REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

- |                      |                         |                    |                        |
|----------------------|-------------------------|--------------------|------------------------|
| 1. Edinburgh.        | 11. Caithness.          | 20. Inverness.     | 29. Perth.             |
| 2. Glasgow.          | 12. Clackmannan.        | 21. Kincardine.    | 30. Renfrew.           |
| 3. Dundee.           | 13. Dumbarton.          | 22. Kinross.       | 31. Ross and Cromarty. |
| 4. Aberdeen (City).  | 14. Dumfries.           | 23. Kirkeudbright. | 32. Roxburgh.          |
| 5. Aberdeen (County) | 15. Edinburgh (County). | 24. Lanark.        | 33. Selkirk.           |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume :—

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| 1. Population of Civil Parishes.   | 22. Occupations of Population of—(a) County.(b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.   |
| 2. Particulars relating to Civil Parishes, giving population, &c., of burghal and extra-burghal portions, of shipping, &c.   | 23. Occupations of Married and Widowed Females—(a) Principal Occupations.(b) Age-distribution of those Occupied.  |
| 3. Population of Civil Parishes since 1801.  | 24. Numbers engaged in the Principal Industries.<small>NOTE.—This information will be more elaborated in Second Volume.</small>   |
| 4. Population of Burghs.   | 25. Birth-places of the Inhabitants in—(a) County.(b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.   |
| 5. Particulars relating to Burghs, showing population of burgh wards, of shipping, &c.   | 26. Houses of stated sizes in—(a) Parishes.(b) Burghs.<small>NOTE.—This table is not strictly comparable with Table 16 of Second Volume of Report on 1901 Census as it is based on the number of occupied houses, while the 1901 Table was based on the number of 'Families.' In this Report two families living in one house are treated as one household; in the Report on the previous Census they were treated as two households.</small> |
| 6. Population of Burghs since 1801.  | 27. Size of Household in Houses of stated size in—(a) County.(b) Burghs within county of over 20,000 population.<small>NOTE.—The above note to Table 26 applies to this Table. In addition, institutions and houses of more than 24 rooms and households of 20 persons and over are excluded from this Table.</small>   |
| 7. Population of Registration Districts.   | 28. Grouped List of Institutions.   |
| 8. Particulars relating to Registration Districts.   |   |
| 9. Population of Ecclesiastical Parishes.  |   |
| 10. Population of School Board Districts.  |   |
| 11. Population of Special Water Districts.   |   |
| 12. Population of Special Drainage Districts.  |   |
| 13. Population of Special Scavenging Districts.  |   |
| 14. Population of Special Lighting Districts.  |   |
| 15. Population of Inhabited Islands.   |   |
| 16. Population of Parliamentary Constituencies.  |   |
| 17. Population of County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.  |   |
| 18. Population of Public Health Areas.   |   |
| 19. Conjugal Condition and Age-distribution of Population—(a) Of City or County.(b) Of Burghs of over 20,000 population.   |   |
| 20. Population by Conjugal Conditions and Quinquennial Age-periods—(a) Of Parishes.(b) Of Burghs.(c) Of County, showing inter-censal change (age-groups and sexes only). |   |
| 21. Ages of Children and Young Persons in School Board Districts.  |   |

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND, 1911.

CENSUS OFFICE,

NEW REGISTER HOUSE,

EDINBURGH, 27th February, 1912.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD PENTLAND,

His Majesty's Secretary for Scotland.

MY LORD,

In conformity with the Census (Great Britain) Act, 1910, the Twelfth Census of Scotland was taken on the 2nd April of last year, and on the 29th May we had the honour of submitting to your Lordship our Preliminary Report upon it. Since that date, the revision and tabulation of the Census Returns has been in progress, and we are now in a position to submit the first section of the Final Report. All population figures applicable to this Census and stated in the Preliminary Report were of necessity provisional, and are superseded by figures given in this and other sections of the Final Report.

In the Reports of previous Censuses of Scotland it has been the custom to abstract and publish at one time all facts relating to one subject matter and covering and including all Scotland; but, as the method of abstraction and tabulation adopted in this Census lends itself more conveniently to the abstraction and tabulation of all facts referring to a single district—a city or a county—rather than referring to a single subject of the entire country, we have thought it right to obtain your Lordship's approval to depart from previous custom, and to publish by order of cities and counties in place of publishing by order of subjects. The tabulation of facts relative to each city and county will be completed before the tabulation of another city or county is commenced, and the method of publication adopted will permit of immediate report in each case, while publication in order of subject would have necessitated a long delay between the completion of much of the tabulation and its appearance in report. This change will thus lead to the greater part of the Census information being in your hands at an earlier date than would otherwise have been the case.

Our First Volume will be issued in 37 Parts, 4 of them being applicable to the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 to the Counties. After the completion of our First Volume we propose to summarise the results of the county tabulations, omitting much local detail, in a general Volume—our Second Volume—applicable to the entire country, and subsequently to publish a Third Volume dealing with special statistical studies, among which there will be a report on the fertility of the married women of Scotland, another on the occupations of foreigners, and a third on facts relative to the infirm.

A full description of the method of tabulation adopted in this Census is probably not called for here, but we may say that the ticking sheet method employed in previous Censuses has now been abandoned in favour of the more modern mechanical process. The essentials of this process are (1) the recording of all facts relative to each individual in the country, and to each distinctive area of the country, on specially prepared and designed cards by means of perforations; (2) the mechanical sorting of these cards into groups according to the subject or distribution which is being dealt with at the time; and (3) the mechanical counting of the cards thus sorted or the mechanical summation of the figures recorded in a group of cards. We have found this mechanical method of tabulation to be a great advance on the old ticking sheet method, and, among the points in its favour, may be mentioned the great facilities for checking that exist throughout the entire process, and the value of having facts so recorded that they may be correlated. The advantage of being constantly able to check the accuracy of the tabulation is so obvious that no explanation is called for; but, perhaps one instance, or illustration, of the method of testing a correlation of fact may be useful by way of explanation of the second named advantage of this system. During the process of tabulating the results in one of the counties, the cards relative to the Gaelic speakers were grouped and counted, and it then, on second thought, was considered desirable to ascertain the birth-places of those Gaelic speakers; to do this, all that was necessary was to subject the group of cards to a further sort and count, a process occupying a very few minutes, but had the abstraction of the statistics relative to the Gaelic speaking people of the county been done as formerly by the ticking sheet method, the birth-places could not have been ascertained without a lengthy and laborious examination of a long series of Enumeration Books.

As further proof of the superiority of mechanical tabulation, we may point to the fact that householders, in terms of the Census Act, were required to give more information than was previously the case, and that the tabulation of these additional particulars adds very materially to the work of this Census, and had it not been for the mechanical tabulation employed, a very considerable delay of publication would have resulted. We hope to complete the entire Three Volumes of the Census Report within a little more than two years from Census Day, a date which will compare favourably with the dates of the completion of the Report of recent Censuses.

We herewith publish Part I. of the First Volume of the Report dealing with the City of Edinburgh, and, as the preparation of other Parts of the Report is now advanced, we expect to be able to publish the remaining City and County parts in rapid succession.

We have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your most obedient Servants,

J. PATTEN MACDOUGALL,
Registrar General.

JAMES C. DUNLOP,

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part I.

THE CITY OF EDINBURGH.

Population.

An examination of the Census Returns of the City of Edinburgh shows that on Census Day, 2nd April 1911, it had a population of 320,318, of which 143,436 were Males and 176,882 Females. These numbers very closely agree with what was stated in our Preliminary Report, the total population being only 3 more than there stated. The Male population is 10 less, and the Female population 13 more than the figures originally found. By the Eleventh Census, that of 1901, the population of this City was ascertained to be 316,837, and thus this Census shows that Edinburgh has increased by 3,481 during the last ten years. This increase, however, is partly accounted for by alterations of the City boundaries during the period, and if the Censal population of this year be compared with the 1901 Censal population of the entire area now included within the City, the net increase of population is found to amount to no more than 2,859 or 0·9 per cent.

It is almost impossible to give an accurate and clear description of the growth of the population of Edinburgh since the taking of the first Scottish Census in 1801, owing to the difficulty that arises from the many changes of boundaries that have taken place from time to time. A tabular statement of the Returns from 1801 onwards is shown in Table VI. The Censuses from 1801 to 1851 gave the population of the City, inclusive of the Parishes of North and South Leith, as 82,560 in 1801, and increasing in each Census to a maximum of 193,929 in 1851. The Censuses of 1821 to 1871 gave the population of the Ancient and Extended Royalty of Edinburgh, amounting in 1821 to 51,768, reaching a maximum of 66,734 in 1851, and falling to 62,171 in 1871. The Census Reports from 1841 onwards give the population of Edinburgh as defined for the purposes of Parliamentary Elections; in 1841 this population was 132,977, and each subsequent Census up to 1901 showed an increase, a maximum of 298,113 being reached in that year. The population of the Parliamentary Burgh is by the present Census, for the first time, found to be a decreasing quantity, being 4,622 less than it was in 1901. The population of the Municipal Burgh of Edinburgh is recorded from the 1881 Census onwards; in 1881 and 1891 it was the same as that of the Parliamentary Burgh, but, owing to alterations in the Municipal boundaries of Edinburgh which did not affect the boundaries of the Parliamentary Burgh, the population of the Municipal Burgh in 1901 and 1911 is the larger. In 1881 the population of the Municipal Burgh of Edinburgh was 228,357; in 1891 it amounted to 261,225, thus showing a decennial increase of 32,868; in 1901 it amounted to 316,837, a decennial increase of 55,612; and in 1911, as stated above, it amounts to 320,318, showing a decennial increase of 3,481 or of 2,859 if the 1911 population be compared with the 1901 population within the present boundaries of the City. In 1901 the population of the Municipal Burgh exceeded that of the Parliamentary Burgh by 18,724, and in 1911 by 26,827.

Table VI. also shows the growth of population of Portobello, a Burgh now included in Edinburgh for Municipal, but excluded for Parliamentary purposes. In 1821 Portobello is reported to have had a population of 1,912, and with each successive Census, that of 1851 excepted, it has shown a steady growth, the population in 1861 for the first time exceeding 4,000, in 1891 for the first time exceeding 8,000, and now amounting to 11,037.

The distribution of the population within the City of Edinburgh, and changes of that distribution, can best be studied in the population in the sixteen Burgh and Parish Wards (vide Table II.). Of the sixteen wards, seven show an increase of population varying from 4,725 in Portobello Ward, 3,581 in Morningside Ward, and 3,099 in Gorgie Ward to 64 in St Bernard's, and 682 in Haymarket; while on the other hand nine wards show a decrease of population varying from 2,384 in St Leonard's, 2,367 in St Giles' and 2,311 in St Andrew's, to 23 in Canongate, 237 in Newington and 819 in Dalry. These changes show that the population is tending to move from what were the more crowded central parts of the City to the less crowded parts in the outskirts, which confirms the observations we made when tabulating the Preliminary Report on which we reported in the following terms:—"It is worthy of note that the population of the Parishes which surround the City of Edinburgh have an aggregate increase of population exceeding that of Edinburgh itself. These Parishes—Cramond, Corstorphine, Colinton, Liberton, Inveresk and Leith—together show a rise from 110,199 to 123,507, an increase of 13,308, or 12·1 per cent., while the City of Edinburgh has only increased by 2,859, or 0·9 per cent." This movement of population from the centre to the outskirts of the town is further corroborated by comparing the change of population observed within the parliamentary boundary and within the portion of the city lying between the parliamentary and the municipal boundaries; the former, which includes the central portion of the city has in ten years lost 4,622 of population, but the latter, the outlying part of the city has gained 7,481 of population.

There are six Parliamentary Divisions wholly or partly within the boundaries of the City of Edinburgh, viz., the four Divisions of the Parliamentary Burgh of Edinburgh, and portions of the Leith Burghs and of the County of Edinburgh. The portion of Edinburgh voting with the Leith Burghs is Portobello, and the portions of the City voting in the County consist of the areas taken from the County and annexed to the City since 1887. Of the total population of Edinburgh 112,533 are in the South Edinburgh Constituency, 74,199 in the East Edinburgh Constituency, 56,159 in the Central Constituency and 50,600 in West Edinburgh. The populations of South and East Edinburgh show increases as compared with similar returns of 1901 amounting to 5,327 and 1,018 respectively, while those of the Central and West Divisions show decreases amounting to 6,103 and 4,864 respectively. The portion of Edinburgh situated within the Leith Burghs Constituency, Portobello, has a population of 11,037 and shows a decennial increase of 1,857, while the portion of Edinburgh in the County of Midlothian Constituency has a population of 15,790, and shows a decennial increase amounting to 6,246, or to 5,624 if the comparison be made with the 1901 population within the present boundaries of the city.

The distribution of the population of the Burgh Wards into the Parliamentary Constituencies is shown in Table V., and it is remarkable that the population of only four out of the sixteen wards is entirely in one Parliamentary Division, while in the remaining twelve wards the population is divided into two, three and, in one instance, four parts. This unfortunate and no doubt costly state of matters seems to call for adjustment.

As the boundaries of the Civil Parish of Edinburgh and of the School Board District of Edinburgh coincide with those of the City, a separate description of the population of those administrative areas is not called for.

The distribution of the population of Edinburgh in the forty-five Ecclesiastical Parishes, which are entirely or partly within the City is shown in Table IX. These Parishes, or the portion of these Parishes within the City, vary greatly in population. The largest of them are St Cuthbert's, 38,855; St Michael's, 37,949; South Leith, 19,821; St James's, 16,672; and Robertson Memorial, 14,625; while the smallest are Newhaven, 686; Liberton, 872; High Church (St Giles'), 910; and Tron, 1,315; the High Church Parish being the smallest of the exclusively City Parishes. A comparison between the 1911 populations of these parishes and their 1901 populations, excluding parishes the boundaries of which have been changed in the interval, and also excluding Granton whose population is affected by the inclusion of shipping, shows that the Parishes of largest decennial increase are South Leith (Edinburgh portion), 3,164; Portobello, 1,770; St James's, 1,502; Craiglockhart, 1,146; and West Coates, 1,063; while the Ecclesiastical Parishes which show the greatest decrease in population are St Cuthbert's, 2,043; Buccleuch, 1,144; Greenside, 1,129; and Abbey, 1,124. These comparisons may be described as generally corroborating the above-noted movement of population from the centre to the outskirts of the town.

Ages and Conjugal Conditions.

Of the total population of the City of Edinburgh (320,318), 143,436 were male and 176,882 were female, the male population showing a decrease of 1,127, the female population an increase of 4,608. The ratio of females to males in the last Census was 119·2 to 100, by this Census it is found to be 123·3 to 100.

Of the male population of 15 years and upwards 45,808 were bachelors, 49,044 husbands, and 5,335 widowers, while the conjugal condition of 43 is unstated. The corresponding figures in 1901 were 47,500 bachelors, 47,044 husbands, and 4,824 widowers. Thus there were in Edinburgh on Census Day 1,692 fewer bachelors than in 1901, but 2,000 more husbands and 511 more widowers. Of the 176,882 females of over 15 years of age enumerated in Edinburgh 66,292 were spinsters, 51,316 wives, and 15,767 widows, while the conjugal condition of 182 was not stated. Spinsters are 2,304 more, wives 2,708 more, and widows 852 more than in 1901.

In Text Tables B and C are tabular statements of the percentage of each sex enumerated as single, married, or widowed, and a comparison of those figures with the corresponding figures of 1901. It may there be seen that the proportion of men who are married is now less in each age group under 65 than in 1901, while the corresponding proportion of women also marks a decrease in all age groups up to 55, the group 40-45 excepted. These tables are of interest in helping to explain the continual decline of the Edinburgh birth-rate.

The age distribution of the population is shown in Tables XIX. and XX. A comparison of the facts there recorded, with the corresponding figures for 1901, may be briefly summarised by stating that the younger age groups—viz., those under 30—of both sexes show a marked decline, while increases in the case of males are confined to age groups between 30 and 80, and in the case of females to age groups over 30. The male population of under 20 shows a decrease of 3,172, and of between 20 and 40 years of age, of 2,554, while the male age groups of between 40 and 60 show an increase of 3,037, and of over 60 of 1,558. Similarly, the female age groups under 20 and between 20 and 40, show decreases of 2,293 and 230 respectively, while the age groups between 40 and 60, and over 60, both show increases, the former of 5,423 and the latter of 2,527.

One subject worthy of note in Table XIX. is the number of individuals of unstated conjugal condition but of stated age. The majority of these were houseless persons and vagrants enumerated by the Police, and among them was a considerable number of women who felt strongly regarding the attitude of the Government on the question of granting a Female Franchise, and who endeavoured to wreck the Census by avoiding enumeration. In many and probably most instances the endeavour of these women was unsuccessful as they fell to be enumerated in this manner. Small as the error from that source doubtless is, it has been further reduced, as the Police were able to supply their ages approximately, and these ages, though doubtless in themselves inaccurate, are probably sufficiently near the mark not to seriously upset the distribution of the population into grouped age periods.

Birthplaces.

The birth-places of the population of Edinburgh are shown in Table XXV. More than half of the population, 173,328, were born within the City boundaries, and 21,537 were born in the remaining portion of the County of Midlothian. A comparison of the figures shown in this Table with the corresponding Table of the 1901 Report shows that those born in Midlothian, the City of Edinburgh included, number 13,085 more than in 1901, while those born in the Counties of Bute, Linlithgow, Renfrew, and Stirling, show small increases varying between 164 and 12. But the numbers born in the remaining 28 Scottish Counties all show a decrease, the largest decreases being of those born in the Counties of Fife, 1,986; Perth, 1,119; Haddington, 897; Aberdeen, 787; Caithness, 758; and Roxburgh, 668. The total number of Scottish birth enumerated in Edinburgh was 288,712, which is 2,776 more than in 1901, while the total number returned as born outside Scotland amounted to 31,606, or 705 more than in 1901. Of the latter 18,951 were born in England, an increase of 1,722 over 1901. Those of Irish birth enumerated in Edinburgh numbered 5,360, being 1,663 fewer than in 1901. Persons of Foreign birth, other than British subjects, numbered 2,391 and are 422 more than in 1901.

Occupations.

The occupations of all persons in Edinburgh of over 10 years of age are fully tabulated in Table XXII. It shows not only the number engaged in each occupation but also the Age-distribution of those so engaged, and their occupational status, i.e., whether they are Employers, Employees, or working on their own account.

In 1901 the number of Male persons in Edinburgh returned as having an occupation was 93,595, and the number of such Females 53,658. The corresponding numbers in this Census are 93,631 Males and 55,128 Females, and thus this Census shows that in Edinburgh there are 36 occupied Males and 1,470 occupied Females more than there were ten years ago. The number of male persons over 10 years of age returned as without occupation, including students and scholars, is 20,880, and the corresponding number of females 92,654, the former being 493, and the latter 4,081, more than in 1901. A comparison between the occupied males of this Census and those of the previous Census shows a marked diminution of the numbers in age groups 24 and under, and an increase in age groups over 24, the decrease 24 and under amounting to 4,159 and the increase over 24 amounting to 4,195. A similar change is observed among the occupied females, for those 24 years of age and under number 1,575 fewer than in the previous Census, while those over 24 number 3,045 more. The numbers returned as occupied and of school age, 10-13, of both sexes show a marked reduction as compared with last Census, the males numbering only 47 and the females only 19 in this Census, while in 1901 they were 319 and 243 respectively.

Table XXII. is so long and so complex that a full description of it cannot be given in this Report, so, instead of any attempt at such, only a few remarks on selected occupations will be given, the occupations selected being those which now provide employment for the largest numbers, and which are named in Tables D and E.

Looking at Table D, which shows the principal occupations of Males, it will be observed that of these only 8 show any increase since 1901, while 11 show decreases. Of these occupations, those showing the largest increases are printers, 493; messengers, porters, etc., 397; and commercial travellers, 216; while those showing the largest decreases are carpenters and joiners, 1,159; coachmen and grooms (not domestic), and cabmen, 581; bread, biscuit, cake makers, 303; commercial clerks, 295; and plumbers and gasfitters, 290. Railway engine-drivers and stokers show an apparent increase of 285, but this is more than accounted for by the inclusion among them of cleaners, which differs from what was done in the previous Census. The occupations of masons and masons' labourers are not included in this Table for the reason that these occupations at present give comparatively little employment in the City. In 1901, 2,550 masons and 1,315 masons' labourers in Edinburgh were recorded in the Census Report, but the Returns of the present Census show that masons now number only 965 and masons' labourers only 654, the former showing a reduction of 1,585, and the latter a reduction of 661. The diminution of the building industry in Edinburgh is further shown in Table D by the reduced number of carpenters, joiners, and plumbers and gasfitters enumerated in the present Census.

A similar examination of the principal occupations of Females shows a decennial increase in eleven occupations, and a decrease in nine, the largest increases being in commercial clerks, 1,638; printers, 467; tailors, 411; hotel servants, 292; and hospital and institution service, 261; while the largest decreases are domestic servants (not hotel), 1,514; dressmakers, 481; laundry workers, 449; and bread, biscuit, and cake makers, 253.

A condensed statement of the occupations of married and widowed women is shown in Table XXIII<sub>A</sub>. It is satisfactory to note that in Edinburgh only 5 per cent. of married women, and 26·4 per cent. of the widows, are engaged in occupations. Of the married women of under 20, 17·5 per cent. are occupied, of between 20 and 24, 7·3 per cent., of between 25 and 44, 5 per cent., and of between 45 and 64, 5·2 per cent. Of widows of under 20 years of age there are only 2 in Edinburgh and both are occupied: of those between 20 and 24, 72·0 per cent. are occupied, but this ratio decreases with advancing years, falling to 56·7 in the age group 25 to 44, to 31·4 in the age group 45 to 64, to 18·0 in the age group 65 to 69, and to 6·8 in the age group over 70. The principal occupations giving employment to the married women of Edinburgh are, charring, 445; indoor domestic service, 353; laundry, 267; hawking, 125; and dress-making, 108. And the principal occupations giving employment to widows are charring, 1,049; domestic service, 757; laundry, 289; lodging-house keeping, 250; caretaking in offices, &c., 171; and sick-nursing, 158. The corresponding information was not tabulated in the 1901 Reports, and is thus not available for comparison.

Industries.

This is the first Census in which an endeavour has been made to arrive at Industries as distinct from Occupations, the former term being defined as the occupation of the employer. This subject will be more fully and more conveniently studied in the Second Volume of the Report, the volume dealing with the census returns of Scotland as a whole, but as it is also of local interest a short Table, No. XXIV., is appended giving the number of persons returned as attached to each of the principal industries. In that table professional callings, and services which are not industrial in the strict meaning of the term, are for the reason of completeness included. A perusal of that table shows that the industries, or services, which make employment for the greatest numbers of occupied males in Edinburgh are the preparation and sale of provisions (9,429); house, &c., building and decorating (9,030); printing, publishing, &c. (6,090); railway service (5,016); manufacture of iron and iron products (4,513); local authority services (3,886); and conveyance by road services (3,304); while those which provide employment for the greatest numbers of female persons, are domestic service (20,856); tailoring and dressmaking (5,661); preparation and sale of provisions (4,160); printing, publishing, &c. (3,856); hotel service (2,083); chemical industries, including rubber works (1,811); and paper manufacture (1,440). There are no previous census returns with which to compare these figures.

Housing Conditions.

The housing of the population of Edinburgh is analysed in Table XXVII. This Table is not strictly comparable with the corresponding Table of last Census which appeared on page 363 of the First Volume of that Census Report, because in the older Table lodgers were treated as householders while in the Table given in this Report lodgers are not so treated, but are dealt with as members of the family. The result of this change is to materially reduce the number of one-roomed houses. A break of continuity in a matter such as this is no doubt regrettable, but is fully justified in the present case in order to secure a more accurate description of the housing of the people. In this Table the populations of institutions, and of houses, hotels and buildings having 25 rooms and upwards, are excluded.

Of the population of Edinburgh 18,608 or 6·1 per cent. are returned as living in one-roomed houses; 94,909 or 31·1 per cent. in two-roomed houses; 69,686 or 22·8 per cent. in three-roomed houses; 45,820 or 15·0 per cent. in four-roomed houses; and 76,266 or 25·0 per cent. in houses of five rooms or over. The section of the population living more than two in a room amounts to 99,824 or 32·7 per cent.; living more than three in a room amounts to 38,973 or 12·8 per cent.; and living more than four in a room to 12,609 or 4·1 per cent. These percentages on the whole compare favourably with those of 1901, for then those living more than two per room amounted to 32·9 per cent., more than three per room to 13·5 per cent., and more than four per room to 4·7 per cent. (vide Parliamentary Return showing the housing condition of the population of Scotland, Cd. 4,016).

A comparison of the present housing conditions in Edinburgh with those that existed at the time of the older Censuses may be of interest. The 1861 Census Report shows that there were 121 houses in the city without any windows at all, now there are no such houses; in that year 34·5 per cent. of all houses had only one room, now the corresponding rate is 9·9 per cent.; two-roomed houses have increased from 29·6 per cent. to 31·6 per cent.; three-roomed houses from 10·8 per cent. to 22·0 per cent., and four-roomed houses from 6·8 per cent. to 14·4 per cent. These changes show the marked reduction of the one-roomed house and the marked increase of the three- and four-roomed houses, differences too large to be accounted for by the technical change of tabulation referred to above.

Persons speaking Gaelic.

The total number of persons in Edinburgh returned as speaking Gaelic only or as speaking Gaelic and English was 3,723, 1,442 being male and 2,281 female; of these 4 were described in the householders' Schedule as speaking Gaelic only, but further enquiry elicited the fact that they were so returned in error, and all Gaelic speakers in Edinburgh are now credited with speaking English as well as Gaelic. Of these 3,723 Gaelic speakers, 241 were less than 20 years of age, and 3,482 were over 20 years of age. In Table F. the number (84) of these Gaelic speaking people returned as having been born in Ireland is separately shown, the reason being to show what number of Irishmen speaking Irish and not Scottish Gaelic are included in the total. In the 1901 Census 68 persons were returned as living in Edinburgh and as speaking Gaelic only, while 4402 were described as speaking both Gaelic and English, no distinction being made between Scottish and Irish Gaelic.

NOTES.

The boundaries of the City and Burgh of Edinburgh, subsequent to the 1901 Census, were extended so as to include the entire Civil Parish of Duddingston.

The boundaries of the Civil Parish of Edinburgh were extended subsequent to the 1901 Census so as to include the entire Civil Parish of Duddingston and portions of the Parishes of Cramond, Leith, and Liberton.

The boundaries of the School Board District of Edinburgh, subsequent to the 1901 Census, were extended so as to include the entire School Board Districts of Duddingston, Leith (Landward), and Portobello, and parts of the School Board Districts of Cramond and Liberton.

The boundaries of the City of Edinburgh are now the same as those of the Burgh, the Parish, and the School Board District of Edinburgh.

Figures in italics in this table show the 1901 population, &c., of the area now included within the City, and consequently differ from any figures given in the 1901 Census Report.

TABLE III.—Population of Parishes since 1801.

This Table is omitted because the alterations of the Boundaries of the City and of the Parishes formerly within it have been so complex that no satisfactory Table of this nature can be compiled.

TABLE IV.—Population of Burghs.

This Table is omitted as unnecessary as this publication deals exclusively with the Burgh of Edinburgh (see Table I.)

TABLE V.—City of EDINBURGH.—Population, &amp;c., of the Burgh Wards, showing the portions of each Burgh Ward within the various Parliamentary Constituencies. (See also Table II.)

NOTES.

* The population in this line is that given in the Census Reports under the description of "City and Town," "City and Burgh," or sometimes "City" of Edinburgh.

† The Royalty formed the City of Edinburgh, properly so called, the election of Town Councillors being confined to the parliamentary electors within the Royalty. The jurisdiction of the Magistrates, however, extended to other places not within the Royalty.

‡ The Suburbs, as described in the Census Reports, included the Parishes of Canongate, St Cuthbert, North Leith, and South Leith. The population of the two latter Parishes is deducted from the population of the Suburbs here given, these Parishes being almost entirely within the Town of Leith which, by a Statute passed in 1838, was declared to be completely dissevered from Edinburgh in all municipal and civil relations.

§ The Parliamentary Burgh was extended in 1884.

¶ The Municipal Burgh was extended in 1883, 1885, 1890, 1896, 1900, and 1901.

** Portobello for Municipal purposes was annexed to Edinburgh in 1896.

NOTES.

The boundaries of the City and Royal Burgh of Edinburgh were extended in 1901.

The Registration Districts were re-arranged in 1903.

The buildings and grounds of Edinburgh Fever Hospital were disjoined from Colinton and annexed to Morningside Registration District in 1904; this area being beyond the boundaries of the City, the population thereof is not included in the figures throughout this return.

The buildings and grounds of the Infectious Diseases Hospital for the Burgh of Leith, which are within the City of Edinburgh, were disjoined from the Registration District of St George and annexed to the Registration District of North Leith in 1905.

The figures in the lower half of this Table show the population within the present boundaries of the City, and within the present boundaries of the Registration Districts. The figures for 1911 and 1901 in this part of the Table refer to similar areas and thus are comparable.

TABLE VIII.—Particulars of Registration Districts.

This Table is omitted as unnecessary, the Registration Districts so far as dealt with in this volume being entirely within the Burgh and Civil Parish of Edinburgh.

NOTES.

The names of Parishes having part of their area outwith the boundaries of the City of Edinburgh are printed in italics. The population given in such cases is only that of the portion within the City. The figures for 1901 refer to the City as extended in that year subsequent to the date of the Census.

* The Parish of Prestonfield was disjoined on October 30th 1908 from the Parishes of Duddingston, Liberton, and Mayfield.

† The Parish of St Oswald was disjoined on March 8th 1907 from the Parishes of Morningside and St Michael.

‡ The Parish of St Matthew was disjoined on July 9th 1909 from the Parish of Morningside.

§ The old Parish of St Luke was suppressed on February 5th 1909, the area thereof being annexed to St George's Parish: and a new Parish of St Luke was disjoined from the Parishes of Dean and St Bernard.

TABLE X.—Population of School Board Districts.

This Table is omitted as unnecessary, the Boundaries of the City of Edinburgh being conterminous with those of the School Board District of the same name (see Table I.).

This Table is omitted as unnecessary (See Table XXVII.).

TABLE XXVII.—City of EDINBURGH.—Housing Conditions, 1911.

This Table is restricted to facts regarding houses of less than 25 rooms, and to households of less than 25 persons, because the majority of larger houses, and of larger households, are rarely met with outside hotels, common lodging houses, and institutions.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

- |                       |                         |                    |                        |

| 2. Glasgow.           | 12. Clackmannan.        | 21. Kincardine.    | 30. Renfrew.           |
| 3. Dundee.            | 13. Dumbarton.          | 22. Kinross.       | 31. Ross and Cromarty. |
| 4. Aberdeen (City).   | 14. Dumfries.           | 23. Kirkcudbright. | 32. Roxburgh.          |
| 5. Aberdeen (County). | 15. Edinburgh (County). | 24. Lanark.        | 33. Selkirk.           |
| 6. Argyll.            | 16. Elgin.              | 25. Linlithgow.    | 34. Shetland.          |
| 7. Ayr.               | 17. Fife.               | 26. Nairn.         | 35. Stirling.          |
| 8. Banff.             | 18. Forfar.             | 27. Orkney.        | 36. Sutherland.        |
| 9. Berwick.           | 19. Haddington.         | 28. Peebles.       | 37. Wigtown.           |
| 10. Bute.             |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume :—

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| 1. Population of Civil Parishes.   | 22. Occupations of Population of—   |
| 2. Particulars relating to Civil Parishes, giving population, &c., of burghal and extra-burghal portions, of shipping, &c. | (a) County.   |
| 3. Population of Civil Parishes since 1801.  | (b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.   |
| 4. Population of Burghs.   | 23. Occupations of Married and Widowed Females—   |
| 5. Particulars relating to Burghs, showing population of burgh wards, of shipping, &c.                                     | (a) Principal Occupations.  |
| 6. Population of Burghs since 1801.  | (b) Age-distribution of those Occupied.   |

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 2.

THE CITY OF GLASGOW.

City Population.—In 1901, Glasgow, by the Eleventh Census of Scotland, was found to have a population of 761,709,—373,540 being males and 388,169 females. By the Twelfth Census—that of 1911—the population has been found to be 784,496,—381,304 being males and 403,192 females. The decennial increase of the total population was thus 22,787—of males 7764 and of females 15,023. The rate of increase of the total population during the decennium was 3·0 per cent., of the male population 2·1 per cent. and of the female population 3·9 per cent.

But, during the intercensal period, Glasgow was extended by the inclusion of the Police Burgh of Kinning Park and of a small portion of the landward part of the Parish of Paisley. If the 1911 population of Glasgow be compared with the 1901 population of the area now included within the City, it is found that the intercensal increase of population has only amounted to 8902, or 1·1 per cent.,—that of the male population being 780, or 0·2 per cent., and that of the female population 8122, or 2·1 per cent.

These increases, and rates of increase, are in great contrast to the figures relating to the previous intercensal period,—1891 to 1901. In 1891 the population within the boundaries of Glasgow was 564,981, and within the areas added to the City during the intercensal period 93,217. In 1901 the population within the extended boundaries was 761,709, and thus the gross increase of the Glasgow population amounted to 196,728, or 34·8 per cent., and the net increase of population, that is the difference between the 1901 population and the 1891 population of the same area, amounted to 103,511, or 15·7 per cent. In the decade 1881 to 1891 there were no extensions of the City, but the increase of population amounted to 76,996, or 15·8 per cent.

General Retrospect.—It is difficult, if not impossible, to give a clear description of the growth of Glasgow since the taking of the First Census of Scotland in 1801, because of the differences to be found in the areas dealt with in the various censuses, and because of the many extensions of the Burgh which have been made. The figures available are summarised in Table VI. appended hereto (p. 54).

In 1801 the population of Glasgow, with its suburbs, Barony and Gorbals, amounted to 77,385. The population of the same area had in 1851 increased to 344,986, the decennial increases in the five intercensal periods being 23,364, 46,294, 55,383, 71,898, and 70,662 respectively. Subsequent to 1851 the census reports include no statement of the population of the area which in 1801 was occupied by Glasgow with its two suburbs.

The population of the Royal Burgh of Glasgow was given in the census reports of 1851 to 1891. In 1851 it amounted to 148,116; in 1891 it amounted to 176,779, having in the forty years been increased by 28,663, or 19·3 per cent. In the Census Report of 1901 it was assumed that the boundaries of the Royal Burgh were the same as those of the Municipal Burgh, and the population was stated at 760,468, being the population of the latter, subject to a deduction of the shipping population; but as the area is not that dealt with in the earlier Census Reports, it is of no use for comparison.

The population of the Parliamentary Burgh of Glasgow has been separately given in all census reports since 1841, when it was 255,650. From that date up to 1901 it increased steadily until a maximum of 623,597* was reached, but in the decade now under review, 1901 to 1911, instead of an increase a decrease is found. The decennial increase from 1841 to 1851 was 73,447; from 1851 to 1861, 65,767; from 1861 to 1871, 82,292; from 1871 to 1881, 10,829; from 1881 to 1891, 76,996; and from 1891 to 1901, 57,391. The decrease that has taken place between 1901 and 1911 amounts to 23,983.

* Shipping included.

The population of the Municipal Burgh of Glasgow has been given since 1891, when it was the same as that of the Parliamentary Burgh, viz. 564,981. In 1901 it was 761,709, and by this census it is found to be 784,496. The intercensal increase during the period 1891 to 1901 was 196,728, and in the intercensal period 1901 to 1911, 22,787.

Parishes.—The distribution of the population of Glasgow into the six parishes now partly included within the City boundaries,—is shown in Table I. The entire populations of the parishes, there named, cannot now be stated, as each of them extends outside the City boundaries and the populations of the portions outside the City have not yet been ascertained. They will, however, be given in Parts 24 and 30 of this Report, the Parts dealing with the Counties of Lanark and Renfrew.

Of the total population of Glasgow, 542,183, or 69·1 per cent., is in Glasgow Parish; 204,723, or 26·1 per cent., in Govan Parish; 31,483, or 4·0 per cent., in Cathcart Parish; 6010, or 0·8 per cent., in Eastwood Parish; 60 in Rutherglen Parish; and 37 in Paisley Parish. Compared with the 1901 population, that of Govan Parish shows an increase of 15,253, or 8·1 per cent.; of Cathcart Parish, an increase of 10,500, or 50·0 per cent.; of Eastwood Parish, an increase of 2476, or 70·1 per cent.; but that of Glasgow Parish shows a decrease of 5462, or 1·0 per cent. The large increase of population noted in the portion of the City of Glasgow within Govan Parish is largely accounted for by extensions of the City boundaries during the intercensal period, these accounting for all but 1401 of the entire increase.

Movement of Population within the City.—The following Table (A) has been prepared to show the intercensal change of the population of the Burgh Wards of the City, and incidentally to demonstrate which parts of the City are increasing in population, and which are diminishing. In the previous paragraph attention has been drawn to the fact that relatively large increases of population are found only in the more outlying Parishes of Eastwood and Cathcart, while in the more central Parishes of Glasgow and Govan there is in one case a decrease and in the other a small increase only, a condition indicating a movement of population from the centre to the outskirts of the City. That this is so is fully corroborated by an examination of this table, for it may there be seen that in each of the sixteen more central Burgh Wards there is a decrease of population, while in all the more outlying Wards an increase has occurred. The largest increases found are 13,758 in Langside Ward, 10,080 in Springburn, 6230 in Maryhill, and 6201 in Dennistoun, while the largest decreases are 6169 in Cowcaddens Ward, 5978 in Townhead, 4169 in Blackfriars, and 4004 in Woodside. In the Preliminary Report of this census attention was drawn to "a large and striking increase of population in the burghs and parishes which lie immediately round that City," and a tabular statement showed that the populations of these areas had increased from 326,961 in 1901 to 393,632 in 1911, the increase amounting to 66,671, or 20·4 per cent. The movement of Glasgow population from the centre of the City outwards would thus appear not to be limited by the boundaries of the City but to extend beyond them.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The population of the Parliamentary Burgh of Glasgow, with its seven divisions, amounts to 599,614, or to 76·4 per cent., of the total population of the City. The remaining portion of the City population, numbering 184,882, or 23·6 per cent., belongs to Parliamentary constituencies outside Glasgow, and is the present population of those areas which have been included within the boundaries of Municipal Glasgow by extensions since the census of 1891. The population of the Parliamentary Burgh is found to have diminished by 22,758 during the decade, while the population of the area now within the City but outside the Parliamentary Burgh has increased by 45,545, or 32·7 per cent. This striking difference is further evidence of the movement of population from the more central to the more outlying parts of the City.

The populations of the seven divisions of the Parliamentary Burgh range from 127,836 in St Rollox, to 66,702 in the Central. The population of the College Division is 99,933, of Bridgeton 89,447, of Camlachie 79,464, of Blackfriars and Hutchesontown 68,953, and of Tradeston 67,279. Of the seven divisions two only show a decennial increase of population, while five show a decrease. St Rollox Division has increased by 9186, or 7·7 per cent., and Camlachie Division by 1453, or 1·9 per cent. The greatest decrease of population has occurred in the College Division: it amounts to 13,245, or 11·7 per cent. In the Central Division the decrease is 8032, or 10·7 per cent., in Blackfriars and Hutchesontown 7169, or 9·4 per cent., in Tradeston Division 4381, or 6·1 per cent., and in Bridgeton 1795, or 2·0 per cent.

The more recently annexed portions of the City, those which are outside the Parliamentary Burgh of Glasgow, constitute parts of six Parliamentary Constituencies, three of which are divisions of the County of Lanark, two of the County of Renfrew, while the sixth, the remaining one, is part of the Kilmarnock Burghs. The three Lanarkshire Divisions are the Govan Division, the Partick Division, and North West Lanarkshire; the Glasgow parts of all three show a large intercensal increase of population, that of the Govan Division having increased from 20,330 to 23,160, or by 13·9 per cent., that of the Partick Division from 60,078 to 70,334, or by 17·1 per cent., and that of the North West Division from 13,829 to 17,948, or by 29·8 per cent. The Glasgow portion of the East Division of Renfrewshire has since 1901 increased from 57,650 to 73,343, or by 27·2 per cent. The portion of Glasgow voting in West Renfrewshire is small: it consists of the part of Paisley Parish recently annexed, and has a population of only 37. The portion voting in Kilmarnock Burghs is also small, it is an annexed portion of Rutherglen Parish, and has a population of 60.

School Board Districts.—The City of Glasgow contains one entire School Board District, and portions of eight others. The district entirely within the City is the Glasgow School Board District. Its boundaries are the same as those of the Parliamentary Burgh of Glasgow, and what has been stated above regarding the Parliamentary Burgh applies equally to the School Board District. The following are the populations, arranged in order of size, of the portions of the school board districts, other than the Glasgow School Board District, which are included within the City:—Govan, 79,547; Maryhill, 55,769; Cathcart, 31,483; Springburn, 11,953; Eastwood, 6010; Rutherglen, 60; Paisley Landward, 37; Shettleston, 23. Each of these portions of districts shows an intercensal increase of population, with the exception of the small Rutherglen area. The increase of the portion in question of the Govan School Board District amounts to 9756, or 14·0 per cent.; of that of Maryhill to 9058, or 19·4 per cent.; of that of Cathcart to 10,500, or 50·0 per cent.; of that of Springburn to 1101, or 10·1 per cent.; and of that of Eastwood to 2476, or 70·1 per cent.

Sex Distribution of Population.—In 1901 the male population of Glasgow numbered 373,540, and the female population 388,169, the ratio of male to female being 100 to 103·8. In 1911 the male population numbered 381,304, and the female 403,192, the increase of the male population being 7764, or 2·1 per cent., and of the female population 15,023, or 3·9 per cent., while the ratio of females to 100 males increased from 103·9 to 105·7.

The ratio of females to 100 males in the population varies widely in the different age-groups. Under age ten the number of males and females is almost the same, but in succeeding age-groups up to 24 the ratio of females increases till it reaches 113·1 in age-group 20 to 24. From age 24 to 44, the ratio diminishes, till in the age-group 40 to 44 it is only 100·1. From 45 onwards the ratio again steadily increases, reaching 106·0 in age-group 50 to 54; 112·8 in age-group 60 to 64; 164·7 in age-group 70 to 74; and 216·7 in age-group 80 to 84. A comparison of ratios of females to 100 males in the age-groups of this census with those of the previous census brings out the fact that the preponderance of females in the younger working ages 15 to 34 has increased during the decade; in age-group 15 to 19 it has increased from 103·6 to 105·2; in age-group 20 to 24 from 103·1 to 113·1; in age-group 25 to 30 from 103·5 to 110·6; and in age-group 30 to 34 from 101·1 to 103·4.

A comparison of the numbers of males and females in the age-groups 15 to 34 in the two censuses shows that the changes in the relative proportions of the two sexes are not due to any increase of females but to a marked diminution in the number of males of those ages, a statistical fact indicating that Glasgow in 1911 was not keeping, or attracting, so many males of the younger working ages as it did in 1901.

Age Distribution.—The age distribution of the male population of Glasgow in 1911, with a comparison between these figures and those referable to the same area in 1901, is shown in Table XXc. The most noteworthy feature of that table is the diminished number of that sex in all age-groups under 29—age-group 10 to 14 excepted, as in it a small increase is found—and an increased number in all age-groups from 30 to 89. The largest decreases are found in age-groups 20 to 24 (6652) and from 25 to 29 (3297), and the largest increases in age-groups 35 to 39 (2958) and from 55 to 59 (1825).

The age distribution of the female population is found to be similarly changed, for age-groups 0 to 4, and from 15 to 29, all show a diminution, while all age-groups over 30 show an increase. The greatest diminutions are in age-groups 20 to 24 (3326) and 0 to 4 (2448); the largest increases are in age-groups 45 to 49 (2539) and 30 to 34 (2490).

Conjugal Condition of Population.—The male population aged fifteen and upwards numbers 258,788: of these 120,333, or 46·5 per cent., are bachelors, 124,389, or 48·1 husbands, 14,017, or 5·4 per cent., widowers, and 49 of unstated conjugal condition. Compared with the corresponding numbers as ascertained by the 1901 census to be then within the City, the bachelors are 1389 more, the husbands 4861 more, and the widowers 1504 more. It is a remarkable fact that more widowers than bachelors of over fifteen have been added to the population during the decade. The female population of similar age now numbers 279,950. Of these 120,789, or 43·1 per cent., are single, 128,146, or 47·3 per cent., are wives, 30,979, or 11·1 per cent., are widows, and 36 are of unstated conjugal condition. Compared with the 1901 figures, spinsters number 8105 more, wives 5958 more, and widows 263 more.

Tables B and C are constructed to show the distribution of the males and females of the age-groups of over fifteen into the conjugal conditions, and to compare the distribution with that of 1901. The most outstanding fact brought out in them is that the proportion of both sexes married is now less than at the time of the previous census. Among the males, the smaller proportion married is evident in all age periods up to under 60, among females in all age periods under 40.

Occupations of the Population.—Comparisons in this section of the report are between the population of 1911 within the present City boundaries, and the population of 1901 within the then existing boundaries. This unsatisfactory method of comparison is necessitated by the fact that no tabulation of the occupations of the population in 1901 of the area added to Glasgow during the intercensal period is available.

In 1901, the male population of Glasgow over fifteen years of age numbered 250,985, and of these 243,322, or 96·9 per cent., were returned as following some remunerative occupation ; in 1911 the male population was 258,788, and the number with such occupation was 249,256, or 96·3 per cent. The number of males of over fifteen has thus in the intercensal period increased by 7803, the number of occupied males by 5934, and the number who have ceased to work or who are without occupation, by 1859. The female occupied population of over fifteen has increased during the period from 105,987 by 2337 to 108,324, and the females who have ceased to work, or who are unoccupied, from 159,601 by 12,025 to 171,626. The proportion of occupied females of over fifteen to the total female population of these ages is by the present census 38·7 ; by the census of 1901 it was found to be 39·9.

The above Table (D) has been prepared to show the intercensal change in the age distribution of the occupied males and females of ten years of age and upwards in Glasgow since 1901. The outstanding facts there shown are the marked decrease in the number of occupied males and females of younger ages, and the increase in the older ages. The occupied males aged 10 to 14 have been reduced during the decade from 7119 to 3954, a drop of 44·5 per cent. ; those aged from 15 to 19 from 35,871 to 34,147, a drop of 4·8 per cent. ; and those aged from 20 to 24 from 40,401 to 34,516, a drop of 14·6 per cent. The percentage increase of occupied males in age-group 25 to 44 is 4·3 per cent., in age-group 45 to 64, 14·0 per cent., and in age-group of over 65, 30·8 per cent. The diminution in the number of occupied females between 10 and 14 is 2206, or 40·2 per cent., and between 15 and 19, 914, or 2·9 per cent. The increase in the occupied females in age-group 20 to 24 amounts to 928, or 3·5 per cent. ; in age-group 25 to 44, 2829, or 8·1 per cent. ; in age-group 45 to 64, 445, or 3·9 per cent. ; and in age-group over 65 it is 43, or 2·3 per cent.

In Tables E and F are given abstracts of the principal occupation tables. They are constructed to show the intercensal changes observed in the chief occupations of the population. It may be seen from Table E that of the 30 occupations of males there included, 15 show an increase and 15 a decrease of workers. The occupations showing the largest increases are :—Ironfounders, 2778 ; Railway Labourers, 1621 ; Workers in Puddling Furnaces, Rolling Mills, and Tube Makers, 1256 ; and “Others in Shipyards,” 1045. The largest decreases in male occupations are found to be among General Labourers, 6151 ; Carpenters and Joiners, 2130 ; Blacksmiths and Strikers, 955 ; Erectors, Fitters and Turners, 816 ; Boot and Shoe Makers, 824 ; and Engine Drivers, Stokers and Firemen (not railway, marine, or agricultural), 686.

Of the 26 female occupations included in Table F, 17 show an intercensal increase and 9 an intercensal decrease. The largest increases are in Commercial Clerks, 3405; Hospital and Institution Service, 800; Cotton Weaving, 785; and Milkselling, 735. The largest decreases are in Weavers of Sundry or Undefined Fabrics and Factory Hands Undefined, 2677; Laundry Workers, 1816; Dressmakers, 1446; Shirtmakers and Seamstresses, 1046; and Tobacco Workers 998.

The principal occupations followed by the married and widowed women of Glasgow are shown in Table XXIII A.

The total number of married women returned as following an occupation is 7047, and of widows 8198, the former amounting to 5·5 per cent. of the total number of married women, and the latter to 26·5 per cent. of the total number of widows. In Edinburgh these rates were found to be 5·1 and 26·4 respectively, and the proportions in the two cities are therefore found to be very similar. The principal occupations followed alike by married and widowed females are Charing, Domestic Service, Shirt-making and Sewing, Hawking, Dressmaking, and Laundry. The age distribution of occupied wives and widows is found to be very similar to what is found in Edinburgh. Of married, aged under 20, 10·2 per cent. are occupied; of ages between 20 and 24, 7·5 per cent.; of ages between 25 and 44, 5·3 per cent.; and of ages between 45 and 64, 5·6 per cent. Of widows under 20, 80·0 per cent. are returned as occupied; of those between 20 and 24, 69·0 per cent.; of those between 25 and 44, 54·1 per cent.; and of those between 45 and 64, 30·0 per cent.

Industries.—There has hitherto been no attempt to distribute the workers of Glasgow according to the industries with which they are connected, as distinct from their occupations, their industries being defined as the occupations of their employers. A study of the industries of this and of all the other divisions of the country is a subject which will be more fully dealt with in the Second Volume of the Report, but,—being a matter of local as well as national interest,—a short statement is given in Table XXIV. In that table, professional callings and services, which are not industrial in the strict meaning of the term, are, for completeness, included. A perusal of that table shows that the industries in which the largest number of males in Glasgow are occupied, are:—Iron Manufacture, 49,140; Preparation and Sale of Food, 22,665; House Building and Decorating, 17,201; Local Government Services, 14,283; Railway Service, 13,245; Shipping and Docks, 10,155; Wood and Furniture Industry, 9417; and Road Transit, 7329. The industries giving most employment to women are:—Domestic and Institution Service, 21,950; Tailoring, Dressmaking, 12,243; Preparation and Sale of Food, 11,957; Cotton Industry, 6193; Thread, Hosiery and other Dress Industries, 6133; Textile Industries, 5128; Printing, Publishing, and Allied Industries, 4496; Hotel and Eating-House Service, 3523; and Local Government Service, 3494.

Housing of the Population.—In 1901, the inhabited houses of Glasgow numbered 155,414, the uninhabited houses 7279, and the houses in course of construction 1535. In that year the inhabited houses in the area now included within the City boundaries numbered 158,281, the uninhabited houses 7373, and the houses under construction 1536. By the 1911 census, the inhabited houses of Glasgow are found to number 163,057, the uninhabited houses 20,903, and the houses under construction 487. Compared with 1901, the inhabited houses are now 7643 more, the uninhabited houses 13,624 more, and the houses under construction 1,048 less. If the houses enumerated in 1901 in the area added to Glasgow during the intercensal period be added to those then enumerated in Glasgow and a similar comparison made, it is found that the inhabited houses are 4777 more, the uninhabited houses 13,524 more, and the houses under construction 1049 fewer. A large increase of uninhabited houses in the City, and a large decrease of houses under construction, are striking features of the comparisons. Uninhabited houses in the part of the City situated in Glasgow Parish number 9577 more than in 1901, in Govan Parish 3449 more, in Cathcart Parish 419 more, and in Eastwood Parish 85 more. The distribution of uninhabited houses is perhaps best shown by the ratio they bear to each thousand inhabited houses; in the Glasgow Parish Portion of the City this ratio is 13·5, in the Govan Parish Portion 11·7, in the Cathcart Parish Portion 10·5, and in the Eastwood Parish Portion 8·2.

There are within the City of Glasgow 162,788 houses of less than 25 rooms. Of these 32,606, or 20·0 per cent., are one-roomed; 75,536, or 46·4 per cent., are two-roomed; 30,775, or 18·9 per cent., are three-roomed; 10,817, or 6·6 per cent., are four-roomed; 4490, or 2·8 per cent., are five-roomed; while the remaining 8564, or 5·3 per cent., have more than five rooms. Compared with the corresponding figures recorded in the report of the 1901 census, single-roomed houses are 10,017 less, but the two-roomed houses are 4329 more, the three-roomed houses 3758 more, the four-roomed houses 846 more, the five-roomed houses 454 more, and the houses with more than five rooms 160 more. The figures, however, are not strictly comparable; in 1901 lodgers were dealt with as householders, while in the present census they are dealt with as members of a household, the older method necessarily resulting in an addition to the number of one-roomed houses.

Of the total population living in houses of less than twenty-five rooms, that limit being selected so as to exclude institutions and large hotels, 103,815, or 13·8 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 367,341, or 48·7 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 160,083, or 21·2 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 54,238, or 7·2 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 21,961, or 2·9 per cent., in five-roomed houses; and 47,096, or 6·2 per cent., in houses of from six to twenty-four rooms. In 1901, of the total population then within the City 123,866, or 16·3 per cent., lived in one-roomed houses; 346,119, or 45·4 per cent., in two-roomed houses; and 144,400, or 19·0 per cent., in three-roomed houses.

Of the total population living in houses of less than twenty-five rooms, 334,346, or 44·3 per cent., are living not more than two per room; 420,188, or 55·7 per cent., more than two per room; 210,270, or 27·9 per cent., more than three per room; 80,954, or 10·7 per cent., more than four per room; and 2569, or 3·4 per cent., more than five per room. In 1901 45·3 per cent. of the population was living not more than two per room, 54·7 more than two per room, 28·1 per cent. more than three per room, and 10·9 per cent. more than four per room. The proportion living more than three per room is thus slightly less now than it was ten years ago, and so is the proportion living not more than two per room; but the proportion living more than two but not more than three per room has increased; it was 26·6 in 1901, and 27·8 in 1911.

Birthplaces of the Population.—The recorded birthplaces of the inhabitants of Glasgow are shown in Table XXV. Of the total population, 784,496, 482,455, or 61·5 per cent., were born within the City, and 39,194, or 5·0 per cent., outside the City but within Lanarkshire, the home county. Other birthplaces claimed by large sections of the population, arranged in order of size, are:—Ireland 52,828, England 29,059, Renfrewshire 25,596, Ayrshire 21,775, Edinburghshire 15,217, Stirlingshire 10,641, and Argyll 10,177. Foreigners resident in Glasgow on census day numbered 8324, a number which is 1546, or 22·8 per cent., more than in 1901. A comparison of the birthplaces recorded in this census with those recorded in the 1901 census, and applicable to Glasgow previous to recent extensions, shows that persons born in Scotland and resident in Glasgow now number 34,924 more, while those born elsewhere number 12,137 less. Those born in Lanarkshire, including those born within the City, number 53,107 more than in the previous census, and those born in Aberdeenshire 68 more, but the numbers born in the remaining 31 Scottish counties all show a decrease, the largest decreases being in Renfrewshire 4363, in Ayrshire 3201, in Stirlingshire 1953, in Argyll 1410, and in Perthshire 1382. Those born in England now number 29,059,—1522 more than at the time of the previous census; but those born in Ireland now number 52,828—14,784 less than in 1901. A similar increase in those of English birth, and a similar decrease in those of Irish birth, were found to have occurred in Edinburgh. Table G is drawn up to show the principal comparisons under this head.

Gaelic Speaking.—In 1901 the number of Gaelic-speaking persons in Glasgow was returned as 18,517, 63 being returned as speaking Gaelic only, and 18,454 as speaking both Gaelic and English. By this census, the Gaelic-speaking population of Glasgow was found to number 16,544, of whom only 14 could not also speak English. Originally, 37 persons were reported on the householders' schedules as speaking Gaelic only, but after local inquiry it was found that the number fell to be reduced to fourteen. Of the fourteen, 13 were credited with speaking Scottish Gaelic and 1 with speaking Irish Gaelic. Of these only one was less than twenty years old, a boy aged 4 who habitually spoke Gaelic at home and who had not commenced attendance at school. The other persons, speaking Gaelic only, were all elderly, mostly over seventy and mostly widows, and generally living not in houses of their own but in those of sons or other relatives. The majority of them were born in the insular parts of Argyll and Inverness.

Persons speaking Gaelic as well as English in Glasgow now number 1924 fewer than in 1901. This might be expected from the diminished number of Glasgow inhabitants with birthplaces in Ireland, and in the Gaelic-speaking counties of Argyll, Inverness, Perth, Ross and Cromarty, and Sutherland. Those of Irish birth in Glasgow are now 14,784, or 21·9 per cent., fewer than in 1901, and those born in these Gaelic-speaking counties are 3609, or 11·0 per cent., fewer, while the persons speaking Gaelic as well as English are 1924, or 10·4 per cent. fewer.

Of those returned as speaking Gaelic as well as English, 956 are of Irish birth and presumably speak Irish Gaelic, while 15,574 were born in Scotland. No division of the Gaelic speakers according to their birthplaces was made in the 1901 census report and consequently there are no figures available with which to compare present results.

NOTES.

None of the above-mentioned parishes is wholly within the boundaries of the City. The parishes of Glasgow, Govan, and Rutherglen are wholly within the County of Lanark; the parishes of Cathcart and Eastwood, so far as they are within the boundaries of the City, are in the County of Lanark, the remaining portions being in the County of Renfrew; the parish of Paisley is wholly within the County of Renfrew. Particulars regarding the remainder of the parishes of Glasgow, Govan, and Rutherglen will be given in Part 24, dealing with the County of Lanark; and of the parishes of Cathcart, Eastwood, and Paisley in Part 30, dealing with the County of Renfrew.

The City and Royal Burgh of Glasgow was extended in 1905 and 1909. The figures in italics show the population, &c., in 1901 of the area now included in the City, and of the parishes affected by the extensions, and are comparable with the figures for 1911.

* A statement, kindly furnished by the City Assessor, shows the date and nature of the various extensions of the City made during the period to which this Return refers:—1830, Blythswood; 1846, Anderston, Calton, and Gorbals; 1872, Springburn, Possil, Gilmorehill, and Alexandra Park; 1878, Coplawhill; 1891, Hillhead, Maryhill, Govanhill, Crosshill, Pollokshields, and other suburban areas; 1896, Bellahouston; 1899, Blackhill; 1905, Kinning Park; 1909, Cokerhill.

† The suburbs included the parishes of Barony and Gorbals.

‡ Glasgow Suburban, as defined in the Census Reports, embraced the districts of Maryhill, Possilpark, Springburn, Govanhill, Crosshill, Langside, Mount Florida, Shawlands, Polmadie, etc., now annexed to the City; and in addition the independent communities of Govan and Partick (1861, 1871, and 1881), and Pollokshaws (1881). The population of the three last-mentioned places has been excluded from the above figures for Glasgow Municipal and Suburban.

§ Indicates that the Shipping population is excluded.

|| Inclusion of Shipping population doubtful.

NOTES.

The boundaries of the City and Royal Burgh of Glasgow were extended in 1905 and 1909. The Registration Districts were re-arranged in 1907. The figures in the lower half of this table show the population in 1901 of the area now included in the City and of the Registration Districts as re-arranged, and are comparable with the figures for 1911.

NOTE.

Of the School Board Districts above mentioned, Glasgow is the only one having its entire area within the boundaries of the City. A complete return of the number of persons under 20 years of age and of the children attending Board Schools in the School Board Districts of Maryhill, Springburn, Shettleston, Govan, and Rutherglen will be given in the volume dealing with the County of Lanark; and in the School Board Districts of Cathcart, Eastwood, and Paisley in the volume dealing with the County of Renfrew.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts —

- |                      |                         |                   |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

| 5. Particulars relating to Burghs, showing population of burgh wards, of shipping, &c.   | 26. Houses of stated sizes in—(a) Parishes.(b) Burghs.NOTE.—This table is not strictly comparable with Table 16 of Second Volume of Report on 1901 Census, as it is based on the number of occupied houses, while the 1901 Table was based on the number of "Families." In this Report two families living in one house are treated as one household; in the Report on the previous Census they were treated as two households. |
| 6. Population of Burghs since 1801.  | 27. Size of Household in Houses of stated size in—(a) County.(b) Burghs within county of over 20,000 population.NOTE.—The above note to Table 26 applies to this Table. In addition, institutions and houses of more than 24 rooms and households of 20 persons and over are excluded from this Table.  |
| 7. Population of Registration Districts.   | 28. Grouped List of Institutions.   |
| 8. Particulars relating to Registration Districts.   |   |
| 9. Population of Ecclesiastical Parishes.  |   |
| 10. Population of School Board Districts.  |   |
| 11. Population of Special Water Districts.   |   |

| 14. Population of Special Lighting Districts.  |   |
| 15. Population of Inhabited Islands.   |   |
| 16. Population of Parliamentary Constituencies.  |   |
| 17. Population of County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.  |   |
| 18. Population of Public Health Districts.   |   |
| 19. Conjugal Condition and Age-distribution of Population—(a) Of City or County.(b) Of Burghs of over 20,000 population.   |   |
| 20. Population by Conjugal Conditions and Quinquennial Age-periods—(a) Of Parishes.(b) Of Burghs.(c) Of County, showing inter-censal change (age-groups and sexes only). |   |
| 21. Ages of Children and Young Persons in School Board Districts.  |   |

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 3.

THE CITY OF DUNDEE.

City Population.—In 1901, by the Eleventh Census of Scotland, the City of Dundee was found to have a population of 161,173, of whom 71,048 were males and 90,125 females. During the period that elapsed between that Census and the Twelfth Census the boundaries of the City were extended, and an area included which in 1901 had a population of 936 males and 873 females, in all of 1809. There was thus in 1901, within the area now included within the City, a population of 162,982, of whom 71,984 were males and 90,998 females.

By the Census of 1911 the population of Dundee is found to be 165,004, of whom 73,241 were males and 91,763 females. Comparing these figures with those of 1901, the gross intercensal increase is found to be 3,831, of the male population 2,193 and of the female 1,638. But if the 1911 population be compared with the 1901 population of the area now included within the City, the net intercensal increase is found to be only 2,022, that of the male population being 1,257 and of the female 765.

These intercensal increases of population in the period 1901 to 1911 are markedly less than the figures representing the 1891 to 1901 changes. In 1901 it was found that the gross increase of population over that of 1891 came to 7,843, while the net increase, the increase of population in the area included within the City in 1901, was 7,586. The gross intercensal rate of increase in the period 1891 to 1901 was 5·12 per cent. and the rate of net increase 4·95 per cent. In the period 1901 to 1911 the rate of gross increase was only 2·38, and that of net increase 1·25.

Growth of Dundee since 1801.—In attempting to describe the growth of the City, the same difficulties are met with as when doing so for Edinburgh and Glasgow. The repeated extensions of the City, and the variation of administrative areas dealt with in the Censuses, make a simple summary almost impossible.

In the report on the 1801 Census the population of the Burgh and Parish of Dundee was stated as 26,084, and figures were given in the subsequent reports of 1811, 1821, and 1831 Censuses, with which it is possible to compare those of that date. This population in 1831 had increased to 45,355. But since 1831 no similar comparison can be made on account of the areas dealt with being quite different.

The population of the Royal Burgh was first given in the report of the 1841 Census, it then being 60,553, and similar statements were given subsequently in all Census reports up to 1901, when the population was given as 160,878. But the figures given are not all comparable, for they neither deal with the original areas nor even with the original areas with subsequent extensions added. For instance the 1841 count included portions of Liff and Benvie Parish, the 1851 count did not do so, and the 1861 count covered the population of an area evidently quite different from those of both 1841 and 1851.

The population of the Parliamentary Burgh of Dundee gives a better impression of the growth of the City than that of the Royal Burgh, because the Parliamentary boundaries are clearly defined, and it was on the population of a similar area that the figures in the reports of the Censuses of 1841 to 1901 were founded. In 1841 the population of the Parliamentary Burgh of Dundee amounted to 62,873; in 1851 it amounted to 78,931, and showed an intercensal increase of 25·5 per cent.; in 1861 it amounted to 90,568, an intercensal increase of 14·7 per cent.; in 1871 it was 119,141, an increase of 31·5 per cent.; in 1881 it was 140,239, an increase of 17·7 per cent.; in 1891 it was 153,308, an increase of 9·3 per cent.; in 1901 it was 159,378, an increase of 4.0 per cent. ; in 1911 population it is found to be 160,146, and shows a decennial increase of only 0.5 per cent.

The above figures relative to the Censuses of 1861 to 1901 differ from those stated in Table VI., as the latter are exclusive of shipping population, while for the purposes of comparison it is right it should be included.

The population of the Municipal Burgh has been given in the Census report since 1871. The figures of 1871 and 1881 were the same as those of the Parliamentary Burgh, but since then, on account of extensions of the Municipal Burgh which did not affect the Parliamentary Burgh, the population of the former has been larger. The population of the Municipal Burgh, including shipping, in 1891 report is stated as 153,587, in the 1901 report as 161,173, and is now found to be 165,004. The intercensal increase in the period 1891 to 1901 was 7,586, or 4.9 per cent., and in the period 1901 to 1911 it was 3,831, or 2.4 per cent.

Movement of population within Dundee.—In the parts of this report dealing with Edinburgh and Glasgow it was pointed out how the population of those cities was tending to leave the older and more central portions, and to move into the more outlying parts. Exactly the same tendency is found in Dundee. The more central burgh wards are the First, Second, and Sixth, and each of them shows a decrease of population, while all the more outlying wards show an increase, with the exception of the Third, or Lochee Ward, which, though outlying, contains much old building. Table A is constructed to show this comparison; from the figures given in it the shipping population of both Censuses is excluded, and the 1901 populations of the Sixth and Seventh wards are adjusted so as to be strictly comparable with those of 1911, there having been an alteration of their mutual boundary during the intercensal period.

TABLE A.—COMPARING THE POPULATION OF DUNDEE PARISH WARDS IN 1901 AND 1911.

Third . . . . .	17,019	16,801	—	—	218	1.3
Fourth . . . . .	19,340	19,951	611	3.2	—	—

Seventh . . . . .	16,275	18,447	2,172	13.3	—	—
Eighth . . . . .	19,303	19,376	73	0.4	—	—
Ninth . . . . .	18,622	20,917	2,295	12.3	—	—

It was further pointed out in the case of Edinburgh and Glasgow that the outward movement of the population did not stop at the City boundaries, but extended beyond. Again in the case of Dundee the same is found to have happened, for the three adjacent Parishes all show an intercensal increase, that of Liff and Benvie being one of 4.9 per cent., of Mains and Strathmartine 22.8 per cent., and of Monifieth 12.6 per cent.

Parishes within the City of Dundee.—Of the total population of the City of Dundee, 160,364 are in Dundee Combination Parish, and 4,640 in Mains and Strathmartine Parish. The City population in Dundee Parish in 1901 numbered 159,335, and in Mains and Strathmartine Parish 1838, the gross intercensal increase of the former being 1,029, and of the latter 2,802. The effect of the change of the City boundaries in 1907 was to add to the Dundee Parish part of the City an area which in 1901 had a population of 215, and to the Mains and Strathmartine part of the City an area with a 1901 population of 1,594. Thus the net increase of population in the Dundee Parish part as compared with the same area in 1901 was 814, and in the Mains and Strathmartine Parish part 1,208. The populations of the whole area of these two Parishes cannot at present be stated, as parts of both are outside the City boundaries; they will be found given in Part 18 of this report, the part which deals with the Census of the County of Forfar.

School Board Districts.—The population of Dundee is situated within three School Board Districts, Dundee Burgh District, Dundee Landward District, and Mains and Strathmartine District. The Dundee Burgh School Board District is partly in Dundee Parish and partly in Mains and Strathmartine Parish. The City population in Dundee Burgh School Board District is 162,564, and has increased during the intercensal period by 1,391; the City population in Dundee Landward School Board District is 324, and has increased by 109 during the intercensal period; the City population in Mains and Strathmartine School Board District is 2,116, and has increased by 522 in the intercensal period.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The Parliamentary constituency of the Burgh of Dundee is entirely within the City, as is also a portion of the Parliamentary constituency of the County of Forfar. The population of the Parliamentary Burgh has already been referred to. That of the portion of the constituency of the County of Forfar represents the population of the areas added to the City in 1892 and 1907; it amounts to 4,858, and is partly in Dundee Combination Parish and partly in Mains and Strathmartine Parish. While neither extension affected the Parliamentary Burgh, the area added to the City in 1897 was added to the Burghal School Board District, but the area added to the City in 1907 was not so treated. Consequently the population of the Parliamentary Burgh differs from that of the Burghal School Board District by the population of the area added to the City in 1892, and the population of the School Board District differs from that of the City by the population of the area added in 1907. The former number is 2,418, and the latter 2,440.

Age and Sex Distribution of Population.—An examination of the tables showing the age and sex distribution of the population brings out the fact that while there has been an increase of the total population of both sexes, the increase has been almost entirely among those over thirty years of age. Among males this is strictly true, for a comparison of the number of males in each age-group under thirty with the corresponding figures of 1901 shows a decrease, notwithstanding the fact that the City was extended during the period in question. The decrease in age-group 15 to 19 amounted to 4·0 per cent.; in age-group 0 to 4, to 3·2 per cent.; in age-group 20 to 24, to 2·7 per cent.; and in age-group 25 to 29, to 1·8 per cent. Among the female population increases of 0·7 and 1·4 per cent. were found in age-groups 5 to 9, and 10 to 14, but these were more than balanced by decreases in all other age groups between 15 and 29. In age-group 15 to 19 the decrease amounted to 7·4 per cent.; in age-group 20 to 24, to 8·4 per cent.; and in age-group 25 to 29, to 2·8 per cent. The increase of males was mostly in age-groups between 35 and 59, and that of females in the same age-groups, and in age-groups 65 to 69 and 70 to 74.

Conjugal Condition of Population.—Males of over fifteen years of age in Dundee number 48,168, and are 2,548 more than in 1901, while females of over that age number 66,267, and are 1,873 more than in 1901. Of the male population of over fifteen 20,009, or 41·5 per cent., are single; 25,314, or 52·6 per cent., are married; and 2,827, or 5·9 per cent., are widowers. The single males of that age are 855 more than in 1901, the married males 1,412 more, and the widowers 263 more. The single males constituted 42·0 per cent. of the total population of 1901, the married males 52·4 per cent., and the widowed males 5·6 per cent. Of the female population of over fifteen 30,504, or 46·0 per cent., were single; 27,506, or 41·5 per cent., were married; and 8,246, or 12·5 per cent., were widows. Compared with the figures of 1901, single women of over fifteen are 254 more, married women 1,571 more, and widows 37 more. In 1901 single women constituted 47·0 per cent. of the female population of over fifteen, married women 40·3 per cent., and widows 12·7 per cent. Thus in both sexes there was a slight rise in the ratio of the married, and a slight fall in that of the single, changes which no doubt are partly attributable to the reduced number in the younger ages, and the increased number in the older ages.

Tables B and C have been prepared to show the relative proportion in each sex and age-group of single, married, and widowed in 1901 and 1911, and to show the comparison between them. From the figures it may be seen that the proportion of married men is less in this Census in all age-groups under 60, and the proportion of married women is less in age-groups from 20 to 35. In 1901 married men between the ages of 20 and 29 numbered 3,992, and in 1911 only 3,593, or 399 fewer. In 1901 married women of these ages numbered 5,682, in 1911 only 5,268, or 414 fewer. In 1901 the proportion of husbands in age-group 20 to 24 was 15·6 per cent., and in age-group 25 to 29 it was 53·3 per cent., in 1911 these proportions were 14·8 and 48·4, both showing a considerable decrease. In 1901 the corresponding proportions of married women in these age-groups were 20·1 and 46·0, in 1911 they were 19·5 and 44·8. These figures are indicative of later marriage in the decade 1901 to 1911 than in the previous decade.

Occupations.—No information is available regarding the occupations as at the date of the Census of 1901 of those enumerated in the area annexed to the City in 1907, and consequently in this section of the report it is only possible to compare the occupations of the population of the extended City at the date of the present Census with those of the population of the unextended City in 1901.

In 1901 the male population of the City of over fifteen years of age numbered 45,620, and of these 43,984, or 96·4 per cent., were returned as following some remunerative occupation; the female population of the same ages then numbered 64,394, and of these 35,156, or 54·6 per cent., were so occupied. In 1911 the male population of those ages numbered 48,168, and the female 66,267, while of the males 46,216, or 95·9 per cent., were so occupied, and of the females 35,662, or 53·8 per cent. These comparisons show that the ratios the occupied bear to the total are both somewhat reduced, that of the males being 0·5 less, and of the females 0·8 less.

Perhaps the most striking feature revealed by a study of these figures is the great decrease in the number of occupied children of between ten and fifteen years old. In 1901 occupied boys of those ages numbered 2,520, in 1911 they only numbered 1,158; in 1901 occupied girls of those ages numbered 2,411, in 1911 only 1,174. Occupied boys of from ten to thirteen in 1901 numbered 1,130, and girls of those ages 1,081, the majority of both being engaged in jute manufacture. In 1911 boys of these ages only numbered 70, and girls 83.

A comparison between the number of occupied males in this Census with the figures of 1901 shows a decrease in all ages under twenty-five, and an increase in all older ages. The decrease in age-group 10 to 14 amounts to 54·0 per cent., in age-group 15 to 19 to 5·9 per cent., and in age-group 20 to 24 to 4·0 per cent. The increase in age-group 25 to 44 amounts to 7·3 per cent., in age-group 45 to 64 to 12·8 per cent., and in age-group over 65 to 21·7 per cent. A similar change is found among the occupied females, for decreases are found in age-groups 10 to 14, 15 to 19, and 20 to 24, amounting to 51·3, 7·9, and 5·9 respectively, while in the age-groups 25 to 44, 45 to 64, and over 65, increases of 3·7, 16·5, and 30·7 are found. These figures are collected in Table D.

The number of married women returned as following some remunerative occupation in Dundee is relatively large. In Edinburgh 5·1 per cent. of the married women were returned as having occupation, and in Glasgow the ratio was 5·5, but in Dundee it amounts to no less than 23·4 per cent. This high ratio in Dundee is most evident among women of childbearing age ; in Edinburgh 7·3 per cent. of the married women aged between 20 and 24 are occupied, in Glasgow 7·5, but in Dundee 41·1 ; in age-group 25 to 44 this ratio in Dundee is 25·2, in Edinburgh it is 5·0, and in Glasgow

5.3. The numbers of occupied married women, and the ratios they bear to the total populations of Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee, are collected in Table G.

Industries.—The industries which provide employment for the population is a subject which will be dealt with in the second volume of this report, but, being a matter of local interest, a note of the principal industries of the City, and of the numbers of males and females employed in them, is given in Table XXIV. The industry providing most employment in Dundee is Hemp, Jute, Rope, and Mat making, in which fully one quarter of the occupied men and two-thirds of the occupied women are engaged. The Preparation and Sale of Food, Iron Manufacture, Local Government Services, and House Building and Decorating, are all industries providing employment for large sections of the population. Although no directly comparable figures are available in the 1901 Census Report, an examination of the occupation returns of that Census points to the conclusion that the House Building Industry has been greatly reduced during the intercensal period, for the numbers of masons, masons' labourers, carpenters, joiners, painters, paperhangers, and glaziers are all greater in the 1901 Census than in 1911.

Birth-places.—An examination of Table XXV., in which the birth-places of the population of Dundee are tabulated, and a comparison of it with the corresponding table in the 1901 Census Report, brings out the fact that at the time of the 1911 Census there were in Dundee 5,742 more locally born persons—i.e., within the County of Forfar and including those born in the City—than there were at the time of the 1901 Census, but that the number of persons born elsewhere was 1,911 less. In addition to those born in Forfarshire, the numbers born in the Counties of Edinburgh and Lanark also show some material increase, but the numbers born in the Counties of Aberdeen, Fife, and Perth show material decreases. Those of English birth show an increase of 776, and of colonial birth an increase of 129, but those of Irish birth a decrease of 1,935, having fallen from 5,333 in 1901 to 3,398 in the present Census. Those of English birth now exceed those of Irish birth by 1,228, the former now numbering 4,626, and the latter 3,398. Foreigners in Dundee now number 473, which is 67 more than in 1901.

Housing.—Of the total houses in Dundee 38,637 are returned as inhabited, 2,432 as uninhabited, and 92 as building. Compared with the numbers returned in 1901 in the area now included within the City, inhabited houses are 1,443 more, and uninhabited houses 595 more, but houses being built are 190 fewer.

Of the total inhabited houses 6,553, or 16·96 per cent., are one-roomed; 20,503, or 53·07 per cent., two-roomed; 6,677, or 17·28 per cent., three-roomed; 1,999, or 5·17 per cent., four-roomed; 875 or 2·26 per cent., five-roomed; 608, or 1·57 per cent., six-roomed; and 1,422, or 3·68 per cent., of more than six rooms.

Table XXVII. is constructed to show the number of persons living in houses of the various sizes. From it houses of more than twenty-four rooms, and households of more than nineteen persons, have been excluded, the assumption being that the majority of such houses are hotels, lodging-houses, and institutions, and in no way indicative of the ordinary housing of the population. Omitting these, 38,574 houses, containing 160,489 of the total population, are included in the table. Of this population 15,854, or 9·88 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 85,324, or 53·16 per cent., in two-roomed; 34,678, or 21·61 per cent., in three-roomed; 10,295, or 6·41 per cent., in four-roomed; 4,273, or 2·66 per cent., in five-roomed; 3,013, or 1·88 per cent., in six-roomed; and 7,052, or 4·40 per cent., in houses of more than six rooms.

Compared with the number of houses recorded in the report on the 1901 Census, one-roomed and four-roomed houses show a decrease, and houses of all other sizes an increase, but the comparison is open to the remark that in the 1901 Census lodgers were dealt with as separate householders, while in this Census they are dealt with not as householders but as members of households. This change has no doubt had the effect of reducing the recorded number of one-roomed houses below what would have been stated had the 1901 method been adopted.

Of the 160,489 persons dealt with in Table XXVII., 77,376, or 48·2 per cent., live more than two in a room; 32,086, or 20·0 per cent., more than three in a room; and 9,817, or 6·1 per cent., more than four in a room. In 1901 the proportion living more than two in a room was 49·44 per cent.; more than three in a room 21·91 per cent.; and more than four in a room 7·41 per cent. This comparison therefore shows that the numbers living in more crowded conditions are now less than at the time of the former Census.

Gaelic Speaking.—In Dundee in 1901 the number of persons returned as speaking both Gaelic and English was 730, and as speaking Gaelic but not English 6. In this Census no one speaking Gaelic only was found, and the number speaking Gaelic as well as English was found to be reduced to 618. Of the 618 persons speaking Gaelic and English, 27 were born in Ireland, and presumably the Gaelic spoken by them is Irish Gaelic.

NOTES.

The boundaries of the City of Dundee were extended in 1907 so as to include parts of the landward portions of the parish of Dundee Combination and of the parish of Mains & Strathmartine. The figures for 1901 printed in italics refer to the area now included in the City and are comparable with those for 1911.

Neither of the parishes above mentioned is wholly within the boundaries of the City.

This Table is omitted because the population of those parishes that are now partly within the City of Dundee will be included in Table III. of Part 18, which deals with the County of Forfar.

TABLE IV.—Population of Burghs.

This Table is omitted as unnecessary. (See Table I.)

* The populations stated against the Royal Burgh are as abstracted from the Census Reports, but the figures are not always comparable. The population of the Royal Burgh for 1841 includes the portion within the Parish of Liff, Benvie, and Invergowrie; which portion, however, is in 1851 enumerated in the returns for that parish without being separately distinguished. To what area the figures for 1861 refer cannot be determined. The Royal Burgh was extended in 1831 and 1876.

† The municipal boundaries were extended in 1892 and 1907.

‡ The following shows in which of the above Censuses the Shipping population was included :—

(1) Royal Burgh—1841 and 1851, included; 1861-1901, excluded.

(2) Parliamentary Burgh—1841, doubtful; 1851 and 1911 included; 1861-1901, excluded.

(3) Municipal Burgh—1871-1891, excluded; 1901 and 1911, included.

(4) Town—1861, doubtful; 1871-1901, included.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 4.

THE CITY OF ABERDEEN.

IN the Preliminary Report of this census the population of the City of Aberdeen was provisionally stated as 163,084, but late returns, mostly of the fishing fleet, were received after that Report was written, and a complete analysis of the census returns now shows that the population on census day was 163,891, of whom 74,985 were males and 88,906 females.

In 1901 the population of Aberdeen was 153,503, of whom 70,878 were males and 82,625 females. The intercensal increase of the male population amounts to 4107, or 5·8 per cent.; of the female population to 6281, or 7·6 per cent.; and of both sexes combined to 10,388, or 6·8 per cent. There were no alterations of the City boundaries during the decade, and these increases are entirely due to growth of population inside the City as it was in 1901.

A considerable part of the observed increases of population in Aberdeen is accounted for by an excess of shipping population enumerated in this Census over that enumerated in 1901. It amounts to 1203, and may be partly due to a difference between the system of enumerating the fishing fleet now adopted and that used at the former Census, but to what extent it is so is impossible to say. If for purposes of comparison, and to exclude this possible error in the comparison, the Aberdeen populations of the two Censuses be taken exclusive of shipping, it is found that the intercensal city increase amounted to 9105, or 5·9 per cent.

The City of Aberdeen is partly in the County of Aberdeen and partly in the County of Kincardine. The Aberdeenshire portion of the City has now a population of 152,463, which is 8346, or 5·8 per cent., more than in 1901, and the Kincardineshire portion has now a population of 11,428, which is 2042, or 21·8 per cent., more than in 1901.

The boundaries of the City of Aberdeen are also those of the Municipal Burgh of Aberdeen, and of the Civil Parish and School Board District of the same name, and the above remarks therefore apply to them as well as to the City.

Growth of Aberdeen since 1801.—In the sections of this Report dealing with Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee, it was pointed out that the changes in the administrative areas dealt with in the various Census Reports prevent the preparation of a simple summary showing the differences of population at 1801 and each decennium thereafter. The same difficulty is met with in the case of Aberdeen, and instead of a simple statement of the growth of the City since 1801, we must be content to deal with the growth of the various administrative areas dealt with in the Census Reports.

In the Census Report of 1851 there was a statement of the population of the City of Aberdeen since 1801, the earlier figures—those of 1801 to 1831—being obtained by deducting the estimated population of the landward part of Aberdeen (St Nicholas) Parish from the ascertained total population of that parish. Thus estimated, the Town of Aberdeen in 1801 had a population of 26,992, in 1811 of 34,640, in 1821 of 43,821, and in 1831 of 56,681, each census showing a substantial increase. In 1841 the population of the Town of Aberdeen was found to be 63,288.

The population of the Royal Burgh of Aberdeen was given in the reports on the censuses of 1851 to 1901, but as the areas held to be within that burgh for census purposes were on each different occasion a varying quantity, the figures are of little use as a test of the growth of the City.

The population of the Parliamentary Burgh has been given since 1841, when it was 63,288, and was the same as that of the City as it then existed. In 1851 it had increased by 8685, or 13·7 per cent., and amounted to 71,973. In 1861 it was 73,805, the intercensal increase being 1832, or 2·5 per cent. In 1871 it was 88,108, the intercensal increase being 14,303, or 19·4 per cent. In 1881 it was 105,003, an increase of 16,895, or 19·2 per cent. In 1891 it was 121,623, an increase of 16,620, or 15·8 per cent. In 1901 (shipping included) it was 144,117, an increase of 22,494, or 18·5 per cent. By the present census of 1911, it is found to be 152,463, the increase amounting to 8346, or 5·8 per cent. Thus the intercensal rate of increase of the decade 1901 to 1911 is much less than that of the previous decade, and less than that of all decades since 1841, that of the decade 1851 to 1861 alone excepted.

The population of the Municipal Burgh was separately stated in the Census Reports of 1891 and 1901. By the 1891 census this population was found to be 121,905, but during that year, 1891, the City boundary was extended and an area with a population of 3038 was added. The population, at that date, of the area now included within the City was 124,943. In 1901 the population was 153,503, the intercensal increase being 28,560, or 22·9 per cent. In 1911 the population is found to be 163,891, and shows a decennial increase of 10,388, or 6·8 per cent. The figures given in this paragraph include the shipping population, and consequently differ somewhat from those in Table VI.

The above figures and comparisons provide evidence that the rapid increase of population in Aberdeen which took place in the decades between 1851 and 1901 has not been maintained during the decade now more particularly under review.

Movement of Population within the City.—This is a matter which perhaps is best examined by noting the intercensal change of population in the eleven burgh wards of the City, and Table A. has been constructed to show those changes. Greyfriars, St Clement, and St Nicholas may be described as the more central of the wards, and none of them have increased materially during the decade, while two of them have materially decreased. On the other hand, the remaining eight wards, which may be described as the more outlying, all show a material increase of population, being as much as 21·8 per cent. in Torry, and 18·4 in Rubislaw, and in none less than 4·7 per cent., the amount found in Rosemount. These intercensal increases and decreases are indicative of a movement of the population from the centre and older part of the City to the more outlying and newer parts, a movement of population similar to what has been found to have occurred in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—Two parliamentary constituencies are entirely within the City of Aberdeen, and a third partly, the two former being the two burghal divisions of Aberdeen, and the last a portion of the County of Kincardine constituency. Of the total population 66,558, or 40·6 per cent., is in North Aberdeen Division; 85,905, or 52·4 per cent., in South Aberdeen Division; and 11,428, or 7·0 per cent., in the County of Kincardine. The North Aberdeen portion of the City has during the intercensal period increased by 376, or 0·6 per cent., that in South Aberdeen by 7970, or 10·2 per cent., and that in the County of Kincardine by 2042, or 21·8 per cent.

Sex and Age-Distribution of the Population.—In 1901 the ratio of females to each 100 males was 116·6, and by this census it is found to have increased to 118·5, notwithstanding the fact that a much larger number of seamen have been enumerated in this than in the last census.

Up to age 14 the numbers of males and females are nearly equal, but from 15 to age-group 25 to 29 the relative number of females steadily increases till it amounts to 139·7 to each 100 males. In the age-groups between 30 and 60 this ratio is found to be not quite so high, varying between 131·3 in age-group 30 to 34, and 120·2 in age-group 35 to 39. From 60 onwards this ratio steadily increases, amounting to 172·8 in age-group 70 to 74, and to 317·7 in age-group 90 to 94. A comparison of these age-group sex ratios of this census with those of the previous census shows an increase in the ratio of females to males in age-groups under 35, and generally a decrease in age-groups over that age.

The distribution of males and females into quinquennial age-groups, and a comparison with that of 1901, is also shown in Table XXc. Putting aside a small decrease of males in age-group 80 to 84, it may be seen that there has been an increase of both males and females in all age-groups except age-groups 0 to 4, 20 to 24, and 25 to 29, in each of which a decrease has occurred. This loss of population in the younger working ages is not peculiar to Aberdeen; but is similar to what has been found in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee.

Conjugal Conditions.—The male population of over fifteen years of age numbers 47,647, and the female 61,520. Of this male population 19,999, or 42·0 per cent., are single; 25,115, or 52·7 per cent., married; and 2446, or 5·1 per cent., widowers; in 88 instances the conjugal condition of males is unstated. In 1901 44·3 per cent. of males of these ages were single, 51·0 per cent. married, and 4·7 per cent. widowers. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, single males of over fifteen are 232, or 1·2 per cent., more, married males 2315, or 10·2 per cent., more, and widowers 334, or 15·8 per cent., more. That the decennial increase of widowers should be greater than that of single males of over fifteen is no doubt due to the reduced number of males of between twenty and thirty already remarked on. In Glasgow a greater increase in the number of widowers over that of single males of over fifteen was also found.

Of the female population of over fifteen 27,551, or 44·8 per cent., are single, 27,045, or 44·0 per cent., married, and 6905, or 11·2 per cent., widows. Compared with the 1901 figures, the spinsters of over fifteen are 2089, or 8·2 per cent., more, the wives 2583, or 10·6 per cent., more, and the widows 260, or 3·9 per cent., more.

The distribution of each age-group of both sexes according to conjugal condition is shown in Tables B and C. In Table B it will be seen that the proportion of married men in age-groups under 40 is diminished, and, as will be seen from Table C, so also are those of married women in age-groups of under 35, while those proportions of men and of women of older ages are increased.

Occupations.—The occupations of all males and females of over ten years of age are fully tabulated in Table XXII. The total number of males of over ten in Aberdeen is 56,644, and of these 45,467, or 80·3 per cent., are returned in the householders' schedules as having some remunerative occupation, while 11,177, or 19·7 per cent., are returned as without occupations, or as having ceased to have them, or as students or scholars. In 1901 males of over that age in Aberdeen numbered 52,822, and of these 43,381, or 82·1 per cent., had occupations. The female population of more than ten years of age now numbers 70,576, and of these 22,860, or 32·4 per cent., are occupied, and 47,716, or 67·6 per cent., unoccupied. In 1901 females of over that age numbered 64,634, and of these 21,836, or 33·8 per cent., were occupied, and 42,798, or 66·2 per cent., unoccupied. Thus the figures of this Census when compared with those of the 1901 Census, show an increase of "occupied" in both sexes, while the comparison between the ratios of occupied shows that of the males to be now somewhat less, and of the females somewhat more, than in 1901.

Occupied boys and girls of under fourteen years of age show a marked decrease when compared with the figures of 1901. Occupied boys of under fourteen now number 15, in 1901 they were 376, and the occupied girls of these ages now number 16, as against 229 in 1901.

Of the male population of between fifteen and nineteen, 7146, or 89·9 per cent., are occupied, and of the female population of these ages 6907, or 76·4 per cent., are occupied; occupied males of these ages are 48 fewer than in 1901, but occupied females are 477 more; this male occupied ratio is 2·0 less, but the female ratio 1·8 more, than in that year. A similar decrease in the number of occupied males, and an increase in the number of occupied females are also found in age-group 20 to 24, in which the occupied males number 5980, or 397 fewer than in 1901, and the female occupied number 5174, or 184 more than in that year. The number of occupied males and females in six age-groups in this and the previous census, and the intercensal differences, are collected in Table D. The most striking feature in that table is the increase of occupied males of ages over twenty-five, and the decrease of them in younger ages. Occupied males of under fifteen number 35·1 per cent. less than in 1901, these of between fifteen and twenty 0·7 per cent. less, and those of between twenty and twenty-four 6·2 per cent. less. Those of between twenty-five and forty-four are 7·1 per cent. more, between forty-five and sixty-four 17·4 per cent. more, and these of over sixty-five 15·4 per cent. more.

The occupations which are most largely followed in Aberdeen by men are Fishermen, 2108; Stone Cutters, Dressers, and Quarriers, 2047; Seamen in Merchant Service (all grades), 1942; and Vanmen, Carters, etc., 1922. Among those most largely followed by women are Domestic Servants, 4133; Dressmakers, 1694; Commercial Clerks, 1613; Fish Curers, 1245; and Flax and Linen Manufacture, 1228. A comparison of the occupations in Aberdeen at this census with those at the 1901 census shows that the male occupations which have materially increased are Fishermen, the increase being 1132; Seamen in Merchant Service, 469; Fish Curers, 406; Dock Labourers, 244; and Workers in Ship-building Yards, 224. Female occupations showing material increases are Commercial Clerks, 704; Flax and Linen Manufacture, 357; Fish Curers, 332; Wool and Worsted Manufacture, 173; and Bone, Horn, Ivory and Tortoiseshell Workers, 171. Male occupations showing a material decrease are Masons, 996; General Labourers, 834; Carpenters and Joiners, including their labourers, 662; and Stone Cutters, Dressers, and Quarriers, 228. Female occupations showing material decreases are Provision Curers, 306; India Rubber Workers, 267; and Paper Manufacture Workers, 118.

The occupations of married and widowed women in Aberdeen are shown in Table XXIII A, and their age-distribution in Table XXIII B. The figures there recorded are in great contrast to those found in Dundee, a town of very similar size. Occupied married women in Dundee number 6444, in Aberdeen only 815, and occupied widows in Dundee number 3220, in Aberdeen only 1564. In Dundee 41·1 per cent. of married women between ages twenty and twenty-four are occupied, and 25·2 per cent. between ages twenty-five and forty-four. In Aberdeen these proportions are only 3·3 and 2·9, and are not only less than found in Dundee, but also less than found in Edinburgh and Glasgow. In Aberdeen the occupations followed in largest number by married women are Fish Curing, 117, and Domestic Service, 95, and those followed in largest number by widows are Charing, 338, Domestic Service, 162, and Fish Curing, 129.

Industries.—The principal industries in which the occupied males and females of Aberdeen are employed are shown in Table XXIV. The male industries providing most employment are Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 4613; Fishing, 4231; House-Building and Decorating, 3163; Iron Manufacture, 2858; Shipping, 2472; Quarrying, 2378; and Local Government Service, 2005. The industries which provide most employment for females are Domestic and Institution Service, 5430; Tailoring and Dressmaking, 2074; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 1992; Fishing (including fish-curing), 1338; Paper Manufacture, 1292; and Linen Industry, 1205. As industries were not separately tabulated in previous Census Reports, there are no figures with which to compare these.

Comb-making is an industry of special local interest in Aberdeen, and is so because Aberdeen is the only town in Scotland in which it is carried on to any appreciable extent. In it 406 men and 200 women are employed; of the men 369 are workers in Bone, Horn, Ivory, and Tortoiseshell, 16 are Clerks, 6 are Carters and Messengers, and 12 are artisans of various kinds; and of the women employed 172 are workers in Bone, Horn, Ivory, and Tortoiseshell, 18 are Cardboard Box and Packing Case Makers, 8 are Clerks, and 2 are of other occupations.

A comparison between the industries of Aberdeen and those of Dundee is not without interest. The two towns are of nearly similar size and provide occupation for nearly similar numbers of male workers, but Aberdeen has twelve industries providing employment for over a thousand men, as against nine in Dundee. In Aberdeen the largest industry, the Preparation and Sale of Food, employs only 4613 men, in Dundee the largest industry, Hemp, Jute, Rope, and Mat Manufacture, employs 13,633 men. The concentration of employment in Dundee in one large industry, and its distribution in Aberdeen into several industries, is obvious.

Housing.—Inhabited houses in the City of Aberdeen number 36,159, uninhabited 1812, and houses in course of erection 55. In 1901 the inhabited houses of the City numbered 33,248, the uninhabited houses 1437, and the houses in course of erection 218. Thus the decennial change is an increase of 2911 in the inhabited houses, an increase of 375 in the uninhabited houses, and a decrease of 163 in the number of houses in course of erection. In 1901 to each thousand inhabited houses there were 43 uninhabited, and 7 building; in 1911 to each thousand inhabited houses there are 50 uninhabited and less than 2 building. Thus in Aberdeen, as in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee, the more marked intercensal changes in the housing figures are an increase of uninhabited houses, and a decrease of those in course of erection. That the latter is the case in Aberdeen is confirmed by the reduced numbers of Carpenters, Joiners, Masons, and their labourers enumerated in this Census. (Vide Table E.)

Of the total inhabited houses enumerated in Aberdeen, 3534, or 9·8 per cent., are one-roomed; 13,311, or 36·9 per cent., two-roomed; 10,086, or 27·9 per cent., three-roomed; 4077, or 11·3 per cent., four-roomed; 1105, or 3·1 per cent., five-roomed; and 3982, or 11·0 per cent., houses of more than five rooms. Compared with the figures of 1901, one-roomed houses are 950 fewer, two-roomed houses 512 more, three-roomed houses 1096 more, four-roomed houses 506 more, five-roomed houses 127 more, and houses of more than five rooms 507 more.

Of the total population 7660, or 4·8 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 53,516, or 33·8 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 50,614, or 32·0 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 20,539, or 13·0 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 5347, or 3·4 per cent., in five-roomed houses; and 20,571, or 13·0 per cent., in houses of more than five rooms. In 1901, of the population of the City, 9300, or 6·1 per cent., lived in one-roomed houses; 50,947, or 33·2 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 45,918, or 29·9 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 18,959, or 12·3 per cent., in four-roomed houses; and 28,379, or 18·5 per cent., in houses of more than four rooms. A comparison between the above figures shows that in Aberdeen the number of persons living in one-roomed houses has decreased by 1640, but of these living in larger houses has increased, in two-roomed houses by 2569, in three-roomed houses by 4696, in four-roomed houses by 1580, and in houses of more than four rooms by 2461.

In giving the above comparisons it is only right in this as in other cases to draw attention to the difference in the method of enumerating houses adopted in this Census from that followed in 1901. In the 1901 Census lodgers were regarded as householders; in this Census they are not regarded as householders, but as members of the households. This change has doubtless resulted in the counting of fewer one-roomed houses in this Census, and at least partly explains the recorded decrease of them.

In 1901 of the population of Aberdeen, 95,011, or 61·9 per cent., were living not more than two in a room; 58,492, or 38·1 per cent., more than two in a room; 18,905, or 12·3 per cent., more than three in a room; and 4069, or 2·7 per cent., more than four in a room. By this census 104,012, or 63·5 per cent., of the population are found to be living less than two in a room; 59,879, or 37·8 per cent., more than two in a room; 19,505, or 12·3 per cent., more than three in a room; and 3446, or 2·2 per cent., more than four in a room. The changes found are not great; there is some increase in the ratio living less than two in a room, some reduction in the ratio of those living more than two in a room, and some reduction in the ratio of those living more than four in a room. There is a decrease in the actual number living more than four in a room, one amounting to 623, or 15·3 per cent.

Birthplaces of Population.—These are fully shown in Table XXV. Of the total population of the City, 135,708, or 82·8 per cent., were born within the City or in the home counties of Aberdeen and Kincardine; 19,221, or 11·7 per cent., in other Scottish counties; and 8962, or 5·5 per cent., were born outside Scotland or were of unstated birthplace. A comparison of these figures with those of 1901 shows little change of distribution, for at that date those born in the home counties constituted 82·6 per cent. of the total, those born in other Scottish counties 12·1 per cent., and those born elsewhere, or of unstated birthplace, 5·3 per cent. Those of Scottish birth are 6·6 per cent. more than in 1901, those born in the home counties 7·1 per cent. more, those born in other Scottish counties 3·1 per cent. more, and those born outside Scotland, or of unstated birthplace, are 10·1 per cent. more.

Of those born outside Scotland, 6195 are of English birth; they are 834 more than in 1901, and constitute 3·8 per cent. of the total population. Those of Irish birth number 527, are 61 fewer than in 1901, and constitute 0·3 per cent. of the population. Those of foreign birth, other than British subjects, number 521, are 187 more than in 1901, and constitute 0·3 per cent. of the total population. A similar increase of those of English birth, and decrease of those of Irish birth, was noted in each of the three cities already reported on.

Gaelic Speaking.—In 1901 there were enumerated in the City of Aberdeen 6 persons speaking Gaelic only, and 706 speaking Gaelic in addition to English. By this Census no persons speaking Gaelic only, and 602 speaking Gaelic in addition to English were found, showing a disappearance of the former, and a reduction of 104, or 14·7 per cent., of the latter. Of the 602 Gaelic speakers in Aberdeen, 245 were born in the County of Ross and Cromarty, 113 were born in the County of Inverness, and 33 in Argyll. There were only 5 Gaelic speakers of Irish birth and presumably speaking Irish Gaelic.

* The population of the portion of the City or Town of Aberdeen within the parish of Old Machar was not separately distinguished in the Census Reports for 1801–1831. An estimate of the numbers, however, was made in the Report for 1851, from which the figures for the City or Town have been extracted.

† The Royal Burgh was extended in 1871, 1883, and 1891.

‡ The Municipal Burgh was extended in 1891.

§ Indicates that Shipping population is excluded.

SOME INTERCENSAL CHANGES IN THE FOUR LARGE CITIES.

As the issue of Part 4 of the Report completes our report on the Census of the four principal cities of Scotland, it may not now be out of place to submit a few collective remarks and tables on the more noteworthy demographic changes observed. We make no attempt to do this exhaustively, or to offer explanations as to the social or other conditions leading to or to be deduced from those changes, but select four points and deal with them purely statistically, the four points selected being:—(1) the diminishing growth of the population; (2) the alteration in the sex and age-distribution of the populations; (3) the decrease of population in the more central parts of the cities; and (4) the decline of the building trades in the cities.

The Diminishing Growth of the City Populations.

As pointed out in each of the four parts of this Report, a comparison between the city populations at the dates of the various censuses is complicated by the differences in administrative areas dealt with in the reports at each recurring decennium, and a simple and perfectly true statement of the intercensal changes is practically impossible. To overcome this difficulty so far as possible, we have selected and used for comparison the figures which appear to us to be the most nearly comparable. Accordingly, in the construction of Table 1, the figures used for the censuses of 1871, 1881 and 1891, are those of the populations within the parliamentary boundaries of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, with the addition of the amount of the shipping population at each census, while those for the censuses of 1901 and 1911 are the figures of the population within the municipal boundaries. The addition of the shipping population to the former was rendered necessary by the fact that it is included in the latter. No attempt is made to discriminate between increase of population due to extension of boundaries, and increase that may be attributable to any other cause.

FOUR CITIES . . . . .	80,276	140,319	290,565	40,487	9·1	14·6	26·3	2·9

The entire population of the four cities in 1871 amounted to 882,062. In 1881 it was found to be 962,338, the intercensal increase being 80,276, or 9·1 per cent., of the population at the earlier date. In the decade 1881–1891, this rate of increase was more than maintained, for the population of the four cities was at the latter date 1,102,657, having increased by 140,319, or 14·6 per cent., during the ten years. The census of 1901 showed a still greater intercensal increase—one of 290,565, or 26·3 per cent.,—the gross population of the four cities then amounting to 1,393,222. By the present census the total population of the four cities is found to be 1,433,709, which shows an intercensal increase of only 40,487, or 2·9 per cent. The actual increase found by this census, in round numbers, is one-half of that found by the 1881 census; less than one-third of that found by the 1891 census; and one-seventh of that found by the 1901 census. The rate of increase found by this census is one-third of that found by the 1881 census, one-fifth of that found by the 1891 census, and one-ninth of that found by the 1901 census.

The figures relating to the intercensal increase, and the rate of increase in each of the four cities, are collected in Table 1. It may there be seen that the rates of increase in Edinburgh, Dundee, and Aberdeen are smaller than the corresponding rates of the three previous censuses, while that of Glasgow is smaller than those of the two previous censuses, but not less than that shown by the 1881 census. In Edinburgh this rate is 1·1 per cent., the previous lowest increase being that of the decade 1881 to 1891, which was 14·4 per cent.; in Dundee it is 2·4 per cent., the previous lowest increase being 4·9 per cent. in the decade 1891 to 1901; in Aberdeen it was 6·8, the previous lowest increase being that of 1881 to 1891, which was 16·0 per cent. The Glasgow rate of intercensal increase now found is 3·0 per cent., it compares with 34·6 in 1891 to 1901, 15·8 in 1881 to 1891, and 2·3 in 1871 to 1881.

An examination of the birthplaces of the inhabitants throws some light on the question whether the diminished rate of increase of population is due to the fact that a reduced number of those locally born remain in the cities, or to a reduced number of immigrants coming into the cities from outside is reduced.

In order that it may be seen how the number of those of home birth compare with the number of outside birth at this census and at the 1901 census, we have prepared Table 2. In that table all those born in the home counties are considered as locally born, a course necessitated by the fact that in 1901 those born in the cities were not separated as regards birthplace from those born in the remainder of the home county. In the case of Aberdeen, which is situated in two counties (Aberdeen and Kincardine), all born in either county are considered to have been locally born.

* Counties of Aberdeen and Kincardine.

The total increase in the population of the four cities amounts to 40,487, the increase among those locally born to 80,921, while there is a decrease of 40,434 among those born elsewhere. Thus the total intercensal increase in the four cities is more than accounted for by the increase in the number of those locally born, and is not due to any increase in the number of those born outside the home counties. A similar state of affairs is found in each of the four cities when considered individually, with the exception of Aberdeen, where, in addition to there being an increase in the number of the locally born there is also an increase in the number of those born elsewhere, the increase in the former, however, greatly exceeding that in the latter.

Table 2 also shows the groups among those born elsewhere in which the decreases have occurred. The largest decrease is found to be among those born in Scottish counties other than the home counties, and among those of Irish birth; the former number 28,974 fewer than in 1901, and the latter 18,443 fewer; the former show decreases in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee, but a small increase in Aberdeen; the latter—those of Irish birth—show decreases in each of the four cities. The intercensal change in the number of those of English and Welsh birth in these cities is contrary to that of those of Irish birth, for while the latter have diminished in each of the four cities, the former have increased. The total increase of those born in England and Wales amounts to 5087, or to 9·3 per cent., while the total decrease of those of Irish birth amounts to 18,443, or 22·9 per cent. The largest decrease of Irish is in Glasgow. The largest increase of English is in Edinburgh.

The number of those of foreign birth, exclusive of British subjects born abroad, in the four cities is now 11,709, and is 2222, or 23·4 per cent., more than in 1901. They are found to have increased in each of the four cities—in Edinburgh by 422, in Glasgow by 1546, in Dundee by 67, and in Aberdeen by 187.

Alteration in the Sex and Age-Distribution of the Population.

When reporting on the census in each of the four cities, we drew attention to the fact that each now contains fewer males of the younger working ages—15 to 30—than in 1901. To assist a study of this point, Table 3 has been constructed. It is based on figures given in Table XX. of each of the four parts of the Report. An examination of this table, and more particularly of the columns showing differences, demonstrates that the intercensal increases of population have not been evenly distributed between sexes or between age-groups. The increase of male population in the four cities has amounted to only 12,937, or 2·0 per cent., while that of females has amounted to 27,550, or 3·8 per cent. Of the 20 male quinquennial age-groups, 14 show an increase varying from 33 per cent. in age-group 70 to 74, 29·5 per cent. in age-group 65 to 69, and 25·2 per cent. in age-group 85 to 89, to 1·1 per cent. in age-group 5 to 9, and 1·9 per cent. in age-groups 10 to 15 and 80 to 84. Six show decreases—that in age-group 20 to 24 amounting to 13·0 per cent.; in age-group 95 to 99 to 12·5 per cent.; in age-group 25 to 29 to 7·7 per cent.; in age-group 0 to 4 to 4·1 per cent.; in age-group 15 to 19 to 3·3 per cent.; and in age-group 90 to 94 to 1·4 per cent. Putting aside observed differences in the age-groups of over 80, it may be noted that the substantial increases are in the older age-groups, and the substantial decreases are restricted to the under 5 age-group, and to those between 15 and 30.

The same examination of the age-distribution of the female population shows similar changes to have occurred, though on the whole not so well marked. Increases are found in all age-groups over 30, and in those between 5 and 15, but decreases are found in the age-group of under 5, and in those between 15 and 30. The maximum increases are:—in age-group 70 to 74, 35·1 per cent.; in age-group 65 to 69, 22·1 per cent.; and in age-group 85 to 89, 17·9 per cent.; while the largest decreases are:—in age-group 20 to 24, 7·1 per cent.; in age-group 0 to 4, 4·3 per cent.; and in age-group 25 to 29, 2·1 per cent.

The observation that there has been a diminution in the numbers of both sexes in the groups between 15 and 29 is in agreement with the statistical fact that the number of those of other than local birth should have been found to have decreased. It is reasonable to assume that it is in the younger working ages, 15 to 30, that the bulk of the migration of the working classes into the cities takes place, and, consequently, it may reasonably be expected that a diminution in the migration from other counties, or from beyond Scotland, will tend to deplete the population of those ages.

To carry the study of the subject of the change in the sex and age-distribution in the four cities further, Table 4 has been constructed. In it, for reasons of simpler comparison, the sex and age-distributions are not expressed as absolute quantities, but as ratios to each hundred thousand of the populations. The changes brought out in this table are similar to those already described, for, with a few minor exceptions, the changes of sex and age-distribution are found to be a diminishing quantity in ages under thirty, and an increasing quantity in ages over thirty.

Table 4 further shows changes in the relative number of males and females in the populations of the cities. In three cities—Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Aberdeen—the relative number of females has increased during the decade, while in the fourth—Dundee—it has decreased. In Edinburgh females now constitute 55·2 per cent. of the population, in 1901 they constituted 54·4 per cent. In Glasgow this proportion is now 51·4, in 1901 it was 51·0. In Aberdeen it is now 54·2, in 1901 it was 53·8. In Dundee it is now 55·6, in 1901 it was 55·9.

TABLE 5.—PROPORTION OF FEMALES TO 100 MALES IN THE FOUR CITIES.

	Edinburgh.	Glasgow.	Dundee.	Aberdeen.	Four Cities.
1881	119·0	105·9	128·7	118·2	112·1
1891	119·0	105·6	125·6	117·9	112·1
1901	119·2	103·8	126·9	116·6	111·1
1911	123·3	105·7	125·3	118·6	113·0

The ratio of females to males in each of the four cities at each of the four last censuses is collected in Table 5, where the ratio is expressed in the more usually adopted form of the number of females to each hundred males. In Edinburgh this ratio has steadily increased since 1891. In Glasgow the censuses of 1891 and 1901 showed a decrease, but the increase found by this census is sufficient to raise the ratio to a higher level than in 1891. In Aberdeen, as in Glasgow, this ratio, by the censuses of 1891 and 1901, was found to be decreasing, but by this census to be increasing, and to have reached a higher level than in 1881. In Dundee this ratio has been conversely affected; in 1901 it was found to be increasing, but it is now found to be diminishing and to be less than in the three previous censuses. In Edinburgh, where the largest increase of this ratio is found—one from 119·2 to 123·3,—an actual loss of male population during the decade is found to have occurred.

Movement of Population from the more Central to the more Outlying Portions of the Cities.

In each of the four parts of the Report dealing with city populations, attention has been drawn to a movement of population from the central and older districts of the cities to the more outlying and more modern districts, the movements being demonstrated by losses of population in the more central burgh wards, and gains of population in the more outlying wards. In the cases of Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Dundee, it was also pointed out how that the apparent movement was not limited by the burgh boundaries but extended into neighbouring parishes.

Concurrently with this movement there has been an improvement in the housing condition of the cities, for in each of the four cities a reduction in the number of one-roomed houses has been found, and also a reduction in the proportion of the population living in more crowded conditions, more than three in a room and more than four in a room.

Another concurrent change, but one which may also be partly due to the observed diminished rate of growth of the cities, is a marked increase in the number of uninhabited houses. Table 6 has been prepared to show this increase, and it may there be noted that in each of the four cities the number of uninhabited houses largely exceeds the figures of 1901. In Edinburgh uninhabited houses now number 6428, and amount to 9·2 per cent. of the total occupied houses; in 1901 they numbered only 3544, and amounted to 5·4 per cent. of the total. In Glasgow they now number 20,903, and amount to 12·8 per cent. of the total occupied; in 1901 they numbered 7373, and amounted to 4·7 per cent. of the total. In Dundee they now number 2432, and amount to 6·3 per cent. of the total occupied; in 1901 they numbered 1837, and amounted to 4·9 of the total. In Aberdeen they now number 1812, and amounted to 5·0 per cent. of the total occupied; in 1901 they numbered 1437, and amounted to 4·3 per cent. of the total. The total number of uninhabited houses in the four cities is now 31,575; in 1901 it was 14,191. These houses now amount to 10·3 per cent. of the total occupied house in the four cities; in 1901 they amounted to 4·8 per cent. Thus the number of uninhabited houses in the four cities is now more than twice as great as in 1901, and the ratio they bear to the total houses in the cities is fully twice as large as in 1901.

In 1901 the ratio of uninhabited houses in each of the four cities was not dissimilar: it averaged 4·8 per cent., and varied between 5·4 in Edinburgh and 4·3 in Aberdeen. But by this census the same uniformity is not found: the average is 10·3, the variations are between 12·8 in Glasgow and 5·0 in Aberdeen.

The Decline of the Building Trades in the Cities.

Attention had been directed to increases and decreases in the number following the more important occupations in the four cities, but none of these have been so marked as the diminution in the numbers of those following the various occupations connected with the building industry.

Selecting the occupations of carpenters, joiners, bricklayers, masons, builders, slaters, plasterers, tilers, plumbers, and gasfitters, as those most closely connected with the building industry, a comparison shows that the number following these occupations in the four cities is now 13,460 less than in 1901. In 1901 the total number returned as belonging to these occupations was 38,997; by this census it is found to be 25,537, showing a drop of 34·5 per cent.

Taking these occupations separately, the greatest diminution is found to be among masons and builders, the number of whom has decreased from 13,090 in 1901 to 6837 at this census, a fall of 6253, or 47·8 per cent. The decrease in the number of carpenters and joiners is also great: it amounts to 4295, or 33·7 per cent., the number in 1901 having been 12,741, and at the time of this census 8446. In 1901 plasterers numbered 2849, and at this census 1868, a fall of 981, or 34·4 per cent. Bricklayers in 1901 numbered 2857, at this census 2072, a reduction of 785, or 27·5 per cent. Slaters and tilers in 1901 numbered 2480, and at this census 2026, the reduction being 454, or 18·3 per cent. Plumbers and gasfitters in 1901 numbered 4980, and at this census 4288, a reduction of 692, or 13·9 per cent.

In Aberdeen men returned as following these occupations have decreased by 2294, or 47·4 per cent. in the decade; in Edinburgh by 4276, or 39·1 per cent.; in Dundee by 1134, or 31·4 per cent.; and in Glasgow by 5983, or 29·8 per cent.

Concurrently with this decline in the number of those following the building trades and enumerated in the four cities, there is a marked decrease in the reported number of houses in course of erection (vide Table 6). In 1901 houses in course of construction numbered 2624; they now number 877, a fall of 1747, or 66·6 per cent. In 1901 there were nine houses in course of erection to each thousand occupied houses; in this census the same ratio was only three per thousand. In Edinburgh the number of houses under construction has fallen from 588 in 1901 to 243 in 1911, in Glasgow from 1536 to 487, in Dundee from 282 to 92, and in Aberdeen from 218 to 55. The ratio of houses under construction to each thousand occupied houses in Edinburgh has fallen from 9 to 3, in Glasgow from 10 to 3, in Dundee from 8 to 2, and in Aberdeen from 7 to 2.

Whether this great reduction in the number of those occupied in the building trades in the cities is due to migration of the workers out of Scotland or to their migration into other parts of Scotland, is a question the answer to which must be delayed until the tabulation of the census of the remaining portions of the country is completed.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 5.

THE COUNTY OF ABERDEEN.

By the Census the total population of the County of Aberdeen including the City is found to amount to 312,177, and to be 7,738 more than in 1901. The total male population of the County is 147,357, and the female 164,820, the former being 2,521 more than in 1901, and the latter 5,217 more.

Of the total population of the County, 152,463 were enumerated within the City of Aberdeen, and reported on in Part 4 of this Volume of the Census Report (Cd. 6097-III.), and 159,714 were enumerated in the County but outside the City. It is with the latter population that this part of the Report is more especially concerned.

The population of the County exclusive of the City amounts to 159,714, and shows an intercensal decrease of 608, for in 1901 the corresponding population was 160,322. The male portion of this population amounts to 77,788, and is 646 less than in 1901, the female portion is 81,926, and is 38 more than in 1901. Thus the small decennial decrease found is confined to the male population.

Table A has been constructed to show the intercensal changes in the population of this County since 1801, the date of the first Census, one portion showing that of the entire County, the other that of the County exclusive of the Aberdeen City population. The County, inclusive of the Aberdeen City portion, shows an increase of population at each successive Census, the smallest increase being that found by this Census, and the largest that found in 1881, which was 23,387. The decennial rate of increase found by previous Censuses varied between 15·0 per cent. in 1821 and 4·5 in 1861, but by this Census it is found to be only 2·5 per cent.

The population of the County exclusive of the City of Aberdeen has shown a decennial increase at all Censuses, with the two exceptions of that of 1891 and the present Census. The largest increases were found in 1821 and 1851, the former having amounted to 11,131, and the latter to 10,835. The decrease in 1891 amounted to 3,471, and by this Census is 608. The decennial rate of increase found in 1821 was 11·1 per cent., the decennial rate of decrease found in 1891 was 2·1 per cent., and that found by the present Census 0·4 per cent. The population of the County exclusive of the City population is now not only less than in 1901, but also less than in 1881, the loss of population since that date amounting to 3,087.

Distribution of Population within the County.—This is probably most conveniently studied in Table XVIII., which deals with the populations of Public Health Districts, for in that table burghal and extra-burghal populations are separately set out, and the latter is distributed among the Districts of the County. The populations of these Public Health Districts, and their intercensal changes, are also shown in Table B.

The total burghal population, exclusive of that in the City of Aberdeen, amounts to 40,505, and is 4,190, or 11·5 per cent. more than in 1901, when that population amounted to 36,315. The total extra-burghal population of the County is now 119,209, and is 4,798, or 3·9 per cent. less than in 1901. These comparisons show a marked difference between the intercensal changes of the burghal and extra-burghal portions of the County when considered collectively, and, generally speaking, similar differences when the Public Health Districts are considered individually, for in seven of the burghal districts increases of population are found, and in only three decreases, while of the extra-burghal Public Health Districts only one shows an increase while seven show decreases.

The only extra-burghal district showing any intercensal increase of population is that of Aberdeen, which contains the portion of the County nearest to the City of that name. The increase of population there found amounts to 1,160, or 5·3 per cent., and is partly due to the recent erection of two large burghal institutions, the Aberdeen Poorhouse and the City of Aberdeen Asylum, both of which contain an exclusively City population. The largest decreases of population in the remaining seven extra-burghal districts are in Deer, Ellon, and Turriff Districts, where they are 1,408, 998, and 907 respectively. The largest decennial rates of decrease are found in Huntly, Alford, and Turriff Districts, where they are 8·7 per cent., 8·6 per cent., and 7·4 per cent. respectively.

Burgh Populations.—Exclusive of the City of Aberdeen, the largest burgh, and the one with the largest intercensal increase of population, is Peterhead, its population is now 13,613, and is 1,819, or 15·4 per cent., more than in 1901. This burgh by each successive Census, that of 1901 excepted, has shown an increase of population. In 1821 the population was 4,783, in 1841 it exceeded 5,000, in 1861 it exceeded 7,500, and in 1881 it exceeded 10,000.

Fraserburgh is the next largest burgh, its population is now 10,574, the intercensal increase having been 1,465. Its population was first given in the Report on the 1851 Census, when it was 3,093, and at each Census since that date an increase of population has been found. It now has a population more than three times that of 1861, and more than twice that of 1871.

The burgh in this County which shows the highest rate of decennial increase is Inverurie, it having increased by 29·5 per cent. during the decade. Its population in 1901 was 3,058, and is now 3,960. The increase of population in this burgh is largely due to the Great North of Scotland Railway Company having established in it engineering works during the intercensal period.

Five burghs in this County show no material alteration of population, as the changes in them varied between a gain of 93 and a loss of 87. These five are Huntly, Kintore, Turriff, Ballater, and Old Meldrum.

The only burgh with a material loss of population is Ellon, where the population has fallen from 1,527 in 1901 to 1,307, a loss of 220, or 14·4 per cent.

Parish Populations.—Exclusive of Aberdeen City Parish there are 82 Civil Parishes within this County. Of those 8 show increases of population amounting to more than 100, while 28 show decreases of more than that amount. Of the eight showing increases, four are parishes which contain burghs, two are parishes in which large burghal institutions have been erected during the decade, and only two are parishes which contain neither burghs nor large burghal institutions. The parishes which contain burghs and which show intercensal increases of population of more than 100 are Fraserburgh, Inverurie, Peterhead, and Pitsligo. The two parishes in which large burghal institutions have been erected in the decade, and in which there are similar increases of population, are Newhills and New Machar. The two parishes which contain neither burghs nor recently erected burghal institutions, and which show such increase of population, are Peterculter and Rathen.

The largest intercensal decreases of parish populations are found in Old Deer, 572; Monquhitter, 342; New Deer, 291; St Fergus, 224; and Ellon, 366. Restricting comparisons to parishes where the loss of population has amounted to 100, the highest rates of intercensal decrease are found in Towie, 22·4 per cent.; Kildrummy, 20·7 per cent.; Rhynie, 14·2 per cent.; Monquhitter, 13·8 per cent.; Old Deer, 13·3 per cent.; Glass, 13·1 per cent.; and Auchindoir and Kearn, 13·0 per cent.

Age and Sex Distribution.—The age and sex distribution of the population of the County, exclusive of the portion within the City of Aberdeen, has been materially modified during the intercensal period. There have been increases in both the male and female populations of over thirty years of age, and decreases in both sexes of those under that age, and as the decrease in the male population of under thirty exceeds the increase in those over that age, while the decrease in the female population of under thirty does not exceed the increase in those over that age, both the age distribution of the population and the ratio of females to males have been altered.

Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, the number of males now in the County is 646 less, but the number of females is 38 more. The ratio of females to males is now 105·3 to 100, in 1901 it was 104·4 to 100. Putting aside the more uncertain returns regarding those of upwards of seventy years of age, it is found that this ratio of females to males has been most markedly increased in age-groups between 20 and 34. In age-group 20 to 24 this ratio has risen from 107·2 in 1901 to 110·6; in age-group 25 to 29 from 111·8 to 118·7, and in age-group 30 to 34 from 115·2 to 120·3. This ratio is most markedly decreased in age-groups between 55 and 69, having fallen from 115·6 to 103·8 in age-group 55 to 59; from 124·1 to 105·3 in age-group 60 to 64; and from 118·7 to 113·1 in age-group 65 to 69.

The age-groups showing increase in the numbers of males are those between thirty and eighty-four, while those showing decreases are those under thirty and those over eighty-four. The largest increases of males are in age-group 55 to 59, 473, or 19·2 per cent.; in age-group 50 to 54, 426, or 14·5 per cent.; and in age-group 35 to 39, 400, or 9·8 per cent. The largest decreases of males are in age-group 20 to 24, 702, or 10·7 per cent.; in age-group 0 to 4, 665, or 6·6 per cent.; and in age-group 5 to 9, 571, or 5·8 per cent. The age-groups showing the largest increases of females are those of 50 to 54, 470, or 14·9 per cent.; of 35 to 39, 405, or 8·7 per cent.; and of 45 to 49, 358, or 9·8 per cent.; and those showing the largest decreases are those of 0 to 4, 939, or 9·3 per cent.; 20 to 24, 561, or 8·2 per cent.; and 15 to 19, 293, or 3·7 per cent.

The total male population of under thirty has during the ten years decreased from 50,066 to 46,913, a fall of 3,153, or 6·3 per cent., while that of over thirty has increased from 28,368 to 30,875, a rise of 2,507, or 8·8 per cent. The female population of under thirty has decreased from 49,096 to 46,966, a fall of 2,130, or 4·3 per cent., while that of the population of over thirty has increased from 32,792 to 34,960, a rise of 2,168, or 6·6 per cent.

Occupations.—The occupations of the inhabitants are fully tabulated in Table XXII. Of the male population of the County outside Aberdeen City 47,564, or 61·1 per cent., are returned as having some remunerative occupation, while of the female population 16,586, or 20·2 per cent., are so returned. The occupied males number 452 fewer than in 1901, but the occupied females number 25 more.

A comparison of the number of occupied in each group with the corresponding figures of 1901 shows a reduction in the number of occupied males of under twenty-five, and an increase at ages between twenty-five and sixty-five. In age-group 10 to 14 this reduction amounts to 458, in age-group 15 to 19 to 514, and in age-group 20 to 24 to 759. The increase in age-group 25 to 44 is 153, and in age-group 45 to 64 it is 1,221. These changes in the number of occupied males agree with the changes observed in the age distribution of the male population and remarked on above. In the female population reductions of the numbers occupied are found in age-groups 10 to 14, 15 to 19, and over 65, amounting to 170, 36, and 120 respectively, while increases of 49, 272, and 30 are found in age-groups 20 to 24, 25 to 44, and 45 to 64.

The occupations giving employment to the largest section of the male population are those connected with agriculture, for they include 21,160, or 44·5 per cent., of the total occupied males. Of those in this group of occupations, 10,289 are returned as Agricultural Labourers or Farm Servants, 7,342 as Farmers or Graziers, or as sons of farmers working on the farms, 1,916 as Crofters or their sons, 1,160 as Grieves, and 453 as Shepherds. In 1901 crofters were not separately tabulated in this County, but were included with the farmers, and consequently strictly accurate comparison of these individual occupations at the beginning and end of the decade cannot be made. The total number of males, however, in this group of occupations is now 1,181 less than in 1901.

The only other occupations followed by more than a thousand males in the County are those of Fishermen, 2,039; General Labourers, 1,392; and Coopers and Hoop-makers and Benders, 1,234. The first and last named of these three show intercensal increases, the first of 161, and the last of 354, while the second named occupation, that of General Labourers, shows a decrease of 77.

The only other occupations of males showing any material increases during the decennial period are those of Road Labourers, and Domestic Gardeners, the former having increased from 396 in 1901 to 523, and the latter from 346 to 462. Other occupations of males showing marked decreases are Masons, 595; Stone Cutters, Dressers, and Quarriers, 478; Carpenters and Joiners, 392; Blacksmiths, 146; and Boot and Shoe Makers, 104.

The female occupation giving most employment is Domestic Indoor Service—7,714, or 46·5 per cent., of the total occupied females being so returned. The number of female indoor servants in the County only differs by 27 from the 1901 figure. Agricultural occupations employ 1,954 females, of whom all but 232 are returned as being either farmers or daughters of farmers or crofters. The total number in this group is 198 less than in 1901. Dressmaking is the only other occupation followed by more than a thousand females in the County, the number being 1,113, which is 225 less than in 1901. Among other female occupations those which show some material increase are Fish Curers, Commercial Clerks, and Charwomen, those returned as following these occupations being 706, 342, and 281 respectively, the intercensal increases amounting to 347, 191, and 148; and among female occupations which show some material intercensal decrease are Laundry Workers and Grocers, the number of the former having fallen from 343 to 200, and of the latter from 270 to 161.

The number of married women returned as having remunerative occupations in this County is small, and amounts to only 388. The majority of these are indoor domestic servants, fish-curers, and hawkers.

Industries.—The industries of the inhabitants, as distinct from their occupations, the former being defined as the occupations of the employer, are collected in Table XXIV. The industries giving most employment to males in the County are Agriculture, 21,947 ; Fishing, 3,542 ; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 2,542 ; and House Building and Decorating, 2,156 ; and those providing most employment for females are Domestic and Institution Service, 8,301 ; Agriculture, 1,969 ; Tailoring and Dressmaking, 1182 ; Local Government Services, 794 ; and Fishing, 767.

Housing.—The total number of houses enumerated in the County, exclusive of these enumerated within the boundaries of the City, is 34,988, of which 32,806 were inhabited on Census day, 2,065 were uninhabited, and 117 were in course of erection.

Compared with the corresponding figure in the 1901 Census Report, inhabited houses are 1,189 more, uninhabited houses are 104 fewer, and houses in course of erection 138 fewer. But in making comparison between the housing returns of the present Census and those of 1901 it is only right to point out that the comparisons are not strictly fair, because the method of enumerating houses in this Census is different from that adopted in previous Censuses. In previous Censuses lodgers were held to be householders, and their rooms were counted as separate houses. In this Census they are treated as members of households and not as separate householders. An effect of the change is doubtless to reduce the apparent number of occupied houses, and more particularly those of one room.

Of the total occupied houses 1,370, or 4·17 per cent., are one-roomed; 6,509, or 19·84 per cent., two-roomed; 8,405, or 25·62 per cent., three-roomed; 4,741, or 14·45 per cent., four-roomed; 4,094, or 12·48 per cent., five-roomed; and 7,687, or 23·43 per cent., of more than five rooms. In 1901 one-roomed houses numbered 2,386, two-roomed houses 8,329, three-roomed houses 8,101, four-roomed houses 4,251, five-roomed houses 3,526, and houses of more than five rooms 6,722. The apparent intercensal differences are very considerable, but, as already pointed out, may be partly accounted for by the different method of enumeration now employed.

In Table XXVII. there is shown the distribution of the population by size of house and by size of household. The facts stated in it are limited to those regarding persons living in houses of less than twenty-five rooms, and in households of less than twenty persons, and consequently the population dealt with is less than that of the entire County.

Of the total population dealt with in that table 3,015, or 1·96 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 24,184, or 15·68 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 38,500, or 24·96 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 22,939, or 14·87 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 20,837, or 13·51 per cent., in five roomed houses; and 44,741, or 29·01 per cent., in houses of more than five rooms.

Of the total population in 1901 42,564, or 26·55 per cent., were on Census day living more than two in a room; 13,954, or 8·70 per cent., more than three in a room; and 4,170, or 2·60 per cent., more than four in a room. By this Census the number living more than two in a room is found to be reduced to 34,716, or 22·5 per cent. of the total population; those living more than three in a room to 9,491, or 6·2 per cent. of the total; and those living more than four in a room to 2,381, or 1·5 per cent. of the total.

Birth-places.—The birth-places of the inhabitants are fully shown in Table XXV., and a condensed and comparative statement regarding them is to be found in Table E.

TOTAL INHABITANTS ( exclusive of those in Aberdeen City ) . . . . .	160,322	159,714	—	608

Of the population of the County, exclusive of the City of Aberdeen, 140,704, or 88·1 per cent., were born in the home county, and 16,328, or 10·2 per cent., in other Scottish counties, the total of Scottish birth being 157,032, or 98·3 per cent. of the entire population. Those born in the home county number 1,568 fewer than in 1901, but those born in other Scottish counties number 575 more than in that year, and the total of Scottish birth shows a decrease of 993. Those of other than Scottish birth in this County number 2,682, or only 1·7 per cent. of the total. Of them 1,697 were of English birth, 337 of Colonial birth, 274 of Irish birth, and 123 of foreign birth; material intercensal changes are found among those of English birth and among foreigners, for the former number 313, or 22·6 per cent., more than in 1901, and the latter 55, or 80·9 per cent. more.

Gaelic Speaking.—No persons speaking Gaelic exclusively were returned in the County, while 527 were returned as speaking Gaelic as well as English. In 1901 2 persons were returned in the County as speaking Gaelic only, and 659 as speaking Gaelic as well as English.

Of those now returned as speaking Gaelic as well as English 294 are males, and 233 females. Of them only 20 were less than twenty years old, while the remaining 507 were over that age. Those returned as born in the County of Aberdeen numbered 141, in Ross and Cromarty 140, in Inverness 118, in the rest of Scotland 125, in England 1, and in Ireland 2.

NOTE.

Where the boundaries of any Burgh have been altered since the Census of 1901, the population of the Burgh as given in the Report on that Census is shown, as also, in italics, for purposes of comparison, the 1901 population of the area now included in the Burgh. The date of alteration in each case is added in parentheses.

* Remainder is in Kincardine County.

TABLE V.—Particulars of Burghs.

This Table is omitted, there being no Burgh in this County sub-divided into Wards except Aberdeen, for particulars of which see Vol. I., Part 4.

See Tables II. and IV.

TABLE XVII.—County of ABERDEEN.—County Districts and Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas in which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

TABLE XXVII.—County of ABERDEEN.—Housing Conditions.

This Table is restricted to facts regarding houses of less than 25 rooms, and to households of less than 20 persons, because larger houses and larger households are not commonly met with outside hotels, common lodging houses, and institutions.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

- |                       |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume :—

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 6.

THE COUNTY OF ARGYLL.

THE most outstanding feature of the Census of this County is a continuing decrease of population. At the time of the first Census of Scotland, 1801, the population of Argyll was ascertained to be 71,859, and by the Censuses of 1811, 1821, and 1831 increases of population were found, the County population at the latter date attaining a maximum of 100,973. All censuses, since 1831, that of 1881 excepted, have, however, shown decreases, and the population now numbers little over 70,000, and is less than in all previous census years. It is 2740, or 3·7 per cent., less than it was in 1901; 4101, or 5·5 per cent., less than in 1891; 5566, or 7·3 per cent., less than in 1881; 4777, or 6·3 per cent., less than in 1871; 8822, or 11·1 per cent., less than in 1861; 18,396, or 20·6 per cent., less than in 1851; 26,469, or 27·2 per cent., less than in 1841; 30,071, or 29·8 per cent., less than in 1831, the year of the maximum population of the County; 26,414, or 27·1 per cent., less than in 1821; 15,639, or 22·1 per cent., less than in 1811; and 10,375, or 14·6 per cent., less than in 1801. Were it not for the temporary presence of some ships of the Royal Navy and their enumeration in the County on census day, these differences would have been even greater. The population of these ships amounted to 1839; and if that number be deducted from the gross population of the County, so as to arrive more nearly at the number of persons actually resident within the County, the census population would be reduced to 69,063, which is 4579, or 6·2 per cent., less than in 1901; 31,910, or 31·6 per cent., less than in 1831; and 12,214, or 15·0 per cent., less than in 1801.

The figures showing the above comparisons are collected in Tables A and B; the entries in them indicate the decreases, or rates of decrease, between the census indicated in the left hand column and those indicated in the top row of the other columns.

TABLE A.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure -2740 indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure -676 in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1871.

The differences are based on the revised statement of the County Populations of the Censuses of 1801 and 1811 as published in the Census Report of 1851. (Vide notes to Table III.)

Of the total population now enumerated—70,902—35,426 are males and 35,476 females. The former are 751 fewer than in 1901, and the latter 1989 fewer. That the decrease in the male population should not be so great as in the female population is no doubt largely attributable to the enumeration and inclusion of shipping of the Royal Navy, for if the male population thus enumerated be deducted from the total male population, an intercensal decrease of 2590 is the result.

Distribution of the Population within the County.—This is most conveniently studied in Table XVIII. in which the populations of the various public health districts of the County are set forth and in which all burghal population is separated from the extraburghal.

Of the total population of the County, 22,483, or 31·7 per cent., were enumerated in the burghs, and 48,419, or 68·3 per cent., in the extraburghal portions of the County. By the 1901 Census, 23,658, or 32·1 per cent., were enumerated in the burghs, and 49,984, or 67·9 per cent., in the extraburghal portions of the County. Thus the burghal population is found to be reduced by 1175, and the extraburghal population by 1565. If the naval population referred to above be deducted from the 1911 extraburghal population for the purpose of giving a fairer comparison, the decrease of extraburghal population is found to amount to 3404.

* This increase is due to the fact that several vessels of H.M. Navy were enumerated in the district in 1911.

There are six burghs, or burghal public health districts, in the County. The most populous is Campbeltown; it has now a population of 7625, which is 661, or 8·0 per cent., less than in 1901. Dunoon is the second in point of population, having now 6859 inhabitants, which is 80, or 1·2 per cent. more than in 1901; and Oban is the third in point of population, having 5557 inhabitants, being 130, or 2·4 per cent., more than in that year. Dunoon and Oban are the only two burghs in the County which are found to have increased in population during the intercensal period. In the Preliminary Report, the population of Oban was stated as 6567, and the intercensal increase as 1140, but in that number the crews of two ships of the Royal Navy were included, those ships being returned as enumerated at Oban; subsequent inquiry, however, showed that neither of those ships was lying in the burghal waters of Oban, but both were anchored at a considerable distance from the burgh, and it has been thought right to deduct their crews from the burghal population, and to include them in the extra-burghal population of the parish.

The remaining three burghs of the County—Inveraray, Lochgilphead, and Tobermory—have populations amounting to 533, 921, and 988 respectively. In all three a decennial decrease is found, that in Inveraray being 145, or 21·4 per cent.; in Lochgilphead, 392, or 29·9 per cent.; and in Tobermory, 187, or 15·9 per cent.

Of the extraburghal public health districts two alone show any apparent increase of population, Cowal and Lorn; but, as these are the districts to which the naval population was credited, the increases must be taken as accidental rather than real. If we deduct the naval population from the Cowal figures, the increase is changed to a decrease of 366, or 4·7 per cent., and a corresponding deduction from the Lorn population changes the increase into a decrease of 142, or 1·4 per cent.

The decrease of population in the Mull District amounts to 765, or 12·4 per cent.; in the Islay District, to 675, or 8·6 per cent.; in the Mid-Argyll District, to 571, or 7·4 per cent.; in the Kintyre District, to 476, or 6·7 per cent.; and in the Ardnamurchan District, to 409, or 12·7 per cent.

Of the total population of the County, 11,087, or 15·6 per cent., is in the Lorn Public Health District; 8194, or 11·6 per cent., in the Cowal District; 7130, or 10·1 per cent., in the Islay District; 7127, or 10·0 per cent., in the Mid-Argyll District; 6660, or 9·4 per cent., in the Kintyre District; 5399, or 7·6 per cent., in the Mull District; and 2822, or 4·0 per cent., in the Ardnamurchan District.

Parish Populations.—There are 39 civil parishes in Argyll, with populations varying between 10,227 in Dunoon and Kilmun, 9497 in Campbeltown, and 7298 in Kilmore and Kilbride, to 217 in Stralachlan, 264 in Kilmodan, and 273 in Colonsay and Oronsay. Taking gains or losses of population of more than 100 as being material changes, and gains or losses of smaller amount as immaterial, it is found that only five of these parishes have materially increased their populations during the intercensal period, while fifteen show material decreases. These increases are found in the parishes of Kilmore and Kilbride, 997, or 15·8 per cent.; Kilfinan, 794, or 41·5 per cent.; Lismore and Appin, 179, or 4·8 per cent.; Ardchattan and Muckairn, 114, or 5·4 per cent.; and Lochgoilhead and Kilmorich, 111, or 16·5 per cent. But the two parishes showing the largest intercensal increases of population, Kilmore and Kilbride, and Kilfinan, are the parishes in which naval shipping was enumerated; and if the amount of that population be deducted, both increases are converted into decreases, that of Kilmore and Kilbride becoming a decrease of 11, and of Kilfinan one of 36. The largest decreases of parish populations are found in Campbeltown, 739; Glassary, 671; and Ardnamurchan, 412; and the highest rates of intercensal decrease are found in Kilmodan, 31·8 per cent.; Ardnamurchan, 21·1 per cent.; and Glassary, 17·8 per cent.

Table D has been constructed for the purpose of showing the loss of population which has occurred in the parishes of the County during the period which has elapsed since the taking of the first census. In it the present population of each parish is compared with the maximum population found at previous censuses, the date of the latter being stated, and the differences found are adjusted to allow for alteration of parish boundaries and for the enumeration of ships of the Royal Navy at this census, these adjustments being necessary for purposes of fair comparison.

In Ardnamurchan County District there are three parishes, and each of them is found to have lost a large proportion of its population, the loss since 1831 in the case of Morvern amounting to 1443, or 67·5 per cent.; in Ardnamurchan, since 1831, to 1769, or 53·4 per cent.; and in Ardgoir, since 1831, to 1427, or 50·6 per cent.

In Cowal District there are seven parishes, and all of them have lost population. The largest loss is found in Kilfinan; since 1871 it amounts to 1219, or 54·7 per cent. In Kilmodan the loss since 1821 is 467, or 63·9 per cent.; and in Lochgoilhead and Kilmorich the loss since 1831 amounts to 414, or 34·6 per cent. In the parish of Dunoon and Kilmun the present population is only 241, or 2·3 per cent., less than the maximum, which was in 1901.

In Islay District there are five parishes, but two of them for this purpose must be considered collectively, as they were not separately dealt with in all previous census reports. All these parishes have lost population; Kilarrow and Kilmeny since 1831 has lost 4553, or 64·1 per cent.; Kilchoman has since 1831 lost 2735, or 56·7 per cent.; Kildalton has since 1841 lost 1667, or 50·3 per cent.; and Colonsay and Oronsay and Jura taken together have since 1841 lost 1456, or 63·3 per cent.

Kintyre County District contains six parishes, and all of them have lost population. The loss in Killean and Kilchenzie since 1821 amounts to 2287, or 69·2 per cent.; in Kilcalmonell, since 1821, to 1478, or 41·3 per cent.; in Southend, since 1831, to 1353, or 63·8 per cent.; in Saddell and Skipness, since 1821, to 1227, or 56·0 per cent.; and in Gigha and Cara, since 1821, to 247, or 53·1 per cent. In Campbeltown the maximum population was in 1901, and since then it has decreased by 763, or 7·4 per cent.

In Lorn County District there are seven parishes, and all of them, Kilmore and Kilbride excepted, show material losses of population. Since 1831 the population of Kilbrandon and Kilchattan has diminished by 1463, or 51·6 per cent.; since 1821 that of Glenorchy and Inishail by 838, or 43·3 per cent.; and since 1821 that of Kilninver and Kilmelford by 696, or 64·1 per cent. Kilmore and Kilbride is one of two parishes in the County with a population in 1911 which is less than 100 below the maximum population found by previous censuses; its population, exclusive of the naval shipping there enumerated, is now only 12 less than the 1901 figure, which is the maximum.

In Mid-Argyll County District there are six parishes, and of them five are found to have lost population to a material amount; while the sixth, South Knapdale, though it has also lost population, shows a loss too small to justify a statement that it is material, the loss amounting to only 74, or 2·7 per cent. In North Knapdale the loss of population since 1821 amounts to 1998, or 75·3 per cent.; in Glassary, since 1851, to 1604, or 34·0 per cent.; in Inveraray, since 1841, to 1081, or 47·3 per cent.; in Kilmartin, since 1831, to 893, or 60·5 per cent.; and in Craignish, since 1801, to 587, or 64·9 per cent.

In Mull County District there are five parishes, and all of them are found to have lost population. In Kilninian and Kilmore the loss since 1831 amounts to 2885, or 59·7 per cent.; in Kilfinichen and Kilvickeon, since 1841, to 2720, or 66·1 per cent.; in Tyree, since 1841, to 2566, or 58·4 per cent.; in Pennygown and Torosay, since 1821, to 1453, or 63·5 per cent.; and in Coll, since 1841, to 1053, or 73·0 per cent.

In the County there are only seven parishes in which the loss of population shown in Table D. is less than 40 per cent., five in which it is between 40 and 50 per cent., eleven in which it is between 50 and 60 per cent., thirteen in which it is between 60 and 70 per cent., and two in which the loss exceeds 70 per cent. The highest rate of loss is found to be in North Knapdale, where the loss amounts to 1998, or 75·3 per cent.; the population in it is now 656, in 1821 it was 2654.

The aggregate population of the mainland parishes of Argyll attained a maximum in 1831, when it was 66,382; exclusive of the naval shipping enumerated by this census the aggregate population of these parishes is now only 55,220, a decrease of 11,162, or 16·8 per cent. The aggregate population of the insular parishes of the County was also greatest in 1831, when it amounted to 34,591; it is now only 13,843, the loss of population in the course of eighty years thus amounting to 20,748, or 60·0 per cent.

Sex and Age-Distribution of the Population.—As already pointed out, the census of the County shows an apparently greater intercensal loss of females than of males, a condition largely attributable to the enumeration of naval shipping. As a result of this, the ratio of females to males has been apparently reduced; in 1901 it was 103·6 to 100, and is now found to be 100·1; but if the number enumerated on board the ships of the Royal Navy be deducted from the total male population, it is found that this ratio is increased and not diminished, for thus calculated the ratio is 105·6 to 100.

A comparison between the male age-distribution of this census with that of the 1901 Census, shows decreases in age-groups of under 20, and of between 40 and 50, but apparent increases in age-groups between 20 and 40, and between 50 and 80, that of 60 to 64 excepted. But this comparison, like that between the relative numbers of the two sexes in this and the previous censuses, is misleading, because it too is materially affected by the enumeration of the naval shipping. The age distribution of those enumerated in this County on board His Majesty's ships is given at the end of Table XXA, and if the numbers there shown be deducted it is found that there has been a loss of population in all male age-groups of under 50. Subject to the deduction of this shipping population the decrease in male age-group 15 to 19 amounts to 354, or 8·9 per cent.; in age-group 20 to 24, to 270, or 9·2 per cent.; in age-group 25 to 29, to 245, or 9·5 per cent.; in age-group 30 to 34, to 154, or 6·6 per cent.; in age-group 35 to 39, to 105, or 4·7 per cent.; in age-group 40 to 44, to 214, or 10·0 per cent.; and in age-group 45 to 49, to 52, or 2·7 per cent. The net decrease of population in all age-groups under 20 exceeded 10 per cent., and was greatest in age-group under 5, in which it amounted to 15·2 per cent.

Among the age-groups of the female population decreases are found in all under 45, and increases in all over that age, with the exception of age-group 60 to 64, the largest relative decreases being in age-groups of under 25, each of which amounts to more than 9 per cent., and the largest relative increases being in age-groups 55 to 59, and 70 to 74, where they amount to 9·0 and 22·8 per cent. respectively.

Occupations.—The occupations followed in largest numbers by the male population are those connected with agriculture and fishing. In a County such as Argyll these cannot be satisfactorily separated; for many men, more especially those returning themselves as fishermen-crofters, follow both classes of occupation. The total number of males describing themselves as following fishing and agricultural occupations is 7321, or 25·2 per cent. of the total male population of over ten years of age. In 1901 the corresponding figure was 8232, and thus those enumerated in these groups of occupations now number 911, or 11·1 per cent. less than was the case ten years ago. Those returned as Fishermen number 1342, or 532 less than in 1901; as Farmers or Graziers, 1091, or 107 less; as Sons of Farmers and Graziers and working on the farms, 516, or 77 less; as Crofters and their Sons working on the crofts, 967, or 208 more; as Grieves, 172, or 11 more; as Shepherds, 856, or 89 less; and as Agricultural Labourers, 2377, or 325 less.

Other occupations followed by comparatively large numbers are Stone Quarriers, Cutters, and Dressers, 652; Carpenters and Joiners, 646; Seamen in Merchant Service, 544; Gardeners, 540; Miscellaneous Metal Workers, mostly in aluminium works, 448; and Gamekeepers, 446.

Occupations of males showing the greatest intercensal increase are those of Miscellaneous Metal Workers, 446; Stone Quarriers, Dressers, and Cutters, 283; and Road Labourers, 75. Occupations showing the greatest intercensal decreases are those of Fishermen, 532; Slate Quarriers, 484; Seamen in Merchant Service, 450; Agricultural Labourers, 325; and Masons and their Labourers, 300.

The occupation most largely followed by the female section of the population is that of domestic service, for out of the total number returned as having some remunerative occupation, 3114, or 41·7 per cent., are described as in domestic service. Next to domestic service the group of occupations giving the most employment to females is that connected with agriculture, 1131 females being returned as so occupied. Of these, 103 are returned as Farmers or Graziers, 410 as Daughters of Farmers and employed on farms, 60 as Crofters, 124 as Daughters of Crofters and working on the crofts, and 434 as Farm Servants. Beyond these two occupations there are only two others in the County giving employment to more than 200 females, the one being dressmaking and the other teaching, 431 being returned as Dressmakers and 329 as Teachers.

Female occupations showing some intercensal increase are Farmers' Daughters working on the farms, an increase of 117; Sick Nurses, who now number 171, and are 73 more than in 1901; Crofters' Daughters working on the crofts, an increase of 69; and Commercial Clerks, who now number 131, and are 52 more than at the 1901 Census. Female occupations showing decennial decreases are Dressmakers, 251; Farm Servants, 196; Crofters, 124; and Laundry Workers, 88. The last named now number 173; in 1901 they numbered 261.

Among the occupied males of this County, 18 were returned as Kelp-gatherers; they were all enumerated on the islands of Coll and Tyree. Of these, 15 are described as working on their own account, 2 as working for employers, and in one instance the occupational status is not stated. Of the 18, 5 are under 25 years of age, 3 between 25 and 44, and 10 between 45 and 64.

Industries.—The Industries and Services to which most of the occupied males are attached are Agriculture, 6545; Naval and Military Service, 1901; House Building and Decorating, 1538; Fishing, 1402; Domestic and Institution Service, 1328; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 1108; and Shipping, 1057; these being the only industries in the County which give employment to more than a thousand males. The only industries giving employment to large numbers of females are Domestic and Institution Service, 3496; and Agriculture, 1131.

Housing.—Houses enumerated in Argyll number 15,766. Of these, 921, or 5·8 per cent., are one-roomed; 4661, or 29·6 per cent., two-roomed; 3522, or 22·3 per cent., three-roomed; 2092, or 13·3 per cent., four-roomed; 1470, or 9·3 per cent., five-roomed; and 3100, or 19·7 per cent., more than five-roomed. Compared with the corresponding figures of last census, one-roomed houses are 900 fewer, and two-roomed houses 761 fewer; but three-roomed houses are 246 more, four-roomed houses 287 more, five-roomed houses 210 more, and houses of more than five rooms 217 more. These differences, however, may be largely due to the method of enumerating houses at this census being different from that used in the 1901 Census, for in the latter lodgers were treated as independent householders, while in this census they were treated as members of households, their rooms not being counted as separate houses. This change has no doubt resulted in the enumeration of fewer one- and two-roomed houses and in the enumeration of more houses of larger size.

Of the total population of the County enumerated in houses of less than 25 rooms and in households of less than 20 persons, 2135, or 3·2 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 18,248, or 27·6 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 15,312, or 23·2 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 9197, or 13·9 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 6300, or 9·5 per cent., in five-roomed houses; and 14,947, or 22·6 per cent., in houses of more than five rooms.

Of the total population enumerated in houses, and included in Table XXVII., 47,496, or 71·8 per cent., live in the proportion of less than two in a room; 18,643, or 28·2 per cent., of more than two in a room; 7616, or 11·5 per cent., of more than three in a room; and 2569, or 3·9 per cent., of more than four in a room. At the time of the 1901 Census, in this County 33·0 per cent. of the population were living in the proportion of more than two in a room; 14·7 per cent. of more than three in a room; and 5·9 per cent. of more than four in a room; and thus by this census the proportion of the population found to be living in the more overcrowded conditions is smaller.

It is satisfactory to be able to report the entire absence of windowless houses in all parts of this County. In 1861 such houses in Argyll numbered 414; in the next three censuses their number was small, being 10, 13, and 5; and in 1901, as at this census, no such houses were enumerated.

Birthplaces.—The birthplaces of the inhabitants of the County are collected in Tables XXV. and G, the latter being a short and comparative statement. Of the total population, 48,739, or 68·8 per cent., were born within the County of Argyll; 17,440, or 24·6 per cent., in other Scottish Counties; 3,126, or 4·4 per cent., in England; 1,022, or 1·4 per cent., in Ireland; and 575, or 0·8 per cent., elsewhere. Compared with the corresponding figures of last census, those of home birth number 4840, or 9·0 per cent., less; those born in other Scottish Counties, 49, or 0·3 per cent., more; in England, 1,865, or 147·9 per cent., more; and in Ireland, 115, or 12·9 per cent., more. But these comparisons are to some extent misleading, for the returns of this census are loaded with a naval population which chanced to be enumerated in Argyllshire waters, and these apparent changes are largely due to that cause. If the differences be adjusted by deducting the number included in the naval population, those of English birth are found to number only 266 more than in 1901, and those of Irish birth only 20 more, while those born in Scottish Counties other than Argyll are found to number 12 fewer.

Gaelic Speaking.—As Argyll is one of the Scottish counties in which Gaelic is largely used, we have thought it right to give to the statistics of Gaelic speakers more prominence in this section than in the previously issued sections of the Census Report, and for this purpose we have abstracted the principal facts regarding Gaelic speakers in the County, not only in the returns of the present census, but also in those of the censuses of 1881, 1891, and 1901.

Gaelic speakers in Argyll number 31,695, and constitute 44·7 per cent. of the total population. In 1901 they numbered 40,577, or 52·1 per cent. of the total. Those now returned as speaking both Gaelic and English number 30,340, and as speaking Gaelic only 1355, the former being 6694, or 18·1 per cent., less than in 1901, and the latter 2168, or 61·8 per cent., less.

Table H has been constructed to show the distribution of the Gaelic speaking population of the County. In the mainland parishes the highest proportions of the population with a knowledge of Gaelic are found in Ardnamurchan, 86·7 per cent.; Kilbrandon and Kilchattan, 86·6 per cent.; in North Knapdale, 75·8 per cent.; in Ardgour, 74·0 per cent.; and in Morvern, 70·5 per cent.; while the smallest proportions are found in Campbeltown, 7·8 per cent.; in Dunoon and Kilmun, 8·0 per cent.; and in Southend, 8·5 per cent. In the insular parishes this proportion does not vary so widely, the limits being 92·3 per cent. in Tyree, and 73·6 per cent. in Pennygown and Torosay. In Colonsay and Oronsay it is 91·6 per cent. ; in Kilchoman, 87·2 per cent. ; in Jura, 86·2 per cent. ; in Kildalton, 82·2 per cent. ; in Kilfinichen and Kilvickeon, 80·4 per cent. ; in Kilarrow and Kilmeny, 79·0 per cent. ; in Kilninian and Kilmore, 78·6 per cent. ; in Gigha and Cara, 77·9 per cent. ; and in Coll, 76·4 per cent.

* These numbers, and the rates based thereon, are exclusive of men of the Royal Navy.

Persons in the mainland parishes speaking Gaelic only are relatively most numerous in the parishes of Ardnamurchan, 9·5 per cent. ; in Ardgour, 3·4 per cent. ; in Kilbrandon and Kilchattan, 3·4 per cent. ; and in North Knapdale, 3·0 per cent. In six of the mainland parishes no persons are returned as speaking Gaelic alone and not English, these six being Inverchaolain, Kilchrenan and Dalavich, Kilmodan, Lochgoilhead and Kilmorich, Saddell and Skipness, and Stralachlan. In the insular parishes the largest number of persons speaking Gaelic only is found in Tyree, where 319, or 17·5 per cent. of the population, are so returned. Other insular parishes with large numbers of persons speaking Gaelic only are Kilchoman, 168, or 8·0 per cent.; and Kilfinichen and Kilvickeon, 124, or 8·8 per cent. In 1901 the insular parishes with the largest number of persons speaking Gaelic only were Tyree, 894, or 40·7 per cent.; Kilchoman, 394, or 16·7 per cent.; Kilfinichen and Kilvickeon, 207, or 13·5 per cent.; and Kilninian and Kilmore, 204, or 9·0 per cent.

The age-distribution of persons in the insular parishes who are returned as speaking Gaelic only is shown in Table J. In it the effect of attendance at school is very clearly brought out. Of the children of less than school age nearly one half, 44·0 per cent., are returned as speaking only Gaelic, and that proportion diminishes rapidly during school ages, falling to 12·4 per cent. in children of between 5 and 9, to 1·1 per cent. in children of between 10 and 14, and to 0·7 per cent. in young persons of between 15 and 19. From 20 to 35 this proportion varies only slightly, but from 35 onwards it steadily increases, and in age-groups of over 60 is found to be of comparatively large amount. In age-group 40 to 44 it is 3·3 per cent.; in age-group 50 to 54, 5·5; in age-group 60 to 64, 8·2; in age-group 70 to 74, 15·1; and in age-group of over 80, 24·9. It seems reasonable to ascribe the lowness of the proportion of persons speaking Gaelic only in age-groups between 10 and 60, when compared with the figures in age-groups of over 60, to the effects of modern schooling, and to anticipate a further marked reduction when the census of 1921 comes to be taken.

* Ratio in 1891 being taken as = 100.

Table J has been constructed for the purpose of comparing the number of persons in these insular parishes of the County who speak Gaelic but are unable to speak English with the corresponding numbers at the Censuses of 1891 and 1901, and in it the great decrease of them is very evident. The number of such persons in 1891 was 3548, in 1901 it was 2101, and by this census is found to be 909. The reduction between 1891 and 1901 amounted to 1447, or 40·8 per cent., and between 1891 and 1911 to 2639, or 74·4 per cent. This reduction, however, has not been equally distributed in all age-groups, but is most marked in those age-groups which contain the section of the population who are of school age or a little more. Among children of less than school age—those of three and four years old—the relative number of them able to speak Gaelic but unable to speak English has fallen from 567 per thousand to 440 per thousand, a decrease of only 22·4 per cent., while as soon as the school ages are reached the decrease becomes much more marked; in age-group 5 to 9 it amounts to 58·8 per cent., in age-group 10 to 14 to 92·3 per cent., and in age-group 15 to 19 to 93·7 per cent. From age-group 20 to 24 up to age-group 50 to 54 the amount of the decrease, though not as great as in the younger age-groups, remains high, and fluctuates between 91·5 per cent. in age-group 30 to 34, and 80·8 per cent. in age-group 40 to 44. But in age-groups of over 50 the amount of the decrease is found to vary inversely as the age; the older the age the less the reduction. In age-group 50 to 54, the ratio of persons unable to speak English to each thousand of the enumerated population has during the twenty years been reduced from 251 to 55, a fall of 78·1 per cent.; in age-group 60 to 64, from 322 to 82, a fall of 74·5 per cent.; in age-group 70 to 74, from 430 to 151, a fall of 64·9 per cent.; and in age-group of over 80, from 505 to 249, a fall of 51·7 per cent. The apparent effect of schooling in diminishing the number of persons unable to speak English has been much more marked in the intercensal period 1901 to 1911 than in the period 1891 to 1901. In 1891 and 1901 the minimum number of persons unable to speak English was found in age-group 25 to 29, the presumption being that a considerable number of persons did not acquire a knowledge of that language till after they had ceased to attend school, but by this census the minimum number of such persons is found in school ages and those immediately succeeding them.

The figures given in the above paragraph clearly show that the number of Gaelic-speaking persons in these parishes who are unable to speak English is a disappearing quantity, but it does not follow that the knowledge of Gaelic, or the habitual use of Gaelic, is also a disappearing quantity. That the use of Gaelic is not becoming extinct is well shown by the figures included in Table H, for as a result of the census now taken it is found that no less than 86·5 per cent. of the population in the Islands of over three years of age still speak Gaelic, and the fact that so large a proportion can speak the language may be taken as proof that its use remains prevalent. Both the actual number of Gaelic speakers and the ratio they bear to the total population have been reduced in recent years, but the reduction is small, and certainly insufficient to warrant an opinion that the use of Gaelic is being abandoned. In 1881, the year of the first census in which Gaelic speakers were specially enumerated, such persons in insular parishes of Argyll numbered 16,680, and constituted 97·5 per cent. of the population of over three years of age; in 1891 they numbered 14,866, and constituted 93·3 per cent. of that population; in 1901, they numbered 12,988, and constituted 88·9 per cent. of that population; and in 1911 they are found to number 11,432, and to amount to 86·5 per cent. The total reduction in their number in thirty years amounts to 5248, or 31·5 per cent., but a considerable part of that reduction is attributable to the general loss of population by these parishes during the period, for the ratio they bear to each thousand of the population of over three years of age has only declined from 975 to 865, a reduction of 110, or 11·3 per cent.

* The asterisk denotes that a change of boundaries was made in the intercensal period.

† The figures given in this Table for the years 1801 to 1891 are the Census populations of that part of Kilmallie Parish then within the County of Argyll. By order of the Boundary Commissioners a portion of it containing a population of 715 was in 1892 transferred to the County of Inverness, and from and embracing the whole of the remainder the Parish of Ardgour was erected by order of the Secretary for Scotland in 1895.

‡ The populations of these parishes were not given in the Census Report for 1801, no returns having been received.

§ The totals of the County for 1801 and 1811 here given, differ from those stated in the Preliminary Report on the Census of 1911. The figures in this Table are taken from the Census Reports for the years to which they refer, and the figures in Table II. of the Preliminary Report from a retrospective table given in the Census Report for 1851. The revision in 1851 resulted in an addition of 9418 to the 1801 population, and of 956 to the 1811 population.

NOTE.

Where the boundaries of any Registration District have been altered since last Census, the 1901 Population of the Registration District as altered is shown in italics, and the date of alteration is shown in parentheses against the name of the Registration District. The first county total for 1901 is that given in the Report on that Census; and the second county total is that to be compared with the 1911 total, as it allows for adjustments between Civil and Registration Counties.

TABLE VIII.—County of ARGYLL—Particulars of Registration Districts.

This Table shows the distribution of Registration District populations into Parishes, into Burghal and extra-Burghal portions, and into Mainland and Insular portions. Registration Districts not appearing in the Table are not so divided. The Table also shows the grouping of Registration Districts, or parts of Registration Districts, into the respective Parishes of which they form part.

TABLE XVII.—County of ARGYLL—County Districts and Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts:—

- |                      |                         |                    |                        |
|----------------------|-------------------------|--------------------|------------------------|
| 1. Edinburgh.        | 11. Caithness.          | 20. Inverness.     | 29. Perth.             |
| 2. Glasgow.          | 12. Clackmannan.        | 21. Kincardine.    | 30. Renfrew.           |
| 3. Dundee.           | 13. Dumbarton.          | 22. Kinross.       | 31. Ross and Cromarty. |
| 4. Aberdeen (City).  | 14. Dumfries.           | 23. Kirkcudbright. | 32. Roxburgh.          |
| 5. Aberdeen (County) | 15. Edinburgh (County). | 24. Lanark.        | 33. Selkirk.           |
| 6. Argyll.           | 16. Elgin.              | 25. Linlithgow.    | 34. Shetland.          |
| 7. Ayr.              | 17. Fife.               | 26. Nairn.         | 35. Stirling.          |
| 8. Banff.            | 18. Forfar.             | 27. Orkney.        | 36. Sutherland.        |
| 9. Berwick.          | 19. Haddington.         | 28. Peebles.       | 37. Wigtown.           |
| 10. Bute.            |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume:—

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 7.

THE COUNTY OF AYR.

Ayrshire is one of the Scottish Counties in which, since the taking of the first Census, there has been a continuous increase of population. In 1801 the population of the County was 84,306, in 1811 it exceeded 100,000, in 1841 it exceeded 150,000, in 1871 it exceeded 200,000, in 1901 it exceeded 250,000, and it is now found to have reached a maximum of 268,337, a figure fully three times as large as that of 1801, and more than twice as large as that of 1821. The intercensal changes of population are fully shown in Tables A, B, and C.

Of the present population, 268,337, 130,196 are males, and 138,141 females. The intercensal increase of the total population is 13,869, or 5·5 per cent., that of the male population being 4,927, or 3·9 per cent., and of the female population 8,942, or 6·9 per cent. The intercensal increase found by the 1901 Census amounted to 28,185, or 12·5 per cent., and thus the increase found by this Census, though substantial, is markedly less than that found to have occurred in the previous decade.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure +13,869 indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure +25,474 in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1871.

The differences are based on the revised statement of the County Populations of the Censuses of 1801 and 1811 as published in the Census Report of 1851. (Vide notes to Table III.)

Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the total population of the County, 141,726 or 52.8 per cent. were enumerated within burghs, and 126,611, or 47.2 per cent. in the extra-burghal or Landward Districts. If these populations be compared with the amount of the burghal and extra-burghal populations found in 1901, the burghal population is found to have increased by 14,324, or 11.2 per cent., while the extra-burghal population is found to have decreased by 455, or 0.4 per cent. But, during the intercensal period, the boundaries of three burghs within the County were enlarged, and if the population within the area, now covered by the burghs, be compared with the population of the same area in 1901, the result is that an increase of burghal population amounting to 10,828, or 8.3 per cent. is found, and if the population of the area of the extra-burghal, or landward parts, as now delimited, be compared with the population of the same area in 1901, an increase amounting to 3,041, or 2.5 per cent. is found.

The extra-burghal portion of the County is, for public health purposes, divided into four Public Health Districts, and if the 1901 populations of these districts be adjusted to allow for alterations of boundaries during the preceding ten years a decrease of population is found in one, while in three there are increases. In Ayr (extra-burghal) Public Health District, the population is now 42,233, and is 2,973, or 7.6 per cent. more than in 1901; in Carrick Public Health District, it is now 12,996, and is 426, or 3.4 per cent. more than in 1901; in Kilmarnock (extra-burghal) Public Health District, it is now 23,979, or 418, or 1·7 per cent. less than in 1901; and in the Northern Public Health District, it is now 47,403, or 60, or 0·1 per cent. more than in 1901.

Burghs.—There are sixteen burghs in the County, and of these thirteen are found to have increased in population during the intercensal period, while three have decreased.

The most populous burghs in the County are Kilmarnock and Ayr. The population of Kilmarnock is now 34,728, and is 563, or 1·6 per cent. more than in 1901; that of Ayr is now 32,986, and is 4,289, or 14·9 per cent. more than in 1901. Next to these two burghs in point of population come Irvine, 10,179; Saltcoats, 8,585; Troon, 6,628; Ardrossan, 5,760; and Galston, 5,296.

The burghs with the largest relative increases of population are Prestwick, where the intercensal increase amounts to 51·9 per cent.; Troon, where it is 39·1 per cent.; Darvel, 16·9 per cent.; Ayr, 14·9 per cent.; Largs, 11·4 per cent.; and Girvan, 11·2 per cent. Intercensal decreases of population are found in Maybole, 1,003, or 17·0 per cent.; Ardrossan, 317, or 5·2 per cent.; and Stewarton, 78, or 2·7 per cent.; this last comparison being between the present population of that burgh and the 1901 population of the district now included within it, there having been an alteration of boundary during the period.

Civil Parishes.—There are 44 parishes in the County ranging in amount of population from Ayr, 36,229; Kilmarnock, 33,817; Ardrossan, 11,720; and Stevenston 10,733; to Barr, 521; Craigie, 538; and Symington, 639. Of the 44, 23 are found to have increased their population during the intercensal period by at least 100, while 10 have lost population by at least that amount. The largest increases are found in Ayr, where it amounts to 4,692; in Dundonald, 2,638; in Monkton and Prestwick, 1,791; and in Stevenston, 1,236. The highest rates of intercensal increase are found in Monkton and Prestwick, 46·5 per cent.; in Straiton, 24·6 per cent.; in Dundonald, 23·4 per cent.; and in Coylton, 19·7 per cent. The greatest decreases of parish population are found in Maybole, 985; in Beith, 824; in Dalry, 794; and in Muirkirk, 688. The highest rates of intercensal decrease are found to be in Stair, 18·4 per cent.; in Maybole, 12·5 per cent.; in Dunlop, 12·3 per cent.; in Muirkirk, 12·1 per cent.; and in Beith, 11·0 per cent.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The population of the County of Ayr vote in five parliamentary constituencies, two being burghal and three county.

The population in the Ayr Burghs Constituency, so far as within the County, amounts to 40,671, or 15·2 per cent., of that of the whole County, and includes the entire population of the Burgh of Irvine, and the greater part of that of the Burgh of Ayr. The population of this constituency, so far as within the County, has increased by 4,069, or 11·1 per cent., during the intercensal period.

The population in Kilmarnock Burghs Constituency, so far as within the County, numbers 34,358, or 12·8 per cent. of the entire population of the County. It has increased by 193—being only 0·6 per cent.—during the intercensal period. This constituency includes the greater part of the Burgh of Kilmarnock, the remainder of that Burgh being in North Ayrshire.

The population included in the North Ayrshire Constituency amounts to 89,826, or 33·5 per cent. of that of the entire County, and has increased by 1,736, or 2·0 per cent. during the intercensal period.

The population of the South Ayrshire Constituency amounts to 103,407, or 38·5 per cent. of that of the entire County. The decennial increase in it amounts to 7,884, or 8·3 per cent.

The population of the County in West Renfrewshire Constituency is small. It is that of parts of the parishes of Beith and Dunlop which were transferred from the County of Renfrew to that of Ayr by Order of the Boundary Commission, and only amounts to 75.

Age and Sex Distribution of the Population.—As already pointed out the intercensal increase of females in the County is found to be greater than that of males, and as a result the relative proportion of females to males has increased. In 1901 the ratio was 103·1 females to 100 males—it is now found to be 106·1 to 100.

The increase of the male population has not been evenly distributed in all age-groups. In age-groups 0 to 4, 20 to 24, and 25 to 29, there was no increase but a decrease, that in age-group 0 to 4 amounting to 692, or 4·2 per cent., in age-group 20 to 24 to 603, or 5·0 per cent., and in age-group 25 to 29 to 369, or 3·7 per cent. There was also some loss of population in some age-groups of over 75. The largest decennial increases in the male population are found in age-group 35 to 39, 1,324, or 18·5 per cent.; in age-group 55 to 59, 904, or 25·8 per cent.; and in age-group 50 to 54, 785, or 17·0 per cent. The decrease of population in the younger working age-groups and the increase in the older age-groups are not exceptional, the same results having been established in the City populations and in the populations of the other Counties already reported on.

The increase in the female population has been more uniformly distributed, for, putting the doubtful age-group of over 100 aside, there are only two age-groups in which an increase of population is not found, the one being that of 0 to 4, and the other that of 20 to 24, the loss in the former amounting to 670, or 4·1 per cent., and in the latter to 91, or 0·7 per cent. The largest increases are found in age-groups 30 to 34, 35 to 39, and 40 to 44, amounting to 1,021, or 11·4 per cent., 1,422, or 18·7 per cent., and 1,058, or 16·0 per cent. respectively.

The comparatively heavy loss of male population in ages between 20 and 29, without a corresponding loss of female population in those ages, results in an increase of the ratio of females to males in the age-groups affected. In age-group 20 to 24 that ratio is found to have increased from 103·0 females to 100 males, to 107·7 to 100, and in age-group 25 to 29 from 104·6 to 114·2.

Occupations.—Of the total male population of over ten years of age, 80,894, or 82·0 per cent., were returned as following some remunerative occupation, and of the female population 30,728, or 28·8 per cent., were returned as similarly occupied. Occupied males in the County number 1,957, or 2·5 per cent., more than in 1901, and occupied females 234, or 0·8 per cent., more.

A comparison between the number of occupied males in the age-groups of this Census with those of 1901 shows that increases are restricted to the older groups. In each of the male age-groups of under 25, there is a decrease in the number of those occupied; in age-group 10 to 13 that number has fallen from 1,336 to 137; in age-group 14 to 19, from 15,139 to 14,421; and in age-group 20 to 24, from 11,830 to 11,136; but in the age-groups of over 25, there are increases. The number of occupied in age-group 25 to 44 is now 33,599, and is 1,928 more than in 1901; in age-group 45 to 64 it is now 18,269, or 2,415 more than in 1901; and in age-group of 65 and over it is now 3,330, or 223 more than in 1901.

Regarding occupied females, similar decreases are found in age-groups under 19, and decreases are also found in age-groups of over 45, increases being limited to age-groups between 20 and 44. Occupied females under 14 now number only 91, and are 526 fewer than in 1901, in age-group 14 to 19 they now number 10,591, and are 303 fewer than in 1901; but in age-groups 20 to 24 and 25 to 44, they number 7,375 and 9,034 respectively, and are 348 and 1,007 respectively more than in 1901. In age-group 45 to 64, occupied females now number 2,911, and in age-group over 65, 725, the former figure being 149, and the latter 144 less than in 1901.

The occupations followed in greatest numbers by males in the County are those connected with mining,—16,452, or 20·3 per cent. of the occupied males being returned as following one or other of them. The corresponding figure in 1901 was 15,300, and thus 1,152 more males in this County now follow these occupations than was the case in that year. Of the 16,452 so occupied, 9,396 were returned as Hewers, 3,806 as Workers other than Hewers below Ground, and 1,268 as Workers above Ground.

Next to the mining occupations, those connected with Agriculture give the most employment to men,—8,341, or 10·3 per cent. of those occupied being so returned, a number which is 341 in excess of that of 1901. Of these, 2,093 were returned as Farmers or Graziers, 974 as their Sons or Relatives assisting on the Farms, and 3,629 as Agricultural Labourers.

Engineering trades and house-building trades are also followed by large sections of the male population, the number returned as belonging to the former being 6,497, or 462 more than in 1901, and to the latter 5,644, or 1,405 fewer than in that year. Among those following the house-building trades there are 1,876 Carpenters and Carpenters' Labourers; 819 Painters and Paperhangers; 1,080 Masons and Masons' Labourers; and 618 Plumbers and Gasfitters. Comparison with the corresponding figures of 1901 shows large decreases in the numbers of masons and carpenters; if with the number returned as masons there be included those returned as builders, as bricklayers, and as masons', builders', and bricklayers' labourers, the decrease is found to amount to 717, or 29·5 per cent.; and if with the number returned as carpenters and joiners the labourers of that trade be included, the decrease is found to amount to 646, or 25·6 per cent.

Other occupations followed by large numbers are Workers in Lace Manufacture, 1,820; Vanmen and Carters, 1,628; Bootmakers, 1,563; and Clerks, 1,385. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Workers in Lace Manufacture number 557 more; Vanmen and Carters 38 more; Bootmakers 333 fewer; and Clerks 82 more.

Of the occupied females of the County, 7,589, or 24·7 per cent. are returned as in domestic service, a number which is 511 less than in 1901. Those engaged in agricultural occupation number 2,365, and are 714, or 23·2 per cent. less than in that year.

Other occupations followed by large numbers of females are Workers in Lace Manufacture, 2,214; Dressmakers, 2,041; Workers in Hosiery Manufacture, 1,115; Teachers, 998; and Clerks, 912. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Workers in Lace Manufacture are 1,257, or 131·3 per cent. more; those in Hosiery Manufacture, 449, or 67·4 per cent. more; Teachers, 129, or 14·8 per cent. more; and Clerks, 503, or 123·0 per cent. more; but Dressmakers are 644, or 24·0 per cent. fewer.

Of the married women in the County, 1,015, or 2·4 per cent., and of the widows, 1,842, or 19·3 per cent., are returned as having some remunerative occupation. The group of occupations followed by most married and widowed women is that of domestic service, 115 married women, and 237 widows, being so returned. Other than domestic service, there is no occupation in the County giving employment to as many as one hundred married women. Occupations followed by more than one hundred widows include Farmers, 124; Agricultural Labourers, 120; and Charwomen, 154.

Industries.—The industries to which the occupied are attached, and which are defined as the occupations of the employers, are collected in Table XXIV. Those giving most employment to males are Coal Industry, 15,491; Iron Manufacture, 8,836; Agriculture, 8,478; House Building and Decorating, 5,040; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 5,009; and Railway Service, 4,321. And those giving most employment to females are Domestic and Institution Service, 8,574; Thread, Hosiery, and Textile Industries, 4,547; Tailoring and Dressmaking, 2,603; Agriculture, 2,364; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 1,784 ; Wool Industry, 1,522 ; and Local Government Services, 1,011 ; the last named including most of the female teachers of the County.

The occupations and industries of the two large burghs in the County, Ayr and Kilmarnock, have been separately tabulated, and may be seen in Tables XXIIb. (1) and (2), and XXIVb. (1) and (2). A comparison between these tables shows that among males there is a much greater concentration into one group of occupations, and into one industry, in Kilmarnock than in Ayr. In Kilmarnock, 2,905, or 26·9 per cent. of the occupied males, are found to follow occupations connected with the Industry of Iron Manufacture, while the greatest number of males in Ayr in one industry is 985, or 10·5 per cent., which number is found in the Industry of the Preparation and Sale of Food. Of occupied females in Ayr, 1,466, or 32·9 per cent., are in domestic service, while in Kilmarnock only 746, or 17·2 per cent., are so employed.

Birth-places.—Of the total population of the County, 250,695, or 93·4 per cent., were born in Scotland, 6,596 in England or Wales, 8,390 in Ireland, and 2,656 elsewhere. Of those born in Scotland, 201,663 were returned as born within the County of Ayr, and 49,032 in other Scottish Counties.

Compared with the returns of the 1901 Census, those born in the home county are 10,055, or 5.2 per cent., more; those born in other Scottish counties, 4,376, or 9.8 per cent., more; but those born elsewhere are 562 fewer. Those of English birth have, during the intercensal period, increased from 5,359 to 6,443, an increase of 1,084, or 20.2 per cent.; those of colonial birth from 600 to 725, an increase of 125, or 20.8 per cent.; and those of foreign birth, other than British subjects, from 851 to 1,310, an increase of 459, or 53.9 per cent.; but those of Irish birth have decreased from 10,632 to 8,390, a fall of 2,242, or 21.1 per cent.

Housing.—Occupied houses enumerated in the County number 55,975, unoccupied houses, 5,262, and houses in course of erection, 191. The occupied houses of the County are found to number 4,462, or 8.7 per cent. more than in 1901. Unoccupied houses in 1901 numbered 3,705, and have increased by 1,557, or 42.0 per cent., but houses in course of construction, which in 1901 numbered 548, have decreased by 357, or 65.1 per cent.

Of the total occupied houses in the County, 8,061, or 14.4 per cent. are one-roomed; 23,491, or 42.0 per cent., two-roomed; 9,459, or 16.9 per cent., three-roomed; 4,778, or 8.5 per cent., four-roomed; 3,017, or 5.4 per cent., five-roomed; and 7,169, or 12.8 per cent., have more than five rooms. Compared with the returns of the previous Census, one-roomed houses are 1,874 fewer; two-roomed houses 1,989 more; three-roomed houses, 1,654 more; four-roomed houses, 628 more; five-roomed houses, 515 more; and houses of more than five rooms, 803 more. On account of the change of method in preparing housing statistics, however, these comparisons are not strictly accurate; in 1901 lodgers were treated as householders, while in preparing this Report, they were not treated as householders, but as members of households, a change tending to reduce the number of smaller houses, and increase the number of larger ones.

Of the total population, exclusive of those living in institutions or in houses of more than 25 rooms (vide Table XXVIIA.), 26,896, or 10.3 per cent. live in one-roomed houses; 114,093, or 43.6 per cent. in two-roomed houses; 46,808, or 17.9 per cent. in three-roomed houses; 23,204, or 8.9 per cent. in four-roomed houses; 14,564, or 5.5 per cent. in five-roomed houses; and 36,408, or 13.8 per cent. in houses of more than five rooms.

Of the population dealt with in Table XXVIIA., 133,515, or 51.0 per cent. were by the Census found to be living less than two in a room, while 128,458, or 49.0 per cent. were found to be living more than two in a room; 192,233, or 73.4 per cent. less than three in a room, and 69,740, or 26.6 per cent. more than three in a room; 230,310, or 87.9 per cent. were found to be living less than four in a room, and 31,663, or 12.1 per cent. more than four in a room. In 1901, 124,514, or 48.9 per cent. of the population of the County were living less than two in a room; 129,954, or 51.1 per cent. more than two in a room; 73,878, or 29.0 per cent. more than three in a room; and 35,613, or 14.0 per cent. more than four in a room. The comparison shows that the housing conditions of the population have improved during the period, the numbers living in the more crowded conditions, and the ratios of those numbers to the total population, being both reduced.

Contingency tables showing the housing conditions in the two large burghs of the County, Ayr and Kilmarnock, have been prepared, and may be seen in Tables XXVIIb (1) and (2). In Ayr, 58·1 per cent. live less than two in a room, 41·9 per cent. more than two in a room; 20·4 per cent. more than three in a room; and 7·6 per cent. more than four in a room. The corresponding ratios in Kilmarnock are 44·8, 55·2, 30·4, and 14·0 respectively. In the County, exclusive of those two large burghs, these percentages are 50·9, 49·1, 27·0, and 12·5. Thus the numbers of those living in the more crowded conditions are relatively greater in Kilmarnock than in the entire County, in Ayr Burgh, and in the County exclusive of the two large burghs, and the numbers so living in Ayr Burgh are smaller than those in the entire County, and in the County exclusive of the two large burghs.

Gaelic Speakers.—The Census returns show that of the total population of the County, 1,435, or 0·6 per cent. have a knowledge of Gaelic, but that there are none speaking Gaelic who are unable to speak English. In 1901, there were 17 returned as speaking Gaelic but not English, and 1,689 as speaking both Gaelic and English. An examination of the birth-places of the Gaelic speakers has shown that the majority of them were born in the Counties of Argyll, Inverness, and Ross and Cromarty, but it also has shown that a considerable section, 72 or 5·0 per cent., were of Irish birth, and are, therefore, presumably speakers of Irish, not Scottish, Gaelic.

* The asterisk denotes that an alteration was made on the Parish or the County boundary in the intercensal period.

† Parish partly in the County of Renfrew, but the population was returned in 1801 and 1811 as entirely in the County of Ayr.

‡ The figures for 1801 and 1811 differ from those stated in the Preliminary Report on the Census of 1911. The figures in this Table were extracted from the Census Reports for the years to which they refer, while the figures in Table II. of the Preliminary Report were extracted from a retrospective Table given in the Census Report for 1851.

NOTE.

Where the boundaries of any Registration District have been altered since the Census of 1901, the population of the District as given in the Report on that Census is shown, as also, in italics, for purposes of comparison, the 1901 population of the area now included in the District. The date of alteration in each case is added in parentheses.

TABLE VIII.—County of AYR.—Particulars of Registration Districts.

This Table shows the distribution of Registration District populations into Parishes, into Burghal and extra-Burghal portions, and into Mainland and Insular portions. Registration Districts not appearing in the Table are not so divided. The Table also shows the grouping of Registration Districts, or parts of Registration Districts, into the respective Parishes of which they form part.

TABLE XVII.—County of AYR.—County Districts and Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs, so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts:—

- |                       |                         |                    |                        |

| 2. Glasgow.           | 12. Clackmannan.        | 21. Kincardine.    | 30. Renfrew.           |
| 3. Dundee.            | 13. Dumbarton.          | 22. Kinross.       | 31. Ross and Cromarty. |
| 4. Aberdeen (City).   | 14. Dumfries.           | 23. Kirkcudbright. | 32. Roxburgh.          |
| 5. Aberdeen (County). | 15. Edinburgh (County). | 24. Lanark.        | 33. Selkirk.           |
| 6. Argyll.            | 16. Elgin.              | 25. Linlithgow.    | 34. Shetland.          |
| 7. Ayr.               | 17. Fife.               | 26. Nairn.         | 35. Stirling.          |
| 8. Banff.             | 18. Forfar.             | 27. Orkney.        | 36. Sutherland.        |
| 9. Berwick.           | 19. Haddington.         | 28. Peebles.       | 37. Wigtown.           |
| 10. Bute.             |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume:—

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| 1. Population of Civil Parishes.   | 22. Occupations of Population of—  |
| 2. Particulars relating to Civil Parishes, giving population, &c., of burghal and extra-burghal portions, of shipping, &c. | (a) County.  |
| 3. Population of Civil Parishes since 1801.  | (b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.  |
| 4. Population of Burghs.   | 23. Occupations of Married and Widowed Females—  |
| 5. Particulars relating to Burghs, showing population of burgh wards, of shipping, &c.                                     | (a) Principal Occupations.   |
| 6. Population of Burghs since 1801.  | (b) Age-distribution of those Occupied.  |

| 8. Particulars relating to Registration Districts.   | (a) County.  |
| 9. Population of Ecclesiastical Parishes.  | (b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.  |
| 10. Population of School Board Districts.  | NOTE.—This information will be more elaborated in Second Volume.   |
| 11. Population of Special Water Districts.   | 25. Birth-places of the Inhabitants in—  |
| 12. Population of Special Drainage Districts.  | (a) County.  |
| 13. Population of Special Scavenging Districts.  | (b) Burghs within county having over 20,000 population.  |
| 14. Population of Special Lighting Districts.  | 26. Houses of stated sizes in—   |
| 15. Population of Inhabited Islands.   | (a) Parishes.  |
| 16. Population of Parliamentary Constituencies.  | (b) Burghs.  |
| 17. Population of County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.  | NOTE.—This table is not strictly comparable with Table 16 of Second Volume of Report on 1901 Census, as it is based on the number of occupied houses while the 1901 Table was based on the number of "Families." In this Report two families living in one house are treated as one household; in the Report on the previous Census they were treated as two households. |
| 18. Population of Public Health Districts.   | 27. Size of Household in Houses of stated size in—   |
| 19. Conjugal Condition and Age-distribution of Population—   | (a) County.  |
| (a) Of City or County.   | (b) Burghs within county of over 20,000 population.  |
| (b) Of Burghs of over 20,000 population.   | NOTE.—The above note to Table 26 applies to this Table. In addition, institutions and houses of more than 24 rooms and households of 20 persons and over are excluded from this Table.   |
| 20. Population by Conjugal Conditions and Quinquennial Age-periods—  | 28. Grouped List of Institutions.  |
| (a) Of Parishes.   |  |
| (b) Of Burghs.   |  |
| (c) Of County, showing inter-censal change (age-groups and sexes only).  |  |
| 21. Ages of Children and Young Persons in School Board Districts.  |  |

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 8.

THE COUNTY OF BANFF.

THE census of the County of Banff shows that the population differs very little in numbers from that of 1901, the ascertained intercensal change only amounting to a decrease of 86, or 0·1 per cent. The total population is now found to be 61,402, in 1901 it was 61,488. The male population of the County now numbers 29,755, and is 396 more than in 1901; the female population is now 31,647, and is 482 less than in 1901. The intercensal rate of increase of the male population is 1·3 per cent., while the rate of decrease of the female population is 1·5 per cent.

Tables B. and C. have been constructed to show the comparisons between the County population ascertained by this census and those found by previous censuses. In the preparation of them, adjusted, not absolute, figures have been used, as for purposes of fair comparison adjustments are necessary to allow for some incompleteness in the earlier censuses, some portions of the parishes of the County of Banff having been included in the census returns of the Counties of Aberdeen and Elgin, and to allow for certain alterations of county boundaries which were made in 1891 by Order of the Boundary Commission. As a result of these adjustments, some differences given in these tables do not agree with those given in Table A., where the unadjusted census returns are collected, the intercensal differences found by the censuses of 1811, 1821, 1831, 1841, 1901, and 1911 being those affected.

The complete (adjusted) population of Banff in 1801 was 37,216, and each successive census from then up to 1891 showed an intercensal increase, the population then amounting to 64,190, which is 26,974, or 72·5 per cent., more than in 1801; but the two censuses which have been taken since 1891 have both shown intercensal decreases, the adjusted decrease found in 1901 being 599, or 0·9 per cent., and the adjusted decrease found by the present census being 79, or 0·1 per cent. The periods of most rapid growth of the population of the County were 1811 to 1831, and 1841 to 1861, the intercensal rates of increase found by the censuses of these periods all exceeding 9 per cent. The present population of the County, or, more strictly, the present population of the area included by the old County boundaries, those existing previous to the alterations made by the Boundary Commission, is now 26,296, or 70·7 per cent., more than in 1801; 19,849, or 45·3 per cent., more than in 1821; 13,833, or 27·8 per cent., more than in 1841; 4,297, or 7·2 per cent., more than in 1861; and 776, or 1·2 per cent., more than in 1881; it is, however, 678, or 1·1 per cent., less than in 1891; and 79, or 0·1 per cent., less than 1901.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure -79 in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure +2167 in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1871.

The differences are based on the revised statement of the County populations of the Censuses of 1801, 1811, 1821, and 1831 as published in the Census Report of 1851, and on populations for 1901 and 1911 adjusted to allow for alterations on the County boundaries made by Orders of the Boundary Commissioners under the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889. Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the total population of the County, 28,517, or 46·4 per cent., were enumerated in burghs, and 32,885, or 53·6 per cent., in the extraburghal or landward districts. The burghal population shows an intercensal increase of 1166, or 4·3 per cent., but the extraburghal population shows a decrease of 1252, or 3·7 per cent.

The extraburghal part of the County is divided into two Public Health Districts—Banff District and Keith District. The population of the former has remained almost stationary during the intercensal period, for the change found is an increase amounting to only 40, or 0·2 per cent.; but the population of the latter, Keith District, is found to have decreased by 1292, or 9·4 per cent.

Burgh Populations.—There are nine burghs in the County of Banff, and of these one only, Buckie, is found to have increased in population to an appreciable extent; six are found to show little alteration of population, the observed gain or loss in each amounting to less than 100, and two, Dufftown and Keith, are found to have each lost more than 100.

The largest burgh in the County is Buckie; it has now a population of 8897. In 1901 its population was found to be 6549, but during the intercensal period the boundaries were extended, and an area with a population of 934 was added, and thus, while the gross intercensal increase amounts to 2348, or 35·9 per cent., the net increase in the area included within the present burgh boundaries amounts to only 1414, or 18·9 per cent.

The burghs of Keith, Banff, and Macduff have populations of between 3000 and 5000; that of Keith being 4499, of Banff 3821, and of Macduff 3411. In two of these, Banff and Macduff, little alteration of population is found, while in the third, Keith, there is a decrease. In Banff and Macduff the intercensal changes are found to be a gain of 89 and a loss of 18 respectively, in Keith the intercensal change is a loss of 254, or 5·3 per cent.

The remaining five burghs are all small, having populations of between 1000 and 2000. In three of them, Charlestown of Aberlour, Cullen, and Portsoy, there have been small increases of population, all of less than 100; while in the other two there have been decreases, that in Dufftown being 197, or 10·8 per cent., and that in Aberchirder being 93, or 8·2 per cent.

Parish Populations.—There are 22 civil parishes in the County, and,—disregarding, as immaterial, gains or losses of population of less than 100,—of these two only have increased in population during the intercensal period, while eight have decreased. The two parishes which show a material increase of population are Rathven, the parish which contains the burgh of Buckie, and Boyndie; the population of the former is 15,995, and is 1931, or 13·7 per cent., more than in 1901, and the population of the latter, Boyndie, is now 2178, and is 173, or 8·6 per cent., more than in 1901. The largest intercensal decreases of parish population in the County are in Keith, 469; in Mortlach, 405; and in Marnoch, 319. The highest rates of intercensal decrease are in Grange, 12·7 per cent. ; in Boharm, 12·2 per cent. ; and in Mortlach, 11·8 per cent.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The parliamentary electors of this County vote in five parliamentary constituencies, of which one is a burghal constituency, and four are county constituencies.

The electors of the two parliamentary burghs in the County, Banff and Cullen, vote in the Elgin District of burghs. But as the burgh of Banff for parliamentary purposes includes the police burgh of Macduff, three of the burghs as constituted for municipal and police purposes vote in this constituency. The population in these two parliamentary burghs amounts to 9224, and is 127, or 1·4 per cent., more than in 1901.

Of the total population of the County, 51,020, or 83·1 per cent., are in the Parliamentary Constituency of the County of Banff. This population shows little intercensal change ; in 1901 it numbered 51,093, differing from the present figure by only 73.

Parts of three parishes of this County are in the Constituency of Elgin and Nairn, their aggregate population amounting to 834 ; 500 being in Boharm parish, 183 in Keith parish, and 151 in Inveravon parish. The County of Banff population in the Elgin and Nairn constituency is 96, or 10·3 per cent., less than in 1901.

Small portions of the County are in the two Constituencies of East and West Aberdeenshire. The former consists of a small portion of the parish of Alvah, with a population of 95, and the latter of a portion of the parish of Cabrach, with a population of 229.

Sex and Age Distribution of Population.—In 1901 the ratio of females to males was 109·4 to 100, but by reason of the intercensal increase in the male population, and the intercensal decrease in the female population, this ratio is now reduced, and amounts to only 106·4 to 100. It is in age-group 20 to 24 that this ratio has been most changed, in 1901 there were 119·9 females of those ages to each 100 males, but now there are only 97·8 to each 100. Ten years ago in that age period, females were in decided excess of males, now the males are in excess of the females.

The male age-groups which show decreases are those under 15, between 40 and 44, and between 70 and 79, all other age-groups under 90 showing an increase, but among the female age-groups all under 30 show decreases. Among the male age-groups those with the largest decreases are 0 to 4, 350, or 9·2 per cent. ; 10 to 14, 284, or 7·1 per cent. ; and 5 to 9, 232, or 6·1 per cent. ; while those with the largest increases are 20 to 24, 305, or 14·6 per cent. ; 50 to 54, 223, or 20·4 per cent. ; and 30 to 34, 184, or 12·3 per cent. ; and 45 to 49, 182, or 14·3 per cent. Among the female age-groups those showing the largest decreases are 0 to 4, 297, or 7·8 per cent. ; 15 to 19, 190, or 5·9 per cent. ; and 20 to 24, 163, or 6·5 per cent. ; while those showing the largest increases are 35 to 39, 89, or 4·9 per cent. ; and 55 to 59, 86, or 7·6 per cent.

Occupations.—The total number of males returned as having some remunerative occupation in Banff is 18,064, and of females 5782. The former are 861 more, and the latter 172 more, than in 1901.

Of the occupied males, 11 are aged between 10 and 13 ; 293 are aged 14 ; 2988 between 15 and 19 ; 2312 between 20 and 24 ; 6593 between 25 and 44 ; 4511 between 45 and 64 ; and 1353 are aged 65 and over. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males of from 10 to 13 are 97 fewer ; of 14 years of age, 130 fewer ; of between 15 and 19, 13 fewer ; of between 20 and 24, 277 more ; of between 25 and 44, 358 more ; of between 45 and 64, 516 more ; and of 65 and over, 53 fewer.

Of the occupied females 3 only are less than 14 ; 160 are aged 14 ; 1620 are between 15 and 19 ; 1162 between 20 and 24 ; 1599 between 25 and 44 ; 894 between 45 and 64 ; and 343 of 65 and over. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied females of from 10 to 13 are 46 less ; of 14 years of age, 5 less ; of between 15 and 19, 51 more ; of between 20 and 24, 134 more ; of between 25 and 44, 172 more ; of between 45 and 64, 83 fewer ; and of 65 and over, 52 fewer.

The groups of occupations followed by the largest sections of the male population of the County are those connected with agriculture and fishing ; 5951, or 32·9 per cent., of the occupied male population being returned as belonging to the former, and 3876, or 21·5 per cent., as belonging to the latter. Those returned as following fishing occupations number 1170, or 43·2 per cent., more than in 1901, but those returned as following agricultural occupations number 366, or 5·8 per cent., less. Among those returned in the agricultural occupations, there are 1443 Farmers and Graziers, 577 Sons and other Relatives assisting on Farms, 520 Crofters, 64 Sons and other Relatives assisting on Crofts, and 2684 Agricultural Labourers. Those returned as Fishermen number 3874, and as Fishermen-Crofters, 2.

The number of males returned as belonging to occupations connected with the building trades is 982, which is 331, or 25·2 per cent., less than in 1901. Inclusive of Labourers, the number of Carpenters and Joiners is 370, and of Builders and Masons, 309; the former is 214, or 36·6 per cent., less than in 1901, and the latter is 130, or 29·6 per cent., less.

Other occupations giving employment to comparatively large numbers of males are Carters and Carriers, 334; Blacksmiths, 244; Bootmakers, 210; Coopers, 202; and Distillers, 149. The last named are 68, or 31·3 per cent., less than in 1901.

The occupations most largely followed by females are those connected with domestic service, agriculture, and fish-curing. Domestic Indoor Servants, including those in hotels, number 2470; they are 163 more than in 1901, and constitute 42·8 per cent. of the total occupied females. Those in agricultural occupations number 660, they are 155 fewer than in 1901, and include 132 Farmers or Graziers, 150 Daughters or other Relatives working on Farms, 136 Crofters, 62 Daughters or other Relatives working on Crofts, and 177 Agricultural Labourers. Females returned as Fish-curers number 534, a number which is 310 more than in 1901; as Dressmakers, 467, or 122 fewer than in 1901; as Teachers, 279, or 38 fewer than in 1901; and as Clerks, 96, or 59 more than in 1901.

The number of married women returned as having some remunerative occupation in the County is small. It only amounts to 147, or 1·5 per cent. of the total married women enumerated. The number of widows with such occupation is 636, or 26·9 per cent. of the total number enumerated. Occupied widows include 99 Farmers, 89 Crofters, 58 Fish-curers, and 54 Domestic Servants.

Industries.—The principal industries to which the occupied males and females of the County are attached, are set out in Table XXIV. The industries giving most employment to males are Agriculture, 5972; Fishing, 4276; Preparation and Sale of Provisions, 977; House Building and Decorating, 964; and Railway Service, 427. And those giving most employment to females are, Domestic and Institution Service, 2636; Agriculture, 660; Fishing, 590; and Tailoring and Dressmaking, 468.

Housing.—Inhabited houses enumerated in the County number 13,151, uninhabited houses 697, and houses in course of erection 47; in 1901 inhabited houses numbered 12,814, uninhabited houses 669, and houses in course of erection 84. Thus, compared with the corresponding figure for 1901, inhabited houses are now 337, or 2·6 per cent., more, uninhabited houses 28, or 4·2 per cent., more, but houses in course of erection are 37, or 44 per cent., less.

Of the inhabited houses enumerated, 726, or 5·5 per cent., are one-roomed; 2934, or 22·3 per cent., two-roomed; 3166, or 24·1 per cent., three-roomed; 2060, or 15·7 per cent., four-roomed; 1593, or 12·1 per cent., five-roomed; and 2672, or 20·3 per cent., of more than five rooms.

Of the population, excluding those enumerated in institutions, in houses of more than twenty-five rooms, and in households of more than twenty persons, 1724, or 2·9 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 11,085, or 18·4 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 14,505, or 24·1 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 10,222, or 17·0 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 8035, or 13·4 per cent., in five-roomed houses; and 14,596, or 24·3 per cent., in houses of more than five rooms.

Of the population dealt with in the preceding paragraph, 45,364, or 75·4 per cent. are living not more than two in a room; 14,803, or 24·6 per cent., more than two in a room; 55,781, or 92·7 per cent., not more than three in a room; 4386, or 7·3 per cent., more than three in a room; 58,967, or 98·0 per cent., not more than four in a room; and 1200, or 2·0 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the corresponding numbers in 1901, those living more than two in a room are 2162, or 12·7 per cent., fewer; those living more than three in a room 1761, or 28·6 per cent., fewer; and those living more than four in a room are 787, or 39·6 per cent., fewer.

Birthplaces.—Of the total population of the County, 60,385, or 98·3 per cent., are returned as being of Scottish birth; 46,578, or 75·9 per cent., being returned as having their birthplaces within the County of Banff, and 13,807, or 22·5 per cent., as having birthplaces in other Scottish Counties. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, those born in Banff are 480 fewer, but those born in other Scottish Counties are 259 more. Next to those of Scottish birth, those of English birth are found to be the most numerous; they number 674, constituting 1·1 per cent. of the total, and are 115 more than in 1901. Those of Irish birth number 119, of colonial birth 113, and of foreign birth, exclusive of British subjects, 34. The last named are 13 more than in 1901.

NOTE.

Where the boundaries of any Burgh have been altered since the Census of 1901, the population of the Burgh as given in the Report on that Census is shown, as also, in italics, for purposes of comparison, the 1901 population of the area now included in the Burgh. The date of alteration in each case is added in parentheses.

TABLE V.—Particulars of Burghs.

This Table is omitted as unnecessary, there being no Burgh in the County of Banff divided into Wards.

NOTE.

The Parliamentary Burgh of Banff is comprised by the Royal and Municipal Burgh of Banff, and the Police Burgh of Macduff.

TABLE XVII.—County of BANFF—County Districts and Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

NOTE.

Where the boundaries of any Burgh have been altered since the Census of 1901, the 1901 populations of the areas now included in the Burghal and landward portions of the Parish respectively are shown in italics. See Tables I. and IV.

TABLE XVIII.—County of BANFF—Public Health Districts.

Public Health Districts consist of (1) all Burghs within the County, including Police Burghs, each being a separate District; and (2) County Districts exclusive of any Police Burghs which may be situated within them.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts:—

- |                      |                         |                   |                        |

| 1. Edinburgh.        | 11. Caithness.          | 20. Inverness.    | 29. Perth.             |
| 2. Glasgow.          | 12. Clackmannan.        | 21. Kinross.      | 30. Renfrew.           |
| 3. Dundee.           | 13. Dumfries.           | 22. Kinross.      | 31. Ross and Cromarty. |
| 4. Aberdeen (City).  | 14. Dumfries.           | 23. Kirkcudbright | 32. Roxburgh.          |
| 5. Aberdeen (County) | 15. Edinburgh (County). | 24. Lanark.       | 33. Selkirk.           |
| 6. Argyll.           | 16. Elgin               | 25. Linlithgow.   | 34. Shetland.          |
| 7. Ayr.              | 17. Fife.               | 26. Nairn.        | 35. Stirling.          |
| 8. Banff.            | 18. Forfar.             | 27. Orkney.       | 36. Sutherland.        |
| 9. Berwick.          | 19. Haddington.         | 28. Peebles.      | 37. Wigtown.           |
| 10. Bute.            |                         |                   |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume:—

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 9.

THE COUNTY OF BERWICK.

In 1801, the year of the first Census of Scotland, the County of Berwick had a population of 30,206, and by each subsequent Census up to 1861 an increase was found, the County in that year attaining a maximum population of 36,613. But since 1861, all Censuses have shown decreases, and the population of the County is now found to be 29,643, and to be less than in all previous Census years; it is 1,181 or 3·8 per cent. less than the population of 1901; 6,970, or 19·0 per cent. less than that of 1861; and 563, or 1·9 per cent. less than that of 1801. The observed intercensal changes of population in the County are collected in Tables A, B, and C, and in these it may be seen that the periods in which there were the greatest intercensal increases of population were from 1811 to 1821, when the increase amounted to 2,492, or 8·1 per cent., and from 1841 to 1851, when it amounted to 1,859, or 5·4 per cent.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e., on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e., above. Thus the figure, -1,181, in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure, -4,080, in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1871.

Of the 1911 population, 14,192 are males, and 15,451 females, the male population being 533, or 3·6 per cent. less than in 1901, and the female population 648, or 4·0 per cent. less. Compared with the figures of 1861, the year of the maximum population of the County, the male population is 3,231, or 18·5 per cent. less, and the female population 3,739, or 19·5 per cent. less.

Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the total population, 6,556, or 22·1 per cent., were enumerated within the burghs of the County, and 23,087, or 77·9 per cent., in the extra-burghal portions of the County. The burghal population has, during the intercensal period, diminished by 245, or 3·6 per cent., and the extra-burghal population by 936, or 3·9 per cent.

TABLE D.—INTERCENSAL CHANGE OF POPULATION IN PUBLIC HEALTH DISTRICTS.

West District . . . . .	5,705	6,011	—	—	306	5·1

The extra-burghal portions of the County are divided into three Public Health Districts, the East, the Middle, and the West, and the population of each of these districts is found to have diminished during the intercensal period. The population of the East Public Health District is now 9,017, and is 347, or 3·7 per cent. less than in 1901; that of the Middle Public Health District is now 8,365, and is 283, or 3·3 per cent. less than in 1901; and that of the West Public Health District is now 5,705, and is 306, or 5·1 per cent. less than in 1901.

Parish Populations.—There are 32 civil parishes in the County. Those of largest population are Duns, 3,042; Coldingham, 2,749; Eyemouth, 2,561; and Coldstream, 2,192; and those of smallest population are Cranshaws, 125; Polwarth, 197; and Abbey St Bathans, 229. Of the 32, 7 are found to have increased in population during the intercensal period, while 25 have decreased. The increases of parish population are all small, all being less than 100, and the decreases are also mostly small, for of the 25, 23 are of less than 100, while 2 only are of more than that amount, a decrease of 157 being found in the Parish of Duns, and one of 125 in the Parish of Lauder.

Table E has been prepared to show how the present population of each parish in the County compares with its maximum population. In that table, where indicated, the present populations are adjusted to suit the alterations of parish boundaries so that the comparisons may be made upon a uniform basis. It will be seen that when so compared, the population of every parish in the County is now smaller than at the date of some previous Census, and that in many instances the decrease amounts to a relatively large amount. Of the 32 parishes, 5 have lost more than 40 per cent. of their population; 8 between 30 and 40 per cent.; 10 between 20 and 30 per cent.; 6 between 10 and 20 per cent.; and only 3 less than 10 per cent. The largest absolute losses of population are found to be in Coldstream, where since 1851 the loss amounts to 1,053, or 22.4 per cent.; in Lauder, where since 1861 it amounts to 782, or 35.6 per cent.; in Duns, where since 1821 it amounts to 731, or 19.4 per cent.; in Coldingham, where since 1861 it amounts to 513, or 15.8 per cent.; and in Greenlaw, where since 1831 it amounts to 501, or 34.7 per cent. The largest ratios of loss to maximum population are found in Cranshaws, where the loss of population amounts to 48.4 per cent. of the maximum population—that of 1811; and in Ladykirk, where the loss amounts to 44.1 per cent. of the 1861 population. In Abbey St Bathans the present population is larger than the populations found by previous Censuses, but that result must not be taken as indicative of an increase of population in the original area included in the parish, for by Order of the Boundary Commission an area which now has a population of 47 was added, and a deduction of that amount shows that the population in the original area of the parish is now 11, or 5·7 per cent. less than in 1891.

Burgh Populations.—There are four burghs in the County, and of these one only is found to have increased in population during the intercensal period, while three have decreased. The largest of the four burghs, and the one which has increased its population during the intercensal period, is Eyemouth, whose population is now 2,453, which is 64, or 2·7 per cent., more than in 1901. Duns has now a population of 2,069, which is 137, or 6·2 per cent., less than in 1901; Coldstream has now a population of 1,375, which is 107, or 7·2 per cent., less than in 1901; and Lauder, the smallest burgh in the County, has now a population of 659, which is 65, or 9·0 per cent. less than in 1901. Compared with the corresponding population of 1881, that of each of these four burghs shows a decrease; in Coldstream the decrease amounts to 241, or 14·9 per cent.; in Duns to 368, or 15·1 per cent.; in Eyemouth to 372, or 13·2 per cent.; and in Lauder to 305, or 31·6 per cent.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The entire County is within the parliamentary constituency of Berwickshire, but the County does not include the whole of that constituency, as small portions of it are in the counties of Haddington and Roxburgh, these portions of the constituency being small districts that were formerly within the County for all purposes, but which, by Orders of the Boundary Commission, were transferred to the counties of Haddington and Roxburgh, except for parliamentary purposes. They consist of areas which, previous to the Boundary Commission Orders, were in the parishes of Oldhamstocks, Lauder, and Melrose, the first being transferred to Haddington, and the other two to Roxburgh.

Age and Sex Distribution of Population.—The difference between the decrease in population in each of the two sexes is small, and consequently the proportion of females to males in the County has been little affected. In 1901 this ratio was 109·3 females to 100 males, and is now 108·9 to 100.

In Table XXc. the principal figures relative to the age and sex distribution of the population at this Census are collected, and a comparison between them and the corresponding figures of 1901 is made. In that table the outstanding fact is the loss in both sexes in all age-groups of under 30. In male age-group 0 to 4 the loss is 114, or 7·5 per cent.; in age-group 5 to 9 it is 185, or 11·8 per cent.; in age-group 10 to 14, 247, or 15·5 per cent.; in age-group 15 to 19, 183, or 11·6 per cent.; in age-group 20 to 24, 157, or 11·9 per cent.; and in age-group 25 to 29, 31, or 2·8 per cent. In the female age-groups the losses have been very similar, except that the greatest loss is found in age-group 20 to 24, instead of in 10 to 14 as among the males. In age-group 0 to 4 it is 182, or 12·3 per cent.; in age-group 5 to 9, 185, or 12·0 per cent.; in age-group 10 to 14, 167, or 11·0 per cent.; in age-group 15 to 19, 162, or 10·8 per cent.; in age-group 20 to 24, 223, or 14·5 per cent.; and in age-group 25 to 29, 18, or 1·4 per cent. All male age-groups between 30 and 74, that of 50 to 54 excepted, show increases, mostly small in amount, but that in age-group 40 to 44 amounts to 178, or 24·0 per cent. In the female age-groups within these limits, the changes have not been quite so uniform, as in seven of them increases of population are found, and in two decreases. Among females as among males the largest intercensal increase is found in age-group 40 to 44; it amounts to 89, or 9·4 per cent. In age-groups of over 75, males show an intercensal decrease of 15, but females an increase of 38.

The decrease of population in the younger ages is very evident when the numbers under twenty years of age in the parishes, or in the school board districts,—for in this County these areas are similar,—are compared with the corresponding figures of 1901. In four only out of the 32 parishes is there any increase at those ages, while in 28 there are decreases, and further, in the four in which increases are found, these increases are all small—the largest being 12, or 1·1 per cent., in Eyemouth. Some of the decreases are considerable, among them being 224, or 18·1 per cent., in Duns; 129, or 11·7 per cent., in Coldingham; 119, or 34·1 per cent., in Gordon; and 104, or 16·3 per cent., in Chirnside. In two parishes, the decennial rate of decrease of population of those under twenty exceeds 30 per cent.; in seven, it is between 20 and 30 per cent.; in ten, between 10 and 20 per cent., and in nine, less than 10 per cent.

Occupations.—Of the male population of the County, 9,543, or 83·6 per cent., of those of over 10 years of age, are returned as having some remunerative occupation, and of the female population 3,553, or 27·8 per cent. of those of over 10 years of age, are so returned. Occupied males number 187, or 1·9 per cent. less than in 1901, and occupied females 830, or 18·9 per cent. less.

Of the occupied males, 2 only are of 13 years of age or less, in 1901 there were 36 of those ages; 145 are 14 years of age; 1,301 are between 15 and 19; 1,122 between 20 and 24; 3,876 between 25 and 44; 2,459 between 45 and 64; and 637 of 65 and over. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males of 14 are 80 fewer; of 15 to 19, 202 fewer; of 20 to 24, 165 fewer; of 25 to 44, 195 more; of 45 to 64, 105 more; and of over 65, 7 fewer. Thus, the intercensal changes show an increase in the number of occupied males between 25 and 64, but decreases in age-periods under 25 and over 65.

Of the occupied females, 1 only is less than 14 years of age, in 1901 there were 18 such; 68 are 14 years of age; 866 between 15 and 19; 822 between 20 and 24; 1,179 between 25 and 44; 498 between 45 and 64; and 119 65 and over. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied females of 14 are 58 fewer; of between 15 and 19, 227 fewer; of between 20 and 24, 231 fewer; of between 25 and 44, 202 fewer; of between 45 and 64, 74 fewer; and of 65 and over, 21 fewer. In each age-group of the females occupied there has been a decrease.

The group of occupations which is followed by the largest number of males is that containing the occupations connected with agriculture—4,099, or 43·0 per cent. of the total being returned as belonging to one or other of these—a number which is 71 less than in 1901. Included in this group there are 501 Farmers; 147 Sons or other Relatives of Farmers assisting on farms; 270 Grieves; 406 Shepherds; and 2,431 Agricultural Labourers. Farmers number 18 more than in 1901, their Sons and Relatives working on the farms are 48 fewer; Grieves are 35 more; and Shepherds are 9 more; but Agricultural Labourers are 2 fewer.

Next to agricultural occupations, outdoor domestic service gives most employment to males, 657, or 6·9 per cent. of the total occupied being so returned—a number which is 137 more than in 1901. Among those returned as in this group of occupations there are 216 Coachmen; 41 Motor Car Drivers; 215 Gardeners; and 185 Gamekeepers. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Coachmen are 23 more; Gardeners 55 more; and Gamekeepers 18 more.

Those returned as in the building trades number 531—216 of these being Carpenters or Joiners or their Labourers, and 147 being Builders or Masons or their Labourers. The total in these trades is 123, or 18·8 per cent. less than in 1901; Carpenters are 55, or 20·3 per cent. less; and Masons, 53, or 26·5 per cent. less.

Other occupations, including relatively large sections of the male population of the County, are Fishermen, 622; Blacksmiths, 171; Tailors, 206; and Bakers, 138. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Fishermen are 4 less; Blacksmiths, 35 less; Tailors, 34 less; and Bakers, 18 less.

The groups of occupations giving most employment to the female population are domestic service and agriculture. Female Indoor Domestic Servants number 1,292, and are 233 fewer than in 1901; they now constitute 36·4 per cent. of the total occupied, in 1901 they constituted 34·8 per cent. In agricultural occupations, they number 1,012—in 1901 they numbered 1,460—and thus there is a decennial decrease of 448, or 30·7 per cent. Among those included in this group of occupations there are 32 Farmers, 39 Daughters or other Relatives assisting on farms; and 934 Agricultural Labourers. The Farmers are 1 fewer than in 1901; the Daughters and other Relatives assisting on the farms are 83, or 68 per cent. fewer; and the Agricultural Labourers are 358, or 27·7 per cent. fewer.

Other occupations followed by considerable sections of the female population are those of Teachers, 110, and Dressmakers, 236; the former being 15 more than in 1901, but the latter 91 less.

Industries.—For Census purposes an industry is defined as the occupation of the employer, and the industries of the County, as so defined, are collected in Table XXIV.

The industry which provides by far the largest amount of employment in the County is agriculture, for 4,135, or 43·3 per cent. of the occupied males, and 1,012, or 28·5 per cent. of the occupied females, are returned as being employed in it. Other than agriculture, the only industries in the County giving employment to comparatively large numbers of males are domestic and institution service, 746; fishing, 714; preparation and sale of provisions, 588 ; and house-building and decorating, 516 ; and the only industries giving employment to large numbers of women are domestic and institution service, 1,392 ; tailoring and dressmaking, 252 ; and wool industry, 237.

Birthplaces.—Of the total population of the County, 27,224, or 91·8 per cent., were born in Scotland—19,727, or 66·5 per cent., being born within the County itself, and 7,497, or 25·3 per cent., in other Scottish Counties. Comparison with the last Census shows that those born within the County number 1,418, or 6·7 per cent., less than in 1901, while those born in other Scottish Counties number 175, or 2·4 per cent., more. Those of English birth, enumerated in Berwickshire, number 2,129, constituting 7·2 per cent. of the total, and are 105, or 5·2 per cent., more than in 1901. Those of other than Scottish or English birth number only 290, and constitute 1·0 per cent. of the total ; they include 177 of Irish birth, 48 colonials, and 20 foreigners.

Housing.—Occupied houses in the County number 7,015, unoccupied houses, 441, and houses in course of erection, 21. Compared with the returns of the previous Census, occupied houses are 240 more, and unoccupied houses 154 more, but houses in course of erection are 1 less.

Of the occupied houses enumerated, 489, or 7·0 per cent., are one-roomed ; 2,298, or 32·8 per cent., two-roomed ; 1,432, or 20·4 per cent., three-roomed ; 1,063, or 15·1 per cent., four-roomed ; 444, or 6·3 per cent., five-roomed ; 328, or 4·7 per cent., six-roomed ; and 960, or 13·7 per cent., more than six-roomed. Compared with the returns of the 1901 Census, one-roomed houses are 360 less, and two-roomed houses 209 less, but houses of three rooms are 59 more, of four rooms 172 more, of five rooms 73 more, of six rooms 49 more, and of more than six rooms 12 less. But on account of a change in the method of enumeration, these comparisons are not strictly accurate ; lodgers in 1901 were dealt with as householders, while in the preparation of this Report they have been dealt with as members of households and not as separate householders. This change of procedure has no doubt resulted in some diminution in the recorded number of smaller houses, and in some increase in the number of larger houses.

Of the population, exclusive of those living in houses of more than 24 rooms or in households of more than 19 persons, 1,278, or 4·4 per cent., are enumerated in one-roomed houses ; 9,044, or 31·1 per cent., in two-roomed houses ; 6,172, or 21·2 per cent., in three-roomed houses ; 4,606, or 15·8 per cent., in four-roomed houses ; 2,026, or 6·9 per cent., in five-roomed houses ; 1,454, or 5·0 per cent., in six-roomed houses ; and 4,534, or 15·6 per cent., in houses of more than six rooms.

Of the population referred to in the preceding paragraph, 21,060, or 72·3 per cent., live not more than two in a room ; 8,054, or 27·7 per cent., more than two in a room ; 25,750, or 88·4 per cent., not more than three in a room ; 3,364, or 11·6 per cent., more than three in a room ; 27,900, or 95·8 per cent., not more than four in a room ; and 1,214, or 4·2 per cent., more than four in a room. In 1901, the proportion living not more than two in a room was 64·9 per cent. ; not more than three in a room, 83·6 per cent. ; and not more than four in a room, 93·4 per cent. ; while the proportion living more than two in a room was 35·1 per cent. ; more than three in a room, 16·4 per cent. ; and more than four in a room, 6·6 per cent. This comparison shows that the numbers living in the more crowded condition are now less than at the time of the preceding Census.

Gaelic Speaking.—The number of persons returned in this County as speaking Gaelic is 95, all being described as able to speak both that language and English. Of these 13 were born in Ireland, and presumably are speakers of Irish Gaelic. The number of Gaelic speakers enumerated in the County, and born in Scotland, was 79 ; of these 16 were born in Argyll, 24 in Inverness, 9 in Perth, and 9 in Ross and Cromarty. There were no Gaelic speakers among those born within the County.

TABLE VII.—Population of Registration Districts.

This Table is omitted because the populations of the Registration Districts, and those of the Civil Parishes bearing the same names are identical, with the exception of Coldingham, the Civil Parish of that name being divided into two Registration Districts, viz. :—Coldingham, No. 732 (1), and Grants house, No. 732 (2), for particulars of which see Table VIII.

TABLE VIII.—County of BERWICK.—Particulars of Registration Districts.

This Table shows the distribution of Registration District populations into Parishes, and into Burghal and extra-Burghal portions. Registration Districts not appearing in the Table are not so divided. The Table also shows the grouping of Registration Districts, or parts of Registration Districts, into the respective Parishes of which they form part.

TABLE X.—Population of School Board Districts.

This Table is omitted because the populations of the School Board Districts and Civil Parishes bearing the same names are identical:—(See Table I). There is, however, one difference between these Districts and Parishes, and that is that the Berwickshire Parish of Hume is for School Board purposes combined with the Roxburghshire Parish of Stitchel into one School Board District named Hume and Stitchel. The population of the Berwickshire portion of that District is the same as that of the Parish of Hume; and the population of the Roxburgh portion will be given in Part 32 of this Report.

TABLE XV.—Population of Inhabited Islands.

This Table is omitted as inapplicable.

TABLE XVI.—Population of Parliamentary Constituencies.

This Table is omitted because the entire County of Berwick is within the Parliamentary Constituency of that name (Vide Table I.) Within this Constituency also are small portions of the Counties of Haddington and Roxburgh, the populations of which will be given in Parts 19 and 32 of this Report.

TABLE XVII.—County of BERWICK.—County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County, or a district of a County, is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: “The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require.”

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 10.

THE COUNTY OF BUTE.

THE population of the County of Bute is found to amount to 18,186, males numbering 8009 and females 10,177. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, the male population is 400 less, the female population 201 less, and the total population 601 less. This is the second Scottish census by which the population of this County has been found to be decreased, all previous censuses, except that of 1861, having shown an increase.

In 1801, the date of the first census, the County had a population of 11,791, in 1811 it was found to have increased to 12,033; in 1821 to 13,797; in 1831 to 14,151; in 1841 to 15,740; and in 1851 to 16,608; but by the 1861 census it was found to have decreased slightly, the population then being 16,331. The censuses of 1871, 1881, 1891 and 1901, each showed an increase, and at the last-named date the County population had attained a maximum of 18,787, which is 6996, or 59·3 per cent., more than in 1801. The largest intercensal increases of population found in this County were those of 1811 to 1821, and 1831 to 1841, which amounted to 1764, or 14·7 per cent., and 1589, or 11·2 per cent., respectively.

Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the total population of the County, 10,913, or 60·0 per cent., were enumerated within the burghs, and 7273, or 40·0 per cent., in the extraburghal parts. The burghal population is 135, or 1·2 per cent., less than in 1901, and the extraburghal population 466, or 6·0 per cent., less.

The distribution of the extraburghal population of the County into Public Health Districts is shown in Table D, and it will there be seen that the decrease of population has not been limited to any one district, but has been general. There are three of these Public Health Districts, and each of them has lost population during the intercensal period; Bute District has lost 251, or 9·0 per cent.; Arran District, 209, or 4·3 per cent.; and the Cumbrae District, which is small, 6, or 6·1 per cent.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure, -601, in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure, +1,427, in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1871.

The County is entirely insular, and does not extend on to the mainland. It embraces seven inhabited islands. Bute, the most populous of them, has a population of 11,835, or 34·9 per cent., of the total of the County; Arran, 4602, or 25·3 per cent., of the total; Great Cumbrae, 1694, or 9·3 per cent., of the total; Holy Island, 18; Inchmarnock, 16; Little Cumbrae, 13; and Fladda, 8. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, the population of Bute is 327 less; of Arran 217 less; of Great Cumbrae 60 less; of Little Cumbrae 2 less ; and of Inchmarnock 3 less ; but that of Holy Island is 6 more, and of Fladda 2 more.

Burgh Populations.—There are two burghs in the County, and both of them have a smaller population now than at the date of the 1901 census. The population of Rothsay is now 9299, in 1901 it was 9378, and that of Millport is now 1614, while in 1901 it was 1663. The intercensal decrease of population in Rothsay is 79, or 0·8 per cent., and in Millport, 56, or 3·4 per cent., the latter comparison being between the present population of that burgh and the 1901 population within the area included by the present burgh boundaries, which are different from what they were at that date.

Parish Populations.—There are six parishes in the County, and all of them have lost population during the intercensal period. Rothsay, the most populous of them, has boundaries which are conterminous with those of the burgh of that name, and its population, like that of the burgh, is found to have decreased by 79, or 0·8 per cent. Kilbride has now a population of 2451, which is 67, or 2·7 per cent., less than in 1901 ; the population of Kilmory is now 2177, and is 142, or 6·1 per cent., less than in 1901 ; that of Cumbrae, 1707, being 62, or 3·5 per cent., less than in 1901 ; that of North Bute, 1585, being 162, or 9·3 per cent., less than in 1901 ; and that of Kingarth, 967, being 89, or 8·4 per cent., less than in 1901.

The maximum populations of the parishes of North Bute and Rothsay were found in 1901, and the total decrease from those maxima are those stated in the foregoing paragraph, but in the remaining four parishes this is not the case. In Cumbrae the maximum population was in 1881, and the decrease since that date is 149, or 8·0 per cent. ; in Kilbride the maximum was in 1841, and the decrease since then is 335, or 12·0 per cent. ; in Kilmory the maximum was in 1821, and the decrease since then is 1650, or 43·1 per cent. ; in Kingarth the maximum was in 1881, and the decrease since then is 293, or 23·3 per cent.

Age and Sex Distribution of Population.—The decrease of the male population having been greater than that of the female population, the ratio of females to males is found to be increased. In 1901 it was 123·4 to 100, and is now 127·1 to 100. In age-groups under 10, males are found to be in excess, and in age-group 10 to 14 the numbers of males and females differ little, but from 15 onwards there is a relatively large excess of females. In age-group 15 to 19, the ratio of females to males is 120·4 to 100 ; in age-group 20 to 24, 135·1 to 100 ; in age-group 25 to 29, 149·4 to 100 ; and from those ages onwards the ratio remains high, only falling below 140 to 100 in age-groups 50 to 54, and 55 to 59.

A comparison of the numbers of males and females in age-groups with what they were in 1901, brings out that there have been decreases in all ages under 30, of both sexes, and that increases of males are limited to age-groups 30 to 34, 35 to 39, and those between 50 and 79, while increases of females are found in all age-groups of over 30, with the exception of age-groups 50 to 54, and 60 to 64, in both of which small decreases are found. The largest decreases of males are found in age-groups 20 to 24, 10 to 14, 15 to 19, and 0 to 4, where they are 128, 122, 105, and 102 respectively, while those of females are in age-groups 20 to 24, 0 to 4, and 15 to 19, where they were 144, 136, and 95, respectively. The rate of decrease of males in age-group 20 to 24 was 17·2 per cent.; in age-group 25 to 29, 15·8 per cent.; and in age-group 10 to 14, 12·8 per cent. The rate of intercensal decrease of females in age-group 20 to 24 was 14·8 per cent., and in age-group 0 to 4, 15·8 per cent. The decrease in those of younger ages is very evident when a comparison is made between the numbers under 20 in the School Board Districts of the County with what they were in 1901. In each of these districts these numbers are less. In Cumbrae School Board District the decrease is 109, or 16·5 per cent.; in Kilbride, 90, or 10·2 per cent.; in Kilmory, 92, or 10·7 per cent.; in Kingarth, 76, or 17·7 per cent.; in North Bute, 106, or 16·3 per cent.; and in Rothesay, 248, or 6·6 per cent.

Occupations.—Of the male population of over ten years of age, 4924, or 77·4 per cent., were returned as having some remunerative occupation, and of the female population, 2228, or 25·8 per cent., were so returned. The former figure is 335, or 6·4 per cent., less than in 1901, and the latter figure 587, or 20·9 per cent., less. Of the occupied males, 1 only was less than 14 years of age, 57 were aged 14; 615 between 15 and 19; 566 between 20 and 24; 1956 between 25 and 44; 1392 between 45 and 64; and 337 more than 65. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males of less than 14 years of age are 28 fewer; of 14 years of age, 26 fewer; of 15 to 19, 142 fewer; of 20 to 24, 162 fewer; of 25 to 44, 78 fewer, and of 65 and over, 9 fewer; but those of 45 to 64 are 110 more. Among the female occupied, there is a decrease in all age-groups: in age-group 10 to 13, it is 13; at age 14, it is 43; in age-group 15 to 19, 130; in age-group 20 to 24, 109; in age-group 25 to 44, 73; in age-group 45 to 64, 144; and in age-group of 65 and over, 75.

Of the occupied males, 1231, or 25·0 per cent., are returned as belonging to one or other of the agricultural occupations. These include 365 Farmers and Crofters, 143 Sons or Other Relatives assisting on the Farms and Crofts, and 455 Agricultural Labourers. Compared with the corresponding figure in 1901, the total in this group of occupations is 131 less; Farmers and Crofters are 14 less; Sons and Other Relatives of Farmers and Crofters assisting on the Farms are 47 less; and Agricultural Labourers are 22 less.

Those returned as belonging to the building trades number 579, and are 103 less than in 1901. Masons, Bricklayers, and Builders, and their Labourers number 143, and are 65 less than in 1901; Carpenters and Joiners, and their Labourers number 195, and are 53 less than in 1901; Painters number 96, and are 4 more than in 1901.

Other occupations followed by relatively large numbers of males are Seamen, all grades, 370; Carters, 156; and Fishermen, 121. Seamen are 31 fewer than in 1901, but Carters are 13 more, and Fishermen 3 more.

The groups of occupations giving most employment to females are those connected with Domestic Service and Agriculture, 864 being returned as belonging to the former, and 254 to the latter. Domestic Servants, including those in Hotels, number 167, or 16·2 per cent., fewer than in 1901, and those belonging to the occupations connected with Agriculture are 123, or 32·6 per cent., fewer. Included among the latter there are 69 Farmers and Crofters, 50 Daughters or Other Relatives assisting on the Farms and Crofts; and 130 Agricultural Labourers. Female Farmers and Crofters in the County are 23, or 25·0 per cent., fewer than in 1901; and Daughters and Other Relatives assisting on the Farms and Crofts are 120, or 70·6 per cent., fewer; but Female Agricultural Labourers are 23, or 21·5 per cent., more. Other occupations under which a relatively large number of occupied females are returned are Dressmakers and Teachers, 109 being returned as Dressmakers, and 78 as Teachers; the former are 82 fewer than in 1901, but the latter are 2 more.

Industries.—The Industries of the County, defined as the occupations of the employers, are collected in Table XXIV. Those giving most employment to males are Agriculture, 1234; House Building and Decorating, 577; Preparation and Sale of Food, 464; Shipping and Docks, 402; and Local Government Service, 211; and those giving employment to relatively large numbers of females are Domestic and Institution Service, 914; Agriculture, 254; Preparation and Sale of Food, 185; and Hotel and Eating House Service, 170.

Birthplaces.—Of the persons enumerated in the County of Bute, 8907, or 49·0 per cent., were born within the County; 8117, or 44·6 per cent., in other Scottish counties, and 1162, or 6·4 per cent., outwith Scotland. The last-named include 488 born in England, 15 in Wales, 430 in Ireland, 104 in British Colonies, and 73 foreigners. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, those born in the County are 475, or 5·1 per cent., less ; those born in other Scottish counties 137, or 1·7 per cent., less ; and those born in Ireland 45, or 9·5 per cent., less, but those born in England are 4 more, and foreigners are 33, or 82·5 per cent., more. Of those born in Scottish counties other than Bute, 3318 were born in Lanark, 1023 in Renfrew, 998 in Argyll, and 766 in Ayr.

Housing.—The total number of houses enumerated in the County is 6533, which is 472, or 7·8 per cent., more than in 1901. Of them 4357, or 66·7 per cent., were inhabited ; 2153, or 33·0 per cent., uninhabited ; and 23, or 0·3 per cent., in course of erection. There can be no doubt that the high ratio of uninhabited houses in the County is due to the fact that many of them are occupied in the summer months only, and were closed on the day on which the census was taken. Compared with the corresponding figures of the census of 1901, inhabited houses are 94, or 2·2 per cent., more ; uninhabited houses are 418, or 24·1 per cent., more ; but houses in course of erection are 40, or 63·5 per cent., fewer.

Of the inhabited houses of the County, 160, or 3·7 per cent., are one-roomed ; 923, or 21·2 per cent., two-roomed ; 956, or 21·9 per cent., three-roomed ; 642, or 14·7 per cent., four-roomed ; 523, or 12·0 per cent., five-roomed ; 337, or 8·9 per cent., six-roomed ; and 766, or 17·6 per cent., of more than six rooms.

Of the population of the County, exclusive of those living in institutions, on board ships, in houses of more than 24 rooms, or in households of more than 19 persons (Vide note to Table XXVII.), 378, or 2·2 per cent., were enumerated in one-roomed houses ; 3313, or 18·9 per cent., in two-roomed houses ; 3688, or 21·0 per cent., in three-roomed houses ; 2577, or 14·7 per cent. in four-roomed houses ; 2134, or 12·1 per cent., in five-roomed houses ; 1731, or 9·8 per cent., in six-roomed houses ; and 3751, or 21·3 per cent., in houses of more than five rooms.

Of the total population dealt with in the preceding paragraph 14,134, or 80·4 per cent., were living not more than two in a room ; 3438, or 19·6 per cent., more than two in a room ; 16,343, or 93·0 per cent., less than three in a room ; 1229, or 7·0 per cent., more than three in a room ; 17,151, or 97·6 per cent., less than four in a room ; and 421, or 2·4 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the corresponding returns of 1901, those living not more than two in a room are 667, or 4·5 per cent., less ; those living more than two in a room, 548, or 13·7 per cent., less ; those living more than three in a room, 169, or 12·1 per cent., less ; and those living more than four in a room, 78, or 15·6 per cent., less.

Gaelic Speaking.—Of the population of the County, 2081, or 12·0 per cent. of those of three years of age and over, were returned as able to speak Gaelic, 2079 being returned as able to speak both Gaelic and English, and 2 as able to speak Gaelic but not English. In 1901, 2764 were returned as speaking both Gaelic and English, and 20 as speaking Gaelic but not English. Of the Gaelic speakers of the County, the great majority,—82·0 per cent.,—were born either in Bute or in Argyll, 1246 being born within the County of Bute, and 460 in Argyll. The two persons returned as speaking Gaelic but unable to speak English were both women, and both upwards of 80 years of age, one of them was born in Bute, and the other in Argyll.

TABLE XVI.—Population of Parliamentary Constituencies.

This Table is omitted, the Parliamentary Constituency of Bute being conterminous with the County. See Table I.

TABLE XVII.—County of BUTE—County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts:—

- |                      |                         |                    |                        |

| 9. Berwick.          | 19. Haddington.         | 28. Peebles.       | 37. Wigtown.           |
| 10. Bute.            |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume:—

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 11.

THE COUNTY OF CAITHNESS.

At the date of the first Census of Scotland, the County of Caithness had a population of 22,609, and by each successive Census up to that of 1861 an increase was found, the population then attaining a maximum of 41,111, which is 18,502, or 81·8 per cent. more than in 1801. But by all Censuses taken since 1861 the reverse has been the case and decreases of the population have been found,—the County population now numbering 32,010, which is 9,101, or 22·1 per cent., less than in 1861. The decrease of population since 1861 has not been so great as the increase previous to that date, and the population is now 9,401, or 41·6 per cent., more than at the date of the first Census. The largest intercensal increases of County population occurred in the decades 1811 to 1821, and 1821 to 1831, when they were 5,762, or 24·6 per cent., and 5,348, or 18·3 per cent., respectively; and the largest decreases occurred in the two most recent decades, 1891 to 1901, and 1901 to 1911, when they were 3,307, or 8·9 per cent., and 1,860, or 5·5 per cent. The present population is the same as it was at some date between 1821 and 1831, for it is 2,829 more than in 1821, but 2,519 less than in 1831.

TABLE A.—POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

1911	32,010	15,156	16,854	-1,860	-916	-944	-5·5	-5·7	-5·3

Of the population of the County as now ascertained, 32,010, 15,156 are males, and 16,854 females. The male population is 916, or 5·7 per cent., less than in 1901, and the female population 944, or 5·3 per cent., less.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure, -1,860 in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure, -2,815, in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1871.

Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the population of the County, 12,421, or 38.8 per cent., were enumerated within burghs, and 19,589, or 61.2 per cent., in the extra-burghal districts. The burghal population is 499, or 4.2 per cent., more than in 1901, but the extra-burghal population is 2,359, or 10.7 per cent., less.

TABLE D.—POPULATION IN PUBLIC HEALTH DISTRICTS.

	1911.	1901.	Increase.		Decrease.
			Actual.	Per cent.	Actual.	Per cent.
BURGHAL DISTRICT—
Wick	9,086	8,199	887	10.8	—	—
Thurso	3,335	3,723	—	—	388	10.4
COUNTY DISTRICT (exclusive of Burghs)—	19,589	21,948	—	—	2,359	10.7

Burgh Populations.—There are two burghs in Caithness, Thurso and Wick. In 1901 there were three, for Pulteneytown was then an independent burgh, but, as it was combined with Wick in 1902, the number of burghs has been reduced from three to two.

Wick, the larger of the two burghs, has now a population of 9,086, which amounts to 28·4 per cent. of the total of the County. In 1901 the population of Wick was 2,744, and of Pulteneytown 5,137, the combined population being 7,911, and thus the gross intercensal increase of population in the united burgh is 1,175; but, in addition to the union of the two burghs in 1902, there was also an extension of burgh boundaries, an area which in 1901 had a population of 288 being included, and if the present population of the burgh be compared with the 1901 population of the area now included within it, the net increase is found to amount to 887, or 10·8 per cent. Although Pulteneytown has recently been united to Wick for municipal purposes, it has long been united for parliamentary purposes, and the growth of the united burgh, clear of the 1902 extension of boundaries, is the same as that of the Parliamentary Burgh of Wick. In 1841 the population was 5,522, and the Censuses of 1851, 1861 and 1871 all found it to be increased, the population at the last named date amounting to 8,145; by the Census of 1881 it was found to have decreased to 8,053, but by the Census of 1891 it was found to have again increased and to amount to 8,512. In 1901 a decrease was again found, for the population was then 7,911, but by this Census an increase of 763, or 9·6 per cent., is found, and the population of the parliamentary burgh is now at its maximum. It is 3,152, or 57·1 per cent., more than in 1841.

Thurso has now a population of 3,335, which is 388, or 10·4 per cent., less than in 1901, and is less than at all Censuses since 1871,—it is 15·3 per cent. less than in 1891, 17·8 per cent. less than in 1881, and 7·9 per cent. less than in 1871.

Parish Populations.—There are ten parishes in the County, and of these one only, Wick, has increased in population during the intercensal period, while nine have decreased.

The Parish of Wick has now a population of 12,587, which is 337 more than in 1901. The burghal portion of the parish has, as above stated, increased by 887, or 10·8 per cent., but the landward portion has decreased by 550, or 13·6 per cent.

Next to Wick, the most populous parishes are Thurso, Latheron, Halkirk, and Canisbay, having respectively populations of 4,709, 4,514, 2,160, and 2,051; and the least populous are Reay and Watten, where the populations are now 920 and 1,079. The largest decreases are found in Latheron, 709; in Thurso, 697; and in Halkirk, 195; and the highest rates of decrease are found in Latheron, 13·6 per cent.; in Thurso, 12·9 per cent.; and in Watten, 12·3 per cent.

Parliamentary Constituencies.—Of the total population of Caithness, 8,674, or 27·1 per cent., are in the parliamentary constituency of the Wick Burghs, and the remaining 23,336, or 72·9 per cent., are in the constituency of the County of Caithness. Compared with the corresponding figure of 1901, the portion of the population in Wick Burghs Constituency is 763, or 9·6 per cent., more, but the portion in Caithness Constituency is 2,623, or 10·1 per cent., less.

Age and Sex Distribution of the Population.—As the decreases in the male and female populations of the County have differed by only a small amount, the ratio of females to each hundred males has been little altered. In 1901 it was 110·7, and is now found to be 111·2.

The male age-groups affected by decrease of population are all those below 45, and between 60 and 74,—increases being found in age-groups between 45 and 59, and over 75. The largest decreases of males are 159, or 8·6 per cent., in age-groups 5 to 9; 157, or 15·9 per cent., in age-group 25 to 29; 148, or 7·8 per cent., in age-group 0 to 4; and 131, or 14·4 per cent., in age-group 40 to 44. The only substantial increase in the male population is in age-group 55 to 59, in which it amounts to 99, or 18·1 per cent.

All female age-groups of less than 70, with the exception of age-groups 50 to 54, and 35 to 39, show decreases, the largest being in age-group 60 to 64, 248, or 30·8 per cent.; in age-group 0 to 4, 204, or 10·9 per cent.; in age-group 15 to 19, 145, or 8·7 per cent.; in age-group 5 to 9, 140, or 7·8 per cent.; and in age-group 65 to 69, 128, or 17·7 per cent.

The population of under 45, both sexes combined, has decreased during the intercensal period by 1,672, and of 45 and over by 188. The male population of under 45 has decreased by 981, but of 45 and over has increased by 65. The female population of under 45 has decreased by 691, and of over 45 by 253.

Occupations.—There are 9,259 males, and 3,410 females returned as having some remunerative occupation. In 1901, 10,016 males, and 3,775 females were so returned, and the decennial decrease of occupied males in the County is thus 757, and of occupied females 365. Occupied males constitute 79·0 per cent. of the total male population of 10 years of age and over, and occupied females 25·2 per cent. of the total female population of those ages; in 1901 the corresponding rates were 81·2, and 26·7, and thus there has been not only a reduction in gross number of the occupied in the County, but also a reduction in the ratio the occupied bear to the total enumerated.

Of the occupied males, 1 only was less than 14 years of age; 103 were aged 14; 1,388, or 15·0 per cent., were between 15 and 19; 1,045, or 11·3 per cent., between 20 and 24; 3,186, or 34·4 per cent., between 25 and 44; 2,618, or 28·3 per cent., between 45 and 64; and 918, or 9·9 per cent., 65 or more. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males of under 14 are 14 less; of 14 years of age, 31 less; of 15 to 19, 155 less; of 20 to 24, 117 less; of 25 to 44, 416 less; and of 65 and over, 141 less; but those of from 45 to 64 are 117 more. Of the occupied females, none are less than 14; 35 are aged 14; 707, or 20·7 per cent., are between 15 and 19; 623, or 18·3 per cent., between 20 and 24; 1,069, or 31·3 per cent., between 25 and 44; 652, or 19·1 per cent., between 45 and 64; and 324, or 9·5 per cent., are 65 or more. Compared with the numbers in 1901, the occupied females in all age-groups are less; those under 20 are 198 less; between 20 and 24, 13 less; between 25 and 44, 33 less; between 45 and 64, 92 less; and of 65 and over, 55 less.

The two groups of occupations to which the greatest numbers of males are returned are those connected with agriculture and fishing, 4,542, or 49·1 per cent. of the total occupied males being so returned. In 1901, the corresponding figures were 5,068, and 50·6 per cent., and thus both the absolute and the relative numbers in these occupations show a decennial decrease.

Among males with occupations connected with agriculture there are 774 Farmers; 255 Sons or Other Relatives assisting on Farms; 811 Crofters; 284 Sons or Other Relatives assisting on Crofts; 171 Grieves; 165 Shepherds; and 1,202 Agricultural Labourers. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Farmers number 284 less; Sons and Other Relatives assisting on Farms, 87 less; Shepherds, 13 less; and Agricultural Labourers, 129 less; but Crofters are 151 more; Sons and Other Relatives assisting on Crofts, 133 more; and Grieves, 77 more. Fishermen in the County number 637, and are 445 less than in 1901; and Fishermen-Crofters number 189, or 59 more than in that year.

Of the male population, 545 are returned as having occupations connected with the building trades, a number which is 62 less than in 1901. These include 212 returned as Masons, or as Builders, or as Bricklayers, or as their Labourers,—a number which is 44 less than in 1901; 221 as Carpenters, being 52 less than in 1901; and 45 as Painters, being 10 more than in 1901.

Other occupations to which considerable numbers of males are returned are Carters, 217; Workers in Quarries, 181; and Seamen, all grades, 137. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Carters are 24 more, but Seamen are 96 fewer, and Workers in Quarries are 205 fewer.

Of the occupied females the greatest numbers are returned in occupations connected with Agriculture, and in Domestic Service, 1,140, or 33·4 per cent. of the total occupied, being returned in the former, and 1,014, or 29·7 per cent. of the total in the latter.

Occupied females in the agricultural occupations are 526, or 31·6 per cent., less than in 1901. Among them there are 71 Farmers, 125 Daughters and other Relatives assisting on Farms, 287 Crofters, 294 Daughters and other Relatives assisting on Crofts, and 361 Agricultural Labourers. Compared with the corresponding figures for 1901, the number of females returned as Farmers is 26 less; as Daughters and other Relatives assisting on Farms, 260 less; as Crofters, 25 less; and as Agricultural Labourers, 312 less; but as Daughters and other Relatives assisting on Crofts, 95 more.

Female Domestic Servants, including those serving in Hotels and Lodging Houses, number 1,014, and are 105 more than in 1901. Females returned as Teachers number 149, and are 2 more than in 1901, and those returned as Dress-makers number 302, and are 54 less than in that year.

Industries.—In Caithness only three industries give employment to more than 500 males, and only two to more than 500 females. The former are Agriculture, in which industry 3,734 males are returned; Fishing, 1,356; and House Building and Decorating, 538; and the latter are Agriculture, in which 1,140 females are returned; and Domestic and Institution Service, in which 1,050 females are returned.

Birth-places.—Of the total population of the County 31,505, or 98·4 per cent., are of Scottish birth, 28,759, or 89·8 per cent., having been born in Caithness itself, and 2,746, or 8·6 per cent., in other Scottish Counties. Those born outwith Scotland number 505, and constitute 1·6 per cent. of the total; they include 290 of English birth, 61 of Irish birth, 49 of colonial birth, and 42 foreigners. Compared with the corresponding figures for 1901, those of Irish birth are 17 more, and foreigners are 9 more, but those of English birth are 29 less.

Housing.—Of the 7,846 houses enumerated in the County, 7,360 were occupied, 472 unoccupied, and 14 in course of erection. Occupied houses are 214 more than in 1901, and unoccupied houses 90 more, but those in course of erection are 15 fewer.

Of the occupied houses, 538, or 7·3 per cent., are one-roomed; 2,316, or 31·5 per cent., two-roomed; 2,114, or 28·7 per cent., three-roomed; 1,003, or 13·6 per cent., four-roomed; 442, or 6·0 per cent., five-roomed; 382, or 5·2 per cent., six-roomed; and 565, or 7·7 per cent., of more than six rooms. Compared with the corresponding figures for 1901, one-roomed houses are 483 fewer; two-roomed houses, 429 fewer; three-roomed houses 182 more; four-roomed houses, 76 more; five-roomed houses, 83 more; six-roomed houses 59 more; and houses of more than six rooms, 17 more. In 1901 one windowless house was found in the County, but by this Census the existence of no such house was ascertained. In making the above comparisons, it is right to point out that in tabulating the 1901 Census lodgers were treated as householders, and that in tabulating the results of this Census they were not so treated, but were counted as members of households and not as householders, and the change of method no doubt at least partly accounts for the apparent decrease in the number of smaller houses, and the apparent increase in the number of larger houses.

Of the total population, exclusive of those living on board ships, in institutions, in houses of more than twenty-four rooms, and in households of more than nineteen persons (vide Note to Table XXVII.), 1,192, or 3·8 per cent., were living in houses of one room; 8,813, or 27·8 per cent., in houses of two rooms; 9,647, or 30·4 per cent., in houses of three rooms; 5,057, or 16·0 per cent., in houses of four rooms; 2,253, or 7·1 per cent., in houses of five rooms; 1,894, or 6·0 per cent., in houses of six rooms; and 2,839, or 8·9 per cent., in houses of more than six rooms.

Of the population dealt with in the preceding paragraph, 21,077, or 66·5 per cent., were by the Census found to be living not more than two in a room; 10,618, or 33·5 per cent., more than two in a room; 27,691, or 87·4 per cent., not more than three in a room; 4,004, or 12·6 per cent., more than three in a room; 30,400, or 95·9 per cent.,

not more than four in a room ; and 1,295, or 4·1 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, those living more than two in a room are 1,728, or 14·0 per cent., less ; those living more than three in a room, 1,448, or 26·6 per cent., less ; and those living more than four in a room, 847, or 39·5 per cent., less.

Gaelic Speaking.—Persons with a knowledge of Gaelic in the County of Caithness are found to number 1,685, and to constitute 6·7 per cent. of the entire population of three years of age and upwards. Of these 1,248 were born in Caithness, 273 in Sutherland, 77 in Ross and Cromarty, and 87 elsewhere. Of the 1,685 Gaelic speakers, all but three are returned as able to speak English in addition to Gaelic. By an examination of the age distribution of the Gaelic speakers, it is found that only 22 of them are of less than 20 years of age, which suggests that the Gaelic language cannot be in habitual use, for if such were the case large numbers of the younger generation would be found to have a knowledge of it. Of the three persons returned as speaking Gaelic but unable to speak English, one was born in Caithness, one in Sutherland, and one in Ross and Cromarty,—all three being elderly.

TABLE XVII.—County of CAITHNESS.—County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which, for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The County of Caithness, however, is not so divided. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The first Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

- |                       |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads: "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 12.

THE COUNTY OF CLACKMANNAN.

THE County of Clackmannan is found to have a population of 31,121, males numbering 14,657 and females 16,464. The male population is 538, or 3·5 per cent., less than in 1901; the female population 370, or 2·2 per cent., less; and the total population is 908, or 2·8 per cent., less.

TABLE A.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION, 1801-1911.

1901	32,029	15,195	16,834	3,597	1,517	2,080	12·7	11·1	14·1
1911	31,121	14,657	16,464	- 908	- 538	- 370	- 2·8	- 3·5	- 2·2

Comparison of the present population of the County with the populations found by the earlier censuses is complicated by the alterations of county boundaries which in 1892 were made by Order of the Boundary Commission. The census population now published, 31,121, though less than that of 1901, is greater than those of all other censuses; it is nearly three times as large as that of 1801, more than twice as large as that of 1831, and nearly fifty per cent. more than that of 1861. But if the 1901 and 1911 populations be adjusted so as to be strictly comparable with those of the earlier censuses, or, in other words, if for the purposes of comparison there be used the 1901 and 1911 populations within the County boundaries as they existed at the dates of the earlier censuses, it is found that the present population is not only less than that of 1901, but also less than that of 1891. The present population within the old County boundaries, the boundaries that existed before the alterations, is now 27,516, the corresponding population in 1901 was 27,961, and in 1891, 28,432, and by this comparison the intercensal change in the period 1891 to 1901 was a decrease of 471, or 1·7 per cent., and in the period 1901 to 1911, a decrease of 445, or 1·6 per cent. All censuses previous to 1901, that of 1861 excepted, showed the population of the County to be increasing, the largest increases having occurred in the period 1831 to 1841, and 1841 to 1851, when they were 4426, or 30·0 per cent., and 3796, or 19·8 per cent., respectively. Of the three intercensal decreases of population, that found in 1861 is the greatest: it amounted to 1501, or 6·5 per cent. In Table A, the population stated and the differences shown are the census figures as published and are not adjusted to make allowance for alterations of County boundaries, but the differences, and rates of difference, shown in Tables B and C, are based on adjusted populations, and hence the figures in them relative to the years 1901 and 1911 are not the same as in Table A.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL CHANGES OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e. on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e. above. Thus the figure - 445 in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount less than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure + 4685, in the fourth row of the fifth column, indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1871.

Distribution of the Population within the County.—Of the population of the County, 20,827, or 66·9 per cent., were enumerated in the Burghs, and 10,294, or 33·1 per cent., in the extraburghal portions of the County. The burghal population is 309, or 1·5 per cent., less than in 1901, and the extraburghal population is 599, or 5·5 per cent., less.

Burgh Populations.—There are four burghs in the County. Alloa, the most populous, has a population of 11,893, which amounts to 38·2 per cent. of that of the entire County. The population of Alva is 4332, of Tillicoultry, 3105, and of Dollar, 1497. Of these four burghs, Alloa is the only one that has increased in population during the intercensal period, the remaining three all having decreased. The increase in Alloa amounts to 338, or 2·9 per cent.; the decrease in Alva is 292, or 6·3 per cent., in Tillicoultry, 233, or 7·0 per cent., and in Dollar, 122, or 7·5 per cent. The burgh boundaries of Alloa were altered during the intercensal period, and an area with a population of 134 was annexed to the burgh, but that alteration is allowed for in the above comparison, for it is between the present population of the burgh and the 1901 population of the area now included within the burgh.

Parish Populations.—There are five parishes in the County. The parish of Alloa—the most populous—includes not only the 11,893 persons enumerated in the burgh of that name, but also 5237 persons enumerated in the landward part, the total population being 17,130, or 55·0 per cent., of the entire population of the County. This parish is the only one in the County whose population has increased during the intercensal period; in 1901 it numbered 16,858, and the intercensal increase amounts to 272, or 1·6 per cent.

The population of Alva Parish is 5265, and is 376, or 6·7 per cent., less than in 1901; that of Tillicoultry Parish is 4649, and is 338, or 6·8 per cent., less than in 1901; that of Clackmannan Parish is 2203, and is 298, or 11·9 per cent., less than in 1901; and that of Dollar Parish is 1874, and is 168, or 8·2 per cent., less than in 1901.

Only two of these parishes—Dollar and Tillicoultry—have been unaffected by alterations of parish boundaries. The former had its maximum population in 1871, and since then has decreased by 650, or 25·8 per cent.; the latter had its maximum population in 1891, and since then has decreased by 1046, or 18·4 per cent.

Age and Sex Distribution of the Population.—The intercensal decrease of males in the County was greater than that of females, and consequently the ratio of females to males is increased. In 1901 it was 110·8 to 100, it is now 112·3 to 100.

An examination of the age distribution of the population, and a comparison of what it is now with what it was in 1901, brings out that the total loss of population, both male and female, is fully accounted for by the decreases in the younger age-groups. The present male population of less than 25 years of age is now 819, or 9·6 per cent., less than in 1901, and that of female population of the same ages is 863, or 9·7 per cent., less. The male population of ages 25 and over is 281, or 4·2 per cent., more than in 1901, and the female population of these ages, 493, or 6·2 per cent., more. Putting aside the more doubtful age-groups of over 70, the male age-groups showing the largest intercensal rates of increase are 65 to 69, 26·9 per cent.; and 55 to 59, 14·1 per cent.; and the male age-groups showing the largest rates of decrease are 0 to 4, 15·4 per cent.; and 20 to 24, 9·1 per cent. The female age-groups with the largest rates of increase are 65 to 69, 23·1 per cent.; and 55 to 59, 11·5 per cent.; while those with the largest rates of decrease are 5 to 9, 12·8 per cent.; 10 to 14, 11·6 per cent.; and 20 to 24, 10·1 per cent.

The decrease of population in the younger ages is clearly brought out when the numbers under 20 years of age in the School Board Districts of the County are compared with the corresponding figures of 1901. In Clackmannan School Board District there has been a decrease of 237, or 21·2 per cent.; in Alva School Board District, 374, or 15·5 per cent.; in Tillicoultry School Board District, 304, or 13·9 per cent.; in Dollar School Board District, 110, or 12·9 per cent.; in Alloa Landward School Board District, 116, or 4·7 per cent.; and in Alloa Burghal School Board District, 233, or 4·5 per cent.

Occupations.—Of the male population of 10 years of age and over, 9387, or 81·9 per cent., are returned as having some remunerative occupation; in 1901, 9653, or 83·5 per cent., were so returned. The occupied males of the County thus number 266 fewer than in 1901. Of the female population of 10 years of age and over, 4557, or 34·2 per cent., were so returned, the corresponding figures of 1901 being 4893 or 36·8 per cent., and the comparison shows that these occupied females now number 336 less than in 1901.

Of the occupied males, 11 were between 10 and 13 years of age, and 199 of 14, the former figure being 90 less than in 1901 and the latter 92 less. Occupied males of 15 to 19 number 1482, and are 126 less than in 1901; of 20 to 24, 1199, and are 155 less; those of 25 to 44, 3807, and are 138 more than in 1901; from 45 to 64, 2254, and are 46 more than in 1901; and those of 65 and over number 435, and are 13 more than in 1901.

Occupied females of under 14 number 9, and are 98 less than in 1901; those of 14 number 193, and are 47 less; those of 15 to 19 number 1384, and are 53 less; those of 20 to 24, 1076, and are 97 less; those of 25 to 44, 1321, and are 41 less; those of 45 to 64, 475, and are 18 more; and those of 65 and over number 99, and are 18 less than in 1901. Thus occupied males of all age-groups of under 25 are less than in 1901, and in all age-groups of over 25, more; but occupied females in all age-groups, both below and above 25, with the exception of age-group 45 to 64, are less than in that year.

The occupations followed by the largest numbers of males are those connected with mining and with the woollen industry, the number with agricultural occupations in this County being comparatively small.

Those with occupations connected with mining number 1351, which is 55 more than in 1901. These include 869 returned as Hewers, 340 as Other Workers below Ground, and 113 as Workers above Ground. Those with occupations connected with the woollen industry number 1251, which is almost the same as in 1901, when they numbered 1252. Occupied males in the building trades number 600, and are 129 fewer than in 1901; of these 133 were returned as Builders, or Masons, or Bricklayers, or as their Labourers; 203 as Carpenters, or Joiners, or as their Labourers; and 100 as Painters. Masons and Builders, &c., are 54, or 28·9 per cent., less than in 1901; Carpenters and Joiners are 56, or 21·6 per cent., less; but Painters are 9, or 9·9 per cent., more than in that year.

Among other occupations followed by considerable numbers of males there are Farmers and their Sons and other Relatives assisting on the Farms, 99; Agricultural Labourers, 224; Carters, 260; Brewers, Maltsters, and Distillers, 499; Dyers and Bleachers, 195; Brickmakers, 115; and Glass Bottle Manufacturers, 199. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Farmers and their Sons and other Relatives assisting on the Farms are 37 less; Agricultural Labourers, 7 less; Carters, 20 less; Brewers, Maltsters and Distillers, 47 more; Dyers and Bleachers, 27 more; Brickmakers, 19 more; and Glass Bottle Manufacturers, 71 more.

Of the occupied females of the County, 2344, or 51·4 per cent., are returned as belonging to one or other of the occupations connected with woollen manufacture, in 1901 these numbered 2364, and they are thus now 20 less than in that year. Other occupations followed by considerable numbers of females are Domestic Service, 649; Dressmakers, 247; Teachers, 152; and Clerks, 120. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Domestic Servants are 182 less; Dressmakers are 121 less; and Teachers are 2 less; but Clerks are 52 more.

The number of married women with remunerative occupations is small, being only 127, or 2·5 per cent., of the total married women enumerated.

Industries.—The industries of the County, which for census purposes are defined as the occupations of the employers, are shown in Table XXIV. The principal industry of the County is that of Wool Manufacture, for in it there are employed 1552, or 16·5 per cent., of the occupied males, and 2378, or 52·2 per cent., of the occupied females. The Coal Industry gives employment to 1477, or 15·7 per cent., of the occupied males; Brewing and Distilling to 807, or 8·6 per cent.; House Building and Decorating to 531, or 5·7 per cent.; the Preparation and Sale of Provisions to 515, or 5·5 per cent.; and Agriculture to 490, or 5·2 per cent. Industries other than Wool Manufacture giving employment to large numbers of occupied women are Domestic and Institution Service, 791, or 17·4 per cent., of the total occupied; Tailoring and Dressmaking, 293, or 6·4 per cent.; and Local Government Service, 145, or 3·2 per cent.

Birthplaces.—Of the total population of the County, 19,716, or 63·4 per cent., were born within the County itself, and 10,007, or 32·1 per cent., in other Scottish counties. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, those born within the County are 688 less, and those born in other Scottish counties are 170 less. In 1901, as at this census, those of Scottish birth constituted 95·5 per cent. of the total population of the County.

Those of English birth number 812, constituting 2·6 per cent. of the total, and are 113 more than in 1901. Those of Irish birth number 271, constituting 0·9 per cent. of the total, and are 88 fewer than in 1901. Foreigners number 85, and are 10 more than at the date of the previous census.

Housing.—Of the 7100 inhabited houses in the County, 1023, or 14·4 per cent., were one-roomed; 3013, or 42·4 per cent., two-roomed; 1427, or 20·1 per cent., three-roomed; 592, or 8·3 per cent., four-roomed; 293, or 4·1 per cent., five-roomed; 204, or 2·9 per cent., six-roomed; and 548, or 7·7 per cent., of more than six rooms. Compared with the corresponding figure of 1901, one-roomed houses are 347 less; and two-roomed houses 60 less; but three-roomed houses are 193 more; four-roomed houses 92 more; five-roomed houses 47 more; six-roomed houses 36 more; and houses of more than six rooms 16 more. In making these comparisons it is right to point out that they are not strictly fair, because in the tabulation of the 1901 census, lodgers were treated as separate householders, while in the tabulation of this Census they have not been so treated but have been counted as members of households, and this change of method no doubt has resulted in an apparent diminution in the number of smaller houses, and an increase in the number of larger ones.

Of the total population, exclusive of persons living in institutions, in houses of more than twenty-four rooms, and in households of more than 19 persons (vide Table XXVII.), 2776, or 9·0 per cent., were enumerated in one-roomed houses; 13,170, or 42·8 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 6970, or 22·6 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 2898, or 9·4 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 1337, or 4·3 per cent., in five-roomed houses; 981, or 3·2 per cent., in six-roomed houses; and 2644, or 8·6 per cent., in houses of more than six rooms.

Of the total population dealt with in the preceding paragraph, 17,012, or 55·3 per cent., were living not more than two in a room; 13,764, or 44·7 per cent., more than two in a room; 24,525, or 79·7 per cent., not more than three in a room; 6251, or 20·3 per cent., more than three in a room; 28,393, or 92·3 per cent., not more than four in a room; and 2383, or 7·7 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the corresponding figure of 1901, those living more than two in a room are 2113 less; those living more than three in a room, 2027 less; and those living more than four in a room, 864 less.

Gaelic Speaking.—Of the population of the County, 224 were returned as able to speak both Gaelic and English, and none as speaking Gaelic only. Of the 224 Gaelic speakers, 56 were returned as born in Argyll, 40 as born in Inverness, 40 as born in Perth, and 21 as born in Ross and Cromarty. The birthplace of 5 of these Gaelic speakers was returned as Ireland, and the presumption is that these five were speakers of Irish, and not of Scottish, Gaelic.

This Table is omitted, the entire County of Clackmannan being within the Clackmannan portion of the Parliamentary Constituency of Clackmannan and Kinross.

TABLE XVII.—County of CLACKMANNAN—County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The County of Clackmannan, however, is not so divided. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

REPORT ON CENSUS, 1911.

This Report will be issued in three volumes. The First Volume will deal more especially with information required for local administrative purposes, and with information of local interest. The Second Volume will contain information applicable to Scotland as a whole and, to a large extent, will be a summary of the First Volume, but with the omission of much local detail. The Third Volume will be devoted to special statistical studies, such as the fertility of married women, the occupations of foreigners, and the numbering of the infirm and such like.

The First Volume will be issued in 37 parts, the first four of them containing the Returns for the Cities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, and Aberdeen, and the remaining 33 containing the Returns for the Counties exclusive of these cities. The county parts will be issued in alphabetical order. The following is a complete list of the 37 parts :—

- |                      |                         |                    |                        |

| 10. Bute.            |                         |                    |                        |

So far as practicable the tables throughout all the parts of the First Volume will be uniform, being arranged in the same order and bearing the same reference number; but when for local reasons any table is uncalled for in a city or a county part, that table will be omitted and an explanatory note inserted. The following is a complete list of the serial tables to be included in the 37 parts of the First Volume.

Tables included in the City and County parts of the First Volume :—

It is hoped that the above Tables are sufficiently full to meet all the requirements of local administration, but should local authorities or others desire further censal information, they are at liberty to make application to the Registrar-General in terms of Sect. 9 of the Census Act, which reads "The Registrar-General may, if and at such time as he thinks fit, at the request and cost of any local authority or any person, cause abstracts to be prepared containing statistical information which can be derived from the Census Returns but is not supplied by the Census Report, and which, in his opinion, the authority, or person, may reasonably require."

REPORT

ON THE

TWELFTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF SCOTLAND.

Volume I.—Part 13.

THE COUNTY OF DUMBARTON.

The County of Dumbarton is found to have a population of 139,831, of whom 69,718 are males and 70,113 females. In 1901 the total population numbered 113,865, the male population 56,598, and the female, 57,267, and thus the total intercensal increase is found to be 25,966, that of the male population being 13,120, and of the female 12,846. The intercensal rate of increase of the total population is 22·8 per cent., of the male population, 23·2 per cent., and of the female, 22·4 per cent.

1911	139,831	69,718	70,113	25,966	13,120	12,846	22·8	23·2	22·4

In 1801, the year of the first Census of Scotland, Dumbarton County was found to have a population of 20,710, and to be one of the six least populous counties, but by all subsequent Censuses, substantial, and mostly large, increases have been found, and it now is one of the eight most populous. Its population is now more than six times as great as in 1801, more than five times as great as in 1811, more than four times as great as in 1831, more than three times as great as in 1841, and more than twice as great as in 1871. The largest actual intercensal increase of population is that now found, 25,966, and the next largest increases were those found in 1901 and 1891, which were 19,370, and 19,162 respectively. The smallest intercensal increase was that found in 1851, which amounted to 807. The highest rates of intercensal increase were those of the decades 1831 to 1841, and 1871 to 1881, which were 33·4 per cent., and 28·0 per cent., respectively.

TABLE B.—INTERCENSAL INCREASE OF POPULATION AT EACH CENSUS SINCE 1801.

The figures in the spaces show the differences between the population enumerated in the Censuses named in the first column, i.e., on the left, and those named in the top row, i.e., above. Thus the figure, 25,081, in the second row of the second column indicates that the population enumerated in 1911 is by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1901, and the figure, 35,638, in the fourth row of the fifth column indicates that the population enumerated in 1891 was by that amount greater than the population enumerated in 1871.

In this Table the increases of population referring to the years 1901 and 1911 have been adjusted to allow for the alteration on the boundaries of the County made by the Boundary Commissioners in 1892.

By far the largest part of the increase of population of the County has been within the County boundaries as they existed at the dates of the earlier Censuses, but a small part of the increase, 4954—being the present population of an area added to the County—is due to an alteration of boundary by Order of the Boundary Commission, which took effect in 1892. Tables B and C have been constructed to show the increases, and rates of increase, of population in the County, and in them the figures relative to 1901 and 1911 have been adjusted to omit any increase due to alterations of boundaries, in order that the figures may be strictly comparable with those relative to the earlier Censuses. When so adjusted, all the figures in these Tables give intercensal changes of the County as constituted prior to the alterations of boundaries in 1892, and are uncomplicated by changes due to these alterations. The present population so adjusted, i.e. the present population within the County boundary which existed prior to 1892, is 134,877, and is 25,081, or 22·8 per cent., more than in 1901; 40,382, or 42·7 per cent., more than in 1891; 76,020, or 129·2 per cent., more than in 1871; 101,666, or 306·1 per cent., more than in 1831; and 114,167, or 551·3 per cent., more than in 1801.

The growth of population in the County is somewhat strikingly brought out by comparing the 1801 and the present populations with those of the neighbouring County of Argyll. In 1801 the population of Argyll was nearly four times as large as that of Dumbarton, but that of Dumbarton is now nearly twice as large as that of Argyll.

Distribution of Population within the County.—Of the total population, 85,389, or 61·1 per cent., were enumerated within the six burghs of the County and 54,442, or 38·9 per cent., in the extra-burghal portions of the County. In 1901, the burghal population numbered 62,134, or 54·6 per cent. of the total, and the extra-burghal population 51,731, or 45·4 per cent. of the total, and thus the gross increase of burghal population amounts to 23,255, and of extra-burghal population to 2711. But the boundaries of two of these burghs were altered during the intercensal period; an area which in 1901 contained a population of 2228 being added to Clydebank, and one which contained a population of 202 to Milngavie. The total population within the present burgh boundaries amounted in 1901 to 64,564, and outside the present burgh boundaries to 49,301, and compared with these figures the present burghal population is 20,825, or 32·3 per cent., more, and the present extra-burghal population is 5141, or 10·4 per cent., more.

The extra-burghal portion of the County is divided into two Public Health Districts, the Eastern and the Western. The Eastern has now a population of 26,349, which is 4000, or 17·9 per cent., more than in 1901, and the Western a population of 28,093, which is 1141, or 4·2 per cent., more than in that year.

Where, as above, we draw a contrast between the burghal and the extra-burghal populations, it is right to point out that the terms burghal and extra-burghal should not be taken as synonymous with the terms urban and rural. This is generally true in all the Scottish Counties, and is especially so in Dumbarton where the populations of several towns of comparatively large size, and of essentially urban character, are included in the extra-burghal portion of the County population, for the reason that those towns have not been constituted "burghs." For instance, in the Eastern (extra-burghal) Public Health District there are the towns of Bearsden and Duntocher, each of which has a population exceeding 3000, and in the Western (extra-burghal) Public Health District there are the three towns of Alexandria, Bonhill and Jamestown, which collectively have a population of more than 10,000. In the 1901 Census Report an endeavour was made to count the populations of all towns whether burghal or not, and, by excluding these, to give rural populations; but the same endeavour is not now repeated, because the absence of defined boundaries in the case of towns which have not been constituted burghs, makes it difficult to attain the preciseness that is required for Census purposes. The omission, however, is partly made good by the publication of the populations of Special Lighting Districts, and of Special Scavenging Districts, constituted in terms of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, for the majority of towns that have not been constituted burghs have been constituted Special Scavenging Districts, or Special Lighting Districts, or both; and the populations of those districts may be taken as those of the towns. This is so in the case of the five towns above referred to.

Burgh Populations.—There are six burghs in the County, and of these Clydebank is the most populous. In 1901 its population amounted to 18,670; it is now 37,548; and the gross intercensal increase amounts to 18,878, or 101·1 per cent.; but in 1906 the burgh boundary was altered and an area which in 1901 had a population of 2,228 was added. Thus the net intercensal increase of population within the area now included in the burgh amounts to 16,650, or 79·7 per cent., and, according to the figures given in the Preliminary Report (and we believe those figures to be substantially correct), Clydebank is the burgh with the largest actual intercensal increase of population, and the burgh with the highest rate of intercensal increase, in Scotland. In 1891, the date of the first Census at which Clydebank was a burgh, its population was 10,014. Compared with that figure, the 1901 population is 8,656, or 86·4 per cent., more, and the present population is 27,534, or 275·0 per cent., more.

Dumbarton is the second largest burgh in the County. It has a population of 21,989, which is 2004, or 10·0 per cent. more than in 1901. Between 1871 and 1891 the population of this burgh increased by 5,504, or 48·2 per cent., and between 1891 and 1911 by 5062, or 29·9 per cent.

The population of the burgh of Kirkintilloch is 11,932,—in 1901 it was 10,502, and the intercensal increase is thus found to amount to 1430, or 13·6 per cent.

The remaining three burghs of the County have each of them a population of less than 10,000. In one of them, Milngavie, there has been an intercensal increase, but in the other two, Cove and Kilcreggan, and Helensburgh, there are decreases. The population of Milngavie in 1901 was 3481. It is now found to be 4530, showing a gross intercensal increase of 1049, or 30·1 per cent.; but during the intercensal period its boundaries have been altered, and if the present population be compared with the 1901 population of the area now included within these boundaries, the intercensal increase is found to be 847, or 23·0 per cent. Helensburgh has a population of 8529, which is very little different from the figures of 1901, the decrease amounting to only 25, or 0·3 per cent. The population of Cove and Kilcreggan in 1901 was 942; it is now only 861, the intercensal decrease being 81, or 8·6 per cent.

Parish Populations.—There are 12 parishes in the County, and of these the most populous is Old or West Kilpatrick. The population of this parish in 1801 was 2844. Up to 1841 it was found to be increasing, amounting as it did at that date to 7020, but from 1841 to 1871 it decreased to the extent of 1674, amounting at the last named date to only 5346. Since 1871, successive Censuses have all found it to have increased; in 1881 it amounted to 8862, the intercensal increase being 3516, or 65·8 per cent.; in 1891 the population was 17,775, and the increase 8913, or 100·6 per cent.; in 1901 the population was 27,448, and the increase 9673, or 54·4 per cent., and in 1911 it is found to be 45,345—the intercensal increase being 17,897, or 65·2 per cent. The population found by this Census is nearly eight and a half times as large as that found by the 1871 Census. Of the total population of Old or West Kilpatrick, 37,982, or 83·8 per cent., is burghal, 37,548, or 82·8 per cent. being within the burgh of Clydebank, and 434 or 1·0 per cent. being within the burgh of Dumbarton. In addition, 6316, or 13·9 per cent., is urban in character, being within the Special Scavenging Districts of Duntocher, and Kilpatrick and Bowling, leaving only 1047, or 2·3 per cent., which is presumably rural in character.

Other parishes in the County with populations of more than 10,000, are Dumbarton, 16,912; Kirkintilloch, 16,530; Bonhill, 15,969; New or East Kilpatrick, 13,798; Cardross, 11,326; and Row, 11,111. Of those six parishes, two, Cardross and Row, have decreased by a small amount, less than 100 in each instance, while four have increased. The intercensal increase of population in Dumbarton is 1745, or 11·5 per cent.; in Kirkintilloch, 2129, or 14·8 per cent.; in Bonhill, 1388, or 9·5 per cent.; and in New Kilpatrick, 2983, or 27·6 per cent.

Of the remaining five parishes in the County, two have populations of between 1000 and 10,000, that of Cumbernauld being 5,120, and of Roseneath, 1783, while three have populations of less than 1000, that of Kilmarnock being 847, of Luss 553, and of Arrochar 537.

Age and Sex Distribution of Population.—The increase of males being somewhat greater than that of females, the ratio of females to males has correspondingly decreased. In 1901 it was 101·2 to 100, and is now 100·6 to 100.

A comparison of the numbers in the age-groups of both sexes in this and in the previous Census, shows an increase of population in both sexes and at all ages, with the exception of the more uncertain age-groups of over 90 among the males. Among males, the largest relative increases are in age-groups 35 to 39, 45 to 49, 65 to 69, and 70 to 74, in each of which it exceeds 40 per cent., and in age-groups 30 to 34, 50 to 54, and 55 to 59, in each of which it exceeds 30 per cent. Among females, the highest rates of increase are found in age-groups 45 to 49, and 70 to 74, in each of which it exceeds 40 per cent., and in age-groups 30 to 34, 40 to 44, and 50 to 54, in each of which it exceeds 30 per cent. The largest actual increases of males are in age-groups 30 to 34, 1470; and in age-group 35 to 39, 1437; and the largest actual increases of females are in age-group 0 to 4, 1346; in age-group, 5 to 9, 1342; and in age-group 30 to 34, 1298.

Occupations.—Of the male population of ten years of age and over, 43,909, or 82·4 per cent., are returned as having some remunerative occupation, and of the female population of these ages, 14,649, or 27·1 per cent., are so returned. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males are 8518, or 24·1 per cent., more, and occupied females, 1385, or 10·4 per cent., more.

Of the occupied males, 12,842, or 29·2 per cent., are in the Burgh of Clydebank, 7326, or 16·7 per cent., in the Burgh of Dumbarton, and 23,741, or 54·1 per cent., in the remainder of the County. Tabulations of the occupations of the entire County, and of these two large burghs, are set out in Tables XXIIA., XXII B. (1), and XXII B. (2).

Of the occupied males in the County, 26 are less than 14 years of age; 783 are aged 14; 6296, or 14·3 per cent., are over 14 and under 20; 6345, or 14·5 per cent., are more than 20 and less than 25; 19,816, or 45·1 per cent., are more than 25 and less than 45; 9198, or 20·9 per cent., are more than 45 and less than 65; and 1444, or 3·3 per cent., are more than 65. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied males of less than 14 are 143 fewer, and of 14, 92 fewer; but those of from 15 to 19 are 853 more; from 20 to 24, 619 more; from 25 to 44, 4597 more; from 45 to 64, 2384 more, and of 65 and over, 299 more. Of the occupied females, 4 are of less than 14 years of age; 384 are aged 14; 4256, or 29·1 per cent. are over 14 and under 20; 3890, or 26·6 per cent., are over 20 and under 25; 4569, or 31·2 per cent., are over 25 and under 45; 1335, or 9·1 per cent., are over 45 and under 65; and 211, or 1·4 per cent., are aged 65 and over. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, occupied females of under 14 are 77 less; of 14, 99 less; and of 65 and over, 56 less; but those of 15 to 19 are 109 more; from 20 to 24, 603 more; from 25 to 44, 769 more; and of 45 to 64, 136 more.

The groups of occupations in which the largest numbers of males are returned are those connected with engineering and shipbuilding, 8787, or 20·0 per cent. of the total occupied, being returned as having engineering, and 9396, or 21·4, as having shipbuilding occupations. Those in engineering occupations are 2669, or 43·6 per cent., more than in 1901, and those in shipbuilding occupations are 3585, or 61·7 per cent., more than in that year. Of those with engineering occupations, 4306, or 49·0 per cent., were enumerated in Clydebank; 1836, or 20·9 per cent., in Dumbarton; and 2645, or 30·1 per cent., in the remainder of the County. Of those with shipbuilding occupations, 4524, or 48·1 per cent., were enumerated in Clydebank; 3175, or 33·8 per cent., in Dumbarton; and 1697, or 18·1 per cent., in the remainder of the County.

The number returned as having an occupation connected with the building trades is 2320, which is 790, or 25·4 per cent. fewer than in 1901. Among these there are 549 Builders, Masons, Bricklayers, and their Labourers; 671 Carpenters and Joiners; 357 Painters; 435 Plumbers, and 308 others. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, Builders, Masons, and Bricklayers, and their Labourers are 372, or 40·4 per cent. fewer; Carpenters and Joiners are 447, or 40·0 per cent. fewer; and Painters are 34, or 8·5 per cent. fewer; but Plumbers are 81, or 22·9 per cent. more.

Miners number 2246, which is 460, or 25·8 per cent., more than in 1901; of these 2063 were returned as Hewers or as Other Workers below Ground, and 143 as Workers above Ground—the former being 444 more than in 1901, and the latter 31 more.

The numbers engaged in agricultural occupations amount to 1838, or to 4·2 per cent. of the total occupied. They are 146, or 7·4 per cent., fewer than in 1901. Among these, there are 516 Farmers, and Crofters, and their Sons and other Relatives assisting on the Farms or Crofts; and 727 Agricultural Labourers.

Among other occupations to which large numbers of males are returned in the County there are, Textile Bleachers, 1892; Railway Servants, 1159; Clerks, 1092; Motor Car Makers, 764; Carters 822; and Seamen, all grades, 602.

The occupations to which the largest numbers of females are returned are Domestic Servants, and Textile Bleachers and Dyers, 3601 being returned as the former, and 2184 as the latter. The Domestic Servants are 167 more than in 1901, and the Textile Bleachers and Dyers, 133 more. Females in engineering occupations number 1186, and are 540, or 83·6 per cent., more than in 1901. Females in agricultural occupations number 529, and are 111, or 17·3 per cent., fewer than in 1901. Of these 147 were returned as Farmers or Crofters, or their Daughters or other Relatives assisting on Farms or Crofts, and 369 as Agricultural Labourers; the former are 102 fewer than in 1901, and the latter 15 fewer.

Other occupations followed by large numbers of the women of the County are Dressmakers, 819; Clerks, 659; and Laundry Workers, 517. Dressmakers are 140 fewer than in 1901, and Laundry Workers are 21 fewer, but Clerks are 412 more.

Industries.—For Census purposes, industries are defined as the occupations of the employers, and, as so defined, the industries of the County and of the two Burghs of Clydebank and Dumbarton, are collected in Tables XXIV<sub>A</sub>, and XXIV<sub>B</sub>. (1) and (2).

The two industries employing the largest number of Males are those of Shipbuilding and Iron Manufacture, 11,703, or 26·7 per cent. of the total occupied males being returned as belonging to the former, and 8135, or 18·5 per cent., to the latter. Of the total number in the Shipbuilding Industry in the County, 5857, or 50·0 per cent., were enumerated in Clydebank, and 3696, or 31·6 per cent., in the Burgh of Dumbarton. Of those in the Industry of Iron Manufacture, 4030, or 49·5 per cent., were enumerated in Clydebank, and 1584, or 19·5 per cent., in the Burgh of Dumbarton.

Next to the foregoing come the Coal Industry, and the Bleaching and Dyeing Industry, 2559 males being returned as in the former, and 2367 in the latter. Males returned as in the Industry of the Preparation and Sale of Food number 2126, in the Industry of House Building and Decorating 1969, and in that of Agriculture, 1830.

The industries followed by the largest numbers of females are Domestic and Institution Service, 4330; Bleaching and Dyeing, 2208; Iron Manufacture, 1497; and Dressmaking, 988.

Birthplaces.—Of the total population 123,663, or 88·5 per cent., are of Scottish birth, 4724, or 3·4 per cent., of English birth, 10,115, or 7·2 per cent., of Irish Birth, 495 of Colonial birth, and 834 of other birth, the last including 324 foreigners. Of those of Scottish birth 66,801 or 47·8 per cent. of the total population, were born within the County, and 56,862, or 40·7 per cent., in other Scottish Counties—the former being 11,743, or 21·3 per cent., and the latter 12,124, or 27·1 per cent., more than in 1901.

Those of English birth are 1721, or 57·3 per cent., more than in 1901; those of Irish birth, 253, or 2·6 per cent., more; and those of Welsh birth, who now number 111, are 55, or 98·2 per cent., more. Colonials are 124, or 33·4 per cent., more than in 1901, but foreigners are 40, or 11·0 per cent., fewer.

Of the 56,862 born in Scottish Counties other than Dumbarton, 26,110, or 18·7 per cent. of the total population, were born in Lanark; 5995, or 4·3 per cent., in Renfrew; 4911, or 3·5 per cent., in Stirling; and 3418, or 2·4 per cent., in Ayr.

Housing.—Houses enumerated in the County number 31,692, 28,238 of these, or 89·1 per cent., being inhabited, 3261, or 10·3 per cent., being uninhabited, and 193 or 0·6 per cent., being in the course of erection. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, inhabited houses are 5748 more, and uninhabited houses, 1734 more, but houses in course of erection are 29 fewer.

Of the inhabited houses, 3557, or 12·6 per cent., are one-roomed; 13,587, or 48·1 per cent., two-roomed; 5165, or 18·3 per cent., three-roomed; 1,603, or 5·7 per cent., four-roomed; 1238, or 4·4 per cent., five-roomed; 763, or 2·7 per cent., six-roomed; and 2325, or 8·2 per cent., of more than six rooms. Compared with the corresponding figures of 1901, one-roomed houses are 110, or 3·0 per cent., less; two-roomed houses, 2939, or 27·6 per cent., more; three-roomed houses, 1237, or 31·5 per cent., more; four-roomed houses, 245, or 18·0 per cent., more; five-roomed houses, 418, or 51·0 per cent., more; six-roomed houses, 210, or 38·0 per cent., more; and houses of more than six rooms, 299, or 14·8 per cent., more. But in making these comparisons it is right to point out that the method of enumerating houses in this Census differs from that used in the 1901 Census,—lodgers in 1901 being treated as householders, but now as members of households and not as independent householders. The difference of method is such as tends to diminish the apparent number of one-roomed houses, and to increase the apparent number of houses of larger size.

Of the present population of the County, exclusive of those enumerated on board ship, in institutions, in households of more than 19 persons, or in houses of more than 24 rooms (vide Note to Table XXVII), 11,579, or 8·5 per cent., live in one-roomed houses; 67,381, or 49·5 per cent., in two-roomed houses; 27,805, or 20·4 per cent., in three-roomed houses; 7876, or 5·8 per cent., in four-roomed houses; 6004, or 4·4 per cent., in five-roomed houses; 3702, or 2·7 per cent., in six-roomed houses; and 11,652, or 8·6 per cent., in houses of more than six rooms.

In Clydebank, the ratio of population living in one-roomed houses is 12·8 per cent.; in two-roomed houses, 62·3 per cent.; in three-roomed houses, 17·1 per cent.; and in houses of more than three rooms, 7·8 per cent. In the Burgh of Dumbarton the ratio of persons living in one-roomed houses is 7·2 per cent.; in two-roomed houses, 47·9 per cent.; in three-roomed houses, 26·5 per cent.; and in houses of more than three rooms, 18·4 per cent.

Of the population of the County, exclusive of those living in institutions, &c., 61,895, or 45·5 per cent., are living not more than two in a room; 74,104, or 54·5 per cent., more than two in a room; 97,322, or 71·6 per cent., not more than three in a room; 38,677, or 28·4 per cent., more than three in a room; 121,119, or 89·1 per cent., not more than four in a room; and 14,880, or 10·9 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the corresponding figures for 1901, those living less than two in a room are 8427, or 15·8 per cent., more; those living more than two in a room, 13,707, or 22·7 per cent., more; those living more than three in a room, 6100, or 18·7 per cent., more; and those living more than four in a room, 1140, or 8·3 per cent., more. In 1901, of the total population of the County, 53·0 per cent. were living more than two in a room; 28·6 per cent. more than three in a room; and 12·1 per cent. more than four in a room; and thus, while those living in the more crowded conditions have increased in actual number, the ratio they bear to the total population has remained almost unchanged.

In Clydebank, 11,482, or 31·0 per cent. of the total, are living not more than two in a room; 25,605, or 69·0 per cent., more than two in a room; 22,930, or 61·8 per cent., not more than three in a room; 14,157, or 38·2 per cent., more than three in a room; 31,583, or 85·2 per cent., not more than four in a room; and 5504, or 14·8 per cent., more than four in a room. Compared with the figures of 1901, those living not more than two in a room has increased by 6436, or 127·5 per cent.; those living more than two in a room by 11,981, or 87·9 per cent.; those living more than three in a room by 6240, or 78·8 per cent.; and those living more than four in a room by 2127, or 63·0 per cent. The proportions living in the more crowded conditions, more than two in a room, three in a room, and four in a room, have each decreased, the percentage living more than two in a room having fallen from 73·0 to 69·0; more than three in a room, from 42·4 to 38·2; and more than four in a room, from 18·1 to 14·8.

In the burgh of Dumbarton, persons living not more than two in a room numbered 9586, and constituted 44·3 per cent. of the total enumerated outside institutions, &c.;

those living more than two in a room, 12,039, or 55·7 per cent.; those living not more than three in a room, 15,767, or 72·9 per cent.; those living more than three in a room, 5858, or 27·1 per cent.; those living not more than four in a room, 19,324, or 89·4 per cent.; and those living more than four in a room, 2301, or 10·6 per cent. Compared with the figures of 1901, those living not more than two in a room are 1123, or 13·3 per cent. more; those living more than two in a room 517, or 4·5 per cent., more; those living more than three in a room, 247, or 4·0 per cent., fewer; and those living more than four in a room, 342, or 12·9 per cent., fewer.

From the above statements it is evident that a higher proportion of the population in Clydebank lives in the more crowded conditions than is the case in either the Burgh of Dumbarton, or in the rest of the County, and that this is so is supported by the fact that the average number of persons to each hundred rooms in Clydebank is found to be 232, while the corresponding figures in the Burgh of Dumbarton and in the rest of the County are 180 and 137 respectively.

Gaelic Speaking.—The number of persons of three years' of age and over in the County returned as able to speak Gaelic was 3190, all of whom, except one, were described as speaking English as well as Gaelic. Of these, 206 were less than 20 years of age, and 2984 of 20 years of age and over. The large majority of these Gaelic speakers were born in Scotland, but a considerable minority, 530, or 16·6 per cent. were of Irish birth, and presumably speakers of Irish, and not Scottish Gaelic. The Scottish Counties in which most of those Gaelic speakers were born, are Argyll, Inverness, Ross and Cromarty, and Dumbarton. The one person returned as speaking Gaelic but not English was a child of three years of age whose parents were both born in one of the islands of Argyll where Gaelic is commonly spoken.

NOTE.

Cardross and Dumbarton Parishes are partly in Kilmarnock Burghs and partly in Dumbartonshire Constituencies. New Kilpatrick Parish is partly in Dumbartonshire and partly in Stirlingshire Constituencies.

TABLE XVII.—County of DUMBARTON.—County Districts and their Electoral Divisions.

Counties for purposes of local administration are divided into County Districts, which for certain purposes include Police Burghs, but exclude Royal Burghs and Parliamentary Burghs so far as situated within their police boundaries. The Electoral Divisions referred to in this Table are the areas into which a County or a District of a County is divided for the purpose of the election of members of the County Council.

NOTE.

The Electoral Divisions of the Burgh of Kirkintilloch were altered in 1910. Their boundaries now correspond with those of the Municipal and Parish Wards. The 1901 Census populations shown in the Table, in italics, are those of the Parish Wards, and not of the Electoral Divisions as then constituted.

The boundaries of the Burgh of Milngavie were extended in 1901, and the Electoral Divisions of the Parish of New Kilpatrick re-arranged in 1910. The boundaries of the Burgh of Clydebank were extended in 1906, and the Electoral Divisions of the Parish of Old Kilpatrick re-arranged in 1907. In each case the figures shown in the Table, in italics, are the 1901 Census populations of the areas now included in the Burghal and Landward portions of the Parish respectively. See Tables I. and IV.

TABLE XVIII.—County of Dumbarton.—Public Health Districts.

Public Health Districts consist of (1) All Burghs within the County, including Police Burghs, each being a separate District; and (2) County Districts, exclusive of any Police Burghs that may be situated within them.
