PREFATORY NOTE.

THIS volume ought sooner to have been in the hands of members; the delay has arisen from the nature of the duties undertaken by the Editors. About a year ago a mass of materials was laid before the Council, which being sent to the printer revealed a chaos necessitating the earlier sheets to be reconstructed and reprinted. Excepting the excerpts from Public Records, the work was found to consist of fragments of letters, and other undigested materials, one portion being frequently contradictory of the other. Information from original sources was now sought for, and with some difficulty procured, while by cancelling a portion of the printed sheets the first part of the work was placed in an intelligible form. The latter part of the collection consists of excerpts which may be found useful to genealogical inquirers into the earlier history of several of the great families in the South East of Scotland—the Dunbars, Homes and others.

The Collection has been edited with the advice of a committee named by the compiler, and no pains have been spared to render the work creditable to the Club. Whatever measure of acceptance may be accorded to the performance, the Editors have the satisfaction to know that the volume is extra to the Club's ordinary issues, and that with these it will not interfere.

THE HOUSE OF EDGAR.

EDGAR OF WEDDERLIE.

EDGAR * is an old and peculiar surname. One might suppose that even at the present day it would be common, at any rate about large cities, and in those districts whose characteristics are still, to a certain extent, more especially Saxon. When, however, we come to inquire narrowly, and refer to Directories, we find it of rare occurrence. For example, if we take the diocese of Winchester, and run over the index of Wills in its Probate Court from 1498 down to the present time, or, at least to the close of last century, among numerous Saxon names, that of Edgar occurs but thrice; and in two of these Wills, oddly enough, we meet with the same corrupt spelling of the name which, in the contemporaneous registers of the northern kingdom was so prevalent.

It is doubtful whether, prior to the present century, even where Scottish patronymics were largely infused, there were any persons of this name in the sister isle.†

In England, an ancient family of the name settled in Berkshire at an early period. That and the Edgar family in Suffolk may have had a common ancestor; and it may not be saying too much to suggest their descent from one or other of the Edgars who appear in the pedigrees of the Saxon Earls of Northumbria.

A few persons named Edgar seem to have been in attendance upon, or connected with, the courts of several of the ancient kings of Scotland. One named "Gilbert, son of Edgar," was witness to the execution of a charter by William the Lion about 1176. Another, named "Edgar, son of Henry," was witness to a charter by King David about 1208. Another, "Gilbert, son of Edgar," was witness to a charter in 1200; and "Walter, son of Edgar," was witness to a charter of the lands of Scrogges in 1208.

In Rymer's "Fœdera" three notices of this name are to be found. 1. In the 24th Edward I. (1296),—"Walterus Edger persona de Penicok vicecomiti de Edenburgh." 2. 1st Edward II. (1308),—"De vadiis prisonibus Scotiæ," &c., "habere facias Galfrido Edger . . . in castro nostro Ebor." 3. 7th Edward II. (1314) . . . "quod Isabella de Brus in Castro predicto sub custodia vestra, de mandato nostro, jam existens, habeat secum, ut de familia suâ, Elenam Edger, Johannem de Claydon, Samuelem de Lynford et Willielmum de Preston," &c., &c.

Besides these, we find a notice of a Sir Patrick Edgar, ("Ric de Barneby Domino Patricio Edger Milite") in 1272, in the Chronicle of Laurence; and in the reign of King John (Abbrev.

* "Verstigan derives the name from EAD an oath, and $\gamma\alpha\pi\delta$ to keep." Bayley's "Etym. Dict.," Edin., 1789.

† There is at present a family of the name in Belfast; they came from Dumfries.

Placit.) “Edgar avuncul. Comitis Waldeni patris comiti Patricii fuit seisit in Dñico suo sicut de feudo de Villa de Bewic,” &c.

“In the shire of Berwick,” says Nisbet, “besides the Homes there were other ancient families of different surnames who carried lions rampant in variation of tinctures from the old Earls of Dunbar and March ; whether upon the account of descent from that eminent family, or, as vassals, carried lions in imitation of those of their patrons I shall not be positive, as the Hepburns, Rentons, and of the name of Edgar who held their lands of the old Earls of Dunbar.

“The principal family of the name of Edgar there is Edgar of Wadderlie, yet extant, who carried for their proper Arms—Sable, a lion rampant argent.

“As for the antiquity of the name, I shall here vouch a charter of Earl Patrick, son of Waldeve, Earl of Dunbar, who grants to the monks of Durham the church and lands of Edram for prayers to be said for the soul of his father and mother, of King Malcolm, his sons, King Edgar, King Alexander, King David, and his son Earl Henry, and King Malcolm, and for the safety of his brother David, and for himself, wife, and children. The charter has no date, but is granted in the reign of King William, and in it are many witnesses, among whom are many barons in the shire of Berwick, as ‘Stephan Papedie, Robert de Bonaire, Gilbert de Hume, Henric de Prenderghest, Edward de Aldcambus, Alan de Suyntoun, Willielm de Nesbit, and Willielm filius Edgari.’

“The last-mentioned William, son of Edgar, I take to be one of the progenitors of Edgar of Wadderlie.

“The aforesaid principal charter is fully repeated in the charter of confirmation of King Robert the Bruce, dated at Berwick, the 15th day of November, the 21st year of his reign.

“Richard Edgar,* in the reign of King Robert the Bruce, married the eldest daughter and coheir of Ross of Sanquhar, and William Crichton married the other sister. . . . King Robert confirms to Richard and his son Donald Edgar, the half of the lands of Sanquhar, with the manor place as the charter bears:—‘De capitali manerio in Baronia de Sanquehar cum medi[eta]te ejusdem Barronie ad ipsum manerium pertinent.’ It appears that Edgar of Wedderlie is descended of this Richard.

“I have seen a resignation in the custody of Edgar of Wedderlie, by Richard Edgar, son of Richard Edgar of the lands of Wedderlie, in favour of Robert Edgar Dominus de Wedderlie, in the year 1376, and confirmed to his son, John Edgar of Wedderlie, 1384.

“And beside the Arms of Wedderlie are quartered with figures like to these of Ross of Sanquhar—three water budgets or, much defaced, as on an old stone on the house of Wedderlie, supported by two greyhounds, and for crest, a dexter hand holding a dagger, point downwards. Motto: ‘Man do it,’ and on a compartment below, ‘Salutem disponit Deus.’

“It has been remarked, with reference to the origin of our Peerage, that two great Houses, †

† “The family of Cospatrick, a powerful Northumbrian nobleman, took refuge in Scotland after the death of Harold at Hastings, and in 1072 had extensive lands in the Merse and Lothian gifted them by Malcolm Canmore. They continued to be one of the most opulent and powerful Houses in the east of Scotland for a considerable period, as evidenced by their one English, one Scottish, sprang from the best Saxon aristocracy. Of the old Earls of Northumberland, one named Cospatrick left England after the Conquest, and settled in Scotland. He was ancestor of the Earls of Dunbar, of whom the Homes, and we believe the Edgars, are cadets. From him the Nevilles of Raby, in England, are also descended."

According to Douglas ("Peerage of Scotland:" ed. Wood, ii. 107) the descent is stated thus:—

I. Cospatrick, son of Maldred by Algetha, daughter and heiress of Uchtred, Prince of Northumbria, by Elgiva, daughter of Ethelred, King of England, was father of Dolfyn and,—

II. Cospatrick, 1st Earl of Dunbar, whose son,—

III. Cospatrick, 2nd Earl, died in 1147, leaving 1. Cospatrick (3rd Earl). 2. Edward.

3. Edgar ("who appears to have been ancestor of those of the surname Edgar.") 4. Uchtred.

In Surtees' "Durham," we find, with many other collateral descents, the following:—

Waltheof (circa A.D. 969) father of Uchtred, who was thrice married, and had by his 2nd wife, Elgiva, a daughter, Aldgetha, who married Maldred, and was mother of Cospatrick, whose issue follows:—

1. Cospatrick, father of Cospatrick and Patrick.

2. Dolfyn (viz. 1120).

3. Waldeve.

4. Edgar (Nothus).

5. Gunil, who married Orme, and had Cospatrick, Dominus de Workington, father of Thomas (ob. 1152), father of Patrick.

Waltheof (circa 969), by his 3rd wife, Sigen, had Cospatrick, the father of Uchtred, father of Dolfyn (1131), father of Maldred and Patrick. This Maldred was father of five children, viz., 1. Robert, who married Isabella, daughter of G. de Neville. 2. Gilbert. 3. John. 4. Gilbert. 5. Richard.

In his version of the pedigree of the House of Dunbar, &c., many references are given by the author to the sources of his information; it contains likewise the name of Siward, the Giant Earl of Northumberland, who is stated to have married Aelfled, the great granddaughter of Waltheof, the founder (?) of these families.

The territory once in possession of the Wedderlie family, appears to have extended in a broken chain from the coast of Berwickshire to the Solway Firth. Yet many small landowners bearing the name, who were settled under a peculiar tenure* in the royal patrimony at Lochmaben, may have donations, noted in the chartularies of Coldingham, Newbottle, Dryburgh, Kelso, Melrose, and Soltra. Founded on a steep, rugged rock, within sea-mark, and communicating with the land through a covered passage, the castle of Dunbar might well, before the invention of gunpowder, have been deemed impregnable. It was often the theatre of warlike contention, and two great battles were fought in its immediate neighbourhood,—the first in 1226, when Earl Warenne defeated the army of Scotland sent for its relief; and the second in 1650, when Leslie was overthrown by Cromwell. It was often besieged, and as often bravely defended; but perhaps never so brilliantly as by Black Agnes against the Earl of Salisbury in 1337."—Quarterly Review, Jan. 1858.

had no distinct legitimate connection with the chief House, but at the same time it is probable there was but one family of the name.

It is probable that in the fourteenth century the House of Wedderlie was more powerfully represented in Nithsdale than in its native county; and it is a question whether the representation of the family early in the seventeenth century did not revert to the head of the House settled in the former locality.

Towards the close of the thirteenth century an Edgar, Laird of Wedderlie, appears to have been married to a Countess of Home; and immediately afterwards, the fortune of this House seems to have reached the summit of its prosperity, in the reign of King Robert the Bruce, at whose marriage Richard de Edgar was a witness. One of the latter's four sons was placed by David Bruce at the head of the Clan McGowan, and Wedderlie itself seems to have been resigned to a younger brother,—probably the king's godson.

The Laird of Wedderlie, as co-representative of Robert de Ros, Lord of Sanquhar,—through his wife, a daughter of the latter,—was allied to the family of one of the competitors for the crown of Scotland in 1292.* Thus his position must have been among the foremost.

Yet it seems strange, that when a distinction came gradually to be made between territorial and titular barons, an Edgar should have acquired the latter rank; thus losing for his descendants a nominal status, which, like many powerful barons, they perhaps undervalued, during the season of material prosperity, and before the encroachments of men inferior by birth, but more ambitious—had reduced, by taking advantage of their inaptitude for war or business, or by marriage with their daughters, the once noble possessions of the family to comparatively a few acres.

Moreover, "they were among the few families who disobeyed the act of 1672, c 21, in not having their arms matriculated in the Lyon Register then established."

Then again, the direct succession seems to have been more than once broken; and, like certain other families of cognate origin, there is a period of obscurity midway in the descent, and though it is incontrovertible, that even during the most troublous times Wedderlie never was held but by an Edgar, still the then laird may have been self sufficient and short-sighted, or ignorant of the intention of the act referred to, and content to thus proceed on the stagnating principle of "leaving well alone."

Of the Edgars of Wedderlie, in the fifteenth century, little is known, although it is evident that they must have continued to maintain considerable influence in their native county. In the following century, it is probable, that cadets of the House established themselves at Edinburgh.

The heads of the family seem to have been turbulent in the seventeenth century. The Laird of Wedderlie was in 1679 a rebel. In 1661, George Edgar of Newtown was proceeded against, in the Court of Session, for oppressing Ker of Mersington and his servants, and preventing them cultivating their lands, and attending to peaceful occupations.

Towards the close of the seventeenth century, the irregularities of another laird brought him into frequent bad odour with the rigid Presbyterians of his parish, whose interference he resisted for a while, but he was obliged to yield to them eventually.

In this century flourished the Edgars of Peffermyln* (an interesting ancient fortalice near Craigmillar), and the Edgars of Keithock, &c. The former was of the Nithsdale line of Wedderlie, and will be noticed elsewhere.

The lands of Wedderlie continued in the possession of the Edgar family until 1733—6, when they passed by sale to Robert Lord Blantyre. So late, however, as the 25th July, 1736, John Edgar, the last in possession, marked the exodus of his race from their ancient patrimony by the gift to his native parish of Westruther, of a Bible "bound in blue Turkey leather, for which the Session appoints the minister, Mr. Scott, to return thanks to Wadderlie."

From a reference to the title deeds it would appear that the older muniments have either perished or gone astray among other collections, for the earliest is a crown charter granted in the year 1619, to John Edgar, eldest son of Robert Edgar of Wedderlie. This is a curious coincidence, inasmuch as the collateral succession of this Robert Edgar is one of the obscure links of the pedigree of Wedderlie.

Before the Reformation, the Edgars were buried in their own chapel at Wedderlie; from the Reformation to 1649 at Bassendean, and subsequently, at Westruther; all their tombstones, however, have unfortunately disappeared, with one exception, on which the last resident Laird of Wedderlie has left a memorial of himself, in his native parish, which, from its quaintness, seems characteristic of the sad and somewhat sarcastic spirit of its author.

An apocryphal story is told of the departure of the Edgars of Wedderlie from their ancient inheritance. The family were fallen and obliged to sell their estates, and in the words of the narrator,—“The auld laird and ledy drove out in their carriage and four horses at mid-day; but the young laird (their only child) was broken-hearted at the thocht o' leaving the auld place, and he waited till the darkening; for he said the sun should na shine when he left his hame.”† The preserver of this anecdote was a very aged woman, named Eppy Forsyth, who died about 1840. She remembered seeing the young laird riding down the avenue alone, and she said “It was a dark nicht when the last Edgar rode out of Wedderlie.”

The death of the last recognised male heir of Wedderlie is thus recorded, and one of the many examples of the same kind of error is here repeated.

“1817, March. . . . In Bedford Street, Bedford Square, London, aged 80, Rear Admiral Alexander Edgar, the last male descendant of the ancient Scottish family of Edgar of Wedderlie.”‡

There are no complete pedigrees on record of the various families of Edgar in Scotland, and it would be a somewhat bold assertion to make, that there may not, at the present day, be many descendants, in the male line, of the numerous cadets of the house of Wedderlie, in the sixteenth, seventeenth, and earlier centuries.*

It is quite certain, for example, that the branch of the Wedderlie family planted at Newtown de Birgham, in Berwickshire, flourished there until the death of Lieut.-Colonel Hunter Edgar, in 1808.

But there is a probability of nearer cadets of Wedderlie being in existence. Beside the "Edgars of Evelaw, and of Westruther," local records show, that at the opening of the eighteenth century, Edgars were still numerous in the neighbourhood of Wedderlie, and several families of the name still lived—some as lairds, others as "kindly tenants"—around the chief of their house. It would be difficult, perhaps impossible, to ascertain their relationship to him, considering that the last Laird of Wedderlie had no fewer than five sons, of whom the Admiral was one; it does seem remarkable that none of them should have left any known male descendants.

On a reference to the records of the Commissariat of Lauder, and of Edinburgh, where the Wills of Edgars of, from, or at Wedderlie, are recorded, it is at once perceived that there have been extensive offshoots, whose descendants have never been traced.

In the "Bride of Lammermoor" there are a few marked and curious coincidences between the family of Ravenswood and that of Edgar of Wedderlie. Both were of the Merse, and Wedderlie is situated at the foot of the Lammermoor Hills. The Master of Ravenswood is named Edgar. Against the "Wolf's Crag" of the Romance we have "Wolfstruther," afterwards Westruther, the parish of Wedderlie. Edgar Ravenswood was related to the Humes and Douglasses; so likewise was Edgar of Wedderlie; but what is still more remarkable, both families were connected with that of Chiesly, and at the same period. The Ravenswoods were involved in a litigation, in which Chiesly was implicated; while in the Public Records (Decisions of the Court of Session) at the period of the Romance, Edgar of Wedderlie had a bitter lawsuit with Chiesly, the tutor of his father's younger children. Edgar of Wedderlie was impoverished by his opposition to the Presbyterian church, just as Edgar Ravenswood opposed its minister at his father's funeral. Both families were turbulent, and both were brought to ruin by espousing the losing cause.

EDGAR OF PEFFERMYLN AND EDINBURGH.

THE conjecture of one generation is apt to become the family tradition of the next, and then, if embalmed in the pages of a literary sponsor, it is transmitted to posterity with a fictitious authority, to question which would, in many instances, excite the strongest indignation. The fact that certain families of Edgar used the pure arms of Wedderlie prior to the extinction of the chief line in 1817, militates against the very origin that it suggests; at the same time, one may well understand the ignorance of heraldic rules on this point, among the obscure descendants of an old parent stock.

* "C. W." in Notes and Queries, 1861.

Sometimes we find two families of the same name, to all appearance so thoroughly amalgamated, that after the lapse of a century, without some special knowledge of them, it becomes a matter of no slight difficulty to separate their records, and give to each its own fair proportion. This has more than once occurred among the Edgars, and a notable example* is found in the family of Keithock, when the ancestral estate was transferred by sale from one branch to another.

Edinburgh † seems to have been the crucible in which these commingling families were fused. Here, early in the sixteenth century, dwelt a powerful burgess, named Patrick Edgar, ‡ who was one of the first offshoots of Wedderlie of whom we have any record. His name occurs in the Diurnal of Occurrents; and his house is now better known as that in which the celebrated Sir David Baird was born.

A reference to the General Inquisitions of the seventeenth century shows that the Edgars at Peffermyln, in the Barony of Craigmillar; at Restalrig, in the Barony of Broughton; in Leith, and at Hillhousefield, formed but one family, to trace all the ramifications of which, however, would be a task attended with almost insurmountable difficulties.

These Edinburgh Edgars traded in grain, as their Wills attest. The Will of Edward Edgar, † of "Papermylne," is a curious example. The rich acres, or "riggs," as the equivalent seems often to have been termed, about the metropolis, must have had peculiar advantages from the proximity of the port of Leith, the trade of which was, at the period referred to, very considerable.

We find, in the seventeenth century, two Edgars, described as merchants, trading with the great continental grain port of Dantzic, which received and garnered the produce of the fertile plains of Poland. These were Gilbert of Sheirington, in Dumfries, whose nephew, Thomas, was returned his heir in 1623, and John "of Poland," "eldest lauchful sone to Thomas Edgar of Keithock," about eighty years after.

In the eighteenth century, and during the palmy days of the West Indies, many persons of this name emigrated thither; and at Bristol (the commercial nurse, so to speak, of these colonies) there were residing at that period two gentlemen, whose names, Preston and Alexander Edgar, point rather to a Scottish than a southern origin.

A glance at the map of Scotland will at once suggest with what ease an over-crowded family in the parish of Westruther, could transfer its junior members to the metropolis, not to say anything of the other outlets in Haddington, Roxburgh, Dumfries, &c.

Certain baptismal names seem to have been peculiar to certain branches. Thus Edward, Clement ‡ Edgar's house (in Edinburgh) was one of especial note in early times from its substantial magnificence. It is described in one of the deeds as "that tenement or dwelling house called the Schlute house of old of the deceased Patrick Edgar." * * * It is alluded to in the Diurnal of Occurrents, 7th Sept., 1570, where the escape of Robert Hepburn, younger, of Waughtown, from the Earl of Morton's adherents is described. It is added:—"he came to the Castell of Edinburgh, quhairin he was ressaute with great difficultie; for when he was passand in at the said Castell zett his adversaries were at Patrik Edgar his hous end." In this work is mentioned "Mr. Edgar's Map of Old Edinburgh."

and Herbert prevail in one, Alexander is common in another, David in a third, and several of these branches were ultimately represented by a "Margaret." This happened more than once in the Berwickshire families; and Margaret, the wife of Alexander Edgar of Auchingrammont, was, we believe, the co-heiress of her father, James Edgar of Edinburgh (about 1737). These resemblances are so closely involved in some instances, that it is scarcely possible, among so many counterparts, all grouped contemporaneously, to discriminate accurately.

In Scotland, when a family parted with its paternal acres, the origin of its descendants was soon lost, owing, in a great measure, to deficiencies in parochial and heraldic registration.

Peffermyln, in the parish of Liberton, near Edinburgh, is an ancient "Tower and Fortalice," once belonging to a branch of the family of Edgar of Wedderlie, in Berwickshire. There is a curious piece of armorial sculpture over the entrance to the tower, representing Edgar of Wedderlie, impaling Pearson of Kippenross, with only the difference of a mullet instead of a cinquefoil, in the latter. Such monograms are very obscure, for this reason, that little is known of the Edgars who owned the place, beyond what can be gleaned from the imperfect parish registers, the Burgess Rolls of Edinburgh, and a few other records.

Edward Edgar of Peffermyln, or Peffermilyn, the son of Patrick Edgar (whose house in Edinburgh in the time of Mary, Queen of Scots, and which is still standing, shows him to have been a person of no small consequence), was one of the last of the commissioners appointed to try witches, and the record of some curious trials at which he presided is preserved. He appears to have been succeeded by his son, Patrick Edgar, who was succeeded by his brother Edward, whose heirs were Andrew and Margaret.

There is a deed recorded (Reg. of Deeds Dur. Off. 1664, Dec. 23), which is dated at "Johnstoun," and was executed by the heirs of Edward Edgar, bailie and burgess of Edinburgh. In it is described the estate of umquhile Patrick Edgar, and of Andrew and Edward, sons to the deceased Edward Edgar, and Margaret, their sister, married to Walter Cant; Patrick, son and heir of the defunct "Edward Edgar the elder." The names of two Johnstouns appear to this deed along with Margaret, relict of the deceased.

Edward, the elder, had been admitted a guild brother of Edinburgh on the 12th of August, 1621, and appears to have acquired from another Edgar the lands of "Kingsmedow alias Scharnyhall," Edinburgh, on the 19th of June, 1629. Possibly, however, this may have been Edward Edgar, also of Edinburgh, and a guild brother in 1607.

These Edgars of Peffermyln owned land about the village of Water of Leith, Restalrig, Hill-housefield, &c., all in the neighbourhood of Edinburgh, and they appear to have intermarried with Thomsons, Johnstons, Cants, Romes, Cranstouns, and perhaps with Chisholm; but as the parish registers of that period are very imperfect, it would be scarcely possible to construct a complete pedigree, although the descent of property could be shown in the same family.

The quaint and elegant old fortified house of Peffermyln closely resembles externally that of Wedderlie, in Berwickshire, which latter again is described in a deed dated December 14th, 1714, as the "tower, fortalice, and manour place" of Wedderlie.

During a portion of the seventeenth century Peffermyln appears to have been occupied by a family named Osborne, whose transactions with the Edgars are the subject of several records.

Many of the Edgars of Wedderlie were burgesses of Edinburgh. A branch of the Nithsdale Edgars early in the sixteenth century settled in Edinburgh, under the auspices of Lord Maxwell.

There seems to have been a connection between Murray of Broughton* in 1720, and James Edgar, writer in Edinburgh, and from the Retours we discover that certain Edgars possessed land in the Barony of Broughton; but this James Edgar must not be confounded with his namesake and contemporary.

James Edgar, writer in Edinburgh, an honorary burghess of the city, Extractor in the Court of Session and private clerk or secretary to Sir Gilbert Elliot, the first baronet of that family, had two daughters, viz.—1. Margaret, married in 1742, Alexander Edgar, of Auchingrammont, and died in 1791. 2. Elizabeth, married, in 1739, John Myln of Edinburgh, and had issue—1. John, progenitor of the families of Milne and Ritchie of Edinburgh and Redford, 2. Edgar, physician. 3. James (ob. s. p.). 4. Priscilla. 5. Margaret, married Dr Colin Lauder † of Edinburgh, who by him had issue—1. William Preston, M.D., married Harriet, daughter of General Harry Dalmer (ob. s. p.). 2. A daughter, who married a Mr. Guild; and left issue—1. Margaret, married Lieut.-Col. Edenborough. 2. Eliza, married Admiral James Ferguson. 3. Jesse, married Nathaniel Spens, of Craigsanquhar.

EDGAR OF NEWTOUN, BERWICKSHIRE.

RICHARD EDGAR, son of Oliver (son of another Richard of Wedderlie), who married Margaret, daughter of George Pringle, of Torwoodlee in 1564, and acquired Newtoun de Birgham, (now known as Eccles-Newton) early in the seventeenth century, was succeeded, about 1645, by his son George, who in 1648 was one of the commissioners for putting the kingdom in a posture of defence. The latter had a long feud with Thomas Ker, of Mersington, which was terminated in 1661, by an act of the Estates, in Ker's favour. (Acts of Parliament, vol. vi. 299, vol. vii. 37.)

Richard Edgar, of Newtoun, who lived at the time of the Revolution of 1668, was an Episcopalian, a Nonjuror, and one of the few gentlemen of the county, who stood by Charles, Earl of Home, in his opposition to the new government. He was one of three who, in May, 1691, went with Henry Home, of Kames, into the church of Eccles, and interrupted the ordination of the Rev. John Lauder. In 1702 he married Rachel Maxwell, by whom he had two sons; Richard, his successor, and Andrew, who married Grace, daughter of the Rev. James Allen, minister of Eyemouth. He was grandfather of the Rev. John Edgar, minister of Hutton, in Berwickshire, who died on the 2nd April, 1858, in his seventy-third year. The latter married, 7th June, 1814, Jessie, daughter of Abraham Logan, of Burnhouses, and had issue Andrew, barrister-at-law, of the Middle Temple, and LL.D. John George, born 1827, died 15th April, 1854, and others. The first mentioned who represents the Edgars of Newtown, married 1st (1850) Mary Ann daughter of the late E. Bichnell Esq. (d. 1858) by whom he has a son Logan Bichnell Edgar of Trinity Hall, Cambridge and of the Middle Temple, and 2dly (1864) Emily Elizabeth, daughter of the late Humphry Ballard Esq. The last mentioned was the author of several popular works, of which the best known are "Boyhood of Great Men," "Footprints of Famous Men," and "History for Boys." He also contributed some materials for the present work:

Richard Edgar, eldest son of the Jacobite and Nonjuror, succeeded his father as Edgar, of Newtown, and having married, in 1728, Margaret, daughter of George Bell of Rigg, he had two sons and two daughters. Of these Margaret, born 1734, and Richard, born 1736, attained maturity.

Richard, after being an officer in the Berwickshire Militia, entered the 25th Regiment as a lieutenant. In 1757 he accompanied the regiment to the Continent, and fell during the seven years' war. In consequence his sister Margaret, on her father's death in 1767, succeeded to the estate of Newtown. Having married William Hunter, of Linthill, Roxburghshire, she had two sons, William, who died young, and Lieutenant Colonel Richard Edgar Hunter, 1st Dragoon Guards, who was killed by falling from his horse, as he was returning from a meeting of heritors. He died unmarried and after his death there was a long litigation about the succession, in the Court of Session and House of Lords; the estate being claimed by the Rev. John Edgar as heir of entail under a Disposition executed by his great uncle Richard Edgar, the son of the Nonjuror. It was held, however, that the entail had been broken by a deed executed alio intuitu by Mrs. Hunter, the mother of the last proprietor. Thus the estate of Newtown passed from the Edgars into the hands of others.

EDGAR FROM DUNSE, BERWICKSHIRE, AND OF AUCHINGRAMMONT, LANARKSHIRE.

Nearly connected with the House of Wedderlie * is that of the Edgars of Auchingrammont, who have the advantage of uniting another family of the same name by the marriage of Alexander Edgar of Auchingrammont in 1742, with the daughter of James Edgar of the Melrose branch of Wedderlie derived intermediately, from the Edgars of Grueldykes (Dunse).

* Major F. Pemberton Campbell, 14th Hussars, grandson and heir of the late Admiral Alexander Edgar, only surviving son of the late laird of Wedderlie, represents the direct line.

John Edgar, Laird of Wedderlie, was, in 1674, sued by Mr. Chieslie, surgeon, of Dunse, for the maintenance of his younger brother Alexander, then Mr. Chieslie's apprentice. This lawsuit and others continued till the close of the seventeenth century. On the establishment of the Edinburgh College of Surgeons, Alexander Edgar became a member, as did also his cousin Thomas Edgar, and that he is identical with the apprentice of Mr. Chieslie, an order for him "to settle the affairs of his late master Mr. Chieslie" clearly shows. Thomas Edgar, son of the previous Thomas, had property in Dunse; in which town James, father of the first Edgar of Auchingrammont, was a Surgeon.

The traditions of the family of Auchingrammont, supported by the uncertain evidence of old-fashioned silver plate, bearing the arms of Wedderlie, asserted that they were the descendants of a cadet of Wedderlie, inasmuch as the father of the first Edgar of Auchingrammont was an Edgar of Dunse; that he took with him to Jamaica, portraits of the Edgars of Wedderlie; and that on his return he married a relative named Edgar, by whom he acquired property in the Lawn Market, &c., Edinburgh.

In 1754, Alexander Edgar, then in possession of Auchingrammont, which he had owned for many years, was styled by the designation of "from Nether-houses.*" He was then living within the bounds of South Leith, near Hillhousefield, adjacent to the village of the Water of Leith, both of which places are contiguous to the baronies of Broughton, Restalrig, and other places mentioned in the "Inquisitiones Generales" of 1599, as including property appertaining to Edgars from Berwickshire.

Early in the eighteenth century, the Edgars of Auchingrammont owned property in Jamaica,† viz., Wedderlie plantation, and Osborne, in the parish of St. George. The latter was named after a Mr. Osborne, surgeon, probably of the Peffermylu family, who settled in Jamaica towards the close of the seventeenth century.

In an old silver-bossed family Bible, the property of Margaret Edgar, the last of her family who owned Auchingrammont, is the following entry:—"Alexander Edgar, born 1698."‡ The locality of his birth is not given, and, as parish registers in Scotland are imperfect, it might be difficult to find this entry of baptism, although that of Peter Edgar, a younger brother, is recorded in the Dunse register. Alexander Edgar is, in the record of his purchase of Auchingrammont, stated to have returned from Jamaica. His younger brother Peter, of Bridgelands, married in 1743 Anne, daughter of the Rev. John Hay, minister of Peebles, and was father of Anne (the wife first of James Leslie of Deanhaugh, by whom she had two daughters and a son who was drowned in infancy, and secondly of Sir Henry Raeburn;) of an only son, John Edgar, Writer to the Signet, who died s.p. in 1799, besides other daughters.

In 1742 Alexander Edgar married Margaret (ob. 1791), daughter of James Edgar, writer in

* There are only four Netherhouses mentioned in the Scottish Gazetteers. The place here meant is not that portion of Auchingrammont which merged in the town of Hamilton, but a "land of houses" in Edinburgh.

† There was a Scottish family of Edgar connected with Jamaica early in the eighteenth century, which settled at Bristol, and their baptismal names were Preston, Alexander, Archibald, &c. The late Mr. Alexander Edgar of Bristol was J. P. for the county of Gloucester.

Edinburgh, clerk to Sir Gilbert Elliot of Minto, as before stated. James Edgar left no male issue, but had a son Robert who died in infancy.

The issue of Alexander Edgar of Auchingrammont by his wife Margaret Edgar were—1. Alexander, ob. 1820; 2. James, of Auchingrammont, ob. 1810; 3. Handasyde, M.D., ob. 1806; 4. Susan, ob. 1778, aged twenty-two; and 5. Charity.

James Edgar, originally from Melrose, married the daughter of a Handyside or Handasyde of Kelso, and afterwards of Edinburgh, named Priscilla Handasyde. The latter's pedigree is readily obtainable from the Kelso Parish Register. The wife of the other writer in Edinburgh, also named James Edgar, was Eliza Lithgow. This latter James Edgar had sons who died in infancy, named John, Alexander, James. He is merely mentioned casually to distinguish the two families.

A portion of the patrimony of Alexander, the son of Alexander and Margaret of Auchingrammont, consisted of ground rents and tenements at Edinburgh, and a reference to the City Register of Sasines confirms the tradition of a connection with Wedderlie.

James Edgar became "of Auchingrammont" by the breaking of the entail and surrender of Auchingrammont to him by his elder brother Alexander, who was returned their father's heir in 1777, and had seisin of the said property. On the 1st March 1783, there is a "seisin" in favour of James, as heir of his brother Alexander of Auchingrammont.

A synopsis of pedigree is subjoined.

Alexander Edgar, of Auchingrammont, born 1698, married, in 1742, Margaret, elder daughter and co-heir of James Edgar, writer in Edinburgh, honorary burghess of that city, and clerk to Sir Gilbert Elliot, first baronet of Minto. heirss of Ralph Waller, of Clerkenwell (a cousin of the poet Waller), had two sons, the younger of whom, John, was ancestor of Sir Soulden Lawrence, whose line terminated with the late Miss Lawrence of Studley Park, who bequeathed that noble estate to Earl de Grey. Henry, the elder son, married Amy, daughter and heirss of Sir E. Peyton, of Isleham, Bart. He was an author of some repute, and though President of Cromwell's Council of State, held moderate views. He died in 1664, leaving with other issue Henry, created a baronet; a daughter, married to Richard, Earl of Barrymore; and a son, John, whose will, dated 1690, is on record in Jamaica. This John Lawrence, by his wife Jane Collins, relict of the Rev. Mr. Dunn, left with other issue a son, John Lawrence, who by his wife Susanna Pelgrave, had with other issue James of Fairfield, ancestor of the late Sir James Lawrence, and the eminent Mayor of Liverpool, his brother; Mary, his youngest daughter, grandmother of James first Lord Abinger; and Susanna, the eldest, who married Lawrence Lawrence of a distinct family, and was mother of Rachel, who married Henry Gordon, whose daughter Anne married in 1797 Alexander, son of Alexander Edgar of Auchingrammont, by whom she had a numerous family.

The wills and parish registers proving the descent from John Lawrence (1690) are recorded in the Island Secretary's Office, Jamaica.

† On the death of his first wife, who was drowned, off the coast of Spain, in 1846, Dr. Archer, married, secondly, Louisa, daughter of the Rev. — Hartwell, Vicar-General of the Isle of Man, by whom he had a son, Theodore, who died in infancy. His second wife survived him, and married at Allahabad in 1852, the present Sir E. H. Greathed, K.C.B., of Uddings House, co. Dorset. Her sister married Lt.-Col. W. Stuart, 86th Regiment.

1. John, W.S., of Edinburgh, who died unm. in 1799.

2. Anne, § b. 1744; m. (1st) James (called Count) Leslie, of Deanhaugh, and (2nd) Sir Henry Raeburn, and had issue by her first husband a son and two daughters, and by her second,

(1) Richmond, m. Cochrane of Belretiro (Lochlomond).

(2) A daughter, m. Rev. A. Gordon and other children.

These were the children of Helen Edgar and Henry David Inglis a popular writer (better known as “Derwent Conway”).

* This name was occasionally spelt Hangitsyde (Will of James H., of Coldstream, 30th Nov., 1654) and Handyside (Will of Margaret Pringle, relict of Andrew H., Writer in Edinburgh, 9th May, 1744). Vide will of Thomas Handasyd, of Caine Park, co. Huntingdon, proved April, 1729, at Doctors' Commons. Roger Handasyde (2nd general of the name) commanded the 16th Regiment until 1763. General Handasyde was Governor of Jamaica while Alexander Edgar was there, and though he subsequently settled in Huntingdonshire, it would appear from a passage in Sir John Sinclair's Survey, that the same family were heritors in the parish of Hutton, Berwickshire. The name, indeed, is almost peculiar to the south-eastern counties of Scotland.

† A diploma was granted in 1772 to John Hutton, by Professor Andrew Dalzel, of the University of Edinburgh, and on September 8th, 1793, there is on record a proposed resignation by Dr. Mack of the surgeoncy of the 56th regiment, then at Waterford, in favour of Mr. Hutton. This was the Earl of Home's regiment. Some letters to Mr. Hutton, from Mr. Hamilton of Dalzel, and Mr. Purves of Purves Hall, still exist; but the papers of this branch of the Edgar family were destroyed under a clause in the will of the late Miss Mary Edgar.

‡ In reference to the marriage of Mrs. Leslie with Sir Henry Raeburn, Mr. William Anderson, editor of the Scottish Nation, writes: “The lady, Anne Edgar, daughter of Peter Edgar, Esquire, of Bridgelands, was much pleased with the skill, and likewise with the manners of the artist; and about a month or so after the adventure of the studio, she gave him her hand in marriage, bestowing at once an affectionate wife and a handsome fortune.” The fortune was the result of her first marriage, and the artist was fifteen years younger than the lady.

EDGARS IN NITHSDALE AND ANNANDALE AND GALLOWAY.

IN the Chartulary of Kelso the baptismal name of Edgar occurs amongst the descendants of the ancient lords of Nithsdale, supposed to have been related to the lords of Galloway and kings of Man, but must not be confounded with the surname.

The Earls of Dunbar, from whom the Edgars are understood to be descended, seem to have parted with their lands in Nithsdale before 1453. The latter continued till long after that period to be one of the most numerous clans (if this word may be used) in the district.

The origin of the family of Edgar with its numerous branches in the south-west of Scotland is probably attributable to the marriage of Richard Edgar in the time of Robert the Bruce with the co-heiress of Ros of Sanquhar, and also to Donald, son of the former. Some younger branches in the royal household may likewise have been settled by the Bruce on the lands about Lochmaben along with other servitors. Probably Edward, eldest of Richard Edgar's four sons, and who renounced his succession to Wedderlie, was progenitor of the various lairds of the name.

The following passage in Chalmers' "Caledonia" confirms these suppositions:*—

"During the reign of Robert Bruce, Richard Edgar possessed the castle and half of the barony of Sanquhar in Upper Nithsdale. Edgar also held the lands of Ellioc in the same district, and the lands of Bartmonade and of Lobri, of Slochan, of Glenabenkan, and part of the lands of Kilpatric in the same shire, of all which he obtained charters from Robert Bruce. He also obtained of the same king the barony of Kirkandrews. Donald Edgar (Richard's Son) acquired from King David II. the captainship of the clan MacGowan in Nithsdale. In the reign of David I. the territory of Sanchar formed a part of the extensive demesnes of Dougal of Stranill, from whom it descended to his son Duvenald, and from him to his son Edgar, whose progeny appear to have assumed the surname of Edgar. During the reign of Robert Bruce the barony was divided between Richard Edgar . . . and William de Crichton, "who held the other half in right of his wife Isabella de Ros."

During the reign of Queen Mary, lands in Nithsdale were granted by royal charter to Quintin the son of Ninian Edgar. In the Act in favour of John Maxwell, Earl of Morton (10th December, 1585), although many Edgars are mentioned, no notice occurs of the family of Inglistoun (Irongray); and, yet so far back as 1453, in the retour of Robert Lord Maxwell as heir of Herbert, Lord Maxwell, his father, besides Richard Edgar of Garnsallacht, there was on the inquest John Edgar of Ingliston. In 1664 (March 22), John Edzare of Inglistoun was absent from an assize for the trial of certain persons in the stewardry of Kirkcudbright; and in 1598 a John Edzer of Inglistoun was denounced as a rebel for his share in the "slaughter" of Patrick Maxwell of Dalquheon.

A James Edgar, in Kirkpatrick Irongray, died early in the eighteenth century, but it is very doubtful whether he could reasonably be accounted an impoverished descendant of the house of Inglistoun.

There were Edgars, lairds of Bombie, Kirkcudbrightshire, before the days of the McLennans; and we find the name in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries at Cornetown, Shireinton, Gilichtoun Kerringarroch, Correghe, Creoquhane, (otherwise Creaken) Doublahill, Kenter's Isle, Furd, Gullishill, Kirkland of Irongray, Lochkindeloch, Blackshaw, Elsieshiells, &c. To the last-named place Thomas Edgar, Provost of Dumfries, in 1730 bequeathed an annuity of £40 for the education of the poor.

* "Caledonia," vol. iii., page 72.

In the seventeenth century an uninterrupted intercourse appears to have subsisted between the Edgars of Dumfries and those who had taken up their abode in Edinburgh and its environs.

The baronies of Holywood and Caerlaverock were largely inhabited by Edgars, the gradual subdivision of property in pastoral districts tending to perpetuate a patriarchal system. The Edgars of Bowhouse of Caerlaverock settled in Edinburgh and Fife. Those of Sheirinton, probably a branch of the Blackshaw family, betook themselves to commercial pursuits, and formed a connection with Edinburgh; they also acquired property in Forfarshire. The Edgars of Kirkblane seem to have been identical with those of Bowhouse, and it is not improbable that the Chrystenhill Edgars were closely related to the Inglestoun family.

From Nithsdale, the Edgars strayed into Ayrshire, and Lanarkshire, in which latter county, during the earlier portion of last century, a farm called "Blackbird," was held by an Alexander Edgar. In Ayrshire before 1699, the heiress of one of the branches of Edgar of Edinburgh married a Mr. Rome of Cluden.

EDGARS OF INCHGALL, FIFE, AND EDINBURGH.

In the Act of the Scottish Parliament passed in 1585, in favour of Lord Maxwell, designed Earl of Morton, many Edgars are mentioned, among others Thomas Edgar of Bowhouse, and his sons John and Clement. Thomas Edgar was probably the father of Edward Edgar, by whom was purchased, in 1604, the barony of Inchgall, in Fife, an acquisition soon lost.

This branch of the Dumfriesshire family was powerful in Edinburgh, and had lands in other parts of the country; and the common origin of these branches is indicated on a tombstone in the churchyard of Holywood, which represents the arms of Maxwell of Cowhill impaled with those of Edgar of Wedderlie: the deceased is styled "the husband of Barbara Maxwell."

The barony of Lochore was formerly called Inchgall or Inchgaw; that barony or the western part of it formed the parish of Ballingry. In the reign of Charles I. this barony reverted to the Wardlaws, who then parted with it, and about fifty years later it came into the possession of a family named Malcolm; it is now the property of Lady Scott, relict of Colonel Sir Walter Scott-Bart., son of the great novelist. The old tower is in part remaining, but the lake which surrounded it has been drained.

Robert, Duke of Albany, when Regent of Scotland, granted a Confirmation Charter of the lands of "Trakeware" (Traquair), in Peebleshire, to Watson of Cranystoun, dated "Apud Inchevall," September 27, 1407. (Reg. Mag. Sigill, f. 233)

Notices of this barony will be found in Inquisitiones Speciales. Under "Fife" (No. 389, May 23, 1627) the services of one of the heirs runs thus:—

"In terris et baronia de Lochirschyre-Wester alias nuncupatis Inchevall; terris nuncupatis Flockhous et Bōwhous * de Inchgall, cum lacu de Inchgall et jure patronatus Capellæ de Inchgall,†" &c.

EDGAR OF MIDLOCHARWOODS, DUMFRIES.

JOHN EDGAR, holding with others, a pendicle, or small division of land, at Rindale, died in 1801, at the advanced age of 100 years. He had a kiln for drying corn for the neighbouring farmers, which, notwithstanding its dangerous construction, is supposed to have produced meal of a better flavour than any since invented. His son, Robert Edgar, born in Caerlaverock in 1776, died in June, 1863. He served in the Yeomanry Cavalry during the French war. He kept greyhounds and coursed with them after he was fourscore. He shipped great quantities of grain from Glencaple to Glasgow and other ports, when the Nith was much more used for shipping than it is now; and was also the first to establish a bone mill, and introduce that description of manure among the farmers of Nithsdale and Annandale.

John Edgar, his son, born in Caerlaverock in 1801, was an eminent engineer. He was in business in Dumfries from 1828 to 1852, and took much interest in draining, and the manufacture of peat. He was proprietor of Midlocharwoods, and had a son, the Rev. Robert Edgar, born in Dumfries in 1835.

EDGAR OF KEITHOCK, FORFARSHIRE.

THE estate of Kethick or Keithock, Forfarshire, a portion of the ancient possessions of the noble house of Lindsay, came into the Edgar family early in the seventeenth century. In January, 1613, Edgar of Keithock appears in the tax-roll of the sheriffdom of Forfar, at £44 10s. 4d. The name Edgar is found in the locality at an early period, viz., from 1202 to 1218, when the signatures of Robert and Thomas Edgar were attached to charters of the Bishop of Brechin, in favour of the abbey of Arbroath.

There were two separate families of Edgar, successively lairds of Keithock, in the seventeenth century. The second family purchased the estate from the former, about the year 1680, and thereupon procured a grant of coat armour. The representative of the ex-laird, forty years afterwards, followed their example: he is accordingly styled in the Lyon register as of "Dantzic in Poland," and eldest son of Keithock—that is, of the dispossessed laird.

David Edgar of Keithock, who bought that property from Thomas,* father of John of Poland, had a large family, of whom were John and James, who were prominent in the Rebellion of 1715. The former died a prisoner in Stirling Castle, and the latter, escaping to Italy, became private secretary to the Chevalier St. George. A brief sketch of this remarkable person may not be unacceptable. James Edgar was a younger son of David Edgar of Keithock, by his wife Katherine Forester, and was born at Keithock on the 13th July, 1688 † Of his boyhood nothing is known; nor does it appear how he happened to enter the service of the Chevalier, but he must have done so early, as he occupied his post of assistant secretary for the long period of fifty years. On his demise he was succeeded by Andrew Lumsden, whose letters, incorporated in the Memoirs of Sir Robert Strange, contain frequent notices of his predecessor; and afford, in a few graphic touches, a remarkably clear idea of the placid and enduring old Jacobite, and his somewhat unrefined partiality for certain comestibles.‡

On the suppression of the civil war of 1715 James Edgar made his way to Keithock, and there applied to a tenant farmer named Bell, for the loan of a suit of labourer's clothes. In this disguise he succeeded in reaching the Continent, subsequently returning the borrowed apparel, which the worthy farmer preserved as a memorial of the adventure. Under similar circumstances, the suit was again called into requisition, thirty years later, by John Edgar, the secretary's favourite nephew, and also a staunch Jacobite.

It is only from casual observations by contemporaries, and his own letters, that we discover the little that is known of James Edgar. During his exile in Rome, he appears to have been in straitened circumstances; but his poverty was honourable, inasmuch as it was due in a great measure to his scruples, which, as a Protestant, incapacitated him from holding such remunerative situations, under the Pontifical government, as his master might otherwise have obtained for him. Andrew Lumsden tells us, that he had himself served as assistant secretary under James Edgar, before he succeeded the latter, but on so small a salary, that it was only with the addition of a French pension he was secured from actual want.

He farther informs us, that the English gentlemen whom he found in attendance on the prince were six in number, namely, his principal secretary, the titular Lord Lismore, whose wife resided in France, and who died in 1757; Mr. James Edgar, acting secretary, who managed the more important correspondence; and four others.

Field sports seem to have been among the pastimes of these exiles, for Lumsden says, writing in

* Vide Jervise's "Land of the Lindsays."

† Edgar of Keithock's Family Bible.

‡ "Memoirs of Sir R. Strange," p. 253: "As you [Sir R. S.] desire to send something to my worthy friend [Mr. Edgar], I believe you can send nothing more acceptable than some fine pigtail, for he eats a great deal of tobacco. You may likewise send him a cheese."

1753, "Last week we were four days at Montefortin, with an intention to hunt. The company consisted of Messrs. Edgar," &c.

The assistant secretary's convivial habits are likewise indicated by the observation, on his keeping the festival of the national saint of Scotland.

"Pray, how have you celebrated St. Andrew?" asks Mr. Lumsden of Captain Edgar.

"Mr. Edgar," replies the latter, "does great justice to the good saint."

The following anecdote confirms the secretary's reputation for fidelity. Some considerable time after "the fifteen" (as it was a fashion to style that eventful period), the British Government having reason to believe that another attempt for the restoration of the exiled family was about to be made, Sir Robert Walpole sent spies to discover in which of his attendants the Chevalier reposed the greatest confidence. In due course it was reported to the minister that the prince chiefly trusted his private secretary, the younger son of a poor Scottish laird, who, on a small salary, nevertheless indulged a hospitable disposition in entertaining his countrymen at Rome.

An offer of a handsome sum was made to the secretary, to induce him to betray the intentions of his master; but the former indignantly put the letter into the fire, and returned no answer. Several other offers, gradually increasing in amount, followed, but met the same fate; until at length, Sir Robert, imagining that he had not yet come up to the secretary's price, wrote to the latter, informing him, that £10,000 had been placed to his credit in the Bank of Venice; at the same time abstaining from any reference to his previous offers. Hereupon the secretary consulted his master, and after a brief interval replied; and while thanking Sir Robert for the money—which he had lost no time in drawing from the bank,—informed him, that he had just "laid it at the feet of his royal master, who had the best title to gold that came, as this had done, from his own dominions."

The Chevalier was deeply moved by this unexpected and kindly service, and, in token of his gratitude, presented his faithful adherent with a richly chased gold snuff-box. The gift was, of course, deeply prized by the devoted secretary, and it has been with equal care preserved by his representatives. It is now in the possession of J. D. Edgar, Esq., Toronto, head of the House of Keithock.

Secretary Edgar's duties seem to have been onerous, for his successor observes, on announcing his death, "You may easily believe what a real affliction, as well as additional fatigue, this must give me; it obliges me to execute both his own, and my own branch of trade."

George the Second ascended the throne without opposition, and, under the rule of Walpole, the authority of the Court triumphed over what was called the Country party. Public morality was at the lowest ebb; a spirit of avarice seemed to infect every rank of life; and it was even asserted in the House of Lords that the forfeited estates, instead of being applied to the service of the public, had become the reward of venality. The ill success of the ministers' Tobacco Bill increased the unpopularity of the Government, till at length the unfortunate reverse at Carthage led to the disgrace of Walpole, whose official fall was dignified with the coronet of Orford. The infraction of the pragmatic sanction, in 1740, had involved Europe in a general war, in which the king, with his usual predilection for thrusting himself into the political affairs of the Continent, had joined; and Dettingen and Fontenoy were the consequence.

Meanwhile, the French projected the invasion of England, and Charles Edward Stuart hastened from Rome to Paris in the disguise of a courier, and entering into the designs of the French king, embarked for Scotland. The prince was unequal to the enterprise. The fatal indolence which characterized his proceedings after the victory of Prestonpans turned the scale of fortune against him, and the decisive battle of Culloden extinguished for ever the hopes of his dynasty.

It was immediately after this crushing defeat, that John Edgar, nephew of the secretary, arrived, a fugitive, at Keithock; and by a curious coincidence sought the protection and aid of the same farmer who, thirty years before, had facilitated the escape of his uncle. To his surprise he was told that he should be accommodated with the identical clothes in which his relative had found safety; and a kind-hearted Presbyterian minister, who was proceeding to Edinburgh, generously allowed the fugitive to ride behind him as his servant. On the way Edgar narrowly escaped detection by a party of soldiers, who recognised a gentleman, even in the mean garb of a rustic, but who were at length persuaded by the clergyman of their mistake.

Arrived at Edinburgh, John Edgar, under the name of Mr. Willoughby, called on a family to whom he was related. Directed to admit the uncouth visitor, the servant had her suspicions, and leaving the parlour door ajar, she watched the interview. The ladies of the family, believing themselves unobserved, embraced the fugitive; and this at once confirming the suspicions of the servant, she immediately hurried off to the nearest military post to give information; and the rebel only escaped, by five minutes, a party of soldiers which came to arrest him. The officer and his men searched the house, but finding no male rebel, fancied that one of the ladies, who was of a tall stature, must be a rebel in disguise, and would have carried her to prison, had not her brother, by removing the kerchief from her neck, satisfied him of his mistake. Later in the day the family reproached the servant for her treachery, but she excused herself by saying that, on the previous Sunday, her minister had preached that, "any one who concealed a rebel, would go to perdition."

After this adventure John Edgar was attending a female cousin on horseback, as her groom, and being unobserved, as he thought, rode up to her side, when suddenly a troop of horse made its appearance, and the sergeant in command beckoned to him. For a moment he hesitated, but on second thoughts he approached the sergeant, who, to his great relief, asked him to convey a message to his landlady in the neighbouring town, that he had been suddenly ordered away and could not return—probably to pay his bill.

At length the fugitive succeeded in reaching London, where he had several introductions to persons of that numerous class who, though well disposed to a cause, do not commit themselves until success be assured. These good friends, however, must have been indiscreet, for they were suspected, and, consequently, Edgar had some difficulty in delivering his letters.* But he seems to have been a physiognomist, and as it was impossible to avoid a certain amount of risk, he generally satisfied himself of a stranger's expression of countenance before accosting him to ask his way through the strange town. One day, to his inquiry, the gentleman addressed, after a pause, replied, "Follow me." Edgar did so, but, at length, was surprised at the distance they had gone; when his guide stopped and showed him the house he sought for. The following day he went to deliver a letter to a Mr. Falconer, and recognised in him his acquaintance of the previous day.

"How could you," said Edgar, "show such kindness to a common-looking countryman?"*

"I saw at once," replied the other, "that you were one of those unfortunate gentlemen now in hiding, and I was afraid of your falling into bad hands."

After many unsuccessful attempts the fugitive gave up the idea of escaping to the Continent, as all the ports were strictly watched, and vessels bound for the opposite coasts were subjected to a rigid search. He therefore determined on joining his uncle Thomas, who had emigrated to New Jersey, in 1725, and accordingly, without difficulty, embarked for America. But, unfortunately, the captain of the vessel was a native of Montrose, with a wife in that town; and, in order to pay her a farewell visit, he put the ship about, and steered the unusual course round Cape Wrath, touching at Montrose, where for a week, his unfortunate passenger lay concealed in the hold, as, owing to Keithock being in the neighbourhood, many persons there would certainly have recognised him. At length the skipper made up his mind to continue the voyage, but they were scarcely halfway across the Atlantic, when they were chased by a French privateer. Anxiously as every one else on board hoped to escape, the fugitive Jacobite had other thoughts; and when they were ultimately captured, on discovering himself to his captors his property was restored. On being carried into a French port he proceeded at once to Paris, where he found many of his Forfar neighbours, and obtained a commission in Lord Ogilvy's regiment of the Scottish Brigade. Afterwards, he joined his uncle at Rome; and in 1756, after the publication of the Act of Indemnity, he returned to Scotland, and married, in 1762, Catherine Ogilvy, a ward of Ogilvy of Inshewan. By the secretary he was recommended to visit Ipswich, where, at the Red House, resided an ancient and wealthy family of his name; but the advice was ignored or forgotten.

Secretary Edgar's long declining health had excited the fears of his assistant ever since his return from Germany; after a few days of severe illness he expired on the 24th of September, 1764. In announcing the event to his nephew John Edgar of Keithock, Mr. Lumsden writes:—"When I informed his master of his death, he expressed an uncommon and real concern for the loss of so old and faithful a servant, and whose worth he perfectly knew; and he desired me to condole with you sincerely, in his name, on this mournful occasion. . . . As to myself, I have lost one who bore me all the tenderness of a father and the warmth of a friend. The many obligations with which he loaded me will make his memory ever precious." To Prince Charles, under the alias of Mr. John Douglas, Lumsden on the 29th September following wrote thus:—"Last week I had the honour to inform you of Mr. Willoughby's (i. e. Edgar's) indisposition, and it is with the utmost affliction I am now obliged to tell you that he died on the 24th inst. He had been long in a bad state of health, but endeavoured all he could to conceal it. In him you have lost a most faithful, zealous servant, and one who loved you from the bottom of his heart."

* The Edgar Papers.

Secretary Edgar's nephew, John, survived him until the year 1788, when he died, leaving a numerous issue. But the estate of Keithock, which had been the paramount object of his life's solicitude, passed from his posterity, and is now in the possession of strangers.

One of the sons of David Edgar, of Keithock, emigrated to America, and there purchased an estate near the city of Elizabeth, State of New Jersey. The estate he styled Edgartown, after his family name; it is still possessed by the family. Of his numerous descendants, several have attained great opulence and influential positions in the States of New Jersey and New York.

The circumstances attending the death of John Edgar are sufficiently characteristic to claim a passing notice. When the news reached England of the death of Prince Charles Edward, he desired Catherine, his eldest daughter, to assist him up-stairs to his bedroom. "My royal master is dead," said he, "and his old servant will not be long of following him." Nature was probably exhausted, and the coincidence aptly closed so loyal a career.

An anecdote of John Edgar and the prince is related by Mr. Edgar's granddaughter. Edgar was Postmaster-General to the prince, during his brief occupation of Edinburgh. One of his duties was to examine all letters leaving the town. In a letter from a young lady to a friend in the country she mentioned that the rebels were in the town 1,000 strong. This being nearly the truth, Edgar asked the prince whether the letter might be forwarded.

"Add a 'o,'" was his reply, "and let it go."

Cardinal York appreciated the unobtrusive services of the Edgars, and in the family of the latter are still preserved many of the personal effects of his father and brother, including miniatures of the two princes, and of Mary, Queen of Scots; besides other valuable relics of the Stuart family, the bequests of the cardinal to Mr. Edgar. The personal effects of Secretary Edgar never reached his relatives in Scotland; and an absurd story was brought home by an Aberdeen skipper that they had been lost during the great earthquake at Lisbon. The truth seems to be that the skipper appropriated them to his own use; for, many years afterwards, a portrait known to have belonged to Secretary Edgar was accidentally discovered in Scotland, by his relatives, under circumstances of suspicion.

There are two portraits of James Edgar extant; and one of his father David, the second of that name who possessed Keithock.

Secretary Edgar's eldest brother, Alexander, succeeded to the estate of Keithock. He married the eldest daughter of Peter Turnbull of Smiddyhill, Forfarshire, by his wife, Euphemia Henderson, daughter of William Henderson of Hallyards. His youngest daughter, Jane, married Alexander Wise, of Lunan, and Alexander Edgar of Keithock is one of the witnesses to the contract of marriage.

A younger brother, Henry, was third and last Bishop of Fife, and for thirty-six years pastor of the Episcopal church in Arbroath, where he died (as intimated by his tombstone in the abbey burial-ground) on the 21st of August, 1765, in the seventy-first year of his age.

Keithock was sold in 1790, two years after the death of John Edgar, the Secretary's nephew. In the representation of the family, this gentleman was succeeded by Thomas, his eldest son, born in March, 1775. Thomas died in 1831, and was succeeded by his younger brother James, born 4th April, 1777. This gentleman married Barbara, daughter of J. Hamilton, Esq., an opulent merchant in Glasgow, by whom he had a family of two sons and three daughters. Anne Hamilton, the eldest daughter, married J. G. Plomer, Esq., of Helstone, Cornwall, and had issue two sons and two daughters. Catherine, the second daughter, died unmarried, in 1871. Mary Caroline, third daughter, resides at Aix-la-Chapelle. John, the elder son, embraced the Roman Catholic faith, and became a monk; he died from exposure in the discharge of his professional duties. James, the younger son, born in 1819, married, in 1840, Grace, eldest daughter of the Rev. David Fleming, M.A., minister of Carriden, Linlithgowshire. Proceeding to Canada, he purchased lands near Sherbrooke, in the province of Quebec, which he designated Keithock, after the family estate; he died 6th April, 1851, leaving one son and two daughters. Eliza Catherine, the elder daughter, married W. P. Wilkie, Esq., advocate, Edinburgh, who died in September, 1872. Grace, the younger daughter, married Richard Thorne, merchant, Toronto, and has issue. James David, the only son, married Matilda, second daughter of Thomas Gibbs Ridout, Esq., Toronto, and has issue two sons, James Frederick, and Oscar Pelham, and a daughter, Maude Caroline. James David Edgar is a barrister-at-law at Toronto, and Member of the Canadian Parliament. He is head and representative of the house of Keithock.

EDGARS IN IRELAND.

A BRANCH of the Scottish Edgars is settled in Ireland. The family tradition is, that four Edgars, brothers, came to Ulster in the earlier part of the reign of William III., of whom one joined the army, and another settled near Castlewellan, county Down, where his descendants remain, now spelling the name with a phonetic variation. A third settled in the district of Ards, and the fourth near Gilford, where they held several farms, and where the name has become localized.

Of this last branch there were two brothers, one of whom—the Presbyterian minister of Lough-ageny, was father of the Rev. Dr. S. O. Edgar, the author of a learned work on Popery; and the other, father of the Rev. — Edgar, Presbyterian Professor of Divinity at Belfast, and father of the late Rev. John Edgar, D.D., LL.D., Professor of Divinity at Belfast, Vice-President of Belfast College, an eminent leader in the Temperance movement and other salutary reforms. He died in 1866, aged sixty-nine.

EDGARS IN ENGLAND.

ALTHOUGH no connection appears to exist between the Edgars of Ipswich and those derived from Wedderlie, it is curious that in a letter of the Secretary James Edgar to his nephew, (see page 21) he recommends the latter, not to omit visiting his namesake at Ipswich. It is, therefore, evident that he recognised some common origin. If any such origin can be suggested, it must be dated back to the thirteenth century at the latest.

The Edgars of Bristol, in the latter part of the seventeenth, and throughout the eighteenth century, were certainly of Scottish extraction. It has been suggested that they were a branch of the Edgars of Dunse, but it is more probable that they sprang from the Edgars of Peffermyln.

The following narrative concerning the Edgars of Glenham and Ipswich, in the county of Suffolk, is transcribed from the family register of the house, commenced in 1641 by Thomas Edgar, Esq., of North Glenham.

EXTRACTS FROM CHARTULARIES.

In the Chartulary of Kelso printed by the Roxburghe Club, Sir Patrick Edgar, Knt., is mentioned as a witness (in 1258) to a charter of confirmation by Sir Robert of Polwarth, to the church of Kelso, of three acres of land of his territory of Wedderlye.

This personage was probably identical with Patrick Edgar, who married Maryota, second wife of William de Home, as appears from a charter before 1284 ("Domino Patricio Edgar et Maryotæ, Dominæ de Home ejus sponsæ").

LIBER DE DRYBURGH.

A.D. 1476, p. XVII. Lands of Knockfelde claimed by the abbot from Adam Edgar of Wedderlye, who had seized them.

An action was pursued in 1476, by the abbot and convent of Dryburgh, against Adam Edgar of Wedderlye and Paul Chrysty, for the "wrongous occupatione and manuring, and withholding from them of the lands of Knokfelde, together with the rents of the same, for the period of sixteen years bygone."

The well-known Twinlaw cairns, composed of two large piles of stones, and visible from a great distance, are the rude and uncemented memorials of two persons named Edgar, who fell in single combat, according to the following tradition.

A battle is said to have taken place here between the Anglo-Saxons and Scots. On this occasion a challenge given by one of the Saxon chieftains to decide the contest by single combat was accepted by Edgar, the only son of an aged Scottish warrior, and whose twin brother had been carried off captive in his infancy by the Saxons in a former battle. The Saxon chieftain was killed and Edgar himself severely wounded. After the combat, an aged Saxon lamenting the death of the chieftain, whom he eulogized as the bravest of the Edgars, and bewailed as his adopted son, betrayed the secret of his Scottish birth, and Edgar, frantic with remorse, tore the bandages from his wounds, and expired on the corpse of his brother.

The contest at the Twin Law Cairns, or the Cairns of the Twin Edgars, is thus celebrated:—

In days of yore, when deeds were rife,
And wars on banks and braes,
And nought but strife on every side,
Which brought on dule and waes,

The Anglo-Saxons restless band
Had crossed the river Tweed;
Up for the hills of Lammermuir,
Their hosts marched on with speed.

Our Scottish warriors on the heath,
In close battalion stood,
Resolved to set their country free,
Or shed their dearest blood.

A chieftain from the Saxon band,
Exulting in his might,
Defied the bravest of the Scots
To come to single fight.

Old Edgar had a youthful son,
Who led the Scottish band;
He with the Saxon did agree
To fight it hand to hand.

The armies stood in deep suspense,
The combat for to view;
While aged Edgar stepped forth,
To bid his son adieu.

“Adieu ! adieu ! my darling son,
I fear that ye be lost ;
For yester night my troubled mind,
With fearful dreams was toss'd.

“I dream'd your mother's parted shade
Between two armies stood,
A lovely youth on either hand,
Their bosoms streaming blood.

“My heart will break if you should fall,
My only prop and stay ;
Your brother when in infant years
The Saxons stole away.”

“Delay it not,” young Edgar said,
“But let the trumpets blow ;
You soon shall see me prove your son,
And lay yon boaster low.”

The trumpets raised with deafening clang,
The fearful onset blew ;
And then the chieftains stepped forth,
Their shining swords they drew.

Like lions in a furious fight,
Their steeled falchions gleam,
Till from our Scottish warriors side
Fast flowed a crimson stream.

With deafening din the coats of mail
The deadly blows resound ;
At last the Saxon warrior
Did breathless press the ground.

An aged Saxon came to view
The body of his chief ;
His streaming eyes and downcast look,
Bespoke a heart of grief.

“He's dead,” he cried, “the bravest youth
E'er sprung from Edgar's line ;
I bore him from the Scottish coast,
And made him pass for mine.

“And in the days of youthful prime,
He was my pride and boast ;
For oft to victory he has Led on the Saxon host.”

Old Edgar heard the Saxon's moan,
His cheeks grew deadly pale,
A great convulsion shook his frame,
His nerves began to fail.

Frantic he tore his aged locks,
With time and trouble grey ;
And faintly crying, “My son, my son !”
His spirit passed away.

The Scottish chief as his father fell,
He raised his fading eye,
And tore the bandage off his wounds,
To let life's stream run dry.

He kissed his sire and his brother's wounds,
That ghastly were and deep ;
And closed him in his folding arms,
And fell on his long, long sleep.

succeeded by John Edgar, son and heir to the last named John Edgar, who again conveyed the lands of Wedderlie to his son—

Robert, Lord Blantyre.

WOOD'S DOUGLAS'S "PEERAGE."

Maryota, 2nd wife of William de Home, married Patrick de (sic) Edgar, as appears from a charter ("Domino Patricio Edgar et Maryotæ Dominæ de Home ejus sponse") before 1284.

"William de Crechton (ancestor of the Earl of Dumfries), 2nd son of Thomas de Crechton, acquired by marriage with Isabel de Ross, one of the daughters and coheirs of Robert de Ross, half of the Barony of Sanquhar, as appears from a charter of King Robert Bruce, Ricardo dicto Edgar, capitale manorium cum medietate tocius Baronie de Seneschar, ad ipsum capitale manorium pinente, sicut dicta baronia inter Willielmum de Crechton et Isabellam, sponsam suam, petitionarios ipsius baronie racione dicte sponse, ex parte una, et ipsum Ricardum, ex altera, per literam de capella vestie nuper fuit divisa. The other half of the Barony of Sanquhar * was afterwards acquired by the Crictons and became their chief title."

DOUGLAS'S "BARONAGE."

George Demme, of Catbole, married Isabella, daughter of Alex. Edgar younger of Wedderly (Cadboll in Easter Ross). George Demme was great grandson of Andrew Demme, who died before 1620.

BURKE'S "LANDED GENTRY."

Jean, daughter of James Bruce of Kennet, by Mary, daughter of Sir Alexander Swinton of Mersington, married John Edgar.

David, eldest son of Sir James Pringle of Smailholm, named Margaret, daughter of Walter Scott of Harden (1621), by his wife, Margaret Edgar of Wedderlie.

Mary, daughter of Alexander Mc Naught of Milton Park in the stewardry of Kirkcudbright, born 25th November, 1742; married in 1762 Thomas Edgar of Ross, co. Dumfries, by whom she had issue Robert, Alexander, and Charles.

Louis Cauvin, founder of an hospital at Duddingston, was born in the parish of South Leith, in the house opposite Jock's Lodge Toll Bar, at the angle of Restalrig House. He was a son of Louis Cauvin and Margaret Edgar, a relative of Admiral Edgar, who was related to Baron Hume, and died in 1778 (Vide "Kay's Edinburgh Portraits").

James Edgar was a Commissioner of Customs (Scotland) in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and as such was a colleague of the celebrated Adam Smith. An amusing account of Edgar is to be found in "Kay's Edinburgh Portraits."

* On the destruction of that colony several of the refugees fled to Jamaica, where they acquired property and became men of note. Such were Guthrie and Blair, and as the Edgars of Edinburgh, Haddington, and Keithock, were subscribers to the Darien Fund, it is not improbable that they had relations among those emigrants.—(Roby's "History of the Parish of St. James, Jamaica.")

A Bond of Association, dated April 1st, 1696, was subscribed by John Edgar, along with other students of the Philosophy classes, in that year, to protect William the Third from a conspiracy of certain Papists to assassinate his Majesty.

In 1699 the Moderator of the University of Glasgow complained to the Royal Commission of Visitation that the said John Edgar had disobeyed one of their Acts.

The Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh. Instituted in 1687 as the Incorporated Body of Edinburgh Surgeons.

Dr. Gairdner, in "A Sketch of the Early History of the Medical Profession in Edinburgh," 1864, has published an interesting account of the Incorporation of Surgeons of Edinburgh, subsequently the Royal College of Surgeons, the original members of which were for the most part (see Edgar of Auchingrammont) men of superior social status. An interesting gallery of portraits in the hall of the College gives a favourable impression of these early members. Two are Edgars.

- 1.—Thomas Edgar, who became one of the body on 21st March, 1677, and who was Vice-Chairman in 1685 and 1686, was married to Margaret Pennecuik, daughter to Alexander Pennecuik, of Newhall, of whose history Dr. Gairdner gave a short account.
- 2.—Alexander Edgar is noted in the minutes as having been apprentice to the deceased Samuel Cheislie. The minute is dated 1st July, 1697, and proves that at that date Cheislie was dead. Samuel Cheislie entered 14th October, 1659.

Thomas Edgar, admitted chirurgion on 21st March, 1677, died between May and July, 1703.

Alexander Edgar, probably a son of Thomas (though in his Act of Admission that is not stated), was admitted on 1st July, 1697, and must have died between 4th Aug. and 17th Nov., 1714.

John Edgar, son of Alexander Edgar, was admitted on 11th April, 1712, and died in 1722.

University of Edinburgh.

The following matriculations in the University of Edinburgh, prior to the year 1800, give us some idea of the attainments of members of the house of Wedderlie and its branches at "Newtown" and Peffermylne. This name, even in those days, was confined seemingly to one family and its branches :—

Memoranda relating to Thomas Edgar, who entered the Incorporation of Surgeons of Edinburgh, 21st March, 1677.

1694. July 5. “ In presence of the Calling T. E. presented Jas. Nisbett, his prentice, to be booked, who being now married, and so cannot remain at bed and board in justice to him.”

This, by a plurality of voices, was declared to be contrary to an act of the Surgeons of 24th Nov., 1691.

This interdict was rescinded 14th Dec., 1694.

1695. Nov. 7. T. E. ceases to be boxmaster (i. e., treasurer) to the surgeons.

1703. April 2. T. E., who is stated to be “now sick and not likely to recover,” presents to the Incorporation 300 merks (£16 13s. 4d. sterling), "to shew his gratitude and respect to the calling."

Same date an earnest request is made by T. E. for the discharge of his apprentice, Adam Drummond, notwithstanding that the five years for which he was bound were yet some months from elapsing.

1703. May 28. It is resolved that in consequence of T. E.'s having shown so much respect to the Surgeons as to have, "before his death, bequeathed 300 merks to them, &c.," it was enacted "that his name should be set up in their house in gold letters as a memorial of his kindness," &c.

1703. August 17. From the minute of this date it appears that the death of T. E. had prevented the completion of the arrangement as to the discharge of A. Drummond's indenture, and that he had been booked as apprentice 28th Dec., 1698; a great part of a year therefore had yet to run. A new arrangement was made for him accordingly.

There are two other Edgars in the roll of the Surgeons, viz. :—

Alexander, who entered 1st July, 1697.

John, who entered 11th April, 1712.

There are three notices—

1693. Sept. 4. All of which relate to Thomas Edgar as having been appointed interim præses of the Surgeons in the absence of the president for the time being.

1697. July 9. A portrait of Alexander Edgar is in the hall of the College.

1698. June 28. It is plain from the above extracts that the death of Thomas Edgar was after 2nd April, 1703, and before 28th May, 1703.

Thomas Edgar married Margaret, lawful daughter of Alexander Pennycook of Newhall, who was one of the surgeons.

Alexander Edgar is noted in minute 1st July, 1697, as having been apprentice to the deceased Samuel Cheislie, surgeon.

1677. March 21. Minute of Thomas Edgar's entry states that he had married Margaret, lawful daughter of Alexander Pennycook of Newhall.

1690. Feb. 20. Minute of entry of John King shows that he had been an apprentice to Thomas Edgar.

1697. July 1. Minute of entry of Alexander Edgar states that he had been apprentice to Samuel Cheislie. There was an old Edinburgh family of Cheislies.

1699. Dec. 28. Minute of entry of Robert Swinton bears that he had married Anna Edgar, daughter of Thomas Edgar.

NOTE on the Act in favour of John, Earl of Morton (by F. Maxwell, Esq.).—John Maxwell, Earl of Morton, was the son of the second daughter of James Douglas, Earl of Morton, whose youngest and third daughter married James, Earl of Morton (the Regent), but they had no family. The eldest daughter was married to the Duke of Hamilton, and Chastelherault, Earl of Arran. The Hamiltons made over their right of succession to Lord Maxwell, both as to title and estates, but James Douglas, who married the youngest daughter, prevailed on his father-in-law to make an entail in his favour, which he himself afterward altered, but the change was, I believe, confirmed by Act of Parliament. A standing feud between him and Lord Maxwell was the consequence; the latter was even imprisoned by the Regent when he had the power. On the forfeiture and execution of James, Earl of Morton, John, Lord Maxwell, was created Earl of Morton in 1581. The former Earl of Morton's forfeiture being reversed in 1585, the old title revived in favour of Archibald, Earl of Angus, the heir under Morton's entail. Lord Maxwell still retained the title under the creation of 1581. His son, John Lord Maxwell, did not use it, but on his brother Robert being restored after his brother's forfeiture, the new title of Earl of Morton revived; and on 29th August, 1620, on the recital that it was inconvenient to have two titles of the same name (Morton), King James changed the title of Morton into that of Nithsdale, in favour of Robert, Lord Maxwell, and his heirs male, with the precedency of the creation of 1581. He thereupon became Robert, Earl of Nithsdale, and what seems singular, even his mother, formerly Countess Dowager of Morton, thenceforth also called herself Countess of Nithsdale, the changed title.

Amongst these would doubtless be found clues to various branches of Wedderlie, which, however, it would be an unprofitable labour to trace, the present object being amply attained by pointing out these sources of information.

Curious Case in the Court of Session.—A Printed Report.

EDGAR v. NISBET.

State of the process of reduction and declaration. John Edgar, Accomptant of Excise in Edinburgh, against Sir John Nisbet of Dean, Baronet, and Alexander Nisbet, Esquire, 1797.

John Edgar having obtained on 23rd Dec., 1790, a decret against John Rutherford, son and heir of the deceased John Rutherford of Hunthill, eldest son and heir of the deceased Henry Rutherford as lawfully charged to enter heir in special to deceased Sir John Nisbet of Dean, his second cousin, and to pay the principal sum of £10,000 sterling, as by bond. John Rutherford to John Edgar, dated 18th May, 1790.

The action raised against the above-mentioned Sir J. N., and his brother A., as "only natural and illegitimate children procreated betwixt" the late Sir John Nisbet and —, a native of France.

During the trial the latter name is given as G (C)laudine Favré.

In the course of evidence it appears that Sir Alexander Nisbet, uncle of Sir Henry, had very considerable property in the Carolinas, and settled Dean on Henry Rutherford, eldest son of Sir John Rutherford of that ilk by Dame Sarah Nisbet, his sister-german.

Sir Alexander died in Carolina in 1753, leaving 2 sons, Henry and John. John returned, took up the title and purchased a commission in the Scots Greys, "went to France and formed a connection with a girl of low situation." Having sold his commission he took this woman to America in the end of 1775 or beginning of 1776, leaving their sons at school in Jersey, whence they returned to Scotland, Sir John, their father, and his mistress, their mother, having been shipwrecked on that voyage and drowned.

(This case was apparently compromised.)

*Abstract of Reg. of Decrets (Mac. Off.).*SAMUEL CHIESLY ag^t JOHN EDGAR of Wedderly.

(Aliment—Apprentice.)

These particulars have been published in the "Decisions of the C. of Session," but the original copy is not in the volumes of decreets in the Record Office, although indexed July 5, 1676; July 13, ibid.; July 22 and July 25, ibid.

"1676. July 5. Chiesly against Edgar of Wadderlie.*

"Edgar of Wadderlie being charged upon an indenture betwixt him and Samuel Chiesly, chirurgeon, for payment of the sum therein contained for his brother's prentice fee and entertainment during his prenticeship; and having suspended the said bond and intended a reduction thereof upon minority and lesion; the Lords found—That the second brother having no other means nor provision, his eldest brother, who was heir to his father and had the estate, ought to entertain him and to put him to a calling; and did not sustain the reason of lesion."

In Morrison's decis^{ns}. of Ct. of Session is given an abstract of a curious case, Edgar ag^t. Edgar. The case of umquhile David Edgar's relict, Margaret, and her second husband, Walter Cant, against "the bairns of the said umquhile David Edgar, and David Johnston and Edward Edgar, their tutors."—Mr. Wm.
