PREFACE

TO THE FIRST EDITION.

F late years collecting War Medals has become a very popular hobby in this country, and seems likely to rival in popularity the formation of collections of coins. No doubt one reason for this is the very fine appearance presented by the medals when decked with their proper ribbons, and also the fact that almost every medal recalls some act of gallantry performed during the campaign for which it was issued. Hitherto the standard work on the subject has been Gibson's "British Military and Naval Medals," an excellent work, and one which contains much valuable information. It only, however, touches on medals down to 1877, since when many additions to our campaign medals have been made. Previous to this work, Carter's "Medals of the British Army" was the chief book on the subject, but it only treated on medals down to the China War, in 1860, and is more of a military history than a collector's vade-mecum. Since Mr. Gibson's book no comprehensive work has appeared on this subject of growing popularity, and the Author trusts that to those interested in the pursuit the present book will be of interest. Being written by one who has been for many years a collector of medals, the aim in view has been to embody, as far as possible, the information chiefly sought after by collectors—in fact, to make it essentially a book for collectors, by a collector. A special feature has been made of the lists of the combinations of bars of the various campaign medals, and it is hoped that what the book lacks from a literary point will be compensated for by its usefulness as a collector's manual.

The older medals become scarcer year by year, and so the difficulty of obtaining a perfect collection becomes greater. Another unfortunate fact is, that before interest in this subject was aroused many valuable and unique medals had found their way to the melting-pot, a loss which, from a numismatical point, it is impossible to over-estimate.

As instances of what collections can be made by perseverance and care, may be mentioned those of Colonel the Hon. H. F. Eaton, Colonel Murray, and Captain Whitaker, all of them containing some specimens which may be safely described as unique.

The Author wishes to express his indebtedness to Colonel the Hon. H. F. Eaton, Colonel Murray, Lieut.-Colonel Whalley, Captain Greg, Captain Tancred, Captain Whitaker, R. Day, Jun., Esq., and J. Harris Gibson, Esq., for many hints and much valuable information, without which this compilation would have been very much more difficult.

PREFACE

TO THE SECOND EDITION.

EARLY nine years have elapsed since I brought out the First Edition of this book, and the favour with which it met from collectors, coupled with the fact that since then many new medals have been issued, and others have been brought to light, has prompted me to issue a Second Edition, much enlarged and brought up to date.

That there is a growing interest in this most engrossing subject is proved by the rapidly-increasing number of collectors, and also by the fact that within the last two years a monthly, and also a quarterly, magazine have been brought out specially treating of medal-collecting.

I have endeavoured to make the descriptions as concise as possible, and for the sake of brevity have avoided all anecdotal matter.

My thanks are due to Colonel Gaskell, Colonel Murray, Major Drake, and many other friends for descriptions of rare medals in their collections, and for much valuable information; and I trust that my labours will prove useful to my brother-collectors.

PREFACE

TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

THE last edition of my book, with a supplement, was published in 1904, and has been out of print for nearly three years, and I feel that the time has now arrived when a new and revised edition may be useful to my brother-collectors.

I have, therefore, carefully revised the book, bringing it up to date; and have included all the medals issued since the last edition was printed.

I have, as before, received much valuable assistance from collectors and others interested in the subject, and particularly from the Master, and T. Matthews, Esq., of the Royal Mint; and Lieut.-Colonel D. N. Hailes, R.M.L.I., whose notes concerning the Navy General Service Medal have been invaluable to me.

I trust that my labours may be of assistance to the increasing number of persons interested in this engrossing hobby.

BRITISH WAR MEDALS AND DECORATIONS.

THE study of war medals given to the naval and military forces of this country is one of singular interest to anyone who admires the many noble deeds of our soldiers and sailors; and a complete collection forms a concise historical record of the growth and expansion of the British Empire.

The prevailing custom of bestowing "campaign" medals, as rewards for military services may be said to date from the early part of the last century, although many medals exist dating from the time of Queen Elizabeth and James I. It is, however, doubtful whether they were intended to be worn as decorations in the same way as modern medals are; and, in any case, there is no reason to believe that the issue was general. They were, most likely, only given in individual cases, and not indiscriminately to the rank and file. Judging by their size and shape one can hardly come to any other conclusion than that they were simply commemorative, and not intended to be worn as decorations. They were chiefly made of gold, and were, probably, intended for officers in command, or others of high rank. Although a navy existed in this country from a very early period, and long before a standing army was thought of, the custom of granting rewards by medals only dates two reigns prior to that in which they were given to the army. As a rule, the earlier medals were worn suspended from the neck by a chain, and Sir H. Nicholas, in his "History of Medals," mentions that they were frequently worn in the hat. This may possibly account for the fact that in very few old pictures before 1800 are medals shown worn as at present.

The medals issued for the Battle of Dunbar (1650) are the first of which there is a reliable record of their having been distributed to officers and men alike; but they cannot be considered as "campaign" medals in the modern acceptation of the term. Thence we hear of none until the Waterloo Medal was issued, in 1817, with the exception of the Deccan and Mysore Medals issued (in 1784 and 1791-2 respectively) by the Honourable East India Company to their own troops and natives only.

In former times medals were issued with a very sparing hand; in great contrast to the lavish distributions of the present day. The medals for the Peninsular War were only authorised in 1848; thus, only the surviving veterans received them, and many men passed through all the dangers of an arduous campaign, and died, without receiving even a medal for their services.

It is recorded that when Napoleon I. surrendered on board H.M.S. "Bellerophon," he was received by a captain's detachment of Royal Marines. After acknowledging the salute, he minutely inspected the men, and having remarked that they were very fine, and well appointed, the ex-Emperor added: "Are there none amongst them who have seen service?" Upon being told that nearly all of them had seen much service, he exclaimed: "What! and no marks of merit?" The officer in command explained that it was not customary to confer medals, except upon officers of the highest rank; to which the ex-Emperor replied: "Such is not the way to excite or cherish the military virtues."

Long before medals were issued by the Government, the officers of many regiments conferred medals, at their own expense, on their men for long service, merit, bravery, good conduct, &c. These will be treated under the head of "Regimental Medals." All the medals which are known to the Author, either in public or private collections, are described. They are taken chronologically, and the various campaigns are traced from the earliest down to the present time.

The first medal which comes within the range of this work is a naval award given in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and known as the "Ark-in-Flood Medal." Ark-in-Flood Medal.

It is uncertain for what particular service this medal was granted. Some authorities say that it was Elizabeth. for services against the Spanish Armada; whilst others aver that it was given generally to distinguished naval commanders, and was merely an honorary badge. As, however, it has a ring for suspension, it was evidently intended to be worn by the recipient.

The medal was struck in gold and also in silver, and was a large oval piece, 2in. by 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. Upon the obverse is a portrait of the Queen, with the legend, Elizabeth D. G. Anglie F. et Hib. Reg., around the head. Reverse: An ark upon the flood, surrounded by the legend, Per undas sevas tranquilla.

Two other medals were given by Queen Elizabeth, which are mentioned by Mr. Grueber as having been issued to commemorate the defeat of the Spanish Armada. The obverse has a bust of the Queen, in very high relief; facing, and crowned, holding the orb and sceptre. It is surrounded by the legend, Ditior in toto non alter circulus orbe. Reverse: A bay tree on an island with houses, uninjured by lightning, inscribed, Non ipsa pericula tangunt, with an ornamental border. It is a large silver oval medal, cast and chased, 2.3in. by 2.1in. The other has a three-quarter bust of the Queen on the obverse, but without sceptre or orb, and on the reverse the letters E.R. are on the field; and no buildings are shown on the island. This medal is smaller than the other, 2in. by 1.6in., and both have loops for suspension.

A medal very similar to that first mentioned was struck by King James I., and was most probably given for similar services. It is oval, 1.9in. by 1.6in., and struck in gold, silver, and bronze. Obverse: Head of the King; legend: Jacobus D. G. Mag. Brita Fr. et Hi. Rex. Reverse: The ark; legend: Stet salvus in Vndis. All of these medals are very rare, and are extremely fine specimens of the earlier medallic art.

Owing to the internal troubles of the country during the following reign of Charles I., the navy, so far as numismatical lore is concerned, seems to have sunk out of sight: at least, no trace of naval awards of that period can be found. The army, however, was very actively employed, both during this reign and the period of the Commonwealth, and several interesting medals belong to this period.

For distinguished service at the Battle of Edgehill (Sunday, October 23rd, 1642), a gold medal was awarded to Sir Robert Welch, Knt. He was an Irish officer of the Royalist cavalry commanded by Prince Rupert. Towards the close of the battle he recovered the Royal Standard, which had been captured by the Parliamentary forces. On the following morning, Mr. Welch was presented to the King by the Prince, who thereupon knighted him, as a mark of appreciation of his gallant conduct. Subsequently, a royal warrant was issued, as follows :

Welch
Medal,
1642.

Charles Rex.

Our will and pleasure is that you make a medal in gold for our trusty and well-beloved Sir Robert Welch, Knight, with our own figure and that of our dearest sonne Prince Charles; and on the reverse thereof to insculp ye form of our Royal Banner used at the battail of Edge Hill, where he did us acceptable service, and received the dignity of knighthood from us; and to inscribe about it: Per Regale mandatum Caroli Regis Hoc assignatur Roberto Welch, Militi; and for so doing this shall be your sufficient warrant.

Given at our court at Oxford this first day of June, 1643.

To our trusty and well-beloved Thomas Rawlins, our graver of seals and medals.

The medal was oval, like most of the earlier ones, 1.7in. by 1.5in., and on the obverse were the busts of the King and Prince Charles, with the inscription: Carolus Rex Magnae Britanniae, Franciae et Hiberniae, Carolus Princeps. On the reverse was the Royal Standard, with the legend as set forth in the royal warrant.

King Charles I. authorised a badge for such soldiers as might distinguish themselves in "forlorn hopes." It was an oval, silver medal, 1.5in. by 1.2in., having on the obverse the bust of King Charles, surrounded by Carolus D. G. Mag. Bri. Fr. et Hib. Rex. Reverse: The royal arms, surmounted by a crown, and encircled by a garter, on which is the motto: Honi soit qui mal y pense.

Another silver medal was issued, having on the obverse the bust of King Charles I., and on the reverse the bust of Prince Charles. It was given to soldiers for military service, and was oval, 1.7in. by 1.3in. The royal warrant is dated May 18th, 1643, and was issued at Oxford. It states that the Badge is to be "worn on the breast of every man who shall be certified under the hands of their Commanders-in-Chief to have done us faithful service in the Forlorn Hope." It was also ordered that the badges bear the "Royal Image, and that of our dearest son, Prince Charles."

Cromwell.

The next medal is the first of which any authentic record exists that it was issued to officers and men alike. A few days after the news of the victory at Dunbar (September 3rd, 1650) reached London, the House of Commons voted that medals should be presented to all the troops of the Parliamentary forces who were engaged. The work was placed in the hands of Simon, the celebrated engraver.

Dunbar
Medal,
1650.

On the obverse is the bust of Cromwell, in armour, and in the background a charge of his invincible Ironsides is represented. Cromwell's characteristic modesty forbade his effigy appearing on the medal; but this was overruled. Above the head appears: The word at Dunbar, the Lord of Hosts, September ye 3rd, 1650. On the reverse is a representation of the House of Commons assembled. That House "ordered that it be referred to the Committee of the Army to consider what medals may be prepared for officers and soldiers that were in this service in Scotland, and set the proportions and the values of them, and their number, and present the estimate of them to the House." It was voted that the officers and men "which did this excellent service" should be presented with gold and silver medals. Simon, the engraver, whose name appears under the bust of Cromwell on the obverse of the medal, was sent to consult with him as to the device for this medal, and the following letter (the original was in the possession of James Lamb, Esq., of Fairford, Gloucestershire, and subsequently of John Raymond Barker, Esq., of the same place) was sent by Cromwell to the Parliament:

For ye Honble. the Committee for the Army, these.

GENTL.,—It was not a little wonder to me to see that you should send Mr. Symonds so great a journey about a business importinge so little as far as it relates to me, when, as if my poore opinion may not be rejected by you, I have to offer to that wch I thinke the most noble end, to witt, the commemoracon of that great mercie at Dunbar, and the gratuitie to the Army, wch might better be expressed upon the meddal by engraving as on one side the Parliament, wch I heare was intended, and will do singularly well; so on the other side, an army with this inscription over the head of it, The Lord of Hosts, wch was or word that day. Wherefore if I may begg it as a favor from you, I most earnestly besech you, if I may do it with out offence, that it may be soe; and if you think not fitt to have it as I offer, you may alter it as you see cause, only I doe thinke I may truely say it will be verie thankfully acknowledged by me if you will spare having my effigies in it.

The gentleman's paynes and trouble hither have been verie great, and I shall make it my seconde suite unto you that you will please to conferr upon him that employmt in yr service wch Nicholas Briott had before him; indeed, the man is ingenious and worthie of encouragement. I may not presume much, but if at my request and for my sake he may obteyne this favor, I shall put it upon the accompt of my obligacons, wch are not a few, and I hope shall be found readie gratefully to acknowledge and to approve myself, Gentl., Yor most reall servant,

O. CROMWELL.

Edinburgh, 4th of Feb., 1650-1.

The officers received small medals, in gold (1in. by .85in.); the men larger ones, in silver (1.35in. by 1.15in.). They were worn by chains suspended from the neck.

A smaller medal was also struck, having a plain reverse, and bronze specimens of both medals are met with.

Many medals were awarded during the Civil War to the commanders of the Royalist, and Parliamentary forces; but they appear to have been worn more as party badges of the different commanders than as rewards for military services.

Mr. Grueber in his Catalogue of the English Medals in the British Museum, mentions the following badges as having been given for military services about this period:

I.—1642. Obverse: Half-length figure of the Earl of Essex, in armour; above S.X. Legend: Should hear both Houses of Parliament for true religion and subjects fredom stand. Inner legend: Pro Religione Lege Rege et Parlamento.

Reverse: The two Houses of Parliament with King and Speaker.

A small silver-gilt oval medal, cast and chased, with wreath-border and loop for suspension. (1.75in. by 1.45in.)

II.—1643. Obverse: Three-quarter bust, to the right, of Lord Fairfax, in armour.

Reverse: The arms of Fairfax between palm and laurel-branches.

An oval silver medal (1.7in. by 1.5in.), cast and chased, with wreath-border and ring for suspension.

III.—1643. Obverse: Bust of Lord Fairfax, in armour and scarf.

Reverse: As above.

Oval (1.5in. by 1.05in.), silver, cast and chased, with ring for suspension.

An oval silver badge, cast and chased, with loop for suspension. (1.25in. by 1in.)

The navy again comes to the fore during the Protectorate; indeed, this may be looked upon as one of the finest periods of our naval supremacy. On July 31st, 1650, one small English ship was surrounded and attacked by six Dutch frigates. The fight was maintained until the following afternoon, when the English commander succeeded in beating off his opponents, and proceeded to Yarmouth. Parliament at once voted a gold medal to be struck, and presented to the commander, Captain Wyard. It is oval in form (1.6in. by 1.35in.), and on the obverse are an anchor and cable, with two shields suspended from the stock, one of which bears St. George's cross, and the other the Irish harp. Above is the legend, Meruisti. Upon the reverse is a representation of the fight, with the following inscription: Service done against six ships, July ye xxxi. and August ye i., 1650. It was also given in silver to the other officers.

Meruisti,
"large."

Another naval award was issued in gold and silver, with obverse similar to the preceding; but on the reverse, Parliament assembled in one house, with the Speaker. There is no record for what service it was awarded. It was smaller than the other, being .95in. long by .85in. wide. Meruisti,
"small."

The memorable action between Admiral Blake and the Dutch admiral, Van Tromp, on July 31st, 1653, was the decisive victory of the war. The Dutch fleet lost twenty-six ships, and 6000 men killed, wounded, and prisoners; while the English loss was only three ships, and 1300 men killed and wounded. The enemy eventually found safety in the Texel. Blake
Medal,
1653.

On August 8th, Parliament passed a resolution that—

Two gold chains to the value of £300 apiece be made, and given to Generals Blake and Monk; and that a chain to the value of £100 be given to Vice-Admiral Penn, and one of the same value to Rear-Admiral Lawson.

The four flag officers to have chains of £40 apiece; and that £2000 be expended in medals amongst the officers of the Fleet.

The medals have on the obverse a representation of the battle, surrounded by a wide border of naval trophies. On the reverse is an anchor and cable, with three shields suspended from the stock, and charged with the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew, and the Irish harp. It is surrounded by a border similar to the other side, formed of the bow and stem of the enemy's flag-ship, with the Dutch flag, masts, guns, &c., and the shields of arms of the States. They were made of gold, and were oval, 2.2in. by 2in.

Some of the junior officers received a smaller gold medal (1.6in. by 1.4in.), the obverse consisting of the central part of the larger medal, but without the ornamental border, though some of them had a border of laurel-leaves.

Triumph
1653

During the engagement the "Triumph," the flagship of Admiral Blake, was set on fire by the Dutch fire-ships. The crew were panic-stricken, and most of them jumped into the sea. A few, however, remained on the ship, and solely by their endeavours it was saved. Parliament was so pleased with their services, that it ordered medals to be distributed to the commander and the crew who remained on board.

The reverse of these medals was similar to the large medal just described; but the obverse bore a representation of the battle, with the legend above: For eminent service in saving y Triumph fired in fight w. y. Dutch fleet in July, 1653. The medals were made of silver, and were oval; 1.6in. long by 1.4in. wide.

Charles II.

During the reign of Charles II. the Navy still continued to be actively employed against the Dutch; and a number of medals were struck to commemorate victories, but there is no record of many of them having been worn as decorations. Two, however, are known to have been struck, one in gold, silver, and copper, and the other in silver only, as rewards for distinguished naval officers for their conduct in battle. The first is a small oval medal (1.6in. by 1.5in.), with a bust of the King, in armour, on the obverse, surrounded by the legend: Carolus II. D. G. M. Br. Fr. et H. Rex. On the reverse is represented a man-of-war, with flag flying, charged with the monogram, C. R. Above is the inscription: Nos penes Imperium.

The second medal is of larger size (2in. diameter), and has a laureated head of the King on the obverse, surrounded by the usual legend: Carolus secundus, D. G. Mag. Bri. Fran. et Hib. Rex. On the reverse, the King appears standing on the sea-shore, attired as a Roman general, holding a bâton in his hand, in an attitude of command. In the background is shown the British fleet after an engagement, with a wreck in the foreground. In the exergue is the inscription: Pro Talibus Ausis. This is generally looked upon as one of the finest medals of that period, so far as execution goes.

During the reign of James II. we cannot trace any naval or military medals being granted, with the exception of the following, which is described in the British Museum Catalogue as a naval award: James II.

Obverse: Bust of King James II. to the right, wearing a mantle. Legend: Jacobus II. Dei. Gra. Ang. Scot. Fra. et Hib. Rex. Reverse: A trophy of arms, above a globe; in the background a naval engagement. Legend: Genus Antiquum. A large silver medal, $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter.

In 1692, during the reign of William III. and Mary, an Act of Parliament was passed granting the distribution of "Medals and other rewards for officers, marines, and seamen in their Majesties' service at sea, who shall be found to have done any signal or extraordinary service." This seems to be the first instance, in the records of the Navy, of medals intended for presentation to officers and men alike. William and Mary.

The La Hogue Medal was the first instance of carrying the law into effect. It is stated in Lediard's "Naval History," that on Queen Mary receiving the news of the victory (May 19th, 1692), she sent £30,000 to Portsmouth, to be distributed amongst the seamen and soldiers, and ordered medals to be struck as tokens of honour for the officers. La Hogue Medal, 1692.

The gold medal which was presented to Admiral

Russel and his companions has on the obverse the busts of King William and Queen Mary, and the inscription: Gul. et Mar. D. G. M. B. F. et H. Rex. et Regina; and in the exergue of the reverse, Pugn. Nav. int. Ang. et Fr. 21. May, 1692, under a representation of the battle, above which are the words, Nox nulla. secuta est. The medal was 1.95in. diameter, and was also given in silver to officers of lower rank.

Gold medals were given in Queen Anne's reign for naval services. A letter dated Admiralty Office, March 13th, 1703, requests that a Bill might be signed on the Treasurer of the Navy for paying £240 to Isaac Newton, Esq., Master of the Mint, for enabling him to provide two medals and two chains; one for Henry Gilbert, the master, and the other for Elisha Dann, the boatswain of the "Torbay," in like manner as he had been directed to do for Benjamin Bryer, the gunner of the said ship, as a reward to them for their good service in extinguishing the fire on board the "Torbay," at Vigo (October 11, 1702), when her Captain was blown overboard; the said bill to be paid out of money received by the Treasurer of the Navy for the tenths of Prizes, appointed by the late Act of Parliament for medals and other rewards for officers, marines, and seamen in Her Majesty's service.

The Queen ordered gold medals to be struck and delivered to Rear-Admiral Dilkes and his officers for capturing several French vessels off Granville, in Normandy, in July, 1703. This medal, which was, amongst others, presented to Captain James Lampriere, has upon the obverse a bust of the Queen crowned, and the legend: "Anna Dei gratia Mag. Britan: Fra: et Hib: Regina." On the reverse, the arms of Lampriere and motto: True to my trust; and the inscription: Her Majesty's reward to Captain James Lampriere, for his zeal to her service, and his successful conducting ye Squadron commanded by Anne.

Rear-Admiral Dilkes, who destroyed a considerable number of ye Enemy's Merchant Ships, under convoy of 3 Men of War, on their own coast. (2.75in. diameter.) The arms on the reverse were in each case those of the recipient of the medal.

In 1902, there was sold in London an interesting medal of this period. On the obverse was the bust of Queen Anne, in high relief; and on the reverse the following inscription:—“Her Majties reward to Robt. Taylor, Boy of ye 'Mary' Galley for his Zeal and Courage at ye takeing of ye French Privateer 'Jacques La Blonde' of Dunkirk.” It was a circular silver medal, with a chased border.

No trace can be found of any medals having been given for the victories of Blenheim, Ramillies, Oudenarde, or Malplaquet—not even to the Duke of Marlborough.

George I.'s reign is also unmarked by any similar records; but a large silver medal of this period was recently sold, having on the obverse the bust of the King; and on the reverse the inscription:—“Admiral Sir George Byng gave this medall to Sean. Willm Wright for his courage in saving the lives of two seamen from drowning during the action with the Spaniards off the Cape of Passaro ye 31st day of July, 1718.” George I.

In George II.'s reign a medal was given for the Battle of Culloden, which was fought on April 16th, 1746. The adherents of the Young Pretender were utterly routed in this engagement. It was struck in gold, silver, and bronze, oval (1.75in. by 1.45in.), with an ornamental border, having on the obverse a bust of the Duke of Cumberland to the right, with the word Cumberland above. On the George II.

reverse is a figure of Apollo, with a dragon transfixed by an arrow, at his feet. Above, the legend: Actum est ilicet perit; and in the exergue: Præl. Colod. Ap. xvi. MDCCXLVI. A loop is attached to the medal, through which a crimson ribbon with green border was worn.

There is a fine specimen of this medal, in gold, in Lord Cheylesmore's splendid collection. It was given to Brigadier-General Fleming, who commanded the 36th Regiment at the battle. Very few specimens are known, and they were probably only given in gold to officers commanding regiments.

There is, in the British Museum, a bronze medal for Culloden, which, as it has a pierced, ornamental loop for suspension, was evidently intended to be worn. On the obverse is the Duke of Cumberland, on horseback, a battle in the background. Above is the legend: Gul. Aug. Dux. Cum. Terror. Reb.; and in the exergue, 1746. The reverse is quite plain, and the medal is circular in shape.

In June, 1742, Captain Callis, in the fire-ship "Duke," entered the French port of St. Tropez, and burnt five Spanish galleys that were anchored there. For this action Captain Callis was promoted, and a gold medal and chain were presented to him by the King. On the obverse, George II. is represented as a Roman general, with a medal and chain in his right hand, and a bâton in his left; kneeling before him is Captain Callis, with the words Pro talibus Ausis below. On the reverse is a representation of his exploit, and in the exergue the legend: Ob. v. Trirem. Hispan. a. s. Callis. combust. v. Julii MDCCXLII. It was 2.1in. diameter, and was also given in silver to the officers commanding the other ships engaged.

An Order of Council, dated December 16th, 1742, awarded to Lieutenant Green of the same vessel the sum of £50, and a reward was established for lieutenants for similar actions in future.

For the taking of Louisbourg, in Canada, July 27th, 1758, a medal 1.7in. diameter was struck in gold and silver, and presented to a few of the officers who distinguished themselves. On the obverse is a globe inscribed, Canada, and below, America, resting on a figure of France, who drops a fleur-de-lys. On either side of the globe, as supporters, are a grenadier and a sailor; above, a flying figure of Victory, and behind, the Union Jack; a scroll inscribed, Pariter in bella. Reverse: The bombardment of Louisbourg; above, Louisbourg taken MDCCLVIII.

One of the rarest of the medals given by the Honourable East India Company is that recommended by Lord Clive to be distributed amongst the native officers of two native battalions, who succeeded in quelling a mutiny amongst the European troops at Monghyr in June, 1766. It is a small silver medal, 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. in diameter, struck in a concave die. On the obverse is a figure of Minerva, seated and holding a spear, and leaning upon a shield on which is the head of Medusa; at her feet an owl, in the background three palm-trees. Reverse: Non nisi digno. MDCCLXVI., surrounded by a laurel-wreath. A ring for suspension is added to the medal.

On May 1st, 1798, the Emperor Francis II. of Germany presented a gold medal and chain to eight officers of the 15th Light Dragoons, for distinguished conduct at the Battle of Villiers-en-Crouché, near Cambray, on April 24th, 1794. By the gallant conduct of the 15th the Emperor was saved being taken prisoner by the French. There were only two squadrons engaged, and they, in conjunction with a small body of German cavalry, drove back a body of about 10,000 French soldiers, inflicting a loss of 1200 killed and wounded, and capturing three guns.

The following letter from the Adjutant-General of the Forces to Lord Dorchester, Colonel of the 15th Light Dragoons, dated May 1st, 1798, gives the King's permission to the officers to wear the distinction conferred upon them :

My Lord,—The Emperor of Germany having been pleased to present each of the officers of the 15th Rgt., under your Lordship's command, who distinguished themselves in so gallant a manner by their spirited attack upon the enemy, with a very inferior force, on the 24th April, 1794, near Cambray, a Gold Medal has been struck by his Imperial Majesty's orders, on the occasion, as a particular mark of the sense he entertained of the signal service thereby rendered to the Allied army; I have, therefore, the honour, by order of his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief, to signify to your Lordship his Majesty's pleasure that the above-mentioned officers shall be permitted to wear the said medals constantly with their uniforms, as an honorary badge of their bravery in the field of action, and an inducement to all others to imitate, on every favourable occasion, their glorious example.

I have, etc.,

WM. FAWCETT, Adjutant-General.

The officers of the regiment who received the medal were: Major William Aylett; Captains Edward Pocklington and Edward Ryan; Lieutenants Thos. Calcraft, William Keir, and Thos. Blount; Cornets Edward Butler and Robert Wilson. The text of the letter which accompanied the medals was as follows :

Vienna, March 5, 1798.

Sir,—The Emperor remembers with satisfaction the distinguished proofs of valour that you, Sir, and seven other officers of the 15th Light Dragoons, manifested on the 24th April, 1794.

near Cambray. His Majesty regrets that the statutes of the Order of Maria Theresa, confirmed by constant custom, do not allow the Cross of the Order, strictly national, to be conferred on officers so worthy of being decorated with it; but wishing, at the same time, to give you and your honourable companions-in-arms a public mark of his particular esteem, his Majesty has ordered a medal to be struck to perpetuate the remembrance of this brilliant action, and has commanded me to offer you, in his name, the only impressions which have been struck, except that which is placed in the Imperial cabinet at Vienna.

In fulfilling the intention of his Imperial Majesty, I beg you to accept for yourself, Sir, and to distribute to the other officers who, in the important affair of the 24th April, 1794, fought under your command, these medals, which for that purpose I have delivered to Captain Ryan. I have the honour to add the assurances of the consideration with which I have the honour to be, Sir, &c.

LE BARON THUGUT.

To Lieut.-Col. Aylett.

This display of heroism made a lasting impression on the mind of the Emperor, for, later on, the following letter was received by Lieutenant-Colonel Aylett from Lord Minto, British Envoy at Vienna :

Vienna, November 7th, 1800.

Sir,—I have received from his Excellency, Baron Thugut, eight crosses of the Order of Maria Theresa, which the Emperor has been pleased to confer on yourself and seven other officers of the 15th Light Dragoons, who distinguished themselves in a most gallant action near Villiers-en-Crouchè, on the 24th April, 1794. His Imperial Majesty had already testified the high sense he entertained of the brilliant and important service which the Regiment performed on that occasion, by presenting the officers engaged with a medal struck for the purpose of commemorating that brilliant action, and affording to those who achieved it a lasting testimony of his approbation and gratitude. It was deemed worthy at the time of the Cross of Maria Theresa, but at that period a doubt existed whether this Order could be conferred on foreigners; that this difficulty being now removed, His Imperial Majesty avails himself with pleasure of the occasion to evince his high esteem for the Regiment, as well as his regard for the individuals, by investing with this order of merit gentlemen who have proved themselves so worthy to wear it.

In transmitting to you these crosses, to be distributed to the officers for whom they are destined, I cannot omit the opportunity of expressing the satisfaction I have experienced from the share which my situation here has afforded me in a transaction which, while it does honour to the liberality of His Imperial Majesty, and throws so much lustre on the corps and on those who are immediately concerned, reflects, at the same time, credit on the country to which they belong.

I have, etc.,

MINTO.

The King (George III.) gave the eight officers permission to accept the rank of Knight of the Imperial Order of Maria Theresa, and to wear the insignia of the Order; and the Regiment was authorised to bear the words Villiers-en-Crouché on its guidons.

The medal weighs 4.350 oz., and is 2 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. in diameter, with a gold chain of the same weight for suspending it from the neck. On the obverse is a laureated head of the Emperor Francis II. of Germany, to the right. Above is the legend: Imp. Caes. Franciscus. II. P. F. AVG.; and on the reverse: Forti. Britanno. in. exercitu. Foed. ad. Cameracum xxiv. Apr. MDCCXCIV., two laurel-branches in the exergue.

The Order of Maria Theresa is a Maltese cross of gold and white enamel. In the centre of the obverse are the Austrian colours—red and white—and the word Fortitudini. Reverse: A green, enamelled circle, and monogram, M. T. F. (Maria-Theresa-Francis). The Order is worn with a crimson ribbon with white centre.

The medal, chain, and Order of Cornet Butler are now in Lord Cheylesmore's collection of medals, and were bought at the Greg sale in 1887.

During the reign of George III. the nation was almost incessantly at war, the intervals of peace being very few. The naval forces were, consequently, brought to a state of efficiency never before attained. Notwithstanding, it is a strange fact that during the first thirty years of this reign no medals were granted for naval services.

In 1795 it was decided to institute a Naval Medal, and bestow it upon the admirals and captains of Lord Howe's fleet, as well as upon those who might distinguish themselves in the future.

Naval
Medal,

The first medal struck was for Lord Howe's decisive victory over the French off Ushant on June 1st, 1794, generally known as "The glorious first of June." The French, under Vice-Admiral Joyeuse, were totally defeated, with a loss of seven ships. The King was anxious to visit the fleet on the earliest opportunity, but, as the medals were not ready for distribution, he presented massive gold chains to six officers for whom they were intended, and, when ready, the medals were subsequently added. The flag-officers did not receive chains, but wore their medals with a white ribbon with dark blue edges, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, suspended from the neck. Chains were only issued with the first medal.

The medals have on the obverse a figure of Victory standing upon the prow of an ancient galley, placing a wreath of laurel on the head of Britannia, who wears a helmet and stands on the galley; at her side a round shield, charged with the crosses of the Union banner, her right foot resting upon a helmet and her left hand holding a spear. On the reverse is a wreath of oak and laurel, surrounding the name and rank of the recipient, the event for which the medal was given, and the date, which are all engraved. They were $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter, and were fitted in a gold frame, and glazed on both sides, a ring being provided for suspension.

Admiral Lord Howe's medal was inscribed: Richard Earl Howe, admiral and commander-in-chief on the 1 of June, 1794. The French fleet defeated.

The medal given to the captains was $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter, but of exactly the same design, with the exception of the wreath on the reverse, which is omitted, and similarly framed and glazed. Instead of being worn from the neck, the medal was worn by a white and blue ribbon $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide between the third and fourth buttonholes of the uniform coats, suspended from a gold loop and ring. A gold buckle was worn on the ribbon.

Naval
Medal,
small.

The medals were all gold, and were sent to the respective officers on November 9th, 1796, accompanied by the following letter :

Sir,—The King having been pleased to order a certain number of gold medals to be struck in commemoration of the victory obtained by His Majesty's Fleet, under the command of Earl Howe, over that of the enemy, in the actions of the 29th May and 1st of June, 1794, I am commanded by His Majesty to present to you one of the medals above mentioned, and signify His Majesty's pleasure that you should wear it when in your uniform; in the manner described by the direction, which (together with the medal and ribband belonging to it) I have the honour to transmit to you. I am also commanded by His Majesty to acquaint you that had it been possible for all the officers, on whom His Majesty is pleased to confer this mark of approval, to attend personally in London, His Majesty would have been pleased to have presented the medal to each of them in person; but that being, from various causes, at this time impossible, His Majesty, in order to obviate all further delay, has therefore been pleased to direct them to be forwarded in this manner.

Allow me to express the great satisfaction I feel in being made the channel of communicating to you so distinguished a mark of His Majesty's approbation.

I have the honour to be, etc.,

SPENCER.

The following is a list of the actions for which this medal was subsequently given :

Battle of Ushant, June 1st, 1794; six large, fifteen small medals.

Battle of St. Vincent, February 14th, 1797; six large, fifteen small medals.

Battle of Camperdown, October 11th, 1797; two large, fourteen small medals.

Battle of the Nile, August 1st, 1798; one large, thirteen small medals.

To Captain Hamilton, of the "Surprise," for the recapture of the "Hermione" frigate, October 25th, 1799; one small medal.

Battle of Trafalgar, October 21st, 1805; two large, twenty-five small medals.

Action off Ferrol, November 4th, 1805; four small medals.

Battle of St. Domingo, February 6th, 1806; three large, seven small medals.

To Sir Michael Seymour, of the "Amethyst," for the capture of the "Thetis," November 10th, 1808; one small medal.

To Captain Steward, of the "Seahorse," for the capture of Badere Zaffere, July 6th, 1808; one small medal.

To Captain Mounsey, of the "Bonne Citoyenne," for the capture of the "Furieuse," July 6th, 1809; one small medal.

Action off Lissa, March 13th, 1811; four small medals.

To Captain Cole, of the "Caroline," for the capture of the Island of Banda Neira, August 9th, 1810; one small medal.

To Captain Talbot, of the "Victorious," for the capture of "Le Rivoli," February 22nd, 1812; one small medal.

To Captain Broke, of the "Shannon," for the capture of the "Chesapeake," June 1st, 1815; one small medal.

To Captain Palmer, of the "Hebrus," for the capture of the "L'Etoile," March 27th, 1814; one small medal.

To Captain Hope, of the "Endymion," for the capture of the "President," January 15th, 1815; one small medal.

In all there were six large medals and chains given, fifteen large medals without chains, and 117 small medals. They were never given to an officer below the rank of post-captain, with two exceptions, namely, Lieut. Pinfold, "Ajax," and Lieut. Stockham, "Thunderer," who received the medals for Trafalgar, where they were acting captains, in the absence of their superior officers.

In Captain Whitaker's collection there are two of these medals:

1. For Ushant: Sir Andrew Snape Douglas, Captain of H.M.S. "The Queen Charlotte," on the 1st June, MDCCXCIV. The French Fleet defeated.

2. For Trafalgar: Chas. Bullen, Esquire, Captain of H.M.S. "Britannia," on the 21st October, MDCCCIV. The combined Fleets of France and Spain defeated.

Lord Nelson is the only instance of an officer receiving two of these medals. He was awarded a large one for St. Vincent, and another for the Nile.

On the conclusion of the war with France in 1815 it was decided to discontinue the issue of these gold medals, and in future to substitute the Order of the Bath.

The officers who took part in the action of June 1st, 1794, were presented with a special gold badge. It was oval in form, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $\frac{1}{8}$ in., and on the perforated centre was an anchor and twisted cable ("foul anchor"). Engraved on the obverse: Earl Howe, First of June; and on the reverse the name of the recipient. Captain Whitaker has the one presented to Rear-Admiral Bowyer in his collection. He lost a leg in this action, and for his services was created a Baronet and granted a pension of £1000 per annum.

It is not certain by whom these decorations were given. They were issued to the commander-in-chief, admirals, and captains of ships. They are of various designs, some being circular, and have different inscriptions. That of Earl Howe, which was shown with his other decorations at the Naval Exhibition in 1891, was engraved on the outside border, Rule Britannia.

They all, however, carry the "foul anchor" in the centre. They were probably worn on the anniversary of the battle, and on festive occasions held to commemorate the victory. In the Author's collection there was a gold anchor, enamelled blue and white on the obverse, with gold cable. The reverse was plain gold, and the crossbeam was engraved, Earl Howe, 1st June, 1794.

For the Defence of Gibraltar, from 1779-1782, a medal was struck in silver, and was presented by the English General Elliott to the Hanoverian Brigade, which took part in the defence. It was $1\frac{7}{8}$ in. in diameter, and upon the obverse is a view of Gibraltar, with the enemy's fleet in the foreground bombarding the fortress. Above is the legend: Per tot discrimina rerum; and below is the date, xiii. September, MDCCLXXXII. On the reverse are the officers' names, surrounded by a laurel-wreath—Reden, Lamotte, Sydow, Elliott. Above, Bruderschaft.

Gibraltar,
1779-82.

This medal was not given to the English troops.

Another medal was also struck, and although it is usually looked upon as being merely a commemorative medal, it was without doubt given by General Picton to officers present during the siege. It is a large silver medal, $2\frac{1}{4}$ in. diameter, and has on the obverse a bird's-eye view of Gibraltar and the adjacent coast. Above, on a scroll, Battering ships destroyed; below, on a raised field, September xiii. MDCCLXXXII. Reverse: By a zealous exertion of patience, perseverance, and intrepidity after contending with an unparalleled succession of dangers and difficulties in the defence of Gibraltar during a blockade and siege of almost four years, the garrison, under the auspices of George III., triumphed over the combined powers of France and Spain. Below, the British lion supporting a shield charged with the Arms of Gibraltar; in the exergue, Blockade commenced June xxi. MDCCLXXIX: Siege terminated February ii. MDCCLXXXIII., the whole surrounded by a wreath of olive-branches. Many examples are met with, framed and glazed, and with a ring for suspension.

Another decoration consists of a bronze badge, oval in shape, with loop. Obverse: A battleship in flames, Urens non lucens on a scroll above, XIII Sep. A. Æ. C. MDCCLXXXII below. Reverse: Gib. Calp. obsessa Hisp. frustrata favente Deo et te duce G. AUG. Eliott præf, all engraved.

In the year 1793 the 12th Light Dragoons were present at the attack on the Island of Corsica. Part of the 12th landed and took part in the capture of Bastia; the remainder of the regiment proceeded to Italy, and was stationed at Civita Vecchia. As a mark of appreciation, Pope Pius VI. presented twelve officers with a gold medal, accompanied by the following letter:

Vatican, May 30th, 1794.

The marked consideration which the Holy Father has always entertained, and never will cease to entertain, for the generous and illustrious English Nation, induces him not to neglect the opportunity of giving a proof of it, which is now afforded by the stay of a British Regiment at Civita Vecchia.

As His Holiness cannot but applaud the regular and praiseworthy conduct of the Troops in question, he has determined to evince his entire satisfaction by presenting a gold medal to each of the Officers, including General Sir James Stewart, Bart., Colonel Erskine, though absent; and since these medals, twelve in number, are not at the present moment in readiness, nor can be provided before the departure of the Regiment from Civita Vecchia, the Holy Father will be careful that they shall be sent, as soon as possible, to Sir John Cox Hippisley, who will be pleased to transmit them to the respective Officers, making them acquainted at the same time with the feelings by which His Holiness is animated, and with the lively desire which he entertains of manifesting on all occasions his unalterable regard, whether it be towards the Nation in general, or towards every individual Englishman.

In thus making known to Sir John Cox Hippisley, Member of the British Parliament, the disposition of the Supreme Pontiff, the Cardinal de Zelada, Secretary of State, begs leave to add an offer of his own services, and the assurance of his distinguished esteem.

On the obverse of the medal is a bust of the Pope to the right; legend: Pius Sextus Pont. Max. a. XVII. On the reverse, a figure of Ceres seated, with a cornucopia, and the sources of three rivers below; above is the legend, Agro Pomptin Colonis Rest; and in the exergue is the date, MDCCXCI. It is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and was originally struck to commemorate the Pope's restoration of the harbour of Civita Vecchia, and not specially as a reward for the officers of the 12th Light Dragoons.

For the war against the Caribs, in the West Indian Island of St. Vincent, in 1773, a silver medal was issued, which was worn with a red ribbon. Upon the obverse is an effigy of King George III., in armour, with the legend, Georgius III., M.B. Rex., and upon the reverse Britannia is standing, offering an olive-branch to a conquered Carib; above, Peace and Prosperity to St. Vincent's. The date, 1773, is in the exergue, in Roman characters.

Carib War,

The Author has come across one of these medals struck in pewter, with a copper rim, but has been unable to trace to whom it was given. He has also seen a cast copper medal, silvered, with a similar loop for suspension to that on the silver medal. It is possible that this was one of the medals issued to the rank and file. The silver medals were cast and chased, and all were 2.2in. diameter.

Carib War, 1795.
 For the subsequent war in 1795, in the same island, against the French and Caribs, a bronze medal was presented to the troops. The obverse bears a figure of Victory, holding a palm-branch and sword, and standing over a defeated Carib; above is the legend, St. Vincent's Black Corps. On the reverse, a black soldier holding a musket; above, Bold, Loyal, Obedient. This medal was only presented to native troops, and, like the foregoing, was a cast medal. It was 1 $\frac{7}{8}$ in. diameter.

Deccan, 1784.
 In 1784 the troops of the Honourable East India Company received a silver medal for good services during the war against Hyder Ali. It is commonly known as the "Deccan Medal." On the obverse Britannia is represented seated, and holding a wreath towards a distant fortress. The reverse has a long Persian inscription, which says: "Presented by the Calcutta Government in memory of good service and intrepid valour, A.D. 1784; Mahomedan era 1199. Like the coin, may it endure long in the world, and the exertions of those lion-hearted Englishmen of great name, victorious from Hindostan to the Deccan, become exalted." The medals were struck in two sizes, 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ in., and 1 $\frac{6}{10}$ in. diameter, the larger of which was awarded to officers, the smaller being given to non-commissioned officers and sepoy only. A few of the larger were struck in gold, and given to subadars and higher officials. This medal, being milled on the edge, may easily be mistaken for a coin. This is the first instance of a general distribution of a medal by the Honourable East India Company to their native troops.

MEDAL FOR CARIB WAR, 1795

(REVERSE).

The Indian Government distributed a silver medal to the Honourable East India Company's troops for services in the war against Tippoo Sahib in 1791-2. Mysore, 1791-2. It was issued in two sizes, like the previous medal: the larger, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter, was for the officers; and the other, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, was given to the non-commissioned officers and soldiers. Gold medals were given to subadars. About 7000 medals were issued. Compared with many of the later medals it seems rough in design and workmanship. On the obverse, a sepoy in uniform holds in his right hand a Union Jack, and in his left the flag of Mysore, which is inverted, signifying defeat. His left foot rests on a broken cannon. In the background is seen the fortress of Seringapatam. Reverse: For Services in Mysore, A.D. 1791-1792, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Around the outside is a Persian inscription, signifying the same, and also stating that the medal was given by the English Government. The number of cannon balls on the obverse varies, showing that more than one die existed. Some medals have five balls; others have only two.

Many reproductions of these medals exist. Some of the so-called specimens of the smaller medal are merely casts of the larger one reduced in diameter. They can be easily recognised, as the head of the figure on the obverse comes right up to the edge of the medal instead of there being a space between, and the chasing has not been done with sufficient care to remove the "sandmarks" close up to the raised portions.

Both the above medals were worn suspended from a yellow silk cord, as were also the gold medals given to subadars.

By an Order in Council by the Viceroy, at Fort Ceylon, William, May 15th, 1807, a silver medal 2in.
 1796. diameter was granted to the Bengal Native Artillery for services in Ceylon when captured from the Dutch. The obverse bears the legend: "For services on the Island of Ceylon, A.D. 1795-1796;" and the reverse states, in Persian, that "This medal was given by way of acknowledgment for services in Ceylon, in the year of the Hegira 1209-1210." Like the two previous medals, it was worn suspended from the neck by a yellow silk cord.

Two gold, and 121 silver medals were struck. The Directors of the Honourable East India Company were usually presented with specimens in gold of each medal issued, but an exception seems to have been made in this case. This is the only war medal which has been issued with an inscription only, on both sides.

After the Battle of the Nile (August 1st, 1798),
 The Nile, Mr. Davison, Lord Nelson's Prize Agent, determined 1798. to issue a medal to every officer and man present.
 He ordered medals to be struck, at a cost of nearly £2000. Admirals and captains received the medal in gold, lieutenants and warrant officers in silver, petty officers in bronze-gilt, and seamen and marines in bronze. This is the first instance of medals given by a private individual being accepted and worn by the Services. They were issued without names; but many of the recipients had their names and those of their ships engraved, generally in the field. The medals were worn in a variety of ways, but were generally suspended from the neck by a blue ribbon.
 They were very highly prized by the recipients, and are often met with, carefully glazed and mounted in gold or silver frames.

1. Culloden.—Captain T. Troubridge; 74 guns, 590 men.
2. Theseus.—Captain R. W. Miller; 74 guns, 590 men.
3. Alexander.—Captain A. J. Bell; 74 guns, 590 men.
4. Vanguard.—Rear-Admiral Sir H. Nelson, K.B. Captain E. Berry; 74 guns, 595 men.
5. Minotaur.—Captain T. Louis; 74 guns, 640 men.
6. Leander.—Captain T. Thomson; 50 guns, 433 men.
7. Swiftsure.—Captain D. Hollowell; 74 guns, 590 men.
8. Audacious.—Captain D. Gould; 74 guns, 590 men.
9. Defence.—Captain J. Peyton; 74 guns, 590 men.
10. Zealous.—Captain S. Hood; 74 guns, 590 men.
11. Orion.—Captain Sir J. Saumarez; 74 guns, 590 men.
12. Goliath.—Captain T. Foley; 74 guns, 590 men.
13. Majestic.—Captain G. Westcott; 74 guns, 590 men.
14. Bellerophon.—Captain D. Darby; 74 guns, 590 men.
15. La Mutine (brig).—Captain T. Hardy.

Upon the obverse of the medal is a figure of Peace standing upon a rock, holding in her right hand an olive-branch, and supporting in the left a shield with a bust of Lord Nelson, with the inscription, "Europe's hope and Britain's glory." Behind the figure is an anchor, with the sea in the background; above is the legend, "Rear Admiral Lord Nelson of the Nile." On the reverse is the British fleet in battle array, sailing into the Bay of Aboukir, the rising sun in the background; above, the inscription, "Almighty God has blessed his Majesty's arms;" in the exergue, "Victory of the Nile, August 1, 1798." Upon the edge of the medal is impressed, "From Alexander Davison, Esqre, St. James's Square. A tribute of regard." They were 1.85in. diameter.

At a sale of furniture at Mr. Davison's country house in Northumberland, a box containing about eighty of these medals in bronze was sold; they were the remainder of the issue. It is a curious sign of the times that, with the exception of the Navy Gold Medal given to Admirals and Captains, no reward for the great victories of the Nile and Trafalgar was given to the officers and men by the Government, and that it was left to the generosity and patriotism of two civilians to commemorate them. What few survivors there were received as a tardy recognition the N.G.S. medal and bars when issued in 1849, just fifty-one, and forty-four, years respectively after the battles which they commemorated!

patam, 1799.

By a General Order dated Madras, July 18th, 1808, a medal was granted to the troops engaged in the storming and capture of Seringapatam. The siege lasted from April 4th to May 4th, 1799, on which day it was decided to carry the town by storm. The British were commanded by General Lord Harris; and Tippoo Sahib, who commanded the enemy, was killed towards the close of the action. The town was captured at noon on May 4th, and this is demonstrated on the medal by the sun in full splendour. It was given in gold to general officers, in silver-gilt to field officers, in silver to captains and subalterns, in bronze to non-commissioned officers and men of the British Army, and in tin to the sepoy engaged. Permission to wear the medal was given to the British Army by the Prince Regent on August 29th, 1815. The medal was issued without names or suspenders; these were generally added by the recipients, who wore the medal suspended from a dark orange ribbon, supposed to represent the colour of a tiger's skin, or with a red ribbon with blue edges, similar to that of the Peninsula gold medals and crosses. The original idea was to have a universal ribbon for military medals, instead of a distinctive one for each campaign as at present. The proceedings of the Madras Military Board, dated August 9th, 1831, mention this as the ribbon worn with this medal. Thirty gold, 185 silver-gilt, 850 silver, 5000 bronze, and 45,000 tin medals were issued. They were struck in 1801-2, at the Soho Mint in Birmingham, but were not distributed until 1808.

On the obverse of the medal, which is 1.9in. in diameter, is the British lion trampling upon the Bengal tiger; above is a banner, on which is Tippoo's title, "Asadullahal Ghalib, the conquering tiger of God," and below is the date, IV. May, MDCCXCIX. On the reverse, the army is shown advancing to storm the citadel; above is the sun in the meridian; in the exergue, a Persian inscription: "The God-given fortress of Seringapatam, 28th day of the month Zikadah 1213 of the Hegira."

A magnificent gold specimen of this medal, given to General Braithwaite, is in the collection of Captain Whitaker, late of the 5th Fusiliers.

A similar medal was struck at the Calcutta Mint, and was given to the Bengal native troops in 1809, eighty-three gold, and 2786 silver medals only being issued. The die is somewhat different to the English medal, being 1.8in. diameter, and of much rougher workmanship, and the sun being omitted on the reverse. The medal is much thinner, with a rounded edge, and a loop was added for suspension.

The following regiments were present at Seringapatam :

22nd Light Dragoons; the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Madras Cavalry; the 12th, 33rd, 73rd, 74th, 75th, 77th, and 94th Regiments; the Bombay Fusiliers; and the 1st, 6th, 8th, 11th, 13th, 16th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, and 24th Madras Infantry; Madras Engineers; detachments of the Bengal, Madras, and Bombay Artillery; Scotch Brigade; Regiment de Meuron; 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 10th Bengal Native Infantry; the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th Bombay Native Infantry; and the Madras and Bombay Pioneer Corps.

Lord St.
Vincent's
Medal,
1800.

After the Mutiny at the Nore, a reward was presented by Admiral Earl St. Vincent to the petty officers and seamen of the flagship "Ville de Paris," as a token of their loyalty. It was a silver medal, 1 $\frac{7}{8}$ in. in diameter, and upon the obverse is a bust of the Earl, in uniform, surrounded by a laurel-wreath, and encircled by the legend: "Earl St. Vincent's testimony of approbation, 1800." The reverse bears figures of a sailor and a marine joining hands, within a wreath of oak; in the background are the crosses of the Union Jack; above, "Loyal and true," surmounted by a crown.

This medal is frequently met with framed and glazed, like most early naval medals. It was issued without the recipient's name.

Egypt,
1801.

The Honourable East India Company granted a medal to their troops who took part in the campaign against the French in Egypt in 1801. General Sir Ralph Abercrombie, the commander of the British forces, fell mortally wounded at the Battle of Alexandria, on March 21st, 1801. Sixteen gold and 2199 silver medals were issued.

Upon the obverse is a figure of a sepoy holding a Union Jack in his right hand; in the rear, a camp; in the exergue, a Persian inscription: "This medal has been presented in commemoration of the defeat of the French armies in the Kingdom of Egypt, by the great bravery and ability of the victorious army of England." Reverse: A ship in full sail flying the Union Jack, with the Pyramids and an obelisk in the background. The date, MDCCCI., is in the exergue, and the medal is 1.9in. diameter. The dies are in the Calcutta Mint, and that of the reverse is cracked.

The Turkish Sultan, Selim III., also ordered gold medals to be struck, and issued to all the officers, naval and military, taking part in the campaign, and known as the Order of the Crescent.

Turkish
Gold Medal,
1801.

The obverse bears a crescent and star of eight points, surrounded by an ornamental border. The reverse has a similar border, surrounding the Sultan's cypher, with the date, 1801, below. It was struck in four sizes, the design being the same in all cases.

Owing to a difference in the dies, these medals were struck with the crescent on different sides of the star, sometimes on the right and sometimes on the left side.

The medal given to admirals and general officers was $2\frac{1}{10}$ in. diameter, and weighed 10z. 8dwt. 3gr. That given to field officers of the army and their equivalent rank in the navy was $1\frac{9}{10}$ in. diameter, and weighed 19dwt. 4gr. The third, given to captains in the army and their equivalent rank in the navy, was $1\frac{7}{10}$ in. diameter, and weighed 12dwt. 18gr.; and the smallest size was $1\frac{4}{10}$ in. diameter, and weighed 8dwt. 18gr. It was given to commissioned officers of both services below the rank of captain in the army and the corresponding naval rank.

In some of the earlier issues the crescent and star are inlaid with rose-diamonds. Lord Cheylesmore has one of the largest size in his collection, with the crescent and star entirely composed of diamonds; and Captain Whitaker has one of the medium size with four diamonds at the vertical and horizontal points of the star. Very few of these inlaid orders were given. They were no doubt special medals, and were replaced by the Order of the Crescent. The inlaid medal in Lord Cheylesmore's collection has a raised ornamental border, with plain reverse. Some of the larger medals were enamelled crimson in the centre. Silver medals, the same size as the smallest gold one, were given to the non-commissioned officers.

The medal was worn with an orange ribbon, to which it was attached by means of a small gold chain and hook.

The regiments taking part in this campaign were :

The 11th, 12th, and 26th Light Dragoons; the Coldstream and Scots Guards; the 1st, 2nd, 8th, 10th, 13th, 18th, 20th, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 30th, 40th, 42nd, 44th, 50th, 54th, 58th, 61st, 79th, 80th, 86th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 92nd, and 96th Infantry; the 2nd and 13th Bombay Infantry; the Corsican Rangers; De Roll's and Dillon's Regiments; and Hompesch's Hussars.

Mr. Boulton, of Soho Foundry, Birmingham, requested and obtained permission to present a medal, at his own expense, to every seaman who served on board the British fleet at the battle off Cape Trafalgar, on October 21st, 1805. The medal was given in gold to admirals, silver to captains and first lieutenants, and pewter to junior officers and men, and was worn suspended from a dark blue ribbon.

On the obverse is a bust of Lord Nelson, with the legend: "Horatio Viscount Nelson K.B. Duke of Bronte." The reverse bears a representation of the Battle of Trafalgar, which is surmounted by the legend: "England expects every man will do his duty"; in the exergue, "Trafalgar, Oct: 21. 1805." Around the edge is inscribed, "To the Heroes of Trafalgar from M. Boulton." They were 1.9in. diameter.

Another medal for the same occasion is said to have been presented by Nelson's friend, Mr. A. Davison, to the officers and crew of H.M.S. Victory. It is of pewter, and generally is set in a gold or copper rim, with a loop and ring for suspension. The obverse has a bust of Lord Nelson, within a wreath of laurel; below, a coat of arms with a garter inscribed Tria juncta in uno; and motto, Palmam qui meruit ferat. It also bears a double legend: Admiral Lord Nelson. D. of Bronte, natus Sep. 29. 1758. Horte devicto requievit Oct. 21. 1805. England expects every man will do his duty. The reverse has a man-of-war, with furled sails; above, The Lord is a man of war, Exodus. c. 15. v. 3; below, Victory of Trafalgar, over the combined Fleets of France and Spain: Oct. 21. 1805. It was evidently intended to be worn, and is of the same size as the foregoing.

1. Victory.—Vice-Admiral Lord Nelson; Captain T. Hardy.
2. Royal Sovereign.—Vice-Admiral Collingwood; Captain Rotherham.
3. Britannia.—Rear-Admiral Lord Northesk; Captain C. Bullen.
4. Temeraire.—Captain E. Hervey.
5. Neptune.—Captain Freemantle.
6. Leviathan.—Captain Bayntun.
7. Conqueror.—Captain Pellew.
8. Agamemnon.—Captain Berry.
9. Africa.—Captain Digby.
10. Ajax.—Lieutenant Pinfold.
11. Orion.—Captain Codrington.
12. Minotaur.—Captain Mansfield.
13. Spartiate.—Captain Sir F. Laforey.
14. Belleisle.—Captain Hargood.
15. Mars.—Captain Duff.
16. Bellerophon.—Captain J. Cooke.

17. Colossus.—Captain J. Morris.
18. L'Achille.—Captain Sir Richard King.
19. Dreadnought.—Captain J. Conn.
20. Polyphemus.—Captain Redmill.
21. Revenge.—Captain Moorsom.
22. Swiftsure.—Captain G. Rutherford.
23. Defiance.—Captain Durham.
24. Thunderer.—Lieutenant Stockham.
25. Defence.—Captain G. Hope.
26. Tonnant.—Captain Tyler.
27. Prince.—Captain Grindhall.

FRIGATES.

28. Phæbe.—Captain Hon. Bladen Capel.
29. Sirius.—Captain W. Prowse.
30. Euryalus.—Captain Hon. H. Blackwood.
31. Naiad.—Captain Dundas.
32. Entreprenant (cutter).—Captain R. B. Younge.
33. Pickle (schooner).—Captain Lapenotière.

Owing, no doubt, to the institution of the Navy Gold Medal, it was decided on February 22nd, 1808, to issue a gold medal in commemoration of the Battle of Maida, in Calabria, where the French were totally defeated, on July 4th, 1806. The issue was limited to the commander of the forces, officers in command of brigades and battalions, or to those who succeeded to the command, and also to the deputy quartermaster-general; and the medal was worn from the buttonhole of the uniform, attached to a red ribbon with blue edges, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide. A gold swivel and loop were provided for suspension, and a gold buckle was worn on the ribbon. Only seventeen medals were issued; they were framed and glazed, and were $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter. No one below the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel received them.

By a General Order dated Fort William, September 10th, 1811, a medal was awarded to the troops taking part in the actions of Rodrigues, July 6th, 1809; defeat of the French in the Island of Bourbon, July 8th, 1810; and capture of the Isle of France, December 3rd, 1810. His Majesty's 69th and 86th Foot still bear "Bourbon" inscribed on their colours in commemoration of the victory, in which they participated. The 6th and 24th Madras Infantry, and the 4th Bombay Infantry, also took part in the expedition.

Rodrigues,
1809; Bourbon and Isle of France,
1810.

The medal, which is 1.9in. diameter, has on the obverse a sepoy holding a Union Jack, and trampling upon a French Eagle. By his side is a field-gun, and in the background the British fleet lies at anchor. On the reverse is a Persian inscription, within a laurel-wreath: "This medal was conferred in commemoration of the bravery and accustomed fidelity exhibited by the Sepoys of the English Company in the Capture of the Mauritius Islands in the year of the Hegira 1226." Around the wreath is inscribed, "Rodrigues vi. July. MDCCCIX; Bourbon viii. July: and Isle of France iii. Dec: MDCCCX." Forty-five gold, and 2156 silver medals were issued. The die is still in the Calcutta Mint, and is badly cracked on the reverse.

A medal was given by the Honourable East India Company to the native troops who assisted in the capture of the Island of Java on August 8th, 1811.

Java, 1811.

On the obverse is a representation of the attack on Fort Cornelis, which is being blown up; on a flag-staff the British flag is shown above the Dutch; above, is the word Cornelis. The reverse has a Persian inscription, stating that—“This medal was conferred in commemoration of the bravery and courage exhibited by the Sepoys of the English Company, in the Capture of the Kingdom of Java, in the year of the Hegira, 1228.” Legend: Java conquered xxvi. August MDCCCXI. The medal is 1.9in. diameter. One hundred and thirty-three gold, and 6519 silver medals were issued. The 14th, 59th, 69th, 78th, and 89th Foot still bear “Java” on their colours. This die is also in the Calcutta Mint, and is cracked on one side.

When the Navy, and Military General Service Medals were issued in 1849, the British naval and military forces engaged received the medal and bar for “Java,” and the officers eligible had previously received the gold medal given by King George III. There were consequently four different medals issued for this campaign.

Nepaul,

For services during the war in Nepal in 1816, the East India Company presented a silver medal to the native troops who took part in it. It is 2in. in diameter, and on the obverse troops are represented marching across a hilly country, the hills crowned with forts; on the left, a field-piece. Reverse: Persian inscription, translated as follows: “This medal was granted by the Nawab Governor-General Bahadur, in testimony of the energy, good service, skill, and intrepidity which were displayed during the Campaigns in the Hills, in the years of Hegira: 1229-1230.” No gold medals were issued.

Only native officers who served "within the hills," and such non-commissioned officers and men as had been recommended by their commanders "for zeal and distinguished gallantry," were given the medal. It is, therefore, one of the rarest of Indian medals, owing to the comparatively small number issued. Native troops who had not received this medal were given the "Army of India" medal and bar subsequently issued.

This medal was worn either with an orange-coloured ribbon, the same as that for the Seringapatam medal, or with a yellow silk cord. It was not conferred on European troops, whose services in Nepaul were recognised later on by the "Army of India" Medal.

On September 9th, 1810, the principle laid down for the Navy Gold Medal, namely, of giving a medal of uniform design, differing only in the name of the action on the reverse, was adopted when authorising the issue of a gold medal in commemoration of the victories in the Peninsula during the years 1808 and 1809. Two gold medals were struck, and awarded to officers. The larger, for general officers, is $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and has on the obverse Britannia, seated on a globe and wearing a helmet; her right hand is extended and holds a wreath of laurel, and in her left is a palm-branch. On the right is the British lion, and on the left an oval shield charged with the crosses of the Union. The reverse bears the name of the event for which the medal was granted, within a laurel-wreath. They were mounted in gold rims and glazed on both sides, with a large ring for suspension, and the name and rank of the recipient were engraved on the rim.

Peninsula
Gold Medal,
1808-9.

This medal was given exclusively to general officers, and was worn in full dress suspended from the neck by a crimson ribbon with blue edges, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide. Massive gold bars, 2 in. long and $\frac{5}{8}$ in. wide, with a laureated border, and with the name of the battle for which they were given in raised capital letters in the middle, were mounted on the ribbon for any additional victories in which the recipient of the medal took part. When a bar, or bars, were added, the medal was attached to the neck-ribbon in the same way as the gold cross described on pp. 43 and 44.

The smaller medal was $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter, and in design was precisely the same as the former. It was given to field officers, and to those who succeeded to the actual command of a battalion during an engagement in consequence of the death or removal of the original commander. It was also given to officers commanding artillery and engineers, adjutant- and quartermaster-generals, and the military secretaries. It was worn from the buttonhole of the uniform by a red ribbon with blue edges, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, and a gold buckle was worn half-way up the ribbon. The medals were set in gold frames with the name and rank of the recipient engraved thereon, glazed on both sides, and were fitted with a gold loop and swivel for suspension. The small medal for "Barrosa" has the name on the reverse in raised letters; on all the other medals they are engraved.

The medals were eventually granted for the following engagements in the East Indies, North America, and the Peninsula: Roleia, Vimeira, Sahagun, Benevente, Coruña, Martinique, Talavera, Guadaloupe, Busaco, Barrosa, Fuentes d'Onor, Albuera, Java, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, Fort Detroit, Vittoria, Pyrenees, St. Sebastian, Nivelle, Chrystler's Farm, Nive, Orthes, and Toulouse. The large medal does not seem to have been given for Chateauguay, but the smaller one was given in a few instances.

It was ordered on October 7th, 1813, that one medal only should be worn by each officer, and that the number of added bars should be limited to two. As one engagement was inscribed on the medal, this would be equivalent to three actions. Upon a claim to a fourth mark of distinction being admitted, a gold cross was awarded, in place of the medal and bars, with the names of the four battles inscribed thereon. Upon each similar occasion that occurred, subsequent to the grant of the cross, the bars were again issued to those entitled to them, and were worn on the ribbon from which the cross was suspended. The medals which would have been conferred upon those who had fallen, or who died before its institution, were forwarded to their relatives, as a token of respect for their memories.

Peninsula
Cross.

The cross is of Maltese shape, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. square, having in the centre in high relief a British lion statant; in each division of the cross is inscribed the name of a battle, the first one being in the top division; they are surrounded by an edge of laurel-leaves with a double raised border. The central portions of the arms of the cross were fixed in the rim by means of small rivets. Both sides are alike, and it weighs 10z. 16dwt. The cross is attached to the swivel by a highly-ornamented ring. The inscribed bars were not attached to the gold suspension bar, but were worn loose on the ribbon, which was $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, red with blue edges. When worn round the neck the ribbon was passed either through the gold ring on the cross, in which case the swivel and bar were not used; or by a large gold ring attached to a narrow plate worn above the top bar, should the wearer be entitled to one, or more. The top bar, and bar and swivel, were connected by a piece of the ribbon on which the engagement bar, or bars, were threaded. In all cases where bars were awarded the swivel and bar were used for attachment to the ribbon, whether the cross was worn round the neck by generals or attached to the uniform by the lower ranks. The name and regiment of the recipient were engraved on the edges of the cross.

Of the larger and smaller medals, 469 were issued without bars, 143 with one bar, and 72 with two bars. Sixty-one gold crosses without bars were distributed, 46 with one bar, 18 with two bars, 17 with three, 8 with four, 7 with five, 3 with six, 2 with seven, and only 1 with nine bars, which belonged to the Duke of Wellington. This, with the four names inscribed on the cross, represented thirteen engagements.

Portuguese
Cross. A Maltese cross, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. square, known as the "Portuguese Cross," was given by the King of Portugal to British officers who served on the Portuguese staff during the Peninsular War. The obverse has a garter of blue enamel, upon which are the words Guerra Peninsular, surrounding the Arms of Portugal in gold. On the reverse is a Roman numeral (I-VI) within a wreath of laurel, and between the arms is a green, enamelled laurel-wreath. It was worn with a blue ribbon with red edges, and was given in gold for four or six campaigns, and in silver for one, two, or three. The numbers on the reverse signify the number of campaigns in which the recipient served.

The Commanders' Cross was gold, $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter, over the balls on the points, and consists of a star with four, or more, arms with two points, enamelled white, and joined together by a gold wreath of laurel on an enamelled blue ground. On each of the arms is an oval, enamelled green, on which is inscribed the name of an action at which the recipient was present. In the centre is the head of the King, John VI. of Portugal, in gold, on a blue ground. The reverse is similar to the obverse, but in the centre are the recipient's initials, in gold on a white ground. The cross was worn with a broad crimson ribbon with blue edges, suspended from the neck.

Portuguese
Cross of Command.

These two decorations were instituted on July 28th, 1816.

In the Author's collection there was one of these gold crosses with eight double arms, and the names of the following battles:—Fuentes d'Onor, Arroyo de Molinos, Almaraz, Maya, Vittoria, Nivelle, Pyrenees, Nive, and in the centre of the reverse the initials "R. B." It weighs nearly 2oz. This cross belonged to Colonel Richard Brunton, of the 13th Light Dragoons, formerly of the 60th Rifles. Colonel Sir Denis Pack had the cross with eleven actions on it, which is the greatest number within the Author's knowledge. Only those British officers who were in the Portuguese service received it; and no warrant can be found authorising them to accept and wear it.

For the capture of Cayenne, on January 14th, 1809, a silver and also a bronze medal, 2in. diameter, were given by the Prince Regent of Portugal. Eighty seamen and marines of H.M.S. "Confiance" were engaged, in conjunction with the Portuguese troops. It is uncertain whether or not the English allies received permission to wear the medal. On the obverse is the head of the Prince Regent of Portugal; legend: D. Joam P. G. D. Pring. Regen de Portugal: &c. 1809. Reverse: 14th. Jan. 1809, within a laurel-wreath, surrounded by Cayenna Tomada a os Francezes.

About this period a very interesting medal was given to a Captain Wooldridge, R.N., for destroying the French ships in Aix Roads. Captain Wooldridge was commander of the British man-of-war "Mediator," and rendered this service on the night of April 11th, 1809. For his action on this occasion he was promoted to the rank of post-captain, and three years afterwards he received the medal as an acknowledgment of his distinguished services.

On the obverse is a ship on fire, approaching a fleet, and breaking a boom; and upon the reverse, "Captain James Wooldridge led the British Fireships when four French sail of the Line were burnt under their own batteries in Aix Roads." The medal was $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter, of gold, and was worn from the neck by a gold chain. It is now in the Murray collection.

In September, 1810, a medal was given to the crews of H.M. ships "Ajax," "Kent," and "Cambrian," for their services in assisting the Spanish Government in expelling the French troops from Catalonia. The medal was granted by the Supreme Juncta, and was given to the officers as well as the men. Some of the former received the medal in gold, the rest in silver. The medal was $1\frac{7}{8}$ in. diameter, and on the obverse are the shields of Great Britain and Spain, surrounded by the national flags; and below the shields are the words Alianza eterna; around the whole is a wreath of laurel. Upon the reverse is the legend: "Gratitud De Espana a la intrepidez Britanica Bagur 10 de Setiembre,

As very few of these medals were given, they are, consequently, extremely rare.

During the Peninsular War, a most gallant act was performed by Lieut. Latham, of the 3rd Buffs. At the Battle of Albuera he prevented the King's colour falling into the hands of the enemy. The colour was carried by Ensign Walsh, and the colour-party being all killed or wounded, Ensign Walsh was taken prisoner. At that moment Lieut. Latham seized the flag, and though surrounded by the enemy he clung with heroic tenacity to his precious charge. A French hussar seized the staff, and cutting at Lieut. Latham's head, wounded him severely, but failed to make him release his hold. A second sword-cut severed the left arm from his body, but grasping the staff with his right hand, he exclaimed: "I will surrender it only with my life." Although defenceless he would not yield, but the number of his foes increasing he was knocked down and trampled on; he managed, however, to conceal the colour under his body. At this moment the advancing British cavalry compelled the French to retire. When the Fusilier brigade advanced, they found Lieut. Latham apparently dead, with the colour still in his possession. He was taken to the rear, and subsequently revived. The officers of the Buffs subscribed £100, with which a gold medal was purchased, and it was presented to him at Reading, on August 12th, 1813.

Medal,

The medal bears a representation of this heroic action, surmounted by a royal crown, and the name and date of the battle, "Albuera 16 May, 1811;" and the memorable words, "I will surrender it only with my life," surround the whole. Reverse: "To Lieut. Latham 3rd. Regt. (or the Buffs) as a Testimonial from his Brother Officers of their high opinion of his distinguished conduct in defending the colours of the Regiment in the Battle of Albuera, in which he lost an arm and part of his face." The medal was $2\frac{3}{16}$ in. diameter and was all engraved. A large triangular loop was added for suspension. The King granted Lieut. Latham permission to wear this medal by a Warrant issued on January 4th, 1813.

Within recent years the officers of the Buffs purchased a silver statuette of Lieut. Latham defending the colours, and attacked by a French cavalry trooper. It is now used as a centre-piece on the mess-table.

Waterloo
(English),

We now come to the medal issued to the troops who took part in the memorable victory at Waterloo, and which was granted at the suggestion of the Duke of Wellington. This may be said to have inaugurated the present custom of granting the same medal to the officers and men engaged, and is the first instance of a general distribution of medals, since those given for the Battle of Dunbar in 1650. The original intention was to give a medal to the non-commissioned officers and men only, and a bronze medal was struck for the purpose, but it did not meet with approval, and was not issued. It was subsequently decided to reward officers and men alike—in fact, everyone engaged in the battle.

On April 23rd, 1816, the following notice appeared in the Gazette:

Horse Guards, March 10th, 1816.

The Prince Regent has been graciously pleased, in the name and on behalf of His Majesty, to command that, in commemoration of the brilliant and decisive Victory of Waterloo, a medal shall be conferred upon every officer, non-commissioned officer, and soldier, present upon that memorable occasion.

His Royal Highness has further been pleased to command, that the ribband issued with the medal shall never be worn but with the medal suspended to it.

By command of His Royal Highness, the Prince Regent

FREDERICK,

Commander-in-Chief.

The medal is 1.4in. diameter, and the obverse bears a head of the Prince Regent to the left, crowned with laurel; above, George P. Regent. Reverse: A figure of Victory, holding in her right hand a palm-branch, and in the left a sprig of olive; wings outspread; Waterloo, and the date, June 18, 1815, in the exergue; and above, the word Wellington. More than one die was used for this medal, and slight differences are noticeable, both on the obverse and reverse. Until the present reign this was the only war medal having a bust other than that of Queen Victoria on the obverse. The ribbon was crimson with blue edges, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide.

The medal was originally issued with a steel clip and large steel ring, but these were in many cases removed by the recipients, and replaced by ornamental silver bars of various design. The names of the recipients and their regiments were indented on the edge of the medals in large capitals.

All those who were present at the Battle of Ligny on June 16th, and at Quatre Bras on June 17th, or at Waterloo on the 18th, were entitled to the medal. It was also given to Sir Charles Colville's division at Halle (2nd Battalion 35th; 54th; 2nd Battalion 59th; and 1st Battalion 91st), although they were not actually engaged.

The King's German Legion, and other German troops present at Waterloo, also received the medal.

Those given to the 1st, 2nd, and 6th Dragoons, and the 27th, 28th, and 42nd Infantry Regiments, are most prized by collectors. The first three regiments formed the celebrated "Union Brigade," and the other three suffered severely, and consequently fewer medals were issued to the survivors. The 27th lost 480 men out of 698 present at the battle, and the 28th was by killed and wounded men reduced to a strength of only four companies.

The Prince Regent, in 1817, presented a silver medal to the soldiers of his hereditary dominions in Germany who were present at the Battle of Waterloo, and to the heirs of those who had fallen at it. In size it is similar to the English medal, and has on the obverse a laureated head of the Prince to the right, and above is the legend, Georg. Prinz Regent: 1815. On the reverse is a military trophy, with laurel-branches below, and the legend, Waterloo Jun. xviii., surrounded by Hanoverischer Tapferkeit. The ribbon was the same as that of the English medal, and a large steel ring was added for suspension. The recipient's name, rank, and regiment were indented on the edge in capital letters.

On December 23rd, 1815, Frederic, Duke of Nassau, issued a small silver medal to his troops who were present at Waterloo. On the obverse is a head of the Duke, with Friedrich August, Herzog zu Nassau. Reverse: A figure of Victory holding a palm-branch, and crowning a Roman warrior with a wreath; legend: Den Nassauischen Streitern Bey Waterloo; exergue, Den 18 Juni 1815. These medals were issued without the names of the recipients on the edge. The ribbon was dark blue with narrow yellow edges.

princes of Brunswick, on June 11th, 1818, ordered medals to be struck from the metal of the captured French cannon, and to be distributed to the soldiers of Brunswick who were present at the actions of June 16th, 17th, and 18th, "For the perpetual remembrance of the Campaign of 1815."

Brunswick
Waterloo.

Duke Frederick William of Brunswick fell in the Battle of Quatre Bras, June 17th, 1815, and the medal bears his head on the obverse, with the legend, Friedrich Wilhelm Herzog. The reverse bears the legend Braunschweig seinen Kriegern—Quatre Bras und Waterloo, 1815, surrounded by a wreath of oak and laurel. The names and regiments of the recipients were indented on the edge. The medal was only struck in bronze, those given to the officers being gilded, and was suspended from a light yellow ribbon with light blue edges, by means of a steel clip and ring, like the English and Hanoverian medals for Waterloo.

A medal was given by Duke Charles II., of Brunswick, on October 30th, 1824, to the soldiers of the Brunswick contingent who fought in the Peninsula from 1810-1814. It was given to officers in silver, and to non-commissioned officers and men in bronze, and was worn with a crimson ribbon.

Obverse: The word Peninsula, surrounded by a wreath of oak and laurel. Reverse: A shield, on which is a monogram composed of two C's (the initials of the Duke). Behind it is a trophy of arms.

The King of Hanover also gave a bronze medal to the troops of the British-German Legion, and a similar medal (gilt) to the officers.

Waterloo.

On the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, a bronze medal was presented to all the survivors of the Hanoverian troops by the citizens of Hanover. On the obverse are the arms of the town of Hanover, surrounded by the legend: Stadt Hannover den siegern von Waterloo; below, 18 Juni 1815. Reverse: Zur 50 jährigen Jubelfeier am 18 Juni 1865, surrounded by a laurel-wreath.

A small silver star of five double points was given to the Belgian troops who fought at Waterloo. The obverse is inscribed in the centre 1813, and the reverse 1815. A ring was fitted for suspension.

Saxe-Gotha
Waterloo.

Another medal, struck in commemoration of the Battle of Waterloo, was issued to the Foreign Legion of the Duchy of Saxe-Gotha-Altenburg. It was instituted in 1816 by Duke Emilius Leopold Augustus for the troops who were engaged in the campaign of 1814-15. To the private soldiers it was issued in bronze, and to the officers in bronze plated in parts with gold. It is of larger size than those issued by our country, and has on the obverse the Altenburg rose, and on the reverse a ducal crown, with the legend, in old German characters, Im Kampfe für das Recht. Around the edge are the words, Herzogthum Gotha und Altenburg, MDCCCXIV & MDCCCXV.

Although not, strictly speaking, British war medals, the last seven go to make up the series of those struck in commemoration of Waterloo, and worn by the troops present at the action, and are interesting relics.

The Author had in his collection a proof of the bronze medal first proposed for the Battle of Waterloo. The edge is inscribed, Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington, K.G. & G.C.B. The obverse is somewhat similar to the silver medal, but a wreath surrounds the bust of the Prince Regent, with the date 1815 below. The reverse has the same figure of the Angel, but no date is in the exergue. It was discarded in favour of the silver medal previously described, as mentioned on page 48.

DUKE OF YORK'S.—1st Battalion, 2nd Battalion, and 3rd Battalion.

For the Kandian Rebellion in 1818, a medal was issued in 1819 by the Government of Ceylon, and was given to thirty-nine men of the 1st Ceylon Regiment, and two men of the 2nd Ceylon Regiment, for gallantry in the action fought on April 18th, 1818; and to four men of the 73rd Regiment for services rendered during a battle on June 15th, 1818. On the obverse is the inscription, Ceylon 1818, surrounded by a wreath of oak, and bay-leaves. Reverse: Round the edge, Reward of Merit, the name and regiment of the recipient being engraved in the centre. It was a silver medal $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and was worn with a blue ribbon. The men of the 73rd Regiment who received it were Lance-Corporal R. McLaughlin and Privates W. Connor, C. Sheppard, and J. Wilson.

The East India Company issued a silver medal to the Madras and Bengal native troops and Irrawaddy naval force for services in Burmah in 1824-6. The General Order sanctioning it is dated "Fort William, April 22nd, 1826." The troops were under the command of Major-General Sir Archibald Campbell, who received the medal in gold, the only one issued to an English military officer, although 758 gold medals were struck for issue to native officers and high civil officials. The total number of silver medals issued was 24,211, although 43,133 were struck. For some reason almost half the medals set apart for the Madras troops were unapplied for, and the bulk of the remainder were returned to the Mint at Calcutta, and melted down.

George IV.
Burma,
1824-6.

Upon the obverse, the white elephant of Ava is crouching before the victorious British lion, and behind him is the Union Jack flying in the breeze. Behind the elephant is the Burmese flag, drooping, signifying submission. In the exergue is the Persian inscription: The Elephant of Ava submitting to the British Lion, 1826. On the reverse, a storming party is advancing towards the great Pagoda of Rangoon, which is surrounded by stockades. The Irrawaddy flotilla is commencing the attack in the foreground. Sir A. Campbell, dismounted, under a palm-tree, is directing the operations. In the exergue is the Persian inscription: The Standard of the Victorious Army of England in Ava.

The medal was $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and was issued without the name of the recipient on the edge. It was ordered to be worn on the left breast with a crimson ribbon with blue edges, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, suspended by a steel clip and ring, 1 in. diameter. This is a very rare medal, and is now seldom met with, the gold ones being specially rare. The dies still exist in the Royal Mint, where the medals were struck.

The following British regiments were present in Ava :

1st, 13th, 38th, 41st, 44th, 45th, 47th, 54th, 87th, and 89th; the 1st Madras Cavalry; the Madras Fusiliers; and the 14th Regiment of Madras Native Infantry.

A large naval brigade was also employed.

On May 5th, 1836, the British Legion, under William IV. General Sir de Lacy Evans, was engaged against the St. Sebastian, 1836. Carlists on the heights of St. Sebastian. For this service the Spanish Government issued a medal in pewter to the soldiers, and in silver to the officers. The medal was struck by Messrs. Loewenstark, of London, whose name is stamped on the silver ones. Upon the obverse is a lion statant et guardant, surrounded by the collar of the Golden Fleece. Above is the word Espana, and below, Agra decida. Upon the reverse is a Maltese cross, with crowns in the angles; upon the centre, within a wreath, S. Sebastian, 5 de Mayo, 1836. The ribbon is dark purple with two yellow stripes near the edges. The medal was issued without names, and is rare, especially in silver.

Another medal, in Colonel Gaskell's collection, is a large double silver cross, inscribed on the obverse, St. Sebastian, v. 2^{da} 5^o Mayo, 1836, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Upon the reverse is the name of the recipient, surrounded by laurel. Both sides of the medal are engraved.

A medal was also given to the naval contingent for services on December 24th, 1836, during the same expedition. The obverse bears a small Maltese double cross, with cannon and shells in the corners. In the centre is a tower, with Bilboa, 1836. Above is a laurel-wreath, and there is a bar for suspension. The reverse is plain, but the name of the recipient is sometimes engraved on it. The ribbon is yellow with blue edges. This medal is very scarce.

On a recommendation of the Commissioner of Coorg, dated Mecara, July 14th, 1837, medals were issued as rewards to native soldiers who had served in suppressing the insurrection in Canara in 1837: Gold medals and chains, value 400 rupees each, were given to the two Dewans; twelve to subadars and chiefs, at 200 rupees each; twenty medals without chains, to parpatigars and others; ten, valued at fifty rupees each, to ryots who had specially distinguished themselves; and 200 silver medals, without chains, at ten rupees each, to inferior leaders and distinguished ryots. This medal was not given to any of the H.E.I. Co.'s troops.

The obverse of the medal has a Coorg warrior in a fighting attitude, fully equipped. Legend, in Canarese: For a memorial of Fidelity to the Government of the East Indian Company, in suppressing disturbances during the months of April and May, 1837. Upon the reverse is a trophy of Coorg arms, suspended in a laurel-wreath. Legend: For distinguished conduct and loyalty to the British Government, Coorg, April, 1837. The medals were struck at the Calcutta Mint, and were 2in. in diameter. They merely differed in thickness according to their value, and a loop was provided for suspension.

After the capture of the Fortress of Ghuznee, on July 23rd, 1839, Shah Shoojah announced his intention of conferring a medal upon the troops employed, as a mark of his estimation of their gallantry. The medal was manufactured at the Government Mint in Calcutta, the die being furnished by Messrs. Pittar and Co., of Calcutta; but Shah Shoojah died before the medal was issued. The Governor-General ordered that the medal originally intended to be issued by Shah Shoojah should be given in the name of the Government of India. They were ready for distribution in 1842, and for the first time a bar for suspension was added to the medal.

Upon the obverse is a view of the citadel, with Ghuznee on a scroll underneath. On the reverse a mural crown, surrounded by two branches of laurel; 23rd July above, 1839 below. The name of the recipient was generally engraved on the field, but this was done at the owner's expense, as the medal was issued plain. It was $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter. The ribbon was originally intended to be half yellow and half green, but for some unknown reason it was discarded in favour of one, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, one-half crimson and the other green. 8371 medals were issued, of which 239 were given to European officers. Two dies were used for the obverse, one having a very much wider border than the other. The die with the wide edge is in the Calcutta Mint.

The British regiments present at this action were :
4th and 16th Light Dragoons; 2nd (eight companies), 13th, and 17th Foot;

and the following Indian regiments :

2nd Regiment of Skinner's Horse, the 3rd Bombay Cavalry, the Poonah Horse, the Bombay Sappers and Miners, and the Bengal European Regiment.

A special medal was given to Lord Auckland, Governor-General of India. Upon the obverse the Fortress of Ghuznee, covering the whole of the field; the British army entering at the principal gate. The reverse has a laurel-wreath surrounding the inscription, Afghanistan, Ghuznee, 23rd July, 1839. This is the only specimen known, and it is hard to understand why it was struck.

For services on the coast of Syria, in 1840, a medal, generally known as the "St. Jean d'Acre Medal," was issued by the Sultan of Turkey. It was given to the navy, and to a few artillery and engineer officers who accompanied the expedition. It is $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter, and was issued in gold to captains and field officers, in silver to quarter-deck and warrant officers, and in bronze to seamen and marines. The obverse has a fortress, with the Turkish flag flying, six stars above. Below is the Turkish inscription: The People of Syria: and the Citadel of Acre, A. H. 1258. The reverse bears the Sultan's cypher, surrounded by branches of laurel. It was issued without the name of the recipient, and the ribbon is rose with white edges, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide.

A medal was awarded to both Services alike for the War in China in 1842, and was given by the Indian Government. The obverse has a diademed head of Her Majesty the Queen, over which is the inscription, Victoria Regina. Reverse: A trophy of naval and military weapons; in front, an oval shield charged with the royal arms; behind, a palm-tree. Above is the legend, Armis exposcere pacem; and in the exergue the date, China, 1842. It is 1.4 in. diameter. This was the first medal issued with the Queen's head on it. The recipient's name and ship, or regiment, are impressed on the edge in capital letters. A German-silver loop was fixed on the medal for suspension. The ribbon is crimson with yellow edges, and is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide.

The 18th, 26th, 49th, 55th, and 98th Regiments took part in this campaign, as well as the 37th Madras Infantry, a naval brigade, a battalion of marines, and a small complement of Royal and Indian Artillery; altogether, about 3000 men.

The Government of India presented a silver medal to the European and native troops who formed the garrison of the fortress of Jellalabad, in April, 1842. On the obverse is a mural crown, superscribed Jellalabad, in capital letters, and on the reverse, the date—vii. April, 1842, with a flat raised rim on both sides. The suspender was either a silver-wire loop and ring, or a steel clasp and die. This medal is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and was issued without the names of the recipients, which were added by them, either on the edge, or in the field. It was also forwarded to the relations of soldiers who died between April 7th and the day on which the medal was issued. Permission to accept and wear it was given to the officers and soldiers of the British Army who were entitled to it on October 24th, 1842. The medals were distributed in the following December, 2596 being issued. The ribbon is what is generally known as the “rainbow” pattern, and represents the colours of the Eastern sky at sunrise: crimson shading to yellow, and yellow shading into blue. It is of watered silk, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, and was first issued with this medal. The die is in the Calcutta Mint, and is cracked on the reverse.

The Governor-General of India was dissatisfied with the rough design of this medal, which was made in India; and subsequently another was issued to replace it. It was designed by Wm. Wyon, of London; and medals were struck at the Royal Mint and forwarded to Calcutta in February, 1845. They were ready for issue on March 13th, 1845; and the troops were notified that the medals would be issued on their returning those originally given. The men preferred the original medals, and comparatively few of the others were applied for. It was known as the "Second Jellalabad Medal," or, more popularly, as "the Flying Victory." Upon the obverse is a head of Queen Victoria, crowned. Above is the legend, Victoria Vindex. The reverse bears a figure of Victory flying over the fortress of Jellalabad; in her right hand she holds a wreath, and in her left the Union Jack. Above is the inscription, Jellalabad, vii. April; and in the exergue the date, MDCCLXII. The medal is rather smaller than the first one, being 1.4in. diameter, and has a German-silver loop for suspension, like that of the first China medal. The recipient's name and regiment were indented on the edge in capital letters. The ribbon was the same as that issued with the first medal. A few specimens are known with the legend "Victoria Regina" on the obverse: possibly the die of the obverse of the China medal for 1842 having been used by mistake.

The 13th Foot is the only European Regiment which received this distinction. Both medals are very rare, and are much prized by collectors. The following regiments comprised the garrison of Jellalabad:

13th (Prince Albert's) Light Infantry, the 35th Native Infantry, Broadfoot's Sappers and Miners, Bengal Artillery, the 5th Light Cavalry (natives), Anderson's Horse, and the Commissariat.

The Governor-General of India issued a General Order, dated Simla, October 4th, 1842, notifying the intention of the Indian Government to issue a medal to all who had taken part in the war in Afghanistan in that year. The following British regiments received it, and were granted authority on January 27th, 1843, to wear it :

3rd Light Dragoons, and the 9th, 13th, 31st, 40th, and 41st Regiments of Infantry.

The following regiments were present at Cabul on September 16th, 1842 :

British : 3rd Light Dragoons ; 9th, 13th, 31st, 40th, and 41st Foot. Native : 3rd Bombay Cavalry ; 4th, 5th, 6th, and 12th Bengal Infantry ; and a Company of Bengal Sappers and Miners.

The regiments composing the force under General Nott, who defended Candahar in 1842, and the relieving force under General England, were :

British : 40th and 41st Foot. Native : 1st Bengal Cavalry ; 3rd Bombay Cavalry ; Poona Horse ; 5th, 6th, and 12th Bengal Infantry.

Four medals were struck, the obverse having in all cases the diademed head of the Queen, with Victoria Vindex above ; but the reverse differs in each :

No. 1 has the word Candahar, surmounted by a crown, and with 1842 below, the whole being enclosed within a laurel-wreath.

No. 2 has the words Ghuznee, Cabul, each in a laurel-wreath, surmounted by a crown, and 1842 below.

No. 3 has the words Candahar, Ghuznee, Cabul, with a crown above, and 1842 below, within a wreath of laurel.

No. 4 has the word Cabul, and is similarly arranged to No. 1 as regards crown, wreath, and date. They were all 1.4in. diameter.

A few are known with Victoria Regina, instead of Victoria Vindex, on the obverse. They are very rare, and were most probably either issued in mistake by the Mint, or were struck after the first issue, with the China die used for the obverse. They are more valuable as curiosities than as specimens of the medals issued for this campaign. A few medals for Cabul were issued with the name on the reverse spelt CABVL in large capitals.

The ribbon is the same as that for the Jellalabad Medal, and the medals have steel clasps for suspension. The recipients' names were engraved on the edge, either in square letters or in Italian running-hand.

The medals were given in accordance with the services of the recipients, those who had been in all the actions receiving No. 3 medal, instead of No. 1 and No. 2.

A special medal was struck for the heroic defence of Kelat-i-Ghilzie, in May, 1842, during the same campaign.

Kelat-i-Ghilzie Medal, 1842.

The garrison consisted of 950 men, and included about 600 men of the Shah's force, three companies of the 43rd Bengal Native Infantry (about 250 men), forty European artillerymen, and sixty sappers and miners.

The medal was silver, 1.4in. diameter, and has on the obverse a shield inscribed Kelat-i-Ghilzie, surmounted by a mural crown, and surrounded by a laurel-wreath. On the reverse is a military trophy, upon a rectangular base, with the word Invicta; MDCCCXLII beneath. This is an extremely rare medal, and was usually fitted with a steel clip and clasp.

The ribbon was of the usual "rainbow" pattern, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, and the recipient's name and regiment were engraved on the edge, generally in running-hand.

War in Scinde,
1843.

For the campaign in Scinde, in 1843, the Queen presented a silver medal to all the troops engaged, and also to the officers and crews of the Indian flotilla, four ships of which were employed. This is the first and only instance of a medal being issued by the Home Government for services in India during the existence of the H.E.I. Co. Three medals were struck, all with the same obverse, namely, the diademed head of the Queen, with Victoria Regina above, which has done duty on so many medals. Two dies were cut, one having the name of the engraver, "W. Wyon, R.A.," on the bottom of the Queen's neck; and the other with the name in the field. There are also slight differences in the bust, the neck being thicker in one case, and the bust being slightly more prolonged.

No. 1 has on the reverse, Meeanee, a crown above, 1843 below, the whole surrounded by a laurel-wreath.

No. 2 is similar, but with the word Hyderabad substituted for Meeanee.

No. 3 bears both names—Meeanee, Hyderabad—with a similar arrangement of crown, date, and laurel-wreath. The medals are 1.4in. diameter.

The ribbon is of the "rainbow" pattern, 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide, and the names and regiments of the recipients were engraved on the edge of the medal, usually in capital letters. A steel clasp was originally issued with it; a General Order authorised silver clasps being fixed on the officers' medals instead of steel. Sir John Pennefather, Colonel of the 22nd Regiment, at his own expense, presented a massive silver bar to the men of his regiment, of similar design to the steel one.

The medals were issued to men who had been in either or both engagements.

The 22nd was the only English regiment which received the medal, which was distributed in March, 1846.

The Battle of Meeanee was fought on February 17th, 1843, and that of Hyderabad on March 24th, 1843.

The troops engaged at Meeanee were :

British: 22nd Foot; two companies of Royal Artillery.
Native: 9th Bengal Cavalry; Scinde Horse; Poona Horse; 1st Native Infantry Grenadiers; 12th and 25th Native Infantry.

At Hyderabad :

British: 22nd Foot; 1st Troop Horse Artillery; 2nd Company 2nd Battery Royal Artillery. Native: 3rd Company Golundaze; 5th Company Golundaze; 3rd Bombay Cavalry; 9th Bengal Cavalry; Scinde Horse; Poona Horse; Madras Sappers and Miners; 1st, 8th, 12th, 21st, and 25th Native Infantry.

The officers and crews of four of the Honourable East India Company's vessels, "Comet," "Meteor," "Planet," and "Satellite," also received the medals.

For the battles of Maharajpoor and Punniar, December 29th, 1843, during the Gwalior Campaign, bronze stars were presented to the troops engaged, made out of the guns taken from the enemy.

Gwalior
War, 1843.

They are stars of six points, 2in. diameter, in the centre of which is a smaller silver star. Around the centre of the small star is the name of the battle: Maharajpoor, 1843; and in the centre of the circle so formed the date, Dec. 29th. The star for Punniar is similar, but with that name substituted for Maharajpoor. The back of the star is plain, and the name, number, and regiment of the recipient are engraved in running-hand. Originally these stars were fitted with a large brass hook, for attaching them to the breast of the coat; but subsequently suspenders were added, according to the wearer's fancy, and the stars were then worn with the "rainbow" ribbon, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide.

The star worn by Viscount Gough, who commanded, had a silver elephant on the centre in place of the silver star. It was originally intended to issue all the stars like this, but as it was found to be rather more costly the Government decided to substitute the less expensive one.

The following troops were engaged at Maharaj-poor :

British : 16th Lancers ; 39th and 40th Foot. East India Company : Three troops Bengal Horse Artillery ; two light batteries Bengal Artillery ; Bengal Sappers ; 1st, 4th, and 10th Light Cavalry ; 4th Irregular Cavalry ; the Governor-General's Body-guard ; part of the 5th Light Cavalry, acting as Sir H. Gough's escort ; 2nd Regimental Grenadiers ; also the 14th, 16th, 31st, 43rd, and 56th Native Infantry.

At Punniar the troops engaged were :

3rd and 50th Foot, and the 9th Lancers (the only British regiments) ; the 8th Bengal Irregular Cavalry, a company of Sappers and Miners, and five companies of the 39th and 50th Native Infantry.

The great battles of the Sutlej Campaign, or first Sikh War, 1845-6 (Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sobraon), were commemorated by silver medals and bars. For the first action the soldier received the corresponding medal, and bars were added for the subsequent actions ; with, of course, the exception of the medal for "Sobraon." The following is an extract from the General Order announcing the issue of the medal :

If the individual is entitled to be decorated for two battles, he will receive one silver medal, bearing the name of the first battle in which he was engaged, and a clasp, or bar, on which will be inscribed the name of the second battle. This bar will be fixed on the riband immediately above the medal. If entitled to be decorated for a third battle, the name of that battle will be inscribed on the second bar; and if entitled to be decorated for four battles, the name of the fourth battle shall be inscribed on the third bar, the bars being fixed in the order in which the battles were fought.

The obverse has the diademed head of the Queen, with Victoria Regina above; and on the reverse is a figure of Victory, standing, holding in her right hand a wreath and in her left a palm-branch. At her feet is a trophy of Sikh arms; above, the legend, To the Army of the Sutlej; and in the exergue, the name and date (the latter in numerals) of the battle for which the medal was struck. It was 1.4in. in diameter.

This is generally considered to be W. Wyon's finest piece of work, and is the first medal to which separate bars were attached. They are oblong, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. long by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. wide, with recessed ends, and fastened together by small rivets, with the letters in relief, and are attached to the medal by means of an ornamental clasp and swivel. The names and regiments of the recipients were indented on the edge of the medal in capital letters. Only two British regiments received the medal with three bars (for four battles), namely, the 31st and 50th.

The following is a list of the medals and combinations of bars, which are arranged to read upwards from the medal, the most recent action being at the top:

The following regiments were engaged :

MOODKEE, December 18th, 1845.—British: 3rd Light Dragoons; 9th, 31st, 50th, and 80th Foot. Native: Skinner's Horse; 8th Bengal Irregular Cavalry; 5th, 7th, 11th, and 26th Bengal Infantry.

FEROZESHUHUR, December 21st, 1845.—British: 3rd Light Dragoons; 9th, 29th, 31st, 50th, 62nd, and 80th Foot; 1st and 3rd Brigades Horse Artillery; and the 4th, 6th, and 7th Batteries of Artillery. Native: 4th, 5th, and 8th Light Cavalry; 2nd Skinner's Horse; 3rd, 8th, and 9th Bengal Irregular Cavalry; Bengal Sappers and Miners; Royal Bengal Fusiliers; Governor-General's Bodyguard; 2nd, 12th, 14th, 16th, 24th, 26th, 33rd, 42nd, 45th, 47th, 48th, 54th, and 73rd Regiments Native Infantry.

ALIWAL, January 28th, 1846.—British: 16th Lancers; 31st, 50th, and 53rd Foot. Native: 3rd Skinner's Horse; 1st and 2nd Goorkhas; 7th and 13th Bengal Infantry.

SOBRAON, February 10th, 1846.—British: 3rd Light Dragoons; 9th and 16th Lancers; 9th, 10th, 29th, 31st, 50th, 53rd, 62nd, and 80th Foot. Native: 2nd and 8th Bengal Irregular Cavalry; 1st Bengal Europeans; 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 26th Bengal Native Infantry; and 1st and 2nd Goorkhas.

For the war in 1848-9, which ended in the annexation of the Punjab, a silver medal, 1.4 in. diameter, was struck and issued to the troops. The General Order notifying the distribution is dated Ferozepore, April 2nd, 1849. Three bars were issued with this medal, namely, Mooltan, Chilianwala, Goojerat, and were given according as the individual had been in one, or more actions. The bars and clasp are of the same design as those on the foregoing medal. Two was the greatest number of bars given with any medal.

Punjab,
1848-9.

Upon the obverse, the medal has the usual diademed head of Her Majesty, surmounted by Victoria Regina. Upon the reverse, the Sikhs are represented laying down their arms to General Gilbert, who is on horseback. The British Army is drawn up in line in the background, with colours flying. Above is the legend, To the Army of the Punjab; and in the exergue, MDCCCXLIX. The recipient's name and regiment were indented on the edge in capital letters. The ribbon was dark blue with yellow edges, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The medals of the 24th Regiment for Chilianwala are scarce, as they lost 497 men in the engagement. The medal was also issued without a bar to the men of the Indian flotilla, and a few of them received the bar for Mooltan.

The following is a list of medals and bars :

MEDAL :

To the army and navy.

ONE BAR :

Mooltan, to the army and navy.

Chilianwala.

Goojerat.

TWO BARS :

Mooltan, Goojerat.

Chilianwala, Goojerat.

The authorised arrangement of the bars was to be Mooltan nearest to the medal, then Goojerat; or Chilianwala nearest to the medal, then Goojerat; but owing to the bars having in many instances been fixed by natives who could not read English, the order is frequently found reversed. The regiments engaged were :

MOOLTAN, December 27th, 1848, to January 21st, 1849.—British: 10th, 32nd, and 60th Foot; Naval Brigade of 100 men. Native: Royal Bombay Fusiliers; 5th Bengal Cavalry; 1st and 2nd Scinde Horse; 3rd, 4th, 9th, and 19th Bombay Infantry; and Bengal and Bombay Sappers and Miners.

CHILIANWALA, January 13th, 1849.—British: 3rd, 9th and 14th Light Dragoons; 24th, 29th, and 61st Foot. Native: Bengal Fusiliers; 2nd and 11th Bengal Native Infantry.

GOOJERAT, February 21st, 1849.—British: 3rd, 9th, and 14th Light Dragoons; 10th, 24th, 29th, 32nd, 53rd, 60th, and 61st Foot. Native: 1st, 5th, 6th, and 8th Bengal Light Cavalry; 3rd, 9th, 11th, and 14th Irregular Cavalry; Scinde Horse; nine troops Horse Artillery; four field batteries Bombay Artillery; 1st and 2nd Bengal Europeans; 1st Bombay Europeans; 2nd and 11th Bengal Infantry; and 19th Bombay Infantry.

Originally it was intended only to issue bars for Mooltan and Goojerat; but a subsequent Order, dated February 20th, 1850, sanctioned the issue of one for Chilianwala. Exclusive of those issued to the British regiments, 52,297 medals without bars, 16,067 with bar for Mooltan, 16,153 with bar for Chilianwala, and 26,760 with bar for Goojerat were given to native troops.

Lieutenant H. B. Edwardes was presented by the Honourable East India Company with a gold medal for his distinguished services in this campaign. The obverse bears a head of the Queen, superscribed Victoria Regina. On the reverse, Victory and Valour are resting on a lotus-flower crowning the arms of Lieutenant Edwardes; beneath is the infant Hercules strangling the serpents, in allusion to the youth of the recipient; and within the border is inscribed: From the East India Co. to Lieutenant and Brevet-Major H. B. Edwardes, C.B., for his services in the Punjab, A.D. MCCCCXLVIII.

On March 1st, 1869, a medal was authorised to be issued to the army and navy for services against the Maoris in the years 1845-7. The obverse has a diademed head of the Queen, with a veil covering the back of head and neck; above is the legend, Victoria D.G. Britt. Reg. F.D. Reverse: A laurel-wreath, within which the dates of service of the recipient are inscribed; the words New Zealand above, and Virtutis Honor below. The medal is 1.4in. diameter, and has an ornamental silver clasp for suspension. The ribbon is 1½in. wide, dark blue with a broad red stripe down the centre. The recipient's name and regiment, or ship, are indented on the edge of the medal. The force was composed of:

58th, 65th, 96th, and 99th Regiments, and the crews of the following ships: H.M.S. "Castor," "Calliope," "Driver," "Elphinstone," "Hazard," "Inflexible," "North Star," "Osprey," and "Racehorse."

As previously mentioned, the medal for the Peninsular War was not sanctioned until June 1st, 1847. The General Order states that—

Her Majesty having been pleased to command that a medal should be struck to record the services of her fleets and armies during the wars commencing 1793, and ending in 1814, and that one should be conferred upon every officer, non-commissioned officer, and soldier, of the army who was in any battle or siege, to commemorate which, medals have been struck by command of Her Majesty's Royal predecessors, and have been distributed to the general or superior officers of the several armies and corps of troops engaged, in conformity with the regulations of the army at that time in force—etc., etc.

The Duke of Wellington was much averse to the grant of a medal for the Peninsula War, and he strongly opposed it in a discussion in the House of Lords on July 21st, 1845. Five years previously he had refused to present a petition to the King to grant a medal for services in the Peninsula when requested to do so by the surviving officers. The Duke of Richmond was mainly responsible for the medal being granted.

The following are the actions or sieges mentioned in the Order for which bars were given :

| 13. Albuera, May 11th, 1811. | 28. On Feb. 12th, 1850, a bar was granted for Egypt , 1801, "to those who were still alive." |
| 14. Java, Aug. to Sept. 18th, 1811. | |
| 15. Ciudad Rodrigo, Jan. 19th, 1812. | |

Twenty-eight bars in all were authorised—Nos. 7 and 9 for services in the West Indies; and 18, 19, and 20 for services in North America. It will be noticed that although the Order mentions that the medal is to cover services in 1793, no bars were given for military services before 1801, and none between that date and 1806. The bars are $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. long and $\frac{1}{8}$ in. wide, and bear the name of the battle in raised letters. They are fixed $\frac{1}{8\frac{1}{2}}$ in. apart in most cases, but some medals have them $\frac{3}{8\frac{1}{2}}$ in. apart. They are fastened together, in sets of three, by means of small rivets, on medals having six, nine, twelve, &c., bars. No rivets are used on medals having two and three bars. They are attached to the medal by a straight clasp and swivel.

The medal was issued in 1848, and there were 19,000 claimants for it. For the Maida bar there were 500 applicants.

For the bar for Fort Detroit the following sent in claims: Fifty-two men of the 41st Foot, five men of the Royal Artillery, one man of the 49th Foot (who also got the bar for Chrystler's Farm), the Canadian Militia, and some Indians.

For the Chateauguay bar, only three men of the Royal Artillery are mentioned in the War Office Medal Rolls as having sent in claims. It was also given to the Canadian Fencible Militia, Third Battalion Embodied Militia, the Chateauguay Chasseurs, and a few Indian warriors.

It is recorded in the War Office lists that only four men of the Royal Artillery claimed the bar for Chrystler's Farm, besides forty-four men of the 49th Foot and seventy-nine men of the 89th Foot. Several of the Canadian Militia and a few Indian warriors also received it.

Those who were present at both battles received a single bar, inscribed Sahagun & Benevente. The bars were arranged in accordance with the services of the recipient, the first battle being always placed nearest to the medal. The number of bars on each medal ranges from one to fifteen. No medals were issued without bars, and only two were given with fifteen. The medal and bars were also given to the survivors of the German troops who served during the war.

On the obverse is a diademed head of the Queen, with the date of issue—1848—below; and above the legend, Victoria Regina. Reverse: Upon a daïs the Queen, robed and crowned, stands, placing a laurel-wreath upon the head of the Duke of Wellington, who kneels before her. By the side of the daïs is the British lion couchant; above is the legend, To The British Army, and in the exergue the date, 1793-1814. The recipient's name and regiment are indented on the edge in capital letters. The ribbon is crimson with blue edges, 1½ in. wide. The medal is silver, 1.4 in. diameter, and was subsequently known as the "Military General Service Medal."

An Admiralty Order, dated June 1st, 1847, announced the grant of a corresponding medal to the Navy, which was subsequently known as the "Navy General Service Medal." The Order confined the grant to those services, commencing in 1793 and ending in 1815, for which superior officers had received a gold medal (see page 23), but by an Order issued on June 7th, 1848, it was amended, and the grant was extended to include :

Navy
General Service
Medal,
1793-1840.

1. Services in ships or boats for which an officer received promotion.
2. Services in co-operation with the Army for which a medal was awarded.
3. Certain distinguished services up to the year 1840 inclusive.

A bar for Egypt, 1801, was, as in the case of the Military General Service Medal, added by an Order, dated February 11th, 1850.

The obverse of this medal is the same as that of the Military Medal; but the reverse has Britannia seated on a sea-horse, holding a trident in her right hand and an olive-branch in her left. The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter. The ribbon is white with dark blue edges, 1½in. wide, and the recipient's name only is indented on the edge, in capital letters; but in the case of officers and warrant-officers the rank is also given.

There were 230 different bars authorised, and, like the foregoing, the first action was on the bar nearest to the medal. The bars bear either the name of an action, or the name of the ship capturing or defeating an enemy's ship. Bars were also issued for boat actions, and bear the words Boat Service, and the date. They are of exactly the same design, and are fastened together, and to the medal, in the same manner as those on the Military General Service Medal. 20,900 medals and bars were distributed, and over 3082 additional bars where the medal was awarded for more than one action. Seven was the greatest number of bars issued with any one medal, and this number was earned by two officers: Captain J. A. Gordon (who also received a gold medal for Lissa) and Lieutenant John Hindmarsh. Four medals had six bars, and fourteen had five. In one case the six bars were all earned in the same ship, H.M.S. "Phæbe." The list commencing page 79 gives the actions for which bars were struck, the names and dates in italics being those on the bars. The figures in brackets give the number of each bar that was issued, as far as can be ascertained. These numbers are not official, but have been compiled with great care. They are based on the claims entered on the Admiralty Roll, from which those disallowed for various causes, or which are repeated, have been deducted; and others added which are known to have been issued, and which can be verified from authentic sources. The inscriptions on the bars, as given in the list, do not in all cases represent the actual wording, as in most cases the "th" is omitted after the day of the month; and "wh" is generally used as a contraction for "with." Four of the bars are wrongly dated: those for "17th June, 1809," should be "17th April, 1809"; "24th April, 1810," should be "20th April, 1810"; "Royalist, May and June, 1810," should be "Royalist, May, 1809, to February, 1810"; and "Malaga, 29th April, 1812," should read "Malaga, 29th May, 1812." Lieut. S. Cosby, of the 63rd Regiment, received the medal and bar "Pompée, 17th June, 1809," the only medal issued with this bar alone; and forty other military officers, besides men, who served as marines, received the medal with other bars. (See Appendix.)

It is interesting to know that on the roll of awards for "June 1st, 1794," of H.M.S. "Tremendous," "Daniel Tremendous McKenzie," rating, "Baby," was awarded the medal and bar! Also that "Jane Townshend," of H.M.S. "Defiance," claimed and was awarded the medal and bar for "Trafalgar," as "the Gazette directs that all who were present in this action should have a medal, without any restrictions as to sex," but "upon further consideration this cannot be allowed" (noted in his own handwriting on the Admiralty Rolls by Sir T. B. Martin, one of the Committee). "A passenger" on H.M.S. "Venerable" received the medal and bar for January 16th, 1814.

The bar for "July 25th, 1809," was given for two different actions on the same date, for one of which there were no claims. It is doubtful if a bar was issued for "Growler." A medal issued to a man who served in the ship is in Lord Cheylesmore's collection, and has a bar for "Northumberland."

The various combinations of the bars are so numerous that it is impossible to specify them here.

On April 14th, 1851, the Governor-General of India announced that the Queen had been graciously pleased to assent to the proposition of the Court of Directors of the East India Company, that a medal

East India
Co.'s General Service
Medal,

be struck and issued to the troops who took part in the following campaigns, battles, and sieges, from 1799-1826. It was also granted to such officers and men of the Royal Navy, and the Company's Marine, as took part in the Burmese War of 1824-6. The suggestion that a medal should be issued to the survivors of the old Indian Army for services rendered was undoubtedly due to the decision to give a medal to the survivors of the troops and sailors who fought in the Peninsula and early nāval engagements. It was held as invidious that a distinction should be made in the case of the Indian veterans, and their request was rightly granted.

The following are the actions commemorated by bars issued with the medal, which commence in 1803, although the medal was intended to commemorate services from 1799. The British and some of the native regiments which took part in the various actions are also given :

Storming of Allighur, September 4th, 1803. British regiments : 27th Light Dragoons and 76th Foot.

Battle of Delhi, September 11th, 1803. British regiments : 27th and 29th Dragoons and 76th Foot. Native : 6th Light Cavalry.

Battle of Assaye, September 23rd, 1803. British regiments : 19th Light Dragoons ; 74th and 78th Foot.

Siege of Asseerghur, October 21st, 1803. British regiment : 94th Foot.

Battle of Laswarree, November 1st, 1803. British regiments : 8th, 27th, and 29th Light Dragoons and 76th Foot. Native : 21st, 31st and 33rd Bengal Native Infantry, and 6th Light Cavalry.

Battle of Argaum, November 26th, 1803. British regiments : 19th Light Dragoons ; 74th, 78th, and 94th Foot.

Siege and Storm of Gawilghur, December 15th, 1803. British regiments : 74th, 78th, and 94th Foot.

Defence of Delhi, October, 1804. British regiments : None.

Battle of Deig, November 13th, 1804. British regiments : 76th Foot. Native : 101st Fusiliers and 2nd Bengal Native Infantry.

Capture of Deig, December 23rd, 1804. British regiments: 8th and 29th Light Dragoons; 22nd and 76th Foot. Native: 1st European Regiment, 8th Native Infantry, and 6th Light Cavalry.

War in Nepaul, 1816. British regiments: 8th Light Dragoons; 14th, 17th, 24th, 26th, 66th, and 87th Foot. Native: 20th and 25th Native Infantry.

Battle of Kirkee, November, 1817. British regiments: None. Native: Bombay Fusiliers; 2nd, 6th, 7th, 12th, 13th, and 23rd Bombay Native Infantry.

Battle and Capture of Poona, November, 1817. British regiment: 65th Foot. Native: 2nd Grenadier Regiment Native Infantry.

Battles of Kirkee and Poona, November, 1817.

Battle of Seetabuldee, November and December, 1817. British regiment: Eight Companies 2nd Battalion 1st Foot, but no bar was given to them for this battle.

Battle and Capture of Nagpore, November and December, 1817. British regiment: 1st Foot. Native: 1st, 2nd, 17th, 21st, 23rd, 26th, 28th, and 39th Madras Native Infantry, and 6th Light Cavalry.

Battles of Seetabuldee and Nagpore, November and December, 1817. British and Native regiments, see above.

Battle of Maheidpoor, December 21st, 1817. British regiments: 22nd Light Dragoons and 1st Foot. Native: 3rd and 4th Madras Light Cavalry; 1st Madras Fusiliers; 3rd, 14th, 27th, 28th, and 31st Madras Infantry.

Defence of Corygaum, January 1st, 1818. British regiments: None. Native: 2nd Bombay Native Infantry and 2nd Poona Horse.

War in Ava, 1824-6. See First Burmese War, page 56.

Siege and Storming of Bhurtpoor, January, 1826. British regiments: 11th Light Dragoons; 16th Lancers; 14th and 59th Foot. Native: 1st Bengal Cavalry; Bengal Fusiliers; 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 66th Bengal Infantry; the Sirmoor Rifle Regiment; and the 6th Light Cavalry.

The wars in Nepaul and Ava are the only services for which a medal had been issued previously (see pp. 40 and 56), and those who had received either of the earlier medals did not get this one.

The following are some of the combinations of bars issued, which were arranged to read from the top downwards to the medal, i.e., the most recent action commemorated by a bar is placed nearest the medal:

There is a great variety of combinations of these bars; but the greatest number known to the author on one medal is seven, which was awarded to Sergt. W. Colston, as a drummer in a native regiment. The Duke of Wellington received the medal with three bars—Assaye, Argaum, Gawilghur. No medals were issued without bars.

By a General Order dated November 22nd, 1854, Her Majesty granted a medal to commemorate the wars against the Kaffirs, in South Africa, in the years 1834-5, 1846-7, and from December 24th, 1850, to February 6th, 1853. The medal was the same in all cases, and the only way to distinguish for which campaign it was granted is by the number of the regiment indented on the edge of the medal. The British regiments engaged were:

In 1834-5: 27th, 72nd, and 75th Foot. In 1846-7: 7th Dragoon Guards; 6th, 27th, 45th, 73rd, 90th, and 91st Foot; and the Rifle Brigade. In 1850-3: 12th Lancers; 2nd, 6th, 12th,

South Africa,
1834-53.

and 43rd Foot; Royal Marines; 2nd Battalion 60th; 73rd, 74th, and 91st Foot; and the 1st Battalion Rifle Brigade. The Cape Mounted Rifles and the men of the Naval Brigade also did good service. The crews of the following ships received the medal: H.M.S. "Castor," "Dee," "Hermes," "Rhadamanthus," and "Styx."

The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter, and has on the obverse the head of Queen Victoria, with the legend, Victoria Regina, above. On the reverse, the British Lion is stooping to drink under a mimosa bush, the words South Africa above, and the date, 1853, in the exergue. The recipient's name and regiment or naval rating are indented on the edge in capital letters. The ribbon is orange with two broad and two narrow stripes of dark blue, 1½in. wide. No bars were issued with this medal.

On January 23rd, 1854, the Queen authorised the issue of a medal "for the purpose of commemorating the services rendered during the operations against the Burmese in 1852-3." This medal has since been known as the "India General Service Medal, 1854," and was subsequently used as a reward for the incessant campaigns in India against the native tribes. The suggestion of a General Service Medal to which bars should be added for subsequent campaigns originated with the then Governor-General, Lord Dalhousie, the idea being to limit the issue of medals, which had recently become numerous. Twenty-three different bars were added to it from time to time, as follows:

Burma,
1852-3.

India
General Service
Medal,
1854.

Pegu.	Naga, 1879-80.	N.E. Frontier, 1891.
Persia.	Burma, 1885-7.	Hunza, 1891.
North-West Frontier	Sikkim, 1888.	Burma, 1889-92.
Umbeyla.	Hazara, 1888.	Lushai, 1889-92.
Bhootan.	Burma, 1887-9.	Waziristan, 1894-5.
Looshai.	Chin-Lushai, 1889-90.	Chin-Hills, 1892-93.
Perak.	Samana, 1891.	Kachin-Hills,
Jowaki, 1877-8.	Hazara, 1891.	1892-93.

In cases where the medal and bar had already been given, a bar was added for subsequent campaigns, instead of granting another medal. This rule seems to have been broken occasionally, probably through oversight, as, since the issue of the medal and bar for Perak, instances occur of men having two of the medals, with bars for different campaigns. When fresh bars were added the most recent action commemorated was placed nearest to the medal, the new bar being furnished with ears for attaching to those on the lower side of that previously issued, except in the case of Pegu, which is retained on the medal.

The bars and clasp are similar in design to those issued originally with the Sutelej medal, but the bars are $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. long, excepting that for Pegu, which is $1\frac{3}{8}$ in.

The following British regiments took part in the action in Burma for which this medal was first granted, with a bar inscribed Pegu:

Pegu,
1852-3.

18th, 51st, and 80th; and also the men of the Naval Brigade from the following ships: H.M.S. "Bittern," "Cleopatra," "Contest," "Fox," "Hastings," "Hermes," "Rattler," "Salamander," "Spartan," "Sphinx," "Winchester," "Styx," and "Serpent."

The medal has on the obverse the diademed head of the Queen; above is the legend, Victoria Regina. The reverse has a figure of Victory crowning a warrior with a laurel-wreath. The warrior is seated, with a Roman helmet on the ground at his side; in his right hand he holds a short Roman sword and in his left hand the sheath; in the exergue is a lotus-flower. It is silver, 1.4 in. diameter. The ribbon is crimson, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with two dark blue stripes $\frac{1}{8}$ in. from the edge. The name and regiment, or ship, of the recipient are indented in small capital letters on the edge of the medal. From the Perak War downwards the names, &c., have been engraved, either in capitals or in Italian running-hand.

The combinations of these bars are numerous, but they chiefly occur on the medals of the Native Indian troops and their European officers. The greatest number on one medal is seven, and this only in one instance. The combination is as follows: Hunza, 1891; Samana, 1891; Hazara, 1888; Burma, 1885-7; Jowaki, 1877-8; North-West Frontier; Umbeyla. This medal is worn by the Subadar-Major of No. 4 Battery Punjab Frontier Force, and he also has the Afghan and Mutiny medals. Sir Wm. Lockhart, K.C.B., has the medal with six bars.

We now come to the medals issued by our own and foreign Governments for the Crimean War in 1854-6. The same medal was awarded to the army and navy, and differed only in the bars issued, although most of them were awarded to both Services. The original Order for the issue of the medal was dated December, 1854, and only two bars were authorised, namely, those for the battles of Alma and Inkermann. In February, 1855, a bar for the action at Balaklava was sanctioned, and, in October of the same year, one for Sebastopol, to all those soldiers who had been present at the operations between October 1st, 1854, and September 9th, 1855. Two dies were made for the former, one being inscribed "Balaclava" and the other "Balaklava."

The medal has on the obverse the same effigy of Her Majesty as was on the Peninsula Medal, with the legend, Victoria Regina above, and the date, 1854, in the exergue. On the reverse, a flying figure of Victory is crowning a Roman warrior with a wreath; the word Crimea is inscribed vertically on the left of the figure. The warrior carries a sheathed sword in his right hand, and on his left arm is a round shield on which is shown the British Lion. The medal is by W. Wyon, and is of silver, 1.4in. diameter. The bars are very ornamental, and are in the form of an oak-leaf, ornamented with acorns, with the name of the victory which they commemorate in raised letters in the centre. The clasp for suspension is designed to match the bars, and is peculiar to this medal. The ribbon is light blue, 1½in. wide, with light yellow edges. The name and regiment of the recipient are either indented, or engraved, on the edge of the medal, all having been originally issued with plain edges. All the inscriptions, in small, square, indented capitals, were put on by Messrs. Hunt and Roskell, of London, with the same letters as were used for naming the Military, and Navy General Service medals. It is mentioned in the late Queen's diary that the soldiers to whom she presented the first medals in Hyde Park were unwilling to part with them afterwards to have their names put on, for fear of not having the identical medal returned to them.

Four was the greatest number of bars issued with one medal: namely, Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann, and Sebastopol. A special bar for Azoff was issued to the navy. Medals given to light cavalry regiments, with bars for Balaklava, are most prized by collectors on account of the celebrated charge at that battle. The regiments which formed the "Light Brigade" were the 17th Lancers and the 13th Light Dragoons, in the first line; and the 11th Hussars, 4th Light Dragoons, and the 8th Hussars, in the second line.

Many medals were issued without the bars attached, so that much confusion exists in their arrangement. It is stated that many men received bars for battles at which they were not present, owing to the lax way in which they were issued. The following is a list of the various combinations of bars, reading upwards from the medal :

The Marines received bars for Inkermann, Balaklava, and Sebastopol. The medal was also given to some of the French troops engaged in the campaign, and was much prized by them.

Every man who was present at Alma and Inkermann, or at Inkermann or Balaklava, or at both—in short, everyone who was in the Crimea between October 1st, 1854, and September 9th, 1855—was granted the bar for Sebastopol, excepting certain non-combatants, who were awarded the medal without bar. Some medals were distributed before the General Order granting the Sebastopol bar was issued, and it was in most cases subsequently added. No doubt many men entitled to the bar, and who had left the Service, and also the relatives of men who had died meanwhile, did not send the medals for alteration, and this may account for many undoubtedly genuine medals being without the Sebastopol bar, although the intention was that all the medals with bars for Inkermann and Balaklava should have it.

Medals with the bar for Balaklava, or with bars for Alma, Inkermann; Balaklava, Inkermann; Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann, although not in accordance with the intention of the General Order of October 31st, 1855, are undoubtedly genuine, although imperfect. They are, nevertheless, in the author's opinion, quite worthy of a place in the collector's cabinet.

The naval medals were also issued with plain edges, the names of the recipients and of their ships being engraved on the edge, in most cases at the owner's expense.

The following regiments were engaged :

1st, 4th, 5th, and 6th Dragoon Guards; 1st, 2nd, and 6th Dragoons; 4th and 13th Light Dragoons; 8th, 10th, and 11th Hussars; 12th and 17th Lancers; Royal Horse Artillery; Royal Field Artillery; Royal Engineers; Land Transport Corps and Ambulance Corps; 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards; 1st Battalion Coldstream Guards; and Scots Fusilier Guards; 1st and 2nd Battalions 1st Foot; 1st Battalion 3rd Foot; 1st Battalion 4th Foot; 7th, 9th, 13th, 14th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 23rd, 28th, 30th, 31st, 33rd, 34th, 38th, 39th, 41st, 42nd, 44th, 46th, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 55th, 56th, 57th, 62nd, 63rd, 68th, 71st, 72nd, 77th, 79th, 82nd, 88th, 89th, 90th, 93rd, 95th, and 97th Foot; and 1st and 2nd Battalions Rifle Brigade.

The following troops were present at the three principal battles :

ALMA, September 20th, 1854.—4th and 13th Light Dragoons; 8th and 11th Hussars; 17th Lancers; Grenadier, Coldstream, and Scots Fusilier Guards; 1st, 4th, 7th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 23rd, 28th, 30th, 33rd, 38th, 41st, 42nd, 44th, 46th, 47th, 49th, 50th, 55th, 63rd, 68th, 77th, 79th, 88th, 93rd, and 95th Foot.

BALAKLAVA, October 25th, 1854.—4th and 5th Dragoon Guards; 1st, 2nd, and 6th Dragoons; 4th, 8th, 11th, and 13th Light Dragoons; 17th Lancers; and the 93rd Highlanders.

INKERMANN, November 5th, 1854.—4th, 8th, 11th, and 13th Hussars; 17th Lancers; the three regiments of Foot Guards; 1st, 4th, 7th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 23rd, 28th, 30th, 33rd, 38th, 41st, 47th, 49th, 50th, 55th, 57th, 63rd, 68th, 77th, 88th, and 95th Foot; two batteries Royal Horse Artillery, and two Royal Artillery Field Batteries.

Two companies of the 46th Foot were present at Alma and Inkermann; six officers and 225 men got the bar for Alma, and six officers and 201 men received in addition that for Inkermann. These medals are consequently rather scarce.

Baltic
Medal,
1854-5.

A special medal was issued to seamen and marines who served with the Fleet in the Baltic. On the obverse is a similar head of the Queen to that on the last-described medal, but without the date below. On the reverse is a figure of Britannia seated on a rock, and holding in her right hand a trident; by her side is a naval cannon and a pile of cannon-balls; she is looking towards the fortress of Bomarsund, and in the distance is Fort Sveaborg; above is the word Baltic; and in the exergue the date, 1854-1855. The ribbon is yellow with blue edges, 1¼ in. wide. No bars were given with the medal, which is silver, 1.4 in. diameter, with a swivel and scroll clasp for suspension, similar to that instituted for the Sutlej Medal.

This medal was intended for the navy only, but two officers and ninety men of the Sappers and Miners, who served on board the flagship, received it, with their names and regiments indented on the edge.

The Sultan of Turkey issued a medal to the English, French, and Sardinian soldiers and sailors engaged in the war. On the obverse is a field-piece, over which is spread a map of the Crimea. The cannon is standing upon the Russian flag, and a mortar and anchor are alongside; behind are grouped the English, French, Sardinian, and Turkish flags; and in the exergue of the medal designed for the English troops is the word Crimea, and the date, 1855. The reverse has the Sultan's cypher, inclosed in a laurel-wreath; the word Crimea, in Turkish characters, is below, and the date of the Hegira, 1271.

Medal

Crimea.

The obverse of the medals differs in the arrangement of the flags, according to the nation for which the medal was intended. On the English medal, the flags of Great Britain and Turkey are in front, with those of France and Sardinia in the rear. The French medal has the flags of France and Turkey in front, with the Sardinian and English behind; in the exergue are the words, La Crimée 1855. The Sardinian medal has the national flag, with that of Turkey, to the fore, with those of France and England in the rear; below, La Crimea 1855. Owing to the wreck of the ship conveying the majority of the English medals the others were issued indiscriminately to the troops, without regard to nationality, consequently many English soldiers and sailors received the French or Sardinian medal instead of the one originally intended for them. They were issued without names or regiments on them, and were worn with a crimson watered-silk ribbon with bright green edges. The original ribbon was only $\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide.

These medals were somewhat roughly executed, and a die was made in England similar in design, but better finished, and medals struck from it were distributed to officers in place of those issued by the Turkish Government.

The Turkish General Service Medal (not struck specially for Crimean services) was awarded by the Sultan to Colonel Simmons and sixteen men of the 10th Company Royal Engineers, and also to the officers and thirty men of the crew of a gunboat, for services on the Danube. The obverse has the Sultan's cypher within a circle, on either side of which are flags and laurel-branches, surmounted by a crescent and star. The reverse has a large elliptical star of twelve points, in the centre of which is a smaller one of six points. Below is a scroll, with a small star at each end, and underneath is another star, surrounded by olive-branches. Upon the scroll is the Persian inscription: Mischani Iftikhar (the decoration, or mark of honour, or glory). The ribbon is the same as that for the previous medal.

The medals given to the late Colonel (afterwards Field-Marshal Sir John Lintorn) Simmons and to Commander H. Carr-Glyn, R.N., and other officers, were of gold; the others of silver. All were, however, of the same size and design. Very few Turkish officers received the medal in gold, as it was found to be too expensive, and after the issue to the British officers it was stopped.

Medals—seven in all—were awarded to British officers in command of Turkish troops, for the defence of Silistria. One was given, in gold, to the late Sir J. L. Simmons, the remaining six officers receiving silver medals. On the obverse is the Sultan's cypher, within a wreath of laurel and oak. On the reverse is a representation of the city of Silistria; and below, the date of the Hegira, 1271 (1854). The ribbon was crimson, with green edges.

A silver medal for the Defence of Kars was given to Sir Fenwick Williams, and the officers under him; also to an artillery soldier-servant. The obverse was exactly the same as that of the previous medal, but the reverse had a view of the city of Kars, and below, the year of the Hegira, 1272 (1855). The ribbon was the same as for the foregoing medal.

Owing to the small number of medals issued, the last three are very rare, if given to British soldiers.

The King of Sardinia conferred a medal for services in the Crimea upon 400 selected officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the army, and fifty sailors and marines. The obverse has the arms of Savoy, surmounted by the crown of Sardinia and surrounded by a wreath of palm, and olive-branches. Above is the legend, Al valore militare. On the reverse is a laurel-wreath, within which are engraved the recipient's name and regiment. Around the wreath are the words, Spedizione d'Oriente, 1855-1856. The ribbon is dark blue watered-silk, and the medal was fitted with a loop for suspension. A list of the recipients is given in the Appendix.

The Decoration of the French Imperial Order of the Legion of Honour was given by the Emperor Napoleon III. to a number of officers and men of the army and navy who had distinguished themselves during the Crimean War.

Legion of Honour.

There were five classes of the cross distributed, according to the rank of the recipients. The majority received the fifth class, which consists of a silver star of ten points, covered on both sides with white enamel, fixed upon an enamelled green laurel-wreath. The centre is silver-gilt, and has a head of the Emperor Napoleon I., surrounded by a blue enamelled band, inscribed, in gold letters, Napoléon Emp. des Français. The centre of the reverse is also silver-gilt, and has the French Imperial eagle, surrounded by a blue enamelled band, bearing the legend, in gold letters, Honneur et Patrie. A large silver imperial crown and ring are attached for suspension. The ribbon is of crimson watered-silk. The other classes are of the same design, but are made of gold instead of silver, and vary in size.

Another medal was given by the French Emperor to 500 non-commissioned officers and men of the army for distinguished gallantry. Only two officers received it; namely, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge and Sir William Codrington. The latter was presented by Marshal Pelissier with his own medal. A list of the recipients is given in the Appendix.

The medal is silver-gilt, and consists of a laurel wreath, in the centre of which is a bust of the Emperor Napoleon III., surrounded by a blue enamelled circle, inscribed, in gilt letters, Louis Napoléon. On the reverse, within a blue enamelled circle, are the words Valeur et discipline; the whole is surmounted by the French imperial eagle, with outspread wings; and a ring is fitted for suspension. The medal is worn with a wide, watered-silk orange ribbon with green edges. The recipient's name was engraved in italics in the exergue of the reverse.

The Sultan of Turkey awarded the Order of the Medjidie to upwards of a thousand officers of the British army and navy, for services in the Crimea.

Order of the Medjidie.

Five classes of this Order were issued, according to the rank of the recipient. It consists of a silver star of seven points, between which are seven small crescents and stars of five points.

The fifth class has a silver convex centre, encircled by a gold band enamelled crimson. The band is inscribed, in Turkish, with the words, Zeal, Devotion, Fidelity, 1268 (1852—the date of the institution of the Order). A gold crescent and star, enamelled crimson, forms the suspender. The reverse is plain, and the ribbon is crimson with green edges.

The first, second, third, and fourth classes are of the same design, but are larger, and have gold centres instead of silver. The first, second, and third are worn with a ribbon round the neck instead of on the left breast like the fourth and lowest classes.

The first and second classes have in addition a star of similar design, which is worn on the left, and right sides respectively.

This decoration was also given to a number of officers above the rank of captain, for services in the Egyptian War of 1882 and the subsequent Soudan expeditions.

The next medal issued by our Government was that for the war in Persia in 1856-7. It was authorised by a General Order, dated April 12th, 1858. The India General Service Medal of 1854 was used, as instituted for the second war in Burma, but with the word Persia on the bar. It was also given to the crews of the ships of the Indian marine.

Persia,
1856-7.

14th Light Dragoons; 64th and 78th Foot. INDIAN: 3rd Bombay Cavalry; Poona Horse; 1st Scinde Horse; 2nd Bombay Europeans; Bombay Sappers and Miners; 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 8th, 11th, 15th, 20th, 22nd, 23rd, 25th, 26th, 28th, and 29th Bombay Infantry.

We now come to the medal given for services during the Indian Mutiny (1857-8). It was granted by a General Order, dated August 18th, 1858. There were five bars issued, namely :

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. Delhi , 30th May to 14th September, 1857. | 3. Relief of Lucknow , November, 1857. |
| 2. Defence of Lucknow , 29th June to 25th September, 1857. | 4. Lucknow , 2nd to 21st March, 1858. |
| | 5. Central India , January to June, 1858. |

They were $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. long by $\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide at the ends, and reduced to $\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide in the middle. The ends are "fish-tailed," and the letters are in raised capitals. The bars are attached to the medal by an ornamental curved clasp and swivel.

Four was the greatest number of bars issued on one medal, mainly to the 1st Bengal Artillery, and three bars were given only to the 9th Lancers and Bengal Horse Artillery.

The medal is silver, 1.4 in. diameter, and has on the obverse the diademed head of the Queen, surmounted by Victoria Regina. On the reverse is a figure of Britannia standing, holding a wreath in her outstretched right hand; on her left arm is an oval shield with the crosses of the Union on it; behind her stands the British lion; the word India is above, and the date, 1857-1858, in the exergue. The ribbon is scarlet and white in alternate stripes, two of scarlet and three of white, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The name and regiment, or ship, of the recipient, were indented in small capital letters on the edge of the medal.

The following is a list of the various combinations of bars issued with the medal, and is arranged with the bar for the first action commemorated farthest from the medal :

"Pearl" Brigade.*

The medals for the Defence of Lucknow awarded to the 32nd Foot, under Colonel Inglis, are most prized by collectors, on account of its heroic action.

This was the last medal given by the Honourable East India Company, which shortly afterwards ceased to exist.

The following British regiments received the medal :

7th Hussars, 9th Lancers, 8th Hussars, 12th Lancers, 14th Hussars; 5th, 8th, 10th, 13th, 23rd, 32nd, 34th, 38th, 42nd, 52nd, 53rd, 60th, 61st, 64th, 71st, 72nd, 75th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 82nd, 83rd, 84th, 86th, 88th, 90th, 93rd, 95th, 97th, 101st, 102nd, 104th, and 108th Foot; and the Rifle Brigade.

By a General Order, dated March 6th, 1861, Her Majesty granted a medal to the troops engaged in the war in China, 1857-60. The obverse of the medal is the same as that used for the first Chinese War (see page 59); and the reverse is similar, but with the date, 1842, left out of the exergue. The ribbon also is the same—crimson with yellow edges, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. When this medal was first issued the ribbon had five stripes; namely, blue, yellow, red, white, and green.

Five bars were issued with this medal to the army and navy—China 1842, to those who had been in the first war; Canton 1857, Taku Forts 1858, Taku Forts 1860, Pekin 1860; and Fatshan 1857, to the navy only. Only one medal was issued with five bars, and that to a gunner in the Royal Marine Artillery. It is now in Lord Cheylesmore's collection, and has bars for Fatshan 1857, Canton 1857, Taku Forts 1858, Taku Forts 1860, and Pekin 1860. The bars and clasp are of the same design as those issued with the Mutiny Medal, and are fastened together by small rivets.

The naval medals were all issued without the names of the recipients on the edge, but the army received them with the names and regiments indented in small capital letters.

The medal with two bars for Pekin 1860 and Taku Forts 1860 given to the 1st Dragoon Guards is rare, as only two squadrons of this regiment were present. The following British regiments also took part in the campaigns :

Two squadrons 1st Dragoon Guards, 1st Batt. 3rd Foot, 1st, 2nd, 31st, 44th, 59th, 60th, 67th, and 99th Foot; Royal Artillery; and Sappers and Miners. There were also present the 11th and 19th Bengal Lancers, and the 20th and 23rd Bengal Infantry.

The combinations of bars issued were as follows, the bar for the earliest action being placed nearest the medal :

To the army and navy.

Another medal was designed to commemorate the war in 1842, but it was not issued, as it was thought it might give offence to the Chinese. A few proofs were struck which are occasionally met with. The obverse had the usual head of the Queen, surmounted by the legend, Victoria Regina. On the reverse was the British lion trampling upon the Chinese dragon; above the legend, Armis exposcere pacem; and in the exergue, Nanking, 1842. The ribbon was to have been the same as that for the above—crimson with yellow edges.

A Royal Warrant, dated July 1st, 1869, authorised the issue of a third bar with the India General Service Medal of 1854 (described on page 88), inscribed North-Western Frontier, for services from the year 1849 to 1863.

North-West
Frontier,
1849-63.

The following is a list of the expeditions for which the medal and bar were given. Vide General Order, No. 71, of 1869:

- Expedition to Eusufzye, November 30th, 1849. British regiments: 60th and 61st.
- Expedition to Kohat Pass, February 9th, 1850. British regiments: 60th, 61st, and 98th.
- Expedition against the Ootman Kheyl and Ranezai Tribes, May 11th, 1852. British regiments: 32nd Foot, and one battery Royal Horse Artillery.
- Expedition to Punjpoo, Ishakoti, and Deerjai, May 18th, 1852. British regiments: as above, and 53rd Foot.
- Expedition against the Hussanzaies and the Synds of Khajan, December, 1852; January, 1853. 22nd Foot, Guides, and 66th Goorkhas.
- Expedition against the Kusranees and Shearnees, March, 1853.
- Expedition against the Boree Afreedies, November 29th, 1853.
- Expedition to Shah Morseh Keyl against the Mohmund Tribe, August 31st, 1854.
- Expedition against the Aka Kheyl and Bussee Kheyl Tribes, March 27th, 1855.

- Expedition against the Meranzie Tribe, April 4th, 1855.
 Expedition to the Bozdar Hills, March 6th, 1857. British regiments; 81st and 98th.
 Expedition to the Sitana, April 22nd, 1858.
 Expedition against the Cabool Kheyl Wuzzeerees, December 15th, 1859.
 Expedition against the Mahsood Wuzzeers, April 14th, 1860.
 Expedition (second) to Eusufzye against the Hussanzaie Tribes in the Black Mountain, October 18th, 1863. (Bar for Umbeyla).
 Expedition against the Bazotees on the North-West Frontier of India, under General Wilde, 1868.
 Expeditions against the Mohmund Tribes, December 5th, 1863, to January 2nd, 1864. The European regiments that took part in this expedition, were three troops of the 7th Hussars; the 3rd Battalion Rifle Brigade; 79th Highlanders; and D Battery 5th Brigade Royal Horse Artillery; and various native corps.

The issue of a medal for the last expedition was authorised by General Order, No. 98, June 14th, 1884.

The medal, described on page 71, was also issued for services, in New Zealand from 1860 to 1866, by General Order, dated March 1st, 1869. It was granted to both Services, and the dates on the reverse correspond with the services of the recipient.

Owing to incompleteness in the returns many medals were issued without the dates of the recipients' services on the reverse.

The following is a complete list of the dates on the reverse :

The following British regiments were engaged in the various expeditions from 1860-1866 :

12th, 14th, 18th, 40th, 43rd, 50th, 57th, 65th, 68th, and 70th Foot; Royal Engineers; Royal Artillery; and Military Train.

H.M.S. Brisk, Cordelia, Curacoa, Eclipse, Esk, Falcon, Harrier, Himalaya, Iris, Miranda, Niger, Pelorus, and Victoria.

A General Order of July 1st, 1869, authorised another bar being issued with the India General Service Medal of 1854, inscribed Umbeyla; and a General Order of April 28th, 1870, granted one for Bhootan, for services in 1864-65-66, and for the Hazara Campaign of 1868.

The following troops took part in the campaign in Bhootan :

55th and 80th British Infantry; 5th and 14th Bengal Cavalry; 11th, 12th, 18th, 43rd, and 44th Bengal Infantry; 2nd Goorkhas; and 19th, 29th, and 30th Punjab Infantry.

In the Umbeyla Campaign (October to December, 1863), the troops engaged under Major-General Sir Neville Chamberlain were :

A squadron of Probyn's Horse; the Guides (infantry and cavalry); half a battery of Royal Artillery; a mountain mule-battery; 7th Fusiliers; 71st and 93rd Highlanders; 101st Fusiliers; 1st, 3rd, 5th, 6th, and 20th Punjab Infantry; 4th and 5th Goorkhas; a company of Native Sappers; 3rd and 14th Sikhs; and 23rd and 32nd Punjab Pioneers.

In 1860 a medal was granted by Pope Pius IX. to the Irish Brigade of Volunteers who served under Major O'Reilly against Garibaldi. Although not, strictly speaking, a medal given to British soldiers, still, as many of our countrymen received it, it is worthy of a place here. Permission to wear it was neither asked, nor obtained.

The medal is of an unusual type, and is made of German silver, plated. Instead of being a solid disc the centre is pierced. Around the outside of the obverse, in the legend: Pro Petri Sede. Pio IX. P. M. A. X. XV. On the reverse, Victoria quae vincit mundum fides nostra. In the centre is an inverted cross, resting upon the head of a serpent. The ribbon is crimson with two white stripes, with narrow yellow edges. The medal was issued without the names of the recipients on the edge, and has a clasp for suspension not unlike that issued with the Crimean Medal.

By a General Order, dated December, 1872, another bar, inscribed Looshai, was granted with the India General Service Medal of 1854 for the Looshai Expedition, from December, 1871, to February, 1872, under Generals Nuthall and Bouchier. No British troops were employed, and the medal and bar were only given to native troops and their European officers.

Looshai,
1872.

The troops engaged were :

One battery Peshawar Mountain Artillery; two companies Sappers and Miners; 2nd and 4th Goorkhas; 22nd and 27th Punjab Infantry; 42nd and 44th Assam Infantry; and 100 Police.

The next medal is that given for the Abyssinian War, from October 4th, 1867, to April 19th, 1868. It is smaller than, and entirely different in design from, those usually issued, being only $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. diameter. Another special feature about it is, that instead of the name and regiment or ship of the recipient being engraved or indented on the edge, they are stamped, in relief, in the centre of the reverse, except on the medals given to the Indian troops, which had the names, &c., engraved. It was awarded to the army and navy.

Abyssinia,

On the obverse is a crowned and veiled bust of Queen Victoria, similar to, though smaller than, that on the New Zealand Medal (see page 71), within a beaded circle. It is surrounded by a star of nine points, the inner angles of which each contain a letter, as follows: A. B. Y. S. S. I. N. I. A. On the reverse is a laurel-wreath, within which are the recipient's name and regiment, or ship, within a beaded circle. An imperial crown and a large silver ring for suspension surmount the medal. The ribbon is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, crimson, with broad white edges.

The following regiments received the medal :

British: 3rd Dragoon Guards; 4th, 26th, 33rd, and 45th Foot; Royal Artillery and Engineers; besides the Naval Brigade.

Native: Scinde Horse; 3rd Bombay Cavalry; 10th Bengal Lancers; 12th Bengal Cavalry; Bombay and Madras Sappers and Miners; 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 10th, 18th, 21st, 25th, and 27th Bombay Native Infantry.

Also the crews of the following ships :

H.M.S. Argus, Dryad, Daphne, Nymphe, Octavia, Satellite, Star, Spiteful, and Vigilant.

On June 1st, 1874, a medal was authorised for the war in Ashantee, from June 9th, 1873, to February 4th, 1874; and a bar for the Battle of Amoaful, inscribed Coomassie, was given to those present. It is $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. long by $\frac{3}{16}$ in. wide, with the word in raised capitals, and is attached to the medal by means of a straight clasp and swivel.

On the obverse of the medal, which is silver, 1.4 in diameter, is a head of Her Majesty, with a diadem and veil, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina.

The reverse is in high relief, and represents a skirmish in the bush between British infantry and a number of semi-nude Ashantees. This is one of the finest designs amongst our medals, and is the work of E. J. Poynter, P.R.A. The obverse is by Leonard Wyon. The recipient's name and regiment, or ship, and the date, 1873-74, are engraved on the edge of the medal, and filled in with black colouring matter. The ribbon is 1½ in. wide, yellow with black edges, and has two narrow black stripes down the centre.

The following regiments took part in the campaign :

23rd and 42nd Foot; 2nd Battalion Rifle Brigade; 2nd West India Regiment; about 150 men of the Royal Engineers; the Houssa Artillery; and the Naval Brigade of seamen and marines from the following ships: H.M.S. Active, Amethyst, Argus, Barracouta, Beacon, Bittern, Coquette, Decoy, Dromedary, Druid, Encounter, Himalaya, Merlin, Rattlesnake, Seagull, Simoon, Tamar, and Victor Emmanuel.

The number of medals issued to both Services, with and without the bar, was 11,000.

Another issue of the India General Service Medal, 1854, was authorised on September 1st, 1879, with a bar for Perak, for the campaign in 1875-6 (November 2nd to March 20th) against the Malays, and by General Order, No. 58, 1881, the grant was extended to the forces engaged against the same tribes from November 27th to December 10th, 1874. It was worn with the usual red and blue ribbon, and although the General Order stated that the bar should be Perak 1875-6, the date was omitted when the bar was issued.

Perak,
1875-6.

The troops taking part in the campaign were :

1st Battalion 3rd Foot, and detachments of the 10th and 80th Foot, the Naval Brigade, and Indian troops, with the Royal Artillery and Engineers.

The crews of H.M.S. Charybdis and Hart received the medal for the operations in 1874, and those of H.M.S. Egeria, Fly, Modeste, Philomel, Ringdove, and Thistle for services in 1876.

For the expedition against the Afridis, in 1877-8, an eighth bar was issued with the medal, by an Order dated March 1st, 1879. The bar was inscribed Jowaki, 1877-78. Only those troops who were engaged between November 9th, 1877, and January 19th, 1878, received the medal and bar.

Jowaki,
1877-78.

The troops employed in this expedition were :

9th and 51st Foot; 4th Battalion Rifle Brigade (two companies); 20th, 22nd, and 27th Punjab Native Infantry; 14th Sikhs; 17th Bengal Cavalry; two companies Royal Engineers; one battery each of Field and Horse Artillery.

The long series of wars in South Africa, from 1877 to 1881, was commemorated by medals and bars. The bars are of a novel design, as, instead of bearing the name of a victory, or of an expedition, they merely record the year of service covering all the operations in which the recipient was engaged. They are $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. long by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. wide, and are of similar design to those issued with the Sutlej medal, the date being in raised figures. The clasp is also similar. The medal is similar to the South African Medal for 1853 (see page 88); but instead of the date being in the exergue, there are a Zulu shield and four crossed assegais. The ribbon is the same: namely, orange with dark blue broad and narrow stripes, and the names and regiments of the recipients are engraved on the edges of the medal in capital letters.

South Africa,
1877-79.

The bars issued were as follows: 1877-8, 1878, 1878-9, 1879, 1877-8-9. The medal was also issued without a bar to the troops who were employed in Natal from January to September, 1879, but who did not go into Zululand. No one received a medal with more than one bar, and it was awarded to the navy as well as to the army.

The troops engaged in the various campaigns were :

1st Dragoon Guards (1879); 17th Lancers (1879); 2nd Battalion 3rd (1879), 4th (1879), 13th (1878-9), 21st (1879), 24th (1877-8-9), 57th (1879), 58th (1879), 2nd and 3rd Battalions 60th (1879), 80th (1878-9), 83rd (1878-9), 88th (1877-8-9), 90th (1877-8-9), 91st (1879), 94th (1877-8-9), 97th (1879), and 99th (1879) Foot; and the crews of H.M.S. Active, Boadicea, Euphrates, Forester, Himalaya, Orontes, Shah, Tamar, and Tenedos.

Many memorable incidents occurred in these wars, including the death of the Prince Imperial of France; the annihilation of a portion of the 24th Regiment at Isandlwahna; the heroic defence of Rorke's Drift; the capture of Cetewayo, &c.

A silver medal, 1.4in. diameter, and six bars were issued for actions during the Afghan Wars in 1878-9-80. The obverse has a bust of Her Majesty, with crown, and veiled, and wearing the ribbon of the Garter, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. The reverse has a British column on the march, accompanied by native cavalry, an officer riding in the foreground; in the centre an elephant, carrying a mountain gun on his back, an infantry soldier marching in front; in the background a mountain, with a fortress on the top; the word Afghanistan above; in the exergue the date 1878-9-80. The ribbon is green with crimson edges, 1¼in. wide. The name and regiment of the recipient are engraved on the edge in capital letters on medals given to British soldiers, and in running hand on those given to natives. The following were the bars issued :

Afghanistan,
1878-80

1. Ali Musjid, 21st November, 1878.
2. Peiwar Kotal, 2nd December, 1878.
3. Charasia, 6th October, 1879.
4. Ahmed Khel, 19th April, 1880.
5. Kabul, 10th-23rd December, 1879, and 9th August, 1880.
6. Kandahar, 1st September, 1880.

They are 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. long by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. wide, with square ends, and have the name in the centre in raised capitals on a frosted ground, and with a border of two raised burnished lines. They are fastened together by means of large, round-headed rivets, and are attached to the medal by a straight clasp and swivel.

The following troops were present at the under-mentioned battles :

ALI-MUSJID.—British: 10th Hussars; 17th, 51st, and 81st Foot; 4th Battalion Rifle Brigade; and four batteries of Artillery. Native: 11th Bengal Lancers; 6th, 14th, 20th, 27th, and 45th Bengal Infantry; 1st Sikhs; 4th Goorkhas; and Bengal Sappers and Miners.

PEIWAR-KOTAL.—British: 8th and 72nd Foot; and one squadron 10th Hussars. Native: 12th Bengal Cavalry; 23rd and 29th Bengal Infantry; 5th Goorkhas; 2nd and 5th Punjab Infantry.

CHARASIA.—British: 9th Lancers; 67th, 72nd, and 92nd Foot; one battery Royal Horse Artillery; one battery Royal Artillery; and two mountain batteries. Native: 12th Bengal Cavalry; 14th Bengal Lancers; 5th Punjab Cavalry; Bengal Sappers and Miners; 23rd and 28th Bengal Infantry; 5th Goorkhas; and 5th Punjab Infantry.

AHMED KHEL.—British: 59th Foot; 2nd Battalion 60th Rifles; and one battery of Artillery. Native: 19th Bengal Lancers; 1st Punjab Cavalry; 2nd Sikhs; 15th, 19th, and 25th Bengal Infantry.

The troops engaged in the various actions before KABUL in December, 1879, were :

British: 9th Lancers; 9th, 67th, 72nd, and 92nd Foot. Native: 12th Bengal Cavalry; 14th Bengal Lancers; 5th Punjab Cavalry; 23rd and 28th Bengal Infantry; 2nd, 4th, and 5th Goorkhas; 5th Punjab Infantry; two batteries of Punjab Artillery; and Bengal Sappers and Miners.

KANDAHAR.—British: 9th Lancers; 7th, 60th, 66th, 72nd, and 92nd Foot; and three batteries of Artillery. Native: 3rd Bengal Cavalry; 3rd Bombay Cavalry; 3rd Punjab Cavalry; 3rd Scinde Horse; Central India Horse; Poona Horse; 15th, 23rd, 24th, and 25th Bengal Infantry; 1st, 4th, 19th, 28th, and 29th Bombay Infantry; 2nd, 4th, and 5th Goorkhas; 2nd and 3rd Sikhs.

A bronze decoration was issued to all who took part in General Roberts's memorable march from Kabul to Kandahar, from August 9th to 31st, 1880. It is in the form of a five-pointed star (1.9in. from point to point), with radiations, and in the inner angles a small ball. In the centre is the imperial monogram, V.R.I., and, on a band encircling it, Kabul to Kandahar, 1880. The reverse is plain with a hollow centre, round which the recipient's name and regiment are indented in capital letters, on the medals given to British soldiers; and are engraved either in capitals or in running hand, on those given to Natives; an imperial crown and ring are attached for suspension. The ribbon worn with this medal is the "rainbow" ribbon of the earlier Indian medals, but unwatered and only $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide.

The following is a list of the combinations of the bars, which are arranged to read upwards from the medal:

FOUR BARS.

MEDAL WITHOUT BAR.

Given to officers and men not present at any of the actions for which separate bars were given. The following regiments received it: 6th Dragoon Guards; 8th and 15th Hussars; 12th, 14th, 15th, 17th, 25th, 31st, 53rd, and 63rd Foot.

Several men of the 65th Foot then serving in Bengal, were sent up to the front as signallers. Five of them received the Afghan medal with bars for Peiwar-Kotal, Charasia, Kabul, and Kandahar, and the Roberts Star. Others received the medal with three bars; and some who were in the second phase of the campaign received the medal without bar.

The following British regiments took part in the campaign:

6th Dragoon Guards; 8th, 10th, and 15th Hussars; 9th Lancers; 5th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 11th, 12th, 14th, 15th, 17th, 18th, 25th, 51st, 53rd, 59th, 60th, 63rd, 66th, 67th, 70th, 72nd, 78th, 81st, and 92nd Foot; and the Rifle Brigade.

After the conclusion of the Egyptian War, in 1882, by a General Order issued on October 17th, a silver medal, 1.4in. diameter, was granted to the troops engaged. On the obverse is a head of the Queen, with diadem, and veiled, somewhat similar to that on the Ashantee Medal, and surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. The reverse has a fine representation of the Sphinx, on an ornamental pedestal, with the word Egypt above, and the date —1882—below. The ribbon has alternate stripes of blue and white—three blue and two white— $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The name and regiment, or ship, of the recipient are engraved on the edge in capital letters, and some of the medals given to the Royal Marines had the names, &c., indented.

Two bars were issued with this medal—Alexandria, 11th July, and Tel-el-Kebir (13th September, 1882), of the same design as those issued with the Afghan medal, and with similar rivets and attachment to the medal. The first bar was given to the seamen and marines who landed in Alexandria after the bombardment; and the latter to all those who were present at Tel-el-Kebir, including a Naval Brigade of 200 seamen and marines. When additional bars were won from time to time, the recipient returned those already received, and a complete new set was issued. Thus the rivets on all genuine medals are always the same.

After the Soudan War, in 1884, a similar medal was issued to the combined Services, but with the date left out of the exergue on the reverse. Four bars were issued with it. (1) Suakin, 1884, to all those who landed at Suakin or Trinkitat between February 19th and March 26th, 1884, both dates inclusive, and who had previously received the medal for the 1882 campaign. Those who had not been awarded it received only the medal without date in the exergue. (2) El-Teb—Tamaai, to all those who were present at the above battles on February 29th and March 13th, 1884. (3) El-Teb, to those who were only present at this battle. (4) Tamaai, to those who were only in this action. The ribbon was the same as that for the previous medal.

Soudan,

Only those troops who had previously received the medal for 1882 were given the bar for Suakin, 1884. It, therefore, only appears, either separately or in conjunction with others, on the medal with the date, 1882, in the exergue.

On the conclusion of the second Soudan War, in 1885, the medal was again issued to the troops and Naval Brigade, with five additional bars. The following is the wording of the General Order :

Second Soudan
War,
1885.

(1.) The Queen has been graciously pleased to signify her pleasure that a medal be granted to all Her Majesty's forces employed in the recent operations in the Soudan, in commemoration of their arduous labours in the ascent of the river Nile, and their gallantry in the operations which ensued; and also for the operations in the Eastern Soudan, in the vicinity of Suakin. (2.) The medal will be similar in pattern to that already granted for service in Egypt and the Soudan. (3.) Individuals already in possession of the decoration specified in paragraph 2 will only be eligible to receive such of the clasps specified hereafter as they may be entitled to. (4.) All officers and soldiers who served south of Assouan on or before 7th March, 1885, will be held to be entitled to the medal, except those who are already in possession of it. (5.) All officers and soldiers who were on duty at Suakin between 27th March, 1884, and 14th May, 1885, will also be entitled to the medal, except those already in possession of it. (6.) Her Majesty has further approved of clasps being issued as follow: A clasp, inscribed The Nile, 1884-5, to those officers and soldiers who served south of Assouan on or before March 7th, 1885. A clasp, inscribed Abu Klea, to those officers and soldiers who took part in the action fought there on 17th Jan., 1885, under the late Major-General Sir H. Stewart, K.C.B. A clasp, inscribed Kirbekan, to those officers and soldiers who took part in the action fought there on the 10th Feb., 1885, under the late Major-General Earle, C.B., C.S.I. A clasp, inscribed Suakin, 1885, to those officers and soldiers who were engaged in the operations at Suakin between the 1st March and 14th May, 1885, both days inclusive. A clasp, inscribed Tofrek, to those officers and men who were actually present at the action fought there on the 22nd March, 1885.

The ribbon was blue and white, like that for the two previous medals. No medals were issued with single bars for Tofrek, Abu Klea, or Kirbekan; as in the former case, all recipients were entitled to the bar for Suakin, 1885, and in the two latter to that for The Nile, 1884-5. The names and regiments, or ships, of the recipients were engraved on the edge of the medal in capital letters. Medals without bars were given for the three campaigns to those who had not been in action, but who were in any way connected with the expeditions. Officers of the hired transports; a few civilians, European and native, the Australian contingent, and the Canadian boatmen hired to navigate the boats through the Nile rapids, also received the medal and bar.

The medal, without bar, and the Khedive's star mentioned below, were issued to all officers and men who served at, and to the south of, Wady Halfa between November 30th, 1885, and January 11th, 1886, provided they had not already received them for any of the previous campaigns. This expedition included the Battle of Ginniss, for which no bar was given.

A General Order, dated January 2nd, 1890, authorised a further issue of the Soudan medal with a bar, inscribed Gemaizah, 1888, to all troops who were landed at Suakin before the action of Gemaizah on December 20th, 1888, and were there on that day. It also directed that the same medal should be granted to all troops who were employed on the Nile at and south of Korosko on August 3rd, 1889; and that a bar, inscribed Toski, 1889, be given to all who were present at that action on August 3rd. Those officers and men who had already received the Soudan medal received the new bars only.

In addition to the medal issued by our own Government, the Khedive of Egypt presented a decoration to every officer and man, naval and military, who was entitled to the English medal. It is in the form of a five-pointed bronze star, 1.9in. diameter, suspended from a ring between two of the points. A laureated bar, on which are a crescent and five-pointed small star, is attached, for suspension from the ribbon. In the centre of the obverse is a front view of the Sphinx, with the desert and three Pyramids in the rear, surrounded by a circle, upon which are the words, Egypt, 1882, above, and below, in Arabic letters, Khedive of Egypt, 1299. On the reverse is a large raised circle, in which is the Khedive's monogram, T. M., surmounted by a crown and crescent and star. The ribbon was navy blue, 1½in. wide. The decoration was issued without the name of the recipient on the reverse, but many of them had their name and regiment stamped, or engraved. The stars given for the 1884 and 1885 campaigns were of the same design, except that upon the circle on the obverse the words are Egypt, 1884; or Egypt, 1884-6, with Khedive of Egypt, 1301, and Khedive of Egypt, 1301-4, respectively, in Arabic characters below. The 1884-5 star was not issued until some time after the English medal had been awarded, as originally it was not intended to give the decoration for that campaign.

In 1890-91, a further issue of the bronze star was made to all troops engaged in the operations near Suakin in 1888-9, and on the Nile in 1889. The star is of similar pattern to those previously issued, but bears no date upon it. It was only given to those who had not received any of the stars previously issued, and, fewer having been given, it is consequently the rarest of the series.

In October, 1893, a further issue of the Khedive's star took place. It had no date, and was similar to the last one issued. A bronze bar was, however, added above the usual suspender, on which in Arabic characters are the name and date of the action for which the star was granted, namely, Tokar, 1890. The officers and men of H.M.S. "Dolphin" and "Sandfly," who were engaged on transport duty, received it, and also British officers serving in the Egyptian Army, but the silver medal was not given for this action. Those already in possession of any of the stars previously issued received the bar only.

Tokar,
1890.

A large number of officers—above the rank of captain—were given the Order of the Medjidie for these campaigns, the class varying with the rank of the recipient: Permission was subsequently granted to receive and wear this decoration, and also the various classes of the Osmanieh, given at the same time.

Order of the Medjidie,
1882.

The following are the combination of the bars, as far as known to the author, but as very many of the men were in two, and in some cases three, campaigns, the variety of the combinations of the bars is very great. Captain Beech, late 20th Hussars, had the medal with seven bars, the only one issued.

Given to four men of the 19th Hussars, who were Lord Wolseley's orderlies, and after the battles of Abu Klea and Kirbekan went with Lord Wolseley to Suakin, and so got the bar for Suakin 1885 in addition to the usual five.

MEDALS WITHOUT BARS, FOR 1882, 1884, 1885, AND 1885-6.

The following regiments took part in the various campaigns :

Three squadrons of the 1st and 2nd Life Guards and Royal Horse Guards; 2nd Battalion Grenadier Guards, 2nd Battalion Coldstream Guards, 1st Battalion Scots Guards; 5th Lancers; 10th, 19th, and 20th Hussars; 4th and 7th Dragoon Guards;

2nd Battalion Royal Irish, East Surrey, Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, Royal Sussex, South Staffordshire, Royal Highlanders (Black Watch), Essex, Sherwood Foresters, Royal Berkshire, Royal West Kent, Shropshire Light Infantry, 3rd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, Manchester, York and Lancaster, Highland Light Infantry, Seaforth Highlanders, Gordon Highlanders, Cameron Highlanders, and the Royal Irish Fusiliers. In addition to these were 7270 men of the Indian Contingent, the Australian Contingent, the Naval Brigade, the Mounted Infantry, and the Light and Heavy Camel Corps, formed of drafts from most of the cavalry regiments.

The following troops took part in the under-mentioned battles :

TEL-EL-KEBIR.—Detachments of the 1st and 2nd Life Guards and Royal Horse Guards; 4th and 7th Dragoon Guards; 19th Hussars; one Battalion each of the Grenadier, Coldstream, and Scots Fusilier Guards; 18th, 42nd, 46th, 60th, 72nd, 74th, 75th, 79th, 84th, and 87th Foot; a Naval Brigade; a Battalion of Marines, and Marine Artillery. Native: 2nd, 6th, and 13th Bengal Cavalry; 7th Bengal Infantry; 20th Punjab Infantry; and 29th Belooches.

EL-TEB.—328 men of the 10th Hussars; 410 of the 19th Hussars; 126 Mounted Infantry; 126 Artillerymen, with twenty-six guns; 162 men of the Naval Brigade, with eight guns; the King's Royal Rifle Corps, Gordon Highlanders, Irish Rifles, Black Watch; Marine Light Infantry; Marine Artillery; 100 Royal Engineers; and 1st Battalion York and Lancaster Regiment. In all 4206 men.

TAMAAL.—The Black Watch, York and Lancaster Regiment; Royal Marines; Naval Brigade; Royal Irish Fusiliers, Gordon Highlanders, King's Royal Rifle Corps; one squadron of the 10th and 19th Hussars; Artillery; and 26th Company Royal Engineers.

TOFREK.—The Berkshire—Regiment; one Battalion of Marines; one squadron of the 5th Lancers and 20th Hussars; the Naval Brigade, with four guns; the Indian Brigade; and a detachment of Royal Engineers.

ABU-KLEA.—19th Hussars; Mounted Infantry; Heavy Camel Corps; Sussex Regiment; the Naval Brigade, with three guns; Royal Artillery; and a detachment of Royal Engineers.

NILE EXPEDITION.—Heavy Camel Corps; 19th Hussars; 18th Royal Irish, Sussex Regiment, Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, Essex Regiment, Royal West Kent Regiment, Black Watch, Gordon Highlanders, Cameron Highlanders, South Staffordshire Regiment; and the Naval Brigade.

KIRBEKAN.—South Staffordshire Regiment, 1st Battalion Black Watch; a squadron of the 19th Hussars; two guns of the Artillery. In all about 1200 men, including a small Naval detachment with a Maxim gun.

GEMAIZAH.—20th Hussars; Mounted Infantry; the King's Own Scottish Borderers, the Welsh Regiment, Royal Irish Rifles, besides a number of Egyptian Troops; and the Naval Brigade from H.M.S. Starling and Racer; and seventeen officers and men of 24th Company Royal Engineers.

TOSKI.—The only British Troops engaged were a detachment of the 20th Hussars. One hundred and fifty-four officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the 20th Hussars were engaged at the last two battles; four officers and seventy-seven men received the bars for both battles; one officer and fifty-five men that for Gemaizah; and one officer and sixteen men that for Toski.

The following men-of-war took part in the Bombardment of Alexandria:

H.M.S. Alexandra, Inflexible, Invincible, Monarch, Penelope, Sultan, Superb, Temeraire, and the gunboats Beacon, Bittern, Condor, Cygnets, and Decoy; and the despatch vessel Helicon.

The crews of the following ships received the bar for Suakin, 1884:

H.M.S. Arab, Briton, Caryspit, Decoy, Dryad, Euryalus, Hecla, Humber, Sumna, Orontes, Ranger, Serapis, and Sphinx.

A silver medal, 1.4in. diameter, was issued by the Imperial Government to the Canadian troops who were engaged in suppressing "Riel's Rebellion," in North-West Canada, in 1885. The obverse is precisely the same as that for the Egyptian medal just described, and on the reverse are the words, North-West Canada, 1885, surrounded by a wreath of maple-leaves; the ribbon is slate-grey, with two scarlet stripes, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The medal was issued without the names of the recipients, and these were added either by them or by the officers of the regiments. No British troops were engaged in this expedition.

North-West
Canada,
1885.

A bar, inscribed Saskatchewan, was given to all the troops present at that battle. It was of the same size and design as that issued with the Afghan medal, and with a similar attachment to the medal.

For services in Burmah, November 14th, 1885, to April 30th, 1887—both dates inclusive—the India General Service Medal of 1854 and a bar, inscribed Burma, 1885-7, was granted. The names and regiments of the recipients are engraved on the edge of the medal in Italian running-hand. The medal was sent out from the Mint in this country to Calcutta, where the clasp for suspension and the bar were manufactured. The work on the latter is not nearly so good as those struck in this country for previous campaigns, and they have a decidedly rough appearance. A bronze medal and bar for the same campaign, of similar pattern to the silver medal, were for the first time issued to all authorised Government followers who accompanied the troops so engaged. The ribbon was the same as that always worn with this medal.

The following regiments composed the Expeditionary Force :

British: Artillery—9th Battery I Brigade, Cinque Ports Division; 1st Battery I Brigade, East Division; 5th Battery I Brigade, South Division; 7th Battery I Brigade, North Division; 8th Battery I Brigade, London Division; Royal West Surrey Regiment, Liverpool Regiment, Somerset Light Infantry, Royal Welsh Fusiliers, Hampshire Regiment, Yorkshire Light Infantry, and Royal Munster Fusiliers. Native: No. 4 Punjab Mountain Battery; No. 1 Bombay Mountain Battery; 7th Bengal Cavalry; 1st Madras Lancers, and 1st Bombay Lancers; 3rd Cavalry, Hyderabad Contingent; 2nd squadron 2nd Madras Cavalry; Nos. 2, 4, and 5 companies Bengal Sappers and Miners; Nos. 1, 3, 4 and 6 companies Madras Sappers and Miners; No. 2 company Bombay Sappers; 1st, 2nd, 5th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 15th, 16th, 18th, 26th, 27th, and 44th Bengal Infantry; 3rd Goorkhas; 1st Madras Pioneers; 3rd, 12th, 13th, 15th, 16th, MEDAL FOR AFGHANISTAN, 18-8-80

(REVERSE).

MEDAL FOR EGYPT AND THE SUDAN,
1882-5; AND FOR NORTH - WEST
CANADA, 1885 (OVERSE).

17th, 21st, 23rd, 25th, and 27th Madras Infantry; 2nd and 3rd Infantry, Hyderabad Contingent; 1st, 5th, 7th, 23rd, 25th, and 27th Bombay Infantry. The crews of H.M.S. Bacchante, Mariner, Ranger, Sphynx, Turquoise, and Woodlark also received the medal.

By an Army Order, dated Dec. 1st, 1889, the Queen's command was notified that the India Medal of 1854 "shall be given to all troops engaged in the military operations in Upper Burmah, and to those actually engaged in the field service in Lower Burmah between May 1, 1887, and March 31, 1889," the bar to be inscribed, Burma, 1887-89. The bronze medal and bar, as previously described, were also authorised for the recognised followers. Officers and men who were already in possession of the medal, including those in possession of the bar for 1885-7, received the new bar only. This was the second issue of the bronze medal, which has been given with each subsequent issue of the silver medal.

On June 24th, 1881, another issue of this medal was authorised, with a bar inscribed Naga 1879-80, but no European troops were present in the campaign against the Naga Hill tribes (March, 1875, December, 1879, and January, 1880), and it was only bestowed on native regiments and their British officers. The troops engaged in this expedition were :

18th Bengal Native Infantry; the 42nd, 43rd, and 44th Goorkhas; and two mountain guns.

The medal was again issued on June 1st, 1889, for the expedition in Hazara and Sikkim in 1888. The bars are inscribed Hazara 1888, and Sikkim 1888 respectively, and were given to all the European and native troops under Generals McQueen and Graham.

Bronze medals and bars were, as usual, given to authorised camp-followers.

The troops composing the Sikkim Field Force were :

Two companies of the 2nd Battalion Derbyshire Regiment, the 32nd Bengal Pioneers, &c.—about 2000 strong.

The Hazara, or Black Mountain, Field Force consisted of :

Chin-Lushai,
1889-90.

On February 1st, 1891, a further issue of the Medal took place, with a bar inscribed Chin-Lushai, 1889-90. It was given to all troops and others who, between November 15th, 1889, and April 30th, 1890, served with the Burmah Column, including those employed on the lines from Gaugaw to Yezagy, and the garrisons of Fort White and intermediate posts to Kalemio, from the date of the concentration at Gaugaw; and to all who served with the Chittagong Column to the date of leaving Demagiri. A bronze medal and bar of similar design were also given to all authorised Government followers who accompanied the troops so engaged. All officers and men already in possession of the medal received the bar only.

BURMAH FORCE:—1st King's Own Scottish Borderers, a detachment of the 1st Battalion Cheshire and Norfolk Regiments; 42nd Goorkhas; 2nd Battalion 4th Goorkhas; and two companies Queen's Own Madras Sappers and Miners.

CHITTAGONG FORCE :—28th Bombay Pioneers; 2nd Goorkhas; 3rd and 9th Bengal Infantry; and one company Bengal Sappers and Miners.

In December, 1891, another bar was issued, inscribed Samana 1891, to all troops employed in the Miranzai Expedition between April 5th, 1891, and May 25th, 1891, against the Urakzai tribes. The usual bronze medal with the same bar was also given to all authorised Government followers of the troops. Samana, 1891.

The troops composing the Miranzai Field Force in 1891, to whom the bar, inscribed Samana, 1891, was given, were :

British: No. 3 Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery; 1st Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps; two companies 2nd Battalion Manchester Regiment. Native: 19th Bengal Lancers; No. 3 (Peshawar) Mountain Battery; Bengal Sappers and Miners; 15th Sikhs; 19th and 22nd Bengal Infantry; 23rd Punjab Pioneers; 27th and 29th Bengal Infantry; 3rd Sikh Infantry; 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th, and 6th Punjab Infantry; 1st Battalion 5th Goorkhas.

In February, 1892, a bar, inscribed Hazara 1891, was granted to the troops engaged in the expedition between March 12th and May 16th, 1891. A bronze medal was given to the camp followers. Hazara,

The troops composing the Hazara Field Force, 1891, were :

British: Nos. 1 and 9 Mountain Batteries, Royal Artillery; 1st Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers, 2nd Battalion Seaforth Highlanders, 1st Battalion King's Royal Rifles, and six men of the 2nd Battalion Manchester Regiment, detached on telegraphic service. Native: 11th Bengal Lancers; No. 2 Derajat Mountain Battery; Bengal Sappers and Miners; 11th, 19th, 27th, and 28th Bengal Infantry; 32nd Punjab Pioneers; 37th Bengal Infantry; Infantry of the Corps of Guides; 4th Sikh Infantry; 5th Goorkhas.

General Orders.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

SIMLA, October 13th, 1893.

MEDALS—BURMA.

No. 971.—The Viceroy and Governor-General in Council has much pleasure in announcing to the Army that Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India, has been graciously pleased to approve of the grant of the India Medal of 1854, with clasps inscribed Burma, 1889-92, and Lushai, 1889-92, respectively, to all troops and followers who were employed in the operations detailed in Appendix A., between the dates specified in Column 3 of that Appendix.

His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief is requested to issue the necessary subsidiary orders for the submission of medal rolls in accordance with the instructions given in the War Office Army Order, No. 154, of 1893.

The only British regiment that got the Lushai bar was the 4th Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps; and the 2nd Devon Regiment, 1st Duke of Cornwall's Light In- fantry, 1st Hampshire Regiment, 2nd Oxford Light Infantry, 4th Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, and 4th Battalion Rifle Brigade, got the bar for Burmah, 1889-92.

In June, 1892, another bar was authorised for the Manipur, 1891. India Medal of 1854, inscribed N.E. Frontier, 1891, and was given to all troops employed in the Manipur Expedition between the dates of the advance of the Columns from Tamu, Silchar, and Kohima (March 28th, April 15th, and April 20th, respectively), and May 7th, 1891. The troops composing the Manipur Field Force, were :

British: Four companies of the 4th Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps (about 300 men). Native: 8th Bengal Mountain Battery; 1st Battalion 2nd Goorkhas; 18th Bengal Infantry; 2nd Battalion 4th Goorkhas; Detachments of the 42nd, 43rd, and 44th Goorkhas.

In September, 1892, another bar was issued, inscribed Hunza, 1891. Hunza 1891, and was given to all troops employed in the Hunza-Nagar expedition between December 1st and 22nd, 1891, both dates inclusive.

The troops composing the Hunza-Nagar Field Force in 1891 were :

British: None. Native: A detachment 1st Battalion 5th Goorkhas (about 200 men) and about 660 men of the Cashmere Imperial Troops.

On November 1st, 1892, the issue of a medal was sanctioned for services on the East and West Coasts of Africa. The following are the operations for which it was granted :

I. Operations against the Yonnie tribe from November 13th, 1887, to January 2nd, 1888. (H.M.S. Acorn, Icarus, and Rifleman, and 1st West India Regiment.)

II. Expedition up the Gambia, December 29th, 1891, to February 5th, 1892. (H.M.S. Sparrow.)

V. Expedition against the Jebus, May 12th to 25th, 1892.

PLATE XIII.

CENTRAL AFRICA MEDAL (REVERSE).

The bars for the various expeditions to be inscribed as under :

I. 1887-8; II., 1891-2; III., IV., and V., 1892, the principle being that the year, or years, on the bar cover all the operations in which the recipient may have been engaged in such year, or years. The medal and ribbon were the same as those previously issued for the Ashantee War, and were subsequently known as the East and West Africa Medal. Soldiers or sailors already in possession of the Ashantee medal were given the new bars only.

A further issue was authorised in April, 1895, for the following services, but in this case no bars were given. The operations were in Eastern and Central Africa, and the medal was subsequently known as the Central Africa Medal.

The Upper Shiré , January and February, 1893.	Mruli , April-June, 1894.

The medal is mounted with a swivel-ring, and is worn with a ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with three equal stripes of black, white, and brown, the black stripe being worn to the right. No British regiments received this medal, only native troops being employed.

In September, 1895, the East and West Africa Medal and bars were given to those who took part in the following expeditions :

East and West Africa
Medal, 1895.

Witu, October, 1890: H.M.S. "Boadicea," "Brisk," "Conquest," "Cossack," "Humber," "Kingfisher," "Pigeon," "Redbreast," and "Turquoise," with Marines.

Chief Liwondi, February and March, 1893: Two officers, one surgeon, and thirty-four men of H.M.S. "Herald" and "Mosquito."

Juba River, August, 1893: To Capt. Laidley and 40 men of H.M.S. "Blanche."

Lake Nyassa, November, 1893: H.M.S. "Adventurer" and "Pioneer," and 101 Sikhs.

Gambia, February 22nd to March 11th, 1894: H.M.S. "Alecto," "Magpie," "Raleigh," "Satellite," and "Widgeon," Marines, and 50 men of the 1st West India Regiment.

Brass River, February 17th to 26th, 1895: H.M.S. "Barossa," "St. George," "Thrush," and "Widgeon."

Egbon, Bida, and Ilorin, January 6th and February 25th, 1897.

The bars are inscribed: Witu 1890; Liwondi 1893; Witu August, 1893; Juba River 1893; Lake Nyassa 1893; Gambia 1894; Benin River 1894; Brass River 1895; and Niger 1897.

These bars were the same size as those given with the Ashantee Medal, and the name and ship of the recipient are indented in capital letters on the edge of the medal.

In September, 1895, a bar was added to the India General Service Medal of 1854, inscribed Waziristan 1894-95, and was given to all troops who were on duty beyond Kajuri Koch between October 22nd, 1894, and March 13th, 1895; or beyond Jandola or Mirian between December 17th, 1894, and March 13th, 1895.

The following troops formed the Waziristan Field Force:

British Infantry: 2nd Battalion Border Regiment and the Maxim Gun detachment of the Devonshire Regiment. Native Cavalry: 1st Punjab Cavalry (two squadrons), 2nd Punjab Cavalry (one squadron), and 3rd Punjab Cavalry. Native

Artillery: No. 1 (Kohat), No. 3 (Peshawar), and No. 8 (Bengal) Mountain Batteries. Native Sappers and Miners: Nos. 2 and 5 Companies Bengal Sappers and Miners. Native Infantry: 1st Battalions of 1st, 4th, and 5th Goorkhas; 1st and 3rd Sikh Infantry; 2nd, 4th, and 6th Punjab Infantry; 20th and 23rd (Punjab) Bengal Infantry; and the 38th (Dogra) Bengal Infantry.

Since the issue of the medal for Burma, 1885-1887, the names of the recipients have been engraved on the edge of the medals in running-hand.

This was the last campaign for which the India General Service Medal of 1854 was used; as having been issued with no fewer than twenty-one different bars (two retrospective bars were subsequently added, see pages 178, 179), it was, after much deliberation, decided to issue a medal to be henceforth known as the India Medal, 1895 (see Army Order, No. 71, April, 1896, page 134).

For the war in Ashantee in 1895-6 a special medal was issued. It is of novel design, and consists of a four-pointed bronze star, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. diameter, with St. Andrew's Cross between the arms. In the centre is an Imperial crown, surrounded by a band, with Ashanti above, and 1896 below. Reverse: From the Queen, in raised letters. A ring is provided for suspension, and the ribbon is yellow, with a narrow black stripe near the edge, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide.

Ashantee,
1895-6.

The British regiments were made up into a "Composite Battalion," and consisted of drafts (two non-commissioned officers, one bugler, and seventeen men) from the following regiments:

2nd Coldstream Guards,	2nd Shropshire Light Infantry
2nd Grenadier Guards,	1st Northumberland Fusiliers,
1st Scots Guards,	1st Leinster Regiment,
1st Yorkshire Light Infantry,	3rd King's Royal Rifle Corps,
2nd Royal Irish Fusiliers,	2nd Battalion Rifle Brigade,
2nd Devonshire Regiment,

Also the whole of the 2nd Battalion West Yorkshire Regiment, and detachments of the Army Service Corps, Medical and Ordnance Staff Corps, Artillery, and Engineers.

An Admiralty order of January 21st, 1897, sanctioned a further grant of the West African Medal, without a bar, to the men of H.M.S. "Barrosa," "Phæbe," "Racoon," and "St. George" for operations against Mwele. The edge of the medal bore the recipient's name and ship, and "Mwele 1895-6." Those already in possession of the Ashantee medal were entitled to have the word "Mwele" and date engraved on the edge. It was also given to the 24th and 26th Bombay Infantry, and was issued in bronze to authorised camp-followers.

By Army Order No. 71, April, 1896, the Queen authorised the issue of a medal to replace the India General Service Medal of 1854, "to commemorate military operations in, and on the frontier of, India, and to be in future known as 'The India Medal, 1895.'" The medal bears on the obverse the bust of the Queen, surrounded by the legend: Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: The figures of a European and a Sikh soldier, the former resting on his rifle and the latter on his sword, each grasping the pole of the British flag, with the inscription, India, 1895, on either side. The medal is silver, $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. diameter. The ribbon is $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with three stripes of red and two of green. The medal is thicker than that of 1854, and weighs $1\frac{1}{4}$ oz. instead of 1 oz.

The first bars issued were inscribed Defence of Chitral 1895, and Relief of Chitral 1895, and are of the same design as those of the India Medal of 1854, and with a similar attachment. The medal and bars were issued in bronze to the authorised camp-followers.

The following troops took part in the expedition, and received the bar for Relief of Chitral 1895:

FIRST BRIGADE.

3rd Mountain Battery, Royal Artillery, 257 men.
 1st Bedfordshire Regiment, 801 men.
 1st King's Royal Rifles, 705 men.

 No. 1 Company Bengal Sappers and Miners, 165 men.
 No. 6 Company Bengal Sappers and Miners, 150 men.

The 2nd Battalion Oxford Light Infantry, 28th and 39th Bengal Infantry, and No. 1 Mountain Battery Royal Artillery formed part of Brigadier-General Gorst's command.

The Garrison of Chitral, who received the bar, Defence of Chitral, 1895, consisted of seven British officers, including the British agent, ninety men of the 14th Sikhs, 301 men of the 4th Kashmir Rifles and 16th Punjabis, forty servants and followers, and an English Surgeon-Captain.

For the Dongola Expedition, in 1896, the Khedive of Egypt, on February 12th, 1897, granted a silver medal, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, without a bar, to all the British and Native troops who were serving at, and to the south of, Sarras, between March 30th and September 23rd, 1896; and to those under Brigadier-General C. C. Egerton serving at Suakin between the same dates. Two bars were added, one inscribed Hafir to those engaged in the operations south of Fareig, on September 19th, 1896; and the other, inscribed Firket, to those engaged in the operations south of Akasheh, on June 7th, 1896. The bars, which are $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. long by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. wide, bear the names of the actions in Arabic as well as in English characters. Obverse: An oval shield with three crescents, surmounted by three stars. Behind it a military trophy, consisting of flags, arms, cannon, &c.; and below a label, on which is an Arabic inscription. Reverse: A Turkish inscription. A straight clasp and swivel are provided for suspension. The ribbon is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, with two stripes of yellow and one of blue, of equal width. The medals were issued without the names or regiments of the recipients on the edge.

The medal without bars was given in bronze to all camp-followers and civilian servants of officers. Queen Victoria granted permission to the British troops to accept and wear the medal.

THE HONG-KONG PLAGUE MEDAL.

The 1st Battalion North Staffordshire Regiment was the only English regiment that received it; but it was also given, without bars, to the soldiers of the Indian contingent which garrisoned Suakin, and to the crews of H.M.S. "Melita" and "Scout."

Permission was given to the Chartered Company of South Africa, in 1896, to issue a medal to the troops engaged in Matabeleland* in 1893; and in 1897 to all those who took part in the operations in Rhodesia in 1896.

Matabeleland, 1893.
Rhodesia, 1896.

The design of both medals was the same, with the exception of the name and date of the expedition on the reverse. The medal is silver, $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. diameter. Obverse: The Queen's head, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina. Reverse: The British lion charging with tail erect, wounded in front by an assegai, and trampling upon a native shield and arms; in the background a bush. Above, Matabeleland 1893, or Rhodesia 1896, as the case might be; and in the exergue, British South Africa Company. An ornamental clasp for suspension; ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, four stripes of yellow and three of blue. Those already in possession of the 1893 medal, and entitled to that for 1896, received a bar, inscribed Rhodesia 1896.

The medal for Matabeleland was given to all those who were engaged between October 16th and December 24th, 1893; and only those officers and men who had obtained official sanction to be present were allowed to accept and wear it.

Besides the Company's own forces, volunteers from the following regiments received the medal:

Cape Mounted Rifles and the British Bechuanaland Police, details of the 3rd Dragoon Guards, one company of the 2nd

West Riding Regiment, one officer and eighteen men of the 1st Royal Highlanders, and three men of the 2nd York and Lancaster Regiment.

The medal for Rhodesia was given to all those who had served between March 24th and December 31st, 1896. The 7th Hussars was the only British regiment employed, but details of the following regiments also received the medal :

2nd Royal Irish Fusiliers; 2nd, 3rd, and 4th King's Royal Rifle Corps; 2nd Royal West Kent; 2nd Hampshire; 2nd Norfolk; Army Ordnance Corps; 1st Leicestershire; 24th, 25th, and 26th Western Division, R.A.; 2nd and 4th Rifle Brigade; 1st Derbyshire; 2nd Royal Welsh Fusiliers; 1st Royal Irish; 1st Royal Dublin Fusiliers; 43rd Co., R.E.; 10th Mountain Battery, R.A.; 2nd West Riding Regiment; 2nd Yorks and Lancs Regiment; and Army Service Corps.

This was the first issue of a medal by a private company, which has been authorised, since the days of the Honourable East India Company.

In April, 1898, two additional bars were given with the East Africa Medal; those officers and men who were already in possession of the medal receiving the new clasps only.

East and West Africa
Medal, 1898.

The first was inscribed Benin 1897, and was given to the officers and men of H.M.S. "Forte," "Philomel," "St. George," "Barrosa," "Phœbe," "Theseus," "Widgeon," "Magpie," and "Alecto," altogether about 1400 men.

The second was inscribed Dawkita 1897, and was granted to the force, consisting of men of the Gold Coast Constabulary, employed, under Lieut. F. B. Henderson, R.N., in the defence of Dawkita, in the Gold Coast hinterland.

A short time previously (November, 1897) a bar was issued with the same medal, inscribed Niger 1897, to the forces which took part in the expedition to Egbon, Bida, and Ilorin, or formed the garrisons of Fort Goldie and Lokoja between January 6th and February 25th, 1897.

On June 3rd, 1898, it was announced that Queen Victoria had commanded that the India Medal of 1895, with bars, should be granted to the troops employed in the recent operations on the North-West Frontier, as follows:—

With bar inscribed Punjab Frontier, 1897-8.—To all troops who proceeded beyond Edwardesbad between June 10th, 1897, and January 30th, 1898; to all beyond Jalala between July 26th, 1897, and January 23rd, 1898; to all present at the action of Shabkadar on August 9th, 1897; to all forming part of the Mohmand Field Force; to all forming part of the garrisons of and present at Jamrud, Hari Sing-ka Burj, Bara, and all outposts in the Peshawar Valley south of the line Jamrud-Peshawar, between August 23rd, 1897, and April 6th, 1898; to all forming part of the garrisons of and present at the posts on the Samana and posts beyond Kohat, from Kohat to Parachinar, between August 27th and October 2nd, 1897; to all who took part in the action in the Ublan Pass on August 27th, 1897, and subsequent actions on the Samana and beyond Kohat, up to October 2nd, 1897; to all forming part of the Tirah Expeditionary Force, who proceeded beyond either Kohat or Peshawar between October 2nd, 1897, and April 6th, 1898.

Bar inscribed Malakand, 1897.—To all troops beyond Jalala who took part in the defence and relief of Malakand and Chakdara between July 26th and August 2nd, 1897.

In June, 1898, a bar was issued with the Khedive's Soudan Medal, inscribed, The Atbara, to all the troops who took part in the battle on April 8th, 1898; and all troops who served at, and south of, Abu-Hamed on that date received the medal without the bar. Those already in possession of the medal received the bar only. The following were the British regiments engaged :

1st Battalion Royal Warwickshire; 1st Battalion Lincolnshire; 1st Battalion Seaforth Highlanders; 1st Battalion Cameron Highlanders.

By Army Order 96 of 1897 Queen Victoria sanctioned the issue of a third medal by the British South Africa Company to those employed in the operations in Mashonaland up to October 31st, 1897. The medal and ribbon were similar to those described on p. 137, but the reverse bore the name and date of the expedition for which it was granted, viz., "Mashonaland 1897." The British troops employed were detachments of the 7th Hussars and 2nd Hampshire Regiment. Those already in possession of the medal for Rhodesia previously issued by the Company received a bar inscribed "Mashonaland 1897."

Towards the end of 1898 the Khedive's Soudan Medal was given to all troops, not already in possession of it, who served at, and south of, Assouan, between April 8th and September 2nd, 1898.

A bar, inscribed "Khartoum," was also conferred on all troops who took part in the battle in the vicinity on September 2nd, 1898, and also a bar, inscribed "Gedaref," on all troops who took part in the capture of that place and in the subsequent engagements in the neighbourhood.

The following British troops were engaged :

21st Lancers, 1st Grenadier Guards, 1st Northumberland Fusiliers, 2nd Lancashire Fusiliers, 2nd Rifle Brigade, six-

Maxim guns, 16th Company Eastern Division Royal Artillery, four Maxim guns of the 1st Royal Irish Fusiliers, a detachment No. 2 Company Royal Engineers, 32nd and 37th Field Batteries Royal Artillery, Army Service Corps, Royal Army Medical Corps, Army Ordnance Corps, 1st Warwickshire Regiment, 1st Lincoln Regiment, 1st Seaforth Highlanders, and 1st Cameron Highlanders.

In October, 1898, the surplus medals which had been previously struck for the Dongola Expedition were presented to the following troops, who formed part of the force engaged, at a parade in Cairo :

21st Lancers, 32nd Field Battery Royal Artillery, a detachment of the 16th Company Eastern Division Royal Artillery, the 2nd Company Royal Engineers, a half battalion of the 1st Lincoln Regiment, the 1st Seaforth Highlanders, the 1st Cameron Highlanders, and the departmental corps.

They were issued without the bars, which were subsequently added.

In December, 1898, Queen Victoria approved of the forces employed in the military operations in Egypt which resulted in the capture of Abu-Hamed, the re-conquest of the province of Berber, the defeat of Emir Mahmud's army on the Atbara, and the final operations resulting in the overthrow of the Khalifa's troops at Khartoum, accepting and wearing a further issue of the Khedive's Soudan Medal.

It was given to all troops who served at, and south of, Kerma, on the Nile; and at, and south of, No. VI. Station on the Abu-Hamed Railway, between July 15th and November 6th, 1897. Also to all who served at, and south of, Assouan, between April 8th and September 2nd, 1898; and to all who served at, and south of, Abu-Hamed, on April 8th, 1898.

A bar inscribed Abu-Hamed was given to all who took part in the engagement there on August 7th, 1897; and a bar inscribed Sudan 1897, was granted to all those already in possession of the medal who were at, or south of, Kerma, and No. VI. Station, between July 15th and November 6th, 1897.

In January, 1900, a bar inscribed Sudan 1899 was issued with the same medal for services in connection with the re-conquest of the Dongola province, and to those who took part in the operations which resulted in the defeat of Khalifa Abdulla El Taaishi at Gedid on November 24th, 1899. The medal was given to all the troops who served on the Blue or White Nile south of Khartoum during the year 1899; and the bar, to all troops already in possession of the medal, and who became entitled to it as described above. A bar inscribed Gedid was given to all the troops who took part in the actions on November 22nd and 24th, 1899.

The majority of these combinations were only obtainable by native troops and their European officers. Major-General Sir A. Hunter has this medal with six bars.

In March, 1899, Queen Victoria approved of a new medal being struck to commemorate the military operations in connection with the re-conquest of the Soudan. It was granted to all officers, warrant-officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the British, Indian, and Egyptian Forces, and native allies, who were entitled to the medal granted by the Khedive for the same campaigns. Civilian syces, civilian servants of officers, and authorised followers who were granted the Khedive's medal in bronze, received the medal in bronze. No bars were issued with it.

The medal given to the troops is silver, 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter, and has a straight clasp for suspension.

Obverse: A half-length effigy of Queen Victoria, crowned and veiled, and holding a sceptre. Legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: A figure of Victory seated, to the front, having a laurel-branch in her right hand and an olive-wreath in her left: two draped flags behind, on either side. Below on a label the word Sudan is indented, with flowers and foliage in relief in the exergue. Ribbon: Black and yellow in equal stripes $\frac{5}{8}$ in. wide, with a narrow red stripe $\frac{1}{16}$ in. wide down the centre.

The name and regiment of the recipient are usually engraved in small capital letters on the edge of the medal.

In January, 1899, a medal was authorised by the Canadian Government, and approved of by our own, "in recognition of services rendered to the Dominion." It was presented to the members of the Canadian Militia, and of the Imperial Forces who were on active service during the Fenian Raids, and on the Red River Expedition. The medal is silver, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and has a straight clasp for suspension.

Obverse: The bust of Queen Victoria, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: The Canadian flag, surrounded by a wreath of maple leaves, above which is the word Canada.

General Service
Medal.

The name and regiment of the recipient are indented on the edge in square capitals; the old regimental numbers being used, thus: 47th Lan: R. Ribbon: $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with two scarlet and one white stripe down the middle of equal width.

Bars $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{3}{16}$ in. inscribed:

Fenian Raid 1866. Fenian Raid 1870. Red River 1870.

The following are the combinations of bars:

TWO BARS.	THREE BARS.
Fenian Raid 1866, Fenian Raid 1870. (1420 issued).	Red River 1870, Fenian Raid 1870, Fenian Raid 1866. (20 issued).
Red River 1870, Fenian Raid 1866. (150 issued).
Red River 1870, Fenian Raid 1870. (30 issued).

The total issue amounted to 16,120 medals, of which 14,500 had one bar only, 365 of these being for Red River 1870.

By Army Order 135 of August, 1899, Queen Victoria approved of the medal described on p. 131 being granted for the following operations in British Central Africa between 1894 and 1898:

Operations at and near Fort Johnston, January, 1894; Expedition against Kawinga, March, 1895; Expedition against Matipwiri, Zarafi, Mponda, Makanjira, September to November, 1895; Expedition against Mlozi, Mwazi, December, 1895; Expedition against Tambala, January, 1896; Expedition against Chikusi, Odeti, and Mkoma, October, 1896; Expedition against Chilwa, August, 1897; Expedition against Mpezeni, January to February, 1898; Southern Augoniland Expedition, April, 1898.

A bar $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{1}{4}$ in., inscribed "Central Africa 1894-1898," was added to the medal, and the swivel and ring originally fitted to it were superseded by a straight clasp similar to that previously issued with the Ashantee Medal. Those officers and men already in possession of the medal received the bar and clasp only.

In September, 1899, Queen Victoria approved of a further issue of the West Africa Medal of 1892, with a bar inscribed Sierra Leone 1898-99. The bar is wider than the others issued with this medal, being $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{1}{4}$ in., the inscription being in two lines. It was granted to the Imperial and Colonial forces who were employed in the military operations in the colony and protectorate of Sierra Leone between February 18th, 1898, and March, 1899.

West Africa,
1898-99.

The following operations were included in the award :

I. Boat Expedition to Lokko, March 5th, 1898.

II. Sherbro' District, May 1st to 15th, 1898. (H.M.S. Blonde.)

III. Boom Kittam River, May 16th, 1898. (H.M.S. Alecto and Blonde.)

IV. Brempe River, May 11th to 14th, 1898. (H.M.S. Fox and Colonial Boat Countess of Derby.)

The issue was limited to those officers and men of the British forces (seamen and marines) who were actually landed for military operations, or who took part in the boat expedition up rivers under fire, and to the West India Regiment and native levies.

Those already in possession of the medal received the bar only. They were issued in October, 1900; and the recipients' names were engraved on the edge in square capitals.

In December, 1900, a further distribution of the medal was authorised, and four new bars were issued, ^{1896-99.} inscribed, respectively :—1896-98, 1897-98, 1898, and 1899, according to the date of the operations, to the Imperial and Colonial Forces who were employed in any of the undermentioned military operations :

I. In the several expeditions in the northern territories of the Gold Coast between November 27th, 1896, and June 14th, 1898.

II. In the expeditions in the Hinterland of Lagos between September, 1897, and June 14th, 1898.

III. With the force under Lieut.-Col. J. Willcocks, in Borgu, before June 14th, 1898.

IV. In the Lapal Expedition, under Lieut.-Col. Pilcher, from June 8th to 27th, 1898.

V. In the expeditions known as Ibouza, Anam, Barna, Bassema, Siama, Angiama, Illah, Dama, all in 1898; and Bula, in 1899.

The medal, and bar inscribed 1899, were also given to the forces employed in the Central Division Expedition in February and March, 1899; and in the Benin Territories Expedition in April and May, 1899.

In October, 1901, King Edward VII. authorised the issue of the medal and a bar inscribed 1896-99, to all officers and men employed on military duty between the dates November 27th, 1896, and May, 1899, at any place within the Northern Territories of the Gold Coast, or in the Hinterland of Lagos. This includes all British territory lying between the northern frontier of the Colony of Lagos proper (about twenty miles from the sea coast) and the River Niger.

In July, 1903, the medal, and a bar inscribed 1900, were granted to the Imperial and Colonial troops employed in the Munshi and Kaduna Expeditions, between January 4th and March 19th, 1900, and February 20th and May 9th, 1900, respectively; both dates inclusive.

In place of the medal described on pages 108, 109, and 131, a new "East and Central Africa Medal" was authorised in February, 1899. It was granted to the forces employed in the military operations in the Uganda Protectorate in 1897 and 1898. Two bars were issued with it, one, inscribed Lubwa's, being granted to all Her Majesty's Forces and Allies who took part in the operations against the Soudanese mutineers, from September 23rd, 1897, to February 24th, 1898.

The other bar, inscribed Uganda 1897-8, was given to all who took part in Uganda operations, other than those against the Soudanese mutineers, from July 20th, 1897, to March 19th, 1898; or who reached Uganda within those dates. Only those who had official sanction to be present received the medal and bars.

In the same month a further issue of the medal was made to the forces taking part in the operations against the Ogaden Somalis from April to August, 1898. It was issued with a bar, inscribed 1898, and those already in possession of the medal received the bar only.

In December, 1900, the medal with clasp, inscribed Uganda 1899, was granted to the Imperial and Colonial forces employed in the operations against Kabarega in the Uganda Protectorate, between March 21st and May 2nd, 1899.

The medal is silver, $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. diameter, with a straight clasp for suspension; and the bars are $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. It was also issued in bronze to authorised camp-followers.

Obverse: A half-length effigy of Queen Victoria, crowned and veiled, similar to that on the Soudan medal previously described. Legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: A figure of Britannia, standing, and holding a trident in her right hand, and a palm-branch in her left hand, and a scroll, which are extended towards the rising sun, just appearing above the horizon. The British lion is standing behind. In the exergue, in capital letters, East and Central Africa. Ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, half red and half yellow.

The recipient's number, name, and regiment are engraved on the edge of the medal in capital letters.

Amongst others who received the bar for 1898 were the 4th and 27th Bombay Infantry (the latter also receiving the bar for Uganda 1897-8) and the 1st Beluch L.I.

In 1899 the Royal Niger Company gave a silver medal to Europeans and a bronze medal to natives who, forming part of their Constabulary, took part in fighting expeditions within their territories in which actual casualties occurred from 1886 to 1897.

Niger Coast,
1886-1897.

The issue to the native troops was restricted to those actually serving on December 31st, 1899. Some European civilians of the Company's Executive Staff who took part in those expeditions likewise received the medal.

Obverse: Queen Victoria's head, crowned and veiled, and wearing a laurel wreath. Above, the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: A shield, charged with the words, Pax, Jus, Ars, arranged in the form of the letter Y. Behind the shield are crossed swords and guns; above two flags and a flagstaff, the whole being surrounded by a laurel-wreath.

The medal is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and is fitted with a straight clasp and swivel for suspension.

Bar: $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{5}{16}$ in., inscribed, Nigeria, 1886-1897, in two lines. Ribbon: $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, composed of three equal stripes of yellow, black, and white.

Ashanti,
1900. In October, 1901, King Edward VII. approved of a new medal being struck to commemorate the operations in Ashanti, which were undertaken in consequence of the rebellion of the native tribes, and of the siege of Kumassi.

It was granted to all the Imperial and Colonial forces who were at any time attached in orders to the Ashanti Field Force between March 31st, 1900, and December 25th, 1900 (both dates inclusive); also to the British Gaman detachment of the Gold Coast Constabulary, under the command of Captain G. W. Soden, 3rd Battalion Royal Munster Fusiliers, during the period of the above operations.

Kumassi. A bar, inscribed Kumassi, was granted to all who took part in the defence of Kumassi between March 31st, 1900, and June 25th, 1900; or who remained in the fort until July 15th, 1900. Also to all who started with the relieving column from Bekwai on July 13th, and which reached Kumassi on July 15th, 1900; and to all those who started with the column under the command of Colonel A. P. Burroughes from Bekwai, on August 4th, which reached Kumassi on August 5th, 1900.

The medal is silver, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter. Bar: $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{3}{16}$ in. Suspender: a straight clasp and swivel.

Obverse: The bust of King Edward VII. to the left, in uniform, with medals and orders, surrounded by the legend, Edwardus VII., Rex, Imperator, Reverse: The British lion, standing, and looking to the left towards a rising sun. Below, Ashanti, on a scroll. In the foreground are a shield and two spears, one of which is broken. On the right a palm-leaf, with the stalk passing under the scroll. Ribbon: $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, green, with three black stripes down the edges and centre, $\frac{3}{16}$ in. wide.

The name, number, and regiment of the recipient are impressed in small square capitals upon the edge of the medal.

This was the first medal issued with King Edward VII.'s head on the obverse.

No British regiments took part in these operations, but a number of British officers and non-commissioned officers attached to native regiments received the medal. The following troops, amongst others, took part in the expedition:

350 men of the 2nd Battalion Central African Regiment, 350 men of the 2nd Battalion West African Frontier Force, 100 men of the West African Regiment, 40 Sierra Leone Police and two guns, all of which formed the Flying Column.

On January 3rd, 1902, King Edward VII. confirmed the authority given by Queen Victoria to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for the issue of a medal to commemorate the naval and military operations in North China in 1900.

The medal was granted to all officers, warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the British, Indian, and Colonial Forces who were employed in North China and in the Yangtse Valley from June 10th to December 31st, 1900, and to all who embarked in India for service in China in the expedition under the command of General Sir A. Gaselee.

Obverse: The bust of Queen Victoria to the left, crowned and veiled, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse: The same as that on the China Medal of 1842 (page 59), but with the date 1900 in the exergue, and with a straight clasp and swivel for suspension. Bar: 1 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{3}{16}$ in. Ribbon: Crimson, with yellow edges, as for the China medals of 1842 and 1860.

The following bars were issued:

Taku Forts: To all those who were engaged in the Peiho River, on June 17th, 1900, in the operations which resulted in the capture of the Taku Forts.

Defence of Legations: To all those who took part in the defence of the Legations in Pekin, between June 10th and August 14th, 1900, both dates inclusive.

Relief of Pekin: To all those who were engaged in the operations on shore at, or beyond, Taku, for the Relief of Pekin, between June 10th and August 14th, 1900, both dates inclusive.

The medal, and bars, in bronze were also given to all authorised Government followers who accompanied the troops during the operations.

The following troops took part in the expedition:

English: 12th Field Battery Royal Artillery and the 2nd Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers. Indian: No. 4 Company Bengal and No. 2 Company Bombay Sappers, 1st Bengal Lancers, 1st Madras Pioneers, 22nd Bombay Infantry, 24th Punjab Infantry, 1st and 14th Sikhs, 7th Bengal Infantry, No. 3 Company Madras Sappers, 2nd and 26th Bengal Native Infantry, 3rd Madras and 30th Bombay Native Infantry, and the 4th Goorkhas.

The Naval Brigade was composed of officers and men from the following ships:

H.M.S. Alacrity, Algerine, Arethusa, Aurora, Barfleur, Bonaventure, Centurion, Daphne, Dido, Endymion, Esk, Fame, Goliath, Hart, Hermione, Humber, Isis, Linnet, Marathon, Orlando, Peacock, Phoenix; (with the New South Wales and Victoria contingents), Pigmy, Pique, Plover, Protector; (South Australian cruisers), Redpole, Rosario, Snipe, Terrible, Undaunted, Walleroo, Waterwitch, Whiting, Woodcock, and Woodlark.

The majority of the sailors received the medal without bars.

In April, 1901, by Army Order No. 94, King Edward VII. confirmed the order given by Queen Victoria in June, 1900, that a medal be struck to commemorate the military operations in South Africa.

South Africa,
1899-1900,
1901.

It was granted to all officers, warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the British, Indian, and Colonial Forces; and to all nurses and nursing sisters, who actually served in South Africa between October 11th, 1899, and May 31st, 1902. Also to all troops stationed in Cape Colony and Natal at the outbreak of hostilities, and to troops stationed in St. Helena, between April 14th, 1900, and May 31st, 1902.

Two dies were cut for the reverse of this medal owing to the unexpected duration of the war. The first had the date, 1899-1900, in two horizontal lines after the words South Africa. 177,000 of these medals were issued, principally to Colonial and irregular levies. Lord Strathcona's Horse were the first troops to receive the medals, which were presented to them by King Edward VII. on February 15th, 1901, as they were passing through London on their way home to Canada.

No medals with the date on the reverse were issued after February 1st, 1901, and 50,000 then in stock were called in, being re-issued with the date removed.

This was subsequently known as The Queen's South Africa Medal.

It is silver, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter, and is fitted with a straight clasp and swivel for suspension. The bars are $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{5}{32}$ in., and are fixed $\frac{3}{8}$ in. apart, being joined together with cup-headed rivets. The name, rank, number, and regiment of the recipient are indented on the edge in capital letters. It was also given in bronze, and without bars, to non-enlisted men of any nationality who drew military pay.

The ribbon is $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with two outer red stripes $\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, two blue stripes $\frac{1}{8}$ in. wide, and a central stripe of orange $\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide.

Twenty-six bars were authorised with the medal. The following list gives the names on the bars, with the dates for which they were granted, in the order worn upwards from the medal :

Cape Colony (nearest medal), October 11th, 1899, to May 31st, 1902.

Natal, October 11th, 1899, to June 11th, 1900.

Rhodesia, October 11th, 1899, to May 17th, 1900.

Relief of Mafeking, October 11th, 1899, to May 17th, 1900.

Defence of Kimberley, October 14th, 1899, to February 15th, 1900.

Talana, October 20th, 1899.

Elandslaagte, October 21st, 1899.

Defence of Ladysmith, Nov. 3rd, 1899, to Feb. 28th, 1900.

Modder River, November 28th, 1899.
Tugela Heights, February 14th to 27th, 1900.
Relief of Kimberley, February 15th, 1900.
Paardeberg, February 17th to 26th, 1900.
Orange Free State, February 28th, 1900, to May 31st, 1902.
Relief of Ladysmith, December 15th, 1899, to February 28th, 1900.
Dreifontein, March 10th, 1900.
Wepener, April 9th to 25th, 1900.
Defence of Mafeking, October 13th, 1899, to May 17th, 1900.
Transvaal, May 24th, 1900, to May 31st, 1902.
Johannesburg, May 29th, 1900.
Laing's Nek, June 29th, 1900.
Diamond Hill, June 11th to 12th, 1900.
Wittebergen, July 1st to 29th, 1900.
Belfast, August 26th to 27th, 1900.
South Africa 1901, January 1st to December 31st, 1901.
South Africa 1902, January 1st to May 31st, 1902.

No one could have both the defence and relief bars for Kimberley, Mafeking, or Ladysmith, nor both the Cape Colony and Natal bars. It was originally intended that the Rhodesia bar be only given to troops in Rhodesia who did not get the Relief of Mafeking bar, but this was altered in July, 1902, by Army Order No. 171. The Cape Colony, Natal, Transvaal, and Orange Free State bars were given to troops engaged between the dates named who did not get a bar for an engagement in those places. The bars, South Africa, 1901, and South Africa, 1902, were given to those who served between the dates named but were ineligible for the King's Medal. The majority of the medals issued to the Navy had no bars.

In October, 1902, King Edward VII. approved of a second war medal being granted, in recognition of the services of the troops in the later phases of the campaign, and to be known as The King's South Africa Medal.

 Medal,
 1901-2.

It was issued to all officers, warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the British, Indian, and Colonial Forces, doctors, and nursing sisters, provided that they were actually serving in South Africa on or after January 1st, 1902, and that on that date they had completed eighteen months' war service, or subsequently completed such service before June 1st, 1902.

Obverse: The bust of the King to the left in uniform with medals and order, legend Edwardus VII., Rex Imperator. Reverse: The same as the Queen's medal previously described. Ribbon: Orange, white, and green, in three equal stripes, making up a ribbon $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The medal is the same size as the foregoing, and is mounted with a straight clasp and swivel.

Bars: $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{5}{8}$ in.; fixed $\frac{3}{8}$ in. apart, and inscribed, South Africa, 1901, South Africa, 1902, the first being nearest to the medal.

A silver medal, in all respects similar to The Queen's Medal (except that no bars were issued with it, and that on the reverse the word Mediterranean is substituted for South Africa) was issued to all the embodied Militia battalions who served in the Mediterranean garrisons during the South African War. It was worn with the same ribbon as the Queen's medal. The following Militia battalions received it: The Loyal North Lancashire, Royal West Kent, Northumberland Fusiliers, Royal Munster Fusiliers, West Yorks, 3rd Yorks Light Infantry, and the Devonshire.

The following combinations of bars occur, though doubtless there are many others :

Victoria
Cross, 1856.

NUMBER of medals have been instituted from time to time as rewards for valour, long service, good conduct, etc. The principal one is the "Victoria Cross." It was instituted by Royal Warrant June 29th, 1856, and revised April 23rd, 1881. The Warrant begins:—

Whereas we take into our Royal consideration that there exists no means of adequately rewarding the individual gallant services, either of officers of the lower grades in our naval and military service, or of warrant and petty officers, seamen, and marines in our navy, and non-commissioned officers and soldiers in our army, it is ordained that the cross shall only be awarded to those officers or men who served us in the presence of the enemy, and shall have then performed some signal act of valour or devotion to their country.

The idea originated with the late Prince Consort, and he is said to have designed the medal. Officers and men of the auxiliary and reserve forces are also eligible for the decoration. In the case of warrant officers, seamen, marines, non-commissioned officers, and privates, the Cross carries with it an annuity of £10 per annum, and £5 extra per annum is added for each additional bar.

In July, 1898, it was decided that, at the Secretary of State's discretion, a sum of £50 a year may be granted by way of pension in lieu of the £10 which has accompanied the V.C. since its institution.

On August 8th, 1902, King Edward VII. sanctioned the Cross being given to the representatives of soldiers who would have been entitled to it had they survived, for services during the Boer War. Hitherto, when a soldier had been recommended for the Cross, but had died before it could be given, his name appeared in the Gazette, but the decoration was not given to his relatives. In addition to the Boer War, the rule was made retrospective on the above-mentioned date.

The decoration consists of a bronze Maltese cross, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. square, and is made from captured cannon. On the obverse, in the centre, is the British lion and crown; and below, on a scroll, the words, For Valour. The Cross has a raised edge, $\frac{1}{16}$ in. wide, with one of similar width the same distance from the outer one. A small pierced lug is attached to the top limb for suspension. The reverse also has a raised edge, and a raised circle in the centre. A laureated clasp, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, is attached for suspension, and a V below is connected to the Cross by a small link. The name and regiment of the recipient are engraved upon the back of the clasp; and the date of the act of bravery is engraved inside the circle on the reverse of the medal. For each additional act of bravery a bar is given, upon which is engraved the date of the action. The Cross is worn with a red ribbon, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, by recipients in the Army, and with a blue ribbon by those in the Navy.

Should a recipient of the V.C. at any time be convicted of crime or cowardice, the Cross is forfeited; and in the case of a non-commissioned officer, or private the pension is withdrawn.

The following is an alphabetical list of the winners since the institution, with the date when, and campaign in which, the action was performed; also the rank of the recipient on receipt of the Cross, the ultimate rank attained, and whether alive, or still serving.

- Ablett, A., Sergeant, Grenadier Guards. September 2nd, 1855, Crimea. Deceased.

The V.C. is the most highly-prized decoration a soldier can win, and a list of the recipients still drawing the annuity, and of such officers as are still living, is published quarterly in the Army List. The Cross was purposely made of bronze, so that its intrinsic value should be as small as possible. It is easily copied, and numbers of forged ones are met with, some of which it is very hard to detect, but as a rule they are rather smaller than the genuine ones.

Meritorious Service Medal, 1845. A silver medal, 1.4in. diameter, For Meritorious Service, was authorised on December 19th, 1845, and a sum not exceeding £2000 a year was set apart for distribution—in the form of annuities to sergeants recommended by the commander-in-chief—as rewards for distinguished or meritorious service. The annuity was not to exceed £20 a year in any case. On June 4th, 1853, the total sum to be distributed was increased to £4000 per annum, as a limit. By a Warrant dated December 4th, 1854, one sergeant of each cavalry and infantry regiment, and one from each battalion of Foot Guards, was to be selected for the award, for services in the Crimea. The medal may not be worn with the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal, but may be with that for Distinguished Conduct in the Field.

The obverse of the medal has a diademed head of Queen Victoria, with the legend, Victoria Regina, and the date of issue in the exergue. On some of the earlier and later medals the date on the obverse is omitted. The reverse has the inscription, For Meritorious Service, with a crown above, and surrounded by laurel-branches. The ribbon is crimson, and the name and regiment of the recipient are engraved on the edge of the medal. The medal is also issued to sergeants of marines, and is then worn with a blue ribbon, 1½in. wide.

Dis-tinguished Conduct Medal, 1854. The medal for Distinguished Conduct in the Field was instituted on December 4th, 1854, as a mark of the "Sovereign's sense of the distinguished service and gallant conduct in the field of the army then serving in the Crimea." It has been awarded in subsequent campaigns, and is only given to non-commissioned officers and privates. The commanding officer of each regiment of cavalry had the right to select one sergeant, two corporals, and four privates for the medal; and the commanding officer of each infantry regiment could select one sergeant, four corporals, and ten privates. A gratuity was also given with the medal—£15 to sergeants, £10 to corporals, and £5 to privates. The money was put into the regimental savings bank, and remained at interest until the discharge of the soldier, when it became his private property. In September, 1862, the gratuity was withdrawn, and in February, 1881, a bar was sanctioned, to be added in cases where a recipient of the medal further distinguished himself. It is $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. long and $\frac{3}{16}$ in. wide, and bears the month, day of the month, and year of the action for which it is granted.

The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter, and the obverse has the arms of the United Kingdom quartered on a shield, and supported by a military trophy, consisting of cannons, arms, cannon-balls, and helmets, like the Victorian Long Service Medal; but the reverse is inscribed, For Distinguished Conduct in the Field. A scroll-clasp is attached to the medal for suspension. The ribbon is crimson, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, with a blue stripe down the centre; and in the earlier issues the recipient's name, rank, and regiment are indented round the edge of the medal. In the more recent issues they are engraved, and, in addition, have the date of the action for which the medal was awarded. The medal may be worn with the Meritorious Service, or the Long Service and Good Conduct medals.

Indian Distinguished Service Medal.

Whereas We have taken into our Royal consideration that the means of adequately rewarding the distinguished services of Indian commissioned and non-commissioned officers and men of Our Indian Regular Forces, including the Reserve of the Indian Army, Border Militia and Levies, and Military Police and Imperial Service Troops when employed under the orders of Our Government in India, who have distinguished themselves in peace or on active service are limited :

Now, for the purpose of attaining an end so desirable as that of rewarding individual instances of such distinguished service, We have instituted and created, and do by these presents for Us, Our heirs and successors, institute and create a new Indian Military decoration to be distinguished and hereinafter described, which We are desirous should be highly prized by Our Indian commissioned and non-commissioned officers and men, and We are graciously pleased to make, ordain, and establish the following rule and ordinance for the government of the same which shall henceforth be inviolably observed and kept.

Firstly.—It is ordained that the decoration shall henceforth be styled and designated the “Indian Distinguished Service Medal.”

Secondly.—It is ordained that the decoration shall be a silver medal of the same size as a war medal, having thereon Our effigy. On the reverse side a laurel wreath with the words “For distinguished service” in relief thereon.

Thirdly.—It is ordained that the medal shall be worn suspended from the left breast immediately on the right of all war medals, by a red ribbon $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, of the colour of the ribbon of the Order of British India, edged with blue, three-eighths of an inch wide, of the colour of the ribbon of the Indian Order of Merit.

Fourthly.—It is ordained that the regulations regarding the forfeiture of war medals shall apply to the medal hereby created.

Fifthly.—It is ordained that the power of conferring the medal upon an individual, or of depriving an individual to whom the medal has been granted of such medal, as provided in Article 4 shall be exercised on Our behalf by the Governor-General of India with the same force as if exercised by Us; and the name of an individual so granted the medal or deprived of the medal shall be published in the official Gazette of India.

A medal For Conspicuous Gallantry was authorised for issue to the Navy on August 13th, 1855, for the Crimean War only. It was given to petty officers, seamen, sergeants, corporals, and privates of marines who distinguished themselves in action. It was given in the proportion of eight to petty officers, sergeants, or corporals of marines, and ten to sailors or privates of marines, for every thousand men engaged. Gratuities of £15, £10, and £5 were also given, the total not to exceed £4000 per annum. By an Order of Council dated July 7th, 1874, the medal was again instituted, and the amounts of the annuities were altered to £20 for chief and first-class petty officers of the Navy and sergeants of the Royal Marines, provided the amount authorised from time to time for such annuities by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury is not exceeded. The medal is now available for any war in which the Navy or Marines may be engaged.

Conspicuous Gallantry
and 1874.

The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter, and the obverse has a diademed head of Queen Victoria, with Victoria Regina above. The reverse is inscribed, in raised letters, For Conspicuous Gallantry; a crown above, and the whole surrounded by olive-branches. The ribbon is blue, with a white stripe down the centre, 1½in. wide. On the later medals the name and rank of the recipient, and the date of the action are engraved on the edge in capital letters.

The earlier medals were made from the Meritorious Service Medal, with the last two words on the reverse erased, and Conspicuous Gallantry engraved instead. These medals have a scroll-clasp for suspension, while those issued since 1874 have a straight one. This medal may be worn with the Victoria Cross.

Colonel Gaskell has in his collection two extraordinary and unique groups: one consisting of the Victoria Cross, Conspicuous Gallantry medal (both dated July 15th and August 16th, 1855), Legion of Honour, Sardinian War Medal, Crimean Medal with bar "Sebastopol," Baltic, two bar China (Fatshan, 1857, and Canton, 1857), and the Turkish Crimean Medal, eight medals in all, belonging to John Shepherd, Boatswain, H.M.S. "St. Jean D'Acree"; and the other consisting of two Conspicuous Gallantry medals (dated October 14th, 1855, and November 6th, 1855, respectively), three bar Crimea (Inkermann, Sebastopol, and Azoff), Legion of Honour, and the Turkish Crimean Medal, belonging to David Barry, A.B., H.M.S. Cracker. The latter is the only instance known of two of these medals having been given to one man.

The silver medal for Long Service and Good Conduct was first instituted on July 30th, 1830, by King William IV., for non-commissioned officers and men who had been discharged in receipt of gratuities. The recipient had to serve twenty-one years in the infantry, or twenty-four years in the cavalry.

The obverse has a military trophy, with an oval shield in the centre charged with the royal arms, and a smaller shield in the centre bearing the arms of Hanover. The reverse has the inscription, For Long Service and Good Conduct. It is 1.4in. diameter, and the suspender is a small steel clip, to which was attached a steel loop. The ribbon was crimson, 1½in. wide, and the name and regiment of the recipient, and the date of issue were indented in large letters on the edge of the medal.

A small silver medal was given by King William IV. to his Hanoverian troops for long service. Obverse, the head of King William IV. Reverse, Für sechszehn Jährige treue dienste. A steel ring and clip were fitted for suspension. Ribbon, red with blue edges.

Medal.

A gold Maltese cross was issued on March 2nd, 1837, to the Hanoverian troops for twenty-five years' service. It has on the obverse, in the centre on a raised circle, a crown with W. R. IV. below. In the centre of the reverse is the number XXV in Roman characters. The ribbon is red with blue edges, similar to that worn with the English Waterloo medal.

In the earlier years of Queen Victoria's reign the Long Service Medal, as above described, was issued to the troops, but the Hanoverian shield was left out of the centre of the royal arms, Hanover having ceased to be under the control of this country. The suspender, ribbon, and inscriptions on the edge of the medals remained the same. The obverse is the same as that of the Distinguished Conduct Medal described on page 215.

Army Long
Service
Medal, 1837.

About 1851 the steel suspender was replaced by a silver clasp similar to that made for, and issued with, the Sutlej Medals, and the letters of the inscription on the obverse were slightly smaller. The date was omitted on the edge of the medal.

On January 16th, 1860, the conditions of issue were revised, and the medal was granted to soldiers who had fulfilled the necessary conditions; but no gratuities were given. No soldier is now entitled to the medal unless he has specially distinguished himself or has at least three Good Conduct Badges. After 1874 the letters round the edge were engraved instead of indented.

By a Royal Warrant, dated December 27th, 1870, these medals were granted to non-commissioned officers and soldiers on discharge, with a gratuity not exceeding £5 if they had served eighteen years with an irreproachable character. It is now given, with or without a gratuity, according to the decision of the War Office authorities.

Medal, 1870.

Naval Long
Service
Medal, 1831.

A medal for similar services was granted to the navy by King William IV., on August 24th, 1831; and was also given to the marines. The recipients were selected by the captains of the ships, and in addition to the medal, gratuities were granted according to their rating. On the obverse are an anchor and a crown, surrounded by a wreath of oak. On the reverse, the recipient's name, rating, ship, and number of years' service are engraved, surrounded by a circle, around which are inscribed the words, For Long Service and Good Conduct. It was 1.3in. in diameter, and was worn with a dark blue ribbon.

Naval Long
Service
Medal, 1848.

After the accession of Queen Victoria this medal was superseded by one 1.4in. diameter, having a diademed head of Her Majesty on the obverse, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina. Upon the reverse is a line-of-battle ship at anchor, surrounded by a circle of rope, tied in a reef-knot at the bottom. Around it are the words, For Long Service and Good Conduct. The recipient's name, rating, ship, number of years' service, and the date, are engraved on the edge of the medal. The ribbon is dark blue with white edges, 1½in. wide. On the earlier medals the clasp and ribbon are nearly half as wide again as those on the later medals, and some had the date 1848 below the Queen's head on the obverse.

A smaller medal than the foregoing exists, having on the obverse a small bust of Queen Victoria, surrounded by Victoria Regina. The reverse has a three-masted ship to the left, surrounded by the legend, For Long Service and Good Conduct. The recipient's name is engraved on the edge. It is probably the first issue of the Victorian medal, superseded by that described above.

After the accession of King Edward VII., and towards the end of 1902, the obverses of the Meritorious Service, Distinguished Conduct in the Field, Conspicuous Gallantry, Army Long Service and Good Conduct, Navy Long Service and Good Conduct Medals, and the Indian Meritorious Service, and Long Service and Good Conduct Medals of 1890 described on pp. 214 to 220 were altered. The effigy of King Edward VII. was substituted for that of Queen Victoria on the obverse of the Meritorious Service, Conspicuous Gallantry, and Navy Long Service Medals; or the trophy of arms previously used on the Army Long Service and Distinguished Conduct Medals; and the inscription was altered to Edward VII. Rex Imperator. On the Indian medals the inscription is Edward VII. Kaisar-i-hind. On the obverse of the Naval Long Service and Good Conduct Medals King Edward VII. is shown in naval uniform. No change was made in the suspenders or mounts except that the clip fastening the clasp to the medal is flowered instead of plain.

The Governor-General of India instituted a Long Service Medal for the East India Company's troops on May 20th, 1848. The obverse is very similar to that of the English medal, but instead of an oval shield charged with the royal arms, one bearing those of the East India Company is substituted. On the reverse, the words For Long Service and Good Conduct are inscribed in a circle around the outside; whilst inside the ring so formed, the name, rank, and regiment of the recipient are engraved. The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter, and the suspender is the same as that issued with the Sutlej, and Punjab Medals. The ribbon is crimson, 1½in. wide.

for Long Service,
1848 (Army).

At the same time a medal was authorised for meritorious service. On the obverse is a diademed head of Queen Victoria, with the legend, Victoria Regina, above, and the date, 1848, below. Upon the reverse are the arms of the Honourable East India Company, and surrounding it, in a circle, are the words, For Meritorious Service. The recipient's name, rank, and regiment are engraved on the edge of the medal, in Italian running-hand. The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter. The suspender is of the same type as that of the previous medal, and the ribbon is crimson, 1½in. wide. These medals were issued until 1873, when they were discontinued, and those of the English type substituted.

A medal was struck for the H.E.I. Co.'s navy, but was not issued, so they never received a reward for long service. A few were issued by the Madras and Bombay Governments, by mistake, to the army. The obverse bears a diademed head of Queen Victoria, with Victoria Regina above. The reverse has, For Long Service and Good Conduct, with a crown above and an anchor below, surrounded by oak-branches. It was worn with a crimson ribbon, like those previously described.

48TH FOOT REGIMENTAL MEDAL
(OBVERSE).

SIR H. G. SMITH'S GALLANTRY IN THE FIELD MEDAL (OBVERSE).

FIELD MEDAL (REVERSE).

In 1842, the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty issued a medal as a reward "to engineers of the first class serving in Her Majesty's Navy who, by their good conduct and ability, deserve some special mark of notice." It is an extremely rare medal, as only six were awarded; and the issue was discontinued in 1847, when engineers were raised to the rank of warrant-officers. A two-masted paddle-steamer is shown on the obverse, with a trident below, in the exergue. On the reverse are inscribed, in a circle, the words, For Ability and Good Conduct, inside which the name and rank of the recipient are engraved, with a crown above and an anchor below. The medal is 1.4in. diameter, and the ribbon was dark blue with white edges.

Engineers'
Medal, 1842.

In 1870, a silver medal and gratuity of £20 were instituted, to be given annually to the best shot in the army. The obverse bears the same bust of Queen Victoria as the Ashantee Medal, and has the same legend. The reverse, which was designed by E. J. Poynter, A.R.A., has a figure of Victory, standing on a dais, holding a horn in her left hand, and crowning a warrior with a wreath of laurel. He is armed with a bow, and holds a shield in which are three arrows. The medal is silver, 1.4in. diameter. The ribbon is red, with two narrow black stripes and a white stripe near each edge, 1½in. wide; the suspender is a straight clasp. The medal was originally issued in bronze, and was worn on the right breast. It was discontinued in 1883, and only sixteen were given.

Best Shot in the Army, 1870.

A silver medal is also given annually to the best shot among the native soldiers in India. The obverse has a head of Queen Victoria similar to that on the medal lastly described, but with the legend, Victoria

Army.

Queen; and on the reverse, Victory, holding in her right hand a laurel-wreath, and in her left a Union Jack, at the foot of which is a shield inscribed, Best Shot of the Native Armies of India. Troops are firing in the background, and there are mountains in the distance. It is 1.6in. diameter. The ribbon is the same as that for the foregoing medal.

Another very rare medal, or badge, given to native troops for shooting, is in the shape of a native soldier kneeling and taking aim. On the reverse is engraved, Given by Lord F. Fitzclarence. It was worn suspended by a ring to a dark blue ribbon.

In 1888, two medals were issued by the Government of India to native troops, one for Meritorious Service and the other for Long Service and Good Conduct. Obverse, Queen Victoria's head, crowned and veiled, similar to that on the Egyptian medals, but surrounded by the inscription, Kaizar-i-Hind. Reverse, in the centre, India, surrounded by a palm-wreath. Outside the wreath, For Meritorious Service, the whole being surrounded by a wreath of lotus-flowers. The medal is silver, and is 1.4in. diameter.

India, 1888.

Obverse, similar to the above. Reverse, similar to the above, but with the words, For Long Service and Good Conduct substituted for Meritorious Service. Like the former it is 1.4in. diameter.

These medals are only given to native Indian troops, and are worn with a crimson ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide. The name is engraved on the edge in ordinary running-hand. The Author is indebted to Lieutenant-Colonel A. N. Baird, Royal Engineers, for the description of these medals.

On June 18th, 1901, the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty presented a memorial to the Privy Council, praying that some means of recognising distinguished service before the enemy be granted to Warrant Officers or Subordinate Officers of His Majesty's Fleet who, by reason of not holding a commission in the Royal Navy, are not eligible for appointment to any existing Order or Decoration.

Conspicuous Service
Cross.

On June 28th, 1901, King Edward VII. sanctioned the institution of a decoration to be designated the Conspicuous Service Cross, and to carry the right with it for the recipient to have the letters C.S.C. appended to his name.

It is awarded for meritorious or distinguished services before the enemy, performed by Warrant Officers, or by Subordinate Officers, or acting Warrant Officers of His Majesty's Fleet, and no person shall be nominated thereto unless his services shall have been marked by the especial mention of his name in despatches by the Admiral, or senior naval or military officer commanding the squadron, or detached force.

The cross is of silver, patée convexed, having on the obverse, in the centre, the royal cypher E.R.I., surrounded by a raised ring, and surmounted by the Imperial Crown, and a ring for suspension. The reverse is plain. Ribbon, blue, with a white stripe down the centre, like that for the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal.

REGIMENTAL MEDALS.

WE now come to a very interesting series of medals, known amongst collectors as "Regimental Medals." They are of much greater antiquity than the majority of those described in the foregoing pages; but for purposes of reference it has been thought better to classify them in regimental order, instead of chronologically. They were not issued by the Government, but were generally presented by the officers of the regiments, at their own expense, to non-commissioned officers and men for bravery, long service, temperance, &c., and were, as a rule, discontinued when The Long Service Medal was instituted, in 1830. There may, possibly, be many more than those described, but the following is a list of those known to the Author.

HOUSEHOLD CAVALRY.—Obverse, a cavalryman aiming; below, the legend, Art, not Strength. Reverse, a cavalry bugle, with royal banner pendent, crossed by guns; the whole surrounded by an oak wreath. Silver-gilt, 1.6in. diameter.

ROYAL HORSE GUARDS.—The Star of the Garter. R. H. G. Waterloo: A Reward of Merit, 1817, J. Varley. An oval silver medal.

1ST DRAGOON GUARDS.—(1) A silver-gilt and enamelled star of four points; in the centre, on red enamel, a crown G. R. and I. D. G., surrounded by a ring of blue enamel with the inscription A Reward for Military Merit, 1817. The points of the star are filled with red enamel. The name of the recipient, W. Clarkson, is on the reverse.

(2) From Lieut.-Colonel Hawley, 1798. A silver medal.

2ND DRAGOON GUARDS.—(1) Obverse, a mounted dragoon carrying a drawn sword. Legend, Pro Rege et Patria; in the exergue, Queen's Bays. Reverse, the Barracks at Norwich, with the walls and entrance gates; railing outside the walls; on a scroll, Norwich Barracks, 1793. (1½ in. diameter.) Captain Whitaker has one of these medals, in silver, with a raised rim and ring for suspension; and specimens exist in bronze. There is some doubt, however, whether these are really medals, or merely tokens: possibly they may have served both purposes.

(2) Military Merit rewarded. W. Woodman, 1815.

4TH ROYAL IRISH DRAGOON GUARDS.—(1) Obverse, the badge of the regiment. Reverse, A reward of military merit, 1815, given to A. Kirwan by his comrades. A silver medal, all engraved.

(2) Obverse, the badge of the regiment. Reverse, Presented to James Evans by the officers of the regiment; a reward of military merit, 1816.

5TH DRAGOON GUARDS.—A pair of compasses, resting on a quadrant. Between the legs of the compasses is a sun with nine rays, with a cock above. The quadrant has the following inscription on it:— In front: Presented by the brethren of lodges 570 and 663 to their esteemed and much respected brother, Quarter-Master J. H. Cochran of the 5th Dragoon Guards, as a testimonial tribute of respect to one of the heroes of Llevena, Salamanca, Vittoria, and Toulouse. On the reverse:—As well as every other field of glory throughout the Peninsula War. Fields on which the character of this Irish hero was so Honourably, so frequently and conspicuously distinguished. Silver, and silver-gilt; over-all dimensions, $5\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 6in.

(2) James Stewart, 1815, with a bar inscribed Buenos Ayres.

(3) An oval silver medal, For Merit and Soldierly Conduct, James Scott, 1815, with a bar inscribed Buenos Ayres 1807.

1ST DRAGOONS.—Obverse, the Royal Crest, within a garter crowned, on a wreath the regimental motto, Spectamur Agendo, which unites branches of rose, shamrock, and thistle. In the exergue the French flag of the 105th Regiment. Reverse, This badge of merit was awarded by Col. Clifton, the Royal Regt. of Dragoons, to Sergt. Cook, at Cork: 17th Nov. 1827. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter, with a chased floral border.

2ND DRAGOONS. — 2nd Royal North British Dragoons, the gift of Lieut.-Col. John Haydock Bowman, 9th. January: 1803; for Merit. A large oval, silver medal.

40TH FOOT.—(1) Obverse, inscribed 40th Regiment, German Town, Oct. 4, 1777, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Reverse, the American troops investing the Store-house; above, Reward of Merit. A silver, and also a bronze, medal, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter, worn with a narrow dark blue ribbon.

(2) Obverse, For seven years' fidelity, surmounted by the Prince of Wales' plumes; below, a Sphinx, and surrounded by the legend, 1st. Battn. Prince of Wales' Volunteers: South Lancashire Regt. Total Abstinence Society. Reverse, Reward of Merit, surrounded by a wreath of roses and laurels. A silver struck medal, 1.5in. diameter.

(3) A gold Maltese cross. Obverse, in the centre, Stedfast and true for ten years; and on each of the four limbs, XL. T. A. S. Reverse, the recipient's name, and date of presentation.

(4) A silver Maltese cross. On the arms, engraved, B. H. of X. L.

(5) A silver eight-pointed star. Obverse, in the centre, a raised Maltese cross, with T. A. S. on the arms. In the centre of the cross a raised shield, inscribed XL. Reverse, plain, with recipient's name engraved.

(6) Obverse, in the centre, a Sphinx, with Egypt below, surrounded by laurel-branches, outside which, on a scroll, is engraved 40th Somersetshire Regt. Foot. Reverse, For soldierly merit, 1815; and below, on a scroll, Will. Wooley. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. diameter, with raised rim and loop for suspension. This, and the same man's Waterloo medal, are in Colonel Gaskell's collection.

(7) For gallant conduct before Ciudad Roderigo, awarded by Lieut.-Col. Horcout. Edward Porter, 1st. Battn. 40th. Sold, with his six-clasp Peninsula at Sotheby's, June 29th, 1904.

(2) Obverse, Nive, Orthes, Toulouse, Waterloo. Reverse, XLII., within a laurel-wreath. Suspended from a bar engraved Victoria. Ribbon, crimson with blue edges. This medal is in Lord Cheylesmore's collection.

(3) Similar to No. 1, the only difference being in the reverse, where a Sphinx and Egypt are substituted for the number of the regiment. It was given to six or eight survivors of the Battle of Alexandria. Ribbon, red with blue edges.

(4) A large silver medal, 2in. diameter. Obverse, the head of Sir Ralph Abercromby; legend, Abercrombius dux in Egypto, Cecidit Victor. 28 Mar., 1801. Reverse, a Highlander (Major Stirling) capturing a French standard, with the Gaelic inscription, Na Fir a choisin b'vaidh' san ephait, 21 Mar., 1801 ("These are the heroes who won victory in Egypt"). Engraved on the edge of the medal, in Gaelic, O'n Chomun ghaeleach d'on fhreiceadan dubh na XLII Rt. ("From the London Highland Society, to the Black Watch, or 42nd Regiment").

(5) Obverse, a shield, on which is a figure of St. Andrew crucified, with the letters R. H. R. in the left, right, and bottom divisions of the shield; above the shield, XLII; below, Nemo me impune Lacessit, surrounded by a beaded circle. Reverse, engraved, Egypt, Corunna, Fuentes d'Onor, Salamanca, Pyrenees, Nivelles, Nive, Orthes, Toulouse, surrounded by a beaded circle. On the edge, A token of respect from the non-commissioned officers of the 42nd Regt. to Corporal J. Mackenzie, 1817. A large silver engraved medal, $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter. It has a raised border, and elaborate suspender composed of thistles, with ring for the ribbon to pass through. In the Murray collection.

(6) Obverse, a circular badge; in the centre, St. Andrew's Cross; in the centre of the cross, P. H.; and on the two upper arms, Palma Virtuti; engraved on the circle, Nemo me impune lacessit. Reverse, engraved, XLII. Defence, Defiance, 100 yards distant Best marksman. A silver badge, with crown and ring for suspension; below, two thistles, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. diameter. In the Murray collection.

(7) Obverse, troops marching through a mountainous country; below, Pyrenees; a figure of Saint Andrew, and the regimental motto, Nemo me impune lacessit above; a thistle on each side. Reverse, emblematic figure of Fame, Peninsula honours, &c. Sold at Debenham's, May 1st, 1903, with 7-bar Peninsula medal: Corunna, Salamanca, Pyrenees, Nile, Nive, Orthes, Toulouse, both to James McIntosh.

(8) A large silver cross, inscribed, For Merit, Corunna, 1809. Sold at Debenham's on November 24th, 1899, together with the same man's 4-bar M.G.S. medal: Corunna, Salamanca, Orthes, Toulouse.

(9) A large silver medal, inscribed 42nd Waterloo

1815, the gift of the Sergeants, Corporals, and privates to Donald Davidson.

(10) The gift of the Officers to D. Macpherson. Merit rewarded, 1818.

43RD FOOT.—(1) Obverse, a royal crown, beneath which is suspended a bugle; the regimental number—43; Presented by the officers of the Regiment to Private Henry Wharton, 43rd Lt. Infantry, for long service and good conduct. Reverse, inscribed, Served seven campaigns in Spain and France. Present at the battles of Vimiera, Douro, Talavera, Cos, Busaco, Sabugal, Fuentes d'Onor, Ciudad Roderigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, Vittoria, Nivelles, Nive, Toulouse.

(2) Obverse, a bugle and cords, between which is the regimental number—43—surrounded by a garter, with the inscription, Monmouthshire Light Infantry, and surrounded by a crown. The whole is mounted on a silver engraved medal, 1½ in. diameter, with richly chased background. Reverse, engraved, Distinguished conduct in action, surrounded by two olive-branches, the whole of the field engraved with lines; around the edge, Colour-Sergeant R. Jermy. Ribbon, crimson with white edges, on which are loose bars, engraved Bayonne, 23rd Nov. 1813; France, Pyrenees, Peninsula, Spain, Portugal, Flanders, America. This rare decoration is in Colonel Gaskell's collection.

(3) Obverse, a bugle, with the regimental number—43—between the cords, surmounted by a crown and surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Reverse, For Military Merit. Corporal J. McCawley. From his Comrades: 1815. A large silver engraved medal, with raised border and loop for suspension.

(4) Obverse, 43. Monmouthshire, with wreath and crown. Reverse, To the best shot, 1800. Won by Capt. J. Earle. The gift of Lt. Colonel Rd. Stuart. A silver engraved medal.

(5) Obverse, 43 within a wreath. Valour and merit rewarded. On a scroll, Given to Wm. Thomson for assisting a wounded officer out of action at Bunker's Hill, 1775. Reverse, Given by the Officers of His Majesty's 43rd. Regiment, in the year 1785, to J. Loftus, to perpetuate the memory of his distinguished Conduct at the Battle of Bunker's Hill: June 17th, 1775. A gold medal.

(6) A silver Maltese cross. Obverse, on each of the arms is engraved one of the following names: Vimiera, Corunna, Busaco, Peninsula, and the figures 43 in the centre; 1½ in. square, with slightly raised border all round. The reverse is plain, with the recipient's name, John Cook, engraved in running hand; ring and bar for suspension. Another to C. Nugent. Another to C. McGouvan.

44TH FOOT.—Obverse, a bugle, within a double laurel-wreath; above, 6th April, 1812. Reverse, C. Little, 44th Rgt. of Foot. A volunteer in the leading column of attack at the assault of Badajoz. A silver medal. In the Whitaker collection.

45TH FOOT.—(1) A large silver Maltese cross (similar to the first-class cross of the 88th). In the centre 45th Regt., and on each of the arms of the cross three battles: Talavera, Busaco, Nive; Fuentes, d'Onor, Pyrenees, Nivelle; Salamanca, Vittoria, Badajoz; Ciudad Rodrigo, Toulouse, Orthes.

(2) Obverse, the Arms of the town of Nottingham. Reverse, To the best shot, 1803; the gift of Lt.-Col. Wm. Guard.

46TH FOOT.—(1) Obverse, a bugle, and the regimental number—46—within a laurel-wreath. Reverse, Presented to Color-Sergeant John Marsh by the Light Company of the 46th Rgt., previous to his discharge, as a Testimonial of their respect and esteem. Belfast, 22nd of October, 1852.

(2) Obverse, After 25 years' service in the 46th. Dominica. Reverse, Presented by the Hon. Commd. Officers, and Privates of the Light Company to C. S. (Colour-Sergt.) S. Scottock as a token of their respect and esteem.

(3) 46th. South Devonshire Regt. 1812. A reward for conspicuous military merit to A. Clark. Silver, oval.

48TH FOOT.—Obverse, the regimental number—48—with crown above; the recipient's name engraved on a scroll; below, Northamptonshire, 1819. Reverse inscription, the names of Peninsula battles in which the recipient was engaged; they vary in number from one to eleven, the whole surrounded by a laurel-wreath. A silver engraved medal, 1½ in. diameter. Ribbon, red with blue edges. Instituted in 1819.

49TH FOOT.—(1) Obverse, the regimental number—49—within a wreath of roses, shamrocks, and thistles; a crown above, and P. Charlotte of Wales. Reverse, April 17, 1837, within a wreath; legend, Temperance Society Established. A silver medal, 1.6 in. diameter.

(2) Obverse, Princess Charlotte of Wales, 1st Royal Berkshire Regt. In the centre, a Dragon and China between a wreath, with crown above.

Reverse, A. T. A. Battalion. Branch established 6th. Feby., 1894. A small silver medal.

(3) Obverse, Vittoria, Talavera, Busaco, Salamanca, in six lines. Reverse, in the centre, Peninsula, surrounded by To Corpl. Thomas Quin: 49th. Regiment. A silver medal, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter, all engraved, with raised rim, and loop for suspension. The medal is hall-marked for 1826, and, as the 49th were not in the Peninsula War, this man probably served in some other regiment, and was amongst the many who were either discharged or transferred after Toulouse. The medal is evidently one of those frequently given to an old and deserving comrade on his retiring from service. Quin evidently retired in 1826, when the medal was given. It was probably presented by his comrades.

(4) Obverse, 49. Lake Ontario, 1813, within a wreath; Hertfordshire Regt. under. Reverse, Presented to James Fitz Gibbon, Lieut. by his brother subalterns in recognition of his daring exploit on the 24th. June, when he caused the surrender of upwards of 500 of the enemy. An oval gold medal.

50TH FOOT.—Obverse, In relief, a lion and crown, with motto on a scroll: Quo fas et gloria ducunt. Reverse, Best shot of the 50th Regiment. A silver medal $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. diameter, with steel clip for suspension.

51ST FOOT.—Obverse, a bust of George III., in armour. Reverse, Sergeant Landry, a faithful Soldier of the Fifty-first Regiment. A silver medal.

52ND FOOT.—(1) Obverse, a bugle, and LII., within a laurel-wreath; above, 6th April, 1812. Reverse, a volunteer in the leading column of attack at the assault of Badajoz. The officers of the 52nd Regiment to — 52nd Regiment. ($1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter.)

(2) A similar medal, having on the reverse, At the assault of St. Sebastian; and on the obverse, the date—31st Aug., 1813. The letters are embossed, with the exception of the name of the battle and that of the recipient, which are engraved.

Both these medals are silver; the ribbon is crimson with blue edges.

53RD FOOT.—Silver bars attached to a blue and red ribbon, $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. wide, in two equal stripes. Obverse, a silver plate, with 2nd Batt. 53rd Rgt., or Shropshire, surrounded by a laurel-wreath, with one or more bars inscribed with the name of a battle. Reverse, the recipient's name. Only fifteen sergeants got this rare decoration.

According to Colonel Rogerson's "Records of the 53rd Regiment," the following were the sergeants who received the decoration :

(2) Obverse, G.R., a crown above; below, 86, surrounded by a wreath. Reverse, The gift of Lieut. Col. Js. Phillips Lloyd, Commanding His Majesty's 86th. Regt. of Foot: To Quartermaster James Carr, as a token of his high regard for him as a soldier. 20th. May 1801. A silver medal, all engraved, with loop for suspension.

87TH FOOT.—(1) At the Battle of Barossa a sergeant (P. Masterson) of this regiment captured a French eagle of the 8th Regiment, being the first taken from the French during the Peninsula War. The officers, in commemoration of this had gold eagles struck, which they wore on anniversaries, and social occasions. On the breast of the eagle was a silver wreath, from which is suspended a label bearing the word Barossa, and on the reverse Graham, the name of the commanding officer, afterwards Lord Lynedoch. The non-commissioned officers and men adopted a somewhat similar device in silver, and which is sometimes found attached to the ribbons of their Peninsula medals. On the gold eagle a small diamond forms the eye. Lord Gough's eagle had the Prince of Wales' plumes above, and an Irish harp below.

(2) Obverse, in the centre, an eagle; on a grenade below, 87, surrounded by a wreath of shamrocks. Above, a crown; on either side an Irish harp and the Prince of Wales' plumes; below, on a scroll, Faugh a ballagh. Reverse, The Reward of Merit. For Gallantry. Given by Colonel Hugh Gough to Sergt. Patrick Donnelly: 18th June, 1813. A silver medal with an ornamental border, all engraved.

(3) A silver medal. Obverse, The 2nd. Bn. 87th Prince of Wales' Own Irish Regt., eagle and harp. Reverse, within a wreath, Tarifa, John Walters, 1814, Reward for Merit and Military Virtue.

(4) Reverse, The Gift of the officers of the 1st. Battn. 87th. Prince of Wales' Regt. to Ensign Peter Benson Husband, in consequence of his very gallant conduct before Buenos Ayres, 5 July 1807, whilst serving as a Volunteer. A gold, oval engraved medal, 2in. by 1½in. Weight, 10z. 10dwt.

(5) A circular engraved medal, presented for gallantry at Buenos Ayres, 1807.

(6) Reverse, Presented to Qr-Master Sergt. Wm. Grady for conspicuous bravery at Buenos Ayres, by Lt. Colonel Sir Edward Butler, on his appointment as Qr-Master to the 2nd. Battn. of the Regiment. A gold medal.

88TH FOOT.—(1) Obverse, in the centre is the regimental number—88—and on the limbs of the cross twelve Peninsular victories are inscribed. This is the first-class medal; it is a large silver Maltese cross, 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. square, with the recipient's name engraved. Reverse, a Sphinx and Egypt. Some medals have the reverse plain, the recipient's name alone being engraved.

(2) The second-class medal. Obverse, a figure of Hibernia, holding in her right hand a wreath, and in her left a harp. Reverse, 88, within a laurel-wreath, and inscribed with from seven to eleven Peninsular victories. A silver medal, 1.35in. diameter, the recipient's name indented on the edge.

(3) The third class medal. Obverse, similar to the second-class medal. Reverse, Peninsular victories, inscribed, from one to six. A small silver medal, 1in. diameter, with the recipient's name engraved on the edge.

All the medals have a bar for suspension, inscribed Peninsula. Ribbon, red with blue edges. The medals were instituted in 1818, and 70 first-class, 145 second-class, and 217 third-class were issued.

(5) Obverse, a soldier firing, inside a circle; outside, above, Connaught Rangers; below, a spray of shamrocks. Reverse, in the centre, a figure 8, surrounded by a garter, on which is inscribed, Quis Separabit; above, a crown; below, an Irish harp; surrounding the whole a wreath of shamrocks. A silver medal, 1.4in. diameter. The figure on the reverse probably has reference to the company of the regiment.

(6) Obverse inscribed Badajos, April 5th, 1812, with harp and 88th within wreath. Reverse, For Valour (J. Murphy). A gold medal.

(2) Obverse, an elephant, Ninety-fourth, Scotch Brigade. Reverse, Seringapatam: Presented to Wm. Chalmers, a token of regard from the Private Soldiers of the Scotch Brigade, to a worthy Comrade: 1817. A silver engraved medal.

95TH FOOT (RIFLE BRIGADE).—(1) Obverse, a bugle, suspended from a crown, 95 in the centre; above, on a scroll, Rifle Corps; below, a laurel-wreath. Reverse, St. Sebastian, Peninsula 31 de Agosto de 1813, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. A clasp is inscribed, Forlorn hope on the front, and J. H. Sergt. on the back. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter, with dark green ribbon. In the Murray collection.

(3) A silver-gilt cross, inscribed, Best Shot in the Battalion.

(4) A silver cross, inscribed, Best Shot in each Company.

(5) A bronze-gilt badge with loop for suspension. Obverse, an oval shield with a bust of Lord Nelson; above, Admiral Lord Nelson of the Nile; below, April 2, 1801; on either side of the shield are trophies of flags, cannons, anchors, &c. Reverse, plain. This badge is most likely one of those given to a few soldiers of this regiment who served as marines at the battle of Copenhagen, and mentioned in Sir William Cope's History of the Rifle Brigade, but its connection with the regiment cannot be proved.

(6) Obverse, a bugle-horn, with a crown above, surrounded by a garter, on which is inscribed, Rifle Battalion. Reverse, a trophy of flags and arms, with a shield bearing an anchor, and inscribed, Victory off Copenhagen; a ship above the shield. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter.

(7) Obverse, a bugle-horn, with a crown above; below, 95, surrounded by a garter, on which is inscribed, Rifle Regiment. Reverse, Monte Video. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter.

(8) Obverse, Forlorn Hope; below, Ciudad Rodrigo Badajoz, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Reverse, Edward Costello 1st Battn 95th Rifles. A small, silver medal, with raised edge and letters, and loop for suspension.

(9) Obverse, a bugle and crown, 95th. Rifle Regt. Reverse, Presented to James Mc Donald, Captain, by his Brother Officers in recognition of his most gallant conduct at the capture of Monte Video, 1807. An oval gold medal.

(10) A small Maltese gold-cross, centre of obverse inscribed 95th. Rifle Regt. Bugle and crown. Reverse, Vimiera. P. Brown: Sergt.

(11) A silver and enamelled cross given to Sergeant Staples For valour at Monte Video 1807.

(14) A badge for Gwalior awarded to Lieut. H. R. Williams, 95th Regiment, 1859. Sold at Debenham's, March 29th, 1900.

(15) To J. Baldwin, for services at Barossa, 1811.

(17) Obverse, I/R Bdge: Sevastopol. Reverse, 346 Days siege 1855 and 1856. A gold engraved cross.

96TH FOOT.—(1) A silver star, inscribed, To the Best Marksman.

(2) Obverse, a six-pointed star; in the centre, 96, surrounded by a circle on which is inscribed, T. A. S. above, and Regt. below. Outside is another circle, inscribed, Veni, vidi, vici. Black enamel is fitted in between the letters. A ring for suspension. Ribbon, red. Reverse, plain.

97TH FOOT.—Obverse, a Sphinx, holding a Union Jack and French Tricolour on the same staff, sloping over the right shoulder, the English flag above the French; Egypt above; in the exergue, xxi. March M.D.C.C.C.I. Reverse, Queen's German Regiment, within a wreath of palms. A silver medal, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. diameter. Instituted by Colonel Sir John Stuart in 1801, after the Battle of Alexandria, and in commemoration of the capture by a man of the regiment of a French standard.

101ST FOOT.—Honourable East India Company's European Regiment. Obverse, a female figure, seated on a rock, with an open book in her lap, and presenting a medal to a soldier. A cross and an anchor at her side; in the background a camp, the sun's rays above; in the exergue, Be thou faithful unto death. Reverse, the regimental colours crossed over a Bible; above, a disc, on which is inscribed, H. C. European Regiment; the whole surrounded by a wreath of palm and laurel; in the exergue, 1837. A silver medal, 1.7in. diameter. On the transfer of the old troops of the Honourable East India Company to the Crown, this regiment became the "101st Royal Bengal Fusiliers," and is now the "1st Battalion" of the Royal Munster Fusiliers." In 1837, the European Infantry of the Honourable East India Company consisted of one regiment only, and was named "The European Regiment." In 1840, a second regiment having been raised, it was known as the "First European Regiment." In 1841, it was made a "Light Infantry Corps," but in 1846 its title was again changed to that of "The First European Fusiliers."

105TH FOOT.—Obverse, an Irish harp, between laurel-branches; below, on two scrolls, Concitat ad Arma, Volunteers of Ireland. Reverse, inscribed, Conferr'd by Colonel Lord Rawdon upon Sergeant Hudson for bravery in the Battle fought near Camden, on the 16th of August, 1780. A silver engraved medal, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, with loop for suspension. Ribbon, blue. In the Murray collection.

107TH REGIMENT.—Obverse, a Maltese cross, in the centre, 107, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. On the upper arm of the cross, Bengal; on the lower, Infantry; the whole surrounded by a band, on which is inscribed Total Abstinence Society. Reverse, in the centre are the words, Watch and be sober; on a band encircling the whole, Established 1871. A silver medal, 1.3in. diameter. In Dr. Payne's collection.

ROYAL MARINES.—Obverse, in the centre, G. R., with crown above; legend, A Testimony of Public regard. (2) A bronze medal, with the same obverse, but with a plain reverse, on which is stamped the recipient's regimental number. These medals were given by the Irish Ordnance Department, formed in 1756, and which was incorporated with the Royal Artillery on March 1st, 1801.

MILITIA, YEOMANRY, AND VOLUNTEER MEDALS.

AT the time that this country was threatened with a French invasion a large number of Volunteer regiments started into existence; and were mostly disbanded at the time of Napoleon's banishment to St. Helena. In addition to the Militia which was re-organised by King George III. in 1786, Lord Chatham had established, in 1761, a force of Yeomanry, which became an integral part in national defence. In 1778, Ireland being threatened with invasion by France and Spain, a levy of 40,000 Protestants was made by the gentry in the North. At a later date when invasion by Napoleon I. seemed imminent, patriotic men throughout the whole country were enrolled en masse into the ranks of the Volunteers. Corps of various arms were formed in almost every town and district, more particularly for the protection of their own immediate neighbourhood. Members were generally armed, equipped, and accoutred at their personal expense.

Between 1794 and 1804 successive Acts of Parliament were passed, providing for the administration and discipline of the Volunteer force, which, in 1805, amounted to 429,165 men, 70,000 of whom were Irish. Many of the Yeomanry, or Volunteer Cavalry Corps, remain to this day, though under different designations. Medals were bestowed by the officers upon certain individuals in each regiment, as rewards for merit, good conduct, good shooting, &c., and the dates of issue mostly range from 1779 to 1815. Many of the medals are engraved, and the shapes and designs vary. It is almost impossible to give a complete list of all that were issued, as of many no details can be found. They form a very interesting and valuable series, and mark an important epoch in the history of our country, and are almost the only relics now remaining of these old corps. For convenience of reference they will be arranged in alphabetical order instead of chronologically. The Author is greatly indebted to Mr. R. Day, F.S.A., for the use of his valuable collection of notes respecting the Irish Volunteers.

It must not be overlooked that owing to the rarity of these medals many spurious specimens have been put upon the market. They are so well manufactured that they might "deceive even the elect." The fact of medals being described here is, therefore, no guarantee that they are genuine. The same remarks apply equally to "Regimental medals" in the previous section.

ABERDARE LOYAL VOLUNTEERS, 1805.—Mr. Henry Ellis, best shot. An oval silver medal.

NORTH AMERICAN INDIAN MEDALS.

Y no means the least interesting series of medals are those given from time to time by the British Government to the North American Indian chiefs. The first one of which any record is available is that given in 1714 by King George I. An example of this medal was found at an Indian burial-place in 1814 by an American exploring party. According to Miner's "History of Wyoming," it was presented by King George I. to the Chiefs of the Six Nations.

Another, of the same period, had the same design on the obverse, but the bust of the King was smaller. The reverse was similar, but the hill was somewhat lower, the tree was higher, and the figure of the

In recent years a brass medal was found on the battlefield at Point Pleasant, Va., where an engagement took place in 1774, having on the obverse the bust of King George I. facing right, draped and laureated, and surrounded by the legend, George, King of Great Britain. The reverse bears the figure of an Indian on the right, aiming at a deer on a hill on the left, above which is a tree surrounded by flowers and shrubs, above which is the sun. This medal, like the foregoing, has a loop for suspension, and is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter.

Another variety has on the obverse a laureated bust of the King facing left, surmounted by the inscription, Georgius Mag. Br: Fra: et Hib. Rex. The reverse has an Indian on the right aiming at a deer at full speed, with a bow held at arm's length in the left hand, and with the right hand slightly in front of his body. Above the deer is a tree, and in the foreground is a small shrub. There is no legend on the reverse. This medal was found in 1859 at Point Pleasant, Va., and is $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter.

The next one was issued by George II., and bears his bust on the obverse, facing left, in armour, wearing a laurel-wreath, and surrounded by the legend, Georgius II. D.G. Mag; Br; Fr: et Hib; Rex. The reverse bears the representation of an Indian shooting at a deer on the right beneath a tree. It is of brass, 1 in. diameter, and was found in 1865 at Lackawanna, Pa.

In 1753, Sir Danvers Osborne, Governor of New York, brought from England thirty silver medals for presentation to the chiefs of the Six Nations. The medals were cast and chased, and were fitted with loops and rings for suspension, and were worn with a broad watered-silk scarlet ribbon, and were $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter. The obverse bears the bust of the King facing left, surrounded by the legend, Georgius II. D.G. Mag: Bri: Fra: et H. Rex. F.D. Reverse, the Royal Arms and supporters, with garter and motto, Dieu et mon droit.

In 1757 the dies for a medal were engraved by one Duffield, of Philadelphia, to be presented to the North-American Indians by the Friendly Association for Regaining and Preserving Peace with the Indians by Pacific Means. They were struck in silver, copper, and pewter, and were $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. in diameter. The obverse bears a bust of the King facing left, with laurel-wreath and armour, and surmounted by the legend, Georgius II. Dei Gratia. On the reverse are shown a white man and an Indian sitting on the ground on either side of a fire, the former offering a pipe of peace to the latter. On the right, beside the man, is a tree; and on the left, above the Indian, the sun is shown. In the exergue is the date, 1757, and the whole is surrounded by the inscription, Let us look to the Most High, Who blessed our fathers with peace. The medals were pierced for rings for suspension.

In Betts' "American Colonial History," in the chapter on the historical medals of America during the period of the inter-colonial wars, three medals are mentioned as having been given by the British Government to members of the native tribes who assisted at the capture of Montreal in 1760. The obverse bears a representation of a fortified town with five spires and five bastions, and with a river in front. On the right is a fort, on which is a flag flying, bearing St. George's Cross; above, Montreal; in the exergue, D.C.F. (D.C. Fecit?). Reverse, engraved across the centre, Onondagos; above, in running type, Tekahon Waghse. The obverse is cast and chased, and a loop is attached to the medal for suspension. The medal is silver, and is $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter.

The second one has exactly the same obverse, but the reverse is engraved, Madoghk: Mohickans. It is the same size as the former, and is exactly like it in other respects.

The third one mentioned is 2 in. diameter, with the same obverse as the others, and similar in all respects, but the reverse is engraved, Tankalkel, Mohickans.

We now come to the medals given by King George III. These were struck for distribution amongst the Indian chiefs at the close of the French and Indian wars. George III.

(1) The obverse bears a youthful bust of the King to the right, in armour, and wearing the ribbon of the Garter, the hair in a double curl over the ear. Seven rivets are shown on the front of the breast-plate. Reverse, the Royal Arms and supporters in high relief, the quarterings on the shield being those of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Hanover. The medal is silver, and is $3\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter. These medals vary somewhat in detail, so it is evident that more than one die was made. In one of them the King's hair is in a single curl over the ear; and in this medal a crack is observable in the die, extending across the shoulder and half-way towards the I in the word Georgius of the inscription. In another eight rivets are shown on the breast-plate, and on the reverse the lion's paw touches the I in Honi in the inscription on the Garter surrounding the shield, whereas in another it touches the N. They also vary in size by $\frac{1}{8}$ in., some being $3\frac{1}{4}$ in., and others $3\frac{3}{8}$ in. and 3 in. diameter. Specimens have been found in silver, silver-gilt, and also in pewter.

(2) Obverse, bust of the King to the right, and that of Queen Charlotte to the left, facing each other; above them is a curtain tied back with cords and tassels, and falling midway between the heads; no legend. Reverse, similar to the previous medal described, but with the shield in much lower relief, the lion and unicorn being much thinner and more erect, and the whole design larger in proportion to the size of the medal. It is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, and pierced for suspension.

(3) Another medal, having exactly the same design on the reverse, has on the obverse a bust of the King to the right, in armour, and surmounted by the inscription, Georgius III. Dei Gratia, but with only six rivets on the front of the breast-plate. It is of the same diameter as the medal previously described.

(4) In 1764 another medal was issued, having on the obverse a bust of the King, in armour, to the right, surmounted by the inscription, Georgius III. D.G.M. Bri. Fran. et Hib Rex F.D. The reverse bears a representation of an Indian and a white man, both seated, the former holding a pipe towards the latter.

In the background a city and harbour. A loop is fixed to the medal, formed by a pipe and eagle's wing, crossed. Above is the inscription, Happy while united; and, in the exergue, the date, 1764.

Varieties of medals of this design exist; one has a similar bust of the King, but, in addition, laureated, and wearing the ribbon of the Order of the Garter, and in the inscription the "n" is left out in Fran. The reverse of this medal is slightly different. Although the legend and exergue are the same, in addition to the figures before-mentioned, there is on the right, a house on a rocky point, and also three ships in full sail are shown in the harbour. The Indian also holds his pipe in the left hand, and grasps with his right the white man's hand. Behind him are a tree and a building. A cast silver medal, $2\frac{7}{8}$ in. diameter.

Another has a similar bust of the King on the obverse, but without a wreath, and with the hair tied behind with a long ribbon. The reverse is similar, but no ships are shown, neither is there a date in the exergue. This medal is $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter, and is illustrated in Captain Tancred's well-known book on medals.

Another is a silver struck medal, and has a similar bust of the King on the obverse, laureated, but wearing a wig tied with a bow. The legend is the same as in the preceding medals. The reverse is also similar, but there are several houses shown, and only two ships on the sea. This medal is $2\frac{1}{4}$ in. diameter, and was found in a grave at old Fort London in October, 1875.

(5) The next medal was probably issued at the close of the French and Indian War in 1765. One of them was recently taken from the grave of Otussa (son of the celebrated Indian Chief Pontiac) on Presque Isle, at the mouth of the Shawnee river. The obverse bears an armoured bust of the King to the right, wearing the ribbon of the Garter, and surmounted by the legend, Georgius III. Dei Gratia. The reverse shows the British lion lying under a tree on the left, behind which are a church and two houses. A snarling wolf (emblematic of France), is on the right, behind which are trees and shrubs. The medal is silver, $2\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter.

(6) During the Revolutionary War the British Government frequently employed Indians in conjunction with our own troops, and notably in 1777, under Burgoyne, in his march on Albany, &c. A medal supposed to have been issued in 1777 or 1778, as a reward to the chiefs, has on the obverse a "young" bust of the King, in armour, to the right, with hair tied behind, and wearing the ribbon of the Order of the Garter. Above is the legend, Georgius III. Dei Gratia. The reverse has the Royal Arms and supporters, surmounted by a crown. Upon a ribbon below, Dieu et mon droit. Behind the ribbon a rose and thistle, two leaves appearing on each stem above the ribbon. The quartering of the arms shows England impaling Scotland in the first, France in the second, Ireland in the third, and Hanover in the fourth. The motto has a full stop between each word. The medal is silver, $2\frac{3}{8}$ in. diameter, with a loop for suspension.

(7) The next medal has a similar obverse; and the design of the reverse is much the same as the preceding, but the mottoes are not punctuated. The word Qui is partly concealed by the crown, and the letters "Y" and "P" are hidden by the leg of the unicorn.

Four leaves also appear on each stem above the ribbon, and the quarterings of the shield are different, England being in the first and fourth, Scotland in the second, and Ireland in the third. The arms of Hanover, with a crown, are borne as a scutcheon of pretence. It is silver, $2\frac{7}{16}$ in. diameter, and has an ornamental loop for suspension. The fleur-de-lys of France were removed by Royal Proclamation from the shield of Great Britain in 1801, so this medal was issued after that date.

(8) On April 30th, 1896, there was sold in New York a silver medal, 3 in. diameter, given by the Hudson's Bay Company as a means "of fostering friendly relations with the Indian chiefs." The obverse bears the bust of the King to the left, in armour, by "Kuchler," whose initials are shown beneath the shoulder, surrounded by the legend, Georgius III. D. G. Britanniæ Rex. fid. def. &c. On the reverse are the arms of the Hudson's Bay Company, with two deer as supporters; below, a scroll, with the motto, Pro Pelle cutem. The medal was somewhat worn, and was pierced for suspension. It has no date, so that the year of issue cannot be fixed.

The date of issue of all the medals with the "young" bust is somewhat hard to fix, but it is ingeniously settled in the before-mentioned work by Mr. Betts in this way: The second medal described was struck as a gift to friendly Indians, who sent an address of congratulation to the King upon his marriage; as the marriage took place on September 8th, 1761, and as several months must have elapsed before the delivery of the address, and as all the reverses of the medals are the same, the year 1762 was probably the date of issue.

(9) In 1814 silver and bronze medals were issued, having on the obverse an "old" bust of the King to the right, and wearing the robes and collar of the Order of the Garter, and surrounded by the legend, Georgius III. Dei Gratia Britanniarum Rex. F. D. The reverse has the Royal Arms of the period, with supporters, and below the date, 1814. An ornamental loop was fitted for suspension, and the medals were 3in. diameter.

Victoria. The Author has been unable to trace any medals given to the Indians by either of the succeeding sovereigns, George IV. or William IV.; but in 1840 one was issued by Queen Victoria, having on the obverse the bust of the Queen to the left, wearing a diadem, and surrounded by the legend, Victoria Dei Gratia Britanniarum Regina F.D. The reverse bears the Royal Arms and motto, with the date, 1840, in the exergue. The medal is silver, 3in. diameter, with a ring for suspension. An exactly similar medal to the above, but 1½in. diameter, was issued at the same time for services rendered in 1837. The medal, given by Queen Victoria in 1840, is sometimes found with the Prince of Wales' plumes and the date 1860 engraved on the field of the obverse, to the right and left respectively of the Queen's head. This signifies that the medal was given by the then Prince of Wales (afterwards King Edward VII.) during his visit to Canada, in 1860.

In 1875 a medal was issued by the Canadian Government to Indian chiefs who entered into certain agreements with the Governor. The obverse bears a somewhat similar bust of the Queen as that on the New Zealand medal. On one side is the word Victoria, and on the other Regina. The reverse shows a British field officer on the left, clasping the hand of an Indian chief on the right; behind the officer is the sun just appearing above the horizon, and behind the Indian is an encampment. Above are the words, Indian Treaty No. —, and below, 187—, leaving the number and date of the treaty to be subsequently filled in. The medal is silver, 3in. diameter, and has a loop for suspension.

These medals were much valued by the natives who received them, and many references to them are found in records of travel amongst the Indian tribes. Even to this day many of them are worn by the descendants of the original recipients.

In a recently published account of Reil's Rebellion, in 1885, Major-General Strange, describing the battle of Frog Lake on May 24th, say :

“The fallen Indian was the Chief. He wore the Queen's medal, supplied by the Canadian Government, and ornament about the size of an agricultural trophy for a prize pig. These medals are solid silver, and much valued by the chiefs, who hand them down from father to son. Some of them bear the image and superscription of good King George III. The next morning, on passing the spot where he fell, I noticed the tall athletic figure of the dusky warrior as he lay like a bronze statue. He had lost his scalp, and his medal.”

BRITISH ORDERS.

S a large number of the following Orders are worn by officers of the army and navy—having in many cases been given for distinguished services—a brief description of each of them is quite within the range of this book. The first in order of importance, and which is the oldest and most illustrious in Europe, is :

The Garter. THE MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE GARTER (K.G.) instituted by King Edward III., in 1348. There are twenty-six Knights, including the Sovereign and the Prince of Wales. The garter is of dark blue velvet, embroidered in gold, with the motto, Honi soit qui mal y pense; the buckle and clasp are gold, and it has a gold embroidered edge. The Queen wears it on the left arm, above the elbow, and the Knights on the left leg, below the knee. The collar is of gold, and was added by King Henry VII. It weighs 36oz., and consists of twenty-six buckled garters, and alternately knots of cords. The garters encircle alternately a red rose charged with a white one, and a white rose charged with a red one. "The George" is worn as a pendant to the collar, and is a figure of St. George and the Dragon in coloured enamels. The lesser George—similar to the above, but encircled by a buckled garter, forming an oval—is worn on the right side with the dark blue ribbon of the Order, suspended from the left shoulder. The star is of silver, with eight radiated points; in the centre is the cross of St. George in red enamel, on a white background; it is encircled by a blue enamelled garter and motto, in silver letters, and is worn on the left breast.

THE MOST NOBLE AND MOST ANCIENT ORDER OF THE THISTLE (OF SCOTLAND) (K.T.), the origin of which is unknown, was revived, in 1540, by King James V. of Scotland. The Order consists of the Sovereign and sixteen Knights. The collar is of gold, and is made up of sixteen thistles, alternating with the same number of sprigs of rue—four in each group, interlaced; they are all enamelled in proper colours. The badge is a gold, eight-pointed star, with an enamelled figure of St. Andrew bearing a silver cross; it is worn as a pendant to the collar. Another badge is similar in design to the above, but is surrounded by an oval band charged with the motto of the Order, Nemo me impune lacessit. It is worn on the right side depending from a broad, dark green ribbon which crosses the left shoulder. The star is silver, with rays in the form of a St. Andrew's cross, and has rays issuing from between the limbs in the form of a lozenge; in the centre, on a gold background, is a thistle, enamelled in proper colours, surrounded by a dark green band, charged with the motto in gold letters.

THE MOST ILLUSTRIOUS ORDER OF ST. PATRICK (K.P.) was instituted by George III., in 1783, and consists of the Sovereign, the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, and twenty-two Knights. The collar is of gold, and consists of six harps and five red and white roses, enamelled, tied together with knots of gold. The badge is of gold, and is oval in form. It is pendent from the collar by a harp, and has the cross of St. Patrick, with a shamrock in the centre, on each leaf of which is a gold imperial crown; the whole is surrounded by a light blue enamelled circle bearing the motto, Quis Separabit, and the date, MDCCLXXXIII. The star is worn on the left side, and is similar to the badge in design, but is surrounded by a circular, instead of an oval, band, and has eight points, radiating from it.

The Bath. THE MOST HONOURABLE ORDER OF THE BATH was first instituted by King Henry IV., in 1399, and revived by King George I., in 1725. The Civil Orders were added in 1847. The Order consists of three classes :

(1) Knights Grand Cross (G.C.B.): Fifty Military Knights and twenty-five Civil Knights.

(2) Knight Commanders (K.C.B.): 125 Military and eighty Civil Knights.

(3) Companions (C.B.): 690 Military and 250 Civil Knights.

The Military Order is only conferred on officers of, or above, the rank of major in the army, or commander in the navy, and only for services against the enemy. The collar is of gold, and weighs 30 oz. It consists of nine imperial crowns, and eight groups of rose, shamrock, and thistle, enamelled in proper colours, issuing from a sceptre, and linked together with seventeen white enamelled knots; it has the badge for a pendant. The badge is a gold cross of eight points, enamelled white, and in each angle is a gold lion. In the centre are a rose, shamrock, and thistle, issuing from a sceptre, between three imperial crowns, and surrounded by a red enamelled circle, charged with the motto, in gold letters, Tria juncta in uno. The circle is surrounded by two laurel-branches, and below is a blue, enamelled scroll, bearing the motto, Ich dien, in gold letters.

The K.C.B. is worn by a red ribbon round the neck, and the C.B. by a red ribbon on the left breast. The C.G.B. star is a gold, Maltese cross, mounted on a silver, flaming star; in the centre of the cross is the motto, on a red enamelled circle, and inside it are three imperial crowns. The circle is surrounded by an olive-wreath. On the lower limb of the cross is the motto, Ich dien, in gold letters, on a blue enamelled scroll. On the K.C.B. star the Maltese cross is omitted, and the star itself is in the form of a silver cross patée. The C.B. merely has the cross as badge, which does not, like the others, carry the honour of knighthood with it.

The C.B. badge is $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. square, and weighs 1.487oz.; the K.C.B. badge is $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. square, and weighs 2.032oz.; and the G.C.B. is $3\frac{1}{2}$ in. square, and weighs 3.110 oz. In accordance with a recent order these are now given in silver-gilt, instead of pure gold.

The stars granted in the earlier part of the century vary in size, as formerly the Knights had to buy their own, and they were made to suit their individual ideas.

The Civil Orders, which are occasionally bestowed on officers for services rendered in times of peace, consist of a badge and star. The badge is oval, and made of gold; in the centre is the device of the Order, in filigree work, surrounded by the garter charged with the motto. The badge of all three classes is alike, only varying in size.

The Civil G.C.B. star has eight rays, and in the centre three crowns on a white ground, surrounded by the motto, on a red enamelled ground. The K.C.B. Civil star is the same as that of the Military Order, only omitting the laurel-wreath and the motto.

The old badges of the Military Order, previous to 1815, of which there was only one class, were exactly the same as those instituted for the Civil Orders in 1847. The only way to distinguish between the old Military, and the modern Civil badges is by the "hall-mark." All those bearing a hall-mark, previous to 1815, are obviously Military badges. The gold and enamelled Military cross was instituted in 1815.

THE MOST EXALTED ORDER OF THE STAR OF INDIA, instituted by Queen Victoria in 1861, consists of the Sovereign, the Viceroy of India, and twenty-five Knights. It is divided into three classes, and was enlarged in 1866, 1875, and 1876:

(1) Knights Grand Commanders (G.C.S.I.): Thirty members—eighteen native and twelve European.

(2) Knights Commanders (K.C.S.I.): Seventy-two members.

(3) Companions (C.S.I.): 144 members.

The collar is of gold, and is composed of roses, lotus-flowers, and palm-branches; the roses are alternately red and white, and the other emblems are enamelled in proper colours; in the centre is the imperial crown, from which the badge depends. The badge consists of a brilliant star of five points, to which is suspended an oval, cameo, profile bust of Queen Victoria. Encircling it, on light blue enamel, is the motto, Heaven's Light our Guide, in gold letters. The investment badge is similar in design to the above, but the star, the setting of the cameo, and the motto, are all of diamonds. It is worn with a sky-blue ribbon with narrow, white edges. The star is of diamonds, five-pointed, and on a gold field, radiated. It is surrounded by a light blue enamelled circle, charged with the motto in diamonds; the whole is encircled by wavy rays of gold.

THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL AND ST. GEORGE was founded by George IV., in 1818, and extended in 1868 and 1877. It now consists of fifty Knights Grand Cross (G.C.M.G.), 150 Knights Commanders (K.C.M.G.), and 260 Companions (C.M.G.). The collar is of gold, and consists alternately of lions of England, and white, enamelled Maltese crosses, and the monograms, S. M. and S. G. In the centre of the collar are two winged lions holding a book and seven arrows. The badge is a seven-pointed star of double rays, enamelled white, and edged with gold; in the centre, on one side, is a figure of St. Michael defeating Satan, and on the other side, St. George and the Dragon. Surrounding them is a blue, enamelled circle, charged with the motto, Auspicium melioris ævi, and surmounted by an imperial crown. The ribbon is of Saxon-blue, with a scarlet stripe down the centre.

The star of the Knights Grand Cross is composed of seven silver rays with a gold ray between each, and over all the cross of St. George, enamelled red. In the centre is a figure of St. Michael and Satan, surrounded by a blue, enamelled circle, inscribed, Auspicium melioris ævi. The Knights Commanders' Cross is of eight points, with a similar cross above,

St. Michael
and

and St. George's Cross in red enamel, the centre having the same effigy and motto as the other cross.

THE MOST EMINENT ORDER OF THE INDIAN EMPIRE was instituted by Queen Victoria in 1878, and consists of the Sovereign, the Viceroy of India (Grand Master), eight Knights Grand Commanders (G.C.I.E.), the Indian Councillors (K.C.I.E.), and 120 Companions (C.I.E.). The badge is a gold rose, enamelled red, with five leaves; each leaf is charged with a letter of the word India. In the centre is a bust of Queen Victoria, surrounded by a purple, enamelled circle, inscribed, Victoria Imperatrix; the whole is surmounted by an imperial crown. It is worn suspended from a ribbon of imperial purple. On the more recent badges the letters are omitted on the rose-leaves. The collar is composed of elephants, lotus-flowers, peacocks, and Indian roses.

The star is of five rays, with the bust of Queen Victoria on a gold centre, surrounded by a purple enamelled circle, charged with the motto of the order, Imperatricis Auspiciis.

THE ROYAL ORDER OF VICTORIA AND ALBERT was instituted in 1862, and enlarged in 1864, 1865, and 1880. It is composed of the Sovereign and forty-five Ladies, and is divided into four classes, the first of which is composed entirely of royal personages, British as well as foreign. The ribbon is white moiré, 1½ in. wide.

The insignia of the first and second classes consist of an onyx cameo with the busts of Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort, surmounted by an Imperial crown. The first-class badge is set in diamonds, and that of the second class in pearls. The third-class badge is in the form of a monogram, V. & A., in pearls and rubies.

THE IMPERIAL ORDER OF THE CROWN OF INDIA was instituted in 1878, and is given solely to natives and persons holding offices under the Indian Government. The badge consists of the monogram, V.R.I., in diamonds, turquoises, and pearls. It is surmounted by an oval border of pearls, and is surrounded by a jewelled imperial crown. It is worn from a light blue, watered ribbon, edged with white.

THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER (D.S.O.) was instituted by Royal Warrant in 1886. It is bestowed on officers of the navy, land forces, marines, and the Indian or colonial naval or military forces, who have been specially mentioned in dispatches for meritorious or distinguished service in the field, or before the enemy. The Order ranks next to the Order of the Indian Empire. The Royal Warrant says :

Dis-
Service.

We have taken into our royal consideration that the means of adequately rewarding the distinguished services of officers in our naval and military services who have been honourably mentioned in dispatches are limited. Now, for the purpose of attaining an end so desirable as that of rewarding individual instances of meritorious or distinguished service in war, we have instituted a new naval and military order of distinction, which we are desirous should be highly prized by the officers of our naval and military services.

The badge consists of a gold cross patée convexed, 1½ in. square, enamelled white, edged with gold, having on the obverse, in the centre, within a wreath of laurel enamelled green, the imperial crown in gold, upon a red enamelled ground. On the reverse, the monogram, V.R.I., within a laurel-wreath, and upon a red enamelled ground. It is worn upon the left breast, and is suspended from a red ribbon, 1 in. wide, edged with blue.

By a Royal Warrant, dated July 24th, 1902, it was ordained that the D.S.O. should rank after the fourth class of the Royal Victorian Order; and on October 20th, 1902, it was ordered that the badge on the reverse should be altered to E.R. VII.

On May 29th, 1903, an alteration was made, and it was arranged that this Order should rank next to, and immediately after, the Royal Victorian Order, and that the badge shall bear the royal cypher E.R.I. on the reverse.

THE ROYAL RED CROSS (R.R.C.), instituted on April 27th, 1883, is given to any ladies or nursing-sisters who may be recommended for special exertions in attending to the sick and wounded soldiers (or sailors) in the field or in military hospitals. The badge is a crimson enamelled cross, edged with gold, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, having on the four arms, Faith, Hope, Charity, and the date—1883. In the centre is a bust of Queen Victoria. The reverse is plain, with the royal cypher and imperial crown on the centre, in relief. The cross is attached to a dark blue ribbon, 1 in. wide, with red edges, tied in a bow, and is worn on the left shoulder.

THE ORDER OF BRITISH INDIA (O.B.I.) is conferred upon native commissioned officers of the Indian army for long and faithful service.

Class I. is a gold, radiated star, $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. diameter. In the centre is a lion, on a light blue enamelled ground, within a narrow dark blue band, inscribed, Order of British India, and inclosed in a laurel-wreath; a crown and ring above for suspension.

Class II. a similar badge, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, with dark blue centre, but without the crown for suspension. Reverse, plain in both classes.

Royal Red Cross.

India.

The decoration is worn round the neck. The ribbon is red in both cases; formerly it was light blue. This Order was instituted in 1837 as a reward for "long, faithful, and honourable service," by the East India Company. It is conferred upon native non-commissioned officers, and consists of two classes. The first carries with it the title of Sirdar Bahadur, with an allowance of two rupees a day; and the second the title of Bahadur with one rupee a day, and on transfer to the pension-list the allowance is added to the usual pension.

THE IMPERIAL MEDAL OF INDIA.—Gold and silver medals were given when Queen Victoria was proclaimed Empress of India, on January 1st, 1877. On the obverse is a crowned and veiled bust of the Queen, with the legend, Victoria, 1st January, 1877. On the reverse, in Persian, English, and Hindoostani, Empress of India. The ribbon is crimson with yellow edges, $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. wide. This medal was given in gold to the native chiefs of India, in silver to one man in every regiment, British and native, serving in India at the time, and to leading civilians. It is worn suspended from the neck, and is 2.3 in. diameter, with a straight clasp and swivel for suspension. It is not worn by soldiers in uniform.

THE IMPERIAL JUBILEE MEDAL.—Given to members of the royal family, the royal guests, and the officers commanding the various guards of honour on the occasion of Queen Victoria's Jubilee, June, 1887. Reverse, a bust of Her Majesty, the same as that on the Jubilee coinage, surrounded by the legend, Victoria D.G. Regina et Imperatrix F.D. Obverse, In commemoration of the 50th. year of the Reign of Queen Victoria, June 21st. 1887, surmounted by a crown and surrounded by a wreath of roses, shamrocks, and thistles. Ribbon, light blue with a dark blue stripe down the centre. The medal is $1\frac{3}{16}$ in. diameter, and was given in gold, and also in silver and bronze, to other officials and members of the Household.

A similar medal was issued on the occasion of the 60th anniversary of the Queen's accession in June, 1897, having a similar obverse, but bearing on the reverse the same inscription, but with 60th. substituted for the other number, and the date altered to June 20, 1897. Those who were already in possession of the 1887 medal received a bar, dated 1897, instead of a second medal, which was worn on the ribbon. Like the first, it was given in gold, silver, and bronze. The officers of the detachment of colonial troops who came to London for the Jubilee Procession received, amongst others, the medal in silver, and the men in bronze. There were over 900 recipients.

THE BARONETS OF NOVA SCOTIA.—This order was instituted by King James I., in November, 1624, and confirmed by Charles I. in November, 1629, and conferred on 100 Baronets. The badge consisted of a gold shield, enamelled white, on which is St. Andrew's cross, enamelled blue. In the centre of the shield is a smaller gold shield charged with the Scottish Lion, enamelled red. Above, is a royal crown, enamelled in proper colours. The whole is surrounded by a blue enamelled oval border, charged with the motto of the Order in gold letters, Fax Mentis Honestae Gloria. A ring for suspension. Ribbon, orange. The badge is $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. by 2 in., and is extremely rare. Both sides are alike.

In August, 1835, the Baronets of England were anxious that insignia should be granted to their Order, and a committee petitioned the Heralds' College to that effect. Amongst other insignia which they considered desirable was a gold badge in the shape of a double Maltese cross, enamelled white. In the centre is a red hand of Ulster, surrounded by a purple enamelled garter, charged with the words Institutioinis, A.D. 1611. The cross rests on a green enamelled laurel-wreath, and is suspended from a royal crown. Permission to wear the insignia was not granted.

Badge.

THE ORDER OF ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM.—Originally instituted at the close of the 11th century, it was revived in May, 1888. The badge is of gold, in the shape of an eight-pointed star, enamelled white on one side only, the reverse being plain gold. Between the four arms are alternately a lion and a lamb. Ribbon, black watered-silk. The badges of the lower grades are similar in shape, but made of silver-gilt. Medals are also given in silver and bronze, having on the obverse a Maltese cross, surrounded by the legend, For service in the cause of humanity. Reverse, a sprig of St. John's Wort, with which are inscribed scrolls bearing the words, Jerusalem, England, and surrounded by the legend, Awarded by the Grand Priory of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England.

royal coat of arms; above V.R. Ribbon, blue. For some years past this badge has not been used.

Victorian Order.

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN ORDER.—Instituted April 21st, 1896. The number of members is unlimited, and it is bestowed alike on British subjects and foreigners. There are five classes, including Knights Grand Cross, Knights Commanders, and Commanders. The badge is a Maltese cross of eight points, enamelled white. In the centre, on a red enamelled ground, is the monogram, V.R.I., in gold, surrounded by an oval band, enamelled garter-blue, on which, in gold letters, is the word Victoria. An Imperial crown, enamelled in proper colours, surmounts all. This badge is worn by the first class, suspended from the ribbon over the right shoulder; by the second and third classes round the neck; and by the fourth class on the left breast. The badges vary in size in the first, second, and fourth classes, those of the second and third being the same. The fifth class wear on the left breast a badge the same size as that of the fourth class, but it is of frosted silver, instead of being enamelled. The first-class star is of silver, of eight points, and in the centre the enamelled badge, as above described. The second class star is in the form of a silver Maltese cross, with smaller rays between the arms, and with the badge in the centre in silver instead of white enamel. Ribbon, dark blue with three narrow stripes—red, white, red—at either edge. The medal, or 6th class of the Order, has on the obverse, the bust of Queen Victoria to the left, surmounted by the legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix. Reverse, upon an oval lozenge, surrounded by scrolls, the imperial monogram V.R.I. Below, on a ribbon, Royal Victorian Medal, with an imperial crown and ring for suspension. The medal is bronze, $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. diameter.

THE ORDER OF MERIT.—Instituted in 1902. A gold cross, patée convexed, enamelled red. Obverse, the King's monogram, E.R. VII., on a blue enamelled ground, in the centre. Reverse, in the centre, For Merit. A Tudor crown surmounts the cross. The military Order has two silver crossed swords between the arms of the cross. Ribbon, 2 in. wide, half red and half blue. Order of Merit.

THE IMPERIAL SERVICE ORDER.—Instituted, August August 8th, 1902. Open only to members of the Administrative or Clerical Branches of the Civil Service who have been 25 years in meritorious service; or 16 years in districts recognised as unhealthy. Imperial Service Medal.

The number of Companions is not to exceed 425, of whom 250 shall belong to the Home Civil Service.

Those who are not eligible for appointment as Companions may, on retirement after the same periods of duty, be awarded a medal, to be designated The Imperial Service Medal.

The decoration is a gold medallion, with the royal cypher, E.R. VII., on one side, and For Faithful Service on the other; both in dark blue enamel. Companions will bear the letters I.S.O. after their names. The medal is a bronze star of eight points, surmounted by a crown on a silver centre, the cypher E.R. VII., surrounded by For Faithful Service, both in blue enamel. Reverse, plain. Ribbon, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, scarlet watered silk, with a French grey stripe $\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide down the centre. Since 1908 women of the Civil Service have been eligible for the Companionship and Medal of the Order. The badge is worn by women on the left shoulder, suspended by the ribbon, fashioned into a bow; and, instead of the badge having a star, it is surrounded by a silver laurel-wreath.

Kaisar-i-Hind Medal. THE KAISAR-I-HIND MEDAL.—Instituted, May 11th, 1900, for any person, without distinction of race, occupation, position, or sex, who shall have distinguished himself (or herself) by important and useful service in the advancement of the public interest in India.

There are two classes, the first being awarded by the Sovereign, and the second by the Governor-General of India.

The decoration consists of an oval-shaped badge, in gold for the first and silver for the second class. Obverse, the Royal cypher in the centre. Reverse, Kaisar-i-Hind, for public service in India. Ribbon, dark blue, worn on the left breast.

FOREIGN ORDERS WORN BY BRITISH SOLDIERS.

THE following Orders have been at various times bestowed upon British officers and soldiers by foreign potentates, for military services, and also for individual deeds of heroism in campaigns shared by our allies. Permission has been given to receive and wear all those described.

ABYSSINIA.

THE ORDER OF SOLOMON.—Given to Admiral Sir Wm. Hewitt. A gold filigree star of six points, formed of two interlaced triangles, $\frac{1}{4}$ in. broad. The star is $2\frac{1}{4}$ in. square over the points, and has two bars in the middle arranged at right angles to each other. On the horizontal arm of the central cross are three rubies, and on the vertical arm two emeralds. A curious gold suspender is attached, somewhat in the shape of a capital A. The front has a curious design engraved all round the star, and the reverse is inscribed in native characters, The cross has conquered the strangers of Ishmael; the King of Kings, John the King of the Lion of Ethiopia.

AFGHANISTAN.

ORDER OF THE DOORANEE.—This Order was given by Shah Shoojah to British officers in 1839. The badge consists of a gold eight-pointed cross, with balls at the points, mounted on two crossed swords. In the centre is a circle of pearls, within which, on a blue and green enamelled ground, in gold Persian letters, the following words are inscribed: Pearl of the Age. Two crossed swords and an eight-barred crown are used as suspenders. Ribbon, red and green. There were three classes of this decoration. Six of the first, eighteen of the second, and forty of the third were given. The first-class star has in the centre the gold Maltese cross, crossed swords, &c., of the badge, and with a diamond in the centre of each arm of the cross; a row of seventeen large pearls surrounds the central enamelled device. The whole is mounted upon an eight-pointed silver cut star. The second-class badge has twenty pearls on the central band, and is $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. square and $3\frac{1}{2}$ in. from the top of the crown to the balls on the lowest limbs of the cross. The reverse has a scarlet enamelled centre, with a green enamelled circular border, with gold lines traced over it. In the centre, in gold letters, is the inscription, 2nd class: 23rd July, 1839. The badge weighs 102. The third-class badge is of similar design, but is $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. square and $2\frac{7}{16}$ in. from bottom to top. It has only fourteen pearls in the centre of the obverse. The Star of the Second Class is an eight-pointed silver cut cross, with rays between the arms. On it is a smaller gold star of similar design, but with crossed swords instead of rays between the arms. The centre is of dark blue enamel, with a green enamelled flower, and gold letters, and with a gold circle charged with eighteen pearls.

ORDER OF MARIA THERESA.—See page 20.

ORDER OF LEOPOLD.—An octagonal gold cross, enamelled red, with white edges. The centre is also red, on which is enamelled the Imperial monogram, F.J.A. Around this is a white enamelled band, inscribed, Integritate et Merito. The whole is surmounted by the Imperial crown of Austria as a suspender. Ribbon, scarlet with white edges.

ORDER OF FRANZ-JOSEPH.—A red enamelled cross patée, with a gold edge, having in the centre of the obverse, on a white circle, with gold edge, the letters, F.J., and on the reverse the date, 1849. Between the arms of the cross is the two-headed Austrian eagle, enamelled black, holding in its beak a gold chain, in the lower links of which is the motto, Viribus unitis. The cross is suspended from a crown. Ribbon, dark red.

ORDER OF THE IRON CROWN.—The badge is of gold, and consists of the iron crown, on which is the Austrian eagle, crowned, with a sword in one claw and an orb in the other. On the obverse, the eagle has a blue shield on its breast, with a gold F on it; and on the reverse the date 1816 in gold. Ribbon, orange, with two green stripes.

BAVARIA.

ORDER OF MAXIMILIAN JOSEPH.—A gold cross, enamelled white, with golden rays in the angles; in

ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL.—A gold Maltese cross, enamelled blue; in the centre a figure of St. Michael standing upon Satan and surrounded by flames. The whole surmounted by a gold crown. Ribbon, light blue with red edges.

The star is of silver, of eight points, on which is a gold Maltese cross, with the letters P.F.P.F. on each arm. The centre is enamelled blue, with the motto, Quis ut Deus, in raised gold letters.

BELGIUM.

ORDER OF LEOPOLD.—Instituted in 1832, and divided into five classes. A white enamelled cross, with branches of oak and laurel between the points, surmounted by a royal crown. The Military Orders have two crossed swords placed under the crown. Obverse, in the centre of the cross, the arms of the kingdom, on black enamel, surrounded by a red circle, on which is the motto of the Order, L'Union fait la force. Reverse, the cypher of the king, in a monogram on a black ground, within one red and two small gold circles. Ribbon, crimson-watered silk. The star is of silver, with a gold lion on a black enamelled ground, surrounded by the motto. Two crossed swords between the points of the star.

CHINA.

ORDERS OF THE BUTTON (RUBY AND BLUE).—Gold medals, having on the obverse the Imperial arms of China, with red or blue crystal in the centre.

Reverse, in Chinese letters, The Imperially-bestowed Precious Star of the First Rank, Ta Tsing, the Great Tsing. The medal is worn suspended from a gold pin on the breast. From the lower side of the medal two green tassels are suspended, tied with pink and red silk.

ORDER OF THE CRYSTAL BUTTON.—This is of silver, and has an ornamental design on the obverse, with a clear crystal ball in the centre. Reverse, in Chinese letters, For Encouragement of Merit, Military Valour. The decoration is worn with a yellow silk braid, with shaded blue threads. From the lower side of the medal are suspended two blue tassels, knotted with pink silk.

ORDER OF THE GREEN BUTTON.—A silver medal, with a green, crystal ball in the centre. Obverse, Chinese characters signifying Imperial Reward, issued from the Office of the Intendant of the Province of Kiang-Su. Reverse, ornamental scrolls. Ribbon, yellow braid, and, from a loop below, two blue tassels, knotted with red silk. Four men of the 67th Foot received this decoration, and one specimen is in the Murray collection.

ORDER OF VALOUR.—Tsaing t'sz wu Kung Tai Tsing un Shang. (Conferred by favour of Military Merit; an Imperial Reward of the Great Tsing.) A gold medal 1½ in. diameter with a Chinese inscription on both sides, and with two dragons curled round the outside. It is suspended by three small gold chains, each of three links, to an ornamental cross-bar composed of dragons, which in turn is similarly suspended from another bar slightly different in design from the lower one. Three more short chains are attached to a bar, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. wide, with a rectangular opening in the middle, and two more chains attach the whole to a gold ring, through which is passed a yellow ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide.

COBOURG.

ORDER OF SAXE-ERNESTINE.—A gold eight-pointed Maltese Cross with a gold ball on each point. The cross is enamelled white and surmounted by a gold crown. Between each of the arms is a lion. In the centre of the obverse is the bust of Duke Ernest, surrounded by a blue enamelled border with the motto Fideleter et constanter, inside a green enamelled oak-wreath. On the reverse are the arms of Saxony in gold and enamel within a blue enamelled band charged in gold letters 25 December, 1833, and surrounded by a green enamelled oak-wreath.

Ribbon: Red watered silk, with green edges.

DENMARK.

ORDER OF THE DANNEBORG.—Obverse, an oblong cross, enamelled white, with red borders, and encased in gold; above the cross the initials of the king under a royal crown, a golden crown in each of the angles. In the centre under a crown, in monogram, the initial C.5., and, on the wings, Gud og Kongen. Reverse, under a crown the letter W., and on the wings 1219, 1671, 1808, the years of the foundation, renewal, and reorganisation of the Order.

Ribbon, white, with red stripes near the borders.

LEGION OF HONOUR.—See pages 97 and 98.

VALEUR ET DISCIPLINE.—See page 98.

GENEVA CROSS.—See page 482.

GREECE.

ORDER OF THE REDEEMER.—A gold octagonal cross, enamelled white, a wreath of oak and laurel, enamelled green, connecting the arms of the cross. In the centre, on an enamelled blue ground, is a white Greek cross, surrounded by a Greek inscription. A gold crown for suspension. On the obverse, an effigy of King Otho. Ribbon, light blue watered with white edges. The star is of silver radiations, with a similar design to the obverse of the cross in the centre.

HANOVER.

ROYAL GUELPHIC ORDER.—Founded in 1815 by H.R.H. the Prince Regent, and discontinued when Hanover ceased to be under the Government of this country. The cross or badge is of gold, with a lion between each division ; in the centre, on a red enamelled ground, is the white horse of Hanover, surrounded by a light blue enamelled circle, charged with the motto, in gold letters, Nec Aspera Terrent; surrounding the circle is a laurel-wreath. On the reverse is the monogram, G.R., in gold letters on a red ground, surmounted by the British crown. Surrounding it is a gold circle, with the date of the institution of the Order, MDCCCXV. The cross is surmounted by the Hanoverian crown, and below it are two crossed swords. The star is of silver, of eight points; the centre is similar to the centre of the badge, but has two crossed swords between the divisions of the star, in gold, on the silver radiations. The ribbon is light blue watered silk.

The Civil Order is of exactly the same design as the Military, with the exception of the crossed swords, which are omitted on the star and the badge, and an oak-wreath is substituted for the laurel-wreath. The first class badge, K.G.C., of the Civil Order is $2\frac{1}{4}$ in. square, exclusive of the crown, and including it $3\frac{1}{4}$ in. long to the loop for suspension. It weighs 10z. 8dwt. 12gr. The K.C. is $1\frac{3}{4}$ in. square, and the Knight's cross is $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. square, the design of all being the same. The fourth class of the Order consists of a gold or silver medal, having on the obverse the bust of the Prince Regent, and on the reverse the inscription, Verdienst ums Vaterland, the whole surrounded by a laurel-wreath. The name and rank of the recipient are engraved on the edge.

HESSE.

Reverse, the arms of Hesse surrounded by a white enamelled band inscribed Ludovicus II. magnus dux Hassiae instituit.

ORDER OF THE LION.—Obverse, a gold cross, enamelled white, and with gold balls on the eight points. Between the arms of the cross a gold W. On the centre a lion rampant, crowned and holding a sword. A gold crown for suspension. Reverse, on a blue ground, the motto, Virtus nobilitat. Ribbon, blue with orange edges. The first class star is of gold, of eight points. In the middle a Maltese cross, in the centre of which is the motto of the Order, on a blue enamelled ground. The second class is of similar design, but has no radiations forming a star. It is surmounted by a crown.

THE ORDER OF WILLIAM.—A gold octagonal cross, enamelled white, with balls at each of the points. On each arm is one of the following words: Voor, Moed, Belied, Trouw. A green enamelled leaf between each arm, and surmounted by a gold crown for suspension. Reverse, a blue enamelled centre, on which is a gold W, surrounded by a wreath. Ribbon, orange with blue edges. The first class star is of silver, of eight points, in the centre of which is a facsimile of the cross. The second class star is of exactly similar design to the cross, and is surmounted by a crown.

ITALY.

PAPAL MEDAL.—See page 107.

MILITARY ORDER OF SAVOY.—Obverse, a red enamelled Geneva cross, of gold, for the first and second classes, and silver for the third class, upon which is an enamelled white cross, surrounded by a green enamelled laurel-wreath, the whole surmounted by a crown. Reverse, without enamel, in the centre the monogram V.E., beneath a crown. Ribbon, light blue watered. The star of the first class is of silver, with eight flaming rays. The centre is enamelled blue, on which is the monogram V.E., crowned, and surrounded by the motto, Al Merito ed al Valore.

ORDER OF THE CROWN.—A gold cross patée, with gold edge, enamelled white, with gold cords twisted between the arms. In the centre a blue enamelled circle, with a gold border; and with the Iron crown in gold in the middle. Suspended from a ring.

Ribbon, red with a white stripe down the centre.

NAVAL MEDAL FOR VALOUR.—For services rendered at the wreck of the Italian emigrant ship, Utopia, off Gibraltar, on March 17th, 1891, the King of Italy distributed silver and bronze medals to a few officers and men of the Royal Navy. Obverse, the Italian shield, crowned, and surrounded by a wreath of oak and palms. Outside, the legend, Al Valore di Marina. Reverse, an oak-wreath, inside which is engraved the recipient's name. JAPAN.

THE GRAND ORDER OF THE CHRYSANTHEMUM.—Instituted in 1876, the Mikado being the head of the Order. It is the highest Order in the Empire. The star of the decoration is of silver radiations of four points, enamelled white, with a gold star, enamelled white, in the centre. The centre of the gold star is of crimson enamel, and is supposed to represent the rising sun and rays. Outside the gold star, and joining the arms of the silver cross, is a wreath of chrysanthemum-leaves, enamelled green, and four chrysanthemum flowers, enamelled yellow, with scarlet centres. On the back of the star are four Japanese characters, meaning The Mark of the Grand Order. The badge is similar to the star, but without the silver star, and is suspended by a gold disc, enamelled yellow, and with the same inscription, in gold letters, as on the back of the star. Ribbon, scarlet with blue edges, 3in. wide.

ORDER OF THE RISING SUN.—Badge, a star of 32 two-pointed gold and white enamelled rays, with a scarlet enamelled centre; suspended from three flowers and a leaf. Star, similar, but with silver rays. Ribbon, white, with scarlet edges.

NORWAY.

ORDER OF ST. OLAF.—A white enamelled Maltese cross with gold edge, surmounted by a gold crown, and with gold balls on the points. In the angles the letter O in Gothic characters. On the obverse on a red enamelled ground within a blue border is a lion rampant, crowned, and holding a battle-axe.

Reverse: The motto "Ret og Sandhed."

PERSIA.

ORDER OF THE LION AND THE SUN.—A five-pointed, silver star, with points consisting of seven rays of varying lengths; between each arm a green enamelled ray. In the centre, within a circle of diamond points, a lion couchant, with the rising sun behind him, all enamelled in proper colours. A silver star for suspension. Ribbon, green. There are several classes of this Order, some of which wear in addition a star of similar design.

PORTUGAL.

ORDER OF ST. BENOIT D'AVIS.—The badge is a gold cross-fleury, enamelled green, with fleur-de-lys at the four points, pendent from a gold star, enamelled white, with seven points. In the centre, the Sacred Heart, enamelled crimson. The star is silver, with the badge as above in the centre. Ribbon, green.

ORDER OF THE TOWER AND SWORD.—A five-pointed star, in white enamel, on gold, suspended from a tower, and surrounded by a green enamelled wreath. Obverse, a sword resting on a wreath of oak, and surrounded by the legend, Valor, Lealdade e Merito. Reverse, an open book; on one page the arms of Portugal; on the other, Carta Constitucional da Monarquia, surrounded by the legend, Pelo Rei e pela Lei. Ribbon, dark blue.

The badges given during the Peninsular War were of gold, and consisted of a star of seven points, enamelled blue and white, and resting upon a wreath suspended from a tower. Obverse, the bust of the king, surrounded by the legend, Joao D.G. Reg. de port. P. Do Brasil. Reverse, a sword resting on a laurel-wreath within a circle, bearing the motto, Valor e lealdo. The first class badge is of large size, similar in design to the above, but of plain gold, without any enamel. The star is of silver, with a

See also Portuguese Cross, page 44.

ORDER OF CHRIST.—Badge, a red enamelled cross with expanding arms and golden borders, bearing in the centre a smaller cross enamelled white with gold edges. In the first and second class it is surmounted by the Sacred Heart in red enamel, placed on a white enamelled star with golden rays between the points.

Star: A silver radiated star, bearing on its centre the cross of the Order, and surmounted by a cross issuing from the Sacred Heart. Ribbon, red.

ORDER OF THE CONCEPTION.—A nine-pointed gold star, enamelled white, and surrounded by golden rays. Between each of the arms of the star a small five-pointed silver star. In the centre, a monogram in gold letters, A.M., and surrounded by a blue enamelled circle, with the motto, Padrocira do Reine. A gold crown for suspension. Ribbon, light blue with two white stripes near the edges. The star is exactly similar in design to the badge. ~

PRUSSIA.

THE ORDER OF THE BLACK EAGLE.—An octagonal cross, enamelled blue, with a black Prussian eagle between each of the four arms. In the centre, the monogram, F.R., on a gold ground. Ribbon, orange. The star is of silver, of eight points. In the centre, on a gold ground, is a black eagle surrounded by the motto of the order, Suum Cique.

THE ORDER OF MILITARY MERIT.—An octagonal gold cross, enamelled sky-blue, with an eagle between each of the arms. On the top limb is an F, surmounted by a crown, and on the others, the motto of the Order divided as follows: Pour-le Me-rite. Ribbon, black with white edges.

ORDER OF THE IRON CROSS.—A cast-iron Maltese cross, with a silver rim all round. The upper wing contains the initials, F.W., on the obverse, with a crown above. Three oak-leaves in the centre, and the date, 1815, below. Reverse, plain; but in those given for services in the war of 1870-71 the reverse has the date, 1870, with a W in the centre, and a crown above. Ribbon, black with white edges. The first class, in addition, wear a cross of similar design instead of a star on the left breast.

THE ORDER OF THE RED EAGLE.—A gold Maltese cross, enamelled white. In the centre, a red eagle. On the reverse, in the centre, the monogram, F.W., with a crown above. Ribbon, white with yellow edges. The first-class star is of silver, with eight points. In the centre is the red eagle, surrounded by the motto, Sincere et Constanter. The second-class star is square, with the white enamelled cross, &c., in the centre.

THE ORDER OF ST. ANN.—A gold Maltese cross, enamelled red, with gold filigree work between the arms. In the centre, an enamelled figure of St. Ann. Ribbon, crimson with a narrow yellow edge. The star is of silver, with a red enamelled cross on a gold ground. It is surrounded by a red enamelled circle, with the words, Anean Just Piet. Fid., in raised silver letters upon it. Above, two cupids supporting a crown.

ORDER OF ST. STANISLAUS.—Obverse, a red enamelled gold cross, with four double points; golden balls on each point. In the centre, on a white enamelled ground, S.S. in monogram, surrounded by a green enamelled wreath. Between each arm of the cross the Polish white eagle in gold. Reverse, in the centre the initials similar to those on the obverse. Ribbon, poppy-red with white borders.

ORDER OF ST. VLADIMIR.—A gold Maltese cross, enamelled red, with black edges. In the centre, on a black ground, the imperial mantle. Ribbon, scarlet with black edges. In the centre on a red ground is the Sultan's name in Arabic characters, surrounded by a white band. Ribbon, red with white edges. In December, 1894, this decoration was bestowed on three British officers, in recognition of services during the Unyoro campaign.

MISCELLANEOUS MEDALS.

ONE of the following medals having been awarded to British soldiers or sailors on active service, they will be classed by themselves.

SIR H. G. SMITH'S "GALLANTRY IN THE FIELD."—Given to thirty men of the Cape Mounted Rifles and levies. Obverse, a lion; above, a wreath; below, 1851. Reverse, Presented by His Excellency Sir H. G. Smith, Bart., G.C.B., to —— for gallantry in the field. A silver medal, 1.4in. diameter, with silver bar for suspension. Ribbon, dark blue with red edges. The name of the recipient is engraved.

ORDER OF MERIT (INDIA).—Given to native officers and soldiers for personal bravery. It is divided into three classes :

(1) An eight-pointed gold star, 1½in. diameter, with a dark blue enamelled centre, on which are two crossed swords, in gold, surrounded by Reward of Valour, in gold letters; the whole surrounded by a gold laurel-wreath.

(2) A similar design to the above, but the star is silver instead of gold.

(3) A silver star, with blue enamelled centre; silver swords, wreath, and letters, as described above. The first class star has a gold bar, loop, and ring attached to the topmost point for suspension. The second and third classes have a similar attachment in silver.

The reverse of the star is engraved, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd class order of merit, respectively. The ribbon is blue with red edges, and is worn on the left breast. This order carries with it an increase of one third of the pay of the recipient. On his death his widow receives the allowance for three years. The name of the recipient is not engraved on the reverse when issued.

INDIAN RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—(1) Obverse, a tiger in the jungle; in the exergue, 1863. Reverse, Rifle Association of Northern India, within a laurel-wreath; the recipient's name engraved. A silver medal.

(2) A large silver medal. Obverse, a tiger; below, on a pedestal, N.I.R.A. 1863-86. Reverse, in the centre, an oblong frame, in which is engraved the recipient's name; above, Bengal Presidency; below, Rifle Association. The whole surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Ribbon, blue.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S PRIZE.—Obverse, the shield and arms of Lord Dufferin and Ava, surrounded by the legend, Presented by His Excellency, the Governor General. Reverse, the crest, coronet, and orders of Lord Dufferin, surrounded by the legend, The Earl of Dufferin, Viceroy of India, 1884. Ribbon, blue. A splendidly executed medal, of large size and in high relief. It was also issued in bronze.

HYDERABAD RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—Obverse, a mosque, surrounded by an ornamental border. Reverse, a plain centre, surrounded by a laurel-wreath, round which is entwined a ribbon, inscribed, Hyderabad Rifle Association. Ribbon, blue.

WESTERN INDIA RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—Obverse, a lion crouching under a palm tree; below, Ready and True. Reverse, Rifle Association of Western India; established 6th June, 1862. In the centre two crossed rifles, with a laurel-wreath joining them, and surmounted by a crown. Ribbon, blue.

SOUTHERN INDIA RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—Obverse, a trophy surmounted by an elephant, inscribed, Persevere and Triumph. Reverse, Rifle Association of Southern India, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. A round silver medal.

BENGAL PRESIDENCY RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—Obverse, a tiger above a scroll, on which is inscribed, Prince of Wales' match, surmounted by two crossed rifles, and the Prince of Wales' plumes and motto. Below, B.P.R.A. Reverse, plain. A silver Maltese cross with an ornamental border. It was designed by the late Captain Judge, of the 2nd Goorkhas.

BOMBAY PRESIDENCY RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—A gold medal. Obverse, the bust of Queen Victoria, surrounded by the legend, Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Empress of India. Reverse, a laurel-wreath, surrounded by the legend, Bombay Presidency Rifle Association, established 1871. In the centre of the wreath is engraved, The Champions Contest. Pte. A. James; 2nd Bn. Lancs. Fus. 24 Dec., 1891.

holding out a laurel-wreath in her right hand; on the left a shield, and a regiment of infantry in the background at target practice, the targets, hills, and trees in the distance. Inscription encircling the whole, Prize Presented by the Right Honourable Lord Napier of Magdala, G.C.B., G.C.S.I. Reverse, a plain centre, surrounded by Best Shot, Native Troops, Bengal Presidency. A gold medal.

(2) Obverse, a laurel-wreath, in the centre of which is the inscription, The Magdala Medal, surrounded by Presented by General Sir F. P. Haines, K.C.B., Commander-in-Chief in India. Reverse, same as on No. 1. A gold medal.

(3) Obverse, a view of Magdala; above, Captured 13th April 1868; below, Magdala. Bengal Native Infantry. Reverse, The Magdala Medal. Within a wreath above, Best Shot. Presented by H.E. General Sir Donald Stewart, Bart., G.C.B., 1881- An imperial crown and loop for suspension. Given in gold only.

In 1862, Lieutenant-Colonel Montgomery, of the 1st Foot, founded a society in India called "The Soldiers' Indian Total Abstinence Association," and silver medals were given to soldiers of any rank, European or native, for total abstinence. The medals are worn on the right breast, usually suspended from a distinctive ribbon. They are of various designs, and are given, according to the number of years the recipient has been a total abstainer; bars inscribed with the word Fidelity, &c., are sometimes added.

(1) The first medal is round, and has on the obverse a palm-tree, under which are two native women with water-pots, one sitting and the other standing. Above is the legend, Total Abstinence Medal: India. The reverse is inscribed, Watch and be Sober, and around the outside are the words, Total Abstinence Association, formed 1862.

This medal is worn for the first year, and for the second year a clasp, inscribed Fidelity, is added. For the third year the under-mentioned medal is substituted, and a clasp, inscribed Excelsior, is added for the fourth year. There are various other clasps, added at subsequent stages, inscribed, Watch and be Sober; Onward, &c.

(2) The second medal, worn with a pale yellow ribbon with red edges, is lozenge-shaped, and has on one side a four-pointed star, and in the centre, within a circle, a lion couchant, the word India below. On the other side is a sword, round which is entwined a ribbon inscribed, Watch and be Sober. Along the outside of the medal, on a lozenge-shaped border, are the words, The Soldiers' Total Abstinence Association.

(3) Another medal is oval in form, and has on one side the monogram T.A.S., surrounded by olive-branches. On a raised border round the outside is the legend, The Association Medal for Fidelity: India. On the reverse is a scroll inscribed, Watch and be Sober, and around the outside, The Soldiers' Total Abstinence Association; the date, 1862, is below, in Roman numerals.

(4) The next is a very handsome medal, and is in the form of a star of four double points, with radiations between the four main members. In the centre is a fine raised figure of St. George and the Dragon, and on an encircling band are the words, The Soldiers' Total Abstinence Association: India below. On the reverse, in a depressed centre, is a sword, round which is twined a scroll, inscribed, Watch and be Sober; and on a raised garter round the outside is the legend, For Five Years' Fidelity. A crown and ring are attached for suspension.

(5) Another medal is in the shape of a large Maltese cross, and was instituted during the Afghan War of 1878-79-80. On a garter in the centre of the obverse is inscribed, Grand Lodge of India, and inside the circle, Afghanistan, 1878-9-80. On each limb of the cross is a letter in old English characters—I.O.G.T.—representing the name of the society—“Independent Order of Good Templars”; a raised border surrounds the whole. The reverse of the cross is plain. A ring is attached for suspension.

I.O.G.T.
Medal for Afghanistan,
1878-80.

The last three medals are each worn with a light blue ribbon.

(6) Another medal is in the form of a Maltese cross with radiations, the word India being in the centre; and on each limb of the cross a letter of the following abbreviated title: S.T.A.S. (“Soldiers’ Total Abstinence Society”). The reverse is plain. A crown and ring are provided for suspension from a pink ribbon with blue edges.

(7) In 1875, an eight-pointed silver star was issued, having on the centre of the obverse, on a raised circle, the words India's Hope, engraved, and in the centre a monogram, T.A.S. Reverse, plain. A ring for suspension. Ribbon, light blue.

(8) Another medal was issued during the campaign in Burmah in 1888. It is in the shape of a Maltese cross, with a raised garter in the centre, on which is inscribed, in raised letters, Grand Lodge of India—Fidelity. Inside the garter the recipient’s name is engraved. On each of the arms of the cross is one of the four letters, I.O.G.T. It is suspended from a bar inscribed, Burmah. The reverse is plain, and a pin, instead of a ribbon, is used for attaching it to the coat.

(9) A cross, with balls at the eight points. In the centre an elephant; below, on a label, India; surrounded by a band inscribed, The Soldiers' Total Abstinence Association, with rays between the arms of the cross. Silver, with ring for suspension.

(10) An eight-pointed silver star, surmounted by a crown. In the centre a Maltese cross, surrounded by a garter, on which is inscribed, Church of England, T. S. Ribbon, blue. Reverse, plain, with recipient's name engraved.

In 1893, "The Army Temperance Association" was formed in this country, and the following medals are from time to time issued to the members, and have replaced the temperance medals previously described.

(11) For Six-Months.—A bronze cross with four arms, on which are the letters, A.T.A., and on the lower one, 1893. In the centre, on a raised oval, the numeral 6. Ribbon, narrow purple. Reverse, plain.

(12) For Twelve Months.—A silver medal. Obverse, St. George and the Dragon to the left; above, Army Temperance Association. In the exergue, 1893. Reverse, A.T.A. in a monogram; below, on a ribbon, Watch and be Sober. A round silver medal. Ribbon, light blue.

For Two Years.—A silver bar, inscribed, Fidelity, is added to the above medal.

(13) For Three Years.—A silver hexagonal medal, having in the centre the badge of the Order of the Star of India; and below, on a ribbon, the words, Army Temperance Association. Reverse, plain. Ribbon, brown, with two narrow yellow stripes.

For Four Years.—A silver bar, inscribed, Excelsior, added to the above medal.

(14) For Five Years.—The silver star of St. George, as described on pp. 470-1, but with a dark blue enamelled garter in the middle, inscribed, Army Temperance Association. Ribbon, pink.

For Six Years.—A silver bar, inscribed, Watch and be Sober, is added to the above medal.

(15) For Seven Years.—A silver Maltese cross, having in the centre, on a circle, the monogram, A.T.A., and known as the "Havelock Cross." Reverse, plain. Ribbon, dark blue, with a red centre, edged with white.

(16) For Eight Years.—The silver star of the "Order of Merit," an eight-pointed star, having on a shield in the centre the monogram, A.T.A. Reverse, plain. Ribbon, white, with a blue stripe in the centre.

(17) For Ten Years.—"The Roberts Badge," formed of two crossed lances and a crossed sword and rifle. In the centre a helmet, surmounted by a royal crown. Below, on a ribbon, the words, Army Temperance Association. Ribbon, red and blue, similar to that of the New Zealand Medal.

(18) For Twelve Years.—A silver oval badge, with an elephant in the centre, surrounded by a blue enamelled garter, on which are the words, Army Temperance Association, in blue enamel, and surmounted by a crown and ring for suspension. Ribbon, red, white, and blue.

(19) For Fifteen Years.—A silver shield-shaped badge, with the Royal Arms in gold in the centre. Above, on a ribbon, the words, Army Temperance Association; below, Dieu et mon droit. Reverse, plain. Ribbon, green and black.

Boys of the Duke of York's and Royal Hibernian Military Schools, who are members of the Association and who have received the first year's medal, are given an additional silver badge for fixing to the ribbon of the medal, consisting of a "York Rose" or the "Prince of Wales' Feathers" respectively.

(20) The Award of Merit presented by the Council to members of the Association for good work done in the cause consists of a silver monogram of the letters A.T.A., surrounded by an oval band, inscribed, Award of Merit, Watch and be Sober, and surmounted by a five-pointed star. Ribbon, crimson, suspended from a bar, inscribed, Palnam qui meruit ferat.

Obverse, the bust of Queen Victoria, facing the left, with the usual legend; as on the Canadian General Service Medal; reverse, an irregular-shaped label, inscribed, For Long Service in the Colonial Auxiliary Forces, surmounted by an Imperial crown, and surrounded by scrolls and laurel-branches. A silver medal, with straight clasp for suspension. Ribbon, green.

After the accession of King Edward, the obverse was altered, and now bears his effigy in uniform, facing left, with the usual legend.

LONG SERVICE AND GOOD CONDUCT (CAPE OF GOOD HOPE).—Obverse, a shield of arms, and supporters exactly the same as the obverse of the Army Long Service Medal, and with a similar suspender and ribbon; reverse, For Long Service and Good Conduct; above, the legend, Cape of Good Hope. Long Service and Good Conduct (Cape of Good Hope) Medal.

On the accession of King Edward, the obverse was altered to an effigy of the King, with the usual legend; the reverse remained as before.

DISTINGUISHED CONDUCT IN THE FIELD (CAPE OF GOOD HOPE).—Obverse, the same as that of the English medal, p. 215; the reverse is also similar, but with the words Cape of Good Hope in a semi-circle above the usual inscription. After King Edward's accession, the obverse was changed to an effigy of the King, in uniform, facing left. Legend, Edwardus VII. Rex Imperator. Ribbon, crimson. Distinguished Conduct in the Field (Cape of Good Hope) Medal.

MERITORIOUS SERVICE (CAPE OF GOOD HOPE).—Obverse, the bust of Queen Victoria, and facing the left. Legend, Victoria Regina et Imperatrix; reverse, similar to that of the English medal, p. 214, and with the words, Cape of Good Hope, in a semi-circle, outside the laurel-wreath. Ribbon, crimson, with a narrow yellow stripe down the centre. Meritorious Service (Cape of Good Hope) Medal.

Bars, Bechuanaland, Transkei, Basutoland. The last is worn nearest to the medal. Bars, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{5}{8}$ in. Medal, $1\frac{7}{16}$ in. diameter. A straight clasp for suspension. This medal was issued in accordance with Army Order 841 of 1900, and was conferred on all those who served in Basutoland in 1880 and 1881 and in the Transkei in 1880-1881, including Tembuland and Griqualand East, and in Bechuanaland in 1896-97. It was issued by the Cape Government, with the approval of the Imperial Government, but no detachments of the Imperial troops obtained it. It was, however, given to certain British officers serving with the Colonial troops.

Natal Medal. NATAL NATIVE REBELLION MEDAL.—Early in 1908 a silver medal was given by the Natal Government to the local forces and to 350 natives, including chiefs, members of the Natal Native Horse Corps, who helped to suppress the native rebellion in 1906. Obverse, the bust of King Edward VII. facing the right. Legend, Edwardus VII Rex Imperator. Reverse, the figure of Natalia placing her foot upon a Kaffir shield and weapons, indicating the crushing of the rebellion, while in her right hand she holds a sword and in her left a branch of palm. Standing beside her, in an attitude of protection, is a figure of Britannia, holding in her hand the orb of Empire surmounted by a figure of Peace. In the background are shown a hilly landscape, with natives and Kaffir kraals, and storm-clouds receding, with the rays of the sun behind. In the exergue, Natal. The medal is mounted with a straight clasp and swivel, and a bar, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $\frac{1}{4}$ in., inscribed 1906, is added. Ribbon, crimson, with black edges. The medal was struck by the Goldsmiths' and Silversmiths' Co., Ltd., 110,

ZANZIBAR.—Obverse, the bust of the Sultan of Zanzibar. Reverse, an inscription in native characters. A silver medal, given to Indian troops for services in East Africa. Zanzibar.

NAVY GOOD SHOOTING MEDAL.—On August 11th, 1903, King Edward VII. approved of the establishment of a silver medal to recognise good shooting among the seamen-gunners of His Majesty's Fleet. It was first issued in 1904 to the winner in 1903. Obverse, the bust of His Majesty in naval uniform facing the left. Reverse, a nude erect figure of Neptune turned to the right, quarter-front, grasping thunderbolts in both hands, the right arm drawn back in the act of hurling the missiles. Behind is the prow of a trireme, beneath which are the heads of three sea-horses. Naval Shooting Medal.

Above, on the table of the medal, a trident. Above is the legend, Amat Victoria curam. The medal is issued with a bar, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. long by $\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide, on which is inscribed the name of the ship and the year. The nature of the gun for which the award was made, and the name of the recipient are engraved upon the edge of the medal.

The bars issued in 1905 were: "H.M.S. Bulwark 1904: 6in."; "H.M.S. Bacchante 1904: 9.2in."; "H.M.S. Victorious 1904: 12in." A straight clasp is provided for suspension. Ribbon, a broad red stripe in the centre, bordered by a narrow white stripe on either side, with blue edges.

GARIBALDI'S VOLUNTEERS.—Obverse, an eagle, and Garibaldi. S.P.Q.R. on a scroll; legend, Ai prodi cui fu duce Garibaldi. Reverse, Il Municipio palermitano Rivendicato, MDCCCLX., within a laurel-wreath; legend, Marsala, Calatafimi, Palermo. A silver medal. Ribbon, red with yellow edges; on the ribbon the arms of Sicily, in silver.

GENEVA CROSS.—A medal was given by the French Geneva Cross. Government, in 1870-1, to those who succoured the wounded, and as many English doctors and civilians received it, it is worthy of notice here. The medal is in the form of a Roman cross, and is cast in bronze. It is inscribed in raised letters, Société Française de secours aux blessés des armées de terre et de mer; above, 1870; below, 1871. The reverse is plain, and sometimes has the name engraved. The ribbon is white with a red Geneva cross in the centre.

TRAINING-SHIP MEDALS.—(1) Obverse, in the Training Ship Medals. centre, a crown and anchor; legend, Royal Naval Training-Ship. Reverse, Presented to ——— as a reward of merit, surrounded by a wreath of laurel. A silver medal.

(2) "ARETHUSA."—Obverse, a sailor leaning on an anchor, on his right side the breech-end of a cannon. Around the outside the motto, England expects every man to do his duty. Reverse, Presented by the Committee to —— on his return from second voyage with good character. Around the outside, Arethusa Training Ship. The name of the recipient is engraved. A silver medal.

(4) Obverse, the same as the above. Reverse, Presented to —— on his return from a second voyage with good character. Chichester training-ship.

granted for expeditions, whether in the Arctic, or Antarctic regions. Obverse, King Edward's effigy, facing the left in naval uniform, with medals and orders. Legend, Edwardus VII., rex Imperator. Reverse, the ship "Discovery" in winter quarters, in the background the volcanic mountain Erebus, in the foreground a loaded sledge hauled by sailors on skis. The officers, men, and scientific staff of the "Discovery," received the medal in silver, with a bar inscribed Antarctic 1901-1904, and the officers and men of the relieving ships, "Morning" and "Terra Novo," received the medal in bronze, without a bar. Ribbon, white; a floreated clasp and swivel for suspension.

Police Medals. LIVERPOOL POLICE.—Obverse, the arms of the city of Liverpool on a shield, surrounded by a wreath. Reverse, Presented by the Watch Committee to ——— as a reward of good conduct. Ribbon, blue with red edges. A silver medal. A plain, narrow silver bar was added for each five years that the recipient had served. The medal is met with with one, two, and three bars.

Jubilee Medals. CITY OF LONDON POLICE.—Obverse, Queen Victoria's head, as on the Ashantee Medal, surrounded by Victoria Regina. Obverse, Jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, surrounded by an oak-wreath, with a crown above. Outside the wreath, City of London Police; below, 1887, with a heraldic rose at each side.

METROPOLITAN POLICE.—Similar to the above, but with the words Metropolitan Police on the reverse instead of City of London Police. Silver medals, with the names of the recipients engraved on the edge. The medal was also given in bronze. They

Coronation
Medals.

AMBULANCE MEDAL.—Obverse, as above. Reverse, similar to the above, but with the words, St. John's Ambulance Brigade.

FIRE BRIGADE.—As above. Reverse, similar to the above, but with the words, Metropolitan Fire Brigade.

THE KING'S POLICE MEDAL.—On July 9th, 1909, King Edward instituted "The King's Police Medal," "to be awarded to officers of the Constabulary Forces and persons serving in Fire Brigades throughout His Majesty's Dominions for acts of exceptional courage and skill and conspicuous devotion to duty." The medal is silver, with the King's effigy on the obverse, and on the reverse a design emblematic of protection from danger. The name of the recipient is to be engraved on the rim. For subsequent acts of gallantry a bar or bars will be issued for attachment to the ribbon, which is dark blue, with a narrow silver stripe on either side. The number of medals awarded in any one year is not to exceed 120, of which, "at the most," the apportionment is to be: United Kingdom, Channel Isles, and Isle of Man, 40; dominions beyond the sea, 30; Empire of India, 50. At the time of going to press the design was not decided upon.

HONG KONG POLICE FORCE.—Obverse, the head of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, crowned and veiled, surrounded by Victoria Regina. Reverse, within a beaded circle, a wreath of laurel, in the centre of which is the inscription, Hong Kong Police Force; for merit. A bronze medal. In the Whitaker collection. It is also met with in silver-gilt and bronze-gilt. Ribbon, red and blue.

MAURITIUS POLICE FORCE.—Obverse, crossed maces, surmounted by a crown. On a scroll, Pax nobiscum. Legend, Police Department, Mauritius. Reverse, within two palm-branches, For good conduct. An oval bronze medal. Ribbon, blue with white edges. In the Whitaker collection.

ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY.—(1) Obverse, an Irish harp surmounted by a crown, and surrounded by a wreath of shamrocks and oak-leaves. Above, Reward of Merit. Below, Irish Constabulary. Reverse, a wreath of laurel and shamrocks, within which is engraved the recipient's name. A round silver medal.

(2) During the Fenian rising in 1867 a Badge of Merit was instituted for the Royal Irish Constabulary, and was given for special acts of bravery. The badge consists of a garter, inscribed, Badge of Merit, and in the centre a shamrock. The badge is surmounted by a crown, and surrounded by a laurel-wreath. It was worn on the right arm on a band of black patent leather. The badge was given for the first act of bravery. For the second and third acts a chevron was added for each, and if a fourth was earned, all were called in, and the medal was substituted. They are now obsolete.

(3) Obverse, bust of King Edward VII. to the left, in uniform; legend, Edwardus VII. Rex: Imperator. Reverse, emblematical figure of Hibernia, and view of Kingstown Harbour, with the Royal yacht entering, a harp, rose, and shamrock at the feet of the figure; in the exergue, 1903. P. Geoghegan, Dublin Mounted Police. Ribbon, light blue. A bronze medal, with straight bar for suspension.

ORANGE MEDALS.—(1) Obverse, the head of King William III., surrounded by the legend, The glorious and immortal memory, 1690. Reverse, the royal arms; above, King and Constitution. A silver medal. This medal was at one time worn by soldiers on the left breast, suspended by the parti-coloured ribbon.

(2) Obverse, King William on horseback, surrounded by a laurel-wreath. Legend, The glorious and immortal memory, 1690. Reverse, the royal arms, surrounded by King and Constitution.

(3) Obverse, an equestrian statue of King William III.; on the pedestal, 1690; above, The glorious memory; below, No surrender. Reverse, in the centre, a crown and a bible, surrounded by a garter, inscribed, Fear God and Honour the King. Outside, Loyal Orange Association. A large brass medal, with a raised rim and ring for suspension.

(4) Obverse, the head of George III.; on one side G., and on the other III.; above, God save the King; below, 1788. Reverse, the head of William III.; on the left side W., and on the right side III.; above, Centenary of the glorious rebellion; below, 1688.

(5) Obverse, the bust of William III., in armour and cloak; around the outside, Manet post funera virtus. Reverse, the figure of Liberty with cap and spear; around the outside, Nobis hæc otia fecit ist of July 1690. A cast and chased medal, with loop for suspension. These are all badges of Orange lodges. There are many more modern specimens which do not come within the scope of this book.

JAMAICA ROYAL MILITARY CLUB, 1788.—Obverse, Jamaica Club. in the centre the star of the Order of the Garter, surrounded by an oak-wreath; above, the monogram, W. H., under a ducal crown; below, on a scroll, Gloria Patriæ. Reverse, a naval and military trophy surrounding two columns supporting a crown; below, on a scroll, Navy and Army. Outside, in a circle, Royal Military Club, Instituted at Jamaica A. D. 1788; below, on a scroll, Unanimity. A gold medal. The monogram has reference to King William IV., who, when the Duke of York, as a midshipman, visited the island in 1788.

H.M.S. "PROMETHEUS."—Obverse, in relief, an H.M.S. Prometheus anchor and H.M.S. Prometheus, July 7th, 1809. Reverse, Presented to Matthew Vesey, Boatswain, by the officers of the ship: A token of their regard for his intrepid conduct at the attack on the Russian flotilla under Percola Point. A gold medal.

KASHMIR MEDAL FOR CHITRAL.—The Maharajah of Jummoo and Kashmir gave a medal to the native levies who took part in the defence of Chitral in 1895. Obverse, a coat of arms, with two native soldiers as supporters. Below, on a scroll, a native inscription. In the exergue, Jummoo and Kashmir. Reverse, troops storming a fortress. The medal is bronze, of an irregular heart-shape, and has a bar and suspender of similar design to that of the Indian General Service Medal. The bar is inscribed, Chitral, 1895. The medal is $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter by $\frac{3}{16}$ in. thick; bar, $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. by $\frac{5}{16}$ in. Chitral.

THE BOYCOTT EXPEDITION, 1880.—A silver struck medal was presented to thirty men who volunteered for the Boycott Expedition under the Colonel of that name, sanctioned and assisted by the Government. Obverse, The Boycott Expedition, Lough Mask, 1880. Reverse, In honour of the loyal and brave Ulstermen. Boycott Expedition.

DEFENCE OF KIMBERLEY.—Obverse, Victory flying above the Town Hall, Kimberley. Reverse, two shields, one inscribed, Invested, October 15, 1899; and the other, Relieved, July 15th, 1900. THE MAYOR'S MEDAL.—A silver, six-pointed star, $1\frac{7}{8}$ in. across, with a ball on each point. Obverse, in the centre a shield with a lion rampant. Motto, Spero meliora, surrounded by a circle on which is the word Kimberley above, and below, the date 1899-1900. Reverse, in raised letters, Mayor's Siege Medal, 1900. Ribbon, $1\frac{1}{8}$ in. wide, with red, white, and blue stripes down the centre, each $\frac{1}{16}$ in. wide, and with a broad black, and a yellow edge. Permission was given to British soldiers to accept, but not to wear this medal.

Coronation Medals. KING EDWARD'S CORONATION MEDAL (Naval and Military).—After His Majesty's Coronation, August 9th, 1902, a medal was given to the chief naval and military officers who were in the procession, and also to officers commanding units who lined the streets. Obverse, the busts of King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra side by side, crowned, and facing the right. Reverse, the royal cypher, E.R. VII., with a crown above, and the date, June 26th, 1902, below. A raised ornamental rim is surmounted by a crown and ring for suspension. Ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, dark blue, with a white edging $\frac{1}{16}$ in. wide, and a scarlet stripe down the centre, $\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide.

The medal was given in bronze to a seaman, or marine, serving on board each of the ships present at the Naval Review on August 16th, 1902. Only one man per ship received the distinction, and he had the longest service in any rank or rating below that of Warrant-officer in the Navy, or of Commissioned-officer of the Royal Marines, and had to "be of very good character."

(Civil).—A somewhat similar medal was given to the provincial mayors and others who took part in the ceremony, but the busts of their Majesties on the obverse face towards the left, and the medal has a wider raised rim, with no crown between it and the ring for suspension.

The reverse is the same as that of the foregoing medal. The ribbon has a narrow white stripe down the centre, with a blue stripe on either side, and a wide scarlet edge, i.e., two broad blue and scarlet stripes and a narrow white one.

THE DURBAR MEDAL.—Instituted after the Delhi Durbar in January, 1903. Obverse, the bust of King Edward VII., crowned, to the right.* Legend, Edward VII., Delhi Durbar, 1903. Reverse, an inscription in Hindustani, which, translated, reads: By the favour of the Lord of Dominion, Edward the Seventh, Emperor of India. Ribbon, $1\frac{1}{4}$ in. wide, light blue, with a dark blue edge, $\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide, and a similar dark blue stripe down the centre. A ring is fitted for suspension.

St. John of Jerusalem.

MEDAL OF THE HOSPITAL OF ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM.—Obverse, the bust of King Edward VII. in uniform facing left. Legend, Edwardus VII. D.G. Britt. Reg. F.D. Ind. Imp. Reverse, the arms of the order, below, on a ribbon, Pro fide: pro utilitate; hominum. Above, South Africa 1899-1902, all surrounded by the legend, Magnus prioratus ordinis hospitalis Saveti Johannis Jerusalem in Anglia. Ribbon, black, with white edges. A bronze medal with straight bar for suspension. Name and rank of the recipient engraved on the edge in capital letters.

THE HONG KONG PLAGUE MEDAL.—For services rendered in endeavouring to stay the plague which broke out in Hong Kong in 1894, the citizens presented medals, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in. diameter, to about 300 non-commissioned officers and men of the Shropshire Light Infantry and a few men of the Royal Engineers. These medals were of silver, and in addition thirteen similar medals were given in gold to the officers. The obverse bears the figure of a soldier supporting the prostrate body of a native, and attended by an emblematic figure of Charity. Above is the Angel of Death with a spear. In the exergue, the date, 1894 and the words Hong Kong, in Chinese characters. The reverse has, in the centre, the inscription, For services rendered during the plague of 1894, and surrounded by Presented by the Hong Kong community. The ribbon has alternate stripes of red and yellow. The rank, name, and regiment of the recipient are indented on the edge of the medal in small capital letters. Permission to wear the medal was refused. The gold medals had no ring nor ribbon for suspension.

THE ARMY NURSING SERVICE RESERVE.—Formed in 1897. The badge is of silver, circular in shape, and bears upon it a crown-surmounted cross, in the angles of which are representations of the rose, shamrock, thistle, and acorn. Round the edge is the inscription, Princess Christian's Army Nursing Service Reserve.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S IMPERIAL MILITARY NURSING SERVICE.—Established by Royal Warrant, dated March 27th, 1902. Badge: On a cross patée (as borne in the Royal Arms of Denmark), surmounted by an Imperial Crown, the letter "A" within a circle, and surrounded by an oval band bearing the inscription, "Queen Alexandra's Imperial Military Nursing Service." It is given in gold to Matrons, in silver to the Sisters, and in bronze to the Staff Nurses.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S ROYAL NAVAL NURSING SERVICE.—Established February 9th, 1901. Badge: An embroidered red Geneva Cross, on a white ground in a gold border. Above, Her Majesty Queen Alexandra's monogram, viz.: two A's, red, interlacing an anchor and cable, gold; the whole surmounted by an Imperial Crown.

TERRITORIAL NURSES' BADGE.—An oval garter, inscribed "Territorial Force Nursing Service," surrounding a monogram A.A. in filigree work. A Tudor crown and ring for suspension. Ribbon, dark green, with yellow stripe down the centre.

LIFE-SAVING MEDALS.

HERE are now many of these, and as they are not confined to soldiers and sailors, but are also given to civilians, a detailed description of them all hardly comes within the scope of this work. The principal ones are as follow :

THE ALBERT MEDAL was instituted in 1866 for saving life at sea, and in 1877 it was extended for saving life on land. It is divided into two classes :

(1) The first class, for saving life at sea, consists of a gold oval badge, enamelled in dark blue, with a monogram of V. and A. interlaced with a gold anchor. It is surrounded by a bronze garter, inscribed, in raised gold letters, For gallantry in saving life at sea, and surmounted by the late Prince Consort's crown. For saving life on land the badge is enamelled crimson, and the anchor is omitted in the monogram. The inscription also has the words "on land" substituted for "at sea."

(2) The second class, in both cases, is exactly similar in design to the above, but is entirely of bronze.

The medals for saving life at sea are worn with a dark blue ribbon with four white stripes, and for similar deeds on land with a crimson ribbon with four white stripes. The stripes in both cases are vertical, and the ribbon is $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide for the First Class. On March 24th, 1902, it was ordered that the ribbon of the Second Class shall be $1\frac{3}{8}$ in. wide, with two white horizontal stripes, instead of the previous ribbon, which was $\frac{5}{8}$ in. wide, with two white stripes.

There are various sizes of this medal, in gold, silver-gilt, silver, and bronze. It is worn with a dark blue ribbon, and the inscriptions on the reverse vary. It is worn on the right breast.

BOARD OF TRADE: FOR GALLANTRY IN SAVING LIFE.—Obverse, the head of Queen Victoria, surrounded by the legend, Awarded by the Board of Trade for Gallantry in Saving Life; below V.R. Reverse, a figure of a man holding on to a spar in the water, and signalling to a lifeboat in the distance, a man supporting a rescued sailor, and a woman and child seated on a rock. A very large silver medal, worn with a blue ribbon. It was also given in bronze. The name of the recipient, and the date of the action, are engraved on the edge.

LIVERPOOL SHIPWRECK AND HUMANE SOCIETY.—(1) Obverse, a man on a floating piece of a wreck, rescuing a woman and child. Legend, Lord save us; we perish. Reverse, the arms of Liverpool surrounded by an oak-wreath. Legend, Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society, 1839. A large silver medal.

(2) A smaller one, of similar design and metal.

(3) Obverse, a man rescuing a woman and child, and surrounded by the legend, Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society, 1839, on an ornamental border. Reverse, the recipient's name and date of the action, surrounded by an oak-wreath. An oval, silver medal, suspended from a silver bar and the arms of Liverpool.

ROYAL NATIONAL INSTITUTION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK.—Obverse, head of King George IV., or of Queen Victoria, according to the time when the medal was issued; legend, Royal National Institution for the Preservation of Life from Shipwreck, George IV. (or Victoria), Patron, 1824 (or 1837). Reverse, three men in a boat, rescuing a sailor; legend, Let not the deep swallow me up. The medal is silver, and is also met with in bronze. It is worn with a blue ribbon.

men rescuing a body from the sea; the whole surrounded by the legend, Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Royal Benevolent Society; in the exergue, Established A.D. 1839, Incorporated by Act of Parliament 1850. Reverse, Presented for Heroic Exertions in Saving Life from drowning. Job xxix. 13, surrounded by the legend, England expects every man will do his duty. A silver medal, with two dolphins for clasp. Ribbon, light blue.

TAYLEUR FUND MEDAL.—Obverse, a shipwreck; legend, Tayleur Fund for the succour of Shipwrecked Strangers. Reverse, the date and location of the deed for which the medal was awarded, also the name of the recipient. Ribbon, blue with white edges. These medals are given from a fund which was founded from the surplus of subscriptions raised for the benefit of the survivors of the wreck of the emigrant ship "Tayleur," on January 24th, 1854, and which was afterwards set apart for the purpose.

INDIA: MEDAL FOR SAVING LIFE.—Obverse, a ship in distress, three sepoy in the foreground. On the left a lighthouse and flagstaff, two ships in the distance. Reverse, in the centre, a Persian inscription, with another surrounding it. A large silver medal, with the recipient's name engraved.

LLOYD'S MEDAL FOR SAVING LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK.—Obverse, in the centre, Ob cives servatos, surrounded by two oak-branches, and surmounted by the inscription, Presented by Lloyd's. Reverse, a sea-goddess assisting a shipwrecked man who is clinging to a floating mast; above, Lencothae naufrago succurrit. 1839. The recipient's name is engraved on the edge.

NORFOLK ASSOCIATION FOR SAVING LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK.—Obverse, the head of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, surrounded by the legend, Victoria Regina. Reverse, an oak-wreath, in the centre of which is engraved the name of the recipient and the date of the action for which the medal is given. In the exergue, Hoc premium cive servato tulit. On the edge is engraved, Norfolk Association for saving life from shipwreck. A silver medal.

CANADA: MEDAL FOR SAVING LIFE.—Obverse, a beaver on the bank of a river, a scroll hanging from the branch of a tree, on which is inscribed, Industry and Perseverance; the whole surrounded by Beaver Club, Montreal. Instituted 1785. Reverse, four men rowing a boat; above, Fortitude in distress; below, 1807. A gold medal.

FRENCH MEDAL FOR SAVING LIFE.—Obverse, the head of Louis Philippe, Louis Napoleon, or that of Liberty, according to the period when it was given. Reverse, two figures, male and female, supporting a shield, on which is engraved the recipient's name and the date of the action for which the medal was granted; above, Ministere de la Marine et des Colonies. An anchor and laurel-leaves below. Ribbon, red, white, and blue. There are various sizes of these medals, according to the rank of the recipient. They were given in gold and in silver.

THE EDWARD MEDAL.—This medal was issued in 1908 for saving life in mines. Obverse, the head of His Majesty King Edward VII. to the left; legend, Edwardus VII. D.G. Britt. omn. Rex, F.D. Ind. Imp. Reverse, a miner rescuing a fallen comrade. A silver medal, with swivel and ring for suspension. Ribbon, dark blue with yellow edges. There are two classes, the medal of the first class being silver and that of the second bronze. When granted otherwise than for acts performed in mines the obverse bears the words, "For courage," with a suitable design.
