's milk. gú-lêng-iú, butter. gú-lêng-piá<sup>n</sup> (f.), cheese.

ti-bú-lêng, an edible plant (v. ti). chhiu-lêng, juices of trees used for valuable purposes, e.g. India-rubber, gutta-percha, &c. (one sort used for making varnish adhere well). pu<sup>n</sup>-lêng (C.), the juice of the "pu<sup>n</sup>," or liquid-amber tree (used in gilding).

lêng [R. a sort of net], a net for catching fish in the meshes as they try to swim through. pàng-lêng, to set such a net, as in a rapid stream or strong tide-way. bé-ka-lêng, net with large meshes for catching the bé-ka. lát-á-lêng, a finer sort with smaller meshes for the lát-á-hí.

lêng [R. id., = col. lín]. lêng-tiú, a sort of thin silk stuff.

lêng [R. liông, the ridge-pole of a house, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>].

磨

力

歷

奶

罾

綾

樑

肋力菜綠

溼陸

溺匿

錄

樂

phī<sup>n</sup>-lêng, the ridge of the nose (s. dragon). hē-lêng (T.), = A. hē-chhù, the houses at the two ends of a large house.

lêng [R. bêng, to engrave]. lêng-cheng, a banner at a funeral, with name and titles of deceased.

lêng [R. bêng, clear, plain]. lêng-kak, horn made thin and transparent, for lanterns (s. Trapa; s. China root).

lêng [R. sort of Trapa]. lêng-kak, Trapa natans or bicornis; the fruit is eaten; it is red outside but white inside (s. clear; s. China root).

lêng [R. China root]. hók-lêng, China root (Smilax China?). hók-lêng-kak, id., broken small. lêng-kak, id. (s. clear; s. Trapa). hók-lêng-phī<sup>n</sup>, China root in large slices. lêng-phī<sup>n</sup>, id. hók-lêng-ko, a sort of sweet cake made with it. hók-lêng-ko, id. chhiah-lêng, a red-coloured sort. chhoan-lêng, the best sort from Sze-chuen.

lêng [R. name of a vegetable]. pe-lêng-chhài, a vegetable like spinach (Convolvulus reptans?). poe-lêng-chhài (C.), id., = T. chhiah-kün-chhài.

lêng [R. name of an insect]. bêng-lêng--ê, a child that is bought and adopted.

lêng — lêng-sit, to clip the wings. lêng chit-tè (T.), cut off a small bit, as of meat.

lêng [R. to insult; to disgrace], a surname. lêng-jiok, to insult. lêng-lek, to insult by abusive words.

lêng-ti, to put to death by cutting in pieces while alive (v. ti). lêng-ti-lâng, to annoy people very much (said of a child that won't sleep, or of a master who makes his hands or servants miserable).

lêng [R. able; power], (Cn. lêng). koân-lêng, authority; power. tsài-lêng, ability; skill. lêng-kàn, skilful; expert; having much capacity for business (should not be said in Amoy, as it suggests a bad meaning). ũ lêng-úi, able to do a thing (v. úi). hū-lêng (polite), I have not sufficient ability. bū-put-lêng, able to do all things; almighty. bū-sé put-lêng, id.

lêng [R. spiritual; intelligent; efficacious, as prayers or divinities, or geomantic position].

lêng-hūn (R.), the soul or spirit. lêng-chhù, paper houses burned for the dead. lêng-úi, the place where the "hūn-sin" is placed in the rites for a person recently deceased; the spirit is supposed to stay there during the rites; it is made of paper, sometimes like a house, sometimes like hangings. lêng-chêng, the place in front of the hangings round the "hūn-sin." lêng-toh, the table placed there. kat-lêng, to put up the paper or cloth house or hangings (lêng-úi) round the "hūn-sin." ti-lêng, to set up the hūn-sin, put up the screen or cloth partition round it, and make all things ready for the rites of "kong-tek." an-lêng, to begin these rites, as relatives and priests do. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to invite the spirit of the dead to come and stay in the "lêng-chhù" during these rites. khiá-lêng, to perform these rites. tū-lêng, to take away and burn the hūn-sin, with all the fittings, at the end of the ceremonies. thiet-lêng, id.

lêng-lái, precocious and intelligent (v. lái). lêng-thong, of great mental discernment. ũ lêng-khiàu, well educated; having mental powers well developed. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup> cheng, é-káu lêng, blind men and dumb men are very sharp (v. cheng). káu lêng, siét piên, mouth clever and tongue ready, never at a loss for an answer some way or other, so as to get out of a difficulty. bān-būt chi-lêng, the most intelligent of all things (said of man).

lêng-khì, appearance of intelligence, as in child or young boy; powerful influence for good fortune, as of a mountain as a site for a grave, house, or village. chit-tiám lêng-khì, a good deal of cleverness (said as of boy at school); auspicious influence, as of grave, &c.

pàng-lêng, to lead down the auspicious influence of a hill, as some forms of rocks or ridges do. tùi chia lóh-lêng, the auspicious influence descends this way. ũ lêng-lóh, to have a good way for the auspicious influence of the fung-shuy (hong-súi) coming down the ridge from the highest peaks to the site of a house, city, or grave. ũ-chit-ki lêng-lóh, do. of grave or house; also, beautiful in appearance, as person. lêng-mêh<sup>n</sup>, veins in the hills that lead along the auspicious influence. lêng-chit, a long ridge descending gradually and ending in a small eminence, counted a very lucky form. lêng-sin, place about the middle of the declivity of a hill where there is good luck for a grave or house-site. khiá-lêng, placed about midway on the sloping ridge of a hill, as grave or house. hōe-lêng, facing the origin of the auspicious influence, as a grave-site (v. hōe). hoah soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to call the good influence of the hill to come to the grave; done at time of burial by the geomancer (standing on rising ground apart, with sword and compass in hands), with shouting and gesticulations, with guns, crackers, &c. táh soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to search for a good grave site on the hills, as geomancer. liáh soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, id.

ui-lêng, majesty and power of an idol or god. ui-lêng-kong, the guardian idol of a Foo or Ting. lêng-tan, the Taoist elixir of immortality. lêng-siá<sup>n</sup>, powerful, as an idol. lêng-kám, id. lêng-hián, id. lêng-giám, id. lêng-êng, id.

pit-lêng, a sort of bird that imitates the song of several birds. pek-lêng, id. ná<sup>n</sup> pit-lêng, said of a man who is good at talking and telling lies to make a case good. lêng-áu, a sort of fish.

lêng [R. lín, scales = col. lân]. kim-lêng-hí (Cn.), = A. àng-koé, a sort of fish.

lêng (R. liông), (C. often liông), a dragon. liáh-lêng, to shampoo. siù<sup>n</sup>-lêng, born in a year of which the dragon is the sign. si<sup>n</sup> phī<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to have a polypus in the nose.

toā-lêng, the tiller-ropes for the helm. khè-thâu-lêng, a long narrow purse made so as to tie round the waist to hold up trowsers, and at the same time to hold money.

tsúi-lêng, a fire-engine. chiú-lêng, a portable machine for boiling wine.

hé-lêng, a match for a gun. hé-lêng-pau, a pouch for carrying the match. tauh hé-lêng, to light the powder with the match. chheng-soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, a sort of gingall. chhi<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng (T.), id. chhui<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng (Cn.), id. lêng-kóng-chhêng, a large sort of cannon.

lêng-gê, upright sticks in the bow of a junk between which the anchor cable runs. lêng-chhiu, a dragon's beard (v. chhiu). lêng-kut, a mineral, esp. from Sze-chuen, like belemnite or fossil bones of a saurian.

lêng-ông, the god of the sea. lêng-âng, id. hái-lêng-ông, id. lêng ká-tsúi, a waterspout from the sky. thiáu-lêng, pillars with dragons carved on them, as at temples. lêng-pê, a flowing robe embroidered with dragons. lêng-koàn, a water-jug (like a kettle) with dragons on it.

lêng-hé-chí<sup>n</sup>, the space just outside a temple door (v. hé). lêng-chhia hong-lien, imperial equipages.

銘
明
菱
苓

稜
蛉
剗
凌

能

靈

龍

chhah-chhêng, khah-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lêng, we put up banyan branches, and are stronger than dragons.

lêng-tsún, a dragon-boat, used on 5.5. pē lêng-tsún, to paddle them in racing. lêng-tsún-hoe, a bright red flower (Clerodendron) that blooms about 5.5. lêng-tsún-pak, a very strong north wind for several days about that time. lêng-tsún-kut, the back-bone. thau-lêng (T.), the whole back-bone of a pig. hē-lêng-bák, to wash the eyes of the dragon-boats.

lêng-kéng (C.) = A. gèng-géng, the dragon's-eye or lung-yen fruit. lêng-kán (C.), id. lêng-tá<sup>n</sup>-chháu, a febrifuge medicine.

lêng-hê, a lobster. thê-lêng, a sort of eel. thê-lêng-chhe, sort of trident for spearing it. chháu-lêng, an animal like a lizard with a snake-like body. kau-lêng, a sea-monster (v. kau). e-lêng, a small black cricket.

lêng (R. id.), (T. lân). lêng-á, a small bell used by children and Tauists. kap-lêng, bells on pigeons' wings. hām-lêng, rattles containing small balls, worn by horses and dogs; also hung at child's wrist. koá-hām-lêng, to wear them. io-lêng, to shake a small bell.

lêng (R. id.), to grasp tight and keep from moving away, as man or animal; also, to move by putting the hands below (one man or many), as a large heavy box or cupboard. lêng--lái, to grasp firmly and pull towards one's self. lêng-tiâu, to grasp very tight, so that he cannot escape. lêng-i-tiâu, id. tui-phī<sup>n</sup> kā--i lêng--nih, catch it by the nose, as cow. tiòh-lêng gū-thâu, m-thang lêng gū-bé, if a man owes you money you must take a fitting time to demand it back, i.e. when he has some money.

tàu-lêng, unitedly move (as a heavy chest) by putting the hands below.

lêng [R. rest; quiet; peace; rather than]. lêng-khé, the best way is to —; better to — than —. lêng-chhū (Cn.), id.

lêng-khun-tan, a medicine (v. khun). thi<sup>n</sup> chheng-chheng, tōe lêng-lêng, the influences of heaven and earth all propitious (said by Taoist priest in benediction).

lêng-pho, Ningpo. hok-lêng, Fuh-ning-foo, between Fuh-chau and Wen-chau.

lêng [R. name of a bird]. chek-lêng (R.), a bird said to be a pattern of fraternal affection.

lêng [R. a mound], a long raised bed in a cultivated field. kui-lêng, the whole of such a long raised bed or beds; said also of the large fat folds on the neck of a corpulent man. ka-nŋg-lêng, the whole bed of vegetables. han-tsū-lêng, a long raised bed of potatoes (Cn. siu<sup>n</sup>). tau-á-lêng, do. of beans.

lêng [R. a sort of goat]. lêng-iông, a sort of antelope (v. iông).

lêng [R. age]. kui-lêng hók-soàn (R.), may you live as long as the turtle and stork.

lêng [R. a feather]. chi<sup>n</sup>-lêng, the feathers of an arrow. lêng-hoe, id.

hoe-lêng, a peacock's feather with one eye. siu<sup>n</sup> hoe-lêng, to give permission to wear it in the official cap, a high honour. siang-gán-lêng, peacock's feather with two eyes, very high honour. e-a-lêng, an artificial feather, much less honourable than hoe-lêng. lám-lêng, id. lêng-téng, having a feather in his official cap, given for special service. sù-lêng, to give permission to wear such a feather. koá-lêng, to wear a feather so.

lêng [R. to order or command]. teng-lêng, to order or instruct gradually over and over again. chhien teng-lêng, bān chiok-hū, frequent and repeated commands and instructions.

lêng [R. líong, two; a pair; a tael, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>, nŋg], (T. líong). lêng-lông, the covered sides of the court of a Chinese house connecting the front and back parts of the house.

lêng [R. lêng, clever; an actor]. lêng-li, neat and clean; well and neatly done; intelligent, as child; pretty (v. li).

lêng [R. a mountain pass, = col. niá<sup>n</sup>]. ko-san tsún-lêng (R.), lofty mountains.

lêng [R. to receive; to lead; to govern or manage; a collar; = col. niá<sup>n</sup>]. lêng-kàu (R.), I have received your instructions. lêng-chêng chiū-si, no, I thank you; said in declining a present (lit. having received your kind intention is enough). tsoán-lêng, to accept the whole, as a present.

tài-lêng, to lead soldiers, as a commanding officer. lêng-sū-koá<sup>n</sup>, a consul.

hó-pún-lêng, having much ability, talent, or skill. bô-pún-lêng, not having sufficient ability.

lêng (R. id.), cold or cool, as water or food; cooled, as affection. lêng sih-sih, very cold, as food. lêng peng-peng, ice-cold. peng-lêng, id. piang-piang-lêng, very cold or cool. liang-lêng, cool; pleasantly cool. koá<sup>n</sup>-lêng, very cold. im-lêng, shady and pleasantly cool. thi<sup>n</sup>-khi im-lêng, pleasant, cool, cloudy weather. lêng-jiét, hot and cold principles (v. jiét). poá<sup>n</sup>-sio-lêng, tepid, as water; half-cold, as food.

lêng-tām, grown cold-hearted; feeling dreary or heartless (v. tām). lêng-chêng, lonely; desolate. lêng-lòh (C.), decayed or desolate, as place or family. lêng-chhiò, sarcastic laugh. lêng-gē, to speak sarcastically. lêng-keng, the prison of the imperial harem (v. keng). kim-jip lêng-pāng, said of a man who has several wives leaving one without intercourse.

kám-lêng, having a cold, slightly feverish. ùi-lêng, having a slight shivering feeling; also (C.), ague (v. ùi).

lêng (C. làng, liòng), to kick right out with the sole of the foot. kha-lêng chiú-lêng, pushing away with hands and feet, as child resisting when carried away. kùn-lêng, to struggle hard with hands, feet, and body, as to get off. gâu-kùn-lêng, good at struggling and kicking, so as to escape from one's grasp. kùn-lêng--khi, to break away by struggling, and run off. kùn-lêng--tsáu, id. lêng--tsáu, id.

lêng (T.), = A. lìm, to doze for a short time. lêng chit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id.

lêng — pēh-lêng-si, the paddy-bird; the white egret.

lêng — ka-lêng, the magpie; more properly the black and white mina: it can learn to speak a little.

lêng (R. liēn), (T. nái<sup>n</sup>; Cn. nūi<sup>n</sup>). khé-lêng, a tree with lilac blossoms (Melia Azederach?). lêng-á, id. khé-lêng-chhiū, id.

lêng [R. to order or command; to cause; honourable; polite phrase for "your" in reference to relatives]. tsú-lêng, a man who commits a crime by the instrumentality of another.

bēng-lêng, a command; also (r.), to command. kun-lêng, military orders. chiòng-lêng, a general's

寧

兩

伶嶺領

冷

踉

翎鶴棟令

鈴

拎

寧

鸚稜

羚齡翎

order. ông-lêng, the imperial commission to a high mandarin, which gives him the power of life and death. kiáh ông-lêng, to carry triangular flags with the word "lêng" before some idols (e.g. ông-iá), as is done by thirteen little boys. tok-lêng, the boy who acts as head of that band, carrying a large flag. lêng-ki, a flag given to a messenger who carries the special orders of a high mandarin or of an idol. lêng-chi, an arrow given to a messenger by a very high mandarin, to show that his orders are extremely urgent. hoat lêng-chi, to give this arrow. hō-lêng, an order given to soldiers by a signal. thek-lêng, Taoist charms in unintelligible characters on yellow paper. hū-lêng, a charm made of green bamboo with the character "hú" written on it, and a bit of red cloth at the top.

chhut-lêng, to issue a military command. hoat-lêng, id. thoân-lêng, to transmit or deliver military orders given by a superior (v. thoân). siông-kèng put-jū chiông-lêng, I will (as you desire it) relax a little the rules of strict politeness according to which I should treat you.

gêh-lêng, the cyclical name of a month (v. gêh). sī-lêng (r.), the things that should be done and said in the four seasons. chhun-lêng, the usual sort of weather in spring. tang-thi, kiá<sup>n</sup> chhun-lêng, warm spring weather in winter. ta<sup>n</sup> kiá<sup>n</sup> chhun-lêng, the weather is now (in spring) the usual spring weather. hē-lêng, the usual summer weather.

lūt-lêng, the demon of thunder, who hastens the thunder on its way. kip-kip jū-lūt-lêng, as swift as the thunder-spirit (v. kip).

lêng-jin khó-ài, very lovable (lit. causing people to be able to love).

lêng-lông, your son. lêng-ài (r.), your daughter. lêng-siok, your father's younger brother. lêng-pek, do. elder. lêng-tsun, your father. lêng-tông, your mother. lêng-tsé, your grandfather (all polite phrases).

lêng, the long mark left by the blow of a rod. phah chit-lêng, strike, so as to leave a long mark or scar. phah kàu-ê-bah-lêng, to beat till black and blue in long streaks.

lêng [R. besides; in addition]. lêng-goā, besides this; in addition; separately; exceedingly. lêng-goā-khiáu, exceedingly clever. lêng-goā-chiáh, to have one's meals alone; to eat separately from others. lêng-ku kok-sit, to live and have meals apart. lêng-ke kok-sit, id. lêng-oá<sup>n</sup> lêng-ti, separate bowls and chopsticks, as for a vegetarian, or man with contagious disease. sêng--tit lêng-lê, khí-tsau, one is enough (lit. one cooking place), no need of more.

lêng [R. liông, measure; liberal], loose; not tight. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-lêng--teh, delay, or wait a little, as before doing something. khah-lêng--leh, id. khah-liâu-lêng, less severe, as disease; mind more at ease; not so urgent, as affair, less scarce, as money; having a good deal of ready money, and not needing to work hard. chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu liâu-lêng, money less scarce. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúí liông-lêng, money pretty abundant. pàng-lêng, to loosen, as a rope. hun khah-lêng, to let out, as a rope made looser. lek-lêng, id. ôe lek-lêng--tit, elastic; also, it can be put off a little without injury, as work or business. khah-lêng (C.), = khah-liông, a little more, better, or larger.

lêng (C.), = A. niā<sup>n</sup> (C. also "liông"). soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, the sloping shoulder of a hill.

lí (T. lǐ). pè lāng-li lāng-li, the threads of the cloth too far apart.

lí (cf. lí). pòh li-li, very thin. li-á-hng, a very short distance. li-á-niau<sup>n</sup>, slightly pock-marked, &c.

lí — hong li-li-á, wind gentle.

lí — li-li lo-lo, constant chattering, and long, empty, useless talk (v. lo). li-la, unsafe to associate or have dealings with, as man who evades payment (v. la).

lí — lê-li-lien, words called out at the beginning of a play (v. lien).

lí (R. id.), a small weight, one-tenth of a "hun;" an atom or very small part of a thing; mean in dealings about money. lí-lí-á, a very little; slightly. lí-boát, small and unimportant, as trade or gains. lí-si, a very small quantity. chit-li-si-á, id. bō-li-si, not the very least. hō-lí, a very small quantity (v. hò). hun-lí hô-hut, very small divisions; niggardly.

phí-lí, mean in money matters (v. phí). iáu-lí, rather stingy and grasping. in khah-lí, they are very minute and stingy about money. chin-kang-lí, said of a mean stingy fellow, as the Chin-chew people are generally poorer.

lí-kim, the impost called "lekim" or "lekin." lí-kim-kék, office for collecting it.

lí-téng, a small steelyard for weighing silver or fine medicines; generally marked so as to make a dollar = 7 chí<sup>n</sup> 2 hun.

lí — lō-lí-thi, involved and confused, as a matter; not straightforward, as man (v. thi). lí-bú lí-lê, talking on far too much. lí-lōh (T.), id. chí-chí lí-lí (R.), very intricate and difficult to settle well, as an affair with many troublesome details; very impracticable, as man talking over and over on unimportant matters.

lí (R. id.) liú-lí, a translucent material like glass (v. liú).

lí (R. id.) tsoá<sup>n</sup>-lí, a strainer for lifting out boiled rice.

lí [R. liâm, a screen]. mûg-lí, a bamboo door-screen made to roll up; hung specially before doors where families live. pàng-mûg-lí, to let down the door-screen. pê-lí, a cloth curtain or blind (single) hung at a door or window. kiō-thang-lí, curtain or blind of sedan-window made of cloth or bamboo.

lí [R. a fence]. lí-á, a fence of bamboos or thorns, or of dead reeds. tek-lí, a bamboo fence or railing, gen. dead. lí-pa (R.), a fence, as round a field.

lí [R. a pear-tree, = col. lái]. hoa-lí-bòk, a very fine hard-grained wood for furniture (rosewood?).

lí [R. heavy rains]. lím-lí, long heavy rains. hē lím-lí, id. liâm-lí, id.

lí (R. id.), to divorce, as a wife. hiu-lí (R.), id. lí-bé, to divorce a wife; a divorced wife. lí-tsu, a bill of divorcement.

lí [R. ní, to agree]. lí-kê, a Buddhist nun (v. kê).

lí (R. id.) hê-lí, a fox.

lí [R. lú, a door]. bā-lí, a sort of small cabin in a junk. lí (C.), = A. lú (a door).

lí (C.), = A. lú, an ass.

lí (Cn.), = A. jí, in some words.

lí [R. a Chinese mile; a village], a Chinese lí or mile, about one-third of an English mile; but varies in different places. sa<sup>n</sup>-lí, three lí, about one English mile (s. dress). sa<sup>n</sup>-lí-lí, id. bān-lí, ten thousand lí (v. bān). chhien-lí-bé, a courier. chhien-lí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a telescope.

厘 釐

離

璃 簾 簾

離 梨 漓 離 尼 狸 閭 里

痠

另

量

hiu<sup>n</sup>-lí, a village. siā-lí, id. ka-hô-lí (R.), a name for Amoy.

lí [R. líong, two; a pair, = nŭng, ní<sup>n</sup>]. lí-phiet-chhiú, moustaches.

lí [R. inside], lining. lí-bīn, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-lí, the lining of a dress (s. míle). pèr-lí, cotton lining. thùt-lí, the lining too full, so that it appears at the edges. tiù<sup>n</sup>-lí, to make a dress of two plies; to put in a lining (v. tiù<sup>n</sup>). tiò-lí, id. kim-hoe piáu-lí, richly ornamental dress, worn by mandarins; also at marriages; an imitation is worn at the idolatrous rites called "chiò."

goát-lí siông-ngê<sup>n</sup>, the beautiful lady in the moon (v. ngê<sup>n</sup>).

ná<sup>n</sup>-lí ôe àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, how can it be so (said in imitation of mandarin). ná<sup>n</sup>-lí ũ àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, id.

lí [R. the carp]. lí-hî, a sort of fish; the carp. chhi<sup>n</sup>-lí-hî, the blue fish, sign of some passage-boats, e.g. Chiòh-bé; and so with other colours.

lí — lâ-lí, the scaly ant-eater, manis, or pangolin.

lí (C.), = A. teh, the sign of the present in verbs; in the very act of —. lí-beh, = A. tih-beh, about to —.

lí (C.), = lú, female; woman.

lí (C.), = A. lú, stranger; visitor.

lí (R.), doctrine; reason; principle; right principle; (to manage or rule). ũ-lí, to be reasonable, as a proposal; to be in the right in a quarrel or discussion. bô-lí, to be wrong in a dispute, &c. bú-lí, to scold violently or insult (improperly). khít-i bú-lí-khì, unjustly and improperly scolded or driven away by him. hiáu-lí, understanding how to do a thing (v. hiáu). put-chí ti-lí, knowing and doing his duty well, esp. as inferior. khi-iú chhiú-lí, how can this be right? toàn-lí, put-toàn-chhin, to judge according to the right, not by relationship.

tô-lí, doctrine; principle of an affair (v. tô). gī-lí, the principles of justice or righteousness; the meaning, as of a book. thien-lí, the laws or principles of Heaven's justice (v. thien). thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, id. (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). tē-lí, geomancy, geography (v. tē).

seng-lí, trade (v. seng).

būn-lí, polite; elegant, as person, words, or manner. būn-lí-lí, very polite. seng-sêng būn-lí, person of good appearance. būn-lí-khì, having a polite or elegant manner or style.

siu-lí, to repair. chéng-lí, to arrange neatly. liáu-lí, to manage. tī-lí, to govern; to rule. pān-lí, to manage; to put right, as an affair. koán-lí, to oversee. tsóng-lí, to rule or have the general management. chí-lí, to be responsible for, as for management of affair or payment of another's debt. goá bô-beh chí-lí, I will not take the responsibility. tui-goá chí-lí, apply to me, as finally responsible.

lí-hôe, to discuss a matter together, so as to come to an understanding about its settlement. lí-hē, id. lí-lóh, to manage well, especially household. lí-ke, to manage the house well, as wife. lí-bôe-tit, the matter cannot be set right; I have not the ability to set it right.

sū-lí, any matter or affair in relation to its cause and to the proper way of setting it right. tí-lí, original cause and origin of an affair that has become involved. in-toa<sup>n</sup> khi-lí, the origin of an affair.

gī-lí-sī (C.), certainly you ought to —.

lí-khì, the real principle or hidden rationale of a particular case. kek-lí-khì, to infer the real origin, principle or state of a matter (v. kek). ũ lí-khì, to be reasonable and fair, as an argument or proposal. kóng-ôe ũ-lí-khì, to speak according to the principles of fairness. lí-lē, the right way of action. ũ-lí-lē, right; proper. lí-lē tit, right course, as of speaking or doing.

chéng-lí, the right principles of action, as in some particular case. jin-chéng bút-lí, the right principles of all affairs. jip-chéng jip-lí, reasonable, as a matter. ũ-chéng-lí, id.; to have the right on our side. bô-chéng-lí, unreasonable. bat chéng-lí, knowing what is right, as in cases of dispute and their settlement. kóng chéng-lí, to speak of the proper principles for settling a case. poáh chéng-lí, to discuss the principles of justice in regard to a dispute (v. poáh). chéng-lí-hoat, the real facts, right principles, and proper plan, in any particular matter. chéng-lí-hoat, sa<sup>n</sup>-jī tsúg, all these three things correct and complete. kóng chéng-lí-hoat, to state all these correctly, as in a dispute.

lí-hák, a high title conferred on some very learned deceased men (like canonizing), who are then worshipped by the literati.

lí [R. a plum], a surname. lí-á, a plum. lí-á-chhiú, a plum-tree. lí-á-pêng, a confection made of halved plums. lí-á-sng, sort of preserved plums. ũg-chiam-lí, a sort of plum. tsu-lí, a very small sour sort (s. shoe). tsu-lí-á, id. hu-jin-lí, a very good sort of plum. thô chiap-lí, to graft a plum on a peach.

hêng-lí, baggage; traveller's luggage.

lí ló-kun, the philosopher Lau-tsze. lí thok-koái<sup>n</sup>, one of the genii. lí sien-tsé, id.

lí [R. a shoe; to walk]. lí-lék, an account of one's self given in when taking office or getting promotion, &c. (v. lék). tsu-lí (R.), red shoes of very high mandarins (s. plum).

lí [R. lú, scrofula, &c., = col. bí]. lí-lát, scrofulous sores on the neck.

lí — lí-lái, spoiled, as things; very troublesome or bad to have as an associate (v. lái). hong-pa lí-láu, very ugly (v. láu). lí-leh, behaving improperly; a small quantity (v. leh). lí-loá, to work in a negligent or dilatory way (v. loá).

lí (R. ní<sup>n</sup>), (T. lú), thou; thee; you. lí-goá, you and I. lí-ê, your; yours; thy; thine. goá beh-lí chhiáu-á-gún, I want you to pay me in Mexican dollars.

lí — ka-lí-lô, not yet; far from the end; not nearly finished; a long time yet (v. ka).

lí (T.) tsú kàu lí-lí lâ-lá, to have a vast deal of cooking going on (v. lâ).

lí, to strip off, as bark, skin, or leaves; to skin; to flay. lí-phê, to flay; to skin. lí-phoá, to tear and destroy, as clothes, or as sedan. lí-hióh, to strip off leaves. lí-moá<sup>n</sup>, to pick hemp bark into fine fibres, for making ropes. lí-tsang, to pick palm fibre into long thin fibres.

lí-liù, over-sharp in dealing, somewhat cheating, as a boy (v. liù).

lí — hoe-lí-lô, variegated; mottled; indistinct.

lí — lí-khì (r.), unwilling to accept a favour or monetary help (s. sharp).

lí (C.), = A. lū, to strain out.

lí (C.), = A. lū, a surname. lí-sòng, Manila; the Philippines.

lí (C.), = A. lū, to be anxious.

lí (C.), = A. lē, laws, taxes, &c.

lí [R. to rule; an officer; a subordinate; = col. lē].

兩裡

鯉

理

李

履
瘰

爾

吏

li-pē, the board of office at Peking, which appoints mandarins; the president of it. li-pāng, the office in a yamun which manages that department, e.g. having charge of inferior mandarins, and issuing certificates (kiet) to men of the district who get office; the secretary who manages it, who also often has charge of the treasury of the yamun, and acts as a check on the "hē-pāng," as his own original department is very light. tham-koa<sup>n</sup> ù-lī, avaricious mandarins. khè-lī, a small official who has charge of the treasury of the provincial treasurer; a treasury clerk. tién-lī, a degree and title got by men who make out documents in criminal cases in the yamuns of high mandarins; having this degree he can be made sùn-kiám or sùn-si, without the usual literary examinations, and may thus rise to higher office. li-iáh, mandarin's writers and messengers.

pó-lī, a man employed by the keeper of a "lién-pó," gambling house.

li [R. dysentery, &c.] li-chék, dysentery. li-chit, id. péh-li, white mucous discharge in dysentery. chhiah-lī, brownish do. pàng-lī, to pass such mucous discharge; to have dysentery (s. leave). tsòe-li, to have dysentery. sió-lī, slight mucous dysentery. hiet-lī, bloody dysentery. tsòe-hiet-lī, to have it. a-phién-li, bowel complaint caused by trying to give up opium. kim-kháu-lī, a severe bowel complaint which takes away appetite and voice.

li [R. clever; expert; = col. lāi]. léng-lī, pretty; clever and intelligent, as child; neatly finished, as a piece of work; clean and neat, as room; settled properly, as an affair. léng-lī koai-khá, clever and obedient (said of a boy or very young girl). pān kàu léng-lī, to settle up a matter all perfectly straight, leaving no cause of future trouble. chheng-khì léng-lī, clean and neat, as a place, or as a woman; settled altogether satisfactorily and honourably, as an affair. piá<sup>n</sup> put-chi léng-lī, clean it out quite clean, as room.

sóng-lī, comfortable and pleasant, as one's person, or as house or garden (v. sóng).

li [R. sharp; benefit; gain; interest; dangerous; = col. lāi]. li-khì, sharp instruments; edged tools. li-hāi, very clever; rather too clever; dangerous to have as an enemy.

li-piēn, convenient, as place or thing (v. piēn). li-kháu, pleasing the palate, as giving appetite to invalid. li-pi, to agree with the stomach. li-súi, to be diuretic. li-ek, benefit; to benefit (v. ek). hāi-jin li-kí, to injure others and benefit one's self (v. kí).

li-sek, interest of money.

hē-lī, very profitable, as a business. tek-lī, profitable. òe-tek-lī, advantageous, profitable, as a business transaction. toā-tek-lī, bringing great gains. tek-lī-chí<sup>n</sup>, profits in trade. tek-lī-ê, id. li-chhī, prosperous business; a good sale (v. chhī). li-lē, business; employment. hó-li-lē, a good business.

sè-lī ê-lāng, a man who meanly hangs on the rich or powerful. tsái-lī, gain; wealth; riches. kiū-tsái-lī, to seek for wealth. bēng-lī, fame and wealth. kiū-bēng kiū-lī, to seek for fame and wealth. bēng-lī hun-sim, fame and wealth delude the heart. ūi-bēng ūi-lī, for the sake of fame and wealth, or wealth. put-ūi-bēng, chek ūi-lī, if not for fame, then it is for money.

put-lī, disadvantageous; unlucky. put-lī jit-chí, an unlucky day. toā-tim put-lī, causing very heavy loss. put-lī tang-sai; tai-lī lām-pak, east and west is unlucky, north and south auspicious; as in some years.

li (R. id.), to leave; to be distant from. li-khui, id. (v. khui). sa<sup>n</sup>-lī, to separate from each other; to be distant. khah-li-khì, very distant, as a place; e.g. house from place of work or from a friend's house. li-hāng, to be far distant. li óá-óá, not far off. li-phāng, to let go; to let off; to abandon (s. dysentery). tsáu-lī, to run away and escape. thoa-lī, to escape (v. thoat).

li-piét, to bid farewell to; to take leave of. pun-lī, to leave; to go away; to separate from one another. pàng-lī, to let go; to let off; to abandon (s. dysentery). tsáu-lī, to run away and escape. thoa-lī, to escape (v. thoat).

li-jim, to leave a place where one has held office. li-sin, to escape from danger; to get away from some business that detains us. bōe-tit li-sin, unable to get away, as from business. bō-chit-si thang li-sin, I cannot get any leisure at all. òe-tit li-sin chiah-lāi, come as soon as you can get away. bō-li-lāng, never without some one present. put-lī-lāng, id. koe-lē put-lī-lāng, street always full of people. m-thang li-lāng, there must always be some one present.

ta-lī, quite dry, not damp. khah-ta-lī, getting on now a little better in the world (v. ta).

tó li-lī, fallen down flat on the ground, as man or horse; quite bankrupt (v. tó). chih li-lī, broken quite in two. kóe li-lī, quite cured, as of opium. kóe-bōe-lī, unable quite to break it off, as opium-smoking.

liáh (= là). kóng-liáh-liáng, to joke and jest.

liáh, to break off, as a splinter. liáh chit-tè, id. liáh-khì-lāi, to break off with the hand, as splinter; to split off (neuter). liáh-bin, to break off small splinters from a piece of wood slightly smoothed.

liáh [R. liók, a small quantity; in average, in general, or by rough calculation, = col. liòh]. liáh-siáu, to make a rough examination of an account to see if it be correct; e.g. comparing a few places at random with vouchers or other accounts. liáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id.; also, to take a rough estimate of our gains or losses, or of the state of an account (s. seize).

liáh (R. liók?) ka-liáh, a very large round bamboo tray. phah ka-liáh (T.), to make one's body go like a wheel round and round with feet and hands.

liáh (R. liók), to seize; to arrest; to apprehend; to lay hold of; to force to do something; to lay on loosely, as thatch or tiles; to plait, as queue; to shampoo; to help men to get a sedan on their shoulders; to measure by spans; a span length; to regard or consider as —.

kú-liáh, how many spans? liáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, measure by spans (s. general). pi-liáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id.

liáh-tāng, to become possessed by a demon, as an enchanter. liáh soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to look for auspicious grave-sites, as geomancer. liáh-lêng, to shampoo. túi-kún liáh-lêng (Cn.), id. liáh-kún, to beat the air in boxing exercise (v. kún). liáh-soa, to pinch, &c., for the cure of colic or cholera.

liáh iên-chhun, to hold in the hand and feed quails for gambling. liáh-kiō, to help the bearers to get the sedan on their shoulders.

liáh-lāu, to examine a roof or a vessel to find and stop leaks. liáh kiáu-sat, to find fault wherever possible (v. sat). liáh i-ê péh-chhát, to catch him telling a lie.

liáh tsòe-àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, to suppose it to be so. liáh-hó tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>, to count good to be bad. liáh-ñg tsòe-chhiah, to mistake yellow for red.

liáh-chiet, to take off discount on goods. liáh

離

掠
摘
畧歷
掠

痢

俐

利

tiong-hô, to split the difference (v. tiong). liáh-hô, to join together against another (v. hô). liáh sí-koat, to be very obstinate. liáh ngi<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>, to sail on one tack right on with a strong wind; very dogged and immovable, listening to no advice or entreaty. liáh-tûg pé-té, to make up for defects (lit. short) by counterbalancing points of superior excellence.

liáh-chháu, to thatch. liáh chháu-chhù, id. liáh-liáh, to lay on loosely without fastening, as tiles. liáh thâu-tsang, to plait the queue.

liáh-iâm, to seize smuggled salt. liáh-iau, to seize evil spiritual influences, as an idol carried about, or as a sorcerer. liáh-hái, to catch sea animals, esp. at low water.

liáh-lâng, to take a prisoner or a captive; to seize or kidnap people. thau-liáh, to seize or catch secretly; to kidnap. thau-liáh-koe, to steal a fowl. khim-liáh, to arrest; to seize. ù-khim-liáh, to have some property or relatives, &c., which make some security to a creditor. chhi<sup>n</sup>-khim oáh-liáh--khi, to take alive, as a prisoner in war; said also of a man dying very suddenly, as if carried off by demons. chhi<sup>n</sup>-khim oáh-liáh, id.; also, to urge a man very hard to come to a place or to do something. liáh-i tsòe-thâu, to press him to take the lead and the chief responsibility (as all the persons associated do) in a subscription or work done in common. liáh iâm-siong, to compel a man to farm the salt revenue. kiông-liáh, to seize violently, as a prisoner; to compel the rich to make contributions to government; to compel a man by strong pressure to do something much against his will. khít--i liáh-kè-bé, to be so much weaker that we yield to him without thought of resistance (lit. dragged on his horse). kiap-liáh, to plunder and take captives, as highway-robbers.

liáh-pûi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. phâng pñg-táu, to bring in the bucket or large dish of boiled rice for a meal.

liák (C.), = A. liók (R.), to seize.

liam — liam-liam, walking softly and noiselessly. kiã<sup>n</sup>-lê liam-liam, id. liam-kha, id. liam-kha-kiã<sup>n</sup>, id., so as to avoid making a noise, as in presence of a superior. liam-kha bih-chhiú, advancing secretly and noiselessly so as to be unobserved.

liam [R. id., = col. ni<sup>n</sup>], to take up or catch a small thing between finger and thumb. liam-khau, to draw lots. liam-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to take up incense-sticks and offer them in worship, as in the phé-tê rites, and as by mandarins twice a month. liam-keng tah-chi<sup>n</sup>, to take the bow and draw the arrow. liam chhân-i<sup>n</sup>, to catch a dragon-fly between finger and thumb.

liam — khah-liam, rather less than —. khah-liam chit-pah, rather less than a hundred, e.g. 97 or so.

liám [R. lîm, to come down; to arrive]. liám-pi<sup>n</sup>, immediately. liám-mi<sup>n</sup>, id. liám-pi<sup>n</sup> kóng, liám-pi<sup>n</sup> kiã<sup>n</sup>, done as soon as said. liám-pi<sup>n</sup> hó-hong, liám-pi<sup>n</sup> pháí<sup>n</sup>-hong, at one moment a fair wind, and immediately a contrary wind. liám-sí, immediately; suddenly. liám-sí liám-tsûn, id. liám-tong-sí, id.

hê-liám (Cn.), very speedily; very soon. khah-hê-liám (Cn.), be quick! tsá-liám-ngá (Cn.), a very short time ago.

liám [R. liên, connected, = col. liáp]. kha-chhiú liám-chiáp, hands and feet nimble (v. chiáp).

liám (= lîm). poà<sup>n</sup>-liám-hã<sup>n</sup> (esp. T.), hung up unfinished, as affair (v. há<sup>n</sup>).

liám (R. id.), to glue; to paste; to paste on; clammy; adhesive; to fasten together, as by paste or by hooks; a surname.

liám-liám, adhesive; adhering closely. liám-lô, id. lô-liám-hiu<sup>n</sup>, sort of adhesive gum. liám thi-thi, adhering or sticking very closely. sa<sup>n</sup>-liám, joined together (lit. or fig.) sa<sup>n</sup>-liám tî-toà, united closely, as relations, or as parts of the body; very much involved (as an affair) with other people's affairs.

si<sup>n</sup>-liám, to grow soft and damp, as cakes or sweetmeats just before growing mouldy.

liám-he, to plaster with mortar. liám pui-thâu, to make the gable-head with lime. liám-ka, to glue together.

liám (cf. ní<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, eaves). hui-liám tsáu-piah, to climb over eaves and walls.

liám [R. a sort of halbert]. khau-liám, a sort of halbert, with a shaft about five feet long and blade about one foot long, crooked like a sickle. khau-liám-to, id. khau-liám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, a spear with two prongs, one crooked and one straight. liám-á (C.), a crooked knife for cutting grass and fuel.

kha-liám-to, the foot used as a hook for tripping up another.

liám [R. the shin or lower leg]. kha-liám, the shin. kha-phí<sup>n</sup>-liám, id. chhâu-kha-liám, having a sore or ulcer on the shin. chhâu-phí<sup>n</sup>-liám, id. chhâu-kha-phí<sup>n</sup>-liám, id. si<sup>n</sup> kha-phí<sup>n</sup>-liám, to get such an ulcerous sore.

liám [R. lîm, rain; constant dropping]. hê liám-lî, constant heavy rains.

liám [R. bride's toilet or trousseau]. tsng-liám, marriage portion given to a daughter (gen. of clothes and such articles; sometimes includes landed property).

liám [R. sparing; pure; uncorrupted], a surname. chheng-liám, pure and uncorrupted by avarice, as a mandarin. ù-liám-thí, to have a strong sense of propriety and respect for one's own character (v. thí). tiong-hâu liám-chiet, faithful, filial, pure, and correct in conduct.

ióng-liám, a small sum added to a mandarin's theoretical salary, said to be paid in order to keep him from extortion and bribes. ióng-liám ê-gún, id. iáng-liám (C.), id.

liám [R. name of a fish]. liám-hí, a large fish from Siam and Cochín-china, counted very good. toá-liám, the largest sort of it. sió-liám, the smallest. tiong-liám, medium-sized do.

liám [R. the cheek, = col. lién]. liám-biën, character; respectability; prestige (v. biën).

liám [R. to dress a corpse for the coffin], (C. liám). siu-liám, to put a corpse in the coffin. jip-liám, id.

liám [R. to gather; to collect]. liám-séng, very sparing and economical in the use of money. liám khah-chió, to use fewer or a smaller quantity. khiám-liám, very sparing in what one uses. ná<sup>n</sup>-liám, ná<sup>n</sup>-lî, by taking less and less you will gradually get free from the habit, e.g. of opium-smoking.

kek-liám, to embezzle by paying less money than should be paid, and pocketing the balance. kek-liám ka-kî, to deny one's self in a matter of expense, or for the benefit of others. kek-liám gún-hun, to pay a man the correct number of dollars, but worse or lighter, and pocket the difference. kek-liám lîng-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to pay a man less than he should have, while drawing the whole. kek-liám i--ê chiáh-

黏粘

簷鏹

廉

淋

奩

廉

魚鮎

臉

殮

歛

點

沾

臨

連

chhēng, to give him less food and clothing than he is entitled to. khek-liám kun-niū<sup>n</sup>, to embezzle soldiers' pay. khek-liám ke-sū, to give one's family too little money and squander it on one's self. khek-liám khah-séng, to be too stingy in the expenses we allow to others. khek-liám jit-sit, to be very sparing in expenses for daily food, as for economy, or as starving his family for his own bad pleasures. khek-liám liáng--ê jit-sit, to embezzle part of the money intrusted to us for feeding others, giving them too little.

liám (=lám). pau-liám-bé, to be responsible for any deficiency in a subscription.

liám (R. id.), to pinch; to pinch off; to pluck with the fingers. liám-hiet-kák, to pinch off and throw away. liám-chhài, to pick off the skin, leaves, &c., from vegetables before cooking. liám-khang, to make a hole with fingers, as in a cap.

liám-miá<sup>n</sup>, to get one's name withdrawn from a case (as by a payment) so as not to be further involved. liám-bōe-tng, cannot well break off the connection (v. tng).

liám-chih (lit. to catch the tongue), said in scolding a child, &c. (v. chih). thau-ni<sup>n</sup> thau-liám, constantly stealing (v. thau). hoái<sup>n</sup>-chháu bō-ni<sup>n</sup>, tit-chháu bō-liám, said of a very gentle or very honest man.

liám [R. to reflect upon; to repeat], to recite or repeat, as a lesson or prayer; in consideration of —. liám--tiōh, out of consideration for —. liám--tiōh i-ê-chēng, in consideration of his kindness. put-chí liám-gi, showing much gratefulness, as for favour done to one's self or to relatives, &c. tài-liám, on account of; in consideration of —. siáu-liám, to think of with warm affection, as relative or friend; to remember kindness with gratitude. ki-liám, to think of with grateful remembrance, as of some favour or kindness, or as of parents' instructions. koà-liám, to think anxiously about. khoà-liám, id. sim liám, to bear on the mind, esp. a desire to do something. sim-sim liám-liám, id. hoái-liám (R.), to cherish some feelings, e.g. affection. tui-liám (R.), to meditate on kindness shown long ago.

liám-kè, to ask too high a price.

liám-chheh, to recite books. oát-liám, to say a lesson with one's back to the teacher. thiu-liám, to take a passage at random (ad aperturam) for the scholar to recite. liám-tsái<sup>n</sup>, to practise songs. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-liám-hó, to sing well. liám-phé, to repeat the notes of a tune by name. liám-keng, to recite religious books; to say off written prayers, e.g. Buddhist. liám-kōng, to say certain Buddhist prayers or incantations. liám-sē, another sort. liám-chiū, to mutter spells (v. chiū). chiū-liám, to curse. lōe-liám, to swear at one.

tsáp-liám, to talk incessantly (said in scolding); incoherent or delirious talk. liám-liám lēh-lēh, constant discontented talk (v. lēh). ngáuh-ngáuh-liám, to grumble by talking indistinctly when not daring to speak out. ngiáuh-ngiáuh-liám, id. m-thang-liám, do not mention it, as some inauspicious word. ū-lāng teh-liám--goá, some one is speaking of me (said when the ear itches).

liám, a handful, as of grass or grain taken in the hand when cutting. chit-liám, one do. si-liám-hē, crossed twice, as usual form of the string on a parcel. si-liám-hē (T.), id. phah-si-liám-hē, to tie a string so.

thâu-mâg liám-chiū<sup>n</sup>--ê, the first wife ever married by a man.

liám, a bit, as of a melon. chit-liám, one do. kim-koe-liám, a bit of a pumpkin.

liám (C.) siu-liám, = A. siu-liám, to put a corpse in the coffin.

lian, lián, lián, liàn, liān; better lien, lién, lién, liēn (q.v.)

liàng — kóng-lá-liàng, to joke and jest. kóng-liá-liàng, id.

liàng (R. id.), cool. liàng-léng, id. chheng-liàng, pleasantly cool, as weather; having a cooling influence on the system (not merely cool to the touch), as food or medicine. chhiu-liàng, cool autumn weather. liàng-hiet (T. liông), cooling for the blood, as some eatables. kê-liàng, to plaster (as a boil) with herbs to make it cool. liàng-pi<sup>n</sup>, an awning spread for coolness. liàng-tēng, id. liàng-hún, a sort of vermicelli swimming in syrup, for hot weather.

liàng (C.), = A. liông, good.

liàng (C.), = A. liông, to consult.

liàng (C.), = A. liông, sort of grain.

liàng (C.), = A. liông, two.

liàng (R. id.), transparent or translucent. kng-liàng, brilliant and translucent, as a gem. bēng-liàng, bright, as a lamp; transparent, as glass (s. clear voice). péh-liàng, transparent colourless crystal button, of fifth rank. chhi<sup>n</sup>-liàng, transparent blue button, of third rank.

liàng (R. id.), clear and loud, as voice in shouting or singing. hiàng-liàng, loud and wide-echoing, as sound. bēng-liàng (C.), clear and distinct, as voice (s. transparent).

liàng (C.), = A. liông, capacity; measure. chīn-liàng-kú, very long, in time.

liàng (C.), = A. liông (to suppose).

liap [R. to whisper], a surname.

liap [R. to work up with the fingers, as clay, = col. liáp], to make fraudulent use of a name. mē<sup>n</sup>-liap, id. liap-miá<sup>n</sup>, id.

liáp (R. liap), to work or mould in the hands, as clay; to work the fingers gently on the palm, as a child; to take a thing in the hand, closing the fingers gently. thê-liáp--ê, formed of clay, as idol. m-thang-liáp, don't take or catch it in your hand, as some delicate, fragile, or beautiful article (said to a child). liáp-sái liáp-jiō, cleaning away an infant's excrements and urine with the hand, as parent or nurse.

liáp [R. liám, to adhere]. put-chí-liáp, very intimate with a person.

liáp [R. lién, connected, = col. liám]. kha-chhiú liáp-chiáp, quick at any work.

liáp (R. liáp), a grain, as of wheat, rice, &c.; classifier of balls, grains, round fruits, small insects, stars, and large rocks in water.

toā-liáp, very large, said of any of such things very large and fat, or as man. toā-bú-liáp, very tall fat man. toā-liáp-béng, very powerful and influential. toā-liáp-hē, rain in very large drops. sió-liáp-chí, said of a little man. khah-sòe-liáp, less powerful; having less influence to back him; smaller, as anything classified by "liáp."

iù-liáp-mih<sup>n</sup>, goods having great value in small bulk.

liáp-chek, to gather up, as wealth, little by little (v. chek). kú-liáp-á, a small quantity.

攪
捻

念

凉

亮

亮

聃

擗

捏

捏

粘

粘

粒

jiip-liáp, the grain well formed in the ear. bí-liáp, rice grains. pŭng-liáp, grains of boiled rice used as paste.

liát, better liét (q. v.)

liáu, stiff, as limbs drawn up from cold, numbness, or fear, or as near death. kha liáu, chhiú liáu, limbs weak and stiff and drawn up, as through fear or illness. kha-chhiú liáu, id.

ngi<sup>n</sup>-liáu, too stiff and hard, as point of pen, or as boards of bed, or eatables, or dress, &c.; too stiff in discussion, or in ordering others, or in pressing one's claims.

liáu [R. a companion]. tông-liáu (R.), a mandarin who is a friend or companion of another official.

liáu [R. a hut]. tah-liáu, to erect a hut or rough shed. liáu-á, a hut. chháu-liáu, a straw hut. chháu-á-liáu, a shed for selling fuel. tek-liáu, a store where bamboos are sold. pùn-liáu, a place where manure is stored and sold. khang-khè-liáu, a shed for workmen, as a house building, or at a carpenter's yard. ki<sup>n</sup>-liáu, a straw hut for watching crops; a shed for the watch, as in street, or near city gate.

liáu [R. a rope; to bind]. liáu-soh, small ropes attached to the sail, all meeting in the main sheet. pháng-liáu-soh, id. liáu-á-soh, id. liáu-bú, the large rope in which the others meet; the main sheet. toá-liáu, id.; also, the man who has charge of the ropes in a large junk. thâu-liáu, these ropes of the foremast.

kè-liáu, to pass the ropes from the one side of the vessel to the other in tacking; to get over a difficulty, as by borrowing a little money (s. voice). hē--i kè-liáu, lend him a little to help him over the difficulty. pàng-hē--i kè-liáu, to let off, as a man who has committed some fault. kè-liáu--khi, opportunity quite lost.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-liáu, sailing with wind about abeam. ngi<sup>n</sup>-liáu, sailing near the wind with press of sail. ngi<sup>n</sup>-liáu-chhi, id.

liáu [same word?]. kha-liáu, iron fetters for the feet. kha-liáu chhiú-khàu, fetters and manacles.

liáu [R. an initial particle; careless; to depend upon]. kha-liáu-lêng, less severe, as disease or scarcity, &c. (v. lêng). liáu-chhiá<sup>n</sup> (R.), using temporarily, though not very suitable. liáu-thien liáu-thien, easy-minded (s. run off).

bū-liáu, having a feeling of weariness or ennui from having nothing to do, or no friend or companion; feeling lonely and dull.

liáu [R. distant]. liáu-á-sī, slowly and cautiously. liáu-á-kiá<sup>n</sup>, walk slowly.

liáu-tang, the part of Manchuria (Liau-tung) where New-chwang stands, on the east of the river Liáu.

liáu [R. anxious; grieved]. liáu-bāng, to watch earnestly for, as friend or foe.

liáu [R. tiâu, a branch; anything long and slender], a long strip; said of walls and of lines of work in building, &c.; to tear along a fold, as paper; to saw up longitudinally, as wood.

í-liáu, a wooden bench. chiòh-liáu, a long stone slab used for a seat; a stone bench. kún-liáu, a narrow band for the border of a cap or dress. khan-thiu-liáu, a broad band sewed on like a hem. pè-liáu, a narrow strip of cloth. tsoá-liáu-á, long strips of paper torn evenly. moá<sup>n</sup>-liáu, a long-shaped confection made with hemp-seed (v. moá<sup>n</sup>). chit-liáu-bah, a large thick slice of pork, that can be cut into several slices. chit-liáu-á, said of a man's face when very thin.

liáu-kù, to do sawyer's work. liáu-chhâ, to saw up timber longitudinally. liáu-tsoá, to tear paper along a fold or crease, or along a straight edge.

liáu, to run off (in thieves' slang). liáu--lâi, to come (esp. by the roof), as a thief. liáu--khì, to go so. liáu-thien, to run away, as a thief, esp. by the roof (v. thien), (s. careless).

liáu — liáu-lô, banditti; a band of robbers (v. lô).

liáu — phia<sup>n</sup>-liáu, the middle part of an animal (e. g. of a pig), including the ribs (v. phia<sup>n</sup>). liáu-bah, the flesh of this part.

liáu [R. sound of the voice, &c.] tŭng-liáu, to change the time or rate in music. kè-liáu, id. (s. rope). at-liáu-phék, according to proper rules and time, as any work (v. phék). kàu-liáu, minute and exact in business, or in managing matters. kàu-liáu kàu-siáu, just come to the time exactly proper for doing something; preparing just the proper quantity, neither too much nor too little. bô-liáu bô-siáu, managing matters in a careless or random way. ū-liáu ū-tiâu, good at singing. ū-liáu ū-siáu (C.), id.

liáu, to wade. liáu-tsúi, to wade through water; to ford a stream. liáu-téh, to wade over the wet seabeach. liáu chhân-hoá<sup>n</sup>, to wade through the wet parts of the raised boundaries between rice-fields.

liáu (T.) = A. jiâu. khiâu-khiâu liáu-liáu, crooked and uneven, as a piece of wood.

liáu (R. id.), to finish; finished; after; to spend; used to give a perfect or pluperfect sense to verbs. kóng-liáu chiū-khi, go after speaking. sí-liáu, after death. sí liáu-âu, id. chiáh--liáu, after having eaten. chiáh-liáu, to eat up the whole (v. chiáh). pái--liáu, all lost! kè-liáu-sí, soah-liáu-tâi, old affairs that are quite past, and should not be brought up again. bô--liáu, all spent, finished, or gone; nothing remains. bô-liáu bô-chin, endless. bô-liáu-sí, id. bô-liáu-kiók, cannot be brought to an end, as a troublesome quarrel. kóng-bôe-liáu, cannot manage to tell the whole.

liáu-koa<sup>n</sup>, to be deposed from office and rank. liáu-chi<sup>n</sup>, to spend money. ke-hé liáu, property all spent. kan-ta liáu, all lost or spent uselessly. péh-péh liáu, id. liáu-chin, quite spent; all used or done. liáu theh-theh (Cn.), id.

liáu-liáu, altogether; in great numbers or quantities. sí liáu-liáu, they are all dead. lāng liáu-liáu, there are men in great numbers.

liáu-jiên, understanding clearly; plainly understood. it-bók liáu-jiên, seeing all at one glance. liáu-chiét, quick at observing the real state of a case, or forming a resolution without vacillation (v. chiét). liáu-gō (R.), to awake to know the emptiness of the world.

liáu (R. id.), a surname. liáu-lâi, Rhio, in the Dutch possessions.

liáu [R. liáu, a rope]. chhin-liáu, the rope or string of a steelyard. gū-liáu, the rope by which a cow is tied or led. gū-liáu-soh, id. bé-liáu-soh, rope by which a horse is tied or led.

liáu [R. materials; to expect; to manage], materials, of any sort. bô-liáu, without materials; did not think of it beforehand; would not have expected it. liáu--tióh, to expect beforehand. kiên-liáu kiên-tióh, all his guesses or predictions come true. liáu-chhut,

凋

僚寮

繚

僚聊

遼

僚僚

條

條寮

了

廖僚料

to conjecture correctly beforehand. liáu-sióng put-tò, did not consider before so far as that. put-chhut ngó-só-liáu, it is exactly as I expected or reckoned.

liáu-lí, to manage, as affair or business.

phín-liáu, materials. chhâi-liáu, id. liáu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a list of materials to be used, e.g. for building. m-chiâ<sup>n</sup>-liáu, insufficient, as a remnant of material. m-chiâ<sup>n</sup> chhâi-liáu, id.; also of a useless man. pân-liáu, to prepare materials, as for building a house. pân koá-liáu, I have made ready a few things for you to eat. kia<sup>n</sup>-liáu, articles from Peking, or of very good quality.

liáu--ê, imitations, as of gems or of silver. liáu-si-teng, sort of lantern (v. si). siang-liáu, a very strong double-distilled spirit, made in Amoy. siang-liáu-chiú, id.

âng-liáu, bricks and tiles of all sorts. chhâ-liáu, timber. bák-liáu, id. sam-liáu, timber of the fir wood called "sam." sek-liáu, colours (prepared) or materials for colours. chhat-liáu, materials for making varnish. ióh-liáu, medicines in an unprepared state. chio-liáu, spices. chiú<sup>n</sup>-liáu, various condiments made with "tàu-chiú<sup>n</sup>" (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). chiú-liáu, things to be eaten with liquor. tê-liáu, tea-bread, &c. (v. tê). thng-liáu, sweetmeats. tang-koe-liáu, thin bits of sugared cucumber. chháu-liáu, provender. pak-té bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-liáu, very little in one's stomach; e.g. said when asked to go a long way. pak-té-lái bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-liáu, having no ability for literary composition.

liáuh, expression of sudden surprise, as on breaking something or letting it fall.

lién [R. lién, a mere sound]. lê-lién, words called out while the music is being made at the beginning of a play. lê-lién liú-lién, id. lê-liú-lién, id. lóng-liú-lién, id. lê-li-lin (T.), id. lê-li-lién, id. toà--teh lê-li-lién, waiting doing nothing, either as having nothing to do, or as when wilfully idle. toà--teh lóng-liú-lién (C.), id.

lién [same word?]. ka-lí-lién, not yet near the end (v. ka).

lién, to curl up, as leaves in drought, or as the edges of a grass-cloth dress. kng-lién, id. khauto-lién (C.), shavings of wood.

lién (R. id.) lién-hí, a sort of large fish.

lién [R. lân, to compassionate; to pity]. hó-lién, alas! what a pity!

lién [R. bién, lién, united; in succession; scrolls with antithetic sentences], ornamental scrolls in pairs, with antithetic sentences, hung on walls, or pasted on doors.

lién-lók, united, as the people of a region under a head man (v. lók). lién-hiong, villages combining; of the same village (v. hiong).

lién-pâi, antithetical scrolls, as for hanging on walls. lién-tui, id. chit-tui-lién, a pair of them. toà-pak-lién, very large scrolls for wall. mng-lién, antithetical inscriptions pasted on doors or door-posts. mng-khiá-lién, do., on door-posts.

lién [R. united; connected, = col. nng, n<sup>n</sup>], connected; a surname; and even; even also. sa<sup>n</sup>-lién, connected. sa<sup>n</sup>-lién-toà, id. (v. toà). kiet-lién, joined, as in one enterprise or confederacy. lién-âu, afterwards. lién-soà, doing several things in succession. lién-tháh, in rapid succession (v. tháh). lién-lién, successively; in rapid succession. lién-lién-phah, to strike several blows in rapid succession.

lién-chiét, rapidly passing from one literary degree to another. kho-kah lién-teng, to become Kujin and Tsin-sze in rapid succession. lién-hoán-chheng, a running fire (v. hoán).

lién-lúi, to involve in the consequences. khan-lién, involved in another's (legal) case, as by name appearing in a document or in spoken evidence. lién-hoán-kiet, a joint bond made by several householders (v. hoán).

pí-lién, conterminous, as fields; having a common wall, as houses. pí-lién (T.), id. lién-kúi, a shop-counter.

lién-oá<sup>n</sup> iáh-chí, he licks even the bowl, said of a greedy man. beh-lái, lién-bú bô, trying to get interest he loses the principal too.

chit-tng khah-lién, rather more than ten feet long. lién-hôe, destitute, miserable, and of ruined character, without any hope of getting into a better way of life (v. hôe).

lién (R. lêng), a word used like a cipher in writing, = không. nng-pah lién-sa<sup>n</sup>, 203. chit-chheng lién si-tsáp, 1040.

lién [R. lêng, name of a plant]. lién-chi-chhó, a fabulous plant of good omen.

lién [R. the water-lily and such plants], (T. nài<sup>n</sup>, Cn. nũ<sup>n</sup>, in some phrases). lién-hoe, the water-lily. hô-lién, small white water-lily. gē-si-lién, a water-lily that opens at mid-day. pek-tsú-lién, a flower like a lily with a tall stalk and a large bunch of beautiful blue flowers (lit. hundred); the Agapanthes. chhit-hióh-lién, a medical plant with large pinnate leaves, somewhat like the elder. tò-tiàu-lién, a small green bird, fond of hanging by its feet; a plant that grows abundantly hanging down on cliffs and old walls. lién-chiáu, the red-flowering arum.

cheng-lién, a rich bluish purple, of medium darkness, like the flowers of the pek-tsú-lién. kim-lién, women's small feet. chhái-lién-thâu, the chief subscriber to an "ông-tsún" (v. chhái).

lién-chí, seed of water-lily. lién-chí-sim, the sprout or germ in the centre of it. kng-lién, water-lily seeds from Canton. kién-lién, do., from Fuhkien. lién-jiók, lobes of the seed. lién-pê, its seed-vessel. lién-hoe-pê, id. lién-ngâu, water-lily roots.

lién (R. id.) tah-lién, a double bag hung over the shoulder. pê tah-lién, to carry it. phai<sup>n</sup> tah-lién (C.), id.

lién [R. a year, = col. n<sup>n</sup>]. siàu-lién, young. siàu-lién-lâng, a young man. siàu-lién-lién, very young. siàu-lién ló-sêng, young but wise like an old man. tióng-lién, of middle age, about 30 to 40. ló-lién, aged. sam-lién-song, mourning for three years (v. song). lién-keng, the cyclical characters for the year of one's birth. lién-mâu<sup>n</sup>, age and appearance of face (v. mẩu<sup>n</sup>). ôi-hiú bân-lién, to leave a bad memory for ten thousand years.

lién [R. lân, misery; painful]. kái-lién-keng, a yellow paper with characters on it, tied to the "thòe-sin" and burned to avert calamity.

lién (C.) lién-chí, = A. lái-chí, the fruit called lichí or lai-chí.

lién [R. to tread]. pê-lién, to walk on foot. tit-tit-lién, to go on foot right on.

lién — lién-bùn, = hoan-ké-chí, a fruit from the Straits and Formosa.

lién (= lám). pau-lién-bé, to engage to make up whatever may be wanting in a subscription.

連

魚連
憐
聯

連

零
令
葉
蓮

連
年

難

攬

臉

lién [R. the cheek, = col. liám]. phī-lién, impudent; brazen-faced. ngé-sek-lién, a wild violent rough character. koāi-lién, taking up a position of disobedience or opposition, as one (esp. an inferior) who had formerly always agreed or assisted. siáu-phī-lién, despicably mean and miserly in dealing, holding to the last farthing. siú<sup>n</sup>-lién, to give a favour out of respect to a third person. bô-kè-lién, utterly careless of character; willing to do any shameful thing for a little gain. sit-lién, to lose one's reputation or prestige; not daring to hold up one's head, on account of something wrong, e.g. a great defeat in some quarrel. lak-lién, to lose one's respectability, influence, or prestige. lap-lién (C.), id. lok-lién, to become very poor or in low circumstances.

撚

lién (R. id.), to twirl; to get money out of people improperly, esp. by threats. lién-hī, to brush the inside of the ears after shaving. lién phī<sup>n</sup>-khang, to clean or tickle the nostrils, as with a bit of wood.

lién-pó, a sort of gambling (v. pó). lién hoe-hē, to twirl the teetotum, as keeper of gambling-house (v. hē). lién phak-chhiò, to twirl cash for odds and evens. péng-ka-lién-phak, to invert, as a cup. lién-chī<sup>n</sup>, to twirl a cash (s. sedan).

lién-á, an instrument for twirling opium in the flame. hong-chhe-lién, a toy made to turn with the wind. tsoá-lién, small rolls of twisted paper (used as matches). tsoá-lién-hé, do. lighted. so tsoá-lién, to make them. tsóa-lién-teng, same dipped in oil and used as a light; also (without oil) used for binding books. tsoá-lién-kun, do. for binding books.

gâu lién-khang, good at getting money out of people in all ways, as by cheating, intimidation, and various pretexts. gâu lién-tsoán, id. gâu lién-chī<sup>n</sup>, id. lién lêng-ê-chī<sup>n</sup>, to get money out of people by all means; to extort money on false pretences, esp. as underlings of mandarins and mean literati. lo-lién, to get money out of people by hook or by crook, as by urgent dunning or by intimidation. gâu lo-lién, good at getting money or getting a situation for one's self by such means.

輦

lién (R. id.), sedan of emperor or idol. khang-lién, an empty idol's sedan. lién-kiò, a carved sedan for an idol. put-lién, id. lêng-chhia hong-lién, imperial carriage and sedan.

lién-kha, persons who carry an idol in their chair. lién-khg. poles of an idol's sedan. lién-chī<sup>n</sup>, a wheel used for grinding in a long trough-shaped mortar; a solid wheel without spokes; a single wheel (though with spokes), as in a wheel-barrow (s. twirl).

koan-lién, to perform rites to call the spirit to the image in the sedan. kng-lién, to carry the idol's sedan. lôe-lién, to run along carrying it.

lién (C.), = A. lín, to trundle about; to stir about with the hand. lién-lóh-khì, to roll and tumble down, as a precipice. f<sup>n</sup>-lién-lién, quite round. pē<sup>n</sup> kàu-i<sup>n</sup>-lién-lién, very unwell.

鍊

lién [R. a chain]. thih-lién, an iron chain. gūn-lién, a white metal chain (used for suspending the pouch). gūn-lién-á, id. koá-lién, to wear a chain; to be chained. koá só-lién, id. toá-lién, id.

煉

lién — lién-ki<sup>n</sup>, a flail (v. kf<sup>n</sup>). lién-ké<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. lién (R. id.), to prepare in the fire, as gold, or as the elixir of immortality. thoàn-lién (r.), to try in the fire, as gold or silver (v. thoàn). lién-tan, to prepare the Taoist elixir of immortality. siu-lién, to follow the Taoist rules for virtue and health.

tsoan-lién, to be skilful at one special kind of work [is this next word?].

lién (R. id.), to practise; to drill; to exercise one's self at a thing (sometimes said of beating). láu-lién, well practised in a thing; experienced. lién-tát (r.), id. lién kàu-sék, to practise till we can do it well. lién-sék, experienced; practised. ná<sup>n</sup>-lién ná<sup>n</sup>-sék, practice makes perfection. bat kè-lién, to have been drilled; experienced; well-trained. kàu-lién -- ê, thoroughly taught and skilful (as artisan or boxer), and able to teach others. lién-jī, to practise writing. chhau-lién, to exercise, as soldiers. thoàn-lién, method of dividing a town into small districts (about one street), each having a head man, and furnishing some volunteers to be ready in case of rebellion or disturbance. lién-ióng, the braves or volunteers thus supplied. lién-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head man of such a subdivision. lién-tsng (Ch.), the head men of several villages united to put down plundering, &c. (v. tsng).

lién-khi-hoát, to work up very carefully, as pills (v. hoát).

ták-jit teh-lién, constantly beating, as an apprentice or daughter-in-law. éng-ki<sup>n</sup> lâi-lién, thresh with a flail.

liét [R. lèk, wide open], (C. lèh). khui liét-liét, quite fully wide open, as door or window. khui khah-liét, open more fully wide. peh-si-liét, opened quite square and wide. m̄g khui si-liét, door opened so.

liét [R. to arrange; several], a row; a rank. kui-liét, making a whole row; the whole length of the row. lâng chē kui-liét, the people sit in a row.

pâi-liét, to arrange in order.

liét-kok, the several kingdoms; the feudal states of the Chow dynasty. liét-ûi, polite phrase in addressing several persons. lín liét-ûi, id. liét-ûi péng-iú, id.

liét [R. burning; ardent]. chiet-liét, so pure and chaste as to commit suicide, as a widow who will not marry a second time, or as a virgin. liét-lú, id. liét-lú put-kà jī-hu, a chaste woman will not marry a second husband. tióng-liét-sū, a temple (at the side of the Confucian temple) set up by government for canonized mandarins who died for their country. tióng-liét-biò, do. set up by private persons.

kek-liét, using very strong or violent language, as in disputing.

liét-liét-háu, loud sound, as of the wind, or of stiff paper shaken, or of metal-plate struck, &c.

lih — lih-khiét, very deceitful, intriguing, and injurious, as a man.

lih [R. liét, to tear, = col. lèh], to tear; a rent; to open out, as a seam or joint. thiah-lih, to tear open, as a letter; to tear, as cloth or paper. thoa-lih, to tear asunder, as by horses. phoà-lih, to rend asunder. lih-phoà, id. lih-khui, to open out, as a joint or seam. khìh-khìh lih-lih, having flaws and cracks, as pottery. lih-kè-lâi, lih-kè-khì, to tear alternately on opposite sides, as in making a strip of paper into a long string.

toā-lih, a large rent. sòe-lih, a small rent. sòe-lih i-kàu-toā-lih, to make bad worse. ta<sup>n</sup> lih-lah, now it is quite spoiled or ruined, as thing or affair; now it is all up.

chhiò-lih-lih, to laugh with the mouth open all its length. kut-chih bah-lih, bones broken and flesh torn. soa<sup>n</sup>-pang tōe-lih, mountains falling and earth rending, as in earthquake.

練

闊

列

烈

裂

lim, to drink, especially in small quantities, or slowly (but "chiáh" is far more commonly the translation of "drink"); to sip. kan-ta-lim, to drink without eating. sah<sup>n</sup>-sim-lim, to gulp down in great quantities. hê<sup>n</sup>-lim, fond of drink. lim-thng, to drink warm soup. lim-chiáh, to eat and drink. lim-thín kông-phah, fond of drinking and fighting. lim-ta, to drink till empty, as a cup. lim-bô-ta, to drink but not empty.

lim [R. a forest, = col. nâ<sup>n</sup>], a surname. hân-lim, the Han-lin or Imperial Academy at Peking; a member of it. hân-lim-î<sup>n</sup>, that academy. jip hân-lim, to become a member of it. thiáu hân-lim, to choose members of it from among the Tsin-sze. hân-lim-liók, list of members when new ones are added.

ún-ku san-lim, to dwell solitary in mountains and forests (said originally of a sort of hermits); said also of a man who has money living in learned ease and retirement. gū-lim-kun, the palace guards.

lim (reduplication of tím). toā-lim, = toā-tím, exceedingly —. tím-lim, to sink down, as in water.

lim [R. name of disease]. kek-lim, passing urine bloody or with difficulty, as from calculus or other diseases, often from bad diseases. hiet-lim, urine bloody or dark. soa-lim, the disease of urinary calculus.

lim [R. to descend; to arrive at]. kàng-lim, to descend, as a spirit or a god. lim-kàu, id. chhin-lim, to go in person to a place to manage a case, as a mandarin. ngé-hok lim-bûn, may all sorts of happiness come on this house.

sū lim-sin, serious trouble come upon (him). tāi-chi lim-sin, id. tsai-ê lim-sin, great calamities come on (him). kàu-lim-sin, when it (trouble, &c.) comes on him, &c. lim-chiong, near death. lim-tin, to go into battle. lim-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to come to the place of battle, or of examination (as scholar). lim-kip, come to a crisis; in great or urgent danger or need (v. kip). lim-gúí, in imminent and great danger. lim-hiám, id. lim-phún, to be in childbirth. lim-súí hu-jín, the goddess of childbirth.

lim-thiap, to copy from copy-books containing copies of ancient characters.

lim [R. rain]. chhiu-lim, autumn rains in great quantities for several days. kam-lim (R.), rain in season of need, as after drought.

lim [R. to drip; to pour upon; to soak, = col. lám]. lim-lí, long-continued heavy rains. chêng-kan, put-khéng khi; su-thái ú-lim-lí, if you won't go in fine weather, you will have to wait (when you wish to go) till the heavy rains are over.

lim [R. a granary]. lim-seng, the literary rank just above a Sew-tsai. lim-pó, id., so called because his recommendation is necessary for the candidates for the degree of Sew-tsai. pang-lim, to become a lim-seng.

lim [R. to fear; to reverence]. ui-hong lim-lim, very terrible and majestic, as a mandarin or warrior.

lim — lim-lim-á, just barely enough. lim-lim-á-kàu, id. lim-lim-á chiah-kàu, has just this moment arrived. lim-lim-á chiah-khì, has just this moment gone away. lim-chiah, just a few moments ago. lim-láu, close on the time of tide. lim-ki<sup>n</sup>, near the edge; ready to fall over; in a dangerous position.

lim (T. lêng), to take a very short dose, either lying down, or only leaning the head on the hand. lim-- khi, to fall into such a short sleep or dose. lim-chit-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to dose a short time.

lin, a long narrow net dragged along the bottom. khan-lin, to draw this net, so as to inclose the fish.

lin — lin-long, running about, as at play (v. long).

lin [R. lêng, a tinkling sound], (C. lin). lin-long-ké, a rattle used by pedlars and children.

lin (cf. lin). lin-lin-gô, to whirl round (neuter). lin-lin-túg, to roll, as a ball. lin-lin-sêh, to revolve, as in orbit. î<sup>n</sup>-lin-lin, globular.

lin — hoe-lin-niau<sup>n</sup>, of variegated colours.

lin [R. náí], = leng, ni<sup>n</sup> (v. leng), milk; a teat; a knob on a door or window, used as a handle. gū-lin, cow's milk, &c. (v. leng). lin-chiap, milk dropping from the teat in small quantities. lin-bé, about the end of giving milk. io-lin, to give suck, as a nurse. hàng-lin (T.), grown very fat on milk, as infant; breasts grown, as of girl about age.

lin-thâu, a teat; the beginning of giving milk. lin-pê, the breast (the whole projecting part) of female or male. lin-chhang, the orifices of the teat. lin-hé, an abscess or deep boil in the female breast near the centre. lin-iong, id., more to the side.

chhêng-lin, resin from trees.

cheng-lin, the knob of a gong. mûg-lin, a knob on a door; a round door-handle. thoah-lin, round handle of drawer.

thê-lin, the part of the medusa (edible) from which the arms radiate. chiôh-lin, an animal like the sea-anemone, which clings to rocks in the sea. ô-lin, a red roundish sea-slug (cf. lun).

lin (R. id.) ki-lin, the fabulous auspicious beast called kilin, sometimes translated unicorn. pha ki-lin, to roll one's body sidewise like a wheel, with legs and arms like spokes.

lin [R. lún]. kau-lin (T.), = A. kau-lún, to hand over to a man in his turn, e.g. land cultivated in turn by relatives. chiàu-lin (C.), = A. chiàu-lún, by turns.

lin [R. id., = col. liên]. lin-bín, to pity; compassion; merciful. khó-lin, to pity; alas! thòe-i khó-lin, to pity him. khó-lin-î, id. khit-ai kiú-lin, to beg for some favour to one's self in distress.

lin (R. id.) lin-iū, neighbours. chhù-pi<sup>n</sup> lin-iū, neighbours in general. tsó-iū-lin, the neighbours on each side. oán-chhin put-jû kún-lin, a neighbour at hand is better than a friend at a distance.

lin (R. lêng), (Cn. lêng), a thin glossy sort of silk stuff. lin-á, a very thin glossy silk. pêh-lin, thin white glossy silk. âng-lin, red do. ú-lin, cheap glossy stuff of wool and cotton (v. ú). lin-toān, thin glossy silk and satin. lin-lô gim-siù, rich and variegated silks and satins (v. lô).

lin (C.) lin-lông-ké, = A. lin-long-ké, a sort of rattle (v. long).

lin, you; ye; your (in Cn. "lin" and "lân" almost change places). lin-ê, your; yours. lin-tau, your house.

lin (Cn.), = A. lân, ná<sup>n</sup>, like.

lin — lin-lin lõng-lõng, loud noise or turmoil, as of knocking or moving heavy things (v. lõng).

lin (T.) lê-li-lin, = A. lê-li-lien, words used at the beginning of a play.

lin (cf. lin), to roll, as a ball. î<sup>n</sup>-lin-lin, round, as a ball or egg. kng-lin-lin, having no near rela-

林

麻
臨霖
淋

廩

凜

軫
奶

麟

輪
隣隣
鄰
綾你
們

tives. lê-lin-hit, = lê-ni<sup>n</sup>-hit, to swing from side to side. lin--lôh-khi (C. liên), to roll and fall down, as a precipice, ravine, or bed. si-kòe-lin, to roll itself about back and forwards, as a ball, or as a child on the floor; said also of a child or young lad going about with no one taking care of him. khoā-khoā-lin, to roll itself about, as a ball, or as child on floor. kō-kō-lin, to roll about, as a ball. kauh-kauh-lin, id. lin-hê-lê-būn, to throw the dice on a sort of paper in gambling (v. būn).

hoan-lin-túg, to turn upside down; immediately. hoan bōe-lin-túg, unable to turn, as in nightmare, &c. poáh-lin-túg, to turn right round, as a thing; to turn one's self round so as to let another pass; to pretend that a man said what we ourselves said. poáh-lin-túg-thâu, to turn quite round about. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> poáh-lin-túg, to change one's mind quite round, esp. from affection to coldness in a near relative. péng-lin-túg, to invert; to turn upside down, as hand or thing, or as in bed. pán-lin-tú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. oát-lin-túg, to turn one's self round; to look round; to turn and go back. oát bōe-lin-túg, unable to turn round. iét-lin-túg, to shift the sail to the other side. pha chit-lin-túg, to make a complete circuit, as in walking. chia pha-lin-táu, to make a somerset.

ô-á-lin, a preparation of oysters and potatoe flour. lin (R. id.) kien-lin (r.), parsimonious; stingy; niggardly. lin-sek (R.), id.

lio (reduplication of sió). sio-lio--khi, to be burned and quite consumed.

lió — ka-lió, words used in calling a dog; also sometimes said in imitation of the name Carlo.

lió, to slice horizontally; to skim.

lió (= lioh), to give a rapid glance. lió--chit-ê, id.

liò (Cn.), = A. lò, tall.

liô (K.), = A. lô, a road.

liô (Cn.) liô-cheng, = A. tui-cheng, gonorrhœa.

lioh (reduplication of khioh). khioh-lioh, to collect; to gather; to smooth a surface, &c.

lioh (= lió), to glance or make a rapid look at something. bák-chiu lioh, id., to make a sign by a glance. bák-chiu lioh, chiú-tsai, to know at a glance or on one rapid reading; very talented.

lioh [R. liòh, to write]. têng-lioh (Cn.), = A. têng-liòk, to copy out in red the essay of a candidate for the Kujin degree.

lioh [R. liòk, small quantity]. lioh-lioh-á, slightly; a little.

lioh [R. jiòk, weak, = col. jiòh, lêh]. núg-lioh, elegant and graceful (not coarse, fat, or angular), as hand or foot; very weak and exhausted, as from illness or severe exercise.

liók [R. six, = col. lák], one of the musical notes. liók-chiet, full particulars; all the circumstances plainly and minutely stated. liók-chhin, near relatives. liók-bú, having no near relations (said in reviling), (v. bú). liók-ngáu<sup>n</sup>, the diagram "ngáu<sup>n</sup>." liók-pê, the six boards at Pekin. ngé-tsóng liók-hú, the intestines. sam-kê liók-pô, nuns and dangerous old women (v. pô). liók-thiok, the domestic animals. liók-siù, spirits of six animals, propitiated by Taoist priests. liók-sin, id., said by the priests. gú-thâu liók-tsut, a clownish fellow.

liók-pat-phêng, the rate of counting dollars, as 6 chi<sup>n</sup> 8 hun by the khê-tô weight = liók-pat-pêng

(v. pêng). liók-goát-song, a sort of cooling medicine (v. song).

liók — liók-choàn, a strong sort of silk stuff (v. choàn).

liók [R. dry land; six, = col. lêk]. liók-lê, by land; military, as opposed to naval. liók-lê thê-tok, a general. liók-thê (r.), id.

liók-siòk, in continuous succession, but small quantities; moderate, as gains, &c. (v. siòk).

liók [R. to kill]. sat-liók, to slaughter; to massacre.

liók [R. to seize], (C. liák). bêng-hé<sup>n</sup> kiap-liók, housebreaking and robbery with torches, generally having faces disguised with paint.

liók [R. to write down carefully; to record], (P. lêk). bók-liók, index or contents of a book; a list or catalogue. pò-liók, official notification to a man who has got a degree. têng-liók, to transcribe in red ink an essay for the Kujin degree (v. têng). siù-tsái-liók, list of new Sew-tsai graduates printed for sale. kú-jin-liók, do. of new Kujin. chin-sü-liók, do. of new Tsin-sze.

liók [R. small quantity, = col. liòh], (C. liák). iok-liók, in general or on an average; speaking roughly and generally. tái-liók, id. phó-liók-á, slightly; to a small extent. phé-liók-á, id. phé-liók-á tsai, to know a little of it.

hut-liók, to do a thing without much care or attention; to slight; to treat with want of respect or attention, e.g. taking no notice of a man when he comes or goes.

liông [R. a dragon; imperial, = col. lêng], (also C., = A. lêng). kiú-liông-pau, a pouch for ammunition. kiú-liông-tin, an army divided (for battle) into nine parts. kiú-liông-koan, a royal crown with nine dragons. kiú-liông-poá<sup>n</sup>, a wooden tray with nine divisions. liông-sa, hills like an arm behind a grave on the left hand (v. sa). pék-hé chheng-liông, two of the great Taoist spirits (v. hé). liông-gân (R.), the face of the emperor. it-kiok thiàu-liông-bún, the lame man crossed the imperial threshold. liông-bún-soa, a sort of shark (edible).

σ-liông, Oo-long tea; also a small black cricket or "sek-sut;" the reddish sort is called "chhiah-kin<sup>n</sup>."

ki-liông, a hornless dragon (v. ki). soa<sup>n</sup>-liông-á (C.), a reptile like a snake with four feet. chháu-liông-á (C.), id. liông-thiông (T.), a sort of marine worm or mollusc. liông-iên-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a medicine. liông-siên-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id.

liông [R. liông, to measure, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>], (C. liâng). siông-liông, to consult together.

liông [R. good], (C. liâng). liông-bin, good subjects. siên-liông, good, as man. sün-liông, well-behaved, trustworthy, and safe. liông-iòh khé-khé; tióng-giên gék-ni<sup>n</sup>, good medicine is very bitter; faithful words displease the ear.

liông-sim, conscience, especially as to duties among men. liông-sim-chhát, a thief who steals only a part, leaving what he could have taken. thien-lí liông-sim, Heaven's law agreeing with conscience; I am perfectly honest and truthful. tiòh thien-lí liông-sim, should act in good conscience. ū thien-liông, conscientious, just, and fair in dealings. tsún liông-sim, id.

liông (reduplication of kiông). sái-kiông-liông, to act violently and wickedly towards another.

liông [R. a beam, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>]. tiông-liông,

陸

幾掠錄

畧略

龍

量良

梁

梁標梁

吝悟

樓眠

錄錄

畧弱

陸六

important or useful, as person or thing, &c. tông-liông, id.

liông [R. eminent; glorious; abundant, = col. liông]. khien-liông, the reign of the Emperor Kien-lung. liông-sêng (better "liông"), in very great abundance (v. sêng).

liông [R. lông, a wolf]. liông-pōe, = lông-pōe, very poor and miserable.

liông [R. a sort of grain], (C. liâng). kau-liông, a sort of distilled liquor. tō-liông-siok, bék-sū-chek, the six grains.

liông [R. liâng, cool]. liông-hiet (T.), cooling for the blood.

liông [R. two; both; a tael, = col. n̄ng, niú<sup>n</sup>, ní<sup>n</sup>, lí, léng], (C. liáng). liông-goân, both parties quite willing and pleased. liông-gē, a misapprehension, so as to fail of doing what was expected. liông-kau-khâ<sup>n</sup>, unsettled in purpose; double-minded or trimming (v. khâ<sup>n</sup>). liông-kha-khiâ, telling only half one's mind; concealing one's schemes and seeming neutral. liông-phak khui-chhiò, trimming between two opinions or courses (v. chhiò). koan iú liông-khé, the character "mandarin" (koan) has two mouths. chìn-thòe liông-lân, to go on and to draw back are both difficult or dangerous (v. lân). siên-ok put-liông-lip, good and bad cannot stand together. siá-chèng put-liông-lip, if you employ bad men, the good will leave you. jín-tē liông-sē, people and place both strange to us.

liông-gí, the emblem of the Yin and Yang, by a circle divided equally by two half-sized semicircles. liông-póng, the rank of Tsin-sze. liông-kiok tiâu-thien, fallen on the back, with feet towards the sky. liông-lông (T.), = A. léng-lông, the two covered ways on the sides of the central court of a Chinese house. sam khi-liông, three men oppressing two (v. khi). it-to liông-toân, said of at once determining a matter long unsettled (v. toân). it-jín tì, put-jú liông-jín gī, the counsel of two is better than one man's wisdom.

liông (C.), = A. lèng, to kick or push away with the sole of the foot.

liông [R. liông, eminent; abundant]. liông-sêng, very abundant, as money or grain, &c. (v. sêng). chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúí liông-lèng, his money very abundant (v. tsúí).

liông [R. to suppose, excuse, or assist], (C. liâng). iok-liông, about (the quantity). liông-iok, id. liông-pit, I should say it must —; I should say that —. ōe-liông-lâng, considerate and gentle, as towards inferiors or person in fault. liông lêng-ê-chêng, id. liông-chêng, to forgive or act with consideration and forbearance, as towards a man who is in fault; gentle, kind, and long-suffering. khah-ōe liông-chêng, of a rather gentle or forgiving disposition.

liông [R. jiông, to yield, = col. niū<sup>n</sup>], (C. niū<sup>n</sup>). liông--chit-ē, omit one stroke of the oar; pause a little, as in striking or in a legal process; stop a little, e.g. said by the bearer of our baggage asking us to let him rest a little.

liông [R. a measure, = col. liâng, niū<sup>n</sup>], (C. liâng, except in one or two phrases). liông-tsá (C. liông), a good deal earlier than is absolutely necessary. khah-liông (C. liông, lêng), a little larger; slightly more; rather better, as in sickness.

liông-tái-siáu, to use more or less as we please (v. siáu). bō-hân-liông, boundless.

hó-liông, liberal; generous; forbearing. ū-liông, id. ū-tē-liông, id. tē-liông toā, id. tē-liông khoan-hông, id. toā-liông, generous. tāi-liông, id. khoan-hông tái-liông, id. hái-liông, exceedingly generous (like the sea!). chhién-liông, too rigorous for one's rights; also (said by one's self), not able to drink much liquor. chiú-liông, ability to drink liquor (v. chiú). lék-liông, measure of one's ability (v. lék). chi-liông toā, having high aims, e.g. for high literary rank. khi-liông toā, aiming at considerable matters; not too particular about small things. khi-liông sòe, having small aims; too minutely careful about small things, e.g. small sums, or reproving for small faults. khoan-liông, to treat people with indulgence or forbearance. bō-lâu-liông, to go to too great an extreme, e.g. spending all one's income, exerting one's strength or influence to the very utmost, or taking too much liquor. iú-sè, put-khó chin-liông, do not use your power or enjoy your good fortune to the utmost.

liông (C.), = A. niá<sup>n</sup>. soa<sup>n</sup>-liông, the shoulder of a mountain, rising higher than the connecting ridge. soa<sup>n</sup>-liông-á, id.

lip (Cn.) lip-lip-á, = A. lím-lím-á, all but —.

lip [R. to stand; to set up], siet-lip, to set up; to appoint or ordain. kièn-lip (R.), to set up or establish firmly. kièn-kong lip-giáp, to establish one's merit and fortune. put-liông-lip, cannot stand together, as good and bad (v. liông).

lip-khek, immediately.

lip-sim, to determine one's intention; fixed purpose. lip-ì, id. lip-chi, id. kien-sim lip-chi, id.

lip-chhun, the term about Feb. 4th. lip-hē, about May 5th or 6th. lip-chhiu, about August 7th or 8th. lip-tang, about Nov. 7th.

lit, = lút (C. bit), the rope that hauls up a Chinese sail, like halyards. lit-á-soh, id. chit-thia<sup>n</sup>-lit, one such rope. chit-tiâu-lit, id. lit-chí<sup>n</sup>, the upper end of this rope, where it is fastened to the sail.

liu (Cn.) táh-liu, to stumble.

liu [R. chhiu, name of a fish]. hē-liu, a small fish, a few inches long, that lives in ditches and pools. thē-liu, id. chhi-liu, a sort of salt-water fish.

liu (T.), = A. chhiu, to tickle with the finger, as the face.

liu — khiú-khiú liu-liu, curled or tangled, as long hair (v. khiú).

liu [R. thiu, to draw out, = col. chhiu]. liu-khau, to draw lots. liu hé-chhiu, to draw lots to see which man is to pay the principal share of some common expense.

liu, to steal small things; to steal away secretly. tsòe-i-liu, he has gone off suddenly and unexpectedly. liu--kè-khì, to make off suddenly, as from a creditor or from a man trying to catch him. liu--tsáu, id. liu-kiang, to get out of the way so as to escape from danger, or shirk duty and responsibility. liu-kiang kiá<sup>n</sup>-tàng, id. tsòe-i liu-kiang, he has run off so. chit-jit liu-liu-khì, absent the whole day, as servant or scholar. chit-jit liu-liu-tsáu, id.

kō-liu--khì (Cn.), quite lost, as opportunity gone beyond recall.

liu — koe-liu, very mean and low in money matters and in doing business.

隆 狼
梁
涼
兩

隆
諒

讓
量

立

鯪

抽

liu — kút liu-liu, very slippery, as road. kú liu-liu, very long (time). sam-jít put-kièn, kú liu-liu, three days without seeing (him) is very long. kng liu-liu, quite bare and naked. theh liu-liu (Cn.), naked; nothing whatever left, as by robbers.

liu (cf. niu<sup>n</sup>). bé-liu, the utmost end; the extremity. soa<sup>n</sup>-bé-liu, the very top of a hill; the extremity of the base of a hill. teh-beh liu-bé, about to come to an end, as a family of bad sons. kō-liu (Cn.), a man's queue.

liu — liu-chhiu, chiáh bák-chiu, a man should know by a glance what he has to do (v. chhiu).

liú [R. to flow; to run on in course; to transmit; a sort; = col. láu], to banish, as from the province; to choose out, as good or bad from a mixed lot; to lead about, as a horse for exercise. phiau-liú, carried away, as by a flood (v. phiau). liú-chhi<sup>n</sup>-sek, light greenish-blue, like duck's egg. liú-seng-thú, an ancient weapon (v. seng). liú-pút-thài-sòe, the demon that causes eclipses (v. pút).

liú-bé, to lead about a horse, as for exercise. liú pháí<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to choose out bad cash. kè-liú, carefully selected out of a lot.

lún-liú, in rotation (v. lún). sa<sup>n</sup>-liú-lông, id. liú-hêng, to go on acting widely, as nature's operations, or as an epidemic (v. hêng). liú-thoân, to transmit, as from one age to another (v. thoân). liú-toân (T.), id. in-tap jû-liú, fluent at talking.

hã-liú, very mean. hã-liú put-siàu, a good-for-nothing fellow. kiú-liú, all sorts of priests, nuns, and sorcerers. sam-kàu kiú-liú, a jack-of-all-trades. put-jíp-liú ê-lâng, a useless fellow unfit for any work. bē-jíp-liú, said of a very small mandarin.

hong-liú, dissipated; too fond of gaiety and pleasure. hong-liú-lâng, a dissipated man. si-kòe-liú, to go about associating with bad or low characters. liú-lók, to wander about with no settled dwelling or occupation, as a man in great poverty. si-kòe liú-lók, id. lók-hoa liú-súi, in great poverty and misery. liú-súi, a sort of scroll-book for entering sales (v. súi).

liú-tê, to banish or transport, in general. gí-liú, to condemn to banishment, as to another province. mng-liú, id. chhiong-kun mng-liú, to exile or transport. khah-khiap chhiong-kun mng-liú, worse than transportation (v. khiap). liú-hoân, to banish a criminal; a banished criminal. chioh liú-hoân-chè, to borrow at heavy usury from banished criminals (those at Amoy are usually from the north). liú-bin, a vagabond; a wandering fellow with no settled occupation. liú-bin-ná, id. liú-bin-ná-thi<sup>n</sup>, pleasant warm weather in winter.

liú (cf. chhiú), to unwind; to draw in the slack of a rope gently.

liú [R. to retain; to detain; to keep over, = col. láu]. tau-liú, to detain forcibly, as men or things, e.g. for ransom, or to get payment of debt; to keep in confinement, as an enemy in a feud. siu-liú, to receive and entertain in one's house, as guest or lodger. liú-tsún, to reserve; to keep in reserve. liú-jim, to make application to get a good mandarin reappointed (v. jim).

liú-sim, attentive; to pay close attention; to keep the mind on a thing. liú-sim ti-l, id.

liú [R. id., = jiú]. liú-hông, sulphur. liú-âng, id.

liú (R. id.) bién-liú, a square-topped crown with pendants, worn by sovereigns and idols. tsu-liú, the set of pendants of a crown or coronet.

liú (R. id.) liú-lí, a translucent material like glass, but different. liú-lí-thâu, a bald head (said in joke). liú-lí-teng, a sort of lamp used in temples; a scabbed head (said in scolding or jeering). liú-lí-kong, an idol specially worshipped by vegetarians (said to have been the spirit of a lamp). liú-lí-hōe, a society for the worship of liú-lí-kong.

liú — liú-khiú, fond of keeping a feud or dispute open, as man; fractious, as child (v. khiú).

liú [R. name of a tree]. siáh-liú, the pomegranate. chiòh-liú (Cn.), id. sêh-liú (C.), id. pèh-siáh-liú, a white variety with light greenish fruit (good for dysentery). kim-siáh-liú, a plant used for dysentery. soa<sup>n</sup>-siáh-liú, a wild shrub with a white flower.

liú [R. id., = col. láu], a tumour, wen, or swelling on the neck. bah-liú, id. huih-liú, such a tumour red and full of blood. hiet-liú, id. che-liú, one soft and round, and white when cut. tau-che-liú, id. toā-ám-liú, a large tumour on the neck. si<sup>n</sup>-liú, to have a wen on the neck. ám-kún si<sup>n</sup>-liú tú--tiòh, it can't be helped any more than a tumour on the neck. phah-chit-liú, to raise a lump by striking.

liú [R. jiú, name of fish]. liú-hi, a fish like the cuttle-fish, but counted better.

liú — lê-liú-lien, words called out at the beginning of a play. lóng-liú-lien, id.

liú (R. id.), a willow; a surname. liú-ki, a willow branch. liú-chiam, shoes with only one rib on the toe. liú-tiâu-thang, a window made with long thin slips of wood. liú-tiâu-pín, a partition made with such slips. liú-tiâu-pè, gingham.

chiòh-liú, a willow with hard white wood. kòe-liú, a tree like the elm. iú<sup>n</sup>-liú (r.), the willow. sùi-si-liú, the weeping-willow.

hoe-âng liú-lék, gaudily dressed (v. lék). hoe-ke liú-hang, said of a house of bad fame.

liú [R. id., cf. col. khiú, giú], to grasp and pull towards one, as a rope or tail; to haul. liú-oá, to pull near by a rope, as a boat. liú--lái, to grasp and pull towards one. liú-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to pull in the anchor-rope by hand, as to raise the anchor. liú-chin, to pull up closer, as boat, by rope attached to the bow.

liú (cf. liú), a hank, as of thread. chit-liú, one hank.

liú (R. id.), a button, properly a twisted knot on end of a cord (used as a button); to button. liú-sa<sup>n</sup>, to button a dress. chién-liú, a pickpocket. liú-pi<sup>n</sup>, sort of round cord (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). liú-á-géng, a small sort of lung-yen fruit (gèng-géng) with little pulp.

liú-khàu, the loop which serves as a hole for a Chinese button. liú-phàn, double piece of cord sewed on a dress, either to receive the button, or twisted into a knob (Chinese button), or ending in a loop used as a button-hole. pài-á-liú, a button of foreign shape. liú-pái, buttons in general. pi<sup>n</sup>-liú, a flat button of foreign shape. pè-liú, a knot of cotton cord used as a button. phah-pè-liú, to make one. kiet-liú, the knob on a Chinese cap. kiō-liú, the knob on the top of a sedan.

bát-liú-liú, very close or crowded.

liú (cf. liu, liú). pi<sup>n</sup>-liú-liú (Cn. T.), very smooth and level, as road.

liú (cf. liú), to catch with a running noose or lasso; to allure a man to some bad course. liú-káu, to catch a dog with a noose. liú-ti, to catch a pig with a noose. liú--lâng khì-poáh, to allure people to gamble, as

琉

榴

瘤

鱒

柳

扭

絡

鈕

流

留

琉

companions. chhòng mī<sup>n</sup>-soà<sup>n</sup> khi liù-ah (to make a vermicelli noose to catch ducks), to try to do a thing with quite insufficient means.

liù — sá-liù, skilful; cunning. li-liù, over-sharp in dealing (cheating somewhat), esp. said of a boy. li-liù-á-pē, too sharp practice.

liù — liù-tsú-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a wicked boy or lad, as 15 or 20 years old.

liù, to take off, as a hat. liù-bō, to take off one's hat. liù-ē-kun, to take off the bride's veil at marriage, as the bridegroom does. liù-phê, the skin grazed, as by a stroke; the skin peeling off, as at the edges of a sore when healing. liù-hiáh, bald on the forehead and crown of the head. liù-kng-thâu, having no cap or hat on; bare-headed.

kút-liù-liù, very slippery, as road. kng liù-liù, quite bare or naked (v. kng).

liù [R. liù, to flow, = col. lâu]. bō-sūn-liù, very unpleasant and quite contrary to expectation, e.g. all that is said being in favour of our enemy when help is asked.

liù, to soften in a covered rice-boiler (tiá<sup>n</sup>), as cakes. liù-ké, to soften hard cakes by steaming thus.

liùh [R. liók, six, = col. lók], one of the musical notes, = liók.

liùh — liùh-liùh-á, slightly; better liòh-liòh-á (q. v.)

lo (cf. lu, tho), to dabble in mud, as a duck. ah-bú-chhùi bóng-lo, may as well ask for it, though with almost no expectation of success.

lo, to ask over and over in a coaxing way (e.g. surely you won't refuse me); to ask importunately, as for money or employment, or a favour for self or other; to get money or a favour by constant asking. lo-chí<sup>n</sup>, to ask over and over for money. lo-lién, to get money by hook or by crook (v. lién). tít-tít-lo, to ask right on, taking no denial. kap-i-lo, to ask thus from him. bōe-kham--tít i-lo, could not resist his importunity.

lo (= lô). lo-so, troublesome, as a man constantly talking or asking or making difficulties. lo-lo so-so, id.

lo — li-li lo-lo, empty talk, as mere formal expressions, or idle useless chattering, or repeated asking.

lo — hng lo-lo, very distant.

lo [R. lók, to roast or burn]. chhàu-hé-lo, a burned or singed taste, when something gets dried and singed in cooking. chhàu-hé-lo-bi, id. chhàu-lo chhàu-lo, id. chhàu-hia<sup>n</sup>-lo (T.), id. chhàu-tiá<sup>n</sup>-lo, singed in the frying-pan.

lo (mere reduplication). po-lo-so, to praise very much. ho-lo, an interjection used in calling out to a man, like ho! ho!

lô (R. id.) lô-chhia, name of an idol (v. chhia).

lô — ka-lí-lô, not yet completed; far from the end yet (v. ka).

lô (R. id.) lô-siong, consumption. lô-chèng, id. hu-lô ê-chèng, id. (v. hu).

lô [R. toil, trouble, (Cn. lô)]. kong-lô, merit, esp. for services to the state. sin-lô, wages. sió-sim hâu-lô, to be exceedingly attentive to a man, as servant to master, or as attendant to sick man, or as a parasite fawning on an influential person. lô jī-bú-kong (r.), toil and no profit (v. kong).

lô-sim, thinking deeply or anxious about some matter. lô-sim--ê, caused by anxiety or mental labour (said of the cause of a disease.) lô-sim peh-pak, much vexed or anxious about matters. lô-sim kè-tē, to give a great deal of thought and anxiety to the planning or management of a matter. lô-sim kò-tē, id. lô-sim lô-lék, to exert one's mind and strength very much. lô-lék, to labour very hard, or with all one's strength.

lô-lók-miá<sup>n</sup>, a severe toilsome life. lô-khé, severe or toilsome, as labour. lô-bin siong-tsái (R.), to oppress the people and take their money.

lô-tông, I will trouble you, sir, to —; I have given you a vast deal of trouble. lô-hoân--lí, id. lô-sin (R.), thank you, sir, for your trouble.

pit-lô, a small, lean, harsh-voiced bird, said to be unfilial. pek-lô, id. chhī-koe, chiá<sup>n</sup> pit-lô, the fowls one feeds are as small and lean as the pit-lô.

lô — lô-so, troublesome, as a man; better "lo-so" (q. v.)

lô — liám-lô, adhesive; sticky. lô-liám-hiú<sup>n</sup>, a sort of adhesive gum used for making incense.

lô-thi-thi, very much involved, as an affair hard to put right, or as indefinite talk (v. thi).

lô, muddy; turbid, as a liquid; of a dull or indistinct colour, as foreigner's eyes.

lô — ē-lô-sô, very black.

lô [R. hô, a great river]. thien-lô-pán, = thien-hô-pán, a ceiling.

lô [R. a net, (P. sometimes lô)], a sort of gauze used for mosquito-curtains; a surname. peh-lô, white stuff for mosquito-curtains. thih-soà<sup>n</sup>-lô, a very stiff stuff used for that purpose. lin-lô si-toân, silks, satins, and net. lin-lô gim-siù, fine variegated silks, &c. lô-phê, a sort of kerchief worn by women. to-lô-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of woollen stuff.

lô-bún-tsoá, a sort of lined paper. lô-táu, a fine sieve in a flour-mill (v. táu).

hé-lô, a trap for tigers. lô-bāng, a net (figuratively). lô-bóng (R.), a net (v. bóng).

lô-ki<sup>n</sup>, a geomancer's compass (v. ki<sup>n</sup>).

giám-lô, the judge of the dead. giám-lô-ông, id. siám-lô, Siam; Siam and Laos. lô-hàn, Buddhist saints or Lohans (v. hàn), (Cn. ló-hàn). pho-lô-bit, the jack-fruit tree.

lô — se-lô (C.), a brass wash-basin.

lô (R. id.), a flat gong without a boss (but "cheng" has a boss). lô-á, a small gong (used by pedlars). sió-lô, two small gongs set in a wooden frame. lô-ké, gongs and drums. chhē<sup>n</sup>-lô, a small gong (about 8 inches broad) with a shrill sound. chhē<sup>n</sup>-lô-á, a very small sort. lô-ién-sê (T. lô-ién-chê), a band of about a dozen boys at idolatrous processions.

lô-thú, the clapper for a gong. phah-lô, to strike a gong. thoân-lô, to give information by beating a gong.

lô [R. id., = col. loá], a large round wicker-tray; to clean grain by shaking it in such a tray. bí-lô, a flat round bamboo tray for shaking rice so as to separate the clean rice from the chaff or the rice still having the husk. bí-lô-á, a small one. lô-lô, to shake (as rice) in a tray. lô-bí, to shake rice thus so as to clean it. lô-bí thai-chhek, to clean rice by shaking or riddling.

thng-lô, a large round wicker-tray or frame for drying sugar.

流

六畧

拖烙

哪癆勞

滂

皂河羅

鑼

羅

lô [R. a mere sound]. liâu-lô, banditti; also, the south-east corner of Quemoy island.

lô (R. id.), a mulc. hái-lô, a sort of seal (or beaver?).

lô [R. ô, coral, = col. hô]. sien-lô-chhiû, a coral-tree.

lô [R. a creeping plant]. lú-lô, a sort of creeper (dodder?).

lô [R. name of a tree]. lô-bák, a hard blackish wood. lô-bák-chhâ, id.

lô [R. a prison], (Cn. lô). ka<sup>n</sup>-lô, a prison. lô-gék (r.), id. tsúi-lô, a sort of dungeon like a well. thien-lô, the imperial prison (s. net).

lô (R. liâu?). kha-lô, fetters for the feet. kha-lô chhiú-khâu, fetters and manacles. koā<sup>n</sup> kha-lô, to have one's feet fettered. ná<sup>n</sup>-koā<sup>n</sup> kha-lô (as if fettered), said of being impeded in travelling, as by leading a child.

lô [R. old, aged, = col. lāu, láu, lauh, niáu], affix to a man's name (not surname) in speaking to him or of him with some respect. lām-hū lô-iù, male and female, old and young. lô-liên, aged. lô-sêng, having the good sense and staid manner of an old man, though only middle-aged. lô-sêng-jîn, id. siâu-liên lô-sêng, young in years but wise and staid. lô-tông, an aged candidate. lô-jiók-peng, old and feeble soldiers. lô-mē<sup>n</sup>, aged and infirm. lô-ong (R.), a polite phrase for addressing an old man. jîn phá<sup>n</sup>-lô, all men are afraid of old age (v. phá<sup>n</sup>). ióng-jí thāi-lô, to bring up a son to prepare for old age (v. jì). tióng-seng put-lô, long life without growing old; a Taoist phrase.

lô-tia (Cn. lāu-tia), a mandarin (v. tia). toā-lô, title of medium-rank mandarins. lô-iâ, title of Kujin or medium-rank mandarin (v. iâ). sì-lô (C.), assistant mandarin of the district (koāi<sup>n</sup>) mandarin. lô-su, title of the literary mandarin of a department or district; polite title for a learned instructor (v. su). tiú<sup>n</sup>-lô (X.), an elder (v. tiú<sup>n</sup>). lô-chiông, an old military officer. hông-tiông, lāu-lô-chiông, Hwang Chung, though old, was vigorous (said of a hale old man).

kok-lô, the chief of the genii (sien); also (R.), a sort of prime-minister. lô-kun, Lau-tsze, the founder of Taoism. thài-siông lô-kun, id. lí lô-kun, id. lô-kun-kong, id. lô-kun-iâ (T.), id. lô-tam (R.), id.

lô-chiú, a fermented and smoked liquor made from rice. ké-lô-chhiû, an old stump; also (esp. C.), a sort of straggling soft-wood tree with large leaves. lô-kong-su, a sort of plant (v. su).

lô [R. a wicker-work vessel]. ka-lô, a half globular bamboo wicker vessel for holding rice.

lô [R. anxious; angry; vexed, = col. láu, làu], (Cn. hô). hoân-lô, anxious; grieved; to be anxious about something, especially future. hoân-lô-chiáh, anxious about what is to be had to eat.

lô [R. name of a stone]. bé-lô, cornelian. bé-lô-chiòh, id. âng-bé-lô, id. (red). bé-lô-tsu, cornelian beads.

gim-lô, a bowl of savoury mixed meats (v. gím).

lô — lô-kó-chiòh, coarse coral. lô-ké-chiòh, id.

lô [R. brains, = col. náu<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. lô). chiu<sup>n</sup>-lô, camphor.

lô [R. a torrent; careless]. lô-chhó, in a careless off-hand manner (v. chhó).

lô — o-lô, to praise. gâu o-lô, fond of flattering people.

lô — hāi<sup>n</sup>-lô-sô, to follow or assent to whatever (good or bad) a man says or does; cry of men working together, as in sculling a boat.

lô (reduplication of "hó"). chit-ke hó-lô-lô, the whole household is now quite well.

lô (R. id.), (Cn. lò), tall, as man; long-shaped, as an oblong seal or a long parallelogram; long, as an oar-pin, or as the limbs. lô-ām, having a long neck. lô-kha lò-chhiú, having long arms and legs.

lô (better "lôh," q.v.) lô-āu--jit, the day after to-morrow.

lô [R. to reward for labour; by change of tone from "lô," labour]. khò-lô, to give a largess to soldiers to incite them to courage.

lô — sio-lô, pleasantly warm, as weather, dress, or food.

lô (mere reduplication). tsô-lô, to blacken, as in blotting out a word or sentence.

hò-lô-sô, to express assent without consideration.

lô — hái<sup>n</sup>-lô-sô, to do work without spirit or energy.

lô — hoe-lī-lô, variegated; mottled; indistinct. hoe-lô-lô, indistinct; in disorder, as an affair; unable to manage properly.

lô (cf. lōng), a strong horizontal bar quite across a door; to bar the door with it, fastening its ends in the wall or in iron hoops. māg-lô, such a horizontal bar for a door. lô-māg, to fasten a door with this bar. māg lô--khi-lah, the door is firmly barred thus.

lô [R. lô, a wicker vessel], a wicker-work vessel containing about four, five, or ten "táu;" sometimes used for measuring rice in husk (chhek) or ground-nuts. iú-lô, a large wooden large-mouthed tun (of fixed size) for holding oil; the quantity is measured by the depth. chhek-lô, a large tun or receptacle for holding rice in husk. bô-chhek, bôe-kah-lô, how can I be expected to buy when I have no money.

lô [R. liâu, lô]. hī-khang lô-lô, a ringing sound in the ears.

lô — khang lē-sē, quite empty.

lô [R. lô, an itchy place or sore]. tiòh-lē, to be mangy, as cat or dog.

lô (C.), ashes of burned paper or weeds. hóe-lē, ashes at end of an extinguished paper match.

lô (R. id.) lê-hê, aloes. lê-hôe (C.), id. lê-ôe (C.), id. lê-hê-iú, the juice of the aloe leaf; oil of aloes. lê-hê chit-phòe, one leaf of the aloe.

lô [R. name of a fish]. lê-hi, a large fish, white and spotted on the back. lê-moā<sup>n</sup>, a conger-eel (v. moā<sup>n</sup>).

lô [R. lô, a snail or spiral shell, = col. lê]. lê-si-teng, a screw-nail (v. si).

lô (R. id.) lê-pók (R.), a male slave. lê-pī (R.), male and female slaves (v. pī). lê-tsai, a male slave, said in scolding; used also as an interjection of distress at matters going wrong. kiên-lê, you stubborn slave! said in scolding a son or inferior trying to be disobedient and obstructive. chiú-chi<sup>n</sup>-lê, a slave to money; a miser. bé-lê, a slave acting as ostler, said only in jeering or scolding. lê khi-tsú, a slave insulting his master; said in scolding an insolent employé.

lô [R. sound, as of birds chirping], (cf. lōng, lōng). lê-lien, words used at the beginning of a play (v. lien).

lô [R. an old skull-bone]. ke-lê, old rotten human

羅
駟
瑚
蘿
耀
牢

老

勞
方

膠

蘆
鱸
螺
奴

老 惱

瑤

腦
潦

嘍
髑

bones. kə-lê-kut, id. siu kə-lê, to collect and bury such old bones, as a meritorious work.

lô (R. id.), a surname.

lô — ôe-kha-lê, a low sort of cock's-comb (flower).

lô (R. id. = col. lô). lê-tek, a reed. lê-úi (R.), id.

lô [R. a gourd]. hê-lê, a sort of gourd, much larger at the one end than the other; ornamental gourd-shaped ends of palings, or mortar ornaments on roofs; gourd-shaped vessel for holding drugs. hê-lê-pû, that sort of gourd; a man talking falsely. hê-lê-á, a small knob on a string (as of a screen that draws up) for making it fast. hê-lê-túi, a pendulum weight. hê-lê-kha, the foot of a table turned with beads. hê-lê-toa, tickets sold to shops by the head of the beggars, to keep away beggars. hê-lê-bün, a paper with figures on it, used in gambling (v. bün). iô kim-hê-lê, to get much gain by bad means, esp. by prostitution. m-tsay hê-lê-lâi sî-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-iôh, I don't know what his secret idea or purpose is (lit. what drug is in the bottle).

lô, to tie tight, as an anchor cable, by a small rope wound many times round and round it. tià<sup>n</sup>-lê, the small rope used for thus fastening the cable when enough of it is paid out.

lô (R. id.) lê-chí, the cormorant. chhân-lê, a sort of bird with a long bill.

lô [R. a stove, furnace, oven, or fire-place; a vessel for burning incense]. hé-lê, a stove; a furnace; a fire-place. hé-lê-toh, a mantel-piece. hong-lê, a small movable earthen stove, as for boiling water for tea. hang-lê, id. hang-lê-kè, the frame on which it is set when used. hang-lê-si<sup>n</sup>, a small fan for blowing the fire. tê-lê, a small hand-stove for boiling water for tea. pê-lê, a large broad low stove for drying tea, drugs, or tobacco. pek-lê, an oven for cakes, &c. piak-lê, id. piá<sup>n</sup>-lê, an oven for bread or cakes. thih-lê, a smith's forge. chhiú-lê, a small covered brass stove for warming the hands; a small incense vessel held in the hand by Buddhist priests, at some rites. táh-lê, a sort of stove put in a footstool in cold weather.

hiu<sup>n</sup>-lê, a vessel for burning incense. téng-lê, a small-mouthed incense vessel on legs (v. téng). tâng-sien-lê, a broad-shaped brass incense vessel. tâng-soan-lê, id. sam-kài-lê, an incense vessel hung up in a house, used on the birthdays of sam-kài-kong. jî-tsoá-lê, a furnace for reverentially burning written or printed paper. kim-lê, a furnace for refining gold; a furnace for burning idolatrous paper. chí<sup>n</sup>-lê-hu, ashes of idolatrous paper. tan-lê, a place where the genii make the elixir (sien-tan) of immortality.

lê-kúi, the instrument used for bellows at a forge. lê-tóe, dollars somewhat dark-coloured, considered of slightly inferior quality; said to be from the bottom of the crucible.

lê-tsu, the man who has charge (in turn) of the idolatrous rites in a ward (keng), &c., or who is acting as head of a guild. thâu-ke-lê, the incense vessel of which he has temporary possession, as his badge of office.

úi-lê (surrounding the cooking-place), a feast held by each household on the last day of the year. kè-lê, to be put in the incense vessel while the idol is being worshipped, a means of consecrating a charm. khí-lê, to light a stove or oven, &c.

lô (T.) lê-ién-chê, = A. lô-ién-sê, a company of boys at idolatrous processions.

lô (Cn.) = A. lô, toil; labour. lê--lí, many thanks for the trouble I have given you.

lô (Cn.) = A. lô, consumption.

lô (Cn.) = A. lô, a prison.

lô (Cn. in reading phrases, and P. sometimes only), = A. lô, a net. lê-hàn (Cn.) = A. lô-hàn, a Lohan or Buddhist saint (v. hàn).

lô [R. lô, a creeping plant]. lê-tín (C.), a creeper, shaped like ropes, used for stupifying fish.

lô (R. id.), a sculling oar; a boat-scutt. tsún-lê, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-lê, a scull worked on the side of a boat. lê-bin, the larboard, left, or port side of a junk. lê-iâm, the bit of hard wood spliced on the scull to work on the pin. lê-iâm-khang, the cavity of the scull which works on the pin. lê-tê-khang, id. lê-tê, the pin or knob on which the scull works. lê-tiam, id. lê-lân (very vulgar), id. lê-khang, the hole in the stern through which the scull goes.

iô-lê, to work the scull; to scull. sái-lê, to scull a boat or junk. lôh-lê, to put on the scull (s. brine). kek-lê, to exert strength very much in sculling.

lô [R. to exert strength]. lê-lát, to thank for trouble taken; thank you! hê--lí lê-lát, thank you! I beg to trouble you. lê lí-ê-lát, thank you! lê-lí-ê, "and thank you!" said in return to a man who has said "lê-lát." séng-lê-lát, to lessen the labour. úi-lê-lát, to be afraid of toil or trouble, and so avoid a matter. tiôh-khah-lê-lát, it will take more trouble or labour.

lô (R. jiók). lê-lôeh, a cap made of material like rattan, with horse-hair tassel. lê-bô (T.), id. lê-lôeh-ia<sup>n</sup>, the tassel of such a cap.

lô [R. salt; careless or vulgar; = col. lô], a sort of brine. lê-thng, sort of brine. lê--ê, slightly pickled; not so salt as "si<sup>n</sup>." lôh-lê, to put into brine, as eatable to be pickled (s. scull). phah-lê, to make a sort of sauce, with flour, fat, spices, &c. khien-lê, to mix some salt sauce or brine while things are frying.

chhe-lê, wanting in refinement; somewhat vulgar in manner, but not intentionally. lê-bóng, acting in a hurried, careless, or somewhat reckless manner.

lô [R. to seize]. hõe-lê, civil and military mandarins together going with soldiers to arrest and punish criminals.

se-lê-pà, Europe (v. pà). se-lê, the Russians. sai-lê, id. chhiá<sup>n</sup>--goá khi-tu se-lê, it is a very difficult and dangerous thing you ask me to assist in. i-chhiá<sup>n</sup>--lí khi-tu-se-lê, he is asking you to assist him in a very troublesome and dangerous affair.

lô (R. id.), the kingdom of Loo; a surname. lê-pan, the god of carpenters. lê-pan-kong, id. lê-pan-chhioh, the Chinese foot used by masons and carpenters; ten feet want about two inches of our measure (v. chhioh).

pa-tê-lê, a Manchoo title of high military rank. se-lê-bók-chê, Urumutsi, a place of severe transportation (v. ché).

lô [R. lô, old, = col. lāu, láu, &c.]; (also sometimes Cn., = A. lô). lê-kí, a Cantonese harlot. lê-chhū (Cn.) = A. niáu-chhū, a rat.

lô — ké-lê-chhiū, a sort of low straggling tree, = ké-lô-chhiū.

lô (Cn.) chiu<sup>n</sup>-lê, = A. chiu<sup>n</sup>-lô, camphor.

lô (C.) tê-lê, = A. tê-lê, old used tea-leaves.

lô [R. hê, a door]. thong-lê-kúi, = thong-hê-kúi, a sort of shop-counter.

lô [R. lô, a reed]. lê-sóe, a sort of millet.

lô (C. lô). tê-lê, used tea-leaves.

盧 盧
盧

盧
爐

蘿
槽

努

箸
鹵

虜

魯

老

戶
盧

lō [R. rude in behaviour]. thé-lō, rude; clownish. phí-lō (R.), mean and low in conduct.

lō [R. lō, salt], to salt slightly; to grow damp, as salted things. iám-lō, salt that has melted by exposure to damp air; brine dripping from salted fish, &c., in damp weather. si<sup>n</sup> iám-lō, to grow damp, as salted fish. tò-lō, id.

lō-iám, slightly salted. lí-á-lō, put on a little salt. chhòng-iám ká-i-lō, salt it slightly. lō-hē, pickled shrimps. lō-poá<sup>n</sup>, the "poá<sup>n</sup>" fish slightly salted. kiám-lō, all sorts of salted meat, fish, &c.; brine from it. bah-lō, brine from salted pork. hí-lō, brine from salted fish.

lō — lō-lē, snails.

lō [R. a cross-bow]. bān-lō-chì<sup>n</sup> (arrows from many cross-bows, as from an ambush), many enemies coming at once from all sides; many troubles or calamities coming all at once. bān-lō-chì<sup>n</sup> chē-hoat, numerous calamities coming at once. bān-lō-chì<sup>n</sup> tsōe-hoat, id. bān-lō chē-hoat, id.

lō [R. bribery]. hē-lō, to give a bribe, especially to one person. pē-lō, to bribe, esp. a number of persons. sái-lō, to bribe. hóe-lō kong-hêng (R.), bribery practised quite openly.

lō [R. lō, to shake about], to be unsteady or shaky; light in behaviour. lō-lō, id. sim lō-lō, heart unsteady. lō-lō-hiēn, to shake, as a table. lō-nih<sup>n</sup>-hit, to shake or swing from side to side. lō-nih<sup>n</sup>-hí<sup>n</sup>, id. lō-ní<sup>n</sup>-hit, id. lō-lin-hit, id.

lō (T.) lō-li-lin, = A. lê-li-lien, words used at beginning of a play.

lō [R. dew; to be manifested], dew. lō-hiēn, to appear; to come to light. chhut-thâu lō-bin, to appear openly in public (as a woman), as at games or plays. siet-sin lō-thé, naked. chhek-sin lō-thé, id. chhiáh-sin lō-thé, id.

lō-tsúi, dew. lō-tsúi chhiáh-khi-chhim, to get money by meddling with the affairs of men with whom one has no connection. péh-lō, the term about Sept. 7th or 8th. hān-lō, the term about Oct. 8th. lōh tâng-lō, heavy dew. tàng-lō, to cool in the dew. phiò-lō, to bleach in the dew. hong chêng, ú lō, wind, calm, rain, and dew. chit-tiám-lō, one drop of dew. ún-ku sang-tiám-lō, a hunchback gets two drops of dew from Heaven.

chhiáh-thi<sup>n</sup>-lō, to have uncertain means of livelihood, as by jobs now and then; to take advantage of people's troubles or liability to accusation to squeeze money out of them, especially as informers or pettifogging literati who meddle in yamun business. khùn-thi<sup>n</sup>-lō, to have no place to lodge in, as vagabonds or very poor men; or to sleep in the open air for coolness. toà-tí hit-thi<sup>n</sup>-lō-nih<sup>n</sup>, to have no place to lodge. khiā-thi<sup>n</sup>-lō, id.

lō-chêng (Cn.), exclamation when something is spoiled, &c. (v. chêng).

lō (R. id.) lō-giō, a sort of leek. lō-kiō (C.), id.

lō [R. anger; angry]. lō-khi chhiong-thien, very great rage (lit. mounting to heaven).

lō [R. sort of crane]. péh-lō-si (R.), the small white egret or paddy-bird (v. si). lō-tó (R.), Amoy island. lō-kang (R.), id.

lō — lō-si-teng, screw-nails; better lō-si-teng (v. si).

lō (R. id.), a road; a way; a journey; a groove, as the road for a lid, &c.; a method or style of work.

toā-lō, generous; liberal; having a gentlemanly bearing; a great road; a main road. tsōan-chiu toā-lō, the main road to Chin-chev. sió-lō, a small road; a path; a side road. koa<sup>n</sup>-lō, a great highway. mng-lō, a doorway. koel-lō, a street. chhái-lō, streets ornamented with coloured hangings (v. chhái). sip-jí-lō, streets or roads crossing at right angles. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhe-lō, place where three roads meet (v. chhe).

káng-lō, the channel for navigation. tsúi-lō, way or journey by water. soa<sup>n</sup>-lō, route or journey by land. liók-lō, id. (v. liók). lék-lō, id. hān-lō, id. ngē<sup>n</sup>-lō (C.), id. bé-lō, a road for horses practising on, especially one on a review-ground. si-kòe-ngé-lō, in every direction. ngé-lō-lâng, people from all parts. ngé-lō chē-hoat, persons or troubles coming in numbers at once on a man from all directions. ngé-lō-tsòe-hoat, id.

bō-lō, there is no road or no means; to have no employment. chin-chêng bō-lō; thē-áu bō-pē, can go neither way; no resource at all. ū-lō, there is a road or way; to have a means. put-chí ū-lō, to have a strong passion for or delight in a thing, as for pleasures or business. chiah a-phiēn, put-chí ū-lō, to have a strong passion for opium.

tui-lō, pleasing to a person; suitable; acceptable; by road, not by water. m-tui-lō, it does not please him; not a suitable or proper way. kap-i bō-tui-lō, it does not please him; he does not get on well with him. ōe-tui-lō, will be successful, as request, or as medicine. háh-lō, pleasing to a person. kui-lō, to be diligent at one's work (v. kui). jín-lō, diligent at duty or at work.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-lō, well-behaved; of good conduct. chhù-lō--ē, second-rate. ū phoà-pí<sup>n</sup>-lō, faulty, as character or work (v. pí<sup>n</sup>). khiáu-lō, skilful; clever; well-formed; beautiful. iù-lō, fine work. chhiú-lō, workmanship, as good or bad. chhiú-lō chhe, work coarse and inferior. phái<sup>n</sup>-chiú<sup>n</sup>-lō, inconvenient arrangement for rowing. hó-to-lō, a good cut of meat.

ū-lō-ēng, to be useful (v. ēng). ū-lō-iōng (C.), id. ū-lō-sái (C.), id. bó-lō-tng, utterly without ability (v. tng). gáu-siū<sup>n</sup>-lō, skilful and intelligent in managing matters.

lí-lō, the right way of action (v. lí). lé-lō, polite; a ceremonial present (v. lé). li-lō, employment; business (v. lí). kāu-sū-lō, having a great many matters to arrange; having many diseases one after another. chhoa<sup>n</sup>-chhi-lō, said of a very troublesome business. oáh-lō, a regular means of livelihood; means of deliverance from terrible danger (v. oáh). seng-lō, means of avoiding death. si<sup>n</sup>-lō, id. si-lō, conduct that leads to ruin or destruction (v. sí). kiá<sup>n</sup> té-lō, to commit suicide (v. té). kiá<sup>n</sup> àm-lō, to behave very wickedly and licentiously. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lō, lascivious conduct.

thâu-lō, employment; business; a regular situation. thâu-lō tit, straightforward and honest in dealings and business; e.g. keeping promises and engagements at proper time. kap-lâng chiáu-thâu-lō, to act fairly in dealings. tsòe-thâu-lō kap-lâng bō-tit, not straightforward in dealings. bā thâu-lō, to look out for an employment or situation.

chhien-ke-lō, trade in articles that are sure to find a market, as things in constant use by people. pē-lō, the matter of buying cloth (s. bribe). bó-hái-lō, almost no fish to be caught, as at some particular time.

huih-lō, a place where a blow is dangerous (v. huih).

兩
鹵

努

賂

搨

露

路 怒
路
鳥
螺
路

kut-lē, general shape of one's body. ū-kut-lē, lean, as face; solid, as essay (v. kut). soh-lē, ropes (in position), in relation to number and direction (v. soh). khui pang-lē, to make a groove in a long piece of wood for the ends of partition-boards. lā-lē, the cross-beams on which the boards of a boat's upper deck rest.

chhiū<sup>n</sup>-lē, a wall, in regard to its building, position, or direction. siāng-chhiū<sup>n</sup>-lē, having a common wall, as two houses. chit-lē-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, one wall, as in building. kúi-lē jin-jī-kè, how many sets of couples in or for the roof? toā-lāk-lē, a very large sort of house (v. lāk).

poā<sup>n</sup>-lē, half-way (v. poā<sup>n</sup>). joā-tsōe-lē, how far? sa<sup>n</sup>-lí-lē, three lí, about a mile.

lē-ke soā<sup>n</sup>-théh, family scattered in all directions. ū-lē bō-chhū, said of wandering vagrant, or very poor man, who has no place to live. lē tng, holding no intercourse; having no means of livelihood. lē tui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. kap-i tng-lē, having no more intercourse with him (v. tng; C. tui<sup>n</sup>).

lē-tng, a much frequented road (v. tng). lē-tē (r.), a road. lē-koan, a placard telling the day and route of an idolatrous procession (v. koan). lē-tsām, a stage on a road; a stage of a road. lē-thēng (r.), a stage; a journey (v. thēng). lē-tēng (C. T.), id. lē-thāu, a landing-place; a jetty; the beginning of a journey. lē-thāu-sit, work of portage at a landing-place. lē-thāu-thiap, a placard, notice, or bill posted up. lē-thāu-ang, a man who cohabits habitually with a woman without marriage. lē-thāu-bé, such a woman. lē-bé, end of road; end of matter or affair (v. bé). lē-pi<sup>n</sup>, roadside. lē-pōng-si, a corpse at the roadside. lē-hùi, expenses of journey. lē-chhài, dried or salted meat for journey (v. chhài). lē-chi<sup>n</sup>, black-mail; money levied on travellers by villagers on road. bóe-lē-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). lē-teng, a lamp on a pillar, or wall, or road (v. teng). lē-in, sort of passport.

sūn-lē, quite on our way. bē-lē, to lose one's way. (v. bē). bat-lē, to know the road. lē sék, well acquainted with the road. lē chhi<sup>n</sup>, ignorant of the road. chhoā-lē, to guide. ín-lē, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhut-lē, to miss each other on the road (v. chhut). sa<sup>n</sup>-thut-lē, id. koā<sup>n</sup>-lē, to travel on the road with haste. siu-lē, to repair a road. siu-kiō tsō-lē, to repair bridges and make roads.

hông-tsoān lē-siōng, the invisible world. hông-tsoān lē-chiū<sup>n</sup>, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-lē (X.), the heavenly road (s. dew). ū-khi-lē, bō-lái-lē, there is a way to go, but none to return.

lō (T.), = A. lí. pē lāng-lō lāng-lō, the threads of the cloth too far separate or irregular.

lō (R. liét). oā<sup>n</sup>-kóng-lō (T.), = A. oā<sup>n</sup>-ké-léh, the bottom of a broken bowl.

lō (T.) ō-lō, = A. e-lē, fractious and bad-tempered, as child.

lō (Cn.) ka-lō, = A. ka-lé, puppets; puppet-shows.

lō (T.), = A. lē, to prune off shoots.

loa (T.), = A. nng-toa<sup>n</sup>, small eggs in the ovary. kiō-loa (T.), = A. khe-toa<sup>n</sup>, cackling of hen about to lay an egg.

loa (mere reduplication). thoa-loa, to drag along; to draw out, as out of water.

loá (R. ló), a flat round bamboo wicker tray. bí-loá, a flat round bamboo tray for holding rice.

loá (cf. noá<sup>n</sup>). loá-chhoá, acting very carelessly or absurdly; idle and mismanaging matters; lazy and procrastinating. lí-loá, to do a thing in a rough-and-ready manner without much minute care (it may be quite properly). ōe lí-loá--tit, it need not be done with much care; rough work will do quite well for the purpose. lí-loá kē-jit, to work in a very dilatory lazy way.

loá, to lay on loosely, as tiles temporarily laid on a roof when rain suddenly comes on before it is finished. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-loá--teh, id.

loá [R. lái, to lean or trust on], to charge falsely with a fault or crime; a surname. bū-loá, to accuse falsely. chhông-sū sa<sup>n</sup>-loá, to involve others in our own troubles or faults. beh-loá--lāng, to try to frighten people into giving money by threats. sí-loá--lāng, to kill one's self so as to cause trouble to our opponent; also, fig. of too urgent entreaty. loá jin-bēng, to accuse falsely of liability for a death.

oá-loá, to rely upon, usually in some improper sense; to sorn and live upon a man.

loá — chiá<sup>n</sup>-loá, making a small raised swelling on the skin, as the bite of an insect, or some eruptions.

loá [R. jiók, as, how many? = col. joá, oá], how many? how much? so much or many! (v. joá).

loá (R. lái), a rapid on a river.

loá (T. noá<sup>n</sup>). chhi<sup>n</sup>-loá, a large green caterpillar.

loá (Cn.). kōe-loá, = A. koe-noá<sup>n</sup>, a young fowl.

loah (mere reduplication). hoah-loah, to speak loud or angrily; to scold.

loah, to rub gently back and forwards with short rubs, as to ease pain; to rub in, as salt into a fish, &c. loah-iám, to rub with a little salt, as flesh or fish, in curing it.

loah (R. loát), to stroke with long strokes all in one direction; to stroke, as the beard; to smooth by stroking, as fur of animal, or as a dress. loah-tit-khì, to smooth by stroking, as dress or thread. so-loah, to stroke gently in one direction; to get round a man by saying sweet things, by fine talk and flattery; to fondle, as child; to put a matter to rights, by settling a quarrel and reconciling enemies. so--lāng loah--lāng, to get a man to do as we wish by saying sweet things to him, "stroking him down." chit-ē-loah, pi<sup>n</sup>-pho-pho, he can put it straight with a touch (v. pho). chit-ē-loah, chiū tsáu-tsoah, if he touches a man's arm he makes him ill, as a skilful boxer (v. tsoah).

loah--lái, to pull things straight towards one's self with finger points turned down, as cash on a table.

chhùi-chhiu-loah, a small comb for the beard.

loah — soa<sup>n</sup>-loah, a large serpent (said to be quite harmless).

loah (R. loát), pungent. hia<sup>n</sup>-loah, strong-scented and pungent (v. hia<sup>n</sup>). chhàu-hé-loah (T.), having a smoked taste from bad cooking.

kài-loah, mustard (not the plant, which is "koá-chhài"). kài-loah-hún, powdered mustard. loah-chhài, flower-buds of mustard plucked and covered up close so as to become very pungent.

loah (R. loát), to harrow a field before planting the rice.

loah — chhi-loah, a hedge of thorny plants. hng-loah, a hedge round a dry field or orchard. chhi-phē<sup>n</sup>-loah (C.), a hedge of thorny plants.

loán [R. small bells; imperial]. loán-kà, the imperial equipage; said also of some high divinities. kim-loán-tiēn, the imperial hall of audience.

賴賴

若

辣

野
列
鑿

籬

loân [R. the female phoenix]. loân-hông, female and male phoenix (v. hông).

toà-ke-loân, fated to be a solitary widow.

loân [R. to desire exceedingly]. tham-loân, to hanker after or doat upon, as wealth or improper things. loân-loân (R.), very much attached to and unable to hear the thought of separation. loân-loân put-siá, loving with warmth and constancy (may be said of friends).

loân [R. warmth, as of the sun]. loân-koh, the part of the judgment-seat where the mandarin sits.

loân [R. warm, as fire], (C. joán). loán-e (C. joán-oe), a dish with burning charcoal inside for keeping food warm. sè-chêng, khàn-lêng-loán, said of looking at a man's circumstances, as to wealth or poverty, &c.

loân [R. food presented to superiors]. loán-siü, a man's sons and daughters-in-law visiting him on the evening before his birth-day.

loân [R. weak, = col. núg, joán]. loán-jiók, weak; feeble.

loân, confused, disorderly, rebellious. loân-sîn, confused and almost out of one's mind from sad news, anxiety, or fear. jû-loân, entangled, perplexed (v. jû). thâm-loân, crazy (dull quiet madness). thâm-loân-siáu, mad (said only in scolding). bâng-loân, in great hurry and bustle (v. bâng). bê-loân, deceived by vicious pleasure (v. hè). sim-hoân i-loân, mind confused and distressed by numerous matters. tsau-loân, utterly confused and perplexed in mind by troublesome or painful matters, or by multiplicity of business. loân-tsau-tsau, id. loân-bé-bé, confused in mind. loân-kà-kà, involved; confused. loân-kà-kà, id. loân-chhî-chha, confused, as mind, or as a crowded market. hûn-loân, confused. hûn-loân, id., especially as the mind. loân-tsü, in a disorderly manner (v. tsü). loân-giêh, talking away at random. loân-loân-kún, struggling to break away. loân-peng, soldiers in the confusion of route.

tso-loân, feeling of dull pain in the stomach (v. tso). iau-loân, stomach disordered by hunger.

ím-loân, lewd; lascivious. loân-lûn, incest.

hoân-loân, rebellion; insurrection; to rebel. jiáu-loân, turmoil; riot; disturbance. lôe-loân, feud in a family; disturbance in a state. loân-sè, times of rebellion or civil war. pî-loân, to flee from rebellion or civil war.

lôe (R. lô, = col. loá). ka-lôe (esp. T.), = ka-liáh, a large round hamhoo tray used for drying things.

lôe (R. lê), (C. lê; Cn. lêe), to plough; a plough. lôe-pê, plough and harrows. lôe-thâu, the ploughshare. lôe-thâu-si, metal used for ploughshares. lôe-chioh, the low horizontal stick on which the share is fixed (v. chioh). lôe-ûg (C. lê-ûi), the crooked body of the plough. lôe-pi, the plough handle. lôe-âu-tsô, the cross-stick at the hack of the plough.

tiu-lôe, to make a plough. sái-lôe, to plough. lôe-chhân, to plough rice-fields. lôe han-tsü, to take up a whole field of potatoes either with plough or hoe.

lôe (C. lê), to rush on with all one's might, esp. blindfold or with head hent down; to run against or come in collision; to strike on a hank or rock, as vessel. lôe-jip lôe-chhut, to rush rapidly out and in. lôe-lién, to rush on rapidly carrying an idol in its chair.

sa-lôe, to come in collision, as hoats. lôe-tiôh, to come in collision or run aground. lôe-tiôh-tsún, to run against another boat. lôe-chiü-soa, to run aground.

gâu-lôe, asking over and over, with pleasant talk and plausible reasons, for some favour which the other is unwilling to grant; e.g. to get things cheaper, or get delay in payment.

lôe [R. nái, mother; milk], (C. lê). niü-lôe (r.), mother. ná-lôe-má-nih, said of a woman who is too imperious, violent, and troublesome (said in allusion to the character of an imperious old housekeeper in a play). lin-lôe (T.), a milk-nurse (often has a bad sense).

lôe (R. li), (C. lê; Cn. lêe), to scold. lôe-mê, to scold violently. lôe-má (T.), id. lôe-thi mē-tôe, to speak in a scolding and displeased way of heaven and earth. lôe-liām, to swear at one. chiü-lôe, to make imprecations and incantations against.

lôe (R. id.) lôe-chi, dispirited; to lose heart entirely.

lôe [R. lê, ceremony], (C. lê). siáu-lôe, ashamed; shy. ùi-siáu-lôe, shy. pê siáu-lôe, to pay a fine or forfeit (as money, or a feast or play, &c.) in acknowledgment of having done something wrong; e.g. to pay a sum of money for permission to break an agreement after the earnest-money has been paid (C. pôe siáu-lê). pê-lâng siáu-lôe, id.

lôe (C. lê; T. lêe), a file; to file; to grate down, as potatoes or turnips; to rub with a cloth, or with a rough leaf or skin, as substitute for sand-paper. lôe-á, a file. kü-lôe, a file for sharpening saws. hé-chih-lôe (r.), a coarse file. tsām-lôe, to make or sharpen a file.

lôe-hûn, marks made by scratching. lôe-hún, to grate or rub down small, as potatoes or stone. lôe siáh-hún, to rub down marble into powder.

lôe [R. in, inside, = col. lái]. lôe-tiong, in the affair or matter. lôe-koh, the cabinet or privy-council. lôe-tit, son of wife's brother. lôe-loân, quarrelling in a family; disturbances within a kingdom. lôe-siong, a deep internal disease. lôe-chêng, id. lôe-hu, looking fat and well, but in very weak health. gôe-kong lôe-êng, enemies without and treachery within.

lôe, = lê (C. lê; Cn. lêe). lôe-hí, a sort of fish. lôe-koa, do. dried, from Siam.

lôe — teh-pa-lôe sim-mih, what are you engaged about? bô-sim-mih thang pa-lôe, nothing to do.

lôe (T.), = A. lêe, a file; to file.

lôeh (R. lip), (C. lêh; Cn. lêeh), a broad cap or hat nearly flat, for sun, rain, or ceremony; the head of a nail. ki-á-lôeh, a light broad ceremonial tasselled cap made of rattan, covered with satin or other fine stuff (worn by gentry). lê-lôeh, a tasselled summer cap (v. lê). chháu-lôeh, a broad flat cap made of leaves. bêh-kó-lôeh, id., made of straw. joáh-lôeh, a broad ceremonial cap with tassels. joáh-lôeh-khak, id., without its tassels (worn at funeral rites). lôeh-thò, the bamboo or rattan work inside such a cap, which fits tight on the head.

teng-lôeh, the head of a nail. teng-á-lôeh, id. khah-toá-lôeh, having a larger head, as nail. gêh-ti-lôeh, a small circle of clouds close round the moon (v. gêh).

loh, = lah, a final enclitic particle at the end of an indicative sentence.

loh [R. lók, a camel], a surname.

鸞
戀

暖

餽
軟
亂

籬 和
牛

奶

言

餞
禮

鑪

內

藝

駱

樂
絡

lòh [R. lòk, joy; rejoice]. tiô-lòh, the city and district of Chang-loh, near Fuh-chau.

lòh [R. lòk, united]. khø-lòh, a bamboo hoop and ropes for carrying loads; a cooly who carries loads. khø-lòh-soh, these ropes. lòh-á-soh, id. lòh-á, these ropes fastened to the bamboo hoop. poeh-lòh, sort of rope much used by porters. poeh-lòh-soh, id.

lòh [R. lòk, to lop off], to prune away branches (C.)

lòh — koe-thí thâu-lòh, the first cock-crowing. koe-thí jì-lòh, the second cock-crowing.

lòh [R. lòk, to fall, &c., = col. lak, lok, lauh, làu], to descend; to come down; to go down into; to lay down or write down; (a place); one compartment of a house.

tá-lòh, where? tó-lòh, id. tá-lòh-ûi, what place? tí-tá-lòh, where? tí-tá-lòh chit-ê, which one? tá-lòh chit-ê, id. tó-lòh chit-ê, id. tá-lòh-lâng, to what place does he belong? beh tá-lòh-khì, where will you go?

âu-lòh, the back compartment of a Chinese house, generally separated from the front part by a court. chêng-lòh, the front part, on the street or road. ê-lòh, id. tióng-lòh, the middle part, where there are three, separated by two courts. sa'-lòh, these three parts. û-lêng-lòh, to have a good site in respect of Fung-shuy.

lòh tsøe-sì-thúì, cut up into the four quarters, as carcase of pig or sheep.

lòh-âu--jit, the day after to-morrow. lòh-âu-ní', the year after next. koh-lòh chit-jit, yet one day later. lòh-tsòh--jit (T.), = A. sùn-tsòh--jit, the second day before yesterday.

û hê-lòh, well-behaved; correct in conduct, esp. as to money matters; safe to deal with; of respectable position or character, so that he will not do anything very bad; having a pretty good foundation, or a fair chance of success, as an affair. tsøe-sû û-hê-lòh, safe to deal with. pân kàu û-hê-lòh, to manage an affair till it becomes pretty safe or straight. pân kàu û chit--ê hê-lòh, id. pân--liáu û-hê-lòh, well managed and settled properly. kiá--khì û-hê-lòh, to send (as letter or parcel) by a safe mode of conveyance. chhâ kàu û-hê-lòh, to examine till we get at the real state of the case. iáu-bê û-hê-lòh, don't yet know the real state of the matter. chhâ chit--ê hê-lòh, to examine so as to find the real state and circumstances of the case, as to safety, &c. û sím-mih' hê-lòh, what news of him, or it? m-tsai i--ê hê-lòh, don't know where he lives, or how he is situated, or what are his circumstances and antecedents. i--ê hê-lòh sí tsái"-iü", what are his circumstances and antecedents? lóng-bô hê-lòh, no news at all. bô-hê-lòh, disreputable, as man; unprincipled; of bad character; untrustworthy; unimportant and useless, as a thing. bô-hê bô-lòh, id. kiá"-liáu bô-hê-lòh, I fear the affair will go wrong, or that the thing sent is lost and cannot be traced. kiá--khì bô-hê-lòh, to have sent a thing by an unsafe mode of conveyance, so that it is quite lost without any trace.

hoat-lòh, to manage or arrange an affair. lí-lòh, to manage well, esp. household matters. bô lí-lòh, does not manage well, as household. siet-bøe-lòh, unable to establish, as a custom or rule.

chiü"-lòh, to ascend and descend. lòh--lái, to come down. lòh--khì, to go down. chhim--lòh-khì, to get heavily in debt. chiáh--lòh-khì, to swallow down (&c.) pàng-lòh, to lay down, as a thing; to repress, as a passion or emotion. jít lòh, sunset (v. jít). chhi" lòh-tøe, a star setting. ke-chhi" lòh-tøe (T.), the Pleiades setting.

lòh-pit, to begin to write. lòh-lé, to put on the sculling oar. lòh-chhiü, at the very first putting one's hand to a thing. lòh-chhiü, chiü phah-phái", at the first touch he spoiled it. lòh-chhiü chiü-ia", he won as soon as he began to play. khah-lòh-chhiü, better acquainted with the way of doing a thing than at first.

lòh-khoán, to put down a name on an ornamental scroll (v. khoán). lòh-miá", to write down a name. lòh chit-jì, write down this word. lòh hit-jì, write down that word.

lòh chit-jì, to omit one word in writing by mistake. lòh-jì, do. (one or more). lòh-sin, to have a mis-carriage (v. sin). sit-lòh, to lose (v. sit). lòh-sih, to lose capital; to lose in trade.

lòh-kè, to become cheaper (v. kè). lòh-chí", to become much poorer, though still having some wealth. lòh-pòh, to sink from affluence into poverty. lòh-im, in a low, dark, damp, unhealthy situation. lâu-lòh, to flow down; having no friends or relations to take care of us. léng-lòh (C.), desolate or decayed, as place. lòh-sún, to fall into consumption.

lòh-sún, to fit a mortice joint (v. sún). lòh-ngáu", to agree well together, as persons. lòh--lâng ke-kàu, to receive submissively the rule of the family she enters, as a bride. lòh-núg, to come nearer the terms of the other party.

lòh-âu, to be swallowed (v. âu). thia"-lòh-hì, to hear distinctly (v. hí). lòh-chhim, to get into deep water. lòh-khó, to come down with the ebb-tide. beh-lòh-sai, about to set in the west, as the sun. lòh-tsün, to embark. lòh-òh, to go to school, as thrice each day. lòh-hi, to go to the market. lòh-hák, to go to stool.

lòh-soa", to come down from a hill; to set behind a hill, as the sun. lòh-kiá, to come down a flight of steps. lòh-bé, to dismount (v. bé). lòh-pan, to retire from duty, after having taken one's turn, as underling in yamun. lòh-sa, to come from the north of China to Amoy, as junk.

lòh-kheh, to be taking in passengers, as vessel. lòh-hê, to rain. lòh-seh, to snow. lòh-sng, to have hoar-frost; to snow. lòh-sng lòh-seh, to snow and have hoar-frost. lòh-iám, to put salt on a thing or into a dish. lòh-pùn, to manure. lòh-púi, id. lòh-kiö, to set down a sedan.

lòh (T.) lí-lòh, = A. lí-leh, very troublesome, as boy, &c.

lòh (T.), = A. lòh. liám-lòh, talking far too much. lí-lòh, id.

lok [R. lòk, to descend or lay down, = col. lòh, lak, làuh, &c.], to lay down; decayed and sunk, as fruit, or as leg with sores in it. lok--teh, to lay down. kiá-lok--teh, to deposit; to commit to a man's care, as money or some article.

lok-chi, quite dispirited and faint-hearted, from bad luck or want of success. lok-søng, appearance of being in very reduced circumstances. lok-lién, to become very poor and in bad circumstances.

lok-tsúi, to step unintentionally into water. lok--lòh kau-á, to step by mistake into a ditch or drain. lok--lòh chhim-chhân, to step by mistake into deep miry irrigated fields.

lok-lok, very slushy, as road; having places sunk and decaying, as over-ripe fruit or diseased leg. noá"-noá" lok-lok, sunk and decaying, as limb. tám

落

lok-lok, very wet and slushy, as roads. lok-chhih-chhih, id. kà-lok-lok, very thin, as rice paste. lok-thúí, thigh full of sores. phah kàu-lok-thúí, to beat till great sores form on the thighs, as before a mandarin. phah kàu-lok-lok-lok, to beat till it makes open sores.

lok (= lak). phī<sup>n</sup>-lok, the nose. phī<sup>n</sup>-lok-kóng, id.

lok [R. thok, a bag, = col. lak], a small bag. tsoá-lok, paper bags, used in shops. chit-lok-hún, one small bag of face-powder. hiu<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>-lok, a long bag for holding a number of incense sticks.

chhiú-lok, sort of gloves put on the hands of a corpse when buried.

lok — lok-kháu, to gargle the throat and mouth.

lok (mere reduplication). kok-lok-phāng, a deep glen or dell (v. kok).

lok [R. connected, = col. lóh]. liên-lók, sort of combination of the people of a town under head-men of each street or so, to prevent rebellion, riots, or plundering, each house or two furnishing a volunteer. biên-lók, id. liên-lók-thâu, the head-man of a town thus banded together.

keng-lók, the part of the body where some disease has its seat. tá-lóh--chit-ê keng-lók, in what part of the body?

lok [R. a sort of wheel, = col. lak]. kan-lók, a spinning-top. kien-lók, id. teng-kan-lók, to throw down a top to spin.

lok [R. id.; also, a surname, = col. lóh]. lok-tô, a camel.

lok (R. id.), a deer; a stag. lok-tú, a cage for carrying criminals. hoe lok-lók, mottled, spotted, variegated.

lok-jiông, young stag's horns, medicinal (v. jiông). lok-kun, stag's sinews. lok-kak, stag's horns; also, = lêng-gê, the upright sticks on the bow of a junk, between which the anchor rope runs. lok-kak-chháu, a small plant (med.) with leaves like horns. lok-chhong-hoe, a sort of flower (v. chhong), said to be = soan-chháu.

hé-lok, very deceitful, as by words, appearance, or actions. hé-hé lok-lok, id. hé-lok-chhùi, deceiving by lying words. chhò-bé-káu ké-lok (a dog with cropped tail aping a stag), said of aping the appearance of dignity. chí-lok úi-má (to point at a stag as a horse), to accuse falsely.

lok [R. to descend; to fall, = col. lóh, lauh, lak, lok]. ú-tiòk-lok, to be depended on, as a man; safe or sure, as a matter of which there is sufficient evidence (v. tiók).

kà-lok-lok, quite spoiled past remedy, as an affair. liú-lok, to wander about, as poor man with no employment (v. liú). lok-phek, miserable (v. phek). lok-hoa liú-súi, very miserable.

lok-kha-seng, ground-nuts, = thé-tāu.

lok [R. rocky; toilsome; miserable]. lô-lok-miā<sup>n</sup>, a toilsome miserable life. lô-lok-chê, miserable life because of sins in a former life. lok-chhih lok-chhih, having a very miserable broken-down look, as opium-smoker.

lok [R. joy; glad]. khoài-lok, enjoying great pleasure; very happy. tsok-lok, to show delight by gestures or appearance. an-lok (R.), happy and comfortable. an-an lok-lok, in comfort and ease, with nothing to trouble one. kék-lok ê-sè-kài, a Buddhist phrase for heaven. lok kék, pi-seng, sorrow comes when joy is at the full. thiông-lok, delighted; pleased (often has a bad sense). lok-thiông, going about idly and fond of low pleasures (v. thiông). lok-khók, licentious (v. khók). tsai-si<sup>n</sup> m-lók; sí, tiòh kâ-kúi koá<sup>n</sup>-pau-hók, he who is always melancholy in life shall carry bundles for the ghosts after his death.

lok [R. official salary]. hông-lok, the official salary of a mandarin. hok-lok, good fortune and rank (v. hok). lok-úi, a tablet set up in honour of a good mandarin in his lifetime (v. úi). sit jin-chi-lok, tam jin-chi-iu, he who lives on a man's money should share his sorrows.

ông-lok, a travelling doctor, quack, or fortune-teller. ông-lok-sien, id.; also said in scolding a liar; you quack! ông-lok-chhùi, deceitful lips.

lom (P.), the worst part of a prison; a dungeon or inner prison. lom-á-té, id.; in the dungeon. siu-lom, to be imprisoned in it.

lóm (P.) óm-lóm, to collect into a mass.

lòm (C.), = A. lòm (cf. lóp). lòm-chhân, soft muddy fields. lòm-thê, id.

long (cf. lang, nng), to shove endwise into a hole, as a stick, or as a pillow into its case, or as a pen into its cover; said also in a bad sense in vile foul scolding. long--kè-lái, to push in, as a beam through a window or hole. long hit-tsàu-khang, to shove into the stove, as a stick of wood.

thàu-piah-long, to put the feet of a captive through holes in a wall, as a sort of stocks. toā-iá piah-long, may your uncoffined corpse be pushed through a hole in the yamun wall! (done to any of the subordinates), (said in scolding an underling of a yamun).

long--kè-khì, to run off stealthily and unobserved (as if through a hole). long--jip-khì, to enter stealthily and unobserved; to draw one's arm into the sleeve of one's dress. lut-long chiú-tsáu, to steal away unobserved and unexpectedly in an undignified manner, so as to be out of the way. lut-long tsòe-i-khì, id.

long-pang, to work one's passage in a vessel.

long (cf. lóng, làm). chhim-long-long, very deep, as water, or as a large house. khoà<sup>n</sup>-long-long, very spacious, as a house; too loose, as clothes (v. khoà<sup>n</sup>). khoah-long-long, very loose and wide, as sleeves.

long — í<sup>n</sup>-long-long, circling round, as wall or line; long and round, as a stick. long-á-chhâ, an unsplit billet of wood.

long — lin-long, running about, as children at play. séh-lin-long, to run round in a circle, as children. pha chit-lin-long tng, to make a complete circuit, as in a walk. hiâu-lin-long, very licentious (said only of a woman).

long [R. liông, lóng], (C. lóng). lin-long-ké, a rattle used by pedlars and by children. long-long-háu, to rattle (neuter), as the sound of a rattle. hi-khang long-long-háu, ringing sound in the ears. long-long-háu, id.

long [R. tong, sound of water]. long-long-háu, sound of a rushing stream of water, as in a gutter or torrent. tsúi long-long-háu, id. long-long-kió, id.

long — kap-long, small horn whistles tied to pigeons, sounding as they fly. bé-long, sort of bells on horses. koà-bé-long, to wear such bells, as horse.

寮

絡

輓
駱 鹿

落

碌

樂

祿

瓏

鞞

溜

long — khiâ-bé-long, to sit astride on a person, as in play, or as when beating him.

long (= lang). hoah-lê-long, an auction; to sell by auction.

lông [R. a young man; a gentleman, = col. nŋg]. lêng-lông (polite), your son. pók-chêng-lông, a man who abandons a woman. hó-lông-kun, my good husband. lông-kun tsú-tê, a rich and handsome young fellow. hó-lông-kun tsú-tê, id., said in reference to a bride being affianced to such a desirable youth. poáh-kiáu lông-kun, bóe-bôe chhát, there is honour among gamblers, but traders are thieves. lông-kun-iâ, an idol of the surname Bêng, worshipped by song-singers. ji-lông-sin, a military idol different from the above. ji-lông-kun (Cn.), id. ji-lông tē-kun (Cn.), id. ji-lông-biô, his temple.

lông [R. a basket, = col. lŋng, lŋng], a muzzle; to muzzle; to put on a horse's head-stall. lông-thâu, a horse's head-stall. bé-thâu-lông, id. bô-koà-lông-thâu bé, a lad who goes about doing what he pleases under no control.

lông [R. a bag; to put in a bag]. chhiú-lông, gloves. phoe-lông, an envelope. thiap-lông, envelope for a card. tsō gim-lông, to make a shrewd guess of the future. goá ká-lí-tsō gim-lông, I will tell you what will be the sure result of your action; I warn you of the misfortunes you will bring on yourself.

lông-lông khng-tī-pè-tê, stow away in a bag.

lông (R. id.) phau-lông (R.), the scrotum, = lân-pha.

lông [R. a sort of palm-tree, = col. nŋg]. kong-lông (F.), a plant of the palm tribe (Cycas? or like a date-palm?).

lông — sa<sup>n</sup>-liú-lông, acting in turn; in rotation.

lông — tō-lông, to help one out of great trouble or poverty.

lông [R. id., cf. col. lŋng]. chhâi-lông, wolves. hé-lông pà-piu, very fierce and wicked men. hái-lông, a northern animal with very fine, dark, soft fur (beaver?). hái-lông-bô, a cap made of its fur. hái-lông-kháu, cuffs made of it.

lông-pôe, in great poverty (v. pôe). lông put-lông, siù put-siù, quite unfit for work; out of employment and miserable.

lông [R. matter from a sore, = col. lŋng]. thúi-thâu-lông, a large boil on the buttocks. àu-lông, very stinking (said in vile scolding).

lông (R. id.), strong, nourishing, and heating, as food; opposed to "chheng" of a light and cooling nature. sek-tì lông-lông, the colour is very deep. bák boá kàu-lông-lông, rub down the ink till it is thick and black. m-thang siu<sup>n</sup>-lông, don't make it too thick. tê phàu-khah-lông (esp. C.), make the tea stronger.

lông [R. a covered portico; a cloistered or covered way]. lêng-lông, the two covered ways (under the broad eaves) on the opposite sides of the court of a house, connecting the front and back premises. liáng-lông (C.), id.

lông (R. id.) lông-hu (r.), a farmer. sū-lông kong-siong, the four classes of employments: scholars, farmers, workmen, and traders. sin-lông, Shin-nung, the god of drugs, worshipped in medicine-shops. sin-lông tái-tè, id.

lông (C.), = A. long. lín-lông-ké, a sort of musical instrument. lín-lín lông-lông, the sound of it.

lông (cf. lŋng, lŋ). lông-liú-lien, words used at the beginning of a play.

lông — chiú-lông, a foreign wine and spirit shop.

lông (cf. lŋng, tsông), all. lông-tsông, id. lông-hó, all are good; all is right. lông-ū, all these are present; have them all. lông-bô, not at all; have none of them. lông-m-si, certainly it is not. lông-m-thang, you must not on any account.

lông (cf. lok). kà-lông-lông, very watery, as soup or thin rice paste.

lông (mere reduplication). kóng-lông, to talk away; to talk idly or tautologically.

lông — lín-lín-lông-lông, loud noise and turmoil, as of heavy things moved about, or of men treading heavily, or of loud rapid knocking. lín-lông, do., but not so loud. lín-lông-háu, id. lín-lông-kiò, id. éng lông-lông-háu, the waves roaring.

lông (mere reduplication). kông-lông-phoà, to dash in pieces by striking.

lông, to strike with a heavy stone, or with the end of a heavy beam, as with a battering-ram. lông-khui, to burst open (as a door) in that way. lông-mŋg, to batter a door thus, in order to open it.

lông (cf. long). lông-kè-khi, to run off. si-kòe-lông, to travel about in all directions to considerable distances, as for trade or amusement.

lông (cf. long, làm). khoah-lông, too large and loose, as clothes. khoà<sup>n</sup>-lông-khoà<sup>n</sup>-lông, id. lông-không, id. lông-không-toà, id. lông-lông-không-không, very spacious, as a house; too large and loose, as clothes.

lông (cf. lô), a great bar across a door or window, fastened at the two ends in the walls or frame; to fasten a door or window by such a bar, horizontal or perpendicular. mŋg-lông, a horizontal bar quite across a door. thang-á-lông, a perpendicular bar for a window.

lông [R. flaming]. hé-lông, a sort of congreve rocket for use in war.

lông — liú-lông-lien, wandering wretchedly without regular means of living.

lông [R. a wave; dissipated, = col. nŋg]. pho-lông (R.), waves. ké-lông-sū, the island of Kolongsoo or Kulangseu. hong thiâm, lông chêng, winds and waves quiet. hong pêng, lông chêng, id. pêng-hong chêng-lông, id. kông-hong tái-lông (r.), wind and waves stormy.

lông-tông, profligate; ill-behaved (v. tông). lông-liáu, money all wasted in folly.

lông [R. to brandish; to instigate, = col. lŋng], to egg on (esp. by falsehoods), as to injure others, or to begin a quarrel, or to come into great danger; to instigate to evil, especially to feuds and quarrels. bú-lông, to make a fool of (v. bú, to insult). bú-lông, to brandish (v. bú, to brandish). lông-thúi, an instrument like a club, for beating and stirring indigo in the vat. lông-chhi, to work up indigo with it. phah-lông, to whip up (a horse) to its utmost speed.

lông-koân, to make improper and selfish use of authority committed to us, or of trust placed in us. lông-pè, to manage secretly something improper, as in a legal case. lông-kúi, to be the prime mover in a plot for deceiving people. lông-iông, to spread bad

啣
郎

籠

囊

榔

狼

膿
濃

廊

農

龐

娘

浪

拏

reports (v. iông). lông-lâng, to instigate a man secretly against another. khít--lâng lông--khi, to be imposed upon so as to injure others, get into a feud, or into great danger. chít-pêng lông-kè-lâi, hit-pêng lông-kè-khi, egging on each party against the other. pái-lông, to instigate to enmity or feud by false reports or accusations. koái-lông, id. sái-lông, id. tsok-lông, to impose upon by false reports; to play tricks on; to befool; to possess or injure, as a demon. poan-lông, to poison a man's mind by lies against another, and so cause strife (v. poan). chháu-lông-tsông (esp. C.), to make a false pretence about some matter which does not exist at all.

lông-kháu sêng-tsoat, to try to do something very clever, but turn out stupid (v. kháu). lông-ká sêng-chin, a jest or practical joke turned into a sad reality.

lông (Cn.), = A. lêng, able.

lop (cf. lăm), wet and soft, as ground. lop-lop, id. lop-tsúi (C.), to step into water carelessly, as children, &c.

lu (cf. tu), to push a thing away from one's self, or towards another, as with hand, foot, or stick.

lu (cf. lū). thâu-khak lu, keeping one's head bent down and forward. chhùi lu-lu, mouth naturally projecting. tsūn-thâu lu-lu, the boat's head low and projecting forward, instead of turning up. lu-lâi lu-khi, to rush back and forwards through the rain or dark night. thau-hē lu--lâi, to come running with head down through the rain.

lu (= lo). bóng-lu, to make an attempt to get a favour, though with very small hope of success.

lu — lu-chhip, to work a small net by going into the sea neck-deep.

lū [R. a gate], (C. li; Cn. lū). hién-iāu bân-lū (R.), to become highly distinguished, as a high graduate or mandarin (lit. splendid gate).

lū (R. id.), (C. li; Cn. lū), an ass. lū-tô, asses, as used for carrying burdens. hái-lū, a sort of seal. thut-lū (a bald ass), said in scolding a Buddhist priest.

lū (T.), = A. li, thou; you; thee; ye (said also in the villages on Amoy island).

lū [R. female; a daughter], (C. li; Cn. lū). lū-tek, female character (v. tek). lū-sek, female beauty, esp. as inciting to lust. lū-ôe, women's small shoes. lū-kang, a female worker; a sempstress or milliner, &c. lū-chiông, a female warrior (v. chiông). lū-pi (r.), = tsa-bé-kán, a female slave; a concubine. kiông-lū, female slaves of the empress in the harem (v. kiông). ki-lū, a harlot.

tsái-sek-lū, a virgin. kui-lū, id. chhim-kui-lū, id. cheng-lū, a virgin who remains so to the last. chiet-lū, id., refusing to marry, as because of the death of her betrothed, or other good reason. liét-lū, a widow who commits suicide rather than marry again (v. liét).

lū-jī, a daughter. siáu-lū (polite), my daughter. hâu-lū, a daughter mourning for parent, &c., in the ceremonies. tít-lū, a brother's daughter. gōe-seng-lū, a sister's daughter. lū-sun, a granddaughter.

lâm-lū, male and female; men and women. it-lâm it-lū, one man and one woman. chin-lâm ké-lū, a man pretending to be a woman, as actor. lâm-toā lū-iū, male and female, old and young. lâm-jin lū-thóe (C. li-thé), man with effeminate or feminine look or manner. lâm-ke lū-ke, the relatives of the bridegroom and bride respectively.

sien-lú, a fairy. chit-lú, a star (lit. the weaver), worshipped on 7.7. lú-o, the woman who made the sky. lú-jin-kok, the kingdom where all the people are females.

lū (R. lū), to scour or rub bright, as with a cloth or fish skin (like sand-paper), but not with a brush; to grate down. lū-hún, to grate down sweet potatoes for making starch. lū-kng, to polish bright by rubbing. lū-tàng, to polish brass. lū-gék, to polish jade-stone. lū-to, to polish a knife by rubbing something on the knife.

lū (R. id.), (C. li; Cn. lū), to filter out; to strain out by a cloth. kè-lū, to be filtered or strained. lū-kun, a cloth for straining or filtering through, as in making bean-curd.

lū (= lu), to rush on blindly.

lū (C.), = A. lu, to dabble in mud. lū-lâi lū-khi, to dabble about in mud.

lū — lū-lóh-lâi, to slip or slide down, as from one's seat, or as a thing from a place where it had been lying steady.

lū [R. lū, the handle of a plough, &c.] lū-pê (T.), a sort of rake or grubber for agriculture. lū-chháu (T.), to grub up weeds from among growing crops with it. lū-chhân (T.), id.

lū (R. id.), (C. li; Cn. lū), a surname. lū-sien-tsé, one of the genii (sien), worshipped by barbers. lū tóng-pin, id.

lū-sòng, Luzon; the Philippine Islands (v. sòng).

lū (R. id.), (C. li; Cn. lū). khòà-lū, to be anxious about; to feel anxious for. koà-lū, id. iu-lū (r.), grieved and anxious. lū-tâng lū-té, anxious about everything. khòà-tâng lū-té, id.

lū [R. lazy; indisposed to act]. lū-kū, answering gruffly; ill-mannered in reply, either in refusing or consenting; e.g. when told what to do, answering, "I know that already." lū-tū (C.), id.

lūh (R. lūt), to limp. lūh-kha, id. lūh--chit-ē, to make a limping step.

lui, a knob or boss, as on a gong; a round lump or swelling, as on the head. cheng-lui, the boss of a gong.

lui — pái-lui-lui, very fat.

lui (T.) lui-lui tui-tui (= A. lūi), troublesome, involved, or not straightforward.

lui (Cn.) táh-lui, to stumble and fall backwards.

lūi (cf. lui, lū). chit-lūi, a swelling on the head caused by a stroke.

lūi (some say "lui"), (T. lui). lūi-tui, troublesome and involved, as affair; talking in a way not straightforward, or untruthful; confused and dirty (v. tui).

lūi (R. id.), to triturate; to grind to powder in a mortar. lūi-boáh, id. lūi-ióh, to triturate medicines. lūi-poah, a stoneware mortar for triturating. lūi-thúí, a pestle for it.

m-sái kap-i-lūi, you need not waste words with him about it.

lūi [R. li, a sort of shell-fish; cockle?]. kap-lūi, a small edible shell-fish.

lūi [R. fruit or seed of a tree], a fir-cone. chêng-peh-lūi, id. chhêng-peh-lūi, id. tē-seng-lūi, the large sort of fir-cone. chhâ-lūi, a fir-cone. png-lūi, the fruit of the liquid-amber (png) tree. seng-gô-lūi (C.), a sort of excrescence on a fir-tree.

鑪

瀘

耒

呂 慮

肆

搗

蜆

問
驢

女

lúi — thé-lúi, blind because the eyeball projects enormously.

lúi (R. id.), thunder (including the idea of the destructive power of lightning); electricity; a surname. lúi-khì (r.), electricity. lúi-tân, the thunder sounding. lúi-tân sih-nà<sup>n</sup>, thunder and lightning. lúi chhè, thunder rattling very loud (v. chhè). lúi chhéh<sup>n</sup>-nêh<sup>n</sup>-nêh<sup>n</sup>, great sound of thunder. lúi-hé-sio, burned by lightning. thi<sup>n</sup>-lúi, thunder. hē thi<sup>n</sup>-lúi phah--sí, to be killed by lightning. khí-lúi, to be the place where lightning strikes. khí ngé-lúi, tremendous thunderstorm; said also of people coming and making a great row. hē ngé-lúi phah--sí, may the five thunders kill (if the oath be false), (said in adjuring or swearing to witness the truth). ngé-lúi ê-hū-lêng, a Taoist charm on a slip of bamboo by which the five thunder-spirits drive away demons. lúi-phia<sup>n</sup>, a god of thunder. lúi-kong, the great thunder-god; thunder and lightning, as a destructive agent; thunder. lúi-kong tiē-bú, the god of thunder and the goddess of lightning. lúi-kong khū-khū-tân, thunder making a loud noise. lúi-kong phah-sí-lâng, lightning killing a man. ti-ko-phí<sup>n</sup> lúi-kong-chhùi (pig's nose and thunder-god's mouth), very ugly.

hó-sim khít-lúi-phah (a good man struck dead by lightning), I meant it well, but you scold me! ná<sup>n</sup>-ah thia<sup>n</sup>-lúi (like a duck hearing thunder), not knowing what all the noise is about. lúi kóng-tit, thunder on the term called ki<sup>n</sup>-tit (v. tit). lák-géh chít-lúi chí káu-thai, thunder in the 6th moon keeps off nine typhoons (v. thai).

tē-lúi, a mine (in war) for blowing up; a child's toy that makes a loud noise by pulling a string. tē-lúi hé-phàu, a mine in war. tái tē-lúi, to set a mine.

lúi (R. id.), classifier of flowers. hoe-lúi, a blossom; a flower. kiet hoe-lúi, to produce flowers. khui-hoe chiá<sup>n</sup>-lúi, id. hâm-lúi, a half-opened bud.

lúi, classifier of eyes. tí<sup>n</sup>-toā-lúi, to stare angrily (v. tí<sup>n</sup>). bák-chiu toā-sòe-lúi, treating people with partiality.

lúi — chiáu-lúi, a bird's cup for water and food. chiáu-á-lúi, id. chiáu-lúi-á, id.

lúi, to try whether two things be of equal weight, or to make them equal. lúi-tāng, id. lúi-khoá<sup>n</sup>, try if they be the same weight. lúi hē-i-pi<sup>n</sup>, weigh and adjust till of equal weight.

lúi (R. lúi). lâm-lúi, slovenly or tattered, as dress. lâm-lâm lúi-lúi, id.

lúi — σ-lúi-lúi, very black.

lúi — ut-lúi, = ut-lút, title of the spirit of a man of the Tang dynasty, whose name is written on doors.

lúi [R. a heap of stones; to heap up], to build a wall of loose stones; to build a rubble wall; to pile up, as bricks or stones; to heap up. lúi--khí-lái, id. lúi-tāng, to run up a wall in a slim manner in order to separate a place. chióh-lúi--ê, built of rough stones laid together.

lúi-lúi tsòe-chít-tui, to gather into a heap. lúi-chek (R.), to gather more and more, as money.

iá<sup>n</sup>-lúi, a fortified camp.

lúi [R. lúi, constantly; cf. col. lúi]. lúi-lúi, constantly over and over again. lúi-chhù, several times; frequently.

lúi (cf. lúi). lúi-chhùi, miscellaneous.

lúi [R. tears]. gán-lúi (r.), to shed tears. chek-lúi, candle-droppings.

lúi (R. id.), to beat loud and long, as a drum. khí-lúi, to begin beating the drum, as at the first watch. lúi-ké, to beat a large drum quick, loud, and long. khau-cheng lúi-ké, to sound bells and drums, as Buddhist priests. lúi-chièn-ké, to beat a war-drum thus in war or at review.

lúi (R. tui), to let down or draw up by a rope. lúi--lòh-khì, to let down by a rope. lúi--khí-lái, to draw up by a rope; to hoist up.

lúi (R. id.), to involve, as in debt, responsibility, or trouble. lúi--tióh, id. liên-lúi, id. thoa-lúi, id. lúi-thui, to cause obstruction or impediment, as family, &c. siū-lúi, to be involved in another's affairs. pi-lúi, id. khít-lâng-lúi, id. lúi-lán hē-lâng-tâu, involving us so that people come and complain to us. thòe-i pē-lúi, to have to pay expenses for him because of being somehow connected with him, much against one's will and often with small hope of repayment. hái-goá pē-lúi, his action has compelled me (unwillingly) to pay out money for him. bô-hó-hia<sup>n</sup> lúi sío-tí, an ill-behaved elder brother involves his younger brother in trouble. ka-tsáu tsòe-sū, lúi sat-bú, the flea does the mischief and involves the louse.

lúi (R. id.), a sort, a class, or kind. tóng-lúi, an illegal association or confederacy. húi-lúi, vagabonds; ruffians; rowdies; rabble. kiá<sup>n</sup>-lúi, descendants. chéng-lúi, id. jîn-lúi, mankind. siū-lúi, quadrupeds, esp. wild beasts. tāng-lúi, of one sort. siāng-lúi, id. kui-lúi, to arrange in order; to sort. pun-kui-lúi, id. hun-kui-lúi, id. hun-lúi, id.

lúi (R. id.) ji-lúi, a small dictionary; a vocabulary. tùi-lúi, a small book with antithetic words or phrases learned by children.

lúi [R. lōe, inside, = col. lāi]. lúi-chiòng (C. lāi-chiàng), blindness caused by a white formation (v. chiòng).

lun [R. sin, to stretch out, = col. chhun], to stretch out stealthily (as the head) to take a look or listen secretly. lun--chhut-khì, id., as from a door or window. lun--chhut-lái, id., said by those towards whom the head is protruded. thau-lun--chhut-lái, id. lun-thâu teh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, putting out the head to take a secret look. lun-thâu bih-âm, appearance of listening or looking stealthily. lun--cheh kiu--cheh, afraid, or very cautious and unsettled in purpose (v. kiu).

lun, to draw straight back without turning, as head, or as a boat; to push straight backwards, as a boat. lun--chit-ê, id. lun--tsáu, to move slightly so as to keep out of sight. lun--lòh-khì tē-tóe, to go down at once to the hold, as on going on board a junk. lun-kha lun-chhiú, drawing in one's limbs for fear; keeping very quiet in the presence of a superior, in a respectful or frightened manner; afraid to meddle in a dangerous matter. pàng-lun, to let (a boat) go right astern. tò-bé-lun, to push or draw a boat right backwards. tò-lun, id.; to draw straight back, as head, or whole person, &c. thâu-khak tò-lun, to draw in one's head. tò-lun--jip-khì, to draw back the head or person in a stealthy or frightened way (said by an observer outside). lun--jip-khì, id.

雷

蕊 芷

壘

褸

累 屢

淚 摺

縋 累

類

彙 內 伸

lun — chē kàu lun-lun, to sit with the back somewhat bent, so that the head hangs down a little.

lun — pa-lun tsing-chih, to lick one's lips, as when thirsty, or as when there is a pleasant taste on the lips. pa-lun pō-chháu, to chew the cud or ruminate, as the cow. pa-lun pa-láu, to bolt one's food without chewing; to talk about a matter indefinitely and indistinctly, intentionally avoiding clear expressions. pa-lun--lòh-khi, to bolt one's food; to swallow without chewing, as a pill. pa-lun-thun, id. (v. thun). pa-lun-thâu (C.), to cover up one's head in bed in the coverlet. poa-lun-thâu (C.), id.

lun (cf. lin). koe-lun, a truncated sea-slug, edible, and of dark-gray colour.

lun — giá-sék-lun, a composition like glass with particles of gold in it, used for making small ornamental bottles.

lun (R. id.) lun-liú, by turns; in rotation. chiàu-lun-liú, id. chiàu-lun (C. lin), id. lun-khau, to take turns by lot. kau-lun (C. lin), to give over to another in turn. lun-tng (Cn.), to have charge by turn, as of some special duty.

lun (R. id.), a wheel. chhia-lun, the wheel of a cart or carriage (v. chhia). géng-lun, the wheel used in a long mortar. lun-ki<sup>2</sup>, the rim of a wheel. i<sup>2</sup>-lun i<sup>2</sup>-lun, quite round.

lun-hôe, transmigration.

kut-lun, the larger joints of the body. thúi-lun, the thigh-joint. chhiú-lun, the wrist-joint. thút-lun, to dislocate a joint. tng-lun, to turn, as the eyes. chhun-lun (T.), = A. chhun-ún, to stretch one's self.

lun [R. name of a mountain, = col. lun]. khun-lun, the sacred mountain Kwen-lun (v. khun).

lun — lâ-lun-sio, lukewarm. lâ-lun, id. lâ-lun-á, id. lâ-lun-tsúi, lukewarm water.

lun [R. relationships]. jin-lun, the five human relationships. ngé-lun, id. thien-lun, the three natural relationships (parent and son, husband and wife, brothers). thien-lun chi-lók, family unbroken by death or emigration. thien-lun lók-sū, id. loán-lun, incest. gèk-lí pài-lun, to commit incest. bêng-lun-tng, the great hall in a Confucian temple.

lun (R. id.) tim-lun, to perish.

lun (Cn.) pē-lun-chhài, a sort of vegetable.

lun [R. a large roller; to use it], to roll with a large stone roller. chioh-lun, a large stone roller in the form of a truncated cone, used for rolling grain or seeds. lun-khe, to crush cakes of bean-cake with this roller. lun-bèh, to separate chaff from wheat (or barley) by it.

lun (cf. lün, jün). lah-lun (T.), insufficiently dried and too soft, as eatables. lun-pé (T.), = A. jün-pé, shrivelled, as cucumbers too long kept after plucking.

lun [R. loán, warm]. lun - poah (Cn.), = A. e, a small earthen pot for cooking.

lun (R. jim), to be patient; to endure. thun-lun, id. chhiá<sup>2</sup>-lun-i, just have patience; don't get into a quarrel so quick. bóng-lun, just bear it as well as (you) can. bōe-lun--lit, impatient; cannot be borne. lun-iau, to bear hunger. lun-koá<sup>2</sup>, to bear cold patiently. lun-thiá<sup>2</sup>, to bear pain. kā chhui-khí-kun, lun-thiá<sup>2</sup>, to clench one's teeth in severe pain. lun-jiō, to keep in urine very long. lun-khùi, to repress the manifestation of anger. lun-khì, id. lun-khì thun-sia<sup>2</sup>, to repress one's feelings and keep quiet (v. thun). lun-khì kiú-tsái, to repress anger for the sake of money. lun-chhùi, to curb one's appetite for fear of illness. lun-chhùi khiú<sup>2</sup>-chih, to restrain one's feelings and keep silent; to curb one's appetite. khiám-chiáh lun-chhùi, to be very sparing in eating.

lun, to flinch; to be startled; to be afraid of. ka-lun-sun, to shiver, as with fear, cold, &c. (v. ka). m-sái-lun, no need of fear. lun-lâng, to be afraid of people. goá put-chí-lun--i, I don't wish to have anything to do with him, afraid that he will cause trouble. lun-lek, to be afraid to do a thing. lun-neh<sup>2</sup>, afraid to meddle with a matter (v. neh<sup>2</sup>). lun-thàng, to be much afraid of going somewhere (v. thàng).

lun — kún-lun-tsün, struggling, writhing, or twisted (v. tsün).

lun — kún-lun--tsáu, to burst away by violent efforts. khít-i lun--tsáu, to lose hold of a man (from his struggling), so that he escapes. khít-i lun--khi, to fail over and over in attempts to get him to pay the expenses that he is expected to bear. lun-kàu-bién, to refuse over and over to pay such expenses, so as at last to get free of them.

lun [R. intercalation]. lun-géh, an intercalary month. lun-gē--géh, the intercalary fifth month, just after the ordinary fifth month, &c. sa<sup>2</sup>-ni<sup>2</sup> chit-lun, in the third year there is an intercalary month. gē-ni<sup>2</sup> tsai-lun, in the fifth year (the second after) there is another intercalary month. bō-bí, kiam lun-géh, no food to eat, and then it is an intercalary month, when no money is received of the usual income. lun-jit, an intercalary day.

lun [R. to discuss]. phi-lun, a comparison; for example; suppose that —. pí-lun, id. pí-tng lun-té, to be extremely minute in finding fault, as in a piece of work or in money matters. kang-lun, to discourse upon, as on doctrine or on a book. gi-lun, to discuss; to reason with another. tam-lun, to converse. phêng-lun, to criticize, as conduct or character, generally, but not always, unfavourably. lun-kàu (r.), in regard to; concerning.

put-lun, no matter which —. bō-lun, id. khah-bō-lun, easy, liberal, or generous, as in business transactions, or as in entertaining guests. sa<sup>2</sup>-chhiá<sup>2</sup> bō-lun, when entertaining friends we don't count how much they eat. chhi-kiá<sup>2</sup> bō-lun-png, you feed your children without stint (v. chhi).

lun [R. moist], = jün. lun-ték (R.) = jün-ték, well watered (v. jün). lun-hì, to mollify the lungs (v. hi). lun-tiông, to cure costiveness.

lun — lun-láh, having a pleasant slight moisture, as face; gracefully formed, as characters; gentle in manner (v. láh).

lun [R. jün, lün, soft; delicate; supple], = jün, tough. lun-piá<sup>2</sup>, thin tough cakes like scones. siang-ko-lun, a cake of two or three layers of different colours; best made at Hái-teng. sang-ko-lun, id.

nng-lun, soft and delicate, as the skin of the hand of a fat man, or of a man not engaged in manual labour; or as fine fur, silk, or dough.

lun-png (T.), = A. bün, to cook rice dry.

lun [R. lün, name of a mountain]. soa<sup>2</sup>-lun, a long low flat hill without any marked feature. chit-lun-soa<sup>2</sup>, id. lun-á-bé, at the end of the long low spur of the hill. kè-lun, to cross such a low ridge.

lun (mere reduplication). hün-lun sit-lit-khì, to faint away.

囷

輪

崙

倫

淪

碌

軟

煖

忍

閏

論

潤

崙

lut (cf. thut, thút), to slip out of place; to be loosened, as a knot; to lose an office or situation; to loosen and strip off, as hair or feathers, by scalding; to swindle. lut--khì, to slip out of its place; to get loosened by accident, as a knot; to lose an office or situation. lut--lòh-khì, to fall off, as a shoe, feathers, &c.; to fall down, as trowsers. phah-lut, to let something slip out of its place, as by careless use. thâu-lē phah-lut, situation lost.

lut-koa<sup>n</sup>, to lose office, as mandarin. lut-khū, to dislocate, as joint. lut-tsō, to get out of the socket. lut-m̄ng, to lose hair or feathers that do not grow again, as animal growing old; to lose the hair, as a fur, or sheep-skin, or velvet, &c.; to loosen, as hair or feathers, by scalding with boiling water. lut thâu-m̄ng, hair, of old man, falling off. lut-miá<sup>n</sup> (C.), to buy off a man who threatens to accuse us before a mandarin.

lut-á, a swindler. lut--lāng, to swindle people. lut-long chiū-tsáu, to steal away secretly and noiselessly (v. long).

lut — kng lut-lut, smooth, glossy, and shining. kóng-ōe chiáp-lut-lut, to talk very fast.

lut (T. tut). pūi-lut-lut, very fat.

lut (Cn.) lut-hō, to take a light from another light.

lut (mere reduplication). thut-lut, to rub hard with the hand or foot, as in washing, &c. (v. thut).

lút — kút-lút-sút, very slippery.

lút — lām-sám-lút, to talk in a random improper way, as false or disrespectful impudent talk. chhùi lām-sám-lút, id.

lút (R. id.) lút-lē, the code of laws (v. lē). lút-hoat, laws; a code of laws. hoat-lút, id. kài-lút, id. àn-lút, according to the laws. chiàu-lút thak-lút (Cn.), to act justly in public matters, as judgment or arbitration.

lút-lēng, the demon of thunder (v. lēng).

lút, to stroke in one direction with the closed hand, as a man's arm or queue; to bare the arm; to squeeze out with the hand, as blood; to milk. lút-leng, to milk. lút-lin, id. lút-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. lút-chhiú, to pull up one's sleeve. lút chhiú-kut, id. lút chhiú-ńg, id. lút-chhiú lút-kiòh, to bare one's arms and legs, as for fighting, or for hard or dirty work. chhiú tiòh-lút--khí-lái, bare your arm! lút--khí-lái, to bare, as the arm. chhiú-ńg lút--lòh-khì, let down the sleeve again.

lút (R. id.) ut-lút, = ut-lúí, name of a very powerful spirit (v. ut).

lút, = lít, a rope serving as halyards.

lút, = út. lút-pāng siong-chhì, said of people ruining themselves by litigation (v. pāng).

lwa, lwā, lwá, lwā; better loa, loá, loá, loá (q.v.)

lwah, lwáh; better loah, loáh (q.v.)

lwán, lwán, lwán; better loán, loán, loán (q.v.)

M.

M and B are not distinguished by the Amoy people. Many words are spelled indifferently with either letter. In many cases the colloquial form in M comes from a reading form in B.

Many of the words may be written with or without a nasal; therefore no distinction is here made in the alphabetical order.

m̄, a flower-bud. hoe-m̄, id. phah-m̄, to produce flower-buds.

thê-m̄ (T.), a clod of earth.

m̄ [R. mù<sup>n</sup>, bôe, the plum]. m̄-á, a small yellow plum. ε-m̄, small yellow plum dried and smoked.

chhiū-m̄, the fruit usually called arbutus (properly Myrica sapida). chhiū-m̄ (C.), id. âng-chhiū-m̄, the red edible arbutus. péh-m̄, the white do. péh-bit chhiū-m̄, id. chhiū-m̄-piá<sup>n</sup>, arbutus dried and sugared. chhiū-m̄-hē (C.), rains at the time when the arbutus is ripe.

m̄ (= h̄m̄). tih-tùh-m̄, a toy that makes a humming noise.

m̄ (Cn.) kε-m̄, = A. kε-ńg, the great owl.

m̄, a round excrescence on the belly of a female crab. chím-m̄, id. chhih-m̄, do. of craw-fish.

m̄ [R. hū, woman; female]. m̄--ê, female, said of some animals, as crabs; sometimes said in a depreciatory way of one's own daughter; also (T.), said of pigs and some other animals. kang-m̄ (T.), male and female, said of many animals.

m̄ (R. bó), wife of father's elder brother. peh-m̄, father's elder brother and his wife. m̄-chím, wives of paternal uncles. chím-m̄, id. chek-peh-m̄, id. tiū-m̄, wife's mother. chhi<sup>n</sup>-m̄, mother of son-in-law or of daughter-in-law. m̄-pô, wife of paternal grandfather's elder brother; polite address to a very old woman. m̄--ah, polite address to old woman. sàng-kê-m̄, a matron who goes for a few days with a newly married bride.

m̄ (Cn.) toā-m̄-siak-kōe, = A. toā-bú si-kōe, very abundant or numerous.

m̄ — hé-m̄, the Chinese raspberry; it grows on a low trailing shrub. hō-m̄ (Cn.), id. toā-pún hé-m̄, a sort of rasp that grows on an erect shrub.

m̄ [R. put, not], not; will not; to refuse; to be unwilling; sometimes used at the beginning of a clause with a very slight meaning, somewhat like "but," or "yet," or "well then."

bô-m̄ —, certainly; without exception or doubt. m̄-nā<sup>n</sup>, not only (v. nā<sup>n</sup>). m̄-tān, id. m̄-si, is not; bad or false (v. si). kám-m̄-si, is it not? (v. kám). m̄-koán, it is no matter (v. koán). m̄-sái, it is not needed; no I thank you. m̄-bién (Cn.), id. m̄-ká<sup>n</sup>, dare not; inoffensive; well-behaved; I'll never do it again. m̄-thang, must not; you must not. m̄-tsún, will not permit; said in scolding dogs.

m̄-hó, bad; dead (v. hó). m̄-bát, not managed so as to keep the secret. m̄-bat, I don't know. m̄-ún, unsafe. m̄-koài<sup>n</sup>, not accustomed. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe m̄-koài<sup>n</sup> m̄-kê, stature neither tall nor short. m̄-tiòh, wrong.

phah-m̄-ki<sup>n</sup>, to lose (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). khoà<sup>n</sup>-m̄-ki<sup>n</sup>, to look but not see it. thia<sup>n</sup>-m̄-ki<sup>n</sup>, not hear. tùi-m̄-kè, unable to overcome him. tng-m̄-khí, I cannot bear such honour.

goá-m̄, I will not. koat-toàn-m̄, certainly I will

律

騾

梅

梅不

母媪

姆

not; to refuse absolutely. m̄-khì, will not go; refuse to go. m̄-tih, does not wish; do not care for. beh-m̄, will you or will you not? beh á-m̄, id. lí ná<sup>n</sup>-beh, goá ná<sup>n</sup>-m̄, the more you wish, the more I refuse. iáh ná<sup>n</sup>-beh, iáh ná<sup>n</sup>-m̄, half willing, half unwilling. á ná<sup>n</sup>-beh, á ná<sup>n</sup>-m̄ (à?), id.

m̄-kú, yet; notwithstanding. m̄-á, but indeed —; yet now —. lí-beh, goá m̄-á m̄, you are willing, but I will not allow it. m̄-á tiòh-khì, but yet (you) should go; after all, should go. m̄ tiòh-khì, id. m̄--tiòh —, you had better —. m̄--to —, id.; well, after all —. m̄--tòh —, id. m̄--chiah, id. m̄--chiū, id. m̄--chiū bōe-tit-khì, well then I cannot go. m̄--tsóng tiòh-khì, no help for it, but must just go (v. tsóng).

m̄-lāu--lah, is not he old! chit--ê m̄-té, but this is too short! (as a rope).

ma<sup>n</sup> (cf. mā<sup>n</sup>, bong). ε ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>, very dirty and black; very dark, as place with no light.

ma<sup>n</sup> — ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>-khàu, to sob very loud and bitterly, esp. child. ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>-háu, constantly crying or asking for something.

ma<sup>n</sup> (cf. bong, bōng). tsùi-ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>, quite drunk. ma<sup>n</sup>-chiú, id. chiú chiáh kàu-ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>, id.

mā<sup>n</sup> (C. P. sometimes), = A. moā<sup>n</sup>, hemp. úi<sup>n</sup>-mā<sup>n</sup>, = A. úg-moā<sup>n</sup>.

mā<sup>n</sup> (T.). mā<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, = A. mē<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, next year.

má [R. a horse, a surname, = col. bé]. hū-má, son-in-law of the emperor. chhien-lí-má, an express courier. pat-tsùn-má, a picture of eight fine horses.

má--siōng, very speedily; immediately. má--siāng, id. má--siōng beh —, immediately will —. má--siōng khui-tsūn, boat just about to start. má-siōng gim-i hōe, to return on horseback with flowered robes, as a new graduate. it-giēn hòng-chhut, sù-má lân-tui, four horses cannot catch back a word once spoken.

má, an enclitic interrogative particle; often written "mah."

má, better "m-á"; a particle used at the beginning of a sentence, with somewhat of the sense of "but," or "after all," or "well then."

má (mere imitation of the sound). má-káu, Macao (v. káu).

má<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. moā<sup>n</sup>, full; only used in some special phrases.

má (R. id.), grandmother. lāu-má, id. má-chhin (r), id. án-má, grandmother! ng-má, id. lāi-má, father's mother. goā-má, mother's mother. toā-má, principal wife of grandfather (said in relation to grandson descended from a concubine). sù-má, the concubine who is his real grandmother. ji-má, id. thài-má, mother of mandarin or graduate. sien-si<sup>n</sup>-má, mother of teacher; a female doctor. siá<sup>n</sup>-má (Cn.), a sorceress; a witch. má-í (T.), id. ná<sup>n</sup> lóe-má--nih<sup>n</sup>, said of a woman who is too imperious and violent (v. lóe). khì-chhē in-má khùn, is dead.

kong-má (grandfather and grandmother), ancestral tablets. chēng-kong-má, a temple for the tablets of persons who have no posterity. bān-sin-má (Cn.), collective title of female ghosts that have no posterity. tsu-kong-má, the god and goddess of small-pox. tsu-niū<sup>n</sup>-má, the goddess who protects children from small-pox. chhit-niū<sup>n</sup>-má, the goddess of the Pleiades, and of unmarried girls. má-tsé-pó, the queen of heaven and goddess of the sea (v. tsó). koan-im-má, the goddess of mercy. hu-jin-má, the goddess of child-birth. chhân-thâu-má, the spirit of a shrine for tablets that have no posterity. thé-ti-má, a goddess of the earth. tōe-má (Cn.), the earth as a goddess. thi<sup>n</sup>-má (Cn.), name of a goddess (v. thi<sup>n</sup>).

mā<sup>n</sup> (=ma<sup>n</sup>). ε mā<sup>n</sup>-mā<sup>n</sup>, very black.

mā<sup>n</sup> (T. Cn.), = A. mē<sup>n</sup>, to scold; to revile. húi-mā<sup>n</sup> (T.), to scold very violently.

mah (better má), enclitic interrogative particle.

mah<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. bah, flesh; meat; said quite rarely, usually "hék."

māi<sup>n</sup> (P. Cn.), = A. bê, rice cooked soft.

māi<sup>n</sup> [R. to buy, = col. bōe]. māi<sup>n</sup>-chiok, to bribe; to suborn (v. chiok). māi<sup>n</sup>--chiá put-bēng, māi<sup>n</sup>--chiá tí-tong, the seller bears the responsibility, and not the buyer. phài-chhái-māi<sup>n</sup>, to compel rich men to pay large contributions, under the name of money for buying rice.

māi<sup>n</sup> [R. to sell, = col. bōe]. māi<sup>n</sup>--chiá tí-tong, the seller bears the responsibility. māi<sup>n</sup>-kan, to keep a brothel (lit. sell lewdness).

māi<sup>n</sup> — māi<sup>n</sup>-siáp, a very durable light reddish wood.

māi<sup>n</sup> (C.) kià-māi<sup>n</sup>, = kià-bāi, to make a salutation to a person at a distant place.

māi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. bē (younger sister). māi<sup>n</sup>-hu, husband of younger sister. goán-māi<sup>n</sup>--ê, the husband of my younger sister.

māu<sup>n</sup> (R. id.), (T. bâu), a sort of helmet worn at the ceremony of "sng-kàng." thâu-māu<sup>n</sup> (R.), id.; a helmet. chhēng-kah ti-māu<sup>n</sup>, to wear a coat of mail and helmet.

māu<sup>n</sup> [R. a sort of spear]. siâ-māu<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of crooked spear.

ka-kī māu<sup>n</sup>-tún, to contradict one's self.

māu<sup>n</sup> — māu<sup>n</sup>-māu<sup>n</sup>, not particular in calculating or inquiring; letting things pass easily; without much spirit or energy. kap-i māu<sup>n</sup>-māu<sup>n</sup>, taking it easily with him; letting him off without much examination. māu<sup>n</sup>-māu<sup>n</sup>-tai, the matter is of small importance, and may be let pass, e.g. said by a third party to men disputing. siu<sup>n</sup>-māu<sup>n</sup>, too easy and negligent. chit--ê m̄-thang-māu<sup>n</sup>, this matter must not be treated carelessly, or allowed to pass, as of small importance. bōe-māu<sup>n</sup>--tit, it cannot be allowed to pass; it will not do to put it among the rest, bad among good; he will not let anything pass that is not up to the mark. bóng-māu<sup>n</sup>, just let it pass; take it, though not so good as it should be. kā--lí bóng-māu<sup>n</sup>, well I will just let your work (or thing, &c.) pass. chhin-chhái, kā-lí-māu<sup>n</sup>, id. kā-i-māu<sup>n</sup>--khì, let him off easily, in anything. kā-goá-māu<sup>n</sup>--khì, just take it off my hands, though it is inferior. beh-māu<sup>n</sup>--khì, willing to let the matter pass easily, e.g. buyer taking a worse article among good ones.

māu<sup>n</sup> [R. mé<sup>n</sup>, hair, = col. mûg]. māu<sup>n</sup>-pēng, a fault; a defect; something wrong.

māu<sup>n</sup> (R. id.) māu<sup>n</sup>-chháu, a large sort of grass or reed.

māu<sup>n</sup> (R. id.) bīn-māu<sup>n</sup>, appearance of the face or countenance. iōng-māu<sup>n</sup> (R.), id. siōng-māu<sup>n</sup>, cast of countenance. goā-māu<sup>n</sup>, one's manner and outward behaviour. liēn-māu<sup>n</sup>, a man's age and the appearance of his face, as written down when he is enrolled as a candidate for degree, or as a soldier. liēn-

罵

買

賣

盔
予

毛
茅
貌

麻 明
馬

媽

māu<sup>n</sup> put-hú, his age and look do not agree with the description. lé-māu<sup>n</sup>, polite deportment; polite in manner; politeness; to treat politely, or with respect. bô-lé bô-māu<sup>n</sup>, disrespectful; impertinent.

冒

māu<sup>n</sup> [R. mē<sup>n</sup>, to feign, forge, or pretend]. māu<sup>n</sup>-sit, pretending to know things of which he is quite ignorant; acting as an impostor. māu<sup>n</sup>-sit-kúì, a barefaced impostor.

mauh<sup>n</sup>, to eat or munch slowly, as a toothless child or old man does; also to embezzle money, as part of money entrusted, or as price of goods sold, but not marked down (Cn. T. in this second sense only "pauh"). ũn-á-mauh<sup>n</sup>, to munch slowly, as a toothless person. mauh<sup>n</sup>-chhit, to embezzle money intrusted, and pretended to be paid.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mī<sup>n</sup>, to take up with the fingers.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C. mēh<sup>n</sup>), the bleating of a goat. iū<sup>n</sup> mē<sup>n</sup>-mē<sup>n</sup>, words used in calling goats. mē<sup>n</sup>-á (C.), a lamb.

明

mē<sup>n</sup> [R. bēng, bright, morrow, = col. bin], (T. má<sup>n</sup>). mē<sup>n</sup>-nī<sup>n</sup>, next year.

mē<sup>n</sup>-chē (C.), = A. tē-chē, exactly one year after birth.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.) chhē<sup>n</sup>-mē<sup>n</sup>, blind, = A. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mī<sup>n</sup>, ight. nī<sup>n</sup> mē<sup>n</sup>-tau (C.), within about ten days of the end of the year.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mī<sup>n</sup>, sharp.

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mī<sup>n</sup>, the awn of grain bēh-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. bēh-chhiu, the beard of barley or wheat

mē<sup>n</sup> (C.) keh-mē<sup>n</sup>-chhài, = A. keh-ná-chhài, a sort of vegetable.

mē<sup>n</sup>-mē<sup>n</sup>-hī<sup>n</sup> (C.), a small cicada that makes this sound.

猛

mē<sup>n</sup> [R. bēng, fierce; violent; brave, = col. mī<sup>n</sup>]. kīn-mē<sup>n</sup>, quickly; be quick. kīm-mē<sup>n</sup>, id. thám-mē<sup>n</sup> (r.), id. thiám-mē<sup>n</sup>, id. mé<sup>n</sup> (C.), quick. mé<sup>n</sup>-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. khám-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. khiám-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. khah-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), quicker! mé<sup>n</sup>-khòai (C.), quickly; easily done.

罵

mē<sup>n</sup> (R. mā), (Cn. T. mā, mā), to scold; to revile; to rail at; to curse. lóe-mē<sup>n</sup>, id. jiók-mē<sup>n</sup>, to scold insultingly. thek-mē<sup>n</sup>, to reprove an inferior very violently. chiū-mē<sup>n</sup>, to curse. phah-mē<sup>n</sup>, to strike and revile, or scold. mē<sup>n</sup> chit-tiū<sup>n</sup>, to scold or rail at great length. mē<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> oàn-tōe, to grumble and rail at heaven and earth.

mēh<sup>n</sup> (C.) mēh<sup>n</sup>--tsài, this morning. mēh<sup>n</sup>--tsài ê-hui<sup>n</sup>, morning and evening.

mēh<sup>n</sup> (T. nih<sup>n</sup>). chháu-mēh<sup>n</sup>, a grasshopper. iū<sup>n</sup>-mēh<sup>n</sup> (C.), a small sort of grasshopper.

mēh<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mng. iū-mēh<sup>n</sup>-mēh<sup>n</sup>, small, as a very small boy.

mēh<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mē<sup>n</sup>, sound of sheep or goats bleating. iū<sup>n</sup> mēh<sup>n</sup>-mēh<sup>n</sup>, words used in calling goats.

mēh<sup>n</sup> — mēh<sup>n</sup>--chit-ē, to start suddenly; much slighter than "hiah<sup>n</sup>."

脈

mēh<sup>n</sup> [R. bēk, the pulse], (Cn. T. bēh), the pulse. huìh-mēh<sup>n</sup>, id. khi-mēh<sup>n</sup>, id. ũ-khi-mēh<sup>n</sup>, healthy. bô-khi-mēh<sup>n</sup>, sickly; delicate; of feeble constitution or temperament. bô-khùi bô-mēh<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. khùi). khi-mēh<sup>n</sup> khah-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, the blood acting more freely, as after a good walk, or after some sorts of medicine. khi-mēh<sup>n</sup> khah-chiâu-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, id. sí-mēh<sup>n</sup>, state of the pulse just before death. mēh<sup>n</sup> thoat, pulse gone, as of a dying man. mēh<sup>n</sup> tím, the pulse in such a state that you must press before feeling it. mēh<sup>n</sup> phú, the pulse such that it is felt on the first touch. bong-mēh<sup>n</sup>, to feel the pulse. hoá-mēh<sup>n</sup>, id. khoá-mēh<sup>n</sup>, id. háu-mēh<sup>n</sup>, to feel the pulse the second time. kúi-chi-mēh<sup>n</sup>, how many beats of the pulse?

mēh<sup>n</sup>-kúg, the place where the pulse is felt at the wrist. mēh<sup>n</sup>-ké, id., or at temple, but specially at wrist. chhiú-mēh<sup>n</sup>, the pulse of the hand. kun-mēh<sup>n</sup>, veins, as appearing on the skin. mēh<sup>n</sup>-lí, the doctrine of the pulse.

tōe-mēh<sup>n</sup>, veins or strata in the earth, in geomancy. lêng-mēh<sup>n</sup>, veins in the hills supposed to lead along the auspicious geomantic influence.

mī<sup>n</sup> (C. mē<sup>n</sup>), to take up in the hand by putting all the fingers below, as small things. chit-mī<sup>n</sup>-á, a small handful. mī<sup>n</sup>-thoa<sup>n</sup>, a sort of gambling (v. thoa<sup>n</sup>). mī<sup>n</sup> chhiam-á, to draw a bamboo lot. mī<sup>n</sup>-bak, to gain a little money on a transaction in a surreptitious way (v. bak). mī<sup>n</sup>-iám sí<sup>n</sup>-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, be content with what has taken place and can't be improved. mī<sup>n</sup>-oá, to draw in one's fingers towards the palm, almost close shut. thau-mī<sup>n</sup>-bí, to steal a small quantity of rice.

mī<sup>n</sup> — liám-mī<sup>n</sup>, = liám-pi<sup>n</sup>, immediately.

mī<sup>n</sup> [R. bēng, dark], (C. mē<sup>n</sup>), night. mī<sup>n</sup>--sí, night-time; at night. mī<sup>n</sup>-tà--sí, id. mī<sup>n</sup>--kan, id. mī<sup>n</sup>-thâu tūg, the night is long, as in winter. mī<sup>n</sup>-jit, day and night (v. jit). jit-mī<sup>n</sup>, id. àm-mī<sup>n</sup>, dark night. géh-àm-mī<sup>n</sup>, a moonless night. kim-mī<sup>n</sup>, to-night. bīn-ná-mī<sup>n</sup>, to-morrow night. tsá-mī<sup>n</sup>, last night. poà<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, midnight; about midnight. téng-poà<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, the first half of the night. ē-poà<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, the latter half of the night. chiá<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, about a whole night. thau-mī<sup>n</sup>, the whole night; through the night; said of something that takes a good part of the night, e.g. a long night-journey. àm-hē tiâu-mī<sup>n</sup>, late rain lasts through the night. keh-mī<sup>n</sup>, to pass the night.

冥

mī<sup>n</sup> [R. hiên, connected; enduring], earnest and importunate, as in entreaty. mī<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, very urgent and importunate, or earnest and persevering (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). kàu-chiah-mī<sup>n</sup>, so very importunate! mī<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>-kiú, to ask importunately. mī<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>-beh, id. mī<sup>n</sup>-noá, very earnest and importunate. mī<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>-kiú, to ask importunately. kóng-ōe mī<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, very urgent in pressing a request.

綿

mī<sup>n</sup> — mī<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>-khùn, falling asleep over and over again as often as awakened.

mī<sup>n</sup> (R. bēng), (C. mē<sup>n</sup>). chhi<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, blind. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>-gú, an unlettered illiterate clown (lit. cow). chiah-mī<sup>n</sup>, unable to see clearly at night (s. earnest).

mī<sup>n</sup> (R. hóng), (C. mē<sup>n</sup>). chhek-mī<sup>n</sup>, the sharp awn of rice.

mī<sup>n</sup> (R. hóng), (C. mē<sup>n</sup>), the sharp edge, as of a knife. to-mī<sup>n</sup>, the sharp edge of sword or knife. ũ-mī<sup>n</sup>, it is sharp. bô-mī<sup>n</sup>, edge blunted, as by use. tó-mī<sup>n</sup>, having the edge turned so as to be blunted. chiū<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, the edge becoming sharp. boá kàu-chiū<sup>n</sup>-mī<sup>n</sup>, to sharpen till the edge is very sharp. boá kàu-kè-mī<sup>n</sup>, id.

盲
矧
矧

kè-mī<sup>n</sup>-kak, well-finished, as an essay or any sort of work; very intelligent and sharp at searching out everything, as a man. kè-mī<sup>n</sup> kè-kak, id. ũ-mī<sup>n</sup>-kak, having sharp edges (not rounded), as a table.

mī<sup>n</sup> (= bí, mí). o-mī<sup>n</sup>-tô-hút, name of Buddha.

mī<sup>n</sup> (T.) bák-chiah-mī<sup>n</sup>, = A. bák-chiah-múg, the eyelashes.

mī<sup>n</sup> (R. biên), cotton. mī<sup>n</sup>-hoe, raw cotton.

彌
毛
棉

hoan-mi<sup>n</sup>, foreign raw cotton. ka-pók-mi<sup>n</sup>, a coarse sort of raw cotton, not yet cleared from the seed, used for quilting and stuffing. mi<sup>n</sup>-pê, cotton just as gathered with the seeds in it. mi<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, raw cotton in pieces of about a foot long, ready for spinning. mi<sup>n</sup>-bé, id. mi<sup>n</sup>-á-bé, id. kng mi<sup>n</sup>-á-bé, to make ready these long pieces of raw cotton. mi<sup>n</sup>-se, cotton-yarn, esp. native. pháng mi<sup>n</sup>-se, to spin cotton. mi<sup>n</sup>-á-tsoá, a sort of thin, soft, tough paper. mi<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, id. mi<sup>n</sup>-tiú, a fine and strong stuff of silk with some cotton mixed. si-mi<sup>n</sup>, a mass of cotton and silk mixed in a soft thick form, used for absorbing ink for stamping, or for a sort of ink-box for examinations; also for quilting.

pê-mi<sup>n</sup>, small threads on the surface of cloth. tsoá-mi<sup>n</sup>, paper broken down into dust; also (C.), ashes of a half-burned match. hóe-mi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. hé-hiã<sup>n</sup>, tinder.

phah-mi<sup>n</sup>, to beat cotton with a bow and string. phê-mi<sup>n</sup>, wadded or quilted with cotton, as dress or coverlet. jip-mi<sup>n</sup>, to put in a large quantity of cotton, as into a pillow. pháng-mi<sup>n</sup>, to spin cotton.

mi<sup>n</sup>-sim, cotton wicks. mi<sup>n</sup>-chih, a warm quilted cotton coverlet, not in a cover. mi<sup>n</sup>-phê, do. in a cover. mi<sup>n</sup>-phôe (C.), id. mi<sup>n</sup>-hiú, a coat or jacket wadded with cotton. mi<sup>n</sup>-phau, a long quilted robe.

mi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, the cotton-tree.

mi<sup>n</sup> [R. bêng, fierce; quick; = col. mē<sup>n</sup>]. kím-mi<sup>n</sup>, quickly; be quick!

mi<sup>n</sup> (R. bí, mí). o-mí-tô-hút, Amida Buddha (v. hùt).

mi<sup>n</sup> (R. biên), dough; thin flat strips of wheaten dough, used like macaroni. mi<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, these wheaten strips. phah-mi<sup>n</sup>, to make it. chhiet-mi<sup>n</sup>, to cut it into these strips. sáh-mi<sup>n</sup>, to boil it. bâu-mi<sup>n</sup>, to mix it with other eatables. chhi<sup>n</sup>-mi<sup>n</sup>, raw strips of dough. sêk-mi<sup>n</sup>, do. cooked. bah-mi<sup>n</sup>, do. cooked with shrimps and pork-fat. tau-mi<sup>n</sup>, potato-starch cooked with oysters (v. tau). hún-mi<sup>n</sup>, dough in strips (mi<sup>n</sup>) mixed with rice-vermicelli (bí-hún) in a bowl ready to be eaten.

mi<sup>n</sup>-soã<sup>n</sup>, vermicelli made from wheat. mi<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. mi<sup>n</sup>-soã<sup>n</sup>-kui, a frame for drying vermicelli in making it. mi<sup>n</sup>-soã<sup>n</sup>-chhê, cross-bars of that frame. mi<sup>n</sup>-thai, a sieve for straining boiled vermicelli or macaroni, &c. mi<sup>n</sup>-phi, frame for drying boiled do.

mi<sup>n</sup>-hún, wheaten flour. mi<sup>n</sup>-tsoe, wet dough. mi<sup>n</sup>-chiã, small lumps of raw glutinous wheaten dough (v. chiã). mi<sup>n</sup>-thi, gluten made from wheat. mi<sup>n</sup>-ké, wheaten cakes. mi<sup>n</sup>-pau, bread. mi<sup>n</sup>-thô, an imitation peach made of flour, offered to idols. mi<sup>n</sup>-ku, do., like a turtle.

mi<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, tickets for getting one or more meals, given on mandarins' birth-days.

chhat-mi<sup>n</sup>, a very strong cement made of flour and varnish, used for filling crevices of coffins, &c.

mi<sup>n</sup>-si (Cn.), = A. tau-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a sort of salt sauce.

mi<sup>n</sup> [R. bí, a tail, = col. bé], classifier of oysters. toã-mi<sup>n</sup>-ô, a large oyster.

mi<sup>n</sup>, = bí, a word used at the beginning of a sentence, esp. in Cn.

mi<sup>n</sup> (R. bí, mi<sup>n</sup>). thiám-mi<sup>n</sup> (R.), to flatter.

miã<sup>n</sup> [R. bêng, name; fame; reputation], a name, but not a surname; classifier of persons, esp. soldiers or chair-bearers. kúi-miã<sup>n</sup>, how many persons? as coolies, &c.

miã<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, fame; reputation, good or bad (v. sia<sup>n</sup>). chhut-miã<sup>n</sup>, famous; illustrious. àu-miã<sup>n</sup>, having a bad reputation.

miã<sup>n</sup>-jī, name of person (v. jī). lãng-miã<sup>n</sup>, a man's name. tõe-hô-miã<sup>n</sup>, name of a place (v. hô). thé-miã<sup>n</sup>, the common colloquial name of a man or place when it differs totally from the literary name, having different characters. tsóng-miã<sup>n</sup>, a general term or name. tsún-miã<sup>n</sup>, name of a vessel, as that on the vessel. pái-miã<sup>n</sup>, the name by which a vessel is registered, different from the above. hùi-miã<sup>n</sup>, a name that must not be pronounced, sometimes not even written, e.g. name given at birth, afterwards disused. jú-miã<sup>n</sup>, name used in childhood. jū-miã<sup>n</sup>, name taken when grown up (often at marriage), by which a man is usually named. tsū-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. chheh-miã<sup>n</sup>, name given by teacher to pupil. koa<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, name assumed on becoming a mandarin or graduate. miã<sup>n</sup>-thiap, one's calling-card with writing on it saying that he pays his respects.

miã<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, name and surname. kóe-miã<sup>n</sup> oã<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, to change one's name and surname. oã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup> kóe-si<sup>n</sup>, id. oã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup> kóe-sêng, id.

pien-miã<sup>n</sup>, to give a fancy name, as to goods. hô-miã<sup>n</sup>, to give a name. ki-miã<sup>n</sup>, to record a name or names, as in a list. lóh-miã<sup>n</sup>, to put down a name. tiám-miã<sup>n</sup>, to mark names, as in a list.

miã<sup>n</sup> [R. bêng, clear; distinct; = col. bín, mē<sup>n</sup>]. chhang-miã<sup>n</sup>, very intelligent; clever.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, the "feast of tombs," when the graves are visited, having been repaired; about April 5th.

miã<sup>n</sup>, the resinous part of wood, which very easily ignites; esp. from the roots of fir-trees. chhã-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. miã<sup>n</sup>-ti, a pair of chop-sticks made of resinous wood, given with a bit of onion (chhang) to a boy on first going to school, that he may be "chhang-miã<sup>n</sup>."

miã<sup>n</sup> [R. bêng, to command; fate; fortune; life], the decree of Heaven; fate; fortune, good or bad; life.

si<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, life. tng-miã<sup>n</sup>, long life; long-lived. té-miã<sup>n</sup>, short-lived. jiâu-miã<sup>n</sup>, to spare life. jiâu si<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. kiù-miã<sup>n</sup>, to save life. tô-miã<sup>n</sup>, to escape alive. bóe-miã<sup>n</sup>, to buy long life, by burning idolatrous paper. ti-miã<sup>n</sup> ê-sé-tsai, a vital place. tí-miã<sup>n</sup>, to pay life for life. pê-miã<sup>n</sup>, to make satisfaction for a death by money or by death. thó-miã<sup>n</sup>, to require the death of the murderer, as the ghost of the murdered man. phe-miã<sup>n</sup>, to risk one's life (v. phe). piã<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. thoa-miã<sup>n</sup>, to labour very hard (as in weak health) at the risk of health or life. sí-lãng beh-miã<sup>n</sup>, unexpectedly getting back what we had given up for lost, as something stolen (or trace of it), or a bad debt. sa<sup>n</sup>-hun-miã<sup>n</sup>, only three-tenths of an average life-time. kiã<sup>n</sup>-tsún-lãng sa<sup>n</sup>-hun-miã<sup>n</sup>, sailors are very short-lived. kiã<sup>n</sup>-tsún tsáubé, sa<sup>n</sup>-hun-miã<sup>n</sup>, sailors and horsemen are so.

sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, state of bodily health or constitution. lám-sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, in delicate health. ióng-sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, strong and well. m-chiã<sup>n</sup> sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, in delicate health; to have on very ragged clothes. chhut sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's self very much or to the utmost. kã<sup>n</sup>-chhut sin-miã<sup>n</sup>, not afraid of fighting, or lawsuits, or dangers. chit-sin chit-miã<sup>n</sup>, one whole life long. thoa-sin boã-miã<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's strength very much. thoa-sin thoa-miã<sup>n</sup>, do., to the utmost, when quite unfit for such exertion. siã-sin siã-miã<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's self to the utmost. chit-sin chit-miã<sup>n</sup>, one's whole life-time. oãn-sin chhoeh-miã<sup>n</sup>, to murmur at one's fate.

猛
彌
麵

明

命

尾
媚
名

oàn-thi<sup>n</sup> chhoeh-miã<sup>n</sup>, to murmur at Heaven and fate. hŭn-miã<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, to repine at one's lot (v. hŭn). phái<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, unlucky, esp. all one's life; bad luck! phái<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>-chè, miserable life because of sins in a former life. giáp-miã<sup>n</sup>, having a painful toilsome life. lô-lôk-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. hó-miã<sup>n</sup>, good fortune, esp. for lifetime; fortunate, as man. chheng-êng-miã<sup>n</sup>, having an easy comfortable life.

ũ-miã<sup>n</sup>, having still life in him, as man just escaped from great danger or recovering from an almost fatal disease. i-seng i ũ-miã<sup>n</sup>-lâng, doctors heal men fated to live. ũ-kiã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, to be fated to have a son. bô-miã<sup>n</sup>, dead; as good as dead. tek-khak bô-miã<sup>n</sup>, he is just as good as dead; e.g. a great criminal when apprehended. sîn-sien bôe-kiù bô-miã<sup>n</sup>-lâng, spirits and genii cannot save a man not fated to live.

miã<sup>n</sup>-ün, long-continued fortune, good or bad (v. ün). miã<sup>n</sup>-chheh, fortune-tellers' books. miã<sup>n</sup>-tsu, a paper telling one's fortune. tâng-miã<sup>n</sup>, sharing one another's fortunes, as emigrants who keep together. tâng-kiã<sup>n</sup> jũ-tâng-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. bat miã<sup>n</sup>-lí, to be acquainted with the art of fortune-telling. khoã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, to tell fortunes; a fortune-teller. khoã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup> mŭg-koã<sup>n</sup>, to divine and tell fortunes. oã-ün khoã<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, said of flattering a prosperous man, saying that he will prosper. sng-miã<sup>n</sup>, to tell fortunes (v. sng). siông-miã<sup>n</sup>, to tell fortunes by the appearance of the face and one's manner of acting or resting. siàng-miã<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. chhin-miã<sup>n</sup>, to tell a man's fortune by calculating the weight of his natal characters. miã<sup>n</sup> put-chí-tâng, the weight of his fate is great (said either of very good or very bad). chheng-kun-lát m-táh si-niú<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, a thousand pounds weight of strength are not so good as four ounces of fated fortune.

mih<sup>n</sup> (cf. beh, mih<sup>n</sup>). mih<sup>n</sup>-sái, why? implying some fault-finding or that no proper answer can be given. mih<sup>n</sup>-kan-siáp, whatever has he to do with it! mih<sup>n</sup>-tióh-khi, what reason can there be for going! lí mih<sup>n</sup>-ôe-hoat--goá, what can you manage to do to me! mih<sup>n</sup>--nah, what would you be at! (said by a superior, somewhat finding fault). mih<sup>n</sup>-tái-chi, id.; what is the matter now? beh mih<sup>n</sup>-tái-chi, id. bé-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, Mr. So-and-so. bé-mih<sup>n</sup>--ah, Mr. —! mih<sup>n</sup>-á-mih<sup>n</sup>, whatever thing. bô-mih<sup>n</sup>-hŭg, not very far.

sí<sup>n</sup> mih<sup>n</sup>, miã<sup>n</sup> mih<sup>n</sup>, what is your surname and your name? sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, =sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, what?

mih<sup>n</sup> (cf. mih<sup>n</sup>). sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, what? which? sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. siã<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, who? sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup>, what thing? ũ sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, what is bad or wrong about it?

bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup> —, not very —. bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-hó, not very good; rather bad. bô-sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, not very bad.

mih<sup>n</sup> (R. bú), (Cn. T. mŭgh), a thing; an article; especially meat or other condiments used with rice. mih<sup>n</sup>-kiã<sup>n</sup>, a thing; an article. bân-mih<sup>n</sup>, all things. pah-häng-mih<sup>n</sup>, all sorts of things. tiu<sup>n</sup>-lâu-mih<sup>n</sup>, various things prepared (before their death) for the burial of parents. hõe-mih<sup>n</sup> (C.), goods.

m-chiã<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup>, not very good; does not come to much, as something inferior. pát-mih<sup>n</sup>, a different thing (v. pát).

mih<sup>n</sup>-phè, condiments; whatever is eaten along with rice or potatoes. mih<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, cakes; confections, &c. chiáh-mih<sup>n</sup>-chiáh, to eat cakes, &c., not a regular meal.

mŭg (C. sometimes meh<sup>n</sup>, mui<sup>n</sup>). mŭg-mŭg, very small. iũ-mŭg-mŭg, id. hẽ-á-mŭg, small drizzling rain. hẽ-á mŭg-mŭg, id.

mŭg — chháu-á-mŭg, very small grass and such small plants.

mŭg — ta-mŭg, a small edible green sea-weed that grows on rocks overflowed by the tide.

mŭg, a sort of fern, especially brake. soã<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, id. koah-mŭg, to cut brake for fuel.

mŭg (R. bŭn), (C. mŭi<sup>n</sup>), a door; a gate; a gateway; classifier of guns, crackers, anchors, helms, fishing-hooks, &c.

kék-mŭg, to the utmost extremity, as of misery or want (v. kék). khah-toã-mŭg, more on that side, of reasons or ideas; more probably —. khah-toã-mŭg m-si, more probably it is not.

kâu-mŭg, Mohammedanism; a school of boxing or fencing. hit-chióng-mŭg ê-lâng, that sort of people, depreciatory.

ôe-mŭg té, not able to say much, as when reproved (v. ôe).

kheh-mŭg put-chí-ông, having a great many customers and callers from distant places. sí-mŭg ê-seng-lí, a quiet small trade (v. sí). tŭg-mŭg ê-seng-lí, a safe steady trade, that lasts long, as in articles which people are always using. khah-tŭg-mŭg, giving good or steady profits, as such a business; more profitable, as a situation with more pay. khah-ũ tŭg-mŭg, to be steady, as such a trade; to be lasting, as friendship.

tâng-mŭg, men married to sisters. tâng-mŭg--ê, husband of one's wife's sister. tâng-mŭg-tiũ, id. chhin-ke-mŭg, the nearest connections by marriage. bé kè-mŭg (C. bõe-kõe-mŭi<sup>n</sup>), not yet married, though betrothed. jip-mŭg lí, to have a son at the earliest natural time after marriage.

khoe-mŭg, the mouth of a valley. sam-tø-mŭg, the region of Sam-tø. (&c.) ê-mŭg, Amoy. kim-mŭg, Quemoy.

sin-mŭg, the soft place on a child's head where the sutures join. hẽ-kháu-mŭg, the space between the thumb and the fore-finger. hong-mŭg, the touch-hole of a gun. im-mŭg (r.), the female organs.

gê-mŭg, a yamun or yamen; a mandarin's office and official residence (v. gê). mŭg-thâu, a mandarin's confidential secretary for general business. mŭg-chiũ, id.

tsúi-sien-mŭg, the gangway. tsúi-mŭg, a gate on a canal where it enters a city wall. táu-mŭg (Cn.), flood-gates. táng-mŭg (C.), id. siã<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, a city gate. koan-mŭg, a gate in a pass. ài-mŭg, a gate in a street. ài-mŭg-khang, a small door in one leaf of a street gate.

chit-têng-mŭg, one gate in a series. toa<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, a single-leaved door or gate. siang-si<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, folding doors or gates. soã<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, the outer gate of a hill temple. toã-mŭg, the principal door of a house or yamun. thâu-chêng-mŭg, front door. âu-bé-mŭg, back door. âu-mŭg, id. jĩ-mŭg, the second gate of a yamun, counting from outside. thia<sup>n</sup>-mŭg, hall-door. théh-mŭg, gate of court-yard.

tsng-mŭg, a door or gate faced with thick tiles for safety. thang-á-mŭg, a window or window-shutters opening with hinges like a two-leaved door. géh-thang-mŭg, a doorway made quite round, as in ornamental grounds. poã<sup>n</sup>-mŭg-á, a small door, as in one leaf of a gate. mŭg-tsáh-á, a small half-door, as a wicket in a shop. poà<sup>n</sup>-tsáh-mng (T.), id. oân-kong-mng, a doorway with arched top. oân-mng-á (esp. T.), id. oân-mng (T.), = A. oân-bún, side gates of the inclosure in front of a yamun. ka<sup>n</sup>-koán-mng, a large high outer door of a house, like a gate. kiám-chhiu<sup>n</sup>-mng, a gate made like a railing, with the tops of the rails projecting. hok-chiu-mng, an outer door made with the lower half solid, and the upper half only bars (v. hok).

門

也

物

iám-mng, a trap-door; to lay a door to (v. iám). kháh-mng, to shut a door, laying it to, but not fastening it. koai<sup>n</sup>-mng, to shut a door. khien-mng, to latch a door by a hook on a staple. tú-mng, to place a prop behind a door to keep it shut (v. tú). tū-mng, id. hong-mng, to seal up a door by pasting red paper. tiu<sup>n</sup>-mng, to make a door to fit the doorway. chhēng-mng, to put a door on its (Chinese) hinges. chiū<sup>n</sup>-mng, id. phē-mng, to lift a door off its hinges. thng-mng, id. chhut-mng, to go out of one's door, as for a short time, or for a journey. chhut-mng bō-jin-hè, goods not changed (not acknowledged) after they leave the shop.

mng-thoah, a sliding door. mng-hē, doors in general (v. hē). mng-ak, an outer gateway or porch.

mng-kháu, space at the door outside. mng-kháu-kong, the spirits worshipped at the doors in the 7th month, and on the 2d and 16th of each month. mng-kháu-chhin, = pah-lák-tó, the sort of steelyard used by pedlars. mng-kháu-kha, close to the door just outside. mng-kha, close to the door just inside (s. hair). khiá-mng-kha, to stand there, as women do, looking at things outside. mng-lō, doorway.

mng-chhoà<sup>n</sup>, a door-bolt on the door. mng-tauh, a latch or clasp for a door. mng-kúi, a secret small bolt, to keep the bolt (chhoà<sup>n</sup>) shut. mng-káu (T.), id. mng-khien, a ring on a door, often used as a knocker. mng-ióh, door-lock. mng-kông, a great upright bar inside a door. mng-thng, id., generally upright. mng-lō, a great bar across the whole of a large door, fastened on the walls. mng-lông, id. mng-tú, a large bar set end on against a door to keep it shut. mng-si<sup>n</sup>, the leaf of a door. mng-kheng, door-frame. mng-hók, lintel or threshold of the door-frame. mng-bái, lintel. mng-tēng, threshold. mng-tú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. mng-khū, socket for Chinese door, instead of hinge. mng-sún, the projection of the door that fits into it. mng-lí, bamboo screen hung down at a door. mng-pin, standing screen at a door. mng-liên, inscriptions on doors or door-posts (v. liên). mng-sín, inscriptions on the leaves of a door (v. sín).

mng-hong, the reputation or estimate formed of a family by neighbours.

mng (R. mō<sup>n</sup>), (C. mō<sup>n</sup>), hair; feathers; wool. mng-chháu, hair or wool on a fur; fur; feathers on the bird. pè-mng, small threads on cloth. tsoá-mng, paper worn down to dust or small shreds. koe-mng, hen's feather. gō-mng, feather of a goose. gō-mng-kóng, a quill. iū<sup>n</sup>-mng, wool.

âng-mng, red-haired or red bristled; said vulgarly for British or English (v. âng).

khé-mng, the short hair all over the body. ki-mng, the hair on a mole. the-mng, infant's hair when born (v. the). tiah bîn-mng, to pluck out the hair from the face. thâu-mng, the hair of the head. thâu-mng chhi-hé, to rush into needless danger. thâu-mng-bé, the end of the queue. thâu-mng-bé-soà<sup>n</sup>, the tassel at its end. thâu-mng-sng (T.), a plant with prickly seeds. thâu-mng-chhi (T.), id. tng-thâu-mng, the Taipings. tng-mng, id. (s. door).

si<sup>n</sup>-mng, to grow hairy, as articles growing mouldy. hoat-mng, to grow hair or feathers, as animal; to begin to grow hair again, as place where there was a wound or scab. thui-mng, to moult. thng-mng (C. thui<sup>n</sup>-mō<sup>n</sup>), to shed hair or feathers (s. door). lut-mng, to lose hair finally, as animal, or as fur or velvet; to take off feathers or hair with hot water (v. lut). thut-mng, having lost one's hair.

mng-kha, the middle of the forehead, just below the place where the hair ends (s. door). mng-khē, a circular rim of hair left unshaven. mng-sui, do. grown longer, but not yet plaited into the queue; also, hair at side of woman's head (v. sui). mng-kúg-chhi kiā, hair standing on end (v. kúg). mng-káu-á-thâng, a sort of hairy caterpillar.

mng — koā<sup>n</sup>-mng, the rattan bands which fasten the sail to the mast.

mng [R. biên, to sleep, = col. bín]. mng-chhng, a bedstead; a large bed.

mng (Cn.) koe-mng-tsoá, = A. mí<sup>n</sup>-se-tsoá, a soft, thin, tough sort of paper.

mng (Cn.) mng-hōe, = A. mō<sup>n</sup>-hōe, a sort of crab. mng-hē (P.), id. (C. mō<sup>n</sup>-hē).

mng [R. mō<sup>n</sup>, a demon]. mng-kúi (P.), = A. mē-kúi, the devil (s. door).

mng [R. mē, to rub or feel about]. mng-se (P.), Moses; and so with some other Scripture names, e.g. thē-mng-thai (P.), Timothy.

mng [R. boán, = col. ún], (C. múi<sup>n</sup>), late, either as to day, or year, or proper time. siu<sup>n</sup>-mng, too late. tsá-mng, morning or evening (v. tsá). mng-pē, the latter part of the afternoon, about 4 to 5 o'clock. mng-thng (Cn.), supper. mng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a son born to his father in old age, when he has had no son, or at least none alive.

mng [R. bún, name of a plant], (C. múi<sup>n</sup>). ka-mng, a very poisonous shrub with a yellow flower, and a leaf somewhat like siri leaf; it is said that goats eat it with safety. kam-mng, id. kam-mng-thâu, its root.

mng (R. bün), (C. múi<sup>n</sup>), to ask a question (never to ask for a thing); to interrogate. mng-jí, to ask the meaning of a character. mng-lō, to ask the road. sa<sup>n</sup>-chloh-mng, to make polite inquiries, as on meeting. mng-pok, to consult a man who divines by tortoise-shell. khoà<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup> mng-koà, fortune-telling.

sím-mng, to make official examination in court, as mandarin. sín-mng, id. chhiong-kun mng-liú, to condemn to transportation or banishment (v. liú).

chheh-mng, themes for the third Kujin examination.

mng (P.) kám-mng, = A. kám-mō<sup>n</sup>, to have a cold; feverish.

mng (Cn. T.), = A. míh<sup>n</sup>, a thing.

mō<sup>n</sup> [R. bē, to touch, = col. bong; cf. Cn. bē], to make the first play in gambling; the second is "sè." mō<sup>n</sup>--lí, I make the first play in gambling with you. mō<sup>n</sup> sip-pat, to play with six dice. mō<sup>n</sup> thiàu-káu, to make the first play with three dice (v. káu).

mō<sup>n</sup> (cf. bong). àm-mō<sup>n</sup>-mō<sup>n</sup>, very dark, as night.

mō<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mng, sort of reeds or grass for fuel, esp. brake. ta-mō<sup>n</sup>, = A. ta-mng, sort of edible green sea-weed.

眠

晚

問

摸

毛

螃
魔

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. pông, a crab], (Cn. P. mûg). mê<sup>n</sup>-hõe, a sort of crab or craw-fish. mê<sup>n</sup>-hê (C.), id.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. a demon or devil], (P. often mûg). mê<sup>n</sup>-kúi, a devil. iau-mê<sup>n</sup> kúi-koài, malignant demons and devils. hâng-mê<sup>n</sup>-thú, a baton for conquering demons.

mô<sup>n</sup> — mê<sup>n</sup>-kong (vulgar), a vile lascivious man (only said in vile scolding).

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. to rub; to feel about], (P. sometimes mûg). tát-mê<sup>n</sup>-hút, name of a Buddha; Dharma. tát-mê<sup>n</sup>-tsé-su, id. mê<sup>n</sup>-se (X.), Moses (P. mûg-se).

chhúi-mê<sup>n</sup> (R.), to investigate, as by comparing many things or books.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. to grind; by change of tone from "bō," a mill, = col. boá]. ok-jîn, tsū-iú ok-jîn mô<sup>n</sup>, wicked oppressive men are certainly ground down in turn by others.

poát-mê<sup>n</sup> tsé-su, an idol brought from India.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. bú, not, none, = col. bó]. mê<sup>n</sup>-sîn (C.), mad; you are mad; you are talking sheer nonsense. mê<sup>n</sup>-sîn-káu (C.), a mad dog.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. coarse hair; bristles, = col. mâu, mûg], (also C., = A. mûg, hair), gross weight, as opposed to net; a surname.

mê<sup>n</sup>-tâng, gross weight; opposed to "chêng," net. mê<sup>n</sup> joá-tsõe, how much by gross weight?

mê<sup>n</sup>-ièn, inferior birds' nests.

mê<sup>n</sup>-lâm, a rich deep blue. mê<sup>n</sup>-ê-pê, black cotton cloth. mê<sup>n</sup>-tái-siáu, elastic, as woollen socks. ú-mê<sup>n</sup>, camblets, alpacas, and such stuffs. mê<sup>n</sup>-chiên, a carpet; coarse rough stuff like carpeting. si<sup>n</sup>-mê<sup>n</sup>-thâng, a sort of hairy caterpillar (v. thâng).

mê<sup>n</sup>-si (C.), the book of odes, the Shi-king, = A. si-keng.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. mô<sup>n</sup>, to feel]. tát-mê<sup>n</sup>, = tát-mê<sup>n</sup>, the Buddha called Dharma.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. extremely aged]. mê<sup>n</sup>-mê<sup>n</sup>, dull and without animation; aged and infirm, as old man whose senses have grown dull. lô-mê<sup>n</sup>, aged and infirm.

mô<sup>n</sup> [R. to feign or make a false pretence, = col. bẽ]. mê<sup>n</sup>-liap, to make fraudulent use, as of a name. mê<sup>n</sup>-kò, to accuse falsely at a mandarin's office. mê<sup>n</sup>-bêng, to assume a man's name falsely; to lay claim falsely to talents, reputation, &c. mê<sup>n</sup>-tsàu, to memorialize the emperor improperly. ká-mê<sup>n</sup>, to assume or use improperly, as a name. ká-mê<sup>n</sup> lêng-ê-miá<sup>n</sup>, to make false use of another's name. ká-mê<sup>n</sup> jī-hô, make false use of another's mark or title.

kám-mê<sup>n</sup> (P. kám-mûg), to take a cold.

mê<sup>n</sup>-tók-lí, I beg to trouble you, sir (v. tók).

moá<sup>n</sup>, a cloak without sleeves; a loose cape; a shawl or plaid. toá-moá<sup>n</sup>, a large sleeveless cloak or shawl. hoan-moá<sup>n</sup>, foreign do.

moá<sup>n</sup>, to put on or wear thrown over the shoulders, as an article of dress that has no sleeves, or not putting the arms in the sleeves if there be any; to lay one's arms on another's back or over his shoulders. moá<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to throw a coat or shirt over one's shoulders without putting the arms in the sleeves. moá<sup>n</sup>-lòh-khi, to put on any article of dress in this way. moá<sup>n</sup> tsang-sui, to put on a rain-cloak of native manufacture.

sa<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, to put one another's arms on each other's shoulders, or round each other's neck. sio-moá<sup>n</sup>, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup> chit-bîn, all covering the face, as disbelled hair. moá<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup> tī-chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, spreading loosely all over old walls, as creepers.

摩
磨

無
毛

摩
手
老
冒

moá<sup>n</sup> — moá<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, with rounded edges, as furniture.

moá<sup>n</sup> — moá<sup>n</sup>-jia, the sloping roof of an open shed or open verandah. moá<sup>n</sup>-chia, id. siá-moá<sup>n</sup>, a small shed built at a wall. moá<sup>n</sup>-siá-á, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup>, an open shed leaning on a house or wall; the 53d radical. moá<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tah moá<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup>, to put up such a shed.

bông-moá<sup>n</sup>, the circular back of a grave.

moá<sup>n</sup> [R. má, = col. bá], (T. boá; P. má<sup>n</sup>), hemp; hemp-seed; coarse hempen cloth worn in deepest mourning. iú<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, hemp. soá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal plant, said (in Cn.) to be good for dysentery. seng-moá<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal plant (v. seng). ng-moá<sup>n</sup>, common hemp. kheng-moá<sup>n</sup>, a weak sort of hemp (almost like flax) that does not stand water. ê-moá<sup>n</sup>, black seeds of hemp. pêh-moá<sup>n</sup>, white seeds of hemp.

moá<sup>n</sup>-tek, a sort of bamboo with large leaves and long joints.

li-moá<sup>n</sup>, to pick hemp-bark into fibres for making ropes.

moá<sup>n</sup>-khe, refuse from making oil from hemp-seed. moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, oil made from hemp-seed. ê-moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, dark hemp-oil, counted strengtbening. pêh-moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, clear hemp-oil. pi-moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, castor-oil. moá<sup>n</sup>-kut, dried peeled hemp-stalks. moá<sup>n</sup>-kó, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-phòe, hemp-bark peeled off but not yet torn up small. moá<sup>n</sup>-jiông, sort of oakum made from old sacks and ropes, &c. thiah moá<sup>n</sup>-jiông, to pick old sacks, &c., into oakum. moá<sup>n</sup>-jîn, hemp-seed. moá<sup>n</sup>-liâu, a long-shaped confection made with hemp-seed. at moá<sup>n</sup>-liâu, a sort of gambling by breaking one. moá<sup>n</sup>-chí, a sort of confection (v. chí). moá<sup>n</sup>-láu, another sort. moá<sup>n</sup>-tsó, another sort. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang, a diamond-shaped confection. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang-chhoáh, lattice-work. moá<sup>n</sup>-tsoáh (C.), id. moá<sup>n</sup>-tê-tsoáh (C.), id. moá<sup>n</sup>-tê-hoân (C.), lozenge or diamond shaped. moá<sup>n</sup>-tê (C.), a small diamond-shaped confection. sat-bú ná<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>-nih<sup>n</sup>, lice very numerous.

moá<sup>n</sup>-pê, coarse yellowish hempen sackcloth. moá<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, funeral dress of deepest mourning made of it. moá<sup>n</sup>-hók, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-khoe, mourning cap for sons, &c. moá<sup>n</sup>-kê, mourning head-dress of it, worn by widow or daughter-in-law at funeral. moá<sup>n</sup>-kám, sort of hood worn at funeral. moá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, long twisted piece of coarse hempen-cloth tied round men's caps at funeral. moá<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, short piece of hempen-cloth bung from lintel of house in deepest mourning. moá<sup>n</sup>-teng, lanterns bound round with coarse hempen-cloth bung up in deepest mourning. tiâu moá<sup>n</sup>-teng, to bang them up, as after parent's death (said by children in scolding). moá<sup>n</sup>-teng-chè, debts to be paid when father dies. chhêng-moá<sup>n</sup> toá-há, to wear very deep mourning. thoa-moá<sup>n</sup>, to tie round one's waist long strips of hemp-bark (twisted like coarse rope) hanging down behind, as son, daughter, or daughter-in-law at funeral. thoa-moá<sup>n</sup> chhêng-sob, id., said by daughter-in-law or adopted son, if it be proposed to put them away, meaning, "I have done the most solemn funeral rites just like a child."

moá<sup>n</sup> (R. boân), to deceive by concealment or false appearance. sa<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, id. m-sái sa<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, you need not try to deceive me. moá<sup>n</sup>-phiên, to deceive (v. phiên). jia-moá<sup>n</sup>, to deceive by concealment. khi-moá<sup>n</sup>, id. ún-moá<sup>n</sup> (r.), id. moá<sup>n</sup> si<sup>n</sup>-lâng-bák, to put on a false appearance in a man's presence.

moá<sup>n</sup> (R. bân), a large sort of eel; a conger-eel.

庀

麻

瞞

魚
曼

moá<sup>n</sup>-hî, id. hái-moá<sup>n</sup>, id., from the sea. ɛ-hî-moá<sup>n</sup>, a river eel. chhi<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, a sort with greenish head. lê-moá<sup>n</sup>, a very large fresh-water conger (said to be very lazy in the daytime). lê-moá<sup>n</sup>-kut, a lazy fellow who lies about idly all day, generally indulging in low pleasures. ná<sup>n</sup>-lê-moá<sup>n</sup>, said of such a fellow.

moá<sup>n</sup>-koah, a stick with an iron hook at the end for catching eels (v. koah).

moá<sup>n</sup> [R. mó<sup>n</sup>, hair]. moá<sup>n</sup>-khi (C.), a small sort of crab.

moá<sup>n</sup> (R. boán), (T. sometimes má<sup>n</sup>), full; crowded; the whole of —; to complete, as a term of office (but never "to fill" with anything, nor "full of"); classifier of games of chance. kàu-kúi-moá<sup>n</sup>, how many games of cards has he won?

sió-moá<sup>n</sup>, a term about May 21st or 22d.

moá<sup>n</sup>-géh, a full month, esp. of woman after delivery. tsòe-moá<sup>n</sup>-géh, to perform rites and make presents to the parents at that time. moá<sup>n</sup>-jím, to complete one's full term of office. sa<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup> nŭg-ní<sup>n</sup> moá<sup>n</sup>, said of a man not staying long in a place.

moá<sup>n</sup>--chhut-lâi, overflowing, as a liquid. tí<sup>n</sup> kàu-moá<sup>n</sup>--chhut-lâi, full to overflowing. tí<sup>n</sup> moá<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, very full of a liquid. tìn-moá<sup>n</sup>, crowded, as room, with persons or things. pá-moá<sup>n</sup>, stuffed full, as of food. chhiong-moá<sup>n</sup>, quite full; very abundant. tsòe-bí-moá<sup>n</sup>, very abundant.

moá<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>-sī, everywhere in great abundance. moá<sup>n</sup>-si-kòe, everywhere. moá<sup>n</sup>-tòe, all over the ground. moá<sup>n</sup>-thê-kha, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-bin, all over one's face; one's whole face. moá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, the whole business (v. poá<sup>n</sup>). moá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, all over the land. moá<sup>n</sup>-hái, all through the sea. moá<sup>n</sup>-seng-khu, over the whole body. moá<sup>n</sup>-seng-khu sí<sup>n</sup>-thiá<sup>n</sup>, all over sores. moá<sup>n</sup>-pak, whole heart full (v. pak). moá<sup>n</sup>-sim hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, to rejoice with one's whole heart. moá<sup>n</sup>-sim oàn-hün, to hate with one's whole heart. moá<sup>n</sup>-chiok sim-ì, desires satiated (v. ì).

moái<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. bê, soft-boiled rice.

moái<sup>n</sup> (C.) sió-moái<sup>n</sup>, = A. sió-bê, younger sister.

môe<sup>n</sup> (P.), = A. bê, soft-boiled rice.

mêh<sup>n</sup>, drooping and nearly withered, as leaves of a tree; feeling very uncomfortable from hunger. mêh<sup>n</sup>-mêh<sup>n</sup>, id. mêh<sup>n</sup>--lôh-khi, to subside, as a swelling. iau kàu-mêh<sup>n</sup>-mêh<sup>n</sup>, feeling extremely hungry.

mêh<sup>n</sup> — mêh<sup>n</sup>--khi, to steal, as small things.

mêh<sup>n</sup> (R. bók), thin cuticle of the skin; thin film on peas, nuts, &c. mêh<sup>n</sup>-mêh<sup>n</sup>, very thin, as paper, or as slip of bamboo; very small and light, as a bundle. phê-mêh<sup>n</sup>, the cuticle of the skin. lâ-giâ-mêh<sup>n</sup>,

the white woolly membrane inclosing the eggs of the tarantula. tau-mêh<sup>n</sup>, the thin pellicle of a pea or bean. tek-mêh<sup>n</sup>, the inner lining of the bamboo. phín-á-mêh<sup>n</sup>, a thin bit of bamboo used as the tongue of a flute.

kim-mêh<sup>n</sup>, gold-leaf, real or false; brass-foil.

tsáp-mêh, slightly colded, unwell, or out of sorts; feel dull, anxious, uncomfortable, or grieved from being harassed with many troublesome affairs. tiòh-chhin-mêh<sup>n</sup>-nah<sup>n</sup>, a sort of eruptiou (v. nah<sup>n</sup>).

mêh<sup>n</sup> [R. bók, wood; tree, = col. bák]. tsáp-mêh<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, miscellaneous leaves used for adulterating tea (v. tsáp).

múi<sup>n</sup> (C.) mui<sup>n</sup>-mui<sup>n</sup>, = A. mng-mng, small, as rain or dust.

múi<sup>n</sup> [R. bí, soft-boiled, as rice, = col. bê, bôe], very soft, as food cooked very soft and tender.

múi<sup>n</sup> [R. bô, a frog] âm-múi<sup>n</sup> (esp. T.), a young frog or tadpole.

múi<sup>n</sup> [R. mui<sup>n</sup>, bôe, a plum, = col. ì]. mui<sup>n</sup>-hoe, a sweet-scented flowering shrub like an almond. péh-múi<sup>n</sup>, the white sort. lâh-múi<sup>n</sup>, the yellow sort, Chimonanthus fragrans. lâu-múi<sup>n</sup>, id. hún-múi<sup>n</sup>, another sort.

peng-múi<sup>n</sup>, yellow plums preserved in sugar. tí<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>-chiù<sup>n</sup>, a condiment made of sugar and pounded yellow plums.

iông-múi<sup>n</sup>, a bubo.

múi<sup>n</sup> [R. a go-between, = col. hñ], (C. also bñ, bôe). koa<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of female jailer for females: she also arranges marriages when the mandarin orders parties to be married. hoat-lòh koa<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>, to hand over (a woman) to her care, as men are given over to the "goân-chhe."

múi<sup>n</sup>-lâng (C.), = A. hñ-lâng, a go-between for making a marriage.

múi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. mng, a door.

múi<sup>n</sup> (R. mui<sup>n</sup>, bôe). mui<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup> (R.), coals.

múi<sup>n</sup> (R. id.), each. mui<sup>n</sup>-lâng, each man. múi<sup>n</sup>-pái, each time.

múi<sup>n</sup> (C.) chiòh-múi<sup>n</sup>, a shrub like sloe with a corymb of small edible berries; the stem is very full of knots, and is much used for pipe-stalks.

múi<sup>n</sup> (C.) kam-múi<sup>n</sup>, = A. ka-múg, a very poisonous shrub.

múi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. boán, múg, ún, late. múi<sup>n</sup>-tang, = A. ún-tang, the harvest in or about the 10th month. soah-múi<sup>n</sup>, well on in the afternoon; not far from sunset. soah-múi<sup>n</sup>-á, id.

múih<sup>n</sup> [R. bê, a frog or toad; cf. múi<sup>n</sup>]. âm-múih<sup>n</sup>, a young frog.

N.

Many words in n are also written with l, and others with j.

Words in ng are placed under a separate initial, and not under n.

Many words in n are mere reduplications of nasal words.

nâ<sup>n</sup> (R. lîm). chhiü-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a forest; a wood. chhiü-nâ<sup>n</sup>-pê, a dense forest (v. pê). tek-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a bamboo grove. soa<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, mountain forests. chhim-

soa<sup>n</sup> nâ<sup>n</sup>-tòe, in the depths of forests and mountains. chhim-khi<sup>n</sup> nâ<sup>n</sup>-tòe, in deep woods and ravines.

nâ<sup>n</sup> — nâ<sup>n</sup>-âu, the throat (v. âu).

nâ<sup>n</sup> (T.), to take fire accidentally. hõ nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoâ<sup>n</sup> (T.), suddenly taking fire accidentally. hõe nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoâ<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

hé nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoâ<sup>n</sup> (A.), sort of eruption on children. hõ nâ<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

蚝
滿

木

糜
蟆
梅

媒

煤
每

膜

蟆

林

籠

籃

nâ<sup>n</sup> (R. lăm, (T. nâi<sup>n</sup>), a basket. nâ<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, the handle of a basket. nâ<sup>n</sup>-keh, the horizontal divisions of a basket in several layers.

nâ<sup>n</sup>-táu, a basket with no handle. nâ<sup>n</sup>-táu-á, id. siâ<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a basket made in several layers or compartments one above the other. ô-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a cradle. iô-nâ<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. kau-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a basket with semicircular handle and no divisions. ka<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. pí<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. tín-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a rattan basket. bih-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a bamboo basket. chhat-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a painted basket. tiú<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a basket used by students going to the examinations. koe-nâ<sup>n</sup>, basket for carrying fowls.

teh-nâ<sup>n</sup>, to send some small thing back in the basket that brought presents (v. teh).

nâ<sup>n</sup>, a surname; where this is the prevailing surname, a basket is not called "nâ<sup>n</sup>," but "kheng."

nâ<sup>n</sup> — nâ<sup>n</sup>-táu, the Pandanus or screw-pine: appearance a good deal like the pine-apple plant.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. lô, name of a plant]. nâ<sup>n</sup>-pók, carrots. nâ<sup>n</sup>-pók-chhài, id. nâ<sup>n</sup>-ták, id. (s. harrow).

nâ<sup>n</sup> — keh-nâ<sup>n</sup>-chhài, a vegetable like a Savoy cabbage, but it does not form a heart (C. keh-mê<sup>n</sup>-chhài).

nâ<sup>n</sup> — khé-nâ<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of shrub (v. poá<sup>n</sup>).

nâ<sup>n</sup> — nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-pút, the guava (v. pút). nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-poát, id. (C. lát-pát; T. nâi<sup>n</sup>-á-poát).

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. nâu<sup>n</sup>, lău<sup>n</sup>, cymbals]. nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, cymbals (v. poáh).

nâ<sup>n</sup> — nâ<sup>n</sup>-ták, sort of harrows used in wet fields (v. ták), (s. carrot).

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. gâm, a steep rocky hill, = col. giâm]. lêng-nâ<sup>n</sup>, the city or department of Lung-yen-chow.

nâ<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. noâ<sup>n</sup>, to hinder. nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsáh, to separate by using the hands, as men quarrelling. nâ<sup>n</sup>-khui, id.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. jú, the more —]. ná<sup>n</sup> — ná<sup>n</sup> —, the — the —. ná<sup>n</sup>-kú ná<sup>n</sup>-hó, the longer the better. lí ná<sup>n</sup>-beh, goá ná<sup>n</sup>-m̄, the more you wish, the more determined am I against it (v. m̄).

nâ<sup>n</sup> (= lán), like; similar to. ná<sup>n</sup>-chhin-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id. ná<sup>n</sup>-pe-nih<sup>n</sup>, as if flying. ná<sup>n</sup>-hî-nih<sup>n</sup>, like a fish. ná<sup>n</sup>-ū, it would seem as if there are —.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. to take, to seize]. chhiok-nâ<sup>n</sup> (R.), to arrest, as criminal. chhip-nâ<sup>n</sup> (R.), to arrest quietly.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. that; there; what? which? = col. tá, tó]. ná-lí (R.), how? where? (v. lí, "inside").

nâ<sup>n</sup> (R. lám). ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>, a Chinese olive (not the real olive), (v. ka<sup>n</sup>).

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. kién, a son, = col. kiá<sup>n</sup>, kán, á, ná, &c.] ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-sun, great grandson.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, a final particle or affix of nouns, sometimes used instead of the usual á, especially after words ending in n. (cf. lá; cf. Cn. ngá<sup>n</sup>, ngiá<sup>n</sup>, ká<sup>n</sup>, therefore originally = kiá<sup>n</sup>, a son, and same as former word.)

gín-ná, = gín-á, a son; a boy. kin-ná-jit, = kin-á-jit, to-day.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, to protrude rapidly, as the tongue. nâ<sup>n</sup>-chih, to put out the tongue for a moment, as in wonder or fear. chih nâ<sup>n</sup>-chhut-lái, id.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. tiên, lightning], to flash, as lightning; to glance brightly, as something glittering.

sih-nâ<sup>n</sup>, lightning (v. sih).

nâ<sup>n</sup>-kng, to glitter. kim-nâ<sup>n</sup>-sà<sup>n</sup>, shining; glittering. kim-nâ<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, id. kim-sà<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, id. ô-sà<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, black, glossy, and shining.

hê-nâ<sup>n</sup>-sà<sup>n</sup>, doing things very carelessly. hê-nâ<sup>n</sup>-sah<sup>n</sup>, id.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, to singe or burn slightly. nâ<sup>n</sup>--tióh, id. khít-hé nâ<sup>n</sup>--tióh, to get singed by fire.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, to sun for a short time. nâ<sup>n</sup>-jit, id. phák-nâ<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [next word?]. kúi-nâ<sup>n</sup>, several (v. kúi). hoân-nâ<sup>n</sup>, in every case that —; every one who —.

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. jiók, if, like], if; supposing that —. nâ<sup>n</sup>-sī, if it be (s. only). nâ<sup>n</sup>-bó, if not so; if there be none. lí nâ<sup>n</sup>-beh, if you wish (nâ<sup>n</sup> is generally thus placed second in the clause).

nâ<sup>n</sup> [R. tăn, only]. nâ<sup>n</sup>-sī, only (s. if). nâ<sup>n</sup>-ū, there is only; there are only. nâ<sup>n</sup>-sái, all that is needed is —. nâ<sup>n</sup> chia-é, only these. nâ<sup>n</sup>-tiá<sup>n</sup>, only; said at the end of the clause. m̄-nâ<sup>n</sup>, not only. m̄-tân-nâ<sup>n</sup>, id. khah-m̄-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a good deal more.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, to wait at a place; to stay for a short time. nâ<sup>n</sup>--teh, id. nâ<sup>n</sup>--chih, id.

nâ<sup>n</sup>, to singe, scorch, or burn slightly, as by powder or fire. khít-hé nâ<sup>n</sup>--tióh, to be slightly singed or burned, as a dress, or as one's skin.

nah, = lah, a final enclitic particle, especially after a nasal. mih<sup>n</sup>--nah, what would you be at!

nah<sup>n</sup> [R. thap, concave; to sink down, = col. lap], concave; having a deep hollow in it, as a sunken face; sunken, as a surface. chit-nah<sup>n</sup>, a small hollow, as on the face, or on any surface. nah<sup>n</sup>-io, having the middle narrower than the rest of it, as an hour-glass.

nah<sup>n</sup> — tióh-chhin-méh<sup>n</sup>-nah<sup>n</sup>, to have a reddish eruption like flea-bites; it lasts but a short time. kí chhin-méh<sup>n</sup>-nah<sup>n</sup>, id.

nah<sup>n</sup> (C.), to do bits of work in an irregular way. nah<sup>n</sup>--chit-ah, nah<sup>n</sup>--hit-ah, id.

nah<sup>n</sup> (C.), to talk in an unconnected manner.

nai<sup>n</sup> (T.), (cf. nâi<sup>n</sup>), to droop, as leaves in drought. nai<sup>n</sup>--lôh-khì, id. hióh nai<sup>n</sup>-nai<sup>n</sup>, the leaves are drooping.

nâi<sup>n</sup> (T.) nâi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, = A. liên-hoe, the water-lily.

nâi<sup>n</sup> (T.) nâi<sup>n</sup>-á-poát, = A. nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-pút, the guava.

nâi<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. nâ<sup>n</sup>, a basket. pàng-nâi<sup>n</sup>, to lay basket-work traps for crabs. chhih-nâi<sup>n</sup>, basket-work traps for crabs. hū-nâi<sup>n</sup>, do. for fish.

nâi<sup>n</sup> [R. mother; milk, = col. né, lóe, ni<sup>n</sup>, leng]. nâi<sup>n</sup>-nâi<sup>n</sup>, title of the wife of a district (Hien) mandarin; also (C.), of the wife of a Kujin, who in Amoy is called "thài-thài."

nâi<sup>n</sup> [R. truly; also]. kau-nâi<sup>n</sup>-hī, the contracted form of the 163d or 170th radical (v. kau).

nâi<sup>n</sup> [R. a resource; how? = col. tã, tã]. bû-nâi<sup>n</sup>, having no alternative; having to do it, or accept or submit, though not as we would wish.

chio-hu íong-tsu, sè-chhut bû-nâi<sup>n</sup>, having no other resource, marries another husband, taking him into the family to take care of her children. sè chhut bû-nâi<sup>n</sup>, it was because in the circumstances no other alternative was possible. bû-nâi<sup>n</sup>-hò (r.), = bô-tâi-ôá, no other resource; no alternative.

nâi<sup>n</sup> [R. lâi, to trust; to depend on; to sorn; to accuse falsely, = col. loá]. siet-nâi<sup>n</sup>, very forward and impudent, as a beggar, or brazen-faced woman. káu-nâi<sup>n</sup>, very impudent and troublesome, as man who makes much loud talking and row, or who will not pay a debt, or confess an unquestionable fault.

蘿

鏡

巖

愈

拿那攬

電爛

若

但

塌

奶

乃

奈

賴

耐 芳
耐

nāi<sup>n</sup> [R. to endure; patient]. jím-nāi<sup>n</sup> (r.), patient; patience.

nāi<sup>n</sup> (R. lē), (C. lē; Cn. lién, nūi<sup>n</sup>). nāi<sup>n</sup>-chi, the fruit called li-chi or lai-chi; Dimocarpus Litchi.

nāi<sup>n</sup> (T.) khé-nāi<sup>n</sup>-chhiū, = A. khó-lêng, a tree with lilac flowers.

nāi<sup>n</sup> (T.) nāi<sup>n</sup>-hióh, = A. bā-hiòh, the kite (v. hióh).

nāi<sup>n</sup> (cf. nai<sup>n</sup>). núg-nāi<sup>n</sup>-nāi<sup>n</sup> (T.), drooping, as leaves in drought.

惱
惱

náu<sup>n</sup> [R. ló, angry; anxious; displeased, = col. láu]. hoat-náu<sup>n</sup>, to get angry. àu-náu<sup>n</sup>, displeased and vexed; impatient and displeased.

náu<sup>n</sup> [R. ló, brain]. tháu-náu<sup>n</sup>, person or item of principal importance in an affair. chhut-tháu chhut-náu<sup>n</sup>, to take the initiative or responsibility. bô-tháu bô-náu<sup>n</sup>, no one taking the responsible management, so that nothing can be done. kúi-tháu kúi-náu<sup>n</sup>, very cunning, crafty, and false (lit. demon's head).

撓
撓

náu<sup>n</sup> (= láu). náu<sup>n</sup>-tháu tsūn-ām, to shake one's head and neck about in a light and improper manner.

nāu<sup>n</sup> [R. lāu, noise or confusion]. jióng-nāu<sup>n</sup>, to make a noise and disturbance. káu-nāu<sup>n</sup>, violent angry disputation.

nauh<sup>n</sup> (esp. T. Cn.), = A. ngauh<sup>n</sup>, hauh<sup>n</sup>, to snap up, as a dog.

nē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. le. kin-nē<sup>n</sup>, the fine fibrous parts of nerves or muscles. thi<sup>n</sup> ē-tsai<sup>n</sup> lán--ê kin-nē<sup>n</sup> kut-kēh, Heaven knows even our muscles and bones.

nē<sup>n</sup> (C.) àn-nē<sup>n</sup>, thus, = A. àn-ni<sup>n</sup>.

nē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ni<sup>n</sup>, to spread out, as clothes; to lay, as roof tiles. nē<sup>n</sup>-tsoā, a very poisonous sort of serpent.

奶

né [R. nái, mother; milk; = col. lóe, lin], (C. né<sup>n</sup>; T. ni<sup>n</sup>). án-né, mamma! ng-né, id. in-né, his mother; often has an improper meaning.

nè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ni<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's self. kiū<sup>n</sup>-nè<sup>n</sup>-kóng, to talk very big; to brag.

nē<sup>n</sup> (C.) khah-nē<sup>n</sup>, rather more than —. chit-tūg khah-nē<sup>n</sup>, somewhat more than ten feet (cf. lōng, "besides").

nē<sup>n</sup> (C.) phī<sup>n</sup>-khang àng-nē<sup>n</sup>, nose stuffed, as with a cold.

nēh<sup>n</sup> (cf. lek). lún-nēh<sup>n</sup>, afraid, e.g. afraid to meddle with a matter. lún-lún nēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, id. lún--chit-ē, nēh<sup>n</sup>-chit-ē, id.

nēh<sup>n</sup> (cf. léh). kēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, great noise, as of striking or of thunder (v. kēh<sup>n</sup>). chhēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>-nēh<sup>n</sup>, loud sound of thunder (v. chhēh<sup>n</sup>).

nī<sup>n</sup> (= leng, lin), milk (v. leng). ni<sup>n</sup>-bú, a wet nurse. chiáh-ni<sup>n</sup>-lát soà-chhut, to exert all the strength one has got from sucking days onwards.

nī<sup>n</sup> [R. lək, = col. nih<sup>n</sup>]. ni<sup>n</sup>-sí, to kill by strangling with the hand.

nī<sup>n</sup> [R. lək, to drop]. a-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of distilled spirit. a-ni<sup>n</sup> thau ló-chiú, this spirit mixed with a weaker fermented liquor; said in an altercation when the other insists on something being done "àn-ni<sup>n</sup>" ("thus"), when this play on the word is sometimes made.

nī<sup>n</sup> (R. liam), to take up a small thing between finger and thumb. thau-ni<sup>n</sup> thau-liam, stealing (v. liam). ni<sup>n</sup>-tang ni<sup>n</sup>-sai, to take up small quantities of things in the fingers, e.g. as an acquaintance looking at things in a shop.

歷
奶 勒
歷

拈

nī<sup>n</sup> (C. nē<sup>n</sup>), (T. ni<sup>n</sup>, hi<sup>n</sup>, hf). àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, thus. àn-ni<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, id.

nī<sup>n</sup> (R. lién), a year. ni<sup>n</sup>-hè, a year of age. pah-ni<sup>n</sup>-hè-āu, after one is dead. ni<sup>n</sup>-ki, years of age (v. ki). ni<sup>n</sup>-kō, a year, as to date. hó-thi<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, a year of abundance. phái<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, a year of dearth. ni<sup>n</sup>-géh, years and months. ni<sup>n</sup>-kú géh-chhim, for a long time, e.g. twenty years or so. ni<sup>n</sup>-tsoeh, a year and its terms (v. tsoeh).

年

ni<sup>n</sup>-bé, end of the year. ni<sup>n</sup>-chhim, near the year's end. ni<sup>n</sup>-chhim, id. chhim-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. ni<sup>n</sup>-tau, the last few days of the year, e.g. for about two weeks. ni<sup>n</sup>-tau-pi<sup>n</sup>, close to the end of the year. tsòe-ni<sup>n</sup>-tau, to perform the rites for the end of the year. tsòe-poà<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, to keep the 6.15. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang, harvest (v. tang). ni<sup>n</sup>-kiet, a balance at the end of the year.

kin-ni<sup>n</sup>, this year. kū-ni<sup>n</sup>, last year. tsá-ni<sup>n</sup>, a former year. chēng-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, the former year. tsūn-ni<sup>n</sup>, year before last. lòh-tsūn-ni<sup>n</sup>, three years ago. óng-ni<sup>n</sup>, in past years; year by year in the past. éng-ni<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. siāng-ni<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. āu-ni<sup>n</sup>, the year after next. āu-ni<sup>n</sup>, in some future year, either next year or later. mē<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, next year. mā<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. sin-ni<sup>n</sup>, the year about to come in, said near the end of the old year. goān--ni<sup>n</sup>, first year of a reign. ji--ni<sup>n</sup>, second year of reign. nūg-ni<sup>n</sup>, two years. tāng-ni<sup>n</sup>, having taken the degree of Kujin (or higher) in the same year. lāi-ni<sup>n</sup>, a lucky year for some special position of house or grave.

tiòh-ni<sup>n</sup>, our year come (in turn) for some duty or office, esp. for having charge of some idolatrous rites. tng-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. tui-ni<sup>n</sup>, same day in next year, esp. one year after death (v. tui). tsòe-sa<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, to perform rites on second anniversary of death. hō-ni<sup>n</sup>, to pay visits or send cards on last day of year. si-ni<sup>n</sup>, to take leave of the year with rites. kè-ni<sup>n</sup>, to pass from one year to another; to enter on a new year. ni<sup>n</sup> kè-ni<sup>n</sup>, year after year. kè-ni<sup>n</sup>-pūg, some rice cooked on the last day of the year, and eaten next morning; so as to have food all the year. kè-ni<sup>n</sup>-chhài, a bit of vegetable, &c., thus cooked and eaten. sio kè-ni<sup>n</sup>-pùn (C.), to burn small heaps of earth and rubbish at end of year.

nī<sup>n</sup> (C.) boeh-ni<sup>n</sup>, whatever are you about? what do you want now? boeh-tsò-ni<sup>n</sup>, what can I do? (seem to have no resource). tsóá-ni<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, how?

呢

nī<sup>n</sup>, toā-ni<sup>n</sup>, large shrimps from Manila. tióng-ni<sup>n</sup>, a smaller sort.

nī<sup>n</sup> — toā-ni<sup>n</sup>, = toā-lêng, the tiller rope.

nī<sup>n</sup> (R. liām). ni<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, the eaves of a house (v. chi<sup>n</sup>).

nī<sup>n</sup> [R. lién, united; connected], a sort of medicine. ng-ni<sup>n</sup>, a fern used as a bitter cooling medicine (Chelidonium?). chhoan-ni<sup>n</sup>, that medicine from Sze-chuen (justicia?). hōng-bé-ni<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal fern root (or justicia?) from Sze-chuen. thé-ni<sup>n</sup>, an inferior native sort, fern root. thé-ng-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-ng-ni<sup>n</sup>, id. chháu-ni<sup>n</sup>, id.

to-ni<sup>n</sup>, a wild azalea, with an edible fruit like a small grape. tióng-ni<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. tsúi-to-ni<sup>n</sup>, a plant (not edible) with large leaves and large purple flower.

nī<sup>n</sup> (C.) ka-ni<sup>n</sup>, = A. ka-ng, complete.

nī<sup>n</sup> [R. to agree, = col. lí]. tióng-ni<sup>n</sup>, the name of Confucius.

nī<sup>n</sup> (cf. bí, bí). ni<sup>n</sup>-lék-hút, one of the Buddhas (v. lək).

nī<sup>n</sup>, woollen cloth; tweeds; flannel; broad-cloth;

簷
連

尼
彌
咩

Spanish stripes, &c. tsúi-nî<sup>n</sup>, flannel. ε-nî<sup>n</sup>, black broad-cloth. kiá<sup>n</sup>-bîn-nî<sup>n</sup>, very smooth cloth. sió-nî<sup>n</sup>, thin woollen stuffs, as cassimeres, &c. chhε-nî<sup>n</sup>, coarse woollen stuffs. ha-là-nî<sup>n</sup>, thick superfine cloth. to-lô-nî<sup>n</sup>, a sort of cloth.

nî<sup>n</sup>-ú, camblets, broad-cloths, and woollen stuffs in general. nî<sup>n</sup>-ú tiû-toân, silks, satins, and good woollen stuffs.

nî<sup>n</sup> (C. nê<sup>n</sup>), to hang out loosely, as clothes or netting (but "pi<sup>n</sup>" is to stretch out tight); to lay tiles on a roof. nî<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to hang out clothes to dry. nî<sup>n</sup>-hiá, to put on tiles on a roof. nî<sup>n</sup>-nî, id.

nî<sup>n</sup> [R. liâm, a screen, = col. lí]. moâ<sup>n</sup>-nî<sup>n</sup>, a short piece of coarse hempen cloth hung from the lintel of a house in deepest mourning. bih-nî<sup>n</sup> (T.), a bamboo screen at a door. nî<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. lí, a hanging screen.

nî<sup>n</sup> [R. liâm, a reaping-hook]. nî<sup>n</sup>-lêk-to (T.), a small reaping-hook, smaller than "koeh-á."

nî<sup>n</sup> (R. jiám), to dye. nî<sup>n</sup>-sek, id. nî<sup>n</sup>-pâng, a dye-work; a dyer's shop. tsòe-nî<sup>n</sup>--ê, a dyer. péh-péh-pê<sup>n</sup> nî<sup>n</sup> kàu-ε, said of bearing false-witness against the innocent.

nî<sup>n</sup>, = ji<sup>n</sup> [R. the ear, = col. hí]. nî<sup>n</sup>-bók, cars and eyes (v. bók). kau-thâu chiap-nî<sup>n</sup>, to talk in whispers with mouth to ear, as for some secret and improper purpose.

sün-hong-nî<sup>n</sup>, one of the attendants of má-tsó-pó. tái-nî<sup>n</sup> têng-kong-sien, a large-eared idol (v. kong).

bók-nî<sup>n</sup>, a vegetable substance (a fungus?) stewed with food to make it less heating; brought from the north. chhong-nî<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal plant (burdock?). kâu-nî<sup>n</sup> (C.), a good-sized tree with red flowers.

nî<sup>n</sup> [R. thou; you], = ji<sup>n</sup> (q. v.)

nî<sup>n</sup> [R. líong, two; a pair, = col. nng, niú, &c.], (C. lí). nî<sup>n</sup>-phiet-chhiu, moustaches (v. chhiu).

nî<sup>n</sup> (C.) hán--nî<sup>n</sup> tî-si, = A. hán-tit tî-sí, rarely.

nî<sup>n</sup> (T.) tiah-nî<sup>n</sup>, = ngch-á, pincers.

nî<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. né, mother.

nî<sup>n</sup> (cf. tí<sup>n</sup>), (C. nê<sup>n</sup>), to stand on tiptoe; to exert one's self. kiû<sup>n</sup>-péh-nî<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's self very much to do something. toā-pê<sup>n</sup>-nî<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's self and walk with long steps. nî<sup>n</sup>-kha, to stand on tiptoe. nî<sup>n</sup>-kha-bé, id. nî<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, id. nî<sup>n</sup>-kha khoá<sup>n</sup>, to stand on tiptoe to look.

nî<sup>n</sup> (= nih<sup>n</sup>). lê<sup>n</sup>-nî<sup>n</sup>-hit, to oscillate or shake about.

nî<sup>n</sup> [R. lí, name of a plant]. bák-nî<sup>n</sup>, white jessamine. bák-nî<sup>n</sup>-hoe, id.

nî<sup>n</sup> (cf. mí, bí), a connective particle with a very slight meaning.

niá<sup>n</sup> [R. líong, liâng, a lady, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>], (Cn.), mother. in-niá<sup>n</sup>, his mother (Cn.)

niá<sup>n</sup> (mere reduplication). kiá<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, to walk about; to take a walk.

niá<sup>n</sup> [R. ná, where? how? = col. tá, tó]. niá<sup>n</sup>-ōe (Cn.), how can it possibly be?

niá<sup>n</sup> (C.), = ná<sup>n</sup>, the — the — (r.) niá<sup>n</sup>-kú (r.), the longer — the —.

niá<sup>n</sup> (R. léng), a collar; classifier of articles of clothing; to receive; to bail out; to lead, as soldiers.

kú<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, how many articles of clothing?

niá<sup>n</sup>-thò, a Chinese article of dress of a very narrow and straggling form, fastened under the elbows, worn above the other clothes to keep the queue from soiling them. niá<sup>n</sup>-kah, another article of dress like a narrow vest or cape. niá<sup>n</sup>-tau, the collar of a dress. niá<sup>n</sup>-tâu, id. niá<sup>n</sup>-kau, the hook of a Chinese collar. oân-niá<sup>n</sup>, the large round collar of a robe worn by Sew-tsai graduates. hong-niá<sup>n</sup>, a collar turning up for warmth. nng-niá<sup>n</sup>, do. made of soft fur, &c. ám-á-niá<sup>n</sup>, the fixed collar of a coat, &c. ám-kún-niá<sup>n</sup>, id. koà-niá<sup>n</sup>, to put on or wear or have a collar. há-niá<sup>n</sup>, to put on a collar.

niá<sup>n</sup>-peng, to lead soldiers. niá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to bail out a man. niá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to get out, as man or thing, by standing security for him or it. niá<sup>n</sup>-tsng, a document by which a man binds himself as security, as in giving bail. pau-niá<sup>n</sup>, to guarantee or stand security for. pó-niá<sup>n</sup>, id. tam-niá<sup>n</sup>, id.

niá<sup>n</sup>--lái, to receive, as things, esp. pay or rations. niá<sup>n</sup>-gún, to receive money. niá<sup>n</sup>-hiông, to receive soldier's pay (v. hiông). niá<sup>n</sup>-bí, to receive rations of rice. niá<sup>n</sup>-kng, to receive a blank form for an examination essay. niá<sup>n</sup> sóe-lé (X.), to receive baptism. niá<sup>n</sup>-pin, to receive a sort of official certificate (v. pin). niá<sup>n</sup> chit-jī, to get a word of fate (fortune-teller's phrase).

niá<sup>n</sup> (R. léng), a mountain-pass or road over a pass. soa<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, id. niá<sup>n</sup>-kha, the foot of the pass, or of the road up the hill. chiú<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, to ascend the steep road. lôh-niá<sup>n</sup>, to descend it. táh-niá<sup>n</sup>, to walk up a hill with slow measured step, as chair-bearers. koái<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> tsùn-niá<sup>n</sup>, lofty hills and steep passes. soa<sup>n</sup>-thâu niá<sup>n</sup>-bé, mountains and steep hills. poâ<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> kè-niá<sup>n</sup>, to cross steep mountains.

niá<sup>n</sup> (R. léng), (C. líong). soa<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, the shoulder of a hill higher than the intervening part; a swelling hump on the side of a hill. khi<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>, to have such a swelling shoulder, as a mountain.

niá<sup>n</sup> — gû-niá<sup>n</sup>, the hump at a cow's neck. éng-niá<sup>n</sup>, the swell of the sea.

niah<sup>n</sup> [R. hek, to frighten, = col. hiah<sup>n</sup>]. tah-niah<sup>n</sup>, to be suddenly startled. sim-kia<sup>n</sup> tah-niah<sup>n</sup>, id.

niâu<sup>n</sup> — ε niâu<sup>n</sup>-niâu<sup>n</sup>, very black with dirt, or with a great many black spots. hoe-lin-niâu<sup>n</sup>, variegated in colour.

niâu<sup>n</sup> [R. bíau, a cat, = col. bâ], a cat; pock-marked; to look earnestly; a sort of abscess; a catamite. niâu<sup>n</sup>-bí, sound used in calling cats. niâu<sup>n</sup>-chih, a fish like a small "bé-ka." niâu<sup>n</sup>-thâu-chiáu, a sort of owl. kê-niâu<sup>n</sup>, to put on a plaster of cat's flesh (good for a wound made by a tiger, which some call euphemistically "toā-chiah-niâu<sup>n</sup>."). niâu<sup>n</sup> chhia-tó-ám, kā-káu tsòe-si<sup>n</sup>-jit, said of unintentionally doing another a good turn.

niâu<sup>n</sup>-tsò, the hole in which the foot of a mast rests. leng-niâu<sup>n</sup>, a small abscess in the breast.

tsòe-niâu<sup>n</sup>, to be a catamite. si<sup>n</sup>-niâu<sup>n</sup>, you vile catamite (or sodomite). chhàu-hièn-niâu<sup>n</sup>, you stinking catamite.

niâu<sup>n</sup>-niâu<sup>n</sup>-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to look very intently at a person, or very earnestly for him.

niâu<sup>n</sup>-pan-tiám, marked with small spots; pock-marked. niâu<sup>n</sup>--ê, a pock-marked man. niâu<sup>n</sup> pà-pà, much pock-marked. niâu<sup>n</sup> pi-pa, id. bîn niâu<sup>n</sup>, face pock-marked. chhùi-bí-niâu<sup>n</sup>, marked with small pock-marks. niâu<sup>n</sup>-kun, the pock-marked man named Kun, &c.

niáu<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. jiáu<sup>n</sup>, a claw or talon; so also with some other words in "jiáu<sup>n</sup>."

niáu [R. a bird, = col. chiáu]. niáu<sup>n</sup>-chhiang, 簾

鑷
染
耳

你

莉
娘
那
領

嶺

岭

嚇

猫

爪
鳥

a musket. niáu<sup>n</sup>-siù (R.), birds and beasts. pek-siét-niáu<sup>n</sup> (hundred-tongued bird), a man who is never at a loss in argument (v. siét).

niáu [R. ló, old, = col. láu, lāu, &c.], (Cn. ló; C. lé, niáu). niáu-chhú, a rat; the lowest custom-house underlings who keep watch at landing-places. niáu-chhú-á, a small rat (or mouse); said also of these customs underlings. pèh-niáu-chhú, a white mouse. niáu-chhú-iòh, arsenic. niáu-chhú-tauh, a rat-trap. niáu-chhú-tú, box with small tread-mill worked by mice or rats. niáu-chhú-chhák, a pointed stick for rats. niáu-chhú-jip, sort of squib that jumps about. niáu-chhú jip-gû-kak, said of getting into a cul-de-sac, or road with no outlet. pò niáu-chhú-á-oàn, to repay a slight injury by another. niáu-chhú-kā, articles stolen by persons in the house (v. kā). káu kā-niáu-chhú, a dog killing a rat (v. káu). niáu-chhú-khang, ui kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup> oân-kong-mng (to enlarge a rat's hole to a round-headed doorway), a small affair become very great. niáu-chhú chiáh-iû, bák-chiu kng (the rat drinks the oil, and has light only so long), said of a man who keeps up a false appearance without thinking of the denouement.

niáu<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = jià<sup>n</sup>, the scar of a wound.

niû<sup>n</sup> (cf. ní<sup>n</sup>, "pincers"). bák-niû<sup>n</sup>, the place at the keel where the foot of the mast is made fast.

niû<sup>n</sup>, to wink; to twinkle; to glance and shimmer, as a glow-worm, or as distant lightning. niû<sup>n</sup>-chit-ê, id. niû<sup>n</sup>-bák, to wink. iô-chhiú niû<sup>n</sup>-bák, to give secret signals to another, as by beckoning and winking. pí-chhiú niû<sup>n</sup>-bák, id. bák-niû<sup>n</sup>-kú, a moment. chit-bák-niû<sup>n</sup>-kú, id. bák-niû<sup>n</sup>-á-kú, id. sih-nà<sup>n</sup> teh-niû<sup>n</sup> teh-niû<sup>n</sup>, distant lightning glancing.

niû<sup>n</sup> (= n<sup>n</sup>, lln). lē-niû<sup>n</sup>-hit, to shake from side to side; to oscillate. lē-niû<sup>n</sup>-hi<sup>n</sup>, id.

niû<sup>n</sup> (cf. ih<sup>n</sup>). niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-khoa<sup>n</sup>, to gaze intently for a long time; to look long and earnestly, as for some one coming. niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of children crying long. niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-khàu, constant crying. bák-sái niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-láu, weeping profusely.

niû<sup>n</sup> (R. ní<sup>n</sup>), an enclitic particle, used esp. in comparisons and interrogations. m-tsai-niû<sup>n</sup>, I don't know. sim-mih<sup>n</sup>--niû<sup>n</sup>, what is the matter? ná<sup>n</sup>-hī-niû<sup>n</sup>, like a fish. ná<sup>n</sup>-pe--niû<sup>n</sup>, as if flying.

niû<sup>n</sup> (T.) chháu-niû<sup>n</sup>, = A. chháu-meh<sup>n</sup>, a grass-hopper.

niû<sup>n</sup> (cf. nih<sup>n</sup>, ní<sup>n</sup>), a particle with a very slight meaning. mih<sup>n</sup> niû<sup>n</sup>-hó: kè, niû<sup>n</sup> pan-gí, the articles are good and the price low.

niû<sup>n</sup> [R. lí, inside; in], (Cn. nng̃h), in; on; usually enclitic. lē--niû<sup>n</sup>, on the road. kha--niû<sup>n</sup>, on the foot. hái--niû<sup>n</sup>, in the sea. tí-hái--niû<sup>n</sup>, id. chhoe--niû<sup>n</sup>, in the first ten days of a month. jih--niû<sup>n</sup>, within the days from the 20th to end of month.

chit-niû<sup>n</sup>, here; this place. hit-niû<sup>n</sup>, there; that place.

kun-niû<sup>n</sup>, yet after all it is just the same (v. kun).

niû<sup>n</sup> [R. lék, a bridle; to force; to strangle; = col. n<sup>n</sup>, lnh], (C. tē<sup>n</sup>), to grasp or squeeze in the hand; to knead between the fingers; to take up a small thing with the fingers downwards. niû<sup>n</sup>-oá, to squeeze in the hand. niû<sup>n</sup>--khi-lái, to take up in the hand with fingers down. niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup> tām-pòh, to take some secret unjust gains in a transaction. niû<sup>n</sup>-phoá, to break by squeezing. niû<sup>n</sup>--sí, to strangle with the fingers or hand. niû<sup>n</sup> âm-kún, to seize by the neck.

hân-soan-kheh, niû<sup>n</sup> kia<sup>n</sup>-sí, pàng kia<sup>n</sup>-pe, said of a man afraid to say either yes or no (lit. afraid the bird will die if he hold it, or fly away if let go).

niû<sup>n</sup> — niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup> lèh-lèh, sound of rattling or shaking things together.

niû<sup>n</sup> (C., esp. P.), in all the tones, = A. niu<sup>n</sup>.

niû<sup>n</sup> (cf. liu, "small"), a man's name. niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, very small in quantity. sòe-niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, very small, as a thing. thêh chit-ê niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-á, to take a very small quantity. tsûn-á-niû<sup>n</sup> (C.), a very small boat.

niû<sup>n</sup> [R. liàng, lady; mother; woman; title of some goddesses]. tsu-niû<sup>n</sup>, a woman. tsu-niû<sup>n</sup>-lâng, id. kē-niû<sup>n</sup>, an unmarried lady, esp. mandarin's daughter; some ladies are worshipped by this title; said by slaves to their masters' daughters. sin-niû<sup>n</sup>, a bride. sien-si<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, a teacher's wife. thâu-ke-niû<sup>n</sup>, wife of the head of a firm. koa<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, affix to name of a woman's husband to designate her; said by slave or beggar (v. koa<sup>n</sup>).

niû<sup>n</sup>-pê, father. niû<sup>n</sup>-lôe (r.), mother. niû<sup>n</sup>-lé (C.), mother. in-tia-niû<sup>n</sup>, his parents.

niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, title of empress. thien-hē-niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, empress of heaven, title of má-tsé-pó. má-tsé-niû<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. tsù-si<sup>n</sup> niû<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of child-birth. chhit-niû<sup>n</sup>-má, the goddess of the Pleiades (v. chhit). thài-im-niû<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of the moon. gèh-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. súi kàu-ná<sup>n</sup>-gèh-niû<sup>n</sup>, as beautiful as that goddess.

niû<sup>n</sup>-á, mistress of a slave (s. silkworm). án-niû<sup>n</sup>, said by slaves to their master's mother; said also by a son to his mother. lín-niû<sup>n</sup>, your master's mother (said to a slave girl). in-niû<sup>n</sup>, her master's mother. in tsú-lâng-niû<sup>n</sup>, said of a slave's mistress. lāu-niû<sup>n</sup>, grandmother or mother of slave girl's master or mistress.

âng-niû<sup>n</sup>, a small red fish.

niû<sup>n</sup> [R. liàng, liông, provisions; land-tax; soldier's pay]. chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, land-tax. niû<sup>n</sup>-chhe, collectors of land-tax. chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-chhe, id. niû<sup>n</sup>-tô, the commissioner (at provincial capital) who disburses the money for the pay of the imperial forces. chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-kék, company of land-tax collectors for a sub-district; their office. chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>-hū, a receipt for land tax. siu chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, to collect the land-tax. khòng-niû<sup>n</sup>, to refuse to pay the land-tax. khiàm-koa<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, to be in arrears for land-tax. oân-niû<sup>n</sup>, to pay land-tax. oân-chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. pí chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, to flog (or threaten it) for non-payment of land-tax. chiáh-niû<sup>n</sup>, to be a soldier. chiáh chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. soà<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, to pay soldiers. soà<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. chhut-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. chhut chi<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. sí-niû<sup>n</sup>, to leave the army, as a soldier selling out. kek-niû<sup>n</sup>, to expel a soldier. khai-niû<sup>n</sup>, id. khek-liám kun-niû<sup>n</sup>, to embezzle soldier's pay, as by paying only a part. kháu-niû<sup>n</sup>, soldier's daily pay.

bí-niû<sup>n</sup>, provisions. niû<sup>n</sup>-chháu, provisions: provender. tsai-niû<sup>n</sup>, vegetables and condiments used by Buddhist priests and vegetarians. ûn-niû<sup>n</sup>, to transport provisions for an army. ûn-niû<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, an officer of the commissariat. bê hêng-kun, seng hêng-niû<sup>n</sup>, count the cost before engaging in an affair (= send provisions before the army).

niû<sup>n</sup> — sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-niû<sup>n</sup> thiá<sup>n</sup>, the heart deeply pained, as a mother when punishing her child severely, or as a man having broken some very valuable thing, or having lost heavily in gambling.

niû<sup>n</sup> (R. liông), a great beam or ridge-pole in a house;

老

柔娘

曉

粮

呢

裡

勒

良樑

a surname. tióng-niú<sup>n</sup>, the ridge-pole. thóng-niú<sup>n</sup>, the great horizontal beam of a couple for a gable-roof; the great beams which support the rafters of a floor or flat roof. chiú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to set up the ridge-pole with ceremonies. niú<sup>n</sup>-thiáu, a pillar built to support a great beam, with a hole in it for the beam. niú<sup>n</sup>, thiáu, great beams and pillars.

phī<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, the ridge of the nose. só-niú<sup>n</sup>, the straight pin of a Chinese padlock, which goes through the staple.

niú<sup>n</sup> (= niú<sup>n</sup>). oan-ke niú<sup>n</sup>-chè, to have a violent feud (v. niú<sup>n</sup>).

niú<sup>n</sup> [R. lióng, a measure; to measure, = col. lióng, niú<sup>n</sup>], to measure, either length or capacity. niú<sup>n</sup>-chng, cubical mensuration. niú<sup>n</sup>-bí, to measure rice. niú<sup>n</sup> tsòe-chió, to measure quantity. niú<sup>n</sup>-tng-té, to measure length. niú<sup>n</sup>-tng, to measure how many "tng" of ten feet each. eng-kha niú<sup>n</sup>-khoa<sup>n</sup>, measure by paces.

su-niú<sup>n</sup>, to consult together. chit-lâng tsú-tiu<sup>n</sup>, m-tát nng-lâng su-niú<sup>n</sup>, two consulting is better than one deciding.

niú<sup>n</sup> [R. liáng, cool]. niú<sup>n</sup>-soà<sup>n</sup>, a state umbrella, carried before mandarins or idols (v. soà<sup>n</sup>).

niú<sup>n</sup> — niú<sup>n</sup>-á, the silkworm (s. lady). niú<sup>n</sup>-á-hiòh, mulberry leaves. niú<sup>n</sup>-á-si, silk, as spun by silkworms.

niú<sup>n</sup> [R. lióng, two; a pair; a tael; = col. nng, léng, ní<sup>n</sup>], a tael; about an ounce and a third, = ten "chí<sup>n</sup>," it is one-sixteenth of a "kun;" a tael of silver is about 6s. 8d. kun-niú<sup>n</sup>, catties and taels. niú<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, the denomination of taels. nng-niú<sup>n</sup>, counting the tael a very little lighter. ngī<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, allowing no discount or allowance at all.

niú<sup>n</sup> — bò-niú<sup>n</sup>-siú<sup>n</sup>, much smaller than was expected; shrinking very much, as vegetables, &c., when cooked (v. siú<sup>n</sup>).

niú<sup>n</sup> (= niú<sup>n</sup>). oan-ke niú<sup>n</sup>-chè, to have a violent quarrel or feud. oan-ke niú<sup>n</sup>-toā-chè (C.), id.

niú<sup>n</sup> [R. lióng, to measure, = col. niú<sup>n</sup>, &c.], a large steelyard for heavy weights (but "chhin" is a smaller steelyard); to weigh with it. niú<sup>n</sup>-tò, its weight. niú<sup>n</sup>-kau, its hook.

niú<sup>n</sup> (R. jiōng), to yield; to give way; to give place. sa<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to yield or give place to another, or to one another. niú<sup>n</sup>-üi, to abdicate the throne; to give place politely to each other. niú<sup>n</sup>--i, to give place, or yield situation, &c., to him. thè-khui niú<sup>n</sup>--i, to get out of the way, so as to avoid disputing with him. niú<sup>n</sup>-lí seng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, I will let you walk first. niú<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to relax one's attack a little, as in striking, or in entering an accusation. chit-niú<sup>n</sup>, chit-ü-phā, if you yield a little he will be all the more exacting.

niú<sup>n</sup> — tsòe-gī-niú<sup>n</sup>, to make things for amusement, or just to pass the time. tsòe-gē-niú<sup>n</sup>, id. bò-gī-niú<sup>n</sup>, without any work whatever to do, however slight; so idle as to take to games.

nng (cf. long, nng), (C. nui<sup>n</sup>), to shove endwise into a hole, as some long thing; to creep in, as into a hole. nng-khang, to creep into a hole, as insect. nng-jip-khi, to shove a long thing into a hole, e.g. a billet of wood into the mouth of a stove, or as one's arm or leg into coat, trousers, or boots. nng hit-tsàu-khang, to put (a long bit of wood) into the mouth of the stove; to creep into it, as rat or cat.

nng [R. lóng, a young gentleman, &c.] sī-nng, the vice-president of a Supreme Board. gū-nng, a star worshipped on 7.7 along with "chit-lú;" these are two stars in a diamond-shaped group of four.

nng — tsū-nng, a wood which dyes reddish brown; also used medicinally.

nng [R. lóng, a sort of palm]. pin-nng, the areca palm; the betel-nut (a Malay word). pin-nng-sū, Penang island; said also of a small rocky island shaped like a betel-nut.

nng — bah-nng, the fat mixed among the lean of meat. bah-nng-iú, the fat mixed with the lean of pork, just below the skin. ji-nng-iú, id. ji-nng, the thin layer of fat between the skin and the flesh, esp. of the pig (s. next word). ji-nng-bah, this layer of fat with a little lean in it. hām-ji-nng, a swelling on the abdomen (supposed only skin deep, while "kè-tiòng" is very serious).

nng, the soft inside, as of a pumelo-skin or of bamboo. tin-nng, the softer inside part of rattan. bih-nng, the softer inside layer of the bamboo (but not the innermost), used for wicker-work, but much inferior to the "phè" or outside. nng--ê, made of this softer part. iū-ji-nng, the soft white lining between the lobes and skin of a pumelo. ji-nng, id. (s. previous word).

nng [R. lién, united; connected], to stitch very loosely together, just sufficiently to hold together and in place till sewed more firmly (esp. Cn.)

nng [R. toán, a globular mass; united; complete, = col. toá<sup>n</sup>, thng], (C. nui<sup>n</sup>, ní<sup>n</sup>). ka-nng, complete; entire; undivided. kui-nng, id. ka-nng-tiáu, one whole long piece, e.g. of cloth. ka-nng-siu<sup>n</sup>, a whole boxful. ka-nng-tè, one lump or mass. kiet ka-nng-tè, to coagulate or form into one lump or mass.

nng (T.) jiú-nng, = jiú-ng, sulphur.

nng (R. joán, loán), (C. nui<sup>n</sup>), soft; tender; delicate; yielding; merciful; flexible; weak; weary. ngī<sup>n</sup>-nng, hard and soft, &c. (v. ngī<sup>n</sup>). nng--lòh-khi, to sink, as an ill-made foundation. hiòh nng--khi, leaves drooping, as in drought.

nng-pè, the afternoon drawing towards sunset. jit khab-nng, the sun less powerful, as in afternoon, or late in year, or clouded.

nng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, delicated; feeble; weak as to power or influence. nng-lün, soft and delicate, as fur, or silk, or hand (v. lün). nng-jün, soft and delicate, as cakes. nng-liòh, elegant; delicate, as hand (v. liòh). nng-áu, soft and unpleasant, as a dress that has lost its starch; drooping, as leaves in drought. nng-sè, weak, as wicker-work or thin boards. nng sim-sim, weak and elastic, as boards of floor or bed; elastic, as iron wire. nng sē-sē, soft and watery, as dough.

nng chi-chi, soft and tenacious, as a cake; weak, as a child that cannot stand though old enough. nng-kê-kê, very soft, as dough; very weak and delicate, as child difficult to bring up or that cannot stand for weakness. sin-miá<sup>n</sup> nng-kê-kê, of delicate constitution, as man. nng-kò-kò, very soft, as dough. nng ô-ô, id. nng-khiuh-khiuh, id. nng-kiuh-kiuh, id. nng-kiuh-kiuh, id. nng-chiuh-chiuh, id. nng-kauh-kauh, very weak in constitution; too soft and unpleasant to eat, as eatable. nng-kauh-kauh, id. nng hāi-hāi, very weary and sleepy so as to be nodding; too soft and useless, as man; too soft, as dress that has lost its starch. nng nāi<sup>n</sup>-nāi<sup>n</sup> (T.), drooping, as leaves.

賴量

凉蜂虫雨

賴量讓

倆

郎

榔

連團

軟

nng-lâng, a man who belongs to a weak clan or family. khah-nng-pâng, a weak (or weaker) branch of a family. nng-sim, compassionate; merciful; readily granting a favour or request, or assisting the miserable. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> nng ná<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup>, very compassionate or merciful (lit. soft as cotton). nng-gê, to come down in one's talk after being very determined and violent. khah-nng-chhùi, more willing to come to a settlement. khah-nng-lê, easy and pleasant to deal with in a business. lôh-nng, to come nearer the terms of the other party. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-pàng-khah-nng, let down your terms a little, as in a dispute. nng-niú<sup>n</sup>, giving a very small discount by counting the tael somewhat lighter. nng-gún, id.

sng-nng, weak and worn out; in a state of lassitude; all weary and aching. sng-nng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, id. nng-sng-khok, doing business very slowly. ún-á kap-i nng-sng-khok, id., e.g. gradually offering more for a thing, or making cautious and prudent advances to a man in some delicate and doubtful or dangerous matter. kha sng, chhiú nng, limbs weak and sore with sickness, or hunger, or weariness. kha nng, chhiú nng, id., or as from fear or sad news. chhiú pàng-nng, to relax the muscles of the arm. nng-kha, having weak legs, as congenital or from long sickness. chím kàu-nng-kha, to stand or work in water till one's legs are weak. kiá<sup>n</sup> kàu-nng-kha, terribly afraid, as at imminent danger, or in order to keep out of danger. nng-kut, gristle; impotent in legs, so as not to be able to walk. nng-khám, the soft part of the side, between the thigh and the ribs.

pú-nng, fat and plump (v. pú). tiú-nng, soft silks. nng-tsoe, soft dough. ji-úih nng, the written character too slim in form.

nng (cf. nng), (C. nui<sup>n</sup>), to creep or rush in or out. nng-khi, to creep or rush through or into. nng-kè-khi, to creep or rush through. nng-tsáu, to creep through and escape when just almost caught, as through a crowd or a secret passage. nng-hé, to rush through a fire, as house on fire. nng-hé-tsáu, to rush through the fire and escape. nng-hé-phāng-tsáu, id. nng-hé-khê, to rush through a circle of fire, as at a theatrical play.

nng-tshg, skilful at scheming for making money, &c. (v. tshg). nng-chí<sup>n</sup>-khang, id. gáu-nng-khang, id.

nng (mere reduplication). khng-nng, to hide; to lay past.

nng (mere reduplication), (C. nui<sup>n</sup>). khng-nng, to exhort much (C. khui<sup>n</sup>-nui<sup>n</sup>).

nng (R. loán, tǎn), (C. nui<sup>n</sup>), an egg; spawn. chióh-nng, a stone rounded by water. kha-áu-nng, the under part of the heel. chhiú-áu-nng, the elbow. bé-nng, a preparation of dough, eggs, &c.

si<sup>n</sup>-nng, to lay eggs, as fowls or other birds. chhoah-nng, to lay great quantities of eggs at once, as butterflies. pàng-nng, id. sáh-nng, to boil an egg. sa<sup>n</sup>-liáp-nng, three eggs.

hí-nng, fish spawn or roe. pih-nng, tortoise's eggs. kap-nng, pigeons' eggs (&c.) nng-toa<sup>n</sup>, embryo egg in ovary. nng-nng, a large egg about ready to be laid, but with the shell still soft. chhiú-bú-nng, the first egg laid by a fowl; when a boy goes first to school the teacher makes him roll it before Khoe-seng; if it roll straight he is to be clever.

koe-nng, a hen's egg (C. ke-nui<sup>n</sup>). koe-nng-chheng, white of hen's egg. koe-nng-jín, yolk of

do. (v. jín). koe-nng-ko, sponge-cake. koe-nng-bin, a well-formed, healthy, plump face, neither too round nor too long. koe-nng bát-bát, to ū-phāng, the closest affair has some hole in it. ah-nng, a duck's egg. ah-nng-chheng, the white of a duck's egg. ah-nng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, very light pale-blue. poáh ah-nng, to play a game with painted duck-eggs. hip ah-nng, to hatch duck-eggs by artificial heat in husks of grain.

nng [R. lóng, two; a tael; = col. niú<sup>n</sup>, léng, ní<sup>n</sup>], (C. nē<sup>n</sup>), two (but never "second"). nng-iú<sup>n</sup>, two sorts; different. sa<sup>n</sup>-sim nng-i, purpose unstable. nng-sa<sup>n</sup>, two or three; about three. sa<sup>n</sup>-nng, about two. nng-pah, two hundred. chit-pah khong-nng, a hundred and two (but 120 is "pah-ji").

nng (R. lóng). pho-nng, waves. tiám-hoang chí<sup>n</sup>-nng (T.), winds and waves still.

nng (Cn.), = A. nih<sup>n</sup>, in (a place), (usually enclitic).

nō<sup>n</sup> [R. ló, old, = col. láu, lāu, &c.] ke-nō<sup>n</sup>, a solitary old man who gets a ticket from the district mandarin allowing him to beg for money, not subject to the head of the beggars. kip ke-nō<sup>n</sup>-pái, to give this ticket. ke-nō<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, an old men's asylum. ke-nō<sup>n</sup>-sū (Cn.), id.

nō<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. nng, two.

nō<sup>n</sup> (R. id.) nē<sup>n</sup>-nē<sup>n</sup>, without spirit or energy; taking things too easy; letting things take their course. nē<sup>n</sup>-jiók, spiritless; without energy.

noá<sup>n</sup> (R. lân, = col. â<sup>n</sup>), to hinder; to keep off. noá<sup>n</sup>-chí, to prevent; to hinder. noá<sup>n</sup>-tsé, to hinder or prevent something just about to be done. noá<sup>n</sup>-khui, to separate, as combatants. noá<sup>n</sup>-tsáh, to hinder by stretching out our hands, as in separating combatants. noá<sup>n</sup>-lê, to stop the road. noá<sup>n</sup>-kiō, to lay hold of a mandarin's chair in order to hand in a petition.

iám-sún-noá<sup>n</sup>, sort of salt excisemen.

noá<sup>n</sup> (R. lân), a fold, pen, or inclosure for animals, usually with no roof, but not always. chí<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, a well-curb. gú-noá<sup>n</sup>, a fold for cattle; a cow-pen. iú<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, a fold or barrier for sheep or goats. bé-noá<sup>n</sup>, a stall or inclosure for horse, with or without a roof.

noá<sup>n</sup> — liáh-tiong-noá<sup>n</sup>, to split the difference, as in a quarrel or bargain.

noá<sup>n</sup>, to knead and work up, as dough, &c.; to press with the hands in kneading; to roll with the hands, as tea-leaves. noá<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to knead and squeeze down clothes in washing. noá<sup>n</sup> kiám-chhài, to press out the juice from salted mustard leaves before putting them into jars. noá<sup>n</sup>-ké, to knead and roll dough in making cakes. noá<sup>n</sup>-mí<sup>n</sup>, to knead wheaten dough. noá<sup>n</sup>-chhòe, to knead rice-dough.

phah-noá<sup>n</sup>, to handle too roughly so as to crumple or damage, as some fragile thing. khah-ū phah-noá<sup>n</sup>, having a good deal of wear in it, as strongly made dress or furniture. bōe-kham--tit phah-noá<sup>n</sup>, cannot bear to be moved about much, as a sick man.

noá<sup>n</sup> — poá<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, to hold friendly intercourse, as in business or friendship. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap poá<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup> put-chí-kú, long intimate.

noá<sup>n</sup> [R. lán, lazy; idle, = col. noá<sup>n</sup>]. noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, lazy, careless, or negligent at work; doing work in a perfunctory, idle, or untradesman-like way; utterly without energy, as opium-smoker. noá<sup>n</sup>-

兩

浪

老

懦

攔

欄

攪

懶

串

蛋卵

chhoá, id. noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup> chiū-kè--khi, quite forgetful of the matter, from not having given attention at the time.

noà<sup>n</sup>, to writhe and struggle to get free; to roll about on the floor in play or pain, as child or dog. tó-teh-noà<sup>n</sup>, rolling on the ground so.

noā<sup>n</sup> (R. lán), rotten; putrid; boiled very soft and tender; lazy, useless, or easy-tempered. noā<sup>n</sup>-tsoā<sup>n</sup>, very cheap; very abundant (v. tsoā<sup>n</sup>).

phoà-noā<sup>n</sup>, all torn and ragged, as dress (s. urgent). chhēng phoà-noā<sup>n</sup>, to wear very ragged things.

noā<sup>n</sup>-léh, too soft, as doughy cakes, &c. noā<sup>n</sup> kē-kē, very soft, as cooked food; soaked all through, as by rain. tsú-noā<sup>n</sup>, to boil soft; to boil to rags. kún-noā<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhàu-noā<sup>n</sup>, putrid. chhàu-thâu noā<sup>n</sup>-hī, face covered with boils and eruptions. hiú-noā<sup>n</sup>, rotten. noā<sup>n</sup> hiú-hiú, very soft or rotten. noā<sup>n</sup>-noā<sup>n</sup> lok-lok, full of rotten sores, as a sore leg. noā<sup>n</sup>-bák, eyes with sores on the eyelids or just below the eyes. kha-bák noā<sup>n</sup>, a disease of the ankles of girls when the feet are being compressed. noā<sup>n</sup>-sién, soft scurf; ring-worm. noā<sup>n</sup>-sim, having the heart decayed, as a vegetable; also (Cn.), a tree somewhat like an ash, with light pinnate leaves and trunk that easily decays.

lám-noā<sup>n</sup>, slovenly, esp. in dress or person. noā<sup>n</sup>-sèng, very easy-minded; taking things too easy, e.g. neglecting duty or passing over injuries. lāng noā<sup>n</sup>-noā<sup>n</sup>, lazy useless man, with no energy. noā<sup>n</sup>-thê, soft mud (said of a soft, gentle, submissive temper). noā<sup>n</sup>-thê bō-chhi, said of a gentle easy man, who receives injuries without resistance.

chiáh--i bōe-noā<sup>n</sup>, I have not strength or ability for his work; often includes the idea that he is too hard a master.

noā<sup>n</sup> [R. lán, idle; lazy]. noā<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, = noá<sup>n</sup>-chhoá<sup>n</sup>, negligent; lazy; perfunctory, &c.

noā<sup>n</sup> [R. liēn, a young fowl], (Cn. loā). koe-noā<sup>n</sup>, a young fowl that has not yet hatched chickens.

noā<sup>n</sup> [R. lāi, to lean upon; to sorn; to accuse falsely, = col. loā]. mi<sup>n</sup>-noā<sup>n</sup>, very urgent and importunate in beseeching (v. mi<sup>n</sup>). phoà-noā<sup>n</sup>, shamelessly urgent, as beggar who won't go without getting money (s. rotten). chhāi-phoà-noā<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. chhāi). sái-phoà-noā<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. sái-phoà-noā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

noā<sup>n</sup>, saliva; spittle. pēh-phēh-noā<sup>n</sup>, white saliva at the mouth, as in disease. thām-noā<sup>n</sup>, phlegm. kàu-phī<sup>n</sup>-thām-noā<sup>n</sup>, quantities of mucus flowing from the nose. phī<sup>n</sup>-thām-noā<sup>n</sup> oā<sup>n</sup> iū-hé-hun, said of a man who is always getting little benefits from us (as a meal or a smoke) and making no return. phui-noā<sup>n</sup>, to spit (v. phui). thun-noā<sup>n</sup>, to swallow one's saliva. kut-lát chiáh-lát: pin-toā<sup>n</sup> thun-noā<sup>n</sup>, the active lives by his exertion, the idle has only his saliva to swallow. khoà<sup>n</sup>-lāng-chiáh kàu-thun-noā<sup>n</sup>, mouth watering at seeing others eating. ài-chiáh kàu-láu-noā<sup>n</sup>, mouth watering for food. ài-chiáh kàu-tih-noā<sup>n</sup>, id. láu-noā<sup>n</sup>, saliva running from the mouth.

noā<sup>n</sup> (T.) chhi<sup>n</sup>-noā<sup>n</sup>, = A. chhi<sup>n</sup>-loā, a large green caterpillar.

nui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. nng, to creep through.

nūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) nūi<sup>n</sup>-chi, = A. nāi-chi, the fruit called li-chi or lai-chi.

nūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. liēn. nūi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, the water-lily. tsúi-nūi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, a small white sort, used medicinally.

núi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. nng, soft. nūi<sup>n</sup>-bú, walking like a woman (said in scolding).

nùi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. nng, to creep through.

nùi<sup>n</sup> (mere reduplication). khùi<sup>n</sup>-nùi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. khng-nng, to exhort much.

nūi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. nng, an egg.

nūi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. iū, a pumelo. nūi<sup>n</sup>-á, id.

NG.

In the words which consist of ng alone (in the several tones) there is an indistinct vowel sound heard in the nasal consonant, neither before nor after it.

The words that have ng as their initial are often interchanged with those having initial g (q.v.)

ng (R. iong) tióng-ng, middle (v. tióng).

ng (= ngh). ng-ng-kiò, to whine, as a child. ng-ng-háu, id.

ng (R. iong), (Tt. ø), young rice plants, raised in a seed-bed to be planted out. ng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a seed-bed for young rice. ng-chioh (Cn.), id. iā-ng, to sow rice in the seed-bed. tsai-ng, to plant out the young rice.

ng (C. ut<sup>n</sup>), to cover up, as with the hand, or with a cloth; to hide by covering up; to cover up an affair, that it may not be known.

ng pak-té, to hold one's belly, as when in great pain.

ng-lap, to hide a thing behind our back or about our dress. ng-bin, to cover up the face. ng-chhūi, to cover the mouth. ng-hī, to stop one's ears so as not to hear. ng hī-khang, id. ng phī<sup>n</sup>-khang, to cover or close the nostrils. ng bák-chiu, to cover the eyes.

ng (R. hông), (C. ūi<sup>n</sup>), yellow; a surname. ng-sek, yellow. kim-ng, a rich golden yellow. tâng-ng, id. kiu<sup>n</sup>-ng, dark yellow with a tinge of brown; turmeric. tín-ng, gamboge. khín-ng, light yellow. bit-ng, honey-coloured; a bright light yellow. ng-hoá<sup>n</sup>-hoá<sup>n</sup>, yellowish. tām-ng, yellowish. ng-phā-phā, yellow, as fruit. ng-gām-gām, very yellow. ng-phih-phih, yellow, as face. ng-gīm-gīm (T.), very yellow.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-ng, pale, as face in disease (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). ng-sng, yellow and emaciated; having a sickly look (v. sng). ng-sán, yellow and wasted. ng--lòh-khi, to grow yellow and sickly. khiā-ng, to have its leaves yellow and withered, as a plant in drought, or when just transplanted. chit-jit soá-tsai, sa<sup>n</sup>-jit khiā-ng, it takes three days before a plant loses its withered look after being transplanted; a man who moves into a new place is not at first very comfortable or successful.

ng-ki<sup>n</sup>, a yellow dye. ng-si, a wood very good for oars. ng-gū, the common cow or ox. ng-phang, the honey-bee. kē-ng-chiáu, the great owl. kē-ng (Cn. kē-m), id. ng-koe-hi, = âng-koe-hi, a good sort of fish.

爛

懶

秧

健 賴

黃

ng-png, an imperial proclamation. ng-kim, gold; yellow gold. ng-kim-tsoá, yellow paper. ng-sê-tsúi, thin matter from a wound.

ng (R. hông), (C. úi<sup>n</sup>). ng-chéng, jaundice. hám-ng, id. ng-thán, a disease of children (v. thán).

ng, = óe; answer to a call; yes, sir!

ng (R. hông), (C. húi<sup>n</sup>). liú-ng, sulphur. jiú-ng, id., = hông.

ng [R. óng, a king]. tsòe-lâng-ng, to act imperiously towards others, as an older child towards the younger. lêng-ng, = lèng-óng, the god of the sea.

giám-lò-ng (Cn.), = A. giám-lò-óng, the judge of the dead; the god of Hades. kòh-sèng-ng (Cn.), = A. keh-sèng-óng (v. keh).

ng [R. oán, crooked, bent], (C. úi<sup>n</sup>). lôe-ng (C. lê-úí<sup>n</sup>), the crooked body of a plough.

ng [R. éng, a shadow; = col. iá<sup>n</sup>], the shade; shade from heat; a shadow, esp. a steady deep shadow, as of a house, hill, or tree.

im-ng, the shade. hioh-ng, to rest in the shade. tiám-ng, to keep in the shade.

lâng-ng, a man's shadow or reflection in the water. chhiú-ng, the shade of a tree. chiò-ji-ng, to cast the shadow of a character on a rock so that its shape may be traced on it (v. chiò). hé-ng, the parts which the lamp's light does not reach; the places that are in shade from the lamp. soeh hé-ng, to creep along stealthily in the places that lie in shade from the lamp. png i--ê hê-soá<sup>n</sup>-ng (rely on the shade of his umbrella), to take advantage of a man's travelling to get cheaper, more easily, or more safely, &c. png lêng niú<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>-ng (of his state parasol), to depend on a man's influence to get our affair set right.

ng (C. úi<sup>n</sup>). ng-á, a small basket used for selling or weighing things.

ng (C. úi<sup>n</sup>). káu-ng, a very low sort of pawnshop where they lend 90 cash, counting them as 100, and take very heavy usury; they often receive stolen goods. káu-ng-á, id. káu-ng-á-tiám, id. goá-tng poeh-ng, I am so poor that the lowest pawnshops (káu-ng) will not take my things; if I have to pay I must pawn at a lower pawnshop than exists.

ng (C. úi<sup>n</sup>), a sleeve. chhiú-ng, id. pih chhiú-ng, to turn up the sleeves. chhiú-ng-tóe, in the inside of the sleeve. chhiú-ng-kui, the inside of the sleeve where things can be carried secretly. chhiú-ng-sok, an outer sleeve, serving as a cover to the sleeve.

bé-tòe-ng, cuffs made in the form of a horse's hoof for ceremonial dress. khoah-ng, wide sleeves. khoah-ng-sa<sup>n</sup>, a dress with wide sleeves. óeh-ng-sa<sup>n</sup>, dress made with narrow sleeves, esp. worn by women.

ng-kháu, end of sleeve; cuffs. ng-siú, women's cuffs. ng-thò, outer sleeve, used as a cover for the sleeve.

chhah-ng, to put in a triangular piece in the inside of a sleeve in making a dress. chiap-ng, to join a piece to make a sleeve long enough. chiap ng-kháu, id. chiap ng-bé, id.

ng (C. úi<sup>n</sup>), to take things under the arm.

ng (R. goán), (C. úi<sup>n</sup>), a surname.

ng, = án, prefix to some names of relations when addressing them. ng-né, mother! ng-má, grandmother! ng-kò, paternal aunt!

ng (R. hòng), to face towards; to look towards; to have a desire towards; to expect; to watch or tend, as animals.

sa<sup>n</sup>-ng, facing each other. sim sa<sup>n</sup>-ng, sympathizing with each other.

ng-bāng, to hope for; to expect. bô-ng, having none to look to, as parents whose sons are all dead or have gone wrong; no hope of reforming, returning, or again prospering.

ng-tng, self-willed, obstinate, and idle, as child or young person who will not do what is ordered. ng-tng, id.

ng-gú, to tend cows when at grass. ng-iú<sup>n</sup>, to watch and tend sheep or goats, as shepherd.

ng-thi<sup>n</sup>, looking towards heaven. ng-hia khi, go in that direction. ng-téng, facing upwards. ng-chiú<sup>n</sup>, id. ng-ê, facing downwards. ng-chéng, facing forwards. ng-áu, facing backwards. ng-pak, facing north, &c. chē-pak ng-lâm, having its back to the north and facing south, as a house (v. lâm).

ng [R. ün, obscure; a halo], (C. üi<sup>n</sup>), dim, as eyes from long looking, or from glare of sun, or when just risen from sleep, or from leaning on the hand, sometimes seeing motes dancing.

géh ng-ng, the moon dim, not bright.

ien-ng, eyes dim, so as to see quite indistinctly, as from long looking; or from long writing, esp. by lamp-light; or in weak health; or when but half awake; or from being dazzled. bák-chiu ien-ng, id. bák-chiu ng, id. bák-chiu ng-ng, id. bák-chiu-thâu ien-ng, said of some very urgent matter in which we cannot bear delay, esp. being terribly short of money and quite unable to get any. khoá<sup>n</sup> kàu ien-ng, to look till our eyes are dim.

nggh (= ng). ngh-nggh-háu, to whine. ngh-nggh-kiò, id.

ngá (R. id.), (C. ngé), elegant, as a literary composition. bún-ngá, literary; polite; elegant. put-ngá (r.), unpolite.

ngá (Cn.), = A. á, suffix of many nouns; also, enclitic suffix in names of boys.

pē-ngá, = A. pē-kiá<sup>n</sup>, father and son. to-ngá, a son. to-ngá, a knife. tsa-bé-ngá, a daughter.

hoan-ngá, a foreigner.

hoan-ngá, the boy called "hoan."

ngái<sup>n</sup> — gí-ngái<sup>n</sup>, to doubt; to feel suspicion.

ngái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. géng, to grind.

ngái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. géng. gēng-ngái<sup>n</sup>, the dragon's-eye or lung-yen fruit.

ngái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. gāi, impediment, &c.

ngām, = gām. ngām-á-hí, a small fish.

ngáu (R. id.), one of the eight diagrams. liók-ngáu, id.

ngáu (R. gó), to stew or boil to a jelly. ngáu-ko, to make (medicines or preserves) into a jelly. ngáu ióh-ko, make a medicinal jelly. ngáu-ka, to manufacture glue or gelatine. ngáu-kut, to boil bones to a jelly. ngáu-iú, to melt fat slowly in order to purify it.

ngáu<sup>n</sup> (T.), = gáu. bô-ngáu<sup>n</sup>-kún, no joke; quite a serious matter.

ngáu — ngáu-ngáu-pui, barking away, as a dog.

ngāu (= ngáuh). ngāu-ngāu-háu, grumbling secretly in a low tone of voice.

ngáu [R. id., by change of tone from "lòk," to rejoice], (Cn.), = gáu, fond of —, to delight in —, as pleasure, good or bad. ngáu sio-chiú, fond of spirits.

ngáu [R. ngó]. liên-ngáu, water-lily roots.

廣
碩

彎
影

筮

暈

雅

爨

啜

樂
藕

阮
向

ngāu-tsai, id., sliced and prepared with honey. ngāu-hūn, powder made from water-lily roots; said also of arrow-root.

ngauh, to catch in the mouth, as a dog does.

耦

ngauh [R. ngó, a pair]. chit-ngauh, a pair in lasciviousness. chit-ngauh-hāu (lit. a pair of king-crabs), said of unnatural lust.

ngauh (cf. ngāu). ngauh-ngauh-háu, to grumble; to show dissatisfaction by indistinct words when afraid to speak out. ngauh-ngauh-kiò, id. ngauh-ngauh-liām, id. toà-teh-ngauh, standing grumbling so.

ngauh — lòh-ngauh, to agree well together, as relatives, or as men working together.

ngauh<sup>n</sup> — tāng-ngauh<sup>n</sup>, a sort of frog that makes a very loud noise.

ngē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ngá, elegant; polite.

ngē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ngi<sup>n</sup>, hard; stiff.

夾

ngēh, = ngoeh (R. kiap), (C. T. only ngeh; Cn. ngōeh), to take up with pincers or chopsticks, &c. ngēh-á, = ngoeh-á, pincers; tongs; splints for setting a fracture. tiah-ngēh (esp. T.), nippers; pincers. bák-bái-bé ngēh hē-sin, the wrinkles at the outer corner of his eyes could catch flies (said of a wrinkled old man).

ngēh (C.), = A. ngoeh, pods of peas, beans, &c.

挾

ngēh, = ngoeh (R. hiáp), (C. ngēh; Cn. ngōeh), to carry under the arm; to catch with toes, or between the knuckles, &c. ngēh-khi-tiáu, take it firmly (in that way). chím-kóng-ngēh, surrounding an army or troop by two bodies of soldiers, like crab's claws.

ngēh — ngēh-ngēh-háu, to whine. ngēh-ngēh-kiò, id.

硬

ngi<sup>n</sup> (R. gēng, kēng), (C. ngē<sup>n</sup>), hard; stiff; daring; determined not to yield a jot; strong, as wind.

ngi<sup>n</sup>-núg, hard and soft; firm and yielding. poà<sup>n</sup>-ngi<sup>n</sup>-núg, at due medium between too much firmness and too much yielding. chiáh-ngi<sup>n</sup>, bó chiáh-núg, quite determined not to yield in the least.

ngi<sup>n</sup> tú-ngi<sup>n</sup>, neither party willing to give in the very least. ngi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, determined to have the quarrel out; will not make any compromise in the feud. ngi<sup>n</sup>-sèng, very stiff temper. ngi<sup>n</sup>-phiah, id. ngi<sup>n</sup>-sim, id.; heart hard and unrelenting. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khah-ngi<sup>n</sup>-thih, heart harder than iron (in the sense of showing no pity, or refusing to make up a dispute). sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khah-ngi<sup>n</sup>-chióh, do. than stone. kióng-pāng ngi<sup>n</sup>-kak, the most powerful section of the most powerful division of a clan.

giám-ngi<sup>n</sup>, strong, lusty, and bold (as a strong young man); powerful; stiff, as a bamboo or piece of wood. chhùi-thâu giám-ngi<sup>n</sup>, doggedly determined, as refusing to make up a quarrel, or determined to get a great deal of money out of people. chhùi-thâu ngi<sup>n</sup>, id.

ngi<sup>n</sup>-liáu, sailing as near the wind as possible (v. liáu). sái-ngi<sup>n</sup>-phì<sup>n</sup>, to sail right on, on one tack, with a strong wind; very dogged and obstinate, listening neither to advice nor entreaty. liáh-ngi<sup>n</sup>-phì<sup>n</sup>, id. (both senses).

ngi<sup>n</sup>-chièn, to recommend very urgently for employment. ngi<sup>n</sup>-pó, very urgently demand to be accepted as bail or security for a man accused (v. pó).

ngi<sup>n</sup>-khi, very honest; of great integrity; very open, blunt, straightforward, or plain-speaking; not afraid to tell a man his faults to his face (dist. gi-khi). ngi<sup>n</sup>- tit, straightforward, and not afraid to give offence (v. tit).

ngi<sup>n</sup>-liáu, too stiff and hard (v. liáu). chhē-ngi<sup>n</sup>, too hard and rough, as cloth or fur; too stiff in form, as written or printed characters. ngi<sup>n</sup>-chhák, too stiff, as fur, or as language. ngi<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, stiff, as starched cloth; strong, hardy, and ready for hard work. ngi<sup>n</sup>-háu<sup>n</sup>, too hard, as cakes. ngi<sup>n</sup>-kháu<sup>n</sup>-kháu<sup>n</sup>, too hard, as a couch, or as eatables; stiff with cold, as limbs.

ngi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, counting the tael at its exact weight, and allowing no discount. ngi<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a strong perennial spring that runs even in long drought. ngi<sup>n</sup>-piah, a solid partition (v. piah). ngi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, hard soil (shallow?). ngē<sup>n</sup>-lō<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. soa<sup>n</sup>-lō<sup>n</sup>, road by land.

chih-thâu ngi<sup>n</sup>, speech thick and indistinct.

ngiá<sup>n</sup> [R. gēng, to go out to receive ceremoniously], = giá. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-chih, to receive ceremoniously, as a visitor. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-sin khi-kū, to take to the new and forsake the old; fickle. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-sàng, to go out to meet on arrival, and accompany on departure; to treat with great respect.

迎

ngiá<sup>n</sup>-pút, to carry idols in procession. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-ang (C.), id. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to carry incense in procession. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-gē (C.), to carry a richly ornamented frame in idolatrous procession. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-tūi (P.), id. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-teng, to carry lamps in procession in honour of idols called "ōng-iá." ngiá<sup>n</sup>-sng-kàng, the procession at the beginning of frost. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-hi-sin, procession of military mandarins in spring.

ngiá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. á, final affix of some nouns, especially diminutive, = ngá.

ngiáh (R. gók). gōng-ngiáh, very much astonished; suddenly surprised.

愕

ngiau, to tickle. ngiau-ngiau, sensation of tickling. nā-âu-tōe ngiau-ngiau, feeling of irritation in throat, as when about to cough or to vomit. ùi-ngiau, easily tickled. bōe-ùi-ngiau, not easily tickled. ùi-ngiau kia<sup>n</sup>-bé, a henpecked husband. ùi-ngiau-chháu, the sensitive plant.

ngiáu (cf. giáuh, ngiáuh<sup>m</sup>). ngiáu-ngiáu, unintelligible, as foreign speech or indistinct talk; the sound of a dog's bark. kóng-ōe ngiáu-ngiáu, to talk indistinctly and unintelligibly.

ngiauh (cf. kiáu, kiau), (T. kiau), to prise up with a lever; to lift a small thing with the finger-nail; to carry one load on the end of a pole over the shoulder; to give a gentle stroke with an oar; an upstroke in writing. ngiauh láng-ê-phái<sup>n</sup>, to bring up a man's faults. ngiauh pát-lâng khi, to get another man put out of his situation. ngiauh--chit-ê, to give a gentle stroke with an oar, &c. ngiauh han-tsú, to dig potatoes. ngiauh--khi-lái, to rise up from lying down; to lift up things, as in searching for something, &c.

ngiauh — ngiauh--lah, he is dead and gone (said of a man). hit-ê-lâng ngiauh--khi, id. ngiauh-hē, id. (lit. as dead as a shrimp). ngiauh-than, id. (as shell-fish).

lāu-ngiauh-ngiauh, worn out and useless, as a feeble old man.

ngiauh (cf. khiáu), to protrude the lips. ngiauh-tún, upper lip naturally turned up. chhùi-tún ngiauh-ngiauh, id. ngiauh--chhùi (T. kiah-chhùi), to protrude the lips, as a secret sign.

ngiauh<sup>n</sup> — ōe-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>, still able to move by a muscular twitching, as animal not quite dead.

ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-chhoah, to tremble with fear. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-tsùn, id. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to be in constant motion; always at work; restless.

ngih<sup>n</sup>-ngih<sup>n</sup> ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>, restless motion, or sound of it (as of child or animal); indistinct talking, as of men secretly consulting, or of a man displeased, but unwilling or afraid to speak openly. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-háu, unintelligible talk, as of a foreign language, or of many confused voices. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-liām, to talk indistinctly, as when making light of a thing.

sán-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>, very lean and emaciated.

ngih<sup>n</sup> (cf. khih, gih). ngih<sup>n</sup>-ngih<sup>n</sup> ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>, in restless motion; talking with intentional indistinctness (v. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>).

ngiô (Cn.), = A. ngé (R.), image; suddenly.

ngiu<sup>n</sup> (C.) pèh-gín-ngiu<sup>n</sup>, = pèh-jín-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of tree (v. hiu<sup>n</sup>).

ngiú<sup>n</sup> [R. jiú, to bend]. tsùn-thâu ngiú<sup>n</sup>-táu, to shake about one's head and neck, as disobedient boy, or as light and ill-behaved girl.

ngiú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. iú<sup>n</sup>, thin tiles.

ngô, = gô. pèh-ngô, a large white fish (v. gô).

ngô (R. gô). ngê-tông, = gô-tông, a sort of tree.

ngô (R. gô). ngê-tsu-jú, a medicine, said to be heating; so called because brought from the country anciently called Gê (Woo).

ngô (R. gô). ngê-khi, the leech.

ngô (T. gô). âu-ngê, a very dangerous swelling of the glands of the throat (cancerous?), gen. fatal in about a week. nâ-âu-ngê, id. si<sup>n</sup> âu-ngê, to have this fatal disease; often said in swearing or adjuring, that this deadly disease may come on the lying throat. siang-ngê, this disease when there is a swelling on each side of the throat.

ngô (R. gô, ngê). goát-lí siông-ngê, the beautiful lady in the moon (said of a beauty). kiong-ngê, female slaves, &c., of the empress (v. kiong).

ngô (R. gô, ngê). goân-ngê (R.), two ancient animals like turtles (v. goân).

ngô (R. gô, ngê). í-ngê thoân-ngê, error (as a false report, &c.), spread from one to another, and so on.

ngô [R. five, = col. gô]. ngé-lê-lâng, men from all parts. ngé-tê, five idols with three eyes (v. tê). toan-ngé, the 5.5. toan-ngé-jit, id. ngé-lún, the five relations of men. ngé-siông, id. (v. siông). ngé-hók, the five degrees of relationship (v. hók). ngé-hok, the five blessings (v. hok). sam-koan ngé-hok, to look over and over very carefully. ngé-kok, the five grains. ngé-keng, the five classics (v. keng). ngé-hêng, the five elements. ngé-sek, the five colours, variegated (v. sek). ngé-chhái-hûn, variegated clouds (v. chhái). ngé-hong-kí, five-coloured flags, either on one flag or one of each colour. ngé-bí, the five flavours (v. bí). ngé-seng, the five sorts of offerings. ngé-koan, the features of the face, with the ears (v. koan). ngé-tsông liók-hú, the internal organs. ngé-chiam, the five extremities of man or fowl (v. chiam).

ngé-toán-si<sup>n</sup>, short and stout; hands, legs, and neck all short, but well-formed. ngé-toán si<sup>n</sup>-tiu<sup>n</sup>, id. sip-ngé-im, the native dictionary of the Chang-poo form of the Chang-chew dialect. ngé-ka-phí, a medicine (v. ka, to increase).

ngó [R. a rank, properly of five men], a surname. iá<sup>n</sup>-ngé, the garrison at station of military mandarin (v. iá<sup>n</sup>). tui-ngé, ranks of soldiers; rank and file. tui-ngé chéng-tsôe, ranks in good order. bô-tui bô-ngé, not keeping good order, as troops.

hâng-ngé, gaudy.

tsái-ngé, calm, self-possessed, and collected, as in danger or before a mandarin or superior.

ngó (R. id.), a cyclical character, = gô (mid-day). ngé-sí (R.), from 11 A.M. to 1 P.M. tiong-ngé, noon; 12 o'clock at noon. tsú-ngé, midnight and mid-day; quite straight opposite; the pole-star. tsú-ngé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the pole-star. tsú-ngé tui-chhiong, quite opposed in purposes and desires. kap-goá tsú-ngé-chhiong, quite opposed to me in desires and wishes. bô-chiau tsú-ngé, doing things in an improper way, not according to proper rules. bô-tsú-ngé, id.

ngé-bún (r.), the side-doors near the front of a palace.

ngó [R. I, me, = col. goá]. bô-jí<sup>n</sup>-ngé, without partiality for one's self; quite fairly and honestly, making no distinction between you and myself. kap-lí bô-jí<sup>n</sup>-ngé, I act quite openly and honestly towards you, without any deceit. bô-hun jí<sup>n</sup>-ngé, having complete community of interests and desires. put-chhut ngé sé-liáu, it does not differ the least from what I reckoned before.

ngó (R. id.) ngé-gék, disobedient to parents.

ngó (R. id.) ngé-hí, a good sort of fish (mullet?). it, ngé: jí, âng-sa: sa<sup>n</sup>, chhiu<sup>n</sup>: si, bé-ka, the "ngé" is the best of fish; the second, third, and fourth best are —, &c.

ngó (R. id.), (Cn. ngiô). ngé-siông (R.), a human image; an idol. ngé-chhiang (C.), id.

ngé-jiên, by chance; suddenly and unexpectedly. ngé-gū-jiên, id. ngé-gū--tiôh, to meet with unexpectedly. ngé-jiên-thia<sup>n</sup>, to hear by chance.

ngó<sup>n</sup> [R. gô, to starve]. jim-ki siú-ngó<sup>n</sup>, to endure hunger patiently and willingly. tham-chhông chia<sup>n</sup> ngó<sup>n</sup>-kúí, a glutton becomes a hungry ghost.

ngô — ông-ngô, a pettifogging lawyer; a literary man who is always engaged in lawsuits or inciting and assisting others in them. tsòe-ngô, to be such a character.

ngô [R. gô, to awake]. hiáu-ngô, to understand; to come to, understand. hóe-ngô, to repent. chip-bê put-ngô, doggedly persisting in his wicked ways.

ngó [R. gô, proud]. kiau-ngô, proud. kù-ngô, proud and uncivil in bearing, e.g. taking no notice when we go in, or rude in not answering when spoken to.

ngoeh (R. kiap), (C.T. ngh; Cn. gôeh; A. ngh, ngoeh), to take up with tongs, chop-sticks, pincers, &c. ngoeh-á, pincers. hé-ngoeh, tongs with curved points.

ngoeh (R. kiap), (C. ngh, keh; T. koeh). tâu-ngoeh, pods of beans or peas, including the peas or beans. toā-ngoeh, large pod. sòe-ngoeh, small pod. chit-ngoeh, one pod (entire).

ngóeh (R. kiap, hiáp), (T. ngh), (cf. ngh, khòeh), to catch or squeeze, as between claws of a crab, or knuckles, or a half-split piece of wood; to hold tight, as with pincers; to carry a thing under the arm or between the arm and the breast; to hold tightly, as a package strapped between two bamboo poles to be carried; to lie between two places (as a region), filling up the inter-

伍

午

我

忤
鮮
偶

餓

悟

傲

夾

筴

挾

揉

鯁
梧
莫
蜈

娥

鼃

訛

五

mediate space; (the supports of a flag-staff; an instrument for torture).

khít-chhâ ngóeh--tióh, to be caught by a half-split piece of wood. ngóeh--tióh, id., or as by a crab. ngóeh--khí-lâi, to pull out, as a tooth. ngóeh-oá, the two halves (as of pincers) uniting. siang-pêng ngóeh-oá, id. nng-pún sa<sup>n</sup>-ngóeh, two open books half-shut so as to keep each other open. ngóeh-phoà, to break by pressing, as between the knuckles, or as fruit or eggs crowded together.

keng-thâu ngóeh-ngóeh, the shoulders high, either naturally so, or from leanness, or from opium-smoking. kiu-kiu ngóeh-ngóeh, having a shrinking frightened manner.

ngóeh kha-bák, to torture the ankles by a sort of wooden screw or vice. pàng-ngóeh, to take off that torturing instrument from the feet. ki-koa<sup>n</sup>-ngóeh, the stone supports on each side of a flag-staff. kiáu-kùn chhēng ki-koa<sup>n</sup>-ngóeh, a skilful gambler become so poor that he has to crouch for shelter between these supports for lack of clothes.

ngúi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. gēng, to grind.

O.

Including  $\sigma$  and  $\ddot{o}$ .

$\sigma$  is by others written  $\sigma^*$ .

Many words in o are by others written with w, e.g. oa, oa<sup>n</sup>, oai, oai<sup>n</sup>, oan, oang, oáh, oák, oáih<sup>n</sup>, oat, in their various tones. In these words the o must not be pronounced too strongly, and it often approaches very near w.

☉ [R. a nest; a den; a hole; cf. col.  $\sigma$ , u]. ièn-o, edible birds'-nests. o-ka, a receiver of stolen goods.

lap-o, situation, as of a house, lower than the surrounding ground; a considerable piece of ground lower than the rest, as among hills.

☉ (C.) tiàu-o, = A. tiàu- $\sigma$ , a well-sweep for raising water.

☉ [R. hò, the water-lily]. o-hoe, the water-lily. o-liên (R.), id.

☉ [R. ho, name of vegetable, = col. e], (Cn.  $\ddot{o}$ ). tang-o, parsley. tang-o-chhài, id.

☉ [R. oa, name of a person], (Cn.  $\sigma$ ). lú-o, the lady who made or mended the heavens with mosaic-work. lú-o niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, id.

☉ (Cn. kho), to bake (as a fowl), as in an oven with no water, or with only a very little sauce. o-koe, to bake a fowl thus. o-ah, to bake a duck so (&c.) tsáp-o-ki<sup>n</sup>, odds-and-ends of food (remnants) mixed and made up as a condiment.

☉ [R. an exclamation; to assent; to flatter]. o-ló, to praise. o-sí (Cn.), id., rather flattering. i-o (Cn.  $\sigma$ ), to follow or assent to another implicitly. i-o chióng-sū, to follow another's guidance implicitly without inquiring whether it be right or wrong (generally wrong). kap--i tau-i-o, id.

o-bí-tó-hút, Amida Buddha.

chhùi o-o-háu, calling out loud, as child, or as man in great delight or not in his right mind. o-lah, exclamation made by the first of several men working together, which the rest answer by crying "e-lah." o-le (C.), phrase used in beginning a sentence.

☉ (R. hò), an oyster (classifier mí<sup>n</sup>). ô-khak, oyster-shells. ô-khak-he, lime from oyster-shells. ô-kiá<sup>n</sup>-thang, a window made with oyster-shells. ô-kiá<sup>n</sup>-thang-teng, a lantern made with them. ô-te-chí<sup>n</sup>, oysters, rice, &c., fried in a mass. ô-á-bê, oysters boiled with rice. ô-á-lin, preparation of oysters and potato-starch. ô-á-tau, do. boiled to a paste. toá-mí<sup>n</sup>-ô, a large oyster. phoà-ô, to gather oysters. ô-lin (T.), a round red sea-slug.

☉ (cf. kô). nng-ô-ô, very soft.

☉ (R. id.) ô-á, a bridal dress. âng-ó, id. sin-

niú<sup>n</sup>-ó, id. siù-ó, embroidered do. ó-á-kún, upper and lower bridal-dress. bóng-ó, sort of female dress embroidered with dragons, worn by mandarins' wives and at marriages of the wealthy.

toá-ó, Taoist priest's robe embroidered with dragons, used at the most solemn ceremonies. sió-ó, dress of Taoist priest at usual rites. sai-kong-ó, red, black, or yellowish green robe of Taoist priest. hê-siú<sup>n</sup>-ó, robe of a Buddhist priest for some rites. pô-chiá gún-ó, paper mock money and figures of dresses cut out in paper and burned in bundles by women in the worship of the goddess of child-birth.

☉, exclamation used in calling to another, esp. when his name is not known. ó-ó, id.

☉ (C.), = A. ut. kha ó--tióh, foot sprained. ó--khi, id. ám ó--khi (= ut--tióh), neck stiff and painful, as from sleeping in a constrained position.

☉ — âi--ò, an exclamation of sudden pain or grief (v. ái).

☉ — ò-soà<sup>n</sup>, to twirl the state umbrella when idols meet and salute each other. kap-i ù-ò-soà<sup>n</sup>, to have friendly relations with him. goá kap-i bò-ò-soà<sup>n</sup>, I have no dealings with him.

☉ — ò-giô, a fruit like a small fig. ò-giô-tàng, a gelatinous dish made from its seeds, much used in summer.

☉ [R. a harbour; an anchorage; a dock, = col. ù]. ò-kah, the overseer of a harbour. tsún-ò, an anchorage or harbour.

lâm-ò, Namao.

☉ (R. id.) ò-biâu, mysterious and profound. chhim-ò (r.), id.

☉ (Cn.) ò-hí, = A. péh-hí, a sort of fish. ò-siú<sup>n</sup>, = A. kiám-péh-hí, id., salted.

☉ (C. o). tiàu- $\sigma$ , a well-sweep for raising water, like the Egyptian shaduf. chhiú<sup>n</sup> tiàu- $\sigma$ , to draw water with a well-sweep. khia tiàu- $\sigma$ , to set up a well-sweep at first.  $\sigma$ -thiâu, the fixed pillar of the well-sweep.  $\sigma$ -tháng, its bucket.  $\sigma$ -thiu, the thin bamboo by which the bucket hangs.  $\sigma$ -koa<sup>n</sup>, id.  $\sigma$ -koa<sup>n</sup>-chhin, this thin bamboo and the movable arm or beam.  $\sigma$ -chhin, the beam or arm of the well-sweep which moves on the pivot. tek- $\sigma$ , id. chhiú<sup>n</sup> tek- $\sigma$  (T.), to draw water with it.

☉ [R. an interjection].  $\sigma$ -h $\sigma$  (R.), an interjection used in lamenting for the dead (v. h $\sigma$ ).

☉ —  $\sigma$ -lô-pa, Europe.  $\sigma$ -lê-pà, id.; cotton goods.  $\sigma$ -lê-pà-éng (lit. European), sort of cotton goods.

窩

荷蒿媯

阿

蠔

襖

澳奧捩

嗚鷗

窩

烏

窩 [R. o, a nest or den]. ε-ka, a receiver of stolen goods.

窩 [R. name of a place], a surname.

窩 (Cn.), = A. o, a depression, as in the ground.

窩 (Cn.), = A. o. lū-ε, = A. lú-o, the lady who made or mended the sky.

窩 (Cn.), = A. o. i-ε chiông-sū, to follow another implicitly, right or wrong. ε-bi-tê-hút, invocation of Buddha.

窩 (in Tiô-thoà), = A. ng, young rice.

窩 (R. id.), black. ε-sek, id. kan-ε, deep dark black without any gloss. ε-kim, shining black or dark colour; getting on well in the world (v. kim). ε-sà-nà<sup>n</sup>, black, glossy, and shining. ε-khâm-khâm, all black or dark with crowds of men, &c. (v. khâm). ε-ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>, very dirty and black; very dark, as place with no light. ε-mà<sup>n</sup>-mà<sup>n</sup>, very black. ε-lúi-lúi, id. ε-kúi-kúi, very black, as person (lit. like a demon), (+). ε-kuih-kuih, id. ε-niau<sup>n</sup>-niau<sup>n</sup>, very black, dirty, or spotted (v. niau<sup>n</sup>). ε-bák-bák, very black (+). ε-thih-thih, id. ε-tiù-tiù, id. ε-tê-tê, id. ε-lô-sô, id. ε-sô-sô, id. ε-lái, dirty dark reddish colour. ε-tê, dark and dull, as red; spotted and dirty (v. tê). ε-sien, grayish black. ε-têng, having a dark complexion and face somewhat lean, or at least not fat. ε-tâ, dark appearance of face when in bad health. ε-khiêt, dark coloured, as face naturally so, and not unwell. bin ε-khoá<sup>n</sup>, face covered with large black spots, as old man. ε-áu, black and withered, as leaves; black and beaten, as man. phah-ε-ehhi<sup>n</sup>, to beat black and blue. phah kàu ε-bah-lêng, to beat so as to leave long dark marks of stripes. ε-âng-bin, face painted black and red, as in plays or processions. ε-bin-lâng, a black man, as negro or Malay, &c. ε-bin-ông (C.), an idol whose face got black from chok-ing on a fowl.

ε-bák, black ink (+). ε-bák, ebony. ε-bák-tsoá, a short black venomous snake; said also of a very dangerous man. ε-phiáh, well-burned bricks. ε-hun, opium. ε-bi pèh-bi, opium and rice (said of the two wants of an opium-smoker). ε-kun, a black scarf worn as head-dress by women (v. kun). ε-âng-bô, the four licitors of a mandarin, two with black caps and two with red. ε-thng, unrefined sugar in its coarsest form, raw sugar. ε-jin, the iris of the eye.

ε-kúi, an under-clerk or assistant-salesman in shop (said only by the man himself), (+). tng ε-kúi, I am an assistant in a shop. tng-lâng ε-kúi, id. ε-kúi-á (vulg.), a black man.

hun-ε, black with smoke; to blacken-with smoke. ε-àm, dark, as room or night; incipient giddiness. ε-àm-hin, dizzy; giddy; giddiness. ε-àm pèh-pâng, calamity coming suddenly. ε-ien pèh-pâng, id. (v. pèh). thi<sup>n</sup> ε-im, sky overcast and rainy-looking (v. im). thi<sup>n</sup> ε-ε, id. thi<sup>n</sup> tsòe-ε, id. si-tsáp-káu-jit-ε, 49 days of rainy weather in spring. há<sup>n</sup>-ε, when it is nearly dark in the evening. ε-kha sai-lâm, a very black south-west storm (v. sai). ε-kha (C.), water just beginning to ebb.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup> ε, fond of injuring people.

tùi-ε, to bit the mark. ke-ε, the best throw of the liên-pó gambling, the cash being found opposite the word "pó" on the die.

ε-a, a crow (v. a). ε-hí, a fish like trout. ε-á-hí, id. kiám-tsúi-ε, id., from the sea (best). chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsúi-ε, id., from fresh water (inferior). ε-i<sup>n</sup>, a black coloured skate-fish. ε-lak, a long gray sea-slug. ε- liông, a small black cricket. ε-á, a small dark sweet Arbutus (Myrica) at end of season. ε-á-m̄, id. lák-géh-ε, a dark red fruit. siú-ε, a plant taken (internally) to make the hair black. chhó-ε, aconite.

窩 (cf. ε, a well-sweep). ε-nâ<sup>n</sup>, a cradle, usually made of bamboo.

窩 (R. bô), a jar (wide-mouthed), especially an earthen jar. ê-ê, shaped like a jar, deeply concave. chhim-ê, deeply concave, as a bowl. tê-ê, a game of throwing sticks into a jar. tê-ê, a covered bowl for infusing tea. sai-ê, a small coarse earthen jar with the figure of a lion as the handle on the lid. kám-ê, a large deep wicker vessel for holding rice, &c. tâng-ê, a brass jar, such as used to be made a clepsydra. jiô-ê, a chamber-pot. kim-hi-ê, a large earthenware tub from Sanghai, such as is used for a bath-tub (lit. for gold-fish). chit-ê kim-hi bôe-kham-tit chit-bé tiông-pan, one bad intriguing fellow causes trouble in a whole household.

窩, to work an oar backwards; to row backwards. ê-lái, back your oars! as when in risk of collision.

窩 (R. hô), a surname.

窩 (R. bô), a lake; a roundish or basin-shaped valley or small plain. hi<sup>n</sup>-ê, a cavity in a large ink-stone for writing large characters. khoá<sup>n</sup>-ê, a sort of gambling with cards. poáh-khoá<sup>n</sup>-ê, id.

ê-lâm, the province of Hoo-nan. ê-pak, Hoo-peh province. ê-kng, the old province of Hoo-kwang, now divided into these two. ê-pit, pencils from Hoo-chow. ngó-ê sù-hái, the great lakes and rivers. sam-kang ngó-ê (R.), the great rivers and lakes. kiá<sup>n</sup>-kang-ê ê-lâng, travelling quacks, fortune-tellers, &c. kóng-ôe kang-ê, careful to avoid phrases that would give offence, e.g. avoiding any proverb alluding to step-mothers in a house where there is a stepmother. put-chí kang-ê, id.

窩 [R. hô, name of a plant]. chhâ-ê, a root used for feverish colds (Radix Bupleuri octoradiati!).

窩, to prize up with a lever; to take up, as roots, by a trowel or spade, or by the hand; to scoop out, as eyes. ê-khi-lái, to prize up things, or lift roots. ê-chhut-lái, to scoop out, as eye. é hân-tsú, to take up a few potatoes. é bák-chiu, to scoop out an eye.

窩 (Cn.) é-káu, = A. é-káu, dumb.

窩 [R. id., by change of tone from "ok," bad, = ê<sup>n</sup>]. ê-ê, unclean; to defile (v. ê). ê-tê, to envy. khó-ê, odious; abominable. chhek-ê, to insult the majesty of a divinity by unclean conduct, or by placing something ceremonially unclean in his presence; to cause bad luck by unclean conduct (morally or ceremonially), esp. by things connected with a woman's confinement. chhek-ê thi<sup>n</sup>-tôe, to offend heaven and earth by unclean conduct. chhek-ê-kúi, said to a man beginning to talk some very vile lascivious talk, or bringing in some vile stinking thing, or of man coming in stark naked. khit-lâng chhek-ê-tiôh, to meet with bad luck by coming upon some ill-omened person or thing in a marriage, or such ceremony, which ought to be entirely auspicious.

窩 (Cn.) ê-biâu, = A. ò-biâu, mysterious.

窩 (R. ū), taro. pèh-ê, a white sort. âng-ê, a sort with reddish skin. tek-ê, taper-pointed sort. pin-nng-ê, a sort common at Amoy, much sold in balves ready boiled. káu-tôe-ê, another sort. tsúi-ê, a wild plant like taro, used medicinally and for feeding pigs: the leaves are used for wrapping things; sometimes grown in ponds as sbelter for gold fish, &c. ke-

壺

胡湖

葫胡

惡

芋

pō-ō, a wild plant like taro, medicinal. káu-kā-ō (Cn.), a sort used medicinally. ō-hoài<sup>n</sup>-si, a stringy plant used in making cakes. ō-pū (T.), = A. hoe-táu-pū, a sort of gourd.

ō-pêng, taro cut in halves, sold ready cooked. ō-ké, cakes made with rice and taro. ō-thâu, a whole full-sized root of taro, the original root of a cluster. ō-bú, the original root of a cluster. ō-pô, id. ō-kiá<sup>n</sup>, the young tubers. ō-á, id.

ō (C.) lām-sám ō--lâng, to raise or repeat false evil reports against a man.

ō (C.) sio-ō, to assist a man with whom another is quarrelling.

ō<sup>n</sup> — ẽ<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, sound used in lulling a child to sleep.

ō<sup>n</sup> — kap-lâng-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, to haggle about payment after buying. ẽ<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>-háu, to talk indistinctly, as in a great hurry for something urgent, or as man half asleep. i<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup> ẽ<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, to talk indistinctly, as from great haste, or from malformation of mouth or throat making an impediment, or from unwillingness to say some unpleasant truth, or ask something distasteful; to wrangle doggedly. i<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, to talk unintelligibly; to dispute about payment after the thing is bought. tãi-ke i<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, disputing doggedly, each denying what the other says. toá-teh-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, id. ẽ<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>-kiò, noisy disputing or wrangling. ẽ<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>-háu, id.; also, to talk unintelligibly, as in sudden hurry, &c. ẽ<sup>n</sup>-ẽ<sup>n</sup>-jióng, very noisy disputing.

ō<sup>n</sup> [R. ẽ, to hate; by change of tone from "ok," bad]. khó-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, odious; abominable. iám-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, to loathe. oán-ẽ<sup>n</sup>, to loathe and abhor. ẽ<sup>n</sup>-tẽ, to envy.

ō (T. Cn.), in several words in the several tones, = A. e, esp. when the Changchew dialect changes to "oe."

ō (T.) õ-lõ, = A. e-lẽ, fretful and troublesome.

ō (Cn.) tang-õ-chhài, = A. tang-e-chhài, parsley.

ō (Cn.) õ--tióh, to infect.

oa [R. a frog]. chéng-tí-oa (a frog at bottom of a well), said of an inexperienced fellow.

oa (C.), = A. oái<sup>n</sup>, a large branch of a tree, especially one of the primary divisions of the trunk.

oa [R. a beautiful woman]. hā-oa (X.), Eve.

oá [R. hô, what? which?], a surname. oá--chhù, a town on Amoy island.

bô-tā-oá, having no other resource; having no alternative; cannot help it. bô-tái-oá (C.), id. bô-tā-tit-oá, id. bô-hoat--i tā-oá, id. bô-hoat--lâng tā-oá, have no resource against some one. sái-hoat-goá tãi-oá (C.), what ever can I do!

oá — phê-oá, a sort of crab. pō-oá (T.), id.

oái [R. í, to lean upon], (Cn. oái, ũi<sup>n</sup>), to lean upon; to rely or depend upon; to incline to; near; to come near; to join or attach one's self to; to come up to very near a sum, as a subscription or value. sa<sup>n</sup>-oái, to lean on or draw near one another; to be very close or near, as two places; to combine for some purpose. sa<sup>n</sup>-oái-png, to live together, as man and woman without any form of marriage.

khah-oái, nearer. lī oái-oái, not far off. oái-i, nearly correct, as a guess. oái-ün, to guess or come near the mark; to rhyme (v. ün). oái-ông khoà<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, saying that a man has good luck when he is manifestly prospering. oái sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp, nearly thirty. oái nng-tiám-cheng, near two o'clock; nearly two hours. oái-hái, near the sea. oái-piah, near the wall; leaning on the wall of a room, as an article of furniture. chē oái-hé, to sit near the fire. oái-pi<sup>n</sup>, to approach the side (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). giá-oái--lái, to lift up and bring near, as a chair or table. kháh-oái, to close, as a door, but not fastened; to come close, as boat to shore or other boat. sak-oái, to push shut. chhek-oái, to press close, as on a man. pek-oái, to press near. lâng tit-tit-oái, people are crowding near and pressing on. khiá-oái, to stand close to the side, as of a road, to let one pass. siám-oái, to get out of the way, as by going close to a wall, or to side of road. hā-oái, to tie loosely together. ngoeh-oái (= ngh), to close, as pincers.

oái-hoá<sup>n</sup>, to approach the river-bank or sea-wall (hoá<sup>n</sup>), as boat. oái-hoá<sup>n</sup>, to lean on for support, as widow or orphan (v. hoá<sup>n</sup>, "to lean"). lóng-bô hoá<sup>n</sup>, quite away from the text, as a composition; offering a price still very far from what can be accepted.

oái-lái oái-khi, of unstable purpose. oái-khò, to trust upon. oái-loá, to sorn on. i-oái, to rely upon; to trust upon. bô-i-oái, having no relations, &c., to depend upon for support or protection, as widow or orphan. bô-i bô-oái, id. oái-sè, to depend on another's influence and power. oái-sì (C.), id. oái-i-chiáh, to have one's meals cooked by him or his household, at our own expense. oái-i-bōe, to intrust goods to him (or them) to sell for us, as dealer or vessel. oái-tsái, to give our goods to a Hong, &c., to be shipped for us (v. tsái). oái-hâng, to deal with a Hong, as ship or dealer in produce, esp. to intrust whole cargo to them for sale. tsún oái-hâng, the ship is consigned to the Hong, or does its business with it. tsún oái sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-hâng, with which Hong does the ship transact its business? hâng oái-tsún, the Hong has vessels consigned to it. hē oái--lâng, to intrust goods to a commission agent to sell for us. kui-oái, to make submission and attach one's self to, as to an enemy in war, or as a party in a feud or lawsuit leaving his friends and going over to the other side; to attach one's self to a protector; to revert, as to one person, as property or business formerly shared by others. kui-oái--i oái, the (land) tax all falls to him to pay, e.g. the others who had shares having all died or left the place. siang-pêng-oái, trying to keep neutral. si-koe, oái toái-pêng, said of liking to follow the stronger side.

oái [R. àn, to lean, according to, = col. hoái, &c.], to lean heavily upon with the hand. chhiú oái--i, id. seng-khu oái--i, resting one's whole weight on it by the hand.

oái [R. hoat, to emit, send out, or produce]. oái-he, to slake lime.

oái [R. hoá, to paint]. oái-kong, a painter of pictures.

oái [R. jiók, if, as, = col. joái, loái]. bô-oái, not many; only a few or a little; not enough, as price offered.

oái [R. hoá, words; language, = col. oé], (also C. = A. oē, language). oái put-tê-ki, poàn-kù to, when what is said is not agreeable, half a sentence is too much (A.)

oái, to lay to, as a ship. oái-i-sí, to lay to so as not to move at all, or as little as possible. oái-thâu-khiá, id.

oa<sup>n</sup> [R. an, a saddle]. bé-oa<sup>n</sup>, a saddle. bé-oa<sup>n</sup>-tsū, piece of leather put on horse's back below the saddle. bé-oa<sup>n</sup>-tín, the wild convolvulus, with purple flowers and saddle-shaped leaves, that grows on sandy banks; also a salt made from it. oái--kiò, the wooden body of a Chinese saddle. koà-oa<sup>n</sup>, to wear a saddle. lók-khók-bé, bô-koà-oa<sup>n</sup>, said of a fast young fellow, with no one to control him (v. khók). kim-oa<sup>n</sup>,

惡

蛙
極
娃
何

崎
倚

按

發 畫
若
話

鞍

換

a gilt saddle. péh-bé koá-kim-oá<sup>n</sup>, a white horse with a gilt saddle, said of the "chiông-goán."

oá<sup>n</sup> [R. at, the bridge of the nose]. phí<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>, a high bridge of the nose, not usual among the Chinese. bô phí<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>, nose low and flat between the eyes, without any ridge. phí<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup> chih, id.

oá<sup>n</sup> [R. an, peace], a surname. tâng-oá<sup>n</sup>, Tung-ngan (or Tông-an) city or district. lâm-oá<sup>n</sup>, Nanning, or Nan-an. oá<sup>n</sup>-hái, Anhai.

oá<sup>n</sup>-pái (T.), = A. an-pái, arranged in order.

oá<sup>n</sup>, an anchorage. oá<sup>n</sup>-ù, an open harbour, haven, or anchorage. soa-oá<sup>n</sup>, a sandy beach suitable for landing. pak-hong-oá<sup>n</sup>, a small bay sheltered from the north wind. lâm-hong-oá<sup>n</sup>, id., sheltered from the south wind. koa-oá<sup>n</sup>, to lie at a port or anchorage, as vessel. kàu-oá<sup>n</sup>, to reach the anchorage, as vessel.

chít-oá<sup>n</sup>-tsún, the distance which junks usually make in one tide; e.g. from Amoy to Chiòh-bé, or to Quemoy (kim-mng).

oá<sup>n</sup> (T.), to borrow.

oá<sup>n</sup> (R. óán), a bowl; a bowlful. thâu-khak-oá<sup>n</sup>, a skull. bák-chiu-oá<sup>n</sup>, the socket of the eye. kau-hí-oá<sup>n</sup>, spoon-shaped end of ear-pick. phêng-oá<sup>n</sup>, the scales of a balance. tô-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. thien-pêng-oá<sup>n</sup>, id., of large balance. hé-oá<sup>n</sup>, a lamp with a large wick made of many wicks on a flat metal dish, used at plays. tâu-á-oá<sup>n</sup>, a bowl for shaking dice. iá-oá<sup>n</sup>, a cocoa-nut cup. kim-hí-oá<sup>n</sup>, a large sort of bowl. toá-phín-oá<sup>n</sup>, a very large bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a large bowl. kèng-oá<sup>n</sup>, a set of offerings made in the rites of "chiò" (v. kèng).

oá<sup>n</sup>-bô, a skull-cap. oá<sup>n</sup>-ko, sort of small cakes (v. ko). oá<sup>n</sup>-thê, clay for making bowls. oá<sup>n</sup>-iòh, a mineral used for glazing earthenware. oá<sup>n</sup>-u, the hollow in the bottom of a bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-kè-léh, the broken bottom of a bowl (v. kè). oá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, bowls and plates. oá<sup>n</sup>-tih-tí, bowls, small plates, and chopsticks.

phak-oá<sup>n</sup>, to lay down a bowl inverted. tàu-oá<sup>n</sup>-giáh, to put in an inferior man or article to make up the set or required number. chiáh oá<sup>n</sup>-lái, kóng oá<sup>n</sup>-goá, to eat a man's food and speak ill of him behind his back. chiáh-kin, phah-phoà-oá<sup>n</sup>, more haste the less speed; to overreach one's self in seeking gain.

oá<sup>n</sup> [R. óán, some joints of the arm or leg, = col. oan]. kha-thâu-oá<sup>n</sup>, the knee-pan. kha-thâu-u-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. chhiú-oá<sup>n</sup> (T.), the elbow-joint.

oá<sup>n</sup> [R. àn, a long table; the table before a judge; a legal case]. oá<sup>n</sup>-toh, a long high narrow table, usually placed against a wall. kong-oá<sup>n</sup>-toh, a mandarin's table of judgment. hiu<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>-toh, a long table for incense. hiu<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. tang-sai-oá<sup>n</sup>, the two priests (Taufist or Buddhist) on the right and left hand of the presiding priest at any ceremony.

tâng-oá<sup>n</sup>, graduates who have taken the degree of Sewtsai at the same time. khó kù-oá<sup>n</sup>, to examine the Sewtsai graduates of former year, after the other examinations.

oá<sup>n</sup> (R. àn), late; too late. tsá-oá<sup>n</sup>, early and late, = tsá-àm (q. v.) khah-oá<sup>n</sup> chiah-lái, come later. chiah-png-oá<sup>n</sup>, soon after breakfast. toá-oá<sup>n</sup>, some time after breakfast, but before noon. àm-oá<sup>n</sup>-chiáu (T.), = àm-kong-chiáu, a sort of owl.

oá<sup>n</sup> [R. hân, drought]. toá-oá<sup>n</sup>, a very great drought. khó-oá<sup>n</sup>, a great drought. khé-oá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id., = C. không-hân. oá<sup>n</sup> chin-hng, the drought extends over a vast region.

oá<sup>n</sup> (R. hoán), to change; to exchange; to shift. sa<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>, to change or exchange mutually. oá<sup>n</sup>-sin, to change an old thing for a new one. koh-oá<sup>n</sup>, to change over again, at least a second time. tsài-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. têng-tsài-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. têng-thâu-oá<sup>n</sup>, id., completely over again.

kóe-oá<sup>n</sup>, to change for the better; to correct (v. kóe). pièn-oá<sup>n</sup>, to change. pi<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. tùi-oá<sup>n</sup>, to exchange; to barter. pái-oá<sup>n</sup>, id. kau-oá<sup>n</sup>, to exchange or interchange, as goods or documents. thùi-oá<sup>n</sup>, to put an inferior article (or person) deceitfully in place of a better; to mend by putting in an entirely new piece (v. thùi). thòe-oá<sup>n</sup> (C. thè), to change, as men doing work or holding office in succession. lùn-liú thòe-oá<sup>n</sup>, do., in turn.

oá<sup>n</sup>-âng, to put on one's usual dress again after mourning. oá<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to change one's dress, especially coat or jacket. oá<sup>n</sup>-kúi, to change one's dress for the season. oá<sup>n</sup>-hoe, rites to make a woman have male children instead of female; also visit of bride's younger brother, three days after marriage (v. hoe). oá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to change hands, as house or land bought or mortgaged; to get a fresh hand, as in work or gambling; to change from one hand to the other, as in carrying a heavy basket. oá<sup>n</sup>-tsú, to change owners, as house or land. oá<sup>n</sup>-pan, to change garrison, guard, &c. (v. pan). oá<sup>n</sup>-úi, to alter one's place, office, &c.; to alter the place of a thing. sa<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup>-úi, to transpose or mutually change places. oá<sup>n</sup> kè-úi, to change the place, as of a thing or of one's residence. oá<sup>n</sup>-keng, to change a load from one shoulder to another (v. keng). oá<sup>n</sup>-keng, to change or move to another room. oá<sup>n</sup> pát-keng, id. oá<sup>n</sup>-thiap, to exchange cards in vowing perpetual friendship (v. thiap). hè-oá<sup>n</sup>-hè, to barter. oá<sup>n</sup>-gún, to change a dollar, getting cash for it. chi<sup>n</sup> oá<sup>n</sup>-gún, to give cash for silver. oá<sup>n</sup> ù-kè, to change money at a good rate. hó oá<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, to change good for bad. goá ká-lí-oá<sup>n</sup> pháí<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, give me good cash for these bad ones.

oáh (R. hoát), alive; living; often said in the sense of movable or active (in Chau-an district used meaning "to kindle," instead of "tòh," which is not there used in that sense). bôe-oáh, not alive; cannot live. òe-oáh, able to come to life or to remain alive; able to move, as the bolt of a door, or as the hand so placed as to move freely in writing. koh-oáh, alive again. koh-tsài-oáh, id.

koà<sup>n</sup>-oáh, comfortable (in some parts of C. has rather a bad sense). koài<sup>n</sup>-oáh, id. khüi<sup>n</sup>-oáh (Cn.), id. hē i-ê-sim oáh, to lead him to form expectations.

oáh-tâng, active; lively; constantly moving; said of body or mind. oáh thiàu-thiàu, strong and active, as a fish. oáh-kat, a bow-knot. oáh-pán, movable types. sái oáh-kúi, to use contrivances with springs or secret wheels, &c. oáh-tsüi, running water. oáh-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a spring of flowing water.

oáh-lê, a way of escape from death or imminent danger; a constant and regular employment or business. bô-oáh-lê, having no regular business or employment, living on one's money or property. ũ oáh-lê, to have a regular business. oáh-lê-chí<sup>n</sup>, money got in a steady regular business, either on one's own account, or employed by others. khui oáh-lê, to deliver from death or great danger; e.g. by forgiving a heavy debt that was just ruining him, or by opening a way of paying it. hó i-khui chit-tiáu oáh-lê, by good fortune, he showed or gave a way of escape.

活

頰
安
妥

碗

腕
案

晏
旱

ká<sup>n</sup>-sí-oáh, not afraid of life or death (said of a daring robber or ruffian). ká<sup>n</sup>-sí ká<sup>n</sup>-oáh, id. beh-sí beh-oáh, pressing one's request or demand very urgently, as child that will take no denial, or as beggar or suppliant who will submit to any indignity and maltreatment to gain his desire; said also of a man very miserable, as in extremest poverty or having an enormous carbuncle, &c.; also, threatening to kill one's self. pī<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh-sí beh-oáh, disease very severe and dangerous, hanging between life and death. chī<sup>n</sup>-sí chī<sup>n</sup>-oáh, to dispute most doggedly or determinedly, denying what is asserted. sí-lâi oáh-khi, in great pain or distress. pī<sup>n</sup> kàu sí-lâi oáh-khi, sick almost to death. boá kàu sí-lâi oáh-khi, toiling extremely hard. chhut-sí jip-oáh (r.), to get from death to life. sí-lâng oáh-hé, a dead man is like a living tiger, as much an object of fear. sí-lâng i-kàu-oáh, oáh-lâng i-kàu-sí, said of quackery. oáh-oáh khé--sí, to die of grief (lit. or fig.) oáh-oáh chhoeh--sí, id. hē--i oáh-oáh khi--sí, to make him terribly grieved and distressed at his conduct, e.g. a wicked son. oáh-oáh phah--sí, to kill outright, as a child.

oai, crooked; awry; distorted; off the straight. oai-oai tsoái-tsoái, id. oai-kô, awry. oai phin-phîn, much off the perpendicular, as wall much to the side, or as one's head. oai-chhoáh, awry; diagonally. oai-kô lách-chhoáh, id. oai-chhoáh--khi, not able to come to an agreement; to break off relations abruptly. bôe-oai-chhoáh--tit, no opportunity of getting any secret improper gains on the transaction. oai-âm, wry-necked; very troublesome by resisting authority, &c. oai-chhùi, wry-mouthed. oai-phóe, having one cheek awry, or one side projecting more than the other (v. phóe). oai chit-pêng, one side projecting more than the other. oai chit-pi<sup>n</sup>, placed at one side; out of due proportion with other things. tiau-oai, to make crooked by tying, as a tree. tiâu-oai, hung up off the perpendicular. siông put-chèng, chek hā oai, when superiors are wicked, then inferiors are crooked and bad.

oai [R. oan, to oppress], to accuse falsely of a crime; to charge falsely with a debt. oai--lâng, to defraud people by false accusations, private or public. tò-oai--lâng, to deny one's fault and turn round accusing the accuser.

oái, to sprain or strain, as a limb. oái-chit-tó, to give one's foot a slight twist so as to fall. kha oái--tióh, the foot sprained. chhiú oái--tióh, arm sprained.

oái (P.) oái-kong, = A. hoā-kong, a painter of pictures.

oái (P.), = A. ōe, words; language.

oai<sup>n</sup>, the long creaking sound of a door or of an oil-mill, &c. oai<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>-háu, to creak in this way.

oai<sup>n</sup> [R. ai, to push back and forwards, to delay, = col. oe]. oai<sup>n</sup> jī-hiēn, to play on the two-stringed guitar. oai<sup>n</sup> kóng-á-hiēn, to play on another sort of guitar.

oai<sup>n</sup> [R. oan, bent; crooked]. i<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>-toh, a folding-table.

oai<sup>n</sup> (cf. oai), (T. oá<sup>n</sup>), to extort money from a man, as by pretending that he owes it; to live on another man unfairly. lām-sám oai<sup>n</sup>--lâng, id. oai<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, to get small sums out of people improperly (v. koái<sup>n</sup>). oai<sup>n</sup>-chioh, to ask money importunately under the name of borrowing, e.g. without hope of paying, or without paying former loan. tò-oai<sup>n</sup> chiá<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>, to make false or over charges right and left.

oái<sup>n</sup> [R. a, a branch], (C. oa; P. oe), the first great divisions of a tree; the largest branches. chhiú-oái<sup>n</sup>, id. toā-oái<sup>n</sup>, a very large branch.

oaih<sup>n</sup> (cf. oai<sup>n</sup>, oák, ók), noise of a door, &c., creaking. oaih<sup>n</sup>-oaih<sup>n</sup>-háu, creaking sound of mill or door, or of furniture. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup> oaih<sup>n</sup>-oaih<sup>n</sup>, noise of chair or table creaking, or of children making a noise.

oák (cf. ók), to cry, as a crow or raven, duck or frog; to croak. oák-oák-háu, id. toà-teh-oák, croaking, as a raven; said of a man making a secret sign to entice another to go with him to some bad pleasure.

oan [R. to oppress; cf. un, oai, oai<sup>n</sup>]. oan-óng, to oppress; to treat unjustly. oan-khut (R.), to oppress; to slander grievously (also C. colloquial), (v. khut). toā-oan, great oppression.

oan-iá<sup>n</sup>, to win in a feud or quarrel. oan-su, to be overcome in it. oan-ke, a feud; a state of enmity. oan-ke niū<sup>n</sup>-chè, a great feud. oan-ke niū<sup>n</sup>-toā-chè (C.), id. tsòe-oan tsòe-ke, constantly raising needless quarrels about small matters; said also of a child difficult to please. oan-ke lē-òeh, said of meeting one's enemy unexpectedly. tùi-thâu oan-ke-tsú, the very party with whom we have the feud or quarrel. oan ũ-ke, tùi ũ-tsú, the quarrel concerns the two parties alone and no one else. ũ oan-siú, to have a feud or quarrel on account of another or others, generally from ancestors. kiet oan-siú, to become at feud; to have a feud. kiet-oan, id. bô-oan-siú, (you) have no feud with him. kap-lí bô-oan bô-siú, not at feud with you. oan-oan siong-pò, feud continued by mutual revenges and injuries. pò-oan, to take revenge; to execute vengeance (by a private party), as for murder of relative, great plundering, or such grievous injury. háu-oan, to make complaint to a mandarin about some very grievous injury, by striking the drum in court. hám-oan, id. hiám-oan, id. hán-oan (T.), id. sè-oan, to make defence against a false accusation. sè-oan-óng, id. sin-oan, to redress a wrong. iú-oan bū-sin, to suffer wrong and have none to redress it. hâm-oan (r.), to cherish secretly the purpose of revenge for a great wrong. oan khó-kái, put-khó-kiet, a quarrel should be made up, and not become a long feud.

oan-kúi, the unavenged ghost of a murdered man haunting the murderer. goá--ê oan-kúi, a man who is always troubling me and thwarting my plans. chêng-si-oan (a feud formed in a former life), said of a man killing another with whom he was at friendship.

gâu-oan, very fretful or peevish, as a child that cannot be pleased any way. ài-oan--lâng, id. beh-oan--lâng phō, insisting to be carried, as child that cries till it is done.

oan [R. oán, a joint of arm or foot, = col. oá<sup>n</sup>]. chhiú-oan, the hollow inside the elbow-joint. chhiú-oat-oan, id. chhiú-áu-oan (C.), id. kha-oan, the hollow inside the knee-joint. kha-oat-oan, id.

oan (R. id.), a bay; a bend in a river or channel. hái-oan, a bay. jip-hong sūi-siòk, jip-káng sūi-oan, do at Rome as Rome does.

oan (R. id.) oan-oan, crooked. oan-oat, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> oan-oat, very cunning. chhit-oan poeh-oat, very crooked. oan-khiau, crooked (lit. or fig.); deceitful; going about the bush. bô-oan-khiau, truthful and straightforward.

i<sup>n</sup>-oan-oan, circular or semicircular. oan-kong-

桠

冤

歪

冤

換

彎

灣

彎

mng, an arched door-way. koe-sit-ké-oan, zigzag or very crooked, as a road. bák-bái oan, eyebrows arched. oan-pòe-i, a chair with a curved back.

tsóan-oan, to try to settle a dispute by skilfully adapting the plan to the circumstances, e.g. by putting a new face on the matter or partly explaining it away, generally with some measure of falsehood, especially done by a third party. bōe-hiáu tsoán-oan, not adapting one's self to circumstances; very stiff and blunt in dealings. khà-oan, to clinch, as a nail.

oan-to, a sort of convex plane for smoothing the inside of buckets, &c. oan-khau, id. oan-to khau thâng-lái, said of a lazy fellow living on his relatives or employers without earning anything. oan-khau khau thâng-lái, id. oan-âm (lit. crooked neck), said of meeting a man we wish not to meet, or of affair difficult to manage, or with many blunders. oan-koe phiah-hâng, crooked and unfrequented streets and lanes.

oan [R. name of bird]. oan-iu", the small duck called the mandarin duck (v. iu").

oan — oan-iu", sort of wasp (v. iu").

oân [R. oan, a bay]. tái-oân, Formosa; Tai-wan-foo. tái-oân-hú, the city or department or prefect of Tai-wan-foo. tái-oân-koãi", the district or sub-prefect of Tai-wan-hien. kè-tái-oân, to cross to Formosa from the mainland; said also for "dead" by a play on the words "buried and finished."

oân [R. the side-gates of a yamun]. oân-bún, the east and west gates of the railed inclosure in front of a yamun. oân-mng (T.), id. tang-oân-bún, the east one. sai-oân-bún, the west one. oân-bún-lái, within the space inclosed by them. oân-bún-kháu, just outside one of these gates. oân-bún siù"-kang, secretary in admiral's office. khiâ oân-bún, to be on duty at admiral's yamun, as marines.

hien-oân, = ng-tè, one of the three ancient emperors.

oân [R. long robes], a surname.

oân [R. goán, origin, Yuen dynasty]. oân-pó, = goán-pó, a large ingot or shoe of dyce silver, about 50 taels weight. chit-chiah oân-pó, one such ingot. chit-khò oân-pó, id.

oân [R. complete, finished], to pay in full, as taxes or account; completed, as period or work. oân-tsoán, complete and in right order (v. tsoán). oân-pi, id. oân-chiá", fully completed or accomplished, as affair (v. chiá"). oân-kiók, fully settled and ended, as affair. oân-boán, completed, as work or fixed time; fully paid, as money. hui-oân-oân, all spent, as money. oân-bêng, settled, as account. tng-oân, to receipt an account by stamping the word "oân." oân-siáu, to pay an account. oân-láp, to pay in full, as taxes, dues, &c. oân-niú", to pay land-tax.

oân [R. hoán, a pellet or pill]. ioh-oân, a pill. tsoá-oân, a paper pellet, as for a pop-gun. thun bō-gē-oân, said of a man very much ashamed at want of success or at being scolded. liók-bi-oân, a medicine made of sù-sin and two other drugs. phâu-liông-oân, sort of pills from Canton. hui-jí-oân, pills for making children fat. chí-ū hui-jí-oân, his only care is that his children be strong (with no care for his parents).

oân [R. round; classifier of officers, = col. goán], classifier of balls, as of raw sugar.

koa"-oân, mandarins in general. bün-bú koa"-oân, civil and military mandarins. úi-oân, a deputy sent by a superior mandarin. seng-oân (R.), a Sewtsai. seng-oân-tse, rents of property left to be enjoyed only by those descendants who take a degree. oân-niá", sort of collar worn by Sew-tsuis.

hok-oân, dried lung-yen (gêng-géng) fruit. hok-oân-bah, do. dried without stones or skins. thng-oân, balls of dark raw sugar: some of them should be sent back in the empty basket in which a present was sent. oân-thng, to make raw sugar into balls. bah-oân, balls made with minced pork. bah-oân-bin, a broad fat face. chiá"-oân, to be formed into a ball, as raw sugar; to form into lumps, as flour or other powders. chiá"-oân--ê, globular, as lumps of raw sugar. mi"-hún chiá"-oân, flour getting full of lumps. sim-koa" chiá"-oân, feeling of choking or oppression at heart, as with great grief. sim-koa" kek-kui-oân, do. with grief or sickness. gêng chit-oân, feeling of indigestion like a ball in the stomach.

oân [R. round; to interpret, as dreams; = col. í"], to spread out, as a semicircular cover; to interpret, as a dream (this word and the previous in the sense of "round" are often interchanged).

oân-bāng, to interpret a dream (v. bāng). oân-sien-bāng, to go and dream in the temple of the genii or with their incense. chhiá"--lāng oân-sien-bāng, to ask a man to interpret such a dream.

thoân-oân (R.), round and unbroken, as family. chit-ke thoân-oân, family still unbroken.

oân-phāng, to spread a bamboo sail or stiff mat, as a cover (arched). oân-hē, do., as a protection from rain.

oân-thâu-hia, round-toed boots of civil mandarins. oân-keng-bé, rounded stern of junk raised above the deck. oân-kong-mng (= oan?), a door-way with arched top. oân-mng-á, id. oân-kong-thâu, the rounded top of such a door-way or arch.

oân-téng, to have one's head shaved entirely, as Buddhist priest or nun.

chit-oân-soà", a ball of thread or thin twine. chit-oân-thê, a lump of mud.

oân — oân--teh, to tie tight. oân-sí, to tie very tight. oân-tiáu, id.

oân [R. alike]. oân-jiên (r.), similar; like as.

oân [R. winning; complaisant]. oân-tsoán, managing by some indirect or roundabout manner (v. tsoán). kóng-ōe khah-úi-oân, to talk in a somewhat gentle or winning manner, avoiding what is offensive or disagreeable, or stating it indirectly, so that advice or reproof may be more readily taken. úi-oân-khng, to exhort in a winning manner without directly naming the fault. úi-oân lái-khng, id.

oân [R. goán, to look at, q.v.]. koan-san oân-súi, to take a walk looking at scenery.

oân [R. distant, = col. hng]. éng-oán, lasting very long; perpetual; eternal. bān-liên kiú-oán, id. lē-tê iáu-oán, road very long. tiáu-oán, very distant, as places. oán-súi lân-kiú kün-hé, distant help is of no use. oán-chhin put-jú kün-lin, a neighbour is of more use than a relative living far away.

oân-chì, a medicine (v. chì).

oân (R. id.), to hate; to repine at; to envy. oân-hün, to hate; to repine; to envy; to be displeased (v. hün). oân-ê", to hate and loathe; to abhor. oân-tê, to envy. oân-choeh, to be displeased at one's self or at one's fate. oân-thi" chhoeh-miá", to murmur at Heaven and Fate. oân-sin chhoeh-miá", id. mē"-thi" oân-tōe, to murmur and find

圓

鴛鴦

轅

袁元完

緜宛婉

玩遠

怨

員

fault with Heaven and Earth. oan-thi<sup>n</sup> oan-tōe, id. oan-thien iū-jin, to repine at Heaven and envy men. ai-oan, to repine bitterly against Fate, Heaven, or men. ai-oan chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhám, repine at one's miserable fate. oan-khi, violent hatred or enmity. oan-khi chhióng-thien, hatred boiling up to heaven. oan-jip-kut, hatred rooted in one's very bones; very deep hatred.

chek-oan, to harbour enmity. bái-oan, id. khioh-hün bái-oan, id. khioh-oan, id. kiet-oan, to cherish deep enmity in one's heart. kè-lâng-oan, inspiring dislike by one's appearance, action, or manner. pò-oan, to retaliate. pò niáu-chhú-á-oan, to pay a small insult or injury in the same way. oan-kúi thiú chih-kun, said of guilt unexpectedly coming out plain in examination before a mandarin.

oan [R. id. = col. bân]. oan-oan, slowly; leisurely. kin-oan, fast and slow. tí-oan, to delay; to procrastinate. iên-oan, id. ín-oan, id. í-oan, to delay (as affair) to allow more time. bōe-i-oan--tit, it cannot be delayed or put off at all. khoan-oan, to grant delay, as for a payment. oan-jit, to delay some days. oan-sí, to delay. oan-sí oan-khek, id.; to procrastinate. oan-sí-khek, id. bō-oan-khek, not delaying a moment.

oan [R. a sort of robe]. oan-á (C.), = lām-chheng, a long dress worn by Sew-tsai graduates.

oang — tâu-oang, to join in one company of associates. kap-in sa<sup>n</sup>-oang, keeping company with them, good or bad. oang-koah, a set or clique of persons (v. koah). ũ-oang-tóng, to have a clique or set of associates, who assist each other in any case (v. tóng).

oang [R. hoan, a loud cry]. oang-oang-háu, cry of a sea-goose.

oat — oan-oat, crooked (v. oan). chhiú-oat-oan, the inside of the bent elbow. ih-oat, involved, as affair; also (C.), winding, as a road. phiet-phiet oat-oat, walking with feet turned outwards, and swaying about slowly in a self-important manner. kiá<sup>n</sup>-lê oat-oat, walking with feet too much turned inwards. kha oat-oat, feet so turned.

oat-kak, to turn round a corner; a turning or corner of a road. tng-oat chhiú-sí, turn off at that point and you are at the place. oat-lóh-khi chhiú-sí, id. oat-tng-chhiú chhiú-sí, id. oat-tò-chhiú, turn to the left, as on a road. oat-tò-tng, to turn back, as on a road. tò-oat-lái, to come back to where we started from. oat chit-pêng, take the road turning off on this side. oat--kè-lái, to turn off to the side, as on a road. oat-kè-lái, oat-kè-khi, to wind back and forwards, as a road. oat-lái oat-khi, id. oat-kè-tang, to turn off towards the east. oat-kè chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-pêng, to turn off to the right hand.

oát [R. to cross over; more], to turn round in the opposite direction. oát-jiá, still more (from some additional cause); all the more. oát-jiá sióng-tióng, worse and worse, as sorrow from more bad news, or as disease from mistaken treatment. oát-kan, oát-khiáu, oát pin-kióng; kan-khiáu tò-tí thien put-ióng, the more crafty, the poorer and more miserable, for at last Heaven will not endure such cunning.

oát-liám, to say a lesson with back to teacher. oát-thâu, to turn the head. oát-bín, to look to the side, turning the face round. oát-hong-bín, wind changing or veering about. oát chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-phâng, to change to another tack. koh-oát chit-phi<sup>n</sup>, to make one tack more. oat-lin-tng, to turn round (v. lin). oát-tng-lái, to turn (a thing or one's self) round (v. tng). oát-tng-chhiú, immediately. oát-lái oat-khi, to turn back and forwards several times, as one's self, or head, or thing. oát--kè-lái, to turn in the opposite direction, as one's face or a thing. oát-kè-lái, id. oát-kè-lái-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to turn round and look at. oát-kè-lái, oát-kè-khi, to turn one's face, or a thing, back and forwards several times. oát-chit-sêh (T.), to take a short walk and come back.

i-oát, to move things to other places; to change a purpose, or plan, or promise, or engagement. bōe-i-oát--tit, it cannot be altered, as a plan.

toá<sup>n</sup>-oát-tsú (Cn.), man who gave the site or endowment for a temple (v. toá<sup>n</sup>).

oát (C.) oát-lék, = A. iét-lék, experienced.

oát (C.), = A. iét (R.), to be pleased.

oe [R. ai, to push backwards and forwards; to delay, = col. oai<sup>n</sup>], (C. e; Cn. òe), to jostle or rub against in passing; to turn a hand-mill; (to take in turn); to put off, as business.

sa<sup>n</sup>-oe, to jostle. oe--tióh, to strike or rub against with elbows or arm. oe-khoeh, to jostle (v. khoeh). oe-loe--chhut-lái, to come out jostling each other, as crowd. oe-oe sak-sak, pushing about in a crowd; getting on with difficulty. oe-lái sak-khi, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-oe-sin, to rub against each other, as two men crossing each other in a narrow path. oe-tó, to push over by jostling. lâu oe--jip-lái, the tide carries us inwards out of our course.

bóng-oe bóng-kè, to get on with difficulty; barely getting on in the world. oe-iên (r.), to delay (v. iên). òe-oe--tit, can be put off, as a troublesome business. oe hē-pát-lâng, to put off on another, as a work to be done. sa<sup>n</sup>-oe-the, id. oe-thoe kè-jit, to do very little work while drawing the pay.

oe jī-hiën, to play the two-stringed guitar.

chiáu-oe, in regular turn.

oe-bō, to turn a hand-mill. chiá<sup>n</sup>-oe, to turn it round in same direction, as hands of watch. tò-oe, to turn it in the opposite direction. oe-chhek, to clean rice from the husk by a sort of mill. oe-béh, to clean wheat or barley thus. oe mi<sup>n</sup>-hún, to grind flour. oe-chhòe, to make dough by a hand-mill. oe-chhip, to work a sort of hand-net neck-deep in the sea. thàn-chi<sup>n</sup> ná<sup>n</sup> teh-oe-kim, to make money, as if grinding gold from a mill.

OE — oe-á-hí, a small sort of fish.

OE (C.), = A. e, a small earthen jar. chiú-tê-oe, a sort of wine-jug. tiá<sup>n</sup>-oe, = A. hūi-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a large thin shallow covered earthen dish for cooking in.

OE (C.), to scrape with a knife, as in enlarging or clearing a hole.

OE (C.), A. e. oe-chhài, a reddish vegetable. âng-oe, a very red sort. pēh-oe, a whitish sort.

OE (C.), = T. ʒh, to cut some grain before it is ripe; e.g. when in urgent want of money, cutting our grain too soon. thau-oe, to cut and steal unripe grain.

OE (C.), = A. ui, uih, to bore a hole.

OE (P.), = A. oái<sup>n</sup> = C. oa, a large branch.

Ôe, the answer to a call; yes, sir!

ôe — ôe-lôe-chhut-lái, to come rushing out suddenly, as crowd from a house (cf. oe).

ôe (R. hâi), (C. ê; Cn. òe), a shoe. hiu<sup>n</sup>-ôe, small shoe-shaped bags of incense, used as amulets. keng-ôe, smallest shoes of women; also small models of shoes full of incense, used on 5.5. lú-ôe, small shoes for

緩

襖

囉
完

挨

唯
鞋

women. siù-óe, embroidered shoes for women. khùn-óe, women's small shoes made without heel-taps, for sleeping in. ché-á-óe, shoes for large-footed women. boán-á-óe, id., with sharp upturned point and very narrow sole. pau-á-óe, small shoes with soft cloth soles, for children. chhâ-kiáh-óe, wooden-soled shoes. tsóá-tóe-óe, shoes with paper soles. iú-óe, oiled shoes. iú-chi<sup>n</sup>-óe, shoes made with soles of oiled felt, for wet weather. phê-óe, leather shoes. pê-óe, shoes made of the plant called pê-chháu. chháu-óe (straw shoes), sandals. ká-li-thng chháu-óe, I give you a feast on the occasion of your return from your long journey.

ka óe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to cut the pattern of the shoe, as the betrothed daughter-in-law does and gives to her future mother-in-law. i-keng ka-óe-iú<sup>n</sup>, the daughter-in-law is fully fixed.

chhiah-óe, to make shoes. tsòe-óe, id. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-óe, to stitch the uppers to the soles. tàu-óe, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-óe, to work the border of a shoe with thread (v. poá<sup>n</sup>). úi-óe, to paint on a shoe the pattern to be embroidered. tiam-óe, to mend shoes. hùn-óe, to stretch a shoe on the last. thoa-óe, to walk slipshod with heels turned down, or with old shoes that don't catch on the heels. puih-óe, to draw up the heels of shoes that have been on slipshod.

óe-béh, shoes and stockings. kha-péh óe, women's shoes and the bandages used in place of stockings.

óe-chheh, a book for holding the many-coloured threads for embroidery of any sort. óe-hùn, a last. óe-bín, a shoe-brush. óe-puìh, a shoe-horn. óe-thòeh, a bit of cloth at the heel for pulling on a shoe. óe-phe, shoes shaped, but unfinished. óe-thâu, the toe of a shoe. óe-áu, back of shoe. óe-áu-ti<sup>n</sup>, heel of shoe (below). óe-kám, the inside of the sole, next to the foot. óe-chhàn, inner sole of shoe. óe-tóe, sole of shoe. óe-lí, lining of shoe. óe-bìn, uppers of shoe. óe-phi<sup>n</sup>, the two side pieces of the uppers. óe-phi<sup>n</sup>, the rib or ribs in the middle of the toe. siang-phi<sup>n</sup>-óe, shoes with two such ribs in front. toa<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>-óe, shoes with only one rib. óe-phàn, strip of cloth between the two ribs at the toe; also, loops of woman's or child's shoe (v. phàn). óe-bòe (T.), the loops of women's shoes.

óe (R. ái), (C. é; Cn. òe), short, as a man; somewhat dwarfish. óe-tóe, id. óe-lâng, a short man; a dwarf. óe-ké óe-ké, short and stout. óe-pui óe-pui, id. óe-kha-koe, a sort of fowl with very short legs. óe-kha-lê, a low sort of cockscomb (flower).

óe [R. dirty, defiled, = col. è]. ù-óe, dirty. òe-giên tók-gú (r.), vile abusive language.

óe, to take in the hand. òe-mih<sup>n</sup>, to take things in the hand.

óe [R. hōe, to assemble; to understand; able], (C. ē; Cn. òe), able; can; to be able. óe-bòe, can you, or can you not? can you? óe-koá<sup>n</sup>, are you cold? tsòe óe-tit-lái, able to effect the result. óh-óe, to learn till able to do a thing (s. word). ká<sup>n</sup> óe-bô, I think it will not be so. óe-lóh-hē, it may probably rain. óe-sái--tit, it will do (not said in Cn.) óe-tsòe--tit, id. óe-ê-lâng, a man of ability.

óe [R. to guard]. sī-óe, imperial guards of the highest class, chosen from the military Tsin-sze (chin-sū), as the Han-lin are chosen from the literary Tsin-sze. jip-sī-óe, to be chosen into their number.

óe (R. hoā), (C. oā; P. oē, oāi), language; speech; a spoken word. péh-óe, colloquial language; the vernacular. koa<sup>n</sup>-óe, the "mandarin dialect," or colloquial language of North China. hó-óe, fair promises; plausible talk; auspicious words or phrases regularly pronounced at marriages, &c. phái<sup>n</sup>-óe, vile or ill-omened language. giét-óe, talk about vile lascivious matters. kóng kúi-óe, to make groundless threats or deceitful statements. bô-jí-óe, empty or exaggerated talk that cannot be depended on. chhùi-chêng-óe, conventional phrases used on meeting people. kháu-thâu-óe, common phrases for special uses (v. kháu). thò-thâu-óe, polite phrases used on meeting, &c. (v. thò). chit-kù-óe, one sentence; a few words. óe ti<sup>n</sup>-bit-bit, words sweet, flattering, and deceitful. óe sī-hong, jī sī-tsong, words are wind, but writing remains.

óe-tū, giving a sharp or gruff answer (v. tū). ke-óe, to quarrel. káu-óe, fond of disputing, esp. talking about other people's affairs. tsòe-óe, very talkative when one should not speak. óh-óe, to take up and spread a report (s. able). kóng-óe, to speak; to talk. sòh-óe (Cn.), id. kóng toá-óe, to talk proudly, big, or boastfully. hit-ê-lâng put-chí pháí<sup>n</sup>-kóng-óe, he is very hard to talk over. kóng lán-ê-óe, to talk on our side of the question. lóng-sī i-ê-óe, talking as if most unquestionably in the right. hē-óe, to make explanations or apology when found fault with. hē-óe, to interpret spoken language, as in a court. thoân-óe, id.

óe-i, the meaning of the words. óe-mng té, not able to say much for one's self, as when reproved. óe-mng iáu-tng, I have still a great deal to say. gâu-liáh óe-sat, fond of catching at some small error in speaking. gâu-chhng óe-phng, id. phah-chih lêng--ê óe-pi<sup>n</sup>, to cut short a man's talk, so that he does not gain his end. chiét lêng-ê-óe, to interrupt a man when speaking; to cut short another's long story. chiét lêng--ê óe-thâu, id. tsáh lêng--ê óe-thâu, id. lā chit--ê óe-thâu, to make a remark that will naturally lead a man to speak of a matter which we don't like to ask directly. kóng-khi-lái, óe-thâu tng, it would take a long time to talk over this matter. óe-thâu óe-bé, the beginning or end of a talk, e.g. a place where an (apparently) incidental remark can be made, so as to ask a favour, or speak against a man, &c. ang-í sūn óe-bé, a sorceress catching up one's ideas from the questions asked, so as to give suitable answers; said of taking the cue from what a man says, and speaking so as to please him.

óe (C.), = A. úi, to paint or draw.

óe (C.) lê-óe, = A. lê-hōe, aloes.

óe (P.), = A. ōe, = C. oā, words; speech.

óeh (C.), to brush away with the hand, as water or earth from a table.

óeh (P.) óeh ham-khak-á-chi<sup>n</sup>, = A. kuih, &c., a game which children play with shells.

óeh (R. hiáp), (C. êh; Cn. òeh), narrow. óeh-tòeh, id. khoah-óeh, broad and narrow. óeh-khoeh, much straitened for want of room. óeh-soeh, id. óeh-sòe, small, as a place. oan-ke lê-óeh, to meet unexpectedly one whom we would like to avoid (v. oan).

óeh (C. = A. êh). khng-óeh, coarse bran, or fine chaff.

óeh (C.), = A. ùih, a stroke of the pen.

óeh (C.), to fall away, as ground on river bank undermined by the water. óeh--khi, id.

矮
穢
揞
會
衛
話

狹

惡
學

oh [R. ok, bad], difficult; slow. oh-tit-tsòe, difficult to do. phah oh-tit-sit, difficult to extinguish. oh-kiá<sup>n</sup>, slow at walking. tán-mih<sup>n</sup> oh-kàu, when waiting for a thing time looks long.

òh (R. hák), to learn; a school; to imitate or follow example; to practise so as to learn.

òh-lái, a Sew-tsai graduate. chìn-òh, to become a Sew-tsai (v. chìn). bú-òh, a military Sew-tsai. chhut-òh, to go out of the school-room; to get out of the jurisdiction of the literary mandarin, by becoming a Kú-jín, or a Kòng-seng. hú-òh, the Confucian academy (or college) and temple of a Foo city; the principal or president of it. koāi<sup>n</sup>-òh, do. of a Hien (koāi<sup>n</sup>) city. òh-koa<sup>n</sup>, the principal of the Foo or Hien academy, who has authority over the graduates and students. kiá-òh, to hand over (a graduate) to him for custody or punishment. khóng-tsú-òh, a Confucian temple and academy.

òh-tâg, a school-house. òh-pâng, a school-room or study. toā-òh, a school for grown-up pupils; an academy or college. jip-òh, to enter school for the first time. lòh-òh, to go to school each time, usually three times a-day. kà-òh, to teach a school (v. kà). khia-òh, to have a school, as teacher. soà<sup>n</sup>-òh, to dismiss a school at the end of the year. the-òh, to play truant. chéng-òh, to prepare a room and engage a teacher, as the patron (tong-ka) of a school does. hū-òh, to go as an additional scholar, not one of those connected with the person who engages the teacher.

òh-bú, to learn military exercises, as candidates for military degrees. òh-siá-jī, to learn writing. òh-kang-hu, to learn work. kang-hu òh-chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to have learned a manual trade. òh-òe, to take up and spread a report without evidence; to repeat whatever another says. òh-oā (C.), id. òh-òe (r.), to learn till able. òh-ê (C.), id. òh-hó, to learn thoroughly. chiáp-chiáp-òh, to learn diligently by practising over and over. òh-i, to follow his example. òh i-ê-khoán, id. òh i-ê-phái<sup>n</sup>, to imitate his wicked conduct. òh-chhiú òh-chih, to repeat a man's words to his face, making joke of them, as an unmannerly lad; to repeat to a man what has been said against him behind his back.

òh (Cn.) ìn-òh, to give a slight belch so as to show that we have eaten enough.

òh (Cn.), = A. eh, in some words.

òh (T.), to cut a man's grain before it is quite ripe, as robber (cf. C. oe). thau-òh, id. òh i-ê tiū-á-bé, said of a sort of adulterous intrigue, = A. koah i-ê tiū-á-bé (v. tiū).

ok [R. ak, dirty]. ok-chhok, filthy; extremely dirty, as things or language.

ok [R. wicked, bad, = col. oh], fierce; cruel; overbearing; domineering; over-strict; to treat roughly or in an overbearing manner, often so as to cheat or oppress. siên-ok, good and bad (v. siên). hióng-ok, wicked; cruel. sip-ok tsai-lái, having all sorts (lit. ten) of wickedness. tsòe-ok (r), wickedness and guilt. tsòe-ok koàn-boán, measure of guilt full. ok-tók, very wicked or cruel (v. tók). ok chhih-chhih, very fierce or overbearing. ok kiák-kiák, id. ok khiák-khiák, id. ok-chek, guilt accumulated so as to call down Heaven's vengeance. ok-siók, wicked customs. ok-sim, a wicked cruel heart; malicious. ok-seng, bad-tempered, as child. ok-hêng, having an unpleasant ugly look, as if bad-tempered; passionate, overbearing, or bad-tempered; self-willed, disobedient, and troublesome, as boy. ok-kúi, a malicious demon. ok-tóng, a wicked confederacy or clique.

tàu-ok, to quarrel loudly and violently, each trying to be more overbearing. ok--lâng, to treat others in a domineering overbearing way, relying on our power or influence. ok-lâng, an overbearing imperious man. ok-bé, ok-lâng khiá, a wild horse gets his match as a rider. ok-jín, tsū-iú ok-jín mē<sup>n</sup>, oppressors are oppressed (v. mē<sup>n</sup>). ok-kheh, a customer who drives a very hard bargain. hâng chhim, káu ok (lane deep and dog fierce), very difficult of access.

ók (cf. oák). ók-ók-háu, to croak, as a frog or toad.

óm (P.) óm-lóm, to collect into a mass.

ong [R. an old man]. ló-ong (R.), a respectful address to an old man. si-ong (R.), a poet. sien-ong, an aged genie. lâm-kék sien-ong, the spirit of the South Pole. tsui-ong-i (r.), a sort of long lounging-chair.

ông (R. id.), a king; an imperial prince of highest rank; a surname (Wang); title of many idols. kok-ông, a king; a sovereign. kun-ông, id. jín-ông (r.), id. tê-ông, an emperor; emperors and kings. lú-ông, a sovereign queen in her own right. lí-ông (C.), id. chhin-ông, an imperial prince. ông-hú, palace of imperial prince.

hong-ông, to appoint, as a tributary king. hoan-ông, a foreign sovereign. hoán-ông, a rebel chief. chhat-ông, a rebel king or robber chief. khim-chhat, seng khim-ông, first catch the ringleader. pà-ông, a usurper (v. pà). kiám-kháu-ông, a rebel chief used by Heaven as a "scourge of God" to slaughter the wicked people, but not himself reaching the throne.

ông-lók, a travelling doctor (quack) or fortune-teller (v. lók). ông-ngē<sup>n</sup>, a literary man skilled in the business of law-courts, who lives by exciting trouble and managing lawsuits; a pettifogging lawyer. koái-ông, a swindler; a man who entices lads to plays, gambling, or bad houses.

ông-lêng, imperial commission giving the power of capital punishment; also an idolatrous symbol (v. lêng). ông-hoat, the laws of the kingdom. ông-hoat bú-chhin, the law is impartial. ông-kióng, a royal palace, especially the harem.

chheng-ông chheng-tè, said of having an independent fortune (v. chheng).

ông-kong, kings and dukes; feudal sovereigns; also (C.), title or name of several idols, esp. Tân sêng-ông and Keh sêng-ông. sêng-ông-kong, the idol Keh sêng-ông. ông-iá, title of imperial princes; name given to a great many idols. sio ông-iá, an idol of the surname Sio, and so with some other surnames.

ông-tsún, a junk built for the worship of "ông-iá," and sent round the country with his image. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-ông, to invite ông-iá to come. giá-ông, to carry him in procession. sàng-ông, to burn the "ông-tsún" or set it to float away, done with great ceremonies. sàng-ông khi-sin, to burn the image of ông-iá (by land or water); said also of happily getting rid of a man who had been living on us and troubling us, but whom we could not ask to go away, e.g. the deputy of a superior mandarin. kòng-ông (Cn.), to worship him with offerings.

giâm-lô-ông (Cn. ñg), the judge of the dead. chiau-tsai-ông, the god of wealth. ngó-kok-ông, the god of grain, = hē-chek. ióh-ông, = Shin-nung, sin-lóng (v. ióh). lêng-ông, the god of the sea (v.

翁
王

齷
惡

lêng). kúi-óng, a prince of demons (v. kúi). keh-sêng-óng, a famous idol of surname Keh (Cn. küh sêng-ng). kóng-ték tsun-óng, id. tân sêng-óng, an idol of surname Tân. chhêng-chhiú-óng, the god of the banyan-tree. hóe-óng (C.), = A. hé-sin-iá, the god of fire.

chhiá-óng, the 96th radical (giók), when written at the side, so called because its contracted shape is almost the same as the character "óng."

óng [R. to go; to depart; past in time]. kè-óng, to die. kè-óng ê-sū, affairs that are past and out of date. kè-óng ê-tái-chì, id. óng-jit, every day formerly (it was so, &c.) óng-gêh, each month formerly. óng-nî<sup>n</sup>, year by year in past years. óng-si (r.), in past time.

óng-hôe, to go and return. óng-hoán, do, as a messenger or sedan. óng-lâi, to go and come; to have intercourse, as friends. lâi-óng, id. kau-chiap óng-lâi, to have frequent friendly intercourse. ū lâi-óng-siâu, to have an account current (money or goods), each sometimes in debt to the other.

thong-óng, to have a secret intimacy, as with improper or suspicious characters, as for low amusements, improper gains, or injuring one's master, e.g. giving information out of the family to enemies. lâi-bin ê-lâng kap-i thong-óng, some one within the party or family has such intercourse with bad purpose. oe-thong-óng--tit, safe for travelling on, as road. goá kap-i bô-thong-óng, I have no dealings or intercourse with that man.

óng (R. id.) oan-óng, to treat unjustly; to wrong greatly or oppress; oppression or a great wrong (v. oan). óng-toàn, to judge unjustly and oppress, as mandarin. óng-sí, to be killed by very unjust judgment; to be murdered; to commit suicide. óng-sí-siá<sup>n</sup>, the part of Hades for those who have died violent deaths; they must have committed some very great crime in second previous life.

óng-khut, an expression of astonishment with grief or displeasure (v. khut). óng-hùi sim-sin, to spend one's labour (esp. mental labour) uselessly.

óng (R. id.), to prosper. heng-óng, to prosper. hin-óng (C.), id. ióng-óng, strong and vigorous, e.g. not afraid of heat or cold. sia<sup>n</sup> put-chi-óng, voice very loud. hé óng, the fire is burning well. kun-tin óng, having numerous living posterity. poeh-jí óng, horoscope good. ün-khi óng, in great prosperity (v. ün). lâng-khi óng, temperature warm and pleasant, as when men sleep together for warmth, or as when many people are in a room; influence of numerous inhabitants so strong that demons do not dare to injure. óng-khi, making money in great abundance; always winning at gambling; temperament strong and warm, as of a strong young man. óng-chhiú, a skilful hand, as at gambling. oá-óng khoá<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, saying that a man has good luck when he is manifestly prospering.

soe-óng, to decline and to prosper. phêng soe-óng, to make a venture, esp. in trade or feud. phêng lí--ê soe-óng, I will try to do what I can for you (as going to ask a favour, &c.), but feel very doubtful of success. kap-i-phêng soe-óng, I am making a venture, as with a lot of goods.

óng-lê, a fine sort of univalve shell-fish.

óng — óng-lâi, a pine-apple. chit-ki óng-lâi, one pine-apple. óng-lâi-sng, a condiment made from pine-apples.

op (P.), = A. gap, to gulp water, as a fish. op-op-kiò, sound made by small frogs.

旺

鳳旺

P.

In many words corresponds to initial H of the reading form.

pa [R. mark left by a wound?], a dried clot. huih-pa, dried blood on the skin or clothes, as from a sore. kui-pa, in large dried masses, as dried blood or matter, or as starch laid on too thick and dried in a mass (s. palm).

pa — ko-pa-phí, incrustation on a rice-boiler. ko-pa, id.

pa [R. dried meat], dried; emaciated. pa-pa-pa, dried and shrivelled, as dried meat; very lean and emaciated. pek-pa, to dry over the fire, so as to keep a long time. piak-pa, id. phák-pa, to dry in the sun, as meat or fish; to be scorched, as by the sun, or by long drought. ná<sup>n</sup> phák-sí-pa, said of man standing or working in a very hot sun. keng-pa, to stretch out by a stick of bamboo and dry in the sun, as a duck cut open. kien-pa, to dry, as meat, without stretching.

hí-pa, dried fish. ah-pa, dried duck. koe-pa, dried fowl. bah-pa, dried meat, esp. pork. gû-phê-pa, dried untanned cow-hides.

pa [R. to slap with the palm; an exclamation of surprise; an ancient state in Sze-chuen]. chit-pa-chiú<sup>n</sup>, the expanded hand, meaning five, or fifty, &c. (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). niau<sup>n</sup>-pi-pa, all over pock-marked. kui-

pa, in large masses or patches (like palm of hand), as itch or eruption (s. clot).

pa-kiet, skilful at managing business; hard to get round; to ingratiate one's self with a superior, by flattery, &c. gâu-pa-kiet, good at ingratiating one's self with a powerful man by flattery, sycophancy, and such mean arts. teh-pa-lôe sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, what are you engaged about? (v. lôe).

ε-lô-pa, Europe (v. ε).

pa — pa-lun-thun, to bolt, as food or medicine (v. lun). hióng-pa lí-láu, very ugly (v. láu).

pa [R. sound made by children]. pa-siá<sup>n</sup>, Batavia. ka-lâ-pa, Java. ka-lâu-pa (C.), id.

pa [R. the banana and such plants], a plant (arum?) like a plantain, with large leaf and beautiful red flower. pa-chiau-si<sup>n</sup>, a large leaf-shaped fan, used by the ancients and by the genii.

pa-tâu, the croton-oil bean or plant. pa-tâu-jin, croton-oil beans.

pa [R. a bamboo fence]. lí-pa, a fence of plants or railing of reeds round a field or garden; a hedge (C. lí-loa).

pa (C. poa). pa-lak-hí (C. poa-láu), a good edible fish. sêk-pa-lak, cooked do. (sold cooked). pa-lang-hí, another sort, larger. pa-láu-hí, another sort.

往

枉

疤

羮

巴

吧

芭

笆

鮑

把

pa — pa-lê, metal rings with balls inside (v. lê).
pa (Cn.) pa-chiah, = A. ka-chiah, the back.

pá [R. to hold in the hand, = col. pé, pah]. pá-chhi, shrewd; difficult to get round; able and confident in one's powers. pá-pêng, determined in purpose (v. pêng).

piên-pá-hì, jugglery. pí"-pá-hì, do.; idle play; idle and full of sport, as a playful boy. tsòe-pá-hì, to sport about, as a boy hopping, leaping, or at gymnastics, or playing with some small animal he has caught.

飽

pá (R. páu), satiated; satisfied; full. iau-pá, hungry and full (v. iau). siu"-pá-kek, much surfeited. pá-tiù", surfeited. chiah-pá-tiù", to surfeit one's self. chiah-pá, to eat till satisfied; I have eaten enough. chiah-pá teh-chê, having nothing to do (but eat). chiah-pá chiū-khùn, only eats and sleeps. iū tiòh-chiah-khi-pá, make it absorb oil till saturated. chiah kàu-pá-tong-tong, I have eaten quite enough.

pá-tí", stuffed full. pá-moá", id. pá-tsát, closely packed or crammed together; fully understanding a thing. pá-tsúi, well filled, as fruit or grain. chit-phê pá-pá, fully ten lí. khùn-pá, having slept quite enough. chhui pá, bák m-pá, though having eaten to the full, the eyes are not yet satisfied. thia" kàu-pá-hì, id.; feeling that we have heard quite enough, and don't wish to hear any more.

pá-lâ, very corpulent; also, amusing one's self too much, as lads too fond of pleasures, or when meddling with other people's matters and troubling them.

pà (R. id.) a-pà, Papa!

pà (R. id.), a leopard. hé-pà, tigers and leopards. hé-pà sai-chhiū", do., and lions and elephants. hé-lêng pá-piu, said of men of very violent disposition (v. piu). hé seng pá-jí, the tiger has cubs like leopards.

niau" pá-pà, very much pock-marked.

pà (R. id.), to usurp. pá-chhiàm, to take violent and unjust possession. kiông-pà, id. pá-seng, crabbed and bad-tempered, as children. à-pà, id. put-chí-pà, very disobedient and ill-behaved, as a bad young lad. pá-tô, violent and oppressive. êng pá-tô, by violence, or threats of violence. êng pá-hoat, to use force, or show determination to use it if resisted, as in taking possession of something.

pà-lái pá-khi, very busy; always managing matters, or diligently seeking for work; also (C.), striking right and left with his paws, as tiger. si--kòe pá--lâng, borrowing everywhere, but not paying.

pà-chháu-meh", to catch grasshoppers, as with both hands, or with a hand-net.

pà-ông, a usurper. chhê pá-ông, a famous king of Tsoo. chháu pá-ông, id.

pà— bé-pà-thâu, the small of the back. bé-pà, id.

巴

pà [R. pa]. ɛ-lé-pà (Europe), cotton goods (v. ɛ).

pā [R. pō, violent; to strike, = col. pāu, pāu], to strike the head with the open hand. pā thâu-khak, id. khít-lú pā--tiòh, to be somewhat stunned by lightning; said also of a man talking in a random reckless way.

罷

pā [R. to stop; to cease]. pā-chhi, to shut the shops (of a street, or ward, or town), as a protest against some action of the mandarins. pā-khó, the whole of the literati refusing to go to the examinations, as a demonstration against the mandarins. pā--liáu, no more of this! the matter is ended now.

pā" (T.), = nā", to singe, as fire or lightning.

pah [R. pek, = col. peh], (C. peh), a hundred. nng-pah, two hundred. ji-pah, id. pah-jī, a hundred and twenty. pah-bān, a million.

pah-iū", all sorts. pah-hāng-mih", all sorts of things. bün-bú pah-koa", all mandarins. pah-ní"-hè-âu, dead. pah-iáp, double, as a cultivated flower.

sa"-pah-lák-si, a sort of very thin paper. tsòe-pah-jit, to finish the ceremonies of khiā-hà, after burial.

pah [R. pá, to hold in the hand, = col. pé], (C. peh). pah-iá, a petty officer of land troops (like naval tū-koa"), said to command about thirty soldiers, especially cavalry; he is not counted a mandarin; also (Cn.), a sort of drill-sergeant. pah-tsóng (Cn.), = A. pé-tsóng, a captain of about 100 men (v. tsóng).

pai [R. pan, a company or relay], (T. pai"). hia-pai, fond of gaudy display, as in dress, house, &c.; ostentatious; dashing; fond of intercourse with mandarins or wealthy people. ài-hia-pai, id., or fond of giving feasts. kóng-òe ài-hia-pai, in the habit of talking very big.

pai (R. id.), to arrange in order; to set in regular rows; classifier of tiers, &c. sa"-pai, to set out things over against each other. chiau-pai, arranged in regular order. pi"-pai, arranged in an even orderly manner. an-pai, to tidy up. an-pai pè-ti, all nicely arranged. pai-khui, to spread out, as a number of articles. pai-liét, to arrange in order.

pai-chhiang, extravagantly ornamental; gaudy, as house or dress. pai-chi, id.; also, proud and self-satisfied in bearing, as on growing rich or getting much success. pai-piét, having much display, as a spectacle.

phê-pai, to treat with respectful attention; to arrange things in nice order (v. phê).

pai-pí, to arrange or adjust matters; to make preparations for some one. pai-kái, to adjust a dispute, &c., for another (v. kái).

pai-gê, to arrange all the servants and employés of a yamun, as on the arrival or return of a mandarin. pai chhiu"-to-hāng, to arrange files of soldiers, as at an execution. pai-tin, to arrange the ranks of an army. pai-tui, id. pai-peng pè-tin, id. pai-toh, to set the table for a meal. pai óá"-ti, id. pai-mih" bôe, to set out things for sale. pai ké-tóng, to arrange ornaments or curios, &c., as for sale or as for ornament. pai-kiáu, to keep a gambling house or place. pai-thoa", to set out a Cantonese sort of gambling. pai-toá", to set up a temporary shrine with a great many ornaments. pai-chê, to come (as friend) to worship the dead with a great quantity of offerings.

pai (R. id.), a raft. tek-pai, a bamboo raft or catamaran, as for fishing, &c., or a raft of bamboos brought down the river. sam-pai, a raft of timber. ká-pai, to make a raft. ká sam-pai, make a raft of timber.

pai (R. id.), a tablet; a sign-board; (cards or dominoes); (a shield); a licence, warrant, or pass-port, ship's papers, &c.

hún-pai, a white painted board for writing on, used as a slate, washing off the ink with water. tsúi-pai, large white painted tablet on which notices are written at yamun gate. koà-tsúi-pai, to hang up this board with intimations. koà-pai, to hang up a memorial

百

把

班

排

爸豹

霸

排

牌

tablet; to hang up an intimation of cases to be tried at yamun. hông-kò-pái, a tablet with intimation that complaints may now be entered, as after holidays, or by new mandarin. pái-pién, a tablet put up above a door; a sign-board. chiau-pái, a shop-sign; a trade-mark. pái-sū, the inscription in small letters at corner of wooden tablet. tûg-kha-pái, tablets on long handles with titles of mandarins or idols, set up at gate of yamun or temple, and carried in procession. lê-koan-pái, a wicker tablet covered with paper telling the route of an incense procession. ke-kah-pái, a census tablet containing the names of the members of the family (often put up at door of house). ke-sîn-pái, a large ancestral tablet with several names (v. sîn). liên-pái, scrolls with sentences for hanging on walls. teng-pái, a very long lantern with inscription.

chiòh-pái, a small stone tablet with inscription, smaller than "pi." chiòh-pi-pái, engraved stone tablets. bông-pái, a tombstone. khiā-pái, to set up a head-stone at a grave. khiā bú-ték-pái, said of a cock or cockchafer that beats all competitors.

gûn-pái, a medal. liú-pái, buttons in general. pái-á-liú, buttons of foreign shape. gék-só-pái, a jade amulet worn by child, in shape of a flat padlock. io-pái, a ticket worn at the waist by a soldier out of the yamun.

hé-pái, an express warrant, especially for ordering or summoning a mandarin. pái-phiò, a warrant. úi-pái, credentials given to a mandarin appointed to some duty, or to a deputy (úi-oân) sent to manage some affair. koa-pái, a ship's papers, renewed at short intervals. pái-chiò, ship's papers (two), the register and the clearance. âng-pái, a ship's register. pái-miâ, the name by which a vessel is registered. tsûn-pái, a vessel's register given in each time the vessel enters port. giâm tsûn-pái, to examine a vessel's papers. niá tsûn-pái, to get back the register when about to leave port again. niá-pái, id. oá-pái, to have ship's register changed, as on change of owner, or great repairs, or change of usual line of voyage; to have vessel's papers changed. chhiá tsûn-pái, to make application for the register when a junk is built and ready for sea. chhiá-pái, id., or when thoroughly repaired; to ask a licence for a pawnshop.

tín-pái, a shield. pín-pái, id. chhiú-pái, id. chit-bin-pái, one shield. hé-thâu-pái, shield with tiger's head on it. chiáh-pái, to be one of the soldiers who carry shields (v. chiáh). ién tín-pái, to use a shield. sái pín-pái, id. pái-toà, a long sword used in war.

pái-á, playing cards. chit-ki pái-á, one card. poáh pái-á, to play at cards. phah pái-á, to throw down a card. kut-pái, dominoes made of bone. gê-pái, do. of ivory. phê gê-pái, to lay them out in playing.

pái-thâu-tia, an idol attendant on Sêng-hông-iá (v. tia).

pái, to talk plausibly so as to represent a thing better than it is; to talk over a man by plausible words. gâu-pái, skilful at deceiving by plausible talk. kap-i-pái, talking him over, so as to swindle or cheat him, or secretly instigate him against another. kap-goá teh-pái, making very plausible excuses for not doing what I tell him. pái-lông, to instigate by slanders, as to hatred, feud, or injury. pái-lái pái-khì, to delude men into mutual enmity by maliciously slandering each to the other. pái-kè-lái, pái-kè-khì, id., = chit-ki-chhiú, pái-kè-lái pái-kè-khì [perhaps this word and all the other pái, to exchange, as similar things (esp. Cn. Ank.); also (Ank.), to borrow money. pái-chi, to exchange, as good for bad cash which we had given in payment; also (Ank.), to borrow money. pái-oá, to exchange. pái-poah, to exchange, as places, duties, or persons; esp. to send subordinates to a different place for a short time; to assist, as gods do (v. poah). sa-pái, to exchange, as things (s. time). pái-lái pái-khì, id. pái-kè-lái pái-kè-khì, id. pái kúi-i (Ank.), to borrow a little money.

"pái" are really the same, from the root idea of shaking from one side to the other].

pái [R. to arrange; to set out], to shake about. pái-lái pái-khì, to shake from side to side, as boat at anchor in a swell. pái--chit-ê, pái--chit-ê, to shake about in walking, as lame man or man who walks ill. pái--cheh pái--cheh, id. pái-toá, to take a step to the left, as chair-bearer. pái-siò, to take a step to the right. iò-pái, to strut; to walk ostentatiously; to shake about (v. iò). pái-chhiòh, the pendulum of a clock.

pái-pê, to use underhand means (as intrigues, influence, or bribes) to advance one's own ends or injure another; to help over a difficulty, as the gods; to represent a man to his superior as worse than he really is. pái-pê (T.), id. pái-pê bô-sū, to assist out of trouble, as the gods. khít-i pái-pê, to suffer from the intrigues of another. kap-goá teh-pái-pê, trying to delude me by deceitful intrigues. kâng-goá pái-pê, id.

pái — pái-kha, lame; limping in walking. kha pái-pái, id. pái-kha pái-chhiú, feet lame and hands disabled, &c. pái-pôe, lame in leg or arm; all gone wrong (v. pôe). pái-khoái, mismanaged and all gone wrong, as affair that is gone wrong beyond mending; to change to strong opposition (v. khoái). σ-a kiò pái-sūi, the crow called lame Sūi to his ruin (v. a).

pái, a turn, time, or occasion. pái-pái, every time; constantly. ták-pái, each time. sé-pái, every time; over and over (v. sé). bô-siâu-pái, a great many times. chit-poá-pái, only once, or very seldom. chit-pái-á, id. sa-pái, thrice (s. exchange). kúi-pái, how often? sêng chhit-pái, to multiply by seven, esp. on the abacus. âu-pái, the next time. chêng-pái, on a former occasion.

chiâu-pái, in proper turn. i-ê-pái, his proper turn. chhoân-pái, forcibly take one's turn before the proper time. kháh-pái, to come to the jetty and wait for passengers in regular turn, as boats do at night in turn. sa-pái-thòe, to work by turns.

thàn-lâu-pái, to take advantage of the opportunity (fig. from time of tide). hó-lâu-pái, a favourable opportunity. m-si lâu-pái, this is not the proper time for doing it. che-si sim-mih lâu-pái, what sort of time is this? (I am too busy, or the time is quite unsuitable). koá-kín ê-lâu-pái, a time when great baste must be made.

tûg-pái, a junk that plies with goods and perhaps a few passengers, not every day.

pái (R. id.), to do reverence to; to worship; to pay a ceremonial visit; to pay respects to; to take as one's instructor or patron. kêng-pái, to worship. kúi-pái, to kneel and do reverence to. pái-ip, to make a bow, as to a superior. kau-pái, bride and bridegroom saluting each other. tùi-pái, id. khòk-khòk-pái, to bow low over and over. phak-teh-pái, to kneel and bow very low. phak--teh khòng-khòng-pái,

擺

擺

擺

拜

to kneel and bow very often. tùn-siú pài, to bow the head in reverence or worship.

pài-thok, to request a friend, or man of similar station, to do a commission or give a message.

pài-ki<sup>n</sup>, to pay a visit. pài-hâu, id. pài-hôe, visit of equal mandarins. pài-chia<sup>n</sup>, to pay visits at new-year time. pài-siū, to make a congratulatory visit on birthday. pài-kheh, to visit acquaintances, as new graduate or mandarin, generally expecting to get presents. pài-siā, to give thanks ceremonially (v. siā). siā-pài, to go and pay respects to a man who has come and worshipped our deceased relative. hâu-lâm siā-pài, a son doing so after father's death (said only in scolding). hê-pài, to return a visit. hōe-pài, id. tap-pài, id., or a bow.

pài-keng, to kneel and make offerings at the rites called "chiò." pài-chhàm, to perform certain Buddhist rites for the dead (v. chhàm). pài-tùi, to worship Confucius or Khoe-seng by antithetic sentences, as young scholars.

pài-toa<sup>n</sup>, to send a card instead of calling. pài-piò, to present or forward a memorial to the emperor. pài-pún, id. pài-png, id. pài-siong, to become prime minister (v. sióng).

pài-toā, to draw up the helm and lay it flat on deck. pài sai-hū, to engage one's self or be engaged to a master, as apprentice. pài sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to study under a teacher. pài-báu, to have one's name put on the books of an official in a yamun for protection (v. báu). pài-sien (C.), id. pài tō-su, to have one's name thus put on the books of the Tau-tai's yamun. pài-lâng tsòe khòe-bú, to take a woman as a sort of adoptive mother or patroness. kiet-pài hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, men who agree to look on each other's parents as their own.

lé-pài, ceremonial worship; a week. lé-pài-jit, Sunday; Sabbath. lé-pài-tng, a chapel. pài-tng, id. pài-it, Monday. pài-jī, Tuesday, &c. pài-kú, which day of the week?

pài-tiam, a cushion for kneeling on. pài-thiap, a card of invitation, or card with some polite phrase.

pài (R. id.), to decay; to go to ruin; to be defeated; to ruin. pài-hoài, to ruin. pài-liáu, undone! all gone wrong! chhit-soah poeh-pài, all gone wrong. pài-pán, damaged, as goods, or as affair all gone wrong. pài-chhi, bad sale. phoà-pài, ruined and bankrupt; all lost or squandered; wasted away, as family (v. phoà). pang-pài, quite ruined and bankrupt, as firm or shop. pài i-ê-lē, to damage ruinously a man's plans of action or means of livelihood. pài-ke, to ruin a family, as a wicked son or bad wife, &c. pài-kok, to ruin a nation or kingdom; said also of one man by his wickedness bringing shame on all his relations, or by his imprudence ruining a whole affair. pài hong-súi, to injure the good luck of a place. pài tē-lí, id. siong-hong pài-siók, to ruin the morals of a place, as a very wicked man or bad custom. gék-lí pài-lûn, to commit incest. pài-bêng sit-chiet, to commit some great and shameful crime (esp. adultery among relatives), so that one's name can never be clean again.

thai-pài, to be defeated in battle. pài-tin, id. pài-pok (R.), id. pài-tsáu, to be defeated and routed; to be put to flight. pài-peng, defeated soldiers; to be defeated in battle. êng chit-ê, khí-pài-peng, we have lost our case by employing this fellow. pài-peng chi-chiòng, put-kám giên-ióng, a defeated general dares not talk of courage.

pai<sup>n</sup> [R. pan, spotted]. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-pai<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), get spotted with mould, as books or clothes.

pai<sup>n</sup> (T.) hia-pai<sup>n</sup>, = A. hia-pai; gaudy, fond of display, &c.

pai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. pan, a man's name.

pai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. pêng, a side.

pai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. péng, to turn. pai<sup>n</sup>-bún, = A. hoán-bún, the 66th radical, at the side.

pai<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) goā-pai<sup>n</sup>, = goā-piāng, exclamation of great surprise.

pak (R. hok), the belly; the seat of the mind and feelings; (the barrel of a gun); the hollow, as of a decaying tree. pak-té, the belly, or seat of mind.

chhiū-pak, the hollow in a tree. àu-pak, having a decayed hollow in the trunk, as tree. toā-pak-chhèng, a gun of large bore. siang-pak-chhèng, a doubled-barrelled gun or pistol.

tsat-pak, stupid; solid, not hollow. sim-pak ê-lâng, a very intimate friend and trusty confidential adviser. sim-pak-lâng, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-pak hün-khi, full of rage. moá<sup>n</sup>-pak bün-chiu<sup>n</sup>, very learned, as to essays, &c. moá<sup>n</sup>-pak tē-lióng, very compassionate and generous. khòa<sup>n</sup>-pak tē-lióng, liberal; magnanimous. tháu chit-pak hün-khi, to let out one's anger by expressing it in words. lâng-sim-koá<sup>n</sup>, gū-pak-té, very covetous. peh-pak, anxious grieved state of mind. chhau-sim peh-pak, id. chiáu-sim peh-pak, id. lô-sim peh-pak, id. hoân-sim peh-pak, id. pak-té bô-poá<sup>n</sup>-tiám bak-tsúi, has no learning or power of literary composition at all.

pak-lái, within the belly, or mind, or heart; also, the entrails, as of a pig. bóe pak-lái, to buy the entrails. hó-pak-lái, very clever and intelligent. pak-lái khang-hu, hungry; with empty stomach but no appetite, as sick man; said also of a man of weak and consumptive constitution, though outwardly looking well; illiterate.

pak-tsái, the navel. pak-té-pi<sup>n</sup>, the soft part of the side below the ribs. phoà-pak, to rip up the belly; to tell one's whole mind. ng pak-té, to hold one's belly, as in great pain. làu-pak, looseness of bowels. tsáu-pak, id. siá-pak, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-pak-té, severe diarrhoea. hoân-pak, stomach turned; vomiting. thun-lòh-pak, to swallow down. chiáh-lòh-pak, to swallow, as smoke.

toā-pak-té, pregnant. siang-pak hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, sons of same father and mother. keh-pak hia<sup>n</sup>-tī (T.), sons of same father by different mothers.

peh-pak, a good edible fish, like the "bé-ka." khoah-pak, a sort with broad belly, not so good.

pak (R. hok), classifier of ornamental scrolls for hanging on walls. chit-pak-pê, a roll of cloth. chit-pak-pút, one scroll with picture of idol. chit-pak-jī, one scroll with written characters. chit-pak tsái-tsú-siū, a scroll with picture of the impersonations of Wealth, Posterity, and Longevity.

pak (R. id.), to skin; to strip off; to plunder clothes from a man's back; to remove soil so as to make the ground lower and level. kek-pak, to extort money by oppression. pak-phê, to skin; to flay. kióng-pak, to strip and plunder of dress. pak-sa<sup>n</sup>, id. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-pak, to plunder and strip. pak kng-kng, to strip a man quite naked. thng-pak-theh, naked. pak-theh-theh, id. pak kàu-chit-sin kng-liú-liú (=liu), to strip stark naked, as a robber; said also of a bad fellow gambling away all that he has, even to his clothes.

腹

敗

幅

剥

斑

pak-siap, feeling of pain and emptiness; very poor and wretched; dry and unpleasant, as food (v. siap).

pak (R. pok), north. lâm-pak, south and north. tang-sai lâm-pak, east, west, south, and north. lâm-pak tui-chhióng, south and north right opposite, as in site for grave or house. chhun lâm, hē pak: bô-tsuí thang boâ-bák, south wind in spring and north wind in summer don't bring water enough to rub ink. tang-pak, north-east. sai-pak, north-west; a N.W. wind (v. sai). hong pak, the wind is from the north. lêng-tsûn-pak, a strong N. wind for several days about the beginning of the 5th month.

chiu<sup>n</sup>-pak, to go to the north. ng-pak, facing the north. bîn ng-pak, to be a private individual.

pak-táu, Ursa Major (v. tau). pak-kék, the polestar. pak-kiá<sup>n</sup>, Pekin. toâ-pak, the north of China, e.g. Shantung and beyond. sió-pak, parts of China a long way north from Amoy, but not so far; e.g. about Shanghai. pak-thâu, the north of China. pak-si, on the north; northern region. pak-kháu-goâ, the regions beyond the N.W. borders of China proper; e.g. Sin-kiong and I-lê, used as places for banishment. pak-á, a man of North China. pak-kheh, a Chinaman who trades between Amoy and the North of China (a native of either). pak-tsûn, vessels trading with North China. pak-hè, goods from the north. pak-tâu, beans or pease from the north. pak-hiên, sort of guitar. pak-koán, songs in the mandarin dialect (v. koán).

pak [R. variegated; to discuss, = pok]. pak-tsáp, having various colours mixed indistinctly together; skilful at a great many things. pak ji-kut, to examine minutely into the meaning of a character; examining too carefully and minutely into a matter.

pak (R. pok), to tie; to bind. siu<sup>n</sup>-pak, too tight, as dress. pak-ki-kut, to make a framework, as for a lantern; to set a matter in proper train (v. ki). pak-lâng-sng, to make a large wicker frame for cooking by steam. pak-kè, to change the front oar to the other side of the boat. pak-kè, to make the female head-ornament called "kè" (v. kè). pak-kha, to bind the feet of women. beh-kè, chiah pak-kha, to begin preparation when too late.

sok-pák, behaving properly, esp. avoiding too free manners, under the restraint of the presence of another, esp. a superior. khit-i pé-pák, afraid or unable to do something because restrained by another's commands or wishes. pé-pák-teh, do., or unable to go somewhere because of household cares or business. hē-hong-siók pé-pák, to have to do something (against one's own wish or views) because of the general custom. hē-mê-kúi pé-pák, to be enslaved by the devil to some bad course.

pak, to hire or rent for a long time; to charter or apprentice; to farm, as revenue. pau-pák, to farm a monopoly from the government. pē-pák--ê, having a monopoly of a trade from a supreme board; said also to a man acting in an overbearing way and trying to prevent another selling some article. lí m-si pē-pák--ê, have not you a monopoly from Pekin? (said to such a man). pak bé-á, to farm the revenue, as of opium, &c. pak pe-thâu, to farm the monopoly of some article at a place. pak iâm-koán, to farm the salt monopoly for a district.

pak-tsûn, to charter a vessel. pak-chhân, to rent land for farming. pak chit-téng-kiō, to hire a sedan for a long journey. pak tng-kang, to hire a labourer for a long period. pak--i tng-kang, to be thus hired by him. pak lê-tsâi, to hire a boy, almost like a slave, for several years. pak--lâng tsòe-lê-tsâi, to hire out (as one's son) to be like a slave to another for so long; to be so hired out or bonded so. pak--lâng tsng-hi, to apprentice out a boy to actors for a long term of years.

pak (Cn.) lâ-pák, = A. nâ-pók, carrots.

pan [R. name of disease]. chhut-pan, to have a severe disease that makes dark spots on the body. chhut ê-pan, a very dangerous fever (typhus?) with black spots. chhut âng-pan, a sort with red spots, less dangerous. khí-pan, these spots appearing. giah-pan, to puncture the spots, for healing.

pan [R. to publish by authority]. pan-chiâu, to publish an imperial decree. pan--chhut-lâi, to publish everywhere by imperial authority. pan-hêng thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, do. to all the world. pan-hêng thien-hâ, id. pē-pan--ê, published by order of a supreme board, as imperial decree.

pan [R. pân, piên, ready]. pan-gi, cheap (v. gi). pan (cf. piên, to pull). pan-chí, a ring worn on the thumb, esp. by archers, also for ornament. gék-pan-chí, an ornamental thumb-ring of jade-stone.

pan [R. poan, pan, name of insect]. pan-bâ, a small beetle like the Spanish fly; blistering-plaster is made from it.

pan (C.) pan-chi-hoa, = A. piên-chi-hoe, the bombax-tree.

pan (C. poan). sam-pan-khiah, the interstices between the battlements of a wall.

pan [R. a company; relays in order], a relay or company acting in turn. koan-pan, to purchase rank or office; purchased office or rank. lán chit-pan ê-lâng, we this sort of people (said by police or actors).

a-pan, a sailor who climbs the mast; also, unreasonable in money matters, e.g. refusing to pay enough, but not so bad as "áu-bân." kap-goá teh-a-pan, refusing to pay me all that is due. a-pan-hiâ<sup>n</sup>, the middle bulk-head of a boat.

lê-pan-chhióh, the foot-measure used by carpenters and masons (v. lê; v. chhióh).

hi-pan, a company of actors. hi-á-pan, young actors. toâ-pan-hi, plays in mandarin dialect by grown-up men. sòe-pan-hi, do. by young actors.

pan-thâu, head-men of mandarin's attendants and lictors, one for each side of the yamun, and more in larger yamuns. pan-thia<sup>n</sup>, central room of the house in a yamun where the police, &c., sit waiting. pan-pâng, side-rooms of do.

bûn-pan bú-pan, ranks of civil and military mandarins in attendance on emperor at audience. tsō-pan, mandarin's attendants and lictors. kun-pan, mandarin's servants. kiō-pan, mandarin's chair-bearers. chhe-pan, musicians who play at meal-time in yamun; military musicians.

khia<sup>n</sup>-pan, to stand before the mandarin's tribunal (as his attendants) when the court is held. tsân-pan, do., or when the mandarin goes out or in. chiu<sup>n</sup>-pan, to enter on one's term of duty, as lictors, police, &c. tióh-pan, to come to one's turn or time of duty about yamun. kai-pan, do., of civil mandarins only (v. kai). lôh-pan, to retire from duty on ending one's term. kē-pan, turn of duty passed to another. ê-pan, the next time our turn comes. oâ<sup>n</sup>-pan, to change the garrison or watch of soldiers. oâ<sup>n</sup>-pan-peng, a company of soldiers who change the garrison of Formosa. toâ-

北

駁

縛

贖

癩

頒

便

蟹

班

pan-peng, to lead soldiers to relieve others, as garrison of Formosa.

班

pān (R. id.) pan-pan, speckled or spotted, as animal. pan-ê, pock-marked man. chit-ê-bin pan-pan, face all pock-marked. hoe-pan, speckled; spotted. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-pan, spotted by sun or age (not by illness); spotted with black spots of mould, as clothes from damp. pan-tiám, spotted; slightly pock-marked. niau<sup>n</sup>-pan-tiám, marked with small spots; slightly pock-marked. hé-pan-tiám, marked with large long streaks like a tiger. hé-pan, id.

tióng-pan, a very small fresh-water fish, abundant in the êng-chhài-hô at Amoy. tióng-pan-hí, id.

pān — tók-pān, a sort of bright green flying beetle (s. jar). tē-pān (C.), id. gī-pān (T.), id.

pān (C.), = A. pêng, side (P. pêng).

餅瓶

pān [R. pín, a sort of earthen jar]. tē-pān, a teapot, especially tall and narrow. chiú-pān, a wine jug. lê-si-pān, a tall small-necked wine-jug, used on ceremonial occasions. hoe-pān, a tall jug or glass jar for cut flowers in water, or for artificial flowers. chit-pān-hoe, a bouquet of cut flowers for a flower-glass. tók-pān, an earthen vessel for flowers (s. beetle). tē-pān (C.), id. lé-pān (Cn.), a wine-jug used at ancestral worship and such ceremonies. lé-pān-chiok (Cn.), do., and cups for these ceremonies.

板

pān (R. id.), a board; a coffin; a bamboo for beating; classifier of blows in punishment. sam-pān, a small boat; a female slave with large feet (v. sam). tsàu-pān, a flat ornament held in the hand in ancient times at audience (v. tsàu). pán-tsó, a sort of breech-loading gingall. pán-kim, stiff gilded paper, used for ornamental work.

toā-pán-kun, the great sinew in the bend of the knee. pán-lâ-iú, the large mass of fat at an animal's side. pán-chhng, large blotches of itch at the posteriors.

siū-pān, a coffin made ready during life. pán-tiám, a coffin shop. pán-phe, an unfinished coffin.

toā-pán, the large bamboo for beating with. sió-pán, the small one. phah toā-pán, to beat with the large bamboo. phah sió-pán, do. with the small. khia-pán, to beat with the edge of the bamboo. phah kúi-pán, how many blows of the bamboo? (in yamun). êng to-pán siau, to strike with the flat of a sword (v. to).

tek-pán, bamboo split into strips suitable for use as boarding. an tek-pán, to lay down bamboo boarding, esp. on threshold. tek-pán-í, a seat made of bamboo laid horizontally.

pán-í, a broad bench, on which one can sleep. pán-pí, a flat wooden terrace. tē-pán, a wooden floor on ground-floor. tōe-pán, id. thien-hô-pán, a ceiling. thien-lô-pán, id. thien-hoa-pán, id. mng-si<sup>n</sup>-pán, the leaf of a door before it is put on, or when taken off for some purpose. khò-pán, cross-board for elbows in large sedan. iên-pán, perpendicular boarding carried round below the eaves to cover the ends of the clap-boards.

版

pān (R. id.), blocks for printing; types [this word is often interchanged with the former]. in-pán, blocks for printing. chheh-pán, id. khek-pán, to engrave blocks for printing (v. khek). khan-pán (R.), id. oáh-pán, movable types. tâng-pán, copper-plate. chháu-pán, ill-cut blocks. kū-pán, old blocks; old edition. sē-pán, printed at Soo-chow. chiang-pán, printed at Chang-chew.

pān [R. pān, to manage; a pattern; a sample]. pán-tsú, supercargo or owner of junk, esp. in junks trading south. pái-pán, damaged, as goods or anything; unsuccessful and ruined, as affair. chip-si-pán, very obstinate in keeping to one's own way. chip-ké-pán, to adhere obstinately to old customs or patterns. chiàu-ké-pán, according to ancient customs or pattern, e.g. rather coarsely made though strong and good, or made without using the latest improvements. ké-pán-lâng, a man who is quiet and straightforward, moderate and simple in his tastes, not fond of display or amusements, or new-fangled ways.

pān (R. id.) kap-pán, a square-rigged vessel (from Malay, "kapel"). kap-pán-tsún, id. kap-pán-á, a boat of foreign build, or small yacht. kap-pán-hoán, the war of 1842.

pān [R. hoán, to turn over, = col. pêng], (also C., = A. pêng, to turn over).

pán-bún, the 66th or 67th radical written at the side.

pān (C.) pán-sit, = A. pién-sit, a cake of dough containing minced meat (v. sit).

pān [R. hún, pān, to dress up]. tá<sup>n</sup>-pān, style of dress; dress; fashion of place or time; to dress one's self just "comme il faut." gâu-tá<sup>n</sup>-pān, fond of dressing one's self just in strict propriety according to one's station. soe-tsng tá<sup>n</sup>-pān, to adorn one's self, as woman.

pān (R. pān, piēn), = bān, a lobe of an orange, lemon, or pumelo, &c.

pān (C.) kap-pān, = kap-bān, a sort of strong chest.

pān (R. id.), pattern; sample; manner; form; to manage or take action; (to prepare; a manager).

bō-chhūn-pān, without having had any previous thought of it (v. chhūn). pān-phoe (C.), to conjecture or calculate beforehand. bō-pān-phoe (C.), unexpectedly. bō-phài-pān (C.), id.

bō-pān, no regularity; all various. kóng-kàu-bō-pān, to talk falsely, or at least with great exaggeration and recklessness; to make exorbitant demands. toā-pān, liberal; frank and open; self-composed and at ease when meeting with strangers or superiors; dignified in manner; wide and flowing, as dress; large in body. khah-toā-pān, more so; also getting on better in business, or looking better off. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe toā-pān, large in body.

hó-pān, easy to manage or settle; good of its sort; of good form or pattern; wealthy; making a good profit.

pān-thâu, a sort; a sample; a muster of goods. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pān, a fair profit; properly made. sióng-pān, first-rate. tióng-pān, of medium quality. hā-pān, inferior quality. chiàu-pān, according to sample or pattern. chiàu-pān-bóe, to buy by sample. sūn-pān, all alike, and like the pattern. khò<sup>n</sup>-pān, to look at the pattern or sample, so as to follow it. pí-pān, to compare the pattern. tsóáh-pān, to differ from the pattern or sample. tsáu-pān, id. hoán-pān, to send goods inferior to the sample. hè-pān, a sample or muster of goods. tē-pān, a sample or muster of tea, as in a paper, or in a small box.

kha-pān, the measure of one's foot. khò<sup>n</sup>-jit-pān, to observe how far the sun's shadow has gone. tsúi-pān, the state of the tide; the depth of water; also, a piece of stone or brick which marks how much water may be taken from a common stream. phah tsúi-

辨

舩

反

扮

辦

辦

pān, to take soundings with lead or pole. sím-mih<sup>n</sup>
pān-sia<sup>n</sup>, how many fathoms deep?

su-pān, a clerk in a mandarin's office. tsū-pān (Cn.), id. hiáp-pān, an assistant mandarin in the customs or other office (v. hiáp). tāi-pān, an agent or temporary substitute authorized to act for his principal, either in business, or for a mandarin; to act temporarily, as such a substitute, or as agent. thòe--i tāi-pān, to act temporarily in his place. bóe-pān, a servant who buys provisions for a hong; a ship's steward.
beh-khì bóe-pān, I am going to buy things for household use.

pān-hè, to buy goods in order to sell them again, either on one's own account or on commission. thok-- lāng pān-hè, to commission a man to buy goods for us. thok-kiá pān-hè, do. from a place a good way off. pān-tê, to buy up tea where it is grown. chhái- pān, to select and buy goods.

pī-pān, to prepare; to make ready. chhoān-pān, to make all ready (persons or things). pān-chhe, to prepare food, lodging, servants, bearers, &c., for a mandarin who is coming (v. chhe). pān-kông, to prepare tribute for emperor. pān-toh, to prepare a feast. pān- chhài, to prepare and cook food for guests (v. chhài).
pān-chhiú, prepare liquor for guests. pān-chhiú chhiá--lāng, to invite people to such a feast.

pān-lí, to manage an affair. pān-lí tek-hoat, do. successfully. pān-sū, to manage affairs. kàn- pān, to manage an affair for another (v. kàn). kiu- pān, to take vigorous action in a case, as a mandarin.
pau-pān, to take up a case (for large payment) and manage it one's self, merely using the name of the real party, as vile intriguing pettifogging literati do (considered a serious crime); also, to roll up a sample for examination.

pang [R. hong, square]. bīn-bé sì-pang, face full and well-proportioned. sì-pang hē-tiōng, grave and sedate (opp. khin-phì); fat and full-faced.

pang — chhéng-pang, to behave or speak in a proud bragging way. chhéng-pang-tsúi, id.

pang [R. hong, to seal]. pang-tiáu, long slips of paper pasted on the door of a house where a mandarin is temporarily living, telling his surname, rank, and titles; also (Cn. T.), = A. hong-tiáu, slips of red paper by which mandarins seal up houses or take possession of vessels.

pang (R. id.), a state; a kingdom; a country.
pang-kok, id. bān-pang, all nations. bān-pang bān-kok, id. hoan-pang, foreign nations. goā- pang, id. i<sup>n</sup>-pang (X.), Gentile nations.

pang [R. peng; cf. pheng], to slip down, as a landslip; to burst, as an embankment; to scale off, as paint or plaster. pang-lang, id. pang-hoai, to break down, as embankment or landslip. pang-hām, to break down suddenly, as man's health or wealth, or as a landslip or embankment. pang-pāi, utterly ruined and bankrupt, as shop or firm. pang chit-khiah, a part having fallen, as of a wall. tsúi pang--khì, embankment burst. pang hông-hô, banks of the Yellow River given way. soa<sup>n</sup> pang, the mountain falls in a landslip. soa<sup>n</sup> pang, tōe lih, mountains falling and earth splitting. tsúi pang-soa<sup>n</sup>, said of a man suddenly becoming poor from a state of wealth, or of a man's constitution suddenly breaking down in a few days. huih pang-soa<sup>n</sup> (esp. C.), = hiet-pheng, a flow of blood from the female organs.

pang (R. id.), to help; a fleet or company travelling together; a lot, as of letters sent by one opportunity, or such like. long-pang, to work one's passage in a vessel.

āu-pang, another time. thāu-pang, the first company, as of persons or vessels. thāu-pang-phoe, the first letter sent on some special subject (as by a vessel or passenger), said after it has arrived. āu-pang- phoe, a following letter (as one with more details), gen.
said before it comes. ji-pang-phoe, the second letter.
chit-pang-phoe, the letter by this opportunity. chit- pang-phoe, a lot of letters for one place arriving by one opportunity. chit-pang-tsún, a fleet; a number of vessels sailing together. ká-pang, to join in one fleet or company for a voyage or journey. koe-pang, to fasten many junks together in one mass.

pang-lím, to become a graduate of the rank called "lím-seng." khó toā-pang-phoe, do., said of the Sew-tsai who stands at head of list.

sa<sup>n</sup>-pang, to help one another; to give assistance.
tāu-sa<sup>n</sup>-pang, id. pang--i, help him. pang- tsē (r.), to help. pang-tsān (r. and X.), id. pang- chhiú, to help; an assistant. tāu-pang-chhiú, to help. chí<sup>n</sup> pang--i, to help with money. pang- thiap, to give a regular allowance, as to widows, &c.
pang-chhe, unauthorized assistants of the constables (goān-chhe) or police.

pang (R. hong), a plank; a board. chhu-pang, to lay down boards so as to make a level surface. khau- pang, to plane boards. khui pang-lē, to make a groove in a long cross piece of wood for the ends of the boards of a partition.

pè-pang, sort of pasteboard made of old clothes (used for shoe-soles). pòh-pang, thin planks or lath. pòh- pang boah-he, lath and plaster. lāu-pang, floor of upper story. tiām-pang, boards of the floor of a boat. pīn-pang, boarding used as a partition. pang- té, a wooden partition. kè-pang, the shelf on the upper part of a bed. jiā-hong-pang, board at head of bed.
bān-thien-pang, board on top of bedstead. toā- pang, long footstool along side of bed (below), with three drawers in it. táh-pang, id. chiú<sup>n</sup>-táh- pang, soā-beh-chiú<sup>n</sup> bīn-chhng, if he get on the step he will get on the bed. tah thiāu-pang, to put up a scaffolding for building, &c. (v. thiāu).

páng (R. pōng), a room; a bed-room; a primary division of a clan or family. páng-thāu, a primary division of a family or clan. páng-tiú<sup>n</sup>, head of such a branch or division. kiōng-páng, a powerful branch of a family (v. kiōng). toā-páng khi-hū sòe- páng, a large branch oppresses a smaller one. béng- páng lám-thiāu, a weak subdivision of a powerful branch of a family. tó-páng, a branch of a family become extinct (s. sew). kè-páng, to be adopted, as a son (v. kè). chiap páng-hūn, to keep up the succession, as adopted son.

lák-páng, the six offices or departments in a yamun corresponding to the six supreme boards at capital; the secretaries in charge of them. páng-khe, the six officials in charge of these six departments in a yamun.
piā<sup>n</sup>-páng, the office or official for military matters.
hēng-páng, do. for punishments. kang-páng, do. for public works. hē-páng, do. for revenue, especially land-tax. lī-páng, do. for matters concerning inferior mandarins and candidates for office; often has also charge of the treasury of the yamun. lé-páng, do. for ceremonies. khē-páng, a treasury; a treasurer. pò- páng, office where high graduates, &c., give in their names (v. pò). pió-páng, office and officer in a great

方

封

邦

崩

幫

枋

房

yamun for sending despatches to the throne. hō-pàng, lodge at gate of great yamun for cards, letters, &c.; also, office in military mandarin's yamun for general business. pan-pàng, rooms in yamun occupied by police, &c. tsáp-chhe-pàng, rooms in yamun occupied by various messengers and underlings.

tū-pàng, a mandarin's cook.

ki<sup>n</sup>-pàng, a sentry-box. oh-pàng, a school. tsu-pàng, id. (v. tsu). ni<sup>n</sup>-pàng, a dyer's shop. bō-pàng, a house used as a flour-mill. chièn-pàng, a store-house; a godown. siù-pàng, a shop for embroidery; a woman's chamber (v. siù). bé-pàng, a stable. bit-pàng, honey-comb.

pàng-keng, a room. khùn-pàng, a bed-room. kiá<sup>n</sup>-pàng, to have sexual intercourse with wife or concubine. phien-pàng, a concubine. léng-pàng, said of wife or concubine out of favour (v. léng). chiú-khang-pàng, to be a widow. phoá<sup>n</sup>-pàng, an aged female accompanying the bride to the husband's house (v. phoá<sup>n</sup>). chin-pàng, the bride entering the bedroom about beginning of marriage rites. thám-pàng, younger brother or nephew of bride taking presents to her a day or two after marriage (v. thám). joán-pàng, (C.), id.

pàng (R. hông), to sew with cross stitches over a rough edge, generally close and fine, often over and over; to overcast in sewing. khia<sup>n</sup>-pàng, to overcast without folding in the edge. tó-pàng, to overcast after folding in the rough edge (s. room).

pàng (R. bōng). pàng-se, borax; used in melting gold or silver (cf. pèng-se).

pàng [R. pèng, interchanged with "pèng," proof], a surname.

pàng [R. a high house], a surname.

pàng [R. hông, to meet]. hó-làng sa<sup>n</sup>-pàng, may good men keep company; only said in Taoist rites.

pàng [R. to tie; cf. col. póng], to bandage with splints, as a broken leg or arm.

pàng — keng-pàng, the outside of the arm close to the shoulder joint. keng-pàng, manner of stretching one's arm for archery. chiú-pàng, id. keng-pàng súi, manner of stretching arm for archery very good.

pàng (R. hông), to let go; to let loose; to set free; to set off, as gun or crackers; to sail a vessel outwards; to lend on interest. pàng-chhut, to set at liberty, as prisoner. bō-pàng-chhut, does not now lend money any more, as near the end of the year.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-pàng, behaviour. chē m-sī kha-pàng, this is very bad conduct, e.g. gambling or licentiousness.

pàng-tsá, early in the morning. pàng-kín kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk fast.

pàng-tiò, to fish with hooks (v. tiò). pàng-hi, to put young fish in a pond for breeding; to use nets or lines in deep-sea fishing. pàng-chim, to set wicker-work traps like baskets to catch crabs. pàng-léng, to set the nets called "léng" (+). pàng-tók, to put poison in food or drink. pàng-pi<sup>n</sup>, to make a patient ill or keep him ill, so as to get more fees, as Chinese doctors sometimes do.

pàng-hé, to set on fire; arson. pàng-chhèng, to fire a gun or cannon. pàng-pé, to shoot at a mark at full distance. pàng-phàu, to set off crackers (v. phàu). pàng-tiáp, to burn paper prayers. pàng-siá, to burn paper images at rites for the dead. pàng-tsoá, to scatter paper before the coffin as it is carried to the grave. pàng-ké, to scatter sharp-pointed things, as impediments for an enemy.

pàng-pio, to offer the prize for the dragon-boat race (v. pio). pàng hong-chhe, to fly a kite. pàng-tsún, to set sail. pàng-iú<sup>n</sup>, to go to sea, as trading junk (v. iú<sup>n</sup>). pàng-tsúi-teng, to launch a lamp on the water, for the spirits. pàng-káng, a pilot.

pàng-tiú, to give out tallies (to coolies) along with the bales. pàng-thiap, to distribute cards of invitation. pàng-hun, to sell a smoke of tobacco for two or three cash.

pàng-léng, to lead down the auspicious influence of a hill to a house, grave, &c. (+). pàng-hē, to rain in small quantities. pàng-tsúi, to let out water, as from a reservoir or irrigated field, &c.

pàng-bit, to make honey, as the bee. pàng-nng, to lay numerous eggs, as moths, &c. pàng-jiò, to make water. pàng-sái, to have a motion of the bowels. pàng-pùn, id. pàng-li, to have (mucous) dysentery (+). pàng-àng, to pass blood; bloody dysentery. pàng-phui, to pass wind.

pàng-hong, to pass wind; to throw out a threat, in order to frighten a man, by saying it to third parties who are expected to repeat it. si-kòe pàng-hong, to circulate such threats. pàng-sia<sup>n</sup>, to warn a man that we will punish or accuse him if he do so and so. pàng-tiau, to threaten. pàng-tiau pàng-túg, id.

bák-chiu pàng-khoeh, to shut the eyes. pàng-toā-sòe-bák, to wink at faults.

pàng-bō-khoá<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, to pretend not to see. pàng-bō-thia<sup>n</sup>--ki<sup>n</sup>, pretend not to hear. pàng-bō-iàu-kín, to treat a matter as of no consequence. pàng-kù-tsái, let him have his own way. pàng-hē-i ka-kí, to leave him to himself, without help. pàng-hē-i-sí, intentionally leave him to die of neglect, as sick man.

pàng-sak, to reject or abandon. pàng-hiet-kák, to throw away. pàng-lí (r.), to let go (+). pàng-ke-hé, to bequeath property. pàng-i-khi, let him go. thau-pàng, to release secretly. pàng-soah, to make an end of a matter (v. soah).

pàng-kun-chiòng, to send spiritual officers and soldiers to help their votaries, as idols. pàng-peng, id. pàng-pia<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. pē-pàng--ê, directly appointed by the supreme board of office, as a mandarin. thi<sup>n</sup>-pàng--ê, Heaven-sent, as a calamity, e.g. tigers.

pàng-tá<sup>n</sup>, confident and courageous. pàng-sim, to put one's mind at ease. chiú pàng-koái<sup>n</sup>, to treat a man more gently than we had intended, or than he strictly deserves. pàng-chhiú, to let one's hand fall by one's side. bōe-pàng-pē, only able to take very short steps, as man who is sick or has a sore leg. pàng-lóh, to lay down, as a thing; to let down, as the hands, or as temper. pàng-hē (C.), to lay down (+).

pàng-hē (C. hē), to dismiss school, several times each day. pàng-kè, to dismiss school for the holidays. pàng-kè, to lower the price, in selling. pàng-tang, to dismiss school for short vacation at harvest time. pàng-jóah, do., in the hottest part of summer. pàng-kang, to cease work for a time. bō-pàng-chit-jit, without intermitting one single day.

pàng-léng, to slacken; to slack out. pàng-sang, id. (v. sang). pàng-núg, to let soft or loose, as muscles of limb (v. núg). pàng-kha-kun, to cut the tendon of a man's heel. pàng-lun, to let a boat go astern. pàng-mng-li, to let down a door-screen. pàng-só, to take off a man's chains. pàng-ké, to take off the canque. pàng-ngóeh, to remove the

縫

馮
龐
逢
綁

放

torture instrument from the feet. pāng-soán, do., from the hands. pāng-si<sup>n</sup>, to save alive an animal bought for the purpose (superstitious).

pāng-siào, to give credit, esp. for goods. pāng-chè, to lend money on interest. pāng-chè ê-lāng, a money-lender, who makes it his business. pāng-tāng-chè, to lend on heavy usury. pāng-tāng-lāi, id. pāng-lāi, to lend on interest. pāng-lāi-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. pāng-li-sek, id. pāng-tsúi-lāi, to lend for a venture on a voyage, at very high rate. pāng-tsún-thâu, id. pāng tiá<sup>n</sup>-kám-phû, to lend to gamblers, getting interest three times in one day. pāng jít-á-chi<sup>n</sup>, to lend a few hundred cash, counted as a thousand, and take back about ten each day till all is paid up.

pāng — pi<sup>n</sup>-pāng, level.

pāng [R. pō, sudden; violent]. ɛ-àm pèh-pāng, very sudden, as calamity. ɛ-ien pèh-pāng, id. (v. pèh).

pāng (R. id.), a short club. toā-thûi toā-pāng, large sticks and clubs; sometimes said of a large coarse-looking man. kiáh-thûi kiáh-pāng, said of a man fond of quarrelling.

pāng — pāng-siòh, spoiled with damp or heat, as food.

pāng (R. id.), name given to two sorts of shell-fish, the pearl-oyster, and a very large bivalve (found in the neighbourhood), the shell of which is used as a spoon. pāng-khak, mother-of-pearl, or shell of the native "pāng." pāng-khak-tsu, false pearls, made of mother-of-pearl or other shell. út-pāng siong-chhi, gú-jin tek-li, when the bird and the shell-fish seize each other, the fisherman makes gain (said of mandarins and underlings making gain of the people's lawsuits). lút-pāng, &c., id.

pat [R. eight, = col. poeh]. pat-ji-kha, walking with toes much turned out. sù-si pat-chiet, the four seasons and eight terms. pat-chiet, counting as 100 wheu really only 80 (v. chiet). ji-pat thiu, to get commissiou, &c., of 20 per cent. ji-pat ka-jin (R.), a beautiful girl about sixteen years old. m̄ sip-pat, to play a game with six dice.

pat-sien, the eight genii, &c. (v. sien). pat-koà, the eight diagrams (v. koà). pat-thoân, a pattern common on flowered silk (v. thoân). pat-hun, = lē-su, the simpler form of the seal character. pat-tsō, a sedan with eight bearers. pat-tái, a mandarin entitled to use eight bearers. pat-chiáng-tsún, eight-oared boats used by customs (v. chiáng).

chhit-thong pat-tát, road clear of obstacles, so as to be good for travelling. sù-úi pat-tát, all round; everywhere; in all places. sù-hong pat-tát, id.

pat (T.), = A. bat, to know.

pát [R. piét, piet, to distinguish; difference; of another sort], another, only in the sense of different, not the same, like Latin "alius," French "autre" (but never in the sense of "one more," which is "koh chit-ê," like French "encore un," German "noch ein"); used with any of the classifiers, e.g. pát-chiah, pát-ki, pát-ê, a different one. pát-hāng, a different sort. pát-hō, id. pát-jit, a different day.

pát-mih<sup>n</sup>, a different thing; different. pát-mñgh<sup>n</sup> (Cn. T.), id. pát-mih<sup>n</sup>-tāi, quite a different matter; quite another thing. bō-pát-mih<sup>n</sup>, nothing else; nothing but this. bō-pát-mih<sup>n</sup>-tāi, id. bō-pát-hāng, id.

pát-lāng, a different man; another person. pát-lāng ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> sí-bōe-liáu, said of using other men's sons for dangerous work. pát-lāng--ê kún-thâu-bú, cheng-bōe-thiá<sup>n</sup>, hitting with another's fist we feel no pain.

pát (C.) lát-pát, = A. ná<sup>n</sup>-á-pút, the guava.

pau [R. placenta; uterine]. pau-thai, the caul (of the womb). pau-the, id.

pau-chek, father's younger brother. pau-sioh, id. pau-peh, father's elder brother. pau-heng, elder brother by same father. pau-tē, younger do.

tōng-pau, havingsamemother. tōng-pau kiōng-jú, from same mother and same milk. tōng-pau hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, brothers by same parent. tōng-pau chi-bē, sisters by do. tōng-pau i<sup>n</sup>-hū, of same mother by different father. tōng-pau i-hū, id.

pau — khi-pau, a gum-boil. si<sup>n</sup> khi-pau, to have a gum-boil.

pau (R. id.), to wrap up; to inclose or include; to plate with metal; to surround, as an enemy; to guarantee or insure; a package or bale; classifier of packages; a sort of round soft cake; a surname. pau-lau, to wrap up, include, or guarantee, &c. pau-hong, to close, paste, or seal up carefully, as a parcel or letter inclosing others (v. hong). pau-iōng (R.), to endure, or indulge, or be patient with another, in regard to his conduct. tò-pau, to cut off and surround an enemy.

pau-tsoá, to wrap up in paper. pau-kim, to plate thickly with gold. tāng-pau, dollars filled with brass. pau-tāng, id. pau-thūg, to inclose sugar, as in a pie or cake. pau-ā<sup>n</sup>, inclose stuffing of mince, &c. (v. ā<sup>n</sup>). pau-chheh, to wrap up books.

pau-hām, to include; vague or ambiguous, as language. pau-koat (r.), to include. pau-lám, to monopolize; to take the whole management. pau-lám-bé, to engage to make up what may be wanting in a subscription. pau-liám-bé, id. pau-lién-bé, id. pau-pák, to monopolize a trade by farming it from government. pau-tsāi, to carry goods in large quantity, making one charge for the lot. pau-pān, to take the whole management of a lawsuit, as a deceitful intriguing lawyer (v. pān). pau-pè, to favour the guilty for bribes, as yamun people; to defraud one's employer, &c. (v. pè). pau-i, to engage to heal a man, taking no payment unless the cure be effected.

pau-niá<sup>n</sup>, to warrant; to insure; to guarantee. pau-pó (r.), id. goá ká-li-pau, I guarantee it for you. pau-soa<sup>n</sup> pau-hái, daring to take the responsibility of anything (lit. in sea or land).

io-pau, a purse worn at the girdle at the side. phoá<sup>n</sup>-pau, do. usually ornamented. phoá<sup>n</sup>-pau si<sup>n</sup>-tē, do. and fan-case. hau-pau, a sort of purse (v. hau). hun-pau, a tobacco-pouch. hui<sup>n</sup>-pau, incense bags, used only for the smell. hé-pau, powder wrapped up and thrown in war; a "stink-pot." hé-lêng-pau, pouch for carrying the lighted match for a match-lock. kiú-liōng-pau, a pouch used by soldiers for carrying powder and bullets. chheh-pau, books tied in a napkin or cloth, e.g. used by scholars. chháu-pau, a grass-mat bag; a stupid fellow. ka-tsù-pau, coarse matting, used for bags. chhài-pau, vegetables, &c., wrapped in thin cakes and fried. bah-pau, minced meat wrapped up and fried. bin-pau, bread. mi<sup>n</sup>-pau, id. pau-á, sort of soft cakes. pau-á-ôe, small shoes with soft cloth soles for infants. pau-á-béh, soft socks for children.

pau-hók, a bundle of clothes, &c. (used by travellers, &c.) pau-kó (C.), id. pau-phê, the wrapper

棒

蚌

八

别

胞

包

or covering of goods or dollars, subtracted in calculating the nett amount. jīn pau-phê, to acknowledge the wrapper or envelope, as evidence of the quantity or of the identity in making an exchange. sái thui-pau, to cheat by giving a had article for a good one, or an inferior bride or bridegroom (v. thui).

pau-thâu, a bag full of goods, esp. dried eatables; a small paper package, as of tobacco; mist on the hill-tops; to wrap a cloth round one's head. pau-thâu-tiám, a shop that only sells whole bags, as of dried fruits, &c., above 100 pounds weight or so. pau-thâu seng-lí, this sort of wholesale business. tsòe-pau-thâu, to carry on such a business. pau thâu-pêh, to wear a white cloth on the head, in deepest mourning for parents.

pau (R. id.), (cf. pâu), a surname; a sort of round fish, good for the eyes and for the kidneys. pau-hi, this sort of fish.

pâu (R. pau), = pau, a surname.

pâu [R. pō, violent, to strike, = col. pāuh, pā, to strike the upper part of the head with the hand somewhat closed. pāu thâu-khak, id. ng-thâu kù-i-pāu (putting one's hands to the head, and waiting quietly to be struck), said of a man yielding so far that he is ready to endure any injury or indignity.

pauh (cf. puh). pauh-khí, the two upper incisor teeth projecting too much. pauh--chhut-lái, to burst out, as something (e.g. grain) in a package tied too tight. hoat-pauh, to come out, as a secret. chhut-pauh, id. tāi-chi hoat-pauh, the affair is come out now. pauh (C.), = A. puh, to huddle. pauh liáp-á (C.), to have small pimples, &c.

pauh (Cn. T.), = A. mauh<sup>n</sup>, to embezzle a portion of money.

pauh (= bauh), to take a rough average, as in bargain or calculation; to huy in a lot, &c.

pe (R. hui), (C. poe; Cn. pō), to fly. pe-le--khì, to fly away. iā<sup>n</sup>-iā<sup>n</sup>-pe, floating, as dust in the air. pe-tsoā, an eruption in lines of small pustules. pe-toā, an arched band (of wood or clay) behind and above the head of some idols, supposed to assist them in flying. pe-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a falling star.

chhùi pe-pe, to talk wildly or incoherently, as in delirium or intoxication.

pe [R. pa, to collect or gather], (C. pe), to scrape up the rice from the bowl with chopsticks. pe-png, to eat rice with chopsticks.

pe [R. po, name of vegetable], (C. poe). pe-lêng-chhài, a vegetable like spinach (Convolvulus reptans ?)

pe (C.) chì<sup>n</sup>-pe, an arrow-head.

pe (C.) tek-pe, = A. tek-poe, a flat hamhoo for heating scholars.

pe (C.) pe-chhák, = A. poe-chhák, a broad chisel.

pé [R. pá, a guitar], (C. pè). pí-pê, the four-stringed guitar. gí-pê, id. pí-pê-kut, name of a bone.

pé [R. pà, name of a fruit], (C. pè). pí-pê, the loquat fruit (s. guitar). gí-pê, id.

pé [R. pá, same as last word ?], (C. pè). bák-pê, a three-pronged weapon like a trident. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to bák-pê, warlike weapons.

pé (R. pá), (C. pè). thih-pê, a heavy weapon like a trident. pé-thâu, id.

pé (R. pá), (C. pè). tek-pê, a bamboo rake. lū-pé (Cn.), a sort of rake for agriculture.

pé (C. pè), a sort of harrow worked by the hand

(but "pè" is drawn by a cow). thoa-pê, to harrow. khê-pê, to clog or obstruct the harrow (v. khê). pé-put-á, a sort of wooden implement like a hoe or shovel (v. put).

pé (R. pà), (C. pè), to crawl or creep, as a child; to scratch with all the fingers; to paddle. pé lêng-tsūn, to paddle the dragon-boats. tsòe-sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-káu pé--tsáu, to crawl away like a crippled dog (v. káu).

pé-chiū<sup>n</sup>, to scratch an itchy spot (v. chiū<sup>n</sup>). khòng-khòng-pé, to scratch hard, as itch. pé-iah, to scrape up, as sand (v. iah). pé kau-á, to clean out a drain with a hook. pé pùn-sò, to scrape dirt together. pé-chháu, to gather grass for fuel.

pé (R. pòe), (C. pòe; Cn. pō), to make restitution or compensation; to make up loss or deficiency. pé-pé, id. pé-tiám, to make up what we have stood security for. thòe--i pé-lui, involved with him so as to have to pay expenses for him. pé-chi<sup>n</sup>, to make up a loss or injury by paying money. pé-miā<sup>n</sup>, to make satisfaction for a death, usually by money.

pé [R. pá, to hold in the hand; to guard], (C. pé), a handful; a sheaf of corn; (a target); classifier of sedans. pé-siú, to guard, as soldier. pé-koan, to guard a gate in a pass. pé-mng, to guard a gate or great door, as door-keeper. pé-mng--ê, door-keeper at yamun or large hong.

pé-tsóng, a commander of (nominally) 100 men; a centurion or lieutenant. pé-tsóng (C.), = pèh-iá.

hé-pé, a torch. chhā-pé, a small bundle of wood for fuel, tied with straw or grass. chhài-pé, a bundle of vegetables. chit-pé-chhài, id. iu-liu tsòe-chit-pé, brow wrinkled, as with grief (v. iu).

khit--i pé-pák, unable to do something because restrained by another (v. pák).

chhèng-pé, a target for gunnery. chì<sup>n</sup>-pé, a target for archery. khó chì<sup>n</sup>-pé, to compete at archery. khó-pé, to compete with guns or bows. tun-pé, to practise shooting at a mark close at hand. pàng-pé, to shoot at full distance.

pé (C. pòe), to ward off with the hand; (to search for); to take up, as earth-nuts. pé thó-tāu, to dig up earth-nuts (arachis). pé han-tsū-kau, to glean from the furrows between potato-beds.

pé-lái pé-khì, to talk long together without a definite result; to struggle together, as in wrestling or boxing. sa<sup>n</sup>-pé-hê (C. sio-pòe-hōe), to discuss a matter in order to come to an agreement (v. hê). pé-chhê (C. pòe-chhōe), to search for (v. chhê).

pé-khui, to ward off with the hands. pé-chhiú, do.; to use the hands in pushing or slight striking, as in the beginning of a quarrel. kap--i pé-chhiú-bīn (to ward off his blows from our face), to have a long and violent dispute with him, as in dunning for a debt. kap-kúi pé-chhiú-bīn, don't try a quarrel with that man: it would be as dangerous and useless as fighting with a demon. kap-khit-chiáh pé-chhiú-bīn (like quarrelling with a heggar), dispute troublesome and dangerous, and with no possible benefit.

bōe-pé--tit, cannot easily be got round or overcome by cunning; nothing can be got out of him, as a very sharp man or a customer who heats down the price too much; no profit to be got in the business; opposition to his plan will not squeeze any money out of him. hē--lāng bōe-pé--tit, said of a master so strict that his employés cannot make anything extra out of him.

pé [R. pòe, pòe, the back], (C. pòe; Cn. pō), the 鮑

暴

包飛

改菠

琶

杷

鈹

耙

耙耙

爬

賠

把

背

back of a chair. kau-í-pè, id. kiō-pè, the back of the chair in a sedan.

si<sup>n</sup>-pè, to have a carbuncle on the back. phang-siū-pè, a large carbuncle on the back, breaking out in many places.

pè [R. to cover]. jia-pè, to overshadow or cover injuriously; to becloud or delude, as the mind. hong-thâm pè-sim, having a fit of dull madness (v. thâm).

pè [R. spoiled; bad, = col. pē]. tsok-pè, to hinder a matter secretly while all seems smooth. lōng-pè, to use secret and improper means, as in a legal case. pau-pè, to delude, defraud, or deceive one's employer or superior officer, as by concealing from him faults of which he should have been informed, or by prejudicing him in favour of the guilty, or by secret and improper use of his authority or influence. bú-pè (r.), id. iú-su-pè, getting improper advantage (for one's own profit) of a commission or of delegated powers, e.g. secretly appropriating part of the money intrusted for some purpose.

pè [R. mean; low; politely used in some phrases for "my" (C. pi)]. pè-ku (R.), the place where I reside. pè-kok (R.), my native kingdom or state. pè-siá (R.), my poor house.

pè (C. pòe, Cn. pō), to paste, as paper. kiáu-pè, id. piáu-pō (Cn. T.), id. pè-tsoá, to paste paper. pè-tsoá-phe, to make pasteboard. pè-póh, to paste tinfoil, &c., on paper (v. póh). pè-piah, to paper a wall.

pè (R. pà), (Cn. T. pō), a mound or embankment for damming up water. tsoh-pè, to make such an embankment to dam up water.

pè [R. pā, a harrow], (C. pē). thih-pè, sort of iron harrows. lôe-pè, plough and harrows.

pè (R. hū), (C. pē), father. lāu-pè, id. níu<sup>n</sup>-pè, id. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pè, actual father. si<sup>n</sup>-pè, id. si<sup>n</sup>-lán ê-pè, our actual father. áu-pè, stepfather. iú<sup>n</sup>-pè, one who brings up a child like a father; a foster-father. khòe-pè, a man whom another engages to treat as a sort of adoptive father. sai-pè, a Buddhist priest who buys a boy as a son.

khek-pè, natal characters of son's horoscope coming into collision with those of his father (v. khek). sí-pè, to lose one's father (by death); one's father having died; said also in scolding a man who looks dull and foolish: you look as dull as if your father were dead!

pè-kiá<sup>n</sup>, father and son. pè-bú, father and mother; parents. pè-bú-koa<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin of a Hien district. pè-bú kha-tau, paternal home. i--ê pè-bú-lát khah-toā, he is naturally stronger in body. pè-thâu bú-kut, vile scolding by applying abominable epithets to parents. mē<sup>n</sup>--lāng pè-thâu bú-kut, to scold so. pè-pñg bú-hiú, parents' food and clothes, as given to their children. chiáh pè-pñg, chhēng bú-hiú, to be fed and clothed by our parents. chiáh-pè chhēng-bú, id. chiáu-pè soe-thâu, chiáu-bú pák-kè, to follow parents' example. bú-kiá<sup>n</sup> tui-pè-kiá<sup>n</sup>, children (by former marriages) of widow and widower engaged when their parents marry. bú-í tui-pè-á (T.), id.

pè [R. mō<sup>n</sup>, = pōe]. tãi-pè, = tãi-pōe, tortoise-shell.

pè [R. pōe, so many fold], (C. pōe; Cn. pō). tēng-pè, twofold; double in size, quantity, &c. ka-pè, id. nng-pè, id. bān-pè-toā, a thousandfold greater.

pè [R. spoiled; bad, = pē]. pè-pēng, blemish; fault; depravity (v. pēng).

pè [R. pōe, pòe, the back, = col. pē]. sa<sup>n</sup>-pè, to stand back to back, as houses or villages. pè-bé, to harness and saddle a horse. tâu-koa<sup>n</sup>-pè, a square frame like a sieve on which bean-curd is dried over the fire.

pè [R. hū, to carry on the back; to owe], (C. pōe), to carry on the back or shoulder, as a heavy thing. phah-pè, to fasten wood or bamboo on the outside of a junk by ropes. siá-pè, to unlade it. pè-soh, the ropes for tying it on. pè-sam, to carry pine-wood thus. pè-tek, to carry bamboo thus. thâu-chēng-pè, the fastenings near the bow. bé-áu-pè, the fastenings near the stern.

pè [R. pōe, to wear at the girdle], (C. pōe). pè-kiám, to wear a short sword hung from the shoulder. pè io-to, to wear a sword at the girdle, as military mandarin.

pè (R. pōe), (Cn. pō), to toast (as food) on or at the fire; to fire, as tea-leaves. pè-ta, to dry at the fire. ta-pè, too dry, as surface of the face, or of eatables, &c. pè-lê, a stove or furnace for firing tea, or drying drugs or tobacco. pè-tê, to fire tea. pè-iòh, to dry medicinal herbs by a stove.

pè [R. steps of a throne]. pè-hā (R.), your majesty.

pè (T. pō), a sort of sculling-oar used for steering a boat, as at the dragon-races.

pè, to manure with solid manure in agriculture.

pè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. pien, to draw out, as a peg or stiff drawer; also, = A. pi<sup>n</sup>, to pull aside, &c.

pè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. pi<sup>n</sup>, a stage or light framework.

pè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. pi<sup>n</sup>, level; even; also, = A. piá<sup>n</sup>, the tones called the Ping or first tones. tēng-pè<sup>n</sup>, = A. chiū<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, the upper ping or upper first tone. ē-pè<sup>n</sup>, the lower ping or lower first tone (v. piá<sup>n</sup>).

pè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. pi<sup>n</sup>, a handle.

pè<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. pi<sup>n</sup>, disease; unwell.

peh [R. pek, a senior uncle; an earl], (C. peh), father's elder brother, or father's elder cousin of same surname, however distant; i.e. any man of same clan who is one grade in genealogy above us, and older than our father. chek-peh, paternal uncles in general, or men of same clan and same genealogical rank with our father (v. chek). á-peh, uncle! (said also colloquially for "father!") peh-ín, senior paternal uncle and his wife. peh-kong, grandfather's elder brother, &c. peh-kong-tsé, great-grandfather's elder brother.

pau-peh, father's elder brother. chhin-peh, id. peh-tia, id.; also, sometimes a respectful address to an old man. tōng-peh, elder son of paternal granduncle, or one of father's senior cousins, more or less distant, of same surname. chhin-tōng peh, do. one or two degrees distant. chiōng-tōng-peh, father's distant senior cousin of same surname. piáu-peh, elder son of grandaunt, or of grandmother's brother.

toā-peh, husband's elder brother (it is not counted proper for his younger brother's wife to converse with him). toā-peh--ah, eldest brother of father. tōng-toā-peh, elder cousin of husband. toā-iá-peh, elder brother of a mandarin (v. iá). peh-koa<sup>n</sup>, elder brother of husband's father. ji-peh, second eldest senior brother of father. ji-peh (C.), id.; also, second eldest brother of husband. sa<sup>n</sup>-peh, third eldest senior brother of father. tiū<sup>n</sup>-lāng-peh, elder brother of wife's father.

背

負

佩

焙

陛

伯

蔽弊

蔽

糝

壘

把父

瑁倍弊

chhin-ke-peh, elder brother of the man to whose child our child is married.

tai-sū-peh, an incarnation of Kwan-yin, worshipped in the 7th moon.

柏

peh [R. pek, the fir or pine-tree], (C. peh). chhêng-peh, the fir-tree (v. chhêng). chêng-peh (T.), id. chhiông-peh (P.), id. chhiông-peh-kin (C.), a very poisonous short red snake, bite said to be incurable. pi<sup>n</sup>-peh, an ornamental dwarf-tree (juniper? cypress?), often grown in flower-pots. kôe-peh, a larger tree, like juniper. ñg-peh, a cooling medicine (Pterocarpus flavus?).

peh [R. pek, to urge], (C. peh). kiū<sup>n</sup>-peh-ni<sup>n</sup>, to force one's self to act. peh--kàu (C.), determined to have what is difficult to be got, or to see what is far off or difficult to see.

peh — hoai<sup>n</sup>-peh-peh, very overbearing or oppressive (v. hoai<sup>n</sup>).

peh — pi<sup>n</sup>-peh, in great want of cash. ke-sū pi<sup>n</sup>-peh, pecuniary affairs of household in a very bad state. peh-pùih, very miserable through poverty (v. pùih).

辟碎

peh (R. phék), (C. peh). peh-khui, to break open, as with the hands. peh-phoà, to break asunder with the hands. peh--sí, to kill by clawing, as tiger or cat does. peh-phê, to peel off with the hand without a knife. peh-khak, to peel off a soft shell with the hand, as the li-chi fruit.

peh-pak, grieved (v. pak). peh-sim peh-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> peh-kàu-phoà, extremely grieved and distressed, heart almost breaking. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> peh kàu-beh-phoà, id.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu peh-peh, feeling of heaviness and indigestion. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu peh-peh chek-chek, id.

peh-si-liét, opened quite square and wide, as a door.

peh — peh-khui, to open (neuter), as the eyes. bák-chiu peh-khui, chiū tiòh-chiah-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, so much cash are absolutely necessary for every day's wants.

peh — peh-khui, to open, as the mouth. li-hêng peh-gê, you are very fond of talking about what should not be mentioned.

peh — hau-peh-chheh (overlapping scales on the belly of the king-crab), venetian blinds or shutters.

百

peh (R. pek, a hundred, = col. pah], (C. peh, also = A. pah, a hundred). peh-si<sup>n</sup>, the people (lit. the hundred surnames); the people, as distinguished from rulers. kû-ni<sup>n</sup> peh-tsai (T.), long past and out of date, as an affair.

peh-tsóng (C.), = A. pé-tsóng, an officer (nominally) commanding 100 men. peh-iá (C.), id.

peh (C. peh), to climb. peh--khi-lâi, to climb up; to rise up, e.g. from lying down, or in order to salute a stranger who comes in. peh-koai<sup>n</sup> peh-kê, to climb about everywhere, as a too active child. khi<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup> peh-piah, to climb walls (v. khi<sup>n</sup>).

peh (T.) tē-peh, a small insect that burrows, like a cricket.

peh (C.), = A. poeh, eight. peh-peh, = A. poeh-pah, 800. peh-peh, = A. pah-poeh, 180.

peh — e-ien peh-pāng, said of calamities or very troublesome disputes suddenly coming on. e-ien peh-pōng, id. tsáu kàu e-ien peh-pōng, running in great fear and confusion, as from rebels. e-ām peh-pāng, said of very sudden calamities. e-hūn peh-pāng, do., as robbers, &c.

peh — peh-tiō-á, feeble stooping appearance of old or weak person.

peh (C.), = A. pùih, to pull out or up.

peh [R. pék, silk stuff; wealth], (C. pèh). hūn-peh, a tablet covered with white cloth, used before burial (v. hūn). chhái-peh-tiām, a shop where grave-clothes, &c., are sold; an undertaker's shop. thâu-peh, a white head-band worn at funerals. kha-peh, a bandage for the feet, worn by females. kha-peh-sún (C.), a sort of water vegetable.

帛

白

peh (R. pék), (C. pèh), white; plain and distinct; colloquial or plain, as speech; (solely or unmixed); fat of meat; a surname.

peh-peh, very white, plain, or distinct; gratuitous; (unmixed). peh-peh hō--lāng, to give gratuitously. peh-peh sià-biēn, to forgive without any reparation. kóng-ōe peh-peh, to speak distinctly and intelligibly. peh-peh-chiáh, to eat rice without condiments. peh-peh chiáh--i, to take presents or pay or food from a man without doing work or making any return. to peh-peh, the knife or sword is bright and sharp.

peh-ōe, the colloquial language. chhát-á-peh, thieves' slang. ta<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>-peh, colloquial phrases used by porters. kng-kiō-peh, id., by sedan coolies. hoan-á-peh, do., by pedlars. seh-peh, to talk such a slang or private colloquial; to talk prose in a play (as distinguished from poetry). peh--ji, characters written according to the colloquial, without regard to classical usage. kang-tsoá peh--ji, said of a letter with fair words but no material help. tsò-peh--ji (C.), to have a play in colloquial. peh--būn, the text of a book, as distinguished from notes and comments.

peh-sin-lāng, a private individual. kang-chhiú peh--ji, bringing no presents.

peh-chhát, a lie; a falsehood.

peh-chiá<sup>n</sup> bō-bi, tasteless. chhùi peh, want of appetite; not caring to eat much, as child, or as man after long sickness.

peh-láh-sáh, very white. peh-léh-séh, id. pèh-léh-séh (C.), id. pèh-siak-siak, brilliantly white. peh-seh-seh, very white. peh-theh-theh, id. pèh-lek-lek, white, as cloth, or as child's skin. pèh-koah-koah, white, as complexion. pèh-koat-koat, very white, as white-washed wall. gèh-peh, white with a very slight bluish tinge.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-pèh, pale and sickly looking. bin chhi<sup>n</sup>-pèh, face having a greenish paleness, as of sickly constitution. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhòng pèh-chhòng, made ill or roughly, as an article made in an untradesmanlike way.

pūi-peh, fat and fair.

chháng-peh, almost quite white, with very little black. chhám-peh, white and black mixed; gray, as hair. thâu-mng chham-peh, some gray hairs among the black. thâu-mng poà<sup>n</sup>-pèh, hair gray, about half white. pèh-chhiu--ê, having a white beard (v. chhiu).

peh-tiō, white mark on skin left by a healed wound. pèh-bin, white-faced. pèh-bin-lāng, a white man. pèh-bin-á, a sort of wild cat, or similar animal.

peh-bah, the fat of meat. pèh--ê, id. poà<sup>n</sup>-chia<sup>n</sup>-pèh, half fat, half lean.

peh-jin, white of eye (v. jin). péng-peh-bák, to turn up the white of the eye, as in pride or anger.

bák peh, to miss stays, in tacking.

ji-peh, a placard or hand-bill pasted up. kò-peh, id. kóng-peh, finest white sugar, esp. in shape. chhang-peh, white part of onion stalk near the root.

soàn-á-péh, root and white foot of garlic stalk cut small. lák-géh-péh, a whitish fruit like a plum or peach (two sorts?) with a fine bloom on it; also (T.), a long white legume like chhài-táu, but shorter.

toà-péh, to be in deep mourning. phiò-péh, to bleach, as cloth. thiò-péh, id. cheng-péh, to beat till white, as rice in a mortar. thi<sup>n</sup>-péh, eyes dazzled, as by looking at a bright white wall.

péh-chí<sup>n</sup>, white idolatrous paper, for the worship of the "kúí." péh-liāng, transparent crystal button of mandarin of fifth grade. péh-gék, white jade-stone. péh-táng, sort of white metal (v. táng). péh-thé-thé, chalk (v. thó). péh-hé, a sky-rocket for a signal. péh-khak, white shell, &c. péh-khak, sort of yeast. péh-chiú, a liquor fermented from glutinous rice (v. chiú). péh-thiām, a strong sweet spirit (v. thiām). ɛ-péh-chí, chessmen having thirty-two of each colour. ɛ-péh-ji, id. āng-péh, red and white (said of a great system of clan feuds with red and white flags).

péh-lō, the term that falls about September 7th or 8th. péh-tóe, sort of boat (with white bottom) like a small "khan-hong." péh-thâu-khòe, a deed of sale without any official stamp. péh-tsui-pō, a boat-woman, esp. living in fishing-boat (v. tsui).

péh-hiā, white ants. péh-hí, sort of fish; sort of game (v. hí). péh-gé, a large white fish (v. gé). péh-hóh, a white crane. péh-lêng-si, the white egret or paddy-bird.

péh-phê, Malwa opium. péh-chhài, white cabbage. péh-léh-á (P.), a sort of oak; its acorn is sometimes ground down and mixed with rice.

pek [R. id. = col. pēh, a senior paternal uncle], an earl; the third rank of nobility. pek-chiok, the rank of earl.

pek-lō, a small harsh-voiced bird (v. lō).

pek — pek-ki, long ells; a woollen stuff somewhat like baize.

pek (R. id., = col. piak), to roast, toast, or warm at the fire. pek-hé, to injure one's self (e.g. small boils or sore eyes) by keeping too near the fire, as in cooking. pek-jiét, id. pek-pa, to dry at the fire, so as to be fit for keeping long. pek-lê, sort of oven for cakes, &c.

pek (R. id.), to press against; to urge to do something; to dun; urgent. pek-kūn, to press near. pek-óá, id.

pek-kín, to hasten on a matter. pek-chhiet, urgent. pek-chhek, extremely urgent; too urgent and hard on people. pek-chhiok (R.), very urgent. kiōng-pek, to compel by strong pressure. pek-hiáp, to compel thus to do some wrong thing, e.g. to join an illegal society. thài-pek, extremely urgent, as time, or as creditor. lāng-khì thài-pek, oppressive feeling from many people being crowded together in hot weather. chhui-pek, to urge to do something very quickly, as work or payment. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhui si-pek, id. jít-géh chhui-pek, days and months press on rapidly. pek-sí, to dun very hard; to torment to death (lit. or fig.) oáh-oáh pek--sí, id. chit-sí chit-pek, incessantly dunning and driving at a man to do something. pek-ân, to press very urgently, as for payment. pek-thó, to demand payment very urgently. pek-chè, id.; to dun for a debt. pek-siàu, id.

khún-pek, to persecute or harass. pek-tiók, to expel and drive away, as relatives or superiors do. pek-hé siong-jin, to make a tiger stand at bay injures people.

pek [R. a hundred, = col. pah, pēh]. pek-pēng, all diseases. sù-chi pek-hái, the members of the body. liú-hong pek-sè, to leave a fragrant memory for a hundred generations. it-hu, pek-hu, one thing being proved false, all is false. it-lí thong, pek-lí thiet, one thing being learned, all is understood.

pek-háp-hoe, a sort of flower (v. háp). pek-tsú-liên, the Agapanthes, with a large head of blue flowers. pek-siét-niáu<sup>n</sup>, a bird that learns many tunes, &c. (v. siét). pek-lêng, a small bird; some say same as above.

pek [R. silk; wealth, = col. pēh]. tsái-pek, wealth and treasure in general.

pek [R. white, = col. pēh]. chheng-pek, unsullied in character (v. chheng). pek-jit, in broad daylight (v. jit). pek-siú sêng-ka, to become rich out of poverty.

bêng-pek, clearly understood; to comprehend plainly; finished. bêng-bêng pek-pek, very clearly understood; quite completed. m-bêng-pek, intentionally leaving things in an unsettled state, e.g. debts not paid, or flaws left that may cause trouble, or getting more money than is proper.

hek-pek put-hun, good and bad (black and white) are not distinguished; the matter is not clear, innocence fails to prove itself, or justice is disregarded. kàu-bé hek-pek tsū-hun, right will come right at last.

kò-pek, a placard or hand-bill pasted up. ki-pek, superfine white grass-cloth. ki-siōng-pek, id. thài-pek-chhi<sup>n</sup>, the evening-star. jin-tiong-pek, incrustation of urine jars, prepared as a medicine. pek-chiok, a medicine (v. chiok). pek-tài, a running disease of the female organs. pek-lók, the white stag, worshipped. pek-hó, a sort of tea.

pek (same word?). ka-pek-sún, edible shoots of a water vegetable (v. sún).

peng (R. id., = col. pia<sup>n</sup>), a soldier. peng-teng, id. peng-á, a common soldier. peng-iōng, soldiers and militia in general. peng-bé, soldiers. sàu-peng, a low sort of tide-waiters (v. sàu). chhèng-peng, a soldier who uses a gun. siú-peng, soldiers (inferior) for garrison. chhiēng-peng, soldiers for battle (superior). bé-peng, cavalry. ló-jiók-peng, old and feeble soldiers. boán-peng, Manchoo soldiers. hàn-peng, Chinese soldiers. tō-peng, a deserter. pāi-peng, defeated soldiers (v. pāi). loán-peng, routed soldiers in disorder. tāi-peng, a very large body of soldiers.

thien-peng, the armies of the gods; offerings made to them, as well as to the gods, through Taoist priests or sorcerers. sîn-peng, id. pàng-peng (T. pàng-pia<sup>n</sup>), to send them out to assist the votaries.

tng-peng, to be a soldier. bōe-peng, to sell the position of a soldier. khí-peng, to raise soldiers. thi<sup>n</sup>-peng, to increase the number of troops. tiām-peng, to mark those present at muster. thiu-peng, to select a special proportion of soldiers for some purpose. chhut-peng, to send out soldiers. niá<sup>n</sup>-peng, to lead or command soldiers. êng-peng, to do battle. siu-peng, to draw off soldiers to retreat.

tsóng-peng, a lieutenant-general, like "tin-tái." tsáp-sa<sup>n</sup>-seng, kàu tsóng-peng, on rising thirteen degrees one becomes tsóng-peng. chiáng peng-koán, to have military command; to have the responsible management of an affair (v. koán). peng-hùi, soldier's pay, in reference to its being paid out by the mandarins. peng-khì, military weapons and stores. to-peng ê-tsai-ê, calamities of war and rebellion.

伯
嗶
蝠

迫

百

帛 白

兵

peng-tsu chièn - chheh (r.), books on military matters.

peng (R. id., = col. piang, pi), ice; very cool, as jellies; made cool, as eyes by bathing with water. peng-léng, ice-cold (v. léng). léng peng-peng, id. put-chi-peng, very cooling and pleasant to eat (as jellies) in hot weather.

peng-sng, ice and frost. kiên-peng, to freeze. peng-hô, to freeze a river. peng-hái, to freeze the sea.

peng-phien, Baroos camphor. peng-thng, sugar-candy. peng-mûi<sup>n</sup>, yellow plums preserved in sugar.

peng [R. péng, level; peace; balances, = col. pi<sup>n</sup>, &c. peng-kûi, a confidential agent of the Tartar general, who acts as a spy on the Hái-koan.

peng [R. pheng, to fall as a mountain, = col. pang]. hiet-peng (C.), = A. hiet-pheng, a flow of blood from the female organs.

péng [R. piên, piên, convenient; ready, = col. pan]. péng-i<sup>n</sup>, cheap; mediocre; easy (v. i<sup>n</sup>). péng-i, id.

péng (cf. páng). péng-se, borax.

péng [R. a friend], (Cn. pōng). péng-iú, a friend (v. iú). chhin-péng kē-iú, relations and old friends (v. chhin). hó-péng--ê, my good friend (said in asking the way, &c.)

péng (R. péng? phn? cf. phn). péng-kó, the apple. péng-kó-chhiū (r.), the apple-tree.

péng [R. level; even; uniform; usual; equal; just; peace; balances; = col. pi<sup>n</sup>, piá<sup>n</sup>, phéng], to restore to a peaceful state, as after rebellion; balances (of moderate size); to weigh in balances; when affixed to the weight fixed for dollars, it means according to the rate called "khê-tô," agreeing with the weights usually used for balances. (In the sense of "balances," T. péng, C. phéng, A. péng or phéng.)

péng-sê, heretofore; usually (in the past). péng-si, id. péng-jit, id. péng-seng, during one's whole past life; all one's life usually. seng-péng, id. péng-siông, ordinary; usually; mediocre (v. siông).

péng-téng, of same class; of equal rank. péng-pôe, of equal genealogical rank, at equal distance from the common ancestor. kun-péng, a drawn game.

kong-péng, just and fair; equitable. put-péng, indignant at injustice done to another. chêng-láng put-péng, every one is indignant at such injustice. thòe--i put-péng, indignant at the wrong done to him (a third person). lê-kiên put-péng, indignant at a wrong which we happen to observe by the way. lê-kiên put-péng, khì--sí êng-jin, injustice or oppression so flagrant that casual passers-by are most indignant.

péng-an, peace and quiet (v. an). péng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, quiet; free from disturbance; to pacify or quiet, as a region. péng-chéng, quiet, as the sea, or as a region (v. chéng). thài-péng, great peace and prosperity; Taipings. thi<sup>n</sup>-ê thài-péng, the whole empire enjoying peace and prosperity. thài-péng-koà, a jacket with long narrow sleeves, and opening at middle of breast. péng-tê, khí hong-pho, to accuse a man falsely, and cause great trouble to him without any cause.

péng-iú<sup>n</sup>, a level plain (v. iú<sup>n</sup>).

péng-tāng, to weigh in balances, as money. kè-péng, to be weighed in balances. thien-péng, large balances. thien-péng-chhin, beam of large balances. thien-péng-chiam, needle of do. thien-péng-óá<sup>n</sup>, scales of do. péng-óá<sup>n</sup>, id. teh péng-tóe, to deduct a small discount from the price of goods paid in silver. thiap péng-tsui, to pay a small premium (about three or four mace on $100) on duties paid into customs, &c.

si-péng, the current local rate for weight of dollars in the special branch of business. si-péng (r.), the rate of weight or sort of balances authorized by the provincial treasurer, esp. for payments to government. khê-péng, rate of weights making $1 = 7 mace 2 candareens, as at Changechew, about five or six per cent. heavier than the Amoy rate. chhit-jí-péng, dollars at full weight (by the khê-péng), at 7<sup>n</sup>2. liók-pat-péng, rate of (nominal) light dollars, counted at 6<sup>n</sup>8 of the khê-tô, = 7<sup>n</sup>2 of the Amoy há-tô. liók-liók-péng, rate of dollars counted at 6,6 of the khê-tô.

koan-péng, the adopted son of Kwanti. péng-hô, the district of Ping-ho. an-péng, Anping, the port of Taiwanfoo.

péng (T. phéng). io-péng, = io-phéng, a purse with a flap as a cover, worn at the side on the girdle or band that holds up the trousers.

péng (C. pân, péng; T. pài<sup>n</sup>, pín; Cn. püi<sup>n</sup>), a side; one-half of a thing cut in two. siang-péng, both sides; both parties. chit-péng, one side; one-half of a split thing. chit-péng, this side. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-péng, id. hit-péng, that side. sòe-péng, the right-hand side. toà-péng, the side of honour, the left-hand side; the larger half. si-koe, oá toà-péng, people like to favour the stronger side (lit. larger half of a melon).

hoan-péng, foreign regions.

toh-péng, one-half of a double table. thiáu-péng, a half pillar; a pilaster. ê-péng, half a root of taro. lí-á-péng, preserved split plums. táu-péng, split pease. chhâ-péng, split billets of wood. phoà-péng, to cut or split into two halves. phoà tsòe-nng-péng, id.

ji-péng, the half of a character; the phonetic half (v. ji). péng-káu-péng, the contracted form of the 94th radical. phō-sim-péng, the 61st radical written at the side. poàn-lé-péng, the 113th radical written at the side; sometimes the 145th. pē-si-péng, the 120th radical at the side. pōe-si-péng, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-si-péng, id. tāi-jí-á-péng, the formative part made of a horizontal stroke crossed by one sloping to the left (not a radical), like the 37th radical without its right-hand stroke.

péng (R. hoán), (T. pài<sup>n</sup>; Cn. püi<sup>n</sup>; C. pán; P. péng), to turn; to turn over; to invert; to be upset, as boat; to cheat out of money; to sew two pieces of cloth together, turning the rough edges inwards so as to make a smooth seam on the outside. péng--chhut-lâi, to turn inside out. péng bé-koà, to turn a jacket and wear it inside out. péng kiám-toà, to make a pointed sash, sewing the edges so as to turn inside. péng-chhiú, to turn the hand over, esp. Buddhist or Taoist priests turning it over and over in some rites. bák-chiu péng-péh, turning the white of the eyes, as in anger or when about to die. péng-káu-á, the 94th radical at the side (v. káu). ám-péng-sui-khang, holes for running water off the deck.

péng--khí-lâi, to turn over; to turn upside down. péng-lin-túg, to invert (v. lin). péng-khap, to invert, as bowl (v. khap). péng-phak, to turn on the belly; to invert, with mouth down, as bowl (v. phak). péng-chhiò, to invert, turning up the concave side of something that naturally has the concave side down, as a lid or cover (v. chhiò). péng-tó, to turn a thing

冰

平
崩 便
朋

平

反

upside down. tò-péng, inverted. tò-péng-kóng, to speak ironically, saying the opposite of what is meant. tùi-péng, on the other hand.

péng-lâng, to cheat people out of money. péng-pi<sup>n</sup>, to find some new way of living when the old way fails. péng-lái péng-khì, to say yes and no at different times; saying contradictory things to different men or at different times. chhài péng-lái péng-khì, id. péng-tàng (C.), very troublesome, as child.

péng [R. to hold; to maintain]. péng-kong, acting with equity. péng-kong pân-sū, to decide a case justly. péng-sim bú-khài, integrity of heart unimpeachable, so as to have no cause for shame. péng-sim lái-kóng-ōe, to speak openly and honestly.

péng [R. pín, to receive from a superior]. péng-sèng, natural disposition or temper. péng-khì soe-pôh, natural constitution (as of child) weak. péng-khì kàu-pôh, the strength or weakness of our natural constitution as to health.

péng [R. a loaf, = col. piá<sup>n</sup>]. oā-péng chhiong-ki (to stay hunger with a painted loaf), to disappoint by false grounds of hope. hoā-péng chhiong-ki, id.

péng (T.) péng-sit, = A. pién-sit, a sort of cake.

pèng [R. a handle; authority, = col. pi<sup>n</sup>]. koân-pèng, authority; power. ũ-pá-pèng, having determination and ability (carrying out one's purpose in spite of opposition). bô-pá-pèng, very changeable in purpose. thòe-lâng pá-pèng, to help a man (gen. secretly and rather improperly) to accomplish what he could not do alone, as by exerting some secret influence or advising him how to act. tek-khak ũ-lâng teh-pá-pèng, certainly some one must be secretly making opposition.

pèng [R. along with; to compare; really], commis- sion on goods bought.

pèng-bô, there is not; there is no such thing or per- son. pèng-m-si, certainly it is not —. pèng-si àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, certainly it is so.

pèng-gún, commission paid by the buyer to the commission-agent. ka pèng-gún, to pay it. ke-pèng--lòh-khì, id. pèng-tióng, commission paid by buyer and seller, about two per cent. (v. tióng).

pēng [R. a disease, a fault, = col. pi<sup>n</sup>]. pē-pēng, a blemish, fault, or flaw; depravity. ũ-pē-pēng, hav- ing a blemish, physical or moral. ũ pē-pēng-lē, having a blemish, as character; having a flaw, as affair. mǎu<sup>n</sup>-pēng, a blemish. pek-pēng, all sorts of dis- eases. tài-pēng, while unwell (in reference to action). tài-pēng chhut-mŭg, to go out while really too unwell to go, by putting a pressure on one's self. kiú-pēng sēng lióng-i, long illness makes one a good doctor; long experience makes a man skilful at what he never formally learned; e.g. a man long troubled by lawsuits learns how to manage them. kiú-pēng sēng i-seng, id. tsū-pēng put-lēng-i, does not know his own faults; manages other people's business better than his own. péng-jī-khak, the 104th radical.

pi — pūn pi-á, to whistle.

pi [R. peng, ice, = col. piang]. chhìn-pi-pi, very cold, as a thing.

pi — niau<sup>n</sup> pi-pa, pock-marked.

pi [R. name of a plant]. pi-moá<sup>n</sup>-chí, seeds of the castor-oil plant. pi-moá<sup>n</sup>-iú, castor-oil. tē-pi-iú, id. tē-pi-chí, the seeds.

pi [R. sad; sorrowful]. pi-siong, grieved; sorrowful. sióng-pi, id. pi-ai (R.), id. tsú-pi, tenderly affectionate, as a parent or superior. lók kék, pi seng, grief comes at the height of joy. lók kék, seng-pi, id.

pi [R. low; humble]. kham-pi, humble-minded. pi-chiēn, in a humble, low, or mean position. tsun-pi, high and low, in rank. ũ-tsun-pi, treating su- periors (esp. elder relatives) with due respect. khah-bô tsun-pi, not showing proper respect and ceremony to superiors.

pi [R. name of an insect]. gū-pi, an insect that attacks cows: its blood is used as a glue. gū-pi, ũ- jip bô-chhut, said in scolding a man who is miserably mean (the insect is said to have no excrement).

pi-bā (Cn.), = A. pan-bā, the blistering-fly.

pi [R. a stone tablet]. chióh-pi, a large stone tablet for an inscription, larger than "pái." chióh-pi-pái, engraved stone tablets. khiā-pi, to set up a stone tablet with an inscription, as at road-side.

pi (R. id.), a weir or dam on a river, especially for a large sluice. pi-á, a smaller one. pi-thâu, the raised ground on each side at the dam. tsoh-pi, to make a dam or weir.

pi (R. id.) pi-pê, the loquat fruit (v. pé).

pi (R. id.) pi-pê, a guitar (v. pé).

pi [R. phí, skin; bark, = col. phê]. ngé-ka-pi, = ngé-ka-phí, sort of yellow wine.

pi — chit-pi, one bunch, as of plantains. chit-pi gēng-chio, one circular bunch of plantains made by cutting the stalk across above and below.

chit-pi hí-chí, one piece of fish-roe, i.e. the whole mass at one side; the half of what one fish has [next word?].

pi (R. id.), an internal organ near the stomach; the pancreas or sweetbread in some animals, called "chhioh." iú<sup>n</sup>-pi, the sweetbread of the sheep or goat. pi-ü, the pancreas and the stomach (v. üi). pi-thé, constitution of a man's stomach. pi-thé hó, having a good appetite and able to digest well.

pé-pi, tonic; assisting digestion. pé-pi li-súi, tonic and diuretic. háh-pi, to agree with the stomach. lí-pi, id. khui-pi, the appetite returning after sick- ness; whetting the appetite. put-chí khui-pi, very good for whetting the appetite. chiah-kú khah- khui-pi, have had more appetite of late. khui-pi- thng, a medicinal infusion for giving appetite. sún-pi, to disagree with the stomach. sióng-pi, id. sit- chek sióng-pi, ill from over-eating, as child. sí-pi, a disease causing great indigestion and loss of appetite. khùn kàu sí-pi--khì, idly sleeping at all hours of the day instead of working. bān-pi-hong, a very dangerous disease of children (v. hong).

pi [R. pí, contiguous; conterminous], (T. pí). pí- liēn, contiguous, conterminous, as fields, or as adjoining houses having a common wall.

pi [R. that; those, = col. hit]. pí-tong-sí, just at that (past) time. pí-chhú (R.), that and this.

pi (R. id.) hién-pi, title given to a deceased mother on gravestone and at offerings.

pi [R. pí, ready; to prepare]. pái-pi, to prepare, arrange beforehand, or put in order.

pi (R. id.), to compare; compared with; to practise, as gymnastics or military exercises; to gesticulate or make signs with hand, &c.; to beat officially so as to get payment, &c. pí-jū, a comparison; for example. pí- hong, id. pí-lūn, id. (v. lūn). pí-phēng, to com-

秉

稟

餅

柄

並

病

啡

冰

草

悲

卑

蠅

碑

陂

枇

琶

皮

脾

毗

彼

妣

備

比

pare. sa<sup>n</sup>-pí, id. lâi-pí, come and measure and compare the two. pí-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to compare, as two things, to see the likeness. pí-pân, to compare with the pattern. pí-kàu, to compare two things to see the difference or to try which is better; to try which is the stronger or more skilful at anything.

bōe-pí--tit, cannot be compared with. put-pí, not so good as —; not equal to —. lí put-pí-i, you cannot be compared with him. chì-toā bō-pí, the very greatest beyond compare. ũ-chi<sup>n</sup> kàu-bō-pí, surpassingly rich. pí-goá khah-hó, better than I. pí-lí khah-toā, greater than you.

jī-pí, the two parties in a dispute. pí-chiap (Cn.), to meet and endeavour to arrange a quarrel.

tāi-pí ê-ni<sup>n</sup>, the year of the great examinations, as for the degree of chin-sū. pí bú-gōe, to practise military arts, as archery, fencing, &c. pí ke-si, to practise fencing, &c. pí kún-thâu, to exercise in boxing (v. kún). pí-sè, to hold a weapon, as if about to strike; to gesticulate so as to show another how to do a thing. pí sè-bin, id. pí-pē, to gesticulate, as in teaching or practising steps, boxing, fencing, or as in threatening a child. pí-pē beh-phah--i, put one's self in attitude, as if going to strike him. pí beh-phah--i, id. ēng-chhiú teh-pí, making a sign to another with the hand. pí-chhiú, to beckon or make a sign with the hand, shake the fist, &c. pí-chhiú ká-i-kóng, to let him know by a sign made by the hand. pí-chhiú sut-bák, beckon and wink. pí-chhiú nih<sup>n</sup>-bák, id. pí-kha tâng-chhiú, moving one's limbs in a boisterous or disorderly way, as troublesome boy or unruly man. pí tsúg-thâu-á, to make secret signs with fingers.

pí-tui, to beat a thief or a responsible person (e.g. the bé-khoài) till stolen articles are recovered. pí-tsng, id. pí-chhe, to beat the constables or police for neglect of duty. pí chí<sup>n</sup>-niū<sup>n</sup>, to flog for arrears of land-tax. sâng pí-tiâu, to send in a statement that some one should be thus beaten (sent from the keng-sêng).

pí [R. to protect]. pó-pí, to protect or help, as gods. pē-pí (Cn.), id. pí-iū, id.

pí [R. secret]. pí-koat, secrets, as of trade (v. koat). pí-hng, a secret medical prescription. pí-thoan, secrets handed down from ancestors, as in medicine or manufactures; to hand down such a secret.

pí [R. to seal or shut up]. pí-kiet, costiveness. pí-bát, to keep very close, as a secret, or as something carefully hidden away; secret; hidden. pí-bát-bát, carefully concealed, as a secret or a hidden thing.

pí (R. id.), benumbed; sleeping, as hand or foot. kha pí, foot sleeping. chhiú pí, hand sleeping. bâ-pí, satiated with sexual indulgence (sometimes used in the following senses). lim--khi chin-bâ-pí, having drunk so much liquor as to feel somewhat elevated, but yet having command of one's self. thàn--khi bâ-pí, greatly delighted at having gained a good deal of money. seng-khu bâ-pí, feeling of somewhat painful weariness, as after hard work. khùn kàu bâ-pí, having slept so snug and cozy as to sleep too long, or feel inclined to sleep too long, in the morning.

pí [R. the arm]. tsó-pí (r.), the left arm. iū-pí (r.), the right arm.

pí (C.) tek-pí, small shoots of bamboo at side of large stem.

pí (C.), = A. pè. pí-kok (polite), my native land.

pí (R. id.) lú-pí, a female slave; a concubine. lê-pí (R.), male and female slaves or menials. hē-lê hoan-pí, to have many slaves and menials at one's call.

pī [R. pī, to cover; a coverlet; sign of the passive, = col. phē, pī]. pī-kò, the defendant. goan-pī, the two parties, plaintiff and defendant. pī-lūi, to be involved by another. khít--i pī-lūi, id. pī-piên (R.), to be degraded from office.

pī (R. id.), to avoid; to get out of the way. siám-pī, id. tsáu-pī, id. tō-pí, to run away; to abscond; to get out of the way (good or bad). phiah-pī, to get out of the way and conceal one's self for a short time. thòe-pī, to keep at a respectful distance from a superior. thè-pī, id. hōe-pī (R.), clear the way (words on a board carried before a mandarin).

pī-hùi, to avoid the use of a sacred or tabooed name. pī-sú, to avoid the heat. pī-hoan, to flee from a place in a state of rebellion or anarchy. pí-loan, id. pí-lân, to keep out of the way of great calamities, as war or rebellion.

pī [R. to prepare; complete]. siú-pī, a military officer between chhién-tsóng and tē-si; (a lieutenant-major?). siú-pí-thia<sup>n</sup>, id. pia<sup>n</sup>-pí-tō, a Tautai who has also the management of the funds for military and naval expenses.

chek-pí, to reprove. chiau-pí, complete. tsáu-pí (Cn.), id. tsōe-pí, all complete, as a number of articles. chē-pí, id. oân-pí, all complete and in proper order.

pí-pân, to prepare; to make ready. tsún-pí, ready prepared, as person. ũ-pí, id., to get ready beforehand. pí-chín, candidates who were good enough for the Sew-tsai degree, but who failed because the allowed number of graduates was complete (v. chin).

pí (T.) pí-liên, = A. pí-liên, immediately adjoining or conterminous, as fields or houses.

pí (C.) pí-si-pêng, = A. pí-si-pêng, the 120th radical at the side.

pí<sup>n</sup> (R. pien), the side. phien-pí<sup>n</sup>, at the side. pí<sup>n</sup>-á, id. pí<sup>n</sup>--thâu, id. pí<sup>n</sup>-thâu-lâng, bystanders. chít-pí<sup>n</sup>, on one side. lak chít-pí<sup>n</sup>, lay the matter aside for the present. khah-soe chít-pí<sup>n</sup>, rather more distant in relationship. chít-pí<sup>n</sup> — chít-pí<sup>n</sup>, at the same time — at the same time. chít-pí<sup>n</sup> chiáh-hun, chít-pí<sup>n</sup> siá-jī, smoke and write at once. chít-pí<sup>n</sup> hoan-hù, chít-pí<sup>n</sup> bō-beh-thia<sup>n</sup>, though I order him yet he will not listen or obey. chít-pí<sup>n</sup> si-kau, chít-pí<sup>n</sup> si-tsùn (a ditch on each side), either alternative will offend a friend or be very unsuitable. nūg-pí<sup>n</sup>, the two parties in a dispute.

goā-pí<sup>n</sup>, the outside. chhū-pí<sup>n</sup>, a neighbour (v. chhū). lē-pí<sup>n</sup>, the road-side. sin-pí<sup>n</sup>, at one's side; at the side. sim-pí<sup>n</sup>, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup>, far among the mountains (v. soa<sup>n</sup>). pín-pí<sup>n</sup>, near the temples; the parts near the temples. hiáp-pí<sup>n</sup>, the side at the ribs. kái-pí<sup>n</sup>, the hollow between the thigh and the belly. kah-pí<sup>n</sup>, the quick at the side of the nail (v. kah). thi<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup>, very far-off places. thi<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup> hái-kak, the most distant regions (v. kak). thi<sup>n</sup> bō-pí<sup>n</sup>, heaven is of vast extent. kék-pí<sup>n</sup> ê sé-tsai, the most distant and out-of-the-way places.

ní<sup>n</sup>-tau-pí<sup>n</sup>, about the end of the year. siám-pí<sup>n</sup>, to go to the side to avoid. thè-pí<sup>n</sup>, to keep to the side to let a man pass (v. thè). oá-pí<sup>n</sup>, to approach the side. sái oá-pí<sup>n</sup>, to sail near the shore. pí<sup>n</sup>-lé, a sculling oar at the side of a boat. phah pí<sup>n</sup>-ké, to give a secret hint.

pí<sup>n</sup> — liám-pí<sup>n</sup>, immediately (v. liám).

pí<sup>n</sup> (C. pē<sup>n</sup>), to pull or stretch out straight and tight, as paper, or cloth, or skin, or a rope, or as the edge of

被

避

備

邊

庇
秘
閉
痺

臂

婢

編

a dress; to stretch paper or cloth on a frame or in making an umbrella; to stretch a rope from the mast to the shore so as to tow a boat. pi<sup>n</sup>--chhut-lâi, to pull out with some force, as a stiff drawer. pi<sup>n</sup>-khui, to pull a boat away from the shore or from another boat, by means of a rope. pi<sup>n</sup>-pê, to stretch cloth, as on a screen or frame. pi<sup>n</sup>-kui, to stretch work on a frame, as for embroidery. pi<sup>n</sup>-kê, to stretch the leather on a drum (s. side). pi<sup>n</sup>-phoà, to tear by stretching tight, as dress or paper, &c. siang-chhiú pi<sup>n</sup>, to pull on hard with both hands, as a tight stocking. pi<sup>n</sup>-ân, to stretch out tight. phê pi<sup>n</sup>-khi-ân, make your skin tight and ready for a thrashing. beh kâ--li pi<sup>n</sup>-phê, I will stretch your skin for you (will beat you), said to a boy. bô-chit-têng thang pi<sup>n</sup>-phê, having no clothes to put on, = bô-chit-niá<sup>n</sup> thang pi<sup>n</sup>-phê, = bô-chit-tsoá thang pi<sup>n</sup>-phê, id. sán kàu chit-têng-phê pi<sup>n</sup> chit-têng-kut, nothing but skin and bone.

pi<sup>n</sup> tek-than, to dredge for a sort of spout-fish. pi<sup>n</sup>-peh, in great want of money (v. peh). pi<sup>n</sup>-puih--lâng, to throw one's self for support on a very poor man, so as to make him miserably poor (v. puih).

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pien), a whip; a switch. bé-pi<sup>n</sup>, a whip or switch for a horse. tîn-pi<sup>n</sup>, a whip or scourge made of rattan. thih-pi<sup>n</sup>, a square iron rod used as a club in war. phah thih-pi<sup>n</sup> bôe kē-iôh, to beat one's self with an iron scourge and sell plaster (after showing its virtues on one's self), as quacks do.

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), (C. pēn), level; even; smooth; equal; alike; just). pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, quite level; equal; equally. pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>-toā, of equal size. pi<sup>n</sup>-toā, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-poa<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, in same manner; quite alike. pi<sup>n</sup>-têng, of equal rank (s. stage). pi<sup>n</sup>-hê, of same age, as persons. pi<sup>n</sup>-tú-theng, neither party able to overcome the other. kap-i ũ-pi<sup>n</sup>-khia, able to associate with him, as in somewhat similar station.

kong-pi<sup>n</sup>, fair; honest, as in trade (not of servant); just; equitable, as judge, judgment or business. táu-chhin kong-pi<sup>n</sup>, measures and weights fair and just. pi<sup>n</sup>-tit, pretty level and straight, as road; tolerable; mediocre (v. tit). pi<sup>n</sup>-chia<sup>n</sup>, ordinary; of medium quality; fair (v. chia<sup>n</sup>). pi<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, of usual or common quality; mediocre.

pi<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, peaceful, quiet, as region with no disturbance. hong chi<sup>n</sup>, éng pi<sup>n</sup>, wind and waves quiet.

thán-pi<sup>n</sup>, lying flat or level; to fall down flat. pi<sup>n</sup>-thá<sup>n</sup>, level, as road. pi<sup>n</sup>-pāng, level. it-ji-pi<sup>n</sup>, quite level, as a straight line. pi<sup>n</sup>-pho-pho, level, as road (v. pho). pi<sup>n</sup>-liú-liú (Chn.), id. pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>-lê poáh-tó-lâng (a level road makes men fall), an affair going all wrong that seemed quite safe. pi<sup>n</sup>-pê, a level plain (v. pē). pi<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup> khòng-thé, id. (v. iū<sup>n</sup>). sàu-pi<sup>n</sup>, to level down; to raze to the ground. siu-pi<sup>n</sup>, to repair so as to level. tiên-pi<sup>n</sup>, to level ground by filling it up. phê-pi<sup>n</sup>, to spread out level and even.

pi<sup>n</sup> (= ti<sup>n</sup>). pi<sup>n</sup>-poa<sup>n</sup>, to encumber or entangle (v. ti<sup>n</sup>).

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), (C. pēn), a stage; an awning; a canopy; classifier of plays and of companies of actors. khó-pi<sup>n</sup>, examination hall for graduation. tsàu-pi<sup>n</sup>, cooking-place in a junk. pán-pi<sup>n</sup>, a flat wooden terrace. tsng-pi<sup>n</sup>, a flat tiled roof or terrace. pè-pi<sup>n</sup>, a tent; an awning; canopies over streets in idolatrous rites. liàng-pi<sup>n</sup>, an awning put up for coolness; also, pieces of cloth at the ends of a sedan that can be stretched out to shade from the sun. kē-pi<sup>n</sup>, a covered shed with offerings to ghosts that have no posterity (v. kē). tah-

pi<sup>n</sup>, to erect a stage or awning. tah-teng-pi<sup>n</sup>, to make an idolatrous illumination with a vast number of lamps, &c. giã-kang-pi<sup>n</sup>, a long jointed flexible frame used at some idolatrous processions.

hi-pi<sup>n</sup>, a stage for a play (v. hi). chit-pi<sup>n</sup>-hi, one play, as acted. bân-siū-pi<sup>n</sup>, temporary stage at yamun for emperor's birthday. khui-pi<sup>n</sup>, to make a first performance without payment, as a newly arrived company of actors. pi<sup>n</sup>-têng ũ-he-lâng; pi<sup>n</sup>-ê iáh-ũ he-lâng, said of some action so shameful that one would think it could only be in a play.

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pién), flat; thin; flattened. pi<sup>n</sup>-poe pi<sup>n</sup>-poe, flat-shaped. pi<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, a long flat low box. pi<sup>n</sup>-láng, do., of wicker-work. pi<sup>n</sup>-tsng, an instrument like a flat-headed drill, used by robbers for making holes in walls. pi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, flat at the end. pi<sup>n</sup>-thâu-á, man with flat forehead. pi<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, having a flat bill, as a duck (v. ah, "duck"). ta<sup>n</sup> pi<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, he has a long mouth now, as a man quite defeated in argument and silenced so that he cannot answer; or as man who used to laugh at others' calamities but who has met with great calamity himself. chhùi pi<sup>n</sup>, unable to answer a word.

táh-pi<sup>n</sup>, to flatten by treading upon. tui-pi<sup>n</sup>, to beat flat, as with hammer or fist. chhih-pi<sup>n</sup> to press flat, as with the hand. thán-pi<sup>n</sup>, turning the flat side, as of a sword. chē-i<sup>n</sup>, bô-chē-pi<sup>n</sup>, to take praise but not blame (v. i<sup>n</sup>).

pi<sup>n</sup>-tâu, a medicinal bean (v. tâu). pi<sup>n</sup>-peh, a sort of tree grown in flower-pots (v. peh). pi<sup>n</sup>-hi, a flat-fish like turbot, very good. pi<sup>n</sup>-hi-koa<sup>n</sup>, do. dried, much used.

pi<sup>n</sup> (Chn.) pi<sup>n</sup>-kê, = gū-ta<sup>n</sup>, a yoke for a cow or ox.

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), (C. pēn), a handle (straight or nearly so), as of a knife or plough. to-pi<sup>n</sup>, handle of sword or knife. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, butt end of spear. káu-i-pi<sup>n</sup>, arms of arm-chair. lôe-pi<sup>n</sup>, handle of plough. tháng-pi<sup>n</sup>, straight handle of bucket, rising straight from the side. phah-chih lāng--ê khek-pi<sup>n</sup>, to cut short a man's talk (lit. his song) so that he does not effect his purpose. phah-chih lāng--ê ôe-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. phah-chih lāng--ê kē-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. (lit. his story).

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pién), to change; to be altered (gen. gradually), usually for the worse. pi<sup>n</sup>-bin, to change countenance, becoming angry or displeased; to frown. pi<sup>n</sup>-hong-bin, to change from friendliness to displeasure. kün-lái pi<sup>n</sup>-hong, of late he has become a bad, idle boy. pi<sup>n</sup>-báng, beginning a bad course of life, as a young lad (v. báng). pi<sup>n</sup>-khoán, to change for the worse. pi<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>-khoán, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-hó, to change for the better. pi<sup>n</sup>-hó-khoán, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-hó-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. kóe-pi<sup>n</sup>, to reform one's self. hoán-hóe kóe-pi<sup>n</sup>, to repent and reform. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ têng-teng, chiū kóe-pi<sup>n</sup>, will not reform till his coffin is nailed. bôe-chhoeh bôe-pi<sup>n</sup>, he will neither repent nor reform. chiū<sup>n</sup>-kiô, tsáp-poeh-pi<sup>n</sup>, the bride entering the bridal sedan should make eighteen changes of character for the better.

tng-pi<sup>n</sup>, to become of marriageable age, as about sixteen.

péng-pi<sup>n</sup>, easily finding a new means of livelihood when the former way fails. pi<sup>n</sup>-kâu-lāng, legerdemain; jugglery (v. lāng). pi<sup>n</sup>-pá-hi, id.; idle play.

pi<sup>n</sup> (R. pēng), (C. pēn), sick; unwell; a disease. pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, constantly in weak health; having a dull lazy manner with no animation. pi<sup>n</sup>-thiá<sup>n</sup>, disease; illness. pi<sup>n</sup>-chêng, id. pi<sup>n</sup> hó, recovered from illness. chit-

扁

柄

變

病

鞭

平

棚

pī<sup>n</sup> soah-chit-lâng, people die of many different diseases.

jiét-pī<sup>n</sup>, fever. sún-pī<sup>n</sup>, consumption. kú-tŋg-pī<sup>n</sup>, a severe chronic disease. kú-tŋg-pī<sup>n</sup>, bô hau-tsú, in a long chronic disease sons prove undutiful. sin-tsù-pī<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a natural disease, not caused by demons.

pàng-pī<sup>n</sup>, intentionally make the patient worse. ù-pī<sup>n</sup>, unwell. tiòh-pī<sup>n</sup>, id.; to become unwell. jiám-tiòh-pī<sup>n</sup>, to take a disease. ti-pī<sup>n</sup>, id. toà-pī<sup>n</sup>, to be unwell (said in relation to what one does though unwell). toà-pī<sup>n</sup> khi, to go though unwell. toà-pī<sup>n</sup> pân-sū, managing the matter, though really too ill to do so. thoa-pī<sup>n</sup> tsòe-kang, to do work by great exertion, when quite too ill to do anything (much worse than toà-pī<sup>n</sup>). thoa-pī<sup>n</sup> khi, to go though extremely ill, and quite unable for it. the-pī<sup>n</sup>, to refuse on the pretence of sickness. phòà-pī<sup>n</sup>, very unwell; a fault or flaw in character or in any work. ù phòà-pī<sup>n</sup>-lê, faulty, as character or work.

pī<sup>n</sup> (R. piên) to plait, braid, or twine; a plaited lace; braid. pī<sup>n</sup>-á, narrow braid, a lace, generally silk; a Chinaman's queue. i<sup>n</sup>-kê-pī<sup>n</sup>, a round lace; round cord. liú-pī<sup>n</sup>, id. liú-si-pī<sup>n</sup>, a round silk lace. pī<sup>n</sup>--ê pī<sup>n</sup>-á, flat braid; a flat lace.

pī<sup>n</sup> thâu-tsang, to plait the queue; to wear a queue.

pī<sup>n</sup> (cf. pē), (C. pī). pī<sup>n</sup>-si-pêng, the 120th radical at the side (esp. T.)

piá<sup>n</sup> [R. peng, a soldier, military; cf. phia<sup>n</sup>]. piá<sup>n</sup>-pē, the Board of War at the capital; the President of it. piá<sup>n</sup>-pâng, the office in a yamun that manages military matters; the official at the head of it. piá<sup>n</sup>-pī-tō, title of the Tautai, because he disburses the pay of the troops. pàng-piá<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. pàng-peng, to send spirit soldiers to help their votaries, as the gods do.

piá<sup>n</sup>, to throw, as stones, at something, or as throwing away sulkily. piá<sup>n</sup>-lái piá<sup>n</sup>-khi, to throw backwards and forwards. tui-bin ká<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>--goá, you dare to behave sulkily to my face! said to slave or child. piá<sup>n</sup>-hiet-kák, to throw away. piá<sup>n</sup>-i piá<sup>n</sup>-toh, to strike chairs and table in anger. siú-khi siú-toáh, piá<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup> siak-ti, to throw down bowls and chopsticks in a sulk, pet, or rage. piá<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup> sak-sak, m-chêng m-goân, throwing things about in a pet or rage.

piá<sup>n</sup> (cf. poá<sup>n</sup>), to copy, as a document. piá<sup>n</sup>-jī, to transcribe a document. piá<sup>n</sup> chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>, take one copy of the document.

piá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, level, even, = col. pí<sup>n</sup>], (C. pē<sup>n</sup>). piá<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, the tones called "ping," or even, though only one of them is now really even; the first tone, or first and fifth. piá<sup>n</sup>-cheh, the "ping" tones, and the tones that are not "ping;" the method of metrical composition according to the rules for tones. bô-piá<sup>n</sup>-cheh, not composed according to these rules, as colloquial rhymes. chiú<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup> (C. téng-pē<sup>n</sup>), the upper first, or first tone. ê-piá<sup>n</sup>, the lower first, also called the fifth tone.

piá<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), one of the cyclical characters.

piá<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), a cake; a biscuit. ko-piá<sup>n</sup>, small cakes in general. tau-piá<sup>n</sup>, bean-cake, imported from North China chiefly for manure. lék-tau-piá<sup>n</sup>, white cakes with stuffing, made of pease-meal. a<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, cakes with such stuffing. khang-khak ê-piá<sup>n</sup>, hollow cakes with empty cavity. thŋg-piá<sup>n</sup>, a very cheap hollow sort with a little sugar inside, but almost empty.

ka-lak-piá<sup>n</sup>, sort with hole in the middle, for stringing them on a string. lün-piá<sup>n</sup>, thin tough cakes like scones. pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>, very thin cakes, almost like paper. pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>-kauh, eatables wrapped in them. hiu<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, a cheap empty sort of sweet cake. bah-piá<sup>n</sup>, a cake with bits of pork in it. bah-piá<sup>n</sup>-bin, a broad fat face, not good-looking. ná<sup>n</sup> bah-piá<sup>n</sup>, said of an ugly pock-marked face. tióng-chhiu-piá<sup>n</sup>, cakes made in the 8th month.

chhiü-m-piá<sup>n</sup>, dried sugared arbutus (Myrica) fruit. piá<sup>n</sup>-lê, an oven. piá<sup>n</sup>-iòh, sort of alkaline lye. piá<sup>n</sup>-áh, small basket or box for carrying cakes, &c. piá<sup>n</sup>-sut, crumbs of cakes or biscuits. piá<sup>n</sup>-iü, id. piá<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, biscuits.

pun-piá<sup>n</sup>, to distribute cakes, a way of combining in a secret confederacy.

piá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, to compare; to risk life in battle], to join battle; to quarrel. sa<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, id. kap--i sa<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, quarrelling, scolding, or fighting with him. toá-piá<sup>n</sup>, a great battle. chiang-tsoán-piá<sup>n</sup>, a feud between men from Chang-chew and Chin-chew, as in Formosa. piá<sup>n</sup>-tín, the battle raging fiercely, as in a general engagement. piá<sup>n</sup>-lái piá<sup>n</sup>-khi, the battle swaying back and forwards. piá<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-üi, to attack the throne by rebellion. piá<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-sí, to engage in mortal combat, or in a feud that will ruin one party at least. piá<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to risk one's life, as in some dangerous work. siá piá<sup>n</sup>-siá, villages fighting. chhát piá<sup>n</sup>-chhát, robbers or bad men quarrelling with each other. phah-piá<sup>n</sup>, to fight for life or death; to risk all on one venture (as in battle, feud, or trade), which, if lost, all is ruined. toá-phah-piá<sup>n</sup>, id.; very dangerous or deadly. phah-piá<sup>n</sup>-iòh, medicine that will kill or cure. chit-thiap-iòh kap--i phah-piá<sup>n</sup>, to use such dangerous medicine. m-ká<sup>n</sup> phah-piá<sup>n</sup>, terribly afraid of meddling in a matter. kau-piá<sup>n</sup>, contest very fierce and still doubtful, as in battle, boxing, &c. koá<sup>n</sup>-joáh kau-piá<sup>n</sup>, weather just changing, but not yet settled, as from cold to hot weather. sin-kü kau-piá<sup>n</sup>, the old just going out, and the new just coming in, as corn.

piá<sup>n</sup>, to pour out, as a liquid; to clean out; to empty out, or pour in a large quantity (as of water) rapidly; to put in order, as a bed in the morning. piá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to empty or clean out. piá<sup>n</sup>-lái piá<sup>n</sup>-khi, to empty back and forwards, as buckets (s. fight). piá<sup>n</sup>-tám-pòh, to pour a small quantity rapidly in or out. piá<sup>n</sup>-ta, to pour out quite empty. piá<sup>n</sup>-chheng, to clear or clean out thoroughly. piá<sup>n</sup>-sàu, to sweep, and clean out, and make tidy, as a room. hê chhia-teh-piá<sup>n</sup>, rain in torrents.

piá<sup>n</sup> lŋng--ê pŋg-oá<sup>n</sup>, to get a man out of his situation. tsòe--chit-ê piá<sup>n</sup>, to pour out the whole at once; to tell all one's mind, as to a confidential friend; or as in scolding, in the excitement of the quarrel saying all we feel, which we would not have done when cool. ôe piá<sup>n</sup>-niá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, do., as in scolding.

piah (R. phek), a partition wall. chhiü<sup>n</sup>-piah, walls in general. chhiü<sup>n</sup>-piah ü-hi, walls and partitions have ears. thia<sup>n</sup>-hi thia<sup>n</sup>-piah, to listen secretly, as an eaves-dropper. khi<sup>n</sup>-chhiü<sup>n</sup> peh-piah, to climb walls (v. khi<sup>n</sup>). chhiü<sup>n</sup>-piah-tin, a creeper of the fig tribe. chiòh-piah, a stone partition. ngi<sup>n</sup>-piah, a solid partition, as stone, brick, or well-limed composition. pang-piah, a wooden partition of a room. koa<sup>n</sup>-chin-piah, a partition made of reeds.

keh-piah, next door; near neighbours. âu-piah,

辮

兵

平

丙餅

併

壁

behind, in place. āu-piah-soa<sup>n</sup>, said of powerful influence assisting a man (v. soa<sup>n</sup>).

piah-to, a large flat trowel with handle on the back as on a shield. piah-tú, a prop for a wall. piah-tú, a cupboard or press in a wall. piah-kham, a niche in a wall with no door. thàu-piah-long, to have the feet through a partition, as captive (v. long). piah-kak, at the corner between two walls. piah-kha-pi<sup>n</sup>, secret places. piah-pi<sup>n</sup>, id.

piah-hé, a sort of lizard. piah-hmh, a sort of beetle (v. hmh). piah-sien-si<sup>n</sup>, the cockroach (counted useful in medicine).

hún-piah, to plaster a partition smooth and white; a white-plastered wall. chhui-piah, to rub the plaster on it smooth. iah-piah, to make a hole in a wall, as thief. kùi-piah, to hang on the wall. tah-piah, to paste on the partition (as a bill); to lean against a wall. pè-piah, to paste paper on a partition. tú-piah, to prop up a partition. chhùn-chhiú, tú-tiòh-piah, having no money and no way of getting it.

燻

piak (R. pek), to roast or toast (v. pek). piak (cf. phiang). piak-ké, a sort of drum with skin on one end only.

piak, to burst and fall to pieces, as a gun, jar, or barrel. piak--khui, to split up and fall separate, as things that had been glued or joined together. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> beh-piak--khui, heart bursting with grief or distress. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> beh-piak--phoà, id. tāi-chi piak--phoà, the affair has become public; the feud has begun, so as to cause great trouble and evil, e.g. by a secret leaking out, or by one party entering a complaint at the yamun, or the negotiations otherwise failing.

爆

piak, sound as of glass cut or broken, or of fire, or of water falling on melted fat, or of salt or charcoal splitting in the fire, or of wood cracking in dry weather; sound of crackling or cracking. piak-piak-háu, to crackle or give a cracking sound (as above). pih-pih piak-piak, sound as of coals or charcoal crackling in the fire.

piàn, piàn, pián, piàn, piàn; better pien, pièn, pién, pièn, pièn (q.v.)

piang — pók-piang pók-piang, sound of beating raw cotton. pók-piang-thúi, rod for beating raw cotton.

冰

piang [R. peng, ice, = col. pi]. chhìn-piang-piang, very cold, as tea. piang-piang-léng, very cool or cold.

併

piàng [R. cheng, to compare, to combat, = col. pià<sup>n</sup>]. tsòe-chit-é piàng, to have it out in scolding, &c. (v. pià<sup>n</sup>).

piàng — cheng-piàng, housebreaking. cheng lāng-é-piàng, id.

piàng (C. piāng). pin-pin piàng-piàng, loud noise of heavy steps, or of steps on an unsteady floor, or of carrying heavy things. pin-piàng-háu, id. piàng-piàng-háu, id.

piàng (C.), = A. piàng. pin-piàng-háu, loud sound of steps, &c. &c.

piàng, the sound of a gun.

piàng (cf. pài<sup>n</sup>). goā-piàng (T. Cn.), exclamation of great surprise.

piàng — piàng-ké, = phiàng-ké, a long thick bamboo with a skin over one end only, used by beggars and quacks as a drum.

piat, piát; better piet, piét (q.v.)

piáu [R. top branch; signal; label; beautiful; = col. pio, phiáu]. piáu-ti (r.), beautiful, as person. hù-piáu-thong, wealthy, good-looking, and talented. hù-piáu-thong, sa<sup>n</sup>-jī tsŭng, very much so.

標
廳
表

piáu [R. fat, = col. pio]. phauh-piáu, plump, fat, and good-looking.

piáu [R. the outside of a dress; to manifest; a memorial to the throne; a pattern], to give a name; appellation of relatives by the mother's side. piáu-miá<sup>n</sup>, to give a name. piáu-bêng, to illustrate, exemplify, or typify. it-piáu ê jîn-bút, a man of elegance and beauty. piáu-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a memorial to the throne. hō-piáu, a memorial archway. pàng-hô-piáu, to make fireworks in the shape of such an arch.

kim-hoe piáu-lí, said of some splendidly ornamented dresses (v. lí).

piáu--ê, a relative by the mother's side. piáu-chhin, id. in-piáu, his relative (especially cousin) by the mother's side. piáu-iâ, cousin of different surname. piáu-hia<sup>n</sup>, elder son of aunt or of maternal uncle. piáu-siô-ti, younger do. (so also with terms for sisters, &c.) piáu-tit, son of cousin of different surname. piáu-sun-á, id. piáu-tit-sun, grandson of such cousin. piáu-peh, elder son of grandaunt or of grandmother's brother. piáu-chek, younger do. kū-piáu, son or daughter of maternal uncle. bú-kū-piáu, id. kim-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-ti (T.), son of maternal uncle. i-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, son of maternal aunt. i-piáu chí-bē, daughter of do. kə-piáu hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, son of paternal aunt (v. kə).

婬

piáu (R. id.), a prostitute; a harlot. piáu-thâu, a brothel-keeper. piáu-keng, a brothel. piáu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, you whoreson! (scolding). piáu-tsú-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. phiáu-piáu, to commit whoredom. chhiong-piáu, to revile by calling a person a whore.

piáu (Cn.), = A. kiáu, to paste paper, as in making scrolls for hanging up. piáu-pō, id.

pien (C. pan). pien-chi-hoe, the bombax-tree, with large red flowers.

pien [R. side, boundary, = col. pi<sup>n</sup>]. pông-pien, at the side. pông-pien ê-lāng, a bystander; one who has nothing to do with the matter. pien-hâm, grooves for a sliding lid or door, or in the edges of planks morticed together. kim-pien-chi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), large good cash with bright edges. kim-pien, id. hoa-pien, a dollar (only said in joke in imitation of mandarin).

邊

pien-kài, frontier of a state. kék-pien ê sé-tsāi, most distant parts. kóng-tāi bū-pien, great and wide without limit (said of the laws of Buddha). hoat-lék bū-pien, idol's power very great.

pien — gū-pien, a bull's pizzle. lók-pien, stag's do. (used medicinally).

pien [R. to string together; to arrange materials; to compose], to give a specially-invented name, as a fancy name to goods; to compose, as a song. pien-miá<sup>n</sup>, to invent and give a fancy name or sort of nickname. pien hô-thâu, to mark successive volumes or houses (or such like) with the successive words of a book or sentence. sin-pien--ê, newly made, as a song. pien-khek, to compose a song. pien-ké, to invent and tell stories or scandal. pien chit-hô ê-péh, to make or use a sort of secret slang, used by each class of people.

鞭
編

pien (cf. pan), (C. pe<sup>n</sup>, pan), to pull out, as a stiff peg or drawer; to row by pulling the oar as Europeans do (but "kò" is by pushing); to grasp with the hand, as in climbing. piên-khui, to pull open with force, as a stiff door or drawer. piên-chhut, to draw out, as a stiff drawer. piên--khí-lâi, to draw out with the hand, as a peg; to pull off with some force, as a stiff cover. piên-chhih, to break by pulling. piên chhiú-bé, to try each other's strength by pulling each other's arms at right angles.

piên (T. H.), = pín. piên-toā<sup>n</sup>, = pín-toā<sup>n</sup>, lazy. piên (R. id.) pién-hok, a bat, commonly called "bit-pó."

piên [R. a flat tablet or sign-board]. pâi-piên, a sign-board, as of a shop. chhut pâi-piên, to put up a sign-board. pién-jī, large characters, as on a complimentary tablet. khia-piên, a tablet with a perpendicular column of characters, as at door of yamun or of a Chiông-goán. koà-piên, to hang up a tablet, as at the door of a Kujin or higher graduate, or in a temple, as a tablet given by the people to a good mandarin, &c. sàng-piên, to present an honorary tablet, as to a successful doctor or to a good mandarin when his term of office is expired.

piên [R. flat, = col. pi<sup>n</sup>, pin]. pién-tâu, a legume used as medicine for diarrhoea (Dolichos Lablab?). pién-sit (C. pán; T. péng), a thin cake of flour inclosing minced-meat (v. sit).

piên (R. id.), to degrade or remove from office, as a mandarin. pi-piên (R.), to be degraded from office.

piên [R. to go all round or over; everywhere], classifier of successive times, as of reading over, infusing, drinking, sewing, playing games, painting several coats, &c. pién-piên, all over a place. kiá<sup>n</sup> pién-piên, to walk or travel all over. pién-sin, all over the body; the whole body. pién-tôe, all over the earth or land.

thâu-piên, the first time, as of an infusion, &c.; the first coat of paint. tē-jī-piên, the second do. koh-tháh chit-piên, to put on another coat, as of varnish. su chit-piên, to lose one game. kúi-piên, how many times? as of painting, drinking wine, &c. thák kúi-piên, how many times have you read (the lesson) over aloud? thák sa<sup>n</sup>-pién, read it three times. sa<sup>n</sup>-pién-chiú, three times drinking liquor at a feast.

piên (= poán). pién-súi, = poán-súi, palsy.

piên (R. id., = col. pi<sup>n</sup>), to change, generally for the worse. pién-oā<sup>n</sup>, to change.

pién-bôe, to sell.

pién-hoà, to be transformed, as in the changes in nature. chhien-piên bân-hoà, all sorts of changes, permutations, or transformations, as in the processes of nature, or as the action of spirits and gods; having applications to all varied circumstances, as the doctrines of the sages; said also of a man managing to carry on business with almost no capital by all sorts of cunning plans. jī chhien-piên bân-hoà, characters can be used in many various ways and senses according to the connection.

pién-pē, to change one plan for another when the first fails. súi-si êng-piên, to act according to circumstances (v. êng). pién-thong, versatile (v. thong). ū-ki-piên, id. (v. ki). tsoán-piên, changing one's plans or language to suit new circumstances. koân-piên, going somewhat beyond our authority in an emergency (v. koân). pién-pá-hì, jugglery.

pién-chhien, to change and pass away; changing for the worse (v. chhien). pién-khoán, to change one's manner, appearance, or conduct, esp. for the worse. pién-siông, to change to an unfriendly bearing. pién-hêng, id.; also, to change appearance, as when about to die. pién-sek, to change colour, as men, things, or sky (v. sek). pién-hók, to put on mourning. ke pién (C.), a family or village of one surname at feud within itself.

piên (R. id.), ready; prepared; (convenient; usual); then (in that case). chhông-piên, to make ready. chhoân-piên, to select and make ready. put-piên, unsuitable; inconvenient. thân-piên, to take advantage of the opportunity. súi-piên, in any way; all the same; just as you please. sùn-piên, without any special additional trouble, as doing something just on one's way while doing something else. khòai-piên, easy; convenient; speedy at work, so as not to give trouble; said of a woman having a rapid and easy delivery. li-piên, convenient, as a thing or a place. li-lâng-piên, to help at once when asked; to pay a debt or give a loan, &c., at once, without making any trouble.

pién-hók, undress, as of a mandarin. pién-i, usual everyday dress. pién-tsòe, ready-made. pién-chhài, a simple dinner; pot-luck. chhe-chhài pién-png, id. pién-thò-ôe, conventional phrases (v. thò).

tâi-piên, going to stool; motion of bowels. tâi-siáu-piên ũ-hā, having motion and able to pass urine, as sick man. siáu-piên, to make water. pién-tók, a swelling near the groin, often does not come to a head for months, or not at all.

piên [R. bién, the face, surface, = col. bin]. jiâu<sup>n</sup>-piên, beautiful appearance of the surface of old china, all over like small cracks. jiâu<sup>n</sup>-pién-húi, china-ware of that appearance.

piên [R. to distinguish; to discuss]. pién-lùn, to discuss. pién-pok, to dispute. sa<sup>n</sup>-pién, to discuss together. pién-iá<sup>n</sup>, to overcome in argument. pién-tó, id.; to shut up our opponent. hun-piên, to make an explanation in argument; to answer defending one's self from some charge. pién-piet (r.), to discriminate. pién chin-ké, to discuss or investigate the right and wrong, true and false, on both sides; to show in action that we so distinguish. tan-ko oân-sán, chin-sien lân-piên, all in confusion (lit. drugs), so that even one of the geni could not distinguish.

piên [R. name of a place; a rule], a surname.

piét (R. piet, by change of tone from piét). hun-piet, to distinguish; to discriminate clearly; to perceive clearly. pién-piet (r.), id.

piét [R. piét, to distinguish; to part; different; = col. pát, piét]. li-piét, to take leave of; to bid farewell to. sa<sup>n</sup>-piét, id. sàng-piét, to accompany a friend a short way when he leaves. pài-piét, to take respectful leave.

pâi-piét, having a good deal of display and grandeur, as a mandarin coming out, or such spectacle.

piét [R. pék, white, = col. péh, bat]. kok-piét, the Amaryllis lily, esp. the white. kok-piét-hoe, id. âng-kok-piét, the red sort.

pih (R. piét), a very small sort of turtle. sáh-pih, boiled do. sí-pih, beh-bôe sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-jī, will make no deduction at all. khôe-pih (Cn.), very shallow flat boats for poling up shallow streams.

pih — jiô-pih, a small sort of chamber-pot of finer material, used by women.

pih, to roll or fold up, as sleeves, &c. pih-tsah, to draw up trousers and fold up sleeves to be ready for walking or work (v. tsah). pih chhiú-úg, to fold up one's sleeves. pih khê-kha, to roll up the legs of foreign trousers.

扁
匾

篇扁

貶

遍遍

半
變

便

面

辯

卞
別 別

白

鼈
龜

弼

pih [R. pít, to assist]. kok-pih, rather too knowing; skilful at almost anything, esp. of a child or lad too clever by half. ké kok-pih, said of trying to improve what is well enough already.

pih — khó pih-pih, thick, strong, and good, as soup, or as boiled rice.

pih, sound, as of a man falling down, or of a rat falling from the roof. pih-chit-ê, id.

pih — pih-pih piák-piák, sound of coals, charcoal, or twigs crackling in the fire. pih-pih pók-pók, id.

pin (R. id.), (C. pun). pin-nâng, the areca palm; the areca or betel-nut (v. nâng).

pin [R. a guest], a surname. lū tōng-pin, = sien-tsé, one of the geni worshipped by barbers. bē-pin (R.), = su-ia, a private secretary in a yamun. se-pin (R.), a teacher in relation to the "tong-ka" who engages him.

pin (R. id.) pin-pin ché-ché (R.), neat, elegant, and polite.

pin [R. pién, flat, = col. p<sup>h</sup>], (T. pin; C. pun). pin-ta<sup>n</sup>, a carrying-pole for the shoulder (v. ta<sup>n</sup>).

pin (esp. T.), = pêng, side.

pin (C. pún; T. H. pién, pin). pin-toā<sup>n</sup>, lazy; idle. pin-á-thāng (Cn.), a lazy fellow.

pin (R. id.) pin-kiōng, poor (v. kiōng). pin-chiēn, poor and in low circumstances. pin-hân (R.), extremely poor. ke-pin-koá<sup>n</sup>, orphans (or having no relations), poor, and widows. ke-pin-iaú, without relations, poor, and short-lived (v. iaú). siá-sì pin-bin, to give alms to the poor. sip-sán, kiú-pin, of ten lean men nine are poor.

pin [R. proof; an official certificate, &c.; on the evidence of; according to]. pin-kù, proof; evidence (v. kù). pin-sim, sufficient proof (v. sin). ū-sin-pin, trustworthy.

pin-sim, fair in dealing. pin-liōng-sim, id.

pin-lí-kóng, according to what you say; supposing what you say to be true. pin-toa<sup>n</sup>, on the evidence of a receipt or such document. pin-tsai-lí, conduct the matter just as you please. pin-tsai-goá, I will act just as I please in the matter, no one else has any business what I do. pin hó-jī-ün, trusting to his own good luck.

pin-tsun, a certificate or good documentary proof (v. tsún). būn-pin, a document given to a mandarin as proof of his office. niá<sup>n</sup>-pin, to receive such a commission from the governor-general, when appointed to a new position. niá<sup>n</sup> kan-khé-pin lái chhut-si, to get misery as one's lot to be born into.

pin (R. id.), (cf. pin), a standing screen; a wooden partition. eng-pin, a boarding on the stern of a junk with picture of eagle. giók-pin, a sort of government academy at Amoy where the literati compete for prizes.

pin-pai, a shield (v. pai).

ū-pin, a standing screen, either stiff or folding. khiā-pin, a standing screen, as at door. mūg-pin, standing screen opposite a door. kiá<sup>n</sup>-pin, a mirror fixed upright in a frame (without any joint) on a stand. bát-pin, a close wooden partition. kek bát-pin, to make one. soe-pin, a partition of lattice-work or of upright bars at small distances. liú-tiâu-pin, partition made with very thin slips of wood very close to each other (v. liú). thia<sup>n</sup>-pin, a cross partition dividing the central hall into front and back halves (v. thia<sup>n</sup>). pin-pang, a wooden partition. pin-té, id.

積賓

彬扁

貧

憑

屏

pin-hong, a fixed wooden partition over central hall. pin-mūg, a door in a partition, esp. at sides of central hall.

tsúi-pin (C.), a small wash-stand in bride's outfit. tsúi-pin ui-kê (C.), this wash-stand and a small frame for clothes.

pin [R. jièn, so, an adverbial particle]. pō-pin, suddenly.

pin (R. pin), a bamboo screen. pin-á, a small hanging bamboo screen. tek-pin, id. bih-pin, a stiff bamboo screen, hung at a door. thi<sup>n</sup>-thang-pin, a cover for a sky-light, often made of oyster-shells. kok-tát-pin, coarse bamboo wicker-work material (like hurdles) used for making coarse partitions, &c.

pin (T.) pin-ta<sup>n</sup>, = A. pin-ta<sup>n</sup>, a carrying pole (v. ta<sup>n</sup>).

pin [R. a petition; to receive from Heaven; cf. péng], a petition or memorial; to petition. pin-thiap, a petition or memorial. pin-toa<sup>n</sup>, a report given in to a superior officer, as by police or by tē-pó. pin-ki<sup>n</sup>, to visit a superior officer (or graduate visiting a mandarin) on business. pin-kiū, to petition by a written petition. pin-hok, to report to the superior officer. pin-ti (R.), to inform superior officer by a document. pin-tò, to report that the parties in the case have arrived (v. tò). pin ló-tia, to petition or report to the mandarin.

pin-sèng, natural character.

pin, a pin; to pin loosely; to baste very loosely in sewing. pin-chiam, a foreign pin.

pin, to comb. sat-pin, a small tooth comb (lit. for lice). sat-pin-thak, an instrument for cleaning it. pin-thâu-tsang, to comb the queue. pin-thâu, id.

pin — ū-pin-poà<sup>n</sup>, to be on terms of intimacy with a person (v. poà<sup>n</sup>). teh-pin-poà<sup>n</sup>, there is some impediment.

pin, to pull to the side, as the fore-sail. thâu-phāng pin, pull the fore-sail to the side, as in tacking.

pin [R. the temples]. pin-pi<sup>n</sup>, the temples and parts close to them; at the temples. pin-kak, the place at the temples where the corner of the hair ends (said of women). pin-kha, the part near the temples (of women), close to the limit of the hair. pin-súi, the hair worn by women on the side of the head. pin-chhiu, long hanging whiskers, separate from the beard. pin-soh, a thread going round a woman's head and held in her teeth at toilet. poà<sup>n</sup>-pin-soh, id.

pin — pin-pin pòng-pòng, loud sound of heavy footsteps, or of moving heavy things (v. pòng). pin-pin piàng-piàng, id. (v. piàng). pin-pin piāng-piāng (C.), id.

pin — pin-pin pōng-pōng, dull heavy noise of man walking heavily, or of moving heavy things (v. pōng).

pin — σ-ien pin-pōng, smoke filling the room in great quantities; confused hurrying, as on the approach of rebels or such sudden calamities.

pio [R. piau, a branch; a spear or signal; a label; beautiful; cf. phiau], a javelin; a dart; a harpoon; to catch with a harpoon; a pole stuck in the sand, as the goal and prize of the dragon-boat race. pó-pio, a small arrow sold by a man who guarantees that the bearer (man or vessel) shall not be molested by robbers or pirates in a certain dangerous part of road or sea. tāg-pio, a sort of javelin. té-pio, a short deadly dart. chhiú-pio, id. chhe<sup>n</sup>-tek-pio (C.), a venomous

然

扁稟

筓

髻鬢

標

snake, said to have long feelers. bé-ka-pio, a trident-shaped harpoon. hák-hí-pio, a harpoon with the prongs very near. pio bé-ka, to catch the bé-ka fish with a harpoon.

pàng-pio, to offer the prize for the dragon race, as some wealthy man. chhah-pio, to set up the prize as a goal, sticking the pole in the sand; to stick the prize on the bow of the successful boat. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-pio, to snatch the prize on reaching the goal. chhiú<sup>n</sup> thâu-pio, to seize the first prize in the race. ài-chhiú<sup>n</sup> thâu-pio, fond of putting one's self forward to take the lead. m-sái chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu-pio, you need not be always putting yourself forward thus.

pio (esp. Cn.), to play or joke. pio-chhiò, to joke and jest; unfounded, as thing said in jest. kóng pio-chhiò, to joke and jest.

pio [R. piau, fat], very fat, as a horse.

pio = pió, a watch.

pió [R. piáu, outside; to manifest; a memorial to the emperor; a watch]. pió-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a memorial to the emperor. pió-chiang (C.), id. pai-piό, to forward or present a memorial to the emperor. piό-pāng, office and official (in the yamun of a high mandarin who is in constant communication with the throne) for preparing memorials to the throne.

piό-á, a watch. sí-piό, id. sí-sin-piό (Cn.), id. piό-á-chiam, hand of a watch. piό-á-tsoān, watch-key. piό-á thēng, the watch has stopped.

piό (R. piáu). hí-piό, isinglass just as got from the intestines of the fish. hí-piό-ka, prepared isinglass. āng-koe-piό, isinglass from the āng-koe, the best sort.

pit (R. id.), a pen; a pencil. soān-pit, a glazier's diamond. ē-pit, hair pencil from Hoo-chow, very good. iēn-pit, a lead pencil (foreign).

bók-pit-hoe, name of a beautiful flower. bók-pit, id.; also a female head-ornament shaped like that flower. kúi-pit, a cooling medicinal plant, like a mushroom, reddish with black point.

tai-pit, an amanuensis for writing a deed or important document. ko-pit (R.), your handwriting. hó-pit-bék, fine handwriting. pit-chek, handwriting (v. chek). chhiú-pit, id. hóng láng--ē chhiú-pit, to copy or imitate a man's writing, e.g. for exercise. chhiú ũ gūn-tsu-pit, palm has a line straight to one of the divisions between the fingers, will become a graduate. chhiú ũ būn-pit, id.

kiáh-pit, to take up a pen, as in order to write. ùn-pit, to dip it in ink. chīm-pit, to soak it, so as to soften it, when ink had got hardened in the point. bē-pit, to press out the superfluous ink, and smooth the point of the pen for writing. boah-pit (Cn.), id. lòh-pit, to begin to write. hē-pit, id. pàng-pit, to lay down the pen. sit-pit, to make a slip in writing; a lapsus pennæ. chhah-pit, to put the pen into the stand. phoà-pit, to go first time to school. khui-pit, to write characters for the first time in a new year. khui-pit-lé, first fee to a teacher when he begins to write the first accusation or defence for us in a legal case that requires a good deal of such work before it is over. hō--lí jūn-pit, said on giving a small fee to a man who writes a document for us (lit. to moisten your pen.)

pit-sim, the hair that makes the point of a Chinese pen. pit-sim lut--khì, the hair has all dropped out in a piece. pit-chiam, the point of a pen. pit-bé, id. pit thút-bé, the point has lost its sharpness.

chiáh pit-bé, to live by fomenting lawsuits, as a pettifogger. tsng pit-á-bé, id. pit-siau, the stem of the pen, as distinct from the hair. pit-koái<sup>n</sup>, id. pit-kóng, cover for end of pen. pit-thap, id. pit-that, id. pit-tē, bag or case for pen or pencil. pit-tāng, cylindrical stand for holding pens when not used. pit-kè, a small serrated rest for laying pens nearly level when wet. pit-kè-soa<sup>n</sup>, name given to some mountains that have several peaks close in a line near the top. pit-bák-hí<sup>n</sup>, pen, ink, and inkstone.

pit (Cn.) tē-pit, an insect like a cricket, that burrows in the ground (T. tē-peh).

pit (R. id.) pit-jiēn (R.), certainly; must be so. pit-tēng (R.), id. pit-tiā<sup>n</sup>, I think it certainly is. pit--tiòh (r.), must. pit-sī, certainly it is so. liōng-pit, I should think that —. put-pit, it is better not to —; better that it should not —. bē-pit, I think it is not so, or should not be done. bī-pit, id. bī-pit-jiēn, id. bē-pit-jiēn, id.

pit, to crack; to open into chinks. pit-khui, id. pit-hūn, a small crack or flaw; cracked, as wood or crockery. chhiú pit, hands chapped, as with cold. pit háuh<sup>n</sup>-háuh<sup>n</sup>, all splitting, as wood in drought. mí<sup>n</sup>-pit-ké, sort of fermented cake that splits open.

pit [R. sound of fire]. pit-pok-háu, sound, as of crackers, &c.

pit [R. pek, a hundred, = col. pah, peh]. pit-lēng, a bird that learns to sing many things (v. lēng). pit-háp-hoe (T.), = pek-háp-hoe, a white lily with great many petals.

pit [R. name of bird]. thok-pit-á, a small bird much kept by children. pit-á (T.), id.

pit [R. pek, elder uncle, earl, = col. peh], (T. pit). pit-ló, a sort of small bird (v. lò).

pit (T.) a-pit-tó, = A. áh-put-tó, a round-bottomed doll.

pit [R. to open]. khai-pit, the formation of this present world. khai-thien pit-tē, id. tai-pit (X.), David.

pit (cf. pit). pit-pit pók-pók, crackling of fire on twigs, &c.

piu (R. id.), a fierce animal like the hyaena. hólóng pà-piu, said of very fierce and wicked men. hólóng pà-piu, id. hé-liōng pà-piu, a company of bad fellows going about doing all sorts of wickedness and low amusements.

tit-tit-piu, to run away in great haste, as man or animal.

png [R. hong, square, a place, = col. hng, pang], (C. pui<sup>n</sup>), a surname. png-chhān, name of a village near Pechuia.

png (R. hong), (C. pui<sup>n</sup>), a high tree with deeply indented leaves, which take beautiful colours in the fall; the Liquidambar Formosana; a sort of gum is obtained from it. png-lūi, its fruit (useless). png-kiá-si<sup>n</sup>, the mistletoe, parasitic on this tree. png-thāng, a large green caterpillar found on it, from which a strong gut is made.

png [R. pang, to assist; to join together], to join together by iron hoops, as two pieces of wood in making a mast, or in making a thick pillar; to join in trade a man or company that has far more capital than we. sa<sup>n</sup>-png, to assist each other, as two or more persons, in trade, or in managing a matter for longer or shorter time. goá png-i, I, having little capital, join in trade him who has much more.

聽

表

錶

筆

必

燁

百

鷄

伯

開

燁

彪

方

楓

邦

幫

png-thiap, to give a regular allowance, as to poor relatives (v. thiap).

png (same as above!), to lay down a stake on another man gambling. png-tù, id. (v. tù). png--lí, I lay down this stake on your game.

榜

png (R. póng, a list (posted up), as of successful candidates for degree; said also of some sorts of proclamations and idolatrous bills. ng-png, an imperial proclamation. png-pûn, the text of an imperial proclamation. tsàu-png, a memorial to the emperor. pai-png, to present a memorial to the emperor.

chiò-png, a bill issued by Taoist priests announcing the performance of the rites called chiò (v. chiò). tah-png, to put up such a bill, as for the rites of "kong-tek."

chhut-png, to issue the official list of new graduates. tâng-png, having taken the degree of Kujin (or Tsin-sze) in the same year. kim-png, rank of Tsin-sze. lêng-hé-png, official list of new Kujin, or higher degree. hù-png, list of candidates for Kujin degree who have done well, but whose degree is put off till the next examination. hù-png-kong, highest class of lim-seng graduates, who will soon be Kujin.

png (Cn.), = A. pún, a volume; capital (only said in some phrases, esp. those most simply colloquial: "pún" is also used). png-chi, capital. chit-png-tsi, one book.

png (T.) png-sit, = A. pién-sit, a sort of cake.

飯

png (R. hoân), (C. pûi), boiled rice, boiled dry and whole. bê-png, cooked rice in general (v. bê). chhîn-png, cold rice. tsá-khi-png, breakfast. jit-tâu-png, dinner. chit-chhùi-png chit-bé-hi kàu (must have one fish for each mouthful of rice), asking fully sufficient, and allowing no abatement.

chhài-png, food of the cheapest sort, offered to spirits. chhài-ki-png, id. chhè-chhài pién-png, a simple every-day dinner.

hàu-png, to make offerings to the spirit of a man newly buried (v. hàu). kiá-png, to intermit these rites for a few days. thêng-png, id. soah-png, to end these rites. png-têng, a small paper house for the spirit at these ceremonies.

iú-png, rice cooked with hemp-seed, oil, and ginger till it becomes dry; used at any time, but especially for some days (three to thirteen) after the birth of a child, sent by parents to their friends, who have come to make inquiry. hêng iú-png, to make these presents. chhèng iú-png, to cook rice in this way, especially for various rites. ip iú-png (Cn.), id. ip-png (Cn.), id.

tsú-png, to boil rice. bün-png, to cook rice with little water. sàng-png, to take food to a prisoner. thi-png, to fill the bowl with rice. tóe-png, id. pe-png, to use chopsticks in eating rice. phè-png (C. phòe-pûi), to eat as a condiment along with rice; to be used as a condiment with rice. sa-oá-png, to cohabit, as man and woman without any form of marriage.

chiáh-png, to eat food; to take a meal. chiáh-png--bê (have you had food?), how do you do? khóa-thi chiáh-png, to live by honest means. chiáh-koa-png, to be in mandarin's service. chiáh lêng-ê-png, to be in a man's employment, or depending on him. chiáh hit-ê-png, to follow that sort of employment. chiáh sí-png, to eat merely to live (as an idle rich man); to be of no use in the world. chiáh lêng--ê sí-png, to take wages, but do no work, or almost none, for it.

png-tiám, an eating-house. chiáh png-tiám, to take a meal in an eating-house. png-si, a rice spoon (v. si). png-táu, a wooden dish for boiled rice.

png [R. pōng, pōng, near; to depend upon], to rely upon; to trust to. sa-png, to join together and assist each other. sa-png-pòh, mutually assisting each other (v. pòh). sa-png khùi-lát, to assist each other by strength or influence, as in fighting or in a legal case. sa-png hok-khi, to join, as partners in trade, or in some particular speculation. sa-png tsái-khi, to join capital in trade. png lí--ê hok-khi, I join you to get the benefit of your large capital in trade. png i--ê khùi-lát, leans on his powerful influence. png lí--ê hok-im, I take advantage of your influence and assistance, as in some danger, or to get some benefit, or on going to see some influential man. png i--ê sè, to take undue advantage of his power or influence. png-i-khi, to take advantage of a man's travelling (or going to see some person) to go along with him. png i--ê hē-soà-ning (get shelter of his umbrella), take advantage of his travelling to travel safer, cheaper, or free (v. ng). kâu png hé-ui, the monkey using the influence of the tiger's majesty (v. ui). png-sin tsok-hok, to have a good feast on the occasion of an idol's birthday or some other occasion of worship.

傍

po [R. to praise], (Cn. pō), to praise too much; to flatter. po--lâng, to praise people too much. ài-lâng-po--i, fond of being praised. po-chiáng (Cn. pō-chióng), to praise an inferior, as his superior does, to encourage him and incite him to further effort. po-so, to cajole; to flatter; to plead with flattery. po-lo-so, to flatter much; to cajole. siu-kè-po, you flatter me too much. kò-po (R.), to praise over-much. khóa-miá bō-po, chiáh-tsúi iáh-bō, a fortune-teller must praise the man's luck, or he will not even earn a drink of water; said also of flattery in general.

褒

po (Cn. pō), the bulwarks of a vessel or boat. tsún-po, id. po-ki, the rim of the bulwarks, out or in. po-pi, the part of the deck near the bulwarks; close to the bulwarks. po-pi-khang, scupper-holes for running water from deck; sometimes said of port-holes. po-téng, on the top of the bulwarks, e.g. sitting or standing on them. chhi-po, having green sides, as vessel (so with other colours).

po (R. id.) po-lê, glass.

po (C.) po-tiú-á, = pē-tiú-á, the lark.

pô [R. old woman; mother]. lâu-pô, an old woman. hoan-pô, a foreign woman (not polite). ang-pô, husband and wife. sau-pô, woman who lives in a boat. péh-tsúi-pô (C.), a boat-woman. hû-lâng-pô, a woman who deals in female slaves and in making low marriages by sale. hông-iâng-pô, female pedlar or juggler from Fung-yang. sam-ké liók-pô, nuns and several such sorts of questionable women, such as flower-sellers, washer-women, female-barbers, match-makers, &c. chhoàn-kau sam-ké liók-pô, always associating with such characters (not good). tsòe-ké-pô, to be an old maid ("ké," solitary).

玻

婆

ké-pô, paternal grandfather's sister, or any old woman of same clan and same genealogical rank; respectful address to old woman of same surname. i-pô, grandmother's sister. m-pô, wife of paternal grandfather's elder brother. chim-pô, wife of paternal grandfather's younger brother. kim-pô, wife of grandmother's brother (v. kim).

ē-pò, the original tuber of taro, from which the young ones are produced.

kong-pò, ancestral tablets. kong-pò-kī, days for special worship of them. sí kong-pò, to take leave of the ancestral tablets (v. sí). hoe-kong-pò, male and female deities which bestow children (v. hoe). tsu-kong-pò, the god and goddess of small-pox. tsu-pò, goddess of small-pox. má-tsé-pò, the queen of heaven and goddess of the sea (v. má). thé-ti-pò, the goddess of the earth. bín-chhng-pò, the guardian goddess of the marriage-bed. pò-chiá, numerous spirits that watch over infants about the time of birth. pò-chiá-bú, id. pò-chiá gún-ó, paper dresses and paper money burned by mothers in worshipping these spirits.

pò — thé-pò, a mud-fish like the cuttle-fish or chiu<sup>n</sup>-hí, but with no bone (tsún) in it.

thé-pò-éng, the bore or great waves at the mouth of a river. khí thé-pò, to raise these great waves.

ték-pò, an edible fish, the skin of which is used like sand-paper.

pò (Cn. pò). bit-pò, a bat.

pò — ke-pò-ē, a wild medicinal plant like taro. ke-pò-hiòh (C.), leaves of a plant like taro, used for wrapping things, as cakes or fish.

pò [R. to take care of; to protect; to guarantee], (Cn. pò), to guarantee; to be surety or security for; a ward in a town or group of villages. tsáp-poeh-pò, the eighteen wards of Amoy and Emngkang. pò-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head man of a ward. pò-tiú<sup>n</sup>-kong, id. tē-pò, id. tē-pò-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tsóng-pò, the head man of the villages of Amoy island; nominally also the head of the eighteen wards of Amoy, but the tepos of these wards are not really controlled by him. lím-pò, a lím-seng graduate (v. lím). tióng-pò (r.), a middle man who stands security; (X.) a mediator. thài-pò, guardian of heir-apparent.

pò-niá<sup>n</sup>, to guarantee; to warrant; to stand security for. tam-pò (r.), id. pau-pò (r.), id. pò-jīn, to stand security and be responsible for a man. pò-kiet, written security given by one man for another's conduct; a written agreement promising to hold a settlement final. pò-jī, a written security. pò-ke, a surety; an insurance office. pò-ke-jī, a policy of insurance. pò-ke-toa<sup>n</sup>, id. pò-pio, a small arrow sold as guarantee against molestation by robbers or pirates (v. pio). thó-pò (r.), to demand security. chhú-pò (r.), to require security or bail. kò pò-ke, to enter an accusation for beating to danger of life (v. kò). ngī<sup>n</sup>-pò, to insist on being bail for a man charged with a crime, so as to bail him out. ngī<sup>n</sup>-pò--chhut-lái, to succeed in thus getting him out on bail. pò-kú, to recommend for office or employment, being in some measure security for him. pò-tsàu, to memorialize the emperor proposing a man for office, or praying that he may not be punished.

pò-pì, to protect or defend, as gods. pò-sioh, to love, cherish, and take care of. pò-ióng, to take care of, as one's own health; to take care of a child (not including training) for a friend or relative. pé-íú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to take care of, as a child. ka-kī pò-tióng, to take care of one's own health. pò-tsoân, to take care of; to keep safely that it be not injured. pò-tsoân bēng-chiet, to keep her character pure, as widow who remains a widow. tsū-kí put-léng-pò, ien-léng-pò tha-jin, how can one take care of others who can't take care of himself?

pò [R. precious; treasure]. pò-pòe, precious; precious things. tin-pò, precious. kī-tin í<sup>n</sup>-pò, rare and precious things. bò-kè-pò, very costly; extremely precious. tsái-pò, treasures (v. tsái). tsu-pò, pearls and other very costly things. oân-pò, a large ingot of sycee silver (v. oân). goân-pò, id.; said also of idolatrous paper. sún-hoài kok-pò, to injure or deface coins. sūi-sin-pò, very valuable articles always carried with one (v. sūi). oáh-pò, some imaginary animated source of good fortune for a place or family. chhū-pò, to search for a source or principle of good luck.

pò-khì, precious things. pò-chiòh, a precious stone; a gem (v. chiòh). pò-gèk, precious jade-stone. pò-tsu, fine pearls. pò-to, a very valuable sword. pò-kiám, a magical or miraculous sword. pò-ūi, a royal throne. pò-tòk-kí, a general's flag. pò-thah, a pagoda.

sam-pò, the Buddhist triad. pat-pò-soá<sup>n</sup>, a medicine compounded of eight drugs. bún-pông sù-pò, the four implements for writing, viz. pen, ink, paper, and ink-stone.

teh-hó-pò, you count it very precious! (ironically); it is very little worth. tién-pò (C.), to boast and brag.

lién-pò, a sort of gambling by a small cube shaken in a square box. teh lién-pò, to gamble with it. pha lién-pò, id. poáh lién-pò, id. poáh-pò, id. pò-táu, the instrument used for this gambling. pò-táu-jin, the die used for it. pò-jin, id. pò-táu-khak, the square brass box in which the die is put. pò-táu-kheng, id. pò-táu-koá, its cover. tsòe-pò, to join capital so as to set up a place for this gambling. tsòe-pò, to put the die into the box all ready for the gambling. phāng-pò, id. chhut-pò; jip-pò, two different positions of the game when examined. pi<sup>n</sup>-á-pò, the sort of lién-pò played at small places on the streets for small sums. chi<sup>n</sup>-pò, id. gún-pò, the kind played only for silver, generally for very large sums. pò-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a gambling place for the lién-pò. pò-chhng, a couch for use in this gambling. pò-koa<sup>n</sup>, the keeper of the gambling place. pò-tháu-ke, id. pò-li, assistant of the gambling-house keeper.

pò — pò-jī, you whoreson! (said in scolding).

pò (C.) am-pò-chē, = A. am-pò-chē, the cicada.

pò [R. pòe, pò, a violent wind or typhoon]. pò-tháu, a sudden stormy wind; a heavy gale. pò-tháu-hong, id. pò-bé, the end of a strong north-east gale (s. inform). chhun, pò-tháu: tang, pò-bé, a spring storm is worst at the beginning, a winter storm at the end. má-tsé-pò, a gale about the time of the birth-day of má-tsé. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-pò, a storm about 1.9. péh-chhiu-pò, storm near birth-day of thé-ti-kong, in 8th month. tái-tò-kong-pò, storm near birth-day of pò-seng tái-tò. pút-tsé-pò, one about birth-day of Kwan-yin. pút-á-pò, gales on birth-days of some small divinities, about 4th moon.

pò (R. id.), (Cn. pò), to inform; to make a formal statement; to recompense, reward, or punish. pò-bé, an express courier (s. storm). kia<sup>n</sup>-pò, the Pekin Gazette. pò-tsúi, to give information of a criminal's hiding-place. pò-sin, to give sad intelligence. pò-hí, to announce good news, esp. birth of first son or some high honour. kheh-chiáu pò-hí, the magpie gives a good omen. it-kí<sup>n</sup> pò-hí, jī-kí<sup>n</sup> pò-sí, cock-crowing in first watch is a good omen, in second watch is an omen of death. ū-pò (T.), said when more cocks than one crow at an unlucky hour, which takes away the bad

寶

保

鴉
風

報

omen. pò-lâng-tsai, to inform a man. pò hē-i-tsai, to inform him.

pò-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ship's manifest, or similar document. khí-hè ê pò-toa<sup>n</sup>, an application for leave to land goods. pò-hiông, to give in a statement of goods on board liable to duty. pò-hiông-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ship's manifest. pò-toa<sup>n</sup>-koán, office at custom-house where vessels report themselves on arrival and before sailing. pò-sè-koán, id. pò-pâng, an office at capital or provincial capital, which issues official notifications of degrees and titles of rank. pò-tiâu, diploma or notification to a man (issued by the pò-pâng) that has got a degree or title of rank. pò-liók, id. pò-kú-jîn, to notify a man that he has got the Kujin degree. pò-siú-tsái, do. of Sew-tsai. chhit-kioh-hì pò-bân-peng (seven actors say they are ten thousand soldiers), can't believe all you say.

pò-tap, to recompense; to reward. pò-èng, to reward or punish; to recompense justly, as the gods do. pò-siú<sup>n</sup> (r.), to reward. pò-oán, to retaliate, often quite small. pò-oan, to take vengeance for murder or great injury; to revenge (v. oan). pò-siú, id. (v. siú). siên iú siên-pò, ok iú ok-pò, good and bad have their just recompense. siên-ok chiong iú-pò, at the last good and bad certainly have due recompense. thi<sup>n</sup>-tòe bô-pò, said of the wicked prospering and escaping punishment. pò-un, to make returns for favours or benefits. ti-un pò-pún, to recompense the favours of those from whom we spring (our parents). siú-un put-pò, to fail in gratitude for favours. tiong-kun pò-kok, loyal to sovereign and dynasty (v. tiong).

sok-pò-si (T. sek-phò-si), an attendant of the idol sêng-hông (v. si).

pì<sup>n</sup>-pò-phûn, yielding returns barely sufficient to pay expenses (v. phûn).

pò [R. to sow seed, = col. pò], (Cn. pò). pò-iông, to spread abroad, as fame or doctrine.

pò [R. scorching; violent; sudden; to strike with the hand, = col. phák, pè, pè, pāu, phāu], (Cn. pò). pò-ki-jiên, suddenly. pò-pìn, id. pò-chín thien-bút, to use things wastefully. tsū-pò tsū-khi, to throw away invaluable opportunities; to reject one's own good fortune. sò-pò, violent, rude, and headstrong. kóng-pò, violent and hasty in temper, esp. as man in authority. kiông-pò (R.), tyrannical, violent, and oppressive. pò-giók, to tyrannize; tyrannical, as sovereign or high mandarin. pò-jiók (T.), = A. pè-jiók, to insult, as by abusive language.

pò (T.) pò-oá, = A. phè-oá, a sort of crab (cf. kiá-pò).

pò (R. id.), half a day, especially the afternoon. ē-pè, the afternoon. téng-pè, the forenoon. chit-pè-kú, half a day; a long while. chiá<sup>n</sup>-pè-kú, about half a day. pè-láu, the afternoon tide. nng-pè, the latter part of the afternoon, about four or five o'clock. nng-pè, id. múi<sup>n</sup>-pè (C.), id. poà<sup>n</sup>-pè, about half through the afternoon. chhit kiá, poeh tó, káu pè, tsáp lóh (T.), the Pleiades are in the 7th month high at zenith at daybreak, in 8th month some way down, in 9th low like afternoon sun, in 10th just setting.

pò — chhe-pè, a bamboo frame for steaming food. lán-pè, id.

pò [R. pè, a port]. pè-thâu, a port for trade. phah pè-thâu, to make a new landing-place and market. pák pè-thâu, to farm the monopoly of some article in a port or district.

pò (R. id.), a plain; a level (or gently sloping) piece of ground. hái-pè, the part of the sea-beach which is only flooded at high tides. khoe-pè, the grassy banks of a stream which are sometimes overflowed. khoe-soa-pè, sandy bed of a stream. soa-pè (Cn.), = A. soa-pho, a sandy beach. soa<sup>n</sup>-pè, gently sloping or level grassy place on a hill. chháu-pè, a level (or nearly level) grassy piece of ground. khàng-pè, a common; a large piece of unused ground. ká-tiú<sup>n</sup>-pè, review-ground. chē-pè, open grassy ground near a fort. pí<sup>n</sup>-pè, a plain. pí<sup>n</sup>-pè-hoan, Formosan aborigines who have submitted to Chinese rule and learned to speak Chinese. hòe kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup> pí<sup>n</sup>-pè, to raise to the ground, so that all traces of houses disappear. sio kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup> pí<sup>n</sup>-pè, to burn to the ground. tó kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup> pí<sup>n</sup>-pè, utterly ruined, as village with no trace remaining. sí kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup> pí<sup>n</sup>-pè, depopulated and become waste (as a region) with rebellion or pestilence.

pò, to grow rotten, as wood; decayed and rotten, as wood. pè--khi, to rot away thus, as decaying wood. pè-lè--khi, id.

pò [R. hu, a man; a male; a husband]. ta-pè, a male person (v. ta). tsa-pè (C.), id. chí-pè (Cn.), = A. chí-hu, husband of elder sister.

pò (better pè, q.v.) pè-tiú-á, the lark.

pò (better pè, q.v.) am-pè-chê, the cicada.

pò — pè-lún-chhài (Cn.), a vegetable. pè-gín-ná (C.), a medicinal plant (v. gín).

pò (Cn.), = A. po, the bulwarks of a boat.

pò (Cn.), = A. po, to flatter.

pò — chit-pè chit-pè, all curly, as hair in curly locks.

pò [R. bê, a mould; a pattern]. bîn-pè, shape of face.

pò (same word?). chiú-pè, the whole mass of materials prepared for fermentation. tâu-si-pè, black beans boiled, dried, and kept till mouldy, for making soy. tâu-chiú<sup>n</sup>-pè, white beans boiled into a mass, and kept till mouldy. tâu-pè, either of these two preparations.

mí<sup>n</sup>-pè, raw cotton in lumps, just as gathered with the seeds in it.

pò — liên-hoe-pè, the seed-vessel of the water-lily. liên-pè, id.

pò — lín-pè, the breast (of male or female) near the teat.

pò [R. póng, a room, = col. pàng]. bit-pè, honey-comb.

pò — chhiú-ná<sup>n</sup>-pè, a thick wood or forest. chhò-ná<sup>n</sup>-pè, to make a great noise in the forest, as flock of birds (v. chhò). chhi-ná<sup>n</sup>-pè, a thick-set thorn hedge, or thick mass of thorny plants.

pò — pè-kiu<sup>n</sup>, a herb from which an aromatic or medicinal tea is made (v. hui<sup>n</sup>). pè-iám, a sort of shrub (v. iám).

pò — pè-tiú-á, the lark.

pò [R. hú, sort of cicada], (some say "pè"). am-pè-chê, the cicada.

pò [R. the sweet-flag], a surname. chhang-pè, the Acorus, or sweet-flag. pè-chháu, id. chhióng-pè, id., especially when spoken of as a medicine.

埔

夫

模

房苞

蚨

蒲

播暴

哺

埠

chióh-chhiu<sup>n</sup>-pê, root of Acorus terrestris, medicinal. pê-ôe, shoes made of this plant. kha--nih<sup>n</sup> chhêng pê-chháu, wearing these shoes (said in a rhyme about a swaggering fellow).

pê [R. same as above, but used as a name]. pê-chhân, the district of Pu-tien, in which Hing-hwa-foo (heng-hoà) stands.

pê [R. pō, violent, tyrannical, &c., = col. pō, pāu, &c.], to insult; to twit a man, as for a fault. pê-jiók, to insult by abusive language. pê--lâng, to twit or jibe at a man. khít--i pê--khi, to be insulted by him.

pê — lêng-pê, an ancient flowing dress with dragons, worn by sovereigns and by some idols.

pê [R. hóng, to sew, to hem, = col. pàng, phāng], a hem or border of a dress. áu-pê, to fold a hem; to make a hem. áu-toà-pê, to make a broad hem or border, as on women's dress. toà-pê, the broad border of women's dress. kú-chhài-pê, the narrow hem of men's dress. ê-kha-pê, the broad border at the bottom of a dress. sièn-pê, broad facings, hem, or border of women's dress. sù-pê, ravelled edges of dress, in deepest mourning. sán-pê, id. sàm-pê, id. sàm-pê-sa<sup>n</sup>, a dress having the hem opened out, and ravelled almost like a fringe, worn in deepest mourning, ravelled in front for father, behind for mother.

pê (C.) pê-tô, = A. phû-tô, the vine; grapes.

pê (Cn.) bit-pê, = A. bit-pô, a bat.

pê [R. hú, mandarin's robe]. pé-koà, robe worn by a mandarin, with an embroidered square on the breast. hâi-tsâi-pê, robe of a high military mandarin, with the lion-unicorn on the breast.

pê [R. hú, an axe]. pé-thâu (C. pú-thâu), an axe; a hatchet. toà-pê, a large axe. chhiú-pê, a small hand-hatchet. gêh-pê, an axe with convex semi-circular edge. kiáh-pê, sort of halbert held by attendant images of idols. tiám-pê, to drive two or three nails in nailing up a coffin, as graduate or mandarin does for a fee. to-pê-siú, an executioner.

pê [R. hú, dried flesh], dried and shrivelled, as leaves or fruit in drought; not juicy, as orange. pé-pê koa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, quite dried, as herbs for medicine. jün-pê, shrivelled and not juicy, as cucumber or sugar-cane too long cut. lún-pê (T.), id. chhài-pê, long turnips salted and dried. hí-pê, small dried fish slightly salted and moist. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-pê, become very lean, as a man. pi<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup> lâng-pê, id. khiú kàu-lán bát-sat-pê, as niggardly as a little dried bug.

pê (R. id.), to mend or repair, by putting in a new piece; to make up for; to make up a deficiency; strengthening, as medicine or food. pê-pê, to make up for. pé-tsê, to help; to make up a deficiency. tiám-pê, to make up a deficiency, as in a subscription. tiên-pê, to pay up a deficiency, as a third party; to increase or renew capital in trade for another. thiên-pê, id. thák-pê, to study enough to make up arrears of study. pé-thi<sup>n</sup>, to make up a deficiency. pé-thi<sup>n</sup>, mending and sewing. pé-thùi, to put in an entire new piece by the old seam or joining. thùi-pê, id. pé-thak, to mend, as a wall, or as a dress, with great neatness (v. thak). pé-thap, to mend, as a dress, by changing a bit of cloth. pé-that, to repair, by filling up cracks or leaks. chhák-pê-lâu, to recaulk a leak. uih-pê, to correct a writing, by cutting out a bit, and pasting in the correction. chít-pê, to mend, by darning finely in both directions without change or addition of cloth. siu-pê (T. Cn.), to mend neatly, esp. as a small thing. pé-bôe-chiú<sup>n</sup>, unable to repay enough.

pê-ióh, medicine that strengthens the system. put-chí-pê, very strengthening, as medicine or food. sò-pê, heating and strengthening, as medicine. tsu-im-pê, medicine or food that strengthens the system, and allays feverishness (v. im). chiáh-pê, to take strengthening medicine or food. pé-ióng, id. pé-ióng, to strengthen the positive principle in one's constitution. pé-pí, to give strength to the stomach; tonic. pé-sin, strengthening the kidneys and the eyes.

pê-kheh, to appoint a man to fill a vacancy (v. kheh). hâu-pê, men who have got official rank, and have orders from the capital to get office as soon as there is a vacancy.

pê-ün, to improve one's destiny. pé-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter an additional complaint when the first has not led to action. pé gún-hum, to make up the deficiency in weight of a light dollar. pé-iên, to fill up a hole in a dollar with lead. pé chhat-mí<sup>n</sup>, to mend with a sort of cement like varnish. pé chhui-khi, to insert a false tooth. chiong-kong pé-tsôe, to make up for (one's own) faults by merit, as a mandarin; sometimes said figuratively. jín-lék pé thien-kong, human strength making improvement on nature's work.

pê [R. cotton cloth; to spread out; to arrange; to spread widely; to bribe], cotton or linen cloth, or grass-cloth.

pê-chèng, the provincial treasurer. pè-chèng-si, id. pè-si, id.

pè-tí, to arrange in order, as things (v. tí). pè-tín, to arrange troops in ranks or battalions for battle.

pái-peng pè-tín, id. kóng-pè (R.), to publish abroad. pè-sí, to give a largess, as to the poor or to employés.

pái-pê (T. pái-pê), to intrigue, as by bribes, influence, calumnies, &c. (v. pái). pè-tah, to give small bribes, as to underlings of yamuns. pè-lê, to bribe (from lê, "to bribe"). pè-lê, the matter of buying cloth (from lê, "a road").

toà-pê-chiam, a large needle (v. chiam). jì-pê, the second size of needle. sa<sup>n</sup>-pê, a still smaller sort.

pè-pang, pasteboard made of old clothes. pè-phit, piece goods, cotton or linen. pè-ko, tall poles for drying cloth when dyed. pè-pí<sup>n</sup>, an awning or tent (v. pí<sup>n</sup>). pè-tê, a bag or sack (v. tê). pè-liâu, a narrow strip of cloth. pè-lí, cotton lining. pè-mûg, small threads that come off cloth. pè-mí<sup>n</sup>, id. pè-mê<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. pè-bák, the interstices between the threads of cloth. jip pè-bák, deeply ingrained into the cloth, as a stain. ù-chí<sup>n</sup>, chhut ù-pè-bák, the more money you spend you will have the better piece of work, though it could be done cheaper, but not so good.

ki<sup>n</sup>-pê, to weave cotton or linen cloth (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). chít-pê, id. chién-pê, to buy cotton, &c. (lit. cut it with scissors).

bin-pê, a cloth for wiping the face. ê-bin-pê, a large black cloth worn (by old women) on the head, the ends hanging down. béh-pê, a cloth worn under the stocking. toh-pê, a cloth for wiping the table.

ka-poà-pê, native cotton cloth. jiàu<sup>n</sup>-pê, rough cotton cloth with a surface somewhat like crape. niàu<sup>n</sup>-pê, id. kui-á-pê, narrow native cotton cloth. pak-pê, narrow cotton cloth from Shanghai and the north. sán-pê, a thin slim cloth (v. sán). chhiá-bún-pê, twilled cotton (v. bún). in-hoe-pê, printed cottons (v. hoe). pún-sek-pê, unbleached cottons.

koah-pê, grass-cloth. joáh-pê, id. hā-pê, id. tōe-pê, white grass-cloth. tōe-á-pê, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-pê, coarsest yellow hempen stuff for sacks, &c. phāng-

莆
暴
袍
縫

莆
斧

脯

補

布

pê, sail-cloth; canvas. si-pê, cloth of mixed silk and cotton.

pê [R. pò, to sow seed; to publish abroad], to plant out, as young rice-plants (never to sow seed). pè-tiū, to plant out young rice. pè-chhân, id. pè-chhân-hoe, the large single white rose. pè-chhi-á (C.), young rice-plants.

thoân-pê (R.), to proclaim, as doctrine. soan-pê (R.), id.

pê [R. hù, hū, a teacher], a surname.

pê [R. hē, to wait, time, = col. bē, hāu] chí-pê, now; just now (s. pace). chit-pê, id. chhú-pê, id. chhú-hiēn-pê (C.), id.

chhún āu-pê (C. kō), to reserve some strength, plan, or money for future exigencies.

pê (R. id.), a pace; two steps; a contrivance, resource, or plot. chit-pê, one pace; one step in an affair. chit-pê hoân-chit-pê, step by step, e.g. walking at a moderate pace with slow steps; scheming to get a thing done bit by bit, step by step, in managing a matter. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-khoan chit-pê, just wait a little in the matter. chí-pê, to halt (s. wait, time). táh-pê, to walk with slow measured step up a hill, as chair-bearers. lap-pê, to step down, as down a step or into a hole. soá-pê, to walk with short steps, as child, or as man with chain on foot (v. soá). thap-pê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to measure the ground by the lengths of our foot. toā-pê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk with long steps. khai-pê, to take a long step, esp. chair-bearer. khui-pê kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk with long steps. khui-pê tsáu, to run with long strides. khah-khui-pê, take longer steps. chhún-pê lân-hêng, to walk slowly and with difficulty; hardly able to walk an inch further. tò-thè-pê, to step backwards (v. thè). chin-pê (r.), to advance, as in learning or excellence. siá-pê, to make a visit of thanks to a man who had come on certain ceremonies (v. siá).

kha-pê, steps, as to manner of walking or exercise. kiá<sup>n</sup> kha-pê, to practise one's steps, as for gymnastics or military exercise. kha-pê hó, having a good step, as actor. kha-pê chhiú-lē chin-hó, movements of limbs all good, as actor or teacher of boxing. pí-pê, to gesticulate, as in teaching or learning boxing, fencing, &c. (v. pí). kún-thâu-pê, feints or tricks in boxing. ēng kún-thâu-pê, to use unexpected feints or secret plans to thwart or injure people.

pê-lién, to walk on foot. pē-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. pē-peng, infantry. pē-chi<sup>n</sup>, archers on foot. bé-pē-chi<sup>n</sup>, cavalry and infantry archers.

pē-sē, a contrivance or plot, as for managing a matter, or for boxing, &c. hó-pē-sē, having a good plan (for a special case) how to get round people or manage an affair. ū-pē-sē, id. hó-pē, a good plan or advice how to do a thing. bō-pē, having no resource. chin-chêng bō-lē, thè-āu bō-pē, no way of escape backwards or forwards; no resource at all in any way. ū siá<sup>n</sup>-pē, what can be done? there is evidently no resource. iáu-siū-á-pē, to begin affairs and not settle them, so as to cause great trouble to others. piēn-pē, to try a new plan when the first has failed; to use some artifice, intrigue, or cunning scheme. pi<sup>n</sup>-pē, id. khng-pē, to conceal part of our plans, or of a story or affair; to teach in a slovenly way. gāu-siū<sup>n</sup>-pē, good at contrivances; ingenious; fruitful in resources; scheming. sái tók-pē, to use some wicked scheme against a man. sái àm-pē, id. pái-pē (T.), = A. pái-pē, to calumniate a man to his superior (v. pái).

tōe-pē, rank or relative position (only used in some such phrases as the following). tē-pē, id. toā-tōepē, high rank or station, or great wealth. kàu-hit--ê tōe-pē, having reached that position or rank; the affair having come to that position. kàu sim-mih<sup>n</sup> tōe-pē, what rank has he reached? (as mandarin). ku sim-mih<sup>n</sup> tōe-pē, what is his present rank? ū sim-mih<sup>n</sup> tōe-pē, what rank, position, or wealth has he reached? bō-sim-mih<sup>n</sup> tōe-pē, wanting in ability, so as not to prosper. i--ê tē-pē iáu-bē kàu hit--ê sē-tsāi, he has not yet reached such a position, as of rank, office, &c.

lāu-tōe-pē, to have some plan or thing in store for an emergency; not exhausting one's self or one's resources; not pressing matters to the utmost. kā-i-lāu chit--ê tōe-pē, to leave him some respectability or dignity, e.g. do not reprove or punish him so much as to leave him no respect in the eyes of others.

pē-ūi, rank (v. ūi), (s. vital part).

pē — kiá-pē, a small sort of crab (cf. pō-óá, phē-óá).

pē — chiú<sup>n</sup>-pē, the band which splices the blade of an oar to the handle.

pē — toā-pē-bú, the thumb; the big toe. kha toā-pē-bú, the big toe. chhiú toā-pē-bú, the thumb. toā-pē-bú-phāng, the opening between the thumb and the finger.

pē [R. to seize; to grasp]. pē-hong chhiok-ēng, to take up and spread baseless stories (lit. wind and shadows).

sūn-pē, an assistant or aide-de-camp of a high mandarin (v. sūn). pē-thia<sup>n</sup>, an assistant mandarin of the Hien or Foo mandarin. sàu-pē, sort of excisemen or tide-waiters for salt revenue.

pē (C.) chiòh-pē, a broken bit of stone or rock. toā-chiòh-pē, a large piece of rock, as about size of fist. chiòh-pē-á, quite a small bit of rock or stone.

pē (R. id.), to chew. chiáh bō-pē, to eat without chewing. pē thun--lòh-khi, chew and swallow. pa-lun pē-chháu, to chew the cud. kang-chhùi pē-chih, to make an empty promise, with no intention to keep it. a iú hoân-pē chi-gī, the crow gives food in gratitude (to its parent).

pē [R. a division or class, as of characters under one radical; a set, as of books; the Supreme Boards at Pekin, = col. phō]. pē-lūi, the group of characters belonging to one radical. jip sim-mih<sup>n</sup> pē-lūi, to which radical does the word belong? siók sim-mih<sup>n</sup> pē-lūi, id. sim-pē, the radical "sim," as forming a group of words in the dictionary.

liók-pē, the six Supreme Boards at Pekin. ngé-hú liók-pē, all the great offices at Pekin. lé-pē, the Board of Rites; its president. li-pē, the Board of Office; its president. hē-pē, the Board of Revenue; its president. kong-pē, the Board of Works; its president. hêng-pē, the Board of Punishment; its president. pia<sup>n</sup>-pē, the Board of War; its president. jip-pē, to become a member of one of these boards. pē-koa<sup>n</sup>, the members of the boards. pē-siók, lower officials of the boards. pē-gī, the opinion of a board reporting to the emperor on a subject sent down for its consideration. pē-bún, a decree issued by a board by imperial command. pē-tsai, do. when quite small, generally about one single particular. pē-pan--ê, published by a supreme board, as a decree. pē-pàng--ê, directly appointed by the Board of Office, as a mandarin. tui-pē pák, granted by authority of a supreme board, as a monopoly; it may be granted by a high

播

傳候

步

步

捕

哺

部

mandarin who has delegated authority to do so. pē-pák--ê, id. (v. pák).

pē-úi, a vital spot in the body where one blow is fatal (s. pace). pē-poá<sup>n</sup>, the groin. pē-poá<sup>n</sup>-téng, the part between the navel and the groin. pē-poá<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, at the side of that part.

ngé-pē-chhiu, beard, whiskers, and moustaches all distinctly separate.

pō (C. pōk). pō-lê, the largest sort of dragon-fly.

pō [R. pō, violent, tyrannical, &c., = col. pāu, pē, &c.] pē-chéng thien-bút, to use things wastefully.

tsū-pē tsū-khi (Cn.), to injure one's self by throwing away invaluable opportunities (and so in other phrases, Cn., = A. pō).

pō [R. bē, male of some animals]. pē--ê (T.), the male (said of pigs).

pō (Cn.), = A. pe, to fly.

pō, Cn., = A. pē, to repay; to make up a deficiency.

pō (Cn.), = A. pē, to paste paper. piáu-pō, = A. kiáu-pē, id.

pō (T.), = A. pòe, pè, the back (in some phrases).

pō (T.), = A. pè, a mound for damming up water.

pō (Cn.), = A. pē. sa<sup>n</sup>-pō kha-chhng, set back to back, as two men, houses, or villages; assisting each other against all others, as men. hat-pō (T.), a cloth for strapping a child on one's back.

pō (Cn.), = A. pē, so many fold, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-pō, three times as many.

poa (C.) poa-láu, = A. pa-láu, a sort of fish.

poa (C.) poa-lun-thâu (= pa), to cover up one's head in the bed-clothes.

poà (R. pò), to throw away (by a slight shake of the wicker tray) the light rice and chaff which has already been separated by a different sort of motion. poà-hiet-kák, id. poà-ki, the flat shallow tray used for this purpose (v. ki). poà-chhek-thâu, to throw away the light empty rice in this way. poà-bí, to separate rice from chaff, &c., in this way.

poà [R. pòe, precious]. ka-poà, raw cotton; the cotton plant; native cotton cloth (imitation of the Indian or Persian name "karpasi"). ka-poà-pē, native cotton cloth.

poa<sup>n</sup> [R. poan, a sort, kind, or manner]. chit-poa<sup>n</sup>, alike (especially said at the end of a sentence). chit-poa<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, all alike; just the same. bān-poa<sup>n</sup>, all sorts or kinds. pah-poa<sup>n</sup>, id. pah-poa<sup>n</sup>, khi-thâu lân, all things are difficult at the beginning.

poa<sup>n</sup> [R. poan, to remove; to excite enmity], to remove; to move things; to change one's dwelling. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhia, to move things back and forwards; to talk the same story over and over, as in discussion (v. chhia). poa<sup>n</sup>-tiáh, to keep up a long discussion. poa<sup>n</sup>-lâi poa<sup>n</sup>-khi (move back and forwards), to repeat people's sayings to others.

poa<sup>n</sup>-chhù, to change one's dwelling. koá<sup>n</sup>-i-poa<sup>n</sup>, to evict him from the house. poa<sup>n</sup>-khang, to clear out all the things, as from room or house. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhut-hè, to take out the goods, as from store or vessel. poa<sup>n</sup>-soá, to move away elsewhere (v. soá). poa<sup>n</sup>--khi, to move away. poa<sup>n</sup>-chhiá, to get one's family to come and live together, as mandarin to his official residence.

poa<sup>n</sup>, to act a play. poa<sup>n</sup>-hi, id. (v. hi). siet-sien, poa<sup>n</sup> kâu-chè-thien, said of making false pretences.

poá<sup>n</sup>, to mix together, as dry powders, e.g. flour and sugar. poá<sup>n</sup>-khi-thâu, mix them (the powders) thoroughly.

poá<sup>n</sup> [R. poán, a great rock]. chiòh-poá<sup>n</sup>, a large flat rock. thiáu-poá<sup>n</sup>, a large flat stone sunk in the ground, as a foundation for a pillar.

poá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, a chessboard; a game at chess], classifier of games at chess. ki-poá<sup>n</sup>, a chessboard.

poá<sup>n</sup> — kha-poá<sup>n</sup>, the upper surface of the foot; the instep. chhiú-poá<sup>n</sup>, the back of the hand.

poá<sup>n</sup> [R. poán, a plate; to calculate; to hold friendly intercourse; to discuss; = col. phoán], a plate; a platter; a saucer; a tray; to calculate, as a lucky day.

poá<sup>n</sup>-sì, to calculate, as a lucky day.

thong-poá<sup>n</sup>, all alike (v. thong).

chit-poá<sup>n</sup> seng-lí, the whole of a mercantile business (said in regard to transferring it, or temporarily handing it over to another to manage). kui-poá<sup>n</sup>, id. moá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup> lóng-kau--i, handed over the whole business to him. moá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup> ê-sù, the whole affair from beginning to end. kau-poá<sup>n</sup>, to hand over to another, as an office or business, or one's share in a business. hoá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, to have the authoritative voice in a business, e.g. as the manager or shroff. poá<sup>n</sup>-kháu, the price asked at first for goods, as by a wholesale hong (afterwards it may be lowered). khui chit--ê poá<sup>n</sup>-kháu, to propose a first price (to open the market), as the seller does.

poá<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, expenses of a journey. poá<sup>n</sup>-ti<sup>n</sup>, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-hùi, id. (v. hùi).

iá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, a military station, as a sin-hông, or larger one.

sng-poá<sup>n</sup>, an abacus. kín-bān-poá<sup>n</sup>, the regulator of watch or clock. táh-poá<sup>n</sup>, the frame on which a sail rests when it is lowered.

pē-poá<sup>n</sup>, the groin (v. pē). thē-poá<sup>n</sup>, the white meat of the body of a medusa.

tháng-poá<sup>n</sup>, a tray. tê-poá<sup>n</sup>, a salver for a teapot, not for cups. teh tê-poá<sup>n</sup>, to give a small present on taking tea (v. tê). chien-poá<sup>n</sup>, a flat frying-pan. téng-á-poá<sup>n</sup>, the scale of a small steelyard. oá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, bowls and plates. poá<sup>n</sup>-tih, large and small plates. chhâ-poá<sup>n</sup>, a large wooden platter, used for exposing things for sale. ngé-seng-poá<sup>n</sup>, platter for presenting idolatrous offerings. kiú-liông-poá<sup>n</sup>, a wooden tray with nine divisions, as for marriage presents. poá<sup>n</sup>-áp, round wooden basket with horizontal divisions.

poá<sup>n</sup>-noá<sup>n</sup>, to hold friendly intercourse (v. noá<sup>n</sup>). chhiau-poá<sup>n</sup>, to talk the same thing over and over endlessly in discussion. chhia-poá<sup>n</sup>, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-chheh, to discuss books in a friendly way to try each others' learning. poá<sup>n</sup>-òe, to wrangle on violently without stopping, e.g. raking up old quarrels. poá<sup>n</sup> chhù-tún-phê, to have a wordy dispute. kap-lâng poá<sup>n</sup>-chhùi-gím (= poa<sup>n</sup>), to have a great deal of discussion with a man about some matter.

poá<sup>n</sup> (same word?), to copy or transfer, as accounts (cf. piá<sup>n</sup>). poá<sup>n</sup>-siàu, to transfer accounts from one book to another.

poá<sup>n</sup> (R. boán), to climb over. poá<sup>n</sup>-jip, to climb in. poá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to climb out; to overflow, as very full tide overflowing the fields. poá<sup>n</sup>-kè, to climb over. poá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to climb over a wall. poá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to cross a mountain. poá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> kè-niá<sup>n</sup>, to cross lofty mountains.

poá<sup>n</sup>-tsai, to transplant.

暴

牡

包

簸

貝

般

搬

拌
般
般
般
般

蹠
拌

poá<sup>n</sup> — poá<sup>n</sup>-ôe, to work (with needle in thread) the raised border of a shoe. poá<sup>n</sup> ôe-ki<sup>n</sup>, id. poá<sup>n</sup> ôe-phi<sup>n</sup>, to work the raised ridges on the toe of a shoe. kau-chiam têng, bát-liú poá<sup>n</sup>, said of being over-cautious (v. bát).

poá<sup>n</sup> — khé-nâ<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, a shrub with white flowers that grows by ditches, &c.

poá<sup>n</sup> — poá<sup>n</sup>-hî, a sort of fish. poá<sup>n</sup>-á-hî, id. lē-poá<sup>n</sup>, do., salted.

poá<sup>n</sup> [R. pán, poán, an embankment against water], a word entering into the names of many villages, e.g. lāu-poá<sup>n</sup>, near Amoy; āu-poá<sup>n</sup>, near Chang-chew.

poá<sup>n</sup> (R. poán), a half. chit-toá-poá<sup>n</sup>, the greater part. sôe-poá<sup>n</sup>, the smaller part. poá<sup>n</sup>-lāu, a small half upper story. poá<sup>n</sup>-lāu, half tide. poá<sup>n</sup>-jit, half a day. poá<sup>n</sup>-sî, one hour's time. poá<sup>n</sup>-pē, half through the afternoon. poá<sup>n</sup>-mî, midnight (v. mî<sup>n</sup>). poá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, half-way up the mountain. poá<sup>n</sup>-hái, half-way across the sea, in mid-ocean. poá<sup>n</sup>-thî, up in the sky; among the clouds. poá<sup>n</sup>-pia<sup>n</sup>, half-way up the partition wall. poá<sup>n</sup>-lē, on the way; on the road; half-way. poá<sup>n</sup>-lē khàu, to lament on the way, as daughter for parents. hāi poá<sup>n</sup>-lē-chiū<sup>n</sup>, to lead into danger and then injure or leave to suffer. poá<sup>n</sup>-tióng-tê soah-khî, to fail after beginning. poá<sup>n</sup>-tióng-túg soah-khî, id.

poá<sup>n</sup>-lām-hā<sup>n</sup>, hung up half-finished, as affair (v. há<sup>n</sup>). ôh poá<sup>n</sup>-lām-phú, to learn a thing (as business or trade) only half well (v. phú). ôh poá<sup>n</sup>-láng-bí, id. tsú poá<sup>n</sup>-láng-bí, half-cooked. poá<sup>n</sup>-sî, half-dead. poá<sup>n</sup>-tsá<sup>n</sup>, a sword about two feet long, handle and blade about equal length. tùi-poá<sup>n</sup>-thàn, to gain cent. per cent. poá<sup>n</sup>-lāi-goá, half out half in. hó-phái<sup>n</sup> chit-poá<sup>n</sup>, about half good half bad. siá chit-poá<sup>n</sup>, to write one half; said also of a son half transferred to a person whom his widowed mother marries, the son worshipping the ancestors both of him and of his own father.

poá<sup>n</sup>-chia<sup>n</sup>, one half of a thing of which "chia<sup>n</sup>" is the classifier. poá<sup>n</sup>-tê, half of a thing classified by "tê." chit-poá<sup>n</sup>-ê-á, perhaps just one, but of no consequence. chit-kê poá<sup>n</sup>-kê, scarcely, if ever; very rarely (v. kê). bô-poá<sup>n</sup>-láng, not a single man. poá<sup>n</sup>-tih-tsúi iá-bô, not the least drop of water remains.

gê-poá<sup>n</sup>, one and a half, of anything. khê-poá<sup>n</sup>, a dollar and a half. chit-khê-poá<sup>n</sup>, id. ki-poá<sup>n</sup>-úi, a schooner (lit. one mast and a half). ki-poá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, a three-masted schooner.

poá<sup>n</sup> [R. poán, a sort of rope; to entangle]. poá<sup>n</sup>-tióh, to trip up a man, as a rope. poá<sup>n</sup>-tióh-soh, to trip on a rope. poá<sup>n</sup>-tó, to trip on ropes or make another trip. poá<sup>n</sup>-bé-soh, ropes placed so as to make the enemy's cavalry fall. tí<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup> poá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, all involved and entangled, as an affair (v. tí<sup>n</sup>). pî<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-pin-soh, a thread used by women at toilet (v. pin).

ū-pin-poá<sup>n</sup>, to be on terms of friendly intercourse. kap-i ū-pin-poá<sup>n</sup>, do., with him. chia<sup>n</sup>-ê teh-pin-poá<sup>n</sup>, there are some obstacles, e.g. as one's family making it difficult to take a journey. bô-pin-poá<sup>n</sup>, having no entanglements or impediments. kap-i bô-pin-poá<sup>n</sup>, not on terms of acquaintance with him.

poá<sup>n</sup> (R. hut), to dust; to shake off the dust or dirt; to strike with a stick or cloth so as to dust. poá<sup>n</sup>-sám thâu-múg, to dishevel the hair. poá<sup>n</sup>-báng, to drive away mosquitoes, as with a brush. poá<sup>n</sup> sengkhú, to beat or shake one's dress gently to remove the dust. poá<sup>n</sup> kia<sup>n</sup>-láng, to beat or shake to remove dirt or dust. phah-poá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to clean by striking, as a dress. poá<sup>n</sup>-múg, to shake its feathers, as a hen, or its hair, as a dog. poá<sup>n</sup>-hî, to shake the ears, as cow or dog. iô-thâu poá<sup>n</sup>-hî, to shake one's head, as on hearing of some wicked deed or unsafe character. siú-khî kàu iô-thâu poá<sup>n</sup>-hî, in a great rage.

poah [R. poát, cymbals, &c. = col. poáh]. hê-siú<sup>n</sup> thuh-poah, the Buddhist priest supporting a tambourine on a bamboo pole that rests on his head or palm.

poah [R. poat, an earthen dish; a mortar], a shallow earthen dish; a small earthen basin. poah-á, id. hûi-poah, id. chhién-poah, a very shallow sort. kha<sup>n</sup>-poah, deep and shallow earthen jars and dishes. lún-poah (Cn.), = A. "e," a small thin earthen pot for cooking.

bák-poah, a large dish like a bowl for holding ink for writing large characters. lúi-poah, a round mortar, of stone or stoneware, for triturating with a pestle. géng-poah, a long-shaped mortar worked by a wheel.

poah (R. poát), to separate into lots or divisions; to allot or tell off for particular duties. poah-kang, to intermit work in order to attend to something else. chhiáu-poah, to put a matter in a better state. poah-chî<sup>n</sup> hêng--láng, to make an effort to get money to pay a debt, e.g. taking money that was required for some less urgent purpose. pái-poah, to lend for a short time, as money, or goods, or persons in employment; to assist, as the gods; to change places, duties, or office temporarily, or order subordinates to do so. sa<sup>n</sup>-pái-poah, to exchange places, duties, or persons temporarily, or take several duties for a time. pái-poah bô-sū, to assist out of trouble, as gods. tãi-sū, poah siáu-sū; siáu-sū, poah bô-sū, to make great troubles less and remove small troubles, as a powerful divinity. phài-poah, to appoint men to their several duties. hun-poah, to separate into portions to be sent to different persons; to allot separate pieces of work to men who were together. poah sé-tsái, to allot the places for each person. poah-khui, to put separate, esp. by moving one's hands apart without violence; to open the way in a crowd, or separate combatants. pháí<sup>n</sup>-láng poah-khui, may bad men be kept away (said in Taoist worship).

poáh (R. poát), to stumble so as to fall; to fall or cause to fall; to throw down, as a dollar to try its sound. hiám-hiám-poáh, to stumble so as almost to fall. poáh-tó, to fall; to make to fall. poáh chit-tó, to fall down. chháu-ki poáh-tó-láng, a straw may make a man fall. pî<sup>n</sup>-pî<sup>n</sup>-lē poáh-tó-láng, a matter that seemed safe and sure to succeed may cause great trouble. poáh-lóh, to fall down from a place somewhat higher. poáh-lóh-bé, to fall from a horse. túg-poáh-chê, to fall on one's posteriors, as when a chair has been taken away, or as going down a steep place. poáh--sí, to die of a fall. tiàu-bah poáh-sí-niau<sup>n</sup>, said of tantalizing people (v. tiàu). kau--poáh, to make a man fall by hooking his leg. phah-poáh, to cause to fall, as a child. put-chí phah-poáh, extremely restless and uncomfortable, as a sick man tossing about; to exert one's self very much and have a vast deal of trouble in managing an affair.

poáh-chhiú, matters not going well, not succeeding at all, or very troublesome. bô-poáh-chhiú, all going on smoothly. sa<sup>n</sup> ka-láuh, si tióh-poáh, matters all going wrong.

poáh (same word?). poáh chêng-lí, to discuss

飯坂半

鍍鉢鉢

撥

絆

跋

拂

the principles of justice in relation to a dispute. tò-poáh-i, to pretend that he said what we said, or to make some charge against him as a set-off against a charge we cannot answer. poáh-tó sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to pose a teacher, as by a rare character. i hē-lí poáh-bōe-tó, you cannot overcome him in argument. chēng-lí poáh--tó thài-san, truth and right can overthrow in argument even the mountain Thài-san.

poáh — poáh-túg, to turn a thing round so as to get it into a better position. poáh-túg-lái, id. poáh-túg-sin, to turn one's self about so as to be in a better position. poáh-lin-túg, to turn right round (v. lin).

poáh [R. poát, to pull, = col. phoáh, pùih]. poáh-tit--khi, to draw up (cloth) and stretch it away from one's self, as in measuring or looking at it. poáh thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, to draw it out and stretch between one's hands at arm's length, as for a rough measurement.

poáh-tháng, a bucket for drawing water (C. phoáh = poáh, in all this paragraph). poáh-tháng bōe-lí--tit ké-chí<sup>n</sup> (the bucket can't leave the well), said in exhorting near relatives not to quarrel, as their interests cannot be separated. chít-poáh-tsúi, one bucketful of water drawn from the well.

poáh (T.) sa<sup>n</sup>-poáh-kong, = A. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-sià, two idols represented as if wrestling with each other.

poáh, a pinch of tobacco, snuff, or opium. chít-poáh-hun, one pipeful (as of tobacco) taken up in the fingers. toā-poáh, a large pipeful, as of tobacco or opium; a large dose of opium, as smoked (s. cymbal). chiáh sòe-poáh, to smoke a small quantity of tobacco or opium.

poáh, to gamble; to play a game of chance (sometimes to divine or draw lots). poáh-kiáu, to gamble; gambling (v. kiáu). poáh su-iá<sup>n</sup>, to gamble. poáh-chiáh-thit, gambling, drunkenness, and lewdness. tùi-poáh, to gamble with each other. poáh sim-sek, to play a game of chance for amusement, not for money. poáh thit-thô, do., or for very small stakes. poáh tâu-á, to gamble with dice. poáh thiàu-kâu, to gamble with three dice (v. kâu). poáh pài-á, to gamble with cards. poáh sù-sek, gamble with cards of four colours. poáh siang-hù, gamble with two sets of cards at once. poáh ah-nng, gamble for duck-eggs, as boys. poáh bé-khi-tâu, gamble for a sort of bean.

poáh-toa<sup>n</sup>, to draw by lot (in presence of idol) which play is to be played. poáh-koà, to divine by tortoise-shell (v. koà). poáh-poe, to divine by bamboo roots (v. poe).

poáh (R. poát), cymbals. toā-poáh, large cymbals (s. pinch). nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, cymbals used at funerals. lâu-poáh (C.), id. phah nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, to play with cymbals. hiet nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, to toss up the cymbals in playing them. hi<sup>n</sup> nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, id. lâng nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh, to play with cymbals. nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh-ké, cymbals and drum used at funerals.

nâ<sup>n</sup>-poáh-chí, seeds used for poisoning fish (not the guava).

poan [R. to remove, to excite enmity, = col. poa<sup>n</sup>]. gâu-poan, fond of injuring people by raising stories. poan-thio, to raise false or greatly exaggerated reports so as to set people at variance, as a tale-bearer. poan-lái poan-khi, to do so on both sides. poan-lông, to poison a man's mind against another so as to stir up enmity. poan --lâng lông --lâng, id. poan-khiet (C.), deceitful and intriguing.

poan [R. a sort, = col. poa<sup>n</sup>]. bân-poan, tē si-bēng, all is fixed by fate (v. bēng).

poan (C.), = A. pan. sam-poan-khiah, the interstices in the battlements of a wall.

poàn [R. a half, = col. poà<sup>n</sup>]. poàn-tê jì-hòe, to fail half-way. poàn-khong-tiong, in mid-heaven. poàn-chiét-i, a long dress made of two stuffs above and below. thó poàn-chiét, to get 50 per cent. on a bad debt. poàn-kong-su, half public half private. poàn-thun poàn-thê, telling only part of what one knows. hó-phái<sup>n</sup> chham-poàn, good and bad about half-and-half. poàn-sien, half a genie (v. sien). poàn-lé-pēng, the 113th radical written at the side (v. lé).

poàn-hā, a medicine used for the cure of coughs.

poàn (= pièn). poàn-súi, palsy.

poãn (R. id.), to rebel; to revolt. pōe-poãn, id. hoãn-poãn, id. poãn-sin, a rebellious statesman. poãn-kut, a traitor; a man who sides with our enemies or speaks against us behind our back, though in our employment or connected with us. poãn-lái poãn-khi, to change allegiance back and forwards, as in war.

poát [R. to pull out, to select, = col. pùih, poáh, phoáh], to select a graduate to become a poát-kòng. soán-poát, id. poát-kòng, title of one lín-seng graduate selected from each Hien district once in twelve years. poát-goãn, id.

chhiau-poát, having an appearance of talent and intelligence, as a scholar; also (R.), to deliver souls from torment and get them born again into the world. thê-poát, to help a man to get employment or office.

poát-mê tsé-su, name of an idol introduced from India (v. su).

poát [R. to cross over, to stumble, = col. poáh]. poát-siáp san-chhoan (R.), to travel far over mountains and rivers.

poát (R. id.) hân-poát, the demon of drought (v. hân).

poát [R. cymbals, = col. poáh, pùt]. nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-poát, = nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-pùt, the guava (v. pùt). kim-poát-á, a small gold coin like a sovereign.

poe (R. id.), a large cup like a bowl (not a tea-cup); divining blocks made of split bamboo roots. chiú-poe, a large wine-cup. poe-poá<sup>n</sup>, large cups and platters. sóe-chhiú-poe, a finger-bowl. kau-poe, bride and bridegroom exchanging cups after tasting.

hé-poe, a long iron like a poker, crooked at the end, used heated for melting some sorts of cement.

poe-sin, divining blocks, made of bamboo roots. siú<sup>n</sup>-poe, id. (v. siú<sup>n</sup>). poe-khàu (T.), id. sin-poe (C.), id. chit-siú<sup>n</sup>-poe, the throw when one has the convex side up and the other the flat; the best throw. chhió-poe, both with flat side up. im-poe, both with convex side up. kiú-poe, to ask direction by the divining blocks. poáh-poe, to throw up the blocks so as to divine by them. poáh kàu-ū-poe, to throw them till a favourable answer is got (said of constantly asking till consent is given). poáh poe-á, to gamble by throwing three cash on the ground. siàng-poe-á, id. poe-si (T.), divination before an idol by lots that direct to verses of poetry. poáh poe-si (T.), to divine in this way, esp. before thé-ti-kong.

poe (C. pe). tek-poe, a flat bamboo rod for beating criminals or scholars. thoa tek-poe, to carry bamboo rods before a mandarin's chair, larger than those actually used for beating.

般

半

叛

拔

跋

魃

鍤

盃

杯

拔

拔

鍤

搬

poe-chhák, a broad chisel about two inches broad.

poe — giô-poe, a boat's paddle. pí<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup> poe-poe, flat in shape, as anything. thê-poe (T.), a long-shaped shell-fish somewhat like the ka-chhiô. thê-poe m-si sam-seng-tsái (T.), said of a man of very small ability (lit. not fit to be used in offerings).

poe (C.), = A. pe, to fly.

poe (C.) poe-lêng-chhài (= A. pe), name of a favourite vegetable.

pôe (R. id.) kau-pôe, to keep company; to associate with. sa<sup>n</sup>-pôe, to keep company, as sitting or drinking together. pôe-phoa<sup>n</sup>, id. pôe lêng-kheh, to sit and keep company with guests or visitors. pôe-lí-chê, to sit in company with you. sit-pôe, excuse me (said on leaving company or on refusing to eat). pôe-sàng, to accompany a friend when he sees a visitor off, as a third person does. pôe-pài, to make bows, &c., along with a visitor who comes to worship our lately deceased parent, or to pay his respects to our parent on birth-day.

pôe [R. to earth up; to assist; to foster]. pôe-iú<sup>n</sup>, to tend, foster, and nourish up, as children. pôe-ióng, to train up, as children; to take care of, as one's own health. tsai-pôe (R.), to cultivate carefully, as trees or plants; to bring up and train carefully, as child.

pôe (C.), = A. pê, to repay or make restitution.

pôe (C.), = A. pé, to ward off with the hand; to dig up, as ground-nuts.

pôe (R. id.) pó-pôe, precious. pôe-jī-kha, the 154th radical at the bottom.

pôe [R. name of a medicine; also written with the previous character "precious"]. pôe-bú, a medicine for coughs. pôe-bé, id. chhoan-pôe, do., from Sze-chuen.

pôe [R. pôe, girdle ornaments]. hōng-koa<sup>n</sup> hê-pôe, ornaments for head and girdle, worn by wealthy ladies (v. koa<sup>n</sup>).

pôe (R. id.), a sort or class of people, especially as to genealogical position. pôe-siáu (C.), position in genealogical rank. pêng-pôe, of the same genealogical rank, i.e. equally distant from the common ancestor. chhien-pôe, persons one or more generations nearer the common ancestor. tióng-pôe, superior in genealogical rank; includes also an elder brother. téng-pôe, our parents and their equals in genealogical rank. khah-koái<sup>n</sup> chit-pôe, one generation higher in the genealogical line, &c. ē-pôe, persons lower in genealogical rank, as sons, nephews, &c. hā-pôe, id. āu-pôe ê-lâng, the next generation (said in relation to something to be done by or for them).

ngé-pôe--ê, of our class (said by the literati). boán-pôe, polite phrase for "I," in speaking to an old man or to a teacher.

pôe (C.), = A. pè, to paste paper.

pôe [R. pōe, pòe, the back; to turn the back, = col. pè, pè], (T. sometimes pò). ku-pôe, hunchbacked. iong-tsu hoat-pôe, sloughing carbuncle on back of neck. kien-thiau pôe-hū, to bear on the shoulder or the back, as coolies and pedlars. pôe-āu (r.), behind one's back.

chhiú-pôe, the back of the hand. tsoá-pôe, the wrong side of paper. to-pôe, the back of a knife. tit-pôe-í, a chair with a square straight back. tsòe tit-pôe, to make a chair of this sort. oan-pôe-í, a chair with a curved back.

kau-í-pôe (C.), = A. kau-í-pè, the back of a chair.

kiô-pòe (C.), = A. kiô-pè, back of the chair in a sedan.

pōe [R. pōe, pòe, the back; to turn one's back upon; to oppose or turn away from]. sióng-pōe, each side breaking their engagements with the other. sa<sup>n</sup>-pōe, id. hiau-pōe, to treat a man ill from whom we have received benefits; to break an agreement; to embezzle money intrusted. pôe-biū, to offend against, as against instruction or doctrine. im-ióng hoán-pōe, turning night into day. bōng-un pôe-gī, very ungrateful. pôe lêng-ê-un, to act ungratefully towards a man. pôe lêng-ê-chêng, id. pôe-tsó, to transgress ancestral customs. pôe-chhin hióng-se, to leave near relatives and take up with strangers or distant connections.

pōe (R. id.), to rebel against. pôe-gèk, to rebel; to disobey a sovereign or good doctrine; rebellious. pôe-poān, to rebel.

pōe-goān, to break a vow.

pōe [R. name of a fabulous animal; very miserable]. lióng-pōe, very poor and miserable; having lost all resources; ruined. lóng-pōe, id. lóng-pōe sióng-í, two persons (each deficient in what the other has) helping each other; figure from two animals said to lean on each other so as to be able to walk.

pái-pōe, leg or arm lame or distorted, so as to make walking or work difficult; all gone wrong, as an affair. kha pái-pōe, leg lame; very shaky, as the legs of a table or chair. tē-lāi pái-pōe, uncomfortable feeling in stomach, as if about to vomit. chhùi-khí pái-pōe, teeth very ugly, irregular, and out of line.

pōe (= pē, pí<sup>n</sup>). pôe-si-pêng, the 120th radical at the side.

pōe (R. mǝ<sup>n</sup>, pōe, = col. pē). tai-pōe, = tai-pē, tortoise-shell (s. toast).

pōe [R. to toast; to fire, as tea-leaves; = col. pē]. tai-pōe, a sort of tea (s. tortoise-shell). sió-chióng-pōe, a sort of Sou-chong tea. chióng-pōe-ki, a sort with small ends of twigs in it.

pōe [R. so many fold, = col. pē]. ngé-pōe-chí, a seed used for killing parasitical animals and for dyeing an inky colour like the clothes of Buddhist priests.

kúi-pōe (C.), = A. kúi-pē, how many fold? (and so in the other phrases, C., = A. pē).

pōe (C.) siá<sup>n</sup>-pōe-téng, on the top of a city wall; the walk on the wall.

pōe (C.) pōe io-to (= A. pē), to wear a sword at the girdle.

poeh (R. pat), (C. peh), eight. poeh-jī, the eight characters of a man's nativity or horoscope, namely, two for year, month, day, and hour. pái-poeh-jī, to write them out in a tabular form for divination. thêh-poeh-jī, to take the horoscope of a couple to be betrothed to see if they agree well. poeh-jī tui-chhiong, some of these characters conflicting with those of a near relative. poeh-jī tāng, horoscope good, so as not to need to fear demons or unlucky days, &c. poeh-jī khin, very apt to be injured by unlucky days, sights, &c., as by seeing an execution, or by any evil spiritual influence.

káu-poeh-hāng, commission-agent taking a commission of two per cent. káu-poeh-kau, id. thiu káu-poeh, to take that commission on goods. tsáp-tsáp poeh-poeh, all in confusion. chhit-soah poeh-pái, all going wrong (v. chhit).

poeh-kak, eight-cornered; anise-seed; a sort of paper kite. poeh-lóh, a sort of rope (v. lóh). poeh-

背

悖

狷

瑁
焙

倍

八

倍

培

貝
負

佩
輩

背

si-á, a very thin stuff like satin, of very little strength (v. si).

poeh [R. phà<sup>n</sup>, to fear]. poeh-sí, feeling ashamed (v. sí).

pòeh (C. Cn.), = A. pùih, to pull up or out.

poh [R. pok, to dispute; to discuss]. toà-teh-poh, disputing, scolding, or wrangling together. m-sái-poh, don't wrangle so. poh-chhùi, slight angry altercation (s. splice). poh-lâi poh-khi, to have such an altercation.

poh — poh-chhùi, the splice of an oar (s. dispute).

poh [R. pok, north, defeated, = col. pak]. phah-poh, to engage in a very dangerous conflict; to make a venture in trade, which, if unsuccessful, will be ruinous. si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup> kap--i teh-phah-poh, to engage in mortal combat with him; to do or die.

poh (R. pòk), thin, as paper, cloth, skin, &c.; weak, as tea. káu-pòh, thick or thin. pòh hiuh-hiuh, very thin. pòh li-li, id. lòh-pòh, to fall into poverty from affluence. soe-pòh, scanty, as small crop of fruit, &c.; or as a small quantity of pocks in a case of small-pox. chhién-pòh, shallow and thin. khin-pòh-lâng, a man who boasts much of any slight success or good fortune. khin-pòh, frivolous and shallow in manner, e.g. too fond of joking and laughing, or too much elated at success; light and thin, as paper, leaves, or bad cash. khin-pòh-siòng, readily getting angry or pleased, e.g. getting angry about one cash. khia<sup>n</sup>-pòh, having a thin and delicate look; hands and face small and insignificant looking; said also by fortune-tellers of an unlucky man. pòh-phê, thin-skinned, very sensitive to pain, or crying readily when scolded.

tâm-pòh, a small quantity of anything. tâm-pòh-á, id.

pòh-hô-iú (= pòk), oil of peppermint.

pòh — chhi<sup>n</sup>-pòh, sort of shallow stake-nets, enclosing much less space than the net called "khién."

pòh (R. pòk), metallic foil. kim-pòh, false gold-leaf, made of tin, coloured for idolatrous paper. siah-pòh, tin-foil. gân-pòh, do. uncoloured, to represent silver. pè-pòh, to paste tin-foil on paper, so as to make idolatrous paper. chhat-kim pè-pòh, to make such paper.

pòh — sa<sup>n</sup>-pāng-pòh, mutually helping each other, as in a joint business, or as in drawing up a document.

pok (R. id.), to divine by tortoise-shell. pok-koà, id. (v. koà). māng-pok, to consult a diviner who divines by tortoise-shell. būn-pok, id. bī-pok sien-ti, I know before you tell me (lit. before divining). san i bēng, pok siòng, geomancy, medicine, fortune-telling, and divination by tortoise-shell, and by marks on and appearance of body (v. siòng).

pok [R. north, defeated, = col. pak, poh]. pok-kék, the pole-star, or heavenly north pole (v. kék). tong-se lâm-pok, east, west, south, and north. pai-pok (R.), to be conquered in battle.

pok [R. to discuss; vari-coloured; to trans-ship or lighter; = col. pak, poh], to make objections; to dispute; to give an unfavourable answer to a petition; to lighter. pien-pok, to argue against; to make objections. pok-khiet, fond of minutely cross-questioning. pok-tó, to overcome in argument (v. tó). pok-iá<sup>n</sup>, id. pok-su, to be beaten in argument.

phoe-pok, answer to the petition (to mandarin) unfavourable. pok-būn, to find fault with a document sent up by an inferior mandarin, as his superior does. pok-tò-tig, to refuse to receive, as insulting fee or disrespectful petition; to protest, as a bill. goân-toa<sup>n</sup> pok-hôe, bill protested.

pok ji-kut, to examine minutely the meaning of a character (v. ji).

pok-hè, to take cargo out of a vessel into a smaller vessel or lighter, or to take a small quantity of it ashore. pok-á, a smaller junk or schooner for carrying cargo to some neighbouring port. tsōan-chiu-pok, a medium-sized junk that carries goods to and from Chin-chew. i-ki-pok, a schooner belonging to Ellis & Co. for trading with some near port, e.g. with Formosa.

pok — pok -- chhut-lâi, to come out of the socket, as an eye hopelessly blind that protrudes very much.

pok [R. noise of fire]. pit-pok-háu, crackling sound of burning bamboos, or of crackers, &c.

pòk (R. id.) lê-pòk (R.), a male slave.

pòk [R. bók, wood, = col. bák]. ka-pòk-mí<sup>n</sup>, coarse cotton with the seeds in it, used for stuffing pillows, &c. pòk-piang-thúi, an instrument for beating raw cotton.

pòk [R. thin, = col. pòh]. khek-pòk, stingy and unkind, niggardly and exacting. kheng-pòk, light, trivial, or frivolous in conduct; niggardly, but not so bad as khek-pòk. kheng-pòk--lâng, to jest at people.

pòk-chēng, ungrateful to a friend; grown cold in friendship. pòk-chēng-lông, a man who abandons a woman with whom he has cohabited. hông-gân, to pòk-bēng, beautiful women are usually ill-fated.

tâm-pòk (P.), = tâm-pòh, a small quantity.

pòk-hô, peppermint. pòk-hô-iú, = pòh-hô-iú, oil of peppermint.

pòk (same word?). pòk-gān, a low basement, built at the foot of a wall or embankment to support it; a parapet on a terrace.

pòk [R. name of a plant]. nā<sup>n</sup>-pòk, carrots.

pòk (cf. phók). pòk-pòk-thiàu, to jump about, as a flea. pit-pit pòk-pòk, crackling sound, as of fire or twigs. pih-pih pòk-pòk, id.

pòk (C.) pòk-lê, = A. pō-lê, a large sort of dragon-fly.

pōng [R. name of a plant]. giū-pōng, a medicinal plant. giū-pōng-chí, its seeds.

pōng [R. the side]. pōng-pien, at the side, as by-standers (v. pien). lê-pōng-si, a corpse at the road-side. lê-pōng, id.

pōng [R. a room, a bedroom, = col. pāng]. būn-pōng sù-pó, the four valuables of a literary room, pen, ink, paper, and inkstone. hēng-pōng, to have sexual intercourse with wife or regular concubine. pōng-sū, such connubial intercourse.

pōng (R. id.) pōng-kong (R.), the scrotum.

pōng [R. tōng, the Tang dynasty; sudden; Chinese; = col. tūg]. pōng-tút, coming suddenly and unexpectedly.

pōng (cf. pāng), to splice on an additional piece, as on a mast or wooden pillar (as by iron hoops), either in first making or in mending, because the other piece is not thick or strong enough; to mend a wooden article by putting in new wood; to mend a dress by putting in a new piece below, without cutting out the old. pōng-

怕

駁

北

薄

箔

卜

北

駁

僕木薄

蔔

旁旁房膀唐

úi, to put on an extra piece of wood on a mast by iron hoops.

póng [R. an official list, = col. púg]. tóng-póng, having taken the Kujin degree at the same time. it-póng, rank of Kujin. líong-póng, rank of Tsin-sze. kim-póng, id. póng-siú, the first in the list of new graduates in any degree. póng-gán, the second of the Han-lin graduates.

póng (= phòng). ke-póng-tāng, to charge overweight.

póng [R. to slander]. húi-póng, to slander. iâu-giēn húi-póng, id. póng-lāng, to slander people. hong-póng, to raise false rumours, as of rebellion breaking out. hong-sia<sup>n</sup> póng-ia<sup>n</sup>, false or grossly exaggerated reports spread abroad injuriously.

póng (T. sometimes pōng). pìn - pìn - póng-póng, loud sound, as of heavy steps, or of moving about heavy things. pìn-póng-háu, such sounds made. póng-póng-háu, id. póng-póng-kiò, id.

póng — pìn-pìn póng-póng, dull heavy sound, as of a man walking heavily in next house. póng-póng-háu (T.), = A. póng-póng-háu, making a loud noise, as with feet. póng-póng-kiò (T.), id.

póng (cf. phōng, phóng). póng-póng-si<sup>n</sup>, breeding and multiplying abundantly, as animals or men.

póng (cf. pāng). σ - ien pìn - póng (smoke in great quantity suddenly filling the room), calamities suddenly coming; people rushing away in great fear from calamities. σ-ien pēh-póng, calamities or troubles coming on very suddenly (v. pēh).

póng — chhong-póng, too hurried and careless, so as to run against people or break things; acting rashly, so as to spoil a matter. chhióng-póng, id.

póng (= phōng). póng-song, loose and bulky, as parcel or dress.

póng [R. phong, sound of a stone falling; used colloquially "póng," in imitation of the foreign word], a foreign pound weight. beh-kè-póng, I will have it weighed to see how many pounds it is.

pōng (Cn.), = A. pēng. pōng-iú, a friend.

pu, to blow the fire with the mouth; to blow with a shell, as a man selling pork. pu-hé, to blow the fire with the mouth.

pú (R. pàu), to bake or roast in ashes or with a slow fire, as potatoes or taro; to treat with fire, as some drugs; to heat in the fire, as an iron; to cook rice soft (bê) in a small earthen pot. pû-kiu<sup>n</sup>, to roast ginger on burning charcoal so that the outside is charred. pû-tsām, to heat red-hot the wedges used for splitting granite, so as to make them ready for use again. pû-bê, to cook a little rice soft (especially in a small earthen vessel called e-á), as a poor or solitary man. pû e-á-bê, id. pû e-á, id. pû-sí, to be roasted to death, as in a burning house.

pû (R. pàu), a sort of gourd. pû-á, id. hē-lê-pû, a sort of gourd much larger at one end; a man talking falsely. hoe-táu-pû, the common large light green variegated gourd. ē-pû (T.), id. bân-siū-pû, the Papaya (it has male and female plants); its milky juice counted good for lactation. pû-hia, a calabash; also (T.), a wooden scoop or bowl made of one piece of wood. pû-khak, the empty shell of a gourd.

pú (T. sometimes bú). ka-nâng-pú, a whole heap; in the whole mass. chit-pú-thê, a heap or small mound of earth. chháu-pú, a luxuriant clump of grass or plants; a heap of cut grass, &c. tiū-pú (C.), a heap of cut rice. bēh-pú (C.), a heap of cut wheat or barley.

tsòe-pú, to come together or assemble, as two or more persons; sometimes said of sexual intercourse; to consummate the marriage with a daughter-in-law brought up in the house, often done in an irregular way (these phrases are not at all used in Cn., and not much in A.) tsò-pú (C.), id. tsòe chit-pú, id. tsòe-pú lái, all met together or assembled; all of them come. tsòe-pú kóng, to tell the whole matter at once without concealing any part. tsòe-pú teh-kóng, to talk all at once. tsòe-pú khiā, to live together.

pú (C.) pēh-pú, a plant with flowers in catkins and leaves downy beneath.

pú (C.) pú-thâu, = A. pé-thâu, a hatchet or axe.

pù (R. hù), rich. pù-táu, id. toā-pù, very rich. sió-pù, rich, but not very rich. thê-pù, rich, but ignorant; without culture or rank. kēng-iú pù-chhat (v. kēng).

pū (R. pāu), to sit on eggs or chicks; to hatch. pū-nng, to hatch eggs. pū koe-á, to sit on chicks.

pū — pū-lāng, to suppurate, as matter forming in a boil.

pū — chīm kàu-pū-pū-pū, soaked till quite saturated with water, as wood that is water-logged.

pū (cf. hū). hong pū-pū-hiú<sup>n</sup>, wind howling very loud.

pū (cf. tū). àu-pū-pū, morose and sulky.

pū [R. hū, a woman; a married woman; = col. bē]. sim-pū, a daughter-in-law. sim-pū-á, a little girl taken into the family in order to become daughter-in-law afterwards. sun-sim-pū, grandson's wife. take ū-chhùi, sim-pū bó-chhùi, the daughter-in-law must obey her mother-in-law. sin-sim-pū sóe tsàu-hiāh, new brooms sweep clean.

puh [R. hoat, to produce; to emit; = col. pauh], (C. pauh), to sprout or bud. puh-phāng-chhut-lái, to leak out, as a secret. puh-i<sup>n</sup>, to bud at the side. puh-iū<sup>n</sup>, to bud so as to make a prolongation of last year's shoot.

puh-phā, to get blistered (v. phā).

puh [R. pui, to bubble or boil]. puh kóng-á, to bubble up, as bubbles from anything fermenting, or as water from crab's holes (v. kóng). puh-teng (T.), bubbling, as in fermentation or corruption.

puh (T.) thê-puh-á (= A. phú), a sort of small insect.

púh (= phùh). chia<sup>n</sup> púh-púh, very insipid.

púh (cf. phók), sound, as of a man falling. púh-chit-ē, id.

pui (cf. kui), the gable end of a house. pui-thâu, the sharp top of a gable. liām pui-thâu, to make the gable head. siu pui-thâu, to build the gable end. siu-pui, id. pui-toā, the thick raised edges of the roof at the gable. thút-pui, roof of an addition made with the ridge in the same line as the original one, but lower. chhut-pui, eaves made to project very much in front, as in large houses.

pui (P.) tsu-pui, = A. tsu-bui, much pleased with one's self, as at success.

púi (R. húi), fat (not polite when said to a man); corpulent; rich, as land; manure; strong and closely woven, as cloth.

púi-chhân, rich rice-fields. èng-púi, to manure. lóh-púi, id. hē-púi, id.

諗

嗙

笨磅

呼

炮

瓠

富

氈

婦

發

肥

púi-sán, fat and lean; fertile and barren, as land (v. sán). púi-péh, fat and fair. púi-núg, fat and plump, as man or animal. púi-thún, short and stout. ôe-púi, id. púi-lui-lui, very fat. púi lut-lut, id. púi-phàng, very fat (said in praise). púi-phiàng, id. púi-phông, id. púi-phauh, id., as child or young boy.

púi-ti, a black medicinal legume; a fat pig-like fellow, said in scolding (v. ti). púi-tsô, a sort of blackish soap; said also for the legume called púi-ti.

chiáh-púi, to eat so as to grow fat. chiáh-púi, thang-hê--lâng thâi-bah, said of an utterly useless man who only eats and amuses himself, as if fattened for slaughter. chiáh-bôe-púi, unable to get fat; when said of one's self, "I am so constantly anxious about many matters;" when said of or to another, implies that he is too covetous and unfair, but all he gets will not make him fat. púi kàu-bô-bák-chiu, so fat as to have no eyes. púi kàu bô-khoà--ki<sup>n</sup> chhiú-bák, hand so fat that the knuckles disappear.

púi (R. id.) púi-á, small pimples; prickly heat. hoat-púi, to have such pimples. si<sup>n</sup>-púi, id. púi-chhùi, the head of a pimple. púi-á-chhùi, id. púi-kat (T.), pimples and eruptions on child's head. hoat kàu chit-thâu chit-bin púi, face and head all over prickly heat. chhioh-púi-á-thâng (C.), a small caterpillar that makes the skin itch by crawling over it.

púi [R. to bubble and boil, = col. puh, pui]. púi--chhut-lâi, to boil over. púi--khí-lâi, id.

púi [R. pui, to boil]. ám-púi, coagulated scum of rice-water (Cn. ám-phi). mǎi<sup>n</sup>-púi (Cn.), scum of soft-boiled rice.

púi [R. hui or hui, name of insect; cf. gūi, búi, phūi]. chhiū-púi, a sort of stinking insect (T. jiō-phūi). chiòh-púi (C.), id. ám-púi (Cn.), id. (s. scum).

púi (R. hui), to bark; to bark at. ngáu<sup>n</sup>-ngáu<sup>n</sup>-púi, barking away. háu<sup>n</sup>-háu<sup>n</sup>-púi, id. khòng-khòng-púi, to bark very loud. chhi-káu, púi ka-ki, to be requited with ingratitude.

púi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. png, a surname.

púi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. png, a large tree, the Liquidambar formosanus. púi<sup>n</sup>-leng, its juice (v. leng). púi<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. siú<sup>n</sup>). chiòh-púi<sup>n</sup>, a very hard wood, used for the teeth of a rice-cleaning mill.

púi<sup>n</sup> (C.), [R. bong, wind]. púi<sup>n</sup>-sí-hê, a sudden heavy fall of rain, as in a squall. púi<sup>n</sup>-sí-hong, a sudden squall. kí púi<sup>n</sup>-sí, a sudden squall rising.

púi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. pêng, a side.

púi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. pêng, to turn. phah-púi<sup>n</sup>, to cheat or swindle.

púi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. png, rice boiled dry and entire. púi<sup>n</sup>-lê, = A. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-lî, a rice-strainer.

púih (T.) púih-chhùi, to scold each other slightly.

púih (R. poát, = col. poáb, phoáb), (C. pèb, pòeh; Cn. pòeb), to draw out; to pull up; to stretch out lengthwise. ôe-púih, a shoe-lifter. púih-ôe, to put up the heels of shoes (that were worn slipshod with heels down), and so pull them on. púih-hoe, to pull flowers out of the hair. púih tek-than, to dredge for a sort of spout-fish. púih-to, to draw a sword. púih-kiám, id. khui-chí<sup>n</sup> púih-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, to draw away a neighbour's custom by opening a new shop next door (lit. take away his spring by a new well).

púih-tng, to pull a thing out to its full length. púih tit-tit, to pull out straight, as rope or cloth.

khùn kàu-púih-tit-tit, to lie in bed stretched out quite straight.

thoa-púih, to urge a friend strongly, trying to get him to go along with us. thoa-thoa púih-púih, id. bôe-kham--tit i thoa-púih, could not resist his urgency (and so went with him). kióng-thoa kióng-púih, to use very strong pressure to get a person to go with us. kióng-púih, id. kióng-púih--tsáu, to draw a man out of danger and hurry away.

péh-púih, very poor and miserable. ke-sū pèh-púih, very ill off for money. pi<sup>n</sup>-púih--lâng, to bring a man into great poverty and straits by throwing one's self on him for support, though it was very hard for him to get on before. khít--i pi<sup>n</sup>-púih, to be thus brought to the lowest poverty.

pún (R. hun), to divide; to distribute; to separate; to adopt, as a child. sa<sup>n</sup>-pún, to divide among one another. pún-phi<sup>n</sup>, to divide what is not enough for all, so that each gets some part. pún-phê<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. pún ke-hé, to divide family possessions. pún-ké, to divide profits according to shares. sa<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, pún toā-hūn, to wrangle for the lion's share (v. hūn). pún bôe-tit-si, not enough for all. pún-kui-lūi, to assort.

ū-pún-tiu<sup>n</sup>, generous, fond of making presents to others, as children. pún-sim (C.), just and fair in dealings. chiàu-pún, to divide equally (as gains), giving equal shares to all. chhiu-hun, mǎi<sup>n</sup>-jit pi<sup>n</sup>-pún, at autumnal equinox day and night are equal.

pún-chheh, to distribute books. pún-toa<sup>n</sup>, to send out accounts or notices (v. toa<sup>n</sup>). pún-piá<sup>n</sup>, to distribute cakes, so as to make a confederacy or conspiracy. pún-phoe, to distribute letters, sometimes for similar purpose.

pún-chiáh, to beg, as a beggar; a beggar. pún--chiáh, to make arrangements to have meals separate from each other. pún-khui-chiáh, id.

pún-thiah, to separate, as partners. pún-soa<sup>n</sup>, to be dispersed, as members of a family. pún-khui, to separate; to part; to go apart. pún-li, id. pún-lê, to part company going different roads, as at a division of the road; to branch off, as roads.

pún (C.) pún-ta<sup>n</sup>, = A. pin-ta<sup>n</sup>, a pole for carrying loads on the shoulder.

pún (C.) pún-núg, = A. pin-núg, the areca nut, &c.

pún (C.) pún-toa<sup>n</sup>, = pin-toa<sup>n</sup>, lazy.

pún (R. hún, pún), to blow with the mouth. pún-hong, id. pún-khui, to breathe heavily. pún-khi, id. pún-phi<sup>n</sup>, to blow in an angry way through the nose. thê-khui pún-hái<sup>n</sup>, to sigh and groan bitterly. pún-hé, to blow the fire or a match; to blow out a light. pún-hoa-hé, to blow out a light. pún-sit-hé (Cn. T.), id. pún-lê, to blow on a shell, as man selling pork. pún-chhe, to blow a sort of clarinet (v. chhe), (and so with other wind instruments). pún thng-á-teng, to blow bubbles of bék-lê-ko (v. teng, "bubbles").

pún-bin--ê, having a silver coating over base metal, as dollars.

pún [R. the root], origin; originally; naturally; capital of money; a volume; classifier of books; a memorial to the emperor. toā-pún, large capital; a large plant or book; large as a shop.

bók-pún, woody or shrubby, as plant. chhó-pún, herbaceous, as plant. pún-chhó, the Chinese book of botany, or herbal.

癩
沸
蠟
吠
風

分

歎

本

pún-sū, talent. hó-pún-léng, talented; skilful. láu-pún, experienced.

kun-pún, origin. goân-pún, id.; originally. pún-goân, origin (v. goân). ti-un pò-pún, to be grateful to parents. pún-jiên, originally. pún-lâi, id. pún-chiá, id. pún-ú, originally has, or there is. pún-bô, originally has not, or there is not. pún-ài, originally desire. goá pún-tsai, I know it already (so with many other verbs). pún-sek, original colour; unbleached. pún kin-ná-jit, this very day. pún siông-sí, on all previous occasions; in past time regularly.

pún-téng, one's own proper duties; naturally (v. téng). pún-hūn, duty; proper business (v. hūn).

pún-sin, one's self; self; myself; yourself; himself, &c. goá pún-sin, I myself (&c.) pún-sin-lâng, one's self; the very man himself (or myself, &c.) pún-lâng, id. pún sé-tsai, original place; native place or place of long residence. pún-kok, native country; my own country. pún-tôe, native place. pún-tôe-lâng, natives of the place. pún-tôe-ôe, vernacular language. pún-tôe-hiú<sup>n</sup> bôe-phang, native articles are despised. pún-hú, the prefect of our department; said also by him of himself. pún-koái<sup>n</sup>, the hien mandarin of our district; said also by him of himself.

pún-thâu, master of female slave, especially said by herself.

chhiú-pún, a folded book of red paper for writing a petition to a mandarin; the petition itself. jip chhiú-pún, to send it in. ti chhiú-pún, id. pài-pún, to send up a memorial to the emperor. chiū<sup>n</sup>-pún, id.; also, the previous volume of a book. téng-pún, the previous volume, or the first of two. sôe-pún, a small volume. chit-pún-chheh, one volume; one book of one volume.

kám-pún, the square regularly formed characters, printed or written.

pún-chi<sup>n</sup>, capital in business; member's ticket of the Triad society. láu-pún, portion set apart for wife when she becomes a widow. bô-pún, without capital. kè-pún, cautious in trade; careful in the use of one's capital. khah-siong-pún, too expensive. chioh-pún, to borrow capital. chiah-pún, to live on one's capital, instead of on gains. sih-pún, to sell at a loss. khui-pún, id. lap-pún, to lose money in trade. bôe-kau-pún, not up to cost price. chiau-pún bôe, to sell at prime cost. che-sí goá chiau-pún ê-kè, this is just what I paid for it. sió-pún to-lí, small capital and great profits. tsòe-pún, to be used as capital. chéng-pún, to invest capital. hē-pún, id. hē-tāng-pún, to invest a great deal of money. chhut-pún, to lay out money; to invest capital. chhut-pún hē-hoan, to pay money in advance for a friend (v. hoan).

pún (R. pún). pún-ki, a hod or basket with handles (hī), for mortar, &c. (v. hī).

pún (R. hūn), dung; manure. pún-sò, dirt. pún-táu, a scoop for dirt and sweepings, with a handle. pún-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, do., with no handle. pún-hia, a bucket fastened on a pole for lading out fluid or half fluid manure. pún-kháu, the anus. pún-te (C.), an ashpit.

khioh-pún, to gather manure. èng-pún, to manure. lóh-pún, id. pàng-pún, to go to stool. sio-pún, to burn weeds, grass, straw, &c., mixed with earth in alternate layers for manure. sio kòe-ní<sup>n</sup>-pún (C.), to burn small heaps of rubbish mixed with earth on the last night of the year.

pún, broken by rocks or by the banks, as the flow of the tide, so as to make eddies. tò-pún, id. tò-pún-lâu, tide thus broken and eddying. láu pún, id. hong tò-pún, the wind eddying in heavy gusts.

pún (R. id.), awkward, clumsy, and slow, e.g. ready to fall or to strike against things when trying to go faster; unwieldy, as man with too many clothes, or as vessel too heavily laden; dull, as a sound. pún-chhêng, awkward, clumsy, coarse, and ugly, as man or thing. pún-chhiáng, id.; vulgar (v. chhiáng). chhê-pún, clumsy; ill-formed; awkward-looking. chhún-pún, vulgar; clownish; clumsy; quite wanting in propriety; coarse, as language. kóng-ôe chhún-pún, to talk very coarsely and vulgarly. im khah-pún, the sound is dull and indistinct, not sharp and clear. pí<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup>-lê poáh-sí pún-ti-bú (the clumsy fat pig falls and is killed on a level road), said of a man failing because he thought it was all right.

khah áu-pún, the sail must be quite full, as in tacking.

pún [R. the coarse part of the bamboo; used also for the former word]. tek-pún, coarse bamboo hurdles.

pún, the deck of a vessel. pún-bin, the deck. pún-téng, on the deck. pún-kiáh, the strong wooden knees nailed to the deck and to the sides to support the sides. pún-thiu, the long strong horizontal timbers close by the hatches, that run from one end of a junk to the other. tiong-pún, the lower or second deck. jī-pún, id. jī-iên-pún, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-iên-pún, the third deck. sa<sup>n</sup>-pún, id.

put [R. not; will not; = col. m]. put-chí, very —; extremely — (not so much used by the Chinese as some other phrases of same meaning). put-chí-hó, very good (&c.) put-sí, in the wrong (v. sí). put-siong-kan, setting a bad example to inferiors. put-pêng, indignant at injustice to another (v. pêng).

put-lūn, no matter which —. put-koán, id. put-khu, id. put-jit, some day soon, not fixing what day. put-sí, at any time; always (v. sí). tang-sai, bû-sé-put, willing to take anything (v. sé).

put-tán, not only —. put-kò, only (v. kò). put-kè kí-sé, innumerable. bû-sé put-chi, addicted to all sorts of wickedness (v. sé). put-ti, of various sorts or opinions. put-tông, different (v. tông). put-téng, of different qualities of the same kind of article (v. téng). put-téng, not yet fixed. put-pit, it is better not to —. put-kip, to be inferior to. put-ti, it will not have the (hurtful) effect —. put-tê, to fail in getting a degree. put-tek put-tiòh-kóng, cannot but speak, though unwilling. put-ti-chiok, insatiable (v. ti; v. chiok). put-siòk, superior to the common average of persons. put-jin, cruel; unfeeling. put-hàu, unfilial; disobedient to parents. put-siàu, id. put-hô, at variance, as persons or evidence. put-tiong, unfaithful to employer or superior.

put [R. pat, a rake without teeth; a scraper]. pê-put, a sort of wooden shovel or hoe. pê-put-á, id. kiáh pê-put, ka-kí kóng-hiáh, to raise a matter that injures one's self.

put (R. pat?), to scrape together, as corn, sand, &c. put-lut, id. put-thê, to scrape earth together. put pún-sò, to scrape dirt together, as for manure. thàn-chi<sup>n</sup>, ná<sup>n</sup> teh-put-kim, to earn money, as if shovelling it up. put-gún, said of making great gain.

put (R. hüt), (C. "hüt" in more literary phrases; "ang" in more colloquial), Buddha; a Buddhist idol; any image, even sometimes those that are not for wor-

沐

体体笨

笨

不

扒

扒

佛

畚
箕

ship. pút-á, a small idol; a small image or figure. pút-lá, id. pút-á-pò, a storm about 4.4. pút-á-thâu, a head without a body, used as a child's toy. pút-á-thê, clay for making idols or images. thê-pút-á, small clay figures used as toys by children. ná<sup>n</sup> thê-pút-á, idle and stupid, like a clay image. pút-bák, having immovable eyes.

pút-kong, an idol; a god. sín-pút, spirits and idols; objects of worship. pút-siông, an image or picture of an idol (properly Buddhist). chit-sien-pút, a solid image. chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>-pút, a picture of an idol (or of idols) not yet pasted on rollers. chit-pak-pút, do. pasted on rollers. oáh-pút, a living Buddha; the Dalai Lama or one of the other living Buddhas. tsng oáh-pút, to be a barber (+). chhài-pút, idols to which no animal food is offered. tang-sai-pút, said of the feuds of the votaries of different idols, as at Chin-chew city. pút-tsé, Kwan-yin. koan-im pút-tsé, id. sek-hia pút-tsé (T.), Shakya-muni; Buddha. tán pút-tsé (T.), to levy black-mail on road (v. tán).

tsng-pút, to make idols (+). chhài-pút, to set up and serve an idol. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-pút, to invite the spirit of an idol to enter the image or to come on a sorcerer; to invite an idol to move somewhere else. pài-pút, to make obeisance to an idol. hàu-pút, to make offerings to an idol. hók-sái pút, to worship idols. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-pút, to carry idols about in procession. kng-pút, to carry an idol between two men. mng-pút, to consult an idol. koan-pút, to call the spirit of an idol to a medium or to a branch for writing oracles.

siá pút-jí, to trace characters by a branch held (by táng-chí) before an idol. khoà<sup>n</sup> pút-jí, to examine these characters and interpret the oracle, as Taoist priests do. pút-ióh, medicine prescribed by idols. pút-toá<sup>n</sup>, place screened off in a house for pictures of idols, in some rites (v. toá<sup>n</sup>). pút-tiú<sup>n</sup>, curtains hung up before an idol's shrine. tióh pút-thâu, to have the turn for a year of cultivating a field and worshipping an idol held in common. tsòe pút-thâu, id.

pút [R. poát, a cymbal, = col. poáh]. ná<sup>n</sup>-á-pút, = ná<sup>n</sup>-á-poát, the guava. chhâ ná<sup>n</sup>-á-pút, a very hard medicinal fruit that grows on a thorny shrub.

pút [R. intractable; a comet]. liú-pút thài-sòe, the demon which causes eclipses by appearing naked, so that the luminary runs away ashamed. thng kàu chit-sien ná<sup>n</sup> liú-pút--nih<sup>n</sup>, as naked as the eclipse demon (said in scolding a naked child).

鏡亭

PH.

抛

pha (R. phau), (C. phoa), to throw out, especially with a circular motion; to cast anchor; to throw out a net. pha-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to anchor. pha-bāng, to cast a net. pha-hí, to catch fish by casting a net.

pha-hng, to lay waste; waste; desert.

pha lién-pó, to gamble in the manner called "lién-pó" (v. pó).

pha-lái pha-khi, to go round and round in a circle, as a boy at play, or as a man on horseback. koh--tsài pha--lái, to turn round and come back. chit-jit pha-pha-tsáu, to go about idly, as truant boy, or as idle fellow spending money on low amusements; to leave one's master's work for amusement or for one's own business. si-úi pha chit-lin-tng, to make a circuit fully round a place. chhia pha-lin-táu, to make a somerset. pha ki-lin, to throw one's body sidewise round like a wheel.

pha (R. phau). lān-pha, the scrotum. toā-pha, having a very large scrotum; hydrocele, or similar diseases of that part.

pha [R. pa, pha, a bunch, as of flowers], a bunch of fruit like grapes or lung-yen; classifier of large tails or queues (of men or animals), also of flames and lights. toā-pha-bé, a large tail, of animal (v. bé). chit-pha thâu-tsang, one large thick queue. nng-pha-hé, two lamps burning; two lights.

phà (=phà). āng phà-phà, very red.

phā — phī-phā-háu, sound of flames blazing fiercely when blown upon by wind. phā-phā-háu, noise of fire. phā-phā-tóh, to blaze up fiercely, as fire (v. tóh).

āng-phā-phā (=phà), very red, as fruit. ŋg phā-phā, very yellow, as fruit.

phā (R. phàu), a bubble. tsúi-phā, bubbles on water (s. blister).

phā [R. phāu, phàu, = col. phauh], a blister. tsúi-

胞脬

肥

泡

phā, id. (s. bubble). phòng-phā, to rise in blisters. puh-phā, id. thng kàu puh-phā, scalded and blistered. khi chit-phā, a blister formed.

a-phien-phā, a pellet of opium prepared in the flame, carried in the pocket, and often swallowed when there is no opportunity for smoking. hun-phā, id. sio hun-phā, to prepare such a pellet in the flame.

phā (same word?) ū-phā, prosperous, as man; prospering, growing rich, and powerful; beautiful, as things. ké-ū-phā, assuming airs of great consequence. chit-niū<sup>n</sup>, chit-ū-phā, the more you yield the more he will insist on, as a spoiled child. bô-phā, without any influence or ability.

phā<sup>n</sup> (cf. phò), hollow; porous; not solid; too soft; good for nothing; false. teng-phā<sup>n</sup>, solid and soft, &c. khang-phā<sup>n</sup>, empty; hollow (lit. or fig.) tē-lāi khang-phā<sup>n</sup>, empty; illiterate. phā<sup>n</sup>-phuh, corpulent and flabby, seeming strong, but really of weak constitution; said also of things that seem large and good, but are hollow within. toā-phā<sup>n</sup>--ê, large soft inferior potatoes.

phā<sup>n</sup>-ké, empty stories. kóng phā<sup>n</sup>-ké, to tell baseless or exaggerated stories for amusement. kóng phā<sup>n</sup>-tām, id.

phā<sup>n</sup>-sok, a wood from which incense is made. phā<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, soft or porous wood. phā<sup>n</sup>-chióh, porous stone. phā<sup>n</sup>-chhek, empty rice chaff (v. chhek). phā<sup>n</sup>-chhih, crabs that have almost no meat in them.

phā<sup>n</sup> [R. to fear; be afraid of; cf. col. poeh]. khū-phā<sup>n</sup>, to fear greatly. ti-hoat phā<sup>n</sup>-hoat, they who know the law should obey it (v. hoat). chin-kim put-phā<sup>n</sup>-hé, real gold fears not fire. iú-hong, put-phā<sup>n</sup>-lāu, having the wind we need not fear the tide. tióng-sin put-phā<sup>n</sup>-sí, a faithful statesman fears not death. jīn phā<sup>n</sup>-ló; chè phā<sup>n</sup>-thó, men

冇

怕

fear old age, debtors fear the demand for payment. siù-tsai phà' sòe-khó, Sew-tsai graduates fear their examinations.

phah (R. phok), to strike; to beat; to work in a substance; to make; to cause (used as an auxiliary); to have, as some diseases, &c.; to copulate (vulg.); to shoot; to invade; to attack; to take, as a city.

sa<sup>n</sup>-phah, to fight with fists. phah-mē<sup>n</sup>, to fight and scold. phah-kún, to beat one's self, as men in the streets. phín-phah, threatening to beat, as an overbearing man. phah kúi-ē, how many strokes did he beat? phah kúi-ē, how many men did he beat? phah-tui, two men fencing. phah-tui, two troops at sham fight, as in drill. phah-chhiú, to fight for amusement, as actors and low characters. phah-chhèng, to shoot with a gun. phah-bōe-tiōh, the ball cannot reach him.

phah ien-chhun, to set quails a fighting.

phah-su, to be overcome in boxing, or such contest. phah-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to conquer. phah-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to beat a man who had first beaten us, as in beating or gambling (v. phiá<sup>n</sup>). phah-piá<sup>n</sup>, to fight for life or death; to make a very dangerous venture (v. piá<sup>n</sup>). phah-poh, id. phah-kéh, to act intentionally opposite to the wish of a superior or partner (v. kéh).

phah-sí, to strike dead; to kill. phah-sí-lâng, to kill a man. phah-siong, to wound. phah-phoá, to break. phah-chih, id. phah-tŭg, to break, as a thread. phah-tó, to knock down, as a thing. phah-poáh, to make to fall, as a child (v. poáh). phah-súg, to spoil; to waste (v. súg). phah-phái<sup>n</sup>, to spoil. phah-soá<sup>n</sup>, to scatter. phah-koá<sup>n</sup>, to drive away. phah-tsáu--khì, to drive away, as birds; dead. phah-tsâm, to prevent a plan or quarrel, &c., by speaking betimes against it. phah-hoa, to extinguish. phah-sit (Cn.), id. (v. sit).

phah ka-láuh, to let fall. phah-lòh-sin, to cause a miscarriage. phah-thút-sin, id. (v. thút). phah-thút, to put a joint out of gear, as of machine, or of furniture. phah-lut, to let something slip out of place (v. lut). phah sit-lòh, to lose. phah-m-ki<sup>n</sup>, id. phah-bô, to lose, or let a thing be spoiled or lost in our hands. phah-bô--khì, id. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to waken another unintentionally. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>-kia<sup>n</sup>, to startle or scare. phah-lâng bô-hong-sin, to put a man openly to shame by scolding him.

phah-khang, to open a way, as for a situation, or for making money out of a man (v. kang). phah sa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to open a communication, as between two rooms. phah koa<sup>n</sup>-si, to litigate. phah-chiò, sailors taking their idol to a temple, and having rites there. phah hi-phûn, to act a sort of plays for the dead. phah-ún, to work together, and divide profits about equally. têng-thâu phah-khí, do it all over again from the beginning (v. khí). phah-thâu-tùi, to sell a female slave to become the legitimate wife of her purchaser.

phah-sng, to calculate; to suppose (v. sng). phah-chiet, to take off discount. phah bé-á, to write down a sum in numerals (v. bé). phah-kè, to propose a price (as a third party) to the buyer and seller. phah-phièn, to deceive. phah lê-á, to talk or joke idly. phah chhiu-hong, to get some help (by asking) from a friend, as money or things, not expected to be repaid. phah thong-thò, to conspire against a man. phah-tat, to make a plan, as for building, or for an accusation (v. tat).

phah-hô, to make a mark. phah-chhe, to mark with a diagonal cross (thus ×). phah chhiú-in, to make the print of one's hand with ink (v. in). phah-kó, to write a rough draft (v. kó). phah-phiò, to make out a pawn-ticket.

phah-phê, to spread a bed or mat to sleep on. phah kong-koán, to make ready a lodging, as for a mandarin. phah-thi<sup>n</sup>, to put in a support (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). phah-pê, to fasten wood or bamboo on the sides of a junk for transport. phah-thiàu, to lay a plank, as for a gangway; to make a scaffolding for a house. phah pè-thâu, to make a new landing-place and mart. phah chit-téng-kiò, to make ready a sedan for a journey.

phah-liú, to make a knot, used as a button (v. liú). phah-kat, to make a knot (v. kat). phah-khê, to make a hoop (v. khê). phah pé-thâu, to make an axe. phah-soh, to make ropes. phah-phâng, to manufacture sails. phah-chhiòh, to make mats. phah-bâng, to make a net. phah tiò-á, to make fish-hooks. phah-to, to make a knife. phah chien-sí, to make a large spoon.

phah-thih, to work in iron (v. thih). phah-tin, to work in rattan. phah-chiòh, to work in stone, quarrying or cutting. phah-jī, to cut words in stone. phah-mī<sup>n</sup>, to make a sort of preparation of dough (v. mī<sup>n</sup>). phah-mī<sup>n</sup>, to beat cotton with a bow. phah-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to work up the indigo plant in the vat, extracting the indigo. phah-iâm, to manufacture salt. phah-lé, to make a sort of briny sauce.

phah-m, to produce flower-buds.

phah-eh, to belch or hiccup. phah-uh, id. phah-ka-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to sneeze. phah-chhin, to take a cold or ague. phah-koá<sup>n</sup> phah-jiét, to have fever and ague. si<sup>n</sup>-chhng phah-láu, to have venereal sores. phah hong-tók, to have venereal or rheumatic sores.

phah-hé, to strike fire with a flint or match. phah-hún, to smear with face powder. phah-chéng (vulg.), to copulate, as animals. phah-lân, to take off fish scales. phah chhim-khín, to take soundings. phah tsúi-pân, id. phah tsúi-tò, id. with lead. phah-tsúi, to take in water for use, as vessel. phah-iú (T.), to buy oil.

phah-siá<sup>n</sup>, to take a city. phah tē-gék, to rescue souls from the Buddhist hell. phah-mŭg, to knock at a door. phah-bô-mŭg, to knock, but not get in. phah-chiáu, to shoot birds. phah-láh, to hunt. phah-hé, to hunt tigers. phah-phék, to beat time with the "phek." phah-lò, to beat a gong. phah-ké, to beat a drum (v. ké).

khit-hong phah, to be driven out of course by a violent wind. khit-lúi phah, to be struck by lightning. khit koái-hong phah, to be taken with an incurable palsy on one side of the face. phah--tióh i sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-tòe, to speak so as to touch his heart with the feeling of his wickedness.

ū-phoá-phah, to have some fault, as man or thing (v. phoá).

phah-tsŭg, a sort of drill worked by means of a hammer (v. tsŭg).

phài [R. to branch, as streams; a division of a clan; a sort], a division of a clan larger than "thiàu;" to allot. tsong-phài, a clan. tsók-phài, a division of a clan. chi-phài (R.), id. tâng-phài, belonging to the same great branch. chhin-phài, closely related, as ancestors and posterity of same surname within five generations. phài-ē, branch of clan; direct posterity in relation to their ancestor.

phài-phe, to anticipate; to conjecture beforehand (v. phe). bô-phài-pân (C.), unexpectedly.

撲

派

sí-phài, fashionable form of dress. sái-phài, proud, overbearing, and lofty in bearing. sái phài-thâu, id. kek phài-thâu, to affect to be a man of importance; to talk or behave in a proud overbearing way. kek koa<sup>n</sup>-phài, to affect the style or manner of mandarins or of their relations. kek ũ-chi<sup>n</sup>-phài, to affect the airs and appearance of a wealthy man when really not so. jī-phài, the style of hand of a good writer.

phài-ióh, to prescribe medicine. phài-giáh, to make provision for a specified number (v. giáh). phài-poah, to appoint (men) to their several duties. hun-phài, id.; to allot. khe-phài, to allot and collect the shares of contributions which each is to pay, as to some governmental impost or local public fund. phài-iám-siong, to compel a man to farm the salt tax. phài-kun-su, to levy contributions (nominally) for the army. phài-hù-hē, to levy imposts (squeezes or benevolences) from the wealthy. phài-chhái-mái<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. mái<sup>n</sup>).

phai<sup>n</sup> (=phai<sup>n</sup>), sound of gongs.

phái<sup>n</sup>, bad; spoiled; at variance, as persons; wicked; wickedness; sin. hó-phái<sup>n</sup>, good and bad (v. hó). phái<sup>n</sup>-lâng, a bad man. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a lascivious person; a robber or rowdy (v. kiá<sup>n</sup>). phái<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip kut-chhé, very very wicked. phái<sup>n</sup>-sim, a wicked injurious heart; very unjust or cruel. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-jíu<sup>n</sup>, to pilfer. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet; a man who does great injury (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). i ná<sup>n</sup>-teh-phái<sup>n</sup>, he is getting on worse and worse. phah-phái<sup>n</sup>, to spoil; to be spoiled; to die; dead, as a child. phái<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, bad weather. thi<sup>n</sup> beh-tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>, it is going to be bad weather. tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>, to behave wickedly. tsò-phái<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tsò-phái<sup>n</sup>, to spoil by rough writing or very black erasure, as pen or document.

kap-i-phái<sup>n</sup>, at variance with him.

phái<sup>n</sup>-kóng, not suitable to talk about. put-chí phái<sup>n</sup>-kóng-oe, very difficult to talk over to our views. phái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, difficult to walk upon; not safe for travelling. phái<sup>n</sup>-êng, not suitable for use. phái<sup>n</sup>-giá, troublesome to carry, as a large table. phái<sup>n</sup>-sè, unsuitable; awkward; inconvenient (v. sè). phái<sup>n</sup>-sì (C.), id. phái<sup>n</sup>-sín-khì, feeling of awkwardness and shame, as at being rebuked by a superior, or having to speak against a relative, benefactor, or friend. phái<sup>n</sup>-sêng-khì, id. phah-lâng phái<sup>n</sup>-sêng-khì, to put a man openly to shame by finding fault with him, as a superior.

phái<sup>n</sup>-tái, wickedness; death or great calamity. tú-tiòh phái<sup>n</sup>-tái, to have a death in one's family, &c. phái<sup>n</sup>-oe, bad language; ill-omened language. kóng i tsú-lâng ê-phái<sup>n</sup>-oe, to tell stories (true or false) of his master's bad conduct. phái<sup>n</sup>-sí, violent or painful death; very wicked or unjust (v. sí). phái<sup>n</sup>-pī<sup>n</sup>, a very sudden and fatal disease. phái<sup>n</sup>-kè, a very low price (said by seller).

phai<sup>n</sup> (=phai<sup>n</sup>), sound of gongs. phai<sup>n</sup>-phai<sup>n</sup>-háu, sounding loud, as gongs.

phai<sup>n</sup> (C.), to carry on the back of the shoulder, as child or thing. phai<sup>n</sup> tah-liên, to carry a double bag hanging over the shoulder.

phak [R. hok, to overturn; to upset], to invert; to lie with the face down; to turn a cup, &c., with the mouth down. phak-lak, many things or persons inverted or on their faces. thâu-khak phak-phak, head bent down. hí-á phak-phak, ears standing out too much so as almost to cover the opening (said to be like a pig). phak-chhiò, odds and evens; heads and tails (v. chhiò). phak-chhiú, the hand with the palm downwards. phak-tsò, the raised row of inverted tiles between the furrows of a tiled roof. phak-lek-soà<sup>n</sup>, sort of bead moulding. phak-io (T.), shoulders bent, as an old man or yamun man. phak-bê, the 40th radical. phak-sün-têng, a small open portico on pillars at a door. phak-oá<sup>n</sup>, to lay down a bowl inverted; an inverted bowl. phak-tiá<sup>n</sup>, an inverted rice-boiler (v. tiá<sup>n</sup>). kúi-phak, to kneel and prostrate one's self. phí-phak-à<sup>n</sup>, bending forward with arms stretched out, as if about to fall.

thán-phak, laid with mouth down, as bowl or cup; lying on the face. péng-phak, to invert with mouth down; to turn on the face or belly. péng-thán-phak, id. péng ka-lán-phak, id. péng-phak-khùn, to sleep on one's face. péng-phak teh-khùn, id. phak-teh-khùn, to lean one's head on the hands while sitting, and so fall asleep. phak-teh-thia<sup>n</sup>, to listen secretly (with head bent down), as at a door. phak-teh-pài, to kneel and bow very low. phak-tè-hé, a sodomite (lit. tiger on face).

phak [R. phok, simple and plain, = col. phoh], phak-sè, simple in taste, as man; plain and simple; not gaudy, as dress. phak-sit, plain and simple in dress, manners, &c.; not fond of display or boisterous mirth. khiám-phak, economical, as person. chit-phak, quiet in taste, not fond of display.

hē-phak, a thick medicinal bark (v. hē).

phák [R. pō, violent; to scorch; = col. pāu, pē, &c.], to sun; to dry in the sun. phák-jit, id. phák-ta, to dry in the sun. phák-pa, to dry eatables in the sun (v. pa). phák-koa<sup>n</sup>, to dry fruit, &c., in the sun. phák-iám, to make salt by evaporation. jit phák, the sun dries or scorches.

phák (cf. hók). mng-phák, the two upright pieces of wood, one on each leaf of folding-doors, in which the door-bolts are fastened. téng-phák, the piece of wood nailed on the end of the lintel to receive the upper projection (mng-lún) of the axis of the door-leaf, which serves as a hinge. f<sup>n</sup>-phák, a small piece of wood nailed on a sloping beam to keep the rafter from sliding down.

phan [R. to pull]. gâu phan-kè, skilful at getting a good price for one's goods. goá beh kophan-lí, will you kindly come along with me, sir! (said to a man of some influence or ability, either wishing to show him attention, or wishing his assistance in going to speak to some one else). lí hē-goá kophan-cheh, id. chhiú phan tan-kùi (R.), to become a Tsin-sze (v. kùi). phan-heng-thâu (T.), the upper corner of the flap of a dress where it is buttoned.

phàn (R. id.) liú-phàn, the double cord sewed on the edge of a dress, ending either in the knot that serves as a button, or in the loop that serves for a button-hole. ôe-phàn, loops at sides of woman's or child's shoe for tying it on; also, the strip of cloth between the two ribs on the toe of a double-ribbed shoe.

phang (R. hong), sweet smell; fragrant; savoury. phang-chhàu, fragrant and stinking (v. chhàu). phang phut-phut, very fragrant. chheng-phang, gently and pleasantly fragrant, not too strong. phang-bī, sweet odour or flavour. phang-hiu<sup>n</sup>, sweet incense (v. hiu<sup>n</sup>). ká-phang, to eat sweet-flavoured things (v. ká).

bí-phang, a lozenge-shaped cake of rice and sugar. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang, a lozenge-shaped cake containing hempseed. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang-chhoáh, diagonal lattice-work. moá<sup>n</sup>-phang-hoân, lozenge-shaped, or diamond-shaped.

歹

朴

暴

攀

襟

芳

覆

蜂

phang (R. hong), a bee; a wasp. bit-phang, a honey-bee. ng-phang, id. ng-io-phang, id. ng-phang chhut-siū, people in great crowds (lit. bees from nests). thê-kàng-phang, sort of bee that has its nest in the ground. kak-phang, a wasp. hé-thâu-phang, id. er-têng-phang, a sort of wasp. khit-phang têng--tiòh, stung by a bee or wasp.

phang-bit, honey. phang-lâh, bees' wax. phang-hê, larva of bee or wasp. phang-tû, a bee-hive. phang-siū, nest of bee or wasp. phang-siū-eng, a large boil or carbuncle opening at several places. phang-siū-pè, carbuncle on back, sloughing at several places.

phâng (R. hong, phông), a sail. tsûn-phâng, id. gê-phâng, a long large boat plying up the Chang-chew river. chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-phâng, on one tack.

phoà-phâng, a bit of a rainbow appearing only at the end. chhut phoà-phâng, tsúi lâu-lâng, when only the end of a rainbow appears, people will be drowned.

phâng-bé-tiah, a sort of secret slang language.

phâng-bin, the starboard or right-hand side of a junk. phâng-kám, a mat cover. phâng-kóng, small bamboo instrument for throwing water on the sail. phâng-chhùi, the rope fastening the end of the lower yard or boom to the mast. phâng-kûn, an extra sail below the main-sail. phâng-liâu, the small ropes which meet in the main sheet (v. liâu). phâng-kè, the frame for the sail to rest upon when taken down. phâng-táh, the swinging support for the sail when partially down. phâng-pè, canvas.

phah-phâng, to manufacture a sail. tiu<sup>n</sup>-phâng, to fit a new sail to the boat, putting on the ropes, &c. chhia-phâng, to hoist up the sail; to spread sail. lòh-phâng, to furl the sail. heh-phâng, to lower the sail, taking in little or much. heh<sup>n</sup>-phâng (C.), id. hâ-phâng, to take in a reef. kè-phâng, to pass the sail to the other side of the vessel. chín-phâng sái, to sail as near the wind as possible while keeping the sail full. phiò-phâng, to splash water on the sail, to keep it from spoiling by drying.

phâng (R. hong, hông, = col. phóng), to carry on both hands, as a large plate, or as a tray—done to show respect, even with small things, like a cup of tea. phâng-pó, to put the die in its case ready for the gambling called "lién-pó," as the gambling-house keeper does.

pháng (R. hóng), to spin; finest white grass-cloth. pháng-cheh, to make thread of cotton or of flax. pháng-chit, to spin and weave. pháng-chhia, a spinning-wheel (v. chhia). pháng-mi<sup>n</sup>, to spin cotton. pháng-se, to spin yarn. pháng-soà<sup>n</sup>, to spin thread. pháng-si, to spin silk (v. si).

chêng-pháng, fine white grass-cloth. phiò-pháng, bleached do. kang-sai pháng, finest sort from Kiang-si. pháng-tiú, sort of thin satin.

phàng (R. phông, = col. phiàng), fat; corpulent. púi-phàng, id.

phâng [R. hông, to sew, = col. pâng], a chink; a crevice; a seam in timber; an opening for finding fault or taking advantage of. khang-phâng, cracks and crevices; openings for finding flaws, faults, or opportunities (v. khang). bô-phâng thang-hiâm, having nothing that can be at all found fault with. gâu chhê-phâng, fond of finding fault; good at finding a way to injure another or to make money. thàn-phâng, to use an opportunity for evil. chhng- phâng, to look out for our own selfish ends. puh-phâng--chhut-lâi, to leak out, as a secret. khòà<sup>n</sup>-chhut phoà-phâng, to look out a way so as to get at a secret. koe-nng bát-bát, to ũ-phâng, in the closest matter (lit. egg) there is some hole. làng-phâng, to leave a space, as in writing; to take advantage of an opportunity to get away secretly, e.g. to get out of a troublesome affair, or to cheat out of money. làng-phâng kiá<sup>n</sup>-tâng, to leave a place where there is danger, on some pretext, avoiding the appearance of fear. siòng-hê-phâng, taking advantage of a break in the rain (v. siòng). li-phâng, to open into a chink.

chhiú-phâng, the interstices between the fingers. kha-phâng, the opening between the legs, or on the inside of the bent knee. kha tsúg-thâu-á-phâng, interstices between the toes. chhùi-khi-phâng, the interstices between the teeth. khi-phâng, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-phâng, a cleft in the hills where a road or stream comes through.

phau, a sort of pumelo. phin-phau, a creeping plant with a fruit like a fig, used in medicine, and also making the jelly called ò-giò-tàng.

phau (R. id. = col. pha). phau-lông (R.), the scrotum.

phau [R. to throw, = col. pha]. phau siù-kiú (R.), to throw the embroidered ball, an ancient custom (v. kiú).

pháu (R. id.), to ride fast; to gallop; sometimes said of travelling fast. pháu-bé, to ride a horse fast; to gallop. pháu-lê, to travel very fast. pháu-chiet, to carry an express message to the emperor from a high mandarin.

pháu láng-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to swindle people of their money and run off.

phàu [R. cannon], crackers or squibs. toà-phàu, a cannon. hò-phàu, a signal gun. tê-lúi hé-phàu, mines in war. thien-phàu, a congreve rocket or shell (s. ulcer). phàu-tái, a fort; a fortification. phàu-táng, do., especially low. phàu-siú, artillerymen. phàu-tui, a company of artillery-men, especially using gingalls.

pàng-phàu, to set off crackers. ké-phàu, a drum-shaped frame full of crackers, used at weddings. pàng ké-phàu, to set them off. liên-phàu, a string of crackers. phàu-siá<sup>n</sup>, a very large set of fire-crackers on a pole (v. siá<sup>n</sup>).

phàu [R. an ulcer or other skin disease]. thien-phàu, a venereal ulcer (s. cannon).

phàu, to infuse in boiling water; to melt (as sugar) in hot water; to make (as arrow-root) by pouring hot water on it. phàu-tê, to infuse tea. phàu-ióh, to infuse medicine. phàu thng-sng, to melt sugar-candy. phàu-chiú, to treat with hot spirits, as some medicines.

phàu (R. pâu), a long warm robe, quilted or lined, or made with skin or fur. tng-phàu, id. phàu-koà, a long warm robe and the shorter dress worn over it. phàu-thò, a long warm robe and the long dress worn over it. mi<sup>n</sup>-phàu, a long quilted dress. ni<sup>n</sup>-phàu, a long warm woollen dress. phê-phàu, long dress made with skins or fur. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-phàu, do., lined with sheep-skins. bé-tôe-phàu, warm robe made with cuffs like horse-hoofs. bóng-phàu, mandarin's robe embroidered with dragons.

phàu [R. to embrace, = col. phõ]. phàu-ióng--ê, a child adopted from childhood. phàu-thâu chhú-chhoàn (r.), to cover one's head and run away very

篷

捧

紡

胖
縫

擗
抛
跑

炮

疤
泡

袍

抱

much ashamed. phâu-liông-oân, sort of pill brought from Canton. phâu-hün chhiong-thi<sup>n</sup>, to harbour deep resentment.

phâu [R. pō, violent; sudden; to strike with the hand, &c.; = col. pō, pē, pāu, &c.], to strike the head with the hand.

phauh, fat and plump, as a child. phauh-phauh, very plump and good-looking, as child or young boy. pūi-phauh, id. phauh-piau, id.; also said of man.

phauh [R. phok, extensive; learned]. ké-lauh-phauh, ancient; old-fashioned (v. ké).

phauh (R. id.), hail, hailstones. lòh-phauh, to hail.

phauh [R. phau, phāu, a blister, = col. phā]. jiét-phauh, eruption like small boils on the head in hot weather, esp. on children. hoat jiét-phauh, to have them. khi-phauh, id.

phe (R. phi), (C. phoe), an embryo; an unfinished article or model. phe-bé, a model or pattern. ôe-phe, shoes shaped but not yet finished. ôe-tôe-phe, shoe soles not yet sewed on. in-phe, bits of marble shaped for seals, but with no characters cut. pán-phe, an unfinished coffin. láng chit-ê-phe, to make a commencement of a matter.

tsoá-phe, pasteboard. pè tsoá-phe, to make pasteboard.

láng-sng-phe, thin slips of wood used for making a frame (láng-sng) for cooking by steam.

ti-phe, a pig not fully grown. ti-phe-á, id.

phái<sup>n</sup>-phe, ill-behaved in youth; giving signs of becoming a bad man. phái<sup>n</sup>-kut-phe, id. m-si thák-chhéh ê-phe, he is not and will not be a good scholar. chhát-phe, a bad boy growing into a thief. khit-chiáh-phe, a boy or lad looking like a beggar.

si-sin-phe, reckless of one's life; daring to do very dangerous things. hiong-sin-phe, id. sam-seng-phe, ready for quarrels, &c. (v. seng).

phe (C. phoe; T. phō). phài-phe, to conjecture beforehand. bô-phài-phe, unexpectedly. bô-phe, id.

phe-sí, to risk one's life. phe-miā<sup>n</sup>, id. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup>, id. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup> thàn, to work extremely hard for money, as if for one's life. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup> khùn, to sleep very very long. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup> thák, to study extremely hard. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miā<sup>n</sup> poáh, to gamble very eagerly till all is lost.

phe (C.) phe tsúi-phe, = A. khó tsúi-phi, to throw stones along the water.

phe (C.), = A. phoe, a letter; an official answer. pâi thâu-phe, to write notes through a book at the top of the pages.

phe (C.), = A. phoe, to smooth wood with an adze.

phê (R. phi), (C. phōe; Cn. phō), skin; bark; peel; leather; fur. phê-chháu, furs used for dresses. phê-ôe, leather shoes.

pêh-phê (white skin), Malwa opium. thê-phê, skin of opium ball (v. thê). thê-phê (C. phóeh), clods of surface soil, as in ploughed fields. thê-phê-thâu, id. chhân-thê-phê, id. chhiah-phê, a sort of hard wood.

chiòh-phê, a large flat rock. thi<sup>n</sup>-tôe-phê, you know all about heaven and earth! (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). chhân-phê, the inner leather sole of a shoe. chhéh-phê, the cover of a book. pau-phê, the wrapper of goods or dollars (v. pau). pién-sit-phê, a thin raw cake for wrapping up minced meat. bih-phê, thin split bamboo made of the outer part of the bamboo. tin-phê, the rind of rattan, the best part. chhiū-phê, bark; linen stuffs.

khé-phê, skin that peels off where a wound is healing (v. khé). chhe-phê, sort of small eruption, chronic, but worst in the hot season. hong jiét-phê, the wind hotter than usual, sign of bad weather.

phê-phê-á kóng, to allude to a matter without giving much explanation; to give only a hint. kóng phê-phê, id. goá-phê, external; in outward appearance. cheng-sin-phê, gōng-ā<sup>n</sup>, appearing intelligent, but really stupid.

bân-phê, incorrigible; stupidly stubborn. tsòe e-phê, to be madly attached to a company of actors (lit. black like a pig).

bîn-phê, the skin of the face. kāu-bîn-phê, brazen-faced. kāu-phê, id. bîn-phê khah-kāu siá<sup>n</sup>-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, very brazen-faced (like a city wall). pòh-phê, thin-skinned; very sensitive to pain, or crying readily when scolded. bîn-phê khah-pòh sin-tsoá, very bashful and modest (like letter-paper). lâu bîn-phê, to keep one's respectability. siá láng--ê bîn-phê, to affront and bring disgrace upon. kê-bîn-phê, to take care of one's character.

phê-hu, skin and flesh (v. hu). hó-phê-hu, good condition of body, such that a wound heals easily. hó phê-bah, id. bah-phê, skin of pork. phê-mòh<sup>n</sup>, the outer cuticle. chit-têng-phê chit-têng-kut, skin and bone.

pak-phê, to skin. li-phê, id. khau-phê, to scrape off skin, as from potatoes, with knife at a right angle.

phé (C.) chhiū-phé (= A. phóe), the cheeks. kha-phé, the hips. kha-chhui<sup>n</sup>-phé, id.

phé (C.) phé-siàng, = A. phi-siù<sup>n</sup>, to talk scandal, &c. phé-siù<sup>n</sup>, id.

phê [R. phà, a veil], (C. phè), a cloth sometimes worn by women like a veil; to hold a little of anything in the corner of one's dress. phê-á, a sort of veil. hoe-phê, a striped or spotted cloth, used for folding clothes in, or for making up a bundle. hoa-phê (C.), id.; also worn on the head by young married women. chhiū-phê, sort of kerchief used by women. chhiū-phê-á, sort of handkerchief for tying up a bundle, used by men or women. hien chhiū-phê (C.), to raise the bride's veil, as the bridegroom does at marriage. lô-phê, a kerchief carried by lady in her hand. âng-lô-phê, a red kerchief, used as veil for bride at marriage. tà-phê-á, to wear a cloth on the head, as in Chang-chew and some other places married women do. tà-phê-á tè-lâng-tsáu, to follow a man, as bad woman with a cloth on her head. phê-á-kun, a cloth worn over the head, especially by bad women. chhiá<sup>n</sup> m-kiá<sup>n</sup>, tà phê-á-kun lái-jip, refusing when politely asked, but afterwards running after him to ask to be accepted (fig. from improper characters).

phê--khi-lái, to lift up things (or keep them from falling), by a cloth spread out, or by the corner of one's dress held up. phê-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. êng sa<sup>n</sup>-á-ku phê, to hold something in the corner of one's dress held up. phê-thê, to hold some earth in the corner of one's dress, in order to throw it on the coffin (v. thê).

phê âu-táu, to cut out a man, as from employment or a purchase (v. táu).

phê (same word?), (C. phè), to support the end of a beam, as a stone or piece of brick-work on the top of a mud wall. i<sup>n</sup>-phê, a piece of stone (or bricks) laid on

暴

博
電
疤
胚

批

皮

帕

the top of a wall of pounded mud and cement, to support the end of a beam, and keep the wall from splitting; a cross-bar placed under a beam to support it. phè í-á, to support the end of a beam, as with a stone.

phè [R. phòe, to associate; to mate; a fellow], (C. phòe; Cn. phö), to use as a condiment, as with rice, potatoes, or liquor. mih<sup>n</sup>-phè (Cn. migh-phö), whatever is eaten along with rice or potatoes. phè-mih<sup>n</sup>, to use any such condiment. phè-pūg, to be used as a condiment with rice. phè-chiú, to be eaten as a condiment along with liquor. tê-phè, things eaten along with tea. chiáh-tsoá, phè hê-huih (eat serpents with tiger's blood), said of a very wicked and daring man.

phè (C. phè). chhi-phè, a thorn-bush (v. chhi).

phè (C.), = A. phòe. moá<sup>n</sup>-phè, hemp bark stripped off for making ropes.

phè (C. phòe; Cn. T. phö), a chip or broken bit of stone, pottery, wood, &c. chhâ-phè, chips of wood. chióh-phè, chips of stone. oá<sup>n</sup>-phè, broken bits of bowls. kng-phè, broken bits of jars. kha<sup>n</sup>-phè, id. chhü-hiá-phè, broken fragments of tiles, as in ruined houses. hâu-phia<sup>n</sup>-phè (C. hiá-phia<sup>n</sup>-phòe), id.

kek lí-phè, to think out the proper manner of managing an affair.

phè (C.) phī-phè-háu, sound of abundant rain falling.

phē [R. phī, to cover; a coverlet; sign of the passive; = col. pī], (C. phōe; Cn. phö), a coverlet quilted with cotton, which supplies the place both of sheets and blankets, and generally of mattress too, being folded round the person. phòng-phē, cotton beaten and made into the shape of a coverlet, and put loosely into a cover, but not fastened with the usual crossed threads. phē-toa<sup>n</sup>, cotton cover or case for the coverlet. phē-jiók, coverlet and mattress. phē-á jiók-á, do. for dead body.

phē-iāng, a cloth used for carrying a child on the shoulders.

chhu-phē, to spread out the coverlet ready for use.

kah-phē, to cover one's self with it.

phē (C.), = A. phōe, a weed like darnel.

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. phī<sup>n</sup> (to divide or pay in small portions, &c.)

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = phī<sup>n</sup>, to make level, &c. (in some phrases).

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. phī<sup>n</sup>, to make level; to sweep away, as a torrent; to take a short cut, as across a field. hē lóh kàu phē<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, rain falling till the whole plain is swimming.

soá<sup>n</sup>-phē<sup>n</sup>, to go about idly or uselessly, e.g. wasting time on a number of things that come to nothing, or behaving ill, stealing, and doing mischief, as a bad uncontrolled young fellow; to stray about, as cattle. lâm-sám-phē<sup>n</sup>, id.

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. phī<sup>n</sup>, a surname.

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.) phē<sup>n</sup>-ê, = A. phī<sup>n</sup>-ê, the Pescadore Islands.

phē<sup>n</sup> (C.) chhoán-phī<sup>n</sup>-phē<sup>n</sup>, panting very hard; to do a thing carelessly and ill.

phéh (R. boát), (C. phóeh), foam; froth. tsúi-phéh, foam on water. ám-phéh, froth of boiling rice-water. péh-phéh-noá<sup>n</sup>, white frothy saliva at the mouth.

phéh, to go about as a poor vagrant or idle rowdy, looking at plays and consorting with low characters. si-kòe-phéh, id.

林

被

沫

phéh (C. phóeh). thê-phéh, clods of earth. chhân-thê-phéh, id. chhân-phéh, id.

phék (R. id.) phék-giók (R.), a sort of precious stone. phék-thô, a very large sort of peach. phék-san-giâm, a temple near Amoy (above Emngkang), where there is a rock that moves.

phék (R. id.) hê-phék, amber. tsu-phék-sán, a medicine made of pearls and amber.

phék (R. id.) phék-lék, loud rattling sound of thunder (v. lék).

phék [R. to strike; to tap; sort of castanets], an instrument made of bits of wood loosely tied together, used for beating time as an accompaniment to music. phék-iú, the place for beating it in a tune. hoá<sup>n</sup>-phék, the man in a band who beats it. phah-phék, to beat it, as an accompaniment to music. túg-liáu phah-phék, to change the rate of a song and strike the "phék." at-liáu-phék, to act at proper time and by proper rules in doing anything. at-liáu at-phék, id. àn-liáu-phék, id.; also, according to the rules of time, &c., in a song.

phék — phék-chhài, long turnips cut down and salted so as to make a soft preparation used as a sauce.

phék (R. id.), the animal soul or principle of animal life in man (classifier "tiâu" or "tè"); said to be found for a few days after death in the form of small black things in the bed or ground where a man has died. hün-phék, spirits and souls. sam-hün chhit-phék, the three spirits and seven animal souls which a man has.

lók-phék, very miserable. chhi<sup>n</sup>-chhám lók-phék, id.

phék [R. a sovereign; to rule]. òe-phék-siá, able to drive away demons, &c., as a charm.

phék (cf. phēng), to try which is the better or superior. phék-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to compare two things to see which is the larger, better, &c. phék-kun, to play at a game like marbles, as children. phék bün-chiu<sup>n</sup>, to try which is best at writing essays.

pheng (R. id.), to cook in melted fat. pheng-iú, id. gâu pheng-tiâu, good at cooking.

pheng, to shape and sew together (skins) for a dress, especially with the outside of some other material. pheng iú<sup>n</sup>-ko, to make a dress with sheep-skin in this way. pheng sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-bin, of what stuff is the outside of thís (fur) dress to be made?

pheng [R. to fall, as a mountain, = col. pang]. tsò-sit san-pheng, by idleness and eating, business or wealth (lit. mountain) dwindles away. hiet-pheng (C. hiet-peng), flow of blood from female organs.

phêng [R. pêng, level; just; balances; = col. pī<sup>n</sup>, piá<sup>n</sup>, &c.], = pêng, to weigh in balances, &c. (A. phêng, = pêng; C. only phêng), (v. pêng).

sù-phêng, plays in the Swatow dialect. phah sù-phêng-ké, music with four sorts of instruments at idolatrous rites.

phêng — io-phêng, = io-pêng, a pouch or purse worn at the side.

phêng [R. to discuss; to criticize]. phêng-lün, to criticize (generally but not always unfavourably), as conduct or character. phín-phêng (R.), to criticize, as men or writings. kong-phêng, to discuss a matter together, as a number of persons, in order to end a quarrel. phoe-phêng, to criticize, as men or books.

壁
珀
霹
拍

魄

辟

烹

崩

平

評

鵬聘

phêng [R. name of bird]. tâi-phêng-chiáu, an enormous bird, painted on the sterns of junks and by the side of Kwan-yin.

phêng [R. to make an agreement by presents]. phêng-kim, money sent at betrothal by bridegroom's parents to the parents of the bride. phêng-gî, presents so sent. phêng-lé, money and presents so sent. têng-phêng, to fix the agreement of betrothal for daughter. phêng-chhin, id. phêng-tiā<sup>n</sup>-tióh, betrothal arranged.

phêng-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to invite a minister, secretary, or teacher to court by presents, as ancient kings did. phêng-chhiá<sup>n</sup> gâu-lâng, to invite a wise man to take office in that way. phêng gâu-lâng, id. sam-phêng ngé-phêng, such repeated invitations. sam-phêng ngé-phêng, i m-lái, I have asked him over and over, but he won't come.

phêng (cf. phék). phêng-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to compare two things to see which is the larger or the better, &c. pí-phêng, id. phêng lí--ê tsō-hoà, I will try to help you, but with great doubts of success. phêng lí--ê soe-ông, id. (v. ông). phêng-hiong, to put on an appearance as if about to strike or fight, as in violent altercation, or as a beggar knocking the doors, &c. (v. hiong).

phí (R. id.). phí-sa<sup>n</sup>, to spread out, as clothes. phí-sa<sup>n</sup>, to spread out clothes, as to dry. phí-chhek, to spread out rice to dry. phí-khui, to spread out, as in the sun. phí hong-thâu, to hang up to dry in the wind, as clothes.

phí-hong, sort of cape worn by mandarin ladies. phí-kien, sort of shoulder ornament or epaulette worn by mandarin or Kujin. phí-kah, Manchoo soldiers (v. kah).

siang-chhiú phí-sien, both hands stretched out in the form of a cross (v. sien). thán-phí-sin, turning sidewise so as to get through a narrow passage.

hoài-phí, an inscription written horizontally, as over a door. í-phí, a cloth cover for the back of a chair.

phí-í, a reclining chair that draws out.

phí (same word?) tek-phí, a flat bamboo frame for sleeping on in hot weather. tek-phí-í, a chair or couch with the seat made of bamboo. mí<sup>n</sup>-phí, a frame for drying boiled vermicelli.

phí — tsúi-phí, small flat stones thrown by children to skim along the water; an insect that skims very rapidly along the surface of the water. phí tsúi-phí (C. phe tsúi-phe), to throw stones thus. khó tsúi-phí, id. tsúi-phí-á (C.), a small shallow boat for shallow sandy rivers.

phí [R. a sharp spear]. chí<sup>n</sup>-phí, an arrow-head. phí — ko-phí, coffee (imitation of the sound). ko-phí-tê, coffee, as a beverage.

phí (T.), to scrape or scratch up (sand), as fowls do. phí-phién (A.), (v. phién).

phí (T.) phí-sng, = A. phí<sup>n</sup>-sng, arsenic.

phí (= phih). úi<sup>n</sup> phí-phí (C.), very yellow.

phí [R. skin, = col. phê]. tín-phí, prepared orange-peel. chheng-phê, a medicine; thick pumelo skin or some such skin. tê-kut-phí, a cooling medicine (bark of root of ké-kí), said to affect the kidneys. ngé-ka-phí (= pí), a yellow liquor from Tien-tsin and the north. ngé-ka-phí-chiú, id.

sau-phí, to scold by speaking ironically or sarcastically.

竝僅並

披

鍍鉦

披

皮

hé sú, liú-phí, when a tiger dies he leaves only his skin (fig. of man's reputation). san-i-bêng pok-siòng, ngé-phí, geomancy, medicine, and the various sorts of divination are known only superficially. ngó-phí ê-tâi-chì, the things included in these five classes. ngó-phí ê-lâng, men who practise any of these.

phí (cf. phí), mean; void of self-respect; disreputable in his way of doing business; regardless of his character; low and contemptible; e.g. refusing over and over to pay a debt, or living on others and refusing to spend a cash. kap-lâng-phí, acting towards others in a mean despicable way without sense of shame. chin-phí, very mean and despicable. chin-chhiá<sup>n</sup> phí, id. phí-lién, having unblushing impudence and effrontery. phí-lién-bin, id. phí-bin, id. (v. bin). m-tam-su-iá<sup>n</sup> phí, despicably refusing to pay his gambling debts.

phí (R. id.) phí-koân (R.), wearied out; quite exhausted.

phí [R. mean, despicable]. phí-li, mean and stingy. phí-lí-kúi, a low mean wretch (lit. demon). siáu-phí-lién, despicably mean in dealing about the smallest sums. siáu-phí-gièn, id. phí-lê (R.), despicably mean, as conduct. put-chí khó-phí (R.), contemptible and despicable, as man.

jín-tsái phí-úi, contemptible in appearance, as a little ugly man (v. úi). phí-siú<sup>n</sup>, to talk in a jesting way of another's looks, &c. (v. siú<sup>n</sup>).

phí [R. a scab; a disease of the head], a scab; an incrustation; a thin lamina. kien-phí, to become covered with a scab; hard scab formed. siu-phí, id. tí-phí, id. tsu-phí, the scab of small-pox, used for inoculation. siá-phí, scabs falling off, as in small-pox. làu-phí, id. lâm-phí, to pour parched beans on the head of a person just recovering from small-pox (v. lám).

he-phí, thin bits of plaster peeling off a wall (v. he). jiō-tháng-phí, incrustation on urine-jars. tiá<sup>n</sup>-phí, incrustation on a rice-boiler from boiling rice or other things. png-phí, incrustation of rice on a rice-boiler for a few days. ko-pa-phí, do. on a large rice-boiler, as of a junk, for a long time. ám-phí (Cn.), scum of rice-water.

tâng-phí, percussion-caps. seng-khu tng-tâng-phí, not having even one cash about one. chí<sup>n</sup>-phí, very thin small bad cash. chí<sup>n</sup>-phí-á, id. chít--ê gài-chí<sup>n</sup>-phí to-bô, have not even one bit of a bad cash. lê-phí, the white inner coating of shells like mother-of-pearl (used for ornaments). lê-phí-tsu, false pearls made from shells. an lê-phí, to inlay with this substance.

chít-phí-á, a very little bit. cháu-phí, a small sod of turf (v. chháu).

phí (cf. phí, to stretch). phí-phak-à<sup>n</sup>, to stretch out one's arms, as to keep one's self from falling.

phí (R. id.) phí-lún, a comparison; to make a supposition; for instance, like as —. phí-jū, id.

phí — phí-phí-chhoán, to pant hard. phí-phā-háu, loud sound of flame in wind (v. phā). phí-phê-háu (C.), sound of much rain falling.

phí [R. to cover; sign of passive; = col. pí, phê]. jín siên, phí-jín-khi: má siên, phí-jín-khi, as a good horse is ridden, so a good kind man is cheated.

phí (R. phí). phí-sng, = phí<sup>n</sup>-sng, arsenic.

phí<sup>n</sup> (R. phien), classifier of essays and such short compositions.

phí<sup>n</sup> [R. phien, on the side; partial; selfish; unfair], to cheat; to bully; to act in an overbearing

疲

疲鄙

店

披譬

被砒篇偏

way; to insult or scold a man who dares not retort; to overreach or get the better of, as in trade or in dividing money. sa<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-khâm, to overreach or defraud of small sums by overcharging (v. khâm). niũ<sup>n</sup>-lâng-phi<sup>n</sup>, very good-tempered in bearing insult or scolding; very easy in money matters, letting others get good bargains out of us, &c. hẽ--lâng khah-phi<sup>n</sup>--khi, to let the other get rather more than his due from us, or let him have the upper-hand in scolding, &c.

ũ phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to get the better of a man, as in a dispute or quarrel; to get things very cheap or get large wages; advantageous, as a trade giving good profits. khah-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, getting rather more than one's share. hẽ--i khah-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to be somewhat overreached or beaten by him. bô-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, not succeeding in a dispute, lawsuit, or quarrel; not managing to get a thing cheap, &c.

phi<sup>n</sup> (C. phek<sup>n</sup>). pun-phi<sup>n</sup>, to divide equitably what is not sufficient for all, so that each has some share, though not much; to deal small and serve all. phi<sup>n</sup>-hêng, to pay by instalments. ũn-ná-phi<sup>n</sup>, id.

phi<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, level; even; just; = col. pi<sup>n</sup>, piá<sup>n</sup>, phiá<sup>n</sup>, &c.], (C. phek<sup>n</sup>), to make level, as a piece of ground; to cut away earth, as with spade or hoe, to make it even; to take off a layer from a stone. phi<sup>n</sup> kak-á, to lay on the clap-boards or laths on the rafters, ready for the tiles. phi<sup>n</sup>-têng, to lay them on and nail them down. phi<sup>n</sup>-thê, to level ground.

thó-phi<sup>n</sup>, to collect a number of men to go and beat a man who had beaten us. koh kap-i-phi<sup>n</sup>, to win back from him what he had gained from us in gambling.

phi<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), (C. phek<sup>n</sup>), a surname. phi<sup>n</sup>-tsé, a very old man of the Shang dynasty, probably called by Confucius "lô-phêng." phi<sup>n</sup>-tsé chiáh poeh-pah-hê, phi<sup>n</sup>-tsé lived 800 years: he is the representative of old age in the pictures called tsái-tsú-siũ.

phi<sup>n</sup> (R. pêng), (C. phek<sup>n</sup>). phi<sup>n</sup>-ê, the Pescadore Islands.

phi<sup>n</sup> (cf. phi, phiá<sup>n</sup>). chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-á, a small bit, somewhat roundish.

phi<sup>n</sup> (R. phiên), a slice; a lamina; a thin plate; classifier of walls, partitions, fixed screens, clouds, padlocks, pieces of glass, and thin extended surfaces. chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-á, a small flat bit. âng-tâng-phi<sup>n</sup>, sheets of copper. hiá-phi<sup>n</sup>, broken bits of tile. hoá-phi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. hiá-phi<sup>n</sup>-á-chhũ, house made by children of bits of broken tiles.

ôe-phi<sup>n</sup>, the side pieces of the uppers of a Chinese shoe. chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-ôe, one of the slips for the uppers of shoes. béh-phi<sup>n</sup>, the halves of stocking-legs.

bô-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, not having a wind such as can be used for sailing on the course, not even by tacking. chit-phi<sup>n</sup>-phâng, sailing on one tack without shifting sail. koh-oát chit-phi<sup>n</sup>, make one tack more. tsái-phi<sup>n</sup>-sái, to sail easily with wind on quarter with full sails. khioh tsái-phi<sup>n</sup>, to shift the sail to the position for so sailing. sái ngi<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>, to sail right on one tack with a strong wind; dogged and immovable in one's course (v. ngi<sup>n</sup>).

chhiú-phi<sup>n</sup> khah-ngi<sup>n</sup>, determined to carry on the feud with no compromise; not afraid to injure people.

phi<sup>n</sup> (same word?). phiah-phi<sup>n</sup>, disposition; temper. phiah-phi<sup>n</sup> hó, disposition good; forbearing. phiah-phi<sup>n</sup> pháit<sup>n</sup>, temper bad.

phi<sup>n</sup> (cf. phi<sup>n</sup>, phi<sup>n</sup>). phi<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>-chhoán, to pant hard.

phi<sup>n</sup> (C.) chhoán phi<sup>n</sup>-phê<sup>n</sup>, panting hard; to do a thing very hurriedly or carelessly.

phi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) phi<sup>n</sup>-si-pũi<sup>n</sup>, = A. pi<sup>n</sup>-si-pêng, the 120th radical, at the side.

phi<sup>n</sup> (R. phi, = col. phi), (T. phi). phi<sup>n</sup>-sng, arsenic. phi<sup>n</sup>-chhng (P.), id. soa<sup>n</sup> phi<sup>n</sup>-sng (C.), a poisonous berry, on a shrub about a foot high. soa<sup>n</sup> phi<sup>n</sup>-sng-á-chí (C.), id.

phi<sup>n</sup> — kha-phi<sup>n</sup>-liâm, the shin (v. liâm).

phi<sup>n</sup> (R. pit), the nose; to smell; the knob on the end of a carrying pole; the eye of a needle.

phi<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to smell flowers. phi<sup>n</sup>-phang, to smell odours. ũ phi<sup>n</sup>-phang, to get a scent of a matter. m-sái-phi<sup>n</sup>, you need not hope for it. hó-phi<sup>n</sup>-sai, good at smelling (said in joke). gâu-phi<sup>n</sup>-chê, you are very knowing! ng-sng-hiá gâu-phi<sup>n</sup>-chê, id. (lit. yellow ants). ng-sng-hiá gâu-phi<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, id.

chiam-phi<sup>n</sup>, the eye of a needle. ôe-phi<sup>n</sup>, the rib or ribs at the point of a Chinese shoe (v. ôe). chit-phi<sup>n</sup>--ê, shoe with only one rib on the toe. toa<sup>n</sup>-phi<sup>n</sup>--ê, id.

phi<sup>n</sup>-bák-chhùi, the features in general. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhùi-phi<sup>n</sup>, foul-mouthed, in language. phi<sup>n</sup>-khang, the nostrils. phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-kháu, the apertures of the nostrils. phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-mûg, the hair in the nostrils. sái phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-kng, to talk in a nasal displeased tone; to whine discontentedly. sái phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-im, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-im, a nasal sound. phi<sup>n</sup>-lok, the hollow part of the nose. phi<sup>n</sup>-lak, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-lak-kóng, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-lok-kóng, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-kóng, id. phi<sup>n</sup>-to, the ridge of the nose when high and sharp. phi<sup>n</sup>-niũ<sup>n</sup>, the ridge of the nose. phi<sup>n</sup>-niũ<sup>n</sup> chih-chih, nose too flat between the eyes. phi<sup>n</sup>-lêng, the ridge of the nose. si<sup>n</sup> phi<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to have a polypus in the nose. phi<sup>n</sup>-io, the bridge of the nose and the part of the ridge near it. phi<sup>n</sup>-io chih-chih, nose naturally too flat between the eyes (said of women). phi<sup>n</sup>-oa<sup>n</sup>, raised bridge of nose, not usual among Chinese. phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, point of nose.

phi<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, water or liquid mucus from nose. phi<sup>n</sup>-sái, hardened mucus from nose. kâu phi<sup>n</sup>-thâm-noã<sup>n</sup>, having much mucus flowing (v. noã<sup>n</sup>). phi<sup>n</sup>-hun, snuff. phi<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id.

lâu-phi<sup>n</sup>, running of the nose. lâu phi<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, id. tsát-phi<sup>n</sup>, nose stuffed with cold in the head. sat-phi<sup>n</sup>, id. sng-phi<sup>n</sup>, to snuff up the nose inwards (v. sng). chhng-phi<sup>n</sup>, to sniffle, outwards (v. chhng). chhng-phi<sup>n</sup>, to blow the nose. sàn-phi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. pũn-phi<sup>n</sup>, to blow through one's nose, in anger. lek-phi<sup>n</sup>, to wrinkle the nose, in displeasure. ng-phi<sup>n</sup>, to hold the nose, as to avoid a bad smell. chiũ-phi<sup>n</sup>, nose eaten away with disease. lap-phi<sup>n</sup>, having lost the nose by disease.

péh-phi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of small wild quadruped.

phia<sup>n</sup> — ka-chiah-phia<sup>n</sup>, the part of the back between the shoulders. phia<sup>n</sup>-liâu, the middle part of an animal (as pig or sheep), as cut up for food, including the ribs; the whole animal is cut into three parts, of which this is the middle one. phia<sup>n</sup>-liâu-bah, the flesh on the ribs of an animal. phia<sup>n</sup>-liâu-kut, the ribs. phia<sup>n</sup>-ki-kut, id.

thoa-phia<sup>n</sup>, to drag itself along, as a wounded animal, esp. on one side. phah kàu-hẽ--lí thoa-phia<sup>n</sup>, I will beat you till you can hardly move!

phia<sup>n</sup> (cf. hia<sup>n</sup>). hâu-phia<sup>n</sup>-phê, broken bits of tiles, as among ruins. hiá-phia<sup>n</sup>-phòe (C.), id.

phia<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, a weapon; a warrior; = col. pia<sup>n</sup>].

砒

鼻

平

彭

澎

片

破兵

lâi-phia<sup>n</sup>, a demon of thunder. thien-phia<sup>n</sup>, a demon of heaven. tõe-phia<sup>n</sup>, a demon of earth. sam-phia<sup>n</sup>, these three demons. hoãn--tiòh sam-phia<sup>n</sup>, to be killed by them. khít-phia<sup>n</sup> phah--tiòh, said of a man of violent temper getting suddenly angry. phien-phia<sup>n</sup>-sìn, a certain very malicious demon. phin-phia<sup>n</sup>-sìn, id. phin-phia<sup>n</sup>-jit, a very unlucky day. phin-phia<sup>n</sup>-sì, a very unlucky time. phien-phia<sup>n</sup>-sì sái-tit-kè, pù bõe-thè, if these very unlucky days be passed without injury, your wealth will never fail.

phia<sup>n</sup> — kông-phia<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup>, in a tremendous hurry and flurry.

phia<sup>n</sup> (C.), a sort of rain-coat, made of leaves, worn by farmers. moa<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup>, = A. moa<sup>n</sup>-phia<sup>n</sup>, the 53d radical.

phia<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = seng-hō, a sort of flat-topped cap worn by idols and by actors. ti-phia<sup>n</sup>, to wear it.

phia<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to throw at one, as a stone (cf. piā<sup>n</sup>, to throw).

phiá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, a shed; a stage; an awning; = col. pí<sup>n</sup>], one slope of a roof. chít-phiá<sup>n</sup>, id. moa<sup>n</sup>-phiá<sup>n</sup>, an open shed with a roof of only one slope; the 53d radical (v. moa<sup>n</sup>).

phiá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, pêng, level or gently sloping ground], a natural sloping bank of sea or river, or at base of hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-phiá<sup>n</sup>, the sloping base of a hill. hái-phiá<sup>n</sup>, the shore left dry at low water. thê-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a muddy sea-beach, or broad muddy bank of river at low tide. chiòh-thâu-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a heath full of stones. chiòh-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a gently sloping large rock with little or no soil on it.

sam-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a village S.W. from Chang-chew where there is a very famous temple. sam-phiá<sup>n</sup> tsó-su, the idol worshipped there.

phiá<sup>n</sup> [R. pêng, level; even; just; = col. pí<sup>n</sup>, piá<sup>n</sup>, phi<sup>n</sup>, &c.], to win again after having lost, as in gambling. phah-phiá<sup>n</sup>, id., in fighting or gambling. phah chít-é-phiá<sup>n</sup>, id. tò-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to win after losing in gambling. khít--i tò-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to be beaten by him in gambling after having first beat him; also fig. of striking. phiá<sup>n</sup>--tò-lâi, to win what had been lost in gambling; also (T.), said of other things in general. phiá<sup>n</sup>-tò-túg, do.; also said of fighting. poáh-phiá<sup>n</sup>--khí-lâi, to win back what was lost in gambling. phiá<sup>n</sup>--khí-lâi, id.; also fig. of making great gains in trade after great losses. tsõe--chít-é phiá<sup>n</sup>, to settle a long account with a man (by a thorough hearing) who had often beaten, cheated, oppressed, or domineered over us.

phiá<sup>n</sup>, a large thick slice or cut, as of meat or of a cake; a thick flattish piece. kui-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a whole thick slice; over a considerable surface, as a skin disease. he-phiá<sup>n</sup>, large thick pieces of plaster coming off a wall. chháu-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a sod of turf; also straw beaten very small and made into round cakes (v. chháu).

phiá<sup>n</sup> (P.) bâ-phiá<sup>n</sup>, a harlot (said in scolding). bâ-phiá<sup>n</sup>-chhi, a very thorny weed that catches the dress.

phiah [R. phék, on the side; partial; depraved], to go to the side; to get out of the way; to avoid by going out of the way. phiah--teh, id. phien-phiah, out of the way, lonely, as place (v. phien). oan-koe phiah-hâng, crooked and unfrequented streets and lanes. tò-phiah, to get out of the way and avoid. phiah-pi, to get away and conceal one's self for a short time. phiah hē-lâng-kè, to step aside to let some one pass. phiah-khi-tiàm, to get out of harm's way by hiding one's self.

phiah (R. phék), disposition; temper. sêng-phiah, id. phiah-sêng, id. phiah-phi<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. phi<sup>n</sup>).

phiah-chêng, any disease to which any one is specially constantly liable. pháit<sup>n</sup>-phiah, troublesome in temper, e.g. unwilling to pay debts; having a constitutional tendency to some disease, e.g. to have boils each summer. hó-phiah, good-tempered. ù khi-phiah, having a peculiar temper. chiáh-phiah, temper very dogged, obstinate, and crotchety. kék-phiah, obstinate; perverse in disposition. kiū<sup>n</sup>-phiah, fond of crossing others' wishes. koái-phiah, perverse. koái-phiah, of a strange temper. ku-koái-phiah, id. áu-phiah, obstinate. chip-phiah, id. ngi<sup>n</sup>-phiah, id. siòh-phiah, superstitious.

phiah (R. phék), a brick. chhi<sup>n</sup>-phiáh, slightly fired bricks. sék-phiáh, well-burned bricks. e-phiáh, id. phiáh-túg, a brick broken across. phiáh-pêng, a brick broken into two halves lengthwise. tsng phiáh, floor-tiles and bricks.

khoe-phiáh, small flat-hottomed river boat with a mast.

phiah — sí kui-phiáh, dead in great numbers, as in an epidemic.

phiah, to crucify. phiáh-chhát, to crucify a roher or pirate.

phiah, measles. chhut-phiáh, to have measles.

phiak, to uncoil itself suddenly with a spring, as a snake. phiak-lòh-lâi, to fall down suddenly, as a lizard or centipede from the roof.

phiak (cf. phók). phiak-phiak-chhéng, to palpitate. phiak-phiak-toá<sup>n</sup>, id. phiak-phiak-thiáu, to leap up and down frantically, as a sorcerer. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> phiak-phiak, heart heating fast with fear or anxiety.

phiak (cf. piák), sound, as of a hamhoo struck. phah-káu phiak-phiak-háu, to heat, making the blows of the rod ring on the skin. phih-phih phiak-phiak, sound as of heavy drops of rain on the roof.

phiak — phiak-he, to dash lime on a wall.

phian, phián, phiàn, hetter phien, phién, phièn (q.v.)

phiang (cf. piang). phin - phin phiang-phiang, the sound of a vibrating string. phông-phiang, the sound of beating cotton with a bow.

phiang (cf. piang, phiāng, phông). phiang-phiang-háu, to roar loud, as waves.

phiang (cf. phông, phàng). pui-phiang, fat; corpulent. pui-phiang-phiang, id.

phiang (C.) úi<sup>n</sup>-phiang-phiang, very yellow.

phiang [R. pāng? a cluh; cf. piāng]. phiang-ké, a long thick hamhoo tube with a skin tied over the one end, and the other open; beaten by quacks, beggars, &c.

phiang-phiang-háu, sound of it.

phiang (esp. T.) phiang-phiang-háu (= A. phiang), sound of waves.

phiat, phiát, better phiet, phiét (q.v.)

phiau [R. piau, a branch; a spear; a signal; beautiful; = col. pio]. phiau-thâu, a label with name or sign of maker, often wrapped round, or pasted on a thing bought; it often states the nature or good qualities, or gives directions for use. hong-phiau, id.

癖

碎瓦

棚

坪

平

胖

棒

僻

標

標

phiau [R. sort of chrysalis; preparation of cuttle-fish]. hái-phiau-siau, a medicine made from the cuttle-fish.

飄

phiau [R. tossed on the waves]. phiau-lâi phiau-khi, tossed about at mercy of winds and waves, as disabled vessel. phiau sa<sup>n</sup>-sì-jit, tossed on the sea for three or four days, as disabled vessel after a storm. phiau-liû, carried away by a flood, as houses or timber, &c. hō-tsúi phiau-liû--khi, id.

飄

phiau [R. blown by the wind; easy in manner; sometimes interchanged with the previous word]. phiau-iét, animated, intelligent, unconstrained, or self-confident in manner. phiau-phiet, id. (v. phiet).

標

phiâu (R. id.), to commit fornication with a harlot; whoredom. phiâu-phiâu, to commit whoredom. phiâu-kheh, a whoremonger. toā-phiâu-kheh, a rich whoremonger. phiâu té im, whoredom, gambling, and drunkenness. tsáp-ê phiâu, káu-ê liáu, of ten whoremongers nine come to poverty.

偏

phien [R. at the side; selfish; unfair; = col. phi<sup>n</sup>]. phien-pi<sup>n</sup>, at the side. phien-káng, smaller ports; side ports; uncommon dollars from the smaller South American states. phien-tsó phien-iū, going to one side or another of the road (v. iū).

phien-phiah, secluded; unfrequented; secret; out of the way, as a place. phien-phiah-ji, a character rarely used. phien-phiah-ôe, words or phrases seldom used, often intended to make the hearer consider the meaning carefully.

phien-pâng, a concubine or wife of second rank. phien-keng, imperial concubine. chhú-phien, to take a concubine.

phien-su, partial; unfair; unjust; prejudiced. phien-thán, partial and unfair. phien-tsòe, to do something that is improper. phien-kiò, to give an appellation somewhat lower than should be, e.g. calling father "án-chek." phien-ài (R.), partial in affection, as parents.

phien-phien-beh, to wish and desire obstinately, as dangerous or hurtful things; to wish all the more because refused (C. thien, in this paragraph). phien-beh, id. phien-phien-á m̄, doggedly determined to oppose or refuse what is proposed. lí-beh, goá phien-á m̄, you are willing, but I will not on any account consent to it.

天篇

phien, =phin (C. thien). phien-phia<sup>n</sup>-sîn, a very wicked demon (v. phia<sup>n</sup>).

phien [R. classifier of essays, &c., = col. phi<sup>n</sup>]. sí-phien (X.), the Book of Psalms.

phién (cf. phún), to scratch on the ground, as fowl with bill, feet, and feathers. phién-thê, do. in earth. phién-soa, do. in sand. phién-khui, to stir or move about, as rice to see its quality, or as a heap of grass, &c., searching for something lost. phién-khui-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id., as rice. toá--teh phi-phién, said of a man managing property for its absent owner, and making rather too free with the money; or of a man in charge of a large house, and using it as he pleases. iau-koe phién phiah-kha (hungry hen scratching at the foot of the wall), a poor man trying to find some way of getting money from another.

片

phién (R. id., = col. phi<sup>n</sup>), a thin slice or lamina; classifier of clouds or regions of country; a stretch of a number of level fields. kui-phién, a whole slice or thin piece; a whole region. chhiet-phién, to cut into slices. lê-phién, a slice of a sort of dried shell-fish.

chit-phién-chhân, a stretch of numerous level irrigated fields. toā-phién-thê, an extensive region of country about level. hit-chit-phién, that region of country.

phién-toa<sup>n</sup>, a visiting card, or plain card (v. toa<sup>n</sup>). miá<sup>n</sup>-phién, a visiting card. sió-phién, a blank red card, ready to be written upon. thô-âng-phién, a large slip of red paper, for writing a notice or placard.

peng-phién, Baroos camphor; camphor in powder or small crystals. hông-phién-ko, a sort of sweet cake. hûn-phién-ko, id.

a-phién, opium. a-phién-thê, crude opium. a-phién-thê-phê, envelope of an opium-ball. a-phién-ko, opium boiled and prepared ready for smoking. a-phién-hun, id. a-phién-phā, a small pellet of opium (v. phā). a-phién-sái, opium refuse, used for mixing up again with opium. a-phién-hun-chhe, opium-pipe. a-phién-kóng, id., said in joke. a-phién-kúi, a miserable confirmed opium-smoker. a-phién-sien, id. a-phién-gièn, craving or horrors of opium, from not getting the usual dose. a-phién-kut, emaciated condition from opium-smoking. a-phién-hun-bîn, cadaverous face of confirmed smoker. chiáh a-phién, to smoke opium. tiâu a-phién, unable to break off opium-smoking, except by medicine. a-phién chiáh-tiâu, id.

phien (R. id.), to deceive. phah-phien, id. khi-phien (r.), id. phien-lâng siet--lâng, to cheat or deceive people. háng-phien, to threaten and deceive. háng-phien-sút, id. koái-phien, to swindle; to kidnap by alluring away. phien-chhiá<sup>n</sup> hāi-gō, said of breaking a promise (lit. starving a guest). phien-kúi, do you think you can thus deceive me? (as you could a ghost). teh-phien-kúi, id. kúi-á phien kúi-ông, said of an inferior trying to deceive his superior, but quite unable. moá<sup>n</sup>-phien, to deceive. moá<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> phien-tōe, to deceive Heaven and Earth. moá<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> phien-lâng, to deceive Heaven and men. moá<sup>n</sup>-pê phien-bú, to deceive parents. bêng-moá<sup>n</sup> àm-phien, to deceive and cheat both secretly and openly.

馬扁

phiet [R. lame; feet turned outwards]. phiet-kha, the feet naturally turned outwards. kha phiet-khui, the feet much turned outwards, as in walking. kiá<sup>n</sup>-lê phiet-phiet, walking with the feet much turned outwards. phiet-phiet oat-oat, walking with feet turned out, and swaying about in a slow self-important manner.

斃

phiet (R. id., = col. phoat), a down-stroke slanting to the left. bú--ji bō-chit-phiet, the character "bú" (military) has no slanting down-stroke, meaning that military mandarins are generally illiterate.

撇擊

ni<sup>n</sup>-phiet-chhiu, mustaches. lí-phiet-chhiu, id. nng-phiet chit-tuh, mustaches and a beard (said in joke).

kap-i phiet-chhe, to be at variance or not on good terms with him.

phiet — phiet--chit-ê, to give a slap with the hand, as on a boy's skin, so as to make the blow ring loud.

phiet — giet--lâng phiet--lâng, to scold severely, violently, or contemptuously, so as to make one quite ashamed (v. giet).

phiet — phiau-phiet, having an animated or intelligent appearance; easy and unconstrained in manner, as man who has confidence in his own ability and knowledge of the matter.

phiet (T. phiét; C. poá<sup>n</sup>), an earthen plate; a plateful. chit-phiét-*chhài, a plateful of condiments. si-phiét, chit-oá"-*thng, four plates and a bowl of soup, as usual in feasts.

phiét (T.), = A. phiét, a plate.

撇 phiét (R. id.), to flap the wings. phiét-sit, id. phiét-phiét, sound of flying or of wings flapping. phiét-phiét-háu, id.

phih (C.), word used in vile scolding (to commit impurity), = kàn.

phih — phih-phih phiák-phiák, sound as of heavy drops of rain.

phih (C. phi). ng-phih-phih, very yellow, as face.

phih<sup>n</sup> (cf. pī; C. pī<sup>n</sup>). phih<sup>n</sup>-phih<sup>n</sup>-*chhoán, to pant hard.

天

phiu (= phien). phin-phia<sup>n</sup>-*sin, a very malicious demon (v. phia<sup>n</sup>).

phin — phin-phin phiang-phiang, sound of a vibrating string.

phin [R. phín? cf. pêng, the apple]. phin-phau, a sort of creeper with a fruit like a fig (v. phau).

phin (C.) phin-pho, = A. phun-pho, in great poverty.

潮

phin (R. phêng). phin-phông, sound of waves or of water violently moved (v. phông).

phin, sloping, off the perpendicular; leaning to one side; to stagger. phin-phin-phin, very much off the perpendicular; holding his head to the side in a proud overbearing way, as a young fellow. oai phin-phin, much off the perpendicular. khi-phin, leaning to one side; having one shoulder higher than the other, or head to one side; leaning over, as wall; having one shoulder high, as mountain. thán-phin, to turn one's self sidewise so as to get through a narrow passage or to pass another in a narrow lane. thán-phin-sin, id. phin-lái phin-khi, to stagger, as when drunk. phin-chit-ê, as stagger, as from a blow.

phin, to make an agreement; to promise formally. phin-bêng, id. goá ká-li-phin, I promise you.

phin, to boast. phin-phóng, id. phin-béng, to boast of power or influence; to be overbearing. phin béng-lám, id. phin-gâu, to boast of ability. phin pún-sū, id. phin-phah, to be very overbearing, tyrannical, and unjust; always threatening to beat people. phin ũ-kong-lô, to boast of merit.

口

phin [R. sort; kind; rank], rank of mandarins. phin-chit, official rank. phin-kip, titular rank. kék-phin, the very highest mandarin rank. it-phin, of the first general rank. chiá"-it-phin, of the very highest grade of rank. chiông-it-phin, of the lower division of the first rank. sì-phin, of the fourth rank (&c.) it-phin-lám, very bright light purplish blue.

phin-hêng, conduct; behaviour. jín-phin, id. phin-sêng, character and disposition, natural or acquired. phin-keh (r.), general form of body. phin-phêng (R.), to criticize, as men or writings.

phin-liâu, materials. toá-phin-oá<sup>n</sup>, a large sort of bowl.

phin — phin-siau, a flute. phin-á, id. phin-ná, id. phin-ná-méh<sup>n</sup>, the bamboo tongue of a flute. phin-koán, a flute and three guitars (v. koán).

phiô (R. phiâu), a floating weed like duck-weed, eaten by ducks. tsúi-phû-phiô, id. hê-phiô, to gather duckweed with a strainer.

phiô [R. phiâu, a cup made of a gourd], a sort of ladle or large cup for lading out things. iá-phiô, a

管

品

藻

瓢

split cocoa-nut used as a ladle. hâu-phiô, ladle made from the shell of the king-crab. chhâ-phiô, a wooden ladle. thih-phiô, an iron ladle.

劑

phiô [R. to pierce; light; nimble], light, as baggage or things; light and nimble in walking; slim and light in body, as man; lightly-built or lightly-laden, as a boat. phû-phiô, not to be depended on, because too impulsive, incautious, or forgetful; e.g. promising or doing things without consideration. phû-phiô ê-êe, words not to be depended on, e.g. such as the speaker will readily forget, spoken without consideration, or without examining whether true or false. kun-ki phû-phiô, horoscope bad, as of child that will be unhealthy or unlucky.

phiô (R. phiâu), to bleach. phiô-pêh, id. phiô-pê, to bleach cotton cloth. phiô-pêh-pê, id. kê-phiô, to be bleached. phiô-pháng, bleached grass-cloth. phiô-lê, to bleach by laying out in the dew at night. phiô-hong phiô-lê, bleached by the wind and dew.

漂

phiô-phâng, to splash water on a bamboo sail so as to keep it in good order.

phiô (R. phiâu), a warrant; a summons; said also of a pawn-ticket and some similar tickets. chhut-phiô, to issue a warrant. pâi-phiô, a warrant. tsu-toa<sup>n</sup> pâi-phiô, warrants in either form, either in red in mandarin's own hand, or in black with official stamp. pûih phiô-bé, said of hangers-on about yamuns, who go along with constables, pretending to be such.

票

tng-phiô, a pawn-ticket. phah-phiô, to make out a pawn-ticket. sit-phiô, to lose a pawn-ticket. pô-sit-phiô, to announce the loss of a pawn-ticket. chhut bí-phiô, to give a ticket for extra pay in lieu of rations. chi<sup>n</sup>-phiô, a note for so many cash; a sort of bank-note. ki<sup>n</sup>-phiô niá<sup>n</sup>-gún, to get money on presenting such a note, as for soldiers' pay. chiu-phiô niá<sup>n</sup>-gún, id.

phit (R. id.), an entire roll or piece of cloth; classifier of whole pieces of cloth. chit-phit-pê, one whole piece of cotton cloth. pê-phit, piece goods; cotton in entire pieces. phit-thâu siu<sup>n</sup>-*chhe, these piece goods are too coarse. bôe phit-thâu, to sell only goods in entire pieces, as a shop. phit-thâu-kau, a wholesale hong that deals only in a number of pieces of piece goods at once.

足

phit [R. one of a pair; to unite; classifier for a single horse]. phit-phòe, to unite in a pair, as man and wife, or as two things that make a pair (v. phòe). chit-phit-bé, one horse. toa<sup>n</sup>-sin phit-bé, a man who has no relations alive or near him.

phit (T.) phit-lô, = A. pit-lô, a sort of small bird.

匹

phng (R. hoan), (C. phui<sup>n</sup>), an adze; to smooth with an adze.

phng — phng-phng-háu, sound of the feathers of an arrow as it leaves the bow.

phng, sound made by a snake (esp. cobra) when just going to dart on its prey. phng-phng-háu, id.; said also of a man acting in a very imperious overbearing way.

鑄

pho [R. a wave]. pho-nng, waves. pho-lông (R.), id. pêng-tê, khí hong-pho, to cause great trouble or distress by false accusation when all was quiet and right. phun-pho, travelling about to great distances for a livelihood. phun-phun pho-pho, id. phin-pho (C.), in great poverty and misery. tsúi-pho-hûn, wavy lines of several colours at the foot of

波

the dress of some mandarins or of actors. ũ tsúi-pho-hũn, to draw lines representing waves on dress, or on other places.

lêng-pho, Ning-po.

pho-lô-bit, the jack-fruit, grown at the Straits, &c.

pho (P.), a shrub with a fruit like a rasp, also called toā-pún hê-m̄. chhi-pho, the small trailing rasp, = A. hê-m̄, or distinguished as sió-pún hê-m̄.

坡

pho [R. a mound or bank]. soa-pho, a sandy beach (Cn. soa-pō).

pi<sup>n</sup> pho-pho, level, as a level road, or as sea without waves. toā-lê, pi<sup>n</sup> pho-pho, the main road is level (said of good behaviour). chit-ê-loáh, pi<sup>n</sup> pho-pho, if he take it in hand it will be put straight at once, though it could not be done by another.

sit-lát-pho, Singapore.

頗

phó [R. slightly; somewhat; = col. phé]. phó-liók-á, to a slight degree; to a small extent. phó-phó-á, id. phó-phó-bat, to know slightly. phó-phó ôe-hiáu-tit, to understand somewhat.

有

phò (cf. phà<sup>n</sup>), soft, light, and well raised, as bread; soft, juicy, and very pleasant to eat, as sugar-cane; soft and edible, as the bones of some fish. phò-phò, id. thê phò-phò, the soil is easily worked. phò-chiòh (porous stone), pumice-stone. bin-pau phò, the bread is light and well raised. péh-phò-ké, a sort of white well-raised cake.

破

phò [R. to break, = col. phòà]. phò-hiet, to injure the blood by diminishing its quantity, as some eatables are supposed to do.

抱

phò (R. phâu), to embrace; to clasp in the arms; to carry in the arms, as a child. sa<sup>n</sup>-phò, to embrace each other. phò--ê, a son adopted from childhood. phò gín-ná, to carry a child in the arms. thau-phò gín-ná, to kidnap a child. phò kha-thâu-u, to put the arms round one's own knees, as when sitting with legs much bent.

phò-ún, to keep to safe investments in business.

phò-kò, man who acts in a lawsuit as the representative of a solitary woman, or of an old man or Kujin, or other who cannot properly be beaten in court.

huih phò-sim, the blood coming to the heart so strongly as to cause disease or death. phò-sim-khùi, feeling of pain at heart, or of confusion of thought from great fear or anxiety (v. khùi). phò-sim-pêng, the 61st radical written at the side.

部

phò [R. pō, a class, as of words under one radical; a set, as of books, &c.], a set, as of volumes; a clump of bushes, or thick tuft of grass. kui-phò, a whole set, as of volumes of a book; in a large bunch or tuft, as grass, &c., from one root, or in one tuft. chit-phò thâu-mng, a large tuft of hair, such as the Chinese wear. chit-phò chhùi-chhiu, beard and whiskers all very thick, making one mass. chit-phò chháu-á, a large bunch of grass or weeds growing. chit-phò chheh, a complete set of a book, having all the volumes.

鋪

phò (R. id.), to spread out level; to lay even, as tiles or pavement; to pave; to make, as a bridge; (bed and bedding). phè-pi<sup>n</sup>, to lay quite level and even, as tiles, &c. phè-siet, to put in order, as furniture. phè-mi<sup>n</sup>, to spread out cotton in order to make it into quilted articles; to quilt with cotton. phè-joán, to paste or glue on the feathers called "joán" on female head-dress. phè gê-pái, to lay down dominoes, as in gambling.

phè-bin, to put the best articles on the top (as of a basket of fruit), either to look well, or for deceit. phè- bin-than, putting on the appearance of diligence or goodness when observed.

phè-pái, to set things all in nice order; to treat with much respect, or pay attentions to, as by fine talk, flattery, presents, or doing services. kā-lâng phè-pái, to treat people so. gâu phè-pái, fond of paying great attentions to people, or even flattering and fawning on them.

phè-kài, mats and coverlet, bedding used in travelling. phè-pang, boards of which a tressel-bed is made. phè-chi<sup>n</sup>, money paid for bed in an inn. chhng-phè, bed and bedding. tâng-phè, using one bed; a bed-fellow. phah-phè, to make ready a bed, as for a guest or new-comer. phah tõe-phè, to spread mats, &c., on the ground for sleeping on.

phè-tsng, to lay a tiled floor. phè-chiòh, to pave with stone. phè-iú<sup>n</sup>, to put on the thin under-tiles of a roof. phè-kiò, to make a bridge.

麩

phè [R. hu, bran; husk; refuse; = col. khè]. bèh-phè, wheat bran. thâu-phè, scurf of the head.

phè [R. pō, a plain]. hng-phè, dry fields on hilly ground in general.

phè — chhùi phè, appetite bad, as from slight illness, or bad taste in the mouth.

phè (better phé). phè-sat, a Buddhist idol (v. phé).

扶

phò [R. hù, to lift up], to lift with both hands put below, as a table, or such heavy thing; to raise up, as a door difficult to open. tàu-phè, more than one raising a heavy thing with the hands. phè-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try the weight of a thing by raising it on both hands. phè--khí-lái, to lift up a little, as a table or large press, or one leg of it; to raise a little, as a door that catches in opening. phè-mng, to lift up a door thus in order to open it. phè-toh, to lift up or move a table by hands below it. phè-siu<sup>n</sup>, to lift up (or move a short distance) a heavy box by hands below it. phè-kha, to lay hold of a man's leg in order to throw him down.

phè-thá<sup>n</sup>, to flatter and fawn upon. phè-sáng, id. (v. sáng).

phò (R. id.) phè-sat, a Buddhist idol (v. sat). phè-thê, a Buddhisatwa; a certain class of Buddhist idols.

菩

phò (T. pō). phè-oá, a small sort of crab (cf. kiā-pō).

步

phò [R. pê, the Acorus]. phè-thoân, a round cushion for kneeling on in worship. chháu-phè-thoân, one made of straw. tsang-phè-thoân, one made of palm fibre.

蒲

phó (R. phó). phé-liók-á, slightly (v. liók).

頗

phó [R. a garden; a place for recreation]. siá-phé (R.), archery ground near the temple of the god of war.

圃

phó [R. a list; a book of lessons]. tsók-phé, a genealogical table; a family register. ki-phé, a book of chess lessons. ũi-phé, a book of drawing lessons. hoá-phé, id. kek-phé, a song-book with tunes. khim-phé, a book of lessons for the harp. liám-phé, to repeat the notes of a tune by name.

譜

phó [R. universal; everywhere]. phé-thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, all under heaven; all the world.

普

phó-tò, the sacred island Poo-too, near Chusan (v. tò).

phé-si, to make offerings to the dead, esp. in the 7th month. phé-tê, great Buddhist rites for the dead, usually for very great numbers at once. chê phé-tê, to perform these rites. phé-tê-kong, = tái-sū-ia, the head of the demons of these rites: some say a collective name for the whole of the ghosts then worshipped. toā-phé, the greater rites. sió-phé, the smaller rites. gin-ná-phé, rites for the dead, for which subscriptions are made or collected by young boys.

舖

phè [R. a shop; altered from "phē," to spread out], a ward in a town; a measure of ten lí; on the great roads, esp. in Cn., a league of about three miles; in the country parts, esp. in C., often four miles or more.

tsóng-phè, a ship's cook.

phè-hē, a warehouse or large shop; a firm; the master of a store or warehouse; a merchant. hāng-kau phè-hē, shops and warehouses.

phè-hūn, a ward or small division of a town (esp. in Cn.), about the size of a "pó," generally smaller than a "kóng." phè-chhiāh (Cn.), rowdies.

phè-tsām, a resting-place (generally with a shop or eating-house) at the end of a stage of ten lí. koa<sup>n</sup>-phē, the mandarin league of about three miles on the great roads. té-phē, a short league, about that length. tāg-phē, a long league, about four miles or more, as on the country roads. bīn-phē, id. peh-si<sup>n</sup>-phē, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-phē, id. kúi-phē, how many tens of lí. kúi-phē-lē, id. phē-jī, twelve lí. nāg-phē it, twenty-one lí.

phè (T.) sek-phè-si, = A. sok-pò-si, an attendant of the idol Sēng-hōng (v. si).

簿

phē [R. a book for accounts, sales, copies, registers, &c.] siāu-phē, an account-book. siāu-phē-gán, the title pasted outside. tsóng-phē, a ledger. liú-súi-phē, a scroll-book for entering sales, &c., just as made (v. súi). hè-phē, a book (in large establishments) in which goods are entered when bought or sold. chhng-kháu-phē, a book (in a vessel) recording what is shipped and delivered. tsūn-kì-phē, a book into which accounts are copied for reference if needed. chhau-phoe-phē, a letter-book.

iēn-phē, a subscription-list. jī-phē, a copy-book. tui-phē, a book of antithetic words and sentences. shg-poā<sup>n</sup>-phē, a book of arithmetic by the abacus. hoe-phē, a book of patterns for embroidery, painting, or such ornamental work. miā<sup>n</sup> chiū<sup>n</sup> koa<sup>n</sup>-phē, one's name put on the mandarin's books, as a party in a case.

phè — chiā-phè, a place where a sugar-mill is worked. thng-phē, place where sugar is refined, sometimes also including a sugar-mill.

phō (T.), = A. phe (to conjecture beforehand). sai<sup>n</sup>-phō, id.

phō (T. Cn.), = A. phē, skin.

phō (T.) thē-phō, clods of earth.

phō (T. Cn.), = A. phē, a chip.

phō (T. Cn.), = A. phē, a coverlet; also (T.), a cloth for strapping a child on the back. phō-á (T.), that cloth.

phoa (C.), = A. pha, to cast a net or anchor, &c.

潑

phoā [R. phoat, to dash water, = col. phoah]. phoā-noā<sup>n</sup>, shamelessly urgent, as beggar. chhāi-phoā-noā<sup>n</sup>, id., or as child or poor relative (v. chhāi). sái-phoā-noā<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

phoā — chhau-jīō-phoā, smell of urine on clothes, beds, &c.

破

phoā (R. phò), to break, to tear; (to spend); broken, tattered, having holes or rents. phoā-phoā, quite broken; falling into decay; broken down, as an uncareful house. phoā-sām, greatly decayed or worn out.

phoā-noā<sup>n</sup>, tattered and ragged, as dress (v. noā<sup>n</sup>), (s. shamelessly urgent). phoā-sng, broken down; dilapidated. phoā-siū<sup>n</sup>, maimed or greatly deformed. phoā-pi<sup>n</sup>, unwell; sick; a serious flaw. phoā-pāi, all squandered or lost; wasted away, as family property; ruined and bankrupt. khít--i phoā-pāi, the whole affair is ruined by him, e.g. by his unlucky horoscope, or by his letting out a secret or doing some very improper thing.

ū phoā-phah, to have some fault or blemish, or at least good ground for suspicion. bō-chit-tiām-á phoā-phah, nothing whatever that can be found fault with. khòā<sup>n</sup>-chhut phoā-phah, to find out a secret fault. phoā-tiā<sup>n</sup>, secret let out so that the affair is quite ruined. phoā-khang, id. phoā-phāng, id. khòā<sup>n</sup>-chhut phoā-phāng, to find a way of getting at a secret.

khòā<sup>n</sup>-phoā, to see through, as an affair (v. khòā<sup>n</sup>). chhut-phoā, to become known, as a secret. kóng-phoā, to tell the particulars. sōh-phoā (Cn.), id. tiām-phoā, to explain something hard to understand, as a difficult passage; to give warning about a man or plan supposed by the other to be safe, while really very dangerous. phoā-àn, distinguishing the truth of a case by minute examination (v. àn). phoā-tōe, to give the meaning of the text in an essay (v. tōe).

phoā-pit, to go to school for the first time. phoā-thē, to break a bit of the plaster of a house to be repaired; done on a lucky day, and the work left to be done when convenient.

phoā-tsām, to speak beforehand against another's plan so as to prevent its accomplishment.

phoā-khui, to break open. phoā-khui sim-koa<sup>n</sup> kóng, to speak out one's whole mind. phoā-sim, id. goá phoā-sim kā-lí-kóng, I tell you all my heart. phoā-pak, to rip open the belly; to tell one's whole mind.

phoā-tá<sup>n</sup>, to lose one's courage; very much terrified. phoā-gēh, very unfavourable horoscope because the month disagrees with the year (v. gēh). phoā-ke, to injure the fortune of the house, as bride having bad horoscope (v. ke). phoā-tsāi, to waste wealth (v. tsāi). phoā-chi<sup>n</sup>, to spend money in great quantities; to waste or lose money. phoā-chi<sup>n</sup> iah-miā<sup>n</sup>, to lose money but get long life (v. iah). phoā-hùi, to waste, as property.

phoā-ka<sup>n</sup>, to break open a prison. phoā-siā<sup>n</sup>, to take a city. phoā-hiāh, to wound one's own forehead, as a beggar. phoā-chhā, to split wood. phoā-bih, to split up slips of bamboo. phoā-ô, to gather oysters.

phoā-phāng, a bit of a rainbow seen only at the end. phoā-sa<sup>n</sup>, ragged clothes. tsúi lâu phoā-pē (water floats away the tattered cloth), said of a man careless of matters intrusted to him. phoā-ké kiū-gēh (a broken drum may save the moon), don't throw away a broken article, it can be of some use.

tsūn phoā, shipwreck. phoā-chhéh<sup>n</sup>, broken and harsh, as voice. thau phoā, hī uih, head and ears cut and wounded.

phah-phoā, to break. kòng-phoā, to break by a blow. kòng-lòng-phoā, id. siak-phoā, to break by dashing on the ground. piak-phoā, break by cracking, as a pot, &c. &c.

kau-phoā, a tonal mark.

phoā<sup>n</sup> [R. phoan, water in which rice has been washed, = col. phun], a surname.

phoā<sup>n</sup> (phoā<sup>n</sup>? R. hoān, a fence). phoā<sup>n</sup>-khē, the treasury of the provincial treasurer.

潘藩

判

phoá<sup>n</sup> (C. Cn.), = A. poá<sup>n</sup>, to climb over.

phoá<sup>n</sup> (R. phoán), to give sentence or decision, as in a civil case about disputed property or terms of agreement about managing it. phoá<sup>n</sup>-toán, to give sentence. phoá<sup>n</sup>-àn, id. sím-phoá<sup>n</sup> (r.), id. kong-phoá<sup>n</sup>, to make public decision, esp. as arbiter. phoá<sup>n</sup> hē--i, to decide that it belongs or be assigned to him. phoá<sup>n</sup> kui sím-mih-lâng, to decide to which party the property disputed belongs, as arbiter or judge. phoá<sup>n</sup> tiòh-pê--i, decide that he is to make reparation. phoá<sup>n</sup>-háp, bô phoá<sup>n</sup>-khui, in a dispute between man and wife, it should be decided so as to avoid separating them.

phoá<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, civil and military assistants of the idol Sêng-hông; also used at the Tang-gák. bún-phoá<sup>n</sup>, the civil one. bú-phoá<sup>n</sup>, the military one. phoá<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup> kip-sài, both the civil and military attendants.

販

phoá<sup>n</sup> [R. hoán, to sell], to buy out of a wholesale store at a cheap rate, as pedlars and small shop-keepers do. phoá<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup>-khi-bôe, to buy things very cheap in order to sell them at a profit.

伴

phoá<sup>n</sup> (R. phoán), to keep company with; to walk along with. pôe-phoá<sup>n</sup>, id., as sitting or drinking together. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoá<sup>n</sup>, to keep company together. tsòe-phoá<sup>n</sup>, to be a companion. tâng-phoá<sup>n</sup>, a companion; an equal. hó-ê-phoá<sup>n</sup>, a good and useful companion. bô-phoá<sup>n</sup>, without a companion. û-phoá<sup>n</sup>, to have a companion or associate. û chi<sup>n</sup>-phoá<sup>n</sup>, to have good cash put along with it, as a bad cash that could not otherwise have been used.

sa<sup>n</sup>-phoá<sup>n</sup> kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk together, as any one. phoá<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to convey a bride to her future home, as a company of six or a dozen young men do. phoá<sup>n</sup>-pâng, an old matron accompanying the bride to her new home, to assist her in receiving visitors and various ceremonies. phoá<sup>n</sup>-che (C.), = tiàu-tsoá, to call on a family performing the rites for the dead, and make offerings with them.

phoá<sup>n</sup>-pau, ornamental purses worn at the girdle (v. pau). tiám báng-hun, phoá<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>, to keep up one's spirits by getting a companion (v. báng). phoá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, taking something in the hand, just that it may not be empty, but without any special purpose. phoá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú ê-mih, something thus taken in the hand, as a fan or tobacco-pipe. phoá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú bóng-kiáh, just take it in your hand, as a stick. phoá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>, to arrange ornamental things so as to look well together, as on a table or as before a shrine; to do something just as it happens to be in our way (v. toá<sup>n</sup>). hé-hi-chháu phoá<sup>n</sup> phún-kéng (a small plant round the roots of a pot-flower), said of a man joining others, though he might well be dispensed with.

潑

phoah [R. phoat, to dash water; active], to dash or splash water about; to come in large drops on one or into a place, as rain or splashed water. phoah-jip, to be dashed in, as rain or waves. phoah-tám, to wet or moisten by water splashing in, &c. phoah-tsúi, to dash or splash water about. tsúi phoah-lòh-tôe (water spilt on the ground), the thing is done now (or gone wrong), and cannot be helped or altered; words once spoken or deeds once done cannot be taken back. tsúi phoah-lòh-tôe, oh siu-khi (or "lân siu-tit-khi"), id.

phoah-lâm, to throw up salt water into the salt-pans. phoah-chhân, to scatter manure (esp. liquid) over fields.

鍬

phoah [R. phoat, a knife for cutting grass].

phoah-chháu (Cn.), to smooth away grass, roots, and a little earth, from the borders of fields. phoah chhân-hoá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

phoáh (cf. phoán). phoán-phoáh, to treat with polite and obsequious attentions.

拔

phoáh [R. poát, to pull, = col. poáh, pùih], to stretch out cloth with the hands while roughly measuring or examining it.

phoáh-tháng (C.), = poáh-tháng, a bucket for drawing water. chit-phoáh-tsúi (C.), a bucketful of water from a well.

phoáh, to throw loosely over one's shoulders, as a long cloth (kha-kun) or scarf; to lay loosely over a railing or on the back of a chair, as clothes; to hang, as a long cushion, on the back of a chair. phoáh-lok--teh, to lay thus on a railing, &c., as clothes to dry. âng-lín phoáh-kah, having a red scarf thrown over the shoulders and crossed on the breast, as a new-made graduate; said also of the two long pieces of red cloth used on the sedan at a marriage (given respectively by the bride and bridegroom), which are a perquisite of the go-between.

盤

phoáh (cf. phoán). phoáh-kha, to cross the legs, either the one over the other, or over another man's. kha sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh, one leg stretched out and laid over the other foot; or legs of two men crossed, e.g. lying on the ground. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh, crossed or interlaced, as legs crossed, or as arms on each other's shoulders. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-chhiú, crossing each other's arms, as over shoulders. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-keng, arms on each other's shoulders, counted a vulgar attitude. sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-siá, image of two idols represented as if wrestling with each other (T. sa<sup>n</sup>-poáh-kong).

phoán [R. poán, a plate; to calculate; to hold friendly intercourse; = col. poá<sup>n</sup>; cf. phoáh], to fawn upon, as a man of wealth or influence. phoán-phoáh, to treat with polite, obsequious attention. phoán-soán, to associate intimately and constantly, as friends. tái-phoán siáu-phoán, licentious jesting, dalliance or illicit intercourse with women or bad companions. phoán tsa-bé, to be too intimate with women, but not necessarily implying criminal intercourse. phoán tsú-tê, to make associates of wealthy, idle, fast young fellows, so as to get money, food, or amusement, at their expense. phoán thâu-ke, to fawn upon and flatter an employer or patron.

phoán-ké, the first man, he who shaped heaven and earth into their present form.

phoán-thúí, cross-legged, as when sitting. thiáp-phoán, id. kha thiáp-phoán, id. phoán-thúí teh-chê, to sit with the legs drawn up and crossed on the seat. thiáp-phoán teh-chê, id. (=kha thiáp-khoán). phoán-thúí-í, a large stool.

洋

phoán [R. a semicircular pool at the Confucian temple, &c.] phoán-kióng, the whole inclosure of the Confucian temple grounds in a Foo city. jip-phoán, to become a Sew-tsai graduate.

潑

phoat [R. to dash or splash, as water; lively; = col. phoah]. hoát-phoat, active and lively, as person; easy, graceful, and flowing, as written characters.

phoat-chiën, fond of scolding and quarrelling, as woman. sái-phoat, violent and shameless in demanding, as beggar, &c. (v. sái). siet-phoat, id.; quarrelling in an unwomanly way, as a woman. sat-phoat, id. sat-phoat-hū, a railing, scolding, odious woman. sat-phoat ê tsa-bé, id. sat-phoat li-hái, do, as woman.

撇

phoat (R. phiet), = phiet, a down-stroke to the left. chit-phoat, one such stroke. n̄ng-phoat-chhiu, moustaches. phoat-chhe, to make a diagonal cross; at variance.

批

phoe [R. phe, the official written answer to petitions, &c.; to criticize; a written comment or gloss; a document like a lease], (C. phe), a letter; an epistle; to write the official answer on a petition or complaint, as the mandarin does; to write the answer to an inquiry by divination; the mandarin's written answer to a complaint, &c.; to write a note, comment, or addition to a deed. phoe-gú (C. phe-gí), the answer of the mandarin to a petition or complaint, posted up at the gate of the yamun. phoe tsún, favourable answer to the petition. phoe m̄-tsún, refusal of it. phoe pok, answer unfavourable, or finding fault. bē-phoe (C. bē-phe), answer not yet issued. phoe-tsūng, to write the answer on a complaint. phoe-àn, id. tsu-phoe, an order from the emperor.

phoe-bēng, to write an additional clause or explanation on a deed. phoe ti-khōe-bé, id., at the end of the deed. phoe-phēng, to criticize, as man's character or conduct, or as books or essays.

tiēn-phoe, a document given by the tenant of house or land to the owner as an acknowledgment of his ownership and proof of conditions of lease. tāi-phoe (T.), id. tūi-phoe (Cn.), id.

khó toā-pang-phoe, to be first on the list of the new Sew-tsai graduates, so as to become a līm-seng at once.

phoe-sin (r.), a letter. phoe-sin óng-lái, correspondence on both sides. phoe-tsat, a letter; models of letters. phoe-kheh, a man who collects letters (as abroad, or for going abroad), and carries them for a small charge. phoe-lóng, an envelope. phoe-tē (r.), id. chit-tiu-phoe, one letter. siá-phoe, to write a letter. hē-phoe (C. hē-phe), to answer a letter. kiá-phoe, to send a letter. hong-phoe, to seal a letter. thiah-phoe, to open a letter. khòa-phoe, to read a letter silently. koá-phoe, to be very busy getting a letter ready for an opportunity. tsáu-phoe, to be a letter-carrier or courier (tsáu-phoe ê-láng).

phoe (C.), = A. phe, to conjecture beforehand; to risk, as life. pān-phoe, to conjecture or expect beforehand (v. pān).

phoe (C.) tsóá-phoe, = A. tsóá-phe, pasteboard.

phoe (C.), = A. phe, an unfinished article. sí-láng-phoe, a man so sick that he is just ready to die; a useless fellow who might as well die.

phoe [R. phi? phe?], (C. phe), to cut horizontally; to cut off a thin slice; to smooth away, as wood with an adze. phoe tsòe-n̄ng-pēng, to slice into two slices. phoe-phoe tsòeh-tsòeh, may you be sliced up and minced small!

phóe (C.), = A. phé, skin; bark.

phóe (C. phé; T. Cn. phúi). chhùi-phóe, the cheek. siēn chhùi-phóe, to slap on the cheek with the palm. koat chhùi-phóe, id. phah chhùi-phóe, to strike the cheek with the hand or a piece of wood.

kha-chhng-phóe, the hip. chē chit-phóe, to sit on one hip.

oai-phóe, having one side (or one cheek) projecting more than the other, either originally or from an accident; e.g. as an article originally made with the two sides different. oai chit-phóe, id. khi-phóe, id.

phòe (C.), = A. phùi, to spit.

phòe (C.), = A. phè, a chip.

phòe (C. phè; Cn. T. phúi). moā-phòe, hemp-bark stripped off ready to be torn up into shreds.

chit-phòe lê-hē, one leaf of the aloe. lê-hē chit-phòe, id.

phòe [R. to associate; to mate; a fellow], (also, C., = A. phè, to be eaten along with, as a condiment). sa-phòe, to make a suitable pair; to fit well together, as two things; to be betrothed or become man and wife. siong-phòe, fitting or agreeing well together, as colours, or as a set of two tables, or as a couch and its footstool, &c. sù-phòe, duly proportioned; suitably mixed. kha-chhiú sù-phòe, limbs well-proportioned. phòe kun-sin, to mix certain medicines in proper proportions. phòe-kah tú-hó, articles (as dress) agreeing well together, and suitable to one's station. chiàu-phòe, mixed in proper proportions. chiàu-phòe-tah, id.; also, agreeing or fitting well, as articles of furniture or of dress. ngé-hēng phòe-tah, the five elements duly mixed in the horoscope or constitution.

phòe-hióng, to share in receiving worship and offerings, as the tablet of an inferior spirit placed at the side of the chief tablet.

phòe-tsún, to be sent (as goods or troops) by a vessel that is going at any rate, not belonging to nor chartered by the sender. i phòe goá-ê-hè, he sends his goods by my vessel. phòe-hè-toa, a bill of lading. phòe tsúi-lái, to lend money at very high interest to persons trading abroad.

phòe-chhin, to settle a marriage contract. phòe-háp, betrothed or joined in marriage. goân-phòe, the first legal wife married by a man. phòe-tūi, to be man and wife (v. tūi).

phit-phòe, joined in a pair by betrothal or marriage, or as two things set down to correspond and making a suitable pair; when said of persons it is only of betrothal or marriage. bō-phit-phòe, unequally paired, as man and wife of very different age.

hun-phòe (C.), to give in marriage, as one's daughter or secondary wife (from "hun," marriage).

hun-phòe (from "hun," to divide), to allot or apportion, as soldiers to stations, or as salt to shops. phòe hē-i-kè, to allot to him to take care of, e.g. horse to soldier. phòe-lām, to require a person (esp. shop that makes salted condiments) or region to buy so much salt at a fixed price from a certain government store whether they wish it or not.

mih-phòe (C.), = A. mih-phè, anything eaten along with rice or potatoes (v. phè).

phòe (C.), = A. phē, a quilted coverlet. thien-tē-phòe, mattress and coverlet for a corpse.

phòe (R. pāi), (C. phē), a weed like darnel or bastard wheat.

phòeh (C.), = A. phèh, foam; froth.

phòeh (C.), = A. phèh, phè. chhân-thau-phòeh, clods of earth. chhân-thē-phòeh, id. chhân-phòeh, id. thē-phòeh, id.

phoh (R. phok), refuse from distillation, infusion, or similar process. tāu-si-phoh, salted and pickled pease, after soy has been made from them, broken down small. tsau-phoh, refuse from brewing or distillation. iū-phoh, the browned residue from a mass of fat fried down, counted good eating. ióh-phoh, solid refuse of medicine that has had an infusion taken from it. tē-phoh, used tea-leaves. tē-sim-phoh, id.

phoh [R. phok, bark; unwrought wood; plain and 配

剉

皮

稗

糶

樸

simple; = col. phak]. chhø-phoh, naturally rough, big, or coarse-looking (opp. chheng-siù). phoh-sit, simple, quiet, and plain in dress, &c.; not fond of display.

chià-phoh, sugar-cane from which all the juice has been pressed out (some give this phrase to the former word).

phoh — phoh-á, a sort of tree. phoh-á-hiòh, leaves used as sand-paper.

phok (R. id., = col. phoh, phak). phok-sit, straightforward; honest; simple and plain in tastes and manners. phok-sø, quiet, simple, and plain, as dress, or as man not fond of gaudy things.

phok [R. extensive; learned; to play a game]. phok-hák, learned; erudite.

té-phok, gambling.
phok — phok-á, a tree with small green flowers in bunches.

phok (cf. phòng). phok--chhut-lái, to project, as part of a wall. phok--khí-lái, to rise in large blisters, as lime on a wall hulging out and ready to fall, or as ill-pasted paper. phok-phok, id. phok-kóng, small hubbles or blisters formed on wall or on pasted paper.

phok (R. id., = col. phak). phok-siau, = phak-siau, purgative salts; sulphate of soda.

phok — phok-phok, sound as of a wooden box struck. phok-phok-háu, id.

phók (cf. pòk, pùh), sound as of a fruit falling from a tree, or of a lizard falling from the ceiling. phók--chit-ê, do.; or sound of a pop-gun. phók-á, a child's pop-gun for paper pellets.

phah-phók, to make a noise by clapping hands. phah phók-phók, id.

phók-phók-chhèng, to palpitate. phók-phók-toá, id. phók-phók-thiàu, id., &c. (v. thiàu). phók-phók-tiò, to dance with emotion, as with rage or delight.

phòng [R. hòng, dark, = col. hòng]. àm-phòng, = àm-hòng, very dark, as room or lamp.

phòng [R. hòng, a flame; flaming]. hé-iàm phòng-phòng, fire blazing brightly.

phòng (cf. phiàng, phiàng). phòng--chit-ê, sound, as of a stone falling into a well. phín-phòng, sound of waves, or of water splashing. phín-phòng-háu, sound of waves, &c. phah phín-phòng, to make a noise by heating water, as man learning to swim, or as child amusing itself.

phóng — tín-phóng, a flat piece of rattan wicker-work, as for the flat part of a couch or bed. tín-phóng-i, a rattan-bottomed chair.

phóng [R. hòng; cf. hòng, phàng], to take up in the two hands together, as water, meal, &c. chit-phóng, as much as the two hands put together can hold; Scotch, "gowpen." moá-phóng, id. kàu-moá-phóng, id.

phóng (cf. phòng, pòng, phòng). im phóng-phóng, water rising very high; full and overflowing.

eng phóng-phóng, dust flying in clouds. tī-phóng-phóng (T.), very crowded, as people.

phóng — phín-phóng, to boast.

phóng — phòng--tiòh, to meet with unexpectedly. sa-phòng--tiòh, suddenly meeting, as two men. khít-i phòng--tiòh, to meet with him when it is very unpleasant, e.g. as a man against whom we are plotting, or as one's master when doing some bad thing. phòng--tiòh i, to meet him unexpectedly, either according to or against one's will; to get scolded by him just because he was bad-tempered when we met him, without our fault. phòng-teng, to provoke our superior's displeasure by some act (v. teng, "a nail"). khít-i-phòng, id.

kap-i-phòng, to make a venture in trade along with him; to ask a favour from him with but small hope of getting it. phòng-tsō-hoà, to make a venture (v. hòà). phòng lí-ê tsō-hoà, I will try to help you, but doubt of success. sam-kiok-phòng, sort of gambling with cards.

phòng [R. id., = col. phàng, phiàng; cf. phok, hàng], convex; embossed; to swell out; puffed out; swollen, as a corpse; to make an overcharge. phòng-thap, convex and concave. phòng--khì, to project; to jut out. tò-phòng--chhut-lái, to project beyond the line, as a house in a street, &c. sa<sup>n</sup> phòng-phòng, clothes hanging clumsily about one. piá<sup>n</sup> phòng-phòng, cakes well raised.

púi-phòng, = púi-phàng, corpulent. phòng-phòng-toá, children growing rapidly without illness. phòng-lin, grown fat on milk, as baby.

phòng-phā, to become blistered. phòng-kóng, rising in blisters or bubbles, as ill-pasted paper, or as lime on wall. phòng-hong, belly swollen, not severe. pak-té phòng-phòng, belly large, either naturally or from illness. ng-chèng-phòng, dropsical swelling.

phòng-sim, pieces of silver flat on one side, and round on the other, each about ten taels. phòng-hún, powder for the face, in round cakes or balls. phòng-té, an embossed panel. phòng-phê, a coverlet of loose beaten cotton (v. phê).

phòng-kè (C. phòng-kòe), lady's head-dress of peculiar form. soe phòng-tháu, to dress one's hair so.

phòng-kè, price charged more than the real price. kóng phòng-kè, to ask such a price, expecting to get it by deceit. phòng joá-tsōe-chí, how many cash overcharged? khui phòng-siàu, to put down intentionally a larger sum than the real sum. khui-khi-phòng, id. phòng-siàu, id. khui phòng-toa, id. ke phòng-tàng, to charge more than the real weight. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> phòng toá-bú-ê, heart almost bursting with grief; greatly elated at good news, and expecting far more than the news justify; very covetous, asking far more than the proper price. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> phòng joá-toá, covetously asking far too much.

phòng (cf. phòng, pòng). iàm phòng-phòng, fire blazing up, as of wood.

phòng (= pòng). phòng-song, loose and bulky, as parcel or dress (v. song).

phòng — phòng-phòng, sound, as of a leather box when struck. phòng-phòng-háu, to sound so, or as sound of belly distended with wind when struck. phòng-phiang, sound of heating cotton with a bow.

phòng — phòng-phòng-si<sup>n</sup>, breeding abundantly, as men or animals.

phòng [R. phòng, dust flying]. eng phòng-phòng, dust flying in clouds. phòng-phòng eng, id. ien phòng-phòng-chhèng, steam rushing out in great quantities. phòng-phòng hun, smoke coming out in clouds. hun phòng-phòng, id.

hé-chih phòng-phòng-tòh, fire blazing up.

phu (cf. pu, hu), to blow with the mouth, so as to cool a thing, or to make fire blaze up.

朴樸

博樸

朴

煌

捧

碰

呼

芙蓉浮

phû (R. hú). phû-iông-hoe, the tree mallow.
phû (R. pò), (C. pé). phû-tô, the grape; the vine (v. tô).

phû (Cn.) phû-lí, = hê-lí, a fox.

phû (R. hú), to float; able to move or float freely, as a vessel that has just weighed anchor, or as something that formerly could not be moved; to appear on the skin, as veins, or as some diseases; in full relief, as carving; weak and weary, as eyes or legs; bad, as horoscope.

phû-phû, careless in manner of doing business; not to be depended on, as one who readily forgets his promises. phû-phiò, id. (v. phiò). phû-phû iô-iô, walking in a swaggering way. phû-ê miâ<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, empty frame. khah-phû, rather careless; not deep in the water, as a gentle stroke of the oar, &c. &c. poâ<sup>n</sup>-lám-phû, hanging up a matter without giving a definite answer or settlement. ôh poâ<sup>n</sup>-lám-phû, to learn only half well.

phû-sû, an island. phû-chiôh, a rock loose on the surface (opp. tiâm-ê). khék-phû, to cut characters in relief. mêh<sup>n</sup> phû, the pulse in such a state that it is felt at a touch. chhi<sup>n</sup>-kun phû, veins appearing on the skin. im-chek-hûn phû-chiû<sup>n</sup>-bin, lines showing benevolence appearing on the face, omen of good luck. chhut-tsu bê-phû (C.), small-pox not able to form the pustules fully, very dangerous form.

thun-thê phû-tim, understanding to say just as much as is suitable (v. tím).

bák-chiu phû, eyes looking very wearied or drunk. kha phû, legs weak and unable to stand, as from sickness (esp. a convalescent), or from liquor. kun-ki phû, horoscope bad, as of a child fated to be unhealthy or unfortunate. kun-ki phû-phiò, id.

phû-chi<sup>n</sup>, a round flat socket for a lamp wick, either floating or supported on a stand. phû-thang, a buoy. phû-iú, floating in oil or melted fat, as in cooking.

pàng-phû, to put out a boat so far that it will not get aground at low tide. kiâu hê-i-phû, prize up with a lever till it starts and moves. tiá<sup>n</sup>-kám phû, the lid of the rice boiler moving in boiling (said of a very heavy sort of usury), (v. tiá<sup>n</sup>). kha-chhng thé-phû, to make a slight movement, as if rising from one's seat, as in welcoming some one coming in.

phû-ku, to live at a place for a short time. phû-kí (C.), id.

phû chit--ê báu-miâ<sup>n</sup>, to put a name on the books of a sub-office in a yamun for protection (v. báu).

phû (T. puh). thê-phû, a gray or dark-coloured wingless insect that crawls on the ground, breeding in damp places. tê-phû, id. thê-phû-á, id.

phû — si<sup>n</sup>-phû, to become slightly mouldy. chhiû<sup>n</sup>-phû, id. chhâu-phû-bi, musty taste.

phû (cf. bû). bák-chiu phû-phû, eyes not seeing clearly (not so bad as "hoe"), as from old age, illness, or liquor; or only half open, as when just half awake. bák-chiu beh-phû beh-phû, eyes getting dim, as of old man.

phû — phû-sek, grayish. thi<sup>n</sup> phû-kng, dawn. phû-á-kng, id. phû-phû kng, id. phah-phû-kng, id. thi<sup>n</sup> phû-phû, á-bê kng, the very earliest and faintest dawn.

phû, to boil up, as when beginning to boil over. phû--chhut-lái, to boil over. phû--khi<sup>n</sup>-lái, to boil and bubble up, as boiling rice.

phû-phû-ien, steam coming out in large quantities (cf. phông). phû-phû eng, dust or powdered lime flying all about.

phû, noise of birds flying away. phû--khi<sup>n</sup>-lah, the birds are flown!

phû (cf. puh). phû-phû-chhoán, to pant and gasp for breath.

phuh (cf. phû, bû), to puff out, as smoke; to spurt or blow out from the mouth, as water; to blow in (by a tube (as a medicinal powder), as into the ear, nose, or throat. phuh--jip-khi<sup>n</sup>, to blow in thus, as a medicine. phuh-iôh-hún, to blow in a medicinal powder in this way. phuh soa-iôh, to blow a powder (by a tube) into another's nostrils for cure of cholera or colic.

phuh hun-chhê, to puff out tobacco smoke from the mouth in short puffs. phuh chhi<sup>n</sup>-hun, to puff out the smoke of raw tobacco. phuh-hiet-kák, to blow away (the smoke) without swallowing it.

khi<sup>n</sup> kàu phuh-phuh-thê (T.), to pant and blow with rage.

phuh [R. pók, thin; weak; = col. pòh, pùh]. chiá<sup>n</sup>-phuh-phuh, very insipid.

phuh — phâ<sup>n</sup>-phuh, appearing fat and strong, but really weak; apparently large, but hollow within. hâm-phuh, dropsical swelling.

sia<sup>n</sup> phuh-phuh, sound dull, as of a bad dollar or of lead when struck.

phuh — chit-phuh-sái, a lump of excrement.

phúi (Cn. T.), = A. phóe (the ccek, the hip, &c.)

phùi (R. phi), passing of wind. chhâu-phùi, id. pàng-phùi, to pass wind. pàng-káu-phùi (lit. like a dog's), I am not afraid of your threats (vulg.)

phùi (C. phòe), to spit; to scold very violently and contemptuously. phùi-thâm, to spit up phlegm. phùi-huih, to spit blood (v. huih). phùi-âng, id. phùi-noá<sup>n</sup>, to spit. phùi péh-noá<sup>n</sup>, white saliva about the mouth, as about to die. phùi i-ê-noá<sup>n</sup>, to spit while speaking ill of him, a very great insult. noá<sup>n</sup> phùi-kâu-bin, ka-kí chhit, if he spit on our face we wipe it off (said of overcoming by patience and good temper). phùi-bin (scolding phrase), mean, nigardly, shameless fellow; quite regardless of character. phùi-bin-lâng, a man who for a little gain will do any shameful thing or submit to any indignity, being utterly careless of his character. ká-i phùi--khi<sup>n</sup>, scold him violently and drive him away. hê-i-phùi, to be scolded very violently by him (by a superior) so as to be quite put to shame. kù-i-phùi, ù sím-mih<sup>n</sup> iâu-kín, let him spit (and scold), it is of no consequence.

phùi (Cn. T.), = A. phòe, bark (as of hemp) stripped off.

phùi (T.) jiô-phùi, = Cn. jiô-pùi, a sort of stink-ing insect.

phùi (T.) ám-phùi, = ám-pùi, coagulated scum of rice-water.

phui<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. phng, an adze; to smooth with an adze. thán-tó teh-phui<sup>n</sup>, to smooth horizontally with an adze.

phùi<sup>n</sup> (C.), to ebb, as tide. tsúi phùi<sup>n</sup>, ebb-tide. phùi<sup>n</sup>-chhut tng-jip, ebb and flood.

phun [R. phùn, to run away]. phun-pho, travelling about in search of employment (v. pho).

phun (R. phoan, = col. phoa<sup>n</sup>), water in which rice has been washed. bí-phun, id. sóe-bí-phun, id. sng-phun, id., become sour by standing. phun-ám,

薄

屁
唾

蟻

奔
潘

虫

噴

rice-water mixed with the water in which rice was washed. phun-tsô, a trough for such swill for pigs to drink.

phùn — khê-phùn, at variance, as two persons.

phùn [R. poân, a plate or dish, = col. poà<sup>n</sup>, phoân]. pí<sup>n</sup>-pò-phùn, paying merely the expenses, or very little more, as trade, either regular trade or a venture.

phùn (R. id.), a basin; a stoneware pot for flowers. bîn-phùn, a basin of earthenware or metal. tâng-bîn-phùn, a brass basin. hoe-phùn, a fine earthenware pot for flowers. chit-phùn-hoe, one containing flowers or a flower. phùn-kéng, the arrangement of flowers and flower-pots so as to look well (v. kéng).

lím-phùn, to be in labour, as woman.

sio hé-phùn, to burn large heaps of fuel on 1.15 for people to leap through. thiàu-hé-phùn, to leap through these fires. hì-phùn, sort of plays acted for the dead, with figures of pig and monkey. phah hì-phùn, to have them acted. poa<sup>n</sup> hì-phùn, id.

hó-phùn-kháu, generally successful in gambling. chiáh phah-phùn, to smoke only a little opium; not yet inveterate.

phùn (cf. phién, phùn), to throw about earth or sand, as fowls or children. phùn-thê, id.

phùn--tsáu, to struggle and burst away after having been caught. phùn-khui--khì, id.

phah-phùn, to waste or spoil things by careless use; to struggle to get off, as man or fish; to flap the wings (as fowl) to throw off water or dirt. phah-phùn-êng, to use lavishly, as money; to spend lavishly. lâm-sám phah-phùn, id.

sái-phùn (Cn.), to behave in an overbearing manner.

phùn [R. to run]. phùn--tsáu, to run away and escape. tsáu phùn-phùn, to run very quickly.

phùn (T. phut). sang phùn-phùn, well-cooked and mealy, as potatoes, &c.

phùn (cf. phún). hoa-phùn, making one's self big and self-important, as by dress, words, or bearing. kek hoa-phùn (esp. Cn.), to put on such an appearance.

phùn [R. to snort or sneeze; to spurt water], (cf. phut, pū), to splash up or out; to sprinkle; to spatter. phùn-chhut, to spark out, as water or sparks. phùn-hê, wet with some drops of rain. phùn-tiòh-hê, id. phùn-tsúi, to water or wet in small quantities or a few drops. tsúi-phùn, an instrument like the rose of a watering-can with holes in it. phùn-tháng, a bucket for watering, made with a long bamboo spout.

kâm-huih phùn-thi<sup>n</sup> (to spit blood towards heaven), daring to tell great lies, esp. accusing falsely of great crimes.

phùn-tiám, to splash with water or dirt; to get slightly wet with rain blown in; to make a small present. kap-i phùn-tiám, to make him a small present. phùn-kim-tiám, to spot over with gilt spots, as in painting, or as ornamental paper. phùn-hê-tiám, to get spotted with rain.

phut, to cut with sword or knife; to prune, as branches. phut--sí, to kill by a sword-cut. phut chhiü-ki, to cut off branches. chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhák tò-phut, stabbing and cutting in all directions, as in close conflict; said also of an unskilful workman spoiling and wasting his material. lâm-sám-phut, to cut at random, as with sword or knife, &c.

phut — phut-phut-thiàu, to leap about, as for joy, or as a child; to leap, as a flea. phut-phut-tiò, to leap about, as in rage, or as child urgently asking something.

phut (cf. phún, phùn). súi phut-phut, gaudily dressed. kàu-hiah-phut, how gaudily dressed! chheng--khì chin-phut, to dress very gaudily. chin-phut, very gaudy, as dress. ká<sup>n</sup>-phut, spending far too much money.

phut (R. id.) phang phut-phut, very fragrant.

phut (T.) sang phut-phut (= A. phún), well cooked and mealy.

盤
盆

噴 噴

刺

連

翻
醇

S.

sa (R. sand, = col. soa, (C. sē). bān-lí tiông-sa, the Prata shoals. ngé-tiàu-sa, five dangerous sand-banks between Shanghai and Shantung. chiü<sup>n</sup>-sa, to come to that part when sailing north. lòh-sa, to get south of these banks when coming south.

sa-tsūn, junks from Ningpo and Shanghai (of medium size), with numerous characters on each side of the bow.

sa (cf. sā, (C. soa). sa-bui, eyes almost closed (v. bui).

sa (cf. sau). hā-sa, opening into chinks with drought, as a tub.

sa — sa-som, a medicinal plant (v. som).

sa — sa-jin, a white medicinal fruit like an almond (Amomum Xanthoides?).

sa [R. siau, saltpetre and such salts; also written "sa," one of the characters for "sand;" = col. sē]. jiâu-sa (r.), sal-ammoniac.

sa (C. sē). chhiü-sa, the mountains seeming almost to inclose a grave, as with arms stretched out. sa-chhiü, id. tsó-sa iü-sa, do. on the left and right; that on the right ought to be the shorter. hé-sa, the one on the right hand. liông-sa, that on the left. hé-sa kè-bîn, the right-hand one turning round and coming in front of the grave (counted unlucky). hé-sa kè-bîn, pek-hé siong-jin, this form of grave urges the tiger to injure the posterity. hé-sa chhoân-tông, tsú-sun siàu-liên-bông, if so, descendants die young. liông-sa chhoân-tông, tsú-sun heng-ông, if the left arm project thus the descendants will prosper.

sa (cf. la), to scrape or sweep up with the hand (with little finger downwards), as small things from a table, or as clothes for fear of rain; to draw nearer the wind, as sail. sa-liâu, to draw the sail nearer the wind. sa-chí<sup>n</sup>, to sweep up cash from the table with the hand; to borrow money from many sources. sa-liáh, to borrow money from many sources. si-kòe-sa, id. chiá<sup>n</sup>-sa tò-sa, id. chia sa, hia sa, id. sa-lái that-khì, to scrape together and borrow money so as to pay another. ân-sa (T.), very hard up for money. sa-oá, to sweep things together with the hand, as small things on table; to bring together with the hand, as the reeds or twigs forming a brush that have been already tied together at the other end. chhìn-chhái-sa, to snatch things without liberty.

沙

石
沙

lām-sám-sa, to play blind man's-buff; to run about, as an idle useless boy; to snatch things improperly. àm-bong-sa, to grope about.

sa thâu-mûg, to brush away the hair from the forehead with the hand. bák-bái-mûg sa-bô-khí, you are acting very absurdly and only injuring yourself (v. báí).

sa (R. —; A. chhek; C. sa). bák-sa, a wooden railing of which the ends of the rails do not project above the upper horizontal bar. bák-sa-mûg, a gate made thus with perpendicular bars. bák-sa-chí, rails of a railing. sa-lân, the railing outside a yamun gate (v. lân).

sa (R. id.), (C. sè). âng-sa, a large good fish with very small scales, almost as if no scales. it ngó, jí âng-sa, the best fish is the "ngó"; the next is the "âng-sa."

sá [R. —; Cn. sá; C. soá, to sprinkle; to scatter]. siau-sá (R.), open and cheerful in manner; taking things easily and cheerfully without care or anxiety (s. play). sá-liù, skilful. sá-thoat, easy, kindly, and sociable (opp. u-khu), liberal and pleasant to deal with in business.

sá [R. —; Cn. sá; C. soá, to play or amuse one's self; = col. soá]. siau-sá, to take a walk so as to help digestion (s. cheerful).

sá (Cn.), = A. siù, to embroider, as shoes or child's cap. sá-soá<sup>n</sup>, coloured thread for embroidery.

sà [R. sound as of hoarse voice; cf. sã, soã]. sà-sà-kiò, sound as of a mat when shaken. sà-sà-háu, id.

sã (= sà; cf. soã). sã-sã-kiò, rustling sound, as of a new dress, or of reeds or trees.

sã (cf. sa, soa). bák-sã-sí, dozing; half asleep.

sa<sup>n</sup> (R. san), a coat, shirt, gown, jacket, or such dress for the upper part of the body; clothes; dress. sa<sup>n</sup>-khê, coat and trousers; one's dress. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-khê, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-toà, strings of dress of children or priests (v. toà). sa<sup>n</sup>-á-tsoe, stuff enough for a coat or shirt. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-kè, a clothes-horse.

joáh-sa<sup>n</sup>, a summer coat. tûg-sa<sup>n</sup>, a long robe or gown. té-sa<sup>n</sup>, a short dress or coat. phoà-sa<sup>n</sup>, ragged clothes. tiu<sup>n</sup>-lâu-sa<sup>n</sup>, clothes prepared beforehand for the burial of parents. chit-thò-sa<sup>n</sup>, a set of coats, vests, &c., worn at once. si-su-sa<sup>n</sup> (C.), four sets of clothes, including trowsers.

chhêng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to put on a coat or gown. moa<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, to throw a coat over one's shoulders without putting the arms in the sleeves. thûg-sa<sup>n</sup>, to undress. pak-sa<sup>n</sup>, to strip off clothes, as robber. sóe-sa<sup>n</sup>, to wash clothes; a washerman or washerwoman. siu-sa<sup>n</sup>, to take in clothes for washing; to lay away clothes, as after airing. kùi-sa<sup>n</sup>, to hang up clothes. thò-sa<sup>n</sup>, to mend by putting in a piece below (inside) and sewing down the edges.

sa<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, mutual, = col. sio, which is more usual in C.], used before verbs and some adjectives to express mutual or reciprocal action, but used also in many cases when the action is not mutual. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap, together. sa<sup>n</sup>-phah, to fight by blows. sa<sup>n</sup>-thái, to fight, as in battle. sa<sup>n</sup>-bat, acquainted (with person). sa<sup>n</sup>-tâng, quite similar; just the same. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhín-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, similar; like.

sa<sup>n</sup>-têng, to undersell; to offer a higher price in buying so as to cut out another (s. three). sa<sup>n</sup>-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to invite, as friends to a feast. sa<sup>n</sup>-kèng, to treat another politely. sa<sup>n</sup>-kiá, to intrust with a commission. sa<sup>n</sup>-sàng, to make a present. m-thang sa<sup>n</sup>-kòe, do not be offended at him (or at me). m-sái sa<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, you need not try to deceive me.

sa<sup>n</sup> (R. sam), three. tsài-sa<sup>n</sup>, over and over again; frequently. nûg-sa<sup>n</sup>, two or three; a few. sa<sup>n</sup>-nûg, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-sí, three or four. sa<sup>n</sup> ka-láu, sí tióh-poáh, all going wrong. tiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup> bé-sí, Mr. So-and-so. tiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup> bé-it, id. tiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup> lí-sí, any one; "Jones, Brown, and Robinson." mih<sup>n</sup> bôe-tiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, lái-chhê lí-sí thó-chí<sup>n</sup>, to sell things to one man and ask the price from another.

sa<sup>n</sup>-pái, thrice. sa<sup>n</sup>-kè, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-têng, three-fold, as cloth, &c. (s. mutual). sa<sup>n</sup>-pê, three times as much. sa<sup>n</sup>-kak, three-cornered; thirty cents. sa<sup>n</sup>-gêh-tsoeh, the 3.3 when the ancestors are worshipped; graves are often repaired then instead of at the chhi<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-tu, forming a triangle, as three things or places. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-tiam, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-bé, id.; also a three-legged stool used by carpenters. sái sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-liâu, sailing with wind abeam; standing with one foot forward ready to box.

sá<sup>n</sup> [R. sêng, to receive, = col. sîn], to catch, as something thrown to one; to seize, as a weapon, so as to prevent striking self or other.

sá<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sím, siá<sup>n</sup>. sá<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup>, what? which? sá<sup>n</sup>-sū, on what account?

sá<sup>n</sup> (cf. sah<sup>o</sup>). kim ná<sup>n</sup>-sá<sup>n</sup>, glittering or shining, as a smooth bright surface. kim sá<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>, id. é sá<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>, black, glossy, and shining, as finest varnish, &c.

sá<sup>n</sup> (cf. sah<sup>o</sup>, sàm). hê ná<sup>n</sup>-sá<sup>n</sup>, doing things in a negligent careless way.

sah (R. sek), (T. sah<sup>n</sup>). chháu-sah (Cn.), sort of grass slippers without heels.

sáh, to cook by boiling (gen. entire) in water alone, as meat, eggs, or vegetables. kè-sáh, already boiled, as flax. sio-sáh, roast and boiled. sáh-koe, to boil a fowl. sáh koe-nûg, to boil a hen's egg. sáh-bah, to boil a piece of meat (pork) entire. sáh pèh-hê, to boil shrimps.

sáh (mere reduplication; cf. sèb). pèh-láh-sáh, very white.

sah<sup>n</sup>, to snap up or catch in the mouth, as a dog does a fly or something thrown to it; to snap up, as a tiger does a small animal; to catch from above with the hand, as a ball or fly (but from below is "sín"); to have a strong propensity or desire towards something heard of or met with. sah<sup>n</sup>--teh, id. sah<sup>n</sup> hê-sín, to snap up flies, as dog.

teh-sah<sup>n</sup>, talking about a matter as if we knew all about it, when wholly or nearly ignorant, in order to draw out the facts from another, or to make an appearance of knowledge. lām-sám sah<sup>n</sup>, id. sah<sup>n</sup>-lái sah<sup>n</sup>-khì, id. hê--i sah<sup>n</sup>--khì, to be taken in by such talk, so that he gets the information he wishes.

sah<sup>n</sup>-hong, slightly out of sorts, supposed to be caused by a draught of wind. sah<sup>n</sup>-tióh-hong, id. sah<sup>n</sup>--tióh, feeling a sudden pain about the breast, as from striking on something, or from a strain by sudden over-exertion.

sah<sup>n</sup>-khùi, very deeply affected at sudden good or bad news. sah<sup>n</sup> sim-khùi, very strongly moved with desire for a thing, either good or bad (stronger than sah<sup>n</sup>-sim). sah<sup>n</sup>-sim, mind strongly affected by sudden news good or bad, or sudden expectations of great

柵

魚

灑

耍
耍
耍

衫

相

承
甚
閃 鳥

師

私使

advantage, sometimes so as to become ill. sah<sup>n</sup>-sim--chit-ê, id. sah<sup>n</sup>-sim lim, to gulp down eagerly (a liquid) in great quantities. chin sah<sup>n</sup>-sim, very eager, or deeply affected. m-sái sah<sup>n</sup>, don't let your mind be set on the news or rumour you have heard.

sah<sup>n</sup> (cf. sà<sup>n</sup>). hê nà<sup>n</sup>-sah<sup>n</sup>, doing things in a careless negligent way. hê sah<sup>n</sup>-sah<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

sah<sup>n</sup> [R. sek? to rest]. sah<sup>n</sup>-chî<sup>n</sup>, sudden lull in the wind.

sah<sup>n</sup> (T.) chháu-sah<sup>n</sup> (= Cn. sah), straw or grass slippers without heels.

獅

sai (R. su), a lion. hong-sai, image of a lion with an officer on its back, put on a roof to ward off evil influences. hé-sai, sort of fireworks shaped like a lion. kim-sai, a lion-shaped footstool, for some idols, and for chair of first-class mandarin. táh kim-sai, to have such a footstool. chióh-sai, a stone lion; a subdivision of the Chin-kang district of Chin-chew. chióh-sai iáh-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-kò, the most powerful men are afraid to be accused before a mandarin. ín-lê-sai, a man who leads others, either simply on the road, or to bad places; said also of the staff or long pipe by which a blind man feels his way. hó-phi<sup>n</sup>-sai, good at smelling, as food (said jocularly). hióng-thien-sai, said of a man with his face to the sky. iô-sai, children shaking about their heads with a hand at each temple.

sai-ia<sup>n</sup>, a lion's mane. thâu-khak sai-sai, head large and round, as man's.

hé-sai, tigers and lions (s. shell-fish). hé-pà sai-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, tigers, leopards, lions, and elephants. hê-sai-káu, a shaggy short-legged dog. lâm-sai-káu, id.

sai (Cn.) iú<sup>n</sup>-kóng-sai, = am-pê-chê, the cicada. iú<sup>n</sup>-pô-sai, id.

sai — hé-sai, a sort of shell-fish like a small crab (s. lion).

sai (R. se). sai-gû, the rhinoceros. sai-gû-phê, its skin (medicinal). sai-kak, its horn.

sai (R. se), west. sai-hng, the west. sai-si, id. sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, western nations; Europe; foreign cotton cloth (v. iú<sup>n</sup>). sai-lé, the Russians (v. lé). soa<sup>n</sup>-sai, Shan-si. siám-sai, Shen-si. kang-sai, Kiang-si. kng-sai, Kwang-si. kúí<sup>n</sup>-sai (C.), id.

tang-sai, east and west. tang-sai lâm-pak, east, west, south, and north. tang-sai-oà<sup>n</sup>, the two assistant priests (Taoist or Buddhist) on each side of the head priest at any ceremony. tang-sai-thah, the two great pagodas of Chin-chew. tang-sai bú-sé-put, willing to take anything. khoà<sup>n</sup>-tang khoà<sup>n</sup>-sai, to look in every direction. kóng-tang kóng-sai, to talk about many things, or not to the purpose; to gossip, esp. about others' faults, often falsely. gi-tang gi-sai, very suspicious. bak-tang bak-sai, to soil all over; to dirty everything. bong-tang bong-sai, doing many bits of work; having no leisure. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang ni<sup>n</sup>-sai, taking up small quantities of many things, e.g. tasting them. tóe-tang tóe-sai, holding miscellaneous articles. sa<sup>n</sup>-jit soá-tang, si-jit soá-sai, constantly changing one's dwelling; inconstant. cheng-lâm, tsáu-pak, kiá<sup>n</sup>-tang, khi-sai, to travel in all quarters.

sai-lâm, south-west; a S.W. wind (v. lâm). sai-pak, north-west; a N.W. wind. sai-pak-hê, sudden storm of rain from N.W. hoat-m-chiá<sup>n</sup> sai-pak, thunder in the north, and sky all black, but passing off without a storm. sai-pak tsòe-liáu, liám-pi<sup>n</sup> hê- lâm (= . . . chiah hê-lâm), suddenly becoming friendly again after a fit of passion.

sai [R. su, a teacher], affix to the names of skilled workmen and master tradesmen; e.g. iáu-sai, &c. bák-sai, a carpenter. thê-sai, a mason (v. thê). táu-sai, a man who measures cargoes of pease or beans when they are loose (not in bags) in the hold of a vessel.

sai-hū, a skilled workman; a journeyman (v. hū). sai-á, an apprentice. sai-kiá<sup>n</sup>, man whom one has taught a trade. sai-tê, a younger apprentice, said by the older ones. sai-hia<sup>n</sup>, an elder apprentice, said by younger one. sai-hia<sup>n</sup>-ti, workmen who have learned under the same master.

sai-kong, a Taoist priest. sai-ke, a Buddhist nun. sai-pê, Bud. priest who adopts a boy as his son. sai-kiá<sup>n</sup>, adopted son of Bud. priest.

sai [R. su, = col. si] sai-khia, private; secret; one's own.

sai (Cn.) thek sai-sai, very pretty.

sai [R. sí, to use; to cause; to send], to use; very much used in C. for A. êng, to use; scarcely any of the phrases are used in Cn. except m-sái.

sái-êng, to use; to spend. chhe-sái, to employ, use, or send (a person). sái-sò, to investigate secretly to injure another. sái-so, id. sái-lóng, id.

m-sái, no need; not wanted; no I thank you; need not —. m-khé-sái, it does not require much work to do it. m-khé sái-kang, id. mih<sup>n</sup>-sái, why? (implying blame, or meaning "there is no need"). sái-sái (C.), no need; no I thank you. ná<sup>n</sup>-sái, all that is needed is —. sái-kiá<sup>n</sup>-bô (need not fear not to get it), plenty of it can be got. sái-hoat--goá tái-oá, what ever can I do? (can do nothing). ôe-sái--tit (Cn. ôe-tsôe--tit, it will do; can be used. bôe-sái--tit (Cn. bôe-tsôe--tit), it will not do at all. bô-lê-sái (C.), useless. bô-sū-sái (C.), id.; won't do at all.

sái-chí<sup>n</sup>, to spend money. sái-gûn, id. khiap-sái, stingy.

sái-lê, to bribe. sái kè-bé, to pass a bad article (v. kè). sái iên-táu, to gamble with loaded dice. sai thui-pau, to swindle by giving a bad article in place of a good one (v. thui). sái kiên-sek, to overreach by cunning. sái sek-tsúi, to bully or intimidate. sái-sèng, to get very angry, or put on an angry appearance, of set purpose. sái-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to bully. sái-phài, having a proud or haughty bearing. sái-phún (Cn.), to behave in an overbearing way. sái ôe-tū, to shut a man's mouth by a sharp and unanswerable reply. sái àm-tók, to injure a man by secret plots. sái àm-pê, id. (v. pê). sái àm-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. chi<sup>n</sup>). hó-sái, having much influence with mandarins or with their subordinates, so as to be useful in a dispute; also (esp. C.), current, that can be used, as money, &c. sê-thâu hó-sái, having such influence. ke-sái-i tsáp-ê-chi<sup>n</sup> gûn-tsúi, to get ten cash more in exchange for a dollar, as in buying. sái-hoat, to use magic.

sái bák-bé, to glance sidewise in a displeased or discontented manner, or proudly, imperiously, or lasciviously. khoà<sup>n</sup>--lâng sái-bák-bé, id. sái áu-sia<sup>n</sup>, to sing with voice from the throat (v. sia<sup>n</sup>). sái phi<sup>n</sup>-khang-kng, to make a nasal displeased sound (v. phi<sup>n</sup>).

sái-chhiò, to use anything with the lower concave side turned up, as a cover or the palm (v. chhiò). sái-lé, to scull a junk. sái-to, to use a sword. sái pin-pai, to use a shield. sái tsúi-bô, to work a water-mill. sái tsúi-chhia, to work a wheel for raising water. sái-lôe, to plough. sái-chhân, to plough rice-fields. sái-chhat, to varnish (or paint). sái-tsoá, to burn idolatrous paper. sio-kim sái-tsoá, id. bô-gú, sái-bé, if you can't get a cow use a horse; make the best you can of it.

獅
犀
西

駛

sái [R. sú, to ride a horse quick; to sail], to sail. sái-tsún, id. sái joá-tsôe-tsún, sail how far? sái-hong, to sail by using the wind. chín-hong sái, to sail as near the wind as can be with the sail full. chín-phâng sái, id. sái óá-koá, to sail with the sail close on the mast (v. koá). sái nng-ki-hiu, to sail not longer than two incense-sticks burn.

sái (Cn.), to commit uncleanness with —, only used in vile scolding.

屎

sái (R. sí), excrement; dung; some sorts of refuse. káu ji-sái, tautological, and full of superfluous words, as a composition. hé-sái, snuffings; spots from a lamp wick. thih-sái, fragments of rust beaten from red-hot iron, &c. (v. thih). so iên-sái, a way of making bad dollars (v. iên). a-phien-sái, refuse of opium worked up again. hun-sái, id.; tobacco soot in pipe. sái-khak (Cn.), refuse from beaten cotton (v. khak).

hī-sái, wax from the ears. phī-sái, hardened mucus in the nose. tsúg-kah-sái, dirt under fingernails. hē-sin-sái, darkish spots all over the face.

bák-sái, tears. lâu bák-sái, to weep. bák-sái lâu, bák-sái tih, weeping profusely. bák-sái lâu-jip bô-lâu-chhut, grief too deep for tears. bák-sái chhīm-chhīm-lâu, tears flowing abundantly. bák-sái chhiām-chhiām-lâu, id. bák-sái si-lám-súi, tears flowing all over the face. bák-sái-ko, thickened matter in the eye.

pàng-sái, to have a motion. ti<sup>n</sup>-sái, to try hard to have a motion. chhoah-sái, to have a very loose motion. sái-hák, a necessary. sái-tháng, a bucket for carrying dung. sái-chiap, very thin excrement, as in diarrhoea, esp. said of child's.

sái [R. su, to belch]. khē sái-eh, to hiccup, as child.

史

sái [R. sú, a historian; a censor], a surname. sái-hāng, a street in Amoy. sái-hāng lē-thâu, a jetty in Amoy.

sái [R. sat, to scatter, = col. siet, chhāi]. sái-phoà-noā (esp. T.), = chhāi-phoà-noā, shamelessly urgent, as beggar, &c.

sài [R. to excel, = col. sè]. sài-kè (R.), to excel, as in rivalry.

賽 婿

sài (R. sè). kiá-sài, a son-in-law. sin-kiá-sài, a bridegroom. kiá-sài poán-tsú, a son-in-law is half a son. bē-sài, husband of younger sister. sun-sài, husband of niece or grand-daughter. ang-sài (r.), a husband. hó-ang-sài, a good husband.

塞

sài [R. a boundary; a frontier; by change of tone from "sek," to stop up; = col. "that"]. chhut-sài, to go beyond the deserts on the north of China; said only of Chiau-kun, the princess who was married to a Hun.

使

sài [R. sú, a messenger; by change of tone from "sú," to send; to cause; = col. sái]. chhe-sài, a messenger. iām-toā-sài, deputy of the salt commissioner (v. iām). tsòe-koá<sup>n</sup> tsòe-sài, to be high mandarins in general. kong-sài tái-sin, an ambassador, as a foreign ambassador. kip-sài, = bú-phoà<sup>n</sup>, assistant of the idol Sêng-hóng. bé-sài-iá, figures holding horses at temple-doors. hé-sài-iá, the deified tiger. thi<sup>n</sup>-sài (X.), an angel.

sài — kong-pô tsé-sài, all deceased ancestors from father upwards. kong-pô khah-siá<sup>n</sup> tsé-sài, immediate ancestors are the most powerful protectors. thi<sup>n</sup>-tôe sam-kài, kong-pô tsé-sài (these are the most important objects of worship). thi<sup>n</sup>-téng, &c., id.

sài [R. to pare off; to reduce or diminish; by change of tone from "sat," to kill]. sài-khì, to drop or go out, as a custom; to remit, as a duty, or regular rate, or contribution. sài-bô--khì, id. sài-lài bô-lô--khì, id. sài-khah-chió, to reduce the rate levied.

sài [R. sū, business, to serve]. hók-sài, to serve, as a master or a god.

sài [R. sū, brother's wives, esp. elder brother's wife]. tāng-sài, the wives of two brothers.

sài [R. sū, alike; like]. sék-sài, familiar; intimate; well acquainted with (person); open and frank; easily getting familiar with strangers. siók-sài (C.), id. sék-sài-lāng, acquaintances.

sài [R. sat, to scatter; to throw about; to sow; = col. siet, chhāi, sái]. sài-phoat, violent and overbearing, as woman who is too bold and forward, trusting to being a woman; or as a man threatening to kill himself, or do violence if we don't give him money. sài-phoà-noā (Cn.), shamelessly and doggedly determined, as a beggar.

sai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. seng, formerly; previously.

sai<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. san, to weed out; to prune or take away. sai<sup>n</sup>-nai<sup>n</sup>--koá, take away a little.

sai<sup>n</sup> (T.) sai<sup>n</sup>-á, = sa<sup>n</sup>-á, a coat.

sak — tiá<sup>n</sup>-sak, the iron point of the fluke of a wooden anchor.

sak (Cn.) sak-kháu, = A. sek-kháu, to rinse the mouth.

sak (cf. siak, siàng); also (Cn.), = A. siak, to dash; to strike hard.

pàng-sak, to abandon, as a person whom we ought to serve or protect; to reject, as customs, tenets, or occupation. khi-sak (r.), id. siá-sak, to lay down, as a load too heavy to carry; to throw away things to lighten a vessel; to sell at a sacrifice; to throw up the management of an affair that is growing troublesome or dangerous. siak-sak, to scrape off and throw away, as skins of roots, &c.

pia<sup>n</sup>-pia<sup>n</sup> sak-sak, m-chêng m-goān (= siak), throwing things about in a pet or rage.

tàn-sak (Cn.), to throw away. kôe-sak (Cn.), to change, as bad habit. sóe-sak (T.), to wash and throw away the washings; to kill; to exterminate.

sak, to push with the hands. oe-oe sak-sak, to push through a crowd (v. oe). sak-óá, to push shut, as a door; to push close together, as anything. sak hē-i, to put off one's self on him, as a duty or responsibility.

sak-sau, to bully.

báng-sak (Cn.), = A. báng-sut, a mosquito flapper.

sam [R. three, = col. sa<sup>n</sup>]. sam-kàu, the three religions, Confucian, Taoist, and Buddhist. sam-kong, the three headships, of sovereign, husband, and father (v. kong, a rope). sam-kong, the three lights, sun, moon, and stars. sam-tsài, the three powers, Heaven, earth, and man. sam-seng, the three sorts of offerings. sam-kài-kong, the three gods of the three worlds (v. kài). sam-koan tái-tè, id. sam-pó, the Buddhist triad. sam-chheng, the Taoist triad. sam-phia<sup>n</sup>, three powerful spirits (v. phia<sup>n</sup>). sam-tsók, relatives of self, of mother, and of wife (v.

殺

事

似

似

撒

激

三

tsók). sam-hún chhit-phek, the three spirits and seven animal souls of a man. sam-háp-thé, mortar. sam-chhit, a medicine (v. chhit). sam-sek-kì, a three-coloured flag (v. sek).

sam-pán, a small boat; a female slave with large feet. sam-pán-lâng, boatman of a small boat. sam-pán-iô, self-important strut in one's manner.

sam-hú, an official who rules a recent subdivision of a Foo or department, e.g. the mandarin at Chiòh-bé.

sam-put-gō-sî, occasionally (v. gō; v. sî).

sam — khoà<sup>n</sup> sam-sek, to keep neutral till it appears which side is going to win, so as to join the winning side.

sam [R. san, a mountain, = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. sam-siau, name of a mountain spirit.

sam — sam-pan-khiah, the openings in the battlements of a wall (v. khiah). sam-poan-khiah (C.), id.

sam (R. id.), a sort of pine or fir, Cunninghamia. sam-chhâ, pine-wood, a good sort. sam-liâu, timber, as ready for use. sam-kē, useless poisonous mushrooms.

sâm — lâ-sâm, dirty, filthy (moral or physical); said also by seamen of a dirty channel. lâ-sâm-siâh, dirty; filthy. â-sâm (P.), id. bak-lâ-sâm, to soil; to defile. phah-lâ-sâm, id. è-lâ-sâm, to make a place dirty, as with water, or mud, or filth.

sâm [R. to mix]. lâm-sâm, at random; disorderly; any way all the same; ill-behaved (v. lâm).

sâm (Cn. T. sâng), to sprinkle with the fingers, as salt or such powder; to put on, as some wood on the fire. sâm hé-hu, to sprinkle ashes with the hand. sâm iôh-hún, to sprinkle a medicinal powder, as on a sore. sâm kù-sut, to sprinkle sawdust, as on the fire. sâm-hé, to put small quantities of fuel on a fire.

sâm [R. sán, to scatter, = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. tŭg-sa<sup>n</sup> sàm-kún, long gown and full skirt of Ming costume (v. kún).

sâm [R. sam, loose; dishevelled; cf. sà<sup>n</sup>, sah<sup>n</sup>, sán]. sâm-sâm, not neatly put up, as parcel; beginning to have a bad point, as Chinese pen. hê-sâm, ill-made; roughly finished, as article of furniture or dress. phah-sâm, to put in disorder, as tangled hair, &c. poā<sup>n</sup>-sâm, id. phoā-sâm, fallen into great decay or disorder; much broken down and dirty, as room or house; so much worn as to be in shreds, as clothes or umbrella. sâm-pê-sa<sup>n</sup>, a dress with the hem opened out and broken, used in deepest mourning (v. pê). sâm-mŭg, hair dishevelled or in disorder. sâm-thâu, id. thâu-mŭg sàm-sâm, id.

sâm-tâm, covered with luxuriant herbage or brushwood, as hill.

sâm — âm-sâm, dark and dirty, as cave, or as room long unswept; improper, as affair or conduct; also (P.), densely luxuriant, as wild vegetation. âm-sâm-lô, a depraved course of life. âm-sâm ê só-tsâi, a secret place where crimes can be committed in the dark; a brothel or gambling den, &c.; a man's private parts.

sâm [R. to do thrice; by change of tone from "sam," three]. sâm-su (R.), to reflect carefully upon.

sâm — sâm-sâm, dispirited, shabby, broken-down appearance. kiâ<sup>n</sup>-lô sàm-sâm, to walk along with a seedy, shabby, broken-down look, as man who has failed to get on in life.

sam (R. id.), (T. sai<sup>n</sup>; Cn. stii<sup>n</sup>), to prune; to thin out; to reject and expunge, as words or sentences. san-- koah, to prune off. san-chheh, to expunge useless words or sentences from a book.

san [R. song, funeral ceremonies, = col. sng]. khok-san-tiông, mourning-staff carried by widower at funeral (v. tiông).

san [R. seng, a star, = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>]. lân-san, miscellaneous; remnants or remainders; in small quantities (v. lân).

san (T. C.), = A. sien, rust; scurf on the body.

san (Cn.) hiā-san, = A. hiā-sien, sort of small worm.

san (C.) san-hê, = A. sien-hô, coral.

san [R. a mountain, = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. san-súi, landscapes (v. súi). bêng-san, famous mountains. san-iá, wild and wicked, as villagers. san-tin hái-bi, delicacies of land and sea. hâ-san-hé, a very tight vest with numerous buttons (v. hé).

kang-san sit, the empire lost (fig. of man losing all his possessions). san-chhoan siā-chek, mountains, rivers, and imperial altars (said of imperial dominion). san i bêng, pok siông, geomancy, medicine, and prognostication (v. siông). bân-san tiâu-tŭi, the hills forming an amphitheatre, as behind a grave, counted auspicious.

san-tsa, = sien-tsa, a small red fruit like a crab-apple. san-che (C.), id. hoái-san, a medicinal root (v. hoái). siông-san, a medicinal root (Lysimachia ?), used for ague. san-iâng, a goat-skin; a goat. san-iông, id. chhoan-san-kah, = lâ-lí, the scaly ant-eater.

sán [R. to produce, = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. thé-sán, productions of the ground; crops, fruits, &c. sán-giáp, estate; patrimony. ka-sán, wealth or possessions (of man or family) of any sort. kheng-ka tông-sán, to lose one's all, esp. by lawsuits or prodigality.

seng-sán, to bring forth young; to be delivered of a child. bô-seng-sán, barren, as woman. siáu-sán, to have an abortion. sán-bún (R.), the female organs.

sán [R. a medicinal powder; by change of tone from "sán," to scatter; = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. seng-chi-sán, a compound powder for sprinkling on festering sores. tsu-phék-sán, a medicine made of pearls and amber. tan-ko oân-sán, four forms of medicinal preparations. tan-ko oân-sán, chin-sien lân-piên, all in confusion, so that even one of the genii could not put them in order. iôh-sán (C.), = A. iôh-soa<sup>n</sup>, finely-powdered medicine. thong-koan-sán (C.), = A. thong-koan-soa<sup>n</sup> (q. v.)

sán, lean; thin; meagre; poor; woven too wide and loose, as cloth; sterile, as land. kêng-sán, very poor. pŭi-sán, fat and lean; fertile and sterile, &c. m-pŭi m-sán, neither fat nor lean, due medium. chiáh sán-chiú, to drink liquor with little or no condiment. sán-pê, cotton cloth woven very thin, with the threads too far apart. pê sán-sin, the cloth is too loosely woven, and easily torn or worn out. sán-chhân, poor land. sán-tôe, a place where no money can be made. sán só-tsâi, id.

siau-sán, very lean and thin. kut-bah siau-sán, id. ŭg-sán, yellow and wasting away. sán-gièn, lean and thin. sán-thiu, tall, thin, and slender, as man. sán-sòe, lean, small, and insignificant in appearance. sán thih-thih, very lean. sán tiu-tiu, id. sán tiúh-tiúh, id. sán khih-khih, id. sán gih-gih, id. sán ngiauh<sup>n</sup>-ngiauh<sup>n</sup>, id. tit-tit sán--lôh-khì, wasting away. sán-kut lôh-hiôh, very lean. chiáh-liâu sán, having enough

喪星

山

產

散

度

山

杉

散

三

削

to eat, but yet lean. siū<sup>n</sup> kàu-sán, to grow lean through excessive thought and anxiety. khi kàu-sán, to grow lean with anger or discontent. sán kàu chit-têng-phê pi<sup>n</sup> chit-têng-kut, all skin and bone. sán kàu-chhun chit-ki-kut, wasted to a skeleton. sán kàu-liáu, id.

sán (Cn.). chi<sup>n</sup>-sán, = A. chi<sup>n</sup>-soán, long fried cakes.

sán [R. to scatter; to disperse; = col. soà<sup>n</sup>]. sù-sán, dispersed in all directions, as people. sán-khi, feeling of warmth and redness of face, caused by liquor, pepper, ginger, siri leaf, &c. tóng-tsú sán, pupil so enlarged that the eye is quite lost (v. tóng). sán-ién, prodigal; spending money recklessly; very poor, and so daring to commit any crime (cf. next word).

sán — sán-sán, very poor and reckless; capable of doing all sorts of mischief (cf. previous word). sán-chhia, very poor and miserable, often daring to commit great crimes.

sán-iá, rude, wild, and uncultivated (as man), and careless of one's life; but not so bad as "hú-lūi."

sán (C.) sán-hiong, = A. sòng-hiong, very poor.

sán [R. sam, dishevelled, = col. sàm]. sán-pê, = sàm-pê, ravelled edges of dress in deepest mourning.

sán (Cn.) sán-phī<sup>n</sup>, = A. chhèng-phī<sup>n</sup>, to blow the nose.

sang (R. song), loose; to loosen, as a rope or a girdle; well boiled and mealy, as roots. têng sang, hard and soft, as boiled roots. sang phùn-phùn, well boiled and mealy. sang phut-phut (T.), id. sang khoà-khoà (T.), id. ê-pêng sio-sang, a bit of boiled taro warm and mealy.

khin-sang, in good health; comfortable. ta-sang, dry and comfortable, as when perspiration has been wiped off; well cooked and mealy, as potatoes. kút khah-sang, dig and loosen the earth, as about the roots.

pàng-sang, to loosen, as a rope. pàng-làng-sang, become too easy and remiss, e.g. not collecting debts, or as mandarin not punishing evil-doers, or as teacher letting boys have their own way.

sang [R. song, a pair, = col. siang], (esp. Cn., but not C.), = siang, both of the pair. sang-ké-kiám, double-bladed dagger. sang-kha táh sang-tsūn (feet on two boats), trying to keep well with both sides.

sáng (= siáng, siāng), alike; similar.

sáng (Cn. T.), to lift on the palms of the hands turned forward, as in putting wood on the fire; also (= A. sám), to put on the fire, as wood. sáng-hé, to put fuel on a fire. sáng-chhâ, to put wood on the fire. chhâ, sáng khah-jip, put the wood further in on the fire. sáng--jip-khi, id.

phê-sáng (A.), to flatter. phê-kha sáng-chhiú, id.

sáng (T.) tà-láng-sáng, = hê-nà<sup>n</sup>-sah<sup>n</sup>, acting negligently.

sàng (T.), = A. siàng. sàng--lòh-khi, to dash on the ground.

sàng [R. sòng, the Sung dynasty; a surname], a surname.

sàng (R. sòng), to present; to accompany some distance on taking leave; to hand over, as a criminal. sa<sup>n</sup>-sàng, to make a present. sàng-lé, to give a fee to a teacher or doctor; to give a congratulatory present. sàng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to give the earnest-money. sàng-toh, to present a fully prepared feast to a friend. sàng chhâ-bí, to send presents of wood and rice to the idol

"ông-iá," as other temples or private persons do. sàng-chhái, to present red cloth to a mandarin; to perform rites on burning "ông-iá" (v. chhái). sàng-kó, to send in to a mandarin the rough draft of a document. sàng jit-thâu-á, to give to the bride's parents a paper (jit-thâu-á), telling what days are proposed for marriage, &c. sàng-jit, id. sàng-png, to take rice to a man in prison. ũ-lâng thang koā<sup>n</sup>-sàng--má, is there any one to take food to the prisoner. hoán-lí sàng chit-ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, I will trouble you to convey this thing (to some man).

sàng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to carry out the anchor from a vessel by a small boat. sàng hong-chhe, to help a friend to give a start to a paper-kite. sàng ji-tsoá, to carry the ashes of burned paper (written or printed) to the sea, with ceremonies.

sàng-ni<sup>n</sup>, to make presents, and perform ceremonies on last day of year. sàng-ni<sup>n</sup> sàng-tsoeh, do., and at the terms and festivals. sàng-tsoeh, to make presents at the terms or festivals (e.g. 5. 5, or 8. 15.), e.g. scholars paying teachers.

sàng-sin, to make offerings and burn paper on 12. 24, when the spirits ascend to report to Heaven. sàng-ang (C.), id. sàng-ông khi-sin, to burn the image of "ông-iá" (v. ông).

ngiā<sup>n</sup>-sàng, to treat with much respect, going out to meet a man when he arrives, and also accompanying him so far when he leaves. pôe-sàng, to accompany a friend when he goes to see a visitor off. sàng-i-khi, to accompany him some distance when he leaves. sàng-lâng-kheh, to see visitors away politely. sàng-hêng, to see one off for journey or voyage. sàng-sūn-hong, to make presents, and see off on voyage. sàng-hong, id. sàng-sin, to make presents for travelling expenses to a man about to leave (v. sin). sàng-kè, to accompany a bride to her husband's house, as a matron does (v. kè). sàng-chhin, to accompany a sister who is a bride to husband's house. âu-sàng, elder brother of bride doing so.

sàng-tsòng, to accompany a funeral.

ah-sàng, to escort and guard. kè-sàng, to send under guard, as criminal to be tried.

bé-sàng, the mizzen-mast, in Chinese vessels placed at the side, near the stern.

sàng (Cn.), = A. siàng, of the same sort or kind.

sap (= siap, sat). sap-bún (f.), soap (v. bún).

sap [R. siap, drizzling rain, = col. seh]. hê-á sap-sap, drizzling rain. ien-bū-sap, very small drizzling mist.

sap [R. siet, fragments, = col. sut, seh]. sap-sap, very minute scraps. chhùi-sap-sap, broken down very small. tê khah-sap, the tea is too dusty, broken down too small.

sap — soa-sap, very slippery; unfair; unpleasant or troublesome to deal with in business. soa-soa sap-sap, id. káu-soa-sap, full of sand and impurities, as edible sea-weed, &c.; very troublesome and unsafe to deal with, as man who is always planning to get money out of people. sap-sóe, said of dirt or scum on moss, &c.; very troublesome in money matters.

sap — lap-sap, dirty, as things or conduct.

sap — se-sap, dark and shrivelled, as face; decayed, as village or family (v. se). siau-sap, do., do.; shabby-looking. hiu<sup>n</sup>-lí siau-sap, village very much decayed, and become poor. soe-sap, broken-down and seedy-looking, as man or place. sí-sap (C.), broken-down, seedy, and ill-looking.

散

髮
松

雙

宋
送震
震
屑颯
索

雜
虱

sáp — hê-sáp-sáp, in a disorderly state, as tangled hair, or as spattered table or dishes.

sat (R. sek). bát-sat, a bed-bug. bák-sat, id. bák-sat chiáh-kheh, said of one who gets more from his guests than he gives them. bát-sat chhiò chhiū-gūi, the bed-bug laughs at the tree-bug; pot calling the kettle black.

sat-bú, a louse. sat-bú-nng, eggs of louse. sat-pin, a small tooth-comb. sat-bú si<sup>n</sup> kàu-chiá<sup>n</sup>-sūi, to have lice in great numbers. sat-bú ná<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>--nih<sup>n</sup>, id.

thê-sat, a mud-fish.

sat — gâu-liáh ôe-sat, fond of pointing out small faults, and picking holes in what another says. chin-gâu liáh kiáu-sat, fond of finding fault with opponent's play (in gambling), whenever possible; said also in general of a man who tries to find fault whenever possible.

sat [R. sek, to stop up, = col. that]. sat-phī<sup>n</sup> (C.), nose stuffed with cold. phī<sup>n</sup>-khang sat-sat (C.), id.

sat (R. id.) phê-sat, a Buddhist idol; sometimes affixed to name of an idol.

sat [R. to scatter, = col. soah, seh, siet, sái, chhái, &c.] sat-phoat, = siet-phoat, fond of railing or quarrelling in an unwomanly way, as an impudent woman (v. phoat).

sat (=sáp, siáp). sat-bún (f.), soap.

sat [R. to kill; to end; hurtful spiritual influence; = col. soah, soá<sup>n</sup>]. gê-sat, to kill by mistake. sat-liòk (r.), to slaughter. sat-liòk thài-tàng, very great, or too great slaughter, as by warrior full of the rage of battle, or as mandarin executing vast multitudes. sat-khi, murderous rage in the heat of battle; warlike or terrible appearance of countenance naturally. sat-khi thêng-thêng, do. (both senses). tài chit-tiám sat-khi, to have a terrible look about the eyebrows, &c. (said of a child that will have a very inauspicious and unlucky influence on parents and relatives).

sat-chhiú, daring to act when the consequences may be dangerous; fond of fighting, as soldier; daring to give medicine that will kill or cure.

sat-jín sióng-bêng, reparation must be made for killing a man. chhiò-to sat-jín (kill man with borrowed knife), to make use of another to do an injury. iông-i sat-jín, a quack kills people. sat-jín thài-to, to slaughter multitudes of people. m-sat-seng, m-hái-bêng, not killing any living thing. sat-seng ê-lâng bô-bé, a butcher will not have good fortune at the last, esp. no posterity. hân-tan-chhe sat kiú-hu, nine men betrothed or married to the wife of Hân-tan died in succession!

iók-kan iók-sat, full of murderous or quarrelsome desires; determined to be at feud. kan kün-sat, to commit adultery endangers life.

pêh-si-sat, face sallow and unhealthy looking.

sau — sau-phí, to speak ironically or sarcastically. sau i-ê-phí, to speak to him sarcastically, so as to make him ashamed. sau láng--ê thé-biên, to put a man to shame before others. sak-sau, to bully. siak-sau, id.

sau — sau-óa, to bring together, as the edges of a wound, by a plaster.

bô-tau-sau, not in harmony, as persons not drawing well together; not careful; not managing well. bô-tau bô-sau, id. kóng-ôe bô-tau-sau, speaking not to the point, or not so as to make our meaning plain.

sau [R. siau, a twig; the tiller of a helm]. sau-kong, a man who lives in a boat, esp. with his family. sau-pô, wife living in a boat with her husband.

sau — hoàn-sau, a dealer in children sold as slaves (v. hoàn).

sau (R. siau), a small round water insect that eats wood. tsúi-sau, id. kim-hí-sau, a water insect used for feeding gold-fish. hê-sau, to catch them.

sau-sau, worm-eaten and decayed, as the bottom of a boat.

sau [R. siau, to melt away]. bôe-tsáu-sau--tit, said of a man so strict that one dare not trifle at his work, or try to abstract any of his goods or money; said also of money intrusted to us which cannot be tampered with.

sau (cf. sa). sau-sau, not cohesive. sau-hong, opening into chinks, as wood. hâ-sau (Cn. háh-sa), id.

sau — hâm-sau, sound of cracked crockery; slightly cracked, as crockery. hâm-sau-húi khah-bôe-phoà (such crockery does not readily break), sickly-looking people live long. hâm-sau-húi khah-oh-phoà, id.

sau (cf. sàu). sau-sia<sup>n</sup>, hoarse; to lose the voice by much or loud speaking. háng-sau, to wrangle with a loud voice in an overbearing way. háu-sau, id.

sau (C.) se<sup>n</sup> khi-sau, = A. khi-pau, to have a gum-boil.

sàu — poà<sup>n</sup>-sàu, not in good condition, but not yet in rags, as a well-worn dress; not quite good, but not yet spoiled, as a pen that has lost its fine point, but can still be used. chhêng-poà<sup>n</sup>-sàu, to wear clothes till they get too much worn.

sàu [R. a revenue or war boat; to patrol]. sàu-tsún, a war junk used against pirates. poà<sup>n</sup>-sióng-sàu, a war junk that trades extensively. khoài-sàu, a customs boat; the officer of such a boat.

iâm-sàu, sort of excisemen for the salt revenue. sàu-peng, the lowest sort of tide-waiters (not said of foreign tide-waiters). sàu-pê, sort of salt-excisemen.

chhut-sàu, to go out against pirates. sún-sàu, to go about looking for pirates, &c. lòh-sàu, to serve on board war-junks as marines.

sàu-kak, a trumpet. [Two characters with the radicals "mouth" and "boat" are interchanged for the other phrases, but only the character with "mouth" for this.]

sàu (R. sò), to sweep with a brush. sàu-tè, to sweep the ground. sàu-lân, to scrape off fish-scales. sàu-tú, to remove quite away, as bad things. tá<sup>n</sup>-sàu, to sweep. chhêng-sàu, to dust and sweep. piá<sup>n</sup>-sàu, to clean out and sweep. lòh-tôe sàu, to stoop low and sweep away an adversary's legs in boxing.

bâng-sàu, a broom made of the "bâng" reed. tek-sàu, a bamboo broom. tek-sàu-chiú, id. sàu-chiú, a broom. sàu-chiú-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet. sàu-soe, a coarse bamboo brush. sàu-se-á (C.), a small bamboo brush.

sàu (R. sò), to cough. khâm-sàu, to clear the throat. hâm-héh<sup>n</sup> ka-sàu, severe coughing (v. ka). sàu-ká<sup>n</sup>-huih, to cough and bring up blood. khi-sàu, to have a severe cough or fit of coughing. teh-sàu, in the act of coughing. teh sàu, to cure or relieve a cough. teh sàu (C.), id.

失

塞
薩
撒

殺

梢

蜻

消

哨
舫

掃

嗽

m̄-sī sia<sup>n</sup>-sàu, angry unpleasant sound or tone of voice, as in beginning a quarrel. phái<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>-sàu, id. bō-sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-hó sia<sup>n</sup>-sàu, talking in an unpleasant, displeased, or angry tone.

sáuh — sáuh-sáuh-háu, noise made by shoes in walking. sáuh-sáuh-kiò, id.

sáuh<sup>n</sup> — sáuh<sup>n</sup>-sáuh<sup>n</sup>-liām, to murmur; to grumble. sáuh<sup>n</sup>-sáuh<sup>n</sup>-háu, id.

sáuh<sup>n</sup> — sáuh<sup>n</sup>-sáuh<sup>n</sup>, looking yellow or sallow and unwell. sáuh<sup>n</sup>-sáuh<sup>n</sup>-á-pī<sup>n</sup>, a gradual or tedious disease, sometimes worse, sometimes better.

hē-á sáuh<sup>n</sup>-sáuh<sup>n</sup>, constant but not heavy rain.

SE [R. west, = col. sai]. se-iú<sup>n</sup> (r.), = sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, Europe, &c. se-á, Germans, often including Dutchmen. se-lé, Russians (v. lé). hō-lân-se, France. hoat-lân-se, id. se-thien, the Buddhist heaven. chiú<sup>n</sup> se-thien, to become a Buddha. se-ông-bú, the queen of the "Sien," residing at "iâu-tí." se-siu<sup>n</sup>, books of stories of the Tang dynasty.

se-jī-thâu, the 146th radical, written at the top.

tong-se (R.), east and west. tong-se lām-pok, east, west, south, and north. tong-se-siu<sup>n</sup>, two side houses on the east and west of a large house. bân tong, bú se, civil mandarins on the east (more honourable), and military ones on the west, at imperial audience.

SE — tsng-kah-se, the line that divides the quick from the rest of the nail.

SE (R. sa), (C. se), silk gauze; thin crape; cotton yarn. thai-táu-se, very fine gauze used for sieves. lô-táu-se, a still finer sort of gauze. jiàu<sup>n</sup>-se, crape. ú-se, inferior camlets or bombazette. Chiang-se, a very thin but stiff silk-stuff from Chang-chew. lín-ló se-toān, silks, satins, &c.

mī<sup>n</sup>-se, cotton yarn, esp. native, from Shanghai (v. mī<sup>n</sup>). hoan-se, foreign yarn. bāng-se, old nets torn up for caulking (v. bāng).

se-iang, a frame on which yarn is wound to be ready for weaving. se-sim, cotton wicks for lamps. se-bō, a sort of Ming cap (v. bō). se-á-tsoá, very thin brittle sort of paper. se-soá<sup>n</sup>, sort of cotton thread. khan se-soá<sup>n</sup>, to cover a cotton coverlet with a network of thread. khan-se, id.

pháng-se, to spin cotton thread. chhia-se, to transfer it from the "thih-chhái" to the "ák-á." hē-se, to wind yarn into hanks (v. hē).

SE [R. sa? siau? names of various drugs], (C. se). tsu-se, cinnabar. pēng-se, borax. pāng-se, id.? a white drug used for melting gold or silver, and for medicine. sin-se, a red mixture for the ceremony (khai-gán) of touching the eyes of idols and ancestral tablets.

SE — se-ló (C.), a brass wash-basin.

SE (R. sa), (C. se). ka-se, the most expensive sort of gown (without sleeves) worn by Bud. priests. moa<sup>n</sup> ka-se, to wear it.

SE (R. sa, = col. soa), (C. se). thoah-se, the sole. teh-se (C.), id. hē-se, another sort.

SE (Cn.), = A. soa, cholera, severe colic, &c.

SE (C.) hē-se-á, a small black stinging insect.

SE (C.), = A. soe, a comb; to comb.

SE (C.), = Cn. sōe (comb?). tek-se, a sort of large bamboo broom. sàu-se-á, a small bamboo broom.

SE (C.), = A. soe, distant in relationship; wide apart.

SE (C.), = A. soe (vegetables).

SÊ [R. sù, to hang down, = col. sê], C. sōe; Cn. sō.

sê-sê, hanging down, as the head, or as the flap of a long dress or loose wide collar, or as loaded branch; flabby, as skin or flesh; dull and disinclined to fly, as a bird when weary or ill. sê--lòh-khì, hanging down, as a withering flower, flap of dress, &c. sê-kak, one corner out of proportion to the other parts. tàm-sê, hanging down, as from weariness, fear, or shame; drooping, as flower or leaves in drought. lāng sê-sê, wearied and spiritless.

hong sê, the wind fallen. hong khah-sê, id.

SÊ — si<sup>n</sup>-sê, to grow thick folds of skin on the neck, as a very fat man. chiah kàu-si<sup>n</sup>-sê, to grow so fat. pūi kàu-si<sup>n</sup>-sê, id.

ām-sê, a child's bib; the dewlap of a cow or horse. noā<sup>n</sup>-sê (T. C.), a child's bib.

SÊ, the sound of tambourines. lô-ién-sê (T. chē), persons shaking instruments like tambourines in idolatrous processions.

SÊ [R. sòe, a year of age, = col. hē]. chhī hāu-si<sup>n</sup>, ién lāu-sê, bring up a son and he nourishes his old father. lāu-sê (T.), father.

SÊ (C.), = A. sé, which (in some phrases).

SÊ (C.), = A. sôe, to wash.

SÊ (C.), = A. sôe, millet.

SÊ [R. hò<sup>n</sup>, goods, = col. hē]. tsáp-sè-á, small articles sold by pedlars. tsáp-sè-á-tiām, a shop for miscellaneous smallwares. tsáp-sè-láng, a basket for odds and ends, rags, &c. ió tsáp-sè, to shake a bell while hawking smallwares.

SÊ, to strike with a stick.

SÊ [R. sài, to excel in rivalry], (Cn. sō), to try one's chance at dice against the throw (m̄) which the other had first made.

sè-kè, to be superior in excellence; to excel. khah-sè-kè, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-sè, each vying with the other in gaudy splendour, as in showy processions, or gaudy dress, or ornaments of houses, &c. tau-sa<sup>n</sup>-sè, id.

sè gō-káu, to get one die 5, and the other two equal, as the second player. sè kúi-tiām, how many dots on your dice? jī-káu sè-io-khang, siang-lāng thiòng, the 2 wins over the ace, and both are pleased (as the ace was sure to lose in any case).

SÊ [R. to swear; an oath], (C. si). hoat-sè, to swear. lip-sè (r.), id. sè-goān (r.), to vow.

SÊ [R. small; minute, = col. sòe], (also C. = A. sòe, small). siòng-sè, minutely (v. sè). sè-àn (R.), to consider carefully.

sè-sin, a medicine. sè-pē<sup>n</sup> (C.), consumption.

SÊ [R. sat, to scatter, = col. seh, soah, sài, siet, &c.] sè-lè tī-thê-kha, all littered, or the floor in disorder. è-sè, all in confusion, all in a litter, as floor covered with torn paper or with shavings. m̄-thang è-sè lāi-bin, don't litter the house. è-sè tōe-hng, to ruin the morals of a region by bad example.

SÊ [R. power; form], (C. si), authority; power; influence; prestige. hó-sè, suitable; convenient; expeditious; proper; all right; powerful from having influence to back one (s. rent). hó-sè-thâu, id. (+). hó-sè-bin, suitable; convenient, as something to be done (+). hó-sè-lāng, man of influence with mandarins or powerful persons. hó-sè siá, convenient for writing (&c.) phái<sup>n</sup>-sè, unsuitable; inconvenient; improper to be done in the circumstances; inexpedient. phái<sup>n</sup>-sè-bin, id. (+). phái<sup>n</sup>-sè-thâu, id. (+). sè-thâu, influence, as of powerful man; prestige.

西

紗

硝砂

鈔袋

鯊魚

垂

歲

貨

賽

誓

言

細

撒

勢

thok sè-thâu, to use another's influence. già sè-thâu, to use the influence or power of one's self, or of another. sè-bin, influence; prestige (+). sè-kè, id. seng-sè, power; influence. put-chí ũ-seng-sè, having great power or influence. koân-sè, power; influence; authority. ũ sè-lék, to have influence and ability (v. lék). sè iām, his influence is great, e.g. by associating with powerful persons.

tek-sè, to get prestige or influence, as by success. oá-sè, to depend on another's influence. iú-sè, put-khó chin-liōng, when you have power, don't use it to the utmost. háng-sè, to pretend to power and influence in a bragging way. siáp-sè, to be a cringing mean hanger-on. sè-lī ê-lāng, a mean hanger-on on the rich or powerful.

sūn-sè, to take advantage of an opportunity. sēng-sè, id.; to act at once. ũ-kiók-sè, getting on better now, as business or lawsuit. tīn-sè, strength or force, of a mass of troops in battle. chhát-sè, the power of the rebels or robbers.

sin-sè, power; influence; posture of body for some action. hó-sin-sè, having considerable power or influence. toā-sin-sè, id. khiā-khì hó-sin-sè, to stand in a suitable attitude, as for working or fighting. tiu<sup>n</sup> sin-sè, to set one's self in a proper attitude. khiā-bé-sè, to stand with one foot out and arms ready for boxing. chhiú-sè, attitude, esp. of hands. hó-chhiú-sè, in position or attitude convenient for doing something. phái<sup>n</sup>-chhiú-sè, in an inconvenient attitude. pí-sè, to hold a weapon, as if about to strike. tsat-sè, to do anything with hands or feet very cautiously, e.g. taking up a very fragile or very heavy thing. tsat chit-ê-sè, id. koan éng-sè, to watch the proper state of the waves, as in rowing. khi-hé chi-sè, the position of riding a tiger (v. hé).

nng-sè, thin and weak, as boarding or wicker-work. khiau-sè khiau-sè, having a crooked form, e.g. women's small shoes. hēng-sè, form or shape, esp. of hill in relation to good luck. soa<sup>n</sup>-sè, form or appearance of mountain (v. soa<sup>n</sup>). khoa<sup>n</sup> tōe-sè, to examine the lie of the country, as for house, grave, campaign, or battle. tiāu-sè, style of tune or manner of singing it.

sè (R. id.), (C. sì), the world; a generation. sè-tāi, a generation. hē-sè, after generations. chhit-sè-sun, descendant of the seventh generation. sè-hē, a genealogical table. sè-sip, hereditary, as office or title. sè-ka, a family honourable for generations (v. ka).

sè-kan, the world. sè-kài, id. tīn-sè (R.), this dusty weary world. loān-sè, times of anarchy or rebellion. tsoán-sè, to be born again as a human being, in the course of transmigration, after suffering in hell or in inferior births (s. rent). kín-kín tsoán-sè, to get speedily out of punishment into human form again. kàng-sè, to come down to the world, as by incarnation. kiù-sè, to save the world (v. kiù). khoàn-sè-bún, Buddhist tracts. koan-sè-im pút-tsé, Kwan-yin. jin seng u-sè, chhit-sip ké-lái-hi, from of old, few live to seventy.

sè-kéng, present circumstances of a place (v. kéng). sè-chēng, the ways of the world, esp. as to prevailing customs (v. chēng). sè-sū, customary ceremonies (gen. involving expenses), as in worship of ancestors or of idols, at births, deaths, marriages, &c., and in intercourse with friends. put-am sè-sū, does not understand the rules and customs of politeness and propriety. èng-sè, to have polite intercourse, as by visits, presents, or polite phrases and ceremonies.

sè [R. sòc, customs dues, rent, &c.], (C. sòe, T. Cn. sō), to rent; to take on rent; rent, as of house or land. tsūn-sè, freight; passage-money. lē-thâu-sè, wharfage dues. chhù-sè, house rent. tiām-sè, rent of shop.

sè-chhù, to rent a house, as the tenant. sè-bé, to hire a horse for one's self. sè chit-thàng, to hire (as horse) for going and back. chhut-sè, advertised for lease. tah chhut-sè, to put up a ticket "to let." piēn-chhù chhut-sè, "house to let." tsoán-sè, to sublet (s. world). siu-sè, to receive or collect rents. hó-sè, easy to rent (s. power).

koan-sè, customs dues. pò-sè-koán, office of collector of customs, where junks report themselves. sin-sè-koan, the foreign custom-house (Chinese). sè-bū-si, foreign commissioner of customs in imperial service. siu-sè-toa<sup>n</sup>, receipt for customs dues, esp. import. iú<sup>n</sup>-tsūn ê sè-toa<sup>n</sup>, import duty receipt (foreign), allowing to sell at Amoy, or to send into the interior. lāu-sè, to smuggle. tsáu-lāu-sè, id. liā lāu-sè, to seize smugglers or smuggled goods.

sè-khòe (C. sòe-khè), a deed of sale stamped by the local mandarin. sè-khòe-kék, office for stamping such deeds. sè-khòe-chhe, constables attached to it.

SĒ [R. to pass away; to die], (C. sì). sien-sē (R.), to die.

SĒ (C. sōe), to flow out, as water trickling down. sē-lòh-khì, id. sē--chhut-lái, to come flowing out, as saliva or betel-nut juice from the mouth.

ñg-sē-tsúi, thin fluid from a wound or sore.

nng sē-sē, soft and watery, as dough.

SĒ [R. sūi, to hang down, = col. sē], turned rather low or downwards, said of the lower support (ē-kim) of a helm. lòh-sē, id.

sē-ku, having one flap too long, as Chinese coat. chhui-ē-táu sē-sē, chin hanging down very much.

SĒ (same word?). lâ-sē, spiritless; having an exhausted look. kóng-ōe lâ-sē, to talk very slowly without emotion, and without giving any distinct indication of opinion.

ē-táu lâ-sē, chin naturally very long and hanging down. pūi kàu lâ-sē, so fat that the flesh hangs flabby.

SĒ (C. sē), wearied; exhausted (r.)

SĒ— sē-káu, a wild animal like a small wolf; muck is said to be got from it.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. si<sup>n</sup>, to live; to be born; to beget, &c.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.) cheng-se<sup>n</sup>, = A. cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, cattle, &c.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.) àn-ne<sup>n</sup>-se<sup>n</sup>, = A. àn-ni<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, thus.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. séng, to use sparingly; a province. kán-sé<sup>n</sup> siá, to write words in a contracted manner.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. si<sup>n</sup>, a surname; a clan.

SĒ<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. si<sup>n</sup> (life, &c.)

seh (R. soat), snow. lòh-seh, to snow. péh seh-seh, very white. seh toā-tè, snow in large flakes. sng-seh, frost and snow. sng-lòh seh-tàng, very, very cold, as weather. sng-koá<sup>n</sup> seh-tàng, very, very cold. lòh-sng-seh, frosty and snowy weather.

seh-bō, a winter cap or hood with ears, worn by children. seh-lái, white winter pear from Shantung. hui<sup>n</sup>-seh (esp. C.), = hui<sup>n</sup>-thiap, small incense bags in women's hair for scent.

seh [R. soat, a brush; to scrub; = col. chhòe]. chhat-seh, a large broad Chinese paint brush.

稅

逝

世

噬

雪

刷

撒
屑 霎
說

seh [R. sat, to scatter, = col. soah, siet, chhāi, sái, &c.] seh-seh, to scatter, as small seeds; to spread out, as potatoes to dry. seh hé-hoe, to let sparks fall, as from a match. seh-leh chí-lāi-bîn, littering this room (or house) with small things, as grain, &c.

seh [R. siet, small fragments (C. siak), = col. sut, sap], (C. seh). iū-seh-seh, broken down very small, as eatables.

khioh-seh, to gather up fragments; to glean.

seh [R. siap, drizzling rain, = col. sap], (C. seh). hō-á seh-seh, very small rain.

seh [R. soat, to speak; to talk; to discourse upon and explain; cf. sōe], (C. soeh), to explain a book to a scholar in colloquial (Cn. sōh, but with a much wider meaning, = A. kóng, to speak).

kóe-seh (C. ké-soeh), to translate a book-phrase into colloquial. seh-chheh, to explain a book to a scholar in colloquial. thia<sup>n</sup>-seh, to listen to this explanation by the teacher. bat-seh, to understand the meaning of a book, and not merely the sound of the characters (but "hat-sōh," Cn., = A. hat-kóng, have or has said). é-káu-seh, hlundering translation, e.g. taking words out of their connection in senses used in other phrases, or taking a proper name as a common word, &c.

seh jin-chêng, to ask a favour for another. seh-siā (P. soeh), to give thanks to a man, generally with a present. seh to-siā, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> seh-kè, to ask an exorbitant price. kóng-thi<sup>n</sup>, seh hóng-tè, to talk idly about strange things (lit. heaven and emperor). thoân-miā<sup>n</sup> seh-siā<sup>n</sup>, to spread a report about a man, gen. bad.

seh-pèh, to talk prose in a play (opp. metrical parts); to talk a secret dialect or slang. lí teh-seh khá-ōe, you are joking at people, trying to turn the laugh against them. hē--lâng seh-chhiò, to be a laughing-stock, as because of some disgraceful action. phái<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> seh, angry or proud tone and style of talk. bō-sia<sup>n</sup> bō-seh, no sound or noise whatever. khioh-seh, it is said that — (introducing phrase to a story). khioh-seh tông-tiâu lí-sè-bîn, said when going to tell some jocular or absurd story.

seh (C.), = A. soeh, to fill up a crack; to get in among the teeth, as food.

seh (C.) thih-seh, a sort of tree with large pinnate glossy leaves.

seh (C.) seh-phoà, to dash in pieces, as a jar (cf. siak, sak).

seh, to whirl; to turn round; to go round in a circle; to revolve, as planet; to go about idly, or for had pleasures; a gambling instrument made of a horizontal arm swinging round on a perpendicular axis. seh-léh, to whirl about, &c. lāi seh-seh, often said in asking another to go with the speaker to had houses.

túg-seh, to settle or arrange, as a dispute (+). seh bé-lê, over and over put off paying money, or returning a loan, or attending to some business, to the last not put right.

chiā<sup>n</sup>-seh, to revolve in the usual direction, as hands of watch. tò-seh, revolve in opposite direction. túg chit-seh, to take a short walk and come back again (+). seh chit-seh, id.; also to make one revolution, as something set to whirl round. seh chit-toā-khe ũi, to move in a large circle, as walking or flying. seh lin-long, to run round, as children at play.

seh thng-á, to gamble for sweetmeats by the "seh." thng-á-seh, the instrument for this sort of gambling. kim-ku-seh, a toy made to revolve by small hecstles.

seh (Cn.), to throw a stone (cf. tsóh). seh chiòh-thâu, id.

seh [R. sèk, a cloth used by children]. ām-seh (C.), = ām-sé, a child's hih; also (P.), the pod of a leguminous shrub thus shaped.

seh (mere reduplication; cf. sáh). pèh-léh-seh, very white.

seh (C.) seh-liú, = siáh-liú, the pomegranate.

sek (Cn. sak, siak). sek-kháu, to wash the mouth. sek-kháu-thng, = sóe-kháu-thng, a small confection used at marriages. sek-kháu (C.), id.

sek [R. a rope; to pull with a rope; to demand; = col. soh]. lek-sek, to extort money. lèk-sek, id.

sek [R. to arrive at; to suit; pleased]. sim-sek, taking the fancy; interesting or pleasant to look at. sim-sek-hèng, to take a fancy for something, or to do something (v. hêng). sim-sek-hin (C.), id. phah-lâng bō-sim-sek, to treat or speak to a man, so that he is put to shame before others. poáh sim-sek, to play a game of chance for amusement, and not for money. sim-sek-á, games of chance or gambling; sometimes said of opium. sek-chhū-á, gambling, &c. (v. chhū). sek-chhū, taking the fancy; games, &c.

sek (R. id.), (C. sih). sek-sut, a small sort of cricket (v. sut).

sek [R. to press tightly in; to fill up crevices, &c.; = col. sat, that]. tí-sek, to be supplied or used, as an inferior person or thing in place of a good one, often temporarily, as no better can be got. té-sek (C.), id. put-kò si lāi tí-sek, only used to fill the place of a better.

sek [R. siòk, ripe, = col. sèk], hard, as a branch (opp. chí<sup>n</sup>); well hoiled, as sugar or confections. sek chí<sup>n</sup>, firm and soft (as above). koe sòe, chí sek (melon small, but seeds firm and good), said of a little man who looks hoyish, but is older or has more in him than appears.

sek [R. to know], wise; intelligent; skilful. kièn-sek, cleverness, wisdom, knowledge, and skill. sek-kièn, id. bō-kièn-sek, quite ignorant about matters. sái kièn-sek, to overreach a man by superior cunning. tí-sek (C. tí-sit), wisdom. hó-gán-sek, clever at knowing by a glance. hó-bák-sek, good at recognizing after a long time or calculating at a glance. bák-sek hó, id. té bák-sek, to make a rough calculation by looking at things.

gâu-sng-sek, disohliging and refusing to do anything beyond what one must do; always making excuses and delaying to do what is asked. khah-bat-sek, understanding well how to act in any circumstances. put-sek si-sū, quite ignorant of the force of circumstances, e.g. quarrelling with a powerful man.

sek-kut, precocious and intelligent, as young child. sek-kúí, too sharp and cunning (lit. demon), (said of a very sharp and crafty man). ké-sek, pretending to be very knowing. poà<sup>n</sup>-sek poà<sup>n</sup>-gōng, rather under average ability and intelligence. sek-sek-hi poáh--lòh pí<sup>n</sup>-kha, a skilful actor may fall off the stage. sek-sek-lâng, bóe che lāu-chiú-àng, said of a wise man making a great mistake.

sek (R. id.), colour; complexion; lust; (sort, as of goods). bêng-sek, fame; reputation (v. bêng, "name").

hè-sek, sorts of goods. tsáp-sek-lâng, men from many different places, or acquainted with different sorts of business. m-si lāng-sek, he is a bad man, always

褌

石漱索適

蟋塞

熟

識

色

ready to injure others, and dangerous to have dealings with. bô-siá<sup>n</sup> sī lāng-sek, he is not a very good character. chhoân-chhók lāng-sek, to get ready all the persons, as for a trial (v. chhók). gín-ná-sek, character or behaviour of boy or child. m-sī gín-ná-sek, mischievous; disobedient; bad or troublesome, as boy or child. phái<sup>n</sup>-gín-ná-sek, id. chit--ê gín-ná-sek, such a boy! so ill-behaved! m-sī kioh-sek, unfit for his work or position (v. kioh). hók-sek, dress; garments, either as worn or laid by (s. knee).

gân-sek, expression of countenance; appearance of face; complexion. khi-sek, complexion, as indicating constitution. bîn-sek, complexion, countenance, colour, or appearance of face, esp. as to health. hó-bîn-sek, appearance of health. phái<sup>n</sup>-bîn-sek, sickly-looking. tsóat-sek (R.), very beautiful, as woman.

lú-sek, female beauty; lust; lewdness. lâm-sek, sodomy. lâm-sek, blue colour. sek-iók, lustful desires. hè<sup>n</sup>-sek, lewd; lustful. tham-sek, id. sek-hong, a very bad venereal disease. hoân sek-hong, very painful and dangerous disease several days after the act. hâm-sek-hong (Cn.), id. tsau-sek, debilitated by lasciviousness. chiú-sek, liquor and lust. chiú-sek chi-tê, man given to them. hè<sup>n</sup>-chiú-sek, fond of them. tham-bê chiú-sek, id.

sek-tsúi, colour. sái sek-tsúi, to bully; to talk of one's influence or power in a loud, overbearing, unjust, or threatening way. sek-tī, colour. hó-sek-ték, having a good colour, as face, silk, &c. (v. ték). súi-sek, beautiful colour. iām-sek (R.), of splendidly bright colour; gaudy. chhiò-sek, light, as blue. tím-sek, dark, as blue. sí-sek, dull-coloured. chhái-sek, vari-coloured. kài<sup>n</sup>-sek, having several colours. pún-sek, natural colour; not bleached or dyed. pún-sek sai-iú<sup>n</sup>, gray shirtings.

sek-téng, coloured button of mandarin. sek-liáu, materials for colours; dry paint, not yet mixed. in-sek, red ink used for stamping (v. in).

kài-sek, to put a colour on a ground of another colour. chhài<sup>n</sup>-sek, to work in varied colours (v. chhài<sup>n</sup>). jiám-sek, to put on some colour on a plain sketch or on a simple ground. ní<sup>n</sup>-sek, to dye. ní<sup>n</sup>-sek-pê, dyed shirtings. chhut-sek, to make the colour appear, as in painting, or by putting a dress of the same colour below a thin dress. thè-sek, to lose the colour. tsáu-sek, id. sit-sek, to lose colour, as the face. bîn sit-sek, id. bîn lek-sek, paleness, as from fear or shame. hoán-sek, to change colour, as meat turned bad by heat. pièn-sek, to change colour, as man or thing. thi<sup>n</sup> pièn-sek, the weather seems changing, as to rain or wind. thi<sup>n</sup>-siông pièn-sek, id. khoà<sup>n</sup> thi<sup>n</sup>-sek, to observe the signs of the weather.

tsng-sek, to put on a false colour or gloss on goods; to put on any false appearance. tsòe-sek, to cause or make a colour; to put on a bad colour that will not hold. tsòe-sek ê-ôe, boastful talk; praising one's self or friends or belongings too much. tang-bîn tsòe-sek, first streaks of dawn appearing in the east.

ngé-sek, vari-coloured, esp. black, red, white, yellow, and blue. ngé-sek-hûn, bright-coloured clouds. kài ngé-sek, to paint in various colours. ngé-sek-pê, coloured shirtings. ngé-sek-bîn, a scoundrel or wicked violent fellow, esp. hangers-on about yamuns; in plays such characters are represented with face of various colours. ngé-sek-lién, id. ngé-sek-ki, flags of various colours, or one flag of five colours. sam-sek- ki, flag of three colours, esp. Dutch or (r.) French. khoà<sup>n</sup> sam-sek, to watch which side is going to win, so as to take that side.

sek [R. ornaments; to adorn]. siú-sek, ornaments for woman's head. chhiú-sek, ornaments for the head. iām-sek, to conceal under a false appearance, e.g. poverty, bad designs, or wicked conduct.

sek [R. chhek (C. chhip), the knee]. sek-khè, short leggings worn by women (v. khè). hók-sek (C. hók-sip), ornaments worn on the knees (s. colour). pák hók-sek, to wear them.

sek [R. a guitar with many strings]. khím-sek, harps and guitars in general.

sek [R. chek, a sort of millet]. sek-á, small coarse sort of millet, esp. for feeding birds. sóe-sek béh-táu, millet, wheat, barley, and pulse. sóe-sek thè-táu, millet and ground-nuts. ah-kha-sek, a very small sort of grain, having a head like a duck's foot.

sek [R. siok, rice growing, or with the husk on, = col. chhek]. eng-sek-hoe, the poppy. eng-sek-khak, poppy pods.

sek [R. a house], (C. sit, chit). sek-á, small lodgings connected with temples. tì-sek-ka, married (said of a man). tsái-sek-lú, a virgin.

sek [R. id., tin, = col. siah], (also Cn., = A. siah, tin, pewter). sek-thng, the Buddhist key of hell (v. thng).

sek [R. a pattern; a model; = col. sit], (C. sit, sek). thé-sek, a form or pattern to be followed, as for an essay, or marriage contract, or legal document. keh-sek, proper rule or pattern, as for a document (v. keh). tsng-sek, paper form on which to write a petition or accusation. thiap-sek, forms for writing invitations, &c. khoán-sek (esp. T.), = khoán-sit, a pattern. sí-sek (C.), = A. sí-sit, fashionable.

sek [R. to loose; to set free]. tiah-sek-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to put in a petition in court withdrawing our name from an action in which our name has been unjustly involved. tiah-sek, id. jip tiah-sek, id.

sek-kia, Buddha; Shakyamuni. sek-kia-hút, id. sek-khia, id.; also, the custard-apple. sek-kàu, Buddhism; the Buddhist sect. sek-ka, the Buddhist sect.

sek (cf. sut). bák-chiu sek-khok sek-khiak, eyes glancing about rapidly.

sek [R. to rest; to cease; posterity; interest], (C. sit, sek). an-sek-jit (X.), the Sabbath. àn-sek-hiú<sup>n</sup>, gum benzoin. hò-sek-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a joint petition put in by the two parties in a suit saying that they have now made up the quarrel. jip hò-sek, to enter such a petition.

tsú-sek, male children; phrase used in fortune-telling.

lī-sek, gain; profit in trade; interest of money. pàng-lī-sek, lend money on interest. pún-chi<sup>n</sup> lī-sek, principal and interest; capital and profit. seng-sek, to lie at interest.

sek [R. harvest; to amass; avaricious]. lin-sek (R.), miserly; stingy; niggardly.

sek [R. to love; to compassionate; = col. sioh]. khó-sek (C.), = A. khó-sioh, alas! how lamentable! (but in other phrases C. sioh, = A.).

sek (P.), = A. siok (uncle), and perhaps in some other words.

sek (Cn.) sek-kan-tsū, = A. sù-kun-tsú, a medicinal plant.

飾 膝
琴
櫻

粟
室 錫
式

釋

息

吝
惜

sèk [R. a stone, = col. chiòh, siáh]. thiet-sèk sim-tiông, cruel and pitiless. kút-sèk, a sort of medicine. chiá-sèk, a medicine. bông-sèk, a medicine. kam-sèk, a medicinal stone reduced to powder by roasting. giá-sèk-lun (r.), a composition of which small ornamental bottles are made.

sèk [R. evening, = col. siáh]. tiau-sèk (R.), morning and evening. tiau bún-tō, sèk sú, khó-i, having learned the doctrine in the morning, though one dies in the evening it will do.

sèk [R. a mat; a feast; = col. siáh, chhiòh], (T. siáh, sèk), classifier of meals or feasts. sàng-sèk, to present a cooked feast to a man. soà<sup>n</sup>-sèk, the breaking up of a feast. hàn-sèk, a feast in Chinese style. boán-hàn-sèk, feast in Manchoo and Chinese style. kú-i-sèk, how many meals? (T. siáh). chit-sèk-toh, one feast or meal. chit-sèk-chiú, one drinking feast. kièn-tái-sèk-bièn, extensively acquainted with rich or influential men.

sèk (T.) hō-sèk, = A. hé-sit, food. jit-sèk, = A. jit-sit, daily food.

sèk (P.), = A. siòk, cheap, common, customs, &c.

sèk (P.), = A. siòk (connected); and so with some other words.

sèk (R. siòk, = col. sek), (P. siòk), ripe; fully cooked; well learned; well acquainted with a thing. chhi<sup>n</sup>-sèk, raw and cooked, green and ripe, &c. poà<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>-sèk, half-raw; very slightly acquainted with the matter. sèk-chhat, glossy varnish thoroughly prepared.

tsú-sèk, to cook thoroughly. kè-sèk, too much cooked; too ripe. sèk láu-láu, very ripe or over ripe, as fruit. ké-chí toà-sèk, ripe fruit abundant.

sèk-hoan, a tribe of Formosan aborigines who have submitted to Chinese rule and learned Chinese; (lit. civilized foreigners).

sèk-sái, well acquainted with a man; intimate (v. sai). sióng-sèk, id. bīn-sèk, slightly acquainted with a man (just knowing his face). lē sèk, knowing the road well. soàn-hoat sèk, good at arithmetic. sèk láu-láu, well acquainted with, as road or language. ké-sèk, pretending to know all about a matter. liām-sèk, to learn a lesson thoroughly. sèk-chhiú, skilful with the hand; accustomed to do something. sèk-hâng, skilful; experienced. ki<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup> sèk-hâng, experienced in lawsuits; not afraid to come into court. sèk-tiú<sup>n</sup>, experienced, as in gambling. koàn-sèk (P.), = A. koàn-siòk, well experienced.

seng [R. cattle; sacrificial animals; = col. cheng, si<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. sōng). seng-lé, offerings of flesh to the dead or the gods. tsòe-seng-lé, to make such offerings. ngé-seng, the five sorts of offerings. sam-seng, the three sorts of flesh-offerings; one may be eggs or macaroni. sam-seng-tsái (v. tsái). sam-seng-phe, very bold and ready for a feud, either by fighting or by lawsuit and examination.

seng (R. id.), (Cn. sōng). gōe-seng, a sister's son. gōe-seng-lú, sister's daughter. gōe-seng-sun, sister's grandson.

seng [R. sound; fame; = col. sia<sup>n</sup>]. seng-sè, power; influence (v. sè). jim-khi thun-seng, to repress one's anger and voice, as before a superior (v. thun).

seng (R. id.), to ascend; to raise, as flag; to promote or rise in official rank; raise the back of the sedan so as to let the passenger step out easily. seng--chiū<sup>n</sup>-khi, to ascend. seng-koái<sup>n</sup>, id. (as in rank?). seng-ki, to hoist a flag. seng-khi, to hoist, as flag. seng- tng, to ascend the tribunal and take his seat, as judge. seng-thien, to ascend to heaven. pék-jit seng-thien, do. in daylight.

ko-seng, regularly promoted to high office. seng-kip, to rise in rank and office (v. kip). seng-koa<sup>n</sup>, to rise in official rank. seng-koa<sup>n</sup>-tê, a diagram with titles of offices, &c., used for a game.

seng-bâ, a medicine for causing perspiration and curing giddiness (Thalictrum? Sida?). seng-moâ<sup>n</sup>, id.

seng (R. sien), (T. sai<sup>n</sup>; Cn. sui<sup>n</sup>), formerly; previously; in advance; first. thâu-seng, at first; previously. khi-seng, id. tng khi-seng, id. tai-seng (Cn. tō-sui<sup>n</sup>), at first; before; beforehand. tai-seng-tsai, to know beforehand. i tai-seng-goá lâi, he came before I came. i seng-goá lâi, id. i khah-tai-seng-goá lâi, id. seng-lâi, to come first. seng hē-i, give him beforehand. seng-chioh, to borrow in advance; to get payment in advance.

seng [R. a star, = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>, san]. liú-seng (R.), a shooting-star. liú-seng-thûi, a ball fastened to a chain, used in ancient warfare. sái liú-seng, to use this weapon. khoe-seng, the god of the N. star and of literature (v. khoe). pak-táu seng-kun, = Hiên-thien Siōng-tè (v. táu). tiông-siū-seng, the star of longevity. hok-seng chiâu-iâu, may the auspicious star favour you (v. iâu). bâ-bīn, boán thien-seng, a pock-marked face may seem dotted with stars.

lâm-seng, a medicinal plant.

seng — seng-seng, a sort of ape.

seng [R. song, double; a pair; = siang, sang]. seng-ta<sup>n</sup>-but, a small, thin, white marine worm, sharp at each end.

seng (R. id.), (Cn. sōng), a musical instrument like Pan's pipes, esp. used in Changchew.

seng [R. sin; misery, pain]. seng-khé, miserable in body; toiling in wretchedness.

seng [R. sin, the body]. seng-khu, = sin-khu, the body.

seng [R. siōng, the fir-tree, = col. chêng, chhêng]. tē-seng, a sort of fir-tree. seng-gô (C.), id. seng-gô-lú (C.), its cones (large).

seng (P.), = A. sióng (in some words).

seng [R. alive; to produce; raw; = col. si<sup>n</sup>, chhi<sup>n</sup>], (Cn. sōng), to produce; life; a respectable male character in a play.

seng-oân (R.), a Sew-tsai (v. oân). lím-seng, a literary rank between Sew-tsai and Kujin. kám-seng, a purchased title nearly like Sew-tsai. kòng-seng, the rank next to Kujin (v. kòng). im-seng, a son of a high mandarin, who gets on by influence. tóng-seng, a candidate for the Sew-tsai degree. hák-seng, a pupil; a scholar; a disciple. bún-seng (R.), id. bún-seng, a card used as indenture for apprenticeship; the conditions are not written on it, as they are always understood. thien-tsú bún-seng, the highest three literary titles (chiōng-goân, póng-gán, and thám-hoe), conferred once in three years by the emperor in person. lé-seng, master of ceremonies, esp. at sacrificial offerings. i-seng, a doctor (v. i). boán-seng, polite phrase for "I," said to one slightly our superior, or from politeness to an inferior.

seng-toà<sup>n</sup>, male and female characters in a play (v. toà<sup>n</sup>). hi-seng, male character, as of a man in respectable circumstances. lâu-seng, character of old man (+). sió-seng, character of young, polite, or learned man. tsng-seng, to act the part of a young

石

夕

席

熟

牲

甥
聲 升

先

星

猩
籬 笙
辛 身
松 生

gentleman. tseng lāu-seng, to act the part of an old mau.

seng-bō, sort of cap used in plays.

lók-kha-seng, ground-nuts, Arachis, = thé-tāu. seng-khè, bean-cake made from them. seng-iú, oil made from them.

seng-tē, sort of medicine in its raw form (v. tē).

seng-lí, trade; mercantile business. tsòe-seng-lí, to trade; to do mercantile business. seng-lí-hoat, rules and customs of trade. seng-lí-tiú<sup>n</sup>, arena or affairs of trade. seng-lí-chhùi, tricks of trade by saying what is not just true. seng-hoát-kè, means of livelihood.

seng-sek, to lie at interest.

seng-sán, to bear young (v. sán). seng-iók, to get a child (said of either parent). hoà-seng, to become living by transformation, as animals (v. hoà). hòe-seng (R.), to return to life. khí-sú hòe-seng, to raise the dead to life (said of curing a man almost dying). chhiau-seng, to get a soul out of hell so as to be born again into the world; to spare a life sentenced to death (v. chhiau). thèh seng-keng, to take the horoscope of an intended pair to see how they suit. seng-tióng, to grow up to full age. seng-sêng, naturally so; to assist out of poverty into prosperity (v. sêng). thien-seng tsū-jiên, naturally so; certainly so; of course. ióng-seng-tāg, a foundling hospital. hòng-seng, to save animals alive for Buddhist merit (v. hòng). sat-seng, to destroy life (v. sat). pó-seng tái-tè, = tái-tō-kong, the god of medicine. sú-seng iú-bêng, death and life are decreed by Heaven (v. bêng). seng-sú iú-têng, id. tióng-seng put-sú, long life without death. tióng-seng put-ló, long life without growing old. tióng-seng lók-ūi, honorary tablet to a living mandarin. seng-lē, means of avoiding death. iáu-ū chit-tiám seng-khì, a little life still remains, as in man, animal, or plant that seemed dead.

it-seng, one's whole lifetime; all life long. pêng-seng, during one's whole past life; usually (in the past). seng-pêng, id.

bók-seng, having the element "wood" strong in one's constitution; large-boned, stiff, and rather ungainly in form. hé-seng, having the element "fire" or the hot principle strong in the constitution, with tendency to a red face and prominent veins.

seng-khì, to be angry (+). seng-lí, interesting; pleasant to look at. toā-seng-lí, very much pleased. seng-sū, to breed trouble, as a quarrel or feud naturally springing up. seng-toan, id. bū-tióng seng-iú (r.), to raise groundless reports. chhiok-kéng seng-chêng, some circumstance exciting musing or melancholy emotions. lók kék, pi seng, grief comes at the height of joy (v. pi).

sêng [R. sín, a spirit]. phái<sup>n</sup>-sêng-khì, feeling of awkwardness and shame, as at having to speak against a friend, or being reproved by a superior (v. phái<sup>n</sup>).

sêng [R. to assist; an assistant or deputy; = col. sín]. sêng-siòng, a prime minister. sêng-siú<sup>n</sup>, id. tán-chih seng-siú<sup>n</sup>, you have kept me waiting a long time (as if you were prime minister). bún-sêng bú-ùi (R.), civil and military officers (written on doors). hiên-sêng (R.), = hun-koái<sup>n</sup>, the civil mandarin of a subdivision of a hien. koái<sup>n</sup>-sêng, id.

sêng [R. to ride; to take advantage of; to multiply; = col. sêng]. sêng-hoat, multiplication. kui-tú seng-hoat, multiplication and division (v. kui). sêng chhit-pái, multiply by seven.

Sêng (R. id.) sêng-sim, truthful; faithful, as man. sêng-sit (r.), id. sêng-kèng, sincerely reverential, as man. tāu-sêng, to submit to the mandarins on condition of complete impunity.

Sêng [R. a city, = col. siá<sup>n</sup>]. sêng-hông-iá, the guardian deity of a city (v. hông). iú-hok ku sêng-kok, prosperous men live in cities and suburbs. hù-kùi ku sêng-kok, id.

Sêng — sêng-hì, a large coarse-tasted fish, without scales and with few bones, much like the liám-hì.

Sêng (P.) sêng-ka, = A. sióng-ka, resin.

Sêng [R. id., = col. sá<sup>n</sup>, sín], (C. sín), to receive, as a thing. sêng-siū, to receive; to accept. sêng-jin, to confess, as an action. tam-sêng, to stand security; to assume responsibility, as for man whom we recommend, or of matter which we manage. thài-kong tiò-hì, goán-chiá sêng-kau (when Thai-kung fished, only the willing fish took the hook), I tell you plainly without any concealment, choose as you please.

hông-sêng, to treat with much attention, as a superior or a visitor; to talk very politely, as to visitors; to adulate or fawn upon. èng-sêng, to promise to grant a request. moá<sup>n</sup>-chhùi èng-sêng, mouth full of fair promises. boán-khé èng-sêng, id.

sêng-chiap, to succeed to (v. chiap). lék-tái sióng-sêng, handed down from generation to generation, as throne or title of nobility. sè-tái sióng-sêng, id. sêng i--é kí-giáp, to succeed to his property. sêng-koán, to succeed to and have control of. sêng-hū koán-giáp, to succeed to one's father and have control of the property.

keng-sêng, a certain clerk or secretary in a yamun, who receives petitions and complaints, &c., and prepares the draft warrants for the mandarin's inspection. chhe-sêng, this official and the constables. sêng-chhe, id.

Sêng [R. id., = col. chiá<sup>n</sup>, chhiá<sup>n</sup>, siá<sup>n</sup>], to complete; to accomplish. sêng-chiū, to accomplish, as an affair (v. chiū). sêng-sū, to accomplish a matter. sêng-sū tsái-thien, the issue of an affair is in the hands of Heaven (v. tsái). sêng-kong, to carry an affair to a successful issue. lóng-ká sêng-chin, a joke becomes a sad reality (v. lóng). sip-koán sêng tsū-jiên, habit becomes a second nature (v. tsū). sêng-bêng, to attain to fame (v. bêng). pék-siú sêng-ka, from poverty become rich. sêng-tsé, to found a family, as ancestor (v. tsé). sêng-hút, to become a Buddha. sêng-sien, to become a genie; to die. tsòe khèng-sêng, to perform Taoist rites, as on the completion of a temple, &c.

seng-sêng (lit. bring into being and make perfect), naturally so; originally; to assist a man from poverty to great prosperity, as patron. seng-sêng bún-lí, naturally good-looking, as man. seng-sêng put-siók, having a noble appearance; not common-looking. tióng-sêng, to grow up to full age. sêng-teng, to come to age of puberty (v. teng). chiá<sup>n</sup>-lāng sêng-khì, to get set up in the world, as by marriage, by getting an office or situation or a good business. tsok-sêng, to assist in business (v. tsok). khan-sêng, to assist a man who is out of employment till he can get on well. tsàn-sêng, to assist in accomplishing something. siu-sêng, to gather in, as the harvest; to wind up, as a business, not because of failure. siú-sêng, to be careful, as of property; very careful and well-behaved.

sêng-hók, to put on deep mourning, either at first, or when resuming it for special rites. sêng-chhin,

誠

城

魚

承

成

神

丞

乘

to consummate the marriage relation by intercourse. kun-tsu sèng jin-chi-bi, a good man assists others to goodness. khut-tá<sup>n</sup> sèng-chiau, to beat violently and force to confess.

put-chí-sèng, very like, as a portrait.

ló-sèng, having the good sense and staid manner of an old man, though young (v. ló).

iú-sèng, likely to prove useful in the world, as an industrious boy will afterwards. bū-sèng, useless, as a lazy boy. bū-sèng ê-tsu-tê, an idle useless boy. put-sèng, not complete; cannot be accomplished; does not succeed, as affair. pān put-sèng, unable to put the matter straight. put-sèng-jin, ill-behaved, as a vagabond or unsatisfactory character. put-sèng-bút, id. put-sèng-mih<sup>n</sup>, id.; also ill-formed or unfinished article. put-sèng-tiām, a shop that can hardly be called a shop. bū-khiau, put-sèng-sū (C. si), if you don't go about the bush, you cannot accomplish the matter.

sèng-gú, a recognized book-phrase that has become colloquial.

lí-ê chek-sèng, it is your affair; if it go wrong, the responsibility is on you. i-ū chek-sèng tī--teh, the responsibility is on him.

sèng [R. to examine; sparing; a province], (C. sé<sup>n</sup>), to diminish or lessen, as expense, labour, or trouble; a province; the provincial capital.

sèng-chhat, to investigate; to examine into (v. chhat). (In this paragraph it remains "sèng" in C.) put-sèng jin-sū (not recognizing things), very foolish; in a swoon; very ill. sèng-chhin (R.), to go to visit parents.

tsáp-poeh-sèng, the eighteen provinces of China. bé-sèng, the last province, Fuh-kien. kè-sèng, to go from one province to another. sèng-hūn, a province. sèng-siá<sup>n</sup>, the provincial capital. chhut-sèng, to leave the provincial capital. kè-gūn chiū<sup>n</sup>-sèng, to transmit treasure to the provincial capital, as mandarins.

kán-sèng, to abbreviate; to do hurriedly, or with brevity (v. kán). khiām-sèng, to use sparingly; economical. liám-sèng, id. kiám-sèng, more sparing in expense. kien-ta-sèng, dispense with altogether. sèng-ēng (C. sé<sup>n</sup>-iōng), to use less; to use sparingly or economically. sèng-siàu, effecting a saving of money; cheaper. khah-sèng-siàu, id. sèng-chí<sup>n</sup>, cheaper; requiring less money. sèng s-hùi, economical. sèng liáu-chí<sup>n</sup>, to save expense, e.g. something not needing to be done that would have cost money. sèng-sū, to avoid trouble and quarrels in the management of a matter, e.g. by caution, or by being willing to lose or suffer a little for peace. sèng-kang, to spare labour. sèng lé-lát, less trouble; to lessen the labour. sèng--tit lēng-lê khi-tsàu, said of not needing any more (lit. one cooking-place enough).

sèng (R. id., = col. si<sup>n</sup>), nature (of man or of things); natural character or disposition; temper, often bad temper. sim-sèng, nature of the heart, temper, disposition. sèng-chēng, nature and dispositions. pún-sèng, original nature or character. goān-sèng put-kái, original bad nature not reformed. péng-sèng, original natural character. pín-sèng, id. phín-sèng, character and disposition, natural or acquired. phiah-sèng, disposition; temper. sèng-phiah, id. sèng-khi phái<sup>n</sup>, temper bad. sèng-tê, temper, esp. bad temper. ū sèng-tê, to have a bad temper. ū-sèng ū-tê, id. phái<sup>n</sup>-sèng-tê, bad temper; bad-tempered. hó-sèng-tê, good temper; good-tempered. kāu-sèng-tê, irascible; bad-tempered. sèng-tê tióh-pàng-lóh, should restrain temper. sèng-tê pàng-khah-hê, let temper down a little.

ióh-sèng, nature of a particular drug, as to its character and effects (v. ióh). lūn-sèng, tough, as some sorts of wood.

khí-sèng, to get angry. hoat-sèng, do., naturally from a real and sufficient cause (right or wrong). sái-sèng, to put on an angry manner; to get angry for no cause at all, or excessively angry for a slight cause. gōng sái-sèng, suddenly and foolishly get into a great rage, either at man or thing, e.g. breaking or throwing away a thing that does not please us. théng-sèng, self-willed and overbearing, proud and quick-tempered; self-confident and imperious, as young fellow. hé-sèng, of a quick fiery temper. sò-sèng, hasty tempered. chháu-á-sèng, irascible and quick-tempered, but soon over. kin-sèng, id. ok-sèng, very crabbed and bad-tempered, as child. pà-sèng, id. bô-tēng-sèng, very fickle and of unsettled purpose. hū-jin tsuí-sèng, women are unstable in purpose (like water), and easily moved to incontinence.

sèng [R. to conquer]. hè<sup>n</sup>-sèng, fond of over-coming, or showing one's own power; domineering; ambitious. tek-sèng, to get the victory. tek-sèng-koá, a jacket opening at the side, made with many foreign buttons. phah tek-sèng-ké (to come back in triumph from war with drums, &c.), fig. of a man who has had a great success, as in a lawsuit.

sèng (R. id.), sage and wise in the highest degree; inspired; holy; sacred; applied to things connected with the sages, or the emperor, or some great divinities. sèng-siōng, the emperor. sèng-kun, an emperor with the virtue of a sage (v. kun). sèng-chí, imperial will or decree. sèng-un, imperial favour. sèng-siū, emperor's birthday (v. siū). sèng-jū, the "sacred edict." sèng-jī (C.), id. sèng-chhái, ground-rent levied by military mandarins.

keh sèng-ōng, an idol of the surname Keh. tān sèng-ōng, one of surname Tān. hé-sèng-kong, the tiger-god of gamblers. sèng-tūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), the temple of Hiên-thien Siōng-tè.

hién-sèng, to manifest power to answer prayer, as an idol appearing visibly.

sèng-jin, a great inspired sage. sèng-jin-kham, a binnacle. chin sèng-jin, quite a sage! said ironically of a bad character. chí-sèng, the greatest sage (Confucius); most holy. à-sèng, a sage of second rank, as Mencius and Gān-hôe (Yen-yen). sèng-hiēn, sages and wise philosophers. sèng-kàu, the doctrine of the sages. iá-sê sèng-kàu, the sacred doctrine (or church) of Jesus. sèng-keng, sacred books; Scriptures. sèng-chheh, id. sèng-hôe (X.), the church. sèng-tê (X.), saints; holy disciples. sèng-sin (X.), the Holy Spirit. sèng-cheh-mih<sup>n</sup>, things that have some trace or memorial of ancient sages.

sèng [R. a surname, = col. si<sup>n</sup>]. hok-sèng, a surname of two characters, e.g. su-má. tsók-sèng, a clan; surname of clan. tōng-sèng, of same surname. tōng-sèng put-tsong, same surname, but not nearly related (v. tsong). i<sup>n</sup>-sèng, of different surnames. tsáp-sèng, having several surnames in same village. ke-sèng, the only one of the surname among people of other surname or surnames. ko-sèng, what is your surname, sir? tái-sèng, a great and numerous clan. tāi-sèng-hú, id. (v. hú). siáu-sèng, a small clan. tāi-siáu-sèng-hôe, small clans combining to resist

省

勝

聖

性

姓

the larger. bâi-bút sêng-bêng, to conceal name and surname. oá<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup> kóe-sêng, to change name and surname; to take an alias (v. miá<sup>n</sup>).

SÊNG [R. abundant; a surname; = col. siá<sup>n</sup>], abundant; plentiful. sêng soe, prospering and declining (v. soe). hong-sêng, very abundant (v. hong). chhiong-sêng, id. bê-sêng (R.), luxuriant, as vegetation. sêng-tek, virtuous character (v. tek). kan-hé sêng, having a slightly feverish tendency (v. kan, "liver").

SÊNG [R. overplus, = col. sîn]. liông-sêng (R. liông-sêng), exceedingly abundant, as money, crops, &c. chi<sup>n</sup>-tsui liông-sêng, having money in great abundance, as man or firm.

SÊNG, to spoil, as a child; to indulge too much, as an inferior, allowing him to do as he pleases. thêng-sêng, id. sêng-khi-la, to indulge or spoil him till he has it all his own way. sêng-hêng, spoiled, as child; dogged and impudent, as beggar. sêng-káu chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsau, sêng-kiá<sup>n</sup> put-hàu, a petted dog makes free with the cooking-place; a spoiled child is unfilial. sêng-ti giá-tsàu, sêng-kiá<sup>n</sup> put-hàu, a pig allowed its own way burrows under the fireplace; a spoiled child, &c. sêng-i chiū<sup>n</sup> táh-pang, soà-beh-chiū<sup>n</sup> bin-chhng, allow him on the step, and he will go on the bed.

SÊNG [R. sêng, to ride, to multiply, &c.], to take advantage of an opportunity. sêng-sè, id. sêng-ki, id. sêng-soà, take advantage of the opportunity of doing something to do something more.

SI [R. to bestow], a surname; to strew or scatter, as saw-dust. si-si, to strew, as saw-dust. si-li, id. si ti-thê-kha, to strew on the floor, as sand or saw-dust. si-chè (R.), to bestow, as charity. si-un, to bestow grace or favour. si-siá (R.), to bestow (v. siá).

SI — si-jiō, to get an infant to pass water, as a nurse does.

SI [R. su, secret; private; = col. sai]. ke-si, implements; instruments; furniture; weapons. ke-si-thâu, id. pí ke-si, to practise fencing or the use of weapons. iên ke-si, id.

SI [R. su, a spiral shell-fish]. lê-si-teng, a screw-nail. lê-si, id. lê-si (C.), id. lê-si-ká, a screw-driver. têng lê-si-teng, to put in a screw-nail.

SI [R. su, to think]. siu<sup>n</sup>-si, deeply enamoured of a particular person so as to be sick (v. siu<sup>n</sup>, mutual), (s. shrub).

SI [R. su, name of shrub]. siu<sup>n</sup>-si, a shrub with long narrow leaves, yellow flowers, and seeds in a legume, Abrus precatorius. siu<sup>n</sup>-si-chhiū, id. siu<sup>n</sup>-si-chhâ, its wood.

SI — îg-si, sort of wood, much used for oars. îg-si-chhâ, its wood.

SI [R. sort of labiate plant like verbena]. si-chhâu, a plant like verbena, used for divination. siáp-si, to divine by slips of this plant.

SI [R. name of an herb]. thê-si, a medicinal creeper with fine tendrils, sometimes ornamental (dodder?). thê-si-piá<sup>n</sup>, its seeds made up into a sort of cake. thê-si-chí, id.

SI [R. se, west, = col. sai]. si-koe, the water-melon. si-koe oá toá-pêng, people like the larger half of a melon (favour the winning side).

hâ-tsoh tong-si, low mean fellow! (said in scolding).

SI (C.), = A. su (ought).

SI (C.) phài kun-si (= A. su), to levy contributions for the army, &c.

SI [R. su, a book; a document; to write; = col. tsu], (also C., = A. su, a book, &c.)

siū<sup>n</sup>-si, the president of one of the supreme boards at the metropolis.

siū<sup>n</sup>-si (C.), = A. su-keng, the Shoo-king, the historical classic.

SI [R. name of a bird]. péh-lêng-si, the white egret or paddy-bird. péh-lê-si (R.), id.; some say different. lê-si (R.), id. lê-si-pân, sort of winc-jug with long thin neck. lê-si-kha, having very long thin shaly legs, as man or piece of furniture.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-si-á, a small yellow bird (Zosterops?).

SI (R. id.), an ode; poetry; a hymn or psalm. si-keng, the Book of Odes; the Shi-king. mê<sup>n</sup>-si (C.), id. si-phien (X.), the Book of Psalms. chit-chhiū<sup>n</sup>-si, one ode. chit-siū<sup>n</sup>-si, id. ngé-giên-si, odes in lines of five words. chhit-giên-si, of seven words.

si-ün, a rhyming dictionary. si-ong (R.), a poet. si-chhai, sort of gambling by lines of poetry. chhiam-si, colloquial verses on slips of paper, drawn by lot in temples. thiah chhiam-si, to tear off one of these slips of verse after drawing the lot. poe-si (T.), divination by lots and verses of poetry (v. poe). báng-á-si, verses about mosquitoes (v. báng).

liâm-si, to repeat odes. gim-si, to chant or sing odes. tôe-si, to compose and write poetry, as on an ornamental scroll. tsòe-si, to make poetry. thók-si chhien-siū, put-tsok tsü-iü, after learning a thousand odes one can make them naturally.

SI (R. id.), a corpse. sin-si, id. si-siū, id. si-si, id., said in scorn or spite. tsoán-si, corpse of suicide or of man killed, but not mutilated. tsui-lâu-si, a corpse floated by the tide. lê-pông-si, a corpse lying on the roadside. kióng-si, a corpse that catches and kills people (v. kióng).

si-chhin, the relatives of a man who is found dead. si-tsü, that relation who has authority to ask explanation of, or reparation for, the death.

giam-si, to hold an inquest on a corpse. kiám-si, do. after it is far decayed, e.g. only bones. biét-si, to destroy a corpse so as to evade inquiry. i-si, to move a corpse to another man's premises so as to involve him.

si-ji-thâu, the 44th radical.

bê-kêng, chhut kêng-si, when about to become poor, a man has mean ill-behaved sons.

SI (R. id.), silk, esp. in thread; fine thin threads, fibres, or shreds; said also of gut or fine wire; a very small quantity. si-si, very slim and thin, as the strokes of characters.

chit-si-á, a very small quantity. chit-si-si-á, id. bô-lí-si, not in the very least (v. lí). chit-si-hô to bôe-tsòe--tit, it won't do at all.

ti-tu-si, cobwebs. ti-lá-si, id. pe-si, flying motes in the air (e.g. strings of spiders' webs, &c.) which injure the eyes. iên-si, long strings of raw birds'-nests. kiu<sup>n</sup>-si, ginger made into thin shreds. ê-hoái<sup>n</sup>-si, strings of taro stalks, used in making (ké) cakes. tôe-á-si, fine fibres of flax. thâng-si, strong gut made from the "png-thng" caterpillar. tâng-si, fine brass wire. thiu tâng-si, to make fine brass wire.

i<sup>n</sup>-si, sycee silver.

chhi<sup>n</sup>-si, a thin silk stuff. poeh-si-á, very thin slim glossy silk stuff, much used for pasting things for

威

刺

乘施

私螭思櫻

著蕪西

書

絲鳥

詩

尸

絲

the worship of the dead. pháng-sì, a very strong good silk stuff. âng-pháng-sì, red do. kam-lâi-sì, a fine linen stuff (cambric?). si-pè, stuff made of silk and cotton mixed, made at Changchew.

si-thâu, coarse refuse silk; it makes a very strong stuff. si-soá, silk thread. si-mi, cotton and silk mixed in a thick soft mass for absorbing ink (v. mi). hê-si-kheh, a silk merchant from Central China (v. hê).

sa<sup>n</sup>-pah-lák-si, a very thin sort of paper; there used to be 360 sheets in one bundle. sam-liók-si-tsoá, id. in-si-tsoá, id.

liáu-si, a transparent or translucent substance made from boiled rice. liáu-si-teng, lantern fitted with it instead of glass.

thê-si, to spin silk from the mouth, as the silk-worm (s. herb). ki<sup>n</sup>-si, to spin silk; to weave mischievous plots (v. ki<sup>n</sup>). thiu-si, to unwind silk from the cocoon. iang-si, to wind silk on the reel.

pi<sup>n</sup>-si-pêng, the 120th radical at the side (v. pêng). chhi<sup>n</sup>-tek-si, a very venomous serpent that has long feelers like threads. sûi-si-liú, the weeping-willow. kim-si-chiáu, a beautiful little yellow bird. kim-si-chiáu-á, id. kim-si-âng-chhek-chiáu-á, id.

Sì [R. su, to take charge of; to manage or rule; an official; a subdivision of a district]. kong-si, a company; a firm.

tê-si, a military officer about rank of major; between iú-kek and siú-pi. ân-chhat-si, the provincial judge. ân-si, id. ân-si-in, his seal; the impression of it is good for keeping away demons. pê-chêng-si, the provincial treasurer (v. pê). iú-si-koa<sup>n</sup>, mandarins with regular jurisdiction, e.g. over definite territory. chiú<sup>n</sup>-si-koa<sup>n</sup>, high mandarins. chiú<sup>n</sup>-si, id. ê-si, inferior mandarins. ê-si-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. hun-si, a small mandarin assisting the Hien (ko<sup>ai</sup>) mandarin, or managing a small subdivision of a Hien. sûn-si, id., e.g. hái-mng-si, the small official who manages the Hái-mng subdivision of Hái-têng district.

phah-koa<sup>n</sup>-si, to begin or carry on a lawsuit; to enter an accusation before a mandarin. si-toa<sup>n</sup>, = âng-khòe, the stamped register appended to a deed. si-pêng (r.), the rate of weights authorized by the provincial treasurer.

im-si, a spirit that rules in the invisible world. im-iông-si, name of an idol (v. iông). chê-si (X.), a priest. tsáp-ji si-koa<sup>n</sup>, the twelve assistants of Sêng-hông-iá. sok-pò-si, an attendant of Sêng-hông. sek-phê-si (T.), id. sek-phê-si-iá (T.), id.

Sì (R. id.), a Chinese hour = two hours; a season; a period; time (but not "leisure," which is "êng"); a short period of good or bad fortune, shorter than "ün." si-sin, a Chinese double hour, as in asking what hour it is (s. decline). si-tsün, a short time (v. tsün). si-hâu (r.), time. si-siáu, id. si-cheh (C.), id. si-jit, hours and days. si-jit tióh pó-sioh, take care of time. si-jit tui-lán (C.), time is pursuing us. si-khek, double hours and quarters of hours (v. khek). poá<sup>n</sup>-si, one hour's time. si-poá<sup>n</sup>, three hours. chit-tui-si, corresponding hour next day.

si-ün, the fortune (good or bad) of a man's circumstances (v. ün). si<sup>n</sup>-si jit-gêh, the eight characters of one's nativity. poá<sup>n</sup>-si, to calculate the time as to good or bad luck. khat-si, the day of birth disagreeing with the hour, making the horoscope bad. si hó, the time is fortunate and lucky. i-ê-si, his time of good or bad fortune. si i-ê-si, his time of good fortune.

sin-si, the period "sin," from 3-5 P.M. sin-si-thâu, the beginning of it, 3 o'clock. sin-si-chiá<sup>n</sup>, middle of it, 4 o'clock. sin-si-tiong, id. sin-si-bé, end of it, 5 o'clock; (and so with the other hours).

sù-si, the four seasons. si-lêng, the rites to be performed and the proper words to be used at the four seasons.

si-cheng, a clock (v. cheng). si-pió, a watch. si-chiam, hour-hand of watch or clock.

si-têng, a small sort of fish.

thi<sup>n</sup>-si, weather. hong-si, a sudden squall. pui<sup>n</sup>-si-hong (C.), id. (v. pui<sup>n</sup>). tsúi-si, the time of the tide (v. tsúi). jit--si, day-time. mi--si, night-time. âm--si, in the evening or night.

tí-si, when? what time? kin-á-jit si tí-si, which day of the month is this? pai-it tí-si, which day of the month is Monday? chit-gêh si tí-si, which month is this? sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-si, when? what hour? hán--tit tí-si, rarely met with. sam--put-tí-si, occasionally. sam--put-ji-si, id. sam--put-gê-si, id.; from time to time. put-si, at any time; over and over; frequently. put-khu-si, at any time. put-ki-si (C.), id. ũ-si, sometimes. ták-si, always; regularly; constantly. si-si, id. siông-si, id. si-siông, id. sê-si, id. éng-si, always or constantly (in past time).

chit-si, at this time. chit-si lâi-sê, this life and that of the next birth in transmigration. chhú-si, now. hit-si, then; at that time. hit-ta<sup>n</sup>-si, just at that (past) time (v. ta<sup>n</sup>). tng-si, id. (v. tng). tong-si, id. chek-si, immediately; at once. súi-si, immediately; according to circumstances (v. súi). liâm-si, immediately (v. liâm). tâng-si, at the same time. óng-si (r.), in past time. ân-si, to set a time. ân-si, according to the time; at right time. chiáu-si, id. tsat-si, to make ready to do a thing just at the right time. kip-si, coming just at the proper time when needed (v. kip). kàu-si, when the time comes or came; the time has come. si kàu, id. si-kàu si-tng, bear it when the time comes; "sufficient for the day," &c. kàu-hit-si, kiá<sup>n</sup> hit-ê, act according to the circumstances. kàu-hit-si, kiáh hit-ki, id.

kê-si, past the proper time (v. kê). sit-si, to be out of season, as thing; to be out of employment and in want. thê-si, out of season; become poor from state of wealth. kiá<sup>n</sup>-si, in good repute and good practice, as doctor.

si-kiá<sup>n</sup>, much in vogue; much sought after; fashionable. tê--lâng si-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to follow new fashions. kek si-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to put on a high price just to make a fictitious reputation. si-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, a man of great influence, who is much sought after, esp. an upstart; a notorious bad woman. si-kiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng kóng si-kiá<sup>n</sup>-ôe, said in joke of a man talking new slang phrases. si-kiá<sup>n</sup>-chêng, a prevalent epidemic. si-khi-chêng, id.

si-kê, current price. si-pêng, current rate for counting dollar's weight (v. pêng). si-phài, fashionable form of dress. si-khoán, customary fashion or shape of things. si-chê, fashionable form; fashionable. si-sit, id. si-sek (esp. T.), id. si-i, a doctor who is popular and successful though not learned. si-üi, current paintings of modern artists.

bô-liáu-si, for ever; no end to it. bô-thêng-si, without delay or intermission. bô-si thêng, id.

Sì [R. a spoon; a key], a spoon. toá-ki-si, a large spoon. si-á, a small spoon. tê-si, a tea-spoon. thng-si, a soup-spoon. thng-si-tsam (Cn.), a spoon-shaped hair-pin. ióh-sí, instrument like a spoon for mixing medicines. pŋg-sí, a rice-spoon pŋg-sí-kut, the shoulder-blade. pŋg-sí-chhèng, a snake like a cobra (v. chhèng).

司

時

匙

só-sí, key for Chinese padlock. put-li-sí, sort of key which must be in when the padlock shuts. tsoān-sí, a key working by turning in manner of foreign key.

he-sí, a large trowel for smoothing lime, having the handle on the back, as on a shield. hiu<sup>n</sup>-sí, sort of spoon for pressing down the ashes of incense in the incense-vessel. chien-sí, a flat piece of iron used for turning food on a frying-pan, &c. khiau-sí, long spoon-shaped appendages of the Ming cap called "se-bó."

sí [R. sù], to decline; to refuse; to take leave of; to dismiss. sí-li, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-sí, to take leave. pài-sí, take leave ceremonially. sí-sîn, respectfully ask the spirits to go home. sí-ni<sup>n</sup>, to take leave of the old year with offerings. sí kong-pò, to take leave of the ancestral tablets, as when going from home or when about to die. sí-hèng, to leave a card on being about to leave home (v. hèng, to go). sí-hèng (T. hái<sup>n</sup>), to decline and send back, as present (v. hèng, to give back). sí-koa<sup>n</sup>, to resign office. sí-niá<sup>n</sup>, to resign the position of a soldier. the-sí, to decline; to excuse one's self (often falsely) from doing something. sí--lâng, to decline a mau's services; to dismiss from service; to give up situation.

sí — sí-hí, a sort of fish good for eating and rather expensive.

sí (C.), = A. sù, a sort of temple.

sí [R. thí, ashamed]. poeh-sí, feeling ashamed, either from modesty or having done some shameful thing. poeh-sí ê tái-chi, a shameful affair. bô-poeh-sí, shameless; brazen-faced. m-bat poeh-sí, utterly shameless.

sí [R. to fear]. ùi-sí, faint-hearted; very much afraid to meddle with a matter.

sí [R. the beginning]. sí-tsó, very remote ancestor; original ancestor, as of a clan or family. sí-tsé-má, most remote ancestress. sí-chiong (R.), beginning and end (v. chiong). chín sí-ông, the founder of the Tsin dynasty (v. chín). goān-sí thien-tsun, the supreme deity of the Taoists.

sí [R. to relax; abrogated]. hòe-sí (r.), to cease, as a rite; to come to an end, as a course of action.

sí (C.), = A. sú (hot weather).

sí (C.), = A. sú (historian; censor?).

sí (R. sù), to die; death; used in many phrases to indicate intensity or doggedness. sí--khì, to faint away or fall into a comatose state, appearing to be dead though afterwards reviving, as sick man.

sí-sit, loss by death, as of relatives. sí-chéh, all dead; exterminated, as family (v. chéh). sí-bô-lâng, id. sí kàu-bô-lâng-khàu, may you die the last of all your people, with none to lament for you! sí-kui-phiáh, all in the region dead.

sí<sup>n</sup>-sí, alive and dead (v. sí<sup>n</sup>).

oáh-oáh khé--sí, to die of grief, lit. or fig. (v. oáh). khì--sí, to be dreadfully grieved and displeased (v. khì). thái--sí, to kill by cutting. thái-sí, to kill by cutting. tsân--sí, to kill by stabbing. hái--sí, to kill. phah--sí, id. i-sí, to kill instead of curing (v. i). óng-sí, to die by murder or suicide, or by injustice (v. óng). koā<sup>n</sup>--sí, to die of cold; very very cold. poáh--sí, to die of a fall. thiau-lóh-tsúi-- sí, to drown one's self. chhia-lóh-tsúi--sí, to drown by throwing into the water. chhò-sí, to die from neglect, carelessness, or mistake. tiò--sí, to shake or shiver exceedingly. kèng kàu-sí, extremely poor. ki<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup> sí, greedily fond of money. beh-sí, about to die. chiáh beh-sí, eating very greedily (said in scolding). chiáh beh-thòe-lâng-sí, id.

kiám sí-sí, very salt. kia<sup>n</sup>-sí-lâng, very dirty (+). lâ-sí-sâm, id. am-sí-tsam (Cn.), id. ke-sí-sng, exceedingly unneighbourly and unfriendly.

oán-sí, to tie firmly; to tie a run knot. pák-sí-soah, id. (v. soah). sí-kat, a hard firm knot; a run knot. kiet-sí-kè, to fix a settled rate of wages or price (v. kè). chip-sí-koat, very obstinate (v. koat). chip-sí-pán, id.

péh-sí-sat, sallow and unhealthy looking.

thák-sí-chhèh, to read books in the character without understanding the meaning. chiáh sí-pŋg, to eat and live, but be of no use in the world (v. pŋg). sí-chí<sup>n</sup>, money locked up, e.g. in property that makes little or no returns. chiáh sí-chí<sup>n</sup>, to live on one's capital or property so as to waste it away. sí teng-teng, unproductive, as trade. sí-mŋg ê seng-lí, a small trade that makes no progress, as in a village. sí-mŋg chē-tiā<sup>n</sup>, having moderate but regular gains, as a quiet small trade or yamun without much business.

sí-bái, just about going out, as a light; inactive and useless. sí-sek, dull-coloured. sí-sng, dispirited (v. sng). sí-sîn, very dull and lifeless in manner. sí-sim, discouraged; having lost all hope and spirit; having given up all thought or desire about a thing, either because it is hopeless or because it is felt to be wrong. khó-í sí-sim, m-sái-siū<sup>n</sup>, don't think any more of getting it. sí-àn, a legal case finally settled or ended. sí-tsòe, a capital crime. sí-chhùi, unable to answer, as from modesty or being unmistakably wrong. m-sí-chhùi, will not yield the argument, though manifestly beaten. chhùi éng-m-sí, id.

sí-lâng, a dead man (+). sí-lâng beh-miá<sup>n</sup>, said of the unlooked-for recovery of what we thought quite lost. ná<sup>n</sup> sí-lâng-sek, cadaverous appearance. sí-lâng-tit, very stiff and dogged, though the circumstances have quite changed (v. tit). sí kúi-lâng, how many of them have died? sí-pē, having lost one's father; said also in scolding a man who looks very dull and foolish (v. pē). sí-hoān (scolding), you condemned criminal! (v. hoān). sí-hoan (scolding), foreigner who deserves to be killed! sí-káu, dog that should be killed! a dead dog.

sí-tsúi, stagnant water. sí-sin-phe, reckless of one's life. phe-sí, id.; to risk one's life. sí-lō, conduct that brings ruin, death, or destruction on one's self. chhē sí-lō, to bring premature death on one's self by wickedness. thó-sí, id. hē-sí-thúi, to make a very violent attack (v. thúi). chhut-sí-lát-phah, to strike very violently, as in an assault.

chín-sí, really dead. poá<sup>n</sup>-sí, half dead. hó-sí, an easy death without pain. phái<sup>n</sup>-sí, a violent or painful death. chín-phái<sup>n</sup>-sí, very wicked, so as to deserve a painful death. joā-phái<sup>n</sup>-sí, id. tsá-sí, may you die soon! (v. tsá). tsó sí, iū sí, each alternative is death. toā-khùn síó-sí (deep sleep like death), said of a man sleeping too soundly. toā-bin síó-sí, id.

sì [R. sè, the world; a generation; one lifetime], (also C., = A. sè, world; generation, &c.) chhut-sì, to be born. chhut-sì toā--lâi, congenital. chhut-sì koe-á, a very young chick. kè-sì, to die. chit-

辭

魚特

恥耻

蕙始

弛

死

世

sin chit-sì, all life-long. chit-sì-lâng, id. poà<sup>n</sup>-sì-lâng, about forty years old.

chit-sì, this present life. âu-sì, a future life by transmigration. chit-sì tsòe, âu-sì siu, sins of this life punished in the next transmigration. kim-sì tsòe, âu-sì siu, id. kim-sì tsòe, kim-sì siu, sins of this life punished in this life. chêng-sì, our life in a former transmigration. thák chêng-sì-chheh, said of a pupil who knows his lessons at a glance (had read them in a former life!)

sì-chiū<sup>n</sup>, in the world. sì-chiū<sup>n</sup> ê-lâng, men now living.

Sì [R. to bestow, by change of tone from "sì," id.] pè-sì, to give a largess, &c. (v. pè). phé-sì, to make offerings to the ghosts in the 7th moon. siá-sì, to give alms; to give freely, as to a beggar. siá-iòh sì-tê, to give away medicine and tea. pè-bú bô-siá-sì, sàng-kiá<sup>n</sup> khì tsng-hì, the parents don't care for their boy, but hire him out to be an actor.

sì-tsú, a contributor to a temple, either for priests or nuns.

Sì (C.), = A. sù (perhaps, the people, &c.)

Sì (C.), = A. sù. hê-sín-sì, spots made by flies.

Sì (C.) iau-chia<sup>n</sup> sì-sòe, fond of gadding about, or talking, or acting improperly, as women.

Sì [R. sì, to instruct; a proclamation]. liên-hôe sì-chêng, utterly disgraced for ever in sight of all, as a miserable wretch, or as a man who has done shameful act.

Sì (same word?) hiên-sì, descendants of the rich or great bringing disgrace on their ancestors by crime or poverty (v. hiên).

Sì [R. to examine; to try; = col. chhi]. khó-sì, an examination for degrees. sió-sì, the examination for the Sew-tsai degree. hong-sì, examination for Kujin degree. hōe-sì, examination for Tsin-sze degree. hōe-sì-tiū<sup>n</sup>, id. tiên-sì, examination for Han-lin. sì-chhó, the essay that got the Sew-tsai degree, printed for private circulation among friends.

Sì (next word?). khiap-sì, ugly.

Sì [R. sè, power; form], (also C. = A. sè, power, influence, &c.) koài<sup>n</sup>-sì, accustomed (v. koài<sup>n</sup>). hó-chhiú-sì, all going on well, e.g. as in sickness or as teacher managing pupils well. chhìn ũ-khí-sì, to have the turn of the steelyard, in weighing. niū<sup>n</sup>--khí khí-sì, weigh it with a large steelyard giving full weight. tiòh-ũ khí-sì, there must be full weight.

ke-sì, state of a family, as to its prosperity and the behaviour of its members (v. ke).

hit-sì, that direction. àn-hiū<sup>n</sup>-sì (T. C.), thus; that way. àn-chiū<sup>n</sup>-sì (T. C.), thus; this way. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sì, weather side of vessel. téng-sì, upper or northern regions. téng-sì-hong, a wind astern. téng-sì-hú, the more distant departments of Fuh-kien. ê-sì, the lower or more southern regions; the lee side of a vessel. ê-sì-hú, the departments near Amoy, e.g. Chang-chew and Chin-chew. ê-sì-hong, a wind ahead. pak-sì, northern; the north; (so with the other quarters). tsoán-chiū-sì, on the Chin-chew side. lái-sì-sū, inner islands. goā-sì-sū, outer islands.

sì-bīn (C.), = A. sè-bīn, power, influence, &c. (s. four).

Sì (R. sù), four. sì-chiá<sup>n</sup>, all square and right; correct and proper; not awry. sì-thin, well proportioned (v. thin). sì-pang, regular; well-formed (v.

pang, square). sì-thiâu, the horoscope (v. thiâu). sì-kak, four-cornered; 40 cents (v. kak). sì-liám-hê, tied at right angles, as string (v. liám). tsòe-sì-chiu, cut into four pieces at right angles, as a cake. pèh-sì-liét, opened wide and square, as door. sì-bák bô-chhin, having no relations (v. bák). sì-kui, the four seasons. sì-kha--ê, four-footed (v. kha).

sì-ló, a small mandarin appointed by the district mandarin (Hien) to assist him. sì-ló-tia, id.

sì-kòe, in every direction (v. kòe). sì-kè (C.), id.; fields (v. kè). sì-úi, in every direction; on every side. sì-hng, do.; the four quarters. sì-bīn, the four sides; on all sides; in all directions. sì-soà<sup>n</sup>, scattered in all directions.

sa<sup>n</sup>-sì, three or four (v. sa<sup>n</sup>). tsài-sam tsài-sì, carefully over and over again. sì-poeh, sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-jī, "six and half-a-dozen;" will make no deduction; just the same price, though under a different name. sì-sì, tsáp-lák; jī-poeh, iáh-sì tsáp-lák, take it any way, it comes to the same.

Sì (R. id.), to be; is; are (as in affirming that it really is what is said or thought; or as the copula, but in general the copula is omitted; never in the sense of "to exist, to be present," which is "ū;," nor to hold an office, profession, or business, &c., which is "tsòe;" e.g. "sì i-seng," it is the doctor, not another man; "ū i-seng," there is a doctor; "tsòe i-seng," to be a doctor); right; to be correct; yes, in affirming reality or identity (but "yes" is translated by various words, according to the nature of the question, esp. ũ, tiòh, and beh).

nā<sup>n</sup>-sì, if it be; only. ká<sup>n</sup>-sì, I rather think it is (v. ká<sup>n</sup>). tsóng-sì, yet after all it is (v. tsóng). chiá<sup>n</sup>-sì, yes, truly it is so. chek-sì, that is —; then it is —. chiū-sì (at beginning of phrase), that is —; then it is —; then he is, &c.; (at end of phrase), such is the correct statement; and that will be all right. léng-chêng, chiū-sì, I accept your kind intention (but decline your gift), and it is all right; no, I thank you, sir!

sī-toā, a superior. sī-sòe, an inferior. sī sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, who is it? sī-tiáng (Cn.), id.; who? sī-tsòe —, he is (such and such an office, or profession, or business, &c.)

sī-hui, right and wrong, as of a dispute or in a legal case.

put-sì, in the wrong. jīn put-sì, to confess one's self in the wrong. chē put-sì, id. hē put-sì, to acknowledge a fault. hē m-sì, id. heh m-sì, indeed it is not. m-sì, it is not. m-sì-ōe, improper words. m-sì sia<sup>n</sup>-sàu, angry sound of voice, as at beginning of quarrel. m-sì-lâng, a bad man, inhuman or vicious. m-sì lêng-sek, id. m-sì-sit, dangerous; unsafe (v. sit). m-sì-sì, out of season, as fruit. m-sì-iòh, injurious medicine. m-sì sé-tsai, an improper place. tsò-hoà m-sì, luck bad. sī m-sì, is it or is it not? is it not so? sī á-m-sì, is it or is it not? kám-m-sì, how can it be otherwise (surely it is). kiám-m-sì, id.

sng-bōe-sì, innumerable. sng bōe-tit-sì, id. pun bōe-tit-sì, not enough to divide among all.

tsū-sì, always making one's self in the right (v. tsū). thau tiòh, bé sī, good luck from first to last. tsō-hoà sī, luck good. jī-ün sī, id. miá<sup>n</sup>-ün sī, id. tng-sì-sì, just in season, as fruit, &c. o-sì (Cn.), to praise in a flattering way.

hó-bī-sì, good-natured and easy; not finding fault (v. bī).

Sī — ün-á-sì, slowly. bān-chiah-sì, id. liáu-

施

示

試

勢

四

是

蒸
牲 生

在
示
視
睡
侍
寺
氏
鼓
序 鮮

á-sī, do.; cautiously. khah-khoa<sup>n</sup>-sī, more leisurely; not in a hurry. béh-sī, slowly.

béh-béh-sī, very numerous. bát-bát-sī, id. iáp-iáp-sī, in great quantities or multitudes, e.g. robbers or ants.

Sī — khah-sī--leh, walk quicker! get on! kiá<sup>n</sup> khah-sī--leh, id.

sī-soā, quick. khah-sī-soā, quicker!

Sī [R. tsāi, to be in; in; = col. tī], sometimes said instead of "tī," when it is a mere connective, e.g. khah-koái<sup>n</sup> sī-thi<sup>n</sup>, = khah-koái<sup>n</sup> tī-thi<sup>n</sup>, higher than heaven.

Sī [R. to instruct, = col. sī]. kò-sī, a proclamation. kà-sī, to teach. chí-sī, to instruct; to point out. sī-chiòng, to warn all by example of punishment (v. chiòng).

Sī [R. to look at; to treat or view as]. biáu-sī (r.), to despise; to treat with scorn.

sūn-sī, to make inspection all round; to examine and inspect for another. tsō-sī put-kiù, to sit and look without assisting.

kūn-sī, near-sighted. kūn-sī-bák, id. ké kūn-sī, to wear spectacles, pretending to be near-sighted.

Sī — bák-sā-sī, drowsy; to doze; half asleep (previous word?).

Sī [R. to wait upon, as attendant]. sūi-sī (R.), to follow, as attendant. hōng-sī (R.), to serve.

si-nŋg, vice-president of one of the supreme boards. sī-ōe, imperial guards of the highest rank (v. ōe).

sī-chiá-kong (C.), = A. sū-chiá-kong, a large harmless serpent, worshipped at Chang-chew.

Sī (R. id.), a Buddhist temple or monastery. sī-i<sup>n</sup>, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-sī, a mountain monastery. hê-siū<sup>n</sup>-sī, Bud. monastery. li-kê-sī, Bud. nunnery. sai-kê-sī, id.

lé-pài-sī, a mosque; the mosque at Chinehew is so called; sometimes said for a chapel, which is properly "lé-pài-tŋg."

Sī [R. a family; a surname; but when added to a personal name it indicates a female]. khóng--sī, the surname Khóng (and so with other surnames). bān--sī niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a female idol of surname Bān (q.v.).

Sī [R. salted vegetables and fruits, = col. sī<sup>n</sup>, si<sup>n</sup>]. tāu-sī, = tāu-sī<sup>n</sup>, pickled and salted beans. tāu-sī-pê, black beans boiled, dried, and kept till mouldy, to be made into soy. tāu-sī-phoh, beans from which soy has been made, broken down small. mī<sup>n</sup>-sī (Cn.), = A. tāu-chiū<sup>n</sup>, sort of salted sauce.

Sī — sù-sī, in an orderly state.

Sī (C.), = A. sū. thâu-sī, a clue (same as previous word?).

Sī (C.), = A. sū (regular order). thâu-sī, a preface.

Sī (C.), = A. sù (sympathizing); some say sī.

Sī (C.), = A. sū, an island.

Sī (C.), = A. sū, acting as interim mandarin.

Sī (C.), = A. sē. sien-sī (R.), to die.

Sī<sup>n</sup> [R. sien, bright; fresh; = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>]. kng-si<sup>n</sup>, smooth, as a surface; clean and smooth, as skin, or other surface.

Sī<sup>n</sup>, sort of cast-iron or pot-metal. tiá<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, pot-metal for making rice-boilers. lōe-thâu-si<sup>n</sup>, metal for making the coulters of ploughs, finer than that for rice-boilers. si<sup>n</sup>-tsu, bullets made of pot-metal.

khan-si<sup>n</sup>, to melt iron or pot-metal by bellows and furnace; also (Cn.), to smelt iron-ore. si<sup>n</sup>-kŋg (Cn.), iron-ore. khan si<sup>n</sup>-kŋg (Cn.), to smelt iron-ore. oe si<sup>n</sup>-kŋg (Cn.), id.

Sī<sup>n</sup> [R. tsu, abundant vegetation; a mat; this; here], (C. id.) chháu-si<sup>n</sup>, a coarse straw mat placed under a bed-mat, or used alone by the poor.

Sī<sup>n</sup> [su? this; tsu?], (C. se<sup>n</sup>). àn-ni<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, thus. àn-si<sup>n</sup> (T.), id.

Sī<sup>n</sup> — si<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup> soáih<sup>n</sup>-soáih<sup>n</sup>, sound, as of a bamboo chair drawn along the floor.

Sī<sup>n</sup> [R. seng, sacrificial or domestic animals, = col. cheng], (C. se<sup>n</sup>). thâu-si<sup>n</sup>, domestic animals. cheng-si<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. cheng). thek-si<sup>n</sup>, you brute!

Sī<sup>n</sup> [R. seng, to bring into being; to produce; to bring forth; to beget; to have, as disease; to grow, as mouldy or rust; alive; living; life; = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>]. si<sup>n</sup>-kòe, to have itch. si<sup>n</sup>-sién, to have various eruptions, as ring-worm, &c. si<sup>n</sup>-sien, to grow rusty. si<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to suppurate. si<sup>n</sup>-phú, to grow mouldy. si<sup>n</sup>-kê, id. si<sup>n</sup>-tsú, to grow damp; to yield water.

si<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to produce. hoat-si<sup>n</sup>, id.; to bear fruit. tng teh-toá-si<sup>n</sup>, just when the fruit is produced in greatest abundance. si<sup>n</sup>-thoà<sup>n</sup>, to breed abundantly. si<sup>n</sup>-thâng, to breed worms. si<sup>n</sup>-nŋg, to produce eggs, as birds. si<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to get a son, as parent (v. kiá<sup>n</sup>). bô-si<sup>n</sup>, barren, as female. bôe-si<sup>n</sup>, id. tsù-si<sup>n</sup>, to ordain the time of birth (v. tsù). siang-si<sup>n</sup>, twins. thau-si<sup>n</sup>, illegitimate. thi<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, made or produced by Heaven. thi<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup> tōe-iú<sup>n</sup>, Heaven produces, and earth nourishes.

si<sup>n</sup>-pê, our own real father. si<sup>n</sup>-lán ê-pê, id. si<sup>n</sup>-bú, one's real mother. si<sup>n</sup>-tŋg, the womb of mammalia (gen. animals, not human); the ovary of a bird. chhui-si<sup>n</sup>-iòh, medicine to assist in parturition. si<sup>n</sup>-gêh, natal month. si<sup>n</sup>-sī jit-gêh, the eight natal characters. si<sup>n</sup>-jit, birth-day. bô-si<sup>n</sup> bô-jit, no birth-day. chiáh si<sup>n</sup>-jit, to keep a birth-day. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-si<sup>n</sup>, birth-day of Yuh-hwang Shangti. tsáp-jī si<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, the twelve signs for the twelve years of the cycle (v. siu<sup>n</sup>).

sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a teacher; a doctor (v. sien). sin-se<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. hau-si<sup>n</sup>, a son (v. hau).

si<sup>n</sup>-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to be produced and grow up; naturally, not artificially; certainly. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe, naturally of such and such form, &c. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe m-koái<sup>n</sup> m-kê, of middle stature. hó-si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe, well-formed and good-looking, as person. hó-si<sup>n</sup>-tiu<sup>n</sup>, id. gām-si<sup>n</sup>, foolish. ngé-toan-si<sup>n</sup>, short and stout, but well-formed (v. ngó).

si<sup>n</sup>-hūn, unacquainted with person or place; shy (cf. chhi<sup>n</sup>).

si<sup>n</sup>-giên tsō-gú, to invent and circulate lies. si<sup>n</sup>-kha si<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to tell a story mainly false. si<sup>n</sup>-ki si<sup>n</sup>-hiòh (r.), id.

tsāi-si<sup>n</sup>, while alive; in this life. si<sup>n</sup>-chêng, id. pàng-si<sup>n</sup>, to spare the life of an animal, and let it go, for superstitious object. sī-si<sup>n</sup> (take leave of life), ceremony just before putting the body into the coffin; also said in scolding a man for eating too much. si<sup>n</sup>-lâng-bé, wife of a man still alive. moá<sup>n</sup> si<sup>n</sup>-lâng-bák, to put on a false appearance on a man's presence. si<sup>n</sup>-lê, way of escape from death.

si<sup>n</sup>-sí, alive or dead; life and death. tāng-si<sup>n</sup>-sí, sharing with each other for life or death. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap si<sup>n</sup>-sí, id. kì<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-sí, to engage in determined feud or conflict. kap-i si<sup>n</sup>-sí, id. kap-i kì<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-sí, id. chhut-si<sup>n</sup> jip-sí, to exert one's self very much

(lit. hazard life). tô-si<sup>n</sup> bô-tô-sí, he has escaped to live, not to die (said of not giving up a fugitive). bôe-tít-si<sup>n</sup>, bôe-tít-sí, unable either to live or die. si<sup>n</sup> bô-toà-lâi, sí bô-toà-khí, did not bring with one at birth, and cannot carry away at death.

tâu-si<sup>n</sup>, sprouted pease, edible. kià-si<sup>n</sup>, a sort of misletoe; a small marine animal. png-kià-si<sup>n</sup>, misletoe growing on the liquidambar-tree. song-kià-si<sup>n</sup>, a parasite on the mulberry, medicinal. kià<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, = kià-si<sup>n</sup>, an animal like a spider, that lives in some empty sea-shells. kià<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup> chiàm kə-lê-á-khak, said of an assistant servant supplanting the principal servant, or of a man getting unjust possession of another's property.

si<sup>n</sup> [R. sí, salted vegetables, &c., = col. si<sup>n</sup>]. si<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, minced very small. chhò-bah-si<sup>n</sup>, to mince meat. thô-á-si<sup>n</sup>, peaches beaten small with salt. chheng-kó-si<sup>n</sup>, preparation of olives (Chinese), with salt and sugar. ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, preparation of pickled olives.

iâm-si<sup>n</sup>, a white incrustation that forms on walls or clothes that have been damp (esp. by salt water), or on salted fish, &c. chhiu<sup>n</sup> iâm-si<sup>n</sup>, to form this white incrustation.

si<sup>n</sup> (R. sèng), (C. sè<sup>n</sup>), a surname; a clan. jī-si<sup>n</sup>, a surname. jī-si<sup>n</sup>-teng, a lamp with our surname on it. tsók-si<sup>n</sup>, a clan of same surname. miâ<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, name and surname (v. miâ<sup>n</sup>). chiáh i-ê-si<sup>n</sup>, to take his surname and worship his ancestors. si<sup>n</sup>-lí, of the surname Lí (often said in speaking of a man, as we would say Mr. Lí).

peh-si<sup>n</sup>, the people, as opposed to rulers. bān-peh-si<sup>n</sup>, all people.

si<sup>n</sup> [R. sèng, nature], (C. sè<sup>n</sup>). si<sup>n</sup>-miâ<sup>n</sup>, life (v. miâ<sup>n</sup>). sim-si<sup>n</sup>, disposition; nature. kin-sim-si<sup>n</sup>, impulsive. sim-si<sup>n</sup> tiòh-pàng-lòh, don't be sorrowful; don't be angry.

ki-si<sup>n</sup>, memory (as a mental power). hó-kì-si<sup>n</sup>, a good memory; having a good memory.

si<sup>n</sup> (R. sièn), a fan; the leaf of a door or window. toā-ki-si<sup>n</sup>, a large fan. iét-si<sup>n</sup>, to fan; to use a fan. kiáh-si<sup>n</sup>, to carry a fan in the hand. khê-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan, properly made from one leaf, but often applied to others. khôe-si<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. se-si<sup>n</sup>, fan made of thin cloth, or gauze, or paper. se-á-si<sup>n</sup>, id. kin-si<sup>n</sup>, fan made of paper and fine silk gauze pasted together. sə-péh-si<sup>n</sup>, a white fan, properly from Soo-chow. hóh-si<sup>n</sup>, large fan carried before very high mandarins. chiáng-si<sup>n</sup>, id. pa-chiau-si<sup>n</sup>, a very large ancient form of fan used by the genii.

hang-lê-si<sup>n</sup>, a fan for blowing the fire. chia-si<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chia-iáp, the leaves of a chain-wheel for raising water.

thang-á-si<sup>n</sup>, the leaf of a window that opens like a door. mûg-si<sup>n</sup>, the leaf of a door. mûg-pang hē-si<sup>n</sup>, all the doors of a house. chit-si<sup>n</sup>-mûg, one door. toa<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-mûg, a door that has only one leaf. siang-si<sup>n</sup>-mûg, folding-doors.

si<sup>n</sup>-bah, the paper of a fan. si<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, id. toā-hiòh-si<sup>n</sup>, a large fan made of a leaf. si<sup>n</sup>-bîn, the paper of a fan. si<sup>n</sup>-thâu, one end of a fan. si<sup>n</sup>-pí<sup>n</sup>, handle of fan. si<sup>n</sup>-gán, joint of fan. si<sup>n</sup>-kut, ribs of fan. si<sup>n</sup>-tê, case for fan such as one wears.

si<sup>n</sup> — kah-si<sup>n</sup>, manner of building a house by first making a framework of wooden pillars, &c., supporting the roof and filling up the interstices with boarding, or with reeds and plaster, or with lath and plaster. kah-

si<sup>n</sup>-khí, to build a house in this way. khia<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-khí, id.

si<sup>n</sup> [R. sí, salted vegetables, = col. si<sup>n</sup>], to salt or pickle; to smart or be injured, as the eye, or an open wound with medicine. put-chí-si<sup>n</sup>, making the flesh smart, as salt, or some drugs on an open wound. si<sup>n</sup> bák-chiu, to destroy the sight by a drug put in the eye. si<sup>n</sup>-kôe, to pickle fish or shell-fish. si<sup>n</sup>-chhài, to salt vegetables. si<sup>n</sup> kiám-chhài, id., esp. the mustard-plant. si<sup>n</sup>-kiám, to salt. si<sup>n</sup> kiám-bah, to salt pork. im-si<sup>n</sup>, dry salted pease, made by covering them up close. tâu-si<sup>n</sup>, = tâu-sí, a preparation of beans. mi<sup>n</sup>-iâm si<sup>n</sup>-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, accept the matter as fixed, there is no hope of changing it. chí<sup>n</sup> chhông-iâm si<sup>n</sup>--teh, said of a miser keeping his money useless.

siá [R. a small quantity]. sia-jí-á, a very little; a very small quantity.

siá (R. id.), to buy on credit; said also of the seller. sia-siáu, to buy on credit. sia-hè, id. sia-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. sia-chioh, to buy on credit and borrow money (v. chioh). sia-khiám, to be in debt for goods bought on credit (v. khiám). tham-sia kùí-bóe, to buy on credit is expensive. pàng-sia, to sell on credit. goá hē sia--lí, I give you the goods on credit. bô-sia, put-sêng-tiám; sia-liáu, tiám put-sêng, without giving credit one can't do business, but yet giving credit is ruinous.

siá (R. ú, siá), (C. Cn. T.), fields on a hill-side with little water. tê-siá, a tea plantation. kui-siá, a whole plantation on a hill-side.

siá (R. id.), depraved; immoral; lascivious; false, as doctrine, or as a sect; evil spirits; magical. siá-kàu, a false religion. siá-sút, magic. siá-hoat, id. iau-siá, evil spirits. iau-siá kúí-koài, id.; magical arts. kúí-siá, id. ôe phek-siá, able to drive away hurtful spiritual influences, as charms. khu-siá tiók-ék, to drive away the evil influences that cause epidemics. khu-siá tiók-kúí, to expel evil demons.

siá-chèng, depraved and correct (v. chèng). kan-siá, intriguing for dishonest purposes, as to injure people or to get money out of them. siá-sim, a depraved or licentious heart. siá-sū, immoral or licentious actions. siá-tái, id.

pak-lâi ũ siá-hé, said of a man who is much fevered.

siá (R. id., = col. chhiá, chhoáh), oblique; to take down, as mast. siá-ti, to lower a mast. siá-bún-pè (= chhiá), strong twilled cloth. khi-siá (C.), = A. khi-chhiá, awry.

moa<sup>n</sup>-siá-á, a small house or shed built against a wall or large house. siá-moa<sup>n</sup>, id.

siá [R. a serpent, = col. tsóá]. siá-mâu<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, sort of crooked spear. siá-chhông, a medicinal plant (v. chhông). téng-siá, a fabulous winged serpent.

siá (R. id.), a surname.

siá [R. to relinquish; to give away]. siá-liá, to bestow much. siá-si, to bestow, as charity (v. si). si-siá koan-bók, to give away coffins in charity. si-siá koa<sup>n</sup>-chhá, id. hí-siá, to give joyfully, as alms. hí-siá--lâng, id. hí-siá láng-ê-iòh, to give medicine gratuitously.

ôe-siá--tit, can be parted from (only said of persons or places). bôe-siá--tit, cannot bear to part. koa<sup>n</sup>-siá, to forsake, as man and woman (said by women). loân-loân put-siá, to love so much as not to part, as

鼓

姓

性

扇

鼓

些
餘

番
邪

斜

蛇

舍
捨

man and wife. siá-l siá-l, idle and listless, as man who has some money and does not care to work, or as man who neglects to do what he promised though he remembers.

siá-sin, to exert one's self greatly. siá-sin siá-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. siá si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to risk one's life. siá-bēng, sit hô-tūn (r.), throw away one's life for good eating.

siá (R. id.), to write (only the manual act of writing, not to compose). siá-ji, id. siá-liá, to write away; to write on. lô-chhó-siá, to scrawl. siá-phoe, to write a letter. thiap-siá, men engaged in yamuns (esp. military yamuns) to assist in writing documents.

siá [R. a cottage], polite phrase for "my" in speaking of junior relatives; affix to the names of men who have a senior relative a mandarin or kujin; in some places also applied to persons of the surname Ti<sup>n</sup>, who are nearly related to the line of Ti<sup>n</sup> Kok-sèng, i.e. Coxinga. siá-chhin (polite), my relatives. siá-tē, my younger brother. siá-tit, my nephew. a-ko-siá, son or grandson of mandarin. iá-siá, younger relative of mandarin or kujin. siá-jîn, id. tióng-su siá-jîn, sort of secretaries of high rank and great influence in the supreme boards at Peking. thiòng-siá, a young man who amuses himself instead of working or studying. hok-chiu hia, tsoân-chiu siá, ē-mûg kim-téng, at Fuchau great numbers wear official boots; at Chinchew multitudes are styled "siá," being relatives of mandarins or kujin; at Amoy gilt buttons on cap are very common.

siá (same as previous word?) sa<sup>n</sup>-phoáh-siá, name of a pair of idols (v. phoáh).

siá (R. id.), to have diarrhoea; to have a loose motion. siá-pak, id. lâu-siá, id. siet-siá, id. tsúi-siá, watery diarrhoea. hoat-siá, to have a very sudden loose motion. chí-siá, to stop diarrhoea, as medicine. siá-ióh, purgative medicine.

siá — ték-siá, a cooling medicine.

siá (R. id.), to forgive; to pardon. siá-bién, id. siá-tsóe, to pardon guilt. siá-chiàu, an imperial decree of pardon. tái-siá thien-hā, general pardon through the empire. thien-siá-jit, a few days in each year (changeable) said to be specially lucky. siá-bé, paper horses burned in worship. siá-koa<sup>n</sup>, paper image of mandarin, burned in rites for the dead. khiá-hoan pàng-siá, to set up streamers and burn paper images at rites for the dead.

siá (R. id., cf. col. siá), to lay down, as a load; to unlade; to unsaddle; to injure, as a man's good name. siá bé-oa<sup>n</sup>, to unsaddle a horse. siá-pē, to loose the ropes which fasten wood or bamboos to the sides of a junk. siá-tsāi, to unlade a vessel. siá-tā<sup>n</sup>, to lay down a load. siá-hē--teh, to lay down, as a load. siá-jim, to hand over one's office fully to the successor. siá-chhèng, to fire off a gun merely to empty it. siá poá<sup>n</sup>-kah, to take off one arm of coat or shirt, leaving one shoulder bare. siá-hè, to sell off goods very cheap. siá-sak, id., at a sacrifice, so as to get ready money quickly; to throw away things to lighten a vessel (v. sak).

siá-tióh, brought into disgrace, as by the bad conduct of some relative or connection. tng-bin siá--i, to make a man ashamed by speaking to his face of his disgraceful conduct, &c. siá láng--ê miá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, to injure a man's good fame. siá tsé-kong ê bin-phê, to disgrace ancestors by bad conduct. siá thé-biên, to cause our superior to lose good character or respect through our bad conduct. siá i--ê thé-biên, id.; also, to injure a man's good name by circulating reports against him that have some considerable foundation.

siá — kong-siá, a sedan-bearer. kong-siá-kha, do., said in counting how many are required.

siá (R. id.), to shoot, as an arrow. siá-chi<sup>n</sup>, to shoot an arrow.

siá-kan, a medicine made from the soa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>-lân-hoe. siá-kan-thâu, id.

siá [R. the musk-deer], siá-hiu<sup>n</sup>, musk.

siá — siá-ke-bí, sago.

siá [R. siá, to lay down a load; to unlade]. siá-sū, to withdraw from an affair.

siá (R. id.), to thank; to pay, as vow or fee; to fade or fall, as flower or scab; a surname (C. chia, the surname; siá in all other senses). siá-phí, scabs falling off. hoe siá, the flower fades.

siá-thiap, a letter of thanks. siá-lé, a small reward or fee given to a man who has managed some business for us, as arbiter or agent, &c. siá joá-tsóe, how much should be given as reward for such service?

siá-un, to give thanks for favour or grace. siá-hē, to give thanks for rain. siá-sin, to give thanks to the spirits, as for answer to a vow. siá-goân, to pay a formal vow. siá-thé, to give thanks to Thé-ti-kong after a burial. siá-toá<sup>n</sup>, to make thank-offerings at a temporary shrine (toá<sup>n</sup>) just before taking it down. siá-siú<sup>n</sup>, to give thanks for a present, as actors or mandarin's attendants. siá-teng, to give a play as thanks for friends lighting lamps near our house. siá-pē, to make a return-visit as thanks to a man who had called on parent's birth-day, or had come and worshipped our dead relative. siá-pài, to pay respects ceremonially to a man who had come to worship our deceased relative (v. pài).

pài-siá, to give ceremonial thanks, as to friend for presents, or on visit, or in worship. to-siá, many thanks! thank you! kám-siá, to thank; to feel grateful; thank you! kám-siá jip-kut, extremely grateful. seh-siá, to give thanks. tap-siá, to express thanks for a favour, as by returning or repaying it. chiok-siá (r.), to give thanks in a prayer, as to a god. khaú-siá, to give thanks by knocking head, as to a very high mandarin who is our immediate master; also, said politely, "I thank you very respectfully," to a man very much our superior, or for a very great service.

siá [R. a village; an association; the tutelary spirit of a place], a village. hiu<sup>n</sup>-siá, a village. siá-lí (r.), id. siá-thâu, id. si-siá-thâu, the four principal wards of Amoy, viz. Hok-san, Hū-chē, Hô-hông, and Hoái-tek. chit-siá, one village. kui-siá, the whole village. tsng-siá (F.), a village. hòe-siá, to destroy a village. hòe-siá, villages combining, as for attack or defence. siá-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a village elder or head man. siá-gók, a man who has by bad means got to be a leader in a village. moá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup> chhē siá-hia<sup>n</sup> (search for a fellow-villager in a whole city), no clue to find him or it.

kiet-siá, to form a literary society for writing essays. siá-iú, friends in one literary society. siá heng-tē, id.

siá-chek (R.), the place for imperial worship of the gods of land and grain (v. chek). siá-toá<sup>n</sup> (T.), a permanent altar without any image outside the walls of Tung-an city.

siá<sup>n</sup> (R. seng), sound; voice; noise; tone; denomination in arithmetic. hong-siá<sup>n</sup>, a rumour; a report.

寫

舍

舍

瀉

瀉

却

射
鹿
身 節
謝

社

聲

chit--ê sī hong-siá<sup>n</sup>--ê, this is a mere rumour. miá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, fame; reputation. ũ miá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, famous. pháí<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, bad reputation; of notorious character. thoân-miá<sup>n</sup> seh-siá<sup>n</sup>, to spread a bad report about a man (v. thoân). ũ-siá<sup>n</sup> bô-íá<sup>n</sup>, utterly false, as report (v. íá<sup>n</sup>). Kiá-siá<sup>n</sup>, to spread a report; to send word. pàng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to warn that if he does so-and-so, we will punish, injure, or accuse him.

siá<sup>n</sup>-im, a sound. tsúi-siá<sup>n</sup>, sound of water, as of a stream, or as vessel sailing rapidly. pháí<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>-seh, angry or proud tone of talk (v. seh). pháí<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id. m-sī siá<sup>n</sup>-sàu, displeased sound of voice, as in quarrelling (v. sàu). sau-siá<sup>n</sup>, hoarse. é-siá<sup>n</sup>, voice broken and indistinct (v. é). hó-siá<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, well sung, as tune (v. tiâu). sái âu-siá<sup>n</sup>, to sing loud and high, as from bottom of throat. sit-siá<sup>n</sup>, to lose one's voice. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>, no sound; have lost one's voice. toá-siá<sup>n</sup>, loud sound; loud voice. toá-siá<sup>n</sup> kiò, to call out loud. toá-bú-siá<sup>n</sup>, very loud voice or sound. chhut-siá<sup>n</sup>, to use the voice; to emit a sound. khan-siá<sup>n</sup>, to draw out one's voice loud and long, as in singing or reciting essays. khui-siá<sup>n</sup> thák, to read with a clear distinct voice. m-thang tsòe-siá<sup>n</sup>, don't say a syllable; keep quiet. thun-siá<sup>n</sup> lún-khì, to repress anger and keep in one's voice, as before a superior (v. thun). in-siá<sup>n</sup>, to answer with the voice; to echo a word distinctly. siá<sup>n</sup> àng-lâi, sound re-echoing, as in a cave.

piá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, the tones called "Ping" (v. piá<sup>n</sup>). pên-siá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. cheh-siá<sup>n</sup>, any tone except the Ping. chiū<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, the Shang tone; the second tone. khì-siá<sup>n</sup>, the Khu tones. jip-siá<sup>n</sup>, the Juh or abrupt tones.

hun-siá<sup>n</sup>, the denomination of "hun" or candareens. niú<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, denomination of taels. khe-siá<sup>n</sup>, denomination of dollars. chiet khe-siá<sup>n</sup>, reduce to dollars. chiet chi<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, reduce to copper cash, as from silver. tē-siá<sup>n</sup>, counting the price by the number of articles (of fixed size), not by weight or size, e.g. in buying cakes. shg kiá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, to count by the number of units of things (v. kiá<sup>n</sup>). siá<sup>n</sup> tâng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to write the weight of a dollar on a small bit of paper pasted on it. phin hit--ê tâng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to agree beforehand that the dollars are to be counted at such and such a weight. joá-tsòe tng-siá<sup>n</sup>, what length is it, counted in rods (chang) of ten feet each? sím-mih<sup>n</sup> pân-siá<sup>n</sup>, what depth of water in fathoms?

城

siá<sup>n</sup> (R. sêng), a city; a city wall; a walled town; a citadel; a fort; the pan of a gun; the circular wards of a lock on which the slits in a key work. toa<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, having only one such ward, as lock for key with only one slit. siang-siá<sup>n</sup>, having two such wards.

siá<sup>n</sup>-siú, the garrison of a Foo city; its commander. siá<sup>n</sup>-tí, wall and moat of city. sit siá<sup>n</sup>-tí, to lose a city, as mandarin who fails to hold a city in war. siá<sup>n</sup>-ip (r.), a Hien district. siá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, city walls. siá<sup>n</sup>-tó-chí, battlements. siá<sup>n</sup>-khang, a hole in a city wall, esp. for cannon. siá<sup>n</sup>-téng, on the top of the wall. siá<sup>n</sup>-bé-téng, id. siá<sup>n</sup>-kha, at the foot of the wall; near the wall. siá<sup>n</sup>-mng, a city gate. siá<sup>n</sup>-lâu, tower at city gate. siá<sup>n</sup>-àng, space inclosed by the two walls at a city gate. àng-siá<sup>n</sup>, the outer wall at city gate. siá<sup>n</sup>-lâi, within the city walls; the city proper; within the city. siá<sup>n</sup>-goá, the suburbs; outside the walls. siá<sup>n</sup>-chhī, city and suburbs. siá<sup>n</sup>-chhī ê-lâng, a man belonging to the city (including suburbs). siá<sup>n</sup>-tō, a passage-boat to or from a city.

koá<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, a Hien city; chief city of a district. hú-siá<sup>n</sup>, a Foo city; chief city of a department. séng-

siá<sup>n</sup>, provincial capital. sé<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. kia<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, the metropolis. kim-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. bân-lí-tng-siá<sup>n</sup>, the Great Wall. bók-siá<sup>n</sup>, a wooden fort for a review. thé-siá<sup>n</sup>, a fort or line of circumvallation, built of clay or unburnt brick.

phòá-siá<sup>n</sup>, to breach a fortified wall; to take a city. kong-siá<sup>n</sup>, to attack a city. kong tâng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to gamble with the lién-pó.

phàu-siá<sup>n</sup>, a set of crackers on the top of a pole. kat phàu-siá<sup>n</sup>, to fasten them up. khó phàu-siá<sup>n</sup>, to fire other crackers at them, trying to hit them and set them off.

tē-gék-siá<sup>n</sup>, hell. óng-sí-siá<sup>n</sup>, the part of hell for those who have died violent deaths. phah-siá<sup>n</sup>, to perform rites to get souls out of hell; to take a city. phah chhèng-siá<sup>n</sup> (T.), to perform rites to deliver souls from the part of hell for those who die of gunshot wounds. kē chhèng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to make a paper representation of that place for these rites.

siá<sup>n</sup>, to excite desire, as by showing something or by example; to try to catch by a bait; to allure or try to allure, as to evil. sa<sup>n</sup>-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. siá<sup>n</sup>-sin (to allure flies), to entice young men, as a gaudily ornamented bad woman. chhàu-chho siá<sup>n</sup>-sin, do. (lit. strong-smelling fish alluring flies).

siá<sup>n</sup> [R. sêng, to accomplish; to complete; = col. chiá<sup>n</sup>, chhiá<sup>n</sup>]. kúi-siá<sup>n</sup>-gún, of what quality is the silver? chiok-siá<sup>n</sup>-gún, pure silver. chiok-siá<sup>n</sup>-kim, pure gold. káu-siá<sup>n</sup>-kim, gold with one-tenth of alloy. poeh-siá<sup>n</sup>-kim, gold with one-fifth of alloy.

siá<sup>n</sup> [R. sím, exceedingly; which? = col. sím], (C. sá<sup>n</sup>, siá<sup>n</sup>). siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, why? why ever --? (with more or less idea of finding fault). ũ siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, what is the matter? tsòe-siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, what are you (or is he) doing? í teh-siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, what is he at? bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, nothing special; nothing the matter; with no harm. bô-siá<sup>n</sup> bô-sū, id. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-tái, nothing the matter. siá<sup>n</sup>-hè (C. hòe), what is the matter? ũ siá<sup>n</sup>-pē, what can now be done? lí beh-siá<sup>n</sup>-tsai, how can you know? (v. beh, what?). siá<sup>n</sup>-tsai (Cn.), no one can tell (who can know?). bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-tsai, I don't know much about it. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-hó, not very good. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-hong, not much wind; scarcely any wind. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, scarcely any one (present).

bé-siá<sup>n</sup>-lâng, Mr. So-and-so, for example; any one; such and such a man. bé-siá<sup>n</sup>-pút, such and such an idol, for example.

siá<sup>n</sup>-mih<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sím-mih<sup>n</sup>, what? what thing? siá<sup>n</sup>-mng<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), what thing?

siá<sup>n</sup> [R. sêng, holy; a sage], powerful and efficacious, as a god, a temple, a charm, a medicine, or an influential man. lêng-siá<sup>n</sup>, efficacious and powerful, as a god. ũ-lêng-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>, without efficacious power. hòe-siá<sup>n</sup>, id. siá<sup>n</sup>-jiah, manifestation of power to assist, as of a god. siá<sup>n</sup>-pút, a powerful idol. khah-siá<sup>n</sup> sam-kài, almost certainly efficacious (v. kài). sìn-siá<sup>n</sup>, to believe in the power of some god. chhē-siá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to call the spirits of the dead, as sorceress or female medium. siá<sup>n</sup>-má (Cn.), a sorceress. siá<sup>n</sup>-chiá (Cn.), id.

chhùi siá<sup>n</sup>, his words come true, as guess of future. siá<sup>n</sup>-chhùi, id.

siá<sup>n</sup>, a large sort of tray (carried like a basket on a pole between two men), for carrying marriage presents and offerings. siá<sup>n</sup>-á, id. chit-kng-siá<sup>n</sup>, one such ceremonial tray.

siá<sup>n</sup>-koá, the hatches of a vessel; the cover of the hold.

成

甚

聖

檝

siã<sup>n</sup>-nã<sup>n</sup>, a basket made with several horizontal divisions or compartments. siã<sup>n</sup>-nã<sup>n</sup>-tsân, one of these separate compartments.

siã<sup>n</sup>, a large brick-built receptacle for salt at a public salt-store. chhek-siã<sup>n</sup>, a large boarded receptacle for unthrashed grain in a granary.

siã<sup>n</sup> [R. sêng, abundant], a surname.

siah (R. siok), to pare; to pare away. siu-siah, to pare down smooth; to make slight erasures, as in book or document. siah-khi-chiam, pare the point sharp. siah-pit, to sharpen a lead pencil or quill pen. siah-lân, to scrape off fish scales. siah-kut lôh-hék, very very lean.

siah — phiah-siah, lonely; unfrequented, as place (cf. siám).

siah (R. sek), (Cn. sek), tin; pewter. siah-pòh, tin-foil. siah-khì, pewter articles. phah-siah, to work in pewter. kheng-siah, to work tin, as at mines. khêng-siah, to collect and melt small fragments of tin or pewter. phoà-tâng kû-siah, old or broken brass or pewter articles. phái<sup>n</sup>-tâng kû-siah, id.

siah [R. sèk, a stone, = col. chiòh], marble; soap-stone. siah-chiòh, id. siah-hún, powdered marble or soap-stone, put on the skin for coolness. siah-in, a seal made of soap-stone. siah-hi<sup>n</sup>, an ink-stone of marble or soap-stone.

siáh-tsoá, marbled paper.

siáh-liú, the pomegranate (v. liú).

siáh (C. chiáh), a sort of small ladle. thih-siáh, an iron ladle. bê-siáh, a ladle for taking out soft rice. thng-siáh, spoon for syrup. iú-siáh, bamboo instrument for measuring or lading out oil. tsúi-siáh, a hollow half-cylinder (gen. a bamboo joint) for baling out water.

siáh [R. sèk, the evening]. chhit-siáh, the evening of 7. 7.

siáh [R. sèk, a mat; a feast; a meal; = col. chhiòh]. iên-siáh, a feast; a banquet. chiú-siáh (r.), id., with liquor. chit-siáh, one feast; one company of men eating at once. tsòe-nng-siáh, eating in two successive companies.

siáh — bauh-siáh, = bauh-soah, to deride a man as utterly unable to effect his purpose.

siáh — lâ-sâm-siáh, dirty; filthy.

siáh — ng-siáh (T. ng-sit-á), a sort of fish.

siak (cf. siàng), (Cn. sak), to dash down. siak--lòh-lái, to dash on the ground. siak--tó, to fall down. siak-tiú, to thrash rice in a tub. siak-béh, to thrash wheat or barley in a tub. siak-tháng, the tub for thrashing grain. siak-tháng-thui, an instrument like a small ladder put in the tub for the heads of grain to be struck upon.

siak-sau, to bully. siak-í siak-toh, to strike chairs and table, in anger or pet. pia<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup> siak-ti, to throw about bowls and chopsticks, in a rage. siak-thâu sí-hē--i, to kill one's self by striking the head on the ground in a rage.

siak-sin, to exert one's self very much; much exhausted or uncomfortable. ká<sup>n</sup> phah-siak, very venturesome. chin phah-siak, having a vast deal of toil and trouble in managing an affair; very much pained and tossing about restlessly, as sick man.

siak — kiak-siak, active and lively in manner.

siak [R. siok? lek? brilliant; shining, = col. siák]. kim siak-siak, glittering; shining. pèh siak-siak, brilliantly white (cf. siám).

siak — àm siak-siak, very dark, as night.

siak (Cn.), toã-m-siak-kòe, very numerous, = toã-bú si-kòe.

siak (Cn.) siak-kháu, = A. sek-kháu, to wash the mouth.

siam, to peep. thau-siam, id. toà-teh-siam, peeping at something. ná<sup>n</sup>-siam ná<sup>n</sup>-siam, looking about stealthily.

iap-siam--khì, to take a thing stealthily and conceal it secretly.

siám (R. id.) siám-sú, a sort of toad supposed to be very poisonous.

siám, to snatch suddenly, as a man's cap, or hand, or queue. tùi-chhiú kã--i siám--teh, seize him by his hand, e.g. to keep him from striking. hê-siū<sup>n</sup> bô-tng-thâu-mng hê-lâng-siám (a Bud. priest has no long hair to catch), said of a very niggardly man.

siám [R. sím, to search; usual; a fathom], a fathom; to join the hands before one; to embrace in the arms. siám tiâu-tiâu, to seize firmly in the arms. kuns-tú-siám, embracing another in joke, as in wrestling, or for amusement.

siám (R. id.) siám-sai, Shen-si province. siám-kam, Shen-si and Kan-suh.

siám [R. to avoid; to flash; = col. sih, siah; cf. siak], to avoid; to get out of the way; to sprain. siám--tiòh, to sprain or hurt one's self by a sudden movement.

siám-pi, to avoid; to get out of the way. siám-pi<sup>n</sup>, id., as by going to the side. siám-khui, to get out of the road, going to one side. siám-oá, id., as by going close to a wall, or to the shore, or to the side of the road. siám kui-pêng, all go to one side of the road to let another pass easily. khah-siám, get further out of the way, e.g. to let one pass more easily. siám-bih, to keep out of the way by hiding. tô-siám, to run away. tsáu-siám, do; to avoid; to shirk work. thau-siám, to run away stealthily. siám--kè-khì, to creep stealthily past.

siám-kak, quiet and lonely, as a place.

kim siám-siám, glittering; shining, as something polished. lái siám-siám, very sharp.

siám — bát siám-siám, very dense, as a crowd, or as thick clusters, or as a densely peopled district (cf. siap).

siám — toã-siám, the blade of the helm (v. toã, "helm").

siám (R. sim), (cf. siáp), to ooze; to leak in, as water. siám-lâu, id. siám-chhut, to ooze out. siám-jio, to pass urine in small quantities and with difficulty.

siám [R. the growing brightness of the sun; Siam]. siám-lô, Siam; Siam and Laos.

siám [R. to supply; sufficient]. ióng-siám, money set apart for himself, as by a father (when giving their portions to his sons), for his own use in old age, or for his burial. ióng-siám-gún, id.

sián, sián, sián, sián, sián; better sien, siên, sién, sièn, siên (q.v.)

siang (R. song, = col. sang, seng), a pair; both the two. chit-siang, a pair. kui-siang, making a pair; a pair. chiá<sup>n</sup>-siang, id. siang-siang tui-tui, in pairs. siang-si<sup>n</sup>, twins. siang-si<sup>n</sup>-mng, folding doors. siang-chhe-lê, branching roads (v.

槓
盛
削

錫

石

夕 席

翼

鏢 鏢 閃

瞻
蟾

尋
陝
閃

滲
暹
贍

雙
叉

chhe). siang-hù, two sets. siang-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a two-oared boat. siang-chhiú, both hands. chit-siang-chhiú, a pair of hands. siang-kha, both legs or feet. siang-lúí bák-chiu, both eyes. siang-lâng, both the men. siang-lâng tng, bride and bridegroom going to spend some days at house of bride's parents a few days after marriage.

siang-bin, both sides; both surfaces. siang-bin-to kúi, a wretch who excites and inflames a quarrel, by slandering each side to the other. siang-pêng, both sides. siang-pêng-oá, trying to keep neutral, and on good terms with both sides. kê-siang-thâu, said of a son who keeps up the worship of two families. khiá siang-thâu-bé, to pretend to be on good terms with each side, while assisting each with what he learns from the other. koá siang-thâu-bé, id. chit-chhùi siang-thâu-chhut, said of a man talking a great deal and very fast, quite enough for two mouths.

siang-liâu, strong double-distilled spirits (v. liâu). siang-to-hôe (C.), = sio-to-hôe, the Triad, or Small Knife Society.

siang (C.), A. siang, mutual.

siang (C.), = A. siang, to wound; to hurt; sometimes said of a place pained, though not by a wound.

siang (C.), = A. siang, a merchant.

siang (cf. sàng, siàng), alike; exactly similar; of the same sort. bô-siàng, unlike; quite different. bô-siàng-lê, not going by the same road; he is quite a bad character, while I am good. bô-siàng-khoán, of very different character; a different sort. siàng-khoán, of the same sort or character. siàng-khoán-sit, id. siàng-chit-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. siàng-sim, like-minded; congenial. siàng-kau-kài, having a common boundary; contiguous.

siàng (C.), = A. siàng, usual; generally. siàng-kòe, usually. siàng-ni<sup>n</sup>, each year (in the past); year by year.

siàng (C.), = A. siàng, minutely.

siàng (C.), = A. siàng (a good omen).

siàng (Cn.), = A. sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, who? siàng-sôh, who says so? siàng-bôh, who would be willing?

siàng (C.), = A. siàng (to look at).

siàng (C.), = A. siàng (to think).

siàng (cf. siak), (Cn. sàng). siàng--lôh-khi, to dash violently on the ground. siàng-poe-á, to throw three cash on the ground after striking one's knee; a sort of gambling. siàng-heng (C.), to beat the breast with a stone, as beggars do.

siàng (C.), = A. siàng, appearance of face or person; (high mandarins; to look at). phé-siàng, = A. phi-siū<sup>n</sup>, to talk of others' faults; to talk scandal.

siàng (cf. siàng), (Cn. sàng), quite alike; of same form, sort, or character. bô-siàng, quite different; siàng-sim, like-minded; congenial. siàng-khoán, of the same sort or kind. siàng-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. siàng-lúí, of the same sort, as men or things. siàng-hiū<sup>n</sup>-siá, belonging to the same village. siàng-hiū<sup>n</sup>-lí, id. siàng-khiá-lái, living in different parts of the same large house.

siàng [R. siàng, above; upon; = col. chiū<sup>n</sup>, chhiū<sup>n</sup>], one of the musical notes. má-siàng, immediately (v. má).

Also (C.), siàng, = A. siàng, first-class, &c.

siàng (C.), = A. siàng (still, yet, &c.)

siap (R. siap? sip?), rough, as surface; very stiff, as door or drawer; sleepy, as eyes; bad tasted; somewhat sourish or bitter. siap-siap, id. chhê-siap, rough and coarse, as surface.

bák siap, eyes sleepy. bák-chiu siap, id. kha siap, disinclined to walk.

sò-siap, shrivelled, as skin of old man, or of fruit too long kept; very scant of money.

pak-siap, feeling of emptiness and slight pain in stomach; very poor and wretched; uncomfortable troubled state of mind; too dry, as food unpleasant to eat, or causing uncomfortable feeling after eating. pak-siap--lâng, to dun for help, as poor relatives.

kiám-siap, salt and sour; bad-tasted (s. niggardly). chhùi siap, bad appetite, as from slight illness, or bad taste in mouth.

siap (R. id.) kiám-siap, niggardly (s. bad-tasted). kiám koá-siap, niggardly.

siap [R. sek, to fill up a cavity; to bribe; = col. soeh, that, siám], to fill up a small crevice. siap-bát, filled up, as a crevice; well drawn up, as document without flaws; closed, so as to be quite safe, or so that no secret gets out; quiet and out of the way, as place. siap-tiáp, closely, tightly, or neatly tied or packed up; neatly arranged, so as to take up little room; having much in little bulk.

soeh-siap, to give some money, or make some promise, so as to get a man's secret influence or false witness, or to keep him from giving some information to the other side that would bear strongly against us. siap âu-chhiú, id., esp. to arbiter, that he may take our side, or to underlings of yamun. siap lêng--ê sin-sè, to take advantage of another's influence or success, so as to get some affair of ours set right, though without any direct help from him.

siap — iap-siap, retired, as a house; keeping to the side, or out of sight (v. iap).

siap — siap-bûn, = sap-bûn, soap (mere imitation of foreign sound).

siap — ka-tia<sup>n</sup>-siap, decoction of bark of a shrub (mangrove?) used as a dye.

siap [R. drizzling rain; a moment; = col. sap; cf. tiap]. thêng-thêng siap-á-kú, always procrastinating and promising to do it very shortly.

siap (cf. siàm), to ooze or leak in small quantities. siap--chhut-lái, to ooze or leak out.

siap [R. to wade across; relating to], to bribe. poát-siáp san-chhoan (R.), to travel far over mountains and rivers.

kan-siáp, related to; concerned with; implicated (v. kan). koan-siáp, id. (v. koan). ũ kau-siáp, to have very intimate relations in business or friendship, so as to have more or less liability for his failure, or to be involved in grave suspicion for his wickedness.

siáp-su, to act with partiality or unjust selfishness. bôe-siáp--tit, cannot be managed by bribery. siáp-sè, to flatter; to fawn; to be a parasite; to get a superior (or endeavour it) to use his influence for private ends. chhu-sí siáp-sè, to follow the fashion and fawn on the powerful.

siáp (same as previous word?), to swindle, wheedle, or cozen, as a sharper, &c. siáp lêng-ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to swindle a man out of money. siáp lêng--ê chi<sup>n</sup>-gûn, id.

siáp, to bewitch. khit-kúi siáp--khi, to be bewitched by demons. sam-siau siáp--khi, made mad by the demon called sam-siau, as man or animal.

相同

塞

霎

涉

相共

上

澀澀

揶揄

siáu-soat, novels. siáu-sín, idle, and fond of gambling or such low pleasures.

siáu-jín, a man of low mean ideas; a worthless fellow (s. ashamed). siáu-jín-thâu, a bad man. siáu-khi-kúi, a low miserly wretch. siáu-khi, miserly; parsimonious; reckoning to the last cash, or strictly requiring the most minute particulars. siáu-chhû, id. siáu-kiók, mean; niggardly, as man; made too small, as a thing. siáu-sé-kièn, not having seen much of the world; of contracted ideas (v. kièn).

siáu-pièn, urine; to make water. siáu-kái, to make water. siáu-súi, do., said only of children. siáu-sán, to have an abortion.

tái-siáu (R.), large and small. tái-siáu-sèng-hôe, small clans combining against the larger. tái-tông siáu-i<sup>n</sup>, nearly the same, but somewhat different. tái-keng siáu-koài, in much consternation (v. keng). liông-tái-siáu, to use more or less, as one pleases or is able. ôe-liông-tái-siáu--tit, may be used more or less at pleasure, as superfluities; e.g. as condiments and nice eating, as opposed to rice and fire-wood for cooking, which must be had. mê<sup>n</sup> tái-siáu, elastic, as woollen socks. lêng-tái lêng-siáu, elastic, as socks. sam-jit tái, ngé-jit siáu, having greater and smaller feasts each third and fifth day.

siáu [R. few; small quantity; = col. chió]. to-siáu (R.), many or few; much or little. tē-siáu (On.), id. (R.) siáu-sé-kièn, and also koan-hē put-siáu (s. small), might perhaps be placed under this word.

siáu, mad; crazy; idiotic. siáu-siáu, id.; jesting foolishly. siáu-gông, fond of gambling, low joking, or foolish pleasures. chiáh-chiú siáu, intoxicated and behaving absurdly. siáu-káu, a mad dog. teh-siáu, acting madly. teh-siáu-kông, quite mad. lí teh-siáu, surely you are mad (said to a man behaving very absurdly). tì<sup>n</sup>-siáu, feigning madness. tì<sup>n</sup>-tien tì<sup>n</sup>-siáu, id.

siáu [R. id.? cf. col. sió], excited with sexual feeling. hiáu-siáu, id., said only of a bad woman.

siáu [R. id., by change of tone from siáu, "few"], siáu-liên, young (v. liên). siáu-iá, a mandarin's son (by some placed under "filial").

siáu [R. like; like one's father; filial]. put-siáu, unfilial; disobedient to parents; ill-behaved. put-siáu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, disobedient son. hā-liú put-siáu, ill-behaved fellows; vagabonds. m̄-bat-siáu, unfilial; bad son. siáu-iá, mandarin's son (by some placed under "young").

siáu [R. to laugh, = col. chhió]. kièn-siáu, to be ashamed; shame! lí tióh-kièn-siáu, you should feel ashamed of yourself! shame on you! hē--i kièn-siáu, to make him feel ashamed.

hām-siáu-hoe, the Magnolia fuscata.

siáu [R. siú, elegant; accomplished]. tsùn-siáu (r.), good-looking, as person.

siáu [R. soán, to calculate, = col. shg], an account; to count or calculate; also (P.), a deed of sale, mortgage, or lease.

giáh-siáu, number, as of articles. siáu-giáh, id. sí-siáu, time. pòe-siáu (C.), position in genealogical rank. hó-kióh-siáu, skilful, as workman or actor (v. kióh). hó-ē-siáu (C. hó-ē-sui<sup>n</sup>), plan good; it can be managed (v. ē). kàu-liáu kàu-siáu, just at proper time or in right quantity (v. liáu).

siáu-phē, an account-book. siáu-bák, an account. siáu-hāng, account of amount due. siáu-tiáu, accounts of sums due. chiah-ē siáu-tiáu, these unsettled accounts. siáu-kúi, a book-keeper. siáu-kúi-toh, a shop-counter. siáu-kūi-pāng, counting-room. siáu-pāng, id. koán-siáu, a book-keeper; a sort of steward who keeps the accounts.

siáu-liām, to think of with warm affection, as dear friend or relative; to meditate gratefully upon, as some kindness.

siáu-iáh, to count the pages of a book. siáu-chi<sup>n</sup>, to count cash. bō-siáu-pái, not counting how often; a great many times. siáu koe-lē-chiòh (counting the stones on the streets), walking about at leisure. chhī pē-bú, siáu-tng, in feeding his parents he counts (and grudges) every meal.

shng-siáu, to calculate. shng-goá-ē-siáu, count it to my account, I will bear the responsibility. khah-séng-siáu, effecting a saving in money; cheaper (v. séng).

khiam-siáu, to owe an account. tó-siáu, not to pay a debt (v. tó). sia-siáu, to buy on credit. it-hoat ū-siáu, to buy more and more on credit without paying. it-hoat kàu-siáu, id. pāng-siáu, to sell on credit. chhut-siáu, to sell or lend on credit, esp. goods. chhut-jip chit-poá<sup>n</sup>-tiáu-siáu, to do a very small business. jip-siáu, to have part-payment. seng jip-siáu, id. ū lāi-óng-siáu, to have an account current.

hoá<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to have charge of the accounts. kì-siáu, to make an entry in an account. chiū<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to enter an item, or be entered in account (v. chiū<sup>n</sup>). tak-siáu, to note down an account (v. tak). khai-siáu, to note down disbursements. khui-phòng-siáu, to put down more than was paid out. phòng-siáu, overcharge (intentional). tiòng-siáu, overcharge by mistake. sít-siáu, to fail to put down in account, by mistake, either at first or in copying. thau-chiáh-siáu, intentionally falsify account so as to embezzle employer's money. tui-siáu, to compare accounts. hē-siáu, to compare accounts so as to settle them. hōe-siáu, id. hok-siáu, to go over an account a second time to see if there be any error. liáh-siáu, to examine an account roughly to see if it be correct. lék-siáu, to copy out the items for each customer. poá<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to transfer accounts from one book to another. chhau-siáu, to copy an account. chhau-kè-siáu, to copy an account into a new book.

kè-siáu, to pay by a bill; to make over a debt to a third party to collect. kòe-siáu (C.), id. kè i-ē-siáu, to transfer to his account, as by a bill, &c. tui-toa<sup>n</sup> kè-siáu, make over a debt by a bill. chheng-kè-siáu, to pay a bill drawn on us; to pay a debt to our creditor's creditor by his direction. chheng-siáu, to pay off a debt by full payment. chheng-kí-siáu, to pay up the last instalment (at due time) so as to make the payment complete. i beh-kā--lí chheng-siáu, he will settle accounts with you (figs) oân-siáu, to settle an account by payment (sometimes a little being taken off). kau-siáu (r.), to make payment of account, entire or partial. chhat-siáu, to mark an account as settled. chiet-siáu, to take a composition for a debt. kā--i tsún-siáu, to take an article as payment of a debt (v. tsún). tú-siáu, to be given in part-payment, as money; or in payment in place of money, as goods, &c. siu-siáu, to receive payment for accounts; to collect debts. thó-siáu, to collect debts. pek-siáu, to dun for payment. thoa<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to divide expenses among partners.

kiet-siáu, to sum and balance the whole account, as at end of month (v. kiet). tsùn-siáu, to compare the accounts and the cash in hand, to see what balance there

少

少肖

笑

秀算

is, as at end of day, or of several days; to sum up at foot of page.

siâu — êng to-pán siâu, to strike with the flat of the sword.

siâu [R. to connect; to continue]. siâu-heng, Shau-hing-foo, in Chekiang province, from which a great proportion of mandarin's private secretaries come. siâu-hin (C.), id.

siâu (R. id., = col. siō), a surname. siâu-bú, Shau-woo-foo, on the border of Kiang-si, on the road from Fuh-chau.

siáuh (= siáuh<sup>n</sup>), noise of a thing breaking.

siáuh<sup>n</sup> (= siáuh), noise of a thing breaking.

sien (C. T. san), (dist. sién), rust; hardened dirt on skin. σ-sien, grayish black, as dirty face, or dark-coloured dollar. thih-sien, iron-rust. tâng-sien, verdegriis on the article (v. tâng). si<sup>n</sup>-sien, to grow rusty. seng-khu si<sup>n</sup>-sien, hody covered with hardened dirt. sien si<sup>n</sup> ka-nûg-têng, id. very much. káu-koeh-sien, hardened dirt on the hody. ka-chiah-sien, hardened dirt down the middle of the back. chhiú-sien, do. on the hand, especially inside of wrist. kha-sien, do. on leg or foot.

sien (R. id., = col. chhi<sup>n</sup>). sin-sien, fresh and new, as food or colour; original and fresh, as a literary composition. kí-chhi sien-bêng, flags all new and beautiful.

sien [R. san, a mountain, = col. soa<sup>n</sup>]. sien-tsa, = san-tsa, a small red crah-apple from North China.

sien (R. san). sien-hô (C. san-hô), coral. sien-lô-chhiú, a coral-tree.

sien [R. soan, to proclaim; a surname]. tâng-sien-lê, = tâng-soan-lê, an incense vessel of finest polished brass.

sien [R. sin, the body, = col. seng], (C. sin), classifier of idols, ancestral tablets, &c. siang-chhiú phi-sien, arms stretched out, as in form of a cross. bâ-hiôh phi-sien, id. chit-sien-pút, one (Bud.) idol. chit-sien kong-pô, one ancestral tablet. thng kàu-chit-sien ná<sup>n</sup> liú-pút-nih<sup>n</sup>, said in scolding a naked child.

sien (R. id.), a genie, elf, or fairy (Tauist), (said half in joke of men addicted to various vices). sien-tan, the elixir of immortality. sien-soa<sup>n</sup>, = hong-lâi, the isles of the genii, in the distant east. sien-tông, a cave where the genii are worshipped; a temple at it. sien-hôh, a fabulous stork, living several hundred years. sien-thô, a fabulous peach, used by the genii. sien-pa-chiú<sup>n</sup>, a small sort of cactus; a small instrument for scratching the back. sien-ka<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a very large sort of orange.

sin-sien, objects of idolatrous worship in general. sin-sien bôe-kiù bô-miã<sup>n</sup>-lâng, the gods cannot save an ill-fated man. sien-tsé, title of any one of the genii (s. former). sien-kong, id., especially as to dreams. khùn sien-kong-bâng, to sleep in temple of genii, in order to get auspicious dreams. oân sien-bâng, id. ûn sien-bâng, id. sien-ong, an aged genie. lâm-kék sien-ong, the genie of the S. pole. hó sien-ke, the one female among the eight Sien. sien-lú, id. sien-tông, a young servant of the genii in their spirit-world. têng-kong-sien, name of a Buddhist idol (v. kong). ngé-kok sien-tê (T.), the god of agriculture. pat-sien, the eight genii (including one fairy). pat-sien-kóng, a bamboo case for some of a barber's instruments. pat-sien-toh, a table for eight persons. si-sien-toh, a table for four persons (v. toh).

tsúi-sien-ông, five spirits of the waters, esp. one great water-spirit, said to be same as tâi-ú, = ú-tê. tsúi-sien-keng, his temple. tsúi-sien-mûg, the gangway of a vessel. tsúi-sien-hoe, the narcissus. tsúi-sien-chí, a medicine made of insects that live in ordure. tsúi-sien-tsú (T.), id.

tsòe-sien, to become a Sien, as some good men are supposed to do. sêng-sien, to become a Sien; to die. kui-sien, to die. sien-sé (R.), to die.

sien-kong, a heggar (said in allusion to Lí thok-koái<sup>n</sup>, one of the genii). khít-chiah-sien, phrase used in scolding; you are like a beggar! thit-thô-sien, a man who has nothing to do but go about amusing himself. chiú-sien, a man fond of liquor; a tippler; a drunkard. a-phiên-sien, an inveterate opium-smoker. poáh-kiáu-sien, an inveterate gambler.

poàn-sien, half a genie (said of man who can foresee or guess the future). san-i-bêng pok-siòng, chín-bat si poàn-sien, to know fully medicine, geomancy, and divination is to be half a genie. tan-ko oân-sán, chín-sien lân-piên, all in great confusion (lit. drugs). siet-sien, poa<sup>n</sup> kâu-chè-thien, to make a plausible pretence.

sien — hiã-sien (Cn. hiã-san), long narrow harmless worms with numerous legs, like small centipedes.

sien — sien-chháu (T.), = A. sin-chháu, a plant from which a cooling jelly is made.

sien [R. before; former; previous; = col. seng], sometimes placed after a man's name, as contraction of sien-si<sup>n</sup>, hut not very respectful. sien-hê, before and afterwards. sien-tâi, former generations; former ages. sien-ti (to foreknow), a prophet (v. ti). sien-hong, a military officer sent on before a superior officer to make preparations for him. sien-jin, ancestors; the ancients. sien-ông, the ancient kings, from whom the Confucian doctrines came. sien-tê, a deceased emperor. sien-kun, id. sien-tsé, deceased paternal grandfather (v. tsé), (s. genie). tsé-sien, ancestors in general. sien-hū, deceased father. lêng-sien-tsun (polite), your deceased father. sien-bú, deceased mother.

sien-si<sup>n</sup> (C. sin-se<sup>n</sup>), teacher; doctor. tsòe-sien-si<sup>n</sup> (C. tsò-sin-se<sup>n</sup>), to be a teacher or doctor (C. Cn. gen. doctor). chhiã<sup>n</sup> sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to call a doctor; to engage a teacher. piah-sien-si<sup>n</sup>, = ka-tsoáh, a cockroach. hong-súi sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a geomancer. gi-òh sien-si<sup>n</sup>, teacher of a free school. kà-òh sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a school-master. toh-thâu sien-si<sup>n</sup> (the teacher on the table), the Imperial Dictionary. kúi-kok sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a famous diviner (v. kok, "a valley"). sien-si<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, a teacher's wife. sien-si<sup>n</sup>-má, teacher's mother. sien-si<sup>n</sup>-kong, teacher's father.

kóng-ké-sien, a man who makes his living by reading or telling old histories or historical novels. tsáu-koe-á-sien, street fortune-tellers, quacks, &c. khoà<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>-sien, a fortune-teller. hoa-kí-sien (an American missionary): in some parts all missionaries were supposed to be Americans. pài-sien (C.), to have our name put on the hooks of an official in a yamun for protection (v. háu).

siên [R. iên, saliva]. liông-siên-hiu<sup>n</sup>, = liông-iên-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a sort of medicine.

siên [R. the cicada, = col. ché; cf. C. tê; Cn. tsún]. siên-á, a small sort of cicada. chhiu-siên-á, id. chhiú-siên, a small sort of cicada, am-pé-ché. siên-thòe, shells of the cicada, medicinal.

siên [R. to sit in Bud. abstraction]. tsô-siên, to sit cross-legged in abstraction without eating, as Bud.

紹
邵

鮮
山
珊
宣
身

仙

先

涎
蟬
禪

priests do. chē-sién, id. tsō-sién--sí, do., till he dies of starvation. chē-sién ūn-khì, to sit cross-legged and meditate in abstraction, insensible to the world. sién-pông, cell of Bud. priest.

sién-ehhng, a couch with arms or rests at each end for the elbows (v. ehng).

bák-chiu khoeh-sién-sién, very drowsy.

sién [R. few; by change of tone from sien, "fresh"]. tiâu-sién, Corea.

sién [R. id. = col. chhoá<sup>n</sup>], (dist. sien), scrofulous and similar eruptions; ringworm; dirty scurf. káu-sién, id. ta-sién, dry sort. noá<sup>n</sup>-sién, moist scurf; ringworm, &c. si<sup>n</sup>-sién, to have such skin disease. im-sién, sort of secondary syphilis.

sién [R. sé, sién, to wash, = col. sóe]. tê-sién (r.), = tê-sóe, a stoneware plate for a tea-pot. tê-sién (C.), id.

sién [R. to strike with a fan or with the hand], to slap with the palm. sién chhùi-phóe, to slap the cheek. sién hī-á, to slap the ears. sién-phah gin-ná, to slap and strike a child.

sién [R. thread, = col. soá<sup>n</sup>]. sién-pê, broad facings or hem of lady's dress.

sién [R. to fan a flame; to incite to evil]. sién-hong, to be blown violently by the wind, as door slammed by the wind, or as child getting a cold from a draught. sién--tó, to blow upon and upset a thing. iâu-giên sién-hék (R.), to delude and mislead by false rumours and calumnies. sién-iên-tâu, a married woman enticing a young man or having lascivious intercourse with him (v. tau).

sién (P.), = A. sin, to believe.

sién (R. id.) péh-sién-thê, chalk.

sién [R. prepared food]. ū-keng-sién, to get food as well as salary, often done for a school-teacher.

sién [R. sin, the kidneys]. sién-chí, the testes. toá-sòe-sién, one of them inflamed and swollen; orchitis. sién-eng, an abscess in the scrotum.

sién (C. sîn). sién-lâng, a lizard (C. sîn-thâng).

sién [R. sîn, a spirit]. gâu pién-sién-thong (T.), = A. gâu pién-sîn-thong, good at adapting one's self to circumstances.

sién (R. id., = col. chhoá<sup>n</sup>). sién-hī, the thin sort of eel. sién-hī-kut, work like that of a closely wrought watch-chain.

sién [R. id.; C. soán]. him-sién, to desire much; to long for.

sién [R. good]. sién-liông, good and well-behaved, as man. siu-sién, to reform and cultivate virtue. hè<sup>n</sup>-sién, virtuous. khoán-sién, to exhort to virtue. hêng-sién, to act virtuously. jîn sién, pī-jîn-khì; má sién, pī-jîn-khì, a good horse is ridden, as a good man is over-reached.

sién-chiong, an easy natural death, as by old age or by a disease that is not painful.

sién-ok, good and bad; virtuous and wicked; righteousness and sin. sién-ok chiong iú-pò, good and bad will be requited at the last. sién iú sién-pò, ok iú ok-pò, good and bad have their reward or punishment. kái-ok chiong-sién, to reform what is bad and follow what is good. kái-kò chhien-sién, to reform what is bad, and move over into virtuous conduct. ték ki-sién jì-chiong--chi, kì put-sién jì-kái--chi, choose the good and follow it, the bad and reform it.

sién (C. sê, in some phrases), weary; tired. ià-sién, id. sién-sién, very slow and lazy. hiéh- sién, to take a rest because weary. lâu khah-sién, the strength of the tide nearly spent. lòh sién-hê, long-continued moderately heavy rains.

sién-sùh, inoffensive and unwilling to cause trouble; quiet and meek (v. sùh). sién-sút (T.), id.

sién-lâng (P.), a person of very little influence or having no influence to back him (s. lizard).

siét [R. to leak out; to let out a secret]. lâu-siét, to let out, or become known, as a secret. lâu-siét kun-ki, to let out secrets of the army; also more general (v. ki). lâu-siét ki-koan, to let out secrets. bông-siét, nocturnal emissions, as in dreams.

siét [R. purging; diarrhoea; the previous word is also used for this one]. siét-siá, constant purging diarrhoea.

siét [R. sat, to scatter, = col. soah, seh, &c.] siét-nái<sup>n</sup>, too forward, impudent, and urgent, as in a dispute or in pressing a request (said of an impudent woman, or of a beggar who will take no denial, perhaps even threatening to kill himself). siét-phoat = sat-phoat, quarrelling in an unwomanly way, as an impudent woman.

siét [R. impure; to profane; to insult or treat irreverently]. siét-tók, to blaspheme. áp-siét, to treat rudely or with contempt.

siét (cf. chhek, R. red, = col. chhiah). siét-sin lē-thé, naked. siét-thái, showing contempt by gross vulgarity, e.g. by taking off one's clothes or similar indecency in the presence of the person insulted; also, to scold and revile shamelessly, as a woman.

siét (R. id.), to set up, as a rule, plan, or custom; to appoint, as an official. siét-lip, to set up or appoint, as rule, custom, or official. siét koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, to appoint mandarins. siét-hoat, to set up a rule; to put an affair in proper order; to put matters right. siét-bōe-lòh, unable to establish it, as a rule. siét-kè, to make a plan or plot. siét àm-kè, to make a secret plot or conspiracy.

siét-sú, on the supposition that —; supposing that —; if (only used in formal language; "nā<sup>n</sup>" is more common, but even it is usually omitted).

phē-siét, to lay out, to arrange in order, as furniture, &c. siét-iên, to make a great feast.

siét, to deceive, either in joke or in earnest; to jeer at; to cheat; to take one in. khau-siét, to jeer at; to make game of. giét-siét, to jibe or twit ironically (almost insulting) about some mistake, or fault, or ugly look. kóng-siét, to talk ironically; to ridicule a man in a covert way. kóng-ōe sa<sup>n</sup>-siét, id. sōh-siét (Cn.), id. tng-bin siét, to twit; to talk jeeringly or ironically; to deceive in jest. siét--lâng, to cheat or deceive people; to make game of, as by inuendos, ironical language, or half-false jokes. piên--lâng siét--lâng, to delude or deceive people. siét--lâng-khì-sí, to delude people to their destruction.

siét [R. the tongue, = col. chih]. khé-siét ê-sū, an affair that requires much disputing. káu-kháu-siét, causing or requiring much wrangling or disputing, as an affair; raising constant disputes, as man. kháu lêng, siét pién (mouth clever and tongue ready), having always an answer ready and a way of escape from what seemed unanswerable; always ready to find an excuse or an answer. koat-siét, a tongue-scraper. pek-siét-niáu<sup>n</sup> (esp. Cn.), a man who has always something to answer; also (R.) = pit-lêng, a bird that can learn to sing in many (lit. hundred) ways, and to mew like a cat.

鮮
洗 線 扇
膳 神
善

洩
洩
撒
褻
赤
設
舌
剔

噤

sih (cf. sih). sih-sih sut-sut, making secret signs by whispers, &c. (v. sut). sih-sih sùt-sùt, id.

sih — sih-sih soā-soā, sound of a sieve, or of rain (v. soā).

雪洗

sih — léng sih-sih, very cold, as food, &c.

薛閑

sih [R. siet, a surname; name of a plant and of an ancient state], a surname; the surname of Hiên-thien Siōng-tè.

sih [R. síam, to flash; to avoid; = col. siak], to flash; to twinkle; to glance brightly. sih--chít-ê, sih--chit-ê, glancing; twinkling. sih - chhoah, slightly twitching, as skin; glancing, as lightning (v. chhoah). kng sih-sih, exceedingly bright; glancing brilliantly. ná<sup>n</sup> teh-sih, ná<sup>n</sup> teh-sih, constantly flashing over and over again, as lightning or fire-flies.

sih-ná<sup>n</sup>, lightning (supposed to be nothing more than a flash, while the destructive power is in "lúi," thunder), lúi-tân sih-ná<sup>n</sup>, thunder and lightning. sih-ná<sup>n</sup> teh-nih<sup>n</sup> teh-sih, lightning glancing and flashing.

sih, to shake, as the hand, as in writing or when carrying some heavy thing. chhiú sih, the hand trembling or shaking, as when trying to write. chhiú sih-sih-tsùn, id.

sih (C.) sih-sut, = A. sek-sut, a small sort of cricket.

sih (= si). iau-chia<sup>n</sup> sih-soeh (C.), = iau-chia<sup>n</sup> si-sóe, said of women behaving improperly.

sih (cf. sih). sih-búh sih-sut, to make secret signs, as with eyes.

蝕

sih [R. sít, to corrode or waste away gradually; to be eclipsed, as sun or moon], to diminish gradually; to lose in trade; to lose in bulk; to settle down, as made ground. sih--lòh-khì, to waste away, as a liquid drying up; to lose in bulk, as a book pressed in binding, &c. &c. ná<sup>n</sup>-sih, constantly diminishing or growing fewer. siau-sih, to diminish or consume away by degrees; diminished, as article in net form, as compared with the gross (v. siau).

lòh-sih, to lose in trade. sih tām-pòh, to lose a little on a transaction. siu<sup>n</sup>-sih, that is too low a price; I can't afford to sell at that price. sih chhìn-thâu, to lose in retail trade by giving customers the turn of the scales. sih-pún, to lose in trade; I make no profit, but only loss, by selling at such a price. sih-pún, tsái-tsú; bó-sih-pún, kiòh-hu, if there be any loss or additional charge it should fall on the wealthy employer, and not on the poor working men. ká<sup>n</sup>-thàn ká<sup>n</sup>-sih, clever and daring; venturing much, so as either to gain much or lose heavily.

sih — sih<sup>n</sup>-sih<sup>n</sup> soáih<sup>n</sup>-soáih<sup>n</sup>, sound of boards creaking.

心

sim (R. id.), the heart; the stomach; the mind; the centre; the delicate leaves of a bud. sim-lāi, in one's heart. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> (heart and liver), the heart, lit. or fig. (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). sim-thâu, the heart (lit. or fig.) sim-thâu m̄-tiā<sup>n</sup>, mind deranged. sim-thâu thiā<sup>n</sup>, pain about the pit of the stomach, or about the heart (v. thiā<sup>n</sup>). sim-tng, heart and bowels; heart (v. tng). sim-pak-lâng, a very intimate and confidential friend (v. pak). sim-kau ê-lâng, a very dear friend. ti-sim ê-lâng, id.

sim-sín, mind and affections; heart and mind (v. sín). sim-seng, natural disposition; character of mind or heart; temper. sim-si<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. si<sup>n</sup>). sim-tê, disposition; character. sim-tōe, id. (v. tōe). sim-chêng, affections and desires (v. chêng). ũ-sim-

chiā<sup>n</sup>, to have heart for a thing. bô-sim-chiā<sup>n</sup>, to have no heart for it. ũ-sim-sút, skilful in planning (v. sút). ũ-sim-sū, cautious; 'cute; scheming (v. sū). ũ-sim-su, good at inventing or contriving (v. su). ũ-sim-ki, good at thinking; intelligent. ũ-sim-khiàu, to be intelligent (v. khiàu). ũ-sim-hiong, prudent and shrewd (v. hiong). toā-sim-hiong, set on great gains, as merchant or thief, &c. hó-sim-heng, virtuous (v. heng). toā-sim-heng, avaricious; venturous. sim-goān, desire of one's heart. sim-ì, bent of mind; desires (v. ì). sim-chì, purpose of mind (v. chì).

sim-hoe khui, feeling pleased (v. khui). sim-hé, internal heat (slightly feverish), e.g. making the mouth dry or eyes somewhat red. sim-hé tóh, rage stirred up. sim-khi-thiā<sup>n</sup>, dyspepsia; pain near the heart or pit of stomach. sah<sup>n</sup> sim-khùi, heart much set on a thing (v. sah<sup>n</sup>).

sim-sek, interesting; taking the fancy; pleasant to look at (v. sek).

sim-teng, lanterns lighted in honour of the god "thi<sup>n</sup>-kong."

tiòng-sim, the middle (v. tiòng). chiú<sup>n</sup>-sim, the middle of the palm. chhiú-sim, id. chhiú-sim, the heart of a tree, or of wood. ka-chiah-sim, the middle of the back, along the spine. thâu-khak-sim (C.), the central point on the head from which the hair radiates.

pit-sim, the hair of a hair-pencil (v. pit). bô-sim, the metal centre on which a mill-stone turns (v. bô). só-sim, the interior part of a Chinese padlock. chhoan-sim, the pin that runs up the hole of a (foreign) key.

tê-sim, tea-leaves. hoe-sim, the centre of a flower. liên-chiau-sim, the inner leaves of the arum (medicinal). liên-chi-sim, the sprout in centre of water-lily seed.

kiap-sim, the two horizontal timbers at top and bottom of a wooden partition into which the upright boards fit.

chek-sim, a candle-wick. mí<sup>n</sup>-sim, a cotton wick. se-sim, id. teng-sim, lamp-wick, made of the pith of a reed (s. reed).

phòng-sim, silver in round pieces flat on one side, each about ten taels.

tiám-sim, a small hasty meal at any hour (v. tiám). khang-sim, having an empty stomach.

kah-sim, the front part of a carcass (about one-third part), e.g. of a pig (v. kah).

kah-sim, just to one's mind. tâng-sim, with one heart. siāng-sim, do.; congenial. chê-sim, with one heart. tsôe-sim, id. háp-sim, id.

sah<sup>n</sup>-sim, heart suddenly and deeply affected, as at good or bad news (v. sah<sup>n</sup>). tōng-sim, to affect the heart with strong desire (v. tōng). chhun-sim tâng, longing for gratification of sexual feeling. jip-sim ê-ôe, language that goes to the heart. tah-sim, loving each other very much, as relatives or dearest friends. tek-sim, to wiu one's affections or regard. tek-sim-lâng, a favourite; one whom we value much, and on whose opinion we constantly rely. tek-sim ê-lâng, id. tek-bin-sim, to win people's hearts, as master or mandarin. bóe jîn-sim, craftily win the hearts of the people (v. jîn).

ũ-sim, inclined to act; thinking upon, as a friend. koan-sim, counting important (v. koan). lip-sim, to determine firmly; with fixed purpose. tsoan-sim, attentive; with undivided energy. liú-sim, to give close attention; attentive (v. liú). tsún-sim, applying the heart with fixed purpose (v. tsún). kì-sim, to remember carefully (v. kì). sòe-sim, careful; cautious; humble. sió-sim, careful; attentive; discreet (v. sió). khé-sim, extremely diligent, as in teaching or study. lô-sim, thinking deeply or anxious about some matter (v. lô). jiét-sim, earnest. chín-sim, with all one's heart; to exert one's mind to the utmost. moá<sup>n</sup>-sim, with one's whole heart. sò-sim, very anxious to get a thing or to accomplish a matter, often so much as to get troubled or excited about it.

bô-sim, disinclined to do something. bô-kui-sim, not with one's whole heart. chhìn-sim, having lost heart about a matter. sí-sim, having lost all hope or desire of a thing (v. sí). hê-sim, to change one's purpose. hòe-sim, id. ji-sim, double-minded; undecided in purpose (v. ji).

pàng-sim, to set one's own mind at ease. hòng-sim, free from anxiety. khoan-sim, mind easy and free from anxiety. ún-sim, free from fear or sorrow. chheng-sim, having abundance for all one requires, and free from causes of anxiety (v. chheng). chêng-sim, quiet staid temper.

sòng-sim, to lose all sense of virtue, and dare to do all that is wrong. phái<sup>n</sup>-sim, wicked. khui-sim, very unfair and unjust, e.g. not paying debts, or abandoning one's wife (v. khui). hū-sim, ungrateful. hūn-sim, heart full of hatred.

sit-sim, mad; idiotic.

sit-sim, true in heart; sincere. pîn-sim, fair in dealings. pun-sim (C.), just; fair; honest. hó-sim, kind; benevolent. hó-sim hó-hēng, good in heart and conduct (v. hēng). hó-sim khít-lúí-phah (a good man killed by lightning!), I have done nothing wrong and yet you scold me! tsòe-hó-sim, to do a benevolent action. hoat-sim, to show kindness.

liòng-sim, conscience (v. liòng).

chít-sim beh-si, chít-sim beh-chiáh-bí, undetermined in purpose. ū-sim phah-chióh, chióh chiá<sup>n</sup>-chiam, by fixed determination even a stone may be made a needle. chhát-sim, hê-siū<sup>n</sup>-bin, having a priest's face but a robber's heart. jîn-bin, siū-sim, having a human face but a beast's heart (v. siū). huih phō-sim, the blood pressing too strongly on the heart, causing disease or death. siū<sup>n</sup> kàu-huih-kong-sim, much perplexed or troubled, as with great press of business, or with distress or anxiety. tsáu kàu-huih-kong-sim, to run so fast as to be quite exhausted and almost fainting.

sim [R. a sort of reed]. teng-sim, lamp-wicks made from the pith of a reed. teng-sim-chháu, the reed or rush from which lamp-wicks are made (Scirpus capsularis?); also used for mats. teng-sim-chhióh, good mats (imported) made from this reed. chháu-sim, the best sort of reeds for mats.

sim (T.), = A. som, ginseng-root. jîn-sim, id. (s. heart). chién-sim, to buy ginseng. chiáh-sim, to take it medicinally.

sim [R. —; Cn. sim; C. som, luxuriant, as foliage]. im-sim, very dense and luxuriant, as the foliage of trees.

hiū<sup>n</sup>-sim (Cn.), a tree with pinnate leaves like the ash; its trunk is very often decayed.

sim [R. siu, the body, = col. seng]. sim-pi<sup>n</sup>, at one's side.

sim [R. sek, daughter-in-law]. sim-pū, a daughter-in-law (v. pū).

sim [R. usual; to search; a fathom; = col. chhím, jím, siám]. sim-siòng (R.), usual; common. tsa-sim (R.), to search for.

sim (R. id.), to judge; to examine judicially. sim-mūg, to make judicial investigation. sim-toàn, to give sentence; to judge finally. sim-phoà<sup>n</sup> (r.), to give decision, esp. as in a civil case of disputed property or marriage. sim-àn, to try a case. sim-sū, id. sim-sit, to inquire judicially into the truth of a matter. sim-siòng, very careful and minute (v. siòng). tùi-sim, to examine the case with both parties present. chhut-sim, to come forward to the trial, as a party. hok-sim, to examine the case a second time in court. tsài-sim, id.

sim-si, the provincial judge.

sim (R. id.), a surname.

sim [R. sim, exceedingly; which? = col. siá<sup>n</sup>], (C. siá<sup>n</sup>, sá<sup>n</sup>). sim-mih<sup>n</sup>, what? which? (somewhat), (v. mih<sup>n</sup>). sim-mih<sup>n</sup>, id.

sim (P.), = A. chím, wife of father's younger brother.

sim, elastic; springy; to yield or vibrate, as an elastic thing. sim-sim, id. mūg sim-sim, weak and yielding, as the boards of a floor or of a bed. sim-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to try the strength of a plank or of a floor by treading on it.

sim — sim-sim, very quiet in manner; silently meditating; saying little or nothing, as man nonplussed or ashamed, and unable to think of any plan. sim-sim - chē, to sit quiet. khia - teh - sim, thinking quietly without acting or speaking. tiá<sup>n</sup>-tiá<sup>n</sup> sim, not speaking or acting. tiá<sup>n</sup>-tiá<sup>n</sup>-sim chit-pē-kú, sitting in a dreamy inactive state for a long time (lit. half a day); unable to answer or to think out any plan to get out of the difficulty.

sim [R. exceedingly —]. sim-tsòe (r.), very many. sim-chi kàu-àn<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, even so far as to this state of matters.

sim-mih<sup>n</sup>, what? which? (better sim-mih<sup>n</sup>; v. mih<sup>n</sup>).

sim [R. the body; one's lifetime; = col. seng, sim, sien], the body; one's self; a person; (also C., = A. sien, classifier of idols, &c.)

chít-sin, one individual. it-sin (r.), id. toa<sup>n</sup>-sin, a solitary person, as one who has no relatives, or having no one to help him. ke-toa<sup>n</sup>-sin, id. toa<sup>n</sup>-sin phit-bé, do., or having no one near him. ke-sin, id. ke-toa<sup>n</sup> chit-sin, id. i-ê tē-ji-sin, his alter ego, who, without formal authority, is able to act for him.

thòe-sin, a straw image made to avert disease or other evils (v. thòe). hūn-sin, a rude image made to represent the deceased in the rites of khia-hà for some tens of days after death. kê hūn-sin, to make it.

sin - khu, the body. ak nūg - sa<sup>n</sup> sin - khu, thoroughly drenched several times after changing one's dress each time. sin-ku (r.), the body. jiók-sin, id. hék-sin, id. sin-thé, id. hin-sin (C.), id. moá<sup>n</sup>-sin, the whole body. moá<sup>n</sup>-sin-keh, id. thong-sin, id. pièn-sin, all over or all through one's body. téng-poá<sup>n</sup>-sin, the upper half of the body. ē-poá<sup>n</sup>-sin, lower half of body. ōe-si<sup>n</sup> kiá<sup>n</sup>-sin, bōe-si<sup>n</sup> kiá<sup>n</sup>-sin, parents can form the body, but not the heart of a son. sin-tsū-pi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a natural disease, not caused by demons. sin-miá<sup>n</sup>, constitution of body, as strong or weak (v. miá<sup>n</sup>). kiá<sup>n</sup>-sin, strong in body; having a good constitution; in good health. tàng-sin thih-kut, not afraid of cold or of a beating (lit. made of brass and iron). kim-sin, highly gilt, as idol. láng-sin bé-thâu, having a human body and a horse's head. sin-chhēng, clothing (v. chhēng).

審

沈甚

甚身

志

參森

身媳尋

tai-sin, vulgar; clownish. khiau-sin, pretty; nice-looking, as child or girl. si-kak-sin, just and of unbending integrity. khia-sin, erect, as an image made standing (v. khia). theng-sin, to hold one's self erect. than-phi-sin, turning one's body side-wise, as in a narrow road (v. than).

ho-sin-tsòe, well-formed in body. sin-tsai, bodily appearance, as good or bad looking (v. tsai). sin-tiu<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. tiu<sup>n</sup>). sin-io, the waist, in regard to its shape (v. io).

sin-pi<sup>n</sup>, at one's side. sin-chiū<sup>n</sup>, on one's body; on one's self. beh-kau goa-sin-chiū<sup>n</sup>, about to come on me, as calamity.

sin-hūn, size of body, e.g. in regard to the size of clothes required; rank or position in life, especially as to wealth. sin-hūn khah-toā, he is large of body. hó-sin-hūn, wealthy.

ū-koa<sup>n</sup>-sin, to be a mandarin. péh-sin-lâng, one of the common people; having no official rank.

ta-sin, having a pretty good income; dry, as a thing (v. ta). êng-sin, well off, and not needing to work. hióng-sin, a man who has committed murder with his own hand (s. sash).

chhut-sin, to attain to office or high literary rank; to rise from poor circumstances to comfort or wealth; to act alone, or as chief in some difficult or dangerous work. kho-kah chhut-sin, to advance by merit in literary examinations. it-póng chhut-sin, a Kujin becoming a mandarin. li-sin, to escape from danger; to get leisure (v. li). thoat-sin, to escape (v. thoat). siók-sin, to redeem, as from slavery, or from a bad house. bœ-sin, to sell one's self for a slave. sin-khòe-jī, deed of sale of a slave girl. sūi-sin teh-toā, to carry always about with one (v. sūi). tsai-ê lim-sin, calamities come upon him (v. lim). sa<sup>n</sup>-oe-sin, to jostle one another on the road, as two men having difficulty in passing in a narrow or crowded road. chiū<sup>n</sup>-sin, to possess a man, as a spirit. hū-sin, id.; also (C. hū-sin), to inhabit an idol, as the spirit of another may do. siá-sin, to exert one's self greatly. sng-sin, to exert one's self very severely; quite worn out and exhausted. siak-sin, id. siu-sin (R.), to regulate one's conduct well. thiu-sin thè-āu, to withdraw for fear (v. thiu).

khí-sin, to begin. bœ-khí-sin, does not grow, as a sickly boy. hoan-sin, immediately; in a moment. oat-tng-sin, immediately; to turn round to look back (v. tng). bœ-tit-thang tsoán-sim, having no way to turn (v. tsoán).

kè-sin, dead; past and gone, as things or men. kòe-sin (C.), id.

sin-si, a corpse. sin-kè, he has died (said in announcing a death). sin-āu, after death; behind the back. chek-ok biét-sin, accumulated guilt bringing death by a heaven-sent punishment. hoà-sin, to die and become a Buddha (v. hòe).

chióng-sin, all one's life long. chit-sin chit-si, id. chit-sin chit-miā<sup>n</sup>, id. si-sin-phe, reckless of one's life (v. phe). kúi-nā-pah-sin bô-káu-si, a hundred deaths would not be enough; though he had a hundred lives his death would be inevitable, as man in great danger, or in case of guilt so great as certainly to draw down the vengeance of heaven.

ū-sin, to be pregnant. ū-sin-in, id. toà-sin (Cn.), id. ka-lauh-sin, to have a miscarriage. lòh-sin, id. thút-sin, id. phah-lòh-sin, to cause miscarriage. bú-sin, body of woman about to have a child, or within a month after delivery (v. bú).

chhiū-sin, trunk of tree. tùi-sin, shaft of pestle for large rice-mortar. tiā<sup>n</sup>-sin, shank of anchor. lêng-sin, placed about half-way down the slope of a hill, as lucky site for grave or house (v. lêng, "spiritual"). lám-sin, the body of a dress hanging too loosely. kín-sin-á, a warm close-fitting jacket. sán-sin, thin and weak, as cloth woven too loose and easily torn.

pún-sin, one's self (v. pún). chhin-sin, id. tsū-sin put-lêng pó, unable to protect one's self (v. tsū).

sin-sè, power and influence; attitude of body for some purpose (v. sè). chiáh i--ê thúi-sin-bah, living on and wasting his own capital (lit. the flesh of his thigh).

āu-sin, afterwards; further back, as back premises. lái-sin, inside a place; further in than another place. goā-sin, outside of a place; further out than another place. kháu-sin, id.

Sin [R. fire-wood; fuel]. sin-súi ê sé-hui, funds for wood, rice, and water, supplied to a deputy mandarin when he comes to a place; sometimes also said of a teacher. sin-súi chiok, these funds sufficient. thiap i--ê sin-súi, to pay these expenses for him.

Sin [R. to do or say a second time], a cyclical character; the period from 3-5 P.M. sin-si, 3-5 P.M. jit-lòh-sin, id., said to distinguish it from "sin-si." sin-bêng (R.), to repeat a command; (X.) Deuteronomy.

Sin [R. to stretch out; to straighten; = col. chhun], to redress, as a wrong. sin-oan, to redress or avenge a wrong. iú-oan bû-sin, having wrongs, but no one to redress or avenge them.

Sin (R. id.), new. sin-sien, new and fresh. sin-ien, having the gloss still on, as cloth. sin-būn, news (v. būn). sin-koa<sup>n</sup>, a new mandarin. sin-tsòe, newly made. sin-lái, lately come. sin-lâng, a new comer (said in joke). sin-hun, a marriage. sin-niū<sup>n</sup>, a bride (v. niū<sup>n</sup>). sin-kiá<sup>n</sup>-sai, the bridegroom. sin-chia<sup>n</sup>, New-years day; the New-year time. sin-ní<sup>n</sup>, the coming year (said only near the end of the old one).

chhông-sin, to repair and renew as good as new (v. chhông). oā<sup>n</sup>-sin, to change an old thing for a new one. chhêng-sin, to wear new clothes. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-sin khi-kū, to forsake the old for the new, improperly.

Sin [R. a sash, worn by gentry]. hióng-sin, gentry and graduates (s. body). hiang-sin (C.), id. sin-khim, graduates belonging to a place. sin-sū, graduates and retired mandarins; may also include local military mandarins if they belong to the place.

im-sin (C.), = A. im-seng, sons of high mandarins, who get degrees by influence.

Sin (= chhin), (T. sien; C. chhân). sin-chháu, a plant from which a cooling jelly is made. sin-chháu-tàng, coagulated jelly made from it.

Sin [R. bitter; toilsome], a surname; a cyclical character. sin-kim, wages for labour. sin-lô, id. sin-hô (Cn.), id. sin-khé, miserable in body, e.g. in severe painful sickness, or toiling in hot sun.

sè-sin, a medicine.

Sin (C.) sin-se<sup>n</sup>, = A. sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a teacher; a doctor.

Sin [R. êng, a fly]. hê-sin, a fly; a house-fly. hê-sin-hé, a small round insect. hê-sin-sái, darkish spots over the face. ku-sin, small dark-coloured aphid. gū-sin, a stinging fly that attacks cattle. kim-sin, a large blue-bottle fly; said also of a man with fine clothes, but with no talent. chhe<sup>n</sup>-sin (C.),

薪
申
申
新

紳

辛

蠅

娘
身

the blue-bottle fly. tsúi-sín (C.), sort of fly found on water (s. spirit). chêng kàu tng-sín-pe tng-báng-háu, so silent that not even a fly or mosquito is heard. siá<sup>n</sup>-sín, said of women enticing lads (v. siá<sup>n</sup>).

sín (R. id.), a constellation; one of the cyclical characters; the time from 7-9 a.m. sín-si, 7-9 a.m. jít-chhut-sín, id. si-sín, a particular Chinese (double) hour; only said in asking what hour it is (s. spirit).

chhi<sup>n</sup>-sín, stars and constellations.

jít-sín, a day viewed as lucky or unlucky; name of day of month, as designated not by numbers but by two cyclical characters, in relation to the horoscope and one's fate or fortune. hó-jít-sín, an auspicious day. toá-jít-sín, a very auspicious day. phái<sup>n</sup>-jít-sín, an inauspicious day. ki-sín, anniversary of the death of an emperor or of very near relative of emperor.

sín [R. a servant; a minister of state], said by Taoist priests in addressing Heaven. jín-sín, a minister of state. tiâu-sín, id. tái-sín, a great minister of state. khim-chhe tái-sín, a high commissioner or ambassador. kan-sín, a traitorous minister (v. kan). poán-sín, a minister in rebellion against his sovereign. tióng-sín, a loyal and faithful minister. tióng-sín put-sú jī-tsú, liét-lú put-kà jī-hu, a loyal statesman will not serve two masters; a pure lady will not marry two husbands in succession. tióng-sín put-hú jī-tsú, &c., do. does not assist two masters, &c. tióng-sín put-phá<sup>n</sup>-sí; phá<sup>n</sup>-sí, hui tióng-sín, a faithful minister does not fear death; if he fear death, he is not a faithful minister.

kun-sín, sovereign and minister. ū-kun-sín, to be properly mixed, as various medicines, some principal and others secondary. phòe-kun-sín, to mix in proper relations, as some medicines considered to be related to each other.

sín [R. sêng, to receive, = col. sá<sup>n</sup>], to catch in one's upturned hand, as a ball or small thing thrown, or as water in a vessel or in hand; also (C.), = A. sêng, to receive.

bōe-iōng-sín--tit, not fit to be employed for the business, as man, e.g. man wanting in ability or in faithfulness. sín-báng, to take the fish out of the mud or shallow water inclosed by nets at low water. sín hē-tsúi, to catch rain water, as in a vessel or in the upturned hand.

sín [R. sêng, to assist; an assistant official or deputy]. mng-sín hē-lí, the guardian gods of doors and thresholds. múi<sup>n</sup>-sín hē-í (C.), id. mng-sín (T. Cn. mng-liên), inscriptions on the leaves of doors. tah mng-sín, to paste these inscriptions on. kê mng-sín, id. ūi mng-sín, to paint the guardian divinities of doors, namely, Sin-tê and Ut-lúí.

sín [R. id. = col. sêng], a spirit; spiritual; (intelligent); in many phrases it refers to the expression of the countenance or the general appearance of the person, as indicating one's character, purpose, or state.

sù-sín, four great medicines mixed, ready to be infused, viz. hók-lêng, hoái<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, khiam-sít, liên-chí. sù-sín-hún, these four mixed in state of powder. sù-sín-tê, infusion or decoction of them. hók-sín, one form of the medicine "hók-lêng" (v. hók). khiam-sín, a medicine (v. khiam) (+).

sín-biâu, very good and efficacious, as a medicine. sín-khak, a famous medicine made at Chin-chew. sín-i (R.), a very skilful doctor. sín-tóng (R.), a wonderfully talented and precocious young scholar.

sín-sín, very dull and spiritless, either naturally so, or from grief or sickness, &c. bō-sín, not observing or understanding what is said, as from grief or abstraction: abstracted; absent in mind (+). lóng-bō-sín, utterly wanting in animation, &c. mê<sup>n</sup>-sín (C.), mad; you are mad, or talking nonsense (v. mê<sup>n</sup>). khah-khiám-sín, naturally rather dull, unintelligent, and unexcitable in appearance or manner (v. khiam). si-sín, very dull and spiritless in manner (opp. oáh-tāng). sít-sín, utterly dispirited, depressed, exhausted, or stupified, as with grief, fear, sickness, &c. iá kàu-beh-sít-sín, so much exhausted as to be unable to think or listen. iá-sín, exhausted, spiritless, and feeling slightly unwell, as from exertion or sickness; sleepy appearance from great exhaustion. tám-sín, appearance of low spirits or of distress (v. tám). koán-sín koán-sín, dull and wanting in animation, as from weariness or illness.

loán-sín, confused and almost out of one's mind, as with sad news, grief, or anxiety. gōng-sín, appearance of dull inactive stupidity; stupid-looking. khám-sín, appearance of active stupidity; doing absurd and foolish things.

siáu-sín, foolish amusements, esp. gambling; fond of low jests and vile low talk. siáu-sín-á, id. lái siáu-sín, come and gamble or play at somewhat bad amusements.

sng-sín, to hurt one's self by late hours, &c. (v. sng). hùi-sín, troublesome, as an affair; many thanks for your trouble! (v. hùi). hoán-sín, thank you, sir, for your trouble. hē-lí hoán-sín, id. hoán lí ê-sín, id. lô-sín (R.), thank you, sir!

tsù-sín, diligent and attentive; with fixed determination. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tsù-sín, id. tsù-sín-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to gaze steadily; to look intently. bák-chiu tsù-sín, id. ūn-sín, to sit in silent contemplation, as Bud. priest.

gín-sín, feeling disgusted at him, &c. (v. gín). chhiò-sín, smiling, kindly appearance of countenance. ū-khiàu-sín, healthy, pleasant, and intelligent looking, as child; interesting, as thing.

phòe tōe-sín, to bring out in the essay the meaning and spirit of the theme or text in a very profound and complete way (v. tōe).

sín-chhái, appearance of health or animation and intelligence (v. chhái). gán-sín hó, baying a very intelligent appearance about the eyes. hó-gán-sín, id. bák-sín oáh-tāng, eyes full of fire, intelligence, and animation. bák-sín chhái-chhái, looking firmly and intently. toā-bìn-sín, brazen-faced, without modesty, as girl who is too forward among men, or who urges her parents to get her married; rarely said of men. phái<sup>n</sup>-sín-khì, ashamed or awkward state of feeling, e.g. having to speak against a friend (v. pháí<sup>n</sup>).

sim-sín, heart and mind; mind, with thoughts, affections, feelings, &c. bō-sim-sín, having no inclination to attend to a thing, no heart for it, e.g. from anxiety about something else, or from grief, &c. sim-sín put-chí-toā, taking a great deal of thoughtful care and trouble, as some work. sim-sín kè-tê, thinking too deeply, so as to injure one's health. óng-hùi sim-sín, to spend mental labour fruitlessly (v. hùi).

sín-chêng, appearance or manner of acting or speaking, as showing one's purpose; purpose or inclination as manifested in one's manner. sín-lí (r.), id. ì-sín, id. bō-ì-sín, quite dispirited, or afraid, or utterly ashamed, so as to have no resource left; e.g. when suddenly confounded so as to have no answer. bō-ì bō-sín, id.

辰

臣

承

丞

神

hong-sin, expression of countenance; appearance of face, as to intelligence. phah-lâng bô-hong-sin, to put a man to shame before others, as by treating him rudely, or speaking to him sharply.

hong-sin-toân, an ancient book of stories about spirits; said of absurd stories, lies, and great fickleness (v. hong, "to seal").

goân-sin, natural constitution, as strong or weak. sún goân-sin, to injure one's health, as by bad food, or by late hours, &c. goân-sin tsai-keng, = cheng-sin tsai-keng, having one's wits about one; keeping one's presence of mind; active-minded.

cheng-sin, animal spirits; animated; lively; skilful. bô-cheng-sin, dull; listless; very wearied; insensible. û-cheng-sin, lively; active; intelligent. khah-cheng-sin, somewhat revived, as from swoon or sickness. cheng-sin chhiong-chiok, intelligent; skilful; active-minded. cheng-sin put-chiok, dull, drowsy, or absent state, such as is usual in old age, and sometimes comes on in sickness. chhiú<sup>n</sup> cheng-sin (Cn. chhiú), to bring back health by Taoist magical rites. cheng-sin-hé, lamp used in these rites. cheng-sin tsai-keng, having all one's wits about one. cheng-sin hun-loân, much confused and almost out of one's mind, as from fear, anxiety, sickness, &c.

sín-hún, the human soul or spirit (v. hún). sín-tsu, an ancestral tablet. sín-chí (C.), id. sín-jí (C.), id. ke-sín-pái, a large ancestral tablet with several names on it. lán ke-sín-pái, said of a boy blocking up the doorway. sín-úi, a tablet or scroll with the name of an idol or sage, for his spirit to reside at.

chhê-sin, = khan-bông, to call up the spirits of the dead. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-sín, to invite the spirits to come, as to some ceremony. sí-sín, respectfully ask them to go home after a ceremony (s. hour). sàng-sín (C. sàng-ang), to make offerings on 12.24, when the spirits of the idols go up to heaven. chih-sín (C. chih-ang), to make offerings when they come down again. thê-sin, the spirit leaving or having left an idol, so that it has no power. hū-sín (C.), = A. hū-sin, the spirit of a dead man going to reside in an idol, either his own image or another's. png-sin tsok-hok, to make offerings to an idol so as to have a good feast (v. hok).

sín-bêng, objects of worship; supernatural beings in general. sín-pút (C. ang-hút), id. sín-sien, id. (v. sien). sín-siông, an image or picture of a god, &c. sín-chhiang (C.), id. tai-sín tai-tô, a regularly canonized and extensively worshipped idol; also, fig. of a very influential man; also (C.), any very highly honoured and powerful idol. tai-sín-tô (Cn.), id. sín-soah, spirits and demons (v. soah).

soah-sin, a certain malicious and hurtful demon (v. soah). liók-sin, six spirits specially propitiated at building a house (done by Taoist priests). siá-sin, depraved spirits; wicked spirits. seng-sin (X.), the Holy Spirit. chêng-sin, any good spirit regularly canonized or extensively worshipped; also, = thé-ti-kong, the guardian god of graves. hok-tek chêng-sin, = thé-ti-kong. hok-sin, id. thé-sin, id. seng, úi chêng-jin; sú, úi chêng-sin, very good in life and a good spirit after death. chêng-sin, all the spirits. chiông-sin (C.), id. bân-sin-kong (Cn.), collective title for all the male ghosts that have no posterity. bân-sin-má (Cn.?), collective title for all the female ghosts that have no posterity.

chhó-bók-sin, a new spirit or idol much worshipped by the people, but not canonized; said also of a man, a mere upstart.

thien-sin, heavenly spirits sent by superior gods as messengers or deputies; angels. thien-sin hā-kàng, the heavenly spirits are sent down (on 12.25) by Siông-tè to take charge of the world while the spirits of the idols are absent on their annual visit to heaven; on this day people have to be very careful of their conduct. kim-kah-sin, angelic messengers of Giók-hông. kim-kah sin-jin, id. kim-kah-sin-jit, auspicious days when these good angels are going their rounds and the demons are terrified. chhiú-sin, spirit of a tree, worshipped. hoe-sin, spirit of a large flower. chí<sup>n</sup>-sin, guardian spirit of a well. tsúi-sin, guardian spirits of streams or waters; geomantic character of a grave (or of a house) in relation to water. tsúi-sin hó, the site auspicious so far as water is concerned. koá-sin-hó, the answer by tortoise-shell divination is favourable (v. koá). thêh-sin, spirits of a dwelling (v. thêh). thê-sin, spirits that guard unborn infants. thai-sin, id. (v. thai). hé-sin-iá, the god of fire. ngiá<sup>n</sup> hí-sin, procession of military mandarins in spring.

sín-lông, Shin-nung (v. lông, "husbandman"). sín-tê, name of certain rulers or princes of demons able to devour them. sín-tê ut-lúí, two names often written on doors as protection against demons. sín-tê ut-lút, id.

sín-thong, power of a spirit or idol, as manifested in mighty works (v. thong). sín-jiah (r.), a miracle. sín-se, a red mixture used for touching the eyes (khai-gán) of an idol. sín-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a pair of curtains hung before an idol's shrine. tsòe-sin-hok, to make large offerings of food to idols (v. hok). sín-chiá (Cn.), a sorceress or female medium who calls up the spirits of the dead.

kúi-sin, ghosts and spirits; demons and superior spirits; spiritual beings in general; worse and better spirits, though not quite strictly so, for some "kúi" are considered good, and some "sín" are bad. sín-kúi, id. hàu kúi-sin, to worship spiritual beings by offerings. kèng kúi-sin, to reverence or worship spiritual beings. kèng kúi-sin, jî oân--chi (R.), reverence the spirits, but don't have much to do with them. gí-sin gí-kúi, very suspicious of others. ke-sin thong goá-kúi, a person in the house (or in the firm) in league with enemies outside to injure or plunder. iú-san, iú-sú; iú-sin, iú-kúi, as water always accompanies hills, so great and powerful spirits always have inferior spirits or demons as their attendants, e.g. in the temples. sín put-ti, kúi put-kak, so secret that none of the spirits know it. bô-sin-kúi thang-lái, very quiet and retired, as a place; scarcely any one comes, or has come; no business doing. bô-sin-kúi kiá<sup>n</sup>-kàu, id.; no fear of anything being lost. bô-sin bô-kúi, no one present at all. bô--chit-ê sin-kúi, id.

bô--chit-ê sin-iá<sup>n</sup>, utterly false; not the least foundation for the report; not a single person present.

sìn [R. to inquire into; to interrogate officially]. sín-mng, to inquire into officially in court, as mandarin. tui-sin, to examine the parties face to face in court. chit-sin (R.), id. hok-sin, to examine or try a case a second time on another court-day. chhut-sin, to come forward to the trial, as a party does. êng-sin, to appear at trial for examination, as witnesses or others (not the principal parties) named in the documents, and therefore summoned. êng-sin ê-lâng, such persons.

sìn [R. a military station]. sín-hông, station of small military mandarin, who can also act in small lawsuits. sin-tōe, id. sin-tē (C.), id. lī sin-tē, to be driven from one's home or dwelling so as to have no part in it (for any cause, right or wrong). khia-sin, to occupy a military or police station, as small mandarin. tsoan-hông-sin, assistant of a "siú-pi," having authority over the whole "iá." sin is also used at the end of the names of the small military stations, e.g. chia-chhân-sin, near Chang-poo.

訊

汛

sin [R. quick; the previous word is sometimes used for this]. sin-sok, quick; swift; urgently quick.

sin (R. id.), the soft place on the top of an infant's head where the sutures join. sin-á, id. sin--á (T.), id. sin-hô, id. sin-hôe (Cn.), id. sin-bûn, id. sin-mûg, id. sin-mûi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. sin-mûg (C. mê<sup>n</sup>), the hair at that place. lâu sin-mûg, to let the hair grow at that place. sin-tsang, a little boy's queue. sin-bô, a child's cap that leaves the crown of the head bare; it has a flap at the back tied round the neck. nûg-sin, having the soft part of the head softer than it usually is, specially apt to be injured.

sin (R. id.), (P. sin, sien), to believe; to believe on; faithful; trustworthy; fidelity; faith; (a letter; news). sin-chiôh, arsenic, = phi<sup>n</sup>-sng.

poe-sin, the divining blocks. sin-poe (C.), id. sin-khâu (Cn.), id.

poe-sin, a letter (v. poe). ka-sin, a letter from home or to one's family. pô-sin, to give sad intelligence. im-sin, news by letter, as of a relative. bô-im-sin, no news at all from or about him, e.g. of a relative gone abroad. bô-im bô-sin, id. û-im-sin--bô, are there any news from him? sin-tsoá, a thin sort of paper. bîn-phê khah-pôh sin-tsoá, very bashful. poá<sup>n</sup>-sin, paper thinner than sin-tsoá, but thicker than in-si-tsoá (+).

sin-sit, true; trustworthy, as a statement, or as a friend. sin-tek, the virtue of fidelity, truthfulness, trustworthiness, or faithfulness. jîn-gí lé-ti-sin, the five cardinal virtues: kindness, justice, propriety, wisdom, and fidelity. tióng-sin, faithful and trusty. sit-sin, to break one's word; to betray one's trust. in-sin, proof in form of seal or stamp; stamp (public or private) on a document giving it credibility or validity. û-sin-kú, to have good, sure, and certain proof. û-pin-sin, to have sufficient proof. û sim-mih<sup>n</sup> pin-sin, what good evidence is there? ôe-pin-sin--tit, may be safely trusted, as man or affair; trustworthy. ôe-sin-pin--tit, id. bôe-sin-pin--tit, untrustworthy, as man or document. m-si sin-pin ê-lâng, he is not a trustworthy man. bô-sin-pin, unsafe, as man who does not keep his word. û-sin-pin, quite true and trustworthy, as man, or promise, or engagement. kui-sin-thi<sup>n</sup>, steady good fine weather (v. kui). sin-tng, mode of getting much money for a small pledge that is to be certainly redeemed (v. tng).

û-sin, to be trusty or faithful. lí û-sin--mah, do you believe it?

sióng-sin, to put trust in (a person); trusting each other. sióng-sin-i, to trust him. sióng-sin sióng-keng, trusting and respecting each other. m-sin, not to believe; not to trust; does not or will not believe or trust. chhim-sin, to believe firmly. sin-tauh-tauh, trusting very firmly or implicitly. poá<sup>n</sup>-sin poá<sup>n</sup>-gí, half believing half doubting (v. gí). sin-siá<sup>n</sup>, to believe in the power of an idol or spirit. sin-tiông, to place great confidence on a man. sin-jim, to trust a man and intrust him entirely with some matter (not examining what he does). sin-jin, to stand security slightly and only verbally, as for a man whom we have recommended. sin-hók (r.), to believe and submit. sin-khò (r.), to believe and trust upon. sin-thàn (X.), to believe and obey. sin-iá-sê (X.), to believe on Jesus. sin-keng (X.), the creed.

sin [R. sin, to be cautious or circumspect about some risk]. kin-sin, to be on one's guard against something; to take great care, as to avoid danger or not to do something; to be circumspect or wary.

sin-tiông, valuable and important, as things; very cautious (v. tiông).

sin (R. sêng), surplus; to be a remainder; to remain over, as things. û-sin, surplus. i-sin (C.), id. û-sin, there is a surplus or remainder. bat kàu-û-sin, to know very thoroughly, as a man's whole character. bô-sin, no remainder or surplus. sin joá-tsôe, how much is over? sin-gûn, money that is over (lit. silver). sin-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. (lit. copper cash). sin-mih<sup>n</sup>, surplus articles. lâng chi-lâng, sin chit-ki-kut, though fed by men he is nothing but bones (v. chi).

sin (R. id., = col. siên), the kidneys (human), considered to be connected with the element of water. goá-sin, the testes. sim-sin, heart and kidneys. pé-sin, strengthening the kidneys and making the eyes bright. sin-súi chhiong-chiok, in good vigorous health, as a strong lusty young man (about 20 or 30) who sleeps soundly (masculine principle vigorous?). sin-súi chiok, id. tsúi siók-sin, the element of water has relation to the kidneys in the theory of medicine, &c.

sin [R. —, C. chin; Cn. sin, to make a present to a person going a journey]. sin-gí, presents given to persons going a great distance, esp. Kujin going to examination at the capital. sàng-sin, to give such presents, esp. to graduates going to examination. sàng sin-gí, id. sòng-sin, id.

sin — sin-lâng (C. T.), = A. siên-lâng, a lizard. sin-tâng (C.), id.

sio [R. siau, name of a plant; desolate], a surname. sio ông-iá, a famous idol of surname Siau.

sio [R. siau, the high part of the sky]. ûn-sio, the city of Yun-siau, between Chang-poo and Chau-an.

sio [R. sióng, mutual, = col. sa<sup>n</sup>], mutually, used before verbs and some adjectives; sometimes it does not give any idea of mutual relation. sa<sup>n</sup> is more said in A., T., and Cn., but sio more in C. sio-soá, successively. sio-bat, acquainted (with a person). sio-kap, together. sio-chio, to call or invite. sio-chhōe (C.), = A. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhē, to search for, as for a person.

sio [R. sióng, to injure, = col. siu<sup>n</sup>, too much]. sio-ti (C.), too sharp and too exacting in buying and selling (s. burn).

sio [R. siau, to burn], warm; to burn; to roast. sio-lió, to burn away. sio-lió--khi, to burn quite away. sio-hu, to burn to ashes. hé-sio-chhù, a house on fire. hé-sio--ah, fire! fire! sio-pùn, to burn grass, straw, &c., mixed with earth, for manure. sio hé-phûn, to burn heaps of fuel on 1. 15 for people to leap through. sio-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to burn incense. sio lêng-chhù, to burn houses for the dead. sio-kim, to burn mock paper (yellow or white) in worship of gods or of the dead. sio kim-gûn, id. sio-tsoá, id. sio-kim-pút (Cn.), to burn paper to an idol. sio-kim-kúi (Cn.), do. to ghosts or demons. sio-sê, to burn paper prayers. sio-tiáp, do., another sort.

sio-hé, a cook, as in a hong. sio-hóe (C.), id. sio-sáh, roast and boiled. sio-bah, roast meat, esp. pork. sio-koe, roast fowl; &c. sio-ti, a young pig

迅
自願

信

慎

剩

腎

贖

蕭霄相

傷燒

roasted whole. sio-koah, a slice of roast pig (v. koah).

sio-hûi, to make pottery (v. hûi). sio-he, to burn lime. thih sio-âng, heat iron red-hot. sio hé-lê, to kindle a fire in a fire-place or stove. sio piá<sup>n</sup>-lê, to warm an oven for baking. sio-tsàu (T.), to kindle the cooking-fire. sio hun-phā, to make a pellet of opium in the flame, preparing to smoke it.

chhêng-sio, to wear warm clothes. chiáh-pá chhêng-sio, having plenty to eat and to wear. ku-sio, to sit crouching in the sun or in some warm place. ún-sio, to cover up and keep warm, as embers or food. un-sio-tsúi, to warm water on the fire. hiá<sup>n</sup>-sio-tsúi, id. thng-sio, to warm over again. tím-sio, to warm up in a "tím-koàn" (v. tím). sio-thng, warm water; warm soup. thàn-sio chiáh, to eat (food) while it is still hot.

kip-sio, a very thin broad-bottomed earthen kettle, for boiling or warming anything very quickly. tê-kip-sio, one for boiling water for tea. chiú-kip-sio, one for warming liquor.

sio-jiét, hot and fevered, either much, as with fever, or slightly, as with prickly heat; much excited and indignant, as at having one's bad deeds openly spoken of, or at being violently scolded. sio-joáh, warm or hot, as weather. sio-chi<sup>n</sup>, warm, as weather. sio-lô, pleasantly warm, as weather, clothes, or food. sio hōng-hōng, very hot, as body or weather. sio kún-kún, very hot, as food or water, or as stone or wood heated by the sun, &c. sio hù-hù, very hot. lâ-lûn-sio, lukewarm (v. lûn).

sio-chiú, strong spirits (of various strength); any intoxicating liquor warmed. kâu-sio, very strong spirits that can burn. hé-sio-chiú, strong spirits. sio-to (Cn.), id. kau-liang-sio, sort of strong spirits, the best is from Shan-tung. tsút-bi-sio, strong spirits made from glutinous rice.

sio [R. siōng, usual; common; = col. siu<sup>n</sup>], inferior in quality, as a composition. siô-siô, indolent; slow and lazy. tsôe-sû siô, to manage a matter in a very dilatory way. iōng-siô (C.) = A. iū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, of moderate abilities, rather useless, as a man.

sio (= só). sio-kng, = só-kng, a sort of cuttle-fish.

sio (cf. siáu, lustful). sio-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a sodomite; a vile lascivious man. sio-ngá (Cn.), id.

sio [R. song, a pair; = col. siang]. sio-to-hōe (C. siang-to-hōe), the Triad Society (v. to); by some supposed to be the next word, "small."

sio [R. siáu, small], small; young; neap; right hand (side). sio-khoá, small; unimportant; few, in quantity (v. khoá). sio-kiók, scant in measure, as dress. sio-thêng, in a short time (v. thêng). sio-lê, a small road; a path. sio-tê, the bladder, esp. of pig. sio-lî, dysentery.

sio-tàu, about 11 or 11.30 A.M. sio-moá<sup>n</sup>, a term about May 21st or 22d. sio-iōng-chhun, a season of warm weather in winter. gêh siô, the month has only 29 days. sio-tsúi, neap-tides. tsúi siô, the tide is neap. tsúi teh-sio, the tides are coming nearer neap-tide.

sio-bô, an unceremonial cap. sio-kiô, a sedan with only two bearers. sio-si, examination for Sew-tsai degree.

sio-iū<sup>n</sup>, rather mean in one's actions.

sio-tá<sup>n</sup>, cowardly; afraid. sio-sim, careful; cautious; attentive; discreet. sio-sim hâu-lô, very attentive, as servant (v. lô).

sio-pêng, the right-hand side, counted less honourable. sio-pâi<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. toā-sio, left and right; large or small, as month. pái-sio, take a step to the right. sio--khi, turn to the right, said by chair-bearers.

sio-tî, younger brother. sio-bê, younger sister. sio-māi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. sio-chím (of a man), younger brother's wife; (of woman) wife of her husband's younger brother. sio-sim (P.), id. sio-chek (C. sè-chek), husband's younger brother. sio-kê, husband's younger sister.

sio-hé, private business on his own account by manager of firm, &c. (v. hé). sio-kang, an under-workman; a labourer (v. kang). sio-toà<sup>n</sup>, character of young female in a play. sio-seng, character of young and polite man in play.

sio-bêh, bearded wheat. sio-chióng, Souchong tea. sio-hôe, = phâ<sup>n</sup>-chhek-hiu<sup>n</sup>. sio-khe, a large market town between Chang-chew and Ping-ho.

sio (= siù), a sheath; a scabbard. to-siò (esp. T. P.), a scabbard. koeh-siò-á (T.), sheath for sort of knife for cutting shrubs, &c.

sio (= siū), gún-siò, sort of strong box for carrying silver. chit-siò-gún, one thousand taels.

sio [R. siāu, a surname and name of place], a surname.

sio<sup>n</sup> (P. C.), in all the tones, = A. siu<sup>n</sup>.

sioh (R. sek), to love; to be sparing of. thiá<sup>n</sup>-sioh, id. ài-sioh, id. ài-sioh-gún, to be sparing of one's money. pó-sioh, to love and cherish; to take great care of. kèng-sioh jî-tsoá, to reverence written or printed paper.

khó-sioh (C. khó-sek), alas!

sioh thé-biēn, careful of one's reputation, esp. prestige and influence. sioh liām-thí, fair and honourable (though against one's friends or interest), and unwilling to do dishonourable things (v. thí). bô-sioh bîn-phê, has no regard for his own character. sioh pún-hūn, to keep to the behaviour and manners becoming one's station; to keep one's place; to attend to one's duty. m-sioh pún-hūn, to do what is above our rank or station, as in words, actions, or manner.

sioh-hok, to restrain one's self from taking a full swing of pleasure or power (v. hok). sioh khui-lát, to spare one's strength when one should exert himself. bô-sioh i-ê-bah, not afraid of being wounded or beaten severely. sioh si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to be very careful of one's self (often over-careful), e.g. taking great care when slightly unwell, or afraid to sit in a draught, or afraid to meddle with a matter, or travel on a road where there is some danger. sioh kong-im (r.), to economize time.

sioh — gióh-sioh, to jest at; to ridicule (a person).

sioh [R. siók, common; vulgar; customs; cheap]. sioh-siòh, unimportant; common-looking. sioh-khiēn, superstitious. sioh-phiah, id.

sioh — bô-sioh bô-sioh, easy-minded; taking things very easy; not readily getting angry; ready to forget what is ordered.

sioh — kha-sioh, the soft bad-smelling moisture of the foot. chhiú-sioh, moisture or slight perspiration on the hand.

sioh (cf. siū<sup>n</sup>, iòh), to get soft and 'bad, or waste away, as cooked food kept too long. sioh--khi, id. sioh-liòh--khi, id. si<sup>n</sup>-sioh, to grow soft and begin to spoil (not yet mouldy), as cakes, coagulated jelly, &c.

鞘鞘

邵惜

常

雙小

俗

chhau-siòh, rather bad-smelling, as food going to get bad, so abundant that it is of little or no value.

tsáp-géh siòh, the tenth month warm with much south wind.

siok [R. father's younger brother, = col. chek]. pau-siok, father's younger brother. lâu-siok--ê, polite appellation used in speaking to an old man. siok-tit, a cousin of any degree; blood relations in general, though very distant.

siok [R. a sort of bean; general word for pulse]. tō-liông-siok, bék-sú-chek, the six grains.

siok [R. to shrink in, to draw back]. lím-tín thòe-siok, to desert or run away in battle (said of a man drawing back in fear from a dangerous affair just when it comes to the point).

siok [R. respectful; retiring; = col. sok]. kam-siok, Kan-suh province. siok-chêng (R.), = sok-chêng, quiet.

siok (R. id.), one of the Three Kingdoms (sam-kok). siok-chiu (R.), the city Suh-chau-foo, in Sze-chuen province. siok-gim, fine flowered silk from Suh-chau in Sze-chuen.

siok [R. ripe; well cooked; intimate; = col. sêk, sek], (also C., = A. sêk, ripe, &c.) sêng-siok, to grow ripe, as growing grain or fruit. koân-siok (P. koân-sêk), experienced, so as to be able to do a thing; skilful from habit (s. belong). siok-tê, a medicine (v. tê).

siok [previous word? following word?]. khò-siok, very free and easy in dispensing with ceremony, gen. with intimate friend; sometimes too free and easy. khè-siok (Cn.), id. thò-siok (C.), id. (C. also khò-siok).

siok [R. usual; customs; cheap; vulgar; = col. siòh], (P. sêk, siòh), cheap; low-priced. siok-siok-hiàu, to sell off at a great sacrifice.

siok-ke, all persons except Buddhist celibates. koh-siok-ke, to cease being a Buddhist priest.

chhè-siok, vulgar in appearance or manner. chhè-siok-mih, common, cheap, inferior articles of food. put-siok, superior to the common average of men. seng-sêng put-siok, having a noble appearance; much superior to that of most men. iá-siok, rude and uncultivated. iông-hu siok-tsú, a common rough-looking illiterate man.

siok-gú, a proverb; a phrase in common use; colloquial language. siok-gí (C.), id. siok-gú-òe, colloquial language.

siok-chêng, usual customs, as of a place. sè-siok (P. si-sêk), customs of the world, esp. idolatrous and superstitious. ok-siok, bad customs. hong-siok, customs. bin-hong thé-siok, ways and customs of place or people. siong-hong pài-siok, to corrupt and ruin the manners and customs of a place, as a very bad man or custom does. jip-hong súi-siok, jip-káng súi-oan, do at Rome as Rome does. chiông-siok, to follow the customs. khiok-ì chiông-siok, to follow the customs of a place against one's own desire. thoat-siok, very different from the generality of men, e.g. not following the usual customs, or not fawning like others on a powerful man, or having a specially fine personal appearance.

siok (R. id.), to belong; to belong to. siok-ti-goá, belongs to me. siok sim-mih<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to whom does it belong?

pē-siok, inferior officials of the supreme boards at Peking. ka-siok, wife and family. koân-siok, id. (s. ripe). hā-siok ê-lâng, people of very low or mean station, as coolies, beggars, &c. i--ê hā-siok, persons under his (a mandarin's) special control, as his soldiers and subordinate officers. siok-hā, inferior officers, soldiers, &c., over whom a mandarin has great power of control.

tsōe-siok, a crime.

siok (R. id.), to ransom; to redeem; to make atonement or satisfaction for. siok-tò-tig, to ransom; to redeem. siok-hòe, id. chhú-siok, id. chhi-siok (C.), id. siok-sin, to redeem a person, as from slavery, or from a bad house. siok-tsōe, to make atonement or satisfaction for guilt.

siok [R. continuous; connected in unbroken succession; = col. soà]. siok-hiên, a widower's second wife. siok-toân, a medicine (v. toân).

chiap-siok, in uninterrupted succession (v. chiap). liók-siok, in slow but steady succession; gradually till completed; in small quantities, but tolerably regular (as money or supplies of food), so as to avoid extreme want; in general, of moderate quality, not very good. liók-siok beh-hó, very nearly completed, as work. liók-siok chiū-hó, need not be very particular, e.g. write in an easy current hand without wearisome exactness. liók-siok-kóng, to tell in the general without the details. liók-siok-á-tsòe, to do work in a very gradual manner. liók-siok-á-thàn, earning little, but regularly. liók-siok-á-kàu, coming one by one (or so) till all arrive; not all at once. sún-siok, regular in time and quantity; good of its kind, according to pattern; all well made and of equally good quality, or of the same shape or sort. sún-sún siok-siok, id.; also, constant and regular in friendship without quarrelling; regular and well-behaved, as a boy; constant and steady, as gains in trade. bō-sún-siok, crotchety or of peculiar temper, as man fond of going contrary to others' wishes, or sometimes pleased, sometimes angry; not equal in quality, as a lot of articles which should be all alike. sé-kiā<sup>n</sup> sún-siok, regular, steady, and reliable in conduct. khang-khè tsòe-sún-siok, having work from day to day; never long out of work. hē-tsúi sún-siok, rain in due season as needed, and just in suitable quantity. iáu-kú sún-siok, all going on well in family and business. jín-sū sún-siok, all one's affairs (in family and business) prosperous, without any death or considerable loss or calamity.

siong (R. id., = col. sa<sup>n</sup>, sio), (C. siang), mutually; but not always mutual. siong-hó, well acquainted; friendly. siong-chhú, id. (v. chhú). siong-sék, id. siong-ài, loving each other, esp. as man and wife. siong-sin, to trust (v. sin). siong-kèng, to treat with politeness or respect (v. kèng). siong-phòe, suiting well together, as furniture, &c. (v. phòe). siong-sū, extremely alike. siong-hòe, to meet together. siong-thoân, to hand down, as trade secrets (v. thoân). sè-tái siong-sêng, received from ancestors (v. sêng). iú-bū siong-thong, to have things in common; to share together (v. thong). lông-pòe siong-ì, two men supplying each other's deficiencies (v. pòe). khiok-ì siong-chiông, to follow another's will against one's own desires. biên-bien siong-koan, looking at each other, with no way to get out of the danger or difficulty.

tsū-siong bâu-tún, to contradict one's self.

bō-siong-kan, it is of no consequence; it does not concern (us), (v. kan).

siong (R. id., = col. siu<sup>n</sup>), (C. siang), to wound; to hurt; to injure; a wound. siong-hái, to injure; to hurt. bō-siong-gai, not injured or causing injury

叔

菽

縮

肅

蜀

熟

俗

屬

屬

屬

屬

屬

屬

屬

贖

續

續

續

續

續

續

續

相

相

相

相

相

傷

傷

(v. gāi). ōe-siong-bēng, deadly, as blow or poison. siong-hong pāi-siok, to ruin the morals of a place. khah-siong-pún, costing too much money. lō-bin siong-tsāi (R.), to oppress the people and waste their money. tòng-siong, to object to a house being built up because it would injure the Fung-shuy or good luck of another house or grave.

siong-hong, to have a cold. siong-sú (C. siang-sí), disease caused by the heat. siong-hân, having become ill from taking a cold or chill. siong-sit, hurt by over-eating, esp. child.

siong-tiông (C. id.), severe, as wound or disease; heavy, as price; serious or dangerous, as affair.

chek-siong, seriously ill from several days' over-exertion. lō-siong, consumption. lōe-siong, deep internal sickness. lōe-siong gōe-kám, predisposition to illness developed by taking a cold.

phah-siong, to wound by a blow or cut. tiòh-siong, wounded; to be wounded. tiòh-toā-siong, to be severely wounded. tāng-siong, severely wounded. tsng-siong, to wound one's self, as for begging, or in order to accuse another falsely. giām-siong, to examine a wound officially, as mandarin or coroner (v. giām). to-siong, wound by sword or knife. chhèng-siong, gun-shot wound. siong-hân, a scar or mark of a blow or bruise.

siong-sim, sad; deeply grieved for something past. siong-sim khé-thàng, sorely grieved, as at death of near relative. thōe-lí siong-sim, deeply grieved for you. ai-siong (r.), sorrowful. pi-siong, sad. siong-pi, id. khó-siong, to be lamented; alas! kièn-kéng siong-chèng, feeling of compassion caused by the sight of the case.

siong [R. a merchant; to consult], (C. siang). siong-liông, to consult together.

siong-tsūn, a trading junk; a merchant vessel. kau-siong, to have mercantile intercourse. kau-siong bóe-bōe, id.

hāng-siong, a great wholesale merchant, of a firm that sends tribute. toā-siong, a wholesale merchant (s. wound). toā-siong-kheh, a travelling merchant who deals in large quantities. sió-siong, a smaller merchant. kheh-siong, a travelling merchant (doing considerable business) coming from or going to a great distance. toā-kheh-siong, merchant trading thus to great distance with large capital. iām-siong, a salt contractor (v. iām). sū-lóng kong-siong, the four classes of men, literati, farmers, workmen, and traders.

siong [R. siông, the fir-tree, = col. chhèng, seng]. tē-siong (C.), = A. tē-seng, the evergreen fir. siong-gê (C.), id.

siông [R. the fir-tree, = col. chhèng, chêng, seng], (P. sêng). siông-ka, resin. siông-hiong (Cn.), id. siông-kē, a fungus that grows on roots of trees.

gê-siong, Woo-sung. siông-kang, Sung-kiang-foo. siông-khe, a sort of tea (v. khe).

tē-siong-á (C.), sort of small shrub.

siông [R. to examine minutely; to inform a superior; details or particulars; minutely], (C. siàng). siông-sè, minutely; circumstantially; with minute detail. un-jiū siông-sè, gentle and cautious. siông-sè-tsai, to understand fully and minutely. siông-sè séng-chhat, to examine minutely into a matter. i-ê siông-sè, its minute details. chhim-ti ki-siông, intimately acquainted with the matter, or with one's character and history.

chham-siông, to consult together; to deliberate carefully together. sim-siông, very careful and minute, as in managing a matter or investigating an affair (said either of an official or of a private person). tiòh khah-sim-siông, should be more minute and careful.

thong-siông, to send information, as one mandarin to another. siông-bún, an inferior mandarin sending a despatch to his superior, giving an account of a matter. siông hē-chiū<sup>n</sup>-si-tsai, id. beh-siông-i, will send information to the superior officer.

siông [R. usual, = col. siū<sup>n</sup>, siô, chhiàng], (C. siàng), usually. siông-siông, usually; generally. siông-si, id. pún-siông-si, id., only of past time. sè-siông, id., of past time. sim-siông (R. id.) pèng-siông, common; usual; ordinary; mediocre. pèng-siông ê-lâng, an ordinary sort of man, not above the average. hui-siông, extraordinary; uncommon. chiàu-siông, in the usual manner. siông-ēng, in constant use. siông-siū<sup>n</sup>, always thinking about —. khah-siông-kóng, more commonly said.

hoán-siông, to change from friendship to enmity, or from virtue to vice. hoán-siông ê-lâng, a man who does so. hoán-siông beh-si, changing from friendship to great enmity, or from good conduct to great wickedness (said in scolding), because people are supposed to change so when near death. hoán-hok bú-siông, fickle in regard to friendship or to promises; saying the very opposite at different times. hoán-bin bú-siông, fickle; ungrateful; readily getting angry or changing from affection to unfriendliness for slight causes. hoán-biēn bú-siông, id.

ngé-siông, the five cardinal virtues, = jin-gī lé-ti-sin, kindness, justice, propriety, wisdom, and truthfulness. sam-kong ngé-siông, the three headships (sovereign, father, husband), and the five virtues. kong-siông (R.), id.

siông-san, a medicine (v. san).

siông [R. the lady or goddess of the moon], (C. siàng). goát-lí siông-ngê, the beautiful lady in the moon; proverb for female beauty and elegance.

siông [R. to repay], (C. chhiàng). sat-jin siông-bēng, he who kills a man must make due reparation, usually by money, sometimes life for life.

siông — khí-siông, the tartar of the teeth. chhùi-khí-siông, id.

lâu-siông, slovenly, as person or room.

siông (R. id.), (C. siàng). siông-sūi, a good omen; good luck. kiet-siông jū-ì (C. kit-siàng jī-ì), may you have all good fortune up to your desires! (an auspicious phrase).

siông [R. to reward; a reward; to look at, = col. siū<sup>n</sup>], (C. siàng). siông-goán (R.), to look at, as a pleasant view. goán-siông (R.), id. siông-goát, (R.), to gaze at the bright moon.

khò-siông, to give a largess to soldiers after a victory (v. khò). kám-siông, an erroneous phrase (not Chinese), said by beggars to foreigners when asking alms, probably in imitation of the Canton-English "cumshaw," a corruption of "kám-siū," thankful.

siông [R. to think, = col. siū<sup>n</sup>], (C. siàng). i-siông put-kip, unexpectedly. liáu-siông put-tò, did not consider beforehand so far as that; had no idea the matter would go so far.

siông [R. id., by change of tone from siông, "mutual";—to look at; appearance; to lead or assist; prime ministers, = col. siū<sup>n</sup>], (C. siàng), to look at; appearance of countenance or of body; a likeness; a sort

商

松

詳

常

婦償

祥賞

想

相

of fortune-telling. sa<sup>n</sup>-siông, to look or gaze at each other. chiáh-pá sa<sup>n</sup>-siông, looking idly at each other after eating, having nothing to do. tùi-siông, looking intently at each other. tsu-tsu-siông, to gaze earnestly or intently at. tu-tu-siông, id. kim-kim-siông, id. bák-chiu siông, eyes gazing at —. bák-chiu teh-siông, id. lâm-siū-keng ê tái-chiông, chit-sien chiáh, sa<sup>n</sup>-sien siông, of the great idols at the “lâm-siū” temple, only one gets anything to eat (as he is counted the most powerful), while the other three only look on.

siông-ki-hōe, to watch for an opportunity. siông i-ê-phang, to watch for some fault or weak point about him, so as to attack him. siông-hō-phang, to watch for and take advantage of a break in the rain.

siông-miā, to tell fortunes by looking at the appearance of the face, and at one's general manner both in acting and resting. siông-sū, a man who tells fortunes by looking at one's appearance and manner. san-i-bêng pok-siông, geomancy, medicine, and the various sorts of divination. san-i-bêng pok-siông, ngé-phî, these are all subjects which are but superficially known. san-i-bêng pok-siông, chin-bat sî pòan-sien, he who knows them all is almost one of the geni.

siông-mau<sup>n</sup>, the appearance of the countenance. pièn-siông, changed to be unfavourable and unfriendly. hok-siông, fat good-looking appearance. phái<sup>n</sup>-siông, covetous; greedy; niggardly; e.g. refusing to pay though having money. kè-khūt-siông, said of man who will not associate with others. chien-kut-siông, appearance of meanness, e.g. rich man wearing ragged clothes, or guest refusing good accommodation (v. chiēn). thih-teng-siông, said of child that needs a beating (v. teng).

khioh-siông, to paint a likeness from life. ūi-siông, to paint likenesses, either large or small.

tsái<sup>n</sup>-siông, a prime-minister (there are two or more). sêng-siông, id. siông-iā, id. siông-kok, id. tsó-siông, Tartar prime-minister. iū-siông, Chinese prime-minister. jip-siông, to become a prime-minister. pài-siông, id. chiông-goân pài-siông, the senior wrangler of the Imperial Academy becoming also prime-minister. tī siông-kha, having almost reached the rank of prime-minister. chiông-siông, civil and military officials of the very highest rank.

siông [R. an elephant; form; shape; = col. chhiū<sup>n</sup>], (C. siāng, chhiāng), form or shape, as of man [some phrases of this and the following word are sometimes interchanged].

khì-siông, appearance and manner of a man, as indicating his feelings, emotions, intentions, or purpose, or as giving omens of good or bad fortune in divination; appearance of sky, as signs of weather. khò<sup>n</sup> i-ê khì-siông, observe his bearing, manner, and appearance, as to judge of his intentions.

thien-siông, any constellation or phenomenon (meteorological, astronomical, or astrological) in the sky or heavens, often in reference to weather (s. above). thi<sup>n</sup>-siông, id. koan thien-siông, to examine the heavenly bodies or atmospheric phenomena, either for the weather or for astrological or astronomical purposes. thi<sup>n</sup>-siông pièn-sek, weather gives signs of change to rain or wind. kéng-siông, any meteor or phenomenon in the sky, e.g. in reference to wind or weather.

siông [R. like; a likeness; a picture; an image; an idol; = col. chhiū<sup>n</sup>], (C. chhiāng, perhaps sometimes siāng). chhâ-siông, a wooden image. pūt-siông, an image or picture of an idol (properly Buddhist). sin-siông, image or picture of a god or idol. ngé-siông (R.), an image of an idol. ngió-siông (Cn.), id.

hêng-siông, form or shape of man [by some placed under the preceding word].

hip-siông, to take a photograph.

sù-put-siông, a fabulous monster of tremendous power, having head and body of the “ki-lin,” tail of the dragon, and feet of hó, pà, sai, chhiū<sup>n</sup>, respectively.

siông [R. to value; still; yet; to rule or control (used in some official titles); = col. siū<sup>n</sup>], (C. siāng). tùi-tū-goā siông-khiām, balance due. tùi-tū-goā siông-tsai, balance in hand.

siông-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, notwithstanding; even; very rarely used alone, almost always followed by “hó-hông,” “hông-kiam,” or some such phrase, making the sense “even . . . how much more,” e.g. the mandarin issues a proclamation, even (siông-chhiá<sup>n</sup>) the ignorant people obey: how much more (hó-hông) should the literati do so. i-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> siông-chhiá<sup>n</sup> m-ká<sup>n</sup>; bóh-kiòh lí-ká<sup>n</sup>, even his own son does not dare, how then dare you! siông-chhiá<sup>n</sup> bô-hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, yet after all he is not pleased (very rarely thus used in the concluding clause without an apodosis).

siông-kú, yet; notwithstanding; either a connective particle like “siông-chhiá<sup>n</sup>,” or in the sense of time (s. above). siông-kú bē, not yet, e.g. when waiting for one's turn. siông-kú tsá, it is still early. khùn kàu-jit-tàu, siông-kú m-khí-lái, having slept till noon, yet will not rise.

siông [R. above; to ascend; first-class; = col. chiū<sup>n</sup>, chhiū<sup>n</sup>, siū<sup>n</sup>, siāng], (C. siāng). siông-téng, first-class; best quality. siông-téng-siông, best of the first-class; superfine. siông-hó, best. siông-tiông-hā, first-class, medium, and inferior (v. hā). siông-kú, at the very longest of time (s. yet). siông-kang, best Congou. ki-siông-pék, superfine white grass-cloth.

siông-tè, God (v. tè). sèng-siông, the emperor. hông-siông, id. siông-jîn, official superiors of a mandarin. siông-không, to enter an accusation in a superior court, as an appeal against a lower. tsé-siông, ancestors.

put-siông-soàn, utterly useless, as man or thing (v. soàn). má-siông, immediately; just about to — (v. má).

siông-goân, the feast of lanterns on 1. 15. siông-hái, Shanghai. hông-tsoân lē-siông, Hades.

siông [R. to enter an accusation in court]. siông-kùn, a man who instigates to lawsuits (v. kùn). pau-lám sú-siông, to engage for a large sum of money to be responsible for the success of a lawsuit, taking the whole management of it on one's self; considered a great crime.

siông [R. to recite]. siông-keng, to recite prayers. siông-tsan (R.), to praise.

sip [R. sék, a vault or recess in a sepulchre]. sip-chhū, a small shed in which a coffined corpse is put till a lucky site and day are found for burial.

sip (R. id.), damp; moist. sip-khì, dampness. hong hân, sú sip, the four causes of disease: wind, cold, heat, and damp. sip-tâm, moist; damp; gathering moisture. sip-jūn, very slightly moistened by damp, as ground or other things. sip-lūn, id.

khì-sip, to heal a disease caused by damp; to cure dampness, as of a floor, &c. sò-sip, to suck up damp, as sawdust does. siu-sip, to remove moisture or damp,

尚

上

象

訟

誦
穿
濕

像

as by burning some drug, or by scattering sand or sawdust, &c.

sip [R. chhip, rain falling; cf. sap]. hē-á sip-sip, small gentle rain. sip-sip-á-tsuí, a small quantity of water, e.g. as in cooking.

sip [R. chhek, the knee; C. chhip]. hók-sip (C.), = A. hók-sek, ornaments for the knees.

sip [R. ten, = col. tsáp]. sip-hun-hó, the very best; very good. sip-ok, all sorts of wickedness (v. ok). ngé-sip-ki, the days ending in 5 or 0, e.g. 5, 10, 15, &c. sip-jí, the character "ten;" the figure of a perpendicular cross. sip-jí-kè, a cross for crucifixion. tèng sip-jí-kè, to crucify. phiah sip-jí-kè, id. sip-jí-koe, place where streets cross at right angles. sip-jí-ke (C.), id. sip-jí-lē, place where roads or streets cross at right angles. sip-jí-hè, tied with strings or ropes crossed (v. hè).

mē<sup>n</sup> sip-pat, a sort of gambling (v. pat).

sip [R. to gather with the hand; to pick up; the character is also used as an alternative form for "ten"]. siu-sip, to gather up, as things when preparing for a journey; to apprehend and give up to the authorities; to put in coffin and bury; to kill; to make away with, as a man (s. stone). khioh-sip, habitually careful and economical; gathering up and taking care of things so that nothing is wasted.

sip [R. sèk, a stone, = col. chiòh, siáh]. siu-sip-tan, sort of pill used for curing internal injuries caused by beating, vomiting of blood, &c. (said to be made from dried urine).

sip [R. to practise; practised; skilled]. hák-sip, to learn by study or by practice; to be practised or skilled at something. un-sip, to revise, as a lesson. kàu-sip, a drill-sergeant. sip-khi, the manners and customs of a place. ē-mng ê sip-khi, the customs and ways of Amoy. sip-koan sêng tsū-jiên, practice or habit becomes natural.

sip — sip-sip-háu, unpleasant sound of supping up things into the mouth with too much noise.

sip [R. to attack secretly and suddenly; hereditary; double], (C. sit). sè-sip (C. si-sit), hereditary; to inherit an office or title. sè-sip bóng-thè, perpetually hereditary. sè-sip iū-kek, the military rank of "iū-kek," held for five generations by descendants of distinguished mandarins. sè-sip siú-pi, rank of "siú-pi," similarly held for several generations.

sip (C. sit). tsáu-sip, to make a collection of elegant phrases from many sources, either for legitimate use in improving one's style, or for bad use, as for literary piracy.

sit [R. sek, pattern], (also C. in some phrases, = A. sek). háp-sit, fit; becoming. m-si-sit, state of matters very dangerous, e.g. going a road full of robbers; dangerous to deal with, as man not fit to be intrusted with money. sí-sit, fashionable form or shape. khoán-sit, form; model; pattern; sort; character.

sit (R. sek), to be extinguished, as fire, lamp, or candle (esp. Cn.; also used in A., but usually "hoa," which is the only word used in C.) hé sit, the fire has gone out. pún-sit-hé, to blow out a light with the breath. chhe-sit-hé, to blow out a light, as the wind does of itself. phah-sit, to extinguish; to quench. phah oh-tit-sit, difficult to quench. im-sit, to extinguish by covering up.

sit [R. sek, to rest; to cease; posterity; interest; to toil; to labour], (C. sit, sek; and sometimes C. sit, = A. sek).

siau-sit, news (s. ear-brush). siu<sup>n</sup>-sit (C.), id. thia<sup>n</sup> siau-sit, to hear news. thong siau-sit, to give news or information for any purpose, right or wrong.

iám-kí sit-ké, flags hid and drums silent, as in an ambush, or secret march or attack. an-sit (C.), = A. an-sek (v. sek).

lái-sit (C.), = A. li-sek, interest of money.

poá<sup>n</sup>-jít-sit, half a day's work. chit-kang poá<sup>n</sup>-sit, a very little labour. chit-tiám-sit, one-third of a day's work (v. tiám). tsòe sím-mih<sup>n</sup>-sit, what work do you do? lē-thâu-sit, work of carrying loads at the landing-places or jetties. gín-ná pán toā-lâng-sit, a child doing a man's work. tsoh-sit (Cn.), to do any sort of work (s. harvest).

sit [R. sek, harvest; grain ready to be reaped]. tsoh-sit, to till the ground (s. work).

sit-tiū<sup>n</sup>, cultivated fields.

sit — siau-sit, an ear-brush made with hair (s. news). siau-sit-kóng, a case for an ear-brush.

sit [R. sek, a house]. sit-á (C.), = A. sek-á, small lodgings at temples. tsái-sit-lí (C.), = A. tsái-sek-lú, a virgin.

sit [R. to lose; to fail; to mistake]. sit-lòh, to lose. sit-lòh-kha, to lose one's footing. sit-kha lòh-chhiú, to do a thing in a blundering way, as manual or literary work; to mismanage a matter. sit-chhiú, to cause injury by a slip of the hand. bé sit-tòe, the horse stumbles. sit-pit, to make a slip in writing. sit-siáu, to fail to put down in an account by mistake. sit-hé, to set on fire accidentally (s. extinguish).

sit-chhò, a mistake; a fault. sit-gē, a mistake; to make a mistake. kè-sit, a fault; a sin. kòe-sit (C.), id. sit-bê (R.), to lose one's way. bán bû-it-sit, not one mistake or fault in a myriad; no mistakes. giên to, pit-sit, in much talk there is sure to be some fault (v. to).

sit-sin, to break one's word; to betray one's trust. sit-tek, to lose one's virtue; to commit some great crime. sit-chit, to fail in duty. sit kiám-tiám, not to take sufficient care, as of things intrusted (v. kiám). sit-lé, to be unpolite; I beg your pardon for my want of politeness. sit-gí, to fail in the ceremony due to a superior. sit-pòe, excuse me; beg pardon (said on leaving company or on refusing to eat something offered). sit--lâng, intentionally treat a man unpolitely in order to show one's feelings.

sit-sim, mad; idiotic; insane. sit-sín, utterly dispirited, depressed, exhausted, or stupefied (v. sín). sit-tá<sup>n</sup>, to lose courage. sit-hèng, dispirited; having lost heart (v. hèng). sit-i, dejected, as about some important matter. sit-chí, in very low spirits; without resolution. phah-sit lêng-ê-chí, to make a man lose heart.

sit-sí, to be out of season or out of fashion; to have no employment or way of livelihood; (to miss the proper time or opportunity?). sit-tsúí, to have too little water, as plant or field. sit-sek, to lose colour, as face. sit-bí, turned in taste, as meat too long kept. sit-tāng, to lose weight. sit-hong, to lose prestige. sit-ài, to be less loved (as child) than a more favoured one. sit-siu, to have an inferior harvest. sit-sia<sup>n</sup>, to lose voice. iau-ki sit-tng, hungry from want of a meal or meals. sit-phio, to lose a pawn-ticket (v. phio). khah-sit-ah, strike very gently with the oar held in the right hand (v. ah).

sit-tsú, the man whose property has been stolen.

海
膝 十

拾

石
習

龍 衣

龍 衣 式

熄

息

穡
窳
室
失

sit-jit, eclipse of the sun. sit-géh, eclipse of the moon. géh sit, the moon is eclipsed.

sit-khì, to lose one's good luck, influence, prestige, or prosperity; to become weak in health; to grow poor or powerless from state of wealth or influence. sit-khì, to faint away; to swoon. hūn-lūn sit-lit-khì, id.

sí-sit, loss by death, as of relatives. sún-sit, to become fewer by death, as inhabitants of village or members of family. sūng-sit, to lose, as things spoiled or taken away. súi<sup>n</sup>-sit (C.), id. sit-teng, to lose male children or young men. sit-tūi, to lose husband, or wife, or mate. sit-sū, to be wrecked, as vessel; to meet with disaster, as expedition or enterprise. seng-lí lóng-sit (C.), the trade quite gone down.

tit-sit, to gain or lose. kià-tit, put-kià-sit, people intrust things to be kept, not to be lost. kià-tek, put-kià-sit, id. tek-sit, to gain or lose. m̄-kià<sup>n</sup> tek-sit, not afraid to make the venture. tek-sit bō-kià<sup>n</sup>, id. m̄-ài tek-sit-lâng, very careful to avoid giving offence to any party by word or action, often keeping neutral.

sit [R. to eat; food; = col. chiáh]. hó-chiáh-sit, good living; good food. ū-chiáh-sit, to live on good food. hé-sit (T. hō-sék), provisions; food (said in relation to those who eat it, as to numbers or payment). hé-sit-chi<sup>n</sup>, money paid for food. kap-goán siang-hé-sit, taking his meals regularly with us. hé-sit-tū, a cupboard. sit-tū, id. jit-sit (T. jit-sék), daily food. jit-sit lân-tē, have difficulty in earning daily food. ím-sit, food and drink; eating and drinking. ím-sit hó, plenty of good things to eat and drink. i-sit chhiong-chiok, food and clothing sufficient. pién-sit, sort of tart made of minced meat wrapped up in a flour-cake. pán-sit (C.), id. péng-sit (T.), id. pién-sit-phê, thin cake of unbaked flour ready for wrapping up meat.

háp-sit, to take meals together. lēng-ke kok-sit, to make arrangements to have meals separate (v. lēng). keh-sit, a severe chronic disease in which one is unable to swallow food (cancer in stomach?). siong-sit, hurt by over-eating, esp. child. sit-chek, id. (v. chek). tsō-sit san-pheng, by idleness and eating a whole mountain (of money) is wasted. siá-bēng, sit hô-tūn, said of throwing away one's life for good eating.

sit-té (Cn.), = pak-té, the belly.

sit (R. êk), a wing; a fin. chiáu-sit, a bird's wing. sit-ké, a wing. sit-ké-mûg, wing feathers. sit-ké-oan, bends and windings, as of a crooked road. koe-sit-ké-oan, id. sit-ké-bé ta-li, getting on well alone and not now needing help from parents, &c. sit-ké-ê, under the wings, e.g. as chickens. sit-ê, id. hi-sit, fins, especially pectoral. soa-sit, shark's fins, edible. ŋg-sit-á (T.), a sort of small fish.

iap-sit, small houses, often mere sheds, built on to the side houses (hō-lēng) of a large Chinese house. iap-sit-á, id.

phah-sit, to flap the wings. lāng-sit, to shake the wings. chhng-sit, to dress the wings with the bill. thién-sit, to spread the wings. thí-sit, id. lēng-sit, to clip the wings of a living bird. bán-sit, to pluck out the wing feathers. chhoah-sit, id.

sit (R. id.) khiàm-sit, a sort of medicinal plant (v. khiàm).

sit [R. to waste away gradually; to be eclipsed, = col. sh]. sit-jit (r.), = sit-jit, eclipse of sun. sit-géh (r.), = sit-géh, eclipse of moon.

sit — ui-sit, prospering very much through some lucky influence, as a house or grave that is very auspicious, or as a man who has good fortune; giving a good omen, or causing great prosperity. bō-ui-sit, having an unlucky influence, e.g. to assist at a stranger's funeral, or to help in arranging a widow's second marriage.

sit [R. true; full; solid; fruit], true; solid; closely packed or pressed; nett. hu-sit, hollow and solid; false and true. hi-sit (C.), id. thàm-hu-sit, to investigate whether it be true or false, as a report or state of an affair.

bák-sit, very much or numerous (only said of things, esp. a great deal for a little money). bát-sit, id. tsát-sit, tightly pressed in. sit-tōe, solid ground.

kiet-sit, neatly and tightly tied or made up, as a thing; real and certain, not empty pretence, as words or affair; also (R.), to produce fruit.

thiáp-sit, neatly put up; neatly laid in order; not taking up too much room, as multum in parvo; well-behaved. kui-kú thiáp-sit, well-behaved. thiáp-kut-sit (Cn. T.), well-behaved. táh-kut-sit (T.), id.; very proper and regular in behaviour; honest; quiet and not fond of display.

phoh-sit, simple, plain, and quiet in taste, as to dress, manner, &c.; not fond of display. phak-sit, id. phok-sit, honest, straightforward, and simple in tastes (v. phok). tok-sit (r.), simple-minded, honest, sincere.

chēng-sit, nett, in weight, quantity, &c. sit-lāi, interior size, as length of room or house within the walls. sng-sit--ê, counting nett, as gains, &c. tū-sit, nett, as weight, measure, &c.

chin-sit, true. sin-sit, true in fact. láu-sit, honest, truthful, as man. sēng-sit (r.), id. khak-sit, worthy of trust, as man or facts. chhiet-sit, just as it should be, according to pattern or promise; thoroughly truthful, honest, and safe, as man or word. sit-sim, true in heart, sincere. sit-i, id. bō-sit, without truth or reality; insincere. sit-sit-bō, certainly not. sit-tsāi, truly; really. tek-sit, truly. chiáu-sit-kóng, speak truly. kí-sit, in reality; the truth of the matter. tiók-sit, the facts or real circumstances of the matter. chiák-sit (C.), id. sit-kū, evidence good, true, and sufficient for the purpose. sim-sit, to examine judicially into the truth of a case, as mandarin. tsa-sit, to find out the truth by investigation. khēng-sit, id. ū-jip-sit, truthful, honest, or safe, as man or affair. bō-jip-sit, not to be trusted.

sit-jim, office actually his own (not merely "sū," acting temporarily; nor mere titular or brevet rank). sit-siū, id.

sit — m̄-sit, acting as an impostor (v. m̄).

sit [R. —; A. sip; C. sit, to attack secretly; hereditary, &c]. si-sit (C.), = A. sè-sip, hereditary.

sit (same as above?). tsáu-sit (C.), = A. tsáu-sip, copying the phrases of others, as for literary piracy or other purposes.

sit [R. id., mere imitation of the sound]. sit-lát, Singapore (v. lát).

siu (R. id.), to repair; to reform; to mend. siu-lí, to repair. siu-chéng, to repair; to mend; to put in order, tidy up, or make neat, as a place. siu-pi<sup>n</sup>, to make level, as road. siu-lē, to repair a road. siu-kió, to repair a bridge. siu-thióng, to repair graves in a burying-ground.

siu-siah, to pare down smooth; to alter slightly, as a document. siu kha-lan, to cure corns.

食

翼

菁
蝕

實

實
修

toā-siu, a very thorough repair, as of a boat once in three years.

siu-sim, to reform and regulate the heart. siu-sin (R.), to be correct in conduct. siu-hēng, to reform and cultivate morality (Buddhist phrase). siu-liēn, to reform and cultivate morality and virtue (Taoist phrase). liēn-tan siu-tō, to follow Taoist rules so as to become one of the Sien or immortals. siu-siēn, to reform and cultivate virtue. siu im-cheh, to practise meritorious works.

siu [R. dried meat; to repair; the previous word is often used instead of this].

sok-siu, a teacher's salary.

siu [R. chhiu, autumn]. siu-sip-tan, a sort of pill (v. sip, "stone").

siu [R. to be ashamed, = col. siáu]. lāu-put-siu, you old shameless wretch!

siu [R. siū, to receive]. kim-sì tsòe, kim-sì siu, actions recompensed in this life (v. sì).

siu [R. siau, to melt; to spend; to reduce or remove; to shrink].

siu-sip, to remove dampness, as by sand, sawdust, or other means (v. sip). siu-tsú, to dry gradually, as damp article when aired. siu-tók, to remove poison, as cockroach, &c.

siu-phí, scab formed on a wound. siu-chhùi, edges of wound closed. siu-kien, scab forming.

siu (R. id.), to take in, collect, or receive, as money, clothes, &c.; to lay away; to make a retreat; to coffin or bury; to take one's female slave to be concubine. siu-khí-lâi, said of a master taking his female slave to be his concubine. siu-khì, to lay away; to lay past. siu-khng, to lay past; to hide or conceal, as men or things. siu-liu, to take in, collect, receive, bury, &c. siu-liú, to receive and entertain in one's house, as a person, as guest or lodger. siu-sa<sup>n</sup>, to take in clothes, as for washing.

siu-tê, to buy up tea where it is grown.

siu-sip, to gather up and put away; to deliver over to the authorities, &c. (v. sip).

siu-kun (to withdraw the army), to make a retreat. siu-peng, id. siu-tú, do., as troops after drill.

siu-soah, to wind up an affair all right. siu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id. siu-sū, to wind up and settle an affair for another, as an arbiter or a superior relative. bōe-siu--tit, cannot be recalled, as word once spoken. tsúí phoah-lòh-tōe, lân siu-tit-khì, the thing is done now and cannot be mended (v. phoah).

siu-sēng, to take in the harvest; to wind up a trading business (not from failure).

siu-tang, to take in or gather the harvest. gē-kak ū-siu, to have a good harvest. kúí-hun-siu, how many tenths of a fair average harvest? sit-siu, to have an inferior harvest. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang sit-siu, id. chhut-siu, harvest much above the average. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang put-chí chhut-siu, extremely good harvest. hó-siu, good harvest. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang hó-siu, id. ni<sup>n</sup>-tang hó-siu, chiáu-á chiáh joā-tsōe, when the harvest is good the birds eat a good deal; willing to give some money to help when getting good profits.

siu-liám, to coffin. siu-liám (C.), id. siu-bâi, to bury. siu á-bê, is he buried yet?

siu-ka<sup>n</sup>, to put in prison. siu-lòh-ka<sup>n</sup>, id. siu-koán, to put in the less uncomfortable prison (from "koán," a public office or prison).

siu-koán, to have the management, as of a property, or have the care of a thing for another (from "koán," to rule). kau-lí siu-koán, I give it over to your charge.

siu-chi<sup>n</sup>, to collect money; to receive payments, as of subscriptions or debts. siu-siáu, to collect debts. siu-tse, to collect rent of land. siu-sè, to collect house-rent. siu-iēn, to collect subscriptions. siu chi<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to collect land-tax. siu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to receive earnest-money. goán-siu chhut-tsún, the balance in one's own books. siu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a receipt, as for money or goods. hō-siu (f.), a receipt for customs; this and the following phrases are used in the foreign customs. chhut-kháu hō-siu (f.), export duty receipt. jip-kháu hō-siu (f.), import duty receipt. poà<sup>n</sup>-sè hō-siu (f.), coast-trade duty receipt for half-duty paid.

khang-chhiú siu toa<sup>n</sup>-to, said of doing business with almost no capital (v. to, "sword").

siu-sok, gradually tapering. siu pui-thâu, to build up the tapering gable-end.

siú (R. id.), to swim. siú-tsú, id. gâu-siú, good at swimming.

siú [R. an enemy; to revenge; deep enmity]. kiú-siú, an enemy. siú-jín, id. chhim-siú, very deep settled enmity. kiet oan-siú, to be at open feud (v. oan). pò-siú, to revenge one's self; to take vengeance. kong-pò su-siú, to take private revenge under guise of public justice.

siú [R. to imprison; a prisoner]. siú-kim (R.), to imprison. ka<sup>n</sup>-siú, a prisoner. siú-hoán (r.), id. sin-siú, a recent prisoner. kū-siú, a prisoner who has been several years in prison. kū-siú chiáh sin-siú, said of partners in trade living on each other. sin-siú chiáh kū-siú, id.

siú [R. to return thanks; to recompense; to invite a guest to drink]. èng-siú, to hold mutual intercourse by giving and receiving presents, or by ceremonious visits, &c.

siú (R. id., = col. chiú), to hold fast, as a duty; to observe, as a command or ceremony; to keep, as a city or fort. siú-sēng, careful of one's property; well-behaved. siú-hoat, to be of good behaviour; to keep the laws or proper rules. siú-hūn, to do one's duty (v. hūn). siú-kí, to restrain one's self from evil. an-hūn siú-kí, to keep to one's duty and restrain one's self from evil. siú-kí an-hūn, id.

chip-siú, to keep, as a command. kè-siú, to guard or watch carefully, as house or fields. khàn-siú, to watch over and take care of, e.g. as tē-pó over a ward. tín-siú, to guard, as a high mandarin guards a city. pé-siú, to guard, as against attack, as soldiers.

siú-pí, a military officer between tē-si and chhien-tsóng, about lieutenant-major. siá<sup>n</sup>-siú, the mandarin who commands the garrison of a Foo city; the garrison of it. siú-siá<sup>n</sup>, to guard a city. siú-peng, soldiers who do garrison work.

siú [R. the head, = col. chhiú], classifier of songs, odes, or hymns. póng-siú, highest name on the list of new graduates of any degree. kai-siú-thâu, the head of the beggars. bān-ok, ím ūi-siú, adultery is the greatest of all crimes.

chhiòng-siú, to raise a question or begin a discussion, &c. ūi-siú ūi-bí, afraid to see a person or to meddle in a matter (lit. afraid of beginning and end).

si-siú, a corpse. hō-siú, sort of trumpet with curved end.

siú-sek, ornaments for the head. siú-khip, a head that has been cut off (said in speaking of the number beheaded). siú-kip, id. tsám-siú, to behead. kam-

脩
秋
羞 受
消
收

泗
讎

囚

酬

守

首

tsám-siú, a small officer who sees that the beheading takes place. siú- $\sigma$ , a plant used as a medicine for making hair black. tùn-siú pài (R.), to bow the head in worship or reverence.

siú [R. the hand; the arm; = col. chhiú]. tsú-siú, a sailor. hong-siú, a murderer. to-pé-siú, an executioner. kù-tsú-siú, id. phàu-siú, artillerymen. chhèng-siú, id. su-siú, a writer in a mandarin's office.

siú-chiok (R.), hands and feet (v. chiok). pèk-siú sèng-ka, from poverty become rich. hùt-siú-kam, the fingered citron.

siú [R. id., by change of tone from "siú," the head]. chhut-siú, to give information against a man, as informer or as king's-evidence.

siú (R. chhiàu? siàu? = col. siò), a scabbard; a sheath for a knife. to-siú, id., for sword or knife.

siú — kiuh-siú-á, a small poignard carried concealed for assassination. kiáh kiuh-siú-á sa<sup>n</sup>-tsân, to be at mortal feud with each other.

siú [R. a constellation; by change of tone from "siok," to rest; to lodge; a constellation]. chhi<sup>n</sup>-siú, the stars and constellations. jī-sip-pat-siú, the twenty-eight great constellations, or zodiacal signs, used for the days of the cycle (not lunar) of twenty-eight days or four weeks; of these, pōng, hu, báu, sèng, always fall on our Sunday.

siú (R. id.), a quadruped; a wild beast. liók-siú, six animals specially propitiated (by Taoist priests) when building a house. siú-lūi, quadrupeds, esp. wild beasts. iá-siú, wild quadrupeds. niá<sup>n</sup>-siú (R.), birds and beasts. khim-siú, birds and beasts. pe-khim tsáu-siú, id. hui-khim tsó-siú, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-khim iá-siú, wild birds and beasts. soa<sup>n</sup>-khim iá-siú liók-thiok, birds and beasts wild and tame. gū-bé khim-siú, you brute! (said in scolding). i-koan khim-siú, a mandarin or graduate behaving like a brute, wickedly or very lasciviously. jin-bien siú-sim, man's face but brute's heart. jin-bin siú-sim, id. lóng put-lóng, siú put-siú, very miserable and unfit for work.

siú-bin, the flat front of a boat; sometimes it has a beast's face painted on it.

siú [R. to embroider]. chhiah-siú, to embroider (v. chhiah). siú-hoe, to embroider. siú kim-hoe, to embroider in gold, as flowers, &c. siú-teng-hoe, embroidered flowers on the gauze frame of a lamp. siú-kiú-teng, a lamp made to roll along when lighted. gim-siú, embroidered silk (v. gim). sù-khai-siú, square pattern on dress of military mandarin.

siú-chiam, a needle for embroidery. siú-chièn, small scissors, such as milliners use. siú-soà<sup>n</sup>, thread for embroidery. siú-pāng, a shop for embroidery, &c.; a room in a house where the young girls of the family sew, and where the women have undisturbed privacy. siú-pāng-lāi, in that private room (said of a young girl). toà--tī siú-pāng-tóe, said of a married woman who keeps too much secluded.

siú [R. id. by change of tone from "siú," to guard; also written with "siú," to hunt]. sūn-siú (R.), to make a tour of inspection through the empire, as the ancient emperors did. tai-thien sūn-siú, to make inspection instead of Heaven, said of the idol óng-iá.

siú [R. elegant; accomplished; = col. siàu]. iú-siú, delicate (not coarse); elegant; refined; polite. tsùn-siú, good-looking, as person. chheng-siú, polite and refined in appearance; rather thin, elegant, and nice-looking. siú-khì, elegant; refined; finely formed; said of men or things. siú-bē (R.), luxuriant and graceful in form, as plant (v. bē).

siú-tsái, a graduate of the Sew-tsai degree, the first that is taken, somewhat like B.A., but more like passing civil service examination.

siú [R. sleeves; cuffs]. siú-kháu, cuffs, as of a coat. chhiú-siú, mitts, without fingers, for men, worn on the wrist; warm under-sleeves about a foot long, that slip under the cuffs of a dress. íng-siú, do., for women. thong-siú, hands put into the sleeves of the other hand. chhiú thong-siú, id., = nng-chhiú thong-siú, = siang-chhiú thong-siú. khong-siú (C.), id.

siú (R. id.), long life; longevity. siú-goân, id. siú-goân tng, having great longevity. bō-siá<sup>n</sup>-siú-goân, not at all long-lived. hē-siú, length of life. tng-hē-siú, long life. chiah tng-hē-siú, to live long. té-hē-siú, short life. kiám hē-siú, to have one's life shortened by Heaven on account of wickedness. thi<sup>n</sup> hē-siú, idolatrous rites for long life, at temple of Sèng-hōng. thiam hē-siú, id. thiam-siú, may you have long life! (v. thiam). iáu-siú, very short life (v. iáu). tióng-siú, long life. tióng-siú-hiu<sup>n</sup>, long sticks of incense, burned on birth-day. tióng-siú-seng, the star of longevity. siú-sè, the appointed length of one's life. siú-sè kai-chin, the fated time of life having come to an end, one must die. hù-kui tsái-tsú-siú, rank, wealth, posterity, and longevity. hok-lók-siú, good fortune, official rank, and longevity (v. hok).

sèng-siú, the emperor's birth-day. sèng-siú-hi, plays on that day. bān-siú, the emperor's birth-day. bān-siú-keng, the temple where the emperor's tablet is worshipped. bān-siú-tèng, a temporary shrine where the emperor is worshipped on his birth-day. bān-siú-pi<sup>n</sup>, temporary stage at yamun gate for plays on emperor's birth-day. bān-siú-kek, the marigold. bān-siú-pú, the papaya.

chiok-siú, to call or send cards or presents to a man on his birth-day, with good wishes for his long life. hō-siú, to give presents or pay for a play for a man on his birth-day. pài-siú, to make a congratulatory visit to a man on his birth-day. loán-siú, sons and daughters in-law visiting the father on the evening before his birth-day. joán-siú (C.), id. (?) siú-ku, large turtle-shaped cakes, used on birth-days.

tāi-siú, a full-length portrait or picture. ūi tāi-siú, to paint or draw a full-length portrait. khioh tāi-siú, id. from life.

siú-pán, a coffin made for one's self during life, as by one's own directions, or by children. siú-i, grave-clothes prepared beforehand for parents. siú-hék, grave prepared before death. siú-té, a scroll picture with the character "siú" on it. siú-kim, idolatrous paper with the character "siú" on it. in-siú-kim, to print such paper.

siú-bi, a sort of tea (v. bí).

siú [R. to give; to give over or transmit; = col. siū<sup>n</sup>]. siú-chheh, to give out a lesson. ték-siú--ê, appointed to an office to hold it as his own for three years; office of Tau-tai and upwards thus given only by the supreme board of office; but lower offices may be given by the governor-general. sit-siú, id.

thoán-siú, to hand down, as traditions or instructions.

siú (R. id.), to receive; to accept; to endure, as punishment or calamity. sèng-siú, to accept; to

手

首
鞘
首
宿

獸

繡
綉守
狩

秀

袖

壽

授

受

receive. sin-siū (C.), id. hióng-siū, to enjoy, as good fortune. jím-siū, to endure patiently (v. jím). niá<sup>n</sup>-siū (r.), to receive.

siū-tsōe, to receive the punishment of guilt (v. tsōe). siū-hāi, to suffer injury done by another man. siū-khé, to suffer misery or calamity. siū-tsai, to meet with calamity (v. tsai). siū-sí, to suffer violent death. siū-un, to receive grace or favour. siū-thai, to become pregnant; to conceive.

siū — siū-khì, anger; to be angry; to be angry at —. siū-khì siū-toah, in a passion (v. toah). siū-khì tiu<sup>n</sup>-toah, sulkily refusing or pretending dislike (v. toah). siū-khì kàu iô-thâu poá<sup>n</sup>-hì, all shaking with violent rage.

siū (= siō). gūn-siū, a strong box for conveying silver.

siū [R. a cave or den in a mountain], a nest; a den; a kennel. chiáu-siū, a bird's nest. koe-siū, a hen's nest. koe-bú-siū, a low spur of a hill, with a somewhat flat top and a depression (like a nest) on it; name of a village in such a situation. phang-siū, a nest of bees or wasps (v. phang). péh-hiá-siū, a nest of white ants. káu-siū, a dog's kennel. niáu-chhú-siū, a rat's nest.

chhát-siū, a den of robbers; a stronghold of rebels.

chiap āu-siū, said of a virgin marrying a widower.

siū [R. the cord or girdle by which a seal (esp. an official seal) is tied on the person]. in-siū (R.), official seals and girdle of mandarin.

siū<sup>n</sup> (R. sióng), a box; a trunk. chhâ-siū<sup>n</sup>, a wooden box or trunk. bih-siū<sup>n</sup>, bamboo box or trunk. phê-siū<sup>n</sup>, leather do. pí<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, a broad, flat, shallow box. siū<sup>n</sup>-láng, boxes and wicker-work baskets. chit-khia-siū<sup>n</sup>, one box or trunk. chit-kha-siū<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. thê-siū<sup>n</sup>, an opium-box; the wood of it is bad.

tū siū<sup>n</sup>-khak, to take off so much for the weight of the box, as tare and tret.

hì-siū<sup>n</sup>, a man who spends much money on plays and actors, esp. on one particular company, making friends with the actors, esp. with the young men who represent the female parts. tsòe hì-siū<sup>n</sup>, to act so, sometimes with the idea of sodomy. tsòe hit-pi<sup>n</sup> ê-siū<sup>n</sup>, to doat upon that company of actors.

siū<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) han-tsū-siū<sup>n</sup>, a long potato-bed.

siū<sup>n</sup> (C.) siū<sup>n</sup>-sit, = A. siau-sit, news (v. sit).

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, the two houses at the side of a large Chinese house; suburbs]. se-siū<sup>n</sup>, books of stories or dramas about the T'ang dynasty.

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, mutual, = col. sa<sup>n</sup>, siō]. siū<sup>n</sup>-si, deeply enamoured of some special person (counted disgraceful), (s. shrub). siū<sup>n</sup>-si-pi<sup>n</sup>, sick and wasting away through ungratified passion for another.

siū<sup>n</sup> (same word?). siū<sup>n</sup>-si, a sort of shrub (v. si), (s. mutual).

siū<sup>n</sup> (R. sióng), to inlay; to sew on an ornamental border on a dress, leaving a small margin of the original stuff at the edge, just as in inlaying. siū<sup>n</sup>-kim, to inlay with gold. siū<sup>n</sup>-gūn, to inlay with silver. siū<sup>n</sup>-gék, to inlay with jade-stone. siū<sup>n</sup>-kí<sup>n</sup>, to sew on an ornamental border (of different colour) near the edge of a dress. siū<sup>n</sup>-ôe, do. on shoes. siū<sup>n</sup>-kún, to put on such an ornamental border either (kún) at the very edge or (siū<sup>n</sup>) a little way in from the edge (s. too much).

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, to injure; to hurt], too —; too much — (only used in combination).

tiòh-siū<sup>n</sup>, wounded; to be wounded.

siū<sup>n</sup>-tsōe, too many. siū<sup>n</sup>-kún, too hot, as liquid (s. inlay). siū<sup>n</sup>-tāng, too heavy. siū<sup>n</sup>-tsá, too early (&c. &c.) khah-siū<sup>n</sup> —, too —; too much — (only in combination).

siū<sup>n</sup> — iu<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, to treat with great kindness and care; to take in a man, boarding, lodging, and treating him kindly, till he is able to shift for himself; to take great care of a child, pleasing it and keeping it in good temper.

siū<sup>n</sup>, watery matter from a wound; soft slimy dirt. lâu-siū<sup>n</sup>, to suppurate soft slimy matter. lâu lāng-siū<sup>n</sup>, id. tāg-á-siū<sup>n</sup>, mucous discharge in dysentery. thê-siū<sup>n</sup>, soft mud, as on sea-beach. chiū<sup>n</sup>-chiū<sup>n</sup> siū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, softened and spoiled by damp. iū<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup> siū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, growing soft or sticky with damp, as sweetmeats, coagulated jellies, and such eatables (s. common).

bé-láh-siū<sup>n</sup>, the dust, &c., that comes off a moth or such insect when touched.

pui<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup> (C.), the juice of the "png" tree, used for mixing with incense.

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, common; usual; = col. siō, chhiāng]. pí<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, commonplace; just tolerable; not very good. iū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup> (C. ióng-siō), rather dull, slow, and mediocre in ability; without animation or temper.

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, to reward; to gaze at with admiration and delight], to reward; to bestow, as a reward; a reward.

siū<sup>n</sup>-hoe, to admire flowers. siū<sup>n</sup>-gêh, to gaze at the bright moon. siū<sup>n</sup>-teng, to go about looking at the lamps on the Feast of Lanterus.

siū<sup>n</sup>-sù, to bestow (as a superior), esp. as a reward. pò-siū<sup>n</sup> (r.), to reward. khò-siū<sup>n</sup>, to give rewards to soldiers after a victory. thó-siū<sup>n</sup>, to ask a gratuity in addition to wages, e.g. as chair-bearers. siá-siū<sup>n</sup>, to give thanks for a present, as actors and mandarins' servants do. siū<sup>n</sup> téng-tài, to reward by giving official rank (military) and button. siū<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to give money as a reward. siū<sup>n</sup>-gūn, id., silver. siū<sup>n</sup> gūn-pái, to reward with a medal.

siū<sup>n</sup>-lién, to grant a favour to a third party out of respect for the person who asks it for him.

siū<sup>n</sup>-thiap, a placard or advertisement offering a reward for something lost. siū<sup>n</sup>-keh, a notice offering a reward for capture of criminal. siū<sup>n</sup>-kip, id. chhut siū<sup>n</sup>-kip, to issue such a notice.

hó-hiū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup> (esp. T.), good position and direction of grave or house for good fortune (v. hiū<sup>n</sup>).

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, = col. siū<sup>n</sup>, to think]. su-siū<sup>n</sup> (R.), to consider; to meditate.

siū<sup>n</sup> — khòá--liáu bô-niū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, it seems much smaller than was expected. thêh--liáu bô-niū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, taking it up it seems much smaller or lighter than was supposed. tsú--liáu bô-niū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, shrinking to very small bulk in cooking, as vegetables, or as watered meat. chiáh--liáu bô-niū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, not satisfying hunger at all, as cakes or sweetmeats.

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, dried meat]. koe-siū<sup>n</sup>, dried fowl. ah-siū<sup>n</sup>, dried duck brought from the north. hì-siū<sup>n</sup> (Cn. hū-siū<sup>n</sup>), dried fish.

siū<sup>n</sup> [R. to look at; appearance; to assist; prime ministers; by change of tone from "sióng," mutual]. sêng-siū<sup>n</sup>, prime minister (v. sêng). siū<sup>n</sup>-kang, confidential assistant or secretary of mandarin; respectful appellation of Kújin and others (v. kang).

iū<sup>n</sup>-siū<sup>n</sup>, form and appearance. kū-siū<sup>n</sup>, faded in appearance, as old dress. sin-siū<sup>n</sup>, having a new look.

承

常賞

想

奩相

山

綬箱

廂相

鑲

傷

chheng-khi-siu<sup>n</sup>, clean; cleanly. phái<sup>n</sup>-khoà<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, ugly, as man or affair. lát-siu<sup>n</sup>, active and energetic; diligent at work. phòà-siu<sup>n</sup>, maimed or greatly deformed. khiu<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, very careful of one's dress, so as rarely to need new dress. khièn-siu<sup>n</sup>, very narrow, exacting, and minute about money matters; niggardly and mean.

phí-siu<sup>n</sup>, to talk scandal; to speak ill of a man behind his back; to taunt a man for his looks or for his niggardly ways. keng-thóe phí-siu<sup>n</sup>, id. phé-siu<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

siu<sup>n</sup>, the animals used as the signs for the characters of the cycle of twelve. tsáp-jī-siu<sup>n</sup>, these twelve animals, used to indicate the year in which a man is born. tsáp-jī si<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>, id., viz.:-

- |   |        |                     |         |         |         |        |
|---|--------|---------------------|---------|---------|---------|--------|
| { | tsú,   | thiu <sup>n</sup> , | ín,     | báu,    | sín,    | chí,   |
| { | chhú,  | gú,                 | hó,     | thò,    | lêng,   | tsoá,  |
|   | rat.   | cow.                | tiger.  | rabbit. | dragon. | snake. |
| { | gò,    | bí,                 | sín,    | iú,     | sut,    | hái,   |
| { | bé,    | iú <sup>n</sup> ,   | káu,    | koe,    | káu,    | ti,    |
|   | horse. | goat.               | monkey. | fowl.   | dog.    | pig.   |

lí, siu<sup>n</sup> sim-mih<sup>n</sup>, what animal is the sign of your natal year? goá siu<sup>n</sup>-hó, I was born in one of the years that contains the character "ín." siu<sup>n</sup>-ti, born in a year that contains the character "hái."

siu<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, to value; yet; to rule; used in some official titles]. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>, a Buddhist priest. hōe-siu<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-ôe, shoes of Bud. pr. made with a single peak and very sharp; shoes of same shape, but more ornamental, are worn by children to keep off demons. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup>, dress fastened by strings, not by buttons, worn by Bud. pr., and also by children for same reason. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-bō, cap of Bud. pr. made with a ridge in the middle; also worn by children to keep off demons. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-pài, almost kneeling, and so saluting with palms put together. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-pâng, room of Bud. pr. in temple. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a young priest who is the adopted son of a priest. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-thúí, said in joke of the bare head of Bud. pr. hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-thâu kóng ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>, bare head of Bud. pr. beating olives (said in joke). chhát-sim, hê-siu<sup>n</sup>-bin, robber's heart under priest's face. iá kàu ná<sup>n</sup> hê-siu<sup>n</sup>, as wicked as a Bud. pr. hê-siu<sup>n</sup> bō-tng-thâu-mng hê-lâng-siám, said of a very niggardly fellow. kau hê-siu<sup>n</sup>, tò táng-á-bí, they who consort with Bud. priests must empty their rice-vessel.

siu<sup>n</sup>-si, president of one of the six supreme boards at Pekin. siu<sup>n</sup>-su, id.

siu<sup>n</sup> [R. sióng, above; up; = col. chiú<sup>n</sup>, chhiú<sup>n</sup>], siu<sup>n</sup>-su (r.), the Shoo-king, usually called "su-keng." siu<sup>n</sup>-si (C.), id.

siu<sup>n</sup>-poe, the bits of bamboo roots used for divining before idols. chit-hú siu<sup>n</sup>-poe, a pair of these divining blocks. chit-siu<sup>n</sup>-poe, the favourable throw of these blocks, one convex side up and one flat side up. poáh chit-siu<sup>n</sup>-poe, to get this favourable throw. poáh chit-siu<sup>n</sup>, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-siu<sup>n</sup>-poe, this favourable throw repeated three times in succession.

siu<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), salted fish. hí-siu<sup>n</sup> (esp. Cn.), = A. hí-siu<sup>n</sup>, id.

siu<sup>n</sup> [R. siú, to give]. siu<sup>n</sup>-chheh, = siú-chheh, to give out a lesson. kúi-siu<sup>n</sup>-chheh, how many lessons consecutively? (as in one day).

siu<sup>n</sup> (R. sióng, = col. siú), to think; to consider; to think about, sometimes with the idea of desirc. sióng-siu<sup>n</sup>, always thinking about —. bat-siu<sup>n</sup>, diligent at work and regular in behaviour, as boy or lad. gâu siu<sup>n</sup>-lê, intelligent; skilful in managing affairs. gâu-siu<sup>n</sup>, good at planning or scheming, often with idea of cunning. kâu-siu<sup>n</sup>, id. ôe-hiáu-siu<sup>n</sup>, good at thinking or planning. chhi-siu<sup>n</sup>, to consider; to try to think out. chhim-siu<sup>n</sup>, to think deeply. tia<sup>n</sup>-tia<sup>n</sup> siu<sup>n</sup>, to meditate silently. gông-siu<sup>n</sup>, foolish purpose; thinking of what one cannot get or cannot be done. goá gông-siu<sup>n</sup>, I beg to suggest that —. kan-ta siu<sup>n</sup>, to think but find no good plan. m-sái-siu<sup>n</sup>, no use of thinking or planning to get or accomplish it. siu<sup>n</sup>-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to consider carefully. siu<sup>n</sup>-lái siu<sup>n</sup>-khi, to think in every direction. siu<sup>n</sup>-chhut, to think out a good idea or plan. siu<sup>n</sup>-m-chhut, to think but not be able to find out. siu<sup>n</sup>-bōe-kàu, unable to get at the result by thinking. bō-siu<sup>n</sup>-kàu, did not consider so far as that. lêng-siu<sup>n</sup> sé-bō-kàu, what one could not think of before. siu<sup>n</sup> kàu-lóng-bō-jī, think, but find it impracticable (v. jī). siu<sup>n</sup> kàu-sán, to grow lean with anxious thought. siu<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh phui-huih (or "thò-huih"), to be painfully anxious (lit. till going to spit blood). sim-koa<sup>n</sup> siu<sup>n</sup> kàu-beh-lak, thinking till one almost faints. siu<sup>n</sup>-phoà sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, thinking very deeply and painfully. siu<sup>n</sup>-sim siu<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, deeply cogitating a plan for improper, injurious, or selfish ends. teh-siu<sup>n</sup>-sim, secretly coveting or planning something selfish or improper, e.g. cheating, stealing, supplanting another, &c.

siu<sup>n</sup>-toá, lazy. siu<sup>n</sup>-hêng, indolent; selfishly lazy (v. hêng). siu<sup>n</sup> té-lê, thinking of suicide.

siu<sup>n</sup>-lòh-kè (C.), to regret having lost an opportunity; to repent or regret having done something. siu<sup>n</sup> thè-hòe (C.), to regret or repent of what is past, often what cannot now be put right (v. thè).

sm (Cn.), = A. som, ginseng.

sng [R. song, mourning; funeral]. sng-hà, mourning dress.

sng (R. soan), (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), sour; acid; grieved; to steep in sour water, as clothes. chhàu-sng, soured so as to be spoiled. sng-khùi, having a sour smell. sng-bi, id.; a sour smell. sng kiuh-kiuh, very sour. eh-sng, to belch up sour stuff (v. eh).

sng-ám, soured rice-water. ám-sng, id. sng-phun, water in which rice was washed become sour. sng-chhè, vinegar.

sng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to steep clothes in soured rice-water, after washing, to make them whiter.

lí-á-sng, a sour preparation of plums. soái-á-sng, sort of preserve made of mangoes. ông-lái-sng, sort of preserve made of pine-apples. iú<sup>n</sup>-tò-sng, do. of carambola. sng-m-á, a sort of preserve. sng-tsó-ko, a sort of preserve.

kiám-sng-chháu, the oxalis (v. kiám).

sim sng, the mind sad; distressed. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> sng-sng, id.

sng — chhòng-ôe khi-sng--i, to speak to him indirectly, blaming his bad practices. chhòng-ôe sng-sóe--i, id.

sng [next word? cf. preceding word]. sng-sóe, uncomfortable feeling, as when colded (v. sóe).

sng (R. soan), (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), aching pains; feeling of pain and weariness about the bones or in the limbs. sng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, id. io-kut sng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, loins aching. kut-thâu sng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, bones aching. sng chit-tng, half the body sore or aching, as with long sitting, or with rheumatism. kha sng, legs feeling sore, as after a long walk. chhiú sng, arm tired and sore, as after lifting

相

尚

上

授想

喪酸

傷

a heavy weight. kha-chhiú sng, limbs weary and sore. chhiú-sng-chí<sup>n</sup>, a gratuity for some small service.

sng-núg (C. sui<sup>n</sup>-núi<sup>n</sup>), weary aching feeling (v. núg). núg-sng-khok, slow in doing business (v. núg).

ng-sng (C. úi<sup>n</sup>-sui<sup>n</sup>), pale and thin; yellow and emaciated. ng-sng-hiá, said of very small ants (v. hiá).

sng-sóe, feeling of pain in bones, as when wearied or colded [same as previous words?].

sí-sng, spirited from bad treatment, as a child, daughter-in-law, or slave-girl.

sng [R. soan, teeth sore], (C. sui<sup>n</sup>). chhùi-khí sng, teeth feeling pained or set on edge, as by eating something sour.

sng [R. song, a widow; lonely]. kø-sng, selfish and disobliging; unneighbourly or unfriendly (v. kø).

sng — thâu-mûg-sng (T.), = chhong-ji<sup>n</sup>, a plant with prickly seeds.

sng [R. song, the mulberry], a surname. sng-tsái, mulberry fruit. sng-tsái-hiòh, mulberry leaves. sng-á-hiòh, id. sng-tsái-chhiú, the mulberry tree. sng-á-chhiú, id. sng-chhiú, id. sng-m, mulberry fruit. sng-súi (C.), id.

sng [R. sun, a grandchild], (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), a surname. sng-chin-jin, name of an idol; a god of medicine.

sng [R. song, frost, congealed or frozen], hoar-frost. sng-seh, frost and snow (v. seh). kiên-sng, to freeze; to congeal. lòh-sng, hoar-frost forming.

sng-kàng, the term on or about Oct. 23d. ngiá<sup>n</sup> sng-kàng, procession of military mandarins at the time supposed to be the beginning of frost. sng-kàng-hoe, a shrub with flowers like double mallow or lavatera, whose blossoms at that term.

phi<sup>n</sup>-sng, arsenic (v. phi<sup>n</sup>). phi-sng, id. (P. phi<sup>n</sup>-chhng). phi-sng (T.), id. ke-ná-sng, sometimes said for quinine, in imitation of the sound.

thng-sng, sugar-candy (v. thng). sng-tsúi, fine syrup.

tàng-sng, having very contracted views (said in scolding or chiding). lí chin-tàng-sng, your ideas are very mean and contracted, e.g. supposing that I cannot do what I am quite able for.

sng (R. soan, = col. chhoá<sup>n</sup>, chhoá<sup>n</sup>), (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), a small pin for holding anything in its place; a small bolt or pin, as for door or window; to put in a small pin or wedge, as into a crack, or in order to make something firm. sng-mûg, to fasten a door with a wedge or small pin.

thih-sng, a small iron pin or wedge for keeping something in its place. chhâ-sng, wooden wedge or pin. tek-sng, bamboo do. kim-sng, the wooden bolts that support the lower support (ê-kim) of a helm.

sng (C. sui<sup>n</sup>). chhia-sng, an axle; an axle-tree. chhia-lún-sng, id.

sng (R. chng<sup>n</sup>?), classifier of large cakes cooked by steaming. chit-sng-ké, one large steamed cake. toá-sng, a large cake. ka-nng-sng, the whole cake. lâng-sng, a frame or vessel in which cakes are cooked by steaming. lâng-sng-phe, thin slips of wood for making it. pák lâng-sng, to make this sort of frame.

sng (R. sún), (C. sng, súi<sup>n</sup>), to injure; to lay waste; to waste; ruined; greatly weakened by disease. sng-núg, to waste or spoil very much; to lay waste and plunder. sí-kòe sng-núg, to lay waste or spoil everywhere. put-chí-sng, much injured, as health; much exhausted by hard work; much worn and spoiled, as a thing in constant use. gâu-sng, wasteful, fond of extravagance or of bad pleasures.

phah-sng, to waste; to lose, as money, &c. chin phah-sng, a very great loss, e.g. death of influential relative. phoá-sng, dilapidated; tattered. sng-sit, to lose, as things taken away, spoiled, or lost. sng-tng, to spoil, either accidentally or of set purpose; to dirty and spoil a place, as poultry or pigs.

sng-teng, to lose male children, nephews, &c., as family; or male inhabitants, as village. sng-gán, injurious to the eyes, as late writing or sewing, or as some sorts of food. sng-sín, to injure one's self by long night work, or by gambling, plays, &c., so as not to get proper sleep. sng-sín, kah bô-bín, id.; said also of an affair giving much trouble but no profit. sng-sín, to exert one's self very much; ill or wounded severely. sng-khùi tiòh-lát, causing or requiring much toil or trouble. chhut-thâu sng-kak, to hurt one's self by meddling in the affairs of others, or by taking responsibility for others. sng-chí<sup>n</sup>, to waste money. sng-mih<sup>n</sup>, to use things wastefully, or spoil them.

sng (C. id.) khien-sng (not Cn.), superstitious observations (v. khien).

sng [R. sún, a tenon]. toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup> kang-sng, = toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup> kang-sún, constantly plotting improper ways for getting money out of people.

tng-sng (T.), to set right an affair, or get gain in a business, that seemed almost hopeless.

sng [R. sóng, comfortable]. khin-sng, light and active, as man; light and easily carried, as thing.

sng (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), to tie very tight. sng-ân, id. sng-kín, id. sng kàu-hiah-kín, to tie so very tight. sng kàu bô-khùi, to tie till unable to breathe. sng-oá, to tie up very tight; to hug.

sng-io, narrower at the middle, as the shape of an hour-glass. khah-sng, id.

pak-té siau-sng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, severe gripping pain in belly.

sng (Cn.), = A. soàn (garlic). sng-ngá, garlic. sng-thâu, roots of garlic.

kúi-sng, a wild plant like garlic.

sng [R. soàn, to calculate, = col. siàu], (C. sui<sup>n</sup>), to count; to calculate; to number. tá<sup>n</sup>-sng, to suppose; to consider. phah-sng, id. phah lí-ê-sng, consider for yourself; make your own calculation. ôe-phah-tit-sng, can be relied on, as a trusty man, or as a plan sure to succeed, e.g. a safe way of making money; said also of having some money or property that can be depended on without the uncertainty of work or trade. chhien-sng bân-sng, m-táh--tiòh thi<sup>n</sup> chit-sng, all human calculations are not worth one purpose of Heaven.

chiàu-sng, justly; honestly.

sng-giáh, to count how many; to include in the amount, as an item (v. giáh). chiú<sup>n</sup>-sng, to include in the calculation or amount (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). bô-beh kap-i-sng tsái-lái, will not count him to be of the same class with ourselves. sng-tsòe — (C. sui<sup>n</sup>-tsòe —), to consider to be —, to count as —.

sng-jit, to count or calculate by days (not by months), as wages of labour, or as heavy usurious interest of money. sng-tá<sup>n</sup>-jit, to make a mistake in calculating the day, or the number of days. sng-khi, to begin a calculation (as of wages) at such a date.

齧

孀

孫

霜

榘

損

損

蒜

sng-miā<sup>n</sup>, to tell fortunes by cabalistic calculations. sng-miā<sup>n</sup> sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a man who tells fortunes in this way.

sng-siàu, to calculate (v. siàu). sng háp-kióng, to perform addition; adding up the total. kè-sng joā-tsōe, count up the sum total. thâu-bé-sng, counting first and last inclusive. lién-tê sng, counting the weight of the bag in the amount. sng-bōe-si, innumerable (v. si). hām-kháu sng, to calculate mentally. hoā-sng, to calculate roughly (v. hoā). àn-sng, to make a rough calculation, mentally or on the fingers. kek-sng, to calculate roughly (v. kek). chhui-sng, to calculate mentally. bōe-bōe sng-hun, in business calculate to a fraction.

sng-poā<sup>n</sup>, an abacus. sng-poā<sup>n</sup>-chí, balls of abacus. kiáh sng-poā<sup>n</sup>, to take the abacus and calculate. phah sng-poā<sup>n</sup>, id. tâng sng-poā<sup>n</sup>, id. thak sng-poā<sup>n</sup>, id. thak-sng, id. sng-poā<sup>n</sup> thak kàu-bô-ki<sup>n</sup>, to be very minute in calculation by it. sng-poā<sup>n</sup>-ki<sup>n</sup>, the rods or wires on which the balls of the abacus run.

sng-hēng, disobliging; intentionally lazy and unwilling to help beyond what is obligatory. gâu-sng-sek, id.

sng, to snuff up (cf. chng, to snuffle outwards). sng-phī<sup>n</sup>, to snuff up the nose. sng phī<sup>n</sup>-hun, to take snuff. sng soa-ióh, to snuff up medicines taken like snuff.

SO (R. id.), to rub with the hand; to roll on the palm, as thread. so-loáh, to stroke smooth, as cat's back; to get round a man by pleasant talk; to get parties reconciled, &c. (v. loáh). lām-sám so, to feel about in the dark; to feel, as a thief, for something to pilfer. bong so ti<sup>n</sup>, to touch and take improper liberties with, as with woman.

so-chhiú, to rub one's hands together; also said of coming back empty-handed when we expected to get money. so chhiú-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id. khang-chhiú so, coming back empty-handed instead of getting the expected money.

so-kng, to rub smooth (s. next word). so-iú, to rub on oil or paint. so-hún, to put on face-powder, as on face or body. so ióh-oân, to roll pills. so-i<sup>n</sup>, to roll anything into round balls. so iên-sái, to fill dollars with lead by means of quicksilver. so-soà<sup>n</sup>, to twist a thread by rolling it on the palm. so chí<sup>n</sup>-khg, twist thus the twine used for stringing cash.

SO [R. sɔ̃, to search, as by police]. so kng-kng, all taken away, as by robbers or by soldiers.

SO (cf. sò, sō). àm-so-so, very dark.

SO [R. to instigate; cf. sō], (Cn. sɔ̃). kiau-so, to instigate to evil, esp. to quarrels; to sow discord. so-sú (C.), id. poan--lâng so--lâng, to tell lies or gross exaggerations so as to injure people.

SO [R. to agitate; to disturb]. hong-so, rambling about for amusement, often for bad pleasures.

SO — lô-so, troublesome; annoying with repeated and useless talk. lô-lô so-so, id. lo-so, id.

SO [reduplication of "po"]. po-so, to flatter; to cajole, as obsequious man. po-lo-so, id. gâu po-so--lâng, fond of flattering people.

SO (R. id.), a shuttle. so-á, id. hī<sup>n</sup>-so, id. so-á-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a southern constellation of four bright stars in diamond shape (Southern Cross?). jit-goát jū-so, kong-im sū-chièn, days, months, and time are like a shuttle or an arrow.

kiô-so, the piers of a bridge, shaped like a shuttle. bāng-so, a large wooden bodkin for making nets.

bí-so-ké, small shuttle-shaped cakes inclosing stuffing. thó chit--ê oá<sup>n</sup>-ko bí-so, I got nothing for my pains, e.g. trying to recover a bad debt.

SO (same word?). káu-bú-so, a very good plump shuttle-shaped fish with small scales; it is about a foot long. so-á-hī, a smaller sort, also good to eat. soa-so, a smaller sort with sharp head and no scales. khé-so (C.), id. kim-so, a sort of small fish.

SO [R. sɔ̃, sapan-wood]. so-bák, a sort of reddish wood; sapan-wood. so-bák-ko, a purple paint made from sapan-wood, used for colouring things, esp. for idolatrous purposes.

SÔ (cf. sòh), to creep; to crawl; to go walking about. sô-lô, to crawl or walk about here and there. kan-ta sô, to go about without any definite aim; to crawl about, as a snake, not hurting any one. si-kòe-sô, to wander about, e.g. looking at things, &c.

SÔ (cf. so, sō). ɛ-lô-sô, very black. ɛ-sô-sô, id. àm-sô-sô, very dark.

SÔ (R. id.), a Chinese padlock which shuts itself by a spring (classifier phi<sup>n</sup>); to lock such a padlock; to put long stone slabs across a road to keep it from being swept away by water. só-lòh-khi, lock it fast. só-tiâu--teh, locked fast. só-mng, to lock a door (all by Chinese padlock). só-âu, to catch another's neck in fighting; to bite the neck and hold it fast, as a dog does. khui-só, to open a lock. pàng-só, to take off a man's chains. phah-só, to make padlocks.

só-sī, key of Chinese padlock. só-khak, outer frame or socket of Chinese padlock. só-sim, the other half of the padlock, which goes into the frame. só-niú<sup>n</sup>, the straight pin of it, which goes through the staple. só-kúi, the spring which catches the tongue when put in. só-chhi, the spring and wards of it.

kun-tsú-só, a very small padlock. gèk-só-pái, a small flat imitation padlock, worn by child as amulet. pek-ka-só, a small silver padlock bought with money given by many families, worn by child as amulet.

SÓ (T.), = A. chhó [R. só, small; minute]. só-chhiú, = A. chhó-chhiú, troublesome to settle, as involved affair with many intricate details. bōe-só-chhiú, all quite plain and straight, so that no trouble need be feared from it. kap--i só-chhiú, to have a great deal of troublesome and unpleasant or angry discussion with him.

SÓ (R. só), elder brother's wife; it is appended to the personal name of the husband as an appellation of his wife, when we would use "hia<sup>n</sup>" or "ko" for himself, e.g. pan-só, the wife of a man called "pan-ko" or "pan-hia<sup>n</sup>".

hia<sup>n</sup>-só, elder brother's wife. ko-só (Cn.), id. á-só, do. (said by husband's younger brother in addressing her). goán-só, my elder brother's wife. jī-só, wife of second oldest brother. tsun-só (polite), your elder brother's wife. lēng-só (polite), id.

SÓ (cf. sió). só-kng, = sió-kng, a sort of cuttle-fish.

SÒ [R. dry; parched; scorched], causing thirst or having a heating effect, as some eatables; to absorb water, &c., as dry land, or as a sponge. sò-jiét, having a heating effect, as fat food. sò-pé, having a heating and strengthening effect.

ta-sò, dry; crisp; too dry, having no softness or gentle moisture, as skin; dry and hard, as face; poor. thi<sup>n</sup> ta-sò, weather very dry, as in north wind. thi<sup>n</sup>-khi ta-sò, id. chhiú ta-sò, very thirsty. koa-

搔

抄

搜

唆

騷

梭

梭

蘇

蠕

皂

鎖

瑣

嫂

燥

sò, dry and hard, as one's skin in north wind, or as skin of old man. koa-koa sò-sò, id. seng-khu kè-sò, dry and having small slightly itchy eruptions, as skin; dry, as skin, either slightly feverish or naturally so.

bin sò-sò, surface not glossy, as of cloth; face rough.

ân-sò, hard up for cash. sò-siap, shrivelled, as skin; scant of money (v. siap).

sò-sip, to suck up damp, as sawdust, &c. sò-koā<sup>n</sup>, to absorb perspiration, as dress. sò-tsúi, to absorb water, as sponge or floor. sán-chhân gâu sò-tsúi (barren land absorbs much water), a lean man eating much, or gains swallowed up by creditors.

SÒ [R. to go quickly; hasty; violent]. sò-sèng, quick-tempered; irascible. sò-sut, too hasty in habit of speaking or doing things (v. sut). sò-sim, much excited with desire to get something or to have something done very speedily. sò-pō (r.), violently rude; headstrong and violent in temper.

SÒ [R. to sweep, = col. sàu]. chè-sò, to sweep the graves clean, repair them, and make offerings on the days called chhi<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup> and toā-koā<sup>n</sup>.

pùn-sò, dirt; sweepings; manure or filth. pê pùn-sò, to rake up dirt. sò-âm, a sink. sò-chi<sup>n</sup>, a cess-pool for such dirty water, &c., as is not available for manure.

SÒ (cf. so, sò). âm-sò-sò, very dark.

SÒ [mere reduplication]. hō-lō-sò, to express assent without consideration. hái<sup>n</sup>-lō-sò, to do work in a superficial way without energy or care. hāi<sup>n</sup>-lō-sò, cry of men working a sculling-oar together; to assent to or follow whatever another says or does.

SÒ — sò-hong, to drift slowly before the wind, as vessel that has taken in as much sail as is possible. khan-lāi-sò, to arrange the vessel so as to drift as slowly as possible.

SÒ [R. so, to instigate; cf. sū], to cause dissensions by instigation, slanders, and such bad means. sái-sò, to instigate to evil, e.g. to quarrels or feuds. sò--lâng, to incite people to deep enmity and open feud, esp. when already quarrelling a little. sò--lâng oan-ke, id. sò-káu sa<sup>n</sup>-kâ, to set dogs to fight; (said of stirring up or inflaming enmity and feuds).

SÒ [R. to come to life again]. iâ-sò, Jesus. iâ-sò-kàu, Protestant Christianity; the Protestant Church. iâ-sò sèng-kàu, id. iâ-sò cheng-kàu, id.

SÒ (R. id.), a surname. se-chiu, Soo-chow. se-hâng, Soo-chow and Hang-chow. se--ê, from Soo-chow, as goods. se-pán, printed at Soo-chow. se-chien, superfine paper from Soo-chow. se-gék, fine white jade-stone. se-té, embossed panelling, as on a door.

kang-sò, Kiang-soo province, named from Kiang-ning-foo (Nankin) and Soo-chow.

se-io, stooping in gait (v. io).

chí-se, a sort of medicine.

SÒ [R. name of a plant?]. báng-á-se, a feathery shrub with white blossoms, used for making the "báng-hun," which is burned to keep away mosquitoes.

SÒ [R. to search, as police, = col. so]. se-ka, to search the house, as of a mandarin in confiscating his property; to confiscate. se kng-kng, everything stolen or taken away.

SÒ [R. distant; not related; = col. soe]. chhi<sup>n</sup>-se, unacquainted with a matter; inexperienced; raw and unpolished, as a composition. chhi<sup>n</sup> se-se, id. jin- tê lióng-se, people and place both strange to us. pōe-chhin ng-se, to leave relatives and make up with strangers. pōe-chhin hióng-se, id.

se-hut (R.), careless.

SÒ [R. sort of butter made in the north], crisp; easily crumbling, as eatables; toasted or parched at the fire till crisp; stiff, as well-starched dress.

se-iú, fried crisp with fat. chien-khi-se, fry till crisp. chhá-khi-se, parch over the fire till crisp.

se-piá<sup>n</sup>, crisp short cakes. káu-se-piá<sup>n</sup>, sort of crisp cake made with sugar. chhùi-kháu-se, id. khíó-se (Cn.), id. iú-se-piá<sup>n</sup>, sort of cake. bé-tōe-se, round hollow cakes with sugar inside, made at Tàng-óa<sup>n</sup>, very good to eat. bé-té-se (C.), id. bah-kut-se, a dish made of pulverized pig's bones, onions, &c.

bō-se (T.), said of a dress not starched stiff enough, or that has lost the starch.

SÒ — se-khak-chim, a crab that is firm and full of meat.

SÒ (cf. siau). se-sap, dark and shrivelled, as face of poor, miserable, or sick man; much decayed, as house, village, or family.

SÒ — khang se-se, empty. khang lè-se, id.

SÒ (Cn.), = A. so; in many words in the several tones.

SÓ (sə? or some other tone?). kháu-só (Cn.), so and so; said to avoid naming a person or thing which both parties understand to be meant (v. kháu).

SÓ [R. that which; he who; a place], (C. usually "sé," but sometimes "sə;" e.g. sé-tsāi, sé-hùi), the relative pronoun: he who, that which, they who, those which, &c.; it precedes the antecedent, and is placed quite differently from the other relative particles "ê" and "chiá;" in combination with verbs it forms a phrase like a verbal noun or gerund.

sé-tsāi, a place. bō-sé bō-tsāi, no place; having no place. gū-sé (C. gi-sé), a lodging-place; lodgings. keng-i-sé, room for visitors changing their dress when they call to worship the dead (v. keng). hó-jim-sé, a good situation for a mandarin making money (v. jim).

sé-í, therefore (v. í).

sé-hùi, expenses; money for expenses (v. hùi).

sé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, behaviour; conduct. hó-sé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, easy and unconstrained in intercourse; not wishing to be treated with ceremony. sé-tsòe, behaviour; conduct.

sé-kóng, that which is said. lí sé-kóng, what you say. goá sé-hē--i, what I give him. goá sé-ū, what I have. í sé-beh, what he wishes, &c. &c.

bū-sé put-ûi, addicted to all sorts of wickedness. bū-sé put-chi, id. bū-sé put-tsāi (R.), omnipresent. bū-sé put-ti (R.), omniscient. bū-sé put-lêng (R.), omnipotent. tang-sai bū-sé-put, willing to take anything.

SÓ [R. sè, to calculate; a number]. sé-pái, constantly; over and over; every time.

SÒ [R. plain; not ornamented; simplicity; original colour; formerly; usually]. sè-sè, plain; not ornamented; plain-looking; not good-looking. sè-tiú, plain silk; not flowered. sè-bō, plain cap of black cotton with no red. phok-sè, quiet, simple, and plain, as a dress; not gaudy; simple and quiet in taste and manners, as man not given to display or vanity. phak-sè, id. sè-sin-lân, a variety of the flower "lân-hoc," with plain-coloured centre.

sè-tsu, string of beads used by Buddhist priest.

pêng-sè, formerly; hitherto; habitually in time past. sè-si, id. sè-siông, id.

躁

掃

皂

唆

蘇

蘇

搜

疏疎

酥

蟹

所

數素

疎

SÒ [R. a formal statement, as to a superior; sort of written prayer; to explain, as a commentary; by change of tone from "sò," distant, not related], a Taoist or Buddhist written prayer, having a list of names written on it; it is read aloud and burned, so that the persons named may be protected by the gods. sè-bún (R.), id. thák-sè, to read such a prayer aloud before burning it. liám-sè, id.

tsù-sè, a commentary on a commentary.

SÒ [R. to inform; to make one's defence; to accuse], to make one's defence in court, done in writing. kò-sè, to put in written defence or accusation in court (v. kò). chhut-sè, to come forward and enter the written defence. sè-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, the written plea in defence, entered in court; it is often virtually or really a counter accusation. sè-oan, to make defence against unjust accusation.

sè-sû, a paper burned before an idol (usually Sêng-hông-iá), stating that we are guiltless of crime; this Taoist rite is performed when suffering from what is supposed to be the effect of some imprecation.

hun-sè, to explain one's conduct or make statement or defence before a superior, e.g. before master, or influential person, or official.

SÒ [R. to calculate; to number; an account; fated number; fate; destiny].

pè-sè, a plan; a contrivance (v. pè).

lé-sè, ceremony; politeness. chiâu-lé chiâu-sè, according to the rules of ceremony or politeness. bô-lé bô-sè, utterly without good breeding; very unpolite. kè-sè, price.

iú-sè, not very many. sè-chhù, several times. put-kè kī-sè, innumerable. tsáp-sè-ê, a little over ten (of anything). tsáp-sè-ni<sup>n</sup>, rather more than ten years of time.

tái-ka-sè, family flourishing, as to wealth, rank, or influence (v. ka).

siú-sè, fated number of one's years (v. siú). kiap-sè, fated time of great calamity (v. kiap). tái-sè lân-tó, fated death cannot be avoided (v. tô). thien-sè, fate, the decree of Heaven, as to great calamities. tsôa-siong hé-eh, thi<sup>n</sup>-tôe-sè, calamities by serpents and tigers are decreed by nature. sút-sè (R.), all sorts of magical and superstitious ceremonies. chhok jī-sè, to try one's fortune by drawing lots with words on them. thiah jī-sè, to tell fortune by taking a word to pieces, and giving meanings to the several parts. kóng-ké, thiah jī-sè, said of man lounging about and talking idly.

SÒ (previous word?). bī-sè, taste; flavour (v. bī).

SÒ (Cn.), = A. sò, in some words.

SŌ (Cn.), = A. sè, hanging down.

SŌ (Cn.), = A. sè. sō-lêng-tsún, trying to excel each other at the race of the dragon-boats. sō-pê-lêng-tsún, id.

SOA (R. sa), sand; small gravel. kim-soa, sort of fine sand used as emery powder; gold-dust; sand containing gold. gún-soa, fine white sand, from Quemoy. hái-soa, sea-sand. soa-he, mortar made with lime and sand. he-soa, lime and sand ready to be mixed. thê-soa, coarse sand mixed with clay, for building. thê-bí-soa, fine gravel. bé-khí-soa, common gravel. soa-bú, small gravel, like small pease. soa-bú-liáp, khoeh iáh-ū-iú (some oil can be pressed even from gravel), some money can be squeezed out of even the poorest man.

soa-lék, green without gloss, as cloth.

soa-tāng, sand ballast. soa-tê, a sand-bag.

soa-soà<sup>n</sup>, a sand-bank. soa-ún, a small sand-bank. soa-oa<sup>n</sup>, a sandy beach, fit to be used for landing. soa-pho, a sandy beach. khoe-soa-pè, sandy bed of a stream. soa-hūg, a sandy field or plot of ground.

soa-lim, having urinary calculus.

soa-kòe, itch in small scattered granulated groups.

soa-hê, shrimps from sandy beaches. soa-lâ, sort of shell-fish (v. là). soa-chhēng, sort of edible sea slug. soa-tsūi, an inferior sort of crab. soa-thng, sort of small fish. soa-so, another sort of fish.

SOA — hoan-soa, to roll about on the ground, as a horse.

SOA — soa-sap, slippery and troublesome to deal with in business, as man (v. sap).

SOA (C.), to let small things fall, as rice or crumbs from a table. phah-ka-soa, id. soa-loa, id. soa-loa-khì, to get lost by dropping from the table, as small things. soa-hiet-kák, to let small things fall (as from table) so that they are lost. soa-iú, to let drops fall from an oil-jug.

SOA (better "sa"). soa-bui (esp. C.), = sa-bui, eyes small and almost closed, as if overcome with sleep, &c.

SOA [R. sa; cf. col. se], the shark. soa-hi, id. è-soa, a large dark very dangerous shark. liông-bún-soa, the most edible sort of shark. gōng-á-soa, a large man-eating shark. hé-soa, a large-headed dangerous shark. káu-bú-soa, another sort, with small head and long tail. káu-soa, id. ke-kòe-soa (C.), another sort (lit. cock's-comb shark).

soa-sit, shark's fins, edible.

thēh-soa (C.), = thēh-se, = A. thoah-se, the sole.

SOA (R. sa), (Cn. se), cholera and violent colics. làu-thē-soa, cholera. tiōh-soa, to have a sudden attack of severe colic, cholera, or cramp in the stomach. liáh-soa, to shampoo or pinch the arms and legs, in order to cure it. leh-soa, to pinch the neck for a slight colic or pain in stomach.

soa-iòh, medicine for colic or cholera, taken by the nostrils like snuff.

SOA [R. sa? name of a plant]. sam-soa, the port of Sam-sah, near Fuh-ning (hok-léng), between Fuchau and Wenchau.

SOA (P.) soa-á, a sort of tree; its wood is moderately tough.

SOÁ (R. sú), to remove to another place. poa<sup>n</sup>-soá, id., either things, or as persons changing their residence. chhien-soá (r.), to migrate or change residence. soá-khui, to remove out of the way. soá-ūi, to move or remove to another place, as men or things. poa<sup>n</sup>-soá-ūi, id., either dwelling or things. chhiáu-soá-ūi, to move things slightly, without much alteration of their position. soá-tsai, to transplant (v. tsai). sa<sup>n</sup>-jit soá-tang, si-jit soá-sai, constantly changing one's dwelling.

soá-pē, to walk with short steps, as man with chain on feet, or with sore foot, or as a child. soá-kha, to change the position of one's feet, as for relief in long standing. kim-ke soá-kha (C.), the golden fowl changing its feet (said to be the cause of earthquakes).

SOÁ [R. — Cn. sá; C. soá, to play or amuse one's self; cf. sá]. kiá<sup>n</sup>-soá, to take a walk for exercise or amusement. lái kiá<sup>n</sup>-soá, come away with me for amusement; often means, come and visit bad houses.

訴

數

沙

鯊

痧

沙

徒

耍

soá, a very tough sort of rock, extremely difficult to work. soá-kak, the hardest parts of it. he-soá, mortar made of lime mixed with this tough rock.

soá [R. sé, sè, to wash]. soá-kháu (C.), to wash the mouth.

soá [R. siók, continuous; connected in unbroken succession], to add a piece; (to succeed to); to do in addition; also (as adverb before some verbs). sa<sup>n</sup>-soá, connected in unbroken order or succession. sio-soá, id. liên-soá, doing several things in succession without stopping.

soá beh —, also will —. chiū<sup>n</sup> toā-pang, soá beh-chiū<sup>n</sup> bìn-chhng (getting on the step will also get on the bed), get an inch and take an ell. soá-ū, and also there are —.

soá-chiap, to succeed to (v. chiap).

soá khah-tng, to make longer, as a rope, by tying on a piece, or as a queue by making the false queue longer. soá-tsáng, to add a false queue to one's own hair; the false queue.

sūn-soá, to take advantage of an opportunity so as to do something more; in view of the opportunity. sêng-soá, to take the opportunity of something being done to do or get something else done.

soá-soá-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk on a long time without resting, e.g. several hours or a whole day.

soá (cf. soá). hong soá-soá, tsúi toā-toā (T.), his word cannot be relied upon (lit. wind loud, water large).

soá [R. sok, quick; rapid]. si-soá, quick.

soá (cf. sà, sã). soá-soá-háu, noise, as of running water, or of stiff cloth, or of such stiff thing shaken, or of walking on a hard road, or of rats or robbers on roof. soá-soá-kiò, rustling sound, as of stiff dress, or of reeds or trees. sih-sih soá-soá, sound as of a sieve shaken, or of moderately heavy rain without wind.

soa<sup>n</sup> (R. san), (T. soai<sup>n</sup>, in some phrases), a mountain; a hill; an island; dry land or the shore as opposed to water; wild, as a plant.

soa<sup>n</sup>-tang, Shan-tung province. soa<sup>n</sup>-sai, Shan-si province. tng-soa<sup>n</sup>, China (v. tng). tang-soa<sup>n</sup>, Tong-san (between Swatow and Amoy). tang-soa<sup>n</sup>, the east hill or mountain; name of several hills and villages. kim-soa<sup>n</sup>, gold-producing countries (v. kim).

soa<sup>n</sup>-sū, land in general, either mainland or island (v. sū). soa<sup>n</sup>-sī (C.), id. ē-mng-soa<sup>n</sup>, Amoy Island. kim-mng-soa<sup>n</sup>, Quemoy Island.

soa<sup>n</sup>-téng, dry land; on land; on a hill (+). soa<sup>n</sup>-lê, route by land. soa<sup>n</sup>-chhau, drill or review on land. soa<sup>n</sup>-lâi, interest for money lent on shore (v. lâi, "interest"), (+). chê-soa<sup>n</sup>-ê, the owner or charterer of a vessel staying on shore. chiáh-soa<sup>n</sup>, to gain bit by bit on the land, as vessel tacking. khí-soa<sup>n</sup>, to go ashore. chiū<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to go ashore; to climb a hill; to go to the fields from a village. lôe-chiū<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to run aground (v. chiū<sup>n</sup>). chhióng-soa<sup>n</sup>, to run a vessel aground intentionally. oá-soa<sup>n</sup>, to approach the shore, as vessel. háh-soa<sup>n</sup>, to hug the shore. iú-soa<sup>n</sup>, to go about the country in procession with idol, &c. (v. iú).

soa<sup>n</sup>-háí, land and sea; land and water. iú-soa<sup>n</sup> iú-háí, to go about on sea and land, as the idol ông-iá. pau-soa<sup>n</sup> pau-háí, daring to take the responsibility of anything anywhere. chiá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> chiá<sup>n</sup>-háí, in vast quantities. tui-soa<sup>n</sup> chek-háí, to gather things in vast quantities. soa<sup>n</sup>-téng háí-ê, on land, or sea, or river (+). i-soa<sup>n</sup> tó-hái, to move mountains and seas.

chhut-soa<sup>n</sup>, to bury. soa<sup>n</sup>-sín, the guardian spirit of a mountain. hoah soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to call the good influence of the mountain, as at burial (v. lêng). hoah-soa<sup>n</sup>, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-bú, the peak where the auspicious influence has its source. thióng-soa<sup>n</sup>, a hill used as a common burying-ground. soa<sup>n</sup>-kúi (lit. mountain ghost), a man who acts as agent for buying grave-sites.

soa<sup>n</sup>-tê, a picture or plan of hills, either for looking at or for guiding to a grave-site. soa<sup>n</sup>-sè, form or appearance of mountains. soa<sup>n</sup>-sì (C.), id. soa<sup>n</sup>-sè put-chí-koái<sup>n</sup>, mountains very high. soa<sup>n</sup>-mng, outer gate of hill temple. áu-piah-soa<sup>n</sup> ū-khò, he has very powerful supporters (e.g. your adversary has). áu-piah-soa<sup>n</sup> kiá, said of a man who has powerful influence to support or back him, or of a man in business who has so much property that his business does not much concern him. i-soa<sup>n</sup>, to remove mountains (v. i), (+).

hoe-soa<sup>n</sup>, a rockery. hoe-tng-soa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a place for gambling with the "hoe-hè."

soa<sup>n</sup>-bìn, the surface of the ground, as let for cultivation, but other rights reserved. khò<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, to guard fields from robbery, as a powerful man does for payment.

soa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the country as opposed to cities and towns. soa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>-lâng, a man from the country; a clown; a rustic. soa<sup>n</sup>-lâi, mountainous country (+). soa<sup>n</sup>-lâi-kâu, chiáh chhiū-chí (monkey from the mountains, living on seeds of trees), said in joke of an uncultivated mountaineer. soa<sup>n</sup>-hâu (vulg.), a clown. soa<sup>n</sup>-kan, among the mountains. soa<sup>n</sup>-kha, the foot of a mountain; at the foot of the mountain. soa<sup>n</sup>-ê, just at the foot of the mountain. chhim-soa<sup>n</sup>, far among the mountains. soa<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup> kok-lok-phāng, id., and in deep valleys. soa<sup>n</sup>-phāng, a cleft in the hills, as where a stream or road comes through. soa<sup>n</sup>-khang, a cave or hollow in the hills (v. khang). soa<sup>n</sup>-lang, a narrow valley (v. lang). soa<sup>n</sup>-khi<sup>n</sup>, a ravine. soa<sup>n</sup>-pê, a grassy part of a hill, level or nearly so. soa<sup>n</sup>-tôe, cultivated ground on a hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-khâm, a precipitous bank, as on shore or at a stream. soa<sup>n</sup>-nâ, a wood among the mountains.

soa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a hill, esp. a rounded hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-chiam, a mountain peak. soa<sup>n</sup>-bé, top of a mountain; end or extremity of the mountain. soa<sup>n</sup>-bé-liu, top of hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-chit, the very ridge of the hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-phiá<sup>n</sup>, gently sloping base of hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-lün, long, low, flat hill (v. lün). soa<sup>n</sup>-niá, shoulder of hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-lióng (C.), id. soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng (C.), sloping shoulder of hill. soa<sup>n</sup>-niá, a mountain path or pass; mountains in general (v. niá). soa<sup>n</sup>-io, a path along a ledge half-way up a mountain. poá<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>, half-way up a mountain. chit-tsō-soa<sup>n</sup>, a mass of mountains. chit-ün-soa<sup>n</sup>, chit-ün hui<sup>n</sup>-siá, villages and mountain ridges alternately.

hoái-soa<sup>n</sup>, sort of medicine (v. hoái). soa<sup>n</sup>-iòh, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-iòh-tsú, id. soa<sup>n</sup>-tê, kind of wild plant (not any sort of tea). soa<sup>n</sup>-bé-chi, sort of plant and drug. soa<sup>n</sup>-chhi<sup>n</sup>, sort of wild plant (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). soa<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>-lân, a wild sort of "koa<sup>n</sup>-lân" flower; (so with many other plants, wild sorts, or plants like them).

soa<sup>n</sup>-káu, a fox. soa<sup>n</sup>-bá, a wild-cat. soa<sup>n</sup>-thê, a rabbit. soa<sup>n</sup>-loáh, a large harmless serpent. soa<sup>n</sup>-khim iá-siù, wild birds and beasts (v. siù).

soá<sup>n</sup> [R. sán, to produce; to bear; produce of land].

漱
續

速

山

產

siu-tse chiah-soá<sup>n</sup>, to draw rents and live on the fruit of one's land.

soá<sup>n</sup>-lāi, within one month after child-birth. soá<sup>n</sup>-pāng, the mother's room during that month.

soá<sup>n</sup> [R. sán, a medicinal powder; in disorder or confusion; scattered; by change of tone from "sán," to scatter; cf. col. soá<sup>n</sup>, sàm], (C. sometimes sán).

iòh-soá<sup>n</sup> (C. iòh-sán), a medicinal powder usually taken in the nostrils like snuff. pêng-an-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of powder taken thus. thong-koan-soá<sup>n</sup> (C. thong-koan-sán), another sort. siau-iâu-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort used for giving a comfortable feeling. keng-hong-soá<sup>n</sup>, medicine for keeping children from getting startled. pat-pó-soá<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal powder compounded of eight drugs.

soá<sup>n</sup>-iā, running about without control, as a spoiled child, or as cattle and other domestic animals when turned loose. soá<sup>n</sup>-iā-kúí, wandering ghosts; said also in scolding a child that is not kept in order. soá<sup>n</sup>-lā, to go about in all directions looking for employment, or getting odds and ends of work. soá<sup>n</sup>-phê<sup>n</sup> (C.), to wander about, as bad fellows, or as cattle (v. phê<sup>n</sup>).

soá<sup>n</sup>-iāh, assistant constables or police whose names are not on the books of the yamun, being merely engaged as assistants by the regular constables or police. soá<sup>n</sup>-chín-sū, those Tsin-sze graduates who have once tried for Han-lin and have failed; they can never try again.

soá<sup>n</sup> [R. sat, deleterious influences, = col. soah], hong-soá<sup>n</sup>, a deleterious influence producing a sort of palsy, supposed to be caused by demons. khít hong-soá<sup>n</sup> phah, to be made ill by it. hoān--tiòh hong-soá<sup>n</sup>, id.

soá<sup>n</sup> [R. sán, a sort of net for fish; name of a river], soá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, Swatow.

soá<sup>n</sup> — soa-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sand-bank. chiòh-soá<sup>n</sup>, a reef of rocks.

soá<sup>n</sup> [R. sán, an umbrella], hē-soá<sup>n</sup>, an umbrella. kiáh hē-soá<sup>n</sup>, to carry an umbrella. hē-soá<sup>n</sup>-tsat, a venomous serpent coloured like the handle of an umbrella.

niú<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>, a state umbrella carried before a mandarin or great idol. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsán niú<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>, a state umbrella having three layers (only used by first-rank mandarins). bān-jin-soá<sup>n</sup>, an honorary umbrella presented by the people to a good mandarin when he leaves.

ò-soá<sup>n</sup>, to twirl the state umbrella, as when idols meet each other (v. ò). iám-soá<sup>n</sup>, to dip or lower the state umbrella, as when two mandarins pass each other (so as to hide each other, and thus avoid the need of making long salutations), or as when an idol passes another idol, or the temple of a greater idol.

soá<sup>n</sup> (R. sán), to scatter; to disperse; to pay out, as pay or wages to many persons; well mixed, as paste, starch, &c. khah-soá<sup>n</sup>, much scattered; wanting in union, as villages not thoroughly organized; thoroughly well mixed, as paste that has no lumps. iā soá<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>, to scatter about, as sand or seeds, or as things strewed about without order. si-soá<sup>n</sup>, scattered in all directions; scattered, as meeting, family, company, &c. phah-soá<sup>n</sup>, to separate (other persons); to dishevel. phah-soá<sup>n</sup> thâu-mng, to dishevel hair. thiah-soá<sup>n</sup>, to separate forcibly or cruelly, as man and wife. pun-soá<sup>n</sup>, to be scattered, as members of a family, &c. hun-soá<sup>n</sup>, to disperse, distribute, or he wholly scattered all in different directions, as things or persons; e.g. relatives dispersed in search of a livelihood, or fleeing from rebellion, &c. koá<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>, to drive away and scatter.

soá<sup>n</sup>-táu, to disband, as soldiers; to melt away, as army before the enemy; to send soldiers back to their respective stations when the work is done for which they were collected; to dissolve partnership, alliance, or friendship, as any sort of persons. lē-ke soá<sup>n</sup>-thêh, family all scattered away and quite dispersed. soá<sup>n</sup>-tūi, to disperse the ranks of soldiers, as at a review, or for a manœuvre. soá<sup>n</sup>-sék, guests separating after a feast. soá<sup>n</sup>-òh, to dismiss the school at the end of the year. soá<sup>n</sup>-kau, to break up, as a company of actors. hi soá<sup>n</sup>, the market broken up.

siau-soá<sup>n</sup>--khì, to waste quite away; exhausted, as funds; cured, as a swelling or some other diseases. siau-soá<sup>n</sup> bò--khì, id.

soá<sup>n</sup> chí<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, to pay soldiers. soá<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, id. soá<sup>n</sup> kang-chí<sup>n</sup>, to pay out wages to workmen.

chiu<sup>n</sup> bó-soá<sup>n</sup>, the starch is not well mixed, as when full of lumps. noá<sup>n</sup> bò-soá<sup>n</sup>, not equally worked into the dress, as starch.

soá<sup>n</sup> (R. sièn), thread; fine cord; (wire); (vermicelli); a moulding, as on a door or window. chiam-soá<sup>n</sup>, needle and thread (v. chiam).

in-soá<sup>n</sup>, to wind thread. kap-soá<sup>n</sup>, to twine thread from two or three strands of yarn. khan-soá<sup>n</sup>, to mark a line with a cord.

bóe-soá<sup>n</sup>, to give money in order to find stolen articles, or to get on the track of a thief, runaway, or criminal. bóe-soá<sup>n</sup>-soh, do., so as to get on a man's track.

gūn-soá<sup>n</sup>, silver wire. thih-soá<sup>n</sup>, iron wire. thih-soá<sup>n</sup>-lò, a stiff fine stuff for mosquito curtains. tâng-soá<sup>n</sup>, brass or copper wire. thiu tâng-soá<sup>n</sup>, to make it.

mī<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>, vermicelli (v. mī<sup>n</sup>). tiò-soá<sup>n</sup>, a fishing-line. chin-soá<sup>n</sup>, a line for making a straight line. hún-soá<sup>n</sup>, a tailor's chalk-line. hun-kim-soá<sup>n</sup>, a string with a cash at the end of it (used for geomancy). hm-lâng-soá<sup>n</sup>, a thread sewed very loosely to keep the cloth in position for sewing and afterwards removed. thâu-mng-bé-soá<sup>n</sup>, the tassel at the end of a man's queue. bú-soá<sup>n</sup>, the larger string in some stringed instruments. tsu-soá<sup>n</sup>, the smaller strings in a stringed instrument. hē-chhiu-á-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of very thin twine. si-soá<sup>n</sup>, silk thread. se-soá<sup>n</sup>, cotton thread (v. se). siu-soá<sup>n</sup>, thread for embroidery. sá-soá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

khí-soá<sup>n</sup>, to have a sort of bead-moulding near the edge, e.g. as table or door-frame. khí phú-soá<sup>n</sup>, id. phak-lek-soá<sup>n</sup>, sort of bead-moulding used on furniture. têng-soá<sup>n</sup>, to nail on the moulding, as on frame of door or window.

soá<sup>n</sup>-toān, a fine soft sort of satin. soá<sup>n</sup>-thán, a sort of rug made of cotton. soá<sup>n</sup>-jiàu<sup>n</sup>, silk camblet.

soá<sup>n</sup> — sok-soá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of prepared incense. soá<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a long incense-stick with no bamboo in it. hui<sup>n</sup>-soá<sup>n</sup>-lok, a long paper-bag for holding incense-sticks.

soah [R. sat, to end; deleterious influences; = col. soá<sup>n</sup>], to end; to finish; to make an end of; to let a matter drop or take end, as work, or quarrel, or play; and no more; to kill, as a fowl; to cause death by malign inauspicious influence, as a very bad horoscope or deadly spiritual influence (rarely said of a disease); sort of malign injurious demon.

tsòe-soah, to have finished. tsai-soah, to know when one has had enough; to know when to stop. m̄-tsai-soah, insatiable; going on when he should have stopped. pàng-soah, to have done with an affair; to

散

煞

汕

傘

散

線

線

煞殺

let it drop. pàng-i-soah, to let the quarrel with him take end; to let him off. m-pàng-i-soah, won't let him off; will keep up the quarrel. goá m-pàng-lí-soah, I won't let you off; I will have it out of you. siu-soah, to wind up an affair suitably. ah-soah, to restrain a man, as from quarrelling. hoah-soah, to order an inferior to stop a quarrel. hoá<sup>n</sup>-soah (T.), to try to get a quarrel settled, as neighbours or bystanders. hoá-soah (Cn.), id.

soah-hoáh, to determine a matter or decide what course is to be taken, as the leader or head-man in any affair or business.

báuh-soah, to despise or deride a man as quite unable to accomplish his purpose (v. báuh).

soah-bé, the end; the very last. soah-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, youngest son (v. kiá<sup>n</sup>). soah-liáu, all finished; all over and past. kè-liáu-sí, soah-liáu-tái, the matter is long past, ended, and quite dead, so that it should not be raised again.

soah-png, to finish the ceremonies (khiā-hà) for the dead. soah gē-mng, to pay so much as to content the officials and underlings of a yamun in winding up a case by mutual agreement.

soah-chi<sup>n</sup>, fine fair weather.

gē-lí-lē soah, not more than five lí.

soah-múi<sup>n</sup> (C.), well on in the afternoon (v. múi<sup>n</sup>).

chhit-soah poeh-pái, all going wrong or gone wrong, as affairs.

soah-koe, to kill a fowl. soah-huih, do., by cutting the neck.

chit-pi<sup>n</sup> soah chit-lâng, men die of many different diseases.

sí-soah, desperate, as a case that cannot in any way be set right; dull and mechanical at study or work, unable to think for one's self, and only doing mechanically what is taught or ordered. chip sí-soah, to be very dogged. pák-sí-soah, to tie a run-knot.

soah-sín, certain very malicious and hurtful demons. sín-soah, spirits and injurious demons. hióng-sín ok-soah, malicious and injurious spirits and demons. hóng-sín ok-soah, id. chhit-soah-sín, certain hurtful demons (seven). soah-khi, deadly influence from persons or things. hóng-soah, deadly influence of wind on a house or grave. koan-soah, demons very dangerous to young infants, esp. at the times called "koan." thé-soah, demons that are apt to be very hurtful at the time of making a grave or beginning to build or repair a house. chhit-tsáp-jí tē-soah, the seventy-two evil spirits of the earth. thien-kong tē-soah, certain spirits of heaven and earth (v. kong). soah khah-tâng, the injurious spiritual influences very powerful. toà-sam-soah, fated to be injured by three such malicious demons. poeh-jí toà-soah, his horoscope will have injurious effects on his parents and other relatives. hoán sam-soah, to come under the baleful influence of three malicious demons. hoán--tióh lē-soah, injured in luck by having a long straight road pointed directly at it, as grave. hoán-soah, to come under baleful spiritual influence, as grave or house. bōe-kham--tit siu-soah, unable to resist such evil influences, as a grave.

soah--tióh, injuriously affected by baleful spiritual influence. sa<sup>n</sup>-soah, to conflict so as to cause great injury, as the horoscopes of father and son, or of husband and wife. ōe-soah i-ē-pē, will have a deadly effect on his father, as the conflicting horoscope of his son. soah--sí, to cause a person's death by an injurious horoscope, or by the influence of the "soah-sín," or by magic; said also of assassination. soah-bé, to have one's wife die by some such malign influence.

chè-soah, to ward off these baleful spiritual influences. tin-soah, id.

soah [R. sat, to scatter, = col. seh, siet, &c.], to sprinkle or drop a little of, as salt, sugar, &c. soah-iám, to sprinkle salt, as on food. soah-iú, to throw some small bits of fat on hot meat when cooking, so as to give it a good taste.

soah-kiám, to put in a little of some salt condiment, e.g. soy. soah-chhè, to drop or pour on a little vinegar.

soáh — kông soáh-soáh, behaving foolishly and mad-like. bâng soáh-soáh, very much pressed with business, so as to have no leisure. gē soáh-soáh, mind much perplexed.

soái<sup>n</sup> — soái<sup>n</sup>-á (T.), = A. soa<sup>n</sup>-á, a hill.

soái<sup>n</sup> (cf. sōng), clownish, rude, and vulgar; utterly wanting in propriety.

soái<sup>n</sup> — soái<sup>n</sup>-á, a mango; a bubo. bah-soái<sup>n</sup>, an inferior sort of mango. soái<sup>n</sup>-á-sng, sort of preserve made from mangoes. soái<sup>n</sup>-á-hong, sort of venereal disease connected with a bubo.

soái<sup>n</sup>, sound of things suddenly crushed or squeezed. sih<sup>n</sup>-sih<sup>n</sup> soái<sup>n</sup>-soái<sup>n</sup>, creaking sound, as of boards or of a bamboo chair. soái<sup>n</sup>-soái<sup>n</sup>-háu, do., or of carrying a load on a bamboo pole, or of sedan carried.

soan [R. sour, = col. sng]. hân-soan-khi, over-cautious manner of man, afraid to say yes or no, esp. from fear of expense; mean or niggardly. hân-soan, id. hân-soan-kheh, afraid to come forward or to meddle in a matter; very shy, e.g. afraid to meet influential people in company; too hard or mean in using money. hân-soan-kheh; nih<sup>n</sup>, kiá<sup>n</sup>-sí; pàng, kiá<sup>n</sup>-pe, afraid either to meddle or to let alone; if he hold (the bird) tight, it may die; if loose, it may fly away.

soan (= chhoan). soan-tin, to throw out suckers.

soan [R. chhoan, to press into a small opening, = col. chng]. soan phi<sup>n</sup>-khang, to affect the nostrils powerfully, as a strong smell, good or bad.

soan [R. name of a flower, said to be a sort of iris, = lók-chhong-hoe]. soan-chhó, an ornamental flowering-plant. soan-chháu, id.

soan [R. to proclaim; to publish; cf. col. sien], a surname. soan-thoân (R.), to proclaim or publish, as doctrine. soan-pè (R.), id.

tâng-soan-lê, a brass incense vessel; the best are made of the fine brass of the reign Soan-tek of the Ming dynasty. soan-lê, id. thoân soan-lê, to warm and polish such a vessel till it is quite bright. chiá<sup>n</sup> soan-tek--ê, one really made of the fine brass of the reign Soan-tek.

soan (R. id.) soan-hoa (R.), great noise of talk and clamour (v. hoa).

soân [R. a boat, = col. tsún]. soân-bō, a large felt cap. soân-bō liám-khang, a felt cap with a hole in it (said of a story that is false). kau-chiu-soân, a large felt cap from Shantung.

soân [R. to go round; to twine; = col. hoan]. chiu-soân, to set right a dangerous or very troublesome quarrel or such affair for another, as arbiter. kân-soân, to manage, or try to manage, a troublesome piece of business, either for self or other. phoân-soân, to have constant, intimate, friendly intercourse together.

soân (R. id.), to torture the fingers by pressure in

撒

樣

酸

穿

萱

宣

誼

船

旋

an instrument. soán-khí-lâi, id. soán-chí, the instrument used for torturing the fingers of women only. pàng-soán, to take off this torturing instrument.

soán (Cn. sán). chí<sup>n</sup>-soán, sort of long cakes fried in fat.

soán [R. to choose]. kóng-soán (r.), to select. chhiu-soán (R.), to choose the best, as men or things. thiau-soán, to select after repeated trials, or very careful examination. thiau-soán ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, very choice things. thiau-soán ê-peng, choice soldiers. kham-tit-soán, worthy of being chosen. soán kiá<sup>n</sup>-sài, to choose a son-in-law. soán hông-hē, to choose an empress. soán jin-tsâi, to select able men for places of trust; to select a good-looking son-in-law. soán bí-lú, to select beautiful girls for the imperial harem. soán-poát, to select one Sew-tsai once in twelve years from each Hien district (v. poát).

soán [R. to count, = col. sng, siâu]. soán-hoat, arithmetic. kui-tú soán-hoat, id. kiú-kui soán-hoat, id. soán-hoat chhi<sup>n</sup>, not good at accounts. soán-hoat sék, good at arithmetic.

put-siōng-soán, utterly useless (as man or thing); not worth counting though present. put-siōng-soán ê-lâng, an utterly useless man.

kui-lêng hòk-soán, may you live as long as the tortoise and the stork! chhién-soán bân-soán, m-táh thi<sup>n</sup> chit-soán, myriads of plans are not worth one purpose of Heaven.

soán (R. id.), (Cn. sng). soán-á, garlic. soán-thâu, garlic roots. soán-jiōng, garlic pounded small. soán-á-péh, garlic root and the white part of the stalk, cut down small.

soán [R. — Cn. siēn, C. soán]. him-soán, = him-siēn, to desire very much; to delight in.

soán — soán-chiōh, the diamond. hé-soán, a first-class clear diamond, which reflects light with brilliant colours. tsúí-soán, an inferior diamond. kim-gék-soán, precious metals and jewels. soán-pit, a glazier's diamond.

soat [R. snow, = col. seh]. tái-soat, the term on or about December 7th. siáu-soat, the term half a month sooner, about Nov. 22d. (s. speak). soat-i, sort of dress sometimes worn by mandarins (v. i).

soat-bún (f.), soap.

soat [R. to speak, = col. seh, sòe]. soat-chhiàu, joking and jesting. soat-chhiōng, id. tâm-giēn soat-chhiōng, to chat and jest. tâm-kim soat-ké, to talk idly about things in general (lit. modern and ancient). tâm-thien soat-tê, to talk idly about things that do not concern us. chhú gán-chiēn chi-sū; hô-pit tâm-thien soat-tê, I speak only of the present affair; why should we talk of things that have no connection with the matter? jin, put-soat put-ti: ké, put-tá<sup>n</sup> put-hiáng, said of a man not acknowledging a favour done him.

siáu-soat, novels (s. snow).

hē-soat, to tell lies.

soát — soát-soát-háu, noise, as of filing.

soe (R. sē), (C. se), a comb; to comb. kak-soe, a comb made of horn. chhâ-soe, a wooden comb.

hi<sup>n</sup>-soe, the reed of a loom (v. hi<sup>n</sup>). bēh-soe, an iron comb for taking the ear off wheat or barley.

soe-tsng, to comb and adorn the head, only of woman (v. tsng). soe-thâu, to comb the hair. soe-thâu-kun, a cloth thrown over the shoulder by woman at toilet. soe phōng-thâu, a peculiar way of dressing women's hair.

SOE (C. se; Cn. sōe). sàu-soe, a coarse bamboo brush. kiū<sup>n</sup>-soe (T.), id. tek-sōe (Cn.), id.

SOE (R. sē; by some divided into two separate words), (C. se; Cn. sōe), not nearly related; widely separate, as bars, rows, threads, &c.; at variance, as persons.

chhin-soe, nearly related and not nearly related; relatives and persons not related. khah-soe chit-pi<sup>n</sup>, a little more distant in relationship. khah-soe chit-ün, one degree more distant in relationship.

soe-làng, set wide apart; of loose texture (v. làng). soe-soe pâng, to sew very wide cross-stitches. soe-chi-thang, a window made with fixed bars (v. thang).

SOE [R. sē, vegetables], (C. se). chhài-soe, vegetables. kim-hi-soe, weeds for gold or silver fish. hé-soe, sort of edible sea-weed fried in fat.

SOE (R. id.), to lose good fortune; to be unprosperous; to fail in strength or luck; to grow poor or unfortunate; to fail, decline, or decay; also (vulg.), unable to have children, as man. soe-bi, to meet with reverses; to lose prosperity. soe-lám, sickly; very weak from a chronic disease, or as an old man; declining in health. soe-jiók, weak and infirm. soe-pòh, scanty, as crop of fruit (v. pòh). soe-sap, fallen into decay, as person or place; broken down and seedy-looking. liōng-pōe-soe, in great poverty; very weak and broken down in health. soe kàu-lut-thâu-tsang, matters come to a very ruinous and unfortunate state (lit. to lose one's queue).

soe-khi, all one does going wrong and failing; rapidly growing very poor; rapidly diminishing in numbers, as family or village. khi soe, constitution broken down, as by long illness or old age. lāng-khi soe, very few people there, as in place laid waste or rapidly declining. lāng-khi khah-soe, id.

chhek-soe, to meet with bad luck or bad omen. phah kah-i-soe, to say that a man's enterprise is sure to fail, so as to make a bad omen and cause it really to fail. hiám-hiám soe, had almost taken part in some case or matter which would have brought great calamity; had almost seen something that would have been a very bad omen.

sēng-soe, prosperity and adversity; success and failure. sēng-soe iú-si, prosperity and adversity have their fated times. heng-soe, prosperity and adversity. soe-ōng, decaying and prospering (v. ōng).

SÔE (C.), = A. sūi, to hang down, as something drooping; also (P.), = A. C. sūi, to hang down, in general.

sóe (R. sé, often erroneously read "sién"), (C. sé; Cn. sōe), to wash. sóe-lóe, id. sóe-tng, to wash and then rinse or wash again. sóe-chheng, to wash clean. sóe chheng-khi, id. sóe-tú (r.), to wash quite away. sóe-ék, to wash or bathe by throwing water over one's self. ēng hông-hô ê-tsúí lâi-sóe, iáh-bōe chheng-khi, cannot be washed clean even with the waters of the Yellow River; said of a bad name. sóe-kháu (C. sek), to wash the mouth (v. kháu). sóe-kim, to wash out gold from sand.

tê-sóe (C. tê-siēn), an earthen plate for teapot and small cups; a small piece of cloth or netting put below tea-cups on salver.

sóe-tsūn, to clean a boat's bottom, by sweeping, rubbing, &c., or by burning. tá<sup>n</sup>-sóe, id.

sóe gē-kak, to lay waste the crops of an enemy, as in a feud. sóe bé-kha, to wound a horse's legs severely, as in war. sóe-sak (T.), to exterminate

梭選

算

蒜

羨璇

雪

說

披梳

疎疏

蔬衰

洗

utterly; to wash and throw away the water. liáh-khi-sóe, seize and behead him; esp. said by the Small Knife Society.

sóe-chê, to expiate guilt, by burning paper and making offerings. sóe-hùt, an idol carried about the shops, and getting some money at each. sóe-lé (X.), baptism. kiá<sup>n</sup> sóe-lé (X.), to perform baptism. niá<sup>n</sup> sóe-lé (X.), to be baptized.

chiu<sup>n</sup>-sóe, to wash and starch; to speak very angrily; to insult by talk. sng-sóe, to steep clothes in sour water, and then wash them; also (T.), to speak to a man somewhat angrily, or to blame him indirectly for his bad practices (s. next two words).

sóe — sng-sóe, feeling of pain in bones, as when feverish or wearied; feeling out of sorts, as in cold damp rainy weather. kut-thâu sng-sóe, id. (s. preceding and following words).

sóe, to sorn upon. sap-sóe, dirt and scum left by the tide or floating, or in sea-moss and such eatables; getting money or things by cunning or importunity, and not giving back; to sorn on one, getting food or other things from him. khoe-sóe, to sorn on a man, getting things (esp. meals) out of him by constantly hanging about. sóe-lâng, to sorn on people. sóe pŭng-tŭng, to get a meal out of a man.

sóe (= soeh). iau-chia<sup>n</sup> si-sóe (C.), a scolding phrase applied to women gadding about, and speaking or acting improperly.

sóe [R. sú; cf. col. sòe], (C. sê; Cn. sõe), millet. toā-sóe, the common large millet. hoan-sóe, id. lē-sóe, id. sóe-á, small sort of millet. káu-bé-sóe, short millet with ears hanging down like a dog's tail. ah-kha-sóe, = ah-kha-sek, a small grain in heads like a fowl's foot. sóe-sek béh-tâu, millet, wheat or barley, and leguminous plants. sóe-bâng, a stalk of millet with emptied ears, used as a brush. sóe-á-chí, sort of cake made from millet.

sòe [R. a year, = col. hê, sê]. sòe-kun, the name of a year (= ní<sup>n</sup>-kô), as denoted by the two cyclical characters, but so called only as used in divination. sòe-khó, the triennial examination of Sew-tsai graduates, for the degree of "lím-seng," preparatory to trial for Kujin. sòe-kóng, title of a lím-seng, who after twelve years has not been able to take the degree of "poát-kóng."

liú-pút-thài-sòe, the demon of eclipse.

bân-sòe (ten thousand years old), phrase used in praising the emperor. bân-bân-sòe, id. bân-sòe-iâ, the emperor. chhien-sòe-iâ (lit. thousand years), title of younger brother of emperor. chhien-sòe, id. kiú-chhien-sòe (lit. nine thousand years), the extraordinary title given to the notorious eunuch Gūi Tiông-hián, in the end of the Ming dynasty.

sòe [R. id., by change of tone from "sut," to lead]. tsú-sòe, commander-in-chief (s. small). chiông-sòe, first-class military mandarins, as general, admiral, and commander-in-chief. sòe-jī-kí, a flag with the word "sòe" on it; used by commander-in-chief and by some idols.

goân-sòe, commander-in-chief. goân-sòe-iâ, name of four idols, surnamed Khng, Tiō, Bé, and Un; also (Cn.), a deified dog. khng goân-sòe, a red-faced idol, attendant on Má-tsé-pó, or on Tái-tō-kong. tiō goân-sòe, a black-faced one. bé goân-sòe, the white-faced one. un goân-sòe, the attendant idol mounted on a tiger. tiông-tân goân-sòe, a title of the idol "lô-chhia." tiên goân-sòe, title of the idol "siú<sup>n</sup>-kang-tia."

sòe (R. sè), (C. sè; Cn. sõe), small. sòe-sòe tŭng-tŭng, long and slender. òeh-sòe, small, as a place. sóe-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a small boy; a child. sòe-hàn, a young person; small, as man. sòe-chiah, small, as animal; a small animal (so with other classifiers). sòe-á-chiah, a small animal.

sòe-tsoh, a spy.

sòe-jī, small characters.

sòe-jī, careful. sòe-jī kiá<sup>n</sup>, walk carefully and slowly; polite phrase at parting. m-thang sòe-jī, chiah káu-pá, don't stint yourself; eat abundantly. tsú-sòe, careful (s. commander). sòe-sün (Cn.), careful. sòe-sim, careful; humble. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> sóe, contented with moderate gains, e.g. willing to take a low price, or not making dangerous ventures.

sòe-î, a concubine. sòe-kim, wife of wife's younger brother. sòe-kū (Cn.), = kū-á, wife's younger brother. sòe-chek (An.), = A. sió-chek, husband's younger brother. goân-sòe--ê, my younger brother.

sī-sòe, an inferior.

toā-sòe, large and small; great and small; old and young. bô-toā bô-sòe, not paying proper respect to superior, esp. as disobedient boy. bák-chiu toā-sòe-lúí, partial. pàng toā-sòe-bák, to wink at faults. toā-sòe-sim, partiality, as in treating or paying agents, children, &c. toā-sòe-sián, orchitis in one of the testes.

sòe [R. sú, millet, = col. sóe]. sòe-á-bí, = sek-á, a small sort of grain.

sòe [R. id., by change of tone from "soat," to speak], to try to persuade or talk over a man.

sòe, to try to find, as something that has gone to the bottom of the sea. sòe-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to fish up a lost anchor.

sòe (C.), = A. sè, rent; customs dues; to let or rent.

sòe (C.), = A. sê, to flow out.

sòe (C.) sòe-hùn, to scatter powdered manure on fields. sòe-húí, id. on dry fields.

soeh [R. sek, to fill up, = col. siap, that], (C. seh), to fill up, as a crack or chink, by pressing something in; to press one's way through a crowd; to make steady, as a table, by putting some thin thing under one of the feet. soeh hé-ŭg, to creep stealthily along unobserved under the shadow of the lamp, as a thief.

òeh-soeh, very scant of room because of crowding. óeh-óeh soeh-soeh, id.

soeh-phāng, to press something into a chink or crevice. soeh piah-khang, do. into a chink in a partition wall. soeh-khí, to get in among the teeth, as meat.

soeh-siap, to give money in order to get assistance by influence, false witness, &c. (v. siap). hē-soeh (T.), to give a bribe to one person.

chiòh-soeh, a sort of small green crab.

soeh (C.), = A. seh, to explain, as a book; also (P.), = A. kóng (in some phrases), to speak. ké-soeh (C.), = A. kóe-seh, to explain, as a book. soeh to-siá (P.), to give thanks.

soeh (C.) iau-chia<sup>n</sup> sih-soeh (= sóe), behaving improperly, as woman.

soh (C.), = A. suh, to suck.

soh [R. sek, a rope; a chain; to demand], a rope; a cord; a cable. soh-á, small rope; twine. tsang-

糸田

黍說

塞

索

黍

歲

帥

sóh, rope made of palm fibre. er-sóh, black ropes, used for binding criminals.

phah-sóh, to make ropes. ká-sóh, to twist ropes, in making them. kiá"-sóh, to walk on the tight rope, esp. as northern men. táh-sóh, id.

táh-sóh, ropes that suspend the sail (like a swing) when partially rolled up. tiá"-sóh, cable for anchor. pē-sóh, rope that binds on quantities of wood on the side of a junk. khē-lóh-sóh, porter's ropes (v. lóh). lak-sóh, the string of a drill (v. lak). chín-sóh, a building-line or plummet. chia-sóh, endless band of spinning-wheel. sai-kong hoat-sóh, magical cord used by Taoists. kē-sóh, cord used for tying women's hair. gū-liáu-sóh, rope for a cow (v. liáu). bé-sóh, a halter for leading a horse. khan-mŭg-sóh--ê, man who leads men to bad houses.

sóh-lē, ropes, in regard to number and direction. tsòe-sóh-lē, to rig up a sail on a vessel. kāu-sóh-lē, having many ropes in many directions; having a great many matters to manage. sóh-lē tsòe, id. kap-pán-tsún kāu-sóh-lē, a foreign vessel has a great many ropes; said also of much business.

sóh — chhiú-sóh, flat armlets. koà-sóh, to wear flat armlets.

sóh (cf. sò). sóh-lái sóh-khì, to walk back and forwards. sóh chit-tsoā-lái, sóh chit-tsoā-khì, id. sóh thit-thò, to go about for amusement. sì-kòe-sóh, to go about idly. chiah-pá sì-kòe-sóh, to do nothing but eat and go about idly (said in scolding boys).

sóh (Cn. T.), = A. seh, snow. sòh-sún (Cn.), = A. tang-sún, winter shoots of bamboo.

sóh (Cn.), = A. kóng, seh, to speak, &c. sòh-siet, to twit; to talk half joke half earnest.

sok [R. quick, = col. suh, soā]. sín-sok, rapid; rapidly; quickly. hé-sok, very quickly, as in executing another's orders. sok-pò-si, an idol attending on Sêng-hóng (v. si).

sok [R. the first of the month]. sok-bōng, the 1st and 15th of a month.

sok [R. siok, respectful; retiring; quiet]. sok-chēng, quiet, without disturbance.

sok — sok-soà", a sort of prepared incense. phà"-sok-hiú", a fine sort of incense. phà"-sok, the wood from which it is made. sok-chhâ, id.

sok [R. to bind; to restrain; a bundle], a small bag; a bundle, as of incense-sticks; a scabbard. chhiú-sok, gloves. chhiú-ŭg-sok, covers for the cuffs of a coat, for keeping them clean. to-sok, scabbard for sword or knife. kiám-sok, scabbard for short sword. hau-pau-sok, a bit of stone or shell used as clasp for a sort of purse or pouch. hun-pau-sok, two such bits for clasp of tobacco-pouch.

chit-sok-hiú", a bundle of incense-sticks in a long paper-bag. kui-sok-hiú", id.

sok-kim, a teacher's salary. sok-siu, id.

sok-chhiú, to fold the arms on the breast, with hands in opposite sleeves or under the arms. sok-chhiú bú-chhek, arms folded on breast and having no way out of the danger or difficulty.

iok-sok, to restrain. khu-sok, to keep in very strict discipline, and restrain well, as sons, employés, &c. sok-pák, behaving well because of the presence of some one.

kiet-sok, neat and tidy, as person or thing; neatly put up, as parcel, basket, box, or book, made convenient for carrying; neatly put on, as dress neither too tight nor too loose. sok-kiet, id.; also said of house or room, small but neat and nice. sok-hiet (Cn.), small and neat, as house or room.

siu-sok, gradually tapering; gradually reduced, as the opening of a wound, or as expenditure. khang-chhùi siu-sok, the wound very nearly healed up. ta"-khah-siu-sok, expenditure now less than before, as by strict economy; behaviour now improved, as of man formerly bad.

sòk (Cn.), = A. sek (in one or two words only).

som (R. id.), (Cn. sm, sòm; C. sim), ginseng, biche-de-mer, &c. chién-som, to buy ginseng. chiah-som, to take ginseng medicinally.

hái-som, biche-de-mer. er-som, a black sort. er-jiàu-som, a large rough sort. chhì-som, a prickly sort.

jîn-som, ginseng (Panax). iú"-som, foreign ginseng. tóng-som, a cheap sort, not a real Panax (sort of Convolvulus or Campanula?). táng-som, id. tan-som, a very cheap sort (Salvia?). goán-som, a very cheap inferior sort. hiên-som, id.

sa-som, a plant, the stalks of which are used as a cooling medicine; it grows on the mountains near Chang-chew. soa-som, a medicinal plant (Adenophora?). soa"-som, a small mountain shrub used for making a cooling infusion. soa"-som-á, id. soa"-som-té (C.), infusion of it.

song [R. the mulberry, = col. sng]. song-kiá-si", a parasite of the mulberry (used medicinally).

song — phōng-song, bulky; taking up a great deal of room out of proportion to its weight, as parcel loosely tied or basket almost empty; clumsy and hanging loosely, as dress when many clothes are worn at once, or as pocket full of large things. pōng-song, id. phōng-phōng song-song, id.

song [R. frost, = col. sng]. siū-chîn hong-song, much exposed to weather and cold, as travellers.

khì-song, the bloom on dried persimmons (v. khì). liòk-goát-song, a cooling medicine.

song [R. mourning; funereal, = col. sng]. song-sū, matters connected with funeral and mourning. song-hí-sū, births, deaths, marriages, and such ceremonies. song-hók, deep mourning. sam-liên-song, mourning for twenty-seven months for parents. ki-liên-song, one year's mourning, as for uncle.

ku-song, to be in mourning for parents. ki-song (C.), id. bái-song, to call and worship the corpse before burial, as friends do. būn-song (R.), id. tiàu-song (R.), to call and make offerings to the "hún-sin."

song [R. a pair, = col. siang, sang, seng]. song-chhin, father and mother. hok bū-song-chì, good fortune does not come in pairs (v. hok).

song-á-chiòh, granite slabs of the usual size and shape. song-á, id.

sóng (R. sióng), (cf. chhêng, chiáng, soái"), vulgar, clownish, ignorant, and stupid; quite without politeness. sóng-sóng, id. sóng-tai, id.; stupid. thé-sóng, vulgar, clownish, clumsy, and ignorant. tai-sóng-gōng, vulgar, foolish, and clumsy. sóng-tâng, id. (s. fir).

sóng [R. sióng, the fir-tree, = col. chhêng, seng]. sóng-ka, = sióng-ka, resin from fir-wood. sóng-tâng, a sort of coarse soft fir-wood, apt to breed white ants, and is almost useless; it makes little smoke, and is used for distilling (s. stupid).

sóng (R. id.), comfortable; pleasant, as a place. sóng-khoài, comfortable. sóng-li, pleasantly laid

鍊

速

朔
肅
束

參

桑
鬆

霜 喪

雙

淞

松

爽

out, arranged, or furnished, as house or garden; feeling comfortable, as after change of dress, &c. m-sóng-lì, feeling uncomfortable in body; dirty or disorderly, as house; not well settled, as affair that will probably soon be as bad as ever. chheng-sóng, at leisure; neat, clean, and pleasant, as place.

sóng-kháu, pleasing the palate.

sóng [R. to lose; by change of tone from "song," funereal]. sóng-sit, to lose. sóng-sim, having lost all sense of shame, ready for any wickedness. súi-thâu sòng-chì, hanging the head and having lost all spirit. sóng-tá, to lose all courage. sóng-tám, id. bún-hong sòng-tám, to lose all courage on hearing the news.

sóng, very poor. sóng-hiong, id. chhiah-sóng, id. chhám-sóng, wretchedly poor. sóng-hiuh-hiuh, extremely poor. sóng-khiuh-khiuh, id. sóng-gih-gih, id. sóng-giën-giën (esp. T.), id.

sóng-goá pún-téng, though poor, I hurt no one by it but myself.

sóng [R. to make a present; to accompany on leaving; = col. sàng]. sóng-hêng, to see a friend off on a journey. sóng-sin, to present money, as to a graduate when he goes to the examinations. sùn-hong siong-sóng, may you have a good wind on your voyage.

sóng [R. name of a state and of a dynasty; a surname; = col. sàng]. sóng-tiâu, the Sung dynasty. sóng-thé-ji, the common square form of characters used in printing. kiông-tông jiok-sóng, the powerful Tang and weak Sung dynasties. hong-tông bô-ia-sóng, baseless stories of these ancient dynasties. hau-tông, bô-ia-chiah-sóng, id.

lū-sóng, Luzon; the Philippines. li-sóng (C.), id. toā-lū-sóng, Spain. sóng-kha, Luzon; small sort of shrimp from it. sóng-bí, still smaller shrimps from it.

sóng — sóng-sóng, spiritless, having a dull apathetic appearance, as if not caring for anything. kiá-lē sòng-sóng, walking very slowly and quietly with short steps, without spirit, vigour, or vivacity. lok-sóng, appearance of being in very reduced circumstances; looking dispirited and broken-down, e.g. in countenance or dress, &c.

sóng (Cn.), = A. seng, to be born, &c.; so with several words in various tones.

SU [R. ought], (C. si). su-tiòh, ought to — hông-kiâu, su hā-má, at a bridge one should dismount. su-tiám hùt-chiën-teng, should light candles before idols.

SU [R. to need; to be in want of], (C. si). kun-su, forced contributions or squeezes, said to be for military purposes. phài-kun-su, to levy such contributions. koan kun-su, to subscribe or promise to pay so much of them. kiáu kun-su, to pay the amount.

SU [R. beard, with whiskers and moustaches, = col. chhiu], (C. si). liông-su-chháu, a medicinal plant.

SU [R. sū, to wait]. su-hē (Cn. sū-hiō), to wait for (v. hē). su-hâu, id.; also, to wait upon, as a servant.

SU [R. to take charge of, as an office; an official; = col. sī], (Cn. sū). su-má, a surname. su-tê, a surname. su-bêng tsàu-kun, the god of the fire-place.

SU [R. this], (C. sū). su-bún, polite; gentlemanly.

SU [R. mutually; all; to help]. kūi-su, an assistant of the "hē-pàng," who collects the land-tax of a subdivision of a Hien district, e.g. of Amoy island or of Koân-kháu.

SU (C.) hin-su, the body. hun-su, id. hin-su-tūi, the trunk of the body. ē-su, = A. ē-sin, the lower part of the body. ē-su ê in-chiū, clothes of lower part of the body. thâu-su tâm, all wet through. tsūi-su lóng-tâm, id.

kui-su, an entire suit of clothes. tsōân-su, id. sì-su-sa, four suits of clothes.

háh-su (A.), fitting well, as dress. úi-su-kûn (A.), an apron.

SU [R. to think], (Cn. sū). su-siū (r.), to think; to consider. sám-su (R.), to reflect deeply. su-chhun (R.), woman longing for sexual intercourse.

su-niū, to consult together (v. niū).

ū sim-su, very good at contriving or inventing. káu-sim-su, too anxious about matters. hó-sim-su, skilful at inventions, as in making things or managing matters. sió-khoá ê sim-su, it was no trouble at all (said politely when praised for one's work, or when thanked for trouble taken for another). sim-su kò-tē, to think too deeply on any matter, so as to injure one's health. sim-su kè-tē, id.

ló-kong-su, a medicinal plant, tall and half-shrubby, with lilac flowers.

SU (R. id., = col. sai), (Cn. sū), secret; private; illicit; selfish. phien-su, partial; partiality. su-hā, private; one's own; secretly. su-khia, private; one's own. su-kha (Cn.), id. thiet-biën bû-su, strictly impartial, as mandarin (lit. iron face). thien-tê bû-su, heaven and earth are impartial. siáp-su, to act by partiality or unjust selfishness.

kong-su, public and private; just and selfish. poân-kong-su, half public, half private. ká-kong hêng-su, to advance private ends under pretence of the public good. kong-pò su-siū, to gratify private revenge under show of public justice.

su-giáp, personal private property. su-iok, a private or clandestine agreement.

su-thong, illicit sexual intercourse; to give traitorous information. su-háp (R.), illicit sexual intercourse. su-iók (R.), evil desires or passions (v. iók).

su-iâm, smuggled salt. liáh su-hè, to seize smuggled goods.

su-chiám, to take unjust possession of public property for one's self. su-àm, to appropriate secretly part of public funds. iú-su-pè, improperly using opportunities to get money without superior's knowledge, as in a commission or lawsuit.

tau-su, self-confident and somewhat proud (v. tau).

SU [R. to pay taxes or tribute; to lose in a contest], to lose in a contest of any sort; to be inferior in some quality. su-lóh-khi, to lose heavily in gambling. su-lu--khi, all lost by gambling. chhân-hng bé-kiá su-lu--khi, lands and family all gambled away.

khah-su, to be inferior in some quality. bô-khah-su, not at all inferior. khah-su--i, to be excelled by him. khah-su tióh-khi, as it cannot be helped, I must just go, though unwilling. khah-su i beh-khi, against my will, wish, or anxiety, he would go. khah-su thâu-ke beh àn-ni, though I know it is not the proper way, my master will have it so.

phah-su, to be overcome in boxing or fighting. phah-su--láng, id. thái-su, to be defeated in battle. oan-su--i, to be worsted in a quarrel with him. poáh-su, to lose in gambling. poáh-su-kiáu, id.

喪

送

宋

思

私

須

需

鬚

伺

司

斯

胥

輸

sa<sup>n</sup>-su, one man maintaining that a thing is so, or that something will happen, while the other maintains the opposite. kap--lâng sa<sup>n</sup>-su, to try which of the two is right; to wager. lâi sa<sup>n</sup>-su, come and see which is right, e.g. turning up a dictionary to decide a dispute about a word. bô-sa<sup>n</sup>-su, neither of the two is inferior to the other. sa<sup>n</sup>-su-chi<sup>n</sup>, to gamble for money.

su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to lose or win. su-iâ<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, to play for money, by gambling or by trial of strength, &c. tsòe-su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to play at a game of chance. poáh-su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to gamble. poáh bô-su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to play a game of chance for amusement and not for money. bô-su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, neither losing nor winning; a drawn game. bô-ki<sup>n</sup> su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, contest not yet decided. tam su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, to bear honestly the responsibility of defeat, as by paying one's due, e.g. what is lost in gambling; to pay one's subscription faithfully; to bear properly some responsibility that falls on us to act liberally, as in entertaining guests on some special occasion. m-tam su-iâ<sup>n</sup>, won't act up to the agreement; e.g. won't drink the liquor of his forfeit; won't pay gambling debts; won't bear his share of common expenses or furnish his share of labour for a common object. m-tam su-iâ<sup>n</sup> phi, meanly refusing to pay his gambling debts or to bear his share of expenses, &c. ün-iâ<sup>n</sup> bô-su, certain to win. ká<sup>n</sup>-iâ<sup>n</sup> ká<sup>n</sup>-su, daring to make a great venture, as in gambling or trade.

SU [R. a teacher, = col. sai], (Cn. sū), affix to the literary name (not surname) of a teacher; affix to the name of a Buddhist priest in politely addressing him.

thài-su, prime minister. thài-su-iâ, id. su-iâ, a confidential adviser and secretary of a mandarin. lô-su, the principal or president of the college of the department or district, = hú-òh or koài<sup>n</sup>-òh, who is the head of the literati of that department or district (often two in one district); an official teacher of military exercises; the title is often sold as an empty title; (said politely of a learned instructor or preacher). kun-su, an officer on the staff of commander-in-chief, who plans battles, campaigns, &c. (s. need). tsng-su, a petty-fogging lawyer who lives by inciting legal cases and writing documents for them. kàu-su (T.), a teacher of boxing or gymnastics; but (R.), a religious teacher, minister, or missionary. bók-su (X.), a pastor, minister, or clergyman.

tê-su, a tea-taster.

hoat-su, polite title of Taoist priest. su-hū, polite title of Buddhist priest. su-kong, the adoptive father of the adoptive father of a young Buddhist priest. tê-lí-su, a geomancer. ték-jit-su, a man who chooses lucky days for others. jit-su, id.

thien-su, the Taoist high-priest of China, who can rule demons (said to officiate for the emperor once in ten years). tiu<sup>n</sup> thien-su, id., as he is always of the surname Chang, = tiu<sup>n</sup>.

tsó-su-kong, a black-faced idol. chheng-súi tsó-su, do., from the village of Chheng-súi in Tàng-oa<sup>n</sup>. sam-phiá<sup>n</sup> tsó-su, do., from Sam-phêng beyond Chang-chew. poát-mê tsó-su, title of an idol brought from India.

tsúi-su, marines. tsúi-su-koa<sup>n</sup>, a naval mandarin. tsúi-su thê-tok, an admiral. lék-lê tsúi-su, military and naval.

thien-tê, kun chhin su, in heaven and earth the most important persons are sovereigns, parents, and teachers. thien-hā, kun chhin su, do., in the whole world.

SU [R. a book; a writing; to write; = col. tsu], (C. si; Cn. sū).

chhó-su, running hand. hêng-su, less contracted form of current hand, between chhó-su and khái-su. khái-su, the written or printed character of the ordinary square form.

sù-su, the four books. su-keng (C. sū<sup>n</sup>-si), the Shoo-king or historical classic. siū<sup>n</sup>-su, id. (from "siū<sup>n</sup>," above). thong-su, an almanac. tsōan-su, entire works; collected works. khau-su, document fixing the division of family property (v. khau). būn-su, an official letter; a despatch. tsáu-būn-su, to carry an official despatch, as courier. būn-su-koán, a sort of post-office. gē-si-su, sentences pasted up at 5.5. su-tiên, lands left by ancestors to support those descendants who become students or literati.

siū<sup>n</sup>-su, president of one of the six supreme boards (+). tióng-su sià-jin, secretaries of the supreme boards. tióng-su-khe, these secretaries. su-pān, a clerk or writer in a mandarin's office. su-siū, id. tō-su, writers in the Tautai's office (v. tō).

tāi-su, an amanuensis who writes a deed of sale, agreement, mortgage, lease, &c.; an official clerk in a yamun who copies out the accusations or petitions that are to be presented. tāi-su-koán, the office in a yamun where these documents are copied out.

tê-su, a seal, of a private person.

SŪ (R. id.), (C. sí; Cn. sū), an ancestral hall; temples for certain deceased worthies. sū-tng, an ancestral temple. būn-kong-sū, temple of the commentator Chu-hi or Tsu-būn-kong. tióng-liét-sū, temple of canonized mandarins who died for the state (v. liét). tióng-ióng-sū, do., of military mandarins. bêng-hoan-sū, temple of the most distinguished deceased mandarins of the department or district. hióng-hièn-sū, temple of the canonized literati of the district. ké-nó<sup>n</sup>-sū (Cn.), sort of asylum for old men.

SŪ (Cn. sū). siām-sū, a mythical three-legged venomous toad.

SŪ [R. sū, hereafter; to inherit; posterity], (Cn. sū). hē-sū, posterity. āu-sū, id. hiō-sū (Cn.), id. chhut-sū, transferred to another to be his son. kè-sū, to be adopted, as son. thoan-sū, to continue the line of posterity, either by having a son or by adoption. tsóat-sū, to have no posterity. bô-sū, id. bô-sū-têng, shrines for tablets of men who have no posterity. bô-sū-tân, id.

SŪ [R. leisurely, = col. chhi], (Cn. sū), a surname (A. sū, chhi; C. chhi).

SŪ [R. an expression; a phrase; an accusation; to request], (Cn. sū). tāu-sū, a written complaint given in to the tê-pó or bé-khoài, before beginning a regular lawsuit. pang tāu-sū, to give in this document. pau-lám sū-siōng, to engage illegally to manage a lawsuit successfully (v. siōng). bū-khiau, put-sêng-sū, without some roundabout dealing the matter cannot be set right.

sê-sū, prayers asserting our innocence, burned before idols.

si-sū ko-hù, four sorts of poetical compositions.

ū-gièn-sū, able to talk much and well, and to the point. kāu-gièn-sū, too talkative. bô-gièn-sū, not good at talking so as to commend one's case, only able to say a few words. gièn-sū khah-toán, unable to state one's own case well.

ká-sū, false stories, e.g. blaming others or excusing one's self.

書

祠

蝮

徐詞

師

hu-sù ê-ôe, deceitful talk [or does this phrase belong to the following word?].

辭

SÙ [R. to refuse; to decline; to resign; an expression; = col. sí], (Cn. sù). the-sù, to decline meddling with a matter, by false excuses (v. the). thok-sù (R.), id.

kiông-sù, to maintain doggedly and plausibly that we are right when unquestionably wrong. kiông-sù, toát chêng-lí, id.

暑

SÚ [R. heat of weather], (C. sí; Cn. sù). sú-khi, scorching heat of summer. hong-hân sú-sip, the four causes of disease, wind, cold, heat, damp. hân-sú-chiam, a thermometer.

sióng-sú (C. siang-sí), unwell through the heat. tiòng-sú, to have a sun-stroke, or severe illness from heat, sometimes got within the house. pī-sú, to avoid the heat by going into the country, or to the seaside.

tāi-sú, the term on or about July 23d. siáu-sú, term on or about July 7th. chhū-sú (C. chhí-sí), term on or about Aug. 23d.

史

SÚ [R. a historian; chronicles; a surname; = col. sái]. sú-kì, annals or history of a kingdom.

gū-sú, a censor; one at Peking for each province. tién-sú, a petty civil officer about the rank of a sùn-kiám.

使

SÚ (= tsú). lām-sú-kóng, to talk falsely or improperly. lām-sú (C.), = lām-sám.

SÚ [R. millet, = col. sóe], (C. sú, sí; Cn. sù). tō liông siok, bék sú chek, the six sorts of grain.

黍

SÚ [R. to cause; to send; to use; = col. sái], (Cn. sù). siet-sú, supposing that (v. siet). sú-huì, money expended; expenses. so-sú (R.), to instigate to a quarrel, or to dangerous actions. sū--i lóh--khi (Cn.), to send him down, as the supreme God sends some spirit.

使

sú-kun-tsú, a sort of medicine.

死

SÚ [R. death; to die; = col. sí], (Cn. sù). sú-seng, death and life (v. seng). sú-bún-koan, the gate of hades. kièn-sú jū-bièn, to look on death as sleep, as man bent on revenge, &c. khui-sú bú-tē (R.), dreadfully ashamed.

塵

SÚ [R. —; C. chí; A. tsú? name of a large ruminant animal]. sú-bí, a sort of flapper carried by the genii (tail of the animal?).

塵

SÚ (C. sì). hē-sin pàng-sù, flies making spots on things.

肆

SÚ [R. four, = col. sí], (Cn. sù). sù-hong, square (v. hong). sù-phòe, duly proportioned (v. phòe). sù-chêng, upright, as conduct (v. chêng). sù-sàn, dispersing in all directions, as people.

肆

sù-su, the four books. sù-si (C.), id. sù-sí, the four seasons. sù-khùi, id. sù-khùi (C.), id. sù-chí, the limbs (v. chí). sù-kun, four principal medicines. sù-bút, four other medicines (v. bút). sù-sin, four powerful medicines (v. sin). sù-hái, the four seas. sù-i, the outside barbarians. sù-hâng, the four lictors who walk or stand before a mandarin. sù-phêng, plays in the Swatow dialect (v. phêng).

肆

sù-jī-thâu, the 122d radical written at the top.

肆

SÚ [R. to arrange; four; large; reckless; profligate; used as an alternative form of the previous word], (Cn. sù).

肆

sù-thîn, all arranged, as marriage; well proportioned (v. thîn).

肆

hông-sù, disrespectful in conduct. hêng-hêng sù-chì, perversely and resolutely wicked.

肆

sù-bū--lâng, to insult people, and put them to shame by violent scolding (v. bú).

SÚ [R. —; C. sí; Cn. sù; coarse silk; to mix; confused]. sù-sù, having the edges ravelled, as a dress. jū-jū sù-sù, all in disorder, as things or talk. jū-sù-bâng, confused dreams. sù-pê, ravelled edges of dress, in deepest mourning.

絮

次

賜

庶

SÚ [R. chhù, order]. sù-sī, in an orderly state.

SÚ (Cn. sù), to bestow (said only of a very high superior). siu"-sù, id. un-sù, gracious gift, as from emperor (v. un). khim-sù, bestowed by imperial favour, as degree. sù chin-sù, to bestow the degree of Tsin-ze on the successful competitors.

SÚ [R. multitude; nearly; a concubine], (C. sì; Cn. sù). sù-bín, the people in general (v. bín).

sù-ki (R.), almost; very nearly; probably.

sù-bú, father's secondary wife or concubine (said by son of principal wife). sù-chhut, born of a secondary wife or concubine. sù--ê, id. sù-má, grandmother who is a concubine or secondary wife. sù-tsé-bú, id.

使

SÚ [R. to send; a messenger; = col. sài; by change of tone from "sú," to cause or send], (Cn. sù). sù-chiá, a messenger sent by a sovereign.

素

sù-kun-tsú, name of a medicine.

SÚ [R. sê, plain; simplicity; original colour]. sù-eng, white jessamine.

怒

SÚ — bák-chiu sù-sù, eyes almost shut, as when very sleepy.

SÚ [R. sympathizing; compassionate], (C. sì; Cn. sù). sù-sim, sympathizing; sympathetic; humane and kind. khoan-sù, to act leniently, as for small faults, or as allowing delay in paying debts. jiâu-sù (R.), to forgive, as a superior. sù-tsōe, pardon me, sir, for my want of politeness (said on making some slight breach of etiquette, or on receiving what we count too great attention or politeness from the other). sù-tsōe sù-tsōe, id.

思

SÚ [R. to be anxious, = col. sū; by change of tone from "sú," to think], (Cn. sù). ì-sù, meaning; intention; purpose; feeling of mind. bô-ì-sù, meaningless; spiritless; aimless. bô-ì-bô-sù, id.

思

SÚ [R. sù, to be anxious; by change of tone from "sú," to think], (Cn. sù). ū-sim-sù, careful; cautious; considerate; hard to cheat or get round. toā-sim-sù, too cunning; always deceitfully and selfishly planning for personal gain. sim-sù toā, id.

祀

SÚ [R. to make an offering in worship], (Cn. sù). chê-sù, to make a sacrifice or offering in worship; a sacrificial offering to the dead, or to a god. sù hē-thé, to make an offering to the spirit of the earth at a burial.

祀

sù-giap, property enjoyed in turn by relatives, as they take the turn of making the ancestral offerings (s. business). sù-tièn, fields for that purpose.

嗣

SÚ [R. hereafter; to inherit; posterity; = col. sù], (Cn. sù). sù-hē, afterwards.

嗣

SÚ (R. id.), (C. sí; Cn. sù). hái-sù, an island, not large. phū-sù, id. soa"-sù, land in general as opposed to sea, whether mainland or islands. bô-soa"-bô-sù, in the wide ocean far from any land. khòa"-liáu bô-soa"-sù, could see no land at all. goā-si-sù, outer islands (v. sì). ké-lông-sù, Kulangseu island. koe-sù (lit. hen island), Pagoda island, near Amoy.

嶼

嶼

SÚ [R. order; a preface], (C. sí; Cn. sù), a preface; an inscription in small letters at the corner of a tablet.

叙

序

thâu-sū, a preface (s. clue). pâi-sū, an inscription in small letters at the corner or side of a wooden tablet, e.g. telling who put it up, or the date. chit-tè-sū, one preface or small side inscription.

chhù-sū, order of arrangement; regular order. chiâu-chhù-sū, in regular order, as one after another.

SŪ [R. a clue], (C. sī; Cn. sū). thâu-sū, the clue of an affair (s. preface). chhē thâu-sū, to try to find the clue of an involved affair.

SŪ [R. sū, different]. sū put-ti, yet strange to say the effect (or fact) is that —; said of what comes to pass quite contrary to expectation.

SŪ [R. like; similar]. sióng-sū, extremely like. jī sū jīn-hêng, a man's writing has a resemblance to his personal appearance. chhe-tsú sū i-hók, wife and children are like dress. kong-im sū-chièn, time is like an arrow (v. chièn).

SŪ (R. id.), (Cn. sū). chhut-sū, to become a mandarin.

SŪ [R. sī, to wait upon], (C. sī). sū-chiá-kong, a large sort of serpent which is worshipped.

SŪ (cf. sō). sū-káu sa<sup>n</sup>-kâ, to set dogs a-fighting; to set men a-quarrelling.

SŪ — sū-sū-háu, to whizz, as a bullet or arrow; sound of boat moving rapidly through the water; said of a man hurrying away in great haste. sū-sū-kiò, to whizz, &c. thiá<sup>n</sup> kàu sū-sū-kiò, to be in such pain as to draw in one's breath with a sibilant sound.

SŪ (R. id.), (Cn. sū), a prefix to an official title showing that it is held only temporarily, as a man of sufficient rank appointed for the time by the governor-general. sū-ê, holding the office pro tempore; acting —. sū-ê-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. sū-lái sū-khi, moved back and forwards, as "acting" officials holding office temporarily.

SŪ (Cn.), = A. chí, a cyclical and horary character. sū-sī, = A. chí-sī, 9—11 A.M.

SŪ (R. id.), (Cn. sū), business; an affair; a matter; troublesome affairs, as lawsuits, quarrels, disputes, &c. sū-chêng, an affair; matters; circumstances. sū-lí, an affair or matter in relation to its cause or to the way of setting it right. sū-kê, matters to be attended to (v. kê). sū-giap (R.), business; occupation; profession (s. sacrifice). chit-toā<sup>n</sup>-sū, one affair or piece of business. chit-tiū<sup>n</sup>-sū, one long and complicated affair from beginning to end. chit-khan-sū, one lawsuit, or considerable dispute, or quarrel.

siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, why ever —? (v. siá<sup>n</sup>). bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, nothing the matter. bô-sū, id. ū-sū, to have business (esp. troublesome affairs) to attend to; to be involved in some trouble.

pún-sū, talent; ability.

sūn-sū, matters falling out just as we wish or desire. sit-sū, to meet with disaster. put-chè-sū, it will not do, as a plan, entreaty, or counsel. i-o chióng-sū, to follow another's views blindly. bô-sū-sái (C.), it will not do.

tióng-sin put-sū jī-tsú, a faithful statesman does not serve two masters.

sè-sū, customary rites of many sorts, usually involving expenses (v. sè). hióng-kiet sī-sū, lucky and unlucky times and matters. put-sek sī-sū, ignorant of the force of circumstances (v. sek). kong-sū, public business. chhe-sū, official duty on which one is sent. hí-sū, auspicious matters, esp. getting a son (v. hí). hó-sū, good or benevolent actions. chhò-sū, faults, esp. gambling and vicious indulgence. êng-sū, other people's matters (v. êng).

ke-sū, circumstances of a family, e.g. as to wealth or expenses. hó-ke-sū, wealthy. ke-sū toā, having a great many persons depending on him for food. ke-sū chhim-chin--khi, family property all expended.

jīn-sū sūn-siok, affairs of business and family all going well, without sickness or calamity. jīn-sū put-sūn, one's trade going wrong, or sickness or death in the family. ti-jīn-sū, come to the years of discretion. put-séng jīn-sū, very foolish and stupid, as man; very ill, or in a swoon or faint. chit--ê jīn-sū, a small present given for services kindly done. sàng-jīn-sū, to make such a present.

to-sū, a busybody. hè<sup>n</sup>-sū, id.; a meddler; a tattler (v. hè<sup>n</sup>).

chhap-sū, to meddle in others' affairs (v. chhap). pán-sū, to manage an affair. tsòe-sū, to act in a matter; to begin a troublesome matter; to raise a quarrel or cause trouble. tsò-sū (C.), id. tsòe-sū, tióh sòe-jī, in doing any special business one should be careful. chhòng-sū, to raise a feud or dispute, often falsely (v. chhòng). chhióng-sū, to cause a feud or troubles. lâu-sū, to bring on troubles by improper conduct. seng-sū, to be the cause (naturally) of such troubles; a quarrel or dispute arising. séng-sū, to avoid causing trouble, e.g. by not insisting too strongly on our rights. sé<sup>n</sup>-sū (C.), id. ū-sū, to be involved in a legal case so as to have to defend one's self in court.

thong-sū, an interpreter. hoan thong-sū, an interpreter for a foreign language. tong-sū, to have the chief management, as in a shop (v. tong). táng-sū, man who oversees some public work (v. táng). koán-sū, a sort of steward or head-servant. tsóng-sū, to have the general oversight or management of a number of matters. ki-sū (X.), the clerk of a meeting.

chip-sū, the insignia of office, &c., carried before a mandarin; also (X.), a deacon. pái chip-sū, to set in order the insignia, &c., for the mandarin.

sū-tsú, one of the two principal parties in a lawsuit or feud. sū-toan, cause or origin of some very troublesome affair. káu sū-lê, having a great deal of troublesome business; constantly having some disease, when cured of one just getting ill of another.

SŪ [R. a scholar; a literary man; the class of literati and government officials], (Cn. sū), one of the musical notes. sū-lóng kong-siong, the four classes of men, literati, farmers, workmen, and traders. sin-sū, those persons in a place who are allowed to wear a button, as Sew-tsai graduates and upwards.

chin-sū, a Tsin-sze or graduate of the highest rank, like D.C.L. or LL.D. bú-chin-sū, a military graduate of the highest rank. sa<sup>n</sup>-pah-lák chin-sū, 360 Tsin-sze graduates, said to have been put to death by a Ming emperor, and afterwards, as a reparation, canonized by the royal title of ông-iá. tióng chin-sū, to become a Tsin-sze. tái-hák-sū, four high literary chancellors (v. hák).

ké bêng-sū, putting on proud airs and scarcely looking at people, as if a distinguished scholar. kek bêng-sū, id. koá bák-kiá<sup>n</sup>, ké bêng-sū, said in joke of a man wearing spectacles.

sióng-sū, a fortune-teller who tells fortunes by looking at a man's appearance and general manner. tō-sū, a Taoist priest. kun-sū (R.), soldiers and petty military officers.

tái-sū, a title of the idol Kwan-yin. koan-im

緒
殊
似

仕 侍
峻

署

已
事

士

tāi-sū, id. tāi-sū-iâ, the king of the ghosts and demons of the 7th month, much worshipped in that month; has a very hideous face, and has a small image of Kwan-yin on his head; said to be an incarnation of Kwan-yin; name also given collectively to all the tablets of a temple for those who have no posterity. tāi-sū-peh, id.

suh (R. sok), (P. soh), to suck; to draw out matter, as a poultice does. suh-lin, to suck milk. suh chhân-lê, to suck snails out of the shells. suh lāng-huih, to draw out matter and blood, as poultice.

suh [R. sok, quick, = col. soā]. kín suh-suh, very quick.

suh — suh-suh, dull; without talent. suh-gièn, very dull, low-spirited, and broken-down, as from poverty and want of work. siên-suh (T. siên-sút), quiet and indisposed to act, as from natural disposition or slight illness, or from fear, or discouragement, or remembrance of punishment; unwilling to make a quarrel, or even to retaliate when scolded, struck, or attacked; gentle and quiet in disposition; often said of a person formerly troublesome, but tamed by calamity or punishment; often said of a child.

sui (R. id.), although. sui-jiên, id. sui-bóng, id. sui sī —, although it is — (or are). sui ũ —, although there is — (or are).

sui (R. id.) iên-sui, coriander. iên-sui-chháu, a small plant often grown round the roots of plants in flower-pots.

sui, the spout of a tea-pot, kettle, &c. tê-koàn-sui, spout of tea-pot. hó-chhut-sui, it pours out well. ám-péng-sui-khang, scupper-holes.

sui (R. id.) tsang-sui, a rain coat or cape, gen. made of the fibre of the "tsang" palm. moa tsang-sui, to put on such a rain-coat.

sui — mng-sui, short hair round the root of the queue, meant to be afterwards braided into it; hair hanging down at side of woman's head. mng-sui-á, id. giah mng-sui, to part the hair on woman's forehead.

sui (C.) sng-súi, mulberry fruit.

sui (R. id.), the Suy dynasty, A.D. 590-620, just before the Tang dynasty. sui-tiâu, id.

sui [R. to follow; according to; one by one; each], to follow; to obey; according to.

sui-pièn, anyhow; just as may be convenient. sui-pièn-lāng, any one.

sui-lì, to follow one's own inclination; just as one likes; just as you please; often said when inviting another to eat. sui lāng--ê ì-goān, to fulfil or act according to a man's wish (+). hu-chhiòng hū-sui, husband and wife harmonious (v. chhiòng). jip-káng sui-oan, jip-hong sui-siòk, in a channel follow the windings; in a place follow the customs. sui-tsúi jip, to go in with the tide (+).

sa<sup>n</sup>-sui, to keep company, as good friends, or as man and wife. siòng-sui, id. sui-pút, to follow an idol in procession. sui-hiu, to go in an incense procession. sui-jim, to accompany a mandarin to his seat of office, as wife and family, sometimes mother; but his father must not. kun-sui, to follow, as a servant or attendant. sui-kè-kán, female slave who goes with a bride at marriage (v. kè).

sui-si, immediately. sui-si èng-pièn, to act according to circumstances. sui-si tng, to change one's plans according to circumstances.

sui-âu chiū-kàu, I will arrive immediately.

sui-kàu sui-tng, must just bear it when it comes.

sui-khì sui-lâi, to go and come immediately. sui-tsún khì, sui-tsún lâi, to go and come by same vessel or same voyage. sui-tsúi khì, sui-tsúi lâi, to go and come by the first change of tide (+). sui-thàn sui-chiáh, to use money for food just as earned; to live from hand to mouth.

sui-chhiú lâi-khì, come away with me at once (s. hang down). sui-chhiú siu--khí-lâi, lay it away at once without delay. sui-chhiú thêh--khì, take it away in the hand at once, as a small thing; often with the idea, as you are going at anyrate. kiáh chit-ki-si<sup>n</sup> sui-chhiú, to take a fan in the hand, just to have something in one's hand. sui-chhiú-mih<sup>n</sup>, some small thing (as a fan, pipe, or handkerchief), such as people usually carry with them.

sui-sin teh-toà, to carry constantly with one, e.g. a pipe, or a long box used as a pillow. hê-soà<sup>n</sup> sui-sin, taking an umbrella along with one. sui-sin-pó, some article counted very precious and always carried with one, e.g. some rare and valuable ornament, or the tools of a skilled workman, instruments of a surgeon, or books of a learned man; said of a man's talents for mental or manual work; also, of an opium pipe, or of a concubine taken with one in travelling.

sui lāng--ê lék-liōng, according to a man's ability (+).

sui-lāng-chiáh, one by one eating separately. sui-lāng-lâi, coming forward one by one. sui-kiā<sup>n</sup>-thêh, take up each thing separately, one by one. sui-hāng, each article separately, as in lifting things, or in discussing matters. sui-jī-kí, point out word by word. sui-jī-thák, read out word by word, as scholar, giving the full sound of each word separately.

sui-tah (Cn.), at each place; at many places.

sui (R. id., = col. sê, sê), (P. sóc, súi), to hang down to allow to hang down. sui-lóh, to hang down, as branch, &c.; to let down, as a door-screen. sui--lôh-khì, let down, as door-screen. pàng-sui, to let hang down, as arms at side. chhiú pàng-sui, let your arms hang at your side. chhiú sui--lôh-khì, id. sui-chhiú teh-khiá, standing with the arms hanging straight down at one's side, as before a superior. sui-chhiú, let down the sedan! (said to chair-bearers), (s. follow).

sui-gú, the broad flat plate on the cover of a box, that falls down and lets through the staple for the padlock.

sui-thâu sòng-chi (R.), hanging down one's head with a dispirited look. sui-si-liú, the weeping-willow.

sì-lām-sui, thoroughly drenched, as ground, &c. hê sì-lām-sui, rain overflowing all around. bák-sái sì-lām-sui, tears flowing profusely. chiáh kàu sì-lām-sui, eating so as to slobber one's self over, as child.

Sui, pretty; beautiful; lovely. sui giang-giang, very pretty. khah-sui pút-tsé, more lovely than Kwan-yin.

koà-sui--ê, worn for mere ornament, not for any use. ài-koà-sui, fond of wearing ornaments, e.g. armlets, bracelets, trinkets, &c.

sui-chhong, how very pretty! (ironically for ugly). lí iáh sui-chhong, you are as bad as the man with whom you are finding fault. lí sui-khoán, id. (ironical).

sui [R. water, = col. tsúi]. hó-chhùi-sui, good at polite phrases and flattering talk. ū-chhùi-sui, id. èng chhùi-sui phièn--lāng, to deceive people by fair speeches. hó-kháu-sui, good at talking people over, esp. with a little falsehood.

軟

速

雖
萎
嘴
簾
綏隋
隨

垂

水

hong-súi, a grave; the good luck of a site, esp. for grave; the Fung-shuy. chit-hiét hong-súi, one grave. khám hong-súi, to examine officially a disputed grave; this work of examination is counted unlucky for the mandarin, so that red things must be presented to him for good luck. hong-súi sien-si<sup>n</sup>, a geomancer who looks out sites for graves, &c. hong-súi khah-pek, the hills rising too near the front of a grave. hong-súi-thâu, a family beginning to prosper very much, whose ancestors were not distinguished. hong-súi-bé, a family formerly prosperous and flourishing dwindling away or losing wealth and influence, its members without talent, and wasting what still remains. hong-súi chhut-khi, the good luck of a grave all gone.

hong-súi put-gú, great and sudden calamity, as by wind, water, robbers, fire, &c. (v. gú).

bân-súi tiâu-tang, tidal stream flowing always to the east (v. tiâu). sù-súi lâi-tiâu, water from all quarters seeming to meet in front of a grave.

san-súi, a landscape picture. ũ san-súi, to paint a landscape. koan-san goán-súi, to walk for amusement looking at scenery. iú-san, piên iú-súi, where there are hills there must be water (said of things naturally joined in pairs). iú-san, iú-súi; iú-sîn, iú-kúi, as water accompanies hills, so the spirit of a great canonized man has inferior spirits as attendants.

liú-súi, a scroll-book in which sales, &c., are entered just as they are made, to be afterwards copied into the "jit-chheng." liú-súi-phê, id. lók-hoa liú-súi, in great misery and poverty.

siáu-súi, urine. bô-siáu-súi, unable to pass urine. lī-súi, to be diuretic. pé-pí lī-súi, tonic and diuretic. sin-súi chhiong-chiok, lusty, as young man (v. sin).

sin-súi ê sê-hùi, money for cooking, as for deputy mandarin (v. sin). toán-súi-hé--sí, to kill by want of food and water.

ú-súi, the term about Feb. 18th or 19th. bók-pún súi-goân, men should reverence the source of their being, (parents and ancestors), as trees have roots and streams sources.

súi-gún, quicksilver. súi-koan, a spirit or god that rules the sea. súi-gú, a buffalo (v. gú). ng súi-gú, to play at blind-man's buff. ng súi-hí, id. súi-koe (C. ke), a large sort of frog.

súi — pin-súi, the hair (of women) hanging down at the side of the head about the temples. lâu pin-súi, to let that part of the hair grow.

súi — jiáu<sup>n</sup>-súi, ornamental wood-work, like border and brackets, below the edge of a table (v. jiáu<sup>n</sup>). lék-súi (T.), id. toh--ê tsáu-súi (Cn.), id.

súi [R. to accord with; to accomplish or effect]. súi-i, the matter falling out just as we would desire. chhêng-sim súi-i (R.), just answering to our desire.

súi [R. to sleep, = col. chē]. tók-súi-chhâng, a couch or bed made for one to sleep on. toā-tók-súi, a bed of a rather larger size, that can hold two. sió-tók-súi, the smallest sort, that can only hold one. sam-keng put-súi, hiet put-kui-keng, if you pass the third watch without sleeping, the blood does not go in its right course.

súi [R. a good omen]. siông-súi, a good omen. siàng-súi (C.), id.

súi-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a shrub with beautiful white flowers.

súi-tién, Sweden. súi-kok, id. súi-sū, Switzerland.

súi [R. a sort of disease]. pièn-súi, palsy. poàn-súi, id.

súi (R. id.), an ear of corn; a bunch, as of grapes. tiū-súi, a head or ear of rice. béh-súi, ear of wheat or barley (v. béh).

kiet-súi, the ear just formed fully, after the flower is past, and before the grain is hardened, which is "jip-liáp." chhut-súi, the ear just appearing at first before flowering. sat-bú si<sup>n</sup> kàu chiá<sup>n</sup>-súi, having lice in great numbers.

súi [R. sū, a tree, = col. chhiū]. gōng-á-soa chiú sien-hô-súi, great sharks guard the coral tree; said also figuratively. san-hê-súi (C.), = A. sien-hô-chhiū, a tree of coral.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sun, sng, a surname.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sng, sour.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sng, soreness of the teeth.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sng, feeling of weariness and dull pain.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sng, a small pin or wedge.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. sng, an axletree.

súi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. seng, beforehand; formerly; in advance.

súi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. san, to thin, weed out, or prune away.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.) thê-súi<sup>n</sup>, = A. thê-sún, sort of edible marine worm.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), in some phrases, = A. sún, to injure. súi<sup>n</sup>-sit, to lose, as things stolen, taken away, or spoiled.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. shg, to calculate. hó-ê-sùi<sup>n</sup>, = A. hó-ê-siàu, a good plan; easy to accomplish.

súi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. shg, to tie very tight.

sun (R. id., = col. sng), a grandson; a nephew; a surname (C. sui<sup>n</sup>, only as a surname). sun chin-jī<sup>n</sup>, a god of medicine.

ta-pe-sun, a son. si<sup>n</sup> ta-pe-sun, to have a son born to one.

sun-á, a brother's son; any male relative of the same surname who is one degree further from the common ancestor. chek-sun hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, male blood-relations of the same surname in general.

toā-sun, eldest son of eldest son. lāi-sun, son's son. goā-sun, daughter's son. tit-sun, son of brother's son. goā-tit-sun, son of brother's daughter, or of wife's brother's son. piáu-tit-sun, grandson of cousin of different surname (v. piáu). gōe-seng-sun, grandson of sister. lú-sun, grand-daughter. tsa-bé-sun, a grand-daughter; a prostitute (v. bé).

cheng-sun (R.), great-grandson. ka<sup>n</sup>-ná<sup>n</sup>-sun, id. goân-sun (R.), great-great-grandson. ngé-tāi-sun, id. chhit-sè-sun, descendant of the seventh generation.

sun-sài, husband of niece or of grand-daughter. sun-sim-pū, wife of nephew or of grandson.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun, posterity. kiá<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup> sun-sun, posterity for some generations. si-kiá<sup>n</sup> chéh-sun, may all your posterity be cut off. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun-tháng, a tub used at accouchement. tsú-sun-tháng, do., only said when it is bought at marriage time. tsóat-tsú biét-sun, may all your posterity be cut off!

ji-sun, posterity (v. jī).

sún (R. id.), a decade, esp. of years; a period of varying length in the ceremonies for the dead. kúi-sún, how many decades of years old? as old man (+).

sam-sún, the throw of the dice when all three have

瘵 穗

樹

孫

遂
睡

瑞

the same number. tâu-á sam-sûn, id. sam-sûn-chiú, drinking three times at beginning of feast.

sa"-sûn, the third set of rites for the dead; done by a married daughter, or by the son-in-law, if the family be wealthy, with great expense and display. kè-sa"-sûn, to have this third set of rites performed. tsáp-it-sûn, eleven rounds of these rites, often done for the wealthy. lê-bé-sûn, the concluding set of rites for the deceased. tsòe-sûn, to perform rites before the "hûn-sin" of the deceased, at intervals of fixed length (e.g. sometimes five days make one "sûn"); greater number according to age and wealth of deceased. tsòe-kúi-sûn, which of these successive rites is now being performed? pâi kúi-sûn, how many of these sets of rites are there in all? (+). chhui joá-tsòe-sûn, id.

gê-sûn-tsoeh (X.), Pentecost, the feast of the fiftieth day.

sûn (R. id.), to go about to inspect or examine what is doing, or the state of matters; to visit a second time a patient who has already been visited. sûn chit-tsoá, to go once and inspect for another; to go a second time and examine the patient, often done for one fee. û-sûn, makes a second visit for one fee, e.g. when the fee is large. bô-sûn, does not visit a second time without an extra fee.

sûn-khoá", to go about and inspect. sûn-tsa, to inspect or investigate, as mandarin or official spy. sûn-ki", to patrol at night. sûn-iá, to make secret examination at night. sûn-sàu, to go about looking for pirates, &c. sûn-si, to go round inspecting or overseeing, as any one. sûn-siù (R.), ancient imperial tour of inspection (v. siù). chhut-sûn, to go out on a round of inspection, anciently done by emperor, now by viceroy. tái-sûn, to inspect for the emperor, as an officer was sent round under the Ming dynasty; or for Heaven, as some idols are said to do.

sûn-kiám, a small mandarin who assists the Hien mandarin (v. kiám). sûn-si, the lowest civil assistant mandarin. sûn-pê, a sort of aide-de-camp or assistant of a high mandarin. sûn-pê-thia", id. bûn-sûn-pê, civil do. bú-sûn-pê, military do. sûn-hong, sort of head policeman used by military mandarin for keeping a general watch over his district. iám-sûn-noá", sort of excisemen for salt revenue (v. iám).

sûn-ài, a short wide-mouthed trumpet.

sûn [R. all around; to comply with]. bô-sûn-chêng, impartial, as mandarin or schoolmaster.

sûn [R. to comply with; to follow; to accord, = col. sùn]. sûn-kui tō-kú, following correct rules and customs; well-behaved.

sûn [R. bûn, wavy lines]. bau-sûn, to fold in or out, so as to make a hem or border; to make a sort of rim on a metal or stoneware vessel. lek chit-sûn, to make a fold, as in a dress or hat, either for ornament or in order to shorten it. lek-sûn, a fold, crease, or wrinkle, forming of itself, as in a dress worn too long, or as on the neck of a fat man, or wrist of fat child. chhêng kàu lek-sûn, to wear a dress till it is full of creases, &c., and needs to be washed. pak-té lek-sûn, the belly making folds, as in great hunger.

bák-sûn, the wrinkle at the edge of the upper eyelid. bák-chiu-sûn, id. bák-chiu têng-sûn, the upper eyelid having a wrinkle on it, counted good-looking. bák-chiu bô-têng-sûn, the upper eyelid coming straight down without any wrinkle.

sûn [R. name of a plant, and of a state], a surname.

sûn [R. yielding; docile; tamed; gentle]. sûn- sûn, gentle and kindly; mild in temper; genial in manner; obedient, submissive, and easily taught, as lad; quiet and easily managed, as horse. sêng sún-sûn, good-tempered and gentle. un-sûn, gentle, meek, and good; mild, pleasant, and kind. sûn-liông, well-behaved, of good character; trustworthy, esp. in money matters [these last two phrases are also written with the second word below].

sûn [R. pure; genuine; honest]. hong-siok sún-hô, manners and customs very excellent (v. hô).

sûn [R. pure silk; pure; perfect; whole; sincere]. sûn-tsoán, perfect in character; blameless. sûn-tsoán-hó, extremely good, without a fault or flaw. sûn-sûn, quite rightly made or of proper quality, according to the pattern, said esp. of several articles all alike and like the pattern; always right and good, e.g. milk every day good and pure. iáu-sûn, id. sûn-pân, all the articles like each other and like the pattern. kéng khah-sûn--ê, to choose picked articles of the best quality. sûn-phek bú-hâ (R.), a perfect gem without a flaw, unblemished in character.

sûn-siok, regular and good, as conduct; all good and equally good, as articles (v. siok).

chiú sún-sún, the liquor is of moderate strength.

un-sûn, meek; gentle; good-tempered. sûn-liông, trustworthy [these two phrases interchanged with the second last word].

sûn [R. good, as wine; generous; good], mellow, as liquor; mellow and not too strong.

sûn [R. to injure, = col. sún], (C. sún, sún). sún-hâi, to be injurious, as food, &c. sún-hoái, to damage; to spoil; to destroy. sún-sit, to become few by death, as family or village. sún-teng, to lose male children or relatives (v. teng). sún goân-khi, to injure one's constitution, as lust or excess. sún-pí, to disagree with the stomach. sún im-chek, to commit sins so as to draw down punishment from Heaven.

hu-sún, consumption. sún-pí", id. lôh-sún, to fall into consumption (s. tenon).

iú-sún bú-ek, useless and hurtful. sún-jîn lí-ki, to injure others for one's own benefit.

sún — ka-lún-sún, to shiver (v. ka).

sún (R. id.), young edible shoots of bamboo and some other plants. sún-koa", dried bamboo shoots. sng-sún, pickled bamboo shoots. tek-sún, edible bamboo shoots. lêk-tek-sún, the softest sort. tang-sún, winter bamboo shoots, that have not come above ground. chhun-sún, spring do., coarser. phái"-tek chhut hó-sún, said of a son better or better-looking than his father.

ka-pók-sún, edible shoots of a water plant. ka-pék-sún, id. ka-ték-sún, id. kha-pêh-sún, id. ka-pêh-sún (C.), id.

thê-sún (C. sún), a sort of edible marine worm. thê-sún-tàng, a gelatinous eatable made from it.

chiòh-sún, a solitary upright pillar-shaped rock (s. tenon).

chhi" sún-sún, pale, as face in sickness or in sudden fear.

sún (R. id.), a tenon. mng-sún, the pivot of a Chinese door. chiòh-sún, a stone tenon (s. shoots). khang-sún, mortice and tenon. toá"-toá" kang-sún, constantly plotting improper ways of getting money out of people.

chiap-sún, to fit tenon and mortice (v. chiap). jíp-sún, id. lôh-sún, id.; also to agree well together (s. injure). tàu-lôh-sún, to fit tenon and mortice

巡

狗 循
紋苟
馴淳
純醇
損筍
笋

榱

together. lau-sún, joints become loose, as of furniture. lak-sún, id. thè-sún, mortice joint separating and giving way.

sún (T.) sún-lak, elegantly formed, as piece of furniture, or as person's limb or whole person.

sún (Cn.) sún--tsòh-jit, second day before yesterday.

sún (R. id., = sūn), the ancient emperor Shun. giâu-sún, Yao and Shun, the patterns of imperial excellence (v. giâu).

sún (= sùn), the emperor Shun.

sún (sound probably changed from "tsún," a boat). phak-sún-têng, a shed or small portico put up before a door.

sún [R. sún, to comply with; to follow; to accord], to go over characters making them plainer, as by making thin lines thicker; to make red lines black, as children do in learning to write; to put colour into words engraved on stone, or brighten up old faded colour. sún-ø, to put black into words cut in stone. sún-âng, do., red. sún-chhi<sup>2</sup>, do., blue (&c.) sún bông-pái, to put colour into the engraved words of a grave-stone, or brighten up the old. sún siông-tái-jín, to write in black on the red lines of a child's first copy-book, which begins "siông-tái-jín."

sún (Cn.) søe-sún, = sòe-jí, careful; cautious.

sún (R. id.), to obey; obedient; favourable, as wind or tide. sún-sún, very obedient or favourable; also, salutation at parting. hong sún-sún, wind favourable. sún-hong, a favourable wind. sàng-sún-hong, to give a present to one going on a voyage. sún-hong siông-sông, may the voyage have propitious gales! kiáh sún-hong-ki, to watch how the wind blows and trim one's conduct to suit. sún-lâu, with favourable tide. sún-tsúi, id. sún-tsúi hêng-chiu, all going well.

sún-sū, matters all going well according to our plans or desire; all well without any illness. sún-kéng, id. sún-ün, in a happy, prosperous, fated period of life, without calamities; things going much as we wish. bò-sún-liù, contrary to expectation and quite inconvenient (v. liù). ün-sún, safe and tranquil, as weather, trade, &c. hè-tsúi sún-siòk, rain regular and suitable (v. siòk). hong tiâu, ú sún (R.), wind and rain in due season. thien-khi put-sún, weather quite unseasonable, e.g. great cold in summer. jín-sū put-sún, affairs of the family in a sad state (v. sū).

sún-lê, just in the road we are going. sún-pièn, taking advantage of the opportunity to do something without extra trouble. sún-chhiu, taking the opportunity to do something else of the same sort as what is being done. sún-sè (C. si), to take advantage of the opportunity. sún-soà, do.; in consequence of the opportunity. sún-hà chhoà, to marry just immediately after a parent's death.

sún-géh, within a month before the time of childbirth.

kui-sún, to make submission and return to obedience or allegiance. sún-hók, id. sún-thàn (r.), to obey. sún jín-i, very compliant. hâu-sún, obedient to parents. hò-sún, harmonious and submissive, as husband and wife. sún-thien, to obey Heaven (v. thien).

sút (R. id.), a cyclical and horary character. sut-sí, 7—9 P. M.

sút [R. to compassionate; to pity]. un-sut (r.), to compassionate or have mercy on, as ruler on people; to act kindly and considerately, as master towards servants or employés; to assist, as with money, &c. chiu-sut (R.), to help by gifts, as the poor. thè-sut (r.), to act compassionately; to have tender concern for, as ruler towards people in distress, or when they have some small fault; or as master towards servant.

sút, to beat, whip, or switch with a thin rod or switch; to dust by beating with a rod. büt-sut, to beat with a thin rod. sut tek-chhi, to beat or switch with a thin bamboo.

báng-sut, a flapper for driving away mosquitoes; a sort of palm-tree.

sút [R. siet, small fragments, = col. seh, sap], fragments; small crumbs or bits. sut-sut-á, in small bits or fragments. chhun chit-sut-á, only a small fragment or remnant remains, as of cloth or anything.

kù-sut, saw-dust. chhâ-sut, small chips of wood. piá<sup>2</sup>-sut, small crumbs of bread.

hâng-á hâng-sut, a very out-of-the-way corner of a lane.

sút (Cn.) thèh sut-sut, having absolutely nothing left, all being stolen away, or being awfully poor.

sút [R. name of insect]. sek-sut, a small sort of cricket or beetle. sih-sut (C.), id. ká sek-sut, to set crickets to fight; sort of gambling. khi-thia<sup>2</sup>-sek-sut, dead (lit. gone to hear the crickets).

sút [R. to lead; suddenly; hastily]. sò-sut, habitually hasty, apt to act or speak without deliberation, or not attending to the rules of politeness. chhó-sut, hasty, careless, negligent, or not particular in doing work. sut-tit, very outspoken, blunt, or hasty in speaking, without considering the consequences (but generally right in itself).

sút [R. sún, to glance rapidly], to wink. sut-bák, id. chit-bák-sut-á, for a moment. pí-chhiú sut-bák, to beckon and wink. bák-chiu sut-khok sut-khiet, eyes glancing about rapidly.

sút [R. to make a whistling noise with the mouth; cf. sút]. sih-sih sut-sut, whispering and making secret signs to one another. sih-büh sih-sut, id.

sút (R. sut), to inform by a sort of whistling or hissing sound, as a secret signal. khè-sút-á, id. èng-chhiú sut, id. sih-sih sut-sút, making secret signs by whispers or such sounds. sút-sút-háu, said of man eagerly desiring to get something, the opportunity for which has come, but may soon be lost. thia<sup>2</sup> kàu sut-sút-háu, to be in such pain or cold as to draw in one's breath with a sibilant sound.

sút [R. to recite; to narrate]. thoân-sút (R.), to deliver a message.

sút (T.) siên-sút, = A. siên-sùh, quiet, inoffensive, and indisposed to quarrel; exhausted and dull, &c.

sút [R. a rule; an art; a plan; magical rites]. ū sim-sút, skilful and wise in action, whatever circumstances may arise. sim-sút hó, good and kind; fond of assisting and doing good to others. sim-sút phá<sup>2</sup>, constantly scheming evil and injuring people. sim-sút bông-khi, not much to blame in his conduct. sim-sút put-toan, constantly planning and carrying out schemes injurious to others.

siá-sút, magical or black arts. iau-sút, id. iau-hoat koài-sút, id. hoat-sút, id. i--ê hoat-sút khah-koài<sup>2</sup>, his magic is more powerful. sút-sè (R.), magical and superstitious rites in general.

sút (same as previous word?). háng-piên-sút, to intimidate, delude, and deceive. láu-piên-sút, to deceive and defraud. khit--láng sut--khi, to be deceived or imposed upon.

辨
船
循

順

粹
拂 屑

蟀
蟀

率

瞬

噉

述

術

戔
恤
遜

sút (mere reduplication). kút-lút-sút, very slippery, as a muddy road. tit-lút-sút, very straight.

SWA, swá, swà, swā, swa<sup>n</sup>, swá<sup>n</sup>, swà<sup>n</sup>; better soa, soá, soà, soā, soa<sup>n</sup>, soá<sup>n</sup>, soà<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

swah, swáh, swai<sup>n</sup>, swái<sup>n</sup>, swāi<sup>n</sup>, swáih<sup>n</sup>; better soah, soáh, soai<sup>n</sup>, soái<sup>n</sup>, swāi<sup>n</sup>, soáih<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

SWAN, swán, swán, swán, swán; better soan, soân, soán, soàn, soãn (q.v.)

SWAT, swát; better soat, soát (q.v.)

T.

t is often related to l, n, or ch, the one being in the colloquial and the other in the reading form, sometimes both colloquial.

ta [R. tóng, the Tang dynasty; Chinese; = col. tâng]. ta-pê (C. tsa-pê), male (said only of men); a male person. ta-pê-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a son. ta-pê-sun, id. (v. sun). ta-pê-lâng, a male person; a husband (said in relation to his wife). ta-pê-hàn, a male person (said in a scolding or vulgar way).

ta (same as previous word?). ta-ke (C. toā-ke), husband's mother (v. ke). ta-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's father. ta-ke-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's parents.

ta [R. chiau, to scorch or dry with fire, = col. tá], dry; dried; (only).

ta-sò, dry and crisp (v. sò). ta-pê, too dry, as surface of skin or of eatables. chhàu-ta, scorched; singed. sio chhàu-ta, to singe; singed.

chhùi-ta, thirsty. ta-siên, dry scurf on the body. ta-têng, too dry and hard, as eatables; having enough to live on; giving a laconic answer and refusing to take a smaller sum (v. têng). ta-sin, having a tolerable income, as from capital, property, or business; dry, as tobacco or other things, either properly dry or too dry. ta-tiú, now able to take care of itself, as young child not now needing to be tended. ta-sang, dry and comfortable, as after changing dress or wiping perspiration; dry and mealy, as potatoes.

ta-lí, quite dry, as house that has no damp; dry and comfortable, as after wiping sweat. ta lí-lí, perfectly dry, as a dried up river, or as things dried. lái-bīn ta-lí, the house dry; not damp. khah-ta-lí, now getting on a little better, so as not to need to work so very hard or to dress so ill; e.g. from business improving, or from children beginning to earn something. sit-ké-bé ta-lí, now able to get on alone, and not needing help from parents or friends. ta-lí ê-seng-lí, a trade that lets our hands and feet be kept dry, e.g. dry goods business. kha-ta chhiú-ta ê-seng-lí, id.

lim-ta, to drink till quite empty (v. lim). chiáh--i m-ta, cannot make him submit or get the money out of him, as he is too powerful; I am not able to do the work he wishes, or not able to serve him satisfactorily. thát-ta, to drain off moisture till quite dry. chhit-ta, to wipe dry. piá<sup>n</sup>-ta, to pour out till quite empty. phák-ta, to dry in the sun.

kien-ta, only; merely, = kan-ta.

kan-ta, only; merely; (to no purpose); not watered, as meat. kan-ta, bô-koán-tsúi, in its natural state, as meat into which water has not been injected. kan-ta chhá, to fry without water or sauce, &c. kan-ta lim, to drink without eating. kan-ta chiáh, to eat a simple dish without condiments; to eat at another's charge without making any return; said also of an idle useless fellow. kan-ta chiáh-png, to eat rice alone, without any condiment. kan-ta liáu, all expended; quite used up. kan-ta bô, do.; none now, though there was before. kan-ta kiá<sup>n</sup>, to have a walk for nothing. kan-ta sô, to ramble about without object. kan-ta siū<sup>n</sup>, unable to think out a plan; fruitless thought. kan-ta béng, boasting or threatening without any real power. kan-ta soah, the matter quite ended without any advantage or reparation. kan-ta iá, wearied with doing nothing; ennui.

ta (same as previous word?), a large rock in water, either always above water or sometimes covered. ta-á, a smaller rock in water. tsūn khoá-ta, the boat is aground on shallows or on a rock. khòá tī-ta-téng, aground on a rock. tháu-kun-ta, the Cornwallis rock near Amoy. ta is thus used in the names of many rocks.

ta-mng, green edible sea-weed growing on rocks. ta-me<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

tá [R. chiau, scorched or dried with fire, = col. ta]. kê-tá, shrivelled, dried, and withered up, as wood, grass, or sick man. kê-tá--khì, shrivelled or withered away. khàu kàu nâ-âu tá--khì, loudly lamenting till the throat is dry.

σ-tá, dark appearance of face, as in bad health, or as of an opium-smoker. bīn lóng-tá, face all become dark, as by sickness or opium-smoking.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tâ--khì, deeply grieved and distressed. sim tâ kàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-tah (T.), very long and deeply distressed.

tá (R. nâi<sup>n</sup>). bô-tá-oá, having no resource; better bô-tá-oá (v. oá). bô-tá-tit-oá, id.

tá [R. ná<sup>n</sup>, that; there; what? which? = col. tó, tah]. tá-lòh, where? (v. lòh). tá-lòh chit-ê, which? tá-üi, where? beh tá-khì, where are you going? lí tá-khì, id.

chit-tá (Cn.), = chit-tah, this place.

tà (T.) tà-láng-sáng, acting in a negligent manner.

tà (Cn. tàu, tà), to cover, as with clouds, mist, or a sort of veil; to cover with paws or hands, as tiger or man catching a man; to spread out its hands to a person, as child.

báng-tà, mosquito-curtains. báng-tà-chhiu, fringes of mosquito-curtains. báng-tà-bi, ornamental top of mosquito-curtains. koe-tà, a wicker-work basket or coop (with no bottom) for keeping fowls. koan-tà, a sort of pall for a coffin. kióng-lú-tà, a vari-coloured cape worn on some special occasions by rich young women. chhim-chí<sup>n</sup>-tà, a framework of bamboo poles covering the central court of a house. teng-hé-tà, a shade or cover for a lamp to keep off wind. teng-tà-hé, lamps kept burning night and day beside a corpse covered with a tin or earthen cover. hun-tà (r.), cover for top of chimney.

hūn tà-bát-bát, sky all overcast with clouds. tà-bū, sky all obscured with mist. tà-bông-bū, id. tà-bê, id.

唐

佳

礁

佳

奈何

罩

tà put-kièn-thien, to put up awnings in the street so that the sky is quite hid. kap-goá tà-put-kièn-thien, he will not let me see him, will not give me information or assistance, or puts off paying what is due, &c.

tà sek-khè, to put on trousers, as women do.

tà-bin, to cover or shade the face with a cloth or veil (not quite like our veils). tà phè-á, to wear such a cloth over the face (v. phè).

tà--lòh-khi, to fall down on one's face or on one's hands. tsòe si-kha-hé teh-tà, to go on all fours (lit. tiger), as man climbing a steep hill, or as lame heggar crawling on ground.

tò-tà, to turn round and seize, as tiger pursued or man attacked.

lām-sám-tà, to get money out of people by frightening them. tà-iá, id., hy meddling in a matter with which we have no concern. tà chit-ê-iá, id.

tà tī-bāng--nih, to be caught in a net, as a bird.

tā [R. nāi, a resource; how? = col. tā], (C. tǎi). bō-tà-oá, having no resource (v. oá).

tā [R. tong, proper; ought; to hear; to manage; now; = col. tng, tng, tǎ], now; at present. kàu-tā, hy this time; till now; till this time. tsá--tā-sī (hetter tsá-tā--sī), formerly. hit-tā--sī, at that time; just at that time. jit-tā--sī, in the daytime. ũ-tā--sī, sometimes. ũ-tā--sī-á, id.

tā (C.) thāu-khak tā-tā, holding one's head very erect. thāu-khak khak-tā, hold your head more erect, and do not hend forward so much.

tā (R. tam), to carry two loads on one pole over the shoulder, as one man does. tā-tā, id. tā tang-tā, to carry a heavy load thus. tā-kang, men who carry loads in this way, or their labour. tā-teh, constantly carrying heavy burdens, as labourers. tā-tsúi, to carry two buckets of water on a pole. tā-tsúi-é, a water-carrier. lē-thāu tā-teng-sim, lē-bé tā-thih-thūi, said of an affair growing much more difficult and serious.

tā chit-thāu, to carry one load only at the end of the pole (as one man).

pin-tā, a wooden or bamboo carrying-pole, used by one man on his shoulder. pín-tā (esp. T.), id. pun-tā (C.), id. kiáh pin-tā, to carry a carrying pole in the hand, with no load. tek-tā, a bamboo carrying-pole. chhiam-tā, carrying-pole with sharp ends (v. chhiam).

kiō-tā, the cross-bars which connect the ends of the poles of a sedan, and rest on the shoulders. tiā-tā, the cross-bar of an anchor.

gū-tā, a yoke for a cow or ox, for ploughing. gū-lē-tā (C.), id.

seng-tā-but, a small edible marine worm, sharp at both ends.

tā -- tēng-tā, making a discrepancy or inaccuracy. kóng-ōe tēng-tā, to contradict one's self, either from forgetfulness, or from intention to deceive. siá-jī tēng-tā, to make a mistake in copying. thia--liáu tēng-tā, heard inaccurately. sng-siáu tēng-tā, to make a mistake in calculating, esp. by omitting or erroneously counting some item.

tā, to clean the bottom of a boat or junk hy hurning, &c.; to heat a dose of opium on the point of a chhiám-á, in the flame of a lamp. ēng-hé tā, to warm a small thing by moving it hack and forwards over a flame. tā-sóe, to clean a boat's bottom hy burning, &c.

tā (same as previous word?). ài-tā-hé (T.), fond of flying into the flame of a lamp, as some insects.

tā [R. to strike], to make a rough calculation. áu-tā, to heat violently. kong-tā, to assail; to attack, as a city. tá-chièn, to do hassle. put-tā put-chiau, without heating he won't confess (v. chiau). sam tá-liáng (C.), three men compelling two to do what they wish, as in money matters.

tá-sàu, to sweep. tá-chhà, to annoy, as hy noise. it-bóng tá-chin (to catch all at one cast of the net), to appropriate to one's self what others should share. tá si-soà (Cn.), = phah si-soà, to make silk cord, hy twisting.

tá-tiáp, to heal. tiét-tá i-seng, a surgeon for falls, wounds, and such accidents only. tiáp-tá i-seng, id.

tá-pān, dress; style of dress, &c. (v. pān). tá-chéng, to adorn one's self. tá-chien, to rest and take a meal at a stage on the road, as mandarin (v. chien).

bō-tá-kin, good and pleasant to deal with (v. kin). tá-sng, to calculate. tá-tsāi, to make a guess of a whole cargo, as in huying it. tá joā-tsōe, make a rough guess how many there are, or how much.

tá-thām, to make secret or quiet investigation or inquiries about a matter. tá-thèng, id.

tā (R. tám), gall; courage. hīm-tā, the gall of the bear, medicinal. lēng-tā-chháu, a febrifuge medicinal plant (gentian?).

tá-thāu, courage. ũ-tá-thāu, brave; courageous; hold. ũ-tá, id. bō-tá, cowardly. bō-tá-thāu, id. hó-tá-thāu, brave; bold. hó-tá, id. toā-tá, id. hó-toā-tá, audacious. sió-tá, cowardly.

sit-tá, to lose courage. lek-tá, id. phoá-tá, to get terribly afraid. sim kia, tá chhièn, very much terrified. khiap-tá (Cn.), cowardly (r.)

pàng-tá, to be very courageous. hòng-tá, quite without fear of consequences, often too foolhardy. gōng-tá, foolhardy. gōng-gōng-tá, id. bòng-tá, id.; making dangerous ventures. tsòng-tá, to stir up one's own courage; very hold, without fear. tǎu-tsòng-tá, to stir up each other's courage, as to do some act together. thiā-tá, to make one's self less afraid, as hy a companion, or hy some other slight precaution which affects one's own feelings, but scarcely adds any real security. tiám báng-hun, thiā-tá, id. tiám báng-á-hiu, thiā-tá, id. kang-chhát chioh-tá (borrowing courage from a rohher), very bold and wicked.

tiòng-tá--sī, to die of great fear, grief, or joy (v. tiòng).

tā -- tá-má-iū, tar; pitch (probably imitation of the word "tar").

tā [R. tám, by change of tone from "tam," to carry], a load such as one man carries; a pecul weight. toā-tā, Tai-tan island, at mouth of Amoy harbour. sió-tā, Siau-tan island.

chhut-tā, to go out to sea past Tai-tan island; to go about trading as a pedlar.

tó-tā, pedlar become bankrupt. tā-tā, to carry two loads on one pole (v. tā). siá-tā, to lay down the load. tán-tā, to wait with a carrying-pole, looking out for a job.

tāng-tā, a heavy load. chit-tā pè-tē, a pair of coarse grass-hags. chheh-tā, books and other luggage of a travelling literary man. tē-tā, tea-pot, &c., carried on a journey, as by a mandarin. thi-thāu-tā, the apparatus of a barber, carried on a pole on his shoulder.

奈當

擔

打

膽

擔

當 旦

答
搭

旦
搭
貼

踏

tà<sup>n</sup>-úi, burden or capacity of a vessel, counted in peculs. tsûn, joã-tsôe tà<sup>n</sup>-úi, what is the burden of the vessel in peculs?

tà<sup>n</sup> [R. tong, ought; bear; now; = col. ta<sup>n</sup>, tng]. jít-tà<sup>n</sup>--sì, day-time. mì<sup>n</sup>-tà<sup>n</sup>--sì, night-time. tsá-tà<sup>n</sup>--sì, formerly.

tsài-tà<sup>n</sup>-sì (T.), in the morning.

tà<sup>n</sup> [R. tàn, to speak to one another], (An.) tà<sup>n</sup>-ôe, to talk. gâu-tà<sup>n</sup>-ôe, oily-mouthed. lām-sám-tà<sup>n</sup>, to talk at random, without regard to truth.

tā<sup>n</sup> — chhiò-tā<sup>n</sup>, having usually a cheerful pleased smiling look.

tā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chhò, to mistake. bô-tā<sup>n</sup>, no mistake. ki-tā<sup>n</sup>, to make a mistake in writing. sôh-tā<sup>n</sup>, to make a mistake in speaking. thia<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup>, to make a mistake in hearing. thia<sup>n</sup>--liáu tā<sup>n</sup>-hì, to mistake from hearing indistinctly. kiā<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup>, to go a wrong road. kiā<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup>-lê, id.

sa<sup>n</sup>-gê-tā<sup>n</sup> (T.), to make an omission or mistake, as two persons each trusting to the other, &c. sa<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup>-gê (A.), id.

tā<sup>n</sup>-bák (A.), to mistake in looking. sng-tā<sup>n</sup>-jít (A.), to make a mistake in calculating the day, or the number of days.

tā<sup>n</sup> — tàn-tā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), to throw away. pàng-tàn-tā<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id.

hì<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup> (An.), to throw away.

tah [R. tap, to answer]. tah-êng, to promise verbally.

tah (R. tap), to strike gently with the palm; to touch; to pat; to rap; to set up or build, as tent, awning, or building; to buy oil or liquor; to embark; also (Cn.), to ask a man to do a favour, or take a message; to send goods.

tah-chhiú, to clap the hands, as with joy. tah chhiú-chhiú, id. tah-chhiú tah-kha, to clap the hands and stamp the feet for delight. tah kachiah, to pat on the back. tah-heng, to strike one's breast with the open palm, as in promising to be security. tui-heng tah-liú, to strike one's breast and the buttons with the palm (v. tui). tah-toh, to strike the table with the hand, in anger. tah-í tah-toh, strike chairs and tables in anger.

tah-hoã<sup>n</sup>, to steady one's self by laying the hand on something; to depend on another's care, as a widow (v. hoã<sup>n</sup>). tah-piah, to lean on a wall (s. paste).

tah-thê, to touch the ground with hand or foot. kha m-bat tah-thê, feet never touching the ground, as a delicate person or one always using sedans. siangkha kui-tah-tah, kneeling humbly on both knees.

tah-niah<sup>n</sup>, to be startled. tah-hiah<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. hiah<sup>n</sup>).

tah-bã, intimate with; likely to succeed (v. bã).

tah-than, to catch a few of the shell-fish called "than." tah-chi<sup>n</sup>, to make the arrow ready to shoot (v. chi<sup>n</sup>).

tàu-tah, active and diligent, esp. two men acting together harmoniously and actively; well put on, as dress neat and tidy, not in the way. tsòe tái-chi<sup>n</sup> tàu-tah, to do things in an active, neat, and proper manner. an-tah, to arrange, as an affair, or as troops (v. an). tiau-tah, neat and tidy, as dress, or as person in regard to dress. tá<sup>n</sup>-pân tiau-tah, dress neat and neatly put on.

pê-tah, to give small bribes, as to subordinates in yamun, to get their help in a case.

tah-iã<sup>n</sup>, to encamp. tah-pi<sup>n</sup>, to erect a theatrical stage. tah pê-pi<sup>n</sup>, to put up an awning. tah phûkiô, to make a floating bridge. tah-liâu, to put up a hut or rough shed. tah chháu-chhù, to put up a hut of straw, grass, &c. tah-tsò, to set up the wooden pillars and beams which make the framework of a Chinese house, before filling in the walls. tah-pang, to put up a board or boards for scaffolding, as for repairs. tah phâng-kám, to put up a bamboo mat as a covering.

tah chhin-thâu, to give good weight (the turn of the scales) in selling. tah-chiú, to buy liquor. tah-iú, to buy oil; to lade out oil, as in one's own house (only this second meaning in Cn.)

tah-kau, a boat-hook.

tah-tsûn, to take passage in a boat, either alone or with others. toa<sup>n</sup>-tah, to take a boat for a short passage alone. tah-tê, to take passage in a passage-boat. tah-kheh, a passenger. kiã-tah, to send, as goods or letter. tah-hô (Cn.), = A. kiã-hê, to send goods. tah-phoe (Cn.), to send a letter.

tah (Cn.), = tá. hit-tah, that place; there. chit-tah, this place; here. ták-tah, every place. sùi-tah, at each place; at many places. nng-tah, two places. m-tsai-tah, not know the locality.

tah, an exclamation at the beginning of a sentence, calling attention to what one is going to say, like "now" or "well then."

tah (cf. tiap). khah-tah-kú-á, after a short time.

tah (R. tap). tah-liên, a double bag, slung over the shoulder.

tah [R. thiap, to paste on; to join or add to; to supply a deficiency; attached; close to], to paste up; to paste on. tah-piah, to paste on the wall. tah ko-ióh, to put on a medical plaster. tah-tsoá, to paste up paper. tah kò-si, to put up a proclamation.

lám-tah-tah, to take in the arms and embrace, as in joke.

chiâu-phòe-tah, fitting well or mixed in due proportions (v. phòe).

tah-sim, loving each other very much, as relatives, or as very intimate confidential friends. tah-sim ê-lâng, a most intimate and confidential friend. kap-i tah-sim, to be on terms of most intimate friendship with him.

koai<sup>n</sup>-tah-tah, shut quite close, as door or window. koai<sup>n</sup>-khi-tah, shut it close! koai<sup>n</sup>-bô-tah, laid to, but still at a small angle, as folding-doors not quite shut and not ready to be bolted. bô-tah, id.

pé-pé tah-tah, to mend many places where there are flaws, cracks, &c., but not making a thorough repair. chhèng-phi<sup>n</sup> kê, ùn-noã<sup>n</sup> tah, put together with mucus and saliva, said in joke or censure of very slim work.

sim tâ kàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-tah (T.), long and deeply grieved and distressed in mind. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> beh sa<sup>n</sup>-tah (T.), id. pak-té kap-ka-chiah sa<sup>n</sup>-tah, belly cleaving to the back, as man in the last stage of leanness, just going to die.

tah — kàu-tah-tóe, to the utmost extreme, as of distress (v. tóe).

tah (R. táp), to tread; to tread or trample on; to draw water by the tread-wheel. thún-táh, to trample on. thut-táh (r.), id. táh-khi-tsái, to plant one's foot firmly. kha-pê táh-khi-tsái, to stand firm and in proper position, as for some exercise; to feel one's footing carefully, as in a dark night; to examine carefully and make sure of the position, as before engaging in some dangerous enterprise. táh kha-pē, id. táh-pē, to walk slowly, as chair-bearers going up a hill. táh-niá, id. táh-phoà, to break by treading on. táh-pí, to flatten by treading on. gē-táh--tiòh, to step on by mistake.

táh-kút--khi, to stumble by treading on a slippery place. táh-thút, to stumble with a sudden jerk, as on a stair (v. thút). táh-tien, to stumble. táh-hām, to fall down from treading on bad footing, e.g. on undermined place, &c.; to fall into sudden calamity when all seemed safe. táh-thām, to step down unexpectedly; to lose money unexpectedly (v. thām). táh-liu (Cn.), to stumble. táh-lui (Cn.), to stumble and fall backwards.

táh-khoà, to measure distance by paces; to try the strength of a plank or floor by treading or stamping on it.

táh-tsúi, to draw water by treading a wheel. táh-chhia, id. táh nng-khu, to draw water for two fields by treading. táh-tùi, to work a rice-mortar by treading (v. tùi). táh-soh, to walk on a tight rope. táh-khiau, to walk on stilts (v. khiau). chēng-iú táh-hé, certain idolatrous rites (v. chēng). táh soa<sup>n</sup>-lêng, to look out for good grave-sites. táh-chhi<sup>n</sup>, to ramble about the hills at the time of the "feast of tombs." tì chit-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, táh chit-ê-tōe, on the same earth and under one sky (v. tì). chiáu-á sa<sup>n</sup>-táh, a bird treading another.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-táh, behaviour; conduct; manner of walking, as to elegance, health, vigour, &c.

chháu-táh, to cause much trouble or disturbance, as at a man's house, e.g. a man who is not wanted there constantly coming, or many persons coming purposely to cause trouble.

táh-chiòh, a stone used for pressing and smoothing cloth; to tread it, as two men do in a see-saw way. kha-táh, a footstool, or anything put to serve as a footstool, as a sand-bag or block of wood, &c. kha-táh-i, a footstool. táh-pang (C. toā-pang), a long footstool along the side of a bed (v. pang). táh-táu, id. bin-chhng táh-táu, a bed and this footstool. bé-táh-thèng, stirrups. bé-táh-tèng (C.), id. chiáu-táh, a roost. chiáu-táh-lâng, a trap for birds. chiáu-táh-chhi, a medicinal thorny plant.

táh (same as previous word?), the support for a sail when lowered (hung like a swing). phāng-táh, id. táh-soh, the ropes by which it is suspended. thâu-táh, the fore support for a large sail. bé-táh, the aft one. giā-táh, to put the support in position ready to receive the lowered sail.

táh [R. tī, to meet with; to be worth; value; = col. tát]. m-táh, not worth; not equal to. m-táh--tiòh, nothing better than to —; the best way is to —; had better —.

táh--i chit-hūn, appoint one share to him. táh chit-hūn khi--lâi, set apart one share.

táh [R. tiáp, to pile up; to lay in order; = col. tháh]. táh-kut-sit (T.), = thiáp-kut-sit, well-behaved.

tai (R. id.) tai-tai, stupid, dull, and ignorant, as a clown. tai-sin, id. sōng-tai, id.

tsu-tai, too strict in keeping to ancient ways, as a pedantic scholar.

tai — kē-tai, a sort of fish found in fresh water.

tai [R. thai, to carry a load between two; to lift]. kē-tai-chi<sup>n</sup>, idolatrous paper marked to represent cash, cut by alternate longitudinal slits into long shreds, and tied at one end in two bundles of 40 or 50 each, the ends streaming away loose; they are left hanging when a play is to be renewed, but are burned when the play is ended.

tai — tai-á, a sort of grain like millet, used for feeding birds, &c. tai-á-bí, id. káu-bú-tai, a sort with ears like a dog's tail. káu-bō-tai (T.), id.

tái (R. id.), a small stinging insect smaller than a flea, almost like dust. koe-tái, a sort bred on fowls. khng-tái, a sort that breeds in bran, making it useless. bí-tái, a sort that breeds in rice.

chhiū<sup>n</sup>-tái, to produce this insect. si<sup>n</sup>-tái, id. bi-chhek si<sup>n</sup>-tái, rice growing full of it.

tái (R. bái), to bury. tái káu-soh, to fasten the two ends of a rope in the bottom of the sea for tying boats to. tái tē-lūi, to set a mine, as in war.

tái (R. id.), a small square raised platform; the raised divan on which the seat of a judge is set.

tái-oân, Formosa (v. oân). sam-sien-tái, a sort of rice from Formosa.

hák-tái, the literary examiner for the whole province. thē-tái, a general or admiral. tin-tái, lieutenant-general or admiral. hiáp-tái, an officer like a colonel (v. hiáp). chē-tái, the governor-general. bú-tái, lieutenant-governor of one province. giét-tái (R.), the provincial judge, = àn-chhat-si. tō-tái, the Taoutai or Tautai. pat-tái, a mandarin who has eight bearers.

phau-tái, a battery. kí-koa<sup>n</sup>-tái, the square pedestal, about 2 feet high, for the flagstaff of a Tsin-sze or very high mandarin. hi-tái, a permanent stage for plays, as before a temple. hoe-tái, a stand of stone or brick work for flower-pots. kiá<sup>n</sup>-tái, a stand for a mirror or picture. chek-tái, a sort of large candlestick. koan-jit-tái, the highest hill on Amoy Island.

lâu-tái, to make a great noise with musical instruments just before a play.

ōe-tit--thang hā-tái, able to settle a dispute peaceably and without too much loss of dignity, e.g. by arbiter arranging to split the difference.

tái [R. bad; wicked]. úi-hui tsok-tái, to behave very wickedly (v. hui).

tái [R. tsái, sediment, dregs, &c.], (C. tsái). che-tái, sediment; dregs; a troublesome man. káu-che-tái, full of dregs (said of things not clear and distinct, or of a man who is fond of borrowing or asking money, or who is dishonest). che-che tái-tái, id.

iū-tái, sediment of oil. iòh-tái, thick dregs of medicinal infusion; full of sediment. huih-tái, blood in small quantities, as on the skin. jiō-ê-tái, sediment in urine jars.

tái-bi, too strong-smelling, though somewhat pleasant. tái-tái, id.

tái [R. a sash; a belt; to take with one; to lead; connected; related; on account of; fated to a condition; = col. toà].

koan-tài (R.), cap and belt of a mandarin. tái-liām, out of regard to a person. tái-gí, to harbour suspicion. tái-iu-iông, having a morose sulky look. tài chit--ê hiām ê i-sù, having some meaning of finding fault, as a phrase or a man's manner.

tái-chit, an inveterate, chronic, or incurable disease. tái-pēng, quite unwell while doing something (v. pēng). tài chhi<sup>n</sup>-ng, face greenish yellow, as when very unwell.

tái chit-tiám sat-khi, fated to be very hurtful to its parents, as child (v. sat).

tài si-toa<sup>n</sup>, including the expense of the official stamped certificate of the deed of sale. si<sup>n</sup> bō-tài-lâi,

蝨虫

埋
臺

歹 滓

帶

踏

值

疊
惶

擡 抬

sí bô-tài-khì, not brought with us at birth, nor carried away with us at death.

koái-tài, to allure (a woman or child); to abscond. tài-léng, to have the command of soldiers and lead them.

tài — hái-tài-chhài, a long edible sea-weed like tangle.

tài — pék-tài, a running of the female genitals. péh-tài, id.

tài [R. to wear on the head; to be security for; a surname; = col. tì, tề].

tam-tài, to be security for a man; to be responsible for; to bear the responsibility.

téng-tài, a mandarin button. ũ téng-tài, to have official rank. siú<sup>n</sup> téng-tài, to bestow a button of military rank, as a reward (done by high military mandarins).

iú<sup>n</sup>-tài-lái (C. Cn.), a plant with very prickly seeds.

tài [R. sū, business; an affair]. tài-chi, business; an affair (v. chi). hó-tài, good actions; a good and proper matter. phái<sup>n</sup>-tài, wickedness, death, or great calamity. bô-ia<sup>n</sup>-tài, a groundless affair. bô-siá<sup>n</sup>-tài, not much wrong; nothing the matter. bô-goá<sup>n</sup>-ê-tài, it is no affair of mine.

bô-ti-tài, it does not concern (you, &c.) bô-ti-toā-tài (C.), it does not much concern (you, &c.)

tài (=lái). beh--tài, whatever do you want? what is the matter? what now? what would you be at?

tài [R. tē, order]. tài-seng, at first (v. seng). tài-thâu, at first; formerly.

tài (R. id.) chheng-tài, a kind of medicinal salt.

tài [R. careless; impertinent; unpolite]. tài-ban, to slight; to treat disrespectfully.

tài [R. tō, a helm; a rudder; = col. toā]. tài-kong, a steersman; the captain of a small boat having only a few men (sometimes said of the mate of a vessel); politely said to the boatman of a small boat; often applied to assistants in the foreign hong. siang-chiú<sup>n</sup>-tài, the boatman of a two-oared boat. kē-á-tài, boatman of a sculling cargo-boat. iáp-tài, the boatman whose name (not surname) is "iáp."

tài (R. id.) tai-pōe, tortoise-shell (s. great). tai-pē, id.

tài — kong-tài, a shell-fish like the "than," but smaller. kong-tài-oa, a jetty on Ké-lóng-sū Island.

tài (R. id.) tai-hí, a sort of large fish.

tài — káu-bú-tài (T.), an animal like a large lizard, or like the "tō-tēng."

tài (esp. C., but sometimes A.) bô-tài-oā, = bô-tā-oā, having no resource (v. oā).

tài [R. great, = col. toā]. tai-siáu, large and small (v. siáu). tai-hong, generous; liberal (v. hong). tai-liōng, magnanimous (v. liōng).

tai-jin, a high mandarin, as Tautai, Hiáp, Consul, or upwards (s. instead). tai-kà (polite), you, sir! tai-kè (C.), id. tai-kan, a traitorous statesman; a crafty intriguing man. tai-tiōng-hu, a brave man (v. tiōng).

tai-ke, all of you; all (persons). tai-peng, a very large body of soldiers. tai-seng, a numerous clan.

tai-liok, on the whole; in general; on an average; generally speaking; but sometimes —. tai-iok, id. tai-i, id. tai-khai, id.; said also in asking for leniency in punishment.

tai-hák, the great learning; one of the four books. tai-siū, a large picture of a man on a scroll. tai-sê lân-tô, one cannot escape from fated death.

tai-piēn, to go to stool.

tai-sú, the term on or about July 23d. tai-sí (C.), id. tai-hân, the term on or about Jan. 20th. tai-soat, term on or about Dec. 7th.

tai-chheng, the Manchoo dynasty. tai-eng-kok, Britain. tai-bí-kok (r.), the United States. tai-hoat-kok (r.), France.

tai-sū, title of Kwan-yin, or of ruler of ghosts (v. sū). tai-chiòng-iá, a hideous paper image used in the 7th month (v. chiòng, "all"). tai-chiòng-iâ (C. chiàng), attendants of Tai-tō-kong (v. chiòng, "military officer"). tai-hóng, rhubarb. tai-pōe, a sort of tea (s. tortoise-shell).

sín-thong kóng-tài, miraculous power very great. bōng-tsū-tsun-tài, self-conceited; vain; proud.

tai-jí-á-pēng, the character "tai" without the right-hand down stroke (used in forming some words).

tai [R. a generation; in place of; instead of; = col. tē], a generation.

tai-pān, an agent or temporary substitute authorized to act for us (v. pān). tai-su, an amanuensis for important documents, often official (v. su). tai-pit, an amanuensis, esp. private. tai-jin, an image of paper or bamboo, used in place of a man in rites to avert sickness or calamity from him (s. great).

tai-chhut-chí<sup>n</sup>, to pay money on another's account. tai-chhut, id. tai-sūn, to make inspection for the (Ming) emperor, or for Heaven.

kau-tai, to commit to; to hand over.

sè-tai, a generation. si-tai (C.), id. sè-sè tai-tai, from generation to generation. lèk-tai, successive generations; also (X.), the books of Chronicles. lèk-tai siong-thoán, handed down from generation to generation. sien-tai, former generations. chheng-tai, id. tsui<sup>n</sup>-tai (Cn.), id. hē-tai, posterity; future generations. au-tai, id. hīo-tai (Cn.), id.

sam-tai, three generations. thiēn sam-tai (R.), to write out a statement of one's pedigree for three generations, as before competing for a degree. sam-tai put-chheng, having a blot on that pedigree. khah-siá<sup>n</sup> sam-tai, said of a man whose sayings and plans are usually accomplished.

ngé-tai-sun, a great-great-grandson. it-jin sam-tsu, liok-tai chhien-teng, if each man have three sons, in six generations it makes a thousand men.

tai<sup>n</sup> (T.) = A. hēng, to give back; to return a thing; to give.

tai<sup>n</sup>, to cut off, as a leg or a branch, by many successive strokes; to prune away so; to hack at, as a branch or a limb. tai<sup>n</sup>-kha, to cut off a leg. tai<sup>n</sup> kha-khū, to cut off the foot at the ankle, as a robber's. tai<sup>n</sup> ka-chiah, to cut and hack at a man's back, e.g. a burglar when caught.

tai<sup>n</sup> [R. tái, bad, wicked]. úi-hui tsok-tai<sup>n</sup> (= tái), to act wickedly.

tai<sup>n</sup> (T.) = A. tiàm, a shop.

tai<sup>n</sup> (T.) = A. tēng, hard.

tai<sup>n</sup> (T.) = A. tēng. hē-tai<sup>n</sup>, the threshold, &c.

tai<sup>n</sup> (T.) = A. tiēn (a tenant; to rent), in several phrases.

taih<sup>n</sup> (T.), exclamation of surprise, e.g. at things falling.

tak — tak-siáu, to make a memorandum of an account, as on a slip of paper or small memorandum-book; to jot down an item. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-tak, just jot it down, or take a memorandum of it, as of a sale or account.

戴

事

第
黛
怠
舵

代

鯪

奈
大

代

夕

登

觸

tak [R. chhiok, to gore; to meet with; to oppose; to resist; to come suddenly against; = col. chhok, chhek], to gore; to indent; to crush, as an insect between the nails or the teeth; to cut gently with the end of a knife; to stumble; (to oppose violently); to sail very close to the wind; to lay to.

tak-tak, to make a number of gentle cuts with the end of a knife, as in mincing small. tak sat-bú, to kill a louse between the nails or teeth. tak--chit-ê, to give a sharp rapid bite, as when breaking open a melon seed or when biting the nails.

tak-khi, the teeth chattering, as with cold; to shut the teeth rapidly so as to break open something. koá<sup>n</sup> kàu-ôe-tak-khi, so cold that the teeth chatter.

tak--tióh, to stumble or strike against unintentionally. tsúg-kah tak--tióh, to indent with the finger-nail; to hurt the finger-nail by coming against something. tak-tióh-chiòh, to stumble or strike against a stone. tak--tióh mē-thāng-chhi, suddenly find one's self involved in a lawsuit with a very dangerous man (v. thāng). beh-poáh beh-tak, stumbling and ready to fall. tak--tó, to trip and stumble, as on a stone or step. tióh-tak, to stumble. kha tióh-tak, id. bé, si-kha, ũ-si tióh-tak, a horse, though it has four legs, sometimes stumbles (strength, wealth, and influence are not always to be depended on).

hām-bin hām-tak, just half wakened out of sleep, and hardly knowing what one is doing (said of a man doing things very carelessly or in ignorance of what should be done).

tak-bé, slightly blunted, as needle.

tú-tak, to oppose and carp at a master's orders, sometimes doing the thing ordered, or part of it. tí-tak (C.), = tú-tak, id. tak-ti<sup>n</sup>, constantly causing trouble or long delays, as man or affair (v. ti<sup>n</sup>). put-chí tak-kháp, matters always going wrong (v. kháp).

sa<sup>n</sup>-tak-chhiú, to have a slight altercation. tak-kháu, having some sour ill-tempered words, as at the beginning of a quarrel; not so strong as sa<sup>n</sup>-mē<sup>n</sup>. kap--i tak-kháu, to have a slight altercation or some unpleasant words with him.

tak-hong, to sail closer to the wind in order to sail slower. tak chit-tè, to lay to, or to anchor for a very short time. tak-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to anchor for a very short time.

túg-tak (T.), to manage to settle an affair, or to gain money, where others would fail.

ták [R. tiók, to drive away; each], each. ták-ê, each one (severally and disjunctively). ták--ê, everyone. ták-lāng, each man. ták-hāng, each sort, &c. ták-pái, every time.

ták (C.) ták-ke, = A. tái-ke, all (said only of persons).

ták [R. tsók, muddy; turbid; not clear]. iú-ták, sediment of oil.

ták [R. tók, only; solitary]. ke-ták, unsocial and disobliging; selfishly refusing to give any assistance.

ták [R. tók, poison; poisonous; = col. thāu], poisonous; very wicked and injurious, as man. ták-sim, wicked malevolent heart. ták-chhiú, violent injurious hands. hē tak-chhiú, to lay violent hands on a man. joáh-ták, very hot and sultry.

phang-ták (Cn.), the sting of a bee or wasp. hang-ták, the poisonous spike of the skate fish.

ták — ták-á, a sort of fish. ták-á-kôe, do. pickled. ták-á-phê, sort of fish-skin (used for rubbing varnished articles to make them smooth).

ták (R. tók). ná<sup>n</sup>-ták, harrows used for preparing wet fields for planting out young rice (s. carrot). lā-ták, id. phañ ná<sup>n</sup>-ták, to harrow the wet rice-fields.

ták [R. pók, name of a plant]. ná<sup>n</sup>-ták, = ná<sup>n</sup>-pók, carrots (s. harrow). lā-ták-chhài (Cn.), id.

tam (same as next word?). tam-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, to rest firmly on the wall, as a beam that has a good hold. bô-tam-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, has no proper hold on the wall, as beam of which the end is decayed or worm-eaten.

tam [R. to carry or bear, esp. on a pole across the shoulder; to endure; to bear responsibility; = col. ta<sup>n</sup>, tà<sup>n</sup>], to stand security. tam-sêng, to assume responsibility (v. sêng). tam-jin, to be responsible for; to guarantee; to stand security. tam-niá<sup>n</sup>, id. tam-tài, id. tam-pó (r.), to stand security.

tam-tng, to bear, as office, honour, or responsibility. m-tam su-iá<sup>n</sup>, will not act honourably according to agreement, as in paying common expenses or gambling debts, or in drinking for a forfeit (v. su).

tam-hoân, to have a great many anxieties, as about numerous troublesome matters to be managed. káu tam-hoân, lāng kôe-lāu, they who have many anxieties soon grow old.

tam [previous word? or following word?]. tam-gē, to injure another very seriously by disappointing just expectations, as by marrying and soon leaving (v. gē).

tam (R. id. ?) tam-koh, to waste time. tam-koh sí-tsūn, id. tam-koh sí-jit, id. tam-koh ní<sup>n</sup>-tang, to waste one's years. tam-koh tai-chi, to procrastinate at some business or work, delaying the finishing of it.

tam (R. id.), to take up on the point of the finger, as a fine powder; to wet the very tip (as of one's finger) in a liquid; not so deep as "ún." tam-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to take up on the tip of the finger so as to try what an article is like, esp. tasting it. tam-bái (Cn.), id.

tam [R. name of a man]. ló-tam, = ló-kun, Lau-tze, the founder of Taoism.

tâm [R. to converse; to discuss; talk; a dialect]. tâm-lún, to converse or discuss together. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap tâm-tâm, to talk together. tâm-giên, to chat. tâm-kim soat-ké, to talk idly about ancient and modern things (v. soat).

chhiâu-tâm, jests and jocular talk (v. chhiâu). kóng phâ<sup>n</sup>-tâm, to tell baseless stories for amusement.

hiang-tâm, a local dialect; local vernacular or colloquial; a patois. hiong-tâm (Cn.), id. hiu<sup>n</sup>-tâm (Cn.), id.

tâm, damp; moist. sip-tâm, id. thàu-tôe-tâm, wet to the skin.

tâm kà-kà, very wet, as leaky house or boat or slushy road. tâm kauh-kauh, very damp or wet. tâm chiuh-chiuh, id. tâm lok-lok, very wet, as road. tâm téh-téh, id. tâm chhih-chhih, all damp, e.g. with dew.

ak-tâm, to drench; drenched. bak-tâm, to soil by wetting. phoah-tâm, to wet by splashing water on. jê-tâm, to wet by rubbing, as in washing clothes. ùn-tâm, to wet by dipping into. ù-tâm, damaged (as goods) by leakage or by a great quantity of water. tê-tâm, damaged by damp soaking in gradually, or by lying beside some damp thing.

tâm [same as previous word?]. tâm-chièn, offerings of preserved fruits, &c., made to idols. tâm-chièn-áp, do., on a frame.

萄

擔

耽

湛

聃
談譚

逐

濁
獨
毒魚
毒
罇

膽

tám [R. gall; courage; = col. tá<sup>n</sup>]. hó-tám-lék, courageous. ū-tám-ti, wise, skilful, fearless and self-reliant (v. ti). sòng-tám, to lose courage (v. sòng). tám-hân, much afraid; very timorous.

tám-tám, timorous; afraid of consequences; nervous about a matter. sim-lái tám-tám, id.

tiòng-tám, to be greatly affected by sudden good or bad news, causing a feeling like fainting or choking in the throat.

liòng-tám, = lèng-tá<sup>n</sup>-chháu, a sort of cooling medicine (centaury? gentian? and some other bitter herbs).

tám — tám-hoân, sulphate of copper.

tám — tám-hóng, to take a thing, pretending that the owner has commissioned us to get it; to get money on the pretence that a third party has sent us to ask it.

tám (R. tám). tám-hók, mourning of simple black, worn for three or four months additional after the regular 27 months or nominal three years.

tám (cf. tím, thím). tám-tám, hanging down, as head. thâu-khak tám-tám, hanging the head. tám-thâu, to nod the head, as when giving security to a shopkeeper for a friend who is buying from him. bák-chiu tám-lòh-khì, eyes looking down. tám-sê, hanging down one's head, as from weariness, sleepiness, fear, or shame. tám-gâm, appearance of dullness and want of ability. tám-sin, dull appearance, as of a very old or sickly man, or as when in very low spirits.

tám [R. thiâm, quiet, = col. tiâm]. tám-tám-á kiá<sup>n</sup> (esp. Cn.), to walk slowly, as with a sore foot.

tám [R. fresh; tasteless; heartless; cold; light-coloured, not gaudy; dull or unsuccessful, as trade or affairs].

tám-tám, having but little or no emotion. tám-tám bóng-kè, to get along so-so, but no more, from day to day, barely able to make both ends meet. tám-tám kè-jit, id. seng-lí tám-tám, very little business doing, but not losing.

chheng-tám, in very poor circumstances. ke-sū chheng-tám, very poor, as a family. chhám-tám, very poor and unfortunate, affairs going wrong; distressed appearance of countenance when all is going wrong.

lèng-tám, grown cold in affection; having greatly or wholly lost interest in a matter, feeling weary and heartless about it; feeling dreary and lonely, e.g. having no companion; cloudy and overcast, as sky when about to rain.

hám-tám, swollen and flabby, as face, &c.

tám-tsong, neatly and plainly dressed, as a woman; not gaudy.

ám-tám, dull or indistinct, as a colour; not bright; gloomy or overcast, as sky or weather. tám-ng, yellowish, dull yellow. tám-chí-sek, dull purple (so with some other colours).

tám-pòh, small in quantity; a little of a thing (v. pòh).

tám-tek, a sort of bamboo, used as a febrifuge.

tám-súi, the port or district of Tamsuy in North Formosa; there is also a small place in the south of the same name. hú-lók-tám, Tai-wan-foo, Lók-káng, and Tamsuy.

tám (R. id.) tám-hók, = tám-hók, extra mourning for three or four months.

膽

禫

恬

淡

禫

tám [R. name of a plant; Hibiscus?]. ám-tám-hiòh, a sort of leaf used in adulterating tea.

tám (C.) sám-tám, very much covered with grass or brushwood, as a mountain.

tan [R. only; solitary; a bill, ticket, card, account, &c.; = col. toa<sup>n</sup>]. tan-tan it-kò, only one (man). tan-tan chit-ê, id. tan-teng, solitary, as only son (v. teng). tan-sin phit-bé, quite solitary, as man without relatives, or going somewhere all alone. tan-hong tók-bi, a medicine that is taken alone, not mixed with other drugs; said figuratively of one sort of goods, esp. of drugs. hò put-tan-hêng, calamities do not come singly (v. hòk, good fortune).

tan-hông, red paper, such as is used for visiting cards (s. red).

tan — ân-tan, stretched very tight and stiff (v. ân).

tan — hân-tan, a man whose bride was betrothed in succession to nine men who all died before marriage. hân-tan-chhe, his bride (v. chhe).

tan [R. red; sincere; some powerful medicines]. tan-sim (R.), loyal to sovereign, as minister.

úi tan-chheng, to paint in colours. tan-ti, the red level place at a palace door; the depressed level place for water in front of a grave (v. ti).

hông-tan, red-lead. tan-hông, a sort of ochre colour (s. card).

kim-tan, the Taoist elixir of immortality. lèng-tan, id. sien-tan, id. (+). liên sien-tan, to make it as the genii (sien) do. liên-tan, to use the elixir of immortality. liên-tan siu-tò, to practise Taoist rules so as to become a Sien. siu-tan, id. tan-lê, a place where the genii prepare that elixir.

iòh-tan, a very small sort of pill. siu-sip-tan, a sort of medicine (v. sip). tan-ko oân-sán, four sorts of medicines (v. ko). tiám-tan, to apply a powerful drug (powdered or fluid) to a sore or diseased place.

tan-kùi, a small red flower (v. kùi). tan-som, a very cheap sort of ginseng. bé-tan, the Chinese tree peony, Paeonia moutan. bé-tan-hoe, id. sien-tan-hoe, a bright scarlet flowering shrub (+). kok-tan, the red Amaryllis; some say a different flower.

tan — chhut-tan, to have a dangerous sort of fever with dark spots.

tan (Cn.), = A. teng, a nail.

tan [R. teng, to ascend; to note down; to record], (Cn. T.), to note down or make a memorandum of, as an account. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-tan, just note it down.

tân [R. tân, to arrange; to state; old; stale; an ancient state], a surname. tân-lim poân-thien-hâ, the surnames Tân and Lâm make up half the world.

tân [R. têng, a shed], (also Cn. = A. têng, a shed for resting, as on a road).

bô-sû-tân, a shrine for ancestral tablets that have no posterity. chêng-tân, name of a village on the coast between Tin-hái and Phú-lâm-kió.

tân [R. an altar, = col. toá<sup>n</sup>]. tiòng-tân-iá, = lô-chhia, a young idol. tiòng-tân goân-sòe, id.

tân [R. to fillip; to play on a stringed instrument; to make a mark with a chalk-line, = col. toá<sup>n</sup>, toá<sup>n</sup>].

tân-ap, to restrain people from making disturbance or rebellion by a sufficient display of force.

tân [same as previous word?], to sound loudly. lúi tân, the thunder peals. chhèng tân, the gun makes a report. lò tân, the gong sounds. ki-ki-tân, sound of whistling, &c. (v. ki). chhùi chiáp-chiáp-

葵

單

丹

登

陳

亭

壇

彈

tân, very talkative. kóng-ôe bôe-tân, one's advice not valued.

tân-ké (C.), = A. chéng-ké, to beat gongs, &c., at beginning of a play.

tán [R. téng, a rank, class, or sort; like; to act in place of; to wait for], to wait for. tng-tán, to be watching for a man, e.g. so as to catch him or to injure him, or to be on our guard against him; to wait for an opportunity, or as a man out of employment waiting for a job. tán-tà, to wait with a carrying-pole to get some job. tán-tsôe, to wait till all have come. khoā-khoā-tán, to wait very long, generally unwillingly (v. khoā). ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>-tán, to wait anxiously, as for news, or for a person. ôe-tán--tit, can wait without much inconvenience. kôe-kôe tán--tit, can easily wait. tán-chih, to go out and wait to receive a man at an appointed place. tán-chih sêng-siù<sup>n</sup> (waiting for the prime minister), said in joke of waiting very long for a man. tán-chih tsái<sup>n</sup>-siông, id. tán pùt-sé, to wait for Kwan-yin, as at an idolatrous procession; also (T.), to wait on the roadside, as robbers, to plunder or levy black-mail. tán-mih<sup>n</sup> oh-kâu, tán-lâng kôe-lâu, in waiting for things or men, the time seems very very long.

tán-thāi (Cn. T.), to wait for.

tàn [R. the morning; a female character in a play; = col. toà<sup>n</sup>, hòà<sup>n</sup>].

goân-tàn, New-year's morning. it-tàn e-hê, if some day one should die (v. hê). sam-tāi liáp-cheh, it-tàn khêng-khong, dissipate in one morning the accumulations of three generations.

tàn (Cn.) tán-sak, to throw away. tàn--khū, id. tàn-tā<sup>n</sup> (An.), id. hī<sup>n</sup>-tàn-tā<sup>n</sup> (An.), id.

tàn (Cn.), = A. têng, to nail.

tân [R. only]. m-tân, not only. m-tân-nā<sup>n</sup>, id. put-tân (r.), id. tân goân àn-ni<sup>n</sup> (r.), that is just what I desire. tân tit--tióh bóng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, I go just because I cannot help it, though I would much rather not. tân tit--tióh bóng-chhap, I meddle with the matter only because I cannot possibly avoid it.

tân [R. to fear]. sù-bū-khī-tân, recklessly wicked without reverence or fear. put-tân-hoân (R.), willing to take any trouble (so as to get it done).

tàng (R. tong), the east; eastern. tang--si, the east. tang-hng, id. tang-bin, id. tang-bin tsôe-sek, first dawn. bân-súi tiâu-tàng, a distant eastern region where the current is always to the east (v. tiâu).

tang-sai, east and west (v. sai). tang-lâm, south-east (v. lâm). tang-pak, north-east.

khau-tàng, to beat against an east or north-east wind, as in sailing towards Fuh-chau. tsá tang, bô hó-lâng (T.), an east wind in the morning will be very violent before evening.

tang-iū<sup>n</sup>, Japan. tang-tê, Formosa. kng-tàng, Canton, Kwang-tung. kúí<sup>n</sup>-tàng (C.), id. liáu-tàng, Liautung in Manchuria. soa<sup>n</sup>-tàng, Shantung province. soa<sup>n</sup>-tàng-lâi, pears from Shantung. soa<sup>n</sup>-tàng-hún, vermicelli from Shantung.

tàng (R. tong), winter; harvest; also (esp. E.), a year.

tang-thi<sup>n</sup>, winter. chhun hê, chhiu tang, spring, summer, autumn, and winter. ah-tàng, to pass the season (esp. winter) in port.

tang-koe, a sort of pumpkin (v. koe). tang-sún, winter bamboo sprouts (v. sún).

jip-tàng, the term at the beginning of winter, on or about Nov. 7th. lip-tàng, id. tang-chì, the shortest day; the winter solstice, Dec. 21st or 22d; it is the great day for worshipping ancestors. tang-tsoeh, id. tang-cheh (C.), id. tsòe-tàng, to keep this feast. chè-tàng, to make the ancestral offerings at it. chiáh-tàng, to partake of this ancestral feast.

pàng-tàng, to give holidays or vacation at harvest time. siu-tàng, to take in the harvest (v. siu). ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng hó-siu, harvest good. hó-ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng, good harvest. pháí<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng, bad harvest. tam-koh ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to waste one's years. tsáu-kè ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to waste and lose a good opportunity. ni<sup>n</sup>-tàng gèh-tsoeh, the various festivals of the year (v. tsoeh). tang-bé, end of harvest. lák-gèh-tàng, the first rice-harvest, about the sixth month. tsá-tàng, id. téng-tàng, id. ún-tàng, the second rice-harvest, about the tenth month. múi<sup>n</sup>-tàng (C.), id. tng-tàng, id., so called because it is a long time from it till the first harvest of the following year. ē-tàng, id. (+).

tê-tàng, the tea-harvest. béh-tàng, wheat or barley harvest. thê-tâu-tàng, the harvest of ground-nuts. hái-tàng (Cn.), the take of fish, as in a year. pháí<sup>n</sup>-tsu-tàng (C. T.), a season when small-pox is very virulent.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-poà<sup>n</sup>-tàng, about half a year. téng-poà<sup>n</sup>-tàng, first half of a year; first six months. ē-poà<sup>n</sup>-tàng, second half of a year; last six months. ē-tàng, latter part of a year (+). poà<sup>n</sup>-tàng han-tsū (T.), potatoes planted after the first rice-crop has been reaped.

tàng — tang-hoa-hún, a plant, and a medicinal preparation from it.

tàng [R. tong, name of a plant]. tang-e-chhài, parsley. tang-o-chhài, id. tang-o, id. tang-ô-chhài (Cn.), id.

tàng [R. tóng, name of a tree]. ka-tàng-chhiu, a sort of tree that grows large, but is of no special use. ka-tàng, id. phū-tàng (C.), another sort of tree.

tàng [R. tong, name of a plant]. bâng-tàng, a sort of reed much used for making stems for candles. liáh bâng-tàng tsòe-koái<sup>n</sup> (to take a reed for a staff), to employ a man for a work for which he is quite unfit. khiá bâng-tàng-hng (set up a memorial-arch of reeds), said of a widow who makes a false pretence of purity (used also in other figurative senses).

tàng — bâng-tàng, the tailor-bird. bâng-tàng-á, id. bâng-tàng-á-chiáu, id. bâng-tàng si<sup>n</sup> giá-nng (T.), tailor-bird laying goose-eggs (said of a man boasting of being able to do what is utterly beyond his power).

tàng [R. tong, pendent stone ornaments; jingling sound]. tin-tin tang-tàng, sound of tight string when struck.

tàng (cf. tàng). tang--tióh, to hurt the foot by striking on a thing so that the place grows hard. kha tang--tióh, id.

tàng (C.) tang-ng, = A. tiang-ng, midst; among (but in other phrases C. tiang, = A.)

tàng — kha-tàng, the lower leg (from knee to ankle). kha-tàng-kut, the bone of the lower leg; the shin-bone. toā-kha-tàng, elephantiasis. hám-kha-tàng, id.

tàng [R. thiông, an insect, = col. thâng]. sîn-tàng (C.), = A. siên-lâng, a lizard.

等

旦

擲

但

憚

東

冬

冬
崇
菓

璫

虫

tàng [R. tóng, together with; alike], alike; of same sort; having some share in the same thing. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàng, alike; of the same sort; the same in kind, quality, value, &c. hò-tàng, harmonious, as persons; agreeing, as evidence, or as articles with the pattern. sa<sup>n</sup>-hò-tàng, id. kóng-òe sa<sup>n</sup>-hò-tàng, agreeing in what they say. tùi-tàng, agreeing perfectly, as evidence. m-tùi-tàng, disagreeing, as evidence. bò-tàng, dissimilar; unlike.

háp-tàng, an agreement as to the division of family property (usually made before the father's death); a copy is kept by each party. khau-su háp-tàng, id. tàng-chit-iū<sup>n</sup>, of the same sort; alike. tàng-khoán, id.

tàng-sim, of the same mind; unanimous. tàng-sim chit-i, id. tàng-sim hiáp-lék, with one mind and united strength.

tàng-phoá<sup>n</sup>, a companion. tàng-sái, wives of brothers. tàng-mâng, husbands of sisters. tàng-mâng-ê, id. tàng-múi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

tàng-sí, at the same time. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàng-hè, of the same age. tàng-ní<sup>n</sup>, having graduated in the same year as Kujin or higher graduates. tàng-òá<sup>n</sup>, having taken the degree of Sew-tsai in the same year. tàng-png, having become Kujin or Tsin-sze in the same year. tàng-si<sup>n</sup>, of same surname. tàng-miá<sup>n</sup>, of same personal name. tàng-hiu<sup>n</sup>, of same village. tàng-hiét, having the same grave, &c. &c. tàng-tò ê-lâng, persons of same trade or profession. tàng-toh ê-lâng, persons who eat at the same table. tàng-kiá<sup>n</sup> jū-tàng-miá<sup>n</sup>, fellow-travellers or emigrants assisting each other in dangers of the way, and sticking together constantly afterwards. tàng-ke-kiám, sharing each other's fortunes. tàng-si<sup>n</sup>-sí, do. till death. tàng-ū tàng-bò, fortunes strictly united, as of man and wife. tàng-khé tàng-ti<sup>n</sup>, do.; sometimes said also of very close friends who assist each other with money. ang-bé tàng-khé tàng-ti<sup>n</sup>, man and wife have their fortunes identical.

tàng-oa<sup>n</sup>, the Hien city or district of Tung-an or Tung-ngan, in which district Amoy stands.

tàng (R. tóng), copper; brass. âng-tàng, copper. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tàng, brass. nng-tàng, soft brass. chhit-pó-tàng, very fine brass. péh-tàng, a white metal that looks like silver (said to be an alloy of copper with arsenic, &c.), much used for armlets and such ornaments; said also of zinc, nickel, &c.

tàng-si, very thin brass wire. tàng-soá<sup>n</sup>, thicker brass or copper wire. tàng-phí, percussion-caps. tàng-e, a brass pot with a cover (said also of other metal). tàng-ké, a sort of rattle used by pedlars (v. ké), (s. boy, sorcerer). tiò-tàng, copper wire to which a hook is sometimes attached (s. tube). phoá-tàng kū-siah, old brass and pewter articles (v. siah).

tàng-kòng, a man who has got the degree of kòng-seng for money alone. tàng-kòng, a large brass cannon.

tàng-chi<sup>n</sup>, good common cash. tàng-gún, silver coin adulterated with brass. tàng-pau, brass dollar coated with silver. pau-tàng, id.

tàng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, verdigris (v. chhi<sup>n</sup>). tàng-lék, id. (?) tàng-hông, id. tàng-sien, id., only on the article. chhiū<sup>n</sup> tàng-sien, verdigris forming on a thing; to get covered with verdigris. chhiū<sup>n</sup> tàng-hông, id. seng-khu tng-tàng-sien, I have no cash on me. hin-su tui<sup>n</sup>-tàng-chhe<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

kong tàng-siá<sup>n</sup>, to gamble with the "lién-pó." chiáh kiáu-tàng, to live by gambling. chiáh-

tàng chiáh-thih, to live by bold bad means (v. thih).

tàng-gê-tsò, falsely and doggedly refusing to admit a fault (v. tsò).

phah-tàng, to work in brass. tèng-tàng, to mend articles of brass or other metals; the men who do this work also mend broken glass, earthenware, &c.

tàng-soa<sup>n</sup>, Tong-san town, island, or harbour, between Amoy and Swatow.

tàng [R. tóng, a boy; a lad; a student]. tàng-chí, a sorcerer, medium, or fakeer, who professes to be under the afflatus of a spirit. tàng-ki, id. tàng-sin (C.), id. chin-tàng, a real spiritualist medium, or sorcerer. ké-tàng, a pretended one.

koan-tàng, to perform incantations to call the spirit to the medium, fakeer, or sorcerer. koan-ki tiò-tàng, to make incantations and get the afflatus for oracles. tiò-tàng, to leap about or gesticulate violently under the afflatus. thiau-tàng, id. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to take possession of the man, as the spirit does; to be possessed by the spirit. liáh-tàng, to become possessed. thè-tàng, to leave the medium or sorcerer, as the spirit does at the end of the rites. thè-tàng-ké, to draw back from an affair which we were taking in hand (v. thè).

tàng [R. tóng, a tube; a cylinder or cylindrical vessel; cf. col. thàng].

tek-tàng, a cylindrical bamboo vessel or spout. chí-tàng, a bamboo till for receiving cash, as in a shop. pit-tàng, a cylindrical vessel for holding pens or pencils. hiu<sup>n</sup>-tàng, cylindrical vessel for incense-sticks. chhiam-tàng, cylindrical vessel for holding divining-sticks (used as lots). chiam-tàng, small cylindrical vessel for needles. tiò-tàng (C.), bamboo floats for line with hooks (s. brass).

hò-tàng, a trumpet. pún toá-tàng, to blow a very long straight sort of trumpet (used on joyful occasions).

ien-tàng, a chimney. ien-tàng-khò, tubular tiles for chimney.

hiá-tàng, = hiá-thàng, semi-cylindrical tiles for roofs, &c.

tàng (= tàng). tàng-á, = tàng-á, the small upright timbers between the two horizontal beams of a couple for the roof of a house.

tàng — sông-tàng, a sort of useless soft wood (v. sông).

tàng — sông-tàng, dull and foolish; clumsy, clownish, and ignorant, as a big useless fellow. sông-tàng-khi, id.

tàng [R. tiók, each, = col. ták]. tàng-kòe (C.), = A. ták-kè, every time, often, constantly.

tàng [R. tóng, to rule; to store up; curiosities; to understand], a surname.

tàng-sū, to have the oversight and management of some public work (e.g. of building a temple), as a man appointed by the subscribers; the head-man who has the charge of the volunteers in a subdivision of a ward; a sort of secretary in the Giók-pin Academy, who has charge of routine work, e.g. recording names, paying money for prizes, &c.

tàng [R. tóng, confused or disturbed in mind, sometimes confounded with the former word]. tàng-hiah<sup>n</sup>, hurried and careless, so as to break or spoil things.

tàng [R. tóng, a faction, cabal, club, or secret confederacy; to combine or club together improperly].

同

童

筒

銅

董

懂

黨

tàng-som, = tóng-som, a cheap plant like ginseng (v. som).

tàng [R. tsái, dregs, refuse, = col. tái]. huih-tàng, clotted blood in a mass or large quantity.

tàng — phàu-tàng, a long fort or fortified wall.
tàng [R. tở, a hole; an aqueduct; a waste-weir or sluice, = col. tẩu]. tàng-mủi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = Cn. tẩu-mủ, a sluice for water.

tàng [R. tống, a pillar; a post; cf. tâng] tàng-á, small upright timbers between the two horizontal beams of a couple for a roof.

hó-ke-tàng, having great wealth. hó-ka-tàng, id.

tàng (T.), = tè thang (lit. place to —). bô-tàng-chhê, = bô-tè thang-chhê, cannot be found by searching.

tàng [R. tống, suitable; safe; firm; to pledge; by change of tone from "tong," ought, take responsibility or management, oppose, = col. tng, tng, &c.]

ún-tàng, safe; certainly (v. ún). tàng-chin, positively so; certainly it is so.

kau-tàng, an affair or business. tng sim-mih<sup>n</sup> hăng-tàng, what office (subordinate) have you in the yamun?

péng-tàng (C.), troublesome, as boy too fond of playing and touching things. gâu pái<sup>n</sup>-tàng (T.), fond of altering what had better have been left as it was, as a rolling stone who never settles long at anything, or as a troublesome meddling child.

tàng (R. tống), coagulated substances; gelatinous preparations in the form of jellies; frozen; (extremely cold).

tàng-chí, chilblains; frost-bite (v. chí). tàng-chih, to make the tongue feel cold, as ice; to send a very strong and unpleasant sensation through the tongue, as some drugs. tàng-lê, to cool or bleach in the dew; to catch cold by exposure to the night dews. tàng-khí, teeth very cold from eating some cold thing; teeth chattering with cold. koá<sup>n</sup> kàu tàng-khí, so cold that the teeth chatter.

sng-koá<sup>n</sup> seh-tàng, extremely cold (v. seh).

tàng-sng, having very contracted ideas, as about another's power (v. sng).

kiên-tàng, to coagulate. tsáu-tàng (C.), coagulated jelly beginning to soften and get bad.

ám-tàng, coagulated rice-water. bah-tàng, jellied pork-soup. gú-bah-tàng, jellied beef-soup. sin-chháu-tàng, a coagulated preparation from the plant called sin-chháu. chhin-chháu-tàng, id. ò-giô-tàng, coagulated jelly from the ò-giô plant. thê-sún-tàng, jelly made from the animal called thê-sún (v. sún).

tàng — tàng-bák, to stare at one in an angry or displeased manner, showing the white of the eye very much. kap-goá tàng-bák, he stared angrily at me, turning the white of his eyes. bák-thâu tàng-tàng, eyes naturally showing much of the white, apt to suggest the idea of displeasure. bák-chiu tàng-tàng, id.

tàng (cf. tang), to make an indentation with the thumb-nail. tàng-chih, to pluck off with the nail, as a flower. êng tsúg-kah tàng, to imprint the nail, as in the flesh, &c.

tàng [R. tống, to move]. tín-tàng, to move (v. tín). óah-tàng, moving about much or rapidly; active; lively; in constant motion. bák-sin óah-tàng, eyes full of fire and animation. ngiáuh<sup>n</sup> ngiáuh<sup>n</sup>-tàng, constantly moving; always at work.

khí-tàng--lí, I beg to trouble you to —; thank you, I have given you a great deal of trouble. khí-tàng--làng, to ask people to do favours for us.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to go to stool; to die. tsá-hng kiá<sup>n</sup>-tàng, he died last night. lạng-phang kiá<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to get out of the way when it is dangerous to remain, but using some opportunity or plausible excuse so as not to appear afraid. liu-kiang kiá<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to steal away quietly so as to avoid some duty or a danger which should be shared.

tsáu-tàng, to go to stool; to get priests or sorcerers to perform rites (burning paper, &c.) on occasion of a sudden dangerous illness or great calamity. tsáu-tàng-á, to go to stool.

tôe-tàng, an earthquake. tē-tàng (C.), id. chhui chiah-tàng, said of one who is constantly eating.

hoah-ôe-tàng, what he says usually obeyed. seng-lí tsòe-bòe-tàng, unable to get on in business, as from want of funds, &c. sim lióh-lióh-á ũ-tàng, mind somewhat excited, as by fear, desire, &c. chhun-sim tàng, longing to get married, &c., as woman. gí-sim tàng, suspicions rising in the mind.

tàng sng-poá<sup>n</sup>, to use the abacus in calculation. tàng ké-gák, to use musical instruments for joyful music. tàng lô-ké, id. (superstitious). tàng kan-ko, to begin a feud or lawsuit (v. ko, spear). tàng chhe-hoat, to act violently, e.g. striking, &c. hong-tàng-chiòh, a large rock near Amoy which is moved by the wind.

tàng-kang, to begin work at the very beginning of a piece of work. tàng-thé, to begin building or repairing a house without the proper rites, or at an inauspicious time, so as to cause pain to a woman with child, &c. tàng-tiòh, to become ill in consequence, as pregnant woman.

tàng-chhiú, to begin fighting or quarrelling. pí-kha tàng-chhiú, to move about one's arms and legs in a boisterous or troublesome manner. tàng-kha tàng-chhiú, id. kun-tsú tàng-khé, put-tàng-chhiú, a respectable man uses his mouth, not his hands, as in quarrel, &c.

tàng (R. tống), heavy; important; heinous; serious or severe, as danger or calamity; large, as wages; strong, as words, or as horoscope; hot, as sun; bad-smelling, as breath of sick man; (ballast).

tàng ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup>, very heavy. tàng hoaih<sup>n</sup>-hoaih<sup>n</sup>, id. tàng-tim, id. tàng-ti, id. kàu-tàng, up to full weight. kàu-tàng, very fat and thick, as person; very thick and strong, as pottery or box, &c. tim-tàng, very unwell; very severe, as sickness. hăng-tàng, heavy and cumbersome; severe, as sickness (v. hăng). chhe-tàng, rough and hard, as work requiring much strength; heavy and coarse, as a thing.

khin-tàng, light and heavy; important and unimportant; weight or importance, in general or in the abstract. tàng-khin-thâu, the two loads on a carrying-pole very unequal in weight.

sit-tàng, net weight. mê<sup>n</sup>-tàng, gross weight. bē-tú-tàng, gross weight not yet reduced to net. chhut-tàng, rather more than the weight, e.g. 101 or 102 instead of 100. cheng-tàng, net weight. cheng-tàng, to adulterate with an inferior article so as to add to the weight. cheng-tàng, to make an article of fixed price somewhat larger when the price of the material falls (v. cheng).

sit-tàng, to lose weight; to be less than the weight stated; too light, as dollar. thi<sup>n</sup>-tàng, to add more so as to make heavier. ke-pòng-tàng, to pre-

滓
竇
棟

當

凍

動

重

tend that a thing is heavier, and charge it so. ke-phòng-tāng, id. thìn-tāng, to put something heavy in one of the loads on a carrying-pole to make them balance evenly. tùi-tāng, to divide into two parts of equal weight, as on balances (v. tui). thui-tāng, hanging down heavily, as weighted curtain, or as pocket with heavy things in it.

tìm-tāng, to feel the weight of a thing with the hand. chhin-tāng, to weigh with a steelyard. pêng-tāng, to weigh with balances.

siá tāng-sia<sup>n</sup>, to write a dollar's weight on a bit of paper pasted on it. phín hit--ê tāng-sia<sup>n</sup>, to agree that the dollars are to be counted at such-and-such a weight (v. siá<sup>n</sup>). pé gún-tāng, to make up the deficiency of a light dollar.

soa-tāng, sand-ballast. teh soa-tāng, to put in sand-ballast. chióh-tāng, stone-ballast. té-tāng, ballast; said also of very cheap and heavy goods which would not be worth taking for the freight, just taken almost as ballast. teh té-tāng, to take in ballast.

tāng-chhin, a false steelyard which makes things much lighter than they really are. tāng-tsāi, a heavy load, as of vessel. tāng-tà<sup>n</sup>, a heavy load carried on a pole.

tāng-ŋg, a rich deep yellow.

tāng-ióh, very powerful and rather dangerous medicine. tāng-siong, severely wounded. tāng-hêng, severe punishment. tāng-lāi, usury. pāng-tāng-lāi, to take heavy usury. pāng-tāng-chè, id.

tāng-bin, to sleep soundly (v. bin).

tāng-pún, requiring a great deal of capital, as a business. chiáh tāng-hong, to need a strong wind to sail well, as a junk that has much breadth of beam.

jit tāng, the sun very hot. poeh-jī tāng, horoscope very good, so as not to fear unlucky days, &c. miá<sup>n</sup> put-chí-tāng, weight of his fate great, either good or bad. kóng-oe bōe-tāng, our words not counted of weight; advice not followed. ui-hêng chin-tāng, manner very stern and dignified.

sé-hui tāng, expenses heavy.

thâu-khak tāng, head feeling heavy and sick. bák-thâu tāng-tāng, eyes feeling heavy, with a slight headache, as in a feverish cold.

tāng, a small earthen jar or pot. tāng-á, id. kim-tāng, an earthen jar for the bones of the dead. àng-tāng, larger and smaller earthen jars. àng-àng tāng-tāng, unwilling to do what one is asked or ordered; sulky ill-pleased look, as of child.

kau hē-siū<sup>n</sup>, tò tāng-á-bí, he who keeps company with Buddhist priests must empty his rice-jar. kau lí-kə, tò tāng-á-bí, she who consorts with nuns must —, &c.

tap [R. to answer; to requite; = col. tah], to return a favour or kindness. pò-tap, id. tap-siá, to return a kindness; to repay with gratitude; to give thanks for a favour. tap-lé, to perform a polite ceremony (esp. a call or a gift) in return for the same previously done to us. tap-pài, to return a ceremonial call. tap-tsoá, giving presents in return for the rite called "sàng koan-thâu-tsoá."

in-tap (R.), to answer. in-tap jū-liú, fluent at answering. tùi-tap (r.), to answer. tùi-tap jū-liú (r.), fluent at answering. tùi-tap jī-liú (C.), id. bùn-tap (R.), question and answer; also (X.), a catechism.

put-tap put-chhit, all full of blunders, so as to be unsuitable for use, as a document.

tat [R. a proper name]. tat-kí, the notoriously wicked concubine of the tyrant Chow (tiū) of the Shang dynasty.

tat — chhù-tat, a plan of a house. phah chhù-tat, to draw a plan of a house. phah-tat, id.; also, to arrange for another the plan of an accusation, or the way of managing an affair. ōe thòe-lí phah-tat, bōe thòe-lí chhut-lát, willing to plan for you the manner of the accusation or defence, but unwilling to make exertions for you, esp. unwilling to appear at the trial, or to be any way involved.

tat (cf. tah). tiau-tat, = tiau-tah, neat and tidy, as dress well put on, and not hanging loosely; neatly dressed.

tát [R. to pervade; to pass or see through; to advance or prosper; intelligent]. thong-tát, to understand thoroughly. chhit-thong pat-tát, quite clear of obstacles and safe for travelling, as a road (v. pat). liên-tát (r.), understanding thoroughly; well experienced. tát-tō-lí, reasonable and right, as an argument in a discussion, or as a plan proposed for settling a quarrel.

hoat-tát, to prosper, as in wealth, or as sons getting office, &c. hién-tát (R.), to become a mandarin, or very powerful, or illustrious. kong-bêng hién-tát (R.), speedily rising to high literary honours.

tát-mé<sup>n</sup> tsé-su, name of an idol (v. mē<sup>n</sup>). tát-mē<sup>n</sup>, id.

tát [R. tí, to meet with; to be worth; to value; = col. tǎh]. tát-chí<sup>n</sup>, worth some money; costly; valuable. m-tát, not worth. m-tát chiū<sup>n</sup> kúe-ê-i<sup>n</sup>, not worth more than a few cash. bē-tát chiū<sup>n</sup> kúe-ê-i<sup>n</sup>, id. bōe-m-tát, to pay too much for a thing. bōe-khi-tát, to buy at a good bargain. kiá<sup>n</sup>-m-tát, to get no good (gen. injury) for one's trouble.

m-tát-tiòh, = m-tǎh-tiòh, the best way is to —.

ū-kang tát-i, work worth the pay. ū-kang tát-lí ū-hu, must have my wages for each day's work; doing work worthy of proper wages. i bō-sím-mih<sup>n</sup> thang-tát-lí, he is not worth the money you pay him. i bō-sím-mih<sup>n</sup> thang-tát-tit, id. bō-hit--ê pún-sū thang-tát-tiòh-i, I have not the ability for the work he has to be done.

tiòng-tát, to be worth (so much); to be worthy of, as of the honour, &c. put-chí tiòng-tát, worth a great deal, as man or thing. ōe-tiòng-tát-tit, worthy to get it, as a thing or an honour. ōe-tiòng-tát-tit-i, the kindness he shows is all justly due for kindness formerly shown to him. bōe-tiòng-tát-tit, not worth or worthy of it. tiòng-tát joá-tsōe, how much is it worth?

tát [R. name of a plant]. kok-tát-pín, coarse bamboo wicker-work, used for hurdles, partitions, &c. kok-tát, id.

a-tát-chí, a sort of confection brought from the Straits.

tát [R. ték, a wind-instrument like a flute or pipe]. tát-á, a sort of flageolet or flute. tát-lá, id. pún tát-lá, to play it.

tau — tí chí-tau (esp. Cn. T.), here; in this place. hí-tau (esp. Cn.), there.

kūn-tau, near at hand; a place near. tùi-hng--tau kóng, to give an indirect hint or allude to a subject, as to see how a man's mind lies towards a proposal. ní<sup>n</sup>-tau, the end of the year (v. ní<sup>n</sup>).

goán-tau, my home or dwelling; our home. goá-tau, id. lin-tau, your home or dwelling. i-tau, his home or dwelling. in-tau, id.; their home.

健
達

值

顛

答

蓬

笛
兒

姐

goá-ū jîn-chêng tī i-tau, I have shown him such kindness that he is under obligation to show kindness to me.

khi in-tsé-tau (lit. gone to his ancestors), said jocularly of death; said also of things spoiled or broken.

pē-bú kha-tau, our parents' house; parental home (v. kha).

tau [R. to grasp; to correct], to haul close; to detain forcibly, as men or things, e.g. to get the payment of what is due, or to get ransom-money, whether rightly or wrongly. tau-oá, to haul close. tau-liú, to detain forcibly, as men or things.

tau-su, self-confident and very independent in spirit (rather too proud), e.g. refusing to accept help in managing a matter; refusing advice or instruction; quite indifferent whether or not his goods be bought or his services accepted.

tau — bô-tau-sau, not managing well (v. sau).

tau (=tāu). niá<sup>n</sup>-tau, = niá<sup>n</sup>-tāu, the collar of a dress.

tau — ô-á-tau, a preparation of oysters and potato-starch made into a paste. ô-á-tau-mī<sup>n</sup>, id. tau-mī<sup>n</sup>, id.

tau — nā<sup>n</sup>-tāu, the Pandanus or screw-pine.

tau [R. tē, to throw; to leap in; to have recourse to; to give one's self up to; to agree; = col. tiō], to throw one's self into, as into water or fire; to join, as the army or a secret society; to make submission on promise of impunity and employment; to make a complaint to.

tau-ki, to agree in opinion (v. ki). i-khi siong-tau, id.

tau-hioh, to stay at a place, as for a night. tau-heh<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

tau-hé, to rush into the flame, as a moth; to throw one's self into a fire. tau-tsúi, to throw one's self into the water. tau-tsúi--sí, to drown one's self. tau-thai, to enter into the womb, as a spirit becoming incarnate (v. thai).

tau-hē, to vow and pray to. tau-kò thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, to lay one's wrongs before Heaven and earth. tau--lāng, to make appeal or complaint to a man against a third party, esp. one over whom he has some authority or control. tau in-sī-toā, complain to his superior. tau in-pē-bú, complain to his parents. tau pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to make formal complaint to the tepo (tē-pó) of the ward. tau sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to make complaint to a teacher. tau kā-sien-si<sup>n</sup>-kóng, id.

chē-tau, to accept or bear responsibility; to become responsible, as for payment, or for the good conduct of another. chhē-tau (C.), id. m̄-chē-tau, will not be responsible, e.g. for goods after they are bought, or for another's conduct, or for his making payment, &c.

tau-sú, a written complaint given in to the tē-pó (v. sú).

tau-bún, to give in a mandarin's despatch to another mandarin, as courier. tau bún-su, id.

tau-hāng, to make submission on promise of impunity, or on good conditions, as of employment, honour, or reward. tau-sêng, id. tau-tò, to return to one's duty or allegiance, or to honest employment, on condition of impunity, as rebel, pirate, deserter, &c. ka-kī tau-tò, to make this arrangement in person. tau-kun, to enter the army; to enlist (one's self). tau hái-iú<sup>n</sup>, to become a pirate. tau sió-to, to join the Triad Society.

tau — iên-tau, a dandy; a coxcomb; a very nice-looking young fellow (s. dice). si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe iên-tau, to be very well formed, healthy, and nice-looking, as a lad about twenty. kek iên-tau, to dress finely, grow a large queue, &c., as a nice-looking young fellow wishing to draw the attention of other people's women. siên-iên-tau, said of a married woman enticing or having illicit intercourse with a young fellow.

tau [R. tē, dice, = col. káu], dice. tau-á, id. poah tau-á, to gamble with dice. iô tau-á, to shake the dice. tau-á-oá<sup>n</sup>, the bowl for rattling the dice. tau-á sam-sûn, the three dice having each the same number of dots.

hoe-hē-tau, sort of tectotum used in gambling. hoa-hōe-tau (C.), id.

iên-tau, dice loaded with lead for cheating (s. dandy). sái iên-tau, to use loaded dice.

tau — hiên-tau, to boast falsely or in an exaggerated way; to affect to be powerful, influential, or liberal, e.g. sometimes giving liberally once or twice so as to make a reputation, but not really liberal. hiên-tau ê-ōe, big boastful talk. i-ê-ōe khah-hiên-tau, he talks in a very boastful, false, or exaggerated manner.

khàng-tau, too sharp in business (v. khàng).

tau [R. tē, a hole; in an aqueduct; a sluice; = col. táng]. tau-âm, a sluice or place where the water flows out from inclosed plots at low water.

tau-mûg (Cn.), flood-gates; gate of a sluice (C. táng-mûi<sup>n</sup>). tau-mûg-thâu (Cn.), id.

tau [R. té, to guard; a wall for guarding a place]. soà<sup>n</sup>-tau, to disband or disperse, as soldiers; to separate, as friends or partners (v. soà<sup>n</sup>).

tau [R. tē, the belly, = col. té]. tsai-hoe oā<sup>n</sup>-tau, superstitious rites for curing a woman's barrenness, or for enabling her to have male children when she had only daughters before; the woman swallows (without chewing) a small dough image of a naked male child in the presence of her husband, in the temple of Tsu-si<sup>n</sup> niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, along with many more rites.

tau [R. té, the ornamented top of a pillar]. koe-chih-tau, sort of projecting brackets for supporting the beams of a roof. tau-á, id. (s. measure). tiam-tau (T.), id.

tau — chhi<sup>n</sup>-tau-chiòh, the ordinary green granite of Amoy.

tau [R. tó, to overturn; to fall; to invert], to move some of the cards back and forwards once or twice before dividing or dealing them, so as to prevent cheating; to shuffle, as cards. tau-lái tau-khi, id.

tau [previous word? following word?] chhia phalín-tau, to make a somerset. phah-kun-tau, id.

tau (R. té), a dry measure somewhat like a peck; = 10 "chin"; one-tenth of a "chiòh." tau-á, the wooden measure used for measuring it. chiú-tau-á, a small measure for taking out spirituous liquor. bí-tau, a rice-measure containing one "tau." chit-tau-bí, one "tau" of cleaned rice. chin-tau, small and large dry-measures. koa<sup>n</sup>-tau, the measure used in the rice-shops. chhó-jī-tau, a measure about 1.2 of the above, used for uncleaned rice (chhò-bí) and for beans. ú-hò-tau, a still larger measure, about 1.3 or 1.4 of the common rice-measure, used in some sorts of business. toā-tau, id.

tau-thâu ũ, very good measure. tau-thâu chioh, id.

tau-kài, a small stick used for levelling the grain in the measure. tau-sai, a man whose business is to

攬

投

骰

口

竇

堵 壯

料

倒

斗

measure cargoes of pease or beans loose in the holds of junks.

tàu-chhìn (peck and steelyard), weights and measures. táu-chhìn kong-pi<sup>n</sup>, weights and measures just. táu-chhìn khek-pók, do. unjust.

png-táu, a sort of bucket for holding boiled rice at meals. nâ<sup>n</sup>-táu, a basket with no handle (v. nâ<sup>n</sup>). kim-táu, a jar for holding the bones of the dead (v. kim). bák-táu, box holding ink and ink-line for carpenter's work.

pùn-táu, a scoop for dust and sweepings. pùn-táu-í, a bamboo arm-chair shaped like a dust-scoop. pùn-táu bák-kiáh-cheh, sort of heel-taps for women's shoes.

thai-táu, a sieve (v. thai). khong-táu, sort of sieve used in a mill. lô-táu, sort of box-sieve in a mill, which shakes from side to side, finer than "thai-táu." lô-táu-se, fine gauze, such as is used for sieves.

hé-táu, a three-sided screen for a lamp, esp. used at plays. táu-teng, a rice-measure with a lamp in it, used in some idolatrous rites (v. teng). kí-koa<sup>n</sup>-táu, a square box-shaped ornament near the top of a flag-staff. bâng-táu, id. kiô-táu, the space under the seat of a sedan, used for carrying things. táh-táu, a long footstool with three drawers, below the front of a bed (v. táh). tsoán-táu, a revolving-box for petitions. tsoán-táu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a petition entered for an extra fee on a day that is not one of the regular days at the yamun for receiving petitions.

ut-táu, a smoothing-iron. pó-táu, a gambling instrument for the lién-pó (v. pó). hoe-táu-pú, a sort of gourd. chi<sup>n</sup>-bô ti-toá-táu, wearing an enormous felt cap.

hê-táu, a bucket for raising water for irrigation, swung on two ropes between two men; a man having a projecting chin.

ê-táu, the chin. chhùi-ê-táu, id. ê-táu-chhiu, the beard. ê-táu chiam, the chin sharp.

chhùi-táu, the mouth, said in relation to speaking or to appetite (v. chhùi).

kha-chhng-táu, the hips; the buttocks.

phè âu-táu, to cut out a man, e.g. in getting an employment or buying what he expected to secure for himself, esp. by speaking against him behind his back.

pù-táu, wealthy. hó-ka-tsù-táu, id. (v. tsù).

pak-táu, Ursa Major; the Great Bear; the Plough. pak-táu-chhi<sup>n</sup>, id. pak-táu seng-kun, the god of that constellation, = Hiên-thien Siông-tè. pak-táu tsù-sí, lâm-táu tsù-sí<sup>n</sup>, he decrees death, but the god of the southern constellation decrees life. lâm-táu, a southern constellation of six stars. lâm-táu seng-kun, its presiding divinity. hê lâm-táu, to worship him (as when sick) by holding up incense towards heaven. khoe-seng that-táu, the god of the North Star represented as kicking the Plough. pái táu-bú, to worship Ursa Major, done with seven lamps by a special sect, e.g. the clan in Amoy of the surname "Sun."

王

tàu (R. tòi), together; to put together; to act together or assist; to contend; to tell lies; a measure of a bamboo sail from one joining to another, i.e. about two feet.

tàu-bîn-chhng, to put together the parts of a bed. tàu-lôh-sún, to fit tenon and mortice together. tàu-ôe, to make shoes by putting together the several parts. tàu-khi-hó, put it well together, as the parts of an article of furniture. tàu-bô-sún, not fitting well together, as the parts of an instrument or machine, &c.

tàu-bôe-tiáu, the parts not keeping well together. bô-tàu-thih, not fitted with iron, e.g. at the point.

tàu-oá<sup>n</sup>-giáh, to use inferior bowls to make up a set; said also of other things, and of men.

gâu-tàu, fond of telling lies or making random guesses, and giving them out as true. lâm-sám tàu, id.; also, to put together ill, as the parts of a machine or piece of furniture. tàu kàu ù-thâu ù-bé, to tell a false story very plausibly, with all the parts well put together. tàu kàu ka-nng, id.

tàu-kha-chhiú, to assist one another. tàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-pang, id. tàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-kang, id. tàu-chhông, to assist one another in making or mending something. tàu-hê, to vow and pray together. lái-tàu-hí, come to congratulate on a joyful occasion. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu-chhàu, fortunately met by accident. tàu tsòe-chit-tui, to form one company (v. tui). tàu-oang, to join in one company or clique. tàu-tin, to unite in one procession. tàu-lâu-hì, actors joining in one company (v. hì). tàu sī kha-ké, he is a good comrade, as for business or for drinking or other pleasures. tàu-ké, to be partners in business. tàu-hé-ki, id. tàu-kau, to take a share in trade in a large firm. tàu-keng, to assist a man with a little money to keep him from ruin. tàu-thâu tàu-bé, to give some little help. tàu-tsô-hoà, to make a venture (v. hòà). tàu lí-ê tsô-hoà, I will try to assist you, but with great doubts of success.

tàu-tah, active and harmonious; just as we would have wished (v. tah).

sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu, to make trial which is superior; to make a contest in rivalry; to assist each other. sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu-súi, to try which can have the most beautiful dress. tsng sa<sup>n</sup>-tàu, id. lái-tàu, come and try which of us is superior. tàu-kháu, wrangling; mutual scolding. tàu-béng, contending, as in threatening or in gymnastics (v. béng). tàu-ok, contending in angry overbearing disputing. tàu-khoài, trying which can be the quicker. tàu-kín, id. tàu-khùi-lát, to try which is the stronger. tàu-kú, to try which can do, or wait, or bear the longer. chê tàu-kú, to try which can sit the longer. tím tàu-kú, two men waiting long, each wishing the other to do what one or other must do, e.g. till one leaves the field clear, or till one takes the first step in a quarrel which is unavoidable, but which each wishes the other to begin. khóa-pù tàu-gâu (r.), to boast emulously of wealth and wisdom. tàu-hoat, to contend in magic. tàu-tsáu, to try a race. tàu-lêng-tsún, to race with the dragon-boats. tàu-tiám, a sort of gambling (v. tiám).

siá put-tàu-chhng, the evil cannot compete with the good.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu, to put together the parts of a thing that was made in separate parts, e.g. of a machine or piece of furniture; also (T. Cn.), to put together in a well-proportioned manner, as the several articles of a suit of clothes (s. cover). tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu kha-chhiú, to get ready assistants for doing some piece of work; to make one's dress ready for work or fighting. tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu khi-khū, to put together the several parts of a machine.

tàu (Cn.), = A. tà, to cover or spread over (but not in all the phrases; some remain "tá").

tàu-bê (Cn.), thick mist.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu (A.), to lay a trap for a man, e.g. to try indirectly what his purpose is; to make trial of a man's honesty, as by leaving money in his way; to pretend not to wish a thing so as to get it cheaper (s. together) (cf. tiu<sup>n</sup>-tauh). gâu tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu--lâng (A.), good at such modes of indirectly trying another's intention.

單

到
跳 莛

tàu — jit tàu, the middle of the day, 11—1. tióng-tàu, noon. téng-tàu, forenoon. ē-tàu, afternoon. jit tàu-tàu, fully past noon. kè-tàu, some time past mid-day. jit-tàu-png, dinner, when taken about mid-day. chiáh jit-tàu, to take the mid-day meal. chiáh-tàu, id. sió-tàu-á, about 11 A.M. or 11:30. sió-tàu, id. koh chit-chhùn-á jit chiū-tàu, in a few moments it will be mid-day.

tàu [R. tò, to arrive at; to reach; completed; = col. kàu]. tàu-tí, = tò-tí, in fine; but at last.

tàu [R. thiàu, to leap]. tàu-kâu, = thiàu-kâu, three dice used in gambling (v. kàu).

tàu — khún-tàu-khún-tàu (T.), fat, short, and corpulent.

tàu (R. tō), pease or beans; pulse. sóe-sek béh-tàu, millet, wheat, or barley, and pease or beans. chèng-tàu, to sow pease or beans by dropping them into their place. phah-tàu, to measure pease or beans loose in the hold of a junk, as the "tàu-sai" does.

tàu-pêng, split pease. tàu-khø, bean-cake from North China, used as manure. tàu-piá, id. tàu-á, stuffing of cakes or pies, &c., made of pulse. tàu-iá, soy (v. iú). tàu-chiū<sup>2</sup>, a thick salt sauce made from pulse. tàu-sí, salted beans (v. sí). tàu-sí<sup>2</sup>, id. tàu-chhiam, sort of dough in long narrow strips. tàu-tsó, a confection made of sugar, flour, and pulse.

tàu-høe, soft bean-curd not yet pressed or shaped. tàu-chiū<sup>2</sup>, id. tàu-hū, bean-curd shaped, but not yet pressed. tàu-hū-phê, do. made into thin sheets for wrapping round eatables. teh tàu-hū, to shape the "tàu-høe" into pieces of "tàu-hū." tàu-koa<sup>2</sup>, bean-curd that has been pressed in a cloth. tàu-jú, do. cut into smaller squares and salted. tàu-kiám (Cn.), id. tàu-che, refuse from manufacture of bean-curd. tàu-thâu, id.

tàu-chhài, sprouts of pease, used for food. tàu-sí<sup>2</sup>, id. tàu-chhi<sup>2</sup>, id., but shorter. tàu-tin, stalks of leguminous plants. tàu-ngoeh, whole pods of pease or beans, including the seeds; they are cooked and eaten whole. tàu-khak, husks of pease or beans. lék-tàu-khak, the thin pellicle (not husks) of the pea called "lék-tàu" (+). tàu-mèh<sup>2</sup>, the thin pellicle of a pea or bean.

pa-tàu, the croton-oil bean. pién-tàu, a legume used as a medicine for diarrhoea (Lablab?). pi<sup>2</sup>-tàu, id. pê-kiu<sup>2</sup>-tàu, sort of pea infused to make a half medicinal drink. koan-im-tàu (Cn.), id. chhiah-sió-tàu, a bean used as a cooling medicine.

ho-lín-tàu, pease. bah-tàu, sort of pease, gen. sold in the pods. lék-tàu, small green pease (like the vetch) from North China (+). lék-tàu-hún, pease-meal. lék-tàu-ko, white short cakes having stuffing made of this pea.

chiam-tàu, a small round sort of bean. bí-tàu, a small dark bean, largely used for the stuffing of cakes. to-tàu, a bean with large knife-shaped fleshy pods. a-kong-tàu, a bean with long, thin, dark, reddish pods. kong-á<sup>2</sup>-tàu, id. liên-hoa-tàu, a large and very coarse bean, much used for manure. ø-tàu, black beans. chhi<sup>2</sup>-jín ø-tàu, small black bean with green kernel. chhài-tàu, sort of bean with a very long pod. bé-khi<sup>2</sup>-tàu, a sort of flat bean. poáh bé-khi<sup>2</sup>-tàu, to play a game of chance with them, for mere amusement, not for money.

thê-tàu, = lók-kha-seng, the Arachis, ground-nut, or pea-nut, from which oil is made. thó-tàu (Cn.), id.

tàu-hé, a small winged beetle, found among dried pease or beans. tàu-á-chiáu, a bird that cries "ti-ti" about the time when pease and beans grow, = chek-léng. tàu-á-hí, a small fish about half an inch long. tàu-khè (C.), = A. tē-khè, nutmeg.

tàu [R. tō, the neck, = col. tau] the fixed collar of a coat or dress. niá<sup>2</sup>-tàu, id. sa<sup>2</sup>-á-tau (r.), id.

tsūn-thâu ngiū<sup>2</sup>-tàu, to shake about one's head and neck in an improper manner, as a boy showing that he does not care for what is said, or as an impudent ill-behaved girl. náu<sup>2</sup>-thâu tsūn-tàu (r.), id.

tàu-làng, the lower part of a pig's neck. tàu-làng-bah, the meat of it, not considered good eating.

tàu — kng-tàu, the two long strong timbers which run the whole length of a boat or junk, forming the sides of the hatches.

tàu (R. tō), (Cn. tiō), a small clause; a subdivision of a clause. kù-tàu, clauses and sub-clauses. hó-kù-tàu, good style of composition. m-chiá<sup>2</sup> kù-tàu, not a good style.

tàu [R. tō, a thief or robber]. láu-khiang-tàu (lit. a skilful and powerful thief), said in scolding a man who is very unfair and exacting in money matters; said in imitation of mandarin. chin-khiang-tàu, id.

tauh — tih-tauh, committing lasciviousness. put-chí tih-tauh, very bad and immoral, as man. kap--láng tih-tauh, to have illicit intercourse. kap--i ũ tih-tauh, id.

tauh (cf. tà, tâu), to catch in a trap, or between two sticks; to fasten a latch or small bolt. tauh--tiòh, caught, as in a trap.

tauh-á, a small bolt, as for door or window. mng-tauh, the latch of a door. mng-tauh-á, id. hé-chih-tauh, self-acting bolt of door or lock, to open which a key is needed. niáu-chhú-tauh, a rat-trap. ki-tauh-á, a trap, as for birds. chiáu-tauh, a trap for birds. chiáu-á-tauh, id.

chhèng-tauh, iron trigger holding the match of a match-lock. tauh hé-léng, to light a match-lock.

tiu<sup>2</sup>-tauh (cf. tâu), to lay a trap for a man, to see if he will steal or lie, or that he may show himself in his true colours.

tauh [R. tok, firm, strong, sincere]. téng-tauh, strong; solid; strongly made, as piece of furniture; having a good deal of wealth. tüi<sup>2</sup>-tauh (Cn.), id. chhui-khi téng-tauh, teeth very strong.

sin tauh-tauh, believing very implicitly. chhin tauh-tauh, very intimate and friendly.

tauh (R. táp), (C. tiáuh). tauh-táuh, constantly; incessantly. tauh-táuh-lái, constantly coming. tauh-táuh-kóng, constantly speaking, &c.

tauh — tih-tih tauh-táuh, sound, as of rain pattering, or clock ticking, or shoes clattering. tih-táuh tih-táuh, id.

táuh--chit-ē, tauh--chit-ē, sound of clock ticking.

te [R. low]. ko-te (R.), high and low. kièn-ko-te, determined to have out the quarrel, and see who is uppermost. sè-chèng khàn-léng-loán, jin-biên tiók-ko-te, said of following a man according to his wealth or rank, not according to merit or right.

te — chien-te, a cake fried with a little fat. chi<sup>2</sup>-te, a cake fried swimming in melted fat. béh-te, a fried cake of meal, sugar, &c. béh-te-ké, id. ô-te-chi<sup>2</sup>, oysters, rice, and pulse fried in fat.

te [R. tui? a heap?]. pùn-te (C.), an ash-pit.

脰

讀

盜

篤

沓

低

堆

茶

tê (R. chhá), (C. tê), tea: the Camellia; warm infusions of various plants.

tê-chhiū, the Camellia. tê-tsâng, a tea plant. tê-á (C.), the Camellia, from which oil is made. tê-ku-á (C.), a beetle found on the Camellia. soa"-tê, a small wild flowering shrub (not tea).

jì-tê, catch or catechu (v. jì).

iū-tê, fine tea, as in the leaf. chhō-tê, coarse tea. lám-tê, inferior tea. khé-tê, wild uncultivated tea. soa"-lō-tê, the worst of tea, not pure.

lék-tê, green tea. chhun-tê, Hyson tea, gathered in spring. bú-i-tê, Bohea tea. kang-hu-tê, Congou (v. kang). sió-chióng-tê, Souchong (v. chióng). tai-pōe-tê, a good sort (v. pōe). hoa-hiong-tê, tea flavoured with flowers to conceal its inferior flavour.

iōh-tê, a medicinal infusion. tê-thng, any warm infusion. tê-bí-tê, real tea; infusion of tea-leaves. âng-bí-tê, infusion of reddish rice. koe-nng-tê, infusion or decoction of eggs and sugar. thng-sng-tê, warm solution of sugar-candy. σ-thng-tê, warm solution of coarsest raw sugar. gōng-gōng-koa"-tê, infusion of dried dragon's-eye fruit. sū-sin-tê, infusion of the four drugs called sū-sin. kiu"-bú-tê, infusion of ginger-root. pê-kiu"-tê, infusion of the herb pê-kiu".

tê-hiōh, tea-leaves, either fresh or prepared. tê-sim, prepared tea-leaves. tê-bí, id. tê-ki, tea-leaves mixed with the ends of twigs. tê-boáh, broken tea-leaves, cheaper than the entire. tê-éh, very small particles or dust of tea.

tê-phoh, used tea-leaves (v. phoh). tê-lō, used tea-leaves. tê-ló (C.), id. tê-tóe, the tea left in the cup after drinking. tê-chhip, incrustation on old tea-pots.

tê-iū, oil made from Camellia seeds. tê-á-iū, id. tê-khō, refuse from making Camellia oil.

tê-sek, tea colour. tê-chi", dark coloured rock-crystal, used for spectacles.

tê-su, a tea-taster. tê-kheh, a merchant who travels to buy tea at the plantations; a tea-man. tê-tsú, the owner of a tea plantation.

tê-chièn, a store for preparing and storing tea. tê-tsàn (C.), id. tê-hâng, a wholesale tea warehouse; also name of a port on the North river, between Phé-lâm and Chang-ping Hien. tê-tiàm, a retail shop for tea (leaves). tê-koán, a shop for selling tea to drink on the premises. bōe-sio-tê-ê, man who sells hot tea on the street from a large teapot.

tê-tang, tea-harvest. tê-siá, a tea-plantation on a hill-side. tê-soa", a tea-producing region.

tê-phè, cakes or confections eaten with tea. tê-liâu, id. tê-liâu-tiàm, a confectioner's shop. moá"-tê (C.), a diamond-shaped confection made with hemp-seed (v. moá").

tê-lé, a small present given on receiving a cup of tea, as to a Bud. priest at a temple, or when calling after a marriage. teh tê-poá", to give such a small present (+). bóe-tê-chi", a small reward given for some small service (v. bóe).

tê-poá", a salver for a tea-pot (+). tê-sóe, an earthen plate for tea-pot and cups, or a small cloth put on it. tê-sièn (C.), small plate for tea-pot. tê-tih, small porcelain plate for tea-pot. tê-tsūn, a metal saucer. tê-au, a tea-cup. tê-ō, a covered bowl for infusing tea. tê-tháng, a wooden vessel for keeping tea warm. tê-sim-koán, a jar for tea-leaves, used as a tea-caddy. tê-koán, a tea-pot, esp. with a roundish body (v. koán). tê-pán, a tea-pot, esp. tall and thin.

tê-e, a small earthen tea-kettle (v. e). tê-ké, id., sometimes of other materials (v. ké). tê-lō, a small hand-stove for infusing tea. tê-tsúí, good water, suitable for infusing tea. tê-tá", tea-pot, &c., carried on a journey, as by a mandarin.

tsoa"-tê, to boil water in order to infuse tea. chhiong-tê, to infuse tea. phàu-tê, id. hip-tê, to infuse tea in a covered cup. phâng-tê, to bring tea for guests. chhiá"-tê, to offer tea to a person. chiáh-tê, to drink tea. phè-tê, to eat along with tea. thín-tê, to pour out tea. pái-tê, to set out a feast with tea for the spirits of the ancestors in the ancestral hall, as from the 12th to the 15th of the first month. siá-iōh sì-tê, to give away medicine and tea.

chhái-tê, to gather tea-leaves. siu-tê, to buy up tea at the plantations. pán-tê, id. pē-tê, to dry tea-leaves; to fire tea.

tê [R. tōe, the heel; a hoof], (T. tō). lō-tê, the knob on which a sculling-oar works. tng-poeh chhái, thái chit-ki lō-tê (to cut down a beam of 18 feet to make a pin for a scull), said of a workman wasting his materials very much. tê (C.), = A. tōe, a hoof.

tê — tê-teh (T.), = A. kē-teh, involved in delay by something that must be done before what we wish to do.

tê (C.), = A. tōe, to collect subscriptions, a theme or text, &c.

tê (P.) am-pó-tê, = A. am-pō-chê, the cicada.

tê (R. toán), (Cn. tō), short. tê-chió, not enough; deficient. tê-kheh, id. (v. kheh).

tê-kang, a person engaged for a short term of work. té-miá", short life; short-lived. kiá" té-lō, to commit suicide. siú" té-lō, to purpose suicide. siú" té-hēng, to do work in a negligent or slipshod way—no matter how, if it just be done; or to neglect it entirely. kiá"-tái-chì té-té, to do things to get present advantage, without regard to the future or to what is right.

té-sa", a short coat or jacket. té-hiū, a short wadded or warmly-lined coat or jacket.

tng-té, long and short; length in general or in the abstract. lū-tng lū-té, thinking very anxiously. khò-tng lū-té, id. pí-tng lūn-té, to find fault with many things (v. lūn). m-chhap-lí-tng, m-chhap-lí-té, I will not meddle with your matters at all; I will have no dealings with you. liáh-tng póté, to make a surplus compensate for a deficiency. tsóeh-tng póté, id. sa" tng, chhiú-ńg té, said of one not able to gratify his desires (lit. dress long but sleeves short).

tê (C.), = A. tóe, bottom. tī phe-té, in the letter, as money inclosed.

tê (C.), = A. tóe, to contain.

tê (C.), = A. tóe, to oppose; also (in some phrases), = A. tí, e.g. té-thóng, = A. tí-thóng, and té-sek, = A. tí-sek, to be used in place of, as a makeshift.

tê [R. a god; an emperor]. tê-ōng, emperors and kings. chheng-ōng chheng-tè, said of being one's own master (v. chheng). hōng-tè, the emperor (v. hōng). sien-tè, a deceased emperor. tè-tō, the metropolis. tè-tièn-khí, built in the style of a palace (v. tièn).

tè-kun, Kwanti; also Tai-tō-kong (v. kun). koan-tè, Kwanti (v. koan). tè-iá (T.), id. gák-tè, the chief god of the Tang-gák temple. ngé-hièn-tè, five idols which are counted improper objects of worship (said to have some connection with rebellion). ngé-tè, id.

蹄
提

短

帝

ng-tè, the ancient canonized emperor Hien-oân. sîn-lông tãi-tè, Shin-nung (v. lóng). ngé-kok tãi-tè, the god of agriculture (v. kok). sam-koan tãi-tè, = Sam-kài-kong (v. koan). pó-seng tãi-tè, = tãi-tō-kong, god of medicine.

siōng-tè, God; the supreme god; a very great god. giók-hông siōng-tè, Yuh-hwang Shang-ti, of the surname Tiu<sup>n</sup> (Chang), born under the Hàn dynasty. giók-tè, id. hiên-thien siōng-tè, the god of the north pole, of surname Sih, represented treading on a serpent and a tortoise. siōng-tè-iâ, id. siōng-tè-kong, id. tsúi-túg siōng-tè, a title of Hiên-thien siōng-tè, as worshipped at a temple on Amoy harbour. hiáp-thien siōng-tè, a title of Kwanti.

tè (C. tõe), to follow; to go after; to imitate, as a person's example; sometimes said of illicit connection.

kun-tè, to follow, as a servant (C. kin-tõe). tí<sup>n</sup>-tè, to be in constant attendance and service, as sick-nurse or body-servant. tè--liáu ôe-iâ, growing weary of constant attendance.

sa<sup>n</sup>-tè, mutually following; to follow each other; agreeing with one another's wishes or desires (s. piece). nng-kù sa<sup>n</sup>-tè, two phrases closely connected like one phrase. chi<sup>n</sup> bô--beh tè--i, money will not come to him.

tè-lâng-ê-khoán, to follow a man's example. tè--lâng sí-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to follow new fashions. tè-kiá<sup>n</sup> kiò, said of a woman addressing a relative by using the form of expression which her own son should properly use, as is often done. tè-chhiú, immediately thereafter. tè-bé (C. tõe-bõe), id. khah-tè-bé, afterwards; at a subsequent time; at a later time. khah-tè-bé kúi-jit, some days later. tè-bé-goá-lâi, coming after me. tè-chhùi-bé, to repeat a man's words, as after a teacher; or as in pretence of obeying; or for a direct insult.

tè-tsúi jip, to go in with the tide as it rises. tè-jit-lòh, may I die as the sun goes down if I am swearing falsely! tè-hé-hoa, may life go out as a lamp! (said as an oath to prove one's truthfulness).

tè-hi, to follow a company of actors, seeing them wherever they act, and having too much intercourse with them (v. hi). tè tsa-bé, to have illicit connection with a woman.

tè [R. khoài, a piece; a place; perhaps some of the phrases belong to "tè," the earth, a place], a place; a locality (in this sense sometimes enclitic); a bit; a piece; a small piece; a lump; classifier of lumps of stone, bits of ink, small bits of various materials, feasts, tables, chairs, bowls, animal souls (phék), colloquial songs (koa, khek), prefaces and small inscriptions (sū); also (Cn.), of houses.

tè-sia<sup>n</sup>, counting price by number of single articles, e.g. of cakes. poà<sup>n</sup>-tè, one half of any article of which "tè" is the classifier; a very small bit. chit-tè-tsū, one small cloth spread below a tea-pot.

ka-nng-tè, a whole piece; entire; one lump or mass. kiet ka-nng-tè, to coagulate or crystallize, &c., into one mass. kiet tsòe-chit-tè, id.

phái<sup>n</sup>-kut-tè, giving signs that he (a boy) will grow up an idle useless fellow.

hit-tè, that place. kàu-hit-tè, come to that state of matters. kóng kàu-hit-tè, kiá<sup>n</sup> kàu-hit-tè, to act according to what we have said. chí-tè, this place. pát-tè-kh, gone elsewhere. hieh-i-tè, to stay at his house.

bô-tè thang-tsáu, having no place to escape to; having no way of escape. bô-tè thang-hē, no room to lay or stow any more; quite full, as a vessel, &c.; no place to lay it.

àm--tè, a dark place; Hades. kng--tè, a place where there is plenty of light. chiū<sup>n</sup>--tè, an itchy place (v. chiū<sup>n</sup>).

kàu-tè--lah, now we have arrived! tin-tè, to block up the place; to be in the way; to take up room uselessly; to cumber the ground.

tè [R. tē, the earth; ground; a place; = col. tõe], sàu-tè, to sweep the floor [perhaps some phrases of the previous word belong here].

tè [R. —; C. chē; Cn. chek; narrow; to press; a quiver], (C. tē), to strain or filter with a coarse sieve, or through a "tsoá<sup>n</sup>-li." tè-ta, to strain or filter dry. tè-khi-ta, strain it quite dry. tè-tsúi, to strain off the water, as from rice. tè-ám, to strain rice-water from boiled rice.

tè (better "teh"), a prefix and enclitic affix to verbs (v. teh).

tè (R. id.) tè-cheng, sort of bells used by priests.

tè [R. tài, to wear on the head, = col. tì], (Cn. tō), a surname.

tè — σ-tè-tè, very black.

tè [R. a dyke; an embankment], (T. tō), a piece of land reclaimed from the sea. hái-tè, id. tè-hoá<sup>n</sup>, a sea-dyke.

tè [R. name of a tree]. tông-tè-hoe, a shrub with a red flower.

tè (C.), = A. tõe, flax.

tè [R. to transmit; to hand from one to another], (Cn. tõe). phah-tè-kè, to send a criminal to be dealt with by the mandarin of his native place. thoân-tè (C.), = A. thoân-tõe (g.v.)

tè [R. order; rank; = col. tãi, tõe], prefix for ordinal numbers.

chhù-tè, successive order. téng-tè, rank; station; quality of articles. put-tè, to fail in taking a literary degree. sam-kip-tè, the highest three of the new Han-lin graduates in each triennial examination, viz. chióng-goân, póng-gán, and tám-hoe.

tè-it, = tõe-it, the first (in this paragraph, A. tē, tõe; C. only tē; Cn. tõe). kài-tè-it, the very first or best (v. kài). tè-it-hó, the best. tè-it-phái<sup>n</sup>, the worst. tè-ji, the second. tè-kúi, which in order?

tè [R. tí, bottom, = col. tõe]. bák-tè-bô, to despise; to treat scornfully. bák-tè khoá<sup>n</sup>-bô, id. bák-tè chin-bô, to despise or scorn very much. bák-tè put-chí-bô, id. bák-tè-ū, to hold (a man) in estimation. bák-tè ū--i, to think well of him. bák-tè put-chí-ū, to think very highly of.

tè (R. tãi), a generation; an age. áu-tè, future generations. chit-tè kè-chit-tè, from one generation to another. tan-teng kè-tè, only one son in each generation. thân-chí<sup>n</sup> bô-kè-tè, his wealth shall not descend to his sons, as of wicked man.

tiâu-tè, a dynasty (v. tiâu).

tè [R. a younger brother, = col. tì]. pau-tè, a younger brother by same father. tè-hū, = sió-chim, younger brother's wife. heng-tè (R.), elder and younger brothers. kè-heng-tè, a half-brother by either parent when the other parent is dead and the survivor re-married. heng-tè jū siú-chiok, chhe-tsú sū i-hók, brothers are like hands and feet, wife and children like clothes.

tsú-tè, an ill-behaved son; also (R.), junior relatives

帶定

塊

地
竿

虎
戴
壞
棗
遞 第

底

代

第

(v. tsú). tê-tsú, a worshipper or devotee of an idol (v. tsú). tê-tê, a young Bud. priest; sometimes said of Taoist. sai-tê, a younger apprentice or Bud. priest (said by the older ones). khôe-tê, a sodomite.

tê (R. tǎi), a bag; a pocket; a pouch; to carry in a pocket; to stuff materials into a long bag, as in making a sausage or the preparation called "báng-hiu<sup>n</sup>."

tê-á, a small bag. lak-tê, a small bag, esp. of cotton; a pocket in a dress. lak-tê-á, id. té-tê, = té-koá<sup>n</sup>, a pouch worn on the belly (v. té). pê-tê, a sack; a large coarse bag used for carrying goods. chit-khia pê-tê, one sack. chit-tà<sup>n</sup> pê-tê, a pair of sacks. pê-tê-hi, sort of puppet-shows. chhi niáu-chhú, ká pê-tê, to have an enemy in our own house. pê-tê-chiáu, = hái-lâm-gông, a sea-bird with a large bag under its bill.

soa-tê, a sand-bag, as for extempore fortifications. chi<sup>n</sup>-tê, a sort of purse. chi<sup>n</sup>-tê, a quiver. keng-tê, a bag for holding a bow. si<sup>n</sup>-tê, a fan-case worn at the side. chím-thâu-tê, a cover for a pillow. pit-tê, a bag for holding Chinese pens, as for the examinations. hiu<sup>n</sup>-tê, bags of incense worn round the neck for the sweet smell. phoe-tê (r.), an envelope, = phoe-lông. chhu-tê, a bag tied on the end of a pole for catching larvæ and such insects. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun-tê, the scrotum (said vulgarly or in coarse joke).

chit-tê-bí, = chit-pau-bí, one bag of rice, about 150 "kun" or Chinese pounds.

tê-chi<sup>n</sup>, to carry cash in one's pocket. tê-gún lâi, to bring silver in the pocket. seng-khu tê-gún, having silver in one's pocket.

tê [R. the earth; ground; a place; = col. tōe, ti, tē], (in many of the phrases A. tē = tōe; Cn. tōe; but C. always tē); also (C.), = A. tōe, earth, &c.

thien-tê, heaven and earth (v. thien). tê-gék, hell (v. gék). tê-giok (C.), id. tê-gák (C.), id. tê-hú (Cn.), Hades. tê-tsông-ông, a god who rules the world of spirits, associated with Giâm-lô-ông. tê-soah, the evil spirits of the earth (v. soah). thé-tê-kong (C.), = A. thé-ti-kong, the god of the ground.

tê-hng-koa<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin of a region. tê-hng (C.), = A. tōe-hng, a region. tê-hong (r.), a region. tê-hong-kúi, a spirit supposed to preside over a region; a very tall man. tê-pó, = pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the tepo or head man of a ward, appointed by the mandarin.

tê-tê, a map or chart. tê-kiú, a terrestrial globe; a sort of mark for archery (v. kiú).

tê-lí, geomancy; good or bad luck of graves; geography. tê-lí-su, a geomancer. tê-lí sien-si<sup>n</sup>, id. pái tê-lí, to injure the good luck of a grave-site, to injure the Fung-shuy. kiá<sup>n</sup> tê-lí, to practise geomancy. tiông tê-lí, to have great faith in Fung-shuy and geomancy. thien-bún tê-lí, astronomy and geography; astrology and geomancy.

hok-tê, a good grave-site (v. hok).

koán-tê, school premises (v. koán). tsō-tê hun-tsng, to be a receiver of stolen goods. khùi-sú bô-tê (R.), terribly ashamed and confounded.

tê-pê, relative station, rank, or position (v. pē). tê-ūi, official station and rank (v. ūi).

tê-pán, a wooden floor. tê-chien, a carpet. tê-lú, a mine for exploding in war (v. lú).

seng-tê, temper (v. sēng). sim-tê, = sim-tōe, character and disposition (v. tōe). bin-tê súi, face pretty. bīn-tê khiap-si, face ugly (v. bin).

seng-tê, a sort of medicine in its raw form (Rehmannia? Digitalis?). siok-tê, this drug in its prepared state, in a glutinous form, prepared by drying in the sun and mixing with honey. kui kiong, chiok tê, this drug with three others, making up the "sù-bút." tê-kut-phî, sort of febrifuge medicine. tê-jû, a sort of medicine (v. jû). tê-jí (C.), a drug like a bit of a child's flesh (v. jí).

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.) kha-âu-tê<sup>n</sup>, = A. kha-âu-ti<sup>n</sup>, the heel.

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.) tháng-tê<sup>n</sup>, = A. tháng-ti<sup>n</sup>, a wooden instrument for knocking the hoops firmly on a barrel or bucket.

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ti<sup>n</sup>, to knock the hoops firmly on a barrel, &c.

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ti<sup>n</sup>, to make strong efforts; to pretend (cf. ni<sup>n</sup>, ñē<sup>n</sup>).

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ti<sup>n</sup>, the surname Ching.

tê<sup>n</sup> (C.) tê<sup>n</sup>--sí, = A. nih<sup>n</sup>--sí, to strangle to death with the fingers.

teh (C. teh), to press down; to crush by a weight; to plant, as potatoes; (to pay a small instalment or percentage, or take off a small discount); to gamble in certain ways; to keep down certain symptoms by medicine; also, teh (C.), = A. têg, to stamp, as a mark or seal.

ta<sup>n</sup>-teh, constantly carrying heavy burdens on a carrying-pole. giâ-teh, constantly carrying heavy loads with the arms. teh-sí, to crush to death by a great weight. khít báí-kúi teh, to have a very oppressive feeling in a sort of nightmare (v. báí). chhia toá-soa<sup>n</sup> lâi-teh-goá, crushing me by false accusations of great crimes, or forcing me by overwhelming influence of powerful men. teh té-tang, to ballast a vessel (v. tang).

teh-chhiám, to lay down the keel of a vessel with the customary idolatrous rites. teh han-tsú, to plant potatoes. teh-tsoá, to lay idolatrous paper on graves, laying stones on it to keep it from blowing away, as in 3d month, &c. teh bōng-tsoá, id.

chheh-teh, a long piece of metal or heavy wood for keeping a book open.

teh khi, to keep down or cure a tendency to cough, or vomit, or some pains, as medicine. teh sàu, to cure or relieve a cough. teh thâm, id. teh kia<sup>n</sup>, to keep up one's spirits and keep down fear, as more cordial or medicine.

teh-tóe, to be at the bottom of a pile or heap; to be the last of a lot of goods (v. tōe).

teh pēng-tóe, to take off a very small discount on paying a large price in dollars (v. tōe). teh tō-tóe, to take off a very small discount (v. tō).

teh chit-chi<sup>n</sup>, to take off one mace of discount on 100 dollars.

teh-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to pay a small earnest, as at beginning of betrothal. teh-toa<sup>n</sup>, to pay a small instalment of passage-money (v. toa<sup>n</sup>).

teh-lâi teh-khi, to pay only in part what we owe and then borrow more, or get more goods on credit from the same person.

teh-tōe-gún, money lent or advanced without interest, as on engaging a man or on taking a house, to be repaid if the man leave service or if the house be taken back.

teh-tōe, to advance money thus, as when renting a house, like a combination of renting and mortgaging.

teh-tái<sup>n</sup> (T.), to advance money on a field rented.

teh-tú<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. teh-tiē (C.), id. teh-ná<sup>n</sup>, to send back something (e.g. balls of raw sugar) in the basket that brought a present.

teh tê-poá<sup>n</sup>, to give a small present on getting a cup of tea. teh-phoe, to be sent with a letter, as money, e.g. one dollar or so.

teh lién-pó, to gamble with the lién-pó. teh hoe-hē (C. teh hoa-hōc), to gamble with the hoe-hē. teh phak-chhiò, to gamble with cash, like odds and evens (v. chhiò). teh sang-jī (T.), = A. siang-chhiò, both cash evens. teh-tit, to play the game called "tit." teh-iá<sup>n</sup> teh-su, to lay down stakes so as to win or lose.

teh tâu-hoe, to form soft bean-curd into large soft squares. teh-in (C.), = A. tng-in, to stamp with a seal or stamp. teh-âng (C.), = A. tng-âng, to stamp with red ink. teh ji-hô (C.), to stamp a shop-mark or trade-mark.

teh (R. tok), (Cn. tōh), to peck, as a bird. teh gō-kak, to pick up grain, as bird. teh chiáu-á-koá, to prognosticate by a bird picking up one slip or lot out of several.

tēh [R. chek, hoards or mat of hed, = col. chioh]. chhūng-tēh (C.), a wide-worked bamboo frame in bottom of hed, for supporting the mattress.

teh (cf. leh), an enclitic affix after some verhs. giá--teh, carrying a large thing with the arms. khê--teh, involved, obstructed, entangled, &c. (v. khê). kê--teh, id. hē-teh, to lay down (v. hē). kì--teh, to write down.

tī--teh, present; at home (v. tī).

teh (cf. tih, tih), (C. teh, lí), prefix to verhs, expressing the continuance or present doing of the action, somewhat like the present participle, or like an imperfect or present tense; sometimes also prefixed to adjectives, so as to express a present or continuous state.

teh-kóng, in the very act of speaking. teh-kia<sup>n</sup>, trembling (s. press). teh-sàu, in the act of coughing (s. press). goá teh-siū<sup>n</sup>, I am considering. teh-khùn, sleeping. teh-chhiò, laughing.

teh-beh, about to — (sometimes written "tit-heh," or "tih-beh"), but better "tih-beh."

tsat-teh-ēng, economical. phak-teh-pài, to kneel and how very low.

teh sòng-hiong, in a state of deep poverty. lí teh-gōng, you are acting foolishly.

teh siá<sup>n</sup>-sū, what is he about? what are you doing?

tēh [R. toát, to take away forcibly], (Cn. T. tōh; C. sometimes thēh), to snatch away, often what has been first snatched from another. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-tēh, to snatch away. tēh-lâng, to snatch from a man, or get it out of his hands. tēh-tò-túg, to snatch back, as from robbers. khít--i tēh--khi, to have something taken away by another when it was almost within our grasp, e.g. by his having superior influence to back him, or offering more money. ēng-pē lái-tēh, to get a thing out of a man's hands by some cunning plan or roundabout contrivance.

tēh (C. tēh), to ebb; ebb-tide. tsúi tēh, ebb-tide; beginning of ebb. tsúi tēh-ta (C.), dead low-water.

thē-tēh, soft muddy sea-beach at low water. hái-tēh, id. liáu-tēh, to wade across the wet sea-beach with some water on it. tāh-tēh, id.

fām tēh-tēh, very wet, as roads.

tēh (C.) éh-tēh, = A. óh-tóeh, narrow.

tēh (C.) nā<sup>n</sup>-tēh-á, a sort of small shallow boat for shallow rivers.

tek (R. id.), virtue; moral conduct. tek-hēng, behaviour (v. hēng). sēng-tek, excellent and virtuous character. sēng-tek ê-lâng, a man of excellent character. sit-tek, to lose one's virtue; to commit some great crime.

sin-tek, the virtue of truthfulness or trustworthiness. jín-tek, the virtue of kindness, love, or benevolence. un-tek, great favour and kindness (v. un).

chín-tek, to make progress in learning.

chek-tek, to accumulate merit (or rarely demerit). ū-chek-tek, to accumulate or have great virtue or merit. hó-chek-tek, very virtuous or meritorious (person). bô-chek-tek, without virtue. phái<sup>n</sup>-chek-tek, having much demerit.

lú-tek, female character or virtue. lí-tek (C.), id. lú-tek chin-phái<sup>n</sup>, her character is very had.

kong-tek (lit. virtuous and meritorious acts), rites performed for the dead, to get them out of Hades, or get their condition there improved. tsòe-kong-tek, to get such rites performed for the dead. kong-tek che-chhām, great Buddhist rites for the good of the dead. kong-hun tō-tek, great virtue and merit (v. tō).

chiú-tek, manner in which a man is affected by liquor. hó-chiú-tek, able to take much liquor without being seriously affected by it, or at the worst getting drunk quietly. phái<sup>n</sup>-chiú-tek, getting disorderly when in liquor.

hok-tek chēng-sin, the god of the ground and of graves (v. hok). thien-tek-hng, an auspicious hill near the grave, where the geomancer stands apart at the time of burial calling aloud to the auspicious influence of the mountain. lí khi-toà thien-tek-hng teh-sóng, you are keeping aloof from the matter in which you should take part, so as to escape responsibility.

tek-hòe, the city and Hien of Teh-hwa (v. hòe). soan-tek, title of the reign of a Ming emperor, when very fine brass was made (v. soan).

tek [R. to obtain; to get; = col. tit]. tek-sit, to get or lose (v. sit).

tek-sim, to gain a person's affections (v. sim). tek-thióng, do., as concubine or eunuch (v. thióng). tek-ì, to get one's wish. tek-koat, to hit on the right plan; all right (v. koat). tek-hoat, id. tek-kái (esp. C.), joyful; delighted. tek-sè, to get prestige or influence, as by success. tek-tiong, moderate; taking the mean (v. tiong). tek-tō, highest class of Bud. priests (v. tō). ōe-tek-lí, profitable, as business transaction (v. lí). tsá tek-tsú, will have a son at an early age (a fortune-teller's phrase).

tek-tsòe, to offend; I beg your pardon (v. tsòe). hō-tek-khé, why trouble yourself?

put-tek-í, have no alternative; could not help it. put-tek put-tiòh-kóng, cannot hut speak, though unwilling. put-tek khai-kiau, cannot manage to set it right, as quarrel (v. kiau).

thiu háp-tek, to take off a percentage for brokerage. háp-tek ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, brokerage.

tek [R. certain; distinct; sign of the genitive or possessive]. tek-tek, certainly. tek-khak, id. tek-ū, certainly there is (or there are). tek-si an-ni<sup>n</sup>, certainly it is so; what I say is really the fact.

tek-bô, certainly not. tek-tek-bô, id. tek-khak-bô, id.

tek (R. tiok), (C. tek, tiok), bamboo. pan-tek, bamboo with spotted stem. chhi-tek, thorny bamboo. chiòh-tek, a thin and very hard sort of bamboo, with short joints, good for tobacco-pipes. lék-tek, a green sort of bamboo, with large leaves and soft stem. lék-tek-sún, shoots of this sort, counted good. bá-jí-tek, a fine spotted bamboo with long and indistinct joints. moá<sup>n</sup>-tek, sort of bamboo with large leaves and long joints. hó-tek, good bamboo.

âng-tek, an ornamental plant (not a bamboo) with

啄
筭

奪

德

得

的

竹

one bunch of red leaves at the top, Dracoena ferrea. tám-tek, a reed used as a febrifuge. tek-á-chháu, sort of stiff grass.

tek-chiá, the common sugar-cane, not the sort sold for chewing. tek-ê, the taper-pointed taro. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tek-si, a venomous serpent, said to have long feelers. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tek-pio, id. tek-lê, a long tapering sort of shell-fish. tek-than, a sort of shell-fish (v. than).

tek-á-ki, bean-curd dried in thin sheets, and rolled into tubes for eating. tióh-chiáh tek-á-ki, I will beat you with a bamboo if you don't be quiet (said to a child).

tek-hiòh, a bamboo leaf. tek-hiòh-to, a two-edged sword. tek-háh, small sheathing leaves at bamboo joints. tek-bák, a bamboo joint. tek-tsat, a bit of bamboo from one joint to another; a short bit of bamboo. tek-á, a thin bamboo shoot. tek-chhi, a long thin bamboo branch or thorn (v. chhi). tek-pi (C.), a small bamboo shoot at side of main stem. tek-sún, young short bamboo shoots, edible (v. sún). tek-bí, bamboo flower. tek-méh<sup>n</sup>, the soft inside of the bamboo.

tek-ná<sup>n</sup>, a bamboo grove. tek-liáu, a store where bamboo is sold.

tek-ko, a bamboo pole. tek-ta<sup>n</sup>, a split bamboo, used as a carrying-pole. tek-ê, the movable bamboo beam of a well-sweep. tek-bih, slips of bamboo for wicker-work. tek-teng, a bamboo pin, used as a nail. tek-sng, a small bamboo pin, peg, or wedge. tek-hū, a small bamboo peg with a bit of red cloth tied on it, used as a charm. tek-thāng, a bamboo float. tek-kóng, a bit of bamboo, from a few inches to a few feet long. tek-khiò, a bamboo conduit for water, gen. split, but sometimes whole. tek-kéng, do., generally entire. tek-pán, bamboo boarding, as for threshold of door or sill of window. tek-poe, flat bamboo stick for beating (v. poe). tek-chhéng, bamboo scrubbing-brush. tek-se (C.), sort of large bamboo brush. tek-sōe (Cn.), id. tek-keng, a bamboo bow.

tek-pái, a bamboo raft. tek-tsoá, common paper, made from bamboo. tek-kah, an under-shirt or vest made with bits of bamboo. tek-bé, short bamboo benches (lit. horses) for laying boards upon to make a tressle-bed. tek-i, a bamboo chair or stool. tek-phi, a light flat bamboo frame for sleeping on in summer (v. phi). tek-pūn, coarse bamboo hurdle. tek-tsáh, coarse bamboo barrier, as at a gate, to keep out pigs. tek-ú, a bamboo fence. tek-chhú, fire-work in shape of rat, jumps about when lighted.

tek [R. ték, a reed]. lê-tek, a sort of large coarse reed.

tek [R. the principal wife]. tek-chhe (R.), the legal or principal wife. tek-chhut--ê, born of the principal wife, as a son. tek--ê, id. tek-tsú (R.), son of the principal wife.

tek-bú, father's principal wife (said in relation to the son of a secondary wife or concubine).

tek (P.) thien-tek-kok, = A. thien-tiok-kok, India.

ték [R. a marsh; to irrigate; to soften; fertile; favour; kindness].

lün-ték (R.), well-watered. jün-ték (R.), id.; full of fresh blooming vigorous health and well off.

hó-sek-ték, smooth, healthy, and well-coloured, as face showing good health; glossy and well-coloured, as flowers, jade-stone, silk, or satin. ū-sek-ték, id. bō-sek-ték, having a bad colour, as face of person in bad health, &c.

un-ték (R.), favour; grace. in-ték (C.), id. kóng-ték tsun-ông, the honourable king of wide-extended favour, a title of the idol Keh Seng-ông.

ték-siá, a cooling medicine.

ték [R. northern barbarians]. i-ték, outside barbarians in general.

ték (cf. ták). ték-hi, sort of fish that has three sharp points. ték-pô, sort of fish the skin of which is used like sand-paper.

ték [R. an enemy; a competitor; a rival; an equal; to rival, compete with, or oppose].

tùi-ték, an enemy; to oppose. ték-kok, a hostile kingdom. ték-peng, enemy's soldiers. ték-jin, an enemy.

ti-ték, to oppose.

bū-ték, superior to all other persons or things; peerless; matchless; super-excellent; so powerful that no one can fight or overcome him. khiá bū-ték-pái, said of a quail or cock-chaffer that beats all its antagonists; said also figuratively of a man (lit. erecting a tablet saying he is peerless).

ték (P.), = A. tiók (to drive away).

ték (cf. pék, pók). ka-ték-sún, edible shoots of a certain water vegetable.

ték [R. to choose; to select], (cf. C. tóh). ték-soán, to select carefully, esp. a son-in-law or daughter-in-law. ték-jit-su, a fortune-teller who chooses lucky days. ték-jit-koán, stall or shop of such a man.

ték [R. tí, to meet with; to be worth; to value; to manage; to rule; = col. táh, tát].

ték-jit ê kong-tsô, special messengers of the gods for each day (v. tsô). ték-jit-sín (Cn.), special messengers of the gods who take turn day by day of watching over the world.

ték-hū ê sù-chiá (C. tit-hū sù-chiá), special messengers between Taoist priests and the gods.

ték [R. specially; of set purpose; alone]. ték-siū--ê, specially appointed to an office as his own (v. siū). ték-téng, second set of candidates (at the Giòk-pin Academy) chosen for rewards or bursaries, gen. about ten in each set.

teng (R. id.), a male person, as in counting the number of sons or inhabitants; a cyclical character in the cycle of ten; a surname.

teng-hiu<sup>n</sup>, cloves.

teng-ji-tú, a T-headed prop for a door.

teng-iu, to be in mourning for parent or grandparent (v. iu).

chè-teng, to sacrifice to Confucius in the first decades of the 2nd and 8th months, on those days which contain the character "teng."

jín-teng, male persons (said in counting sons or descendants of a family, inhabitants of a village, or members of a clan). jín-teng hi-bi, population small. jín-teng heng-ông, posterity numerous. jín-teng ióng-tsòng, male relatives numerous and strong. lâm-teng, a male person. kúi-teng, how many men? ke-teng, having no brother or son, or near male relative. tan-teng, solitary, as an only son; having no brother. tan-teng kè-tê, only one son in each generation.

tsòng-teng, a strong young man, e.g. from about 20 to 30 or 40 years of age. iù-teng, a lad, e.g. under 16 years of age; also (?), a man who wears a long dress and does not do manual work. chhè-teng, a man who does hard rough manual work; a labourer or workman.

狄

敵

擇

值

特

丁

荻
嫡

澤

ka-teng, a boy or lad indentured for a long period as a servant, almost like a slave. hŭng-teng (r.), a gardener.

chheng-teng, assistant of supercargo, who keeps the accounts, and keeps an account of goods shipped and unshipped. chheng-teng-thâu, id. chhin-teng, confidential attendants brought by a mandarin from his own home; also (C.), = A. chheng-teng, assistant of supercargo.

peng-teng, a soldier. khó iŭ-teng, to examine candidates for the position of a soldier (v. iŭ). khó i-teng (C.), id.

sêng-teng, to come to the age of puberty, as about 15 or 16 years old. sip-liók sêng-teng, in the 16th year one comes to the age of puberty.

chhut-teng, to have or get sons, grandsons, or male inhabitants. sit-teng, to lose male children or younger relatives; to lose male inhabitants, as village. sún-teng, id. (+). sŭng-teng, id. thiam-teng, to have an addition or additions to the number of sons, or of male inhabitants of village (+). it-jŭn sam-tsu, liók-tái chhien-teng, if each man has three sons, it makes a thousand in six generations.

teng-tsái-kùi, male posterity, wealth, and rank. tsái-teng-kùi, id. tsái-teng-kùi sa<sup>n</sup>-ji-tsŭng, all these in full measure. to-teng toát-tsái, a numerous family keeps one poor. thiam-teng chin-tsái, to increase in family and in wealth (+). sún-teng lâu-tsái, to lose sons and wealth (+). phoà-tsái sún-teng, id.

teng [R. to witness; to raise, as troops; to collect, as taxes], (Cn. cheng; C. tin).

teng-hiông, to collect or levy dues, taxes, or customs, &c., as mandarins. teng chi<sup>n</sup>-niŭ<sup>n</sup>, to collect or levy the land-tax. khai-teng (R.), to distribute the tax-papers for the land-tax or house-tax to the collectors on a lucky day.

teng (P.), = A. tieng, middle; and so perhaps in some other words.

teng (R. id.), to repeat a command; to remind of a former command. teng-i, remind him of the order. koh-teng--i, id. teng-lêng, to give minute and frequent instructions or injunctions (v. lêng).

teng [R. to ascend; to note down], (Cn. tŭng). teng-kék, to become emperor. teng-ŭi, to come to the throne, as a king. teng-sien, to become a Sien or Taoist divinity.

teng-tien, to take his seat on the throne, as emperor at audience. iú-lŏ, bók-teng-chiu (R.), if there be a road don't go by boat. teng-ko-jit, a day (9.9) when literary men climb hills and fly kites so as to get high degrees.

teng-kho, to become a Kujin or Tsin-sze. khokah liên-teng, to become a Kujin and a Tsin-sze in rapid succession.

ngé-kok hong-teng, crops abundant.

teng-kì, to note down (v. kì).

teng — teng-i, a tall stool with steps like a ladder.

teng (R. id.), (Cn. tan), a nail; a pin (as of wood or bamboo) used as a nail. teng-teng, to nail a nail (v. teng).

tek-teng, a bamboo pin used as a nail. tsoá-liên-teng, paper twisted hard, and used for binding together the pages of a book; also dipped in oil and used as a light. tang-teng, a copper nail. thih-teng, an iron nail. lí sī thih-teng-siông; sa<sup>n</sup>-jit bô phah, chiū si<sup>n</sup>-sien, you are like an iron nail, rusting if three days not beaten (said to a bad child).

tsu-teng, a round-headed nail. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-sui-teng, sort of small iron nails (v. jiáu<sup>n</sup>). lŏ-si-teng, a screw-nail. lŏ-si-teng (C.), id. sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-teng, three-cornered spikes thrown in the way of robbers, &c.

kha-teng, projecting ends of bricks in a wall, so that the wall, if lengthened, can be firmly built together. teng-lŏeh, the head of a nail (v. lŏeh). teng-á-thúi, a hammer (v. thúi). teng-tháng, a tub with sharp nails, used as a pitfall (v. tháng), (s. lamp).

si-teng-teng, unprogressive, as trade.

phông-teng, to provoke the displeasure of one's master or superior, as by doing something worse than he expected, or by deceiving him, and his finding it out unexpectedly. khít-i phông-teng; id. ŏ-phông-teng, it will provoke his displeasure (e.g. if you do so).

teng — teng-khī (Cn.), a sort of persimmon (v. khī).

teng (R. id.), a small hard boil, as on the eyelid or such hard bony place. si<sup>n</sup>-teng, to have such a hard painful boil. hé-kháu-teng, a boil between thumb and finger. chhùi-kháu-teng, a boil on the lip.

toá-teng-hông, a plant used for reducing inflammation.

teng (T.) teng-ni<sup>n</sup>, = C. to-ni<sup>n</sup>, = Cn. tieng-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of azalea.

teng (R. id.), a lamp; a lantern; (bubbles blown by or for children); also (T.), bubbles rising from fermentation or corruption.

chit-ki-teng, one lamp or lantern.

teng-hé, a lamp made of a small saucer on a stand, with wicks swimming in oil. táu-teng-hé, a rice-measure containing a lamp kept burning without going out for three days and nights in rites after marriage. táu-teng, id. teng-hé-tà, a cover or shade for a lamp to keep off the wind (v. tà). teng-hé-tàu (esp. Cn.), id. teng-hé-khâm, id. teng-hé-hoe, large spots in a burning wick, counted lucky (v. hoe). tng teng-hé hoa, may my life go out like this lamp if I swear falsely.

teng-pái, a long lantern with inscriptions. teng-chhai, enigmas on transparent lanterns (v. chhai). teng-ko, a pole with a lamp at the end of it, superstitious (v. ko).

teng-kâu, a small bamboo frame for the cheapest lamps. sio teng-kâu, to burn these at the end of the year. pàng-phâu, sio teng-kâu, do. along with firing off crackers. teng-khiá, an upright stand for a saucer-lamp. teng-hé-khiá, id. teng-tái, a large stand for a lamp. teng-kiáh, a pillar-shaped stand for a saucer-lamp.

teng-tsō, the part of a candle-lantern which supports the candle. teng-khak, frame of a lantern. teng-tháng, frame of a large lantern (s. nail). teng-khê, cylindrical frame of a lantern. teng-bi, the top of the frame of a lantern. teng-koā<sup>n</sup>, the fixed handle over the top of a lantern. teng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. siù teng-hoe, to embroider the frame of a lantern (v. hoe).

teng-sim, the wick of a lamp, made of the pith of a rush (v. sim). lŏ-thâu, ta<sup>n</sup> teng-sim; lŏ-bé, ta<sup>n</sup> thih-thúi, matter insignificant at first becoming very serious. teng-thio, a small instrument like a spoon, laid on the wick of a saucer-lamp.

ki<sup>n</sup>-teng, a watchman's lantern; a lantern on a pillar at a watch-station. lŏ-teng, a lantern at the road-side, often put up (esp. in 7th month) for a vow. chhiú-teng, a lantern carried in the hand in walking;

徵

叮

登

釘

疔

燈

a road-lamp. toh-thâu-teng, a lamp for use on the table. tháng-teng, very large gauze lanterns, hung at the doors of temples and of great persons. kióng-teng, lanterns like those of temples, used at marriages. thien-teng, lanterns hung up in honour of Thi<sup>n</sup>-kong. sim-teng, id. ji-si-teng, a lantern with one's surname on it. si-teng, id. sin-niú-teng, ornamental lanterns for marriages. tsáu-bé-teng, a lantern that turns round when lighted. pòh-piá-teng, a lantern that folds flat like a cake. si-kak-teng, a square lantern. tsu-kat-teng, a fire-balloon. khóng-bêng-teng, id. pàng tsúi-teng, to set afloat burning lamps on the water for the ghosts of drowned persons.

moá-teng, lanterns with coarse hempen cloth over them, in deepest mourning (v. moá<sup>n</sup>). liú-li-teng, sort of lantern used in temples; a scabbed head. po-lê-teng, a glass lantern. liáu-si-teng, a lantern made with a thin transparent preparation of rice (v. si). ô-kiá-thang-teng, lantern made with oyster-shells. ô-kiá-teng, id.

kat-teng, to hang lanterns all along a street, as in idolatrous rites. kat hoe-teng, to make a great illumination with vast numbers of gaudily coloured lanterns. tiám-teng, to light a lamp. tiám-teng kat-chhái, to hang up great numbers of coloured lanterns and gaudy hangings. tiu-teng kat-chhái, id. tiám-teng, ũ-hùn: pun-ku, thiàu-khám, I have done favours to you, but you neglect to return them. iók-kiú thien-siông-hok, su-tiám hüt-chiên-teng (or "pút-chêng-teng"), if you wish to get Heaven's happiness, light lamps before Buddha. siú-teng, to look at the illuminations. khoá-teng, id. ngiá-teng, to carry lanterns in procession, as in honour of ông-iá. siá-teng, to give a play in return for friends lighting lanterns before our door.

kùi-teng, to hang up a lamp on a wall. tiàu-teng, to hang a lamp or lantern from the roof or from a beam. bák-chiu tiàu-teng, the upper eyelid puckered up at the middle. kiáh-teng, to carry a lamp or lantern in the hand. kiáh-teng, m-tsai kha-é àm, telling others' faults, but not knowing our own.

jiên-teng-hüt, name of a Buddha (v. jiên).

pún thng-á-teng, to blow bubbles with the thick syrup called béh-lê-ko. pún béh-lê-ko teng, id. puh-teng, to bubble, as in fermentation, or when something is corrupting.

têng (R. id.), (Cn. tân), a small ornamental open shed or summer-house on four or more pillars; a small temple or shrine. têng-á, id.

bân-siú-têng, the emperor's temple. bó-sú-têng, a small shrine for the ancestral tablets of persons who have no posterity. koan-im-têng, temple of Kwan-yin. kêng-ji-têng, a small temple or shrine for collecting written or printed paper to be burned. ji-tsoá-têng, id. khí tē-têng, said of a literary man or head man of village collecting and embezzling money on pretence of building a temple.

hún-têng, a sedan with a cover, but open at the sides, in which the ancestral tablet is carried at a funeral. thài-tsú-têng, a small paper shed in which the idol called "sóc-hüt" is carried (v. thài). png-têng, a small paper shed for the figure that represents the spirit of the deceased, used in the ceremonies for persons recently deceased. bók-ék-têng, a miniature paper-room for a bath-room for the spirits in the rites of khia-hà.

liáng-têng, an awning for coolness, as on top of house. phak-sün-têng, a small open porch or shed on pillars at a door. chih-koa-têng, a resting-place with a large open shed on a great road, for the use of mandarins and other travellers. ké-têng, a shed for musicians playing in while a mandarin is eating; also, one with a drum in it, carried at idolatrous processions. ién-bú-têng, a grand-stand for mandarins at review-ground. hàu-tsú-têng, a stone shed, put up by imperial command, with inscription in honour of a son of great filial virtue.

têng [R. têng, to ascend in the sky, as a bird, spirit, or kite], (C.), = C. têng, to be at the zenith, as one of the heavenly bodies. gòeh têng (C.), the moon at zenith. chhit têng, peh tó (C.), in the 7th month at the zenith, in the 8th somewhat inclined (said of the Pleiades at day-break).

têng [R. têng; C. têng, a stage on a journey; a road; a measure; a surname; = col. thiá<sup>n</sup>].

chiên-têng, a graduate, civil or military. ũ chiên-têng, to be a graduate; to have a graduate, as a village or clan.

lê-têng (T. C.), = A. lê-têng, a journey. khí-têng (T.), to begin a journey.

têng [R. a court for audience]. tiàu-têng, the imperial court; sometimes said of the emperor himself.

têng [R. a court; a paved yard or open space before a door or within a house; = col. tiá<sup>n</sup>].

ka-têng ê-sū, private family matters. ka-têng ê tã-chì, id. ke-têng ê-sū, id.

kong-têng (r.), the hall of judgment. kong-têng ê sé-tsái, a place where many influential persons (e.g. literati and head-men) are met together to discuss and settle some public matter.

têng [R. clear, as water; to grow clear, as by depositing sediment]. têng-chheng, to settle and become clear and transparent, as muddy water. hông-hó sa-chheng-ni<sup>n</sup> chit-pái têng-chheng, the Yellow River grows clear once in 3000 years; said of something suddenly coming right after we had quite lost hope of it; or of something that after long continuing bad suddenly changes for the better, e.g. a bad debt recovered, or a very bad man for once doing a kind or good action, and then relapsing. hông-hó têng-chheng, id.

hái-têng, the city and district of Hái-têng-hiên, in Chang-chew department, between Amoy and Chang-chew.

têng (R. id.) têng-siá, a fabulous winged red serpent (Tauist).

têng (R. thièn), (Cn. tông), to transcribe a copy, especially a fair copy. têng-chheng, to write out a fair copy from a scroll (s. clear). têng-chin, id. têng-chiá, id. koh-têng chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>, take another copy. têng-liók, to transcribe an essay with red ink, as in examination for Kujin degree.

têng, to undersell; to cut out by offering more, or accepting less than another. sa-têng, id. (s. manifold). kàng-kè lái-têng-i, to undersell him. khít-i têng-khì, to lose an article or a place by another secretly offering more or accepting less.

têng [R. tiông, double; manifold; to repeat; by change of tone from "tiông," heavy], (P. tiông), double; twofold; so many fold; classifier of folds, plies, layers, strata, ranges of hills, doors within doors, concentric walls, heavens; coats, &c., worn at once.

têng-pé, double. têng-tsai, a second time; over again. têng-koh, id. têng-thâu, id. koh-têng

騰

程

庭

澄

騰

重

亭

chit-pái, once again. téng-téng tiáp-tiáp, piled on one another; crowded densely together (v. tiáp). téng-téng tháh-tháh, id. (v. tháh).

téng-oá, to change over again, as after a previous change. téng khí-chhù, to rebuild a house. téng-kám, having a relapse. téng-tâ, making a discrepancy, as in an account, or as repeating a story over again, either by mere mistake or deceitfully (v. tâ).

téng-kù, stammering, esp. repeating clauses. téng-chih, stammering. si<sup>n</sup> téng-chih, to have a diseased growth under the tongue. bák-chiu téng-sùn, the upper eyelid having a slight wrinkle (v. sùn). téng-keng, the border at the neck of a dress, where it is made doubly strong (v. keng).

toa<sup>n</sup>-téng, having only one thickness, as of cloth or paper, &c. toa<sup>n</sup>-téng-béh, stockings made of only one thickness of cloth. siang-téng, made with two plies or thicknesses of material. sa<sup>n</sup>-téng, of three plies or thicknesses (s. undersell). sa<sup>n</sup>-téng-siá<sup>n</sup>, having three concentric walls, as city. kúí-téng-sa<sup>n</sup>, how many coats (have you) on? chit-téng-sa<sup>n</sup>, one coat out of several worn at once. chit-téng-mûg, one door or gate in a set of several in succession one within the other. chit-téng-soa<sup>n</sup>, one of several ranges of mountains. chit-téng-tsúi, one of several transverse lines of water, as in a view. chit-téng-méh<sup>n</sup>, a layer of outer skin, as on the body, or of outer bark on a tree. lí sim-koa<sup>n</sup> chit-téng-méh<sup>n</sup>, you are very dull of apprehension! sán kàu chit-téng-phê pí<sup>n</sup> chit-téng-kut, skin and bone (v. pí<sup>n</sup>).

téng [R. a rank; a class; to wait;=col. tán], (Cn. tǒng), a rank, class, or sort; to act in place of, as in filling a vacancy.

téng-thòe, to act in place of; to fill the place of (v. thòe). téng-thè (C.), id. téng i-ê-kheh, to succeed to the place he left vacant.

téng-hô, sort, class, kind, of men or things. téng-tê, rank; station; quality. téng-kip (R.), a step of rank. téng-khip (R.), id.

pún-téng, one's own proper or prescribed duties; naturally; according to what is proper. lí--ê pún-téng, your own proper duties. pháí<sup>n</sup>-goá-pún-téng, I injure no one but myself (said in answer to some one finding fault with our conduct). khai-goá-pún-téng, I spend no one's money but my own, and no one else has any concern with it. sòng-goá-pún-téng, though I am poor it hurts no one else.

tâng-téng, of the same rank or class, as persons. pí<sup>n</sup>-téng, of the same rank. pêng-téng, id. put-téng, of various sizes or qualities (said of articles of the same sort or kind). put-téng-kè, at various prices, as several articles larger and smaller, or better and worse, but of the same kind of things.

it-téng, first-class (v. ít). sióng-téng, id. (v. sióng). tiong-téng, of medium quality; second-class. hā-téng, of third or inferior sort. sa<sup>n</sup>-téng, id. chhiau-téng, the best ten competitors for prizes at the Giók-pín examinations at Amoy. ték-téng, the second set of these competitors.

téng (R. id.), summit; top; above; on; upon; upper; previous; official button on a cap; classifier of hats, caps, sedans, &c.

téng-ê, upper and lower; above and below (v. ê).

oán-téng, to have one's head fully shaved, as Bud. priest or nun. chhèng-téng, head broken out in a sort of eruption (v. chhèng).

thâu-kun-téng, sort of extra top-sail in a junk. hóh-téng, a stork's crest (v. hóh).

thi<sup>n</sup>-téng, in heaven; high heaven (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). soa<sup>n</sup>-téng, dry land; on land; on a hill (v. soa<sup>n</sup>). chhù-téng, on the roof of a house (v. chhù). lâu-téng, an upper story; upstairs. toh-téng, on the table. po-téng, on the top of the bulwarks of a vessel. thâu-khak-téng, on the top of the head; crown of head. koe-téng, in the street; in the market.

chiáh-png-téng, just after eating, e.g. speaking of the time for taking medicine.

téng-bé, boys on horseback in an idolatrous incense procession (v. bé).

téng-thâu, on the top; above. téng-bin, above; on the top; on the top of. bin-téng, on the top; upstairs. thâu-bin-téng--ê, first-class, as things or men. téng-siōng, of the very best quality (v. siōng).

téng-chin, of first-rate excellence, as a thing; very strict, as master who will not let faults pass; very sharp in mercantile matters, as man who is always trying to make a very good bargain.

téng-si-hong, a head-wind (v. sí).

téng-chhiú, previously done by another; title-deed of the seller, &c. (v. chhiú). téng-pòe, parents and their equals in genealogical rank. téng-pè, forenoon. téng-tàu, id. téng-jit, a former day, &c. téng-chiu<sup>n</sup>, the chapter immediately preceding. téng-pang, on the former occasion.

téng-pê<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. chiū<sup>n</sup>-piá<sup>n</sup>, the upper ping tone. téng-khì (C.), = A. chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì. téng-jip (C.), = A. chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip.

téng-tài, the official button on a mandarin's cap (v. tài). sek-téng, id. téng-bô, official cap. téng-tsô, the small round brass plate on the top of the cap, on which the official button rests. tí téng-tsô, to wear a cap with that brass plate, but no button, as a degraded mandarin, or as some literati or gentry. tí-téng, to wear a cap with official button. ũ téng-tí, to have the rank that allows to wear such a button. kiá-téng, to take away the official button for a time till the case can be thoroughly investigated; to suspend from rank.

âng-téng, the red button of first-rank mandarins; properly the translucent button of the first rank, but sometimes said of the second. hoe-âng-téng, opaque red coral button, second rank. chhi<sup>n</sup>-téng, transparent light blue button, third rank. chhi<sup>n</sup>-liang-téng, id. lám-téng, dark opaque blue button, fourth rank. pèh-liang-téng, clear colourless crystal button, fifth rank. pèh-chiòh-téng, opaque white button, sixth rank. kim-téng, gilt button, seventh to ninth ranks. lêng-téng, wearing a feather in cap, as special mark of honour (v. lêng). gún-téng, white button (!) of a Sew-tsai graduate.

téng (R. id.), a small steelyard, used for weighing medicines, silver, &c.; to weigh with it. téng-á, a small steelyard. toā-téng, a somewhat larger sort, used for medicines, but smaller than a chhín. iòh-téng, steelyard for weighing medicines. lí-téng, steelyard for weighing fine medicines; also used for silver; generally marked so as to make a dollar equal to 7 chí<sup>n</sup> 2 hun. gún-téng, a small steelyard for weighing silver. chhit-ji-téng, steelyard that makes a dollar equal to 7 chí<sup>n</sup> 2 hun, used in Changechew, and in all places round, except Amoy. khè-tô-téng, id. chhit-liòk-téng, steelyard that makes a dollar equal to 7 chí<sup>n</sup> 6 hun. hā-tô-téng, id.

téng-gún, to weigh silver with a small steelyard.

kah-téng, to test a steelyard by another, to see if it be correct.

等

戥

頂

téng-á-thú, the weight of a small steelyard. téng-á-koái<sup>n</sup>, its beam. téng-á-poá<sup>n</sup>, its scale. téng-á-khak, its case. téng-á-áh, id.

téng [R. a tripod; a sort of caldron; = col. tiá<sup>n</sup>]. téng-lê, a narrow-mouthed three-legged vessel for burning incense. téng-lê-thoàn, a variety of the seal character, in which each word has three long legs like an incense vessel; supposed to keep away evil influences, and counted very good for graves.

téng (C.) = A. tién, to mortgage.

téng (T.) téng-kong-á, a very small sort of dragon-fly.

téng [R. id.; by change of tone from "teng," a nail], (Cn. tàn), to nail; to sting, as a wasp; to sew or hem finely; to sew by sending the needle quite through, and then back again quite through; to sew on, as figures cut in cloth of another colour; to fasten the sheets of a book together slightly; to throw down, as a top; to throw down, as a cash or shell in gambling, so as to make another turn upside down.

téng-teng, to nail with a nail. têng lê-si-teng, to put in a screw-nail. koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ têng-teng, chiú kóe-pi<sup>n</sup>, he will never reform till his coffin is nailed up.

téng-tiâu, to nail fast. si<sup>n</sup>-kun têng-tiâu, unwilling to rise up, as if rooted and nailed fast. têng-sí, to nail firm; to nail to death, as by crucifixion. têng sip-jí-kè, to crucify. phi<sup>n</sup>-têng, to lay on and nail firm, as the thin lath or boards on a roof.

têng-tâng, to work in brass.

téng iâng-kong (C.), to fix in the ground a peg with the words iâng-kong on it, as in making a grave (v. iâng).

khit-phang têng, to be stung by a wasp or bee. e-têng-phang, a sort of wasp.

téng-chheh (Cn. tàn-tsü), to bind a book roughly by merely fastening the sheets together, as with pins of twisted paper.

téng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to sew a dress finely. têng kau-hûn, to sew on figures cut in velvet (or some stuff different from the dress) in a hooked pattern. kau-chiam têng, bát-liú pâng, very careful, as in examining or managing a matter, or as in the use of money.

téng kan-lòk, to throw down a top to make it spin. têng ham-khak-chi<sup>n</sup>, to throw down a cockle-shell so as to make another one turn upside down, as boys do in a sort of gambling. têng âng-khí-ti, to throw down the dried calyx of the persimmon in the same way.

téng — têng-iâm, to salt slightly.

téng (C.) bé-táh-têng, = A. bé-táh-thêng, a stirrup. bé-têng, id. (v. thêng).

téng [R. to criticize; to adjust; to settle; to edit]. têng-chhin, to mark the beam of a steelyard. têng chhin-hoe, id. kong-têng, sort of large steelyard made specially correct, for wholesale trade; some say that it adds about 4 per cent. to the weight according to the usual "pah-si-tó," so as to allow for the loss of weight in selling by retail.

téng-bêng (R.), to settle the agreement for marriage of son or daughter.

téng [R. tiòng, to hit the centre; to accomplish; exact; to be hit; by change of tone from "tiòng," centre], (C. sometimes tiòng).

téng-i, to suit one's fancy or desire; agreeable to one's wish. sa<sup>n</sup>-téng-i, fully agreeing and highly pleased with each other, as man and wife; rarely said of partners in business. m-téng-lâng-i, not according to one's desire; not to one's taste. m-téng-lâng-bák, bad-looking, as a thing, or as an action. m-téng lâng-bák-chiu, id. m-téng-lâng-thia<sup>n</sup>, speaking so that the other is not willing to hear. sa<sup>n</sup>-téng-thia<sup>n</sup>, willingly listening to another, or to one another; about of one mind.

téng — tē-téng, a reptile like a snake with feet, supposed to be very poisonous. tē-téng ká, bóe koa<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, if the tē-téng bite you, you must buy a coffin; but it is also said never to bite!

téng [R. hân, a limit; a threshold; also written by a distinct word, hân or hiên], (T. tai<sup>n</sup>; Cn. tui<sup>n</sup>).

hē-téng, a threshold. mng-téng, id. thang-á-téng, a window-sill. chit-kha hē-téng-lái, chit-kha hē-téng-goá, unsettled in purpose.

téng [R. to fix; to settle; steady; = col. tiā<sup>n</sup>]. it-téng, certainly; assuredly it is. pit-téng, surely must be; surely must. têng-sí (r.), certainly it is —. put-téng, not yet fixed. bō-téng-kiên, unsettled in purpose. bō-téng-sêng, fickle; changeable. têng-tòng, safe and steady, as man. têng-tiók, settled, as affair.

tiâm-téng, strongly made, as furniture; firmly rooted, strong and healthy, as tree; having a good deal of secret wealth, as man. ũ-tiâm-téng, to have a good deal of concealed wealth.

seng-sú iú-téng, life and death are determined, as by fate.

téng-kui, to fix or settle a rule; to set up, as a new institution, e.g. a new tax, examination, or registration; to settle definitely, as situation for a man. á-bē têng-kui, not yet fixed, as rule, &c. têng-hun, to betroth. têng-chhin, id. têng-phêng, to settle the marriage contract, as for son or daughter. têng hng-hiú<sup>n</sup>, to settle the lucky direction, as for house or grave. têng hun-kim, id.

téng-tsōe, to condemn, as a judge. têng i-ê-tsōe, to condemn him. têng sí-tsōe, to condemn to death. têng sí-àn, id. têng-àn, to give judgment.

téng [R. tiên, fixed; settled; to make a libation], (Cn. tui<sup>n</sup>; T. tai<sup>n</sup>), hard; solid; firm; plump. têng-núg, hard or soft. têng-phá<sup>n</sup>, solid or not solid.

téng-tauh, hard; solid; strongly made; having a good deal of money (v. tauh). têng khok-khok, very hard and strong; so hard as to give a clear ringing sound when struck. têng khauh-khauh, too hard, as eatables insufficiently cooked. têng hoaih<sup>n</sup>-hoaih<sup>n</sup>, very hard, e.g. as cakes.

kien-téng, hard; solid; firm; strongly made. kin-téng (C.), id. kiet-téng, id. e-téng, having a rather thin and darkish face, as man neither fat nor lean.

ta-téng, become too dry, hard, and unpleasant to eat, as eatables; having enough to live upon, though not wealthy; pretty well off; curt and laconic in manner, as workman or shopkeeper who will not even discuss the lowering of his terms, but will have nothing to say to us unless we take his terms, as he feels quite independent of us. ke-hé ta-téng, wealthy. ta-téng ê seng-lí, a very safe and steady trade, esp. in some article which no one else can make or produce, so that we can fix and keep our own price. chhun chit-tè têng-téng, pretty well off, though not wealthy.

thâu-khak têng, robust and vigorous, as a child; supposed to be through the protecting care of the idols. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun thâu-khak têng, may your posterity be

鼎

釘

閻限

定

奠

訂

中

strong and healthy, said as an auspicious wish to parents. têng-chi<sup>n</sup>, dollars adulterated by being filled with brass or copper.

tí [R. name of a plant]. ti-bú, sort of cooling medicine (v. bú). ti-bé, id.

tí — ti-ti-háu, sound of incessant chirping of birds.

tí (R. id.) ti-tu, a spider. hoan-ti-tu, an absurdly unreasonable man.

ti-tu-bāng, a spider's web, spread out round and entire. ti-tu kiet-bóng, ornamental network, esp. on top of mandarin's sedan. ti-tu-si, spiders' webs, esp. hanging loosely or in fine threads. ti-lá-si, id. ká ti-tu-si, to take away spiders' webs, as with a stick. ki<sup>n</sup> ti-tu-si, do.; also to weave spiders' webs. ti-tu ki<sup>n</sup>-si, the spider weaves its web. ti-tu khan-si, id.

tí [R. to know; to feel; = col. tsai]. thong-ti, to inform; to notify. ti-hōe, to notify formally. pín-ti (R.), to inform a superior official by a document.

ti-hú, the prefect or governor of a Foo department. ti-chiu, the prefect of a Chow department. ti-koái<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin of a Hien district; the sub-prefect.

put-ti-chiok, insatiable (v. chiok). sū put-ti, yet strange to say, the fact or result is —. put-ti put-tsōe, without knowledge guilt is not reckoned. ti ki-it, put-ti ki-jī, knowing only very little of the matter. káu put-ti thien-tē, so as to be quite unconscious, as in a very severe illness, or when drunk or very sleepy. jín put-soat put-ti, a man's mind is not known unless he speak (v. soat).

ti-tsōe, to confess a fault or erime. ti-kò pit-kái, reform on learning one's fault.

ti-chêng, grateful. ti i-ê-chêng, to be grateful to him. ti-un pò-pún, to show gratefulness to parents (v. un).

ti-ki ê-lāng, a very intimate friend. ti-sim ê-lāng, id.

ti-im, to understand the meaning, to know what to do. put-chí ti-lí, knowing well and doing one's duty, as servant or employé. sio-ti (C.), over sharp and exacting, as in trade. it-kú sêng-bêng, thien-hā ti, on becoming a Kujin, the whole world knows.

sien-ti, to know beforehand; a prophet. sien-ti-lāng, a prophet. bi-pok sien-ti, I know before you tell me (lit. before divination).

tí [R. id., C. ti; Cn. tū], (Cn. tū: T. often tu, as also in the villages of Amoy island), a pig; a sow; a hog; the zodiacal sign corresponding to the character "hāi" in the cycle of 12. siu<sup>n</sup>-ti, born in a year that has hāi as one of its characters.

tūg-ti, long-shaped. chhiú-ti-á, the fleshy part of the upper arm.

kiáu-ti, a man always gambling and constantly losing. toā-ti-kheh, a big foolish-looking fellow.

pūi-ti, a black legume, used as a cooling medicine (Acacia concinna?). pūi-ti-chí, its seeds. nng-chiah pūi-ti, two of these pods, put in a bag on a bride's breast.

hō-ti, a porcupine. hái-ti, a porpoise. hái-ti-á, a sort of fish.

liú-ti, to catch a pig with a noose. iam-ti, to castrate pigs; a man whose trade is to do so. thāi-ti ê-lāng, a butcher who kills pigs.

ti-á-gê, a wholesale shop for selling live pigs. ti-tsau, a place for killing pigs. ti-tiam, a block on which pork is laid out for sale. ti-lak-soh, a cord for leading a pig. ti-tiâu, a pig-sty (v. tiâu). ti-tsô, a pig's trough. ti-tsáh, a barrier for keeping in pigs. ti-tsang, hair on back of pig's neck.

ti-kang, a male pig, a hog. ti-ko, do., as used for covering (v. ko). ti-kong, a large male pig. ti-phe, a pig not full grown. ti-á, a small pig.

ti-bú, a sow that has had a litter (s. plant). ti-bú-chhih, sort of crab (v. ehhih). ti-bú-chhêng, a sort of tree like a banyan. ti-bú-chhài, a sort of edible vegetable; often grown round the roots of pot flowers. ti-bú-leng (esp. C.), id. âng-ti-bú (C.), sort of snake, the bite of which only causes a slight pain, but is not dangerous. chhin-chhiū<sup>n</sup> ti-bú thoa-thê, said of a fat, lazy, slovenly woman. pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>-lê poáh-sí pūn-ti-bú, a fat sow stumbles on a level road, and is killed by the fall.

tí (R. id.), a pond; a reservoir; a surname. tí-á, a small pond. tí tng, large and small ponds. hi-ti, a fish-pond. hông-seng-ti, a pond at a temple for keeping fish alive. siá<sup>n</sup>-tí, city wall and moat (v. siá<sup>n</sup>). chhè-ti, a necessary.

hi<sup>n</sup>-tí, the cavity for water in a Chinese ink-stone.

huih-ti, the bloody pool in the Buddhist hell, for women who die in the first month after child-birth. tí-thâu hu-jín (T.), the goddess of child-birth.

tí-ông-iá, an idol of the surname Tí.

khui-ti, to make a pond. kút-tí, to dig a pond deeper than before. chheng-tí, to clean out a pond.

tí [R. level place at front of palace]. tan-tí, the red depressed area before the audience-hall of a palace; the depressed area just before the principal hall of the temple of Confucius or of Kwanti; the low flat piece of ground in front of a grave, where water runs off.

tí [R. thú, a hoe; to hoe or dig up; = col. tú]. tí-thâu, a hoe, used as a spade (s. pond). tí-thâu-pi<sup>n</sup>, the handle of a hoe. tí-thâu-chhui pùn-ki-hi, I am neither good at speaking nor at understanding difficult matters.

tí [R. slow; dilatory]. iên-tí, to procrastinate. tí-oán, id. tí-gi (R.), doubting and hesitating how to act, and therefore delaying.

khah-tí, past the time and thus useless; too late. hoán-hóe khah-tí, to repent too late. hóe-chiá ti, it will then be too late to change one's mind.

lêng-tí, to cause much trouble and annoyance (s. cut in pieces). gáu lêng-tí-lāng, constantly causing trouble and annoyance, as restless child, or as master who in many ways makes his employé's life miserable.

tí [R. to cut in small pieces]. lêng-tí, to kill a man by the slow torture of cutting him in pieces bit by bit (s. slow). lêng-tí-sí, id. lêng-tí koah-bah, id.

tí, = tih, to wish for; to desire. ài-tí-mih<sup>n</sup>, grasping; covetous.

tí [R. chhi, to hold with the hand; to grasp; to maintain; to assist]. tiâu-tí, on purpose; with fixed intention. bô-tiâu-tí, without previous intention; unpremeditated; unintentional, as an action.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tí, to be on one's guard; to take precautions against some one or some danger; intentionally. bô-tiu<sup>n</sup>-tí, when off one's guard; unintentionally; most unexpectedly. tióh-tiu<sup>n</sup>-tí, be on your guard! take care what you say or do. tí-hông, to be on one's guard; to take precautions.

ki-tí, memory; the mental power of memory. hó-ki-tí, having a good memory.

chhiá<sup>n</sup>-tí, to bring up, as children, till they are married or can take care of themselves.

知

蛛

知

池

墀

鋤

遲

猪

剗

持

hū-tí (C.), = A. hū-chhi, to support, as a feeble person or child in walking.

tí (C.), = A. tū, to take away.

tí [R. to sustain; to oppose; to be worth; to be a substitute for; = col. tú, tóe]. (C. tí, té).

tí-tng, to bear, as responsibility; to be able to oppose (v. tng). māi--chiá tí-tong, the seller bears the responsibility (v. tong).

tí-miā, to pay life for life. chiong-mih<sup>n</sup> tí-chi<sup>n</sup>, to compound for a debt by giving articles valued at so much. chiong-mih<sup>n</sup> tí-gūn, do., for debt up to the value of silver coins. tùi-tí, to square up accounts (as by money, goods, or other accounts) so that all is settled.

tí-giáh, to act as substitute; to make up a loss, as a security does; to be taken in place of something lost or spoiled. tí i-ê-giáh, to act in place of another temporarily in some small matter; said also in scolding a man for laziness, as if only filling up another's place temporarily without heart in the matter. tí-thóng (C. té-thóng), to be used, as a worse thing, to fill the place of a better, as temporary substitute (v. thóng). tí-sek (C. té-sek), put in the place of a better, as inferior or useless person or thing (v. sek).

tí-ték, to oppose; to withstand.

tí-tak (C.), = A. tú-tak, to oppose another's wishes; to object to or refuse to do a thing; to carp at a master's orders, &c.

tí [R. bottom, = col. tóe, tē]. tí-lí (r.), the original cause or beginning of a matter that has become involved, e.g. of a lawsuit or violent feud. kóng kàu tí-lí, to discuss thoroughly to the very bottom. kàu-thiet-tí, to the very bottom, as of a subject (v. thiet). bô-tí-chí, without limit; endless, as affair (v. chí). m-tsai tí-hē, to know nothing of the matter (v. hē).

tò-tí (R.), in fine; but after all —. tàu-tí, id.

chéng-tí-oa, an inexperienced fellow (lit. frog at bottom of well).

tí [R. wisdom]. tí-sek, wisdom. tí-sit (C.), id. tí-hūi, id. jín gī, lé tí sin, the five great virtues. it-jín tí, put-jū líong-jín gī, one man's wisdom is not so good as two men's consultation. tsái-tí líong-kiam, having both natural ability and acquired wisdom or skill. ū-tám-tí, wise and courageous, calm and self-possessed, as in danger or alarm, or as in managing some difficult business; esp. said when found in a young person or in some one where they would not have been expected.

kè-tí, a plot; a skilful scheme. hó-kè-tí, an artful plan or skilful scheme for getting at something in a roundabout way. siet-kè-tí, to plot; to scheme secretly.

tí [R. to place; to set; to purchase; to acquire]. tí hui<sup>n</sup>-oà<sup>n</sup>-toh, to set an incense table. tí-léng to set up the "hūn-sin" and hangings, &c., ready for the rites of "kong-tek."

an-tí, to set in order, as furniture, or as room for a person; to furnish with a lodging, as guest. an-tí-tit tú-hó, all nicely arranged, as furniture, &c. pè-tí, to arrange nicely, as things. an-pái pè-tí, to arrange in proper order, as furniture. pè-tí siu<sup>n</sup>-tsók, too crowded with furniture, as room.

kièn-tí, to acquire by purchase, as property. tí-hè, to buy goods.

tí sek-ka, having got a wife (v. ka).

tí [R. tài, to wear on the head; a surname; = col. tē], to wear on the head, as a cap, hat, or mask; to carry on the head, as a load. tí-bō, to wear a hat or cap (v. hō).

抵

底

智

置

戴

tí-lòeh, to wear a broad sun-hat. tí-téng, to wear an official button on the cap. tí-kè, to put on a sort of ornamental head-dress, as woman at marriage. tí báng-kun, to wear a sort of Ming head-dress, as actors. ài-tí hé-thoà<sup>n</sup>-láng, fond of being much flattered and made of much consequence (lit. wear a charcoal basket).

tí-phí, to become covered with a scab.

ū-téng-tí, to have official rank.

thâu-khak tí-thi<sup>n</sup>, kha táh-tōe, said of a man so poor as to have no house, and nothing but what is on his person. tí chit-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, táh chit-ê-tōe, living under the same heaven, and on the same earth. kha táh lín-ê-tōe, thâu tí lín-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, we are wholly supported by and dependent on you, and should obey you.

tí [R. to tend towards; to conduce or lead towards an effect; having a tendency or hazard]. tí-kàu, having the (hurtful) effect that —. tí-kàu àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, come to such a sad state. i-tí-kàu, having this result that — (very different from what was desired or expected). ok-chek sé-tí, resulting from accumulated guilt calling down Heaven's vengeance. put-tí, it will not have any injurious effect.

tí-miā<sup>n</sup> ê sé-tsái, a vital place. tí-miā<sup>n</sup> ê tái-chì, a matter of life and death. ōe-tí-béng, mortal, as wound or disease. tí-pi<sup>n</sup>, causing sickness; to grow unwell; to take a disease. chéng tí-khi-chhim, the disease deeply seated. chéng tí-lái-tāng, id.

tí-gi, to distrust; to have suspicions. tí-tiōng (esp. C.), to value much; to count of importance.

bô-i-tí, having no mind to it; without heart about it; working lazily or idly; feeling disheartened and unhappy, as when slighted or coldly received. ū-i-tí, catching the fancy, or pleasing the taste, as a beautiful thing.

tí-i, to apply the mind or heart. tí-sim tí-i, id. liú-sim tí-i, to apply one's mind earnestly and attentively. tsoan-sim tí-i, with one's whole mind and heart. tsoan-sim tí-chi, id.

tíau-tí, of set purpose.

tāng-tí, very heavy.

sa<sup>n</sup>-liên tí-toà, joined very closely together, as relations, or as things (v. toà).

kéng-tí, scenery; circumstances, state, or fortune, as of man or place.

tí [R. fine; elegant]. piau-tí (r.), pretty, only of persons. chéng-tí, minute, distinct, and beautiful, as workmanship; small and beautiful, as things.

tí [R. pi, to protect]. tí-im, to protect or assist, as by power or influence.

tí (R. tè), the calyx of a flower, esp. the solid part of the calyx where it joins the stalk, the receptacle of a flower; the thickened part of the calyx persistent on some fruits where they are attached to the stalk; the crown of the root, as of a turnip or radish. hoe-tí, the calyx of a flower. khī-tí, the persistent calyx of the persimmon, where it is attached to the stalk. khī-tí-bō, a skull-cap with a large button in the centre, worn by children. âng-khī hó-chiáh, tsui-láng khī-tí (or "túi-tá-lóh khī-tí"), you are now prosperous, but forget who first helped you on.

kun-tí, the origin of an affair; the antecedents of a man. tōe-tí, the origin of an affair, &c. (v. tóe).

hī-tí, the small lobe which half covers the hole of the ear. lê-tí, the cover or lid of a spiral shell-fish. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-tí, the soft depression in the middle of the breast. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tí-á-khut, id.

致

緻

底蒂

治

tī [R. to govern; to rule well; to heal]. tī-lí, to govern. chhū-tī (R.), to decide the case of a criminal, as mandarin. tī-tsōe, to punish crime, as mandarin. tī-hoat (r.), manner of government. put-lêng tī-ka, ien-lêng tī-kok, unable to rule his household, how can he rule his kingdom? tī-kúi, to rule demons. chiong-kúi tī-kúi, said of a powerful man ruling others (v. kúi). tī-siá, to rule evil spirits. tī-iau, id. tī-iau, to allay hunger (said in joke). tsúí ôe-tī-hé (water can rule fire), a quiet man will overcome a violent man in the end.

tī-pī<sup>n</sup>, to heal disease. i-tī, id. chit-hāng tī chit-hāng, one component of the dose affects one special symptom or ailment. tsoan-tī gán-khe, exclusively attending to eye diseases, as oculist.

chhông-tī, to harass or molest, not very severely; to make sport of. thông-tī (Cn.), id.

tông-tī, the reign of Tung-chih. tông-tī-kun, the emperor Tung-chih, son of Hien-fung, whom he succeeded in 1862. sùn-tī-kun, the emperor Shun-chih, founder of the Manchoo dynasty.

tī (R. id.), piles. goā-tī, external piles. lōe-tī, internal piles. tī-chhng, piles at the anus. chhoan-tiông-tī, fistula.

tī (R. id., = col. khī, thi). tī-koe, = khī-koe, the pheasant.

tī [R. sī, to be, this, = col. chí]. tī-sí, when? (v. sí). tī-chit-jit, what day? tī-chit-ê, what person? what thing? tī-tá-lôh, where? tī-tá-lôh chit-ê, which? (v. lôh).

tī [R. tit, to meet with; to value; to manage or attend to; = col. tát, ták]. bô-tī-tāi (esp. C.), it does not concern you (v. tāi, business).

tī [R. tsāi, to be in; in], in; at; in reference to; with regard to; sometimes an untranslatable particle of relation, which is very often omitted.

tiām-tī, quiet and staid in manner.

tī-teh, present; at home; alive. sa<sup>n</sup>-kap tī-teh, present with another. bô-tī-teh, not present; not at home; deceased. ták-ūi tī-teh, everywhere present. i tī-teh-chê, he is sitting inside or about the door doing nothing.

tī-chia, here. tī-chí-tau, id. tī-chit-tá, id. tī-hia, there. tī-hí-tau, id. tī-hit-tá, id. tī-hái-nih<sup>n</sup>, in the sea. tī-chhù-lāi, in the house. tī-chhù-téng, on the roof. kàu-tī hit-sí, come to that time.

tsāi-tī-goá, as to what depends on me; in my power.

siók-tī-goá, belongs to me. hāng-hók tī-i, to make submission to him. tek-tsōe tī-i, to offend against him.

kia<sup>n</sup>-sí tī-lâng, very very dirty.

khah-koái<sup>n</sup> tī-thi<sup>n</sup>, = khah-koái<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, higher than heaven (in this and some such phrases, C. sometimes sí). In many of these last phrases, "tī" is usually omitted.

tī [R. tē, the earth, = col. tōe]; also (Cn.) = hng, dry fields on ground that is not irrigated.

thé-tī-kong (C. thé-tē-kong), the god of the earth and of graves. thé-tī, id. chhân-thâu ê thé-tī-kong, his spirit supposed to reside in the fields; incense and paper are there burned to him. thé-tī-pô, the goddess of the earth, counted more gentle than thé-tī-kong. thé-tī-má, id. thé-tī-kong bó-ūi-hô, hé m-ká<sup>n</sup> ká-lâng, without his warrant a tiger dares not devour a man; an inferior would not venture to act so unless sure that his chief approves of it; thieves could not manage it, unless a servant or employé were in league with them. thé-tī-kong, thé-tī-pô; hē-lí-than, hē-lí-ô; kàu-sí, mih<sup>n</sup> to-bô, vowing oysters and razor-fish to the god and goddess of earth, but not paying the vow (said of asking a man's help and promising reward, but failing to give it). thé-tī-kong thé-tī-pô, id.

chhân-tī (Cn.), = chhân-hng, fields in general, both wet and dry. tī--ê (Cn.), from a dry field, as potatoes. tī-gê (Cn.), id.

tī [R. id.; C. tī; Cn. tū], chopsticks. tī-khia, one chopstick. gún-tī, silver or silver-tipped chopsticks. gê-tī, ivory chopsticks. oá<sup>n</sup>-tī, bowls and chopsticks. oá<sup>n</sup>-tīh-tī, bowls, small plates for condiments, and chopsticks. tī-lâng, a cylindrical vessel for holding chopsticks. kiáh-tī, to use chopsticks.

hé-tī, two iron rods used (like chopsticks) as tongs; sometimes connected by a chain, just to keep either from being lost, but still handled like chopsticks. hiu<sup>n</sup>-tī, sticks used (in the manner of chopsticks) for arranging incense on the incense vessel, instead of tongs.

tī [R. tē, a younger brother]. sió-tī, a younger brother. iét-tī-á, small queue at the side of a child's head.

hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, elder and younger brothers; brothers in general (v. hia<sup>n</sup>).

tī [R. small; young; tender], the eye of a potatoe, where the sprout comes out. han-tsú-tī, do., of a sweet potatoe.

tī — sek-tī, colour.

tī [R. kí, one's self, = col. kí]. ka-tī (C.), = A. ka-kí, one's self.

tī<sup>n</sup> [R. cheng, the tendon Achilles], (C. tē<sup>n</sup>). khā-āu-tī<sup>n</sup>, the heel. chhiú-āu-tī<sup>n</sup>, the elbow.

kak-tī<sup>n</sup>, a shoe-horn.

tī<sup>n</sup> — tùn-tī<sup>n</sup>, to make objections or excuses, as man wishing to avoid doing what he is ordered.

tī<sup>n</sup> (R. tiām), sweet; good-tasted (said of any sort of good taste, sometimes even of a thing that tastes well because it is sufficiently salt).

kam-tī<sup>n</sup>, sweet. tī<sup>n</sup> but-but, very sweet. bô-tī<sup>n</sup>-thâu, insipid; not good tasted.

tī<sup>n</sup>-kiám, chiáh bó-hiám, willing to take whatever comes to hand (v. kiám). tāng-khé tāng-tī<sup>n</sup>, sharing each other's fortunes (v. tāng).

khah-tī<sup>n</sup>-bit, sweeter than honey. tī<sup>n</sup> bit-bit, very sweet. ôe tī<sup>n</sup>-bit-bit, having very sweet words, as a flatterer, or as a polite man who means nothing by it, or as a deceiver. chhùi khah-tī<sup>n</sup>-bit, id. chhùi tī<sup>n</sup>, chih kút, mouth sweet and slippery; full of flattery and deceit. thng-tī<sup>n</sup> bit-tī<sup>n</sup>, very friendly and sweet (like sugar and honey), often with idea of deceit. kôe thng-tī<sup>n</sup> bit-tī<sup>n</sup>, id.

ē-tī<sup>n</sup>, a tree with small berries (barely edible); the leaves are infused as a sort of tea for drinking. ē-tī<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, id. ē-tī<sup>n</sup>-chí, its berries.

chiú-tī<sup>n</sup> (C.), fermented liquor not yet distilled, but ready for distillation.

tī<sup>n</sup> (R. tiên), to twine; to entwine; to entangle; to wind, as thread, or as the queue; to procrastinate or cause trouble by involving matters.

tī<sup>n</sup>-lái tī<sup>n</sup>-khì, causing much delay and annoyance. tī<sup>n</sup>-tī<sup>n</sup>, involved; causing delay; troublesome (v. tī<sup>n</sup>). kau-tī<sup>n</sup>, troublesome and involved. tak-tī<sup>n</sup> (C. tak-tē<sup>n</sup>), full of difficult and troublesome items, as an affair. esp. more and more difficulties turning up when a

痔
難 是
值 在

地

著

弟

稚

已
睜

甜

纏

seemed straight; very troublesome to deal with, as man who constantly raises new difficulties, for mere opposition, or in order to get more money.

tí<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, to entangle or embarrass, as an impediment, e.g. business or family that cannot be left. tí<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup> poá<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, all involved and entangled, as affair. bé-kiá<sup>n</sup> tí<sup>n</sup>-poá<sup>n</sup>, family acting as an encumbrance; keeping from work or travel. tí<sup>n</sup>-kha poá<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to be in the way, as ropes, furniture, &c.; to be a hindrance, encumbrance, or impediment; keeping from work, e.g. as family. tí<sup>n</sup>-kha tí<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to be such an encumbrance or impediment.

tí<sup>n</sup>-tê, to be in constant attendance, as body-servant or sick-nurse.

tí<sup>n</sup> kè-á-lê, to wind one's queue into a knot at the back of the head. tí<sup>n</sup> kè-á-bé, id. tí<sup>n</sup> thâu-tsang, to wind one's queue round the head.

tí<sup>n</sup>-kut-á-tsoá, a sort of sore on the toe (v. tsoá).

tí<sup>n</sup> — tsúi-tí<sup>n</sup> (esp. T.), = σ-thiu, the thin bamboo by which the bucket of a well-sweep is suspended.

tí<sup>n</sup> — poá<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup> lē-hùi, expenses of a journey. poá<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup>, id. (cf. chí<sup>n</sup>).

tí<sup>n</sup> (cf. ní<sup>n</sup>), (C. tē<sup>n</sup>), to feign; to make a pretence in one's appearance; (to make strong efforts).

tí<sup>n</sup>-sí, to feign death. tí<sup>n</sup>-chhin-chhiò, to smile or laugh as if pleased, when really angry. tí<sup>n</sup>-bô-lát, to feign want of strength. tí<sup>n</sup>-bô-khoá, intentionally look away so as not to see. tí<sup>n</sup> m-bat-i, to pretend not to know him. tí<sup>n</sup>-tien tí<sup>n</sup>-siáu, to feign madness. tí<sup>n</sup>-gōng, to act intentionally as if foolish, so as to put people off their guard, e.g. allow one's self to be cheated. tí<sup>n</sup>-gōng, sái pháí<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, to pass bad cash while pretending to be very simple. tí<sup>n</sup>-gōng, sái lám-gūn, id., passing bad silver coins.

tí<sup>n</sup>-lát, to strain or exert all one's strength, as for some heavy lift or great effort. tí<sup>n</sup>-sái, to make strong efforts to have a motion of the bowels. tí<sup>n</sup>-jiō, to try hard to pass water.

tí<sup>n</sup> [R. tēng = tēng, to look hard; to stare], (C. tē<sup>n</sup>). tí<sup>n</sup>-bák, to look hard with the eye, as in displeasure. bák-chiu tí<sup>n</sup>-toá-lúi, do., with eyes widely distended. bák-chiu tí<sup>n</sup>-toá-bóng-lúi, id. tí<sup>n</sup>-toá-lúi, id.

tí<sup>n</sup> [R. tēng, a surname; an ancient state], (C. tē<sup>n</sup>), a surname. tí<sup>n</sup> kok-sèng, Coxinga, the king of Formosa at the beginning of the Manchoo dynasty.

tí<sup>n</sup> (cf. tih<sup>n</sup>, nih<sup>n</sup>), (C. tē<sup>n</sup>), to grasp tightly; to squeeze and strain through a cloth. tí<sup>n</sup>-ân, to grasp tightly. tí<sup>n</sup>--sí, to strangle with the hand. tí<sup>n</sup> kûn-thâu-bú, to clench the fist. tí<sup>n</sup> kûn-thâu, id. bong so tí<sup>n</sup>, to touch too freely, as a woman, as indication of improper intentions. bô-lâng ôe-tí<sup>n</sup> goá-ê-chih, no one can keep me from saying what I please.

tí<sup>n</sup> (C. tē<sup>n</sup>), to knock the hoops firmly on a barrel. tí<sup>n</sup>-lòh-khì, id.

tí<sup>n</sup> (C. tē<sup>n</sup>). tháng-tí<sup>n</sup>, a wooden chisel-shaped instrument, used for driving the hoops firmly on a barrel, tub, &c.

tí<sup>n</sup>, to push against with the back; to prop up, as a door, with wood, &c., to keep it from opening. tí<sup>n</sup>-khui, to push off, as a boat, by pushing with one's back. tí<sup>n</sup>-mûg, to push a door with one's back, as to keep it from being opened.

sa<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup> (T.), to stand back to back, as two houses, or as two men who agree to help each other against all others. sa<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup> kha-chhng, id.

tí<sup>n</sup>, full; well-filled; crowded; flood-tide. tí<sup>n</sup> moá<sup>n</sup>-

moá<sup>n</sup>, very full, as with liquid. tí<sup>n</sup> lâu-lâu, full and overflowing, as liquid. tí<sup>n</sup> that-that, very full; choke-full, as with goods, furniture, dirt, &c. that-that-tí<sup>n</sup>, id.; crowded in great quantities. tí<sup>n</sup> phóng-phóng (T.), crowded, as with people; choke-full, as with dirt; very fat, as face.

f<sup>n</sup>-tí<sup>n</sup>, very fat and plump, as fat man; very round and full, as large fine well-grown grain of rice.

tóe-tí<sup>n</sup>, to fill quite full. úi kàu-tí<sup>n</sup>, to crowd round in great numbers, as spectators.

pá-tí<sup>n</sup>, stuffed full; fat, plump, and healthy, as well-formed limb. ke-hé pá-tí<sup>n</sup>, wealthy. thàn--khi pá-tí<sup>n</sup>, to make a great deal of money; to become wealthy. chiáh kàu pá-tí<sup>n</sup>, to gorge one's self quite full.

tsúi tí<sup>n</sup>, flood-tide; beginning of flood-tide; quite full of water; water quite full, as in any place or thing. tsúi tiám-tí<sup>n</sup>, tide quite full; slack-water at high tide; the very top of the tide.

tiá [R. father]. tia-tia, papa! á-tia, id. in-tia, his father; their father. in-tia-niû<sup>n</sup>, his father and mother.

peh-tia, father's elder brother; respectful title used to an old man.

ló-tia, a mandarin. lâu-tia (Cn. T.), id. si-ló-tia, a small mandarin who assists a Hien mandarin. si-lâu-tia (T. Cn.), id. chhiòh-ló-tia, said in derision of a petty military officer.

thài-tia, title used in speaking to the father of a Kujin or mandarin.

siu<sup>n</sup>-kang-tia, = Tiên goán-sòe, the god of actors (v. kang). pái-thâu-tia, an idol which is an attendant on Sêng-hông-iá; he wears the conical hat of a lictor, and is specially worshipped by the underlings of yamuns; he is very helpful for finding lost articles. ná<sup>n</sup> pái-thâu-tia, said of a man who is in the way, obstructing road or work.

tiá [R. teng, name of a tree]. ka-tia<sup>n</sup>, mangrove, and some similar shrubs that grow in water. hái-ka-tia<sup>n</sup>, a shrub that grows very abundantly below high-water mark. ka-tia<sup>n</sup>-phê, mangrove bark, used for dyeing red; brought from the Straits. ka-tia<sup>n</sup>-siap, id. ka-tia<sup>n</sup>-lê, a sort of shell-fish.

tiá (C.), = A. tien, to stumble. tia<sup>n</sup>--lòh-khì, to fall down, as person. tia<sup>n</sup>-lòh-hái, to fall into the sea. tia<sup>n</sup>-lòh-chí<sup>n</sup>, to fall into a well.

tiá [R. tēng, a legal petition or accusation; to present a petition; to make a statement], a written petition, accusation, or defence, sent in to a mandarin. kò-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a written accusation. sê-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a written defence or counter accusation. kong-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a public petition, accusation, or representation, by a public body or company, or by the inhabitants of a street or ward, &c. âng-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a petition or accusation on red paper, only used by the gentry or by strangers. hô-sek-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a joint petition by the parties, making up the quarrel (v. sek, "to rest"). tiah-sek-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter a petition withdrawing one's name from a case (v. sek, "to loose"). tsoán-táu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a petition entered on a day that is not one of the regular days. chhoán-tiá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. thoán-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter such a petition.

jip-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter a petition, accusation, defence, or complaint. chhui-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter an additional complaint, petition, or accusation, urging haste in the case which has already been raised by the first petition, but not yet taken effect; such an additional petition. pé-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to enter such an additional petition. thè-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to withdraw a petition or accusation. siu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to re-

爹

打

呈

鄭
捷

漲

ceive a petition, &c. kūi-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to present a petition to a mandarin by kneeling on the road.

kiáu-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to send in a report, statement, or petition to one's superior officer.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-bêng (r.), to state one's case distinctly in the document sent in to the mandarin.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-jī, to examine a pupil's writing, to see if the characters be well written.

tiā<sup>n</sup> [R. têng, a road; a stage; a surname; = col. têng, tiā<sup>n</sup>]. kang-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a piece of literary work, or of fine work, not rough manual work.

tiā<sup>n</sup> (R. têng), a paved court, as at a house or temple; sometimes not paved. goā-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an outer court; a court-yard. keng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a court or yard before a temple. chiòh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a court paved with stone. bông-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a level place just in front of a grave.

iām-tiā<sup>n</sup>, open salt-pans for making salt by evaporation. ng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a plot of ground used as a seed-bed where young rice is raised to be planted out. than-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a place where the shell-fish called "than" are bred and caught.

tiā<sup>n</sup> [R. têng, a tripod; a caldron], a broad round shallow vessel of iron or pot-metal (somewhat like a small segment of a globe), used as a rice-boiler and frying-pan. hé-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a rice-boiler (v. hé). hūi-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a large thin shallow earthen pot with a lid, used for cooking. tāng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a brass or copper boiler, as for opium. kim-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a metal tripod (or such vessel) used for burning idolatrous paper. jiét-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a heated frying-pan. phak-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an inverted frying-pan; name often given to a dome-shaped hill.

tsū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to cast rice-boilers. thuh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to stir food while frying. khau-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to scrape soot off a rice-boiler. khoe-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. lòh iū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to be thrown into a caldron of boiling oil or melted fat, an ancient punishment. khah-khiap lòh-iū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, more miserable than that; said of being very much tormented.

tiāu-tiā<sup>n</sup> (to hang up the rice-boiler), to have nothing to live upon. thāu-lē tiāu-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. kā-lí tiāu-tiā<sup>n</sup>, I will destroy your means of living.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, pot-metal. tiā<sup>n</sup>-chhòe, sort of bamboo scrubbing-brush or scraper, for cleaning rice-boilers. tiā<sup>n</sup>-thūn, soot scraped from rice-boilers. tiā<sup>n</sup>-phí, an incrustation of rice in a rice-boiler. chhàu-tiā<sup>n</sup>-lo, singed in a frying-pan or rice-boiler.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-kám, the lid of a rice-boiler. tiā<sup>n</sup>-koà, id. tiā<sup>n</sup>-kám-koà, id. tiā<sup>n</sup>-kám-phū, the cover of the rice-boiler rising of itself when the rice boils. pàng tiā<sup>n</sup>-kám-phū, to lend money (to gamblers) charging heavy interest three times each day, i.e. each time the rice boils. chioh tiā<sup>n</sup>-kám-phū, to borrow on such exorbitant usury.

tiā<sup>n</sup> (R. têng), an anchor. chit-keng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, one anchor. chit-mûng-tiā<sup>n</sup> (C. múi<sup>n</sup>), id. sòe-mûng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a small anchor. chhién-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an anchor with only one fluke. toā-tiā<sup>n</sup>, the principal anchor. hū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, the second anchor, used in stormy weather. sa<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a third anchor. bé-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an anchor at the stern. tiā<sup>n</sup>-soh, a cable for an anchor. tiā<sup>n</sup>-lê, a small rope for tying the anchor cable firmly. tiā<sup>n</sup>-chhia, the windlass for the anchor.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-sin, the shank of an anchor. tiā<sup>n</sup>-ta<sup>n</sup>, the cross-bar or stock of an anchor. tiā<sup>n</sup>-khí, the fluke of an anchor. tiā<sup>n</sup>-sak, id.

pha-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to anchor. phoa-tiā<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tak-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to anchor for a very short time. tok-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. kiā-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id., as when waiting for wind or tide. sàng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to carry out the anchor by a small boat to some little distance. soá-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. thoa-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to drag anchor. khì-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to lose the anchor. sit-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. tsām-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to cut away the anchor. tng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, the anchor cable snapped; to have one's resources cut off. thāu-lē tng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. kàu-chia, tng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, after this point will have no more to do with him.

khioh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to raise the anchor; to weigh anchor. khí-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. chhia-phāng khí-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to hoist the sail, and weigh anchor. chhia-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to raise the anchor by a windlass. liú-tiā<sup>n</sup>, do., by pulling the rope by hands only. sòe-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to fish for an anchor, or fish it up.

tang-tiā<sup>n</sup> (lit. East anchor), Chapel Island, outside the mouth of Amoy harbour. lām-tiā<sup>n</sup>, False Chapel Island, a good deal further south. pak-tiā<sup>n</sup>, Dodd Island, near the east end of Quemoy; the Chinese say that Amoy island is a ship, having these three islands as its anchors.

tiā<sup>n</sup> — phòe-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a secret let out, so that the whole affair is ruined.

tiā<sup>n</sup> — sái-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to use inflated threatening language; to bully. sái-sái tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id.

tiā<sup>n</sup> [R. tién, a sort of dye]. chhi<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a sort of dye for blue, &c.

tiā<sup>n</sup> [R. têng, to fix; to settle; fixed; steady], steady; motionless; earnest-money.

pit-tiā<sup>n</sup>, I think it certainly is —.

hān-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to limit, as a fixed time for payment. gí-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to give judgment.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, fixed; settled; firm, as plan, purpose, or arrangement. bô-tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, not yet fixed or determined, as plan, purpose, or settlement of affair; perhaps I will, perhaps not; unsteady, as person. bô-tiā<sup>n</sup> bô-tiòh, id.; very unsteady or unsettled, as person or purpose. sim bô-tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, mind not steady; very fickle or slightly deranged. sim-thāu m-tiā<sup>n</sup>, slightly deranged; out of one's mind. tsū-i bô-tiā<sup>n</sup>, fickle in purpose; purpose not fixed.

hoā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to keep one's mind at ease; not afraid. sim-thāu hoā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, heart tranquil, or set determinedly to a thing. sim-koā<sup>n</sup> hoā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. hoā<sup>n</sup>-khí-tiā<sup>n</sup>, steady it, as by pressing on it with the hand.

pêng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, at peace and quiet, as country formerly disturbed. pi<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-tek-tiā<sup>n</sup>, not behaving well, as an idle boy playing about; not correct in conduct, as woman whose behaviour raises suspicions about her character.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-tsòe, made to order. tiā<sup>n</sup>-chhia, made to order, as shoes or stockings.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup> un--teh, constantly and strongly set on low vices.

tsū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to fix by divine decree or fate. thi<sup>n</sup> tsū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, Heaven decrees; decreed by Heaven. in-iên tsū-tiā<sup>n</sup>, marriages decreed by Heaven. tsū á-bē-tiā<sup>n</sup>, not yet decreed by Heaven.

tiā<sup>n</sup>-gûn, earnest-money. tiā<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. tsòe-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to be an earnest, as money. sàng-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to give the earnest-money. kau-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. teh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to give a small sum at the first betrothal. siu-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to receive or accept earnest-money, as in closing a bargain. thòeh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, id. chiáh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to have a feast (both sides together) when the money and presents have all been given over, shortly before the marriage, but a good while after the betrothal. chiáh toā-tiā<sup>n</sup>, do., when the gifts and feast are very great, as in the case of wealthy persons. siau-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to appropriate the earnest-money as a fine when the other party does not fulfil the

程庭

日菲

綻靛定

砥碇

bargain. tiā<sup>n</sup> hē--i siau--khì, to forfeit the earnest money to him, by not fulfilling the agreement.

tiā<sup>n</sup> [same as previous word? cf. tiām]. tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, still; quiet; motionless; be quiet! also a sort of adverbial particle at the end of a sentence, having the sense of "only," or of "and that is all."

tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>-sim, not speaking or doing anything (v. sim).

sí-mŭng chē-tiā<sup>n</sup>, quiet, steady, and regular, with moderate gains, as a trade, or as a yamun where there is not much money to be made.

nā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, = tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, only, and that is all; said only at the end of a sentence. hé sa<sup>n</sup>-kau, chit-pái tiā<sup>n</sup> (tigers pair only once), said of finding a man so deceitful or dangerous in some affair that one will never have anything to do with him again.

tiā<sup>n</sup> (R. tēng), an ingot, as of gold or silver; the classifier is "chiah," or "khò."

kim-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an ingot of gold, usually about 4 oz.; a bundle of idolatrous paper representing gold. chí-kim-tiā<sup>n</sup>, a medicinal compound made in the shape of a gold ingot.

gūn-tiā<sup>n</sup>, an ingot of silver, usually about 30 oz.; wooden pegs, shaped like ingots, used for fastening down a coffin-lid. jip gūn-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to close a coffin-lid with these pegs. gūn-tiā<sup>n</sup>-khang, holes in the coffin for these pegs. gūn-tiā<sup>n</sup>-hoān, having the shape of a silver ingot or hour-glass.

tiah (R. tek), to pluck; to pick. tiah-hoe, to pluck a flower. tiah ké-chí, to pluck fruit. tiah bin-mŭng, to pluck out the hair of the face, one by one.

tiah-in, to take away the official seals from a dismissed mandarin.

toa<sup>n</sup>-tiah, to choose one particular article or person out of many; to take up one particular matter out of many to discuss by itself, as in an involved affair; said also when the husband has no relatives (or almost none) for the bride to take care of or serve. toa<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup> tiah, to choose one out of many. tiah-hì, to select a play to be acted. tiah-chhut, id. tiah-miā<sup>n</sup> tiah-si<sup>n</sup>, to speak of or to a person simply by his surname and name, without adding any polite designation. tiah i-ê-miā<sup>n</sup>, to call out his name, as in a crowd.

tiah-sek, to enter a petition withdrawing one's name from an action (v. sek).

thâu-bé tiah, moored stem and stern.

tiah-ngoeh, pincers; nippers. tiah-ngēh (T.), id. tiah-ní<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. tiah-á, pincers, esp. small ones. chhùi-chhiu tiah-á (C.), small pincers for the beard.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiah, the cross piece at the end of the handle of an oar.

phāng-bé-tiah, a sort of secret slang.

tiáh (R. tēk), to buy grain, pease, or beans. tiáh-jip-khì, id. thiò-tiáh, to sell and buy do. chhái-tiáh, to go or send and purchase grain or pulse from many places where it is produced. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-tiáh, to buy grain, &c., and store it up for a higher price. tún-tiáh, id. tiáh-bí, to buy rice. tiáh-béh, to buy wheat or barley. tiáh-tāu, to buy pease or beans.

tiáh — poa<sup>n</sup>-tiáh, to lengthen out a dispute or discussion, just saying the same thing over and over.

tiam, to indent by pressure; to hurt, as the foot on gravel; to smart, as the eye; to mend, as by work in which an awl is used.

tiam-hūn, to make an indentation; a mark made by indenting. tiam-chhiú, to have the hand indented, as by something sharp or heavy. tiam-kha, to indent the foot, as a small stone trod upon. chē tiam--tióh, to hurt one's self by sitting on something hard and uneven.

bák-chiu tiam, the eye smarting, as with something getting into it.

tiam-ôe, to mend the soles of shoes; to cobble. tiam phē-ôe, to mend leather shoes; said also in joke of a mosquito. tiam si-tè, to mend the soles and heels of both shoes. thàu-tiam, to put on entire soles from toe to heel.

tiám, a block for cutting anything upon; an anvil.

chhâ-tiam, a wooden block for cutting things upon. tsoá-tiam, a block for cutting paper on; a thick packet of idolatrous paper for burning. to-tiam, a block for cutting meat or vegetables. bah-tiam, a block for cutting meat on. ti-tiam, a block used as a counter for exposing pork for sale.

chiú<sup>n</sup>-tiam, an oar-pin (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). lé-tiam, the pivot or pin on which a sculling-oar works.

tiam-táu (T.), small upright supports in a roof.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-tiam, in the form of a triangle, as three places or things.

thih-tiam, an anvil. tiò-á-tiam, an anvil for making fish-hooks.

tiám [R. tím, to sink, = eol. thiám], to sink. tiám-lòh-tsúi, to sink in water. tiám--lòh-khì, id. jih-tiám, to press down in water, as person or animal to be drowned; to press down in brine, as meat to be pickled.

tiám-lāu, to leak seriously, as boat.

kek-tiám, to cut into the block, in engraving, so as to print white on a black ground. tiám--ê, firmly fixed in the ground, as a rock; cut in, as characters on a block.

tiám-tēng, firmly rooted, as tree; strongly made, as furniture; having much wealth (v. tēng). ū-tiám-tóe, having some considerable amount of money or property.

toā-tiám (T.), = A. toā-tím, exceedingly.

tiám (C.) tiám-chēng, = A. thiám-chēng, quiet in taste and habits.

tiám (R. id.), a dot; a speck; a small drop; a very small quantity; a dot written as a comma or stop; a dot used as one of the strokes in writing a character; to put a small drop on a place; to touch lightly with a medicine; to punctuate; to go over a list marking particular names or items with a dot; (to warn or give information); to light, as a lamp, or as incense; (to strike gently); an hour (foreign); one-third of a day's work; an instrument on which the watches are struck at a yamun, five strokes being given at each watch, except the first and last; one-fifth part of a watch, i.e. about twenty-four minutes.

hoe-tiám, spotted with small spots. pan-tiám, spotted; slightly pock-marked (v. pan). kim-tiám, bright spangles, often worked on the toes of shoes. chit-tiám, a dot, in writing characters. sè kúi-tiám, how many dots on your dice? as second players. tau-tiám, a sort of gambling. tau kúi-tiám, id.

chit-tiám-ê, a speck of black. chit-tiám-tsúi, a small drop of water. hē-tiám, a small drop of rain. lóng-bô-hē-tiám, not a drop of rain. tŭng-tiám-hong, not a breath of wind.

phùn-tiám, to splash with water, dirt, &c.; to make a small present (v. phùn).

chit-tiám-á, a slight degree of, as of some feeling,

粘

鑽 沉

點

錠

摘

秤
雅

emotion, or quality, especially on the good side. khah-chiá<sup>n</sup> tiám-á, somewhat insipid. chit-tiám-á khah-hó, slightly better. chit-tiám-á ê i-sù, a slight purpose or intention towards good. tháu chit-tiám hūn-khì, to give vent to one's anger. poàn-tiám put-iū-jin, nothing is from man (but all from fate, "bēng," q.v.) bō-poà<sup>n</sup>-tiám-liōng, passionate or overbearing. ū chit-tiám-liōng, kind and forbearing. chit-tiám liōng-sim, with a good or conscientious feeling. ū chit-tiám-sim, to have a purpose or intention towards something good.

tiám-sim, lunch or any small light meal out of the regular series of meals, esp. of biscuits, cakes, cold food, &c. chiáh tiám-sim, to take lunch or any slight refreshment. bōe-tiám--tit sim, can't get a bite, as in great haste.

chhoàng-tiám, beautiful, as dress or persons.

tiám-tsúí, to take soundings with a bamboo pole. tiám-pé, to drive two or three nails into a coffin, as a graduate or mandarin does for a fee. tiám i--ê huì-lē, to strike him with the point of the finger in some part that causes great pain, weakness, or sickness. tiám bé-tōe, to shoe a horse.

tō-tiám, a comma or other stop in punctuation, marked by a single dot.

tiám-chheh, to punctuate books. tiám-tsū (Cn.), id. tiám-kù, to punctuate (v. kù). tiám-hiét, to point out the exact place and position for a grave, after the site has been chosen. tiám-tan, to apply a small quantity of medicine to a sore. tiám-kì, to put medicine on a mole, so as to cure it. tiám-gán, to touch the eyes of an idol with the consecrated paint called sin-se. tiám-tsú, to consecrate an ancestral tablet by dotting it with red.

tiám-miá<sup>n</sup>, to mark the names on a roll, e.g. those who are present or absent. tiám-báu, to mark the names on a roll, as of troops, or of subordinates in a yamun. tiám-peng, to mark the roll of soldiers. tiám-hoàn, to mark the roll of prisoners.

tiám-jip hān-lim, to choose into the Imperial Academy. khim-tiám--ê, appointed by imperial command, as mandarins.

kiám-tiám, to make a list or inventory; to examine circumstances carefully (v. kiám). tiám-hè, to take an inventory. tiám khan-thâu, to take a list of pledges in pawn-shop.

tiám-tin, cautious; careful in managing matters. tiám-tiám-kim, careful in business; very knowing, so as to be hard to cheat.

chi-tiám, to give information or private advice. tiám-phoá, to give a hint to a man so that he may understand, esp. of some secret plot or unseen danger; to explain something difficult to understand, e.g. a difficult passage in a book. tiám-hoà, to instruct, as a spirit does in a dream, &c. tiám-chhí<sup>n</sup>, to warn of a plot or secret danger, as a friend by a hint, or as a god by a dream. tiám-tuh, to warn by a hint, or by private information (v. tuh). tiám-kí, to give secret information, as by a hint or sign which others do not understand.

tiám-teng, to light a lamp (v. teng). tiám-cheh, to light a candle. tiám-liám, to light many, as lamps or candles. tiám-iū, to light an oil lamp, as opposed to a candle. goá ká-lí tiám-iū, I will remember this against you (v. iū). tiám-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to light a stick of incense.

chit-tiám-cheng, one o'clock. nng-tiám-cheng, two o'clock, &c. nng-tiám-cheng kú, two hours' time; two hours long. nng-tiám-kú (r.), id. kú-tiám-cheng, what o'clock?

chit-tiám-kang, one-third part of a day's work, as divided into three parts by breakfast and dinner. chit-tiám-sit, id. chit-jit sa<sup>n</sup>-tiám, one day's work is divided into three parts called "tiám." khāng chit-tiám-kang, to lose or intermit one third part of a day's work.

phah-tiám, to beat the watch at a yamun, three strokes at the first and last watch, five strokes at the others. kòng-tiám, id. kòng-kú-tiám, how many strokes in beating the watch? jī-ki<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-tiám, at the third division of the second watch. jī-ki<sup>n</sup> kú-tiám, at which division of the second watch? it-ki<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-tiám kú; gē-ki<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-tiám chí, the first and fifth watches have only three strokes.

tiám-hoà<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), very lately; just lately.

tiám — tiám-chhái, = kiám-chhái, perhaps.

tiám (R. id.), (Cn. tūi<sup>n</sup>; T. tài<sup>n</sup>), a shop. tiám-thâu, id. chit-khām-tiám, one shop. tiám-hē, a shopkeeper (s. stay). tiám-tiēn, the tenant of a shop. tiám-kheh, id. tiám-tsú, the owner of a shop. tiám-tsū-lāng, the keeper of an inn or eating-house. tiám-kháu, the front of a shop at the door. tiám-thang-pang, the movable boards of a shop-front. phah-tiám-bin--ê, a beggar who sings and knocks at each shop-door for a cash. tiám-hō, name of shop or small firm. tiám tó, bankrupt, as shopkeeper.

khui-tiám, to open a shop; to keep a shop. hioh-tiám, to stay a night or so at an inn. tién-tiám, to mortgage a shop. bō-sia, put-sēng-tiám, without giving credit a shop will not prosper (v. sia).

kheh-tiám, an inn. png-tiám, an eating-house (v. png). png-tiám-kong, keeper of eating-house, especially if old. bí-tiám, a shop for selling rice. tng-tiám, a pawn-shop. pán-tiám, a coffin-shop. pau-thâu-tiám, a shop for selling dried fruits, &c., which sells only entire bags of them. thih-á-tiám, shop for old metal articles. chí<sup>n</sup>-tiám, a money-changer's shop. chí<sup>n</sup>-kú-á-tiám, id. chí<sup>n</sup>-tiám ê-lāng, a money-changer. chiú-tiám, a shop for spirits, &c.

tiám — tiám-bī, to dive, as for getting up something.

tiám, to stay; to dwell; to harbour; to hide one's self. tiám-ti-hia, lives there. tiám-ńg, to stay in the shade.

tiám-chhát, to harbour robbers or pirates. tiám-hé, to have tigers usually living there.

tiám-hong, to take shelter from the wind. tiám-hē, to take shelter from the rain. tiám-bát-bát, to hide very secretly so as to keep out of danger. tsáu-khi-tiám, to escape and hide from danger. phiah-khi-tiám, to keep out of harm, trouble, or danger, by keeping out of the way. bih-khi-tiám, id. kiu-thâu-tiám, to keep out of the way, so as to avoid responsibility. kiu-kha-tiám, id.

tiám [R. to lay down; to sink into; to remunerate; to pay up; to place under; a cushion]; a cushion for a seat; to make up a deficiency, as in a subscription or as a balance in a friend's account; to plant, as seeds; to lay down, as stepping-stones; to pickle with dry salt.

tiám--khí-lāi, to raise higher by something put below, as the foot of a table.

i-tiám, a chair-cushion. i-jiók-tiám, a long cushion for seat and back of chair. phē-tiám, leather cushion for scat. pài-tiām, cushion for kneeling upon at worship.

店

沉

墊

tiām hoe-chí, to plant flower seeds.

tiām-pé, to make up a deficiency, as in a subscription or in another man's accounts. pê-tiām, do., for a man for whom we stand security. seng-tiām, to lend some money to make up a deficiency. tiām-chí, to pay some cash to make up another's deficiency.

tiām-iām, to pickle with a large quantity of salt.

tiām-pang, the boards forming the floor of a small boat. tiām-hiá, the timbers lying across a boat's keel, on which these boards rest. tiām-ún, the horizontal bead running round the outside of a boat about water-mark.

tiām (R. thiām), very quiet and staid in manner, while going on quietly with one's work, or even while taking active measures. kek-tiām, to put on the appearance of being very quiet, for some special purpose. tiām-tiām, still! be quiet! tiām-chêng, quiet; not fond of gaiety or amusements. tiām-ti, staid and quiet in manner. tiām-tsâi, staid quiet manner. tiām-tiok, calm, thoughtful, and self-possessed (v. tiok). tiām-tsât, id.; cautious and self-possessed. tiām-tiām-á kiá, to walk along very leisurely.

tsúi tiām-ti, slack water at high-water. tiām-hong, no wind. tiām-hoang chí-nng (T.), wind and waves still.

tiām (?), to eat single grains of rice, pulse, &c. (C. ?)

tian, tiân, tián, tiān; better tien, tiên, tién, tiēn (q.v.)

tiang — tiang-tiang-háu, sound of brass making a ringing sound.

tiang (C.), = A. tióng (R.), to open or spread out. koái-tiang, = A. koái-chiang, obstinate in dispute; determined to have one's own way.

tiàng (Cn.) sī-tiàng, = A. sīm-mih<sup>n</sup>-láng, what man? who?

tiàng (C.), = A. tióng (R.), long.

tiàng (C.), = A. tióng (R.), old; long.

tiàng (C.), = A. tiòng, swollen. tiàng-hong put-gí, a very fatal disease (v. tiòng).

tiàng (C.), = A. tiòng (R.), flooded.

tiàng (C.), = A. tióng (R.), a measure of ten feet. tiàng-hu, husband; &c. &c.

tiàng (C.), = A. tióng, to intrust, &c.

tiàng (C.), = A. tióng, an instrument for beating criminals, &c.; also (R.), a staff. khok-song-tiàng, = A. khok-san-tiòng, a staff carried by a widower at the funeral of his wife.

tiap — tiap-á-kú, for a moment; a very short time. chit-tiap-á-kú, id.

tiap-á-hng, a short way off. tiap-á-toā, not very large. khah-toā tiap-á, a little larger (cf. tiám).

tiáp [R. tiét, to stumble]. tiáp-tá i-seng, a doctor for falls and wounds, = tiét-tá<sup>n</sup> i-seng.

tiáp — hit-tiáp, then. chit-tiáp, now; immediately. thàn-chit-tiáp, to improve the present moment; this very moment.

tiáp [R. to pile up; to repeat; = col. tháh]. têng-tiáp, repeating over and over in writing; tautological. têng-têng tiáp-tiáp, piled up or crowded in large quantities, e.g. as crowded houses or graves; much repetition and tautology in writing. tiáp-ji, to repeat a word, as in poetry; to write two words in the space where there should be only one, as in a legal document with fixed spaces for the words.

siap-tiáp, closely packed together; well fitted together and neatly put up, so as to take up little room.

tiáp-tiáp-lâi (Cn.), coming over and over again (cf. táuh).

si-gē-tiáp (Cn.), four or five times.

tiáp — tá<sup>n</sup>-tiáp, to mend; to treat medically; to heal or cure.

tiáp — tô-tiáp, to annoy; to tease; to give trouble, esp. as a troublesome child does to its parents or relations; to maltreat, as a woman does to a female slave; to annoy a man by constantly asking him to do small bits of work, or by asking him over and over to do what he is unwilling to do, till he at last does it (though unwilling) to get rid of the annoyance. tô-tô tiáp-tiáp, id.

tiáp [R. a butterfly, = col. iáh]. hē-tiáp, a hinge, hinges, of the foreign form; often erroneously written hē-tiáp. kim-si hē-tiáp, name of a beautiful flower like a butterfly.

tiáp [R. a tablet for writing upon; a certificate or diploma], a slip of yellow paper with a prayer on it, used by burning. chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>-tiáp, one such paper prayer. sio-tiáp, to burn a paper prayer. pàng-tiáp, id. tiáp-bûn, a written prayer burned, as before Sêng-hông-íá.

tō-tiáp, the certificate of a regularly appointed Buddhist priest.

tiát, better tiét (q.v.)

tiau (R. id.), to carve, as figures. tiau-tok, to rule and keep in order, as relatives (v. tok). tiau-tok, to carve and polish, as a gem. tiau-khek, to carve, as wood (v. khek). tiau-pút, to carve images. tiau ang-á, to carve toy figures. hiú-bók put-khó-tiau, rotten wood cannot be carved.

tiau-keng sai-hū, a man who manufactures bows (s. bend).

tiau-hoe, to dress flowering shrubs into various fanciful shapes. tiau hoe-bák, id. tiau chhiú-bák, to dwarf trees, and make them take curious shapes.

tiau, to bend, esp. downwards. tiau--lôh-lâi, to bend down, as a branch. tiau-teh, to hold down tightly, as a branch. tiau-oai, to tie so as to make crooked, as a tree. tiau lêng-hê, to hold a lobster on a tightly stretched string; to tie up a thief or prisoner so tight as to be very painful.

tiau (R. id.) tiau-chhú, a marten. tiau-chhú phê, marten's fur. tiau-phê, id. tiau-chhú-bô, a cap made with marten's fur.

tiau (R. id.), to wither, as a plant almost dying. tiau-thâu, even the root dried up and withered, as of plant just about dead.

tiau [R. restless; perverse; outrageous; = col. thiau]. tiau-bân, = thiau-bân, obstinately disobedient to orders, or refusing to pay money due.

tiau — pàng-tiau, to threaten; to intimidate. pàng-tiau pàng-túg, id.

tiau [R. morning; the character differs only by a tonal mark from "tiâu," a dynasty, to have audience]. tiau-sék (R.), morning and evening (v. sék). ngé-tiau-chiò, Taoist rites of "chiò" for five days. sam-tiau-chiò, do. for three days. sam-tiau, three days (said of the rites performed three days after the birth of

恬

墊

甚

霎

跌

疊

帶

葉

雕

貂

凋

刁

朝

a child). tsòe-sam-tiau, to give rice to friends who call at that time. tsòe tsáp-it-tiau, to do so at rites eleven days after the birth.

tiau — tiau-tat, neat and neatly put on, as dress. tiau-tah, id.

tiau [R. tiâu, to harmonize; to restore peace; to adjust; to regulate; to compound; a tune; = col. tiâu]. tiau-hô, mixed well together in proper proportions; harmonious (v. hó).

tiâu [R. to harmonize; to adjust, &c.; = col. tiau, tiâu]. hong tiâu, ú sùn, wind and rain suitable in season and quantity.

tiâu [R. liâu, a hut]. bé-tiâu, a stable. gū-tiâu, a cow-house; a cow-pen. iú<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, a sheepfold. ti-tiâu, a pig-sty. ti-tiâu-kong, the guardian spirit of the pig-sty.

tiâu, firmly tied, glued, or fastened in any way; inveterate, as a bad habit; fast, as a colour. tiâu-sim, fixed in the mind. ám-hō tiâu-mi<sup>n</sup>, late rain lasts through the night. tiâu a-phien, enslaved to opium, and unable to give it up. tiâu-hun, id. chiáh-tiâu, id.

khia-tit-tiâu, to stand steadily; able to hold one's own. tòng-tit-tiâu, to oppose effectually.

têng-tiâu, to nail firm. kat-tiâu, to tie firm, as a knot. pák-tiâu, tied firmly or bound fast, as a person or thing. tsáh-tiâu, to ward off effectively, as by shield or door. ki-tiâu-tiâu, to remember perfectly. kè-tiâu-tiâu, to guard or watch carefully and safely. kê tiâu-tiâu, gummed or pasted firmly.

bōe-tiâu, not firmly fastened, tied, pasted, &c.; will not hold. bōe-tiâu-bák, not suitable for writing on; will not take on the ink, as paper that is oily, greasy, or too coarse. kê-bōe-tiâu, pasted so ill that it does not stick. ní<sup>n</sup>-bōe-tiâu, the dye not fast. tng-bōe-tiâu, cannot bear it; it cannot be endured. lún-bōe-tiâu, unable to bear or forbear.

kun-ki tiâu-tsòng, said of a child having such a good horoscope that it will be healthy and prosperous.

tiâu — tiâu-kè-i, on purpose. tiâu-i-kè, id. tiâu-ti, id. tiâu-tí, id. (v. tí). tiâu-kang, deliberate; for the special purpose, as an act. tiâu-chhoân--ê, specially selected. tiâu-kè, to hire specially. tiâu-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, id. tiâu-lái, having come of set purpose for the special object. tiâu-kang lái, id.

tiâu [R. a branch; a thin strip; anything long and slender; = col. liâu], an item; a particular; classifier of long narrow things, as roads, ropes, rivers, sweet-potatoes, sticks of ink; also of laws, negotiations, affairs, stipulations, accounts, lives, souls, breaths (khui); also sometimes of masts; and (C. Cn.) of trowsers.

tiâu-kui, stipulations; regulations. tiâu-khoán, regulations, particulars, or articles of an agreement. tiâu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. tiâu-toá<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. toá<sup>n</sup>).

tiâu-tit, adjusted; honest (v. tit).

tiâu-bák, an account; a list of articles. siâu-tiâu, accounts, as unpaid (v. siâu). chit-tiâu-chí<sup>n</sup>, an item of cash in an account, to be paid to or collected from one person.

chit-tiâu-sū, one whole affair from beginning to end. chêng-lí chit-tiâu, bō-nng-tiâu, there is only one correct statement and solution of the question, and on discussion it must be plain to all. kúi-ná<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-tiâu ká-lá tsòe-chit-tui, many troublesome matters come on one at once.

bák-tiâu, a stick of ink. gún-tsu-tiâu, a stick of red ink. kim-tiâu, a bar of gold, about ten ounces. mí<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, long thin rolls of raw cotton (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). mí<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, thin narrow strips of dough (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). bi-hún-tiâu, vermicelli made from rice-flour. tín-tiâu, rattan sticks or fascis carried before a mandarin. chi<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, a rug. liú-tiâu-thang, a window made with long thin slips of wood (v. liú). hoat-tiâu, a main-spring.

hiu<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, long slips of yellow paper giving notice of incense processions; a long incense stick. nng-tiâu-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a fore-and-aft schooner.

hong-tiâu, long strips of red paper, pasted by authority of mandarin on shops, vessels, &c., e.g. when confiscated, or when taken temporary possession of for military purposes; also used for pasting up mandarin's luggage, or boxes of government treasure when transmitted; said also of strips used for sealing up boxes of treasure sent by hong. pang-tiâu, long strips of paper on a house temporarily occupied by a mandarin, telling his style and titles; also (T. Cn.) = hong-tiâu. kim-tiâu, public prohibitions on long strips of paper, issued by mandarins. tsám-tiâu, inscription stating the crime for which a man is put to death. pò-tiâu, document informing a man that he has got a degree or mandarin title.

chhiah tiâu-tiâu, quite naked.

chit-tiâu ná<sup>n</sup> han-tsú, a stupid-looking fellow (lit. like a potato!).

tiâu [R. id.; differing only by a tonal mark from "tiau," morning], a dynasty; to have an audience of a sovereign in the audience-hall.

tiâu-têng, the imperial audience-hall, where the council meets; the imperial court; said also of the emperor himself in his public character. tiâu-sin, ministers of state. tiâu-lái-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tiâu-hók, court dress worn by mandarins at audience. tiâu-i (r.), id. tiâu-tsu, a necklace worn at audience.

chê-tiâu, to hold an audience. thê-tiâu, to retire from the audience-hall, as the sovereign does. kiên-tiâu, to attend the daily audience at the palace. jip-tiâu, to enter the audience-hall, as mandarins. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tiâu, id. tiâu-ki<sup>n</sup>, to have an audience of the sovereign. tiâu-pài, id. tiâu-kun, id. tiâu thien-tsú, to have an audience of the emperor. tiâu-kòng, to present tribute in person.

tiâu-tê, a dynasty. oá<sup>n</sup> tiâu-tê, to change the dynasty. tiâu-tê-bé, end of a dynasty; said of calamities and crimes abounding, as signs of change of dynasty. kok-tiâu-bé, id. kok-tiâu, the reigning dynasty. chheng-tiâu, the Manchoo dynasty. bêng-tiâu, the Ming dynasty. goân-tiâu, the Mongol or Yuen dynasty. tóng-tiâu, the Tang dynasty, &c.

káu-tiâu, a part of a room screened off from the rest by white curtains or hangings, containing the "hün-sin," for the ceremonies of "kong-tek." kat káu-tiâu, to put up these curtains.

tiâu-lâm (R.), facing the south, as a grave. bân-san tiâu-tui, the mountains forming an amphitheatre behind a grave, as in a very good site. sù-súi lái-tiâu, water from four quarters seeming to meet in front of a grave. bân-súi tiâu-tang, a place far to the east where the tide always flows towards the east, so that vessels can hardly come back; probably the stream of Japan. lióng-kiok tiâu-thien, fallen on one's back, with feet turned up towards the sky.

tiâu-sien (R.), Corea.

tiâu (R. id.), to summon; to cite a person. tiâu-ming, to summon and examine. tiâu-kiá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to

調

寮

特

條

朝

召

summon to the capital. tiàu-peng, to summon soldiers from other stations. tiàu-hoan, to order up a criminal to be tried. tiàu-toa, a document issued by a mandarin telling actors what play to perform, or calling priests to assist at an eclipse, &c.

tiàu — tiàu-ka, to make a smooth surface with glue or size, as on cloth, to make it sell well; or on an old hat, to make it look good. tiàu ka-tsúi, id.

tiàu — toan-tiàu, to ask an exorbitant price or wages for what cannot be dispensed with (v. toan). khiàu-tiàu, id. khiàu-tiàu, id.

tiàu [R. distant]. tiàu-oán, very distant, as places. lê-tê tiàu-oán, road or journey very long.

tiàu (T.) tiàu-káu, = A. thiàu-káu, set of three dice in gambling (v. káu).

tiàu [R. to hang; some divide it into two words; the one for hanging a man, and for idolatrous rites; the other for all the other phrases], to hang up or suspend, hanging freely (but "kúi" is to suspend on a wall); to make certain offerings to the dead, serving as a sort of condolence with, or compliment to the relatives.

koà-tiàu sim-koa, anxious and sad, as about an absent friend.

tiàu-lâm, to beat against the south wind in sailing south (v. lâm).

tiàu-kak, slanting, as a thing folded or drawn so (v. kak). tiàu-oai, hung up off the perpendicular. tiàu-ku, having one flap too much drawn up, as a dress. tiàu-koh, arm of dress too tight at the armpit.

bák-chiu chhâ-chhâ tiàu-tiàu, eyes fixed and staring upwards, as about to die. bák-chiu tiàu-tiàu, id.

tiàu-koe, large Shanghai fowls.

tiàu-àn, to call up the papers of a case appealed from a lower court.

chit-tiàu-chí (r.), a string of a thousand cash. it-tiàu-chhién, id. (said in imitation of mandarin).

tiàu-ø, a well-sweep (v. ø). tiàu-o (C.), id. tiàu-tháng, a hanging bucket, as for drawing water (v. tháng). tiàu-kiò, a draw-bridge. tiàu-thui, a hanging ladder, as of ropes, e.g. on a vessel. tiàu-chhng, a hammock. tiàu-kià, a mirror suspended on a frame or wall. tiàu-tsàng, the perpendicular threads of a loom (v. tsàng). tiàu-bah poáh-sí-niau, hanging meat makes the cat fall and be killed (said of tantalizing people).

tò-tiàu, to turn upside down, as a book; tied with feet up and head down. tò-thâu-tiàu, id.; placed in the opposite direction to what is right.

toà-tiàu, the rudder-band, by which the rudder is raised or lowered. àm-tiàu, a rope attached to the middle of the rudder. phâng-bé-tiàu, one of the ropes that lies along the mast.

tiàu-chhiú, to let the hand swing freely, as in writing very large characters. tiàu-tiá, to have no means of livelihood (v. tiá). tiàu-chhát, to tie up a thief by the hands, so that his feet barely touch the ground. tiàu-teng, to hang a lamp, as from the roof. si-soà<sup>n</sup> tiàu tâng-cheng, means very inadequate, or matters in a very dangerous state.

jih-tiàu, to hang one's self. tiàu-âm, id. tiàu-sí, id. tiàu ka-lé (lit. hang a puppet), id. (v. lé). tiàu-kúi, ghost of a man who had hung himself. tiàu-kúi kiò--lí, go and hang yourself! (as the ghost of a man who hung himself tries to tempt others to do the same). ná<sup>n</sup> tiàu-kúi--nih<sup>n</sup>, said of a man with a long lank lean neck.

tiàu-tsoá, to make offerings to the "hún-sin" of a dead man, as friends of the family do. tiàu-song (R.), id. tsok-tiàu (r.), id. tiàu lán--ê pē-bú, coming to worship our parents after death, as friends do. hoan-tiàu, to go and pay respects in person to friends who have come and worshipped our deceased parent.

liàu-tiàu, quite dead; quite dropped, as an affair on which no more action is taken.

tiàu (R. id.), an omen. tiàu-thâu, id. chhái-tiàu, id. (v. chhái). khiàu-tiàu, superstitious and magical arts. khìò-tiàu (Cn.), all sorts of superstitious rites, much more general than the Amoy phrase.

liàu-tiàu, an omen of the coming ruin of a family; said of lavish wasting of patrimonial wealth, or of property all spent in yamun expenses. iá<sup>n</sup> kiáu su-kiáu-tiàu, to win in gambling is the sure omen of losing. kiet-hiong bí-lái, sien iú-tiàu, an omen appears before good or bad fortune.

tiàu — tiàu-khì, to become mute or insensible, as on suddenly hearing very bad news. khé kàu tiàu--khì, almost swooning or fainting at sad news. khé kàu tiàu-tiàu, id. kiá<sup>n</sup> kàu tiàu--khì, do., through sudden fear. soà-tiàu--khì, immediately struck speechless and almost paralyzed on suddenly hearing bad news.

tiàu [R. liáu, materials; to manage]. tsái-tiàu, ability; skill; talent.

tiàu [R. tiàu, to harmonize; to adjust; to restore peace; to compound; to regulate; and by change of tone "tiàu," a tune; = col. tiáu], a tune, as for a song, hymn, or chant.

tiàu-chhú, to adjust a dispute or quarrel for another, as a sort of arbiter. tiàu-chhí (C.), id. tiàu-thêng, id.

tiàu-ióng, to take care of one's own health. tiàu-iáng (C.), id.

gâu pheng-tiàu, good at cooking.

tui-tiàu, to exchange places, as persons. tiàu-lái tiàu-khì, id. tiàu-kê-lái tiàu-kê-khì, id.

thia<sup>n</sup>--lâng tiàu-tê, willingly obey the rules, as of master or employer.

khék-tiàu, a song-tune. koài<sup>n</sup>-tiàu, tune on a high key. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-koài<sup>n</sup>-tiàu, to sing on a high key; to ask an exorbitant price for a thing. kê-tiàu, a tune on a low key. hoán-tiàu, to give a peculiar mournful turn up at the end of a strain.

ũ-tiàu, melodious, as music. ũ-liáu ũ-tiàu, sung well, as a song; good at singing. bô-liáu bô-tiàu, not melodious; out of tune. hó-sia<sup>n</sup>-tiàu, well sung, as tune. m-chiá<sup>n</sup> sia<sup>n</sup>-tiàu, singing not well performed. sia<sup>n</sup>-tiàu bô-hiáp, sung out of tune. tiàu-sè, the style of a tune. tiàu-sì (C.), id. ũ-tiàu-sè, singing well; according to tune. hó-tiàu-sè, able to sing well; tune and voice suitable to each other. bô-tiàu-sè, not sung well; out of tune. tiàu-sè khah-m-hó, style of singing or reciting not at all good; also, in a bad state, as an affair that is all going wrong.

tiàuh (C.) tiàuh-tiàuh, = A. táuh-táuh, constantly; very frequently.

tien (R. id.), to stagger; to reel. tien-lái tien-khì, to stagger about. táh-tien, to stumble.

tien-tó, to stumble and fall; said also of calamity. tien-tien tó-tó, constantly stumbling and falling; meeting with many calamities. tien-lái tó-khì, to reel and stumble about, as drunk man. chhit-tien poeh-tó, constantly stumbling and falling; in constant trouble and calamity.

兆

料調

眞

寫

吊吊

紼

癩

填

躔

田

典

展

tiên (R. id.; cf. col. thien). tiên-kông, mad; madness. hong-tiên, id. tiên-gông, idiotic; crazy. ti<sup>n</sup>-tiên ti<sup>n</sup>-gông, feigning to be mad or idiotic. ti<sup>n</sup>-tiên ti<sup>n</sup>-siáu, id.

tiên [R. thiên, to fill up; to make up a deficiency; to pay: = col. thūn], to make up a deficiency or debt. tiên-tùi, to pay an account or debt by a bill, draft, &c., on a third party. tiên-pé (C. thiên-pé), to make up a deficiency or debt, as a third party.

tiên-pi<sup>n</sup>, to fill up, as ground, by levelling it up.

tiên [R. to tread in a path; to go in an orbit]. tiên-tê, the course or orbit of one of the heavenly bodies. kiâ<sup>n</sup> tiên-tê, to move in the orbit.

tiên [R. an irrigated field; a surname; = col. chhân]. tiên-thé, lands in general. su-tiên, fields left by ancestors for keeping descendants at school, or for those who take a degree. si-tiên (C.), id. sū-tiên, fields left to supply the expense of offerings to ancestors. cheng-chhe toát-tiên, to take away forcibly a man's wife or fields (v. chhe).

sim-tiên (r.), disposition of heart.

tiên goân-sòe, = siu<sup>n</sup>-kang-tia, the idol specially worshipped by actors.

tiên [R. a classic; a canon; statutes or ordinances; to mortgage; to pawn; a dictionary; grace; favour], (C. tién, téng), to mortgage, but not quite the same as the British mortgage. tiên-khòe, a deed of mortgage. tiên-ji, id. tiên-tsú, the mortgager. chhut-tiên, to be in the market for mortgage, as house, &c. chhut-tiên ê-lâng, the mortgager. tiên-chhut, the mortgage. tiên--lâng, to mortgage to some one. hē-i-tiên, to mortgage to him. kā-lâng-tiên, to take on mortgage. tsoán-tiên, to re-mortgage. tiên bōe, to mortgage or sell. tién bōe, to mortgage or buy.

hiông-tiên, a licensed pawn-shop. toā-tiên, a large pawn-shop, which takes low interest. sió-tiên, a low-class pawn-shop that takes heavy interest. tiên-tng (Cn.), a pawn-shop. chi-tiên hâu-siok, to close a pawn-shop and wait to see if the pledges be redeemed.

un-tiên, favour; grace (v. un). in-tiên (C.), id.

tiên-chheh, classical books. chhut-keng jip-tiên, correct in style and composition.

ji-tiên, a dictionary.

kè-tiên, manner or style of the ancients, as to customs, ceremonies, or way of doing things; done according to ancient custom. bat kè-tiên, well acquainted with ancient matters. ín kè-tiên, to quote old books, or the customs or actions of the ancients, as authority or precedent. chiàu-ké-tiên, according to the way of the ancients.

tiên-sú, a very small civil mandarin (v. sú). tién-lí, a title acquired by men who have charge of civil cases in yamuns (v. lí).

tién [R. to open out; to exhibit; = col. thiên]. tién-khui, to open out, as wings, or as a book. phi<sup>n</sup>-khang tién-tiên, nostrils naturally rather wide open.

tién-sit, to spread wings. tién-tsang, to set up the mane, as horse, or neck feathers, as cock. lâu-bé tién-tsang, the old horse erects his mane; said of an old man with youthful vigour and ability.

tién-úi, to put on a terrible appearance, as tiger or soldier. tién sin-thong, to show one's supernatural power, as idol, or one's special skill, as workman. tién pún-sū, to boast of or display one's own skill or ability. ka-kí tién i-ê khui-lát, he boasts of or displays his strength. tién-pó (C.), to boast or brag.

殿

tiên (R. id.), (Cn. tiên, tūi<sup>n</sup>), the imperial hall of audience; temple of some first-class gods which are allowed imperial honours. kióng-tiên, imperial palace (residence) and audience-hall. keng-tiên, id. kim-loán-tiên, imperial audience-hall. hông-tè-tiên, do.; also a temple at Amoy where the emperor's tablet is worshipped; formerly it contained an image of the emperor Kia-king, represented as a banished man for having got a child too soon after his father's death. tè-tiên-khi, built in the style of an imperial palace, as the temples of some of the highest canonized gods.

chê-tiên, to give an audience, as emperor. teng-tiên, to take his seat on the imperial throne, at audience. thè-tiên, to leave the audience-hall, as emperor (s. rent). chiū<sup>n</sup>-tiên, to go to the audience, as ministers of state.

tiên-sì, examination for the Han-lin degree, presided over by the emperor.

bú-tong-tiên, temple of Hiên-thien Siông-tè.

tiên [R. fixed; settled; to make a libation; = col. tēng]. tiên-chiú, to make a libation of spirituous liquor. koán-tiên (R.), to make a libation.

tiên [R. lightning, = col. nà<sup>n</sup>]. tiên-bú, the goddess of lightning. lúi-kong tién-bú, the god of thunder and goddess of lightning.

tiên [R. to cultivate the land, esp. on rent], (Cn. in some senses tūi<sup>n</sup>; T. tūi<sup>n</sup>).

chhū-tiên, the tenant of a house. tiám-tiên, tenant of shop. tiên-hē, tenant of farm. tiên-phoe, document given by the tenant to the landlord, serving as proof that he is only tenant.

tùi-tiên, to introduce our tenant to the new proprietor to whom we have sold the property, or to our creditor to whom he is for the present to pay the rent so as to clear off a debt. jīn-tiên, to go security for a man who rents a house or land, as a precaution against his taking unjust possession of it. thè-tiên, to withdraw our security in such a case (s. audience-hall). teh-tiên (esp. C. teh), to advance money (without interest) when renting fields, not repaid unless the fields are taken back. teh-tiên-gūn, money thus advanced.

tiét [R. to stumble]. tso-tiét, to meet with great calamity.

tiét-tá<sup>n</sup> i-seng, = tiáp-tá<sup>n</sup> i-seng, a surgeon for falls and wounds.

tih, to strike gently with the hand in play, as children do. tih-lái tih-khi, striking one another gently in play, as children. gâu-tih, disposed to strike with the hand in play. chhiú gâu-tih, id.

chhim tih chhā<sup>n</sup>, sound as of several musical instruments (v. chhā<sup>n</sup>).

tih — tih-tuh, talking differently at different times, in a deceitful or half-joking way (v. tuh).

tih — tih-tauh, committing lasciviousness (v. tauh).

tih (R. tek), a drop; to drop. chit-tih-á, a very small drop. nā<sup>n</sup>-áu tih-á, the uvula.

tih-hē, to have rain dropping, as from the roof. tih bák-sái, to drop tears. tih-tsúi, water dropping; the eaves of a house; the place below the eaves on which the water drops.

tih (better "teh," but more accurately pronounced "tih"), (C. hí).

tih-beh, about to —.

tih [R. tí, the bottom, = col. tóe]. phah-tiòh lāng sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-tih, to touch a man's heart or conscience by a remark about some evil he had done, though

奠
電
佃

跌

滴

底

perhaps we may not have intended or not even known of it.

記

ti (cf. thih). chhìn tih-tih, very cold.

ti (cf. thih). ti-ti-háu, to stutter in speaking. kóng-ōe tih-tih-háu, id. ti-tùh, to stammer or falter in speaking, as a liar who has to invent new lies on the spot. lí kóng-ōe tih-tùh, you are evidently hesitating because you are telling lies. ti-tùh-hm̄, a toy that makes a humming noise. ti-tùh-m̄, id.

ti-táu ti-táu, sound of shoes clattering, or of rain dropping, or of clock ticking (v. táu).

碟

ti, a very small plate, like a small saucer, for holding condiments. ti-á, id. chek-tih, sort of small candlestick. tê-tih, small porcelain plate on which a teapot stands. poá<sup>n</sup>-ti, large and small plates. toá-poá<sup>n</sup> sió-tih, id. oá<sup>n</sup>-ti-ti, bowls, small plates, and chopsticks. au-á tháh ti-á (cups on small plates), said of incest.

擇

ti (cf. tí), (C. ti<sup>n</sup>), to desire or wish for, as a person or thing. beh-tih, to have a desire to get. ló-tia beh-tih-lâng, the mandarin wishes the men immediately, as for a case. bô-beh-tih, does not care for it (or him) at all. ài-tih, to wish very much. ài-tih-mih<sup>n</sup>, grasping. ài-tih lâng-ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. m̄-tih, I don't wish it; to count of no use; not caring for.

ti<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ti, to desire or wish for.

ti<sup>n</sup> (= nih<sup>n</sup>, ti<sup>n</sup>). ti<sup>n</sup>-si, to strangle with the fingers.

tim (cf. thim), reserved in manner; not frank, open, or communicative; too cautious and knowing to be got round; planning deep and saying little; precocious and intelligent, as child of four or five. im-tim, crafty and designing; cunning and scheming. tsòe-lâng-tim, keeping one's counsel to one's self, as a deep schemer.

沉

tim [R. id., = col. tiám, thiám], to sink. tim-lim, id. tim-lòh-khì, id. tim-lún (r.), to perish.

tim-hiu<sup>n</sup>, lign-aloës; garrow-wood. tim-hiu<sup>n</sup>-sek, colour of aloës.

béh tim, the pulse in such a state that it is not felt till decidedly pressed.

tim--khì (C. tiám), to embezzle. tim--khì lâng-ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, to take or keep unjust possession of things borrowed or intrusted, refusing to return them, saying that they are lost or stolen. tim-lék, to hide a thing belonging to another, and refuse to give it up.

tim-tàng, severe; painful; very unwell. toá-tim (T. toá-tiám), exceedingly —.

chhim-tim, very deep and profound; very cautious. chhim-tim kun-tsai, very cautious and careful in doing business. tim-chiám, thoughtful and careful in considering before speaking or acting. tim-gim, to think silently, as in planning or composing.

poá<sup>n</sup>-phû-tim, barely floating, and almost submerged, as heavy wood. thun-thê phû-tim, knowing how to say just enough and no more, or to hit the due medium between firmness and yielding, as in managing an affair (v. thê).

擲

tim, to throw, as a stone. tim chiòh-thâu, to throw a stone; to stone.

沉

tim, strong and decided, as a colour; opposed to "chhiò." tim-sek, id. tim-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a pretty deep decided blue colour, like good new blue cotton. tim-âng, a decided red.

tim — tim-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to try the weight by poising on the hand, either of one thing, or comparing the weight of two things. chhiú tim-khoá<sup>n</sup>, id. tim-tàng, to try the weight by the hand.

tàng-tim, very heavy. khah-tàng-tim, extremely heavy.

tim (cf. thim, tám). tim-thâu, = thim-thâu, to nod the head, as sign of being pleased or consenting.

tim (R. id.), word used as the pronoun of the first person by the emperor alone; "I the emperor."

tim — tsúi-tim, a small bird found on rivers.

tim (R. sím), to stew in a covered vessel placed in an outer vessel of boiling water. tim-koán, the inner vessel used for this sort of stewing. tim-sio, to warm over again in this way, as food. tim-ióh, to make a medicinal preparation in this way, either of the medicine alone, or mixed with food. tim-koe, to stew a fowl in this way.

tim — tim tau-kú, two men each waiting for the other to do what one or other must do, or to take the first step in a matter which each is afraid to begin. beh-tim kàu tī-si, why are you procrastinating so long?

tim (cf. tiām). tim-tiók (Cn.), quiet in manner; not acting or speaking at random; externally well-regulated and staid, as conduct; calm and quiet in speaking.

tin [R. precious; cf. col. chin]. tin-pó, very valuable; precious (v. pó). tin-tiông, to count precious; to value highly, as a servant or employé who is found very useful, or as a thing. tin-tiông ê-lâng, a person highly respected or honoured.

san-tin hái-bi, the delicacies of land and sea.

tin — tin-tong, one cash odds and the other evens (v. tong).

tin [R. teng, a jingling sound, as of stones]. tin-tin tang-tang, sound of a vibrating string. tin-tin tong-tong, id.

tin [R. cheng, evidence; proof; to verify; to collect, as taxes]. chhim bô-tin, to embezzle so much money as not to be able to give any plausible account of it.

khui bô-tin, unable to account for all the money for which one is responsible, but not necessarily implying dishonesty. khai-khong put-tin, to embezzle employer's money, and spend it for one's own purposes, so as to be unable to give an account of the whole amount. khai-khong bô-tin, id. khai-khong bô-tin, id. khai bô-tin, id. tsáp-sa<sup>n</sup>-bân khai-bô-tin, said of embezzling to an enormous extent.

tin-hiàng (C.), = A. teng-hiàng, to levy taxes; and so in some other phrases, tin (C.), = A. teng.

tin (Cn.) thien-tin, = A. thien-tsin, the city of Tien-tsin.

tin [R. to set in order; to arrange; to make a statement; old, as a thing; stale; name of an ancient state; a surname; = col. tân; and by change of tone, tin, tsūn].

tin-lé, to make ceremonial presents, as to mandarins or influential men. tin-bêng (r.), to set forth a statement, as of our desires, requests, or good deeds.

tin--khì, to grow musty by long keeping, e.g. as sugar or preserves. tin-phí, prepared orange-peel.

kə-tin, a fabulous animal like a winged dragon. kau-tin, id. (s. entangle).

tin [same as previous word?]. tiám-tin, skilful and cautious; managing matters carefully and safely.

tin [R. tiên, to entangle, = col. tí<sup>n</sup>]. kau-tin, phrase used by the chair-bearer who walks first, to warn the other of some obstruction in the way (s. arrange).

朕
燭

沉
珍

玳
徵

津
陳

纏

塵
澄 藤

tín [R. dust]. tín-ai (R.), small dust flying about in the air. tín-sè (R.), this toilsome world.

tín (C. kìn), to pour off water, as from sediment, or from something hoiled or infused, or from lime or such medicinal powder that is being washed, or as clearer water from the more muddy. kè-tín, to be thus treated, as medicine.

tín (R. id.) in-tín, a bitter medicinal plant used for eye diseases; Artemisia or wormwood?

tín (R. têng), rattan; various sorts of creeping plants; long trailing stems of vines, potatoes, or creepers. tín-bú, the crown of the root, as of the sweet-potato. kun-tín óng, having numerous living posterity.

tín-phê, the outer rind of rattan, the best part of it for wicker-work. tín-nhng, the inner part of the rind, not so good. tín-kùn, a strong rattan stick (v. kùn). tín-tiâu, thin rattan rods, scourges, or fesces (v. tiâu). tín-phóng, rattan wicker-work (v. phóng). tín-té, flat piece of rattan wicker-work, as for hottom of chair, or for a panel. tín-i, a chair with rattan hottom. tín-chhng, a rattan couch or sofa. tín-gú (T.), a small instrument attached to a kite, which makes a humming noise.

tín-pái, a rattan shield, the usual sort of Chinese shield. phah-tín, to make articles with rattan wicker-work. chhng-tín, to make wicker-work with rattan.

soan-tín, to throw out suckers or trailing shoots. chhoan-tín, id. khan-tín, id.

koe-tín, trailing stems of melons, cucumbers, or pumpkins. bán-koe chhiú-tín, to follow up a clue step by step, examining to the hottom of an affair, often in a roundabout way. tâu-tín, long stalks of peas, &c. in-in tâu-tín, chit-toa-thoa, said of a long involved story with no clue. han-tsû-tín, stalks of sweet-potatoes.

tín-ng, gamhough. khoe-tín, a medicinal creeper with small leaves. kau-tín, a medicine used to keep children from starting in sleep. lê-tín, a sort of medicinal plant. ka-to-tín, a large woody creeper that grows to the top of high trees. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-piah-tín, a small-leaved creeping shrub, of the fig trihe, that grows on old walls. bô-thâu-tín, a stringy rootless parasite with edible berries. bé-oa<sup>n</sup>-tín, a plant; a sort of medicinal salve (v. oa<sup>n</sup>). koe-sái-tín, a bad-smelling medicinal creeper. phoà-pê-tín, name of a plant. siak-phoà-oá<sup>n</sup>-tín, Strophanthus divergens.

tín [R. chin, to shake; to move; to deliver; to save]. tín-tâng, to move, as person or thing. bô-tín-tâng, no movement; quite motionless; no beginning of action in a matter. bô-tín bô-tâng, id.

tín [R. to repress; to pacify; to keep in subjection; to guard; to protect; a mart; a trading place], to hold, as a city or military post; a military officer like a lieutenant-general or admiral.

tín-tâi, the lieutenant-general or admiral (Chen-tai), the next in rank to a Thê-tok. chiang-chiu-tín, the lieutenant-general commanding at Chang-chew. thê-tín, general or admiral and his lieutenant.

tín-tiông, having a dignified manner (v. tiông). tín-siú, to guard or occupy (a city) with troops, so as to keep in order, as a high mandarin does. tín-ap, to keep the people quiet and in subjection, as a mandarin does. tín-soah, to ward off the malign influences of the "soah-sin."

tín-moá<sup>n</sup>, crowded, as a room, with things or persons. tín-bát-bát, crowded very close.

tín-tè, to be in the way; to be useless and obstructive; to occupy the place uselessly. tín-üi, id. tín toa-bú-üi, to take up a great deal of room. tín nhng-lâng ê-giáh, to take up the place of two persons. tín-tá<sup>n</sup>, to take up much room in a load (for carrying on a pole on the shoulder), so as to cause inconvenience, as a bulky thing. tín-lê, to obstruct the way, as some hulky thing, or as people in the way. tín-lê-thâu, to obstruct the landing-place. si-káu tin-lê-thâu, a dead dog hocking the road, said in scolding. tín-kang, to obstruct work, as visitors, or as talk, or many small matters.

tín-kang-hú, Chin-kiang-foo. tín-hái, Chin-hai, name of several cities—one near Ningpo, one near Swatow, one on the promontory south of the entrance to Amoy harbour. tín-lâm-koan, a gateway between Amoy and Emungkang.

tín (cf. A. thin). tín-tín (T.), the two ends (as of a beam) equal in size, or very nearly so. thâu-bé tin (T.), id.

tín [R. id., by change of tone from "tín," to set in order, &c.; cf. col. tsün], a company of men, as in a procession; a troop; a hody of soldiers; classifier of ranks, herds, gusts, showers, &c.

tín-sè, the strength or force of a hody of troops in hattle. tín-hoat, military manœuvres. tín-bông, having died in the ranks.

hiu<sup>n</sup>-tín, an idolatrous incense procession. chit-tín-hiu<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-ji-tín, words not in regular line, or not of equal size (v. jì). bê-hün-tín, said of enticing into vice, &c. (v. hê). kiú-liông-tín, arrangement of army in hattle in nine divisions. bé-iáh-tín, arrangement with two long divisions in front.

chiá<sup>n</sup>-tín, to form into ranks, &c.; a whole troop or procession. tsòe-tín, to make up a large company or procession. tâu-tín, to unite in a procession (idolatrous). kui-tín, to fall into the ranks. chhut-tín, to go out in procession, or in rank and file, or to hattle. pái-tín, to arrange in rows or ranks; to arrange soldiers in battle array. pái-peng pè-tín, to arrange soldiers in ranks. pè-tín, id. tok-tín, to carry the standard and have oversight of a hody of soldiers. lím-tín, to come to close quarters, as two armies; to join hattle; to come to the crisis of the case, as a matter going before mandarin or arbiters. lím-tín thè-siok, to draw hack at the tug of war. chiên-tín, to be engaged in hattle, as armies. piá<sup>n</sup>-tín, battle raging fiercely. iá<sup>n</sup> chit-tín, to gain one victory. su kúi-tín, how many battles has he lost? pái-tín, to be defeated; a defeated army. siu-tín (r.), to draw off the troops. siu-peng soá<sup>n</sup>-tín, id. soá<sup>n</sup>-tín, to disperse the ranks, as of troops, or of idolatrous procession.

chhim-tín, to venture into a position of considerable danger, e.g. making a risky venture in trade, or spending much more than is suitable to our income.

tió [R. tiông, long, = col. tág]. tió-thoà, Chang-tai Hien (tiông-thài), in the department of Chang-chew. tió-lóh, Chang-loh Hien, in the department of Fuh-chau.

tió [R. tiâu, the tide]. tió-chiu, Chau-chau-foo or Tie-chew, in the province of Canton, near Swatow. tió-chiu-ai, plays in the Swatow dialect. tió-iú<sup>n</sup>, Chau-yang Hien, near Swatow.

tió [R. tó, to throw; to have recourse to; to agree; = col. tâu], to leap; to jump; to frisk or dance about. tió-thiâu, to leap about. tió-chhut, to leap or start out, as from a pit. tió-kha-koe, to hop and jump

陣陳

鎮

長 潮
投

about. tiô-tâng, to leap or dance about in an excited or ecstatic state, as the "tâng-chí." tò-tiô, to rebound. chhio-tiô, active and lively, as child or animal. chhiauh-chhiauh-tiô, to dance about, as with rage, or as Taoist sorcerer (v. chhiauh). chhiak-chhiak-tiô, to palpitate; to jump up and down noisily or angrily. phók-phók-tiô, to dance with emotion, as with rage or delight.

tiô (Cn.), = A. tê (to throw; to agree).

tiô (Cn.), = A. té (R.), a rice-measure. tiô-bí sam-chiên, a measure of rice for three cash, as in the golden age of Yaou and Shun.

tiô (R. tiâu), a hook; a fish-hook; to fish with hook; to angle; to stitch widely or haste; to sew very loosely, so as to keep in place for the closer sewing.

tiô-á, a small fish-hook. thih-tiô, an iron hook, as for fishing. chit-mûg-tiô, one hook. kau-tiô, a (good-sized) fishing-hook (+).

tiô-khi, the barb of a hook. kau-tiô-khi, id. tiô-koa<sup>n</sup>, a fishing-rod. tiô-soa<sup>n</sup>, fishing-line. tiô-tsô, a fishing-boat. tiô-tâng, copper wire by which a hook is sometimes attached. tiô-tâng (C.), bamboo floats for a line with hooks.

phah tiô-á, to make fish-hooks. pàng-tiô, to fish with a hook or hooks. pàng-kau-tiô, to set a line with hooks. chhiu-tiô, to haul or pull in a line with hooks so as to get the fish. chiáh-tiô, to bite the hook; to take the hook.

tiô-hi, to angle for fish; to fish with a hook. tiô-hí-ong (r.), an old fisherman. tiô-péh-hí, a sort of game; to play it.

tiô-tiâu, to stitch on loosely so as just to keep in place (opposed to "tèng," or "thi," which are much closer). tiô-liâm, id., or as button, or as figures cut in cloth of a different colour. tiô-lí, to put in a lining in a dress. tiô bân-jí, to embroider the character "bân," as on child's dress (v. bân).

tiô (Cn.), = A. tê (R.), to quarrel; to fight.

tiô [R. tiâu, an ancient state in Shan-si; a surname], a surname. tiô goân-sôe, a black-faced attendant idol in temples of Mã-tsé and of Tái-tô-kong.

tiô (R. tiâu). tiô-á, a small iron frying-pan or rice-boiler with a handle. thih-tiô, id.

tiô, to shake, as with cold, emotion, &c.; to tremble. khéh-khéh-tiô, to shiver with cold; to shake with fear. géh-géh-tiô, id. hoá-hoá-tiô, to move about in excitement, as a multitude excited with fear, or when preparing for a feud or battle. tiô--sí, to shake exceedingly, as with fear or cold. oáh-oáh tiô--sí, id. chhò-tiô hí-khang, to deafen a man's ears with noise.

péh-tiô-á, feeble stooping appearance of man in weak health, or of an old man.

tiô — péh-tiô, a white mark on the skin over a considerable surface (s. shake). khí péh-tiô, to get this white mark on the skin.

tiô (C.), to scold a man indirectly by making an appearance of scolding children or other by-standers.

tiô (Cn.), = A. tê (R.), leguminous plants; but "tê" is also said.

tiô (Cn.), = A. tê. kù-tiô, a comma or dot used in punctuation.

tiô [R. tiâu, an omen]. khÿò-tiô (Cn.), = khÿò-tiâu, superstitious and magical charms or incantations.

tiô<sup>n</sup> (C. P.), in the various tones, = A. tiu<sup>n</sup>.

tiôh (cf. tiuh), to pull; to pull out; to drag; to draw towards one's self. tiôh-ân, to pull tight. tiôh- lôh-lâi, to pull down towards one's self. tiôh-chhut, to pull out; to express distinctly. chhêng-ôe tiôh-béh, to wear shoes and stockings.

tiôh hí-á, to pull the ears. tiôh chih-bé, to lisp in speaking (v. chih). tiôh tsúg-thâu-á, to pull the joints of the fingers, either one's self or by barber in shampooing. tsúg-thâu-á tiôh-tiôh, id.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tiôh, to refuse sulkily to do something when asked, often with purpose of getting more money.

tiôh [R. tiok? cf. tiôh], to play, as at chess.

chhut-tiôh, superior to others in excellence or in skill, as person or thing. khah-chhut-tiôh, id. koái<sup>n</sup>-tiôh, skilful at any sort of work or play.

û-tôe-tiôh, to have a safe foundation, as title-deeds; to have some property, as man; to have considerable knowledge or talent, as for teaching or for business; said of managing a matter well and putting all right, so as to make a lasting settlement. i-ê tôe-tiôh, his original circumstances and history from the beginning.

tiôh-ki, to play at chess.

tiôh [R. tiok, right; according to; to effect], right; correct; ought; all right; to hit the mark; to get, as a disease, or as one's turn of work, duty, or rights; yes, in answer to the question, "Is it right?" or "Ought it?" affix to many verbs (often enclitic) expressing accomplishment or taking effect; prefix to some verbs and nouns expressing action.

tiôh-lát, to cause or require much strength or exertion, as a heavy lift or a matter very difficult to settle rightly. súg-khùi tiôh-lát, to cause or require a great deal of toil and trouble, e.g. teaching wild boys or managing a very involved case. bô-tiôh-lát, not done with sufficient exertion; not producing the desired effect, as an ill-aimed blow, e.g. hammer not hitting the nail on the head.

tiôh-boâ, to labour; to work hard; to toil. tiôh-kip, in great haste and urgency. tiôh-pí<sup>n</sup>, to have a disease; unwell. tiôh-chhám, to meet with calamity. tiôh-hiá, to be infested with white ants, as house. tiôh-chhèng, to be hit by a shot from a gun (v. chhèng).

tiôh-pan, to come to one's turn, as constables or police. tiôh-kong, one's turn come for attending to the common ancestral rites (v. kong). tiôh-thâu, to have (in one's turn) the care of the idolatrous rites of a family or ward. tiôh-ní<sup>n</sup>, one's year come (in turn) for such a purpose.

tiôh-hoat, to hit on the right way of doing a thing. tiôh-lê, the right road; to hit on the right road; exactly fit for the use or purpose wished. tiôh-ê-lê, the right road.

û-tiôh, to hit the mark; to succeed, as in taking an animal in a trap; to be successful, as at an examination. siá û-tiôh, to hit the mark with the arrow. lóng-tsóng tiôh, all are right; it affects them all, as an accusation against one man which will cause serious trouble to many. thâu tiôh, bé si, all right from beginning to end.

bôe-tiôh, not able to reach, e.g. man not tall enough, or rope too short; cannot hit the mark, as from some inherent defect or unfitness. phah-bôe-tiôh, to miss in shooting, &c. bê-tit--thang tiôh--i (C.), no one can catch or kill him, as a tiger.

bôe-tiôh-lán-tit, we cannot possibly get any of it (v. tit). bô-thang-tiôh lán-tsái, we cannot get permission to carry any of it, as in our boat.

bô-tiôh, not obtaining the desired result, as at examination; not hitting the mark. tit-bô-tiôh, did

斗釣

趙銚

兆

着着

not manage to get it. khi-bô-tiòh, though he went, he failed to get it, e.g. too late.

m̄-tiòh, wrong. m̄-tiòh-l̄ē, wrong road. chhùi tiòh, sim m̄-tiòh, speech fair, but heart bad.

eng-kai-tiòh, ought to —. su-tiòh (r.), id. tiòh-khi, ought to go. m̄ tiòh-khi, yet had better go (v. m̄).

tiā-tiòh, fixed; settled (v. tiā<sup>n</sup>).

toà-tiòh, on account of; out of regard to (as a person). ūi-tiòh, because of.

tit-tiòh, to get (v. tit); in this paragraph the "tiòh" is sometimes not enclitic, as when it becomes emphatic. tú-tiòh, to meet with; to find by chance. gū-tiòh, id. chhē-tiòh, to find by searching. jip-tiòh, to overtake. jiok-tiòh (C.), id.

tiok [R. name of a country]. thien-tiok-kok, India.

tiok [R. bamboo, = col. tek], (also C., = A. tek). jín-biēn-tiok, a fine sort of bamboo. tiok-á-thâu, the 118th radical, written at the top.

tiok [R. to drive away; each; = col. ták]. pek-tiok, to drive away or expel, as a man. kek-tiok, do.; to drive away, as from a village, or society, or employment. koá-tiok, id. khún-tiok (R.), to expel; (X.) to persecute. khu-siá tiok-ék, to drive away the evil influences that cause epidemic diseases (v. siá).

tiok [R. right; according to; to effect; = col. tiòh]. tēng-tiok, all settled and arranged, as an affair. kui-tiok, correctly settled, as an affair, or at least so well arranged that it is in the fair way of being suitably settled. kun-tiok, to get a party to come forward by imprisoning some one connected with him till he comes, as mandarins do.

tiām-tiok, quiet and self-possessed; not talking at random or acting rashly; not showing much emotion, even in press of business or in danger, but considering carefully. tīm-tiok (Cn.), id.

put-tiok, ill arranged, as business or affair; done it all wrong; ill-behaved and unsafe to deal with, as man. bū-tiok, unsafe, as man or affair, or as mode of sending something.

ū-tiok-lók, well-behaved and truthful, as man whose honesty and integrity can be depended on; safe to deal with, as man of substance or of integrity; having a safe foundation, as affair; having good and definite proof, as title-deeds or such matters. iú-tiok iú-lók, id. pān--khì ū-tiok-lók, well settled and securely arranged, as affair. kau--khì ū-tiok-lók, to hand over (as letter, money, &c.) to a safe man, who will certainly deliver it. tsa ū-tiok-lók, on examination it is found that there is abundant evidence of its correctness and security. bô-tiok-lók, not safe to deal with, as man; unsafe and unlikely to come to a good issue, as affair.

tiok-kip, in great haste, as on urgent business. jín-biēn, tiok ko-te, valuing or following men according to their prosperity (v. te).

tiok-sit (C. chiak-sit), the real circumstances of the case.

tióng [R. middle; medium; mediocre; central; Chinese; cf. col. tiòng, tong], middle. tióng-ng (C. tang-ng), among; between. thâu-khak tióng-ng, the point on the head where the hair radiates. tióng-kan, between; among. tióng-sim, the middle; the very centre. chhiú-tióng-sim, the middle of the palm.

tióng-tióng, of medium quality, mediocre. tióng- téng, of medium quality. tióng-pān, id. tióng-hô, id. sióng tióng hā, superior, medium, and inferior. tióng-kāu-tsoá, sort of paper of medium thickness. tióng-keng-tsoá, id.

kui-tióng, to be in the middle; a sort of medicine. tui-tióng, just in the middle. tek-kí-tióng, to hit the happy mean. tek-tióng, moderate; usually neither specially good or bad; sometimes has the idea of the happy mean. tek-tióng ê-kè, a fair average price. liáh tióng-hô, to split the difference as in bargain or dispute. liáh tióng-noá, id.

tióng-ióng, the happy mean; the due medium; the Chung-yung or Classic of the doctrine of the mean.

tióng-làng, a middleman in making a bargain or agreement. tióng-làng-lé, fee paid to middleman. tióng-làng-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. tióng-làng-gūn, do., if in value of silver. tióng-pó (r.), a middleman who stands security; (X.) a mediator. tsòe-tióng, to act as middleman. tsòe-tióng--ê, id.

tióng-tsun, the principal priest in a ceremony (v. tsun). tióng-su-khe, sort of secretaries in supreme boards (v. su). tióng-tân-iá, name of an idol (v. tân).

tióng-goân, the 15th day of the 7th month. tióng-chhiu, 8.15. (v. chhiu). tióng-liên, middle-aged. tióng-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the second finger (v. tsái<sup>n</sup>). tióng-khi, the front teeth. tióng-keng, the middle one of three houses or rooms. tióng-káng, the middle channel or mouth of river. tióng-mûg, the middle door or gate of a group of three, as in a wealthy man's house; esp. in a yamun. tióng-àn, a long narrow table (v. àn). tióng-tâg, the central hall of a house.

poá-tióng-tâg soah-khi, to fail half-way (v. poá<sup>n</sup>). tióng-heng, to prosper after an unprosperous beginning, as a dynasty. jit tióng-kiá, sun at zenith (v. kiá).

chióng-tióng, from among them. lōe-tióng, in the matter; among them. chhú-tióng ê tō-lí, the principle or rationale of this matter. goá--ê ì-tióng, in my purpose. thi-tióng, in the sky, &c. &c.

jín-tióng, the middle part of the upper lip. jín-tióng tâg, do., long; supposed to indicate long life. jín-tióng té, do., short; supposed to augur short life. jín-tióng-pék, incrustation of urine jars, used medicinally.

tióng-kok, China, the central kingdom. tióng-hoa, id.

tióng-chi<sup>n</sup>, half a dollar. tióng-gūn, id. chit-ê-tióng, id.

kong-tióng ê-chi<sup>n</sup>, Annamese cash, used at Amoy (v. kong).

sang-tióng, one odds and one evens, in tossing cash.

tióng — tióng-ni<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = C. to-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of Azalea.

tióng [R. to open out; to stretch or lay out; to boast; a sheet, as of paper; classifier of sheets, letters, &c.; a surname; = col. tiu<sup>n</sup>], (C. tiang). khai-tióng, said of opening a shop, as first opening of new shops, or after the New-year holidays. khai-tióng t'ai-kiet, may great prosperity attend this shop. khai-tióng tsun-hoat, id.

tióng [R. faithful; trusty; devoted; loyal; patriotic]. tióng-hē, faithful and honest; well-behaved and trustworthy. tióng-hiō (Cn.), id. tióng-tit, upright, trusty, and straightforward. tióng-sin, faithful and trusty. tióng-gi, faithful and devoted, esp. as loyal mandarin (v. gi). put-tióng, unfaithful to duty; disloyal; treasonable. poá<sup>n</sup>-kan-tióng, of very doubtful fidelity.

竺
竹 逐
着

中

張

忠

chîn-tiông, devoted to duty; diligent and faithful in discharge of duty. chîn-tiông chîn-hàu, faithful and filial to the utmost. chîn-tiông, lân í chîn-hàu, a mandarin who fulfils his duty to the sovereign can hardly fulfil his duty to his parents. chîn-tiông pò-kok, extremely loyal and grateful to the dynasty. tiông-kun pò-kok, loyal to sovereign and showing gratitude to the dynasty. tiông-kun ài-kok, id. tiông-kun ài-bîn, loyal to sovereign and loving the people.

tiông-sîn, a loyal and faithful statesman (v. sîn). tiông-liét-sû, temple to distinguished mandarins who have died for the state. tiông-iông-sû, do., for such military mandarins.

tiông [R. to do over again, = col. têng; by change of tone from "tiông," heavy]. tiông-hok, to say over and over tautologically, as in an essay. tiông-iông-tsoeh, the 9.9. tiông-iông-jit, id.

tiông [R. the bowels, = col. tûg, chhiâng], (C. chhiâng). tâi-tiông, the great intestines. siáu-tiông-tûi, inguinal hernia. tûi-tiông (r.), id. chhoan-tiông-tî, fistula. jûn-tiông, to mollify the bowels, so as to remove costiveness, as some sorts of food or medicine. lûn-tiông, id.

thiet-sék sim-tiông, heart and bowels of iron and stone; cruel and pitiless.

tiông [R. long in time or space; to be superior in skill or excellence; = col. tûg], (C. tiàng). tiông-toán (R.), long and short (v. toán).

tiông-keng, the evening star. bân-lí tiông-sa, the Prata shoals.

tiông-kiú, lasting very long. biên-tiông (R.), id. tiông-siū, long life (v. siū). tiông-seng put-sú, long life without death (v. seng).

chhun-tiông, to lay up surplus gains; to accumulate, as gains, esp. interest on money.

sé-tiông, that in which we surpass others; our special ability; the amount of gain made on a transaction; the balance of clear gain, as at end of month or year. goá--ê tiông-kí, that in which I am specially proficient above others (+). kiên-tiông, that in which one excels others, as skill, &c. i--ê kiên-tiông, that in which he specially excels. lí sé-kiên-tiông, that in which you are specially proficient. lí sé-tiông-kí, id. ū-kiên-tiông, to excel others in skill or excellence of some kind. i-ū sim-mih<sup>n</sup> kiên-tiông, in what is he specially skillful or proficient? bū-it kiên-tiông, without any excellence to recommend one. bū-it-tiông khó-chnú, id.

tiông [R. to grow; to increase; greater; senior; a superior; = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>, chiáng, tûg; by change of tone from "tiông," long], (C. tiàng). seng-tiông, to be born and brought up. tiông-sêng, to grow up to manhood.

liên-tiông, senior; elder. tiông-pòe, elder brothers and persons of same generation with our parents, or higher. tiông-tsú, the eldest son. ka iông tiông-tsú, in a household the eldest son has the management. bók-bū tsun-tiông, contemptuously despising superiors.

tiông-kè, to rise in price, as an article that becomes dearer in the market; also, to charge a little above the usual price for one or more picked articles. chi<sup>n</sup>-kè khah-tiông, the value of copper cash has risen (v. kè). tiông phái<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>-tsú, to give extra cash (in changing silver) because of bad cash being mixed.

koan hûn-tiông, the god Kwanti.

tiông [R. to overflow; to rise very high, as tide; an inundation; = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>, (C. tiàng). tsú tiông, tide very high and overflowing. tiông-tsú, water rising very high, as in high tides or flood on river. hái-tiông, remarkably high tides.

tiông-siàu, to overcharge an account by mistake.

tiông [R. dropsical swelling; said also of other similar swellings; = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>, (C. tiàng), belly inflated and distended, as with overeating or indigestion. ké-tiông, dropsy in the abdomen. té-tiông, swelling of the belly from indigestion, &c.; also said (but inaccurately) of dropsy in the belly. chiáh--khi té-tiông, you eat till your belly swells (said in scolding a glutton). pak-té-tiông, a sort of swelling of the belly.

tiông-hong put-gú, a sort of disease, very sudden and fatal.

tiông-tám, feeling of great emotion, almost like choking sensation, as on receiving sudden exciting news, good or bad. tiông-tá<sup>n</sup>, id. tiông-tá<sup>n</sup>--sí, to die from sudden excessive grief, fear, or joy.

tiông [R. vexed; disappointed], (C. tiàng). tiông-hûn (R.), to hate exceedingly; to be deeply displeased at one's self, as for some fault or mistake.

tiông [R. tòng, a post or pillar; = col. tâng]. tiông-liông, important or useful, as man or thing.

tiông [R. to hit the centre of the mark; to accomplish; to be taken with a disease or in a plot; by change of tone from "tiông," middle], to succeed in getting a Kujin or Tsin-sze degree. chîn-tiông, to get degrees in general, literary or military, high or low. tiông kú-jin, to get the Kujin degree. tiông chia<sup>n</sup>-pûg, id. tiông hù-pûg, to have one's name on the list of those whose merit is sufficient, but who do not get the degree because the legal number is made up.

kiên-tsòh kiên-tiông, to hit the mark every time.

tiông-iông, skillful; useful, as man (v. iông).

tiông-kè, to be entrapped in a plot. tiông-sú, to have a sun-stroke. tiông-tók, to have taken poison accidentally; very dangerous, wicked, and injurious, as man. tiông tsoá-ké, to be bewitched so as to have dropsy (v. tsoá). tiông-té-un-pi<sup>n</sup>, may you have dropsy and plague! (said by women in scolding).

tiông [R. heavy; important; serious; severe; grave; to regard or count important; = col. tâng], to set the mind upon; to consider valuable and important. m̄-thang-tiông, don't set your mind on —. tiông-chiáh, to be very fond of eating. tiông hong-sú, to count the Fung-shuy of great importance. sien tiông i-koan, hē tiông-jin, value a man at first according to his dress, afterwards for his own character.

keng-tiông, to reverence; to respect. tsun-tiông, to treat with respect; honourable or high in rank. ka-kī pó-tiông, to take care of one's health. tûi-tiông, to value much; to regard as important; to respect. ti-tiông (C.), id. tin-tiông, to value highly (v. tin). sìn-tiông, to place great confidence on a man.

sîn-tiông, valuable or important, as a thing that should be taken care of; very careful and exact in managing matters; very careful of one's health, e.g. dressing according to the weather. sîn-tiông ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, things of some value. tin-tiông, having a dignified manner, as man of age, rank, or wealth.

hē-tiông, grave, sedate, sober, and decorous in manner; large and fat in one's figure. hiō-tiông (Cn.), id. si-pang hē-tiông, fat and full-faced.

siong-tiông, severe, as wound, illness, or calamity; great, as price, wages, or expenses; expensive.

tiông-tát, to be worth so much; to deserve the hon-

脹

悵棟中

重

重腸

長

長

漲

our (v. tát). tiōng-thèng, dull of hearing. giên tiōng, one's words counted of weight, valued, or followed. tiōng-àn, a serious case in law. tiōng-hoàn, a great criminal, e.g. a leader of rebels or pirates. put-sek kheng-tiōng (R.), not able to discriminate the important and the unimportant, &c.

tiōng [R. the second of three; second brother; second month of a season], commission or brokerage for selling goods. pèng-tiōng, commission or brokerage in general. goā pèng, lái tiōng, commission (usually of 2 per cent.) taken both from buyer and seller by commission-agent. tiōng-gūn, brokerage or commission on goods sold for us, taken by the broker or commission-agent. tiōng-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. hâng-tiōng, id. thiu-tiōng, to take off the commission for selling goods.

tiōng-ni, Confucius.

tē-tiōng, a sort of medicine.

tiōng [R. a measure of ten Chinese feet; used in the names of some relationships; = col. tū<sup>n</sup>, tūg], (C. tiāng). it-tiōng-hông, the hollyhock (lit. ten feet of red).

tiōng-hu, a husband. tai-tiōng-hu, a brave man; a hero. ùi-bé, tái-tiōng-hu, he who fears his wife is a hero indeed!

kok-tiōng, the emperor's father-in-law.

tiōng [R. a staff; a cudgel; = col. thūg], (C. tiāng). khok-san-tiōng, a long staff, half pasted over with white paper, carried by husband at funeral of his wife.

hêng-tiōng, the man in a yamun who has the office of beating criminals and persons under examination. tng-hêng-tiōng, to have this office. kiò hêng-tiōng, to call that person to come, e.g. in order to beat a man.

tiōng [R. to rely upon; to trust in; to fight], (C. tiāng), to intrust with a commission or with the management of a matter. thok-tiōng, to intrust; to give a message to take or commission to perform, generally small or simple. i-tiōng, to intrust with the whole management of an affair, as man in whom we have full confidence (much stronger than thok-tiōng).

tit [R. tek, to obtain; to get; to acquire; may; can], to get (but rarely used alone; usually an auxiliary expressing ability, possibility, or accomplishment; very often enclitic after a verb, meaning that it may or can be done; enclitic also with some other shades of meaning).

tit-sit, to get or lose (v. sit). tit-lâng-thià<sup>n</sup>, readily taking people's affections. bōe-tit i hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, unable to please him, as man whom we try to flatter, or as a fretful child. beh-tit lí-ê siau-sit, I will procure for you the information you wish. ài-tit, to wish to —. ài--tit, id. bōe-tit, cannot —. i bōe-tit-i-sí, i bōe-tit-i--sí, two men at deadly feud, and about equally matched. khiam-chhêng tit-sin, take care of clothes, and they are as good as new. ũ-thang-tiòh lán-tit, there is a way for us to get a portion of it or the benefit of it. bō-thang-tiòh lán-tit, we cannot get any share of it, because the parties who could have allowed it are unwilling. bōe-tiòh lán-tit, we cannot possibly get it; no use making the attempt.

tit--tiòh, to obtain; to get; to effect. tit-tiòh, id. ōe-tit--tiòh, able to get it. bōe-tit--tiòh, unable to get it. tit-bōe-tiòh, to try, but not get it. bán-tit-tiòh, can be pulled, as fruit in our reach; to recover, as a debt, by getting it from a man who owed money to our debtor.

ōe-tit--thang, able to —; able to make arrangements to —. ōe-tit--thang àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, it can be so arranged; that way will do. bōe-tit-thang-khi, it will not do to go; cannot manage to go.

oh-tit-kóng, cannot well be told; difficult to tell or say. oh-tit-thià<sup>n</sup>, difficult to be heard; seldom heard (v. oh).

khia-tit-tiâu, standing steadily; can hold one's own. tsòe òe-tit-lâi, able to effect it. tng bōe-tit-khi, feeling unworthy of so much kindness or honour (v. tng).

ōe-phah-tit-sng, can think about it. ōe-tsú-tit-l, can decide for himself (v. tsú). bō-tā-tit-ōa, cannot help it. bō-hoat--tit lêng tā-ōa, have no resource against the man.

bōe-phah--tit, exempt from being beaten in court, as graduate or old man. bōe-kià<sup>n</sup>--tit, ought not to be done; it won't do; cannot be travelled, as road. ōe-sái--tit, will do (lit. can be used). ōe-tsòe--tit, id. ōe-tsòe-iòh--tit, fit to be used as medicine.

hán--tit, rarely (v. hán). bóh--tit, do not —! bóh-tit-kóng, don't speak!

it--tit, to recollect. ki--tit, id.; to remember. bōe-ki--tit, to forget.

kun-tit, yet after all the same (v. kun).

khah-tit, somewhat improved; a little better, as after severe sickness or trouble; rather better than others or other things, but still only tolerable or passable. beh-khi, m-tit; m-khi, iah m-tit, hardly knowing whether to go or not, as either is very inconvenient. beh-khi, m-tit: beh-tiàm--teh, m-tit, id.; to go or stay, &c.

tit — ùi-tit-lòh (Cn.), = A. tùi-tá-lòh, by what route or road? kàu-tit-lòh (T.), = A. kàu-tá-lòh, up to what point?

tit (R. id.), a brother's son. tit-á, id. tit-lá (r.), id. tit-lú, brother's daughter. lōe-tit, son of wife's brother. khim-tit, son of wife's sister. piáu-tit, son of cousin of different surname (v. piáu). tit-sun, son of brother's son (v. sun). sià-tit (polite), my nephew. chhin-tóng-tit, son of cousin (v. tóng).

tsók-tit, a very distant (junior?) relative of the same surname. siok-tit, relatives of same surname. tsú-tē-tit, younger relatives. tsú-tit, sons, nephews, and such younger relatives as are under our control. tiau-tok tsú-tit, to keep younger relatives in proper order.

tit [R. insects torpid or in holes]. ki<sup>n</sup>-tit, March 5th or 6th, when insects are supposed to come out. ke<sup>n</sup>-tit (C.), id. lúi kóng-tit, pah-jī-jit, when it thunders on that day, there will be 120 days of rain. lúi phah-tit, pah-jī-jit, id.

tit [R. tí, to meet with; to be worth; to manage; = col. tát, tãh, ték]. tit-tng, the official interpreter in a yamun who interprets verbally between mandarin and people. tit-há sù-chiá (C.), = A. ték-há é sù-chiá, certain spiritual messengers.

tit [R. ték, specially; of set purpose]. tit-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to hire specially.

tit (R. id.), straight (lit. or fig.); honest; straightforward; blunt; simple and rather foolish; settled and arranged, as a dispute or quarrel; a sort of game of chance.

hoài<sup>n</sup>-tit, straight and across (v. hoài<sup>n</sup>). tit-lút-sút, very straight.

thán-tit, lying straight along (not across), (v. thán). tó tit-tit, lying stretched out straight. khia-tit, to stand up straight. áu-tit, to straighten by bending. at-tit, id. thit-khi-tit, make it straight (v. thit).

仲

丈

杖

使

得

姪

蟄

值

特

直

pī<sup>n</sup>-tit, pretty straight and level, as road; tolerable, as state of affairs; of moderate talents or tolerably good character (neither very good nor very bad). chêng-tit, just, honest, upright. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tit (r.), straight, as a thing. tióng-tit, upright and straightforward; bold in saying what is right. sut-tit, very blunt and plain spoken (v. sut). gōng-tit, too blunt; simple and rough. tsoat-tit, I am a simple straightforward man. ngī<sup>n</sup>-tit, blunt, straightforward, and honest; not afraid to speak his mind or do his duty, though at the risk of giving offence. sí-ngī<sup>n</sup>-tit, excessively blunt, dogged, or outspoken; e.g. running into very great danger for a very small cause, or in order to obey orders to the most minute point. sí-láng-tit, very stiff and dogged; keeping to one's own original plan when the circumstances have totally changed. sí-tit-tit, lying out straight, as in a faint or in death.

it-tit, straightforward; determined on a course. tit-tit-khì, to go straight forward. tit-tit-kóng, to speak boldly and bluntly. tit-thàu-khì, to go straight forward, as into a door (v. thàu). thâu-lē tit, straightforward in dealings; keeping promises, and at proper times. bō-tit-lē, crotchety or peculiar in temper, so that it is hard to work with him. put-tit, unfair or dishonest, as man. oh-tit, difficult to set right, as affair. bōe-tit, cannot be put straight, as an affair. ki<sup>n</sup>-bōe-tit, id.; said also of a man constantly borrowing. tit, kah ná<sup>n</sup> chhài-koe-chhiu, as straight as cucumber tendrils! said ironically of man far from straightforward in dealings.

tiâu-tit, arranged and settled, as dispute; completed, as affair; honest and upright, as man. pān tiâu-tit, arranged and settled; to manage till all straight. siá tiâu-tit, written out well and completely. bōe-tiâu-tit, so ignorant of business, &c., that one cannot manage an affair rightly along with him; cannot be put right, as affair. phá<sup>n</sup>-kha bōe-tiâu-tit, hard to get payment out of, as a bad customer.

tit-khùi, a long expiration, inspiration, or jet (v. khùi). tit-âu, monotony or broken sound of voice; a deep inspiration (v. âu).

pāi tit-kék, to set out a board for the gambling called "tit." chiáh-tit, to play a similar game, but only for amusement, not for gambling. ūi-tit, to draw the diagram used for this sort. teh-tit, to play one of these games. kiá<sup>n</sup>-tit, id.

tiu [R. to throw away]. tiu-tsúi, to throw into the water, as cargo. hiet-tiu (T.), to throw away. pàng-hiet-tiu (T.), id. tòng-hiet-tiu (T.), id. tiu-hē (Cn.), to throw down, as a thing we don't wish.

tiu — kiēn-tiu, good-tempered and nice looking, as child; active, fond of playing about pleasantly and not shy.

tiu [R. tiú, grain growing close; closely crowded]. bát tiu-tiu, very closely crowded or packed.

sán tiu-tiu, very lean.

āng tiu-tiu, very red.

tiu [R. grain growing close, = col. tiu]. jin-ien tiú-bit, population numerous.

tiú (R. id.), silk stuffs; woven silk; silk goods. tiú-toān, silk and satin. tiú-nng, soft silks. ú-tiú, thin glossy silk and cotton stuffs. pháng-tiú, a thin sort of satin. mi<sup>n</sup>-tiú, a strong mixed silk and cotton stuff of nankeen colour, much used for trowsers. iú-tiú, a strong glossy stuff from Canton. gim-tiú, flowered silk. hoe-tiú, id. sê-tiú, plain silk stuff. hún-tiú, sort of white silk stuff. kién-tiú, a silk stuff of a yellowish white. kán-tiú (C.), id. chhun-tiú, a thin sort of silk. lêng-tiú, another thin sort.

tiú [R. embarrassed, undecided]. tiú-tú, to be in doubt; wavering; to wait in suspense; undecided in purpose.

tiú [R. a tally; to calculate], a tally; a bamboo tally about two feet long, used in counting bales. pàng-tiú, to give out the tally to the coolie. kiáh-tiú, to take and carry the tally, as coolie. kau-tiú, to give up the tally (along with the bale), as coolie. siu-tiú, to receive the tally from the coolie when he gives in the bale.

chiōng-goān-tiú, a game of chance played with dice and slips of ivory or bamboo like lots or tallies, having on them the titles of the literary degrees and ranks from Chiōng-goān downwards; also, these slips themselves.

tiú (Cn.) kiam toā-tiú, set at a small angle from one of the four cardinal points, as a house. chē toā-tiú, id. kiam sió-tiú, set at a larger angle from one of the cardinal points. chē sió-tiú, id.

tiú, to clean powdered articles by washing and pouring off the water. kē-tiú, to be thus washed. tiú tsúi-hún, to wash face-powder.

tiú — ta-tiú, now able to take care of itself, as child that does not now need to be constantly tended.

tiú — pē-tiú-á, the lark. pē-tiú-á, id.

tiú [R. daytime]. tiú-iā (R.), day and night.

tiú — σ-tiú-tiú, very black.

tiú (Cn.), to stay regularly or live at a place (R. tsū?). tiú-ke, to have one's family living at a place.

tiú [R. tióng, a staff], to strike with a small stick.

tiú [R. tióng, long, = col. tng]. tiú-chhun-hoe, sort of red flower (v. chhun).

tiú (R. id.) ú-tiú (R.), the universe. í-tiú (C.), id. (R.)

tiú (R. id.), the tyrant Chow, the last emperor of the Shang dynasty. kiét-tiú, the two notorious tyrants Kieh and Chow, of the Hia and Shang dynasties, whose crimes made them lose the throne and put an end to their dynasties by the decree of Heaven. hā-kiét siōng-tiú, id.

tiu [R. rice full-grown], growing or full-grown rice. tiú-sūi, a head or ear of rice. tiú-chháu, rice-straw. tiú-kó, rice-stalks; straws of rice. tiú-kó-thâu, stubble of rice. tiú-thâu, id. tiú-kó-tsáng, id. tiú-tháng, a tub for thrashing rice. tiú-khún, a heap or stack of cut rice. tiú-pū (C.), a heap of cut rice.

pè-tiú, to plant out young rice. tiah-tiú, to pluck off the ears of rice instead of cutting. siak-tiú, to thrash rice. koah-tiú, to cut the rice; reapers. koah-tiú-kang, reapers of the rice-crop. koah i--ê tiú-á-bé, to have an intrigue with a woman who already has an intrigue with another man, so drawing her away from him. ôh i--ê tiú-á-bé (T.), id.

tiu<sup>n</sup> [R. tióng, to open out; to stretch or lay out in order; = col. Chiang], to make a thing by putting together its parts; to make a pretence; the surname Chang; a sheet, as of paper, &c.; classifier of sheets of paper, letters, picture-sheets, beds, tables, chariots, mills, bows, harps, &c.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-sa<sup>n</sup> lí-sì, Mr. So-and-so; any one (v. sa<sup>n</sup>). tiu<sup>n</sup> thien-su, the Taoist high-priest of China. tiu<sup>n</sup> chin-jin, name of an idol. tiu<sup>n</sup> chin-kun, id. tiu<sup>n</sup> thien-kun, id.

躊躇

鴉書住杖長宙紂稍

張

丟

稠

紉

sin-tiu<sup>n</sup>, bodily appearance, as to one's general shape. hó-sin-tiu<sup>n</sup>, well-formed in person. hó-si<sup>n</sup>-tiu<sup>n</sup>, good-looking.

chin-tiu<sup>n</sup>, truly (v. chin).

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tí, to be on one's guard; intentionally (v. tí). tiu<sup>n</sup>-hūn, to distribute into equal portions, arranging them as on a table or other flat place. ū-pun-tiu<sup>n</sup>, generous; liberal (said of children).

tsú-tiu<sup>n</sup>, to determine of one's own will (v. tsú).

tiu<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, to put on a false appearance. tiu<sup>n</sup> kàu-bô-iū<sup>n</sup>, very skilful in deception. tiu<sup>n</sup> kàu-hit-iū<sup>n</sup>, so very deceitful! tiu<sup>n</sup> kàu hit-ê-khoán, id. gâu-tiu<sup>n</sup>, skilful at deception. tiu<sup>n</sup> sim-mih<sup>n</sup>, for what purpose is he putting on that deceitful appearance? tiu<sup>n</sup> chít-ki-chhùì, all mere talk without any power (v. chhùì). tiu<sup>n</sup>-khi-bih, to keep out of the way, pretending not to be present when sought for.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-toah, to refuse sulkily as a pretence in order to get more money, &c. (v. toah). tiu<sup>n</sup>-tioh, id. tiu<sup>n</sup>--lâng, to pretend not to wish what we really do wish, e.g. pretending not to wish a thing, so as to get it cheaper; or refusing to sell, so as to raise the price.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tau<sup>n</sup>, to lay a trap for a man so as to see what he really is, e.g. leaving money open to try his honesty. tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu, id.; to pretend not to wish a thing so as to get it cheaper (v. tau, "to cover").

tiu<sup>n</sup>-tàu, to put together, as parts of a machine, or as men for a work (v. tau, "together").

tiu<sup>n</sup>-keng, to string a bow. tiu<sup>n</sup>-mûg, to make a door for a doorway. tiu<sup>n</sup>-phâng, to fasten a new sail on a boat. beh-tiu<sup>n</sup>-phâng, I wish a new sail for my boat (said to the sail-maker). tiu<sup>n</sup>-lôe, to make a plough. tiu<sup>n</sup>-teng kat-chhái, to hang up lanterns and hangings. tiu<sup>n</sup> oáh-kúí<sup>n</sup> (C.), to make ingenious contrivances with secret springs, wheels, &c. tiu<sup>n</sup> oáh-kúí<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-lâu, to prepare grave-clothes, fittings, and ornaments for one's own burial, while still alive and perhaps quite well. tiu<sup>n</sup>-lâu-sa<sup>n</sup>, grave-clothes made ready beforehand. tiu<sup>n</sup>-lâu ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, coffin, grave-clothes, or such things made ready beforehand for burial.

tiu<sup>n</sup> sin-sè, to put one's self in position with reference to another, e.g. preparing for fighting, or throwing a ball or shuttlecock; to put on some special false appearance, e.g. airs of importance, or a bland kind manner, &c.

chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>-pút, one picture of an idol on paper not yet pasted. nûg-tiu<sup>n</sup>-phoe, two letters.

tiú<sup>n</sup> [R. tióng (C. chhiáng), an area; an arena; a place for market, examinations, gambling, or such crowded busy operations; = col. chhiáng], classifier of examinations for degrees, and of some sorts of busy or long-continued affairs.

soa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the country, as opposed to large towns. chháu-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), grassy ground (v. chháu). sit-tiú<sup>n</sup> (r.), cultivated fields. iâm-tiú<sup>n</sup>, salt-pans (v. iâm). tiám hiét-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to mark out the precise position for a grave on a site already chosen.

hi-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a market-place. hu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id. chiên-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a battle-field. kà-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a review-ground. kà-tiú<sup>n</sup>-pø, id. hoat-tiú<sup>n</sup>, an execution-ground; the place where Taoist priests work magical ceremonies. kóng-ké-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a place where stories are read or told for money. kiáu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a gambling place. pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a place for gambling with the "liên-pó." liên-pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id. hoe-hê-tiú<sup>n</sup>, place for gambling with the "hoe-hê."

kang-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), work.

khang-khè-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a place where work, such as building, is being done. seng-li-tiú<sup>n</sup>, place or arena of trade; affairs of trade. koa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup> ê-lâng, a man who has had much intercourse with mandarins.

khe-tiú<sup>n</sup>, examinations for degrees. kho-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. thâu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the first examination for the Kujin degree. ji-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the second examination for it. sa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the third. sa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup> thàu, having passed the three examinations for Kujin. kú-jîn-tiú<sup>n</sup>, examinations for Kujin degree. hõe-si-tiú<sup>n</sup>, examinations for the Tsin-sze degree. chìn-sū-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

tiú<sup>n</sup>-nâ<sup>n</sup>, sort of basket used by students going to the examinations.

siu-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to close up an affair. sék-tiú<sup>n</sup>, thoroughly experienced, as in gambling. koàn-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to be the best in a competition, as a literary essay, or as a horse or game-cock; said also of men racing, and sometimes of other competitions. kài-tiú<sup>n</sup>, id. hiá<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, losing one's presence of mind; flurried, as at an examination or in transacting important business at a critical time.

lim-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to enter the field of battle or place of examination. jip-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to enter the literary examinations. jip toā-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to enter the examination for Tsin-sze. bat-chiú<sup>n</sup> toā-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to have managed matters of considerable importance, or to have had intercourse with men of high rank. bõe-chiú<sup>n</sup> toā-tiú<sup>n</sup>, unfit to be used on important business, as man.

chit-tiú<sup>n</sup>-sū, one whole affair or piece of business from beginning to end, with all the details involved in or connected with it. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> tai-chì, id. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> ê tai-chì, id. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> ê hó-ì, a benevolent action. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> lâu-jiét, a great concourse of people, as at some festival, or amusement, or joyful ceremonies. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> ê lâu-jiét, id. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> chhiang-chhiang-kún, a great number of people come together and making a great noise. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup>-õe, the whole talk or story about one subject from beginning to end. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup> lóng-sī lí-ê-õe, you have all the talk to yourself. mē<sup>n</sup> chit-tiú<sup>n</sup>, to burst into a fit of scolding or railing. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup>-õe, this talk about one matter. chit-tiú<sup>n</sup>-sū, this one matter.

tiú<sup>n</sup> [R. tióng, to grow; greater; senior; superior; = col. chiáng; by change of tone from "tióng," long]. hâng-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the hired manager of a large hong. hé-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the captain of a junk or ship; the sailing-master. hõe-tiú<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. hõe-tiú<sup>n</sup>, head man of a meeting or association. hoat-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the chief of a company of four boys at an idolatrous procession.

pó-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the tepo or head man of a ward. liên-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head man of a subdivision of a ward (v. liên). kah-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head man over ten families. tui-tiú<sup>n</sup>, officer in command of a small body of soldiers. ék-tiú<sup>n</sup>, an officer on the general's staff for consulting on plan of battle or campaign. tsai-tiú<sup>n</sup>, an official who disburses the money prizes at the Giók-pín academy.

tsók-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head of a clan. pâng-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head of a branch of a clan. siā-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a village elder; a head man in a village. ke-tiú<sup>n</sup>, a village elder; the head or manager of a large mercantile house; polite phrase in addressing an old man. toā-ke-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the principal elder of a village or of a group of villages. ke-tiú<sup>n</sup>-hõe, an assembly of village elders, as of a very large village or of a group of villages.

tiú<sup>n</sup>-lô, (X.) an elder in the church; a presbyter. tiú<sup>n</sup>-lô-hõe, (X.) a consistory or kirk-session.

tiú<sup>n</sup>, a small gong in a wicker frame, used in some ceremonies. tiú<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>, sound of striking such a small gong. tiú<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup>-háu, sound of small gongs; said also

場場

長

of a child or boy talking a great deal too much. phah tiù<sup>a</sup>-tiù<sup>a</sup>, to make a sound with a small gong, as some sorts of pedlars. tsòe phah-tiù<sup>a</sup>-tiù<sup>a</sup>, to be such a small pedlar (many of them buy stolen articles).

tiù<sup>a</sup> (R. tiòng), a pair of curtains opening at the middle. báng-tiù<sup>a</sup>, mosquito-curtains. báng-tiù<sup>a</sup>-kau, hooks for keeping them open. sîn-tiù<sup>a</sup>, a pair of curtains in front of an idol's shrine. pút-tiù<sup>a</sup>, id. of Buddhist idol. ang-tiù<sup>a</sup> (C.), id. chióng-kun-tiù<sup>a</sup>, curtains hung on the tribunal of a high mandarin (civil or military) where he sits in judgment. kió-tiù<sup>a</sup>, curtains in front of mandarin's sedan.

tiù<sup>a</sup>-chhiu, fringes of curtains. tiù<sup>a</sup>-bí, embroidered or painted top of bed-curtains in front. tiù<sup>a</sup>-kau, hooks for curtains. tiù<sup>a</sup>-chha, pieces of cloth for fastening curtains to bed-posts (v. chha). tiù<sup>a</sup>-pâng (r.), a tent.

tiù<sup>a</sup>, to make a dress of two different sorts of stuff, outside and lining. tiù<sup>a</sup>-lí, to make a dress with a lining; to put a lining into a dress. tiù<sup>a</sup> sím-mih<sup>a</sup>-lí, of what stuff will you make the lining?

tiù<sup>a</sup> [R. tiòng, a swelling, esp. dropsical, and of the belly], feeling of overloaded stomach, or of indigestion. siau-tiù<sup>a</sup>, to reduce a swelling or distention of the belly, &c.

tiù<sup>a</sup>-hong, belly swollen, as with wind, e.g. after eating pease; very full of wind, as a sail. tiù<sup>a</sup>-khi, feeling of repletion and overloaded stomach, or of indigestion. tiù<sup>a</sup>-lâng, full of matter and about to burst, as boil or carbuncle. tiù<sup>a</sup>-tsúí, swollen with damp or water-logged, as wood or leather; full of water, as a diseased swelling of the body. tiù<sup>a</sup>-jiō, the bladder too much distended, as from difficulty of passing water or want of opportunity.

pá-tiù<sup>a</sup>, having eaten too much (v. pá). tiù<sup>a</sup> ân-ân, distended and tight, as belly with over-eating or with wind. pak-té tiù<sup>a</sup>, belly overloaded or swollen. chiáh kàu pak-té tiù<sup>a</sup>-phoá, to eat till ready to burst. kóng-ōe, tiù<sup>a</sup>-phoá lán--ê pak-té-tng, to talk in such an irritating way as to make the hearer burst with rage.

tiù<sup>a</sup>-kui, having the crop very much distended, as fowl that has eaten voraciously, or that has been stuffed to make it weigh heavy. tiù<sup>a</sup>-kui--sí, to die of being so stuffed. kóng-ōe tiù<sup>a</sup>-âm-kui, so full of rage as to speak in a loud indistinct way, as if choking with rage. kóng-ōe, tiù<sup>a</sup> âm-kún-kui, id. chhi<sup>a</sup>-kun tiù<sup>a</sup>-âm, the veins appearing swollen on the neck of man talking loud, long, and excitedly.

tiù<sup>a</sup>-ti, pui; tiù<sup>a</sup>-káu, sán; tiù<sup>a</sup>-lâng, chiá<sup>a</sup> hóng-thán, by eating enormously a pig grows fat, a dog grows lean, and a man gets jaundice.

tiù<sup>a</sup> [R. tiòng, to overflow], to swell high, as tide or flood; to raise, as a sunken or stranded vessel, by floating it with caissons or logs of wood, &c. tiù<sup>a</sup>-oá, to raise and float ashore, as wreck, by such means.

tiù<sup>a</sup> tiàu-σ-bé, to help to raise the short heavy end of a well-sweep while another man is pulling down the long arm.

tiù<sup>a</sup> [R. tióng, a measure of ten feet, = col. tng], husband of aunt; also (Cn.), husband of elder sister.

tiù<sup>a</sup>-lâng, wife's father. tiù<sup>a</sup>-m, wife's mother. tiù<sup>a</sup>-lâng-chek, younger brother of wife's father. tiù<sup>a</sup>-lâng-peh, elder brother of wife's father.

toá-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of eldest aunt, either of paternal or maternal aunt. sòe-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of youngest aunt.

á-tiù<sup>a</sup>, aunt's husband! (said in addressing him). i-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of maternal aunt, or of mother's cousin. kε-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of paternal aunt. tông-kε-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of father's cousin of same surname.

tâng-mâg-tiù<sup>a</sup>, husband of wife's sister. chí-tiù<sup>a</sup> (Cn.), husband of elder sister. goán-tiù<sup>a</sup> (Cn.), my elder sister's husband.

tiuh, to beat, as the pulse; to have a slight twitching feeling on the skin; (also, C. = tioh, to pull).

tiuh chih-bé, to lisp in speaking (v. chih). tiuh-tôe, to have a slight limp.

tiuh-tiuh (Cn.), to twitch one's clothes so as to throw off dust, &c.

tiuh — sán tiuh-tiuh, very lean.

tng [R. tong, to bear; to support; ought; then; at that time; = col. ta<sup>n</sup>, tng, tàng, tông], to bear; to sustain, as an office or honour; to lie in wait for; to lay a trap for.

tng-tng, in open court. tng-bîn, face to face. tng-bîn kóng, to speak face to face. tng-bîn hó, tng-bîn liông-pōe, from state of prosperity suddenly fallen into great distress.

tng-chhám, just now become very miserable. teh-tng-heng, in great repute, as idol. tng hoat-chi<sup>a</sup>, just now making much money. hé tng-hoat, frantic with rage; sudden conflagration or inflammation (v. hoat). tng i siá-jí, just when he was writing. jít tng-kiá, sun just at zenith. tng-íóng, just about come to one's full strength; also, to be a militiaman or brave (v. íóng). tng-hó, just now prosperous.

tng hit-tiáp, just then; just at that time. tng-sí, just at the time (not said of future time). tng-sí hó, just now prosperous. tng-hit-sí, just at that time. tng-sí-sí, just in season, as fruit. chiá<sup>a</sup>-tng-sí, just at the proper time or season, as ripe fruit, or as young strong man about 17. tng khi-thâu, just at the beginning. tng-chhoe, id. (v. chhoe). tng goân-chhε, id. (v. goán). tng goân-chhe (C.), just at the beginning. tng goân-chhe (A.), to be a constable.

tng teng-hé hoa, may I die as this lamp goes out that is burning before me! (said by a man in swearing).

tng-tán, to watch for a man, as in order to catch or injure him, or to be on our guard against a thief or man going to injure us; to be watching for an opportunity, as man out of employment waiting for a job. tng-tán hé-hoa, taking the opportunity of the lamp going out.

tng-chhát, to lay wait for a thief. tng-chiáu, to lay a trap for a bird. tng hé-bāng, to set the net called "hé-bāng," and wait for the tide. chhin-bé tng iau-lâng, cold rice will catch a hungry man. chhin-pui<sup>a</sup> tng iau-lâng (C.), id. phoá-ké tng khi<sup>a</sup>-chiáh, a bit of a cake attracts a beggar.

tam-tng, to sustain or be able to bear, as an office, responsibility, or honour. tng chit-jim, to bear office. tng-chhe, to be employed as a messenger or servant by mandarins (v. chhe). tng-peng, to be a soldier. sín-tng--ê, raw recruits. tng-ní<sup>a</sup>, one's year come (in turn) for some duty or office, e.g. for care of worship. sí kàu, sí tng, bear it when the time comes; e.g. you need not be anxious; or, I don't care now. súi kàu, súi tng, id.

tng-bōe-lái, unable for such duties, or for such a business. tng-bōe-tiáu, cannot bear or undertake it I feel unworthy of such honour or kindness. tng-m khi<sup>a</sup>, feeling unworthy of such kindness or condescension. tng-bōe-khi<sup>a</sup>, unable to undertake such a difficult

帳

脹

漲

丈

當

business or office; feeling unworthy of such kindness or politeness. tng bōe-tit-khi, id. tng bōe-tit-tiâu, unable to make head against the calamity, or to bear severe pain or sickness; unable for such important and difficult duties or office.

tí-tng, to bear, as responsibility; to bear the brunt of opposing, or the duty of resisting, e.g. of resisting a robber when guarding a house, or of keeping away people who come to stop a work. bōe--chiá tí-tng, the seller bears the responsibility, as of the deeds. ká<sup>n</sup> tí-tng, not afraid to bear the responsibility or to resist; willing to bear the expense, e.g. of entertaining guests whom some one must take in. ká<sup>n</sup> kap--i tí-tng, I am not afraid to resist or fight with him, or to go to law with him if he accuse me.

tng [R. tōng, the Tang dynasty], a surname. tng-lâng, a Chinaman. tng-soa<sup>n</sup>, China, but usually not including Formosa. tng-ōe hoan-jí, Chinese words written in foreign characters, e.g. in Roman type. tng-jí, Chinese characters.

tng [R. tōng, an artificial pond or tank], a word much used in the names of villages, esp. of military stations and stages on great roads.

tí-tng, ponds and tanks of various sorts, large and small, natural and artificial.

thē-tng, the office at the provincial capital for transmitting imperial despatches, &c. (v. thē).

tng (R. tōng), long; to have a balance in hand, especially of another's money committed to us for some special purpose.

tng-té, long and short (v. té). kú-tng, for a long time (v. kú).

tng-kang, a person hired for a term of some length. tng-pái, a junk that plies with goods once in several days. tng-ní<sup>n</sup>, for the whole year, e.g. making agreement for labour for the whole year, or to buy goods or food for the whole year. khah-ū tng-mng, steady and safe, as trade or friendship (v. mng, "gate"). tng-thâu-mng, the long-haired or Taiping rebels. tng-miā<sup>n</sup>, long-lived. tng-hè-siū, longevity. tng-sa<sup>n</sup>, a long gown, robe, or dress. tng-hiú, a long warm dress.

bō-lē-tng, utterly wanting in ability. bō chit-lē-tng, id. khah-ū lē-tng, has a good deal of ability, or more ability.

chhun-tng, to stretch out long, as caterpillar, or as branches of tree gradually lengthening or encroaching; interest or gains accumulating. chhun tng-chhiú, to be a beggar. chhun-tng kè-lái, to grow longer and gradually encroach or cover, as branches of tree. ū-chhun-tng, interest or gains gradually accumulating.

sé-tng--ê, the amount of gain on a transaction; the balance of clear gain, as at end of month or year. ū-khah-tng, chiah beh-khi, will go if a good deal more (or a considerable sum) can be earned by it. ū-tng, chiah beh-khi, id. lí tò-tng--goá sa<sup>n</sup>-pah-chí<sup>n</sup>, you have 300 cash of mine in your hands, as of balance on commission or change of a dollar. hē--i tò-tng--khi, to have a balance of money lying in his hands. goá hē--lí tò-tng joā-tsōe, what balance of my money have you still on hand? goá hē--lí tng--khi sa<sup>n</sup>-pah, you have still 300 cash of mine in your hands. goá sa<sup>n</sup>-pah hē--lí tng--khi, id. tng joā-tsōe-chí<sup>n</sup> tí-lí-tau, how many cash of mine have you still on hand? tng-lí joā-tsōe, how much of your money is still in my hands as a balance? tng koá-chí<sup>n</sup>, there is a balance of a few cash over. tng- chí<sup>n</sup> joā-tsōe, what balance is over still to be returned?

tng-chí<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. kə-tai-chí<sup>n</sup>, idolatrous paper in long shreds in bundles (v. tai).

tng [R. tōng, bowels, = col. chhiang]. tng-á, bowels; entrails. toā-tng, the great entrails; the colon (s. hall). toā-tng koān-tsút-bí, sort of rice-sausage. toā-tng jip tsút-bí, id. tng-thâu, the anus. thé tng-thâu, to have internal piles coming down. thùt tng-thâu, id. làu toā-tng-thâu, id. sí<sup>n</sup>-tng, the womb of mammalia, but not said of women's; the ovary of a bird. tē-tng-am, said of a literary man pretending to collect money for building a temple, and spending it on his own belly.

tng-tē, the intestines; the inner part of a man (literal or figurative). koah tng-tē, to hurt the bowels, as poison; to wound the heart, as severe grief. koah tng koah-tē, id. koah sim-tng, id. koah-lâng sim-tng, to grieve one very much, e.g. the death of a son (+). lèk-tng lék-tē, very much exhausted by great labour of body or mind. sim-pak tng-tē, heart, bowels, and intestines (lit. or fig.), (+). hó sim-tng, kind-hearted; compassionate. sim-tng nng, very soft-hearted; easily prevailed upon to grant a request. phái<sup>n</sup>-sim-tng, having a cruel or unfeeling heart. phoá-pak thiu-tng, to cut open the belly and draw out the bowels, one of the punishments of the Buddhist hell. phoá-pak liú-tng, id.

tng (R. tōng), a hall, as in a large house or public building; classifier of examinations in court.

tióng-tng, the middle hall of a large house (s. part). thia<sup>n</sup>-tng, the large central hall in a very large house. tng-tsáh, the wooden partition (with doors in it) across the central hall of a large house. tng-tsái<sup>n</sup>-áu, the back part of a central hall thus divided (it is smaller than the front part).

toā-tng, a mandarin's hall of judgment (s. entrails). toā-tng-goā, in the outer part of the yamun. jí-tng, a second hall behind the public hall for more private examinations. áu-tng, id. kong-tng, a mandarin's hall of justice. chì-kong-tng, the upper part of the hall for the examination of candidates for the Kujin degree, where the examiner sits. chhoan-tng, the inner hall just behind the great hall of a yamun. tng-tng, in open court. chē-tng, to sit on the tribunal. seng-tng, to enter the hall and take his seat on the tribunal. chiú<sup>n</sup>-tng, to appear before the tribunal. thè-tng, to leave the tribunal, as mandarin when the business is over. tng-téng, on the tribunal or judgment-seat; also, the upper part of the examination hall near the examiner. thiau-tng, to call up a young and talented student near the examiner's seat.

tng-keng, evidence given in court. tng-khàn, the mandarin examining with the papers of which side the verbal evidence agrees. tng-jū, a written order issued by the mandarin on the tribunal. tng-jí (C.), id.

chia<sup>n</sup>-tng, the principal mandarin of a place, as opposed to his assistants. tsó-tng, the literary mandarin (lò-su) of a Foo or Hien district, or the chief one if there be two. iū-tng, assistant literary mandarin of a district; sometimes said of other assistant mandarin. tít-tng, interpreter between mandarin and people.

òh-tng, a school-house. sū-tng, an ancestral temple. lé-pài-tng, a chapel or church. chhài-tng, public hall of vegetarians. iók-eng-tng, founding hospital. ióng-seng-tng, id. béng-lún-tng, the great hall of a Confucian temple.

tng [R. toān, a bit or piece, = col. toā<sup>n</sup>], (C. tú<sup>n</sup>), a

唐 塘
長

腸

堂

段

piece of any long-shaped thing broken or cut in two, esp. about a half; one end of a long thing consisting of two distinct parts, though not sundered; e.g. the upper and lower parts of the trunk, or of a door in two very different forms above and below; (used in pedlar's slang to mean 50 cash).

tù-túg, at or by a half; taking a half; e.g. cutting or breaking across into about equal halves. tsòe n̄g-túg, making two pieces of it, e.g. of a stick or sugar-cane cut across. tsám tsòe n̄g-túg, cut it across into two pieces by one blow, as of a knife, chisel, or axe. sa<sup>n</sup>-túg, three pieces of a long thing.

tiong-túg, the middle part (s. hall). poà<sup>n</sup>-tiong-túg soah--khi, to fail half-way. téng-túg, the upper end or part. ē-túg, the lower half or part, e.g. lower part of the body, i.e. the belly and under. sng chit-túg, half the body all sore, as with rheumatism or long sitting.

phiáh-túg, a brick broken across about the middle, used for building. tsúi-khè-túg, very short trousers or drawers like bathing-drawers or caleçons. khè-túg (Cn.), id.

túg [same as previous word? or R. tông? a boy, a lad, = col. tàng].

lâng-túg, a lad about 15 or 16, just changing from boy to lad; a hobbledehoy. lâng-túg-á, id. chiá<sup>n</sup>-lâng-túg, to be a big boy or boyish lad.

túg [R. toán, to cut; to sever; = col. tūg]. túg-tsai, to cut the navel-string of a new-born child. koah-bah chit-túg-thiá<sup>n</sup>, to get it over by one bitter pang (v. thiá<sup>n</sup>).

túg — pàng-tiau pàng-túg, to intimidate; to threaten (cf. háng).

túg [R. tióng, to overflow; to rise high, as tide; sometimes read "tióng," = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>], to rise, as the tide. tsúi túg, tide rising; flood-tide; tide beginning to flow. tsúi-túg-koe, a fowl crowing about midnight; not a bad omen.

túg-thâu, the first of the flood-tide (s. turn).

túg [R. tióng, to grow; to increase; senior; = col. tiú<sup>n</sup>], chiáng; by change of tone from "tióng," long, = col. tūg]. túg toá-lâng, to become an adult, or of marriageable age, as boy or girl. túg-pl<sup>n</sup>, id. túg-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, id. túg m̄-chiá<sup>n</sup>-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, weak and sickly about that age. túg-m̄-chiá<sup>n</sup>, id. túg-m̄-khi, weak about that age, as from want of good food or from disease, so as to be small and puny-looking all one's life. beh-túg, just about to be of the age of puberty. bē-túg-kut, not yet come to the age of puberty, as boy.

túg — túg-liên-hoân, to fire numerous guns in rapid succession, making a running fire.

túg [R. tsóan, to turn; to transfer], (C. túi<sup>n</sup>, in most of the phrases), to turn about; to return; to manage and arrange, as a dispute, as a third party does.

túg-lái túg-khi, to turn back and forwards. chiá<sup>n</sup>-túg, to turn in the direction of the hands of a watch; opposed to "tò-túg." i<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>-túg, to whirl about, as a top or wheel. túg-séh, to revolve, as a ball, or as a star; to arrange a quarrel, as an arbiter.

túg hong-bîn, wind changing; to change from anger or displeasure to friendliness. túg lâm-hong, to change to a south wind.

túg-tsng, Buddhist rites for the soul of a woman who has died in the first month after childbirth (v. tsng).

túg-chhù, bride going to make a short call at her parents' house, but not passing the night (usually four days after marriage). siang-lâng-túg, both bride and bridegroom making this call.

oã<sup>n</sup>-túg-chhiú, to change hands, as in carrying a heavy thing; or as showing one hand after the other to doctor to feel the pulse; or to fortune-teller (+). túg-keng, to change a load from one shoulder to the other, as coolie or chair-bearer. túg-liâu, to change the rate of a song. túg khah-kín, to change to a quicker rate. bōe-túg-sia<sup>n</sup>, unable to pronounce articulately, as in severe illness, or from singing too long.

túg-âng, to put on ordinary dress when putting off mourning; to change to red colour, as fruit or face; to grow reddish and just ready to die, as rice-plants in drought. túg-hân, to become suddenly cold and dangerously ill. túg khé-phé, wound healed so far that the new skin is forming, and the old peeling off at the edges.

túg-bák, to give a quick peculiar glance with the eye, as on seeing a man do something wrong, or when he is just going to do it, so as to prevent him. bák-chiu túg-lân, eyes turning round and showing the white, esp. as superior displeased at what an inferior is doing or just going to do. bák-chiu bōe-túg-lân, eyes immovable, as when about to die, or in a long steady angry stare.

chhiò kàu-bōe túg-khùi, to laugh till quite out of breath.

túg-sin, to turn one's self round. bōe-túg-sin, unable to turn one's self; unable to set the matter right without loss of influence or reputation; having no place for reply or excuse, and so utterly ashamed. bō túg-sin ê sé-tsai, id. oát-túg-sin, to turn one's self round so as to look back; immediately.

oát-túg-thâu, to turn one's head round; to turn round. chit-ē-khi, bō-túg-thâu, to go and not come back at all.

oát-lín-túg, to turn one's self round (v. lín). oát-túg-lái, to turn one's self (or one's head) round, e.g. to look at or face a man; to turn a thing round to face us; to take a walk and come back. thâu-khak oát-túg-lái, to turn one's head round. oát-túg-chhiú, to stretch out the hand backwards with the palm backwards; immediately. oát-túg-chhiú lái-khiú--i, turned his hand backwards and caught him (+).

oat-túg-chhiú, chiú-si, just turn off the road at that place and you are at it.

tò-túg, to turn back or round. oát-tò-túg, to turn back; to turn the wrong end, as of a book (+). tò-túg--khi, to turn round and come backwards. péng-tò-túg, to turn upside down or wrong side up; to invert. chē-tò-túg, to take back an article which the purchaser returns. théh-tò-túg, to take back (a thing). thó tò-túg, to demand back, as property, especially what we have a right to claim and redeem.

túg khah-hó-lióng, become less strict and exacting, esp. not minute about money matters. hōe-sim túg-i, to change one's mind towards good. phái<sup>n</sup> túg-chiá<sup>n</sup>-hó, to change from badness to goodness.

túg chih-koan, to change one's line of argument merely to oppose what the other says, without regard to truth. súi-si-túg, to accommodate one's self and one's plans to the change of circumstances. bō-chhún au-túg, not making proper provision for the future.

tsai-túg, willingly receiving advice, correction, or reproof, and making good use of it. m̄-tsai-túg, unwilling to take advice or correction, or to accept the good offices of an arbiter; incorrigible. phah-thâu.

紉

漲

長

轉

chiū-tsai tng-bé, on hearing the beginning he understands how to bring it to a proper conclusion.

tng-tó, to be in constant and profitable circulation, as money always invested to good purpose and rapidly making profit over and over. gâu tng-tó, skilful at making rapid and large returns out of one's money. tng-tó--khi hó-sè, money laid out so as to make large and rapid returns.

seng-lí tng, one's trade improving. seng-lí khah-tng, id. seng-lí tsòe-m-tng, trade all goue wrong.

tng-sng (T.), to set right an affair that would have been hopeless in other hands, as a skilful or influential friend; to make a business profitable under great difficulties, e.g. with very little capital. tng-tak (T.), id.; esp. of a business with very small capital; often has the idea of being rather too sharp. chhit-oai<sup>n</sup>, poeh tng-tak (T.), constantly finding means of getting money out of people, either quite wrongly or considerably too much.

tng-sū, to adjust and arrange a dispute or feud, as a mutual friend or mediator by his good offices. tng tai-chi, id. tng-bòe-chiá, unable to arrange the quarrel properly. tng-bòe-lái, id. tng-bòe-tit-lái, id. bòe-tng--tit, the feud is too violent or the case too bad to be settled thus.

tng [R. tòng, suitable; safe; firm; to pledge or pawn; = col. tng; by change of tone from "tong," to bear; ought; to take the responsible management of, = col. tng, ta<sup>n</sup>], to pawn; to put in pledge. ká-lang-tng, to take on mortgage.

tsún-tng, a pledge between friends, not in a pawnshop. sin-tng, to give a thing in pledge for its full value, or more than its value, at a pawnshop where the head or one of the assistants is an acquaintance; the ticket is marked "sin-tng," and it is a point of honour that it is to be redeemed, or that it is not to be sold without warning.

tng-tiám, a pawnshop. tién-tng (Cn.), id. tng-phió, a pawn-ticket. tng-thâu, a thing pawned. thó tng-thâu, to redeem a pledge. thó-tng (Cn.), id.

lí kán-tng (Cn. T.), why have you brought this evil on yourself so as to get no pity? lí kán-tng kàu-an-ni<sup>n</sup> (Cn. T.), id.

bóe hoe-tng (Cn.), = A. teh hoe-hē, a sort of gambling. hoe-tng-soa<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), a place where this sort of gambling is carried on.

tng (= tng). ñg-tng, = ñg-tng, obstinately self-willed, as young person.

tng (cf. tng, tūn, thng), (C. tui<sup>n</sup>), to warm slightly over a small stove. tng-sio, id.

tng [R. tūn, to bow the head to the ground; to adjust; a meal], (C. tui<sup>n</sup>), a meal; classifier of meals. chit-tng-png, one meal. chit-tng-png-kú, about half an hour, or nearly an hour. sóe png-tng, to get a meal out of a man by sorning on him. sòng kàu-bô-chit-tng, just starving with poverty. chhi pē-bú, siáu-tng, he counts every meal his parents get (v. chhi).

kiám-tng, to want a meal; to abstain from a meal, as from want of leisure. kiám toá-tng, to abstain from breakfast occasionally, as a superstitious observance, gen. on 1st and 15th of the month, often done by women. iau-ki sit-tng, hungry or starving from want of a meal or meals. chiáh--liáu bô-chiáu-si-tng, eating at irregular hours.

mng-tng (Cn.), supper. ê-hng-tng, id. chiáh tsá-tng (Cn.), to take breakfast.

tng [same as previous word?] (C. tui<sup>n</sup>, in some phrases; but in some others "teh" is used instead).

tng--lòh-khi, to set down heavily; to fall down heavily. tng-poáh-chē, to come down unexpectedly on the ground, when meaning to sit down on a chair where there is none. tng-kha (C. tsám-kha), to stamp with the foot. tng koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to strike with a walking-stick straight down on the ground or floor, in sign of anger. tng-i tng-toh, to strike chair and table in anger.

tng sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, to strike one's breast, as when terribly disappointed at losing a good opportunity, especially by one's own fault, or at finding good news to be false. tng-heng, to beat one's breast with the palm, in great displeasure or anger, esp. when determined to quarrel; also (C. tui<sup>n</sup>-heng), to beat one's breast with a large stone, as beggars do. tng-heng phoá-hiáh, to wound breast and forehead, as beggars do.

tng-in (C. teh-in), to stamp with a seal or stamp. tng-jí, to stamp characters, as on goods. tng jí-hô (C. teh), to stamp a shop-mark. tng-âng (C. teh-âng), to stamp with red ink. tng-oân, to receipt an account by stamping the word "oân."

tng (= tng). ñg-tng, = ñg-tng, idle, self-willed, proud, and obstinate, as child or young person who will not obey orders (cf. hòng-tng?).

tng [R. tòng? a tub for washing]; to rinse with water after washing; to wash a second time. koh-tng, id. sóe-tng, to wash and rinse or wash a second time. ka-tng (C. kē-tng), id. (s. sever).

tng [R. tiōng, a measure of 10 feet, = col. tui<sup>n</sup>], a chang, or measure of 10 Chinese feet. tng-it, 11 feet. tng-jí, 12 feet. tng-jí-thú, a long club, 12 feet long. tng-sa<sup>n</sup>, lién gē-chhùn, 13 feet 5 inches. jí-tng sì, 24 feet. nng-tng, 20 feet.

niú<sup>n</sup>-tng, to measure how many chang. niú<sup>n</sup> kú-tng, id.

tng — lē-tng, the road-way; a much-frequented road (s. sever). toá-lē-tng, a much-frequented road. hit--ê sī lē-tng, that is a place where people constantly walk. tú-á tī lē-tng, just in the very road-way. m-thang-hē tī lē-tng, don't lay it in the road or door-way, where people constantly walk. m-thang-chē tī-lē-tng, don't sit in the road, &c.

tng [R. toán, to sever; to cut or break asunder], (C. tui<sup>n</sup>), to cut asunder; to break in two; to sever; to cut off; to discontinue; to cease.

lē tng, not having any intercourse; not coming and going; having no means of livelihood (s. road-way). thâu-lē tng, having no means of livelihood. tng-lē, to leave off going to a place, e.g. breaking off bad courses practised there, or having a quarrel or owing a debt there. kap-i tng-lē, having no more intercourse with him.

that-tng, to block up, as road. that-tng lāng-ê-lē, to be an obstacle in a man's way (usually figurative). keh-tng, to separate, as a wall or river, &c. kán-tng, to break a constant succession.

kat-tng, to have no more intercourse; to break off intercourse. koah-tng, to cut off or asunder with a knife, by drawing the knife along. tsám-tng, to cut off or asunder with one blow of a sword, knife, or axe; to cut off, as friendship (v. tsám). tsām-tng, to cut in two with a chisel. liám-bōe-tng, cannot well

當

丈

斷

頓

break off the connection, or cannot find it in one's heart to do so, e.g. when a near relative has done something very bad, or in the case of an illicit connection. ka-tŭng, to cut asunder with scissors (s. rinse). kā-tŭng, to bite asunder.

sŭg-tŭng, to spoil, as a thing (v. sŭg). phah-tŭng, to break; to spoil.

tŭng-khùi, to expire (v. khùi). tŭng-lin, to wean. tŭng-leng, id. tŭng-kun (C. tŭi<sup>n</sup>-kin), to cut up by the roots; to remove utterly, as a disease or bad habit or band of robbers. tŭng-chiú<sup>n</sup>, to have a line quite across one's palm (v. chiú<sup>n</sup>). phah-tŭng-thâu, to break off the head, as of a clay image. tŭng-tià<sup>n</sup>, anchor cable broken (v. tià<sup>n</sup>). tŭng-soh, to cut or break a rope.

tŭng-tiám-hong, not the least breath of wind. tŭng-poá<sup>n</sup>-tih, not half a drop, e.g. of rain. tŭng-chiah-koe, not even one fowl. tŭng-chiah-báng, not a single mosquito. seng-khu tŭng-tâng-sien, I have not a bit of a cash on me. seng-khu tŭng-tâng-phí, id. kàu-tŭng-chhi<sup>n</sup>, till nothing green is left, e.g. in a great drought. sí kàu-tŭng-chit-ê, all dead, and none left. sio kàu tŭng-keng, to burn so as not to leave one house. chēng kàu-tŭng-sin-pe tŭng-báng-háu, so still that not even a fly or mosquito is heard.

tŭng [R. tŭng, to strike; to dash or strike against; to meet with accidentally]. tŭng--tióh, to meet with, as on the way; to come upon or against accidentally. sa<sup>n</sup>-tŭng, to meet with another person accidentally. sa<sup>n</sup>-tŭng-thâu, to meet another on the road accidentally when going in opposite directions. tŭng hi-koà, to take an omen from the first play one meets (v. koà).

tú-tŭng, casually meeting with; casually occurring. tú-tŭng ũ, fortunately have on hand. tú-tŭng bô, happen not to have. tú-tŭng kàu, chance to reach. nŭg-tsŭng m̄-táh tú-tŭng, scheming is not so good as to get a fortunate opportunity. si-kòe-tô si-kòe-tŭng, having to go about getting little jobs here or there, or begging, borrowing, and asking from friends.

tŭng--tó, to overset by coming against. chhiong-tŭng, to come against accidentally. lām-sám tŭng, to run against carelessly on the road, as persons or things. tŭng-mŭg, to push a door with the body, as man inside keeping it from being opened; or as pig trying to push open a door. sái chhiú-áu-ti<sup>n</sup> tò-tŭng, to strike backwards with the elbow.

tit-tŭng, coming on too hastily; e.g. too quickly, so as to run against things; or showing want of politeness by not waiting till permitted. hoái<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup> tit-tŭng, going on boldly anywhere without fear.

tó (R. id.), a knife; a sword; a large quantity of paper, somewhat like a ream. chit-to-tsoá, one bundle of paper folded all in one, from 25 sheets to 360 sheets, according to the thickness.

to-á, a knife; a small knife. to-ká<sup>n</sup> (An.), id. (s. son). chit-ki-to, one knife. lái-to, a sharp sword or knife.

toa<sup>n</sup>-to, a solitary swordsman, said of Kwan-ti (koan-tè) when he set out as a warrior. khang-chhiú siu toa<sup>n</sup>-to, able to wrest a great sword from an enemy with unarmed hands; said of man able to carry on a large business with no capital or little.

sio-to (Cn.), strong spirits. sio-to-chiú (Cn.), id. sio-to-hôe, the Triad Society; a rebellious society, often called "the Small Knife Society," from a mistaken translation; the new members enter the society under a yoke of two crossed swords. siang-to-hôe (C.), id.

sio-to, id.; belonging to the Triad Society. sio-to-hoán, the rebellion of the Triads at Amoy.

that-á-to, the short sword commonly used by soldiers. io-to, a sword worn at the girdle. pē io-to, to wear it, as military mandarin. kúi-thâu-to, an executioner's sword with a demon's head on the handle. pó-to, a very valuable sword. hau-bé-to, a bayonet.

chiam-bé-to, a sharp-pointed knife. tsôe-thâu-to, a knife with a broad square end. tek-hiòh-to, a knife shaped like a bamboo leaf, worn in a sheath. chhâ-to, a large cleaver for splitting wood. tsoá-to, a blunt knife for cutting folded paper. chhiám-to, a knife for engraving blocks for printing. khek-to, a knife for carving wood.

bin-to, a small razor for the cheeks, or for the second shaving. thi-thâu-to, a razor for the head. thih-thâu-to, id. hi-to, a small knife for cleaning out the ear.

koan-to, a sort of halbert or crooked spear (v. koan). toá-to, do., as carried before some high mandarins. khu-liám-to, sort of halbert.

ka-to, shears, scissors (v. ka). chién-to, knife fixed on a pivot, for cutting medicines, &c. tsáh-to, a knife on a pivot; a fixed knife used by coopers (v. tsáh). khu-to, a plane (v. khu). oan-to, sort of large convex plane, for smoothing the inside of buckets, &c. (v. oan).

hé-to, a steel for striking fire. hiá-to, a small thick trowel, used for laying bricks, and for breaking them. piáh-to, a large sort of trowel, with a handle on the back, as on a shield.

chhah-to, to wear a sword or knife at the side; the 18th radical written at the side. khia<sup>n</sup>-to, the 18th radical written at the side. tsah-to, to carry a sword concealed about one's dress. kiáh-to, to take or carry in the hand a sword or knife. puih-to, to draw a sword. boá-to, to sharpen a knife or sword.

phi<sup>n</sup>-to, the ridge of the nose when it is high and sharp, as in a Roman or aquiline nose. phi<sup>n</sup> to-to, ridge of nose very high and sharp. kha-liám-to, the foot used as a hook for tripping up another. chhiú-to, the side of the hand (at the little finger) when held flat and straight. ēng chhiú-to tsá<sup>n</sup>, to strike with the edge of the hand held so.

sai-to, sort of long narrow fish. hái-ka-to, sort of crab with two very long claws and the rest very short. to-táu, sort of legume with long knife-shaped pods.

to-peng ê tsai-ê, calamities of war or rebellion. to-chhiu<sup>n</sup> ê tsai-ê, id. chhiu<sup>n</sup>-to, spears and swords (v. chhiu<sup>n</sup>). to-pé-siú, executioners.

chhò-to, to make a mistake in using a knife; to make a mistake in anything. hó-to-lē, a good cut of meat. hó-to-tè, id. it-to líong-toán, to settle at once and finally (v. toán). kè-to-tsáh, to be cut in two by a machine, a form of punishment.

siang-bin-to kúi, a man who talks fair to each side, and slanders the other side to each, so as to stir up enmity.

to-bah, the blade of a sword or knife. to-chhiú, the edge of it. to-chhiú-kháu, id. to-mi<sup>n</sup>, the sharp steel edge. to-kng, the steel point or edge. to-pòe, the back of knife or sword. ēng to-pán phah, to strike with the flat of a sword. ēng to-pán siau, id. to-khoân, the hilt, esp. round. to-pi<sup>n</sup>, handle of sword or knife. to-kheng, the eye of a knife where the handle is inserted; the back of a knife. to-thâu, the point of a square-ended knife at the end of the edge. to-bé, the end of the edge of a square knife close to the handle. to-âu (T.), id.

撞

刀

to-siù, a scabbard. to-siò, id. to-sok, id. to-kè, a stand for swords and spears, as at gate of city or of yamun. to-chiòh, a whetstone. to-tiam, a block on which vegetables (and other food) are cut.

to-siong, wound made by sword or knife. to-hún, mark left by such a wound after it has healed.

tô (Cn. tióng). to-ni<sup>n</sup>, a small wild Azalea with a red edible fruit.

tô [mere imitation of a foreign sound]. to-lô-ni<sup>n</sup>, a sort of foreign woollen stuff.

tô [cf. ta-pê, male]. to-ngá (Cn.), a son (s. knife). to-ká<sup>n</sup> (Cn. esp. An.), id.

tô [R. many; much; = col. tsōe], (Cn. tē). chhaput-tô, just about the amount, or almost enough; about, in amount or quality; tolerable; it will just do (lit. difference not much). giên to, pit-sit; lé to, pit-tsà, in many words there will be some mistake; in much politeness there is cunning. bēng-tê to-chhún, my fate is very bad (v. bēng).

to-siā, thank you! to-sū, a meddling fellow; a busybody. to-chi-chiet, confused, as a business (v. chiet). to-teng toát-tsái, a large family diminishes wealth.

ké-to-toā, you are making yourself very big, quite above what you ought.

tô, = tē (Cn. tē), a particle used at the beginning of a clause, generally with the idea that the fact is not what was expected; well; indeed; yet; still; probably it may, but I think —, &c.; it is pronounced very short and unaccented, almost like “tôh” or “toh” [generally supposed = R. tē, all; altogether; metropolis].

to-bô, well, there is none of it; and there is none. to-bô--lah, id. chhē to-bô, on searching, after all could not find it. to-m̄-tsai, indeed I do not know. to-m̄-hó, it won't do at all. lí to-m̄-thia<sup>n</sup> goá-ê-ōe, you will not listen to me (though you ought). chit-si-hô to bōe-tsōe--tit, indeed it will not do at all. goá to bōe-hiáu--tit, I don't understand it.

to-hó, well, that will do; and so that will do. to-tiòh, well, then, it is quite right; thus it is quite right. ū-ia<sup>n</sup> to-tiòh, indeed it is quite true. to sī àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, indeed it is so. koe-nng bát-bát, to ū-phang, though an egg is very close, yet it has pores; hard to keep a matter quite secret.

m̄ to —, well, it is; yet indeed; well after all; you had better; it is best to.

tô [R. to escape], to escape; to steal gradually in small quantities. bô-thang-tô, no way to escape. tô-chhut, to escape out of a place. tô--chhut-lâi, to steal things gradually little by little, as from the house where one stays, or the shop in which he is engaged. ún-á tô, id.

tô-tsáu, to run away; to abscond; to escape. tô-phiah, to get temporarily out of the way of danger. tô-khui--khi, id.

tô-pī, to escape, get out of the way, or run off (right or wrong). tô-siám, id. tô-thoat, to run away, escape, or abscond. thoat-tô, id.

tô-chè, to abscond, so as to avoid paying a debt. tô-hong, to run into port or under shelter to avoid a storm. tô-lân, to flee from great calamity. tâi-sê lân-tô, the fated period of death cannot be escaped. kiap-sê lân-tô, the fated time of great calamity cannot be avoided.

tô sî<sup>n</sup>-miã<sup>n</sup>, to escape with one's life. tô-miã<sup>n</sup>, id.

tô-si<sup>n</sup>, bô tô-sí, he flees to get life, not death (said of saving the life of a fugitive).

tô-peng, a deserter or fugitive soldier.

tô [R. tē, a measure; a rule; capacity; to measure; to pass the time].

tô-chiáh, to get only one's own food and some clothes for the work done for another, having nothing over for family or for laying up. tô-chit-chhùi chiáh, id. tô-pá, to get barely one's food for bits of work, esp. from relatives or acquaintances.

sì-kòe-tô, sì-kòe-tng, to wander about living by small jobs, or by begging and asking from others [or is this the previous word?].

tô [R. to wash out; to stir about; to cleanse; = col. toâ], to clean out, as a well or pond. tô-chi<sup>n</sup>, to clean out a well. tô-tí, to clean out a pond. tô thâm-á, to clean out a deep pond used for irrigation. soa tô--khí-lâi, to take out sand, as from well or pond.

tô, vegetable tallow. tô-á-chhiū, the tree from which vegetable tallow is made. tô-chhiū, id.

tô-chek, candles made of vegetable tallow. tô-tháng, vessel containing the tallow in which the candles are dipped.

tô [R. tó, pendent branches; classifier of flowers], a bunch of fruit, such as dragon's-eye (gēng-géng), or lâi-chi. chiã<sup>n</sup>-pha chiã<sup>n</sup>-tô, in great quantities, e.g. very great gains.

tô — huìh-tô, a large mass of soft clotted blood.

tô — tô-tiáp, to annoy; to tease, esp. in order to get one to do something (v. tiáp).

tô (R. id.) phû-tô, a grape-vine; grapes. pê-tô (C.), id. (+). phû-tô-chhiū, a vine. phû-tô-tsang, id. phû-tô-koa<sup>n</sup>, raisins. phû-tô-chhi<sup>n</sup>, purplish blue. soa--pê-tô (C.), a sort of wild vine.

iũ-tô, a curious angular fruit, the Carambola, sometimes called the Chinese gooseberry, but not in any way similar to a gooseberry. iũ-tô-sng, a preserve made from it.

tô [R. the weight of a steelyard; it is not always written with the same character].

tsúi-tô, a sounding-lead. tsúi-tô-soh, a sounding-line. phah tsúi-tô, to take soundings with the lead. pang tsúi-tô, id.

tô-óá, scales of balance. tô-chí, weights for scales. tô-jí<sup>n</sup>, id. niu<sup>n</sup>-tô, the weight for a large steelyard.

khàu tô-tóe, to take off a very small discount, by regular custom of trade, from the price paid for goods, gen. about one mace (chi<sup>n</sup>) on a hundred dollars. teh tô-tóe, id.

khê-tô, the scale of weights making a dollar count 7 mace 2 candarens, the regular rate in other places than Amoy; said only of steelyards thus marked for weighing dollars, for balances are always counted at this rate; and when money is counted under the denomination of taels, it is always by this rate. khê-tô-téng, a small steelyard, marked so as to make a dollar 7 1/2, exactly agreeing with the scale of the “khê-péng.” hã-tô, the rate of the Amoy steelyard weights, making one dollar weigh 7 1/6; so that a given weight according to the “hã-tô” is 5 or 6 per cent. lighter than by the “khê-tô.” hê-tô (C.), id. hã-tô-téng, small steelyards graduated according to the Amoy standard, making $1 = 7 chi<sup>n</sup> 6 hun.

pah-si-tô, the common medium-sized steelyard used at Amoy (its weight is said to be 7 kun). pah-si-tô

多

多

都

逃

度

淘

柁

朵

萄

砵駝

chiá<sup>n</sup>, steelyard correct according to Amoy weights. chheng-si-tó chiá<sup>n</sup>, do., said of the very large steelyards called "niū<sup>n</sup>." pah-lák-tó, = mûg-kháu-chhìn, the Cantonese steelyard, making the "kun" two ounces heavier than the Amoy rate (the ounces also being proportionally heavier); used in Amoy by peddlars, while the "pah-si-tó" is used in shops.

tó [R. to carry a burden, as a beast of burden; by some divided into two words], to carry a load on the back, as a mule or ass does.

lók-tó, a camel.

lú-tó, mules or asses, as used for carrying burdens.

lí-tó (C.), id.

tó sòe-kiá<sup>n</sup> (T.), to carry a child on the back, as woman. hē-goá teh-tó (T.), you make me a mere drudge toiling continually. teh-thoa teh-tó (T.), constantly toiling and drudging.

úi-tó (Cn. úi-tò), an idol that guards the gate of a Buddhist temple; if his baton be pointed almost to the ground, then the temple receives travelling priests for some days; he and "úi-hē" are placed in front of Kwan-yin [by some this is placed under the following word]. úi-tó-hút, id. úi-tó-chhi, a large upright cactus with a fine flower.

tó [R. steep and precipitous; a syllable much used in Buddhist phrases: some also place "úi-tó" under this word].

o-bí-tó-hút, Amida Buddha, the Buddha most usually worshipped; often written as a charm, or recited as a prayer. o-mí-tó-hút (Cn. ɛ-bi-tò-hút), id. o-mí-tó-hút, id. bí-tó, id.

phé-tó, the sacred island of Poo-too, in the Chu-san archipelago, near Ningpo. phé-tó-soa<sup>n</sup>, id. lâm-phé-tó, name of the largest temple near Amoy.

bit-tó-cheng, litharge.

tó [R. the end of a sleeve], the part cut out of a square piece of cloth in making an ordinary Chinese coat; the large flap on the breast of a Chinese coat.

toā-tó, the large flap on the breast of a Chinese coat. sīn chit-ê toā-tó, enough of cloth is over (as of the cloth cut out) for making the large flap.

tó-thâu, the piece of cloth cut out in making a coat.

tó [R. to pray], (Cn. tó). ki-tó (R.), to pray; to pray to.

tó [R. an island], (Cn. tó). hái-tó (R.), an island. hā-tó (R.), Amoy Island. lē-tó (R.), id.

hông-lái-tó, the dwelling of the Sien or Tauistic genii.

tó [R. battlements; a target], (Cn. tó). siá<sup>n</sup>-tó-chí, the battlements of a wall.

tó [R. ná, there; where? = col. tah, tá]. tó-lóh, = tá-lóh, where? (v. lóh).

beh-tó-khì, where are you going? lí tó-khì, id. tùi-tó-ngá (Cn.), from what place?

tó [R. id., = col. tò], to fall; to overturn; to lie down; fallen into ruins, or fallen flat on the ground; bankrupt or ruined; to lose one's case in court; extinct, as a branch of a family; (to kill, as animals).

tien-tó, to stumble and fall; calamity (v. tien). poáh-tó, to fall by stumbling (v. poáh). poáh chit-tó, id. oái-chit-tó, to twist or sprain the foot so as to fall. ién-tó, to throw down in wrestling. chia-tó, to push over; to push and cause to fall. sak-tó, id. péng-tó, to turn upside down, as a thing. pán-tó (C.), id. püi<sup>n</sup>-tó (Cn.), id. pái<sup>n</sup>-tó (T.), id. áh-put-tó, a toy figure with a round bottom, that cannot be overturned.

piên-tó, to overcome in argument, so as to silence or shut up one's opponent. piên-tó--i, to overcome him in argument. khít--i piên-tó, to be overcome in argument, and silenced by him. khít--i pok-tó, id.

kà-ōe-tó, fully able to teach. thàn--i bōe-tó, his work is too heavy or too difficult for one's strength or ability. chiáh--i bōe-tó, id.

túg-tó, money laid out so as to make large and rapid profits (v. túg). túi<sup>n</sup>-tó (C.), id.

thán-tó, lying down; laid down (v. thán). tó thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, lying crosswise, e.g. across a bed. tó thán-tit, lying straight along. tó tit-tit, lying along at full length. tó-teh-khùn, lying down, resting, or asleep. tó-tsai-chhng, quite confined to bed. tó-chhng, id.

tó lí-lí, fallen down flat, as house or wall; lying along the ground, as man; become quite bankrupt.

tó-tó khiā-khiā, lounging about idly, perhaps lying, perhaps standing.

tó-chhù, a ruined house. tó-kió, a fallen and ruined bridge; sometimes the name of a village at an old ruined bridge. tó-hoái, destroyed and ruined, as a house. tó chit-khiáh, having a part broken down, as wall or bridge. tó liáu-liáu, all in ruins.

tó-thui, a fixed wooden stair with level steps, as distinguished from a mere ladder. tó-io, to throw one's head back and make the belly project (v. io). tó-mí<sup>n</sup>, having the edge turned so as to be very blunt, as an ill-sharpened knife. tó-ko, the 62d radical.

siang-tó-tsúi, made with a ridge, as a roof of two slopes. chit-tó-tsúi, having only one slope, as the roof of a shed without a ridge. poeh tó, káu pē (T.), in the 8th month the Pleiades are somewhat down, in the 9th low down, at sunrise (v. pē).

tó-pāng, to overcast in sewing, folding in the rough edge of the cloth.

tó-pāng, the branch of the family become extinct. tó-thiáu, id., of a smaller branch.

tó-ūn, very bad luck; the fated season of one's death or great calamity. tó-ióng, loss of virility.

tó-tiám, bankrupt, as shopkeeper. tiám tó, id. hāng tó, bankrupt, as merchant in large business. tó-tā<sup>n</sup>, pedlar become bankrupt. tó lāng-ê-siáu, to fail to pay a debt, either as a bankrupt or refusing to pay. hē-lāng tó-siáu, to fail to recover a bad debt. khít--lāng tó-siáu, id. siáu khít--lāng tó--khì, id.

tó-tōe-kè, an extraordinarily low price, so low that it cannot be expected to fall lower. tó-tōe-hè, worthless or unsaleable goods which no one wishes to buy.

thāi-ti tó-iú<sup>n</sup>, to have pigs and goats killed in great numbers, as for great feasts. i-soa<sup>n</sup> tó-hái, to move mountains and seas, as by superhuman power.

tò [R. to arrive, = col. tau, kàu], (Cn. tē, tò). tò-jīm, to arrive at one's seat of office, as new mandarin (v. jīm). ki-lín tò-chhú, may the ki-lín come here; written as an auspicious phrase; said also of a paper with these words on it. hông-hông tò-chhú, may the phoenix come here (v. hông).

tò-tí (R.), = tau-tí, in fine; on the other hand; but at last; but after all.

tāu-tò, to give up one's wicked course of life, on condition of impunity and employment, as a rebel, pirate, or deserter (v. tau). put-tò, not arrived, as a party in a legal case, or student at examination, or soldier at call of roll. pín put-tò, to report to the mandarin that the party does not appear. pín-tò, to report that the parties have arrived.

馬駝

陀

禱
島 塚 耶
倒

到

jit-chí bī-tò; m̄-sī thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe bō-pò, the time (of recompense) has not yet come; it is not that Heaven and earth do not recompense.

倒

tò [R. tó, to overturn; to invert; to fall; cf. col. té], back again; (inverted); on the contrary; wrong side; left side; to pour out; classifier of voyages.

tò-túg, to turn back or round (v. túg). tò-péng, inverted (v. péng). tò-thâu, in opposite direction to the original or natural direction. tò-thâu-thàn, to lose instead of gaining in trade. tò-thâu-tsai, to fall head foremost. tò-thâu-tiàu, placed with wrong end up (v. tiàu). tò-bin, reverse side; wrong side, of a thing that has two surfaces.

tò-péng, on the left side; the wrong or reverse side, as of a mirror or such flat thick article. tò-chhiú-péng, left side. tò-chhiú, left hand. tò-kha, left foot.

tò-khah-tsōe, but yet they are more than ever; more than before, though expected to have been fewer or less. tò-khah-hó, better than before, though expected to have been worse; &c. &c.

chià<sup>n</sup>-kóng tò-kóng, to say opposite things at different times (v. chià<sup>n</sup>). kóng-ōe khi-khi tò-tò, to talk so as to avoid giving a decided answer yes or no, sometimes appearing to say the one, sometimes the other. khi-tò lióng-lân, in a sad dilemma, equally bad to go on or to turn back.

chit-tò-tsūn, one whole voyage of a vessel, both going and returning.

tò--khi (C. túi<sup>n</sup>--khi), to go back; to go home. tò--lâi, to come back; to come home. tò--lâi-khi, let us go home or turn back together. tò-tsé, to die; to be broken or spoiled so as to be quite useless, as a thing (lit. return to ancestors).

tò-thè, to move backwards without turning round; to become worse in work, &c. (v. thè). tò-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk backwards. tò-lun, to push a boat straight backwards, as when aground. tò-bé-lun, id. tò-chē, id. tò-thiàu, to rebound. tò-tiô, id. tò-toā<sup>n</sup>, id. tò-séh, to revolve in the direction opposite to that of the hands of a watch.

tò-túg, to have in one's hands a balance of another's money (v. túg). tò-thoā<sup>n</sup>, to offer less than we had said we would give; to lose in skill or knowledge (v. thoā<sup>n</sup>). tò-thoa<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tò-poáh, to make a counter charge, as a set off (v. poáh). tò-pau, to cut off and surround an enemy by a flank movement of one body of men. tò-phia<sup>n</sup>, to win after losing in gambling. hók-tò, to recover something that was lost or taken violently or unjustly, as a city or a thing (v. hók).

tò-chhut, to pour out. tò-tsúi, to pour out water. tò-koá-tê, pour out a little tea. tò-thúg, to pour sugar into a mould, as in making confections. tò-thúg-ké, to make a large drum-shaped confection (used for marriages) by a mould. tò-soa, to pour out sand. hē chhia-teh-tò, rain pouring in torrents. bák-sái chhē-chhē-tò, tears flowing abundantly. kau hē-siū<sup>n</sup>, tò táng-á-bi, they who consort with Bud. priests must empty their rice-jar (v. tāng).

tō [R. tread; to walk]. sún-kui tō-kú, following correct rules of conduct, esp. of well-behaved young person. siú-kui tō-kū (Cn.), id.

tō [R. a sort of rice], (Cn. tō). tō lióng siok, bék sú chek (R.), the six grains.

tō [R. to lead; to guide; = col. chhoā, thoā]. tō-lóng, to help out of great poverty or trouble; to help a man to get on in trade or business by patronizing him,

蹈
稻
道
守

as good customer, &c. (said politely by shopkeeper to customer).

tō [R. indolent], (Cn. tō, tō). lán-tō, lazy; indolent.

tō [R. to rob; a robber; = col. tāu]. kan-im té-tō, lasciviousness, gambling, and robbery. pin-kióng khi tō-sim, poverty gives rise to the desire to rob or steal. kióng-tō (r.), a robber; a highwayman (s. way).

tō [R. a way; a road; to speak; principles of reason or justice, rationale or method, &c.; = col. thau], (Cn. tō, tō), doctrine; right principles of reason or of conduct; the Tau-tai or Intendant of Circuit; Tauist; the supreme regulative or ruling principle of the universe, according to the Tauists; also (X.) the Word or Logos.

khui-tō, to clear the road before a mandarin, by beating gongs, &c. hoah-tō, do., by shouting loud, as his attendants do. chhoā<sup>n</sup>-tō, to cross the road in front of a mandarin, very improper.

bóng-tō, a large stone tablet at the road-side, having an inscription stating that the grave of some illustrious person is close at hand.

chhūg-tō, a broad board on front of bed, used for sitting on. bin-chhūg-tō, id.

tóng-tō, of the same trade, profession, or business (v. tóng). tāng-tō, id. tāng-tō ê-lāng, man of same occupation. oh i-tō, to learn medicine.

tō-lí, doctrine; good doctrine; right principles; principle or rationale of a matter. tát tō-lí, reasonable and right, as an argument, or as a plan for settling a quarrel. ū-tō-lí, just and proper; reasonable and right. tō-lí-lâi, id. bō-tō-lí, unreasonable and wrong. tō-lí-goā, id. kóng tō-lí, to explain doctrine; to preach. thoan tō-lí, id.; to transmit doctrine (v. thoan).

tō-tek (R.), virtue. kong-hun tō-tek, great virtue and merit. tō-tek-keng, the original Tauist classic by Lau-tsze.

siu-tō, to cultivate virtue, esp. Tauist. liên-tan siu-tō, to practise Tauist rules so as to become a Sien. tek-tō ê hē-siū<sup>n</sup>, a Bud. priest who has attained to great merit.

kong-tō, just; equitable. tsōe kong-tō-lāng, to act as a sort of arbiter. ka-kī kong-tō, making one's self always right. kong ka-kī-tō (E.), id. lū-sòng pa-lé, kong ka-kī-tō (Cn.), as overbearing as a Spanish padre (v. lé).

hē-tō, very honest, fair, and safe to deal with. bū-tō, unjust and oppressive, as a ruler. pà-tō, violent or oppressive, as man (v. pà). kióng-tō beh, doggedly determined on it (v. kióng), (s. rob). tsó-tō, false doctrine. tsó-tō hék-chiòng, deceiving the multitude by false doctrine (said of Tauist sorcerers, &c.)

thien-tō, the method or maner of Heaven's justice (v. thien).

tāi-tō-kong, = Gê chin-jin, = pó-seng t'ai-tè, the god of medicine. tāi-sin t'ai-tō, a regularly canonized and widely-worshipped idol (said figuratively of a very powerful man), (v. sin).

tō-kong, Tau-kwang, the title of the emperor (father of Hien-fung), in whose reign the first Chinese war and treaty were made.

tō-kàu, the Tauist sect or religion. tō-ka, the Tauist sect. jū tō sek, Confucianism, Tauism, and Buddhism. tō-sū, = sai-kong, a Tauist priest. tō-kē, a Tauist nun. tō-toā<sup>n</sup>, the residence of a Tauist priest (v. toā<sup>n</sup>). iau-tō, a crafty Tauist magician.

tō-iá, the Tautai, or Intendant of Circuit, who rules several (usually three) departments. tō-tái (r.), id. pia<sup>n</sup>-pī-tō, a Tautai who has also the management of naval and military funds. ē-mŋg-tō, the Tautai of Amoy. heng-tsoân-êng-tō, do. ruling Hing-hwa, Chin-chew, and Yung-chun. Chiang-chiu-tō, the Chang-chew Tautai. theng-chiang-liông-tō, id. tsan-tō, the Tautai surnamed Tsan.

情
盜
道

tō-chhe, constables or police belonging to the Tautai's yamun. tō-su, a writer in the Tautai's yamun. pài tō-su, to get one's name on their books for influence and protection. bōe tō-su, to buy the position of such a writer, either real or fictitious, for protection. tō-báu, to have one's name thus on the books of the Tautai's yamun, so that the constables of inferior mandarins dare not meddle him.

iâm-tō, the commissioner or superintendent of the salt-tax for a whole province. iâm-hoat-tō, id. niū<sup>n</sup>-tō, the commissioner (at provincial capital) for paying the army. kang-an niū<sup>n</sup>-tō, the commissioner who pays out the money for the troops in Kiangnan, i.e. Kiang-soo and Ngan-hwei provinces.

tō (Cn.), = A. to; many; much.

tō [R. all; the metropolis], a region of country (a subdivision of a Hien) containing a considerable number of villages; these subdivisions are often (esp. Cn.) described by their numbers, e.g. ji-tsáp-si tō. hōe-tō (Cn.), villages combining to prevent feuds or brigandage. sam-tō, a part of the mainland near Amoy.

tē-tō, the metropolis. tē-sēng-hōng, the tutelary god of the metropolis and of the empire (v. hōng). tang-tō, Formosa.

tē-chhat-ī<sup>p</sup>, the Censorate in the capital. tē-thóng, the high Tartar military official just below a "chiong-kun;" Tartar lieutenant-general or major-general. tē-si, a military officer between "iū-kek" and "siū-pi."

bān-poan, tē sī-bēng, all things are of fate (v. bēng).

tō (= to), a particle used at the beginning of a clause with somewhat of an adversative sense; yet; but indeed; indeed; well then, well (A. tō, to; Cn. tō); [this word is by many counted the same as the previous one].

tē sī àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, indeed it is so. lí tē m-thàn goá-ê-ōe, you see you would not obey me or follow my advice.

tō [R. to slaughter, as animals], a surname. kim-tē, to forbid the slaughtering of animals, as in a long drought. khui-tē, to remove this prohibition, as after three days, or when rain comes.

tō [R. tū, a kitchen; a slaughter-house]. tē-chí, a man who keeps a shop for supplying cooked food or entire cooked feasts, sending them to order.

tō [R. a road]. lē-tē (r.), a road. poàn-tē jī-hòe, to fail half-way. chiét-tē chhiú<sup>n</sup>-kiap, to plunder on the highway.

phái<sup>n</sup> ūn-tē, season of fated calamity. bēng-tē phái<sup>n</sup> (r.), one's fate bad; my fate is bad. bēng-tē to-chhún, my fate is very bad.

tō [R. a map; a plan; to plan; to scheme; a seal]; a map or plan; a picture used as an illustration or sketch; to plan or scheme; to plot against.

tham-tē, to covet and scheme; to plot or intrigue for gain. kiông-tē, to plot so as to bring overwhelming influence to injure a man. tē--lāng, to plot secretly so as to supplant a man or to oust him from his property or situation, &c. tē-bē, to scheme, plot, or plan, gen. bad. tē-bē lāng-ê-giáp, to plot to get a man's property.

tē-ki, an official seal; the man in a yamun (= tsi-su) who stamps it. tē-ki-in, the stamp of it on a document. tē-su, a seal or stamp. tē-chiong, id.

tē-tē, a map or plan of a place. soa<sup>n</sup>-tē, a picture of hills, as for a view, or pointing out a grave-site. hēng-tē, a portrait taken for detective purposes. ūi hēng-tē, to draw such a portrait. seng-koā<sup>n</sup>-tē, a diagram with names of offices and degrees, used in a game of chance. siū-tē, a scroll with a picture of some emblem of long life, or having the word "siū" written large, given on a birth-day. chhun-gū-tē, the common Chinese sheet-almanac.

jip pán-tē, to be received into the Chinese empire, as a region.

tō [R. a disciple; to banish], to banish to a short distance, e.g. for three years beyond the limits of the Foo department. liū-tē, to banish or exile in general. tsám-ká kun-liū-tē, beheading, strangling, and three sorts of transportation or banishment (in order of severity). gi-tē, to condemn to banishment. bün-tē (R.), id.

bün-tē (R.), a disciple; a scholar. lí-ê ko-tē (polite), your scholar. tē-tē, a young Buddhist priest. sù-tē (X.), an apostle.

tē-lūi (r.), a sort or class of people. hit-hō ê tē-lūi, that sort of people. chiú-sek chi-tē, a man fond of drink and lust.

su-tē, a surname.

tō [R. mud; miry; to daub; to plaster or besmear, = col. thē].

hē-tē, loose and careless in speech or behaviour; negligent in managing matters; ill-behaved so as to cause injury to others; equivocating or making a matter intentionally indistinct so as to deceive; dishonest. hē-tē-kóng, to talk at random without proof; to tell falsehoods; to speak indistinctly about a matter so as to delude, and yet able afterwards to deny having said so-and-so. kóng-ōe hē-tē, to deceive by indistinct or ambiguous language, or by concealment of the truth, or by false additions.

tē-hiu<sup>n</sup> (C. Cn.), = A. thē-hiu<sup>n</sup>, name of a plant.

tō [R. to throw; to leap into; to have recourse to; to give one's self up to; to agree; = col. tâu, tió]. i-khì siong-tē, agreeing in feelings; congenial in spirit. giēn-gú tē-ki, to agree in expression of opinion (v. ki). tē-ê, game of throwing sticks into a jar.

tō [R. a bitter plant]. tē-bi-hoe, a flower like a small rose.

sin-tē, name of a prince of demons who can devour refractory demons (v. sin).

tō (Cn.), = A. tō. ē-bi-tē-hút, = A. o-bi-tō-hút, Amida Buddha.

tō [R. ké, dropsy]. tiòng-té, may you have dropsy! said in cursing (v. tiòng). té-tiòng, swelling of belly (v. tiòng).

tō [R. tē, the belly, = col. tâu]. pak-té, the belly; the mind (v. pak). sit-té (Cn.), the belly. sai-té (Cn.), id.

tsún-té, the hold of a vessel. té-lāi, in the hold of a vessel. té-tāng, ballast (v. tāng).

chhiú-té, the fleshy part of the lower arm. kha-té, the calf of the leg. kha-áu-té, id. si<sup>n</sup> té-hi, to have a long sore on the calf of the leg. té-eng, an abscess on a fleshy part.

té-koā<sup>n</sup>, a broad pouch or sporran worn on the belly. té-tē, id. té (Cn.), id. té-á (T.), id. iám-té (Cn.), id. iam té-koā<sup>n</sup>, to put one's hand in this broad pouch, as for money (v. iam).

都

屠厨途圖

徒

塗

投

荼

蠱

肚

io-té, a broad leather girdle with several pockets in it, girt round the waist.

tó, a flat or nearly flat piece of wood-work or wicker-work (or in metal, plaster, &c.) of a square, round, or other regular shape; a panel; classifier of panels, squares, framed or inclosed spaces, compartments of pictures or panelled work, &c. chit-té-jī, one panel, square, or compartment containing words, as on an ornamental scroll or flat piece of work. chit-té-hoe, one panel, or one compartment of a scroll, &c., containing carved or painted flowers.

pîn-té, a wooden partition. pang-té, a wooden or lath partition. bí-té-pang, the panelling over a Chinese door. jia-hong-té, the panelling at the back and ends of a bedstead.

kià<sup>n</sup>-té, the wooden back of a mirror or framed picture. tîn-té, a piece of rattan-work of square, round, or other regular shape, e.g. for seat or back of chair. po-lê-té, a square of glass, as in window or door.

phông-té, an embossed panel. sê-té, id. (lit. like Soo-chow work). thap-té, a concave or depressed panel. thâm-té, somewhat concave or worn into a hollow (v. thâm).

tó [R. tò, together; to contend; = col. tau]. sa<sup>n</sup>-té, disputing as to facts, &c., or flatly contradicting each other, each determined to have the last word. nng-ê sa<sup>n</sup>-té, each flatly contradicting the other. kap-i-té, to have an altercation with him, saying the very opposite of his words. té-khì, to have a violent altercation or wrangling, each giving the lie to the other, or saying he will do what the other forbids. té i-ê-khì, to get up his temper and refuse to give in or to accept advice, esp. as a young headstrong fellow. té-béng, each trying to overcome the other, as by boasting, threatening, or fighting. té-ióng, two persons boasting of superior strength or courage, or trying which is the stronger.

tó - té tsō-hoà, to make a venture in trade.

tó [R. to gamble, = col. kiáu]. té-phok (r.), gambling. té su-ia<sup>n</sup> (r.), to gamble for money. phiâu té im, fornication, gambling, and drunkenness. kan-im té-tō, adultery, gambling, and robbery.

tó [R. to look at]. té-bauh, to make a rough calculation or average guess, as by looking at without measurement, e.g. of price, number, or quantity. té-bák, id. té-bák-sek, to calculate roughly at a glance.

tó [R. to, to overturn; backwards; left hand; = col. tò]. té-kháu, the oar held in the left hand, and so on the port or right hand side of a small boat (v. kháu).

tó [R. to guard; a wall for guarding a place; = col. tau]. hōng-té, to guard an important place by an extra garrison, as when war or rebellion is near. hōng-té-peng, soldiers or garrison guarding such a wall or important position.

tó [R. a rice measure, = col. tau], (Cn. tió). té-bí sam-chiēn, one "tau" of rice cost three cash, as in the golden age of Yao.

tó (T.) té-bóng, = A. lé-bóng, acting in a hurried or careless manner.

tó (T.), = A. tó, tá. beh-té-khì, where are you going?

tó (Cn.), = A. tó. hái-té (R.), an island.

tó (Cn.), = A. tó (R.), to pray.

tó (Cn.) siã<sup>n</sup>-té-chí, = A. siã<sup>n</sup>-tó-chí, battlements.

tō [R. together; to contend; = col. tau, té], (Cn. tió). hâi-tē, to fight with deadly weapons. tē-kháu, wrangling loudly. tē-khì, slight altercation or wrangling, sometimes even with use of the hands, but very slightly. tē-kan, fighting for a woman, as lewd fellows.

tō (R. id.), to envy; to be jealous, as a woman; not said of a man in sense of jealousy.

oàn-tē, envy; to envy. chit-tē (r.), id. chék-tē (C. Cn.), id. ê<sup>n</sup>-tē, to envy. ê-tē, id. tē-khì, envious.

sip-hū, kiú-tē, of ten women, nine dislike their husbands keeping concubines.

tō [R. very black or dirty, e.g. as muddy water], to spread, as oil or grease, or as damp, or as ink on bibulous paper; to infect or spread from one to another, as a disease. tē--tiōh, infected; damaged by damp, &c., spreading. tē-tē, having a blotted look, as a dot or stroke with an ill-defined edge. tē-kè-khì, to spread through to the other side, as ink, &c. tē-tâm, damaged by damp or by water soaking in, as goods. ê-tē, blotted or spattered with ink or dark-coloured dirt; blurred, as writing when the ink is too thin and spreads; having a dirty white, instead of a pure white, as meal or salt; having a dark colour, as dull red.

ài-tē-lâng, infectious. ôe-tē-lâng, id. (cf. tō).

tō (Cn.), = A. tò, to arrive, &c.

tō [R. a rule; a measure; capacity; a degree of a circle or in geography; to measure; to pass the time; also by change of tone "tók;" cf. col. tō], a degree of a circle or in geography.

tē-liōng, generosity; kindness (v. liōng).

hoat-tē, a rule; a law; a method; a plan of procedure. bō-hoat-tē, without rule or order; disorderly. chiâu-hoat-tē, orderly; proper. tiâu-tē (r.), rules made by a superior (v. tiâu). chē-tē, regulations of a state or dynasty as to rites and ceremonies, forms of dress, &c. chheng-tiâu ê chē-tē, the rites, rules of dress, &c., of the Manchoo dynasty.

kē-tē, too much (s. ferry). kòe-tē (C.), id. sim-su kē-tē, thinking too deeply about a matter, to the injury of one's health. sim-su kòe-tē, id. lô-sim kòe-tē, having a very great deal of thought and anxiety in the management of a matter (v. lô).

tiên-tē, an orbit, as of one of the heavenly bodies (v. tiên).

phé-tē, ceremonies for the benefit of the multitude of ghosts (v. phé). chhiau-tē, to assist a soul to get deliverance from punishment, and to be born into this world again.

tē-tiáp, a certificate given to a Buddhist priest who has been ordained by the head priest of a great recognized monastery.

tē chit-chhùi chiah, to get only one's own food for one's work, leaving nothing over for family or for accumulation. tē-pá, id., especially from acquaintances. jit-sit lân-tē, having much difficulty to earn daily food.

tō [R. tō, earth; land]. kok-tē, a kingdom. kok-tē-bé, said of great multitude of calamities or crimes, as portending the end of the dynasty.

tē-tāng (C.), = A. tōe-tāng, an earthquake.

tē-ún, an earth-worm. tē-gín (C.), id. tē-bún (Cn.), id. ê-tē-thāng, we worms of the earth, said in addressing Heaven. tē-kâu (Cn. thê-kâu), an insect like a grasshopper without wings. tē-phú, sort

鬪

妒

鬪

度

觀賭

賭

倒

堵

斗

土

of insect. tō-peh (T.), an insect that burrows in the ground. tō-pit (Cn.), id.

tō [same as previous word? by some assigned to the following word]. tō-têng, a sort of reptile, like a snake with feet (v. têng). tō-tiông, a sort of medicine (made from the Eonymus?).

tō [R. a sort of tree; to shut out; to stop; to block the way], a surname.

tō-seng, a sort of fir-tree of general shape much like the spruce-fir, with dense dark foliage, almost like a cedar, and large cones. tō-siong (C.), id. tō-seng-lúi, its fir-cones.

tō-pi-ü, castor-oil.

tō-tsoān, to invent an unauthorized meaning for a phrase, or a false addition to one's commission, &c. (v. tsoān).

tō-koan, a sort of bird; a sort of flower (v. koan).

tō [R. to cross a stream or channel; a passage-boat]. tō-tsün, a passage-boat. kheh-tō, a passage-boat for passengers. hè-tō, a passage-boat for goods. hoài<sup>n</sup>-tō, a ferry-boat across a stream or narrow channel. siā<sup>n</sup>-tō, passage-boat to or from the Foo city, e.g. Chang-chew. hi-tō, passage-boat to or from a market. thàu-tō, a passage-boat that goes the whole way. thàu-bé-tō, a passage-boat that plies from Chiòh-bé to Koa<sup>n</sup>-jím. chiòh-bé-tō, the Chiòh-bé passage-boat; and so with names of other places.

kè-tō, to cross the ferry (s. rule). tah-tō, to take passage in a passage-boat.

tō [R. the belly; the paunch; = col. té, táu], the paunch of an animal. tō-lāi, in the belly. tō-lāi khang-hu, feeling weak with hunger (v. hu). tō-lāi khang-phā<sup>n</sup>, illiterate. lèh-tō, to rip up the belly, as of a fish.

tng-tō, bowels and belly; mind and feelings (v. tng). sió-tō, the bladder of a quadruped, esp. of a pig.

tō-tsāi, the navel. tō-iong, a large boil on the belly. tō-kún, a pouch tied on a bride's belly, containing about a dozen symbolical articles, when she goes to be married. khí tō-têng, said of a literary man absorbing for his own use money said to be collected for building a temple.

phái<sup>n</sup>-tō-tháng, wicked in conduct (v. tháng).

lèk-tō, a girth for a horse; a rope passed from bow to helm along the bottom of a junk. bé-lèk-tō, a girth for a horse. tō-toà, id.

gú-tō, tripe, from the cow. ti-tō, tripe from the pig. hi-tō, edible part of entrails of fish. chhe-hí iù-tō, rough exterior, but considerable ability.

tō [R. to gild]. tō-kim, to gild metal by means of melted gold, much thinner than "lèk-kim." tō kim-tsúi, to gild in an extremely thin way, which very soon spoils; often a mere imitation of gold.

tō (cf. tè). khít-i tō--khi, to catch a contagious disease from him, e.g. itch; to be led into bad courses by a bad companion. tō kàu-phái<sup>n</sup>, to lead into bad courses, as companion.

tō [R. nutmeg, cardamom], (Cn. tiō; C. tāu). tō-khè, nutmeg (v. khè).

tō — tō-chè, the birthday of a child just one year after birth (C. mè<sup>n</sup>-chè).

tō, to consume away to ashes gradually without flame, as charcoal. hé-thoà<sup>n</sup> tō-lē--khi, the charcoal gradually burning away to ashes.

tō (R. id., = col. tāu), a very small clause of a sentence; a sub-clause. kù-tō, clauses and sub-clauses. tō-tiám, a comma.

tō (C.) tō-pân, = A. tók-pàn, an earthen jar for sticking flowers in.

tō [R. tsū, self; from]. an-jiên tō-tsāi (C.), = an-jiên tsū-tsāi, in ease, comfort, and quiet.

tō (Cn.), = A. tō, doctrine; in some of the phrases.

tō (Cn.) sùn-kui tō-kū, = A. sùn-kui tō-kū, correct in conduct.

tō (Cn.), = A. tō, sort of grain.

tō (Cn.) lán-tō, = lán-tō, lazy; indolent.

tō (T.) lé-tō, = A. lé-té, the knob on which a sculling oar works.

tō (Cn.), = A. té, short.

tō (Cn.), = A. tè, a surname.

tō (T.), = A. tē. hái-tō, a flat plain on the seashore, reclaimed from the sea, or very rarely inundated. tō-hoā<sup>n</sup>, the retaining wall of land reclaimed from the sea, or protected against it. pang-tō, the retaining wall burst and the land inundated.

tō (Cn.), = A. tē, a pocket.

toá [R. tò, to wash out; to stir about and cleanse], to stir about in water so as to clean. toá-bí, to wash rice by stirring it in water, so as to remove sand and gravel. toá-soa, id.

toá (= tsoá), to shake with a horizontal and almost circular motion, as a tray of grain. toá-chhek, to shake uncleaned rice thus in a wicker tray, so as to clean it.

toá (Cn. and part of T.) beh-toá-khü, = A. beh-tá-khi, where are you going?

toà [R. tài, a belt, band, sash, or girdle; to take along with; united; related; on account of; in consideration of; fated to], a sash; a girdle; tape; ribbon; to lead or carry about; to be fated to some condition.

toà-tiòh, on account of (a person or his kindness); out of regard to; out of consideration for. toà--tiòh, id. ü sa<sup>n</sup>-toà-tiòh, willing to do a favour on account of some third party.

toà-gí, to harbour suspicion. toà-pi<sup>n</sup>, while quite unwell; said of exerting one's self notwithstanding (v. pi<sup>n</sup>).

toà-liên, to wear a chain, as prisoner. toà-hà, to be in mourning (v. hà). toà-péh, id. toà-chhe, to be in deepest mourning.

toà-kúi-thai, appearance as if pregnant, when it is merely a swelling of the stomach from some other cause. toà-sin (Cn.), to be pregnant. toà-in (Cn.), id. (v. in).

toà-chi<sup>n</sup>, to carry cash; to have cash about one. toà-chhiú, to carry in the hand, taking away or bringing. toà-chhiú--lái, to bring in the hand. toà-chhiú--khi, to take away in the hand. soà-toà-chhiú, to take in the hand when one is going at any rate.

toà-lâng-khi, to lead a man away. toà ke-koàn, to take one's family along with one. toà pan-peng, to lead soldiers to a place to relieve others, e.g. to the garrison of Formosa.

tsóng-toà, officer in command of a body of soldiers. hiáp-toà, his assistant.

sa<sup>n</sup>-liên-toà, connected together, as relatives or connections; connected or adhering, as things, so that when you take up the one it draws the other with it. sa<sup>n</sup>-liên ti-toà, joined closely, as relations, or as the parts of the body; really involved in an affair. sa<sup>n</sup>-liám ti-toà, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-liám-toà, id. káu sa<sup>n</sup>-toà, dogs united in copulation.

杜

渡

肚

鍍

苳

讀

自

埭

淘

帶

toà kù-jin, fated to be of high rank; this and the whole paragraph are fortune-tellers' phrases. poeh-jí toà-soah, his horoscope will be very injurious to parents or relatives. toà-siang-to lái chhut-si, fated to have an unlucky influence on the life of relatives, as child. toà ke-loán, fated to be a widow (lit. solitary phoenix). toà iáh-bé, fated to be licentious. toà thò-hoe, fated to a vile course of life, as woman.

si-toà, a silk tape, ribbon, or sash. kiám-toà, a ribbon or sash with the ends pointed. toà-toà, an ornamental sash. io-toà, a sash or girdle for fastening the clothes. hâ io-toà, to gird one's self with it. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-toà, strings for the clothes of children, or of Bud. priests. kat sa<sup>n</sup>-á-toà, to bring presents to children in the first month, supposed to make them grow taller. khè-toà, tape for tying on trowsers round the waist. kún-toà, band for tying on woman's petticoat. bô-á-toà, string for cap. béh-toà, garters. ôe-toà, shoe-ties. kak-toà, an ornamental girdle of Ming pattern, worn by mandarins' wives, also at marriages and in plays. pe-toà, the wavy ornament, like a sash, behind and above the head of some idols.

ui-toà, the umbilical cord; the navel-string.

pui-toà, the thick raised edges of a roof along the top of the gable-wall.

pâi-toà, a sort of long sword used in war.

toà [R. tsū] (Cn. tiū), to dwell; to inhabit; to stay in a place; to contain, as inhabitants.

toà koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, to have a mandarin living there. toà-hì, to lodge a theatrical company in one's house, hiring them out for money.

toà tá-lóh, where do you live? sa<sup>n</sup>-kap-toà, to live together. lâu-i-toà, detain him. toà-heh<sup>n</sup> (C.), to stay, as a guest. toà-chia tsòe-tsé, means to live all his life and leave his posterity here (v. tsé).

toà (R. tō, = col. tǎi), a helm; a rudder. chit-mng-toà, one helm. hoà<sup>n</sup>-toà, to hold the helm; to steer. lāng-toà, to pull up the helm higher, as in shallow water. pài-toà, to unship the helm and lay it along the deck. khi-úi, sit-toà, to lose masts and helm.

toà-lēng, the tiller-ropes. toà-ní<sup>n</sup>, id. toà-gê, the tiller. toà-thâu, the shaft of the helm. toà-hiòh, the blade of the helm. toà-siám, id. toà-siám-pang, id. toà-tiàu, the ropes that hold up the helm.

toà, to tow, as boat or raft. toà-tò-tng, to tow back again. toà-tsún, to tow a vessel. toà-tsún --ê, man who engages sampans to tow a vessel out or in.

toà (R. tǎi), great; large; grown up; very; left side; hot, as sun.

toà--ê, an elder brother; respectful address to another, esp. to one about our own rank and age. goán-toà--ê, my elder brother. toà-chiah, large; said of a vessel or of any animal of which "chiah" is the classifier. toà-ki, a large branch; large, as anything of which "ki" is the classifier. toà-tsāng, large; grown large, as plant or tree.

toà-hàn, a tall person; a large man; an adult or grown up man (v. hàn). toà-lāng, an adult; a married man; also (C.), a Kujin (v. lāng). bōe-toà, not growing well, as young person. toà-hì, colloquial play by adult actors. toà-pan-hì, play in mandarin by adult actors.

toà-sòe, large and small; old and young (v. sòe). khoa-toà, wide and broad; extended far and wide.

toà-tim, exceedingly; very. toà-lim, id. toà-tiām, id. toà-ê, id. toà-poà<sup>n</sup>, the greater half. toà-hūn, the larger share. toà-bú si-kòe, everywhere; very common (v. kòe; v. bú). tiòh toà-siong, to be wounded severely (+). toà-pan-gi, extremely cheap. toà-pak, the far north of China, esp. Shantung (+).

toà-lē, a great road; generous, charitable, or liberal in use of money. toà-pān, liberal; dignified and easy in manner; large-bodied (v. pān). toà-liōng, generous (v. liōng). toà-chhiú-bīn, free in the use of money.

toà-tá<sup>n</sup>, bold; courageous. toà-sim-sū, too cunning and fond of gain. toà-sim-hiong, too fond of large gains (v. hiong). kóng toà-òe, to talk boastfully, or as if not at all afraid. ké-to-toà, pretending to be of much importance; putting on airs quite above our position.

toà-pēng, the side of honour; the left-hand side; the larger half of a thing cut in two (v. pēng). toà-pūi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. (C. pān; T. pāi<sup>n</sup>). pái-toà, take a step to the left (said by chair-bearers). toà--khi, id.

toà-úi, a seat or place of honour; a large place. toà-bō, a ceremonial cap. toà-géh, a month in which much business is done, e.g. the 7th or the 12th. toà-jit, a very auspicious day (v. jit).

jit toà, the sun very hot. géh toà, the month is one that has 30 days.

si-toà, a superior. si-toà-lāng, id. i si-toà, he is the elder brother. lâu-toà, a village elder or head man. toà-ló, title of a mandarin of medium rank (v. ló). toà-hú, the chief mandarin of a Foo, as opposed to the "ji-hú." toà-iá, subordinate officers in a yamun (v. iá). toà-tsóng, the head of the police. toà-koa<sup>n</sup>, a high mandarin.

toà-siong, a great wholesale merchant (v. siong), (+). toà-sia<sup>n</sup>, a loud voice. toà-pak, having a large bore, as cannon (+). toà-ke, a large cargo-boat (+). toà-úi, the mainmast. toà-liâu, the mainsheet (v. liâu). toà-tng, the hall of judgment. toà-tng, the large entrails. toà-pē-bú, the thumb; the big toe. toà-kha, having feet of the natural size (not bound), as woman.

toà-béh, barley.

toà-bé, the legal wife. toà-kiá<sup>n</sup>, the eldest son. toà-hia<sup>n</sup>, eldest brother. toà-chí, elder sister. toà-pēh, husband's elder brother. toà-kū, wife's elder brother. toà-kim, wife of wife's elder brother, or of oldest maternal uncle. toà-í, wife's elder sister. toà-ke, father's eldest sister (+).

toà-pang, sort of long footstool at a bed, with three drawers in it.

toà — toà-koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ta-koa<sup>n</sup>, husband's father (s. great). toà-ke (C.), = A. ta-ke, husband's mother. toà-ke-koa<sup>n</sup> (C.), husband's parents.

toà [R. toan, straight; correct; origin]. in-toa<sup>n</sup>, cause, reason, or origin of action or affair. in-toa<sup>n</sup> khi-lí, id.

toà<sup>n</sup> — nng-toa<sup>n</sup>, small embryo eggs in the ovary. nūi<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

khē-toa<sup>n</sup> (Cn. kiò-loa), to cackle when about to lay eggs. koē-noā<sup>n</sup> khē-toa<sup>n</sup>, the young fowl cackling when going to lay an egg.

toà [R. tan, name of a disease; cf. col. tsòā<sup>n</sup>]. hé-nā<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup> (T.), a small red eruption common on children.

toà [R. tan, only, single; a bill, ticket, &c.], a bill, an order, a cheque, a receipt, an account, an invoice, a list, a ticket, a card; singly, alone.

toa<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, alone; singly; solitary. ke-toa<sup>n</sup>, id. (v. ke). toa<sup>n</sup>-sin, id. (v. sin). toa<sup>n</sup>-tēng, of one fold or thickness of material. toa<sup>n</sup>-iáp, single, as a flower.

住

舵

大

端

瘡單

toa<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, an only son. toa<sup>n</sup>-tiah, to select one article or subject, &c., out of many (v. tiah).

phê-toa<sup>n</sup>, a cover for a quilted coverlet. phôe-toa<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

phiên-toa<sup>n</sup>, a visiting-card; a plain red card for one's name. phiên-toa<sup>n</sup>-tê, a paper bag for holding visiting-cards. pài-toa<sup>n</sup>, to send one's card instead of calling.

toa<sup>n</sup>-á, a bill; a receipt; a ticket. toa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id. toa<sup>n</sup>-thâu-á, notices (as to soldiers) to be ready at a particular day. pin-toa<sup>n</sup>, a certificate, receipt, or such document used as evidence; on the evidence of a document such as a receipt or certificate. pin-toa<sup>n</sup>, a report given in to a superior, as by a police-officer or tē-pó. si-toa<sup>n</sup>, a document issued by the provincial treasurer, affixed to a deed of sale or mortgage as proof of registration. tsu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a document written in red ink by a mandarin, used as a warrant or summons.

siu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a receipt for money or goods. chioh-toa<sup>n</sup>, a receipt for money borrowed, with promise to pay. hōe-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of exchange; an order for money on a place at some distance. gūn-toa<sup>n</sup>, a money-order, bill, cheque, &c., especially for silver. chi<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, do., especially for copper cash. ki-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill stating the time for payment. tui-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of exchange; a money-order, draft, or cheque, as on another place. tui-toa<sup>n</sup> kè-siàu, to pay by a bill. tui-toa<sup>n</sup> niá-gūn, to receive money in payment of a bill, cheque, draft, &c. tui-toa<sup>n</sup> siu-gūn, id.

chē-toa<sup>n</sup>, to accept a bill. jīn-toa<sup>n</sup>, to certify the goodness or security of a bill, as a third party. m-jīn-toa<sup>n</sup>, to protest a bill. goān-toa<sup>n</sup> pok-hōe, bill protested.

khui-toa<sup>n</sup>, to write out an account. pun-toa<sup>n</sup>, to send out accounts, as at terms or at end of year. thoān-toa<sup>n</sup>, to distribute to all the members of a trading guild notices of the price fixed for an article; to send out notices to persons to be all ready on a particular day for some special purpose formerly agreed upon.

thiah-toa<sup>n</sup>, to take out a ticket for passage in a vessel. teh-toa<sup>n</sup>, to pay an earnest of the passage money, which is forfeited if he does not go.

liáu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a list of materials to be used in some work, especially in building or repairing a house. tsáp-mih<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, an inventory; a list or catalogue of various articles. hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, in invoice, a bill of lading, &c. hē-hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, a shipping order. chhut-hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, an order to deliver goods from a vessel, issued by the hong. phòe-hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of lading. tsài-hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of lading. tsūn-hē-toa<sup>n</sup>, inventory of goods still on hand.

chhut-tsúi-toa<sup>n</sup>, a sort of bill of lading for goods to be sent from the port into the country, given by the hong, certifying that the duty has been paid on the goods, and allowing them to be put on board. toa<sup>n</sup>-tōe, a certificate (like chhut-tsúi-toa<sup>n</sup>) stating the quantity of goods on which duty has been paid, on the evidence of which they may be sent into the country within a fixed time.

chhut-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a port-clearance. chhng-kháu-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ship's manifest (v. chhng). āng-toa<sup>n</sup>, a permit allowing goods (for export) to be taken on board. chhi<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, a permit allowing the landing or trans-shipping of imports. pò-toa<sup>n</sup> a ship's manifest, or similar document (v. pò). giām-toa<sup>n</sup>, certificate of the amount of goods found on board, given by customs officer.

hē-lê-toa<sup>n</sup>, a ticket sold by the head of the beggars to a shop, forbidding beggars to enter it. khit-chiah-toa<sup>n</sup>, id. mi<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, ticket for so many meals at an eating-house (v. mi<sup>n</sup>). khng-toa<sup>n</sup>, ticket of admission to examinations (v. khng). hi-toa<sup>n</sup>, list of plays from which one is selected by lot. poah-toa<sup>n</sup>, to select one of these by lot before the idol that is to be honoured. tiàu-toa<sup>n</sup>, an order issued by a mandarin to actors or priests (v. tiàu).

toá<sup>n</sup> [R. toān, globular; a lump; united; = col. thoān, thng, nng]. toá<sup>n</sup>-i<sup>n</sup>, the denouement of a play, when the parties recognize each other, and all comes right.

toá<sup>n</sup> — hām-toá<sup>n</sup>, the place in a boat, just below the deck, in which the mast is fixed firmly.

toá<sup>n</sup> [R. tân, sandal-wood, = col. thiá<sup>n</sup>]. toá<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, sandal-wood; incense made from it. toá<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, sandal-wood. toá<sup>n</sup>-chhâ, id.

toá<sup>n</sup>-oat-tsú (Cn.), the benefactor who gave the site or a large endowment for a temple, often worshipped in a shrine at the back of the temple (Sank. danapata).

toá<sup>n</sup> [R. tân, to fillip; to play an instrument with the nails; to repress, as disobedient persons; cf. col. toá<sup>n</sup>], to play a stringed instrument with the finger. toá<sup>n</sup>-khim, to play the harp or such instrument. teh-toá<sup>n</sup>-chhiu<sup>n</sup>, playing on a stringed instrument and accompanying it with the voice. tsū-chhiu<sup>n</sup> tsū-toá<sup>n</sup>, to manage one's business (commercial or legal) one's self, without employing any one to consult with, as teacher, shroff, &c., but not necessarily excluding subordinate assistants.

chheng-sim-toá<sup>n</sup>, amusing one's self idly; free from care and rather jolly, often with the idea of avoiding work or anxiety which he should share.

toá<sup>n</sup> (R. tân), an altar; a shrine; usually temporary. pút-toá<sup>n</sup>, a place prepared in a house, by hanging up pictures of the gods, &c., for the rites of "khia-hà" or of "tsòe-chiò." hùt-toá<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. sam-pó-toá<sup>n</sup>, a temporary shrine for the Buddhist Triad. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-toá<sup>n</sup>, temporary shrine put up (usually across a street) for the worship of Giòk-tè. thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe-toá<sup>n</sup>, the altars of Heaven and Earth at the capital, where the emperor worships twice a year. siā-chek-toá<sup>n</sup>, imperial altar to gods of land and grain, where the emperor or high mandarin deputed by him sometimes worship. siā-toá<sup>n</sup> (T.), a permanent altar at Tàng-oa<sup>n</sup> (v. siā), (+).

tō-toá<sup>n</sup>, a place where a Taoist priest lives. sai-kong-toá<sup>n</sup>, id. tō-toá<sup>n</sup> tsai-chhú, a Taoist priest lives here (written up at his house).

hiên-toá<sup>n</sup>-kong, a title of the idol Tiō goān-sòe, attendant of Tāi-tō-kong.

kat-toá<sup>n</sup>, to set up a temporary shrine. pài-toá<sup>n</sup>, to set up one richly ornamented. thiah-toá<sup>n</sup>, to take down the shrine when the rites are finished. siā-toá<sup>n</sup>, to make offerings and plays before the shrine just before taking it down.

phoā<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>, to arrange ornaments so that they look well together, as on a table or shrine, though they are not needed; to buy something that might have been dispensed with; to do anything just because it happens to come readily, though it might about as well not have been done; to keep company with a person (either sitting or going somewhere), merely to fill up the time or for company's sake, but without any special purpose. tâu-phoā<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>, several persons thus keeping company with each other.

toá<sup>n</sup> — toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>, constantly over and over, when it would have been better not to do so. toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup> m-tiòh, always wrong. toá<sup>n</sup>-toá<sup>n</sup>-lâi, coming constantly

禪

團

檀

彈

壇

双

and troublesomely. toà<sup>n</sup>-toà<sup>n</sup> to-sū, always causing trouble to people, as a busy-body. toà<sup>n</sup>-toà<sup>n</sup> chhú-chiet, always trying to get off too much discount in paying.

toà<sup>n</sup> [R. tàn, morning; a female character in a play; = col. hoà<sup>n</sup>], a female character in a play (all acted by male actors). hì-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. lāu-toà<sup>n</sup>, an aged female character in a play. sió-toà<sup>n</sup>, a young female character. khé-toà<sup>n</sup>, a tragic female character. hoe-toà<sup>n</sup>, a young pretty female character, in cheerful or amusing scenes, esp. comic. bú-toà<sup>n</sup>, character of a female warrior. koh-toà<sup>n</sup>, girls, or boys in the character of girls, carried on an ornamented frame at idolatrous processions. seng-toà<sup>n</sup>, male and female characters in a play, all done by men. ang seng, bé toà<sup>n</sup>, husband and wife both young and good-looking.

tsng-toà<sup>n</sup>, to act the part of a female character, as a man. tsò-toà<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tsng-toà<sup>n</sup>-thiap, to act high and low female characters. ta<sup>n</sup>-láng khah-jiét tsng-toà<sup>n</sup>, the bearers of the baggage more earnest about it than the actors (said of a servant or employé more ardent and earnest about a business than the master). thiap-toà<sup>n</sup>, to assist in a female character, as actor who usually represents a man.

kin-toà<sup>n</sup>, at present; now (said esp. in the language of plays, and in Cn.) tsüi-tssai kàu-kin-toà<sup>n</sup>, who would have thought before that we should have been so miserable at this time? ũ-kin-toà<sup>n</sup>, bô-bîn-hoà<sup>n</sup> (having a present but no future), absorbed in the present and reckless of the future, as man who wastes his money lavishly, or who gets his money by cheating, &c.

bîn-toà<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), shortly afterwards.

toà<sup>n</sup> [R. toān, a bit; a piece; classifier of affairs and pieces of work; = col. tūg]; a small section or paragraph in a book or essay, less than a chapter but longer than a verse; a small bit or piece of a thing; a block of houses, gen. several tens, making a subdivision of a ward or "pó," a small company or division, as of volunteers. thāu-toà<sup>n</sup>, the first paragraph or section, as in an essay; the first division of the "thoán-liên" volunteers. chit-pó, hun tsòe kúi-toà<sup>n</sup>, into how many sections is the ward (pó) divided?

chhiú-toà<sup>n</sup>, skill in work, of any sort. hó-chhiú-toà<sup>n</sup>, chit-kún chhiú-noà<sup>n</sup> (so skilful that at one boiling it is cooked tender), said of managing a matter quietly and successfully.

tiâu-toà<sup>n</sup>, particulars, as in an agreement. ũ-tiâu-toà<sup>n</sup>, all properly arranged and settled. ũ-tiâu ũ-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-tiâu-toà<sup>n</sup>, managed in a confused and unsatisfactory manner; to manage a matter in a confused way. bô-tiâu bô-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. it-tiâu it-toà<sup>n</sup> kâ-i-kóng, tell him fully with all the particulars.

chit-toà<sup>n</sup>-sū, one piece of business; one affair. chit-toà<sup>n</sup> ê-sū, id. chit-toà<sup>n</sup> ê hó-l, a piece of good advice or of kind treatment.

toà<sup>n</sup> (cf. toā<sup>n</sup>), to fillip with the finger; to bound or leap, as a ball; to palpitate or throb; to explode, as a cracker. tò-toà<sup>n</sup>, to rebound.

toà<sup>n</sup>-chîn, to make the chalk-line or ink-line strike the wood (or other material) so as to make a straight line. toà<sup>n</sup> thāu-khak, to fillip the head, as of a child. toà<sup>n</sup> gêng-gêng-hút, to play with the stones of the lung-yen fruit, like marbles. khít-phàu toà<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, to be hit by an exploding cracker.

phók-phók-toà<sup>n</sup>, to palpitate, as the heart; to throb painfully, as with headache or toothache. phiák-phiák-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. kóng kàu toà<sup>n</sup>-phoà láng-hikhang, to talk so much about a thing that one dislikes to hear of it any more.

toà<sup>n</sup>-khui (C.), to burst, as a gun.

toà<sup>n</sup>-chí, pellets shot from toy bows. kim-toà<sup>n</sup>-chí, id.

ŕi<sup>n</sup>-toà<sup>n</sup> (C.), a round yellowish fruit about the size of the gêng-gêng, but with several seeds.

toà<sup>n</sup> [R. tō? lán?], lazy. toà<sup>n</sup>-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. pin-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. pún-toà<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. siū<sup>n</sup>-toà<sup>n</sup>, id. toà<sup>n</sup>-kut, a lazy fellow; lazy. khah-toà<sup>n</sup> sí-láng, lazier than a corpse. pin-toà<sup>n</sup> i--ê kha-chhiú, he is lazy at work.

toah [R. toat, to pluck; to seize and pull; cf. col. tiuh], to shun angrily and sullenly; to refuse sulkily; to give an angry shake of the arm (or of the body) in breaking off a discussion; to give a short sharp pull or twitch, e.g. to clothes after they have been washed, to make them dry, smooth, and even, or to make them hang well.

toah--tsáu, to break away from another who is urging us to wait with him, or who is gently holding our dress as an indication of his desire to keep us with him. toah-khui, to turn away from a man, as not worth wasting time on.

tiu<sup>n</sup>-toah, to refuse sulkily to do what one is asked, or to answer when spoken to, though he has no real objection to the thing; especially putting on the appearance of unwillingness in order to get more money. siū-khi tiu<sup>n</sup>-toah, id. siū-khi siū-toah (C.), = A. siū-khi siū-toah, angry sulky behaviour.

toáh (C. toah). siū-khi siū-toáh, sulky angry behaviour. siū-khi siū-toáh, pia<sup>n</sup>-oá<sup>n</sup> siak-tí, throwing away bowls and chopsticks in a pet or rage.

toáh [R. tát, name of a plant]. kún-toáh (Cn.), = A. ka-boáh-chhài, a sort of vegetable. kún-toáh-chhài (Cn), id.

toan [R. straight; correct; decent; commencement; origin; a piece of business; = col. toā<sup>n</sup>]. toan-chià<sup>n</sup>, correct in conduct. toan-chià<sup>n</sup> ê-láng, a man of correct conduct. ngé-koan toan-chià<sup>n</sup>, the features of the face and the ears all well formed and regular, without any serious blemish. toan-hong si-chià<sup>n</sup>, correct in conduct; well arranged; straight and even (v. hong). toan-tsong, correct in conduct, as woman. toan-khái, well written or printed, as characters of the form called "khái." put-toan, not correct in conduct, e.g. given to gambling, lust, drink, or any wickedness. tsòe-put-toan, to commit impurity. sim-sút put-toan, heart and actions very wicked and injurious.

ī<sup>n</sup>-toan, false doctrine.

sū-toan, the origin of a quarrel or troublesome affair. ē-toan, the cause of a calamity; a matter that may afterwards cause much trouble. hō-toan (C.), id. seng-toan, to give rise to a quarrel or to serious trouble.

toan-goát (R.), the first month of the year. toan-ngé, the 5th day of the 5th month. toan-ngé-tsoeh, id.

toan, to demand a higher price or higher wages than proper, quite refusing to take the smaller and proper amount, as when one's labour, or an article which no one else has, is very urgently needed. toan-tiòh, id. toan--láng, id. toan-tiâu, id., or to strike work, as a man in employment, just at the time his services are urgently needed, so as to compel the raising of his wages.

日

段

彈

掇

蓬端

toàn [R. globular; a lump; united; = col. toá<sup>n</sup>, thoán, thng, nng]. toán-toán-i<sup>n</sup>, unbroken, as a family (v. i<sup>n</sup>).

chit-toán ê hó-i (C.), a good piece of advice.

toán [R. to transmit; to hand down; to propagate; to deliver a message; = col. thoán; and by change of tone "toán," books of history], sometimes (esp. Cn.) said instead of "thoán," to transmit; to hand down, &c. (q.v.)

toán [R. short; shortcomings; faults; errors; = col. tē]. ngé-toán-si<sup>n</sup>, short and somewhat stout, but well-formed and well-set (v. ngé).

toán-hēng, wickedly and secretly injuring others.

kóng lāng-ê-toán, to talk openly of a man's faults.

toán-kièn, going to kill one's self. khi toán-kièn, to commit suicide. siū<sup>n</sup> toán-kièn, intending to commit suicide. chhē toán-kièn, id.

gièn-sū khah-toán, unable to state one's own case well.

tióng-toán (R.), long and short; good and bad. chiét-tióng pé-toán, to make up for deficiency in one part by great abundance or super-excellence in another part. chhien-jit tióng, it-jit toán, said of a scholar who is generally able to write good essays, but makes serious mistakes at the examination (lit. one day out of a thousand).

toán [R. to judge; to decide; to determine; certainly; cf. by change of tone, "toán," to cut]. toán-jièn, decidedly; certainly. toán-toán-m̄, determinedly will not. koat-toán, decidedly; determinedly; most certainly; decided, determined, or fixed in purpose. i-sū koat-toán, purpose fixed. iu-jiū koá<sup>n</sup>-toán, undecided in purpose; not strict enough in punishing faults.

tók-toán, to decide or venture on one's own responsibility, as in speaking or acting. ka-ki tók-toán, to do a thing of one's own will without consulting others. ka<sup>n</sup> tók-toán, I feel perfectly sure; I have no hesitation in making the statement. tók-toán-bô, I am absolutely certain that it is not so, or will not be.

toán-iok, to fix an engagement; to make a definite agreement or arrangement. toán-ioh, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-toán-ioh, id. toán-ké, to agree on a price, fixing it after discussion. sien-toán, hē put-oán, make a definite agreement at first, and then there is no room for bad feeling afterwards. sien-toán, hē put-hoán, make the agreement and do not break it.

kong-toán, to judge and decide justly or publicly, as mandarin or arbiter, or as several headmen or partners met together to settle a dispute. phò<sup>a</sup>-toán, to give sentence. sím-toán, to give judgment; to judge and decide; to give sentence. sím-toán put-bēng, to judge unjustly. toán-lí, put-toán-chhin, to judge according to right principles, not according to relationship or influence.

toán [R. to cut; to sever; to cut off; = col. tng; cf. by change of tone "toán," to decide; to judge]. kat-toán, to break off intercourse or have no dealings with a person. toán-tsoát (R.), to have no intercourse or friendship with a person.

kài-chiú toán-ien, neither drink spirituous liquor nor smoke opium or tobacco. toán-súi-hé<sup>n</sup>-sí, to put to death officially by starvation (lit. without water or fire).

hiu<sup>n</sup>-ien put-toán, incense burns unceasingly, as in much-frequented temple. put-toán bān--jī, a continuous border made in the form of the character "bān" siók-toán, a medicine made from a plant (Cirsium lanceolatum?).

toán [R. a bit; a piece; classifier of affairs; = col. toá<sup>n</sup>, tng]. tái-toán, grave, sedate, or dignified in manner; having a self-possessed manly bearing; liberal and pleasant to deal with in business. m-tái-toán, mean or contracted in views; too light and jocular in manner.

it-to líong-toán, to settle and determine a matter at once and finally, after it has been long in suspense or under discussion; to cut off a bad course of life at once (lit. make two pieces by one blow of the knife).

toán (R. id.), satin. ú-toán, camblet, and similar strong alpaca or woollen stuffs. kòng-toán, satin. soá<sup>n</sup>-toán, a fine soft sort of satin. tiú-toán, silk and satin. lín-lô se-toán, fine materials for dresses; fine clothing.

toán-á, a small bit of satin, esp. for rubbing things smooth. toán-kún, a satin border on a dress.

toán [R. books of history; historical records, esp. with a moral bearing; by change of tone from "toán," to transmit]. keng-toán, classical books. tsó-toán, the commentary on the Chhun-chhiu (v. tsó). hong-sin-toán, a book of ancient stories; fabulous; fickle (v. hong). hok-im-toán (X.), a Gospel.

toát [R. to take away forcibly; to plunder; = col. tēh]. to-teng toát-tsái, a large family diminishes wealth. cheng-thien toát-kok, to aim at the throne, as insurgents. cheng-chhe toát-tien, fighting to take away one's wife or lands (v. chhe).

kióng-sú toát cheng-lí, to maintain doggedly that we are right, though manifestly wrong.

tôe [R. id.; some read "tôe," to exchange, barter, or sell; = col. tui].

tôe-hè-in, a stamp put on goods when sold from a shop.

hoat-tôe, for sale, as goods.

tôe (R. tē, (C. tē; Cn. tõe), to write down, as one's name, or as a piece of poetry, or as an inscription on an ancestral tablet, &c.; to subscribe; a theme or text.

tôe-bák, a theme; a text. tôe-thâu, id. chiong-hit--ê tsòe tôe-thâu, to allege it as a justification or pretext, true or false. liáh-hit--ê tsòe-tôe, id. chhut-tôe, to give out a theme or text. chiáh-tôe, fitting well to the text. jip-tôe, id. phò<sup>a</sup>-tôe, to give the meaning of the text in our own words in the first sentence of the essay. phò<sup>a</sup> tôe-i, id. phò<sup>a</sup> tôe-sin, to give the meaning of the text in a more deep and thorough manner.

tôe-iên, to subscribe money. tôe-chi<sup>n</sup>, id., esp. copper cash. tôe-gūn, to subscribe silver. koan-tôe (C. kien-tē), to subscribe money. kong-tôe, subscribed for a public purpose, as money collected from many persons. tôe khah-hó-khoá<sup>n</sup>, make a (larger) subscription that looks better.

tôe-tsán, to write an inscription (on a scroll or picture) in praise of a man or of an idol, written at the foot of the picture or scroll. tôe-si, to compose and write poetry, as on a scroll or wall. tôe-miá<sup>n</sup>, to write down one's name, as in an inscription; to write the name of a child, in choosing its name. tôe miá<sup>n</sup>-jī, to write down one's name, e.g. as in an inscription. kim-png tôe-miá<sup>n</sup>, to become a Tsin-sze, or such high graduate.

tôe [R. tē, the heel; the hoof], (C. tē; Cn. tõe), a hoof. tsám-tôe, to stamp with the foot. tiuh-tôe, to limp very slightly. ah-bú-tôe, having a peculiar gait, shaking from side to side.

段

緞

傳

奪

兌

題

蹄

團 傳 短

斷

斷

chhiú-tōe, the inner side of the wrist at the root of the palm; the carpus; the heel of the hand. lí-ê chhiú-tōe, your handwriting. chhut chhiú-tōe, to write a deed of sale with one's own hand, and stamp it with the impression of the hand or finger in ink. tsām chhiú-tōe hē--i, to stamp it so.

kha-tōe, a hoof. kòng lí-ê kha-tōe, I will strike your feet (said only to children running about too much). ti-kha-tōe, pig's feet, for cooking or cooked. âu-tōe, the hind-feet. chêng-tōe, the fore-feet. khòng-tōe, pig's feet stewed or boiled very soft. gū-tōe, a cow's hoof. bé-tōe, a horse's hoof. bé-tōe-ńg, sleeves of ceremonial dress, shaped like horse-hoofs. bé-tōe-se, sort of round sweet cake. bé sit-tōe, the horse stumbles.

káu-tōe-hoe, a plant with a large sweet white flower.

tōe (R. tí, = col. tē), (C. té; Cn. tōe), bottom; base; foundation; original state, condition, or constitution.

ē-tōe (C. ē-té), bottom; below. tōe-ē, below; down below.

ū-tōe, to have a solid foundation, as a statement or affair, or as man's reputation, &c.; to have a bottom; right at bottom, &c. bō-tōe, bottomless; baseless; unfounded; not having a safe foundation, as a deed; no bottom, as in sounding. béng bō-tōe, braggardly; overbearing, but without any real power.

tōe-tì, origin of an affair; antecedents, past history, or original circumstances of a man. ū-tōe-tì, having a safe foundation, as title-deeds; having some good antecedents, as man, e.g. having respectable ancestors, or himself having genius, talents, wealth, or good name. ū-tōe-tioh, id.; having talents or property (v. tioh). ū-tōe-chioh, having a good foundation, as to health, wealth, &c. (v. chioh). ū-tōe ū-koà, fully and correctly drawn up, as document; all properly arranged and settled, as a matter.

khi-tōe, first origin; originally; to make the beginning, as of a family or of a custom.

kun-tōe (C. kin-té), original commencement or root of a matter; original circumstances or condition of a man, often with the idea of something wrong. ū-kun-tōe, to have property, wealth, or influence, &c. bō-kun bō-tōe, nothing known of his antecedents, at least nothing satisfactory. iah lāng-ê kun-tōe, to rake up and talk openly of some old story about a man's wickedness, or something about which he is ashamed. m̄ng kàu-kun-tōe, to inquire to the very root of the matter. m̄ng bē-kàu kun-tōe, having inquired but superficially into the matter, or not having got to the bottom of it; not understanding it fully, nor knowing how much is true.

kàu-tōe, to the very bottom. tó kàu-tah-tōe, utterly gone wrong and ruined, as affair. chhám kàu-tah-tōe, miserable to the utmost extreme. su kàu-tah-tōe, to lose terribly, as in gambling or fighting. kàu-thàu-tōe, to the very bottom, as in investigating a matter; or as a heap of goods, saying that the whole quantity is the same as those on the surface. kóng thàu-tōe, to tell all the circumstances. thàu-tōe-tām, thoroughly drenched; wet to the skin.

hu-tōe, naturally of a weak constitution.

ū-tiām-tōe, to have a good deal of money or property. ū hó-giáh-tōe, come of a wealthy family; originally rich. ū-chheh-tōe, having originally a good education. ū kú-jîn-tōe, having the rank of Kujin before being appointed to the office.

chē-tōe, to settle, as sediment.

teh-tōe, at the bottom of a pile; the last of a lot of things. teh-tōe-hè, worthless goods. teh pêng-tōe, to take off a small discount (about ¼ per cent.) when a large quantity of goods is paid for in silver (v. teh).

hè-tōe (C. hòe-té), the remainder of a lot of goods. chng-tōe, the remnant of a cargo, in bottom of hold. tê-tōe, the tea left in a cup after drinking. hun-tōe, opium refuse; it is worked up again for use. lê-tōe, sort of dollars, of somewhat inferior silver (v. lê).

tsún-tōe, to preserve a copy or record, as of a document (v. tsún).

tsún-tōe, the bottom of a vessel. σ-tōe, a boat or small junk with a black bottom. pêh-tōe, a boat with a white bottom, like a small "khan-hong." thui-tōe, to repair a vessel's bottom.

kha-tōe, the sole of the foot. ôe-tōe (C. ê-té), the sole of a shoe. tsóa-tōe-ôe, shoes with paper soles. béh-tōe (C. bôh-té), the thick quilted sole of a Chinese stocking. láp-tōe, having thick stiff quilted soles, as Chinese stockings.

lap-tōe, having lost the bottom, as an old bucket.

khê-tōe, the seat of trousers.

sim-tōe, one's inmost heart. phah--tiòh i sim-koa-tōe, to say something that touches his sin or fault, so that he cannot but feel it. phah--tiòh i sim-tōe, id.

toa-tōe, a sort of certificate of goods having paid duty, used for sending them into the country (v. toa<sup>n</sup>).

hái-tōe, the bottom of the sea; at the bottom of the sea. thê-tōe, below the surface of the ground. chí-tōe, the bottom of a well; at the bottom of a well. nâ-tōe, in the bottom of the basket; the bottom of the basket. ki-tōe, a foundation.

tōe [R. tí, to resist; to oppose; to sustain; = col. tú], (C. té), to oppose; to resist. tōe-lāng, to resist people. ká-tōe, not afraid to scold at him, or to fight him, when attacked in the same manner. kap-lāng tōe-chhiú, to strike back when struck; to pay back violent abuse, scolding, or discussion in the same manner.

tōe (R. thú?), (C. té), to fill in, as a liquid, or as boiled rice; to contain, as a dish. tōe-ti<sup>n</sup>, to fill quite full, as a dish. tōe-p̄ng (C. té-p̄i<sup>n</sup>), to fill full of boiled rice, as a bowl or such dish; to contain rice, as a bowl.

tōe (C.), = A. tē, to follow. tōe-bóe, = A. tē-bé, to follow after. kin-tōe, = A. kun-tē, to follow, as attendant.

tōe [R. tē, order; rank], (Cn. tōe; C. tē; A. tē, tōe), = tē, prefix to ordinal numbers. tōe-it, first. tōe-jī, second. tōe-kúí, which? (in order), answered by an ordinal number.

tōe (R. thú), (C. tē; Cn. tōe), a sort of flax. tōe-pè, fine grass-cloth. báng-tiù<sup>n</sup>-tōe, coarse flaxen stuff for mosquito-curtains.

tsai-tōe, to plant flax. chêh-tōe, to pick out flax fibres, making them into thread.

tōe-á, flax ready to be made into thread; flaxen cloth worn in mourning. tōe-á-soà<sup>n</sup>, thread made from flax; linen thread. tōe-á-si, fine fibres of flax, used as thread, or to be joined together to make string or twine. tōe-á-hók, mourning dress for near relatives. tōe-á-sa<sup>n</sup>, id. chheng tōe-á, to be in deep mourning.

tōe [R. tē, to hand from one to another; to transmit], (C. tē; Cn. tōe). thoân-tōe (R.), to hand along

底

抵

第

第

遞

through several hands, each handing to the other, as a letter transmitted from courier to courier, or as an essay handed up to the examiner.

phah-tōe-kè, = phah-tē-kè, to send a criminal to be dealt with by the mandarin of his native place.

tōe (R. tē), (C. tē; Cn. tōe), the earth. thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, heaven and earth; nature (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). tōe-ē, the earth below (v. thi<sup>n</sup>); below the earth. kiu-tsoan tōe-ē, the invisible world.

tōe-bin, the surface of the ground. tōe-bin-chiū<sup>n</sup>, upon the earth. tōe-mēh<sup>n</sup>, veins or strata in the ground. tōe-khì, influence of the ground, as on disease or in geomancy. chiōng-goân-tōe, a place for a grave that would produce a "chiōng-goân" graduate. im-tōe put-jū sim-tōe, a good heart is better than a good site for a grave.

tōe-hng, a place; a region. tōe-hng-koa<sup>n</sup>, the mandarin who has special charge of a place, e.g. as the Hai-fang (hái-hōng) has of Amoy. sin-tōe, a military station. tōe-tse, land-tax (v. tse). pún-tōe, native place (v. pún). tōe-thâu sèk, well acquainted with the place. tōe-thâu chhi<sup>n</sup>, not acquainted with the place. tōe-kài, a boundary of country, territory, or property. tōe-thé, a region; a place. thé-tōe, id.

tōe-pē, rank, station, or relative position (v. pē). tōe-ūi, grade of station or rank (v. ūi). kièn-siâu kàu bō-tōe, put to shame before the world, as one who does a disgraceful act.

tòng-tōe, living long in a place, as a permanent inhabitant. chē-tōe hun-tsng, to be a receiver of stolen goods. tó-tōe-kè, an extraordinarily low price. teh-tōe-gūn, money advanced when a house is rented, and not asked back till about to leave (v. teh).

tōe-ki, a foundation. tōe-hām, a pitfall. tōe-chhìn, sort of strong lever for raising great weights. tōe-kiú, a terrestrial globe (v. kiú).

tōe-tāng (C. tē-tāng), an earthquake. tōe-gū, the cow that causes earthquakes (v. gū).

tōe-phia<sup>n</sup>, one of the spirits called "sam-phia<sup>n</sup>." tōe-kong, the Earth, viewed as a god. tōe-kong-si<sup>n</sup>, his birth-day, on 1.10. tōe-má (Cn.), the Earth, as a goddess. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong tōe-má (Cn.), Heaven and Earth, as god and goddess, or the god and goddess of Heaven and Earth.

sit-tōe, solid firm ground, not recently filled in or hollow. khāng-tōe, open vacant ground without buildings. chhū-tōe, a site where an old house had formerly stood. hng-tōe, land used for dry fields. chhān-tōe, land used for irrigated fields. ngi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, hard soil. chióh-tōe, rocky ground, not good for a grave-site, nor for cultivation, e.g. little soil on a large rock, or ground full of rocks. tsng-tōe, a tiled floor or court. thē-tōe, an unupaved earthen floor; the natural surface of the ground.

tóeh [mere reduplication]. óeh-tóeh (C. èh-tèh), narrow; very narrow.

tōh (R. tok), a table; a feast. bōng-tōh, the flat plain stone in front of the upright stone of a grave, used as a table for offerings. leng-tōh, a table placed before the place for the spirit in the rites performed soon after death.

kong-tsō-tōh, the table used as a mandarin's tribunal. gūn-tōh-á-tài<sup>n</sup> (T.), a money-changer's shop.

àn-tōh, a long, narrow, high table (v. àn). oà<sup>n</sup>-tōh, id. (v. oà<sup>n</sup>). hoài-thâu-tōh, a table at the side of the room. ki-liōng-tōh, a long table, narrower than oà<sup>n</sup>-tōh (v. kí). si-sien-tōh, a small square

table, size for four men to sit at. lák-sien-tōh, a somewhat larger size, suitable for six men. pat-sien-tōh, a large square table, as for eight men. géh-tōh, a round table. siên-chhng-tōh, table with raised rim on three sides. se-hē-tōh, a table that comes off the legs, which fold up. lě-si-tōh, id. i<sup>n</sup>-oai<sup>n</sup>-tōh, a folding-table. kí-tōh, a very small table for tea; a tea-poy. siá-jī-tōh (f.), a table made with a desk.

tōh-pēng, one-half of a double table. tōh-kūi, a table with drawers, cupboard, &c., in it (v. kūi).

tōh-bin, the top of a table; the board of a table, as distinguished from the legs; presents of eatables made to bridegroom. tōh-kheng, frame of top of table. tōh-kha, legs of table; at the foot of the table. tōh-koai<sup>n</sup>, cross-bars or rounds connecting the legs of table. tōh-kí<sup>n</sup>, rim or border of table. tōh-ūi, curtain in front of table between the legs (v. ūi). tōh-kun (f.), a table-cloth.

tōh-téng, on the table. tōh-thâu-teng, a lamp for use on a table. tōh-thâu sien-si<sup>n</sup>, the teacher on the table (said of a dictionary).

iên-tōh, a feast. boán-hàn-tōh, a feast in Man-choo and Chinese style. chit-sék-tōh, one meal or feast. chit-tè-tōh, one table (the article of furniture). chit-chiah-tōh (C.), id. tāng-tōh ê-lāng, persons who eat at the same table. háp-tōh, the feast of the bride with her female friends.

chē-tōh, to sit at table. chhiá<sup>n</sup>-tōh, to invite to a feast. sàng-tōh, to present a whole prepared entertainment to another. hoát hi-tōh, to make a man give a play and a feast, as a forfeit. pān-tōh, a man who keeps a shop for preparing feasts, = té-chi. pai-tōh, to lay the table; a table-boy. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tōh, to be placed on the table, as things for a feast. nâ<sup>n</sup>-á-poát bōe-chiū<sup>n</sup>-tōh-tit, guavas cannot be put on the table to present to guests or divinities (said of a slave or such person of low condition being unfit to see a distinguished guest).

tōh [R. tok, lofty; erect; eminent], a surname.

tóh [R. tiók, to kindle], to flame; to blaze up; to take fire; to kindle (neuter); but in Yun-siau and Chau-an it is a bad word used in vile scolding, so that "oáh" is used there for "blaze" or "kindle."

hé tóh, the fire blazes up or kindles. sim-hé tóh, rage or passion excited. khòai-tóh-hé, easy to set on fire. kōe-tóh-hé, id. ná<sup>n</sup>-tóh ná<sup>n</sup>-iām, blazing more and more fiercely. iām phōng-phōng phá-phā-tóh, id.

jit chit-sit chit-tóh, alternate cloud and sunshine.

tóh [R. tiók, right; correct; to cause; accomplished; = col. tióh]. m-tóh-khì, = m-tiòh-khì, you had better go; we had better go.

tóh [R. tēk, to choose], (C.), to separate the good and bad, as of vegetables. kán-tóh, to choose out; to select. tóh-chhut-lái, to choose out, as the good. tóh-khí-lái, id. tóh-chhang, to clean onions before cooking them, rejecting the useless parts. tóh-chhang tóh-chhài, to clean away the refuse of vegetables before using them. tóh chhang-chhài, id. (all these phrases are only C.)

tóh (Cn.), = A. teh, to peck.

tóh [R. toát, to take away forcibly, = col. tēh], (Cn. T.), = A. tēh, to snatch away; also (T.), = A. kē-kí, to make a new plant by tying earth round a branch, so that it roots itself, and is cut off.

tok [R. firm; strong; sincere; = col. tauh]. tok-

卓
燭燭

着 擇

篤

地

桌

sit (r.), sincere and truthful; honest and simple-minded. tok-sin (R.), very faithful.

tun-tok (r.), correct in conduct (v. tun), (s. rule).

tok (cf. tak). tok-tià<sup>n</sup>, = tak-tià<sup>n</sup>, to anchor for a short time, as when waiting for good wind or tide. tok chit-tiáp-á-kú, id.

tok (cf. tuh). phī<sup>n</sup> tok-tok, the point of the nose turned down and pointed.

tok — kiám tok-tok, very salt.

tok (T.) tok-ka-tsō, = A. tuh-ka-chē, to nod in sleep or doze.

tok [R. to strike; to beat], to beat so as to bruise; to pound with a stone; to hurt by knocking against something. tok-phoà, to strike so as to break, as a shell or thin piece of earthenware; to wound, as one's head, by striking it against something.

tok-hiáh, to wound one's forehead, as beggars do to excite pity. tok koe-nng, to strike an egg on something so as to break the shell. tok-jí-á, to make bits of tile round by beating them, as for children's play (v. jí).

tok (R. id.), to carve, polish, or work, as a gem. tok-in, to cut a seal, as on a valuable stone. tok-gék, to work jade-stone. giók put-tok, put-sêng-khì, if jade be not wrought it does not become a useful article.

tiau-tok, to carve and work, as a gem (s. oversee).

tok (R. khok? cruel; excessive), (Cn. khok), to drive too hard a bargain; to make people buy too dear or sell too cheap. tok--lâng pan-gi, to make people sell to us too cheap. khít--i tok-kùi, to be made to pay too dear to him. khít--i tok--khì, to be made to sell too cheap or buy too dear from him.

tok-kiáu, several men combining to cheat in gambling. tok lâng-ê-kiáu, id.

tok (R. id.), to oversee. tok - kang, to oversee work or workmen. tok sai-hū, to oversee workmen. tok-khí, to oversee the building of a house. tok-tō, to oversee the building of a boat or junk. tok-tin, to have the oversight of a body of soldiers, as standard-bearer. tok - tui, do. of small body of soldiers. tok-lêng, the boy who carries the largest flag of the 13 in an idolatrous procession.

tsóng-tok, governor-general or viceroy. tok-bú, governor-general and lieutenant-governor. thê-tok, general or admiral (v. thê).

kam-tok (r.), to oversee; also (X.), a bishop.

chek-tok, to reprove or correct, regulate, and guide in the right way. tok-chek, id. tun-tok (r.), to teach and train carefully (v. tun), (s. firm). kàu-tok, to instruct and keep in good order, as dependants or younger relatives. hó-kàu-tok, skilful at keeping inferiors in good order; easily kept in order, as boy. tiau-tok, to keep in good behaviour, as junior relatives (s. carve). tiau-tok tsú-tit, to keep junior relatives in good order.

ki-tok (X.), Christ.

tok [R. a great standard or banner]. pó-tók-kí, a large flag with a dragon on it, used by commander-in-chief or such high official. chē-tók, to make offerings to that flag, as general on going to war.

tok [R. dirty; muddy; to defile; to desecrate; to annoy]. siet-tók, to blaspheme or insult with great contumely, as a god or superior.

mē<sup>n</sup>-tók--lí, I beg to trouble you, sir! I have given you too much trouble.

tok [R. to measure; by change of tone from "tə," a measure; a rule; to measure]. bōe-chhek-tók-- tit, cannot be searched to the bottom, as a mystery or secret, or as the heart and its purposes (s. tablet). put-khó chhek-tók, id. (the phrase is only used in these negative forms).

chhú-tók (R.), to draw an inference from premises or evidence. chhún-tók (R.), to examine into the thoughts and purposes, as of another, or of one's own heart.

tók [R. a tablet for writing on; a document; a letter]. chhek-tók, a book of forms for writing letters (s. measure).

àn-tók-iá, a prime-minister in the Hàn dynasty named Siau Ho, worshipped by the subordinates in mandarin's offices.

tók (C. tē). tók-pân, a sort of earthen vessel for holding flowers, which are stuck in it.

tók-pân, a sort of bright-green beetle.

tók (R. id., = col. ták). tók - tók, only; solely. tók-tók chit-ê, only one. tók-tók-goá tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup>, only I myself. tan-hong tók-bi, a drug which is taken alone, not combined with other medicines.

ke-tók (r.), solitary, as a person having no relatives. koan-koá<sup>n</sup> ke-tók, the four sorts of solitary persons, viz. old bachelors, widows, orphans, and those who have no relatives. ke-mng tók-chhi, the only house that has a special article.

tók-toàn, to assert or decide on one's own responsibility (v. toàn). tók-sui-chhng, a bed or couch suitable for one person (v. sui). tók-si<sup>n</sup> ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> (r.), an only son.

tók-hoát, a medicinal root.

tók (R. id., = col. ták, thau), poison; poisonous; miasma; malarious; noxious humour or morbid influence even in one's own body. tók-ióh, poisonous drugs. tók-khì, poisonous influence; malarious infections or morbid poison. hah--tióh tók-khì, to be injured by malaria or infection. hoat jiét-tók, boils or eruptions (as on children) in hot weather. hong-tók, sores arising from chronic rheumatism or from venereal causes. phah hong-tók, such sores breaking out. pién-tók, sort of diseased swelling near the groin (v. pién).

ngé-tók, five sorts of food considered bad for men of weak constitution.

kóe-tók, to cure boils or eruptions which are supposed to have been caused by eating something deleterious. kái-tók, id. siau-tók, id. siu-tók, to remove poisonous matter by eating it up, as the cockroach is supposed to do.

pàng - tók, to administer poison secretly, as by poisoning wells, &c. hē-tók, id. hók-tók, to take poison (v. hók). tók--sí (r.), to kill by poison. tiòng-tók, to have taken poison accidentally; very dangerous or injurious, as a plot or conspiracy against a man.

im-thim-tók, malicious and crafty; plotting mischief; dissembling deeply for the purpose of injuring. im-tim-tók (r.), id. im-thim têng-tók (C.), id.

sái tók-pē, to use secret plots or schemes so as to inflict severe injury on a man. sái àm - tók, id. chhái àm-tók, id.

tók-chhiú, acting so as to injure another very seriously, as by actual violence, or by heavy accusations before mandarin. hē tók - chhiú, to deal murderous blows; to attack a man with intent to murder; to enter a very terrible accusation in court against a man. tók-chhùi, scolding with very foul words or terrible curses. siet tók-chhùi, to scold or curse thus. siet chit-ê tók-chhùi, id.

啄

搥

琢

督

毒

瀆

度

讀

獨

毒

tók-thâng, a venomous or poisonous reptile. tók-tsoá, a venomous serpent. kah-tók sí-tsoá, more poisonous than a dead serpent (said of a thing or of a man; applied to a man, it means that his curses or maledictions generally come true).

khok-tók, very cruel to an inferior, esp. to female slave. khé-tók, to treat harshly and severely, as woman does to female slave, &c. khé-tók chêng-lâng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to maltreat or oppress a stepson.

ok-tók, wicked and cruel. hêng-gék ok-tók, extremely wicked, cruel, and oppressive. ok-sim tók-hêng, wicked, cruel, and injurious heart and conduct. chhau-sim tók-hêng, id. tsòe-ok tsòe-tók, to act very wickedly and injuriously. tsòe-ok tsòe-tók, khia-bé khók-khók; hó-sim hó-hêng, bô-sa<sup>n</sup> thang-chhêng, the wicked and oppressive ride jollily on horses; the well-behaved have no clothes.

tom (R. id., = col. tôm), (C.), sound of a stone in water. tom-tom-kiò, sound of water pouring long and loud into water.

tôm (R. tom), sound of a stone in deep water.

tong [R. to bear; to sustain; to be equal to; to oppose; to have the responsible management; ought; proper; now; at present; = col. tng, ta<sup>n</sup>; and by change of tone, tông, tàng, tàng].

tong-kim, now; at present. tong-jit, just on that day (in past time). tong-sí, just then (past). pí-tong-sí, id. tong-sí íong, just come to one's full strength, as about 18 or 20. liâm-tong-sí, suddenly. tong-tông, openly and publicly (v. tông).

tong-tong-háu, constantly talking on when he ought to stop (s. sound of water). tong-tong-chiáh, constantly eating instead of stopping as he ought.

ân tong-tong, very firm, as a knot. chiáh kàu-pá-tong-tong, I have eaten quite enough.

tong-sū, to have the chief management, as in a shop. teh tong-sū, id. tsòe tong-sū, to be the person who has the management. tong-koân, having for the time the power or authority, as manager of a firm; having considerable influence or power just then.

tong-thâu, to refuse to sell in order to raise the price, as when few of the article are in market.

tong-bõe-tiâu, unable to endure it; intolerable. bõe-tong--tit (r.), do.; cannot endure so much honour or politeness. õe-tong--tit, able to pay up, as subscription; able to carry, as load; able to bear the state of matters, e.g. cold, state of feud, &c. tsū-tsok tsū-tong, doing so, must bear the consequences. kám-tsok kám-tong, id. sék kám-tong, "this stone can bear the bad luck," written on a stone in the wall of a house in an unlucky situation. it-jin kám-sú, bân-hu bók-tong, if one man be not afraid to die, a myriad will not venture to meddle with him, e.g. a man who is desirous to cause trouble. bõe--chiá put-bêng, bõe--chiá tí-tong, if anything in the sale be not clear, the seller bears the responsibility.

tong-kui, sort of medicine (v. kui).

bú-tong-tiên, the temple of Hiên-thien Siông-tè (v. bú).

tong [R. water; sound of water]. tong-tong-háu, the sound of water rushing rapidly in a gutter or small channel (s. bear; now).

tong [R. pendent stone-ornaments; jingling stones; = col. tang]. teng-teng tong-tong, sound of a bell. tin-tin tong-tong, sound of a vibrating string.

tong [R. tiông, middle; centre]. tin-tong, one odds and one evens. khui-tin-tong, to take the hand off the coins, showing them one odds and one evens.

tong [R. winter, = col. tang]. thien-bún-tong, a medicinal plant (Melanthium? Asparagus?).

bék-bún-tong, another medicinal plant (Ophiopogon? Scorzoneria?).

tong [R. east, = col. tang]. tong-se (R.), east and west (v. se). hã-tsoh tong-si, you low mean fellow! (said in scolding).

tong-ka, the man who owns a school-house, and engages the teacher for the children, whether they be his own children or of others; the patron of a school. tong-ke (C.), id. tong-kun, id. hiên-tong (R.), the gentleman who has engaged you as teacher. kui-tong (R.), id.

tsok-tong, to be host or patron; to act as host, e.g. for visitors from a distance; to be the person whose turn it is to provide the repast for the meeting of a literary society; to be the man who provides the funds (and the place) for a school.

tông [R. a boy; a lad; a student; = col. tàng]. tông-seng, a student or candidate who competes for the degree of Sew-tsai. bú-tông, a candidate for the degree of military Sew-tsai. bún-tông, candidate for that literary degree. ló-tông, an old candidate. iù-tông, a young candidate. sín-tông (R.), a wonderfully talented and precocious young scholar, e.g. able to write examination essays when nine or ten years old.

bók-tông (r.), a boy who tends cattle. sien-tông, boys supposed to wait on the geni, &c. (sien), in their residence (s. pupil). tông-tsú (R.), a boy or young lad, about ten years old (s. pupil).

ki-tông, = tàng-chí, a Taoist conjuror, medium, fakeer, or devotee.

tông [R. united; together; alike; = col. tàng]. hò-tông, agreeing together, as persons, or as evidence; of one mind; of the same sort or form, e.g. agreeing with the pattern. kap--i hò-tông, agreeing with him; of the same mind. thong-tông, all alike, as men or things. thong-tông sí àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, all are just alike or of the same sort; all are of the same opinion or purpose. thong-tông úi-hui, to work wickedness together.

kong-tông, publicly; all being together; in the presence of all the parties interested. kong-tông gi-lun hâng-chêng, to meet publicly to discuss and fix the current market price.

tái-tông siáu-i<sup>n</sup>, nearly the same, but slightly different (v. i<sup>n</sup>). tái put-tông, exceedingly different. put-tông (R.), quite different.

tông-bé, to plan or plot together, generally more or less bad, either in the object or the manner of the planning. lúi tông (thunder the same), plagiarism in an examination essay.

tông-pau hia<sup>n</sup>-tí, brothers by same father or mother (v. pau). tông-sêng, of same surname (v. sêng). tông-tsong, of same division of a clan (v. tsong). tông-chhong, fellow-students (v. chhong). tông-póng, having taken the Kujin degree at the same time. tông-liâu (R.), fellow-magistrates or officers. tông-tò, of the same trade, business, or profession. tông-tò-tiong, id. put-tông-tò, of different business or profession; also, he and I are very different characters, he being low, unfair, and bad, while I am honest and correct.

tông [R. the Dryandra and some similar trees, = col. thàng]. gê-tông, a tree with large leaves (Dryandra? Eleococcus?). ngê<sup>n</sup>-tông, id.

冬 東

童

同

桐

井
音湔
璫
中

棠
唐 塘
旌
蠘
瞳
堂

tóng [R. name of various sorts of trees, = col. tang]. kam-tóng (R.), = ka-tang, a large tree of very little use. tóng-tē, a sort of shrub (v. tē).

hái-tóng, a low tree with large brilliant red flowers (Begonia? Cydonia?)

tóng [R. the Tang dynasty, Chinese, = col. tng]. tóng-tiâu, the Tang dynasty. hong-tóng, fabulous. hong-tóng bô-ia<sup>n</sup>, id. hong-tóng, bô-ia<sup>n</sup>-sòng, fabulous or mythical stories of the Tang and Sung dynasties (v. sòng).

tóng [R. to stretch out; sudden; impertinent]. tóng-tút (r.), sudden and unexpected; too forward; rather impertinent.

tóng [R. a sort of flag]. tóng-hoan, long narrow idolatrous flags or streamers, sword-shaped at the point.

tóng [R. name of an insect]. tóng-lông (R.), = chháu-káu, an insect somewhat like a large grasshopper. tóng-bông (Cn. col.), id.

tóng [R. the pupil of the eye]. tóng-tsú, the pupil of the eye (s. boy). bók-tóng-tsú, id. tóng-tsú sán, the eyesight irrecoverably lost by enlargement of pupil. tóng-tsú sán-tái, id.

bók-tóng, quite blind, said in scolding (s. boy).

tóng [R. a hall, especially the large central hall of a house or public building; the hall of judgment; used in the titles of many officials; illustrious; cousins, &c., more or less distant, of same surname; = col. tng].

thien-tóng, heaven (v. thien).

iók-eng-tóng, a foundling hospital.

boán-tóng-hông, a large hanging chandelier for a great many lamps.

tong-tóng, openly and publicly in presence of many persons, e.g. when discussing or settling some matter.

bìn-chêng-tóng, the spot right opposite a grave, towards which it looks. chhoan-tóng, to come circling round from behind the grave till fully opposite the front, as hills sometimes do (v. sa).

lêng-tóng (polite), your mother.

chhin-tóng, cousins of the same surname. chhin-á-tóng, id. chhin-tóng hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, male cousins of same surname. chhin-tóng-peh, father's senior cousin of the same surname. chhin-tóng-tit, son of male cousin of same surname.

tóng--ê, cousin of same surname; sometimes used rather more widely (but in all these phrases always of same surname, being in the male line). goán-tóng--ê, my cousin. tóng-hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, male cousins, i.e. sons of father's brothers. tóng-chí-bē, female cousins, i.e. daughters of father's brothers. tóng-hia<sup>n</sup>, senior male cousin. tóng-sió-tī, junior male cousin. tóng-toā-chí, elder female cousin. tóng-sió-bē, junior female cousin. tóng-ke, father's female cousin, more or less distant. tóng-peh, senior cousin of father. tóng-cheh, junior cousin of father (all in the male line only).

chiông-tóng, second cousins, &c., of same surname, by male line, one or more degrees more distant than "chhin-tóng." chêng-tóng (C.), id. chiông-tóng hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, male second cousins, &c. chiông-tóng-tit, son of male second cousin. chiông-tóng-peh, father's senior second cousin, &c. chiông-tóng-cheh, son of grandfather's cousin, being younger than our father (all in the male line only).

tóng-tóng lâm-tsú-hàn, you big lazy fellow! (said in scolding a man for begging or fawning and sorning on others instead of supporting himself).

tóng (R. id., = col. tóng), a faction, club, or cabal; a secret or seditious confederacy; a company or party of accomplices or associates for some bad purpose; a gang, as of robbers; to club together, gather in a company or make a cabal, as for some bad purpose.

tóng-lūi, a set of associates or confederates for some improper purpose. chhát-tóng, a gang or company of thieves or robbers. ok-tóng, a wicked injurious clique or confederacy. kan-tóng, conspirators who form a traitorous confederacy or conspiracy. phoà-hia-tóng, set of broken-down literati who prey on the people by means of the influence they have at the yamuns. kāng-oang-tóng, of the same bad company, clique, or confederacy. kui-oang kui-tóng, forming such a coterie or company for improper purposes. ū-oang-tóng, to have a set of associates, conspirators, or members of such a company, who assist each other through thick and thin. ū-oang ū-tóng, id.

kiet-tóng, to form a clique, confederation, or party for a bad purpose. hōe-tóng, id. tóng-chiông, to collect a crowd or mob for some bad purpose. tóng-lâng, id.

tóng-som, an inferior sort of ginseng, not a real ginseng (v. som).

tóng [R. disturbed or confused in mind, = col. táng]. bóng-tóng, careless; reckless (v. bóng).

tóng [R. to rule; to understand; to store up; curiosities; = col. táng]. put-tóng (R.), I do not understand the language (said in imitation of mandarin).

ké-tóng, curiosities, esp. old curiosities. ké-tóng-tiám, an old curiosity-shop. pài ké-tóng, to set out curiosities and ornaments, as on a table.

tóng [R. firm; suitable; safe; to pledge; by change of tone from "tóng," to bear; to oppose; to take responsibility; = col. tng, tàng, tng, &c.], to hinder; to forbid procedure, e.g. a sale or a building, esp. by making a claim on the property, or alleging some injury to our own; to stop a leak roughly; the difference made (as on a sail) by the turn of one spoke of the windlass.

thò-tòng, safe, as man who may be depended on, and who is quite safe to deal with; or as affair that may be depended on as quite secure. têng-tòng, safe to deal with; steady and reliable, as man.

tòng-kéng, the guardian idol of a place.

tòng-tōe, an inhabitant; one who lives a good long time at a place (opposed to pû-ku or chhah-ku).

tòng--teh, stop! halt! (said when a procession is to halt).

tsó-tòng, to hinder; to obstruct, as a person; to forbid procedure. tsú-tòng (P. in some places), id. tòng-siong, to object to the building of a house, because of injury to the good luck (hong-súi) of a neighbouring house, temple, or grave. tóng-tsū, effectually hinder or stay procedure. tóng-bōe-tsū, unable to hinder; cannot be prevented; to try to hinder, but fail in the attempt. tóng-bōe-chè, id. tóng-bōe-gê, cannot manage to hinder it. tóng-bōe-tiâu, cannot bear it; unendurable; intolerable. tóng-tit-tiâu, to hinder effectually; effectually prevented.

koh-chhia chit-tòng, turn the windlass (used as capstan) one spoke more in hoisting (enlarging) the sail. koh chhia chit-tòng-phâng, id. nng-tòng-phâng, so much of the sail as is let out by two successive bars of the windlass.

tòng [R. a pillar or post, = col. tàng, tiòng]. ke--ê tòng-liông (r.), the mainstay of a family. put-chí tòng-liông, of very great use, as man; very important, as matters or things.

懂
董 當

棟

黨 党

tông [R. tông, name of a river and of a town]. tsú-tông tè-kun, a title of the god Bún-chhióng or Wen-chang (v. kun).

tông — tông-gōng, having a dull or foolish-looking manner (v. gōng).

tông — tông-hiet-tiu (R.), to throw away.

tông [R. a cave; profound; thoroughly], a cave or grotto; used in the names of temples at caves or grottoes. tông-hiét (r.), a cave or grotto. soa<sup>n</sup>-tông, a mountain cave. chióh-tông, a rocky cave; a chamber among great rocks. keng-biô am-i<sup>n</sup>, soa<sup>n</sup>-giám tông-si, various sorts of idolatrous temples, monasteries, nunneries, &c. sien-tông, temple of the genii.

ké-lông tông-thien, the highest rock on Kulang-seu or Kê-lông-sū.

hoà-sin-tông, a cave or old broken-down grave, where a beggar lies down to die. khì hoà-sin-tông, said contemptuously of a beggar's death.

lū tông-pin (C. li), the name of Sien-tsé, one of the eight Sien, who is specially worshipped by barbers.

tông-siau, a sort of clarinet. tông-koán, a clarinet and three sorts of guitar, all used together (v. koán).

tông [R. vast; to squander; dissipated]. hông-tông, dissipated; disorderly or reckless in behaviour; regardless of restraint or of any one's advice or opinion. lông-tông, id. lông-tông-tsú, a dissolute young fellow.

kheng-ka tông-sán, to lose all one's property, esp. by luxury and extravagance, or by ruinous lawsuits.

hó-hô tông-tông (R.), very majestic, as Heaven or God.

tông [R. tông, a measure of ten feet, = col. tng, tiū<sup>n</sup>]. it-tông-hông, = it-tông-hông, the hollyhock (lit. ten feet long of red flowers).

tông [R. to move, = col. tng]. tông-chêng, to raise a matter; to start a subject. hêng-tông kú-chí, behaviour. kú-tông, id. hó-kú-tông, well-behaved.

tông-sim, to excite desires, esp. for lustful pleasure; also for wealth, rank, or fame. tông-jin-sim, id., esp. as money does. tsái tông-jin-sim, money excites desire.

kám-tông, to influence the heart with emotion or influence, as a spirit, or as doctrine or kindness. hàu kám-tông-thien, filial piety moves the heart of Heaven.

lâu-tông, to be in commotion or turmoil. nāu<sup>n</sup>-tông, id. iâu-tông, agitated, as the people (v. iâu). tông-iâu, id. lô-tông, I will trouble you, sir, to —; I have given you a great deal of trouble.

goán-hong put-tông, the original cover or wrapper unopened.

kan-hé tông, slight redness of eyes and sleeplessness, esp. caused by too much anxiety. hiet-khì ün-tông, the vital energy, or principle, or animal spirits moving about through the body, so as to make the circuit of all parts of the body in 24 hours, as is supposed to take place in a healthy person; (not at all the idea of circulation of blood); it is counted dangerous to be struck at the place where the vital energy is at any particular hour of day or night. khì ün-tông, the animal spirits moving thus.

tông [R. to strike; to dash or strike against; to meet accidentally; = col. tng]. tông--tióh, to run against or come into collision with. lám-sám tông, to run carelessly against, as persons or things. chhióng-tông, to come upon suddenly and violently, as a flood. sa<sup>n</sup>-tông, to come into collision. sio-tông, to commit impurity together (said in vile scolding).

sái-chhiú-khiau tò-tông, to strike backwards with the bent elbow.

tông (Cn.), = A. teng, to ascend, &c.

tông (Cn.), = A. téng, to transcribe, &c.

tông (Cn.), = A. téng, a sort; to wait, &c.

ts — Words beginning with ts are placed under a separate initial after the end of th.

tu, a small heap, as of earth, lime, &c. ka-nŭg-tu, a whole (small) heap. chit-tu-á-thê, a small heap of earth. toā-tu-thê, a large heap of earth.

tu (R. id.) ti-tu, a spider (v. ti).

tu [R. tē, all; altogether]. kun-tu, yet after all; all the same (v. kun). kin-tu (C.), id.

tu [R. tsü, intently, = col. tsu]. tu-tu-siòng, to gaze at intently; to stare at.

tu — hu-tu, sound of a horn or trumpet. hu-tu hu-tu, id.

tu (cf. lu, tū), to push away; to thrust away; to resist, esp. by passive resistance, preventing the opponent from advancing or carrying out his purpose; to oppose or resist, as by pressing against; to push a boat with a pole. tu--teh, held fast, so that he cannot move, or can do no harm, e.g. as a dog fastened with a sort of bamboo instrument; or as a prisoner fastened with a bamboo below his chin, so that he cannot move, in order to torture him and extort money. kā--i tu--teh, to hold him fast, so that he cannot get away. kā--i tu-hē (C.), id. tu--khì, to push away, as with the end of a stick. tu-khui, to thrust away or to the side.

tui-tu, to oppose with so much effect as at least to keep back the opponent for some time, and to show a considerable probability of ultimate success. kap-i-tu, to oppose or resist him. khí-peng kap-i-tu, to raise troops to oppose him.

tu-lâu, to move against the stream of a river, or of the tide; tide or stream contrary. tu-hong, to go against the wind; a head-wind. tu-chhát, to resist or keep off robbers or rebels. tu se-lé (to resist the Russians), a very difficult and dangerous affair (v. lé).

tu chhiú-bé, making trial of strength by pushing against each other's hands. tu-tsái, to make trial of strength by pushing a pole placed against each other's body near the navel.

úi-tu, the wooden support in front of a mast. káu-tu, an instrument made of bamboo and rope, for holding a dog tight, as when leading it.

sa<sup>n</sup>-kha-tu, placed in a triangular form, as three things, persons, or places (v. sa<sup>n</sup>).

tu (K.), = A. ti, a pig; said also in some other parts of Tâng-oa<sup>n</sup>, esp. in the villages of Amoy island.

tú (T. Cn.), = A. ti, a pig. hì-tú (T.), = A. hì-siu<sup>n</sup>, a man who is specially fond of a particular company of young actors.

tú [R. to remove; to exclude; to expel], (C. ti; Cn. tū), to subtract; to deduct; with the exception of, without counting —.

siau-tú, to remove or dispel, as evils or calamities. sàu-tú, to remove away entirely, as bad persons or things. tú--chhut-khì, to remove or drive away, as a wicked fellow who cannot be allowed to stay any more at a place. tú-lú--khì (r.), id.

tú-lêng, to end the ceremonies of "hàu-pŭg," some

堆
蛛
底 都
注
株

除

潼
洞

蕩

丈 動

撞

time after a man's death, by burning all the fittings and articles used in the rites.

kui-tú sêng-hoat, multiplication and division (v. kui). khàu-tú, to deduct, as from wages or payments. chhit-khàu poeh-tú, to run up a heavy list of deductions and countercharges, making out that there is very little, if anything, to be paid. khít-i chhit-khàu-poeh-tú bô--khì, to have the whole account swallowed up by such countercharges, so as to get nothing. tû-sit, net weight or measure. ôe-sing, bôe-tú; thó-bí, oá<sup>n</sup> han-tsú, said of a man being very stupid in dealings, as potatoes are much less valuable than rice (C. bat-sui<sup>n</sup>, m-bat-tí; thiò-bí, bé han-chí).

tù-tú, halancing an account; subtraction. tù-tú-goã, the balance stands — (on whichever side). tù-tú-lái-goã, id. tù-tú-goã siong-khiàm, balance due. tù-tú-goã siông-tsai, balance in hand. tú-khai-siau-goã, net gain after deducting food and all other expenses. tú-chhut í-goã, with this exception. tú-i í-goã, excepting him. tú bé-lâng í-goã, with the exception of Mr. So-and-so. tú-sí í-goã, with the exception of death alone. tú-hui tióh-kiá<sup>n</sup> àn-ní<sup>n</sup>, the only practicable or possible way is to take this course. tú-hui tióh-àn-ní<sup>n</sup>, chiah tú-hó, no other way will suit, if you wish to have it all right.

tú — gû-tú, rough in manner, and obstinately thinking himself very knowing, and so doggedly refusing to take advice, though really wanting in intelligence, and ignorant of what should be done. gû-tú-ok, overbearing, threatening, coarse, and dogged in manner, as if he would strike people, while at the same time stupid, esp. as a lad about fifteen or eighteen (cf. thù, tsú).

tú [R. thù, to dig; to hoe; a hoe; = col. tí], (C. tí; A. tí, tú; Cn. tũ). tú-thâu, a hoe; said especially in the villages on Amoy island, while "tí-thau" is said in the town of Amoy.

tú (R. id.) tiú-tú, to be in doubt and suspense; perplexed and undecided.

tú [R. a kitchen; a slaughter-house; = col. tê]. tú-pang, a mandarin's cook; a mandarin's kitchen.

tú, a cupboard; a press for holding things; a wardrobe; a set of shelves, &c.; a sort of cage or trap. tú-á, a small press, cupboard, &c. tek-tú-á, a bamboo table with a small press in it. sa<sup>n</sup>-á-tú, a wardrobe or press for clothes. chheh-tú, a set of book-shelves, with or without doors. piah-tú, a cupboard or set of shelves in a wall. oá<sup>n</sup>-tú, a cupboard or press for crockery. chhài-tú, a cupboard for provisions. hé-sit-tú, id. sit-tú, id.

lók-tú, a cage in which important criminals are sent to be tried or executed. khiá-tú, an upright cage in which criminals are made to stand with only the head out; to stand in this cage till dead.

niau<sup>n</sup>-tú, a cage for a cat. niau<sup>n</sup>-chhú-tú, a cage for white mice which work a treadmill. phang-tú, a bee-house. bé-tú, a horse-box. chí<sup>n</sup>-á-tú, a pigeon-house; a dove-cot. kap-tú, id. lán-tsún kap-tú, like a dove-cot; said of a very small house.

hé-tú, a trap for tigers. ka-tsáu-tú, a sort of trap for catching fleas.

tú--teh, confined in a cage, as a wild heast; confined so that he cannot escape, as a man, esp. as a prisoner in a clan feud.

tú [R. tí, to oppose; to resist; to sustain; to be a substitute; to be equal in worth; to come against; to meet with; cf. col. tók, tu, tũ], to meet with; (just now; just the size or quantity; just the thing); to be given in payment in place of something else; to deduct or keep off so much from a payment, as for debt, or on account of a fault.

tú--lâng, to shut a man's mouth by something that he cannot answer, esp. what he himself has done or said. chhông-ôe tú--i, to stop his mouth by something he had said or done.

tú-tak, to carp at a master's orders.

pí<sup>n</sup>-tú-theng, neither party able to overcome the other. ngí<sup>n</sup> tú-ngí<sup>n</sup>, each party refusing to make any abatement of claims. beh kap--i tú-tsú, determined to be at feud with him.

tù-tú, to balance accounts, so that neither owes anything, e.g. hy debts or items done on the other side, or by articles valued at so much. kiáh png-sí, tú-niau<sup>n</sup> (to keep off the cat with the spoon), id. hē-lí-tú, I will allow you to take off part of my wages, price, &c. tú kang-chí<sup>n</sup>, to deduct so much from wages, e.g. to make up for a debt. tú sa<sup>n</sup>-khē, to deduct three dollars, as from wages. tú-siàu, to be paid towards the liquidation of a debt, as part payment in money, or as work or goods accepted in lieu of money. chiong-chit--ê hē--lí tú-siàu, I give you this article in place of money, in payment of my debt. chiah-mih<sup>n</sup> tú-siàu, to eat without paying, as payment of debt due us by the man who supplies the food.

tú-giáh (C.), = A. tí-giáh, to make up the want of a person, as a substitute.

tú--tióh, to meet with. tú-gū, do.; to happen (v. gū). tú-gī (C.), id. tú-tng, do.; to meet with casually (v. tng). sa<sup>n</sup>-tú-thâu, to meet with each other coming different ways. sa<sup>n</sup>-tú, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-tú-chhùi, two persons conversing in a low voice with heads very close together, e.g. concerting some united secret action.

tú tsō--hoà, to make a venture (v. hòà). tú lí--ê tsō--hoà, I will try to help you, but have much doubt of success.

tú-chhái, perhaps. chhàu-tú-khám, unexpectedly.

tú-tú, just now; just a moment ago (always of past time, or of what is now as the result of the past, but never of the future). tú-tú ū, it happens that just now there is or are, or I have, &c. tú-tú hit-tiáp, just at that very moment. jit tú-tú-tàu, just at noon. tú-tú-hó, just right; just as it should be; just at the proper time, or in proper quantity or manner. tú-hó, id. tú-á, just now; just immediately before; just this moment (all of the past, never of the future). tú-á-chiah, id. tú--chiah, id.

tú [R. tsú; to prop; a prop; cf. col. tũ], to prop; to prop up; to support by a prop. tú-piah, to prop up a partition (v. piah). tú-mng, to put a bar, prop, or piece of furniture against a door, so as to keep it shut; to be as high as a door, as boxes, books, &c., piled up beside it. thâu-khak tú-mng, head as high as the door. tú-ti<sup>n</sup>, so great as to reach up to heaven.

tú (same as previous word?), a prop. mng-tú, a long thick bar for preventing a door being opened, set end-on against the door. teng-jí-tú, a T-headed bar for such purpose. kong-jí-tú, a support shaped like the letter H, e.g. between the beams of a floor where a stair or ladder is placed. jin-jí-tú, the horizontal beam (tie-beam) of a couple for a gable roof. piah-tú, a support for a weak or falling partition.

tú-thú, a short pole used for resting a carrying-pole upon when the porter halts for a little.

tú [R. to manifest; to make public; to set forth; to 鋤

踏
廚廚

抵

柱

著

narrate; to write books; by change of tone from "tiók," to accomplish; correct], (C. tí).

tù-hièn (r.), to manifest.

tù-chheh, to compose books, especially useful books.

注

tù [R. tsù, to fix the mind upon, = col. tsu, tu], a stake in gambling; money laid down in gambling. kē-tù, a single large stake. sió-tù, a small stake. poáh sió-tù, to play for a small stake. toā-tù, a large stake. poáh toā-tù, to play for a large stake. toā-tù-poáh, id. beh-thàn toā-tù, determined to have great gains, as in trade. beh-thàn toā-tù-chi<sup>n</sup>, id.

chhut-tù, to lay down a stake on one's own game. png-tù, to lay a stake or wager on another in gambling. png lí-ê-tù, I lay my stake beside yours, to share your fortune in the game. png thâu-tù, to lay one's stake on the first of the two laid down. png jī-tù, to lay one's stake on the second.

chiáh-tù, to win the stakes. goá-chiáh lí-ê-tù, I win, getting your stake. chiáh-i sa<sup>n</sup>-tù-thàu, to be so much superior to another as to be able to beat him out of all question, so as utterly to despise his attempts.

lí thèng goá-ê-tù, you pay the stakes to me.

chē-tù, to accept the responsibility for another in any matter.

phah-pià<sup>n</sup>-tù, to risk all at once, as on one throw in gambling, or in one venture in trade, or in a quarrel where loss is ruin.

住

tù [R. tsü, to rest; to sojourn; to reside or be stationed]. tù-teh-thó, to wait demanding payment, insisting on having it before going away, as a creditor, or as a mandarin or his subordinates.

tū [cf. tu, tú, tsü; these groups of phrases under "tū" should perhaps be all under one word, or should be differently arranged], to keep shut or open, as a door, by placing something against it. tū-mng, to keep a door shut or open by a chair, or bar, or prop, &c.

tū (cf. tú), to stop a man's mouth, as by a sharp or sarcastic reply. tū--làng, to stop a man's mouth, especially by quoting what he himself had said or done.

lí-kóng chit-ê-ōe beh-lái tū--sí-goá, you say this merely to make me unable to answer, and so to trouble me and get the better of me, not in fair argument.

ōe-tū, giving a sharp, gruff, or unpleasant reply, so that the other is quite taken aback. sái-ōe-tū, id. kóng-ōe-ōe-tū, id. oā-tū (C.), id.

àu-tū-tū, morose; sulky (v. pū).

lū-tū (C.), = A. lū-kū, gruff in reply.

tū (same as one of previous words?) tū-khùi, breathing very difficult, as in asthma, or as when near death. khì ài-tū, id. khùi beh-tū--khì, id.

khùi beh-tū--sí, having very great difficulty in breathing, as in asthma, or some severe disease of the throat.

tū (same as previous word? or following word?) tū--sí, to get drowned, as by falling into water; to drown a man or animal by holding down in the water.

注

tū [R. tsü? to soak]. tū-tsúi, to soak in water for a short time, e.g. for a quarter of an hour or so.

khít-tsúi tū--sí, to be drowned.

liáh hí-tsúi--nih<sup>n</sup> tū, take and hold down in the water, as man or thing; e.g. in order to frighten a man or to make him very uncomfortable for a little.

tū-kiám, to salt or pickle by plunging in brine.

tū (T.), = A. tí, chopsticks.

tū (Cn.), = A. tí, chopsticks.

tū (K.) tū--teh, = A. tí-teh, present.

tuh (cf. tūh). tih-tuh, speaking in a deceitful way, e.g. saying things quite different or seriously varied at different times, or so that it is not clear whether it is in joke or earnest; over-sharp in money matters; unsafe to deal with. kóng-ōe tih-tuh, to talk in an unsettled, varying, slippery way, as in order to deceive.

tuh — tiám-tuh, to give a hint what to do, or to warn of danger (often secretly or privately), as by a sign or wink or hint not generally understood. thau-tiám-tuh, to warn secretly or give a secret hint, as by signal or word or other sound.

tuh (cf. thuh, thok, tūh), to feel the ground, as with a staff or stick; to strike or thrust downwards with a stick.

tuh koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to feel one's way with a stick. tuh-tōe, to feel the ground, as with a stick. tuh thē-kha, id.

tuh, to nod the head, as when drowsy. tuh-bin, to nod in sleep; to be drowsy; to dose. tuh-ka-chē (T. tok-ka-tsō), id. tuh-ka-tsōe (C.), id.

tuh-ku, nodding; head bent down, as in sleep or drowsiness, or as in sickness or old age. chē kàu tuh-ku, to sit vacantly and wearily, having nothing to do.

thâu-khak tuh-tuh, keeping the head bent down, as man much depressed in spirits or ashamed; or as man walking in a very sedate or thoughtful way; or when looking down to avoid the appearance of looking at people; or from usual habit, &c.

tuh (cf. tok). thâu chiam, phi<sup>n</sup> tuh, face long and nose sharp.

tuh — nng-phiet chit-tuh, beard and mustaches (said in joke).

tuh — e tuh-tuh, very black.

tūh (cf. tsūh), to strike hard with the point of the finger; to strike with the point of a stick in the direct line of the stick, as in making a hole; to pierce or thrust through.

tūh-phoà, to pierce and burst open, as a boil or blister, &c., with a needle; said also of making a man's baseless pretensions collapse, e.g. a man who pretended that he had powerful influence to back him. tūh--tiòh lāng--ê hùi-bú, to speak openly of something that makes a man greatly ashamed, e.g. a flaw in his pedigree, or some secret shameful crime.

tūh — tih-tūh, to stammer and falter in speaking, as when telling lies (v. tih).

tūh [R. ték, to choose; cf. C. tōh]. keng-chia<sup>n</sup> tūh-phia<sup>n</sup>, to choose the best of the meat (said of a man difficult to please, always choosing the best of everything). kái<sup>n</sup>-chia<sup>n</sup> tūh-phia<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. kúi<sup>n</sup>-chia<sup>n</sup> tūh-pūi (Cn.), id.

tui [R. a heap; to pile up], a heap; a large quantity or company; a police-station.

tui-thâu, a police-station. khùn-tui, to pass the night at a police-station, as the soldiers stationed there in turn.

thē-tui, a heap of earth and rubbish gradually formed. bān-jín-tui, common burying-ground, where multitudes of the common people bury.

chit-tui, one heap; one company or lot. chit-toā-tui (r.), a large quantity or lot; a multitude of men, &c. tsòe chit-tui, to meet together; to come together; to become one heap. lúi-lúi tsòe-chit-tui, to gather into a heap. tsòe-tui, to begin to cohabit, as betrothed persons without the regular ceremonies. tai-ke tsòe-tui, all met together. tau-tsòe-tui, to gather into one heap, or all close together, as a number of things. chí<sup>n</sup> tâu-tsòe-tui, to collect money together for some special purpose, from various quarters and in various ways.

柱

訥擇

堆

tui-chek, to gather together in great abundance (v. chek). báuh-tui, to bargain for in the lump, without measuring.

lúi-tui, wearisome and troublesome, as man not straightforward in discussing a matter or dispute, e.g. unfairly perverting the facts or making unnecessary difficulties; troublesome and difficult to set right, as an involved affair; confused, disordered, and dirty, as an untidy room, or as a heap of various things. lui-tui, id. lúi-lúi tui-tui, extremely so. lâng lúi-tui, he is very troublesome to discuss or deal with, because he intentionally perverts the facts, &c. pān-sū lúi-tui, to manage a matter carelessly, e.g. leaving many flaws.

tui [R. to pursue; to chase; to overtake and catch; to trace back; to reflect upon], to pursue; to chase; to make official search for stolen things.

tui-koá<sup>n</sup>, to chase. tui-kàu (r.), to overtake. tui-tiòh, id. tui kàu-tsáu-bô-lô, to pursue till there is no way of escape.

kiù-tui, to take vigorous action to recover stolen articles, as mandarin does by arresting parties or sending constables to the place. pí-tui, to beat a man till he gives back or recovers the stolen property, as mandarin does to a thief or to the "bé-khoài." tui-hêng, to send and apprehend a criminal so as to recover the stolen property for the owners. tui-thó (r.), to demand back a thing very urgently.

tui-liām (R.), to think on kindness or good deeds done to us in time long past.

túi (R. id.), to strike with a mallet over and over; to beat as metal in making foil; to beat as iron, making it malleable; to thump with the fist; to shampoo the body by beating with the hand, esp. the upper part of the body; to beat, as grain.

túi-pí<sup>n</sup>, to beat flat with a mallet, &c. túi-kim, to beat gold into foil. túi-pè, to beat cloth with a mallet. túi-sa<sup>n</sup>, to beat clothes in washing them. túi-thê, to beat clay in working it up for mortar.

túi-heng, to beat one's breast with the fist, as in grief or displeasure, esp. grief for one's own folly, as on failing to use a good opportunity, or as when a calamity has been brought on by one's own fault or mistake. túi-heng tah-liú, to beat the breast with the palm so as to make the buttons shake, as in anger, or as in asseverating that what we say is true.

túi-io, to shampoo the loins. túi-kún liáh-léng (Cn.), to shampoo, as for illness.

túi (T.), to pull out or pull up, e.g. to pull pins out of a woman's hair.

túi [R. kúi, honourable; noble; to honour; to count important], túi-tiông (C. tí-tiông), to value; to count important; to respect, as a person.

túi (R. id.), a pair; an antithesis; opposite to; agreeing with; to correspond to; to answer; from; to transfer money by a bill or draft to another place.

chit-túi, a pair; an antithesis. siang-siang tui-tui, in pairs.

sa<sup>n</sup>-túi, just right opposite; exactly agreeing, &c. māg-hē sa<sup>n</sup>-túi, belong to families of equal rank or station, or of equal relationship. si-bák sa<sup>n</sup>-túi, said of two persons looking helplessly at each other unable to avert calamity (v. bák).

túi-tāng, alike; exactly agreeing, as evidence (v.

tāng). túi-chin, made according to the proper and prescribed pattern or rule; to be successful, as a request. túi-lô, pleasing to a person; suitable (v. lô), (+).

bô-túi, not making a proper pair or antithesis; not placed properly opposite. chì-tsun bô-túi, most honourable without compare. bô-túi-kéng (Cn.), unsuitable; not pleasing. bôe-túi, it does not agree; does not suit; it is not right or correct.

túi-tiông, just in the middle. túi-tng, at or by the half, e.g. breaking in two (v. tng). túi-poá<sup>n</sup>, at the middle; by the half; half-way. túi-poá<sup>n</sup>-pun, to give away one half; to divide (as gains) in equal halves. túi-poá<sup>n</sup>-thàn, to gain cent. per cent. túi-σ, just hitting the mark.

chit-túi-si, same hour on next day. túi-ni<sup>n</sup>, exactly one year after; same day in next year; esp. said of making offerings to the dead exactly one year after death. tsòe-túi-ni<sup>n</sup>, to perform these rites or have them performed. túi-ni<sup>n</sup>-hà, mourning for one year, as for grandfather (v. hà). bô-túi-kí, not yet due, as a bill.

túi-oá<sup>n</sup>, to barter; to exchange. túi-tiâu, to exchange places, as persons (v. tiâu).

túi-toa<sup>n</sup>, a bill of exchange or money order (v. toa<sup>n</sup>). túi-kè, to pay by a draft or bill, &c., or by an account on the other side. túi-gún, to transfer money by a bill or draft, as to another place, or for payment through a third party. túi-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. túi-tse, to pay a debt by assigning rents to creditor till it is paid up. tiên-túi, to pay a debt by a bill or draft on another.

túi-siâu, to compare accounts. túi-tá, to balance an account (v. tá). túi-tú, to settle an account or debt by articles valued at so much, or by debts on the other side. túi-tí, id. (v. tí).

túi-lô, by road (+). túi-tsún, by boat. túi-māg, by the door or gate (+). túi-chit-tiâu (Cn. ùi-chit-tiâu), by this road or route. túi-chia khi, go by this way or place. túi-chia, id.

túi-âu, from behind. túi-tá-lòh, from what place? towards what place?

túi-i-thó, to demand it from him.

túi-i-kóng, speak to him. lí kap-i tui-kóng, speak to him yourself without any intermediate party or middleman. túi-thâu-kóng, the two parties making a bargain or settling an affair for themselves without any arbiter or such medium. túi-káng, id. túi-tap, to answer; to reply, as in speaking. èng-túi jū-liú (R.), answering fluently. túi-chhék, two parties discussing a matter in order to settle it. túi-chek, to discuss a dispute, as the parties before a mandarin or arbiter. túi-chit (R.), id. túi-chí, to make statements face to face, as the two parties. túi-chèng, to examine and compare the evidence on both sides. túi-sin, to judge a case with both parties present. túi-sim, id.

túi-chhin, to settle a marriage contract for one's daughter. túi-tiên, to introduce our old tenant to the man to whom he is now to pay the rent (v. tiên).

túi-hoán, on the other hand; on the contrary; opposite; contrary. túi-péng (r.), id. túi-kéh, in direct opposition to one's wishes or plans.

túi-ték, an enemy; to oppose, as an enemy. m-si i-ê tui-ték, he cannot contend with him. túi-lāng bôe-kè, cannot venture to attempt it because quite unable to overcome the opponent or opponents. béng-hé bôe-túi-tit kún-thâu tsòe, a fierce tiger cannot stand a great many blows. béng-hé bôe-túi-tit káu-kún, do., or a crowd of monkeys.

追

追

貴對

tùi-chhiú, an enemy; fighting hand to hand; a fellow-labourer; a fellow-worker; a partner in trade, &c. m̄-sī i--ê tùi-chhiú, he is no match for him. m̄-sī i--ê tùi-chhiú, he is no match for him with his tongue (v. chhiú). tùi-kha poáh, two men gambling together.

tùi-thâu, an enemy or opponent; from the head or beginning (s. mortar and pestle). tùi-thâu chhin-ke, persons previously connected by affinity whose children are married to each other. tùi-thâu gō, a misunderstanding on both sides. tùi-thâu ũ-tsu, there are two other parties on whom the responsibility rests (v. tsú). tùi-thâu oan-ke-tsu, the very person with whom we are at feud. tùi-thâu ũ-khò, each side has powerful backers. tùi-thâu ũ sè-khò, id. m̄-sī i--ê tùi-thâu, he is unable to oppose him; is no match for him. tùi-thâu kàu-bé, from beginning to end.

tùi-bīn, just opposite in position; face to face. tùi-siòng, looking intently at each other. tùi-hiòng, right opposite, as house or grave-site. tùi-chiò, to be right opposite, as wall or house (v. chiò). tùi-mfng, doors just facing each other (+). tùi-chhiong, right opposite, so as to affect the fortune of a house or grave. lám-pak tùi-chhiong, south and north right opposite, as in regard to a house. poeh-jī tùi-chhiong, one's horoscope coming in collision with that of some near relative. ngé-kúi tùi-chhiong, having an irrepressible feud. kap-i ngé-kúi tùi-chhiong, at most violent feud with him. bān-san tiâu-tùi, the hills making an amphitheatre half round the grave.

tùi-khim, a jacket or coat made so as to open right up the middle of the breast.

ũ-thâu-tùi, to be husband and wife. tsòe thâu-tùi, id. phah thâu-tùi, to sell a female slave to become another man's legal wife. phòe thâu-tùi, a female slave becoming another man's legal wife, done by a regular deed of sale. phòe-tùi, to be man and wife. sit-tùi, to lose one's mate or consort (said of men or animals). bô-tùi pát-ê, does not pair with another after death of its mate (said of the "gān" or wild goose).

liên-tùi, ornamental scrolls with antithetic sentences. chit-tùi-liên, a pair of them. m̄ng-tùi, pair of antithetic scrolls pasted at the sides of a door. tùi-lūi, a book of antithetic words and phrases, learned by children. tùi-phē, a copy-book of antitheses. chhit-jī-tùi, antithetic sentences of seven words. poeh-jī-tùi, do. of eight words. liām-tùi, to repeat antithetic sentences or phrases. pài-tùi, to worship Confucius or Khoe-seng by means of antithetic sentences.

tùi (R. id.), a large stone mortar (with a heavy stone pestle) for hulling rice, by pounding, usually worked by the foot. tùi-khū, id. tùi-thâu, the stone end of the pestle for such a mortar (s. opposite). chiòh-tùi-thâu, id. tùi-sin, the shaft or handle of the pestle.

bī-tùi, a large stone mortar with a heavy pestle, for hulling rice by pounding. chhiú-tùi, such a mortar worked by the hand. kha-tùi, do. worked by the foot. tsúi-tùi, do. worked by water-power.

cheng-tùi, to work a mortar for hulling rice by pounding, usually done with the foot. lap-tùi, to tread the pestle in thus pounding rice. tǎh-tùi, id. tǎh-tùi-láng, a sort of trap for catching birds or beasts. káu-tǎh-tùi, a machine driven by a sort of treadmill worked by a dog; a self-acting steelyard for separating light from heavy cash; the working beam of a steam-engine.

túi (cf. tui, to hang down). hī-á toā-túi, ears very large (v. hī).

siáu-tiòng-túi, inguinal hernia. tùi-tiòng, id.

túi [R. tõe; some read "tõe;" to exchange; to barter]. tui-gún, to get silver in dollars, either for copper cash, for sycee silver, or for gold ingots. kim tui-gún, to get silver in exchange for gold. tui-kim, to get gold in exchange for silver. tui kim-tiâu, to buy a small bar of gold for silver.

túi [R. swelling of legs]. tui-khi, legs swollen by disease.

túi [R. id., = col. lūi], to let down by a rope; to descend by a rope. tui-lòh, id. tui-lòh-lái, to get lowered to us by a rope (s. hang down).

chhien-kun-túi, = lám-kong, the rope that lies close by the side of the mast; also, a medicinal plant.

túi [R. to fall down; to hang down heavily; cf. col. thū, tui; perhaps should be divided into two words], a pendant, as of a coronet or crown. iên-túi, a lead weight or sinker, as for a sounding lead, or for a net, or for driving a clock, &c. thē-túi, earthenware weights for nets. bāng-túi, small weights for sinking nets. hī-túi, ear-rings. bák-kiá<sup>n</sup>-túi, weights for keeping spectacles on, hanging over the ears. hē-lē-túi, gourd-shaped weight of a pendulum.

tui--lòh-lái, to hang down heavily, as branch loaded with fruit almost bent to the ground, or as a flagstaff gradually falling by its own weight (s. let down by rope). tui-chin, to let the plummet hang down.

tui-cheng, spermatorrhœa.

hòe-túi, dilapidated; in a ruinous condition; fallen into decay. hui-túi (C.), id.

tui-tāng, to divide, as by balances, into parts of equal weight; to make a thing hang straight down by weights, e.g. mosquito-curtains. kap-gún tui-tāng, worth its weight in silver. tui pi<sup>n</sup>-tāng, to balance so as to make equal in weight. tui-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. tui hē-i-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. kap-kim tui-tāng, worth its weight in gold.

túi (R. id.), a troop or company of soldiers, usually about 50, sometimes about 100. tui-ngé, ranks of soldiers; rank and file (v. ngé).

chhèng-túi, a company of musketeers or riflemen. phau-túi, a company of artillery, e.g. with gingalls. keng-chi<sup>n</sup>-túi, the company of archers, from whom military mandarins are usually chosen. bé-túi (C. bé-túi), a company or troop of cavalry. bé-túi (C. bé-túi; Cn. bō-túi), the last company or troop.

tui-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the officer commanding a body of troops, larger or smaller. tui-koa<sup>n</sup>, a very small officer commanding 20 or more men. toā-tui-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tok-tui-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tok-tui, to command such a small company. choā-tui--ê, a standard-bearer for a small company or troop.

tsàn-túi, to stand in ranks, as on receiving a high mandarin. pài-túi, to form the ranks. thiam-túi, to add more troops or companies of soldiers. kiá<sup>n</sup>-túi, to march slowly and in regular order, as troops. phah-túi, two troops or companies engaged in mock battle, as in review. hun-túi, to divide a large mass of soldiers into small troops. pun-túi, id. soá<sup>n</sup>-túi, to disperse the ranks. khe-túi, to sound a signal with the trumpet to call the troops close together for any purpose. siu-túi, to withdraw the troops, as after drill, or in good order after battle.

對
墜 兒 腿
繩

墜
墜

隊

碓

ngiá<sup>n</sup>-túi (P.) = C. ngiá<sup>n</sup>-gē, a sort of idolatrous procession (v. gē).

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = tng, a piece; a bit.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = T. tái<sup>n</sup>, to give.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tng, to turn; to settle or arrange a dispute, as a third party. túi<sup>n</sup>--khi, = A. tò-khi, to go back. túi<sup>n</sup>--lái, = A. tò-lái, to come back. túi<sup>n</sup>-chhiò, to turn round and laugh, or smile and be pleased again, after being angry. oát-túi<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to change hands, as in carrying a heavy load, or in showing one's hands to a fortune-teller.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tng, to warm over a small stove.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tng, a meal.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) túi<sup>n</sup>-heng, = A. tng-heng, to heat one's breast with a stone, as heggars do.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tiàm, a shop. tui<sup>n</sup>-kha, id. tui<sup>n</sup>--nng, = A. tiàm--nih<sup>n</sup>, in the shop. tui<sup>n</sup>-tsú, a shopkeeper.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tng, thng, a part of a limb when part of it is lost. hin-su-túi<sup>n</sup>, a trunk having head, hands, and feet cut off (said in scolding). kha-túi<sup>n</sup>, a part of a leg, when part has been cut off or devoured. chhiú-túi<sup>n</sup>, an arm or part of an arm when cut off, or left by wild beast, &c.

chhiú-túi<sup>n</sup>, = A. chhiú-thng, a stump of a tree, either in the ground or cut down.

túi<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tng, to cut separate; to sever; to separate.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tiên, a temple of a first-class deity; only used in some few phrases, e.g. sèng-túi<sup>n</sup>, the temple of Hiên-thien Siông-tè in Anhai.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tēng, hard.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tēng, threshold. bin-túi<sup>n</sup>, the threshold.

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tiên (R.), to cultivate the ground; to rent; only used in some of the phrases. tui<sup>n</sup>-hē, the tenant of a farm.

jin-túi<sup>n</sup>, to go security for tenant (v. tiên).

túi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.) = A. tē. tui<sup>n</sup>-it, the first.

tuu [R. tūn, hlunt; dull; stupid], blunt; not sharp. chhùi tun, slow of speech; not fluent. chhùi-chhi tun, id. bák-chiu tun, not good at recognizing a thing or person seen before. tun-to chhut lái-chhiú, a blunt knife brings out the skill of the workman.

tun [R. unsuccessful.] tun-chien (R.), very unlucky and unfortunate, as man.

tun [R. a heap; a mound; a low pillar]. tun-á, a small round hill.

ien-tun, low chimneys on hills, &c., used as beacon signals, also at the mandarin stations on great roads.

kim-tun ng, one of the great branches of the surname Hwang (ng), so large that they sometimes say their surname is "kim."

tuu [R. great; full; liberal; to consider important; to impel to do].

tun-pé, to practise shooting at a mark very close at hand. tun chháu-pé, id., at a mark made of straw or reeds.

phok-sit tun-hē (R.), honest and simple in tastes. lāng-khoán tun-tok, his conduct and behaviour is very good (from "tok," firm; steady). put-chi tun-tok (r.), very correct, proper, and diligent in managing a matter, esp. good at teaching. ka-kī tun-tok, to train one's self; developing one's good qualities, and restraining evil tendencies. tun-tok (R.), to teach and train gradually and carefully, as a teacher does (from "tok," to rule or govern). tun-tok hák-seng, to train one's pupils with care. tun-tok tsú-tit, to train one's junior relatives well, and keep them in good order.

tūn [R. a young pig; cf. col. thūn]. hô-tūn (R.), a porpoise. siá-bēng, sit hô-tūn, said of throwing away one's life for good eating.

tūu (cf. thūn). tūn-táh (Cn.), to tread or trample on. lām-sám tūn (Cn.), to tread carelessly upon.

tūn (R. id.), the lips. ē-tūn, the lower lip. téng-tūn, the upper lip. chhùi-tūn, the lips. chhùi-tūn-phê, id. poá<sup>n</sup> chhùi-tūn-phê, to have a long wordy dispute. ien-chi tiám chhùi-tūn, to stain the lips with rouge. chhùi-tūn khiàu-khiàu, lips protruded (v. khiàu). chhùi-tūn ngiauh-ngiauh, id. chhùi-tūn bau-bau, lips naturally turned a little inwards.

bau-tūn, to turn in the lips, as children; to plate with metal, turning it in over the edges, e.g. pewter on a stone tea-pot. thê-tūn, the ground in front of a grave projecting on a somewhat lower level, counted auspicious, so that when not naturally so it is often built up in that form. kām-tūn, to take the lips between the teeth, slightly biting them, as a child does.

tūn-im, labial sounds. chí pék, tūn hông, teeth white and lips red, counted very good-looking.

tūn hông, chí pék, id.

hī-á-tūn, the earlap.

kāu-tūn, a fish with thick lips, somewhat like the "ka-láh."

tún [R. a shield; a huckler]. mǎu<sup>n</sup>-tún, to contradict one's self. bǎu-tún, id. ka-kī mǎu<sup>n</sup>-tún, id.

chháu-tún, a round cushion for kneeling on. gím-tún, a round cushion of flowered silk, used at court.

tún (a flat cylindrical stone), to fasten a criminal to a large round stone by a locked chain. tún-hoán, a criminal chained to such a stone. tún-chhát, to chain a thief to a round stone, as by order of mandarin; a thief thus fastened, or who has been so chained.

chiòh-tún, a short cylindrical stone with a hole in the middle for fastening a criminal to it; or without a hole, for sitting on as a seat.

bō-á-tún, a mill-stone. chit-tún-bō, a pair of mill-stones. téng-tún, the upper mill-stone. ē-tún, the lower mill-stone.

túu (T.) bú-tún, = A. hú-thún, short and stout.

tún [R. a receptacle for grain; to store up grain], to store up in large quantities. tún-tiáh, to buy and store up grain, pulse, potatoes, &c., for a better price. tún-tháh, to store up in great abundance. tún-lún tháh-láh, id. tún-thiáp, id. tún-hè, to store up goods in large quantities, waiting for a better price. tun chhā-chháu, to store up wood and grass, &c., for fuel.

tún [R. to bow the head to the ground; to adjust; a meal; = col. tng]. tún-siú pài, to bow the head to the ground in reverence or worship.

chéng-tún, to arrange in good order. an-tún, to put in order, as a room, arranging its furniture, &c.; to put an affair into a somewhat better state; though far from settled, yet in a way of getting settled, or at least keeping it from getting worse, e.g. keeping from fighting or lawsuits; to make arrangements for sustaining one's family when going from home.

túu [R. to shake; to move; to rub or feel with the 段

段

鈍

鈍
墩

敦

豚

脣唇

盾

囤
囤

頓

搥

hand], to pull hard, as cloth or yarn, in order to stretch it, as with one end fastened, or between two persons; to shake or pull one's own clothes, so as to make them hang even, or to shake off dust. tùn-se, to pull yarn in order to make it straight. tùn-chhiú, to shake hands, as Europeans do.

tùn-ti<sup>n</sup>, to make excuses or objections, as man told to do something. tùn--tsáu, to break away and run off, as man or animal. gâu-tùn, constantly making movements that show unwillingness, as cow when ploughing, or as horse when led or ridden.

tùn (mere imitation of the foreign sound), a ton of measurement of a foreign ship.

tùn [R. confused; disorderly; chaotic]. hùn-tùn, chaos. hùn-tùn ê-si, the period of chaos. hùn-tùn chhê-khai, when chaos began to give place to order. hùn-hùn tún-tùn, good and bad confusedly mixed; unconnected and confused, as talking without any clear meaning; in confused crowds, as men, so that we cannot count them, or pick out a man among them. pân-liáu hùn-tùn, arranged in a very inaccurate or slipsbod way, as a matter; without clearness, precision, or correctness. kap-i hùn-tùn, to put in an article of little or no use among others given to a man, just to make up the required number.

tùn [R. blunt; dull; stupid; = col. tun], dull in intellect; stupid. bân-tùn, stupidly slow and dull, as at learning, or at work, or at going a message. kha-chhiú bân-tùn, limbs very slow at moving, as old man, or as man naturally so.

tùn (cf. thng, thg), to stew or boil slowly over a slow fire, as over embers without flame. ûn-ûn-á-tùn, id. tùn-khi-noá<sup>n</sup>, boil or stew very slowly till it is tender.

tùn [R. tún, tún, to collect together in large quantities; to station troops], to station for a long time, as soldiers, esp. a military colony.

tùn-chek, to store up gradually, and accumulate large quantities of some article, without selling any of it, in hope of higher price.

tùn-tsat, to encamp, as an army. tùn-peng, to station a large body of soldiers for a long time at an important place, so long that they settle down and cultivate the land there. tùn-hoan, to station half-civilized aborigines on the borders of the savage territory in Formosa; aborigines so stationed.

tút — khó tut-tut, very thick, as paste or mud; very crowded, as animals. káu tut-tut, very thick, as liquid.

púi tut-tut (T.), = A. púi lut-lut, very fat, as man or animal.

tút — ko-tút-biên, a warm glossy foreign woollen stuff.

tút, to give the final polish, as to brass, pewter, or gilding, esp. with a woollen cloth, fine brush, or bit of ivory.

tút [R. sudden; precipitate; inconsiderate; insolent]. tút-jiên, suddenly.

tút [R. to rush against suddenly; also written with the previous word]. tông-tút, too forward; rather impudent or impertinent; too free and easy, as in asking a favour from a stranger; sudden and unexpected, as events coming in a way we would not have thought of. chin tông-tút, extremely so.

pông-tút, occurring suddenly and unexpectedly.

twá, twá, twá, twá; better toá, toá, toá, toá (q.v.)

twá<sup>n</sup>, twá<sup>n</sup>, twá<sup>n</sup>, twá<sup>n</sup>, twá<sup>n</sup>; better toá<sup>n</sup>, toá<sup>n</sup>, toá<sup>n</sup>, toá<sup>n</sup>, toá<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

twah, twáh; better toah, toáh (q.v.) twan, twân, twán, twàn, twân; better toan, toán, toàn, toán (q.v.) twát, better toát (q.v.)

頓
沌

鈍

屯

突 突

TH.

tha [R. he; she; him; her; another], (C. tha<sup>n</sup>). tsū-ki put-lêng pó, ien-lêng pó tha-jin, unable to protect himself, how can he protect others?

thà (cf. thok, thuh), to poke, stir, or push about with a long pole; to raise a subject to a man by giving him information of which he had no idea before. thà-là, to poke away, or stir about with a pole, as in removing cobwebs, or poking an animal out of a nest or hole. thà-thà, id. thà-là--chhut-lâi, to poke out from a hole, as an animal; to drag to the light things that were formerly secret, or known to few, esp. the bad conduct of others. thà--lôh-lâi, to take down from a height with a pole. thà--lôh-khi, to push down with a pole, as in a pit or pool. thà--chhut-lâi, to take out, as dirt out of a hole, or out of a bottle, by stirring it with a stick.

thà-khui, to push away, or push things separate with a pole. thà-oá, to draw things near us, or near each other, as with a stick or pole. thà-háp, to draw things together with a pole. thà ê-kun, to remove the bride's veil, as the bridegroom does at the marriage.

thà hê-i-tsai, to let him know about it for the first time.

thá<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tha (R.), he; another.

thá<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), [R. tiông, over again; double: twofold, &c.; = col. têng]. thá<sup>n</sup>-bêng, to explain again more clearly. thá<sup>n</sup> bêng-pék, id. koh-thá<sup>n</sup>, id.; to tell over again.

thá<sup>n</sup> (C. thê<sup>n</sup>), to carry on the palm of the hand [but in C. thá<sup>n</sup> is to push away with the palm turned forwards with the fingers downwards]. (cf. thuh.)

thá<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup>, to raise up high on the palm. thá<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup> khi-phah, raise up (the gun) high and shoot! thá<sup>n</sup>--lôh-khi, to lift or carry down gently on the palm. êng-chhiú thá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to carry away gently on the palm.

thá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to fend off with the palms turned outwards, as a man going to strike. tùi-sim-tsô thá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to fend off a man thus from one's breast.

thá<sup>n</sup> chit--ê tai-chi hê-i-thia<sup>n</sup>, tell this whole matter to him fully and thoroughly from beginning to end. thá<sup>n</sup>-chhut chit-ê-sū, id.

phê-thá<sup>n</sup>, to flatter and fawn upon a superior or an influential man, as an inferior does.

thá<sup>n</sup> [R. thán, level; even]. pi<sup>n</sup>-thá<sup>n</sup>, level, as a road.

khín-thá<sup>n</sup>, shallow, as learning, or as a dish; simple and easy.

重

坦

thá<sup>n</sup> (T.) thá<sup>n</sup>-hoái<sup>n</sup>, = A. thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, crosswise; across.

thā<sup>n</sup> [R. sek, ornaments; to adorn]. tsng-thā<sup>n</sup>, to adorn or ornament, as women; beautifully adorned; toilette; to talk in a false boastful way of one's self. tsng-hoe thā<sup>n</sup>-hún, to dress herself up with much ornament, as woman.

thah [R. thek, to kick, = col. that]. thiàu-thah, = thiàu-that, very playful, as child.

thah (R. thap), a pagoda. pó-thah, a Buddhist pagoda. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsán-thah, a three-storied pagoda. chhit-tsán-thah, a seven-storied pagoda. tsō-thah, to build a pagoda (v. tsō).

hiu<sup>n</sup>-thah, a spiral roll of incense, which burns for several days. kim-thah, = kim-tháh, paper pasted in hollow squares, burned in idolatrous worship.

kim-thah, a city and country near Siam (Rangoon and Burmah?). sam-thah-ki, the flag of Hamburg.

thah [R. tiáp, to pile up; to repeat; = col. tháh]. chhá-thah, a square or hexagonal pile of timber, made by laying the pieces crosswise tier above tier. kih chhá-thah, to pile up such a pile of wood.

tháh [R. tiáp, to pile up; to repeat; = col. thiáp, thah], to pile things one above another; to build up a house one story higher; a pile, as of books, &c.; laid or put on in addition; to excel others.

tháh-láh, to pile things on one another, esp. in a confused manner. sa<sup>n</sup>-tháh, laid on each other, as books, timber, &c. tún-tháh, to store away things in large quantities. têng-têng tháh-tháh, piled or crowded together, e.g. as graves in a public burying-ground. têng-tháh-khiám, to get deeper and deeper in debt to the same man (v. khiám).

liên-tháh, in rapid succession. sa<sup>n</sup>-liên-tháh, id. liên-tháh-lái, coming in rapid succession.

tháh-lâu, to build a story higher. tháh tì têng-bin, placed on the top of another thing. koh-tháh chit-pièn, to put on another coat, as of varnish. ke-tháh chit-niá<sup>n</sup>, put on an additional article of dress, e.g. additional coat or vest. tháh kah-á, to put on a vest, as over a coat. tháh bé-koá, to put on a jacket, as over a coat.

tháh-thâu, laid on the top of a pile, e.g. a specially good fruit topping a pile of fruit, or something red for good luck. khít--i tháh-thâu, to be excelled by him; said of the man who was himself previously at the top. kah-tháh-thâu--i, to excel him or it; said of persons or things. bô-lâng ôe-tháh-thâu--i, none is able to excel him. bô-kah-tháh-thâu, there is none better or more excellent.

ài-tháh--lâng, wishing to excel or be ahead of others, as in a subscription or other good work. kah-tháh--lâng, to excel others in such things.

chhin tháh-chhin, to marry into a family with which there is already a connection by marriage. au-á tháh tih-á (cups on small plates), said of incest.

kim-tháh, = kim-thah, paper pasted in hollow squares, and burned in the worship of the gods.

chit-tháh-chhek, a pile of books. chhek chit-tháh, id. tsoá chit-tháh, a pile of paper. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tui chiá<sup>n</sup>-tháh, in great heaps and piles; in great quantities.

thai (R. su), a sieve; to sift with a sieve. thai-táu, a fine sieve. thai-táu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, the rim of a sieve. thai-táu-se, fine gauze for sieves.

bí-thai, a rice-sieve, through which the broken rice falls, while the chaff is also shaken to one side. mí<sup>n</sup>- thai, a sieve for drying boiled macaroni or vermicelli.

thai-lái thai-khì, to select the very best (things or men) by a series of successive selections. kè-thai, to be sifted; to be chosen out very carefully. thai mí<sup>n</sup>-hún, to sift wheaten flour. thai chhùi-bí khí--lái, to sift out the broken rice. lô-bí thai-chhek, to sift or riddle cleaned and uncleaned rice.

thâu-thai--ê, the largest and best sort of the dried lung-yen or dragon's-eye fruit. jī-thai--ê, the second-rate sort of it.

thai [R. to carry, to lift up, = col. khai, tai, thê]. thai-kú, to assist a man, especially by giving him custom. thai-ki (C.), id.

thai-chhiang, a gun carried and worked by two men.

thai [R. id. = col. the], the embryo or fetus in the womb. hit-thai, on that occasion of child-birth. thai-úi, the placenta or after-birth. pau-thai, the caul.

thai-sin, the guardian spirit of unborn infants. hoan-tiòh thai-sin, to displease that spirit, e.g. by moving the bed or furniture of the room of a pregnant woman, or doing in that room various sorts of work which are counted unlucky.

an-thai, Taoist rites for removing the pains of a pregnant woman. siū-thai, to become pregnant; to conceive. hoái-thai, to be pregnant. toá-kúi-thai, unreal appearance of pregnancy, caused by wind or dropsy or some other cause. tâu-thai, to enter into the embryotic state, as a spirit becoming incarnate. tâu-thai chhut-si, to become incarnate, as a god or spirit. chhut-bú-thai, newly born, as infant.

thai-chioh, to borrow money on the security of a house, land, ship, &c. thai-jī, a deed giving the security of a ship, house, &c. for a loan. thai-chioh-jī, id. chiong-tsún úi-thai, to make the vessel the security, as in a bottomry bond.

thai (same as previous word?). hong-thai, a typhoon. hong-thai-hê, violent squalls of rain in a typhoon. tsòe hong-thai, there is a typhoon; to have a typhoon.

tsòe-thai, there is a typhoon; to have a typhoon. ū-thai, there is a typhoon brewing. lák-géh chit-lú, chí káu-thai, thunder in the 6th month keeps away many (nine) typhoons. chhit-géh chit-lú, káu-thai lái, thunder in the 7th month brings typhoons.

hé-thai, exceedingly sultry weather.

thai [R. sat; to cut; to kill; and by change of tone "sai," to cut off; to reduce; = col. thài], to cut; to wound by cutting; to behead; to kill; esp. by cutting; to fight or do battle.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thái, to fight or do battle. toá-thái, a great battle. kap-i-thái, to fight with him. thái-iá<sup>n</sup>, to conquer in battle. thái-su, to be defeated in battle. thái-pái, id.

thái--lái, to come along fighting, as army. thái-lái, to cut, kill, or fight much. thái-lái thái-khì, to fight with each other, as armies in battle, or as men in single combat. tit-tit-thái, slaughtering right on. lām-sám thái, to cut, wound, and kill right and left without distinction; to kill promiscuously.

thái-thâu, to behead. thái-lâng, to kill a man, to wound a man, by cutting. thái-si-lâng, to kill a man, esp. by cutting. thái-lâng pē-miá<sup>n</sup>, to pay damages or make reparation for killing a man. jip-

節

踏塔

疊

擡抬

胎

殺

篩

chê, bô-thâi-lâng, not to hurt an enemy who comes into our house.

thâi-ti, to slaughter a pig; a butcher who kills pigs. thâi-gũ, to slaughter a cow. thâi-ti tó-iá<sup>n</sup>, to have pigs and goats slaughtered, as for great feasts. chiáh-púi, thang hê--lâng thâi-bah (growing fat just to be slaughtered), said in scolding an utterly useless man.

thâi chit-ê, to give one cut with a blow of a sword or knife. thâi--tsòe nng-tng, to cut across into two pieces, as a stick. thâi--tsòe nng-pêng, to cleave in two, longitudinally. tit-tit-chhâ thâi kàu-khiau (to hack a straight bit of wood so as to make it crooked), to mismanage and ruin an affair that would have gone well.

thái [R. chím, how? what? = col. tsái<sup>n</sup>, thài; or perhaps same as the following word].

beh-thái, = beh-thài, how can —? how ever —? beh-thái-ôe, how can — ever?

thái [R. khí, how?]. thái-thó, how — ever —? (v. thó).

thái, exclamation to frighten and drive away animals, as dogs or cats.

thái [R. nãi<sup>n</sup>, leprosy]. thái-ko, leprosy. thái-ko-iá<sup>n</sup>, a place where lepers live; a lazar-house. thái-ko chiū<sup>n</sup>-bin, having lost all modesty and sense of shame. thái-ko thái chiū<sup>n</sup>-bin, id.

thái-ko-chhêng, a sort of tree.

thái [R. thé, the body, = col. thóe]. siet-thái, shameless vulgarity done to show that he has utter contempt for us, e.g. exposing his person indecently, or doing indecent acts in our presence; or as a woman scolding with vile language.

thái (R. id.), very great; exceedingly; too great; too much. thài-kò, overmuch; beyond what is proper or needful; far too much; excessively. thài-toã, too large. thài-sòe, too small. thài-tsá, too early. thài-oã<sup>n</sup>, too late.

thài-iông, the sun (v. iông). thài-im (R.), the moon (v. im). thài-kék, the original principle of the universe. thài-siông lô-kun, title of Lau-tze as deified. liú-pút thài-sòe, name of an unlucky star; the demon of eclipse. thài-pêng, great peace and prosperity; Taipings (v. pêng).

thài-hê, empress dowager (v. hê). thài-tsú, the heir apparent; also = lô-chhia, name of an idol. toã-thài-tsú, the eldest son of the emperor. thài-tsú-têng, a small shed of bamboo and paper in which little boys carry about the "sòe-hút" idol round the shops, getting a few cash from each (said also in joke or inuendo of the small salver and lamp used in opium-smoking). phâng thài-tsú-têng--ê, the boys who carry it about, the worst and vilest boys; counted worse than beggars (said in scolding a boy as most vile). thài-tsú thài-pó, the guardian of the heir apparent.

thài-pó, guardian of heir apparent. thài-su, prime minister (v. su). thài-hù, a title of high rank at court (v. hù). thài-kâm, an imperial eunuch (v. kâm). thài-iá, title of very small civil mandarins (v. iá). thài-thài, wife of the prefect of a Foo department, or of a Hai-fang, or of a Kujin. chiá<sup>n</sup>-thài, principal wife of do. jì-thài, secondary wife of do. lãu-thài-thài, mother of mandarin or Kujin. lãu-thài (r. ?), id. thài-lãu, father of mandarin or graduate. thài-má, mother of do.

thài-kong, name of an ancient worthy; also (Cn.), great grandfather.

thài-hô-koe, a very small sort of fowl like a bantam.

thài [R. great and prosperous; sometimes interchanged with the preceding word]. kok-thài bin-an, the kingdom flourishing and the people enjoying tranquillity.

thài-san, a famous mountain in Shan-tung.

thài (= thái). beh-thài, = beh-thái, how?

thài [R. sài, to reduce; to diminish; to dispense with; by change of tone from "sat," to cut or kill, = col. thái], to have done with; will have no more of it! be done with it! thài-khi, id. bô, chiū-thài, if there be none, then just let there be none.

thài [R. figure, gait, habit, or manner of a man]. thé-thài (r.), a man's external manner and bearing. hó-thé-thài, having a very good-looking appearance, as to gait and manner.

thài [R. to wait; to treat]. khoán-thái, to treat; to treat well, esp. to treat a guest kindly, giving him refreshments, &c.; to entertain. hó-khoán-thái, to treat kindly; to entertain well. phái<sup>n</sup>-khóan-thái, to treat ill or unkindly. khek-kí thài-jin, to stint or deny one's self in order to treat others well. khut-kí thài-jin, id.

iông-jì thài-ló, to bring up children expecting them to treat their aged parents well (v. jì).

tán-thái (Cn.), to wait; to wait for. thài-ká<sup>n</sup> (An.), just a very short time ago.

thak [R. thék, to cut flesh from bones; to scrape off; to pick out; cf. col. thuh ?], to pick, as the teeth; to pick things out of crevices, &c.; to press into crevices, as oakum or saw-dust.

thak-thak, to mend slightly, as a dress, &c. pé-thak, to take out bad parts and put in new, as in a wall, or vessel, or dress; when done to a dress it implies that the edges are carefully smoothed, so that the patch is invisible or nearly so.

thak-khi, to pick the teeth. thak chhùi-khi, id.

sat-pin-thak, a cleaner for cleaning a small-tooth comb (literally a comb for lice).

thak-thek, to reprove and scold a man for faults with much minuteness or in an exacting manner. thóe-thak, to joke and jeer at a man's defects of bodily form or at his faults in conduct, either behind his back, or said to another as if he were supposed not to hear it. thé-thak (C.), id.

thak (cf. thok, thuh ?), to move the balls of an abacus. thak sng-poã<sup>n</sup>, to calculate by the abacus (v. sng). thak-siàu, id. thak-khoã<sup>n</sup>, make trial of the calculation by the abacus.

thák (R. thók), to read aloud; to study books. thák-chheh (to read books aloud), to study books; to be a student (v. chheh). thák-tsü (Cn.), id. thák-keng, to read classical books aloud; to study classical books. thák sa<sup>n</sup>-pièn, to read aloud three times over. thák-pé, to read up what was not read at the proper time. ki<sup>n</sup>-thák ki<sup>n</sup>-bat, whatever he reads he remembers. khün-thák, to study diligently. khé-thák, to study with much toil, difficulty, exhaustion, or pain, e.g. so as almost to make one's self ill, or as a poor student undergoing great hardships. chiàu-jì thák-jì, to keep to the simple sense of the document, just as it is written, e.g. in a written agreement.

thák-siàu, to read an account aloud, so as to let others who are interested hear it. thák-sê, to read a prayer aloud before burning it.

tham (R. id.), to covet; covetous; greedy; grasp-

泰

殺

態

待

剔

讀

貪

怎

豈

癩

體

太

ing. tham-sim, id. am-tham, foolishly greedy. tham-tê, to covet and plot or intrigue to get. tham-loân, to hanker after or doat upon improper things. tham-bê, ensnared by vicious desire (v. bê).

tham-chiáh, gluttonous; small-pox very thick on the body. tham-chiáh-lâng liên-óá iáh-chí, a glutton licks even the bowl. tham-chhông, extremely gluttonous (said in scolding). tham-tsái, covetous; avaricious; to be avaricious. tham-lí (r.), id. tham-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. tham-bin, sleeping very sound; very difficult to waken. tham-sek, lewd; lustful.

tham-joáh, wearing a great many clothes even in hot weather. hê-i khah-tham-joáh, make him wear plenty of clothes though it be hot; said to be good for a child. tham-joáh, bô-tham-koá<sup>n</sup>, should wear plenty of clothes to guard against cold, even though it be rather warm.

tham-sia kùi-bôe, to buy on credit is expensive. tham-koa<sup>n</sup> ù-lí, avaricious mandarins. tham--jī pīn-jī-khak, the character "covetous" has its form very like that of "poor."

thâm (R. id.), a deep pond; a pond for irrigation. thâm-á, id. thâm-khut, large and small ponds of water (v. khut). toá-thâm, a deep pool in a river, as at rapids, or at a waterfall (s. wine-jar).

thâm — thâm-hoe, a large flower, somewhat like a lily, much grown at temples; Crinum.

thâm (R. id.), a sort of spirit-jar. chiú-thâm, id. toá-thâm, a large one (s. pool). sòe-thâm, a smaller one.

chit-thâm-chiú, a jar of spirituous liquor.

thâm [R. tâm, thâm], phlegm; mucus from the throat. thâm-noá<sup>n</sup>, mucus and phlegm (v. noá<sup>n</sup>). thâm-koán, a spittle.

thâm-hé, tendency towards cancerous swelling of throat.

thâm-loân, crazy; idiotic (v. loân). hong-thâm pè-sim, to have an attack of dull quiet madness; said in scolding, You are crazy!

khí-thâm, gurgling in throat, as of man about to die. khák-thâm, to cough up phlegm, or try to bring it up. khak-thâm, id. phùi-thâm, to spit out phlegm. káu-thâm, to have much phlegm.

khi-thâm, to remove phlegm. siau-thâm, id. teh-thâm, to cure or relieve the tendency to have phlegm, as medicine.

thâm [R. clouds spreading themselves]. gõh ùi-thâm (Cn.), the moon has a halo.

thám (C. kham). thám-mé<sup>n</sup> (r.), speedily; very quickly.

thàm [R. tham, thàm, to feel about for; to search for; to explore; to sound; to investigate; to make inquiries; to visit], to visit; to make a call; to take soundings. thâm-hoe, the third literary Tsin-sze.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thàm, to visit; to make a call. thàm-kheh, to pay visits, as a new graduate or mandarin. thàm-pâng, the younger brother or nephew of a bride taking presents to her a day or two after the marriage. sa<sup>n</sup>-jit thàm-pâng, do. on the third day. sa<sup>n</sup>-jit kù-iá thàm-pâng, id.

thàm-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to investigate, as for information, e.g. to find a man's purpose, or to test the goodness of a dollar, or the quality of goods. thàm-thia<sup>n</sup>, to make inquiries about something, usually somewhat secretly. tá<sup>n</sup>-thàm, to make investigation. thàm-hu-sit, to investigate whether the matter be true or false. thàm-kun-chéng, to make secret inquiry into the state of the army, as for the enemy. thàm-kha-lê, to look secretly in the daytime, so as to know how to come at night to steal.

thàm-tsú-bé, a spy. tsòe-chhát-thàm, to be a thief's spy.

thàm-tsúi, to take soundings. thàm joá-tsòe-tsúi, id. thàm chhim-khín, to try the depth, as of a well; to investigate how a matter stands.

thàm-thâu, to thrust one's head forward, so as to see or hear something.

thàm (cf. thap). thàm-tê, somewhat concave, as a hand-net, or as bottom of chair long used, &c.; either so made intentionally, or become so by long use.

thàm-tsúi, to step suddenly into water.

táh-thâm, to step unexpectedly down a step, or into a hole, or into water. kha táh-thâm, id. seng-lí táh-thâm, to lose in trade suddenly and unexpectedly, e.g. by an unlucky venture. seng-lí táh-thâm-thâm, id.

chhim-thâm, to spend all one's reserved funds, and get deeply in debt. thâm-êng, to use more than our income. thâm-thui--lâng, to be deep in debt to people.

than (R. chheng), a long narrow bivalve shell-fish; the razor-fish. se-kha-than, a large sort. tek-than, a smaller sort.

pi<sup>n</sup> tek-than, to catch the "tek-than" by dredging. tah-than, to catch the "than" shell-fish in small quantities.

than-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a place where these shell-fish are bred and caught. than-khak, the shell of the razor-fish. than-kha-chí, upright rails of a railing almost divided in two by long longitudinal slits.

ngiauh-than, quite dead (said of a man). than--khi, id.

hiau-than, much warped, as wood; faithless; disappointing trust (v. hiau). phê-bin-than, putting on the appearance of goodness or diligence when observed (lit. good shell-fish laid on the top). phê-bin-than, chím-tsúi-ô, shell-fish laid so as to show the best on the top, and oysters well soaked in water; said of the tricks of trade.

thân [R. tâm, to talk; to converse]. lân-thân, plays in the Swatow dialect.

thán [R. name of a disease]. hông-thán, jaundice, in children, or a disease of children, caused by overeating, which makes them yellow and sickly. ng-thán, id. tiòh ng-thán, to have this disease. ng-sng-thán, sallow and jaundiced, as child or young lad.

thán (R. thám), a small carpet; a rug; a coverlet, generally woollen. thán-á, id. thán-ná, id. soá<sup>n</sup>-thán, a rug, &c., made of cotton. mng-thán, a hairy woollen rug. jiông-thán, a velvet or fine hairy rug or coverlet. tê-thán, a large carpet. tòe-thán (Cn.), id.

thán — lán-thán, idle; indisposed to take trouble.

thán [R. to bare the arm; to disclose; unfair]. phien-thán, unfair through partiality.

thán (T. thán, thá<sup>n</sup>).

thán-pí<sup>n</sup>, turned so as to strike with the flat side, as a sword; on or with the flat side. thán-phi-sin, turning sidewise, as to get through a narrow passage, or to pass another on a narrow road. thán-phín, id. (v. phín). thán-hoái<sup>n</sup>, transverse; horizontal; cross-wise (v. hoái<sup>n</sup>). thán-khi, lying over; slanting (v.

潭

曇
曇
曇

曇
曇
曇

陪

鯉

談
瘡

毯

袒 袒

khì). thán-chhu, sloping; laid down sloping or inclined. thán-chhoah, diagonal, as lattice-work (v. chhoah).

thán-khiā, perpendicular.

thán-pi<sup>n</sup>, lying level, as on the ground. thán-tó, do., having formerly been upright. péng thán-tó, to turn a thing upside down; to turn on the back. tó thán-tit, to lie down, as on a bed; lying straight along the length of it, not across; fallen or lying straight along. thán-tit, laid or lying straight along.

thán-chhiò, lying with face upwards; inverted, or turned upside down with the concave side up. thán-phak, turned with face down; inverted so as to have the face or concave side down (v. phak). péng-thán-khap, to invert so (v. khap).

thán — ân-thán (C.), drawn very tight, as rope or cloth, or as a parcel tightly tied; firm and plump, as the flesh of a person in good and vigorous health.

thán [R. to sigh, = col. thờ; cf. C. thàn]. chin thán-khì (C.), (R.), really it is very hard to manage; indeed it is hardly worth the labour.

thán, to drive away, as animals; but not so quick as "koá." thán-ti, to drive away pigs. thán-iū<sup>n</sup>, to drive away goats. thán-gū, to drive cows or oxen.

thán [R. thin, to follow; to walk after; to take advantage of an opportunity], to follow, as an example or command; to obey or act according to; to take advantage of an occasion or opportunity; at the time of, especially while yet —; to earn; to gain; to make money.

thán-bêng-lêng, to obey a command. thán-tô-lí, to follow a doctrine. thán-hoat-tê, to obey a rule, regulation, or law. m-thán, to refuse to obey.

thán lêng--ê sé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to follow a man's example. thán lêng--ê-iū<sup>n</sup>, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-thán-iū<sup>n</sup>, id.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thán sa<sup>n</sup>-hán, to follow the example of others (v. hán).

thán-chhùi, to accept an offer just as it is made, e.g. giving the price asked, or accepting the price or conditions offered; to get a thing just as we expressed a wish for it, or find matters just as we guessed. thán goá--ê-chhùi thak, read word by word after me. thán goá--ê chhùi-bé, id. thán i-ê-chhùi, to follow implicitly what he says.

thán goá--ê i-goān, just as I would wish, as events.

thán-chhiú, everything going on just as we should like, in an affair; to take the opportunity of one's self or another doing something, to do or get done something similar.

thán-phāng, to use an opportunity for evil, or for injuring another. thán-ki-hôe, to take advantage of an opportunity. thán-sè-bīn, to take advantage of favourable circumstances.

thán-êng, to take advantage of the opportunity when one has leisure. thán-âi<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. thán-ũ<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. thán-pi<sup>n</sup>, taking the opportunity when the sea is smooth. thán-sio chiáh, to eat (or drink) while it is still warm. thán-siàu-liên, while yet young. thán-bê-lâu, diligently using our time before old age comes on. thán-bê —, to take the opportunity before —. thán-bô-hê, to take the opportunity when there is no rain. thán-chhut-jit, to take the opportunity of fine sunny weather.

thán-tsá, as soon as possible. thán-kín, acting quickly or promptly. thán-chit-tiáp, at the present moment. thán-chi-tsòeh (Cn.), id.

thó-thán, to earn money, as by trade or business. tsoán-thán, to earn money. thán-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. thánthiu-hun, to get a commission on agency or brokerage, &c.

thán-chhêng, to earn enough for clothing, as well as for food. thán-chhi-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to earn enough to feed one's family. thán-i bôe-tó, his work is too heavy, or too difficult for me. thán-i khah-chiò-chi<sup>n</sup>, to take a smaller profit out of him. phe-si<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>-thán, to work very very hard to earn money.

thán-chiáh, to earn one's food. thán-chiáh lāng, a man who lives just on what he earns; a man who earns just enough for support. sūi-thán sūi-chiáh, to live from hand to mouth. thán bô-thang-chiáh, unable to make enough to live upon. thán chit-ê-chhùi chiáh, to earn just enough for one's own food, but having nothing to spare for any one else.

ún-thán, safe, good, and profitable investment. ôe-thán, profitable, as work or investment. kâu-thán, getting a very high profit; making money rapidly. toá-thán-chi<sup>n</sup>, making a great deal of money.

bô-thán, no profit; too small a profit, e.g. one-ninth. tò-thâu-thán, to lose in trade instead of gaining.

háp-thán, making cent. per cent. háp-thán ê seng-lí, trade that makes cent. per cent. tui-poá<sup>n</sup>-thán, to make cent. per cent. sa<sup>n</sup>-hūn thán-chit-hūn, to make fifty per cent. ka-it-thán, to gain ten per cent. on the capital. ka-ji-thán, to gain twenty per cent., &c.

thang [R. thong, to go through; to pervade; to succeed; successful; prosperous], may be done; may be: may; you may; it is allowable; sometimes used as a mere auxiliary almost like the English "to" of the infinitive.

m-thang, you must not; must not; don't do that. thang m-thang, may I or may I not? is it allowable? may it be done? thang á-m-thang, id.

i bô-thang, he would not give his consent. goá bô-thang, I was not willing to allow it.

bô-thang-hó, not at all good. bô-thang-chiáh, having nothing to eat. bô-thang-hê--lí, have nothing to give you. bô-mih<sup>n</sup> thang-hê--lí, id. bô-ôe thang-kóng, having nothing to say; unable to say anything, e.g. in answer to a charge or argument.

ũ thang-hê--lāng, to have enough to give to others. ôe-tit--thang —, able to —; it can be — (v. tit).

kng-thang, thoroughly understanding a matter; bright, as a well-lighted house. thang-kng, id.; also, too loose in texture, as cloth between the threads of which light can be seen (cf. lāng-thang, from "thang," a window).

khah khui-thang, feeling now more easy in mind. sim khui-thang, the heart glad and comfortable after grief or anxiety, e.g. on some one coming and comforting, or on getting good news, or on return of prosperity. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> khui-thang, id.

thang [R. lóng, a basket, = col. lāng, lóng], (C. lang). hé-thang (C. hê-lang), a small portable charcoal stove in a small basket, held under the clothes to warm one's self. chioh hé-thang, to warm one's self with such a stove.

thang (R. chhông), a window. thang-á, id. thang-á-kheng, window-frame. thang-á-chi, perpendicular bars in a window, for keeping out thieves. thang-á-bâi, lintel of window. thang-á-têng, window-sill. thang-á-múg, a window closing with hinges like a door. thang-á-si<sup>n</sup>, a window-shutter hinged like a door-leaf. thang-á-iám, a window-shutter hanging from hinges on the top, supported when

歎
趁

通

籠

窗

open by a stick. thang-á-thi<sup>n</sup>, a stick for supporting a thang-á-iám when open. thang-á-thoah, a sliding window-shutter.

gêh-thang, a circular window. i<sup>n</sup>-thang, id. liú-tiâu-thang, a window made with long narrow slips of wood close together. chiòh-thang, a window with a stone frame and stone or iron upright bars. se-thang, a window made with thin gauze. soe-thang, a window made with fixed bars of tile or brick-work. soe-chí-thang, id.

hoe-thang-chí, ornamental trellis-tiles.

ô-kiá<sup>n</sup>-thang, a window made with very thin oyster-shells. ô-kiá<sup>n</sup>-thang-teng, a lantern made with thin oyster-shells.

thi<sup>n</sup>-thang, a fixed light in a roof, made of thin oyster-shells or of thick glass, e.g. bottle glass. thi<sup>n</sup>-thang-hiá, tiles made with glass or oyster-shell fixed in them, for this use. thi<sup>n</sup>-thang-pin, a cover for a sky-light, generally made with oyster-shells, but sometimes of other materials, sometimes quite opaque.

tiám-thang-pang, the movable boards of a shop-window.

phah-thang, to make a window. that-thang, to close up a window permanently, as by building it up or boarding it over.

thoah-thang, having a sort of squint, from the iris being on one side.

lâng-thang, having holes in it, as gauze; loose in texture, as inferior cloth; having open spaces, as a railing. kek-lâng-thang, to make work so as to leave spaces, as in a trellis, &c.; made with empty spaces in them, as some cakes (cf. thang-kng, from "thang," may, to go through).

thàng [R. thông, an insect; a reptile; = col. lâng], an insect, especially a long creeping insect, as a worm, caterpillar, or maggot. thàng-thoá, insects, worms, caterpillars, &c. thàng hiá, caterpillars, ants, and such insects. si<sup>n</sup>-thàng, to breed worms or maggots.

chiên-thàng, said of a very playful and troublesome child. ê-tê-thàng, said by men of themselves in addressing Heaven. pin-toá<sup>n</sup>-thàng, a very lazy fellow. pin-á-thàng (Cn.), id.

tók-thàng, a poisonous reptile. bùn-thàng, worms in the belly. chiù-thàng, worms that perforate wood, bamboo, &c., supposed also to cause the decay of teeth. hoe-thàng, insects that breed in flowers and feed on them. chhài-thàng, green caterpillars found on vegetables. png-thàng, large green caterpillars found on the "png" tree.

thàng-si, gut made from the entrails of the caterpillar of the "png" tree.

mng-káu-á-thàng, a sort of hairy caterpillar. káu-á-thàng, id. mê<sup>n</sup>-káu-á-thàng (C.), id. si<sup>n</sup>-mng-thàng, sort of hairy caterpillar, esp. found on fir-trees. si<sup>n</sup>-mê<sup>n</sup>-thàng, id.; also (Cn.), = mê<sup>n</sup>-thàng-chhi.

mê<sup>n</sup>-thàng-chhi, a hairy and prickly worm about two inches long, found in the sea; it wounds the hands in catching fish, and hurts the mouth when eating fish or shrimps. mng-thàng-chhi, id. tak--tiòh mê<sup>n</sup>-thàng-chhi, to find one's self unexpectedly engaged in a quarrel with a very powerful and dangerous man, esp. with an "ông-ngê," or litigious literary man.

thàng-io (Cn.), name of a sort of bird.

thàng [R. tông, a tube; a cylinder; = col. tàng]. hiá-thàng, semi-cylindrical tiles for roofs. hoá-thàng (Cn.), id.

thàng [R. tông, name of a tree, Dryandra, &c.].

thàng-chí, a tree with large leaves and large whitish flowers (Elaeococca?); also its seeds, from which oil is made. thàng-iú, oil made from it; much used for paint. thàng-chí-iú, id. thàng-iú-he, this oil mixed with lime, much used for caulking and cementing.

thàng [R. tông, a boy; a lad; a surname; = col. tàng], a surname.

thàng — thàng-thng (C.), a stick carried by a son at a funeral.

thàng (R. thóng), a cask; a barrel; a tub; a bucket; a pail.

hia-thàng, the leg of a boot. bêh-thàng, the leg of a stocking. bôeh-thàng (C.), id.

kau-thàng-á, a bucket with a semi-circular handle over the top. kau-thàng, id. toá-thàng, a large tub, &c. thàng-á, a tub, barrel, bucket, &c., esp. if not large.

kha-thàng, a foot-pail; a tub. chiòh-kha-thàng, a stone tub. kha-thàng-lâi, a very confined district (said in speaking of a man who has never been far from home, or who considers a short journey from home to be a great distance). bin-thàng, a basin for washing, usually made of wood. bin-thàng-kê, a wash-stand.

tsúi-thàng, a bucket for carrying water. poáh-thàng, a bucket for drawing water from a well (v. poáh). phoáh-thàng (C.), id. hê-thàng, a bucket for raising water swung on a rope between two men.

ê-thàng, the bucket of a well-sweep. phùn-thàng, a bucket for watering with (v. phùn). tiâu-thàng, a hanging bucket, as for drawing water. kim-tiâu-thàng, said of a man who is unwilling to help when asked, or even unwilling to work for payment; said to have been originally applied to a noted fortune-teller who spoke to no one, but let down a bucket as his means of communication.

chhe-thàng, a bucket for carrying manure. sái-thàng, id. jió-thàng, a bucket for urine, often set in a room for use. bé-thàng, a close stool for use in a house.

siak-thàng, a tub for threshing rice (v. siak). tiú-thàng, id. tô-thàng, a vessel containing tallow for dipping candles. ti-thàng, a tub for scalding pigs in.

tê-thàng, a wooden vessel in which a tea-pot is put to keep it warm. chhe-thàng, a large wooden vessel for cooking rice by steam. gô-chiú-thàng, a Chinese still, made like an alembic. gô-thàng, id.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-sun-thàng, sort of tub used at an accouchement. io-thàng, id. tsú-sun-thàng, id., so called at the time of marriage, when it is usually provided. chê io-thàng, to use it, as woman at time of confinement.

chhèng-thàng, a small barrel for carrying powder for guns. chhèng-iòh-thàng, id.

teng-thàng, the frame of a very large lantern. teng-thàng, a large tub with nails fixed in it, covered up like a pit-fall, so that enemies or thieves fall into it and are wounded. thàng-teng, a very large sort of lamp.

thàng-poá<sup>n</sup>, a tray.

khia-thàng, to stand in an upright cage, with only the head out, till starved to death.

khe-thàng, to put on the hoops on a bucket, tub, &c.; (must not be said in T. where it has a bad meaning). phah-thàng (T.), to make a bucket or tub. tsòe-thàng (T.), id.

thàng-khe, a hoop for a barrel, bucket, or tub, gen. bamboo, sometimes of iron. thàng-chhiú<sup>n</sup>,

童
桶

虫

桐

staves of tub, bucket, or barrel. thàng-koà, cover of bucket. thàng-koà<sup>n</sup>, handle of bucket, across the top. thàng-kiáh, perpendicular handle of bucket rising straight from the side. thàng-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. thàng-khi<sup>n</sup>, instrument for knocking the hoops on a bucket, tub, &c. thàng-khiám (C.), id. thàng-ti<sup>n</sup>, a wooden instrument, shaped like a chisel, for this purpose. thàng-tê<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

pak-té-thàng toá, belly very large, as of corpulent man. hó-bin-kháng, phái<sup>n</sup>-tê-thàng, having a pleased friendly look, but cherishing wicked injurious purposes. ná<sup>n</sup> thih-thàng (like an iron barrel), said of a strongly fortified place, or of a strongly built house secure from robbers.

thàng [R. thông, pain; to feel pain; grieved; distressed; miserable; to feel for; to love].

thiá<sup>n</sup>-thàng, to love.

thàng-thiá<sup>n</sup>, to feel pain; to be pained. khé-thàng, in deep sorrow and distress; painful and miserable. sióng-sim khé-thàng, in very great and deep sorrow, e.g. for death of near relative.

lún-thàng, to be much afraid of going to a place, e.g. going to be examined by a mandarin, or as boy going to be scolded by the teacher, or as man afraid to go to a place in the dark.

thàng [R. thông? to go through; to pass through; to communicate with; = col. thàng], classifier of journeys, voyages, &c.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thàng, having a passage right through; communicating by a door or road. bô-thàng, no thoroughfare; no communication through. thàng--jip-khi, to lead right in, or right through, as a road or passage. thàng-siá<sup>n</sup>, leading to the city, as a road or street.

thàng-kê, to be made quite through, as a hole; to pierce or pass quite through. tsân kàu thàng-kê, to stab quite through, the point coming out on the other side. kiá<sup>n</sup> kàu thàng-thàng, to walk all about, e.g. through a whole region of country, or all through a house to the very innermost parts.

bô-thàng-bé (C. bóa), broken off in the middle without being brought to a proper result or completion, as any sort of matter. bôe-thàng-bé, not fit to be carried on to the end, as something that from its very nature cannot be carried through to a proper end, e.g. an improper connection.

chit-thàng-bé (C. bé), a ride on horseback for one complete round going and coming, as at examinations, or for amusement. pháu-bé chit-thàng, to ride a horse one round, going and coming. pháu chit-thàng, id. sè chit-thàng, to hire a horse for one complete round or journey.

thàng-sim-thiá<sup>n</sup>, sending pangs to the heart, e.g. as a very painful boil. thàng-sim-léng, delightfully cool and refreshing, as cold water. koá<sup>n</sup> kàu thàng-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, bitterly cold (lit. so as to pierce to the heart). thiá<sup>n</sup> kàu thàng-sim-koa<sup>n</sup>, extremely painful, as a boil, &c.

thăng (cf. lǎng). hê-thăng (C. hê-lǎng), a sort of wicker-work trap for catching fresh-water shrimps.

thăng, a float or buoy, as for an anchor or for a net; or for marking a channel, rock, bank, &c. &c. phú-thăng, id. tek-thăng, a bamboo float, usually made of one joint, or not much more. băng-bé-thăng, floats for fishing-nets, esp. for marking the limits of the net.

thăng [R. lōng, to brandish; to instigate; to incite; = col. lǎng].

thiu-thăng, to teach how to do the work, as a raw servant or apprentice.

thap (R. id., = col. lap, nah<sup>n</sup>), concave; an indentation, depression, or cavity; to sink or settle so as to make a depression or cavity; to fall in, as a roof; to mend by putting in a good piece (as of wood) in place of a decayed piece, somewhat like inlaying; to have illicit intercourse.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thap, fitting into each other, as mortice and tenon (+). sa<sup>n</sup>-thap-ka, to cut cloth to advantage, by arranging the pieces to be cut out so as to fit into each other, and lose as little of the stuff as possible. thap-lái thap-khi, to arrange things well in packing, so as to fit well into each other, and take up as little room as possible; to cut cloth carefully so that there is no waste, as by arranging the patterns to fit well, and leave little or no unused material; or as in making a new article out of the good parts of old clothes.

pé-thap, to mend, as a dress, by changing the cloth. phòng-thap, convex and concave; emhossed and depressed; cut in relief, and cut into the material.

thap-thap lap-lap, fallen in, sunken, subsided, or depressed, as ground; not level because parts are sunken. thap--lôh-lái, to sink down making hollows, as an old roof. thap--lôh-khi, do., as old roof or floor, &c.; to fall or stumble at a hole, or cavity, or sunken place. thap-chit-khang, to subside, making a hole, as ground.

thap-té, a concave or depressed panel. thap-jī, characters cut into the material, e.g. cut into the block for printing, so as to print white on a black ground. thap-bák, sunken eyes; having deep-set or sunken eyes. bák-chiu thap-thap, id. thap-bák-kê, sort of fish with sunken eyes (v. kê).

thap-thâu-chhia, to fall down head-foremost. thap-thâu-ké, small round cakes made of starch, having a hollow on the upper side.

thap-béh, to put on stockings as well as shoes. thap khê-kha, to put the ends of the legs of the trousers into the stockings.

thap-kha, to interlace the legs, as in wrestling. sa<sup>n</sup>-thap-kha, legs alternating, as of men sitting close together opposite each other (+). sa<sup>n</sup>-thap-kha teh-kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk close on the heels of another man. kiá<sup>n</sup>-lê sa<sup>n</sup>-thap-kha, walking along with very short steps, neither foot going beyond the other, or not much beyond it, as old or sick man. thap-kha kiá<sup>n</sup>, to walk with very slow short steps, as old, lame, or sick man. thap-pê kiá<sup>n</sup>, to measure the ground by the lengths of our foot.

thap--tióh tsa-bé, to have illicit intercourse with a woman.

thap [R. id.? a bed; a couch; cf. col. that]. pit-thap, the cover for the point of a hair-pencil.

that (= thap). pit-that, = pit-thap, the cover for the point of a hair-pencil.

that [R. sek, to press tightly in; to fill up crevices; = col. sat, soeh, siap], to stop up, as a hole or channel; to stuff or fill up, as a crevice or opening; to supply, as a deficiency, especially if only temporarily, partially, or inadequately; to obstruct or block up, as a road. that-hê, id. that-tŭng, to stop up, as a road (v. tŭng). that-lê, to block up or stop up a road. that-mŭng, to build up a door. that-thang, to build up a window. that-lâu, to stop a leak; to caulk. that-bát, to stop up close (v. bát). ti<sup>n</sup> that-that, choke-full or crowded, as things (v. ti<sup>n</sup>).

pé-that, to fill up cracks, chinks, or leaks, as in a 塌

痛

榻

塞

弄

roof, boat, or floor; to make up a deficiency, e.g. of money entrusted to us, of which we cannot give a full account, or of a debt that we cannot fully pay.

that hi-khang, to stop one's ears, as when determined not to hear. that-chhùi (to shut up another's mouth), to put to silence; shut up now! be silent! that chhùi-khang, to give some eatable to a child to keep it quiet; to give a sop or douceur to keep a man quiet who could give us trouble.

that-giáh, to act as another's substitute (temporarily), especially when not quite so good; to be given as payment for a debt or security, &c., as some article given in place of money, or part payment in money, or by a bill, &c.; to supply a vacancy or deficiency, esp. by a temporary or inadequate arrangement. that-chè, to pay a debt, as for another. sa-lái that-khi, to borrow from one (or more) in order to pay another, or to scrape up various sums from various sources for such purpose. that-lái that-khi, to make up a deficiency in one place or time by super-abundance in another.

kan-that, a cork or stopper for a bottle. hi-that, the flaps of a mourning cap covering the ears, indicating that the mourner should have no ear for anything but his grief. si<sup>n</sup> hi-that, to have a growth stopping up the ear.

that [R. thek, to kick, = col. thah], to kick with the toes, or sometimes backwards with the heel; but not with the sole of the foot, which is "lap." tò-that, to kick backwards with the heel. that-tó, to kick over. khi-kha that, to lift the foot and kick. sái pe-that, to make a sudden flying kick in boxing. lâm kún, pak that, Southerners box, Northern men kick. that-kiú, to kick a ball.

thiàu-that, restless, as a child always moving about, climbing, running, &c.

tsau-that, to ill-use, maltreat, or insult; to spend recklessly, or use wastefully, as money or things; to throw away recklessly, as one's own life. chiau-that (esp. T.), id. tsau-that mih<sup>n</sup>, to use things recklessly or wastefully, e.g. from not taking proper care.

that — that-á-ôe, sort of shoes worn by soldiers. that [R. to strike; to beat; to castigate]. that-á-to, short sword used by soldiers (v. to).

thát, to drain off, or pour off a liquid from the more or less solid part (which is kept back), e.g. through a small hole, or between a cup and its cover. thát-ta, to pour off thus till quite dry. thát-ám, to drain off rice-water from boiled rice. thát-thng, to pour off soup or juice from meat.

thau (R. thø), secretly; stealthily; to steal. thau-bân (C.), secretly; clandestinely. khit-chhát thau-khi, to be stolen by a thief. khit-chhát thau--ê, the man whose property has been stolen.

thau-si<sup>n</sup>, illegitimate, as child.

thau-tsáu, to run away clandestinely. thau-lái àm-khi, to come and go clandestinely. thau-phah, to beat or strike secretly, especially severely.

thau-siam, to look at surreptitiously. thau-khoà<sup>n</sup>, id. thau-thia<sup>n</sup>, to listen secretly; to overhear. thau-mng, to ask secretly. thau-chhau, to copy secretly and surreptitiously, as a document.

thau-thùi, to take away a good article secretly, replacing it with a bad one. thau-tsông, to conceal and hide, as stolen or contraband goods, or as a criminal. thau-chiáh, to eat clandestinely; to steal and eat at once.

thau-thòeh, to steal, as a small thing. thau- thèh, id. thau-thòeh (T. Cn.), id. thau-thòeh--lâng, to steal from a man. thau-liáh, to kidnap, as a man; to steal, as a fowl. thau-phò, to steal, as a child, carrying it in one's arms. thau-khan, to steal, as a cow or horse. thau-hiah<sup>n</sup>, to steal, as clothes. thau-giá, to steal or take away secretly, as a chair, or such heavy thing carried with both arms; (and so with other modes of carrying). thau-mi<sup>n</sup>-bí, to steal a small quantity of rice, taken up in the fingers. thau-lâu, to steal small things, or to steal a small quantity of something out of a large quantity (v. lâu). thau-ni<sup>n</sup> thau-liám, chit-si-lâng kheh-khiám, they who steal are always in poverty and want. thau-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to steal, as an idol or ancestral tablet.

thâu [R. tō, way, road, reason, &c.] thâu-lē, employment, business, situation (v. lē).

m̄-tsai-thâu, beg your pardon, sir! (lit. I did not know), said on coming against a man or treading on his toes accidentally, &c.

thâu [R. thiok, domestic animals, = col. thek, chhiū<sup>n</sup>].

thâu-si<sup>n</sup>, domestic animals.

thâu (R. thê), the head; a head; top; source; beginning; first; chief; principal; end, especially lower end, but sometimes the point; root, stump, or crown of the root of some plants; the core of a boil; a promontory, and so used in the names of many places; either of the two loads on the ends of a carrying-pole, or of the things in the two scales of a balance; suffix to many substantives, especially of round or roundish things, but also of things of other shape, sometimes even of documents, qualities, places, directions, and ideas; in some phrases indicates the rubbish or refuse of the substantive to which it is affixed.

thâu-bé, beginning and end; first and last (v. bé). thâu-bóe (C.), id.

khi-thâu, the beginning; at first. tái-thâu, at first. thâu-seng, id. thâu-sai<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. goân-thâu, beginning; fountainhead. thâu-sū, the clue to a matter. thâu-sī (C.), id.

thâu-khi, prospering in business; having influence with powerful men (v. khi).

thâu-chêng, in front. thâu-tsái<sup>n</sup> (T.), id. tsòe-thâu-chêng, to be first; to go first; to walk first. tsòe-thâu, id., to be head. chi<sup>n</sup>-tsòe-thâu, to strive or try hard to be first. thâu-úi, the foremost. thâu-chhip, the bowsprit.

thâu-chit-ê, the first. thâu-chit-jit, the first day. thâu-jit, id. thâu-chit-pái, the first time. thâu-chit-chiu<sup>n</sup>, first chapter, &c. thâu-it-téng--ê, man of great influence; first-class, as thing (v. it). thâu-bin-téng lâng, man of great influence or importance. thâu-miá<sup>n</sup>, first name on a list. thâu-hō, first quality or sort; first signal or mark. thâu-chiū<sup>n</sup>--ê, first-born child of man. thâu-tsūn, first-born of beast (v. tsūn). thâu-chiam, he who gets the first place in carrying an idol. thâu-tsām, first stage in a journey. thâu-pang, first fleet or company, &c. thâu-tin, first troop or company. thâu-mng, first door in a series (+). thâu-mui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. chiáh thâu-chheng, to smoke opium refuse made up once again.

iòh-thâu, the first infusion of medicine. chiú-thâu, liquor distilled in the first distillation. lin-thâu, the beginning of giving milk (+). ké-chi-thâu, the first fruit of the season (said of the "pi-pé" or loquat). géh-thâu, the beginning of the month. chia<sup>n</sup>-géh chia<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the first half of the first

踹踢

踹
踹

偷

道 畜 頭

month. ni<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the beginning of the year. chhun-thâu, beginning of spring.

kang-thâu, the beginning of a work (+). ōe-thâu, the beginning of a conversation or discussion (v. ōe). lâu-thâu, the first of the tide (v. lâu). khó-thâu-bê, rice boiled soft and adhesive, almost like paste.

kang-thâu, the upper end of an inlet (v. kang), (+). pi-thâu, the part of the embankment at a dam or weir. lê-thâu, a landing-place or jetty (v. lê; v. bé, "end"). bé-thâu, a busy port (v. bé), (+). hâng-thâu, the spaces at the corners of the central house in a large Chinese house.

thâu-lâng, a head-man. thâu-ke, the master of a house or shop (v. ke). thâu-chhiú, a head workman; the head of several workmen. thâu-náu<sup>n</sup>, a headman of any sort (v. náu<sup>n</sup>). thâu-bák, a headman; the leader or officer of a small troop. seng-thâu-bák, to be made head of about twenty soldiers, not counted a mandarin. thâu-tsàng, the leading man in a place or in an affair; the clue of an affair (v. tsàng).

tsàng-thâu, to have the chief management of a matter, &c. (v. tsàng), (+). tsóng-kun-thâu, point from which many roads diverge, &c. (v. kun, "root"). tiòh-thâu, one's turn come to take charge, as of idolatrous rites common to several or many persons (+). tiòh-pút-thâu, to have the use (in one's turn) of a field common to several persons, burdened with the duty of performing certain rites to an idol. chhut-thâu, to undertake responsibility, esp. in a case when one must first take action so that others will follow or join him.

koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, mandarin's confidential assistant in his yamun (+). mâg-thâu, mandarin's private secretary. pan-thâu, head of the police in a yamun. kài-siú-thâu, the head or superintendent of the beggars. hu-thâu, headman of coolies carrying sedans, &c. (v. hu). sai-hu-thâu, a master tradesman. kheh-thâu, a coolie-broker; a man who levies dues on passengers (v. kheh). chhát-thâu, head of a band of robbers or pirates. kiáu-thâu, keeper of gambling-house. hê-thâu, man who gets up a subscription for mutual help. hōe-thâu (C.), id. hōe-thâu, head of a society, especially of the Triads (v. hōe). kàu-thâu (head of the religion), phrase sometimes used for chaplain or missionary, but not a suitable phrase. kài-thâu, head of a community of Bud. priests. chhài-thâu, headman of a vegetarian society (+).

hé-thâu, a cook. hóc-thâu (C.), id. a-thâu, a female slave. chhng-lâng-thâu, you clownish fellow! you rustic! (said in scolding).

kiau-thâu, proud. siáu-jin-thâu, extremely cunning and wicked. hat-thâu, to scold or reprove violently. tong-thâu, refusing to sell in hope of a better price.

háng-thâu, boastful and bragging in manner. phái<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>-thâu, angry or proud tone of talk. kek-phài-thâu, to put on the airs of an influential man though really insignificant (v. phài). sè-thâu, power, influence, prestige (v. sè). si-thâu (C.), id. ũ khùi-thâu, to have power or influence, or the appearance of it (v. khùi). lát-thâu, strength. tá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, courage. khah-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, getting rather more than one's share (v. phi<sup>n</sup>). bô-phi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, not having a wind that can be used for the course.

chiet-thâu, discount (v. chiet). ũ-siau-thâu, saleable (v. siau). táu-thâu ũ, very good measure, as of grain, &c. (v. táu). ũ-chhiòh-thâu, to have a little more than the strict measure, as of cloth. sih-chhin-thâu, to lose in trade by giving customers a little over-weight (v. chhin). hun-thâu, a small commission, as for taking a customer to a shop. thiu-thâu, a small commission or percentage; to take off such a percentage.

ũ-hêng-thâu, having a very strong desire for something. ũ-hin-thâu (C.), id. bô-hêng-thâu, having no nice clothes to wear. bô-ti<sup>n</sup>-thâu, insipid; tasteless. kim-thâu, the gloss on a new article, as on new cloth, or as fresh varnish on furniture. ien-thâu, do., esp. on cloth. pêh-thâu-khòe, a deed of sale having no official stamp (+). ũ hún-thâu, well adorned, as woman (v. hún).

Khan-thâu, an article pawned (v. khan). tiâu-thâu, an omen. chhái-thâu, id. chêng-thâu, a disease. chin-thâu (C.), id.

pê-thâu, a port or trading town (v. pê). tui-thâu, a station of police or of soldiers. tiàm-thâu, a shop. tūi<sup>n</sup>-thâu (Cn.), id. hâng-thâu, a hong, said esp. of one to which goods are sent (v. hâng). tōe-thâu sék, well acquainted with the place (v. tōe). siá-thâu, a village (v. siá). chhân-thâu-má, title of spirits of a shrine having no posterity (v. chhân).

hng-thâu, a medical prescription. tōe-thâu, a theme or text. ji-thâu-á, a small note or letter. toa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a ticket, bill, receipt, &c. phiau-thâu, a bit of paper having on it the shop-mark or name of the firm, and some notice of the article, pasted on or wrapped round the thing sold.

thê-thâu, rubbish, esp. of earth, stones, broken bricks, &c. he-thâu, refuse of lime, esp. coarse lumps separated by riddling out. béh-thâu, large lumps of wheat or barley riddled out from flour or meal. chhek-thâu, light empty refuse rice. tâu-thâu, husks and refuse of beans, &c. han-tsú-thâu, refuse of grated sweet-potatoes after making starch. si-thâu, coarse refuse silk, it makes a very strong stuff. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-thâu, top of wall; ruins of wall (v. chhiú<sup>n</sup>).

chiòh-thâu, a stone, esp. a roundish piece or lump of stone. chhâ-thâu, a lump of wood; a bit or block of wood, esp. somewhat roundish. tsng-á-thâu, a broken bit of tile (v. tsng). bin-thâu, sort of round cakes (v. bin). kun-thâu, the thick muscular parts of the body. gún-thâu, silver money (v. gún), (+). chí<sup>n</sup>-thâu, money; a sort of fish (v. chí<sup>n</sup>).

i-thâu, a stool. oá<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a large bowl. chím-thâu, a pillow (v. chím). kám-thâu, a woman's mourning head-dress (v. kám). tô-thâu, the bit of cloth cut out in making a Chinese coat. kat-thâu, a knot. pau-thâu, a bagful of goods such as are sold in bagfuls. toá-thâu, the stock or shank of a helm. pé-thâu, an axe. tí-thâu, a hoe. tú-thâu, id. lōe-thâu, a plough. hō-thâu, a trumpet; a blow-horn. soa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, a hill. tùi-thâu, a sort of stone pestle (v. tùi), (+).

ō-thâu, a root of taro. chhài-thâu, roots of long turnips shaped like radishes (+). chhang-thâu, onion roots; onions. soàn-thâu, garlic. sng-thâu (Cn.), id.

sim-thâu, the heart; the mind; the pit of the stomach (v. sim). sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, id. (v. koa<sup>n</sup>). chhùi-thâu, the mouth, figuratively (v. chhùi). chih-thâu, the root of the tongue; the tongue, in some phrases (v. chih). lin-thâu, teats (v. lin), (+). leng-thâu, id. keng-thâu, the shoulder (v. keng, T. kai<sup>n</sup>: Cn. kūi<sup>n</sup>). kún-thâu, the fist; boxing (v. kún), (+). tsng-thâu-á, the fingers; the toes (v. tsng). tsái<sup>n</sup>-thâu (T.), id. tsüi<sup>n</sup>-thâu (Cn.), id. kha-thâu-u, the knee. bé-pà-thâu, the small of the back.

chhiú-thâu, power of a person. i--ê chhiú-thâu, his power or authority. gū--tiòh i--ê chhiú-thâu, to fall into his power so that he has the opportunity of injuring us. chhiú-thâu ũ-chi<sup>n</sup>, he has under his control the money of another man, e.g. money of relatives, or rent of house which he manages for others.

jít-thâu, the sun; a day. jít-thâu-té, mí<sup>n</sup>-thâu-tng, day short and night long. àm--thâu, the dark night; the night time. tsá--thâu, in the morning.

pē-thâu bú-kut, scolding by means of vile epithets applied to a man's parents (v. pē).

soà<sup>n</sup>-thâu, Swatow. koe-lâng-thâu, Kelung in Formosa. pēh-chiòh-thâu, the White Fort at mouth of Amoy harbour. pēh-soa-thâu (the white sand point), a point at the entrance of the Anhai Creek, and so with the names of many heads and capes.

koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the stubble of the seed called "koa<sup>n</sup>" (+). tiū-kó-thâu, stubble. bô-thâu-tin, a sort of creeper (v. tin). chhiū-thâu, the stump of a tree, or part where the stem and root meet (v. chhiū). chhiū-chhiu-thâu, stumps of beard. tsáng-thâu, root of woman's queue (+).

phī<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the tip of the nose. ôe-thâu, the toe of a shoe. chi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, an arrow-head. to-thâu, the corner of a square knife (tsôe-thâu-to) at the sharp side of the square point. hun-chhe-thâu, the bowl of a pipe.

bák-thâu, the inner corner of the eye. bák-bâi-thâu, the space between the eyebrows. tng-thâu, the anus (v. tng).

kūn-thâu, the waistband of a petticoat (+). khè-thâu, the top or waistband of trowsers (v. khè). kiō-thâu, the knob on the top of a sedan. toh-thâu-teng, a lamp for use on a table. tsūn-thâu, the bow or prow of a vessel (v. tsūn).

sai-thâu, lions' heads, images for keeping away bad luck. bé-thâu, a horse's head; having a horse's head (+). ti-thâu, a pig's head (much used in offerings). gū-thâu, a cow's head; having a cow's head (v. gū). káu-thâu chhú-hī (monkey's head and rat's ears), said of a very ugly man.

hoan-thâu, Spanish dollars (+). kng-thâu, having one's head bare; no cap on. chhâu-thâu, head all covered with scabs or eruptions. gūn-thâu, a silver-head (+). pēh-thâu, growing white and ripe, as a boil. âng-thâu, having a red head, esp. a junk having red bows. chhi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, having green bows, as junk. pi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, having a flat end (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). chiam-thâu, sharp-pointed. tsôe-thâu-to, a square knife having a broad square end instead of a point.

âu-thâu, behind (v. âu); the hinder one of two loads carried on the ends of one pole on the shoulder (+). chêng-thâu, the front one of two such loads (v. chêng). tâng-khin-thâu, the two loads on a carrying-pole very unequal in weight. chit-thâu, one of the two loads on a carrying-pole. áu chit-thâu, to carry only one load at the end of a pole instead of the usual two.

lái-thâu, inside; also (C.), my wife. goá-thâu, outside. téng-thâu, above. ē-thâu, below. pak-thâu, the north (of China).

pi<sup>n</sup>-thâu, at the side (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). tò-thâu, turned in the opposite or wrong direction (v. tò). chia<sup>n</sup>-thâu, the right end; in the right direction; at first; also (F.), at beginning (v. chia<sup>n</sup>). hē--khi tiòh-thâu, lay it in the proper direction or position. m-tiòh-thâu, the wrong end (+). hoai<sup>n</sup>-thâu-toh, a table placed at the side of a room. tui-thâu, opposite; face to face; an enemy; a match for (v. tui), (+).

thap-thâu-chhia, to fall head foremost. khun hong-thâu, to sleep in a place on which the wind blows (v. hong).

kék-thâu, exceedingly; to the utmost. chīn-thâu, id. téng-thâu, over again another time (v. téng).

kè-thâu, too much. khah-tháh-thâu--i, to be superior to him in excellence (v. tháh). thê-thâu, making characters project one or more places above the others, as very honourable names. ôe-tit jip-thâu, able to get a favourable beginning, as in an affair. khoà<sup>n</sup>-thâu, to protect voyagers, as a powerful pirate to whom they pay yearly black-mail; to protect, as a powerful patron does to a gambling-house; to watch, as a sentinel set by bad men to give them notice of danger (v. khoà<sup>n</sup>). hoan-thâu, to turn one's head round; immediately, as in regard to coming back (v. hoan), (+). chhiū<sup>n</sup>-thâu, certain rites performed before marriage (v. chhiū<sup>n</sup>). thài-thâu, to behold. thi-thâu, to shave (v. thi). kháp-thâu, to knock one's head on the ground in worship or reverence.

thâu-tui, man and wife (v. tui). thê-thâu-hun, marriage after a previous betrothal had been broken by death. bó-thâu-chhin, wife's relations. âu-thâu (Cn.), wife's own relations (said in reference to herself; sometimes also said of the original relatives of a stepson), (+).

pún-thâu, the master of a female slave. hia<sup>n</sup>-thâu, paramour of a bad woman.

thâu-chhùi, number of persons in a family (v. chhùi). hó-thâu-chhùi, making profitable voyages, as vessel. chit-chhùi siang-thâu chhut, a man talking quite enough for two (v. siang).

thâu-khak, the head. thâu-á, id. thâu-khak-oá<sup>n</sup>, a skull. thâu-khak-chhé, brains. thâu-bin, head and face (v. bin). thâu-hiáh, the forehead. thâu-mng, the hair of the head (+). thâu-mē<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. thâu-tsang, the queue (v. tsang). thâu-phê, the scurf of the head. thâu-lâu-á, pimples on the head. thâu-khoe, a cap made of coarse yellow hempen cloth, worn by sons at funeral. thâu-pê, a cloth worn by men on the head, like a turban. thâu-kun, do. worn by women.

tháu, to untie; to disentangle; to open out, as a knot. tháu-khui, id. siau-tháu, to remove, as calamities or anger; to have a motion or pass water (said in making inquiries about a sick man; said also of the lower animals). ũ-siau-tháu, marketable, as goods.

tháu-kat, to untie a knot. tháu-ké, to open out the strands of a rope or cord. bôe-tháu-ké, the matter cannot be set right because the parties (or one party) stand too stiffly on their supposed rights. i kóng, khah-ôe tháu-ké, if it be he who conducts the discussion it will be more easily (or somewhat easily) put right, as he will yield a little.

ũ tháu-thoah, knowing well when to be firm and when to yield a little.

tháu-khiò, to remove the injurious effects of incantations (done by counter Taoist rites). tháu-chê, to perform rites for removing guilt, as Taoist priests do.

kóng tháu-khi, to relieve one's mind or one's feelings by telling one's wrongs to another. tháu chit-tiám hūn-khi, to relieve angry feelings long pent up, as by telling it or by getting vengeance (v. hūn).

tháu [R. thò? through; to pass through; = col. thau; or same as preceding word?].

tsúi ôe-thâu, the water flows away freely, as in a pipe or drain. tsúi bôe-thâu, the water will not run off, as when a pipe or drain is choked. kau-âm thàu-tsúi, the drain lets off the water freely. kau-âm bôe-thàu, the drain is choked.

miá<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> chin-tháu (= thàu), his fame is spread far and wide. ji-hô chin-tháu, the name of the shop or firm is very famous.

tháu (C.), = A. thé. tháu-khùi, to sigh. tháu-khùi hi<sup>n</sup>-hái<sup>n</sup>, sighing bitterly.

thàu [R. thờ, through; to pass through; cf. col. tháu, thiàu], thorough; right through; passing right through; to communicate, as by a road or door; to lead to, as a road; to give secret or minute information; to mix, as a liquid; boisterous or violent, as wind, rain, waves, current, &c.; wide-spread, as man's fame; classifier of journeys, voyages, heavy showers, &c.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thàu, having a passage through; making a direct communication. phah sa<sup>n</sup>-thàu, to make a direct communication, e.g. between two rooms, by making a new door-way. bô-thàu, no way through. tháu-kê, to pass right through, as a liquid, or as in boring a hole or piercing. thàu-piah-long, to have one's feet fastened in a wall, as a captive.

thong-thàu, quick of apprehension; intelligent. thàu-thiet, comprehending thoroughly. bat thàu-thàu, to know thoroughly. tsai kàu-thàu, id. miá<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> chin-thàu, his fame is very wide-spread. kóng thàu-ki, to tell with all the particulars (v. ki). kóng thàu-tóe, id. (v. tóe). kóng-ôe thàu-thàu, to speak very distinctly.

tsáu-thàu, to ask counsel of idols, sorcerers, witches, fortune-tellers, &c., especially on behalf of a sick man; to convey secret and clandestine information; to inform upon. tsáu-thàu siau-sit, to convey secret information, as a traitor. thàu-hong, to give secret or stealthy information.

thàu-á, a man who reveals secrets in a traitorous manner.

thàu-jip-khi, leading right in and through, as a road. thàu-siá<sup>n</sup>, leading to the city, as a road. thàu pak-kiá<sup>n</sup>, leading to Pekin.

tit-thàu-beh, determined to have it (or to do so), no matter what others wish, or without regard to risk, sometimes even when we have no right, or without regard to the rights of others. tit-thàu-kiú, to beg very urgently, taking no denial. tit-thàu-chièn, to recommend very urgently, as for an employment or situation. tit-thàu-jip, to go straight in, as into a door. tit-thàu-khi, to go right forward, as to a place. tit-thàu-khi, to go on rising, as in price. kê-chí<sup>n</sup> tit-thàu-khi, the price is rising higher and higher. tùi-chiá tit-thàu-khi, to go straight up from this point, as a road or path.

thàu-tsá, early in the morning.

thàu-mí<sup>n</sup>, through the night (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). thàu-hê-lái, to come through the rain.

chit-thàu-hê, an abundant fall of rain, such as to soak the ground thoroughly and leave a good deal on the surface. chiá<sup>n</sup>-thàu-hê, id. poá<sup>n</sup>-thàu-hê, a moderate fall of rain, not so much as to soak the ground well. poá<sup>n</sup>-thàu, id. nng-sa<sup>n</sup>-thàu, great floods of rain over and over again.

chim-khi-thàu, soak it quite thoroughly. ak kàu sa<sup>n</sup>-thàu-thàu, wet to the skin. khièn-khi-thàu, stir it (e.g. paste) till it is well mixed and of uniform consistence.

hong thàu, the wind is boisterous or violent. hong thàu-ki-ki, wind boisterous and howling. hong thàu-kiang-kiang, id. hong-éng thàu, wind and waves boisterous. lâu thàu, the tide or current is very strong.

sa<sup>n</sup>-tiú<sup>n</sup> thàu, to have passed the three examinations for the Kujin degree. chiáh--i sa<sup>n</sup>-tù-thàu, superior to him beyond all comparison (v. tù).

thàu-hien, to make an entirely new roof. thàu-tiam, to put on a whole new sole on a shoe. thàu-tô, a passage-boat that goes the whole way (v. tô). thàu-chháu, made of entire lengths of reeds or grass, not of short pieces joined, as a good mat. thàu-lêng (L.), the whole backbone of a pig.

thàu-tsúi, to pour in water into another liquid; to mix water. thàu-khah-pôh, to dilute. thàu-khah-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to dilute so as to make it more insipid, less salt, or less sweet.

hun-chhe-thàu, a long wire for cleaning a tobacco-pipe. a-phien-thàu, a cleaner for an opium-pipe.

thàu — thàu-khi, very much involved and troublesome to set right, as affair. ná<sup>n</sup>-thàu-khi, getting more and more involved and difficult to set right.

thàu [same as previous word?]. thàu-khi, harbouring a feeling of resentment or displeasure.

chiáh-thàu, to harbour bitter revengeful feeling against a man, determined to make him suffer for the injury he has caused us, e.g. by having him accused before a mandarin, or causing him to meet with some great calamity, not for the purpose of getting gain or recovering debts or losses, but just to gratify spite.

thàu [R. tók, poison, = col. ták], to poison. thàu-lâng, to poison people. ôe-thàu-lâng, poisonous. thàu-sí-lâng, to kill a man by poison. thàu bin-thâng, to kill internal worms by drugs. thàu-hí, to poison or drug fish so as to catch them. thàu niáu-chhú, to set poison for rats. thàu-káu, to set poison for a dog.

tháu<sup>n</sup> [R. táp, constantly, = col. táuh], (C. tiáuh). tháu<sup>n</sup>-tháu<sup>n</sup>-lái, constantly coming. tháu<sup>n</sup>-tháu<sup>n</sup>-kóng, repeating over and over in a wearisome way.

the [R. thèng, to prop up; to support; to extend; to pole a boat; = col. thi<sup>n</sup>, theng], (C. thè<sup>n</sup>, to pole a boat, but "the" in other senses), to recline or lean on a couch or chair; to lean against; to push along with a pole, as a boat.

the-tsún, to push a boat with a pole; to pole a boat. the-ko, id.

the kau-í, to lean back in a chair. poá<sup>n</sup>-the, to recline. poá<sup>n</sup>-the-tó, id.

káu-í-the, the back of a chair.

the [R. chhui, thui, to calculate; to investigate], (Cn. thô), to excuse one's self; to decline to meddle with a matter on some pretext; to refuse with excuses and polite words that sound well, but generally more or less false. the-khui, id. the-sí, id. the-sú, id. the-sú iá-kê, id. the-sū-kê, id. the-sū thok-kê, id. the-thok, id., often including the idea of putting it off on some one else. sa<sup>n</sup>-the, to shift a piece of work on each other, neither willing to do it himself. sa<sup>n</sup>-oe-the, id.

the-ôh, to play truant from school. the-pí<sup>n</sup>, to refuse or decline on pretence of sickness. the-bô, to say falsely that we have not the thing asked for, or did not do the thing found fault with. the bô-ti-teh, to say "not at home," when really at home. the hê-kúi (to put it off on the ghosts), to deny what is evi-

透

淘

毒

沓
撐

推

dently brought home to us, e.g. to deny stealing what no one else could have stolen.

胎

the (R. thai), the embryo or foetus in the womb. pau-the, the caul. the-sin, = thai-sin, guardian spirit of unborn child (v. thai). the-mng, the hair on an infant before it is shaven, which is done one month after birth. koà-the-mng, still having the hair it had while unborn, as in the first month.

thâu-the, first-born of mother, either human or of lower animals. âu-the, the next time she has a child. lák-chhit-the, six or seven successive births of children.

ũ-the, to be pregnant. chê-the, id. hoan-the, the unborn infant moving just before birth. thút-the, to cause (or have?) an abortion. ka-láuh-the, to have a miscarriage. lâu-the, to have a miscarriage (said only of beasts).

the--nih<sup>n</sup> toà--lâi, congenital, dating from the embryotic state. tī-hí the--nih<sup>n</sup>, id., in the embryotic state.

bō-the, the inner framework of a cap, made first. the-á-bō, a cap with a hole in the centre, worn by new-born infants.

the (C.), = A. thoe, a hair-pin.

提

thê [R. to lift in the hand; to take up; to carry; to bring forward; to bring into notice; occurs in the names of several offices and of some idols].

thê-khí, to raise a question for discussion; to introduce a subject of conversation. thê-àn, to call up a case from an inferior court. thê-hông, to take precautions against some danger. thê-poát, to assist a man to get employment (v. poát). thê-hê, id., as by some money, or by giving work or helping to a situation. kha-chng thê-phû, to rise slightly from one's seat, e.g. making a slight sign of respectful recognition to a man coming in, or in order to let something be taken from below us.

thê-tok, a general or admiral. thê-tái, id. tsúisu thê-tok, an admiral. tsú-thê (r.), id. liók-lê thê-tok, a general. liók-thê (r.), id. kiú-bún thê-tok, the military governor of the metropolis. thê-tin, general and lieutenant-general; admiral and commodore.

thê-tok hák-chèng (R.), = hák-tái, the chief literary examiner of a province. thê-hák-tō, title of a Tautai who is at the same time literary examiner of his territory, as in Formosa.

thê-tng, an office at the metropolis or at the provincial capital for forwarding important despatches and for giving notice of the promotion of mandarins.

tsún-thê hùt-bú, name of an Indian goddess with eighteen hands, Maritchi, worshipped both by Buddhists and Taoists. phê-thê, Buddhi-, syllables entering into the titles of various Buddhist divinities, especially of Buddhi-satwa, contracted to "phê-sat."

thê [R. thai, to carry; to lift up; = col. tai, khai]. thê-thâu, to place characters one or more places above the highest words of the other columns in the page, as is done to names of high honour. toa<sup>n</sup>-thê, placed one place higher than the tops of the other columns of words. siang-thê, placed two places higher, still more honourable.

抬擡

thê (C. thõe; Cn. thõ), a boil, especially a somewhat small boil. thê-á, id. si<sup>n</sup> thê-á, to have such boils. kòe-thê, large spots of itch (v. kòe).

瘡體

thé [R. body; substance; form; respectability; prestige; = col. thõe, thái]; also (C.), = A. thõe, in some phrases.

sin-thé, the body. chhek-sin lē-thé, naked (v. lē). sù-thé (r.), the four limbs.

hêng-thé, external form. thé-thóng, external manner, appearance, or character (v. thóng). thé-thài, external manner or bearing (v. thài). thé-sek, pattern, as for essay or document (v. sek). ji-thé, shape of a word, as written or printed. sòng-thé-ji, characters of the common square form. sù-thé (r.), the state, nature, or character of an affair, esp. in regard to the way of setting it right. tsa-bé-thé, a feminine look.

thé-hō, name given from personal appearance, as a sort of nickname. thé-hō-miã<sup>n</sup>, id. thé-thak (C.), to jest at people's personal appearance. keng-thé (C.), to talk scandal about people.

bō-lé bō-thé, without politeness.

thé-biên, respectability; prestige (v. biên). bō-thé, without respectability, &c. sit-thé, to lose respectability, influence, or prestige. thiên-thé, affecting too much style, or lying about idly (v. thiên). thien-thé, id. koa<sup>n</sup>-thé, properties of dress, manner, &c., for a mandarin. kok-thé, the dignity of the kingdom. sit-kok-thé, to lose its dignity or prestige, as a kingdom, by defeat or disgrace. tsòng-kok-thé, to increase the dignity and honour of the state, as a good and great mandarin.

it-thé, alike; having similar character or privileges. tai-ke it-thé, all alike. it-thé khoán-thài, to treat alike and impartially. sam-ũi it-thé (X.), the Trinity in Unity.

thé-thiap, to sympathize with; to make allowance for another's circumstances, or adapt one's feelings to his with kind consideration. sa<sup>n</sup>-thé-thiap-sim, sympathizing heart. thé-sut (r.), to compassionate; to act with tender consideration towards (v. sut).

thé-hõe, to consider carefully the meaning of a saying or the state of a man's mind, feelings, and purpose till we quite understand it, so as to shape our own conduct.

thê [R. to change, to substitute, to abolish, instead of, in place of, = col. thõe, thùi].

sè-sip bóng-thê, hereditary, as rank.

thê (R. thõe, thùi), (Cn. thõ), to retire; to recede, to draw back; to ebb; to lose or diminish, as colour, auspicious influence, prosperity, fever, &c.

thê--khì, to retire; to draw back, &c.; to remove one dish from the table when another is brought. thiu-thê, to draw back, as army, in good order (v. thiu).

thê-pi<sup>n</sup>, to step aside, as to let a mandarin pass. lí thê-pi<sup>n</sup>--khì, you get out of the way! (said in scolding an inferior). thê-pi<sup>n</sup>, to keep at a respectful distance from a superior. thê-khui, to step aside. thê-khui niũ<sup>n</sup>--i, to get out of the way to avoid disputing with him at present. thê-âu, to walk backwards.

tò-thê, to walk backwards without turning round from a place to which we had advanced, e.g. on opening a door and seeing some one in undress; to retreat, as an army drawing back in good order from a position found to be unsuitable or unsafe; to become worse than before, as in some work, art, or study. tò-thê-kiã<sup>n</sup>, to walk backwards without turning round. tò-thê-pê, to step backwards, as to avoid something.

ũ-thê-pê, to have means or resources ready for an emergency, e.g. a new plan ready to use if the first fail. thê-chit-pê, to make no discussion or dispute with him at present.

替退

湯

chìn-thè, to advance or retire (v. chìn). kōe-heng kōe-thè, rapidly prospering and as rapidly declining. kē-hin kē-thè (C.), id.

tsúi thè, the flood recedes; the tide ebbs, especially when it was a specially high tide. chiú thè--lah, he has become sober after a debauch. thè-hé, to diminish feverishness or inflammation. thè-jiét, to remove fever or severe inflammation, as medicine. jiét thè, the fever has abated. hong-súi thè-khì, the good luck of the grave is gone. thè-sín, the spirit leaving an idol, or having left it, so that it becomes utterly powerless. thè-tâng, the spirit leaving the magician or sorcerer (tâng-chí) when the ecstasy or afflatus is over. thè-tâng-ké, to draw back from an affair which we were taking in hand. phah thè-tâng-ké, id. thè-chí, to become less profitable than before, as a shop, mill, &c. thè-sî, to pass out of season, as a fruit; to lose one's wealth or influence. thè-sek, to fade or lose colour, as cloth. thè-ka, to open, as a joint where the glue has given way. thè-sún, to open out, as a mortice joint.

hē-thè, descendants who are a disgrace to their ancestors.

thè-úi, to abdicate. sî-koa<sup>n</sup> thè-chit, to retire from office. thè-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to withdraw a complaint or accusation from the court. thè-tiēn (T. tǎi<sup>n</sup>; Cn. tūi<sup>n</sup>), to withdraw one's security from a tenant. thè-tiēn, to leave the audience-hall, as the emperor does. thè-tiáu, to end the audience by retiring, as emperor. thè-tng, to dissolve the court by leaving the tribunal, as mandarin. thè-hun, to break a betrothal (v. hun). thè-chhin (C.), id.

thè-hêng, to send back, as goods that we do not buy. thè-chhut, to retire, as from a company. hó-thè, having a good and easy way to get out of the matter. līm-tin thè-siok (C.), = A. līm-tin thòe-siok, to shrink from danger or from important business when it comes to the point.

thè-hòe (C.), to regret or repent of what has been done, often of what cannot now be changed. siū<sup>n</sup>-thè-hòe (C.), id. thè-hòe (C.), id.

thè — khì kàu phuh-phuh-thè (T.), to pant and blow with rage.

thē [R. lūi, lazy, indolent, sickenly], (C. thōe). thē-thē, dull and wanting in animation, as a man.

thē (C. thē), the sea-blubber, jelly-fish, or medusa. thē-lin, the part in the centre from which the arms and feelers radiate (edible). thē-poā<sup>n</sup>, the meat from the large body of the medusa, white or slightly coloured. thē-kha, the brownish red part of the medusa, arms, feelers, &c., used as a cooling food.

lóng-tsúi thng-thē, to talk ironically or sarcastically. thē kè-hē tsòe-bák, the medusa hires a shrimp as an eye (said of an ignorant or idle man trusting to another's knowledge or skill in managing a matter, and so being often imposed upon).

thē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. the, to push with a pole, as a boat.

thē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thī<sup>n</sup>. thē<sup>n</sup>-bák, eyes dazzled.

thē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thá<sup>n</sup>, to hold up on the palm of the hand. thē<sup>n</sup>-bē-tiáu, cannot bear it up on the palm. thē<sup>n</sup>-koán, = A. thá<sup>n</sup>-koán<sup>n</sup>, to hold up high on the palm.

thē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thiá<sup>n</sup> (R. thêng), a surname.

thē<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thī<sup>n</sup>, to prop up. thē<sup>n</sup>-chhiú, to support the hand or arm on something, because without such support we could not hold it up.

thēh [R. thek, naked; to take off clothes; perhaps this word should be divided into two words], (C. theh).

thng-pak-theh, naked; almost naked. thui<sup>n</sup>-thēh-thēh (C.), id. thng-thēh (Cn. T.), id. thng-thēh-thēh (T.), id.

khang-chhiú pēh-theh, empty-handed; bringing no presents. kang-chhiú theh-chhiú (C.), empty-handed.

chhiú<sup>n</sup> theh-theh, to plunder everything; all plundered and taken away. liáu theh-theh (Cn.), all spent, as money. tsáu theh-theh (Cn.), all run away. chiáh kàu theh-theh (Cn.), entirely eaten up.

sõe òe-theh (Cn.), it can be washed quite clean.

thēh sut-sut (Cn.), nothing left at all, e.g. all plundered, or terribly poor. theh liu-liu (Cn.), all taken away; naked.

pak-té-lái theh-theh-kúi, exceedingly suspicious of everyone and everything. chit-sin theh-theh-pó, your whole body is surely very precious! (said to a man who will not do us the least favour, or who is very angry if we happen to touch him when speaking to him).

thēh — pēh theh-theh, very very white, as face, or as any white things. si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe pēh-theh, naturally having a face of fair beautiful complexion, or skin of whole body fair.

thēh (C.) theh-soa, = A. thoah-se, the skate-fish. thēh-se, id.

thēh [R. thék, a dwelling; a residence], (C. thēh), the inclosed yard of a house, as in front. thēh-mng, the outer-gate of the courtyard at the front of a house.

ké-chí-thēh, an inclosed orchard near a house. chhài-thēh (Cn.), a yard where vegetables are grown.

chhù-thēh, houses in general. chhân-hng chhù-thēh, lands and houses. kè-chhù kè-thēh, passing about idly from house to house, as a busybody. lē-ke soà<sup>n</sup>-thēh, family scattered to the winds. ín-kúi jip-thēh, to lead demons to enter the courtyard or house, fig. of wicked persons.

thēh-sin, the spirits that belong to the house itself, not to the family. hau-thēh-sin, to worship these spirits by offerings, done without images. hau-thēh-bú, to worship the goddess of the courtyard.

an-thēh, to perform rites at the building of a new house so as to secure its good fortune.

thēh, = thòeh (C. thēh; A. thòeh, thēh; Cn. thòeh), to take up with the hand; to carry or take in the hand, as a small thing. thēh-léh, to take up various small things. thēh-tò-tng, to demand back; to bring back, as a small thing.

thau-thēh, to steal a small thing, such as can be easily taken in the hand. thēh kè-ki--khì, passed from the hand of one to another and so on, so that it cannot be traced, as a stolen article.

thēh-chiet, to accept a composition for payment.

thēh-jit, to go and get a lucky day from a fortune-teller.

thēk [R. to cut flesh from bones; to pick out; = col. thak]. thēk-kut, to take out the bones, as out of a fowl, leaving it entire to be cooked whole.

thēk [R. thiok, domestic animals, = col. thau, chhiú<sup>n</sup>]. thēk-si<sup>n</sup>, you brute! you beast!

thēk [R. to reprove; to scold violently; to drive away], (P. thiok). thēk-mē<sup>n</sup>, to reprove and scold (an inferior) very violently. thak-thēk, to scold and reprove for faults, going minutely into the details. kài-thēk, to reprimand severely, sometimes also giving a

宅

提

剔畜升

鯨
鰩
蛇
鮫

slap, not for pain, but for the disgrace of it; esp. said of literary mandarin doing so to graduates; said also of teacher to pupils, or senior relative to junior relations.

thek [R. a commission or special order from the emperor or from God, sometimes interchanged with the following word], (C. thit).

thek-hong, to appoint by imperial decree to post-humous title and honour. thek-lêng, Taoist charms on yellow paper.

khò - thek, a yellow roll with the imperial decree conferring an honorary title of rank on a relation of a high mandarin. in-thek, a yellow roll that is fastened to an idol's seal, as if containing the commission given by Heaven to the idol.

thek [R. to order; to command; sometimes interchanged with the preceding word, sometimes with the following], to order to perform a duty, as a high mandarin orders a lower mandarin, or as a mandarin orders his constables.

thek-chhe, to order out constables on duty. thek-koài<sup>n</sup>, to order the Hien mandarin to manage some matter, as the Tautai does. thek-thia<sup>n</sup>, to order a Ting mandarin (e.g. the Hai-fang), to do it. thek-hú, to order a prefect to do so.

thek [R. id. (C. thit), to adorn; to ornament]; also (Cn.), = A. súi, pretty, beautiful.

chéng-thek (C. chéng-thit), to adorn or set in nice order, as one's person or house.

thek sai-sai (Cn.), very pretty or beautiful, as a person.

thek (Cn. T.) lí thek-koái, = A. lí thok-koái<sup>n</sup>, one of the eight Sien or genii.

thek (esp. C.) thek - kák, = A. khioh-kák, a worthless fellow; a ne'er-do-well; a thing that is quite useless, as a broken article.

thèng [R. thèng, to prop up; to support, &c.; = col. th<sup>n</sup>], the. pi<sup>n</sup>-tú-thèng, neither party able to overcome the other, as in a drawn game or even contest of any sort.

thèng [R. name of a city and department]. thèng-chiu, Ting-chow city or prefecture (department), on the borders of Kiang-si province (the Hakka dialect is spoken there). thèng-chiu-hú, id.; or the prefect of Ting-chow. thèng-chiang-liông-tò, the Chang-chew Tautai, who rules Ting-chow, Chang-chew, and Lung-yen.

thèng [R. to ascend; to mount], to ascend in the sky, as bird or paper kite. thèng -- khi - lâi, id. thèng-koài<sup>n</sup>, id. thèng-khong, to mount up high in the sky. thèng-hûn, to mount on the clouds, as spirits, genii, &c. thèng-hûn khi -- khi, id. thèng-hûn kâ-bû, to mount on the clouds and mist, as spirits, &c. hong-chhe thèng, the paper kite ascends.

sat-khi thèng-thèng, full of deadly rage, as in battle; naturally of bold and terrible appearance (v. sat).

gòeh thèng (C.), = C. gòeh têng, the moon at zenith.

thèng (R. id.), (Cn. thèng, thiá<sup>n</sup>), to cease; to pause; to stop or delay (neuter); to hold one's self erect.

sió - thèng, in a short time; by-and-by; wait a little. sió-thèng-á, in a very short time; in a few moments. khah-thèng-á, after a short time. koh-chit-thèng, after a short time; almost immediately.

thèng chit-khek, wait a very short time. thèng-chit-jit chiú-khi, wait one day and then go. thèng-thèng tiap-á-kú, always procrastinating and promising to do it immediately. thèng-thèng siap-á-kú, id.

bô-thèng, without stopping; without pause or intermission. bô-thèng-si, id. bô-si-thèng, id. bô-thèng-khek, very speedily; without delaying a moment.

thèng-kang, to suspend working. thèng-kha, to stop in walking; to halt. thèng-chhiú, to stop in working or writing. thèng - khui, to stop to take breath; to pause a little. thèng-pit, to pause in writing. thèng-png, to intermit for a few days the rites for the dead. thèng-koan, to keep a coffin unburied, waiting till an auspicious site or day be found. pió-á thèng, the watch stopped.

thèng-sin, to hold one's self erect, esp. standing. thèng-khi-lâi, to raise one's self as erect as possible while still kneeling. chê-khi-thèng, sit straight up. khiá - khi - thèng, stand straight up. tò - khiá-thèng (C.), to stand on one's hands.

thèng [R. têng, to adjust or settle an affair]. tiâu-thèng, to settle an affair, as a sort of arbiter.

thèng [R. a road; a stage; a measure; a surname; = col. têng, thiá<sup>n</sup>].

thèng-tsú, an ancient commentator.

khi-thèng, to commence a journey. lê-thèng (r.), a stage on a road; a journey (C. T. lê-têng). joá-tsóe lê-thèng, how long is the journey? chit-thèng kè-chit-thèng, making a number of journeys or calls over and over, e.g. in dunning for a debt, or asking a man over and over for what he has promised to give.

thèng (R. id.), a lorcha; a junk with sharp bow and stern. thèng-á, id. kng-tang-thèng, a Cantonese lorcha. khòai-thèng, a swift-sailing mandarin lorcha. hoe-thèng, a Cantonese "flower-boat," or floating brothel.

thèng [R. confidant in one's powers; to act in an impulsive manner; precipitate; = col. chéng].

thèng-sèng, self-willed and overbearing, as young person. thèng - kiông, to act in an overbearing manner, trusting in his strength, power, or influence. thèng-koài<sup>n</sup>, to be proud and insolent, as a female slave beloved of her master acting insolently towards her mistress.

thèng i-ê-lát, to stir up and exert his strength.

thèng [R. to pull up; to draw out; to relax a little], to spoil, as a child; to indulge or favour too much, as a servant or employé. thèng-sèng, to indulge and spoil, as a child; to let an inferior have too much of his own way. thèng-sèng-khi-koài<sup>n</sup>, indulging and spoiling him till self-will is become habitual. thèng-khi-koài<sup>n</sup>, id. m-thang-thèng, must not spoil him by letting him have his own way.

thèng [R. têng, a stirrup], (C. têng). bé-táh-thèng, a stirrup. thèng-kun, the straps on which the stirrup hangs. thoa-thèng, to be dragged along by the horse, with foot in stirrup, when fallen from horseback.

thèng - lí-thèng goá-ê-tù, you pay the stakes to me, in gambling.

thèng [R. to listen, to hear; to wait; to let him have his way; = col. thia<sup>n</sup>], to let a man have his way.

thèng-hau, to wait.

tá<sup>n</sup> - thèng, to try to get information. tiông-thèng, very dull of hearing.

thèng-lâng, to let a man have his own way. thèng láng-ê sé-ài, id. thèng-tsú-i, do just as you please. thèng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, do it if you like. thèng-khi-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. thèng-khoá<sup>n</sup>, you may look if you like. thèng-chiáh, you may eat if you please. thèng-

勅勅

飭

飾

撐
汀

騰

停

訂程

艇

送

挺

鑿

聽

lái, he may come if he pleases. thèng-chhēng, may wear it if you like (&c.) thèng-koán--i, you may rule or punish him just as you please. gièn thèng, kè chióng, his words and counsel are followed. thèng-thien iū-bēng, to submit to Heaven's decree of fate.

thèng - chhe, messengers used in a mandarin's yamun (v. chhe).

thi [R. to stick; to adhere; adhesive], to catch with bird-lime. ēng-ka thi, id. thi am-pê-chê, to catch cicadas with bird-lime.

mī°-thi, glutinous raw paste made from wheat meal.

liām thi-thi, adhering very firmly, e.g. cemented with bird-lime.

lô-lô thi-thi, involved, as an affair difficult to set right; confused and involved, as talking, esp. when it comes to nothing. lô thi-thi, id. lô-lī-thi, involved and hard to set right, as affair; very troublesome and unpleasant to deal with, as a man who is not straightforward, e.g. objecting, turning about, and drawing back when all seemed about settled. kóng-ōe lô-lī-thi, to talk a great deal all involved and indistinct, the more that is said making it no plainer, but only darker and darker.

thi [R. thèng, to prop up; to support; to pole a boat; = col. the], to pole a boat.

thi (T.), = A. thi, to open out, as a fan or an umbrella.

thi (R. thê), to crow, as a cock; to sob.

thi-khàu, to bewail with sobs and cries (v. khàu). thi-háu, to sob bitterly; to sob and cry, as a child. toā-kiá° thi, sòe-kiá° háu, children large and small sobbing and crying. hih°-hih°-thi, to sob and cry. huih°-huih°-thi, to sob bitterly. khauh-khauh-thi, do.

koe thi, the cock crows. koe-thi, cock-crowing. koe-thi jī-lòh, the second cock-crowing. koe-thi kúi-lòh, which of the three crowings? koe-bú thi, the hen crows, said to be a very bad omen; said also of a wife ruling her husband.

thi (R. thai), moss and such plants. si°-thi, to grow moss; to get covered with moss. hé-thi, sort of edible sea-weed. chhi°-thi, green moss that grows on damp walls and floors, &c. chhiü° chhi°-thi, to grow moss, as damp places. phī°-khang-kháu chhiü° chhi°-thi, nostrils all filthy (said of a dirty child).

thi [R. thú, a hoe; to hoe or dig up; = col. tī, tú]. thi-thoá° (C.), to hoe up or dig up weeds, grass, &c., on hills or fields, e.g. for fuel. thi-húi° (C.), to hoe up weeds in dry fields.

thi [R. ashamed; modest; = col. sī]. ū liām-thi, to have a strong sense of honour or self-respect, so as not to do what is dishonourable. kè-liām-thi, to take good care of one's reputation and good name for correct conduct, avoiding what would hurt our character. bô-kè liām-thi, having no respect for one's own reputation; doing wicked things without any shame. bô-liām-thi, id. bô-sioh liām-thi, id. sioh liām-thi, acting justly and honourably though against one's own interest or feelings, or in opposition to relatives or friends, avoiding what is unfair or dishonourable, and thus keeping unblemished our reputation for fairness and honour.

thi-chhiò, to laugh at so as to make ashamed.

thi (cf. thién), (T. thi), to open out, as wings or umbrella, or as tangled cords or plaited queue. thi-khui, id. thi-khoá°, to open out (as umbrella, &c.), so as to look at or try it.

thi-sit, to spread the wings. thi hē-soá°, to open out an umbrella. thi-si°, to open out a fan.

thi — thi-phoá, to tear, as an umbrella in opening it.

thi (C.), = A. thú, a surname.

thi [R. thè, = col. thih], to shave. chiá°-thi, to shave in the direction of the hair. tò-thi, to shave against the direction of the hair.

thi-thâu, to shave the head; to perform shaving, or get shaved. thi-thâu-to, a razor. thi-thâu-tá°, the barber's implements, &c., carried on a pole on the shoulder. thi-thâu ê-lâng, a barber. thi-thâu sai-hū, id. thi-thâu-chhiü°, a mandarin's barber.

thi-chhùi-chhiu, to shave the beard.

thi-bin, to scrape smooth, as the surface of an idol; scraping off the old paint and gilding before repainting and regilding.

thi — thê-thi, a sort of fish, somewhat like the "bé-ka."

thi [R. tī, = col. khi]. thi-koe, a pheasant. thi-koe-bé, a pheasant's tail. chhah thi-koe-bé, to wear pheasants' tail-feathers in the head, as in the Ming dynasty, now done in plays.

thi (R. thiam), to add more; to add to; to increase the amount. ke-thi°, id. thi° khah-ke, id. khah-thi°, adding yet more. thi° ke-kiám, to add more or less. thi°-tāng, to make heavier; to add more weight. thi° tām-pòh, to add a little; to give or put in a little more in addition. thi°-thâu thiap-bé, to give a man a little help merely to eke out his own endeavours. thi°-thâu thi°-bé, to add some lies to a story fundamentally true. thi°-kha thi°-chhiü, to add lies to a story founded on fact.

thi°-pūng, to fill the dish with boiled rice. thi°-chháu, to give more fodder. thi°-tsúi, to give more water, e.g. to bird in cage. thi°-iū, to put more oil into the lamp. thi° teng-sim, to put in a wick.

thó-thi°, to ask for more than was promised, or than is due. thàn-thi°, to earn more. pé-thi°, to add some so as to make up a deficiency. bóe-thi°, to buy more. thák-thi°, to read (aloud) more; to study more or longer lesson.

thi° (R. thien), Heaven; the heavens; the sky; weather; a season; the supreme power or principle of the universe; the divine power; God, often with a pantheistic idea: applied in some phrases to things related to the emperor, as he is considered the vicegerent of Heaven.

thi°-tōe, Heaven and Earth; heaven and earth; nature; the universe; sometimes means the supreme being in a pantheistic and dualistic sense. kèng-thi°-tōe, to worship Heaven and Earth. siá thi°-tōe, to give thanks to Heaven and Earth, as for some favour. thi°-tōe bô-pò, Heaven and Earth allowing wickedness to go unpunished (v. pò). liōng-sim sió-thi°-tōe, conscience is a miniature of Heaven and Earth, in regard to the principles of justice. tsoá-siong hé-eh, thi°-tōe-sè, calamities by serpents and tigers are decreed by Heaven and Earth. thi°-tōe-bé (end of heaven and earth), said of extraordinary calamities or unexampled crimes, as portending the end of the dynasty. kóng thi°-tōe-phê, to talk about very strange and out-of-the-way things, absurd stories, or pure inventions; to tell incredible tales, possibly may be true, but such

粘

撐

啼

苔

耻心

剃

雉
漆

天

as the hearer cannot take in. m̄-tsay thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, observing or perceiving nothing, as man drunk or very sleepy, or in a state of unconsciousness; or as young child that can do nothing for itself, depending entirely on its parents. m̄-tsay-thi<sup>n</sup> m̄-tsay-tōe, id.

bō-thi<sup>n</sup> bō-tōe, contrary to Heaven and Earth (said of very wicked conduct). moā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> phièn-tōe, to deceive Heaven and Earth. mē<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> oàn-tōe, to repine and find fault with Heaven and Earth. hē-thi<sup>n</sup> hē-tōe, to tell great lies, as in accusing people falsely. thi<sup>n</sup>--tsai tōe--tsai, Heaven and Earth know it to be true. thi<sup>n</sup>-tsai tōe-ki<sup>n</sup>, do., as in calling Heaven and Earth to witness. thi<sup>n</sup>-têng tōe-ê, heaven above and earth below; the universe (+). thi<sup>n</sup> ɛ, tōe àm, heaven and earth dark; very dark weather; great distress and calamity (+). thi<sup>n</sup> hoàn, tōe loàn, heaven and earth in disorder (said of very great calamities). thi<sup>n</sup> chheng-chheng, tōe lêng-lêng, the influences of nature all propitious, a Taoist phrase. tì chit-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, táh chit-ê-tōe, living on the same earth, and under the same heaven. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> seh-kè, lóh-tōe hoàn-chhiên (chiên?), to ask an enormous price, but accept a very small one.

thi<sup>n</sup>-kong, the god of heaven, sometimes heaven personified, sometimes the supreme god; often confounded with Giók-hông. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-si<sup>n</sup>, his birthday. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-toā<sup>n</sup>, temporary shrine for his worship. thi<sup>n</sup>-kong-lê, an incense-vessel for the worship of Heaven.

thi<sup>n</sup>-má (Cn.), the goddess of heaven. thi<sup>n</sup>-má-si<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), her birth-day.

thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, = thien-lí, the principles of Heaven's justice, esp. in reference to vengeance. ū thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, according to the principles of Heaven's justice, esp. said of Heaven's vengeance on criminals. tióh-ū thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, you should speak the truth; you should act fairly and justly. háp-thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, right; proper; according to the laws of Heaven. chiàu-thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-lí thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, Nemesis! what a just Heaven-sent judgment on wicked men! thi<sup>n</sup>-lí kún, the vengeance of Heaven speedily overtaking crime. bō-thi<sup>n</sup>-lí, said of wicked, violent, oppressive conduct carried on with a high hand, e.g. tyranny or plundering.

thi<sup>n</sup>-i, Heaven's decree or purpose. tsai thi<sup>n</sup>-i, to have an instinctive knowledge of coming weather, as some animals (+). thi<sup>n</sup> tsù-tiā<sup>n</sup>, Heaven decrees it. chhièn-sng bân-sng, m̄-táh--tióh thi<sup>n</sup> chit-sng, innumerable calculations and purposes are not worth one purpose of Heaven. oàn-thi<sup>n</sup> chhoeh-miā<sup>n</sup>, to repine and murmur at Heaven and fate. thi<sup>n</sup> bō-bák, Heaven has no eyes (said when great criminals are quite unpunished, and prosper all the more by their crimes). thi<sup>n</sup> ū-bák, Heaven's eye sees (as when calamity suddenly overtakes wicked men). koà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup> chiáh-png, to live on honest gains (+). thi<sup>n</sup> tī thâu-khak-têng, Heaven is above my head; I am speaking all true; Heaven sees and will punish me if I speak falsely (said as a sort of oath). gék-thi<sup>n</sup>, to offend against Heaven. ū-thi<sup>n</sup> bō-jit-thâu ê-ōe, falsely saying that people commit incest, &c.

thi<sup>n</sup>-ūi, the imperial throne. piā<sup>n</sup> thi<sup>n</sup>-ūi, to rebel and aim at the imperial throne, as insurgents. phah thi<sup>n</sup>-ūi, id. chē-thi<sup>n</sup>, to be emperor.

thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, under heaven; all under heaven; the empire. thi<sup>n</sup>-kha-ê, all under heaven. thong-thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, id. moā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-ê thài-pêng, all under heaven at peace and in prosperity.

thi<sup>n</sup>-têng, above the sky; in the sky; in heaven;

heaven above (+). poā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, up in the air; up in the sky. thi<sup>n</sup>-tjong-ng, in the sky; in the air.

hē-thi<sup>n</sup>, summer. tang-thi<sup>n</sup>, winter. chhun-thi<sup>n</sup>, spring. chhiu-thi<sup>n</sup>, autumn. hó-thi<sup>n</sup>-ni<sup>n</sup>, a year of abundance (v. ni<sup>n</sup>). sī lán-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, it is just the weather for us; it is our opportunity or time of good fortune and prosperity. sī i-ê-thi<sup>n</sup>, it is his season of good fortune.

hó-thi<sup>n</sup>, fine weather; fair weather. phái<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, bad weather. koā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, cold weather. joáh-thi<sup>n</sup>, hot weather. chiā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, fair weather after rain. m̄-chiā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, very changeable uncertain weather, scarcely either rain or fair. kui-sin-thi<sup>n</sup>, settled weather (v. kui). âng-thi<sup>n</sup> chhiáh-jit-thâu, clear, hot, cloudless sky. liú-bin-á-thi<sup>n</sup>, pleasant warm weather in winter, such as vagrants like.

thi<sup>n</sup>-sí, season; weather. thi<sup>n</sup>-khì, weather. koà<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-sek, to watch the signs of the weather (+). ki<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>-keh, the sky clear and cloudless (+). thi<sup>n</sup>-sióng, any atmospheric or celestial phenomenon (v. sióng). thi<sup>n</sup>-hún, the clouds of the sky; the clouds of heaven. thi<sup>n</sup>-lê, dew (v. lê). thi<sup>n</sup>-lê (X.), the way to heaven. thi<sup>n</sup>-kng, dawn; early daylight (v. kng). thi<sup>n</sup> thiah-háh, dawn breaking. thi<sup>n</sup> ɛ-im, dark cloudy sky (v. ɛ). thi<sup>n</sup> khí hē-i, appearance as about to rain (+).

ki<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, open to the sky; a small open back-court, smaller than a "chhim-chi<sup>n</sup>," and behind it (+). bō-ki<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, very dark; not having a look of the open sky, which is counted bad for the luck of idols or ancestral tablets, as these should always have a clear view of the open heaven. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, to ascend to heaven. chhióng-thi<sup>n</sup>, to mount up to heaven, as vapour, &c. (v. chhióng). tú-thi<sup>n</sup>, so high as to reach to heaven, as mountain.

thi<sup>n</sup>-chi<sup>n</sup>, a skylight window. thi<sup>n</sup>-thang, a fixed light in a roof (v. thang). thi<sup>n</sup>-chhioh, a quadrant or sextant. ná<sup>n</sup> thi<sup>n</sup>-thiáu, said of a very tall man (v. thiáu, "pillar").

thi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup> hái-kak, the most distant regions (v. pi<sup>n</sup>). sai-thi<sup>n</sup> (r.), the Buddhist heaven (better "se-thien"). kiā<sup>n</sup>-lê, ó piah-pi<sup>n</sup>; tsòe-sū, khah-toā<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, appearing very modest and retiring, yet daring to do improper things that cause very serious troubles.

thi<sup>n</sup> [R. têng? thêng? to gaze or stare intently], (C. thê<sup>n</sup>). thi<sup>n</sup>-bák, to dazzle the eyes, as sun or lamp too bright or too near. thi<sup>n</sup>-jit, eyes somewhat dazzled by gazing at the sun. thi<sup>n</sup>-pêh, eyes dazzled by looking at a bright, white, sunny wall, &c.

thi<sup>n</sup> [R. thêng, to prop up; to support; to extend; to pole a boat; = col. theng, the], (C. thê<sup>n</sup>), to prop up so as to keep from falling or closing, as with a prop, or with the hand pressing strongly; a prop.

thi<sup>n</sup>--khí-lâi, to prop up or support by pushing upwards, e.g. as a hanging shutter. thi<sup>n</sup>--khí-khi, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-koái<sup>n</sup> (C. thê<sup>n</sup>-koán), to raise slightly higher by a prop, as a hanging shutter or trap-door, or as a cover or pot-lid; to prop up and keep from falling, as branch of tree. thi<sup>n</sup>-bōe-tiáu, unable to sustain the weight, as a prop, or as one's hand when all our strength cannot keep a thing from falling.

thi<sup>n</sup>-ám, to stretch out the neck looking upwards, as a beast.

thang-á-thi<sup>n</sup>, a stick for holding up a window-shutter that hangs by hinges on the top alone. phah-thi<sup>n</sup>, to put in a support to keep anything from falling; to put supports under the arms in the proper attitude, as for drawing the bow.

phái<sup>n</sup>-âu-thi<sup>n</sup>, bad descendants.

撐

紕
聽

thi<sup>n</sup> (R. tiết), to run a scam; to sew wide and loose before the finer and firmer sewing, such as "pâng" or "chhiám."

pé-thi<sup>n</sup>, mending and sewing.

thia<sup>n</sup> [R. thèng, to listen; to hear; to let a man have his way], to listen; to listen to; to take advice; to obey.

m-thia<sup>n</sup>, will not listen; will not take advice; will not obey. bô-beh-thia<sup>n</sup>, id. thia<sup>n</sup> goá-ê-chhù, follow my advice or instructions. sa<sup>n</sup>-tèng-thia<sup>n</sup>, willingly listening to another (v. tèng).

thia<sup>n</sup>-kì<sup>n</sup>, to hear (lit. perceive by listening). thia<sup>n</sup>-m-kì<sup>n</sup>, not able to hear; quite unable to hear, as from indistinctness or from distance. thia<sup>n</sup>-bôe-kì<sup>n</sup>, id. thia<sup>n</sup>-m-chhut, to hear slightly, but not able to make it out. thia<sup>n</sup>-bô, to listen, but find that there is nothing to be heard, or that nothing is heard. thia<sup>n</sup> bô-bêng, not able fully to make it out or understand it. thia<sup>n</sup> bô-hièn, to hear indistinctly, as what is spoken too low or not clearly. thia<sup>n</sup> bôe-hiáu-tit, to hear, but be unable to make out the meaning. thia<sup>n</sup>-chhò, to make a mistake in hearing. thia<sup>n</sup>-tā<sup>n</sup> (esp. Cn.), id. thia<sup>n</sup> bô-chin, id. (v. chin). thia<sup>n</sup>-lôh-hi, to hear so as to understand clearly and remember well.

hó-thia<sup>n</sup>, pleasant to hear, as pleasant sound, or as good news, &c. phái<sup>n</sup>-thia<sup>n</sup>, unpleasant to hear. oh-thia<sup>n</sup>, difficult to get accurate information, as from variety of reports or other causes; difficult to understand when heard.

tham-thia<sup>n</sup>, to make secret inquiries. thau-thia<sup>n</sup>, to listen secretly. phak-teh-thia<sup>n</sup>, to listen secretly, as with head bent down close to a door. thia<sup>n</sup>-hi thia<sup>n</sup>-piah, to listen secretly, as an eavesdropper.

ài-thia<sup>n</sup>, to wish to hear; to like to listen. kóng hē-i-thia<sup>n</sup>, tell him; speak that he may hear. goá-kóng lí-thia<sup>n</sup>, I tell you that you may listen or hear.

thia<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>, to burn a stick of incense before an idol at night, throw it into water which is stirred about, and when it stops go in the direction pointed to by the burned end, and listen for the first word heard, taking it as an omen.

thia<sup>n</sup>, classifier of Chinese halyards. chit-thia<sup>n</sup>-lit, one large rope that hauls up a Chinese sail to the wind like halyards.

thia<sup>n</sup> [R. theng, a hall, sitting-room, or parlour; an assistant mandarin; a Ting district or recent subdivision of a prefecture], the central hall of a house, where the idols are placed, and where visitors are received; classifier for mandarins in general; affix to titles of assistant mandarins and mandarins of Ting districts.

toā-thia<sup>n</sup>, the large central hall of a house; a mandarin of considerable rank who manages matters for a superior mandarin of very high rank; often said of the "chham-hú." thê-tok ê toā-thia<sup>n</sup>, the "chham-hú," as at Amoy. tóng-tok ê toā-thia<sup>n</sup>, a high official at the vice-regal capital who transacts business in place of the viceroy. i-ê toā-thia<sup>n</sup>, said in joke, or half in joke, of a man whom some one intrusts with the management of his affairs. toā-thia<sup>n</sup>-iâ, = tióng-kun-hú, an idol placed at the corner of some large temples (esp. of ông-iâ, pó-seng tã-tè, and má-tsó) as a medium between worshippers and the great divinity of the temple, and also to be used by that great divinity for giving commands to spirit-soldiers.

pē-thia<sup>n</sup>, a small mandarin who assists the prefect of a Foo or the district-mandarin of a Hien. hái-hông-thia<sup>n</sup>, the Hai-fang, e.g. at Amoy; also, his office. siú-pi-thia<sup>n</sup>, the military officer called a Show-pei, one step below a Tē-si. tsoan-hông-thia<sup>n</sup>, = tsoan-sin, assistant of a "siú-pi." chiên-thia<sup>n</sup>, assistant military mandarin of vanguard. tióng-thia<sup>n</sup>, do. of centre; (&c.) lí-tsún-thia<sup>n</sup> (f.), harbour-master.

chit-thia<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, one mandarin, e.g. said when indicating that in some affair or place there is only one mandarin taking the management. sa<sup>n</sup>-thia<sup>n</sup>-koa<sup>n</sup>, three mandarins, e.g. when speaking of their all living in one town, or going together somewhere to manage some matter jointly.

thia<sup>n</sup>-tūg, the central hall of a very large house. thia<sup>n</sup>-bin, the central hall of a house. thia<sup>n</sup>-pin, central transverse partition in the chief hall of a large house, dividing the hall into a front part and a back part. thia<sup>n</sup>-kháu-pin, a partition across the very front of the central hall, which is far more usually open to the court. thia<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>-pâng, rooms at the side of the central hall. thia<sup>n</sup>-âu-pâng, rooms behind it.

koa<sup>n</sup>-thia<sup>n</sup>, a waiting-room or sitting-room in a temple; a waiting-room in a high mandarin's yamun (e.g. of general or admiral) for his subordinate mandarins meeting with each other, or consulting together, or for visitors waiting in before they are taken to the reception-room; cabin for first-class passengers in a junk, where also Má-tsé-pó is worshipped. hoe-thia<sup>n</sup>, reception-room in a yamun for private interviews with the mandarin. pan-thia<sup>n</sup>, sitting-room for mandarin's attendants. kong-pan-thia<sup>n</sup>, sitting-room in yamun where the constables, police, &c., sit together; it usually contains an image of Thé-ti-kong. kong-thia<sup>n</sup>, the common central hall in a large house, used jointly by several families that have also separate private rooms. khui-chhù-thia<sup>n</sup>, the central hall of a house when it has no partition across the front, but is quite open to the court. kheh-thia<sup>n</sup>, hall where guests are received; a parlour or drawing-room. hē-chhù-thia<sup>n</sup>, the central halls of the side houses which stand crosswise at the ends of the principal house. tang-sai-thia<sup>n</sup> (east and west rooms), two good large sitting-rooms facing each other on the sides of the court before the principal house.

chhut-thia<sup>n</sup>, to come out of her chamber to the central or public hall on the third day after marriage (as the bride does) to worship the idols and ancestral tablets, and to be introduced to her husband's relations. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thia<sup>n</sup>, id. chiū<sup>n</sup> toā-thia<sup>n</sup>, id. chhiá<sup>n</sup> chhut-thia<sup>n</sup>, to invite the bride to come out thus (done by a little girl).

thiâ<sup>n</sup> [R. thêng, a road; a stage; = col. têng], (C. thê<sup>n</sup>), a surname.

thiâ<sup>n</sup> [R. tân, sandal-wood; = col. toâ<sup>n</sup>]. thiâ<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>-sek, light grayish purple, almost like buff, but with a little more red. thiâ<sup>n</sup>-hiu<sup>n</sup>-kién, a silk stuff of a light purplish gray, brought from Shanghai, &c.

thiâ<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = thêng, to delay; to wait.

thiâ<sup>n</sup>, to be pained; to ache painfully; to love; to be sparing of; to spare; to use sparingly and carefully, as money. thiâ<sup>n</sup> kàu-jip-kut, to love very warmly and affectionately, as father and son, or as husband and wife; to have very severe pain.

thiâ<sup>n</sup>-thàng, to love. thiâ<sup>n</sup>-sioh, id.; to use sparingly. sa<sup>n</sup>-thiâ<sup>n</sup>, mutual love or affection; to love one another. thiâ<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to love others.

chi<sup>n</sup> tióh-thiâ<sup>n</sup>, should take good care of money. âm-lê ká<sup>n</sup>-kiâ<sup>n</sup>, chi<sup>n</sup>-gân bô-thiâ<sup>n</sup>, lavishing money on licentious pleasures.

廳

程檀

疼痛

koah-bah chit-tng-thiā<sup>n</sup> (to cut one's flesh and have it all over by one great pang), said of expelling or disowning a bad son or near relative, or of paying a large sum so as to be cured at once, or to get rid once for all of a man who is constantly asking for money.

thāng-thiā<sup>n</sup>, to be pained; painful sensations; pain. ài-thiā<sup>n</sup>, constantly or frequently painful; constantly causing pain, as disease or sore. tsai-thiā<sup>n</sup>, to feel pain. ōe-thiā<sup>n</sup>, painful; pained; feeling pain. bōe-thiā<sup>n</sup>, not painful. lún-thiā<sup>n</sup>, to bear pain patiently (v. lún).

si<sup>n</sup>-thiā<sup>n</sup>, to have painful sores, severe boils, abscesses, &c.

pī<sup>n</sup>-thiā<sup>n</sup>, disease and pain; severe sickness. bō-pī<sup>n</sup> bō-thiā<sup>n</sup>, no sickness or pain. hong-thiā<sup>n</sup>, rheumatic pains. thiu-thiā<sup>n</sup>, severe shooting pains; lancinating pains. tsòe-tsūn thiā<sup>n</sup>, spasms; sudden severe pains. sng-thiā<sup>n</sup>, dull painful aching (v. sng). thāu-khak-thiā<sup>n</sup>, headache. pak-té thiā<sup>n</sup>, pain in the bowels. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> thiā<sup>n</sup>, severe pain about the heart or the pit of the stomach. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thāu thiā<sup>n</sup>, id. sim-khi-thiā<sup>n</sup>, id. chhùi-khi-thiā<sup>n</sup>, toothache. khi<sup>n</sup>-thiā<sup>n</sup>, id. khi<sup>n</sup>-thiā<sup>n</sup> tsai khi-thiā<sup>n</sup>-lāng, one who has or has had toothache sympathizes with another who has it.

thiā<sup>n</sup> — thiā<sup>n</sup>-bēng, to tell a thing over again to see that it be clearly understood. koh-thiā<sup>n</sup> kúi-kú, repeat in a few sentences, as instructions.

thiā<sup>n</sup>, to take a little food or medicine so as to make one's self feel somewhat more comfortable. thiā<sup>n</sup>--chit-ē, to take a little strengthening medicine, or opium, or liquor. sió-khoá-thiā<sup>n</sup>, to eat a little, as a lunch or such light meal, when there is not time for a regular meal; to take some strengthening medicine; to take opium pills (or such like) to stave off the craving.

thiā<sup>n</sup>-tá<sup>n</sup>, to take some slight means of keeping up our spirits (v. tá<sup>n</sup>).

thiah [R. chhek; C. chhek, thek], to tear; to separate or dissolve, as a connection; to tear open; to tear in pieces; to pick, as oakum.

khui-thiah, to explain distinctly, as the meaning of a phrase or saying, or of a doctrine. thiah-bēng, to explain one's meaning clearly, as in speaking more fully of what was merely alluded to.

phah-thiah, to divide the several details, as of an involved or difficult business, so that they may be taken up separately either by several men or successively by one man; to arrange for the due settlement of an affair in its several items, e.g. the gradual liquidation of a debt; to appoint to their several duties, as men in our employment; to send out, as members of a family or employés, to make a living, instead of crowding idly together.

hun-thiah, to separate, as in trade or in regard to meals; to discriminate or explain, as in discussing. pun-thiah, to part or separate, as partners or associates.

thiah-ké, to dissolve partnership. thiah hé-ki, id. thiah-chiáh, to arrange to have meals separate, as persons who formerly messed together. thiah-soá<sup>n</sup>, to tear asunder, as man and wife.

thiah-lib, to tear, as cloth or dress. thiah-phoà, to break or destroy by tearing; to tear or pull in pieces. thiah chhùi-chhùi, to tear to fragments. thiah-khui, to tear or break open, as a letter or small box. kha thiah-khui, legs somewhat separated.

thiah-phoe, to open a letter. thiah-chhù, to pull down a house. thiah-tsang, to pick asunder palm fibre, as for making ropes.

thiah jī-sè, to tell fortunes by analyzing written characters (v. sè).

thiah-toa<sup>n</sup>, to take out a ticket, as for one's passage. thiah-iòh (T.), to buy medicines according to prescription.

thi<sup>n</sup> thiah-háh, morning dawn breaking (v. háh).

thiam [R. to add; to increase; = col. thi<sup>n</sup>]. ka-thiam (r.), to add, as more money or wages.

thiam-teng, to have an increase in the number of sons or of male inhabitants (v. teng). thiam-tūi, to add more troops of soldiers. thiam-siū, may you have your allotted term of life lengthened by Heaven! (polite phrase used on birth-day). kā-lí thiam-siū, id. thiam-hok thiam-siū, may your good fortune be increased and your life lengthened! (especially said on birth-day). thiam hē-siū, superstitious rites for long life, performed at the temple of Sēng-hōng-iá. gím-siōng thiam-hoa, said of adding to what is already very good, as wealth or literary talent (lit. flowers on flowered silk).

thiám [R. very quiet, tranquil, and staid in manner, = col. tiám], (C. tiám). thiám-chēng, quiet in tastes and habits, not fond of company, gaiety, excitement, or display; esp. said of women. hong thiám, lóng chēng, wind and waves quiet.

thiám [R. to flatter; to fawn upon]. thiám-mi<sup>n</sup> (R.), to flatter. thiám-bī (R.), id.

thiám — thiám-chhái, = kiám-chhái, khiam-chhái, perhaps.

thiám, very severe, as a disease, or as a beating; very thoroughly done, as cooking of meat. chin-thiám, id. pī<sup>n</sup> thiám, the disease is very severe. phah put-chí-thiám, to beat very severely. tsú-khi-thiám, cook it very thoroughly, as in boiling.

thiám (cf. khiam, kin). thiám-mé<sup>n</sup> (r.), = kím-mé<sup>n</sup>, quickly.

thiám [R. tūm, to sink; = col. tiám], to submerge by throwing into water, esp. in order to drown; to get deeper and deeper in debt. thiám-hái, may you be drowned! liáh-khi thiám-hái, to seize and drown. thiám-lòh-hái, to throw into the sea, as a stone, or as goods of an enemy, that he may lose them; or as man (or animal) in order to drown him. thiám-lòh-chí<sup>n</sup>, to throw into a well, as a child, or as another's goods.

thiám — thiám-chiú, a very good sort of spirit; glutinous rice boiled very dry has been soaked in it so as to make it very strengthening. péh-thiám-chiú, id. péh-thiám, id. tsút-bí-thiám, id.

thian, thián, thián; better thien, thiēn, thiēn (q.v.)

thiàng (C.), = A. thòng (R.), pleasure, &c.; in C. the phrases have a bad meaning.

thiap (cf. siap, siam, siám?) iap-thiap, keeping out of view, as some sore, or something of which we are ashamed. lóng-bō-iap-thiap, without the least sense of shame or decency, as a man doing wicked things openly, or exposing his person immodestly, &c. khah-iap-thiap, hiding out of view, as what is dirty or offends against decency; very quiet, frightened, and shrinking in manner, as an inferior ought to appear before a superior.

thiap [R. to join or add to; to supply a deficiency; attached; close to; to paste on; = col. thah], to supply a

添

恬

諂

殄

拆

deficiency; to make a small payment in addition to what was formerly paid, or for some damage or want.

thé-thiap, to sympathize (v. thé).

pang-thiap, to give regular monetary assistance, as to a widow or sick person who is our relative, or who has special claims on us. png-thiap, id. thi<sup>n</sup>-thâu thiap-bé, to give a little help where it is urgently needed, no more than is just sufficient to tide over difficulties.

chiâu-thiap, paying a small proportion according to rule or custom, e.g. the mortgager hearing some portion of expense of repairs; paying a small present, as to a messenger, according to usual custom and rate.

thiap-tsúi, to pay a small premium, as for silver of superior purity, e.g. sycee silver as compared with the average silver of dollars; to pay a percentage to a silversmith for the silver lost in working; the small premium or percentage thus paid. bún-gún ê thiap-tsúi, premium on sycee silver. thiap pêng-tsúi, to pay a small premium (about 3 or 4 mace on 100 dollars) on dues paid into custom-house or yamun. thiap gún-tsúi, to pay a small premium or percentage when the silver we gave was inferior in quality or deficient in weight. thiap gún-hun, do. for light weight, or for different rate at which dollars are calculated at different places. thiap-kè-ân ê-gún, demurrage (v. ân).

thiap-siá, men employed to assist the "su-pan" to write documents in yamuns, esp. in military yamuns. thiap-thiâu, an additional pillar or pilaster put on close to a wall (v. thiâu).

hiu<sup>n</sup>-thiap, incense hags fastened in women's hair, for the scent only.

thiap (= thiet). thò-thiap, = thò-thiet, not standing much on ceremony or forms of polite salutation; coming straight to the point without circumlocution, as in making a bargain (v. thò).

thiap [R. chhiap, a concubine], a low female character in a play, done by men. tsng-thiap, to represent the character of a female slave, or low-class female in a play. tsng toá<sup>n</sup>-thiap, to represent female characters in general in plays; all done by men and boys.

thiap [R. cards; written scrolls; placards; petitions; copy-lines, &c.], a visiting-card; a letter of invitation, &c.; a petition; a dose of medicine.

chit-thiap-ióh, one dose of medicine

thiap-sek, forms used for preparing invitations, &c. thiap-áh, a case for invitation cards, or for cards on which some polite phrase is written. pài-thiap-áh, id. thiap-lông, envelope for card. thiap-thò, case or envelope for cards.

hoat-thiap, copy-lines of ancient characters. òh hoat-thiap, to copy such characters. lím-thiap, id. thiap-ji, characters written in the style of these copy-hooks. ũ thiap-i, to be written in that style, as a word. ũ thiap-khi, id.

thiap-á, a placard that violently attacks a man, truly or falsely. khiet-thiap, id. siu<sup>n</sup>-thiap, a hand-bill posted up as an advertisement, offering a reward, as for something lost. lê-thâu-thiap, a hand-bill, placard, or notice posted up on a wall.

pín-thiap, a formal petition. lé-thiap, a document sent along with presents (as at birthday or at betrothal), stating what presents are sent; in a case of regular betrothal it is sent before the "hun-tsu;" in the case of a "sim-pū-á" it is only a few days before the marriage. hun-tsu lé-thiap, the marriage contract and this ceremonial card. bún-seng-thiap, a card which serves as the indenture of an apprentice.

pài-thiap, a visiting card or card of invitation. miá<sup>n</sup>-thiap, our card with words written on it, saying that we call and pay our respects. sì-thiap, a card declining an invitation. siá-thiap, a card or letter of thanks. âng-thiap, a red card. thò-âng-thiap, id. péh-thiap, a white card, used in mourning.

pàng-thiap, to distribute cards of invitation; to distribute cards announcing his degree, as a new graduate does. oā<sup>n</sup>-thiap, to exchange cards, with name and nativity, in token of very close friendship. oā<sup>n</sup>-thiap hia<sup>n</sup>-tī, men who have formed a bond or covenant of very close friendship by thus exchanging cards. chip-thiap--ê, the man in a yamun who has charge of the cards of the mandarin and of visitors. hê-thiap, to send a ceremonial card or other "thiap" in answer to one sent by the other party; esp. said of the answer which settles betrothal. kū-thiap, to write a ceremonial card. kī-thiap (C.), id. kū-thiap, an old ceremonial card.

thiáp [R. tiáp, to pile up; to repeat; = col. tháh], to pile; to lay in successive layers; (a pile). thiáp-khi-lái, to pile up, as in successive layers. thiáp-liáp--khi, id. thiáp-hó, fully piled up. thiáp-chiá<sup>n</sup>-tui, to pile up a heap.

tún-thiáp, to store up in heaps, or in large quantities.

thiáp-khoân, to lay in coils one above another, as ropes (v. khoân). kha thiáp-khoân, cross-legged. kha thiáp-phoân, id. (v. phoân).

thiap-sit, neatly put up; well-behaved (v. sit).

thiát, better thiet, q.v.

thiâu [R. to carry on a pole; to raise up gently, as with a pin; to stir up or loosen, as with the point of a stick; to sew or embroider; to stir up or instigate; to select; a spoon; = col. thio, thiò, thiáu].

thiâu-hu, a carrier of baggage or burdens. kien-thiâu pòe-hū, to carry loads on shoulder and back, as pedlars, &c.

thiâu-soán, to choose out carefully (v. soán). toā-thiâu, the great choosing of graduates for various offices (esp. of Kujin graduates), once in twelve years, by the emperor.

thiâu-läng, airy, as a room; having plenty of space between, as houses, trees, &c.; elegant and graceful, as limbs, or as walking (v. läng).

thiâu-kióng (C.), = A. thng-sí, a small spoon for soup.

thiâu [R. chhiâu; C. thiau; to excel; to raise]. thiâu-tâg, to call a very young and talented scholar near his own seat, as the examiner sometimes does.

thiâu-thoat (r.), = chhiâu-thoat, easy-minded; not anxious about danger or troubles.

thiâu [R. weak, young, and tender; light and frivolous]. kheng-thiâu, light and frivolous in manner, esp. as young man; apt to be rather neglectful and too easy-minded about matters entrusted to him; opposed to "hê-tiōng." kheng-kheng thiâu-thiâu, id.

thiâu [R. tiâu, restless; perverse; outrageous]. thiâu-lân, to cause trouble and annoyance intentionally in many ways (v. lân). thiâu-bân, = tiâu-bân, obstinately troublesome and disobedient, e.g. very lazy about doing what is ordered, or constantly putting off the payment of what is due.

thiáu [R. tiâu, a branch; a thin strip; anything long and slender, = col. liâu]. chit-bé kng-thiâu-thiâu, extremely poor; having on no clothes at all.

叠

挑

超

挑

刁

條

妾

帖

疣 鮎

thiâu — thiâu-á, a pimple on the face.
thiâu (R. id.) thiâu-á-hi, a sort of mud-fish.
thiâu-hi, id.
hoe-thiâu, a longer sort of mud-fish.
si-kha-thiâu (F.), a sort of large lizard which lives in hedges.

挑

thiâu [R. thiau, to carry on a pole; to select, &c.; = col. thio, thiô; sometimes in C. also read "thiâu"], to choose, as persons; also said of things. kè-thiâu, choice already made; having been selected. thiâu iū-teng, to select some men as soldiers elect (out of a number of candidates) ready to fill up any vacancies that may occur. thiâu hân-lim, to choose a Tsin-sze graduate and make him a Hanlin.

跳

thiâu (Cn.) soat-thiâu, vile jesting at each other (cf. A. soat-chhiâu).
thiâu (R. id.), to leap; to jump; to overleap; to pass over. tò-thiâu, to rebound. tiô-thiâu, to leap about. thiâu-bú, to dance and gesticulate. thiâu-kha-koe, to hop. thiâu-tsáu, to jump, as frog, &c.; to give a leap in order to escape, as man.

thiâu-thah, very playful and restless, as child. thiâu-that, id. thiâu-iák (C.), lively and in good health and spirits, as child. oáh thiâu-thiâu, active, as fish. kiá-lê thiâu-thiâu, to walk (naturally) with a very springy elastic step. thiâu-kúi, restless imp! said to a troublesome child; a troublesome unruly boy. thiâu-hàn, a troublesome unruly boy, fond of trifling and noisy play. thiâu-hân (T.), id. giét-tsú thiâu-hàn, a wild, idle, ill-behaved boy.

thiâu-tâng, to have the afflatus for giving an oracle. thiâu-káu, a set of three dice, used in gambling (v. káu).

chhiák-chhiák-thiâu, to jump and frisk about incessantly. phiák-phiák-thiâu, to jump about frantically, as sorcerer. phut-phut-thiâu, to jump about, as in delight; to jump about, as a flea. pók-pók-thiâu, to jump about, as a flea. phók-phók-thiâu, to palpitate, as with fear; to dance with rage; to dance with delight or desire, as child; to leap, as a flea. khi káu-phók-phók-thiâu, dancing with rage.

thiâu-iáh, to pass over one leaf of a book, as in reading, &c. thiâu-khám, to pass by a shop, as in distributing things. thiâu-keng, to pass one house in a row, e.g. one house left unburned in a fire. thiâu-chiu, to pass one chapter without reading it; (&c.) thiâu-kip seng, to be promoted two or more grades of rank at once.

透

thiâu [R. thè, to pass through; thorough; to communicate, as a road; = col. thàu], a plank or flat stone used as a bridge or gangway; stepping-stones in a stream. thiâu-pang, a plank used as a bridge or gangway (+). ū-thiâu, there is such a bridge of plank or single stone, &c.

phah-thiâu, to lay a gangway or plank, &c., so used; to make a scaffolding, as for building or repairing a house. tah thiâu-pang, to make such a scaffolding.

柱

thiâu (Cn.) khé-thiâu, a plant like a dock with red flowers.
thiâu (R. tsū), a pillar; a column; a post; a division of a clan, smaller than "phài" or "páng."
si-thiâu, a man's horoscope (lit. four columns), consisting of four pairs of characters; said even though written in one column. i-ê si-thiâu hó, his horoscope is good. poeh-ji pái si-thiâu, to arrange the eight words of the horoscope in four columns.

tó-thiâu, the branch of a family become extinct. béng-páng lám-thiâu, a weak branch of a powerful family.

thiâu-poá, a large square slab of stone sunk in the ground, as foundation for pillar. thiâu-ê chiòh, stone pedestal of a pillar. thiâu-tsu, the round part of the stone pedestal of a pillar. thiâu-pêng, a pilaster; a half pillar. thiap-thiâu, an additional pillar or pilaster set close to a wall as an additional support, esp. to receive the boards of a partition. e-thiâu, the fixed post of a well-sweep. chhù-thiâu, the pillar of a house. am-thiâu, pillar of a temple. lêng-thiâu, pillars having dragons carved on them. chhâ-thiâu, a wooden pillar. chiòh-thiâu, a stone pillar.

thih-teng teng-toā-thiâu, the affair is settled finally and conclusively. ná thi<sup>2</sup>-thiâu, said of a very tall strong man. bōe-tsún-i<sup>2</sup>, bōe-tsún-thiâu, said of person or materials not suitable for our purpose (v. tsún).

thien [R. phien, at the side; selfish; unfair; = col. phi<sup>2</sup>]. thien-thien-á m, doggedly refuses; doggedly will not. thien-á m, id.

thien [R. tien, crazy; mad]. thien-thien thòh-thòh, talking or behaving in an absurd and extravagant way, as if mad or drunk (v. thòh).

thien (esp. T.) thien-thé, = thiên-thé, fond of idleness, finery, and nice things (v. thiên).

thien [R. heaven; a day; nature; natural; used in some Buddhist phrases for the Indiau deva; = col. thi<sup>2</sup>], heaven; the heavens; the sky; nature; the supreme principle in nature; God (often in a somewhat pantheistic sense); divine; imperial, in some phrases, as the emperor is considered the viceregent of Heaven.

thien-tê, heaven and earth; the universe; nature; the two end pieces of a coffin, "thien" being the larger one, at the head; sometimes said of the upper and lower boards of a coffin. thien tê jîn, heaven, earth, and man, the three powers of nature. thien-tê hêng-tsai, Heaven and earth send calamities. thien-tê, kun chhin su, in the whole of nature the chief persons are the sovereign, parents, and teacher. thien-tê-phoe (C.), small mattresses above and below a dead body.

thien-bún tê-lí, astronomy and geography; astrology and geomancy (+). thien-kong tê-soah, the good and bad spirits of heaven and earth (v. kong). thien-lô tê-bóng, Heaven and earth are like a net to catch the wicked. tâm-thien soat-tê, to talk about things in general. hoan-thien hok-tê, to act in a very disorderly or rebellious way (v. hok), (+).

giâu-thien sùn-jit, the days of Yaou and Shun, the golden age (v. jit). thien-thien tsùi, drunk every day.

thien-tông, heaven, the place of celestial happiness. thien-têng, id. chiáh thien-tông, to get one's living by improper means; said esp. of the hangers-on about yamuns, who meddle in lawsuits or squeeze money out of people by threats of accusing them, e.g. for gambling, selling beef, keeping bad houses, &c. seng-thien, to ascend to heaven (v. seng). se-thien, the Buddhist heaven (v. se). thien-bún khai, heaven's gate open on 6.6 (v. bún).

kóng sam-sip-sam thien, to tell incredible stories, gen. baseless; esp. putting off payment of debt by false stories about abundance of money expected soon. kóng sam-thien-goá ê tai-chi, to tell quite incredible stories.

thien-siông, an atmospheric or celestial phenomenon

偏
癲
天

(v. siong). thien-bùn, astronomy (+). khim-thien-kâm, the chief astronomer at the metropolis. tà-put-kiên-thien, to put awnings all over a street (v. tà). thien-lô-pán, a ceiling (v. pán). bân-thien, the open framework on the top of a bedstead (v. bân).

thien-chhi<sup>n</sup>, dull purple colour. thien-lâm-sek, dark brownish purple.

thien-hã, all under heaven; the Chinese empire. thien-hã thong, an instrument for picking locks. thien-kok (X.), the kingdom of heaven.

thien-tsú, the Lord of heaven, the Roman Catholic name for God (+). thien-chí (C.), id. thien-tsú-kâu, the Roman Catholic Church; Romanism. thien-tsú-tông, a Roman Catholic cathedral, church, or chapel.

thien-tsú, the Son of Heaven, the Chinese emperor (+). thien-tsū (Cn.), id. thien-tsú hoân-tsōe, ú sù-bîn tông, if the emperor contract guilt he is the same as the people. giâm-lô thien-tsú, = Giâm-lô-ông, the judge of the dead.

thien-un, imperial favour (v. un). cheng-thien toát-kok, to aim at the throne, as insurgents.

thien-su, the Taoist high-priest of China; he lives in Kiang-si province (v. su).

thien-sîn, the spirits sent from heaven (v. sîn). thien-koan, a spirit supposed to rule the sky (v. koan). thien-phia<sup>n</sup>, one of the three spirits called "sam-phia<sup>n</sup>" (v. phia<sup>n</sup>). tiu<sup>n</sup> thien-kun, an idol of the surname Chang (v. tiu<sup>n</sup>). thien-hō niū<sup>n</sup>-niū<sup>n</sup>, the goddess Má-tsé-pô. thien-hō niū<sup>n</sup>-niū<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), id. thien-hui (Cn.), id. thien-siōng sèng-bú, id.; this last phrase is also applied by Roman Catholics to the Virgin Mary. goân-sí thien-tsun, Taoist title of the supreme God. thien-teng, lanterns lighted in honour of the god Thi<sup>n</sup>-kong. thien-peng, the soldiers of the gods.

chê-thien, to worship Heaven by offerings (v. chê). sùn-thien, to obey Heaven. sùn-thien-hú, Shun-tien-foo, the city and department of Pekin. sùn-thien--chiá tsún, gék-thien--chiá bōng, they who obey Heaven are preserved; they who disobey perish. gék-thien, to offend against Heaven.

thien-bēng, the will or decree of Heaven, esp. in regard to kingdoms (v. bēng). thien-sê, the decrees of Heaven or fate as to calamities. lâu-siet thien-ki, to let out Heaven's secrets (v. ki). thien-ün, the date of a year expressed in cyclical characters, as used for superstitious purposes. thien-tsai hēng-hō, calamities sent by Heaven. thien-hé, a tiger sent by Heaven, esp. said if it kill a man without devouring him. sú-seng iú-bēng, hù-kùi tsai-thien, life, death, wealth, and honour are under the decree of Heaven. bê-sū tsai-jîn, sēng-sū tsai-thien, man purposes, but Heaven accomplishes. jîn-lék pé thien-kong, man's labour improving on Nature's work (v. kong, "work").

thien-jiên, naturally; of course; certainly. thien-seng tsū-jiên, id. thien-jiên m-hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí, certainly he will not be pleased. thien-tsu, good literary talents. thien-lân, the three natural relationships (v. lân).

ū thien-liōng, conscientious in dealings (v. liōng, "good").

thien-lí, the laws or principles of Heaven's justice as to right and wrong, esp. as to punishment. thien-lí thien-lí, what a judgment! the Nemesis has come! thien-lí liōng-sim, conscience, esp. said as a sort of adjuration; I speak quite true (v. liōng). chiâu-thien-li, acting justly and rightly towards others. tsún-thien-lí, id. thien-lí chiau-chiau, Heaven's justice is manifested, as in calamities coming on the wicked. thien-lí kùn, id. thien-lí kùn, m-thang lām-sám, Heaven's justice is at hand; must not act wickedly.

thien-tō, the manner of Heaven's justice, as in the punishment of wicked men. thien-tō pò-èng, calamity sent by Heaven on evil-doers. thien-tō chiau-chiau, id.

thien-phàu, a congreve rocket; a venereal ulcer. hong-thien-kek, a sort of halbert.

hoan-thien (T.), to come in by the roof, as thieves (+).

liáu-thien, to abscond with something; to abscond, as employé who owes money or has money in his hands; to run away, as a thief, esp. by roof of house. khít--i liáu-thien, to have money or some small thing carried off by him. liáu-thien liáu-thien, very easy-minded. liáu-liáu thien-thien, id.

thiên (cf. T. thien) —. thiên-thé, fond of idleness, ease, and lazy amusements; very slow at work, or refusing a job because of preferring to lie about doing nothing; fond of wearing fine things, and dainty about one's food, as a spoiled child or idle young fellow; fond of luxurious idleness, having everything done for him by servants; affecting too much style; said also of a beggar who has got as much as he wants, and is now making himself at ease and jolly. siu<sup>n</sup>-thiên-thé, extremely fond of idleness, lazy luxury, &c. tó--teh thiên-thé, lying about idly doing nothing.

thiên [R. to transcribe a fair copy, = col. tēng]. thiên sam-tāi (R.), to write out one's pedigree for three generations before being admitted to the literary examinations. thiên lí-lék, to write an account of one's origin and honours, as a mandarin on being promoted to higher office (v. lèk).

thiên [R. thiên, tiên, to fill up; to make up a deficiency; = col. thūn, tiên].

thiên-pé (esp. C.), to make up a deficiency, as in a subscription.

thiên [R. tién, to open out; to exhibit; cf. col. thí], to spread or open out, as umbrella or wings. thiên-khui, do., as wings, book, or fan.

thiet [R. to take away; to send away; to remove, as a subordinate who is unsuitable or not required, or as things not now wanted]. thiet--khi, to take away, as dishes after a feast; to abolish, as a custom, rite, or tax; to dismiss, as soldiers to their own stations, as after a review or campaign. thiet-iōng, to disband volunteers or militia. thiet-hōe, to disband, as militia, &c. thiet-lēng, to remove and burn the "hùn-sin" (which represents the deceased) and the other fittings used in the rites performed for a man recently deceased, as is done when the rites are ended.

thiet-iên, to remove the dishes and remnants of a feast [this phrase is also written with the next word].

thiet [R. thiet; C. thiet, tiết, to pervade; to penetrate; thorough; to remove; cf. col. tah]; (in the sense of "remove," interchanged with the previous word).

thâu-thiet, understanding a matter very thoroughly; very intelligent. thong-thiet, intelligent; acute; having a thorough understanding. it-lí thong, pek-lí thiet, to comprehend the whole on understanding the principle of one part.

kàu-thiet-tí, = kàu-tah-tóe, to the very bottom; to 膳

填

展
撤

徹

the utmost; quite thoroughly. kóng kàu thiet-tí, to discuss thoroughly. khòá<sup>n</sup> kàu thiet-tí, to see to the bottom of an affair or of a man. pán kàu thiet-tí, to examine into and punish a crime with full vigour of law; to investigate a charge officially and thoroughly till the wrong is made plain, and reprovod or punished. sòng kàu-thiet-tí, exceedingly poor. chhám kàu-thiet-tí, extremely miserahle.

thiet (= thiap), (C. thoat).

thò-thiet, = thò-thiap, dispensing with much ceremony or circumlocution (v. thò). thiet-thò, id.

thiet [R. iron, = col. thih]. thiet-sék sim-tiông, pitiless; with heart of iron and stone. thiet-biên bû-su, strictly impartial, as mandarin. thiet-pán put-ék, certainly and unchangeably so; determined to keep to one's purpose. thiet-pán put-í, id.

thih (esp. Cn.), = thì, to shave. thih-thâu, = thì-thâu, to shave the head (v. thì).

thih (R. thiet), iron. chhi<sup>n</sup>-thih, unwrought iron; cast-iron. kng-thih, steel. bé-kháu-thih, tin-plate. bûn-gún pi<sup>n</sup>-tsòe bé-kháu-thih, a good thing changed to bad or useless.

chhi-thih, to temper iron in water. chhū-thih (C.), id. phah-thih, to work in iron, as a smith. phah-thih sai-hū, a blacksmith.

thih-sái, fragments heaten from red-hot iron by hammering, as in a forge; a heavy sort of stone, probably some sort of iron-ore. koàn-thih-sái, made to swallow a sort of heavy stones, as fowl, in order to weigh heavier in selling. thih-sái-hé (T.), curiously shaped lumps of iron-ore, or such heavy stones or iron-cinders. thih-hún, iron-filings or rust, used as medicine. thih-koá<sup>n</sup> (C.), iron-ore.

thih-khø, an iron hoop. thih-soà<sup>n</sup>, iron wire (v. soà<sup>n</sup>). thih-thúi, an iron hammer. thih-teng, an iron nail. thih-tiam, an anvil. thih-lê, a smith's forge. thih-á-tiàm, a shop for old metal articles. thih-pán, iron made into sheets or plates, as material. thih-pán-sek, dark iron-gray.

thih-bé, a musical instrument made of bits of glass hung by strings so as to jingle. thih-chhiū, a sort of palm (Caryota).

palm-lâng, a man who can stand much fatigue and hunger and all sorts of weather; a daring dangerous man, fond of fighting, not afraid of mandarin's or of Heaven's justice. thih-kut-á-si<sup>n</sup>, short and strongly set, as man. tâng-sin thih-kut, not afraid of cold or being struck or beaten; said also in scolding, you must be very hold indeed to venture here. chiáh-thih chiáh-tâng, to live by hold, bad, wicked means. chiáh-tâng chiáh-thih, id. thih kòng-thih (iron heat iron), diamond cut diamond; about equal in power, cunning, or 'cuteness. thúi kòng-thih, id. thih-khí, doggedly refusing to admit one's fault, and telling manifest lies about it (v. khí). tsám-teng tsòeh-thih, resolute and determined, listening to no advice or entreaty to the contrary. sim ná<sup>n</sup>-thih-phah, cruel and pitiless, like wrought-iron.

ná<sup>n</sup> thih-tháng, as strong as an iron bucket, said of a strongly-huilt house secure against robbers, or of a strong fort or city.

thih [R. tí, slow, dilatory]. thoa-thih, going on very slowly, as a piece of work; to make wearisome delays while all the time doing something; much involved and slow to get right, as an affair; tedious and lingering, as a disease. gâu-thoa-thih, always making slow work of it.

thih — thih-thih, extremely weak and quite prostrated with severe illness. pi<sup>n</sup> kàu thih-thih, id. pi<sup>n</sup>-khi-thih, id. thih-thih--khi, to pass away in death quite gently and without pain.

thih (cf. gih, khih). sán-thih-thih, extremely lean.

thih (cf. tih). chhìn-thih-thih, very cold, as things.

thih (cf. tih, ngh, khih). thih-thih-kiò, to stammer or stutter. thih-thih-kóng, to stammer (naturally). thih--ê, a stutterer or stammerer. thih-thih-háu, to stammer or stutter (naturally); also (said in scolding), talking on very fast, or very fond of talking.

thim (cf. tim). im-thim, crafty and designing; keeping one's plans secret for some had purpose. im-thim-tók, crafty and malicious; plotting mischief and disseminating deeply.

thim, to strike gently and lightly with the fist on the upper part of the head, more gently than "pâu" or "pau." thim thâu-khak, id.

thim (cf. tim, tám), to nod; to pitch, as a vessel dipping her bows in the waves. thim-thâu, to nod the head, as when much pleased, or in giving permission. thâu bô-thim, not to nod the head.

thim-éng, to dip into the waves, as a boat when pitching.

thim (An.), = A. thiām, to throw into the sea or into the water. thim-hái, id.

thim [R. chim? to pour out gently; careful], to pour out gently in small quantity from a spout, as tea, liquor, &c. lim-thim, drinking and pouring, as intoxicating liquor (v. lim).

thim-tê, to pour out tea. thim-chiú, to pour a small quantity of spirituous liquor. thim-íú, to pour oil.

thim (T. thín, tín), to make of equal weight, as the two loads on the end of a pole; equal or nearly equal in size at both ends, as a beam; to arrange the betrothal, as of one's daughter. m-thim, not corresponding well, e.g. as fine and tattered clothes worn at once.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thim, so similar as to make a good pair, as things; agreeing well together, as the several articles of a suit of clothes; betrothed; engaged to be married. m-sa<sup>n</sup>-thim, not corresponding well, as good and had clothes worn at once. chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-thim, betrothed; fixed to be married, as two persons. ke-piáu sa<sup>n</sup>-thim, marriage between persons already related by affinity (hut never of same surname). kap hit--ê sa<sup>n</sup>-thim, very like, as two things that make a good pair; betrothed to that person.

thim bé-lâng, betrothed to so-and-so. thim--i, to betroth or engage her (e.g. one's daughter) to him. sa<sup>n</sup>-ún-thim, to arrange the betrothal of son or daughter. thim-tiá<sup>n</sup>-tióh, fully settled, as betrothal.

sù-thim, well arranged, as several things that agree well together; well proportioned, as one's face, or as the component parts of a thing; all arranged very suitably, as a marriage. si-thim, id.

in-thim, suiting each other exactly in form, as things or persons; making an exact pair, as things set opposite; well proportioned, as features of face, esp. of woman; said also of other things, e.g. of the projecting houses on each side of the central house, well proportioned to it and equal to each other. sa<sup>n</sup>-in-thim, id., especially making a good pair, as things of same size and shape; or suiting well together, as the several articles of a suit

脫
鐵鐵

鐵

訛

斟

遲

of clothes. thâu-bé sa<sup>n</sup>-in-thîn, the two ends well proportioned, e.g. of a good stick of timber.

thîn-pi<sup>n</sup>, to make the beam of a balance level by equal weights; to make the loads at the two ends of a pole equal in weight. thîn kàu-pi<sup>n</sup>, id. thîn-tâng, to make the loads at the two ends of a pole equal or about equal. thîn-thâu, id.

挑

thio [R. thiau, to carry on a pole; to raise up gently, as with a pin; to stir or open up; to stir up or instigate; to select; to sew or embroider; a spoon;= col. thiáu, thiô], to lift or turn up gently, as with a needle or pin or point of finger; to embroider finely; the up-stroke in writing Chinese characters.

thio--chhut-lâi, to pick out, as with a pin or needle, e.g. a thorn or splinter from one's flesh. thio--khi-lâi, raise it up a little, as with point of finger or needle, &c.

teng-thio, a small implement like a spoon for trimming the wick of a lamp. thio-hé, to raise up the lamp-wick a little. thio teng-hé, id.

thio-bêng, to write a supplementary agreement on a document, e.g. about money advanced on a lease.

thio-hoe, to embroider finely. thio-hoe chhia-h-siù, to embroider in general.

poan-thio, to raise up evil reports against a man so as to set people at variance.

chit-thio, an up-stroke in the writing of the Chinese character.

thio-chhiú, the 64th radical (the hand), as written at the side; so called because one of the strokes is tilted up. thio-tsâi, id., so called because similar to the character "tsâi," ability. thio-tsâi-pêng, id. thio-thé, the 32d radical, as written at the side. thio-jiók-pêng, the 130th radical, as written at the side.

thio [R. thê, the head, = col. thâu]. chhut-thio, to project, as bricks or tiles from a wall, or as ends of stones in a wall left as small steps.

thiô [R. thiau, to carry on a pole; to select;= col. thio, thiáu]. chhin-thiô, to select in person. chhin-thiô--ê, chosen by one's self, as persons or things; selected and bought by one's self, as things; obtained by merit in examination and not by influence or money, as a degree. chhin-chhiú thiô--ê, chosen or bought by one's self; made by one's own hands, as cakes, sweetmeats, &c.

頭挑

thiô [R. tê, to throw; to leap into;= col. tâu, tiô], (T.)= A. tiô, to hop; to bounce; to spring up. thiô-kha-khò, to hop. thiô-kha-chhék, id.

thiô-kha-koe (A.), to hop.

thiô [R. thê, the head, = col. thâu], (Cn.), = A. thê, thâu, but only in a few phrases.

chhut-thiô, = A. chhut-thio, to project, as in a building.

û-hêng-thiô, = A. û-hêng-thâu, having good-looking clothes to wear. chit-hù hêng-thiô, whole dress good-looking. û-hêng-thiô, hó-hêng-tsió (r.), having nice dress, it is pleasant to walk about.

thiô (R. thiàu), to sell grain, pulse, or potatoes. thiô-bí, to sell rice. thiô-tiáh, to sell and buy grain, &c. thiô-chhut tiáh-jip, id. tsòe bí-thiô, to open or keep a rice-shop where rice in husk (chhek), bought from many places, is separated from the husk and sold in the form of cleaned rice, "bí."

thiô, = phiò. thiô-péh, = phiò-péh, to bleach.

thio<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thiu<sup>n</sup>, in the several tones.

thio<sup>k</sup> [R. domestic animals, = col. thek, chhiu<sup>n</sup>, thâu]. liók-thio<sup>k</sup>, the six domestic animals. soa<sup>n</sup>-

投頭

糶

畜

khâm iá-siù liók-thio<sup>k</sup>, beasts and birds, wild and tame.

giét-thio<sup>k</sup>, you vile mischievous brute! (said in scolding a boy or girl for something extremely bad, esp. impurity).

thio<sup>k</sup> (R. id.) chek-thio<sup>k</sup>, to accumulate gradually. thio<sup>k</sup>-chek (r.), id.

thio<sup>k</sup> (C. esp. P.), = A. thek, to scold, &c.

thióng [R. a reptile; an insect;= col. thàng, làng]. chhu-thióng, small worms that breed in sour or rotting things; also, sort of worms in the bowels, smaller than "bùn-thàng."

thióng [R. tiông, the bowels, = col. tóg, chhiàng]. liông-thióng (T.), a sort of soft marine animal.

thióng [R. a grave; a tomb]. thióng-soa<sup>n</sup>, a burying-ground, usually on hills. thióng-tòe, id. gī-thióng, a public burying-ground. ké-thióng, an ancient burying-ground. siu-thióng, to repair the graves in a burying-ground.

thióng [R. grace; kindness; favour; affection; to show special love and favour, as to a concubine]. un-thióng (R.), very special imperial favour and affection, esp. towards members of the harem.

thióng-ài (R.), to be immoderately fond of, as of a concubine. khi-chhe thióng-chhiap, to divorce one's wife and advance a concubine to her place, which is a serious crime.

tek-thióng, to get into a man's special favour or affections (by partiality or favouritism), as a concubine or eunuch, or low servant, so that the favourite's advice and desires are followed, instead of what is right. tek-thióng ê-lâng, a low favourite who has got a man's affections.

thióng [R. thòng, pain; grieved; distressed; miserable; to feel for; to love;= col. thàng]. thióng-hùn, to hate exceedingly; to detest or regret bitterly.

thióng-ím, drinking a great deal of intoxicating liquor (v. ím), (this phrase is by some placed under the following word).

thióng [R. joyous; joy; to delight; pleasure], (C. thiang, which often has a bad meaning).

thióng-lók, pleasure; to be merry; delighted; generally has rather a bad meaning, or is capable of it. lók-thióng, fond of low and bad pleasures; leading an idle or fast life. lí teh lók-thióng, you are treating this as a joke or as a small matter, while it is really of very great consequence.

thióng-khoài, pleased and happy, as in some amusement with friends, or at some success, e.g. getting an affair to come straight without trouble. thióng-siá, a young man or lad who amuses himself instead of working or studying diligently.

tâng-gûn bóe tsoá-hia, siang-lâng thióng, to buy paper boots with brass dollars pleases both parties, each supposing he has cheated the other.

thióng-ím (see previous word).

thit, to sport with in a lascivious way; to commit lasciviousness with.

thit-thô (C. chhit-thô), to play; to amuse one's self; to take amusement; to take a pleasure excursion; to make sport with; often used in a bad sense, to have illicit intercourse with. poáh thit-thô, to play a game of chance for amusement, without money or very little. chiáh thit-thô, to eat sweetmeats and such dainties instead of solid food. chiáh--liáu thit-thô, to do nothing but eat and amuse one's self. thit-thô hiên-koán, to amuse one's self with musical instru-

蓄虫

塚

寵

痛

暢

ments. thit-thô tsa-bé, to commit fornication. hó-thit-thô, pleasant for amusement, as a place or road; pleasant to play at, or to amuse one's self with. sió-lê hó-thit-thô, the small road is good for amusement (said in the rites of "khan-bông" in coaxing the spirits of the dead to come up).

thit-thô-kha, a young fellow fond of low, licentious, and vicious pleasures. thit-thô-sien, a man who has nothing to do but to amuse himself. thit-thô-lâng, a man fond of low or licentious pleasures; a prostitute. thit-thô ê-chiáu, fancy birds, as singing birds, &c.

thit i-ê-thô, to amuse one's self along with another who stands all the expenses.

thit tsa-bé, to commit fornication. thit-piáu, id. poáh chiáh thit, gambling, opium-smoking, and lewdness. chiáh poáh thit, id.

thit (C.) chéng-thit, = A. chéng-thek, to adorn; to ornament.

thit (C.), = A. thek, by imperial command, &c.

thit, to make straight; to straighten. thit-khi-tit, make it straight, as a thing, or as an affair. thit-bôe-tit, cannot be made straight, as a crooked thing; the dispute, quarrel, or affair cannot be made straight or set right. ún-ku thit-bôe-tit (a hunchback can't be straightened), a matter far wrong at first cannot be put straight; a natural disposition crooked and crabbed cannot be eradicated; his affairs are never straight.

thiu — ki-ki-thiu, to cry, as a ghost, or as a child constantly crying for things.

thiu (R. id., = col. chhiu), to draw out, as a lot, as an arrow, as wire or silk; to take off a percentage or commission; a syphon; to draw off by a syphon. thiu-chhut, to pull out, as a long thing from among others; to select or extract.

thiu-liām, to take a passage from a book at random for the scholar to recite. thiu-peng, to take a certain proportion of soldiers for some special purpose.

thiu-chhiam, to draw out divining lots. thiu-khau, to draw lots.

thiu-thâu, to take a small percentage; brokerage. thiu-hun, to take off a percentage for commission; commission for transacting some business; much more than "thiu-thâu." thàn-thiu-hun, to earn money for commission or agency. thiu tiông-gún, to take off commission or brokerage for selling goods.

jī-pat thiu, taking a commission of 20 per cent. thiu káu-poeh, to take off 2 per cent. commission. thiu khòng-ngē, to take 5 per cent. tsáp-hūn thiu chit-hūn, to take 10 per cent. it-kiú thiu, id.

thiu-hiòng, to collect duties or customs.

thiu-sin tò-khì, to betake one's self home, as in fear. thiu-sin tsáu-tò-khì, id. thiu-sin thè-âu, to draw back, as through fear. thiu-tò-túg, to retreat in good order, as army. thiu-thè, id.; also to draw back from what one had promised to do, on finding it inconvenient or dangerous. gâu-thiu-thè, fond of drawing back from promises. thiu-thiu thè-thè, in the habit of drawing back and not fulfilling promises.

thiu tâng-soà<sup>n</sup>, to make brass or copper wire. thiu tâng-si, to make very thin do. thiu-si, to unwind silk from cocoons.

thiu-thâng, to teach a new servant or apprentice how to do his work. thiu ka-lé, to move puppets by pulling the strings. oàn-kiú thiu chih-kun, said of a man who formerly concealed his guilt making confession before a mandarin, or letting out the truth by his transparent lies (lit. the avenging ghost pulls his tongue).

thiu-thiá<sup>n</sup>, sharp shooting pains.

thiu-tsáng, to pull out hairs from a bunch of hair to make a false queue. phòà-pak thiu-tâng, to rip up the belly and pull out the bowels, a punishment in the Buddhist hell.

sán thiu-thiu, very thin, tall, and slender, as a man.

tsúi-thiu, a pump for water. e-thiu, a long thin bamboo suspending the bucket of a well-sweep. chiú-thiu, a syphon for spirituous liquor.

thiu-chiú, to draw off spirituous liquor by a syphon.

khan-thiu, a broad edging or border about an inch broad, made by sewing a separate piece of cloth on a dress. khan-thiu-liáu, the strip of cloth thus sewed on. pún-thiu, the two long strong timbers of the deck, at the sides of the hatches, which run the whole length of the junk from stem to stern.

thiú [R. the second double hour, 1-3 A.M.; one of the cyclical characters, answering to the ox as its symbol; persons born in a year that has this character are dull or foolish; = col. thiú<sup>n</sup>], the clown in a play; he wears an ornamental dress. thiú-kioh, id. tsng-thiú, to act the part of the clown.

thiú<sup>n</sup> (R. thiú), a cyclical and horary character; the second in the cycle of 12. thiú<sup>n</sup>-si, 1-3 A.M.

thng (R. thong), soup; broth; gravy; also (esp. Cn. but also A.) warm water. thng-si, a soup-spoon. thng-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a warm spring.

thng-thâu, various medicinal infusions or decoctions. ũ-thng-thâu, to be mixed properly, as medicines. bô-thng-thâu, mixed improperly, as medicines selected by lot before an idol.

iòh-thng, a medicinal decoction or infusion. tê-thng, any warm infusion (or decoction?). ám-thng, thin rice gruel. lê-thng, sort of brine used as sauce. sù-kó-thng, infusion of four sorts of dried fruit. ké-thng, soup containing slices of baked flour. chhài-thng, vegetable soup. gũ-bah-thng, beef soup; beef-tea. sio-thng, warm soup; warm water. kún-thng, boiling soup; boiling water.

kún-thng, to make a decoction; to boil into soup. un-thng (esp. Cn., but also A.), to warm water.

thng (R. tông; C. thông), sugar. e-thng, raw sugar; coarse brown sugar. péh-thng, white sugar. kak-thng, loaf sugar. chhih-soa-thng, sugar having the appearance of yellowish sand; brought from Formosa and other places.

peng-thng, sugar-candy. thng-sng, id. kiu<sup>n</sup>-bú-thng, a small solid squarish confection made of sugar and ginger, somewhat like toffee. jūn-thng, sugar worked up into a tough tenacious confection. bêng-thng, a confection of sugar made very clear, usually with hemp-seed on the top. thng-liáu, sweetmeats. thng-ké-á, sweetmeats. bit-chièn thng-kó, sweetmeats used in idolatrous offerings. thng-ké, a sort of large drum-shaped cake of sugar, used at marriages. poeh-kak-thng, an eight-cornered confection used at marriages. soe-kháu-thng, a large cake of sugar used at marriages. sek-kháu-thng, id.

thng-á, small sweet confections. thng-á-séh, an instrument for gambling for confections. séh thng-á, to gamble for confections with the "séh." pún thng-á-teng, to blow bubbles like soap-bubbles with syrup (v. teng).

啾
抽

丑

湯

糖糖

thng - tsúi, molasses; treacle. thng - chheng, sugar and water.

thng-lâu, a conical vessel for refining sugar. thng-siáh, a sort of spoon for syrup. thng-chhiám, a pointed hollow bamboo for taking samples out of sugar baskets (v. chhiám). thng-hâng, a sugar warehouse. thng-phè, premises where sugar is refined; sometimes also including a sugar-mill.

lâu-thng, to refine sugar. oân-thng, to make raw sugar into balls. tò-thng, to pour sugar into a mould to make confections (v. tò).

káu-láng-thng, tsáp-it thâu-ke (eleven owners of nine baskets of sugar), so many men have a share that nothing can be done, as each will have his own way.

thng [R. toán, a globular mass; a lump, &c.; = col. thoán, toá<sup>n</sup>, nng], (C. thui<sup>n</sup>).

ka-nng-thng, a whole lump, as of clay. chit-thng-soa<sup>n</sup>, a ball of thread.

thng (C. thui<sup>n</sup>), to buy a thing from a friend, or from some one who happens to have it and lets us get it as a favour, not from a shop or trader; to exchange loads, or get another to carry a load or sedan in our place, as coolies do. thng-lâng-ta<sup>n</sup>, to get another to carry the load instead of us.

goá ká-lí-thng, I should much like to buy it from you (more polite than "bóe"), said to a friend or some one we meet who has something we wish to buy, but not in the way of regular business.

thng (R. thùn), (C. thui<sup>n</sup>), to take off, as clothes, &c.; to shed, as hair or tusks; to take off the hinges, as a door. thng-thng lut-lut, taking off one's own clothes.

thng-bô, to take off one's hat or cap. thng-sa<sup>n</sup>, to take off one's coat. thng sa<sup>n</sup>-á-khè, to take off all one's clothes. thng-khè, to take off one's trowsers. thng-khè-lân, not wearing trowsers, as man; naked below the waist so as to leave one's private parts exposed. thng-pak-theh, naked, or nearly naked (v. theh). thng kng-kng (C. thui<sup>n</sup>-kui<sup>n</sup>-kui<sup>n</sup>), to strip stark naked.

thng-chiah-kha, barefooted. thng-chhiah-kha (r. or Cn. ?), id. thng-bèh, to take off stockings. thng-ôe, to take off shoes. goá ká-lí-thng chháu-ôe, I will give you a feast in honour of your safe return from your journey.

thng-mûg (C. thui<sup>n</sup>-múi<sup>n</sup>), to take a door off its hinges.

thng-mûg (C. thui<sup>n</sup>-mê<sup>n</sup>), to shed hair or feathers (naturally), as bird or dog, &c. thng-gê, to shed its tusks, as elephant.

thng [R. thong, soup; hot water; = col. thng], to scald; to treat with hot water. thng--tióh, scalded. kún-tsúi thng--tióh, scalded by boiling water.

thng-khí, teeth sore from something hot in the mouth.

lêng-tsúi thng-thê (scald a jelly-fish with cold water), to talk ironically or sarcastically of a man's faults.

thng — thng-á (C.), a sort of triangular hand-net.

thng (C. thui<sup>n</sup>), to warm over again, to warm up again, as food (cf. thg). thng-sio, id.

thng, to glaze, as pottery; the glazing on pottery.

thng-kng, to glaze, as pottery. kè-thng, to be glazed. û kè-thng, it is glazed.

lâm-thng, to pour on the glazing material; to glaze. bô-thng, unglazed, as pottery. û-thng, glazed. koà-thng, id.

thng [R. tióng, a staff; a cudgel]. hà-thng, sticks adorned with fringed paper, carried by sons at funeral: for father, made of bamboo; for mother, made of the "khé-lêng" tree. thng-thng (C.), a stick carried by a son at funeral.

sek-thng, the Buddhist key of Hades, used by Bud. priests to frighten demons (it is shaped like a leaf, made of brass with wooden handle). sek-thng-chiam, a hair-pin of similar shape worn by elderly females. chhah sek-thng-chiam, to wear this sort of hair-pin.

thng — soa-thng, a small sort of fish (v. soa).

thng (C. thui<sup>n</sup>). mng-thng (C. mui<sup>n</sup>-thui<sup>n</sup>), a long thick bar (esp. perpendicular) for barring a Chinese door.

thng [R. toán? a bit; a piece; = col. toá<sup>n</sup>, tng; or should perhaps be divided into two words?], (C. thng, thui<sup>n</sup>, tui<sup>n</sup>).

chhiu-thng (C. chhiu-tui<sup>n</sup>), the stem, trunk, or stump of a tree.

chhiu-thng, the arm from elbow to wrist when the hand has been lost, as by a wound or disease or frost-bite.

kha-thng, the lower part of the leg, from knee to about the ankle, said when the foot is gone, as by disease, shot, or frost; only a leg or a bit of a leg, as when the rest has been devoured by a tiger or lost in battle. sîn chit-ki kha-thng, only a stump of a leg or a bit of a leg remaining (as above).

tho (cf. lo, lu), to peck and suck or gobble up, as a duck. ah teh-tho, the duck feeling in the mud with its bill. ah-bú-chhùi bóng-tho, the duck just feeling about for something, said of making a request or attempt without much expectation of success, but may as well try it.

tho [R. to rise and swell, as waters; to pass bounds], (Cn. the). tsôe-ok tho-thien (r.), iniquity swollen up heaven-high.

tho — koe-thô, a chicken not above the weight of one Chinese pound.

tho — thit-thô, to play; to amuse one's self; to make sport with; to have illicit intercourse with (v. thit). chhit-thô (C.), id.

thô (Cn.) thô-tâu, = A. thê-tâu, ground-nuts (Arachis).

thô [R. tô, steep; precipitous; a syllable much used in Buddhist phrases].

bân-thô-hoe, a sort of Datura with large white trumpet-shaped flowers, it is poisonous and powerfully narcotic, and said to cause madness. lí chiah bân-thô-hoe, surely you are mad! said to a man behaving very absurdly or forgetfully.

thô [R. a peach tree or fruit]. thô-á, a peach. thô-á-chhiu, a peach-tree. thô-á-si<sup>n</sup>, salted peaches. thô-á-pêng, peaches split up, dried, and preserved. thô-á-tsang (C.), a small queue on the side of a child's head.

ti<sup>n</sup>-thô, the common peach. khé-thô, the bitter peach. hut-thô, the walnut. eng-thô, a very large fruit (not a real peach) growing on a small tree (Cerasus pseudo-cerasus?). chhit-chhùn-thô, a peach that grows on a tree only seven inches high. phék-thô, a very large and fine sort of peach. sien-thô, a fabulous peach that bears fruit only once in 3000 years, the fruit of which causes immortality.

mí<sup>n</sup>-thô, imitation peaches made of sweetened flour, used in the worship of idols.

thô-jin, kernels of the bitter peach, used medicinally.

杖

檔段

滔

陀

桃

團

褪

湯

thò - hū, charms made of peach-leaves or branches.

thò-ki, a peach-branch, used much for divination; it has great power over spirits; it is not proper to strike any one with a peach-branch, as it may influence the soul so as to cause madness.

thò-âng, peach colour; colour of peach-blossoms; a bright red. thò-âng-tsoá, bright red paper, such as is used for cards. thò-âng-thiap, a red calling-card.

thò-hoe-bin (face like peach-blossom), said of a young woman whose face looks as if fond of licentious pleasure. thò-hoe-siáu, inclination to lasciviousness in women, said to be strongest about the time when the peach blossoms. toà-thò-hoe, fated to lead a licentious life, as woman, said by fortune-tellers.

thó [R. khó, may or can be]. thái-thó, however —? how — ever —? beh-thái-thó, id. thái-thó òe àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, how can it be so?

thó (R. id.), to demand back; to demand payment; to ask for a thing; to challenge; to bring upon one's self, as calamity or hatred; to earn, as money, or make a living; to fish; to raise water, &c.

thó-siáu, to collect debts. thó-chè, id. thó-chi<sup>n</sup>, to collect money due. chiáh-bah, sim hoa<sup>n</sup>-hí; thó-chi<sup>n</sup>, bin iu-ieu, very happy while eating the meat, but looking very sad when payment is asked for.

thó-chiet, to collect a percentage on a bad debt (v. chiet). thó-bò, to demand or demand back, but get nothing. thó-bò-chi<sup>n</sup>, unable to get back any money.

tui-thó (r.), to demand back very urgently. thó-tò-túg, to demand back again, as money or things lent, or as property mortgaged or leased. tù-teh-thó, insisting on payment, and refusing to go till it be paid. ká-lâng-thó, to demand or ask urgently from a man.

pek-thó, to demand payment urgently; to dun for payment. chhui-thó, id., but not quite so strong as "pek."

bò-thang-thó, no way of getting repayment. kêng sí tsáu, bò-thang-thó, from the very poor, the dead, and the runaway, no payment can be got. bò-tè thang-thó, there is no place where it can be got. thó-mia<sup>n</sup>, to demand the death of the murderer, as the ghost of a murdered man does.

thó jin - chêng, to ask for a favour or kindness for another, as a man who has some influence or some claim on the person asked. thó-siú<sup>n</sup>, to ask for a reward in addition to the regular wages or pay. thó-thi<sup>n</sup>, to ask for more. thó-hün, to ask for a situation or for permission to join in some business, work, service, or employment. thó kià-kha, to ask to be allowed to stay and work for board and lodging, but no pay.

thó-kha khít-lê kiá<sup>n</sup>, to have had all the walking in vain. bò-chhái-kang, thó kha-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

thó-thàn, to earn money. thó-chiáh, to seek for food, as a beggar, or as a wild beast, or as a hungry ghost. thó-chháu, to gather grass or shrubs for fuel. chhut-jit, thó hē-lâi-niú<sup>n</sup> (C.), in fine weather prepare food for rainy weather.

thó-bí, to take rice out of the jar, as for cooking. òe-sng bōe-tú; thó-bí, oá<sup>n</sup> han-tsú, said of a very foolish man (as rice is much superior to sweet-potatoes).

thó-hái, to fish, as in the sea. thó sió-hái, to catch marine animals at low tide. thó-hí, to fish. thó-tsan, to fish with a hand-net lifted up by the hand.

thó-tsúi, to draw water.

thó-chièn, to challenge to battle. thó-phí<sup>n</sup>, to collect several men and go and beat a man who had beaten us.

thó-sí, to draw death on one's self by one's own conduct. tsú-tsok-giét thó-sí, to draw death on one's self by great wickedness.

thó-lâng, to demand back a man who had been sold or seized or imprisoned, or who has died or been lost while under the other's care, &c. thó-lâng khi ká-i-kóng, to ask some person to go and tell him.

thó tsa-bé, to go after lewd women. thó khè-hia<sup>n</sup>, to seek a paramour, as a bad woman. thó tapè, id. sì-kòe thó--lâng, going about, as a bad woman, enticing men to lewdness.

thò (Cn.), = C. thò. thò-thò, gently sloping, as a road.

thò [R. id.; C. thó; safe, secure]. thò-tòng, safe, as an affair, or as a man safe to deal with (v. tòng). chêng-thò, safe and honest; trustworthy and truthful, as man who keeps his word; safe and correct, as an affair that we may safely engage in.

thò [R. to envelop or inclose; an envelope, wrapper, or outer dress; a loop, as of a rope or river; a snare or plot; of general use or application], a loose outer dress, esp. for keeping the inner dress clean; a cover, as for a pillow; a set, as of songs, or of outer and inner dress; classifier of tricks in boxing, of songs and song-tunes; to rehearse or practise, as one's part in a play, or as evidence to be given; to mend by putting a piece inside and sewing or pasting the edges, as a torn dress, or as a leaf of a book mended by pasting paper inside the double leaf.

chit-thò, a set of two or more articles of dress worn at once on the upper part of the body, e.g. coats, vests, gowns, &c. chit-thò-sa<sup>n</sup>, id. kui-thò, the whole set of such articles of dress worn at once on the upper part of the body.

kún-thò, the arts or tricks of boxing. kúi-ná-thò kún, several tricks in boxing.

khék-thò, a tune for a set of songs (+). chit-thò-khek, a set of two or three songs, so much as is usually sung at a stretch. chit-thò-tsái<sup>n</sup>, id.

thò-khek, to practise songs along with others and with instruments, to see if all be in tune. thò-hì, to rehearse a play. thò kha-pē, to practise steps, as actor, soldier, or sedan-bearer. thò-keng, to rehearse evidence in preparing for a trial. thò khaú-keng, id. thò-pièn, rehearsed all ready.

thò-thâu-òe, polite and customary forms of expression used on meeting and conversing with people, esp. in beginning a conversation or when going to ask a favour. thò-thâu-gú, id. thò-gú, id.; also regular customary phrases used in letters, &c.

pièn-thò-òe, regular conventional phrases used in certain circumstances. pièn-thò-tái, easy simple matters which any one can do. pièn-thò ê tái-chì, id.

kàu-hiah-khek-thò, you are far too polite to me, said by guest or visitor to host (+). put-chí khék-thò, using a great deal of ceremony in intercourse with visitors or guests. ù-khek-thò, using much ceremony with guests.

thò-thiap, dispensing with ceremony and circumlocution, as a visitor, or as in doing business; not standing too much on ceremony; free and easy, esp. as visitors or guests. thò-thiet, id. thiap-thò (r.), id. (+). thò-siók (C.), very free and easy; without much ceremony. thoat-thò (C.), id.

khoân-thò, a snare. thò-bê, to conspire secretly to mislead or injure another.

phah thong-thò, to make a plot or conspiracy

可
討

妥
套

against a man. sa<sup>n</sup>-thong-thò, id. thong-thò-tái (1), small customary observances, sometimes superstitious. thong-thò ê-ôe (1), polite phrases used when people meet.

thò phái<sup>n</sup>-lâng, to engage a bold bad man to assist in some wickedness, e.g. robbery, false lawsuits, &c. thò-chhut phái<sup>n</sup>-lâng, id.

thò--chhut-lâi, to mend by putting a piece inside. thò-sa<sup>n</sup>, to mend clothes by putting the piece inside and sewing down the edges. thò-ôe, to mend the uppers of shoes in this way.

goā-thò, an outer dress, esp. worn as a cover. úg-thò, an outer sleeve worn as a cover to the sleeve or to the cuff. niá<sup>n</sup>-thò, a sort of cape worn round the neck and fastened below the arms; it is so called because it covers the collar of the dress. hiú-thò, a dress worn over a warm wadded dress. iú<sup>n</sup>-ko-thò, an outer dress worn over a sheepskin dress. phàu thò, a long warm robe and the outer dress worn over it. chím-thâu-thò, a pillow-case without ends. chheh-thò, a case or cover for holding several volumes of a book. thiap-thò, sort of case or envelope for cards (+).

joáh-lóeh-thò, the bamboo or rattan wicker-work in the inside of a summer cap which makes it fit firmly on the head.

thō (C.), = Cn. thò. thō-thō, sloping gently, as a road.

thō (Cn.) thō-thien, = A. tho-thien, swelling up to heaven, as guilt.

thō [R. the head, = col. thâu]. kú-thē sam-chhek, iú sín-bêng, lift up your head three feet, and the spirits and gods are there, so beware of acting wickedly.

thō [R. name of a river; the 12th month], a surname.

thō [R. tē, mud; miry; to daub; cf. R. thó; cf. col. tō], earth; mud; clay; soil; mortar; opium; having a dull surface, as a gem.

thē-thē, having a dull bad surface, as a gem of inferior quality.

chhàu-thē, having an unpleasant earthy taste, as water or tea. chhèng thē-khi, affected by the cold damp air of the ground (v. chhèng). thē-kauh (T.), very thick mist.

thē-lâng, a sort of hand-mill for cleaning rice, separating it from the husk (v. lâng).

thē-sai, a mason; a builder. thē-kang, a mason; a bricklayer. thē-tsúi-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, id. thē-tsúi sai-hū, a builder; a mason. thē-bák-sai, masons and carpenters.

thē-soa, sand and clay mixed for building (v. soa). he-thē, mortar made of lime and clay.

thē-thâu, rubbish; clods of earth. báuh thē-thâu, to make an estimate for removing rubbish. thē-thúg, a lump or clod of earth. chhân-thē, the soil of rice-fields. hoan chhân-thē, to work the rice-fields (v. hoan). hái-thē, sea-mud. keh-thē, the hard subsoil just below the mould. thē-bê, mud. thē-siú<sup>n</sup>, soft slushy mud. noā<sup>n</sup>-thē, soft mud; said of a soft submissive temper (v. noā<sup>n</sup>). thē-hún, dust.

oā<sup>n</sup>-thē, clay for making bowls and such pottery. hún-thē, yellow clay used for colouring cards, &c. pút-á-thē, white tenacious clay used for making idols. chhiáh-jin-thē, reddish clay, used for mortar. pèh-siē-thē, chalk. pèh-thē-thē, id.

pèh-hiā-thē, the covered galleries made by white ants. oan-iu<sup>n</sup>-thē, the nests of the insect called “oan-iu<sup>n</sup>.” tsàu-sim-thē, clay from the inside of an old fireplace, used medicinally.

thē-kat, unburned bricks (v. kat). thē-túi, earthenware weights for nets. thē-ji<sup>n</sup>, small, flat, rounded bits of tile for children's play. thē-pút-á, small earthenware figures used as toys.

thē-thoà<sup>n</sup>, coals.

thē-pô-éng, great waves at the mouth of a river; the bore (v. pô).

thē-kha, the floor; an earthen or tiled floor; the surface of the ground, said in relation to sitting, kneeling, lying, &c., on it. kú thē-kha, to kneel on the ground. tó tí thē-kha, lying on the ground. thē-phê, clods of surface-soil (v. phê), (+). thē-bin, the surface-soil. thē-keh, the reddish subsoil (v. keh). thē-tōe, an earthen floor; the natural surface of the ground. thē-tōe, down in the ground; below the surface of the ground, e.g. under the earthen floor.

thē-téh, soft muddy beach at low-tide. thē-phiā<sup>n</sup>, a mud-bank on the sea-shore.

phē-thē, to hold some earth in the flap of one's long dress in order to shake it on the coffin when it has been laid in the grave. thoa-thē, to drag along in the mud (v. thoa). kút-thē, to dig the ground. chhiâu-thē, to mix mortar. chiū i-thē, tsòh i-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, make the articles according to the money he allows.

a-phiēn-thē, opium; crude opium (v. phiēn). ē-hun-thē, id. hun-thē, id. âng-thē, an inferior sort of opium; Turkey opium. pún-tōe-thē, Chinese opium. thē-bah, the good opium in a ball of opium. thē-phê, the skin of opium-balls, made up of leaves, &c.; some opium of inferior quality is got by boiling it down (+). thē-ko, crude opium, as it is taken from the ball. thē-siū<sup>n</sup>, an empty opium-box. thē-kék, a local board for collecting the opium revenue.

thē-sat, the mud-fish. thē-sún, sort of edible worm found in the sea (v. sún). thē-kiu, id. thē-lêng, a sort of eel (v. lêng). thē-thoh, sort of fish (v. thoh). thē-poe (T.), a long-shaped shell-fish (v. poe). thē-kúi (T.), = kàn-á, a small shell-fish (v. kúi).

thē-ún (Cn. tē-ún), the earth-worm. thē-gín (C.), id. thē-phú, = tē-phú, a sort of insect. thē-káu (Cn.), = A. tē-káu, a sort of insect (the mole-cricket ?)

thē-tâu (Cn. thō-tâu), = lók-kha-seng, the earthnut, Arachis. thē-hiū<sup>n</sup>, = hiang-hū, a medicinal plant.

thó [R. earth; ground; land; region; local; cf. col. tō, thē], the element of earth; local; rude or unpolished in manner.

thē-tí-kong, = hok-sín, the god or spirit of the earth and of graves (v. tí). thē-tē-kong (C.), id. thē-sín, id. hē-thē, id. hiō-thē (Cn.), id. hông-thien hē-thē, Imperial Heaven and Empress Earth. sū hē-thē, to make offerings to Thó-tí-kong at a burial. siā-thē, to give thanks to him on the completion of the burial. khi-thē, to begin the work of making a grave, or to begin the funeral procession. an-thē, to set down the coffin for burial; to perform rites to cure a woman or child suffering from the consequences of “tāng-thē.” hoah-thē, to perform rites before building, making, or repairing a house or grave. phoà-thē, to begin repairing a house by breaking the plaster on a lucky day, and placing a bit of yellow paper on the spot, so that the work may go on any day. tāng-thē, to begin building or repairing a house on an unlucky day or without proper rites, so as to cause pains to a pregnant woman or to a new-born child within the first month. hoān-tiòh thē-sín, to have sudden and severe pain in the abdomen, as a pregnant woman,

頭
涂
塗

土

because some article in her bed-room has been moved, or because of the repairing of the house being begun on an unlucky day. thé-soah, hurtful demons that cause injury when a house or grave is begun to be built, made, or repaired on an unlucky day

thé-tōe, a region; a place; a locality. thé-tē (C.), id. tōe-thé, id. tiên-thé, lands in general. pī<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup> không-thé, an extensive plain. toā-phiên-thé, id. au-kài-thé, the vacant ground behind a large house within the retaining wall.

thé-sán, the productions of the ground; the fruits of the earth.

tsúi-thé, the climate of a place. phái<sup>n</sup>-tsúi-thé, unhealthy, as a place. put-hók tsúi-thé, not agreeing with the climate; climate not suiting. chiáh m-tiòh tsúi-thé, injured by the climate.

pī-thé, the state of the stomach and appetite (v. pī).

thé-im, colloquial dialect, vernacular or patois. thé-húi, local robbers, ruffians, banditti, or rebels; not part of any great rebellion. bín-hong thé-siòk, usual customs of a place, including the customary superstitious observances. hong-thé jin-chêng, customs of a place and character of the people. thé-ki<sup>n</sup>-pê, coarse cotton cloth spun and woven in the locality. thé-hoan, local or native foreigners, i.e. aborigines in Chinese territory, e.g. in Formosa. thé-hoan-ah, common sort of duck.

thé-hók, China root (v. hók). thé-ni<sup>n</sup>, a local and inferior sort of the medicine called "ni<sup>n</sup>." thé-sam-chhit, = chhiu-to-iòh, a sort of Sempervivum, or house-leek.

thé-si<sup>n</sup>-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a man born abroad of Chinese father and foreign mother, e.g. of Malay mother at Singapore. thé-se<sup>n</sup>-á (C.), id.; also said in scolding. thé-si<sup>n</sup>-khoán, having a peculiar look, different from ordinary Chinamen; like such a person.

sam-háp-thé, mortar made of lime, clay, and sand. pêh-thé-thê, white chalk. thé-siá<sup>n</sup>, a fort, outer wall, or line of circumvallation, made of unburned bricks or clay. thê-lâu, a very large house of several stories built very strong like a fort, generally round or square, surrounding a courtyard.

kui-thé, to die. iám-thé, to cover up with earth. thé-kong, men who dig the grave, put the body in the coffin, and bury it (+).

thé-thé, very clownish. chin-thé, id. thé-kong, vulgar; clownish; unpolished and unlettered (+). hoan-kong-thé, rude, vulgar, ill-bred, and unpolite; very ignorant of what should be done in a matter, but yet acting and giving orders as if he knew it all, so that it is almost impossible to manage an affair properly along with him. chhit-thé poeh-thé, very vulgar or clownish. thé-sông, vulgar; clownish. thé-lê, id. thé-khì, id. thé-pù, rich, but ignorant and rude.

thé-bin, the rabble; clownish. thé sai-hū, an ignorant clumsy workman. thé-siá, a village that has no good literary men.

thé-siū<sup>n</sup>, I venture to think.

thé-hô, a colloquial name of person or place, when it is not merely a colloquial variation of the reading sound, but totally different from the polite or literary name.

kim bók súi, hê<sup>n</sup> thé, the five elements, metal, wood, water, fire, and earth.

thio-thé, the 32d radical as written at the side. chhiá-thé, id.

thé (C. tháu). thé-khùi, to sigh. thé-khùi pún-hài<sup>n</sup>, to sigh and groan bitterly.

thé (cf. thóng, thê), to protrude (also, esp. C., = thóng, exceeding, and somewhat more).

thé-eh, to belch.

thé-chih, to protrude the tongue (v. chih). thé-f<sup>n</sup>, to begin to bud. thé-lúi, blind with the ball of the eye protruding enormously.

khah-thé (esp. C.), = khah-thóng-thâu, and a little more, said at the end of the clause. chit-pah khah-thé, rather more than a hundred. chit-pêh thé (C.), = A. chit-pah thóng, rather more than a hundred. chit-pêh thé-thâu (C.), id.

thê (R. id.), a rabbit. soa<sup>n</sup>-thê, id. thê-á-teng, a rabbit-shaped lantern. thê-á-bé (rabbits' tails), said in joke of rods fringed with cut paper, carried by mourners at funeral. thê-á-chháu, a plant with a milky juice, much used for feeding rabbits.

siū<sup>n</sup> thê, born in one of the years of which the rabbit is the sign, that is a year which has the word "báu" in its cyclical name.

thê [R. name of a plant]. thê-si, a medicinal plant (v. si), (s. vomit).

thê [R. id.; cf. col. thé], to vomit; to disgorge; to speak out, as the whole truth. thê-chhut, id. thê--chhut-lái, id. thê-lê, to vomit in considerable quantity, or over and over; to make a thoroughly full statement of the whole facts. thê-lê--chhut-lái, id.

áu-thê, to vomit. làu-thê, purging and vomiting; cholera. ài-thê, having a tendency to vomit from some special cause; sick and squeamish.

thê-huih, to vomit or bring up blood; to spit blood. thê-si, to spin silk from the mouth, as silkworm (s. plant).

thê-chhut chin-chêng, to tell out the exact truth; to say just what one thinks, or the very facts of the case.

ū thun-thê, knowing just what and when to say, or not to say, as from policy or politeness. ôe-hiáu thun-thê, id. kóng-ôe ū-thun-thê, to speak with caution, e.g. in a dispute, saying just so much as circumstances make suitable and no more; to take care not to wound another's feelings, as by alluding to unpleasant circumstances. kóng-ôe bô-thun-thê, to talk on thoughtlessly without considering whether what we say damages matters, or without considering that we are hurting people's feelings, e.g. using a proverb about a step-mother (âu-bú) when one is present. thun-thê phū-tim, understanding well to say just enough and no more, as in managing a matter, knowing when to be firm and when to yield; adapting one's self to the circumstances, esp. as to power or want of power, and avoiding any expression that would tend to prevent success. poà<sup>n</sup>-thun poà<sup>n</sup>-thê, telling only half one's mind. poàn-thun poàn-thê, id.

thê-bák, prominent eyes. bák-chiu thê-thê, the eyes prominent.

thê [R. sù, to bestow; to give], (Cn.), = A. hê, to give; to cause; sign of the passive in many phrases. thê-i-phah, to be struck by him.

thê (Cn.), = A. thê, to decline.

thê (Cn.), = A. thê, small pimples.

thê (Cn.), in some phrases = thêe, = A. thêe, in place of; instead of.

thê (Cn.), = A. thê, to recede; to retire.

thoa (R. tho, = col. thoah), to drag; to pull; to draw along; to procrastinate; to be chronic, as disease; to be in constant sickness or pain.

兔

菟吐

賜

吐

拖

thoa-thoa, dull and heavy looking in manner, as a child (opp. léng-li), or as a woman.

thoa-kang, to procrastinate intentionally. gâu-thoa, fond of procrastinating; always putting off. thoa-khiám, delaying too long to pay a debt. thoa-bé, to procrastinate. thoa-bé-chhi<sup>n</sup>, a comet. thoa-thih, making slow work of it; very tedious (v. thih).

ná<sup>n</sup>-thoa, ná<sup>n</sup> siong-tiông, getting worse and worse, as a sick person. ùn-á-thoa, getting gradually worse, as illness; growing gradually more wicked.

thoa-boâ, to toil; to labour very hard. thoa-sin boâ-miá<sup>n</sup>, to exert one's strength very much, e.g. to the danger of health. thoa-sin thoa-miá<sup>n</sup>, id. thoa-miá<sup>n</sup>, to hazard one's health by toiling very hard at some special work, when quite unfit for such hard work. thoa-miá<sup>n</sup> khi pân-sū, to manage a difficult affair at the risk of one's health or life from over exertion. thoa-pi<sup>n</sup> tsòe-kang, to work when quite too unwell for it (v. pi<sup>n</sup>).

thoa-lui, to involve another man, as in debt or some dangerous affair. thoa-thui, involv'ing in trouble, or causing impediments, as family (v. thui). khan-thoa, to accuse falsely of some fault or crime. sa<sup>n</sup>-khan sa<sup>n</sup>-thoa, to draw along each other by the hands. in-in tâu-tin chit-toâ-thoa, said of a long and intricate story with no clue.

thoa-puih, to urge strongly to go along with us, as a friend (v. puih).

thoa-keng, to draw a bow for exercise, as if the arrow were in it.

thoa-tsui, to damp by drawing gently along the surface of water, as gold-leaf or very thin paper. thoa-thê, to drag along in the mud, as the end of one's queue, or as part of a dress which one is carrying. pak-tê thoa-thê, belly dragging along on the ground, as fat pig.

thoa-phia<sup>n</sup>, to drag itself along painfully, esp. on one side, as a wounded animal (v. phia<sup>n</sup>).

thoa-tit, to pull straight, as a coverlet, or as one's clothes. thoa-pi<sup>n</sup>, to pull straight and even, as a coverlet. thoa-poáh, to overset by pulling, as a child. thoa-poáh-lòh-khi, id. thoa--tó, to overset by pulling, as things. thoa-ka-láuh, to make a thing fall down by pulling.

thoa-moá<sup>n</sup>, to wear coarse ropes made of raw hemp bark tied round the waist at funeral (v. moá<sup>n</sup>). thoa tek-poe, to carry bamboo staves or fasces before a mandarin.

thoa-thèng, to be dragged along with the foot entangled in the stirrup. thoa-tèng (C.), id. thoa-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to drag anchor. thoa-tsún, to pull along a small boat, as one man or two. thoa-chhia, to draw a carriage or cart. thoa-pê, to harrow.

thoa-chioh (C.), the low horizontal piece of wood in a plough, the end of which bears the ploughshare.

pit-bé thoa--tióh, some dirt got on the point of the pen so that it makes a blot in writing.

káu thoa, may dogs drag and tear you! káu-kā khi-thoa, may dogs worry and drag you! khi-kui thoa--khi, to be dragged away by demons or ghosts.

thoa-ôe, to walk with the heels of our shoes turned down. thoa-ê (C.), id.

chhién-thoa, slippers made without heels. ê-thoa (C.), id.

toâ-thoa, a large sedan-chair holding several persons, carried by three or four bearers. thoa-tóe-kiō, a sedan made so as to let the feet rest inside, or on a sliding bottom.

oan-iu<sup>n</sup> thoa ka-tsoáh, said of a child carrying a burden quite beyond its strength. chháu-soh thoa án-kong, chháu-soh thoa án-pê, unfilial conduct towards one's father causes unfilial conduct by one's son.

thoa, a down-stroke sloping down from left to right. chit-thoa, id.

pit thoa--khi, to draw the pen along so as to make a down-stroke towards the right. thoa siu<sup>n</sup>-tng, to make this sort of stroke too long.

thoà [R. thài, great and prosperous]. tiò-thoà, Tiông-thài or Chang-tai Hien, one of the Hien districts of Chang-chew.

thoã [R. thài, to wash; to rinse clean], to rinse; to wash a second time. sóe-thoã, to wash and rinse. ùn-á-thoã, to rinse gradually. thoã-liáu koh-thoã, to rinse again after rinsing. thoã-sa<sup>n</sup>, to rinse clothes. thoã-bi, to rinse rice a second time.

thoã [R. tō, to lead; to guide; = col. chhoã; cf. col. toã?], to learn bit by bit by looking on, or with slight hints, without any regular instruction, as persons hanging on about a school when others are being taught, or by looking on, and perhaps helping a little at some work, e.g. as cook's assistant. ùn-á-thoã, to learn gradually in such a way. thoã kàu-ôe, to pick up knowledge or skill gradually in that way till able to do the thing. kap hák-seng thoã, to learn gradually from the scholars, as person hanging on about the school, or as younger child taught by an older scholar somewhat as a monitor. thoã tsú-chiáh, to learn cooking without regular instruction, as another servant looking on, or as cook's assistant.

hē-i-thoã, to learn from him by example, good or bad. khi-i-thoã, id. hē-i-thoã kàu-ôe, to learn gradually from him till quite able. hē-i-thoã kàu-phái<sup>n</sup>, gradually imitate his wickedness till quite bad.

in-thoã, to lead another to follow and imitate us, or to go to some place with us, either good or bad, but usually bad. khi--i in-thoã, to be led into bad courses by him.

thoã--lâng tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>, to lead others into evil by example and companionship. ná<sup>n</sup>-thoã ná<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, following him deeper and deeper in wickedness.

thoã [R. tsāi, a reptile without feet; a fabulous animal; sometimes read "tí"].

thâng-thoã, insects and reptiles of all sorts.

thoã [R. than, rapids], rapids in a river. chiū<sup>n</sup>-thoã, to ascend the rapids. lòh-thoã, to descend the rapids.

hái-thoã<sup>n</sup> (r.), soft muddy place left by the tide at low water.

thoã [R. than, to spread out, as for sale; to share or divide, as dividends or instalments; a sort of gambling], to divide into equal or proportionate parts, as expenses.

ùn-á-thoã, to pay a debt gradually by instalments. thoa<sup>n</sup>-hêng, to pay a percentage, e.g. as in general average. thoa<sup>n</sup>-chió-khi, to pay only a percentage, as a bankrupt, &c.

tò-thoã<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tò-thoã<sup>n</sup>, to pay less than was promised.

thoã<sup>n</sup>-siàu, to allocate the expenses in equal proportions among partners. thoa<sup>n</sup>-chi, to take up so much money from each, e.g. for some festival or celebration. thoa<sup>n</sup>-tsui, to have to pay a percentage for jettison by general average. chiàu-thoã<sup>n</sup>, to divide expenses according to the stake or share that each has.

泰
汰
導

豸
灘
攤

kong-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to divide expenses proportionally and justly. pi<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to allocate the very same amount of expenses to each.

mi<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of gambling (esp. by Cantonese), in which the cash are laid in several groups. pâl-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to set out this sort of gambling.

thoá<sup>n</sup>, to offer less than the offer that had previously been made and accepted, or less wages than the man had been usually receiving; to give less than we had promised. thoá<sup>n</sup>--i, to offer him such a smaller sum. thoá<sup>n</sup> i-ê-chí<sup>n</sup>, id. thoá<sup>n</sup>--i khah-chió, to offer him less than we had offered and he had accepted. thoá<sup>n</sup>--lí pah-poeh, I now offer you 180 (e.g. cash), being less than the wages you had before.

tò-thoá<sup>n</sup> (C. tò-thoá<sup>n</sup>), to lose more or less of one's skill or knowledge; to go back instead of making progress in learning or ability; to offer less than the offer that had been made and accepted.

thoá<sup>n</sup> — hãm-thoá<sup>n</sup>, = hãm-thoá<sup>n</sup>, the place where the foot of the mast is fixed.

thoá<sup>n</sup>, to uproot or cut away about the roots with a hoe, as small plants. thũ-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to hoe up or cut up, as weeds, grass, &c., on the hills or fields. thoá<sup>n</sup> hiet-kák, to cut up, or cut away with a hoe, and throw away, as weeds.

thoá<sup>n</sup>-pi<sup>n</sup>, to level slightly and smooth down the surface of a piece of ground, filling up slight depressions with its own earth.

thoá<sup>n</sup>-chháu, to cut up or hoe up grass and small shrubs, as in gathering them for fuel. thoá<sup>n</sup> chháu-á, id. thoá<sup>n</sup> chháu-kun, to hoe or cut up grass, &c., by the roots, as for fuel. thoá<sup>n</sup> chháu-phiá<sup>n</sup>, to tear up turf for fuel.

thoá<sup>n</sup> [R. thàn, charcoal; coal]. hé-thoá<sup>n</sup>, charcoal. hé-thoá<sup>n</sup>-bê, broken down charcoal. thoá<sup>n</sup>-bê, id. hé-thoá<sup>n</sup>-láng, a charcoal-basket. ài-ti hé-thoá<sup>n</sup>-láng, said of a man fond of being flattered and made of importance. sio hé-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to make charcoal.

têng-thoá<sup>n</sup>, good hard charcoal, such as is bought in the shops. phà<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup>, very soft charcoal, not bought from the shops (sometimes bought from distillers), but simply half-burned wood from a fireplace, extinguished by covering up, and kept for use.

thê-thoá<sup>n</sup>, coals. thê-thoá<sup>n</sup>-bê, broken down coals or cinders. mûi<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup> (R.), coals. bôe-thoá<sup>n</sup> (r.), id. lâm-thoá<sup>n</sup>, coals from the south, e.g. Swatow, &c.

thoá<sup>n</sup> [R. thoat, to escape; to get free; = col. thoah]. thoá<sup>n</sup>-kê, the strands of a rope or of a plaited queue opening out of themselves.

thoá<sup>n</sup>, to spread, as ink on paper, or as a sore or cutaneous disease on the body. thoá<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup>, spreading thus, or gradually shading into each other, as colours that have no marked line of separation. tit-tit-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to spread more and more (as above). thoá<sup>n</sup>--khi, to spread, as ink on bad paper, or as when pasting paper, or as ink that was rubbed down the day before. thoá<sup>n</sup>-lái thoá<sup>n</sup>-khi, to spread more and more on the body, as a cutaneous disease or a sore.

thoá<sup>n</sup>-khui, to blot, as ink of itself, or as pencil writing further than was intended. ji thoá<sup>n</sup>-kha, the stroke made longer than was intended in writing a word. thoá<sup>n</sup>-kha, id.; said also of spots or stripes on an animal when the colours gradually shade away into each other.

thoá<sup>n</sup> khah-ông, to spread still more, as a cutaneous disease on the body; to spread and grow very luxuriantly, as grass or shrubs; to increase greatly, as population.

si<sup>n</sup>-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to spread, multiply, and increase, as a family or race. thoá<sup>n</sup>-nng, to spawn or produce eggs in great abundance, as fish or insects.

pêh-thoá<sup>n</sup>, diphtheria.

thoah (R. that), an otter. hái-thoah, id. tsúi-thoah, id.

thoah-niá<sup>n</sup>, a collar for the neck made of otter's skin.

thoah (C. theh). thoah-se, the sole. thoah-se-hí, id.

thoah — cheh-thoah (r.), = tsau-that, to waste, abuse, or use lavishly.

tsóh-thoah (Cn.), to waste or spend lavishly; to abuse in using, as money or things. tsóh-thoah-mng (Cn.), to waste things. tsóh-thoah-kang (Cn.), to spend labour or time wastefully.

thoah — siũ boá-thoah, to pass through much experience of the world, especially hard experience, by being thrown on one's own resources. keng-kê boá-thoah, id. kham--tit boá-thoah, able to rough it and bear toil, as a strong man; strong and fit to stand rough usage, as cloth, or as an implement or article of furniture, &c.

thoah, to wash, as rice, by rubbing it between the hands with little water. thoah-bí, to rub rice between the hands with a little water, so as to clean it (this is the first washing of rice; the second is "thoá"). thoah--liáu tióh-thoá, after washing the rice by rubbing it should be rinsed.

thoah ko-á-hún (T.), to rub with the hands rice flour mixed with sugar, for making a sort of cakes. thoah-ko-á (T.), those cakes.

thoah [R. thoat, to escape; to get free; = col. thoá<sup>n</sup>; perhaps some phrases belong to the following word]. ũ-tháu-thoah, knowing when to be firm and when to yield, e.g. splitting the difference of price. bô-tháu-thoah, unyielding and obstinate; doggedly keeping to what one has said at first.

ôe-thoah--tit, the difficulty can be avoided, or the matter can be shelved, e.g. can avoid paying the money, or doing the unpleasant or inconvenient thing asked. thoah-tit-kê, able to get out of the difficulty; to pass the time of ague without the usual ague fit; to avoid or get safely through a danger, difficulty, serious trouble, or severe sickness that had seemed hopeless.

thoah [R. tho, to drag or draw along; to procrastinate; = col. thoah; cf. also the preceding and following words].

thoah--kê-khi, to put off, as a payment when it falls due. chit-jit thoah-kê chit-jit, to put off day after day, as payment of money due, or as something that we ought to do; day after day getting no better, as sickness. bóng-thoah bóng-kê, getting on with difficulty, as a poor man barely able to make his way; or as a sick man who does not call a doctor, but just bears his sickness as well as he can.

kap-i-thoah, to make difficulties or delays so as to avoid doing or paying what he asks, esp. by false excuses. khít-i-thoah, to fail in the attempt to collect expenses, or to recover a debt from him at the due time.

thoah [same as previous word?], a drawer; to draw along, as a drawer or sliding door or window.

thoah-thang, sort of squinting (v. thang).

thoah-khui, to pull open, as a drawer. kha

檀

炭

脫

懶
脫
踴

脫

拖

thoah-khui, to open one's legs wider. kha thoah-khui teh-khiā, standing with one foot out from the other. toh-kha thoah-khui, pull out the movable leg of a table. kha thoah-khah-khui, open your legs wider.

thoah--chhut-lâi, to draw out, as a drawer, or as the sliding lid of a box. tò-thoah--chhut-lâi, to open a drawer from the inside, as a secret drawer.

thoah-lin, the knob or round handle of a drawer. thoah-leng, id.

mng-thoah, a sliding door. thang-á-thoah, a window shutter that is drawn along horizontally.

àm-thoah, a secret drawer. toh-thoah, a drawer in a table. toh-kùi-thoah, a drawer in a sort of small table. tû-thoah, a drawer in a clothes-press or standing cupboard. bin-chhng-thoah, a drawer in a bed.

thoàn [R. toàn, to transmit; to hand down; to propagate; to deliver a message; = col. chhoàn; and by change of tone, "toàn," historical records], to transmit; to hand down, as doctrine by teaching or by preaching; to summon, as a man who is not apprehended like the common people, e.g. a graduate or the head man of a town; (Cn. sometimes "toàn").

sióng-thoàn, to transmit one to another, as trade secrets or ancestral wisdom. sióng-thoàn--ê, handed down from former generations, as medical art or as trade secrets. sè-tâi sióng-thoàn, id. lêk-tâi sióng-thoàn, handed down from generation to generation. sa"-thoàn, to transmit one to another, as news or as customs, &c.

liú-thoàn, to hand down, as a tradition or custom, from age to age; tradition or old custom. ûi-thoàn (R.), tradition handed down from ancestors. tsé-thoàn, handed down from ancestors, as a property or as a trade secret. pi-thoàn, secrets handed down from one generation to another, as in some arts, manufactures, &c.

thoàn-sû, to continue the line of male posterity. thoàn-chéng, to have descendants; to leave male posterity. thoàn-ûi, to transmit the throne to the successor.

thoàn-ôe, to translate language verbally, as interpreter before a mandarin. thoàn-keng (C. chhoàn-kiong), an interpreter in a yamun.

thoàn-lêng, to deliver or make known a military order given by his superior officer, as a smaller officer or soldier. thoàn-sút (R.), to deliver a message. thoàn-lô, to give information by beating a gong.

thoàn-toa<sup>n</sup>, to send out notices, as to members of an association (v. toa<sup>n</sup>). hông-gân thoàn-su, the bird called "hông-gân" can carry letters afar. thoàn-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to enter a complaint at a yamun on a day which is not one of the usual days. thoàn-tôe (R.), to hand along through several hands, as letter or essay (v. tôe).

thoàn hē-lâng-tsai, to make known to people, as news, regulations, &c. chit-chhùi thoàn-chit-chih, to spread from mouth to mouth, as a report. thoàn miā<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>, to spread abroad, as a man's good reputation. thoàn-miā<sup>n</sup> seh-sia<sup>n</sup>, to make a man's bad reputation widely known. thoàn-bún--lâi (r.), learned only from others.

thoàn-kàu, to teach, propagate, transmit, or proclaim doctrine committed to us. thoàn kàu —, to transmit to —. thoàn tō-lí, to transmit, proclaim, teach, or preach doctrine. thoàn-tō, id.; also (X.), a preacher. thoàn-pê (R.), to proclaim or spread abroad, as doctrine.

thoàn [R. toàn, a globular mass; a lump; globular; united; harmonious; to surround; to inclose; = col. toā<sup>n</sup>, thng, nng].

thoàn-thoàn-i<sup>n</sup>, = toàn-toàn-i<sup>n</sup>, unbroken, as a family none of whom has died. thoàn-oân (R.), id. (v. oân).

phê-thoàn, a sort of round cushion for kneeling on (v. phê). pat-thoàn, a circular flowered pattern often worked on silk. pat-thoàn-khø, id. pat-thoàn-khø ê bé-koà, a jacket made of flowered silk with this pattern.

thoàn-thoàn ûi-tsū, surrounding in a circle, as a crowd, or as police or besiegers (v. ûi).

thoàn-liên, a method of organizing the people of the several districts of a town, so as to guard against disturbances (v. liên).

thoàn [R. to work by melting or heating in the fire, to practise, experienced], to purify in the fire, as gold; to prepare by gradual heating in the fire, as medicine. kè-thoàn, to be purified in the fire, as gold; not said of silver, which is "kheng." thoàn-liên (r.), to try or purify with fire, as gold. kè-thoàn-liên, to be thoroughly experienced in a matter.

thoàn soan-lê, to polish an incense vessel of fine brass by heating it and rubbing very bright.

thoàn (R. toàn). thoàn-jī, the seal character, generally used on seals, also much used in ornamental inscriptions cut on stone and in title-pages of books. téng-lê-thoàn, a form of the seal character in which each word has three long legs like a tripod (v. téng). chin chhó, thoàn lê, four usual forms of Chinese characters.

hiong-ien thoàn-chhut pêng-an jī, the smoke of incense forming the shape of the words "pêng-an" (peace and quiet), a good omen.

thoat (R. id., = col. thoah). thoat-li, to escape; to escape from; to get off. thoat li-li, to escape thoroughly; to escape far away. thoat-li-khi-hng, id. thoat-bôe-li, unable to get off. thoat-sin-li, to get out of the way, so as to avoid imminent danger. thoat-sin, to escape; to get off or get free. thoat-sin-tsáu, id. thoat-tsáu, to escape or run away, either rightly or wrongly. tsáu-thoat, to escape and get safe off. thoat-tó, to run away; to abscond. tô-thoat, id.

hoat-thoat, to sell off speedily at a sacrifice, as when selling off stock, or as some contraband article; to escape secretly; to help another to escape. khít--i hoat-thoat, to have your man escape from you, whom you thought you were sure of catching and holding.

mêh<sup>n</sup> thoat, the pulse gone, as of a dying man.

thoat-siók, different from other people (v. siók).

thoat-hoân, not to be absorbed in the world's affairs; to die, as a Bud. priest. thoat-hoà, easy-minded, not anxious about adverse circumstances; cheerful in temper, not particular about ceremony. sá-thoat, having a kindly, friendly, sociable manner; pleasant to have business dealings with; pleasant as an acquaintance. thiau-thoat (R.), easy-minded, not anxious about danger or trouble. chhiau-thoat, easy and unconstrained in manner; not particular about ceremony; not anxious or troubled about affairs; also (R.) to rescue souls from the Buddhist hell, so that they are again born into the world.

thoat-thò (C.), = A. thiet-thò, dispensing with ceremony, circumlocution, &c.; free and easy in intercourse.

thoe [R. tho, to draw; to drag; to procrastinate; = col. thoa, thoah].

團

鍛煅

篆

脫

拖

傳

oe-thoe kè-jit, to do almost no work while drawing full wages.

釵

thoe (R. chhai), (C. the: Cn. thõe), a hair-pin shaped somewhat like a spoon, used by women. thâu-thoe, id. kim-thoe, a gold or gilt hair-pin. gèk-thoe (C. giòk-the), a hair-pin made of jade-stone.

thõe (Cn.), = khau, to plane. thõe-to = khau-to, a plane.

體

thõe (C.), = A. thê. thõe-á, small boils.

thõe [R. thê, body; form; mauner; appearance; = col. thái], (C. thê).

tsa-bé-thõe, a feminine manner in a man. bú-hêng-thõe, id. lâm-jín lú-thõe, a man with a feminine look and manner. lâm-jín lú-thõe; m̄-sí, gē lín niū<sup>n</sup>-lõe (or "in niū<sup>n</sup>-lõe"), poor feminine looking fellow, though you don't die you disappoint your mother's hopes (or "he disappoints his," &c.)

thõe-thak, to joke and jeer at a man's faults or defects (v. thak). keng-thõe, to give a nickname from a man's personal appearance; to jeer at a man, or talk sarcastically about his looks; to talk scandal about a man's conduct, generally behind his back. keng-thõe phì-siū<sup>n</sup> (C. keng-thé phé-siē<sup>n</sup>), to talk ill of a man behind his back, about his conduct or his personal appearance, esp. about his niggardly ways.

替

thõe [R. thê, to change; to put in the place of; to substitute; to abolish; instead of; for; in place of; = col. thui], (C. thê; Cn. thõe, sometimes thõ), in place of; instead of; for; to take the place of; to be substitute for.

téng-thõe, to be in place of; taking the place of. téng-thõe i-ê-kheh, to fill the vacancy left by him.

thõe-oā<sup>n</sup>, to change for another person, as in doing work or taking duty (v. oā<sup>n</sup>). thõe-pê, to make up a deficiency for another. thõe-i-pê, to make up the deficiency for him. thõe-lâng siók-tsõe, to make satisfaction or atonement for another's guilt. thõe-lâng-sí, to die for a man.

thõe--i khó-lín, to have compassion on him; to pity him.

sa<sup>n</sup>-pái-thõe, to do work or keep watch by turns, while the others rest; to relieve guard by turns, &c.

thõe-sin, a paper image of a man, having his name and nativity written on it, used as a substitute for the man in certain rites, e.g. in Taoist rites for keeping away disease and calamity, or in black arts for causing evil.

kiò kau-thõe, the ghost of a drowned man or suicide causing a man to be drowned, or tempting a man to kill himself, so that the ghost may get back again to life, which it cannot do till some one thus takes its place. liáh kau-thõe, to succeed in causing a man's death by suicide or drowning, as such a ghost. tsúi-kúi kiò-kau-thõe, the ghost of a drowned man doing so, esp. after three years.

退
蛻

thõe [R. thõe, thui, to retire; to recede; = col. thê]. tsoā-thõe, the cast-off skin of a serpent, used medicinally. siên-thõe, the shell of the cicada (am-pé-chê, R. siên), used medicinally.

tsai chin-thõe, understanding what to do and what not to do in special circumstances (v. chin). thõe-pī, = thê-pī, to keep at a respectful distance (v. pī). thõe-pī<sup>n</sup> pī--i, to get out of the way so as to avoid him, e.g. a mandarin. lím-tin thõe-siok, to draw back when it comes to be dangerous (v. siok).

thõe [R. lūi, lazy; indolent; sickly]. thõe-thõe

(C.), = A. thê-thê, dull of apprehension; foolish-looking, wanting in animation, as man.

提

thõeh (C. thêh: A. thêh, thõeh; Cn. thõeh), to take up with one hand, as a small thing, at least not a large thing. thõeh--khí-lái, to lift up, as a small thing. thõeh--khi, to take away in one hand, as a small thing. thõeh--lái, to bring in one hand, as a small thing.

thau-thõeh, to steal, as a small thing that can be taken in the hand (for the phrases used for stealing other things, v. thau).

thõeh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to accept earnest-money.

ôe-thõeh, a small bit of cloth at the heel of a shoe for pulling it on, as on the shoes of women, children, and soldiers. kak-thõeh (Cn.), a horn shoe-lifter.

thõeh (Cn. kõe).

keng-thâu thõeh-thõeh, the shoulders lean and high, as naturally so, or from opium-smoking, &c. kek thõeh-keng, to shrug the shoulders.

thoh (cf. thuh).

thê-thoh, a fish like the "bé-ka," but somewhat larger, brought salted from the north.

鮓

thoh — chiú-thoh, a sort of jar with a strop for spirituous liquor. chiú-thoh-á, a smaller sort.

thoh (cf. thuh).

thien-thoh, acting in an absurd way, such as feigning madness or pretending to be drunk, as bad fellows in low company. thien-thien thoh-thoh, talking, walking, or acting in wild, extravagant, absurd, or swaggering way, as if drunk or feigning it; telling incredible yarns or talking absurdly like a drunk man. thien-thoh ê-ôe, such absurd and ridiculous talk. kóng thien-thoh, to talk in that absurd extravagant way.

倒

thoh-thoh (C.), = A. thuh-thuh, foolish; stupid. gōng-thoh (C.), id.

thok [R. thò, to envelop; a cover or wrapper; to mend; to rehearse; = col. thuh], (T. thuh).

套

thok kêng-á-hi, to make a sort of play or show somewhat like a magic-lantern.

thok phõe-ang (C.), another sort.

thok — thok-pit-á, a sort of small bird kept by children.

thok (cf. thuh, tuh).

托

thok koái<sup>n</sup>-á, to lean on a staff or feel the way with it.

thok [R. a bag, = col. lok, lak].

thok bàng-á-hun, to press into long bags the stuff used for burning to drive away mosquitoes, done by pushing it in with a stick.

thok (cf. thuh, thà, tuh, tũh), to pick, as the teeth; to pick out of a hole, as what stops it up; to make a hole or wound, as with the point of a sharp knife.

thok-khí, to pick the teeth. thok chhùi-khí, id.

chhèng-thok, a ramrod. khí-thok, a tooth-pick. phah-khí-thok, to irritate a man intentionally; to stir up his bile.

thok-tiā<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thuh-tiā<sup>n</sup>, to stir up the food frying in a frying-pan.

thok [same as previous word? cf. thuh].

thâu-thok, = thâu-thuh, a sort of two-pronged ornament for a woman's head.

托
託

thok [R. to commission; to intrust; to depend or trust on; to make excuses for declining], to commission; to intrust with, as a message or a piece of business. thok-tiòng, id. iong-thok, id. chiok-thok, id.

pài-thok, to ask courteously to do a commission, as a friend. hù-thok, to intrust to a man's care, as things, or money, or child. thok-kê, to intrust one's own son to a guardian to take care of and educate him when he becomes an orphan. tsoán-thok, to intrust to another a message or business that was intrusted to us. gē-thok, to have one's confidence misplaced; to put mistaken confidence in a man. thok-lâng-khì, to intrust or engage a man to go to give a message or execute some commission for us. thok-kià pán-hè, to commission a man to buy and bring goods for us from a considerable distance.

thok jin-chêng, to ask a man to ask a favour for us from a third party. thok sè-thâu, to engage a man's influence for managing an affair. thok-hok, I enjoy good fortune through your favour, a polite phrase said esp. in answer to "how do you do?"

hē-sin thok-pút, to pray and vow to the spirits and Bud. idols.

thok-bāng, to give instruction by a dream, as the spirit of an idol or of an ancestor. thok-lán-bāng, to give us instruction by a dream. thok i-ê-bāng, to give him instruction by a dream.

thok sū-kê, to make false excuses for not doing what we are asked or told to do; to assign false reasons or pretexts for our desire to do something or to go somewhere. the-sū thok-kê, id. the-thok, to decline taking or executing a commission, and put it off on another, esp. by a false excuse (v. the).

thok [R. to read aloud; to study; = col. thak]. kò-gán put-tsai-thok, able to repeat after reading once. chhong-chiên khùn-khó-thok, to study very diligently at the window (v. chhong).

thong [R. thóng, the whole; to rule; the chief].

thong-kióng, in total.

thong [R. soup; hot water; = col. thng, thng], the ancient emperor Tang or T'ang, the founder of the Shang dynasty. thong hoát-kiét, Tang conquered Kieh.

thong [R. tóng, the sound of a drum]. thong-ké, a sort of drum suspended from the neck. sam-thong-ké, a band of music that plays at the meal-time of a high mandarin; also used at some special rites by the people. toā-sam-thong, id.

thong (R. id.), the sound of drumming. thong-thong, id. thong-thong-thong, id.

thong [R. tong, water; sound of water; or R. tsong, sound of water]. thong-thong-háu, the sound of water.

thong [R. name of a plant; also written with the following character].

thong-chhó, a plant that grows in Formosa, from the pith of which rice-paper and artificial flowers are made, Aralia papyrifera; also, a cooling diuretic medicine (Clematis?). bók-thong, a similar diuretic medicinal plant (Clematis?).

thong [R. to go through; to perceive clearly; to communicate with, as road or person; to have dealings with, esp. underhand or improper; successful, current, to pervade, the whole, complete; = col. thang, thàng], all through, pervious, ingenious; all right, as a plan; the whole of —; all over —; a great beam of a roof. thong, that is good, very good! as a plan. thong-lah, id. m̄-thong, not suitable, as a plan. sim m̄-thong, much perplexed and unable to think out a proper plan. bô-thong, not suitable, as a plan; very dull and unintelligent, as a man who can hardly be made to understand a matter. bōe-thong (r.), not passable, as a road. kà-liáu lóng-bōe-thong, cannot understand though taught long. kà--liáu òe-thong, will become intelligent if taught sufficiently.

thong-khì, causing a thorough draught, as by opening a door or making a good flue; comfortable feeling of body, e.g. after getting a good sneeze, or as by the use of medicines taken like snuff.

thong-koan, to remove a feeling of discomfort (e.g. dyspeptic or bilious feeling) by the use of a medicine taken like snuff. thong-koan-soá<sup>n</sup>, a medicine taken like snuff. thong-koan-sán, id.

thong-koan iá-bē-kê, not having yet read so much as to be able to compose essays or to read books which he has not seen before. kè-thong-koan, to have got the length of being able to compose essays and to read any ordinary book easily. thong-koan kè-liáu, id.

thong-thàu, intelligent; quick of apprehension. thong-tát (r.), to understand thoroughly. thong-thiet, intelligent and acute; understanding thoroughly (v. thiet).

cheng-thong, skilful at some special sort of work or affair. lêng-thong, very acute and discerning; skilful and wise. ù-pièn-thong, ready and able to accommodate one's plans and actions to the circumstances; versatile (+).

sin-thong, the power of a spirit, idol, or other supernatural being, as shown in wonderful changes and miracles. sin-thong kóng-tái, the power of the spirit (or idol, &c.) is very great. sin-thong kóng-toā, id. tién sin-thong, to manifest great supernatural power; said also of a man showing his special ability in some one particular, e.g. his special superiority in some business, art, or handicraft. gâu pièn-sin-thong, versatile; good at adapting one's self (rightly or wrongly), and one's plans, words, or actions to the circumstances. gâu pièn-sièn-thong (T.), id. (+).

heng-thong (R.), to be prosperous.

thong-thi<sup>n</sup>-ê, all under heaven; the whole empire (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). thong-kok, the whole kingdom. thong-koe, the whole street. thong-ke (C.), id. thong-ke, the whole family or household. thong-ke (C.), id. thong-sin, the whole body. thong-si-kòe, everywhere; all around.

thong-poá<sup>n</sup>, all of the same sort; all alike, as goods; but also used generally. thong-poá<sup>n</sup> sī àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, all are alike or of the same sort. thong-thong sī àn-ni<sup>n</sup>, it is constantly so; all of them are so. thong-tông, all alike or unitedly (v. tông).

thong-hêng, universally prevalent or current; the same in all places; used, or can be used everywhere. thong-êng, such as can be used everywhere for common use by several parties, interchangeable. bōe-thong-êng--tit, such as can be used only in particular places. thong-chheng, general title or polite way of addressing people, e.g. chek, pch, toā-ló, &c.

thien-hā thong, an instrument for picking locks.

thong-sū, an interpreter (v. sū). thong-su, an almanac. thong-si (C.), id.

thong-ti, to inform; to give information. thong-siông, to send a despatch to a superior mandarin, as an inferior mandarin does. thong siau-sit, to give information of any sort. thong--chit-ê, to give a secret hint or a piece of secret information. thong-hong, to give secret information; having a draught of air or wind through it; well aired, as a house. thong koan-chiet, to have underhand dealings with officials. thong-koa<sup>n</sup>

讀
統 湯

通

通

to have a personal interview with a mandarin. thong-chhát, to have communication or connection with rebels or robbers. thong-óng, to be on intimate terms with, often with bad or questionable characters; passable, as a road (v. óng). kau-thong, to have intercourse with, as with improper characters, or for improper purpose.

chhoán-thong, to conspire with enemies against one's employer or associate. phah-thong-thò, to plot or intrigue together against a man, &c. (v. thò). thong-bê, to make a plot or conspiracy together (v. bê).

su-thong, to have illicit, traitorous, or lascivious intercourse together. thong-kan, to have lascivious intercourse.

sióng-thong (r), having direct communication, as two rooms or houses by a door or short passage. iú-bú sióng-thong, to have things in common or assist one another with each other's possessions. tsún-chiah sióng-thong, vessels constantly going back and forwards.

thong-hē-kūi, a counter at the door of a shop. thong-lē-kūi, id. thong-siū, putting each hand into the sleeve of the other.

thong-niú<sup>n</sup>, the great beams on which the rafters rest for a flat roof or floor; the great horizontal beam which connects the ends of the sloping beams of a couple for a gable-roof. toā-thong, id. jîn-jī-thong, the tie-beam connecting the ends of the beams of a couple for gable-roof. chiā-thong, the sloping beams of a couple for a gable-roof. hoān<sup>n</sup>-thong, id.

thông (T.), sound of a stone in deep water (cf. col. tom, tòm).

thông [R. the whole; to rule; the chief; = col. thong].

thông-hat, to govern; to rule; to have authority over a region, as a mandarin.

it-thông, the whole, as of a ruler's dominions. tāi-chheng it-thông, the Chinese empire, as governed by the Manchoo or Ta-tsing dynasty.

tē-thông, the Tartar lieutenant-general or major-general at the provincial capital; the next in rank to the Chiong-kun or Tartar general.

thông — tí-thông, to be used as a substitute for another person or thing, generally only temporarily, or as a worse used instead of a better from the pressure of circumstances; e.g. as a worse man put clandestinely in the place of a better; or as a man put in to make up the number though unfit for the work; or as a piece of work that may perhaps just be allowed to pass though quite inferior; or as an article taken in payment of a debt though not really worth so much; or as part payment counted as a full discharge. té-thông (C.), to use temporarily as a substitute though not so good. chhòng-ōe lâi tí-thông, to make excuses or objections either quite false or greatly exaggerated. chhòng chit-ê-sū kap-î tí-thông, to make a false charge to set off against a charge made against us.

thông [same as previous word?]. thé-thông, bodily appearance, deportment, or general character; general form or state of an affair; the special customs, old usages, or superstitions followed on particular occasions, e.g. on boy going to school, &c. i-ê thé-thông, his general character, manner, or deportment. hit-ê thé-thông sī tsái<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, what is the general state of that matter?

tsòe thé-thông, to work at a piece of work just for the appearance, but really doing almost nothing, e.g. just to get the wages or to avoid blame.

thóng (cf. thó), to protrude, used as an affix to numbers, meaning "somewhat more than —."

thóng-chhut, to protrude; to project.

thóng-thâu, to put out the head; to project, as a mast seen far off, or as a house higher than others, or built on higher ground; or as characters written rather higher than the rest so as to look out of line and ugly; or as the end of a stroke in writing projecting beyond the others so as to look ill. khah-thóng-thâu, projecting beyond others, as high house or character out of line.

nng-pah thóng-thâu, rather more than 200, e.g. one or two more. nng-pah thóng, id. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsáp-thóng, one or two more than 30.

tsát thóng-thóng, packed very full and tight; overloaded, as stomach (v. tsát).

thòng [R. pain; grieved; distress; miserable; to feel for; to love; = col. thàng, thòng].

thòng-hūn, to hate exceedingly; to abhor; to hate and loathe, either as one's own wickedness or another man's. thòng-hīn (C.), id. thòng-sim hūn, to hate with all one's heart, as one's personal enemies.

thòng (Cn.) thòng-tī, = A. chhòng-tī, to annoy; to maltreat.

thòng, to pile up in a pile, as hooks, coins, bowls, plates, &c.; a pile of such things.

thòng-chheh, to lay books in a pile, one above another.

chit-thòng-chheh, a pile of books. chit-thòng-chī<sup>n</sup>, a pile of copper cash. chit-thòng-gūn, a pile of dollars laid one above another.

thū (cf. tū, tsū), (Cn. T. thū).

u-thū (Cn. T. ũ-thū), ignorant, thick-headed, and foolish, as in study or business; so dull of apprehension and so doggedly fond of his own way that he cannot be made to learn the right way to act, and so spoils matters. u-u thū-thū, id.

gū-thū, = gū-tū, stupidly dogged and coarse in manner (v. tū).

thū [R. to dig; to hoe; a hoe; = col. tī, tū], (C. thī; Cn. T. thū), to hoe, as ground.

thū-thoá<sup>n</sup>, to cut up, as weeds from the fields, or grass and small plants for fuel from the hills, with the hoe. thū-chháu, to hoe up weeds, grass, or small plants in this way.

thú [R. chhú, a pestle; a sort of stick or baton for beating things]. hàng-mê-thú, a baton for conquering demons, carried by the idol úi-tô.

thú [R. tsú, a bag for clothes; to stuff clothes with cotton; a surname], (C. thī; Cn. thū), a surname.

thuh (cf. thoh).

thê-thuh, = thê-thoh, a good sort of fish, somewhat like the "bé-ka," said to come from Formosa.

thuh [R. thò, to envelop; a cover or wrapper; to mend, as clothes or paper; to rehearse; = col. thok], to mend, as a dress, by putting in a piece below, so that the old remains; to paste on a single thickness of paper, as for the purpose of strengthening a weak place or to mend a tear, or to make a beginning for pasting more thick and strong.

thuh chit-têng, to mend a dress by putting in a piece below (without cutting away the old), and sewing down the edges, so that the new piece does not appear.

thuh tī-piah-nih<sup>n</sup>, to paste an additional thickness of paper on a smaller piece of paper which it is desired to strengthen, and then paste the edges of the new piece on a wall so as to stretch the whole smooth.

統

統

痛

鋤

杵

thuh éng-á (T.), = A. thok keng-á-hì, to make a sort of play or show with a lantern. thuh phō-kâu (T.), another sort of play or show (lit. with the leather monkey).

托 thuh [R. thok, to carry on the palm; to bear up; to prop up, as with a support or prop, or with the hand; to lift up and hold up high to show it, as on the hand or on a pole.

thuh--khí-lâi, to support by a prop, e.g. to support an awning by a stick or bamboo.

thuh-koái<sup>1</sup>, to hold up high, as on the hand or on a pole, e.g. a tiger's body, or the head of a slain enemy. thuh hē-lâng-khoá<sup>2</sup>, to lift up high to exhibit it. hē-siū<sup>3</sup> thuh-poah, a Buddhist priest supporting a tambourine or cymbal on a bamboo pole resting on his head or palm, &c.

thuh koái<sup>1</sup>-á, to lean upon a staff. thuh chhiú-bé, to try each other's strength by pressing against one another's palms. thuh-chhiú, to lean on the hand, as the head; to support with the hand. chhiú thuh-leh, support or ward off with the hand. chhiú thuh-thâu-khak, the head bent to the side, and the upper part of the head resting on the hand. thuh chhùi-ē-táu, to support the chin on the hand.

托 thuh [same as previous word? cf. col. tuh], to feel the way with a stick.

thuh (cf. tuh), to give secret information of a man's faults, esp. to his employer or superior.

tng-bim thuh--i, to tell a man's faults openly to his face before others.

thuh lāng--ê thâu-lē, to tell a man's faults so as to make him lose his situation.

thuh (cf. thok, túh, thak), to make a hole larger, as with the point of a knife in carving wood; to smooth away anything rough from a surface with the point of a knife, &c.; to pick, as the teeth; to loosen or dig up dirt, as with a hoe.

thuh-khí, to pick the teeth. thuh thē-kha, to loosen and remove dirt on the floor.

thuh-tiá<sup>4</sup>, to stir up things frying in a frying-pan.

thuh-á, a sort of straight hoe or spade. chhēng-thuh, a ramrod.

托 thuh (= thok, same as previous word?).

thâu - thuh, = thâu-thok, a two-pronged ornament for a woman's head. kō-thuh (Cn.), = A. kē-á, the hair ornament worn by women.

thuh (C. thoh).

thuh-thuh, naturally stupid-looking and wanting in animation; very dull, quiet, and reserved in manner, not seeming to understand or take any interest in what we say. thuh-thuh ná<sup>5</sup> hau-lām, looking as dull and spiritless as a man in deepest mourning for his parents.

gōng thuh-thuh, wanting in ability.

thui (R. the), a ladder.

lâu-thui, a ladder. lâu-thui-chí, the steps of a ladder. ōe-lōh lâu-thui, there is a way open to set the matter straight without too much sacrifice of one's dignity.

tó-thui, a fixed wooden stair with broad flat steps, as distinguished from a mere ladder.

to-thui, a ladder of swords. chiū<sup>6</sup> to-thui, to climb a ladder of swords, as Taoist sorcerers. tek-thui, a bamboo-ladder. soh-á-thui, a rope-ladder. tiâu-thui, a hanging-ladder, as at a hatchway or gang-way. hún-thui, scaling-ladders. giā-kang-thui, a ladder made of one longitudinal piece of timber only, with the steps nailed across it and projecting on each side (like the feet of a centipede). siak-thāng-thui, a small instrument just like a ladder, inside the tub used for threshing grain, on which the heads of the grain are struck in that mode of threshing.

ná<sup>7</sup> thi<sup>8</sup>-thui--nih<sup>9</sup>, like a ladder to the sky, said of something extremely high. ná<sup>7</sup> teh-peh thi<sup>8</sup>-thui, like climbing a ladder to the sky (said of some extremely difficult matter).

thui [R. chhui, thui, to push away; to push from one; to decline; to shirk responsibility; to make excuses: to resign; to calculate; to infer; = col. the; perhaps should be divided into two words], to rub with a long and gentle movement, as for the removal of pain or disease, either simply with the hand, or with some medicinal preparation, or as in shampooing; to rub plaster smooth with a smooth stone; to varnish a second time so as to make smooth; to get a separate account opened for us at the land-tax office under a new name (hē-thâu-miá<sup>10</sup>), instead of being classed along with others under one name.

thui-kuih, to rub with long and gentle, and with short and hard rubs, as in shampooing.

thui-úi (C.), (R.), = A. chhui-úi, to excuse one's self, esp. by an excuse more or less false.

thúi (R. sūi), the weight of a steelyard. téng-á-thúi, the weight of a small steelyard. chhin-thúi, the weight of an ordinary moderate-sized steelyard. niū<sup>11</sup>-thúi, the weight of a large steelyard.

liú-seng-thúi, a sort of weapon used in ancient warfare (v. seung).

thúi [R. a metallic hammer]. thih-thúi, an iron hammer. thih-thúi boá chiá<sup>12</sup>-chiam, said of a poor man overcoming great difficulties and getting rich. lē-tháu, ta<sup>13</sup> teng-sim; lē-bé, ta<sup>13</sup> thih-thúi, appearing easy at first, but very difficult at last, as a heavy burden on a long road, or as an affair that becomes troublesome and dangerous.

teng-á-thúi, a hammer for small nails.

thúi [R. a pestle; a wooden mallet, club, or thick stick], a pestle; a stick for beating a drum or gong, &c.; a strong, thick, wooden stick for beating with; a long club; a strong, round, wooden lever.

chióh-thúi, a stone pestle. lúi-thúi, a pestle for a mortar. ná<sup>14</sup> lúi-thúi, as bare as a pestle, said of the shaven head of a Bud. priest (+). khū-á-thúi, a sort of pestle for a mortar. cheng-khū-thúi, a pestle for a large rice-mortar worked by the hand.

gég-thúi, a sort of pestle for a hand-mortar; a roller for dough. phah chit-thúi (C.), to roll out the dough once into a flat cake, as in preparing for making macaroni.

chhā-thúi, a wooden pestle, beetle, or heavy stick for beating things. in-chiú<sup>15</sup>-thúi, a beetle for beating clothes in washing. lōng-thúi, a thick stick for beating indigo in the vat. he-thúi, a stick for mixing mortar. khút-thúi, a stick for stirring paste.

ké-thúi, a drum-stick. lō-thúi, a stick for beating a gong. lō-á-thúi, do. for small gong. cheng-thúi, stick for striking a bell or a bossed gong. khók-thúi, stick for beating the "khók" used by watchmen like a rattle. pók-piang-thúi, the stick used for beating the string of the bow used in beating cotton.

tú-thúi, a pole for supporting a man's burden while he takes a rest. khg-á-thúi, a short, round, thick carrying-pole.

kim-kòng-thúi (T. kim-koē-bōng), a sort of mace

推

錘

鎚

槌

梯

carried before mandarins, Kujin graduates, and some idols: also, an ancient instrument of war.

bák-thúi, a very large, round, thick stick of China ink.

kha-bák-thúi, a short, round, thick, heavy stick for beating the ankles in punishment or in examination in court.

chê-bi-thúi, a strong heavy club about a man's height (lit. level with eyebrows). chhit-chhih-thúi, a sort of club or heavy pole, seven feet long, for use in war or for keeping off robbers. tng-jī-thúi, a club or strong pole, twelve feet long.

òh-thúi, to learn the exercise with the long pole or club. kà-thúi, to teach it. thúi-á sai-hū, a man who teaches it. hē sí-thúi, to strike very violent or murderous blows, as with a club or with the hand; to attack violently by plots, or intrigues, or by accusation in court.

kong-kùn-thúi, a man far too sharp to be swindled or imposed upon, often with the meaning that he cheats others. hē-siū<sup>n</sup>-thúi, said in joke of a Bud. priest in allusion to his shaven head (+).

thúi (cf. thut, thút), having the point become blunted by use, as a fine brush or hair-pencil. thúi-thúi, id.

thúi (R. id.), the thigh. kha-thúi, id. téng-thúi, id. ē-thúi, the lower leg. toā-thúi, the thick fleshy part of the thigh. thúi-lún, the thigh-joint. thúi-thâu, the buttocks; the hips. thúi-thâu-bah, the flesh at the buttocks. thúi-thâu-lông, a large boil at that place.

lok-thúi, thigh full of deep sores (v. lok). phoán-thúi, sitting with the legs drawn up under the body (v. phoán).

chiáh i--ê thúi-sin-bah, wasting his capital by living upon it.

khê-thúi, leggings (v. khè).

chêng-thúi, the fore-quarter or fore-leg of an animal, as cut up; e.g. a shoulder of mutton. âu-thúi, the hind-quarter or hind-leg of an animal, as cut up. ien-thúi, a bacon ham. hé-thúi, id. gū-á-thúi, a leg of veal. si-thúi, the four quarters of an animal, as of pig, sheep, goat, cow, or fowl, when cut up. lòh tsòe si-thúi, cut up into the four quarters, as quadruped. tsám tsòe si-thúi, do., as a fowl.

thúi [R. thè, to change; to put in place of; to substitute; to abolish; instead of; in place of; = col. thòe], to change, as its feathers or leaves; to repair by putting in an entirely new piece at the old joining; to substitute one thing for another, especially clandestinely put a worse in place of a better.

thúi-mng, to moult and get new feathers, as a bird. thúi-mê<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. thúi-hiòh, to change the leaves, as a tree or shrub.

pé-thúi, to repair by taking out the whole of a bad piece by the original seam or joining, and put in an entirely new piece. thúi-tóe, to renew a vessel's bottom. thúi-ng, to put in a new sleeve.

thúi-ōā<sup>n</sup>, to cheat by substituting a worse thing for a better that had been promised; to give an uglier or worse girl as bride instead of the better one who was agreed on; to take the place of a student, and write for him at the examinations; to put in a new piece by the old seam, so that no patching is seen, and it is about as good as new, e.g. a new leg on a table, or a whole new piece in a dress.

sa<sup>n</sup>-thúi, to change deceitfully and fraudulently, as person or thing. thau-thúi, secretly put a bad article or person in place of a good one. khít--lâng thau-thúi, to be cheated thus. khít--lâng thúi--khi, id. phái<sup>n</sup> thúi-hó, bad fraudulently put in place of good. sái thúi-pau, to swindle by giving a bad or worse article in place of the good one that was agreed on, e.g. worse than the sample; to show a false bridegroom or bride much better or better-looking than the one who afterwards is really married.

thúi [R. tui, to fall down; to hang down heavily], to hang down heavily, as a pocket with a weight in it. thúi-thúi, hanging heavily, as a weighted pocket or bag, &c.

thúi-tang, heavily weighted and hanging down, as a pocket; to fasten a weight on a curtain so that it may hang down evenly.

lūi-thúi, causing obstruction or impediment, as a heavy weight about one's dress, or as family or business keeping one from going far from home [or does this phrase belong to the next word?].

thúi [R. lūi, to involve in trouble or responsibility]. thoa-thúi, causing impediment, as troublesome business or numerous family. khít--i thoa-thúi, to be involved in trouble by him, e.g. by a relative or by a man for whom we have stood security.

thām-thúi, to be very awkward and embarrassing, as an ill-arranged or bulky load inconvenient to carry; cumbersome and embarrassing, e.g. having pockets full of bulky or heavy things; to be deeply involved, as by owing debts to many persons, or by having to fulfil obligations for persons for whom we have stood security. khít--i thām-thúi, to have a debt owed us by him which he cannot pay, so that we are much inconvenienced. si-kòe thām-thúi--lâng, to be deep in debt to a number of persons. bé-kiá<sup>n</sup> thām-thúi, getting deeper and deeper in debt from unavoidable expense of wife and family.

thúi<sup>n</sup> [R. thóan, to transmit; to hand down; to propagate], (C.), to hand down from generation to generation (only said in some few phrases).

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thng, a roundish lump, as of earth. chít-thúi<sup>n</sup>-thê, a lump or clod of earth.

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thng, to take off, as clothes, or as hair, &c.

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thng, to exchange, as loads; to buy (as a favour) from a friend or neighbour.

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. thng, to warm up again, as food.

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.) mūi<sup>n</sup>-thúi<sup>n</sup>, = A. mng-thng, a great bar right across a door, either upright or transverse.

thúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = tui<sup>n</sup>, thng, said of a portion of a leg, arm, &c. (only used in some phrases: in others "tūi<sup>n</sup>" and "thng" are used).

thun (R. id.), to swallow; to swallow up, as another's property; a nest of pottery or frying-pans, that fit into each other.

ka-nng-thun, a whole nest (usually five) of smaller and larger articles of the same shape, so that all the smaller lie inside the largest, as some kinds of pottery, and as frying-pans or rice-boilers. chít-thun, one such nest of larger and smaller articles one within another.

ka-nng-thun, to swallow whole. pa-lun-thun, to bolt one's food. kóng-òe pa-lun-thun, to talk in a very indefinite indistinct manner. thun-lòh-khi, to swallow down. thun-lòh-âu, id. thun-bòe-lòh, unable to swallow; unpleasant to swallow; unable to defraud a man as we intended. thun bòe-lòh-âu, id.

墜

累

腿

替

段

吞

thun-chiáh, to devour. hiau-thun, to swallow up another's money or property wrongfully.

thun-noā<sup>n</sup>, to swallow one's spittle (v. noā<sup>n</sup>)
thun-kim, to swallow gold leaf, as a means of suicide.
thun-kim--sí, id.

thun-lún, to bear patiently. thun-sia<sup>n</sup> lún-khì, to repress one's feelings, anger, and voice, as in the presence of a high superior or of a powerful enemy.
lún-khì thun-sia<sup>n</sup>, id. lún-khùi thun-sia<sup>n</sup>, id.
jím-khì thun-seng, id.

ũ-thun-thê, understanding well how much to say and what not to say (v. thê).

椿
thun (R. id.), a tree with large shining pinnate leaves, used medicinally for indigestion; said to live several thousand years (Cedrela Sinensis?) thun-chhiū, id. thun-kun, its root, used medicinally.
thun-gé, its buds, edible.

thun (R. id.?)
un-thun, very dirty; filthy. un-thun-kúi, you filthy imp or wretch! said in scolding.

黚
thùn [R. thun, black].
ien-thùn, soot. thùn-ai (C.), id. tiá<sup>n</sup>-thùn, the soot that gathers on a frying-pan or rice-boiler.
chéng-thùn, to sweep the dirt from the beams, roof, idols, &c., in the 12th moon.

thùn — thùn-thùn, having a dull or indistinct colour; having lost the gloss, or having never had it.

豚
thùn — thùn-bú, a barren woman.
thùn [R. tún, a young pig]. ti-thùn-á, a half-grown pig. káu-thùn-á, a half-grown dog. gū-thùn-á, a young cow. niáu-chhú-thùn, a half-grown rat.

thùn-á (T.), a half-grown or young quadruped in general.

gín-á-thùn, a boy just about reaching manhood, about 14 or 15 (cf. lāng-tùg).

thùn (T. tún).
bú-thùn, short and stout. bú-thùn bú-thùn, id. pūi-thùn, id.

蠢
thùn [R. chhún, stupid]. gū-thùn, = gū-chhún, stupid; foolish.

踐
thùn [R. chién, to tread, = col. thut], (Cn. thùn, tún), to tread or trample on. thùn-táh, id. lām-sám thùn, to tread or trample carelessly.

thùn — ùn-thùn, stupid; dull of comprehension; confused in mind; stupid at business.

thùn [R. tièn, thièn, to fill up; to make up a deficiency; to pay], to fill up, as with earth, mud, sand, rubbish, &c.

thùn-thê, to fill up with earth. thùn--lòh-khì, to empty into a pit or hole, as earth. thùn-pi<sup>n</sup>, to fill up ground till it is level. thùn-tôe, to fill up ground with earth, rubbish, &c.; ground that has been thus filled up; made ground. thùn-hoā<sup>n</sup>, to enlarge a dyke or sea-wall, making it higher or thicker. thùn-chi<sup>n</sup>, to fill up a well.

tit-tit-thùn, to be constantly losing money in a business (lit. to be constantly filling up with earth). tit-tit thùn--lòh-khì, id.

thut (R.), to degrade from office; to lose an office, as mandarin (cf. col. lut).

thut — sa<sup>n</sup>-thut-lê, to miss one another by going different roads.

thut [R. chién, to tread, = col. thùn]. thut-táh (r.), = thùn-táh, to trample on.

thut, to rub hard with the hand, as in washing out a stain, or washing off ingrained dirt, or rubbing between the thumb and fingers, e.g. rubbing off a skin or pellicle; to rub with the foot, as one foot rubbing the other in washing, or as when washing a tub full of potatoes with the feet. thut-lut, id., either with hand or foot. thut-thut, id. êng-chhiú thut, to rub hard with the hand, as in washing out indurated dirt; to rub between finger and thumb, as in taking the skin off ground-nuts. thut-kha, to rub the feet together, as in washing the feet, &c. kha thut-thut, id. thut-kha thut-chhiú, to struggle violently with hands and feet, as child unwilling to be carried.

thut [R. to lose the hair, bald, = col. thut, lut.]
thut-mâg, having lost the hair of his head. thâu-khak thut-thut, head bald.

thut-lú (lit. bald ass), said in scolding a shaven Bud. priest.

thut [R. thut, to lose the hair, bald, = col. lut: cf. col. thúi].

pit thut-bé, the point of the hair-pencil has become blunt, as by use. pit-bé thut-thut, id.

thut (to be dislocated or put out of gear, to have a miscarriage, &c.)

thut--khì, to get dislocated, as a limb; to slip out of the hands, as a thing not firmly held, or as an animal tied too loosely. thut--chhut-khì, to get dislocated; to get out of joint, as joint of machine or of furniture. thut--chhut-lâi, to get out of gear, as a machine; to have a miscarriage. thut--tsáu, to slip out of its place, get out of joint or out of gear, as wheel or machine; to let slip out of our hand, as animal held too loosely; to let a pen or instrument in the hand slip out of place, so as to do harm unintentionally.

phah-thut, to put out of gear or out of its socket by accident; to make a joint in furniture or in a machine start from its place. chí-chui phah-thut, who put it out of gear or out of joint?

táh-thut, to make a false step so as to give one's self a shake or a twist, as by missing a step on a ladder or stair, or as in stepping down on a hill or uneven road to a lower level. kha táh-thut, id.

thut-lún, to dislocate, as a limb. thut tng-thâu, internal piles protruding. thut-sin, to have a miscarriage. thut-the, to cause abortion or to have a miscarriage.

thut (same as previous word?)

thut-kui, having the ridge of the roof in the same line with that of a larger house, but on a lower level; said also of eaves carried out at a lower level with an angular connection at the change of level, a very common arrangement for the broad eaves of temples.

thut-pui, built at the end of a house, in the same line, but with the ridge of the roof lower. thut-pui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

thut-lí, the lining of a dress too full, so that it shows outside at the edges.

thwa, thwà, thwá; better, thoa, thoà, thoá, q.v.
thwa<sup>n</sup>, thwá<sup>n</sup>, thwá<sup>n</sup>, thwá<sup>n</sup>; better, thoa<sup>n</sup>, thoá<sup>n</sup>, thoá<sup>n</sup>, thoá<sup>n</sup>, q.v.

thwáh, better thoa<sup>n</sup>, q.v.

thwán, thwàn; better, thoán, thoàn, q.v.

thwat, better thoat, q.v.

踐

秃

椿

黚

黚

豚

蠢

填

黚

TS.

Ts is hy many written ch; hut the two sounds are quite distinct. The sound of the s however in ts must not be made too strong.

In the lower series of tones, the sound sometimes changes to Dz, especially in Tung-an (T'ang-oa<sup>n</sup>) and Chin-chew.

tsa — tsa-bé, a woman (v. bó).

tsa (C.), = A. ta. tsa-pə, = A. ta-pə, a man (a male).

tsa [R. dregs]. a-tsa, dirty; filthy (lit. or fig.); taking or borrowing things and not returning them.

tsa (R. id.), (C. chē). sien-tsa, a small red crah-apple from the north, used as a preserve, and also in medicine. san-tsa, id.

tsa [R. to investigate], (C. che, chhē), a surname. tsa-mng, to investigate officially. tsa-chhat, do., as messengers of mandarin. tsa-khoà<sup>n</sup>, to investigate, as any one. tsa-khām, to make careful investigation, as mandarin or head-man of place or head of a house. tsa-giām, do., as mandarin. tsa-kiám, to examine a list or inventory, to see if all he there. khe-tsa, to investigate officially and minutely. sūn-tsa, to go about the country making investigation, as mandarin. tsa-sit, to get at the truth by investigation. tsa ũ-tiök-lök, examine and find full evidence.

tsá [R. tsók], early; ancient; former; when said about the time of day or night, it refers to day-light, not to the time measured by hours. tsá-tsá, id., very early. tsá-oà<sup>n</sup>, early and late. tsá-àm, morning and evening. bô-tsá bô-àm, at any or all hours. tsá-àm ôe-lâi, he may be here at any time. tsá-mng ôe-lâi, id. tsá-mng, early or late; morning or evening; before long. tsá-mui<sup>n</sup> (C.), id.

tsá-thâu, very early in the morning. tsá-khí, early in the morning. tsá-khí-thâu, very early in the morning. tsá-khí-png, breakfast. chiáh tsá-khí, to take breakfast. chiáh tsá-tsai, to abstain from animal food at breakfast. chheng-tsá, early in the morning. tsá-tsúi, the morning tide. gâu-tsá, early up! in very good time. pang-tsá, very early in the morning. thâu-tsá, id.

thán-tsá, as early or soon as possible. iáu-tsá, still early; plenty of time yet; before the time. tsá-chiá<sup>n</sup>, soon accomplished. tsá-koá<sup>n</sup>, the winter is early. tsá-joáh, summer early. tsá-sí, may you die soon! tsá-sí tsá-hó, the sooner you die the better! tsá-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a child of very young parents. tsá tek-tsú, will have a son at an early age (said by fortune-tellers). tsá-tang, the early or summer crop of rice, about 5th or 6th moon. tsá-bí, rice of the summer crop. tsá-iú, id., esp. from Formosa.

tsái-tsá, long ago. ké-tsá, ancient; anciently. tsá-chêng, formerly, as some years ago. tsá-chiēn, id. tsá-bē (C.), id. tsá-jit, formerly; on some former day. tsá-ni<sup>n</sup>, in a former year. tsá-hui<sup>n</sup> (C.), yesterday.

tsá-liám-ngá (Cn.), a very short time ago. tsá--kan (Cn.), long ago; early in the morning.

tsà (R. id.), (C. chē), deceitful; feigning. kan-tsà, deceitful; intriguing; treacherous. káu-tsà, id. tsà-gui, very deceitful. tsà-hāng, to make feigned submission, as rebels. lé to, jín pit-tsá, a man too polite is sure to be a hypocrite. bái-bēng tsá-sú, to conceal one's name and pretend to be dead. bái-bēng tsá-sí, id.

tsā (R. tsók). tsā-jit, yesterday. tsā-bē-jit, id. tsā-bē tsá-khí, yesterday morning. tsā-ê tsá-khí, id. tsā-bē-tsái (T.), id. tsā-hng, yesterday evening. tsā-mi<sup>n</sup>, last night. tsā-ē-pə, yesterday afternoon. tsā-jit-tàu, yesterday at noon.

tsā<sup>n</sup>, to put out one's arms, so as to prevent a man from falling, or striking, or escaping; to put out a light, as a sudden gust of wind. tsā--khí, do.; to make a diversion in a conversation, as to prevent a dispute between two others.

tsá<sup>n</sup> [R. tsám, to cut off], to cut off straight and even; to strike with the edge of the hand; also (T.), to cut corn before it is ripe, as for one's own use. tsá--sa<sup>n</sup>, to cut off the end of a coat or dress. tsá<sup>n</sup> chhiu-ńg, to cut a sleeve shorter. tsá<sup>n</sup>-piah, to cut a square hole in plaster of wall, in order to plaster it anew.

ēng chhiú-to tsá<sup>n</sup>, to strike with the edge of the hand. tsá<sup>n</sup>--chit-ē, id. tsá<sup>n</sup> poà<sup>n</sup>-io, to strike at the waist.

poà<sup>n</sup>-tsá<sup>n</sup>, a sword about two feet long, with blade and handle about equal length. lô-hàn-tsá<sup>n</sup>, a dress having the upper and lower parts of different stuffs.

tsá<sup>n</sup> [R. chéng, to set in order]. tsôe-tsá<sup>n</sup>, = tsôe-chéng, neat and even; all in right order, as furniture, teeth, &c.

tsá<sup>n</sup>, to dry in the sun for a short time. tsá<sup>n</sup>-jit, id.

tsá<sup>n</sup>, to scoop out or scoop up, as water, meal, &c. tsá<sup>n</sup>--khí-lâi, id. tsá<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to scoop up water, in larger quantity than "iú." hoái<sup>n</sup>-tsá<sup>n</sup>, to get great gains suddenly.

tsah, to place things about one's person under one's dress, gen. about waist or lower part of dress; (hut in the breast is "kúi"); to pull up, as sleeves or trousers; to tuck up, as curtains; to assist in lifting, holding, or carrying a sedan.

tsah-to, to carry a sword, concealing it under one's dress. tsah-mih<sup>n</sup>, to carry things under one's dress. thau-tsah, to conceal things furtively about one's dress. tsah-kiô, to steady the poles of a (mandarin's) sedan, as his attendants do; to help to lift the sedan, &c.

pih-tsah, to prepare sleeves of dress and legs of trousers for a journey or work. tsah-tsah pih-pih, id. tsah-khè, to pull up trousers by pulling up the waist above the cord that girds one. tsah khè-thâu, id.

kúi-kúi tsah-tsah, to carry some things (or child) in bosom, and other things placed in other parts of dress; to carry in one's dress in general. bô-chhái lâu-bú kúi-kúi tsah-tsah, not worth your mother's toil in nursing you.

tsáh, a portcullis; a hurdle or such thing used as a barrier; to fasten the feet in sort of stocks. tsúi-tsáh, flood-gates; a sluice. tsúi-tsáh-mng, the gate of it. ti-tsáh, a low barrier at mouth of pig-sty. tek-tsáh, a low bamboo barrier (as at a gate, or on a road) to keep cattle, &c., from straying. tng-tsáh, the wooden

渣
查 查

早

詐

昨

斬

整

閘

transverse partition across the central hall of a large house. mŋg-tsáh, a low barrier in a door, to keep domestic animals from straying. mŋg-tsáh-á, a small half door, as a wicket in a shop. poá"-tsáh-mŋg, id. siá"-mŋg-tsáh, a portecullis.

tsáh-i, a folding chair with leather bottom.

tsáh (R. chiét, = col. tsòeh), to cut or chop down small; to screen off; to screen; to hinder; to help, as in a lawsuit. tsáh-tŋg, to cut down small, as medicinal plants. tsáh-chháu, to chop straw small, as in order to mix with lime, &c. chháu-tsáh, a machine for chopping straw. ióh-tsáh, a machine for chopping medicines small. tsáh-to, a knife on a pivot for chopping medicines; also, a fixed knife on a block having its edge up, on which coopers smooth the staves of barrels, &c., in making them.

tsáh-tiáu, to ward off effectually, as by door, shield, &c. &c. tsáh-hong, to screen from the wind. tsáh lâu-tsúi, to put a net across a stream or tidal channel. tsáh-lê, to obstruct the way, as robbers, or as troops. tsáh lāng--ê thâu-lê, to get the start of a man, so as to get the place he was trying for. tsáh lāng--ê ôe-thâu, to interrupt or stop a man who is talking.

jia-tsáh, to screen from view, &c. â"-tsáh, to screen (a party in a quarrel) from danger. noá"-tsáh, to hinder by stretching out one's arms, as in separating combatants.

tsáh-ké, to separate the divisions of an essay.

tsáh, to cook (as a fowl) in a large quantity of melted fat, almost swimming in it, but not so much as "chi".

tsai (R. id.), to transplant; to plant out; young plants for transplanting; also said of some animals. poá"-tsai, to transplant. tsai ké-chí, to plant out fruit-trees. tsai-chêng, to sow or transplant; to plant in general. tsai-pôe, to tend, as plants or children; to bring up and train. chit-jit soá-tsai, sa"-jit khiá-ŋg, a man does not at once get settled well in a new situation.

tsai-hoe oá"-táu, superstitious rites for the cure of barrenness in a woman (v. táu).

hi-tsai, young fish put in a pond to breed. ko-tsai, little chickens kept for breeding. chiá-tsai, young sugar-cane plants. chhài-tsai, young plants of vegetables. hoe-tsai, young flowering plants, as from a nursery.

tsai [R. che, to push over].

tò-thâu-tsai, falling head foremost; said also of things. tò-tsai--lòh-khì, id. thap-thâu-tsai, id.

tsai (R. id.), calamity; troubles; afflictions. tsai-ê, id. tsai-eh, id. tsai-iong, id. tsai-hô (R.), id. tsai-hái, id. tsai-lān, id. tsai-ê lim-sin, calamity come upon (him). siau-tsai kóe-eh, to ward off calamities. siau-tsai kái-eh, id.

tsúi-tsai, calamities by means of water. tsúi-tsai hóe-eh (C.), calamities by water or fire. thien-tsai, Heaven-sent calamities. thien-tsai hêng-hô, Heaven's judgments coming in the form of sore calamities. thien-tê hêng-tsai, id. siū-tsai, to meet with calamity. lêng-hé kau-chièn, ku-pih siū-tsai, when the strong go to war with each other weak neighbours suffer.

tsai (R. ti), (C. tsai), to know, as a fact; to feel; to have a sensation. tsai--kiò, to know. tsai--kioh, id. goá tsai-tsai, I know it very well. thi"--chai, tòe--tsai, Heaven and earth know it is true. lí--tsai, goá--tsai, you and I know it.

tsai-ia, to understand it well; skilful (v. ia). tsai-soah, to know when to stop, when one has enough (v. soah). tsai-iau, to feel hungry. tsai-khé, to feel calamity; to feel miserable. tsai-thiá, to feel pain. khí-thiá, tsai kí-thiá-lāng, a man with toothache can sympathize with another who has it.

m-tsai, not to know; don't know; not having anything to do with the matter. m-tsai-thâu, I beg your pardon; I did it unintentionally. m-tsai thi"-tòe, not able to perceive anything, as in unconsciousness (v. thi). m-tsai-chhi, very soundly asleep. lāng m-tsai, to be insensible, as from a fall or illness; also, men do not know. m-tsai-tŋg, will take no advice, and will not reform (v. tŋg).

tsai [R. to fast more or less; = col. che]. chiáh-tsá-tsai, to abstain from animal food at breakfast only. chiáh-tŋg-tsai, a long course of vegetarianism. tsai-niú, vegetables and condiments used by Buddhist priests and vegetarians.

hoá-tsai, to beg for food, as Buddhist priests. ū-tsai-cheng, to have the rule of entertaining travelling certified priests, as certain endowed monasteries do. tsai-tiú, an official who has charge of paying the rewards at the "Giók-pin" examinations at Amoy. tsai-kài bók-iók, to fast and perform ceremonial ablutions.

tsai — sng-tsái, a mulberry (v. sng).

tsái [R. materials, = col. chhài]. lāng-tsái, bodily appearance. chiá"-lāng-tsái, a fine-looking man. jín-tsái, personal appearance, mien, carriage, and air. jín-tsái chhut-chiòng, tall and very good looking. hó-jín-tsái, id. bô-jín-tsái, producing no talented men, as a place; far from good-looking, as a man. m-chiá" jín-tsái, ugly in appearance, as a man. jín-tsái phí-úi, small and ugly looking (v. úi). soán jín-tsái, to choose men of good ability, or good looking, for situations, or as son-in-law. kéng kiá"-sái-tsái, to choose a man of good ability or good-looking for a son-in-law. bô-koa"-tsái, wanting the dignified manner suitable for a mandarin. m-chiá"-tsái, ugly or out of proportion, as man or thing. sin-tsái súi, graceful and beautiful, as young person. hó-sin-tsái, id. m-chiá" sam-seng-tsái (lit. not fit to be used as a sacrificial offering), he is not fit to be employed on an important matter. thê-poe m-si sam-seng-tsái (T.), said of a man of very small ability.

ióh-tsái, raw materials of medicines.

tsái-chit, natural ability (v. chit); this last phrase is sometimes assigned to the next word.

tsái (R. id.) tsái-tiáu, talent; ability. tsái-chêng, id. hó-tsái-chêng, having good abilities. tsái-lêng, power. hó-tsái, good talents. lái-tsái, well acquainted with the classics, and having intellectual ability. goá-tsái, skill in talking, and politeness, and managing matters, or in poetry, &c. kháu-tsái, eloquence.

tiām-tsái, staid quiet manner. chiét-tsái, clever and skilful. tsái-tsú, a man of ability (s. wealth). hù-kùi tsái-tsú-siū, wealth, honour, talent, posterity, and long life; the five blessings.

sam-tsái, the three powers, heaven, earth, and man. siū-tsái, the lowest grade of graduates, a Sew-tsae or B.A. lê-tsái, a male slave, usually bought or hired for a limited time; an abusive epithet. pák lê-tsái, to hire or buy, as a slave for one's self.

截

齋

栽

材

擠

災

才

知

thio-tsái, the 64th radical as written at the side (v. thio). kiah-tsái, id.

tsái (R. id.), wealth. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsái, id. tsái-lí, id. (v. lí). tsái-pék, id. tsái-pó, treasures of all sorts. chin-tsu tsái-pó, pearls and other precious things. kim-gún tsái-pó, gold, silver, and other precious things.

ka-tsái, household wealth. hoái<sup>n</sup>-tsái, gains got by good luck or very suddenly, generally by somewhat improper means. hoat-tsái, to grow rich. chín-tsái, id. phòà-tsái, to waste one's wealth. phòà-tsái sún-teng, to waste wealth and lose sons, &c. (v. teng). tsái-sè-lék, wealth, influence, and ability (v. lék). chiau-tsái-ông, the god of wealth.

tsái-hù, an account-keeper on shipboard. tsái-tsú, a man of wealth (s. talents). tsái-khì, success in making money. hó-tsái-khì, do., said in good wishes. sa<sup>n</sup>-pūng tsái-khì, to join capital in trade. liên-tsái hé-ki, joint-stock partnership, as in a business firm.

bê-tsái hāi-bēng, to plot for wealth at the expense of life (v. bēng). tsái tōng-jin-sim, money excites desire. jin bū kan-khè-kè, lân-tek sè-kan-tsái, no gains without pains.

tsái — tsái-hông (C.), = A. chhái-hông, a tailor.

tsái [R. chē]. tē-tsái, the navel. pak-tsái, id. tē-tsái-toà, the navel cord. tng-tsái, to cut it on birth of infant. tu-tsái, to try each other's strength by pushing against one another by a wooden bar placed against the body of each near the navel.

cheng-tsái, the hollow of the boss of a gong.

tsái — bák-tsái (C.), = bák-sái, tears.

tsái (C.), = A. tái, dregs, e.g. che-tsái; iū-tsái, = A. che-tái, iū-tái, &c.

tsái, several words, as tsú-tsái, tsái-siōng, &c., sometimes written "tsái," are better "tsái<sup>n</sup>" (q. v.)

tsài (R. id.), again; over again. koh-tsài, id. tsài-koh, id. tēng-tsài (r.), id. tsài-sa<sup>n</sup>, several times. tsài-sam tsài-si, carefully several times over and over. kò-gán put-tsài, able to repeat after reading once. kò-gán put-tsài-thók, id. tsài-kóng, to say again. tsài-sim, to examine the parties again in court. tsài-kiú, to pray again.

tsài (R. id.), to support; to bear up; to carry or transport, as a vessel or carriage, &c. tsài-hè, to transport goods. tsài-chí<sup>n</sup> tsài-hè, to carry a very valuable and gainful cargo, as opium, &c. chih-tsài-bōe-tiâu, to have a load too heavy to be carried; said also of a man in weak health.

ki-tsài, written down.

tsài — bīn-ná-tsài, to-morrow meh<sup>n</sup>--tsài (C.), in the morning; this morning. tsā-bē-tsài (T.), yesterday morning. tsài-tā<sup>n</sup>-sī (T.), in the morning. kū-ni<sup>n</sup> peh-tsài (T.), long past and out of date, as an affair.

tsài (R. tsai), an enclitic particle. kai--tsài, happily; by good luck; fortunately. put-chí kai-tsài, how very fortunate!

tsái [R. to be in; in; = col. tī], steady, as a chair, or anything set down firmly. tsái-tsái, steady and firm, as a thing, or as the mind; in one's right mind, having command of one's self, without fear, &c. bō-tsái, not steady, as a chair or stepping-stone, &c. khiā-tsái, to stand firmly and steadily. khiā-ṁ-tsái, to stand unsteadily. hē-m-tsái, to set or lay down unsteadily. ké-khi-tsái, make it steady by putting something underneath. táh-khi-tsái, plant the foot firmly (v. táh).

tsái-ngé, calm and collected; self-possessed, as before a superior, or as in danger. hāi-tsái, firm and steady in character; calm and collected in manner, not afraid in danger; said also of a man who is too stiff, e.g. not rising when a visitor enters (s. animal). tsū-tsái, steady; self-possessed; without fear; in right mind. tsū-tsū tsái-tsái, id. an-jiēn tsū-tsái, comfortable in mind and safe and not afraid. an-jiēn tē-tsái (C.), id.

sit-tsái, truly. chīn-tsái, exceedingly — hiēn-tsái, present; now; here present (v. hiēn).

put-tsái, no matter. chhut-tsái-lí, just do as you please, gen. with the idea I warn you you had better not. kū-tsái-lí, id. peng-koán tsái-chhiú, having authority from others (as company or relatives) to manage a common matter as we please. pīn-tsái-goá, just as I may please (v. pīn). bē-sū tsái-jin, sēng-sū tsái-thien, man purposes but Heaven accomplishes (v. thien).

tó-tsái-chhng, bed-ridden. tsái-àn, the case pending. tsái-iā<sup>n</sup>, to be on duty in yamun of naval mandarin, not on board. tsái-sek-lú, a virgin. tsái-lāi, included; inclusive (v. lāi). tsái-goá, not included. kūn-thāu, ko-ko tsái-siōng, though very skilful there are others still more so, said originally of boxing. tsái-si<sup>n</sup>, in this life. tsái-tsá, long ago. tsái-giáh, having a regular engagement, as man employed in a hong for a long term (opp. "kià-kha"). tsái-tōe-lāng, persons belonging to the place or very long resident in it. chhiāng-tsái, constantly present at a place. tsái-phī<sup>n</sup>-sái, to sail with wind on quarter and sails full (v. phī<sup>n</sup>). tsái-tsúí (C.), of course, said in answering (v. tsúí).

sé-tsái, a place. bō-sé bō-tsái, no place. bú sé put-tsái, everywhere present. tui-tū-goá siōng-tsái, balance in hand. mng-lāu sui-phòà, ki<sup>n</sup>-ké goán-tsái (though the gate-tower is ruined the watch-drum remains), said of a man who has become poor, but must still pay ceremonial expenses.

tsái, cargo; a cargo. tāng-tsái, a heavy cargo; heavily laden, as ship. toá-tsái, id. boán-tsái, a full cargo; full load (v. boán).

tsái-chí<sup>n</sup>, money for freight; freight. tsái-gún, id. lám-tsái-jī, a bill of lading, as in foreign vessels. khàu-tsái, to deduct from freight, e.g. to pay for damage. khàu i-é-tsái, id.

tá<sup>n</sup>-tsái, to make a rough estimate of whole cargo, as in buying it. hē-tsái, to put cargo on board. khioh-tsái, to be taking in cargo, as vessel. siá-tsái, to unload, as ship. pau-tsái, to charge in the lump for a large lot of goods carried. in-tsái, to collect goods for a vessel, or ship cargo for others, as a third party (v. in). ún-tsái (T.), to accept a freight, as ship's officer or shipping agent. oá-tsái, to intrust goods (as to hong or commission-agent) to be shipped. hē-lāng oá-tsái, to receive goods to be shipped, as hong.

tsái [R. tsái, tí, a reptile; a fabulous animal; = col. thoā]. hāi-tsái, a fierce fabulous animal like a lion or "lion-unicorn," said to be very faithful and very good at killing traitors; it is embroidered on the breast of high military mandarins (s. steady, in). hāi-tsái-pé, the breast ornament of a high military mandarin.

tsai<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsai, to know.

tsái<sup>n</sup> (cf. tsáh). tng-tsái<sup>n</sup>-āu, the back half of the central hall of a house (v. tng).

tsái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chēng, front; before.

tsái<sup>n</sup> (R. id.) tsú-tsái<sup>n</sup>, to rule; a ruler. tsái<sup>n</sup>-

財

臍

再

載

載哉在

儀

豨

滓

siông, prime-minister. ip-tsái<sup>n</sup> (R.), the mandarin of a Hien or district.

tsái<sup>n</sup> — liam-tsái<sup>n</sup>, to practise songs. chit-thò-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a set of two or three songs.

tsái<sup>n</sup> [R. chím, = col. thái; cf. sim], (C. tsóá<sup>n</sup>; Cn. tsüi<sup>n</sup>). tsái<sup>n</sup>-iü<sup>n</sup>, how? tsái<sup>n</sup>-á-iü<sup>n</sup>, id. àn-tsái<sup>n</sup>-iü<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-àn-tsái<sup>n</sup>-iü<sup>n</sup>, nothing special; did not do anything, esp. wrong. bô-tsái<sup>n</sup>-á-iü<sup>n</sup>, id. bô-kàu tsái<sup>n</sup>-iü<sup>n</sup>-phái<sup>n</sup>, not very bad; not much to blame or find fault with. bô-su kàu tsái<sup>n</sup>-iü<sup>n</sup>, to lose in the contest, but not suffer or lose much.

beh-tsái<sup>n</sup>, how? beh-tsái<sup>n</sup>-ôe, how can (you) ever! tsái<sup>n</sup>-thang —, how can —?

tsái<sup>n</sup> [R. chí, a finger, = col. tsúg].

chhiú-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a sort of thimble; also (r.), the fingers. kha-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the toes. tsáp-it-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a man with an extra finger or thumb. kí-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the fore-finger. jī-tsái<sup>n</sup>, id. tióng-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the middle finger. kí tióng-tsái<sup>n</sup>, to point with the middle finger, counted a very vile obscene action, as representing the male. bú-bêng-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the ring-finger. bé-jī-tsái<sup>n</sup>, id. láu-á-tsái<sup>n</sup>, id., said in joke. bé-tsái<sup>n</sup>, the little finger. bé-tsái<sup>n</sup>-á, id. tsái<sup>n</sup>-thâu-á (T.), = A. tsúg-thâu-á, a finger.

chiam-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a thimble. tâng-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a brass do. thih-tsái<sup>n</sup>, iron do. phê-tsái<sup>n</sup>, leather do. pè-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a thimble of metal with cloth outside.

tsái<sup>n</sup> (T.), = A. chêng. ka-tsái<sup>n</sup>, sort of mat of grass or straw.

tsak — tsak-tsak, crowded. tsak--teh, id. ak-tsak, inconveniently crowded and disorderly, as a lumber-room (s. annoy).

tsak, to annoy; to vex; to trouble. tsak-tsô, id. tsak-tsô, id., I will trouble you, sir! ak-tsak, sad, anxious, or uncomfortable in mind (s. crowded). bôh-tit tsak--goá, don't trouble me. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tsak-tsak, heart grieved and anxious.

tsák (C. tsáh).

tióh-ka-tsák, slight obstruction by something in the throat or nose; removed by coughing, swallowing saliva, or blowing the nose. tò-ka-tsák, id.

tsák (r.?), = chhák, to pierce.

tsák [R. tsók, a clan; a family]. m-si i--ê chéng-tsák, not his own son, said in disparagement of an adopted son or of wife's unfaithfulness. hó-chéng-tsák, said of a good or good-looking son.

tsam (R. id.) am - tsam, dirty, unclean, filthy, of body or mind. am-sí-tsam, very filthy.

tsam, to eat or suck up by a proboscis, as bees, flies, or ants do. phang tsam-hoe, the bees feed on the flowers.

tsam [R. a hair-pin, = col. chiam]. tsam - hoe, to put flowers in cap or hair, especially tinsel flowers in cap of new graduate. tsam-koá, to invest a new-made graduate (Sew-tsae) with sash and gilt or tinsel flowers (v. koá). tsam (Cn.), = A. chiam, a hair-pin. kim-tsam (Cn.), = A. kim-tsam, sort of flower. kô-tsam (T.), a hair-pin. thng-sí-tsam (T.), one shaped like a spoon.

tsam (Cn.), = A. chám, a needle. kan - tsam, mariner's compass, &c.

tsâm (R. chhâm). tsâm - gâm, firm; strongly made, as table, &c.

tsâm — phòà-tsâm, to disconcert and defeat a plan by speaking against it. phòà-chhùi-tsâm, id.

phòà-chhùi phòà-tsâm, id. phah-tsâm, id., or to prevent a quarrel by seasonable words.

tsám [R. to behead; to cut, = col. tsá<sup>n</sup>, tsâm]. tsám-tŭg, to cut asunder with one blow, as of knife, axe, or sword; to forsake and have done with. kap i tsám-tŭg, to have no more to do with him. tsám-chháu tŭg-kun, in cutting up weeds remove the root, said of exterminating an enemy's family; also of cutting off all intercourse with a man, or of breaking off a bad habit. tsám-bôe-tŭg, cut not quite asunder; to try to get free from some engagement, &c., but not able.

ũ - tsám - tsóeh, acting with rapidity, wisdom, and decision (v. tsóeh).

tsám-tiáu, inscription telling the crime for which a man is put to death. tsám ká, kun-liú-tê, beheading, strangling, and three sorts of banishment. tsám-siú, to behead. kam-tsám, to preside at and witness an execution. kam-tsám-koa<sup>n</sup>, the presiding mandarin at an execution. kam-tsám-siú, a lower official for the same. sien-tsám hē-tsau, first behead and afterwards report to emperor.

tsám — tsám-bé-to (C.), a crooked sword about two feet long. khou-liám tsám-bé (C.), id.?

tsám — tsám-jiên, very —.

tsàm (R. id.) tsàm - lām, to dip (as foot) in water.

tsàm, to stamp with the foot. tsàm-kha, id. tsàm-khoá<sup>n</sup>, to try the strength (as of plank or floor) by stamping on it. tsàm--chih, to break by stamping on. tsàm-tôe, to stamp with the foot. tsàm-tôe, to stamp on the ground. tsàm--chit-ê, to give one stamp with the foot.

tsâm — lām-lām tsâm-tsâm, mixed in confusion (v. lām). tsâm-tsòh, not uniform, as things; mind anxious and confused (v. tsòh).

tsâm (R. id.), a stage on a journey; a resting-place on a road at end of a stage; a division of a subject in oral teaching. lē-tsâm, a stage on a road where there is a rest. phê-tsâm, a resting-place at the end of a stage of ten lí. iáh-tsâm, a stage where couriers, horses, &c., are kept. an iáh-tsâm, to have relays of horses or couriers ready at regular short stages (gen. about ten miles) for important despatches. khah-tŭg-tsâm, a long piece of road with no resting-place on it. koá<sup>n</sup>-tsâm, to travel in haste by long stages. thng-tsâm, to exchange with another man for part of the journey, as porters and chair-bearers do. chit-tsâm kè-chit-tsâm, one stage after another.

tsâm, to push with a pole so as to turn the boat's head round more or less.

tsâm (R. tsám). tsâm-thâu, to behead. tsâm chhiú-tôe hē--i, to make a mark on a document with hand or finger inked. tsâm pèh-koe, to behead a white cock before an idol (esp. Sêng-hóng), and burn a written prayer (tiáp) asking the god to kill the offerer if he be guilty.

tsâm (R. id.), to chop; to stamp with a stamp; to stamp, as dollars; a chisel or stamp. tsâm--chih, to break, as by a blow of a chisel. tsâm-tŭg, to cut asunder, as by a chisel. tsâm tsòe-tŭg, to cut into two parts, as a long thing into two short ones, by such a blow. tsâm-pêng, to cut (as by chisel) longitudinally into two long narrow pieces. tsâm-tsoá, to cut the edges of paper even by a blow. tsâm-chheh, to cut the edges of a book even. tsâm-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to cut away the anchor. tsâm-lòe, to make or sharpen a file.

指
怎

指

齧

族

贖

簪

針

斲

斬

甚 難

斬

斲

賺

ná<sup>4</sup> chióh--nih<sup>4</sup> tsām-jī, unalterable like letters cut in the rock. tsām-jī, to stamp words, as on metal.

ū, tsoè-hé tsām, when he has money he is voracious like a tiger (v. hé).

gún-tsām, a stamp for marking dollars. chióh-tsām, a stone-chisel. tsng-tsām, a cold-chisel for splitting off bits of tiles. tsoá-tsām, a knife for cutting large sheets of paper into smaller sheets. tsoá-chí<sup>4</sup>-tsām, a stamp for making the round scalloped holes in idolatrous paper that represent cash. kim-chí<sup>4</sup>-tsām, a stamp for cutting the long wavy lines on idol-paper representing gold. pú-tsām, to heat up and renew the wedges for splitting stone.

khám-tsām, a rule. chiaù-khám-tsām, according to rule; properly. bô-khám bô-tsām, disorderly; not managing well. kàu hit--ê khám-tsām, when it comes to that time or state of matters.

tsan (R. cheng), a surname; mand. Tseng.

tsan (R. cheng), a small net that is lifted out of the water to catch the fish; it is usually stretched square on a bamboo frame fastened by a hinge on the bow of a boat or to a sort of windlass on shore; to use this sort of net.

khan-tsán, to draw a net by one man on shore and one man in a boat. khan tsán-á, id. kiáh-tsán, to raise up a net on bow of boat by walking up the ladder attached, so as to lower the ladder and lift the net. thó-tsán, to catch fish by this sort of net. tsán-hí, id. tsán--ê, fish caught by this sort of net, counted better than those inclosed in large nets (bāng).

tsán — tsán-á-tsún, small boats about the size of a passage-boat, either for trade or for fishing.

tsán — tsán-tsún, a junk of about one to three thousand peculs (tá<sup>n</sup>), with high sharp stern. phû-lâm-kiô tsán, such junks belonging to Phû-lâm-kiô, south of Amoy. tsán-tsô, a large boat or small junk (larger than a "khan-hong"), such as ply to the Pescadores, &c. lâm-tsán, small junks from the south, esp. Táng-soa<sup>n</sup> (Tong-san) or Swatow.

toá-kán-tsán, a sort of war-junk. sió-kán-tsán, smaller sort of war-junk.

tsán — áu-tsán-khí, the back-teeth; the molars. áu-piah-tsán, id. thâu-tsán-khí, the front-teeth.

tsán (R. cheng). kha-áu-tsán, the heel.

tsán (R. chêng, = col. tsán), a tier or layer, as of a basket made of several layers; classifier of plans or methods of action; a division of a statement or discourse on doctrine or business affairs. nâ<sup>4</sup>-tsán, a horizontal division of a basket. sam-tsán-bah, pork having fat and lean in alternate layers. sa<sup>4</sup>-si-tsán ê-hoat-tê, several plans or methods, either successive or contemporaneous. chit-tsán tō-lí, one head or division of a discourse on doctrine.

tsán, to stab. tsán-sí, to stab to death.

tsán (R. id., = col. chhân). tsán-jim, cruel.

tsán (C.), = A. chêng, before. tsán-ê, formerly.

tsán (R. chêng, = col. tsán), one story of a house; one step of a flight of steps or of a ladder. áu-tsán, to make folds or flounces, as on skirt of foreign gown. kiá-á-tsán, steps of a stone stair. sa<sup>4</sup>-tsán-láu, third story; a building of three stories. chhit-tsán-thah, a seven-storied pagoda.

tsán (R. id.), an inscription on a scroll or on a map. tôe-tsán, to write an inscription on a scroll in praise of a person or of an idol. chheng-tsán (R.), to praise.

tsán (C.), = A. chêng. ka-tsán, a sort of grass-mat.

tsán (R. id.) tsán-sêng, to assist in accomplishing a purpose, e.g. by recommending to favour.

tsán — tsán-khiá, to stand in order, as people before a mandarin. tsán-tūi, to stand in ranks to receive a high mandarin on his arrival. tsán-pan, to stand in order, as the attendants of a mandarin at a trial, &c.

tsán (R. chièn). tsán-keng, a storehouse or go-down. tsán (C.), = A. chièn, in several phrases.

tsán (R. tsán), to help; to aid. sa<sup>4</sup>-tsán, do. tàu-sa<sup>4</sup>-tsán, id. pang-tsán (r.), id., chiefly said by foreigners and those who have intercourse with them. tsán i-áu-chhiú, give him some assistance (v. áu). tsán-kún, to assist in beating a man. tsán-kang, to help with labour. tsán-chí<sup>4</sup>, to help with money. chhiu-tsán (T.), id.

tsang (R. tsong), a low scraggy palm, Chameroops; its fibrous bark used for making ropes, mats, &c.; brown colour like this stuff. tsang-chhiú, that palm. tsang-sek, brown colour. tsang-háh, sheathing leaves at its joints. tsang-sui, rain-coat made of it. tsang-chêng, mat made of it. tsang-kiáh, wooden clogs fastened with a strip of palm-fibre (v. kiáh). tsang-hu, small shreds and dust of it when broken down small, used for strewing on floor. thiah-tsang, to pick palm-fibre, as for making ropes, &c. li-tsang, id.

tsang (R. tsong), a queue; a tail worn on the head. ku-tsang, a woman's queue. sin-tsang, tail on child's forehead. kak-tsang, a pair of tails on sides of child's head. kè-á-tsang, one do. on side of child's head. thô-á-tsang (C.), do. thâu-tsang, the queue. thâu-tsang-bé, silk end of it. thâu-tsang-bé-soá<sup>4</sup>, the threads used for this. thâu-tsang-kè, artificial hair ornament fastened on woman's head. pi<sup>4</sup> thâu-tsang, to plait the tail; to wear a tail. lâu thâu-tsang, to grow a tail.

tsang (R. tsong), a mane. ti-tsang, hair on back of pig's neck. bé-tsang, a horse's mane. lâu-bé tién-tsang, said of an old man with youthful vigour.

tsang, to lay hold of, as a man's queue, &c. tsang--khí-lái, to pull out or up, e.g. to pull a man out of the water by his queue.

tsang — chhiáh-tsang-hí, a sort of fish.

tsang (R. tsong). tsún-tsang, a number of junks at anchor together. pàng-chhut tsún-tsang, to let one junk out of the crowd of junks, as one ready to sail.

tsáng, to dash water on person or thing; to sweep away (soil), as a torrent. tsáng-tsúi, to dash water on. tsáng-ék, to bathe by dashing water over one's self.

tsáng (R. chhông), a bush; classifier of trees, shrubs, and plants. chhiú-tsáng, a tree. chit-tsáng-chhiú, one tree. toá-tsáng, large, as a plant; to grow large, as a plant. toá-tsáng-chhiú, a large tree.

tsáng [R. tsóng, all]. bong-bô-tsáng, to search in vain for a clue. liáh-bô-tsáng, id. bô-tê thang-liáh-tsáng, no way of finding a clue to the affair.

tsáng-kun-thâu, the most important particular in an affair on which the rest depend; the chief manager of a matter. tsáng-thâu, to have the chief management (s. tail). i teh-tsáng-thâu, he has the chief management.

gê-tsáng-thâu, the divisions of the hair at the root

曾

贈

層

殘

層

讚

贊
站
棧
贊 贊
棕

髻

駢 駢

艘

叢

of the queue; the root or head of anything; the most important point in an affair.

tsáng, an artificial queue or tail. chhài-tsáng, the leafy tops of radishes, turnips, &c., when the root is cut off. chhài-tsáng-á-bé, id. tiū-kó-tsáng, rice-stubble.

tsáng-thâu, the root of a woman's queue (s. all). soà-tsáng, to join the false tail to the real one. thiu-tsáng, to draw out hairs in order to make an artificial tail.

tsàng, the perpendicular threads or cords in a loom.

thâu-tsàng, a leading man in a place, or in the management of a matter; often not formally appointed, but others follow his lead; the clue or beginning of an affair.

hi<sup>n</sup> tsàng, the reed of a loom and the perpendicular cords. hi<sup>n</sup>-soe khàu-tsàng, id. tiàu-tsàng, the perpendicular cords in a loom which work up and down. khàu-tsàng, id. bē-lóh hi<sup>n</sup>-se khàu-tsàng (C.), said of a man putting troublesome obstacles in our way, or of persons not getting on well together.

tsàng (R. tsòng), a confection made of rice, &c., put up in bamboo-leaves. bah-tsàng, that confection made of rice and pork. ki<sup>n</sup>-tsàng, do. made with alkali. pák-tsàng, to tie it up in the bamboo-leaf. tsàng-hiòh, bamboo-leaves for this purpose.

tsap (Cn.) = A. chiap, juice.

tsáp (= chiáp). tsáp-tsáp-kóng, to talk incessantly.

tsáp — tsáp-tsáp-háu, to smack the lips in sign of displeasure at one's self for a mistake, or of slight displeasure at another, often towards a superior.

tsáp (R. id.; some read "sip"), mixed; confused. chham-tsáp, id. (v. chham). chhap-tsáp, id. láp-láp tsáp-tsáp (C.), id. hün-tsáp, confusedly mixed, esp. of persons. lâm-lú hün-tsáp, men and women meeting together without distinction.

pak-tsáp, having various colours mixed indistinctly; skilful at many things. tsáp-tsô, puzzled with many cares. tsáp-liám, to talk incessantly or incoherently; to talk in delirium; said in scolding.

tsáp-méh<sup>n</sup>, feeling anxious, out of sorts, or uncomfortable about many affairs (v. méh<sup>n</sup>). tsáp-méh<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, various leaves used for adulterating tea. tsáp-bók-hiòh, id. thàu tsáp-méh<sup>n</sup>-hiòh, to adulterate tea with them.

tsáp-sek-lâng, men of many different places or trades. tsáp-mih<sup>n</sup>, miscellaneous articles. tsáp-mih<sup>n</sup>-toa<sup>n</sup>, a catalogue or inventory, &c. tsáp-hè, a mixed assortment of goods. tsáp-hè-toa<sup>n</sup>, a list or inventory of goods. tsáp-sè, miscellaneous articles, as for sale (v. sè). tsáp-chhâ, miscellaneous, small, or odd pieces of various sorts of wood; furniture made by piecing together small pieces of various sorts of wood. tsáp-chhâ-á-tiám, shop for wood and wooden utensils. tsáp-tsok, miscellaneous literary compositions. tsáp-gim, a bowl of mixed meats (v. gim). tsáp-chhe-pâng, a room in a yamun where the constables (chhe) stay. tsáp-seng, containing people of several surnames, as a village. tsáp-sè<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tsáp-chhùi é-seng-lí, a miscellaneous small business.

tsáp-chéng (vulg.), a bastard (v. chéng).

mia<sup>n</sup> khah-tsáp, one's fate too heavy (beyond the due mean), so as to have a great many troublesome matters to manage.

tsò-tsáp, = sùn-kiám, the very lowest civil mandarin; rather a depreciating phrase. tsò-tsáp-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tsò-tsáp gē-mŋg, his yamun.

tsáp (R. sip), ten. tsáp-hün (ten parts), complete; exceedingly (v. hün). tsáp-jī-hün, quite complete; very best. tsáp-jī-á, a small book full of the most absurd stories, and idolatrous and superstitious instructions. toā-tsáp-jī, a larger book of same sort. tsáp-chiok, complete; sufficient. tsáp-tsŋg, complete.

it-gē it-tsáp, 5, 10, 15, and so on. tsáp-jī, twelve. jī-tsáp, twenty. it-jī-tsáp-ê, between ten and twenty; about ten or twenty. tsáp-sè, a little over ten. tsáp-goā, a good deal over ten; often about twenty. it-tsáp-goā, id. tsáp-goā-goā, a long way above ten. chhut-tsáp, the days of the moon from 11th to about 14th.

tsat — tsat-iā<sup>n</sup>, to encamp. tün-tsat, id. an-iā<sup>n</sup> tsat-chē, id.

tsat (R. chiet, = col. tsoeh), a piece between two joints; a verse; to make due and fit arrangement; classifier of affairs. chit-tsát-á, a little bit. chit-tsát tái-chì, just one single matter or affair. chit-tsát ê-tái-chì, this matter. chit-tsát-sü, id.

jín-sim tsat-tsát-ko, the human heart is always ambitiously aiming higher and higher after each advancement.

kun-tsát (C. kin-tsát), very careful or cautious; prepared before for whatever may come. ū-kun-tsát (r.), id. chhim-tím kun-tsát, very cautious and wide awake.

tsún-tsát, using in a careful, moderate, or temperate manner, as money, or as food or drink; carefully regulating one's strength, as when walking on a difficult road, or working at delicate work. ū-tsún-tsát, id. bō-tsún-tsát, using in a careless, reckless, or immoderate manner.

tsat-hoáh, to use a moderate average amount, as of food or of strength. tsat-si, to make one's arrangements to do a thing at the time fixed. tsat-si tsat-tsün, id. tsat-sè, to regulate one's strength, position of hands or feet, and movements very carefully, as in doing any piece of work. tsat kha-pē, to take much care of one's steps, as on a difficult road. tsat kàu tú-hó, to regulate or arrange it just properly. tsat-khi m-hó-sè, not well arranged (as above).

kut-tsát, a bone from one joint to the next. chhiú-tsát, the parts of the arm between the several joints, esp. the lower arm. téng-tsát, the arm from elbow to shoulder. chhiú ê-tsát, the arm from elbow to wrist. kha ê-tsát, the lower leg. tsat-tsu, a whitlow; an abscess or painful boil at a joint.

ngâu-tsát, water-lily roots sliced and prepared with honey. tek-tsát, a bamboo joint; a short bit of bamboo.

hē-soà<sup>n</sup>-tsát, a very venomous serpent with markings like the handle of a Chinese umbrella. káu-tsát-chhèng, a gingall or swivel gun with nine knobs that look like joints. káu-tsát-á, a low shrub with a corymb of numerous berries.

tsat, to wrap (straw or cloth) very tightly round and round. tsat-chháu, to wrap up carefully with straw, as furniture to be sent a distance. tsat-pē, to bandage tightly with cloth, as a cut finger or sore leg.

tsat (R. id.) phoe-tsát, a letter; a chit (derived from this word); a book of models for letters. pē-tsát, a short decree of a supreme board.

綜

粽

雜

十

扎紮
即

扎紮

扎

魚賊

tsát (R. chék). bák-tsát, the cuttle-fish (v. bák). bát-tsát, id.

tsát [R. chék, a thief]. bák-tsát-chháu, a plant used as sand-paper; also medicinal; Equisetum hyemale?

實是

tsát (R. chék), closely packed, filled, or pressed in; obstructed; tight. m-thang-tsát, don't make it tight; leave it loose. cheng khah-tsát, work it up till it becomes stiffer, as mortar. tsát-sit, tightly pressed in. pá-tsát, closely packed; quite full; said of a wealthy man.

tsát-pak, solid, as an image, &c. (opp. khang-khak); stupid. tē-lāi tsát-tsát, unable to think out the proper course. sim tsát, heart sad; mind confused. sim-koa<sup>n</sup> tsát-tsát, unable to think what to do or say.

tsát-thóng-thóng, packed quite tight or full, as things or persons. sim tsát-thóng-thóng, anxious and troubled about many troublesome or dangerous matters. pak-té tsát-thóng-thóng, feeling of dyspepsia or indigestion, as from an overloaded stomach. âu tsát, a choking feeling, as about to weep. tsát-phi<sup>n</sup>, nose stuffed, as with a cold.

tsát [R. chék, quiet]. tiám-tsát, cautious and self-possessed.

tsau (R. tso), (T. chiau; Cn. tsöh). tsau-that (Cn. tsöh-thoah), to insult; to maltreat; to spend wastefully, as food; to throw away, as one's own life (v. that).

tsau — au-tsau, ugly, as face; dirty, filthy, as face or clothes. au-au tsau-tsau, id.

tsau — chhâ-tsau, a fire-brand partly burned.

tsau — loân-tsau-tsau, very much perplexed or confused in mind, as by troublesome or painful matters, or by a multiplicity of business. tsau-loân, id. bün-tsau-tsau, much grieved (cf. chiau, chiâu, chhiau).

tsau, debilitated; broken in constitution; worn out. lâu-tsau, worn out and useless; quite spoiled, as an old shoe or article of dress. tsau-láu, id.

tsau-bin, worn out by want of sleep from any cause. tsau-hun, constitution broken down by opium. tsau-chhiú, do. by liquor. tsau-sek, do. by lasciviousness. tsau-tsa-bé, id.

tsau (R. tso), dregs; refuse. tsau-phoh, the refuse or dregs from brewing or distillation. chhê-tsau, dregs of vinegar. tsüt-bi-tsau, glutinous rice fermented and salted, as it remains after making liquor. pêh-tsau, a white condiment, much used with fish. âng-tsau, a red salt condiment, like thick sauce, made of rice and leaven, brought from Fuh-chau. tsau-bah, pork cooked with it; and so of other meats. tsau-hí, to preserve fish in this condiment. chiú-tsau, refuse of rice after making liquor.

tsáu (Cn.), = A. chiâu, complete. sio kàu tsáu-tsáu, burned away to nothing.

tsáu (C.), = A. chiâu. tsáu-sim pêh-pak, = A. chiâu-sim pêh-pak, grieved in mind; very sad.

tsáu, to exterminate. tsáu-biét, do.

tsáu — tsáu-sip, to make extracts from others' compositions, as for literary piracy, or for other purposes.

tsáu (R. id.) tsáu-hiét, a den, as of wild beasts or bad men.

tsáu (C.), = A. jiáu<sup>n</sup>. toh ê tsáu-súi, = A. jiáu<sup>n</sup>-súi, the ornamental carved work between the legs of a table.

tsáu (= chháu). hê-lí-tsáu, foxes' fur.

tsáu (C.) tsáu-á, a daughter. tsáu-á-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id. tsáu-kiá<sup>n</sup>, id.

tsáu (R. tsó). ka-tsáu, a flea. ka-tsáu-báng, a small water insect. ka-tsáu-tú, a flea-trap. ka-tsáu tsòe-sü, lúi sat-bú, the flea does the mischief, and involves the louse; the real culprit escapes, while a man not guilty, or slightly so, bears the penalty.

tsáu (R. tsó), to run; to cause to run; to escape; to differ; (to die); sometimes enclitic, sometimes with the meaning to move slightly, to run away.

tsáu-chhiú, hastily; without much care; in haste, e.g. selling off perishable eatables very quickly. khah-tsáu-chhiú, do it more rapidly, without taking such pains, as there is no need of so much care. tsáu-tsáu, rapidly, e.g. sewing very loosely with very wide stitches. put-chí-tsáu, sailing very fast, as a vessel.

tsáu-bé, to make a horse go fast (v. hé). tsáu-bé-ün, the 162d radical. tsáu-úi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, an inclosing wall.

tsáu-thàu, to ask counsel of idols, sorcerers, &c.; to give secret information (v. thàu).

tsáu-tàng, to go to stool (v. tàng); also said of some idolatrous rites. tsáu-pak, to have diarrhoea.

phah-tsáu-khi, to die (as child); to drive away, as birds. tsáu-khi, to die, as child. tsáu-khi-tiám, id. (lit. run away and hide).

tsáu-hê, to take shelter from rain. tsáu-chhát, to flee from robbers. tsáu-hiòng, to smuggle. tsáu-chè, to abscond without paying debts. bòe-tsáu-sau-tit, dares not make free, as with money or work (v. sau). tsáu-hoân, an escaped criminal.

tsáu-sek, to lose the colour. tsáu-tàng (C.), coagulated jelly beginning to soften and get bad. tsáu-üm, variation in sound. tsáu-khiu<sup>n</sup>, difference of dialect; to vary, as a word in another dialect. tsáu-pân, different from pattern or sample, as in a fraud. tsáu-tsoah, to differ. tsáu-cheng, id.

tsáu-tsúi, a courier who carries letters and small parcels; to draw off water, as a drain or gutter. tsáu-tsúi ê-lâng, a courier. tsáu-bün-su-ê, a government courier. tsáu-phoe, to carry letters, as a courier. tsáu-chhiàng, to go about, as street singers (v. chhiàng).

tsáu-khui, stand off. tsáu-pi, to get out of the way, as to escape an enemy or calamity. tsáu-siám, to escape; to avoid; to keep out of the way; secretly neglect one's duty. tsáu-thoat, to escape (v. thoat). tô-tsáu, to escape; to flee away; to abscond. tùn-tsáu, to break away and run, as man or animal. phün-tsáu, to run away and escape. tsáu-phün-phün, to run fast. toā-pê-tsáu, to run quickly with long strides. tsáu-lí, to succeed in running away. toah-tsáu, to break away from another who is urging us to stay, often in disgust or in a pet (v. toah). kùn-tsáu, to escape by struggling violently; to burst away. khit-i tsáu-khi, to have our man escape from our grasp. thüt-tsáu, to slip out of place, as an instrument in the hand, or as a machine getting out of gear. lun-tsáu, to move a little so as to avoid being seen or caught. tsáu-lòh-hái, to escape by sea. sa<sup>n</sup>-chhoá-tsáu, to escape, abscond, or elope together. pái-tsáu, to be defeated and routed. hó-kiá<sup>n</sup>-tsáu, in good state for travelling, as a road, or as one's dress. cheng-lâm tsáu-pak, kiá<sup>n</sup>-tang khi-sai, to travel in all directions.

tsàu (R. tsò), to memorialize or report to the throne; a memorial to the throne. tsàu hông-tè, to send in a memorial to the emperor. chiet-tsàu, id. mê<sup>n</sup>

糟

糞

糟

勦巢

蚤

走

奏

醉

tsàu, to memorialize the throne improperly. pò-tsàu, to recommend to the emperor for employment, or for remission of punishment; the memorialist is considered a security for his good conduct. tsún-tsàu, to grant the prayer of the memorial, as emperor does.

tsàu-chiu<sup>n</sup>, a report or memorial to the throne. tsàu-png, id. tsàu-pán, a long tablet of jade or ivory held by high officials on having an audience, in former dynasties, not now used; it is held in the hand by some idols.

tsàu (R. tsò), a fireplace; a cooking stove or furnace (a slaughter-house). tsàu-á, a small portable furnace for cooking. tiá<sup>n</sup>-tsàu, rice-boiler and cooking-place. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsàu-hé, fuel enough for kindling the fire once. tsàu-kha, a kitchen. tsàu-pi<sup>n</sup>, cook's galley in vessel. tsàu-khang, the mouth of a cooking furnace. tsàu-sim-thê, clay from old cooking-places, used as medicine. tsàu-hiáh, the flat part of a built cooking-place round the circular hole where the rice-boiler is placed. tsàu-hiáh-thâu, id. sin-sim-pū sóe-tsàu-hiáh, the new daughter-in-law washes the corners of the cooking-place; a new broom sweeps clean. sēng-káu chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsàu, a dog allowed too much liberty gets up on the cooking-place (v. sēng).

tsàu-koe, a small speckled cricket. kháu-tsàu, a family using one set of cooking implements; a household; said in speaking of the number of households in a village or town. tâng-kháu-tsàu, of the same household.

tsàu-kun-kong, the god of the fireplace; he reports to Heaven about all the actions of the family. tsàu-kun, id. tsàu-sín, id. su-bēng tsàu-kun, id. ti-tsàu, a slaughter-house for pigs. gū-tsàu, a slaughter-house for cows.

tsāu (R. id.), to pay the balance; to give the change due on a purchase.

tsāu-chhē, to search carefully. tsāu-chi<sup>n</sup>, to pay the balance of cash; the balance due. tsāu-chi<sup>n</sup> kè-lái, to pay the balance, as in cash when a dollar had been given. tsāu chi<sup>n</sup>-bé, to pay the change or balance due. tsāu bēng-pék, pay the balance in full. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsāu, to settle the balance. sa<sup>n</sup>-chiam-tsāu, to settle a small balance over on a payment.

tsauh [R. chék, chip; quiet]. chēng-tsauh, still, lonely, and dreary, as a place. chēng-tsauh-tsauh, id. khah-chēng-tsauh, more quiet; be quiet!

tsauh (C.), = A. tsák. tiòh-ka-tsauh, something small in the throat causing a cough.

tsauh (= chiáuh). tsauh-tsauh-kóng, to talk incessantly; what a long story! tsauh-tsauh-lái, always coming again and again.

tsiú (Cn.), = A. tsáu (in some few book phrases), to walk. hó-hēng-tsiú, pleasant to walk about, as in fine dress (v. thió).

tsng (R. tsong), a surname. tsng (R. tsong). chi<sup>n</sup>-tsng, a private bank.

tsng (R. tsong). hui<sup>n</sup>-tsng (r.), a village. liēn-tsng (Cn.), to combine together, as the head-men of a group of villages (under the sanction of the mandarins), as for putting down feuds and plundering, or preventing rebellion. liēn-tsng-kék (Cn.), this sort of association.

tsng-siā (F.), a village. chit-tsng-chhân, a lot of contiguous fields (belonging to one man or family). chhân-tsng (esp. T. F.), a lot of contiguous fields

(gen. with the houses all in the same piece of ground) belonging to one family or person. bé-làng ê chhân-tsng (T. F.), such a man's estate, with lands and houses. chhun-tsng (F.), a village. kui-tsng (F.), a whole village.

tsng (R. tsong), stolen property; plunder. chhát-tsng, id. pun-tsng, to divide stolen goods, as thieves or robbers. chē-tōe hun-tsng, to be a receiver of stolen goods. siau-tsng, to buy stolen goods knowingly. tui-tsng, to recover stolen property, as mandarin. pí-tsng, to beat till the stolen property is given up. kiáu-tsng, to give up the stoleu property, or its equivalent, to the mandarin. liáh-kan chiū<sup>n</sup>-chhng; liáh-chhát chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsng, the proof of adultery is seizure in the act; the proof of robbery is the stolen property.

tsng (R. tsong), (perhaps two characters in this group), to adorn; to feign; to act a part in a play or procession; to pack up; pattern of goods.

tsng-sek, to put on a false, counterfeit, or feigned appearance, on self or on goods. tsng-tsòe, id. phá<sup>n</sup>-lâng tsng-tsòe hó-lâng, a bad man putting on a false appearance of goodness. tsng-bê tsòe-iū<sup>n</sup>, to make a false pretence. tsng chit-kù-òe, to tell a specious falsehood. tsng-siong, to wound one's self intentionally, as a beggar; or as in order to make up false evidence, or involve another man.

tsng-pút, to make idols (v. pút). tsng-koh, a platform with young girls (or boys in that character) on it, carried in idolatrous processions. tsng kè-sū, dressing in the character of ancient personages, as in such processions. tsng-lâng, to dress in character (gen. boys about 12) either ludicrous or ancient, as in spring or at incense processions. khoà<sup>n</sup>-tsng-lâng, to go and look at these spectacles. tsng-seng, to take the character of a young man in a play (v. seng). tsng-toà<sup>n</sup>, do., of young woman, done by lads (v. toà<sup>n</sup>). tsng-thiap, do., of female slave, &c. (v. thiap). tsng-thiú, do., of sort of clown. tsng-chiá<sup>n</sup>, take part of an actor with painted face. tsng-sín chiá<sup>n</sup>-sín: tsng-kúí chiá<sup>n</sup>-kúí, what's worth doing at all is worth doing well (lit. whether it be a spirit or a demon). tsng-thā<sup>n</sup>, to adorn one's self (as woman); to talk boastfully and falsely of one's self. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsng, to adorn the person (as beautiful young woman), (s. plunder). soe-tsng, to adorn hair and head, as woman. soe-tsng-lâu, an ornamental upper story for the women of a family. ah-bú tsng-kim, iáh-sī pí<sup>n</sup>-chhù, said of a richly dressed person with an ugly face (like a flat-billed duck decked in gold plumage).

tsng-liám, marriage outfit of dress, ornaments, and furniture (sometimes also lands or houses) given by parents to daughter at marriage, as a sort of dowry. kè-tsng, bride's marriage outfit. kiám-tsng, box that holds the bride's shoes, foot-bandages, trowsers, &c. kiám-tsng-siu<sup>n</sup>, id.

tsng-thâu, pattern of goods. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-tsng, to buy goods and lay them up, waiting for a rise in price. pān iū<sup>n</sup>-tsng, to deal in goods to be sent over the ocean. chit-tsng-hè, a sort of goods, according to a special pattern.

tsng-hun, to pack tobacco; to put opium in the pipe. tsng-tê, to pack tea (&c.) goān-tsng-hè, goods in the original state as made, not dressed up to look better than they are, nor flavoured to conceal their own flavour.

tsng (R. tsoan), (C. tsui<sup>n</sup>), a strong thick tile; (a

賊

粧

竈

找

寂

莊

庄

磚

small fine brick). tsng-phiah-hiâ, tiles and bricks of all sorts.

gân-chí-tsng, a small fine brick for fine or ornamental work. si-kak-tsng, large strong square tiles for floors, or for roofs fit to be walked on. tsng-tsâm, a cold chisel for splitting off bits of tiles. tsng-á-thâu, a broken bit of tile for using where a whole tile is too large. tsng-á-hu, powder of tiles or bricks. tsng-á-sek, colour of tiles, dull red.

sio-tsng, to make tiles in the kiln. pho-tsng, to lay a tiled floor or flat roof. tsng-pi<sup>n</sup>, a flat roof or verandah laid with tiles. tsng-tôe, tiled floor or court. tsng-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, tiled court. tsng-thia<sup>n</sup>, central hall of house paved with tiles. tsng-mng, a door faced with strong tiles, as a security against robbers.

tsng [R. tsoán, entire; complete; = col. chiâu], (C. tsü<sup>n</sup>), entirely. chiâu-tsng, complete. tsâu-tsng (Cn.), id. tsng-jiên, entirely. tsng-jiên-ôe, quite able. sa<sup>n</sup>-ji-tsng, all the three things in full, said at the end of several enumerations of three things (v. ji).

kng-tsng, smooth and even, as clothes; surface smooth and unbroken, as of wall or ceiling.

tsng-beh, wishing to have all or the whole. tsng-goân, entirely willing. tsng-bâng, to place all one's hope (as on some person).

tsng [R. chiông, to follow], from; since; only said of time. tsng-sòe-hàn, from youth or childhood.

tsng [R. chí, a finger], (T. tsái<sup>n</sup>, Cn. tsü<sup>n</sup>, C. chéng). tsng-thâu-á, a finger; a toe. chhiú tsng-thâu-á, a finger. kha-tsng-thâu-á, a toe. tsng-thâu-á-bák, joints of fingers; the knuckles in the middle of the fingers. tsng-thâu-bú, the thumb. kha-tsng-thâu-bú, the big toe; the great toe.

tsng-kah, a finger-nail. tsng-kah-hoe, the henna plant (Lawsonia inermis) cultivated for its sweet-scented flowers; said to be good for diseases of the nails; sometimes said of the balsam. soa<sup>n</sup>-tsng-kah-hoe, a wild plant (Symplocos?) with flowers somewhat like the henna. tsng-kah-se, the line dividing the quick from the rest of the nail. tsng-kah-jiông, the quick of the nail (v. jiông).

tsng (R. tsoán), (C. tsü<sup>n</sup>), a drill, awl, or such boring instrument. tsng-á, an awl; a gimlet; a bodkin, &c. toá-tsng, a large drill or auger. kim-kong-tsng, one made of good steel. lak-tsng, a drill worked by a bow and string. ín-tsng, an awl used for making a hole for the needle. phah-tsng, a sort of drill that is first hammered in, and then turned round by the hand, not by a bow; to use this sort of drill. pi<sup>n</sup>-tsng, an instrument, like a broad dagger, used by robbers for making holes in walls, and as a weapon.

tsng [R. tsoán, same as previous word? or, koán, to pass through? or more than one word], (C. tsü<sup>n</sup>), to bore a hole; to make one's way; to rush on. tsng-khang, to bore or make a hole, as insect or instrument. tsng-hi, to bore the ears for ear-rings.

tsng--kè-khi, to make away and escape. tsng-tsáu, id. tá-lôh tsng--chhut-lái, out of what hole have you crept? said in scolding children or bad useless fellows. hê--i tui-thé-kha beh-tsng--lôh-khi, to make him so ashamed that he is ready to sink into the earth.

nng-tsng, good at watching for opportunities of making money; artful in planning and scheming. gâu-nng-tsng, id. nng-tsng m-táh tú-tng, artful scheming is not so good as just to receive what falls to our lot.

tsng [R. tsông, form; a formal accusation], a written complaint given in to a mandarin. jip-tsng, to give in such a complaint. kò-tsng, id. siá-tsng, to write out the copy given in; the official (=tái-su) who so writes it from the copy prepared by the party. siu-tsng, to receive the complaint, as the underlings of yamun. phoe-tsng, to write the answer on it (v. phoe).

kiet-tsng, a document which the parties sign, stating that the case is finally settled. niá<sup>n</sup>-tsng, a paper of security, e.g. given when a man is bailed out. gü-tsng, an accusation before the supreme court of review at the capital. kò-gü-tsng, to enter such an accusation or appeal. tsng-su, a literary man who gives himself to the writing of legal complaints. tsng-sek, paper with crossed lines for writing such complaints. tsng-tsoá, id. tsng-sek-tsoá, id.

tsng (R. tsông). tng-tsng, Buddhist rites for saving from the blood pool (huìh-ti) the soul of a woman who has died within one month after child-birth; done by turning round and round a paper frame (prayer-mill), and then burning it. Khan-tng-tsng, to turn this prayer-mill. khan-tsng, id.

tsng [R. tsoán, to turn?]. kng-tsng, eddy of water, as at a rock, or of wind.

tsng [R. tsoán, to eat or drink], (C. tsü<sup>n</sup>), to suck very slightly, only with the lips, so as barely to taste, as the teat, or as the point of a Chinese pen. tsng-lin, to have the teat just in the mouth, without sucking much, as when sick or fully satisfied. pa-lun tsng-chih, to lick one's lips. tsng pit-á-bé, to be a pettifogging lawyer. tsng-pit-bé, id.

tsng [R. tsông, entrails]. sió-tsng, the small viscera of lower animals.

tsng [R. tsân or tsoán], (C. tsü<sup>n</sup>), the place on the head from which the hair radiates; sometimes it is double.

tso [R. to meet with; an occasion; = col. tsoa]. chit-tso, this time. áu-tso, next time; another occasion. tso-gü, opportunity, fortune, as good or bad (v. gü). tso-hong, to meet with wind, as a ship. tso-un, to be taken with great calamity (v. un). tso-chien, to meet with very bad fortune. tso-tiét, id. tso-lân, to meet with calamity. tso-kiap, to meet with great calamity, as plunder or slaughter.

tso-koa<sup>n</sup>-hú, to be at law; to have a lawsuit.

tso, feeling of dull pain in stomach, as hunger or indigestion. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-thâu tso, id. tso-loân, id. chiáh--liáu tso-loân, feeling uncomfortable after eating, with tendency to vomit. chiau-tso (R.), sorely grieved so as to feel quite ill.

tsô (R. id.), a trough; applied to various long trough-shaped instruments or cavities, e.g. of gutter, jawbone, &c.; to put cash in an instrument for counting them.

chi<sup>n</sup>-tsô, an instrument with trough-shaped cavities for counting cash, used in shops. tsô-chi<sup>n</sup>, to put cash in this instrument so that they are formed into rows ready to be counted and strung.

gêng-tsô, a long trough-shaped mortar worked by a wheel, used by apothecaries. hi<sup>n</sup>-tsô (C.), cavity for water in a large ink-stone. niau<sup>n</sup>-tsô, the cavity in which the foot of the mast rests. pán-tsô, a sort of breech-loading gingall.

phun-tsô, a trough for the water that has washed rice, and other slops, for pigs. ti-tsô, a pig's trough. bê-chiu<sup>n</sup>-tsô, not yet set to eat at the trough, said of

狀

藏

饌

臟

遭

槽

全

從指

鑽

a sucking pig. bé-tsò, a horse's eating-trough or manger. khit-chiáh sí ti-bé-tsò-nih<sup>n</sup>, said (in joke) of a sudden change from poverty to prosperity.

tsú-tsò, a gutter (built) on the roof of a house. chhù-tsò, id. chhiò-tsò, the long furrows of a tiled roof. phak-tsò, the long ridges of reversed tiles on roof alternate with these furrows. hiá-tsò, these furrows or ridges of the tiles of a roof (either of them).

gê-tsò, the lower jawbone. gê-tsò-kut, id. gê-tsò-khí, the canine teeth. gê-tsò-chhi, the part of the cheek about the roots of the molar teeth. gê-tsò-chhi toā, that part of the cheek large and projecting. gê-tsò-thâu, the back part of the lower jaw. gê-tsò-thâu ngi<sup>n</sup>, jaws firmly clenched, as when about to die. thih-khí, bân-gê-tsò, obstinately refusing to admit a fault or error, and doggedly telling lies about it. tâng-gê-tsò, id. tâng-gê-tsò, thih-chhùi-khí, id.

tsò-thâu-bah, the meat of a hog's neck near the head.

tsò [R. tsò, black; lictors]. tsò-pêng, the right-hand side of a yamun as you enter, so called because the underlings called "tsò-lē" stay on that side. tsò-khoài-koán, the rooms occupied by the underlings on each side close to the entrance-gate of the yamun.

tsò (R. id.), to annoy by noise. tsò--lâng, id. tsak-tsò, to vex; to annoy. tsò-tsak, id. tsò-tsak hí-khang, to stun the ears by noise. hí-khang tsò, a ringing in the ears. tsáp-tsò, perplexed and troubled, as by many sorts or pieces of business.

tsò [R. a sort of junk or boat]. tiò-tsò, a fishing-boat. bāng-tsò, a boat for fishing by nets. bí-tsò, a boat carrying rice. tsò-á-tsūn, a boat of that sort. hiá-tsò, a boat carrying tiles (s. gutter). hoā-tsò (Cn. T.), id. tsan-tsò, a small junk, such as usually go to the Pescadores. hoàn-tsò, a medium-sized junk, about 800 or 1000 peuls.

tsò [R. a sort of officer], a surname. tsò-chhò, an ancient mandarin infamous for intrigue. kan-hiông ná<sup>n</sup> tsò-chhò--nih<sup>n</sup>, as treacherous as Tsò-chhò.

ték-jit ê kong-tsò, messengers of Yuh-hwang Shangti (giók-hông) for each special day, just as mandarins have their constables (chhe) assigned to each day.

sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-tsò, the place where the breast and stomach meet. sim-koa<sup>n</sup>-tsò teh-thiá<sup>n</sup>, pain at that part. heng-tsò teh-thiá<sup>n</sup>, id. tùi-sim-tsò thá<sup>n</sup>--khì, to fend off a blow from our breast with our palm turned outwards.

tsò [R. the left side], a surname. tsò-iū, right and left; more or less (v. iū). tsò-pêng (r.), left side. tsò-iá<sup>n</sup>, the left wing of an army, one-fifth of the whole; the officer commanding it.

tsò-tō, false doctrine, said of Tauists (v. tō).

tsò-tîng, the literary mandarin of a city (= ló-su), who is head of the literati there. tsò-siông, Tartar prime-minister.

tsò-toān, an ancient commentary on the Spring and Winter classic (chhun-chhiu), written by Tsò khiu-bêng.

tsò (R. id.), the jujube fruit or Chinese date, not a real date; round date-shaped confections. tsò-á, jujube fruit. āng-tsò, dried do. tsò-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. ε-tsò, a large sort, dried. kim-tsò, the jujube fruit; also, a sort of lime, esp. preserved in sugar. chhùn-kim-tsò, a date-shaped confection made of rice-flour and sugar. tāu-tsò, a confection made of rice-flour, sugar, and legumes. moā<sup>n</sup>-tsò, do. of rice and hemp-seed. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsò, balls of rice-paste with stuffing of minced-meat, &c., fried in melted fat.

sng-tsò-ko, a preserve made from another sort of fruit (Rhamnus?).

tsò [R. to walk or run, = col. tsáu]. hui-khim tsò-siū (R.), birds that fly and beasts that walk.

tsò (= tsò). chiâu-tsò, grieved and pained at heart.

tsò [R. to assist]. tsò-tsáp (r.), a very small mandarin, like sūn-kiám (v. tsáp). hū-tsò (r.), to assist, as a mandarin assists the sovereign.

tsò (C.), = A. tsòe, to be; to do; to act; (to be carefully distinguished from tsò, to make). boeh-tsò-ni<sup>n</sup>, what can I do, as in this extremity. tsò-sin-se<sup>n</sup>, = A. tsòe-sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to be a doctor.

tsò [R. tsò, a boat]. koa<sup>n</sup>-tsò, a sort of barge or house-boat, used by mandarins, esp. revenue officers.

tsò [R. to sit, = col. chē]. tsò-hiông, the direction of a house or grave as to good luck (v. hiông). tsò-tê hun-tsng, to be a receiver of stolen goods. tsò-si put-kiù, to sit and look on without helping. tsò-sit san-pheng, sitting idle and eating soon brings a man to ruin (like a falling mountain).

tsò (P.), = C. P. chhē, = A. chē, to take the responsibility, as in money matters.

tsò (R. id.), a seat of dignity; a pedestal or socket; a set of figures joined in one group; classifier of mountains, towers, standing screens, wardrobes, cupboards, blocks of houses, &c.

pút-tsò, an idol's throne. pat-tsò, a sedan with eight bearers, used only by mandarins of the first rank red button. kong-tsò, a mandarin's tribunal. kong-tsò-toh, the table of his tribunal. kong-tsò-üi, the seat of the tribunal (v. üi).

tsò-tsú, a high mandarin whom a lower mandarin takes as his patron.

chē-tsò, to sit performing the Buddhist rites (phé-tē) for the souls of the dead in the 7th moon. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsò, to begin these rites, as the priest does.

tah-tsò, to set up the wooden pillars and beams of a Chinese house before the walls are built. thong-tsò, the cross-beams of a boat. lôe-āu-tsò, the cross-stick at the back of a plough. āu-tsò-bah, meat of the hind-quarter. teng-tsò, the part of a lantern that supports the socket. téng-tsò, the small round brass plate on which a mandarin-button rests (v. téng). hoe-kan-tsò, the pedestal of a flower-glass or small flower-jar. lut-tsò, to get out of the socket.

chit-tsò-chhù, a block of houses. chit-tsò-soa<sup>n</sup>, a mass of mountains. chit-tsò ang-á, a set of figures for sale.

tsò [R. tō, a road]. thang-á-tsò, the sill of a window.

tsò (cf. tsò, tsò). tsak-tsò, to trouble; to annoy; I give you much trouble. chiâu-tsò, grieved and vexed in mind.

tsò [R. black]. tsò-tsò, to make quite black, as in thoroughly obliterating a wrongly written word. tsò-lō, id. tsò-phái<sup>n</sup>, to disfigure a writing by black blots or crasures; to spoil a pen by writing too thick.

tsò-lē, the attendants of a mandarin who punish and torture people; they wear a black dress. tsò-pan, id. tsò-hoān, sulphate of iron; coppers. chiáh-tsò, to be dyed with sulphate of iron.

púi-tsò, a sort of black soap (v. púi). tsò-chhi, a thorny medicinal plant (Acacia?).

皂

嘈

槽

曹

左

東

走
佐槽
坐

座

道

皂

住造

tsō [R. tsū, to dwell]. tsō-chí, place of residence, as written on a document or envelope (v. chí).

tsō (R. id.), to make; to build. tsō-hoà, to create; to create and transform; fortune or luck, good or bad (v. hòà). chhông-tsō (r.), to create. tsō-tsūn, to build a boat or junk. tok-tsō, to oversee the building of a boat. phe-kiô tsō-lē, to make bridges and roads. tsō chhā-kiô, tap bú-un: sat kan-hu, pò hū-siū, he made a wooden bridge to recompense his mother (to help her to go on an intrigue), but he killed the adulterer (after his mother's death) to revenge his father's quarrel. tsō-thah, to build a pagoda. tsō-thah, tiòh-tsō thàng-bé (or, kàu-bé), in doing any good or proper work you should finish what you begin. tsō-chheh, to take a list of names. tsō kekah, to make a census.

ū-tsō-i, to have a settled purpose to do something, esp. to have a secret fixed purpose to do it as soon as the opportunity occurs, and to seek an opportunity, and not now doing it only because of some obstacle. ū-chhūn tsō-i, id. m̄-si tsō-i, it is not of set purpose. tsō-sí-koat, obstinate. thong-bê tsō-kè, to make a plot or conspiracy together. tsō-hoán, to rebel. si<sup>n</sup>-giên tsō-gú, to raise trouble by false reports or exaggerations. tsō kàu ū-ki ū-hiòh, to invent falsehoods so complete in all the details as to look quite true. tsō kàu ū-kha ū-chhiú, id.

tsō (Cn.), = A. tso, in some words in the several tones.

tsō (R. id.), a surname.

tsō (R. id.), rent; to rent. chhân-tse, rent of fields. chhū-tse, house-rent. chhut-tse, to offer publicly or advertise for lease. siu-tse, to collect rent. tui-tse, to pay a debt by assigning temporarily certain rents to the creditor. tse-koán, to rent a lodging, as students come for the examinations.

tē-tse, land-tax paid to government for the ground on which houses are built, &c., as in Amoy. tōe-tse, id. tē-tse-hū, receipt for it. tē-tse-chhoán, id. tē-tse-khe, office of receiver of the Amoy land-tax.

seng-oán-tse, property left by will that the rents may be enjoyed by such descendants as become graduates. tse-koá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of factor who collects rents for a wealthy proprietor.

tsō (Cn.), = A. tsō, in some cases.

tsō (Cn.), = A. tsō, left.

tsó [R. tsó, to run or walk]. (Cn. tsó). hêng-tsó, gait, mien, and manner. hó hêng-tsó, stately mien; good or graceful gait and appearance or demeanour. phái<sup>n</sup>-hêng-tsó, gait and mien not good-looking.

tsó [R. id., = col. tsoá]. chiù-tsó (R.), to make imprecations.

tsó (R. id.), an ancestor; great-grandfather; ancestral; title of many idols.

tsé-bú, paternal grandmother (v. bú). goá-tsé, maternal great-grandfather. ka-tsé (polite), my grandfather. ka-tsé-bú (polite), my grandmother. khai-ki-tsé, original founder of a family. si-tsé, original ancestor, as of a tribe or race. ko-tsé, great-great-grandfather. tsé-tsé, id. cheng-tsé, great-grandfather (v. cheng). sien-tsé, deceased paternal grandfather (lit. former). sien-tsé-bú, deceased paternal grandmother. kui-kok sien-tsé, an ancient diviner (now worshipped).

tsé-sien, deceased ancestors. kong-pô tsé-sài, id. (v. sài). tsé-siōng, distant ancestors. tsé-chiú<sup>n</sup>, id. tsé-kong, distant male ancestors. chek- kong-tsé, younger brother of paternal great-grandfather. peh-kong-tsé, elder brother of do. tsé-tsong, ancestors in general. hién-tsé êng-tsong, to reflect glory on ancestors. siá-tsé jiók-tsong, to bring disgrace on the name of ancestors by wicked deeds.

tsé-ke, ancestral home; native place; often said of Europe or America, esp. in speaking of articles being brought from those parts. tsé--chhū, ancestral temple. tsé-bōng, ancestral graves. tsé-hūn, id. tsé-tōe, ancestral lands. tsé-giáp, ancestral property. tsé-thoán, handed down from ancestors, as property, or as trade secrets or medical knowledge.

tò-tsé, to die; to be spoiled or broken, as a thing; to be dead. khi-chhē in-tsé, he is dead. khi in-tsé-tau, id.

pōe-tsé, to transgress and abandon ancestral customs. chê-tsé, to make offerings to ancestors. pài-tsé, to go to worship ancestors, as graduates on getting their degree. chiáh-tsé, to eat the memorial-feast in the ancestral temple. sêng-tsé, to found a family, becoming their ancestor. toá-chia sêng-tsé, means to live here all his life, and leave his posterity here after him. toá-chia tsōe-tsé, id.

tsé-pô (T.), female ancestors.

má-tsé, the goddess of the sea and sailors, and queen of heaven, of surname Lím (= thien-siōng sêng-hú), horn under Sòng-Thài-tsé of the Sung dynasty, in Bichiu, near Hing-hwa (heng-hoà), of father named Goán. má-tsé-pô, id. tsé-pô-biō, her temple. má-tsé-biō, id. má-tsé-keng, id. má-tsé-pô-hi, the large white fish called also pêh-gê. má-tsé-pô, a storm about the time of her birth-day.

sien-tsé, title of any of the eight "sien" or genii. pút-tsé, the Buddhist Supreme (v. pút). tsé-su-kong, a black-faced idol (v. su). ang-kong-tsé, an idol in general. thé-ti-kong-tsé, the god of the ground. ngé-tsé, five Buddhist priests of the Ming dynasty, worshipped by rebels, esp. by the Triad or Small-knife Society.

tsó (R. id.) tsé-tòng, to prohibit; to hinder. tsé-chí, to hinder; to obstruct. noá<sup>n</sup>-tsé, to hinder or prevent, as something just going to be done. tsé-keh, to obstruct.

tsō [R. to assist]. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsō, to assist; to help. tàu-sa<sup>n</sup>-tsō, id. pang-tsō, id. hū-tsō, to assist with funds. chiu-tsō, id. tsu-tsō (r.), id. tsū-tsō (Cn.), id. pé-tsō, to make up a deficiency. tsē-chièn, to help in hassle. kiap-hù tsō-pín, to plunder the rich and assist the poor, as robbers and pirates say.

tsō (Cn.), = A. tsō, to make, in many phrases.

tsō (Cn.), = A. tsō, to sit, in some phrases.

tsō (Cn. T.), = A. chē, to sit.

tsō (T.), = A. chē. tok-ka-tsō, = A. tuh-kā-chē, drowsy.

tsō (Cn. T.), = A. tsōe, guilt.

tsō (T.), a column of words in a page, = tsoá.

tsoa [R. tso, to meet; an occasion]. kè-tsoa, the opportunity past for ever; too late, and no possibility of setting it right now, as coming too late to get a thing, or as a disease gone too far for cure.

tsoa, to draw out one, as a lot or a card, out of several. tsoa-chhiam, to draw lots, or for office; to get (as office) by lot. tsoa pài-á, to draw cards.

tsoá (R. siá), a snake; a serpent; a sort of skin disease. tsoá-chhiu, the forked tongue of a serpent.

租

走
詛
祖

阻
助

遭

蛇

tsoá-thòe, the cast-off skin of a serpent, used in medicine. tsoá-khak, id.

moá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, coarse yellow hempen stuff like ropes, tied round the head in deepest mourning. tsoá thé-chih, the self-acting bolt of a lock (v. chih).

pe-tsoá, an eruption in lines on the skin; ring-worm. si<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, to have a sort of suppurating swelling at the finger-joints. tí<sup>n</sup>-kut-á-tsoá, a sort of ulcer or sore on the toe. tí<sup>n</sup>-io-tsoá, an eruption that goes half round the body. tí<sup>n</sup>-sin-tsoá, do. going round the body; if quite round it is supposed to be fatal.

tāng-tsoá thih-káu, the brazen snake and iron dog in Hades. tiòng-tsoá-ké, to be bewitched so as suddenly to have dropsy and die quickly, and after death become the slave of the wizard; done by a demon of serpent nature in the form of a man speaking to you; if you answer, the charm at once takes effect; a good antidote is a centipede in a box, as the snake is afraid of the centipede. chhi-tsoá-ké, to keep these elvish serpents, especially in inns. sí-tsoá, a dead serpent. tók-tsoá, a venomous serpent (v. tók). chhi-tsoá, ká koe-bú (feed a serpent to eat our hens), to have a hidden enemy in our own household.

káu-bú-tsoá, a sort of large lizard. fīg-ām-tsoá, yellow-necked serpent. chháu-hoe-tsoá, a variegated harmless kind. gīm-tsoá, a large variegated serpent; drums are made of its skin. tsúi-tsoá, a water-snake. nē<sup>n</sup>-tsoá (C.), a very poisonous sort of serpent.

tsoá (contracted from "chī-tsū-á"). tsoá-á, who? tsoá-kóng, who ever said so? (said in surprise, or showing that we don't believe it).

tsoá (=toá), to shake about horizontally with a somewhat circular motion, as a tray of grain. tsoá-tsoá tsòe-chit-tui, to shake the tray horizontally so as to bring the grain into a heap.

tsoá [R. chiá, elder sister]. goán-tsoá--ê, my elder sister's husband.

tsoá (R. chí), paper. chit-tiu<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, a sheet of paper. jī-tsoá, written or printed paper (v. jī). tsoá-hé, the worm that eats paper. tsoá-tóe, the remains of a lot of paper; shoes having paper soles. tsoá-pòe, the wrong side of the paper. tsoá-kha-chhng, id., (somewhat vulgar). tsoá-phe, a sort of pasteboard.

tsoá-tiam, a block on which paper is cut and smoothed; a quantity of paper in one block burned at once in worship. tsoá-tsām, a knife for cutting smooth large quantities of paper (v. tsām). tsoá-to, a blunt knife for cutting folded paper; a paper-knife. tsoá-hu, ashes of paper (v. hu). tsoá-mng, paper broken down very small. tsoá-mí<sup>n</sup>, id.; but (C.) the ashes at the end of a half-burned match (v. mí<sup>n</sup>). tsoá-kun, thin strips of paper for making matches or for mixing with lime. tsoá-lién, long slips of paper rolled up and dipped in oil, as matches (v. lién). tsoá-lok, paper-bags used in shops. chit-to-tsoá, one bundle of paper having the sheets all folded within each other. chit-khún-tsoá, several of these tied in one large bundle.

pè-tsoá, to paste paper, e.g. on a wall. tsòe-tsoá sai-hū, a paper-maker. kē-tsoá, to make idolatrous paper. sio-tsoá, to burn paper in worship. sái-tsoá, id. tiàu-tsoá, to go to the house where a friend has recently died, and join in the worship of the dead. sàng koan-thâu-tsoá, to make presents of the paper called "koan-thâu-tsoá" for the coffin. tap-tsoá, to make small presents in return for these rites. teh-tsoá, to put paper on the tombs in spring. pàng-tsoá, to scatter paper as the coffin is carried along. hē-tsoá, to make imprecations or incantations while burning paper, done by old hags (v. hē).

tsoá-chí<sup>n</sup>, mock money burned in idolatrous rites. kim-tsoá, yellow do. in imitation of gold. kim-gūn-tsoá, do. standing for gold and silver. chheh-á-tsoá, many sorts mixed (acc. to book called chheh-á) for curing disease. teng-tsō-tsoá, paper made into a shape like a lantern base, and burned in the rites called "chiò," in worship of Thi<sup>n</sup>-kong. khai-gán-tsoá, yellow paper with pictures of horses and chariots, burned by sorcerers (tāng-chí) to hasten the arrival of the spirit to possess him.

pēh-tek-á-tsoá, common white paper made from bamboo. mī<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, soft strong flexible paper (v. mī<sup>n</sup>). ko-lē-tsoá, strong paper from Corca. khī-á-tsoá, paper treated with the juice of green persimmons, so as to be stronger; used for umbrellas. sin-tsoá, common paper for letters, &c. (v. sin). hoān-tsoá, paper sized with alum. kak-tsoá, a sort of paper that does not readily tear. ké-á-tsoá, thin coarse sort used for making idolatrous paper. sam-liók-si tsoá, a very thin paper used for children tracing characters in school. chien-tsoá, a fine glossy paper (v. chien). kēng-tsoá, sort of drawing-paper (v. kēng). lô-bún-tsoá, writing-paper with water-lines. siáh-tsoá, marbled paper. tsng-tsoá, paper with crossed lines for legal documents.

sin-bún-tsoá, a newspaper (a foreign phrase). miá<sup>n</sup>-jī chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, to have had one's name set down in a formal document. tāng-gūn bóe tsoá-hia, siang-lāng thiong, to buy paper boots with brass dollars, and each party is highly delighted at cheating the other.

tsoá [R. tsé, to make imprecations]. chiū-tsoá, to swear. kóe-tsoá, to remove the binding power of an oath by ceremonies, esp. by using a rice-sieve, and wiping one's mouth with idolatrous paper. chiū-toá-tsoá, to swear a great oath. chiū-tāng-tsoá, id. chiū sí-chéh-tsoá, to imprecate death on self and whole posterity if what is sworn be false. chiū-sí-tsoá (r.), to imprecate death on one's self if it be false. kī-thi<sup>n</sup> chiū-tsoá, to swear by Heaven. lām-sám chiū-tsoá, to swear falsely.

tsoá, a line; a row; a column of characters; classifier of journeys, voyages, roads.

gāu-phī<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, you are very knowing (v. phī<sup>n</sup>). ká lóng-bōe chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, though taught he cannot learn to do it right. chiá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, making or becoming a line, row, road, &c.

he-tsoá, a line of caulking, &c. áu-tsoá, a line made by folding paper. se-tsoá, the lines of the threads in cotton-cloth. pè-tsoá, the lines of the cloth, as in embroidery. bō-chit-tsoá thang pi<sup>n</sup>-phē, not having a thread to stretch on his skin; nothing to wear. pè chit-tsoá-chhân, to plant out a row of rice.

kiá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá, to walk back and forwards, as after a meal. kiá<sup>n</sup>-chit-tsoá, to take a walk or journey, voyage, &c. kiá<sup>n</sup>-té-tsoá, to go a short voyage or journey. chit-tsoá-tsūn, one voyage of a ship. āu-tsoá, the next time, as of boat sailing, &c. nng-tsoá-hoái<sup>n</sup>, chit-tsoá-koái<sup>n</sup>, making one voyage to the north of China and two to Formosa in each year, as junks often do. chit-tsoá-khì, chit-tsoá-lái, constantly coming and going, back and forwards.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> [R. chien, to fry], to boil water. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-tê, to boil water in order to be used for infusing tea.

姐
紙

誑

煎

泉

tsoá<sup>n</sup> (R. tsoán), a stream at the fountain-head; the water issuing from a spring or fountain. tsúi-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, id. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, spring-water.

oáh-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a flowing fountain. si-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a pond not fed from a spring or stream. thng-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a hot spring. ngí<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a strong perennial spring. soa<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a mountain spring, seldom or never dry. chióh-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a spring among rocks. khui-chí<sup>n</sup> púih-tsoá<sup>n</sup> (to draw away the water of a neighbour's spring by the well we dig), to injure a neighbour's prosperity by opening an opposition establishment close at hand.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> — hé-nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of eruption on children (cf. toa<sup>n</sup>).

tsoá<sup>n</sup> — hóe-nâ<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup> (C.), a fire or conflagration bursting out through want of care.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> [R. tsán, to injure; broken food], slops from eating. chhùi-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, the dirt that remains on things used in eating, as on plates, bowls, chopsticks, &c. niau<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a cat's slops; filth made by a cat in eating. bak-niau<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, having the marks of a cat's teeth on it, or such filth. bak-káu-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, do. of a dog.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> (C.) = A. tsáí<sup>n</sup>. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, = A. tsáí<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, how? tsoá<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, id. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-kóng, what do you say? àn-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, how can that be?

tsoá<sup>n</sup> — tsoá<sup>n</sup>-lí, a wicker-work (bamboo) strainer for lading out rice. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-ní<sup>n</sup>, id.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> (R. tsán), a small cup; classifier of lamps and of edible birds' nests. chiú-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a small wine-cup. pô-lê-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a wine-glass. gék-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a cup made of jade.

teng-hé-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a small saucer used for a lamp. hiáng-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a small gong used by priests; a sort of musical instrument (v. hiáng). iên-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, bits of raw "bird-nest" shaped like a small cup or spoon.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> [R. chien, to fry], to fry down fat from a lump of fat or fat meat. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-iú<sup>n</sup>, do. (to be carefully distinguished from tsoá<sup>n</sup>).

tsoá<sup>n</sup> (R. chiên), to spout out in a jet. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-chhut, id. huih tsoá<sup>n</sup>--lâng, blood spouting out on by-standers. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-huih, to spout out blood, as a severe wound. tsoá<sup>n</sup>-jiô, to make water in a large stream. chhun koá<sup>n</sup>, hē ná<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, when it is cold in spring there is heavy rain.

tsoá<sup>n</sup> (R. chiên), cheap, because the supply is abundant. kùi-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, dear and cheap. noá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, very cheap and abundant. i--ê chí<sup>n</sup>-gún noá<sup>n</sup>-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, he is too free in spending money. kam-noá<sup>n</sup>, m-kam tsoá<sup>n</sup>, will let it rot rather than sell it cheap or give it away.

tsoah (Cn.) tsoah-ngá, a small bamboo frame put in the bottom of a rice boiler when cooking, to keep the food from being singed; also used when cooking by steaming. chhō-tsoah, id.

tsoah (Cn.) = A. chiah, this, thus, &c.

tsoah, to shake back and forwards, as man or boat, &c.; to spill by shaking; to tremble; to be in an excited state, as people at rumours of rebellion, &c. tsoah--chhut-lâi, to get spilled, as water by shaking. phah-tsoah, to shake so as to spill.

le kàu phah-tsoah (T.), far too merry and jolly.

iô-tsoah, in an excited state, as the people at reports of approaching calamity, rebellion, &c.

tsoáh — chién-tsoáh, the worm that eats books. ka-tsoáh, a cockroach. hái-ka-tsoáh, an insect (like a slater) found in boats. ka-tsoáh-sit (lit.

wings), a sort of acacia with pinnate leaves; also (C.), a water-plant with thin oblong leaves that float on the surface. ka-tsoáh-hièn, bad smell from cockroaches. chhâu-ka-tsoáh-hièn, id.

chhù-tsoáh, a sort of middleman or house agent, who helps in buying or renting houses (not polite). soa<sup>n</sup>-ka-tsoáh (Cn.), a man who looks out grave sites to sell; also (C.), a sort of insect.

tsoáh, to differ, esp. for the worse; to sprain severely, much worse than "ut-tiòh." tsoáh--tiòh, to be sprained. tsoáh-kun, a very bad sprain.

khah-tsoáh, rather different; not quite so good. tsoáh hng, the difference is great. tsoáh tsôe, id. tsoáh-pân, to differ from the pattern. tsoáh-bi, slightly tainted, as meat. seng-lí lóng-tsoáh, trade has become very dull and small. cheng-tsoáh, to differ (v. cheng). tsáu-tsoáh, to differ; to be put out of order, e.g. as something evenly arranged, as a neat pile of books. chit-ê-loáh, chiú tsáu-tsoáh (prov.), don't touch it, or you will injure it (v. loáh). hun-kim-á-tsoáh, very slight divergence, as from the pattern, or very slight want of regularity in a piece of work, e.g. the rays of a fan not being quite even when shut.

tsoáh (C.) = A. chhoáh, diagonal.

tsoái, to twist or wrench backwards and forwards. tsoái-lâi tsoái-khi, id.; to twist one's self from side to side; said also of toes or other things so twisted. tsoái-chih, to break by twisting back and forward, as a nail. tsoái-tng, id. oai-oai tsoái-tsoái, all twisted and awry; not even. chhit-oai poeh-tsoái, all wrong together.

tsoan — tsoan-hông, a petty military officer (v. hông).

tsoan (R. id.) tsoan-tsoan, exclusively; undividedly. tsoan-it, mind set exclusively on one thing. sim tsoan-it, id. tsoan-sim, id. tsoan-sim ti-chi, id. tsoan-i, id. tsoan-i-kè, id.; of set purpose. tsoan-bū (R.), to attend with one's whole heart. tsoan-liên, to be specially skilful at one kind or department of work. tsoan-ti gán-khe, exclusively treats eye diseases.

tsū-tsoan, to take on one's self; to act without due authority. tsoan-koân, to have or take the sole management, either of our own affairs, or of what is committed to us, or by unjust assumption or usurpation.

tsoán [R. aspring or fountain, = col. tsoá<sup>n</sup>]. tsoán-chiu, Chin-chew. chiang-tsoán, Chang-chew and Chin-chew (v. chiang).

kiú-tsoán tōe-ê, the invisible world; Hades. hông-tsoán lē-siōng (R.), id. hông-tsoán, id. hông-tsoán lē-chiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

sék-tsoán, a fountain among rocks. sèng-tsoán, a sacred fountain.

tsoán [R. complete, = col. tsùg, chiâu]. tsoán-jiên, entirely. sún-tsoán, perfect, as in character (v. sún). oân-tsoán, complete; to complete. oân-bêng tsoán-chiet, good reputation preserved till death (v. chiet). hok-lók-siú tsoán, good fortune, rank, and longevity all complete. tióng-hàu lióng-tsoán, fidelity and filial piety both perfect (esp. of a mandarin).

pó-tsoán, to keep in safety (v. pó). chiu-tsoán, to arrange a dispute or agreement all right for another. kiú-tsoán chek-pi, to insist on having everything quite perfect, without the least error.

tsoán-si, an unutilized corpse, as when strangled

殘

筮
盞煎
濺

賤

蟻

擗

耑
專

泉

全

or otherwise killed, but not beheaded, and having the limbs all entire. tsóan-sin, the whole body (alive). tsóan-su (C.), an entire suit of clothes. tsóan-su, an entire set of volumes; complete works of an author. tsóan-si (C.), id. lâu-tsoán-hoat, to let all the hair of the head grow, as women. tsóan-ke, whole household. tsóan-iet, salted scorpions, used in medicine.

tsóan-báuh, to contract for in a lump. tsóan-léng, I accept the whole (of a present).

tsóan [R. to turn; to transfer; = col. tng]. ün-tsoán, to revolve in orbit, as moon, &c. thi<sup>n</sup> teh-ün-tsoán, heaven revolving round the earth. tsóan-táu-tiá<sup>n</sup>, a complaint entered on an unusual day at the yamun (v. táu).

tsóan-gán, a short time after; said only of things past.

tsóan-pièn, able to adapt one's plans, language, or conduct to suit changed circumstances; versatile. hoan-tsoán, id. ü-hoan-tsoán, id. bô-tê thang-khi hoan-tsoán, having no way to get money, &c.; quite at a stand. bôe-tit--thang tsoán-sin, having no room to turn in, as in a narrow road; quite at a stand in managing a matter. tsóan-oan, to put another face on a matter (gen. somewhat false), so as to get a quarrel settled for a man (v. oan). oán-tsoán, adapting one's words, &c., very nicely to the occasion, with delicate tact; going round about to reach an end. oán-tsoán-khng, to exhort in a specially kind and winning way, often somewhat round about. oán-tsoán-kiú, to beseech in a delicate, winning, and insinuating way.

tsóan-sè (C. si), to be transmigrated again into human form, after punishment (v. sè). tsóan-sè (C. sè), to sublet. tsóan-tièn, to remortgage. tsóan-kau, to hand over to another a thing first committed to us. tsóan-thok, to hand over to a third party, as a thing, message, or commission, first intrusted to us.

tsóan, to earn or gain, as money or food. tsóan-thán, id. tsóan-chiáh, to get one's living by any means, work or begging. tsóan-chi<sup>n</sup>, to get money by work or begging. hiau-hêng tsoán, to get a living by bad means. kióng-tsoán, to demand money (as a beggar) impudently and improperly. hó-tsoán, good for getting money at, as a house where beggars are liberally treated.

tsóan [R. chién, to cut]. tsóan-jióng, the mule pink or sweet william, &c.

tsóan [R. chhoàn, to cook]. chien-tsoán, to fry and then boil. chien-tsoán-á, id.

tsóan (R. chhoàn), (T. and also A. chhoàn), to supplant another in employment. tsóan-thâu-lê, id. khit--i tsoán--khi, to be so supplanted. khit--i tsoán-bô--khi, id. tsóan-bô-khi, to fail in the attempt to supplant.

tsóan (R. id.) tê-tsoán, to pretend to have knowledge or authority, e.g. to pretend to have got a message to deliver, or a commission to execute; to invent false additions to what we were authorized to say; to invent wrong meanings, or wrong characters for words, to conceal our ignorance; to invent new and unclassical phrases.

tsóan [R. id.; cf. tsün], to turn or twist, as a key, or as the neck; a foreign lock; to lock a foreign lock; to wind up, as a watch.

gâu lién-tsoán, skilful at screwing money out of people, by hook or by crook, as by swindling, by intimidation, &c.

tsóan-chih, to twist off. tsóan pio-á, to wind up a watch. tsóan-mng, to lock a door with foreign lock. tsóan-khui, to unlock a lock of foreign style.

tsóan-si, the key of a foreign lock. pio-á-tsoán, a watch-key. chiú-tsoán, a cork-screw. lê-si-tsoán, the thread of a screw. thoah-tsoán, the lock of a drawer. kap-bân-tsoán, lock of a strong chest, as for money. mng-tsoán, a door-lock. tèng-tsoán, to put on a lock on a door (all of foreign style, while the Chinese form is a padlock, called "sô").

tsóat (R. id.) chhi-tsoat, stupid. gú-tsoat, stupid, said of one's self. ù-tsoat, very dull of apprehension (v. ù). tsóat-tit (I am) a simple straightforward man. tsóat-lôe (R.), my wife. lóng-kháu sêng-tsoat, trying to act cleverly, but really very stupidly. lóng-kháu hoán-tsoat, id.

tsóat — tsóat-chhut-lái, to break out, as grain from a bag that bursts open.

tsóat [R. to destroy; to cut off; to the utmost, sign of superlative; = col. chéh].

tsóat-kau, to break off intimacy. tsóat-chêng, quite alienated in feeling. kat-tsoát, determined to have no more intercourse. koat-tsoát, id. tsóat-tng, to break off, as a habit, an acquaintanceship, &c. toán-tsoát (R.), having broken off all intercourse or friendship.

biét-tsoát (r.), to exterminate. tsóat-tsú biét-sun, may all your posterity be cut off! tsóat-sú, without male posterity.

tsóat-báng, to lose hope; to despair.

kü-tsoát, to reject; to cast off. khi-tsoát, id. khi tsoát, has expired. khiu tsoát, id.

tsóat-biâu (r.), very excellent. tsóat-khó-ê<sup>n</sup> (r.), very hateful. tsóat-sek (R.), very beautiful, of a woman.

tsóe (C. che), dough. nng-tsoe, soft dough. tèng-tsoe, stiff dough. m<sup>n</sup>-tsoe, wet dough from wheaten flour. ké-tsoe (C. kóe-che), dough for soft steamed cakes. piá<sup>n</sup>-tsoe, dough prepared for making cakes or biscuits. liám piá<sup>n</sup>-tsoe, to break off enough of dough for each cake.

tsóe (C. che).

phái<sup>n</sup>-kut-tsoe (made of bad stuff), said in scolding a boy who behaves ill and seems likely to turn out a bad man. hó-gín-á-tsoe, well-behaved boy giving promise of being a good man.

hó-sin-tsoe, body well formed.

sa<sup>n</sup>-á-tsoe, material enough for making one coat.

tsóe — bák-kiáh-tsoe, an implement like a wooden clog (bák-kiáh) with a strap of palm-fibre across it, held in the hand by poor cripples who crawl on the ground.

tsôe — hó-sin-tsôe, well formed in body, neither too fat nor too lean.

tsôe [R. chê, in good order; even], (C. chê; Cn. tsôe), in some phrases interchanged with "chê."

tsôe-tsôe, regular; all equally; all together; all evenly; blunted, as the point of a hair-pencil. siá tsôe-tsôe, write evenly. bô-tsôe, uneven; unequal; irregular, as a number of things that were expected to be even or equal.

tsôe-thâu-to, a knife made with a square end, as those used in kitchens.

chéng-tsôe, to adjust in order. tsôe-chéng, in good and regular order, as furniture, clothes, tecth, &c. tsôe-tsá<sup>n</sup>, id. pái-khi-tsôe, arrange neatly and evenly. pí-khi-tsôe, put them together and see that

轉

拙

絕

剪
髮
篦
撰

齊

they are all the same length, &c. chhèk - tsòe, to shake (as pencils or lots) so as to make them all even. all arrived; to arrange a matter so as to please all; hiáh-kha tsòe, the line dividing the hair from the bare part of the forehead nearly even and level across the brow, counted good-looking in women. siang-kha khiá-tsòe, standing with feet even, as in making a respectful bow.

tsòe-chip, to assemble in large or full numbers. kiò-khi-tsòe, call all the persons together, as for some special purpose. chhoân-tsòe, to make all ready for some purpose, as men or things. chhú-tsòe (C. chí-ché), fully assembled, e.g. for a procession. chít-tsòe-lái, id. tán-tsòe, to wait till all have come. hōe-tsòe, to assemble for some common action. hē-tsòe, id. tāi-ke tsòe-kàu, all have arrived. tsòe-pī, all complete in number, as a number of things. tsáp-chèng tsòe-khi, attacked by a complication of diseases at once. ngó-lē tsòe-hoat, calamities come at once from all quarters. bān-lē-chi<sup>n</sup> tsòe-hoat, id.

tsòe-sia<sup>n</sup>, with united voice. tsòe-sim, with one heart. tsòe-kiáu, to unite capital to set up a gambling-house. tsòe-lién-pó, to join capital to set up a place where gambling is done by the "lién-pó" (q.v.) tsòe-pó, id.

tsòe — tsòe--lāng, to treat a man curly and slightly, so as to show displeasure and make him ashamed, esp. in an indirect manner, as by some round-about allusion, or by saying something to another. ná<sup>n</sup>-tsòe--lāng, as if you wish to slight people, said (e.g.) as to refusing a present.

tsòe (R. tsò), (C. tsò; Cn. tsòe), to make; to act; to do; to be, especially with the idea of doing; to perform, as rites; to keep, as feast or birth-day; counterfeit, "made up;" to make a betrothal or be betrothed (as the word is so much used about marriage, great care must be taken in its use on other matters).

si<sup>n</sup>-tsòe, to be naturally; naturally so (v. si<sup>n</sup>). tsòe-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to complete (v. chiá<sup>n</sup>). tsòe-kè, to have done it; to have done it before. kā-lāng-tsòe, to make a thing for a man. tiá<sup>n</sup>-tsòe, made to order. piēn-tsòe, ready-made. chiáu - tsòe, doing one's work diligently and well. ōe-tsòe--tit, it will do; can or may be done. bōe-tsòe--tit, will not do; may not be done. tsòe bōe-tit-lái, unable to effect it. lí ká-ki tsòe-tit-lái, you have brought this trouble on yourself. ám-tsòe-chi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), secretly.

tsòe-lāng, behaviour (v. lāng). tsòe-chèng, to do a favour (v. chèng, "feelings"). tsòe-chèng (T. tsái<sup>n</sup>; Cn. tsái<sup>n</sup>), walk first (v. chèng, "front"). tsòe-thâu, to be first; to be head (v. thâu). tsòe-kang, to do work. tsòe-khang, to conspire together to injure or deceive a man. tsòe-gōe, to make small things just to pass the time. tsòe-si, to make odes or hymns. tsòe-seng-lí, to trade. tsòe-bák, to be a carpenter; to do carpenter's work. tsòe-bāng, to dream. tsòe-lī, to have dysentery. tsòe - kù, wanton joking or gestures, as men and women. tsòe-sū, to act, esp. to begin a troublesome affair. sū sī-i tsòe, it was he who raised the trouble. tsòe-pó, to put the die (of the gambling called "lién-pó") in its shell ready for the gambling.

tsòe-lí-kóng, speak on just as you like; don't be afraid, but speak out; say on. tsòe-lí-thák, read it out aloud if you wish; read it and let us hear. tsòe-i-khi, went away of his own accord. i tsòe-i, goá tsòe-goá, he and I are quite separate. bīn tsòe- bīn, kha tsòe-kha, legs and top (of a sort of table) able to be taken separate.

tsòe-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to be a pléde or earnest; to be used or given as an earnest. tsòe seng-lé, to be used as a ceremonial offering.

tsòe - hong, to be windy; there is wind. tsòe-hong lóh-hē, to have wind and rain. tsòe-tang-lām, a violent south-east storm rising. tang - bīn tsòe-sek, first light of dawn in the east. tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>-thi<sup>n</sup>, it is stormy. thi<sup>n</sup> beh-tsòe-phái<sup>n</sup>, the weather is going to be bad. thi<sup>n</sup> tsòe-ø, sky all dark and cloudy, as if going to rain.

tsòe-tin, to go in a large company. tsòe-phoā<sup>n</sup>, to go as a companion. tsòe-pū, to come together (v. pū). tsòe chít-tui, to meet or collect together (v. tui). tsòe-tui, to be a pair; to be antithetical. tsòe-kheh, to go for a few days to visit her own relations, as a wife; to get married, as a virgin.

tsòe-sien-si<sup>n</sup>, to be a doctor. tsòe-tiong--ê, to act as middle-man. tsòe-ní--ê, a dyer. tsòe-pút, to become a Buddha. tsòe-kú, to be a ghost or demon; to cause trouble secretly. tsòe hē-siū<sup>n</sup>, to have Buddhist priests performing rites for the dead in one's house; to be a Buddhist priest.

tsòe-chia<sup>n</sup>, to keep the new-year. tsòe-tang, to keep the winter festival (ancestral). tsòe-kī, to keep the anniversary of a death with ceremonies. tsòe-tù-ni<sup>n</sup>, to perform these rites on the first anniversary, i.e. just one year after the death. tsòe-sūn, to make offerings at set intervals to the dead (represented by the "hūn-sin") soon after death (v. sūn). tsòe pah-jit, to have these rites for a hundred days. tsòe-si<sup>n</sup>-jit, to keep a birth-day (v. si<sup>n</sup>). tsòe-chiò, to perform the Taoist rites called "chiò."

tsng - tsòe, to counterfeit (v. tsng). tsòe - tsoh, counterfeit, as goods. tsòe - sek, to make a colour, esp. a false colour (v. sek). tsòe-chhiú, counterfeit work. tsòe-hè, to make old goods look new for purpose of deceit. tsòe-àn, to make a false accusation in court. teh-tsòe-àn, telling lies.

tsòe-sim-pū, to get a daughter-in-law; to betroth a girl to one's son; to be a daughter-in-law. tsòe i--ê sim-pū, to be his daughter-in-law. tsòe-bé, to make arrangements (betrothal, &c.) for getting a wife for one's self. kā--i tsòe-bé, to make arrangements for getting a wife for him, e.g. for one's son or nephew. tsòe chít-ê-bé hē--i, id. hē--i tsòe-bé, to give one's daughter (or niece, &c.) to him to be his bride. tsòe-chhin, to settle a marriage contract; to have affinity with each other, as the parents of the couple. tsòe chhin-ke, to fix a marriage alliance between each other's children. tsòe chhin-chiá<sup>n</sup>, to marry a wife or get one's son or nephew married; to espouse or betroth, as self or son, &c., said either about bride or bridegroom. tsòe-tiá<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, the engagement of betrothal made. tsòe--lāng, to betroth one's daughter (or niece, &c.) to a man. tsòe-tsòe hē--lāng, to give away one's daughter (or any girl under our control) to a man to be his wife, esp. without much care in choosing the son-in-law. m - ká<sup>n</sup> khi - tsòe, dares not take her for bride, &c. tsòe-lái tsòe-khi, two or more marriage connections formed between two families. tsòe tá-lóh-lāng, of what place is the person to whom betrothed. lí--ê tsa-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup> tsòe sim-mih-lāng, to what man is your daughter betrothed. i-ê-kiá<sup>n</sup> tsòe lí--ê tsa-bé-kiá<sup>n</sup>, his son is betrothed to your daughter.

tsòe [R. an excrescence, = col. chh]. chin-tsòe, marrying and going to live in the house of the bride's father for a longer or shorter time (gen. short), but retaining one's own surname and having full power over one's own household, thus differing from the manner of marriage called "chio." jip-tsōe (R.), id.

做

tsōe-á (C.) = A. cheh-á, a wart.

tsōe (R. id. = col. chē), (Cn. tsō), guilt, liability to the punishment of crime.

tsōe-siók, a crime. tsōe-kò (R.), id. tsōe-giét, great wickedness. tsōe-ok (r.), great guilt or crime (v. ok). khin-tsōe, slight guilt. tāng-tsōe, great guilt. sí-tsōe, guilt deserving death. chhut-tsōe, to be banished or transported.

tsōe-àn, a criminal case. tsōe-hoān, a criminal. tsōe-jîn, a man with whom fault is found; also (r.), a criminal against the laws of man or of heaven. goá-si-i-ê tsōe-jîn, he looks on me as utterly opposed to him.

hoān-tsōe, to incur guilt; to commit a crime. tek-tsōe, to offend; to incur blame or displeasure; I beg your pardon. tek-lán-tsōe, to offend us. tek-lāng-ê-tsōe, to offend people. sù-tsōe (polite), pardon me, sir, for my want of politeness, &c. hék-tsōe u-thien (R.), to incur guilt against Heaven. jîn-tsōe, to confess guilt or fault. hók-tsōe (R.), id. ti-tsōe, id. tí-tsōe, to punish guilt, as magistrate. pān-tsōe, id. chhú-tsōe (R.), id. (v. chhú, "to manage"). chhú-tsōe (R.), to contract guilt (v. chhú, "to take"). tēng-tsōe, to condemn, as a judge. būn-tsōe (r.), id. chek-tsōe, to lay the blame upon; to charge the fault upon, e.g. for managing a matter ill or spoiling something. put-ti, put-tsōe, in case of ignorance, guilt is not reckoned or counted. sià-tsōe, to forgive guilt. siau-tsōe, to remove guilt by rites (as Taoist priest or sorceress), esp. at the tutelary temple. siók-tsōe, to atone for guilt. siū-tsōe, to bear the punishment. péh-á thau-chiáh; ɛ-á siū-tsōe, the white dog stealthily eats meat and the black one suffers for it (or ɛ-á &c., péh-á &c.) thòe-lāng chē-tsōe, to bear the responsibility of another's guilt. thòe-lāng chiáh-tsōe, id.

tsōe (R. to), (C. chē; Cn. tsōe), many; much. tsōe-tsōe, id. tsōe-chió, many and few; much or little; how many? (v. chió). hiah-tsōe, so many (v. hiah). joā-tsōe, how many? (v. joā).

chhui tsōe, talkative. tsōe-ōe, talking much when he should be quiet.

tsōe (C.) = A. chē. tuh-ka-tsōe, drowsy and nodding.

tsoeh [R. chiet, a joint; a term; = col. tsat], (C. cheh; Cn. tsōeh), a term of the year; a festival. tsoeh-khùi, the twenty-four terms of the solar year. tsōe-tsoeh, to keep a festival-day. tsoeh-gí, presents given to teachers at terms. ni<sup>n</sup>-tsoeh, the terms and festivals of the year. bô-ni<sup>n</sup> bô-tsoeh, not keeping the heathen yearly terms and festivals. sàng-ni<sup>n</sup>-tsoeh, to make presents at the terms (v. sàng). ni<sup>n</sup>-tang géh-tsoeh, all the terms, festivals, and anniversaries of a year, at which rites are regularly performed and expenses incurred. kong-pô sí-kí, ni<sup>n</sup>-tang géh-tsoeh, do., both public and private.

sa<sup>n</sup>-jit-tsoeh, the 3.3. gē-jit-tsoeh, the dragon-boat festival, 5.5. tióng-ióng-tsoeh, the 9.9.

thàn-chí-tsōeh (Cn.), take advantage of the present opportunity.

ū-chi<sup>n</sup>, jit-jit tsoeh; bô-chi<sup>n</sup>, tsoeh-tsoeh khang, a man who has money has a festival every day of the year; to a man without money every festival is an empty name. tsoeh-chêng bô-êng; tsoeh-áu chiū-pān, can attend to the business only when the festival is over.

tsōeh [R. chiét, to cut off, to obstruct, = col. tsáh], (Cn. tsōeh; C. chēh, chhiét, in different phrases), to slice vertically. tsōeh-hun, to slice down tobacco. tsōeh tsòe-sì-chiu, to cut into four quarters, as a cake. phoe-phoe tsōeh-tsōeh, may you be sliced up and minced small!

ū-tsám-tsōeh, able to decide with wisdom and promptitude and act with rapidity. tsám-teng tsōeh-thih (lit. cutting nails and iron), decided and determined, so as to listen to nothing to the contrary.

tsoh (R. tiok), to build, as a wall or dyke. tsoh-chhiá<sup>n</sup>, to build a wall. tsoh-tsàu, to build a fireplace, as in kitchen. tsoh-pi, to build a weir or dam on a river. tsoh-tsúi, to bank up or dam up a water-course so as to turn it into the fields.

tsoh [R. tsok, to do; to make], to work the fields. tsoh-hng, to cultivate dry fields. tsoh-chhān, to cultivate irrigated fields. chēng-tsoh, to do agricultural work in general; to farm. tsoh-sit, to do agricultural work; also (Cn.), to do any kind of work.

tsoh-siū, to build a nest. tsoh-bit, to make honey, as bee. tsòe kap-tsoh, to be a carpenter who makes furniture, an upholsterer, or cabinet-maker. kap-tsoh-tiām, a furniture shop.

gē-tsoh, a coroner. sòe-tsoh, a spy. hā-tsoh, mean and low in character, position, or actions (v. hā). tsòe-tsoh, counterfeit.

hoat-tsoh, to come to light, as a secret; to come to pass, as a plot; to break out on the body, as a disease, often one that has been long kept hid; to begin to grow tall and big, as a boy just changing into a man. ke-ūn hoat-tsoh, the family now becoming prosperous.

kóng tsáp-tsoh gē-gōh (T.), to talk intentionally in an involved and indistinct way (v. gēh).

tsòh [R. tsòk, yesterday, but the colloquial for "yesterday" is only "tsā" q.v.]

tsòh-jit, the day before yesterday. tsòh-jit-mi<sup>n</sup>, the night before last. lòh--tsòh-jit, the second day before yesterday. sùn--tsòh-jit (Cn.), id.

tsòh (R. ték), to throw, as a stone; to shoot, as an arrow. tsòh-hiet-kák, to throw away. tsòh-khi, id. tsòh--lái, throw it to me. tsòh-khi-chiá<sup>n</sup>, throw straight. tsòh-chiū<sup>n</sup>--khi, to throw upwards. tsòh-chi<sup>n</sup>, to shoot an arrow. tsòh-chiòh-tháu, to throw a stone.

tsòh-sí-lāng, to kill a man by a stone or an arrow. tsòh chit-khang, to make a wound or indentation, as by a stone thrown. tsòh chit-láu, to make a swelling by throwing a stone.

bák-chiu tsòh-chiáu, the skin of the eye drawn up at the corner, giving a squinting look.

tsòh — tsám-tsòh, unequal in size, shape, or goodness, as things that should be all uniform; feeling anxious and uncomfortable about a number of troublesome matters. tsáp-tsòh, confused and involved, as an affair; anxious and uncomfortable about many affairs.

tsòh (Cn.) = A. cheh, to dry with a gentle touch of a cloth or of the finger.

tsòh — tsòh-thoah (Cn.) = A. tsau-that, to abuse or use lavishly (v. thoah).

tsòh (Cn.) = A. chēh, to exterminate.

tsok [R. to make; to do; to act; = col. tsoh]. tsok-lók, to manifest delight by gestures or appearance. png-sîn tsok-hok, to have a good feast on the occa-

罪

截

築

作

多

昨

擲

節

作

sion of worshipping an idol. tsok-ui tsok-hok, to behave proudly and insolently, as a mandarin or a powerful and prosperous man (v. ui). tsok-gák, to play music. tsok-ip, to make a ceremonial bow. tsok-tiong, to act as middle-man. tsok-tong, to act as host (v. tong, "east").

tsok-sêng, to assist in business, as by money or by good name. tsok-chhái, to make a present to a man with expression of good wishes for his prosperity. tsok-tiâu, to make offerings at the ceremonies for a deceased friend, sort of condolence.

tsáp-tsok, miscellaneous literary compositions, not including essays. tsū-tsok tsū-tong, he who does it must himself bear the responsibility. kám-tsok kám-tong, id.

tsok-giét, to act very wickedly. úi-hui tsok-tái, id. tsok-hoat, to practise black arts. tsok-pè, to molest, as a demon causing disease; to hinder an affair secretly and maliciously. tsok-koài, to molest people, as a demon; to act in an idle ill-behaved way, as a fast and disorderly youth; to injure a man by secret plots or opposition. tsok-lóng, to annoy or possess, as a demon; to play tricks on, to befool, as a man. tsok-tsóng, to molest or afflict, as a demon; to injure by black arts or intrigues.

tsók — pè-tì siu<sup>n</sup>-tsók, too crowded with furniture, as a room.

tsók (R. id.), a tribe or clan, esp. of same surname; kindred. tsong-tsók, id. thong-tsók, the whole kindred. tsók-tiong, among persons of the same kindred. pún-tsók, of our relatives or clan. tsók-sì<sup>n</sup>, a clan of one surname. tsók-sèng, id. tsók-phài, a great division of a clan.

tsók-chhin, a very distant relative of the same surname. tsók-tit, id. (junior). kióng-tsók, a powerful clan. tsók-tiú<sup>n</sup>, the head of a clan. khai-tsók, to found a family or clan. tsók-phé, a genealogical table.

kiú-tsók, the nine relations, from great great-grandfather to great great-grandson. sam-tsók, our own relatives, with those of wife and mother. chhiau sam-tsók, to exterminate all the relatives of a man, of his wife, and of his mother. biét-tsók, to exterminate a whole family.

tsúi-tsók, the fishy tribes.

tsom (C.), = A. tsam, a hair-pin.

tsom (C.), = A. chim (moral maxims). tsom-gân, = A. chim-giân, id.

tsong — kui-tsong, the whole quantity of goods of a particular sort in a hong. kui-tsong kui-ih, in whole quantities; wholesale. kui-tsong ê-seng-lí, a wholesale business. kui-tsong bôe, to buy the whole of the goods of one sort that are in the hong. kui-tsong bôe, to sell the whole lot, as above.

tsong — chhok-tsong, taking what comes to hand without selection; whatever we may chance upon, as the first man we may meet, or first thing we find. chhok-tsong thoéh-hē-i, give him at random, as money, &c. chhok-tsong mng-i, ask him whatever comes up in our mind; ask him to read or repeat a passage "ad aperturam."

tsong (R. id.), a clan. tsong-tsók, id. tái-tsong kú-tsók, a great and numerous clan. siáu-tsong, a small ancestral hall of one branch (of a large family that has a common ancestral hall), that counts only a few generations back. tsong-phài, a clan. tsé-tsong, ancestors (v. tsé).

tsong--ê, having the same surname though not nearly related. tông-tsong--ê, of the same clan. tông-sèng, put-tông-tsong, of the same surname but of different clan. tông-sèng put-tsong, id.

tsong (R. id.) chêng-tsong, correct in conduct. toan-tsong, do., especially of women.

tsong [R. to adorn; to feign; to pack or store up (perhaps two words); = col. tsng].

tsong-jiám, to put colour on a white ground, or on a black and white sketch (v. jiám). iám-tsong, splendidly dressed, as woman. tám-tsong, simply and plainly but neatly adorned, as woman.

tsong-khiang (C.), making a false show and pretence (v. khiang).

kun-tsong, military stores. kun-tsong-kék, an arsenal.

tsong [R. footmarks; traces]. tsong-chek, traces. bā bō-tsong-chek, to search but find no trace. lái bō-tsong, khi bō-chek, going and coming without leaving any trace; very sudden or secret in movements, so that no one knows; e.g. as a thief. lái bō-tsong, khi bō-jiah (or bō-ia<sup>n</sup>), id. lái bū-tsong, khi bū-éng, id.

ōe si-hong; ji si-tsong, spoken words are wind, but written words leave a mark; sometimes translated "words when written are also deceitful," from "tsong," to adorn; to feign.

tsóng (R. id.) tsun-tsóng (R.), to reverence; to adore; to worship.

tsóng (R. id.), to hide, as person or thing. tsóng-lóng, id. thau-tsóng, to conceal and hide, as stolen goods or smuggled articles, or as a criminal. ún-tsóng, to hide and keep secret, as a thing picked up, or as stolen goods. àm-tsóng, to hide or secrete, as a thing or person. bái-tsóng (R.), id.

tē-tsóng-ông, a god supposed to rule the spirit world.

tsóng, to spring or leap up; to rear; to rush rapidly. tsóng--tsáu, to escape and run away. tsáu-tsóng, to work hard and hurry about constantly in haste without resting. tsóng-lái tsóng-khi, to leap and frisk about; to work in great haste; moving about rapidly back and forwards. tsóng-lái tsóng-khi, tsóng-bô-lê, trying all ways but not finding any successful. tsóng-bô-lê, id. tsóng-jip tsóng-chhut, rushing out and in, as in great bustle. tsóng--chhut-khi, to rush out. tsóng--jip-khi, to rush in. tsóng--khi-lái, to rear, as a horse.

tsóng (R. id.), all; prefix, with a meaning nearly like "yet after all;" affix to the name of a military officer of the rank "tsóng-ia," e.g. "bák-tsóng," the "chhien-tsóng" named "bák."

lóng-tsóng, all. lóng-lóng tsóng-tsóng, id. tsóng-láng, to sum up in a rough general way. tsóng-sng, to reckon up the total amount. tsóng-phé, a ledger. tsóng-phé, a ship's cook. tsóng-kiet, a general balance, as at end of year, or at closing an account or a business (v. kiet). tsóng-miá<sup>n</sup>, a general term or name. tsóng-hô, id. tsóng-hô-miá<sup>n</sup>, id.

tsóng-lí, to rule; to manage, as an official appointed for some special duty. tsóng-koán, to have general oversight over a number of persons employed. tsóng-koá<sup>n</sup>, a sort of boatswain (not now used) in the old large Amoy junks. tsóng-sū, to have the general management and oversight of many matters. tsòe tsóng-kun-thâu, to have the chief management of a matter.

莊莊

莊莊

崇藏

總

族

宗

宗

tsòng-thâu, head-man of the police, messengers, or constables in a yamun. chhe-tsóng, id. toā-tsóng, a still more powerful head of these police. tsóng-pó, a head-man of the villages round Amoy (v. pó).

tsóng-tok, governor-general; viceroy. tsóng-peng, a general officer in army or navy. tsóng-toà, an officer temporarily appointed to the command of a force. tsóng-iá, commander of a thousand soldiers (on paper). chhien-tsóng, id. pé-tsóng, a captain supposed to command a hundred soldiers. peh-tsóng (C.), id. pé-tsóng (C.), id. pah-tsóng (Cn.), id., only of cavalry. bé-pah-tsóng (Cn.), id. of cavalry. toā-tsóng-chhái, examiner for the Tsin-sze (chín-sū) degree.

tsóng-sī, yet after all; nevertheless it is —. tsóng m̄-sī-i, it would appear (though there was room for doubt) that it was not he. m̄ tsóng-tiòh-khì, well, as there is no help for it, must just go. m̄ tsóng-tiòh àn-ni", well, as there is no other way, it must just be done so. tsóng ká" m̄-sī, probably it is not, but with two or three to ten that it may be so. tsóng bô-lâng chhin-chhiu" lí-ê-khoán, there is no one in all the world so bad as you! tsóng-bô, though antecedently improbable, yet now it seems probable that —, e.g. tsóng-bô sī-i thau-thóeh, though one would not have suspected him, yet it would seem that he is the thief, as there is apparently no other explanation possible.

tsóng (R. id.), to bury. bái-tsóng, id. tái-tsóng, id. tsóng-bóng (r.), id. an-tsóng, to bury in proper way with due ceremonies. chin-tsóng, to place the coffin in the grave. chhut-tsóng, to carry out and bury. sàng-tsóng, to attend a funeral. chiám-tsóng, to take unjust possession of a grave for burial. háp-tsóng, to bury together at once. hū-tsóng, to bury side by side with a relative previously buried. tsóng-kim, to bury a jar with old bones. tsóng-koan, to bury a body in coffin, opp. to burying old bones. ín tsóng, báu hoat, in a few hours after the burial the propitious influence begins.

tsóng [R. tiòng, to hit the mark]. put-tsóng-ióng (C.), = A. put-tiòng-ióng, or put-chiòng-ióng, dull and useless, as a man.

tsóng [R. strong, as a young man]. tsóng-teng, a strong young man, from about twenty to forty. bin-tsóng, lictors of civil mandarins, who use rattan whips. bin-tsóng-thâu, a head-man over several of them.

tsóng-kiên, strong and robust, as man. kien-tsóng, firmly made, as furniture; strong, as a city, &c. ióng-tsóng, vigorous and strong, as a grown-up man. sim tsóng, firm-hearted. kun-ki tiâu-tsóng, having so good a horoscope (as child), that it will grow strong and be fortunate.

tsóng-tá", to stir up one's courage; very bold (v. tá"). tsóng kok-thé, to increase the power or dignity of the state, as a wise or powerful mandarin. tsóng-ióng ê-ióh, medicine taken by men for venereal purposes.

tsóng — tái-tsóng-iá (C.), a paper image worshipped in the seventh moon.

tsóng — bōng-tsóng, careless; clumsy; clownish; unmannerly; awkward; uncouth. bōng-tsóng-hàn, a clownish awkward fellow.

tsóng [R. form, = col. tsǎng, chiōng]. hēng-tsóng, form; shape. ki-hēng koài-tsóng, a strange appearance. m̄-chiá"-tsóng, ill-shaped; ugly chit-tsóng, ná" ka"-siú, very dirty and disorderly in dress and hair, like a prisoner. lí hó-tsóng, you are just as bad (as he with whom you find fault). ti" chit-ê-tsóng, put on an appearance for a pretext. tiu" chit-ê-tsóng, id.

tsóng chit-kù-ōe, to pretend that a man said something which he did not say. khioh chit-kù-ōe lái-tsóng-i, to pretend that one man said a thing that was not said by him, but by another. chháu-tsóng (esp. C.) to pretend that a thing or affair exists which does not exist. chháu-lōng-tsóng, id.

tsóng-goân, = chiōng-goân, the highest of the new Hanlin members at one time (v. goân).

tsóng — tsok-tsóng, to possess or to injure in any way, as an evil spirit; to injure by some black art, or by some secret intrigue or trick, as man.

tsóng [R. id., by change of tone from "tsóng," to hide or lay up]. sam-tsóng, a Buddhist priest of the Tang dynasty, who invented the rite called "túg-tsǎng" for women who die within the first month. tōng-sam-tsóng, id.

tsóng (R. id. = col. tsǎng). ngé-tsóng, the five great internal organs, heart, liver, lungs, stomach (and kidneys? or bladder?). ngé-tsóng liók-hú, all the great internal organs and intestines.

tsóng, or chōng (Cn.), = A. cheng, in some tones and words.

tsóng — lē-tsóng (Cn.), = lē-chēng, an expression of surprise and displeasure at a man spoiling something by his folly or awkwardness.

tsu (R. id.) gūn-tsu, vermilion; red ink. tsuse, cinnabar. thē-tsu, an inferior red paint.

tsu [R. red], a surname. tsu-būn-kong, the commentator Choo-he or Chu-hi, worshipped in temples of Ting districts, or divisions of Hiens, where there is no temple of Confucius. tsu-tsú, id. tsu-hu-tsú, id.

tsu-âng, bright red colour. tsu-lí, a sort of small plum or cherry. tsu-lí (R.), red shoes of very high mandarins. tsu-toa", an order written in red ink by the mandarin's own hand, used as a warrant. chhut-tsu-jū, to issue such a document. tsu-phoe, an order from the emperor, through the prime minister, &c. tsu-kng, an essay that has got the Kujin degree.

tsu-i-kong, an assistant of the idol Būn-chhiōng, wearing a red dress. khoe-seng tsu-i, the two assistants of Būn-chhiōng.

tsu [R. to assist; money; talents; to rely], (Cn. tsū).

tsu-tsē, to assist with money or gifts. tsu-chià, to rely upon (v. chià). kang-tsu, wages; pay. chiú-tsu, a small gratuity for carrying a letter or parcel. chiú-tsu-chi", id.

thien-tsu, good literary talents. tsu-chit, literary talents, as good or bad.

tsu [R. wealth], (Cn. tsū). ka-tsu, wealth, as of a household. ka-tsu pah-bân, extremely wealthy. ka-tsu chhiōng-chiok, id.

tsu [R. appearance of person], (Cn. tsū). hong-tsu, complexion; appearance of face, as to health or sickness. hong-tsu hó, looking very well, as in good health.

tsu (Cn. tsū). tsu-niú", a woman (v. niú").

tsu [R. juicy; pleasant taste], (Cn. tsū). tsu-bi, taste, flavour, as of food. tsu-bui, pleased with one's self, as for good fortune (v. bui). tsu-im, allaying

藏

臟

硃

朱

資

貲

姿

滋

墓

中

壯

狀

feverishness, and cooling to the system. tsu-im-pé, food or medicine that has this effect, as frogs, tortoise, &c. tsu-im ê-mih<sup>n</sup>, id. tê-lâi teh-tsu-im, chuckling inwardly over some success, or over the misfortunes that come upon an enemy, esp. when not done by us.

tsu (R. id.), a pearl; a bead; applied to various round things.

chîn-tsu, a pearl. phâ<sup>n</sup>-tsu, an artificial pearl. lê-phî-tsu, false pearl made of the shells of shell-fish. pâng-khak-tsu, false pearl made of mother-of-pearl. tsáu-bé khoà<sup>n</sup>-chîn-tsu, in such haste as to miss seeing important things. pó-tsu, a wonderfully precious pearl. tsu-pó, pearls and other very precious things. giâ-kang-tsu, a pearl supposed to be produced by the centipede, and to emit light at night. iâ-bêng-tsu, id.

tsu-phék-sán, a medicine made of pearls and amber. tsu-lê, a sort of shell-fish. koe-bú-tsu, a small wild pea, bright scarlet with a black spot. í<sup>n</sup>-tsu, a sort of tea. tsu-chi, gunpowder tea. chhang-tsu, onions cut down for eating. chhi-tsu-chhi (Cn.), = C. hâu-á-chhi, a low trailing shrub with shining leaves and black berries.

hî-tsu, the lower lobe of the ear. tsu-teng, round-headed nails. thiâu-tsu (T. tsui), a round pedestal or base of a pillar. chiòh-tsu, id., esp. a round stone socket for a movable wooden pillar, as for an awning.

si<sup>n</sup>-tsu, a sort of shot for guns. si<sup>n</sup>-tsu, a small white speck forming in the eye. bák-chiu si<sup>n</sup>-tsu, id. bák-chiu khí-tsu, id.

gán-tiong bú-tsu, said of a man who does not well understand men or things. iú-gán bú-tsu, id. jiók-gán bú-tsu, id. siók-gán bú-tsu, id.

tsu-koa<sup>n</sup>, an ornamental head-dress worn by the ladies of very high mandarins. tsu-liú, the fringe of pendants hanging down from that sort of head-dress, or from a crown. tiâu-tsu, a court necklace of beads, worn by mandarins. hiu<sup>n</sup>-tsu, scented beads, used by any one simply for the scent. sè-tsu, Buddhist prayer-beads.

tsu — chhut-tsu, to have small-pox. chhut-tsu bê-phû (C.), small-pox that does not fully form the pustules, suppressed small-pox, very dangerous. chia<sup>n</sup>-tsu, real small-pox. tsúi-tsu, chicken-pox.

chêng-tsu, to inoculate; said also for vaccination. tsu-phí, the scab of small-pox. tsu-chêng, the scab, as used for inoculation. hó-tsu-ûn, a season when small-pox is of a mild type. phái<sup>n</sup>-tsu-ûn, a season when it is very virulent and deadly. phái<sup>n</sup>-tsu-tang (C. T.), id.

tsu-niú<sup>n</sup>-má, the goddess who protects children from small-pox. tsu-pô, id. tsu-kong-pô, the god and goddess of do. tsu-kong-má, id. tsu-kong tsu-má, id.

tsu [R. a deep ulcer, carbuncle, &c.], (C. chhi). tsat-tsu, a whitlow. chím-tsu, a large boil or carbuncle on the back of the neck. âm-kún-tsu, a carbuncle on the neck. iong-tsu, a large sloughing carbuncle. iong-tsu hoat-pòe, a large sloughing carbuncle on the back.

tsu [R. all, a particle of various meaning]. tsu-hê, feudal lords and princes. tsu-kat, a famous ancient warrior (v. kat).

tsu [R. su, a book; but col. "chheh" is from a different word] (Cn. tsú, stands both for "tsu" and "chheh").

tsu-chheh, books. keng-tsu, classical books. êng-tsu-kù, to quote a book phrase. tsu-láng, a book basket.

tsu-tai, over-cautious and too fond of ancient customs, as literary men.

hun-tsu, a marriage contract. lí-tsu, a written divorce. chièn-tsu, a challenge (v. chièn). bún-tsu, an official letter.

tsu-í<sup>n</sup>, a college. tsu-pâng, a school-room; a school-house. tsu-pâng siú<sup>n</sup>-kang, a sort of clerk or writer in a yamun for preparing documents. tsu-pâng-báu, having one's name on the books of a civil mandarin's office, not for work, but only for protection. tsú-pân (Cn.), = A. su-pân, a mandarin's clerk or secretary.

tsu (R. id.) tsu-tsu, constantly; diligently. tsu-tsu-lâi, always coming. tsu-tsu àn-ni<sup>n</sup>-si<sup>n</sup>, always so.

tsu (R. id.) tsu-jú, a fruit used as a heating medicine (Xanthoxylum piperitum?). ngê-tsu, id. gê-tsu-jú, id.

tsu [R. a small ancient coin]. ngê-tsu-chi<sup>n</sup>, an ancient coin with the words "ngê-tsu" on it, used as a charm.

tsu [R. tsù, intently, = col. tu]. tsu-tsu-siòng, to gaze intently.

tsú, a sound made in calling poultry.

tsú (R. id.), (Cn. tsú). tsú-pi, tender affection, as of parents or superiors. tsú-sim, kind affectionate heart, as of parents, &c. jín-tsu, warm affection, as of parent or superior. ka-tsú (R.), my mother.

tsú-núg, a wood; a medicine (v. núg). soa<sup>n</sup>-tsú-kê, a medicinal plant (v. kê).

tsú (R. id.), (C. chí, Cn. tsú). chiu<sup>n</sup>-tsú, a sort of toad.

tsú (cf. thú, tú).

tsú-tsu, doggedly set on something. tsú-tsu-beh, doggedly determined to have or to do something. siú<sup>n</sup> kàu-tsú--khi, to think about a thing till obstinately set on it.

u-tsú, over-anxious about everything, so as to have a dull unpleased look and a somewhat troublesome temper (v. u).

tsú (R. name of many edible or medicinal roots, esp. tuberous), (C. chí; Cn. tsú).

hoan-tsú, sweet-potatoes. han-tsú, id. an-tsú, id. han-tsú-hún, potato-flour. han-tsú-thâu, the refuse from making potato-flour. han-tsú-thûg, confection of potato and sugar. han-tsú-khe, sweet-potatoes sliced and dried. han-tsú-chhiam, do. cut into long narrow strips and dried. han-tsú-lêng, long potato-beds. han-tsú-kau, the long hollows between the potato-beds.

chhêng han-tsú, to boil potatoes till dry, with the skins on. teh-han-tsú, to plant potatoes. ngiauh han-tsú, to dig up potatoes. iáh-han-tsú, id. ê-han-tsú, do., not very many. lôe-han-tsú, to take up a whole field of them with the hoe. teh-kóng sim-mih han-tsú, whatever are you talking about? chit-tiâu han-tsú, one potato. chit-tiâu ná<sup>n</sup>-han-tsú, a very stupid-looking fellow (like a potato). ôe-sûg, bôe-tú; thó-bí, oá<sup>n</sup> han-tsú, said of a man being very stupid (v. tú).

hó-lân-tsú, the potato (not the sweet). hûg-tsú, sweet-potatoes grown on dry fields. toá-tsú, the yam. chhân-tsú, id.

soa<sup>n</sup>-iòh-tsú, a medicinal root like hoái<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup>

珠

珠

疔

諸書

孜菜錄注慈

蠶虫

薯

(Dioscorea sativa?). soa<sup>n</sup>-tsú, id. chiòh-tsú, a medicinal root.

tsú [R. to bear; to undertake; Cn. tsú]. tsú-sòe, to be careful; to take care (s. lord).

tsú (cf. sú). loān-tsú, recklessly; at random; in a disorderly or irregular manner. loān-tsú-lâi, to come in a disorderly manner. loān-tsú thóeh-mih<sup>n</sup>, to take things improperly. loān-tsú-bong, to grope about, as in the dark; to touch improperly, e.g. parts of another person's body.

tsú — tsú-tòng (in some parts of P.), = tsé-tòng, to hinder.

tsú [R. tsú, purple]. tsú-bí-chhi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chí-bí-chhi<sup>n</sup>, name of a star (v. bí).

tsú (R. id.), (C. chí; Cn. tsú), to cook by boiling; to prepare (as some things) by boiling; when said of meat it is not with water alone (sáh), but along with other things, so as to make at the same time some soup or sauce, &c.

tsú-chiáh, to cook food in general. tsú-chiáh--ê, a cook; a wife. goán hit--ê tsú-chiáh--ê, my wife. tsú-png (C. chí-pū<sup>n</sup>), to cook rice. tsú-noā<sup>n</sup>, to boil quite soft. tsú-thiám, id. tsú-sék, to cook thoroughly.

tsú-chhat, to boil varnish in preparing it. tsú a-pièn, to boil opium in preparing the extract for smoking.

tsú [R. a sort of tree]. tsú-tòng tè-kun, another name of Bân-chhióng (v. kun).

tsú [R. a son; seed; a horary and cyclical character; midnight; a viscount; used in forming the titles of many philosophers; also sometimes has almost no meaning, merely forming nouns], (Cn. tsú).

tsú-chiok, a viscount. tsú, id. kok-tsú-kàm, the ancient university of Peking, which sells the degree of "kàm-seng." kong-tsú, son of a governor-general or high mandarin; also (polite), your son (s. lord). thien-tsú, the emperor (v. thien), (s. lord). hông-tsú (R.), son of the emperor. thài-tsú, the heir-apparent (v. thài).

kun-tsú, a good man; a superior man. kú-tsú (R.), a Kujin graduate. thàm-tsú-bé, a spy. lâm-tsú-hàn, a male person, esp. grown up (v. hàn). kúi-tsú-siú, an executioner. iông-hu siók-tsú, a rough common-looking illiterate man. tsài-tsú, a learned man (s. lord).

hu-tsú, a title of great philosophers or sages. khóng-hu-tsú, Confucius. bêng-tsú, Mencius. tsú-lê, Tze-loo, the disciple of Confucius, &c.

tóng-tsú, the pupil of the eye (v. tóng).

tsú-soā<sup>n</sup>, the thinner strings of a stringed instrument.

tsú-sí, 11 P.M. to 1 A.M.; an hour before and after midnight. tsú-sí-chiá<sup>n</sup>, midnight. tsú-ngó, midnight and mid-day; the pole-star (v. ngó).

hū-tsú, father and son. chhe-tsú (R.), wife and sons (v. chhe). jín-tsú, a son of a man (v. jín). tsú-sun-tháng, a tub for accouchement (v. sun). goá--ê tsú-bín, my people (as it were my children), said by mandarins. hū-kúi tsái-tsú-siú, the five blessings. tsá-tek-tsú, will get a son at an early age (said by diviners). tek-tsú, son of the principal wife. kiá<sup>n</sup>-sài poán-tsú, a son-in-law is half a son. gī-tsú, an adopted son (not bought). kè-tsú, son of wife by former husband (v. kè). tióng-tsú, eldest son (v. tióng).

tsú-tê (lit. sons and younger brothers), an ill-behaved or prodigal son; also (R.), younger relatives in general.

tsú-tê-lâng, a fast young fellow of a rich family, fond of expense and amusement. tsòe tsú-tê, to be such a lavish spendthrift. bú-sêng ê tsú-tê, an idle, useless, ill-behaved son. tsú-tê-bé, descendants wasting away all the property of ancestors in foolish pleasures. lóng-kun tsú-tê, a rich and handsome young fellow (v. lóng). koan-ka tsú-tê, young relatives of mandarins, as sons, grandsons, and nephews. gō lóng--ê tsú-tê, to waste the time of youth by inefficient teaching, as a useless teacher. tsú-tê-tit, younger relatives. tsú-tit, id. (v. tit).

tê-tsú, votaries of an idol. ang hién, tê-tsú liáu-chhién, when the idol is powerful the worshippers spend money.

giét-tsú, a bad wicked boy (v. giét). lóng-tóng-tsú, an ill-behaved, prodigal, licentious son. liú-tsú-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a wicked lad, esp. about 15-20. piáu-tsú-kiá<sup>n</sup>, you whoreson! (scolding).

sù-kun-tsú, a medicinal seed. chi-tsú, a medicine, &c. &c. pek-tsú-liên, the tall blue lily with a head of numerous flowers (Agapanthus). tsú-sien-tsú (T.), = A. tsú-sien-chí, a medicine.

tsú (R. id.), (C. chí, in some phrases, esp. some transferred book phrases), a lord or master; (proprietor, patron, &c.; to rule; to determine).

tsú-sòe, a general; a commander-in-chief (s. careful). tsú-chê, to preside at sacrificial offerings. tsú-hun, the superiors of bride and bridegroom who arrange the marriage. tsú-kó, to attend to the drawing up of drafts, of despatches, and official papers. tsú-lêng, a man who commits a crime, not with his own hand, but by using another man as his instrument.

tsú-kong, master, as of a slave; a patron whom his dependants obey. tsú-pòk (R.), master and slave. tsú-bú, mistress of a (female) slave. tsú-lâng, master, as of a slave; the host at a feast or of an inn; a patient, or father, &c., of patient, who invites the doctor for self or son, &c. tsú-lâng-ke, an innkeeper; a patient, or father of patient, &c. tiàm-tsú-lâng, innkeeper. hó tsú-lâng-thâu, pleasant to serve, as master kind and pleasant to those in his employment.

tsú-kheh, a regular customer or dealer with us, buyer or seller. hó-tsú-kheh, pleasant to deal with in business, as customer or dealer. tsú-kè, a customer of a shop (v. kè). ún-tsú, a safe customer to allow credit to.

tsú-tsái<sup>n</sup>, a supreme lord or ruler; to govern or rule. tsú-chhi, to have the management of an affair. tsú-chhài, to determine a matter definitely and authoritatively, as man who has the management in his hands. tsú-tiu<sup>n</sup>, id., to determine of one's sole will. chit-lâng tsú-tiu<sup>n</sup>, m-tát nng-lâng su-niú<sup>n</sup>, the counsel of two is better than the sole will of one. tsú-l, to act or to determine a matter as we please; a settled purpose or intention. ka-kí tsú-l, free to act as we please. thêng-tsú-l, just act as you please; follow your own views or desires. tsú-l bô-tiá<sup>n</sup>, purpose not settled; irresolute. bô-tsú-l, id. ôe-tsú-tit-l, having power to act as we think best, and so settle the matter; can act according to his own views.

kong-tsú, a king's daughter (s. son). kàu-tsú, the founder of a religion. tsò-tsú, a high mandarin who acts as patron of a lower mandarin or graduate. un-tsú, a great benefactor. ún-tsú, a safe customer. si-tsú, a man who contributes to the building or support of a Buddhist temple, or of priests or nuns. si-tsú, the near relative of a man who has died in suspicious circumstances (e.g. on the street at another's door);

仔

紫

煮

梓子

主

he has the right of demanding explanation or reparation for the death. sit-tsù, the man whose things have been stolen or plundered. lê-tsù, the man whose turn it is to take charge of the idolatrous ceremonies of a ward. tsâi-tsù, a wealthy man (s. son). chè-tsù, a creditor (v. chè). gûn-tsù, the buyer, mortgagee, or tenant of property who pays out the money. oâ<sup>n</sup>-tsù, to change owner, as house or land. kè-tsù, id. kòe-tsù (C.), id. giáp-tsù, proprietor of land or house. chhù-tsù, owner of a house. tién-tsù, the mortgager. tsûn-tsù, owner or charterer of a vessel; supercargo, as his representative or of the charterer; the captain of a vessel may be so called if there be no supercargo, &c., on board, and he have full control of the vessel. pán-tsù, owner or supercargo of a junk. hè-tsù, owner of goods, as in shop or ship. kui-tsù bóe, to buy all the goods belonging to one owner, as in commission-agent's hong. sû-tsù, either of the two principal parties in a lawsuit, &c. láng-tsù, a man who hires out actors. hì-tsù, id. koâi<sup>n</sup>-tsù, chief mandarin of a Hien district. iâ<sup>n</sup>-tsù, the commanding officer of an "iâ<sup>n</sup>" or fifth part of an army.

kéng-tsù, the guardian idol of a ward or region (v. kéng).

thien-tsù, name for God used by the Church of Rome, therefore called "thien-tsù-kàu" (v. thien), (s. son), [C. thien-chí, and so in all the phrases of this paragraph]. bòk-tsù, ancestral tablets. sín-tsù, id. hoán-tsù, bring back the tablet in procession from the grave. chin-tsù, to introduce the new tablet into the ancestral hall. tiám-tsù, to consecrate the tablet by dotting it at several places with a red mixture, just after the coffin is laid in the grave but before it is covered up; before this is done, the relatives call the spirit to leave the coffin and come to the tablet; if possible a graduate or mandarin is hired to dot the tablet.

goá ù-tsù, I have a man who takes the whole responsibility off me; e.g. said to a man who rightly applies to us first, while we refer him to the responsible party. oan ù-ke, tùi ù-tsù, the quarrel concerns the two parties only, and no one else. tùi-thâu ù-tsù, each of the parties has a man to bear the responsibility, e.g. each having a document from a relative in a case of disputed sale; or, I can refer to two parties who were in possession in succession before me, as of a disputed property or stolen article. oan-ke tùi-thâu ù-tsù, the quarrel concerns only the parties; e.g. said in dissuading from meddling, or in explaining that others need not be involved. tùi-thâu oan-ke-tsù, the very person with whom one is at feud.

tsù (R. id.), a commentary; to make a commentary; to decree or ordain, as Heaven. tsù-sê, a commentary on a commentary. tsù-chhêh, to write comments or notes on a book. tsù-kái, to explain by writing notes on it, as a book or document. tsù-bêng, id.

tsù-tiâ<sup>n</sup>, to ordain, as Heaven or fate (v. tiâ<sup>n</sup>). tsù-sí, to decree the fated time of death. tsù-si<sup>n</sup>, ordain time of birth. tsù-si<sup>n</sup> niú<sup>n</sup>-niú<sup>n</sup>, the goddess of childbirth. tsù-si<sup>n</sup> tsù-sí, to ordain the times of birth and death. bê-tsù-si<sup>n</sup> seng tsù-sí, our death is ordained before our birth is. lâm-táu tsù-si<sup>n</sup>; pak-táu tsù-sí, the gods of the south and north constellation decree birth and death respectively.

tsù (Cn.) sin-tsù-pi<sup>n</sup>, a natural disease, as opposed to one caused by demons.

tsù [R. to set the mind, &c., upon]. tsù-bák, with fixed gaze. tsù-i, very attentive or diligent; very desirous; mind always thinking of and set upon. tsù-sim tsù-koa<sup>n</sup>, id. tsù-sin, id. (v. sîn).

tsù (R. id.), to cast, as metal. tsù-chí<sup>n</sup>, to cast cash, as Chinese do. tsù-tiá<sup>n</sup>, to cast rice-boilers.

tsù (R. id.) chím-tsù, to soak through; drenched with rain; very constant rains. chím-tsù-hê, very constant soaking rains.

tsù (C. chí). ka-tsù, a small coarse straw bag used by beggars, and also for holding things. ka-tsù-pau, the coarse straw matting of which these bags are made. ka-tsù-táu, such a bag specially large and strong, used by beggars. hó ka-tsù-táu (r.), wealthy.

tsù [R. self; from; naturally]; (Cn. tsü). tsù-tsá, from of old; formerly. tsù-sí chí-chiong, from first to last.

tsù-jiên, naturally. thien-seng tsù-jiên, naturally; certainly so. tsù-jiên jî-jiên (r.), self-existent. sip-koan, sêng tsù-jiên, habit becomes a second nature. bién-kióng, sêng tsù-jiên, at first doing it with much difficulty, but afterwards it comes quite naturally. put-kiên tsù-bêng, of course it is so (there is no need of seeing it); beyond all question. ok-jîn, tsù-iú ok-jîn mê, oppressors are certainly oppressed in their turn.

tsù-kí (r.), one's self. tsù-chîn, to commit suicide. tsù-tsái, steady, as mind or thing; calm mind without distraction (v. tsái). tsù-jú, quite well again; perfectly recovered (v. jú). tsù-chiok, self-sufficient and somewhat proud. tsù-tsoan, taking upon one's self without authority. tsù-chheng, self-styled; to boast or praise one's self. tsù-khoa, to boast. tsù-ko, proud. tsù-toā, proud and boastful. bông-tsù tsun-tái, proud; vain or self-conceited. tsù-sí, always making one's self in the right. ka-kí tsù-sí, id. tsù-khiam, using humble phrases; acting in a humble manner; at least apparently so. tsù-tsok-giét, to bring evil on one's self by one's own wickedness. tsù-tsok tsù-tong, he who does it on his own responsibility must himself bear it. tsù-pô tsù-khi, to injure one's self by one's own fault; esp. to throw away invaluable opportunities and reject his own good fortune; e.g. a boy who will not study, or a man who will not take a good situation. tsù-siong bâu-tún, to contradict one's self. put-kim, jî tsù-kim, to restrain one's self without a formal prohibition. tsù-pêng put-lêng-i, cannot cure himself. tsù-sin put-lêng-pó: ien-lêng-pó tha-jîn, unable to protect himself, how can he protect others? chiú put-tsui-jîn, jîn tsù-tsui; hoa put-bê-jîn, jîn tsù-bê, it is not liquor and women that intoxicate and seduce men, they do it themselves.

hek-pék tsù-hun, right and wrong (black and white) manifest themselves at the last. tsù-lái-hé (R.), lucifer matches.

tsù — chí-chí tsù-tsù, making a whispering noise. chí-bú chí-tsù, id.

tsù [R. to stop; to withstand; to dwell; to cease]. thoán-thoán ù-tsù, to stand round in great numbers (v. ùi). tòng-tsù, to hinder effectively. tòng-bôe-tsù, to try to hinder but fail in the attempt.

tsù (R. id.), (C. chí, Cn. tsü). tsù-chip, to assemble; to meet together. tsù-hôe, id.

tsù — kang-iâu-tsù, the preserved flesh of a marine animal.

tsù [R. jü, a written or printed word, = col. jî], (Cn. tsü). tsù-miâ<sup>n</sup>, the name by which a man is called among his friends; often assumed at marriage, = jü-miâ<sup>n</sup>.

註

注

鑄
漬

自

住
聚
肉 字

tsū [R. tsō, to make]. tsū-hòe (C.), = A. tsō-hoà, fortune or luck.

tsū, a cloth spread to keep from soiling, or under a teapot, &c.; to spread a cloth under a teapot or vase. tsū tē-koàn, to be spread under a teapot, as the cloth on the salver. tih-á tsū tē-au, saucers placed under the tea-cups, as foreigners do. chit-tè-tsū, a cloth spread below teapot, &c.

béh-tsū, a cloth worn inside the stocking. thē-kha-tsū, a door-mat. í-tsū, a very thin cushion of leather or cloth thrown over the back and seat of a chair; a thicker cushion (tiām) is often laid upon it. bé-oa-tsū, a piece of leather put on a horse's back below the saddle. jiō-tsū, a cloth put under hahies at night.

tsuh (cf. tuh). chih-tsuh, mischievous, said of children.

tsuh, to squirt, as from a small leak or from a syringe. tsuh-chhut-lâi, to trickle out as from a small leak. tsúi-tsuh, a syringe.

tsuh (= tsh), to make a hole by striking with the point of a stick.

tsui (R. id.) ka-tsui, the turtle-dove. ka-tsui-bák, a staple. ka-tsui-lê, a small spiral shell-fish. ka-tsui bō-gī, the turtle-dove has no gratefulness (different from chí-á, the pigeon), for though long fed by a man, it does not come back, and a pair often quarrel.

tsui [R. tsu, a pearl]. thih-tsui, an iron boss put on a door for striking the ring that is used as a knocker. tāng-tsui, a brass boss for same purpose.

thiāu-tsui (T.), = thiāu-tsu, a round stone base for a pillar. chióh-tsui (T.), id.

tsui (P.), a sort of oak. tsui-chhiū, id. tsui-á-chí, its acorn.

tsui-chí (Cn.), a fruit about the size of a large fig, with hard smooth black shell, used as a tobacco pouch.

tsui, convex, as grain in a measure, or as a swollen hoil. tsui-khí-lâi, to lip over, as water in cup just ready to overflow; heaped up in the middle higher than the edge, as rice or other dry articles in a measure. tī<sup>n</sup> kàu tsui-tsui, full and heaped up, as in a measure. tsui-tsui moá<sup>n</sup>-moá<sup>n</sup>, id. chit-liáp tsui-tsui, a hoil much swollen.

ké-tsui, plump and pleasant-looking, as a child. ké-ké-tsui, pretending to know what he does not know, or to be able to do what he cannot, e.g. to manage a difficult matter.

tsui — oá<sup>n</sup>-kē-tsui (C.), the broken bottom of a bowl. oá<sup>n</sup>-kim-kē-tsui (C.), id.

tsui (R. id.) bé-tsui, the fleshy part of a bird's tail. koe-bé-tsui, do., of a fowl. ah-bé-tsui, do., of a duck. bé-tsui-kut, the coccyx bone.

tsúi — soa-tsúi, an inferior kind of crah.

tsúi, to cut off by cutting all round, as sugar-cane, or as the neck or a limb; to cut off with a knife, not by one cut but in a sawing manner. tsúi kam-chiá, to cut sugar-cane in bits.

tsúi (R. súi), water; a surname; (tide); (a season or brief opportunity); a small discount or percentage.

chit-tsúi, at this time; in a very short time (afterwards). chit-tsúi-á, a short and passing time when anything is just in season, e.g. fruit; said also of time of youth or of prosperity, especially of a short season gone for ever. kàu-tsúi, just in season and best condition, as fish or fruit; said also of a young person just come to marriageable age. thâu-tsúi, first-born, of an animal. thâu-tsúi-chhun, tea of the first crop. chit-nī<sup>n</sup>, si<sup>n</sup> kúi-tsúi, how often has the animal young in one year. khí-tsúi, to become desirous of the male, as female cattle when grown old enough for it.

pò-tsúi, to give information of a criminal's hiding-place, so that he may be caught.

tsái-tsúi (C.), of course (= tsū-jièn), said in answering a question; what need of your asking or my telling such an evident thing? tsái-tsúi--ê (C.), id.

tsúi-sí, the time of tide. hù-tsúi-sí, to be in time for the tide. koá<sup>n</sup> tsúi-sí, hastening to be in time for the tide. mī<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, tide in the night. tsúi-pān, state of tide; depth of water, &c. (v. pān). sūn-tsúi hêng-chiu, I wish you a good voyage. bō-lâu-tsúi, tide not suitable (v. láu). tsúi hoan-thâu, tide just beginning to flow. tsúi tī<sup>n</sup>, flood-tide. tsúi tng, id. tsúi hiá<sup>n</sup>, tide just beginning to ebb. tsúi lek, id., just beginning to leave a mark. tsúi lek-hūn, id. tsúi khó, ebb-tide. tsúi tēh (C.), id. tsúi-phúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), id. tsúi-bé, down the stream, as from where one is washing or drinking.

sek-tsúi, colour. sái sek-tsúi, to bully (v. sek). chéng pang-tsúi, to act or talk in a proud hragging way.

tsúi-thé, climate of a place (v. thé). tsúi-âng, light red. tsúi-tsu, chicken-pox. tsúi-ka, solid glue. tsúi-chiū, weak liquor. tsúi-soān, an inferior diamond. tsúi-chí<sup>n</sup>, rock-crystal. tsúi-gún, quicksilver. tsúi-hún, paint for the face in round bales. tsúi-hun, tobacco mixed with arsenic, smoked through water. tsúi-lâi, very heavy interest on money lent on security of vessel or goods going to sea. tsúi-lê, way by water. tsúi-siú, a sailor. tsúi-su, marines (v. su). tsúi-chhau, a naval review. tsúi-bū, affairs about vessels and navigation (v. bū). tsúi-kha, a water-carrier. ta<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, id.; to carry water in huckets on a pole. tsáu-tsúi, a carrier of letters and small articles, sometimes also a pedlar. tsúi-kheh, id. thē-tsúi-chhiū<sup>n</sup>, a mason; a builder. pēh-tsúi-á (C.), a fisherman living in a boat. pēh-tsúi-pô (C.), a boatwoman; a fisherwoman living in a boat.

tsúi-tsoá<sup>n</sup>, a spring of water. tsúi-kéng, an aqueduct or conduit for water. tsúi-khiò, a bamboo spout or tube. tsúi-phun, the rose of a watering-can. tsúi-chin, a dipper; a small bucket with straight handle. tsúi-chhiu, spray. tsúi-hoe, id. tsúi-phéh, foam. tsúi-khì, damp vapour; damp. tsúi-ia<sup>n</sup>, reflected image in water.

tsúi-phi, a small shallow boat. tsúi-tô, a sounding line; sounding lead. tsúi-lêng, a fire-engine. tsúi-thiu, a water-pump. tsúi-chhia, a chain water-wheel for irrigation (v. chhia). tsúi-tsáh, a flood-gate. tsúi-tháng, a water bucket. tsúi-tí<sup>n</sup> (T.), a thin bamboo suspending the bucket of a well-sweep. tsúi-bō, a water-wheel. tsúi-tùi, a machine for beating rice clean, worked by water.

kúi-kúi tsúi-tsúi, very deceitful and ready to stir up strife. kúi-tsúi, id. hū-jin tsúi-seng, woman's nature is like water, prone to evil courses.

tsúi-kúi, the ghost of a drowned man. tsúi-chiò, rites to appease the ghost of a drowned man. tsúi-sin, spirits that preside over streams or waters; also, the relation of a grave to water, as good or bad. tsúi-sien-ông, a water-god (v. sien).

thiap-tsúi, to pay a small premium, as on silver (v. thiap). tē kim-tsúi, to gild thinly with imitation gold. lām gún-tsúi, to pour melted silver over other metals; to plate with silver. gún-tsúi, a small premium (about twenty cash on a dollar) allowed when a sum specified in cash is paid in dollars; a small percentage allowed to the buyer when he changes a dollar for a small payment, and takes the balance in cash. chiáh gùn-tsúi, to lose this percentage, as the seller does. kā-i-chiáh tsáp-ê-chí<sup>n</sup> ê gùn-tsúi, to give him ten cash more in exchange for a dollar, as shopkeeper does. ke-sái--i tsáp-ê-chí<sup>n</sup> gùn-tsúi, to get ten more cash out of him for his dollar, as customer does. sái joā-tsōe gùn-tsúi, how much premium for silver over cash? khàu gùn-tsúi, to take off a small percentage, as in paying soldiers, &c.; also, to pay a rather smaller quantity when paying in silver, if silver of a better quality be given than was bargained for, e.g. when sycee is paid instead of dollars. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, cash or money in regard to quantity. chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi liōng-sēng, money abundant. phái<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, a small percentage on account of bad cash allowed to be mixed. tióng phái<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to give more cash in change because bad cash are mixed. chiet phái<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to take off a small discount when all the cash are good, because it was allowable to have mixed some bad ones. thàn phái<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to get this small premium when a dollar is given and a balance of cash received. chiáh phái<sup>n</sup>-chí<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to give this small discount, as the shopkeeper who is paid in silver, and loses the difference between good and bad cash.

beh kap--i tú-tsúi, determined to be at feud with him.

kè-tsúi, to cross the water; on the other side of the strait or inlet; to let water in, as shoes; to be washed slightly, as clothes; small roofs built at the two front corners of a large central house, connecting it with the side houses (hē-chhū), so that one can cross over without getting wet. kòe-tsúi (C.), do., do.; also, = A. lêng-lóng, the covered roads on each side of the central court of a house. tih-tsúi, the eaves of a house, or the space covered by them. siang-tó-tsúi, a roof made with a ridge (v. tó).

chhi-tsúi, to temper metal in water. gàn-tsúi, id. chhiau-tsúi, to mix in water, as lime or any powder. thàu-tsúi, to dilute with water. jip-tsúi, to leak. chiáh-tsúi, to drink water; to draw so much water, as a vessel. lap-tsúi, to step into water unintentionally.

koàn-tsúi, to pour water into a dead animal so as to water the meat (v. koàn). kūi-tsúi, dropsical swelling of limbs. pá-tsúi, well filled up, as fruit or grain large and good. kâm-tsúi, to be swollen with damp, as wood. si<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to grow moist.

thó-tsúi, to draw water, as from well or river, &c. táh-tsúi, to tread a chain water-wheel. iú<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to lade out water, as with a cup or dipper. hè-tsúi, to raise water by a bucket swung between two women. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to raise water in any way. phah-tsúi, to take in fresh water for use in a vessel. phah-tsúi-tô, to take soundings with the lead. tiám-tsúi, to take the depth with a bamboo pole. tiu-tsúi, to throw things overboard, to lighten the vessel. thoa<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to pay a percentage or average on account of jettison. chhiū<sup>n</sup>-tsúi, to discharge goods from a vessel. chhut-tsúi, to put goods on board; to repolish a gem that has a dim surface. chhut-tsúi-toa<sup>n</sup>, a document certifying that the goods have paid duty, and giving permission to put them on board. kek-tsúi, to dam up water. pàng-tsúi, to open a way for water to escape. siu-tsúi, to expel damp, as by drying.

huih-tsúi, thin watery blood. ñg-sē-tsúi, thin matter from a wound or sore. si-tsúi, stagnant water. kak-tsúi, very fine clear syrup from white loaf sugar. bit-tsúi, honey syrup. thng-tsúi, molasses. sng-tsúi, a sort of molasses, finer and clearer. tê-tsúi, good water fit for making tea.

tsúi — ka-tsúi-á (T.), a fish like the cuttle-fish, but without any bone.

tsúi [R. tsù, with set purpose]. tsúi-sim, very much desiring a thing.

tsúi (R. id.), drunk; intoxicated, as with liquor or opium. tsúi a-phien, intoxicated with opium. tsúi-hun, do., or sick with tobacco. tsúi-hàn, a drunkard. tsúi-i, nearly drunk. tsúi-ong-i, a sort of lounging chair.

tsúi-gán, eyes having a soft swimming look (naturally), as if half drunk; people with such eyes are supposed to have special tendencies to lasciviousness.

tsúi-chiú, drunk; bad-tasted, as pine-apple. put-tsúi-chiú, able to drink much without getting drunk. chiú-tsúi, drunk. chiáh-chiú-tsúi, to get drunk. thien-thien tsúi, daily drunk. tsúi-bōng-bōng, dead drunk. tsúi-bōng-bōng, id. toā-tsúi, id. tsúi-ma<sup>n</sup>-ma<sup>n</sup>, very drunk. tsúi-ham-ham (C.), very drunk. tsúi kàu-m̄-tsai thi<sup>n</sup>-tōe, dead drunk.

bô-chiáh, kan-ta tsúi (lit. drunk without drinking), said of a man making unpleasant jokes, or talking in a foolish manner, or telling manifest falsehoods. chiú put-tsúi-jin, jin tsū-tsúi, it is men who intoxicate themselves; it is not the liquor that does it.

tsúi (R. sùi). chī-tsúi, who? chī-tsúi-á, id. tsúi-tsai, unexpectedly; who would ever have thought it!

tsúi (R. id.) chiâu-tsúi (r.), pale and wan with grief and melancholy; miserable and mournful looking.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, a thick tile.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, complete.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chng, before. tsúi<sup>n</sup>-lâng-ká<sup>n</sup>, = A. chng-lâng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, a step-son.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. tsng, tsái<sup>n</sup> (C. chng). tsúi<sup>n</sup>-thau-ngá, fingers.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. tsái<sup>n</sup>. tsúi<sup>n</sup>-iū<sup>n</sup>, how?

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, an awl.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, to bore; to rush on or make one's way, &c. (perhaps two words).

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. chng. ka-tsúi<sup>n</sup>, a sort of grass mat.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, to suck with the lips.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, an eddy.

tsúi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. tsng, the centre from which the hair radiates.

tsun [R. high in rank; to honour], to set up as the principal person in a matter. tsun-pi, high and low in rank (v. pi). tsun-kui, high in rank; honourable. tsun-keng, to honour; to reverence. tsun-tiōng, honourable; noble; to pay regard to; to treat with respect. tsun--i, unitedly appoint him as the head man or manager in a joint affair. chhui-tsun, to put a man in the chief place of honour or power in a company met together. sa<sup>n</sup>-tsun, each urging the other to take the most honourable place, as in sitting or walking. teh tsun-üi, do., as to a seat. tsun-chhün, to inform a superior or a friend of what we mean to do.

tsun-chheng, to give a title rather more honourable than is strictly due. bú-lōng tsun-tiōng, to treat a superior with insult, e.g. by practical jokes, &c. bók-

注
醉誰
悴

尊

bû tsun-tióng, to treat superiors with disrespect or contempt. bōng - tsū - tsun - toā, self-conceited. bōng-tsū-tsun-tāi, id.

lêng-tsun (polite), your father. lêng-sien-tsun, your deceased father. tsun-hu-jin (very polite), your wife. hú-tsun (R.), the chief mandarin of a Foo (a department).

tióng-tsun, the principal priest (Taoist or Buddhist) in a ceremony; in a procession he walks last. goān-sí thien-tsun, the supreme god of the Taoists.

tsun, to shiver and shake, as with cold.

tsun [R. to obey]. tsun-thàn (R.), id. tsun i-ê-lêng (r.), to respect and obey his commands.

tsún [R. siên, a cicada, = col. chē]. am-kóng-tsún (C.), = am-pê-chē, the cicada. àm-kóng-tsún (Cn.), id.

tsún [R. chiên, before; = col. chēng]. tsún--nī<sup>n</sup>, the year before last. lòh-tsún--nī<sup>n</sup>, the second year before last; three years ago.

tsún [R. soān; C. (R.) chhoān], a ship; a boat; a junk; a vessel. tsún-chiah, boats and vessels in general. chit-chiah-tsún, one boat or vessel. tsún-á, a boat.

béh-tsún, the quilted part of a stocking's foot, not including the sole. tê-tsún, metal saucer for a teacup. bát-tsát-tsún, the bone of the cuttle-fish.

ōng-tsún, a model of a junk made for the worship of "ōng-iá" (v. ōng). tsoá-tsún, paper boats for idolatrous worship. lêng-tsún, a dragon-boat (v. lêng).

tê-tsún, a passage-boat. sióng-tsún, a trading junk. kah-tsún, a boat engaged to wait on a ship. chhién-tsún, a very flat boat for shallow streams. chién-tsún, a war vessel. sàu-tsún, a mandarin junk, for war or customs. chhe-tsún, id. tng-tsún, a Chinese junk. kap-pán-tsún, a foreign-built vessel. hé-hun-tsún, a steamer. hé-ien-tsún (r.), id.

pak-tsún, a junk trading to the north of China; said also in joke of pirates. iū<sup>n</sup>-tsún, junk trading to foreign parts. hú-tsún, junk trading to Tai-wan-foo. sa-tsún, junks from Ningpo, &c., with many characters on each side of the bow. téng-kau-tsún, junks from Chin-chew, Chimmo, An-hai, &c. ē-kau-tsún, junks belonging to about Amoy or Tāng-oa<sup>n</sup> (Tung-an). lām-tsún, junks from Chang-poo (Chiu<sup>n</sup>-phó) and further south. lām-á-tsún, id.

hīn-tsún, sea-sick. ut-tsún, feeling bilious or uncomfortable from being long in a boat without exercise. chit-tò-tsún, one voyage of a vessel. chit-oa<sup>n</sup>-tsún, a distance such as junks usually make in one tide in one day. chit-ki<sup>n</sup>-tsún, a distance such as would be sailed in about three hours on an average; about eleven miles. sái joá-tsōe-tsún, how far has the vessel sailed?

pák-tsún, to charter a vessel. chéng-tsún, to fit out a vessel for sea with fittings, provisions, cargo, &c. sái-tsún, to sail a vessel. kiá<sup>n</sup>-tsún, to be employed in a vessel in any capacity. chē-tsún, to go by boat or ship. chhut-tsún, to set off by ship to a distant place. chiū<sup>n</sup>-tsún, to embark. lòh-tsún, id. khí-tsún, to disembark. tah-tsún, to go as passenger in a boat or vessel. kê-tsún, to hire a boat for a considerable time. khui-tsún, to set sail. khau-tsún, to tack. làu-tsún, to run before the wind. toā-tsún, to tow a vessel, as by a number of small boats, or by a tug. thoa-tsún, to draw along a small boat, as one or two men on foot. phòe-tsún, to be sent by a vessel that is going at any rate, as goods, or as soldiers.

tsún-tsú, the owner or charterer of a vessel; a supercargo or representative put on board by him, who has control over the movements of the vessel; the captain of a vessel, if he have full control and charge of the vessel from the owner or charterer. tsún-hō, the owner or part owner of a junk, in whose name the ship's papers are made out; junks in regard to their number. kúí--ê tsún-hō, how many vessels? tsún-hō, the name of a vessel. tsún-chhng, the hold. tsún-ù, a dock. tsún-tóe, bottom of a vessel (s. lay up). tsún-thâu, the bow. pàng tsún-thâu, to lend money to a man going by ship (on heavy interest), to be repaid when he returns. siang-kha tah-siang-tsún, to try to keep neutral between two courses or parties. chiū<sup>n</sup>-lāng-tsún, ài lāng-tsún-tsáu, men wish the ship to sail well in which they sail (prov.)

tsún (R. id.), to lay up for use; to remain over; to examine how much money is on hand after the day's sales and payments (cf. chbùn).

tsún-ì, applying one's mind or heart with fixed determination. ū-tsún-ì, id. tsún-sim, id. tsún-sim tióh-hó, should keep the purposes of the heart right. tsún-sim kan-hiau-hiám, secretly plotting villainy.

liú-tsún, to keep in reserve. tsún-lok--teh, to reserve and lay up for use. tsún-khng--teh, id. tsún-àn, to lay up the papers of a case, as for future examination. tsún-tóe, to keep a record or copy for future reference if needful (s. boat). tsún chit-ê-tóe, id. tsún-chheh-tóe, do. in a book for the purpose.

tsún-siàu, to examine what is the balance in hand at the end of the day's sales, or as after a few days, or at the foot of the page. goān siu chhut tsún, balance in hand in one's books. tsún-ki-phō, a book with entries of moneys paid out, &c., kept for future reference. tsún-hè-toa<sup>n</sup>, an inventory of goods still on hand.

sūn-thien--chia<sup>n</sup> tsún, they who obey Heaven are preserved (v. thien).

tsún (R. id.) chhái-tsún, the leather guard on a spindle that keeps the thread from fouling on the endless band.

tsún (R. id.), to permit; to give a favourable answer to a petition. ún-tsún, id. m-tsún, will not permit. phoe tsún, the mandarin's answer favourable. phoe m-tsún, mandarin's answer unfavourable. tsún-tsàu, to grant the prayer of a memorial, as the emperor does.

tsún-pī, prepared beforehand; all prepared and ready.

tsún (R. id.), to be like; just like; to be equal to, fit for, or used as a substitute or pledge for; to be correct (as watch) or true (as statement). tsún-tsún, quite correct, as watch or statement; just suited, as one thing to another, e.g. as punishment to crime. kóng-ōe put-chí-tsún, acting according to promise. tsún-á (C.), like; alike.

ū, tsún-bō, though having it, yet all the same as if not having it. bō, tsún-tsōe-ū, though not having it (or though it is not), I will yet let it be counted as if it were there (or as if I had it). kā--i tsún-siàu, to accept it from him (an article or a composition) as payment of a debt, or so much part payment. chit-ê hē--lī tsún-siàu, I will give you this as or towards payment; sometimes only part payment counted as payment

導
蟬
前
船

存

存 准

准

in full. chhìn-bah lâi tsún-siàu, to give meat (as butcher) so as gradually to pay off a debt due.

keng-thâu tsún-lê, hê-lâng-kiá<sup>n</sup>, their shoulders are like a road for men to walk on.

tsún-chín, a rule or pattern, esp. fig. (v. chín).

tsún-tng, a pledge between friends.

pín-tsún, a written document as proof of authority to do something; a certificate, receipt, voucher, &c. û-pín-tsún, having good and sufficient proof, as affair or person; always truthfully keeping his word; his word quite to be depended on.

bôe-tsún-i<sup>n</sup>, bôe-tsún-thiâu, too large for a beam, but too small for a pillar; said of material quite good in itself, but not suitable for our purpose; said also of a man who is useless or unsuitable. bôe-tsún--tit i<sup>n</sup>, bôe-tsún--tit thiâu, id.

tsún-thê hüt-bú, the goddess with eighteen hands (v. thê).

tsún [R. to adjust; to regulate]. tsún-tsat, to use in duly limited proportion, as money, food, &c. (v. tsat). bô-tsat-tsún (Cn.), = bô tsún-tsat, not using in proper moderation.

tsún [R. precipitous]. hiám-tsún (R.), very precipitous. koái<sup>n</sup>-soa<sup>n</sup> tsún-niá<sup>n</sup>, lofty mountains and steep passes.

tsún (R. id.) tsúi-tsún, an artificial watercourse or canal for irrigation, larger than "kau." tsún-kau, do., large and small. chit-pi<sup>n</sup> sî-kau, chit-pi<sup>n</sup> sî-tsún (on each side there is a ditch), to act either way would be unsuitable, as offending some friend. tsún-á-ki<sup>n</sup>, at the side of the irrigation canal.

tsún [R. handsome]. chhong-tsún, handsome and beautiful, as person; good-looking; sometimes in irony, very ugly! tsún-siù, good-looking, as man. tsún-siàu (r.), id.

tsún [R. a fine horse]. pat-tsún-má, the eight splendid horses of Chiu-Bók-ông, often represented in pictures. khai-tiong tsún-hoat, may this new shop speedily amass wealth.

tsún [R. chién, to fight; to tremble]. chhiú tsún, the hand trembles. chhiú sih-sih-tsún, id.

tsún-ké, an ornament in woman's head-dress that is made to shake by spiral wires.

géh-géh-tsún, to shake or shiver, as from fear, cold, or old age. khéh-khéh-tsún, id. khiáuh-khiáuh-tsún, id. ngiáuh-ngiáuh-tsún, id. gih-gih-tsún, id.

tsún (R. tsoän), to twist; to wring, often so as to hurt. tsún-sa<sup>n</sup>, to wring clothes. tsún--sí, to kill by wringing the neck, as a fowl.

koái-tsún, perversely disobedient; intentionally disobliging; fond of acting contrary to others' wishes (v. koái). tsún-thâu ngiú<sup>n</sup>-tâu, to twist and shake about one's head and neck in a disobedient or light manner. náu<sup>n</sup>-thâu tsún-ám (C.), id.

kùn-tsún, to struggle to get off from a man who holds us; to make all sorts of excuses so as to avoid paying money for some common expense; (wriggling out of it). kap-lán kùn-tsún, struggling hard to break away from us. kún-lún-tsún, to writhe, as in pain; to wriggle about, as a snake or worm; very much entangled (as cord) and difficult to open out; twisted and involved, as tendrils or ropes; knotty and twisted, as roots of trees. kún-lún tsún-tsún, to writhe or wriggle, &c.

tò-tsún--chhut-lâi, to bring up again (food or insect, &c.) from the crop and eject it, as a fowl does.

tsún [R. tin, a troop; a squall], classifier of gusts, showers, &c.

chit-tsún, now; at this time. sí-tsún, time; a short period of time. liám-sí liám-tsún, immediately.

thâu-tsún, first-born of beasts, esp. of pigs; first squall or gust of wind.

hong-tsún, convulsions in a child. tsòe-tsún-thiá<sup>n</sup>, spasms. koá<sup>n</sup>-jiét-tsún, periodic attack of fever and ague.

hong-tsún, a squall. chit-tsún, one squall or gust. hê-tsún, a shower. chit-tsún-hê, one shower. chit-tsún-jit, chit-tsún-hê, alternate sunshine and rain. chit-tsún chit-tsún, one gust of wind, or squall, or shower after another; one convulsion (disease) after another.

tsut [R. a soldier]. chhióng iu lê tsut, four of the lowest classes of persons—courtezans, play-actors, lictors, and other low underlings of yamuns. bû-bêng siàu-tsut, a very low-conditioned or worthless fellow. gû-thâu liók-tsut, clownish fellow (said in scolding).

tsut-á, playing cards with the word "tsut" (common soldier) on them.

tsut — ám-tsut-tsut, very dark; quite dark; without any light.

tsut — ut-tsut, deeply grieved and vexed; feeling of disgust and discomfort (v. ut).

tsút, to wipe up (as one spot of wet or soft dirt) rapidly and roughly with one motion of the hand. tsút--chit-ê, id. tsút-ta, to wipe dry (as with a brush or cloth) by one motion of the hand. lám-sám-tsút, to wipe or brush too roughly or heavily, so as to injure a thing, e.g. spoil the point of a pen. tsút-phái<sup>n</sup>, to spoil, as a pen, by drawing it too roughly. tsút-lút-phái<sup>n</sup>, id.

tsút pòh-piá<sup>n</sup>, to make thin cakes on a frying-pan.

tsút — khó-tsút-tsút, very thick, as boiled rice; very numerous, as animals or men.

tsút (R. tsút, sút). tsút-bí, glutinous rice. tsút-ê, id. toá-tsút, a large sort of it. tsút-á, small sort of it. toá-khak-tsút, a very large sort. chhiáh-khak-tsút, the best sort (= kim-pau-gún), counted very nourishing.

tsút-bí-thiám, spirits in which glutinous rice has been soaked. tsút-bí-sio, liquor distilled from glutinous rice. tsút-bí-tsu, false pearls made of it. tsút-bí-ku, turtle-shaped cakes made of it. tsút-bí-kê, paste made of it.

tsút [R. a medicinal plant.]

chiau-tsút, a medicinal plant, prepared by treating with fire. péh-tsút, a white sort. chhong-tsút, a purgative medicine; also used for burning to remove damp.

擲
峻 圳
俊
駿
戰

陣陳

卒

木

秫木

TS'H.

This initial is sometimes heard before a, ng, o, ɛ, ɔ, u, ü (especially in T. and Cn.), and more frequently the sound is somewhere between Ts'h and Chh. I have not been able to find any settled rule for these cases, and have therefore used everywhere the spelling Chh (q.v.)

U.

Including ü.

u often becomes i in Changchew. When it becomes i in Changchew, it becomes ü in Chin-chew; but this latter change often takes place when the u remains in Changchew.

ü (R. id.?), a small pit, depression, or puddle. oá<sup>n</sup>-u, the cavity in the bottom of a bowl on which it rests.

lap-u, = lap-o, concave, as a hole or depression, esp. when it has become so by deterioration; lower than the surrounding ground, as a piece of ground; situated too low, as a house or village. bih-u, to hide in a hole, as in order to shoot or catch men.

ü — bák-u, the socket of the eye. chhim-bák-u, having deep-set eyes.

ü — kha-thâu-u, the knee. kim kha-thâu-u (lit. having a golden knee), said of a high mandarin who never or rarely kneels; said also of a man of independent spirit who tries to keep clear of yamun business so that he may not need to kneel, and who also avoids those ceremonies (e.g. to the deceased relatives of friends) that require kneeling. chhut-kia<sup>n</sup>, kim kha-thâu-u, except at the metropolis, does not need to kneel to anyone at interviews, as a Tau-tai or official of similar or higher rank.

ü [R. ku, to dwell; to reside]. sì-kòe-u, = sì-kòe-ku, go about, as a vagrant with no settled dwelling whom no one will keep long.

ü — pún äü<sup>n</sup>-u, to blow a sort of trumpet with a curved mouth.

ü (= col. uh, eh). phah u-á (C.), = A. phah-eh, to hiccup.

ü [R. u, ù, dirty; filthy; vile; depraved; to defile], (C.) tham-koa<sup>n</sup> u-lí (R.), = A. tham-koa<sup>n</sup> ù-lí, avicious and venal mandarins.

ü [R. distant; wide of the mark; mistaken; bent; distorted; depraved; = col. ù], (T. Cn. ü). u-khu, having a very peculiar temper; unsociable or troublesome to have dealings with; very cautious, over-anxious, or suspicious and afraid of taking action, or sticking doggedly to one plan without making allowance for change of circumstances.

u-tsü, over-anxious about everything, often so far as to be bad-tempered; having a displeased or anxious appearance. u-tsü-tsü, id.

u-thü, so dogged and dull of apprehension as to be apt to spoil matters (v. thü).

ü [R. a preposition of very varied meaning; at; in; to; in relation to], (C. i; Cn. ü). hék-tsōe u-thien, to offend against Heaven. jin seng u-sè (r.), of men born in the world (v. sè).

chi-u (r.), with regard to. chi-u bé-lâng, as regards Mr. So-and-so. chi-u òe-hó òe-phái<sup>n</sup>, as to whether the consequences may be good or bad.

ü (R. id.), (C. i; Cn. ü), a preposition much like the preceding, and sometimes interchanged with it.

ü [R. myself; I; a surname], (C. i; Cn. ü), a surname; there is also another surname of the very same sound and tone, but with a different character.

ü [R. a chariot; to sustain or carry; the earth], (C. i; Cn. ü).

kham-ü-sien (R.), a geomancer.

ü [R. the remainder; surplus; superabundant], (C. i; Cn. ü).

kí-ü, surplus; remainder; that which remains over; they who remain over. kí-ü--ê, id. ü-sin, the surplus, remainder, or remnant. iü-ü, there is a remainder or surplus.

lâu chit--ê ü-tōe hē--lâng, to leave a man some measure of respectability before others, e.g. by refraining from reproving him to the utmost. lâu ü-tōe, id. bō-lâu ü-tōe (leaving him with no ground to stand on), leaving him without any room for self-respect or respect from others, as by scolding or reproving him to the utmost before those who used to respect or look up to him. bō-lâu ü-tē, id. kàu bō-ü-tē, so as to leave him no room for respect, &c.

ü [R. the sides of a roof; to shelter or cover; heaven], (C. i). ü-tiü (R.), the universe.

ü [R. with; to give; = col. hō], (C. i; Cn. ü). jin bñ-it-büt ü-thien (R.), man has nothing to give to Heaven. ü sù-bin tông (R.), just the same as the common people.

ü (R. id.), (C. i). tai-ü, the great Yu; the emperor Yu, founder of the Hea dynasty, who immediately succeeded Yaou and Shun. ü-tè, id.

ü-hō-táu, a large sort of dry measure (táu), about 1.4 of the usual "táu."

ü [R. rain, = col. hō], (C. i). kam-ü (R.), seasonable rain after drought. ü-kéng, the appearance of the sky when rain is falling, as represented in a picture. ü-súi, a day on or about February 18th or 19th. kok-ü, a day on or about April 20th.

ü-jī-thâu, the 173d radical, written at the top of the character.

hong-ü-chiam, a barometer. hong, chêng, ü, lē, wind, fair weather, rain, and dew. hong tiâu, ü sün, wind and rain in due proportions.

ü [R. wings; feathers], (C. — R. í; but in colloquial ü, as the colloquial is a mere imitation of the foreign sound), woollen stuffs, such as camlets, merinos, alpacas, &c., said in imitation of the word "wool;" the various phrases have a good deal of indefiniteness in meaning.

ní<sup>n</sup>-ü, broadcloths, tweeds, and woollen stuffs in general (v. ní<sup>n</sup>). hoe-ü, flowered camlets and such woollen stuffs.

ü-mê<sup>n</sup>, good strong camlets, and such strong alpaca or woollen stuffs. ü-toän, id., or nearly the same.

ü-se, thinner alpacas, bombazettes, merinos, and such thin woollen stuffs.

ü-lin, thin glossy stuff (mixed wool and cotton?), sometimes flowered, sometimes plain, such as bombazettes, lastings, &c. ü-tiü, id., or similar sorts of stuffs; all these phrases are rather indefinite.

ü [R. u, distant; mistaken; distorted], (T. ü). ü-tsoat, very dull of apprehension, foolish, and useless. ü-tsoat put-thong, id.

ü [R. satiated; loathing; = col. üi].

ü-chhüi, feeling surfeited so as to loathe food.

ü [R. u, ù, dirty; filthy; depraved; to defile], (C. ù, u, í, in different senses).

餘

宇與禹

雨

羽

迂飲汚

盱眙

居

汚迂

于於

於于余與

ù-òe, dirty; filthy; soiled; to soil. ù-bī, a rotten smell, as of something corrupting.

tham-koa<sup>n</sup> ù-lī (C. u), avaricious and corrupt mandarins.

ù-tām, damaged by damp or by water, as goods; injured by getting wet, as the end of a stick of ink. ù-tiòh-tsúi, wetted accidentally by falling or dipping into water, or as goods by a leak. ù-tsúi, id. ù-tiòh-kak, the corner got wet, as of a bale.

ù, to singe; to burn with a hot iron; to warm by coming near something hot.

sa<sup>n</sup>-ù, to sit or lie close together to keep each other warm. ù-sio, to warm by putting near the fire or close to a hot tea-pot or large dish of hot rice; to sit or lie close together so as to keep warm in cold weather.

ù--tiòh, scorched or singed by fire or by a hot iron. ù-tiòh-hé, slightly singed or burned, as dress, hair, or skin.

ù-hún, to make lines with a red-hot iron. thih sio âng-âng khi-ù, make the iron red-hot and burn with it, as in making a hole or mark. êng-hiu<sup>n</sup> ù-lâng-bah, to put a bit of burning incense on a man's skin, e.g. to make him start. ù hē-i-tòh, to touch with a bit of smouldering tinder or paper, &c., and make it take fire by blowing on it.

ù (R. ò), a dock. tsún-ù, id. ù-lāi, within the dock.

oa<sup>n</sup>-ù, a good safe anchorage or harbour.

ù (R. iú), to have; there is; there are; yes, in answer to such questions as "Have you?" "Is there?" "Are there any?" sometimes also used somewhat like an auxiliary of past time.

ù-bô, to have or not to have; there is or there is not; is there or is there not? have you or have you not? ù--bô, is there any? have you any? is there? have you? tâng-ù tâng-bô, fully share each other's fortune, as man and wife. ù-miâ<sup>n</sup> bô-sit, having the name but no reality. ù, tsún-bô, having it, but much as if not having it (v. tsún). ù, kóng-bô, to have, but deny having; to say there is not when there is. bô, kóng-kâu-ù, to tell lies till the false appears quite true. chiáh, bô; phah-mē<sup>n</sup>, ù, almost nothing to eat, but plenty of scolding and beating. ù-hún bô-ia<sup>n</sup> ê-òe, false deceitful words. ù-thi<sup>n</sup> bô-jit-thâu ê-òe, falsely accusing of incest and such crimes in reproachful language. ù-chhut bô-jip, having expenses but no income (v. jip).

nā<sup>n</sup>-ù, there is only; there are only; I have no more than —; if there be. nā<sup>n</sup>-ù chiah-ê, there are only these; we have no more than these. chí-ù, there is only; there are only. iáu-ù, there is still more; there are still; there is more yet; to have more. iá-ù, id. kú-ù, yet there is still; yet there is; yet there are.

thó-ù, to succeed in getting by asking for. kiú-kâu-ù, to ask or pray for till we get it.

ù-sí, sometimes. ù-kan--á (P.), id. ù-lâng, there are men; there is some one. ù-lâng-kóng, some men say. ù-lâng-chiáh, some people eat it. ù-ê, there are some of them that —. ù-ê —, ù-ê —, some —, some —. ù--ê, they who have it; they who possess. ù-thang-hē--lâng, there is some that can be given.

ù-ia<sup>n</sup>, it is true; quite true! ù-tō-lí, reasonable and right. ù-gī, grateful (v. gī). ù-lé, polite. ù-lát, strong. ù pún-sū, skilful; wise. ù-pi<sup>n</sup>, unwell.

ù-hún, to have a share. ù-giáh, rich. ù-chi<sup>n</sup>, id. ù-hè, aged. ù-sin, to be pregnant.

ù-chhun, to have a surplus or remainder. ù-sin, id. ù-tiòh, to hit the mark; to be successful (v. tiòh).

ù tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiòh, it is quite fixed. goá ù-kóng, now I have said it. ù sio-kim, ù pó-pì, if you burn paper (in worship) you will certainly get protection (from the gods).

ù [R. a large elephant; easy; amused; idle], (C. i; Cn. ü). iú-ù put-koat, undecided in purpose.

ù [R. to make ready, to prepare, beforehand; sometimes interchanged with the preceding word].

ù-pī, ready and prepared beforehand.

uh (cf. u, eh). phah-uh (C.), = A. phah-eh, to hiccup; to belch.

úi (R. id.), majestic appearance, such as to inspire fear or awe; stern and terrible dignity.

ui-hong, majestic, dignified, dreadful, or awe-inspiring appearance. ui-hong lím-lím, id. ké ui-hong, to put on such an appearance falsely. tsok ui-hong, to put on a dignified or majestic appearance, so as to make people afraid (+).

ui-hêng, stern awe-inspiring manner (v. hêng). ui-lêng, mighty power and majesty, as of an idol (v. lêng). ui-gī (R.), grand and magnificent appearance, such as to cause reverence.

ui-giám, stern and severe; majestic and dreadful.

tién-ui, to put on a fierce appearance, as tiger about to spring, or as warrior in battle. tsok-ui, to put on a majestic or terrible appearance so as to frighten people. tsok-ui tsok-hok, to behave haughtily and insolently, as an official, or as a man in prosperity and power. hoah hé-ui, the loud shouting of the attendants of a mandarin as he takes his seat on the tribunal. kâu pñg-hé-ui (monkey borrowing tiger's majesty), attendants or servants of mandarin making themselves very big through their master's power. iáu-bú iông-ui, a grand military officer showing his dignity; said also of a man making himself appear of great importance, either real or pretended.

úi (same as previous word?).

ui-sit, very prosperous, auspicious, or lucky (v. sit).

úi [R. oat, to scrape a hole; to bore; = col. iah, uih], (C. oe), to bore. ui--chih, to break by boring. ui têng-keng, to cut out the round hole for the neck of a dress.

ui-khang, to bore a hole. ui-khang iah-piah, to break through a wall, as in order to steal or rob. ui hí-khang, to pick the ears (v. hí).

úi [R. i, clothes; a robe; a dress], the placenta of the womb. thai-ui (R.), id. gín-ná-ui, id. ui-toà, the navel-string. ui bōe-lòh, the placenta not coming away after birth, a very dangerous symptom.

sàng koá<sup>n</sup>-ui, to make a present of clothes for winter wear, only said in a song. ui-kè (C.), a stand for hanging clothes on in a bride's outfit.

úi (C.), = A. i, to heal; to cure; only said in phrases originally and purely colloquial, but book phrases that have come into common use remain "i."

úi (R. id.) úi-kéh, to oppose authority; to disobey. úi-pōe (R.), id. úi-bēng (R.), to disobey legal authoritative commands (s. leave).

úi-kim, to break a prohibition.

úi (R. id.), to surround; to inclose; to besiege. úi-lú, to surround thoroughly.

sí-úi, all round; on all sides. chiu-úi (r.), all round about.

chit-úi, as large in circumference as the two hands can grasp with the fingers just meeting.

úi-khø, to make a circle; to have a halo (v. khø).

úi-teh-khoá<sup>n</sup>, all round about looking at something.

煦

炙

澳

有

豫
預
威

挖

衣

違
圍

úi kàu-tī<sup>n</sup>, surrounding in a great crowd. thoân-thoân úi-tsū, surrounding in a dense crowd, as some object that attracts attention; forming a close circle round, as army round a city or other army, or as police round a house in order to arrest a man. úi-lê (surrounding the fire-place), a meal taken together by all the members of a family on the last day of the year.

úi-khùn, to surround and besiege; to beleaguer or surround, as a city or an army. úi--teh, besieged, as a city; blockaded, as a port. úi-siā, to surround a village, as in a feud.

kóc-úi, to compel the raising of a siege, as the relieving army does; to deliver a man from trouble or danger by exhorting or frightening his enemy. kái-úi, id.

úi-kí, to play the sort of chess called "σ-pêh-jí."

úi-sin-kún, an apron. úi-su-kún, id.

tek-úi, a bamboo fence, as round a house, yard, &c. chhiú<sup>n</sup>-úi, a wall on the edge of a terrace, the ground being usually about two or three feet higher than that below. úi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, an inclosing wall. tsáu-úi-chhiú<sup>n</sup>, id.

úi-pín, a standing screen, either folding or on a fixed stand, as at a door or before a bed.

úi [R. a curtain; a cloth-screen]. chhng-úi, the curtain below a bed. kió-úi, the curtain or screen before one's legs in a sedan.

toh-úi, a curtain hanging from a table to the floor in front between the legs. chhâ-toh-úi, wooden screen-work in front of a table between the legs down to the floor.

úi [R. to leave behind; to bequeath; to omit or lose involuntarily or unintentionally]. úi-lâu (R.), to omit an item, as from an account. bông-úi, involuntary emissions of semen, as in sleep.

úi-bêng (R.), last will and testament of any one (s. disobey). úi-chiàu, last will and testament of the emperor. úi-giáp, property left by parents or ancestors. tsé-kong ê úi-giáp, ancestral inheritance. úi-thoân (R.), tradition handed down from ancestors. úi-hiú bân-liên, to leave a bad reputation to unnumbered years.

úi [R. certain doors of palace or harem; examination hall]. chhiu-úi (R.), the examination for the Kujin degree. chhun-úi (R.), the examination for the Tsin-sze degree.

úi [R. to be; to do; to act]. úi-ki, sort of mark for recognition or memorial of parted friends (v. ki).

úi-chí, to be the limit (v. chí). úi jin-tsú, to act as a son (v. jin).

chiong-tsún úi-thai, to make a vessel security for a bond. chí-lók úi-má (to point at a stag as a horse), said of accusing a man falsely. hoā-hé put-sêng, hoán úi-ké, trying to paint a tiger makes it a dog, said of a most contemptible failure (v. hoán).

lân-úi, to maltreat; to treat oppressively, e.g. by compelling to do more work or to pay more money than proper. úi-hui, to act wickedly (v. hui). hui-úi, id. bû-sé put-úi, committing all sorts of wickedness.

û-lêng-úi, to have ability or power to effect a result; able to accomplish a thing. lí khah-û lêng-úi, you are more powerful and more able to do it. lí khah-lêng-úi, id. bô-lêng-úi, to be very powerless; to have too little power to effect anything of importance, e.g. as an old frail man, or a man with no influence, or an army too weak for the duty. bû-lêng-úi, id.

úi (R. id.), a mast. tsún-úi, id. úi-tu, the support for the mast in front of it. úi-bé, the top of a mast.

toā-úi, the largest mast of a vessel. tióng-úi, the mainmast (middle mast) of a three-masted vessel. thâu-úi, the foremast. bé-úi, the mizzenmast of a ship; but in a junk it is called "bé-sàng."

chit-ki-úi, one mast. chit-tiâu-úi (r.), id. sa<sup>n</sup>-ki-úi, a full-rigged ship. nng-ki-úi, a brig. nng-ki-poà<sup>n</sup>-úi, = nng-ki-poà<sup>n</sup>, a barque. ki-poà<sup>n</sup>-úi, a two-masted schooner; but a three-masted schooner is "ki-poà<sup>n</sup>-poà<sup>n</sup>."

khia-úi, to set up a mast. siâ-úi, to take down a mast. chiap-úi, to fit together the parts of a foreign mast. póng-úi, to put on an additional piece of wood on a mast by iron hoops (v. póng). chiú<sup>n</sup>-úi, to climb a mast. peh-úi, id. khí-úi sit-toā, to lose mast and helm.

úi (C.), = A. í (R.), only.

úi [R. bent, as under a burden; to sustain, as an office; to delegate or depute; crooked or involved; to reject; the last; really], to depute an inferior official with full powers, as commissioner or deputy, to examine into and settle an affair.

úi-oân, a deputy or commissioner sent or deputed by a superior mandarin with power to examine into or manage some affair, or for some special temporary purpose. úi-goân, id. úi-pâi, credentials of a mandarin appointed to a post, or of deputy or delegated official. úi-i-khi, to send or commission him as deputy. úi hái-hông khi-pân, to appoint the Hai-fang as deputy to manage the matter, as the Tau-tai often does. úi hê hái-hông khi-pân, id.

goā-úi, a petty officer in the army, somewhat like a sergeant-major, just below the "pé-tóng," and just above the "giáh-goā."

úi-khiok, involved, as an affair; using much cunning and planning in a matter (v. khiok). kóng-ōe khah-úi-oân (r.), to talk in a gentle winning way (v. oân).

phí-úi, having a contemptible or undignified look, as a small and ugly man. jin-tsái phí-úi, personal appearance small, mean-looking, and ugly, as of a man.

úi [R. to make excuses; to evade; to put off on another]. chhui-úi (r.), to make excuses or pretences for not doing a thing; to lay the blame or duty on another, generally with the idea of more or less falsehood. thui-úi (C.), id. (r.)

úi [R. a reed]. lê-úi (R.), a sort of reed. lê-úi-sè, the tax paid to government by the men who cut reeds (on river banks) for making mats, as in Northern and Central China.

úi [R. — C. úi; Cn. úi, soft or prepared leather; the 178th radical; a surname], a surname.

úi-hê, name of an idol (v. hê). úi-tô, name of another idol (v. tô).

úi [R. to console; to comfort]. an-úi, to console; to soothe; to condole with; to comfort, as by kind conversation.

úi [R. to press smooth; to make tranquil; military officers].

mng-sín hê-úi (C. mûi<sup>n</sup>-sín hê-i), mandarins of doors and officers of thresholds, words written on the leaves of outside folding-doors as a defence against demons; sometimes instead of the words there are the pictures of a civil and military mandarin respectively on the two door-leaves; sometimes the words written are "sín-tê ut-lúi," or "sín-tê ut-lut," the names of power-

幃

遺

闈

為

桅

委

諉

葦
韋

慰 尉

ful spirits able to terrify demons. bân-sêng bú-úi (civil mandarin and military officer), words sometimes written thus.

úi [R. ù, satiated; loathing]. úi-chhùi, feeling very full or surfeited, so as to have a dislike to food. chiáh kàu ùi-chhùi, to eat till one feels a loathing at food.

úi [R. tui, a pair; opposite to; towards; from; by a road], (Cn.) = A. tui, by a place; by a route or way. úi-chit-tiáu, by this road or route. úi-chit-tá, taking the route by this place; this way. úi-tit-lóh, by what place or way? úi-i-kiú, ask it from him.

úi (R. id.), to fear; to dread; (to venerate); to be timid. úi-úi, timid; afraid to meddle in some matter, to engage in some work, or to go somewhere, e.g. in the dark. m-úi, don't be afraid! there is no cause for anxiety, it is all safe.

kèng-úi, to venerate; to reverence; to adore.

kia"-úi, lest. khiong-úi, lest; for fear that; very much afraid (v. khiong).

úi-kia", shy and easily frightened, as child. úi-sí, much afraid; faint-hearted. úi-khū (R.), to fear greatly.

úi-siáu-lóe, shy; very bashful. úi-siáu-jîn, very bashful or ashamed (v. siáu). úi-ki"-lâng, shy and bashful, as from natural disposition, from modesty, or illness, or being ashamed of having done something shameful. bô-úi-lâng, without proper modesty, as a woman who talks too freely with men, or as a boy who makes too free with his seniors or elder relations.

úi-hoân, unwilling to undertake a troublesome work or duty. úi-boâ, unwilling to exert one's self; unwilling to meet with trouble or inconvenience. úi-kiá", afraid of the trouble of walking. úi-sū, taking great care to avoid raising quarrels or disputes; afraid to meddle with a matter for fear of the consequences. úi-siú ùi-bí, timid and fearful, e.g. unwilling to see a person for fear of getting somehow involved by him in some troublesome or dangerous affair (lit. afraid of beginning and end).

úi-ngiau", easily tickled (v. ngiau"). úi-lâng-chhiu, afraid of having his cheek tickled, as child. úi-bé, afraid of his wife, as man who dares not do anything without consulting her (v. bé).

úi chhàu-chho, not liking to taste strong-smelling fish.

úi-léng, to have an aguish chill; to be afraid of eating things counted too cooling (léng); also (C.), ague. úi-hong, feeling colded and chilled in a draught of air; afraid of exposing one's self to a draught of air. úi-koá", shivering, chilled, or shaking with cold or with ague; afraid of cold; fond of wearing a great many clothes. khah-bôe ùi-koá", wears few clothes even when it is cold. khah-bô ùi-koá", not now so much afraid of cold, e.g. having now recovered from bad health.

úi-joáh, afraid of heat, e.g. afraid of going out or working hard in hot weather, liking to wear very few clothes in warm weather, or taking them off before other people do. khah-bôe ùi-joáh, can bear heavy clothes in hot weather; easily bears exposure to the sun or hard work in hot weather.

úi [R. the stomach].

pí-úi, the stomach and the pancreas; the stomach in relation to appetite. khui pí-úi, to whet the appetite. pí-úi m-khui, having no appetite at all.

úi-khì hân, having a tendency to vomit sour watery stuff. úi-khì léng, id. úi-khì phái", appetite bad. úi-khì hó (r.), having a good appetite.

úi [R. because of; on account of; to side or take part with; to help; by change of tone from "úi," to be; to act], to take the side of; to take part with, as in a lawsuit, feud, or violent quarrel; to side with.

in-úi, for; because of; on account of.

úi--tióh, for the sake of; on account of; for; because of; to be involved in. úi-tióh-sū, to get involved in a lawsuit or such dangerous affair. úi--tióh jîn-bēng, involved in payment for a man's death.

úi-sū, to be involved in some very dangerous matter; e.g. in a lawsuit so that one must defend himself in court, or in responsibility for a death (jîn-bēng).

úi-bēng ùi-lí, for the sake of fame or of wealth (v. lí).

úi--lâng, to take a man's side in a quarrel, dispute, or lawsuit; to side with or assist in such a matter. sa"-úi, mutually supporting or assisting one another, as in feuds, quarrels, or lawsuits. khah-úi-goá, he rather sides with me. lí ùi-i, bô-úi-goá, you are quite on his side and not at all for me.

úi [R. hoā, to paint; to draw; a picture; = col. oā], (C. oe, P. oai, oe), to draw or paint, as face, picture, map, &c.; to make a mark, as in signing.

úi-hō, to make one's mark as signature; this is the really important and valid part of the signature. chhiam-miá" ùi-hō, to put down the name and make the mark completing the signature. úi-chio, to sign a confession that our sentence (of death) is just and that we ought to die.

úi-hûn, to draw a line, as with ink or paint. úi-ē chhat-péh, to scrawl about, as on walls, &c.; said also of a child's dirty face.

úi-bîn, to paint one's own face; to have one's own face painted, as an actor, or as for an idolatrous procession. úi-bái, to paint the eyebrows of women. úi-ōe, to paint on shoes the lines to be embroidered.

úi-tē, to draw a map or plan. úi-tit, to draw the diagram used as a board for the game of "tit."

úi-siōng, to draw or paint a likeness or portrait of any sort. úi tãi-siū, to draw or paint a full-length portrait on a scroll. úi ang-á, to draw pictures of persons, as of men or idols. úi jîn-bút, to draw pictures of persons; if anything else be in the picture the persons must be the principal object. úi-pút, to draw a picture of an idol (Buddhist). úi pút-siōng, id. úi san-súi, to draw or paint landscapes. úi hoe-chiáu, to paint or draw birds or flowers, without human figures.

chhái-úi, to paint in various colours. chhái"-úi, id. úi tan-chheng, to paint in colours (lit. red and blue). úi bák-tsúi, to paint with ink in black and white (+). chí-bék-úi, to paint by dipping the nail in ink (v. bék).

jī-úi, scrolls with characters and scrolls with pictures. bák-tsúi-úi, pictures in black and white, done with ink (+). sí-úi, pictures by moderns. ké-úi, pictures by painters of former days. bēng-ka-úi, pictures by famous painters.

úi-kiá", a framed picture. úi-phé, a book of drawing lessons. úi-kang, the work of painting, as regards wages or amount of work; painters of ornamental work, as engaged for hire.

úi (R. id.), a place; a seat, as at table; space or room; rank; a throne, the seat of a spirit; classifier of persons of some consideration or position.

úi-á (r.), a place. chit--ê ùi-á, this place.

chit-úi, here; this place. hit-úi, that place; there. tá-úi, where? pát-úi, another place; elsewhere. kóng tui-pát-úi--khì, to talk about something quite different from the matter in hand.

餓
對
畏

爲

畫

胃

位

tsai-üi, to know the place. goā-üi ê-lâng, person who comes from a very distant place.

bō-üi, there is no vacant room. bō-üi-chhù, no place, e.g. no place to live in.

toā-üi, a principal or chief seat; a seat of honour, as at a feast; a large place. sòe-üi, an inferior seat; a small place. hiām sòe-üi, to find fault with a place because it is too small. téng-üi, an upper seat. ê-üi, a lower seat.

pē-üi, a vital place on the body, where a blow is fatal (from "pē," a division or class).

pē-üi, rank (from "pē," a pace of two steps). kàu sím-mih<sup>n</sup> pē-üi, what rank has he reached? koa<sup>n</sup>-üi, official rank.

tē-üi, grade of official rank, &c. tōe-üi, id. sím-mih<sup>n</sup> tē-üi, what rank? (e.g. has he reached). toā-tē-üi, high mandarin or literary rank, e.g. a Kujin. pát-jit oe toā-tē-üi, he will come to high rank some day, said of a promising boy. ũ tē-üi, to have some rank or position; to have a very good situation or great wealth. hē-i khah-ū tē-üi, leave him some measure of respect (bin), as by refraining from scolding or reproving to the utmost. lâu chit--ê tē-üi hē-i, id. hē-i bō-tē-üi, to scold him to the utmost, so that no room for respect is left. hē-i bō-tē-üi thang-khiā, id.

tā<sup>n</sup>-üi, the burden or capacity of a vessel counted in peculs. káu-üi, the space occupied by a row of boats tied to one rope (káu-soh). phék-üi, the place in a song for striking the "phék."

tin-üi, to occupy room uselessly; to obstruct the way (v. tin).

kui-üi, to come back to their proper places, as workmen after a short respite, or as scholars after play-time. kui-üi chē, to go and sit down in their proper places, as scholars. kui pún-üi, to return to his or their original position; esp. said of a spirit that had been incarnate returning to his original station; sometimes said of other things, e.g. of troops. oā<sup>n</sup>-üi, to change places, as men or things (v. oā<sup>n</sup>). soá-üi, to move to another place (v. soá). chhiên-üi, each politely refusing to sit in the more honourable place and pressing the other to sit. teh tsun-üi, id.

an-üi, to consecrate the place for an idol or ancestral tablet and enthrone it with ceremonies in its shrine or place; to invite a very highly honoured guest (e.g. a mandarin or a new son-in-law) to take his seat at table with very special ceremonies on some special occasions; done by placing a wine-cup and a pair of chopsticks opposite the seat he is to occupy, and making very formal bows to him, &c. an-üi tai-kiet (an auspicious inscription put on the shrine of a new idol), may this newly consecrated seat have great good fortune.

sîn-üi, the seat, throne, or abode of the spirit of an idol or sage, sometimes a tablet, sometimes a scroll only. lêng-üi, the place (often a paper house) where the "hân-sin" is placed in the rites for the dead, and where the spirit of the dead person is supposed to stay (v. lêng).

lók-üi, a tablet put up in honour of a living mandarin; it signifies a wish for his long life and prosperity. tiông-seng lók-üi, id. lók-üi-pái, id. chhāi lók-üi, to set up such a tablet.

kong-tsō-üi, the mandarin's seat on the tribunal or judgment-seat (+).

thi<sup>n</sup>-üi, the imperial throne (v. thi<sup>n</sup>). ông-üi, a royal throne. pó-üi, id. tsō-üi (r.), a throne.

teng-üi, to come to the throne. chiap-üi, to succeed to the throne. chhoân-üi, to usurp the throne.

thoân-üi, to transmit the throne to one's successor thè-üi, to abdicate.

niū<sup>n</sup>-üi, to abdicate in favour of another; to give place politely to another; to yield the place voluntarily to another. chē-üi, to sit on the throne; to reign; to be a sovereign; to take their seats, as arbiters, or as guests at a feast.

khí-üi, to rise, or rise slightly from one's seat, as a mark of respect to visitors or guests when they enter; to rise and leave the table when one has eaten enough at end of a meal.

kúi-üi, how many persons? liét-üi, a polite phrase used in addressing several persons (v. liét). sam-üi it-thé (X.), three persons and one substance or essence; the Trinity in unity.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ng, to cover with the hand. ui<sup>n</sup> pak-té, to hold one's belly, as in great pain.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ng, yellow, a surname. üi<sup>n</sup> phi-phi, very yellow. üi<sup>n</sup> phiang-phiang, id.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.) lê-üi<sup>n</sup>, = A. lôe-ng, the bent body of a plough.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ng (sulphur).

üi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. êng, leisure.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.) üi<sup>n</sup>-á, = A. úg-á, a small sort of basket.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. úg. káu-üi<sup>n</sup>, = A. káu-úg, a sort of pawn-shop.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. úg, a sleeve.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. úg, to take under the arm.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. úg, a surname (R. goán).

üi<sup>n</sup> (Cn.), = A. óá, to lean upon; to be near; only said in some phrases.

üi<sup>n</sup> (C.), = A. ng. bák-chiu üi<sup>n</sup>, eyes dim, as when wearied with looking long.

üih [R. oat, to scrape a hole; to bore; a cleaner for a pipe; = col. üi, iah], to bore or make a hole; to pick out, as from a hole or chink; to take up on the finger, as paste; to scoop out, as the eye.

üih-khang, to make a hole, as in a wall. üih-pé, to alter a writing by cutting out a word or more, and pasting in the correction.

üih bák-chiu, to scoop out the eyes. üih bát-sat, to pick out bugs from chinks. üih-kê, to take up a small quantity of paste, as on the point of the finger, or on a small slip of bamboo, e.g. for pasting up a letter.

üih-á, a pipe-cleaner; a picker for a pipe; also (T.), = A. lién-á, an instrument for twirling the pellet of opium in the flame.

üih ham - khak - chí<sup>n</sup>, = kuih ham-khak-chí<sup>n</sup> (C. oeh), a game played by children, making the shells of the "ham" turn over by pressing them with the finger nail. üih koe-ko, to play that game with shells. üih koe-ko, phah chháu-lô, a sort of song or chorus shouted by children in a kind of noisy game.

üih [R. êk, to draw a line; to mark by a line; to devise; a line], to draw a line; a short horizontal line; a short line; a stroke, as in writing Chinese characters.

chit-üih, one short horizontal stroke; a short stroke; one stroke in addition to the radical making up the character. chit-khiā chit-üih, one perpendicular and one horizontal stroke (v. khiā). kúi-üih, how many strokes in addition to the radical has the character? sa<sup>n</sup>-üih, it has three strokes besides the radical.

chheng-soàn bân-soàn, m-táh thi<sup>n</sup> chit-üih (or "chhiên-soàn," &c.), all human plans are not equal to one line (i.e. purpose) of Heaven.

挖抉

畫

劃

úih [R. êk, to engrave; to carve; to scratch; to cut open].

úih-hûn, to scratch or score a line, esp. with the nail, or with a knife, or with a bit of brick or tile. úih po-lê, to scratch a line on glass with a diamond, as in order to break it off.

thâu phoà, hī úih, wounded about head and ears, as by an accident, or by being beaten or struck.

ta<sup>n</sup> úih--lah, now then it is quite ruined or spoiled, as a thing, or as an affair gone entirely wrong; now it is all up. ta<sup>n</sup>--chiah úih--lah, id.

Un [R. oan, to oppress]. un-khut, to treat unjustly on the basis of a false charge; to accuse falsely, either to a private person or magistrate. un-ut (r.), id.

Un [R. warm; temperate; mild and gentle; to revise, as a lesson], genially warm and temperate, as climate; to warm or heat up; a surname.

un-chiu, Wan-chow or Wen-chow-foo, between Fuh-chau and Ningpo. un-thai-chiu, Wen-chow-foo and Tai-chow-foo, both in Chekiang province.

un goân-sòe, an idol of surname Un, represented riding on a tiger, as attendant on Má-tsé or Tái-tò-kong.

un-sip, to revise thoroughly, as a lesson.

un-hô, mild and gentle, as temper; genial and mild, as weather. chhun-khì un-hô, spring weather mild and genial.

un-jiú, mild and gentle (v. jiú). un-sún, good, meek, and gentle; kind, mild, and good-tempered.

un-tsúi, to warm water. un sio-tsúi, id. un-chiú, to warm spirituous liquor. un-thng (Cn.), to warm up warm water.

Un [R. pestilence; a very severe epidemic or infectious disease. un-ék, a pestilence, plague, or severe epidemic (v. êk). un-iáh (C.), id. un-hék (Cn.), id. tso-un, to be afflicted with pestilence, insurrection, conflagrations, or such great disasters. siū-tso-un, id. tióh-un, to have a severe epidemic or pestilence, as in a place. tiòng-té un-pī<sup>n</sup>, may you have dropsy and pestilence (said by women in scolding).

Un — un-ài, the mumps (s. favour). si<sup>n</sup> un-ài, to have the mumps.

Un — un-lun-khún, coiled up, as a snake, dog, or cat (v. khún).

Un, to sit, lounge, or lie down, so as to soil or crease one's clothes; to throw down in a confused disorderly way, as clothes or ropes; to go about spending one's time in the haunts of low vile pleasures. lâm-sám un, id. si-kòe-un, to sit or lie down here and there, so as to soil, crumple, or spoil one's dress; to go about in a lazy and disorderly way, spending one's time in improper places. ták-jit un--hia, day after day frequenting those bad places.

un-un--teh, thrown about in a confused disorderly way, as clothes or ropes; soiled or spoiled by sitting or lying down, as clothes on the person; going about low haunts and bad places. un-lun--teh, id. tiā<sup>n</sup>-tiā<sup>n</sup> un--teh, madly set for a long time on gambling, or such bad courses.

un-phái<sup>n</sup>, to crush, break, or spoil by sitting or lying down on. un-jiáu, to crumple, as one's dress, by sitting on it. un--chih, to break by sitting or lying upon.

un ti-kiáu--nih<sup>n</sup>, constantly mad upon gambling, as for days and weeks, or for a longer time, so that he will not give it up. un tī tsa-bé--nih<sup>n</sup>, madly set on a bad woman for a long long time.

Un [same as the previous word?]. un-thun, dirty; filthy (v. thun).

Un [R. grieved; anxious], (C. in; Cn. ün). un-khún (C. in-khún), courteous, kind, and attentive to visitors or guests.

Un [R. name of a fish]. un-hî, sort of small fish with a sharp head. chiam-chhùi-un, id.

Un (R. id.), (C. in; Cn. ün), favour; grace; unmerited kindness. (Special care must be taken in C. to say "in," and not "un," which suggests the meaning of epidemic or calamity.)

un-tién, favour; grace. un-hūi, id. un-tek, id. i ũ un-tek tī goán-tau, he deserves favour or kindness from me in return for what he has done for me. un-chêng, kindness; favour; grace; kind disposition. hó-un-chêng, kind and affable. pò-tap un-chêng, to requite favour. i ũ un-chêng tī goá-tau, I owe him gratitude and favour, or kindness for favours given to me or my relatives or friends. un-ték (R.), favour; kindness. un-thióng (R.), special imperial favour and affection, esp. to members of harem.

thien-un, imperial favour; also (R.), the favour of Heaven. hông-un, imperial favour. toā-un, great favour or grace.

un-ài, to love greatly, as man and woman (s. mumps). un-sut (r.), to compassionate; to act kindly and considerately (v. sut). un-sù, a gracious gift, as from a sovereign; to bestow royal favour, as sovereign does. bāng-lí khah-un-sù, please show me this kindness (said in a half joking, half polite way). un-khe, an additional special examination for degrees, granted by imperial favour. un-kòng, the degree of "kòng-seng" given on some special occasion, e.g. on the birth of an heir to the throne.

un-jîn, a benefactor. goá--ê un-jîn, my benefactor. tap-siā un-kong, to give thanks to a powerful spirit for his aid. un-kúi, the spirit of a man who was under great obligations to us, requiting us by giving assistance at the examination for the Kujin degree.

khai-un, to pardon a fault or crime; to forgive a debt in whole or in part. si-un, to bestow grace or favour. ka-un, to bestow a high favour, or forgive a great fault.

siū-un, to receive kindness, grace, or favour. siū-un put-pò, to be ungrateful for kindness received. bông-un pōe-gī, ungrateful; to be ungrateful. bông-un (r.), id. ke-un, to be ungrateful (v. ke). kám-un, grateful or thankful for favour. siā-un, to give thanks for favour or grace. pò-un, to requite favour or kindness (+). pò-tap chhim-un, to requite very great kindness. tī-un pò-pún, to requite the kindness of our parents.

un chhién, kindness or favour small. un sòe (C. in sè), id. un kâu, favour or grace very great. un koái<sup>n</sup> (C. in kôan), id. un chhim, id. un toā, id.

Un [R. hún, clouds]. ûn-sio, the city of Yun-siau, a Ting district or subdivision of Chang-chew, near Tong-san, on the road from Chang-poo to Swatow.

Un [R. oan, slow, =col. bān]. ûn-ûn, gradually; slowly; cautiously (s. walk about). ûn-á-sī, id. ûn-ûn-á, id. ûn-ûn-á-kóng, to tell bit by bit. ûn-ûn-á-kā, to nibble gradually.

ûn-á-kiá<sup>n</sup>, walk slowly; good-bye, said to the person going away. ûn-á liên-hóe, may you be always miserable, and unable either to get deliverance or to die!

殷慇
恩

寬
溫

瘟

雲
緩

ùn--chit-pē, take one step more slowly, said by chair-bearers; also said in general, just wait a little.

ùn, a small sandbank; also (C.), a small dam, weir, &c., in a stream, either partly or wholly across it.

soa-ùn, a small sandbank.
ùn [R. oân, round; to interpret, as dreams; = col. í<sup>n</sup>].
ùn-bâng, to go to a temple in order to dream there for an augury. ùn sien-bâng, to go to dream at the temple of the eight genii.

ùn [R. lùn, a wheel; a joint].
chhun-ùn (T. chhun-lùn), to stretch one's limbs, as when tired or slightly unwell.

ùn [R. sùn, to go about to inspect], (Cn. ùn), to walk about, as for exercise or amusement, or when looking at a place; to take a stroll; to go about idly or indulging in depraved pleasures. ùn-ùn, id. (s. gradually). ùn-lái ùn-khì, to stroll about walking back and forth. lái-khì ùn-ùn, come and take a stroll. sì-kòe-ùn, to stroll about in many directions or places.

ùn [R. equal; even; alike], one of the successive rows of rafters or beams between two great beams; one of the rows of tiles, &c.

chiâu-ùn, in regular order or succession, as taking turns in work or a game.

chiâu-ùn, in good and sufficient measure, and in constant regular succession, as rain, or as work, e.g. as the regular steady gains of ordinary work or trade. kang-hu chiâu-ùn, employment constant and regular for a long time. hē-tsuí chiâu-ùn, rains regular and sufficient.

phái<sup>n</sup>-tsu-ùn, a season when small-pox is specially virulent and fatal.

phah-ùn, to do work together and divide the profits about equally. phah thong-ùn, id. khien-chhé-ùn--khì, taking things at an average, as good and bad mixed. chhé-ùn, id.

chit-ùn soa<sup>n</sup>, chit-ùn hiu<sup>n</sup>-siâ, ranges of mountains and groups of villages alternating in succession. kúi-ùn chheh, how many piles or rows of books? chit-ùn í<sup>n</sup>, one row of rafters or small beams between two great beams.

ji-ùn, sets of characters used by relations for the several generations, so that the genealogical rank of any one is at once known by his name. tâng-ji-ùn, of the same generation, equally distant from the common ancestor. siâng-ji-ùn, id. toâ chit-ji-ùn, one generation nearer the common ancestor. toâ-chit-ùn, id. khah-toâ-ùn, higher in genealogical rank. toâ-ùn ê-lâng, a man higher in the genealogical tree. ê-ùn, one generation lower in genealogical position. sòe-chit-ùn, one generation further from the common ancestor. sè-chit-ùn (C.), id. khah-soe chit-ùn, one degree more distant in relationship.

ùn [R. id., = col. ín], (Cn. ùn), to promise; to consent; to give permission; to accede to or grant a request. iông-ùn, to allow of; to bear with; to permit; to tolerate. êng-ùn (P.), id. èng-ùn (r.), to promise. sa<sup>n</sup>-ùn-thîn, to arrange the betrothal, as of son or daughter. ùn-tsun, to grant; to permit. ùn chit-siū<sup>n</sup> poe, to grant a favourable answer by the divining sticks (one concave, the other convex), or by cash before the ancestral tablets.

ùn-hô (T.), = A. ín-hè, to promise goods to a customer. ùn-kheh (T.), to engage to carry a passenger. ùn-tsai (T.), to make an agreement to carry goods; to accept a freight, as an officer of the vessel, or as the Hong that manages the sending of goods.

ùn [R. ín, to lead]. ùn-tsuí-chio, = ín-tsuí-chio, a medicinal plant.

ùn [R. ín, an earthworm], (C. gín, kí; Cn. bún). thê-ùn, a worm; an earthworm. tē-ùn, id. kâu-ùn (L.), id.

ùn — ùn-ku, hunchbacked; a hunchback (v. ku), (s. hide).

ùn, a bead, as running round the outside of a boat. tiâm-ùn, a horizontal bead round a boat about watermark, above or below, as it is lightly or heavily laden. phû-ùn, a bead round a boat quite above the water, often of a different colour.

ùn [R. boán, late, = col. mng]. ùn-tang, the second rice-harvest, about the 10th month. ùn-kùi, id. ùn-bí, the rice of the second harvest.

ùn (R. id.), safe; certain to succeed, as a plan; secure, as an investment; sure to —. m-ùn, insecure. bô-ùn, id.

an-ùn, safe and tranquil. ùn-ùn, very safe or secure. ùn-sim, mind devoid of fear or anxiety. ùn-sün, safe, as a trade or business without risks; safe and quiet, as good weather for sailing.

ùn-tàng, safe; secure; sure to —; certainly will —. ùn-tàng ôe-hó, certainly it can be put right, or can be completed.

ùn-thàn, the investment or business is safe, sure to give a profit. ùn-iâ<sup>n</sup> bô-su, certain to win. ùn-chiáh ùn-khùn, you may eat and sleep in security; there will be no danger; I will manage it all right for you.

ùn-tsuí, a safe customer; a man to whom we may safely lend money or give goods on credit. phô-ùn, to confine one's self to safe investments.

ùn [R. to hide; to conceal; to cover up; private; not in office], (C. sometimes ín; Cn. sometimes ùn), to cover up, as with thick stuffs, in order to keep warm; to ripen by covering up in a jar, as persimmons and some other fruits; to cover, as a hen covers her chickens (C. ùn).

ùn-sio, to cover up and keep warm, as embers, or as food; to sit or lie close together so as to keep warm. ùn koe-á, to keep chickens warm, as under the wings. ùn tī bí-kng--nih<sup>n</sup>, to ripen by covering up in a rice-jar, as plantains pulled unripe (C. ùn).

ùn-tsóng, to hide away, as treasure-trove, or as stolen goods. ùn-lék, to hide or keep secret, as an affair, thing, or person. ùn-moá<sup>n</sup> (r.), to deceive by concealing (C. ín, ún). ùn tī sim-lái, to keep in one's own heart, as one's sorrows. ùn-sin-hoat, the magical art of becoming invisible.

ùn-ku (C. ín-ki), to dwell in seclusion, as a retired statesman (v. ku, "to dwell"), (s. humpbacked).

ùn-gú, a phrase with a hidden meaning (v. gú). ùn-hong, a very dangerous kind of venereal disease.

ùn (R. id.), to dip the end of a thing in a liquid; to wallow. ùn-tám, to dip in so as to damp.

ùn-noá<sup>n</sup>, to wet with saliva, as by putting to the lips, or with the tongue.

ùn-bák, to dip in ink, as the pen. ùn-tsuí, to dip in water. ùn-lám, to dip in salt. ùn-kiám, to dip in some salted condiment. ùn-ti<sup>n</sup>, to dip in some sweet preparation. ùn-thng, to dip in sugar.

ùn (cf. ut).

ùn-bün, grieved; vexed; feeling dull and weary, as with ennui in bad weather when having nothing to do.

ùn [R. hùn, stupid or incapable at business]. ùn-

引
蚓

晚

穩

隱

搵

愠

黷

法
圓 輪
巡
勻

允

thùn, stupid at managing business; dull of understanding (v. thùn).

ùn, an inclosed pool for catching fish, overflowed when the tide is full. ùn-hoá<sup>n</sup>, the embankment of such a pool, made of mud. phoà-ùn, to break that embankment and let out the water, so as to catch the fish.

ùn, to lean or rub upon so as to dirty one's clothes, &c.

ùn--tióh, to rub or press upon unintentionally so as to soil one's clothes (as by rubbing on paint), or so as to break or spoil something. ùn-phái<sup>n</sup>, to break or spoil a thing by coming against it. ùn--chiá, to break by coming against. ùn--tó, to overset by one's clothes catching on something when passing.

ùn (R. id.), rhyme; rhythm; timbre or quality of tone, as of a musical instrument. si-ùn, a rhyming dictionary. bé-ùn, the last rhyme in a poem, i.e. that in the last line (s. revolve).

im-ùn, rhythm; cadence; timbre or quality of tone, as of voice or instrument. im-ùn tiau-hô, harmonizing well, as voice and instrument; music harmonious. im-ùn bô-hiáp, the tune in singing or reciting not well executed as to melody, or not harmonious. im-ùn thia<sup>n</sup>-khi-hng, voice clear and loud (as in singing or chanting), so that it is heard far off.

ah-ùn, to agree in rhyme; to rhyme well, as a line of poetry, according to Chinese rules. háh-ùn, to rhyme correctly, as two words; to accord or agree in sound or harmony, as voice or instrument. ôe-lóh-ùn, fit to make a rhyme. bôe-lóh-ùn, does not make a proper rhyme.

oá-ùn, to rhyme; to sing near the tune; to guess a word from the context, &c.; to guess from slight knowledge, so as not to be far from the mark (s. revolve). oá-ùn lâi-kóng, to speak as if confident of the fact, though it is really only a shrewd guess. oá-ùn lâi-ioh, to guess from appearances and such circumstantial evidence.

ùn [R. to revolve; to go round in a circuit or orbit; to transport; a revolution; the course of nature or of fate; = col. in], a period of good or bad fortune, esp. of five years; to echo; to transport goods or provisions in large quantities; to spread, as a sore growing large; to break out, as new boils near an old one.

ùn-niá<sup>n</sup>, to transport provisions, as for the army (v. niá<sup>n</sup>). ùn-hè, to transport goods of one or few sorts (esp. grain) in large quantities for long periods. ùn-koan, to bring home a corpse in a coffin from a distant place. ùn-hô (R.), the Grand Canal.

iâm-ùn, a large sea-going salt-junk (v. iâm).

sia<sup>n</sup> ùn--lâi, the sound re-echoes or echoes back.

lâm-hong-ùn, the clouds moving with the south wind.

û âu-ùn, pleasant taste and mellow feeling left in the mouth after drinking good tea. khah-bô âu-ùn, mouth not having that pleasant feeling, as after inferior tea.

hiet-khi ùn-tóng, the vital principle or animal spirits making the complete round of the body in one day (v. tóng). chê-sièn ùn-khi, to sit cross-legged absorbed in meditation or abstraction, insensible to the world's affairs, without eating or speaking, as Bud. priest. ùn-sin, to sit thus in silent abstraction. lí ùn-sin, good-bye, sir! said to a Bud. priest when one leaves his temple (lit. you may now return to your abstraction).

ùn-lâng, to suppurate in a new place, as old boil spreading, or as new boils breaking out near the original boil.

tsáu-bé-ùn, the 162d radical, written half inclosing the other part of the character; it is the radical of this word "ùn."

ùn-tsoán (r.), to revolve in an orbit, as a planet (v. tsoán).

thien-ùn, the cyclical date of the year in reference to matters connected with the gods and with superstitions. ke-ùn, period of good or bad luck for a family. lâng-ê-ùn, a man's luck, good or bad, for a period of several years. kho-ùn, fated time for success in getting a degree. lâu-ùn, the last years of an old man's life. bé-ùn, the concluding years of a man's life (s. rhyme). si-ùn, period of life in which death comes. tó-ùn, period when death, or some very great calamity, or bad fortune comes. eh-ùn, a calamitous season of life.

bô-ùn, very unlucky, as man. m-si-ùn, a very unlucky period of life. hó-ùn, period of good fortune. phái<sup>n</sup>-ùn, fated season of bad fortune, not so long as "phái<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn." phái<sup>n</sup>-ùn-tê, id. ùn pháí<sup>n</sup>, one's fortune unlucky for a considerable length of time.

sùn-ùn, in a happy-fated period; matters all going on well. chhut-ùn, to escape from a period of bad luck into one of good fortune. pé-ùn, to mend a man's fate by special rites and ceremonies.

oá-ùn khoá<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>, to say that a man will have good fortune when he is already plainly prosperous (s. rhyme).

jī-ùn, one's fortune, as good or bad, esp. in relation to one's horoscope. bô-ji-ùn, unfortunate, as man whose affairs are always going wrong. hó-ji-ùn, good fortune; fortunate. si-ji-ùn, id. m-si-ji-ùn, bad fortune; all going wrong.

khi-ùn, fortune, good or bad, as of person, place, or kingdom, esp. for a considerable time. ùn-khi, id. (+). ùn-khi ông, in great prosperity; self and family all well and prosperous, esp. making a great deal of money.

miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn, character of a man's fated condition as to life and good or bad fortune for the greater part of one's life, for half one's life, or more. miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn si, fortune extremely good for a long period, longer than "hó-ùn," but not so long as "hó-miá<sup>n</sup>." hó-miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn, id. miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn m-si, fortune extremely bad for a very long period. phái<sup>n</sup>-miá<sup>n</sup>-ùn, id.

si-ùn, time or state of a man's fated good or bad fortune, sometimes quite short. i--ê si-ùn, his fated condition or circumstances as to good or bad fortune at the time. si i--ê si-ùn, it is his time of good fortune.

si-ùn-miá<sup>n</sup>, specially good or bad fortune, as of a man, "si" being the shortest, "miá<sup>n</sup>" for the whole life, and "ùn" properly for several years. si-ùn-bêng (r.), id. si-ùn-miá<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-jī, fortune, as extremely good or extremely bad. si-ùn-miá<sup>n</sup> sa<sup>n</sup>-jī-tsng, id.

ut [R.—; C. ut; Cn. ùi], to smooth with an iron; to iron, as clothes. ut-sa<sup>n</sup>, to iron clothes. ut-táu, a smoothing-iron for clothes.

ut [R. fragrant herbs used in offerings; vexed unpleasant feelings; cf. col. ùn], uncomfortable feeling, as when too hot, or bilious, or dyspeptic, or grieved, disquieted, or anxious.

ut-kim-hiu<sup>n</sup>, a fragrant plant used in medicine (golden turmeric?). ut-kim-hiong-chiú, sort of fragrant spirituous liquor of pleasant taste.

ut-lúi, title of a man of the Tang dynasty now worshipped as a spirit who keeps away demons. sin-tê

韻

運

尉
火
樹
鬱

ut-lúi, the names of two powerful spirits, terrible to demons, which are often written on doors as a protection. sin-tê ut-lút, id.

ut-hé, feeling uncomfortable and unwell, as from biliousness or slight feverishness. ut-tsûn, feeling uncomfortable from being long in a vessel. ut-tsut, feeling uncomfortable, vexed, grieved, or disgusted at some matter. ut-tsut-joáh, sultry weather, such as brings on a typhoon unless it be followed by heavy rains. ut-joáh, sultry and oppressive, as weather. ut-ek, vexed, grieved, sad, and uncomfortable in mind. ut-bûn, id. iu-ut (R.), sad and disquieted.

kái-ut, to cure the uncomfortable feeling, as of biliousness or dyspepsia.

ut-áu<sup>n</sup>, pronouncing indistinctly, as from a fault in the palate or tongue (v. áu<sup>n</sup>).

ut [R. khut, to bend; to treat very unjustly], to bend without breaking; to sprain, esp. by giving the ankle a slight twist; to accuse falsely; to treat unjustly, as by false accusation or by neglecting talent. ut-lut, to bend, &c. ut-teh-chê, to sit crouching or bent.

ut--tióh (C. ó--tióh), to sprain slightly, as ankle or wrist, not so bad as "tsoáh." ut--khì, id. kha ut--tióh, foot sprained.

ut-chím, neck stiff and sore from sleeping in a bad position.

áu-ut, to insist falsely and violently that a man owes money or has done something wrong, so as to treat him unjustly and oppressively. un-ut, = oan-khut, to injure or oppress by accusing falsely of crime. gáu-ut--lâng, fond of maligning or falsely accusing people so as to injure them. khít-i-ut, to be thus falsely accused by him. ut--sí lâng--ê tsâi-tiâu, to cause another's talents to be passed over and not rewarded or properly appreciated, e.g. by spreading calumnies against him, or by preventing his getting an opportunity of showing his powers, or as an examiner not giving a degree to a deserving candidate.

út (cf. áih<sup>n</sup>, êh).

ih<sup>n</sup>-út, discontented, distressed, or disgusted at the state of matters, e.g. at some misfortune that has come on us, or at an inconvenient dilemma; grumbling, as at an order which we must obey, but feel unwilling. ih-út, id. ih<sup>n</sup>-ih<sup>n</sup> út-út, id.; also said of the indistinct manner of speaking of a man who is afraid to speak out, e.g. when ashamed to speak, or as when asking a favour, or when dissatisfied and grumbling.

út [R. a sort of bird, = lút].

út-pâng siong-chhi, gû-jîn tek-lí, when the bird and the oyster seize each other the fisherman gets profit, said of the yamun people getting gain out of lawsuits.

W.

wa, wâ, wá, wà, wā; better oa, oâ, oá, oà, oā (q.v.)

wa<sup>n</sup>, wâ<sup>n</sup>, wá<sup>n</sup>, wà<sup>n</sup>, wā<sup>n</sup>; better oa<sup>n</sup>, oâ<sup>n</sup>, oá<sup>n</sup>, oà<sup>n</sup>, oā<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

wáh, better oáh (q.v.)

wai, wái, wâi, wai<sup>n</sup>, wâi<sup>n</sup>, wâih<sup>n</sup>; better oai, oái, oâi, oâi<sup>n</sup>, oâih<sup>n</sup> (q.v.)

wák, better oák (q.v.)

wan, wân, wán, wàn, wān; better oan, oân, oán, oàn, oān (q.v.)

wang, better oang (q.v.)

wat, wát; better oat, oát (q.v.)

APPENDIX.

I.

VARIATIONS OF SPELLING IN OTHER BOOKS ON THE LANGUAGE OF AMOY.

SPELLING OF MEDHURST'S DICTIONARY.

The spelling used in the Dictionary of the Hok-kien Dialect, by the Rev. Dr. Medhurst, differs very widely from that used in this book. It is founded on the principle of imitating the English sounds of vowels, and is therefore extremely confused, besides being somewhat too much influenced by the Chinese tables of initials and finals, a subject into which I cannot enter here.

The initials, when consonants, are for the most part the same as mine, except the following:—

gn is used instead of ng.

ch is used both for ch and ts.

The aspirated consonants are indicated not merely by h, but by a small comma inserted between the h and the other consonant.

u<sup>m</sup> is used instead of m, a syllable that really contains no vowel.

w is usually used instead of o at the beginning of a diphthong; woey instead of oe; woo or wu instead of u; and wui instead of ui.

y is used as an initial instead of i at the beginning of a diphthong; yè instead of i in some diphthongs; yew instead of iu; yi instead of i before m, n, p, and t; also yung instead of iong.

The greatest changes occur in the finals. A final means in Chinese nomenclature the whole of a word excepting the initial consonant or consonants, or even the whole word if there be no initial consonant.

The following list will enable the student to understand Medhurst's spelling of these finals. The first is Medhurst's spelling, the second is its equivalent as used in this Dictionary.

ae - - - - ai	ëuk - - - - iok
ai <sup>ng</sup> - - - - ε <sup>n</sup>	ew - - - - iu aou - - - - au	ey - - - - e
ay - - - - ε	<sup>n</sup> o - - - - ε <sup>n</sup>
e - - - - i	oe - - - - ε
e <sup>ng</sup> - - - - ng	öey - - - - oe ëa - - - - ia	öey, when pre-ëang - - - - iang	ceded by m , œ ëaou - - - - iau	oo - - - - u
ee <sup>ng</sup> - - - - i <sup>n</sup>	u <sup>m</sup> - - - - m ëeh - - - - ih	wa - - - - oa ëem - - - - iam	wæ - - - - oai ëen - - - - ien	wan - - - - oan ëep - - - - iap	wang - - - - oang ëet - - - - iet	wu - - - - u
ëo - - - - io	wui <sup>ng</sup> - - - - ui <sup>n</sup>
ëo <sup>ng</sup> - - - - ie <sup>n</sup>	wun - - - - un
ëung - - - - iong	wuy - - - - ui

I have not thought it necessary to swell the list by inserting syllables ending in h, k, p, or t, which are regularly formed from vowels or diphthongs of which the equivalents are given above. Nor have I noticed the short mark placed by Medhurst above some vowels, as this is sufficiently indicated by these four final letters, h, k, p, t.

Medhurst writes the nasal sometimes <sup>n</sup>, sometimes <sup>ng</sup>, and places it sometimes in the middle of a word, sometimes at the beginning or the end. I always place it at the end, as it qualifies the whole vowel part of the word; and I always write it <sup>n</sup>.

In other respects Medhurst's spelling agrees with mine, or, if there be other variations, they must be very few.

But it must be remembered that Medhurst's dictionary is not of the Amoy form of the language, it is of the Changchew dialect, and, indeed, strictly of that variety of the Changchew dialect which is spoken at Chang-poo or Chiu<sup>n</sup>-phé, so that the difference in the words is partly a difference of spelling and partly of dialect, such as is indicated in this Dictionary by C. or P.

VARIETIES OF SPELLING USED IN SOME OTHER BOOKS.

The books issued by the mission-press of the American Reformed Church differ but slightly in orthography from this Dictionary. Instead of ε they use o: ch is used both for ch and ts. The finals ien and iet, are spelled ian and iat. The nasal <sup>n</sup> is not appended to words beginning with m, n, or ng, because all such words are understood to be nasal. Hyphens are used to a much less extent than in this Dictionary (which indeed may be said of all other publications), and only in some of their publications is there any attempt to indicate the penultimate accent; in their later issues it is indicated by a small dot on a level with the top of the letters, e.g. jit·sì, = jit--sì.

The Manual of the Amoy Dialect, published by the late Rev. E. Doty of the same mission, differs from mine in the same points, and in the following. The aspirate is indicated by an inverted comma. He writes the finals eng, ek, as ieng, iek. He does not use hyphens at all. In his book, and those which follow (as also in Medhurst), there is no attempt to indicate the penultimate accent; and so enclitic words are often written as if in the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jip" tone, e.g. sih, mah, &c.

In the Manual of the Amoy Colloquial, by the Rev. John Macgowan o is used instead of ε; ch both for ch and ts; and in order to avoid the necessity of making types with a perpendicular accent, the "ē-jīp" tone is written with an acute accent instead of a perpendicular accent, so that it is distinguished from the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>" tone by the finals, h, k, p, t.

The books reprinted or edited by Dr. Maxwell of the Formosa Mission use o instead of ø; spell the finals ian, iat, where I have ien, iet, and make but a limited use of hyphens.

Other books that have been published in the Amoy vernacular are quite out of print, and so rare that it is not necessary to allude to the variations of spelling in them.

II.

SOME VARIATIONS OF THE TONES IN THE DIALECTS OF CHANG-CHEW, CHIN-CHEW, AND TUNG-AN.

The description of the tones given in the Introduction applies strictly to the form of the language spoken in Amoy itself and the immediate neighbourhood. In the various dialects closely allied to the pure Amoy dialect there are slight variations of tone, many of them too minute to be described, and only to be caught by the ear. In general no attention need be paid to them unless one live in the region where the particular dialect is spoken. Some of the more noteworthy variations are described below.

1. CHANG-CHEW.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup> or upper first tone, called in Chang-chew the téng-pê<sup>n</sup>, is not quite level, but has a very slight upward movement; this upward movement is generally so slight as to be scarcely noticed except by a very practised ear, but in some phrases it is quite marked.

The ē-piâ<sup>n</sup> or lower first, called there the ē-pê<sup>n</sup>, is more drawn out than in Amoy. The description of the Amoy tone still applies to it, but there is a sort of drawl in the pronunciation, and the rise of the voice at the end is often not so decided as at Amoy, so that occasionally it might almost be mistaken for the "ē-khì."

The two khì tones (the upper and lower third) seem to be not so sharply distinguished as in Amoy, at least I have sometimes found it difficult to say whether a word pronounced alone belonged to the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" or to the "ē-khì;" but, strange to say, whenever the word loses the accent by being the first word of a group of two in which the second has the accent, then the distinction becomes quite clear, according to the rules for the tones of unaccented words given in part of the Introduction on "Tones in Combination."

The ē-jīp or lower fourth tone is the one on which the greatest change takes place. It may be described as almost exactly the "ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>" tone cut short at the end, that is to say, the voice first falls very low and then ends in a sharp abrupt upward jerk, somewhat like the English "What?" pronounced not as a mere interrogation, but with a strongly marked tone of great surprise and astonishment. Occasionally this tone is so pronounced that it is not easily distinguished from the "ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>."

2. CHIN-CHEW.

The dialect of Chin-chew is usually spoken with greater rapidity than that of Amoy, several words being often run almost into one; and as it has also a more guttural sound, it is sometimes rather difficult to follow. It will be seen that some of the changes in the tones are connected with this tendency to a hurried pronunciation.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-piâ<sup>n</sup> begins much as the Amoy tone, but instead of remaining level has a very slight downward slope; but this downward motion has not the least resemblance to the rapid falling swing of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>;" it is still pronounced with the calmness and quiet regularity of the Amoy tone. It bears a considerable resemblance to the usual inflection given to the same tone (the first tone or Shang ping) in the Mandarin.

The ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>, while retaining the general shape of the Amoy intonation (first downwards and then upwards), is pronounced on a higher key and with more rapidity or abruptness, and the rising at the end is very marked.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> or second tone, which in Amoy is not divided (and not even attempted to be divided) into an upper and a lower tone, is said by the literary men of Chin-chew to be divided into the upper second or chiū<sup>n</sup>-chiū<sup>n</sup>, and the lower second or ē-chiū<sup>n</sup>; but I have not been able to observe any difference, nor have I marked any special divergence from the usual Amoy intonation of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup>," except that in some parts of the Chin-chew region it approaches somewhat to that peculiarity of the Tung-an dialect which is described below.

The two khì or khū tones (the upper and lower third) are changed in a very striking manner: they are both pronounced with a rapid or abrupt ending, much like that of the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-jīp," but on a lower key. The two "khì" tones thus altered are rather apt to be confounded with each other; but just as in the Chang-chew dialect, whenever a word belonging to the "chiū<sup>n</sup>-khì" tone stands first in a group of two, while the second word has the principal accent, then at once this tone becomes clearly distinguished from the "ē-khì," according to the rules given in the Introduction on "Tones in Combination."

3. TUNG-AN.

The dialect of Tung-an, Tung-ngan, or Tàng-oa<sup>n</sup>, is for the most part intermediate between that of Chin-chew and the dialect of Amoy in the more strict or limited sense. Its tones are usually much the same as those of Amoy, while in those parts of the district of Tung-an which lie towards Chin-chew there is a tendency towards some of the tonal peculiarities of the Chin-chew dialect.

The chiū<sup>n</sup>-sia<sup>n</sup> or second tone, and the chiū<sup>n</sup>-jīp or upper fourth tone, are almost or quite undistinguishable from each other.

The ē-piâ<sup>n</sup> or lower first, and the ē-khì or lower third, when they lose the accent by standing first in a group of two words while the second has the principal accent, become quite undistinguishable from each other, each being pronounced low and level; but the "ē-piâ<sup>n</sup>" when alone, and when accented, has much the same intonation as in Amoy.

III.

EXTENT OF THE AMOY VERNACULAR, AND ITS SUB-DIVISION INTO DIALECTS.

The vernacular of Amoy has attracted special attention, because Amoy was one of the five ports opened to foreign trade by the treaty of Nankin, and because its language differs very widely from the languages spoken at the other ports opened by that treaty, so widely different indeed as to be mutually unintelligible. Since the date of that treaty several ports in the island of Formosa, where the same dialect is spoken, have also been opened to trade; but the name of Amoy was applied to this dialect or vernacular long before these ports were opened, and would have been so doubtless though they had all been opened at once, because of its superior importance as a place of trade and intercourse.

Before the port of Amoy was opened to foreign trade the dialect of Amoy, in its more limited sense, had not attracted attention. The name then given to this form of the Chinese language was the "Hok-kien dialect," the title used in Medhurst's quarto dictionary, and the special form of the language exhibited in that dictionary is the dialect of Chang-poo or Chiu<sup>n</sup>-phé, a district or county in the department or prefecture of Chang-chew.

Amoy stands in the department or prefecture of Chin-chew, but the dialect spoken at the city of Chin-chew differs from that of the town of Amoy almost as much as that of Chang-chew does. We have thus the three great varieties of the Amoy (A.), the Chang-chew (C.), and the Chin-chew (Cn.), which, with smaller variations, may be said to form one language spoken in five departments of the province of Hok-kiên or Fuh-kiên, namely, three Foo departments, Chang-chew (Chiang-chiu-hú), Chin-chew or Tseuen-chow (Tsoán-chiu-hú), and Formosa or Tai-wan (Tái-oán-hú), and in two Chow departments, Yung-chun (Éng-ehun-chiu) and Lung-yen (Liông-gâm-chiu or Léng-ná<sup>n</sup>); but in some parts of these Chow departments other dialects of Chinese are also spoken.

1. CHANG-CHEW, &amp;c.

The most marked peculiarities of the Chang-chew dialect (in addition to the tonal changes noted in No. II.) are these—

e into oe in many words, and vice versa oe into e in about as many, a singular pair of opposed changes for which I have not been able to find any simple rule.

ng into ui<sup>n</sup>, when the final in the reading form is n; also in a few words from the reading final -ong, when it corresponds to the Mandarin -wang.

iong into iang in those words which also appear in the colloquial form iu<sup>n</sup>, corresponding to the Mandarin yang; but those words which correspond to the colloquial ng and to the Mandarin ang, do not become iang, but remain iong.

iok into iak in many words, but far from being a general rule.

u into i, and un into in, in many cases; but occasionally in changes to un.

i<sup>n</sup> into e<sup>n</sup> when the reading final is eng; but when the reading final is ien or iam, the col. remains i<sup>n</sup>.

a into ε in those words which have also a colloquial form in e.

e into ε in colloquial words from the reading form a. eh into εh, in most or all words formed from the reading final ek, and also in some other words.

eng into an in many colloquial words from the reading form ien.

iu<sup>n</sup> into ie<sup>n</sup>.

oe into oa in words from the reading form oa.

iet into oat in many words.

ek into it in some words.

mui<sup>n</sup> into moe<sup>n</sup> in some words.

The dialect of Chang-poo (P.) or Chiu<sup>n</sup>-phé is merely a variation of the Chang-chew dialect. The chief points of difference are (1) oai or oe instead of oa in those words where the Amoy has oe. (2) iong in many words for the Amoy eng, and in like manner iok for ek; but conversely eng often for iong, and ek for iok. These changes also take place in some other parts of Chang-chew prefecture. (3) eng often remains the same as the Amoy form where the Chang-chew has an. But the dialect of Chang-poo varies considerably at the two ends of that long District or county.

In Ping-ho district (Pèng-hó) the dialect is in the main like the rest of Chang-chew with some of the peculiarities of Chang-poo. But on the western border of the Ping-ho district the Hakka dialect is spoken.

Tiô-thòà or Chang-tai is said to have some remarkable peculiarities, due partly to its position on the borders of Chin-chew prefecture, and perhaps still more to the fact that in former times it was a part of that prefecture.

Chau-an (Chiàu-an) is said to approach in dialect to the language of Swatow (see No. IV.), but I have not had opportunities of observing.

Hái-tèng and Lâm-chèng speak very nearly the dialect of Chang-chew city and of Liông-khe, the district in which that city stands, but in the parts of Hái-tèng near Amoy the influence of the strictly Amoy dialect is very decidedly felt.

The Chow department of Lung-yen or Léng-nân uses to a large extent the dialect of Chang-chew, but in parts of it the Hakka is spoken.

2. CHIN-CHEW, TUNG-AN, &amp;c.

The dialect of Chin-chew city (Cn.) and of the district of Chín-kang in which it stands, is also spoken with but slight variations in the adjoining Hien districts of Nanan or Lâm-óa<sup>n</sup> (L.), Húi-an or Húi-óa<sup>n</sup> (H.), and Ankoí or An-khoe (An. or Ank.) Some variations of the dialects of these districts are noted in the Dictionary; and it may be observed that a considerable part of Lâm-óa<sup>n</sup>, bordering on Tung-an, partakes of many of its peculiarities.

The principal variations of the Chin-chew dialect are as follows:—

u into ü; this takes place almost invariably when in Chang-chew i takes the place of the Amoy u; it also occurs in many words, especially in the syllable su, where the Chang-chew retains u.

un into ün almost or quite invariably where the Chang-chew changes to in, and also in some other words.

eng into üi<sup>n</sup> when it comes from the reading termination ien or iam; this occurs in all cases where the Chang-chew has an for the Amoy eng, and in some also where the Chang-chew agrees with the Amoy sound.

eng into öng in some words.

e into ö almost invariably where the Chang-chew changes to oe; so also eh into öh.

oe into öe almost invariably when the Chang-chew changes to e; so also oeh into öeh.

o into ø generally in those words which have au in Mandarin.

ø or au into ïo in many words where the reading ø corresponds to the colloquial au. In ïo the accent is on i, not on the o.

ch, ts, or j, sometimes into dz, or a sound near it (only in the lower series of tones).

j is often pronounced very thick so as to change to l, or very nearly so.

Another remarkable feature of the Chin-chew dialect is the large number of totally different words (not merely differently pronounced) that are used, e.g. söh for kóng, to speak; thè and khit for hè, to give, or sign of passive; bõe-tsöe--tit instead of bõe-sái--tit, &c.

Tung-an (T.) or Tâng-oa<sup>n</sup>, though on the one hand it is the district in which Amoy stands, and on the other hand it is a district of the department or prefecture of Chin-chew, has yet a very marked variety of dialect for itself. It is said to have originally belonged to the prefecture of Chang-chew, which may perhaps partly explain its peculiarities. In many points it is more or less similar to the Chin-chew, from which the following are the chief variations:—(1) ai<sup>n</sup> instead of the Chin-chew üi<sup>n</sup>, especially when that takes the place of the Amoy eng; (2) oai<sup>n</sup> in some cases instead of the Amoy oa<sup>n</sup>; and in several other particulars it is intermediate between the Chin-chew and the pure Amoy.

Kwan-kow or Koàn-kháu (K. or Kk.) is a part of Tung-an district, near the island of Amoy. Among its special peculiarities are the frequent use of io instead of

ø, and the extensive use of u for i. These peculiarities are said to be shared by the dialect of Tiò-thoà, referred to above under Chang-chew. But the use of u for i in some words is also found in many other parts of Tung-an and even in the villages on Amoy island.

The Chow department of Yung-chun or Eüg-chhun has in most parts nearly the same form of dialect as Chin-chew. The district of Tái-tièn or Toā-ehhân, in that department, is said to have a dialect widely different, but I have not had an opportunity of examining it.

3. COLONIZATION AND EMIGRATION.

Formosa has been colonized within about 200 years mainly by emigrants from Amoy, Chang-chew, and Chin-chew. The several parts of the island are usually found to be specially inhabited by emigrants from the several parts of the mainland, but in Formosa the various forms of the dialects mentioned above are a good deal mixed up.

Singapore and the various Straits Settlements, Batavia and other parts of the Dutch possessions, are crowded with emigrants, especially from the Chang-chew prefecture; Manila and other parts of the Philippines have great numbers from Chin-chew, and emigrants are largely scattered in like manner in Siam, Burmah, the Malay Peninsula, Cochin China, Saigon, &c. In many of these places there is also a great mixture of emigrants from Swatow. The Chinese in California and Australia are chiefly from other parts of China, but yet in Australia at least there is a considerable proportion of emigrants from the Amoy region.

In such fields of colonization and emigration there is a certain tendency to mix up the minor varieties of the sub-dialects; and at Singapore, Batavia, &c., a good many Malay words are often used in combination with the Chinese phrases.

In Formosa large tribes of the Aborigines have learned the Amoy vernacular or some of its dialects.

IV.

RELATION TO OTHER LANGUAGES.

Of the other languages of China the most nearly related to ours is the vernacular of Chau-chau-foo or Tie-chiu, in the province of Canton or Kwang-tung, on the borders of the province of Fuh-kien. The only treaty-port in that region of country is Swatow, so that the language is often called the "Swatow dialect." The ancestors of those people emigrated many centuries ago from the province of Fuh-kien, and to this day they are distinguished from the other inhabitants of the Canton province by the appellation "Hok-ló," that is the persons from Hok-kièn or Fuh-kien. That dialect of Swatow or Tie-chiu differs from the Amoy much as Dutch differs from German, or as Portuguese from Spanish, so that those who understand one or other of the dialects well can make out the greater part of what is said in the other. A large proportion of the changes which take place in passing from the Amoy to the Swatow are also found more or less in the various local dialects of the Amoy illustrated in this book, such as the Chang-chew, the Chin-chew, &c.

The island of Hai-nam (Hái-lâm), also in the Canton province, differs much more than the Swatow, but still is more nearly related to the Amoy and Swatow than to any of the other languages of China. But the centre of that island, just as is the case in Formosa, is inhabited by aboriginal races totally different from the Chinese, and having languages of a quite different stock.

Fuh-chau-foo, the capital of Fuh-kien province, is the chief seat of another "dialect," which is largely spoken in the centre and north of the province; it has many points of resemblance to the Amoy, but is quite unintelligible to the Amoy Chinese with the exception of an occasional word or phrase.

Hing-hwa-foo (Heng-hoà), which lies between Fuh-chau and Chin-chew, has a "dialect" or language of its own, though it contains only two counties or Hien districts; it is said to be unintelligible both at Fuh-chau and at Amoy, but I have not been able to examine it.

To the other languages of China the Amoy vernacular is less closely related. Yet they all evidently spring from one common stock. That common stock is not the modern Mandarin dialect, but the ancient form of the Chinese language as spoken about 3000 years ago. The so-called "Mandarin," far from being the original form, is usually more changed than any of the other languages or dialects of China.

The clue to the ancient form of the Chinese language was discovered by the Rev. Joseph Edkins of the London Missionary Society, now stationed at Peking; he has given copious explanations on the subject in his Grammar of the Mandarin Dialect, and in his China's Place in Philology.

Among the sources from which the ancient form of Chinese has been thus recovered, a prominent place is held by the Amoy dialect, especially because its final consonants very generally retain the ancient form.

It is in the ancient form of the Chinese language that the relation of Chinese to the other languages of the world becomes most distinct, as is shown in China's Place in Philology above referred to, so that for this purpose the study of the Amoy vernacular is of considerable importance.

V.

ENCLITICS.

The mark used in this Dictionary for an enclitic word is a double hyphen placed before it. The enclitics may be roughly divided into the following classes, which do not lay claim to any scientific precision or exhaustive minuteness:—

Final particles used at the end of a sentence, or sometimes at the end of a verb, adjective, or substantive, e.g. ah, á, lah, leh, loh, giòh or giòh, kiòh, ioh, hêh<sup>n</sup>, hêh<sup>n</sup>, nih<sup>n</sup>, chiah, chêh, tsài.

Some are interrogative, e.g. má or mah, nih<sup>n</sup>, lái, tái.

Most of these words enumerated above are never used except as enclitics, so that it is sometimes very difficult to determine the proper spelling, or the reading form to which the colloquial corresponds.

Certain adverbs and adjectives, and some particles, which are also used as accented words, e.g. ê, nih<sup>n</sup>, tsài, hia, keng, koá<sup>n</sup> or koá. Some of these are usually enclitic, others but rarely.

Negative words placed at the end of a sentence to give an interrogative sense, e.g. bô, m̄, bôe, bê. These words are much more commonly used in other positions where they are not enclitic.

Substantives which are generally used as ordinary words in other positions, but which are occasionally enclitic, e.g. sí, time; sì, a clan or surname; sì, world; sì, power or direction; kan, bín, ji, iú<sup>n</sup>, lâng, ní<sup>n</sup>, jít, gêh, ko, kong, hō, chhù, tê, thâu.

Some such substantives and adjectives are very extensively used as enclitics in the names of places, especially thâu, chhù, pi<sup>n</sup>, tau, ê, and lái.

Pronouns, when not emphatic, e.g. goá, goán, lán, lí, lín, i, in. In some cases such unemphatic and enclitic pronouns are used indefinitely, as is the case very generally with lâng quoted among the substantives.

Verbs in common use as ordinary words, but which are also sometimes enclitic, e.g. ki<sup>n</sup>, lái, khì, tsáu, chiu<sup>n</sup>, liáu, sí, kàu, tng, phoá, poáh, khoá<sup>n</sup>, tó, chh, chiáh, siá, tsai. Sometimes in such cases the verb, as used after another verb, may be either enclitic or not according as the one or the other is meant to be emphatic; e.g. thái-sí, to kill by cutting; thái-sí, to cut so as to kill.

Some of the verbs enumerated above come to be almost like auxiliaries when enclitic, but this is specially the case with the enclitics tiòh, tit, and teh. Of these the last teh has not been definitely identified with any word in the reading form, and it is very doubtful whether it is the same as the verbal prefix teh of the same sound. In many of the phrases with tiòh, that word may be pronounced either as an enclitic or not, e.g. chhê--tiòh, or chhê-tiòh, with but little if any difference of meaning.

Double enclitics are chiefly found among the verbs, e.g. lòh-lái, lòh-khì, khí-lái, khí-khì, kè-lái, kè-khì, tò-khì, lái-khì, m̄-khì, chhut-lái. All these are found following a verb which takes the primary accent, e.g. puih--khí-lái, phah--m̄-khì, tò--lái-khì; where the principal accent is on the first word, the second is quite unaccented, and a slight secondary accent usually falls on the third word; but sometimes the third word also is quite unaccented, while on the other hand it sometimes recovers more or less of its own original tone.

Double enclitics are very rare except in the case of verbs, but examples of other parts of speech are found in sien-sí<sup>n</sup> and chit-ê; but the latter is often contracted to chêh.

It is of great importance to attend carefully to these various enclitics, both in order to speak idiomatically and correctly, and because numerous phrases have a totally different meaning according as the last word is accented or enclitic; e.g. koa<sup>n</sup>--lâng and koa<sup>n</sup>-lâng; âu-jit and âu-jit; pun--chiáh and pun-chiáh; thê--khì and thê-khì; bô--khì and bô-khì; ta<sup>n</sup>--lái and ta<sup>n</sup>-lái; tsòe--lâng and tsòe-lâng, &c.

VI.

Several other appendices entered into my plan, and the materials have been collected in considerable abundance, but time does not allow of their being arranged and extended at present for publication. But in the Companion, Key, or Sequel to this Dictionary, which I shall endeavour to publish ere long, there may be expected, besides the Chinese characters for the words, such tables as the following:—

A table of phrases in pairs, where the second word of each pair is identical in sound and tone, while the first words agree in sound and differ only in tone; e.g. khí-thâm and khì-thâm; húi-khì and hùi-khì; ké-ì and kê-ì, id. Sometimes there are three, four, or even five phrases thus connected in sound, e.g. kâu-bé, káu-bé, and kâu-bé.

Table of remarkable changes in the initials of the words.

Table of remarkable changes in the finals of words.

Phrases where decided difference of sense is caused by change of accent or by a slight pause.

Table of words which are found at least in three forms—the literary and two or more purely colloquial forms—of such words I have already collected several hundred.

Remarkable changes of tones.

THE END.