

CHRONOLOGICAL LIST

OF THE

ROYAL COMPANY

OF

Scottish Archers.

*Nulla Caledoniam Gens unquam impune lacesset,
Usque sagittiferis robur et ardor inest.*

PITCAIRNII, Poemata.

By signing the Laws of the Royal Company of Scottish Archers, you engage to be faithful to your King and your Country; for we are not a private company, as some people imagine, but constituted by Royal Charter his Majesty's First Regiment of Guards in Scotland; and if the King should ever come to Edinburgh, it is our duty to take charge of his Royal Person, from Inchbunkland Brae on the east, to Cramond Bridge on the west.

But besides being the Body Guards of the King, this Company is the only thing now remaining in Scotland, which properly commemorates the many noble deeds performed by our ancestors by the aid of the Bow. It ought therefore to be the pride and ambition of every true Scotsman to be a member of it.

ROSLIN'S Speech.
