PREFACE

The reader's attention is called to the fact that it would be next to impossible to give all the details in a booklet of this kind.

You are asked to be considerate and study the situation for yourself.

However, we have trailed through the century of the past and found many quite interesting things.

As you follow the trend of history and information you will be impressed with the fact that probably a very few Snodgrass families left Ireland for America.

In the future study of history we have concluded that these few Snodgrass folks left Ireland on account of their oppression by the Catholic Church. And such is the legend of the family. They seemed to have drifted into Pennsylvania, and on south and west, into other states. So you dear readers must study the history for your own convictions.

FOREWORD

In compiling this record, the compiler has searched the records, both of the government and libraries, city and private, and after continued efforts asking relatives, uncles, aunts, cousins and kindred, of all sources, acknowledgements are made of these records and persons who so unstintedly gave their best, after searching family Bibles, old records, and old letters.

So, you that are interested in this work, will note that it comprises a little history, memorandums and records of every phase of the times of the family. The aim of the compiler was to learn more of his kindred and blood than was just at hand, and, also, to rear a family tree regarding the Snodgrass family.

There are many things most wonderful concerning this name and family. So, after searching the records, and noting the same, one will come to the conclusion at once that the Snodgrass people all came from one man, "Snodgrass," he migrating to America in the year 1620, or, at least, late 1600 or early 1700. The names of but two of that name "Snodgrass," are given in the government records of service in the United States army of date 1778. That of William H. Snodgrass and James Snodgrass as commissioned officers, including war of 1812-15. This, of course, did not include enlisted men.

So this is evidence in favor of the former note on the subject. Now, we have given some idea of the means of records and purpose may each one interested directly or indirectly, acquaint themselves of the information in regards to this work.

Last, but not least, shall we keep up the record? Trusting that this will be adequate for the aim of the compiler and that each one interested will endeavor to cherish and honor it, even then the compiler will be amply repaid.

S. C. SCOTT

Out in a desert country of a western state flows a little river, off toward the southeast. The vast prairies are bare save the little ravines here and there and the little creeks that wind through the valleys hither and yon. On these prairies roam the hungry coyote, the jackrabbit, deer and occasionally buffalo. Great flocks of prairie chicken are seen here and there in the great tall blue stem grass which covers the flinty hills and the rich valleys and table land which extend toward the setting of the sun for hundreds of miles. Great ox and mule trains are winding their way to the far off west, and here and yonder are the white covered wagons drawn by oxen and occasionally a team of mules or horses. These white covered wagons are bearing families to build up homes in this country known as the far west. Dotted here and there all over this vast domain are hostile tribes of Indians which have been driven from the eastern states, on west of the mighty Mississippi river.

These tribes of Indians were hostile to each other as well as the pioneering white settlers coming in to take up claims in the western country. On this little river over one hundred years ago a certain little trading post was established and a treaty with the Osage Indians was signed for the right of way for the Santa Fe Trail. This trading post became known from the eastern states to the far, far west, and one day a great scout on leaving for other parts farther west carved the name Council Grove on a buffalo hide and nailed it to a tree. Afterwards this meager trading post became known as Council Grove, Kansas. Many trials of faith and bravery are stored up in the archives of this little village. The news of the wonderful land began to flow back to the eastern states, and more and greater caravans bearing man, wife and children were headed westward. On flat boats down the Ohio river people living in states bordering this river would drift toward this country covered with natural grass from three to six feet in height. Notwithstanding the news of Indians killing the white settlers and attacking the wagon trains and the news of the terrible experiences of the early pioneers, they kept plodding toward the west.

In March a certain family embarked from eastern Ohio on an Ohio river boat destined for St. Louis on the Mississippi. All was indeed new to all save the father and husband who had been in this western country for a season and had returned to Ohio for the family to make their future home in Kansas. Making their way from St. Louis to Kansas City, Kansas, the family landed on Kansas soil April 1st, 1870, and embarked to Junction City, and on to Council Grove. This family was the guest of B. R. Scott, who with his wife and one daughter, Minnie, and the head of this family, J. P. Scott, had come to Council Grove in 1869.

The home of our subject's uncle was a two room log house in the southeast part of the town. So in due time J. P. Scott bought a forty-acre farm six miles north of Council Grove for $1,000, on which farm was an old hut. A few apple trees had been planted and some rails made from the trunks for fencing a small tract of broke land. So this family of father, mother and seven brothers and sisters had at last been located after such a long, long journey, in a modest home on a peaceful little stream called Short Creek. Here the fierce winds of the cold bleak winter and the hot, scorching sun of the summer was endured.

The great toil and privation of pioneering was borne with grace, determination, and patience. No churches, and school several miles away, and many hardships to battle—drouth, then hot winds, and hot winds and drouth. Then in 1874 and 1875 came the grasshoppers which ate everything that looked like vegetation. So great was the damage that aid from eastern states was sent to people in Kansas. So, on July 2, 1875, the subject of this sketch was born in an humble home out in sunny Kansas. In due time he was named Samuel C. Scott, this skinny, freckled faced, tow-headed boy. But in spite of grasshoppers, cyclones and hot winds he grew and grew to be a lad of five years and entered summer school taught by Miss

Home of S. C. Scott, Lawrence, Kans.

Laura Finney. The distance to school was only two miles, but the trip was made. My earliest recollections date back to April before my birthday of 4 when my father and I went to Parkerville, Kansas, to buy a leather harness for the big black mules, Jack and Joe. The harness was purchased of John Moser, a German harness maker.

Parkerville was a booming little town then on the upper Neosho river which had been sparring with Council Grove for the county capital which Council Grove copped off. Well, the leather whip lash Mr. Moser gave me sure was a whiz. Never in my life had I received such a fine gift and that from a stranger. But that same winter I received from a much esteemed uncle a piece of cloth for a new suit and shiny buttons to go on it. Gee, I was really fixed good and plenty. My first school teacher was a Miss Downing, daughter of my father's old-time friend. I had wonderfully competent teachers, as the many fine scholars will testify, that were turned out of the old Lull School. My father built the school house, but in later years it was found too small and my father contracted for a much larger one for the district. There were certain rules laid down at home for the children of our family. If we got a "licken" at school we got another at home, and few questions were asked. Time seemed to pass rather slow in my younger and teen age; perhaps it's the same verdict other boys and girls would give. But in spite of our hardships and poverty, in spite of the long, long road to school, we enjoyed life, and learned great lessons of trust and endurance.

Personally, I was somewhat of a runt, hair always hanging down over my ears and eyes, and was of a peevish, whiny disposition. The reason I remember these very discouraging childish features was from the comments of my brothers, sisters and others. Then along with all this seeming natural handicap I was the unluckiest cuss in the whole family. Just to be plain, I could not walk 300 yards without stubbing my toe on something, and would have to be towed in for repairs. It kept from two to three of the family waiting on me all the while. No doubt all you folks have heard of children having the six-months' colic; well, I had it six years. However, in spite of all these handicaps I lived thru it all. Personally, as I grew older, I imagined none around home liked me, and of course I was not to blame (in my own estimation). If I couldn't fuss with anyone else I would try to start a fuss with myself. But thanks to my father and mother I am what I am. Sunday School and Church was attended and the early teaching I received I never will forget. I have always regretted my father passing to his reward when I was but thirteen years old. I can imagine that my life would have had another course should he have lived until I was of a more mature age. But no man ever had a more estimable mother than I. Well I remember in after years I had united with a church for more effective training in life, and soon afterwards I was selected as superintendent of a country Sunday School in the old Lull district where I had gone to school as a lad, clad in jeans with one gallus hanging over my shoulder. My mother always was present on the front seat. Never will I forget what help this was to a green gawky country boy. I bow my head in solemn gratitude for such a mother. Old schoolmates came from every part of the country, and took part. They represented every denomination of faith in the community including the Catholic folk. And again I bow in solemn gratitude for the appreciation shown by the dear people of that religious faith. I drifted here and there in the county in which I was born, serving for the Sunday School, and for five years was county secretary for the schools of the county, serving in that capacity for sixteen years including Council Grove for two years, and assistant for two years.

In my boyhood days I was very fond of tools and was always trying to make or build something. My father was a carpenter, so always I hung about his tool chests. Of course, I never bothered his tools when he laid them down. Well, my love for tools led me later on into the carpentry trade. My personal estimate of myself is that while I've made many business blunders I have been very fortunate in many ways.

I was united in marriage to Myrtle E. Whitlach on June 11, 1903. Our life together was most mutual indeed. She was a great favorite among the young people and I tried to be. To this union two sons and one daughter were born, Warren O., Walter Howard, and Kathryn Audrey. But on November 3, 1913, the wife and mother passed away leaving myself and the small children, Audrey being only six months old. To say this was a shock to me is but weakness. All plans for our future now were wrecked. Only those passing thru these ordeals of life can sympathize with one bereft of wife and left with small children. But may I state here that this has changed the whole state of my life. My intentions were changed so all I could hope to do was to try and provide temporal things for my children. And I can say with a clear conscience that they were all that I was living for. Their weifare and happiness is my goal. No man ever had better brothers and sisters than I, and with their help and benediction I am striving to pass my latter years in life doing all the good I can. I have passed the peak of life and am now passing down the other side. But to help me in my onward course I was united in marriage on April 20th, 1917, to Mrs. Callie D. Thomas. Together we are marching down the avenue of time. We are especially blest with my three children and her son, Charles, all nearly in manhood and womanhood, ready to go out in this big world to enter vocations for themselves. As I look back over the years that are past and gone I see many blunders I have made. But the first lesson I learned in my early Christian teachings from Grandma Bolton was this: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." So I can look my schoolmates and friends in the face and say I did my best.

As the boys of our family grew older the more real fun we had. I can remember the literaries held in our vicinity at different school houses; we loved to debate. Always two on one side and one on the other: such roaring and puffing we would do. And in all kinds of pranks to help the doings along. The worst dose to any of our friends was when three of us brothers gathered at one home to see three sisters; now, that's about the limit. But all lived thru it and no one hurt only myself, I had to hoof it home, my horse was gone. We had more fun in a week then than young folks have now in a lifetime. We often had to play a three or four handed game at the box socials, especially when one of our gang was put up for the most popular lady. Few families of boys stuck together as we did; this, of course, was in our favor, and passing on down through life it has been the same thing; few difficulties that ever bothered us. Well, looking back over my younger days I see a vast difference then and now. If a young man had a few cents in his pockets he was in luck. Now it takes a thousand dollar car and about seven dollars and a half to induce a girl to go to a cheap show, and the next night some other guy will take her out, and so the world goes on. My experience has been quite varied in all realms of life.

Experience is a dear teacher at times, but fools will learn in no other, so as we grow older, we become a little slower in our movements and yet, we at this time remember the things that happened in our youth.

The very early Morris County settlers are all fresh in my memory, both as to their faces and business. It gives me great pleasure to study the movements and lives of those early pioneers and rehearse those old times with others. My efforts in compiling the records of my father and mother's families have indeed been wonderfully blest. I have met so many old friends of my parents, that it takes me back to the beginning of Council Grove. I have spent hours meditating over the times the early settlers experienced. Forty years ago my father passed away. To look back the time seems short now. But to think of forty years hence, few that are reading this book will be here. And we will pass this way but once. I often wonder if we really appreciated life as we should, and our relative families as we might. Little do we think what a kind word or deed will mean to one in need of sympathy. So as we pass along may we be a real friend to man. We are yet living in the speculative age, man will try anything or do anything for money. To me, some are going money-crazy. Thus our ambitions are made manifest.

Of all the wonderful and commanding things of life, none are greater than the principle of "being" does not change. The things that were true yesterday and today, were true countless ages ago, and will so remain through all time. The earth moves in a giant orbit and completes its course on an exact and appointed time. The principle of life changes not at all and the things that distinguish man from all else is written as of old when it is said, "Days should speak and multitudes of years speaketh wisdom. But there is a spirit in man that giveth understanding." There is a fixed law of life, there is a fixed law in life that every one and everything has a perfect right to the reward in harmony with the amount of effort put forth. The absolute balance of good, equalling always all the combined forces of evil is a scientific truth that can be proved any time and any place. The poor are no less happy than the rich nor are they of any less value.

Ability is given everyone, and use of this ability and opportunity to demonstrate it, are the only distinguishing marks between the great and the small. While "Days do speak and in our material life experience is yet the great teacher, still it is the "spirit of understanding" in man that recognizes the balance of things, and finally records the harmony that permits life itself, and guards every step of progress; we may feel as though our lot has really been in vain, but may we stop to consider every life of any duration whatever has a mission. Then what is man but a being in the realm of a perfect science destined to live and die and live again. Nothing is lost in this world. So may all of us dedicate our lives to the task before us as we pass in the great Review.

FORESIGHT AND HOPE

A teacher of old gave us courage by saying that the darkest hour is just before dawn. Throughout the life of people and nations, philosophers have said that in the deepest discouragements are born renewed hope and determination. Storms sweep our lands and war clouds loom, but we can remember that out of every disaster, there is saved a remnant. We learn to prize safety only by escape from danger and to appreciate plenty only after we have known want. We prize the true after we have known the pain and sorrow of the false. Still, through all difficulties and out of them all, there has been a way of escape if we but look. There is "an highway" as of old, and even though dark days seem to surround us, we may know that bright skies are due. We are not asked to determine the harvest, but we are asked to do our part and our work is to sow and to till. We cannot advance in this life by asking that our work be done for us, nor if bins were always full would we be content. It is ours to do our best and to do well the things of each day as they come to our hand. If we return a full account of each moment, each hour, each day as they are given us, we will find at the close of the year, that we have not only traveled far in the direction of better things, but that we will have gathered a material harvest greater than we had ever thought. There is nothing lost in doing good, nor is there lack of wisdom in cloud or light. They are all above us and beyond us, and for them we are not to account, but the talent given in our keeping, we are held to render its return with something added. Progress is the law of life, and progress is the product of doing. Our work is here and it is within our grasp and power to do our best.

High Lights of History

About 1830 Anti-Slavery societies began to be formed in the north. The most radical of these tried in every way to rid the country of slavery. They encouraged the slaves to run away and assisted them to escape. The efforts of the Abolitionists angered the South and caused the planters to cling tighter than ever to slavery. When our country began to expand westward and new territories were being settled there arose a conflict for the supremacy of the new lands between the free soilers of the North and the pro-slavery men of the South. This long controversy brought Americans to the realization that, though one nation, they were divided into two distinct sections differing in ideas and interest. These rival sections began to disagree on other national issues, and the tariff question took its place beside slavery as a cause for dispute. From this rivalry grew two opposing theories of the union itself. The Northern view as set forth by Webster was that all the states as well as all the people were bound by the Federal Constitution.

The South believed the doctrine of Calhoun that the constitution was merely an agreement between sovereign states, each having the right to secede from the Union. These conflicting views intensified the spirit of sectionalism. Sectionalism led to secession and secession to Civil War.

The California gold craze of 1848 to 1855 led many families from the east to the west. Some dropped out all along the way. In 1845, 24 families left Ohio to go west with ox teams. Ahiga Scott and family were in the bunch. Many hardships were endured. This was many years before the Civil War. John Scott stayed in Missouri until a year before the war of 1861, then had to move out going to Washington territory. Stacy Snodgrass, John Snodgrass, and their father, Lemuel Snodgrass, started west in 1857.

In traveling through the country people had to be very careful of their movements and what they said. All returned to the State of Ohio before the War of 1861-1865, except John Scott who had gone previously farther into the northwest territory. Many of the Scotts remained in Missouri and Iowa. Some went back to Indiana and Illinois, while some went into Texas. After the war the Snodgrass folks began to scatter out in different states. The Scott families were settled in Ohio many years before the Snodgrass folks moved into the state. Lemuel Snodgrass and family moved into Ohio in 1848. Lucy Scott, my father's oldest sister, was born in Ohio in 1828 and her father in 1807. These two families are from the same counties of Ohio and are related in many ways. The writer is only opening up the avenue for your consideration.

For the past 125 years the direct record of the Snodgrass descendants represent thrift and honesty, and their loyalty to state and country are most wonderful. Their religious status are the principles of the "Golden Rule." Most of their affiliations have been with the Christian Disciples, altho their church labors and actions are of a quiet nature, as they are not of the hypocritic disposition. They delight in the fact that they were pioneers and love to talk of their early experiences in the different states. Their greatest asset in life is their grit and determination to succeed in whatever vocation they happened to select. The women of the different families are noted for their home making and home building, and rearing of large families, and also the manner in which they meet the trials and difficulties of life.

Passing thru the great wars of 1812 to 1815, the trouble with the Indians in the western part of our country and Mexico, the great Civil War of 1861-1865, and the Spanish-American war of 1898, on down to the world war of 1914-1918, records show that the Snodgrass people were always on the side of right and justice. They lived in a period as did other families where the home was the "church and school," so to speak. Contrast, if you please, the chance for an education then and now, and the quality of the men and women. We boast of the many advancements today over those olden days. But are not these same improvements the work and labors of descendants of these and other great families? To be sure they are.

We are still in the experimental age, and not so much for necessity's sake as then either. They tried to meet the demand of the times. We are ahead of the times now, much to our ruin. The world is in a mad craze to rush ahead not stopping to consider things in any realm of sense. Not really living but existing: the rich or the poor. Too many laws and too few really obeyed, literally running over each other to go here and there.

The writer is asking your kind and just consideration of the awful contrast between early pioneer days of our grandparents and the present. If we fail to profit by the trial and perplexities of the past, we are not getting the best out of this present life.

By way of experience and trust we say, no, we would not exchange our present times for the former. That we must press on and on to a higher and better goal. Very well, how should we arrive at such a goal?

By unfair and unjust measures. Must individuals suffer and be punished by law and otherwise that we may satisfy our desires? Are we more willing to take than give? After all, what is the greatest gift we may give to humanity? What are the signs of the times? I need not endeavor to relate or explain facts and experiences, that we may get a view of past and present. You, my dear reader, may solve this and decide for yourself. We are all indeed proud of our ancestors and are willing to stand by the profound laws and habits they made and lived by. Our object is to instill in the minds of the young of today the great heritage that has been tendered to us and them, through the noble and pure generations that have passed on before. Are we making the sacrifice for our children and our country, and our homes, as those grand old patriarchs of old?

Battle of Chicamauga, Lookout Mountain and Snodgrass Hill

Battle of Snodgrass Hill was fought September 19 and 20, 1865, near the close of the great Civil War of 1861 to 1865. The Confederates swept on until they came to the timbered and wooded crest of the "Snodgrass Hill." At this noted point from 3:00 o'clock until nightfall the battle raged on and on, which ended in a victory for the Union Army. Up the slope of Snodgrass Hill the Confederates charged only to be mowed down by the Union forces. Seldom has history recorded a more gallant fight—this one at Snodgrass Hill. Few places of battle in history are recorded by the names of persons. But this one is very dear to the memory of the four uncles and other relatives of the compiler. History abounds in the war records of these places near Snodgrass Hill in the southern part of Tennessee. You may acquaint yourself with this place by looking it up in history.

Field officers of Volunteers and Militia in the service of the United States during the war of the Rebellion in 1812-1815: James Snodgrass, Lieutenant Colonel, 9th Pennsylvania Reserves; William H. Snodgrass, Lieutenant Colonel 22nd Indiana Infantry. Commissioned officers of the United States from 1789 to 1903: William Snodgrass, Tennessee, 2nd Lieutenant 7th Infantry, February 10, 1812; First Lieutenant Colonel, 1813 to 1814. James Snodgrass, Pennsylvania, 2nd Lieutenant, April 26th, 1861. This does not include enlisted men.*

*These are United States records regarding commissioned officers. The fact that they are from different states is the best evidence that they came to America in the early migration to American seaboard. I am satisfied from the very best authority that their veins are rich in Scotch-Irish blood as well as in German. In studying the lives of the early Snodgrass folk, I am impressed with the fact that they did not enter political or religious life, but were more for possessions than either of the previous. However, they were good soldiers and stood foursquare for America.

LEMUEL SNODGRASS, SR.

Born August 14, 1800, in Pennsylvania, died September 14, 1886, Alta Vista, Kansas. Being 86 years 28 days old. Married Jane Stephens, born 1801 in Virginia. She died September 12, 1889. Diamond Springs, Kansas. Lemuel died at the home of his son, G. W. Snodgrass, and was buried in the cemetery one-half mile south and one and one-quarter mile east of Alta Vista, Kansas. His son, G. W. Snodgrass, and his wife, are buried by his side. "Grand Pap," as we called him, was born over 127 years ago. Born in Pennsylvania, later moved to Virginia, then Ohio, and spent the latter years of his life in "Sunny Kansas." The story of this life of over 86 years would indeed fill a large volume. The pioneering life, full of want and misery, and all that tends to make a well-rounded out life. He saw our nation plunged into the great war of the Rebellion, no doubt had relatives serving in that great conflict, as the government record verifies that William Snodgrass was made 2nd Lieutenant on February 12, 1812, and several others from different states, that of Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

He was not an enlisted man as he was only 12 years of age when that great war broke out.

However, he was a man of great memory. Very few men saw pioneering as he saw it. In the early 50's he crossed the great plains with two sons and an ox-team and went as far west as "Pike's Peak."

The hardship and danger he must have endured: we, today, wonder if such could be true. It takes nerve to set out on a trip like that. To leave home and kindred folk, civilization and all, left behind knowing not how soon Indians or robbers might swoop down on the little party of men and cut them down. Sleeping on their guns and at times taking turns sitting up at night watching, and to keep the fires burning.

They did not then know nor realize that some day great fields of golden grain would be waving in the breezes in that, then, the great American desert. This is a gentle reminder of what people will do for lands, money and gold. The wonderful gold craze of California has rung thru the ears of many a man and thrilled him with the idea that it was easy. But there's nothing easy that's worth while. Experience of that kind would be out of the ordinary life today because we are seeking our fame and fortune on easier terms. But in that day they had not the blessings at hand we have.

How did we get it? Why, by their experience, pluck, and common vision. We, today, cannot explore and dream dreams of great gold fields lying afar off beyond the mountains to the west. But we, too, are doing things that would seem most impossible to those great men of the pioneer days. Men of all ages have met the times square in the face. Let there be a thing worth while and there will be a man to master the situation.

See what we have today they didn't have 127 years ago when that blue-eyed boy was born in a humble home in Pennsylvania. Great railroad systems, telegraph and telephone, mowing and reaping machines, threshers, combines, steam plowing, plowing with gasoline, automobiles going 125 miles per hour, great airships, planes, going to North Pole by air, and thousands of other inventions too numerous to mention. The radio, and now talking to other continents as in the same room. But the great men of yesterday are the ones which have made possible and given to us the ease we enjoy today.

Now, coming back to this old patriarch, we learn great lessons of endurance, perseverance and self-denial. These are the things that live after we have passed away. Few, indeed, know something of the great trials and tribulations, such as our grandparents endured for the upbuilding of this great nation, and, later in their years raised sons to go out and fight for our beloved country. Why, then, should we forget to cherish the memory of ones so brave and true as our forefathers were. Years have passed, yea centuries, and we are here now to reverence the name of our grandfather. May we stop and consider the wives and mothers of these men of the Nineteenth Century. To say that she did her part and did it well is but putting it mildly. The wife of those early days played a big part in the building of this great nation of our's—the heartaches, the drudgery, the long hours, the care of the home and children, the making of cloth and clothing, preparing the food, and seeing that food was procured. They had to look ahead for week and months. They did not have a grocery store in five to thirty minutes' distance from the home. Neither did they live out of tin cans and paper sacks as we do today. Those old sainted women of 1800 and 1900 can hardly be duplicated today. To mother thirteen children and raise eleven to past threescore and ten is a real mother's task. See the great sons and daughters of that humble home in the Virginia hills, no school but the home scarcely, no church but the great mother-teacher. May we bow our heads in silence, in reverence, to the memory of our forefathers. Little did she think she would move to this great plain of the west and end her days in the very Diamond Valley in and thru which her husband had passed many years before, and to be buried in the cemetery with her son and grandson. We learn to love the things we are most interested in. Really, we should love and cherish the great efforts of our forefathers and mothers. The same must be said of the wife as of the husband. We also learn great lessons of thrift and of that real pluck that it takes to make a full rounded-out life. We think we have hardships to endure suffering and privation, but nothing to be compared with what those dear people had to contend with. They did not have medical aid within a few minutes or hours as we do, so they must educate themselves to the task of doing for themselves. Matches were not invented until 1828 or about that time. Great care had to be taken to keep the fire. I have heard my grandfather tell of borrowing fire coals. They did not have the gas and electric ovens that we have now—not even the cast oven, but did the cooking about the fireplace. The great fireplace was the light to the home, and around it the stories of the day were related. Children were there trained in the making of a home. Both the boys and the girls. So the lessons of thrift and pluck were learned from the parents.

Divorces were never heard of at that time. Neither the "hum drum" foolishness of our day. May we, as we cast our thoughts and minds on this great home builder, do it with a reverence of a great heritage.

We cast our thoughts back over a hundred years, but can not tell what the morrow will bring us. We cannot comprehend what a life of 80 years may or can bring us. May some of the things mentioned here cause us to stop and think, "What are we living for?"

We are proud of the fact our subject kept a pocket diary, which states that Lemuel Snodgrass arrived at James P. Scott's June 21, 1870, fifty-seven years ago. This day-book is now with his granddaughter, Mrs. J. H. Gomis of Wilsey, Kansas. Lemuel seems to be a Snodgrass name, as two of his grandsons bear that name as well as great grandchildren.

He was a private under Captain Thomas I. Malony Jr., Co. G, Second Regiment of U. S. Infantry. He was honorably discharged from the service on the seventh day of November, 1865, at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He came immediately to the vicinity of Louisville, Kansas, where he has continuously made his home since that time. He has received his mail through the Louisville post office for the past sixty-five years.

In the departure of Mr. McNay the state has lost a staunch citizen, the church a loyal member and the community a jovial, generous neighbor.

The battle's fought, the race is run,
And thou art crowned at last."

The funeral was held from the Methodist church in Louisville at 2:00 p. m., Feb. 24, sermon by D. Ira Beamer, of Wamego. Burial in Louisville.

THOMAS S. SNODGRASS

Was born in Monongahala County, Virginia, on November 21, 1830. Died in Salina, Kansas, in 1912. Was married in the state of Ohio to Miss Betsy Province, in 1854, she having passed away in Kansas, near Diamond Springs, in 1894. Both were buried in the cemetery at Diamond Springs, Kansas, Morris County.

"Tom" Snodgrass, as he was commonly known, moved to Ohio from Virginia when but a young lad. He was one of those men that knew how to earn his bread and living by the sweat of his brow. Was the mainstay at home when a boy and young man. "Tom" was one his father could always depend on to do the heavy. He and wife reared a family of ten children seven of whom grew to manhood and womanhood. He in company with his youngest son, T. C., came to Kansas in the spring of 1884. The following fall the remainder of his family came. He was a stonemason by trade, and that year (1884) laid the foundation for a school house for which J. P. Scott was contractor.

He purchased a fine farm of 160 acres in the Diamond Valley bottoms. Soon after he bought the farm the A. T. & S. F. R. R. surveyed a branch line from Strong City to Abilene, Kansas. In due time in 1886 the railroad was built, which ran diagonal thru his farm and the old log house in which he lived was on the "right of way." He had heavy timber on his farm so engaged a saw mill and got out lumber for a large barn and other buildings, also bought two carloads of pine lumber for a large house. With very hard work and good management, fortune favored him, and he accumulated a large tract of land, and later leased out the land and moved to Alta Vista, then Wilsey, Kansas, and finally to Salina, Kansas.

He owned property in all these towns. While living in Wilsey, Kansas, he suffered a broken leg. But with kind nursing and a lot of pluck on his part he got well, finally moving to Salina, Kansas.

His life was full of action. He was not in service in the Civil War, but saw the real service at home. Not all the real hardships were in the battle lines of which the good wives and sweethearts of the soldiers will testify. He was the slave of the Snodgrass boys, so to speak. He had a great memory, could talk and converse on any subject intelligently, and was a man of pure motives. His honesty and integrity was never questioned. He had made many friends during his life in Morris County, and was a man that featured in almost everything that went on in the western part of the county. He like the other brothers was not a politician; however, he had his own views on the matter and was ever ready to defend them. He was a Jeffersonian Democrat, and defended his policy at the polls. He was a staunch believer in the Christian religion. However, he did not unite with any particular church until late in life, uniting with the Christian Church faith.

He delighted to visit his brothers and sister (as he only had one sister in Kansas) always talking all night over the past, present and future of all. As I stated previously he had a wonderful memory, which proved useful to him many times in any argument. He called a spade a spade, and never hesitated to go into detail about any subject at issue. He was a man of pure habits and a strong constitution. His early life was matured lifting logs, building houses, barn and tobacco-houses, log-rolling as they called them, ready at all times to take the big end of the log. This great man lived to be 82 years old, and all these years were years of toil and labor, but not in vain. He left farm houses and money as results of his great toil and perseverance. But greater and more noble yet, he left a life well lived, he lived his convictions. He lived and practiced the "Golden Rule." He passed from this life an honored husband and father, and esteemed neighbor and citizen.

Was born in state of Virginia, in 1830, and died in Salina, Kansas, in 1912. He was married to Betsy Province, born 1828, and died at Diamond Springs, Kansas, in 1894. Ten children were born to them, the oldest child died in infancy born in 1857.

Amanda E. Snodgrass born 1857. Died July 10, 1901.

Uriah Snodgrass born 1858. Died 1886.

Lemuel P. Snodgrass born 1859. Died July 16, 1926.

Elizabeth A. Snodgrass born 1861.

Thomas C. Snodgrass born 1863.

Matilda Jane Snodgrass born 1864.

Rachel U. Snodgrass born 1866.

Patience A. Snodgrass born 1867. Died August, 1869.

Mary Etta Snodgrass born 1868. Died August, 1869.

Note: Thomas S. Snodgrass and wife both were buried at Diamond Springs, Kansas, also Amanda E., Uriah and Lemuel P., are buried there.

The oldest and two youngest are buried in Ohio, the state they were born in. All the children of this family were born in Ohio.

The funeral service was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the Bird Creek Church, conducted by Rev. Jobe Ingram. A choir from Kingfisher furnished the music. The house was crowded with sorrowing friends and relatives. The pall-bearers were the grandsons of the deceased, with leading citizens of the Community acting as honorary pall-bearers, and four grand daughters acted as Flower-girls. After the services at the Church his remains were laid to rest in Bird Creek cemetery by the side of his wife and children.

nia gold fields with ox-team over the western plains of Kansas and Colorado in 1854. This was a vast desert of prairie inhabited with Indians, buffaloes and prairie dogs. Trading posts were scarce and far between. They went in caravans to protect each other from the attack of Indians and the outlaw gangs that paraded the plain for profit in the plunder they got off the immigrants going and coming from the western plains. Stacy and his father returned to Ohio after many months of travel and hardship. But his brother John went on over the range and joined the government forces to fight the Indians of the west country.

Stacy was united in marriage to Celia A. Provence, who was born May 19, 1838, in Pennsylvania. He served in the great Civil War for the North, enlisting November 8, 1861, in Company "I," 77th Ohio Regulars, serving three years, re-enlisting for the duration of the war; was discharged November 8, 1865, at Brownsville, Texas, by reason of disability. GEORGE W. SNODGRASS

Was born in Monongahala County, West Virginia, February 14, 1843. Moved to Ohio with his parents in early childhood. When the great Civil War of 1861 to 1865 broke out he enlisted in the 92nd Ohio Infantry. He was an efficient soldier. He married Miss Sarah C. Carr, Brown County, Kansas, April 8, 1867. Five children were born to this union, all dying in infancy except our Honorable J. L. Snodgrass of Alta Vista, Kansas. He was an early pioneer, settling in the southwest part of Wabaunsee County, Kansas, in 1870. He was a farmer and stock raiser and was always interested in church and school. He, with his wife and son, were members of the Alta Vista M. E. Church. He had great pride in the G. A. R. as did his good wife, also. The compiler of these records and he attended the National G. A. R. Encampment in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1898.

I have spent many nights under his roof and shoved my feet under his table many times. Mr. and Mrs. Snodgrass were a jolly pair. We always had a good time when we went there. He stayed with Kansas through thick and thin, "lots of it pretty thin, too." So finally, when his son married, he bought property and moved to Alta Vista, Kansas, where both he and his wife remained to the end. He was sole sponsor for the Snodgrass reunion celebrated at his home at Alta Vista; he paying all bills.

Few people realize what it really meant to pioneer in Kansas. His health never was the very best. But he kept out of debt and that was a big job in those pioneer days. He was a faithful worker and admirer of the I. O. O. F. Lodge of which he was a member when he was called hence. He was quite active in politics, altho never was a candidate, always a staunch believer in the G. O. P. He was well posted, as he read a great deal. He spent his latter days jollyng other folks. Mr. Snodgrass was a man of exceptionally fine character and reputation, and honest and straight as a string in all transactions.

His father always made regular visits to his sons on old "Biddy," from time to time. His last visit was in September of 1886, his father was taken suddenly very ill, lingered only a short time, and passed away happy. He was buried in the cemetery at Alta Vista, Kansas, in which the subject of this sketch and wife have since been buried. Here lie father and son of two centuries, side by side. He was a kind husband and a good father, and left an only son, a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure. Funeral was conducted by the order of the I. O. O. F. at Alta Vista, at the M. E. Interment was in Alta Vista cemetery.

JOSEPH L. SNODGRASS

Son of G. W. Snodgrass and wife, and was born in Wabaunsee County, Kansas, June 19, 1874. He grew to manhood in the vicinity and attended school at Alta Vista, Kansas. He is the only survivor of the family now. He experienced many hardships as a young man, not having the companionship of brother or sister, four of them having passed to the beyond in their infancy. However, he was a great favorite in his community and enjoyed that immensely. He was united in marriage to Miss Laura M. Coulman on September 26, 1900, at the family home near Alta Vista, Kansas. Six (6) children were born to this union.

Lemuel, as we all know him, has had varied experience in this vicinity. He was the first mayor of Alta Vista, Kansas, and handled the job in a creditable manner. He has been active in all the affairs of the little city since its founding some thirty-eight years ago. His services are always ready for any and all jobs to be done gratis. He has been very active in the promotion of the Snodgrass reunion and is now the acting honorable president.

Laura M. Coulman (Snodgrass) was born

Sarah C. Carr (Snodgrass) was born April 10, 1846 in Orange County, New York, coming to Kansas, in early pioneer times and locating in Brown County, Kansas, with her parents. She was married to G. W. She passed away on April 22, 1899, in Alta Vista, Kansas. Both G. W. and wife and deceased children are buried in Alta Vista Cemetery.

J. C. SNODGRASS

Was born at Flints Mill, Monroe County, Ohio, May 29, 1854. Came to Kansas in fall of 1869, with his father's family, from New Matamoras, Ohio, to Kansas City, by boat. Thence to Wamego, Kansas, by railroad. Was twenty-one days on the road. Landed in Wamego, Kansas, on October 13, 1869. They were the first Snodgrass family to migrate to Pottawatomie County, Kansas, fifty-eight years ago. He has been a resident of that county since his advent to the state soon after the Civil War was over, being fifteen years of age when he came to Kansas. Living a lifetime in Kansas, and many years longer than any other Snodgrass ever lived in the state.

He was educated and grew up in the vicinity in which he now lives, at Louisville, Kansas, some three miles from Wamego, Kansas. Few old timers that are not acquainted with "Jim." Even to women and children of today. He is the most widely known horse buyer in Kansas, spent many years in feeding and selling horses and mules. You can't fool "Jim" on a "Hoss," so don't try it. He has been in the auction business for twenty-five years since the advent of the automobile as the horse market was impaired at their coming. His services call him to all parts of the state. His ability to judge and sell is not questioned. His jovial manner in which he conducts his sales and handles the crowd is a wonder. Jim knows his "biz." His name is a household word in his section of the state.

His early life, needless to say, was that of a pioneer in Kansas. Few settlements in his part of Kansas in the 60s. Indians everywhere. One railroad ran through the county as far as Junction City, Kansas. The Civil War had closed only a few years and everything was in the usual aftermath of war. Kansas was much different than Ohio. Settlements much more sparsely; less timber, more land that was level, and so farming was the order of the times, and very uncertain at best. Droughts, floods, grasshoppers, and this and that, one after the other, made it uncertain. Markets were poor, transportation was as bad. So all in all the early Kansas pioneers had a real battle to exist. Schools and churches were inadequate and labor was cheap. No money to buy with, nor pay with. Only those that saw real pioneering can really realize the hardships in general. Many had to abandon their homes and go back "east." Aid was sent to Kansas from eastern states. Many of the men in charge of the relief funds and provisions profited thereby, as they did during and following the World War, 1914-1918.

Wamego, a thriving town on the Kansas River, noted for its fine Park everywhere on the Union Pacific Railroad; Louisville, Kansas, a beautiful inland town some three miles north of Wamego, on a beautiful little stream flowing into the Kansas River; a beautiful park, a swinging foot bridge: In this little city our subject resides with his good wife. He was united in marriage to Minerva Edwards, in October, 1876. Four children were born to them: Hattie J.; Edward P.; Francis O.; Harry L.; all born in Pottawatomie County, Kansas.

"Jim" Snodgrass is a man of fine character and always willing to do his part. The writer of this "Memo," can recall many pleasant times spent together. He was a dear friend of my father. "Jim" has always had a tender spot in his memory for the Scott people, my mother being his aunt. He is a staunch promoter of the Snodgrass Reunion, being next to the oldest living Snodgrass, and the oldest one residing in any certain state of the Union.

No one has done more for the welfare of the name than he. His views on politics and religion are sound and reasonable. He has led a conscientious Christian life based on the practice of the "golden rule." He is ever willing to say a kind word and do a kind deed to all, and seeks and merits the goodwill of all. In him the town and community has a good citizen and law-abiding neighbor and friend.

His fidelity and trust we all should covet. He is not a man of a determination to become rich in worldly goods, but the very opposite. No one can become a grasping money fiend and be a friend to man. Rather, it's the forgetting of man and kindred that gives one that craze for money. So may we study ourselves, our motives and see where we are. You, my dear reader, can look back and view the past, but how far can we see yonder.

This, then, is my aim, to reveal the best in man; who dare say otherwise?

Minerva Edwards, wife of J. C. Snodgrass was born February 11, 1859, and died in February, 1883. Three children were born to this union, Hattie, Jerry, and Omar.

J. C. Snodgrass was married to Helen Holloway of Cass County, Missouri, and she was born October 7, 1859, in Cass County, Missouri. One son was born to them, Harry Snodgrass. Mrs. Snodgrass' parents were: Lawson Holloway, her father, born January 28, 1820, at Nashville, Tenn; her mother, Mahala Jackson (Holloway) born November 22, 1826, in Cass County, Missouri.

J. C. Snodgrass now resides at Louisville, Kansas. Mrs. Snodgrass' parents were pioneers in Missouri over 100 years ago; a long record, indeed.

The last wife of Francis Snodgrass was Anna Barnhart. They had two children, George and Mary Snodgrass. Mrs. Snodgrass and children live in East Liverpool, Ohio.

Andrew Snodgrass, son of Francis Snodgrass and Lucinda Springer was born in Ohio, died April, 1926, at Phoenix, Arizona. He married Jennie Gammil of Council Grove, Kansas. Three children were born to this union. Florence Snodgrass married Mr. Patton. They have three children. Tattie L. McManys has two children, Glen Snodgrass and wife, all of Phoenix, Arizona.

Uriah Provence and Jesse Provence were brothers and married sisters. Uriah Provence married Matilda Spencer and Jesse Provence married Celia Spencer. Stacy S. Snodgrass married Celia Provence, daughter of J. Provence, and Thomas S. Snodgrass married Elizabeth Provence, daughter of Uriah Provence. Both had large families and lived to be over 82 years old.

S. P. SNODGRASS

Born in Virginia March 3, 1845. Early in life moved to Ohio, at the age of 3 years. He worked hard in early years, was saving and very energetic. He was employed on river boats in Ohio, on the Ohio river in pioneer times, and was the youngest in the family; perhaps had the usual ups and down with all its advantages and disadvantages. All of the brothers except two, Francis and Thomas, had enlisted in the army of the North. S. P. Snodgrass, then under 21 years of age, was loyal to himself and desired to be loyal to the Stars and Stripes as well as his country. So he offered himself to the service of the North. However, before he could reach the battle line the war that had raged for nearly five years was at an end. It was a terrible war, indeed; but seemed inevitable to pass for him without much reprivation and bloodshed. His brothers, however, who had been in the fierce battles, received no serious wounds. May it be said at this time that no family has a better record for thrift and honesty.

So, naturally, after the war, they all returned to their native state (Ohio) and entered again into life's peaceful vocations. Only those that have wives and children can imagine the sorrow and hardships those Snodgrass boys (so to speak) had to endure, as well as the dear sisters that were rearing families at home, working, toiling early and late, waiting for the good news to come any day, but which was detained for several years during the war. "We talk of droughts, grasshoppers (I was born along about that time), sickness, and all the common mishaps of everyday life, but none equals war," and more especially the war of 1861 to 1865, as nearly if not all able-bodied men were enlisted in our own America, that in 1812 was purchased by great privation and bloodshed. Many instances of the 1861 to 1865 war was that of one brother against another, both fighting for what they honestly thought was right and just. But one must have been right, the other wrong.

These courageous Snodgrass boys and girls (pardon the allusion) were just as eager to make good in life as business men as they were as soldiers, may it be said now that no business is greater or of more importance than farming and stock-raising, and here is where the Snodgrass family excel. (You know all of us excel in something.) All of the boys became large landholders. Not many acres of cheap land, but always the best. And as the rule in many families they too, moved westward. John Stacy, Thomas, and George W., and Lucretia Scott Snodgrass, came to Kansas in an early day and saw much of the hardships of pioneering. Not merely to grow up with the country, but to make the country grow. May I stop here and state that Martha L. Snodgrass, the wife of James P. Scott, was the only one of the girls that had early Kansas pioneering. She experienced the droughts, grasshoppers and Indians, and sparse settlements. Aid from other mother states was sent to Kansas from the eastern seaboard during the grasshopper period, which gave rise to many lurid stories about Kansas. Many formed very vague and wild ideas concerning this, the best state in the United States of America. But all the rank stories concerning Kansas did not bluff Samuel P. Snodgrass; he made continued trips to Kansas, and of course on returning to Ohio would naturally think more of Kansas than his then beloved Ohio, and to prove the proof of the pudding, began to invest in Kansas land by one-half section at a clip. And Kansas looked so good to him that in 1903 he moved with wife, one son and two daughters to Kansas to make his future home.

May we now return to S. P. Snodgrass for the final climax. All of the brothers and sister have preceded him to the place from which no one returns, and he has united with the Christian Church, is over the peak, so to speak. He was not a statesman, neither a politician, but a man of stern determination, with a sound mind in a healthy body, good judgment, a good husband and a kind father. He, like many, no doubt made mistakes. Who has not?

The same could be said of all his brothers and sisters, a great family indeed. May the sons and daughters of each do as well or better than they. America is a wonderful country. Kansas is a great state only from the fact that great men and women once lived therein. We are direct descendants of the Golden Rule, to the letter of which is perhaps the reason that many lived outside of the so-called churches until they were quite old. If we lived as did the Pilgrim Fathers the poor preachers would starve to death. Snodgrass blood is rich in the Scotch and Irish reformation kind, being against the domineering rule of Popes Cardinals, kings and queens; are independent and free thinkers, of few words, and good and great action, inclined to be and to live an undeceiving life, and to keep the home and family ties as part of the duty and service of this Reunion. Are we not proud of our America? Do we not love our native states? Do we not love the blood that courses through our veins of our forefathers, mothers and fathers? If so, why not interest ourselves in its history and perpetuity? That by so doing and living, we, too, may give to our country our state, our children, and our God, a life worthy of the name, Snodgrass.

Why live a selfish life? Let's live for others as well. Friendship is a vital word. Who is our friend? Do we have to go out of our family to find them? In the Ten Commandments we have ten duties, four of them to God, our Creator, six of them to our fellow-man. The history of this family would be in vain should we leave out our Creator, looking to the good things of life. Say something good of everybody each day.

Now, in conclusion, this is a work only begun. I have only told in part. You, each of you, are a part of this great family. You should contribute a part! Are you going to do it? Yes, you will. Keep up the family history, study the lives of our forefathers. Speak well of the good, cherish it; the rest are just mistakes to be blotted out.

By our sincere efforts to establish the good in man. "Love" for one another is the greatest gift to man. No one can describe "Love." Therefore love one another. And as time passes we will be blest and others will be blest and speak well of our lives after all is said and all is done. Our character is the greatest heritage of all; no one can buy it or besmirch it. "Reputation," is what others say of you. But character is what we are in the sight of others and of God. We are constantly building. We soon pass this way, so in my humble and feeble way I have tried to portray the history of this great family and the life of this the youngest child in order to perpetuate the family tree. So much could be said and comments made on each one as I have previously stated, but this will suffice.

Have you caught my thoughts and vision? You, my brother, my sister, can pass this on and on, to the end for which I have designated.

No words that I could utter, nor lines I could pen, would over-estimate the value of people so great as the Snodgrass family. No one can say aught of the blood-lines: Scotch-Irish-German-English. The aim of this record is not to praise one higher or more than another but to make history for one while living. As has been previously stated as much or even more could be written of each of the eleven sons and daughters of Lemuel Snodgrass. But this I hope will suffice for our record. May some one take it up where I have left it and pass it on and on through future generations.

S. P. Snodgrass has twenty-eight grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren.

This record dedicated to the Snodgrass Reunion, 1927, August 14, at Alta Vista, Kansas.

The combined ages of the eleven children are 894, an average of 81 and a fraction, something very uncommon. Four served in the regular army, 1861 to 1865, none seriously wounded. For a period of over sixty years no death in the family of eleven, another record. Other characteristics were their regard for one another, they would exchange visits often and sit up all night and talk over the past and present welfare of the family, did business with each other always ready to help the under dog. Their differences at all times were easily threshed out, so to speak. They made much of their meager education; they had not the privilege of the district school, much less the universities and colleges of today. Seats in the country schoolhouses and churches were made of "Puncheon" bark sides of the log; floors were made of the same. Much of their early day life was real pioneering. Tallow candles and pine-knots for their lights. Home-made clothes for the boys and girls. They did not have their autos as most have today, paved roads, radio, airships and modern machinery. But they paved the way for such; hard times, yes, they had them. Were they happy and contented? Most assuredly. Their entertainment was apple-peelings, husking bees, taffy-pullings, log rolling, occasionally a real dance, not the "Charleston" either. All of which each member of the family was interested in. There were no bank failures those days, as banks were scarcer than hen's teeth are now. "Those were the times that a man's word was as good as his note." Each had all in common, socially speaking. All were on the same basis. We are passing from that rule now, each one trying to outdo the other. Are we progressing? "Yes and No."

We must look forward and upward.

Helen McClain was born October 2, 1906, at Lowell, Ohio; at home, West Liberty, Ohio.

Adele McClain was born February 27, 1911, at West Liberty, Ohio.

B. G. McClain was married in Washington County, Ohio, November 10, 1887, to Margaret Snodgrass, by Anson Roach, a United Brethren Minister. The parents of B. G. McClain and Margaret Snodgrass were married on the same day, by the same minister, Rev. Wm. Weddle, a legless preacher. His legs were taken off by a threshing machine. So the oldest son of McClain married the oldest daughter of Snodgrass. All three marriages were in the same county and town. This is something very unusual, and all three families lived in the same county for many years, S. P. Snodgrass moving to Kansas in 1906, locating in Council Grove vicinity, in Morris County.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. McClain and Family, West Liberty, Mo.

B. M. McClain and wife have a record family of twelve children, all living. They have thirty grandchildren. No other family of my knowledge can boast of such a record family. So S. P. Snodgrass, the only member of his family now living has twenty-eight grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren, another record. Except Mrs. Martha L. Scott, a sister of S. P., has exactly thirty great grandchildren now living. These are great families, indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. McClain lived at Flints Mills after they were married until 1903, and then moved to Lowell, Ohio, leaving there for West Liberty, Ohio, in 1907, locating on a farm. They still reside on the farm, but rent out the farm land. Mr. McClain, in view of the fact that he has reared a large family, has become quite wealthy; few men, indeed, have put more energy and brain to his farm work, and used both good judgment and determination. Most of the family reside in the vicinity of West Liberty, Ohio.

The McClains have visited in the state of Kansas, and thought some of investing in Kansas land. However, Ohio and the family tree persuaded him to remain in Ohio, his native state.

He has always had in mind to buy the best of farm lands in the best part of Ohio. He and wife have made many friends in the neighborhood in which they have lived. He is a man of fine disposition and temperament, as well as his good wife. They are proud (and should be) of their fine family, and grandchildren. That is the fruit of a happy life and means an output of labor and love. May we look forward to the completion of such fine records of these families, as it means trials and cares that few folks realize. Pages could be compiled of the labors of this family. However, space will not permit more.

SAMUEL S. SNODGRASS

Was born in Washington County, Ohio, March 27, 1879, at the home of his parents on the Muskingum

River which flowed by the home. Educated in public schools and reared on a farm. Learned the ways of farming, also of the work in the Ohio oil fields. The home in which he was reared and the picturesque country around it would make one think he should have been a poet or novelist. The writer's visit to the home of his father, S. P. Snodgrass, was in 1898. The subject of our sketch was just beginning to want to have a "sweetheart" or a "girl," as we called them. The times then or the customs and habits of folk there in Ohio were much different than in Kansas. But the jolliest, good-natured bunch of young folk can not be duplicated anywhere, not even in Kansas. My stay at my uncle's home was altogether too short. However, the expiration of my ticket was fast coming to a finish, so I had to embark for Kansas.

I look back as that being one of the happiest times of my life. His father in the meantime had made several trips to Kansas and had become now quite infatuated with the idea of settling down on a Kansas ranch. So in 1903 they came to Kansas to make their future home. Young S. S. soon became lined up as a Kansas farmer. He settled down now and was really in love with the state and country. But not so much as he was of a certain girl in Ohio. So in 1905 he returned to his native state and returned bringing the wife with him.

S. S. Snodgrass and Loisa Ridgway were married December 25, 1905. He at once set up house-keeping on the Snodgrass Ranch, and still resides there. He is a genuine Snodgrass and hustler. Very active in school and church affairs. Conservative, honest, a good neighbor, a good husband and father.

LOISA RIDGWAY (SNODGRASS)

Was born at Cross Keys, (Wash. Co.) Ohio, March 11, 1880, and married S. S. Snodgrass Dec. 25, 1905 at Wingetts Run, Ohio. She came to Kansas in 1906 in spring and has made it her home. She is a fine companion and help-mate. A good mother and a kind wife. Devoted to her home and family. Three children are born to this union. Floyd D. Snodgrass born Nov. 20, 1906; Gladys May Snodgrass born Feb. 6, 1907 and died Sept. 23, 1919; Hazel Snodgrass born June 7, 1913. All are now living in Morris County, Kansas.

Samuel S. Snodgrass owns part of the home ranch 6 miles north of Council Grove, Kansas.

Snodgrass, at the ranch home in Neosho township, Morris Co., Kansas. Now resides on part of the Snodgrass estate, near his old home. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ratliff.

Was born Nov. 20, 1854 in Indiana. Sarah Furney his wife was born Jan. 22, 1853, in Indiana. She died at the home 5 miles north of Council Grove, Kansas, Nov. 29, 1924, at the age of 71 years. She was a kind wife and loving mother and a most agreeable neighbor. The community as well as the family mourn her departure.

CECIL J. ROBERTS

Cecil J. Roberts was born in Rouse, Colo., Jan. 2, 1889. Nora Luella Snodgrass was born at Rinards

Mill, Ohio, Nov. 21, 1891. They were united in marriage Jan. 4, 1911 at the home of the bride's parents at Council Grove, Kansas. To this happy union three very lovely girls were born. All being born in Council Grove, Kansas.

Opal Luella Roberts born Nov. 18, 1911.

Helendeen Irene Roberts, born Jan. 9, 1914.

Vivian Ione Roberts, born March 10, 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts early married life was spent on a farm in Kansas. They decided to go west, so on Sept. 9, 1917 they left many friends in Council Grove and vicinity and arrived in Forest Grove, Oregon, Sept. 14, 1917. So in three weeks later were called to Coalings, Cal., to work in the oil fields at that place. They remained there until Dec. 1st, 1921, when they were transferred to Long Beach, Calif., where they now reside. This young couple grew to womanhood and manhood in Kansas. Was very active in church and social affairs. They were indeed fine neighbors and had many friends here in Kansas.

Cecil J. Roberts is the oldest son of the late T. E. Roberts of Council Grove, Kansas. Nora Luella Snodgrass is the daughter of S. P. Snodgrass of Morris Co., Kansas.

They were fine entertainers of fine judgment. They have three daughters they should be very proud of. They are giving these girls a fine education both in school and music. The Snodgrass people should be proud of their efforts to give the girls this splendid opportunity. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts lived very happy together which is something money cannot buy. The compiler of this record knew these dear young folks until they departed for the west in 1917, lived close to them. Many and many a happy evening we have spent together. They are self-made folks and are enjoying rearing these fine girls.

LEMUEL P. SNODGRASS, JR.

Born February 24, 1859, died July 16, 1926. He spent his early life in Ohio. Was a man of many vocations. Farming, horse breeding and stock raising in general, also was handy with all kinds of tools.

His greatest "Hobby" was curios of every description that could be found in Kansas and elsewhere.

This collection is very rare; few perhaps in the state equal it.

Mention was made in the Topeka Daily Capital of this collection in early July 1926. This should be preserved by the brothers and sisters of that family. He was owner of a large tract of land near Diamond Springs, Kansas. He with his father came to Kansas in 1884, after which the family came to Kansas to live, his father buying one of the best 160 acres of land in the Diamond Valley. To which was added several hundred acres of land. "Lem," as his friends called him was a man of uncommon, good nature and temperament. Was indeed a friend to every one. Therefore he had many friends and very few enemies. His character and reputation and veracity were of the very best.

In the political world he was not particularly concerned but was ever ready to do and advocate the right thing. Was not a politician in any form.

Religiously he was a man of the "Golden Rule type," as really he lived that life, unreserved and in the open about everything. He lived a very exemplary life; one all should consider and pattern after. He was a lover of the Snodgrass blood and was ever ready to say and do good deeds of kindness and labor for them. His departing this life is keenly felt by all. He no doubt lived a lonely life, looking, from a home and the blessing of a family side. But he was always found to be true and a man of pure and true habits.

He tried to be a good son and a true brother. His health began to fail really several years before his death. He was afflicted with heart disease and dropsy and lingered along as this disease generally does. He was taken to the home of his sister, Jennie Goms where nursing and doctors aid seemed to fail. So on July 16, 1926 he departed from this life, and was laid to rest in the cemetery where both his father and mother lie. The kind words of friends and all those who knew him are the best evidence of his life; friends from everywhere lament his departure; all say words of praise for this one that has so generously given of his time and in all cases without remuneration. But he through some mysterious way was always rewarded for his patience and extreme kindness.

When we do things because of the reward in money we receive for it, we think we have accomplished something. But when we receive something for a thing we did not really expect, or bid for. Who ever lived a life that some did not find fault with? Who ever did just the thing that all of us thought he or she should do and receive something for so doing?

We must be considerate as our brother and friend was. We need to think and ponder on these things. May we think before we speak. The compiler no doubt knew this life better than any one now living, time and time again he would pour out his feelings on matters of his own. I knew this man. I personally confess to his pure and noble character, his stern purpose in all matters concerned. May we look to our own life, and try the trial balance with these and those whom we love and cherish.

Diamond Creek Bachelor had Collection of Indian relics.

Special to the Gazette:

Council Grove, July 22, L. P. Snodgrass of Diamond Springs, who died Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Goms, had an unusual collection of Indian relics which he had found on his farm. Mr. Snodgrass lived on Diamond Creek and made a "hobby" of collecting Indian arrow heads of all sizes, ranging from needle pointed heads used for shooting birds, to large buffalo arrows. Several arrowheads in the collection are made from stone which the Indians had brought from Montana. The collection includes also hammerheads made by the Indians and fossil rocks found on the Snodgrass farm.

Diamond Creek formerly was an Indian camping ground. Mr. Snodgrass spent much of his spare time adding to his collection of relics and studying the history and customs of the Indians who lived near Diamond Springs. He was unmarried and lived alone.

Mr. A. J. Coffin,
Wilsey, Kansas.

Dear Mr. Coffin:

In the absence of my father I took the liberty of opening your letter of recent date. I was very sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Snodgrass, and know it will make father feel mighty blue, as he took lots of pleasure in visiting with him on Diamond Creek. Father always told every body about the fine collection he had and lots of people were planning on going to see it sometime this summer.

My father and mother are spending the summer in Yellowstone Park and needless to say they are having fine fishing.

I expect them back the 1st part of August and will have father write you upon his return.

Please extend our sympathy to Mrs. Goms and tell her that father will always remember his many pleasant visits with Mr. Snodgrass.

Respectfully, Frank Lostutter.

HIS FAVORITE POEM—JUST FOLKS

Hide Your Troubles

Hide your troubles keep 'em down
Nothing's bettered by a frown:
Spreading dismal tales of woe
Doesn't help you as you go,
Talking of your round of care,
Makes it doubly hard to bear.

Find some joy to talk about;
Never let your hardships out,
Keep 'em to yourself and tell
Other folks you're doing well,
Whimpering won't help a bit
Silence is the source of grit.

Hide your trouble, big or small
Talking doesn't help at all
Even though you're in despair,
Just pretend you skies are fair
Fight by day, but when it is night
Never talk about your fight.

Friends should see you at your best.
Keep your troubles to your breast,
Don't make petty troubles known,
You can handle them alone;
Just forget 'em for a while,
Hide "um" underneath a smile.

SUSAN JANE SNODGRASS

Daughter of John and Jane Snodgrass was born in Washington, Ohio, Nov. 24, 1861. In early childhood she took the name of "Jennie," rather than to be called Sue or Susie. So Jennie will be her name now. Soon after the close of the war the family and children moved to Kansas in Brown County, near Atchison, Kansas, locating on a farm.

On December 25, 1880 she was united in marriage to Samuel W. Taylor of Junction City, Kansas. They were married at Parkerville, Kansas, Morris County, at the home of C. W. Parker, an old plainsman. To this union one son was born, Samuel Taylor Jr..

In writing the sketch of "Jennie," as we call her, one can hardly do justice. She is one of those kind, although somewhat reserved dispositions, always looking on the bright side of everything. Able to take her place in the home, neighborhood and church affairs. Her ability to do things has always been a help to her husband. Her cooperation and labor has been of the finest. Her attitude toward her parents and brother and sisters has been all that one could expect.

The few words that writer has written is but as a "forword," to her life. Loyal to her home, loyal to her children. She gave her youngest son to the service of the "World war," and thanks be to goodness he was returned to the home.

Anxious moments were passed during the terrible epidemis of the "flu." Her care and nursing of her brother L. P. is very evident of her disposition; her interest in the records of this work is now honored with thanks.

P. T. Hagerman was born in Stafford, Ohio, Dec. 22, 1884. Early in life he moved to Kansas. When a young man he went to Omaha, Nebraska, and was employed on the police force for many years. Was married to Elizabeth Child in Omaha, Nebraska, in Sept. 14, 1906. There were two sons born to them: Earl H., born June 9, 1906, Omaha, Neb., Paul H., born May 2, 1911, Omaha, Neb. JOHN GOMS

Was born in the Province of Prussia, Germany. Mr. John Goms married Matilda Jane Snodgrass March 22, 1887. John is one of those men who started life right. From the bottom of the ladder few men have done the hard manual labor that "John" has, as all call him. The day was never too long for him. Having the greatest blessing any man can have, "good health," he has toiled early and late, and today he is independent as far as this world's goods are concerned. He has been saving, honest and a man of exceptionally good judgment.

Being of German parentage, he has that attribute, "thrift," that is so characteristic of the German folks. The three boys of the family are of the same type of "rustlers."

John is a man of quiet, even temperament, always willing to do his part. Lover of his home and home ties. Kind to his wife and family. After his marriage he lived near Diamond Springs, Kansas, later bought land north and west of Council Grove.

Much could be said of "John," and this family, but space will not permit. This will express the compilers ideas, and thought concerning them.

No attempt is made to go into detail in regard to this man and his family. Only as the compiler of this work can give in these few remarks. We realize that too soon it will all be history. Should these few remarks be of comfort or pleasure to one I shall have been repaid.

UNION THOMAS

Was born in Antrim County, Ohio, March 1st, 1861. Here is a man that as a boy saw real hardship. Worked his own way through school against many odds. For little or no wages, while not in school. Done just anything and everything he could get to do. Was saving, honest, and the day was never made long enough for him; from early morning til late at night he toiled and toiled. Soon after his marriage he came to Kansas, settled on a farm southeast of Alta Vista, Kansas. Soon after that the great Rock Island Railroad System was building out through what is now Alta Vista. Mr. Thomas sold out on the farm and entered the hotel and restaurant business in Alta Vista. Both he and his good wife worked hard; was saving. They accumulated money and in turn invested it in houses and property in Alta Vista, as well as bank stock. He carried on the ice business for years. Was successful as a butcher, also built the best business house in the city for rental purposes. Was all in all one of the most active business men Alta Vista has ever had. Later trading for land in Morris County. At the same time he had large holdings in Texas. He had property in Los Angeles, California, and Pheonix, Arizona.

He now has centered his holdings in Arizona, twining an irrigated tract and city property. In all the business undertakings he used his own business judgment and capital. May it be said here that his wife was ever an asset in any and all of his undertakings. They have worked shoulder to shoulder in all events. Both Mr. Thomas and wife and son were members of the old original Alta Vista Concert Band, famous for many years. The writer is under obligations to them for their kindness to him during the activity of the famous band. Mr. Thomas was mayor of Alta Vista, active in school and all social activities. Most of his holdings in Alta Vista have been sold except bank stock in Peoples State Bank. He now with his wife resides in Glendale, Arizona, a suburb of Phoenix, Ariz.

She was ever and always working and striving to push ahead in all her undertakings. Needless to say her advice was often taken with good results. She was of a friendly disposition, zealous

STACY STEVEN SNODGRASS

Stacy Steven Snodgrass, born October 5, 1832, in Harrison County, Virginia. Moving to Ohio with his parents in 1848, settling in Washington County.

He with his father and brother John and others started for the California gold fields with ox team over the Western plains of Kansas and Colorado in 1859. This was a vast desert of prairie inhabited with Indians, buffalo and prairie dogs. Trading posts were scarce and far between. They went in caravans to protect each other from the attack of Indians and the outlaw gangs that paraded the plains for profit in the plunder they got out of the emigrants going and coming from the western plains.

Stacy and his father returned to Ohio after many months of travel and hardship. But his brother John went on over the range and joined the government force in fighting the Indians of the west country.

Stacy was united in marriage to Celia A. Provence. He served in the great Civil War for the North enlisting Nov. 8, 1861, in Company I 77 Ohio regulars, serving 3 years, reenlisting for the duration of the war and was discharged November 8, 1865 at Brownsville, Texas, by reason of disability. In the fall of 1868 he moved with his family to Pottowatomie County, Kansas from the state of Ohio, locating on a farm on Polly Creek on the Indian Reservation.

In the latter years of his life he moved to Louisville, Kansas. Stacy's life was a life of experience, covering a period of over 87 long years. He was a most kind and considerate husband and father with such a gentle disposition. He was suffering the last few years of much difficulty with eyesight which he bore so kindly and patiently. He passed away December 31, 1919, age 89 years and 3 months.

THE KECK FAMILY

This is one of the outstanding families of the book, indeed quite a volume could be written of them. They are of German origin and settled in Pennsylvania, in an early date, as soldier and war records they are quite above the average. Among the many stories and data of the family the following will suffice. The given name John was handed down three generations until John Weaver Keck was married, for his wife Sorena Snodgrass came to the limelight. He was of a family of 26 children, 13 boys and 13 girls. Their father John Keck of Penn., trained his sons in all walks of life. John Weaver Keck was trained as a prize fighter and boxer. Our subject J. W. Keck was matched with the champion of Penn. And in the battle barefisted Keck broke his opponents neck; much talk of arresting, lynching, was noised about, the result was J. W. Keck left Penn., for Virginia. He there, near Wheeling, W. Va., met Serena Snodgrass who later became his wife; they reared a large family and this is the beginning of the Keck and Snodgrass family. They comprise the largest number in the book of one name—are in nearly all of the states. The data in records of this family are indebted to Mrs. Bertha Smartz of Osgood, Ind., for all information regarding the family. Her untiring effort have been in evidence all the way. And to her the compiler is truly indebted with thanks. She is a woman of unusual ability and experience in collecting dates, being a notary in her village besides her home duties and care of aged lady she lends her service to her clients. She has a force in her writing that one must admire. Space will not permit a long sketch, but this entire family are four square and honest.

When war was declared with Spain his troop was ordered to Chicamagua Park, Ga. In about a month they were ordered to Tampa, Fla., then on to Cuba via steamship. They landed in Cuba on June 23, 1898, after the gun boats and battle ships had bombarded the coast and cleared a space for their landing. Philip H. Keck Jr. was the first American soldier put on guard duty at that place.

Col. Roosevelt who commanded the 1st U. S. Volunteer Cavalry went beyond his orders about 2 miles and ran into a bunch of Spaniards and had a skirmish. Roosevelt sent his orderly back for reinforcements so Troop G had to make a forced march of 7 miles with the thermometer registering about 112 degrees Fahrenheit.

Then they moved on to within 8 miles of San Juan Hill and built their Commisionary for their supplies. This was June 30. That night they had orders to advance on San Juan Hill and at daybreak (July 1) the Spaniards opened fire on them. So they were ordered to return the fire.

This happened about two miles from the San Juan river. They then advanced through the river bottom which was covered with mud and water and cactus. They next swam the river under the enemy's fire and advanced through barbed wire fences and entanglements. Philip H. received 7 cuts at this time from the wire. They then charged San Juan Hill and captured it, taking 11 prisoners.

That evening, July 1st, at sundown he was ordered off the firing line on account of chills and feaver, but about 10 o'clock that night he returned to the battle line and remained in battle for 3 days and 2 nights. July 1, 2, 3, 1898. This was when the Hill was taken from the Spaniards. He was also in the bombardment of Santiago July 10, 11, and the surrender of Santiago July 17. The entire Santiago expedition lasted from June 14 to August 6, 1898, inclusive. On August 15, 1898, the seven remaining soldiers from Troop G took the transport and sailed for the U. S. landing at Long Island about August 22, and there went into the Quarantine Station for inspection where only three passed (he being one of them). After going to shore he took sick and was sent to a hospital where he remained a few days, then was sent home on a furlough. He reported for duty at Columbus, Ohio, about October 20 and was then sent to his Regiment at Huntsville, Ala. The troop left there about December 29 and arrived at Ft. Riley, Kansas, January 1, 1899. In April he was sent on detached service to Ft. Logan Root, Ark., where he remained until July 10, 1899. He was then ordered to join his troop at Ft. Riley, Kansas, where they remained until August 20, going then to Ft. Peridio at San Francisco, Calif.

While he was there he was made orderly of the Paymaster General. He asked to be relieved as his time was about to expire. He then joined his troop again and the next day was appointed Mounted Guard for the Reservation and was relieved from this duty on September 21, 1899.

On the following day, September 22, 1899, he was discharged from the Army of the U. S. by reason of Expiration of Term of Service with a military record of character good, and service, honest and faithful. This discharge was signed by H. B. War Record of the Keck Family

John Weaver Keck Sr., husband of Serena Snodgrass Keck was a soldier in the Civil War, 1861-1865 as was three brothers.

John Weaver Keck Sr. had three sons in service in the great Civil War. Think of the supreme sacrifice this family made for the people of this world. And we must mention here that J. W. Keck Sr. had relatives in the wars of 1775 and of 1812-1815.

Daniel Boone Keck, son of J. W. and Serena Keck was a soldier of the war of 1861-1865. He was in prison in the south suffering starvation, sickness, and was ill treated in prison. He finally got his freedom and was returned to the army of the North.

John Snodgrass had one brother by the name of Edward Snodgrass who lived at that time in Lee Co., and one in Washington County, where he first located.

His oldest child William Snodgrass was a cripple from early boyhood. William was born in 1832 in Washington County, Virginia and died on part of the old Snodgrass homestead in 1926; was one of the oldest school teachers in that country.

His second son Edward H. Snodgrass was born in 1836 in Washington Co., Virginia; he was married to Eliza Bundy. They left Virginia in 1867 and settled on a farm nine miles east of Ottawa, Kansas. Later he moved to Allen County, Kansas, in 1876 and settled on a claim on which he lived for a number of years. He then moved to Stark, Neosho County, Kansas, where he died June 14, 1925, at the age of eighty-eight years, seven months and twenty-seven days. Ten children were born to this union as follows:

Alpheus A. Snodgrass, born July 11, 1858.

The former Mrs. Miller is 82 years old and her sister Mrs. Sarah Jaune is 80., Dec. 1, 1917. The two younger sisters of Edward H. Snodgrass live at Luco, Virginia.

Now returning to our former John Snodgrass, the names of the seven children are as follows:

William, Edward H., Martha or 'Mack), Frances (married a Woodard), Sarah, Cate, married a Clifton. and Emma.

The compiler has studied geneology of these families and finds them to be directly connected with other's recorded in this work. You are invited to study this background as to time and place. Virginia is a difficult state to get connected lines of relationship and other history of much importance. From the fact that it was the scene of very early settlement by the English folks. And furthermore its many battles of war and the burning of many useful records and the general illiteracy in many portions of this mountainous state. All these together help to retard one's progress in this work. But history reveals the fact that our subjects incorporated in this little volume were very early pioneers of that state.

Death of Mrs. James Davey

Mrs. James Davey died at the family home seven miles northeast of town Friday morning at the age of fifty-five years.

She had been on a trip to Oklahoma and was taken sick on Wednesday of last week at Holton when enroute home. News of her illness was sent to Mayor McMahon who notified the family and her son went down and accompanied her home. She gradually grew worse until relieved of her suffering in death.

The Funeral was held Sunday afternoon from the Christian Church at two o'clock and interment was made in the Union Cemetery north of town.

Deceased is survived by her husband and four children-Mrs. Annie Stansell of Wetmore, and Charles, who lives a short distance from the family home, and Clara and Thomas living at home. Three grandchildren also survive her.

James Davey answered the summons by his Master and bid his friends and loved ones goodbye last Friday evening. He was sick but a short time and in fact his body gave up the Spirit before it was thought possible that the end was here. He had attained the good age of 78 years, 1 month, and 27 days.

James Davey was born in Michigan, July 11, 1851 and as a lad came to Kansas. He was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Snodgrass February 10, 1885. He located on the farm which was his home for nearly forty years northeset of Beattie in 1890.

His faithful wife and companion went to her heavenly home July 18, 1919. He is surived by four children, two sons and two daughters, Charles and Clara of Hiawatha, Kansas, Anna Stansell of Vermillion, Kansas, and Thomas of Beattie with whom he has been making his home on the old homestead. He is also survived by one brother, George Davey of Everest, Kansas and one sister, Mrs. Libbie Whittington of Mayetta, Kansas and nine grandchildren.

He has for many years been a member of the Beattie MWA. He was loved by those who knew him best and a kind father, a good neighbor, loving husband and friend.

He was hospital as the oak under which he spent many hours in the closing years of his life. As the tree gave comfort and rest to the weary traveler and the birds in its bough, so did Mr. Davey give to the stranger that stopped on his way.
