Paul was a minor at the time of his brother James' death on 22 Dec 1555 (PS). At that time ward and nonentry was granted to Thomas Graham of Boquhoppill with right of marriage of Paul (PS). His uncle, Archibald Dog, was appointed his tutor on 14 Aug 1557 (CD).

On 7 June 1565 Paul recorded at Edinburgh a sasine for lands of Easter (Nether) and Middle Coldoch, Arfinley, and Cessintulye; these lands had been in the hands of the Queen for 8 years (ER). On 10 Jan 1572 he recorded at Leith a sasine to lands of Nether Coldoch, belonging to Dunrobin, Auchinbanno and Severie.

On 1 Feb 1575 Paul's goods escheat (AT). [An escheat is reversion of property to the fee holder for failure of the heir.] He had a respite from escheat on 13 Apr 1576 (PS). Perhaps the respite occurred on the birth of an heir, his son, James. On 23 Dec 1592 Paull Dog of Dunrobin signed a contract as surety for 1000 merks in Easter Mugdock (Smith). On 5 Apr 1604 a fee in life rent was granted to the lands of Coldoch Wester to Paul Dog of Dunrobin and to James Dog, his son and heir apparent; witness was James Dog of Gartincaber (RMS).

On 23 Sept 1528 he witnessed an agreement between James Stewart, Captain of Doune Castle, and William Edmundstone of Duntreath. In 1540 James became Seneschal of Menteith, heritably (AT).

James was keeper of Queen Margaret's wardrobe at Doune Castle. William Dunbar (c.1460-c.1521), the poet, celebrated James in The Wardraipper of Venus Boure, thus:

16384. James Doig was born about 1449 in Of Kilmadock, Perth, Scotland. He died in 1526/1532 in Of Kilmadock, Perth, Scotland. He married Margaret about 1492.

16392. Lord William Cuninghame 2nd of Craigends died on 11 Aug 1533 in Scotland. The cause of death was Killed in a feud. He married Giles Campbell.

The feud in which William was killed was probably that between the families of Cuninghame (especially the Earls of Glencairn) and the Montgomeries of Eglinton. The feud began when Hugh Montgomerie, 1st Earl of Eglinton was created Bailie of Cunningham in 1498. This brought him into serious disputes with the Cunningham family, traditionally lords of that area. In 1528 the Cunninghams had burnt down the castle of Eglintoun. William and Giles had numerous other daughters, who married into the houses of Porterfield, Eldersley, Auchenames, and Newark. Giles is sometimes said to be a daughter of Sir John Campbell of Loudoun but this appears to be in error.

Seventeenth Generation

65536. John Doig was born about 1395 in Of Kilmadock, Perth, Scotland.

The name Dog, or Doig, is derived from the Celtic "Gille Doc," or servant of Saint Cadoc. The earliest reference to the family is a Dog who fought with Sir Walter Stewart at the battle of Largs in 1263. Alexander Doge was Vicar of Dunnychtyne (Dunnichen) in 1372.

John Dog of yt Ilk registered a Coat of Arms in 1468 (Lord Lyon's records ref - FAL 224), described as: Gules, a chevron Argent between two cinquefoils in chief Ermine and a sword erect in base Argent. [A similar Coat of Arms was continued by the Dogs of Ballengrew until the death of James Dog in 1685. The lands then passed to James' daughter Elizabeth Dog, spouse of Hugh McFarlane of Keithtoun. A Coat of Arms of the same derivation was used by the Dogs of Dunrobin and Gartincaber for about the same period.]

John's son Walter named his eldest son John after him.

The early part of the Dog/Doig family history is derived from the following sources:

Notably, are ninty pages of research on the early Doig of Dog family by Alexander Deuchar (1780-), seal engraver and genealogist in Edinburgh, dated 1834. This Alexander was a direct descendant of both the Dogs of Menteith and the later Doigs of Brechin. The original documents are held in the Stirling Archives in the W. B. Cook Collection.

Twentieth Generation

524544. Sir William de Cunynghame of Kilmaurs, Earl of Carrick died in Dec 1396/1399. He married Eleanor Bruce.

William was Hugh's successor and was probably his son. He was created Earl of Carrick in 1361 by King David II Bruce, probably by virtue of marrying Lady Eleanor Bruce, cousin to the King. She ought not to have received the title as it was restricted to the male-line heirs of Edward Bruce, but exception was made for her. This title reverted to the Crown on the death of Lady Eleanor, in William's own lifetime. Some sources doubt the existence of Eleanor but do not explain how William could otherwise become earl.

Burke notes: "The charter in his favour is on record, and singularly incomplete, as if there had been a doubt as to the propriety of the grant:- 'David, D.G. Rex Scottorum, sciatus nos dedisse concessisse et hac presenti-carta confirmasse dilicto consanguineo nostro Willielmo de Cuninghame militi totum comitatum de Carryk.' ". The charter is not dated but was probably written at Aberdeen on 12 September 1361.

William married second Margaret before 18 Apr 1369.
