THE GATHERER.

Knowledge must be gained by ourselves.

THE favourite flower of Queen Alexandra is the lily of the valley.

HERE is Pope's epitaph on Sir Isaac Newton: Nature and Nature's law lay hid in night, God said, "Let Newton be," and all was light.

THE Americans have an idea that no singer has any real right to pose as a great prima donna until, at least once, she has been the victim of a jewel robbery.

HERE is one of the late Mr. Spurgeon's good sayings:—"I don't like dancing. It was through a dance that the first Baptist minister lost his head, and I may well be afraid of it."

IN the letters of Carlyle to his sister, the remarkable fact is brought out that Carlyle was, after the publication of his great book, "The French Revolution," making not more than four pounds a week by his pen.

RUSKIN's father is buried at Shirley, near Croydon. "He was an entirely honest merchant," runs his epitaph, "and his memory is, to all who keep it, dear and helpful. His son, whom he loved to the uttermost and taught to speak the truth, says this of him."

"WHEN the devil's away," says a Japanese proverb, "the Onis will play." The ubiquitous Oni, or domestic Brownie, of Japan, belongs to a mythical race of diminutive people, to whom every inexplicable little mishap in Japanese households was for centuries ascribed.

HERE is a curious address which tried the ingenuity of the Post Office people:—"Mrs. ——. Wearing a large Bear Boa, Violet flowers in Bonnet, Promenade (mornings), Aberystwith." The letter was from the lady's son, who had mislaid his mother's seaside address. The letter was successfully delivered.

THE French pick up words from the English language more freely than we do from theirs. They have of recent years appropriated:—Tramways, tickets, meeting, smoking, baby, boy, toast, speech, fast, swell, five o'clock tea, leading articles, reporters, home, nursery, select, and numberless sporting terms.

HERE is an extract from a will made by Stephen Swaine, of St. Olive's, Southwark, proved February 5, 1770:—"I give and bequeath unto John Abbott, and Mary his wife, the sum of six-pence a-piece, to buy each of them a halter, in case the Sheriffs should not be provided."

BERLIN has always been famous, since the days of Frederick the Great, for the strictness of its discipline; but it seems odd to read that in 1820 the prices at the hotels were regulated by Government. This, no doubt, was in the interest of the public, and even as a mere reminiscence of the past, it excites a feeling akin to gratitude.

HACKERAY'S handwriting was very neat, but so small that it could not always be read with comfort by any but microscopic eyes.

LIKE Napoleon, whom he resembled in so many respects, Bismarck had not the magnanimity to bear defeat with dignity.

HOPS were brought into England from the Netherlands, and are first mentioned as growing here in the 5th and 6th Edward VI., and towards the middle of the same century were a favourite cultivation of English farmers.

DISRAELI'S formula in acknowledging presentation copies of books is deliciously characteristic:—"Mr. Disraeli presents his compliments to Mr. X., and will lose no time in perusing his interesting work."

DURING the great storm of 1703 the story goes that a large stable was lifted up and carried clear over five horses and the man who was feeding them, without doing them the slightest injury, the structure coming to earth again many yards from its original position.

THE man who invented a copper tip for children's boots is as well off as if his father had left him 2,000,000 dols., and the inventor of the "stylographic pen" for shading different colours is receiving about 200,000 dols. per annum as the result of his ingenuity.

ALTHOUGH whales grow to enormous size, sometimes eighty and even ninety feet long, the throat is so small that it cannot swallow a bite as large as a tea-biscuit. This applies to the common whale; the spermaceti has a mouth large enough to swallow a man.

IN the Middle Ages there was a class of religious enthusiasts called the Flagellantes, who used to go about the public ways beating themselves, with all their might, with corded whips. The blood flowed down from their lacerated flesh and stained their footsteps as they walked.

THE Royal standard of the King of Prussia is by far the noblest flag that flies. Nothing that silk or bunting has ever shown can approach the glory of the iron cross on the red purple field, all covered with black eagles and golden crowns, illuminated by the white edges of the cross, and by the central white escutcheon.

WHEN women live in harmony with Nature's laws, each stage of life has its own charm. The fulness of beauty does not reach its zenith under 35 or 40. Helen of Troy comes upon the stage at the age of 40. Aspasia was 36 when married to Pericles, and she was a brilliant figure 30 years thereafter. Cleopatra was past 30 years when she met Antony.

Life and Art.

*"Said Life to Art, 'I love thee best
Not when I find in thee
My very face and form expressed
With dull fidelity;
But when in thee my craving eyes
Behold continually
The mystery of my memories
And all I long to be.'"*

A LAUGH FOR EVERYBODY.

Some who jest tell tales of themselves.

HE: "I thought you knew the Browns. Don't you live in the same square?"
She: "Yes; but you see we don't move in the same circle."

"Didn't you hear about it?" "No."
"Why, the thing happened in your own neighbourhood." "I know; but my wife's away for the summer."

Caller: "Doesn't it worry you to think of your daughter on the great Atlantic Ocean?"

Old Lady: "Dear me, no! She can swim."

Doting Mamma: "Rodney, dear, to-morrow is your birthday. What would you like best?"

Rodney (after a brief season of cogitation): "I think I'd like to see the school burn down."

Fond Mamma:

"What, quarrelling already, and only married a week!"

Bride:

"Well — boo — hoo —

George says I — boo — hoo — hoo — make him happier than he — boo —

hoo — makes me."

It is said that "if you play on an accordion near an oyster, the oyster will open its shell." Whether this is because it wants to listen, or is looking for a chance to escape, is not known.

"WHERE'S the hoe, Sambo?"

"Wid de rake, massa."

"Well, where is the rake?"

"Well, well, where are they both?"

"Both together — you 'pears to be berry 'ticular this morning."

Daughter: "But, mamma, I don't like him."

Mamma: "He is an only son and his father is very rich."

Daughter: "Oh, as to that, his father is a widower, and may marry again."

Mamma: "True; I had not thought of that. Perhaps you had better marry the father."

A TOURIST who was visiting Ireland passed a church in the course of erection. He inquired of an Irishman if the church being built was Presbyterian, Episcopalian, or Catholic?

On Pat answering that it was Catholic, the tourist said, "I am very sorry to hear that." Whereupon Pat replied, "So is the Devil, your honour."

"Oh, we had the loveliest arrangement at our church society last week! Every woman contributed to the missionary cause five dollars, which she earned herself by hard work."

"How did you get yours?" "From my husband."

"I shouldn't call that earning it yourself by hard work." "You don't know my husband."

"I SEE Bunker's wife has written a magazine article on 'How to Make Home Happy.'"

"Well, she ought to be an authority on that subject. She certainly makes her home happy. Her husband was telling me yesterday that she hadn't been at home more than ten days all summer, and it seemed to tickle him immensely."

A RAILWAY passenger having said to a porter who asked for a tip, "I thought you were not allowed to take fees," got for an answer, "We do not take them, sir; we only receive them."

Mrs. Clubleigh: "But, Henry, dear, in this photograph you have but one button on your coat." Mr. Clubleigh: "Thank Heaven, you've noticed it at last! That's why I had the photograph taken."

"I KNOW something I won't tell," sang the widow boarder's little girl, as little girls have done ever since language was invented, "Never mind, child," said the savage bachelor, "you'll get over that habit when you get older."

Mr. Miserly: "Now, let's see, little wife, have you saved anything this month?"

Mrs. Miserly: "Oh, yes, indeed. You will find the expenses considerably less. I have just been to the grocer and persuaded him to delay sending his bill until next month."

A NAVAL officer, who wished to bathe in a Ceylon river, asked a native to show him a place where there were no crocodiles. After having enjoyed his dip, he asked his guide why there were never any crocodiles in that pool. "Because, sah," the Cingalese replied, "they plenty 'fraid of shark."

Aida (per-ively): "I hope you'll invite me to the wedding when you get married."

Jack (boldly): "You'll be the first person I shall invite, and if you don't accept there won't be any wedding." Three months later she married him.

AT THE STATION.—Mrs. Hayrick: "I say, is that clock right?"

Porter: "That ain't no clock; it's a weighing-machine."

Mrs. Hayrick: "What do you want with a weighing-machine here?"

Porter: "So folks wot wants to leave town kin git a weigh."

He: "Well, what have you there?"

She: "Two of your old letters, my dear."

He: "Umph! What's the first one—that 40-pager?"

She: "One you sent me when I had a slight cold before we were married. This half-page is the one you wrote last winter when I was very ill with influenza. That's all, dear."

"WILL nothing make you change your mind?" he asked pleadingly, "It seems to me," she replied coldly, "that 'Nothing' has been trying unsuccessfully to get me to do it for the last twenty minutes." After this had had time to percolate through his mind he got on his feet, carefully dusted his knees and then left. Later, he told himself that he wouldn't marry a girl with a tongue like that anyway.

The Daffodils.

*Stretching in never-ending line,
Along the margin of a bay,
Ten thousand saw I at a glance,
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.*

*And oft when on my couch I lie,
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon the inward eye,
Which is the bliss of solitude,
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.*

Dumfries.

THIS interesting county town—the largest burgh in Scotland south of Ayr—has an ancient history. It became a royal burgh as far back as the 12th century.

But the most popular memories of Dumfries are those connected with Robert Burns, who in the latter part of his life resided here. The modest house in which he lived, and where many of his songs were written, and in which he died in 1796, is to be seen in the town, and is yearly visited by crowds of admirers. The poet was buried in the old churchyard of St. Michael's; and there also were interred his wife Jean Armour and the rest of the family, including the poet's second and last surviving son—Colonel William Nicol Burns—who was buried here in 1872.

About seventy years after Dumfries became a royal burgh a monastery for the Franciscan friars was erected within its bounds. In the church of this monastery, and before the high altar, Robert the Bruce slew the Red Comyn.

The remarkable bridge across the Nith at Dumfries is said to be the oldest in Scotland, leaving out of account vestiges of Roman erection. It consisted originally of nine arches.

Sun's rising and setting are here given in Greenwich time. For local time at Dublin, subtract 25 m.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow and place in pots hardy annuals, such as sweet peas and lupins. In open weather plant bulbous roots; in houses cinerarias, primulas, camellias, hyacinths, etc., will now be in flower. If the weather be favourable, all vacant pieces of ground should at this time be either trenched or deeply dug. In open weather sow Bates' black-seeded cos, and cabbage lettuce; horn carrots, radishes, and Flanders spinach may also be sown, but must be covered with straw if the weather be severe; also mazagan and long-pod beans. Plant out early York cabbages to succeed those of the October planting. Cauliflower plants must be carefully looked to in the frames, and have abundance of air. Peas and beans must be earthed up as a protection against frost and to forward their early maturity. All snails should be destroyed, for one killed at this time will prevent the breeding of many dozens farther on in the year. All kinds of fruit trees should be pruned. Wash trees infested with insects with soap-suds.

THE HIGH STREET, DUMFRIES.

Scotch Character.

THE reticence of the Scotch is proverbial. A train was at a station on the borders of Perthshire when a porter put his head into the carriage, and called out: "Anyone for Doun? Change for Doun! Anyone for Doun?"

No one moved, and in a few minutes the train was speeding along, not to stop again for nearly an hour.

Then an old Scotswoman turned to a lady sitting near her, and said: "I'm for Doun, but I'd no tell that man so."

Those Astounding Adverbs.

ONE evening a gentleman came home with a budget of news. An acquaintance had failed in business. He spoke of the incident as "deliciously sad." He had ridden to the City with a noted wit, whom he described as "horribly entertaining," and to cap the climax, he spoke of the butter that was set before him at a country hotel as "divinely rancid."

The young people stared, and the oldest daughter said:

"Why, papa, I should think that you were 'off your head.'"

"Not in the least, my dear," he said pleasantly. "I'm merely trying to follow the fashion. I worked out 'divinely rancid' with a good deal of labour. It seems to me rather more effective than 'awfully sweet.' I mean to keep up with the rest of you hereafter. And now," he continued, "let me help you to a piece of this exquisitely tough beef."

Adverbs, he says, are not so fashionable as they were in his family.

At a Cheap Rent.

HOUSE-RENT in some parts of Arabia is not extravagantly high. Mr. Palgrave mentions his taking a comfortable dwelling at Bereyadah, possessed of two rooms on the ground floor and three smaller, besides a spacious courtyard surrounded by high walls, for which he paid eighteenpence a month.

We All Want to Succeed.

To gain success, concentration of purpose is needed. Sir Walter Raleigh, the courtier, explorer, and statesman, as well as the favourite of the ablest woman who ever ruled a nation, was so zealous in prosecuting his work, whatever it was, that it was written of him that "he paid as much attention to the matter in hand as if he had been born only for that."

Concentration of thought and effort is almost an absolute essential if one would succeed. The lucky ones of life, to whom success comes unsought, are few, and the majority must strain every nerve to attain what comes to a few favoured ones without effort. Concentrate the mind, will and purpose on reaching the desired goal, and it will be reached much sooner and more certainly than if the mind is diverted in a hundred different channels.

The Coronation.

AFTER a postponement of several weeks, caused by the serious illness of his Majesty, the coronation of King Edward VII. and his Consort, Queen Alexandra, took place at Westminster Abbey on Saturday, August 9th, 1902. The solemn rite was performed with impressive magnificence, every element which could stir the imagination or touch the heart being present.

Within the Abbey there was assembled a congregation of several thousand persons, who occupied every inch of available space—peers and peeresses in the robes of their rank; members of the House of Commons in court dress or uniform, with their wives, daughters, or sisters; distinguished foreign visitors; the members of the Diplomatic Body; Cabinet Ministers, Privy Counsellors, Judges, Civil Servants; municipal representatives, and other officials.

The solemn crowning of the King was accomplished amid acclamations from the congregation and the firing of salutes at the Tower and at Hyde Park. The ceremony of the crowning of Queen Alexandra followed, and her Majesty took her place on her throne. The ceremony concluded with the solemn rite of the Holy Communion.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

IN the flower garden sow anemones, hardy annuals in borders, if the weather opens, and hardy biennials. Put in all remaining bulbs. Sow dahlias, and place the tubers in hot-beds or under glass in a border to break buds for slipping. Sow hardy perennials, plant suckers, slips, and partings of roots. By the end of the month complete the planting of flowering shrubs; sow also polyanthus, balsams, and cockscombs, and other tender annuals may now be sown, affording protection when requisite. In the kitchen garden sow a full crop of peas of the ordinary kind about the beginning and of marrow-fats and other larger sorts about the end of the month, in the open quarters of the garden. Transplant early sugar-loaf cabbage and other cabbage plants to where they are intended to remain. About the middle or end of the month sow carrot seed for an early crop on a light border or other sheltered situation, but the beginning of April is sooner enough for sowing the principal crop. Plant early potatoes in open weather. About the middle of the month sow the first crop of savoy, leeks, onions, and lettuce; a small sowing of early turnips may be made in a very warm situation. Plant strawberries about the end of the month. Before the buds are much swelled prune apricots, peaches, nectarines, and plums, and also apples, pears, cherries, gooseberries, currants, and raspberries before the end of the month. Continue the forcing of every description of fruit.

THE CORONATION OF KING EDWARD VII.

Japanese Proverbs.

“BEWARE of beautiful women as you would of red pepper.”
 “Defeat is the path to victory.”
 “When in haste avoid short cuts.”

He Asked too Much.

By some people actors are looked on as public property even in their private life. When the well-known Mr. J. Jefferson, who distinguished himself all over the world as Rip Van Winkle, was coming from rehearsal one day in San Francisco, he was stopped suddenly by a gentleman, evidently just from a neighbouring town, who was accompanied by his wife and some six or eight children.

“Are you Rip Van Winkle, mister?”

Mr. J. J. admitted the fact.

“Well, I’m dern glad to hear it. You see, I was just trying to tell Maria and the children how all-fired elegant you acted last night. I’d take the hull bilin’ on ’em this evening, but you see, Johnny’s caught the mumps, and we’re got to leave on the 4.40.”

Not having anything else to say, Mr. Jefferson replied “Indeed!”

“Yes, I was trying to show ’em how you told that story about your wife getting upset in the river. Couldn’t you jest sit down on this fire pile and show Maria how you did it?”

“I think not,” responded the actor, icily.

“Don’t see why you won’t show the children. I allurs patronise the theater when I come up to sell hay. By the way, I was trying to catch the step when you dance with the girls in the first act. Come, now, just walk into this fruit-store, that’s a good fellow, and do it once or twice for me, won’t you? It’ll tickle the folks down our way mo’t to death.”

Mr. Jefferson fled.

She Obeyed her Father.

THE critical minute had come.
 “Darling,” he whispered, “will you be my wife?”
 Just then a voice from a corner answered, “Yes!” “Yes!” “Yes!” “Yes!” a dozen times.

“What does that mean?” gasped the astonished suitor.

“It means,” replied the fair girl, “that papa forbade me answering in the affirmative when you proposed. However, this did not deter me from employing a phonograph to take my place.”

Why the Canal was Made Crooked.

IN connection with the Mahmoudieh Canal which Mehemet Ali caused to be cut by unskilled fellah labour to connect the waters of the Nile with the sea at Alexandria, a characteristic story of the Napoleon of Egypt has been told.

A French engineer, in conversation, ventured to criticise the Viceroy’s plan for the canal, while the work was in course of completion.

“Your Highness,” he said, “will pardon me for suggesting that your canal will be very crooked.”

“Do rivers in France always run in a straight line?” promptly asked the Pasha.

“Certainly not,” responded the surprised Frenchman.

“Did not Allah make them?”

“Assuredly, your Highness,” replied the engineer.

“Well, then,” answered Mehemet Ali triumphantly, “do you think you or I know better than Allah how water ought to run? I imitated him in my canal, otherwise it soon would be a dry ditch, not a canal.”

The Frenchman was silenced, if not convinced; and the canal was certainly made very crooked, and so it remains.

The Prince of Wales.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS GEORGE FREDERICK ERNEST ALBERT, PRINCE OF WALES, the heir-apparent to the throne of the British Empire, adds to the title of Prince of Wales those of Earl of Chester, Duke of Rothesay, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Duke of Saxony, Earl of Carrick and Inverness, Baron of Renfrew, Kilarney, Lord of the Isles, and Great Steward of Scotland. He is also a K.G., K.T., K.P., G.C.M.G., and G.C.V.O.

In 1892, through the death of the Duke of Clarence, he became heir to the throne, and in the following year (July 6th) he was married at the Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck.

The tour which he undertook—accompanied by the Princess—through our Colonial Empire in the course of 1901 is fresh in the memory of us all. Its main object was the opening of the first parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia, but in the course of the tour the illustrious travellers visited the following places:—Malta, Port Said, Suez, Aden, Colombo, Singapore, Melbourne, Brisbane, Sydney, Auckland, Wellington, Lyttelton, Dunedin, Hobart, Adelaide, Freemantle, Perth, Mauritius, Durban, Cape Town, Cape St. Vincent, Halifax, Quebec, many other places in Canada, and Newfoundland.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow tender annuals in pots and borders to remain; sow biennials, carnations, polyanthus, and annuals generally. If the weather be dry and mild attend diligently to the various branches of cropping in the kitchen garden. Lose no time in committing to the soil the various seeds and roots of plants. Plant beans of all sorts for principal crops. Sow marrowfat peas once a fortnight or three weeks at farthest. Remove cauliflower plants that have been in frames or in warm borders during the winter.

Sow broccoli towards the middle or end of the month; if sown earlier the plants are apt to start or button. Sow white and red celery seed and water the bed frequently in dry weather. Transplant cabbage plants of all kinds in the places where they are to remain to cabbage. Sow turnips for a first early full crop about the middle or end of the month in an open situation, and when the ground is light. Finish the pruning of fruit-trees before the middle of the month.

THE LEES, FOLKESTONE.

Praise is Encouraging.

SOME persons who appreciate their fellow-men never by word or look allow them to find it out. Whether they do not wish to puff up their self-esteem, or whether they fear to be thought too easily pleased, or whatever be the reason, words of praise or encouragement rarely fall from their lips, though inwardly they may acknowledge and honour what is meritorious and noble.

They make a fatal mistake. Where one person is made vain by honest praise, a hundred are stimulated to new and higher achievements. Where one is kept humble by never being commended, a hundred are made spiritless and dejected, and their efforts flag.

What Becomes of Rates and Taxes.

AT the last general election a candidate standing for one of the divisions of North Devon came across a man in a country village who was under the impression that all the rates and taxes collected the members divided among themselves. Explanations were useless, because the man persisted that anyone who chose to read the newspapers could see for himself that they were always calling out "Divide! Divide!"

A Chinese Weakness.

A COMMON crime among the Chinese, as among Orientals generally, is petty theft. "Except in cases of habitual thieving," says a traveller in the Far East, "it is not treated very seriously, and it occasionally gives rise to an amusing defence, as when a Chinaman, charged with stealing a chicken, gravely informed me that he had taken it up because he saw it had its feet in a puddle and he felt sorry for the chicken."

Only Trifles.

Do not be disturbed by trifles. By following this rule we shall come in time to think most things too trifling to disturb us.

He had Good Reason for Weeping.

A THIEF with a gallows countenance was being tried, and his lawyer, in a voice trembling with emotion, addressed the jury in these terms:—

"Gentlemen of the jury, my client was in the deepest misery. He was only impelled by hunger and want when he took this trifling sum. What did he want? Only the wherewithal to buy bread. The most striking proof of it is in the fact that he did not touch the pocket-book, containing a hundred pounds in gold and bank notes, which were in the drawer."

Here the eloquent advocate was interrupted by the convulsive sobs of his client.

"Why are you weeping?" asked the judge of the latter.

"Because I didn't see that pocket-book in the same drawer."

Everyone burst out laughing, except the careless thief and his lawyer.

Folkestone.

THIS busy Kentish seaport town is very irregularly built, part of it lying in a hollow between the chalk and greensand hills, and other portions being situated on the hills. It is a great resort in summer for sea-bathing, and steam packets ply daily between the town and Boulogne.

Folkestone was a place of some importance at a very early period, but in the time of Queen Elizabeth it contained only 120 houses. What gave it a start in modern times was the formation of a harbour in 1809.

Miss Roosevelt

MISS ALICE LEE ROOSEVELT, the daughter of the President of the United States, came prominently before the public on the occasion of the visit to America in February, 1902, of Prince Henry of Prussia, the brother of the German Emperor. At the launch of the German Emperor's new yacht at Shooter's Island, New York, on the 25th of February, it was Miss Roosevelt who played the part of princess of the Republic, and gave its name—the Meteor—to the vessel. It was shortly after this proposed that Miss Roosevelt should come to this country—and a welcome guest she would have been—to be present at the Coronation, but the proposal unfortunately fell through.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hollyhocks, pinks, and all remaining annuals or biennials; in mild weather prick out those sown in February. Let all the coverings which may have been used to protect either winter or early spring crops be now cleared away. Rough dig all vacant ground in the kitchen-garden, and rake all the small borders. Use the hoe freely among crops of winter onions, spinach, etc. Destroy all weeds as they appear. Have all roots, docks, dandelions, and similar weeds dug up with a fork and immediately removed from the garden. Be careful to destroy all snails and slugs. Cauliflowers for a succession crop may be sown any time in this month on a sheltered border. Sow and plant all sorts of cabbages, and earth and clear from weeds the crops already planted. Sow full crops of savoys both at the beginning and end of the month. Peas should be sown twice this month, and beans likewise. Rhubarb must be sown or planted. Carrots should now be sown. In the fruit-garden disbudding is now to be attended to. Give plenty of water to fruit-trees in pots.

Returning to Pekin.

AFTER the cosmopolitan army, who achieved the relief of the besieged Legations at Pekin, had left the Chinese capital, the Court resolved to return there. On the 6th of October, 1901, the Emperor and Empress, the Empress Dowager, and Ponsun, the Crown Prince, started from their place of refuge for Pekin. They and their suite travelled in three thousand chariots, and during the long and painful journey several of the high officials belonging to the Court died, and were buried on the way.

"Every yard of the road," we are told, "had been prepared with a view to the royal travellers; flowers strewed the way, and the roads were even sprinkled with scent, while every twenty miles a temporary palace, containing every resource of Chinese civilisation, awaited the Royal travellers' good pleasure."

At Tientsin the Son of Heaven and his retinue said adieu to old-world ways and proceeded to Pekin by train. This was the first time an Emperor of China had ever been in a railway train.

The entry into Pekin was made on the 7th of January, 1902, a day specially marked as propitious by the Imperial astrologers. On the arrival of the train the Emperor and Empress stepped out, and were immediately lifted into palanquins, in which they were swiftly borne by native runners to the Imperial palace.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

GREENHOUSE plants may now be removed into the open border; take up and store bulbous roots generally when the leaves decay. If the weather in this month prove dry, the growth of many esculent plants will be retarded considerably, particularly the peas and beans which are in flower, the blossoms of which fall off before arriving at maturity, and consequently are not succeeded by fruit. A certain degree of attention is therefore necessary to give a regular supply of water to the growing crops. There is no work in the kitchen-garden which at this time requires greater attention than the eradication of weeds. Every part of the kitchen-garden should now be kept in a neat and well-regulated condition, and a constant attention should be paid to the condition of all seeds committed to the ground. Those that vegetate freely should be forwarded by hoeing, thinning, and watering. The depredation of insects should be guarded against.

THE RETURN OF THE EMPEROR AND EMPRESS DOWAGER OF CHINA TO PEKIN.

The Turning of the Worm.

HE: "You have got everything arranged?"
She: "Everything! I have been thinking over our wedding, dear, and our future life. You know how methodical I am, and how I like to plan ahead."

He: "That's right! I'm glad I'm going to marry a girl like that."

She: "And now about the wedding. It will be a church wedding, of course."

He: "Oh, certainly."

She: "And with regard to the trip. I've been thinking it all over, dear, and I believe, after all, a few months for a trip on the Continent will be the best thing we could do."

He (his salary is limited): "Do you think so?"

She: "Oh, yes. Then won't it be nice to pick out a cosy house? I know just what I want."

He: "Fine!"

She: "You might buy one."

He: "Of course. That's easy."

She: "They are so cheap now. A friend of mine got one the other day and did not pay more than three thousand."

He: "Dirt cheap. Will one be enough?"

She: "Of course, you goose! We'll need one with a stable, though. And what do you think, dear—shall it be automobiles or horses?"

He: "Both!"

She: "I was afraid you might think that too expensive."

He (weakly): "Oh, not at all. I don't mind a little thing like that. How many servants?"

She: "Well, if we are economical, we can get along with three. And now, dear, there is only one thing more that you can help me with. When shall we have the wedding?"

He: "Do you really want me to decide that?"

She: "Yes, I do."

He: "Oh, I am not particular. Say about fourteen years from to-day."

Wisdom in a Horse's Head.

THERE is a good deal of wisdom in a horse's head. Take the conduct of an old horse belonging to a carter in Fifehire.

On one occasion, when he was dragging a loaded cart through a narrow lane near the village, a young child happened to be playing in the road, and would certainly have been crushed by the wheels had it not been for the animal's sagacity. He took the child carefully by the clothes with his teeth, carried it for a few yards, and then placed it on a bank, moving slowly all the while, and looking back, as if to satisfy himself that the wheels of the cart had cleared it.

The Lost Song.

*I plucked a wild flower from the river's brim,
 And drank awhile its faint but fragrant breath,*

*Then cast it forth upon the wave a-swim,
 And watched it, as I fancied, drift to death.*

*"'Tis lost," I said, but far adown the tide
 A tempted maiden saw its dainty hue!*

*She snatched it, kneeling at the water side,
 And vowed: "I will be pure, sweet flower,
 like you."*

And I, I never knew.

*I plucked a song from out my heart one day,
 And tossed it on the noisy stream of rhyme.*

*Sadly I watched it slowly float away
 'Mongst thistles, weeds, and sprigs of fragrant thyme.*

"'Tis lost," I said; "'tis lost for evermore, Although within my heart of hearts it grew,"

*And yet, far down the reedy shore
 It taught one soul its lesson sweet and true.*

And I, I never knew.

Tynwald Hill.

TYNWALD HILL is one of the noteworthy features of the Isle of Man. It lies about two and a half miles from Peel, and is the spot where all the Insular Statutes or Legislative Acts which have received the royal assent must be promulgated to render them in law effective.

On the 5th of July in each year a Tynwald Court is held here, when thousands of visitors and residents from all parts of the island assemble to witness the interesting ceremony of promulgating the Acts which have been passed during the year by the Manx parliament. After prayers in St. John's Church, the Lieutenant-Governor and the members of the Legislature, accompanied by the clergy, high bailiffs, and the captains of the parishes, move in procession to the mount.

The word Tynwald is derived from the Scandinavian Thing—an assembly of the deputies of the people, or a court of law and judgment; and Vold—a woody field or green—thus forming the compound word Tynwald, expressing the "Court in the Wood."

The first Tynwald Court of which we have existing record is supposed to have been held in 1422.

Tynwald Hill is pleasing from the neatness with which its singular form is preserved, and venerable from its antiquity.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow biennials and perennials for next year if omitted last month. Take up bulbs and prick out seedlings. In the kitchen garden thin all crops as they advance; keep the hoe in full employment in every part of the garden. Support with stakes the crops that may require it, and water, as far as practicable, everything that stands in need of it. Sowing may be principally confined to peas and turnips. Plant out for winter use celery, cauliflower, savoys, cabbages, lettuces, broccoli, leeks and beet. All sorts of small salads should be sown; sugar-loaf cabbage for autumn and winter at the beginning of this month. The crop of onions should be thoroughly cleaned, and in those places where the bulbs appear to stand too close they should be regularly thinned. A successional crop of kidney beans should be planted at this time. Watering out of doors is more or less necessary for newly-planted vegetables and flowers, and to counteract the effect of drought. After watering, loosen the ground with the hoe. Train and prune summer shoots of all sorts of wall and trellis trees, Net over cherry trees.

TYNWALD HILL, ISLE OF MAN.

Removed to Thanksgiving Street.

AT a meeting recently someone was complaining about the trials and difficulties to be encountered on the way to Heaven.

"I see," said a friend who was there, "our brother lives in Grumbling Street. I lived there myself for some time, and never enjoyed good health. The air is bad, the houses bad, the water bad; the birds never came and sang in the street, and it was gloomy and sad enough. But I flitted; I got into Thanksgiving Street, and ever since that I have had good health, and so has my family. The air is pure, the water good, the houses good, the sun shines in it, the birds are always singing, and I am as happy as can be. Now, I recommend our brother to 'fit.'"

Marry with Prudence.

OWING to the strength of early ideas it is inadvisable for people to marry out of their own class, except under the influence of a compelling mutual sympathy.

It is true that ideas have no rank. A peasant may have a higher code of honour than a prince, but as habits come closer to each of us than theories, it is safest to bind ourselves only to those who view life from our standpoint.

The peasant's economies, the peasant's outspokenness, the peasant's frank vanity, however harmless or even praiseworthy in themselves, will offend inevitably the descendant of even a few generations of cultured people, while the reticences of the well-bred man or woman will look to the other like coldness, habitual expenditure like wastefulness, and humility like weakness.

Two people brought up under diverse conditions will learn with difficulty to see eye to eye, unless where love is strong enough to act as inspiration.

Too Much Painstaking.

TOO much painstaking speaks disease in one's mind as well as too little. The adroit sound-minded man will endeavour to spend on each business approximately what of pains it deserves, and with a conscience void of remorse will dismiss it then.—Carlyle.

Musical Jealousy.

A SINGULAR incident in natural history occurred a few years ago at Chester. A thrush in a happy state of freedom was trilling its notes in the orchard below the walls near the "Wishing Steps," when its music excited similar efforts from a caged bird of the same species which was suspended in front of the adjacent houses.

These feathered songsters persevered in raising their melodies to higher and higher efforts, as if in earnest rivalry, when suddenly the bird among the trees darted from its perch upon the wicker cage of its competitor, broke the bars, entered it, and commenced an assault upon the musical captive, the owner of which, hearing the unusual noise, came out, took the aggressor prisoner, and sold it into bondage. The ill-tempered thrush therefore paid the penalty of sacrificing its freedom to its jealousy.

This anecdote is a fact, and not written, as it might seem to be, for the purpose of pointing a moral against musical jealousies among human vocalists.

It is better to wear out than rust out.

The Destruction of St. Pierre.

ONE of the most appalling disasters ever recorded is that which early in May, 1902, befell the French West Indian Island of Martinique, affecting also, though to a lesser extent, our British possession of St. Vincent.

The flourishing town of St. Pierre was wholly swept away by an eruption from Mount Pelée, the great volcanic peak which terminates the mountain formation of Martinique. The town, its environs, and the ships in its harbour were destroyed in what was described by eye-witnesses as "a rain of fire." By this fatal blow, the sudden and annihilating force of which almost transcends imagination, some 36,000 souls perished.

The town of St. Pierre was the centre of the commercial life of Martinique. The terrible fate by which it was so suddenly annihilated may be said to have fallen upon it almost entirely unawares; for although Martinique was frequently visited by earthquakes during the eighteenth century, and is said to have suffered as many as 200 shocks in 1843, the great volcano of Mount Pelée, nearly 5,000 feet high, had been silent and untroubled since 1851.

The same volcanic disturbance also, as we have said, affected our own island of St. Vincent, where over 2,000 persons perished, and many thousands were rendered homeless and destitute.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

PLANT heartsease slips, transplant perennials and biennials, lay down carnations. In the kitchen garden the attention of the gardener is principally directed to the crops of the ensuing year. As a preparatory step, let all useless and decaying leaves and stems of vegetables be removed and carried to any piece of ground that is immediately to be dug, so as to leave a vacant space ready for the reception of a crop to remain. Pay strict attention to watering, clearing the ground of weeds, and hoeing and earthing-up all crops as they advance. Cauliflowers which were sown in May and intended for a late crop will now be of a proper age to plant out permanently. Good lettuce plants should now be sown for winter and spring. Spinach of the prickly kind should be sown for a full winter crop late in the month. Take advantage of rainy weather for planting, otherwise it will be found necessary to employ a very free hand in watering. In dry weather it does considerable good to dip the roots in a puddle before planting.

THE TERRIBLE VOLCANIC ERUPTION AT MARTINIQUE.

Superstition in Old England.

AN interesting funeral story is told in a sermon by Latimer, in which he says that when he "had taken his degree at Cambridge, and was made Master of Arts," he was called to the death-bed of one of his kinsfolk. And an old cousin of his put a wax candle into his hand, and commanded him "to make certain crosses over him that was dead." When he refused to do so, she "with a great anger" took the candle out of his hand, saying "It is a pity that my father spendeth so much money upon thee!" And then "she took the candle and crossed and blessed him, so that it was sure enough—no doubt she thought—that the devil could have no power against him."

A Timid Creature.

A GIRAFFE is very timid on hearing slight noises, but is indifferent to loud ones. Noisy sounds, like a man walking by with hob-nail boots, it does not notice; but a lady coming in with hardly more sound than the rustling of her dress makes it start, with pricked ears and eyes distended.

We remember well, after a terrible explosion of gunpowder on a barge on the canal at Regent's Park, asking the keeper in the Zoological Gardens of the giraffes of that day how they had taken it, and he said he was surprised how very little notice they took; they jumped to their feet, but almost at once lay down again, when they found nothing happened.

"But," he added, "if I were at night time to creep along that gallery in my socks, they would be so scared that I believe they would dash themselves to bits."

They fear the lurking foe, and a big bang scares them less than a faint, rustling sound. They are in that respect very deer-like.

It had been Strained.

AN aged Scottish farmer owns a telescope which has not done duty for many years. The old man, remarking to a friend at a race meeting in the district that the gentry nowadays had glasses for both eyes, referred to his once prized possession.

"Ay," he said, "I had aince ane for ae e'e, a richt guid ane it was tae, but it's nae use ava noo."

"Why not?" asked the friend.

"Weel, it was sic a guid ane that I could see plainly the steeple of the auld kirk five miles awa'. But Tam, the scoundrel, got a len' o't, an' tried to mak' oot the steeple o' the Free Kirk that's mair than ten miles frae the house, an' tried, an' tried, an' couldna. So that strained it, an' it's never been nae use to naebody since, that it hasna."

A Riddle by Sir Isaac Newton.

HORACE WALPOLE, in a letter to Lady Ossory, writes: "I send you a very old riddle, but if you never saw it you will like it, and revere the riddle maker, which was one Sir Isaac Newton, a star-gazer and conjurer:

*"Four people sat down to a table to play;
They played all that night, and parted next day.*

Could you think when you're told that as they all set

*No other played with them, nor was there a bet?
Yet when they rose up each was winner one guinea,*

Tho' none of them lost the amount of a penny."

Walpole could not guess it, but Lady Ossory did, and sent him this answer:

*"Four merry fiddlers played all night
To many a dancing ninny,
And the next morning went away,
And each received a guinea."*

Mr. Rhodes.

THE Rt. Hon. John Cecil Rhodes, one of the most-talked-of and influential men of his time, died on the 26th March, 1902. He was born in 1853, and was the fourth son of the late Rev. Francis W. Rhodes, Vicar of Bishop Stortford. On his first going to South Africa he seems to have met with but little success. However, when the De Beers Mine was anything but prosperous, he combined various Kimberley mines under his direction, and amassed a large fortune. The enlightened use which he desired should be made of his great riches everyone knows through the publication of his will, one of the most remarkable documents of modern times.

Lincluden Abbey.

The ruins of Lincluden Abbey are in the neighbourhood of Dumfries, and are often visited by tourists from that ancient Scottish town. They exhibit many interesting fragments of architecture.

The ruins were a favourite resort of the poet Burns, and while musing beside them, he composed several of his pieces, including "The Vision of Liberty," which begins thus:—

*"As I stood by you roofless tower,
Where wallflower scents the dewy air,
Where the owl mourns in her ivy bower,
And tells the midnight moon her care."*

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow anemones, ten-week stocks, tulips, and other bulbous-rooted flower seeds; carnations may still be laid. In the kitchen-garden hoe, weed, thin, and stir the surface amongst all crops. Water, shade, and attend to neatness and order. Clear off all crops as soon as they are exhausted. Those seeds which are ripening should be gathered when dry, and after being properly hardened, laid by for use in a dry, airy seed-room. Watering in dry weather is required for all young new pricked-out plants and others lately planted, and for seed-beds in particular. In rainy or showery weather take the opportunity to sow, prick, and plant all necessary crops of the season, and to plant slips, off-sets, etc., of aromatic and other pot-herbs. As slugs and other vermin will now be making deplorable ravages, constant attention is required to subdue them. Examine bulbs in case they should become mouldy and injured by damp.

The Luxury of Riches.

THE great luxury of riches is that they enable you to escape so much good advice. The rich are always advising the poor, but the poor seldom venture to return the compliment. —Sir Arthur Helps.

The Golden Mean.

*He who holds fast the Golden Mean,
And lives contentedly between
The little and the great,
Feels not the wants that pinch the poor,
Nor plagues that haunt the rich man's door,
Embittering all his state.*

*The tallest pines feel most the pow'r
Of wintry blasts; the loftiest tow'r
Comes heaviest to the ground;
The bolts that spare the mountain's side
His cloud-capt eminence divide,
And spread the ruin round.*

*The well-informed philosopher
Rejoices with a wholesome fear,
And hopes, in spite of pain;
If Winter bellow from the North,
Soon the sweet Spring comes dancing forth
And Nature laughs again.*

*If hindrances obstruct thy way,
Thy magnanimity display,
And let thy strength be seen;
But oh! if fortune fill thy sail
With more than a propitious gale,
Take half thy canvas in.*

COWPER.

Did the Queen Return the Basket?

SCOTCH people are certainly of a shrewd and practical turn of mind. The first time the late Queen Victoria crossed the Forth Bridge a nobleman in the vicinity presented her with a beautiful basket of grapes.

On returning to his house his Lordship met his gardener, and said: "Donald, Her Majesty much admired and appreciated your grapes."

"Was anything said about returning the basket?" was the gardener's reply.

Weather-Wise.

THERE is an idea that a dew at night presages a fine day on the morrow. But all the copious dew really indicates is that at the time there is a clear sky, and that there is much difference between the temperature of earth and air.

Another picturesque delusion is that the sunset and sunrise have a prophetic significance as to the weather, whereas the indications of the weather at these two moments of the day have no special significance.

Another delusion is that the moon affects the weather, and a fourth is that a great crop of berries in autumn forebodes a hard winter.

M. Santos-Dumont.

ON the opposite page we give a portrait of M. Santos-Dumont, who has recently attracted so much attention by the zeal and courage with which he has attempted the conquest of the air. To him has been awarded the prize of 100,000 francs offered by M. Henri Deutsch to the first aeronaut who, starting from the Aërostatic Park in Paris, doubled the Eiffel Tower, and returned to the starting-point in half an hour. M. Santos-Dumont is a Brazilian, still quite young, and apparently leading a charmed life, for he is said to have risked coming to a tragic end more than a hundred times in the course of his experiments.

Oriel College.

THIS famous Oxford college, which has directly benefited to the amount of £100,000 under the will of the late Mr. Rhodes, was founded about 700 years ago. The buildings of the College are not so remarkable as those of many other colleges in Oxford, but they are very picturesque, and present an appearance of greater age than they can, in fact, lay claim to. None of them are older than 1620. Oriel will always be a subject of interest as the scene of the early activities of such men as John Henry Newman, Keble, Arnold, Wilberforce, and Pusey.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hardy annuals for next year, and also bulbous roots for early blooming. In this month several principal crops in the kitchen-garden are to have the finishing sowing and planting, some for succession in the present autumn and following winter; others to stand the winter in young growth, to come in for early crops next spring and summer. The ground must now be prepared in proper time, by manuring and digging for succeeding crops. Give all spare time to watering, which, if the weather be without rain, is essential, and attend to clearing off all decayed crops and to fallowing spare ground. The chief sowing crops this month are spinach, lettuce, onions, radishes, turnips, cabbages, coleworts, and succession of small salading, as cresses, mustard, etc. The chief of planting crops are included under celery, endive, coleworts, cabbages, savoy, broccoli, lettuce, and leeks, and the several sorts of perennial, aromatic, and pot-herbs. This is universally considered the chief month for the formation of mushroom beds. Hoe and thin the ground about turnips and prick out the August-sown cabbage plants early in the month.

Salmon-fishing.

OF all forms of angling the capture of the salmon by the rod and line is the most exciting. Many writers have descanted on the pleasures of it, and many books have been written, giving all the minutiae of the art.

"The chief speciality in salmon angling," says an expert, "is to be able to maintain perfect coolness and vigilance when the fish is hooked. The rod must be kept at such an elevation as to bring its elasticity into play; and by allowing the line to run out as the fish dashes off, and winding it up as he returns, or by following his motions if needed in person, a constant and equal strain must be maintained; a sudden tug at an unyielding line, or a momentary slackening, being equally fatal. After struggling for from a quarter to half an hour (sometimes, though rarely, for two or three hours) against a steady pull, the fish generally yields to his fate, and allows himself to be drawn into the shallow, and landed. This is done either with the gaff, or the fisher winding his line up within rod-length, and holding the top landwards, without slackening, seizes the fish with one hand by the root of the tail, and lifts or rather slides him head foremost into the gravel or grass."

A serious objection to salmon-fishing is the expense of it: it is not a sport to be followed except by those to whom money is no object.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hardy annuals, plant anemones and bulbs; cut carnation layers to be planted in pots; begin to take up dahlias as the flowers cease. In the kitchen-garden all sowing and principal planting should be finished for the year; some plants may be got in necessary for winter, others to remain for next spring and summer. At this season many crops will be consumed or past perfection. The ground should be cleared away from the refuse, and weeds hoed down or the ground dug over; and all advancing crops should have a thorough cleaning from autumnal seed weeds, etc. Some want earthing-up, and several esculent roots want digging up to preserve for winter eating. Take up all carrots and parsnips, to be packed in sand in a dry place, or in pits like potatoes; and pare off the crowns clean to prevent them from shooting in spring. Plant cauliflowers under hand-glasses to flower. Gather and store apples and pears. The best criterion for gathering late fruit of any kind is the ease with which they leave the tree.

What a Contrast!

ONE winter evening, a few years ago, a dinner was given at a fashionable restaurant in London by a young man who had recently come into possession of enormous wealth. It cost a huge sum. The dining room was specially upholstered in red. Fruit-bearing trees were placed upon the table and ranged around the room. The guests plucked ruddy cherries, peaches, grapes, oranges from the growing branches. A perfumed fountain was improvised for the occasion. Costly presents were given to each diner. The markets were ransacked for sumptuous and expensive food and drink, and the amount of the bill conferred a sense of peace upon those who partook of the feast but did not have to pay.

The same night a silly old man, scantily clad in threadbare garments, took his seat on a heap of stones and rubbish within two miles of the hotel where Lucullus had entertained his friends. It was a bitterly cold night, and the old fellow had not broken his fast all day.

When the inquest on his shrunken body was held three days later it was deposed that he was found with a dry mutton-bone in his hand, which he had been gnawing. It was not explained why he did this, as he had a penny in his pocket.

A Consoling Thought.

THERE never was a night which was not followed by a morning; nor a winter which was not succeeded by a summer. A most consoling reflection, this, to those distressed in the night and winter of spiritual trial and trouble.

Why He visited the Museum.

LATELY an aged native of San Francisco, who had visited London for the first time for forty years, proceeded to the British Museum reading-room, and secured an admission order.

On entering he walked straight to a particular desk, which he found unoccupied.

The stranger put a casual question to a reader sitting close at hand, and explained that while working at that desk, in 1859, he met the lady whom he afterwards married.

He remarked: "Being in London I was curious to see this spot once more. Poor woman, she has been dead for years, but many a time she assured me that she wished she'd never seen me or the British Museum either. I've nothing to keep me here now, so I guess I'll quit. Good-day!"

President McKinley.

EARLY in September, 1901, the startling news was telegraphed to this country that the highly-respected President of the United States, Mr. William McKinley, had been shot when holding a reception in the Academy of Music at the Buffalo Exposition. It was on the 6th of September.

The assassin was a man named Czolgosz, who belonged to an Anarchist society at Cleveland. Czolgosz was at once arrested. He made no attempt to deny his crime.

For a few days it appeared as if the President was going to survive, but a change for the worse set in on the 12th of the month, and two days afterwards he breathed his last. The case had really been hopeless from the first, death resulting from uræmic poisoning caused by the bullet wound in the stomach.

Vice-President Roosevelt at once assumed the office of President, and issued a proclamation appointing the day of the funeral—the 10th of September—as a day of national mourning and prayer.

Messages of sympathy were received from every sovereign and from all parts of the world by Mrs. McKinley and Mr. Hay, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and thousands of people travelled long distances to do honour to the dead President.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

PLANT anemones, if not done last month, finish planting bulbous roots, and take up dahlias after the first frost; plant ranunculuses, if omitted last month. The business now in the kitchen-garden is to sow seeds, plant some few articles for early crops next year, and some to force in hot-beds for winter consumption, and to give occasional weeding and sometimes hoeing for the purpose of advancing late young crops; also to manure and dig vacant ground. The business of sowing and planting is inconsiderable at this season; but is necessary in a few articles both in the open ground and in hot-beds. The articles for sowing are early peas and beans and small salad-ing, the two former in warm borders, the latter under glasses or in hot-beds. Clear the advancing young crops from weeds. Winter onions and spinach to be carefully hand-hoe; hoe between advancing young crops of coleworts, cabbages, broccoli, savoys, celery, leeks, lettuce, endive, etc., loosening the surface of the earth above the plants which will beneficially encourage their growth. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs as long as the weather continues favourable. Stocks of the wild rose should now be obtained from the hedges. Choose those with straight stems.

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT MCKINLEY.

Watchmen in Liverpool.

BEFORE 1836 Liverpool had fifty watchmen to protect 240 000 people and their property during the night time, and though some of these watchmen were corrupt, many drunken, and most of them old, crippled, and unfit for anything save calling out the hours of the night, even this protection was more than was provided in many other places.

From a Chinese Point of View.

THIS is how a Chinese writer describes Englishmen in a Pekin paper: "They live months without eating a mouthful of rice; they eat bullocks and sheep in enormous quantities, with knives and prongs. They never enjoy themselves by sitting quietly on their ancestors' graves, but jump around and kick balls as if paid for it, and they have no dignity, for they may be found walking with women."

In a Wild Beast's Den.

A PORTSMOUTH publican, a few years ago, won a wager of £20 by a feat which then seemed one of great daring, but which has since several times been successfully imitated. A menagerie was on a visit to Portsmouth, and the man wagered that, for the sum named, he would enter the wild beasts' den, which contained seven lions, two wolves, and a hybrid wolf dog.

A great crowd assembled to witness the performance of this daring feat. At the hour specified the publican, accompanied by a woman belonging to the show, entered the den, and made a hurried circuit of it before leaving. On emerging from the cage he was heartily cheered, but declared that he would not repeat the deed for a thousand times the amount of his stake.

A Trifling Incident.

A CLERGYMAN was called upon to perform a marriage ceremony for a couple in middle life.

"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the bridegroom.

"No, sir."

"Have you?"—to the bride.

"Well, yes, I have," replied the bride laconically; "but it was twenty years ago, and he was killed in an accident when we'd been married only a week, so it really ain't worth mentioning."

Not so Poor as They Say.

THE difficulty of getting at the truth regarding the poverty of persons in rural districts is almost inconceivable. They too often live a prey to suspicion, concealment, and apprehension, both on their own individual account, and on account of the common cause. Hence the gross errors which well-meaning but superficial inquirers fall into respecting them.

"I once," says a shrewd philanthropist, "counted a row of eggs laid upon a shelf in a pauper labourer's cottage, and then asked his wife how many hens she had, which, coupled with my having a note-book in my hand, so alarmed her, that she was seized with a violent illness. If she had been aware of my coming, the eggs would have been concealed.

"In a cottage in Lancashire, whilst the inmates were complaining that they had not tasted butcher's meat for a month, a terrier I had with me turned up a mug, under which were the bones of a neck of mutton newly picked. A woman, just after telling me she could not get food, forgot herself, and cut a large slice of bread to quiet a squalling child. The child bit one piece, and then threw the remainder indignantly into the dirt."

Peace Proclaimed.

THE terms of surrender of the Boers in South Africa were signed at Pretoria on the night of Saturday, May 31st, 1902, by the Boer delegates and also by Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener.

The news was received at the Mansion House by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Joseph Dimsdale, about six o'clock on the evening of the following day, in the form of a telegram from the Secretary for War. A copy of the telegram was immediately posted on the outside of the Mans'on House, and was eagerly read by an excited crowd of citizens. The Lady Mayores; and her young daughter attached the ends of a streamer, bearing in red letters, "Peace is proclaimed," to the pillars of the historic façade, so that everyone might learn the glad news.

This brief message acted like a talisman. People rushed to the spot from the side streets, the tube, subways, and passing vehicles cheering wildly. Passengers on the outside of the omnibuses rose and waved their hats, handkerchiefs, and umbrellas, and broke into loud hurrahs. Cabdrivers stopped to share in the enthusiastic demonstration.

From London the news quickly spread through the country, and during the next few days there were in all quarters public and official manifestations of popular rejoicing.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

DEFEND anemones, auriculas, and carnations in severe weather; tulips should also be defended in bad weather. Fibrous-rooted perennials and biennials to be divided and planted; bulbs may still be planted in mild weather. This being the month in the entire year in which the least is to be done in the way of sowing and planting, the active gardener is particularly called upon to prepare to the best advantage the soil for succeeding operations. Everything likely to suffer from the frost, such as young cabbages sown late for spring planting, ought to be well protected with mats, straw, dry fern, or long dry manure. If the weather be frosty and the ground hard and unfit for the spade, let the manure be carried to the plots which are to receive it. If the weather be open, let every hour be occupied by the spade; the ground to be laid out in ridges, to enrich for spring sowing and planting. Dig round old fruit-trees. If any trees grow too luxuriantly to bear well, root-prune them. Nail and prune wall-trees.

NEWS IN LONDON OF PEACE IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Falling Asleep in Church.

IT is related of one John Rudge that in April, 1725, he bequeathed to the parish of Trysall, in Shropshire, twenty shillings a year that a poor man might be employed to go about the church during the sermon to keep the people awake.

This duty was sometimes performed by the churchwarden, who, with a long wand, went round the church, and, if any of the congregation were asleep, tapped them on the head.

Red Books Wanted.

WE have always listened with incredulity to the story of the lady who, making one of her very rare visits to a bookseller, requested a book whose colour should match the dress she wore. But here is an incident related by a well-known book dealer, and whose truth is unquestioned.

"What I particularly want," said the customer, "is red books."

"What sort of books?" I asked.

"Red books—that is to say, books in red covers," was his reply.

As the dealer explained, "Of course there are a few people who know about books, and insist on having the book they want without reference to the colour of the binding; but the great mass of our customers judge by appearances. Drab books and grey books and brown books they won't have anything to do with; green books will pass; blue books sell a shade better; but red books always find a market.

"You can have no idea unless you're in the trade what a difference it makes to a book to be bound in red. Preachers, after dinner orators, and singers, are hereafter advised to make red speeches. If some people have the tastes of a Zulu chief, all we can do is conform."

It was a Wager.

A MAN made a wager with a lady that he could thread a needle quicker than she could sharpen a lead pencil. The man won—time, fourteen minutes and forty seconds.

It is thought that the result would have been different if the woman had not run out of lead pencils inside of five minutes.

The Art of Singing.

THE late distinguished tenor, Sims Reeves, writing of "The Art of Singing," says that all kinds of lozenges for the voice are to be avoided; some do harm, others have no effect, and none do good. Sugar and water, or a little glycerine, gives relief when the throat is inclined to be dry; this applies to persons whose throats are affected by the weather.

About a third of a teaspoonful of Condy's Fluid in a tumbler of water, if used as a gargle every morning, will clear the throat and brace up the uvula, which in some singers is so long that it interrupts the pure emission of the voice, and introduces a grating undertone, while it also tends to make a tremor on the upper notes. Homœopathic medicines are also of benefit in reducing the uvula. Belladonna may be taken for a relaxed throat.

Where it is convenient, sea-water will be found a splendid strengthener of the throat by gargling occasionally. All affections of the throat, however, should be treated by a specialist. "Experience alone," adds Sims Reeves, "will show the singer what to avoid in regard to wines and smoking. Mario's was seldom without a cigar in full operation. I myself take a pipe now and then, but there can be little doubt that the cigarette is a very pernicious thing for all singers—it induces granulations at the back of the throat, and disorders the well-trained voice."

Business Points

At ELDER'S

NO matter how poor or humble in circumstances, the same value is put on that class of trade as on the rich with overflowing purses, and to that genuine method do we owe much of our success as a retailer of this life's necessities.

Since the last issue of this handy Annual, we have added to our business PASTRY BAKING, and speaking accurately, the success of this new venture has far and away exceeded our most sanguine expectations, arising we firmly believe from the quality of the article we are producing.

A Trial Order is the convincing power of any of the under-noted.—Cheese, Queen, Sponge, and Sandwich Cakes, German Tarts, Macaroons, Almond Cuts, and many others are tasty products of Genuine Danish Butter.

MORNING ROLLS and BUTTER BISCUITS are a specialty with us, and we do largely in them.

Our GIRDLE SCONES and OATCAKES only require to be introduced to ensure their daily use.

JAMES CHALMERS

His Autobiography and Letters.

BY RICHARD LOVETT, M.A.

Author of "James Gilmour of Mongolia," etc. With Two Photographic Portraits, Maps, and other Illustrations.

The DUKE OF ARGYLL says:—"It is excellent and most interesting."

Dr. McLAREN, of Manchester says:—"You have done a great service in presenting so admirable a portrait of so grand a man and a Christian. How it shames some of us and pricks us with wholesome remorse!"

Dr. HORTON says:—"It is one of the most inspiring and stimulating books I have ever read."

Admiral Sir J. E. ERSKINE says:—"It is a worthy and lasting memorial that truly great man."

The Rev. J. H. JOWETT, of Birmingham, says:—"I have read the book with devouring interest."

The DAILY NEWS says:—"It is the best missionary biography that has appeared during the last twenty years."

The RECORD says:—"A book that should rivet the attention and fire the zeal of all who already care for Foreign Missions."

The BRITISH WEEKLY says:—"Chalmers used to pray, 'Give us Christ's enthusiasm,' and the prayer was answered, as almost every page of Mr. Lovett's valuable book bears witness."

The BAPTIST TIMES says:—"It is a classic in missionary literature."

The DAILY CHRONICLE says:—"Mr. Lovett's 'Life of Chalmers' brings us into still closer touch with the man, and one can see more clearly the inner workings of the 'Great Heart of New Guinea.'"

Mr. GRAHAM BALFOUR, the Author of the Life of Robert L. Stevenson, writes:—"The Life deepens one's regret on public and on personal grounds that Tamate is gone."

SILAS HOCKING says:—"I would invite all who are interested in Missionary work to get this volume out of the nearest library. I fancy they will find it far more interesting than any novel."

The CHRISTIAN WORLD says:—"The charm of Mr. Lovett's book is in its absolute religious reality and its weird picturesqueness."

The GLASGOW HERALD says:—"Chalmers' career is almost thrilling in its romantic interest. It quite explains Stevenson's enthusiasm. His remarkable story is now told for the first time in full as it deserved to be told."

The YORKSHIRE POST says:—"The Life of Chalmers' should take its place among the standard missionary biographies in our language."

The CHRISTIAN says:—"We have here the real James Chalmers and no fancy picture."

Another Man's Money

By DAVID LYALL. With a Frontispiece by ALFRED PEARSE. Large crown 8vo, cloth gilt, 3s. 6d.

This book contains two studies of every day life; in one, the chief character comes for a time into the inheritance of a man supposed to be dead, and passes through the severe discipline that this position of affairs involves; in the other, a man whose religious life is merely external, and who, through the ruin he thus brought upon himself, is saved as by fire, is sketched with great power.

Lady's Pictorial.—"Miss Carey's stories are like the good wine that needs no bush."

The Lady.—"Miss Carey's stories are always welcome; they are out of the common run, immaculately pure, and very high in tone."

Christian Leader.—"Rosa Nouchette Carey does a good work in so often sending forth these delightful pictures of attractive maidenhood. Her heroines are all taken from the ranks of doers, not dreamers; consequently they are depicted as peacefully and contentedly attaining, by the faithful discharge of the duties which lie nearest to them, a higher ideal than can ever be the lot of those who strive to be clever and do great things, while neglected little duties strew their path through life."

Christian World.—"There is not only the deft weaving of romance and the strong characterisation which we expect from so practised a craftsman, but there is an intense glow of religious purpose."
