

HISTORY

OF

SCOTLAND.

By PATRICK FRASER TYTLER, Esq.

VOLUME VII.

EDINBURGH:

WILLIAM TAIT, 107, PRINCES STREET.

MDCCCXL.

PREFACE.

---

THE volume of the History of Scotland now published embraces the eventful period between the marriage of Mary to Darnley, and the conclusion of the civil war, in 1572, a portion of our national annals which has been so deformed by controversy, that there is scarcely a single event in it of any importance, which has not been questioned, or distorted to suit the peculiar views of the antagonists or defenders of the Queen of Scots.

Under these circumstances, the Author, without adopting any preconceived notions, or espousing any favorite theory, has endeavoured to separate the truth from the tissue of fiction, passion, and prejudice with which it has been obscured, and to put the reader in possession of a clear and authentic narrative of the facts. To attain this, he has examined with much care and labour, the Scottish, Domestic, and Foreign, correspondence, in the State Paper Office; and the authorities upon which this volume is founded are derived almost exclusively from the original letters of Elizabeth and Mary, of Burghley, Randolph, Leicester, Knox, Murray, Morton, and other actors in those dark and troubled times, which are preserved in that great national depository. At the same time he has consulted the rich original stores of the British Museum, and has availed himself of some valuable letters, preserved at Florence amongst the private archives of the House of Medici, in possession of the Grand Duke of Tuscany. These, which form part of the interesting manuscript collections of Prince Labanoff relating to the life of Mary Queen of Scots, were most liberally and politely communicated to the Author by that nobleman.

An access to such materials has enabled the Author to add many new facts to this portion of Scottish history—as well as to throw new light upon the proper inferences derivable from what had been already established. In proof of this he may refer to the elucidation of the conspiracy for the murder of Riccio, and the clear implication of Elizabeth, Cecil, and the leaders of the protestants, in that deed, to the new details upon the death of Darnley, to the escape of Mary from Lochleven, one of those rare cases in which truth is found to assume the brilliant colours of romance, to the assassination of Murray and Lennox, to the plot of Elizabeth, Mar, and Morton, for having Mary put secretly to death in Scotland, and to other parts of the volume.

But whilst he ventures to point out this, and to express a hope that in this and in the succeeding volume, which will terminate his labours, there is a nearer approach to truth than has yet been made, the Author is desirous of expressing his high respect for the labours of the eminent men who have preceded him, whose works, considering the imperfect materials they possessed are worthy of the highest praise.

HAMPSTEAD,

July 23rd, 1840.

CONTENTS

OF

THE SEVENTH VOLUME.

---

CHAP. I.

MARY.

FROM 1565 TO 1567.

From the marriage of Mary with Darnley to her marriage with Bothwell.

Mary's activity after her marriage, . . . . .	PAGE 2
Mission of Tamworth, . . . . .	3
Mary's remonstrances to Elizabeth, . . . . .	5
Bothwell's return to Scotland, . . . . .	9
Fears of the Protestant party, . . . . .	10
Influence of Riccio, . . . . .	11
Murray driven from Scotland, . . . . .	13
Elizabeth's public severity to him, . . . . .	15
He is secretly encouraged, . . . . .	16
The Roman Catholic League, . . . . .	18
Mary joins it, . . . . .	20
Origin of the Conspiracy against Riccio, . . . . .	21, 22
The plot known to Randolph, . . . . .	23
Second stage of the Conspiracy, . . . . .	25
Co-operation of the Protestants, . . . . .	26, 27
The plot communicated to Burghley and Elizabeth, . . . . .	30, 31
The murder of Riccio, . . . . .	34, 35, 36
Mary's danger and terror, . . . . .	38
Murray's return, . . . . .	39
The Queen escapes to Dunbar, . . . . .	41
Mary's advance to Edinburgh, and flight of Morton to Eng- land, . . . . .	43
Mary discovers Darnley's guilt, . . . . .	45
Joseph Riccio promoted, . . . . .	46

Birth of James the Sixth . . . . .	PAGE 48
Mary reconciles her nobility, . . . . .	49
The King's unreasonable conduct, . . . . .	52
Rage of the nobles against the King, . . . . .	54, 55
Power of Bothwell, . . . . .	56
Mary's visit to Bothwell at Harmitage, . . . . .	58
Her dangerous illness, . . . . .	60
Her great unhappiness, . . . . .	61, 62
Secret conference at Craigmillar, . . . . .	63, 64
Conspiracy against the King, . . . . .	64
"Band" for the murder of Darnley, . . . . .	65
Baptism of the Prince, . . . . .	67
The King's illness, . . . . .	69
Lennox and Darnley's designs against the Queen, . . . . .	70, 71
Joseph Riccio and Joseph Lutyni, . . . . .	72, 74
Return of Morton, . . . . .	id.
Bothwell, Lethington, and Morton, resolve to murder the King, . . . . .	75
Mary meets the King, . . . . .	77
She brings him to the Kirk of Field, . . . . .	80
Murder of Darnley, . . . . .	83
Mary's delay in investigating the murder, . . . . .	86
Bothwell continues in favour, . . . . .	90
Letter from the Bishop of Glasgow, . . . . .	92, 93
Elizabeth sends Killigrew to Scotland, . . . . .	94
Trial of Bothwell resolved on, . . . . .	96
Elizabeth's message to delay it, . . . . .	97
Bothwell's acquittal, . . . . .	100
Band of the nobles for his marriage with the Queen, . . . . .	104, 105
Grange's letters against the Queen, . . . . .	106
Anonymous letter to Cecil, . . . . .	107
Bothwell carries the Queen to Dunbar, . . . . .	108
Bothwell's divorce, . . . . .	109
Robert Melvil's letter to Cecil, . . . . .	111
Confederacy against Bothwell, . . . . .	112
Communications with Elizabeth, . . . . .	115
Craig publishes the banns of marriage between Mary and Bothwell, . . . . .	117
Mary's marriage to Bothwell, . . . . .	119

CHAP. II.

FROM 1567 TO 1569.

From Mary's marriage with Bothwell to the election of the Regent Murray.

General Indignation at Mary's Marriage . . . . .	PAGE 120
Coalition of the Nobles against Bothwell . . . . .	122
Mary sends the Bishop of Dumblane to France . . . . .	124
Robert Melvil sent to Elizabeth . . . . .	124
Bothwell's Letter to the English Queen . . . . .	125
Attempt to surprise Bothwell and Mary at Borthwick Castle	128
Their escape to Dunbar . . . . .	id.
Advance to Carberry Hill . . . . .	130
Mary Surrenders to the Confederates . . . . .	133
Bothwell suffered to escape . . . . .	id.
Mary carried Captive to Edinburgh . . . . .	136
Imprisonment in Lochleven Castle . . . . .	137
Alleged intercepted Letters . . . . .	139
Apprehension of Cullen and Blacater . . . . .	141
Execution of Blacater . . . . .	142
Convention of the Queen's Lords at Dumbarton . . . . .	143
Knox's Return to Edinburgh . . . . .	144
His vigorous Exertions . . . . .	146
Mission and Transactions of Robert Melvil . . . . .	148, 152
Melvin sent to Lochleven . . . . .	153
Mission of Sir N. Throkmorton from Elizabeth . . . . .	155
Elizabeth's secret acknowledgment of her unjust conduct to Mary . . . . .	158
Mary's danger and Throkmorton's interference . . . . .	159
Mary's conduct . . . . .	160
Violent Enmity of the Presbyterian Clergy against Mary . . . . .	161
Robert Melvil sent again to Lochleven . . . . .	162
His refusal to convey a Letter from Mary to Bothwell . . . . .	163
Meeting of the General Assembly . . . . .	164
Mary compelled to resign the Crown, and Murray chosen Regent . . . . .	166
Coronation of the Prince her Son . . . . .	168

Elizabeth's severity to the Confederate Lords . . .	PAGE 170
Treacherous conduct of the faction of the Hamiltons	172, 173, 174
Expected return of Murray from France . . . . .	175
Situation and expected measures of Murray . . . . .	176, 178
His interview with Elizabeth . . . . .	179
His Arrival in Scotland . . . . .	181
Remarkable interview with Mary at Lochleven . . . . .	183, 185
He is proclaimed Regent . . . . .	187

CHAP. III.

FROM 1567 TO 1569.

Regency of the Earl of Murray.

Interview of Murray and Lethington with Throkmorton . . . . .	189
Throkmorton leaves Scotland . . . . .	191
Murray's vigorous administration . . . . .	192
His transactions with Sir James Balfour . . . . .	193
His difficulties as to the king's murder . . . . .	194
Submission of Huntly and Herries . . . . .	195
Bothwell escapes to Norway . . . . .	196
Parliament assembles—Lethington's speech . . . . .	197
Its proceedings . . . . .	198, 202
Murray's unfair dealing as to evidence of the king's murder . . . . .	204, 205
Trials of the murderers . . . . .	206
Discontent of the people . . . . .	208
Murray's difficulties . . . . .	209
Mary's escape from Lochleven . . . . .	211
Murray's vigor and decision . . . . .	214
Mary sends Beaton to France . . . . .	215
Defeat of the Queen at Langsyde . . . . .	217, 218
Mary's flight into England . . . . .	221
Her letters to Elizabeth . . . . .	222, 223
Murray accuses the queen of the king's murder, and offers to prove her guilt . . . . .	224
Elizabeth's difficult situation . . . . .	225, 227
Her message to Mary and to Murray . . . . .	228
Mary's spirited answer . . . . .	229
Cautious preliminary enquiries of Murray . . . . .	230

Elizabeth's crafty answers. . . . .	PAGE 232
Conspiracy against Murray . . . . .	233
Their disputes referred. Mary and the Regent to Elizabeth . . . . .	234, 235
Murray names his Commissioners . . . . .	237
The Queen of Scots names her Commissioners . . . . .	239
Opening of the proceedings at York . . . . .	240
Mary's complaint and Murray's reply . . . . .	241
Intrigues of Norfolk . . . . .	242, 245
Removal of the Conferences to Westminster . . . . .	246
Murray's secret offers to Mary . . . . .	247
Murray comes to London . . . . .	248
His embarrassments . . . . .	249
Conferences at Westminster . . . . .	250, 251
Murray accuses Mary of the king's murder . . . . .	253
Reply of Mary's commissioners . . . . .	254
Elizabeth's refusal to hear Mary in person . . . . .	255
Mary's commissioners break off the Conferences . . . . .	257
Murray produces his proofs . . . . .	Id.
Elizabeth's proceedings in consequence . . . . .	259, 260
Mary offers to prove the forgery of the letters . . . . .	261
Elizabeth pronounces her decision . . . . .	263
Murray's answer to Mary's accusations . . . . .	265
He returns to Scotland . . . . .	Id.
Cecil offers Mary copies of the letters . . . . .	Id.
General reflections . . . . .	267, 268, 269
Murray's intrigues with Cecil . . . . .	270
His difficulties . . . . .	271
He overreaches Norfolk . . . . .	272
His activity on his return to Scotland . . . . .	273
A convention of the nobility agreed upon . . . . .	274
Murray imprisons the Duke and Herries . . . . .	276
He leads an army into the North . . . . .	277
Submission of Huntly and Argyle . . . . .	Id.
Projected marriage of Mary and Norfolk . . . . .	278, 279
Norfolk's exertions and ambition . . . . .	280, 281
Letters from Elizabeth to Murray . . . . .	282
Throkmorton's letters on the marriage . . . . .	283

Murray's duplicity . . . . .	PAGE 284
Rejection of all proposals in Mary's favour . . . . .	285
Norfolk's secret intrigues discovered . . . . .	286
Norfolk sent to the Tower . . . . .	287
Murray betrays him . . . . .	288
Lethington accused of the King's murder . . . . .	290
He is rescued by Kirkaldy of Grange . . . . .	291
Rebellion of Northumberland . . . . .	292, 293
Rebel earls fly to Scotland . . . . .	294
Lethington's trial delayed . . . . .	297
Murray seizes the Earl of Northumberland . . . . .	298
Proposes to exchange Northumberland for Mary . . . . .	299, 300
Knox's letter on this subject . . . . .	300, 301
Mission of Elphinston to Elizabeth . . . . .	301, 303
The Bishop of Ross counteracts his schemes . . . . .	303
Assassination of the Regent Murray . . . . .	304, 306
Reflections . . . . .	308, 309

CHAP. IV.

FROM 1570 TO 1572.

Interregnum.—Regencies of Lennox and Mar.

State of Scotland on the death of Murray . . . . .	311, 312
Difficulties of Elizabeth . . . . .	313
Cecil's policy and advice . . . . .	314
Lennox's letter to Elizabeth . . . . .	315
Conference between Drury and Morton's party . . . . .	316
Randolph sent into Scotland . . . . .	317
Lethington pronounced guiltless of the King's murder . . . . .	318
Rebellion of Leonard Dacres . . . . .	319, 320
Miserable state of Scotland . . . . .	320, 321
Relative strength of the two factions . . . . .	321
Sir James Melvil's picture of the country . . . . .	323
Randolph's intrigues . . . . .	324
Verac arrives from France . . . . .	325
Elizabeth's cruel policy . . . . .	327
The Earl of Sussex invades Scotland . . . . .	328
Lennox co-operates with him . . . . .	329
Correspondence between Sussex and Lethington . . . . .	332, 336

Lennox made Lieutenant-governor of Scotland . . . . .	PAGE 337
Elizabeth's approval . . . . .	338
Lennox chosen Regent . . . . .	338, 339
Civil war . . . . .	340
Sussex again invades Scotland . . . . .	341
Abstinence . . . . .	342
Elizabeth and Cecil's duplicity . . . . .	343
Exasperation of the two factions . . . . .	345
Randolph's defence of Murray's memory . . . . .	346, 347
Knox's refusal to pray for the Queen . . . . .	348, 349
Capture of Dumbarton Castle . . . . .	350, 353
Execution of the Archbishop of St. Andrew's . . . . .	353
Cecil's severe letter to Grange . . . . .	355
Morton's return from England . . . . .	356
Continuation of the civil war . . . . .	357
Wretched state of the country . . . . .	358
Rival parliaments . . . . .	359, 360
Lennox and his party surprised in Stirling . . . . .	361
Subsequent failure of the enterprise . . . . .	362
Assassination of Lennox . . . . .	362
His death . . . . .	365
The Earl of Mar chosen Regent . . . . .	365
Successes of Adam Gordon in the north . . . . .	366, 367
Execution of Norfolk . . . . .	368
Correspondence between Drury and Grange . . . . .	368
Lethington's letter to Cecil . . . . .	369
Elizabeth's policy . . . . .	370
Ferocious character of the war . . . . .	371
Successes of Mary's friends . . . . .	372
They consent to a truce . . . . .	373
Massacre of St. Bartholomew . . . . .	374
Its effects on Elizabeth's policy . . . . .	375
She is openly recommended to put Mary to death . . . . .	376
Her public refusal . . . . .	376
Secret plot of Elizabeth to have Mary put to death in Scotland . . . . .	377
Mission of Henry Killigrew to Scotland . . . . .	378
His secret instructions . . . . .	379
His meeting with Morton . . . . .	380

Negotiations of Nicholas Elphinston . . . . .	PAGE 382
Burghley's letter . . . . .	383
Killigrew consults Knox . . . . .	384
His description of the Reformer . . . . .	384
Knox co-operates with Killigrew . . . . .	385
Killigrew's secret letter to Burghley and Leicester . . . . .	386
Mary not to be permitted to live three hours after she comes to Scotland . . . . .	387, 389
Continuation of Killigrew's negotiation . . . . .	390, 391
Mar consents . . . . .	391
Death of the Regent Mar . . . . .	392
Dismay and agitation of Burghley . . . . .	393
Burghley's letter to Leicester . . . . .	394
Northumberland's execution . . . . .	395

CHAP. V.

FROM 1572 TO 1574.

Regency of Morton.

Elizabeth's measures on the death of Mar . . . . .	397
Morton chosen Regent . . . . .	398
Killigrew's advices to Burghley . . . . .	399
Illness and death of Knox . . . . .	400, 405
Episcopacy established in Scotland . . . . .	407, 408
Submission of the Duke and Huntly . . . . .	409
Condition of Mary's party . . . . .	410, 411
Siege of the castle of Edinburgh . . . . .	413, 415
Grange offers to surrender . . . . .	416
His terms refused . . . . .	417
Grange and Lethington surrender to the Queen of England . . . . .	418
Last letter of Grange and Lethington to Burghley . . . . .	419, 420
Death of Lethington . . . . .	421
Efforts made to save Grange's life . . . . .	422
Execution of Grange . . . . .	423
Mary's cause desperate . . . . .	424

PROOFS AND ILLUSTRATIONS

FROM

UNPRINTED MANUSCRIPTS.

-
- I. Historical Remarks on Knox's implication in Riccio's Murder.
  - II. Plot of Lennox and Darnley against Mary's Crown and Life.
  - III. Joseph Riccio and Joseph Lutyni.
  - IV. Darnley's Murder.
  - V. Bothwell's Trial.
  - VI. Mary's Marriage with Bothwell:
  - VII. Mary's Escape from Lochleven.
  - VIII. Battle of Langsyde.
  - IX. An Order for Mary's Execution in 1569.
  - X. Elizabeth's Plot for the Secret Execution of Mary in Scotland.
  - XI. Death of Mar.
  - XII. Death of Grange,