President's Quarterly Message

Leon Hicks

Clan Henderson Society President

Let's all give thanks that we are nearing the backend of the drought of Scottish heritage events. There are many events being held throughout the country and I encourage everyone to review the games listing on our website. You should also investigate the status of your local events in particular. Also, contact your Regional Commissioner and ask about events near you and whether or not there will be a Clan Henderson Convenor there.

Perhaps one of the advantages of having many senior members in our Society is that most of us have been vaccinated!

Speaking of upcoming events, this year's Annual General Meeting (AGM) will be at the Central Tennessee Highland Games near Nashville, TN.

CHS has a great team of planners and organizers for this event. Lee Henderson, the Mid-South Regional Commissioner and Rich Goodwin (Mid-South Regional Commissioner Emeritus), are working with Eric Owens and Andrew Ward. They are all working diligently to make it happen.

The original plan was to have the AGM at the Glasgow, Kentucky Highland Games, but this event was canceled.

Planning an event like this is no small task, our Society is very fortunate to have experts conducting the planning of this event.

On a personal note, I'd like to express how pleased I am to have Rich Goodwin back in the USA. He is, and has been, a very valuable resource for the Society.

Leon Hicks

Regarding most recent Executive Board activities: the first Resolution passed this year approved moving portions of our funds from restricted and non-restricted accounts (Genealogy/DNA and Operating Funds) into investment vehicles (mutual funds).

Our Financial Advisor on this effort is Isabella Brunk, who also has Henderson ancestors.

Hopefully, by the time you receive this publication, it will be a done deal. I confess that it has taken much longer than I had hoped, but sometimes it simply requires more effort than expected.

The total amount being invested is $50k. Hopefully, future generations of CHS will inherit a well-funded operation with a greatly expanded contribution to scholarship and other special programs.

The Executive Board has also approved the production and selling of greeting cards.

This year Ann and I will attempt to attend as many events as possible. In addition to other events that are "on my radar", we will be attending the Gulfport, MS Highland Games November 13th, Scotland County Oct 2nd, the AGM in Nashville Sept 11th, and possibly the Charleston SC and the Grandfather Mountain events. From time to time I will also an-

Clan Henderson Order of the Chief awards made to Henderson & Keipp

The Order of the Chief with Distinction has been awarded to William E. Henderson. For years of dedicated effort communicating with members regarding continued membership and dues leading to higher retention and participation in the Clan Henderson Society!

The Order of the Chief with Distinction

The Order of the Chief has been awarded to Susan Keipp for her excellent support of the Clan Henderson Society since 2003. She has contributed for the betterment of the Clan Henderson Society. She suggested organizing a program of Clan Henderson Society artists to create greeting cards for all occasions to support various society programs.

She has initiated a discussion related to estate planning for internment in a destination of the individual's choice (Principally Scotland), and has continued work in the genealogy and history programs.

nounce non-event-related visits to various locations and invite all members in that area to join us for dinner or cocktails. This will afford an opportunity to meet and greet and have informal discussions about the society.

Lastly I want to encourage everyone to support the various programs such as Mark Henderson's Hiking for Dollars for the Society's scholarship program.

There is also a program being developed by Louis Russell to produce and sell Scottish Heritage theme special occasion cards, Christmas cards, etc., and sell these to support our society's programs.

Thanks to Susan Keipp who provided many great ideas about the types of cards to be considered and the benefits of the card program, and to Louis Russell who provides the programmatic expertise and background to make it happen.

A BIG thanks to all of you who have "hung in there" with us through the pandemic.

JEANNE AT FORDELL

Kathleen Henderson

Daddy, Emery Lawrence Henderson, had promised mother, Jeanne, to take her to Scotland when he retired. Unfortunately, just before that time he required an operation that prevented his ever traveling again, so Jeanne lovingly cared for him for twenty years.

After his death he fulfilled his earlier promise by leaving her enough money to take that long-awaited trip. She asked me to guide her and my sixteen-year-old son, Eamonn to carry her luggage.

Fordell Castle was one sight she fervently wished to see, even though I assured her it was privately owned and we couldn't get in.

In Dunfermline we asked a cabbie if he could drive us to the gate for a photo. He also explained that it was a private residence and we might not make it past the gatehouse.

Our obliging cabbie found the small gatehouse empty and drove straight up to the imposing iron gates. I thought to take a couple of hasty photos and scuttle away unnoticed.

This was July of 1995 and Lord Nicholas Fairbairn had died in February, so Lady Sam was recently widowed. We were noticed, however, by two burly guards and their gigantic Irish Wolfhound.

The cabbie had a chat with them through the gate explaining that we were American tourists by the name of Henderson. A guard mentioned that Lady Sam had just lain down for a nap, but did we want him to ask her permission to tour the grounds?

I was most embarrassed and replied in the negative, but Mother's voice overpowered mine stating enthusiastically, "Yes!" Jeanne knew no boundaries of decorum.

In a few minutes the guard returned with a foot-long key to the chapel. We were admitted and accompanied by the guards and dog. Jeanne had in her pocket a sausage from breakfast which she gifted to the animal who then became her personal bodyguard.

Mother is short and his head reached her shoulder which he leaned against in loyal servitude and gazed lovingly in her blue eyes.

We gained entrance to the chapel lined with ancient gravestones. My cheap camera had no flash, so interior shots were hopelessly dark.

I have a photo of my son before the chapel door, who is amazingly the image of his great-grandfather Henderson, so he seemed the young laird. We roamed about the Italianate garden enough to satisfy Jeanne's curiosity but short enough to soothe my embarrassment at trespassing on such a grand estate.

Jeanne Henderson had fulfilled her long awaited dream.

Convenor Daniel Henderson

The first Scottish Highland Games in a very long time was the Northeast Florida Scottish Games and Festival at Green Cove Springs on February 27, 2021.

Attending these games were Clan Henderson Society members Daniel and Virginia Henderson, Ed Hendricks, Steve and Ann Henderson and Paul and Rose Henderson.

The Parade of Tartans was limited to four members per clan this year due to Covid-19 concerns. The CHS members were Convenor Daniel Henderson, Bodyguard Ed Hendricks and Paul and Rose Henderson.

One of our Clan Henderson Society Scottish Highland Dancers, Brynn Brown, came by our tent and is seen in the picture above with Daniel and Virginia Henderson.

Brynn, after a tendon injury, months of therapy and virtual Highland Dance Classes during Covid - 19, is well! After performing at these games, she visited the CHS tent and then went on to Ponte Vedra Beach, Florida, where the National Scottish Dance Competitions will be held in July, 2021.

Jeanette Gillespie DuBois passed away on March 4, 2021, in Norman, Oklahoma, at the age of 93. Jeanette was born November 7, 1927, in Richmond, Virginia.

She was the daughter of the late Hobart Vernon Gillespie and Rosetta Howell.

Jeanette was married on September 2, 1947, to Robert Lee DuBois in Richmond Virginia. The couple celebrated 60 wonderful years together and had one daughter, Michelle Jeannine DuBois.

They both preceded her in death. Jeanette leaves behind two grandsons, Christopher B. Tull of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Cameron Stirling Tull of Norman. She is also survived by four nieces, Barbara Glaspie White, Juanita Glaspie Lasswell, Phyllis Glaspie Moreno and Jeannie Glaspie Claytor; two nephews, Thomas Gillespie and Michael Gillespie; and numerous friends and extended family.

Jeanette was known as "Miss Jeanne" to her many students, and she was an excellent instructor in a variety of different fields.

Jean was also a freelance news reporter, traveled the world, and authored many books and stories. She had a passion for art, history, and believed in the importance of literacy.

Jean was also a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Jeanne was also a member of the National Music Teachers Association, a HAM radio operator, and a member of the Clan Henderson Society.

In addition, she was a member of the National Legal Association. She and her husband co-researched numerous books, including the Geomagnetic Results, Secular Variation, and Archaeomagnetic Chronology, United States and Mesoamerica, including Archaeomagnetic Data and Time Assignments.

Jean was also a fashion runway model and was referred to as La Parisien of New York.

Her Motto was "Have a Diamond Day", and she wanted everyone to Enjoy God's Wonderful World as she did. In addition, she had a sense of compassion and desire to go out and help others. She believed that everyone has a story and that you should listen to it.

No tears for me-I am gone from the sights, but I have joined the Lord in Heaven!

Lessons birthdays teach us

As I write this, my birthday is June 18 and coming up soon. Tom is already laughing mysteriously and even giggling sometimes, bless his sweet heart.

I'm just caught up in wonder at the number of candles that will have to be on my birthday cake.

It was just recently that I thought about getting older. I never even thought about age or mortality or that one day I would be an adult!

My heart attack of a few years ago brought me up short. Today there is not a sign that I ever had such. My new stress-free (Well, as much as one can be stress-free.) life is mighty good for me.

My double hip surgery made me think too.

I don't know as I have learned all that much in all of this time.

* I've learned that you don't make long-term plans.

* I've learned that things you thought were "for sure" most times aren't.

* I've learned that just because someone - family or friend - is supposed to love you - they don't always.

* I've learned that sometimes people who are supposed to be your friends - aren't.

* I've learned that not everyone tells the truth.

* I've learned it's possible for people you trust to betray you.

* I've learned that life is not fair.

* I've learned that you will live through things so awful you think you will die.

* I've learned that life has a way of evening things up.

* I've learned to put myself in the hands of a higher power - and to trust that power.

* I've learned that if you wait long enough, what you thought was really bad only opened doors to good things.

* I've learned that it's never too late to find love and happiness, kindness and compassion and joy.

* I've learned that money doesn't really matter.

* I've learned that true friends are the greatest wealth.

If you know me, you know that I'm pretty much straightforward. When I love you, I love you and when I don't, you probably know it.

I don't lie and I don't cheat - thanks to my beloved Scottish grandmother who taught me that your good name is about all you really have.

"Work hard and do your best and you'll always be all right," my grannie said.

I've always tried to do those things.

I hate to think what would have happened if she had been alive for the things that happened in my life a bit ago - in one case for three decades and more - although nobody knew - and in another case, something that was an ambush.

The betrayals by those who professed to be my friends hurt. The betrayals by those who had professed to love me were worse.

My grandmother would have cleaned house, I'm afraid.

It was a hard, hard time. I wasn't sure I would make it.

I survived and found a wonderful new life.

The happy things continue.

Love,

Beth

Linda, her eulogy...

To eulogize is to speak well of someone. To speak well of Linda Henderson, each of us would stand in line without notes to exclaim the wonder and grace of all she means to each of us... to know her is to know her sweet soul.

In her weakness, there was no one stronger on January 14th at 3:00 am. By this time, Linda, saw the legacy of her time on earth that remains in those of us who are now shaped by all that she was.

From her first loves ... Jerry, the father of her children. Her son Brad whom she described as "a good man with a kind heart and a dry sense of humor." Her daughter Jennifer, she said "is good as gold, a devoted mother, gentle and happy." Linda's love embraced her children-in-love, June and James and unapologetically, in her heart's delight as grandmother to Aiden.

To her last love ... Larry, her husband and the grandfather to their adopted son, Erik. They shared laughter, learning, and building a home and life together. The joyful anticipation of traveling, be it local road trips, or far away to bathe in the beauty of Scotland or feel the breeze of Hawaii's floral air was such a joy for Linda.

Linda loved designing, creating and standing back to enjoy the giving of gifts specifically chosen and beautifully wrapped to delight the receiver. The details of a quilt ... each stitch of which was deliberate and special to reflect her love for the person who would one day wrap themselves in it and the memory of her creation of love.

We who honor her today are the fabric of the life's quilt Linda wove into each of us who speak well of a woman who walked with strength and dignity; who loved unconditionally... who is remembered for being the embodiment of peace, forgiveness and acceptance. She made it appear easy; going to a place in her heart to leave a legacy for us, to not only remember, but to pass along to others in memory of her.

Linda is now healed, whole, alive ... breathing deeply the garden of heaven's fragrances as she smiles and reminds us who weep ...

"Remember, you never lose someone when you know where to find them."

women, and for women in Virginia and Texas.

Nancy was a member of the Clan Henderson
Society for many years.

Jeff and Nancy loved to travel. The family always took family vacations within the US and overseas. They loved St. Thomas USVI and went there to celebrate their wedding anniversary for many years.
After they retired, they were always planning their next big trip.

Even though Nancy lived most of her life in Fairfax, Virginia, her roots in the Rio Grande Valley were strong. Her parents had retired to Brownsville
Texas, and lived there until their death.

In 1995, She and Jeff bought a condo on South
Padre Island. They spent many years being Winter Texans in January and February until they decided to move to the valley permanently in 2016.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made in her name to the First United Methodist Church, 101 W. Adams St., P.O. Box 1085 Port Isabel, TX 78578.

Using Emigration/Immigration records in your genealogy

Bryan L. Mulcahy, MLS

Many genealogists find the terminology and records related to emigration and immigration records confusing.

Because ancestors encountered multiple identity checkpoints prior to their departure to the New World, many documents were created on both sides of the Atlantic.

Emigration records were created as the individual or family prepared to leave a country. These types of records could have been created at any of the following identity checkpoints such as the civil registrar in the locality of residence, border crossings (country and provincial), ports of departure, and ports of entry.

The procedures which emigrants followed in the processing of reaching the port of departure, whether complying with family or local directives or laws, all generated records.

Some of the most relevant emigration related records of interest to genealogists include:

1. Letters of Manumission: If a person was employed in an occupation that was considered vital to the survival of a community, he had to obtain a document showing he was released from his commitment to the satisfaction of local authorities.

2. Sale of Property. If the person owned property, they were required to dispose of everything prior to departure. It could be sold or left to relatives or friends or as bribes to facilitate the process.

3. Letters of Recommendation: Often issued by church authorities in the Old World indicating that the emigrant was in good standing.

4. Permit to Emigrate: Document that certified the person was free to leave his homeland, having fulfilled all of his financial obligations and settled his personal affairs. Emigrants had to have this document available for search at all times.

5. Indentured Contracts: Emigrants unable to pay for the trip agreed to sell themselves into service, usually for a specified length of time, to pay for their passage. The contracts were filed at the courts in the port of departure and arrival.

6. Emigrant Lists: Lists of people leaving a particular port of departure.

They are available in many foreign archives, especially those located at or near ports of departure. Immigration records are documents created as one enters a particular country. Immigrants faced the same complexity of legal hurdles to enter, become established and obtain citizenship in America as they did leaving the Old World. These hurdles generated lots of potential records. Some of the most relevant immigration-related records of interest to genealogists include:

1. Ship Passenger Lists. Also called immigrant lists, arrival lists, or manifests. These were created at the port of entry.

2. Hospital Record: Many ports of entry had designated areas, sometimes called pest hospitals, where sick and infirm passengers were quarantined until they were well or deported. Many local newspapers printed names of detailed passengers. For those who were not deported, they usually had to be issued special health certificates.

3. Alien Registrations: At various times in American history, Congress mandated that incoming aliens had to be registered on a regular basis, particularly in the late 1700s, early 1800s, and after 1929.

YOU LEARN INTERESTING THINGS WHEN YOU DO GENEALOGY...SUCH AS...

Seems that my 17th great Henderson grandmother was offered as a bride to the son of a neighboring Chief in exchange for two cows and four sheep.

The big swap was to happen on the shore of the stream that separated the two clans.

Father Henderson and daughter showed up at the appointed time only to discover that the groom and his livestock were on the other side of the stream.

The father grunted, (Here it comes...) "The fool doesn't know which side his bride is bartered on."

HENDERSON'S ARE GREAT SCOTS!

Mock Devonshire Cream

(Delicious on scones, as a dessert topping...makes cardboard into a tasty treat!)

You'll need: 8 oz. cream cheese, 12 oz. sour cream, the juice of one lemon, 2 tablespoons of Real Vanilla and 2 cups powdered sugar.

Mix everything together until it is smooth. Keep in the refrigerator. If you hide it well, it will last up to two weeks, although I don't know of that ever happening!

This disappears like magic. It's goooooood.

Some things genealogists have to know:

* "Stepmothers" were sometimes called "mother-in-laws" in America's Colonial times.

* "Housekeeper" once meant property owner.

* "Infant" once meant any person under 21 years of age.

* "Domestic" once meant "housewife."

* "Mister" in the early days was applied only to men of wealth or education.

* "Tithings" once meant "towns."

* In 1619, 100 children from London slums were sent as apprentice workers to Virginia. Many of these children grew to become founders of plantations, businesses, universities and libraries and prominent citizens.
