FACTS WORTH REMEMBERING.

"I will make a brief of it in my note-book."—SHAKESPEARE.

THE land on which the Bank of England stands is probably the most valuable on earth.

EXPLORERS have approached within two hundred and thirty-eight miles of the North Pole.

MARRIED couples in Norway are privileged to travel on railways at a fare and a half.

SWITZERLAND enjoys the unenviable distinction of having a larger percentage of lunatics than any other country.

It was ordained by Henry III. that the penny should weigh thirty-two grains of wheat, taken from the middle of the ear.

ACCORDING to careful estimates, three hours of close study wear the body more than a whole day of hard physical exertion.

CARRIAGES were first introduced into England in 1380, and were for a long time used only for the conveyance of the sick and of ladies.

SIR PHILIP SYDNEY, the accepted pink of Elizabethan chivalry, whom women of all ages adored, was plain to a degree of ugliness. He fascinated by his mind, not his person.

IN 1205 it was thought to be "good form" for a girl to faint often. Robust health was considered indelicate, and a display of mirthful spirits immodest.

WHEN tracts first came into existence, they were mostly confined to religious subjects: their name is derived from the Latin tractatus, something drawn out, as a summary or treatise.

It has been calculated that, taking the ordinary duration of the Parliamentary session, and making allowance for holidays, counts-out, and so forth, the House spends in actual debate something like 1,000 or 1,100 hours.

THE motto adopted by the celebrated Erasmus, "Festina lente!"—"Hasten slowly!" was considered by him to convey so much meaning that he wished it might be carved in stone on public buildings, as well as printed in books.

"Demean" is often employed instead of "debase," whereas it is almost equivalent to "behave," and certainly conveys no unfavourable suggestion. Curiously enough, "demeanour" is never substituted for "debasement."

IF kept going, the wheels of a watch travel 3,558 $\frac{3}{4}$ miles in a year.

LIGHTHOUSES and lightships dot the coast of Great Britain at the average rate of one every fourteen miles.

THE Anglo-Saxon governments coined silver, brass, and copper; but whether or not they used gold in their mints is a disputed point.

THERE is no word in the Chinese language that conveys an intimation of what we term public spirit, nor is there a synonym for patriotism.

IN the House of Representatives at Washington the time limit for speeches is very short, and is strictly carried out: it is only five minutes.

BALZAC affected a monkish habit when writing. This robe was necessary before he could settle down to continuous work, and then he laboured with tremendous energy.

THE great statesman, Sir Robert Peel, speaking from wide observation, once said:—"I never knew a man to escape failure, in either body or mind, who worked seven days in the week."

A TON of lead is fired for every man killed in battle. Statistics of European wars show that from 3,000 to 10,000 shots are fired for every person disabled.

IN the palmy days of Roman divorce, a happy couple consisted on one occasion of a bridegroom previously married twenty, and a bride previously married twenty-two, times.

A CURIOUS fact is that we walk thirty times faster than we read, and that while our eyes focus many miles at a glance in the open, a mile of book reading occupies a rapid reader more than five hours.

SOME of the wealthy Romans used to spend the greater part of their time in the bath. They used to read while in the bath, and eat and drink, and in fact do nearly everything but sleep. It was the fashion, and it did not seem at all strange to them.

ARISTOTLE enjoys as a writer on the law of tame two rare advantages. He is a representative of the most artistically endowed race in the history of the world, and he lived at a period when that race had produced its finest work in every branch of art.

With a Good Book.

*Oh for a Booke and a shallic nooke,
Eyther in-a doore or out;
With the grene leaves whispring overhede,
Or the Streete cryes all about,
Where I maie Reade all at my ease,
Both of the Newe and Olde;
For a jollie good Booke whereem to looke,
Is better to me than Golde.*

—OLD SONG.

The Reader.

Reading must be thoughtful, and, as Locke well expressed it:—"Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge. It is thinking that makes what we read ours. We are of the ruminating kind, and it is not enough to cram ourselves with a great load of recollections; unless we chew them over again they will not give us strength and nourishment."

THOUGHTS WORTH THINKING ABOUT.

"Of all kinds of knowledge that of our own ignorance is the first to be acquired."

THE man who makes no mistakes makes nothing.

ON our laborious planet nothing is done without trouble.

PHILOSOPHY is easy when one's own affairs are swimming.

WE are apt to distrust people who flatter us, and dislike those who do not.

HALF the work that is done in this world is to make things appear what they are not.

IT were no virtue to bear calamities if we did not feel them.

THOSE who have a heart to do good never need complain for lack of opportunity.

THERE never was a war in which each side couldn't prove the other the aggressor.

NOBODY gets as much enjoyment out of robust health as some people do out of their minor ills.

HAPPINESS is like a kitten's tail—hard to catch; but there's plenty of fun in chasing it.

GENTLENESS and cheerfulness: these are the perfect virtues; they come before all morality.

SEEING much, and suffering much, and studying much, are the three pillars of learning.

THE wounds of sin may be healed, but their scars will always remain painful to the touch.

EVIL events come from evil causes; and what we suffer springs, generally, from what we have done.

IT takes us about four years to learn to speak, and the other threescore and six to learn not to.

IF one only wished to be happy, this could be readily accomplished; but we wish to be happier than other people; and this is almost always difficult, for we believe others to be happier than they are.

NOTHING is so narrowing, contracting, hardening as always to be moving in the same groove, with no thought beyond what we immediately see and hear close around us.

A GOOD thought is a great boon, for which God is to be first thanked, then he who is the first to utter it, and then in a lesser, but still in a considerable degree, the man who is the first to quote it to us.

THE heaviest fetter that ever weighed down the limbs of a captive is as the web of the gossamer compared with the pledge of a man of honour. The wall of stone and the bar of iron may be broken, but the pledged word never!

CAN anyone say on any day that he has done his whole duty; that he has done all that he ought to have done; that he has uttered no hasty word, entertained no wrong thought, or passed no harsh judgment upon his fellow-man?

HOPE can only die by our own hand. To be heroic in happiness is the finest heroism.

NOTHING is more true and beautiful than family life.

OF all human vices probably the most widespread is selfishness.

A GOOD name, like goodwill, is got by many actions and lost by one.

LIFE's evening will take its character from the day that preceded it.

THOUGH authority be a stubborn bear, yet he is oft led by the nose with gold.

To understand one thing well is better than many things by halves.

MANY have fallen by the edge of the sword, but not so many as have fallen by the tongue.

UNPOPULARITY is not a bad thing, but one should not have more of it than is necessary.

THERE is hope for the man who doesn't have to fall down more than once to learn how to stand up.

THE secret of good or bad temper is our habitual tendency to dwell upon or to fly from the irritating and the inevitable.

EVER does wrong action beget its own retribution, punishing itself by itself, and wrecking the instruments by which it works.

THE covetous person lives as if the world were made altogether for him, and not for the world; to take in everything, and part with nothing.

A MAN should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to day than he was yesterday.

HAPPINESS, says Madame de Staël, is a state of constant occupation upon some desirable object, with a continual sense of progress towards its attainment.

WE are hanging up pictures every day about the chamber walls of our hearts that we shall have to look at when we sit in the shadows.

WHERE there is musk there will, of course, be perfume; it will not be necessary to stand in the wind. Talent and worth will manifest themselves without resorting to trickery.

A MAN that hath no virtue in himself ever envieth virtue in others; for men's minds will either feed upon their own good, or upon other's evil; and who wanteth the one, will prey upon the other.

ANYONE may easily make himself miserable. This is the recipe: Dwell in imagination on the delights of what is beyond your rightful possession. If that does not destroy peace and happiness nothing will.

Windsor Castle.

WINDSOR CASTLE has long been a favourite residence of English monarchs, especially since the time of William the Conqueror. It stands on an elevated plateau of natural chalk, and this commanding situation no doubt marked it out from ancient times as a desirable stronghold. It has been pointed out, however, that the deficiency of water resulting from such a position was a serious objection to its being adopted as a residence, for many years.

What we now know as Windsor Castle was not the original palace of the English kings. That stood at Old Windsor, about two miles distant. Who began the building of the present castle has long been a disputed point with antiquaries and historians. The first substantial stone buildings were probably erected by William the Conqueror, but the proper history of the existing fabric does not begin till the reign of Henry III.

It used to be held that the Round Tower of the Castle was Norman, but this is an error. It was built in the eighteenth year of Edward III. to receive the Round Table of the Knights of the newly founded Order of the Garter. The magnificent chapel of St. George ranks next to Westminster Abbey as a royal mausoleum.

Sun's rising and setting are here given in Greenwich time. For local time at Dublin, subtract 25 m.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

BEFORE January is at an end a few flowers are in bloom. Train neatly roses, clematis, honeysuckle, and other creeping plants. All still unplanted bulbs, such as the tulip, narcissus, etc., should be put in the ground during the first open weather. Any bulbs planted in the close of last year, and now appearing above ground, should be looked to; it is well to shelter the more valuable sorts, by layers of fern leaves, from frost and snow. Delicate plants must be taken particular care of at this time. Unless they are properly protected they are in more danger of being harmed by frosts now that the sun has more power, though they are less liable to be harmed by damp. In houses, cinerarias, primulas, etc., will now be in flower. If the weather permits, sow early peas and beans in sheltered borders. Should bees be kept, feed them, if the weight of the hive shows that they require feeding. After each fall, shake the snow off evergreens, which are much harmed by alternate freezing and thawing of snow-water.

The Dog and the Forget-me-Nots.

THE last dog-story imported from Germany is to the effect that Herr Hintreffer, a head gamekeeper, had a dog which used to receive its daily allowance of food at noon; but one day, when he had company to dinner, poor Juno was forgotten.

After lying patiently at the feet of its master it at length got up and made its way into the garden, where it ferreted among the flower-beds, returning to the house with a bunch of forget-me-nots in its mouth.

Crazed about Skating-rinks.

ONE of the most extraordinary manias of modern times was what was known as the rinking mania. It was a species of madness.

A person revolved round and round on a pair of wheeled skates, which gave him or her the appearance of having club-feet, to the discordant sounds of a bad band. This was rinking. And the monotony was only diversified when the person fell with violence on the end of his nose, and broke that feature of his face, or sprained his wrist, or had to be conveyed home in a cab, suffering from concussion of the brain.

Such as it was, however, all classes were for a time quite demented on the subject of rinking. They imagined that they could rink without weariness or satiety for three hundred and sixty-five days of every year. Age would not wither, nor custom stale its infinite variety.

Rinks were constructed in all parts of London, and in most of our country towns; and then, all at once, rinking vanished from the number of popular amusements.

No Longer St. Paul.

A WELL-KNOWN leader of the Liberal party has a mania for visiting mad-houses and interviewing their inmates.

He went to a private lunatic asylum which he had previously visited, and, seeing there a distinguished-looking man sitting moodily alone, went up and said to him:—"How do you do? I think I have seen you before. May I ask your name?"

"My name," returned the man, fiercely. "I am Alexander the Great!"

"Why," said the visitor, who suddenly remembered having already had a discussion with the man, "the last time I was here you were St. Paul!"

"Yes, of course," the man rejoined, quickly, "but that was by the first wife."

King Humbert.

KING HUMBERT of Italy was assassinated on the evening of Sunday, the 29th of July, 1900, at Monza, near Milan. He had been attending a distribution of prizes in connection with a gymnastic competition, and had just entered his carriage, when a man in the crowd fired three shots at him with a revolver, inflicting wounds which almost immediately proved mortal.

The assassin proved to be a young Anarchist named Gaetano Bresci, who had lived in America but was born in Italy. He was tried at Milan, and being found guilty was sentenced to penal servitude for life with solitary confinement.

The late King was the eldest son of Victor Emmanuel, the first King of United Italy. He was born on March 14th, 1844, and succeeded his father in January, 1878.

The country received the news of his assassination with every demonstration of grief and horror, and expressions of sympathy were received from every foreign ruler. The heir to the throne, Victor Emmanuel III., was at the time yachting in Greek waters, but he at once returned, and swore loyalty to the Constitution in the presence of Parliament on the 11th of August.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

WHENEVER the weather is favourable set about any work that was hindered in January by frost or snow. Creepers with drooping flowers, such as glycene, cobeia scandens, &c., should now be trained horizontally, while roses and others are to be trained upright. Pinks, polyanthus, thrift, box, and all plants employed for edging borders, may be moved in suitable weather. On mild days, admit air freely to auriculas, pargoniums, and other hardy pot plants. In the last week of the month sow mignonette and hardy annuals in a warm border for subsequent transplanting. Sow radishes in a sheltered border, but protect them with fern leaves or light litter, and uncover at every favourable interval. Peas sown now will be ready for the table about as soon as those planted in November, and will yield a more abundant crop. Plant them in drills wide at the bottom, and spread the seed regularly. It is a common error to sow them too thick and in narrow drills; the wide drill is particularly important for marrow-fats and other branching sorts. Sow Bath or green Egyptian cos-lettuce. Currant and raspberry bushes unfold their leaves at the end of the month. Prepare netting and other protection for wall-trees, and use it when the buds begin to swell during the prevalence of north-easterly winds. Before the buds are much swelled, prune apricots, peaches, nectarines, and plums, and also apples, pears, cherries, &c.

ASSASSINATION OF KING HUMBERT OF ITALY.

Seals are Fond of Music.

THE harbour seal, or, as this seal is also called, "sea-leopard," from the fact that he is often spotted, is, like other seals, very fond of music; and stories are told of how he has been attracted to some spot by the sound of a musical instrument.

A clergyman who lived in the Hebrides used often to attract seals by playing on the flute. A few notes on that instrument, while he was walking along the shore, would bring a dozen of them within a few yards; and there they would swim with their heads above the water like so many black dogs, delighted with the sound.

There is a little church in Orkney called Hoy, situated near a small sandy bay, and it is said that when the bell rings on Sunday for service the seals come from all round about, attracted by the sound.

Insurance of Friendship.

THAT there may be such a thing as carrying insurance too far is indicated by the case of Mr. Mulcahy and Mr. Mulhooly, two Irish gentlemen. Though they were known to be great friends, they were one day observed to pass each other in the street without a greeting.

"Why, Mulcahy," a friend asked in astonishment, "have you and Mulhooly quarrelled?"

"That we have not!" said Mulcahy, with earnestness.

"There seemed to be a coolness between you when you passed just now."

"That's the insurance of our friendship."

"I don't understand." "Whoy, thin, it's this way. Mulhooly and I are that devoted to wan another that we can't bear the idea of a quarrel, an' as we are both mighty quick-tempered, we've resolved not to spkache to wan another at all."

Ringling Bells in Stormy Weather.

LONG long ago new church bells used to be sprinkled with holy water and have names bestowed upon them. One of the gifts supposed to be bestowed by this bell-baptism, was the power of dispersing storms of wind and thunder. There is an inscription on an old bell at Nürnberg to this effect:—

*By name I Mary call'd am; with sound I put to flight
The thunder crackes and hurtful storms, and every wicked spright.*

A great many authentic records of bells being put to this use are to be found.

The history of bells is, indeed, full of romantic interest, intimately associated as they have been with all kinds of religious and social rites, not to speak of important historical events.

Lovable Women.

VERY lovely and very lovable is the woman who has cultivated a disposition angelic enough to see the good and not the evil side of human nature, who can be severe with her own failings, and excuse the faults of others.

We are told that she is a dull, uninteresting creature, and if we take the trouble to look into the matter, we find that she does not laugh at her neighbour's pet weakness; she does not enjoy hitting out right and left at the world at large, and is always ready with a plea for unseen reasons, which, if they could be revealed, would go a long way toward modifying harsh judgment.

Our lovable woman may not be witty, she may be a little prosy, but she it is to whom we go when in trouble for sympathy, and confide with a feeling that our secret will not be torn to shreds as soon as our back is turned.

Carnarvon Castle.

THIS is one of the noblest and most magnificent ruins of its kind in the kingdom. It occupies a strong position at the west end of the town of Carnarvon, and before the use of cannon must have been impregnable. The walls, which enclose an area of about three acres, are seven feet nine inches thick, and have within them a gallery, with slips for the discharge of missiles, and are flanked by thirteen strong towers, all angular, but differing in the number of their sides. The entrance is very imposing, beneath a vast square tower of prodigious strength, having grooves for four portcullises.

This magnificent fortress was built, or rather, begun, by Edward I. after his conquest of Wales. Over the gateway appears a mutilated statue of the founder, with his hand upon a half-drawn sword, as if either menacing his newly acquired subjects or sheathing the weapon to indicate the termination of the war.

It used to be believed that the first Prince of Wales—who became Edward II.—was born in a miserable little room in the Eagle Tower, but this story has been exploded. He was, however, born in Carnarvon town.

The Eagle Tower can be ascended, and the summit commands a wide prospect of the surrounding scenery, besides affording a bird's-eye view of an instructive sort of the castle itself.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

AN anemone roots left over from the autumn should now be planted. In this way a succession of flowers is secured later in the season. Divide Chinese chrysanthemums, and place them in small pots, or into a border of rich soil, to pot later in the season. Pot scarlet lobelias and place them in a sunny window or a moderate hot-bed. At the end of the month the seeds of hardy annuals may be put in the ground in light soils. They should be sown in small patches, and covered with a little dry earth. Transplant last year's layers of carnations into beds or large pots at the end of the month. Sow borage and Canada clover for bees. In the kitchen garden there is much to be done this month. Sow lettuce and carrot seed and radishes later in the month. Plant potatoes in rows two feet apart and ten inches between the sets. Graft apples, pears, cherries and plums; for this the middle of the month is said to be the best time. Shrubs may be transplanted, but it should have been done in November.

The Hogg Family.

WITH regard to out-of-the-way names, the newspapers sometimes give one very funny information. The following is an example of American origin:—

“Governor Hogg, of Texas, who is visiting New York, is a man with a large sense of humour. He has two daughters; one of them he named Ima Hogg, and the other Ura Hogg. He wanted to name his son Bea Hogg, but his wife put a stop to that.”

Football in the Olden Time.

To those who in our days are affected by the football fever, it may be interesting to learn what opinion was at one time held in Scotland regarding their favourite game. An Act passed in 1424 proceeds in the following terms:—“It is statute and the King forbidis that na man play at the fute-ball under the pain of fiftie schillings to be raised to the Lord of the land als oft as he be tainted, or to the Schireffe of the land or his ministers gif the Lordes will not punish sik tresspassoures;” again we find an Act, in the reign of James II., which declares “that the fute-ball and golfe be utterly cryed downe and not to be used;” while a third Act also strikes against the same pastimes by declaring “that in na place of the Realme there be used fute-ball, golfe, or uther sik unprofitable sportes.”

But while discouraging, as they thought, all frivolous amusement, the Parliaments exhibited an utilitarian spirit, for they frequently ordained that all men should become proficient in the art of archery—a wise enactment, seeing that the archers were important factors in the warfare of that time.

Mixed Oratory.

AN eminent politician, when condemning the Government policy, is reported to have said that “they’ll keep cutting the wool of the sheep that lays the golden eggs until they pump it dry.”

“My Husband’s Bank.”

THERE was a banker’s wife in a town in the north of England who had an undue appreciation of her own importance as the wife of a prominent town-man.

She was in the habit of riding down to her husband’s office in the street-car every day. Entering the car with a haughty air, she was accustomed to say in a voice loud enough to be heard by all present, “Conductor, put me off at my husband’s bank.”

One day she came in and seated herself, making the usual demand. Close by her was a man, disreputable-looking in the extreme. His clothes seemed almost devoid of buttons, a multitude of pins doing duty instead. During the momentary hush which followed the lady’s order, this passenger rose, and drawing himself to his full height, pompously said:—

“Conductor, put me off at my old woman’s gingerbread stall!”

Since then the conductor has heard nothing more of my “husband’s bank.”

The Duchess of Cornwall.

ON the opposite page we have the Duchess of Cornwall and York and three of her children. Her Royal Highness, it will be remembered, was before her marriage known and much esteemed as the Princess Victoria Mary—"Princess May" of Teck. After the decease in the beginning of 1892 of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, the elder son of the then Prince and Princess of Wales, to whom she had been engaged, a match was made between her and the Duke's younger brother, Prince George, on whom was conferred the title of Duke of York.

In her origin the Princess could claim to be of doubly royal descent, having an English sovereign for a grand-parent, not only through her mother but her father. On her mother's side she had George III. for a great-grandfather; and her father, the Duke of Teck, was the direct descendant of George II., through the latter's daughter Anne, Princess of Orange.

The marriage of the Princess to the Duke of York took place on the 6th of July, 1893. The first child of the marriage was born on the 23rd of June, 1894, its arrival being regarded with great interest on account of the relation of the newcomer to the succession to the throne.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE principal sowing of all the hardy annuals should now be finished; the sowing of the half-hardy should be completed by the end of the month. Transplant hardy biennials, such as wall-flowers, Brampton stocks, hollyhocks, &c., if this was not done in autumn. Auriculas in bloom should be protected against sun and rain, but should be allowed as much air as possible. They must be watered regularly, and the use of manure water on alternate days will improve the bloom. The water should never go on the leaves. One may now make to advantage cuttings of verbenas, heliotropes, &c. Watch rose-trees, and free them from grubs. Garden pests—caterpillars, beetles, red spiders, ants, &c.—are very active. Re-pot window plants and thin them out if necessary. Rake beds smooth, turn up gravel walks, and clip box hedges. In a shady place plant slips of sage, thyme, lavender, and other herbs, and sow mustard and cress under a south wall. In the fruit garden, disbanding—that is to say, relieving the shoots of wall-trees of some of their buds just when they begin growing—is now to be attended to.

Lord Roberts.

On his return home from the seat of war in South Africa, Lord Roberts met with a most enthusiastic reception. He arrived in London on the 3rd of January, 1901, and was welcomed at Paddington Station by the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family. On entering one of the Queen's carriages the band struck up "See, the Conquering Hero Comes!" to the strains of which, and amid general cheering, he drove off, followed by his staff in six carriages, and another carriage in which were seated Lady Roberts and her two daughters.

His lordship then proceeded by way of Sussex Gardens, Bayswater Road, Hyde Park, Piccadilly, St. James's Street, and the Mall, to Buckingham Palace. The route was kept throughout by troops, was gaily decorated, and was densely lined by masses of spectators.

At the Palace Lord Roberts and a select company of other guests were entertained to luncheon, the Prince and Princess of Wales acting as host and hostess.

Unfortunately, the home-coming of Lord Roberts was to some extent deprived of its brilliancy as a spectacle by the depressing atmosphere of an English winter's day. Cold, damp, and fog are not favourable conditions for the display of bunting and outdoor draperies to advantage.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

HALF-HARDY plants that have been sheltered during the winter may be uncovered about the middle of the month; such as have been housed may be brought out and planted in rows or allowed to stand in pots, as required. This is a favourable time for putting in cuttings of double wallflowers, rockets, and other hardy perennials. If heartsease be now propagated in cuttings and placed in a shady border it will flower in the autumn, and the largest flowers will be produced by those young plants. Continue the sowing of peas; those already up will require sticking. Plant potatoes and sow radishes. Sow mustard and cress. To procure a succession, sow cress once a month and mustard once a fortnight. The ground should be made level and watered, and the seed thickly scattered and not covered with earth, but merely pressed into the soil with a flat board or the back of a spade. Keep a sharp look out for weeds.

RECEPTION OF LORD ROBERTS IN LONDON.

Hints to Book Lovers.

NEVER handle a book except with clean hands.

Never turn leaves with the thumb.

Never turn leaves down at the corner, even if imperfect, but place a marker therein.

Never leave a book open face downwards.

Always turn leaves from the top with the middle or fore-finger.

Never pull a book from a shelf by the binding at the top, but by the back.

When opening a book always hold the leaves loosely to let them yield gently.

Never cut the edges with a sharp knife, but with a paper knife.

A Barrel of Black Salt.

HERE is a characteristically Irish story of two hundred years ago about a barrel of "black salt":—

During the course of the seventeenth century a Lady Edgeworth was living at Lissard. It happened once that on a sudden alarm she was obliged to go at night to a garret at the top of the house for some gunpowder, which was kept there in a barrel. She was followed upstairs by an ignorant servant girl, who carried a bit of candle without a candlestick between her fingers.

When Lady Edgeworth had taken what gunpowder she wanted, had locked the door, and was half-way downstairs again, she observed that the girl had not her candle, and asked her what she had done with it: the girl answered that she had left it "stuck in the barrel of black salt."

Lady Edgeworth bid her stand still, and instantly returned by herself to the room where the gunpowder was, found the candle as the girl had described, put her hand carefully underneath it, carried it safely out, and, when she got to the bottom of the stairs, dropped on her knees, and thanked God for their deliverance.

How to Live Long.

NOT long ago," says the late Mr. James Payn, the novelist, "there was a famous judge among us of patriarchal age and keen intelligence. Two other judges—mere boys of seventy—asked him how he contrived to keep his wits and health so long. 'I never go into the open air,' he said? 'close carriage to the courts, and no draughts allowed on the bench, and never take anything cold into my stomach.' Fired by this advice the two judges followed it, and both died within three months.

"Moral: Let every man use the habits that suit him, and not adopt other people's."

The Captive.

VERY early in life the poetic faculty showed itself in Blake. There is incontestable evidence that before he had attained his fourteenth year he had written the following song—an "exquisitely ethereal lyric," it has been called.

*"How sweet I roamed from field to field
And tasted all the summer's pride,
Till I the Prince of Love beheld,
Who in the sunny beams did gl'ide!*

*"He show'd me lilies for my hair,
And blushing roses for my brow;
He led me through his gardens fair,
Where all his golden pleasures grow.*

*"With sweet may-dews my wings were wet,
And Phæbus fired my vocal rage;
He caught me in his silken net,
And shut me in his golden cage.*

*"He loves to sit and hear me sing,
Then, laughing, sports and plays with me,
Then stretches out my golden wing,
And mocks my loss of liberty."*

Colwyn Bay.

IN Colwyn Bay we have a new town which has come into existence within the last thirty years. It is a Welsh watering-place, with a magnificent sea view, situated on the shores of a bay which stretches from the headland of Penmaenrhos on the east to the Little Orme's Head on the north-west. It is a pleasant and picturesque place, with surprisingly little of the stiff and formal look so often seen in seaside resorts. "The lodging-houses," says one writer, "instead of all standing in long, unbroken rows, are many of them scattered about, some detached, some semi-detached, the abundant trees increase the attractiveness of the place, and several little wooded dells run down from the hills to the shore. There is bathing and there is boating; and if the lover of quietude sometimes wants the excitement of a bigger and gayer place, train, horse, or boat will convey him to Llandudno, and the walking distance is less than a dozen miles." What is known as Old Colwyn lies a little distance inland, and by some visitors its rural seclusion is preferred before the attractions of Colwyn Bay. As a mild winter resort, Colwyn Bay is to be praised. It is well protected on every side, except towards the sea, and deserves the attention of many whose health requires care.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

GARDEN flowers should now make a fine show. This is the time for laburnums, honeysuckles, lilies, early roses, etc. Young plants of pelargoniums, fuchsias, etc., which will be required for autumnal window-plants, should now be moved into well-drained pots, and plunged into a border. Commence the grafting and budding of roses. Take up the bulbs of tulips, hyacinths, etc., as soon as the leaves grow yellow. Keep them dry in paper bags till the season for planting comes round again. Some of the quick-flowering annuals, such as Virginia stocks, may still be sown, and the more tender kinds, which have been reared in a hot-bed, planted out. Cuttings of verbenas and heliotropes now strike readily. Plentifully water newly-planted seedlings and all hot-house plants. Sow mustard and cress the same as last month. Sow the last crop of long-pod beans and peas for the season. Turnips are to be sown for succession in the first week of the month, and for a full autumn crop in the third week. Train the summer shoots of all sorts of wall and trellis trees. Net over cherry trees to protect them from birds.

Romance and Reality.

ROMANCE and reality are two things. A lady traveller visiting Greece for the first time tells that she reached the Piræus at night with enthusiasm strung to the proper pitch.

"We peered anxiously," she says, "into the darkness to catch a glimpse of the great city. At length our guide exclaimed, 'Here is Athens!' adding 'Behold the new gas-works!' We felt disappointed, for we thought the tall chimney was some monument of antiquity."

The Lover's Income.

OLD MERCHANT: "Before I answer your request for my daughter's hand, permit me to ask what is your yearly income?"

Young Officer: "It amounts to £800."

Old Merchant: "H'm! To that would be added the interest at four per cent. on the sum of £20,000 that I intend to give my daughter."

Young Officer: "Well, the fact is, I have taken the liberty of including that in the calculation just submitted."

He Rebuked the Wrong Man.

TO a young man who stood on the street corner in Manchester, peaceably smoking a cigar, approached the elderly and impertinent reformer of immemorial legend.

"How many cigars a day do you smoke?" inquired the meddler in other people's affairs.

"Three," patiently replied the youth.

"How much do you pay for them?" continued the inquisitor. "Sixpence each."

"Don't you know, sir," continued the sage, "that if you would stop smoking and save up that money, by the time you are as old as I am you might own that big building on the corner?"

"Do you own it?" answered the smoker.

"No, I don't," replied the old man.

"Well, I do," said the young man.

Jokes in the Pulpit.

THE famous Nasr-Eddin—the traditional Joe Miller of the Turks—three times fooled an assembly of true believers out of a sermon.

The first time he ascended the pulpit he said, "Oh, true believers, do you know what I am going to say?" They replied, "No;" whereupon he asked, "Of what use is it to preach to such ignoramuses?" and came down.

The next time, when he asked the same question, they answered, "Yes, we know;" whereupon he said, "Then, it is useless for me to tell you," and came down.

The third time, having taken counsel together, the congregation prepared an answer which they thought would corner their joker-preacher, and said, "Some of us know, and some don't;" whereupon he promptly replied, "Let those who know tell those who don't," and once more came down.

Sandringham House.

WHEN the Prince of Wales married in 1863, both he and the Princess having a taste for the open-air life of the country, it was decided by him to purchase the estate of Sandringham Hall, in the county of Norfolk, and there many happy days were spent.

The Prince, not all at once but gradually, developed into a typical Norfolk squire, leading a life of homeliness and simplicity, tramping through the fields in Norfolk garb of tweed and gaiters, and indulging his favourite hobbies of farming, horse-breeding, and other pursuits of a country gentleman. The Princess played equally well her part as the squire's wife, acquiring a reputation as a good housekeeper, taking an interest in all that interested her husband, and making herself beloved in the neighbourhood by her simple, unaffected ways.

The King Proclaimed.

SHORTLY after eight o'clock on the morning of the 24th of January, 1901, a crowd of notable people began to assemble at St. James's Palace to hear the proclamation of the accession of His Majesty King Edward VII.

Shortly before nine o'clock a brilliant cavalcade passed down the Mall and entered the Priory Court. It consisted of the headquarters staff of the army in full uniform, headed by Field-Marshal Lord Roberts, carrying his baton of office; and including Sir Evelyn Wood, and other well-known generals. Then there appeared on the balcony the Mac-bearers, in gorgeous liveries; the Earl Marshal; Mr. Weldon, the Deputy-Garter; Mr. Scott-Batty, the York Herald; the Somerset Herald, the Windsor Herald, Rouge Dragon, and Rouge Croix, and Blue Mantle. The party awaited the striking of the hour, and the moment the sound of "Big Ben" had ceased, the Deputy Garter read out in loud and impressive tones, clearly heard at a great distance, the proclamation.

At the concluding words of the proclamation the Deputy - Garter cried aloud, "God Save the King," whereupon the heralds blew a fanfare, the band with guard of honour struck up the National Anthem, and the crowd cheered with a will. Another fanfare of trumpets ended the ceremony.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE flowering of plants reaches its height this month. Continue to take up bulbs as the foliage decays, and place annuals or other plants in the places left vacant. In showery weather thin out annuals; they will supply the plants wanted for filling up. Pippings of pinks and carnations may be struck, and layers may be laid down about the middle of the month. Cut down pelargoniums that have done blooming, and take what cuttings are required; they will now strike readily. Lettuce plants and plants recently sown must be watered in dry weather. Peas and scarlet-runners now require striking, and potatoes must have the earth drawn round the roots. Plant out broccoli and celery. Roses, elder, lavender, and other plants are now gathered for distilling. Propagate medicinal and pot herbs by slips and cuttings. Budding—of use in the case of many fruit-trees, and the chief means of propagating roses—is the principal operation of the month. Hedges and evergreens require cutting, and should be attended to.

PROCLAMATION OF KING EDWARD VII. AT ST. JAMES'S PALACE.

Hoop Snakes.

WHAT is known as the hoop snake is a reptile whose existence is vouched for by some travellers of an imaginative turn of mind. They abound, according to several accounts we have been favoured with, in India and Australia, and derive their name from the peculiarity of their mode of progression; taking their tails in their mouth, they bowl along like a hoop.

Fact! so an old Indian officer informed us, who had often seen the native soldiers chasing them with short bamboo sticks (he was fearfully circumstantial) around the compounds or along the roads.

What an acquisition a couple of these would be to our Zoological Gardens, in an enclosure of their own, with a Sepoy or two to run round after them with bamboos at stated hours.

Advice to Preachers.

It would be a good thing if some divines would take home to themselves the advice given them by the late Mr. Spurgeon.

"Always," he says, "get the true meaning of a text. One local preacher took 'He for our Profit,' and preached on 'The Prophetic Office of Christ.'

"Mind your figures of speech are not cracked. Don't talk like the brother who said, 'I fly from star to star, from cherry-beam to cherry-beam.'

"Get amongst your people, or somebody may be saying of you as one old lady said of her minister, that he was invisible all the week and incomprehensible on Sundays.

"Shun all affectation in the pulpit, and mind you never get into the goody-goody style. One of this sort said, 'I was reading this morning in dear Hebrews.'

"Mind the theme of your sermon suits yourself. A beardless boy should not preach from 'I have been young and now am old.'"

Figures of Speech.

UNEDUCATED people often use figures of speech which are both poetic and strong.

While visiting in Norfolk, near the North Sea, Tennyson was much impressed with the saying which he there heard: "The sea is moaning for the loss of the wind."

This saying he used to compare with another he heard used by an old fishwoman who had lost two sons at sea.

On a stormy day she, clenching her fist at the advancing tide, cried out: "Ay! roar, do! How I hates to see thee show thy white teeth!"

Better than Gold.

"Wife," he said, "come sit by me;
Put your hand in mine and lay
Your dear head upon my breast,
Listening to what I say.

"I have striven to lay by
Something for a rainy day,
But misfortune's come, and now
Ev'rything is swept away."

Crept the true wife closer still—
Kissed his troubled cheek and said
"Life has sadder losses, dear,
So, I pray be comforted.

"Loss of love we could not bear;
Such a loss is worse than Death,
We might lose each other, dear,—
Think," she said below her breath.

"Thank God 'tis no worse," she cried,
With a smile. "You did forget
What unreckoned wealth is ours
Since we have each other yet."

At Cape Town.

THE most remarkable feature of Cape Town is Table Mountain, which towers above the city to the height of about 3,600 feet. Whether covered by its "table-cloth" of fleecy vapour or standing out clear against the sky, as in our engraving, it gives a picturesque character to the important colonial capital which lies at its base. Immediately in front of the city are the waters of Table Bay, which sweep in a graceful curve eastward to Salt River, and northward to the Blueberg Hills, the fine range of the Drakanstein and Tulbagh Mountains lying in the background.

An imposing structure at Cape Town—one of the handsomest buildings, indeed, in all South Africa—is the House of Parliament, situated at the entrance to Government Avenue. It was completed in 1886 at a cost of £222,000. The two debating chambers, that for the Legislative Council and that for the House of Assembly, have each a floor space measuring 67 feet by 36 feet, which is said to be only 10 feet less in length and breadth than the House of Commons at Westminster. The sessions are ordinarily held during the months from April to August. Members are paid for their services. Also in Government Avenue, and close to the Houses of Parliament, is the Government House, the town residence of the High Commissioner of South Africa.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

EXAMINE bulbs that are out of the ground; they must not be allowed to become damp, for then they will mould and be of little value. Plants, such as fuchsias, which are meant to bloom in the window in autumn, should be prevented from flowering now. Take off the tops of chrysanthemums. All bands tied round buds and grafts should now be loosened and removed where they are no longer required. According to some, it is better to pot auriculas now than in May. Sow cinerarias, petunias, and calceolarias; if left to the spring these plants will not flower till the following year. Plant out biennial stocks in the borders where they are intended to bloom. Pick off dead leaves and reduce stray growth. Sow lettuce to stand the winter, spinach, and cauliflower, and transplant lettuces and every sort of cabbage. Hoe and thin turnips. A few coleworts may still be planted. Caterpillars should be destroyed. Savoy and cabbages, which are particularly subject to their attacks, should be sprinkled with lime on dewy mornings.

A Tale of a Telegram.

MANY telegrams get altogether astray, sometimes to the no slight discomfiture of those into whose hands they fall.

It is related that a woman residing in some small street in Manchester once received what appeared to be a summons from her husband to come up to him in London. Very much alarmed, she at once started.

On her way she got into conversation with another woman who was in the same carriage, and who she found was also going up to see her husband, who was in London ill. This woman had been expecting a telegram from her husband, and, not hearing, had grown anxious, and had finally set off without the telegram.

Further parley revealed the fact that their names were the same; that their husbands' names were the same; that they both lived in the same quarter in Manchester; and it finally transpired that the telegram which had been delivered to the first woman was the very one which the second had been waiting for—the error in delivery having been caused by some such mistake as “Hamilton Street” for “Henrietta Street”—a mistake very likely attributable to want of distinctness in the writing.

A Novel Up-to-Date.

MRS. WILKINS: “Here’s one of the best novels I ever read. It is absolutely true to life. Its realism is the beauty of it. The heroine, a young lady, and the hero, a young man who was very poor, loved each other intensely. The girl’s parents sternly forbade the marriage on account of the young man’s poverty. But the young couple swore to remain true to each other and to get married when he should be able to get a house of his own in some respectable suburb. Then he went to Klondike, and in a year came back worth half a million.”

Mrs. Wilkins: “How delightful! And then they were married.”

Mrs. Wilkins: “No; while he was absent the heroine had married a rich old man who used to know her mother when she was a girl.”

Courtship in Ireland.

MANY marriages in rural Ireland have their spice of romance:—“The youthful couples are in hearty accord with the boy who said, ‘It is a grate pleasure entirely to be alone, especially whin yer sweetheart is wid ye.’”

“‘Do you drame of me, Mike?’ said the girl to her lover as they walked arm in arm.

“‘Drame of you, is it, Kate? Shure, ’tis the way wid me, that I can’t sleep dramin’ of you!’

“‘Those Irish boys have the flattering tongue.

“‘Och, I wish I was in jail for stealin’ ye,’ was the compliment paid to a pretty colleen.

“‘Nor are the girls deficient in this respect. ‘Ah!’ said one shyly to a boy who was slow in making up his mind, ‘if you wor me, Jack, and I wor you, I wud be married long ago.’”

The Empress Frederick

VICTORIA ADELAIDE MARY LOUISE, Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen Victoria's eldest child, who was to become the Crown Princess of Prussia and the Empress Frederick of Germany, was born at Buckingham Palace on November 21, 1840. After a long and painful illness she died at Kronberg, her charming seat near Frankfurt, on the evening of Monday, August 5, 1901. Thus for a second time within a few short months the Royal Houses of Great Britain and Germany were drawn together by a common sorrow.

The great event of the life of the late Empress was her marriage to the young Prince Frederick William, only son of the heir to the throne of Prussia. This took place in the Chapel Royal at St. James's Palace on January 25, 1858. The Princess received a dowry of £40,000, and an annuity of £4,000.

Her husband succeeded to the throne on the death of his father on March 9, 1888, but he had already been struck by a fatal disease, to which he succumbed after a reign of only ninety-nine days.

The Empress Frederick has left six children to mourn her loss, the eldest being the reigning German Emperor William II., who was born on the 27th of January, 1859.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

DAHLIAS and some hardy annuals are still in flower. Place auriculas under shelter for the winter at the end of the month, but they should still have as much light and air as is consistent with shielding them from frost and heavy rain. Take cactuses indoors and give them very little water. Make cuttings of China roses. Plant out pinks in the beds where they are meant to flower. Thrift, daisy, or gentianella edgings may now be planted; the earth should be pressed firmly round the roots by beating it with the back of a spade. Dog's-tooth violet, narcissus, crocus, snowdrop, and such like bulbs, if out of the ground, must now be planted. Earth-up celery and plant lettuces in a sheltered border for winter use. This is the best time for forming new beds of horseradish. Plant endive. Lift onions and place them on a dry border or gravel walk. Keep down weeds which now grow apace. Hazel-nuts, acorns, blackberries, and elderberries are ready for gathering. Cider and perry are now made. The temperature of the year takes a turn. Last month the mean temperature was 61° 28'; this month it is 60° 14'.

The South Stack.

ONE of the great features of interest in the neighbourhood of Holyhead is the splendid rock scenery at what are known as the North and South Stacks. The South Stack, however, is the chief attraction for visitors. It is there that a famous lighthouse, erected in 1800, throws its warning light over the sea, and has since its erection been the means of saving many valuable lives.

"At first," writes one of an observing eye. "you feel disappointed with the South Stack; and it is not till you descend that you become impressed with the grandeur of the scenery. At the foot of the formidable stairs, 380 in number, you arrive at the entrance to a light suspension bridge. For years after the lighthouse was erected the only means of access across the chasm was by a rope and a basket, then a bridge of ropes was made, but the risk was so great that a chain bridge became necessary.

"After crossing the bridge, you can descend to look at the vast fissure in the islet; and wonder, if the day be stormy, how the boats fared that conveyed the materials for the lighthouse to that rugged and perilous spot, where the surge of the sea is awe-inspiring. The sea in south-west gales often dashes over the dwellings of the lighthouse keepers, when the scene is felt to be truly sublime."

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

CHINESE chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies of various kinds, mignonette, Russian and Neapolitan violets, are now in bloom. Dahlias, hollyhocks, etc., keep their blooming till injured by frost. Early in the month pot any herbs intended for the window early in spring; plant them in dry soil. Prepare beds for tulips, hyacinths, etc. They should be dug to the depth of eighteen inches and well drained. Take up scarlet lobelias, divide them, and plant them in pots for the winter; they are apt to decay if left out. Dig up parsnips, carrots, potatoes, and beets. Spinach beds should be weeded out, and August-sown lettuces planted out, if not done last month. Winter crops are now being sown in the fields. Potatoes and other vegetables are being housed. Fences should now be repaired and drains cleared, and the garden should be kept as neat as possible. Stock or house wood for firing. The temperature of this month is considerably (about 7°) colder than that of September. Towards its close frosts are often frequent.

What Became of the Students.

AN interesting summary is given by Sir James Paget in an unpublished report to St. Bartholomew's Hospital of the career of one thousand of his pupils over a period of fifteen years. Of these, 23 achieved distinguished success, 66 considerable success, 507 fair success, 124 very limited success, 56 failed entirely, and the rest left the profession or died.

He Was His Own Enemy.

A GENTLEMAN of considerable property made his will in favour of a clergyman who was his most intimate friend, and committed it, unknown to the rest of his family, to the care of the divine. However, not long before he died, having changed his mind with regard to the disposal of his effects, he made another will, wherein he left the clergyman only £500, and the rest of his fortune he gave—more fairly, as he thought, from the family point of view—to his nephew.

Soon after the old gentleman's death his nephew, rummaging over his drawers, happened to find this last will, and perceiving the legacy of £500 in it for the clergyman, without any hesitation or scruples of conscience put it in the fire, and took possession of the whole estate, it being supposed that his uncle had died intestate.

The clergyman coming to town soon after, and inquiring into the circumstances of his old friend's death, asked if he had made any will before he died, and being answered in the negative, very coolly put his hand into his pocket and pulled out the former will, which had been committed to his care, wherein the uncle bequeathed to him his whole fortune.

Journalistic Bulls.

MANY bulls are to be laid to the charge of journalists, which is not surprising considering the speed at which they often have to work.

The Times, in its eulogy of the late Baron Dowse, the Irish Judge, said—"A great Irishman has passed away. God grant that many of the great men who wisely love their country may follow him."

In an article in the Spectator on the Education Bill it was stated that Sir William Harcourt's harpoons had missed fire.

The Daily Graphic, in an article on Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, said—"The Princely Eagle has got beyond his depth."

The Irish Times, writing on landslips, said—"To find the solid earth rock beneath his feet, to have his natural foothold on the globe's surface swept, so to speak, out of his grasp, is, to the stoutest and bravest heart of man, terrifying in the extreme."

Queen Victoria's Funeral.

THE funeral of Queen Victoria was one of the most impressive spectacles recorded in history. On Friday, the 1st of February, 1901, the body was conveyed from Osborne, where she had passed into the other world, to Portsmouth, the yacht Alberta passing through a double line of warships eight or nine miles long. These were spread out at intervals of two and-a-half cables, and it was between their ranks and amid the thunder of their artillery that the Royal yacht, containing the mortal remains of the Great Queen, made its way to the mainland.

On Saturday, the 2nd, the body was removed from Portsmouth to London, carried in State through the West End of London to Paddington, and thence taken by special train to Windsor. At Windsor a noble procession accompanied it to St. George's Chapel, where the funeral service was read by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The body was removed after the service to the Albert Memorial Chapel, where it rested till Monday, the 4th of February, when it was placed beside that of the late Prince Consort in the Mausoleum at Frogmore. The function on this day was in its nature a private one, but it was none the less solemn and impressive.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THERE may be flowers in the garden in this and the following month. The common monthly rose and several varieties of laurestine are in bloom. Evergreen trees and shrubs are now in great beauty. Take up dahlia roots carefully in fine weather and label them. Let the roots dry gradually, and then lay them in a shallow box; cover them with sand, and house them in any place where they are free from frost. Plant tulips and hyacinths in beds as early in the month as possible. Plant them three or four inches deep and six inches apart. Protect them from heavy rains till the roots have taken firm hold of the soil.

This can be done with fern-leaves or straw, fastened down by willow-rods, or with thin turf, with the grass side downwards. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs whilst the weather continues favourable and before the soil has parted with the solar heat absorbed during summer. Finish taking up potatoes, carrots, beet, and parsnips. Take up late broccoli, endive, late cauliflower and lettuces and lay them in an open shed or in old cucumber or melon pits, which will protect them from frost, and afford a supply during winter. This is the month for flooding water-meadows, repairing drains, and renewing fences.

FUNERAL OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

Imposing Language.

It has probably occurred to many people to wonder what sort of language chemists employ when they gather together and talk shop. The following extract from a paper in the current number of the Proceedings of the Chemical Society gives one some faint idea on this point:—

“It is proved that the optical inactivity of the base is not due to racemisation having occurred, hence the formation of the two bromocamphorsulphonates cannot be attributed to a resolution of the base into its enantiomorphous components.”

And to think that people actually apply to men who can talk like this for a mustard-plaster or a cake of soap!

The Best Ghost Story in the World.

THERE is little doubt that the best ghost story in this world is that of Eliphaz the Temanite, to be found in Job iv., 12—17:—

“Now a thing was secretly brought to me, and mine ear received a little thereof.

“In thoughts from the visions of the night, when deep sleep falleth on men, “Fear came upon me, and trembling, which made all my bones to shake.

“Then a spirit passed before my face; the hair of my flesh stood up:

“It stood still, but I could not discern the form thereof: an image was before mine eyes, there was silence, and I heard a voice, saying,

“Shall mortal man be more just than God? shall a man be more pure than his maker?”

What description of a real or supposed apparition can be found to equal the sublime grandeur of these verses?

TWO GREAT VIRTUES.—There are two great virtues that make one willing to pardon many faults—valour in men and extreme prudence in women.

“I Guess it is True.”

“It isn’t true, is it?” asked Rollo, as he finished reading “The Pied Piper of Hamelin”—“it isn’t true, is it, that he could play on his pipe so that the rats would go off and drown themselves?”

“Well,” replied Rollo’s father, “I don’t know about that. I think it may be true. Your uncle George can play the flute so that it will scare a cow into the river and drive all the dogs in the neighbourhood howling crazy. Yes, I guess the poem is true.”

How I Weary fer Her.

*Wish some breeze, by night or day,
Jest woud whisper ter her
In a sweet, heart-breakin’ way,
How I weary fer her!*

*Wish some bird that flies erlong
With its song could stir her—
Jest that sweet, heart-breakin’ song,
How I weary fer her.*

*How the sunshine’s left the day—
Wrappd itsel’erbout her;
How the night has come ter stay,
Lonesome—long, without her.*

*How the roses round the place
Somechow ’pear ter miss her,
Lookin’ in ter see her face—
Longin’ I ke ter kiss her.*

*Wish some breeze, by night or day,
Jest woud whisper ter her
In a sweet, heart-breakin’ way,
How I weary fer her!*

A Hearty Welcome.

THE City Imperial Volunteers returned from the war in South Africa in October, 1900, and arrived in London on the 20th of that month. From Paddington Station they marched in procession to St. Paul's Cathedral, the route being profusely decorated, and dense masses of spectators filling the footways and every part of the streets that was not kept clear for the heroes of the day.

At St. Paul's Cathedral a brief but appropriate service was gone through, including a short sermon by the popular Bishop of Stepney, who not long afterwards became Bishop of London.

The Volunteers then reformed in the churchyard and proceeded by way of Cheapside, amid renewed demonstrations of popular enthusiasm and welcome, to the Guildhall, where they were received, in presence of a large and distinguished company of guests, by the Lord Mayor and Corporation. The formal address of welcome from the City to those who had served their country so well was read by the Lord Mayor.

Then followed the closing function of an eventful day—a banquet to the regiment on the ground of the Honourable Artillery Company at Finsbury. In all more than 2,500 guests sat down, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, and in the general enthusiasm which prevailed the speech-making was necessarily brief.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE work to be executed in the flower garden is much the same as last month. Tea roses that are in exposed situations should be taken up and placed safely out of the reach of frost. Any fuchsias that are to remain out all the winter should be cut down and have their roots covered with litter or coal ashes. In frosty weather sprinkle a little light litter over any choice things in open beds. Make plantations of rhubarb, sea kale, asparagus, and horseradish. Sow early peas and beans on dry, warm slopes. A delicate salad may be obtained in five or six weeks by packing roots of dandelion in leaf-mould and putting them into gentle heat. Dig round old fruit trees. If any trees grow too luxuriantly to bear well, root-prune them. Continue, if necessary, to make new drains, to improve water-courses, and to plant hedges. Turn up the ground thoroughly for exposure to the frost and snow. Inspect the fruit in the store-room at frequent and regular intervals, and remove whatever is found to be in a state of decay.

THE LORD MAYOR WELCOMING THE C.I.V.'S ON THEIR RETURN FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

A Successful Quack.

WE have a good example of successful quackery in the case of Le Fevre, a German, a broken wine-merchant who honoured this country with his presence about the close of the eighteenth century. He set up for a gout doctor, and was much noticed by the nobility.

Under pretence of going to Germany for more of his powders, he quitted this country, and had the prudence never to return. He carried over about 10,000 guineas, obtained by subscription and otherwise.

Living in the style of a prince, he drunk daily, as his first toast, "To the credulous and stupid nobility, gentry, and opulent merchants of Great Britain."

The Mole is Worth Studying.

A MOLE is one of the most interesting and instructive of animals if only we take the trouble to study him. There are those who assure us that the mole is a survival of the megatherium, and that he is the only living thing which still possesses a peculiarly formed finger on his broad hand, the only known analogue of a similar toe on the hind foot of the extinct glyptodon. Also it is certain that, though the mole has no external ears, yet no animal that we are familiar with has such exquisite sense of hearing.

His sense of touch seems to be diffused over all the surface of his little body; and some of the learned assure us those little eyes, which in the full-grown animal are hard to find, are furnished with a certain muscle which can be contracted or expanded at will, insomuch that your mole may just keep his eyes open or closed, according to circumstances—an invaluable accomplishment, such as courtiers, diplomatists, et hoc genus omne, may be forgiven if, when they hear of, they too desire to have.

A Sacred Flower.

IN the East the lotus-flower has a great reputation for sanctity. When Sir William Jones was on one occasion at dinner on the borders of the Ganges, desiring to examine the sacred flower, he despatched some of his people to procure him a specimen; it was brought to him, and immediately all his Indian attendants fell on their faces and paid adoration to it. This lotus must not be confounded with the Egyptian plant, a kind of water-lily which grows in the Nile.

A Model Woman.

THE following epitaph is met with at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, on the tomb of Dame Rebecca Berry, who died 1697, at the age of fifty-two:—

*Come, Ladies, ye that would appear
Like Angels fair, come, dress you here.
Come, dress you at this Marble Stone,
And make that humble grace your own,
Which once adorned so fair a Mind,
As yet e'er lodg'd in Womankind.
So she was dress'd, whose humble Life
Was free from Prid', was free from Strife,
Free from all envious Brawls and Fars,
Of human Life and Civil-wars.
These ne'er disturb'd her peaceful mind,
Which still was gentle, still was kind.
Her very Looks, her Garb, her Mien,
Disclos'd her the humble Soul within.
Trace her thro' ev'ry Scene of Life—
View her as Widow, Virgin, Wife;
Still the same, humble she appears,
The same in youth, the same in Years,
The same in high and low estate;
Ne'er vex'd with this, ne'er mov'd with that.
Go, Ladies, now, & if you'd be
As fair, as great, as good as she,
Go learn of her Humility!*

Copies of these are kept at Somerset House, and may be searched on payment of a fee of one shilling. If a certified copy of any entry be required, the charge for that, in addition to the shilling for the search, is two shillings and sevenpence, which includes a penny for stamp duty. The registers contain an entry of births, deaths, and marriages since 1st July, 1837. Copies can always be obtained from the Registrar for the district, or the Superintendent Registrar who has the custody of the registrars (including those of persons married at the churches) when filled.

MARRIAGES.

In the case of marriage by banns, if the contracting parties reside in different parishes, the publication must be made in the churches of each parish for three consecutive Sundays. If three months be permitted to elapse after the third time of publication, the banns become useless, and the parties must either obtain a licence or submit to the republication of the banns. Civil marriages can be performed before a duly licensed Registrar. Particulars of such can be obtained at all Registry Offices.

A DAINY GIFT-BOOK.

Dedicated by gracious permission to Her Majesty Queen Alexandra.

OUR GRACIOUS . . . QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

By the Rev. Canon FLEMING, B.D., of St. Michael's, Chester Square. With a Photogravure Portrait of the Queen, from a Painting by EDWARD HUGHES, and three Illustrations of Sandringham. Crown 8vo, white cloth gilt, and gilt top, 2s. 6d.

"One cannot predict the limits of the sale of such a book. There is perhaps no preacher of the day who appeals so much to the great men of the country, the able men of the country, and the young men of the country as Canon Fleming."—Queen.

"A brief and eminently readable sketch of the Queen."—Scotsman.

"Beautifully written."—Glasgow Mail.

THE STORY OF SOME ENGLISH SHIRES.

By the late MANDELL CREIGHTON, D.D., Lord Bishop of London, author of "Queen Elizabeth," "A History of the Papacy," etc. Demy 8vo, cloth gilt, 6s. net.

Photo by Russell
& Sons.

The late
Lord Bishop
of London.

This book was first issued in an expensive form in 1897. Dr. Creighton's original intention was to tell briefly the wonderful history of every English county, but his acceptance of the bishopric of London unhappily rendered it impossible for him to do this. The present volume contains a chapter on the County of Cambridge, the only new one written since the book was originally printed. The work is one of abiding literary and historical value from the pen of a recognised master of history, and is now issued in a permanent library form.

AN ARTIST'S WALKS IN BIBLE LANDS.

By HENRY A. HARPER. With a Photogravure Frontispiece and 5 other Illustrations from drawings by the author. Super royal 8vo, cloth gilt, 6s. net. "An artistically illustrated, beautifully printed gift-book."

RAMBLES WITH NATURE STUDENTS.

By MRS. BRIGHTWEN. With 130 Illustrations. Large crown 8vo, cloth boards, gilt edges, 5s.

PHOTOGRAPHING A GOLDFINCH'S NEST.

From "Woodland, Field, and Shore."

The writer of "Woodland, Field, and Shore" has given himself with a great diligence to the study of English bird, insect, and animal life in their habitats. He is the author of the letterpress, and has also taken the photographs which supply the long list of charming illustrations. The book will be found to possess all the freshness and the interest of competent first-hand work. It should be valuable as a first-rate gift-book for young people interested in Natural History, and it ought to develop their love of nature and their powers of observation.

THE HARVEST OF A QUIET EYE.

By Prebendary J. R. VERNON. New Edition. With an etched Frontispiece and Title Page by FRANCIS WALKER. Crown 8vo, cloth boards, 5s.

PUBLISHED BY THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY, INCORPORATED, 56 Paternoster Row, London.

Silas K. Hocking.

THE . . . AWAKENING OF . . . ANTHONY WEIR. . . .

By SILAS K. HOCKING, author of "God's Out-cast," "The Day of Recompense," "The Heart of Man," "In Spite of Fate," etc. With seven Illustrations by HAROLD COPPING. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, 3s. 6d.

A powerful tale from the pen of one of the best known writers of the day. Anthony Weir is a young minister of ability and culture who enters upon a pastoral life from selfish motives, which are all the more harmful because not apparent to himself. The story shows in a most instructive manner how he misses some of the greatest blessings in life, and is gradually brought by the stern discipline of events to a true conception of his character and work. Readers at the completion of the story will, we think, confirm the author's judgment that this is one of the best tales that he has yet written.

LADY DYE'S REPARATION.

By SARAH DOUDNEY, author of "Janet Darney's Story," etc. With four Illustrations by PERCY TARRANT. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.

CYNTHIA'S BROTHER.

By LESLIE KEITH, author of "Our Street," "Ralph Ellison's Opportunity," etc. With five Illustrations by HAROLD COPPING. Crown 8vo cloth gilt, 2s. 6d.

GOLD IN THE FURNACE.

By M. H. CORNWALL LEGH, author of "An Incurable Girl," etc. With Illustrations. Large crown 8vo, cloth boards, 3s. 6d.

"Miss Cornwall Legh has no special purpose, except to show the working of real Christian principle. But in power her work is quite fit to be ranked with that of the great novelist Charles Reade. We have seldom seen anything so good."—Spectator.

By AMY LE FEUVRE, author of "Probable Sons," "Dwell Deep," "On the Edge of a Moor," etc. With 15 Illustrations by J. S. CROMPTON. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, 3s. 6d.

This may be fairly described as a modern religious novel like "Dwell Deep" and "On the Edge of a Moor," which have been before the public for some years, and which were both from the pen of this widely known writer. It traces the history of two girls brought up in the country on sound religious but somewhat narrow lines, and then suddenly exposed to all the influence and temptation of fashionable life.
