DEDICATED BY THE EDITORIAL COMMITTEE

PREFATORY NOTE

THE Editorial Committee have pleasure in issuing the Sixth Volume of the Fasti. This Volume they consider one of the most important of the Series, embodying, as it does, the record of a greater number of ministers appointed after 1839 than is contained in any of the previous Volumes. The lists before 1839 have been very carefully revised; many hitherto unrecorded names have been added, together with a large amount of freshly-acquired information. The lack of two Separate Registers—those of Abernethy and Forres—(apparently lost) has been a hampering element, but as far as possible, the necessary details have been supplied from other sources. The officials of H.M. General Register House have again afforded courteous access to various Records in their keeping. Information has come from numerous private individuals at home and abroad. Practically all forms of Local Literature have been consulted, Churchyard inscriptions gleaned, and newspaper notices examined. Great pains have been taken to secure accuracy, and where discrepancies have occurred—mostly with regard to proper names and dates—the official Registers have been accepted as authority.

The Committee desire to express their thanks to the Clerks of the different Presbyteries; also to Mr John A. Henderson, Cults, Aberdeenshire; J. F. Kellas Johnstone, LL.D.; the Rev. John Stirton, D.D., Crathie; the Rev. Archibald Macdonald, D.D., Kiltarlity, and many others, for much assistance and information.

The Volume has been brought down to the eve of publication.

April 1926.

SYNOD OF ABERDEEN

The Register of the Synod of Aberdeen begins at 21st Oct. 1651. There are gaps in the Record from 20th April 1660 to 21st Oct. 1662, and from 21st Feb. 1681 to 18th May 1697.

PRESBYTERY OF ABERDEEN

[The Presbytery Register of Aberdeen begins at 20th Oct. 1598. The earliest volume was formerly in Edinburgh, in the Library of the Faculty of Advocates, but has been recovered therefrom. It carries the Record down to 14th June 1610. From this last date to 29th July 1673 there is a gap in the narrative. Other gaps extend from 30th Oct. 1688 to 11th July 1694, from 30th Oct. 1695 to 28th April 1697, from 10th June 1730 to 5th March 1733, and from 27th Aug. 1746 to 30th March 1748. The lack of the two missing portions belonging to the eighteenth century is owing to the Manse of Durris, occupied by Robert Melvill, having been broken into and plundered on 28th Feb. 1747.]

EAST.

[In 1577 a Second Charge was founded for the parish of St Nicholas in Aberdeen. After some time, owing to continued great growth of the population, separate religious services in connection with the Second Charge were held in the choir of St Nicholas Church. On 5th March 1828 the Court of Teinds disjoined the East Parish from that of St Nicholas. At the same time the Court handed over to the new parish the revenues of the Second Charge and its duties. Thus that charge was merged in the East Parish. Then also the choir and the crypt of St Nicholas were assigned by the Court to serve as a church for the East Parish.]

1577 DAVID CUNNINGHAM, promoted from sub-deanery of Glasgow to the bishopric of Aberdeen in 1577 (q.v.), which he held in conjunction with this charge till his death, 3rd Aug. 1600.

 Machar 13th March 1717; pres. by the Town Council in Sept., trans. and adm.
 14th Nov. 1728; died 2nd Nov. 1756. He was of a choleric disposition. When George Whitefield visited Aberdeen in 1741, B., whose turn it was to preach in the afternoon, attacked him in his sermon by name, for this the Magistrates apologised to W. next day. On one occasion B. was excluded from the pulpit by the Provost locking the church door against him. He was a zealous Presbyterian, a man of many controversies, and is generally regarded as founder of the Secession in Aberdeen, the first congregation of that body having been formed chiefly from members of the East Church after B.'s death. He marr. 30th Oct. 1717, Agnes (died 21st Sept. 1773), daugh. of John Pirrie, shipmaster, Aberdeen, and had issue—Isabel; Christian; John, min. of Brechin; James, born 11th March 1732; William, min. of South Church, Dundee, born 11th Nov. 1735. GAELIC CHAPEL.

[In or about 1778 Gaelic services began to be held in the choir of St Nicholas Church. The ordinary time of worship adopted was on Sunday mornings before the regular services of the parish. These Gaelic services were well attended, and after a time the congregation grew so large as to make that arrangement inconvenient. The Gaelic services were therefore removed to St Mary's Chapel in the crypt of St Nicholas. A minister of its own was first called to this Gaelic charge in 1781. In 1795 owing to the growth of the congregation, a new chapel was built in Belmont Street. The services were given up in 1843.]

GREYFRIARS.

[The Priory of the Grey Friars in Aberdeen was founded in 1469, or near that date. It was dedicated to St Francis. Somewhere about 1525, Gavin Dunbar, Bishop of Aberdeen, rebuilt its church on a larger scale. Of this work the chief feature was the very graceful tracery of its east window. In 1560 the Priory was suppressed. Its lands and buildings were then granted to the City of Aberdeen. Some years later the Town Council conveyed them to George, Earl Marischal, to be used by him in founding Marischal College. Thus the church of the Grey Friars became the college chapel. On 2nd July 1605 the General Assembly met at Aberdeen, in this church. On 13th Aug. 1616 the Assembly met again there. A third Aberdeen meeting of Assembly, also in the Grey Friars Church, was opened on 29th July 1640. In 1644 an endowment for maintaining a minister at this church was secured, mainly through the zeal and benevolence of Sir Thomas Crombie of Kemnay. In 1749 this building was constituted a chapel-of-ease. In 1768 a wide aisle was added to it on the north side. Other alterations were then made at the west end of the church, including the removal of its ancient belfry. The parish of the Greyfriars was disjoined from that of St Nicholas on 5th March 1828. In 1902 the site of this historic church was taken by the Town Council of Aberdeen for an extension of Marischal College. The ancient building was then taken down and a new church for the parish built at the expense of the city.]

NORTH, FORMERLY THIRD CHARGE.

[In 1580 a Third Charge was founded for the parish of St Nicholas in Aberdeen. Owing to great growth of population separate religious services soon came to be held in connection with both the Second and the Third Charges. In 1826 the North Church was built as a place of worship for the Third Charge. On 5th March 1828, the Court of Teinds disjoined the North Parish from that of St Nicholas assigning at the same time to the new parish the revenues and duties which had pertained to the Third Charge of the parent parish.]

NICOL DALGLEISH, adm. before 28th
1580 Dec. 1580; trans. to St Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, 1581.

ROBERT HOWIE, adm. in 1591;

Marischal College, which he held in conjunction in 1594; trans. to Dundee before 26th Sept. 1598.

GEORGE CHALMERS, probably acted 1599 as min. in 1599.

[GEORGE GREIR, was brought from 1599 Edinburgh by the Town Council, who on 5th Sept. 1599 did not consider it expedient to proceed any further in the matter.]

JAMES ROSE, trans. from Strachan; 1599 elected by the town, 11th Sept. 1599, with consent of David, Bishop of Aberdeen, on behalf of King James; trans.
to Second Charge before 29th Jan. 1602.

JOHN MACBIRNIE, educated at Univ. of Edinburgh; M.A. (28th July 1605 1596); adm. to Third Charge, Crail, about 1601; trans. to Ferryport-on-Craig 10th May 1604; trans. and adm. 21st Oct. 1605, for which admission the bishop was charged to appear before the Privy Council, not having first obtained the consent of the King and Commissioners of Assembly. He opposed the introduction of Episcopacy, and was summoned before the Commissioners of Assembly 7th Oct. 1607, for preaching against the bishops and constant moderators, when he promised to desist from so doing. His "hatt was tackin aff his heid and he was strickin on the face by a parishioner 28th June 1608." He died in 1614, aged about 38. He was a godly, zealous, and powerful preacher, and always had when he rode two Bibles, one in the original, hanging at a leather girdle about his middle, as also a small sandglass in a brazen case to enable him to time his service. He marr. a lady, name unknown, and had issue, a daughter, for whom the magistrates of Aberdeen raised 1000 merks each.—[Collect. Aberdeen and Banff; Eccl. Records of Aberdeen, 61, 186, 198.]

ST MACHAR'S, COMMONLY CALLED OLD MACHAR.

[It was drawing near the end of the sixth century when St Columba, Abbot of Iona, sent forth St Machar, one of his monks, to found an evangelistic mission among the Eastern Picts. Machar fixed his settlement a little way from the mouth of the Don, near where that river reaches the sea. The spot thus chosen was called Aberdoin, that is, the place at the mouth of the Don. It is now known as Old Aberdeen. This site, we are told, was chosen by St Machar because, at that point, the course of the stream curves into a loop like the head of a pastoral staff. Such sites on the bends of rivers were much favoured by ancient Celtic builders for their raths or places of strength, whether these were to be the fastnesses of warrior chiefs or the peaceful dwellings of monks. They were well secured against attack, yet easy of access. Such remains can be seen at Old Melrose, Dryburgh, Cambuskenneth, and other places. In after times, there arose, about a mile along the coast to the south, a notable harbour to which was given the name of New Aberdeen. This led to St Machar's town being called

Old Aberdeen. The two are now united in the city of Aberdeen. In 1125, when King David I. founded the See of Aberdeen, he fixed the bishop's seat at Old Aberdeen and made St Machar's Church there its cathedral. The funds for this new foundation, were, in great part, obtained by the suppression of the ancient Celtic Abbey of Mortlach. Neachtan, the Abbot of Mortlach was made the first Bishop of Aberdeen. Out of this last fact has arisen the somewhat widespread myth that there was a Bishopric of Mortlach which King David transferred to Aberdeen. There was really no such See. The so-called bishops before Neachtan were Abbots of Mortlach. Somewhere about 1190, Matthew Kinnimont, Bishop of Aberdeen, began to build a great church for a cathedral at Old Aberdeen. His undertaking was carried on by his successors until 1233, when the work was stopped for a time by the sudden arrival of an English fleet, which captured the town and sacked it. The manses of the prebendaries and other buildings were burned, but the cathedral was left standing. In 1282 Bishop Henry le Cheyne pulled down all the cathedral building, and started anew to erect a church of greater size. In 1370 the building operations were again brought to a stand by Bishop Alexander Kinnimont. He removed the work of his predecessors, and then began to erect on the same site a much larger and more stately church. With this new plan the work went steadily on till near the middle of the sixteenth century. There is no record to show whether the building of the choir was ever actually completed. It is, however, evident that it had advanced a long way. The cathedral, as thus erected, was somewhat over 200 feet in length. It had a stately central tower, and at its west end were simple but dignified twin towers. The choir, which had no aisles, was about 70 feet long. Besides the High Altar of St Machar, there were in the church shrines of the Holy Rood, St Mary, St Michael, St Katherine, St Nicholas, St Deavanach, St Muireach, St Andrew, St Dominic, St Duthac, St Peter, St Paul, St Clement, and St John. In 1560 the See of Aberdeen was suppressed, but, ere long, St Machar's was made the parish church of Old Aberdeen. As such, it took the place of the small Church of Our Lady of the Snaws, commonly styled the Snaw Kirk, whose burial ground is still to be seen close to St Machar's. The parish of Old Aberdeen had been a prebend belonging to the Dean of the Diocese. It was of vast extent, including the lands that form such modern parishes as Gilcomston, Holburn, Ferryhill, Powis, Ruthrieston, Rosemount and Woodside, together with the large area now forming the great parishes of St Machar, New Machar, and Newhills. In 1595 a Second Charge was provided for this unwieldy cure. At Monykebuck, in the landward part of the parish, there had long been a chapel of St Columba. In 1609 this became the church of an extensive new parish taken off Old Aberdeen. For a time it kept its old name of Monykebuck, but, by the end of the seventeenth century, it had got to be called Upper Machar. In the eighteenth century this name gradually gave place to the modern designation of New Machar. As a result of this latter change of title, the parish of Old Aberdeen came to be called Old Machar. In the winter of 1688 a violent gale brought down the massive central tower of St Machar's Church. In its fall the tower carried the transept roofs along with it, and utterly ruined the choir. The damage to the transepts was soon made good, but the tower and the choir passed out of existence. The church, as now standing, is 143 feet long. One of its chief features is the very fine oaken roof of the nave, with its rich heraldic adornment. Within this parish, near the church, stands King's College, the more ancient part of the University of Aberdeen. In 1494 William Elphinston, the great Bishop of Aberdeen, undertook the erection of a college and university here, and in that year King James IV. obtained from Pope Alexander VI. a Bull authorising the new foundation. In 1595 the building was begun. Then, also, the bishop granted to the chapel of the King's College an erection as a collegiate church. This, Pope Julius II. confirmed by a Bull in 1596, and King James fortified the foundation by a Royal Charter in 1597. Marischal College and University in New Aberdeen was founded by George, Earl Marischal, in 1593. In 1641 Charles I. united the two colleges, so as to form one University of Aberdeen. But this good work of his was undone by his son Charles II., who severed the two foundations again in 1661. It was only in 1860 that the two colleges were a second time brought together in the one university. The Collegiate Church of King's College in Old Aberdeen was of old sometimes styled St Mary's College Kirk. When it was founded, however, in 1595, it was dedicated to the Holy Trinity, St Mary, St Andrew, St Mungo, and St German. Inside the church there were Altars of St Mary, St German, and St Katherine. Old Aberdeen held two fairs, those of St Machar and St Luke. There were two holy Wells in the town, St Machar's Well and that dedicated to the Nine Maidens of St Donald.]

FIRST CHARGE.

JAMES LAWSON, adm. Aug. 1569; trans. to St Giles, Edinburgh, 9th 1569 Nov. 1572.

ALEXANDER ARBUTHNOT, min. of 1574 Arbuthnott in 1569; adm. here about 1574, holding the Principalship of King's College in conjunction (q.v.).

DAVID RAIT, of the family of Hall-green in the Mearns; adm. before 1598 20th Oct. 1598, holding the Principalship of King's College in conjunction; was a member of Assembly, 1602, 1605, 1610.
As Moderator of Synod, he preached in place of the former Moderator at the opening of Assembly at Aberdeen, 2nd July 1605, but no action was taken against him; D.D. (Aberdeen 1620); died in 1632. He marr. Dec. 1592, Elizabeth, daugh. of John Allardice of that ilk, and had issue—James, apprenticed to James Gardine, litster, Aberdeen, 20th March 1642.—[Munro's Records of Old Aberdeen, 205.]

ALEXANDER SCROGIE (primus), born 1565; educated at King's 1621 College, Aberdeen; M.A.; became a regent in Marischal College; assistant at Skene 9th Sept. 1603; ord. (assistant there) 16th Aug. 1605; attended the meeting of the Assembly at Aberdeen 2nd July that year, for which he was summoned before the Privy Council, but admitting it was not a lawful Assembly
he was released; trans. to Drumoak 26th
Jan. 1606. He was ordered, 7th March 1608, to reside in his parish, but on 13th March 1609 he was charged with non-residence. He answered that his family did reside and he himself too on every Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, being occupied at the College the rest of the week. He was ordered to leave the College at Lammas and reside with his wife and family; trans. and
adm. in 1621; D.D. (King's College, 31st July 1627); joined with the other Doctors of Aberdeen in opposing the Covenant, and was app. rector of King's College 24th June 1636. He gave further offence by celebrating the Communion on Christmas 1638, after that had been forbidden by the previous Assembly. His house was seized by a party of soldiers of the Earl Marischal's Regiment on 15th July, but he compounded for a protection next day with 600 merks until the meeting of Assembly, when he was dep. by a committee, 1st Aug. 1640, for his opposition to the Covenant. He petitioned the Assembly in July 1641, offered to subscribe the Covenant, and to make a full recantation before the Presb.
26th May 1642. By this means he obtained a gift from the Bishop of Ross of eight chalders' victual, after he had been deprived of his benefice; died at Rathven 1659. He has been represented as "of good parts for good literature, judgment, and understanding." He marr. Jean, daugh. of James Ross, min. of Second Charge, Aberdeen, and had issue—William, min. of Rathven and Bishop of Argyll; Alexander, min. of this parish; James; Patrick; a daugh. (marr. William Douglas, min. of Forgue); Marjorie (marr.
Alexander Innes, min. of Mortlach). Publi-

(Glasgow, 1899); died during the Revolution in Russia in Dec. 1918. He was a singularly successful agent of the Bible Society. His wide and sympathetic knowledge, his mastery of many languages, his administrative ability, and his shrewd wisdom in the conduct of affairs won for him a position of unusual influence. While he held office he supervised the circulation in Russia of over eleven million copies of the Scriptures. During the War he exerted himself heroically on behalf of the Russian armies, the sick and wounded, and the prisoners of war from Central Europe. After the Revolution he remained courageously at his post, in face of much hardship and peril, acting as secretary of a committee for the relief of British residents in Petrograd, and conducting a regular Sunday service. Among his last letters to the Bible Society he wrote in September 1917: "Clear out at once, if you want to carry off a little of what you have; less it will be, every day you remain; and if you remain to the end, you will have nothing. My goal is the end." ST CLEMENT'S, OR FOOTDEE.

[In the parish of St Nicholas, near the mouth of the river Dee, stood of old the fishing village of Futtie. In it, from an early time, there was a chapel of St Futach, styled in Gaelic Mo Futach. It is more than likely that the dedication of this chapel gave the place its name of Futtie. The local tradition tells that St Futach was an early Pictish teacher of the faith. However that may be, there was at Futtie, in later times, a chapel dedicated to St Photinus, the Martyr of Apamea in Phrygia. Futtie was joined to Torry on the further side of the Dee by a wide passage called St Fittick's, or St Futach's Ferry. As at some other wide ferries, this one had a second chapel near the landing-place at Torry. It, too, bore the name of St Photinus. By the end of the fifteenth century the shrine of St Photinus at Futtie had given place to a later chapel dedicated to St Clement, the patron of mariners. A hundred years afterwards this chapel of St Clement had fallen into ruin, and was no longer in use. In 1631 St Clement's Chapel was restored and became a place of regular worship. During the nineteenth century Futtie was taken into the city of Aberdeen. The old chapel was about that time rebuilt on a larger scale. On 28th March 1828 the parish of St Clement was disjoined, quoad omnia, from that of St Nicholas.]

ST FITTICK'S (Q.S.).

[In old times, travellers leaving Aberdeen for the south were wont to cross the Dee from Futtie to Torry by St Fittick's

Ferry. This place gets its name from St Futach (Gaelic, Mo Futach), whom the tradition of the country honours as an early Pictish missionary. St Futach had an ancient chapel at Futtie. In later times, when this old chapel had been rebuilt, we find its former dedication replaced by the name of St Photinus of Apamea, the Phrygian martyr. Then, too, there had been built a second chapel on the further side of the ferry, beside the landing-place at Torry. There likewise the Patron was St Photinus. Towards the end of the nineteenth century, Torry became part of the City of Aberdeen, and a mission chapel was planted there. The parish of St Fittick was disjoined from Nigg on 17th December 1915.]

ST GEORGE'S (Q.S.).

[St George's Parish was disjoined from that of St Nicholas on 15th March 1880. The church of the parish is often styled St George's-in-the-West, as if it were still only a chapel in the West Parish from which it was severed. The term as thus applied seems misleading and lacks any descriptive meaning.]

JAMES SMITH, born Old Machar, 27th Nov. 1855, son of James S., bookseller [son of Lewis S., a well-known bookseller in Aberdeen], and Christian, daugh. of Alexander Wallace Chalmers, Governor of Bridewell; educated at Michie's Academy, Aberdeen, Smith's Academy, Fordyce, and Univ. of Aberdeen; M.A. (1874), B.D. (1877); assistant librarian at Aberdeen Univ., 1876-8; licen. by Presb. of Aberdeen 2nd May 1877; assistant at West Parish, Aberdeen, 4th Nov. 1877 to 5th Jan. 1879; ord. 20th Feb. 1879; app. chaplain to Volunteer Medical Staff Corps 7th June 1889; promoted first-class chaplain 11th Oct. 1909; chaplain (with rank of Colonel) 1st and 2nd Highland Field Ambulances and 1st Scottish General Hospital in 1914-21 (T.D.); died suddenly in vestry 2nd Nov. 1924. He was the most popular min. in Aberdeen in his day. He took a deep interest in all its affairs, civic and religious, and was a member of many educational and philanthropic committees. During the Great War he enlisted recruits to such an extent as to constitute a complete regiment. He made many notable genealogical researches, and amassed a vast library of local literature. He began with a congregation of less than a hundred and at his death the membership was close on two thousand. ST NICHOLAS', OR WEST.

[It was near the end of the sixth century when St Machar began his mission work beside the mouth of the river Don. Thenceforward Old Aberdeen continued to be more or less a centre of Church life. Meanwhile the town of New Aberdeen was growing up close by, where the Dee reaches the sea. It is not, however, until the twelfth century that we find any record of it. For a time this later town had been little more than the port of Old Aberdeen, but it was fast coming to overshadow it. Already it was a harbour of note, and a busy place of trade, with a royal castle for its defence, and a church of its own. That church was dedicated to St Nicholas, the Patron of Commerce. It too grew in size and fame, with the rise of the royal burgh. The two towns are now one city; but the High Kirk of Aberdeen is not the Cathedral of St Machar, with its time-honoured story, but the Church of St Nicholas.

When completed, this was a building 245 feet in length. Its nave extended to 117 feet; and the measurement across the transepts was 74 feet. These transepts remain as of old, and so does the interesting crypt beneath the choir. All the rest has suffered change. In 1742 the nave, then much out of repair, was taken down and rebuilt. In 1837 the same fate befell the choir. It unhappily was poorly reconstructed, and was moreover shortened by a few feet. In 1874 an accidental outbreak of fire so damaged the central tower that it too had to be built up anew. The Parish of St Nicholas was of old a prebend of the diocese of Aberdeen. In its church, besides the High Altar of St Nicholas there were many other shrines. Among these were dedications to St Salvator, the Holy Name, the Holy Blood, the Holy Rood, St Michael, St Mary, St Joseph, St John the Baptist, St John the Evangelist, St Andrew, St Peter, St James, St Anne, St Magdalene, St Ninian, St Laurence, St Leonard, St Katherine, St Barbara, St Sebastian, St Christopher, St Eloi, St Martin, St Thomas the Apostle, St George, St Crispin, St Crispinian, St Mungo, St Deavanach, St Bride, St Margaret, St Helen, St Duthac and the three Kings of Cologne, as they were called, that is to say, St Melchior, St Balthasar, and St Gaspar, the three mythological personages in whom the Mediæval Church recognised the Sages from the East who came to Bethlehem to pay their homage to the Infant Christ. All these dedications have been duly identified from records. But other saints also, whose traces are less evident, were honoured in this church. Among such were St Luag, St Fergus, St Blaise, St Paul, St Photinus, and St Thomas the Martyr. In 1441 a collegiate foundation was granted to St Nicholas' Church. In 1577 a Second Charge was erected for the parish, and a Third Charge was added in 1580. On 14th Sept. 1596 this great church was partitioned off, so that the choir and the crypt were severed from the main building and given over for separate services pertaining to the Second Charge of the parish. In 1826 the North Church was built as a place of worship for the Third Charge, which was thus removed from St Nicholas' Church. On 5th March 1828 the Court of Teinds erected the East Parish of Aberdeen, merging in the new foundation the Second Charge of St Nicholas', and assigning as its place of worship the eastern part of that ancient church. On the same day the North Parish too was disjoined, and to it the work and revenues of the Third Charge were given over. The part of St Nicholas' Church still in the possession of this parish, being the nave and the transepts, has for a long time been known as the West Church. This parish also is spoken of as the West Parish.

Within the bounds of St Nicholas' Parish there were of old chapels at Rubislaw and Futtie. In 1211 the Red Friars, known also as the Brethren of the Order of the Holy Trinity, established a ministry of their community in Aberdeen. Their memory is kept up by the Trinity Parish, whose church stands upon the site of their building. Some years after the Red Friars came, King Alexander II. settled a colony of the Black Friars here. They dedicated their house to St John the Baptist. At an early date, the Knights of the Temple also set up a Preceptory in Aberdeen. In 1350 Philip of Arbuthnott erected in the city a convent of the White Friars, of which St John the Evangelist was made patron. The Grey Friars came in 1450, and settled near St Nicholas' Church. Their Priory was dedicated to St Mary. There was here too a convent of the Nuns of St Clara under the patronage of St Katherine of Siena. Within the bounds there were four hospitals. Of these St Anne's and St Peter's were of early date. St Anne's stood outside the town, nearly half-way to Old Aberdeen. The Hospital of St Thomas the Martyr was founded in the fifteenth century. In 1538 Bishop Gavin Dunbar erected a fourth hospital. Among the many good works of Bishop William Elphinstone was the building of a bridge across the Dee, thus joining Aberdeen to the parish of Banchory-Devenick. At the east end of the bridge he placed a chapel of St Mary. The entrance to the city, at the other end, was guarded by a watch-tower with a gateway of defence. A fair was held in this parish on Trinity Sunday.]

ADAM HERIOT, born 1514. Nothing is known of his family except that he had a sister called Margaret.

He became an Augustinian Canon at St Andrews and a keen student of scholastic theology, and in 1559 he embraced the Reformed Doctrines; was app. min. here by the Lords of the Congregation 19th July 1560; was placed in Dec. 1562 on a leet of three by the General Assembly for the office of Superintendent of Aberdeen, but no election appears to have been made. He was a member of Assembly June 1566, July 1567, and Feb. 1568; pres. to the parsonage and vicarage of Rathen by James VI. 16th May 1569; app. by the Assembly March 1570 a commissioner to deal with the Marquess of Huntly regarding the restoration of the collectors of the kirk to their situations. He dem. his charge in 1573, and died of apoplexy 28th Aug. 1574, having been an eloquent preacher, "greatly loved for his conversation, and regretted by the poor to whom he had been very beneficent." He marr. Euphemia Scheves, "a devoted and upright woman, born in the kingdom of Fife," who died 3rd Feb. 1568.—[*Collect. JOHN CRAIG, born about 1512, descended from one of the Craigston family, who fell at Flodden; educated at Univ. of St Andrews; became tutor to children of Lord Darcy, English Warden of the North; joined the Dominican Order but being suspected of heresy was imprisoned. On his release in 1536 he went to England and thence to Rome. Through the influence of Cardinal Pole, C. was app. Master of Novices in the Dominican Convent at Bologna, of which Convent he was rector for several years. Through reading the Institutes of Calvin he again inclined to the reformed faith, was cast into the prison of the Inquisition at Rome and condemned to be burnt. He, however, managed to escape and proceeded to Vienna, where he preached as a Dominican. The Archduke Maximilian refused to deliver him up and gave him a safe conduct to England. In 1560 he returned to Scotland and preached in the chapel of St Magdalen in the Cowgate of Edinburgh; trans. to Holyrood in 1561; trans. to St Giles as colleague to John Knox after 18th June 1562, where he refused to proclaim the banns of marriage between Queen Mary and Bothwell; app. Moderator of the General Assembly 2nd March 1569; trans. to Montrose in 1571; trans. and adm. 6th Aug. 1573; app. Moderator of the General Assembly for a second time, 24th Oct. 1576, and for a third time, 17th Oct. 1581; app. one of the chaplains to King James VI. in 1579, he returned to Edinburgh 14th Sept. 1579, when he took part in the composition of The Second Book of Discipline and National Covenant of 1580. In 1581 he wrote "Ane Shorte and General Confession of the True Christian Fayth and Religion according to God's Worde and Actes of our Parliametes," which was signed by the King and Household. In Oct. 1583 the General Assembly app. him to intimate its approval of the seizure of the King by the Earl of Gowrie in the raid of Ruthven, and boldly rebuked James for his conduct. He denounced the Black Act passed by Parliament in 1584, restoring Episcopacy and recognising the Royal supremacy. At the conference at Falkland, to which he was summonsed by Royal command, he had a stormy scene with Arran. For refusing submission to the Royal Ordinance he was interdicted from preaching and threatened with banishment. He, however, acted as mediator between the extreme Presbyterians led by Melville and the King and was successful in making a compromise in the form of the Oath required as to the King's supremacy in matters ecclesiastical "as far as the Word of God allows." In 1585 he preached before Parliament and in 1590 composed, at the request of the General Assembly, "A Form of Examination before Communion"; died 12th Dec. 1600. He marr. Marion Smail, and had issue—William, Professor in College of Edinburgh (1599), and of Divinity, Samur (1601); died Nov. 1616; Margaret (marr. 29th Nov. 1598, Robert Fairlie, goldsmith, Edinburgh).—

PETER BLACKBURN, Regent in the Univ. of Glasgow; adm. 14th Sept., 1582 and entered on his duties 22nd Nov. 1582; trans. to New or East Kirk in 1596.

DAVID CUNNINGHAM, Bishop of Aberdeen (q.v.); on the town being divided 14th Sept. 1596, this charge with the "Grene and Crukit quarteris" fell to his share by lot. He held this charge in conjunction with the bishopric, and died 3rd Aug. 1600.

ARCHIBALD BLACKBURN, son of above Peter B., Bishop of Aberdeen, 1601 called M.A. (but his name is not found in any Univ. list); reader at Baldernock in 1588, min. there that year; trans. to Dalry, Ayrshire, in 1593; trans. and adm. in 1601; was a member of the Assembly in 1602 and one of those who constituted the Assembly at Aberdeen, 2nd July 1605, in opposition to the King's wishes, for which he was denounced by the Privy Council, 18th July, and summoned to appear before it 3rd Oct. following. Having done so, and declared that he was persuaded the said Assembly was not lawful, he was ordered to return to his charge. He was a member of the Assembly in 1610, and still min. 29th Jan. 1623.—[Melville's Autob., 561, 573; Calderwood's Hist., vi., 284.]

JAMES SIBBALD of Kair, son of Andrew S. of Kair and Margaret Arbuthnott; educated at Marischal College; M.A. (1618), B.D. (King's College 1st Aug. 1627); was a probationer in Presb. of Deer 28th Oct. 1613; regent in Natural Philosophy, Marischal College, 1622-6; adm. in 1625; D.D. (King's College 1628). As one of the famous "Aberdeen Doctors" he strongly opposed the Covenant and was obliged to flee from Scotland in 1638, though he had been elected a member of the Assembly that year. In 1639 he waited upon the King at Berwick, but receiving little encouragement, returned 13th Oct. to this charge. On 24th May 1640 he was silenced and dep. by the Aberdeen Assembly, July following, for refusing to subscribe the Covenant and for heretical preaching, he being, according to Principal Baillie, "in many points of doctrine found verie corrupt." He fled to England a second time, expecting protection and favour from the King, but returned in the beginning of 1641. Removing to Ireland he obtained a charge in Dublin; died of the plague (caught through unremitting attention to the sick) after 1647. His books and papers had been seized, July 1640, by a party of musketeers by command of a Committee of Assembly, but were on his petition returned to him, with the exception of some manuscripts. He marr. Elizabeth Nicolson who, with her children, had £200 allowed by Parliament, 21st June 1661, in consideration of his sufferings and loyalty. ANDREW CANT, the elder, born 1584.

1641 Nothing definitely is known as to his parentage, though it is supposed with some show of reason that he was a native of Aberdeen, and connected with the family of Walter C., formerly a baillie of Leith, who on 1st Oct. 1548, was admitted to the Guildry of Aberdeen. He has also been described as a native of Haddingtonshire, and of the Mearns, and the son of a dependant of the Earl Marischal. Educated at the Grammar School and King's College, Aberdeen, he graduated M.A. in 1612; was app. Humanist in King's College in 1614; adm. min. of Alford before 13th Dec. 1617; dem. after 26th Oct. 1629, on becoming tutor to the only son of Alexander Forbes, Lord Pitsligo; adm. to Pitsligo before 20th Nov. 1633; endeavoured to get up supplications to the Privy Council from the North against the Service Book Oct. 1637, and accompanied Henderson of Leuchars and Dickson of Irvine to Aberdeen, with this view, towards the end of that year; was a member of the Assembly which met at Glasgow in 1638; trans. to Newbattle 20th May 1639; served as chaplain with the Scots army at Newcastle in 1640; elected to this charge by a Committee of Assembly and adm. 24th March 1641; was a member of all the Commissions of Assembly, 1642-9; had 2000 merks allowed him by Parliament, 4th Feb. 1646, for his services and losses; was elected Moderator of the General Assembly 10th July 1650. Joined the Protesters in 1651; became rector of King's College in 1651; is said to have been dep. on a charge of circulating Rutherford's Lex Rex, but probably dem. in 1660; died 27th April 1663. He was the most actively bigoted supporter of the Covenant in the North of Scotland, a man of great moral earnestness and courage, and was one of those summoned before the Privy Council, 9th Dec. 1662, for seditious carriage. He marr. Margaret Irvine, who was buried 28th March 1679, and had issue—James; Alexander, min. of Banchory-Ternan; Andrew (secundus), Principal of Univ. of Edinburgh; Margaret, died unmarr. 1660; Sarah (marr. 4th May 1647, as his second wife, Alexander Jaffray of Kingswells), died a Quaker in 1673. PATRICK SIBBALD, adm. 24th May 1666; app. Professor of Divinity in 1686 Marischal College (q.v.) in 1685.

ANDREW BURNETT, son of James B., burgess of Aberdeen; educated 1686 at Marischal College; M.A. (1672); adm. in 1686; deprived by Parliament, 1st July 1695, for not taking the Oath to their Majesties, and for presenting and adhering to a Protestation against the Assembly's Committee of 17th April 1694 for the North. He was imprisoned four days and banished the country. When subsequently he took the Oaths, the Trades of Aberdeen petitioned the Magistrates in 1711 for his restoration, "threaten if they did not, to enter him by force"; M.D. (1685); dep. by the Presb., 27th June 1716, for praying for the Chevalier during the Rising. Wodrow describes him as "a very weak, empty, volage (volatile) man, of nae great parts of learning, and just made a tool of to disturb the established constitution." He died before 1723. He marr. (1) Margaret, daugh. of Alexander Burnett of Leys, and widow of Alexander Burnett of Monboddoo, and had issue—Robert, born 1692, died before 1723; and others, born 1693, 1694, 1703: (2) Elizabeth Reid, widow of Adam Maltman, merchant, Aberdeen. In the Assembly in 1575, a complaint was made against the Superintendent of Angus and Mearns anent his admission, who replied that he had been admitted with the advice of the brethren of Aberdeen, by whom he had been tried. He died before 25th Feb. 1578. He marr., and had issue—Malcolm, rector of Crieff; Robert, his successor in the parish; Thomas.—[Wodrow Miscell. and Biog., i.; Jervise's Epitaphs.]

ROBERT MERCER (secundus), son of 1578 preceding, regent in King's College, Aberdeen, which he held in conjunction, and had among his pupils John Johnston, the Latin poet and scholar, who speaks of M. as his "auld kynd maister," and bequeathed to him his "white caup with the silver fit in token of thankful dewtie"; pres. 25th Feb. 1578; was on 23rd July 1602, found negligent in teaching and exercise of discipline and admonished. It was reported, 12th Aug. 1603, that he "teaches better and oftener since he has his residence in Aberdeen," but he was ordered to reside in this parish, which order was repeated 19th July 1605. The Presb., 5th April 1610, found him somewhat cold in his doctrine and delivery thereof, and that he had dilapidated the benefice. He was a member of the Assembly in 1610, and still min. 24th March 1618. He marr. Isobell Collison, and probably had issue—John, burgess of Aberdeen, 27th Sept. 1625; Robert, M.A. (Marischal College), who went to Bremen after 1649.—[*Aberdeen Sas. Sec. deen; educated at said College; M.A.

(1661); adm. before 28th Oct. 1673; dep.
by the Primate and Bishops before 21st
Jan. 1680 for publishing The Reformed Bishop, which had given great offence from its having denounced in most scathing terms the alleged corruptions prevailing throughout the Church. When he had expressed his sorrow and craved pardon of all whom he had offended by publishing this book, the sentence was removed and he was again inst. 14th March that year. He died 24th Dec. 1714. He bequeathed £40 Scots annually for behoof of the poor of the parish.
It has been stated that having been disappointed in his expectations of a bishopric, he "fell a railling at the grapes, because out of his reach, and lampooned the ecclesiastical peerage." The nickname of "Reformed Bishop" was given to him, and in a pasquil of the period—"Ecclesiastes or the Preacher, the Penitential Retractions of Mr James Gordon of Banchory," it was said—

"If your book had never been seen,
You had been Bishop of Aberdeen;
If you had been Bishop of Aberdeen,
Your book had never been seen."

ALEXANDER JOHN FORSYTH,
 1791 born 28th Dec. 1768, son of preceding; educated at King's College, Aberdeen, where he had as intimates the celebrated Robert Hall and Sir James Mackintosh; M.A. (30th March 1786); licen. by Presb. of Aberdeen 13th Oct. 1790; pres. by George III. 15th Jan., and ord. 24th Aug. 1791; LL.D. (Aberdeen, 8th Sept. 1834); died suddenly at his breakfast table on Sunday, 11th June 1843, unmarr. He was a man far in advance of his times. Ingenious rather than learned, Nature, not books, was his chief teacher. Professor John Stuart Blackie says that "he taught one the great lesson of how to use the eyes." He was an indefatigable chemist and geologist, and spent much of his leisure in the "minister's smiddy" set up in his manse garden. His discoveries in the preparation of gunpowder were of great service to the Government during the French War, and his invention of the percussion-lock revolutionised the mechanism of firearms, and was adopted by the army. He firmly believed that electricity would ultimately rival the power of steam, and in his imagination of the bestowal of a new sense acting at an infinite distance and through all kinds of substances, he had what looks like a dim groping after wireless telegraphy. He was badly treated in the matter of his gun invention, and was unceremoniously removed from the Tower of London, where he carried on operations at the request of the Government, and his expenses were tardily repaid. No pecuniary reward came to him until the year before his death, when he received a grant of £200, while three of his relatives received £1000 afterwards. "It is hardly too much to say that if F. had been allowed to complete 'the few things he was engaged on at the Tower' in 1807, instead of being told to 'remove his rubbish,' Wellington might have found the Peninsula and Waterloo easier than he did, or, to put it another way, if F. had not patriotically refused the £20,000 offered him by the French for his invention, the great Napoleon might not have died a prisoner at St Helena." CRAIGIEBUCKLER (Q.S.).

charge till 1586, and then again from 1593 to 20th Oct. 1598, when he removed here, being app., 10th Aug. 1599, to preach at Peterculter every third Sunday, which he did till 3rd July 1601. He was a member of the Assembly in 1602; was accused, 15th June 1604, of having passed to the pulpit to preach "rashlie," and that his doctrine was not for the comfort and edification of "sic a notable congregation";
was adm. a burghess of Aberdeen 15th Aug.
that year; suspended, 13th Oct. 1605, for celebrating a marriage irregularly, and dep., 14th March 1606, for inefficiency and granting a tack for three years of his vicarage to his brother, Gilbert R., without the consent of the kirk. He marr. (name unknown), and had issue—several children.

at Aberdeen at Lammas; trans. to Old Machar after 6th June 1621.

JOHN GREGORIE, born 1598, son 1621 of James G. [descended from the Macgregors of Roro, a younger branch of the Glenlyon family], saddler and burghess of Aberdeen, and Margaret Barbour; educated at Marischal College;
M.A. (1616); adm. in 1621; served heir to his father, 27th May 1623. Refusing to sign the Covenant he fled to England, but returned June 1639; was arrested in bed on the night of 2nd June 1640,
by a party of soldiers, brought before General Monro, fined 1000 merks, had his house plundered, and deprived by the General Assembly in July that year. On the petition of the laird of Drum, he was reponed in 1641, but disobeyed an order to preach with Andrew Cant (whom he greatly disliked) at the visitation of the kirk of Aberdeen; was again dep. in 1649, but the Synod, 22nd April, recommended the Assembly to restore him;

died before 31st March 1653. He marr.

[ANDREW BALLENDEN, a deprived 1652 min., was charged by the Synod,
Oct. 1652, with having intruded here. He confessed that he had done the same "by warrant from the Englishers in respect he was upon the independent and congregational course." He was dismissed on undertaking to leave the country.]—

NEWHILLS, OF OLD KEPPELHILLS OR CAPELHILLS.

[A chapel was built here in 1662 by George Davidson of Pettens, who had made his fortune as a pedlar. He granted also an endowment for the charge, consisting of over 500 acres of the lands of Capelhills, or Keppelhills. The Court of Teinds disjoined the parish of Keppelhills from St Machar's, Aberdeen, on 21st Feb. 1666. A new church was built in 1830. The ruins of the prior church still stand within the burying-ground at Newhills. A very old chapel stood within a small graveyard at Stoneywood.]

GEORGE MELVILLE, min. in 1663. A deed found among the archives of King's College, Aberdeen, dated 7th March 1663, states that "George Davidson bequeathed to G. M. whom he had appointed minister at the kirk he had built, and to his successors serving the cure of the said kirk, for payment of the minister's stipend in all things requisite to the ministerial calling, his town and lands of Kingshill (or Keppelhills), extending to five ploughs in the parish of St Machar, and freedom of Aberdeen." It would appear that Davidson's executors were somewhat dilatory in carrying out his benevolent purpose, and an action was raised against them on 21st Feb. 1666, by Patrick Scougal, D.D., Bishop of Aberdeen. The papers dealing with the case have been lost, but a decision of the Court of Session, 23rd Jan. 1811, narrates the circumstances in connection with a process for augmentation of stipend by George Allan, then min.—[Morgan's Annals of Newhills, 138-43.]

ALEXANDER MIDDLETON, M.A.; Principal of King's College, Aberdeen (q.v.), held this charge in conjunction; dem. in 1679.

THOMAS CREVEY, born 8th Sept. 1644, son of John C., Old Aberdeen; educated at King's College; M.A. (30th April 1663); adm. Burgess of Aberdeen, 19th Feb. 1674, where he is called "min. of Newhills"; pres. by the Principal and masters of said College; inst. 10th June 1679; became clerk of Synod; protested against the Assembly's Committee for the North in 1694; was charged with adultery and incest; deprived by Parliament, 1st July 1695, and went to Ireland, "where he was challenged."—[Acts of Parl., ix., 389, 411, App. 118.]

MARTIN SCHANK, M.A.; trans. from Auchtertool; adm. 29th April 1697; trans. to Banchory-Ternan 12th July 1699. The Presbytery Register of 17th Feb.

1698, records that "last Sabbath, Margaret, daugh. of Andrew Jaffray of Kingswells, coming with other Quakers, entered the kirk, and cried, 'Do not believe that deceiver,' declaring she was sent of God to tell them He was 'about to destroy all idolry and vile worship.'"

(? 1682); adm. to Monigaff between 20th
March and 26th Oct. 1694; called 23rd Aug., and adm. 10th Sept. 1702. The General Assembly, 28th March 1704, remitted to the Commission to use their utmost diligence for removing his grievances and to assist him in his process anent his stipend. He went out of his mind and hanged himself in the church with the bell rope, between 20th May and 22nd June 1715. In the popular belief he was deemed the victim of witchcraft.
Tradition says that the pulpit Bible was found open beside his body with the passage from Job vii., 13, marked by his own hand—"Thou scarest me with dreams, and terrifiest me through visions; so that my soul chooseth strangling rather than my life." He marr. Elizabeth Thomson,

NEW MACHAR, OF OLD MONYKEBUCK.

[In ancient times there was at Monyke-buck a chapel of St Columba. On 9th May 1609 this parish, with the chapel, was disjoined from St Machar's, Aberdeen. The new parish was named Monykebuck, but, by the end of the seventeenth century, it had come to be generally called Upper Machar. In the eighteenth century this latter name gave place to New Machar. The present church was erected in 1791. There were three chapels in the parish—St Mary's at Clubsgaval or Parkhill, St Mary's at Straloch, and St Mary's at the Bishop's Manor in Lochgoul.]

PRESBYTERY OF KINCARDINE O'NEIL

[As early as 1581 the General Assembly was engaged with a proposal to erect a Presbytery for Strathdee. The Register of this Court begins at 17th April 1700. There is a gap in the Record from 13th Oct. 1713 to 2nd Nov. 1714. The part amissing was lost soon after it was written, when the documents were in the hands of James Douglas minister of Aboyne.]

ABOYNE AND GLENTANAR.

[These parishes were united about the beginning of the seventeenth century.

Aboyne.—The church of Aboyne was dedicated to St Adamnan. In 1232 a Preceptory of the Order of the Temple was founded at Aboyne. The church belonged to the Templars, as did also some adjoining landed property. Part of this still bears the name of Tir an Teampuil (the land of the Temple). After the fall of the Templars, in or about 1314, these lands and the church were held by the Commandery of the Knights of St John at Torphichen. Fairs were held at Aboyne on Candlemas, Michaelmas, and Hallowmas. There were in this parish Wells of Our Lady, St Adamnan, and St Malrubh.

Glentamar.—In early times St Lesmo dwelt in Glentamar and taught there. To him the mediæval parish church was dedicated. The old church was in regular use till 1763. Its ruins still stand in the churchyard. It was one of the last churches with a thatched roof.]

He was of small stature as shown in his character, given in an epitaph said to be written by the first Earl of Aboyne:—

"... Little Mr Andrew Gray;
Though voyd of witt, yet full of yeires.
To point him forth requyres some skill,
He knew so little good or ill.
He had a church without a roof,
A conscience that was cannon proof;
He was Prelatick first, and then Became a Presbyterian.
Episcopall once more he turn'd
And yet for neither would be burn'd,
Of whom I have no more to say,
But fiftie years he preach'd and dy'd."

He marr. and had issue—John, assistant to his father; James, admitted Burgess of Aberdeen 25th Oct. 1654.—[Aberdeen Sheriff-Court Books, ii., 277; Jervise's Epitaphs, ii., 415.]

JAMES GORDON, born about 1645; 1671 educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (30th April 1663); ord. by Bishop of Moray; elected to Glass before 3rd April 1666. He was engaged to marry a sister of the minister of Moville in Ireland, but eloped with Helen, daugh. of John Gordon of Cairnborrow, and went to Londonderry. For this he was summoned on 1st Oct. 1667 by the Synod of Moray, but did not appear. He was adm. by Bishop Mossom to preach at Clondermot Chapel, but was dep. by the Synod of Moray and excommunicated 7th April 1668. He returned to Scotland, and petitioned the Synod for relaxation of its sentence. On 6th May he appeared and confessed his fault with tears, and owned that he was married before witnesses to Helen Gordon. The Synod ordered them to separate, and G. to appear in sackcloth in the kirks of Strathbogie Presb. except Grange, and on 5th April 1670 he was declared for ever incapable of holding office within the Synod of Moray. He removed to the Synod of Aberdeen, and was adm. to this parish before 26th April 1671. He eloped with his housekeeper, and was dep. 23rd April 1674, for swearing, drinking, striking, and denying his own subscription. He was imprisoned at Aberdeen for debt 7th Oct. that year, but liberated on 31st of that month. He retired to the Cabrach, where he took the farm of Soccoth, and married and baptised irregularly in defiance of the Presb. of Alford. After repeated citations, he appeared before that Presb., 10th April 1678, and denied these charges, which were referred to the bishop and Synod for advice, but nothing further apparently was done. On 9th April 1679, he was again charged with exercising ministerial functions in the parish of Cabrach, which he denied. On 12th Nov. that year it was stated Mrs Gordon was lately dead. After much contumacy on his part it is reported on 5th Jan. 1681 that the Lesser Excommunication had been pronounced, that G. had celebrated a marriage and had confessed immorality with his servant Sievwright. He thereupon leaving the district, went to London, where he failed to get employment though recommended by Bishop Paterson of Edinburgh. He then proceeded to Ireland and began services in a deserted Presbyterian meeting-house at Bovevagh, Londonderry, Sept. 1681. There he turned a spy upon the Presbyterians and entered the pay of the Government. The authorities discovering his true character, the Duke of Ormonde wrote to the Archbishop, 3rd Feb. 1683, "that I cannot imagine any sort of use can be made of him, but that he be left to his vagabond course of life till it brings him to the natural end it leads to." He afterwards returned to Scotland, and was adm. to Cardross (q.v.) 29th July 1690, and died 16th May 1693.—[Article by J. M. Bulloch, LL.D., in Aberdeen Journal Notes and Queries, iv., 172; Duke of Ormonde MSS. (Hist. MS. Com..)]

CRATHIE.

[The church of Crathie, which belonged to the Priory of Monymusk, was dedicated to St Manir. Polmanir, a deep pool on the Dee, still commemorates his name. Remains of three chapels are to be found at Micras, nearly opposite Abergeldie Castle, at Balmore, in Aberarder, and at Mains of Abergeldie. Tradition says that a fourth stood at "Balmurrel" (Balmoral). The pre-Reformation Church is now a picturesque ruin in the churchyard. The foundation stone of the present church was laid by Queen Victoria, 11th Sept. 1893, and the building was opened for divine service on 18th June 1895. The Braemar portion of the parish was disjoined in 1879. Balmoral Castle, in the parish, was built 1853-5.]

1715 26th May and 10th June; ord. 10th
Aug. 1715; trans. to Logie-Colstone
19th Oct. 1748.

MURDOCH M'LENNAN, born 1702, 1749 son of David M. in Drummond, Kilt-earn, Ross-shire; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; licen. by Presb.
of Alford 13th April 1732; ord. missionary at Braemar 19th Oct. 1748; called 27th April, trans. and adm. 11th May 1749;
died 22nd July 1783. He was a man of considerable attainments and rich in Highland lore. He marr. 20th June 1749,
Margaret Forbes, who died s.p. 14th Oct.
1789. Publication—Burns ascribes to him the popular song, "We ran and they ran," on the Battle of Sheriffmuir in 1715.—[The Harp of Perthshire, 54.]

JAMES WILSON, educated at Univ.
of St Andrews; M.A. (1757); licen.
1784 by Presb. of Kincardine O'Neil 19th March 1766; ord. by it missionary at Tulloch, 8th April 1767; trans. to Lochs, Lewis, 11th Aug. 1768; pres. by George III.
16th Sept. 1783; trans. and adm. 4th Aug.
1784; died 7th April 1788. His stipend being only about £40 a year, he unavoidably got into debt, had his cattle and furniture sold by his creditors, and had only one bed left, on which he lay dying, while his wife at his side was delivered of her eighth child. A subscription which was opened for the benefit of the widow and family met with a generous response.
He marr. 19th Oct. 1769, Mary Wylie, who died 16th April 1803, and had issue—
William, born 10th May 1771; Colin, born 28th Nov. 1772; James, born 7th July

Andrew Farquharson of Allargue; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A.
(1767); licen. by Presb. of Alford 18th May 1770; ord. by Presb. of Abernethy 10th May 1771; adm. to Kirkmichael (Dunkeld),
9th May 1781; pres. by George III. 16th
May 1788; trans. and adm. 10th June 1789; was factor and commissioner on the

Invercauld estate; died 14th May 1822. During his ministry a new church was built in 1804. "Few buildings have resounded to more eloquence than that little Highland kirk. Dr Norman Macleod, Principal Caird, Principal Tulloch, Dr MacGregor, and many others filled its pulpit, and no preachers ever had more attentive or appreciative listeners than the occupants of the royal pew who, when at Balmoral, were regular attendants at the parish church. Queen Victoria has testified to the pleasure and comfort derived from what she heard there, and the Prince Consort liked the Scottish service, which he used to say reminded him of the simple Lutheran forms to which in his early youth he had been accustomed." He marr. 18th July 1778, Clementina (died s.p. 2nd Aug. 1822), daugh. of George Forbes in Culquhany, and Margaret, daugh. of William Forbes of Buchan. (Marischal College, Aberdeen, 7th Oct. 1766); app. 29th May 1775 a member of the Committee for the Revision of the Paraphrases, and contributed Paraphrase LXII., "Lo! in the last of days," to the 1781 collection; died 17th Nov. 1813. An anonymous author says of him: "Ogilvie, with powers far above the common order, did not know how to use them with effect. He was an able man lost. His intellectual wealth and industry were wasted in huge and unhappy speculations. Of all his books there is not one which, as a whole, can be expected to please the general reader. Noble sentiments, brilliant conceptions, and poetic graces, may be culled in profusion from the mass; but there is no production in which they so predominate (some of his minor pieces excepted) as to induce it to be selected for a happier fate than the rest. Had the same talent which Ogilvie threw away on a number of objects been concentrated on one, and that one chosen with judgment and taste, he might have rivalled in popularity the most renowned of his contemporaries." He was, however, one of the most notable literary clergymen of his time. It was to him while dining with Boswell, in London in 1763, that Johnson remarked, "Let me tell you the noblest prospect which a Scotsman ever sees is the high road which leads him to England." Of O.'s verses Johnson "could find no thinking in them," and said that when he and O. met, the latter "must give us none of his poetry." Boswell, on the other hand, had a good opinion of the Day of Judgment, remarking that it has "no inconsiderable share of merit." PRESBYTERY OF ALFORD

[In April 1581 the General Assembly had before it a proposal to erect in Strathdon a Court to be called the Presbytery of Kildrummy. No further action in this matter is known to have been taken until 1606. The Presbytery Register begins at 26th Nov. 1662. There is a gap in the Record from 19th Sept. 1688 to 28th March 1705.]

ALFORD.

[The church of Alford was dedicated to St Andrew. It belonged to the Priory of Monymusk. A Fair of St Andrew was held at Alford.]

JOHN PHILIP, adm. before 1567, with 1567 Forbes, Kearn, and Clatt also in the charge. In 1568 he stated he had served the cure "for divers years bygone"; trans. to Dunbennan and Kinore.

JOHN STRACHAN of Sevydlie, trans.
1569 from Tullynessle and adm. Nov. 1569; trans. to Tough before 1574; returned here before 1585, Keig, Leochel, Kemnay, and Leslie being also in his charge; trans. to Leochel before 1588.

JOHN FORBES, born about 1568, was 1593 third son of William F. of Corse and Elizabeth, daugh. of Alexander Strachan of Thornton. He graduated M.A. at St Andrews in 1583, and was settled in this charge in 1593. In Nov. 1602 the General Assembly chose him as one of those whom the King might select for nominating commissioners from the various Presbs. to Parliament. At Alford he came into conflict with the powerful sept of the Gordons, who were vigorous opponents of Protestantism, and when the Synods of Aberdeen and Moray excommunicated the Marquess of Huntly, and Huntly had appealed successfully to the Privy Council, F. was sent by these Synods to London to represent the case to King James. He was elected Moderator of the Assembly which met at Aberdeen on 2nd July 1605 contrary to the King's order. Of twelve Aberdeenshire ministers who were present ten afterwards admitted the illegal nature of the Assembly, but F. [and Charles Fearn, min. of Fraserburgh] having been summoned before the Privy Council, declined the Council's jurisdiction, on the ground that the Assembly had dealt wholly with spiritual matters. For this he was imprisoned at Blackness, tried for high treason, and banished the country. On 7th Nov. 1616 he sailed from Leith for Bordeaux, and after spending a time with Boyd of Trochrig at Saumur, he proceeded to Sedan. Much of his work thereafter consisted in visiting the Reformed Churches and Universities on the Continent, in which were many Scots students and professors. In 1611 he became min. of the English congregation at Middelburg, Holland, and soon after he was offered release from his sentence, but upon conditions he could not accept. In 1616 he came to London, where he had an interview with the King, who promised to annul his banishment—a promise which was not fulfilled. In 1621 he was min. at Delft, but the hatred of his former ministerial brethren, some of whom were now bishops, instigated Laud and the English Government to procure his dismissal, and this was carried out in 1628. He died in Holland in 1634. He was held in much honour by the Reformed Churches abroad for his consistently faithful character, his eminent talents and learning, and, above all, for his sufferings in the cause of religion. He marr. Christian, daugh. of George Barclay of Mathers, and had issue—John, colonel in the Dutch Service; Arthur, colonel in the Dutch Service; Patrick, Bishop of Caithness; James, min. of Abercorn; Margaret (marr. Andrew Skene in Kirktown of Dyce); a daugh. (marr. William, son of Alexander Forbes, Bishop of Aberdeen); Katherine (marr. John Oswald, min. of Prestonpans). RATHMUREAL, OR CHRIST'S KIRK.

[The church of Rathmureal was dedicated to St Muriel. At a late date we find the charge called Christ's Kirk, and it is likely there was a change of dedication. The church belonged to the Abbey of Lindores. In the old churchyard, scanty ruins of Rathmureal Church can still be seen. Near it was St Muriel's Well. This parish long continued to hold a very popular tryst of a singular kind. It was called Christ's Fair, and was held in May from sunset to sunrise. Hence it got the name of the "Sleepy Market." In 1794 this was changed to a daytime fair, but the alteration seemed to take away the motive of gathering. It was poorly attended for a few years, and then given up altogether.]

[The church of Kildrummy was dedicated to St Bride. Beside it was St Bride's Well. In 1650 the parishes of Auchindoir and Kildrummy were united, but they were severed again in 1653. There were three chapels within the bounds, St Machar's in St Machar's Haugh, St Luke's at Mid Clova, and St Ranald's in Glen-kindie, where also is St Ranald's Well.]

CHAPEL-OF-GARIOCH (OF OLD LOGIE DURNO) AND FETTERNEIR.

[These two parishes were united in 1599.

Chapel-of-Garioch.—The church of Logie Durno was dedicated to St Mary. It belonged to the Abbey of Lindores. At Chapel-of-Garioch, where the church now stands, there was of old a Chapel of St Mary called Our Lady's Chapel of Garioch, which, in 1583, was appointed by the Commission of the province and hail parishioners to be the parish church. Near it was Our Lady's Well. A new parish church was built at the Chapel-of-Garioch. Soon after the seat of the Presbytery was removed to Chapel-of-Garioch.

Fetterneir.—The church of Fetterneir was dedicated to St Ninian. At the parsonage of Fetterneir, Alexander Kininmonth, Bishop of Aberdeen, built an Episcopal mansion in 1329. It became a favourite residence of the succeeding bishops.]

RAYNE.

[The church of Rayne was dedicated to St Andrew, and some high ground near it is called St Andrew's Hill. Rayne was a prebend of Aberdeen. Two fairs were held at Rayne, those of St Andrew and St Laurence. There was a Well of St Laurence in the parish. The incumbent was formerly Archdeacon of Aberdeen. The present church, built in 1789, has been frequently added to and altered. An old prophecy, ascribed to Thomas the Rhymer, says :—

" Fite [white] kirk o' Rayne, Though straight stands your wa'
On a bonnie Pess Sunday [Easter]
Doon sall ye fa'."

The parish of Rayne is known as "the Giraln of the Garioch."]]

PRESBYTERY OF ELLON

[This Court was erected on 14th October 1597. Its Parishes were then taken from the Presbytery of Aberdeen. The Register of the Presbytery of Ellon begins at the opening of the Court in 1597. There are gaps in the Record from 8th June 1604 to March 1605, 30th January 1628 to 16th May 1632, from 16th May 1638 to 10th July 1639, from 4th October 1643 to 29th November 1662, from 13th September to 20th December 1671, and from 3rd July 1689 to 12th December 1701.]

BARTHOL CHAPEL (Q.S.).

[At the place now called Barthol Chapel there was of old a chapel of St Bartholomew belonging to the Abbey of Arbroath. George, 6th Earl of Aberdeen, having been lost at sea in 1870, his mother, Mary, Countess of Aberdeen, built a church here as a memorial of him, which was opened 16th Aug. 1875. His brother and successor, John, the 7th Earl, afterwards first Marquess of Aberdeen and Temair, gifted a manse to the Mission, and also contributed largely towards its endowment, with the result that the Parish of Barthol Chapel was disjoined from Tarves, Fyvie, Methlick and Meldrum on 17th January 1876.]

ALEXANDER CHEYNE, reader in 1580.—[Aberdeen Hornings, 1st Oct. 1581.]

DAVID RATTRAY, adm. in 1586, with Forvie also in his charge; trans. to Bervie in 1589.

ALEXANDER BRUCE, removed from Cruden in 1589, with Forvie and Cruden also in his charge; returned to Cruden in 1590 and to this parish in 1597.

JOHN LESLIE, min. in 1595 [after-1595 wards min. at Tullich].

ALEXANDER BRUCE, above men-1597 tioned, returned in 1597; was sick
9th Jan., and died after 19th Feb.
1611. [The Presbytery Register has a leaf awaiting between 26th Feb. and 1st April, and B.'s name does not appear after 9th Jan.]

STEPHEN MASON, min. of Inch in 1614 1567; trans. to Bethelnie (Meldrum)
in 1574; trans. and adm. before 2nd
Feb. 1614, when the parishioners represented to the Presb. that he "was agit, and unable to discharge his office, and desired Mr Samuel Tullideff might be admitted to minister the Sacraments for help to his guidschir in said ministry."
He died about 27th Oct. 1618. He marr.
and had issue—a daugh. (marr. Thomas Tullidelf, min. of Foveran). On 28th July 1625 it was reported to the Presb. that Helen Kinaird, "ane apostat-papist" wife of Patrick Con of Crowley, factor for Lord Erroll, "had cam' to the kirk of Slains and most barbarouslie causit Patrick Bonar (and others) to tak' up the body of Stephen Mason, kist and all, out of the grave, and causit break up the lid of the kist with ane eich and luikit and beheld the body of the said Stephen. As also the said Helen left him there unburied again. The kirk officer confessit that the said Helen said maist maliciouslie, 'An' were he best minister that ever preichit in a pulpit, devil a bit of him should lie there.' And the officer confessed that the minister had forbidden
him to have anything to do with taking up the body. The brethren, after advisement, thought it best to acquaint the Bishop."
What followed does not appear.—[Mair's
Presb. of Ellon, 91, 93, 121.]

[SAMUEL TULLIDELF, son of Thomas
T., min. of Foveran, who had been ordained assistant to preceding for seven years, was desired as min. by the parishioners, who objected to the appointment of John Mercer
as "ane sawer of sedition," "ane bissie body in uther men's affairs," and "ane could gospeller, not giving edification to his flock."

An appeal was made to the bishop, but at this point there occurs a considerable blank in the Presbytery Register. T. became schoolmaster of Ellon.]

JOHN MERCER, second son of James 1619 M. of Newton, and brother of Robert M., min. of Ellon; adm. to Methlick before 31st July 1595; was accused of absence from the Provincial Assembly, 23rd April 1601, for which he was ordered to pay four merks under pain of suspension;
signed the Protestation in favour of the Liberties of the Kirk 27th June 1617; pres.
by the Principal and masters of King's College, Aberdeen, Oct. 1618; trans. and
adm. between 13th April and 22nd Sept.
1619; burgess of Aberdeen in 1631; was reported "long sick," 1st Feb. 1637, and died soon afterwards. A curious entry in the Presbytery Register for 1620 tells how
M. was accused of witchcraft by Dame Agnes Gordon, who declared that the minister "was able, or pretended to be able, to discover a thief by making a cock crow beneath a cauldron." He marr. and had issue—Robert, M.A., schoolmaster of Ellon, min. of Mullaghbrack in Ireland, died in 1641, a martyr to the Protestant cause, together with his wife, leaving three children who were recommended for help by the Presb. 21st April 1642 and 19th Oct.
1643; James, burgess of Perth and Aberdeen; John, major in the army; William,
went to Ireland, entered the Covenanting army and rose to lieutenant-colonel, and was also a poet; Margaret, who "went astray" with Patrick Smyth in Slains; and others, 1620-6.—[Reid's Ireland, i., 329;

Queries*, xii., 158.]

WILLIAM MUSHET, pres. by 1638 Principal and masters of King's College, Aberdeen, May 1638; appears to have embraced the cause of the Covenant unwillingly, as on 21st Sept.
1640 he "with divers other ministers came in, recanted, and preached a penitential sermon"; trans. to Hassendean 30th Dec.

WILLIAM FRASER, M.A. (King's College, 1657); adm. before 20th Dec. 1665; was received into communion by a Committee of the General Assembly, but dem. 6th Oct. 1699 for fear, it is said, of deposition, being suspected with his son William (by a previous marriage), a licentiate, of causing the death by poison of Jean Gordon, his wife, in the previous Oct. The son lay unaccused for three months in Aberdeen jail, when he presented a petition for trial before the High Court of Justiciary 6th March 1699, but what followed does not appear. [Chambers's Domestic Annals, iii., 208-9; P. C. Dec., 6th March 1699; Aberdeen Journal Notes and Queries, i., 131.]

ALEXANDER HOWART, chaplain in the family of Sir William Keith of Ludquharn in 1696; called in Oct. 1700; ord. 16th Jan. 1701; died between 29th Sept. and 28th Oct. 1713; said to be subject "to epileptic fits and of great age." —[Mair's Presb. of Ellon, 323.]

JOHN FORBES, educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1704); licen. by Presb. of Ellon 19th Dec. 1710; called jure devoluto 27th July 1714. His settlement was opposed by a crowd who wished William Law, deposed min. of Crimond, who had been pres. by three mins. of King's College, and had taken possession of the manse. The Presb. were denied access to the church, and proceeded to Logie, where F. was ord. 2nd Sept. 1714; he died 12th April 1732. He marr. Janet Forbes, who died 13th Sept. 1768, and had issue—Robert, served heir 16th Sept. 1749; Margaret, died at Aberdeen 17th Dec. 1795; Helen (marr. 29th Feb. 1748, Francis Peacock, dancing master, Aberdeen).—[Aberdeen Tests. ; Services of Heirs ; Mair's Ellon, 386.]

UDNY.

[The lands of Udney were of old included in the parish of Ellon. There was then a chapel of the Holy Trinity commonly called Christ's Kirk of Udney. By Act of Parliament passed on 19th Dec. 1597, the parish of Udney was erected and disjoined from Ellon, Logie-Buchan, Tarves, and Foveran. In 1605, a church of greater size to replace the chapel of the Holy Trinity was built at Udney. There were two other chapels within the bounds, St Mary's at Kingoodie and St Michael's at Tulligray. On our Lady Day in Harvest, a fair was held at Balnakettle in this parish. A new church built in 1821 was renovated in 1883.]

PRESBYTERY OF DEER

[In 1581 the General Assembly proposed to take action for the erection of a Presbytery at Crimond in Buchan. The Register of this Presbytery, however, does not begin till 30th Dec. 1602. There are gaps in the Record from June 1621 to 8th Nov. 1649, from 3rd April 1660 to 16th April 1710, and from Jan. to Sept. 1773. On 15th May 1621 the seat of the Court was transferred from Crimond to Deer.]

ABERDOUR.

[St Drostan established his mission at Aberdour in or about the year 580. In later times the parish church was dedicated to him. Aberdour was a prebend of Aberdeen. The old church, still standing in the churchyard, is an interesting ruin. There were in the parish Wells of St Drostan and St John. There is a mission chapel within the bounds at Auchmedden, where, at Chapelden, a chapel stood in pre-Reformation times.]

DEER, OR OLD DEER.

[The ancient church of Deer, whose ruins still stand in the churchyard, was dedicated to St Drostan. It belonged to the Abbey of Deer. Near the church was St Drostan's Well. The Celtic monastery of Deer was founded by St Drostan, one of St Columba's monks, who came from Iona to Buchan. It was converted into St Mary's Cistercian Abbey of Deer, founded here in 1218 by William Comyn, first Earl of Buchan. Of the Abbey buildings there is now very little left. The remains of its church show a building 157 feet long. There is a mission chapel in the parish at Fetterangus.]

GILBERT CHISHOLM, brother to 1567 John C., doctor and surgeon to the King; was one of the conventual brethren of the Cistercian Monastery at Deer who adopted the principles of the Reformation; was min. in 1567, with Foveran, Peterugie [Peterhead], and Longley [St Fergus] in the charge; pres. to parsonage of Lonmay by James VI., 16th May 1569, and to parsonage and vicarage of Rathen 28th Oct. that year. In 1574 his charge was reduced to Deer, Fetterangus, and Rathen, and in 1576 to the two former; was still min. in 1585. He marr. Margaret Buist, who marr. (2) Abraham Sibbald, min. of this parish.

JOHN WARTLAIR, prebendar
1583 in 1583.

ABRAHAM SIBBALD of the family
1588 of S. of Kair in the Mearns; adm. to Nigg before 1585; trans. and adm. 18th June 1586; was a member of Assembly, 1602, 1610, and 1616. At the first of these he was appointed a commissioner for visiting the bounds of Moray. By that of 1606 he was appointed constant Moderator of the Presb., and by the Assembly, 29th July 1608, he was selected to present a supplication to the King for the suppression of Popery, and for increasing the influence of the true Protestant faith. He was still min. June 1621, and died before 1635. He contributed considerably to the cost of his own church reparation, as well as to that of Longside, upon the belfry of which his initials and coat-of-arms are inscribed. He marr. (1) before 1594, Margaret Buist, widow of Gilbert Chisholm, min. of this parish: (2) 11th Sept. 1607, Christian, daugh. of Peter Blackburn, Bishop of Aberdeen.—[Tombst.; Aberdeen Sec. Reg. Sas., vi., 213.]

ALEXANDER MARTIN, brother of 1635 James M., min. of Peterhead; adm. to Longside after 11th Nov. 1619; trans. and adm. after June 1621, but first mentioned on record 4th Feb. 1635; was a member of Assembly 21st Nov. 1638, and one of those "accounted eminent in his day either for gifts, grace, faithfulness, or success." He marr. and had issue—Major James, served heir to his cousin, Alexander M. of Strenere, M.D., 9th Oct. 1677.—[Inq. Ret. Gen. 6038.]

[THOMAS MARTIN, said by Spalding to be one of a committee at Aberdeen, 19th June 1640, for prosecuting the non-Covenanting ministers, but no doubt a mistake for above.]

ROBERT KEITH, a relative (perhaps 1649 son) of Robert K., chamberlain to the Earl Marischal; educated at Univ. of St Andrews; M.A. (1645); became regent in Old College there; adm. before 2nd March 1649; advanced money for the support of Nathaniel Gordon during his imprisonment at St Andrews and for his funeral, and was granted 100 dollars in payment by Parliament in 1649. He was appointed by Parliament 31st July that year one of the Commission for visiting the Univ. of Aberdeen. He joined the Protesters in 1651 and was a corresponding member with those of the Presb. of Linlithgow, 1st June 1653, when they admitted a minister for Linlithgow at Langlands; was named by the Council of England, 8th Aug. 1654, for authorising admissions to the ministry within the provinces north of Angus. He acquired the estate of Clackriach 15th April 1659; deprived for non-conformity to Episcopacy in 1662; died 19th March 1666. He is said to have been one of the three members of the Presb. known as the Triumviri of Deer, the others being Nathaniel Martin, Peterhead, and Duncan Forbes, New Pitsligo. He marr. Euphemia Kinnear, who died 19th March 1664, and had issue—Jean (marr. Patrick Strachan, clothier, Aberdeen), heir to her father.—[Acts of Parl., vi., part ii., 227, 509, 704, 705; Wodrow's Anal., iii., 125; P. R. Sas. Aberdeen, xx., 414, 19th April 1659, 21st Aug. 1699.]

ARTHUR ROSS, trans. from 1663 Kinairney and adm. before 27th Oct. 1663; trans. to Glasgow (South Quarter) 15th Dec. 1664.

ALEXANDER GAIRDYNE, son of 1665 George G., min. of Clatt, born about 1638; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1652); adm. to Gartly before 2nd Oct. 1660; trans. and adm. between 4th April and 18th Oct. 1665; still min. 4th July 1669. He marr. Elizabeth Keith, and had issue—George.—[Aberdeen Sas., v., 442.]

ROBERT BRUCE, M.A.; regent 1674 in Marischal College; adm. before July 1674, when he was a member of the Royal Commission for Visiting the College of Aberdeen; trans. to Tron parish, Edinburgh, 25th May 1681.

JOHN COCKBURN, trans. from Udry, 1681 and adm. before 7th Sept. 1681; trans. to Ormiston 13th June 1683.

GEORGE KEITH, born about 1642, 1683 son of John K., min. of Garvock; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1658); became schoolmaster of Methlick; licen. by Presb. of Ellon in 1667; adm. to Monkeggie [Keithhall] in 1675; trans. and adm. in 1683; died 16th July 1710. He marr. (1) Mary, daugh. of Robert Browne, min. of Bourtie, and had issue—William; Margaret (marr. John Leslie, nephew to Leslie of Wartle); Mary (marr. Richard Maitland, min. of Nigg):

(2) Sophia, daugh. of Alexander Ross, min. of Rathen, and had issue—Alexander, sometime schoolmaster and afterwards Episcopal min. at Cruden, author of The View of the Diocese of Aberdeen (Coll. Aberdeen and Banff [Spalding Club, 1843]), born 22nd May 1695, died 27th Oct. 1763; Giles (marr. George Irvine, dyer, Cruden).—[Aberdeenshire Poll-Book, i., 618; Mackay's Cruden and its Ministers, 118.]

JOHN GORDON, born about 1685, son 1711 of John G., Provost of Aberdeen (1706-7); educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1702-6; licen. by the Presb. there 24th April 1710; called by the Presb. jure devoluto 20th Feb., and ord. (in the Session-house at Aberdeen) 6th April 1711, the service in the parish having been prevented by a hostile crowd; died between 21st Jan. and 25th Feb. 1718. He marr. (1) Barbara, youngest daugh. of John Gordon of Fechil: (2) 1717, Jean (survived him, and marr. (2) James Leslie, min. of Crimond), daugh. of Alexander Forbes of Ludquharn, and had issue—Janet (marr. James Walker, min. of Peterhead).

JOHN FORBES of Pitnacadel, Aber- 1719 dour, born 1688, eldest son of James F. of Pitnacadel (descended from Forbes of Tolquhon); educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1707); became schoolmaster of Alves; licen. by Presb. of Deer 20th March 1716; his trials were delayed by an attempt of the Jacobites to apprehend him; ord. to Pitsligo 19th Feb. 1717; called by the Presb. jure devoluto 20th Nov. 1718; trans. and adm. 4th Feb. 1719; died 20th April 1769. "With a manly figure, he possessed the literature of the Scholar, the eloquence of the Preacher, the accomplishment of the Gentleman." His hostility to Episcopacy led the author of Tullochgorum to satirise him in one of his songs. He marr. 29th Jan. 1740, Margaret (died s.p. 22nd April 1796), daugh. of George Hay of Thorniebank. He marr. Jessie Glenday, who marr. (2) 27th Dec. 1883.

[WILLIAM BRUCE, min. of Portlethen; was elected to this charge, but being then under suspension his appointment was not sustained. This occasioned much dissatisfaction amongst many of his supporters, who left the church and set up a Congregational chapel in the parish. A vacancy of nearly four years followed.]

GEORGE FORBES INNES PHILIP,
 1879 born 1833, son of Thomas P., schoolmaster, Grange and Portsoy; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1854); became schoolmaster of Inverkeithny; missionary at Ythan Wells; ord. to Skene 12th March 1868; trans. to St Clement's, Aberdeen, 12th Oct. 1870; app. by the Presb. jure devoluto 7th April 1877; trans. and adm. (after much litigation) 27th March 1879; died at Cults 21st April 1900. His zeal, kindliness of heart, and ability as a preacher, smoothed many difficulties and won the hearts of the people who had been divided in opinion and embittered during the protracted vacancy. He marr. 6th Jan. 1858, Barbara (died 14th March 1903), eldest daugh. of Peter Morrison, banker, London, and had issue—Thomas, merchant, Cape Town, born 4th Nov. 1858; Alfred Morrison, min. of Avoch, born 27th March 1860; William Marshall, C.E., Johannesburg, born 7th Dec. 1861; George Davenport, missionary of Episcopal Church, Chanda, India, born 13th Nov. 1863, died at Cults, Aberdeen, 15th July 1925; James Porter, M.D., Morpeth, born 15th Oct. 1865; John Anderson, M.A., rector of St Mary's Episcopal Church, Kirriemuir, and canon of St Ninian's Cathedral, Perth, born 18th Nov. 1870.

FRASERBURGH, OF OLD PHILORTH.

[The church of Philorth was dedicated to St Medan. Philorth was a prebend of Aberdeen. In 1571 the church of the parish was removed from Philorth to Faithlie, which is now called Fraserburgh. Fairs of St John the Baptist and St Michael were held at Philorth. There is a mission chapel within the bounds at Technuiry.]

DAVID BRADIE [or BRODIE], reader
 1567 from 1567 to 1574.

DAVID HOWESON, trans. from Gamrie
 1576 in 1576, with Aberdour and Tyrie in the charge; app. by the Assembly in 1579 joint-commissioner for Rayne and Buchan, with the heights of Mar and Garioch, and 1580 for Angus and Mearns; trans. to Aberdour about 1597.

DAVID RATTRAY, formerly of 1593 Bervie; adm. in 1593; dem. in 1596 [afterwards min. of Cruden.]

CHARLES FERME [or FAIRHOLM], 1598 born in the neighbourhood of Edinburgh in 1567; described in a manuscript of Thomas Crawford, as "a man of obscure parentage," and "brought up by Alexander Guthrie, Town Clerk"; educated at the Grammar School and Univ. of Edinburgh, where he was one of Principal Rollock's first students; M.A. (1587); was assistant to Rollock as regent of Philosophy, 1590-8; in 1596, and again in 1597 he declined calls to the proposed Second Charge at Haddington; app. min. of this parish in 1598; app. by the General Assembly which met at Montrose, 18th March 1600, as master or principal of a college founded at Fraserburgh by Sir Alexander Fraser of Philorth. This college was never actually opened for students, and though building was begun, it was not completed. There is no contemporary notice, direct or indirect, of any student, and the arrangement by which the ministers of Crimond, Rathen, and Tyrie were to act as regents under Farnie, appears never to have been carried out. The recent founding of Marischal College, the remote situation of Fraserburgh, the lack of endowments, and, perhaps, most of all, the troubles of the time, prevented the realisation of Fraser's generous and enlightened scheme. F. vigorously opposed the reconstitution of Episcopacy. He denounced the appointment, in Oct. 1600, of Peter Blackburn as Bishop of Aberdeen with a vote in Parliament. In Feb. 1605 he appeared before the Privy Council along with John Forbes to answer for their excommunication of Lord Huntly. He attended the Assembly which met at Aberdeen on 2nd July 1605, contrary to the King's wish. For this he was imprisoned, 3rd Oct. that year, in Doune Castle, Perthshire, at his own expense. On 24th Oct. he was summoned before the Council but refused to own its authority in matters spiritual. He succeeded in escaping, but was again cited for 24th Feb. 1607, and having appeared on 20th May, again escaped for four days, during which he lay hid in Edinburgh. He was once more captured at Doune, after which he was transferred to the Isle of Bute, where he passed nearly three years in prison. He had the stipend of Fraserburgh in 1607, but not that of 1608. After 1609 he was restored to his parish, where he discharged his duties with great fervour and devotion, spite of much bodily suffering brought on by incessant study and toil, until his death on 24th Sept. 1617. He was buried in the church. He has been described as a "Tydeus in body and a Hercules in spirit." He marr. and had issue—Agnes (marr. Andrew M'Culloch of Glastullich, Provost of Tain). Publication — Analysis Logica in Epistolam Apostoli Pauli ad Romanos (Edinburgh, 1651). This work, originally published by Principal Adamson, was translated by William Skae, M.A., and edited with a Life by William Lindsay Alexander, D.D., Edinburgh (Wodrow Soc., 1850). F. left a second M.S., Lectiones in Esteram (Lessons on the Book of Esther),

but this has been lost.—[P. C. Reg., vii., 58 et seq.; Melvill's Autob., 573, 598, 616; Scottish Antiquary, v., 60; *Selections from Wodrow's Biog. WILLIAM FORBES, regent in King's 1618 College, Aberdeen; adm. to Kinbathock (Towie), 1596; was a member of the Assembly at Aberdeen 2nd July 1605, which met contrary to royal wish. For this he was imprisoned at Blackness and at Stirling Castle, and on 23rd Oct. was ordered to be sent to Shetland. He refused to go to the latter place, and on 2nd July 1607, was confined to his own parish and prohibited from attending Church courts; pres. here by Alexander Fraser of Fraserburgh 4th Nov. 1618; was on Royal Commissions 21st March 1619 and 20th Nov. 1623, for visiting the Univ. of Aberdeen, and a member of Assembly 12th Aug. 1639. He marr. Barbara, daugh. of Arthur Forbes, younger son of Patrick F. of Corse, and had issue—Arthur, min. of this parish.—[Lumsden's House of Forbes, 21; Acts of Parl., v., 153; P. R. Sas., Aberdeen, vi., 247, 363; Acts and Deeds, ccclvi., 390.]

JOHN HAY, educated at King's Col-1642 lege, Aberdeen; M.A. (1618); adm. to Rafford after 13th April 1624; trans. and adm. before 4th Oct. 1642; dem. June 1650. He was the author of a censure on the Service Book, which the General Assembly, 7th Dec. 1738, thought should be printed with others on that subject. He marr. before 26th Oct. 1625, Harriet Stewart, widow of Alexander Rawson, min. of Spynie.

ARTHUR FORBES, son of William F., 1652 min. of this parish; educated at Univ. of St Andrews; M.A. (1636); adm. to Pitsligo about 1640; trans. to Innerwick 19th July 1646; trans. and adm. by appointment of Synod, the Presb. conceiving him to be "of too sweet a nature for so perverse a people," 27th June 1652;

is styled parson of Turriff, March 1663; died in Edinburgh 24th Aug. 1663, aged about 48. He marr. Anna Copland.—[Canongate Burial Reg.; Aberdeen Sas., i. 367, ii. 250.]

JAMES MOORE, born 1631; educated 1666 at King's College, Aberdeen; became tutor to Alexander, Lord Fyvie; ord. to Rathen 7th Sept. 1659; trans. and coll. 29th July 1666; adm. before 17th April 1667; died 23rd March 1703. [His tombstone says he was min. here "for the space of 44 years," but this is an error. His ministry lasted 44 years in all.] He marr. Margaret (died 31st May 1717), only daugh. of Alexander Crawford in Rathen, and had issue—Elizabeth, died 28th June 1710; Margaret, died 4th March 1686; Helen, died 9th Sept. 1688; Isobel, died 4th Jan. 1710; Alexander, his successor.—[Tombst.; Aberdeenshire Poll-Book, ii., 100; Cranna's Fraserburgh, 93; Henderson's Epitaphs, 253.]

ALEXANDER MOORE, son of preceding; educated at King's College, 1708 Aberdeen; M.A. (1681); became assistant to his father; intruded after 1703; died 20th April 1717, aged about 56. Bishop Keith says of him, he was "the best of men I ever saw."

ALEXANDER AUCHINLECK, licen. 1707 by Presb. of Ellon 17th May 1706; called by the Presb. jure devoluto 3rd Dec. that year; ord. (amid great opposition) 4th Feb. 1707; died 11th Sept. 1753. He marr. 24th Aug. 1709, Elizabeth (died 17th Jan. 1767), eldest daugh. of James Fraser of Tyrie, and had issue—Agnes, born 24th Aug. 1710 (marr. Thomas Anderson, min. of Aberdour); Elizabeth, born 22nd March 1714; George, born 1719, died 2nd July 1733.—[Collect. Aberdeen and Banff; Tombst.; Cranna's Fraserburgh, 101-10 [where a full account is given of A.'s settlement.]

ALEXANDER FRASER, educated at 1754 King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1st April 1741); licen. by the Presb. 6th May 1747; pres. by George,

Lord Saltoun, 31st Dec. 1753; ord. 19th June 1754; died 17th Aug. 1779, aged about 58. He marr. 15th April 1755, Jean (died 2nd Nov. 1816), third daugh. of Andrew Arbuthnot of Broadland, and had issue—Margaret, born 5th Dec. 1758, died 5th June 1769; Eleanor, born 7th July 1760.

ALEXANDER SIMPSON, born 1740; 1780 educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1763); licen. by the Presb. of Deer 23rd Oct. 1765; pres. by George, Lord Saltoun, in Jan., and ord. 22nd June 1780; died 21st July 1814. He marr. 1st June 1786, Rachel (died at Lochhead, Aberdeen, 18th Aug. 1819), daugh. of Alexander Scroggs, merchant, Aberdeen, and had issue—George Alexander, min. of Tyrie, born 30th April 1787; Alexander Fraser, born 16th May 1789, died in Jamaica 24th July 1834; William of Glenythan, advocate, Procurator-Fiscal, Aberdeen, born 9th April 1791, died 20th Nov. 1858; Simon, born 22nd March 1793, died in Jamaica 5th Jan. 1825; Eleanor, born 11th Aug. 1802. Publication—Account of the Parish (Sinclair's Stat. Acc., vi., xxi.).—[Tombst.; Dingwall Fordyce Record, ii., xv.; Cranna's Fraserburgh, 119.]

JOHN CUMMING, born Kilmarnock, 1815 1773; youngest son of William C., provost; educated at Univ. of Glasgow; licen. by Presb. of Irvine 9th June 1795; assistant at Dundee; librarian at Glasgow; pres. by Alexander George, Lord Saltoun, Nov. 1814; ord. 6th April 1815; died unmarr. at Cove, Dunbartonshire, 26th Jan. 1857. He recounted with great pride a meeting with Robert Burns during a holiday in Ayrshire. The poet's intellectual face and especially the brilliancy of his eyes were so striking that he could never forget them. Publication—Account of the Parish (New Stat. Acc., xii.).—[Cranna's Fraserburgh, 121.]

of Glasgow 12th Jan. 1826; min. of Blacket Street Church, Newcastle, 1826-43; D.D. (Glasgow 1838); adm. (assistant and successor) to this charge in 1846; dep. by the General Assembly in 1852; apparently reposed and became min. of the Scots Church, Hexham, 1855-9; res. and resided in Newcastle, where he died 13th Feb. 1870. He marr. Jane Oliver (died 4th Feb. 1837), and had issue—Jane, buried at Hexham; and two others.—[Tombstone in Westgate Hill Cemetery, Newcastle; Cranna's Fraserburgh, 123.]

JOHN STORIE, born 1828, eldest

He was a man of great force of character, fearless and outspoken in debate, and an indefatigable pastor. In 1866, when an outbreak of cholera occurred in the town, he was almost the only person, besides the doctors, to visit those who were attacked by the disease. He moved calmly from house to house, comforted the dying, coffined the dead, helped to bury them, acted as nurse to those who were recovering, while the widows and orphans became his special care. What he did at that time will remain a tradition for years in the parish. He marr. 10th Nov. 1857, Jane (born 7th March 1834, died 30th April 1885), eldest daugh. of Captain Robert Glasgow of Port Glasgow and Margaret Williamson, and had issue—Margaret Williamson, born 30th Dec. 1860 (marr. He unfortunately killed a man named Atchison, fled from his parish, and was confined in the Castle of Edinburgh, from which he was released through the good graces of Chancellor Arran's wife. He relinquished the clerical profession and became chamberlain to his nephew, Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch, whose standard he carried at the fight at Dryfe Sands, 7th Dec. 1593, between some 500 Scotts against the Johnstones, where Lord Maxwell was slain. He was knighted 4th March 1605, represented the County of Selkirk in Parliament in 1612, was app.

Treasurer-depute in 1613, adm. an ordinary Lord of Session [Lord Elibank] 2nd Nov. that year, and Comptroller to the Royal Household in 1615, about which time that office was suppressed. Owing to his great ability in managing the revenue he was enabled to repair and add to the various royal palaces in Scotland, and to defray the entire cost of King James's visit to Scotland in 1617. This brought him for a time the royal favour, but the King believing charges made against him by Sir James Stewart, sent him a prisoner to Scotland, "whereat he took such grief and sorrow of heart, that he took to bed, and abstained absolutely from meat for many days, imagining that he had no money either to get meat or drink to himself and that way died" on 29th June 1621. He was the last to hold the office of Provost of the College Church of Crichton, converting the lands belonging to it into temporal estates. He marr. irregularly, June 1587 (the marriage was regularised by the Commissaries of Edinburgh, 6th June 1601, and the children legitimated), Margaret, daugh. of Dionis Pentland, miller, in Edinburgh, who survived him, and had issue—Sir Patrick of Elibank, created a baronet 6th May 1628, and a Scottish peer, as Lord Elibank, 18th March 1643, died 12th Nov. 1649; William of Langhermiston, died 1659; Sir Walter of Livingston, died Feb. 1659; Agnes (marr., cont. 14th July 1611, Sir William Scott of Harden). RICHARD MAITLAND, eldest son of Peter M., burgess of Aberdeen;
educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; pres. by Charles I. 4th March,
and ord. to Aberchirder 8th Sept. 1631;
was censured, 26th April 1633, for saying
"God the Father was the author of sending out the ministere under the Old Testament, and God, the Sonne, author of sending furth the ministere under the New Testament, and that the lawfulness of a calling dependit upon the effect of the ministere."
He and the Kirk-Session of Aberchirder raised an action against the minister and parishioners of Gamrie for the recovery of a bell which they had lent forty-five years previously, but the Lords of Session, 7th Dec. 1633, found that this could not be sustained, in respect of forty years' uninterrupted possession. M. was enjoined by the Synod, 24th Oct. 1639, to keep the Presb. of Strathbogie and not Turriff.
He was a member of the Commission of Assembly in 1644; dep. May 1647

for corresponding by letter with George, Marquess of Huntly. On 29th Sept. that year he did "most heartilie acknowledge ane unfeigned sorrow for offending and scandalizing the Kirk of Scotland," and was recommended by the Presb. of Strathbogie to the charitable consideration of the next Provincial Assembly. The Synod, 4th April 1648, recommended him to the Assembly that he might be reponed, which was done by the Synod 16th July 1656. He was called to be assistant in this parish before 3rd Feb. 1659, and died here about 1660. He marr. Mary, sister to James Hay of Muldavit, and had "divers hopeful children." PRESBYTERY OF FORDYCE, CALLED AT FIRST BANFF, AND LATER CULLEN

[In 1581, and again in 1586, the General Assembly had in view the erection of a local Church Court at Banff. In 1583 this Court was in existence. Its parishes then were Banff, Inverboyndie, Rathen, Faskin, Dundurcus, Cullen, Deskford, Fordyce, Ordiquhill, Gamrie, Kinedward, Turriff, Auchterless, Forglen, Alvah, Inverkeithny, and Aberchirder. When the Presbytery of Turriff was set up, many of these parishes were transferred to it. About that time the seat of this Presbytery was removed from Banff to Cullen. By 1638 there had come another change of the Presbytery seat, and since then the Court has been uniformly styled the Presbytery of Fordyce. The Presbytery Register commences in 1623. There are gaps in the Record from 31st July 1634 to 28th June 1640, from 2nd June 1658 to 1st May 1659, from 11th Sept. 1688 to 7th Jan. 1707, and from 4th May 1769 to 30th July 1776.]

[The church of Banff was dedicated to St Mary. It belonged to the Abbey of Arbroath. There was of old an hospital at Banff. The Grey Friars had a priory in the town dedicated to St John the Evangelist. Banff had three fairs of St Mary, held on Lady Day, Marymas, and Our Lady Day in Lentron. There was also here a fair of St Jerome, which lasted for six days. Within the bounds there were Wells of Our Lady and St Ranald.]

trans. to Mortlach 7th May 1650; trans.
and adm. 15th May 1661; elected to Aberdeen, but translation refused by the Bishop and Synod 30th Oct. 1665; was called to Tranent, but remained here at request of parishioners, though he had preached his farewell sermon 12th March 1676; died June 1679. [The date on his tombstone, 4th Oct., is apparently an error, for the Presbytery Register of 2nd July 1679 contains this entry: "Mr A. S., min. of Banff, has departed this lyfe."] His character has been thus quaintly described:—

"Loe heir in trust lyes ye pretious dust of Soul-saving Seton,
Preacher in this Town,
Ye Key of Knowledge
And glory of ye Gown."

CULLEN, OF OLD INVERCULLEN.

[In old times the church of Invercullen was dedicated to St Neachtan of Mortlach.
It belonged to the Abbey of Lindores.
There was in the parish a chapel of St
Mary. In or about 1543 Alexander Ogilvie of Findlater and Deskford rebuilt part of this chapel and added much to it.
He then endowed it as a collegiate church.
Early in the seventeenth century this church of St Mary was made the parish church.
It contained a chapel of St Anne. In this later parish church there are fine inscribed monuments and good old wood work. St Mary's Well is near the church, and Mary Fair was held in the town on the third Tuesday of September.]

FORDYCE.

[The church of Fordyce was dedicated to St Talorgan. Near it was St Talorgan's Well. Fordyce was a commune kirk of the Chapter of Aberdeen.]

WILLIAM LAWYIE, M.A., min. of 1563 Banff, had charge here also from 1563 to 1568.

JAMES ROBISON, reader from 1563 1563 to 1574.—[Cramond's Church of Fordyce, 8.]

GILBERT GARDEN [or GARDYNE] 1569 of Boath, Forfarshire; was min. of Monifieth, 25th Dec. 1565, when he was a member of Assembly; pres. by James VI. 15th July 1568; trans. and adm. 2nd Feb. 1569; trans. to Cullen Aug. 1570, but returned before 1574, when Deskford, Ordiquhill, and Cullen were also in the charge. He was a member of Assembly in 1569 and Moderator of the Assembly which met at Stirling 6th Aug. 1571; removed to Cullen about 1595, but returned the following year. Bishop Adamson has styled him "a man of a traibulous nature," and it is said that "he seldom went to the pulpit without his sword for fear of the Papists," but the only foundation for this statement is a side note by a session-clerk of Fordyce in a minute-book nearly two centuries after G.'s time. He marr. (1) Margaret [whose surname on her tombstone is indecipherable], who died 6th April 1592, aged 66: (2) (cont. 16th Aug. 1592), Isobell, sister of James Strachan of Carmylie.—[Edinburgh Tests; Melvill's Autob. 302; Tombst.; Cramond's Fordyce, 11; Jervise's Epitaphs, ii., 100.]

PATRICK DARG, adm. before 1599, 1599 with Cullen and Deskford in the charge to 1601; had a disposition and mortification from Gilbert Robertson of Newbigging, advocate, Edinburgh, of the vicar's croft, lying on the south of the Kirktown; died before March 1647. He marr. (1) before 1602, Elizabeth Anderson, and had issue—Walter, min. of Deskford; William, M.A., schoolmaster of Fordyce; (2) Elizabeth, daugh. of William Douglas of Pumpherston, and had issue—an only daugh., Elizabeth, served heir to her mother and uncle 4th Dec. 1697.—[Brechin Tests.; Banff Sas. Sec. Reg., i., 95; Inq. Ret. Gen., 7913, 7914.]

DAVID ABERCROMBIE, schoolmaster
1647 of Grange, 1637-9; pres. by Earl of Findlater; ord. 30th June 1647; at a visitation of the parish the Presb. "found nothing whereof he should either be suspended or deposed." The Assembly (Synod), 22nd Oct. 1650, ordained the Presb. to provide him with a place more fitted and convenient for his gifts, "in respect these are disproportioned to such an eminent charge." He was dep. 22nd April for drunkenness, swearing, and profanity, but was reponed 21st June 1659; died at Dundee, Nov. 1662. He marr. March 1642, Margaret Forester, and had issue—Janet; Marion.—[Brechin Tests.]

RATHVEN.

[The church of Rathven was dedicated to St Peter. It belonged to St Mary's Collegiate Church at Cullen. There was at Rathven a leper hospital of St Peter. It was founded by John Bisset about 1224. In later times it was converted into a hospital of Bedesmen. A fair of St Peter was held at Rathven. There was also a Well of Our Lady near Rathven.]

GEORGE HAY, born about 1530, was 1558 a younger son of William H., fifth of Talla, Tweedsmuir, and Janet Spottiswood of that family. He appears first as rector of Rathven on 10th July 1558, and held the benefice in conjunction with Eddleston by a dispensation from the Pope. He conformed at the Reformation and retained both charges. On 19th Jan. 1560 he granted the kirk lands of Rathven and Eddleston to his brother William Hay of Barro. On 24th Oct. 1561, at a meeting held in the study of James M'Gill at Edinburgh, he supported the proposal to deprive Queen Mary of the Mass. As min. of Eddleston, he attended the General Assembly, 29th June 1562, when he was app. to preach throughout Carrick along with the Superintendent, John Willock, and another. Knox preached in Kyle, the result of their co-operating labours being a large accession to the Protestant cause and the subscribing of a covenant at Ayr on 4th Sept. Knox mentions that soon afterwards, when the Abbot of Crossraguel presented himself in Maybole to dispute about the Mass, "the voyce of Maister George Hay so effrayed him, that efter ones he wearyed of that exercise." On 8th May 1563 he sold the prebendal manse of Eddleston, on the north side of Rotten Row, at Glasgow, to his brother Andrew, rector of Renfrew. At a later date he signed various charters as Canon of Glasgow. In a minute of the General Assembly, 30th Dec. 1563, he is called "minister to the Privy Council," and in 1564 he is spoken of as "minister to the Court." In 1565

he had a commission from the Assembly to visit kirks, schools, and colleges, to eradicate idolatry, etc., from Dee to Spey. In subsequent Assemblies he took a prominent part and acted on the chief committees and commissions. In 1567 he had a third of the stipend of both his charges on condition that he adequately supplied that at which he did not usually reside, and in 1568 he was sharply rebuked for failing to implement this with respect to Eddleston. On 5th March 1570 he was elected Moderator of Assembly, and desired to be relieved of his duties as commissioner in the north, but that was not done. In 1574 Forsken, Dundurcus, and Bellie were in this charge. In 1575 he was app. commissioner of Caithness. In 1577 he was app. one of the deputies to the General Council at Magdeburg for constituting the Augsburg Confession. Next year, on 25th July, Parliament app. him a Visitor for the College of Aberdeen. In 1585 he appears as commissioner for Banff; died in 1588. He marr. Marion Henderson of the Fordel family, who died Oct. 1577, and had issue—George of Rannes, died v.p.; James of Rannes, ancestor of that family, died about 1630; William, tailor burgess, Edinburgh; Janet. SYNOD OF MORAY

THE Register of the Synod of Moray begins 30th Sept. 1623. There are gaps in the Record from 4th June 1644 to 14th July 1646, and from 7th Oct. 1686 to 23rd June 1702. The ordinary meetings of Synod are held alternately at Elgin and Forres.

PRESBYTERY OF STRATHBOGIE, OF OLD DUNBENNAN

[In 1592 we find this Court styled the Presbytery of Dunbennan. Such was its title until 10th Oct. 1608, since which time it has been called the Presbytery of Strathbogie. Its Register begins at 27th Oct. 1630. There is a gap in the Record from 30th Aug. 1654 to 1st July 1702. The Presbytery holds its ordinary meetings at Huntly and Keith alternately.]

BELLIE (FOCHABERS).

[The church of Bellie was dedicated to St Peter. It belonged to the Priory of Urquhart. There were in the parish Wells of St John and St Leonard. Fairs were held at Bellie on the five feasts of St Mary, that is on Candlemas (the 2nd of February), on Lady Day in Lentron (the 25th of March), on Marymas (the 15th of August), on Lady Day in Harvest (the 8th of September), and on Latter Lady Day (the 8th of December). There was a chapel in this parish at the Bog of Gight.]

GEORGE HAY, M.A.; held this parish in conjunction with Rathven from

WILLIAM SANDERS, brother of John
1607 S., min. of Nairn, M.A.; min. in 1607. On 24th April 1627 he was censured by the Presb. "for making ane pennie brydell within Strathbogie to his dochter-in-law, at quilk were present excommunicate papists to the grieff of all honest Christians." He was pres. to Glass, by George, Marquess of Huntly, in 1643, and to Skeiralloway on 3rd Dec. that year. He stated to the Presb. that he would have intimated the subscribing of the Covenant, but was prevented from doing so, his pulpit being surrounded by armed men who refused access for preaching until the Marquess had arrived. He petitioned Parliament that "having a mean benefice from which he had received little for eight years," he might be relieved payment of 300 merks laid on him by the public. This was granted 18th July 1649 and he was recommended by the Assembly to the commissioners for plantation; dem. 25th March 1663; died in the first week of Sept.

1672. His age has been given as 108, but he was probably only a little over 90. If, however (as Dr Hew Scott says), he had been seventy-seven years a min. (which is not authenticated), he could not have been less than 100 years.—[Acts of Parl., vi., pt. ii., 486; Antiq. Aberdeen and Banff, ii., 268; Shaw's Hist., i., 61.]

(1814). Having been app. commissioner to the Duke of Gordon he craved the sanction of the Presb. to his employing William Rannie as his assistant, but sanction was refused, 11th Nov. 1818. In March 1819 Rannie was pres. as assistant and successor, and the Presb. referred the matter to the General Assembly 5th May 1819. The Assembly, 27th May, ordered the Presb. to proceed with the settlement and in regard to A. declared that "it is impossible they should not highly disapprove of the parish ministers of this church engaging in such secular employments as may be inconsistent with the full and faithful discharge of their spiritual functions." A. thereupon dem. 1st Dec. 1819. He died 22nd April 1839. A local rhyme was long current in the district:—

"The Rev. John Anderson, Factor to His Grace, Minister of Fochabers,
And Justice of the Peace."

He marr. (1) Grace, daugh. of John Maclean of Pitmain: (2) 14th July 1830, Elizabeth M'Pherson, who died s.p. at Speymouth Manse, 13th Oct. 1846. Publication—Accounts of Kingussie and Insh (Sinclair's Stat. Acc., iii.).—[Acts of Ass., 1819; Tombst.; Edin. Christian Inst., xviii.]

CAIRNEY, DRUMDELGIE, AND RUTHVEN OR RIVAN.

[The parish was originally called Botarie. The part of Drumdelgie on the north side of the Deveron was added about 1615. The whole of Ruthven was added in 1618, and the united parish was thereafter called Botarie and Ruthven till about 1710, when the name Cairnie or Cairney was adopted. The church was dedicated to St Martin. Botarie and Elchies together made a prebend of the Cathedral of Elgin.]

Drumdelgie.—Of Drumdelgie Church but scanty remains are left. It was dedicated to St Peter. Near it were St Peter's Well and St Peter's Cairn.

Rivan or Ruthven.—The parish church of Rivan was dedicated to St Breandan. In the belfry on its ruined gable there has hung for centuries the bell known to the country round as the "Wow o' Rivan." Dipple and Rivan together formed a prebend of Elgin Cathedral. Within the bounds there were chapels at Mortlach and Haddoch, and a Well of St Cyril. A fair of St Cyril was held at Rivan.]

ALEXANDER LESLIE, M.A.; held
 1567 Botarie from 1567 to 1585; pres. by James VI. 13th June 1569, Elchies being also in his charge, Glass in 1574, and Keith from 1576 to 1580; trans. to Rothes in 1585.

ROBERT JAMESON, educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A.
1614 (1607); pres. by James VI. 7th Aug.
1614; was a member of the Commission of Assembly in 1649, and recommended to Parliament by the Assembly, 10th July and 3rd Aug. that year, for "some supply out of the vacant stipends," as a compensation for his losses; died after 2nd Oct.
1660. He marr., and had issue—William,
min. of Kinnoir and Dunbennan [Huntly].
During his ministry, on account of the troubles of the times, the Presb. was frequently hindered from meeting, and many of its members were forced to flee from their manes. In 1634 J. had a sum of money "violently and masterfully" taken from him by a party of Gordons bent on revenge for the burning of the House of Frendraucht, in which he had no share whatsoever. From the testimony of one of his elders at a visitation of the Presb., 30th July 1651, it was stated that J. lived "Christianly and soberly, that he used publicly to 'dehort' people from any excess, and that he consistently practiced and encouraged family worship, morning and evening." When asked as to his doctrine and how the people were being edified by him, J. replied: "midway well, that his gift was daily increasing, being better now than it was for a long time before, and that he gave himself very much to reading, keeping home well, and his book, without meddling with other things:
in a word, he was a known enemy to all popery, malignancy, and sectarianism."—

GRANGE.

[The parish of Grange was severed from Keith in 1618. Two springs within the bounds were called Our Lady's Well and the Rood Well.]

ROBERT WATSON, educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1608); ord. 1615 at Grange before 6th July 1615; became first min. of the parish in 1618. He complained to the Presb., 5th Aug. 1639, of an attack made upon him on his way to the Presb. by George Jameson and Angus Bain Mackintosh. "Furnished with guns, swords, and targes," they struck him "most violentlie off his horse to the ground, and with their guns and stones knocked him in the arms and breast to his great hurt, so that scarcely was he able to draw his breath. Also, they strake his servant to the ground, and held ane drawn dirk at his breast and boxed him." The affair was ordered to be reported to the General Assembly, who, on 22nd Aug., referred "this great disorder, earnestlie and humble," to the Commissioner, John, Earl of Traquair, but nothing further appears. W. was dep. 3rd Oct. 1650 for negligence in exercising discipline, but on 13th Nov. a letter from Andrew Cant was read to the Presb. desiring the Court "not to be hastie in declaring the kirk vacand," and declaring that W. "would get hearing before the Assembly." He was accordingly reponed. On 12th Feb. 1651 he was asked "how he spent the Lord's Day when there was no sermon at Grange," and answered that he "went sumtymes to Ordifull [Ordiquhil], and in the winter season, when his family has been visited with sickness, he stayed at home with them." He died before 13th Aug. 1651, aged about 63. He marr. Eupham, daugh. of Hew Adamson, burgess of Edinburgh, she survived him, and had issue—George, min. of Leochel, served heir 1st March 1654; Alexander, schoolmaster of Grange; Katherine (marr. HUNTLY, OR DUNBENNAN, AND KINNOIR.

[The parishes of Dunbennan and Kinnoir were united about 1567 and the parish was called Kinnoir and Dunbennan. About 1615 part of Drumdelgie lying on the south side of the Deveron was added. On 17th Jan. 1725 the name Huntly was adopted on the union of the parishes of Dunbennan and Kinnoir.

Dunbennan.—The church of Dunbennan was dedicated to St Peter. In 1727 the parish church was removed from Dunbennan to a place called of old Tirasowl, now within the town of Huntly. Huntly held a fair of St Peter and a Lammas fair.

Kinnoir.—The church of Kinnoir was dedicated to St Mungo, and in the parish is St Mungo's Hill. There were also within its bounds Wells of St Mungo and St John.]

MARNOCH, OF OLD ABERCHIRDER.

[St Marnoch was buried at Aberchirder. The church there was dedicated to him, and in it his relics were kept. It belonged to the Abbey of Arbroath. Close to the river Deveron, in this parish, stood of old a building called the chapel of St Menimvius. It is believed to have been dedicated to St Monan. There was also within the bounds a chapel of St John. A fair of St Marnoch was held at Aberchirder. There were in the parish four holy Wells, bearing the names of Our Lady, St Marnoch, St Peter, and St Hugh. In or about 1630 the parish of Marnoch was taken from the Presbytery of Turriff and added to that of Strathbogie. There is a mission chapel within the bounds at Aberchirder.]

JOHN EDWARDS, born Grange, 1791, 1841 son of George E.; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1811); schoolmaster of Boharm, 1809-14, and of Grange, 1814-41; licen. by Presb. of Strathbogie 7th May 1817; pres. by the trustees of James, Earl Fife, in Sept. 1837. His settlement here was the chief cause (along with those at Auchterarder and Lethendy) of the Secession of 1843. Under the Veto Act of 1834-5, a majority of male heads of families was given the right to disapprove in the election of a minister to vacant parishes. This was done in the case of Marnoch. A second presentation was given by Lord Fife's trustees to David Henry, M.A., whereupon E. obtained an interdict of the Court of Session, and raised an action to have it declared that the Presb. were bound to take him on trials. At a meeting on 17th July 1838, it was resolved by a majority "that the Court of Session having authority in matters relating to the induction of ministers, and having interdicted all proceedings on the part of the Presbytery; and it being the duty of the Presbytery to submit to their authority regularly interposed, the Presbytery do delay all procedure until the matter in dispute be legally determined." In 1839 the Commission of Assembly censured the Presb. for their acceptance of the Civil Court's jurisdiction and prohibited them from taking any steps towards the induction of E. A fortnight later the Court of Session decided that the Presb. were bound to conclude a settlement in the parish if the original presentee were found qualified. On 4th Dec. the call was sustained and the matter again referred to the Commission. On 11th Dec. the Commission suspended (121 votes to 14) the seven majority members of the Presb. [William Masson, Botriphnie; William Cowie, Cairney; John Cruickshank, Glass; James Walker, Huntly; James Thomson, Keith; James Alexander Cruickshank, Mortlach; William Allardyce, Rhynie], and cancelled their proceedings, but on 21st Jan. 1841 E. was duly admitted by them minister of the parish. Only five of the suspended ministers were there. The ground was covered with snow, and the river half frozen, but a great crowd had assembled, gathered from the whole surrounding district. John Inglis (afterwards Lord President) was present as counsel for E. Before the ordination took place, the agent of the parishioners protested against it as contrary to the injunctions of the Assembly and the wishes of the people, and declared that it was only because he could not recognise the ministers who were present as the Presb., that he did not give in objections against the life and doctrine of the presentee. This done, the parishioners in a body left the church. A crowd of strangers still remained. Some of them began to howl and hiss, others to pelt the Presb. with snowballs and other missiles, and it was sometime before the disturbance could be quelled and order restored. But this being done, the service proceeded in the usual manner. On 28th May following the General Assembly rescinded these proceedings, dep. the aforesaid seven ministers, deprived E. of his licence, and ordered the minority four [David Dewar, Bellie; John Robertson, Gartly; William Duff, Grange; Harry Leith, Rothiemay] to proceed to the admission of Henry. Next day an interdict was served at the door of the Assembly, and amid the violent protests of members, was laid on the table. Following the events of 18th May 1843, the General Assembly declared on 25th May that the sentences of 1841 were incompetent and null and void, and confirmed E. in his status as minister of Marnoch. By his prudent and conciliatory manners he won much esteem and affection from many of his parishioners and from those who had been his opponents. He died 1st Oct. 1848. He marr. Margaret Mackay, who died at Keith, 31st Aug. 1867, aged 79.—[Bryce's Ten Years of the Church, ii.; Buchanan's Ten Years' Conflict, ii., 294-323; Brown's Annals of the Disruption; Acts of Ass., 1838, 1841, 1843; Cunningham's Church History of Scotland, ii., 486 et seq.; The Marnoch Intrusion (1841); Candlish's Speech (1839); The Aberdeen Banner (1841); *Scot. 1620; trans. to Inveraven after 25th Oct.

1625; trans. to Rothiemay and inst. 30th
Aug. 1629. In 1634 he had his horse stolen by a party of Gordons in revenge for the burning of the House of Frendraught; dep.
(for his anti-Covenanting leanings) by a Sub-Synod, 1st July 1640, when he had an allowance "frae the King" of eight victual chalders out of the bishopric of Ross.

He was reponed on 4th Oct. 1642, having abjured Episcopacy and preached (12th July) a penitential sermon from Acts xx., 28, but was again dep., 18th June 1646, and excommunicated at the order of the General Assembly by the Presb. of Aberdeen before 3rd June following. On 27th June he intruded at Kettle. On a reference from the Commission of Assembly he was enjoined, 5th March 1651, to "begin his public repentance" in the kirk of Aberchirder [Marnoch], and there with many tears he acknowledged the "heinousness of these sins that brought him under so heavy a sentence, quhilk he confessed was most justlie inflicted upon him, and so carried himself in such ane penitent way as the whole congregation were moved to shed tears for him." The Synod, 5th Oct.
1659, found him "incapable to have his mouth opened," but the sentences were removed; elected to this charge 5th June, and adm. 3rd July 1661; died April 1662.

JAMES GORDON, born Kinmundy, 17th May 1617, fifth of the eleven sons of Sir Robert G. of Straloch and Pitlurg, the geographer and antiquary, and a daugh. of Alexander Irvine of Lynturk; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1636); licen. by Presb. of Strathbogie in 1639; pres. Sept. 1640 by the trustees of William Gordon of Rothiemay (the Presb. having accepted his nomination in place of William Milne, its own presentee), and adm. before 11th May 1641; died 26th Sept. 1686. He assisted his father in his geographical studies, and in the preparation of the Scottish maps for Bleau's Atlas. The earliest known views of historic buildings in Edinburgh (The Castle, Holyrood, Parliament Hall, etc.), and others throughout Scotland, were sketched by him. He executed a large map of Edinburgh (1646-7) [engraved by De Witt], for which the magistrates gave him 500 merks, made him a burgess, and "treated him to a collation." For a plan of Aberdeen done at the request of the Town Council in 1661, he received a silver cup weighing twenty ounces, a silk hat, and a silk gown for his wife. On 1st Sept. 1647 the General Assembly gave him permission to proceed to Stirlingshire "for drawing the mappe thereof." The Memoirs of Scots Affairs, 1620-51, now definitely proved to have been his, and written between 1659 and 1661, throws a clear light on many of the events of his time—the Covenanted epoch and the Wars of Montrose. He was admonished more than once for a remissness in the exercise of discipline against persons suspected of anti-Covenanted leanings. He lived a quiet, uneventful life, and was more a man of study and research than ecclesiastic or bigot. He marr. (1) July 1643, Margaret (died 2nd Nov. 1662), daugh. of William Gordon of Rothiemay. She left 1000 merks for the use of the schoolmaster at Rothiemay. They had issue—Elizabeth (marr. George Chalmer, min. of Drumblade); Anna (marr. Alexander Gellie, min. of Fordyce; (2) cont. 14th Aug. 1663 Katherine Gordon, and had issue—James of Techmury in Buchan, served heir to the lands of Zeochrie, Banffshire, 21st Feb. 1694; Alexander; Ludovick, min. of this parish; George. PRESBYTERY OF ABERLOUR

[This Presbytery was conjoined with Abernethy before 1623, and known as Inveraven till 1630, and as Aberlour and Abernethy in 1631; was disjoined from Abernethy in 1632, and known as Aberlour from 1632 to 1645; was again conjoined with Abernethy in 1645, and known as Aberlour, or Aberlour and Abernethy from 1645 to the Revolution. The Presbyteries met separately as occasion required, and also held annually a certain number of conjunct meetings. There were two separate minute-books, the minute of any conjunct meeting being recorded in the "lower" (Aberlour) or "upper" (Abernethy) Presbytery Book, according to the place of meeting. Only the minutes from 3rd May 1671, to 19th Sept. 1688, for Aberlour Presbytery survive. The Presbytery formed part of the "United Presbyteries of Moray" from the Revolution to 1702, and part of the "Presbyteries of Elgin, Aberlour, and Abernethy" from 1702 to 1707; was conjoined with Abernethy, and known as Aberlour and Abernethy from 1707 to 1709; was disjoined from Abernethy in 1709, and has since been known as Aberlour. The Presbytery was suppressed in 1719 (the parishes of Kirkmichael, Inveraven, and Knockando being added to Abernethy Presbytery; Aberlour and Boharm to Strathbogie, and Rothes and Dundurcas to Elgin), but was re-erected in 1727 the parish of Kirkmichael remaining in Abernethy Presbytery. The Presbytery Register begins at 3rd May 1671. There are gaps in the Record from 19th Sept. 1688 to 27th Oct. 1699, from 3rd Nov. 1768 to 9th May 1769, and from 4th March 1777 to 5th May 1778.]

ABERLOUR, OF OLD SKIRDUSTAN.

[The parish church was dedicated to St Drostan. Skirdustan was a prebend of Elgin Cathedral. At Kinnermonie, in this parish, there was a Commandery of the Templars. At Charleston of Aberlour a fair of St Drostan was held. There is a mission chapel within the bounds at Craigellachie.]

BOHARM, OF OLD ARNDILLY, AND DUNDURCAS.

[These two parishes were united by the Court of Teinds 26th June 1782.

Arndilly.—In early times this parish was called Ardantullaich, which came to be shortened into Arndilly. The church was afterwards removed to Boharm. Arndilly was a prebend of Elgin Cathedral. At the Boat of Brig, in this parish, there was a Hospital of St Nicholas. Its old name was the Hospital of the Brig of Spey. The river, however, swept the bridge away, and the ferry that took its place was called the Boat of Brig. In modern times the bridge has been rebuilt. At Arndilly fairs were held on Marymas and Lady Day in Harvest.

Dundurcas.—In the parish of Dundurcas there was a chapel dedicated to Our Lady of Grace. It was a much favoured resort of pilgrims. The church bell is now at Cullen House.]

PRESBYTERY OF ABERNETHY

[This Presbytery was conjoined with Aberlour, and known as Inveraven from before 1623 to 1630, and was called Aberlour and Abernethy in 1631; was disjoined from Aberlour in 1632, and known as Abernethy from 1632 to 1645; was again conjoined with Aberlour in 1645, and known as Aberlour, or Aberlour and Abernethy, from 1645 to the Revolution. The Presbyteries met separately as occasion required, and also held annually a certain number of conjunct meetings. There were two separate Minute Books, the minute of any conjunct meeting being recorded in the "lower" (Aberlour) or the "upper" (Abernethy) Presbytery Book according to the place of meeting. All these early minutes for Abernethy have been lost. From the Revolution to 1702 Abernethy formed part of the united Presbytery of Moray, and from 1702 to 1707 part of the united Presbytery of Elgin, Aberlour, and Abernethy; was again conjoined with Aberlour and known as Aberlour and Abernethy from 1707 to 1709; was disjoined from Aberlour in 1709, and has since been known as Abernethy. The Register begins 26th June 1722, but is blank from 29th July 1766 to 8th March 1790, and defective between 1790 and 1805.]

JOHN GRANT, born Milton of Duthil, 1765 1740; son of Sweton G. and Elspet Grant; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (25th April 1759); licen. by Presb. of Abernethy; ord. to Arrochar 27th Sept. 1764; pres. by James Grant, younger of Grant; trans. and adm. 26th Sept. 1765; died 21st Jan. 1820. He was a short-built man though with broad shoulders and a good figure. Once when examining a man who had been balloted for the militia, and whom he wished, for his mother's sake, to get off, he objected to his being passed, saying, "Too short, too short." The man's pride was hurt, and he answered sharply, "Ye needna say that, Mr John, ye're no ane o' the Philistines yersel'." Many of his parishioners were serving in the army during the French War, and occasionally after sermon he gave information to his people as to its progress. One Sunday he announced with much satisfaction that Napoleon was dead, and that there would soon be peace. The report being incorrect, he was somewhat downcast when, next Sunday, he said, "My friends, it was not true what I told you last day. The scoundrel Bonaparte is alive yet, and doing as much mischief as ever." Many anecdotes are still reported of his kindly ways, and his deep interest in all parish affairs. He marr. 2nd March 1775, Christian (died 21st July 1832), daugh. of James Grant of Clurie, and had issue—James Augustus of Viewfield, Nairn, Chief Secretary to the Government, Bombay, and Judge of the Court at Gujrat; Peter, captain H.E.I.C.S., died in Madras 27th Feb. 1810; Sweton, divinity student, died 20th Feb. 1810; George, captain Bombay Infantry, died 1819; Helen (marr. moriston 24th Dec. 1730 ; called 30th

died 2nd April 1787 in his 101st year.
Before the Battle of Culloden in 1746,
he was asked by the Duke of Cumberland to treat with his clansmen—the M'Gregors
—who had been long proscribed, and to assure them that if they laid down their arms, they would be restored to their name and be countenanced by the Government, or if they joined the army that their officers would retain their rank and not suffer any loss. G., however, firmly declined the Duke's overtures. After the battle he received into his manse and hospitably entertained a number of soldiers on both sides, who were reduced to great straits and had sought his relief. Cumberland demanded an explanation, when G. is said to have thus replied : "May it please your Royal Highness, I am exceedingly straitened between two contrary commands both coming from very high authority.
My heavenly King's Son commands me to feed the hungry, to clothe the naked, to give meat and drink to my very enemies, and to relieve to the utmost of my power, indiscriminately, all objects of distress that come in my way. My earthly king's son commands me to drive the homeless wanderer from my door, to shut
my bowels of compassion against the cries of the needy, and to withhold from my fellow-mortals in distress the relief which it is in my power to afford. Pray, which of these commands am I to obey?" "By all means," replied Cumberland, "obey the commands of your heavenly King's Son ;

your character is very different from what has been represented to me ; go home in peace, act conformably to the benevolent spirit of that Gospel which you are professionally employed to teach and to explain." He marr. (1) Magdalene,

WILLIAM WATSON, educated 1623 at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1617); min. of Duthil and Rothiemurchus before 1623. Having confessed giving lodging for a night to James, Earl of Montrose, he made a humble submission for this in 1646; in 1647 he was censured by the Synod for marrying William Mackintosh to Mrs Grant of Rothiemurchus, though he was forcibly induced to do so, having been seized and shut up in a vault till he consented; on 4th Oct. 1648, the Synod, believing him to be too "silent in those things that concern the public affairs of the kirk, which makes some suspicious of his affection to the Covenant, and that his son James was of the like mind as himself, gravlie admonished him for being silent in preaching" and recommended him "to preach boldly against the unlawful courses and gross sins of the kingdom, and to promote [promote] the Covenant to the uttermost of his power"; died before 25th July 1655. He marr. (1) and had issue — James, min. of this parish; William; John: (2) (cont. 6th Nov. 1644), Isobel Cumming, widow of Andrew Geddes of Essil; she survived him. — [Records of Elgin, ii., 250.]

JAMES WATSON, born 1624, son of 1652 preceding; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1640); app. Synod bursar in Theology, having both Gaelic and English, 11th May 1641; he had his licence suspended by the Synod, 14th July 1646, "for compliance with the common enemy," having made verses in praise of Montrose's victories; min. of Advie before 1652; was restored 4th April 1648; ord. (assistant and successor) before 15th Jan. 1652, and is said to have died in 1659.

WILLIAM FRASER; M.A.; passed 1664 trials before Presb. of Elgin and was licen. by the bishop 3rd June 1663; ord. (at Elgin) 13th Jan. 1664, and still in the charge at 3rd Oct. 1665.

WILLIAM SMITH; M.A.; ord. before 1667 1st Oct. 1667; dep. (for drunkenness) 10th Oct. 1682, and reponed 23rd April 1684. During the period of his suspension the Presb. of Inverness gave him assistance "in regard to his present straits."

SWETON GRANT, educated at King's 1683 College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1677);
ord. before 16th Oct. 1683; deprived by Decree of the Privy Council, 7th Nov.
1689, for refusing to read the Proclamation of the Estates or to pray for King William and Queen Mary; died in 1693, aged about 36. He marr. Grizel, daugh. of Sir James Strachan of Thornton, min. of Keith, and had issue—Louis, M.A.—[Moray Tests;

mended for licence 31st March 1674; adm.
to Farr before 13th July 1682; received into communion by the Committee app.
by the Assembly for the North, July 1694;
adm. to this charge in 1695. His name does not appear on the Synod roll though he was app. by the Assembly, 30th Jan.
1699, as one of a Committee for visiting the parishes in Moray; dem. in 1708, on account of difficulties concerned with the baptism of a son to Grant of Dalrachny, the result, it is said, of a conspiracy against him. He marr. and had issue—Æneas; Anne; Elizabeth; Isobel; Marjorie.—[Acts of Ass., 1699; Index to Services.]

FRANCIS GRANT; ord. 22nd Sept.
1719 1719; trans. to Cromdale 4th July 1739.

PATRICK GRANT; pres. by Sir James 1740 Grant of Grant Dec. 1739; ord. 3rd
Dec. 1740; trans. to Nigg (Ross), 25th July 1756. [At the meeting of the Presb., 6th Nov. 1755, the chief reason for his translation was said to be the extensive nature of Duthil parish, where G. "often exerted himself beyond his strength." Nigg, a considerably less parish, "would better fit the natural strength of G. and be the means of promoting the life and health of so valuable a minister, and though many of the people of Nigg had received unfavourable impressions of him, yet the Presb. are persuaded from his known abilities, piety, prudence, and obliging behaviour, that those prejudices will soon wear off."—[Acts of Ass., 1755.]

ROBERT GRANT of Kinchirdie, born 1758 about 1733, eldest son of James G.

INSH, OR INNIS EOGHAIN (Q.S.).

[The church of this parish was dedicated to St Adamnan, the biographer of St Columba. The parishes of Kingussie and Innis Eoghain were united about 1580. In or about 1830 a Parliamentary charge was made at Insh. On 18th January 1869 the parish of Insh was again disjoined quoad sacra from Kingussie. The bishops of Moray long possessed the lands within the bounds still called Balnespig (Baile an Easbuig=the bishop's town).

The church of Insh, which stands on Tom Eunan by the south bank of Loch Insh, is one of the most interesting in the Highlands. It is said to be the only one in which continuous worship has been celebrated from the sixth century to the present time in Scotland. It possesses a very ancient bronze bell fully described in Dr Joseph Anderson's Scotland in Early Christian Times. Tradition tells how this bell was once carried away to Perth but would never be silent till it was restored to its original home, ringing out as it crossed the hills of Drumuachdar, "Tom Eönan! Tom Eönan!" i.e., Adamnan's Mount. Dr Skene identifies Loch Insh with the stagnum Lochdeæ of Adamnan's Life of St Columba.]

INVERALLAN (Q.S.).

[There is good ground for the belief that the church of Inverallan was dedicated to St Futach. A large upright stone in the ancient churchyard is still known as Clach Futaich (Futach's Stone). Inverallan was a mensal kirk of the Bishop of Moray. The parishes of Cromdale, Inverallan, and Advie were united. In 1835 a Parliamentary church was built at Grantown-on-Spey, near Inverallan. On 4th May 1869 the parish of Inverallan was again disjoined quoad sacra from Cromdale and Advie. There is a mission chapel of St Drostan within the bounds at Duhnain Bridge.]

KINGUSSIE.

[Kingussie was a prebend of the Cathedral of Elgin. Its church was dedicated to St Columba. The parishes of Kingussie and Innis Eoghain (Insh) were united about 1580, but their union was dissolved in 1869. From an early time there was at Kingussie a Celtic monastery of St Columba, said to have been founded by the saint himself. In 1490 George, second Earl of Huntly, founded it anew as a mediæval priory. There was a chapel of St Bride within the bounds at Benchar, and two others at Invertromie and Nuide. The Feille Challumchille, a great fair of St Columba, was held at Kingussie at Midsummer. There is a mission chapel at Newtonmore in the parish.]

PRESBYTERY OF ELGIN

[The Presbytery of Elgin was proposed to be erected at the General Assembly of April 1581 and of May 1586, and was erected before 1590. It formed part of the United Presbyteries of Moray from 1689 to 1702, and part of the United Presbyteries of Elgin, Aberlour, and Abernethy from 1702 to 1707. The parish of Bellie was disjoined in 1719 and annexed to the Presbytery of Strathbogie. During the suppression of the Presbytery of Aberlour from 1719 to 1727 the parishes of Rothes and Dundurcas were within the Presbytery of Elgin. The Presbytery Register begins 12th Nov. 1635. There is a gap in the Record from 26th Sept. 1688 to 1st July 1702.]

ALVES.

[Alves was a prebend held by the Chantor of the Cathedral of Elgin. In 1593 this parish was assigned to the Presb. of Forres, but in 1608 it was transferred to that of Elgin. The Records of the Kirk-Session contain a copy of the Solemn League and Covenant with the signatures of William Campbell, min. of the parish, and 42 others, also the names of 151 other parishioners added by the Clerk.]

JAMES SPENS, styled "vicar of Alves" 1567 in 1567, when he witnessed a charter granted by James Thornton, precentor of Moray, to Hieronymus Spens of Over Manbenis, and Katherine Meson, his wife, on the kirk lands of this parish. He became exhorter in 1572.

He marr. a daugh. of his predecessor, James Dundas. She survived him, and had issue—Alexander of Windiehills, served heir, 25th March 1641; William, seriously assaulted in 1642; and others.—[Shaw's Hist., ii. 147; P. C. Reg., 2nd ser., vii., 557.]

GEORGE HANNAY [or HANNA, sometimes A H A N N Y], M.A.; 1640 formerly min. of Torphichen (q.v.); having been recommended by the General Assembly Aug. 1639, was pres. by James, Earl of Moray, before 5th, and adm. 12th Nov. 1640. On 5th Nov. 1644 he complained to the Presb. of the "violence and injurie" done to him by Lord Ludovick Gordon, who "in the midst of the night sent for him in name of the Lady Grant, elder, pretending that the common enemy was approaching. He, coming on his journey from his own house, was surprised by the said Ludovick and charged, under pain of his life, or he would pistoll him, yea, draw him in an horse taile if he went not with goodwill, and after the said Mr George had escaped, he violently shot pistols and brought him back, and caused him marry the said Ludovick with the Lady Grant, her daughter, that same night." The matter was laid before the General Assembly, but what followed does not appear. Dep. by the Commission of Assembly at Aberdeen, 17th May 1647, who found him "by his own confession, guiltie of subscribing that perfidious and wicked bond by the Marquess of Huntly, ane ex-communicate rebel, and that sometym he drank the said Marquess's health"; the Commission also recommended to the Presb. and the patron that "the stipend of the Kirk of Alves so long as the same shall vack" [remain vacant] be given to H.'s wife and children. He removed from Alves 5th July 1649, and was afterwards min. of Inveraven.—[Gordon's Shaw's Hist., iii., 407; Brodie's Diary, 178-9; Cramond's Church of Alves, 10.]

[Birnie was a commune kirk of the Cathedral of Elgin. It was dedicated to St Breandan. The twelfth century Norman parish church remains still in use. It has an ancient square bell, and a Norman font of a very early type which may not unlikely have belonged to an older church building. In 1184, Simon, fourth Bishop of Moray, was buried in this church.]

JAMES JOHNSTON, one of the twelve 1567 chaplains of the Cathedral of Elgin (who were endowed with the revenues of the church of Birnie), and as such agreed to say three masses weekly for the soul of James Strachan, parson of Botarie (Cairney); he conformed to the Protestant doctrines in 1560 and became exhorter in 1567; pres. to the vicarage by James VI.
26th Feb. that year; is styled "scribe to the Assemblies in Murray" in 1568; witnessed various charters in 1569; became min.
before 28th Aug. 1574, and was still in the charge in 1588.—[Registrum Moraviensis, 414, 430.]

ALEXANDER INNES, brother of 1589 George I.; M.A.; min. of Essil in 1588; trans. and adm. in 1589;
deprived in 1598. On 21st March 1598-9 William Hay, uncle of William H. of Mayne, and Agnes Leslie, widow of Alexander Douglas, Provost of Elgin (and mother of the min. of that parish, and afterwards Bishop of Moray) were slain, and Hay of Mayne was mutilated by a party of Inneses. The min. of Birnie was charged with "being art and part in the crime," and was on 21st Jan. 1606 outlawed.—[Pitcairn's Crim. Trials, ii.; G. R. Inhab., xxxii., 391.]

GEORGE DOUGLAS, min. of Dallas;

 2nd July 1626.

ALEXANDER SPENS, born 1604, son 1627 of James S. of Kirktown of Alves;
 educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1623); adm. before 30th Oct.
 1627; died 15th April 1658. He was pres.
 to Alves in 1648 but declined, the Presb.
 considering his close association with that parish by kith and family relationships to be against his settlement there. He marr. Margaret Innes, who died before 21st April 1692, and had issue—James of Stankhouse and Longmorn, in Elgin,
 min. of Castle-Martyr, Ireland; Jerome; Janet; Margaret.

 1670 shire about 1647; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (30th April 1663); passed trials before the Presb. of Ellon and recommended for licence 15th April 1668; was licen. soon afterwards by Patrick, Bishop of Aberdeen; pres. by Alexander, Earl of Moray, in Aug., ord. 13th Dec. 1670, and inst.

before 4th Jan. 1671; deprived in 1690
 for nonconformity; is said to have gone to Ireland and become a Roman Catholic, but died at Elgin after 14th March and before 18th July 1702. By his will, dated 29th Oct. 1701, and confirmed 18th July 1702, he left £40 to the poor of the parish.—

DRAINIE, OF OLD KINEDAR, AND OGSTON.

Kinedar.—Kinedar was a prebend held by the Treasurer of Elgin Cathedral. Its church was dedicated to St Edward the Confessor. Soon after the union of the two parishes, the church was removed from Kinedar to Drainie. St Gartnay, called in Latin Gernadius, dwelt at Kinedar, and died there on or about 8th Nov. 934. His Well is to be seen there. His cave also used to be shown, but it has fallen in. Fantastic forms are often given to the saint's name. One sees him called St Garadin, and even St Gerardine.

Ogston.—The church of Ogston was dedicated to St Michael. In 1642 this parish was united to Kilmolemnock, now called St Andrew's. It was disjoined again by the Commissioners for the Plantation of Kirks on 28th July 1647. This disjunction, however, was annulled by the Act Rescissory on 28th March 1661, and, in 1669, Ogston was united to Kinedar.]

to have attended; dep. by a Sub-Synod 21st Jan. 1641 for declining the Covenant.
From Principal Baillie's Letters, dated 18th March and 21st Dec. of the same year, G. is stated to have yielded and subscribed.
He preached a "penitential sermon" at Duffus on 10th Feb. 1642 [2 Thess. ii. 16, 17], and was restored to his preaching office, but not to his parish, the laird of

Duffus strenuously opposing a presentation from Charles I., 24th Nov. 1642, and an earnest supplication in his favour by the Synod. He died at Guthrie Castle, 8th
June 1643. He marr. 26th Dec. 1626, Anna

Montrose); M.A. (1632); became chaplain to the Earl of Kinghorn's Regiment; pres.
by James Sutherland, tutor of Duffus, 10th Aug. 1642; ord. 19th Jan. 1643; was one of three app. by the Presb., 26th Dec. 1643, to confer with the Marquess of Huntly as to his subscription of the Covenant, but Huntly declined to subscribe without the sanction of the King; was a member of Commission of Assembly in 1647. In May 1650 it is recorded that when Montrose was a prisoner at Elgin on his way to Edinburgh, S. "waited on him and cheered him wonderfully"; died 30th Oct. 1686.
He marr. Elizabeth Cunningham, and had issue—George, licentiate of the Church;

ELGIN.

[The parish church of Elgin was dedicated to St Giles. It was a mensal kirk of the Bishop of Moray. Hard by, in the Castle of Elgin, there was a chapel of St Mary, and the site of the Castle still goes by the name of Our Lady's Hill. In the town were chapels of St John the Baptist and St Thomas, and also a Well of Our Lady. Elgin had, besides these, a chapel of St Peter, founded in 1480 by George, second Earl of Huntly. On the west side of the town stood a hospital, built in 1226. In 1233 King Alexander II. established in Elgin a Convent of the Black Friars, whose church still stands. On the south side of the town the Grey Friars had a priory built in 1479. At Inverlochtie, in the landward part of the parish, there was a chapel of St John the Baptist. At Bogside stood another chapel, and there was a third at Lan Morgan, now called Langmorn. In 1607 a Second Charge was founded for this large parish. Greater facilities for worship came to be needed as the seventeenth century went on, and the Little Kirk was built adjoining the old church of St Giles. Its primary use was for daily service, but in 1778 the Little Kirk of Elgin was made a Chapel-of-Ease. In 1800 this chapel was closed as not being any longer required. The great feature of Elgin is the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity. The See of Moray was founded by Alexander I. in 1107, but the Cathedral at Elgin was not built till 1224. This noble church was 289 feet long. It had three towers, and the spire of the central one rose to a height of 198 feet. In 1506 this massive tower fell, but it was soon rebuilt. In 1710 a violent wind brought it down again, and it carried with it the most part of the huge church. There were in the Cathedral chapels of the Holy Rood, St Michael, St Magdalene, and St Laurence. In the landward part of this parish Alexander II. founded, in 1230, St Andrew's Priory of Pluscarden, belonging to the Order of the Val de Choux. Its full dedication was to Our Lady, St John the Baptist, and St Andrew. Even though mainly ruined, it is still a building of much stately beauty. Elgin used to hold a fair of St Giles. There is now in the city a mission chapel of St Columba.]

SENIOR CHARGE.

ROBERT PONT [KYLPOINT or 1563 KYNPONT], M.A.; min. of Dunkeld in 1562; app. commissioner of Moray, Inverness, and Banff 26th June 1563. He reported to the Assembly of 25th Dec. that year that he had travelled in these counties, but that his ignorance of Gaelic had prevented his fulfilling the work allotted to him, and he asked the Assembly to appoint a commissioner with a knowledge of Gaelic. Commission was renewed to him to plant kirks from Ness to Spey, and this he accepted with the proviso that he be not "burdened with kirks speaking the Irish tongue." At the Assembly of Aug. 1573 he was accused of non-residence in Moray and with failing to visit the kirks there for two years, except Elgin, Forres, and Inverness. At the Assembly
19th March 1574 he dem. his office of commissioner, and soon afterwards was adm.
collegiate (junior) min. of St Cuthbert's, Edinburgh (cf. Vol. I., 93, 99).

ALEXANDER WINCHESTER, min.
1566 at 10th Sept. 1566, with St Andrews (Elgin) in the charge from 1574 to 1576, and Spynie from 1576 to 1578; in the Assembly of 1578 a complaint was made that he had left his charge, but he appears still in office in 1580. The date of his death is unknown. He marr. Margaret Gadderar, a native of Moray. Publication
—"Letter to Robert Pont, Commissioner of Moray" [dated at Elgin, Dec. 1571] (Calderwood's Hist., viii., 192).—[Records of Elgin, i., 133.]

WILLIAM DOUGLAS, a Roman priest 1569 who conformed and is styled Prebendary of Elgin in 1567; on 8th
Dec. 1569 the Privy Council enjoined
Robert Pont to admit D. to the vicarage of Elgin, which Alexander Winchester had resigned. He held office till 1607. He was appointed clerk of the Burgh Court in 1578.

min. of St Giles, Edinburgh; conse-1623 crated Bishop of Moray (q.v.) in 1623; dep. by the Glasgow Assembly 11th
Dec. 1638.

GILBERT ROSS, M.A.; min. of Col-1640 monell in 1619; trans. and adm.
24th Sept. 1640. On Monday, 28th
Dec. 1640, R., accompanied by Robert Innes, younger, of Innes, the laird of Brodie, and others, broke down the timber partition wall dividing the Cathedral Church of Elgin from the choir which had stood since the Reformation. On the west side was painted, in excellent colours, a representation of the Crucifixion, while on the east the Day of Judgment was shown. It was said the minister used the wood for kindling his manse fires, "but every night the fire was extinguished, and could not be kept in to kindle the morning fire, at which the servants and others were astonished and affrighted, and thereupon the minister left off and forebore to bring in or burn any more of that timber in his house." He was a member of Commissions of Assembly in 1642 and 1644; died 13th
Aug. 1644, aged about 52. He marr.
(1) Janet Cathcart: (2) cont. 30th Jan.
1636, Elizabeth Napier, who survived him, and had issue—Gilbert of Ballaird,

COLIN FALCONAR, M.A.; formerly min. of Essil and of Forres; trans. from the Bishopric of Argyll and installed Bishop of Moray (q.v.) 5th Sept. 1680; died 11th Nov. 1686.

ALEXANDER ROSE [or ROSS], D.D.; Principal of St Mary's College, St Andrews, and formerly min. of Perth; recommended by the King 17th Dec. 1686; got his patent 7th April, and consecrated Bishop of Moray 1st May 1687; trans. to the Bishopric of Edinburgh (q.v.) after 22nd Dec. that year.

JOHN STEWART, M.A.; formerly min. of Crimond; adm. as a Presbyterian min. in the end of 1687, and authorised by the Privy Council 14th Jan. 1690; trans. to Urquhart (Elgin) after 10th May 1691.

WILLIAM HAY, M.A.; min. of Perth; elected in Jan., and consecrated Bishop of Moray (q.v.) 11th March 1688; preached his first sermon at Elgin 25th March that year; deprived by the Privy Council by the Act abolishing Prelacy 10th Oct. 1689.

ROBERT LANGLANDS of the family of Langlands of that ilk; adm. min. of the The Barony Parish, Glasgow, 3rd March 1691; called in 1695; preached at Elgin for the first time as min. 21st

June 1696; died 12th Aug. same year. The Latin inscription on his tombstone has been thus rendered into English:—

"In this small grave the famous Langlands lies,
All good men mourn for his sad obsequies;
A faithful preacher, opening mysteries;
Not slothful, but was teaching everywhere
His people with sedulity and care.
His various learning and his counsel sound,
With prudence great, adorned well his mind;
Though Elgin holds, whom Glasgow loved before,
Yet heaven itself him claimeth for its glore."

He marr. 22nd March 1692, Elizabeth, daugh. of George Stirling, surgeon-apothecary and burgess of Edinburgh, and had issue—George, surgeon, Edinburgh; Elizabeth (marr. pro., 4th Aug. 1717, James Robertson, surgeon, Culross). —[Tombst.; Monteith's Theatre, 253; Young's Elgin, 145, 678.]

LACHLAN SHAW, born 1686 [so Memorial at Elgin], son of Donald 1734 S., farmer, Rothiemurchus (whose ancestors, originally from the south of Scotland, settled in the Highlands as early as 1226, when they held lands in Rothiemurchus as tenants of the Bishops of Moray); educated at Ruthven School (then the only seminary of note on Speyside), and King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (2nd May 1711); became schoolmaster at Abernethy in 1712, when he held the divinity bursary of the Presb.; studied theology at Univ. of Edinburgh; licen. by Presb.
 of Haddington, 24th April 1716, and sent North at the desire of the Synod of Moray;
 ord. to Kingussie 20th Sept. that year;
 trans. to Cawdor 19th Nov. 1719; pres. by George II. 17th Dec. 1733, trans. and adm.
 9th May 1734; dem. 14th April 1774; died
 23rd Feb. 1777. He was buried in Elgin Cathedral near the High Altar. A granite slab was placed to his memory in the chancel in 1868, and in Elgin Church there is a memorial window. He early turned his attention to historical inquiry in connection with Moray. He visited the entire district, collecting the requisite information to enable him to compile his History of the Province, which is specially valuable in its account of the country emerging from a period of almost semi-barbarism and still subject to the feudal and clan systems. The wealth of material furnished by his genealogical and ecclesiastical researches, and the light thrown on the manners, customs, and superstitions of his time are such that he was justly described as the best local historian Scotland had then produced. He corresponded with various learned men of his era, and assisted Thomas Pennant, who visited Elgin in 1769, with many details and statistics relative to Morayshire. These are printed in the Appendix to the first volume of Pennant's Tour in Scotland. S. was ever a hard student and an assiduous pastor.

 He marr. (1) 1st Oct. 1719, Helen (died before 1727), daugh. of David Stuart, Collector of Excise at Inverness, and had issue—David, above 16 in 1744, went to New York, and was great-grandfather of Francis, Lord Jeffrey; Anna, above 16 in 1744 (marr. Bailie John Copland, Aberdeen): (2) 14th March 1727, Anne (died 2nd Nov. 1783), daugh. of Duncan

THE LITTLE KIRK.

[The building called the Little Kirk stood at the east end of St Giles Church, and was originally the choir of St Giles. After the fall of that church in 1679 the Little Kirk was separated from it by a wall, and used as a distinct place of worship, chiefly for week-day services. In 1704 the Little Kirk was occupied as a meeting house by the Episcopalians of Elgin with consent of the magistrates. On a complaint by the ministers of the parish the Privy Council ordered the Sheriff of the county to put and keep the ministers in the peaceable possession of the Little Kirk, and to debar all other persons from making use of the same. In 1712, the magistrates again granted leave for Episcopalian services. Again the ministers complained, when both the Court of Justiciary and the Court of Session enjoined the magistrates and their successors in office "to deliver all the keys of the Little Kirk to the Established ministers and Kirk-Session of the burgh and parish, and to put them in peaceable possession of the building, and to pay £30 sterling as expenses, and a fine of £20 sterling, or to be imprisoned till payment thereof." The House of Lords reversed the findings, and adjudged that the "appellants be quieted in the possession of the Little Kirk, it being no part of the Parish Church." In 1744 the building was opened for Presbyterian services with consent of the magistrates, one of the ministers preaching a sermon on a week-day. In 1798 it had become ruinous, but the magistrates were not inclined to make repairs, whereupon the congregation built a new church in Moss Street. When its minister was interdicted by the Presbytery and Assembly in 1799-1800, the congregation ceased connection with the Church of Scotland and formed the Second Associate body within the town. The Little Kirk was demolished about the year 1800, and all traces of it obliterated. See Young's Elgin for a full account.]

Culbin have suffered greatly from blowing sand. This was very notably the case at various times during the seventeenth century. Before 1700, almost the whole parish, with its few remaining houses, had been buried in the sand drift. Culbin has long been a mere desert. At places where the loose sand has been blown off, relics of old times have often been found, but the average depth of the drift is great.]

of St Andrews and some of His Majesty's Council to answer for ane exercise wherein he taught against the state of bishops, the Bishop of Moray being one of his auditors.
But Mr John would not acknowledge the bishop to be his judge, yet to let all men understand that he was not ashamed of his doctrine, he set down his exercise in writ. His text fell by course to be in the beginning of the fourth chapter of the First Epistle to Timothy. For this he was warded in the Castle of Inverness," where

Joined the Free Church in 1843; min. of the Free Church, Forres, 1843-66; died 17th March 1866. At the height of his power he was a singularly devoted and active minister. His popularity as a preacher attracted great congregations wherever he went. On one occasion, a stormy winter day, when driving to Burghead, he expected to be able to redeliver his Alves morning sermon. On the way he came up with an elder from Duffus, but a frequent hearer in Alves. Somewhat irritated, G. said: “John, I should have thought one sermon would serve you on a cold day like this.” “Deed, sir, I need as good a diet of meat on a cold day as on a warm one.” The elder was taken up into the gig, and the minister relapsed into silence, considering another discourse for his friend’s behoof. Publications—The Case of the Afflicted, a sermon (Aberdeen, 1816); The Duty of Loving and Seeking Christ, a sermon (Aberdeen, 1818); Addresses for Sabbath Schools (Aberdeen, various years); Modern Voluntary Churches incapable of Defence (Elgin, 1833). 1779. He marr. 4th Aug. 1758, Penelope (died 7th May 1799), daugh. of Alexander M'Leod of Drynoch family, and had issue—Neil, missionary at Harris; Aulay, born 25th May 1762; Elizabeth, born 8th Aug. 1763; Penelope, born 2nd June 1767; George, born 31st Jan. 1773. Publication—History of St Kilda, containing a description of this remarkable island, the manners and customs of its inhabitants, etc. (London, 1764). This work was shown to Johnson by Boswell in 1773, previous to their Hebridean tour. Johnson pronounced it "very well written except some foppery about liberty and slavery." After conversing with M. in his manse, Johnson came to the conclusion that M. could not have written the book, but Johnson was evidently prejudiced by the minister's opinion of Episcopalian divines, and pronounced him a "bigot to laxness." Boswell maintained that the volume was written by John Macpherson, D.D., of Sleat, from materials supplied by M., a statement confirmed by John Wilson Croker. The likelihood, however, is that, in the main, the work is M.'s.—[Boswell's Johnson; Tour in the Hebrides; Dict. Nat. Biog.]

ALEXANDER GRANT, born 1743, son of George G., min. of Kirkmichael (Abernethy); educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (25th April 1759); licen. by Presb. of Abernethy 19th July 1764; ord. missionary at Fort-William 22nd May 1765; trans. to Daviot and Dunlichity 2nd April 1771; pres. by John Campbell of Cawdor in 1779; trans. and adm. 30th March 1780; died 28th June 1828. PRESBYTERY OF INVERNESS

[This Court was already at work in 1593. The Register of the Presbytery of Inverness begins at 5th April 1670. There are gaps in its Record from 19th Sept. 1688 to 1st July 1702, from 5th Oct. 1757 to 20th Sept. 1758, from 1st Nov. 1758 to 26th Jan. 1762, from 7th Nov. 1769 to 3rd April 1771, and from 6th Sept. 1785 to 4th April 1786. We learn from a Minute of 12th Oct. 1624, that the Synod of Moray rebuked the ministers of this Court for "haunting the Presbyterie with uncomlie habits such as bonatts and pleides."]

BOLESKINE AND ABERTARFF.

[The three parishes of Boleskine, Kilchuimin and Dores were united in 1614. Dores was severed from the other two in 1617. Kilchuimin, called also Abertarff, was disjoined from Boleskine in 1676, and was then united to Glen Moriston. In 1688 it was taken from Glen Moriston and joined a second time to Boleskine. In 1883 it was severed a second time from Boleskine, and erected of new as the separate parish of Fort Augustus. There is now a mission chapel at Foyers within the bounds of Boleskine. The parish was transferred to the Presb. of Inverness by the General Assembly 26th May 1920.]

THOMAS HOUSTON [or HUISON], 1648 son of John H., min. of Wardlaw or Kirkhill; ord. between 5th Oct.
 1647 and 4th April 1648. On 8th June 1670 he complained to the Presb. that he "had not security for his life or goods, his house being laily seized upon by Lochaber Robbers, himself threatened with naked swords and drawn durks at his breast, his money and household stuff plundered, and seeing that one of their number suffered death laily at Inverness, the rest of them were lying in wait for his life, and threatening his ruin and damage, so that in the evening he is affrayed to be burnt to ashes or morning.
 Nor yet has he that maintinance of them that the laudable laws of the land allow him to maintain himself and his family, and to breed his children at schools, seeing that some of them are 'resting' (owing) him eight years, some seven, some six years stipend." He craved the Presb. to allow him "a transportation to any place where the Lord in mercy may be pleased to call him," and was requested "to have patience until the next Synod, casting himself upon the Lord for his shelter and refuge against all these dangers and sad discouragements." (cont. 20th Oct. 1653) Isobel, sister of William Mackintosh of Torcastle, and had issue—William.— [Family of Kilravock; Privy Seal Eng. Reg., ii., 443].

ALEXANDER FRASER, born about 1664 1630, descended from the Frasers of Fruid in Tweedsmuir, and brother of Robert F., advocate, Edinburgh; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1648); schoolmaster of Cruden; min. of Abbotshall in 1664; pres. by Murdoch, Bishop of Moray; trans. and inst. 31st Aug. same year; became a strong upholder of the Covenant, took an active part in field-meetings, and held services in many private houses; was dep. 19th Oct. 1672 for his refusal to acknowledge Episcopacy and frequent absences from his charge. He continued his peregrinations amongst the Presbyterians of Ross and Cromarty, and acted also as chaplain in the family of Ludovick Grant of Freuchie, who for thus allowing F. to conduct services in his house, was fined a sum of £295, 2s. 9½d. On 3rd Feb. 1685, F. was living at Croy, and classed as a "disorderly" person, though no attempt was made to apprehend him. At the Revolution he returned to his parish, but not being comprehended in the Act of Parliament, 25th April 1690, he was not restored, and returned to Abbotshall in 1692 (cf. Vol. V., 99).

MICHAEL FRASER, brother of 1673 preceding; was a student at Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1664; had a theological bursary from the Synod, which he demitted 4th Oct. 1670; app. schoolmaster at Thurso 24th May same year; passed trials before the Presb. and recommended for licence 26th July 1671; nominated by Murdoch, Bishop of Moray, 20th Oct. 1672, and certified for ordination 18th Dec. following. [Sir Hugh Campbell of Cawdor produced his right of patronage and desired to present Donald Macpherson, min. of Cawdor, but the Presb. declared that F. should be adm. on 4th March 1673, which was done. Campbell persisted in his prerogative, and the bishop ultimately recognised his claim and agreed to remove F., but having gained his point, Cawdor pres. F. anew to the charge.] At a visitation by the Presb. on 9th Sept. 1673, the elders and people reported that they were "very well satisfied with their minister in doctrine, discipline, life, and conversation." On 27th Dec. 1674, he was rebuked before his congregation for a too prolonged visit to his brother in Edinburgh. He frequently absented himself from his parish and devoted much of his time to his favourite pursuit of painting, and on 24th Nov. 1675, he was enjoined by the Synod "to abstain from all limning and painting which hitherto has diverted him from his ministerial employments." In 1678 he was suspended by the bishop, but was restored. In 1694 the parish was declared vacant, but F. continued as min. He actively espoused the cause of the Jacobites, was accused of "joining the rebels at the House of Culloden in Sept. 1715, aiding and comforting them with his presence and advice, and threatening pains and penalties to the Lady Culloden if she did not surrender her house to The Mackintosh, etc." Being libelled as an "intruder" at Daviot, he promised to resign on condition that the Presb. should settle a competent man in his place. Nothing further appears until 5th Sept. 1721, when a visitation by the Presb. at both churches of Daviot and Dunlichity was met with the greatest hostility on the part of the people, who threw stones in at the door, windows, and open roof of Daviot church, and broke the pulpit of Dunlichity church. On 6th Feb. 1722, The Mackintosh and other gentlemen of the parish "earnestly entreated the Presbytery's forbearance with F., obliging themselves to an active concurrence with the Presb. in the event of their minister's death, which now, in the course of nature cannot be long." He died in April 1726. When Lachlan Shaw, min. of Cawdor, went to declare the vacancy, "he found great numbers, some in the churchyard, others in the open fields, with the kirk door locked, and the key carried off, while the people behaved so rudely that he could not worship in the churchyard without being disturbed by them, and so returned home." F. marr. (1) Helen, daugh. of William Leslie of Burdsbank and widow of William Stevenson, min. of Fordyce, and had issue—William; James; Robert, on board H.M.S. Pearle; Katherine: (2) Elizabeth M'Bean, and had issue—Alexander; John; Thomas; Andrew; Elizabeth; Jean (marr. INVERNESS AND BONA.

in 1618.

Inverness.—It seems certain that in early times the church of Inverness was dedicated to St Columba. There was a later dedication to St Mary. The old church belonged to the Abbey of Arbroath; it was a building of some size and dignity. When Oliver Cromwell built his fort at Inverness, he took down the church to furnish stones for the new erection. In and near this town there were of old a number of chapels and shrines. Among these were dedications to the Holy Rood, St Mary, St Michael, St John the Baptist, St Peter, St Thomas, St Giles, St Katherine, and St Margaret. Moreover, the Black Friars had a convent in the burgh; it was dedicated to St Bartholomew. In Inverness, as elsewhere, the rapid growth of the population during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries led to efforts after larger church accommodation. In 1624 a Second Charge was founded for the united parishes. A new congregation was thus gathered, and for it the West Church was built in 1835. For Gaelic services a Third Charge was set up in 1641. To meet the growing wants of this Gaelic Charge, St Mary's Church was provided in 1649. In 1792 St Mary's was rebuilt. In 1798 another place of worship was erected, called the East Chapel. In 1837 a fifth church was opened called the North. In 1843 the East and the North Churches were retained by the Free Church. The parish of Inverness and Bona has now three churches and three ministers. Fairs were held of old at Inverness on Palm Sunday, Marymas in Harvest, Roodmas, Petermas in February, Martinmas and the anniversaries of St Andrew, St Thomas, and St Mark. Each of these fairs seems to have gone on for eight days.

Bona.—The ancient church of Bona was dedicated to St Curadan. This parish, the smallest in the county, extending only to twelve ploughs or three davochs of land, was added to that of Inverness on 8th July 1618. Its church probably stood at Killionan of Abriachan, or at Cladh Uradain of Lochend. The name of Elias, vicar of Bona, is found as early as 1233.]

INVERNESS.

GEORGE HEPBURN, mentioned as 1560 vicar of Inverness at the Reformation; was probably rector of Dalry, and one of the illegitimate sons of Patrick H., pre-Reformation Bishop of Moray. He may have conformed, but of this there is no evidence. He died in 1575, when he is referred to in a Crown Charter of Confirmation "as the late G. H., Treasurer of Moray, and perpetual vicar of the parish church of Inverness."—[Reg. Mag. Sig., 1545-60, No. 2482.]

DAVID RAG, probably the mendicant 1560 friar of that name who appears as the recipient of a pension from the Thirds of Benefices in 1562; conformed and became first Protestant min. of the parish who is mentioned as such in 1560. His name occurs only once in the Burgh Records, but he is referred to on two other occasions as "our minister." On 18th Jan. 1560-1, Jasper Waus (then Provost) and George Cuthbert were ordered to pay "our minister's fee." On 3rd June 1561, John Morrison was charged with openly "rabutting and slandering R. in the King's gett, calling him a common pulpit flyter [scold] and harlot, and saying he bat [struck] Friar Andrew M'Neyll's lug," and being found guilty was sentenced to kneel at the Market Cross and say, "False tongue he lied," and thereafter, on Corpus Christi day, in presence of the people, kneel and ask forgiveness. On 13th Dec. 1561, a jury of fifteen citizens found R. "free of a bruit openly and quietly slandered by Arthur Byrnaye."—[Moir Bryce's The Scottish Grey Friars, ii., 346; Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes, 427; Burgh Records.]

THOMAS HOWIESON [or HOUSTON], a Romish priest, who 1565 conformed, and on 23rd June 1561 was app. one of the Burgh Clerks of Inverness and shortly afterwards master of the Burgh Grammar School. He became min. of the parish before 9th June 1565, and continued his work as schoolmaster to 1574, when he desired Andrew MacPhail, Gaelic min. at Inverness, to be "doctor [classical master] under him"; in 1569 he was app. by the magistrates to the titular chaplainry of St Michael's, which was richly endowed with lands and rentals in and near Inverness; pres. to the vicarage by James VI. 27th Sept. 1574; was a member of Assembly in 1575; app. by the Assembly of 1582 Visitor for the Province of Ross, and in 1586 was one of those for trial of the Commissioners of Moray. On 6th March 1589 he was app. by the Privy Council one of seven mins. for preservation of the "true religion in the Sheriffdoms of Inverness and Cromarty." He died 9th Feb. 1605. During his forty years' ministry he took an active share in all affairs of the town; his name occurs repeatedly in the local records, and he was apparently on admirable terms with the magistrates and the whole community. He marr., and had issue—Elsbeth (marr. William Robertson, founder of the family of Kindeace in Kilmuir-Easter.—[Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes [First Series], 326, 427-9; Family of Kilravock; Anderson's House of Fraser; Calderwood's Hist., iii. 349, 618, iv. 569; Melville's Autob., 302.]

JOHN BLYNSCHELL [BLINSHALL], who had been a Dominican friar of 1574 Elgin, was pres. by the provost and magistrates to the vicarage 9th Aug. 1574. He was reader in 1576.—[Bryce's The Scottish Grey Friars, ii., 341-65; Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes (First Series), 431.]

ALEXANDER RICHARDSON, reader
1598 at 13th June 1598, when he witnessed a discharge by Simon, Lord Lovat.—[Auchnagairn Papers.]

JAMES BISHOP, born about 1580; 1605 educated at Univ. of Edinburgh; M.A. (29th July 1600); min. in 1605, as appears from his letter, 20th Jan. 1615, respecting the "smallness of his provision and weight of his burden." In 1606 he was app. by the Assembly constant Moderator of the Presb. whose members were ordered by the Privy Council, 17th Jan. 1607, to receive him as such within twenty-four hours' notice under pain of rebellion; pres. by James VI. 21st July 1617; was a member of the Perth Assembly of 1618, and one of a privy conference there for assisting John Spottiswood, the Moderator. He died about 1620. He marr. (1) name unknown, and had issue—Robert, who died young; (2) 22nd Dec. 1607, Christian D., and had issue—Robert; James; Margaret; Janet; Mary. Publication—"Letter to King James" [Original Letters, ii.].—[Reg. Sec. Sig.; Calderwood's Hist., vii., 318; Booke of the Kirk; Bannatyne Miscell., iii.]

WILLIAM CLOGIE, M.A.; trans. from 1620 Inveraven and adm. in 1620; a complaint was brought against him in 1640, probably for the reason that he refused to sign the National Covenant presented to the Presb. on 25th April 1639 by John Ross, Provost of Inverness, when it was almost universally signed by the townsfolk. Considering himself ill-used, C. dem., but "having deserved well of the kirk, and his praise being in the gospel, he was recommended to the several Presbs." He became min. of Spynie 21st Jan. 1647.—[Macdonald's Covenanters in Moray and Ross, 16; Kilravock Papers (Spalding Club), 321.]

MURDOCH MACKENZIE, M.A.; 1640 trans. from Contin; elected 1st June, and adm. 3rd Sept. 1640; trans. to Elgin 17th April 1645.

JOHN ANNAND, born about 1602, 1645 grandson and heir of John A. of Murraystoun; educated at Univ. of St Andrews; M.A. (1618); ord. to Second Charge, Inverness, after 13th April 1624;

trans. to Kinnoir [Huntly], between 25th April and 30th Oct. 1627; declined a call to North Leith 13th Aug. 1633; was a member of the Glasgow Assembly of 1638, but withdrew along with the Commissioner [James, Marquess of Hamilton], and others, 29th Nov.; re-trans. to Second Charge, Inverness, after April 1640; had a manse built and a glebe designed for that charge same year; trans. to this charge and adm. in 1645; declined presentation to a charge in Edinburgh by the Town Council 13th July 1647; was a member of Assembly Commissions, 1648 and 1649; app. by Parliament one of the Visitors for the College of Aberdeen 31st July 1649. In May 1650 he "comforted" his old acquaintance, the Marquess of Montrose, then passing through Inverness on his way to execution in Edinburgh; died Nov. 1660. He marr. Margaret, daugh. of John Forbes of the Corsindae family, and had issue—William, min. of Bellie. — [Lumsden's House of Forbes; Acts of Parl., vi., part 2, 509; John Buchan's Montrose, 250; Baillie's Letters; Shaw's Hist., iii., 435.

JAMES SUTHERLAND, educated at 1683 at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1653); became chaplain to Alexander, Lord Duffus; licen. by Presb. of Elgin 2nd Dec. 1658; called to Dores 2nd Nov. 1659, but preferred a call from this parish, and was ord. before 3rd April 1660; ordered on 14th April 1662 to confer with Burgh Council as to taking proceedings against witches; trans. and adm. about 1663; died Sept. 1673, aged about 41.

ALEXANDER CLERK, born about
 1674 1628; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1646); ord. to Latheron about 1652; trans. and adm. to Second Charge, Inverness, April 1663; trans. and adm. in 1674. He gave 100 merks towards building a bridge founded in 1681; died Sept. 1683. He marr. Jean Fraser (who marr. (2) William Duff, Provost of Inverness), and had issue—Alexander, writer, Edinburgh, served heir 9th Feb. 1697. — [Inq. Ret. Gen., 7816; Mackay's House of Mackay; Inverness Sas., vi., 46.]

ANGUS M'BEAN, born 1656, of the 1683 family of Kinchyle; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (13th July 1675); was session-clerk at Foveran 23rd Dec. 1677 to Feb. 1678; licen. (on the recommendation of Professor Menzies of Aberdeen) and officiated for a time in Ayrshire; pres. by Thomas Fraser of Strichen in Oct., had a certificate for ordination 28th Nov., and ord. and inst. 29th Dec. 1683. Becoming doubtful as to Episcopacy, he "inveighed against the sins and errors of his time, particularly against Popery, with great judgment, zeal, and boldness," and on 23rd Oct. 1687, preached a memorable sermon (Job xxxiv., 31, 32) in which he recanted his former opinions and dem. his charge, "some of his hearers being angry, and some surprised, but those who received most good of his ministry were all in tears." He now actively joined the Presbyterians, conducted services in private houses and in the open air, and, returning to Inverness, gathered round him a large congregation. Having gone to Edinburgh, he was apprehended, brought before the Privy Council, and after a brief term of imprisonment (from 1st Dec.) was permitted to return home, Duncan Forbes of Culloden giving bail to a large amount that he would answer when called. In Feb. 1688 he received a second summons to appear before the Council on six days' notice. Though in feeble health, and the cold intense, he hastened to Edinburgh and reported himself a few hours before his bail expired. He was handed over to an ecclesiastical court, consisting of Arthur, Archbishop of St Andrews, and eight clerical coadjutors. Boldly avowing his change of creed and refusing to return to Episcopacy, he was dep. and committed to the Tolbooth, where he lay for most of the year, Forbes of Culloden and Sir Robert Gordon of Gordons-toun, Bart., vainly offering 10,000 merks (£555, 11s. 1d.) for his release. In Dec. the prison was broken open by a party of Presbyterian sympathisers and he was set at liberty, but the rigours of imprisonment had so told on his constitution that he died within two months, Feb. 1689. He was the last Presbyterian min. to be dep. under Episcopacy. William Stuart of Kiltearn describes him as "a man of great judgment, excellent learning, and in his own opinion less than the least of all saints, but in the judgment of those who had the best discerning, a man who grew in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, to a more than ordinary degree." He marr. Janet, daugh. of William Trent, merchant, Inverness (she marr. (2) Robert Baillie, min. of Second Charge, Inverness), and had issue—Isobel (marr. Alexander Fraser, min. of the Second Charge, Inverness).—[Wodrow's Hist., iv., 524; Mackay's Urquhart, 368; Fountainhall's Decisions, i., 488; Brodie's Diary; Shaw's Hist., iii., 435; Foveran Session Records; Mackintoshes and Clan Chattan, 489, note; Covenanters of Moray and Ross, 164-9; Tombst.; More Culloeden Papers, i., 201.]

HECTOR MACKENZIE, born Sutherland about 1645, son of Alexander M.
1688 in Strathnaver; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (22nd July 1665); passed trials before Presb. of Elgin, and recommended for licence 22nd April 1669; ord. (at Elgin) to Kingussie 30th Nov. 1670; pres. by Kenneth, Earl of Seaforth; trans. and adm. 2nd May 1688. A staunch upholder of Episcopacy, he declined to accept the new system at the Revolution, but continued to perform his duties as parish min. His name disappears from the Session Minutes as Moderator and member of the Kirk-Session after 8th July 1694. He probably took the Oath of Allegiance and was allowed to preach till his death, 14th June 1719. He was a Gaelic preacher of note and had a large following. He marr., and had issue—James, M.D.; Alexander, Episcopal min. at Edinburgh, died 1764, leaving all his Greek and Latin books to Inverness Library; William, schoolmaster, Cromarty.—[Mitchell's Kirk-Session Records, 10, 14, 23, 203; Inverness Tests.; Case of Greenshields.]

WILLIAM STUART, trans. from Third

ALEXANDER M'BEAN, born about
1727 1684, probably connected with the Kinchyle family; educated at Univ. of St Andrews; M.A. (11th May 1702); schoolmaster of Fort-William, 1701-9; became chaplain to Archibald Douglas of Cavers; licen. by Presb. of Edinburgh 11th July 1711; sent North by the Commission of Assembly; ord. to Avoch 8th June 1712, where he was so badly received by the people, who were mostly Episcopalians, that, on his earnest request, he received an Act of Transportability, 21st Oct. 1713, and was settled at Douglas, Lanarkshire, 28th May 1714. [In 1717 he was recommended by the Commission of Assembly to the Lords of the Treasury for payment of arrears of his salary, but this could not be complied with, the debt having been incurred previous to the Union]; trans. to Third Charge, Inverness, 6th Dec. 1720; pres. by Alexander Fraser of Strichen in Jan., trans. and adm. 4th April 1727; died 2nd Nov. 1762. He was spoken of as the "John Knox of the North," and greatly exerted himself to suppress the spirit of the Jacobite Rising, 1745-6. He marr. 14th Sept. 1712, Marjory (died 30th March 1766), daugh. of John Macbean, Inverness, and had issue—Forbes, captain of Artillery, distinguished himself at the battle of Minden, 1st Aug. 1759, and received from Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick a gratuity of 500 crowns, along with a letter of thanks: "I have reason to be infinitely satisfied with your behaviour, activity, and zeal," died 1800; William, attorney, London; Elizabeth. Publication—The Excellency, Offices, and Enforcements of Christian Brotherly Love, a sermon (Edinburgh, 1743); "Memorial concerning the Highlands" (Scot. Hist. Soc.). He is also supposed to have been the author of MS. 104 in the King's Library, British Museum, published by Andrew Lang (Edin. 1898).—[Scots Mag., xxi., 499; Shaw's Hist., iii., 435; The Mackintoshes and Clan Chattan, 488-90; Tombst.]

ALEXANDER CLERK, M.A.; min. 1629 about 1629; died 13th Sept. 1635.

He marr. Hester (died 30th Sept. 1604), second daugh. of Robert Eliot of Lariston, Liddesdale, and Lady Jean Stuart, third daugh. of Francis, Earl of Bothwell. She was a great-grandniece of Mary Queen of Scots.—[Tombst.; Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes, i., 237; The Border Elliots, 230.]

GEORGE MONRO, ord. after 3rd 1638 April 1638; was clerk of Presb. 26th March 1640, but "through his urgent affairs" was absent from the meeting; on 28th July that year the Presb. granted him an Act of Transportation. He was min. of Urquhart and Logie-Wester in 1642.

JOHN ANNAND, M.A.; above 1640 mentioned; pres. by Thomas Fraser of Strichen in April 1640; re-trans. from Kinnoir [Huntly], and adm. soon afterwards; trans. to First Charge, Inverness, in 1645.

WILLIAM FRASER of Phopacy, born 1648 about 1605, eldest son of James F. of Phopacy, major-domo to Lord Lovat (descended from the Frasers of Fruid, Tweedsmuir) and Elizabeth, daugh. of William Fraser of Struy, tutor of Lovat; was M.A. and M.D.; min. of Kilmorack in 1630; trans. to Killearnan in 1640; trans. and adm. 3rd April 1648; died 22nd Nov. 1659. The Latin inscription on his tombstone has been thus translated:—

"A Pastor choice, a Dove without a gall, Lies in this grave, the people's Love withal."

He marr. Alison (who survived him), elder daugh. of James Fraser, Tain, and Janet, daugh. of John Denune of Pittogarty, and had issue—James, min. of Kirkhill; William; Simon; Thomas; Hugh; Andrew; Janet; Isabel; Magdalen; Agnes; and fourteen others.—[Monteith's Theatre of Mortality, 206; Inverness Tests.; Mackenzie's Hist. of the Frasers, 728; Mackay's Wardlaw Manuscript (Introduction), vii., 117, 417.]

DUNCAN M'CULLOCH, trans. from 1645 Third Charge, Inverness, and adm. in 1645; trans. to Urquhart and Glenmoriston between 6th April and 5th Oct. 1647.

JAMES SUTHERLAND, M.A.; had 1660 a call to Dores and to this parish; ord. here before 3rd April 1660; trans. to First Charge, Inverness, about 1663.

ALEXANDER CLERK, M.A.; trans. 1663 from Latheron, and adm. April 1663; trans. to First Charge, Inverness, 1674.

GILBERT MARSHALL, born about 1674 1647, son of Gilbert M., min. of Cromdale; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (19th July 1665); ord. to Cromdale before 2nd Oct. 1666; pres. by Kenneth, Lord Kintail, trans. and adm. 9th Sept. 1674. On 24th Aug. 1690, he "was surprised after sermon by General Buchan's Highland army, which lay betwixt the Castle and Culloden." He died 26th Feb. 1691, "having preached the Gospel to the satisfaction of all his hearers," and was interred in Bailie Duff's burial-place. He marr. Margaret, daugh. of George Chalmers, min. of Kinnoir.—[Mitchell's Inverness Kirk-Session Records; Mackay's Presbytery of Inverness, 45 et seq.; Banff Inhib., 30th May 1692.]

[Lachlan Shaw says that following the death of Gilbert Marshall the magistrates "would not suffer the vacancy to be declared," all avenues to the church being "beset on 21st June with armed men, and double sentinels placed at the doors that no minister might enter, and when Duncan Forbes of Culloden [father of the Lord President] sought to open the doors, he was thrust back and struck with violence. This made him and others represent the case to the Privy Council, and in Aug. 1691 Lord Leven's regiment was sent North to protect the well-affected in obeying the law." But this is a mistake, or, at all events, an overdrawn picture. There is no indication in the Session Records of any such disturbance; upon the contrary, it is clearly stated that on 14th July 1691, at a meeting of Session, consisting of "magistrates, councillors, heritors, and elders," a leet was drawn up, and a vote recorded in favour of Alexander Sutherland. On 19th July objections to his appointment were craved in the usual form from the pulpit, and the call finally disposed of on 22nd July. The eleven years' vacancy was due solely to the circumstances of the period—the abolition of Episcopacy, questions as to Patronage, and the Oaths of Allegiance.][Shaw's Hist., iii., 437; Mitchell's Kirk-Session Records, 21 et seq.]

[JOHN M'KILLICAN of Alness, min. of Fodderty; preached for a time after the Restoration of Presbyterianism, but was not settled; died 8th June 1689. See Fodderty.]

[ALEXANDER SUTHERLAND, master of the Grammar School of Inverness; chaplain to Livingston's Dragoons; elected from a leet of six (the others were—

William Mackay, min. of Dornoch; Thomas Fraser, min. of Suddie; Andrew Ross, min. of Urquhart (Ross); David Cumming, min. at Brae-Moray; and William Stuart, "expectant") 14th July 1691; called 22nd July, but though he preached several times after his appointment he was not settled, and disappears from the Records after 23rd Aug.]

[JAMES FRASER of Brea, min. of Culross (q.v.); elected 22nd Oct. 1695. The magistrates and council were for JOHN PAISLEY, min. of Lochwinnoch, but Fraser was called Sept. 1696. He officiated for a considerable period, and was on the point of being settled when, on 8th Nov. 1698, he made a stipulation that one of the churches should be "given to him to preach in forenoon and afternoon." The Session were unable to agree to this, and he remained at Culross.]

DONALD GILMOUR, reader in Irish 1697 (Gaelic) in 1697. On 23rd May 1703, he got "ane whyte plaid" in part payment of his salary.—[Mitchell's Records, 43.]

ROBERT BAILLIE, born about 1672; 1702 said to be a cadet of Lamington; educated at Univ. of Glasgow; licen. by Presb. of Glasgow 12th July 1693; ord. to Lamington 27th Sept. same year; declined a call to Keith in 1699; called 15th Jan. 1700; trans. by appointment of the General Assembly in 1701, and again by Commission of Assembly 13th March, and adm. before 1st June 1702. He was called to Gladsmuir in 1710, to London in 1711, and to the Scots Church, Rotterdam, 1st Jan. 1714, and again in 1724. On the occasion of his first call to Rotterdam, the Assembly instructed their Moderator (William Mitchell), to inform the Consistory there that "such are the present circumstances of Inverness, and of the country about, and such is B.'s influence and usefulness, they could not, without great prejudice to the interests of religion in that country, remove him from that important post." In 1712 he accompanied Principals Carstares and Blackwell to London to watch over the interests of the Church in the matter of Patronage, when they petitioned the House of Lords against its restoration. B. died of consumption 11th Feb. 1726. He had few equals in the ministry, and his death was greatly deplored; and he had a knowledge of Gaelic. He marr. (cont. 28th March 1699), Janet (who survived him), daugh. of William Trent, merchant, Inverness, and widow of Angus Macbean, min. of First Charge, Inverness, and had issue—William (only son), min. of Third Charge, Inverness; Jean. ALEXANDER FRASER, educated at 1727 King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (4th July 1695); recommended by the General Assembly in 1700 and 1701 to the Lords of the Treasury and the magistrates of Edinburgh for a Gaelic bursary; ord. to Croy 18th Feb. 1703; trans. to Urquhart and Logie-Wester 4th May 1708, but did not become min. there till 21st April 1715; called 16th June, and by the Presb. jure devoluto 6th Sept. 1726; trans. and adm. 4th April 1727; died 6th May 1750. He marr. 4th Sept. 1706, Isobel (died 10th March 1770), daugh. of Angus M'Bean, min. of First Charge, Inverness, and had issue—Elizabeth (marr. Duncan M'Intosh, min. of Ardersier); Hugh; Jean (marr. ST MARY'S, OR THIRD CHARGE.

[On 21st Feb. 1641, the Presb. of Inverness set about the erection of a new church by enlarging and reconstructing the choir of the High Church. By an Act of the General Assembly a third minister was appointed in the town. This was chiefly owing to the fact that the minister of the Second Charge was ignorant of Gaelic.]

ANDREW MACPHAIL, comes into 1566 notice in Jan. 1556-7 as Sir Andrew Brebner, curate of Inverness. At the Reformation he embraced the Protestant doctrines, when he dropped the name Brebner and his clerical title of "Sir," and reverted to his family name of Macphail. He was grandson of Paul Gow, founder of the Clan Phail; is first mentioned in the Burgh Records (under the name Macphail) on 8th March 1566-7. He then resided in Inverness, and is described as "min. of Inverness and Petty in the Erse [Gaelic] tongue." In 1570-1 Thomas Howieson desired M.'s appointment as "doctor" (classical master) of the Grammar School, but he was not accepted. He died before 5th June 1574, when Andrew M., his son, reader at Petty, presented a petition to the magistrates to be served heir to his father. He had issue—Andrew; George; and perhaps others. Publication—He left in MS. a History of the Clan Chattan [the third of the three Histories of that Clan]. His name Brebner was apparently adopted from the fact of his having "woven" together this account of the Mackintoshes [Brebner = Brebanter, a weaver]. Macfarlane [Genealogical Collections, i., 148] styles him "Andreas Textor, sacerdotis," i.e., "Andrew Weaver, Priest." To Andrew MacPhail, parson of Croy, the aforesaid manuscript has been attributed, but this is manifestly a mistake, for the A. M. who was at Croy in 1594 was a great-grandson of Paul Gow. The MS. found at the manse of Croy was in the possession of the minister whose father was its author.—[Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes (First Series), 430; Minor Septs of Clan Chattan, 57, 498; Inverness Burgh Records; Cumming's Prot. Book, 1050.]

COLIN FRASER, born Ross-shire, 1781; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (29th March 1805); licen. by Presb. of Dingwall 4th Oct. 1809; ord. missionary at Brae-Badenoch and Brae-Lochaber 5th Dec. 1810; missionary at Fort-Augustus in 1815; pres. by the commissioner for Thomas Alexander Fraser of Lovat 11th June 1821, and adm. (after opposition and appeals to the General Assembly and the Court of Session) by a minority of the Presb. and committee of Synod 8th May 1823. [The settlement in this parish was disputed by a body of parishioners on the ground that the patron, being a Roman Catholic, had not taken the oaths to Government and the formula against Popery. On attempting to conduct the customary trial service previous to admission, F. was prevented from obtaining access to the church, the doors and windows having been secured by holdfasts and additional locks. He accordingly preached in the churchyard amidst many interruptions. An interdict against his admission was obtained from the Lord Ordinary but was recalled on 5th March 1822, Lord Kinneddar finding that "the complainers had no civil right or title to interfere." A majority of the Presb. thereupon claimed the right of jus devolutum, but the Assembly instructed the settlement to be proceeded with. A Protest was made by a notary on behalf of the majority of the Presb., and at the admission only two of the six ministers of the Presb. who were present gave F. the right hand of fellowship. The remaining four—Macphail, Fraser, MacLauchlan, and Clark—on a complaint by F. were ordered to appear at the bar of the Assembly, and on 26th May 1824 it was unanimously found that the Presb. had "acted in a manner most unwarrantable and most unconstitutional: that the Protest was highly irregular and contained matter of the most objectionable nature: that the reading of it in the face of the congregation on the day of settlement was an irreverent interruption of a most solemn religious service, an illegal and cruel measure, calculated to keep up the seeds of dissension in the parish, and to destroy the usefulness of a brother, whose hands it was their duty, as Christian pastors, to have strengthened. But in consideration that these members of the Presb. have acknowledged before the House that they are now conscious that their conduct has been wrong, and have expressed their sorrow for it, the Assembly find it unnecessary to proceed further against them, than to allow the said four to be called to the bar, and there to be rebuked by the Moderator." Much of the opposition to F. died down in course of time. He had a new church built in 1829, and was a laborious and useful minister; died 8th Aug. 1853. He marr. 30th Nov. 1815, Sarah (died 30th July 1859, aged 73), daugh. of John Mackay, farmer, and Ann Mason, and had issue—John, born 6th Jan. 1817; Catherine, born 12th July 1818; Ann, born 22nd Sept. 1819; Thomas Alexander, born 1st Nov. 1821; Daniel, born 22nd April

1823; Charlotte Georgina, born 27th Aug. 1824; Colin, born 22nd Feb. 1826; Margaret, born 4th Aug. 1827, died 12th March 1849; a daugh. (marr. Alexander Murray, Ceylon Civil Service).—[Acts of Assembly, 1822-4; Assembly Cases, 1823; Scots Mag., lxxxviii.]

DAVID ROSS, born Kincardine, Ross-shire, 1805, son of Alexander R., 1855 crofter and carrier, and Betsy Boyd; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (March 1835); taught in Tain Academy; licen. by Presb. of Tain; ord. to Tobermory 10th April 1844; pres. by the Presb. jure devoluto 12th Oct. 1854; trans. and adm. (cf. Vol. IV., 122, where the date should be) 22nd Feb. 1855; dem. 23rd Oct., and died unmarr. 12th Nov. 1891.

ARCHIBALD MACDONALD, born 1892 27th Oct. 1853, son of Roderick M., min. of South Uist, and grandson of Roderick Maclean, min. of South Uist; educated at Univ. of Glasgow; licen. by Presb. of Uist in 1876; ord. to Hyllipol 14th May 1877; trans. to Stornoway 27th Sept. 1878; trans. to Logie-Easter 4th May 1881; trans. to Gaelic Parish, Greenock, 19th Nov. 1885; trans. and adm. 5th May 1892; D.D. CONVINTH, OR CONVETH.

[The name, as in old records, is properly Convech or Convich, sometimes Conway, Confhadhaich = noisy or stormy, the glen in which the church is situated deriving its name from this characteristic of its stream. Conveth church belonged to the Priory of Beaulieu. Convint was the original parish, Kiltarlity having been formed out of it about 1223. United to Kiltarlity before 1618.—[Reg. of Deeds, cclxxxi, 453.]]

JOHN FRASER, son of John F. of 1574 Phoineas; was prior or commendator of Beaulieu (Beaulieu), and presented himself to the vicarage of Convint with consent of that monastery; conformed to Protestantism and was min. in 1574, having also Comar in the charge, with "the hail twa pairt of the Priory of Bewlie" as stipend; still min. in 1580.—[Auchnagairn Papers.]

ROBERT MOIR, reader in 1580, when, 1580 "on the penult day of March" he drew up an inventory and testament of the goods of Margaret Fraser at Auchnacloch. He was still in office at the end of July 1599, when he drew up a similar deed.—[Auchnagairn Papers.]

KIRKHILL, OF OLD WARDLAW, AND FARNUA.

[At the union of Wardlaw and Farnua on 14th July 1618, the name Kirkhill was given to the parish.

Wardlaw.—The original church of Wardlaw stood at Dunballoch. At the beginning of the thirteenth century it was transferred to a hillock then called Balabrach, which, overlooking the rich plain of Lovat, was its ward-law or watch-hill, in times when watch and ward were necessary. The site of this church (abandoned in 1790) is marked by the Lovat mausoleum. A sculptured tombstone of a vicar of Wardlaw who died in 1431, is still seen. The church is said to have been dedicated to St Muireach. It is probable that the earlier church at Dunballoch was dedicated to St Mary. Mary's Fair was held there, and the eminence on which Wardlaw kirk was built is known as Cnoc Mhuire=Mary's Hill, and Air Muire's a' Chnoc=By Mary in the Hill, was a form of oath in the parish. James Fraser styled himself Pastor Montis Mariæ.

Farnua or Fernua (feàrn=an alder) church—long extinct—stood at Baile-na-h-Eaglais, or Kirkton, where the old burying-ground is. It was dedicated to Curadan or Queritinus who, in the early days of the Celtic Church, was Bishop and abbot of Rosemarkie. In Fernua stood also the cell of Bunchrew, whose hermits kept a register of local events, known as Scriptum Bunchriviae.]

[SIR DAVID CUTHBERT, held the chaplainry of Our Lady of the High Altar at the Reformation, and the Vicarage of Wardlaw before 1567. He was a prominent citizen of Inverness, and was adm. a burgess and guild brother in 1567. His name occurs frequently in the Burgh Records. He joined the Reformers and became reader at Wardlaw in 1576, but continued to draw the revenues of his Inverness chaplaincy. He was alive in 1593, and was probably the last survivor of the pre-Reformation clergy in Inverness.]—[Mackintosh's Antiquarian Notes (First Series), 410; Records of Inverness, 147.]

DONALD DOW FRASER [or 1574 DONALD DOW MACINTAGART] (the priest's son), min. in 1574, when Kilmorack and Kiltarlity were also in his charge; trans. to Kilchrist about 1580; returned before 1590, when Kilchrist was included with Abertarff in 1599. He lived at Finask, there being no manse. He gave a tack of the vicarage teinds of Kilmorack, with consent of the Dean and Chanonry of Ross, to The Chisholm of Strathglass for three life rents and nineteen years (no date). He marr. Agnes Mald "out of Lovat's family," and had at least one son, William, min. of Kiltarlity and Conveth,—[Auchnagairn Papers; Mackay's Wardlaw Manuscript, 178, 183, 219.]

WILLIAM DOW FRASER, styled Sir, and called "vicar of Wardlaw" in 1580 1580; died in 1588.—[Trans. Gael. Soc. Inverness, xxv., 74.]

BARTHOLOMEW ROBERTSON, min. of Essil in 1601; min. of Lhanbryd 1606 same year; adm. about 1606, and still in the charge in 1610. Publication—The Heavenly Advocate (London, 1617).—[Shaw's Hist., iii., 442; Inverness Sas. Sec. Reg., 5th May 1607.]

JOHN HOUSTON, ord. in 1611; pres. 1611 to the vicarage of Wardlaw by Bishop Douglas in 1614. In 1632 he refused to preach the funeral sermon of Simon Fraser of Lovat, a duty which his neighbour, the min. of Kilmorack, undertook and discharged with such credit that the laird of Grant to show his appreciation embraced him at the close. In 1634 he was suspended by the Bishop of Moray for having married the laird of Balnagown and Lovat's daughter "upon two proclamations." In 1636 he was again suspended for some unrecorded fault, and when William Fraser, min. of Kiltarlity, went to Wardlaw to intimate the suspension, "there compeired not ane bedell, nor bell rung, neither book nor sand-glass to be found"; was a member of the Glasgow Assembly of 1638; died Oct. 1659. He marr. Anna, eldest daugh. of James Fraser of Phopachy, and had issue—Thomas, min. of Boleskine; Alexander; Isobel.—[Reg. Assig.; Mackay's Wardlaw Manuscript, 118; Scot. Antiquary, vi., 94; Inverness Inhib., 2nd ser., i., 179, 180.]

JAMES FRASER of Phopachy, born 1661 1st Jan. 1634, one of the twenty-four children of William F. of Phopachy, M.D., and min. of Second Charge, Inverness; educated at Grammar School Inverness, and King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (1655); chaplain to the Lovat family, 1660-1; inst. in 1661; in 1675 he was suspended for non-attendance at the Presb. He did not conform at the Revolution, but continued undisturbed; died Oct. 1709. He was a man of wide and varied culture, and an extensive traveller at home and abroad. After finishing his college career he set out, on 7th June 1657, mounted on his Highland pony, and accompanied by a Highland servant, on a tour through Great Britain and the Continent. At Hastings he sold his horse, crossed to Dieppe and wandered all over Europe. He frequently passed as a Roman Catholic pilgrim, and joined the Pope's Guards for the sake of prolonging his stay in Rome. In Dec. 1659, upon reaching Hythe from Calais, he tells how he knelt down and "kissed the very earth in gratitude to our good God who brought us safe to our native soyl." The tradition that he visited the Holy Land is only an echo of his Continental travels, giving rise to the legend that on the Sunday morning after his return the bell of Wardlaw kirk rang out a welcome of its own accord. He was a considerable linguist, a versifier, a naturalist and scientist, and a writer of remarkable diligence. Manuscripts which he left filled thousands of pages, and comprised upwards of fifty volumes on subjects varying from history and theology to songs and jests, place-names, and weather-lore. The most interesting of those which remain are his "Triennial Travels" in three parts (unpublished) and his Genealogy of the Frasers. He marr. Oct. 1669, Margaret (died 12th June 1702), daugh. of Alexander Symmer or Somer, min. of Duffus, and had issue—Robert of Torbreck and Balrobert, died v.p.; Alexander of Phopachy; Simon, of whom nothing is known; James. ROBERT THOMSON, born 1686; licen. 1717 by six Presbyterian mins. in London in 1711; resident in Presb. of Dornoch April 1712; ord. to Clyne 5th Sept. 1713; called by the Presb. jure devoluto 23rd Jan., trans. and adm. 22nd April 1717. He was proposed for the parish of Rafford in 1726, but remained here. On Sunday, 3rd July 1743, his manse was attacked by a crowd of three or four hundred people who, "in a most tumultuous and furious manner, broke down his gate, windows, etc., and threatened to destroy himself and his family." He complained to the Presb. and the matter was referred to the Commission of Assembly. He died 30th April 1770. He marr. 8th April 1717, Mary Calder, who died 6th Jan. 1749, and had issue—James, above 16 in 1746; Bettie (marr. Hugh Fraser, lieut. Royal Marines); Jonathan, above 16 in 1746, died in Jamaica 2nd Dec. 1748. —[Family of Kilravock; Shaw's Hist., iii., 442.]

[GEORGE MARK, a licentiate; was pres. by George III. 3rd July 1770. Objection was taken to his ignorance of Gaelic. The Commission of Assembly, 6th June 1771, remitted to the Presb. to ascertain his qualifications in that respect. They reported their inability to settle M. "chiefly on account of his deficiency in the Gaelic language." He thereupon petitioned the Assembly, who, on 27th May 1772, appointed a committee of fourteen members to examine him. They reported next day that M. had made remarkable progress in his acquisition of Gaelic, and that, if he continued his studies, he would be fully capable to have the charge of a Gaelic congregation. The Commission (2nd June) declared by a majority of 38 to 30, that he was "not qualified to be minister here." He was afterwards min. at Peterculter.—[Acts of Ass., 1772; Scots Mag., xxxiii., xxxiv.]

JAMES LESLIE; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1693-7; licen. by 1716 Presb. of Elgin 25th March 1707; called by the Presb. jure devoluto 22nd March and 10th May, and ord. 18th Aug. 1716. It is said that when he first went to preach at Dalarossie, he found many of his parishioners "putting the stone" and amusing themselves around the church. Finding it impossible to get a congregation till he should join in their entertainment, he agreed on condition that should he surpass them they would assemble for worship. Being a powerful man he out-distanced them all, and thus gained his object, winning their respect, and bringing them into a state of decency and order. He had a new church built at Moy in 1765, and died 28th Oct. 1766. He marr. URQUHART AND GLENMORISTON.

[Glen Urquhart, or Urchardan Mo Dhrostain.—The church of Glen Urquhart was dedicated to St Drostan. At Teampal Niniaín in this parish, the Knights Templars had a Commandery. Within the bounds there were five chapels—St Michael's at Cill Mhichiel, near Drumnadrochit, St Curadan's at Cill Churadain, at Corriemony, St Ninian's at Abriachan, St Adamnan's at Croit Eonain, and St Cyril's at Pitkerail. This parish was transferred 28th May 1884 from the Presb. of Abertarff to that of Inverness.

JAMES FARQUHARSON, M.A.; a Romish priest who conformed at the Reformation, and became exhorter probably in 1560; still mentioned as holding that office in 1572. Several Latin deeds written by him in the capacity of notary public are extant. He appears to have died before 1574.—[Reg. Min.; Mackay's Urquhart and Glenmoriston, 109, 343, 347.]

ANDREW MACPHAIL, min. of Farnua, had charge of this parish along with Bona in 1574.

JOHN M'ALLAN, min. in 1586, and probably held the charge till 1620. 1586 —[Mackay's Urquhart and Glenmoriston, 348.]

ALEXANDER GRANT, educated at Univ. of St Andrews; M.A. (29th July 1611); adm. probably before 1624. At a meeting of Synod in April 1624 he was "ordained to proceed in building of his kirk." [In the ruined kirk at Kilmore there is a stone inscribed with the words Domus Dei, G.'s initials, and date 1630.] In Oct. 1626 he was asked to explain his absence from meetings of the Synod, and answered that he lived "in the farrest part of the diocie and could have no certaintie" of the date of the first meeting, and "as for the second, he could not keep it as it was the appointed day of his marriage." An Episcopalian at heart, he signed the Covenant with much hesitation, at Forres, 14th May 1639. He died in 1645, having marr. a daugh. of John Mackenzie, min. of Dingwall.—[Mackay's Urquhart and Glenmoriston, 349.]

DUNCAN MACCULLOCH, ord. to Third Charge, Inverness, 12th July 1647 1642; trans. to Second Charge there in 1645; trans. and adm. before 5th Oct. 1647; proposed in 1649 and 1650 to be translated to Contin, but nothing was done; dep. for negligence and "scandalous conversation" (conduct) between 6th April and 5th Oct. 1658; reponed before 26th April 1664; dem. (as a result of his continued negligence) 1st Dec. 1671. Tradition tells that while two Urquhart girls were tending cattle at Corri-Dho, they were brutally waylaid by a number of Glenmoriston men, who cut off their breasts. Shortly afterwards M. met one of the dastards and slew him on the spot. He marr. a daugh. of Murdoch Mackenzie, of Kildun.—[Mackenzie Genealogy; Mackay's Presb. of Inverness, 16, 144 et seq.; Mackay's Urquhart, 351-6.]

1898 shangie family, born about 1664;
educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.A. (24th Aug. 1680); passed trials before the Presb. and recommended for ordination 22nd Sept., and ord. 24th
Oct. 1686; was an Episcopalian and a Jacobite, refusing to conform to Presby-terianism or to surrender his charge. In this he had the support of his parishioners and was allowed to continue, and even co-operated with the Presb. through not attending their meetings. He was sick at 23rd March (when he made his will) and died before 8th April 1730, the last of the Highland prelatists who continued to hold their parishes after the Revolution.
He marr. (1) Helen Kinnaird, and had issue—Alexander; Isobel (marr. Hugh Fraser in Bruiach); (2) Isobel Chisholm, who survived him.—[Inverness Tests.;
