THE FOREWORD.

It seems to be a general opinion that all publications, whether bound in the most attractive style of the bookbinders' art or in an unpretentious paper cover, should have a few forewords, a preface or poem by way of introducing the writer to the reader.

It has never occurred to me that prefatory words are necessary, and yet in this particular instance there is ample reason why something by way of explanation should be given, a reason for thrusting myself into cold type in the opening pages of even so modest a publication as this history of Fortrose Lodge No. 108, A.F. & A.M., on the register of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Scotland.

HECTOR SINCLAIR.

Just a hundred and eight years ago, 1797, to wit, Hector Sinclair, my grandfather on my maternal side, visited Stornoway, and viewing it favourably as a sort of promised land, decided to make farming his business and The Lewis his home.

He looked over the land and determined that the farm of Goat-hill, a mile to the north-west of the town, and owned—as was the whole of the island at that period—by the Earl of Seaforth, would be a suitable location.

This property was at that time vacant. On it there was and is—for it stands to-day as it did in 1797—a comfortable and commodious farmhouse constructed of red brick, with the usual outbuildings that form the make-up of a good farm, well protected by trees which sheltered the spot when the winter's wind sped over the moor, and protected the dwelling from the hot heat of July and August days : for even so far north there are warm days.

The Sinclairs of my family were originally from Caithness, and many of them settled in Invernesshire and Nairnshire about the time that a Miss Sinclair, a daughter of Sir John Sinclair, married into the family of Rose of Kilvarock, and settled in Nairnshire with her husband's people.

The Sinclairs were in Kinray in the parish of Croy, in Nairnshire, from about 1650. In 1763 Robert Sinclair of Kinray, had a son Hector, my grandfather, and he occupied the Goathill Farm from

THE FARM HOUSE OF GOATHILL, NEAR STORNOWAY

1798 until 1822. He married in 1797 Ann McNishie, a daughter of Mr. John McNishie, who was the tenant of the farm of Connege in Petty, in Nairnshire, by whom he had nine children, all of whom with one exception were born in the farmhouse at Goathill.

My grandfather, while he farmed the land at Goathill, was also a road builder. He not only acted as road overseer, but also constructed for the authorities some of the principal roads, and as his personal friend, the late Dr. McCrae said to me some years ago : "Whatever your grandfather did, was well done."

On the 2nd of August, 1798, this ancestor of mine was initiated into Freemasonry in Fortrose Lodge No. 108. A.F. & A.M., warranted in 1767 by the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Scotland. The minute reads :—

"Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the second day of August, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight.

"The brethren having met pursuant to adjournment and being a monthly meeting the Lodge was regularly opened as an Apprentice Lodge, and the business of the Lodge having first been settled and adjusted, Brothers Hector Sinclair and Robert Clarke having successively petitioned to be admitted free and accepted Masons, and several members knowing them to be men of good character and being duly certified as such they were accordingly successively admitted. Thereafter the Lodge closed having first adjourned to the first Thursday of September next or until the Right Worshipful Deputy Master or person acting for him shall see just cause for calling a meeting of the brethren and due notice thereof given.

On the 5th December, 1800, he received the degrees of Fellow Craft and Master Mason along with a Bro. Hugh Mactavish.

The minute reads :— "Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the eighteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred.

"The Brethren met. The Lodge was regularly constituted into a Fellow Craft when Brothers Hugh Mactavish and Hector Sinclair were passed, Fellow Craft. The Lodge was closed with a resolution of being immediately re-opened as a Master Mason Lodge, which was accordingly done and the said Brethren raised to the Sublime

Degree of Master Masons. Thereafter the Lodge was closed, having first adjourned to the twenty-seventh current when an Apprentice Lodge is to be opened here at ten o'clock forenoon.

RODERICK MacIVER, D. M."

I had the pleasure of visiting the lodge room in 1895, in 1898 and in 1900, and during these visits I obtained photographs of the lodge room and copies of the entries in the Minute and Treasurer's books concerning this interesting incident in the life of my grandfather.

His account in the Treasurer's book shows that he paid his dues faithfully, although on one occasion he was fined 6d. for as the minute reads "Having left the lodge without asking leave." He attended the lodge with fair regularity, although his absence at periods from the Island would account for his non-attendance.

He resided at Goathill from 1798 until 1821, and then with wife and children migrated to Invernesshire. His wife, born in 1764, died in 1851, aged 87 years and he died in 1852, at the advanced age of 89 years.

My grandfather left Stornoway in 1822. A year or so previous to this he had trouble with his landlord, the Earl of Seaforth, which led to a lawsuit. He made every effort to settle it amicably, but the Earl was unyielding, and it was either "Do as I say or out you go." His tenant, however, was not of the ordinary kind. He was a

Sinclair. It is said that the men of that clan used to have considerable strife amongst themselves, but that when any section of the clan fought an outsider, the clan united, conquered the outsider, and then resumed their internal strife where they left off.

My grandfather carefully prepared his case and after reaching the mainland in a fishing boat, started for Edinburgh to consult his counsel, the late Lord Chief Justice Cockburn, then practising law in that city.

After a weary journey, the first half of which was on foot, my grandfather reached the historic city and was gratified by having a most favourable opinion and advice that right was on his side.

THE WEST END OF THE LODGE ROOM.

He brought back the proper papers and served them on the Earl, which meant trial at Edinburgh.

A few months later he was again in Edinburgh and the trial took place, resulting as his solicitor had anticipated, in a favorable verdict for my grandfather. A Mr. Adam was his attorney and Mr. Cockburn his counsel. As he left the solicitor's office on his way home, Cockburn congratulated him, saying, "I never had a case so well prepared for me by a client, as that which you have just won."

Mr. Cockburn was many years later Lord Chief Justice of England.

After this suit my grandfather gave up the farm at Goathill at the end of his term, and made arrangements to remove to the farm of Kerrowaird, near Inverness. His leaving the island was no ordinary event. He was a friend of every one and his proposed departure was looked forward to with great regret. In order to remove his family with comfort he had engaged a commodious craft, but owing to some difficulty in carrying out the arrangement the first vessel he chartered had to be given up. However, he finally secured a large lugger with a deep hold, in which he had ample room to stow away his furniture, farm implements and other utensils. A part of the hold was divided off to accommodate the family and was spread with straw, so that they might be comfortable on their journey.

The sky was not over bright the morning that they sailed, and a drizzling rain did not add to the comfort of the travellers as they left the house, near the farmhouse of Goathill, in which they had lived for a few weeks after giving up the farm.

The townspeople, notwithstanding a drizzling rain, turned out to say "good-bye" and see the Sinclairs sail. One old inhabitant in 1895, said that his father told him of the sorrow evinced at the leaving of the Sinclairs, and that the parting was so sad that "the tide rose with the tears that were shed for the Sinclairs as they sailed away."

My grandfather, after reaching Inverness in 1822, lived at the farm of Kerrowaird, a farm of 250 acres, in the parish of Petty, on the estate of the Earl of Moray.

In 1841 he leased the farm of Stratton, on the Culloden estate, and also the farm of Balhafetack, situated near Inverness, on the Muirtown estate, south of the river Ness, and a quarter of a mile up the slope of the hill known as Craig Pharrick or "Phadrig," where he lived until the time of his death in 1852.

Those of my ancestors who were in life forty years ago and whom I personally knew, have related to me many incidents in the lives of my grandfather's family, showing in how high esteem they were held by all who knew them.

It has been one of the pleasures of my life to visit the house of my sires in Stornoway and to hear the people of that place say so much of good concerning Hector Sinclair, my ancestor and his descendants, and to know that on this side of the Atlantic there are kith and kin who came from so good a man.

THE HEBRIDES.

A Brief Sketch of the Outer and Inner Hebrides or Western Isles.

On the north-west coast of Scotland and separated from the mainland of Sutherlandshire and Rosshire by the broad strait of water known as the Minsh or Minch, and often "the Greater Minch," lie two groups of islands—the home of a hardy and stalwart race of Scotchmen—called The Hebrides or Western Islands.

The northernmost of these groups is known as the Outer Hebrides, and under this name are embraced the island of Lewis, North and South Uist, Benbecula, Barra and numerous smaller islands.

THE FISHING FLEET AND SEA FRONT AT STORNOWAY.

The island of Lewis is divided into two districts, the northern portion under the name of Lewis, being part of Rosshire, and the southern peninsula as Harris, being part of Invernesshire, so that all the Outer Hebrides belong to Inverness except that part of The Lewis north of Harris.

The southernmost group is named the Inner Hebrides, and comprises the islands of Skye, Canna, Rum, Mull, Iona, Colonsay, Jura, Arran, Bute, and other islands of lesser note.

The middle portion of the outer islands is separated from the inner islands by a narrow channel known as the Little or Lesser Minch, and the inner islands, the largest of which is Skye, are parated from the mainland of Invernesshire and Argyleshire, in which counties, and in Buteshire, they are included, by Applecross Sound, the sound of Sleat and smaller lochs or arms of the sea that pierce the mainland shores.

The term Long Island is applied to the outer isles from the Butt at the extreme north of Lewis to Barra Head at the south end of the little island of Bernera, the southernmost of the outer group. The extent of The Lewis may be judged by the fact that it covers 561,000 acres, large tracts of which are useful in the raising of stock, while many acres are under successful cultivation.

The Minch may well be called "the Stormy Sea." The journey of 63 miles from Kyle of Lochalish to Stornoway is most enjoyable on a swift-going steamer when weather conditions are favourable. But there are times, when even with clear skies and bright sunshine the north-east gale, no stranger to these waters, makes the sea of pleasure and gives even enthusiastic tourists evidence that the restless sea, the tossing current white with foam, is a fact in an itinerary that is not always enjoyable.

The Pentland Frith, the most turbulent of the Scottish seas, with its swift changing current and dangerous eddies, makes all of Scottish waters, and yet for the tourist the Minch is up in competition for the medal of discomfort.

The British Channel, that silver streak whose waters between Dover and Calais are, by the aid of the turbine, covered in fifty minutes, sometimes reminds the tourist that there is more than a murmur in the joyous sea of even a summer's day. And yet on more than one occasion has the Minch, with sky bright and clear, and air wild with wind, and seas rising as the steamer cleaves its way, reminded the traveller that perhaps there are other voyages fashioned much upon the same lines as that of the channel, which foams the sea in sight of the cliffs of Dover.

But there are pleasant days for the journey during many months of the year to these northern isles, so that the tourist does not dread the seclusion that a cabin grants, may pocket his fears, and sitting on the spacious deck of a grey-hulled boat of the Minch, in-breathe the life-giving ozone of a Scottish sea; yes, and have the heart gladdened as from a spacious harbour he views a bright and picturesque town — that of Stornoway—with its well constructed buildings for business and residence, its quays of concrete, its esplanade covered with barrels for the product of the herring fleet. Then its throng of sailor men, its smart and active women, young and old, clad in homespun, working in hundreds at the packing of the herrings and betimes carrying "creels" that would stagger an ordinary athlete. To say nothing of the business men, active and sharp, who with always an eye to the main chance, have a reputation for integrity and honest dealing that is said to be a distinguishing characteristic of the folk who first saw the light in this water-circled land.

Some writer in giving an account of the Island of Lewis has described it as "another peat bog in the Atlantic," a term that can hardly be called flattering even if it has a flavour of truth when applied to this, the most important of the group of islands known as the Outer Hebrides.

A topographical or even a general description of the island is not pertinent to this publication, but one can hardly leave out of view the fact that this, the northernmost and largest island of the Outer Hebrides, on the west coast of Scotland, has an interest to thousands of its people and their descendants who to-day are to be found in every habitable part of the world.

An island that abounds with the ruins of Druidic edifices and primitive strongholds, with the added interest of wild and rugged scenery, has claims not only on the archaeologist and antiquarian, but also on the venturesome tourist who, eager to enrich his diary of travel, has to face the perils of the storm-tossed Minch to reach his goal.

Of the many towns of Scotland there are a large number that qualify under the pen of the guide book compiler as circuits of interest to those on pleasure bent, but it is doubtful if there is any spot in the far north of Scotland that has the same claim upon the seeker after scenes and pastures new as this well known island. Rugged ranges of land cover its interior; its coasts, bold and rock-bound, are indented at intervals with lochs and bays and armlets of the sea. Its moorlands, while flat and, from a distance, unattractive, are rendered picturesque by rare evidence of tree life, a few shrubs, and cultivated spots with their patches of grass. These are always changing their tints under the shifting clouds, while throughout the island are glens and uplands that relieve the monotony of wild solitude, dispelling the thought that all is bleak and desolate.

Some writers claim that a visitor's first impression of The Lewis may possibly be unfavourable, but one should not be misled by the view that is obtained from the deck of a passing or an incoming steamer.

Everybody's impressions are to a certain extent tempered by the state of the weather, and what might appear under unfavourable conditions a bleak and barren scene might have a panoramic effect of beauty with the advantages of a fine day. But this sea girt isle has some attractions, and included in these is its capital town of Stornoway, which stands at the head of a fine natural harbour on the east side of the island.

The founding of the town is too remote for even surmise, beyond the belief that it was first settled by migrations from Norway, for Lewis had a connection centuries ago, through its trade with Bergen, with that northern country. The name is undoubtedly Norse, being derived from "Stor," signifying "Steep Peak," and

"Vagr," a bay. Therefore, it probably dates from the Norse occupation, about 870 A.D.

The inhabitants are naturally proud of their town, indeed it is said its appearance so impressed the population of other parts of the island when they visited Stornoway that they thought no town in the world could be so imposing, for they always spoke of it as "Great Stornoway of the Castle," and declared that "it is a wonder that the King himself does not come and live there."

Stornoway, or as the natives sometimes call it "Styornoway," is the important town in the Hebrides. It is well laid out. Its streets are well paved and have the merit of cleanliness. The shops are excellent structures and compare favourably with those of many a southern town with far more pretensions than this, the capital of the fishing world of the west coast of Scotland.

The two main streets parallel the sea front and the bay head or esplanade of the harbour is the spot where the fishing fleet arrives and exemplifies the vast value of the fishing interests which have added so much to the importance and wealth of this island and its capital town.

At the north end of the harbour is the mansion of the Matheson family, built by the late Sir James Matheson, and known as The Castle. It is a handsome modern building in the Tudor style, an attractive piece of architecture, built on elevated ground and is the conspicuous edifice of the place. In the grounds is a monument to the late Sir James Matheson, who died in 1878. His widow, Lady Matheson, died in 1896, and the property then devolved in virtue of the entail upon Sir James Matheson's nephew, Mr. Donald Matheson, who in 1899 handed over the estate to his son, Major Duncan Matheson, the present proprietor of the island.

The grounds are extensive and admirably laid out at a cost of many thousands of pounds. The grounds surrounding the mansion have been planted with trees, which add to the beauty of this northern home, protected by the range of hills which practically separate Stornoway from the rest of the island.

On the seashore near the present wharf stood the "Rock Welcome," before referred to, used as a landing place by the natives of the olden times when they welcomed their relatives returning from a visit to the mainland with the greeting "Se do dheatha dhachaidh," the Gaelic for "Ye are welcome home."

Thirty years ago on the rock called "Welcome," there was the remains of Lewis Castle, an old fort of centuries ago. This castle was also called Castle MacNichol, claimed by tradition as having been in existence before even the advent of the Norsemen. Indeed, records go to show that for centuries before that event both the old fort or castle and the country surrounding it were under the sway of the MacNichol family, afterwards wrested from them by Leod, a Norwegian chief, the founder of the MacLeods, and one of the pioneers of the Norse invasion.

At a later date the whole of The Lewis, including Stornoway, passed under the sway of the MacLeods of the Isles, and later still, in the beginning of the seventeenth century, when the MacLeod family fell under the ban of the Government, it came for a time into the hands of the Mackenzies, of Seaforth, and then by purchase, for £200,000, to the late Sir James Matheson, a Sutherlandshire family, whose heirs now possess the island.

DUNE CARLOWAY, NEAR CALLERNISH.

It is said that a sum equal to this purchase money was spent by the late Sir James upon the town and island in the laying out and building of roads, in bettering the conditions of the harbour and encouraging the industries.

"Rock Welcome" is now covered by pier extensions. Its position is marked by an iron ring fixed in the top of an old rock about 25 yards north of the Harbour Offices. The next landing place, 30 yards south of "Rock Welcome," consisted of an old vessel named the "Amity," which has since disappeared and given place to the more modern structure, now known as "King Edward's Wharf," on which is erected an iron lamp post with an inscription celebrating the landing there of King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra, on 2nd September, 1902.

Fronting the harbour are the Municipal Buildings and Public Library, an imposing and elegant structure of a composite style of architecture. It comprises as well as Municipal offices, a Town Hall and offices for many public bodies, County Council, Parish Council, Harbour Commission, Lewis Estate offices, etc.

The Library, which is the gift of Mr. Carnegie, is situated on the east corner of the building, and besides the library proper, which is on the ground floor, has an excellent and commodious reading room above, with rooms for the librarian. To the erection of this handsome building many generous donors have contributed who have no direct connection with the town. Mr. James Coats, Mr. Carnegie, Sir Donald Currie and others, while Lewismen and their descendants all over the world have subscribed liberally, with the result that their native town possesses municipal buildings unsurpassed by any in the north of Scotland.

The dwelling places of the inhabitants in the residential district are from an architectural standpoint, substantial, handsome, well built, of cut stone, and with all the requirements of a modern home, none better laid out and more comfortable to be found in any part of Scotland. The church structures are commodious and substantial, and what cannot be said of many towns—they are well filled on the Sabbath.

The Drill Hall is an attractive building, while the schools are modern in every regard. The jail is—well, like all jails. There are many jails in many parts of the United Kingdom of equal population that are far better patronized than Stornoway jail. The Lodge building of the Masonic Fraternity is well adapted for its purpose, and to the credit of the brethren be it said that it is owned by the Craft. There are hotels, four in number in the town, all of which provide excellent accommodation and as good a table, if the surroundings are not as grand, as any to be found in the South. The population averages about 5,000 people, the large percentage of which are dependent on the fishing trade.

The tourist of antiquarian mind who visits The Lewis will find on the western side of the island at the head of Loch Roag, or about sixteen miles from Stornoway, the Druidic stones of Callernish, a "circle" more perfect than can be found elsewhere in the United BEE-HIVE HUT NEAR LOCH BARVAS.

Kingdom. The Druid monuments are more impressive than the 5,000 blocks in the form of obelisks at Carnac, a village of France, in the department of Morbihan, 25 miles from L'Orient, at least so say tourists who have been in both places. These grey-colored stones are great boulders of gneiss and are set on the knoll of hill whose base is washed by the Atlantic waves. One has to wonder how the priestly builders lifted these forty-eight pieces of granite into their present position. A group of fourteen of these stones is in the form of a cross, the circle being 42 feet in diameter. The centre stone is fifteen feet high, while in front of it are the remains of a stone altar with a hollow centre as a conduit for water. The natives call these monuments Tuirsachan, signifying "place of mourning," or Fìrbhreige, signifying "false men." It is a somewhat difficult matter to harmonize these meanings, although probably the former is the more appropriate.

To the north-west of Callernish on a small loch is Dune Carloway, another spot of interest. It is about six miles north-west of Callernish, fronting the sea, and is noted for the remains of an old round tower, a dune or Pictish fort built of dry stone, that is without mortar or any substitute, circular in form and supposed to be a stronghold of the Norse sea rovers. This ruin must have been in its original form of considerable height, but the natives have evidently looked upon it as a free quarry for the use of the people, for one portion of it has been denuded of stones, which have been used for the primitive dwelling places in the neighbourhood.

The word "dune," signifying a hill, fort or town, enters into the composition of many places in Great Britain, frequently in the modified form of dun or dum or don, as in Dundee, Dumfries, Doncaster and Donegal.

The tourist, if so disposed, may have a pleasant drive north about fifteen miles along the coast to Barvas (Barabhas) a little hamlet of 500 people, with a church, an inn, a school and a few dwellings for fishermen, who also farm small patches of land so as to keep the family at work when the good man of the household is away fishing. The surrounding moorland is a veritable stone yard, for the land is covered with stones large and small, as if there had been at some remote period a great rain of stones upon these moors.

If one wants a bracing journey of another fifteen miles he can proceed from Barvas to Ness Kirk and to the Butt of Lewis, the extreme north point of The Lewis, and in so doing pass many an acre of arable and grazing land.

The Butt is a great headland about 150 feet in height rising straight out of the sea, and at the western point is "The Eye," a natural arch on a smaller scale, but unlike that in the Perce Rock on the Gaspé coast of Canada. The tradition of this hole in the rock is that the devil, with a chain through the hole used it to drag away Lewis and Harris from the mainland of Scotland. The lighthouse of the Butt is 150 feet high and 200 feet above the sea level, and from the lamp room the visitor may obtain a fine view of the shores of Lewis, east and west, and the mountain ranges of Ross and Sutherlandshire.

And this is the land over which more than one writer of fiction has waved the fairy wand of fancy, a land that even with its vast and drear moorlands, interspersed with a few—not many—fruitful valleys, has many spots that brighten the tourist's journey.

For be it remembered that it is the home of 26,000 of a lusty race, strong and vigorous—men robust and valorous, thousands of whom have formed the thin red line in Britain's kilted corps, hundreds of whom have made their mark in the business life of the capitals of the world, and whose descendants to-day may be counted by scores in the throng of commercial activities in every spot on earth where the flag waves.

Its women too, are fair to see, yes of all Eve's daughters none fairer, excellent in form, well set up, strong and active, pleasant and well-featured, eyes black as the coal or blue as the forget-me-not, hair fair and golden, brown as the nutshell, or black as the starless midnight—all kinds, blondes and brunettes, with many a face well worth a corner in a gallery.

And this is The Lewis and its capital town, the birth nest of many a man and woman whose sons and daughters, generation after generation, sitting around the fireside, prosperous and happy, in distant lands, chat about those who have lived and now live in the northern Motherland, who commenced the battle of life on the farm or croft: holding of the sea girt isle that will forever and a day be a fond and familiar word in the household circle.

THE LEWIS HOSPITAL.

Mr. W. A. Ross, the Honorary Secretary of The Lewis Hospital, contributes the following sketch concerning that worthy institution.

For a long time prior to 1892 a feeling was manifesting itself that there should be a hospital for The Lewis. This feeling took definite form at a meeting held in Stornoway, in March, 1892, which was convened by Sheriff Davidson, then of Stornoway, and now of Fort William.

THE REAR AND WEST VIEW OF LEWIS HOSPITAL.

To the sheriff is due the initiation of the scheme. He set to work enthusiastically and collected from all over the Kingdom funds which enabled the building to be erected. His efforts were ably and warmly helped by Dr. Mackenzie, of Stornoway, and several public spirited ladies and gentlemen, with the result that the hospital is now the most popular, as it also is the most beneficent institution in the island. The hospital has been erected at Goathill, and looks out on the Minch. It has two wards with six beds in each and a well equipped operation room. There have recently been added a laundry and mortuary. Several large sums were contributed by generous donors who have an interest in The Lewis, most prominent among them being Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of Toronto, who furnished the two wards in the memory of his mother, Margaret Sinclair, one of the daughters of Mr. Hector Sinclair, who was born at Goathill. Besides furnishing the wards, Mr. Robertson supplied an operating table, and in various other ways has evinced a generous and practical interest in its welfare. The one condition he attached to his liberality was that the children of Freemasons, especially those of the Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, should always have a preferable claim to be treated at the hospital. Mr. Robertson, a grandson of the late Mr. Hector Sinclair, of Goathill Farm, is well known as a writer of Masonic history, and some years ago occupied the honorable position of Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Canada, the jurisdiction of which is confined to the province of Ontario.

THE INTERIOR OF THE EAST WARD, LEWIS HOSPITAL.

The hospital is supported entirely by voluntary contribution. The management have got together the nucleus of an endowment, but the revenue from it is inadequate for the maintenance.

As testifying to the general arrangement and equipment of the hospital no truer authority could be cited than Mr. J. Ross Robertson. After visiting it in 1898, he remarked :—"I have been engaged in hospital work for over seventeen years, and have in that time visited nearly every large hospital in the world and many small ones. This hospital is simply perfect in its arrangements and plan, and is admirably suited for the work. No better plan could be adopted for cottage hospitals."

When their Majesties King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra visited Stornoway on 2nd September, 1902, a patient was taken to the hospital from the royal yacht. He remained under treatment for thirty-eight days and was discharged cured. After returning to duty Dr. Mackenzie received a letter of high praise from Dr. Reginald Bankart, M. V. O., their Majesties' doctor. The following is an extract from the letter :—

His Majesty's Yacht Victoria and Albert,

Portsmouth, 2nd November, 1902.

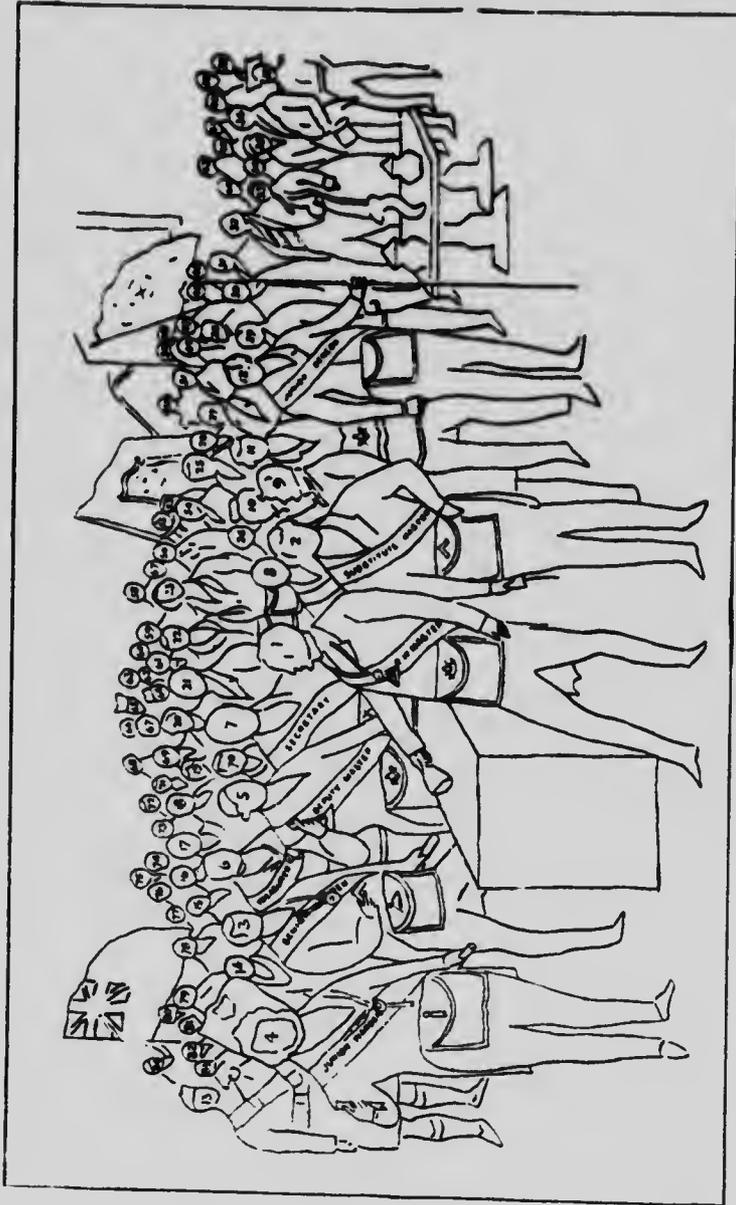

"He (the patient) has quite recovered and is at work again. He could not speak sufficiently high of the very kind treatment which he had received at your hands at Stornoway Hospital. I feel sure the people of The Lewis must be proud of such an excellent institution, which appeared to me to be quite a model of what a small hospital should be. I am sure it deserves very hearty support."

Since 1st February, 1896, when the first patient was admitted, until 31st December, 1904, some 660 patients have been treated at the hospital. A feature in connection with it is the district nursing which is done. The hospital is affiliated with the Queen Victoria Jubilee Institution for Nurses. The matron of the hospital is always a Queen's nurse, and by this excellent arrangement the sick poor are attended to at their own homes.

The high esteem and popularity of the people of The Lewis, and many outside the island—for patients from all climes have been treated at the hospital—are begotten of the good work which this institution is doing.

SEAL.

THE FORTROSE LODGE OF FREEMASONS, STORNOWAY, NO. 108.

November, 1767.

This Lodge was established under the designation of "Fortrose Lodge," Stornoway, by Charter dated 10th November, 1767.

The proprietor of the Lewis at this time was the Right Hon. Kenneth MacKenzie, Lord Viscount Fortrose, of Brahan Castle, and from his title the Lodge evidently received its name. Its original number was 135, which has since been altered to the present Lodge number, 108.

August, 1769.

The following extract from the minutes will sufficiently indicate its beginnings: "Upon application to the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the Kingdom of Scotland by Dr. John McCaskill, Archibald Smith, John McIver, John Wylie, John Reid, Murdoch Mackenzie, senior, Nor. McLeod, Colin McKenzie and Neil McLeod, of Stornoway, in the Island of Lewis, who had been entered Free and Accepted Masons in different Lodges in Scotland, to constitute and erect them into a regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, by the name and designation of Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of Scotland and the Grand Lodge thereof, have by Charter dated the tenth day of November, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven at the Grand Lodge held at Edinburgh, constituted, appointed the Worshipful Brethren above named and their successors in all time coming to be a true and regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons by the style and designation of Fortrose Lodge aforesaid. Therefore, and in consequence of the above constitution, the Worshipful Brethren above mentioned, with several others, have since receipt of said Charter, which was upon the sixteenth day of August, one thousand seven hundred and sixty nine, met and formed themselves into a regular Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, and elected a Master, Wardens and other officers as narrated in the minutes below; and likewise framed to themselves several by-laws for their government and direction.

Upon the sixteenth day of August, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine, the Worshipful Brethren under-mentioned, viz.: Archibald Smith, collector; John Wylie, surveyor of His Majesty's Customs, of Stornoway; Doctor John McCaskill; Murdoch McKenzie, senior; John McIver, Normand McLeod; Kenneth McKenzie, junior, and Neil McLeod, merchants; Lieut. Hector McNeil; Malcolm McNeil, shipmaster; Alexander Anderson, schoolmaster, and George Bartleman, operative mason, met and after mature consideration did unanimously elect Archibald Smith, Master; Alex. Anderson, Deputy Master; Murdoch McKenzie, senior Warden; Normand McLeod, Junior Warden; John McIver, Secretary; John Wylie, Treasurer; Kenneth McKenzie, junior, Steward, and George Bartleman, Tyler; and after the said election did proceed to frame themselves the following By-laws:

Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the sixteenth day of August, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine. It is agreed that from and after this day the following By-laws shall be observed by the Brethren of this Lodge:—

1. That it is agreed our monthly meeting shall be on the first Thursday of every month, and the Brethren to attend precisely at six o'clock in the evening.
2. That each Brother upon the first Thursday of every quarter is to pay into the box or publick fund one shilling sterling, being what is due for the preceding quarter, the quarter to end on the sixteenth November, the sixteenth February, the sixteenth May and the sixteenth August.

3. That when the Lodge is open no member or members to curse, swear or speak any obscene language, otherwise they will be fined sixpence for every such crime, nor are they to disturb the harmony of the Brethren by Committees, or interrupting a Brother when speaking to the Master or Wardens, under the penalty of threepence for every such offence, all to be applied to the publick fund. Neither are they to speak in time of business in the Lodge without leave asked and given from the Master.

4. That no member pretends to be passed from one Degree of Masonry without the Brethren judge him qualified.

5. That no Brother is to remove from the Lodge in time of going through the different Degrees, neither the door to be opened on any pretense whatsoever.

6. That no person is to be admitted a member of this Lodge but one of an unexceptionable character, and such person only approved of by Secret Ballots after being recommended by two of the Brethren.

7. That no member who accepts of an office in the Lodge can resign till the first St. John Day on any pretence whatsoever without the major part of the Brethren see just cause for his resignation.

8. That each Brother upon his admission is to pay one guinea immediately on demand, on his being passed half a guinea, and on his being raised to the dignity of Master one guinea and a half, all for the benefit of the publick fund. Also that each new admitted Brother shall pay half a crown besides his admission money to the Grand Lodge of Scotland for inserting his name in their records.

9. That each Brother at his admission, passing or raising is to pay the Tyler for each Degree one shilling sterling. The Tyler is to furnish each new admitted Brother with an apron, for which he is to be paid one shilling sterling each.

10. That the Lodge shall be shut each meeting precisely at ten o'clock of that night unless some necessary business for the good of Masonry in general or this Lodge in particular may detain the Brethren longer.

11. That each member of this Lodge drinks what liquor he pleases, and pays accordingly.

12. That any member who comes drunk to the Lodge or is guilty of any other crime that is not mentioned above, shall be liable to be punished or fined as the majority of the Brethren shall see cause.

13. That any member who does not come to the quarterly meeting shall order another Brother to pay his collection.

On the 15th February, 1770, "the Lodge being met, Bro. Normand McLeod produced an account amounting to five pounds, twelve shillings and sixpence sterling laid out by him for purchasing the following articles by commission of date 16th August, 1769, which is this day payed him by order of the Lodge":

Fortrose Lodge Dr. to Normand McLeod.

To a set of Jewels, with Suns, Ribband, etc., as per account produced of date January last	£5 5 0
To Ribbands for ditto.....	0 2 6
To charges about buying the Jewels	0 5 0

At the first meeting on the sixteenth of August, 1769, besides the nine petitioners, there were present five Brethren, viz.: Lieut. Hector McNeill, Malcolm McNeill, shipmaster; Kenneth McKenzie, junior, merchant; Alex. Anderson, schoolmaster, and George Bartleman, operative mason.

In 1769 six additional Brethren were admitted: John Wylie, junior, shipmaster; Evander McEliver, shipmaster; Kenneth McKenzie, senior, merchant; Donald McLeod and John Robertson, shipmasters, and Benjamin Dawson, operative mason. Only two other names are mentioned in the Records up to 5th March, 1772, viz.: Alexander McKenzie, of Hilltown, and Lieut. Daniel McKenzie, who were both initiated in 1770.

On the 18th October, 1770, the Brethren having met, made the collection of half a crown each to be transmitted to the Clerk of the Grand Lodge at Edinburgh for entering the names of the members of the Lodge in the books of Grand Lodge, and the following letter was directed to Alexander Dougall, Esq., Grand Lodge Secretary:

"Sir,—Observing in the Weekly Magazine an advertisement by you requiring the different Masters of the Lodges in Scotland that are in arrears to the Grand Lodge to transmit to their secretary at Edinburgh lists of their un-entered Members with the Grand Lodge, and money to pay what they owe in arrear respectively. I have in compliance with the said advertizement transmitted you enclosed a list of all the Members of this Lodge, none of whom being yet entered in the Grand Lodge Books, that you may order their names to be enrolled therein, and likewise Draught on Mr. Shadrach Moyse at the Custom House, Edinburgh, payable at sight, for two pounds, fifteen shillings, being at the rate of two shillings and sixpence by each Member for such enrolment. If there are any other dues payable to the Grand Lodge quarterly or annually you will please let me know, and they shall be regularly transmitted in future.

"I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

"ARCHD. SMITH, M."

The Grand Clerk, Bro. David Bolt, in his letter of acknowledgment states that the half crown from each entrant is the only dues demanded, but if the number of the Brethren exceeds twelve a fee of two shillings and sixpence, and if over twenty, one of five shillings is due to the Clerk.

The meetings for several years after the foundation appear to have been held rather irregularly, or at any rate regular minutes were not kept, and the number of the Brethren is practically stationary up to the year 1772.

The Records do not afford any indication of the locality of the building in which the Lodge met during the first year of its existence, but upon 2nd August, 1770,

"The Brethren present having taken into consideration their want of a convenient place to meet in, unanimously agreed and fixed upon a room in Bro. Kenneth McKenzie, junior's, house, to which a convenient closet is adjoining, and to pay him annually for both, the sum of thirty shillings as rent and four shillings more for furnishing Fire and Water to the Lodge, the said rent to commence the 5th July, 1770."

Bro. Kenneth McKenzie, junior's house was situated, according to the Charter granted him by Lord Fortrose in 1768, on Cromwell street, or as it was then called, Oliver street, and must have been on the second feu south from Church street, or lane, afterwards known usually as Kenneth Murray's Property.

The Brethren had occupied Bro. Kenneth McKenzie's room for their monthly meeting on 5th July, and on 2nd August he laid before the Lodge an account of "necessaries furnished," probably for the house warming, which the Lodge ordered to be "instantly paid."

To one loaf sugar, weighing 11 lbs. 5 oz., at 10½d. per lb.	£0 9 10½
To seven pints of rum, at 2s. 3d. per pint	0 15 9
To three dozen Choppine black bottles, at 2s. 3d. per dozen	0 6 9
To 5 Deals, at 1s. 2d. each	0 5 10
To Nails, Candles and Corkage	0 1 8
	<hr/>
	£1 19 10½

1771.

Bro. Archibald Smith, Collector of Customs, occupied the Chair till 17th January, 1771, at which date the number of members was still twenty-two. Bro. John McElver then succeeded him as Master. The minute of 17th January says: "The election of a Master and Officers of that Lodge having been postponed all our meeting nights since St. Andrew's Day, owing to there being but few members present, but this night that difficulty being removed by a competent number appearing, Brother John McElver was elected Master; John Reid, Comptroller of Customs, Secretary, and all the other former officers continued."

1772—1773.

After March 5th, 1772, we can find no trace of any Lodge Minutes. Whether the meetings were discontinued or whether the proceedings were written into another book, which has since been lost, is uncertain, but the latter is most probable, as we have record of payment of dues being made up to June, 1773, and the Lodge also still possesses its original Charter of 1767. Again in a minute dated 27th December, 1797, we find that "Bro. Donald Morrison, having appeared at the door and craved to be admitted as a visiting member, and several members knowing him to be an approved Mason, and of good character, and originally of this Lodge, he was accordingly admitted, and unanimously voted a permanent member." As there is no record in the books of the initiation of, or any payment by this Brother, he must have been initiated at a meeting held some time between 1773 and 1797, which shows that occasional meetings at least were held. However this may be, the period from 5th March, 1772, to 9th September, 1797, remains a blank, but upon the latter date the Fortrose Lodge seems to have taken a new lease of life, as may be seen from the following extract from the minutes:

1797.

"Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the ninth day of September, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven years. The said Lodge being regularly constituted by the Right Worshipful Bro. John Reid, Master, and the Worshipful Bros. Malcolm Macneil and George Bartleman, Senior and Junior Wardens, the Lodge proceeded to work according to ordinary form, when Brothers Sir John Reid, Francis Humberston MacKenzie (Lord Seaforth), John Reid, John Cowan and James Black, all of them Past Masters, and Brother Roderick MacKenzie, entered apprentice, appeared at the door, and craved to be admitted to the honour of visiting the Lodge, and the members present knowing them to be approved Masons of good character, they were admitted accordingly, and afterwards unanimously voted to be permanent members of said Lodge. Thereafter, Alexander Maciver, James Robertson and Kenneth McIver successively petitioned to be admitted Free and Accepted Masons, and several members knowing them to be men of good characters, they were accordingly successively entered apprentices.

"Thereafter, the Lodge taking it into consideration that they had been long in disuse of holding regular meetings, think it expedient to elect a new set of officers to serve for the remainder of the year ending on St. John's Day next, and they accordingly elected the said Right Worshipful Brother Francis Humberston Mackenzie to be their Master, the Right Worshipful Brother John Reid to be Deputy Master, the Worshipful Brother John Cowan to be Senior Warden, the Worshipful Brother Sir John Reid, Junior Warden, Bro. James Robertson to be Secretary, Bro. Alexander Maciver to be Treasurer, Bro. George Bartleman to be Tyler, all to the Day of St. John next.

"Thereafter, the Lodge judged it expedient to appoint a Committee to revise the By-laws of the Lodge, and to recommend such new ones as they should think proper, and they accordingly appointed the Right Worshipful the Deputy Master, the Worshipful the Wardens, the Secretary and Treasurer, and Brothers Malcolm McNeil and Kenneth McIver to be a Committee, and to report at the next General Meeting of the Lodge, to be held here on the first Thursday of October next."

The By-laws were duly revised by the Committee, and the following new rules were added:—

1. From the first Thursday of March to the first Thursday of September, the hour of meeting is to be altered to 7 p.m.; for the rest of the year to remain as usual.
2. The funds of the Lodge are to be appropriated to the relief and assistance of reduced or decayed Brethren, their wives and children. That petition for such relief must be made addressed to the R. W. M., Wardens and Brethren, and enforced by the recommendation of three Master Masons.
3. That no reduced or decayed member can have any just claim unless he has been a permanent member of the Lodge for the space of three years, and has paid all dues to the Lodge.

4. In addition to Article 6 of the By-laws, it is agreed that at the admission of a new member, if Secret Billets are called for, that two-thirds of the members present must be in favour of such candidate before he can be admitted.

Kenneth Viscount Fortrose, and 6th Earl of Seaforth, from whose title the Lodge derives its name, died in 1781. He was succeeded by his cousin, Col. Thomas Frederick MacKenzie, who was killed in India in 1783, and was then succeeded by his brother, Francis Humberaton MacKenzie, the Grand Master of Lodge Fortrose. In 1797 he was raised to the peerage under the style of Lord Seaforth, and Baron MacKenzie of Kintail, and died on 11th January, 1815, at Edinburgh, predeceased by four sons, the last male representative of his race.

Lord Seaforth held the position of Grand Master from 1797 to 1815. He does not appear to have attended the Lodge very frequently—his office being more or less an honorary one—as his signature is appended to the minutes of only one meeting, held on 9th September, 1799. This meeting was called by the Grand Master "to take into consideration the unfortunate loss of a boat upon the opposite coast, with five men, one of whom was a Master Mason of this Lodge. They resolved to contribute to the relief of the widows and orphans of the persons lost, and accordingly opened a subscription paper for that purpose." The fund realized £27 14s., and was at a later meeting allocated as follows: "To the relict and orphans of the deceased Bro. William MacClymont, ten pounds ten shillings sterling. To the relict and orphans of Duncan McKenzie, late innkeeper of Pollew, six pounds sterling. To the relict and orphans of Donald McRae, late fisherman, of Pollew, five pounds sterling. To the relict and orphans of Roderick McLean, late fisherman there, the sum of four pounds, and to the relict of Alec. Ross (having no children), late fisherman there, two pounds four shillings sterling."

The ruling and working of the Lodge was evidently entirely in the hands of the Deputy Masters, who must have been enthusiastic and capable Masons, as Lodge Fortrose now enters upon a long and unbroken period of prosperity.

From September 9th, 1797, to St. John's Day of the same year there were 30 entrants, and during the following year 43 members were admitted, the roll on 27th December, 1798, numbering over 100. During these early years many well-known men, some of more than local fame, passed through the Fortrose Lodge. On August 2nd, 1798, Mr. Hector Sinclair, of Goathill, "having petitioned to be admitted a Free and Accepted Mason, and several members knowing him to be a man of good character, and being duly certified as such, and no objection being started to his prejudice, he was accordingly admitted." Bro. Sinclair's grandson, Bro. J. Ross Robertson, of Toronto, occupied the Grand Master's chair in the Grand Lodge of Canada during ten years, and has taken a close interest in Lodge Fortrose since he discovered the fact that it was there his ancestor first saw the light of Masonry. Henry Peter Brougham was entered an apprentice on August 20th, 1799, and on August 21st was passed and raised, together with Messrs. Charles Stewart, Robert Campbell, of Islay, and John P. Stroud. The future Lord Chancellor, who was then a youth of 21, visited Stornoway during a yachting cruise along with the above-mentioned gentlemen on board a ship known locally as "the Mad Brig," probably on account of the daring of her amateur navigators.

1797.

In a minute dated 28th October, 1797, we have the first indication of the fact that Mark Masonry was practised in the Lodge. "The Lodge being reopened as a Master Mason Lodge, the before-mentioned two Brethren were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons, and afterwards the following Brethren were made Masters, past the Chair, and made Mark Masters, viz.: Alex. Maciver," etc., and again, "Bro. J. McDonald was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, made past the Chair, and Mark Master, when the Lodge was closed." There is in existence an old register of Mark Masters dating from 1797, containing the names and Marks of about 50 Brethren. The Marks then in use do not fulfil the modern conditions. They consist of letters—generally two—which may be formed of either curved or straight lines, and do not necessarily have any connection with the initials of the owner. e.g., Alex. (Z.Y.) Maciver, Angus (A.C.) McKay, H. G. Brougham (C.D.). After 1798 all traces of Mark working disappear, till revived some fourteen years ago, in 1891.

After the resuscitation of the Lodge in 1797 the Brethren again changed their domicile, as the following extract testifies: "Mr. William Morison, proprietor of the Mason Lodge Room at Stornoway, agrees to let the said Room to the Society of Freemasons at Stornoway for one year full and complete from the date hereof, there to hold all meetings and to transact all their business, with the further privilege of holding any other public meeting that may be deemed necessary, and that shall be sanctioned by the consent or concurrence of the said Society." Then follows a proviso that the Room is not to be let to teachers of dancing, that the "Rabble" and all disorderly persons may be excluded.

"The Committee of Freemasons appointed for that purpose, having approved and agreed to the conditions above specified, and become bound to pay to the above said Mr. Wm. Morison the sum of nine pounds sterling of yearly rent, the above minute is duly subscribed place and date as above.

"WILLIAM MORISON.
"MALCOLM McNEILL, D. M.

1801.

At a meeting held on March 2nd, 1801, "The Right Worshipful Deputy Master submitted to the consideration of the Brethren a proposal made by Mr. William Morison, proprietor of the house occupied by them as a Lodge, and the same having undergone a full and elaborate discussion as well on this as previous meetings, it was unanimously resolved that Mr. Morison's proposal be immediately accepted, to contribute to which the Brethren present paid up the sums voluntarily subscribed by them, and as it appeared that the funds of the Lodge were not adequate to the sum immediately demanded by Mr. Morison: it was agreed that the deficiency should be borrowed, and the Office Bearers were accordingly empowered to do so."

The exact details of the proposal made by Mr. Morison do not appear from the Minutes. From the Cash Book, however, we can gather that he offered the building to the Lodge for a sum of £600, £300 to be immediately paid, which offer was accepted. The cash at the disposal of the Lodge at this time amounted to £234, so that the required sum had to be raised by borrowing from the Bank of Scotland and from the Friendly and Incorporated Trades Societies. The last instalment was paid to Mr. Morison on 27th December, 1805, when the building finally became the property of the Lodge.

The Freemasons' Hall, as it was called, was situated in Cromwell street, upon the site of the present British Linen Bank, and being at that time the only Public Hall in Stornoway, was consequently in great request for dances and assemblies, which were of frequent occurrence, as Stornoway seems to have been a rather gay little town in these days. In this connection the following letter may be quoted. It was presented to the Lodge by Mr. John Ross, who styles himself "Town Musician":

"Unto the R.W.M. of the Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway. My acting as musician for the town, to whose patronage I am indebted for my support, induces me to apply to you for a reduction of the charge exacted by the members of the Mason Lodge for the use of their Room (being 25 shillings per night), which sum, deducted from the proceeds of a Benefit Ball, would leave a very small reversion in my hands. As I intend having a few Benefit Balls during the season, would consider myself highly obliged by their attention to the above.

"I am, Sir, your most obedient servant.

"JOHN ROSS, Town Musician."

The first record of an affiliation which we have in detail is dated 6th February, 1798: "Bro. Donald Fraser appeared at the door, and craved to be admitted a visiting member, and being strictly tried and examined and found duly qualified, he was accordingly admitted as Fellow Craft and Master Mason, and took the obligation of initiating a Master Mason from one Lodge to another, and having signified his desire to become a permanent member of this Lodge, and to pay one-half guinea to the publick funds of this Lodge in consideration of such privilege, the Brethren unanimously agreed thereto, and he was accordingly voted a permanent member." The form of obligation signed by visiting Brethren is as follows: "I solemnly swear by God, and as I shall answer to God at the great day of Judgment, that I was duly entered an apprentice Mason within the Lodge adhibited to my subscription, and I further solemnly swear by the oath I now take, and the oath I took when I was so made a Mason, that I shall never reveal any of the secrets of Masonry which I may see or bear in consequence of being admitted as a visiting Brother in this Lodge of Fortrose, in Stornoway."

On the 21st February, 1800, "The Brethren found it necessary to reject with regret the petition of Donald Nicholson merely owing to his being illiterate, a class of people, however unexceptionable otherwise, they resolve hereafter to exclude from admission into this Society, and have appointed a deliverance to this effect." At a later meeting "A petition was presented from John Morison, mariner, but he being represented as an illiterate man, and consequently by the rules of the Lodge not an eligible member, therefore as a proof of which he was requested to write his own petition . . . having presented a specimen of his writing, he was balloted for in the usual manner, and entered an apprentice."

Bro. Donald McDonald, schoolmaster, held the office of Secretary at the beginning of the century. The following extract is an example of the quaint and formal manner in which the minutes were written, and sketches the general programme gone through by the Brethren on St. John's Day.

On the 27th December 1800, "The Lodge having met at 11 a.m., the office bearers were elected, and the state of the finances and other business of the Lodge was taken into consideration and adjusted to the satisfaction of the Brethren present. Thereafter the Lodge was closed, having first agreed, in honour of the day, to walk in a solemn procession to the church to hear a discourse from our Reverend Brother Chaplain, which was accordingly done, and a most elegant and animating discourse was delivered by him, in every way applicable to the occasion, and a handsome collection made at the church door for the benefit of Bro. George Bartieman, late Tyler of this Lodge, The Brethren, after preaching, walked back to the Lodge Room in the same order as they proceeded. The Brethren then resolved to walk in procession to Mr. Morison's new Inn, where they meant to conclude the evening by dining together in a brotherly and affectionate manner."

The funds of the Lodge were in a fairly good condition during these early years, and notwithstanding their large outlays upon the buildings the Brethren never refused a bona fide application for charity. Petitions for assistance from widows of deceased Brethren were frequently brought forward, and sums granted varying from five to ten pounds. The average yearly amount expended in charity ran to about thirty pounds sterling.

On 27th December, 1808, "The Lodge took into consideration a petition presented to them from Mrs. Jean McAulay, spouse to Malcolm McLeod, sailor, a member of the Lodge, and now a prisoner in Norway, when they directed their Treasurer to pay her to this date one pound sixteen shillings sterling, and also to pay her from this date twenty shillings every quarter until her husband would be delivered from his confinement."

At this time Napoleon Bonaparte had declared the British Islands in a state of blockade, and England had similarly retaliated. Smuggling was a capital offence, but men smuggled on a large scale in defiance of law, and both Governments sold for money permission to break the law, thereby earning large profits. Bro. Malcolm Macleod had evidently shipped aboard one of these smuggling or privateering crafts, and had the misfortune to be captured and lodged in a Norwegian gaol. Another peculiar application from a Brother in somewhat similar case may be quoted:—

1812.

The petition of Bro. John Knudtson, dated September, 1812: "I am a native of Norway, and a member of your Lodge, No. 135, where I was made a Master Mason the 3rd September, 1810. I have now to inform you, Dear Brethren, of my unfortunate situation. The 24th of April, 1812, I went out from North Bergen, in Norway, in a Danish privateer. She mounted 14 guns under my command, but unfortunately for me was captured on the 26th inst. by His Britannic Majesty's brig "Sarpedon," and since the one-half of my guns was under 4 pounds calibre I could not obtain liberty to go on my parole, but must remain here on board on the scanty allowance of a prisoner of war. But if I could make interest in this country by petitioning the Transport Board in London, I think my parole may be obtained. Dear Brethren, if you can do anything for me in obtaining my parole, or through the channel of any of your friends, you would very much oblige me in relieving me from this obscure place. But, Dear Brethren, I must acquaint you of my present circumstances, as I am here as aforesaid on the scanty allowance of 2½ lbs. of beef per week and 7 salt herrings, and water to drink, and I have not had a farthing of money since I came here to this place, and I am sorry to say have very little clothes with me, so I am at present in great distress, which I hope, Brethren, you will take into your serious consideration, and I most humbly beg of you to collect a little sum of money amongst my Brethren in your Lodge. I shall always be grateful for the same, and by my return to my native country show the same charity to other suffering Brethren. The Lodge considered this application favourably, and remitted three guineas to the suffering warrior, which, let us hope, duly reached him, and was the means of providing a more varied and satisfactory menu.

1815.

One of the conditions in the Cromwell street Feu Charters binds the Feuar "and his foresaids on their own expenses to build the Pier and Quay opposite their own houses, and then the same to be common." In 1815 the Lodge built a stone quay opposite their property, the foundation stone being laid by the Brethren with appropriate ceremonial. On this occasion the Steward's hook testifies that twenty-four bottles of punch were consumed. Two years later, as the result of a gale which disturbed its foundations, the quay subsided, and was rebuilt by the Lodge of Mainland Stone at a cost of £5.

1817.

On 4th September, 1817, we find the first mention of a Proxy Master in Grand Lodge, Bro. James Lamond. To him the Lodge sent £2 sterling "that he may provide himself and his Wardens with suitable clothing and befitting as the Representative of the Fortrose Lodge." Again on 27th December, 1821. "Some of the Brethren having suggested that Bro. Roderick McKenzie, Writer to the Signet, Edinburgh, a member of this Lodge, would be an eligible person to be appointed as Proxy Master to represent our Lodge in the Grand Lodge, he was accordingly elected Proxy Master."

By the year 1819 the Lodge had largely increased in numbers. From a list of Brethren who received and paid for new aprons upon 19th February, 1819, it would appear that there were 73 members in regular attendance and good standing. On the 26th of November of the preceding year a meeting of the Brethren was held to discuss the advisability of again enlarging their borders. "The Right Worshipful Master suggested to a full meeting of the Brethren the propriety of building a house on a larger scale than their present house, for the better accommodation of the Brethren (whose number has of late increased), and for other publick reasons, to which measure the Brethren present unanimously agreed, and appointed a Committee to take immediate measures for carrying their plans into effect." On the 28th day of May, 1819, "The Right Worshipful Master having thought proper to call a meeting of the Brethren, when it was agreed that the Brethren would walk in procession to lay the foundation of a new Lodge to be immediately built, which accordingly was done, and the Brethren having returned to the Lodge, it was agreed to meet by 7 o'clock to spend a few hours together on the occasion in Harmony and Conviviality." At a meeting held on the 16th September, 1819, to consider the providing of money sufficient for the erection of a new Lodge, it was decided "to borrow the sum of four hundred pounds sterling from Capt. Daniel Reid, of the 'Prince Ernest Augustus' cutter, who appears disposed to accommodate the Brethren with the same."

The wood for the buildings was obtained from Mr. John McKenzie, junior, who writes the Lodge to the effect that he intends sending the schooner "Perseverance" off to the east of Norway with the least possible delay, and desires to treat with the Committee to furnish such quantity of wood and of such dimensions as may be required for them.

The contract for the mason work was secured by Bro. John Loban, whose estimate was £468 8s. sterling, but in the end stretched out to £573 5s. The joiner work was in the hands of Bro. John McKenzie, senior, joiner, who was recommended by the Committee "as being most likely to fulfil his engagements to their satisfaction," and the plaster work was carried out by Mr. Duncan Bain, also recommended by the Committee.

Fifth August, 1820, "As the sum of three hundred pounds will be required over and above the amount already borrowed and expended, the meeting request and authorize the Committee to borrow the aforesaid sum of three hundred pounds from the Friendly and Incorporated Trade Societies, or from any other person or persons." The Brethren who had subscribed sums in loan to the Building Fund were called upon to pay one moiety to the Treasurer on the 23rd of November, and the other moiety on the first Thursday of December. Intimation was also issued to all Brethren who were in arrears of their just and lawful dues that they must pay up upon the same date, otherwise prosecutions would be commenced against them.

It was found necessary to dispose of the old property to pay off debts incurred in building the new Lodge, in pursuance of which a letter was written to Mr. Adam, Factor for Stewart Mackenzie, of Seaforth, intimating their intention of disposing of "the most spacious house in the Burgh of Stornoway, with wings, that afford much accommodation, at a price of £750 sterling, which is considered very reasonable, and which the Brethren would by no means offer so low but for the present depressed state of every kind of property."

Seaforth evidently declined the offer, as upon the 15th October 1822, a letter from Bro. John Macaulay, merchant, to the following effect, was presented to the Lodge: "Sir,—I beg leave to offer you, as representing the Brethren of the Fortrose Lodge, Stornoway, the sum of seven hundred guineas for that tenement of houses, outhouses, garden and whole pertinents, commonly called the Mason Lodge of Stornoway, situated in Cromwell street, my possession and entry to commence at Martinmas first, and payment of the price to be made as follows: I shall procure the Brethren a valid discharge of the heritable debt and interest due thereon constituted by the heritable bond over the foresaid property in favour of Capt. Reid, of the 'Prince Ernest Augustus' cutter, at the said terms of Martinmas first; one moiety of the balance of the above sum of 700 guineas after paying Capt. Reid's heritable debt and interest, I shall pay at the next Saint John's Day, and the last moiety or balance I shall pay at the term of Whitsunday, eighteen hundred and twenty-three. The Brethren are, of course, to defray the whole expense of the disposition to be granted in my favour.

(Signed) "JOHN MACAULAY."

This offer was unanimously accepted by the Lodge.

1823.

The new buildings were finally completed in December, 1822, at a total cost of £1,365 13s. 2d., and in the same month the Brethren held their first meeting under the roof which still shelters them.

The first candidate initiated in the new Hall was the Rt. Hon. James Alexander Stewart MacKenzie, of Seaforth. This gentleman was originally the Rt. Hon. J. A. Stewart, of Glasserton, nephew of the 7th Earl of Galloway, but upon his marriage with Mary Elizabeth Frederica McKenzie, widow of Admiral Sir Samuel Hood, and only daughter and heiress of Francis Humberston McKenzie, 7th Earl of Seaforth, he assumed the surname of McKenzie. He was M.P. for Ross and Cromarty, and held the offices of Governor of Ceylon and Lord High Commissioner to the Ionian Islands. His death, which took place on 24th September, 1843, severed the last link connecting the Fortrose Lodge with the Seaforth family.

A petition was presented on January 11th, 1825, from Bro. Malcolm McLeod, sailor, Stornoway, who when we last heard of him was languishing in a Norwegian prison. He pleads ill-health and poverty, "which being considered, the Brethren present unanimously awarded that five pounds sterling should be paid to the petitioner by instalments."

Up to about 1830 the Lodge seems to have continued in a flourishing condition, but for some years after this date the number of entrants declined considerably, and the funds suffered in consequence. In the eight years from 1830 to 1837 there were only 16 entrants, 1832, 1835 and 1836 being blank. Many of the Brethren also fell into arrears with their contributions, and regular warnings were issued by the Lodge "that such members have forfeited all claim to the privileges of Masonry, and that if their arrears are not paid up by a fixed date they will be expelled the Lodge, and their names removed from the Roll of Members.

On 10th August, 1830, the names of the following were expunged from the Roll, "as they are long in arrears to the Lodge": John Loban, contractor; Normand Morison, cooper; Alex. Cameron, John McDonald, mason, and Ralph Rae, carpenter. And again on the 7th day of March, 1834, "The Brethren directed that the names of the following Brethren would be expunged from the Roll of the Lodge, viz.: Don'd Morison, farmer, late of Dell; Alex. McLeod, shipmaster, Stornoway; Syme Tod, late Collector of Customs, Stornoway; Robt. Goidle, dancing master; Jas. Robertson, commander R. N.; Mur. McLeod, merchant; Don'd McIver, blacksmith; Peter Smith, merchant; John McKenzie, cabinetmaker; Angus McKay, joiner, and Murdo McKenzie, merchant, which was accordingly done." The Brethren, however, seem to have been after all of a forgiving disposition, as we find many cases of application for reinstatement.

ment by expunged members, all of which petitions were granted upon payment of all arrears, or a lump sum, varying from 20s. to 30s.

On 13th April, 1831, the Brethren met to consider "a temporary change in the night of monthly meeting so as not to interfere with the Post night, which happens to be on the same night with our meeting, and prevents many of the members from attending. The members present, therefore, unanimously agreed that their monthly meeting should be held on Friday evening instead of Thursday, as fixed by their present regulations, and that until St. John's Day next, without a change takes place in the Post night sooner." December 29th, 1834, "It was, therefore, resolved and agreed to that their monthly meeting should hold in future on the first Thursday of every month instead of Friday, as has been for some time the custom, the Packet sailing now not interfering with that night." Finally, on September 2nd, 1841, the meeting night was again changed to Friday, owing to Post night once more being altered, and to this evening the Brethren have ever since adhered.

1831.

At a meeting of the Lodge, held on 7th of October, 1831, "the Brethren took into consideration the tenor of the two letters given in by two of the Brethren of the Lodge." The first is from Bro. William McKenzie, joiner, and is as follows: "As I can find no rule in Scripture for such a Society as yours, I shall not support it longer, having considered it the most provoking sin to God of all others, that is beginning on His Name, and for the most part serve the Devil. You shall look on me no doubt as a madman, but there is a day coming when you and I shall appear before the Judgment Seat of Christ. Please send me my account, and I shall settle it as soon as I can. I am, etc.,

"WM. MCKENZIE."

The other is from Bro. Alex. McFarquhar, and is as follows:
"Bro. Alex. McFarquhar begs leave to intimate to the R. W. Master and the rest of the Brethren that he does not mean to attend the Lodge further than the present time, owing to some private consideration of my own. I had a desire of knowing more of the nature of a true Mason Brother, according to the rule we take from that Blessed Book, the Bible, where the Lord revealed His will to His people, but I am sorry to say how far people come short of looking to the rules, that all characters will be taken in as a Brother Mason if he pays a little money, without finding out whether he is a drunkard or a swearer or a Sabbath breaker, or whatever he is; it's all one if he will be got with a few pence, and no sooner you go out of that house, but you would be ashamed to make any company of some characters you have among you, and I believe it has been otherwise when people looked up to the rules, and I hope it may be so still when people consider their chief end, and His glory is to obey His commands, and further it is a melancholy thing to see the Bible going the streets of Stornoway as it would be preaching to all that would see it or hear it that this is the true Brethren who fears the Lord and forsakes all evil, and before 11 or 12 o'clock may be seen and heard fighting, or excess in drinking, and swearing, and what may follow, as no doubt some of yourselves well know; and in these things, with some more that I could mention, I am afraid that the Giver of all comforts will be angry, and that the Society may not prosper. Viewing these things, I had no freedom to go no further in to the work, as they were not followed up according to the rules. It is my true belief that a true Mason Brother will be a worthy member of any society, in adhering to the rules of his profession, and as to anything I have given the Society I would always with pleasure give while I would think it would be for the good of the helpless Member. I would still be inclined to do a little according to my state to a poor widow or a sick man. I add no more at this time, but the well wishes of a Brother Apprentice to the R. W. M. and office bearers, and that the Lord and God of Heaven and Earth would bless you all, that the Spiritual and Temporal Blessing is the Desire and wish of your Brother in Profession,

"ALEX. MCFARQUHAR."

(Bro. McFarquhar was initiated in 1823, but never seems to have got beyond the rank of an Entered Apprentice.) The preceding homilies seem to have only had the effect of raising the ire of the Brethren, as the only comment made upon them is short and to the point: "The foregoing Brethren, together with Bro. Colin McKenzie, Joiner, who was found guilty of a breach of his obligation as a Master Mason, were expelled the Society."

The Minutes contain nothing of much interest for some years after this with the exception of candidates' names.

A petition was presented on 3rd January, 1834, from several young men in the town to the following effect: "That your petitioners in conjunction with others have it in contemplation to get up a Dramatic Entertainment for the purpose of affording some relief to the widows and orphans of the crew of the late Mary Ann, and being aware that all Masonic institutions are designed for beneficent uses, venture to request the use of your Hall gratis for the occasion."

The prayer of the petition was unanimously granted.

On 23rd July, 1842, we have a note of repairs to Hall.

1. The walls around the Lodge to be repaired at day's wages, the coping to be set in lime, and the whole to be properly repaired. The door of the garden on the south end of the Lodge to be shut up with stone and haried on both sides. The roof of the house to be repaired in such places as require it, and this to be done by James Anderson, mason.

2. The windows to be sufficiently painted by giving them two coats of good white lead paint, and the sashes and bases to be pointed about with Mastie, and to be otherwise repaired. Thirteen panes were found necessary to be repaired and painted.

3. The main doors of the Lodge to be repaired and painted with two coats of green paint, the whole of the room to be whitewashed to the higher cornice, and that by John Urquhart, painter.

The superintendence of the work was left in the hands of Bro. Lewis McIver, John McAulay, Rod. Morrison, Daniel Lewis Mackenzie and Rod. Mackenzie.

Among the petitions for admission in 1844 we find a rather unique case on the 28th of June. A petition was presented by Alexander Robertson, ship-owner, of Stornoway, "but an objection being stated to his admission in consequence of his having wanted a Limb (leg), it was moved and seconded and afterwards carried by a majority of the Brethren that the candidate be not admitted until the Grand Lodge would first be consulted relative to this matter, which the Secretary was directed to do."

The following reply was received on 15th July:

"Dear Sir and Bro.,—I am favoured with yours of the 4th inst., which I delayed in answering until I should have an opportunity of giving you the opinion of our Grand Committee regarding the matter stated in your letter. I now beg to say that the Brother applying for admission into your Lodge, but who has lost one of his limbs, is quite eligible to be received into any Lodge where Speculative Masonry is practised. I am, etc.,

"W. H. LAURIE, G. Sec."

The result of this enquiry was doubtless communicated to Mr. Robertson, but he did not join the Lodge till some years after, on 25th December, 1849.

Bro. Robertson in later years was one of the most useful and prominent members of Lodge Fortrose. He occupied the Master's Chair during the years 1867-1868 and 1870-71, and continued in active membership till his death in 1871.

Bro. Robertson's father, Alec. Robertson, was initiated on 14th December, 1797, and his son, Ossian Robertson, on 2nd February, 1877, one of the rare examples of three generations entered in the Fortrose Lodge.

The shilling fines for neglect of giving notice of non-attendance imposed by the original By-laws occur frequently in the cash books and must have amounted to a very respectable sum yearly, although they were not always rigidly exacted. In the case of Hugh Brown, on 4th December, 1846, who "craved exemption in future from paying any fines, in consequence of the situation he now holds 'as Keeper of the Prison of Stornoway.'" the request was granted by the Brethren. On 28th December, 1863, the fine was reduced to 6d., and on 8th January, 1875, was finally abolished.

After a proposal to abolish fines in future was brought forward, on the motion of the Senior Warden, seconded by the Worshipful Substitute Master, it was agreed that instead of rescinding the rule having reference to fines, a resolution be passed meantime that until the Lodge reconsider and come to a final decision upon this subject no fines would be levied on Members absent from Statutory Meetings." On 6th August, 1880, "In consideration of the irregular attendance of the greater part of the members of the Lodge, Bro. Geo. Macleod gave notice that at next monthly meeting of the Lodge he would move that the fines for non-attendance be renewed, but Bro. McLeod after consideration agreed not to press his motion meantime." This is the last attempt to revive a rule which must have been exceedingly useful in the earlier days of the Lodge, when the membership was limited, although it was undoubtedly a thorn in the flesh to many of the Brethren.

The Foundation Stone of the Lews Castle was laid with Masonic honours upon the 30th November, 1847, the builder, Sir James Matheson, having shortly before purchased the Lews Estate from the Hon. J. A. Stewart MacKenzie. This important event in local history is thus chronicled in the Lodge Minutes:

"The Brethren having met pursuant to adjournment, and the Lodge being regularly constituted into an Apprentice Meeting, they then walked in procession along Kenneth street, up Francis street, and the street opposite the jail, till they came to the new road that leads to the Lews Lodge, proceeded along said road till they arrived at the new building in course of erection at the proprietor's residence, when the foundation stone thereof (after depositing several coins, documents and books, together with the names of the office bearers of the Lodge, in the cavity made in said stone), was laid with Masonic Honours. Thereafter the Brethren returned to the Lodge, along Bayhead street, when the Lodge was duly closed until seven o'clock in the evening, to celebrate the festival of St. Andrew's. At seven o'clock, the Brethren having met, the Lodge was regularly constituted into an Apprentice Meeting, and the evening was spent with conviviality, friendship and brotherly love." See p. 25.

On 5th May, 1848, we observe the following minute of another event of local interest: "The Brethren did not assemble at the Lodge this evening, having gone to witness the taking up of the 'Norge,' of Dronthelm, on the Sillp, being the first vessel taken thereon."

At a meeting of the office bearers of the Lodge, held on 8th August, 1848, it was "resolved that estimates be procured from Messrs. Laidlaw and Sons, Glasgow, and others, for introducing gas into the Mason Lodge, viz.: Two lights into the principal hall, one in each of the back rooms, two lobby lights, one in the room lately used as a reading room, and one at the gateway, when erected. Messrs. Laidlaw despatched their representative to Stornoway, and on the 3rd of November, 1848, a petition was presented in the Lodge from David Laidlaw, gas engineer in Glasgow, craving to be admitted a member. He was duly entered Apprentice, passed and raised. The Brethren evidently had a keen eye to business, in fact the methods used in adding to the membership of the Lodge seem in those days to have been somewhat unscrupulous, e.g., 7th December, 1848. "The Brethren having taken into consideration the trouble and expense which the Secretary is often put to in getting members to join the Lodge, they have resolved to allow him the sum of £2 per annum in addition to his salary, as a compensation for any advance he may make in such cases." The Secretary's salary now amounted to £10, but at a later date the salaries of both Secretary and Treasurer are finally defined at 21s. per annum, probably in order to discourage any such practices as those indicated above. How such illegal methods of swelling the membership could be permitted or even winked at by the office bearers of a Regular Lodge of Freemasons we cannot understand, as they were then as now contrary to all sentiment and practice of the Order.

From 1850 to 1855 the number of entrants almost reached vanishing point, these six years witnessing only twelve additions to Lodge Fortrose. As a natural consequence the funds of the Lodge were during these years at a very low ebb, so low, indeed, that on St. John's Day, 1851, charity had to be refused until "the funds of the Lodge would be in a more prosperous way." After this date the roll of membership is frequently purged, as many as fifteen names being expunged at one meeting for non-payment of dues.

1855.

During the years following 1855 the Star of Fortrose was again in the ascendant. In 1863-65 from 60 to 70 members were initiated, and the funds consequently attained to a greater respectability, as in addition to entrants' fees the revenue obtained from letting the hall was not inconsiderable. Among the tenants we have the United Presbyterian Church, upon the application of Messrs. Dundas Helm Tacksman, Holm, and Matthew Russell, merchant, Stornoway, who engaged the hall as yearly tenants.

1861.

On the 3rd May, 1861, "The Secretary produced to the Brethren a correspondence that took place in regard to shutting the Volunteers out of the hall recently without any recorded resolution to that effect, and the keeper of the Lodge having been called in, and his explanation heard, it was further explained by Bro. John McAulay that although the Secretary had been requested to answer Sergeant Shaw's letter on the subject, it appeared that he had omitted to do so, and that on the ground that it was necessary in terms of the rules to bring the matter first before the monthly meeting, as he had only received Sergeant Shaw's letter after the volunteers had been denied admittance into the hall, which the members of the meeting who authorized the same now regret, and beg to assure Bro. Captain Munro and his corps that no offence was intended by the circumstance complained of." The matter seems to have ended here. Similar tactics were adopted in connection with another body who occupied the hall in more recent days, with unfortunately more disastrous results. On the 7th September of the same year a request came before the Lodge from "the ladies of Stornoway" for the use of the hall to "display their fancy goods at the Volunteer Bazaar on the 20th 'nat." The gallantry of the Brethren forbade a refusal, no less than the desire to compensate in some manner for their former rude treatment of our National Defenders, and the request was unanimously granted.

1862.

On 6th June, 1862, the following occurs: "The usual formal intimation was given to the members to attend the meeting of the evening, but none attended, with the exception of Bro. John McAulay, P.M., and the Tyler; no apology but from Bros. Colin Morrison and R. Colthart. Consequently the Lodge for the monthly meeting of this evening could not be opened. It may, therefore, be considered irregular to fine absentees, but certainly the exemption from fines should not extend to the office bearers then in town, who so improperly absented themselves, and did not send their apology for doing so."

1864.

As the financial position of the Lodge was now fairly good, the Brethren began to think that something might be done in the way of providing new furniture and requisites for the better working of the Lodge and the comfort of the members. A motion was brought forward on 2nd December, 1864, "to the effect that it was necessary for the greater comfort of the Brethren during the time of refreshment at their meetings in future, instead of Black Bottles laid on the Tables, to have Crystal and Silver materials added to the furniture of the Lodge, and after a long discussion on the subject the motion was carried by a majority of the Brethren."

Two Committees were appointed, one to carry out necessary improvements on the building, and the other "to consider the necessity of obtaining new Jewels, as those presently in use, which date from 1769, are out of repair, and to write for price list of same. On 16th May, 1865, patterns of office bearers' Jewels were submitted, and on 16th November a set of 13 was finally purchased at a cost of £21. This set is still in use.

On 3rd December, 1865, "Bro. Robert Rankin, Inner Guard, explained to the Brethren that a new sword was much required for the use of the Lodge, and that the widow of the late Bro. J. R. Maciver was willing to dispose of a sword in her possession, which belonged to her husband, for the sum of one guinea, which sum the Brethren unanimously agreed should be paid her, and Bro. Rankin was instructed to procure the sword." It was agreed at a meeting on 1st December to provide new Sashes for the office bearers, and see them properly lettered. Bros. Allan Morison, Mal. Macdonald, John Chisholm and Alexander Murray were appointed the Sash Committee. In due time the Committee produced the new set of Sashes, and explained that the lettering of the Sashes was dispensed with by the Committee, as they had ascertained by correspondence with the South that it was not now customary to make them up in that style.

In the following year a scheme of general repairs upon the building was considered, and the Secretary and Treasurer were deputed to wait upon Mr. Graham M. Thomson, Inspector of the National Bank Buildings, to request his assistance to make out a plan and specification of the repairs "as indicated by the conversation at the meeting." In addition to the painting, papering and ventilating, etc. remitted to their consideration, the committee wished to suggest to the Lodge at their first meeting that the orchestra should be removed, and the main door to the hall heightened and widened. The "orchestra," it may be explained, was a small gallery placed above the centre door of the main hall for the accommodation of the musicians at dances or like functions, access to which was obtained from the upper landing. Mr. Thomson laid his plans and specifications before the Lodge, and it was unanimously agreed that all the repairs therein contained be executed immediately. The following offers were accepted: 1. For Mason work, Roderick Adam. 2. For Plaster work, James Nixon. 3. For Painter work, William Macleod, and 4. For Joiner work, Messrs. George and Malcolm Mackenzie. On October 5th of the same year the Architect, Mr. Graham Maitland Thomson, was admitted a member of the Society. The thorough overhauling of the building at this time necessitated the holding of some of the meetings elsewhere. That on 1st March, 1867, was held in the "Lewis Hotel," then occupied by Bro. Lachlan Ross, a member of the Lodge Fortrose, to whom the thanks of the Brethren were duly accorded, and a sum of money voted to be paid him as a compensation for any loss his ordinary business might have sustained in consequence of the greater part of the Hotel being taken up by the Brethren.

In 1866, at a meeting held on the 2nd March, the practice of passing round the Charity Box, which since then has never been dropped, was initiated. It was moved by Bro. John Chisholm, seconded by Bro. Malcolm Macdonald, and unanimously agreed to, "that a Charity Box should be produced at every future meeting of the Brethren, for those of the Brethren who feel disposed to contribute to the assistance of a distressed Brother. It was accordingly produced, and at the close of the Lodge the sum of one pound, eight shillings and sixpence was found deposited in the Box."

There is no allusion in the minutes to the working of the Lodge Ritual, or to Lodges of Instruction, until the year 1868, when Bro. Sergeant Craig, a member of "Canongate & Leith, No. 5," and affiliated in Lodge Fortrose on 6th December, 1867, gave notice of a motion for next monthly meeting to appoint a Committee "to prepare and submit to the Lodge" a Ritual for the proper regular and harmonious working of it, with the ultimate purpose of forming Lodges of instruction. The office bearers, Bro. A. Robertson, Master; Capt. D. Mackenzie, P. M.; Colin Morison, D. M.; Norman MacIver, S. M.; Malcolm Macdonald, S. W.; Hector M. L. Ross, J. W.; John Anderson, Secretary, and John Chisholm, Treasurer, were, along with Bro. Craig, appointed a Committee for this purpose.

Bro. Craig, who was a most enthusiastic member of the Lodge, and was deeply versed in Freemasonry, gave during the following year a series of five lectures on Masonic subjects: 1. An Introductory Lecture on the Nature of Freemasonry. 2. On the Apprentice Degree. 3. On the Fellow Craft Degree. 4. On the Master Mason Degree. The subject of the fifth lecture does not appear. "A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Bro. Craig for his able and interesting lectures, and for the trouble he has taken in getting up the subjects of the course. On a suggestion from one of the members, Bro. Craig kindly agreed to permit the Course of Lectures to be sent to the Freemasons' magazine for publication." Bro. Craig became Master of the Lodge in 1871, and occupied the chair for three years. He held during his term of office regular instruction Lodges, alternating Lodge working with readings from Masonic publications, and by his efforts raised the ceremonial to a high standard of excellence.

On 5th June, 1868, "The R. W. M. proposed the memory of the late Bro. Lord H. P. Brougham, who died at Cannes on the 14th of May last, in the ninetieth year of his age, and who was initiated in this Lodge on 20th August, 1799; and in eloquent terms alluded to His Lordship's abilities as a lawyer, a statesman and an author, also to his laudable efforts to better the condition of his less fortunate fellow men.

For St. John's Day of the same year Bro. Robert Wilson, Gas Manager, composed a song, which was set to music, and sung with much taste and feeling by Bro. William Macleod, and the appreciation of the Brethren was so great that, on motion of Bro. Wm. Craig, Bro. Wilson was unanimously appointed "Poet Laureate to the Lodge." About this time various paintings and portraits were presented to the Lodge by several generous Brethren. One of these paintings represents the great capture of whales in Stornoway Harbour in the year 1859, and was handed over to the Lodge by Bro. Donald Munro, Chamberlain of the Lews. Several portraits were also donated by Bro. Malcolm Macdonald, among them a full-sized portrait of the late Grand Master Mason of Scotland, Bro. John Whyte Melville.

A communication was received upon 7th May, 1869, from Bro. Geo. Mackenzie, Antigonish, Nova Scotia (who left the island of Lews in 1811), making enquiries as to the date of his own initiation, and those of Lord Brougham and others. The Secretary was instructed to reply to Bro. Mackenzie's enquiries. A reply from this Brother was read before the Lodge on the 3rd September, and is certainly very remarkable. Bro. Mackenzie thanks the Lodge for its communication to him informing him of the date of his initiation in Fortrose Lodge, 26th February, 1798, seventy-one years before. In this year, 1869, the Brethren celebrated the Centenary of Lodge Fortrose with a procession, followed by a supper.

1871.

At a meeting held on 3rd February, 1871, a communication from Mr. D. Munro, Chamberlain, was read, suggesting "that the appearance, accommodation and locality of the Masonic Hall of Stornoway, compared with the Town Halls in places of less note, was not worthy of the age, and that a more central position would be the Fen between Mr. John McKenzie's and Mr. James McKenzie's premises on Cromwell street, otherwise better known as "Crichton's Fen," in the event of an Architect whom he expected by the first steamer from the South, fixing upon the Masonic Buildings as a suitable site for the "Nicholson's Institution," and should the members of the Lodge and those interested in "Crichton's Fen" be disposed to sell and purchase. On the subject being freely and deliberately discussed, the Brethren found that it would be premature to make any definite proposals to Mr. Munro at present, and appointed a Committee to confer with him at an early date and report.

On the 25th April, 1871, we have a note of the decease of the R. W. M. Bro. Alex. Robertson, shipowner, who joined the Lodge in 1849, was Master for four years, and had been a regular attendant in the Lodge up to a few weeks before his death. "At a special meeting on the 25th April, after a fitting eulogium being passed upon the deceased by Bro. D. M. Craig, it was unanimously agreed that the Brethren of the Lodge Fortrose should attend at the funeral of the late R. W. M. as a Lodge of Masons in due form, and a Committee was appointed to ascertain the will of the deceased's relatives thereto." On 28th April "the committee reported that the widow and relatives were quite agreeable and grateful for any mark of respect and honour which the members of the Fortrose Lodge might be inclined to make in conveying his remains to their final resting place in Sandwick Cemetery. The Brethren then marched out of the Hall in Masonic Order, and proceeded to the house of the deceased, from thence, after receiving the body of the R. W. M., to the Cemetery, returning to the Hall at 3.45 p.m."

The shortest period of Mastership we have on record is that of Bro. Napier Campbell, who was elected to the Chair on 27th December, 1875, and on account of some fancied hostility on the part of his office bearers, resigned on the 15th of February, 1876. Bro. J. N. Anderson was appointed to fill the vacancy upon 3rd March, and retained the office for four years.

1877.

Bro. Angus G. Nicholson stated at a meeting held on 6th July, 1877, "that a number of natives of the Highlands resident in Glasgow, members of our Order, were desirous of having a Free Mason Lodge instituted there, principally for the benefit of Brethren connected with the Highlands, and in which as far as practicable the Gaelic language should be used in the Ceremonies and at the meetings," and he produced a Petition intended to be presented to Grand Lodge to this effect. The Lodge cordially concurred in the objects of the Petition.

A proof of the carefulness of the office bearers and the strictness of the testing of the visitors is afforded by a letter read about this time from the Secretary of the Greenock St. John's Lodge, No. 175, to the R. W. M. It states that "Bro. John Buchanan, who lately failed to be admitted as a Visiting Member in the Fortrose Lodge, is a full degree member of the Greenock St. John's, and that he is now receiving instruction with a view that he will be able next time he is in Stornoway to give good evidence of his Craft."

Among other Presentations made to the Lodge during this period was one from Bro. Dennis Murray, of Londonderry, "who presented this, his Mother Lodge, in person with a handsome metal casting of the National Coat of Arms, painted and gilded in chaste colours, remarking that it was made on board Her Majesty's Turret Ship Temeraire, in the Sea of Marmora. The thanks of the Lodge were heartily accorded to Bro. Murray."

For many years after this the Lodge pursued the even tenor of its way without passing through any great crisis or undergoing any noteworthy experiences. It had, of course, its ups and downs, its years of prosperity and its periods of decline. In 1885, for example, the number of entrants was only 4, while the following year the figures jumped up to 33.

On 11th November, 1887, there is minuted the funeral of an old office bearer of the Lodge. "The Brethren buried with Masonic honours the mortal remains of Bro. Roderick Adam, mason, who joined the Lodge on the 6th April, 1826, and died on 9th Nov., 1887, aged 89. The remains of the Bro. Tyler were interred with every mark of respect, as became a faithful, true and worthy Brother." Bro. Adsm occupied the post of Tyler for the last eighteen years of his life, and had a longer connection with Lodge Fortrose than any other Brother mentioned in the records, with the exception of Bro. John Macaulay.

Past Master, who was a member in good standing without a break, from his initiation in 1802 till failing health finally compelled him to cease his attendance in 1867. This constitutes the Lodge record for active membership.

The large painting which hangs in the Lodge room was presented to the Brethren in May, 1888, by Lady Matheson. This interesting work represents the laying of the foundation stone of Lewis Castle by the Freemasons on St. Andrew's Day, 1847, and is a perfect gallery of old Stornoway portraits, a separate sitting having been taken for nearly every head in a group numbering 84. We have been informed by the Rev. Alexander Oliver, who was present upon the occasion, that the artist, Mr. Mason, although accounted no great colourist, still was an adept at catching a likeness. Sir James Matheson wondered at first what end the good man was contemplating by so much labour, but he probably came to understand when he was asked to purchase the painting.

1891.

On the 14th August, 1891, the Secretary moved "that to conform to rule and authority of Grand Lodge, the Lodge do add to its working that of the Mark Degree, which was unanimously carried, and on 23rd October a Mark Master Lodge was constituted, and ten Brethren were admitted to the Honourable Degree," the first Mark Lodge held since 1799. In the same year we have the first mention of a visitation by a deputation from the Provincial Grand Lodge of Ross and Cromarty, which had been shortly before re-formed, under the command of Sir Hector Munro, of Foulis, R. W. Prov. G. M., and Sir Arthur McKenzie, of Coul, R. W. Prov. G. D. M.

To the decorations of the Hall were added a set of armorial bearings belonging to the Stornoway Trade Incorporations, donated to the town by Bro. J. L. Robertson, H. M. Inspector of Schools, and being in the Masonic Hall for safe keeping until such time as the Police Commissioners should be in possession of a Town Hall wherein to accommodate them. "Agreed accordingly," says the minute of 20th March, 1891, "that the required space be granted on the condition that the shields be suspended without cost to the Lodge, that they be hung as directed without damage to the building, and that no responsibility for damage or fire risk be attachable to the Lodge. Also that the Shields remain in custody of the Brotherhood until the condition specified in the Commissioner's letter warrants removal." The following is a description of these interesting "Coats of Arms of Stornoway Trade Incorporations":—

"The reviving interest in the study of heraldry, which has led to the proposal to hold an Heraldic Exhibition, finds illustration in a series of shields now on view at Messrs. Hay & Lyall's. The shields, which have been executed in carton-plierre with the well-known skill of the firm, are eleven in number, and bear the armorial ensigns of the Ten Trade Incorporations and the United or Convener Court of Stornoway.

"It is a remarkable fact, worthy to rank among the 'Curiosities of Heraldry,' that in 1772 the crafts (incorporated presumably long before) of the remote and not over opulent burgh of Stornoway should have had so much public spirit and appreciation of heraldic propriety as to apply to the Lyon Office for formal grants of arms. The Trades of Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, Perth, Inverness, etc., are in the habit of using emblems displayed on shields; but such have no authority. indeed, their employment is (under Acts of the Scottish Parliament of date 1592 and 1672) distinctly illegal, the Lyon being empowered to 'escheat to His Majesty all the movable goods and gear in which such fabricated bearings are represented,' and the users thereof becoming liable to be 'incarcerat in the narrest prisone thairin to remain ypon thair awin charges during the plesour of the said Lyoun.' In Aberdeen and in Stornoway alone—of all the Scottish burghs—do we find Trade Incorporations with armorial ensign duly registered in the Lyon Office. The bearings of the Seven Aberdeen Trades are described in Mr. E. Bain's 'Merchant and Craft

Guilds, and are shown, with less accuracy than is usual in such representations, in the windows of Trinity Hall.

"The blazons of the Stornoway coats—dated 29th August, 1772, are as follows:—

1. SMITHS—Azure, a hammer in pale, and in chief a crown, both proper.
2. TAILORS—Azure, a pair of scissors expanded in saltire, their points in chief, argent.
3. WEAVERS—Azure, a leopard's head affronte proper, holding a shuttle in its mouth, argent.
4. SHIP CARPENTERS—Azure, a ship ready to be launched, proper ensigned with the colours of Scotland.
5. WRIGHTS—Azure, a wright's square and pair of compasses, their legs interlaced, proper.
6. COOPERS—Azure, an axe and adze in saltire proper.
7. SHOEMAKERS—Azure, a cutting knife erected, and in chief a crown, both proper.
8. MASONS—Azure, a mason's square and a pair of compasses, their legs interlaced, argent.
9. DYERS—Azure, a pair of large dressing scissors, their points in chief, a little expanded, argent.
10. HECKLERS—Azure, a heckle argent.
11. UNITED CORPORATIONS—Gules, two dexter hands in fess, coupled above the wrist, grasping each other, proper.

Mottos—Grace, Peace and Unity, above; God's Providence is our Inheritance, below.

"The shields are being presented to the burgh of Stornoway by Mr. J. L. Robertson, LL.B., H. M. Inspector of Schools. At a meeting of the Burgh Commissioners held last week, a resolution was minuted heartily accepting the gift, and expressing high appreciation of Mr. Robertson's antiquarian researches and generosity towards his native town."—Aberdeen Daily Free Press, 16th March, 1891.

1894.

On March 16th, 1894, the following communication was submitted to the Lodge by the R. W. M.:

Toronto, Canada, January 27th, 1894.

The W. M., etc., etc.:

My Dear Sir and Bro.—While in Scotland last autumn I found to my surprise and delight that my grandfather, Hector Sinclair, from 1800-1821 the Farmer and Tenant of Goat Hill, had been a member of your Lodge. I regret that I did not learn the fact until after my departure from Stornoway on my journey South. To the members of my family and my Brethren of Canada it has been a matter of delight to know that my maternal ancestor was a member of the Craft. May I hope that the members of Fortrose Lodge will be pleased to know that a descendant of one of their members has occupied many positions of trust in connection with Masonry in Canada, having served in nearly all positions from that of I. G. of a Lodge up to the honourable position of Grand Master of the Grand Lodge.

I therefore take the liberty of sending you a photograph of myself and an excellent picture of my grandfather, Bro. Hector Sinclair. I promised the Secretary of your Lodge that I would endeavour to be present at one of your Lodge meetings when next I visit Stornoway.

Kindly convey to my Brethren of No. 108 my fraternal regards, and say that although I have not had the pleasure of meeting them in Masonic Communion, I yet have fraternal feelings for them all and kindly thoughts for the Lodge in which one of my ancestors first saw Craft Light. Yours fraternally.

J. ROSS ROBERTSON, P. G. M. of Canada.

It was agreed unanimously, on the motion of the R. W. M., that Bro. Ross Robertson's communication be engrossed on the Lodge records, also that the Lodge accept the photos, and that these be suspended in a conspicuous and safe position in the Lodge room, as an interesting and significant incident in the history of the Lodge. Further, that the Lodge record its recognition of Bro. Robertson's courtesy and brotherly feeling, thank him heartily for his recollection of his Ancestor's Mother Lodge, congratulate him on his prosperity and the high position to which he has attained, wish him every continuance of that prosperity, and extend to him a very hearty welcome on his return to the Lewis.

At a meeting held on 7th Feb., 1896, the Secretary read the following letter: Dear Sir,—The Committee engaged last week in framing Regulations applicable to the admission of patients into the Lewis Hospital unanimously adopted the following, which is of special interest to the members of your Lodge: "When their parents or guardians are in such circumstances as will not allow of their paying for treatment, children under 14 years of age of Masons who are members of the Fortrose Lodge, No. 108, Grand Lodge of Scotland of A. F. and A. M., are to be admitted and treated free of charge. This free treatment is limited to one boy and one girl at a time, and the patients entitled to it must be sufferers from acute and not from chronic or incurable disease. A cot in each ward will be selected on which these children shall have a first claim, this cot shall be called the "Sinclair" or "Ross Robertson" cot. You are aware of how very generously Mr. John Ross Robertson, of The Evening Telegram, Toronto, has acted towards the Hospital. That out of his high filial respect for the memory of his mother (who was born in Goathill Farm House in the year 1808) he has, through one of the best London firms, completely furnished the two wards of the Hospital. In recognition of his munificent gift the one modest stipulation he makes is, that the rule just quoted with reference to the children of members of your Lodge, circumstanced as in it described, should be incorporated with those relating to the internal management of the Institution. In connection with this request he mentions the fact that his grandfather, Mr. Hector Sinclair, also of Goathill, was a member of your old and worthy Lodge. Mr. Ross Robertson's interest in sick and suffering children is most remarkable. He has visited every Sick Children's Hospital in the world, is Chairman of the Directors of the Sick Children's Hospital of Toronto, and has himself built and endowed a magnificent Convalescent Home in connection with it, besides all this, as you know, he is a worthy Mason, standing at the very head of your order in all Canada. Yours faithfully, (Dr.) Murdo Mackenzie."

The intelligence conveyed to the Lodge through Dr. Mackenzie's communication was received by the brethren with the most sincere and enthusiastic appreciation, and it was resolved unanimously that the Lodge accept and cherish the privilege and trust conferred upon it by Bro. Ross Robertson, and that the Secretary so notify Dr. Mackenzie, Secretary to the Hospital Committee. Further, that in recognition of Bro. Ross Robertson's generosity and appreciation of his interest in the membership of the Fortrose Lodge, as well as in acknowledgement of the principles by which he is being actuated, this Lodge undertakes to annually donate a subscription to the funds of the Hospital, the amount of which to be governed by the condition of the Lodge funds, and fixes the donation for the current year at two guineas, which amount, however, is to be no precedent for future grants. Agreed further, on the motion of Bro. W. A. Ross, seconded by Bro. Mal. Macleod, "That Dr. Mackenzie's letter be engrossed in the Lodge records and that Bro. Secretary be instructed to communicate with Bro. Ross Robertson, transmitting him an extract from said minute, thanking him in most cordial terms for his generous and sincere evidence of interest in the Fortrose Lodge, assuring him of the appreciation of the brethren in recognition of this mark of his brotherly benevolence, and expressing the hope that he may be long spared to advance the good work with which his name is associated.

In the minutes of St. Johns Day, 27th December, 1899, an interesting event is noted. "The Right Worshipful Master, on behalf of himself and the Brethren of the Lodge, presented the Immediate Past Master, Bro. Hector Smith, with a Past Master's massive gold jewel, suitably inscribed." Although the presentation of a jewel to the Past Master is customary in many lodges, this is the first instance we find of such presentation in the records of the Fortrose Lodge.

At a Funeral Lodge held on 26th December, 1900, "The R. W. M. made a feeling allusion to the late Brother Edward Tucker, a Past Master of Fortrose Lodge, whose sudden death occurred on Sunday last, 25th inst. The R. W. M. stated that the deceased Brother had expressed a wish to receive the last Masonic Burial Rites, and that he, with Bros. H. Smith, I. P. M., and W. A. Ross, Secretary, had called upon Brother Tucker's widow and intimated on behalf of the Brethren of Lodge Fortrose that they would pay their last tribute of respect to their lamented Brother by attending the funeral to Sandwick Cemetery on Friday, 28th inst. The following minute of condolence was sent to Mrs. Tucker and family: "The Fortrose Lodge of Freemasons desires to express the universal feeling of deep regret aroused among the Brethren by the death of Past Master Tucker, which took place with such alarming suddenness on Sunday, the 25th ult. The late Brother had occupied the Master's Chair for the longest unbroken period in the Lodge's history, and had ruled the Lodge and performed the Ceremonies with a grace, tact and impressiveness which was perfection itself. By his strict integrity of character, uprightness of life, forbearance and humility, he gave the Brethren an example of adherence to the great moral precepts he inculcated, and won the respect and affection of every member of the Order. The profound sympathy of the Lodge is with his bereaved widow and children in their affliction."

On 28th December "The Brethren assembled at the Hall at 1 o'clock p.m., and having formed into procession, proceeded to St. Peter's Church, where a short service was held. Thereafter the Brethren took possession of the remains of the late Brother Tucker and accompanied them to Sandwick Cemetery, where they were interred with Masonic Honours."

The Brethren did not have an opportunity of receiving Bro. Ross Robertson within Lodge Fortrose till August 20th, 1900, when a large meeting of the Lodge assembled to greet their distinguished visitor and welcome him to his Ancestor's Mother Lodge. The Lodge being opened, the R. W. M. introduced Bro. Ross Robertson, Past Grand Master of Canada, who thereupon gave a most interesting and educative lecture on the origin of Modern Speculative Masonry, and an account of Masonry in Canada, with particular reference to the Tramp Mason. He also intimated his desire to become an affiliated member along with his son, Bro. John Sinclair Robertson, of Ionic Lodge, No. 25, G. R. O.

These petitions were regularly submitted to the Lodge on 2nd November, and were heartily and unanimously granted.

During this year the Main Hall, the Ante Rooms and Janitor's Rooms were painted and decorated, the contracts of Bros. Samuel Ranger and Angus Macleod being accepted for the Main Hall and Janitor's Rooms respectively, with that of Brother A. Bain for renewing the gas fittings. These Brethren executed their various contracts in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, and were awarded a vote of thanks by the Lodge. Various other repairs upon the building were carried out, and additions made to the Lodge Furniture, at a total cost for the year of about £150.

On Saturday, 27th February, 1904, the Brethren met in the Lodge Room and thereafter attended the funeral of the late Brother P. S. Macleod, Substitute Master. A party of eighteen Brethren accompanied the remains to the place of interment in the Island of Little Bernera, and paid the last tribute of Masonic respect. At a meeting held on 4th March, 1904, "On the motion of the R. W. M., it was unanimously agreed to minute the great loss which the Lodge had sustained by the death of their Substitute Master, Bro. P. S. Macleod, who for a period of nine years had been closely associated with the Lodge, and gave it his hearty and enthusiastic support. The Brethren desire to record their high appreciation of the manner in which he performed the duties of the various offices held by him in the Lodge, their extreme regret at his early demise, and their genuine sympathy with his relatives."

During the last two decades the Fortrose Lodge has passed through a period of uneventful prosperity. Her Masters have been enthusiastic and hard working, her office-bearers capable and loyal, while the Brethren have been regular and punctual in their attendance. The number of entrants, notwithstanding careful scrutiny and selection, has frequently mounted up to 27 and 28 per annum, and for the last few years the average has been 23. The general funds have steadily gained in respectability, and the scope of the Lodge charities has been proportionately extended. During last year (1904) the substantial sum of £75 18s. 6d. was distributed among poor and distressed members of Lodge Fortrose and their relatives.

A record of the transactions of the Freemason Lodge in the small town of Stornoway, must necessarily, on account of obvious limitations, be of more local than Masonic interest. It is, however, a misfortune that the Brethren in the earlier stages of the Life of Lodge Fortrose were so secretively inclined that they followed the teachings of Masonry only too literally in this respect. As a consequence the minutes are reduced in most cases to a bare mention of the opening and closing of the Lodge. The ordinary business is never, or very rarely, committed to paper. After the second birth, in 1797 the names of Brethren taking the various degrees are introduced, but it is not until well into the nineteenth century that we have full records of all Lodge transactions. The minutes of later days have not, however, the charm of age, the quaintness of spelling, or the piquancy of language which renders records of past centuries so interesting and attractive to the present day reader, be he Masonic or non-Masonic.

One fact we can glean from a study of the Members' Roll. All that has been best and most intellectual among the old aristocracy of Stornoway may be found therein. The great majority of the business men who have made our town what it is, and by their foresight and business acumen raised it above the level of a fishing village, have passed through the portals of Lodge Fortrose or are descended from Brethren who have taken a prominent part in its deliberations.

The discipline maintained in a Freemason Lodge, the business insight gained in discussing and regulating its laws and existence, the opportunities afforded for expressing individual opinions and suggestions, the accuracy essential to the proper conduct of its ceremonies, undoubtedly are all powerful factors in directing the energies and moulding the characters of the younger Brethren.

The simple, moral teaching of Freemasonry, which places prominently before the world the practice of human kindness and charity, forbearance and brotherly love, and has from remote ages tended to foster knowledge, promote education and further all schemes for the common good, without reference to political opinions, private obligations or religious creeds, has made the Society what it has been, a great moral and social factor in the complex problem of civilization.

May it therefore ever be our desire and aim, as Brethren of the Fortrose Lodge, to make the influence of Freemasonry a power for good in the community, and as individual members of our Ancient and Honourable Craft to continue to keep before our eyes the sacred dictates of Truth, of Honour, and of Virtue.
