PREFACE.

THE Writs from which this Calendar is compiled are preserved at Yester House, and the Society is indebted to the Marquis of Tweeddale for permission to use them for this purpose. The work of preparing the Calendar was begun in 1910 at the instigation of Mr. Charles C. H. Harvey, who worked on the earlier part with the valuable assistance of Dr. George Neilson. Owing to the death of Mr. Harvey from wounds received in the great war, and since of Dr. Neilson, the Council of the Society invited me to complete the work for the press as I had collaborated with Mr. Harvey from its inception.

Originally it was designed to bring the Calendar down to 1750, but the Council have decided meantime to stop at 1625. The later portion, mostly now in typescript, may be printed at some future date.

CHARTER to Sir John Giffard of the Lands of Donipas, Doncanlaw and Morham.—(Endorsement.)

In Duplicate.—Robert, by the grace of God, King of Scots to all good men of his whole land Greeting: Wit ye that we have given, granted, and by this our present charter in duplicate confirmed to Thomas de Morhame, senior, knight all the lands and tenements with pertinents in the Barony of Donipas.

which our beloved nephew Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray Lord of Annandale and Man, lately resigned and quit claimed to us with staff and baton at Glasgow ; also all the lands and tenements with pertinents in the Baronies of Duncanlaw and Morhame, which the said Thomas de Morhame likewise recently resigned and quit claimed to us with staff and baton at Glasgow : To be held and had by the said Thomas de Morhame of us and our heirs for all the days of his life with the services of freeholders and all and sundry other liberties, commodities, easements, and just pertinents in all and through all things named or not which justly belong or ought to belong in any way to the said lands and tenements ; So that after the death of the said Thomas de Morhame all the foresaid lands and tenements with pertinents are to remain forever wholly and quietly with Sir John Giffard, knight, and Eufamia his wife and the heirs of their bodies lawfully procreated : And should it happen that the said John and Eufamia should die without any heirs lawfully procreated of their bodies we will that all the said lands and tenements, after the deaths of the said John and Eufamia, will revert to the nearest heirs of the said Thomas de Morhame wholly and quietly forever : Rendering to us and our heirs and the other chief lords of the fiefs all services thence due and wont : Further we will that if the said Thomas de Morhame do make an alienation, gift, sale or wadset of the said lands and tenements or any part thereof or by dimission at a later term which is to be in force at the end of the said Thomas's life that then the said Thomas will lose and be wholly removed from right and sasine had in the said lands and tenements by reason of our infeoffment, and our infeffment made to him of these loses all strength and virtue, and thereupon the said John and Eufamia and their foresaid heirs will enter to all the said lands and tenements with pertinents freely and quietly and possess them after the tenour of our concession made above : In testimony whereof we have caused our seal to be appended to this duplicate charter : Witnesses, etc. (H.)

To all who see or hear these present letters I, Nigel de Cunynghame, Lord of Yestyr, give Greeting in the Lord everlasting: Wit ye that I have caused John de Leys of the Bothanys to be legally summoned to shew me his charters and evidents by which he claimed to hold of me his lands of the Bothanys, Gamlston, and Duncanlaw with pertinents and by what service, which said John came at a certain day assigned to him to shew me his charters and evidents, to look at which on account of other important matters I was then unwilling, and assigned the said John another lawful day to shew me his said evidents: and before the said day arrived his foresaid charters and evidents, as he alledges, with his other goods were burned, on which day nevertheless the said John compared certifying to me and many others that his charters and evidents had been burned and humbly begged that I induced by charity, should grant him an inquest by true and faithful men to search for and inspect the terms of his foresaid charters and evidents: At whose desire, led by the love of God, I gave and granted the said John an assize in the place called Catcluch in the territory of Duncanlaw upon the 16th day of the month of March 1374 A.D. to inquire into the matter and by our final consent to determine it for ever; to which day I caused summon all my tenants of the Baronies of Morhame, Duncanlaw, and Yestyr to shew others, gentlemen as well as barons, whom I requested to come at my desire: Upon which with the consent and assent of Jonet Giffard my wife, sitting with me on the said day and place to faithfully inquire and finally, if possible, to determine the question, I chose an assize, to which assize or inquest in order and form were named, called, and sworn by the great oath, John de Spottyswod present constable of the Constabulary of Hadyngton; David Broun Lord of Cumbyrcolston; William de Caudel lord of Stevynston; Thomas de Forest, and John Yhole burgesses of Hadyngton; Malise de Duns; William Adamson of Kydlaw; William de Crumby burgess of Hadyngton; William of Tranent rector of the schools of that town; John of the Dale; Jop Wyntyrr; John Penyfadyr; and John Fitz Brice; Before which jurors I the said Nigel asked from the said John de Leys my tenant Castleward, Merchet, Heryeld, and other secular burdens which then appeared to me and my council to be due, all which the said John utterly denied were due from his lands and pleading with great vehemence demanded that all the commodities, liberties, and easements pertaining to his said lands with the services and burdens due thence should be decided upon and finally determined by the said assize for the love of God, which jurors then retired and after diligently holding long discussion upon the matter among themselves returned to the presence of me, my foresaid wife, and the Court, and by John de Spottyswod foresaid, one of the said assize or inquest in which all agreeing upon their verdict, they found that the said John de Leys and his ancestors were vested and seized by umquhile John Giffard, Lord of Yestyr, in two acres of cotland with pertinents lying in the town and territory of the Bothanys and Gamelston and a meadow called Auymsinedu with all other commodities, liberties, easements, and certain just pertinents as they lie in length and breadth by their right bounds and old marches in moors, marshes, turbaries, petaries, roads, paths, woods, plains, and all common easements in common pasture with free entry and ish with the brewhouse and bakehouse of the hangman of the Bothanys, and that they are room-free in the mill of the Bothanys immediately after the lord : paying therefor one firlof of wheat and that they are free from Bludwyf, Merchet, Heryeld, Castleward, and all suits of court : paying therefor in name of the said umquhile Sir John Giffard, Lord of Yestyr, and his heirs the said John de Leys and his heirs To the Monastery of Dryburgh six shillings and eightpence sterling yearly in equal portions at the feasts of Pentecost and Martinmas in pure and perpetual alms in name of blanch-firm for all other services, secular burdens, and demands which could be levied or in future demanded in anyway from the said lands and tenandries : And that they also found that the said Sir John and his heirs will warrant, acquit, and forever defend in due form the said John de Leys and his heirs against all mortals in the foresaid lands of the Bothanys and Gamylston with the foresaid meadow and all other foresaid easements ; And they also found that the said John de Leys and his heirs possess by heritage by the confirmation of umquhile Sir Thomas de Morham, knight, Lord of that Ilk, a tenement in the town and territory anciently called Fodringhamsland with its pertinents as they lie in length and breadth by their right and old bounds with common easements in common pasture, moors, marshes, turbaries, petaries, woods, plains, roads, paths, with free entry and ish and they are room-free in the mill immediately after the lord ; paying in full a firlof of wheat, and that he holds the said tenement free of Bludwyf, Merchet, Heryeld, Castleward, and suits of court, and that they all — will share within his several from the feast of the Invention of the Cross to the feast of All Saints : Paying therefor to the Lord of Morhame and his heirs twelve silver pennies yearly at the feast of Martinmas, if asked, in name of blanch-firm in full for all other secular service which could be levied thence or in future by any method required, which said tenement called Fodringhamsland with its pertinents foresaid the said Lord of Morhame and his heirs will warrant in due form and forever defend to the foresaid John de Leys and his heirs against all mortals : They found also that the said John de Leys holds and has a tenement in the same town of Duncanlaw, anciently called the land of umquhile Thomas Mariota's son with all the foregoing conditions ; Paying thence yearly to the Lord of Morhame and his heirs a silver penny, if asked, at the feast of Martinmas in name of blanch-firm in full for all other secular services which could be levied thence or in any way demanded : In testimony of all and sundry the foregoing my seal with the seals of John de Spottyswod, lord of that Ilk present constable of the Constabulary of Hadyngton : William de Caudel lord of Stevynston : David Broun lord of Cumbyrcolston : Thomas de Foresta, John Yhole ; and William de Crumby burgesses of Hadyngton ; and William of Tranent master of the schools of that town are appended to these presents, day, place, and year foresaid. In the name of God, Amen! In the year 1386 from the birth of Our Lord, eighth Indiction, and seventh year of the pontificate of the Most holy father in Christ and our lord Clement VII. by divine providence Pope, in presence of me the notary public and the underwritten witnesses summoned to this present constitute a discreet man Sir Patrick Gray Lord of the head part of the barony of Langforgrund sitting in judgement in the town of Langforgrund upon a certain mound called Hundhyll and there a certain process continued from his last court upon the lands of Liltilton and Louranston of Ochtercummane he caused to be publicly read, which read he instantly caused summon Sir Thomas de Haya on behalf of the heiresses portioners in chief of the lands of Lytilton of Louranston of Ochtercummane, which said Sir Thomas humbly compeared asking the verdict of a jury, as in the preceeding court it was determined, in what manner and by what service the said land of Lytilton etc., are held of the said Sir Patrick Gray: Whereupon the said Sir Patrick, fully advised by the counsel of experts, caused choose a jury of good men by whom the truth of the matter can be declared, who being sworn in and the jury fully fixed upon, they entered the court saying and delivering that the said land of Lytilton etc. is held in chief of the said Sir Patrick Gray by Ward, relief, homage, and service: This done and announced the said Sir Patrick Gray asked the said Sir Thomas to do him homage and service for his part of the said lands as it had been determined in assize by the trusty men, to which the foresaid Sir Thomas replying said that he would do the homage for the lands of Liltilton etc. with pertinents which the letter of the law requires, as he said, and to this he offered himself prompt and prepared: This reply the foresaid Sir Patrick openly refused before the bystanders, saying that farther than his part of the said lands extended he would not admit him, which said the foresaid Sir Thomas replied and said that the said Sir Patrick promised in full court to receive him for the lands of Liltilton etc., in as far as the letter of the law therein demanded and required: To which the said Sir Patrick agreed and entered him in as much as the letter of the law requires: This sought for and more fully granted in prescribed form the foresaid Sir Thomas in due form compeared before the foresaid Sir Patrick kneeling with bare head and offering verba de presenti to do homage for the lands of Liltilton etc., which he held of him in chief: which said homage the foresaid Sir Patrick refused to receive unless he said that he did him part homage for the lands which he held in chief of the said Sir Patrick within the lands of Liltilton etc., which indeed Thomas refused to do because the said Sir Patrick at first promised to receive him to do homage as the letter of the law demands and, this not being accepted, he refused to do homage in part because it was not convenient, protesting and offering himself then and at all future time prompt and ready to do lawful homage: Upon which all and sundry the foresaid Sir Thomas demanded from me the notary public an instrument: Done at Langforgrund in the above place: Witnesses, etc.: And I Nicholas Allatasse clerk of S. In the name of God, Amen! By this present public Instrument be it plainly patent to all That, in the year of Our Lord 1387, tenth indiction, ninth year of the pontificate of the most holy father in Christ and our lord Clement VII. by divine providence, Pope, and 19th day of the month of July : In the Chapter House of the Monastery of Arbroath in the diocese of S. Andrews, and in presence of me the notary public and the underwritten witnesses a Venerable man Master John de Lychton, Official of the Court of S. Andrews, by virtue of his special commission from the Reverend father in Christ Sir Walter by the grace of God, Bishop of S. Andrews, sitting in judgement, several noble and learned men assisting him, caused summon to his presence a religious man, Friar Andrew of the Order of the Holy Trinity for Redemption of Captives, and a discreet man Sir David de Stryflyn, both present, and also a venerable father Sir Walter, Abbot of Cupar of the Order of Citeaux, to hear final sentence, ordinance, and decret upon the Parish Kirk of Ketness in the said diocese of S. Andrews, which each of the foresaid parties claimed to pertain to him by sale and asserted to pertain to him by his evidents and arguments which he had shewn to the said Bishop : And, although the said

Abbot was summoned very often and tarried for until the appointed hour, he neglected to compare by any manner, therefore the said Official in name as above, in terms of the petition for this diet, as is contained in the former acts on this cause, read his sentence, ordinance, or decret contained in a paper schedule which he held, whose tenour follows thus:— We John de Lichton, Official of the Court of S. Andrews, sitting in judgement in the Chapter House of the Monastery of Arbroath in the diocese of S. Andrews, which place we chose for the purpose, the instruments, rights, and muniments produced in this cause having been examined and considered, and counsel taken with my lords the prelates and diverse rights sought for at the especial command of my lord Bishop of S. Andrews: By this our sentence and ordinance we pronounce, decern, and declare, that the said Kirk of Ketnes with its rights and all pertinents has pertained, pertains, and ought to pertain to the Order of Holy Trinity for Redemption of Captives — which is ruled and governed by the Master of the Bridge of Berewick and the Friars of that Order — by commission from the Minister General of that Order or another — — — — which Kirk with its pertinents and possessions To the said Order, and the Friars thereof, and Friar Andrew Master of the Bridge of Berwick, holding of and adhering to our lord the King, shall be returned, and restored; and so far as we are able we return and restore; And the said Order and Friars thereof shall be restored to, and replaced in personal possession thereof with its pertinents; And we restore and replace them: And we warn the foresaid Abbot and Convent of Cupar, and Master David de Strevelyn from the said kirk with its pertinents and the possession thereof; And we impose perpetual silence on them concerning this possession, omitting penalty of expenses and costs: Upon the sentence thus read by the Lord Official as above the said Friar Andrew asked a Public Instrument to be made by me the Notary public withinwritten: These acts were done here in the year, indiction, month, day, pontificate, and place abovementioned: Witnesses these venerable and discreet men, Sir William of Hadingtoun vicar thereof, Sir Thomas de Balmanach chaplain, John Forman, John Trayl, and Thomas Moffet of the dioceses of S. Andrews and Aberdeen, Specially called and summoned to the premises; and in sure testimony of the above the seal of the said Lord Official is appended. And I Thomas de Edenham, clerk of the diocese of Aberdeen, notary public by Imperial authority, while the premises were being done as above, was present along with the above-named witnesses; and have made hereupon this public instrument, to which I have appended my usual sign in testimony of verity as specially summoned and required. TRANSLATION.

In the Parliament of our most excellent Prince and Lord, James the Third, by the grace of God most illustrious King of Scots, held and convened in Edinburgh on the twenty-ninth day of the month of January in the year of (our) Lord, one thousand four hundred and eighty-seven, and of the reign of our foresaid most serene Lord the King the twenty-eight year ; On which day our supreme Lord the King was present with my lords the prelates, earls, barons, free tenants, and commissioners of the Burghs underwritten, etc. ; And on the same day the underwritten Acts and Statutes were promulgated and read, and solemnly approved and confirmed by our said most serene lord the King : On the said twenty-ninth day John Hay of Zester was made a Lord of Parliament, and in future to be called Lord Hay of Zester. Extracted from the book of Acts of Parliament by me, Sir John Skene of Curriehill, knight, Clerk of the Rolls, Register, and Council of our most serene lord the King, under my manual sign and signature.

Note.—This paper is put up with the Earl of Tweeddale's patent, and on the enclosing paper it is referred to as "the act of parliament mentioning John, Lord of Hay of Zesters being a lord of parliament in ye year 1486, extracted by Mr. John Skene, Clerk Register tho David his father was created Lord for which there is writts to evidence it tho it seems he hath not sitt in parliament." (H.)

The family history written in 1687 says that Sir David Hay of Yester (father of John) was created 1st Lord Hay of Yester in 1439, but this is evidently wrong. As foregoing items show he is often called Dominus de Yester but never Dominus Hay de Yester, which is the style after the 1487 creation.

Sir John Skene was Clerk Register 1594 to 1604, and this extract was produced in 1606 before the Commissioners appointed by the King anent the precedency and priority of dignities. There was also produced ane instrument under the subscription of Alexander Clark nottar bebrand that nobilis Dominus David de Hay miles Dominus de Yeaster recognosced two husband lands with a Coatland of the town and lands of Duncan Law because Edmond Hay, tennent of the saids lands sold the same without his consent, 8 Februarie 1448, Ja. 2.

504. — July 1534. Sheriffship of Peebles. Paper Schedule of Answers to the Arbiters by John Lord Hay of Zestir to the Reasons produced by Malcolm Lord Fleming:

First, the fault, for which Lord Hay came into the King's will (see No. 462) was not committed by his brother Mr. John Hay who then was not his deputy, having been long before discharged of his office: nevertheless Lord Hay was warded in Linlithgow for 6 months, "quhar I susteinitt gret truble In my person and gat seiknes and malady quhilk I will never recover": and being thus punished that way should not have been also punished in his auld heretage in the away takin thairof:

Secondly, he was never summoned before the king to hear his office forfeited, being kept in ward, his grace being Inducit thairto be dissait of my lord flemyng; Also it was not part of his duty to be ane kepar of thewis who should be put in the kingis houssis and kept thair, whence they have often escaped as from the Castle of Edinburgh And the capitane nocht punist thairfor nother In tynsell of his office nor his heretage ; And thairfor my lordis I traist your lordis will nocht thoill the kingis grace to make new prattik :

Thirdly, whereas it is claimed that by common law, the said Lord has lost his office through the negligence of his depute Mr. John Hay, the answer is that Mr. John was not his depute, and had none of the said lord's castles in keeping, but put the thieves in the surest house he had kepand thaim in to the steple of Peblis : and both are willing to be tried by jury to shew whether they let the thieves or traitors escape by fraud or deceit :

Fourthly, because the said Lord came into the King's will his lyf and his heretage is saif to him. (H.)

Secondly, Said declaration to be reduced so far as it concerns the tynsel of Hay's office, understanding that his grace is minded to do justice, admitting that Hay has been wronged :

Thirdly, pointing out that had Lord Hay and his brother been keepers of one of the king's prisons they would have been punished only if they had permitted thieves to escape through fraud :

Fourthly, the said Lord came in the King's will with the restriction, "safand my lyf and heretage." (H.)

507. — July 1534. Sheriffship of Peebles. Paper schedules of Laws and Reasons produced before the Arbiters by Malcolm Lord Fleming.

Secondly, the said Declaration gave the reason why the said office should return to the King :

Thirdly, the said Declaration ought to stand because it tempers and does not exceed the rigour of the law :

Fourthly, this case will be an example to other negligent sheriffs :

And finally the said declaration standand unreducit the disposition and gift maid to me be the kingis grace of the said office than be his said declaration vaikand in his handis Is of effect and suld nocht be reducit. (H.)
