A PLEASANT CHAT.

"With thee conversing, I forget all time."

MILTON.

A GUIDE TO HAPPINESS AND PROSPERITY.

Who will not keep a penny shall never have any.

GREAT works are performed not by strength, but by perseverance.—Johnson.

WHEN you have bought one fine thing you must buy ten more, that your appearance may be all of a piece.

EMPLOYMENT so certainly produces cheerfulness that I have known a man come home in high spirits from a funeral, merely because he had the management of it.—Bishop Horne.

WEALTH is like a viper, which is harmless if a man knows how to take hold of it; but if he does not, it will twine around his hand and bite him.—St. Clement.

FRUGALITY is good and to be highly recommended, if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last is bestowing them to the benefit of others that need. The first without the last begets covetousness; the last without the first begets prodigality.—W. Penn.

He that hath it and will not keep it; He that wants it and will not seek it; He that drinks and is not dry, Shall want money as well as I.

IT is no merit to accomplish an object by difficult instruments when easy ones are at hand, or to reach an end by a circuitous road when there is a straight course. Michael Angelo, being told of an artist who painted with his fingers, exclaimed, "Why does not the block-head make use of his pencils?"

A MAN'S best help is himself, his own heart, his resolute purpose—it cannot be done by proxy. A man's mind may be aroused by another, but he must mould his own character. What if a man fails in one thing? Let him try again—he must quarry his own nature. Let him try hard, and try again, for he does not know what he can do till he tries.

IF you compute the sum of human happiness in any given day, you will find that it was composed of small attentions and kind words which made the heart swell and stirred into health that sour film of misanthropy which is apt to coagulate on the stream of our inward life as surely as we dwell in heart apart from our fellows.

IF you wish to be happy, have a small house and a large balance at your banker's; if you wish to be unhappy, adopt the opposite plan. But this rule is to be taken with reference to means. The principle applies, but not the degree, to the man of twenty thousand and the man of two hundred a year. To be overhoused and underbalanced is an evil in all conditions, and disturbs both sound sleep and good digestion.

THE reason why men succeed who mind their own business is because they have little competition.

THE Stoical scheme of supplying our wants by lopping off our desires, is like cutting off our feet when we want shoes.

Few things are impracticable in themselves; and it is for want of application, rather than of means, that men fail of success.—Rocheffoucault.

THE mere scarcity of money (so that actual wants are provided) is not poverty—it is the bitter draught to owe money which we cannot pay.—Sir Walter Scott.

IF rich, it is easy enough to conceal our wealth; but if poor, it is not quite so easy to conceal poverty. We shall find that it is less difficult to hide a thousand guineas than one hole in our coat.

HE that does not know those things which are of use and necessity for him to know is but an ignorant man, whatever he may know besides.—Tillotson.

Neither a borrower nor a lender be, For loan oft loses both itself and friend, And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.

RICHES are to society what food is to the body. Should any one of the members of the body absorb the nutriment intended for the whole, the body would perish utterly; for it is held together only by the requisite distribution of nourishment to the divers parts. In the same manner, the general harmony of society is maintained only by the interchange of services between the rich and the poor.

THERE is a fretting habit, much recommended by men of business, and of great use to them, of writing the evening before the duties of the day in a book of Agenda. If this is done at all by intellectual men with reference to their pursuits, it ought to be done in a very broad, loose way, never minutely. An intellectual worker ought never to make it a matter of conscience (in intellectual labour) to do a predetermined quantity of little things. This sort of conscientiousness frets and worries, and is the enemy of all serenity of thought.—Hamerton.

I WILL suppose that you have no friends to share or rejoice in your success in life—that you cannot look back to those to whom you owe gratitude, or forward to those to whom you ought to afford protection; but it is no less incumbent on you to move steadily in the path of duty, for your active exertions are due not only to society but to the Being who made you a member of it.—Sir Walter Scott.

Seeking for Truth.

*Before thy mystic altar, heavenly Truth,
I kneel in manhood, as I knelt in youth;
Thus let me kneel, till this dull form decay,
And life's last shade be brightened by thy ray:—
Then shall my soul, now lost in clouds below,
Soar without bound, without consuming glow.*

SIR WM. JONES.

SINGLE LIFE AND MARRIED LIFE.

Men are but children of a larger growth.—DRYDEN.

"MARRIAGE," says Dr. Johnson, "is the best state for a man in general; and every man is a worse man in proportion as he is unfit for the married state."

*"A man will spend and aye mend,
If his wife be ought;
But a man will spare and aye keep oare,
If his wife be nought."*

AMONGST the relics of the past preserved in St.-Martin's-in-the-Fields is a whipping-post, presented to the parish about 1600, which was used for the punishment of men who ill-treated or deserted their wives. This post formerly stood, with a pair of stocks, at the lower end of Trafalgar Square. Its wholesome correction was last administered in 1652.

WE may admire the wit, without acknowledging the truth, of the repartee uttered by a bachelor who, when his friend reproached him for his celibacy, adding that bachelorship ought to be taxed by the Government, replied, "There I agree with you, for it is quite a luxury!"

AMONGST our industrious and frugal forefathers it was a maxim that a young woman should never be married until she had spun herself a set of body, table, and bed linen. From this custom all unmarried women were termed spinsters, an appellation they still retain in all our law proceedings.

THE good wife is none of our dainty dames who love to appear in a variety of suits every day new; as if a good gown, like a stratagem in war, were to be used but once. But our good wife sets up a sail according to the keel of her husband's estate; and if of high parentage, she does not so remember what she was by birth, that she forgets what she is by match. The good wife commandeth her husband, in any equal matter, by constantly obeying him. It was always observed that what the English gained of the French in battle by valour, the French regained of the English in cunning by treaties. So if the husband should chance by his power in his passion to prejudice his wife's right, she wisely knoweth by compounding and complying to recover and rectify it again.—Fuller.

ACCORDING to Mulhall, in each year in England 15 people out of every thousand marry. Of each 1,000 men who marry, 861 are bachelors and 139 are widowers; while of each 1,000 women, only 98 have been married before, and 902 are spinsters. Twelve marriages out of every 100 are second marriages.

THESE marriages generally abound most with love and constancy that are preceded by a long courtship. The passion should strike root and gather strength before marriage be engrafted on it. A long course of hopes and expectations fixes the idea in our minds, and habituates us to a fondness of the person beloved.—Addison.

CRUSTY old bachelors say that "Courtship is bliss, but matrimony is blister." They say, too, that Adam's wife was rightly named Eve, because man's day of happiness was drawing to a close. They deny the ancient proverb in which even "Old Time" was made to yield to Love. Their view is that Time conquers Love in the great majority of cases. "L'amour fait passer le temps; mais le temps fait passer l'amour."

IT seems at times odd enough that, while young ladies are so sedulously taught all the accomplishments that a husband disregards, they are never taught the great one he would prize. They are taught to be exhibitors, he wants a companion. He wants neither a singing animal, nor a drawing animal, nor a dancing animal; he wants a talking animal. But to talk they are never taught; all they know of it is slander, and that

Home, Sweet Home.

*Cling to thy home! if there the meanest shed
Yield thee a hearth and shelter for thy head,
And some poor plot with vegetables stored
Be all that Heaven allots thee for a board,
Unsavoury bread, and herbs that scattered grow
Wild on the river bank or mountain brow,—
Yet e'en this cheerless mansion shall provide
More heart's repose than all the world beside.*—FROM THE GREEK.

"comes by nature."—Godolphin.

AN annuity of over fifty pounds was left to the bell-ringers of Bath Abbey by Lieut.-Col. Nash, "provided they should muffle the clappers of the bells of the said abbey, and ring them with doleful accentuation from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on each anniversary of his wedding-day, and during the same number of hours, only with a merry peal, on the anniversary of the day which afforded him a happy release from domestic tyranny and wretchedness."

EVERY woman has some chance to marry. It may be one to fifty, or it may be ten to one that she will. Representing her entire chance at one hundred, at certain points of her progress in time it is found to be in the following ratio:—

Between the ages of 15 and 20 years	...	14 $\frac{1}{2}$ %
"	20 " 25 "	52 "
"	25 " 30 "	18 "
"	30 " 35 "	15 $\frac{1}{2}$ "
"	35 " 40 "	3 $\frac{1}{2}$ "
"	40 " 45 "	2 $\frac{1}{2}$ "
"	45 " 50 "	$\frac{3}{4}$ of 1 "
"	50 " 56 "	$\frac{1}{4}$ of 1 "

After sixty it is one-tenth of one per cent., or one chance in a thousand.

Years and Days.

THE length of the year is strictly expressed by the space of time taken by the earth to revolve round the sun: namely, 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 49 seconds, and 7 tenths of a second. For convenience of reckoning, however, it has been found best to make the year end with a day instead of a fraction of one, lumping the fractions together so as to make a day among themselves. Such is the origin of the leap-year, of which 1892 is one, when an extra day is given to February.

The true solar day is the interval of time which elapses between two consecutive returns of the same terrestrial meridian to the sun. By reason of the inclined position of the ecliptic and the unequal progressive motion of the earth in its orbit, it is not always of the same length. The mean solar day is therefore employed for all civil purposes. This is the time in which the earth would make one revolution on its axis as compared with the sun, if the earth moved at an equable rate in the plane of the equator. The subdivision of the day into twenty-four parts or hours has prevailed since the remotest ages. Europeans in general, begin the civil day at midnight. Some nations have chosen sunrise, and others sunset, as the beginning of the day.

Sun rising and setting are here given in Greenwich time. For local time at Dublin subtract 25 m.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

BEFORE January is at an end a few flowers are in bloom. Train neatly roses, clematis, honey suckle, and other creeping plants. Any still unplanted bulbs, such as the tulip, narcissus, etc., should be put in the ground during the first open weather. Any bulbs planted in the close of last year, and now appearing above ground, should be looked to; it is well to shelter the more valuable sorts by layers of fern leaves from frost and snow. Delicate plants must be taken particular care of at this time. Unless they are properly protected, they are in more danger of being harmed by frost, now that the sun has more power, though they are less liable to be harmed by damp. In houses cinerarias, primulas, etc., will now be in flower. If the weather permits, sow early peas and beans in sheltered borders. Should bees be kept, feed them, if the weight of the hive shows that they require feeding. After each fall shake the snow off evergreens, which are much harmed by alternate freezing and thawing of snow water.

Two Little Old Ladies.

*TWO little old ladies, one grave, one gay,
In the self-same cottage lived day by day,
One could not be happy, "because," she said,
"So many children were hungry for bread;"
And she really had not the heart to smile,
When the world was so wicked all the while.*

*The other old lady smiled all day long,
As she knitted, or sewed, or crooned a song.
She had not time to be sad, she said,
When hungry children were cryin' for bread.
So she knit, and knitted, and gave away,
And sectare the world grew better each day.*

*Two little old ladies, one grave, one gay:
Now which do you think chose the wisest way?*

At Portsmouth.

Two large men-of-war—the Royal Sovereign and the Royal Arthur—were launched at Portsmouth on the 26th of February, 1891, the ceremony being performed by the Queen. The weather, which had been foggy for several days at Portsmouth, was brilliantly fine and sunny. The occasion was one which attracted a large attendance of officials and distinguished persons, but though clear at Portsmouth it was still foggy in London, which had the effect of diminishing the number of travellers by the numerous special trains provided by the railway companies.

The scene at the dockyard, however, was one of great interest, the varied uniforms of the land and sea forces presenting a most brilliant spectacle as they lined the Queen's route to the dockyard.

Very soon after the arrival at the dockyard of the Queen, who was in excellent health and spirits, preparations were completed for launching the two important additions to the British Navy—vessels in every way model specimens of their class—and the ceremony of releasing the one vessel from the stocks and the entrance of the other into the waters of the Solent, were accomplished without any difficulty. Her Majesty returned to Windsor immediately after the ceremony.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

WHENEVER the weather is favourable, set about any work that was hindered in January by frost or snow. Creepers with drooping flowers, such as glyceria, cobeia scandens, etc., should now be trained horizontally, while roses and others are to be trained upright. Pinks, polyanthus, thrift, box, and all plants employed for edging borders may be moved in suitable weather. On mild days, admit air freely to auriculas, pelargoniums, and other hardy pot-plants. In the last week of the month sow mignonette and hardy annuals in a warm border for subsequent transplanting. Sow radishes in a sheltered border, but protect them with fern leaves or light litter and uncover at every favourable interval.

Peas sown now will be ready for the table about as soon as those planted in November, and will yield a more abundant crop. Plant them in drills wide at the bottom, and spread the seed regularly. It is a common error to sow them too thickly and in narrow drills; the wide drill is particularly important for marrow-fats and other branching sorts. Sow Bath or green Egyptian cos-lettuce. Currant and raspberry bushes unfold their leaves at the end of this month. Prepare netting and other protection for wall-trees, and use it when the buds begin to swell during the prevalence of north-easterly winds. Before the buds are much swelled, prune apricots, peaches, nectarines, and plums; and also apples, pears, cherries, etc.

The Cup of Cold Water.

A YOUNG Englishwoman was sent to France to be educated in a Huguenot school in Paris. A few evenings before the fatal massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day she and some of her young companions were taking a walk in a part of the town where there were sentinels placed.

One of the soldiers, as the young ladies passed him, besought them to have the charity to bring him a little water, adding that he was very ill, and that it would be as much as his life was worth to leave his post and go and fetch it himself. The ladies walked on, much offended at the man for presuming to speak to them, all but the young Englishwoman, whose compassion was moved, and who, leaving her party, procured some water and brought it to the soldier. He begged her to tell him her name and place of abode, and this she did.

When she rejoined her companions, some blamed and others ridiculed her attention to a common soldier; but they soon had reason to lament that they had not been equally compassionate, for the grateful soldier contrived, on the night of the massacre, to save this young Englishwoman, while all the other inhabitants of the house she dwelt in were killed.

Wouldst thou other men know, look thou within

John o'Groat's House.

JAMES IV. of Scotland sent Malcolm Gavin and John de Groat, two brothers, into Caithness, with a letter written in Latin, recommending them to the kind regards of the people of that county. They became possessed of lands in the parish of Anisley, on the banks of the Pentland Firth, which was equally divided between them.

In course of time there were eight families of the same name, who shared alike, and lived comfortably and peaceably for many years. These were accustomed to meet, to celebrate the anniversary of the arrival of their progenitors.

At one of these meetings it became a matter of dispute which of them was entitled to enter first, and take the head of the table, which had like to have terminated fatally but for the presence of mind of John de Groat, proprietor of the ferry, who remonstrated with them; pointed out the necessity of unanimity as regarded their own happiness, their respectability among their neighbours, and general safety from the inroads of those clans who might envy them, and take advantage of their dissensions. He then proposed the building of a house, to which they should contribute equally; and he promised at their next meeting he should so order matters as to prevent any dispute about precedence.

Having gained their assent, he proceeded to build a house, with a distinct room of an octagonal form, having eight doors and eight windows, in which he placed a table of oak, with eight sides. At the next annual meeting he desired each to enter singly at different doors, and take the head of the table, himself entering the last, and taking the remaining unoccupied seat. By this ingenious manoeuvre they were all placed on an equal footing, and good-humour and harmony were restored and established. Such was the origin of the sign of "John o'Groat's house."

Lynn.

LYNN, Lynn Regis, or King's Lynn, is a well-known seaport of Norfolk. It is about a hundred miles north of London, and is situated on the Great Ouse, about two miles from the Wash. In days of yore the town was defended on the land side by a fosse, and remains still exist of the old wall, including a handsome Gothic structure known as the "South Gates." Some of the dwelling-houses in Lynn date back to a very early period; the streets are as a rule narrow and winding. The church of St. Margaret's, formerly the priory church, is a handsome Gothic building with two towers at the west end. The Grammar School of Lynn, founded in Henry VIII.'s reign, is well known to most readers as a school at which Eugene Aram, the murderer, was usher at the time of his apprehension. Lynn is supposed to have been a British town, and was known as a port prior to the Norman Conquest. After that event it became the possession of the Bishops of Norwich, and was known as Lynn Episcopi. After the suppression of the monasteries it came into the hands of Henry VIII., and its name was changed to Lynn Regis, or King's Lynn. The town was captured by the Parliamentary forces in 1643. Its first charter was received from King John, but its first governing charter dates from the reign of Henry VIII.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

ANY anemone roots left over from the autumn should now be planted. In this way a succession of flowers is secured late in the season. Divide Chinese chrysanthemums and place them in small pots, or into a border of rich soil, to pot later in the season. Pot scarlet lobelias, and place them in a sunny window or a moderate hot bed. At the end of the month the seeds of hardy annuals may be put into the ground in light soils. They should be sown in small patches, and covered with a little dry earth. Transplant last year's layers of carnations into beds or large pots at the end of the month. Sow lovage and Canada clover for bees. In the kitchen garden there is much to do this month. Sow lettuce and carrot seed and radishes later in the month. Plant potatoes in rows two feet apart and ten inches between the sets. Graft apples, pears, cherries, and plums; for this the middle of the month is said to be the best time. Fruit trees and shrubs may be transplanted, but it should have been done in November.

LYNN, FROM THE BANKS OF THE OUSE.

Only Imagination.

MOST every mortal thinks his burden very hard to bear—

He thinks so, but 'tis all imagination.

The yoke of any other would be easier to bear—

He thinks so, but 'tis all imagination.

*And the others for the happy long ago ever sigh, While some are longing for the better days of
by-and-by;*

But all could make the present bright and happy if they'd try—

'Tis gloomy only in imagination.

Extraordinary Seasons.

In 1172 the temperature on the continent of Europe was so high that leaves came out on the trees in January, and birds hatched their broods in February. In 1289 the winter was also very mild, and the maidens of Cologne wore wreaths of violets and corn-flowers at Christmas and on Twelfth Day.

In 1421 the trees flowered in the month of March, and the vines in the month of April. Cherries ripened in the same month, and grapes appeared in May. In 1572 the trees were covered with leaves in January, and the birds hatched their young in February, as in 1172; and in 1585 the same thing was repeated, and it is added that the corn was in ear at Easter.

There was in France neither snow nor frost throughout the winters of 1538, 1607, 1609, 1617, and 1659.

A Bonfire of Bank Notes.

A SOURCE of what may be called accidental revenue, falling to those of the provincial banks that have the right to issue their own notes, arises from the occasional destruction or loss of the notes issued. One of the provincial banks had almost achieved a large windfall of this sort several years ago by a strange hallucination on the part of an eccentric customer.

A shareholder who wished to benefit the bank in which he was interested deposited in the ordinary way several thousand pounds. The money lay in the banker's hands at interest for some time. On a particular day he withdrew the full amount in the notes of the Bank.

On reaching home he was seen by one of his household (who was apparently too much astonished to interfere) placing the bundle of bank-notes on the fire, expediting their destruction by putting the poker through them into the flame.

On being asked by interested relations what he meant by such a proceeding, he gave this curious reason in justification—that a bank made profits when its notes were destroyed. Now, he was a shareholder of the bank whose notes he had most effectually destroyed; and, of course, his dividends would be so much increased by the transaction!

It was naturally not quite an easy matter to convince the bank officials of the truth of so improbable a story, and the affair was made more difficult from the fact that in the North the number of notes issued by the banks are not preserved, as is invariably the case in the issue of Bank of England notes. Before the necessary guarantees could be accepted, the bank in question had, at great inconvenience and cost, to call in all its outstanding £100 notes.

Kew.

The view of Kew shown in one of our illustrations will remind most people who have visited the metropolis of fresh air and river-side enjoyment. Like most villages in the vicinity of London, Kew is losing most of its distinctive features, and but for the quaint old green with its picturesque surroundings, there is little to remind us of the Kew of twenty or thirty years back. The greatest object of interest at Kew, as everyone knows, is the magnificent Botanic Gardens, among the finest in the world.

"Kew Gardens," says Mr. Dickens, "are not only among the most favourite resorts of the London holiday-makers, but have special value to the botanist and horticulturist. The judicious expenditure of public money has made the gardens and houses at Kew almost unique among public institutions of the kind. Here are to be seen flourishing in an atmosphere of their own, though in an uncongenial climate, the most beautiful tropical palms, plants, ferns, and cacti; and the pleasure grounds and arboretum contain, in endless and exhaustive profusion, specimens of the flowers, shrubs, and trees indigenous to Great Britain."

Kew Palace was built during the reign of James I., and is close to the gardens. It is a plain building of red brick.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE principal sowing of all the hardy annuals should now be finished; the sowing of the half-hardy should be completed by the end of the month. Transplant hardy biennials, such as wall-flowers, Brompton stocks, hollyhocks, etc., if this was not done in autumn. Auriculas in bloom should be protected against sun and rain, but should be allowed as much air as possible. They must be watered regularly, and the use of manure water on alternate days will improve the bloom. The water should never go on the leaves. One may now make to advantage cuttings of verbenas, heliotropes, etc. Watch rose-trees, and free them from grubs. Garden pests—caterpillars, beetles, red spiders, ants, etc.—are now very active. Re-pot window plants, and thin them out if necessary. Rake beds smooth, turn up gravel walks, and clip box edgings. In a shady place insert slips of sage, thyme, lavender, and other herbs, and sow mustard and cress under a south wall. In the fruit garden, dis-budding—that is to say, relieving the shoots of wall-trees of some of their buds just when they begin growing—is now to be attended to.

LOVE AT THE HELM.

*This life is like a troubled sea,
Where, helm a-weather or a-lee,
The ship will neither stay nor
wear,
But drives, of every rock in fear;
All seamanship in vain we try,
We cannot keep her steaaily;
But, just as Fortune's wind may blow,
The vessel's tosticated to and fro:
Yet, come but love on board,
Our hearts with pleasure stored
No storm can overwhelm:
Still blows in vain
The hurricane
While love is at the helm.*

Heligoland.

HELIGOLAND, or Holy Land, is an island thirty-six miles north of the Elbe mouth. It was captured by this country from Denmark in 1807, and was retained by us till the autumn of 1890, when it was transferred to Germany. "Never before probably in its whole history," says one writer, writing in 1891, "has this tiny island received so much attention from the civilised world as during the past year. The announcement in June, 1890, of its proposed transference, under the terms of the Anglo-German agreement respecting Africa, from British to German rule, came as a complete surprise upon the public of both countries, and various opinions were speedily elicited as to the propriety of the step contemplated. In Germany it was universally applauded, but several politicians in this country insisted on the importance of the island as a naval station, and argued that the Heligolanders were averse to the change, and that their wishes should have been more carefully ascertained." These protests, however, proved unavailing, and on the 9th of August the island was formally handed over by the English Governor, the ceremony being followed by a visit from the Emperor on the next day, when a proclamation was read in which His Majesty promised the utmost care for the rights and wishes of the islanders.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

HALF-HARDY plants that have been sheltered during the winter may be uncovered about the middle of the month; such as have been housed may be brought out and planted in beds or allowed to stand in pots as required. This is a favourable time for putting in cuttings of double wall-flowers, rockets, and other hardy perennials. If heartsease be now propagated by cuttings, and placed in a shady border, it will flower in the autumn, and the largest flowers will be produced by these young plants. Continue the sowing of peas; those already up will require sticking. Plant potatoes and sow radishes. Sow mustard and cress. To procure a succession, sow cress once a month and mustard once a fortnight. The ground should be made level and watered, and the seed thickly scattered and not covered with earth, but merely pressed into the soil with a flat board or the back of a spade. Keep a sharp look-out for weeds.

News about Himself.

MR. FRITH the artist, in his autobiography, tells an amusing story of a portrait of himself by himself, which he purchased forty-five years after it had been painted. He discovered it in a shop in Great Portland Street.

“That,” said the lady of the shop, “is the celebrated artist Frith, painted by himself.”
 “Frith!” said I; “why, he must be old.”
 “Well, sir, but he was young once; and that’s what he was when he was young.”
 “Hum, ha!” said I, pretending to examine the picture. “Not much of a picture.”
 “I beg your pardon; judges think it a very fine picture.”

“Well, what is the price?”
 “Twenty pounds.”
 “Surely that is a stiff price,” said I.
 “Well,” said the woman, “it cost us nearly as much. You see, it is very valuable, because the artist is diseased.”
 “Deceased!” I exclaimed. “Dead, do you mean?”

“Yes, sir. Died of drink.”
 “Surely,” I exclaimed, “you are wrong!”
 “About the drink? Oh, no, sir; most artists is very dissipated. He was dreadful, Frith was. I daresay you have seen the print called “The Railway Station.” Well, my husband used to see him when he was doing of it, always more or less in liquor. It wore him out at last—the drink did.”
 “Why,” said I, “how can that be, when I tell you a friend of mine saw him the other day?”
 “Not Frith, your friend didn’t. How could he, when he’s dead and buried, as I well know, for my husband attended his funeral!”

The picture was purchased by Mr. Frith at the price demanded, but the artist informs us that he did not think it worth while to tell the woman that he was only once drunk in his life.

What You Please.

THE great have always been flattered, but never was adulation carried further than on the part of a lady of honour to Queen Anne. The queen having asked her what the time was—“Whatever time it may please your majesty!”
 was the reply.

The Secret Lover.

*LIVES there the soulless youth, whose eye
 That ruby-tinted lip could see,
 Nor long for thee to live or die?*

How unlike me!

*Or see that cheek’s pomegranate glow;
 Yet think of anything but thee,
 Cold as that bosom heaving snow?*

How unlike me!

*Or see thee o’er the golden wire
 Bend with such lovely witchery,
 Nor feel each tone like living fire?*

How unlike me!

*Or see thee, in the evening dance,
 Float, like the foam upon the sea,
 Nor drink sweet poison from thy glance?*

How unlike me!

*Or hear thy hymn, at moonlight rise,
 Soft as the humming of the bee,
 Nor think he sits in Paradise?*

How unlike me!

*Or see thee in thy simplest hour,
 Sweet as the rose upon the tree,
 Nor long to plant thee in his bower?*

How unlike me!

*But lives there one who vainly tries
 To look the freest of the free,
 And hide the wound by which he dies?*

Ah! how like me!

Shropshire.

THIS pleasantly situated inland county has several historical associations of great interest. It was within its boundaries that Caradoc struggled against Vespasian in 51 A.D. A connected chain of military works was erected by him over the southern and western districts of the county, the most important being Caer Caradoc, where he is said to have made his last stand. Wroxeter, situated a little to the west of the Wrekin, occupies the site of the ancient Roman city Uriconium, of which a portion of the wall still remains. Throughout Shropshire there are many remains of Roman camps. After the Romans had retired from Britain, the province of which Shropshire formed a part was annexed to the Kingdom of the Saxons by Offa, who, about 765, caused Watt's Dyke to be erected to keep out the Welsh. There are several important old ecclesiastical ruins in Shropshire, including Wenlock Priory, once very wealthy; Lilleshall Abbey, founded in the reign of Stephen; Shrewsbury Abbey, founded in 1083; and Buildwas Abbey, one of the finest ruins in the county, founded in 1135. There are numerous picturesque lakes and pools in Shropshire. Of these the largest is Ellesmere. It is situated near the borders of Denbigh and covers a hundred and sixteen acres.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

GARDEN flowers now make a fine show. This is the time for laburnums, honeysuckles, lilies, early roses, etc. Young plants of pelargoniums, fuchsias, etc., which will be required for autumnal window plants, should now be moved into well-drained pots and plunged into a border. Commence the grafting and budding of roses. Take up the bulbs of tulips, hyacinths, etc., as soon as the leaves grow yellow. Keep them dry in paper bags till the season for planting comes round again. Some of the quick-flowering annuals, such as Virginia stocks, may still be sown, and the more tender kinds which have been reared in a hot-bed planted out. Cuttings of verbenas and heliotropes now strike readily. Plentifully water newly-planted seedlings and all hot-house plants. Sow mustard and cress the same as last month. Sow the last crop of long-pod beans and peas for the season. Turnips are to be sown for succession in the first week of the month, and for a full autumn crop in the third week. Train the summer shoots of all sorts of wall and trellis trees. Net over cherry-trees to protect them from birds. If plants are infested with worms, water them with lime-water as the surest means of getting rid of them.

ELLESMERE : SHROPSHIRE.

An Unexpected Voyage.

A FRIGATE returning from a cruise early in this century came off Plymouth, and the captain invited a few friends to dine on board, promising them a sail, as it was a fine day. They went, and enjoyed it much; but as they were tacking to return to port a cutter came up with an order from Government for him to sail instantly to the West Indies with some sealed packets to the Admiral on that station. There was nothing to be done, therefore, but to take his company with him and give them such a view of the West Indies as they neither expected nor desired.

A Blessing in Disguise.

"My life was saved by having my salary reduced," said a robust middle-aged man.

The remark naturally excited surprise.

"Yes," continued the man, "that was what saved me. I was assistant bookkeeper for a wholesale house, and was earning 1,200 dols. a year. Something happened, no matter what, and I was thrown out. I was idle for two months, and then went to work for 750 dols. At that time I was thin and weak, and couldn't walk a mile to save a dollar. At any rate, I thought I couldn't. But when my income was so fearfully reduced I found it absolutely necessary to economise, and I did so by walking home from my work, a distance of about five miles. It pretty nearly killed me at first. Then I began to enjoy it. Within three months I was walking both ways, and I've kept it up ever since. Ten miles a day, summer and winter, unless during a hard storm, and look at me! One hundred and eighty pounds, the appetite of an ostrich, and not a day's sickness in ten years. You see, gentlemen, how it was that the cutting-down of my salary saved my life."

Murder Will Out.

An awakened memory has often been found to rouse a dormant conscience. In the days of his youth a man had killed his wife, a woman who had loved, trusted, and enriched him. The murder had been deliberate and cruel, and so well planned that the missing woman was accounted not "dead," but only as having "disappeared."

Her murderer went abroad, maintained his respectability, and returned to his native land. He had been many years away, and in the once familiar suburb of the great city in which he took up his abode, he found everything utterly changed.

One evening, however, wandering about, he turned down a short lane where old grey cottages, behind long rank green gardens, stood just as they had done when he had walked down that lane in the gloaming, speaking tender, wooing words to the woman he had afterwards done to death. At that moment his apparently dead sin leaped to its dreadful resurrection, and, unable to bear to confront it alone, he hastened at once to the authorities with confession and self-surrender, and was shortly afterwards tried and executed.

Prudent pauses forward business.

The Queen of Roumania.

ELIZABETH, Queen of Roumania, whom everybody knows as "Carmen Sylva," visited this country in the autumn of 1890. This distinguished foreigner, who has more title than any other royalty to the name of "literary queen," is the daughter of Prince Herman of Wied, and is now forty-eight years of age. Were we to cite all her Majesty's published works they would be legion, and many others remain in the sacred precincts of her boudoir. The "Tales of the Carpathians," the libretto of an opera, a volume of "Thoughts," "Roumanian Poems," "Jehovah," "Mein Ruhe," and many others, have been translated into many languages. The opera Neaga, the libretto of which was written by "Carmen Sylva," was performed with great success at Stockholm. The scene of the opera lies in Roumania, and convicts who are condemned to pass their lives in the salt mines are introduced. Peasant life is admirably depicted throughout, and the national costumes to be worn on the stage were sent from the Elizabeth School at Bucharest. On her visit to England the Queen of Roumania resided for some time in Wales, and when there attended the Welsh Eisteddfod. On her leaving Wales she went for a short visit to our Queen at Balmoral, arriving there on the 2nd of October.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE flowering of plants reaches its height this month. Continue to take up bulbs as the foliage decays, and place annuals or other plants in the places left vacant. In showery weather thin out annuals; they will supply the plants wanted for filling up. Pippings of pinks and carnations may be struck, and layers may be laid down about the middle of the month. Bud roses. Cut down pelargoniums that have done blooming, and take what cuttings are required; they will now strike readily. Lettuce plants and plants recently sown must be watered in dry weather. Peas and scarlet-runners now require sticking, and potatoes must have the earth drawn round the roots. Plant out broccolis and celery. Roses, elder, lavender, and other plants are now gathered for distilling. Propagate pot herbs by slips and cuttings. Budding—of use in the case of many fruit trees, and the chief means of propagating roses—is the principal operation of the month.

QUEEN ELIZABETH OF ROUMANIA VISITING THE QUEEN AT BALMORAL.

Sleeping in Church.

JOHN LASSENIUS, a celebrated divine, who died at Copenhagen in 1692, and who had for a long time perceived, to his vexation, that during his sermons the greatest part of the congregation were asleep, on one occasion suddenly stopped, pulled a shuttlecock from his pocket, and began to play with it in the pulpit.

This extraordinary circumstance naturally attracted the attention of that part of the congregation who were still awake. They joggled those who were sleeping, and in a short time everybody was lively, and stared up to the pulpit with the greatest wonder.

This was just what Lassenius desired; for he immediately began a most severe castigatory discourse, saying, "When I announce to you sacred and important truths, you are not ashamed to go to sleep; but when I play the fool, you are all eye and all ear."

On Going to Law.

THOUSANDS are ruined by going to law. Many of these are honest and ignorant people, who, thinking they have been wronged, lose their tempers, and rush off to a lawyer. Lawyers would be more than human if they were to put insuperable objects in the way of would-be litigants. Some people are always going to law; rich men these must have been when they began. But the majority get tired of it after at most two lawsuits.

Winning is only a degree better than losing, and it is impossible to be sure of winning. There are two sides to all questions, and your adversary's side may have more right on it than you fancy. If not, a bad case will put a counsel on his mettle. Every case is a good one until there is a better.

A Pious Direction-Post.

ON the highway near Bicton, in Devonshire, in the centre of four cross-roads, there used to be, and perhaps still is, a directing-post with the following inscriptions, by attention to which the traveller learns the direction of the roads over which he has to pass, and at the same time is furnished with food for meditation:—

"To Woodbury, Topsham, Exeter.—Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.

"To Brixton, Ottery, Honiton.—O hold up our goings in Thy paths, that our footsteps slip not.

"To Otterton, Sidmouth, Culliton, A.D. 1743.—O that our ways were made so direct that we might keep Thy statutes.

"To Budleigh.—Make us to go in the paths of Thy Commandments, for therein is our desire."

Unrecognised.

A SEED came floating near me,
A brown and paltry thing,
It seemed an idle pastime
To stay its hasty wing.

But, lo! my neighbour grasped it,
And 'neath her watchful care
It grew and gave her freely
A wreath of blossoms rare.

And then, the plant beholding,
My tears fell freely down,
The seed was, oh! so paltry,
And light as thistle-down.

Why was there none to whisper,
"Tis opportunity!"
The bloom and fragrance yonder
Would then have been for me.

Penshurst.

AMONGST places of interest connected with famous names in the history of England, Penshurst stands in the first rank. It has been the seat of a great family ever since the Norman Conquest. The most illustrious name connected with Penshurst is that of Sir Philip Sidney, who was born here in 1554. There is reason to believe that a considerable portion of Sir Philip's childhood was passed here, and that much of the scenery of his "Arcadia" was drawn from the memory of the beautiful country by which Penshurst is surrounded. The present church of Penshurst was rebuilt in 1850, although some portions of it are probably old. The park of Penshurst Place was once far more extensive than now; it is said to have been at one time more than twelve miles in circumference. It comprises now only two hundred acres. The timber massed at various points is still very picturesque. A gigantic tree is shown to visitors, twenty-two feet in circumference, known as the Penshurst Oak. A very pretty avenue, as you approach the house, is known as "Saccharissa's Walk," in memory of Dorothy Sidney, who was celebrated by Waller as the "Saccharissa" of his poetry. About four miles from Penshurst is Hever Castle, interesting on account of its connection with the history of Henry VIII. and Anne Boleyn.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

EXAMINE bulbs that are out of the ground; they must not be allowed to become damp, for then they will mould and be of little value. Plants, such as fuchsias, which are meant to bloom in the window in autumn, should be prevented from flowering now. Take off the tops of chrysanthemums. All bands tied round buds and grafts should now be loosened, and removed when they are no longer required. According to some, it is better to pot auriculas now than in May. Sow cinerarias, petunias, and calceolarias; if left to the spring, these plants will not flower till the following year. Plant out biennial stocks in the borders where they are intended to bloom. Pick off dead leaves, and reduce stray growth. Sow lettuce to stand the winter, spinach, and cauliflower, and transplant lettuces and every sort of cabbage. Hoe and thin turnips. A few coleworts may still be planted. Caterpillars should be destroyed. Savoys and cabbages, which are particularly subject to their attacks, should be sprinkled with lime on dewy mornings.

Floral Company.

IF ladies wish to get into the very best company possible, we do not know of any pleasanter way than is detailed in this beautiful scrap from a German poet:—

*"A flower do but place near thy window glass,
And through it no image of evil shall pass.
Abroad must thou go? on thy white bosom
wear*

*A nosegay, and doubt not an angel is there;
Forget not to water at break of the day
The lilies, and thou shalt be fairer than they;
Place a rose near thy bed, nightly sentry to keep,*

And angels shall rock thee on roses to sleep."

A Proud Welsh Boy.

A PROUD Welsh boy at school, hearing that an English duke employed six men cooks during the period that he kept open house, or rather open castle in the north, sneered at the alleged magnificence.

"My father does better than that," said Griffith ap Jones; "at our very last party before I left Cmydrllmnynddryd we had twenty-four men cooks all employed in dressing the supper."

This would have gone down easily, and Griffith ap Jones would have established his paternal magnificence for ever, had not a companion of an inquiring turn of mind discovered the real state of the case, and announced to his school-fellows that although the Welshman had spoken truly, the company at the supper to which he alluded consisted of twenty-four of his near relations, and that every man toasted his own cheese!

Waterloo.

A MEMORIAL to the heroes of Waterloo was unveiled by the Duke of Cambridge in the Evère Cemetery at Brussels, on the 26th of August, 1890. The ever-memorable Battle of Waterloo was fought on Sunday, the 18th of June, 1815, in a plain about two miles from the village of Waterloo and twelve miles south from Brussels. The contending forces were the French army of 72,000 men and 246 guns under Napoleon, and the Allies, commanded by the Duke of Wellington. The latter, with 67,661 men and 156 guns, resisted the various attacks of the enemy from ten in the morning until five in the afternoon. About that hour 16,000 Prussians reached the field of conflict, and by seven the force under Blücher amounted to over 50,000 men with 104 guns. Wellington then moved forward with his whole army. A total rout followed, and the slaughter was immense. Of the British 93 officers and 1,916 men were killed and missing, and 363 officers and 4,560 men wounded; total, 6,932. The aggregate Allied loss was 23,185. The French had 18,500 killed and wounded, 7,800 prisoners (some French accounts raise the list of hors de combat to 32,000) and 227 cannon captured. This battle annihilated the power of Napoleon. He returned to Paris and abdicated.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

DAHLIAS and some hardy annuals are still in flower. Place auriculas under shelter for the winter at the end of the month; but they should still have as much light and air as is consistent with shielding them from frost and heavy rain. Take cactuses indoors, and give them very little water. Make cuttings of China roses. Plant out pinks in the beds where they are meant to flower. Thrift, daisy, or gentianella edgings may now be planted; the earth should be pressed firmly round the roots by breaking it with the back of a spade. Dog's tooth violet, narcissus, crocus, snowdrop, and such like bulbs, if out of the ground, must now be planted. Earth up celery, and plant lettuce in a sheltered border for winter use. This is the best time for forming new beds of horseradish. Plant endive. Lift onions, and place them on a dry border or gravel walk. Keep down weeds, which now grow apace. Hazelnuts, acorns, blackberries, and elderberries, are now ready for gathering. Cider and perry are now made. The temperature of the year takes a turn. Last month the mean temperature was 61° 28', this month it is 60° 14'.

DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE UNVEILING THE WATERLOO MONUMENT IN EVÈRRE CEMETERY AT BRUSSELS.

The Avaricious Landlord.

THE following clever trick was recently played upon an avaricious French landlord by a poor wretched engraver who had got into arrears with his rent.

"Give me a little time," said the tenant; "I have discovered a means of paying you soon."

"Bah!" returned the landlord, incredulously, "how, I should like to know?"

"Look here," replied the engraver, taking a hundred-franc note mysteriously from a drawer—"that's my last piece of work."

"Did you do it?"

"Certainly."

"You yourself—and not the Bank of France?"

"No, it's my work."

"Will you trust me with it for half an hour?"

And the landlord took the note and hurried off to the Bank. There they assured him that it was perfectly good, and finally changed it for him.

As he hurried back to his lodger the wretched man's head fairly swam with visions of untold wealth. "My good fellow," he cried, on reaching the house, all out of breath, "how clever you are! Why don't you make thousand-franc notes?"

"For the very good reason that I have never seen one."

"That need be no obstacle—here is one. Copy it, and I will be back here in a week's time. We will share it."

At the end of the week the landlord duly made his appearance. "How does the note get on?" was his anxious inquiry.

"Your note! Why, I have spent it with two or three friends, you vagabond!" majestically replied the engraver.

"Spent it! But—"

"No noise, or I'll split!" And the man explained to his landlord that he had outrageously taken him in, and that the hundred-franc note was perfectly good. He wound up by advising him to turn his avariciousness in another direction.

An Even Temper.

THE Baron Maseres, who died in the early part of this century, was of such an even temper that a celebrated chess player declared he was the only man he had seen whose countenance did not indicate whether he was winning or losing at that game; and so averse was the Baron to a dogmatising spirit that after seeing Dr. Johnson he expressed a wish that "he might never be again in that man's company."

Life on the Ocean Wave.

*A WET sheet and a flowing sea,
A wind that follows fast,
And fills the white and rustling sail,
And bends the gallant mast;
And bends the gallant mast, my boys,
While like the eagle free
Away the good ship flies, and leaves
Old England on the lee.*

*"O for a soft and gentle wind!"
I heard a fair one cry;
But give to me the snoring breeze
And white waves heaving high;
And white waves heaving high, my lads,
The good ship tight and free—
The world of waters is our home,
And merry men are we.*

*There's tempest in yon horn'd moon,
And lightning in yon cloud!
But hark the music, mariners!
The wind is piping loud!
The wind is piping loud, my boys,
The lightning flashes free—
While the hollow oak our palace is,
Our heritage the sea.*

Canterbury Cathedral.

ONE of our illustrations represents the well-known Bell Harry Tower of Canterbury Cathedral. This magnificent central tower was originally called the Angel Steeple, because on the top pinnacle there used to stand a gilded cherub. It was not completed till about 1500. The Cathedral stands on the site of a Roman church given by King Ethelbert, together with his own palace adjoining, to Augustine and his monks. This early church and its adjacent buildings were destroyed and entirely rebuilt by Archbishop Lanfranc in 1070, and the choir was again rebuilt on a larger scale by his successor, Archbishop Anselm, whose work in turn, on being restored after the fire of 1172, was then considerably enlarged. The murder of Archbishop Becket in 1170 in the Cathedral church, and his canonisation as St. Thomas of Canterbury, made Canterbury the resort of the Christian world. Miracles were almost immediately said to be worked, at his grave in the crypt, and at the well in which his garments had been washed. A pilgrimage to Canterbury became not only a pious exercise but a fashionable summer excursion. The shrine of St. Thomas, with its vast collected wealth, was destroyed, and every reminiscence connected with it as far as possible effaced by King Henry VIII.'s commissioners in 1538.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

CHINESE chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies of various kinds, mignonette, Russian and Neapolitan violets, are now in bloom. Dahlias, hollyhocks, etc., keep their blooming till injured by the frost. Early in the month pot any herbs intended for the window early in spring; plant them in dry soil. Prepare beds for tulips, hyacinths, etc. They should be dug to the depth of eighteen inches and well drained. Take up scarlet lobelias, divide them, and plant them in pots for the winter; they are apt to decay if left out. Dig up parsnips, carrots, potatoes, and beets. Spinach beds should be weeded out, and August-sown lettuces planted out, if not done last month. Winter crops are now being sown in the field. Potatoes and other vegetables are being housed. Fences should now be repaired and drains cleaned, and the garden should be kept as neat as possible. Stack or house wood to be used for firing.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

May again fight another day."*—ERASMUS.

An Imperial Visitor.

THE leading event of the summer of 1891 was the visit paid to this country by the Emperor and Empress of Germany. They arrived at Windsor on Saturday, the 4th of July, and from that day till Monday, the 13th, when the Emperor started for Edinburgh, to go on board his yacht in the Frith of Forth, the Court chronicler had his pen busy with the description of a round of splendid hospitalities and imposing spectacles. These included the wedding at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, of the Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein and Prince Aribert of Anhalt; a State banquet in St. George's Hall; a grand performance at the Opera; a garden party at Marlborough House; a State concert at the Albert Hall; a visit to the City of London, when the Emperor appeared in "semi-state"; a State ball at Buckingham Palace; a review of volunteers at Wimbledon; a dinner at the Crystal Palace, and a visit to Lord Salisbury's at Hatfield. The scene depicted by our artist is the presentation of an address in the Guildhall on the occasion of the Emperor's visit to the City. With the exception of the Queen's Jubilee there has not been for many years a ceremony more successful, a pageant more splendid, or a welcome more cordial, than witnessed by Londoners on that day.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THERE may be flowers in the garden in this and the following month. The common monthly rose and several varieties of laurustine are in blossom. Evergreen trees and shrubs are now in great beauty. Take up dahlia roots carefully in fine weather and label them. Let the roots dry gradually, and then lay them in a shallow box, cover them with sand, and house them in any dry place where they are free from frost. Plant tulips and hyacinths in beds as early in the month as possible. Plant them three or four inches deep and six inches apart. Protect them from heavy rains till the roots have taken firm hold of the soil. This can be done with fern leaves or straw fastened down by willow rods with the grass side downwards. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs whilst the weather continues favourable, and before the soil has parted with the solar heat absorbed during summer. Finish taking up potatoes, carrots, beets, and parsnips. Take up early broccoli, endive, late cauliflower, and lettuces, and lay them in an open shed or in old melon pits, which will protect them from frost, and afford a supply during winter.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR AT THE GUILDHALL.

Changeable Natures.

*W*ILT thou dare to blame the woman for her seeming sudden changes, Swaying east and swaying westward as the breezes shake the tree? Fool, thy selfish thought misguides thee; find the man that never ranges. Woman wavers but to seek him. Is not, then, the fault in thee? —GOETHE.

How to Succeed.

"THE advice I would give a young man," said Mr. Flood the millionaire to a young man one day, "who desires to become merely successful in life, is to remember one thing. There are few men who have so little that there will not be found others who will try to take it away from them. He will realise, sooner or later, that four men out of five with whom he comes into contact are endeavouring to get the better of him. It rests entirely with him to decide whether he will get the better of them, or they of him.

"Brains are what is wanted in the world, not experience. Mere clerks are a drug on the market. They cannot be entrusted to do you an important service, for they never have been able to do one for themselves.

"In employing a man, it is comfortable perhaps to find him with a good recommendation; but this recommendation, to which the stereotyped rules of business attach so much, will not save you from making a mistake. You cannot throw the responsibility of a failure upon a piece of paper written by another man. A strong man will always judge for himself. The more education, intelligence, and brains a man has, the more useful he is. Many men have acquired experience; few have profited by it."

The Brazen Statue.

A BRAZEN statue, the work of a famous sculptor, was melted by a great fire, so that nothing but a heap of metal was left. Another artist took this mass, and made from it a new statue, of the same subject, but far superior to the first in beauty.

Envy saw it, and gnashed her teeth, but soon found some consolation: "The fellow could never have done anything half so good, if he had not had the old materials to work upon."

A Long-Felt Want.

"WELL, sir," said the railway superintendent to a forlorn-looking man who had gained admittance to his presence, "what do you want?" "I would like a situation on your line." "No place for you, I think." "But there is; I want to be interpreter." "Interpreter?" "Yes, sir; to tell the passengers what the porters say when they call out the names of the stations." The superintendent studied a few minutes, and then, looking up, pointed to the door.

Not a Matter of Conscience.

THERE used to be a part of the country in the neighbourhood of Naples very much infested with robbers and murderers. A shepherd of that district, at confession, acknowledged with much sorrow and contrition that once on a fast-day he had drunk some drops of milk.

"Does your conscience upbraid you with no other wickedness?" said the father confessor.

"None at all," replied the penitent.

"Did you never join any of your countrymen in robbing and murdering passengers?"

"O yes! very often, good father; but we do not look upon that as a matter of conscience."

Nuneham.

NUNEHAM COURTENEY, in Oxfordshire, is a seat of the Harcourt family, and is one of the most delightful residences on the banks of the Thames. The house was built early in the eighteenth century by Simon, first Viscount Harcourt and Lord Chancellor. It contains a wonderful collection of relics and curiosities, and associated with it are many literary recollections of Pope, Prior, Mason, and Horace Walpole, who were all frequent visitors at Nuneham. Amongst the curiosities is a box said to be made from the tree against which Sir Walter Tyrrell's arrow glanced; but "strict belief," we are told, "in this article is not considered absolutely necessary at Nuneham." Lying to the left of the house there are walks running for some distance along the river's bank amidst most beautiful trees. These walks were constructed by "Capability Brown." The artfully-devised vistas afford lovely and unexpected peeps of Oxford, Abingdon, and Radley. "The village," says Mr. Dickens, "which formerly stood near the house, was removed to some distance down the road by Earl Harcourt, who at one time had an odd idea of improving the villages by the institution of orders of merit, prizes of virtue, &c. &c. It is scarcely necessary to add that the attempt did not answer his sanguine expectations.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE work to be executed in the flower-garden is much the same as last month. Tea-roses that are in exposed situations should be taken up and placed safely out of the reach of frost. Any bushes that are to remain out all the winter should have their roots covered with litter or coal-ashes. In frosty weather sprinkle a little light litter over any choice things in open beds. Make plantations of rhubarb, sea-kale, asparagus, and horseradish. Sow early peas and beans on dry warm slopes. A delicate salad may be obtained in five or six weeks by packing roots of dandelion in leaf-mould and putting them into gentle heat. Dig round old fruit trees. If any trees grow too luxuriantly to bear well, root-prune them. Continue, if necessary, to make new drains, to improve water-courses, and to plant hedges. Turn up the ground thoroughly for exposure to the frost and snow. Inspect the fruit in the store-room at frequent and regular intervals, and remove whatever is found to be in a state of decay.

Fireside Memories.

*At nightfall, by the firelight's cheer,
My little Margaret sits me near,
And begs me tell of things that were
When I was little just like her.*

*Ah! little lips, you touch the spring
Of sweetest, sad remembering;
And hearth and heart flash all aglow
With ruddy tints of long ago.*

*I at my father's fireside sit,
Youngest of all who circle it,
And beg him tell me what did he
When he was little, just like me.*

A Healthy Old Age.

HOW TO AVOID PREMATURE OLD AGE.

The following advice is given by Dr. Benjamin Ward Richardson:—

To subsist on light but nutritious diet, with milk as the standard food, but varied according to the season.

To take food in moderate quantity, four times in the day, including a light meal before going to bed.

To clothe warmly but lightly, so that the body may in all seasons maintain its equal temperature.

To keep the body in fair exercise, and the mind active and cheerful.

To maintain an interest in what is going on in the world, and to take part in reasonable labours and pleasures, as though old age were not present.

To take plenty of sleep during sleeping hours.

To spend nine hours in bed at the least, and to take care during cold weather that the temperature of the bedroom is maintained at 60° Fahrenheit.

To avoid passion, excitement, luxury.

The Lion and the Gadfly.

ONCE a lion was sleeping in his den at the foot of a great mountain. A gadfly that had been sipping the blood and froth from his mouth bit him severely. The lion started up with a roar, and, catching the fly in his huge paw, said, "Villain, you are at my mercy!"

"Sire," said the fly, "if you would pardon me now, and let me live, I shall be able to show ere long how grateful I am to you."

"Indeed!" said the lion; "who ever heard of a gadfly helping a lion? But still, I admire your impudence, and grant your life."

Some time after, the lion, having made great havoc on the cattle of a neighbouring village, was snoring away in his den after a heavy meal. The village hunters approached, with the object of surrounding him. The fly saw them, and, hurrying into the den, bit the lion.

He started up with a roar as before, and cried, "Villain, you will get no pardon this time!"

"Sire," said the fly, "the village hunters are on their way to your den; you can't tarry a moment here without being surrounded and killed."

"Saviour of my life!" said the lion, as he ran up the mountain. "Nothing like forgiving, for it gives the humblest an opportunity of helping the highest."

OWING to the large increase of our Business during the Season just closing, we have found it necessary to make arrangements for the erection of a much larger Studio, and in this we have been very successful.

Our many friends will be pleased to learn that we have leased that large Dwelling-house and Garden at 85 Castle Street, where we hope, before the commencement of another Season's work, to be in a position to throw open to the Public commodious RECEPTION and DRESSING ROOMS, in conjunction with our NEW STUDIO, which for size and excellent lighting will rank amongst the best.

Residing on the Premises, the Public can always rely on our personal attention in the operating room. It is of the first importance for the Public to know that all Negatives are taken by us personally, and not at the hands of assistants. Every branch of work is under our own personal supervision, and our constant endeavour is, as far as lies in our power, to turn out the best and most artistic class of work.

We would call special attention to our modelling and NEW PROCESS done in "ENAMEL STYLE," which gives the Photographs a beautiful, soft, and brilliant finish.

With Thirty-two Star-Maps and numerous other Illustrations. New Edition. 8s. cloth, gilt top.

"Those little Maps of the starry spaces far surpass, in clearness and useful worth, all I have seen before in the planisphere way; no reader but by help of them may find, with a minimum of trouble, the star he seeks. . . . Why did not somebody teach me the constellations too, and make me at home in the starry heavens, which are always overhead, and which I don't half know to this day!"—THOMAS CARLYLE (referring to the first edition of this book).

Reading for the Family Circle.

THE selection of suitable reading for the various members of the household is a task of no small importance, seeing the vast influence which literature has in the formation and development of character.

Let us first say a few words in regard to MAGAZINE LITERATURE. The appearance of the Magazine at the commencement of each month is nowadays a feature of decided interest to the family circle. A gentle flutter of subdued excitement is stirred by the appearance of the familiar blue wrapper of THE

“HIS EYES FOLLOWED ERICA.” (From The Quiver.)

QUIVER, the equally well-known yellow cover of CASSELL'S MAGAZINE, or by the sight of the other Periodicals which issue in such profusion from the Belle Sauvage Press. First and foremost amongst these, with a strength derived from a career of thirty years, stands

The Quiver, for SUNDAY AND GENERAL READING.

This Magazine was recently enlarged from 64 to 80 PAGES MONTHLY, and the amount of reading which is furnished in these 80 large pages must be seen to be fully comprehended. Those unacquainted with the Magazine are invited to order the November Part (price 6d.), which commences the New Volume and contains an exquisite PICTURE in COLOURS by M. I. DICKSEE, the commencement of New Serial Stories, Papers by well-known Divines, Short Stories by popular writers, Lesson-Helps for Sunday School Teachers, Original Poems, a Hymn Tune by an eminent composer, Addresses and Stories for Children, Short Arrows (containing a record of good work at home and abroad), and is illustrated with about 30 Engravings by leading artists. THE QUIVER is, as The Rock points out, "an amazing sixpennyworth," and, as the Saturday Review remarks, "best of all the Magazines for Sunday Reading."

Whilst THE QUIVER is essentially the Magazine for Sunday,

Cassell's Family Magazine

"MR. STAINES SENT A PRETTY SKETCH OF REENIE'S HEAD." (From Cassell's Magazine.)

holds a foremost position in the esteem of the household for every-day reading. In a recent general plébiscite it stood at the head of the poll. Nor is this result surprising when it is remembered how thoroughly interesting the Magazine is. The Editor makes a special point of providing subjects of interest for each member of the family. The best of Serial Stories, the most valuable information as to Cookery and Domestic Matters, the most reliable counsel on Health and everyday Legal Matters, the most helpful hints for the Garden, the prettiest of Piano Pieces, and the most delightful Songs, the latest and best information about Dress, descriptions of the newest Inventions and Discoveries; these are but samples of the attractions which CASSELL'S MAGAZINE contains, and which are exemplified in THE DECEMBER PART (price 7d.), which commences a New Volume. Truly CASSELL'S MAGAZINE, as The Queen remarks, "ought to be in every household."

CASSELL & COMPANY, LIMITED, Ludgate Hill, London.

ALL the younger members of the family between the ages of six and eighteen will find something in the pages of “Little Folks” Magazine

to interest, amuse, or instruct them. The JANUARY PART (price 6d.) will be, perhaps, the most attractive that has ever been published. With that issue will be given away “The Little Folks” Birthday Album for 1892, illustrated with 12 full-page engravings from designs by ALICE HAVERS, and containing a suitable motto for every day in the year, with space for recording the birthdays of relations and friends, or securing their autographs. This will be the Editor's special New Year's Gift to his readers. The Part will, moreover, be full of good Stories and pretty Pictures, entertaining Papers, Poems, Puzzles, &c. All those who are desirous of securing a copy on the day of publication will do well to order the January Part of “Little Folks” at once. It should be mentioned that the CHRISTMAS VOLUME OF “LITTLE FOLKS” (3s. 6d.) forms the most delightful present for children.

(From Little Folks.)

CASELL & COMPANY, LIMITED, Ludgate Hill, London.

THE NEW SERIAL PUBLICATIONS

of Messrs. CASSELL & COMPANY are this season of special interest. They embrace the following important works:—

A New Fine-Art Work, in Monthly Parts, price 7d., entitled

Historic Houses of the United Kingdom, presenting a delineation by pen and pencil of the principal ancestral homes of Great Britain and Ireland. The text is furnished by well-known writers, whose descriptive accounts are full of interesting facts, and lightened by anecdotal reminiscences of illustrious persons, past and present. HISTORIC HOUSES will be profusely and appropriately illustrated with high-class Engravings.

WELBECK ABBEY. (From Historic Houses of the United Kingdom.)

An entirely New and Revised Edition, in Monthly Parts, price 7d., of

The Story of the Heavens, by SIR ROBERT STAWELL BALL, LL.D., F.R.A.S., Royal Astronomer of Ireland, with Coloured Plates and Numerous Illustrations. With Part 1 is given a large and valuable Star Map, and the Part has been several times reprinted to meet the requirements of the public.

“It is doubtful,” says the Scotsman, “whether any previous effort to popularise astronomy—in our language, at any rate—deserves to rank as highly as the delightful and most instructive work which the Royal Astronomer for Ireland happily entitles THE STORY OF THE HEAVENS. Sir Robert Ball not only astounds the imagination, but convinces the reason of his readers.”

CASSELL & COMPANY, LIMITED, Ludgate Hill, London.

A NEW WORK, uniform with "The World of Adventure," has just been commenced in MONTHLY PARTS, 7d., entitled

The World of Romance, fully Illustrated with NEW AND ORIGINAL ENGRAVINGS.

"THE WORLD OF ROMANCE" will form a representative collection from the romance of all ages and all countries. Its pages will tell of the exploits and adventures of gods and heroes; of giants and fairies; of mermaids, hydras, and chimæras dire; of ghosts and vampires; stories of knight errantry and chivalry will take their place with tales by the modern masters of romance. There will be stories of fear and stories of gallantry; stories to chill the blood and stories to make it run briskly in the veins. With Part I is issued a Large Presentation Plate.

A FACSIMILE COPY OF SHAKSPERE'S WILL is presented with every copy of Part I (price 7d.) of the New Serial Edition of

The Royal Shakspeare.

With numerous Full-Page Steel Plates and Wood Engravings from Original Designs by FRANK DICKSEE, R.A., F. BARNARD, V. W. BROMLEY, M. E. EDWARDS, C. GREEN, C. GREGORY, A. HOPKINS, J. McL. RALSTON, P. SKELTON, J. D. WATSON, H. M. PAGET. The Edition includes a Valuable Introduction and Life of Shakspeare by F. J. FURNIVALL, LL.D.

A New Development of artistic production is shown in the First Part of the New Volume of

The Magazine of Art

(being the November Part, price 1s.), the frontispiece to which is produced in Colours by the new process of Chromotypogravure, which is calculated to have so important an effect on art reproduction in this country.

A list of important features arranged for the forthcoming Volume will be found in the New Prospectus, a copy of which will be sent on application.

"The exquisite beauty of the engravings in the MAGAZINE OF ART and the excellence of the letterpress," remarks the Standard, "should carry the Magazine into every home where Art is appreciated."

Messrs. CASSELL & COMPANY ask attention to the following Important Volumes and Series of Works:—
