PREFACE TO FIRST AND SECOND EDITIONS.

THE design of the Assembly's Catechism in the present form, is to assist in promoting the knowledge and study of the Holy Scriptures in schools and families. To accomplish this, a variety of quotations have been selected, which serve to establish the propositions contained in the answers. And in order to induce the young "to search the Scriptures," merely the introduction to each quotation is given. This causes application to be made to the Bible for the remainder, where in many cases it will be found necessary to peruse the whole paragraph; while the introduction serves to recal the quotations to the memory when they come to be repeated in school.

Nearly two hundred years have passed away since this Catechism was composed by the Assembly of Divines at Westminster; since which time it has been an inestimable blessing to the Church, and will continue to be so for ages to come.

Many expositions of this excellent summary of Christian doctrine and practice have appeared, and have been characterized by various degrees of excellence; in this, however, a new exposition has not been attempted, but simply an endeavour to make the young intimately acquainted with its connection with the Word of God. To those who are conversant with Scripture, this little work may be useful as a pocket manual, to bring passages to the recollection, which at all periods of life must interest the mind, and engage the heart.

Parents and teachers who may use this Catechism, will find, in attempting to explain the questions to the young, that the quotations will prove a ground work for many excellent instructions.

After some years' constant practice as a Sabbath School teacher, the compiler has found that, with few exceptions, his interesting charge have taken the liveliest interest in committing the quotations to memory; and when catechised upon some of the most important doctrines of Christianity, they have readily 'given a reason for the hope which was in them.'

In conclusion, he would only add, that if the same good effects be experienced by those who have desired to see the Catechism published in this form, they will have cause with him to give God all the praise.

The increasing demand has called forth the fifth edition, and it is much larger than any of the former.

The Compiler is happy to acknowledge several communications appreciating the publication of the Assembly's Shorter Catechism with so many Scripture proofs.

It has been highly useful in Sabbath and week-day Schools, Young Men and Young Women's Bible Classes, Mutual Improvement Meetings, and religious instruction in families.

Evangelists and others have also found in it important ready help; and dying believers have been cheered, particularly with the quotations contained in the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth pages.

That the propositions contained in the Shorter Catechism are in accordance with the Word of God, the quotations afford abundant evidence. They also thoroughly show that those excellent men who composed it were diligent students of the Divine word, and that through the teaching of the Holy Ghost they had a wide acquaintance with its spiritual meaning.

In these times, wherein the Divine inspiration and authenticity of the sacred scriptures are openly assailed, how important it is that we should study the word diligently ourselves and teach the rising generation to follow our example, in order that they may be able to 'stand in the evil day, and having done all to stand.'

Quest. 99. What rule hath God given for our direction in prayer?

Ans. The whole word of God is of use to direct us in prayer,

1 John 5. 14. And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we

Note.—The whole word of God is said to contain a revelation of God's will.

But the special rule of direction is that form of prayer which Christ taught his disciples, commonly called the Lord's prayer. Matt. 6. 9-13.

Prayer is said to consist of eight parts, into which the Lord's prayer may be divided.

Invocation.—Our Father which art in Heaven.

Adoration and blessing.—Hallowed be thy name.

Petition.—Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread.

Confession.—And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.

Pleading.—And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil:

Dedication and thanksgiving.—For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen.

Quest. 100. What doth the preface to the Lord's prayer teach us.

Ans. The preface to the Lord's prayer, which is, "Our Father which art in Heaven," teacheth us to draw near to God with all holy reverence and confidence,

TEXT-BOOKS FOR SCHOOLS AND BIBLE CLASSES.

Christian Doctrine: A Text-Book for Youth. By the Rev. Professor MACGREGOR. Ninth edition. 1s.

"The first thing that strikes the most cursory reader of this curious little book of some 164 small octavo pages, is the extraordinary amount of matter which the writer has contrived to press into its pages. The style in which it is written, besides, is condensed and yet free; close, and yet open and graceful. The vigour and grasp displayed in its conception of the three parts of the 'Doctrine of Nature,' 'Grace, the Gift God,' and 'Grace, the Duty of Man,' are as remarkable as the spirit and energy with which the outlines are filled up."—News of the Churches.

Christian Evidences. By ARCHIBALD ALEXANDER, D.D., Princeton. Edited by Andrew Thomson, D.D., Edinburgh. 1s.

"The work was prepared several years ago by the late Dr Archibald Alexander, of Princeton, and has been very widely circulated in America. In its present form, we reckon it to be the best and cheapest Treatise on the Evidences for popular use, which has yet been published. It consists of four parts:—I. Questions which are preliminary, such as the Right Use of Reason in Religion; II. The External Evidences; III. The Internal Evidences; and IV. The Inspiration of the Scriptures."—Weekly Review.

Plain Words to a Young Communicant. By JAMES W. ALEXANDER, D.D. Sixth edition. 3d.

"A series of most valuable counsels, . . . brief but weighty, and not limited to subjects touching sacramental engagements, but bearing on the whole beginning of the Christian walk."—Witness.

"Like all Dr Alexander's productions, this little book is serious, solid, and practical. It is especially valuable for the calm and sober counsels it gives to young Christians."—Evangelical Witness.

Commentary on the Prophecies of Isaiah. By JOSEPH ADDISON ALEXANDER, D.D., Princeton. New and Revised edition. Edited by John Eadie, D.D., Professor of Biblical Literature to the United Presbyterian Church. In two Volumes, demy 8vo, cloth, price 17s.

Commentary on the Epistle to the Romans. By CHARLES HODGE, D.D., Princeton. New and unabridged edition. Demy 8vo, cloth (458 pp.), price 8s. 6d.
